Two students from Muleshoe have been named to the Dean's Honor Roll for the fall 1985 semester at Wayland Baptist University.

Those named to the list, along with their classification and grade point average (GPA), were Shelley Denise Sain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Sain, freshman, 3.63 GPA; and Kevin Ray Smith, son of Agnes Smith, junior, 3.53 GPA.

Two members of a Muleshoe area high school football team have been named to the Channel 10 (Amarillo) All-Area Football team.

Among the top 44 players in the area are Lazbuddie's "dynamic duo" of sophomore quarterback Tim Lust and senior wide receiver Paul Gonzales.

Lust threw for 1,656 yards and Gonzales was on the receiving end of 1,126 yards and caught 65 passes which is "an unheard of number of catches for a high school football player," said Kevin Long, Channel 10 sports director.

Betsy Lynn Lunsford, a student attending Angelo State University in San Angelo, is listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for the fall semester at the university.

Lunsford, an undecided major at ASU, is listed on the 3.50 to 4.00 honor roll.

Mrs. Pat Dodson, an August graduate of South Plains College's vocational nursing program, received a perfect score of 800 on her state board exam for licensure as a vocational nurse.

"Mrs. Dodson was notified this past week by the Texas State Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners that she had attained a perfect score on her exam, which is very unusual," said Barbara Bennett, R.N., coordinator and assistant professor of vocational nursing at SPC. Mrs. Dodson is employed at West Plains Medical Center.

MAN AND WOMAN OF THE YEAR--It was a very special occasion for two people at the annual Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Community Banquet last Saturday night. Presented plaques as Man of the Year was Gordon Wilson, left, while Julie Cage, right, received the honor as Woman of the Year.

Farmers 'Question' '86 Farm Program

It was a packed 'house' Monday morning for the annual agriculture and irrigation conference in Muleshoe, as more than 200 area farmers and ranchers attended the meet in an effort to sort out 'government regulations' to find if they can continue farming.

Following a welcome by Lewis Wayne Shafer and brief introductory remarks by Spencer Tanksley, Bailey County Extension agent, Danny Noble, county executive director of the ASC office was first speaker.

He explained what portion of the 1986 Farm Bill that has been released to him to date.

According to Noble's figures, the target price for wheat is $4.38 per bushel and it will be $3.03 for corn and grain sorghum. The corn loan redemption rate will be $1.92 and wheat loan rate will be $2.40.

Noble explained further that wheat will have a requirement of 22.5 percent for its acreage reduction program and a 2.5 percent paid diversion.

The corn program will have an ARP of 17.5 percent and a 2.5 percent paid diversion.

He said target prices will be same as for the 1985 crops at $4.38 per bushel for the wheat and $3.03 for corn.

Neither the cotton or soybean redemption levels have been announced by the USDA, and

 Duo Escape From Jail On Tuesday

Bailey County jailer Connie Bynum was 'roughed up' just a bit, and locked in with other prisoners when two men incarcerated in the Bailey County jail escaped around 5:55 a.m. Tuesday.

Jailer Bynum was feeding breakfast when she was grabbed by one of the escaping duo, who she told officers briefly shut off most of her breathing as he tussled her into the cell block at the jail.

Escapes, who were still at large at presstime included Randy Mack Lackey, 34, who had been jailed a couple of months ago on charges of illegally operating an illicit drug manufacturing operation in western Bailey County and Jose Carrion, 18, who was in jail on a charge of sexual assault on an adult female.

Five other prisoners in the jail, including one female prisoner, who apparently declined to accompany the escapist, helped the jailer yell for help.

Jailer Bynum was discovered by a DPS officer, Lyndon Huckaby, who dropped by the sheriff's office some 35 minutes after the escape, and heard the cries for help.

Lackey was described as being 6-2, 280 pounds, hazel eyes and black hair, balding a little. He was dressed in a light blue, probably western shirt and dark pants. Carrion is described as being 5-4, 120 pounds, and dressed in a blue t-shirt, jeans and a light blue bandana. Lackey also had a beard and mustache.

