WASHINGTON (AP) — Cracks began to appear today in the fragile structure of Mideast peace fashioned at Camp David, as Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed I. Kamel resigned and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin differed with U.S. officials about Israel's right to put new settlements on the West Bank.

Reports of Kamel's resignation were confirmed by knowledgeable American officials, who expressed fear it was an indication that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat could not sell the agreement to the Arab world.

Kamel became foreign minister after Ismail Fahmy resigned last year in protest of Sadat's initial peace overture to Israel.

Begin, speaking in Hebrew to an audience limited to Israeli reporters, cast more doubt on the durability of the agreement when he said Israel had made no commitment to establish no new settlements on the West Bank during the five-year transition period envisaged by the agreement.

After Begin, Sadat and President Carter signed the agreement Sunday night, American officials told reporters that Israel had committed itself to establishing no new settlements during the negotiations for Palestinian autonomy in the region.

There was no immediate explanation of the apparent discrepancy between Begin's version of the agreement and that of the U.S. officials.

Begin also told the Israeli press that Israel planned to maintain a military presence in the West Bank area even after the transition period to insure Israeli security.

He also disclosed that the United States had promised to build Israel two new airbases in the Negev Desert to replace those in the Sinai being returned to Egyptian control.

Meanwhile, Carter, claiming success "far beyond any expectations," plans to solicit support from Congress for the peace framework he signed with Begin and Sadat.

Carter was to address Congress tonight in joint session at 7 p.m. CDT. The ABC, NBC and CBS networks all said they would televise the speech live.

Sadat met separately this morning at the Egyptian embassy with Vice President Walter F. Mondale, former Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

At an emotion-packed White House ceremony, Carter joined Begin and President Sadat in formally adopting a wide-ranging accord that Carter said "will provide that Israel may live in peace within secure borders."

Also initialed was a companion document that envisions the negotiation of a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel within three months.

The summit agreements won immediate and nearly unanimous praise from Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., chairman of the Middle East subcommittee, called them "an excellent beginning."

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., one of a small group of senators invited to the White House for the signing ceremony, expressed concern over possible criticism from Egypt's enemies who he

Storm Rages In Caribbean

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Hurricane Greta pounded the northern Caribbean coast of Honduras with heavy rains and winds up to 125 mph today, following the path of a 1974 storm that killed 6,000 persons.

Amateur radio operators reported heavy rainfall and some flooding along the coast before dawn. But the Red Cross said it had no reports yet of casualties or major damage in the coastal lowlands, the area devastated by floods from Hurricane Fifi four years ago.

The U.S. National Hurricane Center in Miami said the storm, with gale winds extending 150 miles north of the center, was centered at 9 a.m. EDT near Guana-ja Island, about 40 miles off the northern coast, and was skirting the coast as it moved westerly at 10-15 mph.

Officials of the military government put army, police and Red Cross units on standby as Greta headed along the coast toward the heavily populated Aguan Valley, in northwest Honduras near the Guatemalan border. If it continues on that path, the storm will probably die down in the mountains of Guatemala and southern Mexico.

San Pedro Sula, on the edge of the Aguan Valley, is the most important industrial center in Honduras. It was isolated and badly damaged by the 1974 storm.

The Miami hurricane center warned of tides up to 10 feet along the coast and 15 inches or more of rain in the mountains that could cause serious flooding in river valleys.

Emergency warnings were broadcast on commercial and government radio stations, and there were some reports of residents of low-lying areas being evacuated. But many areas are so isolated that such warnings don't reach them. And failure to heed warnings that were given contributed to the heavy toll in 1974.

Manuel Mora, director-general of the Honduran Red Cross, said low areas on the four Bay Islands, 20-50 miles off the coast in the Gulf of Honduras, were evacuated, and food was being stockpiled.

Plane Crash Kills Five

KERVILLE (AP) — Five persons were killed in the crash of an airplane just north of this Hill Country city, the Department of Public Safety reported today.

The plane went down in a remote area near the border between Kerr and Gillespie counties about 4 p.m. Sunday, but authorities did not locate the wreckage until 2:40 a.m. today.

The names of the victims were withheld, pending positive identification. The dead included two men, two women and a baby.

"The bodies were still in the aircraft," said DPS radio operator Mike Rogers of Kerrville.

They were pronounced dead at the scene by Gillespie County Justice of the Peace Garland Taylor.

Fraud, Crime Cost Taxpayers Billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new report from a congressional watchdog agency estimates that fraud and related white collar crimes against the federal government cost American taxpayers between $2.5 billion and $25 billion each year.

The report by the General Accounting Office was released today as the administration agreed to set up an interagency strike force to investigate the mushrooming scandal at the General Services Administration, the federal government's housekeeping agency.

Announcement of the strike force and release of the report came at a hearing of a Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee chaired by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., which was called to obtain a progress report on various investigations of the GSA scandal.

Deputy Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti testified he expects the first wave of indictments in the scandal to come in late November, as a result of federal grand jury investigations in Baltimore and Washington.

The Baltimore grand jury is looking into alleged fraud at GSA self-service stores and in use of government credit cards. The Washington grand jury has been investigating alleged bribery and fraud in repair and alteration contracts for federal buildings in the Washington area.

"No one knows the magnitude of fraud against the government," said Elmer B. Staats, head of the GAO. "Department of Justice officials believe that the incidence of fraud in federal programs ranges anywhere from one to 10 percent of the programs' expenditures."

Staats said the programs vulnerable to this fraudulent activity now total about $250 billion annually.

Chiles hailed the decision to establish a strike force on the GSA as "a big step on the road toward prosecuting the wrongdoers both at the GSA and in the private sector who have almost put an end to the day-to-day dealings of the (federal government's) landlord and supplier."

The remarks by Chiles and Staats were prepared for the hearing by the subcommittee on federal spending practices and open government. The remainder of the hearing dealing specifically with the GSA, originally scheduled for today, will be held tomorrow, a subcommittee spokesman said.

Also scheduled to appear were GSA Administrator Jay Solomon, the agency's special counsel Vincent Alto, its chief investigator William Clinkscales, audit chief Howard Davia, Assistant Federal Supply Service Commissioner Roger Carroll, and Wilton Shearin, a GSA construction engineer once ousted from his job for criticizing the agency.

Syria, PLO Reject Pact Produced By Summit

By The Associated Press
Israelis today received the Camp David Mideast peace accords with mixed joy and apprehension, while Egypt's state-controlled newspapers said the documents mean Israel will pull out of occupied Arab lands.

Hardline Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization rejected the agreements as expected. The Soviet Union issued a harsh denunciation, calling the agreements "a real plot against the peoples of the Middle East and the interests of peace."

And in a clear signal of the difficulties Egyptian President Anwar Sadat faces in following through on Camp David, U.S. officials reported in Washington that Egypt's foreign minister, Mohammed I. Kamel, has resigned, apparently in protest of the agreements announced Sunday night.

Kamel, a member of the Egyptian delegation to the talks, had not attended the White House signing ceremony.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, in a Washington interview with Radio Israel, assured Israelis that he and other Israeli negotiators had concluded "an agreement with honor and security."

The most favorable Israeli reaction was from peace groups and the opposition Labor Party. Doubt came from Begin's conservative Likud bloc.

The Egyptian newspaper accounts appeared aimed at heading off impressions that President Anwar Sadat had compromised on his demand for total Israeli withdrawal from all Arab territory.

"Carter and Sadat and Begin Announce the Camp David Peace Agreement," bannered the authoritative Al Ahran, while Al Gournhouria said, "The Camp David Agreement: Israeli Withdrawal from Sinai and the West Bank and Gaza."

Al Ahran reported the outcome as "a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel within three months in the framework of a general agreement to settle the conflict."

Al Ahran also said Israel had agreed to the principle of final withdrawal from Arab territory in return for peace—something not announced by President Carter on television.

In Tel Aviv, Labor Party leader Shimon Peres said, "I greet with happiness the fact that the summit didn't fail and that the road to peace is now open."

Gula Cohen, a Likud member of Parliament and a backer of Jewish settlements in occupied Arab lands, called for a vote of no confidence in Begin. "This is not a peace treaty but a treaty for war," she said.

Jews and Arabs in occupied Arab territories expressed concern. Nimrod Shoshan, an Israeli settler in the Sinai village of Yamit, said he hoped Yamit would remain Israeli. "I hope we won't have to be the great sacrifice," he said.

Raymonda Tawil, a Palestinian activist on the West Bank, said the summit sold out the Palestinian right to an independent state by making no provisions for the future of Palestinians. "Don't think that Begin and Sadat can decide for the whole world," she said.

In Beirut, Lebanon, a spokesman for PLO leader Yasser Arafat said, "There can be no Middle East peace without the PLO."

Police in Jerusalem said they expect fierce reaction from the PLO. The guerrillas have stepped up their terrorist bombings in the six weeks since the plans for the talks were announced, vowing to disrupt the summit.

Jews in East Jerusalem feared new sabotage, and police said they were called to examine about 40 suspected bombs, twice the usual number, within eight hours of the news from Washington.

Accused Slayer Cites 'Mistake'

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Murder defendant Kenneth Wayne Herndon today testified he shot William Drew Young III by mistake — and, Herndon said, he would not have even been holding a gun if he had not thought Young was reaching for a weapon.

According to witnesses, Young — whose body later was found stuffed in the trunk of his burning auto — was shot to death inside a back office at a Lubbock bar last Christmas Eve.

Herndon, a gaunt 36-year-old who is one of six persons charged with Young's death, said he kept a close eye on Young inside the bar office because he earlier had seen a pistol tucked inside Young's left boot.

"He crossed his leg up to his lap," Herndon said of the moments directly preceding the shooting.

Herndon said he then "eased my gun out and cocked it."

The defendant said he began talking to the 28-year-old Young. "At that time he just set his leg down and bent over like this," Herndon said, demonstrating the position from the witness box.

The defendant said he got to his feet, pulled his own 44-caliber pistol from beneath his coat, and pointed it toward the floor. "Did you point it at him?" Attorney Gerald Anderson asked.

Herndon said he had not pointed the weapon at Young.

But, Herndon said, at that point Jim Gordon, 43 — also charged with murder in the case — came into the picture.

"He just lunged at me and grabbed my arm and the gun went off," Herndon said.

Standing before the six-man, six-woman jury in Judge Thomas L. Clinton's 99th District Court, Herndon, at Anderson's instructions, demonstrated how Gordon had grabbed the arm.

Herndon touched his forearm near the elbow, causing the arm which had been extended toward the courtroom floor to raise to waist level.

Witnesses had earlier indicated a bullet struck Young in the head.

"I couldn't believe the gun had gone off; I was shocked. My mind was just on fire, so to speak, I couldn't think," Herndon said, when Anderson asked for his reaction.

Herndon said he later carried Young's body from the Salt River Saloon, 2311 19th St., and put it in the trunk of Young's car. But he said he had nothing to do with the subsequent disposition of the body

Marshall Islands Hospital Has Sanitation Problem

By KAY LYNCH
 MAJURO, U.S. Trust Territory (UPI) — The U.S. government-run hospital which serves the 20,000 residents of the Marshall Islands is out of money and supplies. It's dilapidated and filthy.

Both Majuro's lone doctor and the director of health services for the Marshall Islands' 30,000 residents have written it off as a disaster.

"Syringes and needles are used three and four times," Dr. Michael Cummins, hired in June after responding to an advertisement in an American Medical Association journal, said dejectedly.

"Rubber gloves are re-used. I open the cabinets and find cockroaches in the supposedly sterile dressings."

Cummins, 31, became so frustrated that last week he wrote a letter to President Carter, the United Nations Trusteeship Council, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune.

He said he bypassed the government of the U.S. Trust Territory of the Pacific "for the simple reason that they have done nothing for 30 years, and I know they will do nothing now."

In Washington, James Joseph, under-secretary of the Department of the Interior, called conditions at the hospital "deplorable" and said, "It's not that the hospital doesn't meet U.S. standards — it doesn't meet any standards."

Joseph, who inspected hospitals when he was in the Army, said he was in Majuro Aug. 7 and that the problem is in the local management — not the U.S. government. He said high level action has been taken.

Adrian Winkel, U.S. High Commissioner in the Trust Territory, said he was "shocked" when he first visited the hospital but he added that because the U.S. is preparing the Marshall Islands for self-government, efforts are being made to pare costs of government programs to levels the Marshallese can support themselves.

And he said that in an overall context of U.S. administration of the Trust Territory, "a substantial amount has been achieved in a short time."

"The political system, education, medical programs — such as they exist — have been brought about in (the past 18 years)," he said. "I really can't accept the criticism that nothing has been done."

Last month a 12-year-old boy crippled by a polio epidemic which swept the Marshalls in the 1960s "had both feet eaten by rats," Cummins said. "The tragedy of the situation is that this is not an isolated occurrence at this so-called hospital."

One of the hospital's five medical officers was sued recently in one of the district's first malpractice cases for having put a cast on a boy's broken arm so tightly that it became gangrenous and had to be amputated at Tripler Army Medical Center in Honolulu, 2,500 miles northeast.

"When the case came to trial, the guy got up and said, 'You can't sue me for malpractice because I'm not a doctor. The only training I had was a 6-month course in ophthalmology, and I failed that,'" Cummins said.

The same man is performing cataract surgery and emergency eye operations at the district hospital.

Cummins and physical therapist Ethel Coeling said rat and roach bites are frequently seen on immobile patients and roaches seem to like, in particular, the feet of diabetics.

Cats, dogs and pigs — which run loose on Majuro — and tipsy relatives of patients have free run of the hospital building.

Most nursing care is provided by patients' families. Those with no families to bring food are served nothing but rice and fish three meals a day regardless of their nutritional or metabolic needs.

To check out the stories circulating among Americans on Majuro, UPI visited the 60-bed facility and was shown cockroaches in the "sterile" solutions, urine running down dirty, paint-peeling walls and backed up toilets. No one gave a glance to the two dogs which followed us into the hospital and into the wards.

Family members sat against walls fanning themselves, or slept on mats under the beds. Cummins said their coming in or out at all hours of the day and night makes privacy and sanitation impossible.

Walls and sink and toilet fixtures in the bathroom at the end of the men's ward were brown with caked urine, dirt and excrement.

A red rag clogged one toilet, and the floor was an inch deep in the overflow. Pipes for what used to be the shower were either missing or broken.

In the room where the acutely ill and injured are first examined, syringes with broken needles lay on one counter. Dirt-encrusted puddles and rivulets were on the unmopped floor, and there were piles of grit in the corners. The autoclave (for sterilizing implements) was broken although Cummins said the hospital has another one that works.

All that Cummins said about the condition of the hospital and the quality of care was confirmed by Ezra Riklon, the Marshallese director of health services for the district.

"Right now we have no money until Oct. 1. It ran out," he said. He added some drugs are being purchased from the $4 room fees from those patients who can afford it.

"My supposition is this is the last quarter and they (the district administration) want to balance the books," he said. "Right now we expect an overrun of several thousand dollars."

He would not say how many thousands.

The July-to-September quarterly allotment for medical supplies and travel was $61,200 of this year's annual hospital budget of $1,675,000.

Riklon confirmed that last year almost half of the hospital's total appropriation was spent transporting patients to Tripler in Honolulu for treatment. Cummins contends for that $450,000 the local administration could have brought in a much-needed team of a pediatrician, an obstetrician, two general practitioners and a radiologist and still saved $300,000.

Miss Coeling said that in 10 years the hospital administration has allocated only $1,500 for equipment for her physical therapy unit. She said that over the years she has found ways to get bits of money from various federal programs.

She now handles 25 outpatients and 20 ward patients every day.

Riklon said he no longer allows two and three family members to accompany the referral patient to Honolulu. "Usually I send a medical escort," he said. "We make a few exceptions if there is political pressure or if the patient is paralyzed and can do nothing for himself."

He said the problem with supplies is attributable to the lack of trained warehouse personnel to keep track of them and to the system of procurement.

"The man in the warehouse cuts a requisition and he sends it to the district financial officer," he said. "Sometimes it just sits there, and they keep telling us they have no money. He sends it to Saipan (the Trust Territory headquarters) and, if they have time, they will review it and then send it to the vendor in Honolulu. Then he sends the supplies to Saipan and then they send them to the district."

Riklon said he hoped the separation of the Marshalls district from the Congress of Micronesia — recently approved in a referendum — would enable procurement of supplies directly from Honolulu via Kwajalein.

He said efforts have been made to restrict hospital entry by the patients' families but it is impossible.

Of mice and rats, he said, "This is not unusual in the Trust Territory. Wherever you have coconuts, this is the case. Our hospital is 20 years old. We cannot keep them out. Several years ago we wanted a new hospital but our local leadership turned it down.

"It is very hard to maintain it. Every day we have work orders. And we don't have anybody to maintain the equipment. If it breaks, we must send it to Guam. We have one man here, but he can't really do much, and he doesn't have the parts."

The repairman is paid $3,000 a year. Riklon confirmed that there are no registered nurses at the hospital despite the presence of three on Majuro.

Cummins' wife, Debbie, is one of the registered nurses who sought a job at the hospital and was told there was no money to pay her.

Asked what major changes he thought would have the most immediate impact, Riklon said correction of the supply problem and the hiring of "a good administrator who can keep track and check on things."

Institutions Cause Stock Market Transformation

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — While the stock market has undergone a reverse transformation from butterfly to caterpillar in 15 years or so, you'd never guess it from some of the letters you read.
Market letters, that is, and some of the other literature and commentary that add up to perhaps the greatest volume of words devoted to any human endeavor after sports and politics.

They refer to the public, as if the public hasn't changed in a decade. But it's a different public, not nearly so diverse nor representative of the assortment of views that can be found in America.
The market of the 1960s was a market of more individuals, and they better represented a randomness of attitudes, enthusiasms, fears, greed, deceits, hunches, hopes. Rich and poor, varied and lively. The individuals are there still, for one thing helping to run up the prices of cash stocks and further blurring the line between investing and gambling. But they aren't around in such numbers.

In their place are institutions, and the large and varied group you would find a spectrum of viewpoints and opinions. It isn't so with institutions.

Institutions tend to think alike. Mutual funds duplicate each other's moves. So do corporate and union pension funds, and bank-administered trusts, and endowments and insurance companies. Little variation.

They see not a universe of possibilities, but only what they've been trained to see. They crowd onto a select list of 100 bluechip corporate stocks, as if there were no other leaves to chew on.

This concentration has hurt the capital-raising ability of many so-called second- and third-tier companies and has forced them into forming a promotional and lobbying organization to protect their interests.

There is some explanation for this institutional behavior. To a degree they are forced to be cautious, and cautious entities tend to group together. But why are they forced? Because of fiduciary obligations.

Those who handle pension fund portfolios, for example, are by law advised to be as responsible as a prudent man would be in handling his own financial affairs. If that isn't a red light, it's a blinking amber.

One way to avoid a traffic ticket, therefore, is to buy and sell the safest stocks, and that often means the stocks that other institutions are buying and selling: the biggest and bluest of the bluechips.

If the bluechip market hasn't done much in a decade or so — the Dow Jones industrial average isn't any higher than in 1965 — it may be due partly to institutions simply transferring shares among each other.

Institutions now own about 34 percent of all shares traded on the New York Stock Exchange, and much more than that in individual stocks. When the de-side of the 1960s began they owned a bit more than half that.

As important, on some days institutions account for 70 percent of trading, and that means they trade with each other, passing stocks back and forth but hardly moving the averages. Caterpillars don't fly.

And so when you hear that the public is cautious or the public is in a buying mood, be aware that it probably isn't the public at all. It may only be a slithering of caterpillars.

Analysis

differences between them are as numerous as the differences between two life forms. If individuals are butterflies, institutions are caterpillars.

In a sense they are wingless, drudging along monotonously. They inject enormous amounts of capital, but often produce little with it, since they must satisfy the financial demands of their own infrastructure.

They act alike. The thinking of individuals is often random; if you assembled a

Wrong-Way Tourist To Return

It was a year ago that Kreuz — who is from Germany and did not speak English — got off a plane in Bangor, thinking he had arrived in California for his dream vacation.

Bangor residents treated him well — so well that he is coming back to Maine and, if he has his way, he will never return to his European homeland.

Ralph Coffman, who hosted the wrong-way tourist last October, said Kreuz, a brewery worker from Augsburg, West Germany, told him he would like to stay in Maine. "He doesn't want to go back," Coffman told UPI.

"When I talked to him, he said: 'I don't care if I ever go back to Germany,'" Coffman said.

"He loves to go for long walks, and there are plenty of woods here," he said. But Coffman said he was not sure Kreuz is "financially secure enough to make the move to Maine."

Kreuz was invited back to Maine by the owners of a giant shopping mall which plans to open Oct. 5 in Bangor. The owners said Thursday they would pay for Kreuz' transatlantic flight to Bangor Sept. 25 so he can cut the ribbon at their grand opening.

Coffman said Kreuz tentatively plans to stay in the U.S. for about a month.

A 50-year-old bachelor who received three marriage invitations during last year's visit to Maine, Kreuz won national attention last fall when he made his 3,000-mile error, mistaking Bangor for San Francisco.

Kreuz discovered the mistake after three days of sightseeing in what he believed was sunny California.

He finally stepped into a taxi in Maine and said he wanted to go to downtown San Francisco, only to learn he could not afford the fare.

"It's been just about a year since we've seen him last," said Coffman, who has been in contact with Kreuz since his last odyssey to America.

Kreuz is like "our own German roving ambassador," Coffman said. He said "we want to show him as much as we can," because Kreuz tells his fellow Germans what America is like.

Medical School Researchers Prefer Pigs

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — The common pig, a fat animal that gets no respect wallowing and grunting down on the farm, is winning friends among medical researchers at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

"They are kind of a hero to us around here," Dean O. Cliver said of the animal given the Latin name "Sus scrofa," but otherwise revered little more than the snake — a creature that sometimes supplements the pig's diet of garbage.

Cliver, a microbiologist, is directing one of two projects using swine. He is trying to identify water-borne viruses, determine harmful levels and propose standards for safe drinking water.

The viruses — called enteric viruses — are produced in the intestines and shed in the feces. They can cause infections and diseases such as poliomyelitis and hepatitis.

Rhesus monkeys and other primates often are preferred as surrogates for man in medical research, but Cliver likes pigs, and not just because they are especially suited to his project.

Primates are becoming an endangered species in India where they are captured and shipped to research labs at great expense, about $250 each, Cliver said.

"These animals arrive in the U.S. exposed to a great many viruses over which we have no control," Cliver said.

Despite a fondness for mud holes, pigs probably are healthier than monkeys from India and cost about $25 each, Cliver said. He said he got eight piglets from the UW Experimental Farms free.

