Caustic Eyedrops Blind Rescue Pilot

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - A National Guard pilot who has survived dozens of dangerous rescue missions in the treacherous White Mountains may never fly again because an unexplained medical mixup during a routine checkup left him blind.

"I thought my flying days would end when a mountain tip or a pine tree crashed through my cockpit, not because of a mixup in eyedrops," Lt. Col. Russell Tilton said Thursday.

The work of the 46-year-old Army National Guard air rescue officer is legendary in the state's aviation and conservation community

He has piloted small planes and helicopters over the state's wilderness forests and needle-sharp mountains, survived three crashes in his 24 years of flying and logged more than 10,000 hours.

'There are dozens of people alive today because Tilton slipped his chopper into places in the White Mountains where other men would never try to fly," said Col. Leon Parker, a senior Guard com-

But on Sept. 9, Tilton was grounded after a routine annual flight physical at Pease Air Force Base - not because of his health, but because of the examination itself, Guard officials said.

A senior flight surgeon had completed most of the examination and was running a routine test for glaucoma, an eye disease. Seconds after administering eyedrops that should have dilated his pupils, Tilton's eyes began

"It felt like someone had shoved hot pokers into my eyes," he recalled.

Guard officials said the medication the doctor administered was in a bottle labeled as the required ophthalmic solution, but in reality contained Hemocult, a highly caustic mixture used to test stool samples

"The bottle had the correct label, but the wrong contents. It was a tragic accident but we're not sat-isfied at leaving it at that," said Col. James Cuddihee, a senior Guard official. "We have no proof that the solutions were deliberately switched, but we're investigating the entire matter.'

Although he entered the examination with 20-20 vision and left almost blind, Tilton said he does not blame the doctor. "There was really no way the docoor could have known," Tilton said. "I've got the pain but he's got the memories."

"I went to the specialists and took all the medications they offered and although they said it would correct itself any minute, that minute never came," Tilton said.

Another team of specialists at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston told Tilton on Tuesday it was impossible to evaluate the problem because of "a conflict from the earlier medications and treatment I'd been given by the other doctors," he

Many of the dozens of people Tilton has plucked off mountains or from rivers are writing and phoning their best wishes and the father of three appears to be taking the accident in stride.

"All I can do is wait but the waiting is killing me," he said. "Flying is my entire life and without

A chance remains for light showers as area high school football games are played tonight, and a Lubbock weatherman said it probably will be cloudy and cool- but dry-in Lubbock when Texas Terh University plays the University of Arizona Saturday night.

"It'll be cloudy with maybe some light rain or showers, but nothing to cause problems for the high school games toight," he said.

For Tech, it should be dry but cloudy, with temperatures in the 60s or possibly the upper 50s at the end of the game."

There is a 40-percent chance of rain today, a 30-percent chance tonight and a 20percent chance during the day Saturday, as the rainy weather that came into the South Plains on a Pacific cool front early this week hangs on.

Lubbock had a trace of rain Thursday, and its three-day total held at 1.82 at Lubbock International Airport.

More than 3 inches was recorded at various points inside the city.

Measurable rain Thursday and threeday counts from area cities were .22 and 2.59 at Big Spring, .04 and .40 at Brownfield, .53 and 1.51 at Lamesa, .02 and 3.65 at Matador, .22 and 1.05 at Plains, .08 and 3.91 at Post, .39 and 1.04 at Seminole, .25 and 3.15 at Snyder and .08 and 1.90 at Ta-

Crosbyton had 3.98 inches Tuesday and esday, and Lockettville in southern Hockley County had 3.82 the first two days and a trace Thursday.

Temperatures fell into the 40s over much of the South Plains Thursday night and this morning as fall - not officially starting till 4:23 a.m. Saturday - showed little deference to the calendar and abruptly took away the summer heat. Lubbock showed little effect from nightfall as the high Thursday, 60, was not significantly warmer than the overnight low of 54. It was 43 at Friona and Hereford, 45 at Dimmitt, 46 at Littlefield and 47 at Muleshoe and Tulia during the night. The Lubbock forecast calls for temperatures in the mid-60s today, mid-50s tonight and mid-70s Saturday.

Warmer weather will follow as the wind shifts from the east at five to 10 mph today to southerly and southeasterly at five to 10 mph tonight, the National Weather Service said.

Helms Gives Proof Of Disputed Talks

Director Richard Helms said today that former Attorney General Nicholas deB. Katzenbach could not have told the truth when he swore he could not recall meeting with Helms about the handling of a Soviet defector, Yuri Nosenko.

But Helms later clarified that comment and said he "didn't mean to imply that he" testified untruthfully."

Katzenbach on Thursday denied under oath that he had any recollection of such a meeting and said he felt sure he would have remembered any detailed discussion of the case.

Committee Chairman Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, listened to Helms' account and then asked, "Then Mr. Katzenbach's statement could not be true, could it?" "No, it could not," Helms replied.

Katzenbach was deputy attorney gener-al at the time of Kennedy's assassination in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. He subsequently served as attorney general and now is a counsel to IBM Corp. There was no immediate comment from him today on Helms' testimony.

Nosenko defected to the United States in 1964, claiming he had been a highranking Soviet KGB official and had extensive knowledge of Lee Harvey Oswald's activities during his three-year stay in Russia.

Vance's Trip Postponed By Syrians

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance wound up his talks with Saudi leaders today without a commitment from them to support the Camp David peace accords, and hard-line Syria abruptly informed him it is post-poning his scheduled visit there.

Vance's Mideast tour, meanwhile, was being shadowed by a two-man Arab 'rejectionist" team trying to wreck the U.S. initiative.

After a working lunch with Prince Sultan, the acting Saudi foreign minister, Vance said he and the Saudis over two days held "discussions in depth that were absolutely essential." But, as in Jordan earlier this week, he reported no commit-

Then the Syrian government an-nounced it was postponing Vance's visit Saturday to Damascus, the scheduled third stop of his trip, where he was going to try to temper President Hafez Assad's staunch opposition to the new Israeli-

Egyptian agreements.

The Syrian announcement said the Vance visit was being put off indefinitely because the three-day-old summit meeting in Damascus of hard-line Arab leaders was extending through the weekend. It said Assad had apologized to Vance for the inconvenience.

There was no immediate explanation of any likely additional reasons behind Syrinent of the visit. Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy before the Syrian announcement, American officials said they were not discouraged with the Vance trip thus far and that they would continue to push for at least an Arab willingness to let the Camp David plan go forward.

"It's gone about as expected. It's too early to tell what Jordan and the others will do," said one official.

Vance wound up two days of meetings with Hussein in Amman Thursday, and while Foreign Minister Hassan Ibrahim said Jordan would keep the dialogue going with the United States, he repeated Hussein's initial reservations about the plan's failure to guarantee complete Isra-

School officials said today they are virtually certain the U.S. Justice Department will file a full-fledged appeal of the Lubbock school desegregation case. But a spokesman for the department insisted such a decision has yet to be made.

After a closed-door briefing with legal counsel, Lubbock Independent School District trustees and administrators said there are strong indications that federal attorneys will file a brief next week in New Orlean's 5th U.S. Circuit Court of

School board president Charles Waters said it seems "very, very likely" that the Justice Department will seek to replace the district's present desegregation plan with a comprehensive systemwide plan.

"I'd say an appeal is rather del Systemwide integration is what the Justice Department has been pushing for all along," Waters said.

He said a systemwide plan would involve "many times the amount of busing we have now." The current plan is aimed at integrating only nine schools found by U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward to be remnants of unlawful segregation. The plan requires daily busing of about 2,000 elementary students and several hundred secondary students. Some of the students volunteered for the busing

Medal Exhibit Given To Philippines

NEW YORK (AP) - The spirit of the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur will return to the Philippines once again.

Replicas of 30 of the five-star general's medals were pre-sented Thursday to his longtime friend, Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, foreign minister of the Republic of the Philippines, during a brief ceremony at the Waldorf Towers in Manhattan, home of Mrs. Douglas MacArthur. The collection will be displayed in the MacArthur Suite, once the home of the MacArthurs, at the Manila Hotel in Manila.

Mrs. MacArthur along with Brigadier Gen. Robert A. Sullivan, chief of public affairs for the U.S. Army, unveiled the medals. They reminisced about the highpoints of MacArthur's career, including his departure from the Philippines in 1942 when, forced to evacuate by the invading Japanese. MacArthur vowed: 'I shall return." He returned to liberate the islands in the fall of 1944.

Asked which medal, among the replicas being sent, was her most treasured, MacArthur's widow said she was very proud of the Congressional Medal of Honor, but she said. They all mean a great deal to me.

Scott Joplin Ruling Upheld

NEW YORK (AP) - The U.S. Court of Appeals has upheld a 1977 judgment that awarded damages of $177,980 for copyright infringement to the estate of ragtime composer Scott Joplin's wife.

The judgment was entered by Manhattan federal court Judge John M. Cannella against Olympic Records Corp., its president, Joseph Abend, and Crown Publishers, Inc., for unauthorized distribution of a record album containing three compositions from Joplin's opera "Treemonisha."

Joplin, who died in 1917, copyrighted the compositions in 1911 and 1913 and his widow, Lottie Joplin Thomas, renewed them in 1938 and 1940.

The record album containing the compositions was entitled, "Scott Joplin - His Complete Works."

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) - Arlo Guthrie sings to his audiences but a former concert promoter is suing him for talking to one audience. Clayton Fuller contends Guthrie ruined his reputation as a promoter by telling a 1976 Burlington concert audience that "everybody here is being ripped off." Both Fuller and Guthrie testified

Thursday in U.S. District Court in Burlington in a slander suit Fuller filed against Guthrie. Fuller said that because the turnout

GUTHRIE for the concert was lower than he expected, he did not have Guthrie's $2,500 fee in cash. He said he gave Guthrie $950 cash during the intermission, but that Guthrie refused a personal check for the rest. He said Guthrie returned to the stage, told spectators

"everybody here is being ripped off," and advised them never to patronize another concert promoted by Fuller. Guthrie then walked out. Guthrie testified that he recalled saying that the audience was being ripped off "because they had paid to see a show they were not going to see.' Asked whether he advised fans not to attend other concerts promoted by Fuller, Guthrie said "I may have in-

Waves Blamed In Ship Sinking

WASHINGTON (AP) - Now comes the old salt's explanation for the mysterious sinking of the S.S. Edmund Fitzgerald on that stormy night three years ago: It was a trio of killer waves known to oldtimers as "the three sisters."

"My license to appear before you, gentlemen, stems from having lived a very rough life as a commercial fisherman on Lake Superior starting at age 7," started Lyle A. McDonald.

"I have lived the day and night of the Edmund Fitzgerald many, many times, on lesser ships and during earlier days. "I respectfully submit... that the Fitz-

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Minimum Law Pay Rage TO ANYONE who has closely watched the minimum wage debate, it's interesting to note the increasing number of moderates and liberals who now agree this mandated wage level does increase joblessness. Liberal sociologist Christopher Jencks, a visiting professor at the University of California-Santa Barbara, writes that the motive behind minimum-wage legislation clearly is

"The law," he says, "seeks to restrict the ravages of a competitive economic system by insuring that every family has enough money to get by...

"But the law does not achieve this. It merely forbids employers to hire workers at less than the minimum. Partly as a result, many families have no earners at all.

WHAT JENCKS and others like him have come to realize is the fact that boosting minimum wages ends up helping many families that aren't unusually needy while ignoring the problems of other families that are in serious financial trouble

Labor Sec. Ray Marshall, testifying before a Senate Labor subcommittee, admitted an increase in the minimum wage to $2.65 an hour would cost the economy 90,000 jobs. Also said he:

"It seems appropriate to consider deferring the increase (scheduled for Jan. 1) given its implications for cost and for youth employment opportunities.'

These sentiments have been echoed by Barry Bosworth, director of the President's Council on Wage and Price Stability; Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office; and Secretary of the Treasury Michael Blumenthal.

LESS THAN a year ago, when the minimum wage was increased to $2.65 an hour, critics predicted it would increase teenage joblessness. There is now evidence they were right.

The Wall Street Journal recently reported that one particular restaurant chain has had to turn away teenagers as it seeks "older, more qualified workers likely to stay at a job longer

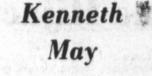

An AP story quotes another restaurant owner as saying that the present minimum wage eliminates the possibility of hiring young, inexperienced workers. "We've gone more to retired people," the owner said. They're used to working.

The jury is still out on many issues inasmuch as the proof is inconclusive. Minimum wage is not one of those issues. This law is inflationary and increases unemployment among those who need jobs the most.

It should't just be postponed. It should be

The promotion undoubtedly recognized her ingenuity in melding federal resources with private enterprise.

PRESIDENT Carter scored a diplomatic triumph with the Camp David accords, the ensuing discord notwithstanding.

Time may show that the President's biggest mistake was in relying too heavily on style and showmanship in covering up the lack of substance in the agreements signed by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Television networks, where showmanship and style count for everything, helped brainwash the American people into believing real progress-instead of just symbolic progress—had been made toward peace in the Middle East.

To his credit, Carter himself repeatedly called the documents a "framework" for peace and cautioned of difficult negotiations ahead. Still, he was fairly beaming with optimism and obviously relished premature suggestions that he had earned a Nobel Peace Prize.

Style and a display of confidence are important diplomatic relations and President Carter clearly came out of Camp David with an A-plus for keeping the peace talks moving ahead.

As events already have proved, though, style must be backed up with substance-and dependable, lasting peace still is a long way off in the Middle East.

The document, sponsored by the Defense Nuclear Agency, but prepared by a commerical research firm, is not a satisfactory way to inform the American people of their military predica-President Carter vetoed a sizable military procurement bill, mostly because Congress included funds for a $2 billion nuclear aircraft carrier. Carter would rather have that money for 'readiness" funds, and rely on more but smaller

The "uncertainty" paragraphs in the Defense Department document relate almost entirely to the still-unknown terms of the upcoming Strategic Arms Treaty (SALT II).

SINCE "UNCERTAINTY" exists by the Defense Department's admission, the reasonable tendency should be to err on the safe side.

One section of the document, "Measures and Trends" deals with anti-submarine warfare, the fact that three-fourths of the earth's surface is oceanic, and that the total Soviet-Ameirican land area is only one-tenth the size of the saltwater spread.

If each side had only 100 nuclear-armed submarines, (there are many more) the problem of tracking them would be so enormous that a $2billion aircraft carrier to hunt down hostile underwater craft would seem a good investment.

On the other hand, Carter is often unsure but seldom insincere, and the document heavily hints at Anti-Submarine Warfare (ASW) methods which are less primitive than carriers and divebombers, perhaps some exotic space satellites.

ONE OF THE "uncertainties" listed says this: There is no common agreement in regard to an intercontinental bomber." This is quite a gap in the intelligence field.

By U.S. definition, the Soviet supersonic Backfire bomber is an intercontinental carrier, but the Soviets contend it is a medium bomber intended for use chiefly in Europe.

If SALT negotiators accept the Soviet definition, the Russian LRA (Long Range Aviation) consists mainly of some obsolete Bear and Bison aircraft, and bargaining will proceed on that ba-

No Certain Cure-All Against The Bumps

IF YOU ARE involuntarily "bumped" from an overbooked airline flight, you can, as of this month, get much more of a refund (and cash, too) than in the past. But if you're typical of most airline travelers:

you still are startlingly ignorant of what you can do to protect yourself against this bumping. This past Sept. 3, most of a new Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) ruling went into effect. The rule is designed to slash the number of passengers-more than 150,000 a year-who are bumped off flights against their will. Here is a simple Q. and A. to explain what rights and protections the new rule does and does not provide you, as an airline passenger.

Q. WHAT RIGHTS DO I have if I hold a confirmed reservation on a flight and am bumped against my will because the plane has been overbooked and is overcrowded? A. If you are involuntarily bumped, the airlines must refund you the full cost of your ticket to your destination or your first stopover. A stopover is more than just a change of planes; it is defined as a stop of more than four hours on domestic flights and more than 24 hours on international flights. Thus, if you are bumped from a New York to

Los Angeles flight that has you changing planes in Chicago, say, the airline must refund the full cost of your New York-Los Angeles fare, not just the New York-Chicago portion.

If you lose your seat involuntarily, the very least you must receive is $37.50, up to a maxi-

Q. DO THE NEW rules require an airline that bumps me to make sure I reach my destination

A. Yes. If an airline fails to provide you with alternate transportation that brings you to your destination within two hours of your originally scheduled arrival time, it must refund you twice the cost of your ticket. The minimum you can receive in this case is $75, the maximum is $400. Q. How can the airlines avoid paying these stiff

A. Under the new CAB rules, before anyone may be bumped against his or her will, the airlines first must ask for volunteers who agree to give up their seats in return for a payment at the tem, for instance, passengers on an oversold flight receive a printed notice when they check

This payment may range from $25 to $100, depending on the airport, time of day, number of alternative flights available, other factors.

Under American's system, all volunteers from a particular flight receive the same compensation, but airlines may adjust their offerings to prospective volunteers as they see fit.

Q. If no one volunteers to be bumped, how do airlines decide which passengers stay behind?

A. This remains a problem. The airlines' rules about boarding priority differ. Most give preference to unaccompanied children, the elderly and connecting passengers-at least in practice, if not formally

But the procedures do vary, and as of today, the CAB has approved none of the airlines' priority rules. When it does so-probably within the next couple of months-the airlines must make available to passengers at all ticket counters and boarding points at least a summary of these

Q. WHAT CAN YOU do to avoid being among the bumped?

A. Not much, until the priority rules are clarified. You can verify that the airlines are acting in accordance with their own rules, of course. You can avoid being among the last passengers to

Generally, the first passengers bumped are air-line personnel or eligible travel agents traveling on passes, not regular tickets.

Next come passengers holding discount tickets, the last to check in for the flight, or the "least inconvenienced."

Your best protection is to be fully aware of the problem-and avoid the obvious pitfalls.

Last winter's strike in the coal mines points up the night-and-day differences. Coal consumers were able to build up stockpiles in advance of the walkout. In many cases, consumers could seek alternate fuels.

