'Right-wing' oppression not a laughing matter

There seems to be a bit of the facetious even in the most earnest of in the most jocular of appeals.

Take the leftists. They're not necessarily opposed to the rightists, but they want their rights, too.

they want their rights, too.

They want their just fare — their "Bill of Lefts."

Here, the oppressed are those lefthanded folks who consciously or subconsciously feel that the world is slanted against them.

Once you think about it, it's quite obvious. Right-handed people, who are so far into the majority that it's not funny, have the buying power. They want conveniences, and industry serves them best.

Look at your shirt; it's designed for the rightists to button. If it's a blouse, then the buttons are, for some strange reason, on the other side.

Where the market demands it, there are shops which cater to left-handed people.

But have you ever heard of a lefty complaining that a typewriter's key-while, if trivia is your pastime game, to observe exactly what things better suit the rightists and, with or without intent, discriminate against the leftists.

And there is this slam against the leftists: a lesser meaning of the adjective "left-handed." Take a left-handed compliment; it's not becoming at all. It's tainted with awkward and insincere connotations.

That doesn't seem fair. But maybe

Many likely can recall the anxiety of a parent who suddenly realized that his child might be a lefty and hence stigmatized? The tendency was, somehow, to get the toddler to favor his right.

At one time, parents fought a child's inclination to be left-handed. Maybe "they" — at least some — still do

At any rate, being left-handed is just as right as it can be.

Around Town

Sunday signals the debut of a new local column for Reporter-Telegram readers, one designed to keep up with the comings, goings and the doings of Midland's active people.

As a people column, that's exactly what "Around Town" will be about.

And it will be broad enough to include news of men and women, as well as the younger set and college students, their honors and activities, houseguests and visitors to the Tall City, trips — virtually anything Midlanders are doing or plan to do, but which normally would not be expanded into a news story.

"Around Town" will appear daily on the first page of the Lifestyle Section and items now are being solicited by that department.

Midland residents with brief news to submit will find it easy to do. Just dial 682-5311, the newspaper's regular number, anytime between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and ask for Lifestyle. Or mail or bring your items to the Lifestyle Department.

Croatians hold 7 hostages

By MARC WILSON

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Croatian terrorists armed with guns and explosives seized eight hostages at the German Consulate today, police said. One hostage was later released.

Officials said the terrorists — believed to be a man and a woman — apparently wanted freedom for Stjepan Bilandzic, a Croatian nationalist leader imprisoned in Germany and facing extradition to Yugoslavia.

The switchboard operator at the consulate — on the 10th floor of a Michigan Avenue building in the downtown area — said the terrorists were threatening to shoot her and the other hostages.

The switchboard operator, asked whether anyone had been injured, said: "Not yet, but it doesn't look good." She said she was being allowed to use the switchboard because the terrorists wanted to place a call to a German prison.

"They're threatening to shoot everyone," she told a reporter. "I can't talk anymore, they're all hollering at police"

Police said they were questioning the hostage who had been released.

A spokesman at the German Embassy in Washington said, "We heard about it from Bonn. We're just on the telephone to take all the necessary measures to get them freed. We can't talk about it now."

Police cordoned off Michigan Avenue as scores of persons lined up for a Pompeii exhibit at the Art Institute of Chicago across the street.

Various Croatian nationalist groups have demonstrated from time to time demanding that the region known as Croatia be made independent from Yugoslavia.

The most widely publicized incident occurred in 1976, when five members of a Croatian extremist band hijacked a Chicago-bound airliner from New York, which hopscotched its way to Paris where they eventually surrendered.

A New York City policeman was killed when a bomb the group left in a locker at Grand Central Terminal exploded. All five are serving prison terms.

New Mexicans conquer Atlantic

PARIS (AP) — Three New Mexican adventurers who made the first Atlantic crossing by balloon prepared to set down this afternoon in the French countryside west of Paris to end their historic journey.

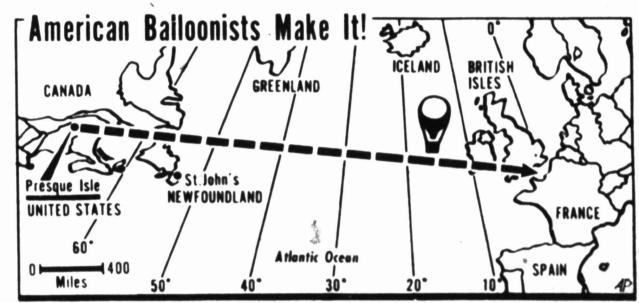

Paris air traffic control said at 1 p.m. EDT that the black and silver balloon Double Eagle II was under 6,000 feet and was readying for a landing, possibly at the French military airbase at Evreux, 80 miles west of Paris.

The balloonists apparently had to land in daylight for safety reasons. Eyewitnesses said the balloon had visibly deflated, appearing more like a tapered, creased silver exclamation point than a sphere. The men were clearly visible in the red-and-yellow gondola, bundled in coats against the biting cold but apparently relaxed.

Larry Newman, 31, Ben Abruzzo, 48, and Maxie Anderson, 44, all from Albuquerque, had already set new time and distance records for balloon flight and for a time had contemplated going on past Paris.

The Double Eagle II completed the Atlantic crossing at 10 p.m. Wednesday (5 p.m. EDT), Shannon Airport reported, reaching the southwest coast of Ireland 121 hours and 18 minutes after the 112-foot-high, helium-filled bag took off last Friday night from Presque Isle, Maine, near the Canadian border.

It was the 18th attempt to cross the Atlantic by balloon, and the 16th from west to east. The last previous attempt, and the closest to being successful, was made two weeks ago by Britons Donald Cameron and Christopher Davies, who ditched 117 miles from the French coast.

"By 9 a.m. (3:56 a.m. EDT) today, the Double Eagle had floated across southern Ireland, the St. George's Channel and Wales and was being carried along by a 22-knot wind.

One coast guard report put the balloon at 20,000 feet at dawn, another at 10,000, but the heat of the sun on the helium was expected to lift it to 20,000 if it wasn't already there.

"We expect them to cross the Bristol Channel, England and the English Channel about lunchtime Thursday, then the French coast in the Le Havre area and land somewhere in the Paris region at around 8:30 p.m. (3:30 p.m. EDT)," press spokesman Jim Mitchell said Wednesday night.

"I've got red eyes through crying tears of joy," said Abruzzo's wife, Pat, waiting at the London Hilton.

"A businessman is lending us his private jet so we can buzz the balloon," said Mrs. Abruzzo. "We will wave and blow kisses as we fly

She said they would return to London, wait for news of a landing, and then go to join their husbands.

"We're all going to get together and have one hell of a celebration," she said. "Then we'll all be as high as kites."

On Wednesday morning, the three men broke the record for time aloft of 107 hours 37 minutes set by Ed Yost of Sioux Falls, S.D., in an unsuccessful trans-Atlantic attempt in 1976. By this morning, they had traveled more than 3,000 miles, eclipsing Yost's distance record of 2,740 miles.

Yost manufactured the Double Eagle II.

Shannon air controller Gerald O'Connor said the three men thought they were still half an hour from land when told they had reached Ireland. He said there were "quite a few shouts of jubilation" when they spot-

Committee still questioning Ray

By MARGARET GENTRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Assassinations Committee tried today to shake one discrepancy after another in James Earl Ray's bizarre account of his travels with mystery man Raoul, triggering a storm of protest from Ray's attorney which often delayed the hearing.

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, today pursued questioning started earlier about discrepancies between Ray's earlier stories and documents of the FBI investigation into the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on April 4, 1968.

Stokes assailed Ray's statement to the committee that Raoul had never handled the .30-06 rifle which later proved to be the weapon used to kill King in Memphis, Tenn.

Ray said he bought the weapon for Raoul earlier in Birmingham, Ala.. for what he though was a gun-running scheme. Ray said he and Raoul had worked together for months, from Canada to Mexico, in various smuggling deals.

Stokes said: "Mr. Ray, I say to you, this committee has reviewed every FBI document relative to this case, every other investigative document, and nowhere is there a reference to a man named Raoul."

To that, Ray replied only that perhaps not all documents had been found in the matter.

Stokes: "If we can't find Raoul, we can't help you very much, can we?"

Ray: "I think the only thing that could help me is a judge."

Q: "Don't you think if we had more information about Raoul, we might be able to locate him?"

A: "If I had gone to trial if 1968, he most likely would have testified against me anyhow.

Stokes also noted that Ray had told the committee's staff in an earlier interview that Raoul had in fact handled the .30-06 rifle.

Ray conceded that he had.
Ray's memory was attacked over and over. Why had Raoul never been found? Who could have seen them together? Why couldn't Ray furnish more descriptive information about Raoul, such as his real name?

Ray had no hard answers. "Possibly a barmaid in Birmingham. Possibly a waitress in Jim's Grill in Memphis" had seen him in Raoul's company, he said. But he couldn't be sure. And he mentioned no one in Montreal, where he alleged he had met the man.

Ray is serving a 99-year pirson sentence after pleading guilty to King's killing.

The story, as Ray told it to the committee, began in April 1967, when he escaped a Missouri prison and fled to St. Louis, Chicago and finally Montreal, where he became acquainted with Raoul in a dockside bar.

They struck a deal: Ray would help Raoul with a smuggling venture in exchange for cash and a false Canadian passport.

hen He said Raoul paid him $1,500 but claimed he was unable to provide the on passport.

They parted then but kept in touch and worked together on a Mexican smuggling operation in October 1967 and met in New Orleans in December

Windsor, Ontario, and transported contraband into Detroit in Ray's car.

TESCO says purchase saves customer money

AUSTIN — An official of Texas Electric Service Co. Wednesday testified that the company's purchase of an additional 25 percent of an East Texas lignite-fueled power plant will save customers more than $287 mil-ion.

"That lignite-fueled power plant is going to be generating reliable and economical electricity for the next 30 years. The greater our share of the plant, the better it is for our customers. I wish we could make another deal like that today," TESCO Vice President Wes Taylor told Public Utility Commission during hearings on the Company's $110 million rate increase request.

The hearing on TESCO's request for a 24.4 percent system-wide revenue increase entered its third day today with Kenneth R. Thompson, a senior electrical engineer, schedule to testify on the company's current cost valuation of plants in service and depriciation rates.

Taylor Wednesday referred to the purchase agreement between TESCO and one of its sister companies, Texas Power and Light, one of the "best deals our customers — or any utility customers — will ever receive the benefits of."

TESCO bought a larger portion of Martin Lake units 3 and 4 mear Henderson from TP&L in exchange for some of the company's electricity generated with low-cost natural gas during the period 1978 to 1980, said Taylor.

John Bell, the PUC's General Counsel, had claimed the deal was not good for TESCO's customers, referring to the agreement as a "sweetheart deal".

However, a study given to the PUC Wednesday claimed cumulative savings to customers will reach $287 million by 1990 and will continue to increase over the life of the plant. In the meantime, the exchange will increase TESÇO's customers' bills somewhat during 1978-80 period, but will be offset by the savings scheduled to begin in 1981. Taylor said to begin in 1981, Taylor said.

While on the witness stand, Taylor said the rate increase is needed so the company "can continue its program of changing to cheaper and more pleutiful fuels."

Taylor said: "We're well along the road to getting off expensive and unreliable natural gas and oil."

However, he said, "these customer benefits can be obtained only if our rates are adequate to encourage people to invest the money necessary to build these plants."

Taylor maintained that most of the money needed to build plants using lignite and nuclear fuels comes from people willing to invest in the company — not from customers ny — not from customers.

The PUC hearing is expected to continue through next week. Testimony is being heard by Hearing Examiner Phillip Ricketts and will be analyzed later by the three-member commission. A decision in the case is expected later this year.

German leadership

Chancellor Helmut Schmidt has handed the West German parliament an economic plan calling for a $7 billion tax cut over the next two years. This is in line with Mr. Schmidt's promise at the Bonn summit to put the German economy on a more expansive track, helping to redress the serious trade imbalance afflicting some of Germany's trade partners, including the United States.

How the Bundestag will react is yet to be seen, but it is a safe bet that Mr. Schmidt will have an easier time getting parliamentary backing for his commitments at the summit than President Carter will have when he deals with Congress to follow up on his own commitments. Economics are the forte of Mr. Schmidt, who served as finance minister before he became chancellor four years ago

Statesmanship in a broader sense is also proving to be a forte of Mr. Schmidt. His up-front role at the Bonn summit resulted from more than his being the official host. It was influenced, surely, by the fact that the present American president is having trouble hitting his stride, and that the United States — always the pivotal power at a Western conference - is a nation presently embarrassed by a weakening of its currency and lack of an effective energy policy.

Mr. Schmidt, on the other hand. seems fully prepared to add a the international dialogue. Not are listening. For the first time in the postwar era, West German foreign policy is beginning to mean much more than the country's relations with its European neighbors and a limited role in European defense.

In June, Mr. Schmidt made the first trip to Africa by a West German chief of government, and from all accounts it was a diplomatic success. Germany's colonial interests in Africa were never as extensive as those of other major European powers, so there is less suspicion toward Germans on the part of many black African leaders. Mr. Schmidt also appears to have convinced Africans that Germany is not inclined to see their continent as an arena of Cold War com-

West Germany took part with the U.S., Britain, France and Canada in working out a plan for self-government in Namibia

West Germany's "economic miracle" is over, the Germans admit it, and Mr. Schmidt faces no easy task in trying to achieve a higher economic growth rate while keeping inflation in check. He is giving the rest of the world the impression, however, that if anyone can manage it, he can. And he could turn out to be the leader who moves Germany closer to center stage in world affairs without arousing memories of Nazi aggression. Sooner or later those memories. and the fears they arouse, will more assertive German voice to have to yield to political and economic realities. Perhaps that

ART BUCHWALD 'Women's liberation in sunny land of Tahiti

(Editor's Note: Art Buchwald is on assignment for a few weeks trying to find out if there are any Cuban troops on Cape Cod. He left behind his alltime favorite columns.)