Searches continued in the area throughout the day by city, county and state officers. Neither suspect had been apprehended late Tuesday afternoon.

Wilson, Cage Received 'Man, Woman Of Year'

From now on, it will be 'Mostly Muleshoe,' as that was the winning slogan chosen to be the official slogan for the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, and local and area residents to boost Muleshoe.

Saturday night, during the annual Chamber of Commerce Community banquet at the Bailey County Civic Center, the slogan was unveiled. It was proposed by the new CofC President, Charles Moraw, who promptly donated his $50 check back to the Chamber.

Bumper stickers and other promotional material have been prepared and are ready at the office of the Muleshoe City Hall, according to Lonnie Adrian, who made the presentation.

Some 220 local and out-of-town guest attended the banquet, and saw unique decorations which included a stagecoach, buggies, surreys, and wagons, along with antique harnessing equipment, old stoves, and kerosene lanterns.

Master of Ceremonies was Max King, with almost all directors taking a part in the program, which was held strictly 'local' and no professional speaker.

Ernest Ramm of the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District announced the Conservation Farmer of the Year. James Wedel, who farms in the West Camp area, utilizing both irrigation and dryland farming methods, and the first to use surge irrigation in the county, was recipient of the honor this year.

Announcing the Farm Family of the Year was Tim McCormick. He said the family lives and farms in the Y-L community, eight and one half miles northeast of Muleshoe.

He produces corn, wheat and potatoes and has 1,000 head of cattle on 1,200 acres of grassland.

Gary and Hollye Hooten and their three children are members of the Muleshoe Church of Christ. Their children are Heather, Amy and Cade.

Using a 'This Is Your Life' approach, Kathryn Taylor presented the Woman of the Year honors. She gave much of the background of the honoree, including the fact that she is the first woman to ever be elected to the school board in Muleshoe, and currently serves as president of the school board.

Julie Cage, who received the honor, is just concluding her first term as a member of the school board and serves on numerous state committees as a member of the board.

She and her husband, J.D. are the parents of two children, Jay and Allie, and are active members of the First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Taylor said, "Julie Cage is a compassionate and caring person."

Keeping a guessing game going, Eddy Morris utilized a multiple choice presentation for the Man of the Year, as he tried to keep everyone guessing as long as possible trying to identify the Man of the Year.

He is a 1955 graduate of Muleshoe High School, married to his school days sweetheart Marilyn and a member of the Muleshoe School Board.

A local businessman, he and his wife are the parents of three

EPILEPSY, AN AGE-OLD PROBLEM, CAN BE CONTROLLED WITH MEDICATION

A person with epilepsy has just applied for a job in my office. He is otherwise qualified. Should I hire him?

As a rule, the answer is yes. Epilepsy can be controlled with medications in the great majority of patients. If the patient regularly visits a physician trained in the treatment of seizures, if he or she takes medications regularly and remains seizure-free for months to years, this person should be acceptable for employment. In fact, certain forms of minor seizures may not adversely affect work performance at all.

People with epilepsy have been the victims of considerable discrimination, but, contrary to the impressions of some, epilepsy does not make a person stupid, insane, unreliable, untrustworthy or "possessed".

However, certain exceptions to employment may arise as a practical matter. A patient with a seizure within the past year may be legally forbidden to drive, which could interfere with some jobs, and people with unpredictable or relatively frequent seizures may not be ideally suited for certain conspicuously hazardous jobs. Generally, however, people who have seizures work with at least the same intelligence and diligence as the rest of the population and within the guidelines suggested above should be equally suitable for employment.

Indeed, epilepsy has been observed as far back as history records and some very famous people have been thought to have had the disorder. They include Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, St. Paul, Napoleon, Dante, Socrates, Tchaikovsky and Alfred Nobel.

