Would you buy a drop?

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government had the first good news for inflation-weary Americans in months today, reporting that consumer prices were held to an 0.5 percent increase in July as grocery prices declined for the first time in a year.

The July increase compared with price gains of 0.9 percent in each of the previous three months and was the smallest rise since a 0.4 percent gain last December.

The Labor Department attributed the improvement to an 0.4 percent decline in grocery prices, the first drop since July 1977, and an 0.6 percent drop in the price of clothing, particularly for women and girls.

While the price report was a welcome development for consumers, it also should give support to the troubled U.S. dollar on world money markets, where the currency's value has declined because of inflation and the nation's trade deficit.

However, in an adverse development for the dollar, the Commerce Department said the nation had a foreign trade deficit in July of nearly $3 billion, the fourth largest on record. It said exports declined 3 percent to $11.8 billion, while imports rose 8 percent to $14.8 billion.

The figures were certain to be highly disappointing to the Carter administration, which had hoped for a continuation of the trend in recent months toward smaller monthly trade deficits.

The Commerce Department said there was a big increase in auto imports, which rose $206 million during the month. There were also substantial increases in imports of sugar, coffee and fish, although imports of oil were down 4 percent from the previous month, continuing the recent decline in oil imports.

The Labor Department said its Consumer Price Index in July stood at 196.7 of the 1967 average of 100. This means that goods priced at $100 11 years ago had increased in price to $196.70 last month.

The July increase of 0.5 percent, if continued for an entire year, would result in a 12-month inflation of 6 percent. The annual rate of price inflation in the three previous months was 10.7 percent.

The total increase in consumer prices since January has been 5.4 percent, compared with an increase during all of last year of 6.9 percent.

The Carter administration now hopes to hold inflation to an 8 percent increase during all of this year. It had set a 6.1 percent target at the start of this year.

The decline in grocery prices of 0.4 percent in July compared with average monthly increases of 1.6 percent during the first six months of the year.

The Labor Department said lower prices for meats were the chief reason for the decline. It said beef prices were down 2.2 percent following eight consecutive months of large increases and pork prices were down 4 percent. There were also lower prices for fresh vegetables, eggs and coffee.

While the situation improved for consumers who ate at home, there was a continued worsening in prices at restaurants, where charges rose 0.8 percent, about the same as in previous months.

The price of housing, including household services and furnishings, increased 0.8 percent in July.

Transportation costs rose by 0.7 percent, with about one-quarter of that gain attributed to an 0.8 percent rise in gasoline prices, the first significant increase of the year. New-car prices also rose by 0.8 percent.

The Labor Department said the purchasing power of workers' paychecks increased 0.2 percent in July, although they were still down 2.1 percent in the 12 months since July 1977.

The country had a trade deficit in June of $1.6 billion. While still huge, this was better than the deficit of $2.2 billion in May.

Analysts said a continuation of the improving trade trend in July probably would be reflected in a stronger dollar. However, even the most optimistic experts see no way the country can avoid topping last year's record trade deficit of $26.7 billion.

While hoping for improvement in the inflation and trade outlook, the government has been prompted to take several stopgap actions in the past two weeks to prop up the sagging dollar.

The latest move came Monday when the Federal Reserve Board took steps to make it easier for U.S. banks to borrow some of the estimated $60 billion dollars held abroad in what has come to be known as the Eurodollar market. The Fed sought to increase demand for the dollar where demand has been weak recently.

ONE CAN BE A LONELY number when a guy is only 5 years old and it's the early hours of his first school year and there's this new federally required breakfast program with no one but him in his kindergarten class deciding to eat first and learn later. But Max Madrid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elisardo Madrid of 4720 Bowie Drive, took solitude in stride and toast in hand this morning at Bowie Elementary School. School administrators said the breakfast turnout was low throughout the district today, but added they expect it will become very popular as the academic year continues. Thunder, lightning lash much of West Texas Thunder and lightning paid a visit to the Midland area Monday afternoon and night.

And with the electrical storms came some hail in scattered places, with rainfall up to 3.5 inches near Big Spring.

Throughout much of the area, the rain was a welcome sight — particularly to farmers and ranchers.

Under severe thunderstorm warnings Monday afternoon and night were these West Texas counties: Andrews, Crane, Ector, Loving, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler. Lea County, N.M., also was under the warning.

The heaviest area rainfall apparently came in the Martin-Howard counties area, which underwent intense electrical storms. Some radio communication lines were knocked out there.

Between 1.17 and 2 inches of rain fell during thunderstorms in the Lenora community north of Stanton, said Denver Springer of Lenora.

"They put out thunderstorm warn-

A DRY HOLE it isn't, as a water main at Indiana Avenue and Mariefeld Street comes a gusher after being punctured by a contractor's backhoe about 3 p.m. Monday. City employee Salvador Ramon isn't trying to stop the water with his hands; he's washing them free of mud. It took the city three hours to fix the leak, but at least one Midland outfit didn't mind. Dawson Geophysical Co., 203 S. Mariefeld St., received most of the spray from the 30-foot gusher — and from Monday night's Midland-area showers — on its roof...and on its increasingly green lawn. Mentone: to school in a Wink

MENTONE — To hear County Clerk Edna Dewees tell it, Loving County deserves better than to have its own school system consolidated with that of neighboring Wink in another county.

"We tried to keep our school, but we lost out," she said Monday, referring to an Aug. 12 consolidation election in which voters decided to merge the Loving County facility with that of Wink's by a 37-28 margin.

"We didn't even get to start school this year because of that vote," declared Mrs. Dewees. "A lot of people who voted in that election were from out of the county, yet they are registered here. Now our school system is consolidated with the Wink Independent School District."

She said the Loving County system featured no indebtedness and "lots of certificates of deposit."

The demise of this isolated county's school system is but another reminder that having the smallest population in the nation plus the highest income level doesn't necessarily spell happiness.

The U.S. Commerce Department revealed in a recent study that Loving County has 114 people "give or take, two or three folks who died," said Mrs. Dewees.

The Commerce Department study also revealed that the income level here was $15,710 per person in 1976, said by some to be the highest in the United States.

Officials said a yardstick for understanding that kind of wealth is to keep in mind that the average income per person in Harris County in the same year was $7,000.

"You have to take into consideration that Loving County has one or two millionaires as well as people with two jobs," said

Mrs. Dewees.

She also said expenses are higher in the isolated county, too. "It's 20 to 30 miles to the nearest town such as Kermit or Pecos and it's 75 miles to Odessa."

Mentone has a service station open until 6 p.m., "but sometimes it's closed for days at a time," Mrs. Dewees noted.

"We've also got Keen's Cafe. Newt Keen always loans folks a loaf of bread or a head of lettuce. And he's famous for his hamburgers and steaks," said Mrs. Dewees.

She waxed poetic about Lov-

GOP commissioner abstains in budget vote

A lone protest was voiced Monday prior to the Midland County Commissioner's approval of a $3.9 million budget.

Winfred Brown, the courts only Republican member, abstained from ratifying a package that would hold the line on taxes and accused his colleagues of "partisan politics" in raising the salaries of two offices now held by Democrats.

The other court members claimed Brown's public attack was based solely on political motives.

A large part of a $400,000 increase in the budget was due to a 10 percent across-the-board salary increase for county employees.

County Judge Blake Hansen said a significant increase in the county's revenue had offset the necessity for a tax increase this year despite the salary raises.

"The taxpayers of Midland County have a right to know that when it comes to playing politics with the taxpayers' money, the Democrat County Commissioners can be very liberal," Brown said in a prepared statement shortly before a vote was taken on the 1978-79 budget.

"The items that I am referring to and that I am objecting to in the budget for 1979 are the salaries of the County Judge and the County Court at Law Judge."

Brown charged that former County Judge Barbara Culver (a Republican) had performed the duties of the two positions and that the court gave her only the percentage raises given to other elected county officials.

"While Judge Culver was becoming well known state-wide for work with juveniles, the commissioners court cut her salary for serving as Juvenile Court Judge from $3,000 a year to $1,800 a year," Brown said.

"This was done for political purposes and that is past history. The point that I am making is that the salary was cut and never restored to the $3,000 level Judge Barbara Culver is a woman and a Republican."

Culver and Brown attempted to create the county court-at-law position prior to the election filing deadline in February, but Democratic commissioners after the deadline created the court-at-law and "appointed their Democrat friend to serve as judge of the new court," according to Brown.

The commissioner made a motion that the 1979 budget be amended to show that the county judge and the county court-at-law judge salaries be set for 1979 at the 1978 rate, plus the proposed 10 percent raise given to other elected officials. The motion died for lack of a second.

Commissioner Durward Wright told Brown that the commissioners court "should not be used as a political sounding board."

"What you are saying is nothing more than sour grapes. You seem to be the most liberal member of the court. What you are saying is exactly what you're saying in the letter — totally and politically motivated," Wright said.

"If we review the record further, I think there are other departments headed by Republicans who have increased their budgets in some cases much as $200,000 and $400,000," he said.

Wright said the commissioners had given District Attorney Vern Martin, a Republican, permission to seek a special prosecutor for an upcoming capital murder case in the event that he is unable to find a replacement for his investigator, who is leaving the county next month.

County Judge Hansen said later he thought Brown's statement was "not very truthful."

Conservation is where you find it

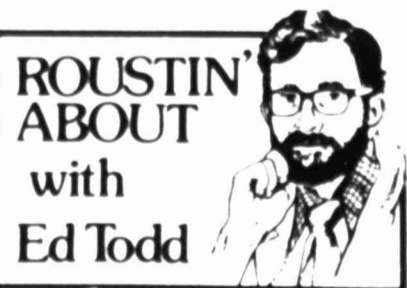

Russel Smith, the executive director of the Texas Solar Energy Society, is trying to stir up interest in practical applications of solar energy and in conserving dwindling fuel supplies.

He's particularly keen on the former, it's his livelihood.

And on the conservation account, Smith has made a quirky inroad: the single "I" in his given name, Russel.

"No use wasting letters," said Smith, who left his headquarters in Austin to present a workshop on solar-building technology in Midland Sept. 8 and 9. "Try to conserve in all things," said Smith.

Besides, Smith knows all too well that the continued supply of petroleum and traditional uses of fossil fuels will buy time for solar-applied energy and technology to mature and for solar systems to be economical to install and maintain.

At the workshop will be Loyd Willis, an Andrews builder who lives the solar life, Ron Freeman, chairman of the air-conditioning and refrigeration program at the Texas State Technical Institute at Sweetwater, Ron Stephenson of Odessa, and Smith.

"The question that most people ask (about solar energy) is: 'Is it cost-effective?'" Smith said.

And his answer in these days of cheap money and inflation is, of course, a qualified "yes."

His friend and solar-pusher, Tim Rudd of Odessa, phrased the cost-effective response this way: "Some places, yes; some places, no." It

Midland's back-to-schoolers sloshing through night's mud, water for first day

Raincoats, galoshes and umbrellas came out of the closet today after a long and generally hot summer as approximately 15,325 students made their way to classes on the first day of school.

For the administrators of the Midland Independent School District, today is a test in several respects. The district is implementing a new breakfast program and the second year of a court-ordered busing program is under way.

Midland's public schools also face upgrading of a district-wide bilingual education program.

Schools Superintendent James H. Mailey was making the rounds to the various schools this morning to ensure that everything was running smoothly, according to his office.

Garland Chapman, assistant superintendent of administration, said that there were few problems as school buses unloaded students for the beginning of classes.

"The early reports indicate that we've had a pretty good opening. The school buses for the most part have been arriving on schedule," Chapman said.

"We've had a few students miss the bus. But we have back-up transportation available to pick up these students. There certainly haven't been any major problems here. Some of the students are fairly new to the schedule, it being the first day of school."

Chapman said the district is projecting an enrollment of 15,325, but added that it will probably be several days before an actual count can be obtained.

He said the estimate indicates the district will experience another decrease in overall enrollment this year, a trend which has prevailed in the county in recent years. He said the enrollment figure at the end of last year was 15,466.

Meanwhile, cafeteria crews have been beefed up this year in order to prepare breakfasts for students; the breakfasts now are required under federal guidelines.

Krueger charges Tower with 'closed shop'

"John Tower has never influenced anyone in his life. He is just a vote." That's how Democrat Bob Krueger of New Braunfels described his political opponent today during a news conference at Midland Regional Airport.

Krueger centered his remarks on what he called Tower's ineffectiveness as a U.S. Senator and the "closed shop" operated by the three-term legislator.

Krueger, a member of the U.S. House, is campaigning to unseat Tower in the upcoming November elections.

The "closed shop" referred to by Krueger applies not to Tower's position on organized labor, said Krueger, but to "the way he (Tower) conducts Senate business."

Tower has been isolated from Texans during the 17 years he has been in office, and only a few people have keys that fit the lock of the senator's "exclusive club," Krueger said.

He cited what he said were Tower's votes against Medicare, financial support for the Social Security system, farm price supports and civil rights as examples of Tower's "exclusive club."

He also said Tower voted against the Elementary and Secondary Educational Act, "one of the most historic and significant pieces of educational legislation of the last 50 years."

Those possessing keys to Tower's club include Lockheed Corp., Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon, Krueger claimed. Tower, however, said Krueger is "the most notable member of his exclusive club especially when he derives personal benefit, particularly in the form of junkets to foreign nations at taxpayers' expense, a 29 percent congressional pay raise which he voted for himself and an annual cost-of-living pay increase which he voted for himself."

According to the congressman from central Texas, Tower has purchased advertising which "misrepresents my position on the closed shop vs. right-to-work laws of Texas. I support right-to-work and I will always support right-to-work. All the advertising dollars spent by John Tower's 'closed shop' cannot change the record."

Krueger went on to recall his Congressional attendance record and to compare it with Tower's. He said his own attendance record of 75.5 percent has been hurt by campaign trips back to Texas.

On current issues, Krueger said he does not believe the natural gas legislation will be signed into law.

"It's doubtful I will be able to support it," Krueger said, adding that the law would require too much paperwork and would tie up drilling.

Krueger said today he voted in favor of a proposal providing for two senators to represent persons living in Washington, D.C. He explained he feels those 800,000 residents should be given the chance "to be treated like other Americans."

He said he does not support the proposed Kennedy health insurance plan, or any other plan resembling it. Krueger said he prefers expanding services such as nurse practitioners, but a national health care plan "is not the solution."

The Kemp-Roth bill which Krueger said would cut income taxes by 35 percent but not government spending was criticized by him as being "grossly inflationary."

Four killed in Rhodesian clash with guerrillas

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Four persons, including a policeman and a black nationalist guerrilla sought in a nationwide manhunt, were killed in gunbattles in Salisbury's black townships during the night, police reported.

The two others killed were a black man and a black woman. It was the fourth major clash in the past five weeks between police and guerrillas in black townships located within eight miles of the center of this capital.

A police spokesman said the slain guerrilla was the "sole remaining member" of a six-man group loyal to Joshua Nkomo's Zambia-based insurgent forces who have been operating in Salisbury and the southern cities of Gwelo and Bulawayo for the past month.

Case cleared by arrest

Carl Jackson Castleberry, 67, of Seymour was in custody in the Midland County Jail late Monday afternoon on charges of theft over $200 in a case dating back to 1975, said officers.

Captain George Thompson of the Midland County Sheriff's Office said the county grand jury set bond for Castleberry at $3,500 in 1975.

Howard Chapman on Feb. 16, 1975, told county authorities he left a 1 1/2 ton 1973 truck loaded with $15,000 in wellhead equipment at the McClatchy Brothers Trucking Contractors, Inc., firm on West Industrial Avenue.

Chapman reportedly told deputies he left the truck in care of Castleberry at the business. Deputies said they were told Castleberry was last seen Feb. 16, 1975, in Odessa in the same truck.

"That was the last time Castleberry was seen until Aug. 24, 1978," Thompson said Monday.

Thompson said Castleberry was apprehended by the Burlington County Sheriff's Office in Colorado and brought back to Midland.

Thompson, aided by other deputies, worked closely with the Texas Rangers and the Texas Motor Vehicle Theft Service in pursuing the case.

The truck and the wellhead equipment have not been recovered, said Thompson.

The guerrilla, who was not identified, opened fire on a police patrol car in Salisbury's Glen Norah township at 7:20 pm. Monday night, killing the 23-year-old white police officer who was driving, the spokesman said.

Police returned fire and in "the ensuing action" a black civilian was fatally wounded. The guerrilla escaped and 30 minutes later held up cashiers at a township beerhall, police said.

Traced to a house in the adjoining Highfield Township, the guerrilla attempted to escape with a black man and a woman, police said.

"Police opened fire killing the terrorist and the black woman and injured the black male," the spokesman said.

Police said the guerrilla was among two groups totaling 16 who crossed from Zambia in June on an assassination and sabotage mission to the capital.

Odessa man charged in woman's death

ODESSA — A 33-year-old Odessa man, charged in the early Sunday murder of a 41-year-old Odessa woman, was in satisfactory condition Monday in the intensive care unit of Medical Center Hospital here with a gunshot wound in the chest.

Columbus Weymon Morris has been charged in connection with the shooting death of Eula Faye Davis, police said.

Officers said the woman was shot twice, in the neck and left shoulder, with a .357-caliber pistol.

Police said Morris was shot one time in the chest with a .22-caliber pistol.

The shootings happened shortly before 2:54 a.m. Sunday in the 300 block of South Tom Green, according to reports.

Peace Justice Harold Sligar pronounced the woman dead at the scene and withheld an inquest ruling pending results of an autopsy.

Kent statue rejected

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The design for a statue commissioned to commemorate the 1970 slayings of four antiwar demonstrators at Kent State University has been rejected as "unacceptable."

A university spokesman said Monday that sculptor George Segal declined to change themes and that the proposed memorial to the May 4, 1970 slayings of four protesters by National Guardsmen may be dropped.

Robert McCoy, an assistant to Kent State President Brage Golding, said the consensus of the May 4th Observance Committee and the president's cabinet was that Segal's use of an Abraham-Isaac theme was undesirable.

Segal's design showed Abraham about to kill his only son to demonstrate his devotion to God, the university said.

The Spirit of '78

Ben Abruzzo, Maxie Anderson and Larry Newman until a few weeks ago were more or less unheard-of residents of Albuquerque, N.M. Now, however, their names are known, and most favorably, around the world.

Their is an amazing and thrilling story and it all came about as a result of a balloon flight.

And the success of these three courageous Americans — New Mexicans, if you please — in being the first to cross the Atlantic by balloon is made even more appealing by some interesting ironies.