"They're just plain old farm pigs," Cliver said. "Chester Whites, I believe."

The National Institute of Health has one of seven regional primate centers on the UW campus, but Cliver said the 150 monkeys produced each year at the center are even more expensive than those from abroad.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Votes And The Economy

LUBBOCK RESIDENTS generally can be thankful for the two major tax cuts the City Council and Lubbock School Board voted the past week.

The action, with the City dropping its assessed rate from $1.42 to $1.12 and the School Board trimming its rate from $1.58 to $1.38, will mean sizeable savings for hundreds of homeowners and businesses.

And although part of the "bonus" will be wiped out with this year's also hefty increased assessments in valuations, along with some upcoming next year, the slashes will prove beneficial in the battle on the cost of living.

BY THE SAME token, Lubbockites, as well as those across the nation, still are far from being out of the economic woods.

Continuing rises in the price of necessities as well as so-called "extras" or luxuries threaten to wipe out any gains, at any level, which wage earners may realize.

A boost in the Social Security tax will take a bite out of paychecks with the start of a New Year.

And the threat of either new government levies on oil as well as the prospects for another round of price rises by the OPEC nations bodes ill for the pocketbook.

BECAUSE OF these factors, and continued heavy spending by both the state and national government, the sort of legislators, congressmen and governors we elect in November will be all important to everyone.

If we elect people who subscribe to the theory that the way to get ourselves out of this mess is to continue to spend and spend, then we are in even deeper trouble.

If we elect people who promise every special interest group and minority bloc favors from the government in order to get their votes, then all of us—including the minority groups and special interest blocs—are in trouble.

IN BRIEF, the economic battle also is a political one.

And to help win it will take not only the full efforts of every citizen, including a willingness on the part of all to make some sacrifices, but some hard-headed public servants who will say "No" to further handouts and programs which fuel inflation.

It's not too late to ask the man who wants to serve you, in Austin or Washington, what he plans to do on specific programs. Then let his record, and his answers, be your guide. How he thinks and votes certainly will determine what happens to the economy in the years ahead.

John D. Lofton:

Goons Can't 'Tape-away' Gusto

WASHINGTON—The theme of the conference I was attempting to cover was "The Threat of the Radical Right-Wing in America," and it was sponsored by the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department.

I have a personal interest in this subject since one of my best friends are members of the "radical right," by which the AFL-CIO means anyone who thinks government is too big and too expensive.

But in attending this get-together, the only real threat I saw was to a right-wing American—and it came from two union goons.

The most provocative address of the conference was delivered by William Wimpinger, president of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

A self-proclaimed Socialist, Wimpinger's assault on conservatives was a tour-de-force of hate-mongering and slander. A brief sample:

"AN ARMY IS on the march today in America, an army of the fearful, the frustrated, the frightened and the afraid (this latter distinction eludes me).

"It is an army motivated by rage, ridden by anxiety and armed with a massive accumulation of resentments and grievances against all efforts, feeble as they may be, to bring social and economic justice to minorities, women, the working poor and others outside the mainstream of American life.

"It is an army that marches under the banner of jingoistic patriotism while chanting slogans of laissez-faire economics.

"Like its spiritual predecessors in Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy and Franco's Spain (somehow he forgot Amin's Uganda or Pol's Cambodia) this army of the radical right has no flag but contempt for democracy and democratic institutions."

IN HIS DIATRIBE, Wimpinger went on to blast my colleagues James J. Kilpatrick and William F. Buckley as "intellectual prostitutes of the radical right," and another friend, ERA opponent Phyllis Schlafly, as a "rich bitch" who wants "every little girl to grow up believing her place is in the kitchen, the nursery and the bedroom."

He dismissed California's Proposition 13 as simply a "phony right-wing gimmick" generated by "fear and hatred of blacks, Chicanos, the poor and the disadvantaged."

Anyway, you get the drift of the talk. Shortly after his address, I collared Wimpinger outside the conference room, introduced and identified myself, and taped about a 10-minute interview with him.

RANGING OVER a variety of subjects, he and I went at it hot and heavy, drawing a small crowd that watched us do battle rather loudly. To put it charitably, he did not do well and had very few facts and figures to back up his generalizations. To put it less charitably, the man is a jerk.

Going back into the conference room I sat at the press table working on my notes until the last speaker had spoken and the room had emptied.

At this point I looked to the nearest exit where I saw one short, stocky man and another much larger man. The short man signaled me with a motion designed not merely to attract my attention, but to say: "You! Over here...now!"

Picking up my briefcase, which contained my recorder and my taped interview with Wimpinger, I walked over to the two men. The short one said: "We'd like that tape."

PLAYING IT STRAIGHT, I replied: "Sure, give me your name and address and I'll mail you a copy." I obviously didn't get the message. Stepping even closer, putting his chest against mine and causing me to step backward, he said: "We want that (expletive deleted) tape and we want it now."

Well, at first, I thought this was rather humorous—you know, something out of a very bad B-movie. Two union goons in a public hotel hall trying to shake me down in broad daylight.

But then my amusement turned to fear. I'd never had anything like this happen before.

Fortunately, a man I know who works for NBC was in the conference room rolling up his microphone wires. I turned in his direction, began walking toward the center of the room, and yelled very loudly:

"HEY, NBC, come over here a minute!" Looking over my shoulder, I saw that the two goons were gone.

To make a long story short, I got the hotel detective but we were unable to find either man. But the next morning the short goon was sitting in the lobby and I got some nice pictures of him, even though he and his friends tried to block my camera.

The hotel security crew and a couple of metropolitan policemen questioned him, but it seems he hadn't the slightest idea what I was talking about.

Footnote: I never did find out who the short goon was and never saw the big goon again. When I pointed the short goon out to an AFL-CIO press aide, Henry Fleisher, and explained what had happened, he confirmed that the man was a registered conference attendee but refused to identify him.

In fact, Fleisher criticized me for having "caused a ruckus" and said he would never credential me for another conference. I just hope he keeps his word.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Cutting Room Floor

MY NOMINATION for Best Program of the new season is the Lubbock City Council's act in cutting the electric fuel cost adjustment by 3 percent.

It also gets my plea for a Repeat Performance next fall. FCA Slash II, reducing the automatic pass-through by another 3 percent, would merit a standing ovation.

Councilman Alan Henry, in the lead role as mayor pro tem after Mayor Dirk West disqualified himself, deserves special mention for his performance in FCA Slash I.

The supporting cast of Carolyn Jordan, Bill McAlister and Bud Aderton also came through admirably although the final production was lacking in depth. A 6 percent cut all in one whack would have spared us the suspense of hoping for a sequel next fall.

As it is, the Council saved customers of Lubbock Power and Light and Southwestern Public Service Co. a combined total of more than $1 million, equal to a tax reduction of 8 or 9 cents on top of the 29-cent actual tax cut.

IT IS HARD to pick out a villain in this episode since it had a semi-happy ending.

Certainly it would not be SWPS. Fine corporate citizen that it is, the investor-owned utility raised not a squeak that I could hear even though the Council's action will take about $600,000 out of the SWPS unearned profits column next year.

Of course, the company could not have found a reason to object because it still will get more revenue from the rising cost of boiler fuel than its most recent actual cost would justify.

Holmes Alexander:

One Strike-- And We're All Out

WASHINGTON—It's not only USA vs. USSR. It's also Paul Warnke, the disarmament chief vs. Paul Nitze who briefs reporters for the Committee on the Present Danger.

It's not only Richard Nixon who assured us "Your President is not a crook," but needed Gerald Ford's pardon just the same.

And it is President Jimmy Carter, telling the world, "We are not going to let the Soviet Union push us around," as if they never taught him at Annapolis that actions speak louder than words.

We've got a mad, mad world, all right, and don't forget to mention the loonies who have never been confined although they are crazy enough to believe that Treaty equals Peace.

SOME VICTIMS of this demented optimism have sufficient I.Q. to remember the various weights and quotas of warships which taught the Japanese and Germans to build "pocket battleships" just under the limits but just as destructive.

Unless the Russian leaders have been struck stupid, they have learned to follow the same blueprints when it comes to designing Backfire bombers which are just short of being "strategic" weapons and can get in under the threshold of SALT agreements.

The momentum toward a Soviet-American showdown has reached a point where one relishes anything new that's said about it. I see where Prof. Eugene Rostow (Yale Law School and once an Undersecretary of State, says President Carter's new systems are like bulls in a bull ring.

You know that when the bull comes in that he is going to be killed sooner or later by the matador, although you cannot tell when or how.

SO IT HAS been with President Carter. Our first new bomber in many years has been cancelled. The neutron warhead, which might have given NATO a firm shield for 10 years, has been remitted to the shades.

The United States has closed down the Minute Man II production and delayed the initial operating capacity of the missile which is supposed to replace it. MX is on ice for the time being. Furthermore, the Trident program has been stretched out.

At the briefing of an Assistant to the President the other day, I nerved myself to ask this one:

"We all know that the President's War Power Act allows him to take military action without Congressional permission under crisis circumstances. My question is—do you know if President Carter feels he has the duty to make a preventive strike at 1-minute to H-Hour if it comes to that?"

I certainly didn't expect an explicit answer, or really any at all, and the helplessness of our position here is apparent.

It is unimaginable with the sort of Presidential leadership we've had for many years, that a Chief Executive would do his duty and unilaterally order the destruction of a Russian installation, even to save the great American institutions that we cherish.

But who doubts that a Russian leader would have any qualms about destroying the only enemy which could destroy his systems? It's damnably unfair that we are committed not to strike first.

And I think it a serious question of whether a Constitutional Amendment to impose this first strike responsibility on the President is no more important than Equal Rights for women and equal representation for the District of Columbia.

We can only hope that the choice is wisely made by a country which prides itself on consent of the governed.

THE ROLE IN THIS drama that I find difficult to understand is that of the Lubbock Property Owners Association.

A spokesman for that group urged the Council last Thursday to apply a $613,000 unbudgeted windfall to a further reduction in the tax rate instead of to a reduction in the electric fuel cost adjustment.

That would have been false economy. By cutting the FCA instead of the tax rate, the Council gave the taxpayers/consumers (who are the same audience) a $2-plus savings for every $1 it cut from the electric revenue fund.

Put another way, the 3 percent FCA cutback saves the consumers more than $1 million but costs the City treasury only about $570,000.

A tax cut of 4.5 cents would have deprived the treasury of that amount. By going the FCA route, the Council saved us the equivalent of about 9 cents on the tax rate.

I'll take a $9 savings over a $4.50 savings any day, so I eagerly await the Council's decision to Double Our Pleasure again next year.

W. L. DUCKER took scientific note of Miss Billie Wolfe's "cricket formula" for knowing the temperature. Count a cricket's chirps per minute, divide by four and add 32, she said.

"If she's right," says Ducker, "then if you count the dozens of cricket chirps in 100 seconds it will give you the temperature in Degrees Celsius. We really should do these things in the metric system."

I'll try to remember that the next time I'm listening to the crickets out in my back yard—er, meter.

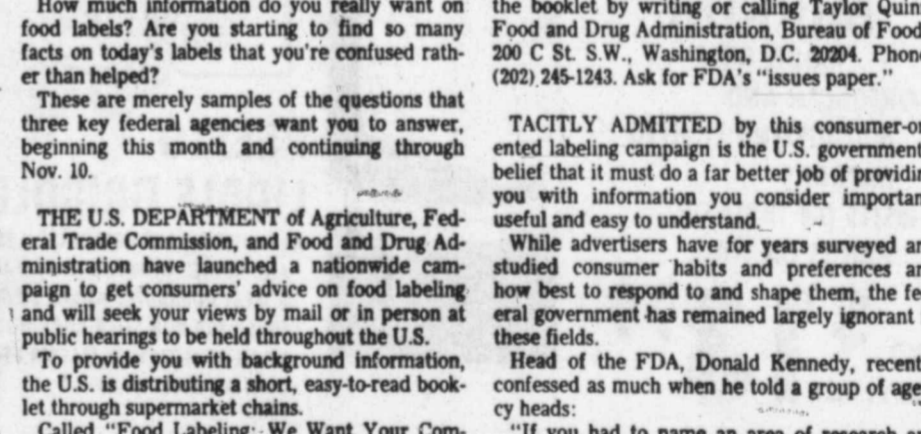

HISTORICAL FOOTNOTE: Dean Lawrence L. Graves' recommendation that a play with a nude scene in it not be performed at Texas Tech sparked investigation by the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Graves was president of that chapter a decade ago when the national AAUP was being asked to lift its censure of Tech imposed after three professors were fired in 1957.

Then, as now, the faculty "union" was concerned over the question of academic freedom.

What Do You Want Food Label To Say?

DO YOU WANT labels on the foods you buy to tell you the percentage of each ingredient in the product? To carry a symbol revealing whether the food contains an artificial color or substance that may cause allergic reactions in some of us?

How much information do you really want on food labels? Are you starting to find so many facts on today's labels that you're confused rather than helped?

These are merely samples of the questions that three key federal agencies want you to answer, beginning this month and continuing through Nov. 10.

THE U.S. DEPARTMENT of Agriculture, Federal Trade Commission, and Food and Drug Administration have launched a nationwide campaign to get consumers' advice on food labeling and will seek your views by mail or in person at public hearings to be held throughout the U.S.

To provide you with background information, the U.S. is distributing a short, easy-to-read booklet through supermarket chains.

Called "Food Labeling: We Want Your Comments," the free brochure outlines the issues under review and summarizes what information already is required. For this latter reason alone, the booklet is worth reading, even if you don't intend to express your own views.

Look for it; if your local supermarket has no brochures, write for your free copy to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 703-F, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. For instance, the booklet tells you:

* THAT, AS OF today, artificial colors may be used in butter, cheese and ice cream without listing on the label. Should this exemption be eliminated?

* That only processed foods enriched with nutrients or whose producers make a claim about their nutritional value must now carry a nutrition label.

Should all processed foods or only main meal items carry such full labels? Should fresh foods be required to carry nutritional labeling?

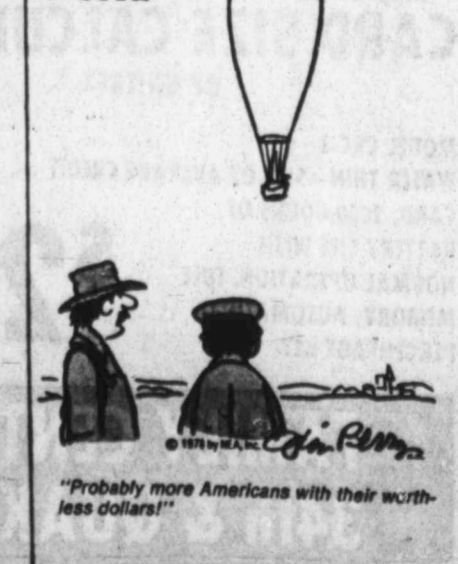

Do you want to know whether the cucumbers you see on the produce counter have been coated with wax, the tomatoes ripened with gas, or how long ago the avocados or peaches were picked?

* That the calendar dates you sometimes find on food packages generally tell you one of four facts: when the food was packaged or processed; when is the last day it should be sold by the store to give you enough time to store and use it at home; when it has passed its peak quality; or when it finally should be used by the buyer.

THIS SO-CALLED "open dating" is voluntary under federal law, although required by some local governments for some foods.

Also, the date is not usually preceded by any phrase explaining its meaning—such as "use by," "sell by," or "do not use after." Should such explanations be mandatory?

Mrs. Marcos Says Solons Rude

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Imelda R. Marcos says she'd rather visit the Russians than American congressmen.

MRS. MARCOS

The Philippines' first lady says 15 U.S. congressmen were rude to her during a July meeting she requested in Washington, but Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was "very kind" when she toured his country.

Mrs. Marcos said the congressmen, most of whom are severe critics of her husband's martial-law government, asked questions based entirely on the views of "hostile and uninformed observers."

"The Russians, especially Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, were very kind to me," she said. "At least they like me over there."

Mrs. Marcos said she told the congressmen, "I've visited many Communist countries, but I've never been treated as rudely as you treated me today and we're supposed to be friends and allies."

Carter To Get Honorary Degree

ATLANTA (AP) — It's been 36 years since Jimmy Carter went to Georgia Tech, and it looks like he will finally get a degree.

The state Board of Regents quietly voted three months ago to relax its ban on honorary degrees by state colleges and universities — but only for former students who are elected president of the United States.

The unheralded rule change will allow Georgia Institute of Technology to confer an honorary doctor of engineering degree on President Carter. He attended the school in 1942 while waiting to enter the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

No date has been set for the awarding of the degree.

George Jones Charged

FLORENCE, Ala. (AP) — Country music singer George Jones has been charged with assault with intent to murder following an apparent argument with a songwriting friend, police said.

Chief Deputy Jones Irons said Jones was freed Sunday after posting $2,500 bond.

He said the warrant, approved by the district attorney's office, was based on a complaint by Earl "Peanut" Montgomery, a country music songwriter.

Rizzo Eyes Charter Change

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Last March, Frank Rizzo said, "I will not run for mayor." Now, however, they're chanting "Four More Years" in his old South Philadelphia neighborhood.

And the two-term mayor of Philadelphia is leading the rally — pushing for a charter change to allow a third consecutive term.

Rizzo is promoting his campaign with strong opposition to busing for racial desegregation and attacks on racial hiring quotas.

To charges that he is a racist, he replies, "Hogwash."

No Prize For Champions

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The five members of the champion Australian firefighting team may not be able to enjoy their prize — a 28-day Hawaiian holiday. They're in jail.

And officials say the five men from the Cessnock Detention Center will probably have to stay in prison even though they beat five crack teams from across Australia to take the top prize.

The Industrial Fire Brigades Association, which organized the contest, would like to have three of the five inmates for the Australian firefighting team that will soon visit Samoa, the Philippines and Hong Kong.

But no one knows if they'll be able to take that trip, either.

How did they win? They nosed out their closest competitors by five points, excelling in the written test.

They had lots of time to study.

Tech Freshmen's Test Scores Continue To Show Sharp Dip

By CANDY SAGON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The average verbal score of the nation's million high school seniors who took the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) last year held steady for the first time in a decade. But for seniors entering Texas Tech, the picture was not as bright.

Data from Tech showed the average verbal score of entering Tech freshmen last fall dropped three points from the 1976 level.

Nationally, the score for the verbal skills portion of the college entrance exam levelled out at 429, after steadily dropping for the past 10 years.

Although the Tech average verbal score of 432 was slightly higher than the national norm, the Tech score still represented a three point drop from the 1976 level of 435, and a 9.5 point drop from the decade's peak average score of 441 in 1974.

On math scores, however, the national average continued to decline while Tech's average went up.

Entering Tech freshmen scored an average of 478 on the math portion of the SAT, up two points over 1976, and 10 points above the national norm. Nationally, the average math score of high school seniors dropped two points to 468.

According to the College Board, the decline in SAT scores nationally has not been as drastic as it was in the early 1970s.

"However, it's impossible to predict whether the decline will be arrested, whether the downward trend will reverse itself, or whether we have a momentary pause," said Robert G. Cameron, program service officer for the College Board's admissions testing program.

For the fourth consecutive year, women made up a higher percentage of the national test population than men. Of the total number of test takers, 51.6 percent were women and 48.4 percent men.

Although the total number of students taking the SAT has been stable since 1972, there has been a steady increase in the proportion of women taking the test and a corresponding decrease in the proportion of men, the College Board reported.

Men had higher SAT scores, both verbal and mathematical, but women continued to excel on the Test of Standard Written English.

At Tech, women freshmen continued to score higher than men on the verbal portion of the SAT, while the men outscored their female counterparts by 40 points or more on math.

Nationally, the College Board reported that the mean grade point average (GPA) for all students was 3.00, down from 3.11 the previous year and a high of 3.12 reported in 1976. The GPA for women was 3.15, as compared to 3.03 for men.

Tech freshmen women followed the national average, consistently registering higher average GPA's than those for freshman men. Average GPA for female high school seniors entering Tech in 1977 was 3.22, as compared to 3.16 for males. Although GPA's for high school seniors entering Tech have been increasing over the past decade, the average GPA for freshmen students after their first semester at Tech has been dropping to the late 1960s level.

Last year, the average GPA for male freshmen at the end of the fall semester was 1.94, as compared to 2.25 for females. Fall semester GPA's peaked in 1974, when men registered an average 2.10 and women reported an average 2.42. But since then, average GPA's have been steadily declining.

Contractors Forming Group

West Texas contractors are forming what is to be the state's seventh chapter of the Associated Builders and Contractors. Forty Permian Basin area contractors have recently created a chapter-in-formation of ABC. Their affiliation with the national association will give them access to all association services.

Milton Tucker of Orloff Corp. has been selected as president of the new chapter. Other officers include: J.M. Leslie of Marks Crane and Rigging, vice president; Dave Aldrich of Star-Adair Insulation, secretary; Sam Holloman of Holloman Construction Co., treasurer.

The chapter will hold monthly meetings to present programs of interest to the general membership. The first meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 21, at the Holiday Inn in Odessa beginning at 6:30 p.m. Frank Parker of the Management Center of the Southwest will be featured speaker presenting a program on labor relations. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Anyone wishing more information on ABC in West Texas should contact Milton Tucker at 915-697-4111 or Bill Scales at Perry Engineering at 915-323-4321.

Police Find Escapee Hiding In Closet

COLDWATER, Mich. (AP) — A jail escapee was captured by sheriff's deputies who found him wrapped in a bedspread, hiding in the closet of a home just three blocks from the jail from which he and another prisoner fled last week.

Deputy Gary Abbott said a police informant directed deputies to the home Sunday and residents allowed them to search the premises. Abbott said authorities found Fred Harter, 35, of Coldwater, huddled on the floor of an upstairs closet, hiding under a bedspread. "I stuck my gun in his face and I think it scared him," Abbott said. Harter did not resist arrest, officers said.

Hertz, Avis Battle For Top Spot

PHILIP GREER
And MYRON KANDEL

When you're waiting in line at the airport to pick up a rental car, the last thing on your mind is likely to be who's No. 1 in the rental field. But in that hotly competitive world, it's awfully important. That's because, as the marketing experts see it, when you make your rental reservations, you might be inclined to call the company you think has the most cars available.

So it's bottom-line profits as well as corporate prestige that led to the current tempest over whether Hertz or Avis was the first to reach the milestone of having 200,000 cars and trucks in its worldwide rental system. Avis started the teapot whistling at the end of July by issuing a cautiously worded statement saying that its "systemwide vehicle renting and leasing fleet exceeds 200,000 units and has become what Avis believes is the world's largest such fleet."

