Bank Interest Rate Reaches New High

Federal Reserve Sets 8.5 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing the need to control inflation, the Federal Reserve mately 5,000 member banks. It sets the Board on Friday increased its bank discount rate to an all-time high of 81/2 percent, signaling a probable new hike in interest rates throughout the economy.

It was the sixth increase this year in the discount rate. The board only three weeks ago raised the rate to 8 percent, which equaled the previous all-time high. The discount rate is the interest the

However, the strategy hasn't worked so

Prices Increasing Although interest rates have been ris-ing all year, they haven't yet been able to check inflation — wholesale prices in-creased 0.9 percent alone in September, one of the worst showings of the year — or halt the decline in the dollar, which seems to hit new lows almost weekly on world money markets. The latest hike in the discount rate was sure to cause a new round of secondguessing in Washington, since there already were warnings from some Carter administration officials and members of Congress that interest rates are at such high levels they could push the economy into a tailspin.

Carter himself said at a recent news conference, when asked about the 8 percent discount rate, that "I think it is too

New Measures Due The president is scheduled to unveil new measures to combat inflation, probably including voluntary wage and price guidelines, next week. But officials already have admitted that inflation will be at least 8 percent this year, the worst since 1974 when it was 12.2 percent.

There undoubtedly were misgivings on the seven-member board about the increase, as the vote in favor was 5-2. Chairman G. William Miller voted with the majority, even though he opposed an increase earlier this year, while the newest board member, Nancy Teeters, joined with Stephen Gardner, the board vice chairman, in opposing the action.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said late Friday that Egypt and Israel may be able to conclude their peace treaty by Nov. 19, the first anniversary of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's visit to Jerusalem.

"I think it can be done," Vance told a reporter as he wound up a second day of negotiations with the two sides on terms of the historic accord.

The framework devised at last month's Camp David summit called for comple tion of a treaty within 90 days - by Dec. 17. But Vance, obviously pleased with the course of the negotiations being held at Blair House across the street from the White House, said it probably won't take

In fact, Vance said, the work may even be completed before Nov. 19 "if ever-yone works fast." The anniversary date was considered an optimistic target at best considering the details of Israeli withdrawal and security measures that must be worked out.

The Israeli, Egyptian and U.S. delegations met for an hour and 20 minutes late Friday and planned further deliberations over the weekend. Since Saturday is the Jewish Sabbath, no formal session was scheduled, but members of the delegations will hold "informal discussions, was announced through the State Depart-

"We expect regular negotiating sessions to resume on Sunday," the announcement said.

Meanwhile, it was also announced that the United States, in its role as "full partner," has put forward a draft treaty aimed at reconciling remaining differences between Egypt and Israel.

As negotiations moved through a second day, a conference spokesman carefully acknowledged there still were disagreements between the Israeli and Egyptian delegations even while they continued to make progress toward a settle-

"The draft is aimed at fleshing out the framework that was reached at Camp David," said the spokesman, George Sherman. He said both the Egyptians and Israelis agreed the draft should serve as "the vehicle for negotiations."

Sherman did not disclose details of the draft, which supersedes blueprints Egypt and Israel had been drawing up since last month's summit meeting at Camp David, Vance laid out the American draft dur-

At the same time, Sherman said Vance was discussing with the Egyptian and Israeli delegations a second framework reached at the summit by Carter, Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to govern negotiations over the future of the Palestinian Arabs. This second framework is considered

Child Death Trial Nears Jury Stage

Avalanche-Journal Staff

WAS TROY LEE Williams a brutal disciplinarian who angrily struck a 5year-old child, causing his death? Or was he a loving foster father, unjustly accused after a domestic tragedy?

It will be up to a seven-woman, five-man jury in Judge Robert C. Wright's 137th District Court to decide that question today after final arguments.

Wright - after completion of the reading of the court's charge to jurors at approximately 8:30 p.m. Friday - recessed the trial until 9 a.m. today.

The attorneys will present arguments, with the jury expected to begin its delib-erations on Williams' guilt or innocence shortly before 11 a.m.

Airlines To Insulate Full Fare Passengers

By The Associated Press Pay less than full fare, get less than full

That's the prospect faced by discount air travelers as carriers introduce new class distinctions in the sky.

The airlines are responding to complaints from business people and other full-fare passengers.

As discount fares proliferated, air travel increased. The sales manager who was used to a relaxing trip suddenly had to cope with crowded airports, sold-out planes and fellow passengers who were more intent on making merry than on getting work done.