In an age said to be anti-hero and jaded by several moon landings, they have caught the imagination of the world. This is tremendous! They have done this by overcoming great odds in an ancient mode of locomotion, little changed since its beginning in the 18th century.

Abruzzo, Anderson and Newman all come from Albuquerque. With all of its amenities, the fair city of Albuquerque in the somewhat arid New Mexico mountains, seems somewhat surprising as an origin for pioneering, transatlantic balloonists.

It is a commentary on man's progress in travel that this lucky trio faced seemingly greater dangers and less chance for success on their six-day journey from Presque Isle, Main, to Evreux, France, than did the astronauts during their four-day voyage to the moon almost a decade ago.

Aside from surviving the perils which killed seven balloonists involved in 17 previous, unsuccessful attempts to cross the Atlantic, the U.S. balloonists must have found this victory particularly sweet because of unusual circumstances. Only a month ago two Britons almost beat them to their laurels, going down at sea 117 miles from the French coast. And Abruzzo and Anderson knew bitter defeat a year ago when their predecessor craft, Double Eagle I, went down off the coast of Iceland.

That Double Eagle II did not reach Paris, and thereby complete another of several uncanny parallels with the flight of Charles A. Lindbergh 51 years ago, reminds everyone of the difficulties and uncertainties attending this crude form of flight, so much at the mercy of the elements. But this shortcoming only enhances the respect for what was done. And the reception accorded them by the friendly people of France who were on hand to greet them was evidence abundant for the above mentioned feeling of sincere respect and admiration.

The Abruzzo-Anderson-Newman achievement warms us because of what it says again of the heroic human spirit — and because they are our fellow Americans.

Members of the team now are planning a balloon flight around the world — and their just-as-courageous wives say they will be aboard with their husbands on this flight. Good luck to one and all.

Welcome, Senator

U.S. Sen. John Tower will be in the Tall City Wednesday to address the Downtown Lions Club at its noon meeting in the Midland Hilton. He also will visit with the press following his luncheon appearance.

Midland and Midlanders always are glad to have Texas' senior senator as a special guest and his Wednesday appearance certainly is no exception. A cordial, typically West Texas welcome awaits the senator and his party here.

Tower, in his scheduled address, is expected to review the Washington political scene in general, with special emphasis on major legislative matters now being considered and proposed, particularly as they affect West Texas.

The senator, who has visited in Midland and throughout the Permian Basin Empire on frequent occasions, certainly is well informed on federal legislative matters and he doesn't hesitate to tell it like it is, as they say.

The Downtown Lions Club is due commendation for bringing Tower to Midland on this particular occasion and mission.

It is hoped that his stay here will be pleasant from every standpoint and that he will return to the Tall City at every opportunity.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Retraction demand backfires

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Howard Jarvis, the frog-throated hero of Proposition 13 and self-appointed messiah of the tax revolt, has been hopping around the country denouncing our recent column which linked him to at least three right-wing money-raising schemes.

He also marched into our office and cordially professed his absolute innocence. His connection with the fund-raising hustles, he said, was peripheral.

Back on the road, Jarvis got carried away. In Sacramento, he labeled our evidence "manure." In Fort Worth, he avowed that he had convinced us to print a retraction. Here it is:

We have now obtained additional facts that bolster our story. In the investigative files of the Postal Service, we have found more evidence of Jarvis' connection with two fly-by-night schemes. One led to mail fraud investigations by FBI agents and postal inspectors.

As we previously reported, Jarvis got his start in the money-raising rackets in Los Angeles 14 years ago. He teamed up with two associates — William Morrison and Norton H. Nathan — to create an unauthorized outfit called Businessmen for Goldwater. In a "boiler room" telephone campaign, Jarvis and his friends solicited thousands of dollars from people who thought their money would be used to support the presidential bid of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Goldwater campaign officials filed suit to prevent the Jarvis group from collecting money in the senator's name. But the court action was dropped after Goldwater lost the 1964 election.

While investigating another Jarvis-Morrison-Nathan shell game a year later, postal inspectors reported: "Businessmen for Goldwater collected about $115,000 of which $89,000 was paid to the operators as fees and the remainder was paid for such things as telephone and office expenses. None of the money collected was used in any way in the interest of the campaign for the election of Mr. Goldwater."

In a finger-wagging session at our office, Jarvis maintained that "everyone in the Goldwater thing got paid off." Now basking in the national limelight after a long performance as a sideshow figure in California's circus of politics, Jarvis told us, "I insisted on writing the checks, because I didn't want any money skimmed off that wasn't legitimate."

Our check of official campaign records filed in California and signed by Jarvis himself reveals, however, that $87,837 was paid directly to the William-Norton Company for public relations and contract labor. William-Norton, it just so happens, was a front company set up by Jarvis' two associates, William Morrisop and Norton Nathan.

Postal investigation records show that the three took their bunco game on the road the following year and set up an outfit dubbed the National Freedom to Work Committee.

CHARLEY REESE Social science different from physical sciences

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — The Kinsey Institute on homosexuality which is being widely quoted as "proving" that homosexuality is not pathological provides a good excuse to look at the use and abuse of social science as political propaganda.

I don't wish to argue if homosexuality is or isn't pathological. In the first place, I don't know and in the second, I don't care. People's sex lives are their own business, not the public's and certainly not mine.

But this particular study, because it will be used in political debates over such things as gay rights ordinances, is a good example of how the social sciences can be used — and of some of the dangers to clear communications such use poses.

The first point to keep in mind is that popular discussion of most issues, scientific or otherwise, is notoriously superficial in the mass media. This is so because of two factors: space and time limitations and the necessity to entertain as well as inform.

Most people, including some in the business, do not think of news as entertainment, but we are as much in the entertainment business as is Olivia Newton John.

For that reason there is a tendency in newsmen to seek out the dramatic even at the expense of perspective and on occasion, even truth. All the reservations and qualifications normally found in scientific or scholarly study are conveniently ignored.

Statements like, "In our study we found that of 114 white mice injected with 2,000 milligrams of substance X directly under the skin on a daily basis for 28 days, 17 percent developed tumors," is generally boiled down in news stories to, "A new study shows that substance X causes cancer."

Thus, assertions or qualified conclusions, the only evidence of which is one study, become "Fact" and are accepted as "Fact" by people who have no hope of ever knowing whether the original study was valid or even reported accurately.

You can bet that television chitchatters will eventually be saying things like, "Well, a new study shows that homosexuality is perfectly normal, you know."

Social science is quite different from the physical sciences. For one thing, it's not a science. Still, in the physical sciences, nothing is accepted as a fact until it has been proven by a repeatable experiment.

Most so-called social science studies are opinion surveys, a sort of organized backfence gossip session. In the Kinsey study, two people interviewed 1,500 people in the San Francisco area and based on those interviews, drew their conclusions about homosexuality.

Maybe the study is right, but as one who has spent most of his life conducting interviews, I can tell you there is plenty of room for error.

First, it's not easy to find 1,500 people who would be truly typical of a much larger group of people. I would be skeptical about drawing conclusions about homosexuals in Iowa based on interviews with homosexuals in San Francisco. I would be skeptical about drawing conclusions about non-homosexuals in Iowa based on interviews with non-homosexuals in San Francisco. Prisco is hardly a typical American city.

Secondly, the questions must be carefully constructed to avoid prejudicing the answers. Buried in most social science studies is a presumption that the subjects told the truth.

Obviously some people lie and then some people don't know the truth, particularly when you are asking them about themselves.

Thirdly, you would need to know a great deal about the studiers to form a sound judgment about the study.

I don't mean to imply that the Kinsey study was rigged or not properly conducted. The point of all this is that it is generally not possible for the layman to know how valid or invalid such a study is.

That's why the red light should click on in your brain when you hear or read in a political debate those famous words, "A study shows..."

Scholarship which becomes the handmaiden of politics is a fallen lady.

INSIDE REPORT:

Kemp ponders conflicting advice whether to 'run'

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jack Kemp no longer feels bound to honor his commitment to support Ronald Reagan for president in 1980 and may announce his own candidacy in November, disturbing Reagan's majestic march toward the Republican nomination.

Kemp's private pledge of support three months ago has been regarded within the Reagan camp as a bulwark of its campaign for maximum support within the party's dominant conservative wing. But this was always considered a blunder by Kemp advisers, and the congressman himself felt relieved of the promise when the Reaganites publicly revealed it.

Thus, as Kemp ponders conflicting advice whether to make an announcement in November, he is not inhibited by ties to Reagan. Whatever he does in November, after the mid-term election, chances are better than even he will run for president in 1980. With conservative Rep. Philip Crane the first announced candidate and with Kemp himself the hottest current attraction on the Republican banquet circuit, Reagan's hopes to monopolize the Republican right are being shattered.

Kemp's presidential thoughts actually go back to last January when he dined in Manhattan with close advisers (including writer Irving Kristol and Jude Wanniski, then a Wall Street Journal editor). It was decided that instead of running for governor of New York this year, Kemp should wait for two 1980 options: a run for the Senate next now held by liberal Republican Jacob Javits — or the presidency.

Nevertheless, Kemp was unprepared for the May 6 syndicated column of conservative James Jackson Kilpatrick, pushing Kemp for president and writing off Reagan as "getting a little long in the tooth." That was too much, too soon for Kemp, who entered politics as an off-season aide for California Gov. Reagan while still playing professional football.

Shortly after Kilpatrick's column, Reagan aide Peter Hannaford telephoned Kemp for an appointment. Before Hannaford could say anything in the meeting at the congressman's office, Kemp volunteered this: forget the Kemp-for-president talk; count me in supporting Reagan if he runs; I'll be trying for the Senate, whether or not Javits quits.

Kemp's inner circle was horrified. He defended his action on grounds that Reagan was the only prominent Republican then praising Kemp and the Kemp-Roth tax reduction bill, and also was stressing national defense, Kemp's other big issue. Besides with Crane's candidacy not yet surfaced, Reagan seemed to have the conservatives to himself.

But a small cloud appeared. After meeting Hannaford, Kemp called Reagan in California, pleading with him to help ex-Reagan aide Jeffrey Bell's seeming quixotic effort to unseat liberal Sen. Clifford Case in the New Jersey primary. Could Reagan at least raise money for Bell? Reagan, seeking to prove himself no right-wing party-wrecker, declined.

On May 12, Kemp adviser Wanniski, in California on a last assignment before resigning from the paper, lunched in Los Angeles with Reagan aide Hannaford. Wanniski's message: you can't hold Kemp to supporting Reagan.

Wanniski argued that Reagan broke the compact by rejecting Kemp's plea to help Bell. But anyway, he continued, this was "force majeure" — an irresistible power; the tide building behind Kemp would sweep away trivial personal promises.

Kemp's self-described "bomb thrower," Wanniski, was not authorized by the congressman to make these arguments. Kemp does not discount the "force majeure" theory, but he has never agreed that Reagan's non-support for Bell (who won in New Jersey anyway) invalidated his commitment to Reagan.

However, a reason for disconnecting from Reagan was supplied by our column of June 4, which reported Kemp's pledge. George Bush, himself a presidential hopeful, telephoned Kemp in alarm. So did businessman Leon Parma, an intimate of Gerald R. Ford.

Kemp then called Hannaford, saying how unhappy he was to see their "private" conversation in print. Although he did not specifically so inform Hannaford, Kemp believes this was a breach of confidence relieving him of his commitment.

Since then, the Republican National Committee has adopted the Kemp-Roth bill as party doctrine and Kemp has attracted a spectrum of boosters of all ideological colors seeking a new face. Irving Kristol wants Kemp to announce in November and urge all other aspirants also to get in — precisely what Reagan does not want. In Kemp's office, Kristol's suggestion has been subject to intense debate.

But November is not the point of no return. When Kemp attended pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle's annual party at his Westchester County estate Aug. 11, corporate magnates were enthusiastically talking Kemp for president. That is moving toward the "critical mass" that Wanniski feels makes Kemp's candidacy unavoidable. Certainly, no commitment to Reagan will now obstruct it.

Pulitzer Prize winner dies at 78

FRANKFORT, Mich. (AP) — Bruce Catton, who as a youth listened to veterans tell their tales of the Civil War and later won the Pulitzer Prize for a book on the conflict, is dead at the age of 78.

Catton died Monday in Paul Oliver Hospital in this northern Lower Michigan resort community where he maintained a summer home. He spent his winters in New York.

Hospital administrator Bruce Huron said Catton entered the hospital a week ago for treatment of a respiratory ailment.

In 1954, Catton won a Pulitzer and a National Book Award for "A Stillness at Appomatox," the last book in his Civil War trilogy.

"Boy, if ever there was a night to drink a bottle of bourbon, that was it," Catton said of the Pulitzer award.

In a 1974 interview with the Detroit News' Sunday Magazine, Catton recalled that his interest in the Civil War was kindled as a boy. There were many veterans in Benzonia, Mich., where the Catton family moved in the early 1900s, Catton recalled.

"I think I had the impression then, with all those old fellows around telling their stories, that the Civil War had been fought 10 miles east of Benzonia and just five years before I was born," Catton said. After studying at Oberlin College in Ohio, Catton worked on newspapers in Cleveland and Boston before becoming Washington correspondent for the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

When World War II erupted, Catton joined the government as director of information for the War Production Board. He left government service in 1950 and "decided to become a big novelist."

But decision and reality were far apart, Catton said. "Well, I got 200 pages down, and it was awful. Dreadful. But the factual parts, where the armies were moving, when the battles were fought, that wasn't bad."

"So I scrapped the fictional parts and just wrote what I always wanted to write, the story of the Army of the Potomac. It was just as impromptu as that."

The first two installments of the trilogy — "Mr. Lincoln's Army" and "Glorious Road" — were published in 1951 and 1952, respectively.

Catton's other books included "The War Lords of Washington," published in 1958; "U.S. Grant and the American Military Tradition," 1954; "Banners at Shenandoah," 1955; "This Hallowed Ground," 1956; "The Coming Fury," 1961; "Terrible Swift Sword," 1963; and "Michigan: A Bicentennial History," 1976.

His wife, Hazel, died of a heart attack in 1969 at the age of 69.

Discipline handbooks available

Handbooks outlining discipline procedures for elementary schools will be made available to teachers and principals this week, according to Manuel Carrasco, chairman of the elementary schools discipline committee and director of elementary education for the Midland Independent School District.

Published copies will be available to parents and students at the end of next month. A xeroxed copy of the code is available for review in each school office until the published version becomes available, said Carrasco.

Another dog law passed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An ordinance similar to one passed in New York that would force dog owners to clean up their dogs' droppings, is on its way to becoming law in San Francisco.

The ordinance, which was passed Monday night by the Board of Supervisors, makes it an offense for someone walking his dog on public or private property not to carry a suitable container for the removal of dog droppings.

"Dog mess is a health hazard and on top of that it's disgusting," said Supervisor Harvey Milk, who introduced the ordinance, which is scheduled for a second hearing next week. "We can call this 'The Scoop the Poop Act of 1978,'" said Supervisor Diane Feinstein.

Prison system approved

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A new prisoner review system that could increase the number of inmates on parole has been approved by the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles.

In most cases, panels consisting of two commissioners working at the prisons and one Austin-based board member will decide whether to parole an inmate.

"The three of us can't carry the load," chairman George Killinger said of the board. "We are working ourselves to death. . . . I talked to the governor, and they agreed we should try it (the new panel system)."

Insurance probe closed 'unanswered questions'

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — C. Daniel Hurlbut told the House General Investigating Committee there were some "unanswered questions" as it closed its probe of his charges against Gulf Atlantic Life Insurance Co. and the State Insurance Board. So committee chairman DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, threw the questions at Gulf Atlantic's former president.

The committee finished its probe of Hurlbut's allegations Monday and returns today to an examination of Great Commonwealth Life Insurance Co.'s former difficulties with a holding company.

Hurlbut said one of his unanswered questions was why Bill Barnes, then president of Gulf Atlantic, called a San Antonio steel executive to discuss an insurance board investigation.

Barnes said the man he called in San Antonio — unnamed in public testimony — had a number of contacts in Austin.

"I thought he might have heard something over the grapevine if we were in a position to be put on the spot or persecuted," Barnes said. He said the man was unable to provide any information and was not called again or asked for any help.

Hurlbut and his partner, A.C. Hovater lost their agents' licenses in 1976 for selling unapproved group health insurance policies in the name of Nation-Wide Health Insurance Trust, which was placed in receivership in early 1975.

Hurlbut has maintained Gulf Atlantic agreed to underwrite the group policies and set him and Hovater up in Houston to sell them. Among those buying the policies was the Pasadena Independent School District.

The insurance board conducted two investigations into Gulf Atlantic's alleged involvement and exonerated the company.

Barnes denied under oath Monday that Gulf Atlantic ever gave Hurlbut and Hovater a go-ahead to market group health insurance. He said experienced agents such as Hurlbut and Hovater knew they could not sell in-insurance in a company's name without a written contract. Hurlbut maintained the insurance department was guilty of favoritism toward Gulf Atlantic.

He said the other unanswered question was the extent of former insurance commissioner Joe Hawkins' involvement with Gulf before becoming commissioner.

Barnes said, "none whatever." He said he contacted Hawkins, then a Dallas actuary, after learning of the Nation-Wide operation of Hurlbut and Hovater.

"I was concerned about what would happen to the (health insurance) groups and wondered if there was anybody in the state that would take over the groups.... I don't recall even receiving a reply from Mr. Hawkins," he said.

Residents needn't be told twice it's time to evacuate

CAMERON, La. (AP) — No one has to tell the residents of Cameron Parish twice to leave their homes when a storm blows out of the Gulf. They know the way out by heart, they've done it so many times before.

And no one seems to mind when the storm they left for doesn't amount to much.

"It's like paying insurance," said Civil Defense Director Hayes Picou early today as he prepared to let residents of the low-lying parish go home after Tropical Storm Debra passed without much damage.

"It's the price you pay for living in the greatest place on earth. We live on the coast and we know we have to run once or twice a year. It's worth it."

More than 6,500 residents of the parish ran this time, most to motels and private homes on higher ground. But several hundred went to high schools in Lake Charles in adjoining Calcasieu Parish.

About 200 people were in the most crowded of the shelters, Lake Charles High School, and the mood was a festive one, considering what was lurking outside. There was little visible anxiety.

Some, like Lee LeBlanc of Sweetlake, were survivors of Audrey, the killer hurricane which wiped out 430 people in the middle of the night in 1957.