Epilepsy is a disorder of the central nervous system characterized by sudden seizures due to abnormal electrical discharges of brain cells. When a person is having a seizure, the brain temporarily loses control over muscles, consciousness, or in certain instances, the senses. One isolated epileptic seizure does not constitute a diagnosis of epilepsy. A person who has epilepsy is susceptible to repetitive seizures.

Researchers don't know what triggers the abnormal electrical discharges that cause seizures or what happens chemically in the brain cells during a seizure. Sometimes no cause can be found for a seizure. In other cases, heredity may be a factor. "Symptomatic" epilepsy, where a cause can be traced, may result from injuries incurred before, during, or after birth; such infectious diseases as meningitis or encephalitis; poor nutrition; childhood diseases; brain tumors, or some poisons.

Close to four million people, or about two percent of Americans, have some form of epilepsy, according to the Epilepsy Foundation of America.

Seizures are classified as "generalized" or "partial" seizures depending on whether consciousness is lost during the spell. The two most common forms of generalized seizures are generalized tonic-clonic (formerly called "grand mal") or absence (formerly called "petit mal") seizures. The generalized tonic-clonic seizure causes abrupt loss of consciousness, tonic or rigid posture, and then clonic, or jerking, movements. The absence seizure causes a momentary lapse of consciousness, which may be mistaken for daydreaming.

Absence seizures primarily affect children. The term petit mal has been abandoned by most neurologists because it had been used to apply to several different types of seizures, and is a less precise term in general use.

Partial seizures are so named because they originate only in one part of the brain, and the manifestations depend on the location or focus where the seizure originates. When a seizure causes such strange feelings as fear or abdominal discomfort, or such automatic movements as lip-smacking, it is called a complex partial seizure. Complex partial seizures have been called "psycho-motor" seizures or "temporal lobe seizures," because they often arise from the temporal lobe of the brain.

If you are with someone who is having a seizure, there are several first-aid measures you can take to aid the person: first, keep calm and don't try to stop the seizure, because you can't once it's started; clear the area around the person of objects that could cause injuries; place a pillow or rolled-up coat or sweater under his head but don't force anything between his teeth unless his mouth is open, in which case you might place a clean handkerchief or other soft object between his side teeth and turn his head to the side to make sure his breathing is not obstructed, but do not be concerned if he seems to stop breathing. Do be concerned, however, if he seems to pass form one seizure into another without gaining consciousness. This is rare, but requires a doctor's help.

Creative Living

with Sheryl Borden

Information on ultimate features in vacuum cleaners, preparing cajun pork chops and learning to live with pain will be presented on "Creative Living" on January 21 and 25. The space age has come to the world of vacuum cleaners. Mary Bernardon, Director of the Hoover Home Institute from North Canton, Ohio will show how electronic technology has provided the ultimate vacuum cleaner. These cleaning marvels feature an electronic information display panel that provides technology at your fingertips.

Joyce Meyer, home economist with the Indiana Pork Producers, Assn. will share a recipe using an old American kitchen stand-by -- the black iron skillet and will do down-home cajun cooking with pork, which is a very versatile meat. Her cajun chops are a spin-off from Louisiana's renowned blackened fish and are quick and easy and can be made as hot and spicy as desired. Joyce is from Indianapolis, Indiana.

If you have chronic pain, can you learn to live with it? Yes, according to guest Dr. Richard Sternbach, a pain management expert from La Jolla, California. Dr. Sternbach has spent his 26-year career in research and clinical treatment of chronic pain. He will offer suggestions about how -- even if you can't get rid of pain -- you can learn to live with it.

Information on Verosol pleated shades and country cooking will be presented on January 23. In the last year or so, we've seen an incredible revival in regional American cooking. Merle Ellis the butcher will talk about a favorite topic of his -- downhome cooking.

Merle will use an old American favorite -- the pressure cooker -- to prepare some delicious country spareribs. He will show how to use the pressure cooker, explain the safety aspects and help us save money at the meat counter by being more resourceful in our shopping. Merle is from San Francisco, CA., and represents the Presto Co.

