Dictionary Makes 'No-No' List In Texas Schools

A recent article in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal prompted questions to Muleshoe school superintendent Harold Horne, regarding the use of the Merriam-Webster New Collegiate Dictionary. This book has become a standard reference work used in homes, schools and offices throughout the nation.

The gist of the article revealed the decision of the Texas Board of Education's endorsement to remove the dictionary from the list of books approved for the use by the Texas Public School System. This decision was apparently based on a reason given by State Education Commissioner Raymond Bynum. That reason being: The dictionary contains seven obscene words cited in a 1973 civil suit that led to the U.S. Supreme Court ruling that a comedian's monologue was not suitable for radio or TV broadcast. Bynum's action was supported by the Board in a vote of 17 to 4.

Muleshoe Superintendent Horne had this to say: "While the dictionary may be outlawed by the State, use in most school systems will remain the same. Kids can see and hear obscenities almost anywhere they go these days. Gone are the days of shocking language such as was used in the famous lines of "Gone With the Wind" when the dashing Rhett Butler told Scarlett O'Hara: "Frankly, madam, I don't give a damn."

The article stated that all across the country, public agencies have been forced to act because of pressure from ideological zealots obvious to the profound dangers posed to democracy by the censorship of unpopular or controversial ideas.

While the board decision does not ban all copies of the dictionary from Texas school libraries, it does prohibit the use of state funds to purchase the books for use in English and other classes. The article further stated that the Board of Education's action would be mildly humorous if it wasn't a part of a disturbing pattern that has led to the suppression of virtually every form of creative endeavor.

New Credit Sales Tax Requirements Effective

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Wednesday that about 1,000 Texas merchants need to be aware of new sales tax requirements on credit sales which go into effect January 1.

The new law affects merchants who make installment sales of taxable items include the amount of sales tax due in the outstanding balance and keep their books on the "cash" basis of accounting.

According to the new law, a part of the interest paid on the sales tax portion of credit sales will be taxable. This additional amount is to be reported and remitted when the regular sales tax return is filed.

If the interest on the sales tax and the unpaid balance are the same—and the rate is 18 percent or less—the state gets half the interest on the sales tax portion of the total amount being financed.

If the rate is more than 18 percent, the state gets all interest on the sales tax amount above 9 percent. For example, a merchant charging 20 percent interest on credit sales will remit 11 percent interest on the sales tax amount to

Area Cotton Harvest Winding Down

The 1981 High Plains cotton harvest wound down as the New Year approached. An estimated 98 percent of the crop is off the stalk, according to Mack Bennett, Area Director for USDA's Marketing Services Office at Lubbock.

Modules of field stored seed cotton remain in all High Plains counties waiting to be ginned. Estimates indicate that 70 to 75 percent of the crop has been ginned. About two-thirds of the crop has been received by the Lubbock office, Bennett said.

Cotton prices moved higher during the week ended December 30. Growers sold mixed lots of mostly grades 42 and 52, staples 31 and 32, mike 35-49 at about 44.75 cents per pound, up 175 points compared with one week earlier. About 50,000 bales had entered Commodity Credit's cotton loan from High Plains counties by the Christmas weekend. Around 10,000 modules of seed cotton had entered as well.

Lubbock's Marketing Services Office classed 132,000 samples during the week ended December 30 for a season's total of 1,191,000. This compares with 1,174,000 classed by the same date last year.

About 24 percent was grade 42, 51 percent grade 52 and 12 percent 53.

'82 Filing Deadline Will Be February 1

With the deadline of February 1, 1982 approaching for announcing candidacy for State and County offices, the Journal has received several announcements for office.

State and county first primary elections will be held on the first Saturday in May, which will be May 1; the second primaries will be held on the first Saturday in June.

County offices with expiring terms this year are: District Judge, County Judge, District Clerk, County Clerk, County Treasurer and Justice of the Peace; also, County Commissioner's of Precinct 2 and 4 will be set up for election.

Nelda Merriott has authorized the Muleshoe Journal to announce her candidacy in the democratic primary for re-election to the office of District Clerk.

Nelda and her husband, Lonnie, are long-time residents of Muleshoe. Their two sons were born in Muleshoe, graduated from high school here and now live in Amarillo. The Merriotts are members of the Calvary Baptist Church of Muleshoe.

Loonie has been employed by the Texas Employment Commission for the past twelve years as manager of the Muleshoe Office. Drastic funding cuts have forced the closing of TEC offices throughout the state and the Muleshoe TEC office will close its doors on January 20. The Merriotts will continue to make Muleshoe their home.

Nelda pledges her best efforts to giving the most efficient service possible and maintaining a friendly office where you are always welcome. She continued, "It is an honor to serve the fine people of Bailey County in this capacity and your continued support and friendship is sincerely appreciated."

Dorothy Turner has announced her candidacy through the Journal for the office of the Bailey County Treasurer.

Dorothy is a life-time resident of Bailey County, having been born and reared in the Circle Back Community. She graduated from Sudan High School in 1948, and moved to Muleshoe in January, 1949. She has been an employee of Bailey County for some 23 years out of the past 31 years, having served as Deputy County Clerk, Secretary to the County Judge.

