

Seven Die In Battle At Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A dispute between Syrian troops and Christian militiamen over the digging of new Christian trenches opposite Syrian positions escalated into a bloody clash today in which police said seven persons were killed and 13 wounded.

A police spokesman said Syrian shelling killed five Christians in the Christian quarters of Ein Rummaneh, Hadath and Baabda, where the presidential palace is located. One Syrian soldier and one guard at the palace also were killed.

The outbreak violated a three-day-old truce both sides pledged to uphold while President Elias Sarkis attended the inauguration of Pope John Paul I in Rome.

Each side accused the other of shooting first. The Syrians, trying to enforce the 22-month-old civil war armistice, claimed Christian gunmen in Ein Rummaneh opened fire when Syrian troops warned them against digging new trenches. A communique said the militiamen killed one Syrian soldier and wounded two others, prompting a Syrian retaliation with rocket launchers and heavy artillery.

The Christian Voice of Lebanon radio station accused the Syrians of an "unprovoked" four-hour barrage.

The Syrians constitute most of the 30,000-man Arab League peacekeeping force that halted the 19-month civil war between Lebanon's right-wing Christians and an alliance of leftist Lebanese Muslims and Palestinian guerrillas in November 1976.

The Christians have refused to disarm their militias because the Palestinians were not disarmed, and the Syrians have been trying this year to bring the Christian enclaves under their control.

President 'Partner' In Mideast Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today prospects for complete success in the coming Mideast summit are "very remote" but that "there is no cause for despair."

Carter left by helicopter shortly after noon for Camp David, where he and the leaders of Israel and Egypt will meet starting Tuesday in what is planned as an isolated, lengthy summit.

Carter, in remarks before departing, said anew that he intends to be "a full partner" in the negotiations, something which Israel has objected to.

Carter said he won't be trying to impose the will of the United States on the other parties, but rather will be offering suggestions in a search for common ground between the two adversaries.

Carter called for flexibility and said if agreement is reached "it will have to be a mutual thing."

He said the other two leaders "genuinely want peace. They are determined to make peace, and so am I."

The president praised their courage in agreeing to his suggestion for a three-way summit where "political consequences of failure may be very severe and when the prospects for complete success are very remote."

Carter said issues dividing Mideast nations are very deep and complicated, and that the region has experienced four wars already.

"There is no cause for excessive optimism, but there is also no cause for despair," he said.

Storms Rumble Into Area Again

Thunderstorms boomed across the western section of the South Plains and in southeastern New Mexico late this morning, following a night that brought flash flood warnings to Southwest Texas.

With the band of precipitation moving to the east and northeast at midday, chances for rain in Lubbock took an upturn. But after the experiences of recent weeks, when the Hub City was missed by most of the heavier thunderstorm activity, not even the weathermen seemed very confident.

Lubbock was the center of South Plains thunderstorms again Sunday, with rain falling in every direction but leaving the Hub City dry.

Texas Tops In Highway Death Toll

Highway carnage in Texas today pushed the nation's highway death toll near the 400 mark entering the final 12 hours of the Labor Day holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council estimated 470 to 570 people could be killed and another 19,000 to 23,000 could suffer disabling injuries during the holiday counting period, which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tonight.

For the third time since the Memorial Day weekend in late May, efforts by state law enforcement agencies to rigidly enforce the 55 mph speed limit on primary highways appeared to have little effect in stemming the bloodshed.

Last year, 469 people lost their lives in Labor Day holiday traffic accidents.

A UPI count at noon showed at least 397 persons had been killed in holiday accidents including traffic smashups, drownings and airplane crashes.

Texas led the nation with 31 persons killed, while California reported 23 fatalities and Wisconsin had 20. Illinois reported 22, Michigan 19, Ohio 16, Florida, Georgia and Pennsylvania each 15, and North Carolina and Arizona with 13 apiece.

Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman Jim Robinson blamed many of the state's deaths on "alcohol and excessive speed."

There is a 20 percent chance of rain here today and Tuesday and a 30 percent chance tonight, weathermen said this morning.

Actually, Lubbock was not completely dry Sunday. It had a trace of rain.

More substantial showers fell around the area, though, with .80 inch at Hereford, .36 at Dimmitt, .34 at Locketville, .88 at Silverton and .62 at Tulia.

Other reports were of .05 at Brownfield and Lamesa, .08 at Levelland, .10 at Littlefield, .04 at Morton, .02 at Muleshoe, .14 at Paducah and traces at Matador and Spur.

South winds heavy with Gulf of Mexico moisture also carried rain into South Texas, where 1.17 fell at Corpus Christi and .76 at Victoria.

"We're loaded with moisture," a Lubbock weatherman said today. "Small disturbances in the upper air that come and go are the main cause of some areas having more rain than others right now. Any heating, along with the disturbance, will activate the thunderstorm potential."

He said the rainstorms are not being caused by a front.

The humidity at 9 a.m. today in Lubbock was 84 percent.

A break in summer-long wilting temperatures has resulted from the cool, but substantially rainless, late summer weather.

It was 83 degrees Sunday in Lubbock and 68 here overnight.

Snyder was the hottest area city Sunday at 92.

ECORSE, Mich. (AP) — An angry motorcyclist who was pelted by beer cans and other debris at a soccer game later opened fire on the crowd, wounding five spectators, authorities said. An 18-year-old man was arrested today in connection with the incident.

Police said the man in custody was a resident of this Detroit suburb, but they would not further identify him.

Three of the wounded were reported in critical condition at Outer Drive Hospital after undergoing surgery for abdominal wounds. Their names were reported as Marco Tinajero, Edward McNamara and Olivia Hinojosa.

Jose Angel, 29, of Lincoln Park and Rafael Ledesma, 43, of Detroit, both were shot in the upper left arms. They were treated at the hospital and then released.

The crowd of 100 spectators at the Ecorse High School field Sunday night scattered amid screams of terror when the gunfire erupted.

"It was just a massacre," said Zoran Zecovic, the referee. "There was a lady with a child in blood, she was in terrible pain."

Police were unsure what type of weapon was used in the incident, which occurred during a match between Club Italia and the Mexican Sport Club, both members of the 19-team Detroit Soccer League

Crash Survivors Slain By Rebels

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Ten survivors of a Rhodesian airliner crash near the Zambian border were gunned down by black nationalist guerrillas after they crawled from the wreckage, the Rhodesian military claimed today.

Eight others were rescued near the wreckage of the Air Rhodesia turboprop that crashed Sunday night with a reported 56 persons aboard in a border zone thick with nationalist guerrillas.

A military spokesman said 10 survivors of the crash had been shot at point blank range.

The eight survivors were said to be in satisfactory condition. Their identities were not immediately released. It was not immediately known how some of the survivors were able to elude the guerrillas.

One early report indicated that a small child was among the survivors, who reportedly had wandered through the bush all night before being rescued.

The aircraft was found by searchers aboard helicopters 16 hours after it crashed in the Urungwe tribal reserve, which is heavily infiltrated by guerrillas of Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African People's Union.

Word of the survivors came two hours after a military spotter plane sighted the wreckage in a hilly range about 10 miles from the Zambian frontier.

Philip Palmer, chief of the Civil Aviation Department's investigating committee, said the survivors were being taken to a hospital in the nearby town of Kariba.

The plane disappeared Sunday afternoon on a flight from Kariba, a resort near the border with Zambia, where Nomo's guerrillas operate. Nothing more was heard after the pilot, Capt. John Hood, 36, radioed that two of his four engines had failed.

Although the pilot radioed five minutes after taking off that his two starboard engines had failed, there was speculation that a guerrilla missile hit the Viscount turboprop.

Air Rhodesia said 50 of the 52 passengers were Rhodesians or South Africans, and they included 11 young children. The two others were a Scottish couple returning from a brief visit to Kariba with the Rhodesian relatives of the woman.

The plane carried a crew of four.

Kariba is a popular resort on the lake formed by the Zambezi River hydroelectric project on the border. The town has been hit by guerrilla rockets several times during the six-year-old war. Last month, guerrillas ambushed an escorted convoy 50 miles from Kariba and killed four persons.

The only confirmed guerrilla attack on a Rhodesian civilian plane was at Victoria Falls, on the Zambian border, in June 1977. A missile was fired from across the border at a small plane on a sightseeing trip. The missile hit a tourist hotel, causing extensive damage.

Rhodesia has an interim government consisting of both white and black leaders, but the regime is opposed by the leaders of black nationalist and guerrilla organizations. They demand immediate ouster of whites from the government and full control of the military by blacks.

Texas Shooters Fast On Draw

HOUSTON (AP) — Two scowling cowboys faced off outside a Houston bar, their quivering hands poised over sixshooters holstered at their sides, apparently ready to slap leather in a duel to the death.

Suddenly, a police car, with its lights and siren blazing, squealed to a halt next to the gunslingers and the officer leaped out, ready for action.

"He took one look, got a disgusted expression on his face, got back in his car shaking his head and drove off," said Bob Graham, grinning ear-to-ear at the recollection. "Someone in the apartments near here saw what we were doing and called the cops to tell them there was a gunfight going on."

What the person saw was competition in the South Texas Fast Draw Championship being held at the Candyman's club in southwest Houston during the Labor Day weekend.

About 20 shooters from Texas and Oklahoma participated in the contest, which was held as part of a charity fund-raising effort for the battle against muscular dystrophy.

The cowboys weren't facing each other, but were standing side-by-side, shooting at timing devices with blanks.

When a light flashed, both would react like striking rattlesnakes, flipping the guns out of their holsters and fanning the hammers. A blink at the wrong time and an observer would miss it all.

The explosion from the blank would break a six-inch balloon held in a waist-level cylinder about eight feet away—if the shot was on target, that is. The breaking balloon stopped a digital timer, recording the instant between light and shot.

"This is a non-violent sport. We never shoot at each other," said Graham, a 46-year-old insurance salesman who is the current Texas fast-draw champion and three-time world champion. His wife, Diane, is the women's state champ.

It takes less than a third of a second for each to draw and fire specially made .45-caliber revolvers, and Graham consistently hits times of a quarter second or less.

"The world record in the Guinness book is .209 seconds," he said. Spectators are always asking him how today's fast guns would fare against the legendary names of the Old West such as Wyatt Earp or Billy the Kid. Graham doesn't think the desperadoes of yesteryear would stand a chance.

"In the old days, the guys would stand there and empty their guns at each other and never hit each other," he said. "Now we have specially made guns and use a highly refined technique. It's like comparing the Indy 500 racers to the Model T Ford."

Protests Staged In U.S., Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Police here and at the White House in Washington broke up almost simultaneous demonstrations today by Americans demanding U.S.-Soviet disarmament.

Soviet police seized four of seven Americans who unfurled a banner and handed out leaflets in Red Square, but released them. Eleven were arrested on the White House lawn. Both groups said they belonged to the War Resisters' League.

In Moscow, two American correspondents and a cameraman covering the protest also were dragged away by police. The newsmen were released after a brief "lecturing," one said. It was not known if the cameraman was freed.

The three newsmen were Charles Bierbauer of American Broadcasting Co., Jim Gallagher of the Chicago Tribune and Kurt Haefle, a West German cameraman for Columbia Broadcasting System.

The seven Americans were identified by a member of the group as Jerry Coffin, 33, a broadcast executive from New York; Craig Simpson, 28, a union organizer from Albuquerque, N.M.; Scott Her-rick, 52, a teacher from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; David McReynolds, 47, a field secretary of the War Resisters' League, New York; Steve Somerfield, 25, a community organizer for the league in Chapel Hill, N.C.; Pat Laceyfield, 25, a journalist from New York; and Norma Becker, 50, a teacher from New York.

"They took us in and lectured us for two minutes saying Red Square isn't the place to do this and then let us go," Gallagher said. "They told us they had no thing against the War Resisters' League."

The American Embassy said the four demonstrators were allowed to return to their hotels after questioning.

The White House demonstrators were arrested by U.S. Park Police and Secret Service agents after unfurling a banner reading: "No nuclear weapons, no nuclear power USA or USSR."

The Secret Service planned to turn them over to Washington metropolitan police.

Vote Slated On Phone Walkout

By CARRIE LINE CURTIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Southwestern Bell Telephone Company here is facing the possibility of a strike by members of the local chapter of the Communications Workers of America.

Sherry Lindsey, president of the local union, said members will take a vote Tuesday night to determine whether the local members wish to strike. She added that the strike vote will be taken regardless of the outcome of a labor union-management dispute in Corpus Christi.

Mrs. Lindsey said that approximately 100 Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Corpus Christi have been suspended in recent weeks for refusing to work enforced overtime.

She said that presidents of local unions in the San Antonio region met last week and found that enforced overtime for union members was occurring in other cities in Texas.

Mrs. Lindsey said that contact would be made Tuesday with the union's District 12 office in Austin to find out what the situation was in Corpus Christi.

The local union president said relations between the company and labor force have been strained recently, contributing to the possibility that local union members will vote to strike against the company.

Mrs. Lindsey said ill will between the company and its labor force locally was increased recently when she and Glenn W. Smith, union vice president, were sus-

Suspect Held In Shooting Spree

Police and spectators said the man who did the shooting was one of two motorcyclists who had ridden their bikes onto a running track that surrounds the field.

They circled the track two or three times, police said, before spectators began hurling things at them, including beer cans.

According to witnesses, the pair rode away at the halftime break after being ordered off the field, but returned in a car with a third man.

One of the three entered the field and began demanding who had thrown the cans.

"We just yelled at them to go away," said Victor Perez, a spectator who was not hurt. "We tried to explain that nobody tried to hit them or anything."

Witnesses said the man shouted to the crowd: "I'll get you for that!"

Then the shooting began.

After firing at least six shots, witnesses said the man ran across the field, scaled a perimeter fence and sped away in the car with the other two men.

"I heard something, but I didn't even realize they were shots until I felt something in my arm and saw blood," said Jose Angel, 29, of Detroit, one of two men treated and released.

"I didn't even know what was happening. I wouldn't even recognize the guy again," Angel said.

DR. LAMB

Confidential Problem

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 27-year-old male with a problem I don't want to take to my family doctor because his nurse has a big mouth and she is present during all of his examinations.

Over a year ago I developed a lump in my left testicle. It seems to be swollen a little. It doesn't hurt much but every so often I get a shooting pain there. It drives me crazy because it is very itchy and it seems to sweat a lot. The left side is wet but the right side is not and there's a red spot over the lump, but that might be from scratching.

I have no unusual discharge and I do not have any troubles with sex. I've had a blood test for V.D. and it came out negative.

I also have to lift heavy objects so maybe it's the strain. I hope it's not cancer. I'll be looking for your advice in the paper.

DEAR READER — Any lump, regardless of where it is, deserves identification and that requires an examination. As long as you've had this lump, I doubt that it's cancer but it's certainly true that a little lump on the testicle can be a sign of cancer of the testicle and cancer of the testicle does occur in young men.

You also could have had inflammation of the epididymus which is the vein, tube and artery area that attaches to the main body of the testicle. Epididymitis can occur as a complication of many different infections. I might add that it can follow gonorrhea.

Your letter makes me wonder if you know everything you need to know about venereal disease. At this time a common blood test is used for syphilis. Syphilis is not associated with a discharge. Gonorrhea is. Gonorrhea is not detected by a blood test, although there is some research work on developing a method to do so.

At the present, gonorrhea is detected only by locating the bacteria in the discharge, so a negative blood test doesn't necessarily mean that you're not carrying around some bacteria that you don't know about. In any case, I feel that you have to see a doctor. If you don't want to see your family doctor, maybe you can find another one.

I have a sympathetic understanding for your problem about the office nurse. Even though your doctor may honor your professional confidence, it's quite true that other personnel around offices do have an opportunity to cause any patient social embarrassment. That's why doctors try to use reliable people who can work in such an environment.

I guess your best bet would be to tell the doctor that you want to see him privately and perhaps he will get the message that you would like to talk without anyone else being present.

I really would like to encourage you to have an examination, though, because you may have a condition that needs treatment.

The prostate gland can be infected in young men, enlarge and obstruct urinary flow in middle-aged to older men and, if you live long enough, may develop cancer. Cancer of the prostate is the third most common cause of cancer deaths in men. It can be cured if detected early enough.

Readers who want more information about the prostate gland can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 1-6. Address your request to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — There are more alligators than people in three southern Louisiana parishes that will be off-limits to gator hunters because the hides can't be exported.

J. Burton Angelle, secretary of the State Wildlife and Fisheries Department, said recently the alligator hunting season planned for next month has been indefinitely postponed.

The reason — international trading rules prohibit trading in the endangered species. And American buyers of the hides have plentiful stocks purchased from Louisiana hunters the last two years.

Officials in Cameron, Calcasieu and Vermilion parishes, where the federal government has permitted strictly controlled hunts since 1975, said their marshlands have been overflowing with an estimated 800,000 of the ugly reptiles.

Bomb Causes Damage To Pope's Lateran Palace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A powerful bomb blew a hole in the gate of Pope John Paul's Lateran Palace early today, four hours after his inauguration as pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church at an open-air Mass in St. Peter's Square.

The explosion also broke windows in the palace, the pope's residence as bishop of Rome, but no one was hurt. The pope was at the papal apartment in the Vatican, three miles away, where he lives.

Ten thousand Italian police guarded the hotels and embassies where foreign delegations to the pope's coronation were staying. A heavy guard was ordered for the Vatican, where the pope was to receive the visitors, including U.S. Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

Police said they believed the attack on the Lateran Palace was the work of extremists who demonstrated in Rome and in St. Peter's Square Sunday against the presence at the papal inaugural of Argentine President Jorge Rafael Videla.

The Lateran Palace adjoins the Basilica of St. John Lateran, the pope's titular basilica as bishop of Rome. The palace is occupied by Cardinal Ugo Poletti, the pope's vicar for Rome, who was awakened by the explosion and inspected the damage.

Investigating officers said passersby saw a young man in a white jacket running away and a French-made car speeding off shortly before the blast. Police said 282 persons, including 30 Argentine exiles opposed to Videla's right-wing military government, were taken into custody after the demonstrations Sunday. All were released later.

The demonstrators scuffled with police and waved banners in St. Peter's Square but did not disrupt the ceremony on the steps of St. Peter's Basilica. The police acted so quickly that most in the crowd of 250,000 did not realize the demonstration was going on. One small group unfurled an anti-Videla streamer. Others raised balloons with posters reading "Videla Executioner" and "Videla Assassin."

Leftists threw firebombs at an Italian cardinal's car near the Vatican after the ceremony and set several cars afire in and around the Piazza Navona, on the other side of the Tiber from the Vatican. No serious injuries were reported.

Like his predecessor, Pope Paul VI, Pope John Paul chose to have his installation on the steps of St. Peter's instead of inside the basilica. But in keeping with the simplicity that has marked his first week as pontiff, he refused to be carried to the ceremony on the portable throne, and the traditional beehive-shaped tiara was replaced by the white wool stole or pallium embroidered with seven crosses that symbolize the pope's role as patriarch of the church.

John Paul radiated warmth, good humor and friendliness as the members of the College of Cardinals approached the papal throne one by one to kneel and kiss his ring in homage. He leaned forward and embraced each one, smiling, gesturing and talking animatedly. TV viewers around the world saw it all. Then the cardinals joined him in concelebrating the inaugural Mass.

In a homily delivered in Latin, Italian and French during the Mass, the new pope said he was thinking not only of Catholics, "but also of all those who endeavor to be disciples of Jesus Christ, to honor that and to work for the good of humanity."

"In this way we greet affectionately and with gratitude the delegations from other churches and ecclesiastical communities present here," he continued. "Brethren not yet in full communion, we turn together to Christ our Saviour, advancing all of us in the holiness in which He wishes us to be and also in the mutual love without which there is no Christianity, preparing the paths of unity in faith."

Sitting in a stand at one side of the altar was the largest group of foreign dignitaries ever to attend a papal inauguration. The Soviet Union was represented for the first time, by Yuri Karlov, the charge d'affaires at the embassy in Rome. Among the 108 countries represented were six other Communist countries with large Catholic populations — Cuba, Yugoslavia, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and East Germany.

It also was the largest turnout of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox leaders for a papal ceremony. More than 30 leaders of other Christian churches sat through the 2½-hour ceremony.

Walter Mondale Meets With Pontiff, Premier

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul I Monday told U.S. Vice President Walter F. Mondale and other leaders of foreign delegations who attended his inauguration that the Vatican has no "miracle solutions" for world problems but is ready to contribute in any way it can "to serve the international community."

Speaking in French at a brief audience in the ornate Sala Reggia of the Apostolic Palace, the new pope also appealed for religious freedom for Christian believers.

"Allow us to count on your willing collaboration," he said. "We wish foremost that the Christian communities always enjoy in your countries the respect and the freedom which any religious conscience is entitled to and that a fair place be made for their contributions in the search for the common good."

After the group audience, Pope John Paul received Mondale separately.

Mondale earlier met with Italian Premier Giulio Andreotti for an hour today and discussed "the strategy of cooperation" between the United States and Italy, the vice president reported.

Mondale, heading the U.S. delegation to the inauguration of Pope John Paul I, said he and the premier touched on such issues as defense cooperation, unemployment, the Italian economy and cultural collaboration.

Mondale praised the Italians for their recent economic progress, particularly in achieving a balance of payments surplus. He said, however, that Italy still has such serious economic problems as high unemployment, a budget deficit larger than anticipated and union contracts up for negotiation.

The vice president termed Andreotti's new three-year economic plan "very strong" and expressed the hope that it would improve the economy greatly. The plan calls for government investment to create new jobs and cuts in government welfare spending to curb inflation.