The mine owners could make their own final decisions on a wage increase and test their judgment against the market. The public interest was affected, of course, by the prolonged strike, but the public health, safety and welfare were never put in jeopardy.

NONE OF these factors exists in public unionism. The services of police and firemen can't be stockpiled. The people have no alternatives available to them. School boards and city councils are in no sense

HENRYETTA, Okla. (AP) - A discotheque owner has been charged with operating a dance hall within 300 feet of a beer establishment in this anti-dancing

The charge, filed Wednesday in Okmulgee County District Court, was brought against businessman Gary Moores. It stems from a Saturday night "gathering" at Crystal Images - a discotheque where dancing is prohibited by ordinance.

Maximum penalty on the misdemeanor charge is a $500 fine and six months in

Tom Stringer Jr., attorney for Moores, said he was dismayed because city officials did not file complaints based on the city's revived anti-dancing ordinance. He wants to challenge the ordinance in

Assistant District Attorney Charles Humphrey said he would attempt to show the dance hall law was violated, but may have some difficulty proving "what constitutes a dance hall or a dance.

Stringer said there probably would be more dancing this weekend, in another effort to challenge the ordinance.

Radio Station Wins Award For Reporting

ATLANTA (UPI) - Radio station WSGN of Birmingham, Ala., received the top reporting award Thursday of the Ra-dio-Television News Directors Association for a series alleging links between Alabama Attorney General William J. Baxley and Insurance fraud and organ-ized crime in Alabama.

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a woman 54 years of age and have taken medication for control of high blood pressure for 17 years. I have been dieting for 30 years or more and have done fairly well until the last year. Now I find myself 75 pounds overweight. levels. In many instances, if it is done properly, this means a person won't need to take medicine to control moderately elevated blood pressure. Of course, there are some people who will need medicines even after getting thin, but getting thin is certainly the first thing that should be done in anyone who is moderately overweight How can you lose the weight?

You're no different than anyone else in that what your weight depends on what you eat and how much physical activity you do. A 1000-calorie-a-day diet isn't very much. I'm sending you a well-balanced dietary program which you can use. It is a low-fat, low-calorie diet, between 1200 and 1400 calories a day. Others who want this diet should ask for The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet and send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

As people get older they tend to lose muscle mass. That's because they change the kind of work they do. The size of your muscles depends on the amount of strength they must exert when they contract. That's why a weight lifter tends to develop large muscles. Since you have high blood pressure I wouldn't recommend weight lifting for you, although moderate weight training is useful for some people, including women. I would suggest that you try in every way possible to increase your lev-el of physical activity by walking, swimming, bicycling, playing tennis, whatever fits your lifestyle and that you can and will do regularly. If you haven't been doing any exercise, I would suggest you start slowly and build up gradually. A good way to be-gin is walking. The more you can walk, and do it consistantly day after day, the more help you will get in controlling your body weight.

He has no choice.

The police will come soon and I must go home. You go home, too," he says. He is wrong. The police are already there, preparing to enforce a martial law curfew that has all but shut down the sprawling city of nearly 5 million people. Between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., no unauthorized person can walk or drive in the streets of the Iranian capital.

Khaki-dressed army regulars carrying American-made submachine guns are a stark reminder of the fierce protests earlier this month against the regime of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, who has ruled this oil-rich nation for 38 years.

Less than a day after the six-month curfew went into effect Sept. 8, army troops fired at a crowd of anti-shah demonstrators in Tehran, killing at least 250 and sending scores of others into already overcrowded hospitals.

Since that bloody Friday the protests have abated, but the specter of the shootings still haunts the city.

Even on Lalezar Avenue, a neon strip in the heart of Tehran's entertainment district, all night life dries up an hour before curfew.

The popular J-Club has stripped operating hours down to basics, opening at 7 p.m. and asking clients to leave no later than 9:30 p.m. "We must give everyone time to get home, including ourselves," says an employee.

By shutting down the city's main drag, the curfew has paradoxically played into the hands of extremist Moslem clergymen who oppose the shah for what they consider his westernization of Iran.

The clergymen, who want the laws of Islam's most holy book, the Koran, strictly enforced, have no room for the J-Club with its pop music and scantily clad host-

Carbon Substance Accidentally Found LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Aerospace and 10. The films we get are a bit harder

Corporation scientists have produced a superhard carbon substance from graphite - the soft carbon used in lead pencils that can be used to coat mirrors, lenses and other optical instruments.

They say the discovery was almost an accident. Dr. Arthur G. Whittaker called it, "A case of serendipity.

The substance resulted from heating the graphite to about 6,000 degrees Fahrenheit, a process used in other work. Each time, the researchers noticed a white crystal-like substance on the surface which they called, simply, "ash."
"We slowly investigated it," Whittaker

said. "It started about five years ago and slowly we began to realize the situation was more complicated than we thought."

The most recent discovery at the nonprofit, government-funded research corporation was how to make the carbon film, or coating, using a vapor deposition

The process is carried out in a vacuum and the graphite is heated to produce va-por, and then condensed on a cool surface - called a substrate. In this case the substrate is a lens or other optical instru-

The research mostly has revolved around a rare form of carbon called chaoite" and pronounced "chow-ite."

Along the way they found that the same general process gave still more carbon forms, called "carbynes." It was found that the carbynes will produce carbon films, some of which are transparent, very hard and scratchproof.

What we do is quench the carbon gas on the substrate," Whittaker said. "It's very tricky because there's so many different things you can get."

But he said the use of chaoite could be very advantageous in military and civili-an applications as well as the space proram, because many new materials used dern science are very soft.

Most of these exotic materials are soft nd scratch very easily," he said, "and to out a hard coating on them which is transparent is a tremendous advantage." He described the substance as very igh on the scale of hardness, between pphire and diamond.

than sapphire," he said. "It's in the region called 'superhard' materials."

He said the carbynes - nine in all that have resulted from the experiments have a wide range of properties. "Some are very soft. It's the hard ones we're gunning for and the deposition technique is touchy to make sure you get the one

Whittaker said the substance could be commercially available in about two years and is not expensive.

The quest began in August 1977 when the client, a computer maker, telephoned Bartholdi Co., a search firm based in Wellesley, Mass., for help in finding a highly professional security manager.

Ted Bartholdi, company president, himself once recruited from IBM and formerly president of a technology company, met with the client's employment manager a week later and learned that the job entailed:

—Protection of company offices, factories, new product plans and drawings. -Executive protection from terrorist attacks around the world. -Auditing and security of computers the client used in its own operations, in order to protect against white collar

At a meeting a week later with the line executive to whom the new employee would report, job details were further defined and Bartholdi, in answer to ques-tions, learned everything he could about the concern.

A fee equal to 30 percent of the candidate's first-year guaranteed income was agreed upon, payable in part as/an initial $2,000 retainer and $2,000 a month during the length of the search.

Anything remaining would be payable when the candidate began work. The client would reimburse the Bartholdi firm for its expenses and for expenses it paid on behalf of candidates.

Ted Bartholdi assigned himself the job of "engagement officer" with day-to-day responsibility. A consulting officer was named to assist him in planning overall strategy. They selected the names of 500 individuals from the directories of the American Society for Industrial Security and the Society of Former Special Agents of the

Black Paper Celebrates Anniversary

BALTIMORE (UPI) - When he was a youngster, John Murphy III sat in the production room of the Baltimore Afro-American and watched the flatbed press churn out copies of the newspaper started by his grandfather.

When he was older, he spent afternoons with his cousin William sending "pigs" — metal press blocks — up and down the dumbwaiter of the Afro-Ameri-can's downtown building.

"I always knew I'd work here," Mur-phy said. "But I didn't know what I'd be

Today, at age 62, Murphy chairs the Afro-American's board of directors and presides over its extensive operations from behind a horseshoe-shaped desk, The family-owned newspaper celebrated its 86th anniversary Aug. 13.

Murphy's grandfather, John H. Murphy, Sr., a former slave, started the paper in 1892 as a Sunday school journal. It has grown to be one of the country's most influential minority presses, with a week-ly circulation of 92,000 in Baltimore and editions in Richmond, Va., and Newark, NJ.

"You have to have a minority press, whether it is Chinese, Black or Puerto Rican," said Murphy. "A minority press brings facts to the community that wouldn't get there. It's a matter of keep-before the civil rights movement began.

Fair housing, improvements in education, putting blacks on community boards, on judicial benches, in the voting booths — it's all part of "keeping the establishment honest," according to Mur-

"If it weren't for cities with strong black papers, those things wouldn't get done," he said. "If it were left to the establishment, there would still be all white juges. Because if nobody sqwawks about it, it would stay the same."

Of course, there are some people who will need medicines even after getting thin, but getting thin is certainly the first thing that should be done in anyone who is moderately overweight. How can you lose the weight? You're no different than anyone else in that what your weight depends on what you eat and how much physical activity you do. A 1000-calorie-a-day diet isn't very much. I'm sending you well-balanced dietary program which you can use. It is a low-fat, low-calorie diet, between 1200 and 1400 calories a day. Others who want this diet should ask for The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet and send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O Box 1551. Radio City Station. New York, N.Y. 10019.

As people get older they tend to lose muscle mass. That's because they change the kind of work they do. The size of your muscles depends on the amount of strength they must exert when they contract. That's why a weight lifter tends to develop large muscles. Since you have high blood pressure I wouldn't recommend weight lifting for you, although moderate weight training is useful for some people, including women.
I would suggest that you try in every way possible to increase your level of physical activity by walking, swimming, bicycling, playing tennis, whatever fits your lifestyle and that you can and will do regularly. If you haven't been doing any exercise, I would suggest you start slowly and build up gradually. A good way to begin is walking. The more you can walk, and do it consistantly day after day, the more help you will get in

He has no choice.

"The police will come soon and I must go home. You go home, too," he says. He is wrong. The police are already there, preparing to enforce a martial law curfew that has all but shut down the sprawling city of nearly 5 million people. Between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., no unauthorized person can walk or drive in the streets of the Iranian capital.

Khaki-dressed army regulars carrying American-made submachine guns are a stark reminder of the fierce protests earlier this month against the regime of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, who has ruled this oil-rich nation for 38 years.

Less than a day after the six-month curfew went into effect Sept. 8, army troops fired at a crowd of anti-shah demonstrators in Tehran, killing at least 250 and sending scores of others into already overcrowded hospitals.

Since that bloody Friday the protests have abated, but the specter of the shootings still haunts the city.

Even on Lalezar Avenue, a neon strip in the heart of Tehran's entertainment district, all night life dries up an hour be-

The popular J-Club has stripped operating hours down to basics, opening at 7 p.m. and asking clients to leave no later than 9:30 p.m. "We must give everyone time to get home, including ourselves," says an employee.

By shutting down the city's main drag, the curfew has paradoxically played into the hands of extremist Moslem clergymen who oppose the shah for what they consider his westernization of Iran.

The clergymen, who want the laws of Islam's most holy book, the Koran, strictly enforced, have no room for the J-Club with its pop music and scantily clad host-

Carbon Substance Accidentally Found

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Aerospace and 10. The films we get are a bit harder Corporation scientists have produced a superhard carbon substance from graphite — the soft carbon used in lead pencils - that can be used to coat mirrors, lenand other optical instruments

They say the discovery was almost an accident. Dr. Arthur G. Whittaker called it, "A case of serendipity."

The substance resulted from heating the graphite to about 6,000 degrees Fahrenheit, a process used in other work. Each time, the researchers noticed a white crystal-like substance on the surface which they called, simply, "ash."

"We slowly investigated it," Whittaker

said. "It started about five years ago and slowly we began to realize the situation was more complicated than we thought."

The most recent discovery at the nonprofit, government-funded research corporation was how to make the carbon film, or coating, using a vapor deposition

The process is carried out in a vacuum and the graphite is heated to produce va-por, and then condensed on a cool surface - called a substrate. In this case the substrate is a lens or other optical instru-

research mostly has revolved around a rare form of carbon called 'chaoite" and pronounced "chow-ite."

Along the way they found that the same general process gave still more carbon forms, called "carbynes." It was found that the carbynes will produce carbon films, some of which are transparent, very hard and scratchproof.

"What we do is quench the carbon gas on the substrate," Whittaker said. "It's very tricky because there's so many different things you can get."

But he said the use of chaoite could be ery advantageous in military and civiliplications as well as the space proam, because many new materials used dern science are very soft.

'Most of these exotic materials are soft nd scratch very easily," he said, "and to put a hard coating on them which is transparent is a tremendous advantage." described the substance as very igh on the scale of hardness, between apphire and diamond.

"A diamond is 10 on the scale of 10 but nere's a hell of a big jump between nine than sapphire," he said. "It's in the re-gion called 'superhard' materials."

He said the carbynes - nine in all that have resulted from the experiments are very soft. It's the hard ones we're gunning for and the deposition technique is touchy to make sure you get the one

Whittaker said the substance could be commercially available in about two years and is not expensive

THE PERSON NAMED IN

The quest began in August 1977 when the client, a computer maker, telephoned Bartholdi Co., a search firm based in Wellesley, Mass., for help in finding a highly professional security manager.

Ted Bartholdi, company president, himself once recruited from IBM and formerly president of a technology company, met with the client's employment manager a week later and learned that the job entailed:

 Protection of company offices, factories, new product plans and drawings. -Executive protection from terrorist attacks around the world.

-Auditing and security of computers the client used in its own operations, in order to protect against white collar

At a meeting a week later with the line executive to whom the new employee would report, job details were further defined and Bartholdi, in answer to ques-tions, learned everything he could about the concern.

A fee equal to 30 percent of the candidate's first-year guaranteed income was agreed upon, payable in part as/an initial $2,000 retainer and $2,000 a month during the length of the search.

Anything remaining would be payable when the candidate began work. The client would reimburse the Bartholdi firm for its expenses and for expenses it paid on behalf of candidates.

Ted Bartholdi assigned himself the job of "engagement officer" with day-to-day responsibility. A consulting officer was named to assist him in planning overall

Black Paper Celebrates Anniversary

BALTIMORE (UPI) - When he was a youngster, John Murphy III sat in the production room of the Baltimore Afro-American and watched the flatbed press churn out copies of the newspaper start-ed by his grandfather.

When he was older, he spent afternoons with his cousin William sending "pigs" — metal press blocks — up and down the dumbwaiter of the Afro-Ameri-can's downtown building. "I always knew I'd work here," Mur-

Today, at age 62, Murphy chairs the Afro-American's board of directors and presides over its extensive operations from behind a horseshoe-shaped desk. The family-owned newspaper celebrated its 86th anniversary Aug. 13.

Murphy's grandfather, John H. Murphy, Sr., a former slave, started the paper in 1892 as a Sunday school journal. It has grown to be one of the country's most influential minority presses, with a week-ly circulation of 92,000 in Baltimore and editions in Richmond, Va., and Newark,

"You have to have a minority press, whether it is Chinese, Black or Puerto Rican," said Murphy. "A minority press brings facts to the community that wouldn't get there. It's a matter of keeping the majority honest.

He said black newspapers were fighting to make blacks full-fledged citizens long before the civil rights movement began.

Murphy credits the Afro-American's 86-year lifespan to the dedication of its "Employees of the black press generally are more dedicated, they put in that extra mile and sacrifice," he said. "Just extra mile and sacrifice," he said. "Just being here 86 years, that takes some doing. To be in business for 86 years, and to have employees for 40 years. It's saying that you're doing something right."

Advertising brings in 80 percent of the Afro's revenue, with circulation bringing in the rest, Murphy said.

"There are many times that advertise-

"Last year was the first year that we were in the red ... our income was up 3 percent, but our expenses were up 6 percent," said Murphy, who declined to give the newspaper's annual income.

"However, this year we've made technical changes in our method of printing and the trend indicates we'll be in the block seein." be said.

SOUTHERN GOVERNORS WERE WARNED this week that excessive new

Lon Mann, president of the National Cotton Council, told the Southern Gover-

"These businesses generate $16.7 billion in revenue and add nearly $1 billion to your state tax rolls," Mann pointed out.

Wheat Acreage Boosted By Deaf Smith Farmers

With Eye To Grazing Advantages

By JIM STEIERT A-J Correspondent

HEREFORD-Deaf Smith County farmers are moving ahead with the planting of a larger wheat crop this year while samples of corn have been arriving at area elevators during the past week as a prelude to the fall grain harvest here.

Although wheat planting is on the upswing after last year's severe reduction of the crop, a lot of winter months and economic factors remain to contend with between now and harvest time, Many area producers are sowing their wheat with an eye toward the marked improvement in cattle prices over the past few months, according to John Fus-ton, exectuve director of the Deaf Smith County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Fuston explained that pasture for stocker cattle is a major factor in the expansion of wheat planting, as farmers look to realize more income from wheat by putting it through their cattle.

Folks are busy sowing wheat in the dryland country in the western and northwestern portion of the county. There is good soil moisture available, and planting is up to 50 percent com-plete in some dryland areas," Fuston in-

"Planting of irrigated wheat is running a little slower, and is only 20 to 30 percent complete," he added.

Fuston pointed out that even though many local farmers are eager to take advantage of the grazing offered by a good wheat crop, it will still be another two to three weeks before any local fields offer sufficient forage. "It will be October 1 at the very best before we have any grazing here, and we are going to need some rain to get that. Dryland wheat will provide some good pasture for cattle this winter if we get the rains we need, but most farmers have learned not to graze dryland wheat if they don't get enough moisture, in or-der to prevent a blowing problem later on," Fuston said.

Turning his attention to late summer forage and fall grain crops, Fuston indicated that the area's corn ensilage crop is reasonably good.

"A lot of the silage corn is yielding 20 tons per acre, and we have had some 25ton yields. There have been a couple of exceptionally good silage yields of 30 tons per acre," said Fuston.

In an unusual turn of events for the loarea, Fuston milo in some of the western and northwestern portions of the county shows the potential for excellent yields.

"A lot of the dryland mile needed one more rain that it didn't get, but we still have some scattered dryland milo fields that look good. A lot of it will have to mature in a hurry in order to make harvesting it economically feasible, but there are some fields in the northwestern portion of the county that should cut excellent dryland yields of 2,500 to 3,000 pounds per acre.

