

City Faces Prospect Of 'Protective Annexation'

CITY PLANNERS don't claim to know what life will be like 42 years from now, but they're sure of one thing: by the year 2020 Lubbock will not have enough land to support its population if none is annexed.

Currently there are about 11,600 developable acres located in the city's prime growth areas, city planning director Jim Bertram said.

However, he predicts the city will require 15,650 acres to sustain its population by the year 2020 so the city will need to add more than 4,000 acres by that time.

Why doesn't the city just start annexing land outside its borders?

Bertram said there are many factors to be weighed before any property is annexed and a chaotic policy of annexation could hurt the city.

So Bertram and his staff are more than 4,000 acres which border the city in a semi-circle on the south, west and north with an eye toward future land requirements.

The study is being performed by the rural land use subcommittee of the Planning and Zoning Commission which has been charged with formulating a long-range annexation plan.

Bertram said the subcommittee will attempt to determine where the city should annex the needed land and the amount of land which might be needed 10 or 15 years hence.

Subcommittee members also must decide whether the city should proceed with "protective annexation" immediately or allow land which might eventually become part of the city to "be developed with junk," he said.

The 4,000 acres being scrutinized by the subcommittee south of the city one-half mile east of the Tahoka Highway and 114th Street. The western border of the study area is Upland Road, then the semi-circle stretches to FM 2641 on the north, nearly to the Lubbock International Airport.

Bertram said the large area, divided into four sectors for study purposes, will be examined for the direction of growth, the existing growth, capital improvements and operational expenses which the city would incur if the land were annexed and potential tax revenues (property and sales taxes) area residents might contribute.

The city must provide a comparable level of municipal services to an annexed area within three years and code enforcement usually begins immediately in the area.

To annex a quarter-section in Southeast Lubbock as recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission, Bertram predicted it would cost the city $70,000 to extend and connect water mains to the area, $5,000 in code enforcement, $4,500 for dumpsters and an unknown amount to provide an additional five police cars and men to patrol the area. City operations in the area would cost more than $112,000 annually, Bertram predicted, while only about $38,000 a year could be anticipated in tax revenues.

Areas like that in Southeast Lubbock "are only going to get worse" if not annexed, Bertram said, adding the subcommittee may decide "there's no better time than now" to annex the needed land to prevent its further deterioration.

The longer the deterioration, the more it costs the city when it is annexed because of the continued degeneration of the tax base he said.

Earthquake Rocks Four Countries

TUEBINGEN, West Germany (AP) — One of the strongest earthquakes ever recorded in Germany shook parts of this and four neighboring countries early Sunday, damaging homes and a historic castle but causing few injuries. There were no reports of deaths.

The quake, centered in the Swabian hills of southwestern Germany, was measured by seismological stations in France and West Germany at between 5 and 7.5 on the Richter scale.

In West Germany, where damage was heaviest, 15 injuries were reported.

Shocks from the quake, which occurred shortly after 6 a.m. (12 noon CDT) were also recorded in eastern France, Switzerland, Austria and the southwestern corner of East Germany, officials said.

Police in Frankfurt, some 150 miles to the north of the epicenter, said the tremor set off 31 burglar alarms in stores and banks. In the Swiss border canton, or state, of St. Gallen, police said they received more than 100 calls in an hour from anxious residents.

Forest Area Damaged
Most of the damage was near the picturesque Black Forest in the state of Baden-Wuerttemberg, West Germany's earthquake zone. It was the first quake recorded in the area since 1969. Scientists said the area's last major quake, in 1943, was roughly equal to Sunday's jolt.

The Baden-Wuerttemberg Interior Ministry estimated damage in the millions of dollars but said an assessment was incomplete.

The ministry said hundreds of homes in villages scattered around the castle were heavily damaged that emergency shelter was being provided for those forced out of their homes.

The ministry said there were three main shocks, with the strongest coming first, and 60 smaller aftershocks.

Officials said the damage from a quake that severe could have been much heavier, but the region is a known earthquake area, and builders took this into account when designing houses.

In the town of Tailingen, 30 houses were damaged and three persons injured, one of them seriously, police reported.

Police said the Hohenzollern Castle, a popular tourist attraction and ancestral

Thunderstorm Threat Looms For Labor Day

PARTLY CLOUDY skies, along with the threat of afternoon thunderstorms, may put a damper on Labor Day spirits. For Lubbock and vicinity, the National Weather Service is predicting a 20 percent chance of rain and just about four hours of sunshine for the holiday.

Low-level moisture working with an upper-level disturbance is continuing the threat of rain throughout the area today.

Temperatures will be warm, reaching the upper 80s today and dip to the mid-60s tonight. Mild, southerly winds will be at 10 to 15 mph today.

The weather outlook for the rest of the week is calling for partly cloudy skies, with warm afternoons and mild nights.

Widely scattered showers dotted the South Plains late Sunday, with heaviest activity reported in Odessa which received 1 to 1½ inches of rain in an hour-period.

The Department of Public Safety closed down the access road to U.S. 80 between Midland and Odessa for a short time because of Sunday's heavy rains.

The NWS in Midland late Sunday reported .62 of an inch of rain at Midland Regional Airport, adding that weather watchers in Midland and Odessa had reported even more rainfall in various parts of the cities.

The NWS issued flash flood warnings late Sunday for Midland and Ector Counties as well as a flash flood warning for Lea County in New Mexico. Heavy showers were reported 20 miles southwest of Hobbs.

Shower activity was also reported in northeast Andrews County, with .1 of an inch of rain for Andrews, in Gaines County northeast of Seminole and in the northern portion of the South Plains where Tulia received .40 of an inch of moisture.

PROUD PARENTS — Sarah Weddington, named last week to become President Carter's special assistant on women's issues, discusses her new job with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Doyle Ragle of Lubbock. Carter Aide Hopes To Hike Women's White House Role

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

SARAH WEDDINGTON, President Carter's newly named adviser on women's issues, said here Sunday her main goal in her new job will be to involve women in every aspect of White House decision making.

Mrs. Weddington, in Lubbock visiting her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Doyle Ragle, said she wants coordination between her office and other presidential offices so that women's viewpoints can be presented before any decisions are made.

"My overall goal is including women in the mainstream of everything that happens (in the White House)," she said, adding President Carter had indicated his willingness to establish those "formal lines of communication" which would be needed.

A former Texas legislator from Austin and general counsel of the Department of Agriculture, Mrs. Weddington, 33, was named Thursday as Carter's women's adviser.

Although she said she has not yet formulated all the priorities for her new job, she already has decided how she will set those priorities.

To Meet With Staff

She plans meetings with other senior White House staff members in the coming week to determine "how our office can best interrelate with theirs and what issues they think should be covered that are not currently being covered."

She also said she will visit with women's groups and the Carters "to see how they see it (the job)."

Discussions with First Lady Rosalynn Carter will begin today when Mrs. Weddington meets Mrs. Carter in Houston for a flight back to Washington, D.C.

"One of the things I really look forward to is working with Rosalynn Carter," Mrs. Weddington said. "She really has a solid core and caring about the issues that has not come through in the past. I think she will be one of my strongest allies."

Mrs. Carter, who called Mrs. Weddington to ask her to interview for the White House job, should provide an added dimension to the women's issues post while working with Mrs. Weddington.

"The combination of her wife, family, supporting partner role with my background as a woman businessperson, politician and professional... should really make effective our representation of a broad scope of women in the country," Mrs. Weddington said.

Ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment is "certain to be one of those priorities" of her job, Mrs. Weddington said, because the Carter family strongly backs the amendment's passage.

And the first order of business in getting the ERA passed is convincing the Senate to extend the ratification period for the amendment.

"The ERA's still got a good chance of passage, but it's an uphill struggle," she

EDUCATOR HONORED — Mae Simmons, well-known Lubbock educator and civic leader, was honored with a plaque for her years of work here at a bon voyage tea Sunday at the Bethel AME Church Fellowship Hall. Presenting her with the plaque is the Rev. A.W. Wilson. Mrs. Simmons retired in 1972 after 29 years with the Lubbock public schools. She was principal at Ella Iles School 16 years and taught there for 12 years. Her first year of teaching was at C.N. Hodges Elementary. She was honored for her civic contributions by having a community center and a park named in her honor. She is leaving Lubbock to move to Las Vegas, Nev. (Staff Photo by Dennis Copeland)

Peace Hopes Hinge On Mideast Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is shying away from calling this week's Middle East summit a last chance for peace in the embattled region, but officials warn privately of serious consequences if the Camp David meetings fail.

Yet as Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin prepare to sit down Tuesday at the presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains, neither side has given any assurance that the meetings will succeed.

Administration officials, who declined to be named, speculated in interviews that unless the conference keeps the peace process alive, there could be an Arab summit conference which could lead to another oil embargo and a dangerous shift of forces in the region.

Importance Stressed

The importance of the conference has been stressed by all sides involved. President Carter has turned his daily duties over to Vice President Walter F. Mondale so Carter can devote more attention to the summit.

In Egypt, Sadat said during the week-end he considers the conference "a turning point" in Middle East history. And Begin in an Israeli radio address called the meetings "very important," although he said he did not consider it a final chance for peace.

The Israeli leader, who left for New York City on Sunday, said he was going to Camp David with "a maximum of goodwill and an open mind."

The administration sources say the United States and Israel are prepared to call the summit a success if it produces merely an agreement to keep the negotiations going.

Sadat Under Pressure

Sadat, however, is under increasingly heavy pressure to win some major concessions from Israel or abandon his peace initiative. He may not be able to resist those pressures any longer if he brings no prizes back from Camp David.

Sadat's trip to Jerusalem, which launched his peace initiative last November, has been bitterly criticized by radical Arab states such as Syria, Iraq and Libya. A few of the most conservative pro-western Arab governments have supported him while Saudi Arabia, the religious and financial leader of the Arab world, has remained publicly neutral.

But Saudi Crown Prince Fahd's attitude became increasingly harsh in recent months. In late July, Fahd, according to sources, told Sadat it was time to abandon his peace initiative because of Israeli intransigence. The sources said Fahd was trying to arrange a summit meeting of Arab leaders to restore unity among them.

At that point, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance went to the Middle East with his summit proposal. Sadat quickly accepted the invitation, hoping that the United States would put forward its own peace plan and pressure Israel to accept it.

American diplomat Alfred Atherton visited Fahd and Jordan's King Hussein, and managed to win both leaders' endorsements of the summit. But the Saudis made it plain they regarded Camp David as the last chance.

Hussein, in a television interview broadcast Sunday, said he considered the summit "a decisive one in terms of the prospects for peace" but called chances for success "not very great."

In remarks on the ABC television program "Issues and Answers" Hussein said: "The Israeli position is so intransigent. It is clearly one of trying to control the territories under occupation."

If the summit fails, and there is an Arab summit, administration officials think there would likely emerge a more rigid Arab position on terms for peace with Israel. They say the Arabs undoubtedly would demand the return of all territory captured in the 1967 war and the establishment of a Palestinian state on the West Bank, both of which are unacceptable to Israel. The demands might be backed with a new oil embargo, these officials say.

To avoid that, the officials say, the State Department has prepared a number of detailed American proposals for compromises on the critical issues which

Tradition Discarded in Installation Of Pope John Paul I

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul I assumed the throne of St. Peter and leadership of the world's 700 million Roman Catholics Sunday in a solemn, outdoor rite marked by the simplicity already a hallmark of his papacy.

Breaking more than 1,000 years of tradition, the 65-year-old pontiff donned a simple white wool stole as the shepherd of his flock and concelebrated his inaugural Mass with the College of Cardinals.

Setting a tone of ecumenism, John Paul greeted in his homily "all the people in the world."

"We regard them and love them as our brothers and sisters, since they are the children of the same heavenly father and brothers and sisters in Christ Jesus."

Papal Tiara Rejected

He refused to be crowned with the traditional beehive-shaped papal tiara or to be carried by a dozen footmen to the ceremony in the swaying portable throne, as past popes had done.

Like his predecessor Pope Paul VI, he chose to have his installation on the steps of St. Peter's Basilica, close to people and in front of Christendom's largest church. Most past papal coronations, glittering with the regal trappings of the crowning of kings, were held inside the mighty basilica.

The new pope began the ceremony with prayers inside the basilica at the Altar of Confession, built atop what is thought to be the tomb of St. Peter, the first pope.

Walks To Square

Then John Paul, clad in gold-trimmed robes and bearing a simple iron staff, walked into St. Peter's Square, following a procession of 104 cardinals.

They emerged to the strains of a choir chanting in Latin, "Veni, Creator, Spiritus... Come, Holy Spirit."

The new pope waved to the crowd of about 250,000 in the sun-baked square and blessed them, making the sign of the cross with his hands. Before him were gathered a throng of dignitaries including kings, queens, princes and presidents, and a multitude of pilgrims and tourists.

John Paul carried his iron crosier, the

Tech, KTXT-TV Offer Courses By Television

By CANDY SAGON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

WATCHING television could be your ticket to a college education.

Beginning this week, South Plains residents can enroll in a new, innovative learning program being offered for the first time by Texas Tech University and KTXT-TV Ch. 5.

Called Television for Learning, residents from high school age to senior citizens will be able to earn college credit by watching televised courses in the comfort of their homes.

The program uses both televised lectures and popular TV series, such as "Roots" and "The Adams Chronicles," as teaching tools. The day's lesson is broadcast in 30 minute or one-hour segments during the week and then repeated in a 2 1/2 to 3-hour broadcast on the weekend for those who may have missed a lecture or who want to hear it again.

Students who have questions about any of the material can call the Texas Tech instructor for the course for assistance. They also are encouraged to meet on campus with the instructor for more individualized instruction.

Persons who sign up for the program this week at Tech's Division of Continuing Education will have their choice of five telecourses:

Contemporary Social Issues, based on the TV mini-series "Roots"; The History of the U.S. to 1877, based on the TV series "The Adams Chronicles," a dramatization of the life of John Adams and his family; Introductory Psychology, offering five 30-minute telelectures weekly; Theatre and Cinema II, offering both televised lectures plus 1- to 2-hour classic European films; and World Religions, based on "The Long Search," an account of host-narrator Ronald Eyre's three year trek across four continents.

Contemporary Social Issues, a short course lasting three weeks, will begin Tuesday with the first episode of See TECH Page 14

Mao's Quips Reviewed

TOKYO (AP) — Chairman Mao Tse-tung's little red book, the book of quotations from the late Chinese leader often waved aloft by tens of thousands of idolizing Chinese, may be knocked off China's best-seller list.

China's leading newspaper says real students of Mao's thought now must study his whole philosophy, not scattered quips, sentences and sayings that could be interpreted any number of ways.

There have been hints from China that some ideas of the revered founder and chief philosopher of the People's Republic might be undergoing some re-evaluation.

The book, traditionally bound in red and made to easily fit in a pocket, contained Mao's ideas on subjects ranging from political philosophy to every-day life.

An article in the state newspaper People's Daily, broadcast in part Sunday by the official Hsinhua news agency and monitored here, said Mao's quotations must be understood in context and in connection with certain times, places and conditions. The article hinted at a de-emphasis of the government's use of quotations taken from the book.

It did not directly criticize Mao, nor did it directly mention his book of favorite sayings. But it did attack the late defense minister Lin Biao and the deposed "Gang of Four."

The four, including Mao's widow Chiang Ching and three other top officials, lost out to Premier Hua Kuo-feng in a struggle for power after Mao's death in September 1976.

Chiang and her three comrades were arrested in October 1976, after a reported coup attempt. They have been accused of a variety of offenses ranging from distorting Mao's ideas and economic disruption to sabotaging the former chairman's medical treatment.

Lin, accused of plotting to assassinate Mao and stage a coup, was killed in a plane crash in 1971, supposedly while trying to flee to the Soviet Union.

The People's Daily article quoted Mao himself as saying, "If anyone claims that any comrade, for instance, any comrade of the Central Committee, or for that matter I myself, completely understood the laws governing the Chinese revolution, then he is a braggart and you must on no account believe him."

The four, claiming to be the true interpreters of Mao, put political fidelity ahead of everything and denounced those who concentrated on economic advances.

Hua, Mao's successor, has set a goal of complete modernization for China by the year 2000 and has declared that doing good work in economics and production is part of one's political duty.

The paper said Lin and the Gang of Four pushed the idea that in Mao's case, "Every sentence is truth."

But, it said, this meant "extracting one sentence out of context from a revolutionary teacher and using it arbitrarily regardless of time, place and circumstances, so as to alter its essence."

"Every statement of the revolutionary teachers was made on a certain premise and against a particular background. Stripped of its conditions, a truth can become nonsense," the People's Daily said.

U.S. Denies Knowledge Of Deal Between Germany, Moscow

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Washington told Bonn Sunday it has no information about a plan, reportedly drafted by a top figure in Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's party, to pull West Germany out of NATO in exchange for a non-aggression pledge from Moscow.

The U.S. statement, made public by the Bonn government, appeared for the moment to take the steam out of a spy scandal that has rattled West Germany's ruling party.

The controversy erupted last week when newspapers that oppose Schmidt's Social Democratic Party reported that a top ranking Romanian defector, Lt. Gen. Ion Pacepa, had given the CIA names of suspected Communist spies in Schmidt's party.

Pacepa defected in July while on a trade mission in Cologne.

According to the newspaper reports, Pacepa also told the Americans that Egon Bahr, executive secretary of the SPD, had drawn up a plan for West Germany's withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as a first step toward German reunification.

Armin Gruenewald, a Bonn government spokesman, quoted the U.S. Embassy as saying "The United States of America has neither documentary nor any other evidentiary material which says that Egon Bahr has made proposals for the withdrawal of the Federal Republic of Germany from NATO in return for the reunification of Germany and a Soviet non-aggression guarantee."

The U.S. statement made no mention of other information U.S. authorities may have obtained from Pacepa, a commander of Romania's security services who had close ties to President Nicolae Ceausescu.

Authorities say at least one member of Schmidt's party, 34-year-old parliamentarian Uwe Holtz, is under investigation in connection with the affair.

Holtz, chairman of the parliamentary committee on economic cooperation and development, was involved in financing an aircraft deal that Pacepa was negotiating on behalf of the Romanian government when he defected.

Western diplomats in the Romanian capital of Bucharest report a dozen Romanian generals and senior security officers have been arrested or demoted in the wake of Pacepa's defection.

But the allegations against Bahr, the architect of West Germany's detente policy, appeared to be the most significant disclosure of the affair.

If West Germany withdrew from the Western alliance, it could pave the way for Bonn to begin negotiations with East Germany for reunification, press reports said.

The reunification of the two Germanies has long been a dream of conservative West Germans who opposed Brandt's policy of detente because it meant negotiating with the Eastern officials, in effect recognizing their authority.

Last week the conservative daily Die Welt reported that one of Bahr's aides told the Soviets of a plan Bahr had drawn up for West German neutralization.

According to the paper, the Americans learned of the plan and its delivery to Moscow through Pacepa, who also reportedly unmasked up to six other suspected Communist agents in Bonn.