Speaking about Sunday's papal ceremony in St. Peter's Square, Mondale said: "We were all moved by the magnificence of the ceremony and the quiet, simple, profound and inspiring leadership and presence of His Holiness Pope John Paul I. It is an evening we will remember for the rest of our lives."

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

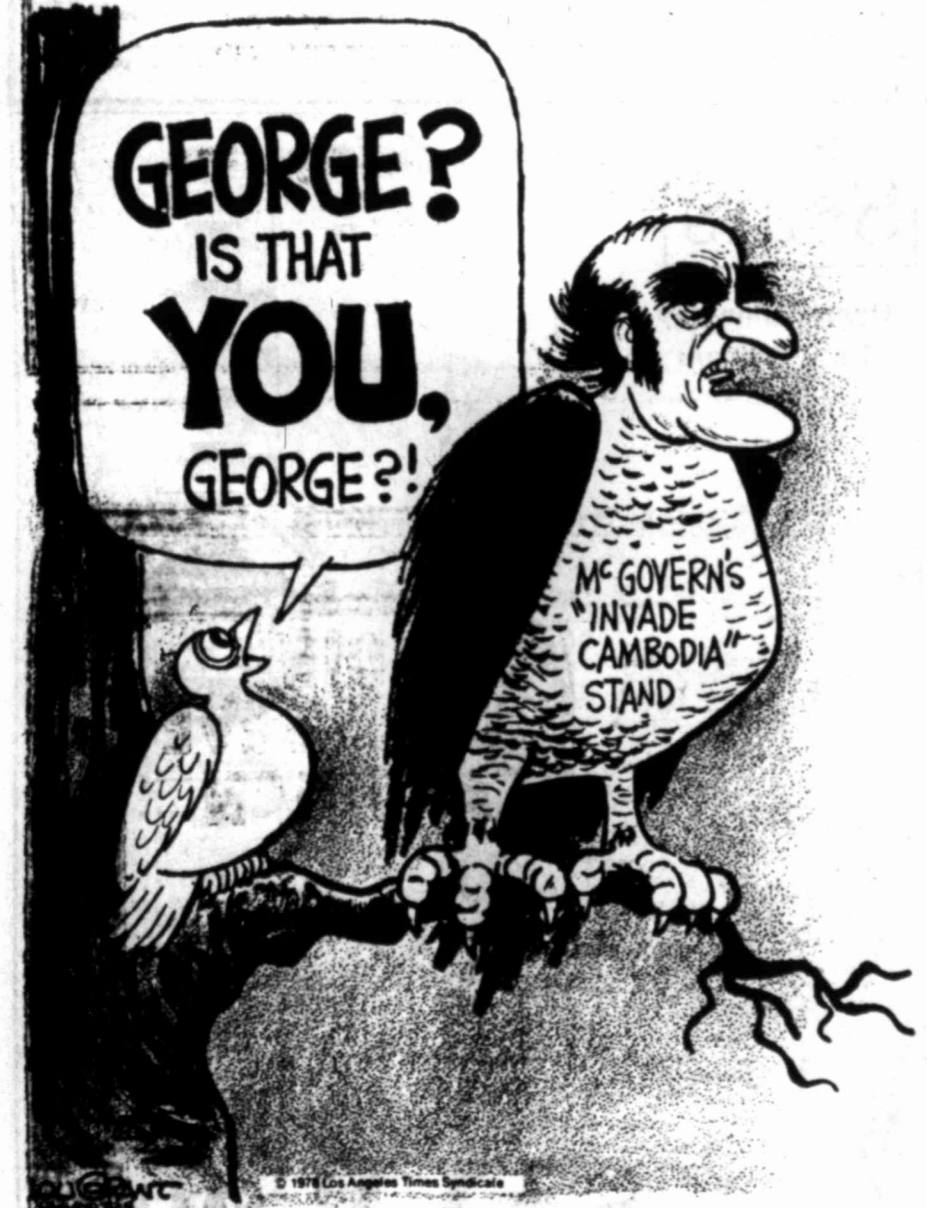

Strangers In The Plight

AS FAR AS most Americans are concerned, the Indochina war ended with the fall of Saigon a little more than three years ago.
But the North Vietnamese triumph turned out to be only a short interlude in the armed hostilities that have raged in Southeast Asia for decades.

Swiss Review of World Affairs. "Chinese capital invested in the region is estimated at $15 billion."
Rising tension between China and Vietnam stems from Hanoi's crackdown on Chinese residents who owned private businesses or who refused to accept Vietnamese citizenship.

THE RAPIDLY deteriorating relations between Vietnam and China should come as no surprise, either. Much of present day Vietnam once was a province of imperial China, and the Vietnamese have never since ceased to be wary of their former conquerors.

CHINA, NOW embarked on a course of economic development, desperately needs the estimated $500 million a year that flows into the country in the form of remittances from overseas Chinese communities.
The displacement of Chinese merchants in Vietnam, Cambodia and other countries can therefore disrupt Peking's development plans to some extent.

Right-To-Life Just Won't Die

WASHINGTON—Minnesota's hotly contested Democratic primary race to fill the remainder of the term of the late Sen. Hubert Humphrey is being closely monitored here as a preview of the impact that the abortion issue could have on the November Congressional elections.
Involved in the Sept. 12 election are Rep. Donald Fraser, the darling of the pro-abortion movement in the U.S., and Robert Short, former Big League baseball club owner, businessman and pro-life supporter.

jurisdiction over the use of foreign aid funds for population control, is in a strategic position to influence population policies not only in the U.S. but throughout the world.
Both sides agree that Fraser is one of the most effective pro-abortion advocates in Congress. Pro-abortion leaders picture him as a lawmaker that "we can always count on."
HELPING FRASER obtain the Democratic senatorial nomination has been given the highest priority in the pro-abortion league's political activities this year.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

A Fond Farewell

ONE OF LUBBOCK'S grandest women, Mrs. Mae Simmons, is moving to Las Vegas Tuesday to make her home with an older sister.
Mrs. Simmons, whose tenure as a teacher and principal of Iles Elementary School here spanned 29 years before her retirement in 1972, has had a positive influence on all who have known her.

"One day, right before Christmas, they called me and I went after him. They had him out front when I got there and I called him to 'come here.'
'He came over to the car and started to get in, but I said, 'Don't you open that door. You've had the last free ride you're going to get from me. You get in front of this car and you walk.'
'Well, I made him walk all the way to school and I never said another word. He went to his class and I went to my office and, you know, he never played hooky again.'

children are handing down rules from Washington. We who've been trained, who love children and who have worked with them know better how to handle them."
As a black woman who grew up in a segregated society, and who found it necessary to go out of state to get her master's degree, Mrs. Simmons might be expected to harbor resentment over racial prejudice.
"But I don't," she says. "Lubbock has been good to me. I have never been kicked around. I have met so many wonderful people. My memories are all good."

John D. Lofton:

What Fools These Mortals Be

WASHINGTON—You can say what you like about Richard Nixon (and you probably already have) but he still retains his delightful ability to induce the hate-Nixon crowd to make absolute asses of themselves.
Consider the following letter to the editor, in its entirety, to the New York Times from one R. H. Hawes of Washington D.C.:

"Now that over 1,500 common everyday substances have been 'determined' (?) to cause cancer, I wonder if licking postage stamps also causes cancer?..."
"Without positive proof that no such risk exists, shouldn't each stamp have a 'cancer warning' on it?..."
Well, rest easy, Mr. Stockwell. James Williams, acting manager of the U.S. Postal Service's Stamp Management Division, Stamps Division, says:

"The adhesive used on stamps is regular corn dextrin or a combined resin-dextrin. Both adhesives, which are found in food or food-related products, have been approved by the Food and Drug Administration."

Sylvia Porter: Trade-In Time May Be Later Than You Think

(First of two columns)
AS YOU DROOL over the new 1979s starting to roll off Detroit's assembly lines, there is no doubt that you'll wonder whether this is or is not the time to trade in your old car.
For as a sophisticated automobile owner, you know that how long you keep your car is one of the key factors in determining what it will cost you. Sell it too soon, you lose money; keep it too long, you may lose, too.
But the blunt fact is that the odds have shifted greatly in favor of keeping your car as long as you can! Your car should last 15 to 20 years, if you care for it properly.

of useful truck life? This had to force a reappraisal.
While cars were smaller, lighter, and usually less well maintained, they obviously were going farther than most of you had previously imagined.
(3) Detroit has been making progress in building its cars. Components are lasting longer, do not have to be repaired or serviced as often. As a result, maintenance costs—while rising in absolute terms—actually are declining as a percentage of total outlays.
(4) Auto analysts are looking more carefully at "scrappage" or "junk" totals. The traditional concept that car registered in one year but not re-registered in the next had been scrapped or junked has been giving a false impression.
What about those 300,000 cars per year stolen and never recovered? They have not just disappeared; most of the cars have been shipped to other countries (South America, South Africa) for resale.

THUS, WHEN A car was sold, the 50,000, 60,000 or 70,000 miles its odometer had recorded would be rolled back to read 20,000, 30,000, or 40,000.
So when the old buggy literally started to fall apart in its 9th, 10th, 11th, or 12th year, with 90,000 or 100,000 miles on its clock, you concluded that the odometer was accurate and that, therefore, most cars would last "only" 100,000 miles.
You did not recognize that when the car was sold—perhaps two or three times—the odometer had been rewound by 10,000 to 40,000 miles.
(2) You began to awaken to the phenomenon that big trucks routinely rolled as many as 100,000 miles a year.
Admittedly, these trucks usually got top maintenance and tender loving care, since they cost $50,000 to $60,000 each to buy new.
And they would undergo major engine overhauls every 150,000 miles or so—and they were made of heavier gauge steel while their components also were of sturdier, heavy-duty stuff than those cars.

OR IF IT is sold, the second owner may drive it less than the original buyer did. "Fleet" cars—and the majority of new cars do go into government or business "fleets," into smaller business car pools, or into other non-personal service—are traded relatively more often than cars bought for personal use.
(The comparison is 5.2 years for cars bought new for personal use against 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 years for fleets.)
In brief, the figures we have been trusting have been misleading, incomplete, or plain wrong.
Tomorrow: Wrong selling decisions.

Italian Paper Questions Use Of Vatican Finances

By HELMI TOROS
ROME (AP) — Italy's leading economic weekly has accused the Vatican bank of helping some of the country's richest people evade the laws against the transfer of capital abroad. It appealed to Pope John Paul I to impose "order and morality" on the church's finances.

In an open letter to the new pope, Paolo Panerai, editor of Il Mondo, said the Vatican's financial dealings included "speculation in unhealthy waters." Il Mondo is published by the Milan daily Corriere della Sera, Italy's largest and one of its most respected newspapers.

"Is it right that the Vatican operates in markets like a speculator?" Panerai wrote. "Is it right that it has a bank whose acts help Italians transfer capital and evade taxes?"

There was no immediate comment from the Vatican.

The editor said the Vatican, "despite reforms by Pope Paul VI, continues to live with a dramatic contradiction in the most temporal manifestation of the earth: money."

Michele Sindona, who was convicted in absence of bank fraud and sentenced to 3 1/2 years in jail, Sindona is fighting extradition from New York.

The paper said the Vatican has extensive investments in gold and stocks in the United States, including shares in General Motors, General Electric, Shell and Gulf Oil, Bethlehem Steel, IBM, TWA and Pan American.

"As for real estate, the Vatican can be considered one of the biggest property holders in the world. In Rome alone, the Holy See owns 5,000 rented apartments, which brings in 3 billion lire, or $4 million dollars, a year."

Last year the independent weekly L'Europeo reported that the Vatican and its religious orders own at least a quarter of Rome's real estate and sells these properties at windfall profits without paying Italian taxes. It also accused the Vatican of turning historic religious buildings into modern hotels and banks.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore

Romano called the L'Europeo report "methodical scandalism" and "anticlericalism" aimed at driving religious institutions out of Rome. It denied the Vatican evades taxes and said it holds property other than churches and religious institutes because of its "developing needs."

Some transactions are made, the paper said, not for speculation but "for functional necessity or for charity."

Vatican finances are secret, but last week the Turin daily La Stampa, quoting "financial experts," estimated the Vatican's wealth in real estate and other investments at between $600 million and $720 million.

The Holy See gives hints of its financial status only by refuting reports that it is rich. In 1970, when published reports put the Vatican's capital investment in and out of Italy at $12 billion dollars, the Vatican said the total actually was under $130 million.

Pope Paul VI often referred to the financial difficulties of the church, brushing aside reports of fabulous Vatican riches. He once said that the church "must be poor and appear poor." And his successor was noted for cost-cutting while patriarch of Venice, authorizing his churches to sell gold to help the handicapped.

"Believe us, Your Holiness, we understand well the exigencies of the Vatican to have financial autonomy to sustain its apparatus, to spread the faith, in addition to pious works. We believe that is right. But don't you think, Your Holiness, that to achieve those objectives there are ways other than the most unscrupulous channels that capitalism offers?"

Panerai said the Vatican is heavily involved in stock and money markets and that the director of its bank, Bishop Paul Marcinkus of Cicero, Ill., "is the only bishop who sits on the board of directors of a lay bank in one of the fiscal paradises of capitalism: the Cisalpine Overseas Bank of Nassau."

Accompanying the open letter was an unsigned report titled "The Wealth of Peter," that claimed Marcinkus also looks after Vatican investments in various parts of the world through the Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago.

The report said the Vatican bank, called the Institute for Religious Works, holds deposits estimated at $2 billion and its 7,000 depositors include "some of the biggest Italian industrialists and businessmen." It did not give any names.

It said these men use the accounts to transfer their holdings abroad in violation of currency laws forbidding transfer of capital earned in Italy.

Il Mondo said the Vatican lost about $50 million in the collapse of the banking empire of fugitive Sicilian financier

Group To Free Fat People

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The Fat Liberation Front has arrived, out to prove that "a fat person is not just a slim person who's gone bad."

Founder Vivian Meyer said Sunday that the FLF, a group of fat women who meet regularly in New Haven for consciousness-raising sessions, will use the politics practiced by feminist groups and civil rights organizations to free fat people from oppression and discrimination.

Miss Meyer, who said during a telephone interview that she is fat, said the FLF will try to revise the way people view fat people and how fat people see themselves.

Miss Meyer said a basic problem fat people have is that they are stereotyped as "gluttons."

"A fat person is not just a slim person who has gone bad, someone who has just overeaten," she said. "Fat people overeat because they are extremely sensitive to environmental cues that stimulate people to eat."

Miss Meyer, a public school teacher, said traditional medicine's handling of the problems of fat people has been incorrect. She said dieting has been unsuccessful for 99 percent of all fat people who try it.

Miss Meyer said the setting of employment weight limits is an example of what fat liberationists consider discrimination.

"Fat people who are very fat know they are going to be turned down. Sometimes it's not said outright, but sometimes it is. That's what's different between us and other oppressed minorities. It's legally justified to deny fat people employment," she said.

Brown Says Tax Revolt Cannot Be Stopped

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. says he can hear the train coming and it won't be stopped. The cargo is a tax rebellion that looms as a major issue in the autumn election campaign. Brown, a tardy passenger who at first opposed California's Proposition 13 but sometimes sounds as though it was his idea, was warning his fellow governors that the voters are going to insist on spending cuts and tax relief. The topic was paramount when the governors held their annual get-together in Boston. One of their responses, sponsored by Brown, was a resolution asking that Washington foot the bill from now on when the federal government initiates programs that cost the states money. The governors agreed that the same rule should apply when states take action that hits municipal treasuries.

the voters are looking for substantial cuts in government.

Assessing the June 6 landslide in which Proposition 13 was approved, Field said his surveys showed the voters convinced that government at all levels is inefficient and wasteful. "It seems clear that Proposition 13 presages similar types of action in other states because it represents a middle-class reaction to the impact of the continuing steady decline of the dollar coupled with an increasing proportion of income going to pay for government services," Field writes.

In the Journal "Public Opinion," published by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, Field says the voters would like to see some people fired from government jobs.

"There were clear signs that the public wanted to see large-scale cutbacks in government services, some well-paid bureaucrats out of jobs, and visible demonstrations that waste was being eliminated from government spending," he says. "Nothing would have suited voters more than to see some well-paid bureaucrats lined up at the unemployment window."

Field writes that there is considerable evidence to support the idea that California was only the beginning of a nationwide reaction against high taxes. "The antennae of most politicians, irrespective of partisanship or ideology, are sensing that the mood of the nation's voters is anti-tax, anti-government and anti-inflation," he says.

Field suggests that this could have an impact "on all of the liberal social programs inaugurated under FDR in the 1930s and continuing through LBJ's Great Society era of the 1960s." He describes it as a supply and demand situation.

"During the past decade, politicians have tended to respond mostly to the demand side of the government services market equation," he says. "These are the large groups of people who have been able to muster convincing pressure on the politicians for programs that they need."

"On the other side of the equation, the supply side, taxpayers have until now had a much harder time making a concerted stand against increasing tax burdens."

But the balance may be changing. "Proposition 13 has shown the power of aroused taxpayers, and there could very well be a fundamental shift," Field says, in which politicians will cater to the people who supply the taxes at the expense of those who need government services and receive government benefits.

Analysis

Of course the money has to come from the taxpayer in the end, be it through the property taxes that Californians ordered cut, or from state or federal taxes. Shifting the bills may not be much of an answer to the sentiments that surfaced in Proposition 13.

Mervin D. Field, a veteran public opinion analyst in California, suggests that

Farmers Union Boss Criticizes Missile Plan

DENVER (UPI)—The president of the Rocky Mountain Farmers Union says a new proposed missile system for the United States, which could wipe out thousands of acres of prime agricultural land, sounds like something out of a science fiction story.

John Stencel made the comment in a statement highly critical of the new proposal which could affect as many as eight states, including Colorado. Actual site selection for the new system would not begin until 1981.

"On first impression, many people in that area (of northeast Colorado) think this is some type of science fiction story," said Stencel. "But apparently the military is taking this proposal very seriously."

"We have many members in that area who are understandably worried about the possibility that they may be forced from their farms in order to make way for some unjustifiable missile system. We don't feel the military has any right to come in and tell these people, 'Get off your farm, we need the land.'"

The proposed MX: Milestone II would use a type of shellgame tactic to deceive military opponents. The proposed system would employ a series of underground tunnels with the missiles moving constantly through them.

Eight eastern Colorado counties are under consideration for the new missile system. Other states being considered are California, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Kansas, Nebraska and Texas.

The Colorado area includes Logan, Yuma, Sedgewick, Morgan, Phillips, Washington, Lincoln and Kit Carson counties.

One proposal calls for many underground silos to be built with some containing "dummy" missiles and others housing nuclear armaments.

Stencel said he also was disturbed because public hearings on the proposed missile system have not been scheduled for the area. He said he has sent a message to the deputy of energy safety in the Air Force asking for hearings to be held in northeast Colorado.

"If no hearing is scheduled, why not?" Stencel asked. "This is a serious question indeed, as the livelihood of many people is at stake."

Population Of Autos Exceeds Road Miles

WASHINGTON (AP)—If there seem to be just too many cars on the roads today, it's undoubtedly because the nation's miles of roadway are not keeping pace with increased traffic, says the Road Information Program.

The information service reports there are 1.8 million miles of paved roads in the United States, an increase of 16 percent since 1968.

But cars, trucks and buses have increased 43 percent during the same 10 years, from 101 million to 144 million, it adds.

"It was just a massacre. There was a lady with a child in blood, she was in terrible pain." — ZORAN ZECEVIC, the referee in a soccer game that was disrupted Sunday in Ecorse, Mich., after an angry motorcyclist who opened fire on the crowd wounded five spectators, after he was pelted by beer cans and other debris. Three of the wounded were hospitalized in critical condition.

Mayor Records Advice

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mayor Charles Wheeler is giving all the amateur political consultants in town a chance to advise him of the wisdom of seeking a third mayoral term in 1979.

By calling a private phone line the mayor has installed, you can tell him, via tape recorded message, whether you think he should try to break the two-term tradition generally observed by Kansas City mayors.

And Wheeler, who is in his second four-year term as mayor, says he will give considerable weight to the advice.

"I'll give a lot of credence to it, if it is devoid of profanity," he said.

Salyut Crew Returns

MOSCOW (AP) — The "international crew" that was aboard the Soviet Salyut 6 space lab has returned to Earth, landing in the southern Soviet republic of Kazakhstan.

The Soviet news agency Tass called the nine-day flight of Sigmund Jaehn, East Germany's first cosmonaut, and Valery Bykovsky, his Soviet flight commander, "a complete success" with the landing on Sunday going according to plan.

Their Russian hosts, who have been aboard Salyut 6 for nearly 12 weeks, watched them disappear through the hatch into the Soyuz 29 spacecraft that took them back to Earth. The departure was shown on Soviet television.

"It's sad to see you go," said commander Vladimir Kovalenok who remained on Salyut 6 with aide Alexander Ivanchenko.

Jaehn and Bykovsky were launched Aug. 26 aboard the Soyuz 31 space craft, which they left docked to Salyut 6 for use by Kovalenok and Ivanchenko when they return to Earth.

It was the third international flight in the Soviet Intercosmos program. Cosmonauts from Czechoslovakia and Poland accompanied by Soviet flight commanders made earlier flights, spending about a week each in space, and men from other Soviet bloc countries, including Cuba and Mongolia, are being trained.

Cleaver Now Packing Bible

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eldridge Cleaver, the former militant Black Panther fugitive, packed a Bible instead of a gun when he returned to Will Rogers Park in Watts after a 10-year absence.