Women's Liberation is working in Tahiti as well as, or better than, any place in the world. I discovered this when I visited the beautiful island of Bora Bora, which inspired James Michener's "Tales of the South Pacific." We stayed at the Hotel Bora Bora, where instead of hotel rooms visiting couples have their own grass-covered huts overlooking the crystal-clear, fish-happy lagoon.

One of the first things I noticed was that there were only women working in the hotel — at the desk or the bar, as chambermaids or waitresses.

One morning I made a discreet inquiry as to where all the men on Bora Bora were.

A Frenchman who lives on the island said, "They're probably still in their huts sleeping. They're very tired from celebrating the Fourteenth of July, which as you know has been going on for 10 days.'

"But don't they have to go to work?

"No, monsieur. The tradition of the island is that only the women work.'

'What do the men do?'' "Sleep, sail, fish if they feel like it.

They manage to keep busy.'

We have established that our Mafia source lied about the origin of the ledger. Yet the nation's organized patterns of underworld associations have evidence indicating that Tony Spilotro, whom they allege is the mob's overseer in Las Vegas, is the hidden owner of a huge corporation that holds title to casinos. The Argent Corporation, which owns the Fremont and Stardust hotel-casinos, is the target of the federal probe. It ostensibly is controlled by Allen Glick, named in government intelligence reports as a possible front man for organized crime. He built Argent with $93 million in loans from the scandal-ridden Teamsters' Central States Pension Fund.

It was first mentioned to the FBI by Gerard Denono, a Mafia torpedo, after his arrest on bank robbery charges in 1974. He is a charming cutthroat with a frightening record. In four years, he accumulated three muzder convictions, not to mention the bank-robbery rap. Last month, he wound up with a life sentence for killing his own gangland partner, Henry Poczynek.

with a third button-man, got into trouble over a jewel robbery. Poczynek botched the job and murdered the wealthy woman who owned the jewels. Denono, on orders from his superiors in Las Vegas, eliminated Poczynek.

Last summer, while awaiting trial in the Poczynek case and facing life behind hars, the wily Denono offered the ledger in an attempt to make a deal. He reminded the FBI of his 1974 reference to the ledger. He was prepared to turn over the ledger, he said, in return for a deal on the Poczynek case. The least he wanted was easy time in a federal prison.

We also learned about the ledger last summer and contacted Denono in the county jail in West Palm Beach, Fla. He was slender and disarming, well-liked by fellow inmates and jail guards alike

In a small room reserved for legal consultations. Denono related the ledger story. He seemed happy to see us; apparently he figured our involvement might pressure the FBI into making a deal.

Denono told our associate, Marc Smolonsky, that he had stolen the book from the Las Vegas home of Edward "Marty" Buccieri in April 1973. According to Denono, Spilotro had instructed him to steal $500,000 in casino skim money, which was stashed in Buccieri's floor safe. The cash was to be used to open a new casino at Lake Tahoe. Denono said he discovered the ledger in the safe and lifted it, not realizing its contents.

We sent Smolonsky to Las Vegas to check Denono's story. We learned that Buccieri, a Caesars Palace floorman, was known inside the mobas a bagman. In April 1973, his home was burglarized exactly as Denono

But no one could confirm that the underworld account book had been part of the loot — least of all Buccieri who later was executed by an unknown assailant in a parking lot behind Caesars Palace.

An expert handwriting analysis indicated that the entries in the ledger were not kept in Buccieri's handwriting. Federal and local investigators also doubted that Buccieri would have kept such a record because he wasn't high enough in the echelons of organized crime.

Denono, confronted with these findings, changed his story

Footnote: Oscar Goodman, an attorney for Tony Spilotro, said his client "categorically and emphatically as possible denies any connection with the Argent Corporation." Spilotro has never talked to Glick and has had no business dealing with him, the lawyer said. The allegation about Spilotro's organized crime connections was "very offensive," and Spilotro denies it, the attorney concluded

Community use always part of MC plan

Art shows, lectures, public hearings, conferences, seminars, club meeting, recitals...those are just a few of the public events that are held on the Midland College campus. Although the school was designed primarily for credit and non-credit instruction. community use and involvement have always been an important part of the Midland College plan as it fills its role as a comprehensive community

Hua flies circles around his Soviet Union enemies

By ALEXANDER G. HIGGINS

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) -Hua Kuo-feng flew around his enemies in the Soviet Union today and arrived in Romania on his first trip to Europe since succeeding Mao Tse-tung as chairman of the Chinese Communist Party.

Romania's Communist government, walking a neutral tightrope in the Moscow-Peking feud, gave him a warm welcome.

After spending the night some-where in western China, Hua skirted Soviet territory and flew over Pakistan, Afghanistan, Iran, Turkey and Bulgaria to reach Romania, on the western coast of the Black Sea, the official Chinese news agency Hsinhua Hsinhua said he sent the customary greetings to the leaders of the countries he flew over.

Hua's five-day visit to the maverick of the Soviet Bloc is his first stop on a three-nation tour and the first trip by a Chinese Communist Party chair-man to Europe since Mao visited Moscow 21 years ago.

After a tour of Romania's oil fields and factories north of Bucharest and port facilities on the Black Sea, Hua goes Monday to Yugoslavia, the first Communist country to break away from Soviet domination. He will stay there about a week and then go to anti-Communist Irap.

One Western diplomat said President Nicolae Ceausescu is a "master of judging the limits of Soviet toler-ance" and is playing "the great Romanian balancing act" between the two giants of the Communist move-

Three months ago he received a tumultuous reception in Peking, and a week ago he called on Soviet Presi-dent Leonid I. Brezhnev at his Crimean summer retreat.

Romania deplores the tensions between the Russians and Chinese and strives to maintain good relations with both sides. But the Soviets and their more subservient allies have been accusing China of an "hegemonist course," including attempts to win influence in southeastern Europe.

The Soviets have been irritated re-cently with Romania's friendship treaty with Cambodia, supported by China in its border war with Sovietbacked Vietnam, by Ceasescu's visit to China and by Bucharest's criticism of Cuban military intervention in

But Ceausescu "feels he is still within the bounds of Soviet tolerance," one Western diplomat said.
"The Soviets must feel their basic security interests are not in jeopar-

In a speech Aug. 3, the Romanian leader underlined his country's close ties with the Soviet union, the importance of its relations with China and its neutrality in the Moscow-Peking "Romania will not let herself be involved in any public polemics, in blaming one socialist country or another," he said.

The speech was "marvelously nimble diplomacy," one diplomat said. It could not be learned if Hua's trip was timed intentionally to coincide with the 10th anniversary on Aug. 20-21 of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. Romania was the only War-saw Pact country that refused to contribute troops to the invasion, and both Romania and Yugoslavia from time to time have indicated they feared similar military action to bring them into line with Soviet poliOfficially the Romanians consider Hua's visit a natural development of existing ties between the two Communist countries. Trade between Romania and China totals about $500 million a year, and the Romanians hope to double it by 1980, the same goal they have for trade with the United States. Romania is the largest supplier of oil rigs for China's developing oil

One stop on Hua's itinerary is Constanta, on the Black Sea, Romanian sources said. Western observers say China might want to put a consulate in the port city, which would make the Soviets uneasy because of their naval base at Sevastopol, 240 miles to the

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The next pope of the Roman Catholic Church will have to deal with the unfinished business of Pope Paul VI's reign and such brand-new problems as test tube

Vatican officials say he will also face a growing financial deficit.

The reform wave launched by the Second Vatican Council has created problems of doctrinal dissent, priestly defections and a lay revolt over sexual issues. Particularly that of

The threat of schism hangs over the church from traditionalists who refuse to accept the liturgical reforms of Vatican II. Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, the French leader of the rebel movement, has already said he doesn't consider the electoral conclave starting Aug. 25 valid since cardinals over 80 are excluded from it. There could be a final break if, as is likely, the new pope carries on in the direction taken by the council.

A group of prominent progressive Catholic theologians has called publicly for a pope who will carry reform further — sharing deliberative power with the bishops' synod, promoting the position of women in the church and pursuing unity with other Christians and dialogue with the world.

Whatever the personal tendency of the next pope, he will have one or more groups of theological dissidents to deal with.

The problem of priestly defections that caused Paul VI anguish is likely to be even greater for his successor. Defection and death are still outpacing replacements — 1,894 dropouts and 4,971 deaths compared to 4,469 ordinations in 1976, the last year for which figures are available. The trend has raised the average age of priests to 53 in Europe. Unless there is a dramatic turnaround, "the real crunch is going to hit in about 10 years," one Vatican official said.

Another issue that won't go away is birth control. Despite Pope Paul's firm defense of the church's ban on artificial methods of contraception, millions of Catholics around the world continue to ignore the prohibition. A Gallup Poll this year indicated 73 percent of American Catholics disagreed with the pope.

A number of cardinals arriving for the conclave have mentioned that thz man they elect will also have to find a way to deal with other aspects of the sexual revolution - abortion, homosexuality, divorce and extra-marital

Pope Paul at his death was reported preparing a position paper on a new moral problem, the recent birth in Britain of a test tube baby conceived outside the mother's womb. His successor will have to decide what stand he will take on this and similar developments of modern society

Pope Paul advanced the interna-tionalization of the Curia, the Vatican bureaucracy, but the next pope is going to have to reorganize it to save money. Personnel costs have been rising steadily, and Cardinal Egidio Vagnozzi, who is in charge of the budget, complained recently: "If we continue this way, in 1981 our deficit will be 35 billion lire," $38 million at current exchange rates current exchange rates.

Italian newspapers reported that a special papal commission completed a reorganization study prior to Pope Paul's death and recommended a drastic cut in personnel, partly through the merger of some offices.

One such consolidation that reportedly was urged was the merger of the three secretariats for relations with other Christians, with non-Christians and with non-believers.

MISS BLACK AMERICA of Texas, Thelma Moultrie, formerly of Midland, won her title June 22 in Tyler. In addition to her crown, she received red roses and a trophy. Miss Moultrie also won an $800 savings bond and the honor of competing against 37 other young women in the Miss Black America Pageant to be held Friday in Philadephia, Pa. Now a Dallas resident, she has been marketing representative for International Business Machines (IBM) the past three years. Miss Moultrie is a member of Theta Sigma Theta, a national service sorority.

Music due to highlight Black America Pageant

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - If there's a message in the the Miss Black America Pageant, it's in the music, snappy and sleepy stuff that attempts to shore up the pride of a minority

"There's a theme song for every phase of the program," says J. Morris Anderson, founder and president of the pageant, which stages its finals Friday night at Philadelphia's Civic

"The opening production number is 'Dear Miss Black America,' a fast, hard-hitting song that says 'I have you have soul, everybody has It trumpets the beauty and talent of black people," Anderson said in an interview.

More Jews leaving Soviet Union

By SETH MYDANS

MOSCOW (AP) - Although it is cracking down on some of the best-known activists in the Jewish emigration movement, the Soviet Union has been quietly raising the level of exit permits for Jews. Some experts believe it is a signal for improved relations with the United States.

In the first half of 1978, according to official figures released by a Swiss-based resettlement agency, 11,500 Jews left the Soviet Union, a 60 percent increase over the same period last year.

The average of almost 2,000 exit visas a month appears to indicate a new policy in the Soviet Union, where the monthly average from the beginning of 1975 through late 1977 had been just 1,170.

Those who are getting permission to leave come from all walks of Soviet life and all parts of the country. There is, however, a heavy emphasis on urban intellectuals, including a high proportion of scientists, mathematicians, computer specialists a brain drain that clearly is a factor in the Soviets' reluctance to allow Jews to leave.

They depart by air or train for Vienna, Austria, where they decide whether they want to settle in Israel or some other country.

They emigrant singly, but more often in families, ranging in age from infants to family patriarchs. Departure costs each emigrant the equivalent of about $2,000, including $1,000 in taxes for an exit visa and for the required renunciation of Soviet citizen-

Then there are the emotions of leaving and uncertainties. Said Alex Goldfarb, one recent emigree: "Emigrating for me is like being launched into outer space. I'll be entering a whole new world that I know little about. And I know I'll never come back and see this place again or the people.

'I don't regret what I've done, but I feel sad. It's hard to leave my friends, relatives, and especially the people who are still in danger, who haven't got their visas."

While increasing the rate of Jewish exits, the Soviets have been moving to disperse the organized Jewish movement that has campaigned within the Soviet Union for just such an increase.

In June, two of the central organizers of the emigration movement - Vladimir Slepak and Ida Nudel - were sentenced to five years and four years respectively of exile in Siberia for their activities. Slepak, who has been waiting eight years for an exit visa, and Miss Nudel, seven years, serve as examples in an evident effort to discourage other Jews from applying to emigrate.

In addition, Anatoly Shcharansky, a symbol of the Jewish emigration movement who has been refused an exit visa since 1973, was convicted July 14 of espionage and sentenced to 13 years at hard labor.

Much of the evidence brought against him involved petitions he wrote and meetings he organized on behalf of Jewish emigration - activities which had been considered routine among Jewish activists.

But while the Kremlin has been taking strong action against these visible symbols of the Jews' desire to emigrate, some Soviet diplomats in the United States have been privately pointing out the growing emigration rate.

These diplomats, speaking to U.S. officials and Jewish leaders, have suggested the rising emigration rate is a signal to which Washington should respond.

One Western diplomat in Moscow reads the signal as an attempt by the Soviets to improve the "atmosphere" of U.S.-Soviet relations even while going ahead with the trials of Jewish activists. He expresses scepticism, however, as to whether the attempt can succeed.

What the Soviets are looking for is an improvement in conditions for trade with the United States, which has been linked in the U.S. Congress since 1974 with the rate at which Jews are allowed to emi-

The 1974 trade bill includes the Jackson-Vanik Amendment, named for its sponsors Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, which bans tariff and credit concessions to the

It remains in effect until the U.S. president can inform Congress he has received "assurances" that restrictions have been lifted on emigration.

When the amendment was added to the trade bill, the Soviets abrogated a U.S.-Soviet trade accord agreed to in principle in 1972.