Now, the sales manager and his or her colleagues can relax again. Starting this month, several major airlines will provide special sections and service for passengers who pay the full coach fare.

"Everybody knows that the airlines were jammed this summer," said Angus McClure of Trans World Airlines. "The business traveler felt he wasn't getting full value if he was sitting next to somebody paying less."

TWA, which says that roughly half of the 19.5 million passengers it expects to carry this year will be flying at a discount, is one of four carriers to announce three-class service. The others are American Airlines and British and Pan American World Airways. United and Delta

Brisk, cool winds, swept across West Texas Friday, and are expected to become light and variable today.

Warmer weather should continue throughout West Texas through Wednesday, with the highs generally reaching into the 70s and 80s and the lows dropping brought cooler temperatures and gusting winds to West Texas, created a line of scattered thundershowers in southeast and south Texas as it penetrated deeper into those regions.

Temperature extremes across the state at 4 p.m. Friday ranged from 56 at Dalhart to 90 at Alice. Although the Lubbock area is expecting slightly warmer weather today, residents in the rest of the state are looking for fair and cooler weather.

Airlines, meanwhile, are trying to cater to the well-heeled traveler by lowering first-class fares.

The changes are made possible by the fact that the Civil Aeronautics Board has eased its restrictions in an attempt to increase competition. In August, for example, the board gave the airlines the right to raise fares by as much as 10 percent and lower them by up to 70 percent simply by giving the government 45 days advance notice. It also eliminated regulations that forced the airlines to charge first-class passengers at least 150 percent of full-coach fare.

'The board is encouraging the airlines to develop different price and service options," said spokesman Ted Lopatkiewcz. Aren't the airlines, in effect, raising discount fares by eliminating or modifying some of the services without lowering prices? "In this instance, they are changng the fare in that they are taking away amenities," Lopatkiewcz said.

Asked the same question, British Airways spokesman Tom Craft replied: "I suppose technically, one might look at it that way." He added, however, that the carrier simply cannot afford to provide the extra amenities for passengers paying rock-bottom fares. "Were not going to give a passenger who's paying $109 (for a trans-Atlantic crossing) a choice of 17 meals," Craft said, adding that like TWA, British Airways found full-fare passengers resented getting the same treatment as people paying much less.

Lopatkiewcz said the CAB hopes the ultimate result of deregulation will be cheaper coach fares, a simpler price structure and a better deal for everyone. He said it "might be several more years" before all this is accomplished and admit-ted that travelers might have problems meanwhile selecting among competing

"But that's the kind of problem we like to have," he said. "It's like a baseball team that has 10 great pitchers...

Discount passengers always paid a price for their lower fares. They usually had to buy tickets ahead of time, for example, and were limited as to when they could travel. In exchange, they paid 30 to 50 percent less than full fare.

The discount passengers - with the exception of those on "no-frills" flights used to receive the same service as the full-fare coach travelers. They sat in the same part of the plane; they ate the same meals; they got on and off in the same

The new systems will vary from airline to airline. Generally, however, they will provide full-fare passengers with a separate section - just behind first-class. There will be more empty seats in the full-fare area. Passengers will be served their drinks and meals first; in some cas- gers.'

es, beverages will be free - just as they are in first class. The full-fare passengers will have special check-in lines at the airport; they may be able to choose their seats in advance; they will be able to pick up their baggage first. Discount travelers now make up almost half the passengers in coach. CAB statistics show that, based on passenger miles, discount fares accounted for 46.54 percent of all air travel in the 48 contiguous states during July, up from 33.99 percent a year earlier. The airlines generally say they expect discount travelers will be willing to put up with less service. "I wouldn't think so," said McClure, when asked if he thought TWA would lose passengers.

Craft agreed. He noted that in some cases, people are forced to take British Airways because it is the only carrier that goes where they want to go. In addition, he said, "our reputation has been such that we will hang on to a lot of passen-

Korchnoi has made his fight for the championship something of a vengeful

In 1974, Karpov, the rising young star of Soviet chess, defeated his middle-aged countryman Korchnoi in a match to determine who would challenge American world champion Bobby Fischer for the title. But then Fischer, in a dispute with the International Chess Federation over rules, refused to defend the championship and it went to Karpov by default. Korchnoi defected to the West in 1976 and accused Soviet chess authorities of showing favoritism toward Karpov and of robbing him of the title. He claimed the KGB secret service directed electronic rays at him to disturb his concentration during the 1974 match that put Karpov in line for the championship.