There is a beautiful dryland milo crop in the Adrian area as well. Dryland milo looks good wherever moisture happened to fall at the right time," Fuston commented.

The ASCS executive pointed out that a yield of 500 pounds per acre is the critical point at which the line must be drawn on the economic feasibility of harvesting, and added that dryland sorghum yields county-wide will range all the way from 500 to 3,000 pounds per Pasture for cattle should become an important consideration in the wake of corn and sorghum harvests.

"I expect a lot more people to be turning cattle out on their stalks this year. Grazing them means cheaper gains on cattle, and farmers are keeping their eyes on the improved cattle market," Fuston concluded.

WHEAT PLANTING TIME — Wheat planting is continuing in Deaf Smith County, with sowing up to 60 percent complete in dryland areas west of Hereford. Corn Crop Estimate Believed Too High

By REUTERS

CHICAGO -Cooperative Extension Service Agronomists in key U.S. producing states feel U. S. Department of Agriculture corn production estimates for their states are too high for current conditions and some expressed surprise at their size even in terms of Sept. 1 condi-

They generally felt the soybean estimate to be in line with their expectations, though some said there has been deterioration since Sept. 1.

Dr. Fred Welch of the University of Illinois expressed surprise that the state estimate was up, but said he has no basis to vigorously challenge the figure. The USDA estimated Illinois output at 1,241,200,000 bushels, up from 1,177,000,-000 estimated in August, or a yield in-crease of about six bushels an acre.

This, he said, would put the state average yield at a record level.

In the last month, we've heard reports of fields deteriorating but not reports of improvements," he said. "I would have expected the new estimate to be unchanged or lower." The Illinois soybean estimate, which was unchanged at 312,300,000 bushels, was as he expected.

The estimated Iowa corn crop "could be in the field, but whether it can be put in the bin is another question," Dr. Harvey Thompson of Iowa State University said.

The USDA placed Iowa corn output at

000 last month, for an increase of about six bushels an acre. "I didn't expect that much, but I wouldn't argue with it." Thompson said.

He said Iowa harvest losses this year will be more than normal. "We're already seeing ear droppage due to corn borders," he said.

The Iowa soybean estimate of 262,500,-000 bushels, up from 255,000,000 last month, is "entirely within the realm of the possible and harvestable," he said.

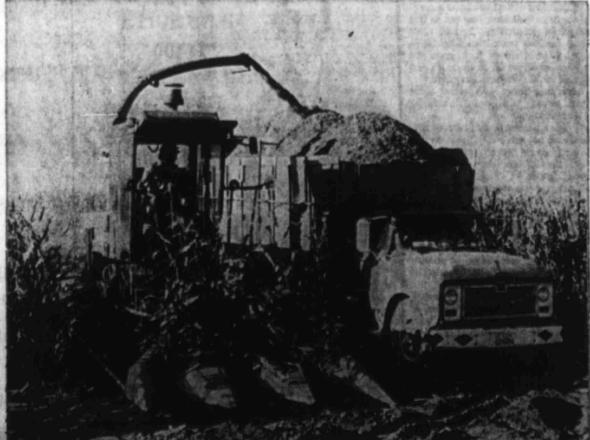

Indiana's corn and soybean crops are about as expected by Purdue University's Cliff Spies, though he was more surprised by an indicated increase in soybean yield of one bushels an acre than by the increase of two bushels an acre for corn.

"I would not have been surprised if there were no gain in soybean and more than one bushel would have been questionable," he said.

The corn crop is doing well, he said, with the only moisture problems in northeastern Indiana and these coming at late July, after the most crucial point in crop development. The figures for Minnesota "may have been okay for Sept. 1, but not for now,' Dr. Millis Anthony of the University of Minnesota said. "Hot weather has cut fields of corn and soybean and I would expect the Oct. 1 estimate to be closer to August than September.

Grain Futures CHICAGO (AP) - Soybean prices plunged Thursday on the Chicago Board

Cattle Close Mixed After Early Surge

By Reuters

CHICAGO - Cattle futures reacted sharply after a limit level gain of 150 points and finished 55 points lower to 27 higher Thursday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

December was down the most after October lost 70 with August at the best gain. Sales totaled 31,080 cars.

Early buying was in response to the bullish pig crop report, but profit-taking quickly turned the market around. The nearby contract came under aggressive bear spreading as traders noted lack of aggressive demand for beef.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 82 cents a pound, for all weights, f.o.b. river points. Cash cattle were up 50 to off 25 cents, with the best top $56.50 per hundredweight at Omaha.

Slaughter was 140,000 head. The major markets expect 6,500 head today.

Feeder cattle futures shot up the daily limit of 150 and lifted all contracts to new season's highs before closing 2 to 80 higher paced by March.

January was briefly 35 lower. Volume

Outset buying was touched off by the bullish pig crop report. Declines in live cattle futures led to profit-taking and other selling here and traders also noted lack of aggressive demand for beef.

Cash feeder cattle were steady to firm with the best top $83.25 per hundred-weight at West Fargo. There were 140 deliveries. About 4,500 head are expected at the major terminals today.

Hog futures finished 115 to the daily limit level of 150 higher. All contracts except nearby October were up the limit from the start. Sales were meager at 1,- 298 contracts. December had about 700 unfilled orders and later months about 1,500.

Aggressive buying in response to the bullish pig crop report lifted the nearby contract to a new season's high and the highest since August, 1977, to $51.20. Mostly higher cash hogs on increased arrivals were also positive here.

Wholesale hams were up 1 to 4 cents at 90 to 95 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were up $1 to off 25 cents, with the best top $51.75 per hundredweight, which is the highest since June, at Sioux City.

Kill was 318,000 head. Receipts at the major markets today are expected to be 21,000 head,

Pork belly (bacon) futures were locked up the daily limit of 200 from the start with volume held to only 272 cars. February had about 1,000 unfilled orders and March 200 at the close. Prices rose to the highest since June, up eight cents from recent lows. The primary influence was the bullish pig crop report, noting one percent less hogs than a year ago. The upswing in cash bellies and mostly higher cash hogs also contributed support.

Wholesale bacon was up 2 to 23/4 cents at 54 to 61 cents a pound, f.o.b.

of Trade, leading grain prices downward on the heels of a government report that soybean stocks are unexpectedly large. A flurry of selling began at the opening bell in the soybean pit, leading to losses of 23½ to 27½ cents a bushel. Traders said better-than-expected harvest time weather, combined with quiet export markets for soybeans and soybean products, helped deflate the bullish sentiments of earlier in the week.

The government reported Wednesday after the close that some 159 million bushels of soybeans are stored on farms and in warehouses nationwide, a figure 55 percent higher than last year's estimated supplies and 17 percent higher than traders expected this year.

Soybean oil prices dropped the pennya-pound limit in several nearby delivery

In the corn pit, prices lost 31/4 cents across the board, partly on an improved weather outlook for harvest and partly on a government hog report released Wednesday. The hog report showed smaller-than-expected numbers of feeder pigs nationwide, meaning less future demand for feed grains.

Wheat prices also lost ground on in-creased country grain sales, and in sympathy with the soybean market.

At the close, soybeans were 23½ to 27¼ cents lower, November $6.52¼; wheat was 21/2 to 4 cents lower, December $3.34; corn was 31/4 cents lower in all months, December $2.2014; and oats were 21/4 to 23/4 cents lower, December

City Schools Achieve Racial Balance Goal

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Court-ordered specifications for racial balance at eastside and northside elementary schools have been met or ex-ceeded, school officials Thursday told U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Wood-

In a progress report on desegregation, Superintendent Ed Irons said only Dunbar-Struggs High School has not been able to achieve its projected enrollment. As of Sept. 8, that magnet school still lacked 62 white students, he said.

Nevertheless, the Dunbar-Struggs figures are not alarmingly low, school officials said. For one thing, since the Sept. 8 census, Dunbar-Struggs has picked up 11 more white pupils. And the proportion of whites in the school's student body is about 42 percent - just four percentage points below the projection. Also, the Dunbar-Struggs figures do not include the 45 white students who are commuting to that school for only one or two courses, Irons' report said.

Generally, the study said, "The projections (on which the integration plan was ordered last spring) were unusually close to actual enrollment" experienced this Posey Elementary was projected to have an enrollment of 531 students, with 65 percent white. The actual figures show 471 students, with 65 percent white.

Wheatley Elementary was projected to have 466 students, with 60 percent white. The actual enrollment is 377 students, with 58 percent white.

"Our enrollment figures indicate a loss of approximately 800 students from the projected figure for 1978-79," Irons' report said.

"The enrollment decrease is on all levels and does not necessarily show that students involved in the desegregation process are those not enrolled for the 1978-79 school year.

"The district is now involved in a study to determine the number of students that moved from the district, enrolled in private or parochial schools, and those not enrolling for any other reason. The report shows that Iles, which was rojected to have only 143 students with 38 percent white enrollment, actually has 275 students, 54 percent white. Dunbar-Struggs was projected to have 863 students, 46 percent of them white. The actual enrollment, as of Sept. 8, was 811 students with 41.3 percent white.

A census taken on Monday, however, shows Dunbar-Struggs with 826 students - 346 whites (41.9 percent) and 480 minorities (58.1 percent).

Water Commission Schedules Hearing

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - The Texas Water Commission has set an application by White River Municipal Water District for an extension of time construct a 57,420-acre-foot reservoir in Garza County for hearing at 10 a.m. Oct. 26.

The application will he heard in the Stephen F. Austin State Office Building before a hearing examiner.

The reservior is to be built on North Fork Double Mountain Fork of the Brazos River, for municipal, industrial and mining purposes.

The permit, issued July 24, 1970, has been extended three times, and the current request is for a two-year extension, the TWC reports.

KIDS-ONLY CLUB Pressed Flowers Used In Making Stationery By SHARI LEWIS

While wildflowers and leaves are still around to be enjoyed, collect some pretty growing things (the flatter the better) and press them in a book between two sheets of wax paper until they're dry. This takes a couple of days. Then, with a supply of pressed flowers or leaves, you can make yourself some stationery than will be very unusual — with a helping hand from Mother Nature.

Get some ordinary white typing paper, and cut each sheet in half. Fold each of these half sheets in half once again. Buy inexpensive envelopes. Trim the stationery to fit yor envelopes, but don't do the trimming from the folded edge. Arrange the flowers on the top edge or along the fold. Glue them in place, using ordinary white glue. Or you can glue a strip of colored construction paper across the top or down the side, and then glue the flowers on this strip. Place a sheet of waxed paper over the whole thing and put it in a book to dry Katzenbach asked the Justice Department lawver to research the question further and contact the CIA, and this was done, Helms said.

Helms acknowledged that Katzenbach probably was never told the details of Nosenko's confinement for more than three years in a tiny concrete and steel cell where he was fed a diet of tea, porridge and macaroni and denied virtually all human contact.

Although John McCone was CIA director when the Warren Commission was conducting its probe in 1964, Helms was head of the agency's clandestine services and was heavily involved in its dealings with the commission. Helms was CIA director from 1966 to 1973.

Committee members raised questions about CIA and FBI dealings with the Warren Commission as they took testimony Thursday from the three still-living members of the commission - former President Gerald R. National guard headquarters said Tuesday that Esteli - the last area of resistance in the uprising - had been retaken. But government forces continued the fierce bombardment of the town.

Opposition groups continued their nationwide strike to back their demand for Somoza's immediate resignation.

"The economic situation will be Somoza's Achilles' heel," said a foreign banker who asked not to be identified. "He says he can last, but I don't think he'll be around long.

The general strike began Aug. 25, several days after the Sandinistas won freedom for 59 political prisoners in a daring takeover of the National Palace. The government says it is ineffectual, but food and consumer items are becoming scarce. Some bankers say the government soon will begin printing worthless currency to meet government payrolls.

Somoza says he has won the war because he smashed the rebellion, but in reality he has lost it," said Tunnerman, a former rector of the University of Nicaragua. "He has lost economically, civically, politically, internationally."

Somoza declared martial law Sept. 13. Tunnerman, 45, told The Associated Press in San Jose, Costa Rica that the platform of the provisional government which would replace Somoza if he resigns would forbid trial of civilians by military courts, give immediate freedom to all political prisoners, allow the return of all exiles and repeal press censorship laws.

He said Somoza's position is precarious because "the people no longer pay taxes and no longer obey the law even though they might be killed. "No one can govern a people who repudiate their government," he said.

The Roman Catholic church in Nicaragua and business representatives made public an open letter to Somoza asking the president to accept the mediation of Colombia, Mexico and the Dominican Republic to end the civil unrest which had plagued Nicaragua since January.

The letter said that in an internal struggle "there are no true winners, but the great loser is the people who become even more impoverished with an even

Instead of filing an appeal brief, the Justice Department simply may ask the 5th Circuit Court next week for an extension of time, he said.

The Justice Department filed a "notice of appeal" in July, but did so only to buy time and keep its options open. Time is running out because on Thursday, the department must file with the 5th Circuit a brief outlining the basis for appeal.

If the Justice Department misses that deadline, the appeal is dead.

ward's ruling that only nine of the city's 53 schools needed to be integrated. The resulting plan has left several schools still overwhelmingly minority. The Justice Department advocates systemwide integration involving all schools.

Second, the department objects to the way the current plan was devised. Federal government lawyers feel the plan is unfair to minorities because they are being bused for longer periods than whites. Also, the department wants to block the proposed construction of new schools in predominantly white areas south of Loop 289. The Citizens' Alliance for Successful

Schools, also a proponent of systemwide integration, has said it will appeal on those counts if the Justice Department does not. Waters said that if the department files

Syria Delays Vance Visit

(Continued From Page One) the Camp David plan, calling it a "separate deal" between Egypt and Israel that produced "nothing but the illusion of a settlement It can only make the situation in the Middle East even more explosive." Brezhnev commented in a speech in the southern Soviet Union.

The Carter administration has been cultivating oil-rich Saudi Arabia for some time in hopes that it would be a force for moderation in the Arab world.

The American position on the key issues is that Israel, in the Camp David accords, agreed to a partial withdrawal from occupied lands. And once it has begun, the withdrawal process will acquire momentum. Vance argues.

But his ability to make a case has been hampered by the dispute with Israel over exactly what Israel agreed to at Camp David. The most important squabble concerns

Israel's freeze on new settlements in the West Bank area. Israel contends that pledge applies only for three months. The United States says it applies for five years, but it is hopeful the dispute will be settled soon. The settlement issue was supposed to be covered, along with the opposing positions on Jerusalem, in an exchange of letters. Those letters have not yet been written, and will not be until the dispute is settled.

In the West Bank today, some mem bers of an ultra-nationalist settlers' group evicted by troops from an unauthoriz outpost Thursday returned to the site in an open challenge to Prime Minister Menachem Begin to have them forced out again. The group has denounced the Israeli leader's agreement to freeze the settlement program.

Begin returned to Israel today and received a hero's welcome. Most Israelis seem to view the results of Camp David as a success for their country.

But the confusion over the duration of the settlements moratorium and the uncertainty of an eventual Israeli withdrawal from all occupied lands mean that Vance can say little when asked by the Arabs about those issues. And, "every unanswered question delays the day when full understanding can be reached." a State Department spokesman said Thursday.

In 1745, Czar Peter III of Russia married Catherine the Great.

Balked By Oil Blaze

HACKBERRY, La. (AP) - A yellowred ball of burning oil boiled over an alligator-infested swamp of palmetto and sawgrass today following an explosion that left one man dead and another seriously injured at the showcase storage site of the nation's strategic petroleum re-The fire, at one time visible for 30 miles, lessened in intensity overnight, but a plume of smoke still billowed from it today and officials said it might burn for at least two days. It was fed from an underground cavern - 10 stories high and as big as a city block - that held 7 million barrels of crude oil being stored as a hedge against foreign oil embargos. Firefighting experts "Boots" Hansen and "Coots" Mathews surveyed the fire ay and were waiting for wo relieve pressure in the cavern before trying to blow it out.

The fire roared up a six-inch drill pipe during routine maintenance late Thursday and caught about 20 men on a steel drilling rig. officials said. Two men were burned while four dived to safety in a mudbank and the others clambered down a staircase just ahead offthe flames. The heat melted the drilling rig.

"We don't know what happened," said Bill Parker, deputy project manager

But workmen said the fire was touched off by a spark that was struck while they were pulling a drilling bit up the pipe. "A big stream of oil spwed into the air about 50 to 60 feet high for about 40 seconds. Then there was a loud explosion that rocked my truck and the oil caught on fire," said George LaBove, a mechanical inpsector who was about a quarter mile away. The dead man was identified as Clarence Simon Sr., 38, of Abbeville, La. In stable condition with burns over half of his body was Bradley Bergeron, 22, of New Iberia, La. 'We've got every trick in the book

Parker said the oil in the cavern was under pressure of 650 pounds per square inch, which was forcing oil back through the well hole.

"We are going to have 25,000 to 30,000 barrels come out of there before the pressure is equalized," he said. "First we have got to get the fire out, then stop the

It was the first serious accident involving the $8 billion federal project to store half a billion barrels of crude oil.

The burning oil came from one of five caverns at the Hackberry dome, which was the first of four storage sites along the Gulf Coast to take on oil. It blew when the cavern was half full

The work crew was conducting a routine oilfield maintenance chore — cleaning out a dirty hole extending 3,240 feet down into the cavern, officials said.

Lubbock police today continued their search for a suspect in a shoot-out Thurs-day night at a late-night gathering place, which left a Meadow man dead and the victim's 52-year-old father critically in-

Johnnie Garcia was pronounced dead in a parking lot near the 5609 Magnolia St. location about 8:45 p.m. by Justice of the Peace Charles Smith.

The dead man's father, Felip Urrea Garcia of Rt. 10, Box 103-A. Lubbock, was in critical condition this morning at Health Sciences Center Hospital.
Investigating detective Teddy Daniels said the shooting occurred about 8 p.m., but police were not called for nearly an hour after the incident.