Ray Lynk New Coliseum Manager

In a special meeting Monday, January 4, Bailey County Commissioner's Court employed C. Ray Lynk as manager of the Civic Center and Coliseum to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Joyce Holmes. Lynk's duties become effective immediately.

The Lynks have lived in Muleshoe about six years, where he served as a city police officer for three years. Lynk retired from the Air Force in Clovis, New Mexico in 1970 and was in business for himself for about five years before moving to Muleshoe. His family consists of his wife, Flowella and two step sons, Mike and Gary Morris also of Muleshoe.

In other business, the Commissioners passed an order approving the renewal of the perpetual ambulance contract for the 1982 year.

In another special called session on December 31, the Commissioners passed an order relative to the annual reconstitution of the jury wheel. The wheel is made up of eligible registered voters and will be changed on an annual basis.

Dorothy Turner was appointed as Veteran's Service Officer.

USDA Proposes Change In Grade Standards

The U.S. Department of Agriculture today announced a proposal to revise the official U.S. standards for grades of carcass beef and for slaughter cattle and scheduled five public hearings on the proposal.

John Ford, deputy assistant secretary of agriculture for marketing and inspection services, said the proposed changes should allow leaner beef to qualify for Prime and Choice grades but not significantly lower the palatability of either grade. Beef in the Good grade would be leaner with lowered palatability.

The public hearing will be held during February in Utah, Georgia, Washington, D.C., Iowa and Texas.

The Texas hearing is scheduled for February 25 in Dallas at the Duney

Dallas Hotel, 3800 West Northwest Highway.

The proposal is a result of latest research findings and of petitions for change that USDA has received in recent months, Ford said.

Ford said USDA officials have reviewed all available research data and information to evaluate the effectiveness of the present beef standards and to explore possible alternatives. The review, he said, indicated that some modifications of the beef grade standards would be needed.

USDA's proposal provides:

--That the minimum marbling requirements for the Prime, Choice and Good grades in "A maturity"--cattle up to approximately 30 months of age--would be reduced to "minimum moderate," "typical slight" and "minimum traces," respectively;

--That all young beef not meeting minimum requirements for the Good grade would be graded Utility;

--That the Standard grade would be eliminated;

--That the rate of increase in marbling requirements in "B maturity"--cattle about 30 to 42 months of age--would be doubled; that the marbling to maturity relationship be increased from 1:1 to 2:1;

--That quality grade requirements for bullock beef also would be changed so they would still be the same as those for steer, heifer and cow beef in "A maturity." Bullock beef would still be identified for class.

--That the related standards for grades of slaughter cattle would be changed to reflect changes made for grades of carcass beef; and

--That no changes would be made in yield grade standards.

Marbling is the amount of fat dispersed through a piece of meat and is one of the factors considered to contribute to the tenderness, juiciness and flavor of beef, Ford said.

USDA invites either oral or written comments on the proposal and data to support the comments, Ford said.

Public hearings, each starting at 9 a.m., local time, will be held:

--Feb. 9 in Salt Lake City, Utah, at Wright Center, Airport Hilton Inn, 5151 Wiley Post Way;

--Feb. 11 in Atlanta, Ga., at L.D. Strom Auditorium, Lower Plaza Level, R.B. Russell Federal Building, 75 Spring St., S.W.;

--Feb. 16 in Washington, D.C., at Jefferson Auditorium, South Agriculture Bldg, 14th and Independence Ave., S.W.;

--Feb. 22 in Des Moines, Iowa, at Henry A. Wallace Bldg. Auditorium, East 9th St. and Grand Ave.; and

--Feb. 25 in Dallas, Texas, at Dunfey Dallas Hotel, 3800 W. Northwest Highway.

Persons who want to testify at the hearings should notify the administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250 before Feb. 1.

Written comments should be submitted by March 31 to the Livestock, Meat, Grain, and Seed Division, AMS 2M-Annex, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

The proposal is scheduled to be published in the Dec. 30 Federal Register. AMS-129.

The Texas Consumer Association Education Fund's Report from Austin

By Rebecca Lightsey, Director

What do pickled frogs and mobile homes have in common? The same thing that permanent press clothes, plastics, shampoo and insulation does -- they all contain formaldehyde.

Formaldehyde leads the list as one of the most prevalent chemicals in the United States. It's a powerful antiseptic, fungicide and preservative that's used in tanning and preserving furs, embalming, setting dyes in fabrics, making clothes wrinkle-free, and preserving foodstuffs. It's also widely used as a glue to hold particle board together and as insulation.

It leads the list as one of the most potentially dangerous chemicals, too. The recommended industrial standard for human exposure to formaldehyde is 1 milligram per cubic meter of air (1 ppm); that's equivalent to 1 grain of sand in an olympic-size swimming pool. A little bit can go a long way.