LeBlanc lived in the city of Cameron then and watched out his back door as two people drowned.

"That was enough to always make you leave when there is a storm," LeBlanc said. "People who have gone through it once and are willing to go through it again without evacuating are ignorant persons."

"Audrey was enough to make me leave Cameron 100 times."

Clarence Dyson of Cameron was another veteran of Audrey who wound up in the shelter Monday night as Debra approached. He was accompanied by twin 13-year-old daughters, although his son chose to stay behind.

"I don't consider it an inconvenience," he said of his time away from home.

His daughters agreed, with one calling their brother "crazy" for staying behind near a rising river.

Civil Defense Director Picou says that communication is so much better now than in 1957, it is unlikely a tragedy like that could happen again. He is just hopeful that last year won't repeat itself either, when two hurricanes forced a pair of evacuations in the same week.

"That was a record," he says. "I hope it doesn't happen again — I haven't slept in three days."

Tropical Storm Debra begins losing force

By The Associated Press

Tropical Storm Debra was downgraded to a tropical depression before dawn today as it moved deeper into Louisiana and headed for Arkansas.

Meanwhile, the Cameron Parish Sheriff's office more than 6,500 residents of the coastal parish in southwest Louisiana who had evacuated their homes in the face of the storm were told they could return home at 5 a.m. CDT. There had not been any evacuations in Texas.

Sheriff's Deputy Russell Nunez said high waters from swollen tides and heavy rains had receded, clearing the way for evacuees to return.

Debra, which spawned several tornadoes as it moved inland near the Louisiana-Texas border late Monday, began dissipating as it headed north at about 12 miles an hour.

Louisiana state police said most of the heavy rains ended by Monday night, and there were only scattered reports of minor wind damage and some street flooding as Debra pushed northward.

The National Weather Service said at 5 a.m., the center of Debra was about 50 miles southwest of Monroe, La., with the highest sustained winds estimated at 35 miles an hour off the Louisiana coast.

Gale warnings were discontinued from Port Arthur, Texas, to Grand Isle, La.

'Foreign' cardinals key to election

By HILMI TOROS

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Non-Italian cardinals played a key role in the surprise election of Pope John Paul I, a prelate of pastoral experience instead of a veteran of the Vatican Curia.

Numbering 84 of the 111 men who voted in the conclave last weekend, the non-Italians could have ended the four-century hold Italians have had on the papacy. But they accepted, and some reportedly suggested, that another Italian should succeed Pope Paul VI.

ANSA, the Italian news agency, said although the "foreign" cardinals agreed to another Italian, they stipulated that he come from a diocese and be rich in pastoral experience rather than be a veteran of the Curia, the central church bureaucracy, like Pope Paul, or the Vatican diplomatic corps.

This eliminated such front-runners as Cardinals Sebastiano Baggio, Sergio Pignedoli and Pericle Felici and opened the way to the election of Albino Luciani, the 65-year-old cardinal-patriarch of Venice and a man with more than 30 years of pastoral experience.

Cardinal Johannes Willebrands of the Netherlands told reporters the conclave sought "a good bishop, a pastor, who knows pastoral problems from his own experience."

Corriere della Sera, Italy's biggest newspaper, said the foreign cardinals found Luciani "full of positive notes: a man of God, poor, humble but intelligent, with good theological culture, intransigent on matters of doctrine and discipline but also ready to listen and enter into dialogue." ANSA, reporting "indiscretions" from the secret conclave, said the choice boiled down to Luciani and Cardinal Corrado Ursi, the archbishop of Naples.

After two inconclusive votes Saturday morning, the agency's account continued, Belgian Cardinal Leo Suenens and French Cardinal Francois Marty led a swing to Luciani. His cause also was helped by the fact that he once expressed willingness to vote for a cardinal from the Third World, Brazilian Aloisio Lorscheider.

Luciani was elected on the third ballot with between 90 and 100 votes, ANSA said. He needed only 75.

Manhole covers keep disappearing

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A manhole cover theft problem became evident last year and seemed to have slackened off recently. Police were asked to investigate but so far have made no report on the matter.

Anderson told a reporter later that no precise number was available, but about "a couple of hundred" of the items had been taken. Sewer grates cost $50 and manhole covers about $40, he said.

"I think maybe they are being shipped to another state or something," he added.

Nicaraguan army officers arrested as strike continues

By JUAN MALTES

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — More than 100 army men were reported under arrest today for plotting to oust President Anastasio Somoza as a general strike spread and fighting was reported outside Managua.

A highly placed source in the national guard, Nicaragua's 7,500-man army, said 12 officers and 85 soldiers were arrested, but another source put the total at more than 100 and said they included two colonels.

Meanwhile, the Senate today was to take up a bill passed by the lower house, the Chamber of Deputies, that would authorize Somoza to leave the country. But government sources said it did not mean he was planning to resign.

Such legislative authorization for presidential travel abroad is customary in Latin America and the sources said Somoza keeps his in force all the time and was just renewing it.

Informants said radio messages about a coup were broadcast openly Sunday on the military network.

Members of the guard, the bulwark of the Somoza family's 41 years in power and its vast economic holdings, were reported furious that the president met the demands of 25 guerrillas who seized the National Palace and hundreds of hostages a week ago.

The guerrillas of the Sandinista National Liberation Front killed eight guardsmen in their assault. After a two-day siege, Somoza freed 59 imprisoned Sandinistas and gave them and the 25

The YMCA Indian Guides and Princess programs are a fundamental part of the YMCA's work with families, emphasizing the vital role that fathers play in the growth and development of their sons and daughters.

The purpose is to foster the companionship between father and child, seeking to strengthen a healthy relationship between them and to support the child's growth experience.

Both of these programs are organized into tribes. A typical Indian Princess tribe consists of six to nine fathers and their daughters. These tribes meet in the members' homes once or twice a month on a rotating basis.

The Indian Guide Nation and the Indian Princess Nation have several in-town and out-of-city activities scheduled for the upcoming year. The weekend campouts will include Fort Davis, Big Bend, Abilene State Park, Possom Kingdom, Cloudcroft, Hoard's Creek and Carlsbad. In-town activities will be a family picnic, turkey shoot, derby race, Warriors Banquet, kite contest, miniature golf, bowling, Christmas parade and party and even a skate and shake party, where rollerskating and pizza go hand in hand.

Anyone with any questions or who would like to participate in these programs and be a part of activities that nurture mutual understanding, love and respect then attending one of the following organizational meetings is for them. The first meeting will be at 7 p.m. Sept. 7 at Central YMCA, while the second is slated for 7 p.m. Sept. 12 in Alamo Junior High School Cafeteria.

MRS. EDWIN R. STILES of Midland flew to Wyoming for a week's visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ely Bird of Riverview. They spent the weekend in the Jackson Hole country and while there attended a concert at Festival Hall in Teton Village.

Carter's Variations, a Brahms symphony, and the Rachmanoff Concerto No. 2 were performed, with Ling Tung conducting. Steven de Groate was solo pianist. The Teton Symphony Orchestra is made up of 90 resident chamber musicians, concert artists and regular season members of major orchestras, according to Mrs. Stiles...

RICHARD A. NEWBOLD, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Newbold of 702 Lanham St., Aug. 23 was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserves after earning Aug. 19 a B.S. degree in criminal justice from Midwestern University in Wichita Falls, where he was in the R.O.T.C. program.

Lt. Newbold will report Sept. 17 to Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Aberdeen, Md., where he is assigned to the Ordnance Branch. He was in the Tall City for the Saturday marriage of his sister, Janet, to Paul Raymond Ellis...

MELINDA McLAIN, who is a junior student at Midland High School, returned Aug. 16 from a trip to Spain, where she studied five weeks at the University of Valencia at Valencia and toured two weeks the south of Spain. The trip was part of a program called Summer Sessions Abroad sponsored by the University of San Francisco.

Miss McLain said Spain is a "very interesting country. Nearly every country has conquered Spain, where there are lots of things you could travel all over the world and see. In one city there is a Catholic cathedral in Gothic style with an Arab turret."

She explained she was the only Texan out of 400 persons participating in the program, which is open to both high school and college students by applying to the program at the University of San Francisco.

In Valencia, said Miss McLain, she lived with a Spanish family and practiced their culture and ate their food, which she said she liked, even though it was bland. "I came back wanting Mexican food," she said.

She also learned a lot of Spanish, which will earn her credit toward graduation...

A collection of misspellings

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Americans have always enjoyed cooking and/or eating dishes from other countries.

However, misspelling the names of these foreign specialties began long ago and continues today. Here's our latest collection of such misspellings. First, one from almost 50 years ago.

In "Favorite Recipes of the Movie Stars," published in 1931, Helen Twelvetrees, described as "a young star who doesn't bother her head about calories and vitamins, but usually takes a salad for lunch just because she finds it tempting," gave a Mexican salad as her favorite. It's name was misspelled as "Wakimoli." The late Helen Evans Brown, in her "West Coast Cookbook," published in 1952, cited a similar choice misspelling: "waca molay."

GUACAMOLE is correct. In its simplest form it consists of mashed avocado, lemon juice, chopped onion, salt and pepper, garnished with lettuce and tomatoes. Nowadays guaca-

She also announced that the local club is assisting, financially, another student at the college, and that plans are being made to assist an LVN with her RN training.

Guests included Thelma Henson, Lillie Mae Stovall, Lois Hearn, Jim Montgomery and Jim Holmaas. Altrusans attending were Johnnie Carter, C.A. McCain, Bob Cain, Lewis Feagan and Ron Menzel. Other guests were the hostess' houseguests, her sisters, Mrs. Bud Bryant and husband from Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Ben Scott and husband from Booneville, Mo., and her nephew, Steve O'Dell of Austin.

The club's first regular meeting of the fall season will be Sept. 14 in Midland Hilton. Altrusa information committee, chaired by Mrs. Grimm, will be in charge of the program, at which time yearbooks will be distributed.

The way it's supposed to be

These patterns of behavior and expectations are called "scripts."

Most of us are not aware that we do live out a number of "scripts" and that so much of our behavior is reflexive and may have nothing to do with the immediate situation.

For example, Diane was used to having people "leave" when tensions and emotions got high. To her mind, this was just "the thing to do" and did not have the significance that Roger interpreted her actions to mean.

Roger's experiences included "leaving the scene" as a supreme rejection and affront and so did not play out the game in the way Diane anticipated, which was to wait a while and resume discussion.

Roger's emotional eruption occurred because his early training was very different from Diane's. In his family the "script" was to follow through with the problem until it was resolved amicably. "Leaving" to him was permanent, as when his aunt left his uncle only one time—in divorce.

For Diane, "leaving" meant "time out," but for Roger "leaving" meant "the end."

Herein lies a conflict basic to most relationships: different scripts. We all have notions about how things are done and should be handled from our early training and experiences in life.

We bring these unique ideas into a unique relationship where a lot of clarification is going to have to take place so that the partners are not hurt or confused.

The first step is to realize that your ways of seeing and doing things are not necessarily universal, and while they may have served you in the past, they may not serve you, your partner or your relationship anymore.

This is where flexibility in love relationships needs to be applied. And why it is important for partners to find out much more about themselves and each other.

Sailing junk still way of life for Chinese family

By C.C. MINICLER
Associated Press Writer

SHANGHAI, China (AP) — Contrary to popular opinion abroad, private enterprise is permitted in the People's Republic of China, within limits, and is a key to transportation today.

Hsia Chang-fa has raised his three children beneath the single mast of his century-old sailing junk. Hsia carries no charts and has no need for a compass, having learned every subtlety of the Huangpu River from his father and grandfather.

During an impromptu interview in midstream, as huge ocean liners steamed into this bustling seaport which handled some 60 million tons of cargo last year, Hsia spoke of the quiet beauty of river life.

His wife said that she would be happy if their 15-year-old daughter eventually married a riverman. She knows they are good people. Her own parents, who now live ashore in their own home, raised her on their sailing junk.

Thousands of families still live on river boats in eastern China, but few are seen any more in Shanghai. They have been replaced by motorized junks and cement-hulled barges which still carry a fifth of all freight.

The 105,000 miles of inland waterways provide the cheapest means of transporting everything from rocks and bricks to ore, salt, chemical fertilizer, cloth and farm machinery between rural communes and urban factories.

Hsia, his wife and eldest son make the round trip once a week. If the current and winds are right he can cover the downstream distance in 17 to 18 hours. If the wind dies they use long oars and poles to propel the vessel.

In the summer, when school is out, their daughter and 10-year-old son leave their maternal grandparents' home and join the family on the open deck, sheltered from burning sun and heavy rains by a woven reed cover over the living quarters.

Traditional Feast in Today's Tempo

Gather friends for a fall feast. It's traditional, and it's fun! From ancient times the autumn harvest has been followed by a festival including a robust display of appetizing food. Since most often it's pork that's paired with seasonal bounty, America's celebration in recent years has been called "Porkfest."

A traditional feast need not mean that meal preparation can't be approached from a modern viewpoint. A special dinner can be easily planned by today's busy woman who has a minimal amount of time to spend in the kitchen. Many of today's lean, meaty pork cuts in your favorite market go directly from refrigerator to range to table without fuss or muss.

A pork smoked shoulder roll in the oven allows the cook to relax with her guests before dinner. Likewise, chops and steaks can be popped in the oven and left on their own until the dinner bell sounds.

Today's cook doesn't snub shortcuts. Frequently to save time she takes advantage of convenience foods. Packaged seasoned stuffing mix is one of them. Prepared herb seasoned stuffing mix, which gains interest with chopped apple and zucchini, complements pork chops in fine style in Pork Chop and Stuffing Casserole. The recipe for Chili Pork Steaks illustrates another time-saving use of stuffing mix. Crushed cornbread stuffing mix, used to coat the steaks, contributes to their flavor perfection.

When it comes to salads, a cook can look again to packaged convenience to add interest with seasoned croutons. Yet another idea that speeds preparation is the use of packaged cookies as a substitute for a dessert "crust". Bordeaux cookies circle and top the delicious Pumpkin Chiffon Souffle. This dessert is especially attractive when prepared and served in a clear heat-resistant glass souffle dish.

Selecting the foods is just the start of staging a traditional meal that fits a modern lifestyle. Using cook-and-serve glass-ceramic cookware will further reduce the time spent in the kitchen, since both serving and cleanup are simplified. In addition to providing a convenience for homemakers plagued by full schedules, oven-to-table cookware keeps pace with today's tempo with patterns that reflect modern natural color and style preferences too.

This page, featuring good old-fashioned flavor in a modern setting, has been designed for dinnertime enjoyment of your family and friends. You'll find that a fall feast can be fun for you as well as for them.

Pork Chop and Stuffing Casserole

6 pork chops, cut 3/4 inch thick*	1 can (10-3/4 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1/4 cup lard or drippings	1/2 cup water
1-1/2 teaspoons salt	2 apples, chopped (about 2 cups)
2 medium onions, chopped	3 cups chopped zucchini squash
1 package (8 ounces) herb seasoned stuffing mix

Lightly brown chops in lard or drippings in large glass-ceramic skillet; remove chops from skillet and sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cook onion in drippings in skillet 3 to 5 minutes; stir in stuffing mix and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt. Combine soup with water. Add chopped apple and zucchini and diluted soup to stuffing mixture, stirring lightly to combine; place in large glass-ceramic open roaster. Place pork chops on top of stuffing. Cover pan tightly with foil. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) for 45 minutes. Remove foil and continue baking 15 minutes or until chops are done. 6 servings.

*Smoked pork chops can be used. In this case do not brown chops.

Chili Pork Steaks

4 pork blade steaks, cut 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick	2 tablespoons chili powder
1 package (8 ounces) corn bread stuffing mix	1-1/2 teaspoons garlic salt
	1/4 teaspoon pepper
	2/3 cup chili sauce

Crush stuffing mix to make crumbs and mix with chili powder, garlic salt and pepper. Spread chili sauce on both sides of pork steaks; dredge in crumb mixture. Place steaks on rack in glass-ceramic open roaster and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 1 to 1-1/4 hours, until done. 6 servings.

Pork chops bake atop speedy-to-prepare stuffing in an oven-to-table roaster for streamlined version of good old-fashioned home cooking.

No last-minute meal preparation chores need concern the hostess who lets the oven do the cooking and counts on refrigerator-ready salads and desserts.

Glazed Smoked Pork Shoulder

1 smoked pork shoulder roll (2 to 3 pounds)	1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 cup brown sugar	1/4 teaspoon allspice
	2 tablespoons cider vinegar

Place smoked pork shoulder roll on rack in a glass-ceramic open roaster. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part and is not resting in fat. Do not add water, do not cover. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) until thermometer registers 140°F. to 150°F. Meanwhile combine brown sugar, ground cloves and allspice in small saucepan. Stir in vinegar and cook slowly 10 minutes. Spread glaze over meat and continue baking to 170°F. (Allow 35 to 40 minutes per pound for roasting.)

Crunchy Apple Salad Bowl

2/3 cup plain yogurt	2 green onions, chopped
2 tablespoons lemon juice	2 tablespoons snipped fresh dill
2 tablespoons honey	2 tablespoons snipped parsley
2 small heads romaine lettuce, torn in pieces	1/2 six-ounce package Pepperidge Farm Cheddar cheese croutons
8 radishes, quartered
2 red apples, diced
1/4 cup raisins

Combine yogurt, lemon juice and honey. Mix romaine, radishes, apple, raisins, onions, dill and parsley. Add croutons. Pour yogurt mixture over salad and toss. 8 to 10 servings.

Pumpkin Chiffon Souffle

1 package (6-3/4 ounces) Bordeaux Cookies (crisp rectangular cookies)	1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted	1/2 teaspoon allspice
3/4 cup brown sugar	1/4 teaspoon ginger
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin	1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon	4 eggs, separated
	1 can (29 ounces) pumpkin
	1/3 cup sugar
	1/2 pint whipping cream

Reserve 10 cookies. Crush remaining cookies to make crumbs and mix with melted butter. Combine brown sugar, gelatin, cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice, ginger and salt in saucepan. Add milk to egg yolks and beat; stir in pumpkin. Add to brown sugar mixture, cook over low heat, stirring until gelatin is completely dissolved and mixture thickens slightly. Chill, stirring occasionally until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Gradually add sugar, beating after each addition, until stiff. Fold into cooled pumpkin mixture. Beat whipping cream until stiff and fold into pumpkin mixture. Pour just enough pumpkin filling into a 2-quart clear glass souffle dish to cover the bottom. Stand reserved 10 cookies around sides of dish, spacing evenly. Carefully add remaining filling, keeping cookies pressed around sides of dish. Sprinkle reserved cookie crumb mixture over top of souffle. Chill 4 hours or overnight. 8 to 10 servings.