"I used to carry a gun ... ready to take 'em with me," Cleaver told a crowd of about 500 people Saturday at opening ceremonies for the second annual Gospel Watts Happening Celebration. "But I'm not worried about it anymore. They're coming anyway."

Cleaver, now 42 and graying, was a fiery revolutionary when he fled the country in 1968 to escape a shooting-incident trial in Oakland.

But he turned to Christianity as he became disillusioned with radicalism and communism during his seven years of exile in Cuba, Algeria and France. On his return, he spent seven months in prison and launched his ministry.

"I wanted to get away from that philosophy, but I didn't know where to turn," he said. "Then I found Jesus Christ ... and I'll never let him go."

Kauzov's mother, Maria, who has been a little more friendly to the press, confirmed that the 27-year-old Greek shipping heiress had flown to the Finnish capital, the nearest Western capital to Moscow and a popular shopping center for Moscow's foreign community.

Short Campaign Stop

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — First lady Rosalynn Carter came to Tennessee on Sunday, but stayed only 13 minutes, chatted with only one politician and made do with a wave to several officials.

Mrs. Carter was changing planes at the Chattanooga airport en route from Calhoun, Ga., to San Antonio. She had visited her son, Jack, in Calhoun, which is about 50 miles south of Chattanooga.

She got to the airport at 7:16 p.m., waved to a crowd of about 30 people and chatted with Democratic U.S. Senate nominee Jane Eskind.

Mrs. Carter's government DC-9 left Chattanooga at 7:29 p.m.

Lofty Crocodile

DETROIT (AP) — Leapin' lizards! A flying crocodile? That's what it looked like at the Detroit Zoo, where keepers arriving for work at the Holden Museum of Living Reptiles twice have been startled to find their 7-foot female crocodile perched on a ledge some five feet above her pool.

"You go to sweep up the peanut shucks, and there's a big croc where it isn't supposed to be," said zoo education curator Bill Austin.

Austin said crocodiles and alligators have been known to use their powerful tails to propel themselves out of water, but this seemed to be a record. A video tape camera was set up to try to catch her nighttime flights.

Sure enough, the tape showed the creature taking a leap worthy of a reptilian Olympic record, flailing her tail at the water to leap up to her favorite perch.

Zoo officials have installed a barrier to keep the croc in her pool and have decided to find her a suitable mate.

Pageant Activities Underway

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Miss Pennsylvania's interested in parapsychology. Miss Vermont's on a crusade for homosexual rights and Miss Kansas is gearing up to run for the presidency. But they all want to be Miss America.

Fifty hopefuls today begin a hectic week of rehearsals, news conferences and briefings to prepare for the annual pageant that will end Saturday night with the selection of America's reigning beauty queen.

NBC hopes the two-hour spectacle at the Convention Hall will top the ratings. Last year's competition lost heavily to ABC's "Roots."

"We lost ground last year," said pageant director Albert Marks Jr. "but I don't think if we lost ground one year that establishes a pattern."

Miss Pennsylvania, Charmaine Kowalski, 22, of State College, wants to be a doctor who treats both psychological and physiological symptoms.

She also said Sunday she has premonitions — in at least one dream, she was crowned Miss America, and in another she envisioned a room at the Hershey Medical Center. A few months later she was in the same room.

"I couldn't believe it, but there are volumes of cases of telepathic dreams. We are coming closer and closer to breakthroughs in areas that were thought of as nonscientific," she said.

Miss Vermont, Lisa Volkert, a 23-year-old aspiring actress from Middlebury, wants more freedom for homosexuals.

"Some of my best friends are gay and I wouldn't think of putting them down. They are super people," Miss Volkert said. "I think before people put them down, they should get to know some of them."

Miss Kansas, Lori Ann Bergen, 20, of Salina, said she wants to run for president in 15 years.

Miss California, Christine Acton, 23, of Chula Vista, said if it weren't for the pageant she would be unemployed. Proposition 13 wiped out her job as a music-camp counselor.

Earthquake Causes No Damage

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A small earthquake that shook the western part of San Bernardino County apparently caused no damage or injuries, authorities said.

Carl Johnson, a seismologist for the California Institute of Technology, said the quake Sunday was centered six miles south of Ontario and registered 3.5 on the Richter scale. The tremor struck at 11:11 a.m. PDT (1:11 p.m. CDT).

Reports of the tremor were received from as far as La Puente to the west, Anaheim to the southwest and Riverside to the east.

But Ontario police and San Bernardino sheriff's deputies said they had received no reports of damage or injuries.

U.S. Climbing Expedition To Begin Final Assault

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The American expedition trying to climb 28,250-foot K2 in the Pakistani Himalayas has established its takeoff camp at 26,503 feet and is all set for the final assault on the world's second tallest peak, according to information received today.

The 13 Americans — 11 men and two women — led by Jim Whittaker of Seattle, Wash., have "crossed most of the hurdles on their way to the peak," one report from the mountaineers said.

Five men and one woman were reported to have reached the camp at 26,503 feet. Their names were not reported, but all or some of them were expected to attempt the climb to the summit.

Weather conditions were reported good, and ample supplies were reported at all the camps.

K2, considered by many mountaineers to be the most difficult and dangerous climb in the world, was first conquered in 1954 by an Italian team.

Four other American expeditions have tried to climb it and failed. One led by Whittaker, in 1975, abandoned the climb at 22,000 feet after severe snowstorms, high winds, illness among the climbers and a strike by the porters.

A British attempt on the mountain earlier this summer was abandoned after one of the climbers was killed.

14-Year-Old Girl Reports Sexual Assault To Local Police Officers

A 14-year-old Lubbock girl told police she was raped by two black males while at a friend's house about 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

The girl said she was in the hallway of the East Lubbock residence, and her friend was in another part of the house, when she heard one of the suspects say, "Let's go rape her."

Police were told the girl was grabbed by one of the suspects, dragged into a bedroom and thrown on a mattress where she was raped.

The teenager said that after the initial rape, the other suspect came into the room and sexually assaulted her.

Reports show the girl was taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital where she was treated and released.

The girl described her attackers as in their mid-to late teens. Police juvenile authorities said they had made no arrests by this morning.

In one of two recent shootings, a 35-year-old Lorenzo man was rushed to West Texas Hospital after being wounded about 2 a.m. today in front of a club at Broadway Street and Teak Avenue.

The victim, Francisco G. Ortiz, who was in satisfactory condition this morning at West Texas, said he was shot in the stomach by a man he had had past disputes with.

There had been no arrests early today. A 62-year-old Lubbock man was taken to St. Mary's Hospital Sunday afternoon with a gunshot wound in the head.

Answering a family disturbance call, police found Jesus Flores sitting on the front porch of a residence in the 2100-block of Duke Street bleeding from a head wound.

City Chamber Fete Slated For Thursday

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce monthly Breakfast Club meetings will resume this month with the annual football season kickoff at 7 a.m. Thursday in the Civic Center banquet hall.

Mayor Dirk West and City Councilman Bill McAlister will serve as emcees for the giant breakfast football rally, which is open to the public. Reservations may be made by calling the chamber at 763-4666.

Texas Tech head football coach Rex Dockery, his coaching staff and players will be featured guests. Also representing the Red Raiders will be the Tech cheerleaders, the Saddle Tramps, Tech twirlers and Raider Red.

Miniature footballs will be thrown into the crowd at the beginning of the program, courtesy of Southwestern Public Service, sponsors of this month's breakfast.

Special guests will be local high school football coaches and players. The head coach from each of the five public high schools, Christ the King and Lubbock Christian high schools will give a scouting report for the upcoming season.

Leslie Ann Thurman, Miss Lubbock, also is scheduled to be on the program. Bob McKinsey will provide organ music for the breakfast.

One of the highlights of the annual football season kickoff is the appearance of the Women's Division pom-pom squad, who will lead the crowd in several cheers.

Solar-Heat Project Finished In Canada

AYLMER, Ont. (AP) — Construction of a $760,000 solar-heated apartment building for the elderly has been completed and its first tenants are expected to move in next month, government officials said.

Water is heated by solar-collector panels and pumped through the building, its radiating warmth blown into rooms by fans. Just in case, there is an electrical back-up system. The Housing Ministry selected the Aylmer project after considering proposals from 150 communities.

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Blankenship of 5620 75th St. on the birth of a son weighing 7 pounds 11 1/2 ounces at 2:49 a.m. Saturday in Methodist Hospital.

Following the 4:30 p.m. incident, Gonzales, of 2101 Emory Emory St., was taken to the hospital where he was listed in satisfactory condition today.

Johnny Rodriguez of Slaton told sheriff's deputies $200 in cash, five guns totaling $385 and $275 worth of clothing were stolen from his home while he and his family were out of town between 10:30 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday.

Deputies also investigated Ruby Joyce Barnes' complaint that she was shot at about 9 p.m. Saturday while driving on FM 40. Mrs. Barnes, of Rt. 1, Box 57, Lubbock, said the shot shattered her vehicle's right window and caused her to run into a ditch.

A man later told authorities his 12-year-old son had done the shooting with a B-B gun as the result of a dare made by some of the boy's friends. No charges were filed.

Mike Ray Yeager said his room at the Travelodge, 714 Ave. Q, was burglarized between 11:45 a.m. and 8:15 p.m. Sunday and a television set, guitar and tape recorder stolen. Yeager estimated his loss at $550.

At least two men and one woman took their lumps — literally and figuratively — this weekend, as a trio of local women made names for themselves amid the usually male-dominated crime reports at the police department.

Belinda Johnson, 17, of 2105 E. Fourth St. told officers she was at a club near East 18th Street and Quirt Avenue early Saturday when a woman came in looking for her.

After a brief scuffle the antagonists moved to the parking lot, reports indicated, where the unidentified woman produced a switchblade knife and cut the teenager on the throat and chest.

The victim was taken to a local hospital for treatment, but the wounds were not believed serious.

Four blocks away, at East 14th Street and Quirt Avenue, police were flagged down following another assault.

Mitzi Ann Manahan of 2633 E. Auburn St. said someone hit her in the eye early Sunday with some type of bottle. The identity of her assailant was unknown Sunday.

A New Mexico man said a woman accompanied him to a bedroom at a South Lubbock motel early Sunday, then quietly slipped off later, leaving the out-of-state visitor's discarded pants empty of a wallet and $900 cash.

The woman, believed to be 26 to 35 years old, stole away in a 1973 Ford, police said.

The same type of pinch wasn't quite as bad for a 66-year-old retired Lubbock man Sunday, but it hurt nonetheless.

The elderly victim said he'd been invited to a woman's apartment in near north-east Lubbock, and he admitted the group there had been drinking. However, the complainant said he was not intoxicated when a 45-year-old female suspect snatched his $165.

Police gave a 56-year-old Lubbock machinist a "lift" to the county jail just after midnight Sunday, after the suspect had given a "boost" to another man's battery.

Officers said they saw the suspect leave a club in the 1800-block of Broadway early Sunday, then sort through some items in the trunk of his own vehicle before walking to a car nearby.

Sometime later, when the man returned, he allegedly deposited a car battery in his trunk — an item allegedly "boosted" from a 1974 Nova.

After one officer requested a backup, police closed in on the suspect. Officers also allegedly found a pistol on the seat of the getaway car. Meanwhile, police found the Nova nearby sans battery. The suspect was booked on suspicion of theft and unlawfully carrying a weapon.

While the burglary itself may have been small potatoes, it will cost George Georgopoulos of 2836 65th St. an estimated $110, after break-in artists struck his business Sunday at 1710 Southeast Drive.

The victim said inside men smashed a $100 window during the break-in, then made off with about $10 worth of potato chips.

Another businessman, William Estes, fared even worse after burglars hit his 5231 34th St. business Sunday and made off with a copying machine and two calculators, valued together at $1,135.

Robert Jaggers said miscreants entered a bar at 2408 Fourth St. Sunday and jimmed their way into a foosball machine. Eighty-five dollars worth of stolen coins and damage later, the burglars left, Jaggers said.

Sound equipment remains popular to Lubbock thieves and several homeowners reported recent stereo and tape player losses.

Marvin Jones of 2005 Ninth St. said he lost two tape players, a camera and a shotgun to burglars Sunday — a haul he estimated at more than $500.

Fast-working burglars gathered up about $1,100 worth of Mark Baldwin's sound equipment and other property after breaking into his residence Saturday or Sunday at 2215 Main St.

Eric Vasquez of San Angelo unwittingly contributed a citizen's band radio, a tape player and a pistol to local thieves recently, after the $335 worth of property was stolen from his vehicle.

Arthur Morman, of 5409 15th St., was out $400 after thieves took his shotgun and several tapes from his truck recently, while it was parked near 39th Street and Quirt Avenue.

A $475 radio was what thieves were after when they broke into David Hale's vehicle Saturday, as the Morton resident shopped at South Plains Mall.

Rings valued at $856 were taken in the past two weeks from Natividad Esqueda's 111 Ave. O residence.

Reporting stolen bicycles recently were Perry Mason of 5421 26th St.; Antonio Martinez of 3313 E. Baylor St. (two stolen); Elmer Brixey of 2107 Fifth St., and James Stabler of 2521 Second St.

Paul Arredondo of 2411 Baylor St. reported the theft of his $500 stereo recently, while service station owner Roy Mathis said someone broke into his business at 2602 50th St. recently and took two money sacks and five radial tires. He estimated his loss at $700.

Though nothing was thought to be missing following a recent break-in at Keith Beard's business at 3602 Slide Rd., damage to a window was estimated at $500.

Two shotguns, valued together at $425, were stolen from Ronald Moriarty's Jeep while it was parked at 2738 68th St. this weekend.

New Carter Aide Wants Women's Views Heard

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Sarah Weddington, President Carter's newly named adviser on women's issues, said here Sunday her main goal in her new job will be to involve women in every aspect of White House decision making.

Mrs. Weddington, in Lubbock visiting her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Doyle Ragle, said she wants coordination between her office and other presidential offices so that women's viewpoints can be presented before any decisions are made.

"My overall goal is including women in the mainstream of everything that happens in the White House," she said, adding President Carter had indicated his willingness to establish those "formal lines of communication" which would be needed.

A former Texas legislator from Austin and general counsel of the Department of Agriculture, Mrs. Weddington, 33, was named Thursday as Carter's women's adviser.

Although she said she has not yet formulated all the priorities for her new job, she already has decided how she will set those priorities.

She plans meetings with other senior White House staff members in the coming week to determine "how our office can best interrelate with theirs and what issues they think should be covered that are not currently being covered."

She also said she will visit with women's groups and the Carters "to see how they see it (the job)."

Discussions with first lady Rosalynn Carter will begin today when Mrs. Weddington meets Mrs. Carter in Houston for a flight back to Washington, D.C.

"One of the things I really look forward to is working with Rosalynn Carter," Mrs. Weddington said. "She really has a solid core and caring about the issues that has not come through in the past."

"I think she will be one of my strongest allies," Mrs. Carter, who called Mrs. Weddington to ask her to interview for the White House job, should provide an added dimension to the women's issues post while working with Mrs. Weddington.

"The combination of her wife, family, supporting partner role with my background as a woman businessperson, politician and professional...should really make effective our representation of a broad scope of women in the country," Mrs. Weddington said.

Ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment is "certain to be one of those priorities" of her job, Mrs. Weddington said, because the Carter family strongly backs the amendment's passage.

And the first order of business in getting the ERA passed is convincing the Senate to extend the ratification period for the amendment.

"The ERA's still got a good chance of passage, but it's an uphill struggle," she said, adding she's optimistic that the Senate will approve the extension.

"Nobody thought it would get out of House committee and it did. Nobody thought it would pass the House and it did," she said. "A lot are saying it doesn't have a chance in the Senate. It does have a chance but it will take a lot of hard work."

Mrs. Weddington admitted the ERA is largely symbolic "in the sense of adopting the principle that we as the American public believe women and men should not be treated differently based on their sex."

However, she said some substantive changes would result from the amendment's passage such as requiring Congress and all other employers to comply with equal employment standards.

Soft-spoken, Mrs. Weddington seems almost the opposite of her predecessor, Midge Costanza who resigned July 31.

A somewhat abrasive New Englander, Miss Costanza felt no compunction about publicly airing her differences with President Carter and his staff.

Carter will have no such difficulties with his new women's issues adviser.

"It's only natural to have loyalty to your boss and it's only natural to try to work out problems within and not broadcast them," she said.

"Any successful work arrangement has to have some of those elements."

Already Mrs. Weddington and Carter are at odds on abortion — he's against it and she's for it.

"We're going to have to work things out," she said, "but my basic feeling is that I be able to argue within the White House for my position — not publicly."

"There has to be one person to make a final decision and it's appropriate that it's the president, especially if you're talking about presidential policy," Mrs. Weddington said.

Part of her advisory job involves selling the Carter administration record on women's rights and Mrs. Weddington doesn't find that difficult.

"President Carter has done more than any other president in terms of appointments," she said ticking off the women Carter has appointed.

"There have been five women cabinet members in history. Two of them are serving now," she said. In the 11 cabinet-level departments, five have general counsels who are women.

Carter also has named the first woman to the Securities and Exchange Commission and named a woman to the Federal Reserve Board.

"Certainly more can be done that he's willing to do and part of my responsibility will be to provide names for nomination to bring women into every aspect of government," she said.

"I hope I can be helpful both in spotlighting what has been done and suggesting ways to even improve on the record," Mrs. Weddington added.

When talking about women's issues, Mrs. Weddington said she's "talking about the widest range of choices for every woman and man too."

"If a person chooses to be a wife and mother, she should be honored and respected for that choice. If she chooses to be a professional, she should have the widest range of professional categories, salary ranges and management positions available," she said.

How did Sarah Weddington at 33 become a White House adviser?

"One of my bosses told me, when you are tomorrow depends on who you meet on the way to work today. More than anything else it's a matter of how you deal with people," she said.

"I'm convinced the reason I've had all my opportunities is that people recommended me. I never thought I'd go to Washington until John White (National Democratic Party chairman) called me and asked if I would interview for that job (general counsel for the agriculture department)."

"I didn't apply for this job. Mrs. Carter called me and asked if I would come and interview," she said.

But Mrs. Weddington's ultimate ambitions lie in her home state of Texas. "Eventually I'd like to be involved in state politics. I like living in Texas, especially in Austin."

Although she refuses to speculate what office she might seek upon her return to Texas, Mrs. Weddington admitted she once seriously contemplated running for state Attorney General.

Tech, Station Offer Television Courses

By CANDY SAGON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Watching television could be your ticket to a college education.

Beginning this week, South Plains residents can enroll in a new, innovative learning program being offered for the first time by Texas Tech University and KTXU-TV Ch. 5.

Called Television for Learning, residents from high school age to senior citizens will be able to earn college credit by watching televised courses in the comfort of their homes.

The program uses both televised lectures and popular TV series, such as "Roots" and "The Adams Chronicles," as teaching tools. The day's lesson is broadcast in 30 minute or one-hour segments during the week and then repeated in a 2 1/2 to 3-hour broadcast on the weekend for those who may have missed a lecture or who want to hear it again.

Students who have questions about any of the material can call the Texas Tech instructor for the course for assistance. They also are encouraged to meet on campus with the instructor for more individualized instruction.

Persons who sign up for the program this week at Tech's Division of Continuing Education will have their choice of five telecourses:

Contemporary Social Issues, based on the TV mini-series "Roots"; The History of the U.S. to 1877, based on the TV series "The Adams Chronicles," a dramatization of the life of John Adams and his family; Introductory Psychology, offering five 30-minute telelectures weekly; Theatre and Cinema II, offering both televised lectures plus 1-to 2-hour classic European films; and World Religions, based on "The Long Search," an account of host-narrator Ronald Eyrre's three year trek across four continents.

Contemporary Social Issues, a short course lasting three weeks, will begin Tuesday with the first episode of "Roots" to be aired Tuesday through Sunday over KMCC-TV Ch. 28. Dr. Walter Cartwright will be the instructor.

Dr. Charles Halcomb, the instructor for the Introductory Psychology course, feels the telecourses are a step toward more personalized education.

"Many people may feel television de-personalizes education, but I think the opposite happens. Slower students can call the instructor for assistance whenever they need it, while faster students are not held back."

"I think more time is spent with the student this way," Halcomb said. "Students who are more timid don't have to worry about asking questions in front of a huge lecture course, or fighting through students at the end of class in order to talk to the professor."

Halcomb said his psychology course will consist of five weekly televised lectures by University of Houston professor Dr. Richard A. Kasschau.

"Kasschau is excellent at this," Halcomb said. "His lectures are more like watching a talk show than a lecture."

Kasschau, who teaches an introductory psychology course at the University of Houston, gives his students the choice of either watching his televised lectures at home, or coming to class to hear him. Sixty percent choose the televised lectures, Halcomb said, and Kasschau reports that those students do better in the course than those choosing the more traditional method.

Following the televised lectures, students will be able to meet with Halcomb or his teaching assistants and discuss any of the lecture material they did not understand or want to know more about.

"Teaching and lecturing are not the same," stresses Halcomb. "Lecturing is the easy part of teaching. The hardest part is to sit down and help a student having a problem with the course."

Halcomb says he hopes to get high school seniors to take the course and earn advance placement college credit.

Those interested in the psychology telecourse can meet with Halcomb either Tuesday or Wednesday at 8 p.m. in room 4 in the basement of the Tech Psychology Building.

While the psychology course consists entirely of televised lectures, the American history course is a combination of broadcasts of the popular TV series "The Adams Chronicles," plus weekly discussion sessions with Dr. Benjamin Newcomb, Tech associate professor of history.

Meany Assails Tax Revolt

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL-CIO President George Meany exhorted America's rich and powerful today to make the first sacrifice in battling inflation, promising that the nation's workers would be right behind.