The challenger leveled similar charges in the current tournament, saying a Russian parapsychologist in Karpov's delega-

Richard Freeman, a Chicago lawyer and railway executive, was confirmed by the Senate in Washington earlier in the day to succeed former board chairman Aubrey Wagner.

Board chairman S. David Freeman, who has been the only member of the three-man board since Wagner's retirement, said, "I have a great feeling of relief." The two Freemans, both appointed by President Carter, are not related.

Awaiting Richard Freeman's signature when he arrives Monday is a pending settlement with the Environmental Protection Agency to reduce pollution at 10

TVA power plants at a cost of $1 billion. He is expected to be commissioned by President Carter and take the oath of office in time to take part in next Thursday's weekly board meeting.

NASA Announces Satellite Launching

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP). - A Tiros weather satellite was successfully launched atop an Atlas booster Friday from the Western Test Range at Vandenberg Air Force Base, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration

The dawn shot from the seaside launch site was seen by a number of residents of the central California coast. The three-quarter ton satellite was the first of eight designed to provide weather data to scientists of 100 nations. Its orbit will take it over the North and South Poles every 102 minutes.

Freeman, 57, was a TVA attorney from 1948 to 1957. Carter nominated him to a 9-year term on the agency's board last July. TVA directors receive an annual salary of $50,000

Wagner's retirement from the board of the nation's largest electric utility came 13 days after the resignation of William Jenkins, appointed by former President Richard Nixon. Carter has yet to nominate a successor to Jenkins, but the confirmation of Richard Freeman gives the board a two-man quorum for the first time in nearly five months.

AN EDITORIAL:

A Diamond In The Rough

Carter administration was signed into law piece of legislation. yesterday by the President.

The 1978 Civil Service Reform Act, if it accomplishes its goals, will shake up the lethargic federal bureaucracy by making it easier to fire the inept and reward the productive employes.

President Carter called the bill the cornerstone of his promise to make government more responsive and more efficient.

It must be remembered, however, that the bill merely provides the tools for accomplishing that worthy goal. Whether the tools will be used by an entrenched bureaucracy remains to be seen.

THE MOST SIGNIFICANT among the sweeping changes in the Civil Service Act should be the provision which requires less documentation to dismiss an employe.

Under the old law, an employe could be fired only if the government proved by a "preponderance" of evidence that the dismissal would promote efficiency.

Under the new law, the government must have only "substantial" evidence that an employe is unsuited for his job.

Jules Sugarman, vice chairman of the Civil Service Commission, and Wayne Granquist of the Office of Management and Budget spelled out what "substantial" means.

They used as an example a secretary who couldn't take shorthand. We sincerely hope that it won't take such an obvious shortcom-

A DIAMOND in the rough amid the gar- ing as that to make a firing stand up. If it bage churned out by Congress under the does, then the new law will be a demagogic

> ANOTHER WAY in which a federal employe could be fired under the new law would be by getting reported four times within a year for being discourteous or rude to a member of the public.

A "whistleblower" who reports gross mismanagement, waste, etc., will be guaranteed anonymity, presumably helping the bureaucracy weed out unqualified administrators.

Promotions will be permitted for reasons other than length of service, presumably rewarding merit rather than merely recognizing how many years an employe shows up to collect his pay check.

MUCH TO THE consternation of feminists and minority rights lobbyists, Congress retained a provision giving veterans preference in government hiring.

It did repeal, however, the preference that retired military officers have enjoyed in getting civilian federal jobs. Effective in 1980, a military officer who takes early retirement will get the same consideration as other applicants, but no more.

The bill also limits to $47,500 a year the total pay that retired officers can draw from pensions and federal civilian jobs.

Although the fine print contains loopholes which may worsen some aspects of federal management, the net effect of the Civil Service reforms should be good. The President can take bows if the best happens.

The Carrier--Deserves Salute

IN TODAY'S complicated society with all the modern equipment, techniques and methods of reaching the public-or the customer, if you please-it is still the individual who "makes it all work."

Perhaps we in the newspaper profession are more aware of this than some in other businesses where the day-to-day contact with the customer is not so prevalent.

Today, this product-your newspaper -has been produced in one of the most intricate, involved and far-flung operations one can imagine.

Thousands of persons, from reporters and hotographers to computer technicians and pressmen have made it all possible.