Mountain climbers scale buildings for practice

By LYNN SIMROSS
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — A gardener tending the flowerbeds opposite the Mary Norton Clapp Library at Occidental College this warm morning stops working and stares. A young woman, dressed in a T-shirt, shorts and running shoes, is climbing the front face of the building, hand over hand, without a rope. The young man standing below teases her, calling her "gorilla woman." Then he begins climbing up the other side of the library.

After a few minutes of ups and downs on the library walls, the two climbers return to the pavement and jog off toward another campus building where they will repeat the exercise.

Even if the befuddled gardener knew what these people were up to, he wouldn't believe it.

Mountain climbers-filmmakers Mike Hoover and Beverly Johnson have practiced this strange routine practically every morning this summer when previous commitments have not taken them away from Los Angeles. They have to stay in good shape physically, they say, because in September they are leaving on an almost unbelievable journey — to Antarctica.

It is the chance of a lifetime, Mike Hoover will tell you, something that has been a lifelong dream, and he intends to be prepared. But getting ready for the five-month trip — which includes trekking across 1,400 miles of ice with sled dogs and cross-country skis to get to a mountain they intend to climb — is not an easy task, because you just don't get up one morning and announce you are going to Antarctica.

"It's the last place," Hoover says. "It's the last continent. The highest, driest, coldest, windiest, most remote place on earth. It's like going to Mars."

The sign on the front door of the small frame house that Hoover and Johnson rent in Highland Park reads: Wild Animal Permit No. 31735. Poisonous snakes for scientific study.

Occidental College. Gaboon vipers. It is enough to put off even the most intrepid visitor.

Hoover, who has just come in from finishing some repair work on a VW bug in the driveway, is hesitant to discuss the snakes, and will not say where they are in the house. He would much rather talk about Antarctica, but he does admit he has "always liked snakes, mainly because nobody else does. Besides," he adds, "instead of a watchdog, we have watchsnakes."

A large table in the corner of the living room is spread with maps, charts, other material on Antarctica. Volumes of books are stacked on the floor.

"We've read everything we can find," Beverly Johnson explains, handing lemons to Hoover and the visitor. "We've visited libraries. Collected all of the writings of the old explorers. We've studied the Arctic, too. It is valuable background."

But the Arctic climate is mild compared with that of the Antarctic. Larger than the United States and Mexico combined (5.5 million square miles), Antarctica is a continent 98 percent covered by ice whose average thickness is more than a mile. It surrounds the South Pole. Antarctica's temperatures average 30 degrees colder than those at the North Pole, and it is the site of the lowest temperature ever recorded, 128.9 degrees F. below zero. Even in the summer months, from October through February, when the sun shines all the time, the temperature in Antarctica rarely rises above 30 degrees F.

Although Antarctica was discovered 158 years ago, it remains much of a mystery to people other than explorers and scientists. But tourism seems to be on its way. This year there are at least two separate cruise-ship tours that leave from the tip of South America for the frozen continent. Air New Zealand has just decided to offer a fly-over sightseeing tour, hosted by none other than Sir Edmund Hillary, the first person to climb Mt. Everest.

But those kinds of visits are expensive (ranging from $2,295 to $3,575 a person) and probably would not appeal to most tourists.

Mike Hoover has a different approach. He, Johnson and the four other members of his American Antarctic Expedition are planning to shoot an ambitious documentary of their travels, which will be broadcast on prime-time television.

"The average American," Hoover

South America to Deception Island off Antarctica, then across Hope Bay to the mainland, where they will begin their 1,400-mile crossing of Palmer Land, south of the tip of South America. At Siple Station, one of America's four Antarctic bases, they will meet an ABC crew before ascending the 8,000-foot western face of Mt. Tyree, a 16,860-foot icy peak located 185 miles south of Siple.

(The United States is one of 10 down there, but what we're really going to try to do is take the viewer with us. He probably learns more that way."

The people-oriented technique is one that Hoover used successfully in his 1976 documentary for CBS, "To the Top of the World: Assault on Mt. Everest," for which he received an Emmy nomination. He used a similar format for last summer's climb of Autana, the highest vertical rock in the world, located in the Venezuelan jungle, which he also filmed for ABC.

Two of his earlier documentaries, "Solo" and "Journey to the Outer Limits," were nominated for Academy Awards, the latter also for an Emmy. He served as climbing adviser and a director for "The Eiger Sanction" and taught its star, Clint Eastwood, how to climb.

During the filming of "The Eiger Sanction," Hoover suffered his only injury in climbing; his back was broken when a rock fell on him. The man climbing with him was killed.

Hoover became an actor-mountain climber in "Calloway's Climb," a television movie to be shown in September, and Johnson doubled for actress Mariette Hartley, who was five months pregnant, in the climbing scenes.

Hoover pulls out some Antarctic ice charts he has collected for reference. "See," he says, pointing to a satellite picture of the continent, "on Sept. 25, 1975, the ice here surrounding Antarctica was 5 to 7 feet thick. We won't know what it will be like until we get there, but we can get some idea from these charts."

Hoover, 34, has been climbing for 16 years and filming for 13. He started mountain climbing when he began photographing falcons in their nests. He became so interested in his new venture that he dropped out of UCLA medical school after one year and hasn't again entertained the thought of becoming a doctor.

He received BA degrees in chemistry and psychology from Occidental.

The rest of the Antarctic crew members are veteran climbers except for Dave Matthews, an Englishman who works for the British Antarctic Survey and is the dog expert.

"Dave will stay at the base camp (at Mt. Tyree) and tend the dogs," Hoover says, "but he could end up doing a little climbing, too. A lot of times nonclimbers get with us and end up climbing."

The other climbers, all in their 20s, are: Rick Ridgeway of Malibu, Calif., who has been a mountain climber for 10 years and who went with Hoover on the Everest and Venezuelan climbs (Ridgeway, who is now in Pakistan attempting an ascent of K-2, has just published a book on Everest); Mike Graber, another Los Angeles-area member of the Venezuelan climb, who has had eight years of climbing experience and 10 years of skiing (Graber is in Alaska attempting an ascent in the Kachinas Mountains); Dale Bard, a veteran climber who works search and rescue in Yosemite National Park and is, according to Hoover, "a powerhouse in terms of climbing."

"They are all going to be in better shape than we are," Johnson said with a grin. "They're all out climbing this summer. Even Dave Matthews, who isn't a climber, is on a geological survey of some unmapped areas in Greenland."

Johnson at 31 is considered one of the best woman climbers in the world (Climbing magazine calls her the greatest technical woman climber), but she hates to train. A former ski racer, Johnson usually spends her summers working on fire crews at Yosemite, "sawing down trees and carrying 80-pound things."

Johnson, originally from Virginia and a graduate of Kent State in geology, began climbing in 1967, when she was a student at USC. "I had a rope which came with a book I bought," she says. "Then I met some people who climbed with me because I had this good rope."

"Bev is afraid of nothing," Hoover says proudly. "There is no other girl like her in the whole world. You should have seen her at Autana. She was leading and a big lightning bolt struck. I was down below and I looked up and her hair was standing on end. And she was just laughing."

"Later on, it began to rain really hard and we were up on this ledge. We all had to go down. Bev went back and went through the packs and got all the food. None of the rest of us thought about it. Then she climbed down and fixed dinner."

Johnson and Hoover met several years ago on a climb ("He was going down; I was coming up," she says) but didn't like each other. Last year, they got together for the Venezuelan climb and have been inseparable since.

Mike Hoover and Beverly Johnson have practiced this strange routine practically every morning this summer when previous commitments have not taken them away from Los Angeles. They have to stay in good shape physically, they say, because in September they are leaving on an almost unbelievable journey—to Antarctica.

says, "knows virtually nothing about the whole continent. In our film, we'll detail everything we're doing. It will be essentially character-oriented, a story of people going to Antarctica rather than just about the environment."

It took Hoover a while to sell his Antarctic film idea, but he finally interested ABC, which will fund the video program. The expedition itself, for which Hoover has a budget of $250,000, will be financed, according to Robert Carpenter of McCann-Erickson advertising agency, who is arranging for the funds, through backing from major corporations and the sale of publishing rights.

Hoover has discussed his project with officials of the National Science Foundation in Washington and expects to receive its approval for cooperation for the expedition next week.

The NSF, a kind of watchdog of the Antarctic, manages the U.S. Antarctic Research Program, a continuous operation since 1957-58, and can approve or disapprove proposed Antarctic expeditions. It is possible to go without NSF sanction, but Hoover, like other expedition leaders before him, prefers to go with its blessing.

Hoover and his crew, all but one of whom have worked with him on other mountain-climbing film projects, will film their sail (about 600 miles) from Ushuala on the southernmost tip of countries that occupy 30 year-round stations in the Antarctic. In 1961 the United States and 11 other nations — Australia, Argentina, Belgium, Norway, Chile, France, Japan, the United Kingdom, New Zealand, South Africa and the Soviet Union — signed the Antarctic Treaty, limiting the continent to peaceful cooperation and scientific study and freezing the claims made to it by seven nations. Since then, seven other countries — Czechoslovakia, Denmark, The Netherlands, Romania, East Germany, Brazil and Poland — have approved the treaty, which expires in 1989.

The ABC crew, Hoover says, will also film some footage of the American bases, Siple, McMurdo, Palmer and the South Pole, to be interspersed with that of the expedition. The last portion of the climb will be broadcast live, relayed to the United States by satellite. The documentary is tentatively scheduled to be shown Jan. 14 and 15.

"Viewers will be familiar with the people," says Hoover. "Even the dogs (the 27 huskies to be used to pull the sledges crossing the peninsula) will be heroes."

"Oh, we'll show some of the sealife — the coastal waters of Antarctica have the greatest abundance of sealife in the world — and cutaways to most of the U.S. bases and what's going on in research and exploration

AT WIT'S END TV viewing high school students can stop observing, start living

By ERMA BOMBECK

By graduation, the average high school student will have viewed 18,000 hours of TV, and attended only 11,000 hours of formal classroom instruction. They will have witnessed 13,000 TV killings and will have seen 350,000 commercials.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS FOR TELEVISION GRADUATES

Good morning, Graduates.

Thanks for allowing me to preempt the test patterns for my message this morning. You know, a funny thing happened to me on the way to the studio. Come to think of it, if you've watched 22,836 sitcoms, you've probably heard it before. Today, my friends, you're standing on the brink of prime time. . . a new life where you'll leave the house and get jobs and — actually they won't be as good paying jobs as $20,000 Pyramid or Hollywood Squares or Joker's Wild, but . . .

What I'm trying to say is that all you professional viewers aren't going to be renewed next season. You're going to have a taste of real life for a change like riding the subway, sitting at a table for meals. . . or put it another way. . . a documentary without commercials. You're ready to see the world.

Oh, I know you've seen all the Olympic games, live, seen every inauguration, every country and its leader in the world, mass on Christmas Eve in Rome, climbed the Himalayas, but your travels this time will take you several feet away from your TV screen — and that's a little scary.

You've known all about sex since the age of two and regard it as about as exciting as flossing your teeth, but trust me, there's more to getting married than the ratings. Your education up to now has been one of the most unique in the history of civilization. You know now to unclog drains, shake up your mouth, aid indigestion, clean your oven while you sleep, deal with irregularities, and fight cavities.

But have you no curiosity as to what happened to Mr. Olsen? How long Charlie Tuna can handle rejection? And what Sandy Duncan replied when her husband said, "This is ridiculous, but I thought I saw you today standing in a wheat field with a box of crackers."

About violence. . . what can I tell you? You've seen it all. . . war, riots, assassinations, terrorists, rapists, murders and cities burning.

What you don't know. . . and what the real world can provide — is the means to do something about it and the love and compassion to feel. Stop observing the world and start living in it. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY

Agency allows mastectomy prosthesis

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: On Nov. 16, 1977, my wife and I read the following item in your column in the Herald-News in Joliet, Ill.

"DEAR ABBY: I've just had the biggest slapdown in my life. My insurance company has disallowed the prosthesis I bought for the mastectomy I had four years ago.

It's not a case of vanity, or of replacing a piece of female equipment. It's a case of restoring equilibrium. Without proper balance, a woman cannot walk straight. Also, her neck and shoulders ache from the lopsidedness.

Those little pads and falsies from the department store don't work. At my son's wedding, I was dancing and having a marvelous time, when my sister caught my eye and whispered urgently in my ear, "Please go to the ladies' room and check your falsie!" (It had worked its way up to my shoulder!)

After that, I phoned my local American Cancer Society to find out where to get a properly fitting prosthesis. Just two days after I had it, my neck and shoulder pain disappeared. And it feels so good and looks so natural.

Abby, if you print this, maybe some bright insurance executive will see it and realize such a prosthesis is not simply cosmetic. It's vital to the health of a woman who has had a mastectomy — ST. LOUIS WOMAN"

And then your reply: "DEAR WOMAN: Here's your letter. Insurance executives?"

Well, this is what ensued: My wife, Barbara, who is also my business associate, read that article and with the ammunition you provided, plus her knowledge of the health insurance business, we convinced one of our primary health insurance agencies that breast prosthetic devices should be considered a legitimate expense for insurance purposes!

In addition to altering current practice, we were able to obtain favorable consideration for a claim made two years ago.

Abby, what you publish does have impact, and you are to be commended for bringing this matter to the attention of the public.

Very truly yours, BEN C. HILL, C.L.U. LEMONT, ILLINOIS

DEAR BEN:

Your letter made my day. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I really shouldn't be calling you "dear" because you let me down twice, but I am giving you another chance. Before I waste another postage stamp on you, I want to find out if you answer letters from people who want a personal reply. I wrote you two long letters and you never answered either one of them.

I would also like to know if there is some box number I can write to instead of sending my letter in care of the newspaper here. I live in a small town where everybody knows everybody else, and I have a close (and nosy) relative who works at the newspaper, so I'm not about to spill my guts (excuse me) in a DEAR ABBY letter in care of the newspaper.

One more question: Must a letter be signed to make your column? PROBLEMS GALORE

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Athlete's foot hard to cure

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've had athlete's foot for over six months and would really like to get rid of it. Have you any good advice?—Jack G.

Dear Jack: Athlete's foot is a fungus condition that is just about universal. Everyone seems to get it at one time or another.

It is caused by an organism called tinea pedis (fungus of the foot) and it thrives on moisture. So the first thing is to keep your feet as dry as possible. Lots of powder helps.

The fungus grows not only between your toes and other such comfortable spots, but in your socks and your shoes. So change your socks two or three times a day—and keep your shoes well aired. Walk around barefoot at home.

Wash your feet frequently. Use one of the many anti-fungal preparations that are available. Tinactin (tolnaftate) is a good one and you can get it without a prescription. There are a number of more powerful medicines for which you need a prescription.

If your athlete's foot is bad, see a doctor. Whatever you do, keep after it. It is a stubborn nuisance, but you can get the better of it.

Dear Dr. Solomon: What is the best thing to do if a young child takes some medicine he's not supposed to? Our 3-year-old almost got hold of some sleeping pills the other day. I realized that I didn't know what to do if he had swallowed them.—D.K.

Dear D.K.: If a child swallows a medicine he or she is not supposed to take, the thing to do is to induce vomiting, unless the child is unconscious or having convulsions. The easiest way to do this is with syrup of ipecac. If the child is under one year, give a teaspoon, followed by a glass of water. If he is over a year, give a tablespoon, followed by a glass of water.

If no vomiting occurs within 20 minutes, you can repeat the dose—but only once.

Of course you will also want to check your doctor or a poison control center right away. Let me remind you that vomiting is (ital) not (unital) the right thing to do in case of certain poison such as acid or lye, in which case only milk or water should be given, to dilute them.

Syrup of ipecac is a non-prescription formula that you should always have on hand—along with some clear first aid instructions, your doctor's phone number and that of the nearest poison control center.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is polio still a danger?—Mrs. D.S.

Dear Mrs. D.S.: Yes, if people do not get their children immunized, because naturally occurring polio viruses are even today frequently imported into the United States.

(Dr. Solomon has authored several best-selling books on diet and weight loss. For his booklet, "Plain Talk About Weight Loss," send $1 plus a stamped, self-addressed, No. 10 envelope in care of this newspaper, to WEIGHT LOSS BOOKLET, P.O. BOX 2000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.)

Family of dead woman seeking police testimony

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Attorneys for the family of Karen Silkwood filed motions in federal court Monday to compel police officers to answer questions refused at earlier depositions.

The motion claims members of the Oklahoma City Police Department lied about not having investigated Kerr-McGee employee Karen Silkwood before her death.

Silkwood attorney, Daniel Sheehan said he has sworn statements from officers "admitting" they used wiretaps in investigating Silkwood and her associates jointly with Kerr-McGee before her death in November 1974.

The Silkwood family is suing Kerr-McGee, a Nashville journalist and two FBI officials alleging a conspiracy to violate the woman's civil rights and claiming the corporation negligently caused Ms. Silkwood to be contaminated with plutonium.

Sheehan claims the statements are contrary to depositions given by officials in 1977 and 1978 that they never wiretapped Ms. Silkwood or participated in any surveillance of her and her associates.

The motions also request the court to order the police department to present documents showing who had custody of the alleged wiretapping devices.

Sheehan said he is filing statements allegedly made by Captain Bob Hicks and Master Patrolman Bill Byler that they admitted to private investigators they met at police intelligence headquarters to discuss Silkwood and her associates as early as Oct. 14, 1974.

He said the officers were directed to gather information on Silkwood.

Sheehan also claims he has proof another meeting was held at which Kerr-McGee security chief James Reading discussed a joint effort between police and the corporation to investigate Ms. Silkwood.

Byler said Monday night he did not know anything about sworn statements made by him and denied he ever investigated Ms. Silkwood.

Hicks could not be reached for comment.

The Silkwood attorneys said they also have evidence the FBI knew about the alleged surveillance. They said more motions and will be filed this week to obtain further depositions of FBI agents.

A federal judge is expected to rule early in September on motions filed by defense attorneys to have the Silkwood suit dismissed before trial.

Lee High pep rally shows much spirit

By JULIE OCHSNER, CINDY CANFIELD & ROBIN BENNETT

Hi Rebs. How was your first day of school? Ours was great. Hope none of you Sophomores got lost. We figure that even though Sophomore Orientation went so well, if you're like we were, it probably didn't help a whole lot cause Lee is such a big school. But you'll get used to it and pretty soon you'll learn to love it like we do.