Rickover Gives Testy Interview

NEW YORK (AP) — Admiral Hyman Rickover says he doubts the United States can be run as a "pure democracy" because Americans "have a pretty good life" and have become lackadaisical.

During a stormy 30-minute interview on CBS "Face The Nation" in Washington, the 78-year-old military leader said that because "everybody is taken care of," the population is uninterested in substantive matters, unfair in their expectations of the president and lacking incentive and education.

He did not elaborate specifically on what aspects of democracy are impractical.

He said the nation could reverse the trend, but only "when the energy crunch comes, when we start running out of our easily obtainable natural resources."

Rickover said, "we don't have a fundamental understanding of what government is all about."

"We expect the president of the United States to be pluperfect, even more perfect than the Lord," he said. "We don't understand, we put a man in a job with little power, little authority and we expect him to do everything that every citizen wants."

Rickover refused to discuss defense affairs, including President Carter's recent veto of the military appropriations bill because of his opposition to construction of a nuclear carrier.

He said he would testify before Congress on such matters if asked, but would not speak about them until then.

During one heated exchange, he denounced the panel of reporters' questions as "stupid" and "pseudo-political."

CYPRUS GRAIN CREDIT

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new $15 million line of credit has been established to finance sales of U.S. feed grains and wheat to Cyprus under the Commodity Credit Corporation export credit sales program. This line of credit provides $12 million for feed grains and $3 million for wheat, said Kelly M. Harrison, general sales manager for the Agriculture Department.

AN EDITORIAL:

No Reason For 'Mini-State'

IS THE DISTRICT OF Columbia, or the city of Washington if you please, entitled to the same representation in Congress as each of the 50 states?
That, in effect, is the question which the 50 states must now answer as they debate the recently approved constitutional amendment granting the District full voting power in Congress.
The issue, about as controversial as the Equal Rights Amendment, not only has political overtones, but in the view of some, racial implications.

AS A MATTER of fact, it already has become an issue in the race between Sen. John Tower and Rep. Bob Krueger in Texas.
The issue is not a new one, however. The problem of how to treat the District and the city of Washington has been a thorny one almost from the time the federal government was centered there.
For the most part, Washington has been a city under Congress' thumb, although it was granted "home rule" in 1974. The law permits residents of the capital to name a mayor and a city council.

THE IDEA OF granting statehood or quasi-statehood to the District of Columbia is not new.
It originated with Theodore W. Noyes, a reporter for The Washington Evening Star and son of the paper's editor.

AN EDITORIAL:

Play Ball, Guys!

WHY IS IT students who have trouble with simple math tests often are capable of complicated computations in their heads when the subject is something on the order of a baseball player's batting average?
A good question, and the obvious answer is that math dealing with a young fan's special interest is fun, not work.
Which is the rationale of the Math Baseball League, a learning experiment tried out in New York last summer and going national this season under the co-sponsorship of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Houston Astros and Atlanta Braves.
Based on an instructional game developed by the St. Regis Paper Company in which players use math problem flash cards to score hits—the number of bases depending upon difficulty of solution—the league has signed up several thousand elementary students through Boys' Clubs and the YMCA in the three team cities.
The season runs through the rest of the month with championships to be held in sponsor stadiums before regular major league games.
Well, if it helps Johnny to figure, all we can say is, "Play Ball!"

ART BUCHWALD:

Divorce Is Tougher If You're Unmarried

WASHINGTON—Being a married man, I always believed that single people living together had the best of both worlds.
Whenever I met someone in a leisure suit with a gold chain around his neck and a beautiful blonde on his arm, whom he introduced to everyone as his "roommate," I must admit I was wild with envy.
But things are tough even for unmarried couples—tougher in some ways. I discovered this the other day when Harlequin came to see me without an appointment.
Harlequin is 30 years old and until his visit I always believed he had the perfect setup. His "roomie" was a sweet thing named Saralee, and they shared a lovely apartment overlooking the Potomac.
THEY HAD A pet dog named "Pothead," and the thing they both used to brag to me about was that they had all the benefits of being married, without any of the hassles. That's the part I envied the most.
Therefore, when Harlequin told me what he came to see me about I was truly shocked.
"I want to break up with Saralee," he said.
"That's too bad. But what's the problem?"
"I don't know how to go about it."
"You just tell her, I guess."
"That's easy for you to say," Harlequin said. "But you're married and if you want to break up with your wife you ask her for a divorce. Since we're not man and wife what do I ask for?"
"I GUESS a separation," I suggested.
"Easier said than done," Harlequin whined. "If I do that she'll want to keep the apartment."
"Whose apartment is it?"
"It was originally my apartment, but as far as she's concerned it's hers. Why should I give up the apartment just because I don't want to live with her any more?"
"I know apartments are hard to find, Harlequin, but I'm not a lawyer. When you start talking about property settlements you should seek legal counsel."

"It won't work. When you married people want a divorce, each of you hires a lawyer to thrash things out. Lawyers don't want to have anything to do with single people who are breaking up."
"WHY DON'T YOU just tell Saralee that you don't want to live with her any more and you want her to get out?"
"You don't know Saralee. She looks like a lamb, but she fights like a tiger. She'd throw all my stuff out the window."
"But didn't you have some understanding when you moved in together? That if either party wanted to call it quits there would be no hard feelings?"
"Of course we did. All singles say the same thing. But after you live together for three or four years the vows don't mean anything. The one who is rejected acts worse than the victim of a divorce."
"It's funny," I said. "I thought the singles life was all cream and strawberries."
"BOY, YOU ARE dumb," Harlequin said. "I've put up with fits of jealousy that no married man would stand for."
"When you're married you can at least flirt around with somebody and the other partner doesn't get too shaken up if you don't make a big deal of it."
"But when you're living with somebody, if you so much as dance with another person, your roommate makes your life miserable. I'm too young to be stuck with one woman," he said, practically in tears.
"I didn't know how to console him. Look, this is a crazy idea, but why don't you marry Saralee?"
"What would that accomplish?" he screamed at me.
"Once you're married you can ask her for a divorce and then turn the whole problem over to your lawyer."
He kissed me on the head and said, "I knew you'd come up with a solution. I'll go out and buy the wedding bands today."

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Leader Of The PAC

COLUMBIA, S.C.—A new escalation for Rep. Jack Kemp was reached here Aug. 24 just before the Buffalo, N.Y., congressman's speech to a fund-raising dinner when he talked to fabulously rich South Carolina textile magnate Roger Milliken.
Kemp and Milliken conferred in whispered tones at a cocktail party for big contributors before the dinner. Kemp revealed to Milliken what he had not made public: he is about to create a PAC (political action committee) authorized under law to collect contributions. Milliken quickly volunteered that he wanted to be among the first to contribute.
No bridges were burned on either side. By setting up a PAC, Kemp does not commit himself to running for President or any other office.
By contributing to Kemp's PAC, Milliken does

ANDREW TULLY:

My Place Or Yours

(Reprinted by request)
WASHINGTON—A friend once assured Groucho Marx that he could get the comedian into an exclusive men's club. Groucho's response was characteristic.
"No," he said, "I don't want to belong to a club that would accept me as a member."
Such cosmic reminiscence is prompted by a New York Times report on the closing of numerous men's clubs in London, the capital of such institutions.
We learn that the latest casualty of inflation and high taxes is the 160-year-old United Services Club.
It was bound to happen. Society is being leveled everywhere as the gap between rich and poor is slowly narrowed.
COSTS ARE higher, and so are dues, in a country in which a member of Parliament earns less than a New York City garbage man.
And even in London—a man's city—women are aggressively pressing for the right to invade the clubs' sacred soil.
Yet, any American who has experienced lunch or an overnight stay at a British men's club must be saddened by the decline of a tradition.
Most of the clubs are stuffy and overcrowded with senile old fools, but they are unique simply because they could not exist anywhere else.
On one assignment in Europe, I stayed a week at the Athenaeum in Pall Mall, gathering place for London's "intellectuals."
The food was terrible, a fact I timidly mentioned to a younger member who seemed slightly less imperious than his fellows.
HE SMILED that marvelous, down-putting British smile. "We think it's rather good," he said, forking a rancid morsel of jugged hare. "But I suppose it tastes a bit odd to foreigners whose palates are accustomed to hamburgers."
Another year, I was taken to lunch at White's, perhaps the most snobbish of all London's compounds of snobbery.
At a nearby table, a British editor was entertaining a well-known Laborite named Clement Attlee, recently deposed as Prime Minister. Suddenly, a fat little man strode up to Attlee's table.
"I came here to lunch in respectable surroundings," Winston Churchill told Attlee. "I shall now repair elsewhere."
Churchill was expressing the raison d'etre for all men's clubs everywhere: the desire to relax among one's equals, social or professional.
FOR 30 YEARS, a Washington acquaintance has never lunched anywhere but the Cosmos Club, headquarters for the capital city's eggheads.
The Cosmos is a little livelier now, but the story is that when it moved from Lafayette Square to its present quarters about 20 years ago the help had trouble rousing a member slumped in a big leather chair.
Legend has it that the man had been dead for two days.
Then there is the lawyer friend who spent 14 years on the waiting list before finally being admitted to Metropolitan Club membership.
I asked him how it felt. He groined for the right word. Finally, "It feels secure."

AMB. ZAHEDI IS THE son of the late Gen. Fazlollah Zahedi, a former Prime Minister of Iran.

The Ambassador, a tall, most articulate person, is only 49. He has a B.S. degree in agriculture from Utah State. He enjoys gardening and hunting, and according to those who know, he is most extraordinary as a gourmet cook.
He also is adept in the field of diplomacy under stress. It was he, along with the Egyptian and Pakistani ambassadors, who were instrumental in persuading the Hanafi Muslim gunmen to surrender after they had seized 134 hostages in Washington in March, 1977.
He knows his homeland like the back of his hand, which has known hard labor as well as the diplomatic handshake. Just as importantly, he knows what is happening—and why—in other strategic areas of the world.

AMB. ZAHEDI, in our assessment, is a realist. He does not permit himself the luxury of wishful thinking.
He comes across, to a group of newsmen or in a one-to-one situation as frank, sincere. He makes no effort to gloss over unpleasant topics, in fact seems to welcome an opportunity to shed some light where possible.
In answer to a query if Lubbock Police had turned over pictures and names of protesting Iranian students, or if the Iranian secret police, SAVAK, had sought to find out who was behind the masks, he said: "This would not be necessary. If we wanted the names, all we would have to do would be to wait around the corner until they took off the masks, then get them."
He suggests that Americans should remember that there are a small number of protesters as opposed to the 37,000 Iranian students in the U.S., and another 45,000 in Europe.
A MAN PROUD of his homeland's ancient role in history—Iran often is referred to as "the cradle of civilization"—Amb. Zahedi is quick to point out "the great progress we have made under Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi."
He is just as quick to point out the obstacles ahead, including the current massive unrest in Iran.
On the plus side, he notes: "In 1950, the annual per capita income in Iran was only $53. Today it is $2,280. In 1950, there was only one university and 1,000 graduates a year. Today there are 23 universities and 175,000 graduates annually."
"In 1950, there were only 375,000 students in all the schools. Today, there are 8 1/2 million, approximately one-fourth of the 34 million persons in all of Iran. And in 1950," he notes, "there were only 200 students studying in the U.S. Today, there are 37,000, many being aided with government scholarships and money sent by their parents."
THE IRANIAN struggle is one which may prove puzzling to many in the U.S.
Actually, the major cause of the current trouble is the fact that the Shah has been attempting to move toward more liberalization for the people.
In so doing, he has managed to antagonize three powerful segments—the Moslem church leaders, who resent having to give up land and who oppose modern ways of living, including more freedom for women; the rich landlords who see the rise of the peasant and middle class as a threat, and the ultra-left, which is goaded on and infiltrated by the Communists.
It is indeed an "Unholy Alliance." If it were to succeed in deposing the regime in Iran, it could upset the balance of power in that region where the U.S. now has a strong military and economic ally, and it would open the way for Russia to march to the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean. If this happens, World War III will already have been won by the Soviets.

A POTENTIALLY more serious problem is obsessive stress on tax reduction as the philosopher's stone to save Western civilization.
During two days, Kemp carried on a non-stop economic seminar on tax reduction—in speeches, press conferences, meetings with politicians, and in just plain bull sessions. Sooner or later, he must broaden his message.
Yet Kemp's monomania enables him to skirt social issues so pleasurable to hard-core Republicans but of dubious political value—busing, abortion, crime, homosexuality, drugs.
Furthermore, Kemp rejects demands by Republicans that his tax reduction to restore incentive be balanced by deep spending cuts.
"I believe we ultimately will need to spend more money," he told a Cincinnati press conference, for national defense and "to clean up air and water."
IN COLUMBIA, S.C., while shocked Republicans gaped over breakfast, he committed heresy: declaring that "the cause of inflation is not unions"; praising John F. Kennedy's tax cuts and criticizing Herbert Hoover's tax increases; attacking the "meat" $100 billion federal spending cut of Howard Jarvis and preferring something "more humane, more compassionate, more positive."
At that South Carolina breakfast, Kemp was preaching specifically to Gov. James Edwards, trying to convince him a balanced budget is not the first priority. Edwards is definitely interested.
A Reagan stalwart in 1976, he still feels a strong pull to follow him. Yet, like Milliken, Edwards wonders whether a last hurrah is in the best interests of either Ronald Reagan or the Republican party.
But why don't Edwards and Milliken opt for the more conventionally conservative Phil Crane instead of Kemp? That goes to the heart of the Kemp phenomenon.
"He leaves the audiences with hope, not anger," explained one party leader after listening to Kemp. That is so unusual a feat for a Republican that it explains why he has surmounted inexperience, confusion and a narrow-based idea to become, for now at least, a welcome excitement in an habitually drab political party.

JAY HARRIS: Envoy At Large...

HIS EXCELLENCY Ardeshir Zahedi ought to be teaching history in some major U.S. university. Or perhaps an adult education class for Congressmen.
Actually, His Excellency, as he is known in diplomatic circles, has a good job. He is the Iranian Ambassador to the U.S.
And as such, he wields a lot of weight in a world where oil, money, terrorists and power bargaining often become entangled.
Amb. Zahedi was in Lubbock just before the Labor Day weekend. He was here to meet with officials at Reese AFB, where Iranian Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi is in pilot training, to talk with top officials of the U.S. Air Force who happened to be on the base, and to hold a session with the city's news media.
He came off with high marks on all counts, including the media which had an opportunity to watch a "pro" in action.

THE AMBASSADOR will be a visitor in Lubbock off and on during the next few months that Crown Prince Pahlavi is stationed at RAFB.
On occasion, he flies in, picks up the Crown Prince and they take off for some point in the U.S. for a brief visit. It's all part of the young man's education, of his getting "an opportunity to learn about the U.S., how Americans live, about Democracy."
"I think it is far more important that the future ruler of Iran learn about America than to keep him busy on news interviews," Amb. Zahedi explained in relating why he himself has imposed a moratorium on such things until nearer the wind-up of the Prince's training.
The Ambassador is serving his second tour in that capacity in Washington. He previously held the post from 1960-62. And he served as Ambassador to the United Kingdom from 1962-67 and as Foreign Minister of Iran from 1967 to 1971.
While representing his nation in two key areas abroad, he has also learned much the people with whom he lived.

Smith-Nkomo Meet Stirs Controversy

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Week-end admissions by Prime Minister Ian Smith and guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo of their secret meeting in Zambia last month point up this country's potential for confusion and odd alignments as it staggers toward black majority rule.

The two main moderate Rhodesian-based black leaders, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole and Bishop Abel Muzorewa, who, with Chief Jeremiah Chirau and Smith make up Salisbury's six month-old transition government, say they had a vague idea Smith might go to Zambia. Sithole leaked a partially accurate version of events last week.

Anger and official silence at Saturday's summit in Lusaka, Zambia, of the five front-line black African states, however, indicates the Smith-Nkomo meeting was news to Robert Mugabe, Nkomo's partner in the shaky Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance.

It also was news to four of the five front-line leaders. The exception was Nkomo's mentor, Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda. The front-line states, Zambia, Mozambique, Tanzania, Angola and Botswana, are heading black African efforts to end minority rule in southern Africa.

Nkomo said he and Smith discussed a possible role for Nkomo in the Rhodesian government.

The meeting bodes worse for the unity of the Patriotic Front than for that of the transition government.

Muzorewa and Sithole, denounced by the guerrilla leaders and lacking their own armies, are, in effect, stuck in an administration kept alive by Rhodesia's white-led security forces and civil service.

Both say they don't believe Rhodesia should go along with American and British proposals for an all-party conference, that would include the guerrilla chiefs.

They insist universal suffrage elections must be held in December despite the presence of some 7,000 guerrillas ready to blow up the ballot boxes.

Like Mugabe, they suspect an Anglo-American, Soviet and Zambian plot to install Nkomo, who is far more moderate than the Peking-backed Mugabe, as leader of Zimbabwe, the nationalist name for Rhodesia.

Although the internal leaders have little in common ideologically with Mugabe, they all belong to the majority Shona tribe. Nkomo is widely regarded as the founder of black nationalism here, but is from the minority Ndebele tribe.

Smith and Nkomo have tried to reach deals before, Smith has turned again to Nkomo — whom he kept in jail for 11 years until 1974 — as the options for Rhodesia narrow and the situation becomes more critical.

Bringing Nkomo home to head Zimbabwe is a tricky proposition for both Smith and Nkomo, and threats of black civil war would remain. But there are mutual advantages.

The most obvious for Nkomo is to return home to the top job after 30 years of nationalist strivings in and out of the country.

From Smith's viewpoint:

— Nkomo would be weaned away from the militant Mugabe whose stated plan for Zimbabwe includes mass nationalization and, on a more personal note, a "People's Court" trial for Smith.

— The white administration has long sought to emphasize Patriotic Front disunity. Last week the Foreign Ministry released a captured Mugabe document which described the alliance as a "marriage of convenience."

— Although Nkomo has the smaller guerrilla army, it is more cohesive and effective than Mugabe's Mozambique-based Zimbabwe African National Union, whose hierarchy is itself divided. The military estimate Nkomo has about 1,500 troops inside the country, but is keeping in reserve some 6,000 well-trained men in Zambia and Angola.

— It is thought an Nkomo-led Zimbabwe would be acceptable to both the West and the Soviets. To Smith, Nkomo may look like the last hope to see a non-Marxist state replace Rhodesia.

18th Chess Game Ends In Draw

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Soviet Champion Anatoly Karpov and challenger Viktor Korchnoi played to a draw Sunday in the adjourned 18th game of the world chess championships here.

Korchnoi, relaxed and his spirits buoyed by a cable from prominent authors and playwrights, accepted Karpov's offer of a draw after 64 moves of a Pirc defense variation. Korchnoi, a Soviet defector, had postponed the 18th game twice and complained last week at a news conference that the match was organized and run to Karpov's advantage.