It can also do a great deal of harm. Ask Mrs. Charlotte Rutherford, a Pasadena resident who decided to make her small home more energy efficient. She borrowed $8,500 to remodel and insulate her home; by the time she finished, she felt like an energy expert. She had chosen what appeared to be the perfect insulation, urea-formaldehyde foam insulation, a shaving-cream like substance which could be pumped between the walls, was fire resistant and an excellent insulator. The installer told her she'd never have any bugs in the wall, either, that the formaldehyde insulation would kill everything.

It was 18 months later she realized that it might also kill herself and her family. Her skin started itching, her lips turned brown, the whole family was constantly tired and irritable. Within 20 minutes of coming home, they would all be screaming and yelling at each other; within another 30 minutes, though, they'd all be asleep.

They finally tested their house for indoor pollutants and found that the insulation was emitting a dangerously high level of formaldehyde gas. The Rutherford's couldn't afford the $20,000 it would take to tear out the insulation and rebuild. They had to move into an apartment.

The Zenzen's couldn't afford another home, either. This Houston family discovered their mobile home was permeated with the toxic chemical after their year-old son developed a nearly fatal respiratory disease that was eventually diagnosed as a reaction to formaldehyde.

The problems these two families experienced are not isolated. It's estimated that about 10% of the population is apparently hypersensitive to formaldehyde and that there are almost half a million homes with urea-formaldehyde insulation. So, in February, 1981, the Consumer Product Safety Commission, the government agency that regulates the safety of home products, proposed a ban on this type of insulation. Now, nearly a year later, they are about to decide whether to issue a final ban on the foam.

The insulation industry is objecting to this proposal. They say that owners of foam-insulated homes are in for about a $160 million bath, due to the dives in their home values if the insulation is banned. They argue that the depreciation in real estate values would be as expensive as the cost of removing the foam and replacing it with another type of insulation.

Should the Commission ban urea-formaldehyde foam insulation, or should they allow it to remain on the market? Let them know what you think, write the Office of the Secretary, CPSC, Washington, D.C. 20207.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Despite Gov. Bill Clements' belief that the Democratic gubernatorial contenders should be sparing among themselves, those Democrats still are taking every opportunity to jab at the incumbent.

Tyler Sen. Peyton McKnight lost no time in criticizing Clements for what he saw as insensitivity toward the plight of the unemployed. McKnight says Clements' remarks that the lay off of nearly 1,000 Texas Employment Commission employees will "help the curve" in his state employee reduction program shows he is more interested in making himself look good than in helping the unemployed.

About 400 TEC employees already have received their pink slips because of federal budget cuts in job service programs, and another 400 are expected to be laid off by Jan. 31.

"The governor should stop worrying so much about his numbers and start thinking about what's best for the people of Texas," McKnight says.

Meanwhile, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, also vying for the state's top office, got in his shots at the incumbent Republican, too. Armstrong blasted Clements stating the Dallas oilman has shown little concern for the elderly.

In a printed statement, Armstrong criticized the governor's failure to appoint an independent ombudsman to investigate complaints of nursing home patients. The governor's only response was that Armstrong "better start worrying about (House General) Mark White," the third Democrat in the race.

Hobby Opposition

Clements, however, wasn't the only one getting bad press. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who is seeking re-election to a fourth term in the state's second highest office, has been the subject of criticism from the Texas Pro-Life Political Action Committee, which has been distributing "Ask Me Why I'm Against Bill Hobby" bumper stickers.

Hobby, who denied ever blocking passage of anti-abortion legislation, said the pro-lifers are sending out "scurrilous" materials. Former Secretary of State George Strake, Hobby's GOP opponent, denied any connection with the pro-lifers actions.

Strake says he has no intention of making abortion an issue in the lieutenant governor's race.

"Pot" Farms

Department of Public Safety Director Col. Jim Adams says his officers are beginning a crackdown on marijuana farms.

Adams says DPS isn't after college students with a few "pot" plants in a flower box. Instead DPS troopers will be searching for large-scale farming of marijuana as a cash crop.

the past has depended on the substitution of cheap energy for manpower and the use of plentiful natural resources, such as water. Yet today energy is no longer cheap, and our water reservoirs are rapidly being depleted. In recent years farm and ranch price increases have not been able to keep up with the increase in production costs; thus the farmer is losing money.

There are other problems which, though not as major as lowered productivity, nevertheless have a negative impact.

Texas agriculture now sends 30% of its sales to foreign markets where products yield higher prices. This reliance on foreign trade makes us vulnerable to often unstable markets.

Agriculture is becoming highly industrialized and this is making it difficult for small farms to survive. Family farms are also severely affected by multiplying government policies and regulations.

We need to find some answers and I can assure you that answers are being sought. What is permanently needed is a commitment from the people of Texas to do what has to be done to keep our farmers squarely on their financial feet. The whole financial stability of our state depends on it.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—Our state is so vast and diversified that sometimes it is difficult for one hand to know what the other hand is doing. For the city dweller it is hard to imagine what impact prosperity in rural areas could have on them.

Facts and figures show that one of the top reasons for this state's prosperity is its agriculture. Agriculture does not mean just the land itself, but also a vast network of job-producing businesses like food processors, distributors, retailers, etc. Finally, agriculture in Texas means food on your dinner table.