Those lawyer-like terms hardly constituted a slogan to inspire business legions — not even those that try harder — to march off to corporate battle. But Hertz brought up its big guns to shoot down the Avis claim. "We currently have around 230,000 vehicles," responded Hertz president Frank A. Olson. Then he said: "Avis spends its life trying to find something to be No. 1 about. I think that's a pretty silly exercise."

Ah ha, Avis retorted, here's Olson saying on July 27 that his fleet was 230,000-vehicles strong, when just a week earlier, in an article in the Asian Wall Street Journal reporting on his trip to Japan, he's quoted as saying — in response to an earlier statement from Avis that at the end of last year its worldwide fleet was larger than Hertz's — "We will own and operate worldwide in August (the rental peak in the U.S.) more than 200,000 vehicles."

How did Hertz leap, in just a week, from "we will" have more than 200,000 in August to "we currently have around 230,000. Avis asked pointing out that at an average cost of only $6,000, that's a cool $180 million worth of cars and trucks to add in a short period."

We went back to Hertz for an explanation. Olson's comment to the Asian Wall Street Journal reporter was made rather casually at a reception, and didn't call for a definite number, Hertz official said. The fact is, he added after looking up the number, Hertz passed the 200,000 mark back in April, but didn't bother to announce it.

Avis, which dropped the "we're No. 2" out of its advertising campaign six years ago, but still contends "we try harder," says there's no question that when it comes to the total number of cars available for rental, it is comfortably in the lead. (Hertz is well ahead in trucks and probably holds a slight edge in autos out on long-term leases.)

"The real key is rent-a-car revenues," a Hertz spokesman says, "and we're way ahead in that."

"It's just a case of No. 2 looking to say they're No. 1," he adds.

Above all, however, it's the bottom line that counts. And there both companies are big winners. For example, last week, Avis' parent company, Norton Simon, Inc., announced its fourth-quarter and fiscal-year earnings — both records. And much of the credit is given to a strong performance by Avis. To top it all off, Norton Simon raised its dividends.

Hertz's parent, RCA Corp., also had some nice things to say about its highly profitable subsidiary. At RCA's annual meeting in May, chairman Edgar H. Griffiths said Hertz was now the company's largest profit producer (surpassing — although he didn't mention that fact — once-bellwether NBC). In the first quarter of this year, he noted, Hertz's after-tax earnings rose 35 percent.

Just to show that the question of who is No. 1 is also a matter of interest in the top executive suite, he said, "Hertz has far and away the largest share of the rent-a-car field and it continues to widen the gap between No. 1 and No. 2."

Then, never mentioning Avis by name, Griffiths added this twist: "And the gap between No. 2 and No. 3 (that's National Car Rental System, a subsidiary of Household Finance) becomes even closer."

The one thing is certain in these booming travel days, amid all the claim and counterclaims, charges and countercharges, is that the rent-a-car business is raking it in.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A lesson learned from a painful experience may be erased from your memory tomorrow and replaced by wishful thinking. Rose-colored glasses won't be the answer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A business tip from a well-meaning friend could cost you, rather than save or make you money tomorrow. Before putting your dollars on the line, get a second opinion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Neither you nor the one you're bargaining with are apt to get all you hope for tomorrow. Each will be required to make substantial concessions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't overprice that which you do for others tomorrow. If the task you perform is a small one, your compensation should only be nominal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Remember the lyrics about putting too much stock in the world's overrated pleasures while ignoring its underrated treasures? Those lines could be meant for you tomorrow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be content tomorrow with who you are and what you have. You wouldn't change places with others if you really knew all the facts.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Tomorrow if you seek counsel from friends, don't go to those who will tell you only what you want to hear. Helpful advice must be frank and honest.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't throw caution to the winds tomorrow.

row and buy things you can't afford. Wait until you can. They'll still be available.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In situations where a firm hand will be required tomorrow you're likely to have too light a touch on the tiller. Take care you don't run your ship aground.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Act responsibly toward persons in your charge tomorrow, but don't take on the problem of outsiders who are capable of doing things for themselves.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If your budget takes a bumping tomorrow, it won't be because you don't know better. It will be due to indifference or sheer extravagance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Instead of putting all your cards on the table as you usually do, tomorrow you may resort to empty promises or insincere praise.

Weekend Prison Detention Suggested

LONDON (AP) — An all-party parliamentary study committee Friday recommended that authorities begin using weekend detention as an alternative to full-time sentencing in Britain's crowded prisons.

The committee report said the change would ease the pressure on the prisons and enable offenders to keep their jobs and maintain their families, so they do not become a burden on the state.

Search For Glider Called Off By Police

MOUNT SHASTA, Calif. (AP) — The sheriff's office said Sunday after numerous helicopter flights high on the slopes of 14,161-foot Mount Shasta they have given up the search for hang glider enthusiast Patrick Hamilton, 27, missing since Sept. 3.

"We have made numerous trips up the mountain, with results negative," said Siskiyou County deputy Jim Abara. "For all practical purposes the search has been called off." Hamilton's address was given as Carlsbad, N.M.

With a weather front moving in, Hamilton in his hang glider, leaped off a saddle below the summit on the west side of the mountain, was grabbed by a sudden upthrust of wind and hurled over the mountain toward the east, said Abara.

"He was carried up over the mountain and vanished," said Abara.

Hardware Store Owner Brings In Business With Big Game

By TENA ANDERSEN

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — The polar bear is nose-to-nose with the nylon rope, the musk ox stares at the pitchforks, and the camel never takes his eye off the vacuum cleaner bags.

It's one of the biggest collections of mounted game animals around, and it's smack-dab in the middle of Henry Brockhouse's hardware store.

It's one of those old-time general stores, with groceries, hunting gear, cast iron cookware, clothing and gadgets galore. And there, in the back, are the glass-walled display rooms containing every kind of animal you could imagine.

Brockhouse shot each of the 165 animals himself over two decades as a big game hunter. And they're in his store for a reason.

"It brings in the business, that's why I've got them here," he says. "I'd say one-fourth of our business is from tourists who come here to see the animals."

West Sioux Falls Hardware was on the main road 60 years ago, when Brockhouse's father began the business. But traffic began to go another way in the 1950s, and that's when Brockhouse began bringing home trophies to keep the customers coming.

He made a trip every year or so — eight times to Africa, three to India, three to Mongolia and once each to Australia and New Zealand. It was his only recreation, his only reward for those 80-hour work weeks.

The collection would be impossible to duplicate, now that game laws forbid hunting animals like the Bengal tiger and the crocodile.

"There isn't anybody who has a collection like that," says Brockhouse's taxidermist, Joe Jonas Jr. of Broomfield, Colo. "The prince of Iran has what would be the next biggest one."

"But a lot of museums don't have that many animals, and not all taken by one man," he says.

Although Brockhouse's last trip was in 1975 and he says his health isn't what it used to be, his collection is not complete. Among other things, a full-sized elephant and a hippo wait in Jonas' work room.

But the cost of mounting the elephant — about $20,000 — is so great that Brockhouse says it may have to continue waiting.

Jonas says he believes the animals should be displayed in their natural surroundings, in a museum dedicated to Brockhouse, although no arrangements have been made for that kind of thing.

"After I'm gone, I don't know what they're going to do with them," Brockhouse says. He's sitting on a crate of popcorn poppers, right there in front of the 12-foot crocodile.

Market Sees High Level Of Public Participation

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) — If the recent behavior of the market is any guide, it would seem that small investors aren't as turned off by common stocks as they are widely supposed to be.

Even after its sharp gains since early spring, the Dow Jones average of 30 big-name industrials — the blue chips favored by many investing institutions and other "conservative" investors — stands more than 150 points below the peak it reached in early 1973.

But indexes for the American Stock Exchange and the over-the-counter market, home of many lesser-known issues, both forged ahead to record highs last week.

The latest issue of the Merrill Lynch Market Letter notes that the ratio of volume in a group of 20 low-priced stocks listed by Barron's magazine to turnover in the Dow 30 recently reached 34.4 percent, the highest level in 10 years.

Bank trust departments sold nearly $800 million worth of stock that they bought in the first half of the year. Statistics from the New York Stock Exchange show that Big Board members, traditionally among the savviest of traders, have been substantial sellers for the past several months. And yet the market has so far resisted any substantial decline.

This all adds up, as Merrill Lynch put it, to a picture of "broadened public participation and also of heightened speculation."

management consulting firm within the past year found little public enthusiasm for stocks.

The prospect of a cut in capital gains taxes would seem to offer a partial explanation, since such a reduction would make the rules of the game more attractive to individuals.

Charles Jensen, an analyst at Merkin Co. offered the view, however, that the type of trader who would take a flier on volatile issues like the gambling stocks might not be all that concerned about taxes.

What was more likely to have caught the public's eye, he said, was the deeply depressed level of many smaller stocks and the hope that, at the "rock bottom bargain" levels which prevailed up until recently, they might provide some protection against inflation.

To many a market-watcher, heavy speculation is a danger sign. "The public speculators have reentered the market in large numbers and are chasing little heard-of five-and-dime numbers," Comparative Market Indicators declared. This, plus selling by NYSE specialists and other members, "puts the market on rather shaky underpinnings — at least for the intermediate term."

But all the warnings so far haven't daunted the speculators, and a number of analysts say their activity could persist for a good while yet.

Jensen noted that Amex volume, one measure of the degree of speculation, recently has been running about 20 percent of NYSE turnover. Ten years ago, at the height of the speculative binge of the late 1960s, it was nearly half the NYSE total.

Texaco Chief Raps East Coast Oil Use

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) — East Coast oil and gas consumption is so great that no single discovery could have a major effect on the marketplace, says John K. McKinley, president of Texaco, Inc.

McKinley, interviewed in Sunday's Asbury Park Press, said offshore rigs in the Baltimore Canyon off the Atlantic coast appear to hold more promise for natural gas production than for crude oil. What oil is produced, however, would be used to displace imported crude, he said.

DROUGHT IN CHINA
HONG KONG (AP) — China's Anhwei Province is suffering its worst drought in 120 years, the provincial radio reported in a broadcast monitored here this week. Radio Anhwei said the crops and livestock most seriously affected by the drought in the eastern Chinese province are cotton, peanuts, pigs and poultry.

Missouri Tells Winners Of Media Honors

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Reporters for the Anderson (S.C.) Independent and Daily Mail and the Chicago Tribune took top honors in the newspaper competitions in the 14th annual Missouri Business Journalism Awards.

The University of Missouri School of Journalism announced the awards Thursday.

R.C. Longworth and Bill Neikirk of the Chicago Tribune won a first place award for newspapers with more than 100,000 circulation for their six-part series, "World Trade."

Bill Coats and Polly Ross of the Anderson Independent and Daily Mail took the top prize for smaller newspapers for their article "Duke Power Co. and the South Carolina Public Service Commission."

The winners were announced by Roy Fisher, dean of the University of Missouri School of Journalism. A $1,000 prize goes with the top award in each category, while runners-up get $150.

Runner-up in the large newspapers division was Bill Voekler of the New Orleans Times-Picayune for his series, "Louisiana's Computergate." Larry Birger of the Miami News was runner-up in the smaller newspapers' division for a six-part series, "Miami's Latin Business."

General circulation magazine award winners were Business Week's Gordon Williams, William Wolman and their team for "The Great Government Inflation Machine." Mike Mallowe of Philadelphia Magazine was runner-up with "Going for Broke."

Special interest magazine winners were Brian Ketcham and Stan Pinkwas of New Engineer Magazine for "Diesels for Man." Runner-up was Ann Pelham of Congressional Quarterly for her article "Government Tackles Tricky Question of How to Regulate Carcinogens."

Competition judges were John Berry of the Washington Post, Richard Elliott of Finance Magazine, Keith Felcyn of Business Week, Soma Golden of the New York Times and Greg Nokes of The Associated Press.

Dayton Bus Drivers Honor Picket Lines

By The Associated Press

Classes were canceled again today in the 22,500-student Bridgeport, Conn., school system, and about half the school bus drivers in Dayton, Ohio, honored picket lines set up by striking teachers.

Bridgeport school officials and striking teachers recessed their secret negotiations this morning after an 18-hour session aimed at resolving a wage dispute. The strike, which began Sept. 6, has resulted in the jailing of 135 teachers and the closing of schools since last Wednesday.

And in Dayton, Ohio, about half the district's bus drivers stayed off the job today in sympathy for a strike by most of the district's 2,200 teachers. Officials were trying to keep the schools open by doubling normal runs of the remaining 150 school buses. That strike, also stemming from a pay dispute, began with the opening of school Wednesday.

Strikes around the nation affected more than 300,000 students, including 18,000 at Eastern Michigan University, where classes have been canceled indefinitely because of a strike by some 630 faculty members. A state mediator was called in to help settle the dispute.

The largest school system shut down by a strike was in Cleveland, where 10,000 teachers and other workers walked out Sept. 7, forcing cancellation of school for

Antique Show Slated Here

Memorial Civic Center will again house Continental Shows' South Plains Antique Show and Sale here in Lubbock on September 22-23-24.

Some fifty dealers in quality antiques, from all over the nation, will be exhibiting antique furniture, jewelry, china, art glass and cut glass, crystal, bronze, pewter and copper wares. Also on display will be Orientals, primitives, Indian artifacts, and such collectibles as dolls, stamps, coins and advertising items. Everything exhibited by dealers will be for sale.

Continental's shows have been staged in Lubbock over the past nine and one-half years, during which time antiques have greatly increased in popularity. According to George Kuehler and Lee Kirkendall, co-directors, this upsurge in the demand for good antiques is due to both practical and personal reasons: First, because antiques continue to appreciate in value they are rated third among America's "best financial investments." This makes them a practical investment. On the personal level, antiques satisfy the "nostalgia" trend so prevalent among people today.

One paid admission to the local show will be good for all three days of the event. Visitors should use the north entrance. Show hours will be Friday and Saturday, 1-9 p.m., and Sunday, 1-6 p.m.

Man Likes Building Cavern Complexes

NATURAL BRIDGE, Va. (AP) — "I just like caverns. It's a challenge. It's not like going out and building an apartment house," says H.B. Long, sitting a few feet from the entrance to the fourth underground cavern complex he has owned.

From March 1977 until recently, Long and his workers bored a 550-foot, 8-foot by 8-foot tunnel down to the Buck Hill Caverns, cleaned out clay and chipped passageways between rooms, then installed lights.

He renamed it Caverns of Natural Bridge and opened it to the public. He is hoping enough visitors will stop by to make his $900,000 investment worthwhile.

Long has been interested in caverns since he worked as a guide as a teenager. In 1945, he bought Skyline Caverns, located there, and he has also developed caverns in New Market and Harpers Ferry.

'Hurricane Strips' Offer Protection In Tornadoes

By TOM GRIESS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

If area resident would ignore several popular myths and spend no more than $100 to safeguard their homes, they would be better protected against the deadly force of tornadoes.

These are among the conclusions reached in a new study recently released by three Texas Tech University civil engineering professors.

The report, entitled "The Tornado: An Engineering-Oriented Perspective," was prepared by Drs. Joseph Minor, director of Tech's Institute for Disaster Research, James McDonald and Kishor Mehta, and was published by the National Severe Storms Laboratory in Norman, Okla.

Eight years in the making, the study examined more than 30 violent windstorms, including both tornadoes and hurricanes.

According to the study, most building damage is caused by wind speeds of 75-125 mph, and results from poor anchorage or connection failures in the buildings.

Co-author McDonald explained that building contractors do not, unless specifically requested, furnish homes with metal stripping connecting side walls with the roof and foundation.

These metal strips are commonly known as "hurricane clips," he said, and are used extensively along coastal areas where tropical storms are a threat.

McDonald said the report is recommending that metal stripping be attached to foundations and roofs of buildings in the Lubbock area.

According to the civil engineer, past attempts to amend the Lubbock building code to require more secure anchorage in homes have not been successful.

The cost of metal stripping a home is relatively inexpensive, McDonald noted. "The figure I have heard is $60," he said.

McDonald also disputed the popularly held myth of opening windows during a tornado.

Opening windows allows the wind to enter the building "and the effect can be the same as blowing up a balloon," McDonald said. Instead of opening windows, a resident could better spend the time finding cover, he added.

Storm or residence shelters are the best protection against tornadoes and, according to McDonald, the only real protection against flying wood or metal missiles.

Prevailing theories also have contended that tornadoes sweep by buildings and "pull" the outside air along with them.

Low pressure systems are thus created outside the structures, and the greater air pressure inside the buildings causes the walls to push outward. This explained why buildings seemed to "explode" during tornadoes.

But the findings of the Tech report argue almost the reverse of this theory.

Instead of buildings collapsing to allow trapped air pressure inside to escape to the lower pressure system outside, McDonald said the report indicates that winds force their way into buildings and then push outward.

If a building has a weak foundation or the roof is poorly secured to the walls, powerful winds will expose the defect, he said.

"Most failures start at a small localized area and then progress," McDonald said. Once inside the structure the wind will exert outward pressure on the walls, and the "explosion" can occur. Therefore the stronger the structure, the less likely is wind to enter and damage it.

Commenting on the average strength of tornadoes, the professor said "the vast majority of tornadoes have wind speeds of less than 160 mph." He was quick to add, however, that he has heard of tornadoes traveling at speeds of 275 to 300 mph.

Although the study does not deal with the Lubbock tornado of 1970, McDonald said that its winds were traveling at approximately 180 to 200 mph at ground level when it hit the city.

One of the major problems with the Lubbock tornado and with many others, noted McDonald, are the existing methods of tornado detection.

"I don't think anyone would say they are adequate," he said. "We just don't really know that much about the phenomenon. Radar is of some help, but still about the best method is a man in the field seeing it."

In 1951, a Czechoslovak freedom train crossed the border into Germany with the engineer held at pistol point.

The most reliable tornado detection method, the professor summed up, remains the eye, and as in the case of Lubbock, this can be too late.

Storm Names Being Probed

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — The Philippine weather bureau's practice of unilaterally changing the names of Pacific storms that affect the island nation to those of Philippine women has come under official inquiry.

Information Minister Francisco S. Tatad issued the query today after foreign reporters complained that the names assigned storms by the U.S. weather station on Guam were being changed by the Philippine weather bureau.

"I find this hard to believe, but in the face of this complaint may I ask you to kindly investigate and, if warranted, institute corrective measures?" Tatad's inquiry said.

The weather bureau, in a surge of nationalism more than 10 years ago, started naming storms after Philippine women.

Director General Roman Kintanar of the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Service Administration said the move was part of a campaign to get other countries to use the Philippine name for storms normally originating in the Pacific.

However, the international code names issued by the U.S. weather station on Guam have always been used by newspapers in Asia for the storms, which usually affect more than one country.

The complaint was aired during debate over proposed legislation penalizing the disclosure of activities the government considers secret.

Two Killed In Area Auto Crash

IRA (Special) — A Colorado City man and woman were killed and four persons injured early Sunday when two pickup trucks collided head-on on Texas 350, about six-tenths of a mile south of the Scurry-Mitchell county line.

Cristobal Rodriguez, 54, was dead at the scene of the 3:10 a.m. mishap, and a passenger in his pickup, Benicita A. Vela, 63, died about four hours later in Colorado City's Root Memorial Hospital.

Department of Public Safety reports indicated that Rodriguez's truck was southbound and the other pickup truck, driven by George Albert Wortham, 37, of Andrews, was northbound on Highway 350.

Authorities said apparently Rodriguez ran off the road on the right and swerved into the path of the Wortham vehicle.

Wortham was transported to Snyder's Cogdell Memorial Hospital and later transferred to Andrews' Permian General Hospital, where he was listed in critical but stable condition today.

Daniel Rodriguez, 8, Lape Rodriguez, 10, and Lynn Rodriguez, 7, were listed in fair condition today in Root Memorial Hospital with lacerations and bruises sustained in the collision. The three youngsters, all from Colorado City, also were passengers in the Rodriguez vehicle.

Services for Mrs. Vela will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the St. Margaret-Mary's Catholic Church in Lamesa with Monsignor Jerome Vitek, pastor, officiating.

Burial will follow in Lamesa Cemetery under the direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Her survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Rodriguez of Welch and Juanita Vela of Idaho; four sons, Gabriel Vela of Wichita Falls, Juan Vela of Idaho, Pilar Luna of Snyder and Fernin Luna of Idaho; six stepsons, a stepdaughter; 31 grandchildren; and 10 great-grandchildren.

Services for Rodriguez will be at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at St. Ann's Catholic Church in Colorado City with Father John Bush, pastor, officiating.

Burial will follow in the Mitchell County Cemetery under the direction of Kiker-Seale Funeral Home of Colorado City.

Tuesday in the Church of God, with the Rev. J. W. McNeese, pastor of the Church of God at Burkburnett and former pastor of Andrews Church of God, officiating.

Burial will be in Girard Cemetery in Girard under direction of Campbell Funeral Home here.

Somoza's Guard Quells Fighting

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza's national guard was reported mopping up one of the last two centers of rebel resistance in north-west Nicaragua today and making steady progress in the other despite hard fighting by the Sandinista guerrillas.

In the south, Somoza's troops repelled an attempt to overrun a border outpost and proclaim a strip of border land "free territory." The rebels there retreated into Costa Rica but vowed to return for another assault.

In Managua, businessmen announced their determination to continue the strike launched Aug. 25 to force the president's resignation, and a commission from the Organization of American States arrived in Costa Rica to investigate the Costa Rican government's charge that a Nicaraguan plane attacked a truck two miles inside Costa Rica.

Persons returning from the northwest said they saw many dead and wounded. They said the national guard, Nicaragua's 7,500-man army and police force, was executing people suspected of being snipers in Esteli and Chinandega.

The guard reported its forces retook control of Chinandega Sunday afternoon and were continuing with mop-up operations. There were reports of continued sniper fire there today. Reports from Esteli said government troops were advancing steadily under heavy fire.

Refugees from Esteli said the guard bombed, strafed and rocketed the downtown area of the city Sunday, causing great destruction. Troops were reported entering Esteli from the north and south along the Pan American Highway today.

Drivers Perish, Three Injured In Accident

GUTHRIE (Special) — A car and a loaded cattle truck collided Sunday night about four miles south of here on U.S. 83, killing the drivers of both vehicles and injuring three others.

The driver of the truck, Ira Don Nelson, 47, of Brownwood, and the driver of the car, George Wellington Graham, 68, of Abilene were pronounced dead at the scene of the 10:45 p.m. mishap by Guthrie Justice of the Peace Larry Fitzgerald.

Genella Faye Wilkerson, 61, of Beaver, Okla., was in critical condition early today at Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene. She was a passenger in the car, along with Graham's 66-year-old wife, Alice Lillie, who was in stable condition at Hendrick.

The only passenger in the truck, Billy Don Williams, 41, of Abilene, also was taken to Hendrick where he was in serious condition today.