"We knew it would be a draw although Viktor had some difficulties in the early stage of play," said Argentine grandmaster Oscar Panno shortly after the end of the game, which was adjourned after five hours of play Saturday.

The 47-year-old challenger, who last week threatened to quit the $550,000 tournament, had his black pieces in a tight position when play resumed. Both players had four pawns, one bishop and one rook, but Karpov had a slight positional edge that most experts had thought might give him the fifth of the six victories he needs to win the match and retain the title.

Saturday, before the game started, Korchnoi received a cable which said in French: "De tous coeur avec vous" ("Our whole heart is with you"). Signers included Irish playwright Samuel Beckett, French novelist Jean Paul Sartre and French playwright Eugene Ionesco.

The first player to win six games gets $350,000 and the world title. The loser gets $200,000. Draws do not count in the scoring.

Chief organizer Florencio Campomanes released a report from the Philippine Atomic Energy Commission saying a three-day investigation showed no abnormal radiation in the playing area.

Korchnoi's delegation had filed a protest contending the Soviets were bombarding the challenger with radioactive rays to disrupt his thinking.

Memos Indicate Ford Knew Of Faulty Automatic Transmissions

DETROIT (AP) — Seven years ago, Ford Motor Co. considered and apparently rejected changing the design of its automatic transmission controls to prevent accidental shifts into reverse, the Detroit Free Press reports.

Company memos obtained by the newspaper noted that Ford received increasing complaints from customers in 1971 that their cars lurched backward when left unattended with the engine running and controls in "park."

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration is investigating Ford automatic transmissions for a possible recall of 14 million cars, which would eclipse the record 6.7 million recalled by General Motors in 1971 to repair faulty engine mounts.

The agency says its information indicates that Ford transmission problems may have contributed to 777 accidents, 259 injuries and 24 deaths to date.

Ford has consistently denied that the transmissions are defective.

Ford engineering and product news manager Robert H. Harnar said he had not read Sunday's Free Press report and could not comment on it.

But he said neither Ford nor the government had "identified any design flaw" in the transmissions.

"If the car is in 'park' it will not come out," he said.

According to the Ford memos, the company investigated the need for two possible changes in 1971 and planned to discuss them in early 1972.

Labor Day Activities, Speeches Begin

By The Associated Press
Millions of Americans celebrated the Labor Day weekend with parades, picnics and ocean outings, while the nation's labor leaders hailed the holiday with reminders of past union victories and future struggles.

But for hundreds of others, the holiday meant tragedy. The National Safety Council predicted that between 470 and 570 people would die on the nation's roads between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

By early Sunday afternoon, 247 had been killed in traffic accidents.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, in his annual Labor Day message, said workers have "a special pride" in knowing their country "not only sets aside a day in their honor, but has also given them the opportunity to improve their working and living conditions through the democratic process."

United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser charged that American society "denies basic human rights to tens of millions of people" through racism, sexism and exploitative economic policies.

But, he said, collective action by workers and minorities can help eradicate some of those problems.

"There are more of us than there are of them," Fraser said. "The sheer force of our majority holds the promise of a decent society."

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall noted that because of past legislative battles championed by organized labor, "American workers are assured a minimum wage, safe working conditions, equal employment opportunity and secure pension programs."

President Carter, in remarks with several editors of union publications, said he may take stronger action against rising prices if inflation worsens, but he again ruled out mandatory wage-price controls except in a national emergency. The interview took place Aug. 18 and was released Sunday.

On Saturday, about 100,000 people attended the first day of a three-day "Salute to Labor" in downtown Omaha, Neb., sponsored by the Omaha Central Labor Union.

Several thousand people are expected for a parade Monday in Kansas City, Mo., sponsored by area labor unions.

A parade featuring antique cars, floats, gospel singers and political candidates is scheduled Monday in Gilboa, Ohio, where residents also are celebrating efforts to restore the turn-of-the-century village.

In Alabama, George C. Wallace, who is not seeking re-election is scheduled to address a holiday crowd Monday at Saraland, north of Mobile, in one of his final appearances as governor. Wallace's speech will follow races, dances, talent contests and assorted Labor Day activities at Amelia Park.

Money, Small Objects Cause Children Harm

WASHINGTON (AP)—Money can be hazardous for children, a government study shows.

The Directorate for Hazard Identification and Analysis-Epidemiology listed 9,017 money-related injuries in 1976 to children under 10.

More than 40,000 children suffer injuries associated with small objects each year, usually by choking, according to the agency's study.

And of 113 death certificates investigated, balloons accounted for 18 fatalities, the most of any single category.

While action to lessen the danger from money may be beyond the scope of the government, the Consumer Product Safety Commission is taking aim at the second largest category in the hazard study—children's products.

This includes toys, marbles, crayons and other children's items that accounted for an estimated 7,246 injuries during the year studied.

Commission action is expected in September, with particular attention to toys with accessible small parts intended for children under age 3.

These tots suffer nearly half of all injuries from small parts, and almost 80 percent of the chokings.

The commission staff has recommended a ban of such items as cheap "busy boxes," toys with numerous small dials, levers and other knobs intended to keep tiny hands busy.

The most common hazard, according to the study, was for a small object to become lodged in the child's throat.

"Many of the victims in these cases were unable to breathe and lived only because an adult was present to remove the object before the victim suffocated," the report states.

The study indicated the consistency of an object may play a part in the hazard.

"Although there are far more small parts injuries involving rigid objects than pliable ones, over half the deaths reported for which the consistency (of the object) was known involved pliable objects. This finding may indicate that there is a greater risk of death associated with pliable objects," the study said.

Inhaling items also took place and hospitalization was required in every case studied. One victim died, all had breathing impaired and in some cases portions of the lung had to be removed.

Finally, small objects became lodged in ears and noses, with potentially serious consequences. In most of the cases medical equipment was needed to remove the object which, in some cases, had been in place for a day or more before being noticed by parents.

The study of 113 death certificates disclosed that 101 fatalities resulted from objects lodged in the throat. Nine of the deaths resulted from children swallowing sharp objects which pierced internal organs and three followed inhalation of objects into the lungs.

Balloons accounted for the largest number of deaths, 18, while 11 deaths were caused by nails, carpet tacks and screws.

Cigarettes, cigars, pipes, plastic wrapping products, paper products and toys also accounted for several deaths of children.

On the list of small products associated with injuries to children, third place behind money and children's products was recorded by jewelry, with 5,139 injuries.

Striking Migrant Workers In Ohio Vow To Maintain Tent City

BELMORE, Ohio (AP) — With the tomato-picking season reaching its peak, striking migrant workers vowed Sunday to defy a Labor Day deadline to vacate a four-acre tent city where they are being fed and sheltered.

Growers, meanwhile, said they would mount a caravan Monday to dramatize their opposition to strike leaders who have been urging migrants for 11 days to leave northwest Ohio tomato fields and let the crops rot.

Strike leaders claim some 1,500 migrants are refusing to pick the tomatoes in protest of low wages. The leaders say hundreds more already have left Ohio. The dispute has turned violent at times, with pickets arrested, strikers sprayed with pesticide, and a cross burned near the 15-by-20 foot tents that have been home to between 100 and 150 strikers for up to 11 days.

Leaders of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee said they will ask a judge Tuesday to block the eviction notice issued by William L. Kelley, their landlord and also the mayor of this small farming town.

Kelley, who said he was pressured into evicting the strikers by anonymous telephone callers, said he will also take the matter before a judge Tuesday.

"It's going to be tied up in the courts for a couple of weeks at least," said Kelley, acknowledging that the peak of the tomato harvest would be over by then.

Putnam County Sheriff Bob Bueter estimated that one-fourth of the 8,000 migrants who came to his county have left because of the strike. Farmers, however, say they have enough workers remaining to harvest Ohio's multi-million dollar tomato crop — second only to California's.

"The farmers don't have a problem with the true laborers," said Lewis Klass, spokesman for area growers. "Our problem is with these outside agitators who are trying to separate the farmers from their laborers."

Baldemar Velasquez, 31, who attended high school and college in this area and founded the strike group 11 years ago, said the migrants want a 60-cent hike in their current hourly wage of $2.65 and 10 cents more than the 25 cents they get for each three-pound hamper of tomatoes they pick.

In addition, Velasquez said the migrants want to become a third party in annual contract negotiations between growers and the large canneries. The canneries set the prices which allow the growers to pay their labor.

One producer that is a primary target of the strike, Libby McNeil & Libby Inc., has not raised prices to farmers in three years, and the growers say meeting the laborers' demands mean they could do no better than break even on this year's crop.

Campbell Soup Co., in nearby Napoleon, another target cannery, started paying growers $2 more per ton after the strike began, according to farmers and the Ohio Food Processing Association, which represents growers.

Velasquez' organization, though not affiliated with any other labor group, has received promises of support from Cesar Chavez' United Farmworkers Union in California.

Hints from Heloise

HELLO FRIENDS:
 I have to tell about a brilliant idea I ran across the other day.

I was speaking to a group of women and was relating the story of the woman who wrote how she solved her problem of forgetting to turn off her car lights by using a clothespin. But, while she remembered to turn off the lights, she locked the keys in the car.

Well, dear Louise Haase told me how she solved that problem by wearing the car key on a chain around her neck.

I thought it was brilliant and asked her how she came about that idea. She said her husband had to come open the car four times and she didn't think that he would show up a fifth.

Isn't that a wonderful idea if you are prone to lock the keys in the car? My father carries an extra key in his wallet, which is also a good idea, as long as you don't leave that in the car too.
 Have a nice day. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
 Your column has been such a help to me that I'd like to share a discovery of mine.

I have found a great substitute for the mess and expense of fresh lemons for seasoning and cooking — lemon-flavored unsweetened powdered soft drink mix.

Most of the time it can be sprinkled right out of the package to suit your taste but if the amount of liquid is vital, make lemon juice with one teaspoon powder to one-fourth cup of water. — Janet L. Glazier

DEAR HELOISE:
 Often times, somehow, somehow, a piece of facial tissue will get in with my husband's dark socks. What a mess!
 All I do is put vinegar in the rinse water. This softens the fabric and puff! Off comes the facial tissue!
 I buy vinegar by the gallon since there are so many nice uses for it. — Mary Carr

DEAR HELOISE:
 Aluminum foil is a boon to the flower arranger.
 Crumple a piece of foil and fit it into the bottom of a vase. Then arrange the flowers in the vase, punching holes through the aluminum foil with the stems and pushing the flowers down as far as you want. — Mrs. M.

DEAR HELOISE:
 I use the leg parts of nylon stockings to gently tie up my climbing roses.
 Old Man Wind can't whip them and the nylon stockings won't injure the rosebush. — Nora Layman

DEAR HELOISE:
 With three little boys close in age, I had trouble keeping each baby book up to date.
 My husband suggested leaving the books and a pen on the bedside table.
 Now in a minute or two at bedtime, we can record that new tooth or cute saying while it's fresh in our minds. — Laurie

DEAR HELOISE:
 Here's a goodie for filling smaller bottles for short trips, vacations or whatever.

I was trying to refill a small trial-sized shampoo bottle. After cutting a larger hole, I still found it impossible to get the thick shampoo to go into the smaller bottle.

However, I squeezed the bottle gently, letting some of the air out, put a big glob of shampoo on top of the hole and slowly released the bottle.

The shampoo seemed to slurp right down the hole. — Petey

Panel Revising State Election Code

By BILL KIDD
A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — When Secretary of State Steve Oaks comments the 460-page Texas Election Code "reads like the Internal Revenue Code," there's not much doubt

Raza Unida and county clerks, along with others concerned in how elections are held. About 90 percent of its work has been accomplished, Oaks says of the commission, which has been laboring over the election code revision since last November.

Some of the changes are minor and straightforward — such as changing the way voters consider propositions, such as constitutional amendments, from "for" and "against" to "yes" and "no."

Other changes are more in the nature of correcting what appear to be oversights such as the fact that applications for placement on ballots are not open records (which they would be under the proposed changes).

And yet other changes are more substantial, such as allowing an independent candidate to begin collecting signatures for a petition to get on the general election ballot any time after the filing deadline — rather than having to wait until after party primaries. (Oaks notes any signatures on those petitions would be invalidated by voters taking part in a primary election.)

Here are some of the other changes under consideration:
Conviction of an officeholder (as occurred recently with District Attorney Bill Green of Palestine) wouldn't be considered to have an effect on the office until "all rights of appeal" are exhausted.

An exclusion would be allowed in the ban on paying someone to bring voters to the polls to cover non-partisan community buses or other vehicles.

Jury trials would be provided in election contests.

Provisions for recounts on propositions (as in the recent Abilene wet-dry controversy) would be allowed (there is no such provision for a recount now where paper ballots are used, Oaks notes.)

The requirement for a five percent difference between candidates before a recount may be held, when paper ballots are used, would be eliminated.

In cities over 100,000, which are allowed to have absentee voting substations, those substations would be required to have the same hours of operation (to prevent possible discrimination by having one open longer than another.)

Incomplete absentee ballots would not be returned if the "necessary" information is included — and an application for an absentee ballot would be treated as an application for an absentee ballot for any subsequent run-off.

Poll-watchers wouldn't be required to present their credentials before the polls open — and it would take 15, instead of 50, signatures to get a poll-watcher. Presidential candidates in a preference primary also would be able to get poll-watchers.

Cities would have authority to change election dates, by ordinance, and after public hearings. Cities also would be restricted from imposing additional voting requirements beyond 12 months residency and 21 years of age for voters.

And Texas residents overseas would be able to vote in their last place of residence in Texas — something that will bring Texas into compliance with the Overseas Voting Right Act.

Another change, which may be welcomed by some small districts, is notifying all voters by first class mail of an election — rather than publishing notice in a newspaper's legal notices (which Oaks says could help water district with only a few residents).

Oaks says he hopes the changes will assist in "bringing Texas laws into the 20th Century — where they're not now" — and will allow voters to know if their rights are infringed upon, or if an election is being properly conducted.

If Oaks and the commission can do that, maybe they can be persuaded to take on that IRS code as well.

A-J Analysis

The last remaining area to be taken up by the group is Chapter 14 — which includes such matters as campaign financing reporting, lobby control and disclosure.

Oaks agrees much of the work deals with "a myriad of technicalities," but some of the suggested changes (which still have to be approved by the group when it completes work on the entire package) are aimed at clearing up some existing problems, inequities and ambiguities in the law.

Lawmakers, in ordering the revision, also restricted the panel's consideration of "substantive changes" in current law — with any such changes to be offered in separate bills.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I have been dealing in stocks, off and on, for about 30 years. I have dealt with a number of brokerage houses and have never really been satisfied with any of them. I changed to my present broker about a year ago, on the advice of a friend. This brokerage seems to be the worst yet.

Over the past six weeks, I placed orders for stocks on three occasions. Each time, I sent in my check promptly and told the broker to send the stock certificates to me. My checks have been cashed but I have not received the certificates. Repeated phone calls do no good. How can I get this problem resolved?

A. You might try filing a written complaint with the Public Information Office, New York Stock Exchange, 11 Wall St., New York, N.Y. 10005. That office makes a big to-do about handling complaints against brokers. But it will have to do more than put out flossy press releases to convince me.

If you want real action, my suggestion is to write to the Office of Consumer Affairs, U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capital St., Washington, D.C. 20549. As the "cop on the Wall Street beat," the SEC can cause some tremors at brokerage houses.

I suspect the SEC is receiving an increasing number of complaints these days. More and more are showing up in my mailbag — telling not only about slow deliveries of stock certificates but also of slow deliveries of checks after stocks are sold and mighty tardy delivery of dividend and interest checks. Worse, yet, we're beginning to hear stories about lost stock certificates.

All this has an unhappy, familiar ring — harking back to the "paperwork crush" days of the late 1960s. At that time, Wall Street's record-keeping was so fouled up the stock markets had to shorten their trading hours. Let's hope the situation never reaches that sorry state.

Q. My wife and I are both 26 and earn $30,000 between us. We are investing $50 a month in a mutual fund and have $15,000 in a savings account. We now pay $300 a month rent and want to buy a house. Recently, we found a new house we like. It has most of the accessories we want and is priced at $60,000. Would you consider this a reasonable price range for us?

A. Certainly, as long as you both work and have two salaries coming in. If a baby comes along and your wife's salary stops, that could change things.

If you put $10,000 down and take on a $50,000 mortgage — which would be about the thing to do — you should get out a sharp pencil and figure what the cost of paying off the house would be. If you can handle it on your salary alone, buy without any worries.

This column keeps stressing that home ownership is the best investment the average family makes.

Q. Would putting a beneficiary's name on everything one owns — stocks, bonds, bank accounts, etc. — take the place of making out a will? Such a procedure might appease people who have an aversion to making out a will.

A. It might very well "appease" the person who does it. But it almost certainly would cause complications and tax problems for that person's heirs.

I have never understood that "aversion to making out a will" you mention. Face it, we're all going to leave this vale of tears, sooner or later.

I repeat, there is no real substitute to having a will. Every adult should have a will. If you really love those to whom you want to leave things, you'll do right by them by having a will drawn up.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For lists of growth and dividend stocks, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your request to William A. Doyle, in care of King Features Syndicate, 235 East 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Courts To Sort Out Insurance Premium Dispute

By BILL KIDD
A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Apparently it will be up to the appeals court — or courts — to sort out who's right in the dispute over how the Senate Board of Insurance collects and assesses premium taxes.

In June, the SBI lost its case in district court here in a dispute with Allstate Insurance Co. over about $6 million in premium taxes the board claims Allstate owes.

But in August, on facts described as "very similar" to that case, the SBI won (in another court here) a lawsuit involving some $60,000 in taxes alleged to be owed by American Automobile Insurance Co. and Associated Indemnity Corp.

Now, it seems, it will be up to the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals — and very likely the Texas Supreme Court — to resolve the question, in view of the two rulings which seem directly opposed to one another at the trial court level.

Those cases have implications for insurance companies, and for the State, beyond the money involved in these two instances.

SBI Supervising Examiner J.W. Arendall told a House Insurance Committee subcommittee this summer that should the SBI lose its dispute, future revenues could be "severely" hampered.

Those premium tax revenues are in the range of some $130 to $140 million annually — whereas the SBI's proposed annual budget for the next two years figures out at some $16 million a year, meaning the bulk of those taxes go to the State's General Revenue Funds.

Moreover, the dispute hinges on how the SBI calculates investments by insurers in Texas securities — under a policy of encouraging investment of premium dollars from Texas policyholders back into the Texas economy.

As Arendall noted, the SBI needs "some sort of inducement program" to spark that investment — and if its present method (in use as long as anyone with the agency can remember) is overturned, some new program will have to be designed.

Thus far, there's no indication of when the cases will reach the appeals court (but there is talk the disputes may be joined for purposes of appeal).

Gene Fondren, executive vice president of Texas Automobile Dealers Association, reports 48-month financing on auto sales appears to be a "general trend" in metropolitan areas of the state — but 36-to-42-month contracts remain the norm.