Crashing car reportedly sounds like earthquake

An out-of-control car caused an estimated $10,000 damage to a residence, a fence and a gas meter late Tuesday afternoon, according to Midland Po-

A west Midland housewife and her 4-month-old male infant were awakened Tuesday when a late model car driven by a 12-year-old boy came through the wall of a bedroom at the rear of 3310 W. Camarie Ave., said

Authorities reported Mrs. Mark K. Leaverton was sitting on a bed with her child, talking on the telephone, when the car crashed through a wall in the rear of the home

Mrs. Leaverton recalled Wednesday: "I heard a car going very fast down the alley. Then I heard a crash, which I later found out to be a gas line which had been hit. Then I heard what sounded like an earthquake when the car went through our back fence and one second later it hit our house." The impact moved the bed six feet from the wall. Police said there were no injuries with the exception of a 10-year-old passenger in the car, whose head reportedly hit the windshield. Officers said the pair in the car were

The car also struck a fence post at the rear of 3312 W. Camarie Ave., where the Buford Parmer family lives, according to reports.

The car then ran over a gas meter owned by Pioneer Gas Co., and spun off to the south. Along the way, the car tore a fence down and ripped into some shrubs before stopping inside the back bedroom of the Leaver-

Dollar strengthening after Carter expresses 'concern'

LONDON (AP) - The dollar strengthened today after President Carter's expression of "deep concern" over the U.S. currency's sharp decline on the world's foreign exchanges. The price of gold dipped.

West Germany, feartul a weak dollar will price its exports out of world markets, praised the Carter adminis-currency. Dealers cautioned, however, that the long-term future of the dollar is still far from bright. A Frankfurt trader said the money market is in a 'holding pattern" pending firm indications of what action Carter might take to shore up the beleaguered curto approve the budget and tax rate in

The capital budget calls for revenue of $1,008,548 and expenses of $1,075,-

The total difference between revenue and expenses in the proposed budget is $1,649,696. Since one cent on the tax rate is estimated to be worth $116,000, a 15-cent per $100 assessed value (with assessment at 75 percent of market value) would be required to make up the deficit. At that rate, the tax on a house with a market value of $40,000 would be $45

District Director Frank Cowden Jr., who attended the trustees meeting, said he is pleased the budget will call for the tax rate promised when voters approved the hospital district.

Also at Monday's meeting, the trustees discussed the possibility of requiring a specific length of residence in Midland County before a person is eligible for care at Midland Memorial as an indigent.

District lawyer Ted Kerr told the directors an attorney general's opinion indicates such a requirement is not legal, but the district has other means of testing residence. The directors agreed to leave the indigent care guidelines as they are, without the specified length of residence.

Drug company documents sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - The sponsor of a motion to cite HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. for contempt of Congress says he hopes Califano will find some way to furnish by mid-September subpoenaed documents describing how major drug companies make their products.

The House Commerce investigations subcommittee voted 9-8 Wednesday to recommend that the secretary of health, education and welfare be held in contempt if he did not turn over the documents. The motion was sponsored by Rep. Albert Gore Jr.,

Members said the documents were needed for an investigation of whether major drug companies buy generic or chemically named drugs, put their own brand-name labels on them and then charge steeply higher prices for the drugs.

At a hearing on Tuesday, Califano gave the subcommittee confidential data on the generic drugs, their manufacturers and the brand-name drug company purchasers.

But he said Attorney General Griffin Bell had said Califano could not provide documents showing the precise manufacturing process because they are legally protected trade se-

"I'm hopeful the secretary will negotiate more seriously in the next two to three weeks before the full committee is scheduled to vote (on the contempt citation)," Gore said.

"I think he now knows we're very serious about this matter. I predict the full committee will vote the contempt citation as recommended, but I'm optimistic we'll be able to reach a compromise solution between now and that vote," Gore added in an

Folks just wanted swimming hole but now they may get 11 dams

MIDDLEFIELD, Mass. (AP) -What folks asked for was a new dam and a new swimming hole. What they're getting is a $14.3 million project with 11 dams and a mile-long lake, expected to draw throngs of tourists and change their town as completely as the floods they fear.

Critics of the seemingly benevolent federal-state plan range from owners of the general store to folksinger Arlo Guthrie, a neighbor.

One opponent, former Hampshire County planner Steve Johnson, affects a Yankee accent to quote an apocryphal farmer: "Don't much care if you build your dams, just don't put 'em in our river."

This battle - and it has become that - caps a struggle dating back to 1901, when the old dam on Factory Brook washed away. A new flood control dam was finally authorized in 1960, but then it had to be "justified economically." The dam proposal is the unpopular result.

The 300 residents here-like life in a town that has neither a jail nor a theater and is connected to the county seat of Northampton only by a dirt road that closes after the first snow-

The West Branch of the Westfield River — the largest remaining free-flowing river in Massachusetts — now offers some of the wildest white water canoeing in New England, said John-Middlefield, he argued, is perfect for nature study, cross-country skiing, biking and camping. The project is biased toward motorized water sports and camping and against the simpler pleasures, he said.

Crowds and motorized recreational vehicles would drive wildlife away, he said, and plans to control water flow for the benefit of fishermen would disrupt spawning patterns of coldwater fish.

The lake and campsites would attract an estimated 320,000 visitors a year and saddle Middlefield with big bills for police, sanitation and fire protection, opponents say.

These are all reasons why townsfolk voted 98-43 against the plan.

How did a tiny town's request for a swimming hole grow into such a monster? Opponents blame the alleged dam-building "beaver" complex of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and a bureaucratic Catch-22.

When the new dam was approved, it came under federal guidelines that require a return of at least one dollar for each dollar spent.

By itself, a flood control dam for the West Branch and its tributaries could not be justified under the cost-benefit ratio: Dams alone would cost more than the damage floods are likely to

But add recreational benefits, the SCS said, and the project becomes worthwhile: 11 dams, seven of them purely for recreational purpose; 320 campsites; 214 picnic sites; parking. for 200 cars; 27 miles of hiking trails; two beaches and a sewage treatment

Paul Christensen of the SCS argues the plan will provide needed recreation facilities for New Yorkers and New Englanders.

But a compromise is in the wind: Christensen says the SCS will release a modified environmental impact study in November with an alternative plan for 100 campsites, 30 picnic areas and one beach.

That, he said, is as far the SCS can back off and still justify the flood control dams.

But statistics obscure the real point: the project would attract more outsiders than most Middlefielders nope to see for the rest of their lives. Public opinion against the plan is By KEN

Lubbock man killed in struggle

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A Lubbock man was shot to death late Wednesday after he fired his pistol at a police officer during a struggle, a police spokesman said.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Tommy Earl Davis, 27, according to Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy. The police spokesman said officer Pat Hastings and several other offi-cers responded to a disturbance call REIDSVILLE, Ga. (AP) - Inmates in the Georgia State Prison's main building were confined to their cells today after the latest in a series of violent outbreaks left one inmate dead and three others injured, two of them critically. Authorities at Talmadge Memorial Hospital in Augusta said Floyd Walker Jr. of Atlanta and Joseph Lee Quick of Fayetteville, N.C., were in critical condition early today.

Walker was stabbed in the chest, and Quick was stabbed in the abdomen, hospital spokesman Alex Vaughn said.

All four victims were among a group of black at the prison and only prisoners attacked by white inmates armed with homemade knives, prison officials said.

The incident occurred in a inmamum security cellblock in the twotiered Building M as inmates were being taken to a work detail. The dead inmate was

Mrs. Passmore said prison officials believed the violent outbreak was "spontaneous." It was brought under control almost immediately by seven guards who were in the vicinity, she said.

'Week that was' changed Palestinian activist's life

By WILLIAM GILDEA The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — It was June 1967. The Middle East erupted in the Six Day War. In Washington, Hisham Sharabi turned on the morning news. "That was the begining," he says, "of the week that was. Total defeat."

For this native Palestinian, the quick and complete rout of the Arabs "was an emotional, traumatic turning point. In the following three, four, five weeks my thinking became more and more radicalized." There was no choice, he decided — the Palestinians would have to take matters into their own hands.

From that point, Sharabi's thenquiet life changed dramatically until today he is perhaps the most prominent Palestinian American political activist and one of the most prominent voices among the more than 2 million Arab Americans.

The American Jewish Committee, in fact, calls the emerging Arab American lobby "a new challenge to pro-Israel sentiment in the U.S."

Sharabi's pronouncements about the Middle East crisis are not always popular - or diplomatic. It is his opinion, for example, that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat "must be losing his grip psychologically. Like the other fellow, both are going mad. He and (Israeli Prime Minister Menachem) Begin, two mad people." And he believes that "there is no other recourse (for Palestinians) than armed resistance."

Yet this Georgetown University professor who calls himself a "realist radical " - is listened to and respected by the White House, State Department and the Congress. Sadat himself has urged a role for Sharabi in Middle East negotiatons; so has Sharabi's personal friend, Palestine Liberation Organization head Yasser Arafat. Sharabi speaks as one who lost two members of his family at the time of the 1948 war; he bears a built-in anger. "I don't condemn the use of violence, as such, when it is carried out in a just cause, such as that of the Palestinians," he says.

Born in Jaffa and raised in the comfortable surroundings of a bourgeois family, later educated at the University of Chicago and easily Americanized, Sharabi, 51, holds the chair of Arab studies at Georgetown University. He is also president of the increasingly active National Association of Arab-Americans - the only Arab American groups registered to lobby Congress. And as its spokesman, according to one colleague, Sharabi "is able to function as a tactician in this society. There aren't many Palestinians able to do this."

What Sharabi and his organization want to do is change the mood of America from what they feel is a pro-Israel point of view. His "main task," he says, is to build "a bridge, culturally as well as politcally, between the United States and this area of the world in which the United States as such a vital inter-

He also wants to alter the Arab image in this country. "We have an ethnic stereotyping that we cannot afford to tolerate and maintain our self respect....We're the only ethnic group that some people still find fair play for their heavy-handed jokes." That attitude, Sharabi says, began to change about five years ago, after a surprising showing by Arab armies in the 1973 war and later with the oil embargo. Several groups around the United States began to rally support for the Arab cause, including churches and various Arab-American federations.

According to an American Jewish Committee study, "the two most prominent Arab American organizations" are the Sharabi-led NAAA (founded in 1972) and the Detroitbased Association of Arab American University Graduates, which Sharabi also helped form shortly after the Six-Day War. "The two groups," says the AJC study, "together with a good many smaller ones, seek to bridge old religious and national divisions and create a sense of Arab American solidarity."

This has never been easy. One NAAA founder, Virginia lawyer Richard Shadyac, for example, dropped out of the organizatin, saying it "does not represent the Middle Arab American." The majority of Arab Americans are of Lebanese descent, and Sharabi says that under the leadership of Joseph Baroody, which ended in May, the NAAA "was finally able to get to this business" after merely trying to survive for several years. It opened a Connecticut Avenue office, hired a lobbyist and set about to try to offset the powerful American Israeal Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC).

42-year-old note found in bottle

GRANBURY, Texas (AP) — A Fort Worth fisherman Wayne Alexander retrieved a bottle bobbing in the waters of Lake Granbury while standing on a dock so he could add it to a friend's bottle collection.

He was startled when he found a note inside which read:

"This was thrown in the Brazos River on this eleventh day of November nineteen hundred and thirty-five. To the person who finds this bottle, please return it to Mr. Harry Greg Brels-ford, 5101 Bryce, Fort Worth, Texas.'

Alexander traced Brelsford to Anchorage, Alaska, and telephoned him of the discovery.

"Well, I'll be damned," Breisford said. He said he tossed the corked bottle into the Brazos when he was 11. Lake Granbury, created by the damming of the Brazos about 40 miles southwest of Fort Worth. did not even exist at the

Midland College fills education gap

Midland Is an affluent, well-educated community. Right? Generally, yes.

But there are hundreds - perhaps thousands - of local residents unable to read or write. There are long-time residents and some new ones who don't speak English.

Helping these people is the mission of the Midland College Adult Basic Education and English as a Secondary Language programs.

In mid-September free classes will resume at Midland College and other locations around the community. The classes are designed to assist those unable to read or write. They also aid school dropouts who want to study and prepare for their General Equivalency Diploma tests. The GED certificate is usually accepted as a substitute for a high school

"Most of us never realize that there are people in Midland who are functional illiterates, unable to. write their names or even read 'Help Wanted' or store advertisements," said Wanda Phillips, who directs the programs.

"And there are a surprising number who don't speak or read English. Many, of course, have Spanish as their native language. But there are others from all over the world who are living here."

Persons 16 years of age or older who have been out of school at least one year are eligible to attend the classes, which are offered both daytime and eve-

This year a Basic Education Learning Center is being established under the guidance of Jean Schwisow, who taught ABE courses previously. This will allow ABE students to receive individualized attention, as well as access to audiovisual equipment and programs designed to help them advance as rapidly as possible.

"Our goal is to locate and assist as many of these people as possible, so they can become more self-reliant and productive members of our community. Mrs. Phillips said.

The folk who raise fruit and other foods are finding computers of increasing help. In fact, there was a computer game for visitors to the recent New York State Horticultural Society Agricultural Experiment Station booth.

In a few minutes, for instance, apple growers could relive the dangers of growing a crop. The game, developed as a teaching aid by students and scientists at Cornell and Michigan State univerisites, was named Applescab. It was designed to simulate real problems encountered by apple growers as they try to control this troublesome disease.

The game begins at the start of a growing season and develops day by day. The player must decide when to spray pesticides for disease control, using data about new tree growth, disease prevalence, present and future weather. Robin Hood hat was trip headache

By ERMA BOMBECK

In cleaning out one of the boy's closets the other day I was knocked senseless by a coconut with an Indian face painted on it.

This was followed by an avalanche which included an alligator dressed up like a grand parade marshall, a human skull with a raven perched on top of it that said, "Have a Good Day," a snow and water paperweight showing the New York skyline in which the water had evaporated a beer stein that played "White Christmas" when you lifted the lid, and a funky light that flickered on and off and said, "Lite Up Las Vegas."