To give you some idea of how much is at stake in Texas' agriculture, the estimated costs of the entire network is over $33.7 billion per year. We are number one in the production of cattle, calves, cotton, and sorghum in the United States.

Because agriculture in Texas affects us all, we need to keep alert to some problems in this area that are rapidly developing. The main problem is that several factors are making production more expensive and, therefore, many farmers have cut-back on production. This filters down to mean fewer products and eventually higher prices at the supermarket. Factors which are making production more costly are: (i) high prices of energy used for farm equipment, processing, machinery, gasoline for trucks, etc., and (ii) decreasing water supplies, so that irrigation becomes more and more expensive.

Miss Czajkowski, Chapman Repeat Vows

Miss Cheryl Ann Czajkowski became the bride of William Carter (Bill) Chapman in a double ring ceremony at the Fair Oaks United Methodist Church of Fair Oaks, California on Saturday, December 12 at 3 p.m. The Reverend Vic Matson of Fair Oaks performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. Czajkowski of Fair Oaks, California. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Chapman of Muleshoe, Texas.

Martha Jane Bernatis, sister of the groom, registered the guests. Neena Malone, the organist, provided the music.

Serving as ushers were Douglas Czajkowski, brother of the bride, and Michael Bernatis, brother-in-law of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lace overlaid with an accordion pleated skirt. The lace bodice was decorated with seed pearls. The cathedral length train was of lace with accordion pleated overlay. The veil of illusion fell from a cap covered with lace and seed pearls. For something old and borrowed, she wore a ruby ring which belonged to her grandmother. For something new, she used her gown and veil. For something blue, the traditional blue garter.

Her bouquet was an arrangement of silk flowers in colors of pink and burgundy.

The maid of honor was Lynn Zagotta of Chicago and the bridesmaids were Laura and Carol Czajkowski, sisters of the bride. The maid of honor and the attendants wore soft pink crepe and lace floor length dresses. Their bouquets were silk flowers of burgundy and pink.

The best man was Ben F. Chapman, brother-in-law of the groom and Douglas Czajkowski brother of the bride.

The altar arrangement featured maroon and pink carnations in large baskets on each side of the tall brass candlelabras. There was a maroon carnation bouquet just above the kneeling bench.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of mauve lace. The groom's mother wore a floor length maroon silk dress. Each mother had a corsage of white orchids.

The guests were given a net bag of bird seed topped with a pink flower by a cousin of the bride, Laurie Pawl.

The reception was held at Cordova Lodge in Rancho Cordova, California.

The guests were invited to the Czajkowski home for a reception and the opening of the gifts. Drinks and hors d'oeuvres were served.

For the wedding trip to southern California and Texas, the bride wore a beige sweater dress.

The bride graduated from Parkway West High School in Chesterfield, Missouri in 1974. She graduated from Southwest Missouri State University in 1978 with a BS in Marketing. She is currently employed as a timeshare systems analyst for Continental Telephone Company in Wentzville, Missouri. Bill graduated from Muleshoe High School in 1973 and from Texas A&M University in 1977 with a BBA in Management. He is presently employed as a Sales Representative for Wrangler Kids in St. Louis, Missouri. After the honeymoon, the couple will make their home in St. Peters, Missouri.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted on December 11 at Tosh's in Folsom, California by the groom's parents.

On December 21, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Cage entertained Bill and Cheryl with a dinner party at their home for Muleshoe area friends.

Don't Be Chicken When It Comes To Serving Fowl ... Cook Up Some Magic

Chicken can be prepared in an infinite variety of ways if the cook isn't "chicken" to try something new. Opening the oven to a new chicken recipe can be as magical as pulling a rabbit out of the hat, if there's a special ingredient involved.

Actually, chicken has had a mystical aura around it for hundreds of years. In the sixteenth century a cooked chicken was a symbol of abundance and plenty. During this time, King Henri IV of France reputedly said that he wished there would be no peasant in all his kingdom who was too poor to have a chicken in his pot every Sunday.

Today King Henri's wish has been realized in a way. Poultry is one of the most reasonably priced, high quality protein meats available. Improved industrialization has brought a heavier bird to market during the last ten years than in years before. This new technology has reduced labor costs, allowing chicken to remain affordable in these inflation-ridden days.

The recipe offered below from the Kraft Kitchens lauds the magic ingredient of grated parmesan cheese with chicken for a succulent, crunchy-coated dish called Oven-Fried Cook Up Some Magic with Kraft's Oven Fried Parmesan Chicken. The special ingredient is parmesan, usually reserved only for pastas, salads, or stews.

Chicken Parmesan.

Using a familiar ingredient in an unfamiliar way is the trick to this magical recipe. Parmesan is one of the best known of all Italian cheeses but not often associated with oven-fried dishes like the one with chicken below. Rather, this sharp, zesty cheese is commonly known as a kitchen must for soups, pastas, salads and stews.