Fondren says the 48-month plans seem to be coming up in larger cities, where sales volumes are larger, and where effects of inflation tend to be felt first.

The longer period doesn't seem to be as popular in Texas as in some Northern and Eastern states, he says, but notes TADA hasn't made any survey on financing practices recently.

Fondren also reports 1978 appears to be an outstanding year for sales — although it may not reach the level of 1973 — with some shortages in "hot models" as dealers get ready for the new model year.

Foreign investment in, and control of, Texas banks is due to come in for a look from the House Financial Institutions Committee.

Chairman Jerry "Nub" Donaldson, Gatesville, had asked Speaker Bill Clayton to include that topic in the interim studies of the panel following the takeover of three State-chartered Houston banks by groups including overseas buyers.

It's not yet clear, however, just what the scope of the study will be — or how much the committee will be able to accomplish before lawmakers return in January for their regular session.

Also on the subject of banking — Independent Bankers Association of Texas has become the largest association of its kind in the nation, thanks to its recent membership push, which has raised membership from 368 to 755 over 18 months. Executive Director Hagen McMahon, Jr., says he feels the increase is due to the job IBAT is doing at the state and federal level in representing the interest of independent banks.

Neurosis Placed On No-No List

NEW YORK (AP) — Next year the uncounted thousands of Americans undergoing therapy to iron out their personal neurotic wrinkles are going to have a little problem: Neurosis is going to vanish.

The American Psychiatric Association is doing away with neurosis. They've decided "it doesn't mean anything."

That's what Dr. Robert L. Spitzer says. He's the same New York psychiatrist who played a central role four years ago in the APA's vote to take homosexuality off the list of mental illnesses.

Spitzer's been busy since then chairing the task force that's writing the APA's new, third Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders. It's THE dictionary of mental ailments, used mainly as a guide in making diagnoses.

The manual will be published in late 1979 and, for the first time since a controversial Austrian named Freud began sorting them out, the various sorts of neurosis won't be listed.

Hysterical conversion neurosis will be gone. So will depressive neurosis. Let's not forget depersonalization neurosis or anxiety neurosis.

And what will the diagnosing doctor find listed in their place?

Disorders, mostly: Somatoform disorders, major depressive disorders, anxiety disorders and, of course, dissociative disorders.

"The term neurosis has been used in so many different ways that we believe it no longer has a very precise meaning. More often it's defined by what it's not — it's not a known physical problem, for instance, or it's not psychosis," Spitzer says.

So the task force searched psychiatric literature and devised new, specific categories for ailments traditionally considered neurotic. They say the ailments and their listed symptoms will be based on data, statistics, hard evidence. Not theory.

Traditionally, Freud's followers have defined neurosis as a symptom of repressed subconscious thoughts. They believe that when you dam back such things as, say, incestuous desires, a neurotic reaction bubbles up. Depression, for instance, or wide swings in mood.

The problem, says Dr. Arthur Shapiro, a task force consultant, is that "you can't identify neuroses reliably. Even psychoanalysts don't agree. So, you identify it in other, more specific, measurable, documentable ways — as anxiety reactions, for example, or depressive reactions."

Spitzer says the change is not so revolutionary as it might appear. He says the varieties of neurosis will simply be given brand new names and very precise definitions.

"The way the term neurosis has evolved over the last 100 years, it is no longer the most descriptive way of describing these problems," Spitzer says.

Polled Fans Rooting For Yankees, Reds To Win

By LOUIS HARRIS
As the baseball pennant races move to a climax this month, fans are rooting for key teams to win on a national basis rather than pulling for teams in their own communities or regions.

Here is the pattern of fan support in the races for the pennant, according to the latest Harris sports survey of 634 baseball fans:

—In the American League, baseball fans are basically divided between the New York Yankees, with 26 percent of all fans hoping that team will win the pennant, and the Boston Red Sox, who have 23 percent rooting for them to come out on top. Backing for the rest of the American League teams is widely scattered: Kansas City Royals (6 percent), California Angels (4 percent), Detroit Tigers (4 percent), Milwaukee Brewers (3 percent), Oakland A's (3 percent), Chicago White Sox (3 percent), Baltimore Orioles (2 percent) and Cleveland Indians (2 percent).

It is apparent from these results that fan interest nationwide is heavily focused on the outcome of the American League East race, even though the scramble in the American League West has been a much closer race. Despite the Yankees' troubles with player dissension, the firing of their manager, Billy Martin, and the controversy over their purchase of so many free agent ballplayers, they still capture fan appreciation. The Red Sox also have a big following that extends across the country, and they are viewed as the hope to cut off a budding Yankee dynasty in the American League.

—In the National League, in terms of rooting interest, if not in the way they have been faring lately, the Cincinnati Reds finish on top, with the hopes of 25 percent of all baseball fans riding on them. Much further down on the list, fighting it out for second place in fan support, are the Los Angeles Dodgers, with 13 percent hoping they will win, and the San Francisco Giants, with 11 percent backing. Then come the Philadelphia Phillies (6 percent), Chicago Cubs (5 percent), New York Mets (5 percent), Pittsburgh Pirates (3 percent), St. Louis Cardinals (3 percent) and Atlanta Braves (2 percent).

Fan interest appears to have focused on the National League West race, even though both divisions have had tight contests. The National League East just does not appear to have sparked much of an outpouring of fan loyalty across the country. Fan support for the Cincinnati Reds was undoubtedly enhanced by Pete Rose's dramatic and successful effort to break the National League consecutive game hitting streak, even though he fell far short of Joe DiMaggio's big league mark of 56.

In the controversial case of Billy Martin, a 42-30 percent majority of baseball fans thinks it was wrong for the New York Yankees to fire him. Those rooting for the Yankees to win the pennant felt the firing of Martin was a mistake by a wide 56-28 percent margin.

However, the Yankees recouped some of the lost ground with the fans by announcing that Martin would be rehired as manager in 1980. That move meets with approval by a 59-22 percent majority of all who follow baseball and by an even larger 74-17 percent majority of Yankee fans.

By a sizable 52-31 percent, a majority of baseball followers feels it is wrong for baseball club owners to make key decisions about running clubs on a day-to-day basis, "as George Steinbrenner does with the New York Yankees." Yankee fans share this feeling about Steinbrenner's role by an even more lopsided 61-29 percent.

This latest finding of the Harris sports survey checks out with previous results, in which fans feel strongly that the game should remain primarily a sport, even though they are aware that professional sports are also businesses. Fans deeply resent owner interference with the way the game is played on the field, and George Steinbrenner has become a symbol of the heavy hand of the owner in baseball.

In the U.S. Open tennis championships now taking place at Flushing Meadows in New York, a cross section of 521 American tennis fans were surveyed and majorities indicated that they are rooting for Jimmy Connors to win the men's crown and for Chris Evert to win the women's championship.

When Connors was paired off against Swedish star Bjorn Borg, a substantial 62-33 percent majority of tennis fans said they would like to see Connors win. Evert has 45 percent of the racquet fans rooting for her, well ahead of the 16 percent who would like Billy Jean King to win once more. 11 percent who were for Australian Evonne Goolagong, and 11 percent who favor 16-year-old Tracy Austin. Both King and Goolagong are out of the singles due to recent injuries. Two other top women players, Wimbledon champ Martina Navratilova and Virginia Wade, have no more than 6 percent and 4 percent of tennis fans rooting for them respectively.

Waiting For Plane Costs Woman Job

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Waiting for standby service during an air traffic controllers strike in London left Susan DiLorenzo broke, in debt and out of work.

Miss DiLorenzo, 19, flew to London on July 9 for a three-week vacation. She returned to Omaha last Sunday, 2½ weeks later than planned because she wanted to fly home on a standby fare of $141.

She finally paid the $400 regular fare to get home "because my job in Omaha was in jeopardy and I knew I had to get back fast." But she lost her job as a medical secretary anyway.

Miss DiLorenzo said she may take another vacation to England. "Next time, however, it won't be during the tourist season," she said. "And definitely it will never again be on standby."

SHEWANS

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

This is the prayer of a woman who is returning to school as a student after an absence of 15 years.

"Please God, let there be a parking space for a car with only an E AREA sticker. (Issued only to 37-year-old, first-semester freshmen, with no major varicose veins, whose car is low on gas.)

"If you do not see fit to guide me to such a paradise, please help me to look like a VISITOR.

"Tell me the computer made a mistake and Home Management and Child Care on my schedule does not mean what I think it means.

"Deliver me from coming face-to-face with the registrar, who is bound to remember that on my enrollment card under SEX, I filled in 'occasionally.'

"Let me not be the only woman on campus in a pair of pantyhose and a bra.

"When it is lunchtime, give me a sign other than my stomach growling at 82 decibels. Watch over me especially when you see me methodically cutting up the meat of younger students and telling them to sit up straight.

"Protect me from 'operators' who try to sell secondhand books outside the bookstore that are no longer being used this year.

"Grant me the serenity to accept what cannot be changed, courage to change what should be changed, and the wisdom to keep my mouth shut when I don't know the difference. (I read that off an old tea towel.)

"Keep me from despair when someone jots down phone messages on my freshly-typed Philosophy notes.

"Help me to refrain from punching out friends who laughingly warn me a campus is no place to make an estrogen connection.

"Give me patience when I come home from a hard day in the library to discover no one has cleared off the kitchen table and the milk is still on the front porch.

"And if I'm not being too pushy, Lord, could you please see fit to send me a friend — one who has heard of Robert Benchley, Edward R. Murrow, String of Pearls, saddle shoes, and who knew hand computers when they were called fingers?"

"And one last request...if there can't be comfort, encouragement and pride from my family for what I'm doing, please let there be a pot of coffee in the kitchen every morning."

Alan: "How about some articles on the use of point count?"

Oswald: "The 4-3-2-1 point count invented by Bryant McCampbell some sixty years ago is in universal use today. My old friend, Charles Goren, partner on occasion and rival on many more occasions is largely responsible for its success although strangely enough, his first use of point count was when he won his first national in 1936 as my partner. GETTING ACQUAINTED — Christ The King Catholic Women's Organization will sponsor a fall 'get-acquainted' coffee for members and prospective members from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Thursday in the parish family center. Pass Pass ?

What is your opening bid?

A.—Four hearts. This is not an opening bid you would have made in first seat—your hand has too much playing strength to discount the possibility of slam. Since partner is a passed hand, however, slam prospects are negligible, so you should make it as difficult as possible for the opponents to enter the auction. With your hand, you can't be sure of beating six spades, let alone four!

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. Suppress the temptation to leap to game, despite your five-card support for partner's suit and well-positioned king of spades. Partner might have opened light in third seat, and you do have a balanced hand. If partner has the values for game, he will probably take the plunge.

What do you bid now?

A.—A void extended the count from notrump to cover all bidding and he deserves full credit.

Alan: "Didn't some actuary help him with that?"
Oswald: "The late Bill Anderson of Toronto did a lot of research with Charlie back in the late thirties and early forties."

Alan: "Today's hand would be bid the way shown in 99 percent of all bridge games anywhere in the world. Every declarer would make three spades, two hearts, one diamond and three clubs for the needed nine tricks. Quite a few would scramble a tenth somewhere but everyone would score game and rubber."

He certainly was and as such became a member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. Although you have two good five-card suits, your hand isn't strong enough to bid three clubs. That would be a "high reverse," showing the equivalent of 18 points. Simply rebid your good five-card heart suit and wait to see what partner does next.

A.—Bid three diamonds. Partner should have passed two diamonds, and now you must correct his mistake. He may not be overly enchanted with your diamonds, but you dislike no trump even more. Your hand is worthless as no trump, so at least make an attempt to play in a contract where your long suit will produce several tricks.

What action do you take?

A.—Bid four hearts. You want to be in game opposite even the scrawniest opening bid, and the surest way to get there is to simply bid it. Don't even think of doubling two spades. You have too many hearts to expect that action to be remunerative.

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. You were close to an opening bid in first seat, and your fit for partner's suit has improved your hand. A jump shift by a passed hand guarantees either a self-sufficient suit or support partner's suit, and is forcing for one round.

♦K105 ♥Q10983 ♦KJ7 ♦82

The bidding has proceeded:

What action do you take?

A.—With a five-card suit, excellent support for partner's suit and above average values for your first response, we wouldn't blame you for blasting to four hearts. However, a more cautious approach might win the day. A game-try bid of either two spades or three diamonds will give partner a chance to more accurately evaluate his hand.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦KJ952 ♥KQ83 ♦Q982

The bidding has proceeded:

What action do you take?

A.—Sounds like you're playing with a pinhole deck! We can only presume that one of the opponents is taking advantage of the vulnerability to make a psychic bid. You want to play in game in one of your three suits, perhaps even slam, and the surest way to convey this information to your partner is to cue-bid two hearts.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am supposed to be at work at 8:30 a.m. I live 30 miles from my job so I get an early train to make sure I arrive on time. I usually get in 45 minutes early.

I love to read for enjoyment so I sit at my desk reading from 7:45 until 8:30, sipping tea and enjoying this quiet time.

A certain engineer who also arrives early thinks that because I'm in the office I should be working. Sometimes he hands me work to do. I put it aside, continue to read, and begin at 8:30.

This morning at 8:00 a.m., Mr. Engineer gave me a long memo to type. None of the other girls were in. I am not his secretary. She doesn't arrive until 8:29 — on the dot.

At 8:25, Mr. Engineer asked for the memo he had given me. I told him my day didn't begin until 8:30. He replied, angrily, "I wouldn't have asked you to do it if I didn't think it was important." I put down my book and typed his memo.

I felt I was being taken advantage of but I didn't have the nerve to stand up for my rights. Please comment on this uncomfortable situation and tell me what to do about it. — NYC

Dear NYC: I employ eight secretaries. Most of them are at their desks at least 10 or 15 minutes before starting time. My assistants arrive anywhere from 30 to 45 minutes early. Often they have a second cup of coffee at their desks, but no one reads for "enjoyment."

There is always plenty of work to do and they get right to it. If I need someone to stay past quitting time there are always volunteers. The "Landers Ladies" are loyal, competent and a pleasure to work with.

A secretary who arrives early gives the impression she is dedicated to her job, eager to do more than is required and is not a clock-watcher. Obviously, this description doesn't fit you.

The justification for your position, however, is that Mr. Engineer is not your boss. You are under no obligation to type his memos simply because you are at your desk. My advice is to tell him, in a non-belligerent way, that you don't want to do his secretary's work. Of course, this is no way to win friends, but since you dislike this man intensely and the feeling is probably mutual, nothing is at risk.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a food inspector. It is not his business, it's his neurosis. When he eats a banana he puts on his bifocals. Yesterday I asked, "What could possibly get between a banana and the skin?" He replied, "A tarantula."

I never make salads anymore. It's too much to watch him examine every lettuce leaf with a reading glass. We've had dozens of arguments over whether it's a speck of pepper or a bug.

It's bad enough to put up with this craziness at home but when we go to a dinner party it's unbearable. He claims the hazards are increased at dinner parties because hired help doesn't give a darn anymore. What can I do? — Raleigh, N.C.

Dear R: Very little regarding the home scene. The man clearly has a phobia. But you might plead consideration for a hostess. It's upsetting to see a guest examine food so carefully. She has no way of knowing if he is just looking or if he has found something.

POPE BEGINS REIGN—Italian cardinal Pericle Felici places a simple woollen pallium on Pope John Paul I Sunday during the open-air installation ceremony for the new Pontiff, symbolizing the newly elected head of the Catholic church as the shepherd of his flock. The pallium replaced the tiara, former popes had been crowned with. Almost 200,000 people crowded the vast St. Peter's Square during the solemn rites. (AP Laserphoto) staff symbolizing his pastoral function. The crowds applauded as he took his seat on the four-foot-high velvet-covered papal throne. The chair had no papal canopy over it, in keeping with the pattern of simplicity initiated by the new pope since his election Aug. 26 by the College of Cardinals.

Pallium Symbolizes Leadership
Italian Cardinal Pericle Felici, dean of the cardinal deacons, then placed on the pope's shoulders the "Pallium," the simple white woolen stole embroidered with white and black silk crosses, symbolizing the pope's role as patriarch of the Western church.

The band replaced the elaborate, three-tiered crown used in papal coronations over the last 15 centuries.
The choir broke into song, chanting, "Tu es Petrus," "Thou art Peter."

Tech, KTXT-TV Offer Courses By Television

"Roots" to be aired Tuesday through Sunday over KMCC-TV Ch. 28. Dr. Walter Cartwright will be the instructor.
Dr. Charles Halcomb, the instructor for the Introductory Psychology course, feels the telecourses are a step toward more personalized education.
"Many people may feel television de-personalizes education, but I think the opposite happens. Slower students can call the instructor for assistance whenever they need it, while faster students are not held back.

"I think more time is spent with the student this way," Halcomb said. "Students who are more timid don't have to worry about asking questions in front of a huge lecture course, or fighting through students at the end of class in order to talk to the professor."

Halcomb said his psychology course will consist of five weekly televised lectures by University of Houston professor Dr. Richard A. Kasschau.
"Kasschau is excellent at this," Halcomb said. "His lectures are more like watching a talk show than a lecture."

Kasschau, who teaches an introductory psychology course at the University of Houston, gives his students the choice of either watching his televised lectures at home, or coming to class to hear him. Sixty percent choose the televised lectures, Halcomb said, and Kasschau reports that those students do better in the course than those choosing the more traditional method.

Following the televised lectures, students will be able to meet with Halcomb or his teaching assistants and discuss any of the lecture material they did not understand or want to know more about.
"Teaching and lecturing are not the same," stresses Halcomb. "Lecturing is the easy part of teaching. The hardest part is to sit down and help a student having a problem with the course."

Peace Hopes Hinge On Mideast Summit

divide Israel and Egypt. Carter will be able to introduce them into the negotiations whenever he feels they may help.
The officials are trying to maintain a neutral position as an honest broker between the two sides. But when asked which leader must give ground, they most frequently mention Begin.

The United States would consider the summit a success if it persuaded Begin to yield on the critical issue of control of the West Bank, the officials say. Thus far, Begin has rejected the Arab and American contention that Israel must agree in principle to withdraw from at least some of the Arab territory it captured in 1967.

One by one, the cardinals walked up the steps of the basilica to kneel before the new pope and kiss his ring in their first act of reverence. They received from him the "kiss of faith," a kiss on both cheeks.

The former Cardinal Albino Luciani of Venice laughed and smiled as he greeted each prince of the church, the men who elected him in one of the shortest conclaves in recent history. The new pope often paused to chat a few moments with each cardinal as he clasped and shook their hands.

Latin Mass Concelebrated
The inaugural Mass was concelebrated in Latin by the new pope and the cardinals, with readings and prayers in French, Spanish, German and English. The pope delivered his homily in Latin, Italian and French.

Nearby the altar, erected in front of the church's steps, were such dignitaries as U.S. Vice President Walter Mondale, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau. King Juan Carlos and Queen Sofia of Spain, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, Argentine President Jorge Rafael Videla and President Elias Sarkis of Lebanon also attended.