In a companion Labor Day message, the AFL-CIO charged that the "tax revolt" sweeping the country actually is an effort in which wealthy Americans hope to slash their taxes at the expense of poorer citizens.

Meany said that "in the past, workers have been called upon to sacrifice first to fight inflation. And they have. But the corporations and the bankers never did their share and there is no evidence that they will do so now."

"I don't think it is too much to ask of those who have reaped the most from the American economic system — the wealthiest individuals, corporations and banks — to take the first step in combating the economic evils of inflation," the labor chief said.

Meany said wealthy members of the society can do their part by halting price boosts, reducing interest rates and limiting profit margins, which, he said, are running at record levels.

"Workers are among the hardest hit by inflation. That is why — on this Labor Day — workers are still willing to sacrifice as much as anyone else, as long as anyone else," Meany added. "But workers cannot and will not sacrifice alone."

The 84-year-old labor leader's address was prepared for nationwide broadcast tonight by CBS radio.

Repeating organized labor's response to President Carter's call for wage and price restraint to lower inflation, Meany said workers would accept smaller wage increases, but only if price rises slow first.

Carter, in an Aug. 18 interview with several editors of labor publications, said he may take stronger action against rising prices if inflation worsens. But the president once more ruled out mandatory wage and price controls except in a national emergency.

Carter says he is "philosophically opposed" to wage and price controls and will not impose them short of a national crisis.

"Whatever we might do in the future, it would be short of mandatory wage and price controls," the president said.

"I would guess that a majority of the American people would prefer to have mandatory wage and price controls," Carter admitted. But he restated his opposition.

He said the only way of dealing with inflation is by very tough management of government, getting control of the bureaucracy and winning the support of business and labor.

The White House released a transcript of the interview on Sunday.

In a separate Labor Day address, Lane Kirkland, secretary-treasurer of the 14 million-member AFL-CIO, warned taxpayers to beware of tax-cutting programs like California's Proposition 13.

Kirkland said such tax cutting drives do not eliminate inequities in the tax system. Instead, he said, the public should support changes in tax laws that reduce burdens on average and poor taxpayers and eliminate tax breaks available to corporations and the rich.

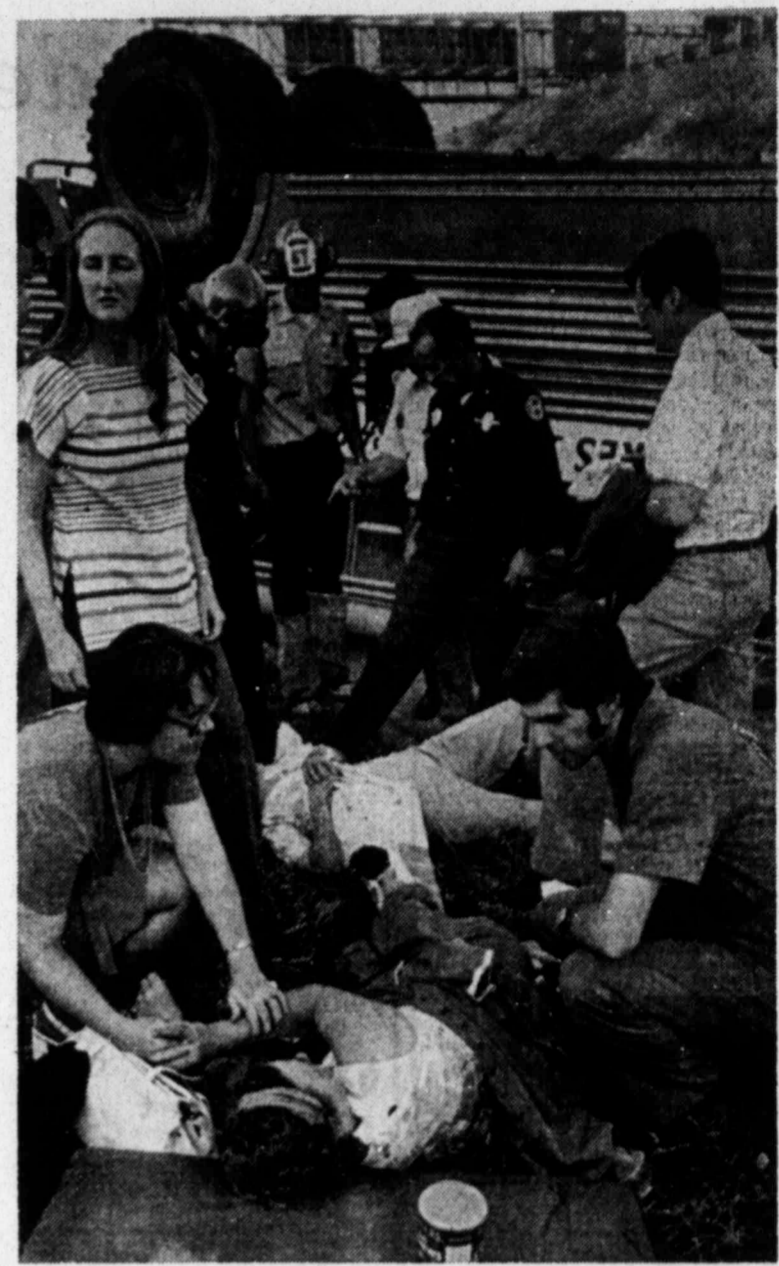

Kirkland said the tax revolt is a response by average Americans to unfair taxes that "place a heavier burden on low- and middle-income families while allowing the wealthy and the corporations to escape their fair share."

But that concern is being exploited by "those who seek to protect more and more of their wealth from taxes," he said.

"Through political misdirection and simplistic slogans, the wealthy are using these legitimate concerns to propose measures that cut the taxes of the wealthy, while providing little — if any — relief to those Americans who need it most," said Kirkland, whose comments were prepared for nationwide broadcast today by NBC radio.

YANKS ARE COMING! — Soldiers from Fort Lewis, Wash., line up at the Rhine-Main Air Base in West Germany shortly after their arrival by jet transport from the United States. Carter To Offer Mideast Plans

Washington's First Baptist Church.

"Let every heart involved be cleansed of selfishness and personal pride. Let us all turn to thee, God our father, for true guidance, wisdom, forgiveness of others, in the search for common ground," Carter said.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, upon arriving in New York City, declared: "We want peace more than any nation on earth."

And President Anwar Sadat, still in Egypt, said he considered the conference "a turning point" in Mideast history.

Begin and Sadat will arrive Tuesday afternoon at Camp David, where Carter will be waiting for them. In that secluded atmosphere, U.S. officials hope Begin and Sadat will be able to make the compromises necessary to give new impetus to the stalled peace process.

To help them, the Carter administration has prepared dozens of options and proposals for possible compromises on difficult points. But U.S. officials are trying not to arouse public hopes, only to have them dashed by a less than successful summit.

State Department officials say their only goal for the meeting is keeping the peace process going. Simply doing that forestalls a wide range of dangerous consequences that could arise if it breaks down, the officials theorize.

The officials, declining to be identified publicly, say they do not expect anything like a complete settlement to emerge. They attribute this in part to the fact that neither Begin nor Sadat has given any indication of willingness to compromise on crucial issues like sovereignty over the territory on the West Bank of the Jordan River which Israel captured in the Six-Day war of 1967.

Cold Fronts Bring Rain On Coasts

the 60s with Dimmitt, Littlefield, Mulshoe and Olton coolest at 60.

The forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies through Tuesday and temperatures in the low 80s today, high 60s tonight and mid-80s Tuesday.

Winds were expected to be southerly at 10 to 15 mph today and five to 10 mph tonight.

At midmorning today, thunderstorms and showers were widely scattered over West Texas.

Scattered light rain and showers were reported over the South Plains to both the west and east of Lubbock and one very heavy thunderstorm was in progress west of Hobbs, N.M. at 10:30 a.m.

Isolated storms were near Seminole, south of Crane, between Fort Stockton and Fort Davis and west of Marfa.

The Labor Day-dampening rain follows West Texas rains that were lighter than expected around El Paso, where flash flood warnings were issued Sunday night. El Paso got only .01, however.

"A flash flood watch in the mountains of Southwest Texas was lifted before dawn when rainfall was lighter than had been anticipated," weathermen reported.

The National Weather Service has recorded only 8.07 inches of rain so far this year at Lubbock International Airport.

A total of 14.90 had been recorded at this point in 1977.

Cold fronts triggered showers in Maine and California early today, while much of the nation was blanketed by light fog and haze.

Union Sets Strike Vote

pending from their jobs for 10 days without pay.

Bob Dunbar, division manager for Southwestern Bell in Lubbock, said the management action stemmed from the union's activity in honoring a picket line July 26 at Bell's downtown headquarters.

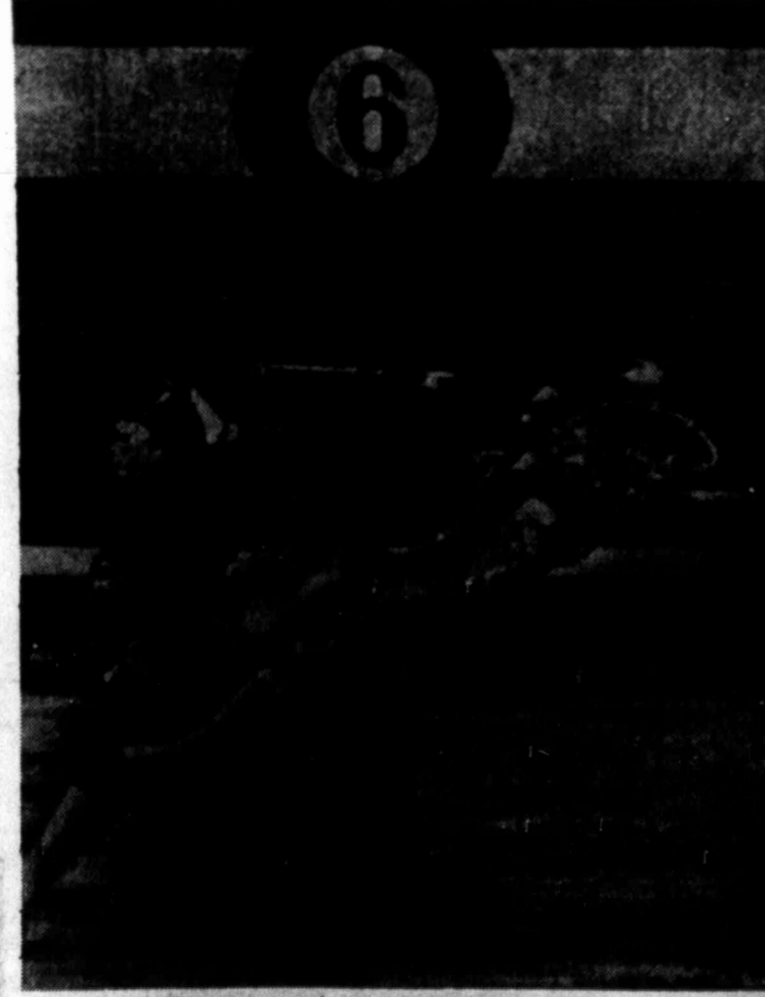

The local CWA honored a picket line by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, who were striking against a non-union contract. One hundred-fifty CWA members honored the picket line.

Dunbar said the employees were suspended because "we considered it improper action on their part in keeping employees from coming to work at their scheduled times. In excess of 60 employees were kept off their jobs, and that requires strong disciplinary action on our part."

Mrs. Lindsey said that contact with the union's office in Amarillo showed that some employees there had been suspended for refusing to work enforced overtime.

Mrs. Lindsey said the local union has about 800 persons working for Bell in Lubbock.

Dunbar said that the company has a contingency plan whereby management personnel will perform essential services if the union votes to strike.

MATADOR INJURED — Venezuelan matador Jose "Pepe" Camara is gored while performing in Madrid's Las Ventas arena Sunday. The sharp horn of the 1,000-pound bull pierced the matador's left lung. The incident was one of several involving matadors in Spain and Mexico last weekend. (AP Laserphoto)

Two Sought In Shooting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A teen-age boy and girl sitting in a parked car were abducted by two men who forced them to drive to a swamp outside town and shot them "just to keep them quiet," authorities said.

The 18-year-old girl was killed in the Sunday night shooting. Her 16-year-old male companion was undergoing surgery at a hospital, authorities said.

Names were withheld until their parents could be informed.

A search was under way for the two men near the St. Tammany Parish end of the U.S. 90 bridge over the Ringuolets, the water channel that connects the Gulf of Mexico with Lake Pontchartrain.

A police spokesman said that at about 9:30 p.m., a witness saw the two men firing shots at their own car on a tree-lined street near City Park, a sprawling patch of green and popular nighttime parking spot for young people.

Patrolman Gus Krinke said detectives are not sure why the two were firing at their car, a Mercedes that was reported stolen in New York.

The two then abducted the couple, Krinke said, and forced them to drive east in an apparent attempt to get out of state.

When they had crossed the bridge, they apparently forced the two out of the car and shot them, Krinke said.

Bus Overtakes In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A church bus carrying passengers to the Billy Graham Crusade flipped over four times on an interstate exit, injuring at least 33 persons and leaving a trail of broken glass, Bibles and twisted metal.

Police said the bus, owned by the Sterling Acres Baptist Church in Kansas City, was on an exit ramp on Interstate 35 Sunday night when the brakes apparently failed. The bus ran up a grass embankment and tipped over, tumbling back to the roadway.

Gladys French, 66, the most severely injured of the passengers, was hospitalized in serious condition with chest and back injuries.

Some passengers crawled out through windows or the emergency door, while others — including those with broken bones and back and neck injuries — had to be pulled from the wreckage.

"When the bus finally stopped, it was like we were in a really thick brown fog because of the dust," said Jim Bishop, 15, who was uninjured except for some scrapes and a chipped tooth. "I opened my eyes and everybody was lying on top of me."

Paul Berkley, associate pastor of the church, said it was the eighth consecutive night the church had sent buses to the crusade. No problems had been reported with the brake system, and the bus driver, identified as Dennis Barnes, 36, told police he had checked the brakes before leaving the church.

When news of the accident was announced during the crusade at Kemper Arena, the packed house of 16,000 people prayed for the injured.

Said Graham: "When I first heard about it I was absolutely shocked. It's a great illustration to us to see how close to the edge of eternity we all live."

Six Teen-Agers Hurt In Floydada Mishap

FLOYDADA (Special) — A car packed with six teen-agers struck a building here about 12:30 a.m. today, sending all the vehicle's occupants to the hospital.

Four of the victims were rushed to Lubbock's Health Sciences Center Hospital, and the other two were admitted to Caprock Hospital here. All were from Floydada.

Labor Day was only 30 minutes old, Floydada Police Chief Royce Gilmore said, when the car, reportedly traveling at a high rate of speed, entered the north city limits on U.S. 70.

The driver apparently failed to negotiate a curve in the road, lost control of the 1976 Chevrolet Nova and hit a cement tile building occupied by Adams Well Service.

Taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital were Elvira Cortinas, 13, who was listed in critical condition today; Adam Hernandez, 14, in guarded condition with a broken arm and leg; Esmerelda Rodriguez, 18, under observation with multiple injuries; and Robert Cortinas, 17, who was treated and released.

Two other persons were admitted to Caprock Hospital following the mishap, but a hospital spokesman there said they were not seriously hurt.

Gilmore said it was not clear early today who was driving the car.

Police Keep 'Lost' Dog

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Maine (AP) — Little Mike Fitzgerald's lost dog has turned up at the local police station, but the police won't give it back.

The white puppy, a mixture of collie and German shepherd, broke loose from his leash one night about two weeks ago and was given up for lost. It was assumed he'd been hit and killed by a car.

Then a neighbor told Mike, who is 8, that a dog looking much like "Cotton" had been spotted down at the police station.

It was indeed Cotton, but the police told Mike that they had held the dog for the 10 days required by law and that they then sent the dog home with a dispatcher who had taken a liking to him.

"As far as we're concerned it's the dispatcher's dog," Deputy Chief Paul Tibbetts said Sunday.

The law says that after 10 days, a dog must be disposed of "as humanely as possible."

The dispatchers had taken up a collection to send Cotton to a veterinarian because he was suffering from worms and was generally sickly, Tibbetts said.

On Saturday, Mike and some friends picketed the Old Orchard Beach police station.

A pair of rats can give birth to more than 350 million descendants over a three-year period.

Mrs. Carter Campaigns For Senate Candidate

FIRST LADY VISITS IN TEXAS — Using both hands, first lady Rosalynn Carter, right, grasps the hands of well-wishers upon arrival in San Antonio Sunday night for a round of political appearances in the Lone Star state. (AP Laserphoto)

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — First lady Rosalynn Carter opened a three-city Labor Day campaign through Texas today on behalf of Democratic congressional candidates and U.S. Senate nominee Bob Krueger.

"We need your help in sending these Democratic candidates to Washington. We need your help and we need your prayers for Jimmy as he goes into the summit meeting," Mrs. Carter said, referring to the upcoming Middle East meeting at Camp David.

Mrs. Carter, who had unexpectedly offered to stump in Texas at the Democrats' traditional Labor Day campaign kickoffs, took the opportunity at a Bexar County Democratic brunch to cite her husband's legislative accomplishments during his first two years as president.

"Jimmy Carter is a fighter — he doesn't give up and he doesn't give in when the interests of our people are at stake," said Mrs. Carter.

"What he doesn't get (in Congress) this year, he'll be back for next year," she said.

At one point during her rounds of the downtown area the first lady was confronted by more than 100 jeering demonstrators protesting the mass firings in July of striking San Antonio garbage men. More than 80 remain off the job.

Mrs. Carter earlier visited the South-west Craft Center and spoke in halting Spanish in her appearances there and at the brunch in a downtown hotel.

Mrs. Carter was also scheduled to take part this afternoon in the Garland Labor Day Parade and make an appearance at a North Dallas shopping center.

The Dallas-area visit was aimed at aiding first-term Congressman Jim Mattox, who faces a strong challenge from Republican Tom Pauken.

Mrs. Carter was scheduled to fly to Houston late this afternoon for appearances at a Democratic Funfest fund-raiser, a fund-raising reception for U.S. Rep. Bob Gammage and a rally by Gammage campaign workers. She was due to return to Washington tonight.

Mrs. Carter's appearance in San Antonio on behalf of Congressman Krueger and congressional candidate Nelson Wolff coincided with former Texas Gov. John Connally's barbecue in Kerville for Wolff's Republican opponent Tom Loeffler.

Former President Gerald Ford has already visited Krueger's 21st congressional district on behalf of Loeffler and former California Governor Ronald Reagan also plans a campaign trip to the district later this month.

Krueger is giving up his 21st district seat to attempt to unseat Sen. John Tower, R-Texas.

Gammage is opposed by former Republican Congressman Ron Paul, whom he defeated in 1976. Paul had earlier beaten Gammage in a special election.

LCC To Hold Picnic Tonight

An all-school picnic is planned for students, faculty, staff and their families at 7 p.m. today at Lubbock Christian College.

Following the 90-minute Labor Day picnic, a magic show featuring David Young as Mahonri the Magician will take place at 7 p.m. in Moody Auditorium on the LCC campus.

The thousand-plus students at LCC just completed "Rivalry Days," matching class against class in a number of sporting events last weekend.

Young, a student at Brigham Young University, will be making his final appearance of the summer before heading back to Utah.

Couple Discovers Older Homes In Lubbock 'Energy-Efficient'

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

There are better ways to save energy during the summer than lying down under the air conditioner. Don and Carol Watts of 2408 26th St., have discovered.

With maximum use of ventilation and outside heating and cooling, the energy they saved was the kind that shows up on electric bills when an air conditioner is not used at all.

The Wattses, both architecture professors at Texas Tech University, bought their home when they came to Lubbock three years ago.

They undertook to make the 1940s-vintage dwelling more energy-efficient in a "Home Energy Conservation Project" with advisors Jeanette Hodges of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Energy Extension Service.

"The phrase 'energy-efficient home' may be recent, but the design of many older dwellings capitalizes upon the natural energy that has always been with us," Mrs. Hodges explained.

South Plains climate and the construction of older homes here surprised Watts after he came to Lubbock from a Peace Corps stint in Afghanistan. He met his wife Carol after she arrived from the University of Washington in Seattle and they married and started looking for a home.

He is originally from Alma, Neb. She is from Bloomington, Ind.

"We expected ample sunshine but not the low humidity or the usual cool nights," he said. "We were accustomed to east-facing bedrooms receiving morning light, but were pleased to discover how Lubbock's summer evening breezes shift to the southeast and flow directly across the beds."

The worst shortcoming of the house, he said, was a late 1940s addition in which the original rear north porch was enlarged and enclosed.

"Originally, the house was open from north to south through its middle by a dining and living room, but the back porch enclosure also walled in the dining room window," Watts said.

"The effect of this was to cut off the original 'flow-through' ventilation and seriously reduce the natural cooling abilities of the house. We have since reopened the original dining room window to restore some of its benefits," he said.

Another side effect of the porch enclosure was to convert the dining room into LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Right after college, Hugo Zucchini worked in a Nike missile components plant. But he found it boring.

So for the past 20 years "The Great Zucchini" has overcome his boredom by getting himself shot out of a cannon more than 4,000 times.

"It's rough," Zucchini said while relaxing in a mobile home at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds, "especially when you're not in your 20's anymore. I don't know what I could really compare it to."

Zucchini, who won't admit his real age, has practical reasons for doing his type of work: "I do this because I get more off-time and money than anywhere else. That's what I like — off-time and money."

