Shopping Jaunt Ends In Tragedy

By KAY BELL and ESTHER LONGORIA

LORENZO — The bizarre slaying of an elderly Lorenzo couple, shot through the head as they were unloading groceries from their car, shocked this tiny farming community Monday night and has left Crosby County Sheriff's deputies mystified.

Walton Vernoid Gandy, 73, and his 66-year-old wife Cora Hughes Gandy, were found shot to death about 6 p.m. outside their modest two-bedroom brick home, half a mile north of here.

The couple, who are retired and own some farm land near here, was found sprawled in the driveway next to their green Buick sedan, dark pools of blood under their heads. Mrs. Mary Hall of Lubbock, Mrs. Gandy's sister, made the grisly discovery.

Shot Three Times

Deputies said Gandy's body was found just in front of the car's left front tire. He had been shot three times — once in the head, once in the neck and once in the left shoulder.

Mrs. Gandy was found lying six feet from her husband, shot twice in the head. Both bodies were face down.

Justice of the Peace W.E. Easter of Ralls is withholding a ruling on the death pending autopsy results. He estimated the time of death between 5:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The couple apparently had just returned from a shopping trip, according to deputies. A bag of groceries still rested on the car's roof when officers arrived on the scene.

Found By Relative

Mrs. Hall, who had planned to spend the night with her sister and brother-in-law, drove up behind the couple's car, parked in a tree-lined dirt driveway just north of the house.

"I got out of my car and it seemed unusual that they (Mr. and Mrs. Gandy) didn't meet me," Mrs. Hall said. "It was oddly quiet and I felt something was wrong."

"Then I saw the bodies on the ground. At first I thought it was a prank. But then I walked up and I couldn't believe it — I saw the blood under their heads," she said, quietly beginning to cry.

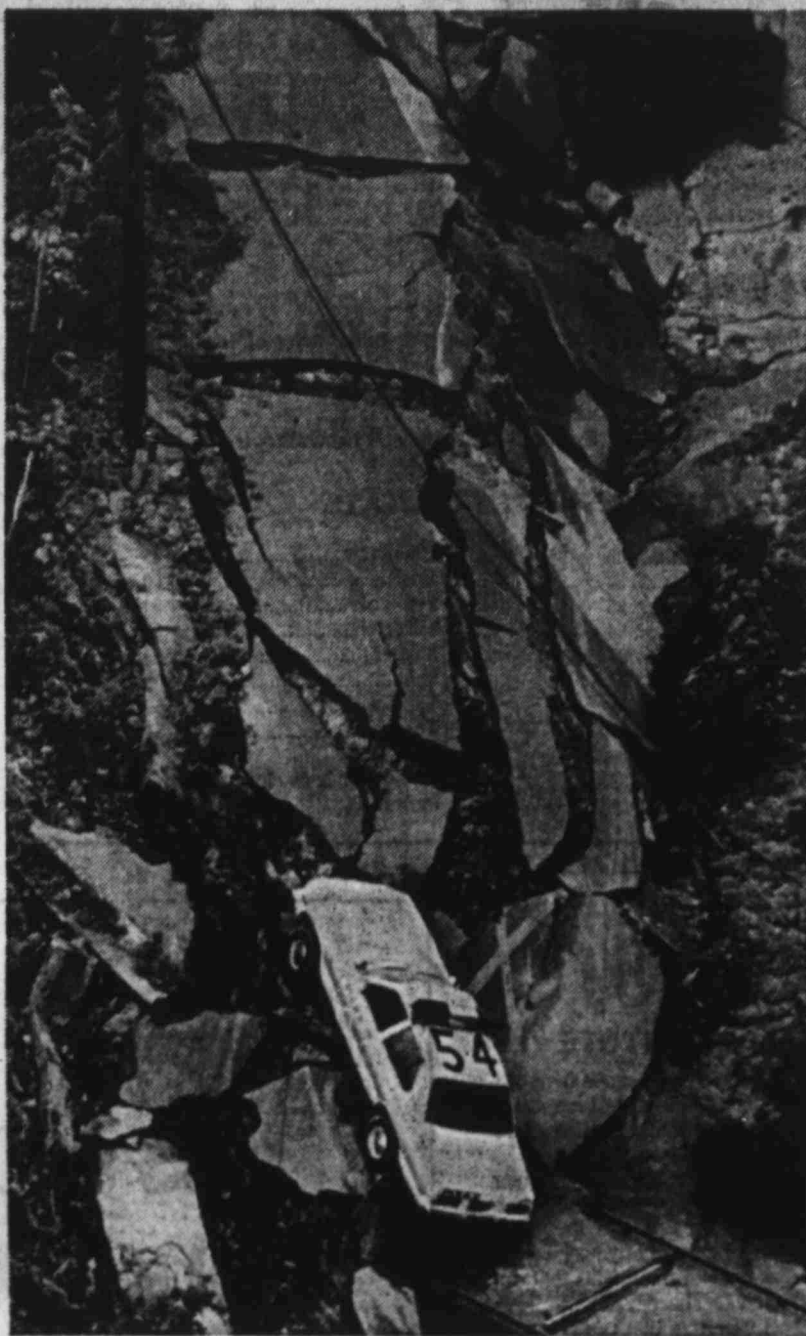

"I didn't touch anything. I drove back into Lorenzo and called the police and my daughter in Lubbock."

The couple had visited her only hours before at her 41st Street home in Lubbock. The three had gone shopping, and the Gandys had left Mrs. Hall's home at 4 p.m. with plans to meet her in Lorenzo.

LANDSLIDE AFTERMATH—Shown in the left panel are the remains of four of the homes lost to a landslide in Laguna Beach, Calif., Monday. At least 49 homes were destroyed or badly damaged. Power, water and gas lines were ruptured, but there were no deaths and injuries to residents of the area were reported to be only minor. In the right panel a Laguna Beach police car sits at the bottom of a ravine after the slide took the car, along with the street it was on. (AP Laserphoto)

Landslide Batters 49 Homes

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A huge landslide tore apart a canyon in this fashionable seaside resort Monday, sending 21 homes slithering down hillsides and leaving many others hanging precariously atop crumbling cliffs.

Several people were injured and dozens of families were forced to flee their homes in nightclothes when the rumbling slide hit Blue Bird Canyon before dawn, authorities said.

In all, 49 homes worth up to $300,000 each were destroyed or damaged. Several others were threatened by the mysterious slide, which struck at 5:50 a.m. and continued to creep through the day.

Tumble Into Crevasse
Some homes tumbled into a gaping, half-mile long crevasse as much as 40 feet wide and deep that opened when one hillside virtually split in two. Other houses — some intact — and trees, fences, chunks of roadway and battered automobiles slid as much as 30 feet down hillsides. Several homes were left teetering on the edge of the gradually widening gap.

"I was just standing there shaving," said John Wolfe, a resident. "I could hear the breaking of wood like kindling. Everybody ran outside. It was a disaster happening right at our feet."

At least 60 people were evacuated from the rustic slide area, nestled in chaparral-covered hills about a half-mile from the city's quaint beachfront business district.

"We think they've reached all the houses now, and we're not looking for any missing persons at this point," said police spokeswoman Debbie Arnett four hours after the slide began.

Area Sealed Off
The area was sealed off to almost everyone but official workers because of continuing ground movement and concern over possible health hazards posed by broken sewage lines. Even anxious victims were not allowed back to survey what was left of their homes.

Despite the major damage, only a few residents were injured, mostly from flying glass and debris.

"I think it (the slide) probably moved slowly enough so everybody had time to get out," said John Ross, a Red Cross supervisor.

Geologists had no immediate word on what caused the slide nor could they say when the ground would stop moving.

"There was no rain and no earthquake," said police officer Don Deike. However, the area, about 50 miles south of Los Angeles, was soaked by record rains last spring.

John Crowley, 52, whose split-level home lost two rooms into the crevasse, said he woke up around first light "because there were all these funny noises — it was a crackling sound, like the rafters were cracking."

Driveway, Car Drop
When he, his wife and son ran outside, Crowley said, "we saw this crack in the street. Our car and driveway had dropped down about six feet. We were afraid of fire. The street kept opening up and falling. We got out of there."

"I live in that neighborhood," said Wolfe. "It was dark up there and the power poles were collapsing and the stench of natural gas was awful."

"You could see the dreadful breaking up of the houses, glass shattering. Walls were falling," he said.

"Firemen and policemen were in the neighborhood immediately, comforting people and evacuating us," Wolfe said.

Meager Crowds Attracted To CD Meetings

NO ONE knew whether to blame the Dallas Cowboys football game or just plain apathy, but abysmal attendance at Monday night's two Community Development neighborhood meetings was evidence something was afoot.

Only one person attended a Southwest Lubbock meeting at Parsons Elementary, while 32 persons showed up for a North Lubbock meeting at Mahon Elementary.

However, more than half those 32 persons attending the Sector 1 meeting already had expressed their neighborhood needs at a similar meeting two weeks ago.

The other 12 persons, residents of the Mahon Elementary School area, said they need housing rehabilitation, street paving, street lights, new electric wires, a community center and a convenience store.

Inosencia Juarez, who acted as spokesman for the group, said "since the tornado, we never got anything fixed."

Many streets are dirt, electric wires are bare, empty lots need to be cleaned up and there's nowhere for area children to go, she said.

The 20 "repeaters," residents of the

Another Month Granted To Appeal School Case

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

THE U.S. Justice Department has been granted another month to decide whether to appeal the Lubbock school desegregation case, a spokesman for a federal appeals court said late Monday.

A civil-docket clerk for the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the department has been given until Oct. 27 to file a brief contesting the case.

The original deadline for the department's brief was last Thursday. However, government attorneys asked for a 30-day extension because the U.S. solicitor general still hasn't made up his mind whether to pursue an appeal.

School attorneys Charles Cobb and Tom Johnson opposed the request for extension on grounds that the Justice Department already has had several months to evaluate the desegregation rulings issued by local U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward.

The school lawyers also noted that until the case is resolved, the Lubbock Independent School District is unable to sell bonds to finance construction of four southside schools. Woodward has approved the construction as part of the district's court-ordered desegregation plan.

Costing Taxpayers Monthly
Due to inflation and rising interest rates, each month's delay in resolving the case is costing local taxpayers about $50,000, the district says. The proposed $11.9 million bond issue already has lost "well over $1 million" in buying power since the building program was passed by voters in February, 1977.

Monday's ruling by the New Orleans-based circuit court does not necessarily mean an appeal is forthcoming. School officials believe the Justice Department ultimately will appeal during the 30-day extension period, but sources within the department are unsure.

Busing Carried Out
The desegregation plan Woodward approved for Lubbock is a combination of mandatory and voluntary measures. The plan necessitates daily busing of about 2,000 elementary students and several hundred secondary students.

The plan was developed to remedy Woodward's finding that nine of the city's public schools were remnants of unlawful segregation.

Because of the limited scope of the plan, several schools here — those not cited by Woodward — still are predominantly minority.

The Justice Department has indicated it may appeal on two grounds. First, the department has contended that racial segregation has been systemwide, and that a systemwide remedy — involving integration of all schools — is needed.

Also, the department has objected to the way the current plan is devised. Federal lawyers feel the plan is unfair to minorities because they are being bused for longer periods than whites. (School officials see SCHOOL Page 14)

Gems Worth $21,600 Stolen From Store

By RAYNIE HARDESTY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A CLEAN-cut man apparently shopping for diamond rings in the Hemphill Wells jewelry department Monday night, escaped with $21,600 worth of gems when a saleswoman momentarily turned her back on him.

Department store security guards reported a thin white man with graying blond hair ran out of the north door of the South Plains Mall store about 7:40 p.m. with three diamond rings.

The man, who was wearing dark blue pants and a blue-streaked white shirt, had been comparing rings for size and brilliance, according to Steve Bomar, jewelry department manager.

But when the saleswoman waiting on him turned to take another ring from the display case, the man grabbed the three he had been inspecting and raced from the store.

The woman unsuccessfully chased after him, as several shoppers stood by.

Witnesses said the man was seen leaving the shopping mall in a Chevrolet Impala.

A check on license plate numbers supplied to police by witnesses indicated the plates belonged to a 1974 four-door Oldsmobile registered to an Amarillo man.

Police also were searching for a black man seen driving a black Lincoln in the vicinity of the suspect's vehicle who may be connected with the theft.

The jewelry manager indicated the suspect previously had been to the store to inspect the jewelry.

But store officials refused to give a description of the missing gems.

China Boosting European Trade

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Major trading pacts have recently blossomed between China and Western Europe and several European sources say European military sales to Peking — strongly opposed by the Soviet Union — aren't that far away.

A West German industrial group concluded a $4.1 billion trade protocol with Peking last month, believed to be the biggest Chinese-European deal ever made. The trade protocol emphasizes projects for modernizing China's coal industry.

China and the nine-nation European Common Market signed their first trade agreement April 3, and President Roy Jenkins of the Common Market's executive commission has scheduled an official visit to Peking next spring.

West Disputes Crossing Guards Claim

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

MAYOR Dirk West charged Monday that the Lubbock School Board is using faulty arguments to avoid paying for school crossing guards which the city now funds.

In a letter sent Monday to School Board President Charles Waters and School Superintendent Ed Irons, West punched holes in the school board's assertions last week that it has no power to spend money on "general police powers" such as crossing guards.

The City Council cut the $53,000 funding for crossing guards from its budget in an effort to cut taxes. The city hoped the school district would pick up the tab for the guards, but last week school officials said they had been told by their attorney they could not legally do so.

"The school crossing guards do not have 'police power,'" West said in the letter. "They are civilians who have a right to see children safely through traffic."

West also notes that "for many, many years the school district has been spending money to have uniformed policemen at athletic contests, social events, etc." despite the lawyer's opinion that the school board could not spend money on police power.

"In fact, the school district has spent money on 'general police powers' for many years," West said.

Sentencing Faced By Harrises

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — William and Emily Harris, the avowed revolutionaries who admit they kidnapped Patricia Hearst, face sentencing Tuesday for one of America's most notorious abductions.

It will mark the end of litigation for Harris, 33, and Mrs. Harris, 31, founding members of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army that shocked the world with the Feb. 4, 1974, crime.

Their victim is herself serving a federal prison term for an armed bank robbery in which she participated while a captive of the SLA. Miss Hearst will be eligible for parole next year, although a campaign is afoot to gain her immediate release.

Boast By Harrises
The Harrises have boasted they will be "back on the streets in 1983," but it is unlikely they will know the exact date of their freedom for some time.

Alameda County Deputy District Attorney Alex Selvin, who negotiated a plea bargain with the Harrises' attorneys, said the couple will be sentenced under California's old indeterminate sentencing law that leaves release dates open-ended.

The negotiated agreement calls for sentences of 10 years and 8 months. With time off for good behavior and time served, the Harrises could be released in 4½ years.

Could Get Life
But Superior Court Judge Stanley Golde could impose a sentence of five years to life imprisonment. Later, the California Community Release Board will set specific release dates under a more recent law.

"None of us can really say what the board will do," said Selvin. "I just don't want to get into speculation on that."

However, Mrs. Harris' lawyer, Susan Jordan, said she believes the board will set a date close to that predicted by the Harrises.