Oven-Fried Chicken Parmesan

- 1/2 cup (2 oz.) Kraft Grated Parmesan Cheese
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 2-1/2 to 3-lb. broiler-frier, cut up
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1/4 cup Squeze Parkay Margarine

Combine cheese, flour and seasonings. Dip chicken in combined egg and milk; coat with cheese mixture. Place in baking dish; pour margarine over chicken. Bake at 350°, 1 hour or until tender.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
 U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Now that we've discarded our 1981 calendars and face the blank pages of 1982, let us look for a moment at the unfinished business of the old year, and the agenda for the new.

Certainly 1981 was a watershed year for American government. In response to the overwhelming mandate of the citizenry, Washington ended the old "business as usual" approach. For the first time in a generation, firm action replaced rhetoric in the battle to control the size and cost of government. Bureaucrats who for 20 years have looked complacently at politicians came and went -- secure in what they perceived as the invincibility of their red-tape fortresses -- suddenly realized that this time the people and their representatives were serious. Not only has growth in government spending been curbed, but also a new philosophy has emerged in which every program, every use of the people's money must be justified.

The cuts in growth enacted in 1981 are only the first step, however. There still are vast areas of the federal budget which must be scrutinized and controlled in 1982 and beyond.

Progress has been made in reducing the number of federal regulations. The panel chaired by Vice President Bush has made a good start in identifying regulations which are unnecessary, counter-productive or cost-inefficient. A cooperative effort between the executive and legislative branches of the government in the coming year could yield significant results in the effort to reduce the intrusiveness of government.

Decontrol of crude oil prices in 1981 was a major step toward ending disruptions in the market forces. Decontrol, if allowed to work, encourages production as well as efficient use of fuel. Natural gas controls currently have a negative effect in these same areas, and legislation will be needed next year to deal with this area of counter-productive regulation.

In the area of national defense, several strides in 1981 started to reverse the deteriorating trend in our defense capability. The President's strategic modernization plan, improvements in our readiness capability, military pay and benefit improvements to help keep trained men and women in the service and an improved shipbuilding program were enacted this year.

However, rebuilding our defense capability will take sustained commitment over a period of years. We must be prepared to withstand the almost inevitable pressures from those who wish to protect narrow-interest domestic programs to back off from our rebuilding effort.

During 1982, I expect to see the benefits of the economic recovery program enacted in 1981 to revitalize our economy. Already interest rates are dropping and the inflation rate is out of the double-digit range. There is unfinished business here, too, however. Congress failed to enact all of the domestic budget cuts that were part of the President's economic recovery proposal. Particularly, we must deal with the so-called "entitlement" programs over which Congress has yielded its obligation to control spending levels. This is essential if we are to control the deficit and eventually balance the federal budget. True, long-term economic recovery and renewed prosperity can come only if we are able to tame the deficit monster.

Later this month we will convene for the second session of the 97th Congress. I am optimistic that we will be able to tackle the unfinished business from the first session, and that we will end 1982 with better, more responsible government than when we begin.

Food Stamp Program Restricted

In a measure designed to reduce the potential for abuse in the food stamp program, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary Jarratt today announced rules that will significantly reduce the number of wholesalers currently authorized to accept and redeem food stamps.

"Under these new rules, all of the 2,300 wholesalers currently authorized will have their authorization withdrawn. The department will then authorize only those wholesalers who are needed to serve as redemption outlets for specific nonprofit cooperative food purchasing ventures, group living arrangements for the blind or disabled, treatment program for alcoholics or drug addicts, shelters for battered women and children and retail food outlets which have no access to a bank," Jarratt said.

"Those wholesalers authorized to serve treatment programs, group living arrangements and shelters for battered women and children will only be allowed to accept food stamps in exchange for food," Jarrett added.

Wholesalers were authorized to redeem food stamps when the program first began to remove any obstacles that might prevent retailers from participating in the program. But rather than continuing to allow retailers to give the stamps to wholesalers who then turn them in to a bank, the department decided that the best way to avoid any potential for misuse is for retailers to take the stamps directly to the banks themselves.

The departments inspector general recommended restricting wholesalers participation in the program after investigating several cases where wholesalers were illegally redeeming improperly obtained food stamps.

The department proposed rules last November and received 42 comments which were considered in developing final rules.

Santa Fe Applies To Close Rail Stations

The Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Railway Co. has asked the Railroad Commission for permission to close agency stations serving 18 cities across the state. The company proposes to serve the affected cities through three regional freight agencies.

Santa Fe proposes to discontinue its agency in Anthony and serve that city through a regional agency in El Paso.

The agencies servicing Follet-Booker-Darrouzett & Spearman will be discontinued and the cities served through Santa Fe's Perryton agency.

The railroad also asked permission to close agencies in Beaumont, Beckville-Tatum, Carthage, Center, Cleveland, Conroe, Jasper, Longview, Pine-land, San Augustine, Tenaha, and Winnie and serve those cities through a regional freight agency in Silsbee.

Aggie engineers get top salary offers
COLLEGE STATION — Industry salary offers for this year's crop of engineering graduates already exceed $30,000 a year for persons with no experience, reports a placement official at Texas A&M University.