According to a Department of Public Safety spokesman, Graham was traveling south on the highway and the truck was northbound when the two vehicles sideswiped, causing the truck to overturn and catch fire.

Many of the cattle in the truck were killed in the fire, the spokesman said.

The choice of a funeral director is always up to the family

When one of your loved ones dies, you and the members of the family have the responsibility of choosing a funeral director.

If a person in haste calls a funeral director who is not the one you prefer, you are not obligated to accept this arrangement. There is no problem in having Rix take care of the funeral arrangements if this is your preference. But you must make the request. Call us if you are in doubt.

We'll take care of all the details of arranging the memorial service and burial or cremation. Rix has been serving West Texas families since 1890, and we know your needs. We can arrange a funeral service at a price which you feel is appropriate.

The choice is yours.

Decreasing Stomach Acid

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — After a few days of barely being able to eat and severe heartburn, I had an X-ray study done and the results were negative.

My symptoms began to get worse to the point that I couldn't even swallow water. My doctor had me hospitalized. A specialist did a gastroscopic test and ran a tube down. He found I had a large, deep ulcer in my esophagus.

I am 30 years old and the doctor says it is very rare to find an ulcer this severe in a woman of my age. He thought the ulcer was caused by high acidity in my stomach, although I didn't test out as being that high. He placed me on medicines for one week and tested me again and was surprised to find that the ulcer was healed.

One of the medicines he gave me was Tagamet. He says I am to take it for the next three months. What does this medication do and is it necessary for me to take it for this length of time? What causes ulcers in this area and are they likely to recur? The doctor did say I wasn't to have any alcoholic beverages or smoke, but I didn't drink very much and I only smoked a half pack of cigarettes a day so I don't see how that could be the cause.

DEAR READER — You can have an ulcer in the lower esophagus, the food tube that joins the stomach, just the same as you can have an ulcer in the duodenum where the stomach empties into the small intestine.

The stomach itself is protected from ulcers to some degree with a thick coat of mucus that resists the acid digestive juice. This mucus is restricted to the stomach so when the acid digestive juices squirt out the top of the stomach into the lower esophagus or squirts out normally into the stomach against the small intestine (duodenum), the acid digestive juice may literally digest your own tissues and cause an ulcer.

Tagamet is a relatively new medicine which has a different way of decreasing the production of acid digestive juice by the stomach. It has proved to be very helpful in many cases. The antacid that you mentioned taking in the rest of your letter is there to neutralize the other amounts of acid in the stomach.

In many patients with ulcers, if the acid digestive juice is sufficiently controlled, the ulcers heal. And they may heal rapidly if there is effective control or neutralization of the acid digestive juice.

To give you a better appreciation for ulcers and their cause I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-5, Ulcers-Duodenal, Stomach. Other readers who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The Health Letter I'm sending you explains that stress is often a factor in increasing the acid digestive juice production by the stomach. Although Tagamet and other medicines are very helpful in controlling ulcers, you will do a lot better if you eliminate the factors in your lifestyle that contribute to ulcers. These factors include stress, cigarette smoking, alcohol and the use of coffee. The caffeine in coffee stimulates the stomach to produce acid digestive juice.

Yes, you had better stick with your medicines because individuals who stop taking Tagamet entirely may have a recurrence of ulcers. Small maintenance doses may help to solve this problem.

Enlistment Errors Found In Marines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marine Corps says its investigation of its own recruiting records has turned up about 2,500 "erroneous enlistments" over the past two years. Gen. Louis Wilson, commander of the 190,000-member corps, promised in a letter to Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., to correct the matter.

Of the total, 716 recruits were discharged for fraudulent enlistment, which the corps said "requires proof of deliberate misrepresentation by an applicant of information he knows to be disqualifying."

Study Finds PCB In Mothers' Milk

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study indicates suspected cancer-causing chemicals called PCBs have so infiltrated the nation's food supply they show up in the milk of practically all mothers who breast-feed their babies.

In announcing the nationwide study, the Environmental Protection Agency said it does not know whether the chemicals in the mothers' milk are a threat to their babies.

However, federal officials are so concerned about PCBs that they are no longer manufactured in the United States and the EPA has proposed a ban on their use and distribution.

The agency said it took milk samples from 1,038 mothers' milk in 45 states and found at least traces of PCBs in all but nine of the samples. Measurable amounts — at least 0.05 parts per million — were found in 309 of the samples. The 309 samples with the measurable amounts contained an average of 0.93 parts per million.

That compares with a "provisional tolerance" of 2.5 parts per million set by the Food and Drug Administration for the fatty part of whole milk sold in stores.

Short for polychlorinated biphenyls, PCBs are used mainly as insulating fluids in electrical equipment. They are widespread throughout the environment and have caused tumors, birth defects and liver ailments in laboratory animals. They also are a suspected cancer-causing agent in humans at low levels of exposure.

"The study means that PCBs are so prevalent in the food chain that it even gets into mothers' milk," said Jerry Blondell of the EPA's pesticide office.

The EPA said the women participating in the study were notified of the results, but were not advised to quit breast-feeding.

The agency said it is continuing to gather companion study is under way to see whether the children fed the tainted milk suffer ill effects.

Company Draws Upscale Buyers

By LEROY POPE
 NEW YORK (UPI) — Ben Feldman of East Liverpool, Ohio, sells more million-dollar life insurance policies than anyone else, but his company, New York Life, doesn't. Massachusetts Mutual of Springfield does.
 Feldman sold in 1975 an amazing $82 million worth of business life insurance, much of it in million-dollar policies. His 30-year total sales run to $858 million.
 But Massachusetts Mutual currently has around 780 holders of million-dollar-plus policies, a gain of 104 between the fall of 1976 and mid-1978. The company has four policyholders in the $8 million to $9 million range, four at $6 million to $7 million, and 134 at $2 million to $5 million.
 The big reason for Massachusetts Mutual's success in selling big policies is that, almost alone of the dozen biggest life companies in the United States, it has shunned the "supermarket" approach to selling life insurance.

 It sells group insurance and health insurance to corporations as well as pension services but the company pinpoints its main target as what it calls "upscale people," Americans who are moving up in the world, and to meeting the most complex needs of corporate customers.
 "This kind of selling takes a much higher level of sophistication than in dealing with the masses but the rewards also are better," a recent company statement said.
 The company says that in order to sell to upscale customers you must have upscale agents — "some of our agents do a bigger business than most insurance companies," the spokesman said.
 Massachusetts Mutual says its 3,900 agents have the highest average incomes in the industry.

 The company is convinced that getting and keeping top agents is the whole game in life insurance so it has evolved a system of numerical rating of an agent's potential which it claims is so accurate it can predict in advance any candidate's sales volume for each year of his career. This system was worked out by studying the lifestyles, net worth, personal and business characteristics of more than 5,000 agent candidates.
 The company has its own elaborate training school at Springfield and it has worked with the University of Michigan's Graduate Business School to develop sophisticated methods of accelerated advanced training in agency management.

Massachusetts Mutual recently published a chart of policy holders in the million-dollar or higher class. Not surprisingly, 95 percent are business executives, many chief executives or proprietors, and many of these are "split dollar" policies with the company and the executive sharing the premium cost.
 The ages of the adult million dollar policyholders vary from 31 to 80 but most are in their forties or fifties. A somewhat surprising 25 are listed as housewives. Half a dozen are children ranging from two to eight years old. Fewer than a dozen doctors and dentists are listed and even fewer lawyers but this may be misleading since many listed as executives also may be lawyers. Four students ranging in age from nine to 20 also are listed.
 Only a tiny handful list themselves as private investors but perhaps some of the housewives really are private capitalists. Only about three salesmen are on the list but here again many of the executives may be in sales.
 Only one teacher and only two entertainment performers are listed, all with policies of about $1 million.

Many Uses Found For Spent Hops

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)— Hops can do more than give your favorite beer its bite. The little plant buds also could help in painting your neighborhood saloon or in building the bar you lean against.
 A British scientist says world brewers each year throw away thousands of tons of hops waste previously believed to be worthless.
 But Dr. Gerald J.L. Griffin of Brunel University in Uxbridge said he has discovered several uses for spent hops: He has told the national meeting of the American Chemical Society that old hops could become particle-board for furniture, artificial fuel logs or drying resin for paint.
 "It's really a reflection of the age we live in that we are all scratching around in trash cans to see what we are throwing away," Griffin said in an interview. "But it is necessary."
 "If we could gather together all our old hops, for example, we've calculated we could replace 40 percent of the material imported to the United Kingdom for chipboards," Griffin said.
 Griffin, who normally works on biodegradable plastics, became interested in hops in his other capacity as a visiting lecturer at the Royal College of Arts in London.
 Adrian Emck, a furniture design student, wanted to create furniture that used recycled materials and asked Griffin for suggestions.
 "We ended up looking at brewery waste and found that large quantities of hops are just boiled in the beer-making process," Griffin said. "They use about 6 or 7 percent by weight and then pay to get rid of it after paying about $2,000 a ton for it."
 Griffin said it costs British brewers about $40 a ton to have the wet waste removed and discarded. The waste has so little nutritional value that it cannot be used as animal feed and so little nitrogen that it cannot be used for fertilizer.
 "We set to work trying to dry it out and make a board out of it," he said. "At that point, we discovered that its natural resin was not washed out in making beer and could be used to make the boards."
 With the addition of some simple chemicals, the resin became the glue for the particle-board that forms when the mixture is compressed and dried. The resulting board is hard and durable, he said.
 If hydrocarbon wastes are added to the hops mixture, the material can be pressed into fuel logs for burning, he said.
 Griffin also discovered that acetone from the resin dried into a surface coat good for paint.
 "This stuff can be useful," he said. "It just doesn't make any sense carting it away."

Senate Girds For Gas Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — With one congressional victory on energy almost in hand, President Carter goes before a joint session of Congress tonight to spell out details of the tentative Middle East peace plan worked out at Camp David.

At the White House this afternoon, Carter personally briefed members of the Senate and House foreign relations committee today on details of the accord.

While the Mideast agreement occupied most of the attention on Capitol Hill today, the Senate is almost certain to give the president's energy plan a big boost on Tuesday.

A concentrated and apparently successful White House lobbying effort has made an uphill fight for opponents of a natural gas pricing compromise supported by Carter.

In the first of a series of showdown votes, the Senate will act Tuesday on a move to send the compromise back to the same House-Senate conference committee that produced it.

The bill would lift controls on newfound natural gas in 1985 and permit a steady increase in prices between now and then. The conferees estimated that it would send $9 billion in added revenue to natural gas producers and boost an average homeowner's bill by $13 a year by 1985.

Most counts, including an informal Associated Press survey, show the disparate coalition opposing the compromise will lose the initial test vote.

On the compromise itself, the AP count shows 48 firm or tentative votes in support, 39 against and 13 undecided.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said Saturday he feels sure there are 49 firm votes for the compromise. The West Virginia Democrat said he believes the long battle for passage of the bill is "virtually over the top."

Tuesday's initial natural gas vote is to be followed by others in which opponents will propose various changes to the motion under which the compromise would be sent back to the conferees.

If, as expected, these efforts fail, the Senate will vote Sept. 27 on the compromise itself — the product of 10 months of delicate negotiations with House conferees.

END OF ROAD — Larry Porter Chism, one of two Tennessee prison escapees who had been sought in northern Arkansas, rests Sunday afternoon after his capture near Pineville. Chism was caught after a high-speed chase near the Missouri state line. Another of the four original escapees still is at large. (AP Laserphoto)

QUAKE DEVASTATION — This quake damage is typical of destruction in the city of Tabas, Iran, which was hit by a severe earthquake Saturday night. Most of the 12,000 residents reportedly were killed or injured by the tremor. Rescue operations still are underway despite aftershocks which continue to jolt the region. (AP Laserphoto)

Thousands Victims Of Big Quake Storms Rumble Across Midwest

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A series of aftershocks rumbled through northeastern Iran today where 15,000 people were reported dead or injured from an earthquake that demolished 40 villages and badly damaged 60 others on Saturday.

Officials said they feared the death toll from the quake, which measured 7.7 on the Richter scale and was the strongest recorded this year, would rise when reports were received from the more remote areas.

The new tremors caused panic in the region about 400 miles southeast of Tehran and fears of another major quake.

The official Pars news agency said two-thirds of the 12,000 residents of the city of Tabas died and most of the survivors were injured seriously. It said several thousand people in villages surrounding Tabas, epicenter of the quake, were believed buried in the rubble of their homes.

The area is an agricultural region noted for dates, oranges and grain and is located on the edge of the Kaveer Desert.

"Tabas has become a mound of rubble, bent iron beams and dirt," one witness said.

"From each family, only one person has survived," said another.

The national radio and television service said at least 80 percent of the town of Firdaus, about 100 miles east of Tabas, was destroyed and "many" were killed or injured.

Rescue teams continued to pull bodies and a few survivors from the rubble of the flattened towns, but officials said even those who were safe were without shelter.

Officials said most of the injured would be flown to hospitals near Tehran.

The Red Lion and Sun, Iran's Red Cross, dispatched medical supplies, tents and blankets. Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi ordered 700 soldiers to the stricken area to help rescue and medical workers. The soldiers set up field hospitals and distributed food, water and medicine.

Mass burials were ordered as temperatures in the area rose to 90 degrees and bodies decomposed.

The government announced three days of mourning for the quake victims.

The quake struck at 7:38 p.m. Saturday and was felt in two-thirds of the country, even shaking buildings in Tehran. It also was felt in the major cities of Isfahan, Kerman, Rafsanjan and other towns ringing the Kaveer Desert.

An official in Firdaus said residents of the town were fortunate the quake hit early in the evening while many were still outside their homes, allowing many to escape the falling debris from crumbling buildings. But in the small, mud-walled villages in the surrounding area, where people go to bed earlier, casualties were expected to be heavier, the official said.

An earthquake registering 6.5 on the Richter scale rocked the same area on Aug. 31, 1968, and killed 12,000 people.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. A reading of 7 indicates a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage, while 8 is a "great" quake, capable of tremendous damage.

A-J News Services

A wintertime storm developed in the Rockies today, while the Southwest and Midwest sweated in unseasonably hot temperatures for mid-September. Thunderstorm battered the region from North Texas to North Dakota, with hail and damaging winds lashing a half-dozen states.

Winds reaching 85 mph slammed into the Northwest Texas town of Crowell, west of Wichita Falls. Plate glass windows at Shattuck, Okla., were smashed by strong winds that also downed power lines.

Tornadoes were reported in Butler County in Kansas, but damage reports were sketchy. Heavy rains and 52 mph winds raked Wichita.

Golfball-size hail hit Hutchinson, Kan., while nearby McPherson was swamped by more than 2 inches of rain within minutes. Lightning was blamed for a fire at Clay Center in the north-central part of the state.

In the West, a heavy snow warning was issued for the mountains of northeastern Nevada and a winter storm watch was posted in western Wyoming. Stockmen's and travelers' advisories were issued for western Montana, northern Utah and western Colorado.

Temperatures in the 20s are forecast tonight in western Wyoming and Montana, with 30-degree readings possible as far south as Colorado.

Reports of snow in the Rockies mocked perspiring residents of West Texas, who continue to bake in unseasonably hot temperatures. No immediate relief is in sight, according to the National Weather Service.

Hub City residents, anxious for cooler temperatures, won't be thrilled by the weatherman's call for temperatures in the mid-90s today and near 90 Tuesday.

The Sunday high minimum reading of 72 broke by one degree a record set last year.

And another mark is likely to fall if the low today — it was 70 this morning — stays above the 1968 record of 68.

Clear to partly skies are predicted for today and Tuesday, and the wind should be southerly at 15 to 20 mph today and 10 to 15 mph tonight.

The low tonight should be near 70.

A strong westerly wind is expected Tuesday.

Thunderstorms came up and then hurried away during the night over the northeastern fringe of the South Plains.

Paducah had a trace of rain with most of the storms east of there.

The extended forecast gives a chance of scattered showers over the South Plains late this week.

Somewhat cooler temperatures are predicted for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

High temperatures, forecasters said, will be near the seasonal averages of 83 and 57.

Oswald Trip Spotlited

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man who gave his name as Lee Harvey Oswald threw a tantrum when Cuban authorities in Mexico City refused his request for an immediate visa to travel to Cuba, a retired Cuban consul testified today.

"He was insistent and he was not pleasant," said Eusebio Azcue Lopez, the Cuban consul in Mexico City in the early 1960s.

Azcue, now retired and living in Cuba, was the official who told Oswald that a visa could not be granted without the approval of authorities in Havana. He testified before the House Assassinations Committee in Spanish with an interpreter translating his statements.

The committee conceded it has "largely been frustrated" in efforts to trace Oswald's activities during a seven-day trip to Mexico less than two months before the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Rifts Threaten Mideast Hopes

said "will do everything they can to torpedo" the accords.

Kissinger, who made numerous trips to the Middle East in search of a peace agreement during the Nixon and Ford administrations, said today that the advances were so great that the situation in the region has changed for the better, no matter what happens in the coming months.

"Everything in the Middle East has a fragile quality, but this is a major achievement," Kissinger said. He said Carter "deserves the gratitude of the American people and the gratitude of the world."

Although the Congress has no direct role in implementation of the agreements, Carter and his summit partners are seeking moral support for their efforts.

American officials said Carter, Sadat and Begin agreed to nothing that would call for American military involvement in carrying out the Camp David accords.

The dramatic proposal for an Egyptian-Israeli treaty may not sit well with Egypt's Arab neighbors because it would involve a separate peace that would leave unsettled Israel's historic conflict with other Arab neighbors — Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

Ignoring this and other uncertainties, Begin turned to Sadat and proposed, "Let us promise each other we shall do it earlier than within three months."

Although sharp differences remain, the prospect of peace between Egypt and Israel by Christmas was a major surprise, made more dramatic by the deep secrecy imposed during the negotiations.

Carter, who was flanked by the two Mideast leaders, acknowledged "there are still great difficulties that remain and many hard issues to be settled."

In sketching one of the key agreements, Carter said Israel would end its military rule of the West Bank of the Jordan River over a five-year period, while retaining some military outposts.

The Palestinian Arabs now living under Israeli occupation there and in the Gaza Strip would choose their own "self-governing authority" and participate in negotiations to determine their future.

A major question left unresolved was whether concessions offered by Israel to the Palestinian Arabs will draw Jordan's King Hussein into the peace process.

Carter said he hoped "the foresight and wisdom" demonstrated by Sadat and Begin will guide all nations "as they continue to strive toward peace."

The text of the "framework for peace," made public today, gives far greater attention to Jordan's potential role in a hoped-for settlement than did the remarks of Carter, Begin and Sadat on Sunday night.

After stating that "Jordan will be invited to join the negotiations on the basis of the framework," the document spelled out ways in which Jordan would play a part in all phases of talks involving the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

To date, Hussein has refused to join the peace process. There has been no indication the Camp David conferees had any assurance that their accords would change Hussein's mind.

The fine print of the "framework" also specified that the five-year period for Israeli military withdrawal from the West Bank and Gaza would not begin until a "self-governing authority" has been established in those regions.

On leaving Camp David at the end of 12 days of marathon talks that often stretched into the small hours of morning, Begin and Sadat beamed and waved toward reporters and photographers as Carter escorted them to a waiting helicopter.

The trio flew direct to the White House, where Rosalynn Carter greeted each of them with a kiss.

At the East Room ceremony, broadcast live to the nation, the three men sat together before a gathering of dignitaries at a small table, the flags of their countries behind them.

Carter conceded the arduous summit produced moments when "there was a danger that human energy would fail, or patience would be exhausted, or good will would run out."

But he said Begin, Sadat and their advisers "found the resources within them to keep the chances for peace alive."

Sadat, speaking next, thanked Carter for fulfilling his commitment to serving as a "full partner" in the talks. He concluded with a prayer that the "spirit of Camp David" would mark a new chapter in Middle East history.

Begin began by proposing that the summit be known as "the Jimmy Carter Conference." He said Carter not only worked hard but "took a great risk on himself."

Turning to Sadat, the Israeli leader said there was no point in recounting the "saga" of their differences during the negotiations.

"Everything belongs to the past," said Begin, who then embraced Carter and Sadat.

Strike Halts Air Traffic In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Air traffic was virtually stalled in Mexico and thousands of tourists were stranded by an indefinite strike of air traffic controllers.

The government ordered substitute controllers into the airport towers, but members of the Mexican pilots' union refused to fly until their union was satisfied that the substitutes were competent.

Nearly all domestic flights were cancelled Sunday, and only eight foreign flights — all operated by U.S. companies — took off from the Mexico City airport, sources there reported. They said there were only a few landings, all by small planes.

The Mexico City airport normally handles 500 takeoffs and landings daily.

The government grounded all private planes and suspended all government and training flights.

The same situation was reported at 50 other airports around the country, including the resort areas along the West coast and on the Yucatan peninsula.

Airport lounges were packed with delayed passengers and their luggage. In Mexico City, hundreds of angry passengers argued with ticket clerks.

The 960 members of the air traffic controllers union walked out Sunday in protest against the government's plans to make them government employees.

Thousands Victims Of Big Quake

THOUSANDS OF people were killed or injured by a severe earthquake Saturday night in the city of Tabas, Iran, which was hit by a severe earthquake Saturday night. Most of the 12,000 residents reportedly were killed or injured by the tremor. Rescue operations still are underway despite aftershocks which continue to jolt the region.

City Police Investigating Shooting Of City Student

Police today were attempting to sort out the details of a mysterious spree of gunfire about 10:30 p.m. Sunday, which injured a 25-year-old Tech student as he sat in a car at Sixth Street and Avenue R and damaged several houses near the intersection.

The shooting victim, James Tibbets of 1802 Fifth St., Apt. 111, was taken to West Texas Hospital where he was in serious condition this morning with a wound to the neck.

Steve Roark, the driver of the car, told police he had stopped at the intersection, gunfire was heard and Tibbets said, "I've been shot." Roark took the victim to the hospital.

Officers investigating the incident were told by Perry Jarrell of 509 Ave. S, Apt. 10, that 38 rounds of .22 caliber bullets—the same caliber of bullet that entered Tibbets' neck—were stolen Sunday night from his pickup while it was parked in front of his residence.

Jarrell found that his truck had also been hit by gunshots, according to reports.

James O'Neal, one of several persons living near the location of the incident involving Tibbets, reported damage to his residence from the gunfire. He said a bullet went through his front door and lodged in a wall.

Another homeowner said a bullet shattered one of his back windows and was imbedded in a closet door in his kitchen.

In another reported assault, a 15-year-old boy was taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital about 8 p.m. Sunday after he was allegedly beaten by three youths in the 100-block of Avenue P.