Thanks to all the members of the Junior Council for all their help with Orientation, and thanks to the Rebelettes and band members for making the pep rally a success.

You people showed a lot of spirit at the pep rally and we'll be looking for even more as football season rolls around. Let's show the team that we're backing them all the way to State!

This season's Varsity and J.V. football teams were introduced at the Maroon and White picnic, along with the state champion band, twirlers, cheerleaders, and of course Rebelettes!

This was followed by the best back-to-school dance we can remember! It's success was probably due to the fact that everyone (especially the Seniors!) was afflicted with a severe case of REBEL-ITIS... This could possibly explain the worm-train, lots of hand jive, and a new version of the bunnyhop performed to "Brick House!" To Ken, Mike Herbie and Terry (Macho Men).

sorry your attempts at a Toga Party failed, but the Turbans were good enough.

Attention Rebelettes: We will start squad meetings on Wednesday mornings in the history hall. The meetings will start at 7:30 a.m. PLEASE BE THERE ON TIME!!!

The Rebelettes are selling popcorn as their money-making project this year. They would appreciate you buying some.

Congratulations on your first performances of the year. Ya'll really looked great at orientation and the picnic. Keep it up and let's get that rousing Rebel spirit rolling!

WIND IT UP REBS and boogie on down to the scrimmage in Andrews Friday night to see the Mighty Maroon Platoon Mangle and Mutilate the Mustangs. J.V. action starts at 6 and Varsity at 7:30 p.m. Ya'll come out and support the Rebel Express as they charge on to victory!!! ALL THE WAY TO STATE!!!!

COMMENTS FROM B.C.:

The Dixie Disco is ALL RIGHT!!! If you missed the back-to-school dance you should hate yourself, cause Friday night was Rebel Night.

The "Dixie Disco" was successful — Thanks to THE GRAPEVINE for typing it.

which is supplying all the records to make it great and up-to-date! Thanks, Grapevine!

NOTICE TO ALL SOPHOMORES: Thursday, at 7 p.m. in the Y. C., we will hold the organizational meeting of the "100 Club." This club is for Sophomores only, so ya'll BE THERE!!!

Hours of operation of the Youth Center: Open at 10:30-5:00 Monday-Friday. Open each evening from 7-9. Closed Thursday night (except for meetings) and Sunday night. Open Friday night from 7:30-11, and Saturday from 7:30-10. Open Sunday afternoons, 2-5.

Note — When the West door is unlocked, we're open. Students are not to use the back door.

'Til next week. J.O. C.C. R.B.

P.S. Inadvertently omitted from the list of super painters were Winna Hale, Kelly Blackwell and Brenda Manauh. Thanks, girls, and we're sorry about that.

P.P.S. Thanks to Brenda Manauh for all her great ideas for this weeks Chatter, and thanks to Jeannie Carter for typing it.

Mexican medical grads face delays in practice

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Graduates of certain medical schools on the Mexican border will face delays in entering Texas practice because the State Board of Medical Examiners is worried about the quality of their training. The board voted over the weekend to suspend licensing of graduates of certain schools pending an investigation of their programs. A special committee will examine two-year programs offered by such schools as the Autonomous University of Ciudad Juarez to determine if they are "reputable medical schools."

The board allows graduates of "reputable" foreign schools to take the Texas licensing examination if they have passed the test given by the Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates (ECFMG).

Transsexual teacher fired by board

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A transsexual art teacher who as a man wore unisex clothing and makeup to prepare his pupils for his sex-change operation has been fired by the suburban Chester-Upland School District.

District officials declined to comment on the 6-0 vote Monday night to dismiss Jenell Ashlie, citing the likelihood of litigation.

"They (lawyers) strictly directed us not to make any comments on this at all," said Earl Foster, school board vice president. "I can't expound in any manner."

The resolution to dismiss the 27-year-old teacher was approved on the recommendation of Superintendent John Vaul with no discussion. It said Ms. Ashlie's services "are hereby terminated on the grounds of incompetency, immorality and other improper conduct all of which are potentially psychologically damaging to students."

Martha Poor, president of the Chester Upland Education Association, said the union would support Ms. Ashlie at an upcoming hearing.

"She's been rated satisfactory by all her supervisors," said Ms. Poor. "As for the other charges, there's no evidence to support anything."

Ms. Ashlie was hired by the district more than two years ago as a substitute.

Carter will carry pitch to farmers, businessmen

By TOM RAUM
WASHINGTON (AP) — With Congress in recess, President Carter and his top aides will carry their pitch for natural gas deregulation to businessmen, farmers and other interest groups, according to administration sources.

Trimming two days off his Western vacation, the president will return to Washington late Wednesday, then spend much of the rest of the week in meetings to win support for the wobbly compromise that would lift federal price controls from natural gas in 1985.

Although details of his schedule are not final, meetings with farmers and consumer organizations are tentatively scheduled for Thursday, while sessions with various other groups also are planned, one official said.

"He'll be talking with a whole lot of people whose support can be helpful in winning passage of the bill," said the official, who asked not to be identified.

Meanwhile, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, Federal Reserve Chairman William Miller and Robert Strauss, special presidential trade representative, plan to meet on Wednesday with top U.S. banking officials to try to win their support for the measure.

That session, administration sources said, would be followed by a meeting with representatives of industries that are among the biggest users of natural gas: glass, textile and paper manufacturing.

"There will be other meetings like these later in the week which the president will join in," said an administration source who asked not to be identified.

The natural gas compromise is expected to see Senate floor action the week of Sept. 11. It is opposed by a coalition of liberals who claim it would prove too costly to consumers and conservatives who want immediate deregulation.

As of late Monday neither side was able to claim a clear-cut majority. Both were scurrying for votes among undecided senators — estimated at a dozen to two dozen, depending on who was doing the counting.

A count by Senate leaders last week showed that the compromise did not have sufficient votes to pass. A senior Carter aide traveling with the president, who asked not to be identified,

HNG stakes Ward test; well finals

HNG Oil Co. of Midland 1-113 Texfel is to be drilled as a project in Ward County, 6.5 miles southwest of Poyote. The project, scheduled for a 6,800-foot bottom, is 1,787 feet from southeast and 467 feet from southwest lines of section 113, block 34, H&TC survey.

The drillsite is 7/8 mile northeast of the Pitzer, South (Delaware) field and two miles west of the Roda Walker (5900 Canyon) field.

The Pitzer pool produces oil. HNG will test the project as a wildcat for gas production.

STERLING WELL.
Dorchester Exploration, Inc., has reclassified its No. 1-7 Price from gas to oil in the Parochial-Bade (Cisco) field of Sterling County, 12 miles west of Sterling City.

On the new potential, the well flowed 113 barrels of 48.5-gravity oil and no water, through a 1 1/4-inch choke and perforations from 7,525 to 7,601 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 13,053-1.

The pay was acidized with 5,000 gallons and fractured with 40,000 gallons.

Location is 990 feet from south and east lines of section 7, block 22, H&TC survey.

Operator originally reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 6.2 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 7,525 to 7,694 feet. Total depth is 7,880 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented at 7,750 feet.

Executive says bill's chances 'slim,' 'none'

The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — A senior aide to President Carter said Monday in Jackson, Wyo., that the president cannot now count sufficient votes in Congress to pass the natural gas price decontrol bill that he considers the crucial element in his energy package.

Carter's reassessment of the gas bill's prospects reflects a feeling in the White House what while the gas bill yet may survive its chances have worsened and are now problematical at best.

This also is the view of numerous congressional sources and interested lobbyists, several of whom explicitly ridiculed optimistic predictions made last Friday by Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger Jr. what "we have the votes" for the gas bill.

"The chances of the bill passing at this point are somewhere between 'slim' and 'none,'" said one gas industry executive Monday. An aide to Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., gave a similar estimate.

The Carter aide who briefed reporters in Wyoming said the president feels that a handful of undecided senators will decide the fate of the gas bill, which will raise gas prices while — according to its supporters — inducing new production and insuring short-term supplies. Opponents challenge these latter contentions.

Carter announced Sunday that he was cutting short his western vacation to return to Washington and lobby for the necessary Senate votes.

The White House's problem is selling the complex gas bill in an absence of strong allies. "It would help," one White House official said Monday "if some of our supporters were as enthusiastic as our opponents." He admitted that they are not.

The opponents now include a broad range of Senators, from ardent liberals to oil-and-gas-state conservatives who have coalesced behind the idea that no gas bill this year would be better than this one.

Twenty-four of these Senators have signed a letter announcing their intention to vote to recommit the gas bill to the conference committee, instructing it to produce new legislation simply renewing the president's authority to allocate gas supplies as needed in an emergency next winter, if one were to develop. (Industry spokesmen say there is not much chance of gas shortages this winter.)

Long and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, both signed that letter late Friday, adding two formidable allies to the opposition.

Pipeline sale making money like flowing oil

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP) — Like oil through a pipeline, the money flowed — averaging more than $1 million an hour — as Alaska pipeline builders held a two-day, gone-out-of-business auction.

The sale, which continued today, was a fitting finale to the three-year, $7.7 billion construction project. Everything was big.

"The construction equipment, some pieces weighing more than 100,000 pounds. The equipment stretched for blocks in tidy rows across the former Navy air base where the sale was held.

"The prices, up to $160,000 for a single piece of machinery. Bidding was stiff for the hard-to-get equipment, and sales were expected to reach $15 million by the end of the bidding blitz.

"The crowds, with nearly 2,000 buyers from all over the nation and several foreign countries.

"The risks. Machines were fixed and prettied up with a fresh coat of paint. But merchandise was sold strictly "as is, where is."

"Cash on hand. Nobody's credit was good. Sellers wanted payment in full the day of sale.

"This is one helluva sale," beamed auctioneer William Miller of Fort Worth, Texas. The prices, he said, were right up where he wanted them even though the machines were veterans of rugged Alaska winters.

A typical buyer, E.A. "Jim" Hendricks, paid $30,000 for a grader and figures he beat some 30 other bidders. However, he does not know for sure if it will run once he gets it back to his heavy equipment business in Pendleton, Ore.

"When you get a new husband or boy friend, you don't know if they're going to work right either," he said. "That thing could have a broken crank shaft for all I know. If it does, we'll just fix it, go behind the barn and cry a little."

But before Hendricks finds out if his new machine works, he and all the other buyers have to figure out how to get their tons of machinery home.

Re-entry scheduled

Shell Oil Co. will re-enter its No. 2-B Forristal for upper Wolfcamp tests in Crockett County, 1/2 mile north of the Tippett (upper Wolfcamp) field.

It will be cleaned out to 6,066 feet. The total depth is 6,310 feet.

Location is 5,812 feet from north-east and 440 feet from northwest lines of section 41, block 31, H&TC survey and 10 miles southeast of McCamey.

It will be the third well in the field from that pay if tests are successful.

Exploreres scheduled in West Texas regions

Patrick Corp. of Michigan No. 1 Conrand is to be drilled as a 6,900-foot wildcat in Borden County, 14 miles southwest of Snyder.

Location is 1,350 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 79, block 25, H&TC survey and 3/4 mile northeast of the Double J (Canyon) field and 3/4 mile southwest of the Von Roeder field.

Location is 1,350 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 79, block 25, H&TC survey.

J. Cleo Thompson of Dallas announced locations for a pair of Ellenburger gas wildcats in Schleicher County.

He will drill No. 1 Page-Powell 660 feet from north and west lines of section 3, block 2, GC&SF survey. It is one and three-quarters miles northeast of the Kama field and 19 miles northeast of Ozona.

Thompson No. 1-A Lauffer will be drilled 15 miles northeast of Ozona and 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 10, block 2, GC&SF survey.

The drillsite is one and five-eighths miles southeast of the Ozona, North-east (7250 Canyon) field.

RUNNELS RE-ENTRY
Cambrian Oil, Inc., of Odessa announced plans to re-enter the former C. V. Jones & Foreman Rogers No. 1 Werner, Runnels County wildcat failure.

The operator will clean out to old total depth of 3,919 feet.

The location is 660 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of J. H. Gibson survey No. 144, abstract 1287. L-The project is 2,310 feet northeast of the Byers (Gardner) field and six miles northeast of Ballinger. The re-entry will be operated as No. 1 Miss Clara.

MCCULLOCH STRIKE

Huco Oils of Midland No. 1 W. B. Byrd has been completed as a Pennsylvania oil discovery in McCulloch County, 3/4 mile northeast of the Gassiot (Canyon) field and three miles east of Lohn.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 80 barrels of 36-gravity oil, with a trace of water, through an 18/64-inch choke and perforations from 774 to 790 feet, through 250 gallons of acid and 12,000 gallons of fracture solution.

The gas-oil ratio is 3,600-1. Total depth is 1,294 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 1,250 feet. The plugged back depth is 1,000 feet.

Location is 2,310 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of section 153, H&TC survey.

MCCULLOCH WILDCAT

Sirius Energy Co. of Dallas No. 1 Henry Land is a new 1,000-foot wildcat in McCulloch County, one mile east of Lohn.

Site is 150 feet from south and 1,320 feet from west lines of J. W. Barnett survey No. 1056.

The site is 3/8 mile southeast of the EXOC field.

Enfield spots drillsite for Eddy exploration

Robert N. Enfield of Santa Fe, N. M., announced location for a 10,000-foot Morrow gas wildcat 10 miles southeast of Artesia in Eddy County, N. M., one and five-eighths miles east of an undesignated Morrow discovery.

The project is No. 1-J North Lake McMillan Unit, 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 12-19s-26e.

COTILE RE-ENTRY

Harken Oil & Gas of Abilene No. 1 A. L. Brothers is a re-entry project in Cottle County, six miles southeast of Paducah.

The project is 2,331 feet from north and 1,970 feet from west lines of section 9, IRR survey, A-336.

It originally was completed as the discovery well of the Jack Grimm (Bend conglomerate) field. The operator will re-test the discovery zone.

WARD WELL

Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker No. 1 Maude A. Hall Estate has been completed in Ward County.

Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 3,700,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 13,581 to 14,418 feet opposite the Permo-Pennsylvanian.

The well originally was completed by Atlantic Richfield Co. to open the Block 16, Southwest (Permo-Pennsylvanian) field. Following completion, casing collapsed in the hole and the company re-entered and drilled a sidetrack hole. GMW and took over and completed the project.

Surface location is 1,980 feet from northeast and southeast lines of section 97, block 34, H&TC survey.

Totak depth is 14,540 feet and the plugged back depth is 14,493 feet. Five-inch liner is set at 14,538 feet.

DELAWARE OILER

Mobil Oil Corp. No. S-J Graham Farm has been completed in the Caprito (middle Delaware) field of Ward County, seven miles northeast of Quito.

Operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 146 barrels of 38.2-gravity oil and 549 barrels of water, through a 22/64-inch choke and perforations

ANDREWS WELL

Texaco, Inc., has announced potential test on a new well in the Lowe (Mississippi) pool of Andrews County, 22 miles southwest of Andrews.

The well, No. 257-A-1 J. E. Mabee, a re-entry project, was completed for a daily pumping potential of 6 barrels of 48.1-gravity oil, no water, through perforations from 11,314 to 11,362 feet. The pay was acidized with 6,000 gallons.

Wellsite is 400 feet from south and 2,380 feet from west lines of section 39, block 40, G&MMB&A survey.

The total depth is 13,315 feet and the plugged back depth is 12,380 feet.

PECOS GASSER

Texas Oil & Gas Corp. MNO. 3-75 ARCO is a new well in the Chenot (Wolfcamp) field of Pecos County, 10 miles southeast of Girvin.

Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1,290 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 4,066 to 4,547 feet. The pay was acidized with 4,000 gallons.

The new well is 3/4 miles northeast of other production in the field.

The wellsite is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 75, block 11, H&GN survey.

Total depth is 5,100 feet and four and one-half-inch casing is cemented at total depth.

LEA LOCATION

Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland No. 1-32 State will be drilled as an 11,800-foot test in the Maljamar (Cisco) pool of Lea County, six miles northeast of Maljamar.

The location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 32-16s-33e.

Peru tests to resume

HOUSTON (AP) — The general manager of Peru's state oil company says he expects several U.S. firms to resume explorations in his country.

Alberto Bruce of Petroleo del Peru predicted Monday several exploration contracts will be signed this year.

About 16 foreign firms had exploration operations in Peru in 1971-73 but most left in 1975-76. One reason, Bruce said, involved the writing off of exploration expenses. Since then, he added, contract provisions have been revised to promote explorations.

Bruce said he expects a contract with Belco Petroleum Corp. to operate in the D-3 offshore zone to be signed at any time.

He said he also expects a contract with the Mapco group of Tulsa to start secondary recovery operations in the Talara coastal region.

Peru's current productive capacity was placed at about 140,000 barrels compared with a current demand of about 120,000 barrels daily.

Bruce, in Houston on a working vacation, said Peru needs to increase its oil exports.

"We are a poor country," he said. "We need more foreign currency,

Profits are made by the use of equipment not ownership.

Midland and area servicemen make news

Several Midland-area servicemen have been in the news recently. They include:

Navy Seaman Recruit Stanley L. Gregory, son of Dillon A. Gregory of Lamesa, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

David A. Frymire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Frymire of Goldsmith, was commissioned a second lieutenant and awarded a bachelor of science degree during graduation ceremonies at the U.S. Air Force Academy on May 31.

Lieutenant Frymire, who majored in mechanical engineering, was selected for pilot training at Laughlin AFB, Tex.

Airman First Class Darla R. Johnson, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Johnson of Lamesa, participated in "Dawn Patrol '78", a North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) exercise involving the air, land, naval amphibious forces of six nations.

Airman Johnson is an administrative specialist at Upper Heyford RAF station, England, with the 20th Tactical Fighter Wing.

Sergeant Domingo R. Pena, whose wife, Mary lives in Stanton, recently was assigned as a tank turret repairman with the 1st Cavalry Division at Fort Hood, Tex.

Airman Margarita Parra, sister of Virginia Bravo, who resides at Stanton, has been selected for training at Sheppard AFB, Tex., in the transportation field.

Chief Warrant Officer William L. Pryor, son of Mrs. Ollie M. Pryor of Big Spring, recently was presented the Army Commendation Medal at Fort Bliss, Tex.

Pryor earned the award during his last assignment with the 68th Transportation Company in Germany.