Mrs. Harris has said that the couple "will return to the streets as people committed to change ... They cannot destroy us."

In addition, the police department "hires all the crossing guards and continually monitors the crossings to see if they are properly staffed."

"So although the $53,000 pays the 35 school crossing guards, you can see that this cost is not representative of what the city has to spend in administration, time, and overseeing the program by police."

West admits he has no idea how crossing guards became the city's fiscal responsibility.

Weak Front To Bring Clouds

A weak cold front expected to continue moving southward across the South Plains today should cause fair to partly cloudy skies to move over the Lubbock area today.

Temperatures should cool only slightly today, reaching near 80, before dipping to near 50 tonight. Northerly winds which swept across the South Plains at 10 to 15 mph Monday should slow to 5 to 10 mph today.

The National Weather Service is expecting temperatures to turn cooler Thursday through Saturday, ranging from lows near 50 to highs in the 70s and 80s.

Monday, skies over the Hub City generally remained clear as temperatures rose to 86 by 6 p.m. The mercury had dipped only to 60 during early morning hours.

The cold front that brought cold and dry air to the Lubbock area Monday is expected to cool the temperatures that soaked into the 80s and 90s in the southeastern two-thirds of the state today.

The front also is expected to shift winds that are blowing southerly ahead of the system, should shift to a northerly direction.

As the cooler system continues to effect areas along West Texas, widely scattered thundershowers are expected along the upper Gulf Coast and far East Texas.

Persons along with the Rio Grande River from Presidio to the mouth of the river also remained under a flash flood watch as a crest created by heavy rains last week continued to move along the river.

Nationally, another cold front spread rain across the Mississippi Valley and created heavy rain in northern Missouri, Eastern Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin area.

The remainder of the nation generally should remain dry as sunny skies continue along the eastern coast, the Rockies and much of the West.

Temperatures across the nation at 2 p.m. ranged from 46 degrees at Glasgow, Mont., to 98 degrees at Gila Bend, Ariz.

Mother Starves Kids Who 'Don't Listen'

NEW YORK (AP) — They were described as looking like "little kids from Biafra." Police said their mother starved them despite a well-stocked refrigerator because they did not listen. Their common-law father allegedly beat them because they cried too much.

Police and welfare authorities painted that picture Monday after the discovery of four battered and severely malnourished children in Brooklyn.

At Kings County Hospital, one of the children, 4-year-old Lesia Crawford, was in critical condition, suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage, internal bleeding and numerous cigarette burns. Doctors said she might have brain damage.

The girl's two sisters, Makeba Crawford, 2, and Lakisha Robinson, 5, and their 3-month-old brother Arthur Crawford were reported in fair condition, having improved since they were rescued late Saturday, suffering from burns, bruises, cuts, fractures, swollen bellies and discolored faces.

"They looked like kids from Biafra," said police officer Al Baum. "They all had broken noses, their eyes were swollen, including the mother's. They were victims of extreme abuse."

The mother, Deborah Crawford, 23, was charged with child abuse. Her common-law husband, Arthur Turner, 20, was being sought Monday.

According to police, Turner appeared at Lutheran Hospital late Saturday, left Lesia in the emergency room and fled when authorities tried to question him about the girl.

A woman who refused to be identified led police to the apartment where Miss Crawford and the other three children were locked inside, hiding in bed under the covers.

In 1967, President Lyndon Johnson signed a $70-billion defense bill, the biggest single appropriation in United States history.

Moroccan, Algerian Tank Units Battle

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Moroccan troops fought a tank battle with Algerian army units that crossed the border to ambush a Moroccan supply convoy, the Moroccan government announced Monday.

The announcement said an unspecified number of men were killed and wounded on both sides in the weekend battle. It was the second time in five weeks Morocco has reported a serious border clash, but the first time in three years of fighting in the Sahara that tanks have been reported involved.

In a message to Algerian President Houari Boumediene, Morocco's King Hassan II warned of "the risks and dangers which could result from the outbreak of hostilities" between the two countries and hinted at reprisals.

High Court Eyes Random Auto Searches

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, beginning its new term by taking action in more than 800 legal disputes, said Monday it will decide whether police may stop motorists to make random checks for driver licenses and car registrations.

In one of the busiest days in its 188-year history, the nation's highest court also:

—Refused to disturb an Illinois law barring prospective fathers from the hospital delivery room when their wives' giving birth involves surgery.

—Cleared the way for reputed Mafia figure Anthony Giacalone, a prominent figure in FBI investigations into the 1975 disappearance of former Teamsters boss Jimmy Hoffa, to be imprisoned for tax evasion.

—Left intact a court-ordered plan that forces the Philadelphia Police Department to hire one woman for every four men.

—Indicated that it sees constitutional problems in state laws that ban virtually all advertising by veterinarians and veterinary clinics.

The justices agreed to hear the appeal of Delaware law enforcement authorities after their state's highest court ruled that police may not randomly stop motorists. Unless police believe some crime has been committed, such stops are unconstitutional, the state court ruled.

City Brush Service Terminated

The city's brush removal service officially ended Sunday and residents are being asked to place brush in dumpsters to have it removed.

Throughout this month, city residents will receive information with their water bills on how to use the dumpsters to dispose of brush.

Sanitation department officials asked that branches and limbs be cut less than three feet in length so they will drop out easily when the dumpster is emptied into the sanitation truck.

Each dumpster reportedly can accommodate four families.

City officials have asked residents with a large amount of brush to trim it and stack it next to the fence. Then a portion of it may be placed in the dumpster each time it is emptied, until the pile of brush is gone.

Even a small amount of dirt, brick or rock can make the dumpster too heavy for the truck to lift, so residents should use dirt to fill low spots or spread it in the alley along the fence.

Brick, rock and building materials should never be placed in the dumpster, city officials said. Such materials should be hauled to the city's sanitary landfill north of the city.

Brush also may be hauled to the landfill, which is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. There is no fee for residents who haul trash from their own property.

Brush removal was eliminated from the 1978-79 city budget with the Lubbock City Council's efforts to cut city taxes. The collection would have cost taxpayers $566,000 had the service remained in the budget.

Trial Date Named For Election Suit

A lawsuit challenging Lubbock's at-large city council election system will be tried starting Dec. 11 in U.S. District Court here.

Since the trial is expected to be lengthy, U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward left free the week of Dec. 11, as well as the following week, for the trial.

Former Lubbock attorney Gene Gaines filed a class action suit against the city in 1976 in an attempt to have the city's election method declared unconstitutional and replaced with single-member districts.

Recently, Gaines moved to Dallas and was replaced as plaintiff by the Rev. Roy Jones, the local NAACP president.

The case was postponed several times, pending the outcome of a U.S. Supreme Court decision on a similar suit involving the City of Dallas.

In June, the court decided not to invalidate Dallas' election system, which combines an at-large and ward system.

The plaintiffs contend that the present at-large system in Lubbock dilutes the voting power of minorities, thus effectively denying them representation on the council.

Under a single-member district or ward system, the city would be divided into wards, with voters from each area electing a council member to represent them.

A New Castle County, Del., police officer sparked the legal controversy one winter night in 1976 when he stopped a car being driven by William J. Prouse III.

The officer had not observed any traffic or equipment violations but was stopping Prouse for a spot check of his license and registration.

As he approached the car, the policeman smelled marijuana and Prouse eventually was arrested and charged with possession of the drug.

Prouse successfully asked the state courts to suppress the evidence because it had been obtained in an illegal detention.

Now, the Supreme Court will decide whether the random stop did, in fact, violate Prouse's constitutional protections against unreasonable searches.

Its decision could affect police procedures nationwide.

The justices refused to hear arguments by a Chicago couple, Robyn and Peter Praetz, and their doctor that a law that kept Praetz away from his wife's side during childbirth by Caesarean section is unconstitutional.

The court also turned away Giacalone's appeal from a 1976 tax evasion conviction that may soon land him in federal prison with a 10-year sentence.

Senate testimony and Justice Department files identify Giacalone as a Mafia leader of the 1960s in Detroit, and he was an initial target of the probe into Hoffa's disappearance three years ago.

Giacalone has been living in Miami while his tax-evasion case was being appealed.

A hiring quota for Philadelphia police officers sustained a challenge Monday as the justices apparently agreed with government lawyers that the dispute may have become irrelevant.

The court-ordered police quota, in effect since 1976, requires city officials to ensure that 20 percent of all new Police Department employees are women.

The justices gave what may be a significant insight into their views on advertising bans for professional groups as it set aside Florida court rulings that upheld a state law banning ads by veterinarians and veterinary clinics.

The Florida Supreme Court was told to review its ruling in light of a 1976 decision outlawing a total ban on lawyer advertising.

At the same time, however, the justices refused to review the case of a Cicero, Ill., chiropractor who was suspended for 90 days for soliciting new patients in newspaper ads.

Richard J. Talsky had argued that his free speech rights entitled him to advertise without state interference. Some of his ads offered "free chicken" at an office reception to acquaint prospective patients with the virtues of chiropractics.

In other matters Monday, the court: —Handed the federal government a significant defeat by leaving intact rulings that the Occupational Safety and Health Administration cannot bar employers from firing employees who refuse to do work reasonably believed to be too dangerous.

OSHA lawyers had argued, "A limited right to self-help is necessary to deal with extreme situations for which the administrative and judicial processes are too slow."

—Left intact findings by lower courts that school and city officials in Buffalo, N.Y., have discriminated against black students. Specific desegregation steps now will be ordered by a federal trial judge.

—Refused to hear the challenge of a California man who claimed his conviction was invalid because prosecutors hypnotized their key witness to improve his memory.

The justices have never ruled directly that the use of hypnosis is a valid courtroom procedure but their action Monday

AN EDITORIAL:

Who'll Bail Out Bailout-ers?

IN CONTRAST with the proud heritage of bravery and courage exhibited by the likes of Navy Captains John Paul Jones, who had "only begun to fight" when outmanned and outgunned, and James Lawrence, whose death-bed order was "don't give up the ship," stand decisions by Navy Sec. W. Graham Claytor Jr.

Claytor apparently has embraced a "toss in the towel" philosophy.

The enemy these days isn't a hostile foreign nation. It's a trio of American-owned corporate conglomerates whose shipbuilding subsidiaries hold billions of dollars worth of Navy construction contracts.

They include: The Electric Boat Co., a General Dynamics subsidiary; Ingalls Shipbuilding, a Litton Industries subsidiary; and Newport Drydock Co., a subsidiary of Tenneco.

AFTER EXPERIENCING massive cost overruns on ship construction, all three filed claims seeking to convince the Navy to pay each hundreds of millions of dollars more than the prices agreed upon in the original contracts.

All three companies have threatened to halt work on current Navy shipbuilding projects unless their claims are promptly resolved.

The Navy secretary insists he's not frightened by the threats.

"I never have been considered one who rolled over and played dead or waved a white flag," Claytor told the news services.

However, he has agreed to pay $484 million to General Dynamics and $447 million to Litton—even though the companies' claims never have been fully verified by Navy professionals.

Tenneco's claim for a whopping $742 million remains unresolved, but its officials are arguing that it is unreasonable for its two major competitors to settle and leave "Newport to fend for itself."

ALMOST 75 percent of the General Dynamics settlement and more than 40 percent of the Litton settlement are to be paid under provisions of an obscure 1958 law.

It authorizes Defense Department officials to enter into contracts and/or amendments "without regard to other provisions of law" so long as they determine that such action "would facilitate the national defense."

Although clearly designed for emergency use during time of war, the statute has been abused in recent years.

The largest single prior payment was the $624 million bailout of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in 1971 after Lockheed experienced large cost overruns on Air Force contracts.

Claytor is understandably defensive about the government's latest bailout, claiming that "this is a victory for us, not a surrender." Well, that's arguable.

But John Paul Jones and James Lawrence must be spinning in their graves.

AN EDITORIAL:

Nature's Dirty Little Secret

"OH DEAR, just when we thought progress was being made in cleansing the environment by laying heavy regulations on nasty producers and heavy costs on voracious consumers, it turns out that Mother Nature herself is a polluter."

So said the Wall Street Journal in an editorial, citing reports from the San Francisco Bay area that trees may be responsible for more air pollution than automobiles.

"Natural pollution has long been the dirty little secret of environmentalism," the editorial noted.

"Five years ago, Washington, D.C. had an air quality alert because of the ozone from the Appalachian forests.

"When mercury was discovered in a Canadian lake, a search for the industrial malefactor found no industry whatever upstream."

THE WSJ said studies of radiation effects almost uniformly conclude that man-made emissions are dwarfed by those produced by Sol.

Volcanoes produce more air pollution than all of human activities. Scientists confirm these facts, but ecological publicists play them down. Why?

Because natural pollution fits poorly into the theology of "a pristine nature corrupted only by a cancer called humanity made malignant by capitalism," in the WSJ's words.

It seems to us that if EPA is taking its mandate seriously, it should consider the opportunities for laying down guidelines to regulate nature.

The editorial proffers some quaint guidelines:

"FORESTS COULD have air quality standards, animals could be required to have emission controls, perch could be prohibited from preying on snail darters, water quality standards could be promulgated for swamps, and scrubbers for volcanos."

But back to reality and how to deal with the villainous side of Mother Nature...

The Journal said that "natural pollution needs to be better researched and publicized in order to thwart this nonsensical notion of pristine environment soiled by man."

Nature is tough and dirty, and many natural processes have undesirable consequences.

Just like human ones.

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

You Can Still Vanish Within Foreign Legion

AUBANGE, France—I write this from a vast compound near Marseilles. Aubange is now the headquarters of the famous French Foreign Legion, founded nearly a century and a half ago by King Louis Philippe.

Anonymous remains the word. No questions are asked. You enlist in "The Legion of the Damned" under an alias. You can disappear. The Legion rejects all inquiries unless a Legionnaire's alias is given.

The dossiers are classified and only opened to notify surviving relatives and send home the body.

The enlistment term is five years, but for countless reasons, many re-enlist. All must be bachelors.

You find here 30 different nationalities, mostly French, German, Spanish, Turks, Greeks, Italians, Yugoslavs, Eastern Europeans, British and a few Americans.

OFTEN THE INCOMING Legionnaires are trouble-makers and misfits. But French Army Col. Raoul Forcein, a stern 25-year veteran right out of "Beau Geste," drills them to fight.

Col. Forcein is famous in the French Army as the man who cleaned up the guerrilla-held Casbah in Algiers during the revolt against French rule.

The whole Sahara Desert covers three million square miles; the Great Gobi Desert only 500,000

—a sixth the size. The Algerian Sahara alone is larger than India.

I have been there many times and in daytime the temperature reaches 120 Fahrenheit; at night the cold is positively Siberian.

On the South, Morocco adjoins Algeria. Until the agreement was signed in Madrid, the Spanish Sahara always belonged to Spain, but no longer. It covers 102,000 square miles.

THIS WAS THE domain of the crack, colorful 6,000-man Spanish Foreign Legion, with its immensely picturesque Camel Corp.

But, unlike the French Foreign Legion, there were few foreigners in it. Membership was a personal honor in Spain, where honor and bravery entrance the Spanish soul.

As for the French Foreign Legion, Col. Forcein tells me that the daily training is "intense"—you have to see it to believe it. In fact, he took me to see it.