The boy said the youths were kicking him and one of the suspects struck him in the face with a beer bottle. He received only minor injuries and was treated and released from the hospital.

Walter Edward Granberry of 1923 33rd St. said he had been away from home since Saturday morning and returned about 8:45 p.m. Sunday to find his residence burglarized and $1,400 in guns, tools, jewelry and a clock stolen.

Entry apparently was gained by breaking a window in back of the house. A neighbor told police she saw three white men, between 18 and 20 years old, prowling around the house several hours before Granberry returned.

Jesse Perez of 918 34th St. told police his home was burglarized between noon Saturday and 8:30 p.m. Sunday, and $1,938 in household items, jewelry, clothes and a television were taken.

Saturday afternoon a Lubbock father retrieved his son's toy from a neighbor's yard but early Sunday received a beating from the neighbor for being at the house.

John N. Swindall Jr. of 2202 N. Quirt told officers that he had gone to a house about four blocks north of his to get his son's Big Wheels.

Swindall said he walked up to the door and told a woman that he had come to pick up the toy. However, Swindall related, the woman became extremely angry because he was in the yard.

Swindall told police he and his family left their house later in the day and returned about midnight to find three men in the yard.

One of the men, who said he was the woman's husband, told Swindall that he was going to have to apologize to his wife for his behavior earlier that day concerning the child's toy.

Swindall told police that he apologized to the woman but then her husband pushed him back hitting him on the shoulder.

The victim told officers that he tried to leave the yard but that as he was walking off the man hit him in the face.

Swindall said he kept trying to go back to his house but that the man and two other companions followed him and kept kicking and hitting him about the face.

At that point, Swindall said he started running, and the three threw rocks at him.

Swindall described the three men as Mexican-American, 26-35 years old.

In another incident, a 22-year-old Lubbock man was booked into county jail late Saturday for aggravated assault, injury to a child and evading arrest after an incident earlier that day.

Teddie Tonette Redman, 22, of 2210 25th St., told police a man came up to her house and started cursing at her.

The woman told officers she then went into her bedroom to get her 7-month-old baby and reported that the man began hitting her in the face.

Mrs. Redman said she put the baby in the car and went to a neighbor's house for help, noticing that the man had picked up the child.

Officers arrived at the scene to find the man laying in the yard. But, as the officers walked up to the man, he ran into the house, where they finally subdued him.

The victim was treated at Methodist for a broken nose and other lacerations while the baby was admitted to the hospital for 24-hour observation.

Janie Aguilar White, 25, of Cone told police her purse, containing $31, was stolen by a man with whom she accepted a ride about 3 a.m. Sunday.

The man initially told her he needed to stop for gas, but instead drove quickly down 19th Street past Quirt Avenue to a dirt road and told her to get out. When she refused, he got out of the car, walked to the passenger side with a grease gun and told her "get out or I'll beat the — out of you."

The man told her to leave her purse as she got out of the car. He then fled in his car, leaving the woman to return to town on foot.

SPAG To Pick New Officers

The South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) will elect new officers and adopt a budget for fiscal 1979 at its annual general assembly Tuesday.

Project applications and other business will be considered in a regular monthly meeting prior to the assembly.

A 1979 work program, county caucuses to elect at-large SPAG board members and presentation of awards also will be taken up in the 6 p.m. Tuesday assembly at Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Applications for federal funding to build waste water collector and treatment works at Shallowater and New Deal will be among business in the 1:30 p.m. Tuesday regular meeting at SPAG headquarters at 1611 Avenue M.

Firefighters Reject Tentative Contract

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Striking firefighters rejected a tentative contract today for the second time in 24 hours and decided to continue their week-long walkout in Wichita.

John Robinson, vice president of Local 666 of the International Association of Fire Fighters, said about 220 firefighters attended the ratification meeting and only three of them voted in favor of the contract.

The proposed contract would give city employees a wage increase of 9 percent plus $40 a month if Wichita voters approved a city sales tax in November. Present starting salaries are $9,887 a year.

Robinson said the big factor in the rejection was tying the increased wage package to the sales tax proposal. Firefighters did not object to the idea in another contract proposal they rejected Sunday. "I think maybe they felt they'd been railroaded," Robinson said when he was asked about the change.

The major stumbling block to ratification by the firefighters appeared to have been removed after Sunday's rejection when the police union offered to negotiate separately on the fate of its members who walked out late last week.

JEWISH REQUEST REJECTED
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has rejected a request from the American Jewish Congress to postpone a conference on medical research scheduled during Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish new year. The congress' president, Howard M. Squadron, had asked HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. to postpone the Oct. 3-4 conference by at least one day.

The Newspaper Bible.

Luke 1:8-24, The Living Bible

8,9 One day as Zacharias was going about his work in the Temple—for his division was on duty that week—the honor fell to him by lot to enter the inner sanctuary and burn incense before the Lord.

10 Meanwhile, a great crowd stood outside in the Temple court, praying as they always did during that part of the service when the incense was being burned.

11,12 Zacharias was in the sanctuary when suddenly an angel appeared, standing to the right of the altar of incense! Zacharias was startled and terrified.

13 But the angel said, "Don't be afraid, Zacharias! For I have come to tell you that God has heard your prayer, and your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son! And you are to name him John."

14 You will both have great joy and gladness at his birth, and many will rejoice with you.

15 For he will be one of the Lord's great men. He must never touch wine or hard liquor—and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit, even from before his birth!

16 And he will persuade many a Jew to turn to the Lord his God.

17 He will be a man of rugged spirit and power like Elijah, the prophet of old; and he will precede the coming of the Messiah, preparing the people for His arrival. He will teach them to love the Lord just as their ancestors did, and to live as godly men."

18 Zacharias said to the angel, "But this is impossible! I'm an old man now, and my wife is also well along in years."

19 Then the angel said, "I am Gabriel! I stand in the very presence of God. It was He who sent me to you with this good news!"

20 And now, because you haven't believed me, you are to be stricken silent, unable to speak until the child is born. For my words will certainly come true at the proper time."

21 Meanwhile the crowds outside were waiting for Zacharias to appear and wondered why he was taking so long.

22 When he finally came out, he couldn't speak to them, and they realized from his gestures that he must have seen a vision in the Temple.

23 He stayed on at the Temple for the remaining days of his Temple duty, and then returned home.

Central Iowa Tornado Kills Six, Causes $1 Million In Damage

GRINNELL, Iowa (AP) — A weekend tornado cut a 50-mile-long swath through central Iowa corn country, leaving six persons dead, more than a dozen hospitalized and at least $1 million in property damage.

Trooper Bob Kinseth of the Iowa Highway Patrol said rescue workers would trace their steps today in the search for Lothar Rau of Alstead, N.H., whose wife and two children died in the Saturday night storm.

Police Chief Bill Peters predicted that damage would exceed $1 million.

The bodies of Rosemary Rau, 26, her son, Alexander, 4, and daughter, Ann, 7, and Bonnie Maldonado, 65, of Newton, Iowa, were found near a demolished gas station along Interstate 80, two miles south of here.

Fifteen miles to the northwest, Gary Cade, 33, and his daughter, Jennifer, 7, were killed when the family's rural mobile home was ripped apart.

More than a dozen people remained hospitalized late Sunday, including Melanie Rau, 6, perhaps the lone survivor of her family.

Her condition improved from serious to fair late Sunday and she told authorities her family had been returning to New Hampshire from a vacation in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Heather Pulminsano, 3, of Alstead, N.H., who had been traveling with the Rau family, was in critical condition late Sunday with multiple injuries.

Authorities said the death toll could have been higher. About 100 persons were in Mitchell's One-Stop Restaurant, many seeking refuge from a blinding rainstorm, when the tornado blew it apart.

At Oskaloosa, 40 miles to the south, about 120 people were in a pizza parlor when the twister tore most of the roof from the building.

At Barnes' 66 service station near Grinnell, 10 rental trucks and 15 trailers that had been lined up beside the cement block building were blown away. The force of the wind shoved one truck through the wall of the building.

The remains of the vehicles were found strewn across a cornfield a quarter mile away.

Dozens of cars were smashed and one was lifted up and dropped on top of the second story of the Motel Grinnell.

At the town of Laurel, Herman Thornburg said Cade used to tell him it would take a hurricane to move him and his family from their mobile home on a hill south of the village of 245 people. "He used to live in town, then he moved out here and loved it," said Thornburg, a carpenter from nearby Estler.

Environment Affects People's Weight More Than Heredity

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fat people can't blame their problem entirely on their ancestors anymore, according to medical researchers. They say environment is more of a factor than heredity in obesity.

"People want to hear that it's all genetic so they can go out and eat their cake," Alfred A. Rimm said. "The study shows that you can't use your heredity as an excuse."

Rimm, a professor of preventive medicine at the Medical College of Wisconsin, referred to an extensive three-year study that he undertook with assistant professor Arthur J. Hartz and mathematician Eldred E. Giefer.

They said the discovery that environment — including the diet of people when they are young — plays the major role in determining obesity runs counter to the idea that weight is governed by genes.

"There is a genetic component," Rimm said, "but in most cases, it is minor compared to the environmental factor."

Parental guidance in selecting foods accounted for about 32 percent of the variations in the obesity of children in thousands of families monitored by the researchers, they said, while only 12 percent appeared to have been influenced by heredity.

"These results suggest there should be a modification of child-rearing techniques of obese women," Hartz said. "This involves guiding children in the choice of food, feeding in infancy, the introduction of solid foods or breast feeding, the kinds of snack foods, and encouraging activity in children."

"Diet without exercise is an odd couple," Rimm said.

The conclusions are drawn from a study that the researchers say was probably the biggest of its kind ever undertaken.

It involved collecting statistics on 254 families with 546 adopted or otherwise non-related children, and comparing them with 10,337 having 25,554 biologically related children.

The subjects were drawn from a list of 73,532 women who, in 1969-70, had enrolled in a Milwaukee-based weight-reducing organization, TOPS Club Inc. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). The researchers said they concentrated on families having at least two children each, ages 4 to 11. Data included the parents' height, weight, number of children and obesity history.

All women studied were white, "but I believe the results would be similar if we had studied just blacks, Chicanos or Chinese — in this country," Rimm said.

Terrorists Bagged In Kidnapping Case

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A police source said Saturday that a number of suspected leftist guerrillas have been arrested in connection with the kidnapping and murder of Hugo Margain Charles, son of Mexico's ambassador to the United States.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said the arrests were made Friday night in a small town north of Mexico City. He said police started to question four men spotted in a parked car in the town and the suspects opened fire.

On this day in history:

In 1850, the Fugitive Slave Act was passed by Congress, allowing a slave owner with a certificate to reclaim any slave who escaped into another state.

In 1928, it was estimated that 4,000 persons had been killed and $30 million damage caused by a devastating hurricane, which had lashed Florida and the West Indies for five days.

In 1961, U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was killed when his plane crashed in Northern Rhodesia.

In 1975, FBI agents in San Francisco captured Patricia Hearst and two of her Symbionese Liberation Army comrades, William and Emily Harris.

A thought for the day: American poet Walt Whitman said, "Once fully enslaved, no nation, state, or city of this earth ever afterward resumes its liberty."

City Sets Funds Allocation Talks

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Each fall Lubbock residents are asked their opinions about where and how the city's allotment of federal Community Development funds should be spent.

And, each year, the number of acceptable responses to those questions has been reduced by Uncle Sam.

This year is no exception.

B Local State
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Monday, September 18, 1978

Beginning Tuesday, a series of 11 meetings will be held at different sites in Lubbock to obtain citizen comment on how $3.7 million in CD funds should be used next year.

Additionally, Lubbockites will be asked how they think CD funds should be used in the next three years.

And, true to form, the Department of Housing and Urban Development has formulated new guidelines for using the federal grants.

The new regulations, issued March 1, encourage comprehensive planning and the more concentrated use of block grant funds in target areas.

The objectives of the block grant program are to provide decent housing, a suitable living environment and expanded economic opportunities primarily for low and moderate income persons.

The guidelines state that 75 percent of the funds must be directed toward programs and activities which benefit persons of low and moderate income. The remaining 25 percent may be used to prevent or eliminate slums and blight or to meet urgent needs.

Similar regulations sparked a dispute between the city and HUD last year over the eligibility of some CD projects in Southwest Lubbock.

The city was forced to reallocate nearly $544,000 originally designated for park and lighting improvements in Southwest Lubbock after HUD determined the projects did not meet federal CD guidelines.

Projects considered acceptable uses for CD funding include:

*Neighborhood revitalization such as housing improvements, improved community and public facilities and other programs and activities which will maintain viable neighborhoods and upgrade blighted neighborhoods.

*Programs and activities carried out on a community-wide basis to improve the general supply and maintenance of housing including public improvements needed to support housing, rehabilitation programs or loans and community facilities.

*Programs and activities which will serve the entire community, such as a senior citizen center.

*Coordinated public-private efforts to increase employment among minorities.

"All activities have to be directed in some form or fashion toward eliminating slums or blight," CD coordinator Vicki Foster said.

Neighborhoods eligible for the CD funds primarily are in north, east and central sections of Lubbock, she said. However, some "pockets" of blight, such as the Stubbs School Area in Southwest Lubbock, might meet the federal guidelines, she said.

The guidelines should do little to improve the already abysmal attendance at CD meetings in more affluent Lubbock neighborhoods, Miss Foster said.

"There are no projects we can really put out there," she said, referring to South and West Lubbock. However, she said, those residents might have some "comment on what should be done in East Lubbock."

Almost half of Lubbock's share of CD funds has gone for housing rehabilitation and redevelopment in the past, Miss Foster said. "That's what citizens seem to want," she said.

HUD is placing a "big emphasis on citizen participation this year — more than ever before," she said.

Not only does the department want citizen input on needs, Miss Foster said, but the agency wants comment on how the CD program is being run.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE — The Board of Governors of the Lubbock Theatre Centre presented a pre-theater party and benefit review of the musical play, "Man of La Mancha" Thursday. Enjoying the reception are, from left, Mayor and Mrs. Dirk West, Claude Dolins, and Norma Baker, board member in charge of public relations. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. today, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. For ticket information call the Lubbock Theatre Centre at 744-3681. Tickets may be purchased at the box office up to the time of the performance. (Staff Photo by Milton Adams)

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: To get right down to the nitty-gritty, how does a reasonably intelligent, fairly attractive 26-year-old single woman meet men? I'm not frantically searching for a husband — or even a "meaningful relationship" — but I wouldn't be adverse to it either.

I don't want a man who's interested only in a one-night stand, but it would be nice to connect with a guy who shares some of my interests and could brighten up my dull, boring life. (I'm a 9-to-5 office worker.) Any ideas?

ROBIN

Dear Robin: I received no less than 100 letters this week asking the same question, so I'll kill 100 "Robins" with one stone and proffer the following:

The best way to meet decent men is through one's work, church, friends and interests — out in the mainstream of life. And no matter how lonely you are, avoid those lonely hearts clubs, singles bars and the phony computer dating services.

A girl who's in politics can make many new and interesting friends while gathering names for a petition, registering voters, or working on a campaign.

Don't overlook adult education classes in the evening — particularly subjects that appeal to men. (Scuba diving, aerobics, auto mechanics, sailing.) You may find that you're the only woman in a class of 30 men. (Whoopie!!!!)

Sports offer opportunities galore. If you're not keen on outdoor sports, try indoor sports. How about pool or billiards? If you live in a singles apartment with a pool table, pick up the cue. (Ha!) If you don't live in a singles apartment, visit a friend who does. Men hang around good pool players. (They even hang around poor ones so they can teach them. Either way, you can't lose.)

And last but not least — travel. Consider one of those affordable group tours. Get out and see the world, and the world will see YOU!

Above all, don't play games. If you find someone attractive, don't worry about who makes the first move. It's a whole new world out there. Help yourself.

DEAR ABBY: I know that most small boys have a natural aversion to soap and water, but at what age is a boy supposed to start keeping himself reasonably clean?

I have a son, 13, and you wouldn't believe how he detests soap and water. And to top it off, he doesn't even want to wear socks. The answer I get is, "None of the guys wear socks anymore, mom!"

When he comes home from school grimy and sweaty, and I tell him to shower before supper, he tells me he had a shower in gym, so he doesn't have to shower at home. And he climbs into bed at night, exhausted, with dirty hair and filthy feet. You should see the bed sheets! You would think he had been working in the coal mines. And he sleeps until the last minute in the morning, so he's too rushed to shower then. Please, Abby, how can I clean up this kid? I don't know how much longer I can take it.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS FAN
Dear Fan: Cleanliness should not be optional. It should be mandatory, and if your son, at age 13, does not keep himself reasonably clean, offer to give a bath. And when you start undressing him, I'll bet he moves!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVES LOV-ING": Those who love deeply never grow old; they may die of old age, but they die young.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (c) 1978 by Chicago Tribune — N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

Weddings

MULLINS-RANDALL

Elesa Mullins became the bride of Charles Randall in a 7:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday in the First United Methodist Church. The Rev. Dick Richards officiated.

Honor attendants were Paulette Robinson of Slaton, sister of the bride, and Pat Hanks of Clovis, N.M.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Mullins of Ralls and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Randall of Wichita Falls.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will live in Clovis, N.M.

The bride attended Kilgore College, East Texas State University and Texas Tech School of Law. The bridegroom is employed in Lubbock.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will live in Lubbock.

WHITE-GUERRANT

Janet Carol White and Richard Fambro Guerrant were married in a Saturday ceremony, Dr. Darrell Gray officiated.

Honor attendants were Cheryl Wagner of Austin and Jim Feeley of Atlanta, Georgia.

The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A.K. Munson of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. H.G. White of Austin. Guerrant is a son of Mrs. J.R. Guerrant of Robert Lee. Following a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the couple will live in Austin.

OTTO-LANG

Mary Louise Otto and Paul Dodson Lang exchanged vows in a 7 p.m. ceremony Saturday in the Oakwood Methodist Church. The Rev. Robert Metzger officiated.

Honor attendants were Leslie O'Neal and Alton Jones.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. LaMoine B. Otto of Rancho Cordova, Calif. and Mr. and Mrs. Omar Lang of Hamilton, Ohio.

♠A85 ♥Q8 ○AJ652 ♣AJ7
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with three clubs. What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You cannot double because you have marginal support for the majors. You cannot overcall three diamonds because your suit is too weak. And you cannot bid three no trump on a flat 16 count, despite your two club stoppers. Simply await development, and collect 100 points for each undertrick if partner is unable to act.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J1072 ♥K1093 ○K ♣AKQ6
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—This is very close. Since you have bid, partner's double is for

A.—The one thing you must not do is jump to three hearts—you are far too strong for that action. The choice is between a jump to three clubs and a simple two club response. We favor the latter. If

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠10754 ♥Q102 ○10973 ♣84
The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 ○ Dbble. Pass 1 ♣ Pass 3 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Bid four hearts. By first doubling and then jumping to three hearts, partner has shown a very strong hand. In view of your two honors in his suit and a ruffing value in clubs, you would be failing in your duty if you did not raise.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠105 ♥92 ○Q8743 ♣J982
The bidding has proceeded: East South West North Pass Pass 1 ♣ Dbble. Pass 2 ○ Pass 2 ♥ 2 ♣ Pass Pass Dbble. 2 ♣ ?

What action do you take?
A.—This is very close. Since you have bid, partner's double is for penalties. However, now that East has supported spades, it's unlikely that partner has a trump stack—probably just a very good hand with a wealth of quick tricks. Our decision would be based on partner's tendencies. If he is known to be quick on the trigger, we would take out insurance by removing to three clubs. Opposite a solid, conservative partner though, we would play for penalties.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠Q7 ♥K106 ○AJ10763 ♣93
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♣ Pass 1 ○ Pass 1 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Your hand is worth a move toward game, and the only sensible action you can take is to raise to two no trump. Despite your six-card suit, your hand is essentially balanced, and no rebid in diamonds is as descriptive as a raise in no trump.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠874 ♥92 ○QJ10763 ♣K5
The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 ♥ 1 ♣ Dbble. ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. It would be a vote of no confidence if you "rescued" partner by bidding your six-card suit at the two level. Partner knew you were vulnerable when he overcalled, so he should have a good suit. You have three-card support, ruffing values and some useful high cards. From this side of the table, it appears that partner will easily make his contract.

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A1074 ♥KJ6 ○AJ95 ♣34
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♣ / Pass 1 ○ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—You are almost bound, especially if you can locate a 4-4 suit fit. It is quite possible that partner bypassed a biddable spade suit in favor of making the strength-showing jump in no trump, so we would bid three spades to see whether he can raise. If he does, we would take a shot at slam, and if he rebids three no trump, we would raise to four to show our slam aspirations.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠82 ♥QJ95 ○K1072 ♣885
The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 ♣ Dbble. Pass 2 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Bid four hearts. Partner has announced that he is prepared to play at the three-level even though you have promised nothing with your simple bid to two hearts. You have a reasonable heart suit and an outside king, so you should have an excellent play for game.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

My Aunt Lotte said to me the other day. "Boy, you certainly have changed since you were a child. You used to be so shy and introverted, you wouldn't say butter if it melted in your mouth. Why, I couldn't get you to say two words to me."

My mind went back to the days as a child and in my defense I have to say that children would love to talk. They really would. It's just that the questions adults ask them are tough. I defy any adult to answer some of them.

She's the aunt who used to come into a room and upon noticing me would stoop down and ask, "Where did you get those blonde curls?"

"I'd think, 'Oh boy, here we go again. That's got to be one of those inherited trait questions with the genes and chromosomes. Maybe I'll just spit on my handkerchief and twist it around my tooth and she'll go away.'"

"What's the matter?" she pursued. "Has the cat got your tongue?"

"Where does she come up with this stuff? Besides, that is the most gross idea I've ever heard. Oh, oh, here she comes again."

"You're not talking to Aunt Lotte. Do you want Aunt Lotte to cry?"

"What kind of question is that! Good heavens, she's putting her face in her hands and going 'boo-hoo.'"

"Good grief. I can't wash my hands without standing on a stool and she wants to know what my goals are."

"Would you look at that pout! Do you want your face to freeze that way?"

"She's always asking that and I haven't heard of a single case of frozen face since I was born."

"Do you know what I think is wrong with you, missy? I think you need a N-A-P."

"Why doesn't she just come right out and say it. She's always spelling in front of me. Last time she misspelled overbite...put a Y in it."

Aunt Lotte jarred me back to reality with, "Would you like me to give you a penny for your thoughts?"

"Aunt Lotte," I said, "with the present devaluation of our currency, 1/100 of a dollar is barely sufficient remuneration for my reflections. Frankly, I can get more with mass syndication distribution."