Officials say the astounding demand for engineers last year will be even greater this year as industry, government and universities vie for the limited number of graduates.

Experts who recently began predicting an inevitable downturn in demand for engineers may have a long wait — way past the year 2000, say administrators in the nation's largest engineering school.

"Looking at the demand here, I can't see it ever slackening off," said Ron Winn, associate director of placement. About 80 percent of the 800-plus employers who plan to conduct interviews on campus this year will schedule at least one session of their interviews with engineering graduates, he said.

Counties due to vote first on the bingo question include Guadalupe, Comal, Kerr, Maverick, Kleberg, Victoria, Fayette, Milam, Wharton, Nueces, Lavaca, Jim Wells, and Webb.

Texas. From now on, bingo is going to be approved by the voters and licensed by the state or it's going to be illegal," Bullock said.

Cities, counties and justice precincts that approve bingo can also levy a 2 percent gross receipts tax on the games. The Comptroller's office will handle licensing of the games, collect the tax and return it to the communities where the games are held.

Where voters approve bingo, non-profit groups must get licenses from the Comptroller's Bingo Regulation Division and can't legally operate games until 10 days after the local option election, according to Division Director George Garland.

"We are urging non-profit groups in these counties and cities to apply in advance for their licenses by contacting us right away," Garland said.

Organizations should contact the division by writing to 111 East 17th, Austin, Texas 78774 or calling 1-800-252-5555.

According to the new bingo law, cities, counties and justice precincts that don't vote to approve bingo in January must wait until the next constitutional election date of April 3.

To call a bingo election, a local governing body must receive a petition with the signatures of 10 percent of the number of voters who cast ballots in the last gubernatorial election.

The Comptroller's first enforcement priority following the January voting will be to protect those groups who have obtained licenses.

"Especially where the local government has levied the 2 percent tax," Garland said, "we will be checking to make sure every bingo game is licensed. Those that don't have licenses will be urged to get them. If they don't become licensed and keep playing bingo, we will file complaints with local authorities and the Attorney General."

Cities holding January 16 elections include White Settlement, Schertz, Selma, Gregory and Reno.

Bingo Game Controversy To Be Clarified

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Thursday that voters in at least 12 Texas counties and five cities will decide January 16 whether non-profit groups can legally operate bingo games in their communities.

"This is going to end the confusion about bingo in

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek discusses words this week. Dear editor:

I heard a Congressman use a phrase the other day on television that caught my attention.

Faced with the fact that he's a strong advocate of tax cuts and a balanced budget and the fact that it's not working, that the budget may be more out of balance than ever before, he said he is now in favor of "revenue enhancement."

It sure sounds better than raising taxes.

And it has wider use. If the telephone company ups your phone bill $2 a month, it hasn't raised your rate, just enhanced it.

I tried to enhance the price of a steer I had for sale, but the people who control the cattle market have a limited vocabulary and apparently have never heard of the word. They paid me 42 cents a pound instead of the 60 cents I was trying to enhance it to.

Another word that's come into use by politicians is "goal". If a candidate solemnly promises to balance the budget and gets in office and finds it's impossible, he explains it wasn't a promise, it was just a goal.

This too should have wider use. If a promissory note you signed at the bank comes due, go in and explain re-payment wasn't a promise, it was just a goal.

By the way, speaking of revenue enhancement, did you notice that of all the Federal offices shut down for one day when the government ran out of money recently, one in particular was ordered to stay open?

It was the tax collecting office.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Information For Veterans

Approximately 2.3 million disabled veterans received an 11.2 percent cost of living increase in their Veterans Administration compensation effective November 1981. The increase was part of a law signed by President Reagan which made several other improvements in veterans' benefits.

Insurance maximums for servicemen under Servicemen's Group Life Insurance and Veterans Group Life Insurance were raised to $35,000 by recent legislation.

Veterans suffering from service connected ankylosis of one or both knees or hips may receive Veterans Administration help toward the purchase of needed automotive adaptive equipment.

The Veterans Administration is carrying out a congressional mandate to insure that VA medical care for non-service connected problems is provided only to veterans clearly eligible for it under current law.

VA dental care is available for veterans receiving VA compensation at the 100 percent rate for service connected disabilities.

Cheese Surplus To Be Distributed To Texans

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has released 1,884,900 pounds surplus processed cheese for distribution to needy Texans by non-profit organizations, Gene P. Dickey, Southwest Regional Administrator for USDA's Food and Nutrition Service, said Wednesday.

Dickey said the state allocations were made in accordance with President Reagan's decision to release 30 million pounds of stockpiled cheese on a nationwide basis.

Delivery of the cheese in Texas will be administered by the Texas Department of Human Resources. Apportionment will be through the normal commodities channels.

The cheese will be distributed to the needy of Texas by recognized charitable non-profit organizations. Groups which have adequate storage facilities and record-keeping ability, as determined by the state, will be eligible to participate in the cheese distribution program.

The President said Wednesday that more than 560 million pounds of cheese have been consigned to warehouses as a result of the Dairy Price-Support Program. "At a time when American families are under increasing financial pressure," Reagan said, "their government cannot sit by and watch millions of pounds of food turn to waste."