Each Legionnaire carries two heavy cartridge belts, thick boots, a submachine gun held on his arms, concealed knives for hand-to-hand fighting in case his machine gun jams.

Yet everyday they are required to jog on maneuvers with this heavy equipment for four hours.

And Col. Forcein tells me they can fight a full three days without food or water.

THE LEGION REACHED its peak size in Indochina. It deployed 25,000 men. But it is now down to 8,000. The elite group is a unit of paratroopers designated for swift foreign action. It consists of 600 men.

All are true commando marksmen squads, set up by the late President Charles de Gaulle for rapid intervention in Africa.

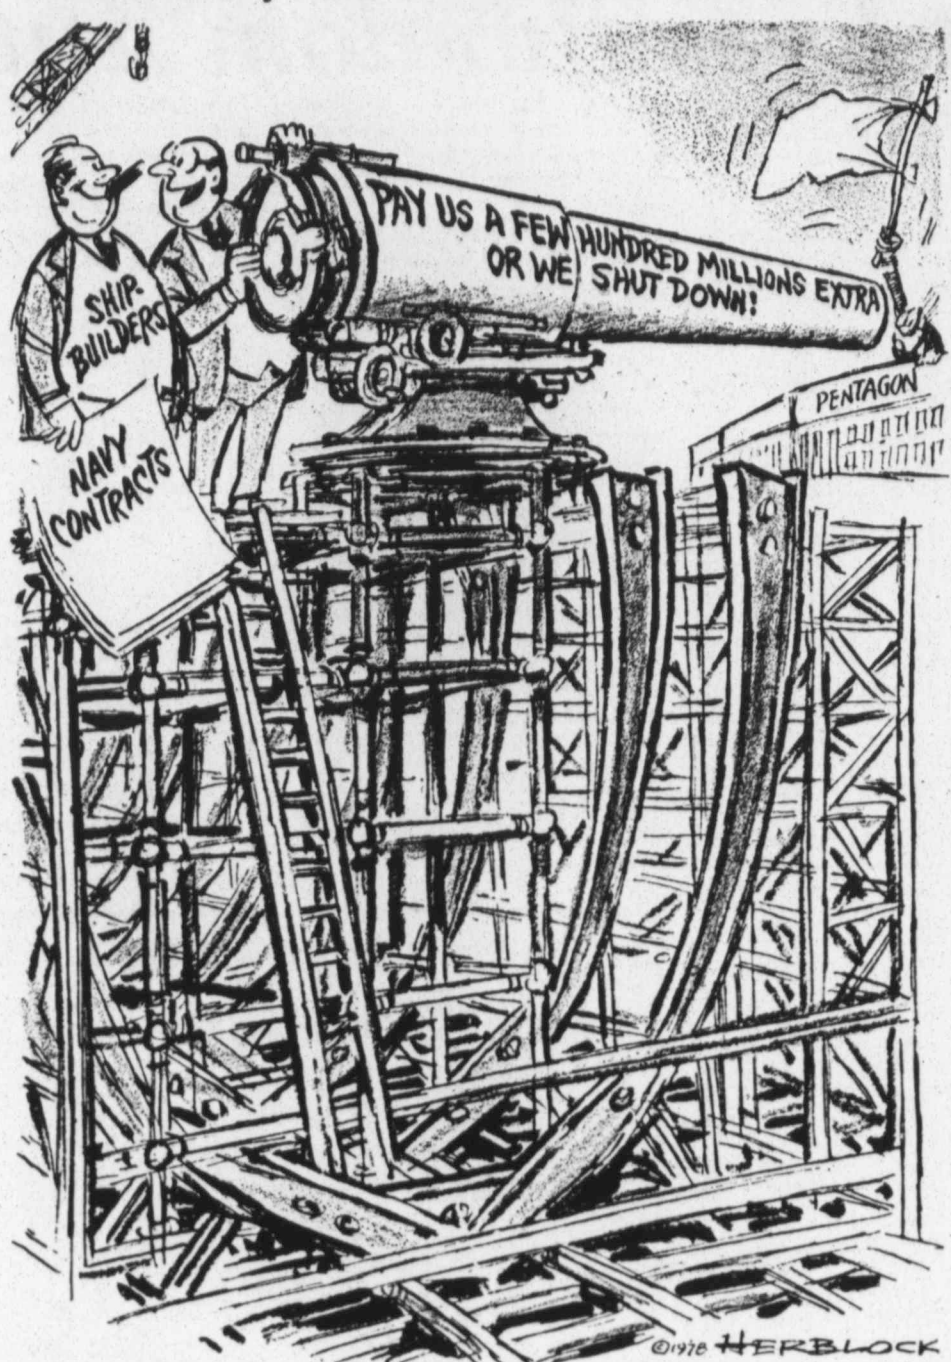

I find that the Legionnaires here tend to be smaller and less grizzled than previous generations I have been with, but teamwork and motivation offset this.

I also find that officers and enlisted men agree that the Legion's ability to meet tough assignments is due to the iron discipline and the unquestioning obedience to orders.

These are the Legion's forte.

Woman Has Answers To Recent Carter Survey

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:
These are my responses to the Associated Press-NBC News Poll Questions.

(1) What kind of job has Mr. Carter done as President?

I think he promised much but has done little except push for world government over the USA. He gave away the Panama Canal; he has fussed at Israel; he has fussed at South Africa; but he has not said one word, as far as I know, about Communist takeovers by Russia, China, Cuba or in Cambodia.

Human rights in Russia. Oh yes he complained about the oppression there but he did not complain of their oppression in usurped lands.

He has done nothing to stop inflation. Why not wage/price controls? Why not some backbone in his decisions instead of imitating a piece of wet spaghetti?

(2) What do you think of Mr. Carter's foreign policy?

We have no foreign policy except one of being pushed around like cowards by any two-bit dictator. No one likes war but no one respects a person who yields to a bully nor is peace to be found that way.

What kind of foreign policy is it to give away money without getting anything in return? Why not collect our debts?

(3) What of Carter's Middle East Peace Negotiations? Peace Negotiations should be handled by the UN. That is their job, and if they won't or can't do it they should go home and we should stop supporting them.

Carter did not negotiate; he just tried to get Israel to give in to Egyptian demands. Carter is more interested in a Nobel Prize than in actual peace. I think his efforts are futile and explosive.

(4) What kind of a job do you think Begin is doing?

Begin has done the best he could with what he had to work with considering that Carter has sold him out to the oil producers. The 1967 war started because of Egyptian determination to exterminate Israel and that has not changed.

Carter should devote himself to making Russia free Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Estonia, Latvia, East Germany, etc.; then jump on Israel. No, the next item would be to get Cuba out of Africa and China out of Tibet, Cambodia, Albania, etc. Why is it only Israel that is asked to give up territory?

(5) What kind of job do you think Sadat has done?

Sadat does not negotiate; he just says the same demand over and over again, offering nothing in return.

He might do well to remember another Egyptian ruler who got into all kinds of trouble with that attitude (the Pharaoh of the Exodus).

(6) Has Camp David improved the chances for peace?

Nothing has changed by anything done at Camp David; we yielded to the oil pressures, but one does not stop a bully by yielding. Pressure will continue. It's time we became self-sufficient.

(7) What do you think about the chances for peace?

There is no chance for peace anywhere as long as the UN won't work; as long as we are "patsies" as long as we tolerate Communist aggression. There can be no peace without righteousness and without the help of God.

A Charleston girl, applying for a job in a TV station, made it a point to lay her accent on as heavily as possible. Finally the personnel director could stand no more.

Postal Official Sees Major Trouble In Private System

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:
Sorry to take so long answering the paper's editorial of Wednesday Evening, Sept. 20, 1978.

It seems there are so many editorials about these days, I just don't have the time to answer all of them. But I would like to give you some ideas concerning the removal of the Private Express Statutes.

It is true that some companies have set up their own delivery of magazines and statements by their own personnel at costs lower than postage rates.

But if you will notice, this is only in highly populated areas—for the cost increases dramatically when they start delivering in rural areas and small towns, so we still get that part of their business.

But today, let's just suppose that the Private Express Statutes were removed, and 500 businesses opened up nationwide and started delivering your mail. Some of the following would certainly happen:

1. If you were expecting something that was sent to you and it was delayed, who would you call—XYZ Co. or the Post Office or who? And would the other companies trace something for you? And how much would you pay in phone calls, etc.

The Postal Service delivers 99.9 percent of the mail correctly and efficiently, and that's a tremendous average in any business, and we're getting better.

2. How would you like for just anyone to place things in your mailbox, and if just anyone was allowed to deliver mail, what would keep them from taking out items that looked interesting?

And if you lost a piece of valuable mail, who would you call—for the Postal Inspection Service would not know where to start, so they couldn't help you.

And the integrity of the mails that allows shipments of millions of dollars in funds and securities would be gone forever.

3. Rates, well we could certainly compete in the cities, for we could deliver cheaper just like the businesses in the highly populated areas. And if we did compete, it would certainly lead to structuring of rates.

It might only take 5 cents for local customers, but how about the letter to grandmother who lives in a small town or rural area? Do you think it would be fair to charge 25 to 50 cents or whatever for her to mail or receive a letter?

Well, that's how free enterprise works. For example, a business phone in the city of Lubbock is about $15 per month; in a rural area, up to $37.50. I called the phone company and asked them why.

The explanation was very simple—"That's what it takes to serve that area and make a profit."

These are just a few ideas for your consideration—from the loss of the security of your mail, to the convenience of doing business with an organization you can depend on, to the structuring of rates, I really wonder, do you think it would be worth the risk to save a few cents?

Odessa Man Says Carter Hasn't Told Whole Story

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:
Before we place Mr. Carter on a much higher pedestal than the great almighty himself, let us wait and see just what all he has given and promised to give these two professional "gives" in order to improve his own rock-bottom image.

Since coming down from the mountain he has been so busy polishing his badly tarnished halo, he has not had time to mention the two airfields he promised Mr. Begin he would build for Israel, at a cost of billions, paid for by you-know-who.

But that is not a drop in the bucket compared to the over-all cost to us if it goes as the Great Georgia Wizard plans.

Would have been nice if Mr. Carter, while proclaiming himself a Christian and blessing the peacemakers, could have given just a little hope to us sinful taxpayers.

W. E. Lyles, Odessa

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

Read Nil About It

JUSTICE "DELAYED" may be justice "denied"—but not when it comes to the federal government.

On the upper levels it all depends on who's in charge. And which side of the political fence is in trouble.

There's never been any shortage of official hanky-panky in Washington, nor a lack of witnesses willing to blow the whistle on government biggies. What the government does about it depends almost entirely on whether it's one of its own who's gotten himself crosswise with the law.

And you'd be amazed at how forgiving the party in power can be. Especially when their man is safely planted in the White House.

Let a Democrat, say, in a Democratic administration with a Democratic-controlled Congress, get tangled up in a nasty situation and the "old-boy network" closes in fast.

HE MAY BE investigated, sort of. And, if his crimes are publicly blatant enough, as with Wayne Hays, either censured, reprimanded or allowed to resign.

That's if he's not too much of a biggie. If the culprit turns out to be one of the really powerful men in power, it's a whole new ball game with a different set of rules.

Then the Establishment goes into high gear. There's the usual "thorough investigation," but then strange things begin to happen: witnesses fail to show up, evidence turns out to be "unconvincing," and the prosecutors wind up months of detective work with no "conclusive proof" that any high government official could possibly be guilty.

The classic example of this is the recent Korea-gate charade. Names of everybody from legislators to the Speaker of the House turned up in that so-called "probe" on bribery, but look who got nailed: a couple of obscure Congressmen and a few who no longer hold office.

THAT'S CALLED "justice," the party-in-power version.

We'll never find out who really got caught up in Tongson Park's net of greenbacks until the Republicans get back in the driver's seat. Maybe their "delayed" justice will be more honest, at least as it relates to the Democrats.

And maybe not. Because the Republicans are also good at this sort of thing. If they'd been in control of Congress during the Watergate mess there'd have been a lot less fuss.

John Mitchell would have been allowed to weasel out of it somehow, and any talk of impeaching Nixon would have been choked off in the cloakrooms.

As it was, they scored one last-gasp coup when Ford's surprise pardon spared the disgraced ex-President from being locked up with the rest of his fellow conspirators.

WHICH BRINGS us to the current ruckus over corruption, fraud, theft, etc., in the General Services Administration. That's our latest scandal and it's turning out to be a beast, maybe the biggest money scandal in the history of a lot of government money scandals.

Maybe.

Because, you see, how much we really find out about it hinges on how many biggies have been dipping into the $5-billion-a-year cookie jar. The little fish are expendable.

Things are so bad, apparently for gifts, bribes, kickbacks, overcharges, pay for work never done, the works, that even GSA chief Jay Solomon calls it an "ugly and disgusting saga" and hints that we ain't heard nuthin' yet.

But he can say that because he's new on the job. A Carter man who can claim he inherited the whole mess and is toiling diligently to clean it up. Which he does.

HE HAS EVEN gone so far as to send the Justice Department evidence of "questionable practices" of GSA higher-ups.

So far, so good. Now it all depends on how far up the crimes have crept. And here's where Carter enters upon an iffy period.

If it turns out, as warnings from outside auditors in 1971 and 1976 suggest, that most of the recent corruption has been carried on by pork-barrel appointees of Republican politicians, there'll be a no-holds-barred cleanup. This will add up to plenty of Democratic Brownie points in the next presidential go-around.

But if it should happen that some of the bad guys are Carter men, well, don't hold your breath waiting to read all about it.

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

HARDLY ANYBODY alive can identify a species of mammal with a name that begins with "N." Yet I'm told there are two such, one archaic and the other scientifically obscure.

A "neat" once was a term for a head of cattle. Remember Neats Foot Oil? And a noctule remains a sort of night-flying bat. There just aren't any other "N" animals, evidently.

The University of Georgia's Coastal Plain Experiment Station is trying to figure out how to get more pork out of pigs. So they're doing all sorts of oddball stunts with those barnyard beasts. For example, at last report they were requiring a bunch of pregnant sows to jog 15 minutes a day and take a shower once a week.

Who's the best football coach of all time? Debatable, certainly. But The Football News conducted a poll wherein more than 50,000 votes were cast, and the winner in that one was Bear Bryant.

This country's 10 most selective colleges are Amherst, Harvard-Radcliffe, Bowdoin, Williams, Princeton, Dartmouth, Stanford, Yale, Middlebury and Wesleyan in Connecticut. About 9,000 openings for new students will turn up in these schools this year. There'll be about 70,000 applicants.

Where you're least likely to go bankrupt, statistically, is South Carolina. Most likely, as is widely known, Nevada. But the bankruptcy news isn't bad. Fewer people have pulled that chain in each of the last three years.

In the London actors' club, the City of Lushington, generations of drinkers really have put away the sauce. It was this particular distinction of Lushington that gave us our slang word "lush."

Hannibal, Mo., has the monument to Mark Twain, true enough, but Florida, Mo., was where he was born, remember.

More Rapes Reported To Center

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series of articles dealing with agencies supported by the United Way of Lubbock. The United Way campaign goal for 1979 is $1,487,349.

The facts are disturbing — terrifying to some — but, nonetheless, gruesomely true.