As I sifted through the rest backscratchers, totem poles, key rings and a blowfish (that brought me into my first contact with acupuncture) - I tried to imagine how many man hours went into acquiring, transporting, and maintaining all of these souvenirs. Then I saw it: the Robin Hood hat with a feather from the Ionia State Fair.

It was 10 years ago. The family was en route to a camping trip when we were attracted by the Ionia State Fair. As we started to leave the grounds, my son said, "Could I buy this hat where they sew your name on

The kid cried all night long keeping everyone awake. I awoke the next morning with enough wrinkles to plant crops. The kids were surly and my husband had a flat tire. (I told him he'd been punished for his cheapness.)

Finally, he gave in and said, "Okay, we'll go back and get the hat."

Warmth toward mate important, expert believes

By DR. LAURA SCHLESSINGER Copley News Service

Michael has been finding more and more reasons to stay late at the office, participate in late evening dinner-business meetings, all of which cause him to come home feeling both groggy and petulant. When he doesn't have any work or appointments, he makes his way home rather unwillingly only after a few drinks at a local bar.

Loretta has become frantic-feeling as though she was losing Michael, she has been on a campaign of enticement and seduction. She reads all the newest popular publications promising eternal bliss and ecstacy once one wears the propert attire and perfume and knows all the "moves" guaranteed to make your man quiver down to his very last chromosome.

So that every night Michael arrived home Loretta literally attacked him at the door. Frustratingly, the more Loretta did to attract Michael the later the hour became for his homecoming, and the more miserable Michael felt, "All this woman wants is sex. I don't think I have some kind of abnormally low sex drive—but she is just driving me crazy with her constant demands.

"I don't even have time to wind down when I get home. It's become so irritating that I hate even the thought of coming home. If I don't give in to her she makes me feel terrible." "I just can't understand him anymore," Loretta quaked, "He used to be turned on to me all the time. He just doesn't seem to be interested in me, our home or our marriage,' Loretta and Michael are in the middle of a "vicious cycle." The more

Loretta approaches Michael, the more he pulls away, causing Loretta to One way to break such a cycle is by understanding each other's underlying motivations. This is difficult for many who are either not in touch with their feelings or are afraid to reveal them. Michael was extremely surprised to find out that Loretta was not always wanting a heavy sexual session. "I just wanted to try to reach him, have him notice me. At least when he was sexual he held me and made me feel loved," she admitted. What Loretta was really attempting to communicate with her seductiveness was a feeling of wanting warmth, attention and affection. Ever since Michael had gotten his new job he seemed to be preoccupied. "We used to play and enjoy ourselves a lot more-I thought he was losing in-"This is a big opportunity for me and with a family to support I worry about being successful. With all this on my mind I could have used lots of warmth and holding from Loretta. I admit I haven't felt as sexual but I have needed her close. I was afraid to say it straight out—she might think

I was weak or something." Michael and Loretta essentially wanted the same thing from each other, physical and emotional closeness. But with all their sexual intimacy they couldn't communicate their most intimate needs, thoughts and worries; the essence of true intimacy. Sex is often made the scapegoat, the focus of the problem in a relationship. On the surface it appeared that Michael found Loretta hypersexed while she worried that he was losing either his sex drive or his interest in her. In each, however, were worries of rejections and inadequancy-and a mutual, unfortunatly unexpressed, need for support and reassurance. All of touching need not be purely sexual. This is a narrow perspective which limits a couple's resources in expressing feelings toward each other. People have a need for touching, holding, caressing and pleasuring that is natural and beautiful.

Defining all of this as merely a prelude to the "real event" denies our human sensuousness and makes sex mechanical and often a burden as we add yet another "demand" to our lives.

New script: Women get win role

By LUCRETIA STEIGER Copley News Service

You, too, can be a winner, even though you are a woman who was programmed early not to win.

What it takes, according to author and psychologist Dorothy Jongeward. is awareness of the non-winning "scripts" or roles you might be playing in your life, then setting up a program to change them.

By winning, I mean success in being as fully yourself as possible." she said. "That's being successful as a person.

Jongeward, president of the Transactional Analysis Management Institute, outlined some of the scripts. both traditional and new, which some women are playing out today. A resident of Orinda, near San Francisco, she conducts management seminars for the Bank of America.

Most of the traditional scripts women live by today can be recognized in old fairy-tale characters such as Cinderella and Sleeping Beauty, Jongeward said, although newer themes such as Superwoman and the Mary Tyler Moore script are being drawn from television.

The basic problem in living out a script, said the psychologist, is that it was developed for the child early in life, by parents and others outside. before the individual's personality and talents were known.

Thus, without really recognizing it. a woman may be living out a "Cin-derella script" by working hard while waiting for a man to come rescue her.

Or she may be Mother Hubbard, giving and giving from her cupboard - taking care of everyone else's needs - until one day, usually late in life, she discovers that her personal cupboard is bare.

The new script of Superwoman, as depicted in several pop television shows, is particularly deadly in that she "must be able to do everything super, even down to keeping her floors clean," Jongeward said, while appearing cool and competent.

The "Mary Tyler Moore script. based on the actress' role of Mary Richards in a fictional television newsroom, was noted on the East Coast recently, she said, by a woman who puts on a nationally syndicated television program.

"She found that she couldn't just waltz into this highly paid job in an office where everyone loved her, with her shiny swinging hair and succeed." Jongeward said. "Instead she had to face reality and learn to work harfuwell as understand company politics and policies.

"There are lots of problems with scripts. The woman who is 'cute' and then passes 40, for instance, just isn't cute anymore. And if she lives to be 80, she needs a program to allow her to feel good about herself and function well with others.

"For many women, the second half of life is good, a time with tremendously rich potential, but a time which most women see as a downer. But that's the time of life to take piano

Raisin English muffins take a favorite sandwich-chicken, avocado and cheese-and make it "extra" ordinary. Fragant raisin bread transformed into cheese-y toast is served alongside.

Raisin bread sparks any meal

Today's consumer is more selective of the bread chosen for breakfast, lunch or dinner and snacks in between. "Just plain bread" no longer seems to fill the need, and a look at the local grocer's shelves proves the point. Even the standard English muffin is looking and tasting differently, too.

One particular choice that continues to grow in popularity is ever-fragrant and wholesome raisin bread. Long considered a convenient breakfast companion, raisin bread is charming the lunch, dinner and snack set as well. And keep an eye out, too, for English muffins-you'll find them with taste surprising California raisins at your local grocers.

The home economists for the California raisin industry have gathered together a "baker's dozen" raisin bread recipes in a new pamphlet. "Have a Raisin Bread Day" contains 13 carefully tested and tasted recipes. Produced by the California Raisin Advisory Board, the free pamphlet demonstrates the versatility of raisin bread and raisin English muffins for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Today's recipes for Avocado Yachts and Crispy Raisin Cheese Toast are just two of the many marvelous ideas that this pamphlet gives you. An elegant main course for a luncheon or light supper, this raisin bread sandwich idea features chicken salad, avocado and cheese assembled atop a raisin English muffin half. For heartier appetites, not one, but two chicken-topped English muffin halves can be Crispy Raisin Cheese Toast makes a marvelous accompaniment to the sandwich. Baked with a generous topping of butter, paprika and Parmesan cheese, the raisin bread emerges from the oven toasty and crunchy. It's delicious warm or cold with sandwiches, soup, salad or fruit.

Star prepares stew for many

ODESSA-Tony Aguilar, top star and producer of the National Mexican Festival and Rodeo, coming to Ector County Coliseum Aug. 25, periodically cooks a delicious Mexican beef stew.

Tony and his actress-wife, Flor Silvestre (like her husband an international film and recording artist)," and their two sons, teen-ager Tonito and pre-teener Pepito, perform equestrian feats and sing popular Mexican ballads in the colorful rodeo-festival.

When not on tour, the family relaxes at their sprawling ranch in Zacatecas, planning next season's tour, but mainly enjoying "home" and all that goes with it.

Tony sometimes fixes his stew just for the family in the kitchen; at other times it's a cook-out for the charros (Mexican cowboys) on a ranch round-up or an excursion, perhaps to repair fences or perform other duties.

Since most of Tony's dinner guests always ask for second-even third helpings, he usually prepares a stew for 12.

MEXICAN BEEF STEW

4 lbs. of 1-inch cut stew meat ANY TWO BARS OF CARESS. 6 medium potatoes (cut into 1-inch cubes) 2 medium turnips cut into 1-inch cubes 8 carrots cut into 1-inch slices

1 large sliced green pepper 1 very small sliced red pepper 1 lb. cut yellow (wax) beans

2 cups celery sliced into 1-inch pieces 1 cup diced Spanish onions 1 cup flour 2 bay leaves

4 beef bouillon cubes 2 tbsp. seasoned salt 4 tbsp. shortening 14 tsp. chili powder

2 green chiles (chopped)

12 cups boiling water Melt shortening in large kettle. Meantime, mix flour with half of salt and pepper, reserving remainder and coat beef pieces thoroughly. Brown well in the shortening. Add water and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and let simmer about two hours or until meat is somewhat tender. Add vegetables, and the remaining ingredients stirring frequentty, until tender, (usually about 30-40 minutes). Serve in large

Many parents face the problem of giving their children school lunch money, only to find it was spent for something else. And there are times when the foods available at school are not to the liking of the

There is a common solution to each of these situations: A lunch prepared at home which your child can take to school. A lunch bag full of tasty, nutritious and low-cost foods is easy to prepare. And many times it stretches the family food dollar by using leftover food items.

The favorite American lunch is the sandwich. There are countless varieties of sandwiches that can be made easily, ranging from peanut butter and jelly to cold roast meats: Turkey, cold cuts, ham and cheese are just a few of the other favorite sandwich

Tuna goes well in a sandwich. And for a nice change of pace try mixing foods such as tuna or deviled ham with cream cheese softened with a little milk, Then sandwiches could be made the night before and frozen

Leftovers, such as meat loaf, can be made into sandwiches. And foods which might otherwise go unused at home can make a flavorful, inexpensive

In recent years, salads have gained in popularity because they are nutritious and easy to make.

Leftover meat is a natural choice for a lunchtime salad. One lively recipe includes chunks of cooked ham, chicken or turkey, canned green beans, chopped celery and lettuce. And with the salad, how about a small thermos of cold tomato juice? But you don't need a thermos, since small individual sized cans

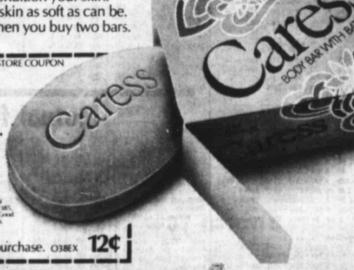

A wide-mouth thermos can be used for hot foods such as leftover beef stew, chili or soup. Items such as vegetables are important to a child's daily diet, too. And raw vegetables are convenient for a child's lunch bag. Apples, bananas, pears, plums or an orange add zest to the lunchtime fare. And for dessert, America's favorite flavor, chocolate, completes a well-rounded lunch.

Canned chocolate pudding or a milk chocolate bar not only tastes good, but it is also nutritious. For ex-ample, box lunches served the 1976 Summer Olympic athletes in Montreal included canned chocolate pudding for dessert. U.S. space officials include chocolate on all American space flights because it is a nutritious morale booster for the astronauts.

Caress is the body bar with a special blend of bath oil to help soften and condition your skin. Washing with Caress leaves skin as soft as can be. And now, you'll save 12¢ when you buy two bars.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market went on a buying spree today, encouraged by good news bout the dollar.

The Dow Jones average of 000 industrials rose 10.39 in the first two hours to 904.97. Advances held a roaring 4 lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange in heavy trading.

The good news came from Washington, where President Carter asked aides on Wednesday to look for a way to halt the dollar's fall, and overseas, where the dollar responded to Carter's statement with a healthy gain.

The dollar has been declining steadily on foreign exchange markets in recent months benause of fears about America's large trade deficit and general economic condition. The currency dropped to record lows earlier this week against the Swiss franc, West German mark and Japanese yen. El Paso Co. headed the active list, up 1/4 at 171/2. The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks rose .52 to 59.45. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 1.28 to 164.01. Volume on the Big Board reached 21.08 million shares over the first two hours, up from 13.91 million shares in the same period Wednesday

The rally was widespread IBM, a favorite of institutional investors and seen by analysts as a bellweather of the market's performance, was up 11/2 to 29814. Allied Chemica gained 11/2 at 37%, Delta Airlines rose 11/8 to 55% Alcoa picked up 11/8 to 49 and International Harvester was up % to 39%.

An impatient U.S. District Judge John Wood today continued to hear testimony in a motion for a temporary injunction which would restore an Odessa surgeon's operating privileges at Medical Center

Wood chided attorneys for Dr. Inayat I. Lalani for going over ground already in the court record from pre-trial submissions or other testimony. "I know all this. Let's get on with something new," Wood said

Lalani is attempting to force the Odessa hospital to restore his operating privileges, suspended May 18 by vote of the hospital's executive committee. An ad hoc committee subsequently conducted a hearing and divested Lalani of his surgical privileges.

The hearing in federal court on the motion for the temporary injunction began Wednesday and continued today, with testimony from members of the executive committee. Lalani told Wood during the non-jury hearing

Wednesday that failure to be reinstated would severely damages his chances of practicing elsewhere in the country. A lawyer for Medical Center Hospital argued that allowing the doctor to return could jeopardize the health and well-being of future patients. During more than two hours of testimony, Lalani, the only witness to testify Wednesday, said his suspension stemmed from personality problems that had developed with influential doctors at the hospital since 1976, when doctors in the hospital's surgical section failed in an attempt to have him removed. He claimed he was suspended without warning May 18, just three days after he contended he was led to believe he had been reappointed.

"I received a letter dated May 29th, the first time charges had been stated, 12 days after my suspension," he testified Wednesday.

Lalani is charged with lack of sound surgical judgment and operating without surgical assistance. He said the allegations were made by several surgeons at the hospital who initiated a suspension attempt two years ago.