Aunt Lotte said, "I liked you better when you sat there like a stick."

TEAMED FOR EXCEPTIONAL SERVICE — For insurance, Neelley, each knowledgeable and long familiar on the area insurance scene. PIA comes through strong! Pictured at the firm's offices in south Lubbock are J. Don Baldrige, Marty Evans and Melba

Panhandle Insurance Agency Strong 'In Things That Count'

Panhandle Insurance Agency (PIA) wants to be your "first team" when it comes to insurance services. Fully qualified in all the essential areas — dedication to service, experience in the field, access to the most desired markets, and with a record of good working relationships with each valued customer — this is PIA, "your kind of folks."

Possibly best known as commercial specialists, PIA (located at 7212 Joliet, phone 799-5335, at South Loop 289 and Indiana Avenue) serves equally well in every insurance situation, for large and small transactions alike.

Nothing can replace the personal guidance of an interested and competent insurance representative, and PIA takes pride in the track record and the mutual trust marking each staff member.

"Professionals You Know"

PIA opened its Lubbock offices in March of this year, with original staff members J. Don Baldrige, Marty Evans and Melba Neelley still at the helm. Baldrige for 18 years was co-owner and secretary-treasurer of Baldrige Bakery in Lubbock, and has since been in the insurance business for 12 years. A native of Lubbock, he has held numerous civic and church offices, is a founding trustee of Lubbock Christian College and has been chairman of the Lubbock Christian School board for 18 years.

Evans has a rich background of agency commercial account executive capacities in Lubbock, preceded by tenure of several years with the State Board of Insurance, and still other years of association with insurance and related property fields.

Melba Neelley has agency service of more than 15 years, with specialization in personal lines, most of this in Lubbock.

Growth With a Reason

In the months since opening of the offices here, Panhandle Insurance Agency has become a vital part of a growing Lubbock. Growth of the firm has been exceptional, and the staff is most grateful for the confidences and the trade accorded PIA. Each representative pledges continuation of professional insurance service — with appreciation, friendliness and courtesy.

"Whatever your insurance need, you can turn with confidence to the competent staff members at PIA, innovators whose first consideration is to accommodate your needs."

"Most oldtimers of the area already are our acquaintances and friends, and if you are a newcomer, we invite you to consider the above thumbnail sketch of the Lubbock PIA operation in your choosing of an insurance representative to best serve your particular needs. May we have the pleasure of your visits or calls, at South Loop 289 and Indiana, 7212 Joliet, phone 799-5335?"

Overhead Automatic Door Installation Seen As Great Family Consideration

"Will this winter find your family and yourself enjoying the convenience of an automatic overhead door installation for your garage?"

"Likely in the past you have envied your neighbor who with such facilities was spared exposure to snow and sleet (yes, these are such to come again this year, in just a few months).

"There is no need for you to walk on slick driveways to open or shut the garage door, just as there is no need to drive into a darkened garage at night. After all, you can enjoy the convenience and security of an automatic installation from Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop); phone 797-4141."

Convenience, safety and protection — this is the whole story of automatic overhead doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

Long In Lubbock

Serving with the same fine products and desire to please, traditional with the firm for over 20 years, the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is geared in every operation to render maximum customer service.

And here ... at end of summer and with inclement weather sure to be on its way, what better time is there to visit Overhead Door Co. to arrange for an automatic unit for the family's benefit now and for seasons to come, upgrading a present home or in building a new one.

"Give your home distinction and new convenience at low cost. Give your family the Overhead Door electric operator from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock."

Auto-Mate 80

Special attention is called to the Auto-Mate 80, the ultimate garage door opener with all the features one would expect, and more.

Security and convenience are synonymous with the Auto-Mate 80. The simple touch of a button on the remote transmitter is all it takes to open, close and lock the garage door. Added security is automatic as the door itself since when down, the door is securely locked.

A powerful 1/3 h.p. motor, operating on standard 115 V household current, provides smooth, quiet, dependable and positive operation of the door.

An instant reversing mechanism insures complete safety should the closing door encounter an obstacle. Should a power failure occur, a spring-loaded quick disconnect instantly converts the door to manual operation and is simply reconnected by hand.

This heavy duty, UL-approved operator can handle sectional or one-piece doors up to 18' by 8' or two single car doors hooked up tandem.

Automatic Doors represent a wise gesture by the head of the family. With these doors, the wife can open the garage, enter and lock it without leaving her vehicle — quite a convenience benefit in inclement weather (wind, rain, dust, snow), and a definite safety factor on dark nights.

The Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is glad to demonstrate how simple it is to enjoy these benefits. Call for free estimate.

Overhead doors are available and recommended, also, for commercial and industrial buildings.

Whether selection is from a steel, wood or fiberglass overhead door, Tim Hatch at Overhead Door Co. assures the very best value in installation and sales, resulting in lasting satisfaction.

Business & Industrial Review

Kirby Sales And Service Greet Fair Vistors With Booth, Product Award

"Wouldn't you like to be the winner of a new Kirby Classic III system?" Registration for just such an award is one of the features of the Panhandle South Plains Fair booth of Kirby Sales & Service, 5410 Slide Road, phone 792-3718. Fair dates are Sept. 23-30, and attendance is invited at this booth in the southeast corner of the Merchants Building where Kirby demonstrations and numerous units will be displayed.

And for further revelation regarding Kirby Sales & Service, one is invited to visit the big store on Slide Road, where scads of units and related products are stocked.

New Cleaning Product
(Be sure and see the Super Upkeep products now made available there for the first time.)

Super Upkeep is a carpet cleaner, stain remover and deodorizer, fully guaranteed to spot clean and completely deodorize a long list of stains on carpets, fine furniture and auto upholstery, ceramic tile, shoes and clothing, etc.

More reasons for knowing and patronizing Kirby Sales & Service:
Same-day service for out-of-town customers is featured as a customer consideration.

A Maintenance Special enables tuneup on any Kirby vacuum cleaner for just $7.95.

There is no labor charge on fixing any Kirby unit . . . just a charge for parts only.

And new Kirby units carry a two-year warranty!

There is more:
Reasonable prices always, as example.

"The new Kirby Classic III is presently featured, a system that gives more versatility, quality, reliability and performance than in any other appliance!"

"Suppose you had to shampoo a rug, clean, sanitize, buff, wax, polish and paint — all in the same day; how many appliances would you need?"

"Just one . . . when that one is the Kirby Classic III System with its 80 different uses!"

See this and the entire Kirby line at Kirby Sales & Service, open 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days a week, at 5410 Slide Road, phone 792-3718, in Lubbock.

The firm is essentially a family operation, with Dale Bramlett and his son-in-law, Dan Wilbanks, as owners-operators, and with Sandy Everitt, daughter of Bramlett, also on the job. They assure a personal interest in every transaction.

Repairs and parts are stocked, and the skilled staffers work on any kind of vacuum cleaner.

Rebuilt Units
A complete line of rebuilt Kirbys is stocked at "a price you can afford."

Rental is available on vacuum cleaners and shampoo machines.

Visa and Bank Americard are honored, and in-store financing is available.

Take a good product, represent it well, with the customer's welfare considered foremost, and you have a business worth knowing and patronizing. The business concept and everyday practices of Kirby Sales & Service, 5410 Slide Road, place it as just such a business.

"If you have out-of-town company, bring them to South Plains Mall and to Wong's Imports there for a real treat."

Wong's Imports is truly a one-stop solution for gift giving and for selecting for one's own desires.

Yes, this same fantastic shop, in South Plains Mall, that year in and year out prides in the unique and in value . . . and selection . . . for Christmas, birthdays and all, also can be depended upon to stock the finest and most-desired in souvenirs.

Nutritious, Wholesome Student Meals Come Easy With Gary's Products

"With all the activity coinciding with opening of school, what with the many related tasks and planning, we hope you have not overlooked a very important consideration at this time:

"Nutritious meals for the student."

Such meals are necessary to health and achievement, and they can be both outstanding and delicious if Gary's Frozen Food products are included on the menu.

A lot of parents will agree that nutrition takes on added significance at this time, and it is no secret that many have relied upon Gary's products, sensible priced and readily available, in terms past.

"We're hearing some mighty good things about Gary's Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight, newest of the Gary's family of products!"

"Shouldn't you find out for yourself how this and other of the firm's fine products fit into your menu for finest in nutritious food? Discover how Gary's provides the best in barbeque, corn dogs, super dogs, custom cooking, and more.

Custom Cooking
Gary's is glad to custom prepare any meat, at any time, whether it is wild game or whatnot.

Or one may simply discover that the Gary's Frozen Food label in a favorite grocery or supermarket opens the way to variety and nutritious goodness.

Select from Gary's Barbeque Flavor Delight, Gary's Corn Dogs, Gary's Bar-B-Que Beef Brisket in bar-b-que sauce, and Gary's super dogs. Whether the occasion is a festive meal, a Sunday dinner or even a snack, picnic or a birthday party, one can profit from dependance upon the home-owned, home-operated Gary's Frozen Food firm and its products.

The Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight is newest of the Gary's family of labels, and it is oh-so-good. A beef, beef suet and textured vegetable protein product, it is a new experience in delicious eating. Keep it frozen, and just heat to eat.

This new product is available in the area, distributed to retail stores and to institutions. Look for the label.

The 10-pack Corn Dogs have met with exceptional response.

Consisting of batter mix around a frankfurter, partially cooked in pure vegetable oil, these, too, are easy to prepare. Simply thaw, remove from bag, place in 375-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes or deep fat fry.

Also, one still can get the delicious Gary's Barbeque Beef Brisket in a favorite grocery or supermarket.

The many quality products and services from Gary's has made possible the continued growth of the firm, thanks to loyal customers who appreciate good food and Gary's sincere desire to please.

The barbeque brisket, super dogs and other quality items from Gary's Frozen Foods, 109th Street at South University Avenue, make many a West Texas meal something special — whether for a special event or simply a change of pace.

These products, long recognized as the finest obtainable, are prepared in the modern, enlarged, functionally attractive quarters for Gary's, specifically designed and built for service, in south Lubbock.

Every Gary's Frozen Foods product is an experience in goodness! School children, their parents and a lot of other people (unexpected guests included) can attest to the deliciousness of Gary's Super dogs, corn dogs — and the Gary's Bar-B-Que package available on retail basis.

Business & Industrial Review

J'S OF LUBBOCK, OF COURSE — Owner Jimmie Jones (right) discusses one of the gorgeous creations just arrived at the relatively-new Terrace Center shop (successor to Sissy's), with staffmembers Carolyn Ratliff and Helen Price, all of whom are most capable in serving the apparel desires of the customer. Vicki Mansell was absent at time picture was made.

J's Of Lubbock, Successor To Sissy's, Meets Fashion Needs

More "fashion" than "fad" ... this is the refreshing and very true situation in juniors and misses apparel at J's of Lubbock, formerly Sissy's.

Located in the Terrace Shopping Center, 4902 34th St., J's of Lubbock is owned and actively operated by the very well qualified and personable Jimmie Jones who formerly was with another shop in the same center.

Expanded Facility, Stock
 Since purchase of Sissy's just a few months ago, Jimmie has established the new J's of Lubbock in larger quarters just north of the former Sissy's, now at Space No. 7 where a wider selection and more convenient and open display is enabled.

 For smart, chic, sophisticated sportswear in sizes 0 through 16, the upgraded stock at J's of Lubbock is enthusiastically recommended.

Concept Appreciated
 "A key endeavor and policy of our larger shop is to give the junior and missy sizes, regardless of age, a more sophisticated look," owner Jimmie Jones emphasizes. The meshing of sizes for juniors and misses is one of the noticeable innovations provided ... whether the need is dresses, separates, coordinates, blouses, sweaters, pants and even jeans.
 A selected grouping of costume jewelry is provided, together with hosiery.

 Small wonder J's of Lubbock has been so well accepted!

The unique shop is open each week-day, with extended Thursday hours until 9 p.m. Both Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed.

"For the classic look, for apparel values, for quality without exorbitant expense, J's of Lubbock stands tall ... meriting and inviting consideration from a fashion-wise clientele. You'll like J's of Lubbock, just as your neighbor possibly already does. Not only is the store a friendly place, but it more than justifies its existence with fashion, not fad, remember."

El Paso Wholesale, Lubbock Division, Saves For Clientele

"El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division knows that it can make the entire year more profitable and certainly more convenient for retail firms throughout the region, ultimately saving for the consumer ... you and me."

There are a number of carefully planned factors that make this statement possible and true:
 Selling wholesale only, the El Paso Wholesale Company in Lubbock is the city's complete wholesale firm.

Customers include grocery and hardware stores, auto supply houses, service stations, toy stores, sporting goods stores, etc.
 Located at 206 23rd St., phone 747-1841, in Lubbock, the El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division carries and stocks a full selection of hard line merchandise.

From time to time partial lists of the products have been published on these pages of the Avalanche-Journal, and readers have noted that the products and brand names are ones that can be appreciated, together with the completeness of this wholesale firm.

Among the benefits area merchants find foremost at El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division, aside from the selection, is the freight situation.

Doesn't it make sense that savings are enabled through the regions by virtue of the big-stock Lubbock warehouse that features faster, shorter delivery transport? Let this Lubbock wholesale firm prove it to your own benefit with products such as:

Guns by Remington, Marlin and H. and R.; ammunition from Federal and Remington; and gun accessories such as Outer & Hoppes solvents and gun cleaning kits.

C.B. radios by Midland and Cobra, and the Fuzzbuster radar detector; plus Mr. CB accessories and Antenna Specialist antennas.

Of course there are lots of quality housewares, including Corning Ware and Pyrex, Nordic Ware and Rubbermaid. Among the many appropriate items for young birthdays are toys by Fisher-Price, Mattel, Playskool, Tonka and Marx.

Electronics
 In the electronics field, select from television sets by G.E., Midland, Hitachi and Sony; and stereos by Soundesign and Hitachi; plus miscellaneous items including eight-track and cassette recorders, walkie talkies and TV video games.

Quality cameras and supplies include Polaroid and Kodak cameras, projectors and film, and accessories such as camera cases, viewers and film reels.

Sporting Goods
 Diversified sporting goods items include ... for the fishing enthusiast there are the famous lines of Diawa, Garcia, Zebo, Mr. Twister, Fleck Lures and Mepps.

For camping, select from Coleman, Igloo, Ray-o-Vac batteries and Nelson

Sales camping accessories, and Buck knives.

For outdoor sports, the lines of Rawlins, Spalding, Wilson and General Sportscraft are represented.

And there are Daisy and Crossman BB guns and Huffy bicycles.
 Small appliances are stocked in abundance, including coffee makers by Norelco, Mr. Coffee and Jector-Silex; and pressure cookers from Presto and Mirro Aluminum; and Hamilton Beach, Waring, G.E. and Sunbeam appliances, together with such lines as Dazey, Munsey, West Bend, Oster and Rival.

Hardware is not neglected, either, and includes Stanley Tools, Black & Decker power tools, Crescent wrenches and Nicholson files, Peerless and Hancock Gross plumbing supplies.

In the personal care category, there are hair dryers by Gillette, Clairol, Conair and Sunbeam; and hairsetters and make-up mirrors by Clairol, Gillette, G.E. and Hamilton Beach; and Water-Pik, too.

Automotive items include Hollywood and Cal custom accessories, Fram Filters and Autolite tune-up accessories; and Rubbermaid, Lifeline and Roberk automobile accessories.
 And more!

NEW NAME FOR FAMILIAR FACILITY

Activities, Facilities, Management Seen Advantageous At Quaker Villa

"Yes, it formerly was known as Quaker Manor, but now the name is Quaker Villa."
 Actually, it is the same local management, the same 4403 74th St. location, the same "good life for its residents", but with a slightly changed name and now under ownership of a Texas company. Quaker Villa since Feb. 1 has been associated with Friendship Villa, Inc., it has been announced.
 Every phase of operation at Quaker Villa points to the fact that "it costs no more to enjoy the best!"
 Established about five year ago as a locally operated enterprise, the facility still is under direction of Janell Burns, lifelong Lubbock resident, as administrator.
 Shirley Anderson, LVN, is director of nursing.

Iva Brady is activities director. Qualifying for old age assistance and welfare as an Extended Care Facility, Type 3, Quaker Villa provides 96 beds, and the exceptional care is correctly hinted by the large staff of some 60 employees, and the spacious facilities throughout.
 Eight LVN's are on duty to provide 24-hour-a-day care.
 All residents must have doctors' referral, and all medications are by doctors' orders.
 No extended contract period is involved, and residence can be for any length time, in no instance necessarily permanent.
Ample Activity
 Planned activities are very much a part of the program, including games, entertainment and numerous craft pursuits.

Parties are arranged at frequent intervals, as attested by reports in the lively "Sign Post" news letter regularly distributed by the activities director.
 A recent edition told of activities including an anniversary party, trip to a local library, movies, ice cream supper, music and reading, church services, game sessions, visitors, and even a tacky party and other events.
Sister Operation
 Attention also is directed to the University Villa extended care facility, also under the same ownership, but located at 2400 Quaker Ave.
 Physical facilities at each, and the qualified, interested personnel make residence at either a very pleasant experience, more than a few "who know" will attest.

Distributing Firm Arranging Unique Displays For Fair Time

"Don't fail to visit the booth of National Distributing Co. while at the Fair! See the practical and latest products that can work for you . . . such as the pressure washers, Wynn's X-Tend products, filters and more. It all is in the National Distributing Co. booth in the Agriculture Building."
 (Not only is there a big welcome extended at the Fair, but visits are welcomed at any time at the National Distributing offices at 1012 17th St. in Lubbock.
 More about the pressure washers of which the firm is especially proud:
 Kleen-King and Liquid Brush high-pressure cleaning systems are in a class by themselves. Get the facts, and the machine itself, from National Distributing in Lubbock or from one of its many area dealers.
 From quite economical models for the home owner to the "heavy artillery" for the big commercial jobs, there is a model to meet one's needs.

Versatile, Effective
 Backing its claim as the world's most versatile cleaning system, Kleen-King high pressure washers are built industrially tough to handle one's most challenging cleaning jobs. Kleen-King takes a relatively small amount of cold water, mixes it with specially formulated Kleen-King detergents and muscles grime and dirt buildup from virtually any surface.
 It cleans things and things . . . like a swimming pool, building maintenance, removal of rust spots and old paint, etc., and all units are one-man operated!
 Whatever the cleaning job, it can be made easy with Kleen-King, and National Distributing Co. invites early check of its utility, economy and downright effectiveness.
 Jobs and items that call for a Kleen-King model include aircraft, aluminum vans, asphalt removal, boat hulls, buses, cars, concrete deposits, construction equipment, engines:
 Farm equipment, concrete floors, food cases, food preparation areas; food processing equipment, garden equipment, gear boxes;

 Golf carts, grills, barbecues, grocery carts, kennels, kitchens, lawn mowers, livestock pens, locker rooms, mobile homes, motorcycles, operating rooms, restrooms;
 Service stations, signs, swimming pool walls, tar removal, tractors, trailers, trucks, and more.
 Not only does National Distributing and its dealers stock the right machine for the job, but the full line of detergents and chemicals especially formulated for high-pressure washers is stocked.
 Remember . . . Liquid Brush keeps equipment and facilities clean. It washes windows, campers, cars, house siding, barbecue grills, etc. Use Liquid Brush to strip blistered paint before repainting or to deep root water trees and bushes!
 See this amazing machine now, for with Kleen-King one can get the work done and have time left over!

AT FAIR DISPLAY — National Distributing Co. of Lubbock not only is displaying fine products, including the pictured pressure cleaning system, but it is bringing to its South Plains Fair booth the performances, live, of April Tatro, acrobat, contortionist, dancer, model and actress. Seen regularly on TV films and commercials, the versatile performer will be at the firm's booth Saturday through Wednesday, entertaining from 1:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m., ever hour on the half-hour. She will aid in promotion of Baldwin filters, Wynn's X-Tend products and the Kleen King pressure washers.

AMONG MULTIPLE HALE UNITS — Within the 500 Series of Jackknives, Hale presents eight models. Like the other Hale units, they are rugged trailers built tough and equipped to handle the job. Such features as cross gates, escape door and four-wheel electric brakes are standard equipment. Options are available, enabling you to "pull one you'll like".

Stock Trailers From Hale Firm Fulfilling Demands For Region

"Welcome to the Panhandle South Plains Fair (Sept. 23-30) and to Hale Mfg. Co., Inc. at its Idalou Highway location just northeast of Lubbock."
"It long has been a pleasure and privilege for the Hale firm to support area agriculture and ranching endeavor, with a special salute to achievements of FFA and similar programs. We know the work involved, the rewards for superior achievement, and we always are proud when we can have a part . . . for after all, the best trailers are built by Hale, nationwide manufacturers dating from back in 1946!"

New, Used Trailers
While at the Fair . . . or anytime . . . please come by Hale Manufacturing Co. and see the always-large selection of both new and used stock trailers.
Providing trailers for area needs, with stock trailers, jackknife units and all, Hale in Lubbock is proud to introduce and stock units to meet the specific need.
See the two-horse trailer featuring walk-through door at the front, new A-frame type tongue, the spaciousness of 6 ft. 6 in. head room, and all deluxe features standard.
In Lubbock since 1956, Hale maintains a distribution center, retail sales, assembly plant and service-parts headquarters at its facilities on the Idalou Highway just northeast of Lubbock (Rt. 7, Box 429, phone 806-765-8956.)

Stan Howle, Lubbock native and with Hale for eight years, is manager, understanding trailers and area needs and preferences.
Hale trailers include units built for horses and other livestock, utility trailers, jackknife units, flatbeds and dump beds.
A full representative stock is maintained here, and units are available at the firm or from its West Texas and New Mexico dealers.

Service Department
A full service department is maintained, with service on all trailers, whether they were purchased from the firm or elsewhere.
Brake and light sales and installation are available, as is repainting.
Check the following that are among the features standard on every Hale trailer, adding up to Hale value:
A quality vinyl acrylic finish is applied to every Hale trailer. Before the finishing coat is applied, each trailer is smoothed and thoroughly cleaned. Then a primer coat is applied followed by the vinyl acrylic finish. Color selection is from nine beautiful standard colors. Two-tone or special paint colors are available on request.
Lamps are sealed for protection from moisture, and wiring is enclosed in conduit.

The tongue of 3-inch heavy-wall pipe construction and features positive Locking Bulldog coupler and easy-to-operate Bulldog Jack.
The heavy duty all-welded primary frame features heavy 3-inch by 3-inch angle iron with secondary cross members of 2-inch by 2-inch angle iron.
Tongue and grooved flooring spans the width of the trailer for utmost in strength and safety.
Heavy seven-leaf springs are designed to give the carrying capacity demanded of a stock trailer.