Last year the Lubbock Rape Crisis Center handled 99 cases of rape, averaging 8.25 per month. Already this year, it has had an increase of an average 11 cases per month.

The Lubbock Rape Crisis Center, a United Way agency, will receive $35,889 from the 1979 United Way goal of $1,682,369.

According to the center's staff, these new figures reflect a partial increase in the reporting rate of rape in Lubbock. In other words, more rape victims are asking for help after the crime and are willing to even go to court after sexual assault.

The Rape Crisis Center has volunteers on duty 24 hours a day to assist rape victims.

Mrs. Sharon Steels and Hank Kaplan volunteer their efforts several times each month at the center and also are on call twice a month. Mrs. Steele began with the center two years ago as part of her work with Junior League and now admits this work has engulfed her life, even to the point where her daughter has joined the center as a volunteer.

Kaplan joined the center just a year ago after seeing a televised talk show about the center. He said he later was greatly impressed by the extensive training program offered for the center's volunteers. Kaplan also felt the work would offer a good experience in his future plans as a doctor.

Mrs. Steele explained that the training program for volunteers consists of eight sessions in four weeks. The sessions present lectures from persons in the community who are concerned with rape, such as doctors, lawyers, district attorneys, medical social workers, detectives and psychologists.

The purpose of the sessions is to train the volunteer to deal with the assault victim. A mock case is staged at the end of the training period, which includes talking with a victim in the beginning to a trial at the Texas Tech University School of Law.

Mrs. Steele and Kaplan explained that in the case of rape, the first thing you have to do is put the girl at ease. "You have to really talk with her before you do anything else, prepare her for the doctor's examination," Kaplan said. The Rape Crisis Center takes its clients to the Health Sciences Center Hospital.

Two volunteers are available for every reported case, and the team always includes at least one woman. However, Kaplan pointed out that the male volunteers are sometimes very important in the situation in talking with male family members and boyfriends. "I get questions from males asking me 'What should I do?' And I ask them 'What do you think you should do?' because there's no typical rape victim, they're all individual."

Mrs. Steele added, "If there is a good relationship there in the beginning, then he'll be supportive after the assault."

Kaplan said he thought the male volunteers also served the purpose of reassuring the victim. "I think it's healthy for a victim to see a male concerned and caring in the situation," he said.

The volunteers who handle the case are involved in all follow-up work which is needed, from further counseling to accompanying the woman through legal channels if necessary. However, they do not press victims into prosecuting the rapist, leaving that decision to them. They also tell the women that legal methods may take a year to a year and a half. Lubbock has a high rate of prosecutions, though, and a great amount of support from the district attorney's office and police agencies.

Kaplan said that rape covers a broad social spectrum and no one is out of danger. He said our mobile society makes it possible for a rapist to drive across town at any time and all women are subject.

The number of Rape Crisis Center is 763-RAPE. The Lubbock Rape Crisis Center is among 34 United Way agencies.

Defector's Death Said Mysterious

LONDON (AP) — A Bulgarian defector was found dead in his home here Monday, three weeks after the spy-style murder of fellow defector Georgio Markov, who said he was stabbed with a poison-tipped umbrella on a London street.

Scotland Yard termed the death of Vladimir Simeonov "suspicious." His death was announced Monday night by the British Broadcasting Corp.

The 30-year-old bachelor had worked for the BBC's External Services, which broadcasts to foreign countries, since 1972. He and Markov worked together in the Bulgarian section of the radio and television network.

Markov was attacked Sept. 7 and said he had been poisoned by a jab from an umbrella. He died four days later.

"We are treating this as a suspicious death in view of the recent murder of Georgio Markov," said a spokeswoman for Scotland Yard who asked not to be identified.

Cmdr. Jim Nevill of the yard's anti-terrorist squad was put in charge of investigating Simeonov's death.

Fritz Liedtke, 78, of Paducah, will be at 2 p.m. today in First Baptist Church here with the Rev. Herman Lancaster, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Garden of Memories Cemetery here under direction of Norris Funeral Home.

Mrs. Liedtke died about 3:30 a.m. Monday in Richards Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

She had lived in Cottle County since 1916.

Survivors include three sons, Calvin of Carrollton, and Tommy and Earl, both of Amarillo; a daughter, Mrs. Johnnie Gann of Paducah; two sisters, Mrs. Dewey Gann and Mrs. Ettis Wilks, both of Dallas; 11 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Survivors include his wife; four sons, Don Emery of Waco, Warner Salsbury of Albuquerque, N.M., Danny Salsbury of Fort Worth and Kevin Salsbury of Lubbock; three daughters, Ann Gray of Tyler, Zan Murphrey of Wichita Falls and Stefani Salsbury of Corpus Christi; two brothers, Haney and Walter, both of Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. Robert D. Wilson of Dallas; and seven grandchildren.

The family suggests contributions to the Heart Fund or the Smithlawn Maternity Home.

Pallbearers will be Al Townsend, Doug Allison, Les Traveek, Gilbert Hilles, Ron Revert, Charles Harmon, Kermit Forsdick and Richard Wetzel.

HAROLD RAYMOND FLUKE

Harold R. Fluke

Services for Harold Raymond "Buster" Fluke, 83, of 5003 18th St., will be at 3 p.m. today in the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. J. Waid Griffin, pastor, officiating.

Assisting will be the Rev. J. O. Haynes, retired Methodist minister, the Rev. Richard L. Cook, pastor of Grace Church of the Nazarene, and the Rev. A. B. Black, pastor of Grace Baptist Church.

Burial will be in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

Fluke, a longtime Lubbock resident and barber, died at 4 a.m. Monday in Methodist Hospital after a brief illness.

He moved to Lubbock in 1914 and married Olive Tubbs May 13, 1917, in the Isham Tubbs home west of Lubbock.

Fluke was a barber for more than 50 years before retiring. He was a veteran of World War I and a former member of the Plainview State Militia and the National Guard. He was born in Iowa.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Sterling K. Miller of Lubbock; two brothers, S.I. of Lubbock and Oma of San Francisco, Calif.; four grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Pallbearers will be Wilson Sweeney, Bob Sutton, Wilson Al Carson, R.C. Harvey, Don Reed and Rick Wolfe.

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON-MICHAEL REED
NEW YORK — "Search For Tomorrow," the longest-running TV serial, celebrated its 27th anniversary and 7,000th episode Sept. 8, although the show's actual birthday is Sept. 3.

A party at a Manhattan restaurant elicited a moving speech by the serial's original and still current heroine, Mary Stuart (Joanne Vincente). Mary estimated that she has performed in 5,000 of those 7,000 episodes and that each one was and continues to be a labor of love. Miss Stuart is working on the fourth draft of her autobiography which details her staggering number of years on the show.

Despite the presence of the second longest-running castmember, Larry Haines, who joined the show during its first month on the air, the accent at the party centered around the newer cast additions.

Marilyn McIntyre (Carolyn Walton) introduced Christopher Goutman (Marc D'Antoni) as "the man I slept with on-stage" in a recent off-Broadway drama. "Search" marks Chris' first television credit, but he's appeared extensively around the country in Shakespearean productions and in theatrical roles in his hometown of Baltimore.

Marilyn also met her new screen husband, Bob Bannard (c.q.) who had been cast that day as Richard Lohman's replacement in the role of Gary Walton. Lohman had opted not to renew his contract with "Search" in favor of scouting other career goals.

Megan Bagot (c.q.), who recently joined the show as scheming Laine Adamson recalled that her original career in show business was as a back-up singer for Engelbert Humperdinck's touring act. The actress, who was born in Trenton, N.J., and majored in speech and drama at Catholic University in the nation's capitol, also informed us that she recently performed in the critically acclaimed regional theater production of Arthur Kopit's drama, "Wing." The play was due to open on Broadway this month but this has been postponed. Megan hopes to encore in the production when it gets the Great White Way go-ahead. In the meantime, she "adores playing witchy Laine."

Another "Search" actress-singer is Sherry Mathis (Liza Kaslo) who reminisced about performing in the Dallas musical version of "Gone With The Wind."

"Since I'm a Southern belle from Memphis," said Miss Mathis with a marked drawl which she abandons while playing Liza, "it was the dream of a lifetime to portray Scarlet O'Hara. But performing on a serial is equally as demanding, perhaps more so. And the producers have allowed me to sing on 'Search' and there have been discussions about possibly recording one of the songs, 'You Can Love Again.'"

Val Dufour (John Wyatt), one of the relative "old-timers" on "Search" was asked if he felt intimidated that the recent story emphasis on the show involved the younger and the newer cast members. "Of course not," Val insisted. "Soaps are like life. There are seasons of springish young love and seasons of autumnal, more mature romantic entanglements. Story periods are constantly revolving on soaps and everyone gets a chance in a major plot in his proper season. And anyway, I get healthy challenged by the newer blood on the show. It keeps the regulars on their toes."

Tune in tomorrow to see how John Wyatt is kept on his toes while defending Scott Phillips on a murder charge.

THE MAILBAG:
Why has the former actress who played Alma Miller on "As the World Turns" been replaced? — L.H. Columbus, Ind.

The original Alma, Ethel Remy, was felled by a stroke last winter and Dorothy Blackburn took over the role. Miss Remy has since recovered, but the "ATWT" writers have decided to send the character of Alma on a cruise. And in soap operaland that usually translates into indefinite story exile.

Am I right in assuming that the lady who now plays the part of Monica Weber on "General Hospital" once played Donna Mills' sister on "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing"? — A.D., Hingham, Mass.

Yes, actress Leslie Charleson (the current Monica on "GH") and Donna Mills (who pops up regularly on nighttime TV series) portrayed sisters Iris and Laura Donnelly when "LIAMST" first premiered in 1967, but neither was still in the cast when the show was axed in 1973.

(Send your questions about soap operas to "Tune In Tomorrow," 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Here I am in another "sinus season." doctor, something I look forward to the way a turkey looks forward to Thanksgiving. What tips can you give me so that once in my life I can enjoy just one fall without the headaches and sniffles and plugged nose syndrome? Why do people have sinus trouble? — Mrs. R.E.

"Sinus trouble" is a broad term. It implies an on-going condition. Most sinus trouble begins with either a cold or an allergic swelling of the membranes. Almost everyone has had sinusitis (inflammation) at one time or another. The key to control is to attack the main cause of discomfort — inadequate sinus drainage. If drainage is not accomplished, sinuses fill, cause pressure, become inflamed and bring the familiar "sinus headache."

For many the simplest measures are sufficient, hot wet packs, for example. Soak a heavy cloth (as a washcloth) in scalding water. Wring out the cloth and hold it to the nose and breathe in. Be sure it is not so hot as to scald the skin. If an allergy is involved, antihistamines help shrink the sinus membranes and promote drainage. If sinuses stay plugged, the chances of bacterial infection increase, so antibiotics may be needed. A steam inhaler is a good investment for one prone to sinus obstruction. You may want to read my booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago Ill. 60611. Colds know no season, so your seasonal trouble may be due to pollen or other allergen in your area. In any event, the steps I outline above can help make the season a bit more pleasant for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know the cause of the thumb and two fingers on my left hand feeling like they are asleep. They have a prickly feeling, and the hand is quite sore. Is there anything to do besides surgery? What happens, or what causes it? I've been told that surgery is not guaranteed and probably won't help. — Mrs. M.H.

You can hear bad reports about almost any kind of surgery. When dealing with something as complicated as the body, guarantees cannot be made.

Your problem sounds like the carpal tunnel syndrome, which can be caused by the pinching of a nerve in the wrist, from injury or from arthritis. The effect is a tightening of the pathway (tunnel) through which the nerve passes. "Asleep" is not a bad term to use. The area is sort of asleep at this point because the nerve action is interrupted.

Contrary to what you have heard, surgery to relieve the pressure is usually successful. There might be some time before feeling returns and pain subsides. Guarantees may be offered by mechanics, but not by surgeons.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If estrogen imbalance causes premenstrual tension won't estrogen supplements relieve it? What's the thinking on this? — Mrs. P.D.

There is some thought that premenstrual tension is related to an estrogen imbalance. But supplements have not had too great an effect on the problem. The big three of treatment for this unpleasant situation consists of salt restriction (during that half of the cycle), water pills to remove excess fluids (10 days before period), and exercise during the month.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a doctor tell if rectal bleeding is caused by ulcers or by hemorrhoids? I have both conditions. — Mrs. P.W.

He usually can. Hemorrhoidal bleeding shows as fresher blood (red), ulcer bleeding as a darker blood, even black. Direct examination with the anoscope or procto-scope is then done.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can hormone pills cause uterine fibroids? — M.M.

It won't cause them to occur, but if a woman has one, the hormone (estrogen) can make it increase in size.

What are ulcers? How can you help yourself get rid of ulcers and stay rid of them? Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers." For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Mirror, Mirror on the wall- You showed me I wasn't small!

Ms. Evelyn Hudgins: Columbus, Ga. Winter 77

Now 6 Dress Sizes Smaller, I Can Tell It All.

Ms. Evelyn Hudgins tells her own story.

Dear Mirror:

After our conversation in the department store dressingroom a few months ago, I walked right out empty handed. I took no time in calling Pat Walker-I was determined to never buy a larger size dress again. You know it's funny but until you told me all the sizes that I'd picked out were too small, I really had not thought of myself as fat.

I came back in the store the other day just to let you see how I looked since I lost from a size 16 to a size 10. You just wouldn't believe how I have toned and firmed.

Do you remember that I could hardly get my arm over my head while trying on dresses? I explained to you about my bursitis shoulder - well, now I can reach high with no pain. I have also seen much improvement in all my joints, my posture and my general well being. The compliments I have been receiving have been very nice, too. The passive treatments at Pat Walkers are just wonderful.

I'm sorry you were so busy and could not watch me try on all those beautiful size 10 clothes. It was such a joy and pleasure this time to shop for clothes that I knew would look good on me. The next time you have a friend come to see you with the same problems just have them call Pat Walker and see what they can do for them.

Pat Walker's can work for you too!
The entire process is so pleasant, so easy, and so inexpensive, you'll wish you had found the Pat Walker's method years ago.

Your Friend
P.S. Will be back in to see you again as soon as I lose a few more pounds.

Dear Ann: I can't tell you how glad I am that you and your mother-in-law are my only friends. I've gone through a life and had my virginity affair didn't work out. I got into town.

My next husband was 15 then. I didn't want to be with him. I met on the street. I thought I was turned out. I dropped him.

The guy I'm having now is a lousy c. I got pregnant will be hell. I'm having a baby. I'm having a baby. I'm having a baby.

I used to be a model. I gained a lot. I told the model once kids stop. You act like the fact and so do I. I don't let us do.

The best of times are those we share with the very best of friends.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old girl with a great big problem. There is nobody I can talk to except my girl friends and they don't know any more than I do. My mother would kill me if she knew what I have been doing so that's out. You are my only hope.

I've gone steady with three guys in my life and had sex with all of them. I lost my virginity when I was 14. The big love affair didn't last very long. The guy was 17, got into trouble with the law and left town.

My next hot fusk was "Rick," and I was 15 then. Rick was neat but my folks didn't want me to go with him because he was 19, had a beard and no job. We'd meet on the sly and had sex a lot. When I thought I was pregnant he dropped me. It turned out to be a false alarm and I dropped him.