"The people at the place did not want to call police, nor an ambulance," said

Davis Saga Shifting To Houston

FORT WORTH (AP) - Millionaire Cullen Davis celebrated his 45th birthday in jail and being transferred to Houston today as the spotlight in his celebrated legal saga shifted to a Houston court pres-ided over by a former wartime fighter

Visiting Judge Arthur Tipps, after a three-day change of venue hearing, Thursday moved Davis' latest trial to Harris County's 184th District Court, presided over by Judge Wallace C. Moore. Moore, a chain-smoker who wears a lucky coin on a chain around his neck, admitted Thursday that he is a "close personal friend" of defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, but said he will try the case "like any other felony." Moore has not yet set a court date, but attorneys in the case have speculated the trial probably will begin the week of Oct. 'When the indictment and files are transferred here and they are all in place

we will have an early as possible pretrial setting to determine exactly where we are and what we are going to do," Moore

"But you can be assured it is going to be done very quickly."

That may have been in reference to the prosecution's desire to start the trial before Oct. 20. Davis was arrested Aug. 20 and state law requires that a defendan be released on bond if not tried within 60 days of his arrest.

Davis was transferred this morning to the Harris County jail from the Tarrant County jail where he was being held without bond on charges he ordered the murder of his divorce judge. The judge was one of 15 persons allegedly named in a homemade "hit list" the state claims was authored by the Fort Worth industri-

"I would have perferred to have had the trial in Tarrant County since I was born and raised here," Davis said. "But I believe I can get a fair trial in Harris County, and I'm pleased with Houston as a site for the trial.

Haynes, who lives in Houston, said, 'It's good to get back home and establish residency again.

Haynes said he has appeared several times previously in Judge Moore's court and said, "he's an A-Number-One guy. He's a very able lawyer and a very able Prosecutor Marvin Collins said he does not personally know the new jurist, but by reputation, he is an excellent judge, and I would say that Harris County is an appropriate place to transfer the case. I believe we can get a fair and impartial jury in Houston.

Jack Strickland, a newly assigned prosecutor in the Davis case, said "Houston is as good a place as any and better than most. I don't know Judge Moore, but the people here are very high on him. I see no problems in Houston.

Concerning a trial date, Strickland said, "We're going to go on the assumption that we'll be going to trial very quickly." Haynes was asked if he will be ready for trial by the Oct. 19 deadline.

He said, "I'm confident we'll exert a maximum effort to meet that deadline."

Rice University Students Stabbed

HOUSTON (AP) - Three Rice University students were reported in stable con-dition today after being stabbed and beaten by five men police said invaded their apartment and stole television and

Billy Koran, 20, and Stephen Tillery 20, chemical engineering juniors, said they were studying when the men burst into the unlocked apartment, bound them with telephone cord, and stabbed them with knives and screwdrivers. The third student, Steve Spedale, 20, said he arrived as the men were carrying a television set outside. He said they forced him into the apartment, bound him and stabbed him with a screwdriver. Spedale later broke loose and went to a nearby fire station for help.

Nevarez said police were looking for one suspect, a Mexican-American man who was sitting with four other men at a table inside the house. The description of the suspect was vague this morning, with estimates of the man's age varying from

The suspect, and the four other men who left the location with him, are possibly illegal aliens, the detectives said.

The fatal shooting apparently was the result of an argument which broke out inside the house, according to Nevarez. There was an argument inside, but we don't know what it was about," Nevarez

Witnesses said that after the shooting, which occurred outside the house, the suspect and his four male friends left in an older model Pontiac, Oldsmobile or Buick. Police received two descriptions of the vehicle's color - white over blue or a solid brown. Daniels said the elder Garcia was sitting at a table near the suspect's, and his son was playing pool in back of the house when the argument erupted and the three men went outside. Reports show that police found the younger Garcia suffering from several bullet wounds lying in the dirt parking lot north of the house. The father reportedly was taken to his residence near 98th Street and Quirt Avenue by three men where an ambulance was then called.

Nevarez said that he and Daniels went to an eastside "after-hours" club about 2:45 a.m. today and were told that a man matching the suspect's sketchy descrip-tion had been to the club about five minutes earlier and had purchased a quart of beer before leaving.

The club bartender said the man appeared to be bruised and scratched. He said the man told him he had received the injuries from a fight earlier in the

Daniels said no weapons had been recovered as of this morning. Witnesses told police the older Garcia apparently was armed, but it was not known whether his son had a gun.

Smith, who ruled the death homicide, ordered an autopsy on the younger Garcia. Police Information Officer Bill Morgan said the autopsy showed Garcia had been shot four times in the back and once in the chest.

Services for Garcia were pending today with Brownfield Funeral Home in Brownfield. Local arrangements were being made by Sanders Funeral Home in Lubbock. Garcia's death marked the city's 25 homicide this year.

Odessa Woman Held In Deaths Of Children

ODESSA (Special) - A 20-year-old waitress has been charged with three counts of murder after she was arrested for the suffocation deaths of three of her children over a four-year period.

Emma Jean Berry remained in Ector County Jail today in lieu of $300,000 bond set by Odessa Justice of the Peace Harold

Ector County District Attorney Special Child Abuse Investigator Jerry Davis made the arrest after an autopsy on the latest infant showed it died of suffoca-

District Attorney John Green said his office was notified by a local hospital of the child's death and upon further checking, authorities discovered that Mrs. Berry's two other children also had died the same way.

According to Green, Mrs. Berry told police all the infants had suffered crib

Green said the first child, her 10month-old son, died in Houston Jan. 27, 1974, and the autopsy conducted there also revealed "unusual circumstances" in the infant's death.

In 1976, Green said, after Mrs. Berry had moved here, her two-month old child also died of suffocation. And on Sept. 7, he said, an Odessa hospital reported that Mrs. Berry's two-week-old infant died the same way.

Although Mrs. Berry was married at the times of all three infants' deaths, Green said the Odessa investigation indi-cates the men were not involved in the Green said that Ector County officials are working with the Houston authorities, who have asked the West Texas lawmen to fig the cases in their jurisdiction first because Mrs. Berry was still a juvenile at the time of the first child's Green said the case would be presented to the Ector County Grand Jury on Monday. He said he would seek the death penalty for the woman if she is convicted.

A quiet agreement among senators prevented a vote Thursday night on a bid to delete $90 million for Syria, whose president, Hafez Assad, has been harshly critical of the accords signed by Israel and

The $90 million for Syria is contained in an economic support fund which now al-locates $785 million for Israel, $750 million for Egypt and $93 million for Jordan. The House had voted to eliminate the money for Syria in retaliation for that country's shelling of Christian residential areas in Lebanon.

However, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who is meeting this week with leaders of several Arab nations, made telephone calls to members of the Senate Appropriations Committee requesting no inal action be taken while he was in the Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the panel's Foreign Operations subcommittee, told the Senate that eliminating or reducing Syrian aid now 'would have the dramatic effect of cutting off our secretary's legs while he's in Damascus," the Syrian capital.

'There is no doubt that the Syrian attitude toward Camp David has been negative," said Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., ranking Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

But Case said he would make no attempt to eliminate the fund now, especially since it faces the eventual review of a House-Senate conference committee

In other decisions on the bill, the Senate refused to restore a $7.5 million fund eliminated by the Appropriations Com-mittee. It was intended as the United States contribution to the United Nations University in Tokyo.

And it rejected an attempt by Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont. to reduce by $20 million an aid fund for the copper-rich African nation of Zambia.

Melcher contended the money would simply help Zambia produce more copper at the expense of underemployed copper miners. Inouye, the floor manager of the bill, said it was intended to help Zambia diversify its economy, not to increase copper production.

The overall aid bill is some $1.1 billion lower than the administration's amended budget estimates but more than $2 billion higher than a House-passed bill. Unlike the House bill the Senate version contains a $1.8 billion U.S. contribution to a special International Monetary Fund account intended to help poorer nations withstand economic shocks caused by sharply rising world oil prices since

Other sections of the bill provide funds for population planning, health, edu-cation, the U.S. contributions to international organizations, international narco ics control, military assistance grants and support funding for foreign military cred-

Banks Increase Interest Rates To Discourage Loan Seekers

By MARK POTTS
NEW YORK (AP) — Money is tight. And as a result, many banks are being increasingly picky about granting loans.

That could be bad news for the economy as a whole, for if enough people and businesses are squeezed out of the loan market, they won't have money to spend on houses, automobiles, capital goods and inventories. That could lead to the recession that many economists are predicting for next year.

The problem is most pronounced at regional banks. The recent health of the economy has people thinking in terms of expansion again, and the smaller borrowers went to regional banks for the money

The phenomenon did not hit the large commercial banks in the nation's money centers - New York, Chicago and San Francisco. The reason is that those banks' major loan customers — big busi-nesses — had enough cash on hand to finance their own expansion without looking for additional credit.

So many banks are cutting back on their loan business, attempting to discourage customers by pushing up interest rates and requiring larger down payments. They're also handing some loans off to banks with less of a credit crunch and trying to put their hands on more money.

The rising interest rates are partially a cut down the economy's galloping growth by making money harder to obtain. The Fed has been doing this by gradually raising the federal funds rate, the interest charged on funds that banks lend each other for a short period of time.

That rise in the price that banks pay for money has been passed off to bank customers. The prime rate, for example, which is what banks charge their best corporate customers, has risen from 73/4 percent to 91/2 percent since the first of the year and is expected to go still higher. The last time the prime got that high was in 1974-75 - when loan money last was

If the Fed's theory is correct, the high-er interest rates will eventually choke off enough loan business to stabilize the economy's growth. But many economists question whether the resulting cut in spending won't do more harm than good. In the meantime, banks are trying harder to come up with more money to meet the demand by stepping up advertising for deposits and raising the interest rates on some deposits. In some cases, banks are giving away gifts for new deposits.

At saving and loan associations, where money has been very tight, the situation has been eased somewhat by the issuance of six-month savings certificates that pay interest a couple of points higher than a regular savings account. regular savings account.

First Spur Going To NM Man

By GERRY BURTON Avalanche-Journal Staff

Ranching heritage - the story of livestock from free range to computerized feedlots - will be lauded and one particular contributor to its status honored today in Lubbock at a Prairie Party launching the National Golden Spur Award.

More than 1,800 ranchers, descendants of ranching families and fans of the ranch story will gather in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center to enjoy a pioneer prairie party at which Albert Knell Mitchell, a retired New Mexico rancher, will receive the prestigious award.

A gilded spur is presented each year to an outstanding member of the ranching industry at a prairie party the night before the annual ranch day festivities at the Ranching Heritage Center at Texas

The 1978 spur was donated by Watt R. Matthews of the Lambshead Ranch of Albany who is honorary chairman of the board of overseers of the Ranching Heritage Association. Future spurs from historic ranches will be selected each year

Mitchell, who was born in Clayton, N.M., when his father was running cattle and sheep on open range, was educated at Cornell University, to which he later gave its first Hereford cattle and served on its board of trustees.

A small but vocal group of Southeast Lubbock residents told city officials Thursday night it's time to quit surveying and time to start spending Community Development funds in their neighborhoods.

About 30 persons attending the Sector 2 Community Development neighborhood meeting at Posey Elementary School made plain their displeasure with the fact the federal funds have not reached

South Plains Fair To Open Saturday

"Family fund for everyone," and a lot more of it than ever before, is the word for the 61st annual Panhandle South Plains Fair which kicks off an eight-day run Saturday.

Fair Park will be bulging at the seams with all the fun of old-fashioned fairtime competition, carnival and corp-on-the-cob when exhibits open at 10 a.m. Saturdose of the latest things in modern technology for home, farm or ranch.

Even 10,500 square feet of added space in a new $65,000 exhibit building couldn't take care of the overflow of a fair production termed top-notch by general managers. er Steve Lewis.

"Without question, we have one of the best fairs in history lined up," Lewis said, adding that the crowning ingredient for a successful run - cool weather came right on schedule.

"Fair is synonymous with fall and this is great fair weather. Everybody likes to come out to the fair when it's cool."

Tickets for the outstanding lineup of country and western stars set for Fair Park Coliseum are going great, better than usual for this early, though there are than usual for this early, though there are some good seats left for all the shows: The Charley Pride Show with Dave and Sugar at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Sunday, The Statler Brothers at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Monday, the Johnny Rodriquez Show with Linda Hargrove at 8 p.m. Tuesday, The Jim Ed Brown Show with Helen Cor-nelius and Wendy Holcombe at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Eddit Rabbitt and Jerry Clower at 8 p.m. Thursday, and Mel Tillis at 8 p.m. Friday and 5 p.m. and 8 p.m.

A magician, a hypnotist, a daredevil swaypole act, a gunfight, a mime presen-tation and a contortionist are among free entertainment scheduled for fair fans.

Beginning at 6 p.m. each night, free en-tertainment will take control of the out-door stage. There will be Bob Ford's World of Magic leading the way, followed by Ruth Rubin's mime show, the Swaying Bilros, the Amarillo gunfighters, Europe's fastest hypnotist Vandermeide and a repeat run beginning at 8 p.m.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have just lost 20 pounds, which is something I've been trying to do for years. However, a problem has developed. When I'm a dinner guest at someone's home and a gooey dessert is offered and I turn it down, the hostess will loudly announce, "Oh, you and your diet! You're so skinny, it wouldn't hurt you to put on a few pounds!

Of course, all eyes are on me and I never know what to do or say. I don't like to make a big deal out of explaining that I really don't want it (nobody would believe me anyway), so I take it and eat it, and afterwards I could kick myself.

Is there a better way to handle this situation? I hate scenes.

EMBARRASSED

Dear Embarrassed: Instead of being embarrassed, be proud! Simply say, "I'm watching my calories."

And if you get any feedback about how skinny you are, let it be known that you worked hard to get that way and want to stay that way.

But if you lack the courage to stand your ground in a public confrontation, quietly accept the dessert, push it around on your plate, and leave it.

South, declarer at four hearts, took care to protect his winners while ruffing his losers, and his delicate timing delivered a close four heart contract.

With 18 points and a good five-card major, South felt his hand was too strong to open one no trump. He showed his strength with a jump in no trump at his second turn and North, with threecard heart support and a potential ruffing value in diamonds, gave his partner a choice of contracts. South selected four hearts because his diamond stopper was too tenuous.

West led the jack of spades, and when dummy came down, declarer saw five potential losers-one in trumps if the suit broke normally, three in diamonds and one in clubs. However, the club loser could be discarded on the king of spades, and the

Declarer won the ace of spades and immediately led a low diamond from his hand. East won and saw that it would not help to shift to a trump-declarer could not be stopped from getting his ruff because he was a tempo ahead. So East simply returned a spade to declarer's queen.

A second diamond was won with the ten, and West

The Slim Gourmet

"Chocolate Roll" is an elegant sweet that's usually very inelegant about calories. The cake part is fattening enough, but the filling is often more so: a thick concoction of cream, butter, sugar and other roly-poly stuff.

Today, we roll out a lower-caloried chocolate roll made with no fat nor fatty ingredients, and very little sugar. It looks and tastes as elegant as it is. Here's how

DOUBLE-CHOCOLATE ROLL

Cake: 4 eggs, separated pinch of salt 3/4 cup sugar, divided 1/2 cup self-rising cake flour, sifted 2 tbsps. cocoa, plain, low-fat 2 tbsps. plus 1 tsp. confectioners' sugar, sifted 4-serving pkg. instant chocolate pudding mix 1 cup skim milk

1/2 cup yogurt, plain, low-fat CAKE: Combine egg whites and salt; beat until stiff. Gradually beat in 1/2 cup sugar. Set aside.

Beat egg yolks until light; beat in 1/4 cup sugar; continue beating until thick, about 5 minutes. Fold volks into beaten whites.

Sift flour and cocoa together. GENTLY fold into egg mixture a little at a time. Line a 15-by 10-inch jelly roll pan with waxed paper. Spread batter evenly over paper. Bake 30 minutes at 325 degrees.

Sprinkle 2 tablespoons sifted confectioners' sugar over a cotton or linen dish towel on a flat surface. Turn out the cake on to the towel. While still warm, peel off the waxed paper and roll towel and cake together lengthwise. Cool. Unroll to fill. FILLING: Beat together the pudding mix, milk and yogurt. Mixture will be thick. Unroll cake. Spread evenly with filling. Reroll. Sift the remaining teaspoon of confectioners' sugar over the top. Refrigerate until serving time. Makes 12 servings, 145 calories each.

BLACK FOREST ROLL WITH CHER-RY FILLING — Prepare cake as directed. In blender, combine 2 cups canned cherry pie filling with 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon. Cover and puree. People Living With Radioactive Dirt Problem

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Twenty years ago, a fire station was built atop a foundation filled with what seemed harmless dirt. Years passed, and a family took a house near a lot heaped with the same dirt. Neighbors had lived quietly in the peaceful area for decades.

Now one of those neighbors has leukemia, the firemen are frightened, and the young family in the quiet brick house is eager to move away

That dirt is the residue from uranium mining, and only recently have officials determined it is radioactive and may be dangerous.

For 20 years, the field just outside Salt Lake City has spewed invisible radon gas - a product of the small traces of radium that are found in uranium ore, and which remain when it is milled.

Two decades ago, when the potential hazards were not well known, more than 2.3 million tons of these radioactive tailings were scattered over the lot by the Vitro Minerals and Chemical Co.

The firm, which processed uranium for atomic weapons, later went out of business. But the tailings are still there — and in similar piles left by firms that have gone out of business in seven other states.

Congress is debating how to help the states get rid of the piles. Meanwhile, people live with the problem. Here are four facets of it:

. . . In hearings before a congressional committee. Rep. Dan Marriott, R-Utah. said a survey projected 24 cases of lung cancer for residents in the Salt Lake City lot's vicinity, six near a site in Durango, Colo., and five at Shiprock, N.M. John Hanks, a Marriott spokesman, could offer no statistics but called that rate very abnormal.

Lyman Olson, director of the Utah Division of Health, says he is unaware of any cancer cases proven to be caused by the tailings

"There are so many factors one must take into consideration. Do they smoke? How long have they lived there? What are their genetic characteristics? Where cause cancer. "We know that to be the case."

One person caught in that uncertainty is Ander Burke, 65, who has lived for 35 years in his modest house eight blocks from the Vitro lot. Last February, he said, his doctors told him he had leukemia.

He says he cannot blame the tailings for his condition. 'But then again, it's possible," he adds. "Nobody knows.