Dickey who administers

USDA food programs in five southwestern states, said that agencies in his region geared up to make the cheese available immediately after Reagan's statement.

USDA allotments for the Southwest Region are: Arkansas 303,700 pounds; Louisiana, 558,500 pounds; New Mexico, 172,300 pounds; Oklahoma, 399,200 pounds; and Texas 1,884,900 pounds. The total for the Southwest Region is 3,318,600 pounds. Allocations were based on state populations.

Blister beetles fatal to horses

COLLEGE STATION — State toxicologists have identified two more species of blister beetles that can kill horses when the insects become trapped in hay fed to the animals.

As few as a handful of the beetles, crushed when the hay is baled, can prove fatal to horses. The chemical responsible — called cantharidin — can remain lethal for years, said Dr. John Reagor, head toxicologist for the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory here, a part of the Texas A&M University System.

Cantharidin, a powerful irritant more commonly called Spanish fly, is a normal defense mechanism of the insects and is released when they are crushed during hay baling. The insects often swarm in hay fields and are gathered up in huge numbers by baling equipment, Reagor explained.

MJHS Spotlight Math Department

The academic spotlight at MJHS this week is focused on the math department. Teachers in this area of study are: sixth grade, Mrs. Evelyn Northcutt; seventh grade, Mrs. Margaret Teaff; and Mike Richardson teaches the eighth grade.

The Muleshoe Jr. High math classes are based and taught on the philosophy that the students will encounter the basic ideas of mathematics throughout their lifetime in the world about them. Therefore, to learn more about mathematics and to become effective problem solvers, the students need a solid foundation in the basic skills of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. This foundation is developed through a clear and simple approach, followed by plenty of practice.

During this year, the Jr. High math department is using a form of individualized instruction that requires the student's initiative and utmost concentration. It is very important for the individual student to apply himself and follow directions. The currently adopted math textbooks are designed to present a single math concept in a two page lesson plan that clearly explains and illustrates, by examples, the types of problems covered in the homework. Each student is to read all of the information preceding each assignment, go over all of the examples, study them, and then attempt a few problems completely on his own. The student can check the first few answers in the back of the book to see if he has completed the steps necessary to get the correct answer. If the correct answer is not computed, or if the student does not understand the procedure, he is to ask the teacher for help in this area; or, he may be able to get help from another student that fully understands the procedure.

Each student is given an assignment sheet for every unit of work as he gets to it. The assignment sheet lists the problems to be worked, the directions to follow, examples, hints to make the assignment easier to understand, and also serves as a suggested time limit for completion of that particular unit. Most of the students should be able to complete all of the work easily in the length of time given. Many students work faster than the tentative guidelines that is suggested while others may be working at different levels in various other areas of math at the same time.

Every student should be able to work the problems in each area of math before moving on to the next assignment. If a student fails to meet the necessary requirement of 75 on any assignment, then the teacher will go over the incorrect problems with the student and additional work will be assigned again and again until that particular skill or concept is learned. Students are tested at the end of specific areas of math as outlined on the assignment sheets; therefore, they know when the test will be and what the test will cover. If a student fails a test, he is allowed to take it a second time after he has reworked and studied the types of problems that were worked incorrectly. Students are always able to get extra help from the teacher at any time or through tutoring from the math side or the migrant tutor. Classmates can also be of beneficial help to one another.

Various sources of materials are used for the different practice and reinforcement concepts needed. These consist of textbook problems, workbook problems, worksheets, number puzzles, as well as the more concrete materials such as tangrams, games, geoboards, film strips and others. Motivational techniques are also used such as class contests, class participation games and activities, student-chosen six week math goals, projects designed in geometry for display, and other means of interest. Bulletin boards displaying student ideas and creativeness area also used in the classrooms, as well as interest centers that provide "tasks" of interest to the students. Moreover, every student in Jr. High math works on the computer terminals (Computer Assisted Instruction) during class time one day per week on a program designed to give the student practice problems on his individual level.

The math program in Jr. High is also interested and involved in the local and district activities sponsored in the spring of each year by the Texas Interscholastic League. The math teachers encourage and solicit Jr. High students to participate in the math "Number Sense." Number Sense is a 10 minute test in computation and problem solving that has to be done in the mind with no scratch paper work, no erasurers and no changes whatsoever after the answer has been written on the test paper. Beginning in January of each year, special meetings are held after school two days per week to teach shortcut methods of computation and to review the logic and reasoning for the stated problems. Students who prepare for Number Sense competition work very hard and spend many hours of practice on the worksheets getting ready for the elimination contests but they find it a rewarding experience.

The Jr. High math department is very pleased with the progress being made by each student this year. With a little extra help and a little extra time spent on a particular area, many of the students are able to make 90's and 100's on work that they could not do before. There is much interest and many of the students are moving ahead at a rapid pace, eager to explore new and more challenging areas of math.

Teacher of the Week

Mrs. Pat Watson was recently chosen as Teacher of the Week by the Jr. High Student Council.