Airman First Class Henry H. Bettis III, son of Mrs. Jannie C. Bettis of 1607 South 13th, Temple, Tex., has graduated at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the U.S. Air Force technical course for electronic computer systems repairman.

U.S. Air Force Master Sergeant James E. Flowers, whose wife, Gether, is the daughter of Mrs. W.D. Sheen of Lamesa, has arrived for duty at Barksdale AFB, La.

Sergeant Flowers, a fuels superintendent with a unit of the Strategic Air Command, previously served at Andersen AFB, Guam.

Staff Sergeant David K. Faust, whose wife, Patsy, is the daughter of G.I. Madison of Stanton, has been named Outstanding Noncommissioned Officer of the Month in his unit at Altus AFB, Okla.

The sergeant is assigned to the 443rd Supply Squadron, a part of the Military Airlift Command.

Navy Torpedoman's Mate Seaman Apprentice James L. Holliday, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.B. Holliday of Andrews, has completed the Basic Enlisted Course at the Naval Submarine School, Groton, Conn.

Cadet Larry D. Iglehart, son of Mrs. Alberta M. Tate, Midland, is receiving practical work in military leadership at the Army ROTC advanced camp at Fort Riley, Kan.

Private David K. Blackshear, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby J. Blackshear of Big Spring, recently was assigned to the 377th Field Artillery in Herzogenaurach, Germany.

Charge carries heavy penalty

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — A young western Kentucky woman could be sent to prison for 10 to 20 years if she is found guilty on charges she performed an illegal abortion on herself with a knitting needle.

Testimony begins today in the trial of Marla Elaine Pitchford, 22, whose case is believed to be one of the first in the nation where a woman, without involvement from doctors, has been charged with aborting herself.

Commonwealth's Attorney Morris Lowe said he would call seven witnesses in the state's effort to prove that Miss Pitchford violated an abortion law passed by the 1974 General Assembly.

The jury of eight men and six women, including two alternates, was chosen Monday in Warren Circuit Court and was sequestered overnight.

Each of 40 prospective jurors was questioned about his or her beliefs regarding abortion and possible affiliation with pro- or anti-abortion groups.

Circuit Judge J. David Francis agreed to the individual questioning, a practice he described as virtually unprecedented in his court, on a motion filed at a pre-trial hearing last Thursday by defense attorney Flora Stuart, a county public defender.

The pale, red-haired defendant, a native of nearby Scottsville, Ky., sat quietly through the proceedings Monday, whispering at times to her attorneys and to her mother, seated at her side.

Kelly Thompson Jr., another public defender representing Miss Pitchford, said he and Miss Stuart would argue a defense of temporary insanity and that psychiatric experts would be among the 15 to 20 defense witnesses.

Miss Pitchford, a former psychology major at Western Kentucky University here, was indicted by a grand jury June 14 on charges of manslaughter and performing an illegal abortion five days earlier, when she was allegedly 20 to 24 weeks pregnant.

Francis dismissed the manslaughter charge at an Aug. 16 pre-trial hearing on grounds that a fetus is not legally a person.

DETROIT (AP) — Silvio Luciani, who had been telling friends for two years that his cousin would be the next pope, is going to see it happen Sunday when Albino Cardinal Luciani becomes Pope John Paul.

Silvio got the official word Monday that Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., and the Detroit Free Press had arranged passports, airline tickets and hotel reservations in Rome.

"Hey, I am glad to go," said the 78-year-old resident of a mobile home park in Marysville, just south of Port Huron, Mich. "I haven't seen my cousin for a few years. He will be surprised to see me. He'll remember me, though."

When Albino Luciani, patriarch of Venice, was elected pope last Saturday, his Michigan cousin first said he would be unable to travel to Rome alone because of his age.

Luciani said he had a passport but none of his four children had the necessary documents to make the trip.

Bonior's office intervened and got the appropriate papers for Luciani's daughter, Dolly Nutt of Marysville, and a son, Richard, of Palos Verdes Estates, Calif.

Arrangements were made to fly Mrs. Nutt's passport application and photo to Washington and back to Detroit.

"They will stay at a hotel a block from the Vatican and will meet old-world relatives they have known only through letters."

"This morning when I was getting nowhere, I was telling myself it almost wasn't worth it," said Mrs. Nutt. "But for my father, it will be one of the greatest days of his life."

Rent bill killed by Calif. senate

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A bill backed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. that would have forced most owners of rental property to roll back rents to May levels and give tenants 80 percent of their Proposition 13 tax savings has been killed by the state Senate.

The Senate defeated the measure on a vote of 21-12.

It was the second time in less than a week the Senate had killed a rent relief measure. A milder bill by Democratic Sen. Paul Carpenter of Cypress was rejected last Wednesday.

The author of the Brown-backed bill, Assemblyman Tom Bates of Oakland, a Democrat, blamed the defeat on opposition from real estate interests and low voter turnout by renters. He predicted it would spur local rent control efforts.

"It means people will have to do it themselves," Bates said. "They cannot count on the Legislature."

Bates' bill would have required landlords, with some exceptions, to roll back rents in January to what they were on May 31, 1978. In addition, landlords would have had to cut rents by 80 percent of their first-year Proposition 13 property tax savings.

They could have raised rents again in February, but would have had to tell tenants the reason for the hike plus any rent increase in the next five years.

The bill did not restrict reasons, or amounts, rent could be raised.

A tenant who questioned the truthfulness of the reason for a rent hike could withhold the rent increase. The landlord could then sue in small claims court and win by demonstrating the disclosure was accurate.

Landlords who had not raised rents from December 1977 to January 1978 would not have to cut rents. The bill would also not cover owners of rental agricultural land.

Syrian forces disarm troops

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian peacekeeping forces disarmed Christian militiamen in northern and eastern Lebanon today as Syrian President Hafez Assad warned Israel against intervention on behalf of the Christians.

The three-day operation brought one-third of the 800-square-mile Christian hinterland north of Beirut under Syrian military control, communique from the peacekeeping command said.

Moving by helicopter, Syrian troops carried out the operation behind a shield of tanks that sealed off the eastern approaches to the shrinking Christian enclave.

A Lebanese police spokesman said a total of 35 Christian militiamen and civilians were killed and 65 militiamen were taken prisoner in three days of fighting. Two Syrians were killed and four were wounded, he said.

The Christians, with their backs to the Mediterranean, were reported preparing a formal declaration of guerrilla warfare against the Syrians, who intervened in the Lebanese civil war to prevent their defeat by the leftist Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies and then turned against them when the Christians refused to submit to Syrian control.

Council to meet

Midland City Council will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday for a special executive session. The panel will meet in the council chambers at City Hall to discuss possible acquisition of land.

Next Sunday, Aug. 20, signals the debut of a new local column for Reporter-Telegram readers, one designed to keep up with the comings, goings and the doings of Midland's active people.

As a people column, that's exactly what "Around Town" will be about.

And it will be broad enough to include news of men and women, as well as the younger set and college students, their honors and activities, house-guests and visitors to the Tall City, trips — virtually anything that Midlanders are doing or plan to do, but which normally would not be expanded into a news story.

"Around Town" will appear daily on the first page of the Lifestyle Section and items now are being solicited by that department.

Midland residents with brief news to submit will find it easy to do. Just dial 682-5311, the newspaper's regular number, anytime between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and ask for Lifestyle. Or mail or bring your items to the Lifestyle Department.

49ers junk Jim Plunkett as teams slice rosters

By The Associated Press

Jim Plunkett saw the writing on the wall last week — but not all of it.

"I think I can assume I'm not going to start," Plunkett said last week after completing one of his last 18 passes as the San Francisco 49ers compiled a 1-3 National Football League preseason record.

What Plunkett failed to read was the fine print that said he would be cut along with seven other San Francisco players Monday as the 49ers reached the 43-man roster limit.

The NFL roster limit will go back up to 45 players by Sunday, when teams can recall two players they previously placed on waivers.

"It's kind of a relief," said Plunkett, who for eight seasons has been one of the NFL's premier quarterbacks. "I guess I'm not too surprised. You shouldn't be surprised by anything in professional football," the 1970 Heisman Trophy winner added.

The 49ers had another surprise in store Monday when they placed All-Pro wide receiver Gene Washington on the injured reserve list and announced that Steve DeBerg, a third-string quarterback a year ago and a Dallas Cowboys' castoff, would be their No. 1 man this season.

THE SECOND-YEAR player out of San Jose State completed 23 of 46 passes in the exhibition season.

DeBerg wasn't the only young signal caller to earn the starting nod for a 1978 NFL regular-season opener.

June Jones III, listed as the No. 4 quarterback on the Falcons' depth chart when the exhibition season opened, was named Atlanta's starting quarterback for its opener Sunday against Houston.

Jones, who will replace Steve Bartkowski, the Falcons' starter last year, saw action in Atlanta's final game last year, but earned the starting berth by leading them to two preseason victories this year.

Atlanta also cut seven players including five-year veteran quarterback Kim McQuiklen and placed defensive tackle Brent Adams on the injured reserve list to reach the 43-man limit.

Starting quarterback decisions were also announced in Cincinnati and Baltimore.

Ken Anderson, the Bengals mainstay in recent years, will have an operation Tuesday on his injured right hand and will miss at least the first five weeks of play. John Reeves will assume his duties.

The Baltimore Colts had better news.

BERT JONES, who suffered an incomplete separation of his right shoulder in last Saturday's preseason finale against the Detroit Lions, thinks he will be ready for the Colts' opener against the Dallas Cowboys' Monday night.

Joe Washington should also be in uniform for the Colts. Washington, acquired in the trade that sent holdout Lydell Mitchell to the San Diego Chargers, announced he will report to the Colts training camp this week. The former Oklahoma running back had informed Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda early Monday that he will not be reporting to the team, but changed his mind later in the day.

Baltimore also announced the acquisition of veteran cornerback Dwight Harrison from the Buffalo Bills for a draft choice.

In other trades, the Seattle Seahawks picked up veteran defensive tackle Bill Gregory and a draft choice from the Cowboys for two draft choices, while the New Orleans Saints acquired eight-year veteran linebacker Floyd Rice from the Oakland Raiders for an undisclosed draft choice.

The Detroit Lions acquired rookie defensive tackle Karl Baldischwiler from the Miami Dolphins in exchange for a future draft choice while the Buffalo Bills got kicker Errol Mann, the NFL's leading scorer last season, and two other players from the Raiders for past considerations.

Dallas placed four players on waivers, including second-year running back Larry Brinson.

PUNTERS ALSO were in the limelight Monday.

Veteran punter Larry Seiple was placed on the injured reserve list and Miami placed five other players on waivers as the Dolphins trimmed their roster to 43 players.

Seiple, a 12th-year pro, suffered a severely sprained knee in the Dolphins' preseason victory over Tampa Bay last Friday night.

Veteran punter Mitch Hoopes was one of seven players released as the Philadelphia Eagles reduced their roster to 43. While the New England Patriots made still another switch in punters, their fourth in 10 days, waiving newly acquired Neil Clabo and reactivating three-year veteran Mike Patrick.

The Patriots, who must trim five more players from their roster to reach 43, also announced that rookie linebacker Bill Matthews had been placed on injured reserve.

Running back Johnny Musso and linebacker Waymond Bryant were placed on the injured reserve list by the Chicago Bears.

The San Diego Chargers waived six players including safety Clarence Duren, a starter last season, and defensive end Wilbur Young, who started for Kansas City in 1977.

THE MINNESOTA Vikings trimmed seven players from their roster, including five-year veteran defensive back Joe Blahak and running back Ron Harris, an 11th round draft choice from Colorado State.

In other moves, the Kansas City Chiefs cut five draft choices including fourth-round pick Danny Johnson, a linebacker from Tennessee State, and three free agents from their roster.

Many NFL teams were not expected to announce their roster changes until today.

Cubs limp home after 10-4 loss

EL PASO—El Paso's Diablos sent the Midland Cubs limping back to the Tall City after taking a 10-4 victory Tuesday night before 7,982 avid fans at Dudley Stadium to move to within two games of first place in the Texas League West Division.

Midland, only a game out of first, thanks to Amarillo's win over San Antonio Tuesday, hosts the league-leading Dodgers at Cubs Stadium at 7:30 p.m. today in the opener of a five-game series.

El Paso, meanwhile, journeys to Amarillo for five games and the first-half champions have a good chance of sneaking in as the second half winner if Midland and San Antonio begin knocking each other off. "We've just about got to sweep the series to insure a playoff spot," worries GM Bill Rigney, Jr. "The sad part of it is that we could have knocked El Paso right out of the race by beating them Tuesday. That would have put them three games behind and we could have concentrated on San Antonio."

THE CUBS lost four of five at El Paso and eight of their last 10 games with the Diablos. However, unlike the weekend losses when Midland fell victim to the Diablos home run power in late innings, the Cubs lost it quickly Tuesday as the California Angels' farmhands unloaded on starter Jack Ledbetter for five runs in the first three innings and then rocked reliever Tom Butler for four more to take a 10-2 lead after four innings.

Floyd Rayford, who hit the game-winning homer Monday in a 5-4 win, belted his 17th roundtripper while Bob Clark, the Texas League's home run leader, hit No. 30 to pace the Diablos' attack. Clark had three hits with three RBI. Against Midland pitching, Clark hit nine homers and knocked in 28 runs for the season. Rayford had six homers and 23 RBI against Midland.

Jim Tracy and Gary Krug led Midland with six of the 13 hits between them. Tracy had a double and single in three trips and Krug had a double, three singles and three RBI for the Cubs. Eric Grandy and Kurt Seibert also had two-hit nights.

Probable starter for Midland tonight is Jeff Albert, 10-9, who won the opener of the series at El Paso, the last game Midland won. The series continues through Saturday, the season's final game.

Leon Spinks to be paid $3.75 million for fight

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Leon Spinks is being paid $3.75 million for his upcoming championship fight with Muhammad Ali — $500,000 more than the former champ, according to contracts on file with the state of Louisiana.

But Ali is getting some perks of his own, like 25 first class hotel rooms for more than two weeks and 40 free airline tickets for his friends.

Those details were spelled out in the contracts for the Sept. 15 fight on file with the Louisiana State Athletic Commission and state attorney general's office.

The contracts between the fighters and Top Rank Inc. of New York show that Ali will receive $3.25 million. It had been said that Ali would get less money than the man who beat him in February, but until the contracts were made public, it was not known how much less.

All will be able to soothe his ego with 30 first class roundtrip airline tickets and 10 economy tickets from anywhere in the United States. And he will get four two-bedroom suites and 21 other hotel rooms for 16 days at sites approved by advisor Herbert Muhammad, as well as three chaffeur-driven limousines for the same period and 200 free fight tickets.

However, Top Rank said in the contract that it would not reimburse Ali or Muhammad for liquor expenses, entertainment expenses or the cost of long distance phone calls after they arrive Aug. 31. And it cautioned hotels not to accept such charges either.

In another fight development, Miami attorney Ellis Rubin says he will hold a "Talkout the Blackout" at Tulane University on Sept. 1-2 in an effort to end the scheduled 200-mile television blackout of the bout.

Dolphins stay optimistic

MIAMI (AP) — The Miami Dolphins, who've seen it happen before, don't think the loss of star quarterback Bob Griese is enough to end their Super Bowl hopes.

Griese, an 11-year veteran coming off his finest season statistically, will be sidelined several weeks — possibly for the season — with a knee injury suffered in last Friday's preseason victory over Tampa Bay. Veteran backup Don Strock and rookie Guy Benjain said Monday that they can handle the pressure of leading the Dolphins, and their teammates agreed.

"We have all the confidence in the world in Strock. I think he's proved in the past he could step in and do a good job," Griese said. "Both of these guys can, that's why you talk about depth, in case someone gets injured."

Center Jim Langer said the Dolphins remember that after Griese suffered a broken leg in 1973, backup Earl Morrall led the Dolphins to the Super Bowl. "The first time it happened was in the process of a winning season, and it hit me hard. But I learned that year that other players can come in and pick the team up," Langer said.

"We know we can win with Don Strock, and we're not just blowing smoke. He's come in with less experience in the past and done a good job," Langer said.

Strock, who threw only four passes last season, said he's "a little excited because I'm going to start."

"I feel I'm in control of the situation. I'm going to give it my best shot," he said.

The unflappable backup said he feels his past performances should inspire confidence. In 1975, he stepped in for the injured Griese and now-retired Morrall to complete 12 of 15 passes in a victory over Buffalo, then helped Miami battle the Baltimore Colts into overtime before losing 10-7.

Asked how he will do against the three-four defense, Strock replied, "I face the best three-four in the league every day at practice."

"I'm not fantasizing about leading the team to the Super Bowl or anything. I don't know whether I'll be playing all year. I'm just going to play my best. If Griese comes back, then he'll probably start," Strock said.

Benjamin, a second-round draft choice who led the nation with a 60.6 completion percentage at Stanford last season, said he'll be ready if Strock falters or is injured.

"I made some stupid mistakes at first in the preseason games, but I think I'm coming along now. I've always been preparing for each game as if I would start," Benjamin said.

"What can I say? Sure there would be pressure, but that's part of the game. If I couldn't handle it, I wouldn't be here. I can't do what Griese can do, but I can go in and do what I do best," Benjamin said.

Knicks expected to ink Webster

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks planned to announce the signing of Marvin Webster at Madison Square Garden today, which they hope will solve the center problem that has plagued the National Basketball Association team for at least five seasons.

Webster, who helped lead the Seattle SuperSonics into the NBA finals against Washington last season, played out the final year of his contract and became a free agent after the playoffs.

The 7-foot-1, 240-pound center, who played his college ball at Morgan State, where he earned the nickname "The Human Eraser," apparently was ready to sign with the SuperSonics on Friday.

However, Knicks President Mike Burke called Webster's agent, Larry Fleisher, over the weekend and convinced him and Webster to reopen discussions with the Knicks, a source said. The deal reportedly was finalized Monday.

Details of the deal were not known, and neither was it known what form New York's compensation to Seattle would take.

Asked Monday night about the deal, Burke would only say: "I'll have more to say about that tomorrow."

Webster was reported to have flown to New York Monday to appear at the news conference with Burke and Fleisher.

Webster came to the Sonics from the Denver Nuggets on May 25, 1977 as part of a five-player deal. The Sonics acquired Webster along with Paul Silas and Willie Wise for center Tom Burleson, Bobby Wilkerson and a draft choice.

Cowboys may have to trade Roger to Rangers

IRVING — If the Dallas Cowboys don't iron out their mental mistakes in a hurry, quarterback Roger Staubach may have to be traded to the Texas Rangers before the season's end.