Standing by were an estimated 10,000 security men in the square and sharpshooters posted on nearby rooftops, sent by the Italian government to protect the dignitaries and spectators from any possible terrorist attack.

Protest Attempted
Just as the ceremony began at 6 p.m. — 11 a.m. CDT — a group unfurled a banner calling Argentine President Videla an "executioner" near the center of St. Peter's Square. Police pulled the banner down and after fighting broke out hauled off some of the demonstrators.

Police sealed off all streets leading to the Vatican, blocking the streets with armored cars. Helicopters buzzed overhead to check out the crowds. Officers swept the city before the ceremony, inspecting trash cans and post boxes, anywhere bombs could be hidden.

The ceremony was beamed live in color to 48 countries in North and South America, Western Europe, Africa, Asia and Australia.
Citing in his homily the New Testament incident in which Jesus told Peter he was "the rock" on which the church would be built, the pope said that he agreed to become Peter's successor in the See of Rome with "surprise and understandable trepidation."

But in his work, the pope said he thought "not only of our Catholic brothers and sons and daughters, but also of all those who endeavor to be disciples of Jesus Christ, to honor that and to work for the good of humanity."

"In this way we greet affectionately and with gratitude the delegations from other churches and ecclesial communities present here. Brethren not yet in full communion, we turn together to Christ our saviour, advancing all of us in the holiness in which he wishes us to be and also in the mutual love without which there is no Christianity, preparing the paths of unity in faith ..."

The pontiff extended special greetings to the heads of state and government delegations present, saying, "In your participation we see the esteem and trust that you place in the Holy See ... to help create a climate of justice, brotherhood, solidarity and hope, without which the world would be unable to live."

At Dallas Community College, about 24 percent of the college's enrollment is in telecourses, and South Carolina University offers both a masters in business administration and in engineering strictly through televised courses.

Those interested in enrolling in Tech's Television for Learning program can register all this week in Building X-15, across from the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium, or call the Division of Continuing Education.

home of the German Kaisers, suffered extensive damage and will probably be closed for up to six months for repairs.
According to police, the quake toppled chimneys, ripped open the walls and tore roofs off some of the buildings in the castle complex, perched on a hill near the town of Hechingen.

A duty officer at the Stuttgart headquarters of the U.S. VII Corps said there had been no reports of damage at American military installations in the area.
Officials in the Austrian states of Vorarlberg and Tyrol said the quake shook buildings but caused no major damage.

East Germany's official news agency ADN said the shocks were felt in the districts around Erfurt and Suhl but made no mention of damage.
Officials at the French seismological station in Strasbourg, across the Rhine river from West Germany, said the tremors were felt as far west as Nancy.

A spokesman for the Central Observatory in Erlangen said the quake was "the strongest ever recorded" since Germans began measuring tremors a century ago.

The low casualty toll appeared to stem from the fact that the quake focused in a thinly populated region of small, mountain villages.
The spokesman in Erlangen said the quake was probably comparable in strength to a more destructive tremor near Basel, Switzerland in the 14th century.

Nicaraguan Leader Declares 'Open War' On Opponents

MANAGUA, NICARAGUA (UPI) — President Anastasio Somoza is "fed up" with President Carter's human rights campaign and has declared "open war" on his domestic opponents, a presidential spokesman said Sunday.

"He's fed up with the Carter administration. He's had it," said spokesman Ray Molina, referring to recent Washington charges that Somoza's political opponents are sometimes jailed and tortured.
"There is a limit to how far you can go with a friend and I think we've reached that limit. There is no foreign policy in the Carter administration."

Survival At Stake
"All of a sudden, the good guys are the bad guys. We're a non-Marxist society and we believe we're the good guys. What is at stake is the survival of the Republic of Nicaragua, not just of the Somoza dynasty."

Molina said Somoza had been diplomatic and refrained from attacking Carter, but he has decided to speak out bluntly because "now we're in an open war" against Somoza's domestic opposition.
"As they step up violence, we will have to match it. But it will be their decision."

Soviet City Shaken
Two other quakes also struck overnight. A fairly strong tremor in the Black Sea shook the Soviet resort city of Sochi early Sunday but caused no destruction, the Soviet news agency Tass said. That tremor came several hours earlier than the German quake.

A third quake, registering 4.6 on the Richter scale, hit southern Taiwan Sunday. It was the second to hit the island in two days, but neither caused injuries or damage.
The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

An earthquake of 5 on the Richter scale can cause considerable damage in the local area, 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage; 8 is a "great" quake, capable of tremendous damage.

not ours. We're determined to stay in and we're doing whatever is necessary," Molina said.

Somoza 'Misquoted'
He also said Somoza had been misquoted when the Spanish news agency EFE reported the president was saying that the Carter administration was "in the hands of left wingers, of Communists."

Molina said Somoza meant that were Marxists in the administration and said they were Patricia Derian, assistant secretary of state in charge of human rights;

State Department Human Rights Coordinator Mark Schneider; and a third person Molina identified only as Bob Pastor.

Molina also said the government knows of a Marxist Sandinista Liberation Front guerrilla plot to take over "one or two" towns in Nicaragua, set up a rebel government and have it recognized by Cuba.

EFE also quoted Somoza as saying Washington and Moscow had launched a campaign to oust him and that many U.S. congressmen were criticizing him "in order to win votes on the left."

Carter Aide Hopes To Hike Women's White House Role said, adding she's optimistic that the Senate will approve the extension.

"Nobody thought it would get out of House committee and it did. Nobody thought it would pass the House and it did," she said. "A lot are saying it doesn't have a chance in the Senate. It does have a chance but it will take a lot of hard work."

Mrs. Weddington admitted the ERA is largely symbolic "in the sense of adopting the principle that we as the American public believe women and men should not be treated differently based on their sex."
However, she said some substantive changes would result from the amendment's passage such as requiring Congress and all other employers to comply with equal employment standards.

Soft-spoken, Mrs. Weddington seems almost the opposite of her predecessor, Midge Costanza who resigned July 31.
A somewhat abrasive New Englander, Miss Costanza felt no compunction about publicly airing her differences with President Carter and his staff.

Carter will have no such difficulties with his new women's issues adviser.
"It's only natural to have loyalty to your boss and it's only natural to try to work out problems within and not broadcast them," she said.
"Any successful work arrangement has to have some of those elements."

At Odds On Abortion
Already Mrs. Weddington and Carter are at odds on abortion — he's against it and she's for it.
"We're going to have to work things out," she said, "but my basic feeling is that I be able to argue within the White House for my position — not publicly."

"There has to be one person to make a final decision and it's appropriate that it's the president, especially if you're talking about presidential policy," Mrs. Weddington said.
Part of her advisory job involves selling the Carter administration record on women's rights and Mrs. Weddington doesn't find that difficult.

"President Carter has done more than any other president in terms of appointments," she said ticking off the women Carter has appointed.

City's Growing Pains Studied By Planners

want to become part of Lubbock until they discover they're running out of water. And the potential water problems created by annexation could cause some moral dilemmas for Lubbock residents in the future.

When the water runs out in a rural community, "there's only one place to go — Lubbock," Bertram said.
City residents are going to be faced with sharing a water system they've paid for with years of taxes with residents of annexed areas, many of whom lived outside the city to avoid paying city taxes.

"Not only will city residents be "faced with sharing a very limited resource," Bertram said that sharing could force Lubbock residents to limit their use of water.

The Planning and Zoning Commission is attempting to prevent these problems from occurring in new rural subdivisions by requiring the estimated life of the water supply to be on the subdivision plat. However, the water shortages may be imminent in established communities.

But "the question of whether Lubbock can annex or not lays in the hands of Justice Department attorneys," Bertram said. The Justice Department must approve any annexation under the federal Voting Rights Act to ensure the voting strength of minorities is not diluted by the annexation.

The city has not substantially increased in area since 1959 when everything inside Loop 289 was annexed. That annexation increased the city's size by seven times.

Since then only about 11 square miles have been added through annexation, with the most recent being a 2.6 square mile addition this year.

cane Ella churned eastward away from North Carolina's Outer Banks, leaving sunny beaches and rolling surf for thousands of relieved Labor Day tourists.
By the time the hurricane turned north-northeast Sunday and moved away from the coast at about 12 mph, highest winds were clocked at 85 mph.

The NWS advised visitors and residents in the coastal area to go about normal business but to continue monitoring the hurricane in case Ella unexpectedly moved toward the coast.

Gallows, Dirt Floors Observed In Outdated Jails

AUSTIN (AP) — You would not believe this is 1978 if you just looked at the jails in some county seats in Texas, says Guy Van Cleave, executive director of the Commission on Jail Standards.

"We have gone into jails where we found dirt floors. We have found old hanging towers — not in use but very much in evidence," said Van Cleave on a Sunday radio talk show (Capitol date-line).

"We have found jails where people are locked up at night and not seen until the next day. There are jails where the inmates are fed maybe once in 24 hours. Whatever conditions there might be there would be nobody around to assist in taking care of them."

However, Van Cleave said, most counties are trying to do something about their jails and bring them up to standards set by the state commission. At present the commission is supported by federal funds but hopes to be a state appropriation in 1979.

"New construction going on now is an indication of the great intent by the commissioners' courts to do what the law says they must do," Van Cleave said. "Sixty-five new jails are being built right now with another 44 under some form of construction or planning. So we have well over 100 of our jails now that have seen fit to abide by these particular standards."

Van Cleave said inspectors have completed two rounds of inspections and the next step will be to notify counties that are not in compliance. Counties may ask for variances, but not for safety, sanitary and security reasons.

"The trend is toward compliance," he said. "I think down the line we may have to hold some hearings but I don't see any going as far as closing a jail under the state law. I don't look that we are going to close any jails."

Full Employment Measure Endorsed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 80 groups, members of the Full Employment Action Council, sent a joint letter to Congress on Saturday calling for speedy passage of the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill.

The bill, named for Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., and the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., would set a target of reducing the current unemployment rate of 5.9 percent to 4 percent by 1983.

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.

Mark 15:1-20. The Living Bible

CHAPTER 15

1 Early in the morning the chief priests, elders and teachers of religion—the entire Supreme Court—met to discuss their next steps. Their decision was to send Jesus under armed guard to Pilate, the Roman governor.

2 Pilate asked Him, "Are you the King of the Jews?" "Yes," Jesus replied, "it is as you say."

3,4 Then the chief priests accused Him of many crimes, and Pilate asked Him, "Why don't you say something? What about all these charges against you?"

5 But Jesus said no more, much to Pilate's amazement.

6 Now, it was Pilate's custom to release one Jewish prisoner each year at Passover time—any prisoner the people requested.

7 One of the prisoners at that time was Barabbas, convicted along with others for murder during an insurrection.

8 Now a mob began to crowd in toward Pilate, asking him to release a prisoner as usual.

9 "How about giving you the 'King of Jews'?" Pilate asked. "Is he the one you want released?"

10 (For he realized by now that this was a frameup, backed by the chief priests because they envied Jesus' popularity.)

11 But at this point the chief priests whipped the mob to demand the release of Barabbas instead of Jesus.

12 "But if I release Barabbas," Pilate asked them, "what shall I do with this man you call your king?"

13 They shouted back, "Crucify him!"

14 "But why?" Pilate demanded. "What has he done wrong?" They only roared the louder, "Crucify him!"

15 Then Pilate, afraid of a riot and anxious to please the people, released Barabbas to them. And he ordered Jesus flogged with a leaded whip, and handed Him over to be crucified.

16,17 Then the Roman soldiers took Him into the barracks of the palace, called out the entire palace guard, dressed Him in a purple robe, and made a crown of long, sharp thorns and put it on His head.

18 Then they saluted, yelling, "Yea! King of the Jews!"

19 And they beat Him on the head with a cane, and spit on Him and went down on their knees to "worship" Him.

20 When they finally tired of their sport, they took off the purple robe and put His own clothes, on Him again; and led Him away to be crucified.

Paper Strike Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — The dispute between publishers and pressmen that has closed this city's three largest newspapers for nearly a month appears no closer to resolution than when the two sides first talked six months ago.

Contract proposals exchanged last week by The New York Times, Daily News and New York Post and Printing Pressmen's Union No. 2 were so far apart that the publishers saw no reason to resume negotiations, sources close to the talks said over the weekend.

Pressmen walked out 26 days ago after the publishers posted new work schedules that would eventually have nearly halved the jobs of the union's 1,550 members. The pressmen have dug in against any cuts.

The strike has been joined by four other newspaper unions, and five more have been respecting the picket lines.

Theodore Kheel, a veteran labor mediator, said over the weekend that the two sides' most recent proposals "resemble the submissions of companies and unions before bargaining begins. They uncovered two sets of conflicting demands with no apparent dovetailing of differences."

The three newspapers, with combined daily circulation of 3.3 million, have been squeezed by a variety of factors. The Post has been losing money and the News barely making any. They and the Times say they must cut costs to compete with profitable suburban papers.

Last week the publishers offered to guarantee jobs of any pressman who worked at least 30 weeks in 1977. Post publisher Rupert Murdoch, president of the association negotiating for the papers, said this would guarantee jobs for more than 1,300 pressmen.

But that offer also eliminated what publishers contend is unnecessary overtime, wiped out previous arbitration awards that forced the papers to hire pressmen for maintenance and other chores and gave management more flexibility in running pressrooms.

The pressmen's counter-offer cut existing manpower by one person per press unit — a saving of 5 percent or 6 percent, Murdoch said. But the same offer increased the number of apprentices, left all overtime requirements in place and called for more benefits.

Attempts to resume talks will be made this week, but it was understood the publishers do not care to meet unless the pressmen modify their proposals.

Murdoch has said several times that he was keeping options open on trying to publish the Post without the unions. All three papers could produce their papers without union help. The key was whether they could distribute them without union drivers, who are members of an independent union and do not receive strike benefits.

Meanwhile, at least four interim strike papers continued publishing, circulating about 1.2 million copies a day. In addition, a number of suburban papers have increased their production.

Engine Trouble Blamed For Fatal Plane Crash

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Investigators are blaming engine failure for a plane crash that killed 11 persons, including nine Japanese tourists, a police spokesman said Sunday.

The AirWest Airlines Limited twin-engine Otter crashed Saturday night into a channel at the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club moorage at Stanley Park.

Both crewmen and nine of the 11 Japanese tourists aboard were killed.

It was the fourth crash for the Canadian-based airline in two years.

The plane crashed two minutes after it contacted the harbor tower for landing clearance. Authorities said the plane broke into two pieces on impact and floated briefly, then sank in about 13 feet of water.

Canadian Ministry of Transport officials were still investigating on Sunday, but the police spokesman said engine failure was the preliminary finding.

Police Inspector Philip Meeras identified the dead crewmen as pilot Mark Goostry, 28, and copilot Doug Johnston, 23, both of the Vancouver area.

Identification of the other victims was withheld until relatives in Japan could be told.

The survivors were identified as Masakazu Fukuda and Yukio Ishii, 30. Their hometowns were not made public.

Police Inspector Frank Raynor said Fukuda was in "stable" condition Sunday with a fractured left arm and ankle, while Ishii was in "very stable" condition with abdominal and internal injuries. Both men were undergoing treatment at St. Paul's Hospital, he said.

An AirWest spokesman said the plane, Flight 138 from Victoria to Vancouver, was a regular flight but had been booked by a tour group.

An AirWest charter flight crashed near Bella Coola, British Columbia, in September 1976, killing one man and injuring four others. The company eventually was convicted of operating an aircraft without emergency equipment.

A few months later, an AirWest twin Otter crashed in Victoria harbor during fog conditions. All 16 persons aboard survived the crash. A Canadian Ministry of Transport investigation ruled the pilot and airline were negligent by flying in poor weather conditions.

Last December an AirWest floatplane crashed into trees on Saturna Island in Georgia Strait. The 12 passengers and crew managed to escape the wreckage before it burst into flames.

AirWest was hit by a strike of pilots and other employees, members of the Teamsters Union, in January. During the five-month strike, the transport ministry briefly suspended the airline's licence because of safety regulation violations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inter-city truck tonnage handled through terminals in 35 metropolitan areas throughout the country in the week ended Aug. 26 was 3.5 percent above the preceding week. Truck tonnage decreased 0.7 percent compared to the corresponding week a year ago.

REGIONAL ROUNDUP

Council Considers Use Of Funds

A-J Correspondent

CHILDRESS — City officials, in a recent meeting, considered priorities to allocate almost $40,000 in revenue sharing funds.

Included in the list were a new filtering system and other renovations at the municipal swimming pool; several air conditioners at city hall; tennis court renovation; improvements to the community building, city auditorium and municipal equipment barn; new paging units for the volunteer fire department's radio system; and several other high-priority items. Total of the sought improvements was more than $41,000. Also on the list was a street sweeper. It carries an estimated price tag of $40,000.

"Here's the way we have to look at it," City Manager David Galligan said. "We can either remove the street sweeper from the list, or give up everything else."

Officials agreed that too many of the other items on the list were essential, and that the street sweeper should be cut.

Galligan also noted that to get the streets of Childress into condition for a street sweeper to operate would probably cost twice the sum of the sweeper.

HOBBS, N.M. — Jeanne Willcut, executive secretary of the 1979 United Way of Hobbs Campaign to raise $220,000, says the drive will kickoff at noon, Sept. 15, at the Hobbs County Club.

More than 200 volunteers have been invited to tour participating agencies during the early portion of the drive.

Mrs. Willcut says report luncheons have been set for 11:45 a.m. Sept. 27 and Oct. 5 in the basement of the First Methodist Church. The victory celebration has been scheduled for Oct. 13.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

Each month I send my medical bills to Medicare. Sometimes these include bills from three or four different doctors. Lately, the payments have been delayed because Medicare has written for more information about itemizing one doctor's bill more completely. Is there any way I can prevent this delay? — T.K.

You are attaching all doctor's bills to one Medicare claim form. One carrier we checked with suggested that you attach bills from each doctor to a separate claim form, thus permitting the carrier to itemize ones to be paid more promptly. We also suggest that you visit the doctor whose claims need more itemization and discuss the carrier's letter with him. By having the claim properly itemized, your payments will be more prompt.

For people who are on Medicare, Heartline has a very valuable book for you. This book is a simplified easy-to-understand book covering the whole Medicare program. To order: send $1.75 to Heartline's Guide to Medicare, in care of the address above. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

HEARTLINE: My husband and I have been divorced for 15 years. We were married for 15 years. He will be 62 years old in November and will start drawing his Social Security benefits. Will the new law under Social Security allowing divorced wives to collect Social Security benefits include me? — D.C.

Yes, this new law will include you. However, under the present law the wife must have been married for at least 20 years in order to claim benefits as the former wife of the wage earner. The 1977 amendment reduces the requirement to 10 years, effective for all months beginning after January 1979, for applications made on or after Jan. 1, 1979. Many people have raised the question, however, of whether the amendment applied only to women who were divorced in January 1979 or later, so that persons who had been married for 10 years but were divorced before then could take advantage of the reduction. The Office of Policy Regulations of the Social Security Administration has informed Heartline that the amendment will not be interpreted to exclude women divorced before 1979. So, regardless when you were married for 10 years, you should apply for these benefits in January 1979.