The guy I'm going with now is terrific. But I'm having the same trouble. I realize my luck can't last forever. I'm sure to get pregnant one of these days and there will be hell to pay. My folks will throw me out of the house.

None of the three guys ever used any protection. They all seemed to think that's up to the girl. I've heard a lot about the pill but that means going to a doctor and I can't do it. The same for a diaphragm. I know I should use something, but what?

I used to think you were square, but I gained a lot of respect for you when you told the mother of a teenage girl that once kids start to have sex they won't stop. You advised her to give her daughter "the facts." Well, that's what I need, and so do lots of other teenagers. Please don't let us down. I'll call myself — Jill

Dear Jill: You need more information than I can give you in this limited space so I'm going to recommend a very frank pamphlet called "The Hassles of Becoming a Teenage Parent." It is put out by the U.S. government and it's free. Write to: Family Planning Clearinghouse, Box 2225, Rockville, Md. 20852.

Be sure to enclose your name and address. I urge parents of teenagers to send for it, too. Your kids will appreciate your interest. If you want the pamphlet in Spanish, please say so. It's available.

Dear Ann Landers: Our best friends, a couple with a young child, have two cats and two medium-sized dogs. These animals dominate the house.

The cats sleep on the dining table and are fed on the kitchen counter. The dogs sleep alternately with the child and the couple. The odor of cat urine permeates the house. When supper is over, Sara puts the plates on the floor for Fido and Rover to finish whatever there is. It is absolutely sickening.

We enjoyed Sara and Jack's company very much before the animals came to live there. We want to continue to enjoy their friendship but the unsanitary conditions in their home are more than we can take. Please, Ann, tell them they are going to lose us (and others) if they don't clean up their act. — Sick In San Francisco

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

My next hot fusk was "Rick," and I was 15 then. Rick was neat but my folks didn't want me to go with him because he was 19, had a beard and no job. We'd meet on the sly and had sex a lot. When I thought I was pregnant he dropped me. It turned out to be a false alarm and I dropped him.

The guy I'm going with now is terrific. But I'm having the same trouble. I realize my luck can't last forever. I'm sure to get pregnant one of these days and there will be hell to pay. My folks will throw me out of the house.

None of the three guys ever used any protection. They all seemed to think that's up to the girl. I've heard a lot about the pill but that means going to a doctor and I can't do it. The same for a diaphragm. I know I should use something, but what?

I used to think you were square, but I gained a lot of respect for you when you told the mother of a teenage girl that once kids start to have sex they won't stop. You advised her to give her daughter "the facts." Well, that's what I need, and so do lots of other teenagers. Please don't let us down. I'll call myself — Jill

Dear Ann Landers: Our best friends, a couple with a young child, have two cats and two medium-sized dogs. These animals dominate the house.

The cats sleep on the dining table and are fed on the kitchen counter. The dogs sleep alternately with the child and the couple. The odor of cat urine permeates the house. When supper is over, Sara puts the plates on the floor for Fido and Rover to finish whatever there is. It is absolutely sickening.

We enjoyed Sara and Jack's company very much before the animals came to live there. We want to continue to enjoy their friendship but the unsanitary conditions in their home are more than we can take. Please, Ann, tell them they are going to lose us (and others) if they don't clean up their act. — Sick In San Francisco

VEGETABLE HEROS
1 (10-oz.) pkg. frozen cauliflower clusters
1 (10-oz.) pkg. frozen brussel sprouts
1 (9-oz.) pkg. frozen broccoli florettes
1/2 cup softened butter
2 tsps. prepared mustard
1/4 cup finely chopped green onion
6 sweet French rolls
24 slices salami
6 slices provolone cheese, halved
2 thinly sliced med. tomatoes

Prepare vegetables according to package directions. Drain well. Beat butter and mustard together; stir in green onion. Cut a 1-inch slice from top of rolls. Hollow out lower sections of rolls, leaving a half-inch shell. (Save insides to make crumbs for another use.) Spread insides and tops of rolls with mustard butter. Fill rolls with vegetables. Top with salami, cheese and tomato slices. Replace tops of rolls. Wrap each roll in foil, and set on shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

We are indebted to Paul Lucaks and the Bridge World for today's hand. South is in a normal three notrump and wins the spade lead.

With any luck he will make a lot of tricks. Five diamonds, one spade and the aces and kings of the other suits. However, there is no law that diamonds will break and if they don't, he doesn't want to let East in to lead through the remaining spade honor.

The ordinary declarer leads a diamond to dummy's ace at trick two. East shows out and while South still has lots of ways to go for nine tricks he almost surely won't get them.

The really careful declarer enters dummy with a club or heart and proceeds to lead the deuce of diamonds. He plans to finesse the nine if East follows, but East shows out.

This doesn't bother our man with the suspenders and the belt. He simply wins the diamond and leads toward dummy's ace-eight. West can't keep declarer from scoring four diamond tricks, not to mention game and rubber.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I learned the hard way when I was a bride many years ago to never keep spices near the stove.

Spices should always be kept in a cool, dry place. In the summertime, I keep many of mine in the fridge. — Janet McCurdy

According to Polly Murray, manager of consumer services of a large spice company, Janet is absolutely correct.

Spices do not like heat or moisture and when stored where these conditions exist, they lose the essential oils very quickly, therefore lose flavor.

Often you see the spice rack hung over the sink or range. These are the two areas in the kitchen that generate the most heat and moisture.

Also, haven't you at one time or another, picked up a container of spices and sprinkled it directly into a steaming pot? I have...but, according to Polly, this is a no-no!

This not only causes the spices to lose flavor, but will make them cake in the container as well.

Some spices do keep well when stored in the fridge, provided there is not too much moisture; however, a cool dry part of your cupboard is equally sufficient.

Posies to Polly for sharing her tips. Let's follow her advice and keep the spice in our spices! — Hugs! — Heloise

Outdoor Mass Set For Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church will jointly celebrate Pope John Paul I's outdoor funeral Mass with the same solemn simplicity that marked the funeral of Pope Paul VI less than two months ago, the Vatican announced Monday.

Forty of the 127 cardinals, those who have arrived in Rome, met in the Apostolic Palace to complete arrangements for Wednesday's funeral.

In a drenching rain outside, meanwhile, tens of thousands under umbrellas and huddled beneath Bernini's tall colonnade on St. Peter's Square streamed into the basilica to view the pope's body, lying in state on a catafalque before the main altar.

Service To Be Televised

The cardinals set the time of the funeral Mass, atop the broad marble steps of St. Peter's, at 4 p.m. Wednesday — 10 a.m. CDT. It is expected to be televised worldwide. The concelebrated Mass will be presided over by 85-year-old Italian Cardinal Carlo Confalonieri, the dean of the College of Cardinals, who also led the funeral service for Pope Paul.

The Congregation of Cardinals, administering the 700-million-member church in the period between popes, also issued a statement expressing "worry, apprehension and sorrow" over the renewed heavy fighting in Lebanon. John Paul, who died last Thursday of a heart attack after just 34 days as pope, was reported to have been considering a trip to that war-torn country in an attempt to act as a peacemaker.

The outdoor concelebration of a papal requiem Mass was new with Pope Paul's funeral. He had specified repeatedly he wanted a simple service and burial. Previous papal funerals were indoors and involved elaborate services over days.

After Wednesday's Mass, the body of Pope John Paul will be buried opposite the tomb of his immediate predecessor, in the grotto of the basilica.

Because it was the start of a work week, the line of mourners waiting in the downpour for a last glimpse of the pope was smaller than the crowds Sunday, when an estimated 300,000 braved a steady rain to view the body.

Outpouring Of Affection

Longtime Vatican observers called it the greatest outpouring of affection for a dead pontiff in recent times. Well over a half-million had viewed the body in four days.

"You see, even though it's raining a lot of people have come," said Giovanni Oliviero, 35, standing on line Monday. "People loved him. He was a real pastor of the people. He's left a personal example of what the people want, which will be difficult for his successor to follow."

The pope's face looked gray and waxen, and the basilica was shut down periodically Monday so morticians could re-touch it. Embalmers said sudden death caused the body to deteriorate faster but that they expected it to remain on public display until the funeral.

The Vatican said the pope died of a massive heart attack Thursday night, but the body did not undergo autopsy. The major daily newspaper Corriere della Sera, echoing the thoughts of many Italians, mentioned inevitable "doubts and suspicions" in the absence of an autopsy.

But autopsies are not called for in provisions of the church constitution applying to periods between popes.

The official Vatican Radio, meanwhile, said it learned that the pontiff was clutching study papers, perhaps involving personal thoughts or speeches, when his body was found in his bed Friday morning.

Earlier it had been reported that a 16th-century meditation book, "The Imitation of Christ," was either next to him or in his hands when the body was discovered.

The cardinals arriving in Rome for the funeral and the conclave to elect the next pope, which begins Oct. 14, have indicated they will be looking for a man like Cardinal Albino Luciani, who became Pope John Paul I — meaning a cardinal with substantial "pastoral" experience as a leader of faithful and no connection with the central church administration.

Cardinal William W. Baum of Washington, D.C., flew in Monday and said he hoped the next conclave would provide a "pastor" for the church. Cardinal Timothy Manning of Los Angeles had also asked for "another great pastor."

Boston's Humberto Medeiros said "action of the Holy Spirit" determines the election — "This is 95 percent of it." He also said health is an important factor for "this demanding position."

Many, including Medeiros, are not ruling out a non-Italian.

"I think it's an open question," said the Boston archbishop.

For the past four centuries all popes have been Italians, their intricate knowledge of the Vatican working in their favor.

Cardinals Johannes Willebrands of the Netherlands and Eduardo Pironio of Argentina, and French Cardinal Jean Villot are considered possible candidates if the conclave looks for a non-Italian.

adding that his house was intact when he left.

"What woke us up was a cracking sound," said Mary Ashford, another resident. "It sounded like dogs kicking over garbage cans. The transformers started shrieking out and sparking."

The hillside ocean-view homes were valued at between $175,000 to $300,000 by Lu Wrede of a Laguna Beach realty firm.

At least 30 evacuated families were taken to a recreation center where the Red Cross set up an emergency headquarters, Deike said. Another emergency center was established at Blue Bird Canyon Park.

Many area residents at the Red Cross center did not know if their homes were damaged or destroyed because the area was closed off by police.

Meager Crowds Attracted To CD Meetings

The sole person attending the Southwest Lubbock meeting in Sector 4 requested a branch library in that part of Lubbock.

Three CD neighborhood meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight to get citizen input on how the city should spend $3.7 million in CD funds which becomes available in June.

The Sector 5 (West Lubbock) meeting will be at Stubbs Elementary, 3516 Toledo; the Sector 2 (East Lubbock) meeting will be at the Struggs Campus of Dunbar High School, 1323 E. 24th St.; and the Sector 3 (Central Lubbock) meeting will be at Roscoe Wilson Junior High School, 2807 25th St.

The final two meetings will be held Thursday at Bean Elementary, 3001 Avenue N, and Matthews Junior High School, 414 N. Akron.

The Community Development Advisory Committee will evaluate all citizen comments before making a recommendation to the Lubbock City Council on how the city's share of the CD monies should be spent.

Muscovites Get Ready For Long, Cold Winter

MOSCOW (AP) — With a touch of frost and a few flakes of snow already in the air, Moscow is preparing for its long Russian winter as if for a siege of war.

Newspapers are printing advice and cautions, factories and offices are fixing up their buildings, and teams of volunteers are preparing the city's parks and courtyards for the harsh onslaught of the cold.

The first snowfall of the year came Sunday, and already on cold mornings the breath of pedestrians heading for work crystallizes in the air.

Moscow's official weather station says it is too early for a winter-long forecast, but the word is already out among Muscovites that they face a particularly rough season.

Grandmothers and other people who say they know about such things have read the signs of nature: the cold summer, the lack of the traditional September heat wave, the frosty winter sun that already hangs dimly over the city.

City officials say more than $30 million has been spent since the end of last winter getting the city ready for the next one.

In an interview with a Moscow newspaper, B.V. Nikolsky, deputy city committee chairman, said 32,598 buildings, hundreds of miles of heating pipe and patches of road all over the city have been repaired after the wear and tear of the last winter.

Schools, clinics, shops, railway stations and stadiums are being refurbished and re-insulated, their double windows are being wedged against the walls of older buildings to counteract the pressure of tons of snow and ice.

A fleet of 650 plows and more than 1,000 dump trucks and an army of 86,000 women with shovels and long brooms are being readied. The snow-clearing budget is $18 million. Women, who in the Soviet Union are engaged in manual labor much more than men are in the West, handle the bulk of snow-shoveling chores in Moscow.

Battle-Scarred Lebanon 'On Verge Of Collapse'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Elias Sarkis said Monday fighting between Syrian troops and Christian militiamen has pushed Lebanon to "the verge of collapse." He promised a new effort to end the battles that have killed and wounded hundreds in less than a week.

As the president spoke, rightist militiamen were pressing a day-long campaign to wrest two bridges from Syrian control and gain a supply route to the north from embattled East Beirut.

Police sources said 39 Lebanese were killed and 189 wounded Monday, most of them during a heavy barrage of artillery, mortar and rocket fire from Syrian positions in the early morning hours.

The Syrians laid down the blanket of fire power to cover an assault that rescued a unit of 50 of their comrades trapped for two days inside East Beirut pharmacy. The rightists conceded the Syrians broke the siege and said the army lost eight soldiers.

Sixteen buildings were demolished and 61 apartments set afire as the Syrians advanced Monday after the barrage. All routes into Christian East Beirut were blocked by Syrian roadblocks and sniper fire.

The Christian president, appearing worn and depressed as he spoke in a nationwide broadcast from the presidential palace, blamed both the Christian rightists and the Syrians for the turmoil.

"The situation that emerged from a provocation on one side and the mass violent retaliation on the other has inflicted many innocent casualties, which saddens us beyond description," Sarkis said. "The latest events have left almost no family without a casualty and have ruined nearly every house. There is no hospital left in East Beirut that can extend adequate medical care to the wounded."

Battle For Bridges

The fighting continued into daylight hours as militia bands tried to pry Syrian troops from two bridges leading into the Christian sector of Beirut. The bridges control the militia's supply lines.

The right-wing "Voice of Lebanon" claimed the militia destroyed 12 Syrian artillery batteries in the hills overlooking the capital, but the Syrians had no comment on the claim, which could not be independently verified.

Police estimated 222 civilians killed and about 500 wounded in fighting since Wednesday.

East Beirut's morgues and hospitals are reported clogged and blood banks drained. The Christians reported more than 30 bodies were pulled from the rubble of collapsed buildings in one area during a lull in the fighting.

In his address, President Sarkis promised to come up with a new government and a new security plan within 10 days to stem fighting. Government sources said the president needed time to talk with Syrian President Hafez Assad, due to return to Damascus from East Germany and Moscow at the end of the week.

Sarkis said he would bring opposing politicians into his new government, a plan he tried unsuccessfully last spring. Sarkis did not give details of his new peace plan, or say why he expected it to work, other than to say he foresaw "a new Lebanon better than before and much better than now."