Staubach had a better than average night Saturday in the Cowboys' 16-13 come-from-behind victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers, but there were times when he wondered if anything he did would ever pay off in the terms of points.

Staubach completed 25 of 46 sorties for 334 yards and two touchdowns. Both TDs came in a desperate fourth quarter surge that lifted the Pokes to their third preseason victory in four outings. Still, Roger didn't particularly want it that way.

According to Cowboys' offensive philosophy, if you have to throw that many times in a game, something is wrong. What was wrong Saturday was mental mistakes which caused penalties—lots of penalties. The Cowboys committed 10 errors on the field for 95 yards. That kept the Cowboys in a lot of passing situations.

In the third quarter, for instance, Dallas moved from its own 35-yard line to the Pittsburgh three and came away with no points. The reason was four penalties in the drive and Jay Sherrill, who didn't have a good showing, ended up missing a 47-yard field goal attempt. Sherrill also missed on a 25-yard chip shot and an extra point. The kicking game could hurt Dallas this year if something doesn't change.

"I thought the offense moved the ball well tonight, but there were several reasons why we couldn't get in the end zone. We made too many mental mistakes out there. It was so hot out there, and when the linemen get exhausted from this kind of heat (90 degrees and 80 per cent humid-ty), they tend to get a lot of holding penalties to survive. I understand that, but we have to eliminate those mistakes to keep the offense flowing. I know I made some mental errors in the game," Roger said.

"Another reason is that we had terrible field position most of the night, especially in the first half. It always seemed like we were starting out with our backs to the wall with a long way to go for a score. You have to credit the Pitt kicking game for that."

"We also didn't get any turnovers from the defense. They played really well, but the Steelers didn't make costly mistakes. You can't depend on turnovers, but you usually get one or two at least. I know one thing, we eliminated mistakes when it came down to winning or losing, and that makes me feel real good about this team. A game like this creates confidence for everyone involved."

When you watch the Cowboys on television this fall, you can almost gauge how things are going for Dallas by the number of times they throw. When they are on top of their game plan, they will throw only 22 to 24 times a game. If they throw more than 30 passes, the opponents are keeping the Cowboys in trouble.

"I didn't realize that I had thrown 46 passes," Staubach said after the game. "You can see we had our problems with field position and penalties. I've been to see several Texas Rangers' baseball games this summer, and some of their pitchers didn't throw any more pitches than that. I wonder if I will need five days rest before throwing again. My arm doesn't feel tired right now, but I don't think I would like to relieve for the Rangers this week."

As far as the receivers are concerned, Staubach is better than ever. Pearson and Hill, both on the tailend of TD bombs from Roger, say that Staubach is throwing better than ever.

"Roger throws as hard as anyone in the NFL when he has to," Pearson maintains. "Roger does what he has to. On my touchdown, I gave the defensive back a move to the inside and then went to the corner of the end zone. Roger had to thread the ball hard or we wouldn't have connected. He put it right there and it was like catching a bomb. Man it hurt, but the ball was there and it was just up to me to catch it."

Staubach's pass to Pearson came with 2:46 left in the game and brought the Cowboys to within grasp of the Steelers at 13-9. After the defense stopped Pittsburgh in four plays, Staubach moved the Cowboys 52 yards from the 1:56 mark for a 15-yard scoring strike to Hill with 31 seconds left in the game.

"It was an option pattern for Roger. Both wide receivers ran slant in patterns and I happened to be open. Roger threw between three defenders, and he had to throw it low. I caught it right off the ground, but that is the only place Roger could have thrown the ball, and he really zipped it in there," Hill said.

Staubach, a 10-year veteran, wants to have another super season, but he would just as soon not have to act like a pitcher. To him, trouble is spelled P-I-T-C-H-I-N-G.

ty), they tend to get a lot of holding penalties to survive. I understand that, but we have to eliminate those mistakes to keep the offense flowing. I know I made some mental errors in the game," Roger said.

Tigers

Tigers protect Gibson

DETROIT (AP) — Nobody can say the Detroit Tigers don't give a hoot about Gibson.

Kirk Gibson, Detroit's $200,000 bonus baby, is now preparing for his senior season on the Michigan State football team.

The Tigers, concerned that Gibson might get hurt on the gridiron, have taken out a one-year personal disability insurance policy on the fleet wide receiver and heavy-hitting outfielder.

Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell confirmed existence of the policy Monday.

Campbell said the policy is for "roughly the amount of bonus money we have tied up in him."

Gibson played for the Tigers' Lakeland, Fla., minor league team this summer before reporting for football practice in East Lansing.

"Really, policies such as this aren't that uncommon," Campbell said.

Borg, Navratilova are key to Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Bjorn Borg continues his quest for the Grand Slam, while Martina Navratilova attempts to reinforce her position ahead of Chris Evert in the women's rankings at the $577,480 U.S. Open Tennis Championship which begins tonight and runs through Sept. 10.

The tournament has been moved from the stately West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills to the brand new National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadows, and the matches will be played on a fairly fast, Deco-Turf II surface over a concrete base instead of the slow, clay-like Har-Tru.

What effects will those changes have? More fans than ever will get a chance to see for themselves, thanks to the expanded facilities and the 27 1/2 hours of television coverage planned by CBS, including late-night highlights and live coverage of both the men's and women's finals.

A field of 128 men and 96 women will be competing for singles prizes of $38,000, but when the finals are played Sept. 10, it will be a major surprise if anyone other than Borg, Jimmy Connors, Navratilova and Evert is wielding a racket.

They have emerged as the dominant figures in the sport and their respective rivalries are its premier attractions.

"The Open this year means more to me than ever before," said Borg, who has already won the French Open on clay and Wimbledon on grass, the first two events in the Grand Slam.

Connors is particularly tough in the U.S. Open. He won this event in 1974 and 1976 and was runner-up to Manuel Orantes in 1975 and Guillermo Vilas last year.

Long after I'm six feet under they'll be talking about this rivalry," said Connors. "I'd follow him to the ends of the earth now."

The faster surface should not make much of a difference to either player, since both have proven they can win on any surface.

Following dedication ceremonies tonight, the top-seeded Borg plays South African Bob Hewitt. Tracy Austin, No. 5 among the women's seeds, was to have played Francois the ball game with 60 plays like we did last year. We've got to keep things simple. I never did understand that triple pocket that Coach Rice used.

Albion is the first ex-Owl to become a head coach at the school.

"Most of my buddies are engineers and doctors," said the 39-year-old Albion. "I was going to be an engineer for about three days."

Cowboys trade tackle Gregory

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys Monday traded veteran defensive tackle Bill Gregory and an undisclosed draft choice to the Seattle Seahawks and put four other players on waivers to trim their roster to the required 43 players.

Second year fullback Larry Brinson, second year defensive tackle Greg Schaum and rookie defensive end Dave Kraayeveld, along with an unnamed player, were put on waivers.

Kraayeveld, drafted out of Milton, Wis., grabbed preseason headlines when he intercepted a pass against San Francisco and returned it 67 yards for a Dallas touchdown.

Gregory was traded to the Seahawks for undisclosed draft choices.

Don't offer condolences

HOUSTON (AP) — It wasn't many hours after Ray Alborn was named the new Rice head football coach last April that he began getting calls from friends offering condolences.

"I thought I had a terminal disease. I was wondering if I should get a check up," Alborn told touring South-west Conference writers Monday.

Rice lost 10 straight games after defeating Idaho it's opener last year. Coach Homer Rice decided to abandon ship after spring training and the administration turned to Alborn, a former football captain of the Owls, who was an assistant coach on Rice's staff.

Alborn takes over a team that has beaten worse than a lot of rugs last year.

Sox player gets hit

BOSTON (AP) — Dwight Evans' batting helmet was split down the middle, but mercifully the Boston Red Sox slugger's head still is in one piece.

The smooth right fielder was beaned Monday night by right-hander Mike Parrott of the Seattle Mariners, and taken from the field in a daze.

Evans, who was hit on the head by Mike Paul of Texas in 1973, turned away from a Parrott fast ball in the seventh inning.

Try traveling back to 1928

By EARL GUSTKEY
The Los Angeles Times

Imagine climbing into a time machine and setting the dial to 50 years. You land in the upper deck of Yankee Stadium on a sunny summer afternoon in 1928. Next to you is a guy munching a hot dog and you attempt to explain to him what sports are like in 1978.

Saleries...Astroturf...agents...dumbed stadiums...option years...television...designated hitters...steroids...Muhammad Ali...double knits...electronic scoreboards...hair dryers...

Surely, it would all be incomprehensible to him. But there is one aspect of sports in 1978 he would still recognize — rivalries.

He would understand, for example, the special feeling of the Yankees-Red Sox rivalry, even though he might choke on his hot dog when you tell him up to 10,000 fans take Eastern Airlines flights between the cities to watch.

RIVALRIES. They represent a common thread stretching back through the decades, back, even, a hundred years, when it was so important for America's town baseball teams to whip the team down the road...or throw a rock farther than the kid next door.

"It's probably one of the enduring, unchanging human factors in sports today, the attraction people have to have for rivalries," said Bruce Ogilvie, a sports psychologist.

Sports rivalries come in all forms. They can be individual (Dempsey-Tunney), international (Soviet Union-Hungary), domestic (USC-UCLA), professional (Dodgers-Reds)...

Some rivalries can be harmful, such as the inter-club rivalry between Reggie Jackson and Billy Martin. A team-sport coach is wary of players contending for the same positions, fearful of discord. Six players, for example, are contending for three positions at the Rams' camp.

Rivalries can extend far beyond the scope of the event itself. Example: the rematch between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling.

IT WAS widely reported before the 1938 fight that Schmeling, after he'd knocked out Louis in 1936 received a telegram: "I know you fought for Germany. This is a German victory. Hell Hitler! Joseph Goebbels."

On the night of June 22, 1938, 70,000 people streamed into Yankee Stadium and watched Louis destroy Schmeling in 2 minutes 4 seconds.

In his book, "The IVAS," Jerry Izenberg wrote: "Millions of Americans became part of the match. The rivalry had grown to a point where very little to do with boxing."

Rivalries. One can make a case that they've been the backbone of sport.

Dodgers-Giants. USC-Notre Dame. Zale-Graziano. Borg-Connors. Palmer-Nicklaus. Harvard-Yale. Howe-Richard. West-Robertson. Snead-Hogan. Jabba-Walton. AFL-NFL. Thomas-Brumel. Oklahoma-Texas. Robinson-Fuler. Bannister-Landy. Ohio State-Michigan. Pep-Saddler. Cal-Stanford.

A look indicates rivals usually are of comparable ability. Example: The Giants-Dodgers war were hottest in the years both were contenders. It cooled noticeably in recent years. But now, with the Giants' resurgence, the heat has been turned up.

"Look at the crowds," says Dodgers general manager Al Cam-panis. "Last year we got 30,000 for the Giants. Now it's 50,000."

CAMPANIS WAS asked to compare the Dodgers-Giants and Dodgers-Reds rivalries.

"Our rivalry with the Reds is as intense, but it doesn't have the tradition," he said.

"Don't forget, for many years Cincinnati was a last-place team. So the Dodger-Red rivalry is new.

"Our rivalry with the Giants goes clear down to the minor leagues. When I played at the Dodgers' farm club at Montreal, it was a big deal for us to beat the Jersey City Giants. And Ben Cox has told me the same about playing for Spikane and beating the Phoenix Giants."

The hottest inter-city rivalry may not even be American.

"Hockey's Montreal-Toronto rivalry is the greatest sports rivalry in North America," psychologist Ogilvie said. "The arenas are sold out months in advance. You could fill either one five times over."

"It's a rivalry that has a lot going for it. You have competing culture, economic, social language...a genuine adversary relationship."

Notre Dame, Ogilvie says, has a rivalry with everybody.

"Over the years, Notre Dame has built up a paranoia in its student bodies and teams, creating kind of 'Christians vs. the barbarians' mood, a 'we are a more perfect people than you people' attitude."

It isn't necessary to dislike your rival, but it helps.

Commenting on his three fights with Sugar Ray Robinson, Gene Fullmer once said: "I admit it, I disliked the guy."

A LOOK at some rivalries, past and present.

Sometimes, your rival can be your best friend. In 1966, Rafer Johnson and C.K. Yang of UCLA were the best decathlon athletes in the world.

"C.K. was my most intense rival and also my closest friend at UCLA," Johnson recalled.

"Every day at practice, it was the Olympics. We thought of every wind sprint, every practice discus throw and every starting block workout as the Olympics."

"I remember one time at the end of a workout we had a one-throw javelin contest. I beat him by a foot. I went into the shower and C.K. stayed out there for an hour, working on the javelin."

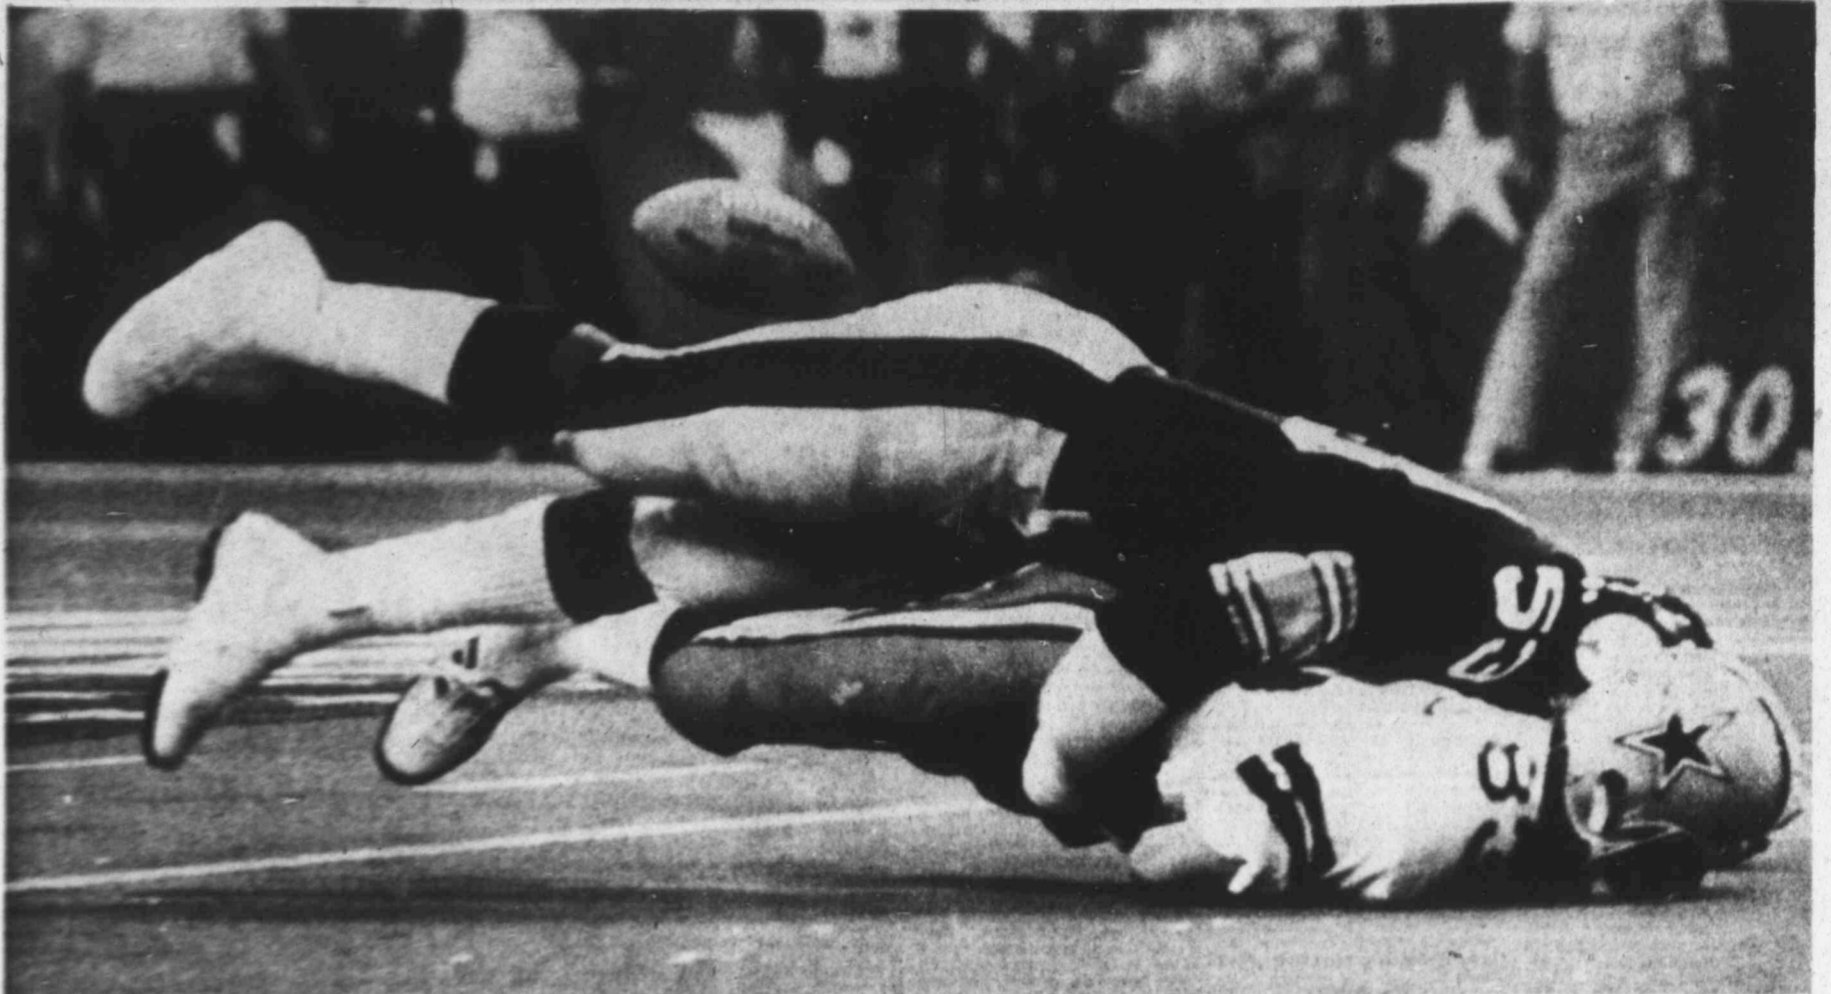

"But I would do the same when he beat me. When I felt C.K. had a better workout, I worried about it. It motivated me. It was the best thing for both of us. C.K. always agreed that the rivalry made us both better athletes."