But there's something Zucchini would prefer over getting shot out of a cannon. "I'd really like to do nothing," he said.

a dark as well as breezeless space. The center of the house needed to be just the opposite to take full advantage of Lubbock's climate.

"The dining room is now a two-story space receiving natural light and increased ventilation through a large window mounted in the south slope of the roof. Direct sunlight now penetrates nearly the full depth of the house in winter, and summer air circulates in a multitude of directions. The sun is screened from entering the roof window during the summer months," Watts said.

They have done all the labor themselves over the past two summers and last fall and have spent $1,000 or less on materials, they said.

The attic and dining room have been insulated, and they still have to finish dining room sheetrocking.

Making an older home energy-efficient, they have learned, requires understanding the house and how it is managed according to outside temperature changes.

The couple recorded changes in sunshine, wind, temperature and humidity all during July for that purpose.

"Extraordinary July temperatures showed that the overnight low temperature is a key factor in avoiding large cooling bills," Watts said. "We have found that by opening the entire house in the evening and leaving it open all night, we can cool the inside to within four degrees of the overnight low."

"Upon rising in the morning, we close all windows and shades, and the east rooms are closed off from the rest of the house. The house then traps the overnight cool air inside and holds it until the outside temperature has peaked."

"As the inside conditions rise to the point of discomfort, a fan may be used to cool the occupants until the originally stratified hot air near the ceilings has been well-mixed with the lower cool air creating an unreasonable stuffiness."

"During this past heat wave we found we could forestall the need for air conditioning until around 4 p.m., when outside temperatures were nearing their peak and would finish air conditioning the living-dining space by 8 p.m. at the latest."

On several days, they took hourly readings of inside surface temperatures of ceilings and walls to find the "hot spots" in their home.

"In contrast to the attic, which we insulated and ventilated last summer, the flat roof of the enclosed porch has little insulation and is a radiant heater affecting the entire house," he said. "The other major trouble spot is our west west windows, which are only single-pane and are unshaded."

"Insulation will be added to the roof, and we have decided that exterior roll shades are the most cost-effective way to screen the afternoon sun from the west windows. The shades will block the heat before it enters the house and also are retractable to allow nightly ventilation."

Mrs. Watts, who was pregnant, was not as much help in the continuing project as she was last year.

The baby, a girl, was born just after midnight Monday at Health Sciences Hospital, and the father had this observation: "The additions to the house just keep coming."

Future Of City Linked To Annexation

City planners don't claim to know what life will be like 42 years from now, but they're sure of one thing: by the year 2020 Lubbock will not have enough land to support its population if none is annexed.

Currently there are about 11,600 developable acres located in the city's prime growth areas, city planning director Jim Bertram said.

However, he predicts the city will require 15,650 acres to sustain its population by the year 2020 so the city will need to add more than 4,000 acres by that time.

Why doesn't the city just start annexing land outside its borders?

Bertram said there are many factors to be weighed before any property is annexed and a chaotic policy of annexation could hurt the city.

So Bertram and his staff are examining more than 4,000 acres which border the city in a semicircle on the south, west and north with an eye toward future land requirements.

The study is being performed for the rural land use subcommittee of the Planning and Zoning Commission which has been charged with formulating a long-range annexation plan.

Bertram said the subcommittee will attempt to determine where the city should annex the needed land and the amount of land which might be needed 10 or 15 years hence.

Subcommittee members also must decide whether the city should proceed with "protective annexation" immediately or allow land which might eventually become part of the city to "be developed with junk," he said.

The 4,000 acres being scrutinized by the subcommittee south of the city one-half mile east of the Tahoka Highway and 114th Street. The western border of the study area is Upland Road, then the semicircle stretches to FM 2641 on the north, nearly to the Lubbock International Airport.

Bertram said the large area, divided into four sectors for study purposes, will be examined for the direction of growth, the existing growth, capital improvements and operational expenses which the city would incur if the land were annexed and potential tax revenues (property and sales taxes) area residents might contribute.

The city must provide a comparable level of municipal services to an annexed area within three years and code enforcement usually begins immediately in the area.

To annex a quarter-section in Southeast Lubbock as recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission, Bertram predicted it would cost the city $70,000 to extend and connect water mains to the area, $5,000 in code enforcement, $4,500 for dumpsters and an unknown amount to provide an additional five police cars and men to patrol the area.

City operations in the area would cost more than $112,000 annually, Bertram predicted, while only about $38,000 a year could be anticipated in tax revenues.

Areas like that in Southeast Lubbock "are only going to get worse" if not annexed, Bertram said, adding the subcommittee may decide "there's no better time than now" to annex the needed land to prevent its further deterioration.

The longer the deterioration, the more it costs the city when it is annexed because of the continued degeneration of the tax base he said.

Residents on the city's outskirts rarely want to become part of Lubbock until they discover they're running out of water. And the potential water problems created by annexation could cause some moral dilemmas for Lubbock residents in the future.

When the water runs out in a rural community, "there's only one place to go — Lubbock," Bertram said.

City residents are going to be faced with sharing a water system they've paid for with years of taxes with residents of annexed areas, many of whom lived outside the city to avoid paying city taxes.

Not only will city residents be "faced with sharing a very limited resource," Bertram said that sharing could force Lubbock residents to limit their use of water.

The Planning and Zoning Commission is attempting to prevent these problems from occurring in new rural subdivisions by requiring the estimated life of the water supply to be on the subdivision plan. However, the water shortages may be imminent in established communities.

But "the question of whether Lubbock can annex or not lays in the hands of Justice Department attorneys," Bertram said. The Justice Department must approve any annexation under the federal Voting Rights Act to ensure the voting strength of minorities is not diluted by the annexation.

The city has not substantially increased in area since 1958 when everything inside Loop 289 was annexed. That annexation increased the city's size by seven times.

Since then only about 11 square miles have been added through annexation, with the most recent being a 2.6 square mile addition this year.

Woman Killed In Accident

OLETA, Okla. (UPI) — The second victim of a weekend crash involving a car, van and pickup truck five miles east of town on Oklahoma state highway 3 has died in a Paris hospital.

Opel Dealie Maness, 45, of Stillwater, Okla., wife of auto driver Sherrill Dean Maness, 37, died shortly before midnight Saturday, Alfred A. Taylor, 50, of Bight City, Okla., driver of the pickup, was killed instantly in the Saturday afternoon accident.

Maness was hospitalized at Paris in satisfactory condition.

Investigators said Taylor was attempting to pass a van driven by Melvin Lester Wells, 55, of Antlers, Okla., and his pickup collided head-on with the Maness auto. The pickup then spun into the side of the van, causing it to overturn.

Wells was not hurt but four passengers in the van sustained minor injuries, authorities said.

The four were Leroy Howard, 67, and Jerry Boler, 39, both of Abilene; Robert Kinsler, 26, of Chattanooga, Okla., and Richard Townsend, 9, of Fort Smith, Ark.

The Slim Gourmet

By Barbara Gibbons

Questions from the Slim Gourmet's Fat Mailbag:

Q. How many calories in brown sugar compared with regular sugar? — Mrs. S.C., San Antonio, Texas.

A. There's no significant difference since you'll need 100 calories' worth of brown sugar to equal the sweetening power of 100 calories' worth of white sugar. One cup of white granulated sugar has 751 calories; one cup of ordinary brown sugar, firmly packed, has 791 calories. The "granulated" free-flowing ("Brownulated") brown sugar is only 567 calories per cup (but you use more). Like white sugar, brown sugar is nothing but calories.

Q. Do you have any recipes for yogurt without sugar? All the yogurts have sugar and I hate to give it up. — Ruth B., Middlebury, Conn.

A. Plain yogurt has no sugar, only the fruit-flavored varieties have it. Read the label and look for plain, low-fat yogurt, then add your own fresh unsweetened fruit. Sweeten to taste with sugar substitute, if you like. Use the plain low-fat yogurt to make more of your own: fill a thermos bottle with boiling water to heat it up. Scald 3 cups skim or low-fat milk, then let it cool to a nice bath-water-warmth. Empty the thermos and pour in the warm milk. Add a quarter-cupful of plain low-fat yogurt. Cover and shake to mix well. Leave overnight. The next day all the milk will have turned into yogurt. Transfer to a covered bowl in the refrigerator and add fruit to taste, as needed.

Q. I clip out your Slim Gourmet column and in one article you said raw turkey has 480 calories per pound. In another you said that ground turkey has 750 calories per pound. Since I am counting calories I need to know the accurate count. — Marty T., Huntington Beach, Calif.

A. Both counts are accurate. The 480-per-pound calorie count refers to the meat and skin of the whole young turkeys generally found in supermarkets. The 750 count refers to the more mature (hence, fatter) birds that go into packaged ground turkey or "turkeyburger." According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, young birds, under 26 weeks old, average 480 calories per pound. Medium fat birds 26 to 32 weeks old average 752 calories, and old birds, over 32 weeks, average 1,136 calories per pound. The USDA overall average for all classes of turkey is 722 calories per pound. In virtually all supermarkets, whole turkeys are in the "young" category. Q. Some time ago I read an article by you on diet clubs. I would like to join TOPS. Can you please give me a number or address whereby I may reach these people? I would like to join as soon as possible. — Mrs. Carolyn M., Bridgeton, Mo.

A. TOPS — or Take Off Pounds Sensibly — is a non-profit, non-commercial diet club with chapters all over the country. Check your local phone book. If you find no listing, call or write the national headquarters: TOPS, 4575 S. Fifth St., Milwaukee, Wis. 53207, phone: (414) 462-4620. Ask for the address of the nearest chapter. If there is none, they can tell you how to go about forming one. For a detailed description of the TOPS program, along with other non-commercial diet clubs like Overeaters Anonymous and commercial clubs like Weight Watchers, Diet Workshop, Lean Line, etc., read Consumer Guide magazine's "Rating the Diets" (send $2 to Diet Bookshelf, Sparta, N.J. 07871).

Q. What can you tell me about vegetable spaghetti, the inside of which is supposed to resemble spaghetti when cooked, and is also supposed to be less fattening? — Grace S., St. Louis, Mo.

A. "Vegetable spaghetti" is a squash, and the calorie count is more squash-like than pasta-like. To prepare: simmer the entire squash in boiling water about 25 minutes, then cut open and pull out the spaghetti-like strands. Top with spaghetti sauce, if you like, or a grating of Italian cheese, oregano, salt and pepper. Two sources for grow-your-own spaghetti squash are: Stokes Seeds, Box 584, Buffalo, N.Y. 14240, and Park Seeds, Greenwood, S.C., 29647. Ask for their catalogs.

To R.I., L.Z. G.S. and scores of others who asked for a complete and "official" calorie guide: send $5.15 to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, for "Nutritive Value of American Foods."

Lose pounds the painless way! For five days of delicious dining, plus diet tips and recipes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents to THE SLIM GOURMET DIET, in care of this newspaper, Sparta, N.J. 07871.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I am a farmer in Francesville, Ind. Soon I will be out in the fields harvesting the corn I planted last May.

That doesn't sound like a very important statement for a farmer to make, but it's important to me because it means that I can again provide for my wife and three children — something I wasn't able to do before my recent cornea transplant operation.

Nineteen years ago I lost one eye in a farm accident. Then last year, lightning struck twice, and I seriously injured the other eye in another farm accident. This left me legally blind. I prayed for a cornea transplant, and God heard my prayers.

I am grateful to God, and to my very dedicated eye surgeon, Dr. Louis Girard of Houston, who performed the miracle of restoring my sight.

I wish I could thank the unselfish donor who thought beyond his own life and made provisions to pass on the gift of sight to a stranger. But since that is not possible, I pray that the Lord will bless the family of the donor who cared enough to share.

Abby, please continue to urge your readers to donate their eyes at the time of death so that someone who has lived in darkness will be able to see again, as I am now privileged to do.

PERRY NEIHOUSER

Dear Perry: Your letter made my day. And anyone out there who wants a donor card may obtain one free by writing to THE LIVING BANK, BOX 6725, HOUSTON, TEXAS 77005. They are a non-profit organization, so please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. God bless you and He will.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I can't solve alone. I am very much attracted to a handsome New Hampshire state trooper I've seen, but I don't know how to meet him.

His license number is 206. Do you think if I were to speed and get stopped the next time I saw him, it might help? I don't want to be tacky.

DESPERATE IN KEENE

Dear Desperate: I don't recommend breaking the law in order to break the ice. If you don't want to be "tacky," you'd better find someone who knows him — and something about him. Your handsome No. 206 may have a wife and six kids at home.

DEAR ABBY: For those people who constantly say, "Oh, my God," or "Jesus Christ," to express anything from surprise to anger:

If you call on God too often when you don't need Him, He may not be listening when you do need Him!

L.A. READER

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HUNGRY FOR MAIL ABOARD THE USS ENTERPRISE CVN 65": Next time you write to someone, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. It will double your chances for a speedy reply. And if that doesn't work, write to me (and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please): I'll answer quicker than you can say "shore leave!"

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Italian Gourmets' Task 'To Spread Style'

By EDWARD MAGRI
PADUA, Italy (AP) — The Cordon Bleu, once the exclusive domain of France, has spread to Italy and established its second largest membership in a nation that often views French cuisine with envy and rivalry.

But while French chefs are now involved in a lighter approach to classic cooking, Italy's Cordon Bleus have embarked on a revival of historical and local recipes to help boost a deteriorating tradition.

They query grandparents and aged friends, search through medieval chronicles and scout around villages and towns looking for forgotten recipes or the original version of a known one. They make friends with the wine-grower in a little known part of the Apennines to try his wine and to help him improve and market it.

Five Italians who had been given the insignia of Commandeur des Cordon Bleus in France set up the Italian branch in 1967. This past November 96 candidates were admitted, making a total of 420 members — far more than any other nation where Cordon Bleu delegations have been established, except for France. The Order, based in Dijon, France, confers what is regarded as a knighthood for culinary skills.

Members meet periodically in national or regional gatherings that turn into epicurean journeys through the cooking and wine-making traditions of one or another part of Italy. They combine the French gourmet's discriminating taste with chauvinistic zeal for Italian style.

"Our mission is not to propagate French cooking, as many think we are all about, but rather to purify and elevate regional Italian cooking and wines," says Secretary General Modesto Marcellini.

Only a minority of Italy's Commandeurs de Cordon Bleu are chefs and restaurant owners. Most are lawyers, architects, business people, industrialists, artists and journalists, or simply housewives who share an exacting love for food and wine. They become members on the introduction of senior commandeurs and after writing a report on a subject related to food and wine, preferably a local or family recipe.

"The great turn came in the past two years," says Mario Frejaville, acting president of the Italian delegation and one of the co-founders. "We spotted the crucial knot of Italy's cuisine in the redemption of diversified traditions from one region to the other."

In the latest gala dinner of some 250 commandeurs at La Bulesca near Padua, the convivial gathering burst into applause after they tried the red wine of "Castello di Roncade — 1971 — silver label" with pheasant drenched in Recioto, Verona's "red champagne," and roasted in mascarpone, a Venetian butter-like cheese.

Last October, the Milan-based Lombardy delegation revived a number of historical recipes found in the chronicles of the Longobards, the barbarians who reigned over North Italy for a couple of centuries 1,300 years ago.

"Our task is to spread style," At Gubbio, the medieval town in the central Apennines, the Marche-Umbria delegation held a dinner based on recipes that farmers once prepared as a way to assure the protection of God over their crops and families.

During the dinners, experts illustrate the historical and cultural background of each dish.

The French flair for cooking is passed on to Italians through 12 Cordon Bleu schools organized in the major cities by Enrica Jarrat, who has been running Rome's George's restaurant with her London-born husband, Vernon Jarrat, for the past 30 years. The schools and the Cordon Bleu delegations are two independent organizations. But many men

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

This is the prayer of a woman who is returning to school as a student after an absence of 15 years.

"Please God, let there be a parking space for a car with only an E AREA sticker. (Issued only to 37-year-old, first-semester freshmen, with no major varicose veins, whose car is low on gas.)"

"If you do not see fit to guide me to such a paradise, please help me to look like a VISITOR."

"Tell me the computer made a mistake and Home Management and Child Care on my schedule does not mean what I think it means."

"Deliver me from coming face-to-face with the registrar, who is bound to remember that on my enrollment card under SEX, I filled in 'occasionally.'"

"Let me not be the only woman on campus in a pair of pantyhose and a bra. When it is lunchtime, give me a sign other than my stomach growling at 82 decibels. Watch over me especially when you see me methodically cutting up the meat of younger students and telling them to sit up straight."

"Protect me from 'operators' who try to sell secondhand books outside the bookstore that are no longer being used this year."

"Grant me the serenity to accept what cannot be changed, courage to change what should be changed, and the wisdom to keep my mouth shut when I don't know the difference."

"Keep me from despair when someone jots down phone messages on my freshly-typed Philosophy notes."

"Help me to refrain from punching out friends who laughingly warn me a campus is no place to make an estrogen connection."

"Give me patience when I come home from a hard day in the library to discover no one has cleared off the kitchen table and the milk is still on the front porch."

"And if I'm not being too pushy, Lord, could You please see fit to send me a friend — one who has heard of Robert Benchley, Edward R. Murrow, String of Pearls, saddle shoes, and who knew hand computers when they were called fingers?"

"And one last request...if there can't be comfort, encouragement and pride from my family for what I'm doing, please let there be a pot of coffee in the kitchen every morning."

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q5 ♥AKQJ98 ♦KQJ7 ♣3

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
Pass Pass ?

What is your opening bid?
A.—Four hearts. This is not an opening bid you would have made in first seat—your hand has too much playing strength to discount the possibility of slam. Since partner is a passed hand, however, slam prospects are negligible, so you should make it as difficult as possible for the opponents to enter the auction. With your hand, you can't be sure of beating six spades, let alone four!

Q.2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K83 ♥A10962 ♦Q72 ♣J7

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ 1♦ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three hearts. Suppress the temptation to leap to game, despite your five-card support for partner's suit and well-positioned king of spades. Partner might have opened light in third seat, and you do have a balanced hand. If partner has the values for game, he will probably take the plunge.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠3 ♥AQJ65 ♦93 ♣KQ1052

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two hearts. Although you have two good five-card suits, your hand isn't strong enough to bid three clubs. That would be a "high reverse," showing the equivalent of 18 points. Simply rebid your good five-card heart suit and wait to see what partner does next.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J6 ♥J1063 ♦Q106752 ♣7

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass 1♦ 1NT
Pass 2♦ Pass 2NT
Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Bid three diamonds. Partner should have passed two diamonds, and now you must correct his mistake. He may not be overly enchanted with your diamonds, but you dislike no trump even more. Your hand is worthless at no trump, so at least make an attempt to play in a contract where your long suit will produce several tricks.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠10962 ♥K874 ♦AKQ6 ♣4

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♥ 1♦ 2♦ 2♣
Pass Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Bid four hearts. You want to be in game opposite even the scrawniest opening bid, and the surest way to get there is to simply bid it. Don't even think of doubling two spades. You have too many hearts to expect that action to be remunerative.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ10762 ♥K83 ♦8 ♣1097

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. You were close to an opening bid in first seat, and your fit for partner's suit has improved your hand. A jump shift by a passed hand guarantees either a self-sufficient suit or support for partner's suit, and is forcing for one round.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K105 ♥Q10963 ♦KJ7 ♣62

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass
2♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—With a five-card suit, excellent support for partner's suit and above average values for your first response, we wouldn't blame you for blasting to four hearts. However, a more cautious approach might win the day. A game-try bid of either two spades or three diamonds will give partner a chance to more accurately evaluate his hand.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ952 ♦KQ83 ♣Q962

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♥ Dbie. Dbie. ?
What action do you take?
A.—Sounds like you're playing with a pinochle deck! We can only presume that one of the opponents is taking advantage of the vulnerability to make a psychic bid. You want to play in game in one of your three suits, perhaps even slam, and the surest way to convey this information to your partner is to cue-bid two hearts.

Weddings

GREENWOOD—STAHLECKER

Beth Greenwood became the bride of Darrell Stahlecker in a 4 p.m. ceremony Saturday in the Bowman Chapel of the First United Methodist Church. The Rev. Weldon McCormick, minister of the First United Methodist Church of Levelland, officiated.

Honor attendants were Marilyn Maner, sister of the bride, and Joe Knox of Levelland.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Odell Williams of Lubbock and Hoot Greenwood of Hobbs, N.M. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Stahlecker of Rapid City, S.D.

The bride was graduated from Levelland High School and Methodist Hospital respiratory therapy training. The bridegroom was graduated from Rapid City, High School and attended the University of New Mexico.

After a wedding trip to Padre Island, the couple will live in Lubbock.

BURNEY—MARTIN

By A-J Correspondent
SNYDER — Valerie Burney and Gary Martin were married in a 7:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Grimmer. Sam Kitching, minister of the East Side Church of Christ, officiated.

Honor attendants were Mrs. Danny Ray Williams, sister of the bride, and Joe Graves.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Burney and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Don Martin.

The bride was graduated from Snyder High School and attended Western Texas College. The bridegroom was graduated from SHS.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will live in Snyder.