Ex-Senator Views Polls Positively

NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter should be "pleased rather than discouraged" with polls showing that his popularity is sinking, Eugene McCarthy says.

"If he (Carter) is objective, he ought to be pleased to have 30 percent still with him," the former U.S. senator from Minnesota said Saturday at a meeting of the International Society of Political Psychology. "I feel he was very unqualified to be president to begin with. But it's a tough job."

McCarthy, whose strong showing in the 1968 New Hampshire Democratic primary is credited with playing a role in President Lyndon B. Johnson's decision not to seek re-election, said this week's Midwest peace summit at Camp David, Md., is "ill-advised." He also called Carter's veto of the $37 billion defense authorization bill "foolish."

McCarthy, who ran for president in 1976 as an independent, declined to rule out the possibility of another candidacy in 1980. But, he said, "The last time around I came in third behind Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford, and that shows something is either wrong with the country or with me."

SURVIVOR'S BILL HIGH

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Hospital costs for the lone survivor of a family that plunged from a hotel balcony four weeks ago have risen to nearly $30,000, a hospital representative says. The bill is to be paid by the state. Rachel David, 15, remained unconscious Friday at LDS Hospital in serious but stable condition. Her mother, Rachel David, coaxed or threw her seven children from an 11th-story hotel balcony and then jumped herself, police say.

Tech Couple 'Air' Fuel Savings

By BOB CAMPBELL
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

There are better ways to save energy during the summer than lying down under the air conditioner, Don and Carol Watts of 2408 26th St., have discovered.

With maximum use of ventilation and outside heating and cooling, the energy they saved was the kind that shows up on electric bills when an air conditioner is not used at all.

The Wattses, both architecture professors at Texas Tech University, bought their home when they came to Lubbock three years ago.

They undertook to make the 1940s-vintage dwelling more energy-efficient in a "Home Energy Conservation Project" with advisors Jeanette Hodges of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Energy Extension Service.

"The phrase 'energy-efficient home' may be recent, but the design of many older dwellings capitalizes upon the natural energy that has always been with us," Mrs. Hodges explained.

South Plains climate and the construction of older homes here surprised Watts after he came to Lubbock from a Peace Corps stint in Afghanistan. He met his wife Carol after she arrived from the University of Washington in Seattle and they married and started looking for a home.

He is originally from Alma, Neb. She is from Bloomington, Ind.

"We expected ample sunshine but not the low humidity or the usual cool nights," he said. "We were accustomed to east-facing bedrooms receiving morning light, but were pleased to discover how Lubbock's summer evening breezes shift to the southeast and flow directly across the beds."

The worst shortcoming of the house, he said, was a late 1940s addition in which the original rear north porch was enlarged and enclosed.

"Originally, the house was open from north to south through its middle by a dining and living room, but the back porch enclosure also walled in the dining room window," Watts said.

"The effect of this was to cut off the original 'flow-through' ventilation and seriously reduce the natural cooling abilities of the house. We have since reopened the original dining room window to restore some of its benefits," he said.

Another side effect of the porch enclosure was to convert the dining room into a dark as well as breezeless space. The center of the house needed to be just the opposite to take full advantage of Lubbock's climate.

"The dining room is now a two-story space receiving natural light and increased ventilation through a large window mounted in the south slope of the roof. Direct sunlight now penetrates nearly the full depth of the house in winter, and summer air circulates in a multitude of directions. The sun is screened from entering the roof window during the summer months," Watts said.

They have done all the labor themselves over the past two summers and last fall and have spent $1,000 or less on materials, he said.

The attic and dining room have been insulated, and they still have to finish dining room sheetrocking.

Making an older home energy-efficient, they have learned, requires understanding the house and how it is managed according to outside temperature changes.

The couple recorded changes in sunshine, wind, temperature and humidity all during July for that purpose.

"Extraordinary July temperatures showed that the overnight low temperature is a key factor in avoiding large cooling bills," Watts said. "We have found that by opening the entire house in the evening and leaving it open all night, we can cool the inside to within four degrees of the overnight low.

"Upon rising in the morning, we close all windows and shades, and the east rooms are closed off from the rest of the house. The house then traps the overnight cool air inside and holds it until the outside temperature has peaked.

"As the inside conditions rise to the point of discomfort, a fan may be used to cool the occupants until the originally stratified hot air near the ceilings has been well-mixed with the lower cool air creating an unreasonable stuffiness.

"During this past heat wave we found we could forestall the need for air conditioning until around 4 p.m., when outside temperatures were nearing their peak and would finish air conditioning the living-dining space by 8 p.m. at the latest."

On several days, they took hourly readings of inside surface temperatures of ceilings and walls to find the "hot spots" in their home.

"In contrast to the attic, which we insulated and ventilated last summer, the flat roof of the enclosed porch has little insulation and is a radiant heater affecting the entire house," he said. "The other major trouble spot is our west west windows, which are only single-pane and are unshaded."

"Insulation will be added to the roof, and we have decided that exterior roll shades are the most cost-effective way to screen the afternoon sun from the west windows. The shades will block the heat before it enters the house and also are retractable to allow nightly ventilation."

Mrs. Watts, who was pregnant, was not as much help in the continuing project as she was last year.

The baby, a girl, was born just after midnight Monday at Health Sciences Hospital, and the father had this observation: "The additions to the house just keep coming."

KEEPING COOL — Don Watts surveys the house he and his wife Carol have remodeled into an "energy efficient" home that saves them money on their electric bills. Taking advantage of Lubbock's breezes, low humidity and usually cool summer nights, the Watts have kept their house cool by making use of natural cross-ventilation. This summer they only have had to use their air conditioner four hours a day to keep their home comfortable. (Staff Photo by Milton Adams)

East German, Soviet Cosmonauts Land Safely

MOSCOW (AP) — East Germany's first cosmonaut and his Soviet flight commander landed in their spacecraft near a small Soviet village Sunday, leaving two Soviet colleagues still orbiting the earth in the Salyut 6 space lab.

The Soviet news agency Tass called the nine-day flight of East German Sigmund Jaehn and flight commander Valery Bykovsky "a complete success" with the landing going according to plan.

Their Russian hosts, who have been aboard Salyut 6 for the nearly 12-week flight, watched the "international crew" disappear through the hatch into the Soyuz 29 spacecraft that took them back to earth.

The departure was shown on Soviet television.

"It's sad to see you go," said commander Vladimir Kovalenok who remained on Salyut 6 with aide Alexander Ivanchenkov. "You're excellent people, excellent comrades. But the program, it's like life, we all continue our work."

From the hatch, Jaehn and Bykovsky called out: "Okay, goodbye. Thanks and all the best." Then Kovalenok kissed the East German on the cheeks and wished him a "good trip down and a soft landing."

Jaehn and Bykovsky landed near the village of Dzshkagan in the southern Soviet republic of Kazakhstan. Posing for Soviet photographers, they signed the Soyuz 29 space capsule.

After the cosmonauts touched down, East German leaders Erich Honecker and Willy Stof sent a telegram wishing "cordial congratulation" to Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev on the flight's success.

It was the third international flight in the Soviet Intercosmos program. Cosmonauts from Czechoslovakia and Poland accompanied by Soviet flight commanders already have spent about a week each in space, and men from other Soviet bloc countries, including Cuba and Mongolia, are being trained.

Business & Industrial Review

APPRECIATES BUSINESS IN ANY SIZE — Walter Johnson, pictured, is one of the well-known Bowman staff on hand to serve in every building need, for the home handyman or the largest contractor. Attention is directed to September specials and a tremendously attractive Labor Day savings extravaganza.

Labor Day Markdowns, Red-Tag Sale, Entertainment Set At Bowman's

Red Tag Days are in effect at Bowman's (the firm that makes it possible to fix your home the way you want it). Not only are Red Tag specials good through Sept. 30, but there is special good news for those going to Bowman's today, Labor Day.

Bowman is open today, 7:30 a.m. until 6 p.m., and everything in the big store is marked 10 per cent to even 50 per cent off today only!

Entertainment, Too

Also, there is music and fun for everyone there today: come on out and enjoy Sam Hill and the Tennessee Sounds all day. And for today there are hot dogs and Coke for just 25 cents!

"Bowman is in the celebrating mood — to your benefit!"

Look at some of the Red Tag prices in every department.

A truckload sale of all Greentree vanities enables a 20 per cent off on these The 17-in. by 19-in. Brentwood Series is thus only $29.88, for example

Floor Covering

See the in-stock sculptured shag carpet in yellow/gold at $3.99 per square yard. And indoor/outdoor carpet at $1.99; Astro-Turf at $2.99 per lineal foot, great for porch, patio and walkway; or self-stick floor tile by GAF, at 65 cents sq. ft.

Nursery Values

And over in the garden area all nursery stock is marked one-half price. That's right, one-half price, and this includes trees, shrubs, pines, fruit trees, evergreens, groundcovers and yaupon.

A big 25 per cent off is arranged on all lawn and garden chemicals in stock, including fertilizers, plant foods, insecticides, miticides, fungicides, pruning paint, garden dust, liquid iron, root stimulants, plant polish, weed killer, weed bar, and many more.

A Lawn-Boy factory representative will be at Bowman's today to help one in a choice of Lawn-Boy mowers, and 10 per cent off on all in-stock Lawn-Boy mowers, or one "free" Model JT 103 $30 Spin Trim with the purchase of a Lawn-Boy mower.

With Christmas just around the corner, it might be well to do some planning ahead — and purchasing. Beautiful copper and brass pots, strainers, ladies and more are now at 25 per cent off, as are all clay pots.

All in-stock Lloyd furniture is marked at 10 per cent off.

Power Tools

Power tools come in for savings, with the No. 770 Deluxe Power Shop Dewalt at $259.95 (regular $399.95); Skil orbital sander kit at $27.99 (regular $32.99) with a free dust collector; 6 1/2-in. Skilsaw circular saw, regular $47.99 but now marked at $38.69; and comparable savings in jigsaws, drills, etc.

Thomas light fixtures are 35 per cent off.

Wright storm doors are $38.88. And the wood attic stairway at $26.88.

Chain Saws

Or maybe the need for a gift or for one's own use is a McCulloch chain saw that actually can cut enough wood to pay for the saw in the first year. The Mac 140 self-sharpening model, complete with carrying case, regular $179.95, is marked down to $149.95; and the Power Mac-6, regular $189.95, is priced at $159.95.

A new shipment of Kentucky whiskey barrels enables their price of $9.99.

On and on the values continue, and the only way to fully understand just what is in store for the customer is to visit Bowman, at 8301 S. University in Lubbock during the Red Tag Days in September, or today for special further Labor Day savings.

Remember, everything in the store is 10 per cent to 50 per cent off. Labor Day only.

"Come on out, for one-stop shopping — and savings."

"If you want to keep their heads in school, keep their feet in Stride Rite shoes, the shoe with a high eye-cue!"

And for Stride Rites, it is Gilberts Shoes, 3434 34th St., in Indiana Gardens, the store in full readiness for fall, school and winter.

Leaseway-Southwest Services Seen Advantageous To Region

Leaseway-Southwest, at 409 E. 50th St. in Lubbock, offers a complete transportation service to busy companies that simply cannot devote the time, space or money required to own and maintain a fleet of vehicles, or in some instances, just one or two units. This progressive leasing firm provides transportation vehicles to serve any size or type business.

Full Service

"Corporations as well as small operators find that full-service transportation package is more efficient from every standpoint."

"Full service" as provided by Leaseway-Southwest Transportation Corp., is exactly what the name implies. The firm provides the maintenance and inspection and even supplies the fuel and pays the taxes on the vehicle!

Personnel there are most adept, serving in a professional but considerate and friendly manner to meet the particular transportation needs of every customer.

"We'd like to count you, too, among our customers."

Upgrading and additions to its stock is a continuous operation at Leaseway-Southwest.

Leaseway-Southwest's understanding of the short-term, peak and long-term needs of area industry and business is well recognized, contributing to its own growth, too.

Half-a-hundred Lubbock businesses (and even more) depend on Leaseway-Southwest for transportation vehicle needs.

There must be a very good reason.

In Tune With Times

Keeping abreast with the needs of the area is one of the convincing reasons. Leaseway-Southwest continually adds new equipment for rental and for full-time customers of this service-oriented firm.

"Utilization of leased vehicles is the growing trend in transportation management!" it is emphasized by Ken Wright, president.

Felix West Paints, With Convenient Clovis Road Address, Serving Region

"Much more than a paint store alone", Felix West Paints, on Clovis Road east of University Avenue, stocks fully to justify the invitation:
 "Get it all at Felix West."
 Not only is the stock complete, but Felix West holds the price line for customer benefit.
 And most often there are some real bargains in discontinued items, remnants, etc., making it advantageous to check the store frequently for special savings.

Open Saturdays
 Another item of customer consideration is the long hours observed every weekday. Felix West Paints is open from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays; yes, Felix West is open all day Saturdays.

 Seasonal needs, as well as the standard year-around items, are found at Felix West Paints.

General Hardware
 Thousands of general hardware items and scads of other products contribute to the "difference that is Felix West Paints".

Colony paints, Armstrong and Congoleum... these are among the names that spell true quality and availability for the demands of every season; always at Felix West.

Felix West has a pipe threader as an added service, enabling cutting and threading in every pipe need (new pipe only). A good stock of pipe also is provided. Located just one block east of University on the Clovis Highway (2319 Clovis Road), Felix West not only is one of the easiest stores to find (look for the distinctive signs), but it provides all the popular and even hard-to-find hardware items that make a trip there worthwhile.

Whether one selects from the Colony paint stock or chooses from the wide inventory of hand and power tools, pipe fittings, shop items, inexpensive gas or electric bathroom heaters, etc., the price and quality is unmistakably the best — a tradition well practiced and protected at Felix West Paints in its one big Lubbock location.

Felix West is no newcomer to Lubbock or to the hardware and paint trade, and he is unusually adept at stocking the right items for South Plains clientele.

El Paso Wholesale, Lubbock Division, Saves For Clientele

"El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division knows that it can make the entire year more profitable and certainly more convenient for retail firms throughout the region, ultimately saving for the consumer... you and me."

There are a number of carefully planned factors that make this statement possible and true:

Selling wholesale only, the El Paso Wholesale Company in Lubbock is the city's complete wholesale firm.

Customers include grocery and hardware stores, auto supply houses, service stations, toy stores, sporting goods stores, etc.

Located at 206 23rd St., phone 747-1841, in Lubbock, the El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division carries and stocks a full selection of hard line merchandise.

From time to time partial lists of the products have been published on these pages of the Avalanche-Journal, and readers have noted that the products and brand names are ones that can be appreciated, together with the completeness of this wholesale firm.

Among the benefits area merchants find foremost at El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division, aside from the selection, is the freight situation.

Doesn't it make sense that savings are enabled through the regions by virtue of the big-stock Lubbock warehouse that features faster, shorter delivery transport? Let this Lubbock wholesale firm prove it to your own benefit with products such as:

Guns by Remington, Marlin and H. and R.; ammunition from Federal and Remington; and gun accessories such as Outer & Hoppes solvents and gun cleaning kits.

C.B. radios by Midland and Cobra, and the Fuzzbuster radar detector; plus Mr. CB accessories and Antenna Specialist antennas.

Of course there are lots of quality housewares, including Corning Ware and Pyrex, Nordic Ware and Rubbermaid.

Sales camping accessories, and Buck knives.

For outdoor sports, the lines of Rawlings, Spalding, Wilson and General Sportscraft are represented.

And there are Daisy and Crossman BB guns and Huffy bicycles.

Hardware is not neglected, either, and includes Stanley Tools, Black & Decker power tools, Crescent wrenches and Nicholson files, Peerless and Hancock Gross plumbing supplies.

Gift items include the quality Crps pens, Zippo lighters, watches by Timex and Texas Instruments, clocks and calculators.

In the personal care category, there are hair dryers by Gillette, Clairol, Conair and Sunbeam; and hairsetters and make-up mirrors by Clairol, Gillette, G.E. and Hamilton Beach; and Water-Pik, too.

Business & Industrial Review

MODERN AND AVAILABLE — Shown is a Lubbock installation of an overhead automatic door (note its attractiveness) and the acclaimed Auto-Mate garage door opener that can be "a lift in your own situation," thanks to Overhead Door Co.

Overhead Automatic Door Installation Seen As Great Family Consideration

"Will this winter find your family and yourself enjoying the convenience of an automatic overhead door installation for your garage?"

"Likely in the past you have envied your neighbor who with such facilities was spared exposure to snow and sleet (yes, these are such to come again this year, in just a few months).

"There is no need for you to walk on slick driveways to open or shut the garage door, just as there is no need to drive into a darkened garage at night. After all, you can enjoy the convenience and security of an automatic installation from Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop), phone 797-4141.

Convenience, safety and protection — this is the whole story of automatic overhead doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

door encounter an obstacle. Should a power failure occur, a spring-loaded quick disconnect instantly converts the door to manual operation and is simply reconnected by hand.

This heavy duty, UL-approved operator can handle sectional or one-piece doors up to 18' by 8' or two single car doors hooked up tandem.

Automatic Doors represent a wise gesture by the head of the family. With these doors, the wife can open the garage, enter and lock it without leaving her vehicle — quite a convenience benefit in inclement weather (wind, rain, dust, snow).

and a definite safety factor on dark nights.

Free Estimates

The Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is glad to demonstrate how simple it is to enjoy these benefits. Call for free estimate.

Overhead doors are available and recommended, also, for commercial and industrial buildings.

Whether selection is from a steel, wood or fiberglass overhead door, Tim Hatch at Overhead Door Co. assures the very best value in installation and sales, resulting in lasting satisfaction.

Johnston's No-Roach Effective For Months

"Do you know there's a product so effective that it literally eliminates roaches from your home?"

It is Johnston's No-Roach!

No-Roach comes with its own applicator-brush attached to an ordinary brown-amber bottle. Sound old-fashioned? It is. Some old-fashioned things are still best! No modern spray or pellet made can do so much for so long as Johnston's No-Roach.

Johnston's No-Roach (if you don't see it — ask for it) is different . . . and it's different for many reasons. No-Roach eliminated the need for frequent application . . . No-Roach is clean and easy to use.

No need to move dishes or food when you use Johnston's No-Roach, simply brush this odorless, colorless liquid around baseboards, sinks, tablelegs . . . behind cabinets and appliances . . . on shelves and inside cabinet doors. Use Johnston's No-Roach in bathrooms and anywhere else cockroaches may breed. No-Roach dries fast to form an invisible path of death that kills cockroaches, ants, silverfish, spiders, all crawling insects — and best of all it continues to kill effectively for months.