She teaches reading and sponsors the annual and has taught in Jr. High school for 8 years. She graduated from high school at Texico, New Mexico, and attended college at ENMU, where she graduated with a Bachelor of Music Education degree.

Mrs. Watson has three sons, David, who lives in Oklahoma City, Edwin, a senior at Texas Tech University, and Clifford, who is a freshman at Texas Tech.

Mrs. Watson and W.T. her husband, have lived in the Muleshoe area for many years. They attend the First Assembly of God Church, where she enjoys playing the organ and piano. Her hobbies are reading and sewing. She commented that she enjoys the faculty and students at MJHS and considers it a privilege to teach here.

Mrs. Helen Adrian was also recently chosen as teacher of the week. She is currently teaching 7th and 8th grade art at MJH. Mrs. Adrian attended West Texas State University, with a major in Art Education. This is where she obtained her BS degree and several hours toward her Master's degree. Before teaching in Muleshoe, she taught in Alameda, California and Plainview, Texas. Her husband, Lonnie, is the owner and operator of Adrian Photography, and they attend Richland Hills Baptist Church.

Mrs. Adrian would like to thank the Student Council for this honor and to congratulate the MJH student body for the fine attitude and warm welcome shown to her this year. She commented, "It's a great place to teach and a wonderful place to live."

Brown Explains Imported Fire Ant Control Program

AUSTIN--"To establish a safe, effective control program for the imported fire ants in Texas, we need the support and understanding of the people of Texas," Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said recently. "There have been many misconceptions surrounding the control program which have led some groups to believe that everyone in the state is about to be sprayed."

The Texas Department of Agriculture makes the fire ant control program available only at the specific request of the citizens of a county. A formal request to the Department must be made by the county commissioners court, Brown said.

"It is a local decision, totally in the hands of those who know the extent of the problem best--the local landowners. My Department works with the counties in a cooperative program. If they choose to have aerial applications, several agencies are involved--Texas Parks and Wildlife, Environmental Protection Agency, Texas Water Resources, and my Department. We must operate within limits established by these agencies to protect human health, the environment, and wildlife." Brown pointed out that Amdro is the only chemical now registered for aerial applications on a broad range of terrain--rangeland, playgrounds, home lawns, and others. "Amdro has been registered for use by the EPA. It is no longer an experimental pesticide. It is a granular substance which contains a very small amount of pesticide," Brown said. "It is non-toxic, biodegradable, non-water soluble and does not leach into the soil."

"Currently, fifty-two counties have officially requested assistance in applying the bait next spring. We will be able to make Amdro available in cooperative programs at about $1 per pound for ground applications."

"The spread of the imported fire ant has been steady. In 1973, there were 57 counties infested; in 1975, 71 counties; in 1977, 91 counties; in 1978, 93 counties, and as of this month there are 104 confirmed with three waiting for confirmation."

"Everyone working in this control program wants to have an effective, safe method. Our research programs are directed to biological controls that will not adversely affect other elements of the environment or people. However, no viable natural predator has been found. "The argument that pesticides have not halted the spread, therefore should be abandoned as a control agent, doesn't make much sense to the individuals who have to work and live in infested areas. At a meeting in Milam County recently, there were 198 people who turned out to consider answers to problems there."

"The people of Texas are not ignorant; they know that the fire ant must be controlled, and they know that the control program will be handled in the safest, most effective manner," Brown said.

SAFER ANGIOGRAM

SANTA ANA, CALIF. -- Researchers at the University of California at Irvine say they have developed a safer, less painful way of seeing into the heart. A diagnostic machine utilizing the technique is expected to be in production in three to five months, the doctors say.

RENEWS FIGHT

CINCINNATI -- President Reagan renewed his fight against congressional critics of his economic program recently saying they offered no alternative but "a return to their bankrupt policies of higher spending and higher taxes." *****

No excuse is as good as a satisfactory performance. *****

I am taking this means of announcing that I no longer intend to seek re-election to the office of County Clerk of Bailey County. The support and confidence that has been extended to me in the past 24 years by you people has truly inspired me to give my very best effort to see that the office was run in an efficient manner, and that the staff were at the service of the people at any and all times. It has been a gratifying experience for me to serve the people of Bailey County for these many years, and I truly thank you for permitting me to serve for seven terms as your County Clerk.

Pesticide Program Reviewed

AUSTIN--A thorough review of the Texas Department of Agriculture's Pesticide program conducted by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has shown Texas to be in full compliance with pesticide safety standards set by the federal government.

and that he was not surprised by their findings. "I always appreciate any input that might help us to do a better job. The EPA has found that the Texas Department of Agriculture is carrying out the pesticide program in this state in accordance with EPA regulations," Brown said. "In some instances our regulations were found to be more stringent than those set by EPA.

"The responsibility to maintain a clean and healthy environment, and to insure against accidental contamination of crops, livestock, or the public, is a responsibility that must be shared by everyone. The responsibility to make sure that the people of Texas are doing their part to maintain these standards of safety, falls upon the Texas Department of Agriculture," Brown said. "And we will continue to maintain those standards to the best of our ability."