Previous Cabinet Quit

Last spring, Prime Minister Selim El Hoss and his cabinet resigned because they were unable to deal with the clashes between rightist Christian militia bands and the Syrians. Hoss and his cabinet stayed in office, however, because political leaders could not agree on the composition of a new government.

The Syrians intervened in the Lebanese civil war late in 1976 to prevent the Christians from being defeated by the left-wing Lebanese Moslems and their allies, the Palestinian guerrillas. But the Christians refused to disarm their militiamen and submit their areas to Syrian control because the Syrians would not disarm the Palestinians.

The Syrians were angered further by the Christians' alliance with the Israelis in southern Lebanon to prevent the Palestinians taking control there. Now the Syrians are trying to bring the Christians under their control.

The Congregation of Cardinals, running the Roman Catholic Church in Vatican City in the period between popes, expressed "worry, apprehension and sorrow" over the fighting in Lebanon.

School Case Appeal Gets More Time

cial counter that the plan involves reassignment of many more whites than minorities, however.)

School board president Charles Waters said that the systemwide integration approach advocated by the Justice Department would require "many times the amount of busing we have now."

An appeal by the department would not have any immediate effect. The existing plan would remain in force until the 5th Circuit Court makes its ruling and possibly gives Woodward further instructions for a new plan.

School officials have said that if the Justice Department wins at the 5th Circuit level, the case may be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The local Citizens' Alliance for Successful Schools, also a proponent of systemwide integration, has stated that it will attempt to appeal Woodward's desegregation rulings if the Justice Department does not.

In opposing the department's request for more time to consider the case, Cobb and Johnson said the department has known for eight months about the scope of the desegregation plan and for 4 1/2 months about the details of the plan.

"This is surely enough time for (the department) to decide whether or not to appeal and to prepare and file its brief," the school attorneys argued.

possibility some 20 years ago, but says he suspects it was assumed by the city when it was a small, inexpensive program to handle.

"The fact that the city has funded it for all of these years in no way makes it right, nor makes it the city's responsibility," West said.

"This program is growing each year and it is past time for the school system to assume the responsibility for it."

In addition to the school guard funding, West says the city bears the several thousand dollar cost to install and maintain all flashing school zone lights, school crossing signs and safety equipment.

If the school district assumes the financial responsibility for the crossing guards, West says the city will "continue, as always, to respond to any school that has a traffic problem beyond the capabilities of civilian crossing guards."

In the letter, West suggests using "cafeteria employees or other personnel" to man the school crossings.

"I can certainly understand your hesitancy to completely take over this program because it is a big chore and takes a lot of work to set it up and monitor it, but I do not agree that you should not pay for it. As I pointed out, the $53,000 does not pay for all the work and time that is required to keep this necessary program going," West said.

West also repeated his assurance that the school crossing will be manned regardless of who bears the cost.

The first snowfall of the year came Sunday,

Texas' Death Row Getting Crowded

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Texas' Death Row is getting crowded.

More than 100 convicted criminals are now condemned to die, and prison officials predict they will begin executing prisoners next year.

"They're coming in hard and quick," said Department of Corrections spokesman Ron Taylor. "At some point we're going to have to open up a third cell block to house all these people."

Taylor said Monday there are now exactly 100 persons in state custody who have been sentenced to death, "plus probably another dozen in county jails who have been sentenced but have not yet been transferred to us."

Long Time On Death Row

Taylor said some have been on Death Row for up to four years, and appeals are beginning to run out. Texas has not executed a prisoner since July 30, 1964, when convicted murderer Joseph Johnson of Houston was put to death in the electric chair. The chair has been replaced by a method of execution yet to be used — lethal injection.

"It looks like there's a good possibility for an execution in 1979," Taylor said. "My guess is it will be late spring or early summer."

Texas houses its condemned prisoners in single-person cells in the Ellis Unit, about 18 miles north of here. If the trend continues, Ellis' Death Row stands to grow even more crowded before the executions start. Texas juries sentenced 17 persons to death in 1974, but sent 24 convicted killers to death row last year.

Houston juries alone have handed down 12 death sentences so far this year, including four in one week.

Woman Condemned

A jury in nearby Wharton last month sent the only condemned woman in Texas to Death Row. Mary Lou Anderson of Lake Charles, La., was sentenced to die by an injected overdose of sodium pentothal for hiring a killer to murder her parents so she could collect their life insurance.

Several women have been sentenced to death, but the only woman ever put to death was Chipta Rodriguez. She was hanged from a mesquite tree near Sinton in South Texas in 1863 for murdering a horse trader and stealing his gold.

Texas lawmakers wrote a new capital punishment law in 1973 to replace one declared unconstitutional the previous year. But prisoners have avoided death by continually appealing their cases. Now, legal experts in Austin say time is running out, especially for two condemned inmates, James Paul Burns and Jerry Lane Jurek.

Legal Battle Nears End

Assistant State Attorney General Anita Ashton said for Burns, who was convicted of abducting, torturing and murdering an Odessa man in 1973, he is "pretty close to the end" of his legal battle. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last week granted Burns a stay of execution pending an Oct. 30 hearing on his case.

After that, he could seek another stay from the U.S. Supreme Court.

Jurek, who has been on death row even longer than Burns, was convicted of abducting and strangling Wendy Adams, 10, of Cuero, in August 1973.

Area Couple Found Shot

later that evening.

The Crosby County Sheriff Fred Owen said Gandy's wallet and his wife's purse appeared untouched. There was no money in either the wallet or purse, but Owen said the couple was known for never carrying large amounts of cash.

Television Missing

A television set, however, was missing from the house, which the couple regularly left unlocked, he added.

Deputies cordoned off the house and shooting scene, and spent more than three hours searching for clues to the mysterious killing.

No weapons were found, the sheriff said, but the couple's car was impounded for further investigation.

Neighbors of the slain couple were shocked at their death.

"It just doesn't make any sense," and "they were the finest couple you could hope to know," were heard repeatedly from friends and neighbors gathered near the home.

"My God, who could have been so brutal — they would give anybody the last penny they had," Mrs. Hall said with a sob.

Although the couple was childless, Mrs. Hall said, they had raised a nephew since he was about six years old.

The nephew, David Snow, 23, lived with couple and worked in Lubbock. He was not at home when the shooting occurred.

Tape Reveals PSA Pilot Calm

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A doomed pilot's calm advisory that his jet was going down was the only interruption in routine pilot-controller conversations before the nation's worst air crash, tape recordings released Monday showed.

"Tower, we're going down. This is PSA," the pilot of Pacific Southwest Airlines Flight 182 told Lindbergh Field controllers just before the crash last Monday in which at least 144 persons died.

The transcripts, released by the Federal Aviation Administration, show no evidence of joking or inattention on the part of the PSA crew, as had been claimed in some news reports, but only routine transmissions between air and ground.

The PSA jet and a single-engine Cessna collided three miles east of Lindbergh Field, raining flaming debris and bodies on the city's North Park residential area. All 135 persons on the PSA jet died, both persons in the Cessna were killed, and at least seven persons on the ground were killed.

The transcripts cover transmissions between controllers at Miramar Naval Air Station, Lindbergh Field and several planes, both on the ground and aloft.

There is no hint of any trouble until controllers at Miramar, which handled the PSA jet until it was handed off to Lindbergh controllers for the final approach, noticed a low altitude alert sounded as the jetliner fell below a minimum safe height.

Spokesman Rudolph Kapustin of the national Transportation Safety Board told the Associated Press on Sunday that the cockpit conversation would be made public at a hearing that may be held in November.

Other pilots radioed controllers immediately after the accident, their voices showing concern.

"Cleared to land ... Boy, what blew up out there?" radioed an unidentified Western Airlines pilot, whose plane was cleared for landing about five minutes after the collision.

"Seven-twenty-seven went in," Lindbergh controllers answered.

"Oh, God. Whose?" another unidentified pilot asked.

"PSA," the Lindbergh controllers answered.

The transcripts showed other PSA pilots radioed immediately for words of their stricken sister plane and its personnel and passengers.

"I'm afraid it was your company," Lindbergh controllers told an unidentified PSA pilot just after the 9:02 a.m. crash.

The transcripts show the Cessna 172 involved in the collision with the PSA jetliner was advised twice that the pilot of the PSA 727 descending upon him knew the single-engine plane was there. The last advisory came almost at the moment of collision.

The tape recordings, which run to 35 pages, cover five to six minutes before and after the collision. They were played at a news conference.

Partial transcripts had been disclosed earlier and the complete recordings made public Monday confirmed earlier comments by investigators that they would reveal little new information.

The transcripts are still being studied by the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington as investigators try to piece together the question of just why the two planes hit.

Investigators expect to wrap up their work here by the middle of the week. The investigation will then continue in Washington and it is expected to be several months before any report is issued.

Ag Exports Pace Farming Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agricultural exports, regarded as one of the major building blocks of the American farm economy, are continuing their record pace this year.

In all, Agriculture Department economists predict that the value of farm exports will hit $26.6 billion in the year that will end Sept. 30, up about 11 percent from the previous high of $24.01 billion in 1976-77.

Through July, the first 10 months of this year, exports totaled $22.6 billion, up from $20.7 billion for the same period of last year, the department said.

On a quantity basis, commodity exports in the 10 months totaled 105.2 million metric tons, also a record for the period. A year earlier, shipments totaled 90.6 million metric tons. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

Total volume of exports this year is projected at a record of 117.6 million metric tons, up from 102.25 million last year.

The report, issued by USDA's Economic, Statistics and Cooperatives Service, said that agricultural imports also gained in the first 10 months of this year but not as fast as exports.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

ISSUES MOST LIKELY TO ELICIT recommendations from High Plains producers on the 1979 federal cotton program include the loan level, target price, and whether the USDA should use one or more of the available mechanisms to reduce cotton acreage.

So says Donald A. Johnson, executive vice president of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The USDA has invited public comment on the 1979 cotton program provisions, some of which will be announced as early as Nov. 1. To be considered, comment must be received by Ray Fitzgerald, acting director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, P. O. Box 2415, Washington, D. C. 20013, no later than Oct. 20.

The PCG's recommendations will be developed at a meeting of the board of directors on Oct. 11.

IN ADDITION TO DIRECT COMMENT to the USDA, Johnson says, individual producers are invited to convey their thoughts to PCG directors in their respective counties or to the PCG office in Lubbock.

The 1979 cotton loan level must be announced by Nov. 1. Under existing law, the loan cannot be below 48 cents per pound nor above 85 percent of a three-year average of U. S. spot market prices, based on the last five years, from which the year with the highest and the lowest market quotes are excluded.

The maximum loan level is indicated to be 50.23 cents, according to USDA figures.

The secretary of agriculture also has authority under the loan to set the loan somewhere between this minimum and maximum, provided 90 percent of the adjusted average Liverpool "A" Index for the 15-week period beginning last July 1 falls below 50.23 cents and above 48 cents.

THE STATUTORY MINIMUM TARGET PRICE for 1979 is 51 cents per pound. The secretary is directed to adjust the 1978 target price (52 cents) to reflect any change in the cost of producing cotton from the average 1976 and 1977 cost to the average cost for the production years 1977 and 1978.

Also, the secretary has authority to increase the target price if a cotton set-aside is in effect for 1979 or if the target price is increased for any other commodity for which a set-aside is in effect.

A set-aside for cotton is required if the secretary determines the total supply of upland cotton, in the absence of set-aside, likely will be excessive.

AND IF A MANDATORY SET-ASIDE is announced, the secretary has authority to place a limit on the acreage planted to cotton.

Whether or not a required set-aside is in effect for cotton, the secretary may make land diversion payments to producers if he determines such payments are necessary to assist in adjusting cotton acreage to desirable levels.

The amount of voluntary diversion payments may be determined by the secretary on a bid basis or through such other means as he determines appropriate.

Beef Futures Climb In Rapid Trading

By Reuters

CHICAGO — Cattle futures soared 120 points to the daily limit level of 150 in active trade of 21,654 cars, Monday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Most contracts shared the limit advance with April through December at new season's highs, and the highest since February.

The cash connected house paced aggressive buying after an early dip of 22 points. Delivery of 128 cars, which stems back to March 9 (when futures ranged 47.60 to 48.52) was easily absorbed. Firm stopping of deliveries easily offset heavy runs and some lower cash cattle.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 81 to 82 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river points. Cash cattle were off 50 to 75 cents with the best top $55.75 per hundredweight.

The major markets expect 2,800 head today.

Hog futures finished 25 higher to 20 lower on 4,378 cars. Distant October was up the most with distant December down the most after breaking 72. Earlier, February was up 90 and December, along with distant October and December, set new season's highs.

The erratic swings stemmed in part from absence of various local traders because of the Jewish holiday. Demand spilled over from the cattle pit with seller on easy cash hogs.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up 1 cent at 93 1/2 to 96 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were off 25 cents to $1 with the best top $52.25 per hundredweight at Peoria.

Kill was 301,000 head. Receipts at the major terminals today are expected to be 26,500 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures skidded 15 to 100 led by February at the day's lows. Volume was 3,783 contracts.

Aggressive local selling took the market lower after February climbed 120 to the highest since April, up more than 13 1/2 cents from the recent low.

The premium of futures to cash brought pressure as did lower cash hogs and reduced bacon slicings. Absence of some traders led to erratic swings as commission house stops were touched off on scale-up and down.

Wholesale bacon was up 1 to 1 off 1 cent at 55 1/2 to 61 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

Air Force Woman Fights Gay Charge

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — A woman who has accused the Air Force of invading her privacy through surveillance and taking unauthorized snapshots has temporarily staved off an attempt to discharge her for alleged homosexuality.

Loring Air Force Base spokesman Capt. David McClure said Monday the Maine Civil Liberties Union had filed for a temporary restraining order on behalf of Airman Mary DePalo. The order was issued Sept. 25, the day the woman was to be honorably discharged from the 2129th Communications Squadron at Loring Air Force Base.

U.S. District Judge Lansing Mitchell will rule on the restraining order Thursday morning.

The 22-year-old Californian completed a four-year tour of duty at the base in Limestone last Tuesday, but was denied the opportunity to re-enlist as a non-commissioned officer.

The Air Force said she was denied the promotion because she harbors homosexual tendencies and associated with a homosexual.

GHANDI MAY RUN

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said Monday she will decide this week whether to run in a by-election for parliament, the United News of India reported from Calcutta. The 60-year-old Mrs. Gandhi was defeated in the March 1977 general election but has kept active in politics.

ALL RIGHT BUCKY - Yankee manager Bob Lemon and catcher Cliff Johnson lead a parade out of the dugout to congratulate Bucky Dent for his three-run homer in Monday's playoff between New York and the Red Sox. (AP Laserphoto).

Yankees Earn Playoff Spot

BOSTON (AP) — George Steinbrenner, owner of the New York Yankees, walked into the Boston Red Sox clubhouse, stuck out his hand to manager Don Zimmer and said, "It's too bad that the best two teams in baseball had to play this game." (Playoff Boxscore, Page 3, Sec. B)

The Yankees whooped it up in their clubhouse Monday after hanging on for a 5-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox and the American League East title. It was only the second playoff to decide a race in AL history.

The Yankees rallied from a 2-0 deficit in the seventh inning keyed by a three-run homer by light-hitting Bucky Dent. New York added another run in the inning and Reggie Jackson applied the clincher with his 27th homer into the center field bleachers to lead off the eighth.