Another guest is Stan Jankiewicz, Vice-President of Sales and Marketing with Verosol U.S.A. and he will show some ways to make use of Verosol pleated shades. They not only provide an extra touch of class to home decorating, they provide a real service because they also repel dust and save energy. Stan's from Pittsburg, PA.

Another example of down-home country cooking (and another favorite of Merle's) is the Texas Barbeque Pot Roast prepared in the pressure cooker. Today's informal barbeque (from the Spanish barbaoca, meaning a "frame") is a miniature counterpart of the huge outdoor feast popularized by cowboys, campaigning politicians and cattle ranchers in the early days. Texans in particular were famous for roasting great quantities of beef on green wood frames over open fires. During the slow roasting, an equally impressive amount of spicy, tomato-spiced barbeque sauce was used to baste the meat.

TEXAS BARBEQUE POT ROAST

4-4½, eye of round, bottom round, boneless chuck roast or pork loin roast
 ½ cup catsup
 ½ cup apricot preserves
 ¼ cup dark brown sugar
 ¼ cup white vinegar
 ½ cup Teriyaki or Soy sauce
 1 tsp. crushed dry red peppers
 1 tsp. dry mustard
 ¼ tsp. pepper
 1 large onion, sliced
 1½ cups water for beef or 2 cups water for pork

Ingredients listed are for use in a 6-quart pressure cooker. For use in a 4-quart pressure cooker, use a 3-pound roast and cut remaining ingredients in half. Prepare barbeque sauce by mixing together catsup, preserves, brown sugar, vinegar, Teriyaki, red peppers, mustard and pepper. Place roast and barbeque sauce in a large plastic bag, or glass dish. Refrigerate overnight. Place water and cooking rack in pressure cooker. Remove roast from sauce (reserve sauce). Cover rack with one half of the sliced onions. Put roast on onions and cover with remaining onions. Close pressure cooker cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe. Heat pressure cooker over high heat until pressure regulator begins to rock. Adjust heat to maintain a slow steady rocking motion. Cook beef at 15 pounds pressure for the following doneness: 8 to 10 minutes per pound for rare; 10 to 12 minutes for medium; at least 12 to 15 minutes per pound for well-done meat. Cook pork 15 minutes per pound till well done. Let pressure drop of its own accord. Meanwhile, place reserved barbeque sauce in a sauce pan and simmer, until reduced by about one-half, stirring occasionally. Remove roast and keep warm. Discard cooking water or use for making soup. Puree onions in a blender or food processor and add to reduced barbeque sauce. Serve sauce with sliced roast. Makes 8 servings.

children, Danny, Kim and Kendra, and have four grandchildren. Gordon Wilson, the Man of the Year for 1985, has eight brothers and sisters.

A tie created two trophies, when it came time to recognize the Employee of the Year. Taking the monthly employees honored during 1985, a panel had to choose an Employee of the Year.

It was not an easy task, so Dianne Nieman presented double awards -- to Vanda Turnbow-Browning, Southwestern Public Service Co. and Rhonda Carpenter, Adrian Photography.

It was a surprised Jessie Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Holmes, who was presented the Jennyslipper Scholarship by Vivian White. She attended the banquet with her parents because 'they told her she had to.'

Tom Bonds awarded a special award - Citizen Through The Years - plaque to a man who was 'busy helping someone else, and not present to receive his plaque in person.'

Dr. Bonds said the man honored, Glen Williams, had been a resident of Bailey County since the age of 13, and served as county judge for several years; formerly served on the Five Area Telephone Board of Directors, and currently serves as the local officer in the Area Aging Services division for Bailey County.

A published author, he is a Primitive Baptist minister, and on Saturday night during the banquet was performing a wedding ceremony for his granddaughter.

"Thanks for the help, local businesses and individuals" was given by Tub Angeley.