"I only know that place is a disgrace, an ugly thing that should never have

At first, people saw the pile of tailings as just an ugly scar, the kind of ugliness to which they eventually grew accustomed.

Now property around the lot has become almost valuelesss, residents can't find buyers for their homes, and, in recent years, no new building has been allowed near the perimeter. "I don't like the idea of living here," says Pat Hatch, 29, a mother of four whose brick home is across the street from the lot.

She says she knows of three area residents who died of cancer. "I think, 'Maybe the children will get cancer, or my husband, or me.' It's constantly in the back of my mind," she says.

But it is nearly impossible for the family to move, Mrs. Hatch says 'Who would buy the house now?"

Twenty years ago, when the Vitro plant was operating, Salt Lake County did not know the tailings were radioactive. It took advantage of what seemed a bargain, and built its fire station headquarters atop a four-foot-thick layer of the dirt used as fill.

Now, the State Health Department says firemen are being bombarded with radon gas at a rate six times that permitted for uranium miners

Assistant Fire Chief Shirl Maxfield has worked in the building since it opened. He said he is concerned but "not panicking. Some of the younger guys, you'd Fire Chief Charles Paris says precipitators worth $40,000 and new ventilating equipment are being installed, and the county has promised to build a new station. Before those measures were taken, the firemen's union had threatened a

"As long as they know we're doing something about it, they're feeling better." Paris said.

Salt Lake City's is not the only problem. There are 21 other piles in Pennsylvania, Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Wyoming, Arizona and Oregon, and two bills are pending in Congress to remove them. One calls for 90 percent federal funding, the other 100 percent. The project would cost an estimated $180 million, according to Hanks. But the question is asked here: Why wasn't something done sooner?

"For one thing," says Dr. Olson, "we didn't know about their seriousness until relatively recently. The second reason - and this is where the rub has been was funding.

For years, state and federal governments squabbled over who would foot the estimated $33 million bill to remove the tailings here.

Geraldine Newport, who said her father died of cancer and that she has an 'incurable disease" that she would not specify, has lived across the street from the field since before the plant was built. She said she has often complained about the loose, uncovered tailings and the way the field attracts children. 'You can always see some kids running around in there, trying to climb that tower, poking in the dirt," she said. "I don't understand why they've waited so long to clean it up. The wind blows that stuff around all the time. Then, glancing across at the smokestack that pinpoints the field throughout the valley, she offered one bitter explanation: 'You and I both know why nothing's been done about that mess. You have to live here and so do I. But the politicians don't.'

RADIOACTIVE FIREHOUSE - Salt Lake County's fire department headquarters sits atop a four-footthick layer of dirt taken from a uranium tailings pile at the former Vitro Minerals and Chemical Co. site. Health officials say the dirt emits radioactive radon gas at a rate six times the standard permitted uranium miners. The county is installing $40,000 worth of equipment to ease the radon gas buildup and has said it will build a new station. (AP Laserphoto)

FDA Sets Guidelines For Low-Cal Foods

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government is going to assist calorie-conscious consumers who have been frustrated by so-called diet foods that may not help them shed pounds.

The Food and Drug Administration, after 16 years of deliberation, has finally defined "low-calorie" and "reduced-calorie" foods. In a regulation published today, the FDA says it will require diet food producers to meet the definitions or leave their diet claims off the label.

Issuance of the final regulation, which won't take effect until next July 1, climaxes an effort begun in 1962 to set uniform labeling standards for foods that claim to have special dietary value.

The new rule defines a "low-calorie" food as one which contains no more than 40 calories per serving and is lower in calories than the same food normally found on supermarket shelves.

For instance, the agency said celery couldn't be labeled "low-calorie" celery because all celery is low in calories.

Nancy Glick, an FDA spokeswoman, conceded the regulation doesn't define serving size which could leave a loophole for some producers to reduce the serving size on the label rather than the calories. But some segments of the industry, including canners, have set national standards for serving size.

Foods labeled as "reduced-calorie" products must meet an even more specifc standard. The FDA said a reduced-calorie food is one with at least one-third fewer calories than a similar product for which it might be substituted. And the label would have to offer the consumer ar actual comparison.

Citing another example, the agency said the label of a reduced-calorie can of peaches might say: "Artificially sweetened peaches packed in water, 38 calories per ½ cup serving, 62 percent less than Brand X peaches in heavy syrup."

Both low calorie and reduced-calorie foods will be required to carry nutrition information on their labels, including their calorie content per serving and the amounts of protein, carbohydrates and

Roger Coleman, a spokesman for the National Food Processers Association, said the industry's most immediate concern is that the deadline for compliance may create a hardship for canners, whose crop for the coming market year already is or soon will be harvested, processed labeled, packed and stored for later ship-

The House passed the airplane noise bill last week, but the Senate Finance Committee must approve it before it reaches the Senate floor. A Finance Committee spokesman, declining to be identified, said no action has been scheduled.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who was the chief Senate sponsor of the competition bill, said House action on the measure "makes it likely that this will be enacted into law this year.

The bill would give the airlines limited authority to lower fares and inaugurate service on new routes without authority of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The eight lawmakers who voted against the airline bill were Reps. Bob Stump, D-Ariz., John D. Dingell, D-Mich., Max Baucus, D-Mont., Dale Milford, D-Texas, W.R. Poage, D-Texas, Ron Marlenee, R-Mont., James Abdnor, R-S.D., and Larry at both cold and bot weather back in the good old or bad old days before techsology solved problems of discomfort from the climate. There were ways to cool homes in summer and conserve heat in winter, and hose methods are still available.

First, use energy supplies wisely. Make heating and cooling systems work efficiently and use them conservatively. Utilize other energy sources such as sun and wind, and reduce energy requirements in the home by controlling the effects of climate on the dwelling itself. Trees and other plantings will help you do all these things.

Open windows on hot days and let cool breezes in, channeled by dense hedges planted strategically. Plant leafy trees where they shade the house in summer.

You can landscape in the same fashion with trees, shrubs and evergreens. Advice is readily available. Shade trees help control climate in summer with shade umbrellas and cooling transpiration. In winter they shed leaves and let the sun come through, especially effectively on the west and south sides of the house.

Ivies planted on masonry or trellis help block out direct sun and the leaves set up convection current behind them to draw away hot air. In winter, ivy on walls exposed to wind is an insulator against heat loss from inside.

In severe cold, an evergreen windbreak on the north and west sides of the house tempers winter winds. The American Association of Nurserymen estimates twice as much fuel is needed to heat a house at an outside temperature of 32 degrees Farenhite with a wind of 12 mph as for the same temperature with wind at 3

mph. They'll save you a lot of fuel. Windbreaks generally are best on the windward side, where a double or triple row of trees will ease the wind-chill. For est results, plant the trees a distance from the house equal to about 11/2 to 21/2 times the height of the structure they are sheltering. If the building is 20 feet tall, the windbreak should be 30 to 50 feet

In summer, a chair under a tree is in a temperature as much as 8 degrees lower than the open area around it. If the same tree is shading a window from direct sunrays, the temperature inside can be 20 de-

Trees are great air washers. A beech free standing alone releases 75-100 gal-lons of water into the atmosphere during summer day. The effect has been de scribed as equal to 10 room-size air condi-tioners running 20 hours a day.

1979's Commemorative Stamps Shade Trees To Honor Different Subjects

Associated Press Writer

The U.S. 1979 commemorative stamp schedule will consist of 14 subjects plus five postal stationery items, ranging from tributes to Martin Luther King, Jr., to Albert Einstein, and from seeing-eye dogs to the 1980 Olympics.

Here is the list as provided by Postmaster General William F. Bolger: Jan. 15 a single stamp honoring Martin Luther King, Jr.; Jan. 21 - a single stamp for Robert F. Kennedy; Feb. 27 - a single stamp dedicated to John Steinbeck; March 14 - a single stamp commemorating Albert Einstein.

Other stamps announced, but without a date of issuance, are: one stamp for seeing-eye dogs, a block of four in behalf of endangered flowers, a single stamp fo-cusing attention on the "International Year of the Child," a block of four praising American architecture, a single stamp for the "Special Olympics" in recognition of athletic competition for the mentally retarded; a block of four honoring Pennsylvania toleware; a single block of four and two single stamps for the 1980 Olympic Games; a single stamp in tribute to Will Rogers and, as is customary, two single stamps in October for Commemorative postal stationery items will be issued on the following subjects: 1980 Olympic Games (one embossed stamped envelope, one aeroe and three postal cards); Veteri nary Medicine (one embossed stamped envelope); Historic Preservation (one postal card featuring the Iolani Palace in Honolulu, Hawaii); Gen. Casimir Pulaski (one postal card); George Rogers Clark (one postal card).

Bolger said that this was the complete commemorative program for 1979 and no additional subjects would be considered. Regular issue stamps, however, for 1979 will be announced at a later date

Four new stamps with designs based on "Chinese Folktales" have been issued by the Republic of China on Taiwan.

The first stamp honors Tsu Ti, who lived during the Tsin Dynasty (265-316 stamp dedicated to John Paul Jones; a A.D.). A great leader of troops, he was

Elderly Divided On Idea Of Retirement Villages

By The Associated Press

Several weeks ago, some of the readers of this column were asked to state their views on housing for the retired. The questions were addressed only to persons 55 years of age and older, since it was felt that few younger persons think specifically about their retire-

While the response did not match last year's 4,300 replies to another housing study - directed to all readers - there was a remarkable return.

The mailman brought 1,846 letters replying to the questions. Six hundred and thirty-two were from men and women between 55 and 65; 1,002 from those between 65 and 75: 199 from those between 75 and 90; and 3 from persons 90 and over. Ten did not give their ages.

There was an overlap of the figures involving the non-retired and the retired, because some of those under 65 were already retired, some over 65 were still working, and some were working part-time. But on balance, 1,242 responders were retired, 604 not retired.

Some of the letters contained interesting comments. No names will be given ecause many asked that their identities not be revealed.

As one 74-year-old woman said, "If they find out how I feel about my apartment and this place, they may not renew

The first questions were: Do you expect to seek out a retirement communi-ty? If you already are retired and live in such a place, how do you like it? Three hundred and eleven of the non-later in a community of elderly persons. Two hundred and forty-six nixed the idea. The others didn't know yet or gave answers that could not be categorized. The outstanding element of this part of the survey was that those planning to look for a retirement community made little additional comment, but those opposed were emphatically against it. Their opposition could be summed up in the words of a 59-year-old man who said, in exactly this fashion, "NO! NO! NO!" Of the 1,242 retired persons, 302 (couples were counted as one) said they lived in retirement areas, including one-story housing developments, condominiums, rental apartments, mobile parks and combinations of two or more of them. One hundred and forty-two were satisfied with their arrangements, 104 found them adequate but not quite what they had anticipated, and 56 were unhappy about the whole thing, with most of those admitting that their finances would not permit them to make any drastic changes

Here again, as with the non-retired, the minority group of retired - those dissatisfied with their housing arrangement - expressed strong views about

But one comment was hard to classify. It came from a 68-year-old woman living with her 71-year-old husband in a retire-

"Everything about the place is ideal," she said. "The weather is perfect, there's a large clubhouse, a nice golf course, shuffleboard lanes, beautiful landscaping and first-floor rooms. BUT one by one our friends get sick and die, which depresses us greatly."

credited with defeating the Northern barbarian tribes. The second stamp is dedicated to Pan Ch'ao, who lived during the Han Dynasty (25-220 A.D.) and became famous as the military governor of the Western Region. The third adhesive is for a woman, Ling Hung-yu, who was the wife of Gen. Han Shih-chung of the Sung Dynasty (960-1278 A.D). She served with paigns. The fourth stamp commemorates Tien Tan, a native of Chi State during the period of Warring States (481-221 B.C.). These stamps are available at your local stamp dealer or department.

Collectors of U.S. first-day covers who may have missed the 15-center honoring the Viking Space Program have an opportunity to obtain a special commemorative cachet cover. The Viking stamp was issued July 20 at the NASA headquarters in Hampton, Va. The cover, in full color, reproduces an enlargement of the Viking module that landed on the planet Mars. All the covers were hand-canceled at the first-day-of-issue site.

Send your request with $2 per cover to: Viking, International Stamp Collectors Society, Equitable Bldg., Hollywood & Vine, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Ethiopia, which used to produce stamps depicting Emperor Haile Selassie, now has a new form of government with Soviet backing as noted on its new stamps. A set of five honors the 60th anniversary of the Russian Revolution. Another set features designs showing a map of Africa with Ethiopia covered by a hammer and sickle, armed soldiers leading the people and the national emblem with crossed rifles.

By IRVING DESFOR Associated Press Writer

It's called The Courthouse Project, a vast photographic documentation that commissioned 24 photographers over a three-year period and produced a composite portrait of a historical architectur-al heritage of the United States: the county courthouse.

That composite is a mosaic composed of more than 8,000 negatives that is now part of our permanent archives, being donated to the Library of Congress. They portray 1,300 courthouses, more than one-third of the total number in the country, and represent the architectural ideas of community planners in each of the 48 contiguous states over a span of 250

Fortunately, we don't have to search the archives to view or study this significant area of our heritage. A selection of 360 photographs, distilled from the collection, has been published in hard and soft cover editions by Horizon Press, N.Y. It's entitled: "Court House - A Photographic Document, Edited by Richard Pare." In addition, two sets of exhibition prints, numbering 120 photographs in each set, are now touring the country after an opening at the Art Institute of Chicago. They are under the auspices of the American Federation of the Arts and the National Trust for Historic

The book has a foreword by Phyllis Lambert, the architect who conceived the idea in 1974 and directed the project in its entirety; and an introduction by Richard Pare, who assigned the 24 photographers, edited all the pictures and the book, and took many of the photographs himself.

In addition, to supplement the photos and add a colorful tapestry of information to go with them, the book includes three essays by knowledgeable authorities. The Hon. Paul Reardon, a retired jurist of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, sets the historical stage in the development of the judicial system at the county level. He cites some early-day hardships which prevented some county sheriffs from carrying out courthouse

"Not executed." was one explanation. by reason there is no road to the place he lives."

'Not executed," was another, "because the defendant's horse was faster than mine."

The course of county judicial history is marked by spectacular cases that riveted the nation's attention and, in some instances, altered history. Reardon recalls the Dred Scott Decision which divided the country on the slavery question and ultimately led to the Civil War. Other memorable cases mentioned that commanded headlines in words and photographs: The Scopes "Monkey Trial"; the Sacco-Vanzetti trial; and the Bruno Hauptmann trial for the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby. Another essay by Calvin Trillin, staff writer for the New Yorker, delves into the fascinating sidelights of characters, atmosphere and folklore of contemporary county courthouses. Finally, two architectural historians, Henry-Russell Hitchcock and William Seale, explore the significance of the local courthouse in the general context of American architec-English-born photographer Richard Pare, who supervised the entire photographic program for the project, received his Master of Fine Arts degree in photography from the Art Institute of Chicago in 1973. He taught photography in col-leges and was a Mellon Foundation lecturer in photography at Cooper Union in New York City.

After selecting the two dozen photographers to cover every section of the country, Pare briefed them on the purposes of the project and discussed the results of each shooting session as they came in, studying every set of contact prints with

"Photographers of architecture have only limited resources at their disposal, Pare says, "Much depends on the time of day and time of year. Each one has a basic choice of where to stand and what to select as significant. What you choose to include also determines the choice of what to eliminate. Often details can have great symbolism, although they are only a tiny part of a large structure."

In shooting interiors, photographers had to evoke an awareness of how it feels to walk through courthouse corridors and court rooms. Their images had to inspire viewers with a sense of being there and of recalling personal experiences from the past. Many of the photographs are straight-forward documents, but a large number are visually powerful statements due to the perception and talent of the photographer.

The Court House Project was carried out almost completely in black-and white, but the book includes 16 color prints made by Jim Dow, Geoff Winningham and Stephen Shore.

My final reaction? How much easier and pleasanter it is to view a courthouse through these photographs than to undergo the frustrations and red tape that one normally experiences when a courthouse visit is necessary.

Free Wood Available In Forests

By ANDY LANG

Associated Press Writer Q. — I clipped a story out of a magazine about where to get free firewood, but misplaced it. My brother thinks I must have read it wrong: that nobody is giving away free firewood when they can get high prices for it. Was I right? And where can one get such firewood?

A. — Presumably, you saw an item about the government's Forest Service. Under one of its regulations, anyone can get free firewood from specified national forests, which are located all over the United States. However, you must obtain a permit and must agree to cut and remove only the kind of wood specified. Get in touch with the local office of the Forest Service, It's listed in the telephone book under U.S. Government, De partment of Agriculture.

Q. - Our asphalt shingled roof was put up 19 years ago. We were told that it would last about 15 years, but we see no signs of aging. At least, none of the signs you said to watch out for a couple of months ago. Should we have the roof redone anyway? A. - If there is no excessive loss of the years had been spent in Sector 2. But residents countered that most of the federal funds have gone for improvements west of Quirt Avenue rather than east of Quirt, specifically in the area between Quirt, Guava, 19th and 16th

When Urban Renewal director Orville Alderson told the residents not to give up hope and to keep requesting needed improvements, Mrs. Louis Gil noted sarcastically, "all we have to do is beg."

"You ask us to write down what are our needs, but since the program began we're still waiting" for results, she said.

'Something's got to be done or that lake of yours (the Canyon Lakes Project) is not going to look very pretty," Mrs. Gil Residents of the Phyllis Wheatley area voiced the same frustrations as the Posey esidents. "People worked very hard last year. We recommended improvements year and got our hopes up," one Phyllis Wheatley resident commented.

Following 45 minutes of discussion, Sector 2 residents finally were surveyed again about what they thought should be done with $3.7 million in CD funds which the city will receive June 1 and what should be done with the city's share of CD funds for the next three years.

Housing rehabilitation, street improvements and enforcement of city codes pertaining to junked vehicles, weeds and

A man from the West End Addition, south of 19th Street and west of Loop 289, requested urban renewal monies for his neighborhood and additional paving. street lights and water and sewer lines. Some CD money already has financed improvements in the area.

Other suggested uses for the CD funds included a traffic signal at 29th Street and Chicago Avenue, a tree planting program and sidewalks on the Texas Tech campus.