YET, WHEN ALL of that is said and done there is still one more person who has to be the final link with the finished product and the person for whom it is intended.

That is your newspaper carrier! Without him or her, it would all be for nought.

Today, as has been the case for almost as long as there have been newspapers, the young man and woman and those older have played one of the key roles in seeing that the world's happenings are brought to your front door daily.

Changes in delivery concepts, school hours and other responsibilities and the phenomena of a burgeoning urban life-style that has scattered customers to the four winds have all affected the mode of the carrier's job. But, basically, it is still the same.

THOSE WHO deliver the news to the homes and businesses of the land must arise before the crack of dawn and work in all sorts of weather.

And in the case of afternoon editions, they have to break up their day to see that the news hopefully is on hand when people return home from work.

The carriers are independent businessmen and women. They manage their own routes and in many instances earn good wages for their endeavors.

More than one person has earned a college education, spending money or contributed to a daily livelihood with their newspaper

Today-International Newspaper Carrier Day-The Avalanche-Journal salutes the almost 300 persons in and near Lubbock and over the South Plains and Eastern New Mexico who play a role in helping keep their friends and neighbors better informed, and who in turn become better citizens as a result by exemplifying the highest ideals of the free enterprise system.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Looks Like Al's Got Commie By His Tale

WASHINGTON-Questions about the impartidity of Amnesty International, which monitors abuses of human rights around the world, have recently intensified.

The organization is supposed to be an unbiased ritic of authoritarian governments, left and right, and last year won a Nobel Prize for its alleged services in this regard.

Since then, however, a number of people have taken a closer look at AI's track record.

They have discovered that the group displays a notable tilt to the left, making it much softer on the misdeeds of Communist and so-called third world states than on the doings of anti-Communist governments.

THIS PREVIOUS skepticism is mild, however, compared to the reactions greeting the newest departure of AI's leadership.

In August of this year, the group's executive committee chose a well-known, self-admitted Communist as head of its research division.

And while he says he will come at the job in even-handed fashion, his appointment raises glar-ing questions about the willingness of AI to train its sights on Communist transgressions.

Al's new research chief is Prof. Derek Roeuck, dean of law at the University of Tasmania in Australia. His ideological leanings are disrussed at length in a recent issue of the Washingon weekly, Human Events.

This survey makes it plain that Roebuck is an unblushing Communist, and that his views can only serve to warp the labors of Amnesty International in a direction favoring the Marxist left.

THUS IN THE Sept. 6 edition of the Hobart Mercury, a Tasmanian newspaper, Roebuck is quoted as saying:

'I joined the Communist Party of Australia because it was the only party to me that seemed to

Carrier and Control of the Control o be speaking honestly and with intelligent conviction about Vietnam at the time."

ON THE OTHER hand, Roebuck has written openly attacking the U.S. publication. In a July article for an Australian Communist publication, he wrote:

"Australia's alliance with the USA makes us responsible. Bases in Australia are the monster's antennae...The people of Australia must seek stronger allies. We must not be sidetracked from recognizing the foremost and consistent initiatives of the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries, with the sad exception of China. With a research chief expressing such opinions, it is hard to believe that Amnesty International will take a critical view of human rights offenses by the Communists. Indeed, the slant of AI researches on this score is already sufficiently bad. As noted by Stephen Miller in a survey for Commentary magazine, the organization as it is devotes much more attention to asserted violations of civil liberties by the right than to similar, or much worse, depredations by the left. MILLER OBSERVES that the 1977 AI report gave substantially greater space to human rights problems in Switzerland, West Germany and Chile than it did to the despotic regimes in North Korea, East Germany and Cuba.

Similarly, the report devotes 41/2 pages to South Korea, only two to the incredible genocide

These and similar matters brought forward by Miller and other researchers make it plain that Al is listing heavily to port, abandoning its previous claims to even-handedness. Appointment of a self-acknowledged Communist as head of its research division can only speed that deplorable process even further.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

Life Is A

MEMO TO THE average working stiff: You think you've got troubles with higher prices? Well, crack out a brew (up only 13 percent) and get an earful of why the rich are crying in their champagne (up around 25 percent).

That last figure probably tipped you off. The rich folks are crying because inflation is a lot worse on them than it is on the rest of us. Tough darts, you say? Tough, indeed.

You think it's easy ordering Chivas Regal at 21 percent more than it was in 1975? Especially when Miller and Schlitz have held beer down to a little more than half that.