Helping with decorations were the Muleskinners, Jennyslippers, Ambassadors, who also helped serve and the SCAC from Muleshoe High School. Providing food, supplies and services were the Knights of Columbus, cooking; Mike Perez of IGA; Bob Donaldson of Thirteen teams participated in the contest, including two teams from Estacado High School at Lubbock and two teams from Booker High School. One team each from Plains High School, Roosevelt High at Lubbock; Caprock High School at Amarillo and Muleshoe High School.

This first place tie entitles the Muleshoe Computer Team to travel to San Antonio to compete in the third annual TCEA State Problem Solving Contest on February 8.

In the state competition, emphasized will be the importance of cooperation in problem solving. The method of solution and language will not be prescribed, but it is expected that the problems will be most accessible through a general purpose programming language. The primary goal is the number of problems solved correctly.

Farmers Question

speculation continues as to how the redemption will be affecting producers.

Cotton target price is 81 cents, and the loan rate is speculated to be around 55 cents, creating a deficiency of 26 cents.

The ASC executive cautioned farmers that the grazing program will not allow grazing other than the current seven-month program and said cross-compliance will be 'at the secretary's discretion' but will not be the same as it was known in the past. Farmers who plant in one program cannot plant above the existing acreage in another crop.

At presstime, nothing had been released by the USDA on what crops are considered 'non-program' crops and what can be planted on set-aside acres.

According to Noble, to determine the farm 'yield' for future planning the USDA will take a five year average, and where there are no reported crops, the farmer is asked to report at the USDA office, and the county committee will assign a yield where there was none, based on yields on comparable or surrounding farms.

Henry Taylor of the FmHA briefly explained the FmHA loan program and said the FmHA uses actual production figures to determine loans.

The farmer must show a cash flow, he said, and the farmer must show all debts due that year.

He strongly disputed that FmHA plans to 'put all farmers in all states out of business.'

One of the figures he quoted was that FmHA planned to put 300 farmers in Bailey County out of business. "We only have 240 in the county, that we service, and not all of them are in financial trouble," said Taylor.

He said FmHA had many alternatives to help work out the financial troubles of the farmers, and would not know until all the farmers have been in, just who has potential financial troubles. Many of them are listed as being delinquent on very small amounts, he said.

Taylor did say that several county farmers would be receiving notices from the FmHA - "Notice of Adverse Action." These notices will be warnings that the farmer needs to contact

A&M professor suggests retailers change approach to reach anti-shoppers

COLLEGE STATION — Retailers can always attract customers who like to shop, but a Texas A&M University marketing professor and consumer specialist says store owners might increase their business by considering those who don't like shopping.

Dr. James McNeal of Texas A&M's College of Business Administration says these "anti-shoppers" constitute anywhere from 15 to 25 percent of the respondents in most studies which have tried to pinpoint the number of people who, in some instances, hate shopping.

McNeal has some propositions about anti-shoppers developed from shopping behavior research. For instance, he said, anti-shoppers not only don't want to shop, they don't want to change. They also are less likely to be motivated by price changes and are less likely to respond to marketing communications.

Anti-shoppers present significant implications for retailers, including: — it is useless to use price or credit appeals for anti-shoppers or to try to move — shoppers by usual ad appeals.

— personal sales efforts probably will offend an anti-shopper, who's likely to retreat.

— it is important to consider those who shop for anti-shoppers, since anti-shoppers may delegate shopping to others, and to consider allowing for and promoting guaranteed return of undamaged merchandise.

— telephone shopping and home delivery might be the best approach to anti-shoppers.

the FmHA office and work out a solution to their financial difficulties. Again, Taylor was emphatic that the major portion of financially-troubled farmers would be able to work out their problems after visiting the FmHA office.

During the conference that lasted most of the day, the farmers heard about pesticides, miticides, irrigation and continuing rising prices for supplies and services.

One farmer stated, and appeared to echo the thoughts of many of those at the meeting, "I know farming, but I sure don't understand the farm program."