The city of Lubbock expects to receive $27 million in CD block grants over the next six years and already has received $20.2 million in the first four years of the

Of that money 39 percent has been used for neighborhood rehabilitation and 31 percent has been spent on public improvements such as street improvements, street lighting, traffic signals and

Helping out at the van's weekend appearance will be Petty Officer 1st Class Rusty Brooks, now stationed with Lubbock recruiting, who flew with Navy intelligence more than four years on an aircraft used as a sub-hunter.

The popular Navy exhibit is stationed in Washington, D.C., and makes more than 30,000 miles a year under the guidance of Petty Officer Lynn Dockey. College campuses are his major target with state fairs on his list when the college action is slack. Among other fair offerings are the traditional Parade of Bands on Monday, Gene Ledel's Million Dollar Midway with more shows and midway booths, an independent midway, the 4-H Children's Barnyard, a gem and mineral show, a flower festival and other exhibits in the women's building, and outdoor agriculture exhibits.

A round of judging gets underway Saturday with the pigeon and poultry show and the open horse show. Barrows go before the judges Monday while cattle and sheep make the judging arena beginning Tuesday. The rabbit show begins Thursday and the 25th annual West Texas Twirling Festival and the Quarterhorse Show rounds out the fair competition.

Kicking off everything Saturday will be the 11th annual oldtime fiddler's contest, playing off in Fair Park Coliseum to couples first submitted to the treatment that has presented many of them with the daunting problem of multiple births.

The patter of tiny feet is one thing—but how do you handle the situation when the patter sounds like a stampede?

"Francoise is exhausted," said Soubise in a telephone interview. "Before the births we invested all our savings into buying me a partnership in a process-server's firm. Pamela E. McDonald of 410 Idalou Road, No. 21, was in critical condition today at Health Sciences Center Hospital with a stab wound to the chest.

According to reports, the woman was injured during a fight at her residence. Police say they have a statement from a suspect in the stabbing, but he was not taken into custody. Police were called to a home in the 2100-block of 5th Street about 2:15 a.m. today where they found a woman passed out on the couch, reports show.

The resident of the home said he was awakened by the woman when she came to his door and told him she had been raped and needed to use the phone. The woman reportedly became angered and forced her way into the house when the man said he did not have a phone.

The woman, police say, was taken to Methodist Hospital where she told officers a man with a gun forced his way into

Federal statistics show inflation increased at a rate of 12.2 percent in 1974, the year Ford entered the White House.

It had dropped to 4.8 percent in 1976, the year he left, the figures show. The annual rate of inflation currently is running at 10 percent. But the overall rate by year's end is expected to be no higher than 8 percent. The fiscal 1976 budget prepared by the Ford administration carried a deficit of $66.5 billion, an all-time record.

The public service spots for the church most likely will be run in the morning and around mid-afternoon.

The acceptance of the church's television spots by Frank Pascual, manager of the public service advertising of ABC, culminates a year-long effort by Herald of Truth Programs to achieve public service time for the church (Herald of Truth will not be mentioned in the spots.)

Barnett said competition for the public service time is tremendous, as several hundred organizations apply for it annually. For every group that is accepted, between 75 and 100 are refused. Clois Fowler, administrator for Herald of Truth Programs, said, "Though we have directed the efforts to achieve this mind-boggling breakthrough, the real credit goes to the leadership of the Broadway and University churches. Almost two years ago, they gave 'experimental' money to produce 15 television spots, principally to be used by congregations on their local stations. Everyone hoped that there might be some network possibilities, but we all recognized that our chances were very, very slim.'

Barnett said, "The spots were carefully developed. They are short enough to be used any time during the day or evening on television. They are long enough to present a Bible message people can un-derstand. They encourage listeners to visit a congregation of the church. These spots have already been in use by some

Westminster Slates Special Services

"Help Fulfill God's Purposes" will be the theme for a Mission Emphasis at Westminster Presbyterian Church Sun-The Rev. Robert D. Miller, director of the Dissision of National Mission PCUS, will be the guest speaker for the services. He will discuss "Where Does It All Begin (Christ In Us)" at 10:45 a.m. Sunday. He will speak on "Living As A Brotherhood of Christ for Others (Mutual Care)' at 6:30 p.m. Sunday At 7:30 p.m. Monday he will discuss

What Are The Challenges Before Us (Mission to the World)."

In addition to the services at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Rev. Miller will lead a seminar on "Mission Strategy" for elders from the Presbyterian churches in Area II of Palo Duro Union Presbytery. The seminar will be held Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church and will focus on "Mission Strategy of the Church-At-Large in Relation to the Local Church" and "Interpreting Mission Strategy Lo-

The Rev. Miller, a Washington, D.C., native, is a graduate of Washington and Lee University and Union Theological Seminary. He also has studied at New College in Edinburgh, cotland. He has served pastorates in Tuskegee, Ala.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Montgomery. Ala. He was moderator of the East Alabama Presbytery in 1975.

He has served on the Ad Interim Committees on the Church's Use of Her Ordained Ministry, Causes of Unhappiness and Division, and the Montreat Management Council. In Montgomery he served on the American Red Cross and Urban League Board of Directors, and the Human Rights Commission appointed by Judge Frank Johnson to see that the court order regarding Alabama prisons was carried out.

In July, 1977, the Rev. Miller was elected by the General Assembly Mission Board of the Presbyterian Church in the United States as Director of the Division of National Mission. The responsibilities of the division include Christian education; women's work; chaplains and military personnel; liaison with Stillman College, and Presbyterian School of Christian Education, Montreat Management Council, and the Joint Office of Worship (with the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.); and church development and evangelism.

He and his family live in Atlanta, Ga.

12 Students Earn Honors

Twelve students who attend Monterey Church of Christ have been inducted into the Society of Distinguished American High School Students, according to Terry Looney of the local church.

Students who were inducted include Bart Castle, Kendra Castle, Craig Cooley, Terri Dawson, Cynthia Gibson, David Hobbs, Kellye Johnson, Sharon Laird, Robert Prock, Janis Rhea, Lanis Rhea and Tim Williams. The society, which is one of the nation's high school honoraries, inducted the students because of their demonstrated excellence in scholastic leadership and civic achievement, according to Looney. The National Awards Program is sponsored by 58 colleges from across the United States and thousands of dollars in scholarship funds from these institutions are made available to society members each year. Looney was sponsor for the Monterey

Church of Christ society inductees.

The Board Room. Here the directors of the corporation make their decisions. Unless, of course, they already have made up their minds at home.

Decisions rarely wait for the man with the gavel to put the question. Conscientious people sort out the facts, weigh the merits, arrive at a decision.

In our homes we make the most important decisions affecting our lives. Here we decide the needs of our family, the values we cherish. Here we wrestle with the challenges of marriage, parenthood, commitment to volunteer service, dedication to causes we would embrace.

A local church is eager to welcome you into its membership, to provide religious education for your family.

Right here at home you'll decide your family's place in the spiritual life of the commun-

Cooking Fires Occur Frequently

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cooking left unattended is the most common cause of residential fires in the United States, according to a new government study, but more deaths and injuries occur in fires blamed on smoking.

Highlights of the study "Fire in the United States" were released today by the National Fire Prevention and Control Administration. Cooking fires were blamed for 18 percent of the blazes reported in the study, and the agency noted that of these the most common were cooking left unattended, "for example, while talking with neighbors or watching televsion.

"Although most people probably think of cooking fires as minor, they occur frequently; and the small fraction of them that are not minor caused a large number of casualties," the study noted.

Smoking and heating were each blamed for 13 percent of the residential fires, but 29 percent of the deaths and 18 percent of the injuries occured in fires traced to smoking. "For smoking-related fires, dropped, thrown, or abandoned cigarettes were the most common problems," the study reported. It noted that the deaths were most often caused when bedding and upholstered furniture were ignited.

Blazes of incendiary or suspicious origin were blamed in 11 percent of the residential cases, but these blazes caused the most property damage with 16 percent of the dollar loss attributed to fires.

Second highest in dollar loss is heatingrelated fires with 14 percent. Heating-re lated fires were blamed for 8 percent of the deaths and 12 percent of the injuries. The study reported sharp regional differences in heating-related fires between room heating equipment and water heaters, and, surprisingly, misuse of fireplaces are among the leading heating-related problems in California.

Turning to non-residential buildings, which account for nearly half of the dollar loss in fires, incendiary and suspicious fires were the number one problem accounting for between 20 percent and 25 percent of the blazes.

The study noted that the fire danger seems most severe in large cities and small towns and least severe in mediumsized cities with populations of between 50,000 and 100,000.

While chance can give any state a high fire death rate in a given year, the study listed average state death rates by category for 1974 and 1975.

With 42 or more deaths per million population, the states hardest hit by fires were Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Listed with 34 to 41 fire deaths per million were the District of Columbia, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana, New Mexico, New York, Oregon, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wyoming.

In the 26 to 34 fire deaths per million category were Arizona, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Wash-

And reporting fewer than 26 fire deaths per million were California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Kansas, New Jersey, Rhode Isand, Utah and Wisconsin.

Ten million acres of sweet sorghum could produce the equivalent to 1.5 million barrels of petroleum per day for a year, says Stephen Kresovich.

By SETH MYDANS

MOSCOW (AP) — On any particular day of the week, at any particular time of day, it is possible to look at a schedule and know what almost every 4-year-old child in the Soviet Union is doing.

If it's summer time, from 9:40 to 11:35 in the morning the child is playing outdoors under the supervision of a trained "upbringer." By 12:35 the child has eaten and laid down for a nap on a bed four feet long by three feet wide.

With one of the most massive and highly organized child-care programs in the world, the Soviet Union has freed millions of mothers for work and provided their children — Irom 2 months to 7 years of age — with a place to stay from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., or even overnight.

of age — with a place to stay from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., or even overnight.

The Soviet program, initiated in the 1920s, is one model that is being studied by U.S. educators faced with a changing American society in which more mothers are taking jobs and with a mass centrally controlled pre-school program available to all and designed to affect personality.

"We've been interested in it for a long time," says Janice Gibson, a University of Pittsburgh professor who has spent a

of Pittsburgh professor who has spent a half dozen summers here studying kindergartens

In 1976, the last year for which statistics are available, 12 million children were enrolled in 118,000 permanent pre-school establishments across the country. By consulting the "Program of Child-rearing in Kindergartens" issued by the Ministry of Education, a mother any-where in the nation can follow the activities of her child whatever the age.

And if she takes the child home before the day's program has ended, she is en-couraged to maintain the kindergarten's regimen — 6:25 p.m. supper, 6:45 p.m. playtime, 7 p.m. walk and 9:00 p.m. to bed for a 4-year-old, for example.

The pre-school system is divided into nurseries for children from 2 months to 3 years of age, and kindergartens for children from 4 to 7 years, after which they enter the first grade of elementary school.

Nursery school enrollment, for which precise figures are not available, has been slowly growing despite resistance from many parents who want to raise their own infants or who claim children easily fall ill in nurseries.

Kindergarten enrollment, after the age of 4, according to Soviet educators, is almost universal.

Pre-school education is cheap. Parents pay on a sliding scale based on their own salaries and the sizes of their families, from virtually nothing up to 12.50 rubles (about $17) a month.

Soviet figures show it costs the gov-ernment about 400 rubles ($600) a year to make up the difference in the cost of pre-

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) - Former first lady Betty Ford has been dis-charged from the Eisenhower Medical Center after undergoing facelift surgery, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Mrs. Ford, who left the hospital Tuesday, was characteristically candid about her latest hospital stay when she entered the Palm Desert facility last week for the cosmetic surgery. She said doctors would remove puffiness around her eyes and tighten the skin on her neck.

Following the surgery, Ford family spokesman Bob Barrett said, "Every-thing went real well. She's feeling great."

Last April, Mrs. Ford underwent treat-ment at the Long Beach Naval Hospital for drug and alcohol dependence. Al-though doctors said she was having a "problem with medication" prescribed to dull the pain from arthritis and a pinched nerve in her neck, Mrs. Ford said later she was "not only addicted to the medication ... but also to alcohol."

Congressmen Approve Bill To Provide Relief For Turf Growers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York turf grower, convinced that the long protective arm of the government could be stretched a bit further, waged the proverbial fight against city hall and scored a major victory.

There was a sign of relief in Anthony L. Peca's home Tuesday when the House, with neither fanfare nor debate, passed by voice vote a private bill "for the relief of Batavia Turf Farms Inc." - to the tune of $200,000. - and sent it to the Sen-

Peca, who perhaps typifies the American small businessman resigned to the notion that federal regulations only prove costly, was incensed over the fact that the Golden Nematode Act protected tomato and potato farmers, but not sod growers, from crop losses.

Nineteen months ago, acting under provisions of the nearly 15-year-old law, the Agriculture Department imposed a quarantine to prevent the spread of nematodes in shipments of products from the affected areas.

The nematode is a small yellowish worm that feeds on some crops in the Eastern United States, and eventually destroys them. Consequently, the government forced thousands of acres out of production.

Commercial tomato and potato growers have always been eligible for relief under the law if their livelihoods were harmed by infestations and the resulting quarantines

Why, Peca wondered aloud, was he being discriminated against by being excluded from the protection, which came in the form of payments for verified crop losses. Besides, he reckoned, Congress passes dozens of such "private" bills each year, so they could enact one for his Batavia Turf Farms.

Peca decided in March 1977 that forceful action was needed. He fired off letters to President Carter and Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and lobbied strenuously with members of the New York congressional delegation here.

And he caught the ear of Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y.

Conable remembered that House and Senate conferees last year had killed an duced a private bill for the "relief" of Peca and others in his predicament.

Peca's "relief" will amount to $200,000 if he can prove his case.

Reached at his home in Batavia, N.Y., Thursday night, Peca was basking in glo-

vidual like myself, in this country, really does have rights," he said in a telephone interview

"I tried to make the point that they were taking the lifeblood out of my business after 17 years," he said. "It would have been no time before I would have been snuffed out."

The bill orders compensation to Peca's firm for quarantine-related losses suffered, approximating the relief made amendment to the Golden Nematode Act available to tomato and potato growers that would have brought sod growers un- under the existing law, which covers the der its protective umbrella. So he intro- period between Jan. 1, 1977, and Dec. 31,

> No figures were available late Thursday on the total amount of benefits paid under the program, administered by the

Agriculture Department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Peca, however, winced at the thought of being the beneficiary of a government giveaway "I will have to prove every loss and damage incurred," he said.

In late 1975, Agriculture Department inspectors had discovered golden nematodes on 47 acres belonging to a potato farmer in Orleans County, N.Y. They im mediately imposed a quarantine on 102,-000 surrounding acres, including part of the 500-acre Batavia Turf Farms in neighboring Genessee County. Because of the quarantine, Peca maintained, customers in Ohio and Pennsylvania went to competitors, refusing to wait for him to secure federal approval for turf shipments.

White House Promises Milliken Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White arena. That sort of thing won't happen House has promised a quick and open inquiry into activities of a Carter family friend who acknowledges he took a $10,-000 gift for his youth programs from a businessman who wanted an appointment to talk with government officials about a huge federal grant.

White House Counsel Robert Lipshutz has been assigned, with President Carter's approval, to investigate "whether there has been any impropriety or an appearance of impropriety" in the activities Bill Milliken, Carter Press Secretary Jody Powell said Thursday.

Milliken, an Atlantan who operates non-profit programs for inner-city youths, said Thursday he had made "a mistake in judgment" in soliciting and taking the contribution from Johnstown, Pa., developer George Zamias.

"It looks bad, but it was all innocent." Milliken said. "I'm just not used to this

Executive Sports Editor

A week ago, Rex Dockery said he was tired of hearing about Southern California. He's pulling in his geography a notch.

Now, he's thinking about the first state this side of the West Coast. And he finds the football players as big at Arizona as in California.

Saturday night, the Tech fans will learn what Dockery has been studying so seriously, when the Raiders host the University of Arizona.

Gametime is 8 p.m., a change from the original time. The contest is being delayed so as to be carried live on radio.

It could be the last of a long series, a rivalry which extends back to the old Border Conference days. With its move into the Pac-10, Arizona has asked that the series not be renewed. Tech holds a 24-3-1 edge.

All Dockery can recall, however, are the last three.

"And this ball club is as good or better than the one which beat us out there two years ago," said Dockery. "They're almost as big as Southern Cal, they're good enough to be ranked among the top defensive feams in the nation."

The Wildcats will come in with a 2-0 record, having clipped Kansas State 31-0 and last week Oregon State 21-7 in an opening Pac-10 contest.

The lone TD did not come against the Wildcat defense, but via an interception.

Thus, the defenders have yet to yield a TD and have given up only 212 yards per con-On the other side of the scrimmage line, however, the Wildcats have gained 359

And this offense concerns Dockery.

Triggerman for the offense is junior Jim Krohn who has been playing regularly since his freshman season. In the past, the Wildcats have depended on the pass, but this year, their split-back offense has generated enough ground yardage that Krohn has had to throw only 19 times in the two games.

When he has thrown, he has been effective, 13 completions for 165 yards.
But, the work of 195-pound Larry Heater has been enough to make the passing weapon only secondary. Heater, a transfer from Dixie JC in Utah, has picked up 240 yeards in the two games.

Tres Adami, who played most of the USC game, will again be at quarterback. Dockery has been working for two weeks on generating more offense, after USC fenders limited Tech to only 161 yards total offense, only 51 of that or the ground. Weatherall will be the starter at tailback, but Dockery has indicated that he will sophomore Don Earl and freshman Kenneth James from Dunbar at the position. Transfers have added to the Wildeats' strength, as cornerback Reggie Ware safety Dave Liggins came in from Cincinnati, where Arizona coach Tony Mason to erly was head man. Starting defensive tackle Cleveland Crooby transferred from I due, and Heater and starting center Norman Katnik are juco transfers.

Saturday night's game will be the Raiders' last tuneup before start of a Conference play. On Sept. 30, the Raiders will entertain the University of Te

AHS Hands Westerners Third Loss

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff If a vote were taken rating Rusty Talbot as a human being, chances are he would wind up somewhere between awright and a good 'ole boy.