Johnston's No-Roach is available at Furr's, Safeway, Piggly Wiggly, United, Bylow, Brook's and all grocery stores, distributed by Affiliated and Winn Dixie.

'NAME LINES', SERVICE, INTEGRITY IS RECORD AT QUIRT AVENUE FIRM

American Equipment & Trailer Marks 25 Years Area Service

Now in its 25th year, American Equipment and Trailer, Inc., began with the idea of having trailer equipment of all kinds for all size trucks from pickups to diesels. The firm started with a few good lines and built up its stock until now it can say it is the largest trailer service facility in the Panhandle-South Plains region.

Located in Lubbock at 3707 Quirt Ave., this facility is modern in every respect, built to afford exceptional service. The 12,000 sq. ft. building has multiple double-bay drive-through shop, parts department and spacious showrooms, and is located on eight acres of land.

Included in the large line-up of equipment are well known brand names such as Koenig service bodies, Galion dump bodies, Midwest farm bodies, Tulsa winches, RO cranes, Wilson livestock and grain trailers, Great Dane refrigerated trailers, Clement dump bodies, Bendix Westinghouse air brake equipment, Michigan fleet gasoline tanks, tank installation kits, Henderson bulk bodies and spreaders, and more.

Of course American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., can help one with any special requirement.

Need a crane? Several makes are available. Need a winch for pickup, four-wheel drive unit or truck? American can certainly supply the one needed.

American Equipment & Trailer not only has large facilities in Lubbock, but also at 610 N. Grand in Amarillo, and at 1400 West Overland Trail in Abilene.

"We appreciate your visits at any of our facilities: come on out or call us when in need of any product or service we can render. Our service department, remember, has seven double bays and long drive-through large enough to accommodate the largest tractor-trailer made. A parts department stocks to service the equipment sold by American, and parts are stocked, also, for many other brands."

"A genuine welcome awaits — at American Equipment & Trailer, Inc."

'Better Hearing Aid Center' Serving With Two Facilities

The services of James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist, not only are available at the Better Hearing Aid Center in Lubbock, but also at the Clovis Hearing Aid Center.

A lot of people in the region have depended on the Better Hearing Aid Center, No. 30 Redbud Square in Lubbock, for a long time.

Now, the area of services reaches still further, and with greater convenience to the customers out from Lubbock. For friends in New Mexico and the western Panhandle and South Plains, Davidson has provided the Clovis Hearing Aid Center at 117 E. 7th St., in Clovis.

Schedule Told
"So take your pick of the center and service most readily available to you; James Davidson renders the same great service at each location. He is in the Lubbock center on Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays, at Clovis on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturday mornings.

"We are indeed appreciative of the friends, the customers and the benefits of years past, and we trust that with our new arrangement, we can serve you even better in months and years to come."

More about the Lubbock center:
Located about midway between 4th Street and 19th Street on Slide Road, the firm is a multi-line dealer, specializing in all-in-the-ear models. Service and repairs on any make of hearing aid is expertly rendered.

"Not only can one purchase the best in hearing aids at the Better Hearing Aid Center, but James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist there, is most helpful in assisting one "after" the purchase. A few months ago he announced the helpful C.A.R.E. program for this assistance, with the program including a video unit with a series of tapes that explain graphically how to enjoy and use one's aid to the fullest. It helps, among other things, in "learning how to listen," in adjustment of the aid, and even helpful hints on "attitudes."

"If you hear . . . but do not always understand . . . maybe all you need is the custom-made, all-in-the-ear hearing aid from Better Hearing Aid Center, Redbud Square (on Slide Road), phone 792-0507."

Learn about the convenience and utility of the tiny unit that fits all in the ear, helping nature help you hear better.

For hearing loss suitable to correction and improvement through amplification, a "Contour" hearing aid by Dahlberg offers a special kind of hearing help for mild, moderate or moderately-severe hearing impairment.

Starting with an exact impression of your own ear, a plastic shell is formed which duplicates the contours of your ear. Dahlberg's evaluation committee then analyzes your hearing loss supplied by your hearing aid specialist and selects the most suitable degree and type of amplification. Dahlberg's manufacturing staff then assembles the electronic components specified and makes your "Contour" to order within your own contoured shell . . . providing your personal hearing aid.

"Individually made to order for you, no two are alike."

And remember . . . at the Better Hearing Aid Center there is a liberal hearing aid trial rental plan.

Davidson, a Lubbock resident since 1948 and an area native, is most sincere — and qualified — in his invitation to call 792-0507 or come by the center for professional assistance. He is most enthusiastic, and rightly so, about the two custom-made, all-in-the-ear aids (1) the Miracle Ear and (2) the Contour all-in-the-ear model, both from Dahlberg.

Protection Plan
Davidson and customers alike express enthusiasm for the related "Dahlberg Consumer Protection Plan" in which a 30-day money-back privilege is afforded (with exception of custom made earmolds and dispensing fee).

Long-Established Policy
"See your doctor first, then see us," long has been the sensible suggestion of Davidson, multi-line dealer service 22 counties in Texas and eastern New Mexico, a policy initiated without prompting of government regulations.

Miracle Ear
"Our new variable compression settings enable fitting the hearing aid to your individual loss. We have numerous models, one of which will parallel your hearing loss."

"Mild nerve deafness? Then 'Miracle Ear' may be all you need to hear clearly again. It fits entirely in your ear and is ideal for the majority of persons who can still hear but have trouble understanding words."

"If you hear sounds but don't always understand words (a classic symptom of nerve impairment), our recommendation is Miracle Ear, developed and patented by Dahlberg Electronics, Inc."

Aids Electronically Tested
At the Better Hearing Aid Center, all hearing aids are electronically tested before going to the customer.

"Do not hesitate to visit or call (phone 792-0507, or residence phone 799-0333). Likely Jim Davidson, hearing aid audiologist, can help you, too."

AT LUBBOCK CENTER — James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist, and staff member Agnes Vanderveer, secretary, at the Better Hearing Aid Center in Redbud Square, invite inquiries regarding the firm's services in sales and repairs at its two big area centers, in Lubbock and in Clovis (N.M.)

CAMPBELL FLIP—The Houston Oilers and last year's Heisman trophy winner Earl Campbell (34) flipped to the ground against Atlanta's tough defense. Campbell scored on a 73-yard pass reception as Houston lost 20-14. (AP Laserphoto)

Falcons Kayo Houston

Campbell Stars, But Oilers Lose 20-14

ATLANTA (AP) — "I know our defense is gonna force fumbles, interceptions and sacks and when they come, there's no way we can lose," said Rolland Lawrence of the Atlanta Falcons.

He was correct. The Falcons took advantage of two fumble recoveries, two interceptions and four sacks to record a 20-14 National Football League season opening victory over the Houston Oilers Sunday.

And, that doesn't include blocked punts. The Falcons turned the momentum when Tom Pridemore blocked a Houston punt which was dribbled some 25 yards downfield as players attempted to cover it and ended in a touchdown for Atlanta when Tom Moriarty recovered in the end zone.

"That's our job," said Moriarty, a specialty team member who said he thought a teammate was going to score and that he intended to block for him.

"Then it was lose and I just fell on it," Moriarty added.

"Our goal last year was to block a punt and score. We lead the league in defense but we never did score on a blocked punt."

Moriarty also downed one punt inside the Houston five and helped on another when he batted the ball away from the goal line as John James kept the Oilers bottled up with four punts downed inside the 10.

Coach Bum Phillips of Houston said the turning point was "the blocked punt and their kicker. He started us in bad field position and we were there all day."

Fred Steinfort kicked field goals of 30 yards in the third quarter and 48 yards midway through the final period, following fumble recoveries by Robert Pennywell at the Oiler 13 and Lawrence at the 33.

The other Falcon touchdown came on a 38-yard pass from June Jones III to Bubba Bean, out of Texas A&M, in the second quarter, marking the first time Houston had yielded a score in four openers under Coach Bum Phillips.

Houston opened the scoring in the first period when rookie Earl Campbell, last year's Heisman Trophy winner, raced 73 yards after taking a screen pass from Dan Pastorini. The other Oiler score came on Pastorini's eight-yard pass to Rich Caster in the third quarter.

Mariarty also played a key roll in the closing minutes when he batted a James punt away from the goal line, allowing teammates to down it at the Houston two with just over five minutes remaining.

Houston failed to move and got only one other opportunity, that with less than two minutes remaining at its own 20.

Pastorini passed the Oilers to midfield, but Atlanta's defense applied the clinching blow when Ray Easterling intercepted a Pastorini pass at the Atlanta 51.

The Oilers twice threatened without scoring, moving to the Atlanta 26 late in the first half before a holding penalty nullified a pass completion at the 13.

The other came when Pastorini's 55-yard pass to the Falcon 2 was called back for holding and on the next play, Claude Humphrey forced a fumble by Pastorini that led to Atlanta's go-ahead field goal.

Trailing 14-7 at halftime, Houston struck quickly as Johnnie Dirden returned the kickoff 60 yards to the 40 and Campbell barreled 25 yards on the first place to set up Pastorini's scoring pass to Caster.

Broncos Ride Again, Cash In On Oakland Mistakes, 14-6

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Craig Morton passed 5 yards for one touchdown and Otis Armstrong plunged for an insurance score in the closing seconds as the Denver Broncos, getting key interceptions from safeties Bill Thompson and Bernard Jackson, withstood a fierce second half rally by Oakland to defeat the Raiders 14-6 Sunday in a National Football League opener.

In a rematch between the two teams from last January's American Football League game, Morton lobbed a pass to Haven Moses in the corner of the end zone.

But the Raiders bounced back from the 7-0 halftime deficit, with a potent passing attack and moved into Denver territory four times in the second half.

Errol Mann kicked field goals of 33 and 22 yards to cap two of the Oakland drives. But the Raiders failed to capitalize on two other scoring threats.

After moving to the Denver 10-yard line late in the third quarter, the Raiders gave up the ball on Thompson's interception in the end zone. Three straight incomplete passes stalled another Raider thrust midway through the final quarter.

But the Raiders still were in contention until a Ken Stabler pass was tipped by wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff and Jackson made a diving interception near midfield.

From there, the Broncos parlayed hard inside running by rookie fullback Larry Canada to set up Armstrong's 1-yard plunge with 36 seconds left in the game.

Denver beat the Raiders 20-17 in last year's AFC title game here, but it was the Broncos' first regular season home victory over Oakland since 1962.

Phone Lines Hot During Ceremonies

NEW YORK (AP) — Telecasts of ceremonies in Rome marking the coronation of Pope John Paul I caused delayed broadcasts of National Football League games Sunday.

Both NBC and CBS stayed with the Papal ceremonies until 1:20 p.m. CDT, before rejoining NFL games already in progress.

The programming decision prompted 725 phone calls of protest at NBC where coverage of four 1 p.m. games was delayed until the conclusion of the ceremonies. "We also had 10 phone calls in favor of covering the ceremonies," an NBC spokesman said.

Phone call figures were not immediately available at CBS. But later it was estimated that the network received in the neighborhood of 520 calls. Reportedly, most of the calls were not in disagreement over the broadcasting of the papal ceremonies, but rather on where the football games had gone.

"We had very few callers disputing the televising of the ceremonies, most of them just wanted to know where the ball games were and when they would be on," a CBS spokesman said.

The Raider defense kept Denver in check throughout the game, with both of the Broncos scores coming after turnovers. Denver, meanwhile, relied mostly on big plays from its defensive unit to keep the Raiders out of the end zone.

Neal Colzie's mishandling of a Bucky Dilts punt set up Denver's first TD late in the first half. Dave Preston recovered the fumble at the Raider 26-yard line with 1:25 left in the half.

After Morton's 13-yard pass to Jack Dolbin and a pass interference penalty on Raider linebacker Monte Johnson, the Bronco quarterback hit Moses, who made the catch over cornerback Lester Hayes.

Although both Stabler and Morton appeared to have difficulty throwing in a swirling wind which gusted to 25 miles per hour, the Raiders went to the air in the second half.

Stabler eased 12 yards to fullback Mark van Eeghen and 17 yards to tight end Dave Casper to set up Mann's first three-pointer with 9:24 left in the third quarter. Only brilliant defensive plays by cornerbacks Louis Wright and Steve Foley, who deflected passes, kept the Raiders out of the end zone.

Stabler and Cliff Branch hooked up on a 30-yard pass play to start another drive, which ended with Thompson's interception.

But Stabler came back with passes of 19, 18, 17 and 13 yards to an assortment of receivers to set the stage for Mann's other field goal with 13:45 left in the game.

Hopes High At Ruidoso

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — About a year ago, Roger Kaatz began training his first race horse. He will saddle that horse, Flying Passem, today for a run in the "world's richest horse race."

"I guess this shows if you've got a runner, he's dangerous in anybody's hands," said the modest 25-year-old trainer, who accomplished with his first horse what many other trainers never manage in a life-long career.

Flying Passem will join nine other speedy 2-year-old quarter horses for Labor Day's 20th running of the 440-yard All-American Futurity, which carries a gross purse of $1.28 million.

For Kaatz, who lives in Bryan, Texas, it will be the first time he's ever even seen the finale of the Triple Crown of quarter horse racing, although he won't have a very good seat.

"I'll be at the starting gate so I won't get to see it very good. But I plan to watch it on the rerun on television even if we don't win," said Kaatz, who is obviously thrilled about being a member of the cast for the All-American.

Two years ago Kaatz, who grew up around horses, figured the only way he would ever be at the All-American would be as a spectator. But that changed when he went to work for the Bowman family of Alvin, Texas, about 18 months ago.

"I was just showing horses when Mr. Bowman asked me if I'd like to work for him...," said Kaatz. "He only had running horses so I became a trainer. This is the first horse I started working with."

Kaatz almost did not get the chance to develop Flying Passem because the Bowsmans tried to sell the gelding at the All-American yearling sale at Ruidoso Downs last year. But when they couldn't get their asking price of $5,600 they took him back to Texas and turned him over to Kaatz.

"When you get a colt like that, break him and work with him, it's exciting to see him run down the track and do good for you," said Kaatz.

These are today's entries in the All-American Futurity, listing the horses with owners and qualifying times: Osage Juana, Thomas Ballenger, Thousand Oaks, Calif., 22:16; Moon Lark, Paul James and Sam Howard Coppel, Tex., 22:18; Veispera, Gordon and Juanita Crone, Lakin, Kan., 22:23 1/2; Boonanza, D. McLean, L.D. Shadwick and J. Ross, McAlester, Okla., 22:31; Super Sound Charge, Floyd Terrell, Plano, 22:40 1/2; Holme Maid, Frank Merrill, Purcell, Okla., and Chaires Weik, San Antonio, Texas, 22:41; Gentlemen Feature, Gerald and Darlene Blue, Amarillo, Texas; Flying Passem, Mildred Bowman, Alvin, Texas, 22:44; Copasetti, J.L. Perkins, Tomball, Texas, 22:44; and Oh Shiny, B.H. and Ruby Lee, Dimmitt, Texas, 22:44.

Jones-less Colts Face Pokes Tonight

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP)—On the talent-rich Dallas Cowboys, touchdown receptions in the Super Bowl don't seal a starting berth for the next season.

Witness Golden Richards and Butch Johnson when the starters are announced at Monday night's National Football League opener between the champion Cowboys and the Baltimore Colts, defending champions in the American Conference Eastern Division.

Each made sensational scoring catches in Dallas' Super Bowl XII victory over the Denver Broncos. They were the messengers for Coach Tom Landry, splitting time at the wide receiver spot.

But neither is getting the starting assignment for the 8 p.m. (CDT) Texas Stadium kickoff.

It's sophomore Tony "The Thrill" Hill, who has had a fantastic preseason. "Hill could be one of the most exceptional receivers we've had," said Landry.

"He can adjust to the ball and go for it as well as just about anyone. He has great potential."

Of course, all-pro Drew Pearson is Dallas' other receiver. He made a touchdown reception with one-hand in the preseason.

"Drew is simply in a class by himself," said Landry.

Hill is a self-admitted cocky guy. "That's the way I am, on the surface," he said. "But what some people don't realize is that I'm a serious person. And I want to be taken seriously. Confidence and cockiness are both a part of me that make me a better football player."

"But now I've toned myself down; I'm basically a serious person and I want people to know it."

Hill caught 11 passes for four touchdowns and 193 yards in the preseason. He made a game-winning touchdown catch with 31 seconds to play in the preseason finale against Pittsburgh.

Hill said, "I'm trying to become a complete player. I think of all the receivers (on the Cowboys) and I think I can run with the ball as well after I catch it as any of them."

Dallas was 3-1 in the preseason while the Colts struggled to a 1-3 record. Quarterback Bert Jones will miss game for Baltimore with an arm injury and Mike Kirkland will head the starting club.

Baltimore also will be without 1,000-yard rusher Lydell Mitchell, who was traded to San Diego after a tiff with Colt management.

Dallas has a new placekicker in Rafael Septien, who kicked for the Los Angeles Rams last year.

It's the seventh meeting between the two teams with Baltimore holding the edge with four victories.

The last time the clubs tangled Dallas won 30-27 in 1976.

Wade, Dibbs Fall To Upsets

NEW YORK (AP)—Virginia Wade, the third-ranked woman, and Eddie Dibbs, the fifth-seeded man, were ousted in the first major upsets at the $552,480 U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

And Bjorn Borg, the top-seeded Swede, suffered a tremendous scare at the hands of South Africa's Bernie Mitton before keeping his Grand Slam hopes alive with a 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 victory in a thrilling match that had the crowd of 16,486 at the National Tennis Center roaring with every point.

Lele Forood, a little-known Floridian who had never come close to beating any of the top women, pulled the day's first upset when she ousted Miss Wade, the 1977 Wimbledon champion from Britain, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

Then Brian Teacher, 23, from San Diego, outlasted the scrappy Dibbs 6-2, 5-7, 6-3. Dibbs was very successful on the summer circuit, but found the switch from those clay courts to the faster artificial surface here to be too much of a change.

But the most thrilling match of the day came in the late afternoon, when Borg dropped the first set and found himself on the ropes in the second set against the unheralded Mitton, whose serve and volley game tested the Swede to the utmost.

Chris Evert, the defending woman's titlist and second seed, also had a tougher time than expected, surviving a second-set scare before tough 17-year-old Caroline Stoll 6-1, 7-5 to move into the fourth round.

Tracy Austin, the 15-year-old sensation, met Maria Fernandez in a night match.

Borg was playing his second match within 24 hours and he had trouble getting going, losing the first four games of the match to the 23-year-old Mitton. The blond Swede broke back at love and eventually drew even at 4-4, but Mitton held his service and then took the first set when Borg doublefaulted on his third set point.

Borg's usually impressive serve was nowhere in evidence. He committed 10 doublefaults in the match and had similar trouble getting his first service in on other occasions. He had breezed past his first two opponents here in straight sets.

Borg opened the second set with a break, but Mitton came back with one of his own and then held service.

At this point, trailing 3-1, Borg responded like the champion he is. Instead of retreating into a shell, he became the aggressor, hitting his groundstrokes with authority and charging to the net to volley at every opportunity.