Noble, Taylor and the other officials at the meeting encourage the farmers and ranchers to come into their offices with their questions, and said if they don't know the answer to any of their questions, they will make every attempt to find out for them.

OUR USE OF LEISURE

None of us can make our best contribution to life unless we take care of our physical selves. The right kind of recreation renews the body, mind, and spirit.

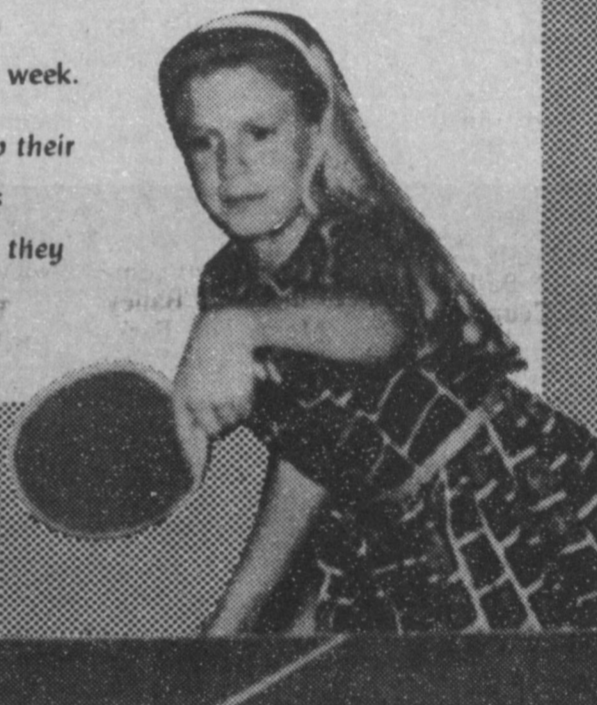

There should be a proper balance and rhythm between work and rest.

Our Lord meant for us to enjoy life and intended no man to punish his body with unrelieved work.

Of course our recreation should be of a kind that would actually re-create our spirits and bodies and make us better able to perform our work.

Part of our leisure time should be spent renewing our spirit by worshipping God in His Church. We invite you to attend services this week.

"But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." Isaiah 40:31.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By April Rhodes

If you are using copper accessories or appliances in your kitchen, use rigid copper tubing for your curtain rods.

Replenish your linen supplies during the January "white sales".

Don't prune rose bushes until February in most areas. In colder climates bushes pruned in fall will suffer from harsh winter weather.

Those of us who added a few pounds during Christmas can take them off easily if we will watch calories and cut down on breads and sweets. Exercise is a must.

Pork is a good buy in cold weather and can be prepared many ways. Always cook pork well done.

Know THE Weather

Is hail usually seen in winter?
 In spite of the fact that hail is frozen rain droplets and that winter is the coldest of the four seasons, more hail is seen in the warmer months than in the winter months.

The why of this seemingly illogical occurrence is simple. In summer we get our boiling thunderheads with their strong updrafts.

The long drizzling spells of winter, lasting several days, usually are caused by stratus clouds.

It is the updraft which sends water droplets soaring upward to be frozen at higher altitudes that makes hail. This vertical cloud movement is more common in summer.

BUGWALLOW--Grandma Box called to tell of the surprise marriage of Bubbles Malone. Bubbles' father died and left her five hundred thousand dollars.

Zero Smathers proposed the day Bubbles' father was buried. Everyone is saying he married her because her father left her the five hundred thousand dollars.

Grandpa Box disagrees. He says Zero would have married her whoever had left her the money.

There's a scandal in Bugwallow. A censor taker called at Goo Goo Blunt's. He was asking personal questions.

He asked Goo Goo if she talked to her husband when making love. Goo Goo said she didn't but couldn't there's a telephone right there on the bedside table!

Her husband Luther is taking up golf at the new course outside of town. He came home when Goo Goo was entertaining and put two tees on the table.

Goo Goo asked what they were. He said: "Teese-- I put my balls on them when I drive." She said that was ridiculous, that it might make holes in the seat!