Clip 'n' Cook

PORTUGUESE WHEAT GERM BREAD

1 cup milk
6 tbsps. butter
1 1/2 cup sugar
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
3-3 1/2 cups flour
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. mace
1 1/2 tps. grated lemon peel
4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 1/2 cups vacuum packed wheat germ, regular or sugar & honey
Egg white wash
Combine milk, butter and sugar. Heat until butter melts. Turn into large bowl and cool until lukewarm. Add yeast and stir until dissolved. Mix in 1 1/2 cups flour, salt, mace and lemon peel. Cover and let stand in warm draft free place 1/2 hour. Stir in egg yolks and wheat germ. Gradually mix in just enough of remaining flour to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl. Turn out onto lightly floured surface and knead 4 to 5 minutes until dough is elastic. Place in oiled bowl, turning to coat all sides. Cover and let rise about 2 hours or until doubled. Punch dough down. Divide in half. Shape each half into round loaf, about 6 inches in diameter. Place on lightly greased baking sheets, with sharp knife lightly score tic-tac-toe pattern 1/4 inch deep in top of each loaf. Brush with Egg wash. Cover loosely and let rise in warm place until doubled about 1 hour. Bake on lower rack in 350 degree oven 30 to 35 minutes or until done. Cover with foil last 5 to 10 minutes if crust browns too quickly. Remove from baking sheet. Cool on rack. Makes 2 loaves.
Egg white wash: Beat 1 egg white with 1 tablespoon water.

House Of Shades & Lamp Repair Aids
New Look For Any Room, Any Season

THE NAME TELLS THE STORY

Is the house in ship-shape for fall and winter activities? Are there things that can be done now that will ease the tasks of last-minute party preparations, readiness for Thanksgiving company and Christmas festivities? Does the home's decor need a finishing touch? Think on these questions and then think of the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, 2710 50th St., a firm that can effect a new look for any room in any season.

"Likely new shades . . . or new lamps . . . can solve your situation in a delightful manner. Or maybe you received a lamp for birthday, anniversary, etc., but the shade doesn't quite match the decor of the room."

In either event, why not make a visit now to the House of Shades and Lamp Repair and let the experts there give a big assist. Even with their professional approach, the folks at the House of Shades are the friendliest ever, showing beyond doubt that the customer's trade and friendship is appreciated.

Even for those familiar with the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, a visit there at this time will reveal added services, newest shades and a full staff to afford every customer consideration.

Unique lamps of distinction, quality lamp shades, replacement lamp parts and glass, expert lamp repair, custom building, re-wiring, re-design and re-finish (to make your lamp a shade better) in essence comprise the business scope of this better lamp house.

Some months ago the House of Shades and Lamp Repair made giant strides, doubling its floor space, as example, to better serve. Consequently, more merchandise was stocked and more convenient display was enabled.

From an outsider's viewpoint, it is noted that actually the expansion in physical facilities was simply another step in many progressive moves at this popular Lubbock firm.

"Come on out and let us personally thank you for your trade and confidence that has made our steady growth possible."

Even at its beginning, this Lubbock firm recognized the needs in its field, and stocked and served accordingly. Since that date, even more has been learned of customer preferences, and consequent growth and expansion has followed. Yes, the House of Shades and Lamp Repair is here to stay!

Owners Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Houchin report that continually they are able to get more and better stock.

The House of Shades has complete facilities for lamp wiring, repair and re-building. One's favorite antique, bottle or vase can be professionally converted to a lamp to specifications. "We'll make a lamp out of any old thing!"

Mr. and Mrs. Houchin point out: Shades, though a most important part of any decor, do get soiled and worn. A new shade or repairs on present ones present the solution.

"Now, when we say 'lamp shades,' we are not talking about only the conventional hardback or stretched shade as many people might think. There are glass shades in many sizes and colors, ball shades, small shades for chandeliers, wooden, silk, metal shades, etc. We have them all."

Special pride is taken in custom shades and in custom lamp building. "Simply bring us your idea and we will do the rest."

Like nowhere else, The Christmas Shoppe, No. 20 in Cactus Alley, 2610 Salem Ave. in Lubbock, serves the Christmas planner, the collector, the giftler and all who appreciate beauty and quality in creations from throughout the world.

Be sure and see the so-unusual and really beautiful snowflake wooden ornaments from East Germany, and the wooden cutouts of many scenes, from West Germany . . . all lending uniqueness to any holiday decorative need.

And there are the revolving windmills from East Germany, Too.

Anri Carvings

And the heralded Anri wood carvings! Those in stock are all that the shop will be permitted to order this year, so even though there is a good stock on hand, the customer is urged to select now, before this stock is exhausted.

There is the Beatrix Potter collection of Peter Rabbit music boxes; African thornwood creches (with olive wood creches from Israel arriving quite soon).

Plus many hard-to-get wooden ornaments and pyramids from East Germany already in stock.

There are collector Hummel balls, Peter Rabbit and Raggedy Ann balls, together with the Ferrandiz baby's Christmas '78 balls from Schmid Bros.

(It is wisely advised to select now, or call to get one's name on the list to be assured of a choice from the selection that is so much in demand at The Christmas Shoppe.)

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe Seen Cutting Expense For Wardrobe

Has wardrobe expenditure been sacrificed for other needs? Is your clothing budget less than desired and needed? The answer to either likely will focus attention on a sensible solution . . . recognition of Hallie's Thrift Shoppe as a great place to trade.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe, 3510 Ave. Q, can appreciably aid the fashion need and the economy need "for you, too" in every season of the year.

It's a reality: One can beat inflation, beat the rising apparel costs, by depending upon Hallie's Thrift Shoppe for the right apparel at lowest prices.

At Hallie's Thrift Shoppe there is lots of new merchandise plus consignment items that are strictly "first class" that can be a smart solution to the wardrobe budget.

With the seasonal expenses now present, and with the increased costs at every hand, it is exciting to find a firm that can greatly reduce some of this cash outlay.

One can dress smartly for every season, and at a cost "that can be lived with," thanks to Hallie's Thrift Shoppe's full selection and unique business concept.

Hallie's, primarily a resale shop for better merchandise, has been at its present 3510 Ave. Q location (with off-street parking) more than four years, with owner-operator Hallie Payne formerly at another Avenue Q location for five years.

The exceptional stock, attractively displayed with plenty of room for selection and fitting, involves top quality new and nearly new formal wear, school and street wear, etc.

There are clothes for the entire family (sold on consignment) and the prices are most appealing.

"If you have items suitable for consignment, call Hallie's at 744-6772 for appointment and arrangements."

Though a wide stock is on hand, Hallie's at the present especially solicits consignments of top quality and fashionable long dresses and men's wear.

New merchandise from area stores also is stocked by Hallie's.

Easy off-street parking at both front and rear is just one of the conveniences at Hallie's Thrift Shoppe.

Felix West Paints, With Convenient Clovis Road Address, Serving Region

"Much more than a paint store alone", Felix West Paints, on Clovis Road east of University Avenue, stocks fully to justify the invitation:
 "Get it all at Felix West."
 Not only is the stock complete, but Felix West holds the price line for customer benefit.
 And most often there are some real bargains in discontinued items, remnants, etc., making it advantageous to check the store frequently for special savings.
 Open Saturdays
 Another item of customer consideration is the long hours observed every weekday. Felix West Paints is open from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays; yes, Felix West is open all day Saturdays.

 Seasonal needs, as well as the standard year-around items, are found at Felix West Paints.
General Hardware
 Thousands of general hardware items and scads of other products contribute to the "difference that is Felix West Paints".
 Colony paints, Armstrong and Congoleum... these are among the names that spell true quality and availability for the demands of every season; always at Felix West.
 Felix West has a pipe threader as an added service, enabling cutting and threading in every pipe need (new pipe only). A good stock of pipe also is provided.
 Located just one block east of Univers-ty on the Clovis Highway (2319 Clovis Road), Felix West not only is one of the easiest stores to find (look for the distinctive signs), but it provides all the popular and even hard-to-find hardware items that make a trip there worthwhile.

 Whether one selects from the Colony paint stock or chooses from the wide inventory of hand and power tools, pipe fittings, shop items, inexpensive gas or electric bathroom heaters, etc., the price and quality is unmistakably the best—a tradition well practiced and protected at Felix West Paints in its one big Lubbock location.
 Felix West is no newcomer to Lubbock or to the hardware and paint trade, and he is unusually adept at stocking the right items for South Plains clientele.

El Paso Wholesale, Lubbock Division, Saves For Clientele

"El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division knows that it can make the entire year more profitable and certainly more convenient for retail firms throughout the region, ultimately saving for the consumer... you and me."
 There are a number of carefully planned factors that make this statement possible and true:
 Selling wholesale only, the El Paso Wholesale Company in Lubbock is the city's complete wholesale firm.
 Customers include grocery and hardware stores, auto supply houses, service stations, toy stores, sporting goods stores, etc.
 Located at 206 23rd St., phone 747-1841, in Lubbock, the El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division carries and stocks a full selection of hard line merchandise.
 From time to time partial lists of the products have been published on these pages of the Avalanche-Journal, and readers have noted that the products and brand names are ones that can be appreciated, together with the completeness of this wholesale firm.
 Among the benefits area merchants find foremost at El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division, aside from the selection, is the freight situation.
 Doesn't it make sense that savings are enabled through the regions by virtue of the big-stock Lubbock warehouse that features faster, shorter delivery transport? Let this Lubbock wholesale firm prove it to your own benefit with products such as:

 Guns by Remington, Marlin and H. and R.; ammunition from Federal and Remington; and gun accessories such as Outer & Hoppes solvents and gun cleaning kits.

Business & Industrial Review

MODERN AND AVAILABLE. — Shown is a Lubbock installation of an overhead automatic door (note its attractiveness) and the acclaimed Auto-Mate garage door opener that can be "a lift in your own situation," thanks to Overhead Door Co.

Overhead Automatic Door Installation Seen As Great Family Consideration

"Will this winter find your family and yourself enjoying the convenience of an automatic overhead door installation for your garage?"
"Likely in the past you have envied your neighbor who with such facilities was spared exposure to snow and sleet (yes, these are such to come again this year, in just a few months).
"There is no need for you to walk on slick driveways to open or shut the garage door, just as there is no need to drive into a darkened garage at night. After all, you can enjoy the convenience and security of an automatic installation from Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop), phone 797-4141."
Convenience, safety and protection — this is the whole story of automatic overhead doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

Long In Lubbock
Serving with the same fine products and desire to please, traditional with the firm for over 20 years, the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is geared in every operation to render maximum customer service.
And here . . . at end of summer and with inclement weather sure to be on its way, what better time is there to visit Overhead Door Co. to arrange for an automatic unit for the family's benefit now and for seasons to come, upgrading a present home or in building a new one.
"Give your home distinction and new convenience at low cost. Give your family the Overhead Door electric opener from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock."

Auto-Mate 80
Special attention is called to the Auto-Mate 80, the ultimate garage door opener with all the features one would expect, and more.
Security and convenience are synonymous with the Auto-Mate 80. The simple touch of a button on the remote transmitter is all it takes to open, close and lock the garage door. Added security is as automatic as the door itself since when down, the door is securely locked.
A powerful 1/3 h.p. motor, operating on standard 115 V household current, provides smooth, quiet, dependable and positive operation of the door.
Complete Operation Safety
An instant reversing mechanism insures complete safety should the closing

For souvenirs to be enjoyed, appreciated and even cherished . . . it is Wong!
Yes, this same fantastic shop, in South Plains Mall, that year in and year out prides in the unique and in value . . . and selection . . . for Christmas, birthdays and all, also can be depended upon to stock the finest and most-desired in souvenirs.
"If you have out-of-town company, bring them to South Plains Mall and to Wong's Imports there for a real treat."
Wong's imports is truly a one-stop solution for gifting and for selecting for one's own desires.
Among the most, most interesting souvenirs (many exclusive to Wong's) are:
Metal sculpture, in a gamut of sizes, depicting the early days of the South Plains . . . windmills, a wagon loaded with real cotton; oil derricks, etc.;
There are wooden kits making it simple for the kiddies to construct their own area-related souvenirs, too.
And letter openers featuring a bucking horse; lucky horseshoe thermometers; sconces, ash trays, plates, etc., with the map of Texas or other Texas emblems;
And there are miniature cotton bales, of course, that are exact replicas of the real thing, available in various colors;
See the West Texas motif in switch plates . . . quite a novelty, yet practical, in home decor.
There are collector spoons, porcelain, and more.
Or Texas motif tee shirts, bottle openers, mixers, money clips and more.

door encounter an obstacle. Should a power failure occur, a spring-loaded quick disconnect instantly converts the door to manual operation and is simply reconnected by hand.
This heavy duty, UL-approved operator can handle sectional or one-piece doors up to 18" by 8" or two single car doors hooked up tandem.
Automatic Doors represent a wise gesture by the head of the family. With these doors, the wife can open the garage, enter and lock it without leaving her vehicle — quite a convenience benefit in inclement weather (wind, rain, dust, snow), and a definite safety factor on dark nights.

Free Estimates
The Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is glad to demonstrate how simple it is to enjoy these benefits. Call for free estimate.
Overhead doors are available and recommended, also, for commercial and industrial buildings.
Whether selection is from a steel, wood or fiberglass overhead door, Tim Hatch at Overhead Door Co. assures the very best value in installation and sales, resulting in lasting satisfaction.

American Equipment & Trailer Marks 25 Years Area Service

Now in its 25th year, American Equipment and Trailer, Inc. began with the idea of having trailer equipment of all kinds for all size trucks from pickups to diesels. The firm started with a few good lines and built up its stock until now it can say it is the largest trailer service facility in the Panhandle-South Plains region. Located in Lubbock at 3707 Quirt Ave., this facility is modern in every respect, built to afford exceptional service. The 12,000 sq. ft. building has multiple double-bay drive-through shop, parts department and spacious showrooms, and is located on eight acres of land. Included in the large line-up of equipment are well known brand names such as Koenig service bodies, Galion dump bodies, Midwest farm bodies, Tulsa winches, RO cranes, Wilson livestock and grain trailers, Great Dane refrigerated trailers, Clement dump bodies, Bendix-Westinghouse air brake equipment, Michigan fleet gasoline tanks, tank installation kits, Henderson bulk bodies and spreaders, and more. Of course American Equipment & Trailer, Inc., can help one with any special requirement. Need a crane? Several makes are available. Need a winch for pickup, four-wheel drive unit or truck? American can certainly supply the one needed.

'Better Hearing Aid Center' Serving With Two Facilities

The services of James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist, not only are available at the Better Hearing Aid Center in Lubbock, but also at the Clovis Hearing Aid Center. A lot of people in the region have depended on the Better Hearing Aid Center, No. 30 Redbud Square in Lubbock, for a long time. Now, the area of services reaches still further, and with greater convenience to the customers out from Lubbock. For friends in New Mexico and the western Panhandle and South Plains, Davidson has provided the Clovis Hearing Aid Center at 117 E. 7th St., in Clovis. Schedule Told "So take your pick of the center and service most readily available to you; James Davidson renders the same great service at each location. He is in the Lubbock center on Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays, at Clovis on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturday mornings. "We are indeed appreciative of the friends, the customers and the benefits of years past, and we trust that with our new arrangement, we can serve you even better in months and years to come." More about the Lubbock center: Located about midway between 4th Street and 19th Street on Slide Road, the firm is a multi-line dealer, specializing in all-in-the-ear models. Service and repairs on any make of hearing aid is expertly rendered. Not only can one purchase the best in hearing aids at the Better Hearing Aid Center, but James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist there, is most helpful in assisting one "after" the purchase. A few months ago he announced the helpful C.A.R.E. program for this assistance, with the program including a video unit with a series of tapes that explain graphically how to enjoy and use one's aid to the fullest. It helps, among other things, in "learning how to listen," in adjustment of the aid, and even helpful hints on "attitudes." "If you hear . . . but do not always understand . . . maybe all you need is the custom-made, all-in-the-ear hearing aid from Better Hearing Aid Center, Redbud Square (on Slide Road), phone 792-0507." Learn about the convenience and utility of the tiny unit that fits all in the ear, helping nature help you hear better. For hearing loss suitable to correction and improvement through amplification, a "Contour" hearing aid by Dahlberg offers a special kind of hearing help for mild, moderate or moderately-severe hearing impairment. Starting with an exact impression of your own ear, a plastic shell is formed which duplicates the contours of your ear. Dahlberg's evaluation committee then analyzes your hearing loss supplied by your hearing aid specialist and selects the most suitable degree and type of amplification. Dahlberg's manufacturing staff then assembles the electronic components specified and makes your "Contour" to order within your own contoured shell . . . providing your personal hearing aid. "Individually made to order for you, no two are alike." And remember . . . at the Better Hearing Aid Center there is a liberal hearing aid trial rental plan. Davidson, a Lubbock resident since 1948 and an area native, is most sincere — and qualified — in his invitation to call 792-0507 or come by the center for professional assistance. He is most enthusiastic, and rightly so, about the two custom-made, all-in-the-ear aids (1) the Miracle Ear and (2) the Contour all-in-the-ear model, both from Dahlberg. Protection Plan Davidson and customers alike express enthusiasm for the related "Dahlberg Consumer Protection Plan" in which a 30-day money-back privilege is afforded (with exception of custom made earmolds and dispensing fee). Long-Established Policy "See your doctor first, then see us," long has been the sensible suggestion of Davidson, multi-line dealer service 22 counties in Texas and eastern New Mexico, a policy initiated without prompting of government regulations. Miracle Ear "Our new variable compression settings enable fitting the hearing aid to your individual loss. We have numerous models, one of which will parallel your hearing loss. "Mild nerve deafness? Then 'Miracle Ear' may be all you need to hear clearly again. It fits entirely in your ear and is ideal for the majority of persons who can still hear but have trouble understanding words. "If you hear sounds but don't always understand words (a classic symptom of nerve impairment), our recommendation is Miracle Ear, developed and patented by Dahlberg Electronics, Inc." Aids Electronically Tested At the Better Hearing Aid Center, all hearing aids are electronically tested before going to the customer. "Do not hesitate to visit or call (phone 792-0507, or residence phone 799-0333). Likely Jim Davidson, hearing aid audiologist, can help you, too."

AT LUBBOCK CENTER — James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist, and staff member Agnes Vanderveer, secretary, at the Better Hearing Aid Center in Redbud Square, invite inquiries regarding the firm's services in sales and repairs at its two big area centers, in Lubbock and in Clovis (N.M.)

Woman Shuns Fear Of Needles To Become Acupuncture Patient

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Edith Willins, who says she is terrified of needles, spent part of her Labor Day holiday lying before an audience of arthritics and other ailers with four pins in her face.

"This is the first time I've ever served as a guinea pig this way," Mrs. Willins said at Sunday's second annual Acupuncture Festival. The festival, sponsored by the Center for Chinese Medicine, featured acupuncture techniques against aging, obesity and pain.

The Los Angeles woman volunteered for the half-hour facelifting treatment. Stretched across two dining tables in a banquet room of the General Lee Restaurant, Mrs. Willins grimaced as 10 needles were put in her legs, hands and face. Staring out into the hall, she said, "It's very painful at first."

Immediately after the treatment, Mrs. Willins, who refused to give her age but looked to be in her 50s, told the audience of 150. "I want you to know that I'm 110 years old, but I hope I look like 30 now."

She added later, however: "I've looked at myself in the mirror and there's no difference. I guess I need another dozen treatments."

The acupuncturist, Starrie Ming of Santa Monica, said 12 to 15 of the $30 to $85 treatments would remove superficial wrinkles for several years. Her clients, she said, include movie stars and other celebrities, but she declined to name any of them.

Recent studies have shown that acupuncture may alleviate pain by stimulating nerves that release the body's own analgesic chemicals, called endorphins. The ancient Chinese treatment, based on the theory that nerve stimulation corrects excesses and deficiencies in the body's energy flow, has been used in dieting, facelifting and veterinary medicine. Mrs. Ming claimed she cured her dog's paralysis with acupuncture. "My cocker spaniel couldn't stand on his hind legs," she said. "He had arthritis and he cried all the time. I treated him every day for a month and now he's OK. It's been two years."

Mrs. Ming, who also has dentistry and structural engineering degrees from UCLA, said she is one of an estimated 700 acupuncturists practicing in California, and one of about 5,000 nationwide. She learned the treatment from her physician father.

In addition to Mrs. Willins, Mrs. Ming treated a 23-year-old physical education major for chronic neck pain. Kathy Woods, a student at California State University in Long Beach, said she had what doctors diagnosed as "nervous tension" that was aggravated by her participation in sports.

After 13 needles were removed from her neck and arms, Mrs. Woods waved her hands above her head and said: "It really feels a lot better. I recommend it. It's gone."

The audience burst into applause, and Mrs. Willins said she was impressed enough to try acupuncture for the rheumatoid arthritis she has suffered for a dozen years, despite her fear of needles.

13 NEEDLES USED — Kathy Woods, a student at the California State University in Long Beach, is treated by Starrie Ming, a dentist and acupuncturist, with pins for her chronic neck pain in Los Angeles Sunday. After the 13 needles had been removed from her neck and arms, Mrs. Woods said she felt a lot better. (AP Laserphoto)

Demands Irk Publishers

NEW YORK (AP) — Efforts will be made to get the publishers of the city's three major dailies and their striking pressmen back at the bargaining table, even though they have flatly turned down each other's latest proposals.

As the strike by 1,550 pressmen goes into its 27th day today, the publishers of the New York Times, Daily News and New York Post were reported to be adamant against further negotiations until the union modifies its latest demands on the crucial issue of manning of the printing presses.

That proposal by the Printing Pressmen's Union No. 2 would cut pressroom work forces by about 5 or 6 percent, according to Rupert Murdoch, Post publisher and head of the Publishers Association of New York City.

Union President William Kennedy estimated the proposal would save the publishers $30 million a year, but the papers say their combined pressroom costs now are under $50 million.

The union proposal did not offer any changes in overtime provisions and called for an increase in the number of apprentices and other new benefits. The proposal was made in response to a new offer by the publishers which would assure the jobs of more than 1,300 pressmen, according to Murdoch, guaranteeing jobs to any pressman who worked at least 30 weeks in 1977.