Under cross examination from W.O. Shafer, representing the hospital, Lalani Wednesday admitted to having to remove the spleen from several patients because of damage incurred on the organ during surgery. However, the doctor attributed the spleen damage to his assistants.

"When I did not have an assistant, I did not have to remove a spleen," he said.

In response to questions by Shafer about the validity of hospital charts reflecting "mistakes" by Lalani, the doctor disputed that they were mistakes, and contended the doctors who supported his suspension have committed the same actions.

He said surgical work confronts "major life threatening illnesses." Problems faced by the surgeon are "the nature of" his job, he added.

He contended another doctor in Odessa refused to see his patients in regard to specialist problems on several occasions. Shafer, noting that the surgical department had supported Lalani's suspension by a 10-6 vote in 1976, asked whether "everybody who voted against you is prejudiced." "To answer that question I would have to answer another question: Was every German a Nazi?" replied the India-born doctor.

Lalani said that the doctors who voted against him were simply "following the big boys." Shafer asked about the probationary status of Lalani's 1976 reappointment, which include the requirement of a person to supervise him during major surgery. The doctor said he regarded the outcome of 1976 as a "promotion" and "vindication," adding that the hospital's probationary provisions were attached in order to "save face."

In testimony today, Dr. Thomas Meek, chairman of the surgery department at the hospital, said Lalani was suspended after the executive committee examined the chart of a 72-year-old man on whom Lalani had performed abdominal surgery May 17, the day before Lalani was suspended.

Meek said Lalani's handling of the case was evidence of "such a major deficiency...that this called for immediate action...Here we're talking about a surgical operation on a patient with a case of life or death involved."

Under questioning from Lalani's attorney, Meek said he had consistently voted against granting Lalani staff privileges in 1976 and believes him to be "an incompetent surgeon with very poor judg-

But Meek denied that he had any personal animosity toward Lalani. "I really don't know Dr. Lalani personally," he said. Meek conceded the executive committee had authorized Lalani to perform subsequent surgery on the 72-year-old man with the assistance of a boardcertified surgeon. That action was taken to insure the patient was not "abandoned," Meek said.

He also told Wood Lalani was not invited to attend the executive committee meeting in which the suspension action was taken. Nor, Meek said, did he allow himself to be cross-examined by Lalani during the ad hoc committee hearing. Dr. Phillip Zeeck, chief of staff at Medical Center, also testified today. He said the ad hoc committee was presented evidence about the abdominal surgery which led to the suspension and about 19 other patient charts, selected by three surgeons who reviewed Lalani's cases since 1976. Wood said today the two issues in deciding on the temporary injunction are whether there was bias or prejudice on the part of the executive committee and whether due process of law was followed. Lalani said Wednesday his monthly income has dwindled from about $12,000 to $3,000 since his suspension and that his reputation has been damaged, as well as his medical career. The 39-year-old doctor has been practicing in Odessa since 1974. Wood rejected today a motion by hospital legal counsel to quash a subpoena to produce documents and tape recordings of hospital staff meetings relating to the suspension of Lalani. The hospital had argued the records are confidential material which should not be made available for Meanwhile, Attorney Dan Sullivan, representing Lalani, had contended that the closed meetings held to discuss Lalani's suspension may constitute violation of the state open meetings law. Wood ruled that, for the kind of hearing in progress, the records pertaining to the case would have to be made part of the court record. He agreed to review material hospital lawyers felt to be private before putting it into the record, and agreed to exclude those portions which are not relevant to

Junk food receives stay

WASHINGTON (AP) - Due to a delay in drafting government regulations, students will be able to buy junk foods before lunchtime in their school buildings this fall, the Agriculture Department says. But the luxury won't last forever.

The department previously announced that starting with the new term, popular snack foods would be banned until after the last lunch period.

But officials said Wednesday that drafting problems will delay the rules until next spring or the fall.

The department will prohibit sale of candy, soda water, frozen desserts or chewing gum until lunch periods are finished. The four-fifths of the nation's schools that participate in the national school lunch program must comply.

MEDICO volunteers face grim realities

By CYNTHIA STEVENS

NEW YORK (AP) - American doctors who volunteer to train physicians in Third World hospitals often find themselves caught in a time

For one thing, their sophisticated expertise sometimes has little relation to the medical reality in developing nations, where nutrition, water supply and sanitation problems aggravate already poor health stan-dards, said Dr. Robert S. Siffert, director of orthopedics at Mount Sinai Hospital here.

To narrow the gap, Siffert said that CARE-MEDICO decided to restructure its self-help development projects abroad to incorporate a basic concept of health care at the village

MEDICO is the medical service of CARE, a non-profit, private agency established after World War II to provide food to destitute Europeans. CARE later developed partnership programs with poor nations and emergency disaster relief services.

In the 20 years since MEDICO's founding, English-speaking doctors have donated — at their own expense - 2,128 service months overseas, CARE said. These volunteers, like Siffert, rotate for a month or two onto a hospital staff in another country, where a permament MEDICO staff has established a teaching program.

Siffert, a volunteer in Tunisia, Afghanistan and Indonesia, said MEDICO is a vehicle for Americans, as well as Canadians and Australians, to train doctors in countries that have

"We have to take our expertise and deliver it," the orthopedic surgeon said, adding that the hospital-based training program will continue to be important in the overall delivery of primary health services.

"Our objective is to go into a country and teach them how to carry out the objective," the 60-year-old Siffert explained. He emphasized that MED-ICO gets involved only in stable nations where governments support it. He cautioned, however, that the visiting doctors "can't always be helpful," because they often have never seen some of the diseases they

"We have to really shift gears to the U.S. 50 to 75 years ago," Siffert said in explaining that polio, tuberculosis and certain infections still pose problems for developing nations.

At the same time, the North American doctors are familiar with diseases like arthritis, which for environmental and cultural reasons are not problems in Africa, South America and Asia.

The doctors also are confronted with cultural values that affect medical standards, the orthopedist said. For example, in some countries "a deformed child is a plus" when it is believed he has taken all the evils into his body to protect other members of the family. He also can help his family by earning money as a beggar.

Early safety play assures your slam

We continue a week-long study of safety plays with a maneuver that guarantees the contract at the possi-ble cost of a trick. Except in a pair tournament you don't mind reducing your chance for an extra 30 points if you can assure a slam.

If you lead dummy's queen of diamonds at the second trick you will make an overtrick whenever East has K-x of diamonds or whenever West has the singleton ten.

Unfortunately, you will go down if West has all four diamonds, as in today's hand. Once you have led an honor from dummy you must lose two diamond tricks. This may happen only once in 20 hands, but when it does happen your partner throws a temper tantrum; and even the opponents although happy at the outcome, think

Judge denies pleas to 'unplug' boy, 12

DEDHAM, Mass. (AP) — A judge ruled Wednesday that a comatose 12year-old boy must remain connected to life-support equipment despite a petition from his father to unplug him.

Norfolk County Probate Court Judge Jeremiah Sullivan claimed that evidence was not conclusive that the brain of Louis Stone was dead. He had been in a coma since July 2 when struck in the heart by a BB accidentally shot by his father. The boy is at Goddard Memorial Hospital in Stoughton.

The father, Neville Stone, 49, said Monday he wanted the boy removed from devices keeping him breathing. He switched from testimony July 26 in which he had pleaded with the judge

It's all there in the left-on-base statistics: El Paso 1, Midland 9.

The Diablos made the most of their opportunities while the Cubs wallowed in the despair of squandered scoring chances as El Paso took a 2-1 edge in the series, 7-3, and inched to 5

Even more pressing was the men-ace of second-place San Antonio, only a half game out of the lead in the Texas League West Division after a 3-1 win over Amarillo in another key game Wednesday.

The nines resume hostilities tonight with Manager Jim Saul calling on Herman Segelke, 7-6, to keep the wolves at bay while Manager Moose Stubing will go with Dave Steck, 10-

OUTSIDE OF the first inning, all of El Paso's rallies and all of its runs came after the first two batters had been retired. The damaging blows were home runs by Stan Cliborn, his fourth, a three-run belt in the fourth, and a solo homer by Scott Moffitt, his eighth, in the sixth.

Midland, meanwhile, huffed and puffed, double plays twice shutting off promising rallies and Chuck Porter's ability to come up with the crucial strikeout snuffing out other Midland

El Paso took a 2-0 lead in the first when lefthander George Riley, 4-2, walked lead off batter Bob Slater, Orlando Ramirez doubled, Bob Clark singled to left for one run and Ramirez scored on Bill Ewing's grounder to short.

The Diablos made it 3-0 in the third when, with two out, Clark rattled the boards in center for a double and Ewing singled home the run. It was on Clark's hit that centerfielder Joe Hernandez reinjured his ankle, which ultimately could be a more serious blow than Wednesday's loss.

Riley fanned the side in the fourth, but after the second strikeout made the mistake of issuing walks to Moffitt and Terry Stupy, whereupon Cliborn made him pay the price with a homer to left that just barely stayed fair and brought a howl from the fans.

Two were also out when Moffitt homered in the sixth.

TRAILING 6-0, Midland threatened in the fourth when Eric Grandy singled, stole second and then was caught in a rundown on Kevin Drury's grounder back to the box. Gary Krug then boomed a triple to left-center and scored on Greg Keatley's bounc-ing single to left. However, Porter, who is 5-1 against Midland over the last two seasons, got Jim Tracy to rap into a 3-6-3 DP.

It was more of the same in the fifth when Brian Rosinski opened with a single and Kurt Seibert walked, but Steve Macko's grounder to second was turned into a twin-killing and Javier Fierro lined out to left.

More frustration in the sixth when Grandy's leadoff double gave promise of a big inning, especially when Drury followed with a single to right to plate the run. Drury stole second and after Krug popped out, Keatley walked, but again Porter was equal to the challenge, getting Tracy and Ro-sinski on strikes. In the seventh a walk to Macko and Grandy's third hit also went for naught.

Although he needed ninth inning relief help from Charlie Phillips, Porter notched his eighth win in 12 deci-

Riley, who had won his first four starts after arriving from Wichita, was pinned with his second loss in a row. Larry Groover faced only nine batters in three innings of relief and the only fault that could be found was that it was wasted in a loss.

Dan Pastorini Fryman is hot, ready after beats Giants 1-0 acupuncture

By The Associated Press

The thermometer was at 90 degrees. Vida Blue was throwing his best heat. But Montreal's Woodie Fryman was the hottest player of all in Olympic Stadium.

Fryman hurled a one-hitter Wednesday night, surrendering only a single by Darrell Evans in the second inning and facing only 28 batters as the Expos edged the San Francisco Giants 1-0. The loss dropped the Giants out of a tie for first place in the National League West with Los Angeles, which beat Philadelphia 5-2. "You have to put weather out of your mind," said Fryman, who pitched in similar weather in Atlanta July 30 and won in a 19-0 slaughtering of the Braves. "I must have lost at least 10 pounds tonight, but I lost 12 pounds that game.

"What I want to know is why I don't get 19 runs every game.' The Expos were glad to get one against Blue, who threw a three-hitter. Larry Parrish's fourth-inning triple scored Tony Perez, who singled, with the lone run.

"I knew Vida would be tough," noted Fryman. "This was an excellent game all the way."

Fryman walked two, both of whom were erased on double plays, and struck out four. Blue walked four and struck out eight. "I don't know if it's the toughest loss I've had this year," said Blue, a 16-game winner. "A pitcher usually is more frustrated losing a close game like this than one where we get bombed. "It's bad for our team because we're in a tight race. We're a young team and a lot of guys are experiencing this pennant race fever for the first time. It wasn't the first time Fryman had experienced a one-hitter. He had one against the Mets on May 3, 1975. "I had good control with the slider and I didn't throw anything in the middle of the plate," analyzed Fry-tion.

"If they compare me with Drysdale in 10 years, it will be all right," noted Welch.

With men on second and third and "Now at All DRUG COUNTERS"

Danny Ozark ordered Davey Lopes walked intentionally and the move backfired when Smith hit his grand slam one out later.

Pirates 13, Reds 2 Dave Parker smashed two homers and knocked in five runs for the Pirates and John Candelaria won his first game in over a month.

Parker, who now has 23 home runs for the season, has hit six homers in his last seven games. His two-run shot moved the Pirates in front in the first against Cincinnati ace Bill Bonham, 9-3, then Bill Robinson slammed a three-run homer in the fifth and Parker added his second round-tripper in the seventh.

Candelaria, 9-11, had missed two weeks with a sore elbow and had lost three in a row with meager run sup-port before that. He left the game

CINCINNATI (AP) - Former All-Pro safety Tommy Casanova, who recently retired after six National Football League seasons with the Cincinnati Bengals, says players ate amphetamines like candy during his college days at Louisiana State Uni-

Casanova, 10 months from graduating from medical school, made the remarks Tuesday in a copyrighted interview with Tom Callahan, a columnist for Combined News Service.

He later told The Associated Press that the practice of distributing pep pills in pro football and college ranks is not as widespread now as it was a few years ago.

"We were given little pills. Evidently, everyone in the NCAA was doing that. I didn't know what they were. 'Here, good luck,' they'd say. We took them like candy," he said in the article.

Casanova, who played at LSU between 1968 and 1971, said "football is a game where, if you can't take the pain, you can't play."

He said he stopped taking the pep pills when his father, a physician, discovered they were being used.

Push to beef up Cubs farm system paying off

One of Bob Kennedy's primary objectives when he became general manager of the Chicago Cubs two winters ago was to strengthen the farm system.

His cause for concern is reflected in the present state of the Chicago Cubs' roster. Ignoring the pitching, where the organization has been productive, only one player on the non-pitching segment of the major league roster, Ed Putman, a No. 1 draft choice out of the University of Southern California in 1973, has advanced through the system.

Although some like Joe Wallis Julio Gonzalez and Pete LaCock are playing in the majors with other teams, Putman represents the lone contribution by the farm system since Midland became a member of the Cubs family back in 1972.