"No, I didn't see the ball hit the screen (over the left field wall)," said Dent, who ripped the off-speed pitch from Mike Torrez, despite pain from a foul ball off his shin.

"I just heard the fans. I've been struggling and I can't believe it, really. It was the biggest hit of my career. And talk about pressure, they really put pressure on us in the ninth inning with runners on first and third. That was a struggle."

Jackson hit a fastball off Boston relief ace Bob Stanley for his 27th homer of the year and the decisive run, as the Red Sox came back to score two runs in the eighth before leaving two men aboard in the ninth.

"I knew it was out as soon as I hit it," Jackson said. "But it wasn't my home run that did it. Bucky Dent, all the guys, deserve the credit."

Ron Guidry, a runaway winner for the league's Cy Young award, collected his 25th victory against just three losses with help from right-hander Rich Gossage, who earned his 27th save of the season by rescuing Guidry when the Red Sox threatened in their half of the seventh.

Gossage ended the game and the dramatic finish by retiring Carl Yastrzemski on a foul pop to third baseman Graig Nettles with runners on first and third in the ninth.

"When Yaz popped up, it was the greatest feeling in my whole life. I can't describe it," Gossage said. "I went right at Yaz with a fastball. If I was going to lose, I was going to do it with my best."

"I've gambled all my life and have been in a lot of photo finishes, but this is the biggest I've ever lost," said Zimmer, whose Red Sox finished the 162-game regular season even with the Yankees, 99 victories to 63 losses.

Gossage, after yielding two runs in the eighth, got Butch Hobson on a fly ball for the second out of the inning and struck out dangerous George Scott.

Torrez, the Yankees World Series pitching hero a year ago while playing out his option, was unable to hold the early advantage for the Red Sox.

Guidry, who hurled two consecutive two-hit shutouts against the Red Sox in September, was nicked for a run as 39-year-old Carl Yastrzemski drilled a homer into the right field stands leading off the second. It was Yastrzemski's 17th homer of the season and No. 383 of his illustrious career.

The Red Sox added a run in the sixth on a double by Rick Burleson, a sacrifice and a single by Jim Rice.

'Skins' Defense Stops Cowboys

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mark Mosley booted field goals of 52, 42 and 27 yards and the hard-hitting Washington defense shut down the vaunted Dallas offense Monday night as the undefeated Redskins bested the Cowboys 9-5 before President Carter and a national television audience.

The victory gave Washington a two-game edge over the defending world champion Cowboys, now 3-2, in the National Football Conference East.

President Carter, wife Rosalynn, son Chip, and daughter-in-law Caron sat in crisp autumn temperatures and watched a defensive battle between the archrivals. Washington quarterback Joe Theismann added insult to injury by prancing out of the end zone on the game's final play to give the Cowboys a safety.

A Ken Houston interception in the end zone and a third-quarter goalline stand by Washington blunted the only serious Cowboy threat of the night.

Houston, the Redskins' strong safety, stepped in front of a Roger Staubach pass intended for Drew Pearson in the third period. Minutes earlier, Washington had held Dallas to a 19-yard field goal after the Cowboys had gained a first-and-goal on the Redskin 2.

Tony Dorsett, the NFC's leading rusher, was collared for a 1-yard loss on third

Don Henry Awesome Aggies

AS HE WOUND up his program, the announcer wanted to go out with the bottom line. So, he mused his best voice and said, "And, the final score is... The Aggies win."

This was ten days ago, after the Aggies had crushed Boston College 37-2; possibly the announcer had forgotten the score, or, wanting to be polite, felt it better to just go out with the Aggies as winners and not with that devastating score on the minds of the fans.

The play-by-play guy could have finished his program last week in the same manner, after the Farmers had demolished Memphis State in a game that was almost rated R (for rubout).

It was bad — 58-0 by the official count. At one point late in the first half, the Memphis Staters took over at their 45, and five plays later punted back to the original line of scrimmage.

Sometimes, scores lie... this one didn't. Memphis State was the same team which two weeks earlier had topped the University of Houston. But, a few hours after the Aggies dismantled Memphis, the Cougars outlasted Florida State, the team which had been rated as one of the top ten collegiate groups in the nation.

SO, WHAT? SO, there are several clubs in the Southwest Conference capable of winning — and winning big — this season. And this isn't one of those, "on a given day..." deals, either.

Before the season began, there was talk of this being a well balanced year. Well, the balance could be here among the league's top five or six teams.

Injuries could alter this; in fact, injuries could have altered it already.

Baylor, for instance. Prior to the season, the Bears were considered a question mark, while awaiting the emergence of a first-team quarterback. Grant Teaff found that QB in Steve Smith, the transfer from UTEP. Then, the Bears moved into one of those nonconference schedules which carries all the mirth of being tied to the railroad tracks.

The Bears came out 0-3, but when Ohio State had to stave off the Bears in the final minutes to win 34-28 last Saturday, it appeared as if the losses had done little to crush the Bears' spirits.

What could be more of a crusher, however, was the loss of runningback Greg Hawthorne.

The SWC leader in tandem offense (rushing and pass receiving) sustained a broken hip during the game, and, thinking the hurt only a bruise, Hawthorne continued to play, until, in the fourth period, he went out for a pass and fell. He was taken from the field on a stretcher and it was later learned the hip was shattered. He will be out for the year.

This loss could keep the Bears from being a serious contender. But, there are plenty other contenders, even if the loss proves too much for Baylor to overcome.

THREE TEAMS REMAIN unbeaten, the awesome Aggies, Texas and Arkansas. Texas exhibited its brand of football to a standing-room-only crowd of 54,012 fans in Jones Stadium Saturday night. The defense is still there, with more aces than a cheating poker dealer.

And the offense showed that, among other things, there is power in numbers. With Randy McEachern, a smart and heady operator, and freshman Donnie Little, a young man loaded with talent, the Longhorns are fortified at quarterback. And they have a stack of runningbacks. None is an Earl Campbell, however, and this could hurt be a factor in a crucial game.

And Arkansas... The Razorbacks did not blow out Tulsa; they had to come from behind in the last half. The previous week, they didn't exactly smother Oklahoma State, but the talent is there, once they get untracked. Showing themselves to be No. 1? Not yet.

HOUSTON, TOO, APPEARS to be still coming along. Its win over Florida State is more of an indication of true stature than the loss to Memphis State and the thumping of Utah ten days ago.

This weekend, the Cougars invade Waco, and the loss of Hawthorne could be the decisive factor. UH used a win over Baylor in Waco two years ago as a springboard to the Cotton Bowl; Saturday's game could be a big step, or a major stumbling block.

SMU, which sat out last weekend looking forward to Ohio State, gave Penn State all it wanted two weekends back. SMU could be in the same boat as Baylor, should it lose a key player.

But, right now, the Mustangs could be on the verge of big things.

Arkansas, in the eyes of some, are national championship caliber. Maybe there are others in that category rattling around the SWC. But, fact that there are others rattling around within the same league could prevent any national trophies being shipped this direction.

Usually, a loss eliminates any U.S. title hopes; and a loss for every member of the league looks more definite each week.

Homer Rice Gets Bengal Job

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill "Tiger" Johnson, under fire as the 0-5 Cincinnati Bengals staggered to their worst start ever, was fired Monday as head coach and replaced by offensive assistant Homer Rice, who promised to "bring the troops back together."

The development came a day after the Bengals dropped an embarrassing 28-12 decision to the previously-winless San Francisco 49ers. It was Cincinnati's sixth straight loss over two seasons — one shy of the club's longest losing streak.

Johnson, 52, was in the final year of a three-year contract after succeeding coaching legend Paul Brown. Johnson, a former All-Pro center with the 49ers, had served as Brown's top assistant for nine years. He finished with an 18-15 record in the NFL.

Brown, general manager of the National Football League club, said in a prepared statement he met with Johnson Monday morning "and we mutually agreed that something had to be done. He is a fine, proud man and he put the welfare of the club first and agreed that a change could help our situation."

Johnson, after inheriting an 11-3 team that Brown took to the playoffs in his final season (1975), saw the club slip to 10-4 in 1976 and 8-6 last year after being touted as a Super Bowl challenger. His failure to take the team to the playoffs triggered mounting fan criticism.

Johnson was unavailable for comment.

Rice, 51, joined the Bengals in April as quarterback coach, leaving Rice University where he was head coach and athletic director.

He said he was "very surprised" when Brown offered him the job, which calls for him to coach the remainder of the season.

Rice is regarded as an outstanding offensive mind and known for developing outstanding college quarterbacks such as Kentucky's Rick Norton, Cincinnati's Greg Cook and Tommy Kramer of Rice.

A native of nearby Ft. Thomas, Ky., Rice said a factor in Johnson's departure was "a lot of injuries and a lot of bad luck. I have great respect for Bill. But things just kept snowballing. It wasn't anyone's fault."

He said the Bengals' troubles began Aug. 26 when quarterback Ken Anderson broke his hand in the second half of their final exhibition game against Green Bay. "We had a siege of injuries and we seemed to go downhill after that," said Rice.

The change, he said, "gives us a new lease on life."

Rice said he would hold his first meeting with the players at 1 p.m. Wednesday. Rice will make his professional head coaching debut at Miami Monday night on national television.

Brown said there would be no other coaching changes for now.

"We will review our picture at the end of the season but I have a lot of confidence in Homer," Brown said in the statement.

Rice formerly served as offensive coordinator at Kentucky under Blanton Collier and Charlie Bradshaw, under Jim McKenzie at Oklahoma and was head coach two years at the University of Cincinnati. He served eight years at athletic director at the University of North Carolina before returning to college coaching at Rice two years ago.

All Games Big For Bartosh Now

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

For Gil Bartosh, the season's already at the point where every game is a big one from now on.

Like it or not, the District 5-AAAA title chase gets underway Friday night. And the kicker is—there's a showdown on the horizon.

The big 'un of the week puts upstart Midland Lee against a team Bartosh says "is already talking district championship": Odessa High.

gentlemen, shake hands and come out cross-bucking.

Both teams enter the contest—hosted by Lee—with perfect 3-0 season marks, which makes things a little more interesting, for fans and footballers alike.

"Och, yeah it's a big one for us all right," agreed Bartosh, the first-year coach at Lee. "We certainly need a win. If you lose the first district game, or any district game, it sure puts you up against the wall."

Bartosh predicts that the 5-AAAA

Tahoka Leads 5-AA Into Play

By RUSS PARSONS

The air is sunny and warm. There are no crowds flying south in the sky. Fields are still green and sometimes during the day it's even warm enough to lay beside a swimming pool.

But football, the only sport that ignores such vagaries as the weather (preferring the harder realities of snow and frozen, wind-blown astroturf) marches on.

Here it is, only the first week of October, and already District 5-AA is entering conference play.

Leading that pack, predictably, is Tahoka. The Bulldogs advanced to the quarterfinals of the state playoffs last season, and with virtually the same cast returning, a lot of folks thought the 1978 5-AA season would be no more than a rerun.

champ will be the one that can cruise through the seven-game schedule without suffering a setback. That prompted the statement:

Since all eight teams in the loop took last week off for a little R&R, Bartosh says that probably means both his Rebels and their Bronchos will head into the contest "in pretty good shape."

But...

"The week off before district," explained Bartosh, "can work both ways. It can hurt some teams, while it helps others."

He knows better than to pass any judgements this early.

"We're worried about all of them," he said when asked which were the strong teams in that loop. "It's really too early to tell. All of them seem to have some good kids."

Running down the district, Tahoka is on top with a 2-1 mark. Slaton is at 2-1 also but the Bulldog's 76-14 scoring difference makes them a little stronger favorite right now.

Roosevelt is a surprise in third with a 1-1-1 potpourri. Cooper is 1-2 and (surprise) Post, Frenship, Seminole and Denver City are all 0-3.

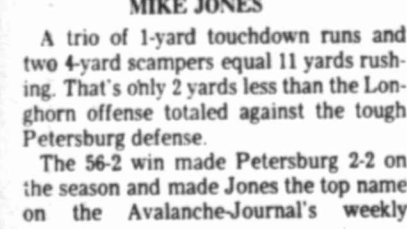

But Shavers insists it is still too early to tell.

Jones Scores 5 TDs, Leads A-J Honor Roll

By RUSS PARSONS

Petersburg tailback Mike Jones was a shoo-in choice to win the player of the week honors of South Plains high school football standouts.

Jones, who stands 5-9 and weighs 170, rushed 31 times for 210 yards Friday night against Hart and was almost a one-man scoring machine, knocking across for five touchdowns.

MIKE JONES

A trio of 1-yard touchdown runs and two 4-yard scampers equal 11 yards rushing. That's only 2 yards less than the Loughborough offense totaled against the tough Petersburg defense.

The 5-2 win made Petersburg 2-2 on the season and made Jones the top name on the Avalanche-Journal's weekly

Tech Coach Lauds Aggies

After packing away films and memories of the 24-7 loss to Texas last Saturday, Texas Tech coach Rex Dockery turns his attentions to the Aggies and Saturday afternoon's contest in College Station.

The Raiders returned to work Monday, concentrating on the Aggies, who are 3-0 for the year and nationally ranked.

Speaking Monday, Dockery praised the Aggies, as having the "best offense since I've been at Tech (four years). Their offense is exceptional."

"They have a strong offensive line, and (quarterback Mike) Mosley does a good job of running the option. Of course, Curtis Dickey is an outstanding athlete (at halfback), and David Brothers has done a good job of replacing the fullbacks (including 270-pound George Woodard). He's a good blocker."

Dockery mentioned that the Aggies' linebackers "are not big, but they can run. They play an attacking defense, and really pressure you in the secondary."

Dockery said the Raiders came out of the Texas game with two injuries. Cornerback Mike Patterson injured a knee and will be today or Wednesday before his status is determined. Also, Dockery said Fred Taylor could be sidelined also.

Redskins Throttle Dallas 9-5

by linebackers Harold McClinton, Brad Dusek and Houston.

Rafael Septien then came on and kicked Dallas' first points of the game.

The Cowboys returned the favor on the next possession, holding the Redskins to a Mosley field goal after Washington had gained a first-and-goal on the Dallas 8.

Both teams effectively moved the ball between the 20-yard lines. Stabach amassed 212 yards passing while Theismann threw for 156. But while Dorsett was held to 61 yards on 21 carries, Redskins John Riggins romped for a game-high 96 yards on 19 attempts.

Mosley booted the Redskins into a 6-0 halftime advantage, connecting on field goals of 52 and 42 yards.

ENMU Volleyballers Trip Lady Chaps

Eastern New Mexico University's women's volleyball team topped host Lubbock Christian College Monday night, dropping the Lady Chaparrals' record to 6-8.

The two teams split the first two games, ENMU winning 15-10, and LCC 15-4, then LCC jumped to a 14-9 lead in the third game. But, ENMU rebounded and won the game 16-14. It followed with a 15-1 win in the final game to win the best-of-five match.

The Lady Chaps will compete next in the Oklahoma State tournament at Stillwater, Okla., this weekend.

One Boss Feels Owners Axe . . .

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP)—The free-wheeling millionaires on the Texas Rangers baseball team should be happy now. Pat Corrales only has two rules: A, Get to the park on time. B, Hustle.