Equalizer Bars Standard
The axle and hub are especially designed for long life. The four-inch drop center axle creates a lower center of gravity as well as lowering the floor of the trailer, making loading and unloading easier.
Cast steel equalizer bars are used for durability and strength.
For a quality trailer, with proven features, built and equipped for its intended purpose, "you need to take a closer look at these great units right here on the South Plains, at Hale Manufacturing Co., Inc., Idalou Hwy. just east of Lubbock."
"May we have the pleasure of your visit, inquiry and inspection?"

Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings Tells Special Sale, Adaptability Of Units

"Can you believe . . . tomorrow's buildings at yesterday's prices!"
Then become acquainted with Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings, 6415 Ave. H, just south of the Tahoka traffic circle in south Lubbock, phone 745-2891.

As an added inducement, the following significant announcement is made:
Extra Special

One group of these buildings, in sizes from 8 x 8 to 10 x 20, is priced at 5 per cent reduction until these (seven at a late count) are sold. Whether selection is from one of these units or from other stock or custom models at the lot, value is assured. While at the Fair, come on out to Dura Bilt and let's do business! A genuine welcome awaits.
"Check with all the others, check all other prices and then see us!"
Dura' Bilt portable buildings are manufactured locally to give the customer the style, size and color desired.
And there are other factors that make the choice of Dura' Bilt the sensible and money-saving move:
Such as the more than 20 buildings now on the big, convenient, easily reached lot, ready for delivery. Owner John and Maxine Fritz are personally on the job to assure fastest and best service possible.
The portable building — so right for numerous uses such as storage, lake cabins, offices, warehouses, workshops, etc., feature 29-gauge steel roofs. No hail problem here. Masonite siding is utilized, with the rot-free quality stressed, and available in the color of one's choice.
Trim-out is in different colors of matching metal trim.
Rubber closures are standard in the eaves to guard against blowing sand.
Plywood flooring and floor joists on 16-inch center assure further quality.
Cinnamon birch paneling is featured, together with 3 1/2-inch fiberglass insulation. Even wiring and carpeting is provided in finished buildings.

'Holocaust,' 'All In Family' Top Emmy Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The mini-series "Holocaust" and the 8-year-old comedy "All in the Family" dominated the 30th annual Emmy awards amid complaints of divisive counter-programming by ABC and NBC opposite the CBS telecast.

"Holocaust" and "All in the Family" each received six awards during Sunday's four-hour program, which was interrupted in the eastern and central time zones for a half-hour live report from the White House on the successful conclusion of the Middle East summit conference.

The awards to "Holocaust," which told of Nazi atrocities against the Jews in World War II, ironically came just before the summit report.

"Holocaust," the second most watched show in television history behind last year's "Roots," was named the outstanding limited series. It also won in three acting categories and for writing and direction. The 9½-hour series also had received two awards in the creative crafts presentations last week for a total of eight Emmys.

"All in the Family" won six out of seven awards in the comedy categories, including best comedy series.

ABC, the front-running network in the Nielsen ratings, won only eight Emmys Sunday night and 19 all together, including the creative crafts. Second-place CBS won 16 during the telecast and 24 altogether. NBC, the third-ranked network in the ratings, won 13 during the telecast and 24 in all. PBS won four Sunday and a total of seven.

The Emmy program itself, presented annually by the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, faced some unusually stiff competition for an audience. ABC aired its $7 million pilot movie "Battleship Galactica" against the awards telecast and NBC aired the second half of its 25th anniversary salute to Walt Disney and the second half of the blockbuster movie "King Kong."

Norman Lear, creator of "All in the Family," opened the Emmy show with a blast against the ABC and NBC counter-programming. Such competition, he said, "cannot be in the best interest of the industry and it certainly isn't in the public's interest."

Michael Moriarty, accepting his award with a partially bald head from a recent movie part, was named best lead actor in a limited series for his role as the Nazi tormentor in "Holocaust."

Meryl Streep, as the Christian daughter-in-law of the Jewish family central to the series, was named best lead actress. Blanche Baker, playing the young daughter of the Jewish family who died in a gas chamber, was named best supporting actress in a single performance in a comedy or drama series.

Gerald Green was named best writer for a limited series for his script for "Holocaust," and Marvin J. Chomsky was cited for his direction.

Carroll O'Connor was named best lead actor in a comedy series and Jean Stapleton as best lead actress — both for the third time for "All in the Family."

Rob Reiner won his second Emmy as best supporting actor in a comedy series as the liberal thorn in Archie Bunker's side. Emmys also went to director Paul Bogart and writers Bob Weiskopf, Bob Schiller, Barry Harman and Harve Proten.

Reiner, who will not be returning to the series, told the Pasadena Civic Auditorium audience that the "All in the Family" crew would be going to Washington, D.C., on Saturday to help present Archie and Edith Bunker's favorite chairs to the Smithsonian Institution. The cast also will pay a visit to President Carter at the White House.

"The Gathering," about the coming together of a divided family at Christmas, was named best drama or comedy special.

Fred Astaire, a sentimental favorite of the audience, received an Emmy as best lead actor in a drama or comedy special as the aging and ailing husband in "A Family Upside Down."

"Oh my," he exclaimed, "I am absolutely delighted." Then clutching the golden statuette closer, the hooper added, "I'm going to get off while I'm still ahead."

Joanne Woodward, an Oscar winner for "Three Faces of Eve," was named best lead actress in a special as the jogging mother of "See How She Runs." "This is such a nice way to come back to television," she said. "I started out here 25 years ago."

Edward Asner was named best lead actor in a drama series for "Lou Grant." It was his sixth Emmy and it was believed the first time an actor has won Emmys for playing the same character on two different series. Lou Grant was originally a character on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Sada Thompson was named best lead actress in a drama series for "Family." "The Rockford Files" was named best drama series and "The Muppet Show," whose only live performers are the guest stars, was named best comedy-variety series.

WIN EMMYS — Actress Jean Stapleton and actor Carroll O'Connor hold the Emmys they won Sunday night at television's 30th annual Emmy Awards program for their performances in "All In The Family" as lead actress and actor in a comedy series. At rear left is Rob

Reiner, who won his second Emmy for supporting actor in the same series; Norman Lear, producer of the show, and executive producer Mort Lachman. In the photo at right, actress Nancy Marchand and actor Ed Asner hold the Emmys they won for their performances in the TV series "Lou Grant." Miss Marchand won as outstanding supporting actress in a drama series for her portrayal of a newspaper publisher; and Asner won as outstanding actor on the same show. (AP Laserphotos)

Public Warned About Buying Insulation

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The start of winter is still several months away, but it's none too soon to start thinking about insulating your home against the cold.

High fuel bills and bitterly cold temperatures prompted an estimated 6 million Americans to add insulation to their homes in 1977 alone.

A new government standard is designed to make at least one type of insulation safer, but buying still can be tricky. Government officials at an energy conservation conference held in Washington, D.C., earlier this year warned that consumers can easily be confused by conflicting claims of potentially large savings.

Consumers "have to be very concerned and take precautions to avoid fraud," said Samuel A. Simon of the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Consumer Protection. Even the experts have had trouble keeping up with the growth of the insulation industry and the proliferation of energy-conservation products. "For a while it seemed to us that if you put the term insulation on anything, it was being bought," Simon said.

Simon offered five guidelines for shoppers. They are:

- Don't buy from door-to-door salesmen.
- Get at least three estimates of how much the job will cost.
- Check prior customers to see if they are satisfied.
- Find out if the contractor is bonded or licensed.
- Ask the Better Business Bureau about the firm's complaint record.

Fiberglass is the most common insulation used. It is a mineral fiber, made from silica and spun like cotton candy. It is sold loose, in bags, and in batts or blankets. Fiberglass itself is naturally fire resistant, but paper vapor barriers attached to batts may be flammable. Read labels carefully.

Cellulose insulation, with the second biggest share of the market, is usually made of ground or shredded paper, treated with chemicals to make it resistant to fire and vermin. If not treated properly, cellulose burns readily. All such insulation manufactured after Sept. 7 must meet federal standards. Look for a label reading: "Attention: This material meets the applicable minimum federal flammability standard. This standard is based only upon laboratory tests, which do not

Pictures May Lead To Crane's Killer

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — An album of pornographic pictures may lead police to the killer of Bob Crane, TV star of the "Hogan's Heroes" series.

Detectives have been looking for the album since June 29, when Crane, 49, was beaten to death with a heavy metal bar. Crane apparently knew his killer and had let him into the apartment Crane was using while appearing here in a Windmill Dinner Theater production of "Beginner's Luck," police said.

"Apparently there was an album missing — pornographic stills," said Police Chief Walter Nemetz. "It might be a clue."

Crane in his apartment just before leaving.

Crane also received a telephone call from his estranged wife the night before his death, Nemetz said. Carpenter told police he was with Crane at the time of the call, which developed into a loud argument. Crane and Miss Olsen apparently had argued the previous week as well.

Photos of professional killers have been shown to potential witnesses but Nemetz says, "Our inclination is to discount that. We're inclined to believe that whoever killed Crane was in the room with him and knew him."

Crane suffered two skull-crushing blows and his neck was tied with an electrical cord from a videotape camera, investigators said. Dozens of videotapes reportedly were found in the apartment, showing Crane engaged in sex with women in various stages of undress. Several of the women have been contacted and cooperated with investigators.

"There are lots of motives," Nemetz said. "He (Crane) developed a lot of acquaintances. His peculiar activities offstage could lead to many motives amongst his acquaintances."

The weapon, believed to have been a tire iron or jack handle, has not been found. Blood was wiped from it onto a corner of Crane's bedsheet, and the weapon may have been tossed into a canal near the murder scene, officials said.

"We've expended about 2,000 man-hours on the case and we're still coming up with new people to talk to," Nemetz said. "I still have one investigator assigned fulltime."

The investigation has gone to Texas, where Crane also appeared in dinner-theater productions, and to Los Angeles, home of Crane's estranged wife, Patty Olsen, and Crane's friend, John Carpenter, 49.

Carpenter has told police that he was out with Crane and two women until about 2 a.m. the day of the murder, and last saw Crane outside a coffee shop. Carpenter also said he flew to Los Angeles after the evening out, but telephoned

Earl Scudday Rams Get Tough

FOOTBALL GAMES ARE WON in the trenches, say wise old coaches who have survived defeats and angry alumni for many years, so the Los Angeles Rams used basic blocking and tackling by some of the most talented performers in the National Football League to whip the Dallas Cowboys Sunday afternoon at the Coliseum.

What those beefy Rams did on defense was to shut down the Cowboys' running game and force Roger Staubach to throw twice as many passes as the game plan called for. On offense, the Ram forwards stifled the vaunted pass rush of Harvey Martin and his pals and gave quarterback Pat Haden time to look for receivers in the Cowboy secondary. It was a winning combination.

The guys second-guessing over the coffee cups will heap abuse on Staubach's head, of course, because of those three interceptions late in the game. But those were obvious passing situations for a team trailing in the final quarter, and the Rams were able to load up for the aeriels. They had everyone except owner Carroll Rosenbloom deep and waiting for a chance to intercept.

Roger needs no apology though. He has led the Cowboys to too many victories and has come through too many times in the clutch to be flogged for his errors Sunday. He'll be back battling the St. Louis Cardinals next weekend with his usual dedication and enthusiasm.

DALLAS COACH TOM LANDRY undoubtedly is a lot more worried right now about his offensive line and his inconsistent defense than he is about Staubach. The Cowboys made it all the way to the Super Bowl in 1977 with a makeshift forward wall, in one of the better magic tricks of the year. Landry managed to disguise a line that included a fading veteran (Ralph Neely), a center with a bad knee (John Fitzgerald), and two young players starting for the first time (Pat Donovan and Tom Rafferty).

But they huffed and they puffed, Staubach kept the defenses loose with his passes and Tony Dorsett found enough daylight to make some long gainers. The Cowboys won the world championship before opponents discovered that they were faking it up front.

Not every team has the personnel to take advantage of the situation like Los Angeles did, though. The Rams have garnered a lot of extra first-round draft choices in recent years by peddling old quarterbacks to the Packers and the Eagles. Los Angeles has used those high picks to bring in some awesome physical specimens. They have, according to Cowboy assistant Eral Allen, 14 starters who were first-round picks.

That is a lot of talent.

SINCE DEFENSE IS LANDRY'S pride and joy, he probably will schedule a tough week of workouts for his stop-'em crew. It must have irked Sir Thomas considerably when the Rams struck for a touchdown just before halftime that sent them to the locker room with a lead. There really was not much excuse for the Dallas defensive lapse, because the Rams started the drive from their own goal line with just a couple of minutes on the clock.

But Benny Barnes let a Ram get behind him and Haden hit a bomb for 50 yards and it was a new ball game. That's how you win or lose the close ones against a tough team.

Cowboy safety Cliff Harris had warned earlier that the new rules against bumping receivers would open up the sidelines to enemy passes. Ron Jessie, the former Cowboy now snagging passes for the Rams, made Cliff a good prophet. Ron was so open at times that he looked like he was strolling in the park.

LANDRY SAID AFTER the defeat Sunday that it was just another game — another mark in the won-and-lost columns. That is true, although it was a morale-booster for the Rams and an ego-deflator for the Cowboys. There are 13 See EARL SCUDDAY Page 2

Rams Intercept 'Pokes 27-14

By The Associated Press

He's a Rhodes Scholar and he's not really very tall, yet Pat Haden bristles when they tell him he's too short.

So on Sunday, Haden proceeded to throw touchdown passes of 21 yards to Ron Jessie and 43 to Willie Miller en route to an upset victory for the Los Angeles Rams over the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys 27-14.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing that I am too small for the National Football League," said Haden, a product of both the University of Southern California and the World Football League. "Someone wanted to take a picture of me and Ed Jones before this game as if to say 'this is the reason'."

Haden is listed at 5-foot-11, which may be an inch too tall while defensive end Jones of Dallas is at 6-9.

It wasn't the difference in quarterbacks, but in the defenses as the Rams whipped the Cowboys, who had won nine straight NFL games before invading the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Tony Dorsett, the Cowboys' leading rusher, was limited to just 38 yards on 19 carries after averaging 129 in the first two Dallas games.

"Team defense makes the difference and we had to get to Dorsett," said Rams' defensive end Jack Youngblood. "You can stop any one person. We didn't let him run and that made them pass and they made mistakes."

Quarterback Roger Staubach was intercepted four times, the last one a 43-yard touchdown return by Rod Perry that sealed the Rams' upset victory.

Dallas gained just 96 yards on the ground and 223 in the air while the Rams has only 98 by rushing and 219 passing, with the key throws by Haden making the difference.

Coach Ray Malavasi of the Rams had criticized the media for too much negative reporting on his club prior to the game and said the offense had played well except for not putting points on the board in victories over Philadelphia and Atlanta.

Haden and running backs Cullen Bryant and John Cappelletti proved the Malavasi point, although the defense was largely responsible for the first and also the final touchdown.

Bill Simpson intercepted a pass thrown by the 6-3 Staubach and returned 28 yards to the Dallas 37. It took seven plays for the Rams to score with Cullen Bryant carrying five times for 30 yards and Cappelletti going over from the one.

A 14-yard pass from Staubach to Billy Joe DuPree evened the count but then Haden hit Jessie with the 21-yard scoring toss. Jessie caught seven passes for 144 yards in the game as he led the Rams' receivers.

Dallas evened the count at 14-14 on a Staubach 18-yard pass to Tony Hill, but then Haden found Miller with his longest throw of the game and Perry finished the scoring with his interception.

Haden connected on 14 of 25 passes for 227 yards with two interceptions while the 36-year-old veteran Staubach hit 22 of 46 for 246 with four picked off by the Rams.

"It's just one more game, that's all it means," commented Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "It is tremendous for the Rams' confidence. They have a tremendous defense. We were not really inspired going in. They ran over us on the first drive and we didn't recover mentally until it was too late. On the big passes to Jessie, we were in man to man coverage."

"Haden is a good passer when his team is playing and his team is giving him that kind of protection. What this game came down to was the inability of our offensive line to handle their defensive personnel. The Rams put on a good rush constantly." Rams' Coach Malavasi said, "We didn't do anything differently to contain Dorsett. We just pursued the football. I thought we had a good pass rush on Staubach and toward the end they kept their backs in to help block and that left them with fewer receivers downfield."

Bears 19, Lions 9

Chicago scored three times in just over four minutes of the third quarter to post its ninth straight regular-season victory, the first time the Bears have done that since 1941-42. Bob Thomas started the burst with a 28-yard field goal, then Tommy Hart tackled quarterback Greg Landry in the end zone for a safety and Bob Avellini followed with a 40-yard scoring

Oilers Rally Past 49ers

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers chased O.J. Simpson ghosts in the first half and Steve DeBerg bombs in the second half Sunday but still managed to come back for the second straight week for a 20-19 victory over San Francisco.

"We weren't aggressive on our pass rush, we were looking for O.J. first to try and stop their running game," Elvin Bethea said following Houston's second straight cliff-hanging victory.

But while the Oilers were trying to find Simpson, who sat out the entire second half, second year quarterback Steve DeBerg and his cast of eight different re-

Hogs Find Out What's Ahead

By The Associated Press
The Arkansas Razorbacks found out Saturday night what it feels like to be No. 2.
No. 2 in The Associated Press college football poll that is.

Arkansas travels to Oklahoma State Saturday to play a Cowboy team which has been whipped by Wichita State and Florida State.

Defending champion Texas jumped into an early tie with SMU for the SWC leadership by defeating the Rice Owls 34-0 Saturday in the only league game.

Winning Cubs Cut Celebration Short

By BOB RAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Brownfield Cub Coach Bob Tucker has some advice on how to make the time fly while studying game films.

Tucker discovered the advice Friday night after the Seminole game. It's called winning.
The Cubs defeated the Indians 20-10 to enter the win column for only the second time in two seasons.

When Reid went to the air, the 155-pound senior's favorite target was tight end Jay Bryant. Bryant caught four passes for 95 yards.

Mentioned Briefly

By The Associated Press
SANTIAGO, Chile — The United States lost its last two singles matches, but was too little, too late for the Chilean team as the Americans won their Davis Cup interzone match 3-2.

TOKYO — Britain's Virginia Wade, the No. 1 seed, successfully defended her title in a $100,000 women's tennis tournament at Tokyo, defeating Betty Stove of the Netherlands 4-6, 7-5.

HOUSTON — Witek Fibak of Poland and Dutch partner Tom Okker ousted Marty Riessen and Sherwood Stewart 7-6, 3-6, 4-6, 7-6 to capture the championship of the $125,000 Association of Tennis Professionals doubles tournament.

BAASTAD, Sweden — Kjell Johansson provided the key points as 1973 Davis Cup champion Sweden moved into the interzone finals against the United States with a 3-1 European Grand Zone victory over Hungary.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — The Soviet Union won a European Zone preliminary round Davis Cup match against Monaco 4-1.

ATHEENS, Greece — Denmark beat Greece 4-1 in a preliminary round of Davis Cup tennis play, taking the final two singles matches.

ALABAMA, Calif. — Donna Caponi Young shot a 71 for a 72-hole total of 282 to win the $100,000 women's pro golf tournament at Round Hill Country Club.

DOVER, Del. — Bobby Allison, averaging 119.343 mph in a Thunderbird, took advantage of NASCAR season point leader Cale Yarborough's tire problems and won Sunday's Delaware 500 stock car race.

ALTON, Ill. — Bobby Allison, averaging 119.343 mph in a Thunderbird, took advantage of NASCAR season point leader Cale Yarborough's tire problems and won Sunday's Delaware 500 stock car race.

DAVID Pearson, in a Mercury, was fourth while Darrel Waltrip, in a Chevy, finished fifth.

New Series About Radio Station Resembles Television Ancestor

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI)—Television audiences could do worse than tune in "WKRP in Cincinnati," which has everything going for it except Mary Tyler Moore. "WKRP" goes on the air tonight at 7 p.m. on CBS — an MTM production that bears distinct resemblance to its ancestor, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

This time, the scene is a radio station in Cincinnati that houses a mixed bag of characters on its staff. Gary Sandy plays a breezy but ambitious young man just hired as program director to drag WKRP out of the financial pits.

He reports to the station manager, pudgy, middle-aged and inept, played by Gordon Jump, who's scared to death of his mother, Sylvia Sidney, the station owner who hates rock music but loves money.

The regulars include a sexy receptionist, a news and weather announcer who is alternately hostile and fawning, a mid-night deejay named Venus Flytrap whose wardrobe was modeled after men who live off the illegal earnings of women, a sales manager who would sell you his grandmother except she went at a knock-down price last week, an office girl, and a once successful deejay who can't even stay awake in Cincinnati.

They make a good team as Sandy switches the station format from music funeral parlors love to sponsor to rock 'n' roll. Like the old "MTM" format, "WKRP" has flexibility, one of the advantages of basing a sitcom on an office, rather than domestic, family. You can't fire Mom in case of low ratings, but you can sack any member of the office family as needed.

Following "WKRP" on CBS is the half-hour "People" program, spotlighting the famous, infamous and unknown. Its premiere show is one of the season's most uneven half hours.

On the plus side is a feature on Tami Luchow, 8, who refuses to be handicapped. She dresses herself efficiently, strapping on her artificial leg. She goes to gym class, even works the parallel bars. She ran in all the school races, even though she always lost — until she suggested a hopping race. Tami does a lot of hopping.

There also is an amusing look at the Pittsburgh showing of the "Rocky Horror Picture Show," in which the audience is more bizarre than the film, and a tongue-in-cheek survey of Elizabeth Taylor's web of husbands, children and step-relations.

On the debit side is a months-old Liza Minnelli party at New York's disco Club 54, and the grimly cheerful emceeing of pretty Linda George. She also interviews country music's Willie Nelson in a near swoon.

An effective — and slightly offensive — segment follows Greta Garbo, 72, on a walk through New York City's winter streets, bundled up and wearing sunglasses. Interspersed are stills from her films and it was cruelly impossible to connect the figure with the heavy tread and hidden face with the loveliness of long ago.

Columnist Gives Tips On Being Puppeteer

SHARI LEWIS

Lots of people have puppets, but very few know how to make friends with them. To make your puppet come to life, sit in front of the mirror with your puppet on your hand and just talk to it. Play with it. Watch the puppet carefully.

The truth is, your puppet will soon show you how "it" wants to come to life. Don't decide that your puppet is happy or sad or lively or droopy. Let the puppet make that decision.

If you puppet doesn't seem to want to talk to you, try knock-knock jokes. (Few can resist saying, "Who's there?" and perhaps your puppet will weaken and join in the fun.) Try riddles. (Your puppet may not know the answer, but it may scratch its little head and sadly admit, "I don't know.")