THAT HAS to be discouraging not only to Chicago, which shows no return for its investment in development, but for the players currently laboring in the obscurity of the lower leagues.

Up until now, their only hope has been that someone somewhere else might take note of their skills and turn in a favorable report which might lead to another club taking a gamble. In other words, their main hope to reach the big tent was as one of those "minor league players to be named later" in one of those multiple swaps.

BOBBY ADAMS, one time Midland Cubs president and now an instructor in the organization, feels that may be about to change. Kennedy's emphasis on strengthening the minor league structure, which began with the addition of a second A club last year, is beginning to pay dividends

"I don't think this team at Midland is any accident," says Bobby, who spends the summer working with the young players. "Last year, Bradenton (Rookie League) was in the pennant race until the last four days. Pompano Beach (Florida State League) was in it until the final four days. Geneva (New York-Pa.) had a chance until the final eight days. Midland and Wichita both went down to the final few days of the season before losing Midland, as a matter of fact, had a chance in both halves, right up until the final series.

"THIS YEAR we're doing even better," reports the onetime major league infielder. "Bradenton is leading by two games, Pompano is a couple of games out in front and Geneva is four or five games up. Midland, of course, is fighting for the Texas League pennant. Only Wichita, which started well, is out of its race. I think we have some fine young prospects in the Rookie and A leagues. I think you'll see some good players coming through here in the next few years."

When you come to think of it, the Cubs organization isn't a bad place to be for a youngster with ambition. A look at the major league roster will tell you that. From here, there isn't a position on the team that can't be improved upon, even though the Cubs are in the National League East Division pennant race.

It's not like a few years ago when a young prospect looked at the big club and saw some pretty formidable hands in front of

Billingham Detroit's golden boy

By The Associated Press

Jack Billingham was once the golden arm of the Cincinnati Reds. Now he's the golden boy of the Detroit Traded last March to the Tigers in the wave of a youth movement at Cincinnati, the classy pitcher has proved so far this season that he's still got a winning right arm.

It's provided him with some solid performances, like Wednesday night's seven-hit, 2-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians. That was Billingham's 13th triumph of the season and fourth shutout in his last six games. He's not surprised at all with his admirable 13-5 record.

"I really got myself together this winter," said Billingham. "I spent a lot of time working on my changeup.

It's made a big difference this year. "When I went to spring training I knew I could pitch, but I didn't know for how long. Now I know I can pitch next year.'

Apparently the Reds gave up on Billingham too soon. A team in need of pitching, Cincinnati traded the onetime 20-game winner to the Tigers in exchange for two minor league prospects, pitcher George Cappuzzello and outfielder John Valle.

"They gave up on me because they had to make a move, I guess," said Billingham. "A lot of us were getting old. They had a few young pitchers to bring up.

David Clyde pitched a strong game for Cleveland, giving up but seven hits, but the Tigers scored lone runs in the first and third innings.

Ron LeFlore opened the Tiger first with a single and scored on a two-out double by Steve Kemp. LeFlore also led off the third with a single and he later scored on a sacrifice fly by Rusty Staub.

Yankees 5, A's 3 Bucky Dent hit his fourth home run of the year, a leadoff shot in the seventh inning, to break a 3-3 tie and trigger New York and surging Catfish Hunter over Oakland.

Hunter, 7-4, won his fifth game since coming off the disabled list on July 17. The veteran right-hander worked six innings, allowing seven hits. Sparky Lyle and Rich Gossage provided strong relief pitching to lock up the game for the Yankees.

Mariners 7, Orioles 5 Leon Roberts drove in five runs with a two-run homer in the first inning and a three-run shot in the fafth to lead Seattle over Baltimore.

Roberts, acquired from House in an off-season trade, registered his 19th and 20th home runs of the year, both coming with two outs. Pat Kelly blasted two homers for the losers.

Red Sox 4, Angels 2

Three California errors in the ninth inning enabled Boston to score a pair of unearned run's without a hit to beat the Angels and Nolan Ryan. The rally allowed Luis Tiant, 9-5, to post his 200th career victory.

Rafael Vasquez struck out 10 Tulsa Drillers and gave up only five hits as he pitched the Shreveport Captains to a 6-3 Texas League baseball victory over the Drillers Wednesday night.

In other Texas League action, El Paso beat Midland, 7-3, San Antonio edged Amarillo, 3-1, and Arkansas blasted Jackson, 7-1.

A two-run homer by Dick Walterhouse gave the Captains the lead in the fourth inning. It was Walterhouse's 13th homer. Mark Rhea had his first homer for Shreveport in the sixth inning. Kelly Snider's 12th home run of the season and four errors by the Amarillo Gold Sox helped the San Antonio Dodgers edge Amarillo, 3-1. Rick Sander, now 8-10, was the winning pitcher. John Yandle, now 4-8, was the loser

Jim Riggleman drove in four runs and Ray Donaghue gave up only three hits as Arkansas beat Jackson, 7-1. Donaghue, now 2-3, went the distance and Riggleman drove in his runs with a single and two sacrifice flies. Leon Durham also aided the Travelers cause with three hits and two RBIs. Losing Mets pitcher Larry Prewitt, 9-5, was the loser.

After nearly three months of negotiations between the two National Baskethall Association teams, McGinnis officially became a member of the Denver Nuggets Wednesday. To get him, the Nuggets shipped 6-foot-9 forward Bobby Jones, a de-fensive specialist, and 6-5 guard Rolah Con-

Ralph Simpson to the Wers. McGinnis, a 6-8, 235-por forward, has averaged 23.5 points and 12.2 rebounds in seven pro seasons. He is expect-ed to fill the role of the power forward which Denver has been

Ali expects to redeem defeat, make history

AP Special Correspondent DEER LAKE, Pa. (AP) — Muhammad Ali confesses that the thoughts roll around in his head like a stuck phonograph needle: "Four more weeks .. four more weeks .. just four more weeks."

"Just four more weeks and I don't have to run until I feel like throwing up, don't have to worry about craving candy and cake and not being able to have it, don't have to take no more punches in the gut," the former heav-yweight champion said as he reclined on a leather couch after one of his strenuous workouts.

"Four more weeks and I can take off for a month. I can make a movie. I can do endorsements. And I can start a new organization which I am going to call 'The World.' "Four more weeks .. "

THERE IS NO question that the two-time heavyweight champion of the world is a man fired with a purpose. It seethes from every pore in his glistening copper-colored body. It shows in his steely eyes. It resounds with every punch he throws at a bag or a sparmate. It radiates sparks with every word he utters.

"Two different men will be fighting in New Orleans Sept. 15," he said, referring to his return bout with Leon Spinks and leaving little doubt that he expects to redeem his humiliating defeat at the hands of the boxing youngster six months ago.

Members of the Ali entourage, staked out in this log cabin retreat on the fringe of the Pocono Mountains, insists that "The Champ," as he still is called, never has worked harder or been more serious and intent.

Running three miles before break-fast, chopping logs and going through brisk gym workouts every day, Ali has trimmed down to 221 pounds and promises to be hard as nails at the sound of the opening bell.
"I been fighting so long, it gets boring," he said, reminiscing on his turbulent boxing career. "Chuck Wepner .. Joe Bugner .. Jean-Pierre Coopman. Foreigners, fighters out of the ghettos, young kids just out of the Olympics. Nobody to really challenge me. Sometimes I feel bad beating up

"Look at my history, I always got to have something to get me pepped up. Something special. A mission impos-sible. Like Hank Aaron doing the impossible and Reggie Jackson in the

"NOW I GOT a chance to be the first and only fighter in history to win the heavyweight title three times. That's something special. That's worth working for.'

Ali has been so somber and de-tached with his thoughts that his training camp has lost its usual bombast and excitement.

Tuesday, five busloads of underprivileged children from New York rolled into Ali's wooded retreat. Normally, Ali, who likes kids, would have put on a wild show. Instead, he went through his routines like a monk.

Ali said his loss to Spinks, a raw youngster just out of the Olympics, had not left him embittered. It may have been a blessing, he admitted, adding, "Now I can make real his-

The ex-champion admitted that he went into the Spinks fight uninspired, untrained and uninterested.

"IT WAS WINTER," he explained. "It was too cold to train. I didn't box for four weeks. I ate at restaurants on junk food. When I shifted to Las Vegas, I didn't have any mountains to climb or logs to cut. Who was this guy, Spinks? I had nothing to fight for.

"All through the fight, I was talking, hanging on and kidding. I didn't want to fight. I had no urge. When I lost, I didn't whine and protest the way Ken Norton and Jimmy Young did about their fights with me. I'm glad both got beat.

"I'm not old. I knew I could come back. Spinks got a false ego 'cause he beat a fat, out-of-training Ali. He can't be better next time. He dresses up in pretty clothes, drives big limousines, wears big diamonds and has parties. He's not hungry any more, but I am. He may not know it - he's meeting an Ali twice as good as the one he fought before."

Muhammad Ali frowns for the benefit of the camera during a news conference at his Deer Lake, Pa., training camp. Ali told newsmen that the thought "...just four more weeks," rolls around in his head like a stuck phonograph needle. The four weeks, of course, refers to the Sept. 15 date he has with Leon Spinks in New Orleans. (AP Laserphoto).

Whitfield knows about strong-willed owners. He broadcast Washington Senators games for two seasons while the club was struggling under owner Bob Short to make ends meet in the nation's capital. When the club moved to Texas, Whitfield stayed home and wrote a book about his experiences, "Kiss It Goodbye."

As the result of the book and an extensive investigation by the Federal Communications Commission, television and radio stations are now required to broadcast a disclaimer if the announcers are hired or approved by anyone other than the station. That doesn't guarantee an impartial broadcast by any means but it does put the unwary fan on notice.

"SHORT WAS A real hard-sell guy. His philosophy was to push those season tickets. He'd want you to tell the fans they better support the club or they'll lose it. He'd want no criticism. You don't mention slumps or negative streaks. And if the club strikes out 14 times in a game you had to play up the downplay the errors.

"And weather was one of the keys," says Whitfield. "If it was bad weather he didn't want you to mention that because it might be good weather in outlying areas."

Whitfield believes that owners who try to use the airwaves as their personal property are less prevalent these days. And there is less interference with games on the networks, of course, because they are not particularly beholden to any one club. ABC gets top honors here, having made strides in the area of broadcasters rights by insisting on hiring its own announcers without approval from

But local broadcasters remain vulnerable to the whims of their employers. Whitfield recalls an interview he had with Red Barber, the former Dodger and Yankee broadcaster, a couple of years ago. "Red said, 'I don't know of a baseball club which doesn't control its broadcasters. If the club doesn't want you, you can't get or hold onto a job.'

Bobick KOs Thompkins

NANUET, N.Y. (AP) — Heavy-weight contender Duane Bobick landed a series of punishing body blows followed by a right hook to the cheek of Jerry Thompkins en route to a controversial second-round knockout Wednesday night.

Thompkins appeared to get up when referee Joe Santarpia's count hit 10, but Santarpia ruled that Thompkins' glove was still on the canvas at the end of the count and the fight was over in 2:22.

The knockout was the 36th of Bobick's five-year career and lifted his record to 42-2. Ranked ninth by the World Boxing Association, the 27-year-old Bowlus, Minn., native is in the first stages of a comebck under new management.

It was his second fight under manager Dave Wolf and trainer Murray Griffith since splitting with Joe Frazier and Eddie Fuch.

Bobick dominated the fight with body blows and short combinations while Thompkins, now 12-8, was knocked out for only the second time in his career.

In the co-feature, welterweight Johnny Turner of New York knocked out Charlie Benjamin of Hartford, Conn., at 1:50 of the third round, seconds after a butt opened a large cut over Turner's left eye which later required six stitches. In six-round preminaries, Rufus

Miller of Patterson, N.J., scored a unanimous decision over Jesse Rogers of Bridgeport, Conn.; Johnny Blaine of Bridgeport, Conn., had a unanimous decision over Haitian heavyweight champion Serge Rodriguez and Willie Stallings Freeport, N.Y., had a TKO over Jose Derdejo of Springfield, Mass.

Or, as Hrabosky suggests, did a character he calls the "Mad Hungarian" take hold of him four years ago and create a menacing, effective pitcher out of a guy who just spelled his name funny?

Opposing hitters themselves aren't

That was one of the messages imparted by the first offering to Cox. "I was really pumped up that day," he said. "It was a new club and a new league, and I just couldn't stand the thought of anybody saying, 'He's all washed up."

Nobody is saying he's washed up. But there will probably always be disagreement as to whether the Mad Hungarian is an entity or an act. Perhaps it is both, a delicate balance of fantasy and reality.

AS JIM RICE SAYS: "Who cares? It works, doesn't it?"

As Hrabosky once said, "I used to think about the ways a pitcher can get a mental edge on a batter. You really can't throw at batters any more. The umpires have stopped that. A big, strong guy like Don Drysdale could do it with his side-arm delivery."

"But what about a 5-foot-11 guy, who's really five-nine?'

Old hit songs still bringing in money

By ALEXANDER AUERBACH The Los Angeles Times

HOLLYWOOD — It has been a long time since "Born Free" was on any of the record industry's list of hot tunes. Nevertheless, the 1966 song is one of thousands still making money for their authors and composers. The money comes in a few pennies at a time, but last year the publishing end of the music business added about $500 million to the industry's

While record companies generally concentrate on promoting singers or musicians - "artists", in the industry's vocabulary - the publishing companies generate their income from the lyrics and melodies themselves, not the stars who sing them. "Essentially our business is exploiting the copyright," says Barry Kimmelman, executive vice president of Screen Gems EMI Inc., one of the industry's largest publishing firms.

Years ago, Kimmelman explains, songs generally were created by lyricists and composers, and then lar artist write their own material, and get their share of publishing income as well as royalties on sales of their recordings. Even so, however, it is the written work that the publishing companies market.

There are three major sources of revenue for a company like Screen Gems, Kimmelman explains. The first is known as "mechanical income," which is the fee paid by a record company for each song (that is, one side of a single or one cut on an album) manufactured and sold. This fee is set by statute, and was increased last January to 2.75 cents per song from its long-established level of two cents.