He's never been known as one to kick the wife or bite the dog. If the truth came out, he's probably never taken Knute Rockne's name in vain.

But still, there's someone up there that doesn't like him. Or so it seems.

That was apparent Thursday night at Lowrey Field as Talbot's Lubbock High Westerners put up a gallant showing before falling to the Amarillo Sandies 24-7. The loss was Lubbock's third straight, while Amarillo climbed to a 1-2 mark. Take away a few bad breaks-namely a blocked punt that was returned for a TD, a meaningless sixer at the end of the game, plus another score with only 30 second left in the second quarter-and it would have been a whole new ballgame. "We've still just got a lot of young people out there,' said Talbot, as he walked dejected off the Lowrey turf. "They are

By listening to the speeches from the various city high school football coaches during a press conference at the Coppercreek Mine restaurant, it's not hard to tell the winners from the losers.

Estacado's Louis Kelley, Dunbar's Van Jefferson, and Monterey's James Odom kept their speeches brief. Each of these coaches has seen his team on the short side of the scoreboard this season.

But Coronado mentor Jack Quarles is still getting a kick out of the press conferences. The Mustangs have won both of their contests of Tahoka, for those counting.

For the past five years, the team has played a squad of Texans. And this year is no different. So tonight the Destroyers will go against the Lubbock Christian High Eagles, hoping to notch their first win ever .

The cultural event is set for 8 p.m. at the Lena Stephens field. And, according to head coach George Harper, the game against Mexico City's finest is "the biggest thing that's ever

'Our kids not only think they're defending the honor of Lubbock," confided Harper, "but also Texas." How about the U.S. of A?

"Well, maybe not that much."

But there is a lot of national pride, he pointed out. For awhile though, it appeared the game, which pits 47 all-stars from Mexico City's eight military schools against LCHS, was about to crash before it got off the ground. It seemed an airline strike forced the group to alter their plans

Wednesday afternoon. So the team bypassed the commercial airlines and chartered a plane. The game must go on.

They said they were going to get here one way or another," said Harper. "And that's exactly what they did."

HOWSER LEAVES

NEW YORK (AP) — Third base coach Dick Howser will leave the New York Yankees at the conclusion of this season to become baseball coach at Florida though. State University, it was announced Wednesday. A 1958 graduate of Florida State, Howser twice won All-America honors there. He spent 18 years in the major leagues, eight as an infielder with Cleveland, Kansas City and New York, and the last 10 as a coach with the Yankees. He succeeded Frank Crosetti as the Yankees' third base coach following the 1968 season.

overturned Snyder 32-8 in their opener and then aced El Paso Austin 32-6 last weekend.

Plainview, meanwhile, was running away with games against Lubbock Estacado and Amarillo Tascosa.

"I don't know much about the teams that they've played," Bartosh said. 'But I'd imagine Estacado is a good ball team if they beat Lubbock like that (27-0) and Tascosa has always been tough."

If they were tough, the Bulldogs didn't seem to notice. Plainview rolled over Estacado 40-6 and then walked past Tascosa

But Bartosh knows what it's like to be the underdogs. He was the coach of the University of Texas at El Paso when everyone in the Western Athletic Conference looked forward to having an afternoon off against the Miners. Things are turning around at Lee

"We've had a lot of inexperience," la-mented Bartosh. "We've had some problems with our kicking game and things like that. We had only two offensive and two defensive starters back from last year, but we feel like we'll be able to go in there and give them a game.

"They do have an awesome offense. They're a big play football team. All three of the backs have been breaking them, you can't overplay one or the other two will kill you.

"We've seen them on films and they look like they're executing real well. De-fense-wise, people have been moving the ball on them but they've not been able to score.

Among other interesting games a pair of preseason No. 1s will face off. Clovis, the defending state champ and the heavy Class AAAA favorite in New Mexico, will be hosting Amarillo Palo Duro, picked Palo Duro, meanwhile, is 2-0, but just barely. It also enjoyed an easy opener, stomping Hereford 28-0, but last weekend it could only eke out a narrow 3-0 victory over Dumas.

In Class AA, preseason favorite Tahoka will be back in action tonight after a night off last weekend. It will be taking on Dimmitt in Tahoka.

A couple of undefeateds will be facing off in the top Class A game this weekend. Seagraves, 2-0, will host Lorenzo, 1-0-1.

And in Class B, Wilson, a 40-0 winner over Ropes in its last outing, will host 2-0 Amherst in what should be a fine game.

Staggering Cards Limp Into Dallas

By The Associated Press

As recently as last season, you could count on a meeting of the St. Louis Cardinals and Dallas Cowboys to go a long way in determining whether either club would be in or out of the National Football League title chase.

This year, though, people are wondering whether the Cardinals are in or out of the league.

The Cowboys, shocked 27-14 last Sunday by Los Angeles, nevertheless are rated one of the National Conference's powerhouses, a preseason pick to make it back to the Super Bowl - and favorites by more than two touchdowns to demolish St. Louis Sunday in Texas Stadium.

Sunday's other games are Los Angeles at Houston, Cleveland at Pittsburgh, Baltimore at Buffalo, Miami at Philadelphia, New Orleans at Cincinnati, the New York Jets at Washington, Denver at Kansas City, Detroit at Seattle, Atlanta at Tampa Bay, Green Bay at San Diego, San Francisco at the New York Giants and, at night, New England at Oakland. Monday night's game is Minne-

The Cards, East Division champions in 1974 and 1975 and a 10-4 runnerup in 1976 before sagging to 7-7 last year, are staggering around under first-year pro Coach Bud Wilkinson, winless in three games and the second-lowest scoring team in the league, a shocker considering they were among the most explosive

"We are a disappointed football team," said the 61-year-old Wilkinson, a legend in the college ranks at Oklahoma. "Sure, the schedule is tough, but the

"We've had some injury problems. But you can't look at those two factors and say that's why we haven't won. We haven't won because we still have not played with the intensity we should have. We've lost because we've dropped passes and missed tackles

Tom Landry, Dallas' coach, thinks that under those dismal numbers lie the same old Cards. "I see no difference in attitude and pursuit. They are a hardhitting team. I look at the Cardinals and I see all-out effort. We've got to hit 'em fast. I'm still not worried. We can look awful bad but we also can look awful

Los Angeles, which looked awfully good in shutting down running back Tony Dorsett of the Cowboys last Sunday, takes its unbeaten record into the Astrodome with the intention of doing the same thing to Earl Campbell, the Oilers' league-leading rusher.

Cleveland, which hasn't won in Pittsburgh since 1969, is 3-0 along with the Steelers, so the winner of that game will own first place in the American Conference East. The only other unbeaten teams are Chicago, first in the NFC Central, and Washington, the surprise leader in the NFC East, one game ahead of the Cowboys and Giants.

Buffalo, Cincinnati and San Francisco, along with the Cardinals, are winless

Oilers Picked To Upset Rams

Associated Press Sports Writer It is kind of early in the 16-game National Football League season for showdown games, but Sunday's test between Cleveland and Pittsburgh certainly qualifies.

The Steelers, who lead the conference in total defense and lead the league in rushing defense, are favored in this one because of their record at home, especially against AFC Central opponents. Since the division was created in 1970. Pittsburgh has a 22-2 record against Cleveland, Houston and Cincinnati. What's more, the Steelers have won eight straight at home against the Browns since 1969, when Three Rivers Stadium, where the Steelers play these days, was nothing more than an architect's sketch.

Upsets continue to bedevil the pickers. They took their toll last week, causing a 9-5 log and season's figures of 25-17 and 595. Six hundred, here we come.

The picks:

Steelers 31, Browns 14 Regardless of the record, the Browns simply aren't in Pittsburgh's class quite yet and the Steelers will let them know it. emphatically Oilers 20, Rams 17 Upset Special. Los Angeles is ripe for a letdown after stunning Dallas last week.

and Houston can pull it off, especially at home in the Astrodome

Raiders 27. Pats 20 Oakland gets home at last after three games on the road and the Raiders won't be perfect hosts for New England, still wondering what happened last Monday night against Baltimore.

Redskins 21, Jets 20 Washington should prevail, but not by much. The 'Skins are not as good as their 3-0 record indicates and the Jets are not as had as their loss to Seattle last week indicates. Are they?

Cowboys 34, Cards 10 Playing Dallas would be a tough enough task for St. Louis. Playing the Cowboys after they lost last week makes it even more difficult.

Bucs 14, Falcons 10 If they can beat Minnesota on the road, the Tampa Bay Bucs ought to be able to handle Atlanta at home

Local Harriers Set First Meet Today

Curtis Conaway will put his eight race unbeaten streak on the line today when the high school cross country track season gets underway at Mae Simmons Park.

The meet, which will pit a squad from the five Lubbock high schools against a team from Brownfield, begins at 4 p.m.

During last year's competition, Conaway won eight straight meets. However, at the regional and state competitions, the Monterey senior, placed second, trailing the state champion Kenny Schmidt of El Paso Austin.

Schmidt is gone now, leaving Conaway as perhaps the top harrier in the state.

The meet today begins a seven event schedule for the team headed by coach Jon Omdahl, winding up Nov. 11 at the district competition here.

According to Omdahl, the prospect for an outstanding high school track season for the locals is very good, maybe even

Tech Golfers Place Ninth

At Tourney OKLAHOMA CITY (Special) -Texas Tech finished ninth of 18 teams in the Oklahoma City All-College Golf Tournament.

Oklahoma State won the tournament with an 851 total. Texas was third at 861, TCU eighth at 871, and Tech ninth with 873.

Greg Jones led the Raiders with a 72 Friday and a 213 total

Teammate Dennis Northington had a 73-218, Mel Callender 76 -221, Larry Seligmann 77-222, Mark Graff 78-223, and Randy Waterhouse 84-228.

The Southwest Conference scatters from the Pacific to the Atlantic Saturday in search of intersectional football glory, but the oddsmakers figure such ambition will get the nine league schools more lumps than laurels.

Only four SWC schools remain unbeaten and three of them are ranked in The Associated Press Top Ten Poll.

The unbeatens are No. 2 Arkansas, No. 6 ranked Texas, No. 9 ranked Texas A&M and unranked Southern Methodist.

Only four of the SWC teams were favored. Arkansas was a 19-point pick over Oklahoma State, Texas was a four-touchdown selection over Wyoming, Texas A &M was a 16-point choice over Boston College and Houston was a 17-point selection over Utah.

Southern Methodist, a upset victor over Florida last week, was a 17-point underdog to powerful Penn State.

In other games, Oregon was a five and one-half point pick over Texas Christian, Arizona was a two and one-half point selection over Texas Tech, Kentucky was a seven and one-half point selection over Baylor, and Oklahoma was a whopping five touchdown choice over Rice.

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz said the Razorbacks could get a warm reception in Stillwater, Okla. Saturday afternoon.

FIGHT MONEY

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Muhammad Ali and Leon Spinks split $7 million. But Lucien Joubert, who refereed their heavyweight championship bout here last Friday, got $950 for 15 rounds. "It was such a historic event, I would have done it for nothing," said Joubert, who called Ali the winner in a unanimous decision. Jourbert said that in the final rounds, Ali was whispering, "I got you beat," to Spinks in the clinches.

"Playing in Stillwater has been extremely difficult for Arkansas in the past," said Holtz. "OSU has a defense that has great overall quickness.' Texas plays the school where Fred Akers was the coach until he answered the call to become the Longhorn mentor. "I expect they'll be all juiced up when they come in here," said Akers. The Texas Aggies, who had an off week after an opening victory over Kansas, will be trying to inflict revenge on Boston College which shocked Coach Emory

Bellard's troops 32-24 at College Station SMU Coach Ron Meyer will carry 25 freshmen into the Nittany Lions den at

"They think they can win and I hate to tell them any different," said Meyer.

Texas Tech had an open week to prepare for its home opener and Coach Rex Dockery said "I was pleased that we were able to throw a scare into Southern Cal. I think our young players gained some needed confidence. Our games with Arizona the last three years have been wild. It seems like there are always a lot of points scored in our games.'

Slick Watts Signed By Houston Rockets

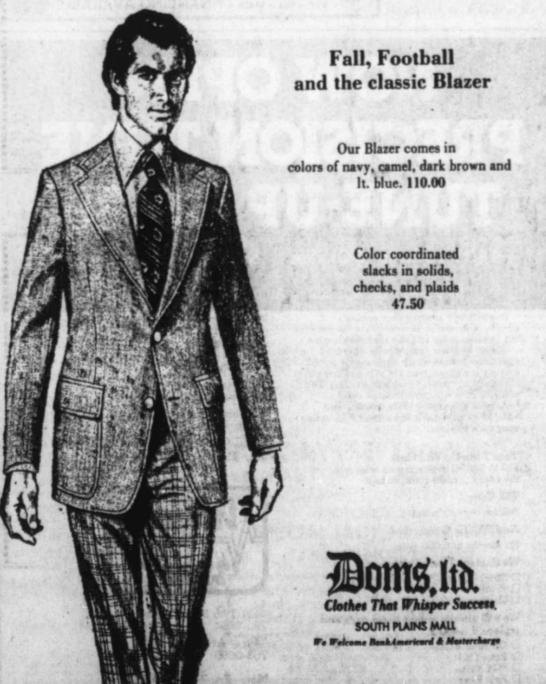

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets acquired Thursday the contract of guard Slick Watts from the New Orleans Jazz in exchange for Houston's 1981 first round draft choice.

Watts fills a vacancy created when Mike Newlin broke a right hand bone in a Monday practice session and will be out six weeks or more.

The 6-foot-1, 175-pound Watts was with Seattle four seasons before being ac-quired by New Orleans last January in exchange for New Orleans' 1981 first round draft choice.

In the 1975-76 season Watts became the first player to win league titles for both assists and steals,

Capture Marathon 3-2

By The Associated Press The Chicago Cubs called on the reserves, but still couldn't stop the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Despite the use of a National League record-tying 27 players Thursday, the Cubs were found lacking in the defensive area and as a result dropped a 3-2, 14-inning decision to Pittsburgh.

"It was just a typical Pirate battle," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, whose Pirates have been winning close games all year to stay in contention in the hot National League East race.

Pittsburgh's four-hour, 40-minute marathon victory moved the Pirates within 11/2 games of the Philadelphia Phillies, who were rained out at Montreal Thurs-

"We've been inspired all year and hanging in there all year like this," Tan-ner said. "There's no more inspiration from this than from any other win.'

This latest Pirate victory was fashioned with the help of Matt Alexander's running and two wild throws by the Cubs. Alexander, a pinch-runner, scored the PITTSBURGH CHICAGO winning run in the 14th when he stole second and continued home on a pair of poor throws on the same play.

"It was a gamble," said Alexander. "I made it safe and we won the ballgame. I figured the first pitch would be a pitchout. On the second pitch, I took off.'

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Diego Padres beat the San Francisco Giants 5-1; the Houston Astros blanked the Atlanta Braves 2-0 and the St. Louis Cardinals took a 6-2 decision over the New York Mets.

Pinch-hitter Rennie Stennett started the Pirate rally in the 14th with a walk off reliever Bruce Sutter, 8-10, and was replaced by Alexander. With Frank Taveras at bat. Alexander took off for second, continued to third when catcher Dave Rader's throw went into center field and kept going when center fielder Bobby Murcer's throw got by third baseman

Rodney Scott. The 27 players used by the Cubs tied an NL record set Sept. 13, 1974 by Philadelphia in a 17-inning game against St. Louis. The Cubs and Pirates used a total

Padres 5, Giants 1

Gaylord Perry, who turned 40 last Friday, became the first NL pitcher to win 20 games this year as San Diego beat San Francisco.

Jerry Turner singled home two runs as the Padres broke open a close game with a four-run seventh. Gene Richards, who went 4-for-4, and Gene Tenace added RBI singles in the inning.

Perry, who last won 20 games in 1974 while pitching for the Cleveland Indians, was removed in favor of Rollie Fingers after pitching four-hit ball for seven innings. Perry, 20-6, retired the last 10 batters he faced, and 18 out of the last 20.

Astros 2, Braves 0 Ken Forsch pitched a five-hitter and struck out 10 while establishing a personal high with his 10th victory of the season as Houston blanked Atlanta.

Forsch, 10-6, walked only one and allowed only one Atlanta runner to reach third base. Phil Niekro, 19-16, absorbed the loss.

A leadoff single in the sixth inning by Jeff Leonard and Jose Cruz's RBI double gave the Astros a 1-0 lead. Houston added an insurance run in the seventh on singles by Bruce Bochy and Julio Gonzalez and a run-scoring single by Leonard.

Cardinals 6, Mets 2 John Urrea combined with Buddy Schultz on a four-hitter and belted a tworun single to lead St. Louis over New

Nothing Changes In AL East As Yanks, Boston Both Win

The New York Yankees have the Boston Red Sox on an electric treadmill, and gime it's been a couple of Yankee right arms turning on the switch.

Catfish Hunter started and Rich Gossage finished in a story that has been repeated numerous times since Hunter came off the disabled list in the middle of

And as been their custom since the end of July, when Bob Lemon became the manager, the Yankees won. This time they beat Toronto 7-1 as Hunter and Gossage combined on a five-hitter Thursday night. The Red Sox, who have been winning of late — four of the last five games - beat Detroit 5-1 but went nowhere because of the Yankee victory.

With each team having nine games left, the Yankees lead the Red Sox by two games in the American League East,

"I felt too good. I thought I was going to throw it past the first hitter," said Hunter, who gave up a leadoff homer to Rick Bosetti and just three other hits in six innings. Gossage, who has two wins and seven saves in his last 11 appearances, worked three innings of one-hit ball for his league-leading 24th save.

"I felt like Sandy Koufax, I got the ball anywhere I wanted." said Hunter

The only similarity between Hunter and Koufax in June was that Koufax's sore arm ended his career and Hunter seemed to be going the same route. But a miracle shoulder maniuplation treatment has Hunter, 11-5, throwing like the Cy Young winner of old. He's won eight of his last nine decisions.

"We don't have to turn it on," said the inspirational Hunter. "It's going just like

Urrea, 49, who entered the game with a 5.64 earned run average, permitted just a one-out single to Doug Flynn in the fifth inning and struck out four and walked three in seven innings. Schultz pitched the last two innings, allowing a run in the ninth on a triple by Lee Mazzilli and single by Tim Foli.