Here's a secret I have discovered about working a puppet. It's not necessarily true for every puppet, but it's always been true for mine. If a puppet is sad, it's seldom just a little sad. It is very, very sad. Puppets are not just happy, they are unbelievably happy.

When you and your gang get around to putting on that puppet play, remember that two of three puppeteers can work at the same time, to give group scenes and lots of action. That also gives more friends or club members a chance to perform.

And different kinds of puppets work nicely with one another — a paper cup puppet will work beautifully with a ball puppet, and they won't fight unless you want them to!

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: What can you call a rooster that won't cross the road? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General John Hill's office and state medical education authorities are investigating a foreign medical school placement service operated by Rep. Betty Denton and her husband, Lane, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday.
Mrs. Denton, D-Waco, succeeded her husband in the Legislature. He lost a race for Congress this year and also failed in an earlier bid for the Texas Railroad Commission.
For a $1,500 fee, the newspaper said, Doctors for Rural America "guarantees" placement in foreign medical school, primarily the Universidad Central Del Este in San Pedro de Macoris, Dominican Republic, for students who are unable to get into American medical schools.

Professors Hold Tower Celebration

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Writer

PISA, Italy (AP) — An eerie thing happened as I crossed the Arno River on the way to the famous Leaning Tower. Suddenly ambulances came screaming over the cobblestone bridge, five of them in a row.

A horrid thought occurred: had I missed it? Had history's most splendid architectural mistake finally given up the ghost after 800 teetering years and toppled over in a heap, taking all those tourists and postcard salesman with it?

But no, thank God, there she still stood — or tilted — around the next bend of the road and the ambulances, all of them empty, were just reporting for duty in their normal noisy way at a hospital.

I paid my 150 lire (15 cents) and climbed the slanted, winding 293 marble steps to the top of the bell tower, which provided the sensation of ascending the staircase of an ocean liner heeled over in a rough sea.

The day was sunny, windy and so clear you could see the isle of Corsica far in the distance and, closer by, the marble quarries of Carrara from whence came the 14,000 tons of arches and columns that now tilt so precariously toward the river, a full 17 feet out of plumb.

I thought of Robert Browning, who took his bride Elizabeth Barrett here in 1846, when the wobbly wonder was only 13 feet off the perpendicular. About then the bells rang for the last time and were spiked into silence to keep the vibrations from increasing the angle of inclination.

I thought of poor old Bonnano Pisano who began building the tower in 1173, when Pisa instead of being a world renowned architectural joke was a thriving maritime republic, on a par with Venice and Genoa, with colonies stretching all the way from the French Riviera to southern Russia. Bonnano had got the project only 35 feet off the ground, up to the third story, when things got out of whack. The foundation began sinking into the shifting sands of the Arno's subterranean riverbed. Attempting to correct this unplanned curtsy in the direction of the river, the architect subtly tilted the next two stories at a slightly reverse angle, giving the tower a barely perceptible case of the bends as well as the staggers. Work came to a halt.

Giovanni di Simone took over in the following century and tried to recoup Bonnano's losses by making the walls 13 feet thick at the base and between 6 and 8 feet thick in the succeeding stories. Finally in 1350, nearly three centuries after it was begun, Tomaso Pisano topped out the bell tower of the 176-foot high free standing Romanesque structure, which was soon leaning over far enough for a local university professor named Galileo Galilei to conduct his experiments in the velocity of falling bodies.

The professors still love the bending building. Every New Year's Day, which is a great day to be hung over in Pisa, they hold a celebrated cocktail party to celebrate the fact that La Torre Pendente still stands, however hazardously, like some of the guests. The idea is for everyone to get a little tipsy because the tower hasn't gotten any more tipsy during the previous year.

Last year's was a particularly gala Jan. 1. The tower hadn't varied a fraction of a millimeter in the previous 12 months, after veering almost 1-16th of an inch in each of the previous five years, giving hope that there at last had been some stabilization in the water levels 300 feet below the foundation.

"But there's always the possibility of an earthquake," warned Professor Livio Trevisan of Pisa University, one of the resident experts on the famous failure.

In 800 years, Pisa's diagonal colossus has withstood earth tremors, violent wind storms, numerous invasions including the 150,000 tourists a year and severe Allied and German bombings in World War II that took out all the bridges over the Arno and destroyed priceless monuments in the adjoining Comasanto, the graveyard filled with shiploads of earth brought from Calvary.

After soccer and finding a new government, keeping the tilting tower from toppling has been Italy's most inexhaustible topic of cocktail conversation. Just before World War II, 900 tons of concrete were pumped into the soil to stop the sway.

Then the government in Rome staged a contest for the best solution. Among the 3,000 replies from around the world came schemes to freeze the underground water table into a solid block of ice to install a new base, lasso the tower with giant steel rings, take it down and rebuild it, erect a statue nearby, on the order of the Statue of Liberty, that would extend a gracious, helping hand in the event the slant became overbearing.

None was deemed satisfactory, and the 64 million lire question remains unsolved.

As the man from the monuments division of the Ministry of Public Works told last year's New Year's tipplers: "We would like the tower just a little straighter ... not enough to spoil its tourist attraction, just enough to keep it standing."

Seventeen feet off the center of gravity, the guests drank up, happily oblivious of the fact that the rooftop venue of their lubrications flagrantly violated modern Pisa's municipal building code.

Shades Help Save Energy

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — A Colorado State University professor claims pulling down the shades at home may do more than stop peepers from looking in. It also could save some money on the fuel bill.

Craig Birdsong, assistant professor of family housing with the Colorado State University Cooperative Extension Service, said use of window shades in a typical residence in a moderate climate can cut as much as 8 cents off every $1 spent for heating, and 21 cents on cooling.

Birdsong based the findings on a research study carried out by the Illinois Institute of Technology. Scientists at the school have proved lowered shades block out up to 54 percent of the sun's rays and hot air that normally enter a home through windows in the summer.

Shades also contained up to 31 percent of the heat that normally escapes through windows during the winter.

"In each instance, the shades outperformed more expensive venetian blinds and draperies by a wide margin," Birdsong said.

Energy experts estimate as much as half of the $30 billion spent yearly on home cooling and heating is wasted, partly due to heat gained in summer or lost in winter through windows.

"In summer, 10 times as much heat may enter a house through a sunlit window as through the walls surrounding it," Birdsong said.

And in winter, Birdsong said, heat losses were typically three to four times greater through windows than through adjacent walls.

Fishermen Listen To Expert Advice

CHICAGO (UPI) — The unwritten law for perch fishermen around Navy Pier is to make no move without first checking with Rocky Panzo.

Panzo has been cranking perch out of Lake Michigan since 1914, when he was 14 and only three years out of his native Bari, Italy. He goes to the lake front nearly every day from March to November, mostly to fish, but often to hold court for perch fishermen seeking his advice.

Panzo is described by his son, Paul, as "the world's best perch fisherman." The elder Panzo's eyes always twinkle in accepting the compliment, and, he is quick to add, "Wherever I go, I catch fish."

Proof of his success lies plastered on the walls of the bait shop Panzo opened 30 years ago. Dozens of photographs show Panzo displaying perch on strings a yard or more long.

Panzo just might be the last of the perch purists in Lake Michigan, which many authorities contend is the nation's best fishing hole because of salmon and rainbow trout plantings a decade ago.

"The salmon and trout are bigger," he says, "but the perch got the taste." Panzo has several special fishing holes and their location requires detailed information — the kind most fishermen guard jealously. Panzo is no exception, but he is not shy about giving information on why he succeeds.

"You got to fish at the right time and use the right bait," he says. The "right time" for perch begins in early spring, peaks in July and August, then declines. The "right bait" is a soft-shell crayfish.

"That's why I catch 'em. The other guys use hard-shell bait. They don't catch so many."

"After Labor Day, you got to have three days in a row of hot weather and wind from the south or southwest. If it blows from the east, forget it. Don't waste your time and bait — go home."

"I wake up the other night at 3 a.m. because I feel a breeze from the south. I get up, call a cab and go to my boat. I catch 36 pounds of perch in one hour and a half."

Truman Causes Trouble For St. Louis' GOP

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Harry Truman, Missouri's only native-born president, would have delighted in the consternation he is causing Republicans on the St. Louis County Council.

When Democratic Council members sought to name the new Government Center Plaza after the 33rd president, a staunch Democrat, the vote was divided along party lines. The four Democrats thought it was a great idea, the three Republicans opposed it.

Supervisor Gene McNary, a Republican, vetoed the bill.

Councilman Carl W. Breihan, also a Republican, suggested the center be named for Ulysses S. Grant, a former Republican president whose Civil War residence is a landmark in Breihan's district.

The Democrats then passed another bill that would have given county employees a holiday on May 8, Truman's birthday. The day is a holiday for state employees and government workers in Jackson County, which includes Truman's hometown of Independence.

McNary also rejected that bill.

St. Louis County then was given a plaque commemorating Truman, and the Democratic Council members decided it would look nice in the new government center. The plaque, a montage by Kansas City artist Sidney Moore, was a gift to the county from the state Democratic Committee.

Council members must approve any gift of more than $200, and they did by a 4-3 vote — again along party lines. This time, McNary signed the bill after lengthy deliberation.

"With the supervisor being a Republican, I guess he objected to where the plaque was coming from," Council Chairman Harry E. Von Romer, a Democrat, said. "I guess he felt it was his duty to oppose it because it came from the Democratic State Committee."

"He finally went along with the idea of what Democratic members thought would be a proper and fit place to put it," Von Romer said.

"It's now mounted on a wall near the County Council chambers."

Youngstown Still Feels Effects Of 'Black Monday'

By ROBERT L. SHAFFER
 YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — In the summer of 1977, John Koruschak was called into the supervisor's office at the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.'s Campbell Works to receive his 25-year gold watch. He joked about having "a lot of time on my hands," and everybody laughed.

A few weeks later "it was all over," he now recalls.

"The joke was on us."

Sept. 19, 1977 — a year ago Tuesday — was the day Sheet & Tube shocked this steel city by announcing it was closing the bulk of the aging Campbell Works. That put 4,100 persons out of work.

In Campbell, a Youngstown suburb where some 13,000 people live and 75 percent of the municipal revenue came from the mill and its employees, they call that day "Black Monday."

A year later, shock waves are still felt in the Mahoning Valley. A plan for workers and the community to acquire the plant has brought attention, but it will remain visionary unless the federal government comes through with massive loan guarantees. Meanwhile, Campbell braces for the coming weeks, when unemployment benefits run out.

Campbell has had a $639,000 state aid grant and Harry McFarland, city administrator, says the city is trying to attract new business. But, he adds, "I keep my fingers crossed every day that we can meet the payroll and keep going." Today, the city finds itself "depending on the government ... I do not like that."

Koruschak remembers Sheet & Tube as "a good company to work for." But like most steel jobs, his in the soaking pits was specialized.

He remembers the intense heat. "I could put an apple on the shelf in the morning and have baked apple for lunch," he says.

But he drew more than $800 every two weeks. "It was the best job I could have had there. I felt I could take it easy until I retired."

Then came Black Monday. With the others, he was out on the street.

Koruschak and many others are bitter, and the bitterness is directed at Lykes Corp., which took over Sheet & Tube in the late 1960s.

"We felt we got the shaft," said Koruschak. "Lykes comes in without any money and buys up Sheet & Tube on credit ... They milked it. After two or three years, they wouldn't repair anything, just tried to hold things together with Scotch tape and wire."

Sheet & Tube, by contrast, said the aged mill couldn't compete with modern plants and was losing money.

Whatever the explanation, the shut-down hurt.

Koruschak said that at first he "ran around like a chicken with its head cut off." He had always kept busy with hobbies and work around the house. But, he said, "I didn't know what to do. There's the feeling that nobody wants you. You feel like a lost soul."

With the local job market glutted, he went to California and found "two or three places where I could have had a job in electronics if I had more training." Electronics had been a hobby.

Meanwhile, he was drawing $661 in unemployment benefits and picking up a little side money as a performer by combining electronics with another hobby, magic. "You have to have a gimmick to make your act different," he said. His was a remote-controlled rabbit, summoned from the wings, after he made a real rabbit vanish.

But finding a steady job at 58 was not as easy as making rabbits program, and finally, last July, started an electronics course at a school in nearby Niles. When he graduates next May, he feels sure he will be able to get a job. But that may mean moving to California — "If I can talk my wife into it."

John Spagnola, state employment service manager in Youngstown, says Koruschak is not alone: more than 300 Sheet & Tube workers are in federally funded training programs now.

And not all the displaced Sheet & Tube workers share Koruschak's optimism. Dan Eschenbaugh, 22, who worked four years at the blast furnace, said he has two weeks of benefits left and when that $127 a week stops, "that's it, then I have nothing." He said he has been "looking hard for a job, but they're not hiring anywhere."

A religious coalition has proposed a plan to reopen the Campbell Works under worker-community ownership, but Eschenbaugh says the steelworkers he has talked to don't think it will work.

Russell Baxter, president of United Steel Workers Local 2163, is skeptical, too, but adds: "You have to give the ecumenical coalition a lot of credit for making an effort to do something."

Last week, the coalition released a study saying reopening and modernizing the plant are feasible — if the government comes through with massive help, including $300 million in loan guarantees.

The Rev. Edward Stanton, coalition spokesman, said it is now up to the Carter administration whether the plan goes forward.

The coalition says its campaign has $4 million in bank accounts, from organizations and individuals showing support. Depositors can withdraw the funds, but presumably money that remains could become part of a private investment of $30 million called for in the plan.

But at the same time new shocks are expected — layoffs of 1,200 more at Sheet & Tube after a recently-approved merger of Lykes and LTV Corp., and eventual closing of U.S. Steel facilities employing 5,000.

Still, Stanton resists pessimism. "Youngstown still has a future as a steel center," he declared. "Republic Steel is investing $265 million at its Warren plant. They must see a future in the valley for steel. Copperweld is talking expansion. Sharon Steel just over the hill is working at capacity. The industry can prosper."

"But," he adds, "a lot of hard work has to be done by the community and the steel people."

LEAVING BEHIND BETTER DAYS — Steelworkers leave the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.'s Campbell Works in Campbell, Ohio, a Youngstown suburb, prior to the aging facility's closing a year ago. In a town where 75 percent of the municipal income came from the mill, shock waves from the closing are still being felt in the community. (AP Laserphoto)

Brooke Calls For Black Unity In Primary

By The Associated Press
 Edward W. Brooke evoked black unity at a rally as his primary election fight drew to a close, calling on black independent voters to pick up a GOP ballot in Tuesday's Massachusetts primary.

Brooke, a two-term incumbent and the only black member of the U.S. Senate, brought in the Rev. Jesse Jackson from Chicago for a Sunday rally in Boston's south end as he battled to stave off a tough challenge from conservative Republican Avi Nelson.

Brooke's opponent, a 36-year-old former television talk-show host, has also sought the votes of independents, who may vote in either the Democratic or Republican primary.

In other primaries Tuesday, Washington state voters nominate seven congress-sional candidates, and Oklahoma Democrats will choose candidates for governor and a U.S. Senate seat in a primary election runoff.

Jackson told a mostly black, middle-class crowd of 700 that the 58-year-old Brooke stood for "mature leadership."

But Brooke urged voters to stick with the Democratic Party in districts where their ballots could help keep black state representatives in power.

"I don't think it's an honor being the only black in the U.S. Senate," he said. "I think it's a tragedy for this country. And it's a tragedy if you leave me there by myself too long."

The Republican Senate primary could be decided by only a few thousand votes since only about 200,000 voters have voted in the last two state GOP primaries.

On the Democratic side, Massachusetts voters face four candidates for a senatorial nomination: Howard Phillips, founder of the Washington-based Conservative Caucus; U.S. Rep. Paul E. Tsongas; Massachusetts Secretary of State Paul Guzzi, and state Rep. Elaine Noble.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis is opposed in the Democratic primary by conservative Edward J. King. In the GOP gubernatorial primary, Edward F. King — no relation to the Democratic candidate — will face House Minority Leader Francis W. Hatch Jr.

In Louisiana on Saturday, Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, a Democrat, won easy reelection to a second term over state Rep. Louis "Woody" Jenkins in the state's first open primary. Johnston was first elected in 1972 to the seat held for 36 years by the late Sen. Allen Ellender.

The Oklahoma senatorial primary runoff pits Gov. David Boren against former Rep. Ed Edmonson for the Democratic nomination to the seat held by Republican Dewey Bartlett, who is retiring. Robert Kamm, former president of Oklahoma State University, will be the Republican candidate in the general election.

In the Democratic gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. George Nigh is running against Attorney General Larry Derryberry for the opportunity to oppose former legislator Ron Shotts, the Republican, in the general election.

Six of Washington state's seven congressmen are expected to win their primary races, with five Republicans and five Democrats vying for the seat occupied by retiring Rep. Lloyd Meeds.

Conferees Begin Work On Civil Service Compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There surely will be new bodies in sluggish federal agencies when the revised civil service system takes effect. Whether there also will be new blood — new energy and efficiency — is a question mark.

In general, the bill will streamline the civil service, making it easier for federal managers to hire, fire and transfer employees based on merit instead of seniority.

Conferees were beginning today the process of hashing out differences between House and Senate versions of the reform bill. Leaders expect little trouble completing action this week and making President Carter's No. 1 campaign promise a reality.

There are several major differences between the bills passed by the House and Senate. The biggest concerns the degree of evidence needed for the government to uphold on appeal the firing of an incompetent or disruptive employee.

The Senate version, generally closer to Carter's proposal, would require that the firing agency show a "substantial" amount of evidence against the employee. The House bill would require a "preponderance" of evidence, a tilt in favor of the employee.

Although the revision includes many significant changes in the way the 95-year-old civil service system operates, it is the prospect of easier firings that instills the most fear among the 2.1 million federal workers — and joy among their supervisors.

One of the chief attractions of government work is the job security involved. It currently is next to impossible to fire an out-and-out disruptive worker, much less an inefficient one.

Two examples from committee files: A worker is fired for slugging his boss with a baseball bat. Eight months later he is rehired with back pay because the dismissal process was flawed.

Another worker is lazy, incompetent and disruptive. Instead of spending months building a record against her and going through what could be years of appeals, the supervisor shuts her off to a far-away office and a new job in which she does nothing but collect $35,000 a year. Other employees have to take up the slack.

But neither advocates nor opponents can really predict what will happen when the revised system starts operating.

Proponents of the changes say greater flexibility in both hiring and firing will make the civil service more efficient and responsive by weeding out misfits and shaping up sluggards.

Opponents envision mass firings and fear the new incentive pay raises and demotions will be handed out purely on the basis of politics, although a new appeals system would be set up to protect employees from supervisory shenanigans.

Residents Welcome Traffic Signal

Something new has been added to the intersection of Parkway Drive and Zenith Avenue.

A recently-installed traffic signal became functional Friday, said city traffic engineer Bill McDaniel.

Residents of the area have asked for a light at the intersection for several years. Earlier this year the Department of Highways and Public Transportation gave final approval for the light.

The Lubbock City Council allocated $25,000 in Community Development funds for construction of the signal.

Vesco Denies Trying To Make Deal

MIAMI (AP) — Robert Vesco says he never tried to make a deal with the Carter administration to buy his way out of trouble, according to a published report.

"I never asked anybody, ever, to put a fix in for me with the Carter administration," the 42-year-old fugitive financier said in an interview published Sunday in the Miami Herald.

Vesco did say he met with Georgia lawyer Spencer Lee IV and Georgia businessman R.L. Herring. Syndicated columnist Jackson Anderson has reported that the two attempted to contact administration officials on behalf of Vesco.

"I have met Herring and I've met Lee," Vesco said. "They came to see me in Costa Rica. ... I can tell you that I didn't ask them to come down."

Vesco sidestepped repeated questions about whether Herring and Lee offered to fix his criminal cases, or promised to contact leaders in the Carter administration.

Lee has testified in federal court that he received a $10,000 retainer and the promise of $990,000 more if he served as liaison between Vesco's representatives and several of Carter's closest advisers, including Charles Kirbo and Hamilton Jordan. Lee said he withdrew from the deal before personally contacting either man.

The Justice Department said last week that it has been investigating for several months charges that Vesco hired Lee to intercede on his behalf with the administration.

White House press secretary Jody Powell has said that Vesco tried but failed to win help from Carter advisers, including Jordan, Kirbo and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Lee was a Carter campaign manager in 1976 and a longtime friend of Jordan.

Elderly Women Mainly Affected By Major Problems Of Old Age

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Older women comprise the largest growing segment of the American population and many face a "bleak lot in life," the Institute on Aging says.

"The problems of old age are primarily the problems of women," institute director Robert N. Butler said in a telephone interview.

"In 1977 there were 13.9 million women, compared to 9.5 million men, in the 65-and-older age group. By 2035 these figures are expected to diverge further, with a population of 33.4 million older women compared to 22.4 million men of the same age group.

Among the major problems facing older women are solitude, lack of male companionship, related emotional complications, inadequate incomes and the normal physical degeneration attributable to aging.

About 42 percent of women over 65 have chronic physical conditions limiting normal activities, reports the institute, a part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Nearly 70 percent are widows with little chance of marriage.

But there is hope for the over-65 woman.

Butler said the elderly are the largest group of registered voters in the country and "tremendous sums of money are in the hands of widows and female heirs."

"Women have the brains, money, time and voting strength to do something about their bleak lot in life," Butler said, noting older women have more freedom in their activities because "they don't have to face the conflicts of younger women" who are confined by family responsibilities.

But he feels the country currently is providing inadequate encouragement for these women.

"I don't see any new social arrangements, economic or otherwise, to support older women like I see being made for older men," he said.

"Changes in sensibility have led some to feel more active, more independent; but, for example, in the work force, prejudices still exist against women in general and older women in particular."

He said he feels the United States is wasting the "valuable talent, energy and resources of older women."

"Society should be selfish in a positive sense and want more from these women," he said.

But, he said, those who would have the best effect in changing the status of older woman probably would be older women themselves.

"The women's movement is somewhat attentive to older women, but I think these (over-65) women should be more active themselves," he said.

The federal government contends that Vesco looted the investment complex called Investors Overseas Service of $224 million. He fled the United States for Costa Rica and later the Bahamas to avoid prosecution on charges of plundering the investment funds and trying to have the charges dropped by contributing $200,000 in 1972 to former President Richard Nixon's re-election campaign.

"I did not steal $224 million or even a penny," Vesco told the Herald. "I didn't knowingly or intentionally violate any laws of the United States."

The interview was granted by Vesco on condition that he not be photographed and that his location in the 700-island Bahamas chain not be disclosed, the newspaper said.