One way to increase the intensity of a rivalry is to catch your opponent cheating. It happened to hammer thrower Ed Burke in the Soviet Union in 1966.

"It was at the USA-USSR meet in Kiev," recalled Burke, still the American record holder in the hammer.

"It puzzled me the Russians wouldn't let us use their hammers in workouts. They wouldn't even let us handle them. And they were very careful about not letting them lie around."

"I managed to get to one without them seeing me. I picked it up, shook it, and could feel something sloshing around inside. I took it back to our dorm and sawed it in half. They'd hollowed out an inner-core and half-filled it with mercury."

A LOOSE ball pops up behind Pittsburgh Steelers' linebacker Dennis Winston (53) as he lands on top of Dallas Cowboys' wide receiver

Golden Richards (83) in Saturday exhibition contest. Richards injured a shoulder on the play, but it was not serious even though

Richards did not return to action. Richards is involved in a starting berth fight against Tony Hill. (AP Laserphoto)

Alabama rules preseason roost

By DAVID DUPREE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — This could be the Tide's year. Alabama is loaded and has all the makings of a potential national champion.

Coach Bear Bryant has talented players at every position returning from last year's 11-1 squad, and he has a challenging schedule.

The Tide will play eight home games, but two of them will be against Southern California and Nebraska. Alabama will play Washington and Missouri on the road in addition to its normally tough Southeastern Conference schedule.

Quarterback Jeff Rutledge will lead the Alabama wishbone offense. He completed 60 percent of his passes last year and had only five intercepted — all of them in one game.

The primary ballcarrier will be 6-foot-2, 196-pound Tony Nathan, who scored 15 touchdowns and averaged 6.2 yards a carry a year ago.

The tough Tide defense is bolstered by linebackers Rick Wingo, Berry Krause, Randy Scott, Rickey Gilliland and tackle Marty Lyons.

The unflappable Bear is playing it cool. "I'm enthused about this team," he said. "Right enthused."

The Tide's toughest in-conference competition probably will come from Louisiana State, with Heisman Trophy candidate Charles Alexander. The 214-pound tailback rushed for 1,686 yards and scored 17 touchdowns last year.

Not too far from Tuscaloosa in near-by Fayetteville, Ark., Lou Holtz has a powerhouse brewing. The Arkansas Razorbacks have high-stepping runners everywhere and a flashy quarterback in Steve Calcagni, a solid defense and everything needed to challenge for national honors.

Arkansas lost only to Texas last year and ended the season by routing Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. Ben Cowins, Roland Sales, Michael Forrest and Jerry Eckwood are as fine a group of running backs as there is on any team and Holtz said all will play a lot.

Cowins has topped 1,000 yards rushing the past two years. He was suspended for the Orange Bowl for disciplinary reasons, so Sales stepped in and set an Orange Bowl rushing record of 205 yards.

Doing the work on defense will be tackles Jimmy Walker and Dan Hampton. Six other defensive starters are back from the team that yielded only 8.6 points a game last year.

Penn State looks like the toast of the East. Coach Joe Paterno has 32 of his top 44 players back and says this team "should be better than last year's team." Last year's Nittany Lions were 11-1.

"We should have an explosive team, an exciting team to watch," Paterno said.

A major reason for Paterno's enthusiasm is quarterback Chuck Fusina. He completed nearly 60 percent of his passes last year and threw for 15 touchdowns. He holds or shares nine school passing records.

Fusina should have plenty of time to throw, because only one starter is gone from the offensive line.

Washington, USC and UCLA should be the best in the West and battle for the championship of the Pac-10, formerly the Pact-8 before Arizona and Arizona State were added.

Washington won six of its final seven games last season to capture the conference title and then upset Big 10 champion Michigan in the Rose Bowl. The Huskies have 18 starters back and Coach Don James says they are strongest on the offensive line, with ample talent at the running backs, linebackers and defensive secondary.

Tailback Joe Steele rushed for 865 yards and scored 13 touchdowns as a sophomore last year and junior All-American linebacker Michael Jackson made a whopping 210 tackles.

UCLA has the offensive forces in runners James Owens and Theotis Brown and a defense that has the irrepressible two-time All-America Jerry Robinson at linebacker.

USC has nifty Charles White back at tailback and some big linemen to clear the way. But the Trojans need a quarterback.

The Big 10 will do its usual big-two, small-eight number. Michigan and Ohio State will battle for the championship with Purdue probably the best of the rest.

The Wolverines will field one of the more potent backfields in the nation with quarterback Rick Leach, fullback Russell Davis, tailback Harlan Huckleby and halfback-wingback-flanker Ralph Clayton.

The left-handed Leach already has led the Wolverines to 28 victories and has accounted for 53 touchdowns in his college career.

Linebacker Ron Simpkins holds the Wolverine defense together.

Last year's national champion, Notre Dame, lost a lot of its defense but still has All-America linebacker Bob Golic and an offense, led by Joe Montana, Vagas Ferguson and Jerome Hevens, that can score.

Oklahoma will be strong as usual, with quarterback Thomas Lott and a defense led by linebackers George Cumby and Daryl Hunt.

The Sooners led the nation in rushing last year with 328 yards a game. To open things up a bit, Coach Bry Switzer has put in a pro-formation to complement the wishbone.

Nebraska will be strong again with tailback I. M. Hipp and its usual assortment of giant linemen.

The sleeper this year could well be Texas A&M. Until 260-pound fullback George Woodard broke his leg playing football in June, the Aggies looked almost unbeatable. Like Oklahoma, A&M put in the 1 to bolster its wishbone.

Quarterback Mike Moseley is a 9.4 sprinter, and halfback Curtis Dickey, who ran for 978 yards last year, was second in the NCAA 100-meter dash.

The Aggies' kicker, Tony Franklin, has a 67-yard field goal to his credit and is consistent from 50 yards.

Bjorn Borg has world at his feet

By JOE GERGEN
Newsday

NEW YORK — He has the world at his feet. It is necessary only that he remember which brand of shoes to wear on which continent. People pay him large sums of money to make the proper choice.

The man is too big for any one country. He is Bjorn Borg of Sweden, where he maintains a summer palace, and Bjorn Borg of Monaco, where the tax laws are more favorable to residency. He is the reigning champion of Italy and of France and of all England. He is at home where the money is, and just now it is here in the United States.

His passport is a tennis racket, which he wields like no one else on earth. It is his entree to New York, where next week he will seek the U.S. Open title. And if he is successful here, he will travel to Australia in December for that nation's championship. So that, by year's end, he may be Bjorn Borg of the Grand Slam, and no further identification will be necessary.

One shudders to think what they would make of that, the merchandizers and the commercial interests and Mark McCormack's International Management Group, which sells Borg's time and body and soles to the highest bidders. Already, in addition to the different lines of tennis shows and clothing and rackets he endorses here and in Europe, he is associated with an airline.

They own baseball links are secure — but the true test will come in a few years when today's infants of Gezer, the native-born Sabras, are old enough to choose between the baseball heritage of their parents and the soccer mania of their Israeli friends.

Bradley Barston, the manager of the team isn't worried. "Our oldest child here now is a 19-month-old boy and we're training him," said Barston, formerly of North Hollywood, Calif. "Noah's going to be the first Sabra to play in the major leagues."

an automobile company, a cereal and a manufacturer of jeans.

After winning his third consecutive Wimbledon championship in June, he shaved a scraggly wisp of a beard he had been cultivating for three years. He said he did so at the request of former Wimbledon champion, Fred Perry, and his parents. He also did so at the behest of a British razor company. Which paid him $10,000 for the right to film the great moment.

It was a still-shorn Bjorn who appeared in New York Tuesday to pay tribute to his latest commercial venture. Henceforth, Borg will represent Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, which is another country to add to his list of worldwide credits, as well as other Caesar's World resort complexes. For a fee estimated at six figures, he will participate in tournaments at the Las Vegas hotel and star in exhibitions arranged by Caesar's tennis director, Pancho Gonzales.

But it was the forthcoming Open, the most prestigious tournament he never has won, and his major rival for world honors, Jimmy Connors, to which he addressed himself. "I know in his head he wants to beat me," Borg said. "He's eager to beat me. But I am very confident when I play him, even when I play him here."

Still, in a strong position to become only the third player in tennis history to win the Grand Slam (French, Wimbledon, U.S. and Australian championships in the same year), Borg knows that even getting to the final and a possible confrontation with Connors will be difficult. There is the painful reminder of the shoulder injury he suffered on the eve of the last Open at Forest Hills. "Anything can happen," he said.

"Like Victor Amaya," a man suggested.

Borg smiled at the memory of Amaya, who almost unseated him at Wimbledon in the very first round this year. "I don't want to play him again," Borg said.

He was tanned and at ease, as relaxed as a man can be who has become, at age 22, a multi-million-dollar industry unto himself. He had recently concluded a vacation and was eager to get back to the thing he does so well, perhaps as well as anyone who has played the game. The rest, he said, was needed. After Wimbledon, he had played Davis Cup for Sweden and then won the Swedish Open in Bastad. "I was exhausted," Borg said.

Greedy play costly for this declarer

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If you're wondering what it feels like to compete in the Olympics, try yourself on this week's hands, played in the 1978 Bridge Olympics in New Orleans. In today's hand declarer got caught when he tried for an overtrick.

North dealer East-West vulnerable

NORTH ♠ K Q 5 4 ♥ K 4 ♦ J 10 9 7 6 3 ♣ 6

WEST EAST ♠ 10 7 ♥ J 8 6 2 ♦ A K Q 2 ♣ Q 10 7 5

SOUTH ♠ A 9 3 ♥ A 10 2 ♦ 5 ♣ A K J 8 4 2

North East South West Pass Pass 1 ♠ 1 0 Pass Pass Double Pass Pass 1 ♥ 3 NT All Pass

Opening lead — ♦ K

East played the eight of diamonds at the first trick to give his partner the count, but this doubtful play guaranteed the contract if South had wanted to settle.

West shifted to the queen of hearts, taken by dummy's king. Declarer could now lead the jack of diamonds, return to dummy with a spade to lead the ten of diamonds and with another spade to cash the diamonds. South would get three spades, two clubs and at least two hearts.

TRIES FINESSE

Instead, South tried a finesse with the jack of clubs since he would get extra tricks if East had Q-x-x of clubs or if West had Q-x-x of clubs but failed to take his top diamonds at once.

The greedy club finesse lost, and West continued hearts. This gave declarer three heart tricks, but he was down one when both black suits broke badly.

A tournament expert often plays for an extra trick if he needs only a successful finesse. He settles for a safe score if he needs a favorable suit break as well as the finesse.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player doubles. You hold: S J 8 6 2; H 9 8 7 6 5; D 8 4; C 9 3. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. After a takeout double a raise in partner's suit promises trump support but not much else. If the opponent at your right had passed instead of doubling, you would have passed since then a raise to two hearts would be more encouraging.

Major congressional roll call votes tallied

WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 17 through Aug. 23. The House began its summer recess Aug. 18 but the Senate continued working toward an Aug. 27 recess date.

HOUSE

NEW SENATE BUILDING Refused, 133 for and 245 against, to appropriate an additional $54.8 million for a new Senate Office Building. The Senate has approved the money, which will advance construction of its third office building. The House and Senate disagreement over whether the project should go forward.

ROLL CALL REPORT

ward held up final congressional approval of HR 13467, an appropriations bill.

Blueprints for the new building call for a gymnasium, tennis court, rooftop restaurant, high-ceilinged offices, wood-paneled and other features that have drawn widespread criticism. Cost estimates range from $135 million to $210 million.

With this vote, the House broke the half-century-old tradition of "comity" under which neither house disapproves funds the other wants to conduct internal business.

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., a supporter, said: "We ought not interfere" with the tradition of comity.

Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., an opponent, called the building "a new legislative palace," and said: "We are trying to match the palaces and coliseums of Rome, but the old Roman empire is gone — gone because it knew no restraints, because it has no willpower, because it could not say 'No.'"

Members voting "yea" favored continuing construction of the Senate office building.

Reps. Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, W. R. Poage, D-11, James Wright, D-12, Richard White, D-14, Omar Burleson, D-17, Barbara Jordan, D-18, George Mahon, D-19, and Henry Gonzalez, D-20, voted

SENATE

BALANCED BUDGET Voted, 68 for and 22 against, to table and thus kill a proposed constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget. The vote came during debate on HJ Res 554, which calls for a constitutional amendment awarding congressmen to the District of Columbia.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., a supporter of tabling, said the balanced budget proposal "would put the federal government in a straitjacket" and deny Congress the policy tools it needs "to deal with recession, with depression, with inflation, with unemployment, and with many other problems."

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., an opponent of tabling, said "deficit spending, travelling under the guise of economic stimulation, has become a way of life. To continue to borrow and inflate puts an unconscionable burden on generations of Americans yet unborn."

Senators voting "nay" favored enactment of a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D, voted "yea."

Sen. John Tower, R, voted "nay."

CONGRESSMEN FOR D.C.? Approved, 67 for and 32 against, a proposed constitutional amendment (HJ Res 554) to give the District of Columbia two senators and one or more representatives in Congress. The House had already approved the measure. It now must be ratified by at least 38 state legislatures within seven years.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., a supporter, said: "The District of Columbia has more people than seven states, pays more taxes than 11 states, had more deaths in Vietnam than 10 states. It is a matter of simple justice. I cannot imagine any Vermonter, denied this type of basic representation, who would not be prepared to lead a revolution against such a situation."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., an opponent, said:

"This is an innovation in this bill, the idea of giving power and privileges and strength to any unit of government, without corresponding responsibilities. It is unsound, in my humble opinion, and it will not work and will bring about trouble."

Virtually all senators voting "yea" favor the granting of congressmen to D.C.

Bentsen voted "yea."

Tower voted "nay."

HIGHWAYS Defeated, 10 for and 75 against, a proposal to eliminate the Highway Trust Fund. The fund takes in about $8 billion a year in fuel and tire taxes, which are used primarily for road construction and repair. The measure was offered as an amendment to a bill (S 3073) authorizing funds for the federal highway aid program in fiscal 1979-80.

Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., a sponsor of the amendment, said the fund: "is one sacred cow which has been milked too long by highway interests ... Purely and simply today, it is insane, it is illogical, and it is a payoff to the lobbying groups. It certainly cannot be explained in terms of supply a logical transportation system to the United States of America."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., an opponent, said: "To abolish the trust fund would be to gut the highway program ... Perhaps the strongest argument in favor of retaining the trust fund is that it is urgently needed to finance outstanding highway needs ... To abolish the trust fund would be to replace a proven, effective program with uncertainty — uncertainty that we call ill afford."

Members voting "yea" want to eliminate the Highway Trust Fund.

Bentsen and Tower voted "nay."

At $4 million loss, owners buy ship

NEW YORK (AP) — The SS America, which suffered a near-mutiny on its disastrous "Cruise to Nowhere," has been sold to its previous owners for $4 million less than what they sold it for earlier this year.

Chandris Cruise Lines bought the ship Monday for $1,010,000 at a court-ordered auction aboard the vessel. Last April, the Greek company sold the ship for $5 million to Venture Cruise Line, which hoped to use it for inexpensive, minicruises this summer.

Year sees worse Cuban-U.S. relations

By GEORGE GEDDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overall relations between the United States and Cuba have worsened since Havana and Washington traded diplomatic missions a year ago this week. Progress has marked a few specific areas of the relationship, but there is little talk these days about a "new era" in U.S.-Cuban diplomacy and even less talk about achieving President Carter's long-range goal of "full friendship with Cuba."

The diplomatic missions — "interest sections" in Washington and Havana — were established Sept. 1, 1977, primarily as a "channel of communications" to achieve better understanding. But, to a large degree, the result has been a better understanding of just how far apart the two countries are on fundamental issues.

Once again, the United States and Cuba are tangling over the issue of foreign intervention. For years, President Fidel Castro linked improved relations to an end to American "aggression" in Indochina.

Now, in a reversal of roles, the United States says closer ties with Cuba will not be possible as long as Cuba continues its military intervention in Africa.

Still, the relationship is not as bad as it had been. On humanitarian issues, there has been some progress.

Castro, for example, has agreed to permit the emigration of hundreds of people with either family or citizenship ties with the United States.

Three U.S. political prisoners have been released, and American officials say there is hope that four others may be freed. Some Cuban exiles have been allowed to visit relatives in Cuba.

Regularly scheduled commercial flights between Miami and Havana have resumed on a limited basis, and there has been a steady flow of U.S. businessmen, academicians and tourists visiting Cuba.

Officials say progress on these exchanges has been made easier by the existence of the interest sections.

But Castro still belabors the United States in his speeches — although the targets of his criticism have changed. In contrast with his treatment of previous American presidents, Castro has been sparing in his criticism of Carter and on occasion has spoken kindly of him.

Castro's invective usually is directed at the CIA, U.S. "reactionary circles" and presidential national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

The recent World Festival of Youth and Students held in Havana suggested that Cuba, in its relations with the United States, is not averse to keeping open the wounds of the past rather than looking toward a better future.

The history of CIA plots to assassinate Castro and to commit acts of sabotage dominated television in Cuba the week of the festival. Television viewers also were treated to gavel-to-gavel coverage — followed by reruns of the same — of an international tribunal convened to investigate CIA activities, some of which dated back almost 20 years.

There are also other signs that the regime intends to institutionalize anti-Americanism. A new Cuban "Oeuvre on Children and Youth" demands that the new generation be loyal to the "anti-imperialist struggle" and to friendly relations with the Soviet Union.

American officials believe Castro may be interested in improved relations with the United States but not if the political costs are high. He insists that his Africa policy is non-negotiable.

While the U.S. trade embargo against Cuba has denied the island access to technology unavailable elsewhere, most of the country's basic needs are met by a Soviet subsidy exceeding $2 million a day. Moscow helps out with low-cost oil sales to Cuba and pays inflated prices for Cuban sugar.

The Carter administration would like a more neighborly relationship with Cuba but it, too, is unwilling to pay a high political price.

A poll by The Associated Press and NBC News revealed, in fact, that more U.S. citizens now oppose restoration of normal relations with Cuba than last year. It found 54 percent of those questioned opposed such a move, with 31 percent favoring it and 15 percent undecided.

When the question was asked in June 1977, before Cuba's role in Africa became highly controversial, 48 percent were opposed, 38 percent in favor and 14 percent uncertain.