The publishers, however, sought provisions to eliminate what they consider unnecessary overtime and would overturn arbitration awards providing maintenance and other jobs for pressmen.

Veteran mediator Theodore Khel, who is not involved in the current talks, described the two proposals over the weekend as similar to "submissions of companies and unions before bargaining begins."

"They uncovered two sets of conflicting demands with no apparent dovetailing of differences," he said.

The late movie star, Francis Bushman, was so popular he was often forbidden to visit public places because women rioted trying to get at him.

A New Season

AFTER EIGHT YEARS in the National Football League, four Super Bowls and All-Pro honors, Dallas Cowboy safety Cliff Harris is approaching tonight's opener against the Baltimore Colts with a yawn and vast confidence. Right? Wrong! He isn't as nervous as one of the rookies on the squad, of course, but he is a bit apprehensive about the team and his own physical status. The short training camp and reduced exhibition schedule is a factor, too.

"This is strange, starting the season this early," Cliff commented on the eve of the big Monday night spectacular. "Usually we have longer to prepare, and I like that extra bit of security. That extra two weeks of preparation is important. Every year really is a new year, you see. I mean, you go out there and you're a new player. No matter how good you did the season before, or how bad, you go out there in July and you're starting all over."

The complexity of the Dallas system also makes it necessary for the players to have time to absorb the finer points, Cliff emphasized.

"It really does take longer for us, because rather than being just a basic attack, or defense, we have to key and look and see things. It just takes a little longer before you can coordinate your keying and your playing. When you first start out in summer camp, even the veterans don't play it well because they're missing their keys or reacting too late. But with time and repetition, you develop the kind of recognition and response that you have to have."

There is a possibility then that the Cowboys will be below par tonight against the Colts?

"Not too far below our usual standard, hopefully," Cliff laughed. "We'll probably make some mistakes, but they had a short training camp too. So it will be the same for both teams."

CLIFF ALSO IS CONCERNED about the lick a Pittsburgh Steeler put on his knee a week ago in the exhibition finale. Cliff barely escaped surgery a year ago, when he took a blow on the joint in a practice tilt. The doctors put his leg in a cast for a week, the ligaments tightened up and he had no more problems with it the rest of the season.

But this latest blast on the same knee obviously has Cliff worried, although team doctors and trainers don't believe it is serious.

"They don't think it is too bad," Cliff said in the skeptical tone of voice that most laymen use when explaining a bulletin from the medicos. "Anyway, I'll be playing on it."

For how long, remains to be seen.

DALLAS' ROOKIE CROP this year cannot compare with the "Dirty Dozen" of 1975, or even with the Tony Dorsett-Tony Hill-Andy Frederick crowd last year. But one of the four newcomers who made the active squad, cornerback Dennis Thurman, gets a vote of confidence from Harris.

"He's a good little athlete," Cliff declared. "He's not very big (5-11 x 170), but he's a hustler and he'll get after you. He's got a lot of quickness, which compensates for him not being a sprinter, and he's very smart and knows the system remarkably well."

Thurman may need some help covering grass-burners like Mel Gray, but that is nothing new in the Dallas secondary.

"Everyone needs help against those 9.2 or 9.3 guys," Cliff muttered. Cliff thinks all the players in the defensive secondary may need some assistance because of the rules changes prohibiting bumping the receivers downfield.

"We've seen fewer inside routes this summer and more sideline and deep routes," Cliff moaned. "That's the weakness of the defense under the new rules — down the sidelines — and we are going to see a lot more of it. There's a vulnerable area there, both short and long."

DESPITE THE PROBLEMS which always face a team at this stage of the season, morale on the Cowboy squad is high and optimism abounds.

"The team's attitude is just great," Cliff declared. "You would expect that, I guess, with us coming off a Super Bowl win. There could have been a problem, perhaps, with the contract hassle involving (kicker Efen) Herrera and the trade of Bill Gregory. But I don't think those things left any scars."

"I know that I'm entering the season with a lot of enthusiasm. The other players feel the same way, to the best of my knowledge. We want to win it all again!"

Tonight Cliff and the Cowboys take that first step down a long, hard road.

Pokes' Newest Faces Test

DALLAS (AP) — The newest of the Dallas Cowboys gets a quick pressure test tonight in the opener for the defending National Football League champions.

With millions of national television viewers looking on the ABC Monday Night Game of the Week, 8 p.m. CDT, and some 65,000 fans in Texas Stadium, young Rafael Septien will be introduced as the Cowboy place-kicker.

If past battles with the Baltimore Colts are any indication, Septien will also get a quick introduction into high drama.

Baltimore beat Dallas in Super Bowl V with a late field goal and two years ago, Efen Herrera tripped the Colts 30-27 on a last-second field goal.

Herrera was traded to Seattle after a salary fuss with Cowboy management. Dallas went through three more kickers and finally released rookie free agent Jay Sherrill to make room for Septien Wednesday.

However, Septien, who was a rookie with Los Angeles last year, didn't come easily. Oakland was in the bidding.

Dallas offered and Septien accepted a multi-year contract for undisclosed terms.

"I decided on Dallas because it's a tremendous organization even though Oakland offered more money," said Septien. "I know the people in this part of the country. They are very warm. I can't wait to show them I'm a good kicker."

Septien hit 18 of 30 field goals and 32 of 35 extra points for the Rams last year. He is now only one of two Cowboys on the team who weren't drafted. The other is running back Preston Pearson.

However, the game should boil down into a duel between Dallas' high-scoring offense, No. 1 in the NFL last year, and Baltimore's "Sack Pack," which permitted only 10 touchdown passes in 1977.

The Colt defense will have to play well because some vital cogs in last year's American Conference Eastern Division champions will be missing.

Quarterback Bert Jones was on the sidelines with an arm injured in a preseason game against Detroit and tailback

Halfback Don McCauley was the Colts' leading ground gainer in the preseason with 137 yards.

Dallas' offense was led in a 3-1 preseason by Roger Staubach's passing and Tony Hill's receptions. Hill beat out both Golden Richards and Butch Johnson for a wide receiver post opposite Drew Pearson.

Although Baltimore leads Dallas 4-3 in their all-time series, the Cowboys have played well against AFC teams, winning 18 of 22 games.

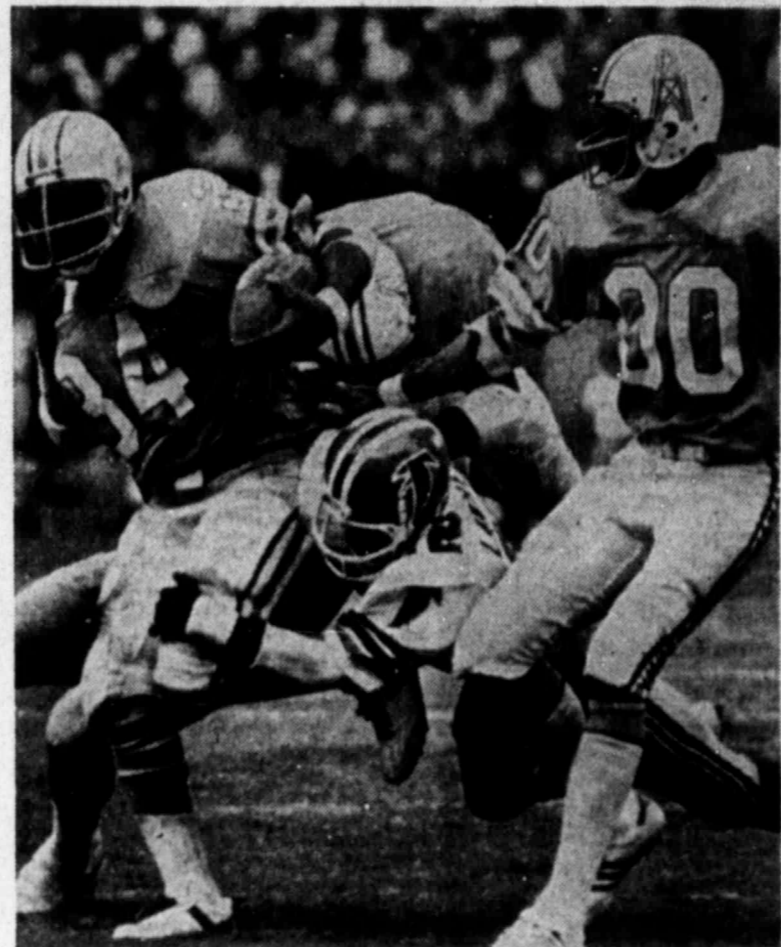

Baltimore was 1-3 in the preseason and this was the sixth straight year the Colts have opened the regular season on the road.

Dallas was a 13-point favorite over the Colts, who will be quarterbacked by Mike Kirkland.

Atlanta Defense Destroys Oilers

ATLANTA (AP) — It was billed as a shootout between Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell and free agent June Jones III waging warfare in their National Football League starting debuts. Instead, it was the same old story—defense.

The Atlanta Falcon defense, which set an NFL mark of allowing 129 points a year ago, scored one touchdown and set up two field goals in leading the Falcons to a 20-14 victory over the Houston Oilers Sunday in a league opener.

Campbell, the bullish former Texas star, ran for 64 yards in 14 attempts and ran 73 yards with a screen pass for a touchdown while Jones completed 10 of 23 passes for 104 yards and a 38-yard scoring pass to Bubba Bean.

Meanwhile, Atlanta's Tom Moriarty pounced on a Cliff Parsley punt in the end zone to snap a 7-7 tie and the defenders set up Fred Steinfort field goals of 30 and 48 yards with fumble recoveries in the second half to hold off the Oilers.

In addition, John James punted four times inside Houston's 20-yard line, with Moriarty downing two inside the five.

"That was the difference, the blocked punt and their kicker," said Houston Coach Bum Phillips. "He (James) kept us in bad field position all day."

"We gave them a touchdown on a defensive mixup and they gave us one. But we didn't block a punt. It looks like the Falcons' defense is starting off the same way they played all last year," said Phillips.

"Campbell did what we thought he could do. He ran hard and caught the ball well," said the third-year coach. "I thought Jones was excellent. He didn't turn the ball over and kept the ball under control. He ran their offense the way they want it run."

Jones, a second-year free agent from Portland State who completed only one pass for minus one yard last season, beat out 1975 Rookie of the Year Steve Bartkowski for the starting position.

"Sure, he's still No. 1," said Coach Lee-man Bennett. "He played well and didn't turn the ball over but we won because football is played by 45 guys and they all contributed today."

Moriarty, a backup defensive back, shrugged off his contribution.

"That's our job, to do those things. I made the team by playing on the specialty teams. I enjoy playing on them and if I play 10 years on them, it'll be fine."

Wade Falls In U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — A new generation of American female tennis tykes, showing no respect for their elders, are making high-pitched noises at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

And people are listening.

Third-seeded Virginia Wade, the 33-year-old former Wimbledon champion, was forced to notice Sunday, losing to Lele Forood, an unsung 21-year-old from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

Chris Evert, whose exploits as a pony-tailed 16-year-old at the U.S. Open seven years ago helped spawn the new wave of racket-swinging girls, couldn't help but notice. Even though she scored a hard-fought 6-1, 7-5 over 17-year-old Caroline Stoll, Miss Evert intimated that her days as queen of American tennis may be numbered.

"Women's tennis is much more interesting now," said the second-seeded Miss Evert, seeking her fourth straight U.S. Open crown. "I'd love to dominate again ... If I could put everything else aside, possibly I could dominate again. But I don't know if I'm willing to do that."

Even if she became completely tennis-oriented again, teen-age sensations like Tracy Austin and Pam Shriver might push Miss Evert down the tennis ladder, just like Chris did to Billie Jean King in the mid-1970s.

Miss Austin, the 15-year-old No. 5 seed, routed Maria Fernandez, Torrance, Calif., 6-1, 6-2 Sunday night. Earlier, Miss Shriver, 16 years old and 16th seeded, overcame Miss Evert's younger sister, Jeanne, 6-2, 7-5, and another youngster, 19-year-old Stacy Margolin, Beverly Hills, Calif., also moved into the fourth round, shocking sixth-seeded Dianne Fromholtz, Australia, 6-2, 7-5.

Martina Navratilova, the No. 1 seed, was to play her fourth-round match today.

Other notable matches today included No. 4 Vitas Gerulaitis against Andrew Pattison and No. 15 John McEnroe against Colin Dowdeswell. Defending champion Guillermo Vilas, the No. 3 seed, plays American Butch Walts tonight.

The men also provided an upset Sunday when No. 5 Eddie Dibbs, a clay court specialist, fell victim to the faster, harder Deco II surface and Brian Teacher of San Diego, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

California's Knapp Pops Blue Jays 3-1

By The Associated Press
Not many weeks ago, Chris Knapp was a bitter man — and a former pitcher. His interest in negotiating his contract was not shared by the management of the California Angels, so — at 24 years of age — Knapp announced his retirement.

Knapp was to have started the Angels' first game after the All-Star break July 13, a home game against the Toronto Blue Jays. But he never showed; Don Aase pitched a four-hit, 5-0 victory in his place.

Time away from the game changed Knapp's outlook. He applied for reinstatement and received it July 24. Since then, he has made seven appearances (six starts) and posted a 4-1 record.

The latest victory, a 3-1, one-hitter against the Blue Jays Sunday, never would have happened if Knapp hadn't changed his mind. But the right-hander looked ahead, instead of looking back, after one mistake cost him a perfect game.

The contract trauma, he said, "has blown over. I'm trying for help now — not next year. I'm trying to right up a pennant."

Yankees 4, Mariners 3
A three-run triple by Chris Chambliss and an RBI single by Cliff Johnson provided the runs and Rich Gossage pitched remarkable ninth-inning relief to preserve New York's ninth victory in 10 games.

Gossage came on with one run in, none out and runners at second and third. Then, on 11 pitches, he struck out Tom Pacione, Bob Robertson and Julio Cruz for his 21st save of the year.

"I knew I needed a couple of strikeouts," said Gossage. "Early in the year, when I first came to New York with the big contract I signed as a free agent, I tried to do too much to live up to it. Now I'm relaxed and just trying to do my job."

He did it quite well Sunday. —
Red Sox 11, A's 6
Jim Rice clubbed his major league-leading 37th homer and drove in four runs, powering Boston's East leaders past Oakland.

The performance hiked his batting average to .330 and his RBI total to 118, fostering the usual speculation about his chances of winning the Triple Crown. "I'm not even thinking of going for the Triple Crown," said Rice, still 10 points behind Minnesota's Rod Carew in the batting race. "If it comes, it comes."

Bob Stanley 13-2, who relieved Jim Wright with one out in the third, allowed just four hits. The victory kept Boston 5½ games ahead of second-place New York.

Royals 6, Tigers 2
Hal McRae's three-run homer capped a four-run fifth and carried Kansas City past Detroit, as Larry Gura improved his record to 13-4. Dave Rozema, 6-10, was pitching a one-hitter until Amos Otis singled with one out in the fifth, look third on Jerry Terrell's hit and scored on George Brett's bunt.

McRae followed with his 14th homer of the year.

Brewers 4, Rangers 3
Sal Bando's homer snapped a 3-3 fifth-inning tie and gave Milwaukee's Ed Farmer his first major league victory since 1974.

"Today is a dream," said the 28-year-old Farmer, who hurt his arm in 1975 and sat out 1976 after surgery for bone spur removal and cartilage problems in his right shoulder. "I'm here because of God, my wife, (Milwaukee General Manager) Harry Dalton and (Manager) George Bamberger."

White Sox 4, Orioles 2
Wayne Nordhagen, in his first at-bat since being sidelined by hepatitis July 14, cracked a three-run ninth-inning homer.

Twins 12-4, Indians 3-3
Butch Wynegar's ninth-inning single scored Dan Ford to win the nightcap for Minnesota after Roy Smalley drove in five runs with a three-run homer and a single, pacing the Twins' rout of Cleveland in the opener.

NL East Race Tightens

By The Associated Press
While most baseball fans have been paying close attention to the tight pennant race in the National League West, three clubs have begun to stage a wild shootout in the East.

The Philadelphia Phillies lost a doubleheader to San Francisco 4-1 and 3-2 Sunday, tightening both pennant chases. With Los Angeles losing to the New York Mets 8-5, the Giants moved within one game of the first-place Dodgers in the West. The Phillies' lead in the East, meanwhile, shrank to two games over the rampaging Pittsburgh Pirates and just 3½ over third-place Chicago.

The Pirates beat Atlanta 6-3 and the Cubs swept a doubleheader from Houston 3-2 and 4-2.

In the only other National League game, St. Louis bombed Cincinnati 10-2, dropping the Reds 6½ games out in the West.

Pirates 6, Braves 3
Dale Berra's three-run, ninth-inning homer vaulted the Pirates to their 19th victory in the last 22 games and their seventh in a row.

"It was like we knew it (the streak) was going to come," said Berra. "It had to come. It was just a matter of time."

Cubs 4-3, Astros 2-2
Chicago gained two games on Philadelphia by sweeping the Astros. Rookie Scott Thompson had a run-scoring single in his first major league at-bat and Greg Gross also drove in a run in the decisive seventh inning of the opener.

Kite Boosts Lead In B.C. Open Play

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Kite had a 5-stroke lead entering the final round of the $225,000 B.C. Open golf tournament and still wasn't satisfied.

"It's a good lead, but no lead is big enough until you're finished," Kite said. "I'd like to have a 6-shot lead going into the last hole."

Kite shot a 3-under-par 68 on the 71-par, 6,915-yard En-Joie Golf Club course Sunday, opening a commanding lead over Mark Hayes in quest of the $45,000 first prize.

Hayes fashioned a 6-under-par 65 after overcoming two bogies while Rod Curl was 6 strokes behind the former NCAA champion from Texas.

Kite managed to stretch his lead even though he bogied his first hole of the tournament here.

"If he birdies the first few holes (today), he is gone," said Curl, referring to Kite. "It would almost be like the rest of us were playing in another tournament."

Kite said he was not planning on playing cautiously today either. "I want to protect against protecting my lead. I don't want to protect it. I plan on building onto my lead."

Kite has led this tournament from the start. After sharing the first round lead with Tom Purtzer, he has pulled further ahead of his competition each day.

The 28-year-old golfer from Austin has been playing on the tour since 1972 after sharing the NCAA title with Ben Crenshaw.

Just before coming to En-Joie, Kite lost the Hall of Fame Classic by 1 stroke. The margin of his defeat there was a 1-stroke penalty he assessed on himself for an infraction no one else saw. His ball moved after he placed it on the ground.

John Mahaffey, who won this year's PGA tournament after coming back from 7 strokes behind, was not conceding defeat after he finished Sunday with a 4-under-par 67, 7 strokes off the pace.

"I'm not saying I'm completely out of the tournament yet," Mahaffey said. "I'm not wishing Tom Kite any ill at all. There is nothing that would make me happier than to see him win a tournament. But, I'd like to be in there and give him a run for his money."

Hayes moved into a challenging position in spite of playing what he said was a poor round of golf.

"I had an interesting day. I hit the ball worse today than yesterday. I can't really understand why I shot a 65," said Hayes, who had six birdies and an eagle.

The golfers played under threatening skies, but the rains that flooded the fairways and postponed Thursday's first round held off. There was a chance of rain today.

Golfers Share Hillcrest Lead

Dub Malaise fired a 69 Sunday to gain a share of the lead in the championship flight bracket in the Hillcrest Country Club Men's Golf Championship.

Malaise, who recorded a first-round score of 73, is tied with Mark Jarrett. Jarrett has played steady during the first two rounds. Jarrett has carded 71 rounds.

In third place just two strokes off the pace is J.B. White.

Upsets Capsize NFL Openers

By The Associated Press

Now, as the Denver Broncos were saying before they were so rudely interrupted... The Broncos, beginning the defense of their American Football Conference championship, started where they left off in the West, beating Oakland, 14-6 in their opening game of the National Football League season Sunday.

"It's about time people started believing Denver is for real," said defensive tackle Lyle Alzado.

"I still don't think people believe us yet," added safety Bill Thompson. "But I don't care."

Clutch interceptions by safeties Thompson and Bernard Jackson keyed Denver's victory over its chief rival in the AFC West. Nine months ago, the Broncos beat the Raiders 20-17 to cop the title in a major upset. But if it was upsets you wanted the NFL was the place to find them Sunday.

Favorites like Miami, Cincinnati, New England and Minnesota tumbled like tenpins on a day for the underdogs. The New York Jets stunned Miami 33-20, Kansas City edged Cincinnati 24-23, Washington kayoed New England 16-14 and New Orleans beat Minnesota 31-24.

Elsewhere, Atlanta knocked off Houston 20-14, Green Bay surprised Detroit 13-7, Chicago whipped St. Louis 17-10, Pittsburgh rapped Buffalo 28-17, Los Angeles edged Philadelphia 16-14, Cleveland topped San Francisco 24-7, and San Diego slugged Seattle 24-20.

The first NFL regular season weekend got started Saturday night when the New York Giants defeated Tampa Bay 19-13 and concludes tonight when Baltimore plays the defending champion Cowboys at Dallas.

Broncos 14, Raiders 6

Denver converted a pair of turnovers into touchdowns and rode a stubborn defense to its victory over Oakland.

Craig Morton lobbed a 5-yard TD pass to Haven Moses for the first score and the Broncos clung tenaciously to a 1-point lead, withstanding field goals of 33 and 22 yards by Errol Mann. Otis Armstrong plunged in for the wrapup TD in the final minute.

"Our defense won the game for us," said Morton.

It was Oakland's first regular season loss in Denver since 1962.