Billy Hunter was fired Sunday by majority owner Brad Corbett because "he didn't have the ability to communicate with the players."

Corbett had an underling "communicate" the news to Hunter.

Hunter, making considerably less than most of his players, had the gall to suggest a few rules defining where alcohol could and could not be consumed.

This was too much for some of the Rangers.

Pitcher Dock Ellis sent a handwritten "release" to the pressbox by runner last June. It stated: "I feel that some of these rules are juvenile and not for grown men."

Hunter was furious and wanted Ellis gone, N-O-W. Corbett, who openly admits he coddles players besides digging deep for a $2.6 million payroll, said he would take care of the Ellis situation by a trade.

Hunter waited and waited until Sunday.

"Now Ellis is still here and I'm gone," he said.

Corbett, a plastic pipe manufacturer who Billy Martin once said, "knows about as much about baseball as I do plastic pipe," had a ready explanation.

"We had a bitter team," said Corbett. "Baseball has changed and sports have changed. It's a new game. You have to adapt or die."

There is some question the Rangers were a "bitter" team as Corbett suggests considering that even journey players like Kurt Bevacqua were making at least $65,000 a year on a four-year contract.

Catcher Jim Sundberg says it is ridiculous to blame Hunter for finishing five games behind Kansas City in the American League Western Division.

"By firing him like this it looks like they are blaming our year on him," said Sundberg. "I for one certainly don't think it should be blamed on him. It's a poor excuse for a player to blame it on the manager. It's a good cop-out."

Corrales, the third base coach, is a favorite of the Ranger players. He also has never had any previous experience managing in the big leagues except losing a double-header last year when the Rangers went through five managers in one season.

Corrales should be forewarned. He should turn to the front page of the Dallas Morning News where under an "Arlington Stadium Graveyard" headline there are headstones and pictures of Ted Williams, Whitey Herzog, Martin, Frank Lucchesi, Eddie Stanky, and Hunter.

It's like columnist Randy Galloway says: "The players know that when the manager is bugging them Brad is always available with a soft shoulder to cry on."

SWINGING AWAY—Carl Yastrzemski swings away on his second inning homer. The shot, his 17th of this season, put Boston ahead of New York 1-0. That lead didn't last, however. The Yanks won the playoff 5-4 and will face Kansas City today in the American League Playoffs. (AP Laserphoto)

Another Walks Away From Job, Baseball

DETROIT (AP)—Ralph Houk, now that he has officially retired from 40 years in the game, says he "wouldn't even consider another baseball job — unless 15 years from now I'm stone broke."

He and the reporters jamming his Tiger Stadium clubhouse office laughed as Houk, who closed out his 16-year major league managerial career Sunday, fired volleys of parting witticisms and anecdotes.

Did he, perhaps, hope for one last chance to argue with the umpires, throw his cap to the turf and kick the dirt?

"I wouldn't have done it because they would have thought I was doing it to put on a show," he said. Then, breaking into a grin, he added, "I wouldn't do that to those nice guys."

Asked if he might write a book about his experiences, Houk, occasionally puffing on his ever-present cigar, said: "I never will because the only thing that would sell would be something like Bouton's book . . ."

"The only books that sell are ones where you have something cheap in it and I wouldn't do that — although I could put a lot in it."

Jim Bouton, former New York Yankee pitcher under Houk, wrote "Ball Four," a best seller which included inside stories about baseball and his teammates.

"Everybody thinks I'm retiring," Houk said. "I'm just retiring from baseball. I've got a new job, maybe tougher than ever: catching fish. And you know my job will be tough — if you've ever seen me play golf."

Houk, 59, said his biggest ambition when his baseball career began in 1939 was "to make the Joplin ball club or the Topeka ball club" of the Yankees' farm system.

"I thought that would be the high point of my career," he said.

Later he said, "I had more visions of being a football player ahead of being a baseball player. I was better at football. I had a lot of scholarship offers."

Houk was general manager of the Yankees from 1964 until May, 1966.

"That's the worst job in baseball," he said. "It's a job I got no kick out of. I never worked so hard in my life . . . I'm not a desk man. I never knew how to do all that paper work. My file system was terrible, but my secretary did a good job."

However, "I think it made a better manager out of me . . . I don't think people realize the problems you have in the front office."

Houk said he'll probably feel funny about his retirement about the time he'd normally prepare for the winter league meetings, then again when he'd normally get ready for spring training.

And, he added facetiously, "I'll really miss that winter press tour."

His toughest job in his five years as Tigers manager?

"Letting the people go who had been stars here — the Freehans, Cashes, Northrups and Hortons," he said.

Meanwhile, Twin Owner Stays In Hot Water

MINNEAPOLIS — With the Minnesota Twins in emotional shambles following his off-the-cuff comments on blacks, sex and salaries, owner Calvin Griffith says he's trying to "get a few things straightened out" with the players he offended.

"My frame of mind is not too damn good right now," Griffith said Monday. "I don't want to say anything about what transpired this weekend until we get a few things straightened out with the people involved."

What "transpired" was a virtual revolt by key players after hearing of Griffith's remarks. Rod Carew, for example, vowed never to play again for the Twins.

Griffith insisted that his remarks, made before a Lion's Club in Waseca and published in the Minneapolis Tribune, were in jest. The Lion's president, Ken Lenz, said Monday that the comments were taken out of context and that Griffith meant no malice or bigotry.

In his Lion's talk, Griffith said: Carew was a "damn fool" for signing a contract for $170,000, that catcher Butch Wynegar's performance suffered because he got married, and that he moved the Twins from Washington, D.C. to Minnesota in 1971 when he found "you only have 15,000 blacks here."

"Black people don't go to ballgames, but they'll fill up a wrestling ring and put up such a chant it will scare you to death. We came here because you have good, hard-working white people here," Griffith was quoted as saying.

Griffith later said he didn't intend the remarks as racial slurs, but Carew didn't see it that way.

"I will not ever sign another contract with this organization," said Carew, who won his seventh American League batting title on Sunday. "I will not come back and play for a bigot. I'm not going to be another nigger on his plantation. The days of Kunta Kinte are over."

Griffith, according to Tribune reporter

Kansas City Awaits Yanks For Rematch

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The little shortstop with the broken heart, the third baseman "who chokes," and the manager "who gets out-managed" see their bad luck turning good and the World Series heading for Kansas City.

"The only guy in the world who wanted to see the Yankees and Red Sox go to a one-game playoff more than me was (Boston Manager) Don Zimmer," said Royals skipper Whitey Herzog. "For the last two years we've been like a blackjack dealer who had a hot hand all night, then all of a sudden watches it turn sour at dawn. If anybody's due for a good break, it's us, and the Yankees and Red Sox playing Monday might be a sign that our luck's changed."

"They're having to use two pitchers they didn't want to use, and the winner might just be a little flat after such an emotional game."

The way the Yankees beat the Royals for the American League pennant the past two years has been almost ghoulish.

A bad call by an umpire in the eighth inning of the fifth game in New York two years ago cost them a chance to have George Brett come to the plate with the bases loaded. Brett, who had hit a three-run home run his previous at-bat but committed two throwing errors in game No. 1, watched helplessly moments later as Chris Chambliss bashed a ninth-inning home run to beat them.

Last year in Kansas City the Royals led all the way until they were again overtaken in the fateful ninth inning of the fifth game. Herzog paraded three pitchers to the mound but was unable to stop the Yankees from scoring three runs, one on Brett's throwing error.

Hollow-eyed, the Royals filed into their dressing room while Herzog's critics accused him of being out-smarted by Billy Martin.

"Give me Sparky Lyle to bring out of the bullpen," replied Herzog testily, "and it'll amaze you how much smarter I get."

But Lyle was working for Martin that night and he finished the Royals on a pop fly and Fred Patek's game-ending double play grounder.

Millions of television viewers saw Patek, the smallest man in the major leagues, alone in the dugout, his face in his hands and his shoulders shaking.

"That picture is going to haunt me for a long time, I guess," Patek says. "I was a long time getting over it. But I'm over it now. All I ever wanted was another opportunity."

"All winter long," said catcher Darrell Porter, "I'd be somewhere, having a good time, feeling pretty good and then I'd think about what happened and I'd get depressed all over again."

GREETINGS — Members of the Cullman Ku Klux Klan block the way of marchers as they attempted to enter the city limits of Cullman Monday. The marchers were protesting the trial of Tommy Hines, charged with robbery and rape, whose trial began in Cullman today. Several of the marchers were arrested and charged with a city ordinance for not having a permit to parade. (AP Laserphoto)

Strike Hits Tucson Schools

By The Associated Press — Teachers in Tucson, Arizona's largest school system with 57,000 students, on Monday became the latest group of school employees in the country to go on strike. The Tucson strike was the first in the city's history. School strikes affecting almost 150,000 more pupils were reported in five other states. Tucson schools remained in operation but at reduced levels. School Superintendent

Wilbur H. Lewis reported 1,793 of the district's 2,699 teachers were absent Monday. He also said more than 31,700 students were absent, including three out of every four high school students. Non-striking teachers, substitutes and administrators kept schools open. The Tucson teachers seek a 6.5 percent pay raise; the board has offered a 5.6 percent increase. Teachers' salaries range from $10,096 to $23,000 annually, with an average wage of $16,189.

In Cleveland, bargaining continued on Monday to resolve that city's 25-day-old school strike, which has shut down the 100,000-student public school system since Sept. 7. Classes were officially canceled in Ohio's largest public school district on Sept. 12. The six striking unions, including the 5,000-member Cleveland Teachers Union, have been trying to negotiate a new contract since November 1976, and are asking for a 20 percent raise.

Attempted Restaurant Robbery Fails

Three men were booked into Lubbock County Jail Monday after they allegedly attempted to rob the Der Wienerschnitzel restaurant at 315 University Ave. earlier that day. The trio, a 23-year-old man and two 18-year-old men, were arrested by officers about 3 a.m. in the 1300-block of Avenue just five minutes after the incident. Police reports indicated the men were taken to the fast-food restaurant where employees identified the suspects as the ones who entered the business five minutes earlier and held them at gunpoint. Employee Daniel Villarreal, 16, said he was emptying trash behind the restaurant when he was approached by one of the suspects, a "tall man" armed with a shotgun. Villarreal said the man forced him back into the restaurant and into a back office where another employee, Liz Johnson, 17, was signing time cards. Another suspect, then entered the office, reports show. The armed suspect allegedly took Villarreal's watch and forced him into a closet. Miss Johnson said the man then pointed the gun at her, pressing it to her neck, and told her to put her head on the desk while his companion searched for money. However, Miss Johnson said she told the bandits all the money was in the safe and that she did not have a key or combination to open it. Police were told that after the men learned they could not get to the money, they left. An employee of a restaurant next to the Der Wienerschnitzel said she saw the two suspects and another man thought to be involved, running across a parking lot. Police say Villarreal's watch was found in the suspects' car, and the shotgun thought to have been used in the holdup also was recovered from the vehicle. Glenda Cole of 3109 27th St., told police someone took $4,160 worth of jewelry from her home sometime between Sept. 26 and Oct. 2. Burglars who kicked in a front door at 4620 Erskine got away with $300 cash and a television set and blankets worth $495, Thelma Harcom reported to police. Miller Daniel, owner of Lubbock Wrecking Co., reported the theft Sunday of a half-ton 1969 green pickup truck. Daniel said a suspect who had been staying at the Eighty-niner Inn at 6401 Ave. H, left in the vehicle without Daniel's consent. A color television set and tape player, worth $365, were taken Monday afternoon from 1504 46th St. Roberto Torres told police the burglars apparently entered his home through a window. A $950 stereo unit was taken from an office at 7212 Joliet Ave. David Staten, the owner of Sound Savings, told police the stereo was taken sometime between 4:45 p.m. Friday and 4:30 p.m. Sunday. There was no sign of forced entry into the office, police reports indicate. Burglars who entered through a window made off with $1,348 worth of stereo equipment, a color television set and records from 4312 17th St. David Wrinkle told police the theft occurred sometime between 9 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. Monday.

Tech To Dedicate Home Ec Addition

Texas Tech University will dedicate its new six-story $4 million Food Science addition to the Home Economics Building in all-day open house and ceremonies Wednesday. President Cecil Mackey will preside over most of the formal proceedings. Dr. Glenn E. Barnett, vice president for planning, will open a luncheon in the University Center Ballroom at 12:15 p.m., followed by the ribbon cutting of the new portion of the complex at 1:40 in the lobby of the Food Science-Home Economics Building. During the event, a representative for Congressman George Mahon, will present to home economics dean Donald S. Longworth a flag that has flown over the Capitol in Washington. The last of the official meetings is scheduled for 2 p.m. when the chairman of the Department of Food and Nutrition, Dr. Leon L. Hopkins, will open a session in Room 169, Food Science-Home Economics. Dr. Mary A. Knight, professor and nutritionist at the University of Arizona, will speak on "Biodietetics and the Biodietitian."

BEAT THE BUREAUCRACY

You Must Take The Initiative

By HOWARD K. OTTENSTEIN
Newspaper Enterprise Association
Uncle Sam doesn't have intuition, you know. The only way most people can obtain the federal benefits they have coming is by asking for them. Often the best way of making initial contact with the federal government is by telephone. Of course, that usually means you will run up against one of those good news-bad news situations: The good news is that a telephone call can be the quickest way to obtain the information you need. The bad news is that the bureaucracy can sometimes make the process seem slower than the Pony Express. But the following telephone tips may help save time and vexation? — Prepare your questions in writing before placing your call. Many of us are suddenly at a loss for words after reaching the right party. — Anticipate the questions you are most likely to be asked, such as your Social Security number, military discharge date or net income. Have copies of relevant documents and correspondence on hand. — Early morning is often the best time to telephone a federal office. Although some agencies started work as "late" as 9 a.m., most open for business by 8 o'clock. You will rarely get a busy signal before 9:30. — Keep a pencil and paper handy to take down the names, title and telephone extensions of the bureaucrats with whom you speak. That will save you time if you have to call back. — Make your questions and comments brief and to-the-point. Don't expect a federal specialist to spend all day listening to you. — Don't waste time in arguments. If a bureaucrat seems to have it in for you, offer to call back later or ask to speak with one of his or her colleagues. If further calls do not get you a satisfactory answer, take your case to his or her superior. It time is not of the essence, or if you don't want to pay for a long-distance phone call, you might prefer to do your business with the government by mail. Here are some hints to hurry processing of your correspondence: — Letters should be only as long as is necessary to state all pertinent information. Try to get to the point in the first sentence or two. Don't make your reader struggle to figure out what you want. — It's a good idea to have someone check the letter to make sure it is clear and that no important fact has been omitted. — Attach copies of all relevant documents, including previous correspondence with the same office. Do not send originals, unless they are specifically requested. — Correspondence should be typewritten or neatly printed on letterhead or plain white paper. — Your name, address and telephone number should be included in the heading of your letter. — Keep a carbon or photo-copy of each letter. — If you are purchasing a book, map or other item from the government, make payment by check or money order. Do not send currency through the mail. — Don't expect an answer in the next mail. But if you have received no response after four weeks, chances are your letter was lost. After double-checking the address, send a duplicate of your original letter and an explanatory cover note.