Thus, if a single is a million seller, and the writer has a song on one side of the disc, the mechanical income would be $27,500, split equally between the writer and the publishing company.

"It's not exactly a fortune, but if the single does that well the same song would probably appear on an album, and that might sell another million, so there would be $27,500 more," Kimmelman explains.

"Then we try to get other artists to 'cover' to song," he cotinues. Once a song has been released, anyone else is free to make their own recording of it - that is, to "cover" it - if the appropriate royalties are paid to the copyright owner.

"After Barbra Streisand did 'The Way We Were,' a whole bunch of other artists and orchestras covered the song, resulting in a lot of additional mechanical income," he says. "Our job as a publishing company is to get as many plays as we can out of a song, to get as many people as possible to cover it.' A second source of revenues is performance income, received when a song is played on radio or TV, or performed live. Writers generally join one of two trade organizations, Broadcast Music Inc. (BMI) or the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) and receive performance income through them. BMI and ASCAP collect annual fees from broadcasters, night clubs, and concert halls and divide these fees among their member writers and those writers' publishers.

The division is based on an estimate of a song's popularity and frequency of performance, and is often a subject of lively negotiation. ASCAP and BMI use different, but equally complex, ways of computing a writer's split, and each may offer advances against future income as an enticement for a writer to sign with it rather than the competing organiza-

An industry rule of thumb is that the performance income for a reasonably successful tune can be expected to equal at least 50 percent of the mechanical income. Hit tunes that get air play on radio stations around the country sometimes generate performance fees almost equal to the mechanical Promotion is as important in music publishing as it is in the record business. Screen Gems has a small but fully equipped recording studio where it can, using studio musicians and singers, make a demonstration tape or record of a writer's song, so it can send these around to well-known performers, hoping to get their interet in recording it themselves.

We send both a recording and the lead sheet (sheet music) because a lot of performers can't read music," Kimmelman says.

The firm will also produce long-playing records of a number of its most popular songs and give these away to radio stations.

"The record companies don't mind, because it keeps their artists and songs alive, and when the songs are played our writers earn performance income," he explains.

There are other sources of income a publishing company can pursue. A TV show or film may use a song on its soundtrack, in return for a negotiated "synchronization fee." When songs are used by broadcasters, performers or sheet music publishers abroad, foreign affiliates of American publishing companies collect the appropriate fees.

Although the revenues from an individual tune

may not be as staggering in the publishing field as they are for a record company when that song is a hit, publishers often do better in the long run, Kimmelman says.

Midland Youth Center chatter

By JANE FORSYTH; CECILY SHULL and VALERIE VAN PELT

Hello Bulldogs! Well, we hope you had a great summer because it is almost over, and here we are writing our first Chatter. The three of us are very excited about writing the '78-'79 Chatter, and we hope you will enjoy reading our column.

We would like to extend our warmest welcome to two new members of the MHS administrative faculty. Mr. Jack Stone is our new head principal, and serving as one of our assistant principals is Mr. Leonard Monroe. We have regretfully lost Mr. Stan Cobb to another administrative position. However, we are pleased that Mr. Glenn Hixon will still be with us at

As the summer comes to an end, many back-to-school activities are being planned. Bullpups (that's you, Sophomores!) and your parents are invited to MHS Orientation. You will learn about school clubs and you may even learn your way around the building. This important meeting is to be held Aug. 24 at 7 p.m. in the auditorium. After orientation, a reception will be held for you and your parents at the Youth Center.

Sophomores, here is your chance to purchase your Youth Center membership card. The cost of a YC card is $7, and well worth the price because many privileges are included: a special place to eat lunch, discount prices for dances and other activities, and a place to meet your friends. Be sure to buy your membership card as soon as possible! Juniors and seniors also need to purchase a '78-'79 membership card because starting Sept. 11, no one will be allowed in the Youth Center without a membership. Cards

In keeping with the tradition of Bulldogs roasting their opponents, the Bulldogs will have a football barbecue Saturday, Aug. 26 at 6 p.m. Come on out to Midland Memorial Stadium and meet the fighting Bulldogs and their coaches. This event is a great way to kick off a winning season!

Following the barbecue will be a back-to-school dance sponsored by the Youth Center. The music begins at 9 p.m., and you can dance to the new attraction, Bulldog Disco! If you purchase a membership card, you will be admitted free of charge. The cost of admission, however, will be $2 if you do not have a card. Be sure to come and say "Howdy" to our new principals at the back-to-school dance.

Once we get back to school, many important activities take place. Junior Varsity cheerleader elections will be held Sept. 6. All sophomores who are thinking of running for cheerleader need to keep this date in mind. Junior and senior class officer elections are also slated for Sept. 6.

The first Jr. Council meeting for the '78-'79 school year is set for next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Attendance is a must, and Rasco will check roll. Plans for the Orientation reception 'are on the agenda. At the beginning of school, all council members need to work during their lunch period until a schedule can

Be sure to mark these important dates on your calendars, Bulldogs! Come by and see the many improvements which have been made at the Youth Center to keep it on top!

Until next week, Jane, Cecily, and Valerie

DR. NEIL SOLOMON On sun glasses

Dear Dr. Solomon: I'd like to know what sun glasses give you the kind of real protection you need out on a place like a beach. There are so many kinds to choose from that I'm sort of confused-and I do need a new pair. Also when should you wear sun glasses, and when shouldn't you? Can you wear them with contacts?-Betty

Dear Betty: First of all, unless you have some special eye problem, you don't really need any protection for your eyes on a beach. The eye has very effective mechanisms for adapting to bright light. For one thing, the pupil contracts. For another, the visual pigment in the back of the eye changes, depending on the light level.

However, if you're more comfortable with sun glasses, by all means wear them. Here are some tips from Dr. David L. Guyton, a Johns Hopkins ophthalmologist.

-Polarized glasses are good at cutting down glare from horizontal surfaces like water or roads, so they can be useful driving or at the beach.

-If you wear contacts, you can simply use non-prescription sun glasses over them. Most contact lenses have some tint—for looks, or to help locate them if they fall on the floor. But it isn't enough to provide a sun glasses effect.
—Some people are afraid they can damage their eyes with cheap sun glasses. No glasses can cause permanent harm. They may produce strain or a headache, but this will go away once you stop using

-Most sun glasses today are free of distortion. Price differences are usually due to the frames rather than a better quality lens. You can check for distortion by holding the glasses about a foot from your eyes and looking at something with vertical and horizontal lines like a door. Move the glasses up and down and sideways to see that the lines don't wiggle. —A neutral or grey tint, which doesn't alter color perception, is a good idea, although this is a matter of personal preference. Very dark lenses, of course, cut down on visual sharpness.

-Don't wear sun glasses driving at night. They impair your judgment of distance and of roadway

-Don't wear sun glasses indoors. This gets to be a habit, and you may become dependent on them more and more out of doors.

Dear Dr. Solomon: If a child has received gamma globulin should he or she receive the measles vaccine?-Mrs. N.D. Dear Mrs. N.D.: Not for at least three months. However, he or she should then be vaccinated.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

TOMAHAWK, Ark. (AP) — Noah's mom feared it might not last, and didn't attend the wedding. But Noah Barnett and Mary have been married 79 years now. They have 151 grand-children to prove his mother wrong.

Her objection to Noah's marriage was his age.

"You should marry at 36, a man ain't boss until he gets to that age, he ain't got enough sense to boss a woman before then," Noah remem-bered his mother saying.

But Noah said that he had been in love with Mary from the age of 5 when he saw her playing in a barn. "She was the prettiest girl I ever saw, and was wearing pair of red tap boots with bright copper toes. Her hair was braided and hung down to her waist."

So on February, 2, 1899, the year the Spanish American war ended, Noah and Mary were married here in Tom-ahawk. They were both 19.

Today, they spend their hours quietly together in the frame house they built 71 years ago on their 40-acre Arkansas farm within sight of Pilot Mountain.

Holding hands often, they are making modest plans for their 80th wedding anniversary next year.

The Barnett's have five children, ranging in age from 66 to 78. The couple love to talk about their life

"We've been married almost 100 years and never had a quarrel," said the 98-year-old Noah.

His formula to prevent angry words? "Don't say nothing when an argument starts. Just turn around and walk off by yourself, saying there ain't nothing to get mad about, that she didn't mean no harm. Stay outside a little while, then just come back like nothing ever happened," Noah said.

The day begins at 7 a.m. Breakfast is supervised by their 72-year-old daughter Dorothy. At mid-morning they have a short nap, then lunch and another afternoon nap. By 7 p.m. they are in bed after an evening snack of ice cream.

The couple love to recall their courting days. Mary was born in 1879, the year Thomas Edison invented the electric light, and Noah was born a few months later.

At the local Methodist church one Christmas, Noah pinned a large candy heart on the tree with Mary's name on it. In school they wrote poems and notes to each other using code numbers instead of letters.

"Early one morning I went to alone," Noah recalled during a recent interview. "She ran out to the porch and gave me a hug, and I tell you that was the sweetest hug I ever got... Everytime I would see her I wanted her a little worse than before. She just kept getting prettier all the time. Even now she is pretty, not to you, I suppose. But to me she is."

Noah says with pride: "I have never smoked, chewed tobacco, been drunk or arrested. We have lived on these 40 acres all of our lives and have been out of the state only once for only an afternoon, across the border in Missouri.

"We have Really never been out of sight of Pilot Mountain all our

Carter still has lots of friends

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) - Never mind polls showing most Americans think Jimmy Carter is fumbling the presi-dency and wish he wouldn't run

Jimmy still has lots of friends. Good friends. Very close friends. And he doesn't mind telling you about them. Carter has such a habit of calling public officials his friends that magazine reporter Sara Fitzgerald began

She found more than 50 instances in which Carter used phrases such as "my good friend," or "a very close friend" to describe public officials.

Word of the article seems to have reached Carter. It was mentioned in a White House summary of magazine articles, and was summarized also in a widely read gossip column. But it didn't slow down Carter. Much. In an interview with visiting magazine editors Carter spoke of his

It began when Carl P. Leubsdorf, of the Baltimore Sun, wrote about a group of reporters for little-known publications who attend the daily White House news briefings.

Leubsdorf said a series of the briefings "have turned into near-circuses. mainly by the questions and posturing of a handful of people who have often seemed to be more interested in making ideological points than in obtaining news.'

Among those mentioned were John M. Szostak, a Polish-American reporter who writes for about 60 foreign-language papers in the United States, Canada and England, and Carl H. Knuemann of Washington Briefs News Service.

Leubsdorf said both reporters were among those present at a briefing where the questioning was particularly absurd, and said Szostak "often asks obscure questions about ethnic subjects."

Both sued for the maximum $750. Szostak said in court papers, "This article has damaged my professional credability (sic) by being made out as a fool and idiot for asking obscure questions about ethnic subjects."

Szostak misspelled the word "credibility."

Trials are set for next month. Szostak says he has little hope of winning, but believes the suit will cause enoug trouble for Leubsdorf that "he'll think twice before he does it again."

Jody Powell, the temporarily reformed chain-smoker, says he's still off cigarettes.

"I'm doing okay on the cigarettes, but not on the weight," the presiden-tial press secretary told a small group of reporters, patting a stomach that was not noticeably larger than when he quit three weeks ago.

Powell said he even made it through last weekend without a cigar. He initially weaned himself from cigarettes to cigars, which he doesn't

NASA engineer changes to new terrifying job

By CRAIG MACDONALD Copley News Service

Dean Schallen gets paid to scare people.

And he has been doing it to millions of Americans for the past 20 years.

What this former design engineer for NASA and Lockheed Space and Missiles does is develop some of the scariest roller coasters around, the latest being the terrifying Tidal Wave at Marriott's Great America Park in Santa Clara, Calif.

He makes sure they have enough sharp turns, high speeds and unusual twists to send scared riders home to tell their friends.

While still an engineer on satellites, missiles and jets in the 1960s, Schallen began moonlighting as a thrill seeker for Arrow Development Co., major suppliers of roller coaster and other amusement park rides.

"My job usually involved developing roller coaster speeds, geometry and methods of propulsion," said the engineer who is now a Marriott's Great America Park vice president.

"I was fascinated by these concepts since I rode the frightening Earthquake roller coaster on Santa Cruz' boardwalk as a kid.

"I was terrified of that coaster but used to ride it again and again for the thrill. People really want to be scared on a roller coaster. That's why I work hard not to disappoint them. In some of our rides we combine speeds (up to 55 mph); loops (where riders go upside down) and unusual angles (that will leave most hanging on to their seats)."

Schallen said it is quite a challenge to take a roller coaster concept and bring it into reality. He worked with others in developing concepts used on some coasters at Marriott's Great America, Disneyland (Matterhorn and Space Mountain) and nearby Knott's Berry Farm (Flume Ride). The engineer said that from $500,000 to $800,000 was used over a two or three year period in the development of Marriott's famed coaster.

The ride consists of a 28 passenger train that is rushed around a loop to a speed of 55 mph in just over four seconds by the hydraulic dropping of a 94,000 pound weight at the end of the track. The riders, after going around the loop, travel up a 142.5-foot tower, then come to a dead stop before repeating the entire trip in reverse.

"The Tidal Wave is my favorite coaster because it has so much power and takes place in just a few seconds," said the man who is sometimes paid to act and think like a kid. "I think the scariest part comes as the cars stop on the tower, then begin to roll backwards.

"I still have fun riding roller coasters but I don't get to do it very often. I have people who tested the Tidal Wave for two weeks prior to its being used by the public."

The Tidal Wave ride cost about $1.4 million before it was put into operation. Officials at Knott's Berry Farm admit that their new summer sensation — Montezuma's Revenge — was patterned after the Tidal Wave, although theirs has a 148-foot tower.

"All of the amusement-theme parks have a good relationship with one another," Schallen said. "Before one puts in a new coaster, they check out their competitors to see the good and bad points. They also exchange tips on maintenance."