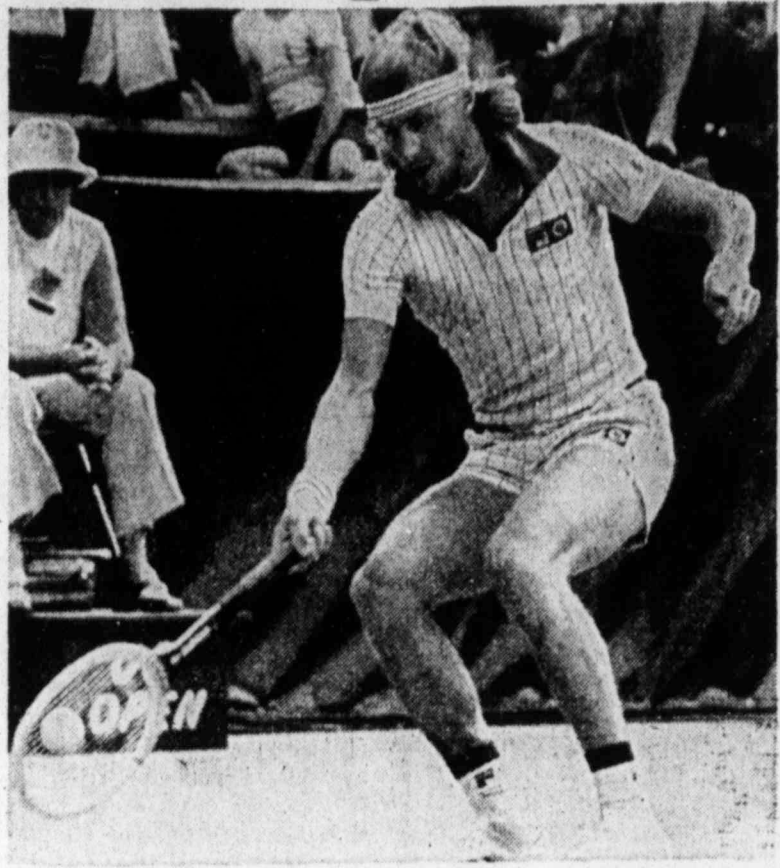

Borg broke through in the ninth game of the set with a smashing overhead and closed it out by winning four points in a row after falling behind 15-40.

After that, Borg was not to be headed. He opened the third set by breaking Mitton's serve at love, then held his own at love to lead 2-0—a run of 12 consecutive points. It was the end for Mitton, who refused to fold but was never able to break Borg's service again.

Thus Borg kept his Grand Slam hopes alive. He won the French Open in May and Wimbledon in June. A victory here and in the Australian Open in December will make him only the third player ever to win tennis' Grand Slam, joining Don Budge and Rod Laver.

Meanwhile, Dibbs blamed his loss on not being able to adjust to the playing surface.

"The courts are tough to get used to," he said after his loss to Teacher. "It's very fast, whereas I've been playing on clay all summer. You've got to take a couple weeks off before this tournament and practice on hard courts. I didn't do that, and that was a big mistake."

Crimson Tide — A Year's Difference?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—What a difference a year makes where the Crimson Tide of Alabama is concerned.

Quarterback Jeff Rutledge, the goat of last year's 31-24 loss to Nebraska when he suffered his only five interceptions of an otherwise brilliant season, got revenge and so did his Alabama teammates as the top-ranked Crimson Tide whipped the 10th-ranked Cornhuskers 20-3 Saturday night.

"The game sure erased any memories of last year," said Rutledge, who scored one touchdown, passed for another, completed five of 13 passes for 54 yards and ran his string to 94 without an interception, breaking Steve Sloan's school record of 91.

"Before the game, when I walked in front of their people, they were saying, 'Throw five more, throw five more.' It was a good feeling to get that award (Rutledge was named the game's outstanding performer) and Alabama, of course, avenged that 1977 defeat, which cost it the national championship. The Crimson Tide has not forgotten last year's controversial runner-up finish to Notre Dame, when the top five teams in The Associated Press college football ratings finished with 11-1 records.

"We're not as good as we were at the end of last year, but we should improve," Bear Bryant said following his 274th career coaching triumph. "I don't know how good we are or how good Nebraska is, but we should improve every week."

However, there appears to be little Alabama can do to improve its defense, which limited Nebraska's powerful runners to 110 yards — I.M. Hipp got only 54, Rick Berns 42 — while Rutledge, Tony Nathan, Billy Jackson Co. rolled up 264.

Defense and a grinding 99-yard second-period march that gave Alabama a 7-3 lead on Rutledge's 4-yard scoring pass to Major Oglivie were the keys to the victory.

Nathan scored on a 2-yard run in the third quarter after Don McNeal intercepted a pass at the Nebraska 39 and Rutledge scored from 3 yards out with 2:17 remaining after Rickey Gilliland recovered a fumble at the Nebraska 3.

"I'm particularly proud of our defense," said Bryant. "Our defense brought them from 31 down to 3."

And that stunned Nebraska, which set a school rushing record a year ago by averaging 294.5 yards per game on the ground.

"I thought we could come in here and score some points, but we didn't," said Coach Tom Osborne. "They played well defensively up front and had good line-backing. They had excellent pursuit and their secondary did well, too. They were tougher than last year. We weren't knocking them back off the line."

Penn State kicked off the 1978 college football season Friday night by squeaking by Temple 10-7 on a 23-yard field goal with 10 seconds remaining in the game.

"That was the best coaching job anybody has ever done against us," said

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno. "Temple played a great football game."

Temple battled mighty Penn State to a scoreless first half. After sophomore Booker Moore scooted 26 yards for a Penn State score late in the third period, the Owls knotted the score 7-7 on a 21-yard pass from quarterback Brian Broomfield to running back Zach Dixon. It staved that way until Matt Bahr, a professional soccer player with one year of college football eligibility remaining, split the uprights from 23 yards out in the waning seconds.

"We were lucky," said Paterno. "Temple defended us well."

Rangers Continue Skid, Lose To Milwaukee 4-3

By The Associated Press
Sal Bando homered for the go-ahead run while Robin Yount drove in one run and another Sunday lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 4-3 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Bando's 16th homer with one out in the fifth inning off Jon Matlack, 12-12, broke a 3-3 tie. The Rangers had tied the game with three runs in the fifth, triggered by singles by John Ellis and Juan Beniquez.

GIANTS 4-3, PHILLIES 1-2
Heily Cruz blooped a two-run single to center field in the eighth inning to give the San Francisco Giants a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and a sweep of a doubleheader.

Left-hander Bob Knepper struck out nine and allowed seven hits, gaining his fourth consecutive victory as the Giants won the opener, 4-1.

CUBS 3-4, ASTROS 2-2
Run-scoring singles by Ivan DeJesus and rookie Scott Thompson highlighted a two-run rally in the sixth inning and helped Chicago to a 4-2 victory and a sweep of a doubleheader with the Houston Astros.

Former Aggies Key Wins For Rams, Redskins

Thomas Blocks Pair Of Kicks As Rams Win In Final Seconds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frank Corral's third field goal, a 46-yarder with seven seconds remaining, rallied the Los Angeles Rams to a 16-14 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in a National Football League opener.

The Rams had blown a 13-0 lead in the final period when the Eagles scored first on a 24-yard pass from quarterback Ron Jaworski to Ken Payne, and then went ahead on a 57-yard scoring punt return by Wall Henry.

Nick Mick-Mayer kicked both conversions to give the Eagles a 14-13 edge with 5:33 left to play.

The Rams, however, got possession at their 12-yard line with less than two minutes to go and drove for a first down to the Eagles 33.

Two plays gained six yards and quarterback Pat Haden then threw the ball out of bounds to stop the clock with 12 seconds to go. Corral then came on and drilled his winning 46-yarder between the uprights with seven seconds showing on the clock.

The Rams built their 13-point margin on 29 and 49-yard field goals by rookie Frank Corral and a touchdown recovery in the end zone by Nolan Cromwell on a blocked punt by former Texas A&M star Pat Thomas.

The Rams' touchdown came with 14 minutes and 13 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter. The Eagles took the ensuing kickoff and drove 80 yards on six plays, with quarterback Ron Jaworski throwing the final 24 to Payne and Nick Mick-Mayer kicking the point to make it 13-7.

Little more than two minutes later, the Rams' Glen Walker punted and Henry, the 170-yard second-year kick returner from UCLA, threaded his way behind excellent downfield blocking for 57 yards and the tying touchdown.

The Rams scored on their first possession, driving for three first downs, the last at the Eagles 15.

Cullen Bryant ran for four and then lost one. Haden threw an incomplete pass, and that brought on Corral, who kicked a 29-yard field goal for a 3-0 Los Angeles lead.

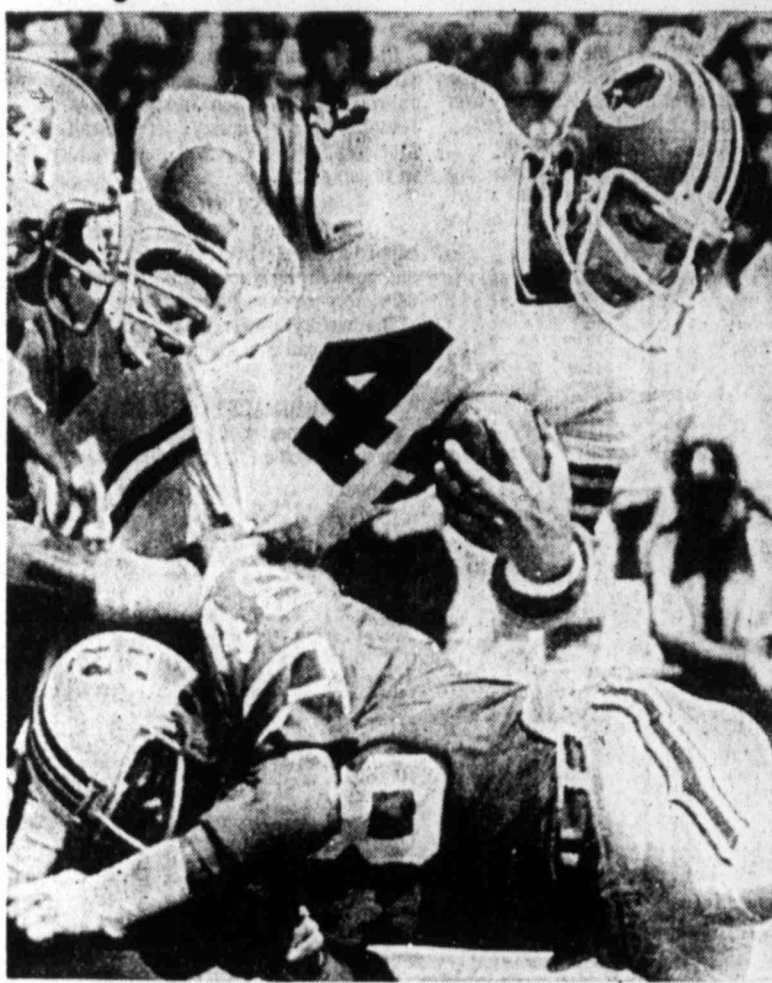

The Eagles started from their 31 after the kickoff, with Wilbert Montgomery running 15 yards for a first down at his 46. Four plays later the Eagles had a first at the Rams' 37.

Mike Hogan gained two and Jaworski completed an eight-yard pass for another first at the 27. But the Rams' defense held and Mike-Mayer tried a 37-yard field goal that was blocked by Thomas.

Brad Dusek Scores With Fumble As Washington Startles Pats

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — "This was a sweet one," said the sudden hero Brad Dusek after the Washington Redskins linebacker shocked the New England Patriots with a winning touchdown run on a fumble recovery.

The 31-yard gallop by Dusek with 2:40 left in the game gave the Redskins a 16-14 upset in the teams' National Football League opener.

"I was playing outside and when I saw the ball hit the ground, I hesitated," Dusek, a former member of the Patriots drafted out of Texas A&M, said after his jaunt with Horace Ivory's bobble.

"I wanted to make sure I could pick it up on the run."
"The only thing we could do was rake it out of his (Ivory's) hands," said defensive tackle Dave Butts, who hit Ivory and caused the fumble with less than three minutes left in the game.

"I don't fault Ivory," said New England coach Chuck Fairbanks. "There was a missed block on the play and he was hit sooner than expected."
Dusek scooped up the fumble and dashed down the left sidelines as the Washington bench erupted.

"I didn't know how we'd win," said Washington coach Jack Pardee, making his Redskins debut. "But better late than never."

Washington capitalized on defensive end Ron McDole's 12th career interception to take a third-quarter lead on the Thiemann-to-Thomas touchdown pass. McDole batted down Grogan's pass at the Patriots' 45-yard line and Thiemann marched the Redskins 55 yards in 11 plays.

Grogan's touchdown pass to Morgan capped an 80-yard drive early in the third quarter as Ivory, substituting for half-back Andy Johnson, and reserve tight end Don Hasselbeck piled up yards.

Jackson, acquired from the Los Angeles Rams to replace Darryl Stingley, who remains paralyzed from a preseason injury, caught four passes for 75 yards in the second half. But Dusek took the game from the Patriots and ruined Ivory's best showing as a professional.

New England had failed to capitalize on two first-half breaks, including the interception by linebacker Steve Nelson and a fumble recovery. Two New England drives stalled at the Washington 23- and 26-yard lines, as Redskins corner back Lamar Parrish picked off the Grogan pass with 20 seconds left in the first half at the Washington 18-yard line.

JETS 33, DOLPHINS 20

NEW YORK (AP) — "Richard loves to throw long and now he has the confidence that he can do it," Wesley Walker said after he hauled in Richard Todd touchdown bombs of 47 and 43 yards to lead the New York Jets to a 33-20 upset of Miami in a National Football league opener.

In all, Todd completed three touchdown passes and Pat Leahy kicked four field goals while Miami, playing without injured No. 1 quarterback Bob Griese, splattered most of the way.

Delvin Williams carried the brunt of the Dolphins' attack, rushing 11 times for 119 of their 154 yards on the ground. He got 58 of them on a second period scoring run. Don Strock, replacing Griese, passed for one yard to Nat Moore for a third period TD and rookie quarterback Guy Benjamin passed five yard Loidar McCreary for a score in the final minute.

"Once you're in the hole, it's hard coming back out," said Strock, referring to 13-0 lead the Jets built early in the second period. "They just kept coming back. We'd score, they'd get a score. We'd score, they'd score again, they didn't do anything out there we didn't expect. They just did it better than we thought they could do it."

Walker caught four passes for 108 yards, including the two bombs that propelled the Jets to their first season-opening victory since 1973. "I knew he'd be open," Todd said. "Maybe I'm just more mature. I could read the defense much better this year. I saw the openings and I went for them."

after the opening kickoff to start a furious first half.

Minnesota came back to tie it on a 7-yard pass from Tarkenton to Young. The Saints went back in front on another scoring sprint by Muncie, this one for 7 yards as the first quarter drew to a close.

Rick Danmeier booted a 44-yard field goal to open the second quarter.

Tony Galbreath scored for the Saints on a 6-yard run. Chuck Foreman got a touchdown for the Vikings on a 1-yard sprint then Rich Szaro booted a 32-yard field goal for the Saints with just three seconds left in the half.

Rookie Ozzie "The Wizard of Oz" Newcome pulled a 33-yard end-around play touchdown out of his hat to spark the Cleveland Browns to a 24-7 victory over the San Francisco 49ers in the season opener for both clubs.

The swift tight end, converted from the wide receiver post he played at the University of Alabama, scored the go-ahead touchdown for the Browns on the deception play that had everyone going to the left while he went to the right.

It was the first victory as a head coach for Rutigliano, who spent 11 years as an NFL assistant coach. With tongue firmly in cheek he said, "It just went the way I planned it, except the toss. We haven't won the toss all year."

Adams directed scoring drives of 55, 76, and 55 after entering the game early in the second period when Livingston suffered a mild concussion.

Cincinnati, trailing 24-9 scored two touchdowns in the last five minutes.

Safety Tommy Myers reced 97 yards with a fourth quarter interception to give the New Orleans Saints a 31-24 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in a National Football League game.

Myers intercepted two other passes during the game, one coming before his touchdown run and the final one coming with a minute left to play, allowing the Saints to run out the clock.

Two more big defensive plays helped save the victory for New Orleans. Maurice Spencer intercepted another pass from Fran Tarkenton in the end zone to thwart a deep Minnesota penetration in the final quarter.

'Promenade' Style Of Presentation Involves Audience In Plays

LONDON (UPI) — In the National Theater's studio auditorium, the audience has to move aside so that Christ can carry His cross to Calvary.

At another play the audience scuttles out of the path of sweeping scythes, swung by chanting men advancing in a remorseless line as if to cut down the spectators like so much wheat.

The Cottesloe Theater is having a "promenade" season.

For two months nearly all its 400 seats have been removed. The audience mills about the acting area, serving as background and sometimes as participants. Actors blend with audience until it is hard to tell which is which.

Some discomfort is involved. People stand for two hours without a break or perch momentarily on anything convenient, including the floor. It is not always possible to see all the action properly. Yet both these plays have returned for repeat runs by public demand.

The outstanding one is "The Passion," a blunt and powerful adaptation of medieval "mystery plays" which were the street theater of 500 years ago.

The other, "Lark Rise," is moving and historic in its own way, an adaptation of books by Flora Thompson which document turn-of-the-century English village life.

What unites them is their "promenade" presentation.

Audiences enter to stand uncertainly in a bare rectangle — no stage, no scenery. When the action begins, you discover the man next to you is not another playgoer but an actor in the play.

The performance happens anywhere. A scene begins in one corner and the audience shuffles back to give it acting room. The next scene begins somewhere else, always taking the enfolding spectators by surprise.

In "Lark Rise" playgoers are pressed into a village tug of war and have a chance to buy flour from a fishmonger's cart. In "The Passion" spectators sometimes catch themselves involuntarily stepping forward to help Mark McManus, who plays Christ, carry his 210-pound cross.

Seen from galleries above, which retain one row of seats for the infirm or lazy, each play looks like that famous main square in Marrakesh — a shifting, shuffling mass forming circles around whatever is interesting, then switching its attention to the next thing. Both productions gain enormous intimacy and immediacy from the close encounters of their unusual presentation. But for "The Passion" this is going back to its roots. The rough-and-ready "mystery plays"

— these are from York — were performed in the 15th century on carts which rolled through city streets from crowd to crowd. The York plays are the most complete of several such cycles preserved in England.

All were performed — and more importantly, were written — by working men, members of craft guilds. The bakers wrote and performed "The Last Supper." The nail maker's guild was responsible for "The Crucifixion."

They wrote, in short, about things they knew, and their everyday language and concentration on down-to-earth detail lends a shuddering realism to scene after scene.

The four rough workmen who crucify Christ bicker about how best to nail Him to the cross.