Saints 31, Vikings 24

Turnovers spelled the difference for New Orleans with safety Tommy Myers intercepting three passes and returning one of the thefts 97 yards for the winning touchdown over Minnesota.

Cornerback Maurice Spencer, who had an interception of his own, deflected Fran Tarkenton's pass into Myers' hands.

"I kind of stumbled and all I could do was concentrate on holding the ball," said Myers. "I took one look over my shoulder and didn't see any of their fast players around and from there on, it was clear sailing. I didn't think Fran could catch me."

Chiefs 24, Bengals 23

New Coach Marv Levy retrieved the Wing-T formation from pro football's moth balls and Kansas City rode it past Cincinnati.

"It's basic football...run and block," explained fullback Mark Bailey, who gained 106 yards as the Chiefs set a club record with 69 rushing plays.

Kansas City built a 24-9 lead and then hung on for the victory as the Bengals scored two TDs in the final five minutes.

Jets 33, Dolphins 20

Richard Todd stung Miami for three TD passes and Pat Leahy kicked four field goals as New York surprised the Dolphins.

Todd connected twice on bombs of 47 and 43 yards with wide receiver Wesley Walker. "Richard loves to throw long and now he has the confidence that he can do it," said Walker.

"I saw the openings and I went for them," added Todd.

Redskins 16, Patriots 14

Linebacker Brad Dusek took a recovered fumble 31 yards for the winning touchdown with 2:40 remaining as Washington stung New England.

Dave Butz stripped the ball loose from Horace Ivory and Dusek pounced on it, although not immediately.

"I was playing outside and when I saw the ball hit the ground, I hesitated," Dusek said. "I wanted to make sure I could pick it up on the run."

Rams 16, Eagles 14

Rookie Frank Corral's third field goal of the game, a 46-yarder with just seven seconds left to play, carried Los Angeles over Philadelphia.

The Eagles had taken a 14-13 lead on Wally Henry's 57-yard punt return with less than six minutes to play. The Rams started their winning drive from their own 12-yard line with less than two minutes left.

Bears 17, Cards 10

Walter Payton, who agreed to contract terms on the eve of the game, rushed for 101 yards and Roland Harper's 1-yard plunge with 1:56 remaining supplied the winning TD as Chicago topped St. Louis.

Payton carried five times and Harper six in the Bears' winning drive after the Cards had tied the game on a TD pass by Jim Hart.

Steelers 23, Bills 17

Terry Bradshaw threw a pair of TD passes while Franco Harris and Sidney Thornton rushed for two others as Pittsburgh defeated Buffalo.

Browns 24, 49ers 7

Rookie Ozzie Newsome scored the tie-breaking touchdown on a 33-yard end around just before halftime as Cleveland sank San Francisco.

"The Bear (Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant) is going to give me hell for spiking the ball after the touchdown," said Newsome, "but it was a professional spike."

Green Bay 13, Detroit 7

The Packers got field goals of 41 and 23 yards by Chester Marcol to defeat Detroit. Quarterback David Whitehurst, nursing an injured shoulder, piloted Green Bay to its victory.

"He wasn't 100 percent before the game, but the doctor gave us the green light for him to play," said Packers Coach Bart Starr.

Chargers 24, Seahawks 20

Dan Fouts threw a pair of TD passes to John Jefferson, leading San Diego over Seattle.

Fouts found Jefferson with a 29-yard pitch and a six-yarder while tackle Gary Johnson added another Charger TD, returning an intercepted pass 52 yards.

TV Critic Says Excellent Cast Fails To Save Tennis Movie

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — The life story of Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly translates onto the television screen as three hours of thwack-bonk, thwack-bonk.

The real life story of Miss Connolly was spectacular, but the same can't be said for the television version, despite an excellent cast and the best of intentions.

Maureen Connolly came out of the California sunshine, a poor kid playing what had been a rich man's game, a blonde bundle of muscle and determination who bounced onto the tennis courts and became, at 16, the youngest winner of the U.S. women's championship at Forest Hills; at 17, the youngest woman to win the Wimbledon championship.

She also was the first woman to win the grand slam of tennis — the American, English, French and Australian championships.

At 20, three times a Wimbledon winner, her career was suddenly over — the result of a freak riding accident which tore up her right leg.

Maureen Connolly died of cancer at 34.

This is the story that NBC presents as its "Big Event" on Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the television movie "Little Mo."

Miss Connolly is played by Glynnis O'Connor, an actress in her 20s, who manages to look like a young teen-ager but never quite gets down to age 9, which is what she is supposed to be as we get under way.

The cast features Michael Learned, looking much more glamorous and less tentative than when she's ensconced on Walton's Mountain as Olivia. This time she's Little Mo's coach, mentor and tyrant, who also narrates the show in a "This Is Your Life" style, as in, "You were 16 when..."

Others include Anne Baxter as her indecisive mother, Claude Akins as her antagonist stepfather, Martin Miller as her first tennis instructor, Leslie Nielsen as the San Diego sportswriter who dubbed her "Little Mo," and Anne Francis as his wife.

What went wrong? First, choice of subject matter. Off the court, Little Mo was a teen-age girl whose extracurricular life was as exciting as bubblegum. She was too young during her glory years to provide the meat of drama. Her whole life consisted of serve-and-return, thwack-bonk.

The later years, from 20 until her death at 34, are dealt with in only a few moments on the screen, and her final illness is merely mentioned, except for a picnic scene with her two tiny daughters who sob as she talks about their future.

The result is that instead of telescoping 34 years into three hours, "Little Mo" telescopes a 60 minute plot into three hours.

What's missing and sorely needed are newsreel shots and other footage of the real Little Mo at work, which could have been artfully inserted and would have provided a real thrill for the country's vast tennis playing and watching audience.

This way, the make-believe tennis is merely thwack-bonk, thwack-bonk. When you've seen one thwack-bonk, you've seen them all.

Lost Works Sought By Museum

WASHINGTON (AP) — An art museum seems an unlikely place to hang a "wanted" poster, but it has brought results: two paintings by Georges Rouault and Diego Rivera which had been lost to art scholars for years.

Both were among the more than 2,000 works of art acquired by John Quinn, a New York attorney who was one of this country's first collectors of 20th century art.

When Quinn died in 1924, he specified in his will that his collection be sold at auction. It was sold in three years. Art historians have lamented the dispersal ever since; the Quinn collection could have formed the nucleus of a major museum.

When the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden last June mounted a retrospective exhibition of works once owned by Quinn, it put up a "wanted" poster asking for information about 11 key lost works by Picasso, Rouault, Rivera, Rousseau and others.

"With so many clues and discoveries still emerging, it would have been foolish not to involve the public in the hunt," said Hirshhorn historian Judith Zilczer, who arranged the Quinn show.

There have been two major discoveries.

Presumed lost since 1949, when it left the hands of the original Quinn buyer, the Rouault had passed through dealers in London and New York before reaching the New York auction house. It now belongs to a private collector.

Shortly thereafter, a call came from a visitor who had owned Rivera's 1912 painting, "Samaritan," from 1963 until it was recently sold to a Mexican collector. The Hirshhorn did not name either of the current owners.

Several other works not reproduced on the poster also turned up. Unsolicited letters, phone calls and visits from collectors led to discovery of works by Andre Derain, Jacques Villon and Spencer Gore, all formerly owned by Quinn and missing for more than 50 years.

Mrs. Zilczer discovered that the library in Quinn's hometown, Fostoria, Ohio, owned a painting by the American impressionist Ernest Lawson, acquired by the library because Quinn once owned it.

Plumber Finds Massive Roots

FALMOUTH, Maine (AP) — After 41 years in the plumbing business, Richard Waltz figures he's finally found the ultimate of roots.

"I've never seen anything quite like it," he comments about a 32-foot-long, 100-pound mass of tiny, almost hair-like interwoven root fibers pulled from a clogged drainage pipe.

Even after the roots were out, the drainage pipe remained clogged, and Waltz and his men kept probing. They found another 20-foot mass of fibers.

"Roots have almost an intelligence for locating pipes," Waltz explained. "They'll grow down to a pipe, then go longitudinally along the pipe until they finally locate a crack. Finally, a little spear the size of a hair on your head will work into the pipe," he said.

Dallas Businessmen Claim To Have First Recording Of Elvis

DALLAS (UPI)—After 24 years, what is claimed to be Elvis Presley's first recording is about to be released.

Three Dallas businessmen are pressing a record they say is being made from Elvis' first recording. The record is scheduled to be released to local radio stations Sept. 5, and will become available to the public Sept. 9. The song, "Tell Me Pretty Baby," reportedly was recorded in Phoenix in 1954, and was written by Pete Falco, leader of the Red Dots, a Phoenix band.

One of the businessmen, Don Reese, a disc jockey in Los Angeles in the 1950s, says he was passing through Phoenix in 1954 on his way to Texas and visiting various clubs and radio stations when he was invited to sit in for a recording session with a young singer named Elvis.

Reese says this was the only time he ever met Elvis. He says he remembered the name because he thought how funny it would be to introduce a song by a man named Elvis.

Reese returned to California and moved to Dallas in 1967. Andrew Jackson, a record company owner for whom Falco worked, had bought a tape from Falco that supposedly was of Elvis. Falco had tried to sell it in the early 50s, but couldn't because rock 'n' roll was too new.

Reese says he had known Jackson in the 1950s professionally.

"We lost touch until four months ago when Andrew looked me up and asked me to come over to the house to hear this master recording of Elvis singing 'Tell Me Pretty Baby,'" he said.

"He said he bought it off a friend of his, Pete Falco, who was in Phoenix. We got together with Pete, got his affidavit and took the tape to the Callier Center for Communication Disorders, part of the University of Texas in Dallas, and had a spectrograph (voiceprint) done by John J. Godfrey, assistant professor for communication disorders.

"He compared the results with another Elvis tape that was recorded early in his career and verified that it was Elvis," Reese said.

But Godfrey told UPI he never verified the recording as having been made by Presley. Godfrey read parts of the letter he sent Jackson after studying the tape and another known to have been recorded by Presley.

"In my opinion it is probable that the singer is the same. I came to this conclusion after careful comparative listening and some informal investigation of sound spectrographs of both excerpts. While it is not possible to prove scientifically that two such samples are from the same voice, under the circumstances I find no reason to doubt that they are."

Godfrey said he did not represent his investigation as a "voiceprint," which he said he does not believe to be a true scientific method, but as a spectrograph, an entirely different technique.

He said he has in the past testified against use of "voiceprints" as confirmation that an individual made a recording.

Migrant Farm Workers Begin 100-Mile March

BELMORE, Ohio (AP)—Striking migrant workers began a 100-mile march to Columbus today to dramatize their demands for better wages and conditions in Ohio's tomato fields.

About 100 strikers gathered prior to the start of the march at a park in Findlay, 30 miles from a tent city at Belmore where many strikers have been living. Leaders said they expected as many as 1,000 migrants to join the march before it reaches the state capital.

The strikers left a few of their forces behind at the tent city, located on four acres rented to the migrants by Belmore

Mayor William Kelley. Kelley has said he was pressured by threatening phone calls into evicting the strikers by midnight tonight.

Strike leaders say about 1,500 migrant workers in all have refused to harvest the crops.

Baldemar Velasquez, president of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee, said that by midnight the only thing left in the campsite will be eight 15-by-20-foot tents and a big top.

Members of the Toledo-based committee say they want to take their campaign for better migrant labor wages to Gov.

James Rhodes.

"We want to tell the governor what we think of the tomato industry in his state, ... to see how bad the tomato industry is," said Velasquez, 31.

Until now the strikers have traveled from field to field, urging pickers to join them and let the state's multimillion-dollar tomato crop rot.

Farmers have responded by forming caravans of their own to stand between the strikers and the pickers, honking horns, sounding sirens and shouting.

The strikers plan to walk about 25 miles a day. They plan to reach Columbus on Friday and hold a rally.

Velasquez said the decision to leave the tomato farms for the Ohio statehouse came because strike leaders felt they had saturated the two-county target area in northwest Ohio, the nation's second largest tomato growing region. California is the largest.

"The biggest thing we've done is take the people away," Velasquez said.

An estimated 8,000 migrants came to Putnam County to harvest the tomato crop. More than a fourth of them have already left, said Sheriff Bob Beutler. No figures were available for adjoining Henry County.

Some farmers agree they have been hurt by the strike, but many say they will be able to harvest most of the crop, despite the labor walkout. Some migrant crews remained, and local high school students and farm families began picking on Sunday as a two-week peak period started.

Velasquez, however, claims his movement has stunted the harvest on 40 percent of the more than 6,000 acres in Putnam and Henry counties where tomatoes are growing.

Two canneries, Libby, McNeil & Libby Inc. and Campbell Soup Co., are targets of the strike. The canneries contract with the growers, who hire the migrants. Farmers say at current prices they would only break even if they paid the strikers what they are asking — 35 cents a 30-pound hamper, a dime increase, and a minimum wage of $3.25 an hour, a 60-cent increase.

The strikers also want to be included in negotiations between growers and canneries.

TENT CITY OF STRIKING MIGRANTS—Three tents erected by the Farm Labor Organizing Committee (FLOC) stand behind a residential section of the northwestern Ohio village of Belmore. A total of 12 tents were provided by the FLOC to house striking tomato field migrant laborers in the area. The migrant workers have been using their vehicles as caravans to picket laborers who continue to work in the tomato fields. (AP Laserphoto)

Lubbock Man Given Parole

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — William D. Yates, sent to prison after conviction of crimes in Lubbock County, has been released by Gov. Dolph Briscoe upon recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Yates was convicted in Lubbock County Feb. 3, May 15 and July 30, 1975, of burglary of a vehicle (two counts), sale of marijuana and forgery.

He was paroled to Harris County after serving and earning five years and nine months of a seven-year sentence.

The paroles of three other area men were revoked.

Ernest Devero (Ernest Devroe) received a seven-year sentence in Lubbock County for burglary of a habitation. He began serving the sentence July 29, 1975, and was granted parole Dec. 30, 1975.

His parole was revoked for unsatisfactory adjustment.

Also revoked for unsatisfactory adjustment was the parole of Paul Landeros, convicted in Hale County of forgery by taking and burglary.

Landeros began serving a five-year sentence July 2, 1975, and was granted parole June 16, 1977.

Chess Match To Resume

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI)—Soviet defector Viktor Korchnoi and champion Anatoly Karpov will play their 19th game of the World Chess championship Tuesday with Korchnoi handling the white pieces and moving first.

Korchnoi Sunday deftly maneuvered a knight pawn one rank away to queening promotion and forced Karpov to offer a draw in the resumption of the 18th game despite a slight positional advantage.

After 18 games, the 27-year-old Karpov kept his commanding 4-1 lead in the $550,000 match.

Six victories are needed to win the crown that American chess genius Bobby Fischer gave up in 1975 along with the $550,000 top prize. Draws do not count.

They were scheduled to attend a party to be given tonight by Philippines first lady Imelda R. Marcos.

Experts had foreseen the draw when the game was adjourned after 40 moves at the end of the first time control Saturday.

Area Man Dies In Auto Crash

LAMESA (Special)—A 22-year-old Lamesa man was dead at the scene of a two-car accident Sunday that occurred about 12:45 p.m. on Texas 180 in Dawson County.

Gilbert Lara Contreras, of Star Rt. 2, Lamesa, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Barbara Harris of Lamesa.

A Department of Public Safety trooper said Contreras and a second driver were westbound on the highway, about a half mile west of Lamesa, when the crash occurred. Both vehicles reportedly were traveling at a high rate of speed when Contreras apparently lost control of his car, left the road and struck a tree.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in St. Margaret Mary's Catholic Church with Monsignor Jerome Vitek, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Lamesa Cemetery under direction of Branon Funeral Home.

A native of Dawson County, Contreras had lived in Lamesa for 14 months.

Survivors include his wife Yolanda; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salome Contreras of Lamesa; three sisters, Amelia, Erma and Maria, all of the home; and five brothers, Robert, Albert, Fernando, Arturo and Sammy, all of Lamesa.

Police Release 157 Iranians

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Most of the 171 Iranian students arrested during a bloody confrontation with police on a downtown street have been released on bail but several others remained in custody, four on felony charges.

A total of 157 of the demonstrators were released Saturday night.

Of the 14 remaining in custody, four were charged with assault with a deadly weapon on a peace officer, a felony, and 10 on various misdemeanor charges, including rioting and inciting to riot.

More than 300 Iranians, almost all students at Southern California colleges, marched through the Los Angeles Civic Center Friday, calling for the downfall of the Shah and protesting outside the Los Angeles Times against what they called "falsification" of news from Iran by Western news agencies.

A group of about 200 demonstrators massed in the street and charged a force of more than 100 club-wielding police officers, authorities said, swinging protest signs and fists.

About 30 demonstrators were injured, most receiving head injuries. Nine police officers were treated for cuts and other injuries. Paramedics treated most of the injured at the scene.

The Iranian Student Association held a peaceful rally Sunday in front of police headquarters, claiming police used excessive force during the melee.

Obituaries

Zeola Bearden

Services for Zeola M. Bearden, 69, of 3010 Amherst Ave. will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Chapel.

The Rev. Fred Brown, pastor of Cooper Methodist Church, will officiate, and the Rev. J. Lennel Hester, pastor of the Asbury United Methodist Church, will assist.

Burial will follow in Resthaven Memorial Park under direction of Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home.

Mrs. Bearden, formerly of Silverton, died at 5:15 p.m. Saturday in St. Mary's Hospital after a lengthy illness.

The Thalia native moved to Lubbock in 1950. She was a Methodist.

Survivors include a daughter, Norma Mae Jaeger of West Jefferson, Ohio; a son, Clifton Wells of Albuquerque, N.M.; two brothers, Herbert Davis of Amarillo and Kenneth Davis of Houston; a sister, Pearl Coffee of Estes Park, Colo.; four grandchildren; and a great-grandchild.

MULESHOE (Special)—Services for John Howard, 67, of Muleshoe will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home Chapel of the Chimes with the Rev. James Williams, pastor of Muleshoe's Calvary Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Bailey County Memorial Park under direction of the Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home.

Howard died Saturday afternoon at his home after an apparent heart attack.

The Shawnee, Okla., native had lived in Muleshoe for 23 years moving there from Lubbock. He was the owner of Howard's Boot and Shoe Repair Shop here.

Howard was a Baptist and a member of the Muleshoe Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 8570. He was a veteran of World War II serving with the U.S. Army.

He was married to Mable Brown Dec. 7, 1941, in Clovis, N.M.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, Johnny of Hub and Sidney of Albuquerque, N.M.; his mother, Mrs. Lula Mae Nunze of Clovis, N.M.; a sister, Mrs. Mable Burton of Clovis, N.M.; three grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. McClure

CROSBYTON (Special)—Services for Mrs. Marie McClure, 70, of Crosbyton will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the First Baptist Church here with the Rev. Bobby Rine, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Crosbyton Cemetery under direction of Adams Funeral Home.

Mrs. McClure died about 10 a.m. Sunday in the Crosbyton Clinic Hospital after a lengthy illness.

W.W. White

Services for longtime former Lubbock resident W.W. "Bill" White, 65, of Houma, La., are pending with Sanders Funeral Home here.

White was dead on arrival at a Houma hospital about noon Sunday after suffering an apparent heart attack. An autopsy will be performed to determine the exact cause of death.

White lived in Lubbock from 1926 to 1960, working as a printer. He was a World War II Navy veteran.

White is survived by a brother, Howard of Lubbock; and two sisters, Mrs. P.W. Reven of Lubbock and Francis Donnithorn of White River.

Oil Company Tests New Techniques

CALGARY, Alberta (AP)—Tar sands and heavy oil deposits found throughout Alberta are estimated to hold more than six times the oil reserves of Saudi Arabia, but present technology can recover only 10 percent of this oil.

Pacific Petroleum has an $11.8-million pilot project with the Alberta Oil Sands Authority to test deep recovery techniques in the province.

Rites Slated For Former Tech Head

Services for Dr. Dossie Marion Wiggins, 82, longtime Texas educator and fifth president of Texas Tech University, will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Dr. Elwin Skiles, of Hardin-Simmons University, will officiate.

Burial will follow in Resthaven Memorial Park under supervision of Rix Funeral Directors.

Dr. Wiggins died at his 3215 19th St. home Saturday morning after a brief illness.

He began his career as an educator and university administrator in the mid-1920s. From 1926 until 1935 he was associated with Hardin-Simmons University (then Simmons University) as a professor of education and dean of students.

In 1935 he was named president of Texas College of Mines and Metallurgy (now the University of Texas at El Paso), remaining there until he was chosen president of Tech.

Dr. Wiggins served as Tech's president from 1948 to 1952. He launched Tech's first major landscape improvement project and organized the university's first sustained building program.

Dr. Wiggins resigned as president of Tech in 1952 to become associated with Citizens National Bank (now Texas Commerce Bank).

He served as president of the bank from 1960 to 1961 and became chairman of the Executive Committee in 1962. He remained a member of the board until his death.

Dr. Wiggins was a member of the State Committee of 25 to study education beyond the high school in Texas and later was appointed one of the first members of the Texas Coordinating Board.

He was a Baptist and a member of the Texas Tech Foundation Board, the Medical Research Foundation Board of Texas and former president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Wiggins was married to Winnie Kinard of Memphis in 1918. She died in 1975. He later married Louise Resley of El Paso in March 1977.

Survivors include his wife; a stepson, Lt. Col. Patrick Resley of Tucson, Ariz.; and a sister, Mrs. Marvin W. Lewis of Abilene.

Palibearers will be nephews Wayne Nash, Robert Nash, Ed Nash, Robert Dillman, George Dillman, John Kiker, Bill Kiker Jr. and Marion Kiker.