Schallen said he is currently looking into the development of an old-fashioned wooden roller coaster, possibly with some new twists for Marriott's. California's first wooden coaster was at the Long Beach Pike in 1888, and it went all of 20 mph.

Bus systems runs afoul of federal rights officials

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - The Greater Hartford express bus system was born amid desires to cut pollution and traffic congestion by enticing suburbanites to abandon their cars for air-conditioned comfort.

But the system also discriminates against inner-city blacks and Hispanics by cutting them off from suburban jobs, the federal government says.

The U.S. Department of Transportation, which has provided Connecticut with $17 million in the past two years for the Hartford area bus service, has given the state until Sept. 15 to improve its commuter service for city residents.

City officials and a federal civil rights officer said the decision sets a national precedent for challenges of bus service oriented toward suburbto-city transit.

"First and most important, express bus service from Hartford to suburban job opportunities is poor or nonexistent, in contrast to the service available to suburban residents who commute to work in the city," said the decision by the agency's civil rights office.

As an example, the agency noted suburbanites can leave their cars in a parking lot in Enfield where they catch a commuter bus. But outwardbound commuters arriving at the lot are up to four miles from potential employers with no access to those jobs except by taxi.

In addition, there are 11 trips from Enfield to Hartford in the morning, but only two buses go from the city to

"The importance of this (order for) equality is enormous," said Deputy Mayor Nicholas Carbone, who brought the complaint. "Over the last 15 years a lot of the manufacturing and labor jobs have moved out of the city and are totally inaccessible to

"We will be able to break down the barriers that keep poor people locked in the cities and keep jobs away from

Carbone cited a state survey showing 49 percent of city residents registered with the unemployment office had no car or public-transit access to suburban jobs.

The civil rights office said that in 1976, the five largest employers in Hartford had 26,195 jobs, while the five biggest in the suburbs had 34,441 workers.

The federal report, noting 76 per-cent of the blacks and Hispanics in the region live in the city itself, said there are a total of 94 inbound express trips in the morning and only 28 outbound. In the evening, it said, there are 101 outbound trips and 33 back into the

While not intending to discriminate against minorities, the system has that effect, the decision said. That alone is grounds for corrective action under the 1964 Civil Rights Act, it

State Transportation Commission er James Shugrue said the delivery of 155 new buses this fall would help the state meet the deadline. He said that at no time was discrimination ever a

Current competency tests described as inadequate

By VERNON E. JORDAN JR. Copley News Service

Every so often educators get hooked on a new fad that's supposed to cure what ails public education. This year's panacea is something called the minimum competency test.

Essentially, that's a test that's supposed to measure whether a student can successfully perform basic arithmetic and reading skills. If such tests were only guides to student performance - signals to parents and teaches that children who do poorly in them need special help to master basic skills - then there would be little concern.

But that's not the way they're being used in many states. In Florida, for example, high school students who fail the test don't get their diplomas. Youngsters who went through 12 years of school then fail this one test are thus victimized by the very educational system that failed to teach them basic skills. The system didn't educate them, but it's the students who are penalized by deprival of the diploma.

Florida's test results point to another danger. Schools in higher income neighborhoods showed few children failing the tests. Schools in low-income and minority neighborhoods had high failure rates.

This indicates the real danger of such test for the black community; disproportionate numbers of black children will leave school without a diploma. Instead of being a tool for locating learning problems, the tests become a tool for sorting, sifting and labeling minority children as failures.

Like so many other supposedly "neutral" elements in our national life, competency tests work to the disadvantage of minorities. Black students are placed in a double bind. First the schools don't do a proper job of educating them, and then, even when they successfully complete their course of study, failing the one test results in loss of the diploma.

Simplistic reliance on competency tests is a political response to citizen concern about the schools' inadequacy. But despite the rhetoric by the test's supporters, there's little evidence that competency tests will result in better remedial programs or improved school accountability. Yes, schools may become geared to "teaching the test" at the expense of a broader education, but reducing educational experience to passing a single test makes a mockery of the educational process.

It doesn't have to be that way. Tests are all too often capricious, illconceived and culturally biased. But testing can be a useful tool to measure a student's mastery over subject matter. The purpose of a test shouldn't be to label the student; it should be a teaching guide to help instructors meet the individual needs of their students.

Thus, competency tests introduced in early grades, and used as tools to help teachers who believe in their pupils' potentials improve the education given children, have their place. Such tests are positive teaching tools, not mechanisms to label kids as failures or to track them into paths of failure and push them out of school.

Such tests should be within the content of intense parental involvement, in which the rights and responsibilities of parents are encouraged by school systems. Parents have the reponsibility to encourage success in school, to instill in their children respect for school and the desire to learn and to constantly encourage their children with high expectations.

They also have rights too often ignored by schools. Parents have the right to regular assessment of their children's performance, the right to expect their children to get instruction that maximizes their capabilities and remedies their weaknesses, and the right to hold schools accountable for educating their youngsters. .

sist of amendments to the permit offered to the Seadock consortium that terminated five years of effort March 31 after losing a majority of its financial backing for a facility 27 miles off the Texas coast from Free-

After Seadock folded, the authority was appointed to determined the feasibility of a state-owned terminal financed with revenue bonds without obligating the state's credit.

A resolution approved Wednesday took the initial steps toward sale of up to $1.2 billion in bonds once a construction permit is received.

Seadock started with a cost estimate of about $400 million but Jackson said the estimate now exceeds $800 million and that the $1.2 billion figure includes interest and a $50 million oil spill contingency fund.

Casey said there is no doubt the final overall cost will exceed $1.2 bil-

"It's bound to go higher with the escalation of costs," said the former Houston congressman.

Jackson said there is a "sense of urgency" in filing the amended application by Wednesday so the DOT's environmental study caff be done by the same firm that made a study of the Seadock application.

Casey said the amendments pris marily involve the financial and oper ational sections of the Seadock appli-

"We think we are going to have a fine amended application," he said. Jackson announced in July negotia-tions had been completed for the authority to acquire Seadock's engineering data for $11.1 million, about one-half the amount the consortium had spent before folding.

Rationing opposed

DALLAS (AP) - Texas gasoline distributors are opposed to any type of a rationing program that uses coupons, a spokesman for the Texas Oil Marketers Association said today.

Association president George Lokey of Amarillo appeared before a regional hearing held by the Department of Energy. He said he spoke for more than 700 members of the organization who supply petroleum products to more than two-thirds of the 18,000 service stations in Texas

"The comprehensive and complicated proposal that has been offered serves as the best argument against its own intro-duction," Lokey said in a statement prepared for the panel of DOE representatives.

Lokey reviewed a number of problems he said would be encountered by a coupon rationing program and said "this could be resolved by dropping the idea of rationing coupons and utilizing an allocation program similar to the current systemLwhereas the government could set the allocation fraction for a particular region of the country or on a national basis, as needed."

He also urged that the DOE "do everything possible to have these regulations completely drafted and understood by the pulic and the industry so that we would not have the disastrous, incomprehensible regulations that we had to live with when the Mandatory Allocation Program was first imposed during the shortage of 1973."

By DAVID ZINMAN

NEW YORK - Two months ago. swarms of motorcyclists descended on Albany, N.Y., seeking repeal of the state's mandatory helmet law. They listened raptly as one of their number spoke from the statehouse steps.

'Nobody is against wearing helmets," said A. Ronald Mackenzie. "But why should wearing or not wearing them be the concern of the law?" Hundreds roared approval. Though he won their applause, Mackenzie seemed as out of place as a De Soto in a carlot of Volkswagens. He is 50, a widely respected, Scottishborn physician, chief of urology at tal and a staff member of Memorial Hospital in New York City. But as national president of the Motorcycling Doctors Association, Mackenzie shares the younger bikers' enthusiasm for the open road and their distaste for mandatory helmet

Long Beach, (N.Y.) Memorial Hospi-

"Helmets save lives in some kinds of accidents," Mackenzie says. "But it is the element of compulsion that rubs me the wrong way. .

Mackenzie is a man of many faces. To his neighbors in Point Lookout, N.Y., he is a quiet but solid citizen, the father of three, an accomplished pianist and painter, a conservative in dress and politics. To his medical colleagues, he is a competent, no-nonsense clinican, an innovative researcher whose studies have been published in the nation's leading medical journals. But soon, Mackenzie will once again swap his doctor's white coat for his biker's brown leather jacket, boots, leather gauntlets, sunglasses and mandatory helmet. He will mount his black Suzuki Re-5 motorcycle, rev up and power off on a 2,500-mile, five-day ride to Billings, Mont. There, he will preside over the Aug. 26-27 annual convention of the Motoreycling Doctors Association, a small group he organized last year.

Mackenzie does not dispute the haz-No. 12 Edwin S. Mayer ards of motorcycling. Eighty to 90 percent of all reported motorcycle crashes result in injury or death, feet from west lines of lines of McMullen CSL while fewer than 10 percent of car accidents do. What motivates him - and the three dozen mostly middleaged physicians and dentists in the group - to devote themselves to a dangerous mode of travel usually associated with youngsters?

"It's in the blood," Mackenzie says,

a glint in his gray-green eyes, a trace of a burr in his voice. "I first rode a motorcycle as a teen-ager. It was about the most exhilarating thing I ever experienced. Some of that remains. . . It's a tremendous thing to flog the iron horse." The physician-dentist motorcyclists, Mackenzie said, want input with state legislators considering new motorcycle laws and fairer treatment of cyclists in court. "Many times, they are killed and motorists are let off with a slap on the wrist as if they killed someone of no use to society,

Mackenzie said. The group also wants to improve motorcycling safety, compile more accurate and meaningful accident statistics and upgrade the image of motorcyclists. The latter goal may be the most difficult. In a recent Newsday interview, a spokesman for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said of the cyclists who lobby for repeal of helmet laws: "Have you seen who they are? They are frightening. They are Hell's Angels and the dregs of society. They are appalling people - violent, crude. They pride themselve on their macho. It (fighting helmet laws) is a macho bit. . Mackenzie dismisses this characterization as "stupid and ill-informed." He says rowdy bikers constitute only a minute percentage of the nation's 10 million cyclists. "But," he admits, "our (medical) colleagues look at us (motorcycling doctors) askance. The public must understand that it is the average American who rides a motorcycle.

Whatever the popular image may be, it is a fact that the mandatory helmet law is the most controversial issue among motorcyclists. The National Highway Safety Administra-tion, an arm of the U.S. Transportation Department, says motorcycling deaths rose 23 percent from 1976 to 1977 after 22 states repealed helmet

R-T earns TPA honors

AMARILLO - The Midland Reporter-Telegram today received the general excellence award from the Texas Press Association at the 99th annual convention being held here.

The award goes to the top winner in the Division 1 category which includes daily newspapers with a circulation from 8,000 to 150,000.

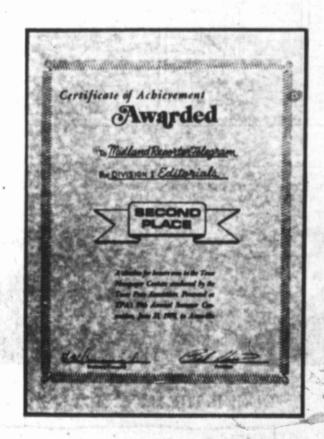

Also winning first place at the convention was R-T columnist Ed Todd, who was honored in the column-writing competition.

The Reporter-Telegram received ing, feature stories and appearance.

Editorials entered were "Just for a paddling" which was published March 15, 1977, and "Midland together," published June 2, 1977. A story on string players (musicians) and one on Fort Davis comprised the feature cat-

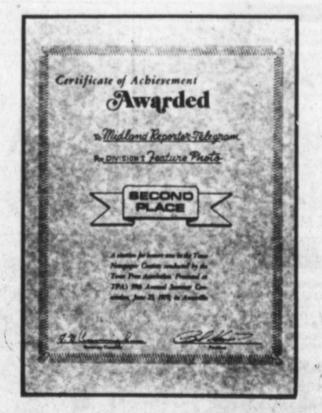

First place honors awarded to Ed Todd, R-T columnist, in the Division 1 column-writing competition which included newspapers of circulation up to 150,000.

The Reporter-Telegram's staff of dedicated journalists write for PEOPLE, not prizes. They write in keeping with highest professional standards but always down to earth, straight from the shoulder, and with honesty that commands respect, even when you don't agree. The awards are incidental, not the focus of editorial aim.

Both subscribers and advertisers of The Reporter-Telegram get a lot more for their money in the medium that puts the reader first, and that never stops trying to improve in every direction. GEOLOGISTS

THAT'S OUR MIDDLE NAME AND WE'RE CONDUCTING LOCAL INTERVIEWS TO PROVE IT

Fiscal 1978 was the best year in our history. We are optimistic that 1979 will be even better. And we anticipate that our growth will be most dramatic in the Midland area. That's why we're undergoing this intensive search for talented people like you.

Requirements call for at least a Bachelor's degree in Geology and background in development or exploration in the West Texas area. Due to expansion and number of positions open, we are able to consider a wide range of experience from a minimum of 2 years to district level. Experience in well-site geology, subsurface mapping, plus detail and regional mapping desired. Should be capable of creative prospect generations.

Midland Interviews Sunday-Tuesday, August 27-29

All the decision makers (including our own V.P.-Western Division Exploration) will meet with qualified candidates here in Midland. To arrange for your interview, Please call Randy Jones at (915) 682-5396 now.

These positions provide excellent compensation packages along with high visibility and growth potential. If, after meeting with us in Midland, there is mutual interest in further pursuing the possibility of employment, you become eligible for an all expenses paid weekend at our famous Woodlands Inn & Country Club just North of Houston.

If for some reason you are unable to call, please forward your resume to Randy Jones:

Our Used Cars Are Sold With As Much Pride As Our New Cars.

Many people are not aware that on many occasions we spend good money and time on the used cars we sell.

Those trade-in cars that do not meet our standards never appear in our used car department. The newer model trade-ins in fine condition, get a quick check, a lick and some polish...while the good older ones do get fixed up, if we feel they are worth the money. That's why we offer every used car with pride.