Loser Craig Swan, 8-6, allowed all six Cardinal runs in his seven innings, but only the first three were earned. Ted Simmons smacked a two-run triple for the Cardinals in the first inning.

LCC Drops Contest To Hardin-Simmons

Tonya Cane scored 15 points Kim Binson and LeAnn Long each had 14 as Hardin-Simmons defeated Lubbock Christian College in women's volleyball action Thursday night.

Hardin-Simmons defeated Lubbock Christian College 12-15, 15-5, 15-6, 10-15, Cheryl Skaggs led the Lubbock Christian scoring effort with 13 points.

The win evens Hardin-Simmons record at 4-4. The loss drops Lubbock Christian College's mark to 43.

Lubbock Christian will be back in action tonight when they travel to Abilene to play McMurry College. The action is slated to get underway at 6 p.m.

Les Moss, a successful manager in their minor league system, will take over the team next year as the replacement for

Ralph "The Major" Houk. Houk, in his fifth season with the Tigers and 40th in baseball, announced his retirement Thursday night at a news conference shortly before Detroit's 5-1 loss to the Boston Red Sox. It will take effect at the end of the season.

"I finally came to the conclusion it's time for me to go fishin'," said the 59year-old Houk, who has a home in Pompano Beach, Fla.

The Tigers, officially eliminated from the race Thursday, are fifth in the American League East with an 81-71 record. They are 111/2 games out of first. Last year they wound up fourth, but at the same point they were 71-81 and 221/2 games behind.

On Oct. 11, 1973, - after 35 years in the New York Yankees organization, 11 as manager - Houk took over a Tigers team of aging veterans, holdovers from the 1968 World Series championship team. He suffered considerable fan abuse while Detroit built from scratch with players from its farm system.

General Manager Jim Campbell, with Houk at the news conference, said Moss - manager at Evansville, Ind., of the Class AAA American Association worked in the minors with 18 of the 28 current Tigers.

You could go and on and on and say this year we're just this far away (from a championship). It's good to go away happy." Houk said in his office after the

"She wouldn't put pressure on me," he said. "But I knew what she wanted me to do ... The longer I stay the more chance something would happen health-wise to me or my wife." However, he said he had a physical recently and his health is excellent.

"It's so good I didn't have that as an excuse," said Houk, who had his contract renewed in 1976 with "an open end." He will remain on the payroll as a "consultant," he said with a smile. "What that means I don't know.'

If the summers get hot in Florida, "I can always come back and watch some games from the stands," he said. Then, alluding to Detroit boo-birds, said, "They can't second-guess me in the stands.

"I have no regrets. Baseball has been good to me," said Houk, who started his career as a catcher in 1939 at Neosho of the Arkansas-Missouri league, hitting 286. He was a backup catcher with the Yankees in the late 1940s and early '50s.

"You felt like you were going to make every putt you had," said Dave Eichel-berger after posting a 6-under-par 66 that gave him a share of the first-round lead Thursday in Napa's $200,000 tournament.

Ed Sneed, another of the leaders, also had that feeling — especially after he made a 65-foot putt for an eagle 3 on the 13th hole of Silverado Country Club's 6,-481 South course.

"The thing that set up the round was my putting on the back nine. I played it in 6 under," said Sneed, who won the tournament here in 1973. "It's unbelievable how much the course has improved.
It's never been in bad shape, but it's much better now than it ever has been."
Rex Caldwell and Jay Haas were the other tour regulars to open with 66s and share the lead on the opening day that saw 78 golfers, over half the field, break par on Silverado's North and South courses, both par 72.

The North course is almost 300 yards longer and was playing quite a bit tough-er. A foursome at 67 included just one player, Eddie Pearce, from the North course and three who played the South and its lush greens - Pat Fitzsimons, Bob Zender and Pat McGowan

HY GARDENER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Q: Is Lauren Tewes of "Love Boat" underplaying herself s a floor. He'd respond to his name and then stumble back 100 feet sexpot? - John L., Jersey City.

A: Yes. "I really don't see myself as a sexy lady," Lauren says. "Twe never been a glamour girl. My focus has always been on acting, not looks. Suzanne Somers is a lot sexier than I am," she told writer Bob Lardine. "And do you know what? I don't care!" Miss Tewes, who's been seen on "All in the Family," "Charlie's Angels," "Starsky and Hutch," etc., declares: "You don't have to be a sex symbol to succeed in this business. I intend to continue acting til I'm 80!"

Q: About what percentage of crimes are committed by those under 18? - Mrs. D. Sentor, Denver.

A: About 45 percent of the offenders were under 18, we were told by Clarence Kelley before he left the FBI. About 19 percent involved persons under 15. We assume the yearly ratio hasn't changed much since then.

Q: I've always wondered what our highly-paid and respected senators do during the endless hours of those long and stupid tillbusters. — Shelley R., Ornaha, Neb.

A: Sen. William Proxmire captured one such scene this way: 'The setting was the old Supreme Court chamber, now used as a hearing room about 100 feet from the Senate floor. The senators were snatching a fitful night's sleep because the Southerners had decided to filibuster a civil rights bill.

"The senators had to be around and awake to answer to their names during a quorum call. A senator would sleep for an hour or two, then awaken to the loud, raucous ringing of two persist-ent buzzers, put on his clothes, and stumble 100 feet to the

to his cot to snatch another couple of hours before the next call. The effect of sleeplessness on disposition, efficiency and cooperation," Sen. Proxmire added, "was evident. A few claimed their health was being undermined. This was usually expressed as concern about the health of some other senators - some of the 'older men.'

(Footnote: Lyndon.Johnson (then the majority leader of the Senate) vowed he would hold the Senate in continuous 24-hour sessions for six consecutive days to hammer that same bill through. Johnson won. And the U.S. received its second major

Q: There was once a movie series patterned after a comic strip called "Dagwood and Biondie." Can you refresh my memory and tell me who played the two characters? Thanks. — Susan Boege, Omaha, Neb.

A: Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton.

Postcard of the Week: From Roy D., Seattle: "If you want to know what could be considered the 'oldest' movie of all time made before 1895 - you'd have to say 'Fred Ott's Sneeze.' Its full title was 'Edison's Kinetoscopic Record of a Sneeze, Jan. 7, 1894.' It was the first film to be copyrighted.'

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That:" care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 11748, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

"It's a never-ending search." A sigh escaped Miss Winant, a short, pleasant native of Worcester, Mass. She oined NBC in July, having spent the last three years scouting talent and producing at the Children's Television Workshop. She's a veteran scouter, having done that 11 years at CBS. Her career, both in casting and producing, goes back to the Golden Age of TV in the 1950s, when she broke in with "Studio One."

During her CBS tour - in which she okayed the acclaimed cast of the "Mary Tyler Moore Show" - it still was true one had to beat away actors with a furled agent, so many thespians sought work.

Not so, now, she says: "Because of the way television has changed, people don't want to commit to a series. I find that astonishing, since they can become multimillionaires in five years."

Miss Winant competes against CBS' Jean Guest and ABC's Pam Dixon — the latter once was her secretary - in snagging actors. She has several theories why emoters enjoy a buyer's market these

Four New TV Shows To Debut

By JOAN HANAUER NEW YORK (UPI) — Everything is "Apple Pie" now that "Mary" is back, but "Who's Watching the Kids?" Not the "American Girls," I hope.

Four new shows make their debuts this weekend to wind up the new program premieres, with top interest inspired by "Mary," the comedy-variety show Mary Tyler Moore is doing for CBS starting Sunday at 7 p.m.

As Mary herself says in the show's opening, when you see her singing, dancing, being funny, the first thing you'll say will be, "Gee, what did she do to her

It's short and shaggy, and Mary remains a dynamite looking lady - aided by nine costume changes - in a show stressing comedy over variety, with the help of an attractive comedy troup. Mary gets to sing and dance, which is okay, but her big asset remains her personality.

In a medium in which variety arouse as much audience enthusiasm as mumps "Mary" stands a better chance than most. If you can't stick around for the entire opening show, watch at least the first ten minutes to catch the Ed Asner Dancers. Those who don't switch to "Ba tar Galactica" also will be rewarded with Carl Reiner's tribute to Mary's first 25

Another refugee from a dead series -Rue McClanahan who played Vivien on "Maude" — opens on ABC Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in "Applie Pie."

The time is 1933, the place Kansas City, Mo., and Miss McClanahan plays Ginger-Nell Hollyhock, who lives with blind and belligerent Grandpa Hollyhock (Jack Gilford) and her two children. She can't make the mortgage payment, so she advertises for a family head and winds up with Dabney Coleman. "Mary Hartman" fans will remember him as Meryl Jeeter.

The concept of a want-ad family so promising - but in execution the plot is as novel as an "I Love Lucy" rerun (about the mistaken identity of a bankr ber) and comedy revolves around Miss McClanahan's imperfect intuition. "Who's Watching the Kids?" bows in on NBC tonight at 7:30 p.m., a toneddown version of the "Legs" pilot that ran last spring. The show takes place in Las Vegas, and the kids are Scott Baio (Fonzi's cousin Chachi on "Happy Days") as wiseguy Frankie Vitola, 15, and Tammy Lauren as Melissa, age 9, IQ about 199.

They are being taken care of by their respective showgirl sisters, who are roommates. Hefty comedienne Marcia Lewis, who was Frankie's mother in the pilot, has been demoted to landlady.

The opening episode has the showgirls inviting a newscaster (Larry Breeding) to dinner to inviegle him into tutoring Frankie. He and his hefty cameraman (Jim Belushi) steal the show — the part that's worth stealing. The ending is amate beyond belief.

Then there's "American Girls," the CBS jiggle show about two women researchers for a television magazine show. In the opening episode that airs Saturday at 8 p.m., they get mixed up with foreign agents in Reno, Nev.

Watching the kids is better than watching "American Girls."

In format, the production is identical to several other recent hits which restored bygone black melody to popular acclaim, such as "Bubbling Brown Sugar" and the current smash, "Ain't Misbehavin."

Clever staging, a nice feel for contrast and a dozen incredibly energetic and versatile performers generate all the excitement anyone could ask, without the slightest trace of a story line.

The toetapping melange frisks from Blake's initial piece, "Charleston Rag" (1899) to "Hot Feet" (1958). Included inevitably are such greats as "I'm ilust Wibl About Harry," the poignantly beautiful "Memories of You" and "Shuffle Along."

By VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Twenty years ago Eddie Albert was a voice in the wilderness predicting ecological imbalance and environmental disaster, long before it became fashionable.

Now that there is little enough remaining wilderness, Albert continues to plug away at saving humanity from itself. He makes speeches, works with government agencies and financially supports environmental groups.

The white-haired actor is a board member of Meals for Millions and Freedom From Hunger. He's a consultant for the International Biomass Institute.

Every moment he can spare from his movie-television career is devoted to the cause. His is a familiar face in Washington at the Community Services Adminstration where he works for legislation on

Albert says famine is wiping out millions of human beings a year in parts of Asia and Africa and warns that even the United States faces a terrible food crisis within the next five years.

A quiet, determined zealot, Albert is a diehard humanist who spends a small fortune on travel in pursuit of awakening people and governments to replenish natural resources and pioneer new means of providing protein for the world.

At heart he seems to realize he is fighting a losing battle. Still, Albert persists in sounding the alarm in addition to working at realistic programs.

For instance, he flies to Hawaii once a month for three or four days to work as a consultant with Art Lowe, Inc., which farms several thousand acres on Oahu.

Because Albert's primary concern now is with famine and worldwide erosion of topsoil, he is vitally interested in Lowe's acres of leucane forests, a fast-growing tree which produces high-protein leaves and a root system which holds topsoil extraordinarily well.

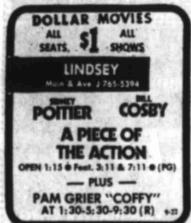

Lowe's is also experimenting with 100 acres of pools to farm prawns. He says sea life produces several hundred percent more protein per acre than cattle or oth-

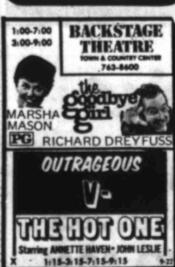

"I helped produce a bioagricultural method to increase Lowe's corn yield by 25 percent," Albert said. "But corn has a fraction of the protein that can be found in high grade fish protein.

"New sources of fish protein are vitally important. Because poor people around the world are suffering from protein deficiency, we are watching millions of children being born with brain deficiencies.

"Pregnant women in their third and fourth month must consume a lot of protein at a time when the brain and nerve tissues of the fetus are being developed. Without protein millions of kids are coming into the world retarded.

"That's why I work as a liason between Lowe and the Community Service Ad-ministration which is rebuilding devastated areas like Appalachia."

who give their names, and little else, to good causes, has educated himself on the subject and works actively to bring about change. He receives little publicity for his and freeways.

"These problems have to be worked at," he said. "It takes more than just blue sky talking. I go to Washington to keep legislators and bureaucrats informed of our progress and how to go about reaching realistic solutions.

Almost all good concepts go down the drain for lack of communication. I am on the phone every morning for an hour or two talking to people in power in Washington. I'd like to make a movie on soil erosion and famine if only to show it to a half-dozen influential senators who could bring about change.

"In the next 20 years the world will lose one-third of its arable land at a time when the world population is doubling. Disaster is inevitable.

000 100-acre farms a year. That's a million acres a year. We're losing almost as much to housing developments, industry

'The dust bowl of the southwest in 1933 is now happening in the midwest where topsoil is washing into the Mississippi river and being blown away by winds. When this country was settled the topsoil averaged 18 inches in depth. Today it's only nine inches and it's disappearing fast.

"As a result water tables are drying up, killing off wildlife and making it almost prohibitively expensive to sink deeper and deeper wells.

"Food crops, grass and trees grow only in topsoil. When that goes, we, the human race, go too. "When famine strikes people begin to listen to dictatorial leaders which leads to war. And in this day and age that

Albert never raises his voice when he speaks of Armageddon. But he sees hope because he personally has accounted for some reversals in the ecology.

"Ten years ago I saw the California pelican disappearing because DDT and other chemicals were affecting pelican eggs shells, making them brittle," he said.

"I joined the war against DDT. And this morning when I was jogging on the beach I saw a good many pelicans. The population is coming back.

Serkin shaped the soft parts of the "Emperor" with care and feeling and his playing had force in the strong parts. The pianist, who took American audiences by storm at his debut here in 1935, was unusually expressive with his body, too. His hands flew up, as fists, after some attack notes. Ashley Putnam, from England, also made a successful debut in this city as Traviata last Friday, with the New York City Opera. Both women are young, pret-ty and slim, with tiny waists. Where Miss Putnam seemed 18 and a bit of a debutante, however, Miss Moldoveanu seemed 28 and more mature.

JESSE ARTURO GARZA

Garza Named Principal At Junior High

Jesse Arturo Garza, 33, has been named the new principal of Matthews Junior High. Garza has served as assistant principal at the northside school

He will replace E.G. Nunez as Matthews' top administrator. Nunez has accepted the position of administrative assistant to the superintendent of the Victoria Consolidated Independent School Dis-

The Lubbock school board passed a resolution commending Nunez's service here. Nunez has been with the Lubbock public schools for 11 years, with assignments at Lubbock High, Estacado High and central administration. Last year, he chaired a committee on the schools' role in preventing juvenile delinquency.

Nunez has been the Matthews principal for two years.

Parents in the Matthews area had presented the school district with petitions, bearing about 100 signatures, asking that Garza be appointed as the new principal.
Garza, a Fort Stockton native, started his teaching career in 1967 in Eunice, N.M. After serving in the U.S. Air Force and working on his master's degree, he came to Lubbock in 1973.

Prior to his assignment at Matthews,
Garza taught English and Spanish at Hutchinson Junior High.

Nunez will be leaving for Victoria, his hometown, at the end of next week to assume his new post.

Braniff Plans Aircraft Buy

DALLAS (AP) - Braniff International today announced plans to buy 22 new jet aircraft for $426 million with delivery set in 1980 and 1981.

Braniff Chairman Harding Lawrence said Braniff had placed a firm order with the Boeing Co. for the delivery of 10 727 jets and one 747 in 1980 and had taken an 747 for delivery in 1981.

The 727s will be the newer 727-200 series, which carry more passengers than the earlier model in that class.

Lawrence said he expected the airline to exercise the option by this December. The $426 million price tag is for the 22 aircraft, including spare parts.

This purchase, Harding pointed out, is in addition to Braniff's other aircraft orders that include 10 727s being delivered during 1978 and 11 new jets scheduled for delivery in 1979.

The purchases for 1978 and 1979 total about $382.7 million.

Harding also today projected record earnings for the third quarter and full year 1978. He said third quarter net earnings will be about $15 million, 75 cents per share, an increase of 81 percent from $8.3 million in the same period last year.

Yearly net earnings will be at least $45 million, up 24 percent over the $36.4 million earned in 1977, he said. That would equal $2.25 per share compared with $1.82 per share last year.

Tech To Co-Sponsor Retardation Clinic

To improve programming with mentally retarded and other developmentally disabled persons Texas Tech University will co-sponsor a workshop in Galveston Sept. 27-28

The Research and Training Center in Mental Retardation at Texas Tech and the Gulf Coast Regional Mental Health/Mental Retardation Center, Galveston, will conduct the workshop at the Holiday Inn. Approximately 300 persons will participate. Nationally known experts in training and programming mental retardation patients will present speeches, lectures and demonstrations.

Registration for the conference will cost $6. For registration and information contact Research and Training Center, Box 4510, Texas Tech, 79409, or Judy Lilley, 507 Tremont, Box 2490, Galveston, 77653, or call (713) 763-2373. PUBLISHING MERGER .-

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The J.B. Lippincott Co., the publishing firm that gave you "The Egg and I" and "Alive." has been acquired by Harper Row in a cash-stock option trade that will prevent the financial demise of the once-solid house. Stockholders on Wednesday voted 954,952 shares for the merger with the New York publishing giant and 2,188 against. The merger agreements were signed afterward. Harper officials say publishing entity.'