So. all right. So they pop champagne corks and you puncture flip-top lids. You drink what you can afford and the rich do the same, except what they can afford has gone up more in the past three years than what you can afford has. At least 30 percent-compared to your 21 percent.

LIFE ON Gotrocks Road is not what it was in 1975. The big-shot executives in the six-digit brackets are getting big-shot bills. And they're unhappy.

Consider the problem of the fancy house, without which no executive type could face the boys in the locker room. Time was when they could pick up a five-bedroom house in an exclusive suburb for a couple of hundred thou. Now they have to figure at least $50,000 per bedroom. That's up 43 percent compared to your 23 percent.

Then there's the mink coat for Mama. You can't expect her to show up at the garden club in that old thing you paid $4,000 for, now can you? A new one will come with a $10,000 price tag. But the high price of goodies doesn't stop

ACCORDING TO Fortune magazine, which is in with the chairman-of-the-board set, just about everything the blue-chip crowd is used to costs so much more the poor things are practically down to their last yacht (up only 9 percent).

Take furniture. Since nothing but the best will do on Gotrocks Road, our corporate executive has to sit still for a 35 percent hike in sofa prices. 23 percent more on fine china, and 15 percent on a silver dinner service.

He'll need a new Mercedes-Benz to park in the circular driveway, right? That'll cost him anywhere from $25,000-$50,000-up a cool 50 percent since 1975. Your Volkswagen gone up that fast?

SO NOW WE have our tycoon settled luxuriously in his country estate and facing the problem of who's going to handle the spit-and-polish bit. Would you believe the going cost of maids has gone up 36 percent?

And to maximize that investment in the mansion and the maids, our executive has to play the genial host. Booze and bartenders now cost 27 percent more, compared to your increase of 15 percent. And he does three times as much entertaining as you do.

He lucks out in the food department, though, because, even with all those parties, he doesn't pend as much of his income on groceries as you do. So his market-basket costs are up only 19 percent compared to your 21 percent.

Executive threads cost more, too: 23 percent for a suit. 51 percent for a topcoat, and 50 percent for shoes. If he prefers Saville Row, Beverly Hills or Gucci, we're talking about $500 suits, $750 velvet blazers, and, well, you get the idea.

Meanwhile, clothing costs for blue-collar workers went up "only" 13 percent.

DON'T THINK Mama's going to let him get all the fancy duds; she's going to have to take that mink off sometime. New clothes for her have one up 45 percent, comp percent. Prices for silk dresses from name designers have risen 43 percent, a cashmere suit is up 76 percent, gold baubles cost 63 percent more.

Traipsing to elegant places to display all this finery costs more, too. Country club fees are up 28 percent, the theater up 46 percent; and concert tickets (down front), 40 percent.

Then there's travel. The rest of us sign up early for the cheap new fares in sterage, but Mr. Executive always goes first class, and that costs 16 percent more. Even a package trip to Europe is up 21 percent, if he can force himself to get that lose to the peasants.

Average out all his transportation costs-new Mercedes, limousine rentals, taxis and, of course, the higher price tags on private jets-and they are up 34 percent. Yours went up 25 percent.

SOME OF THESE figures come from the folks at Fortune, who compared the spending habits of families with an average income of $60,000 to those of typical city wage-earners. They came up with the conclusion that the good life is getting to be good and expensive. As long as those on top persist in going first class all the way, all the time, they're right when they complain that double-digit inflation hits them hardest. Especially if they keep reading Fortune, which has increased its subscription rate 60 percent in the past three years. And which is why there are those of us who stick to Reader's Digest.

Angel Dust Bill Clears Congress On Voice Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's "Angel Dust" bill - which dramaticlly increases the penalties for first-time offenders of "one of the most dangerous and insidious drugs known to mankind" - cleared its final legislative hurdle Friday.

The House approved the Texas Democrat's bill as an amendment to the Psychotropic Substances Act of 1978, which passed by voice vote. 'Angel Dust" and "PCP" are street names for phencyclidne, a drug used to tranquilize large animals. The Bentsen measure requires that the names of all purchers of piperidine - one of the key PCP ingredients - be reported to the Drug Enforcement Administration. Piperidine is produced in relatively small quantities and is used in the curing of

The maximum penalties for first-time offenders would be increased from a five-year prison sentence and a $15,000 fine to 10 years and $25,000.

Bentsen said Friday he fully expected President Carter to quickly sign the measure into law, noting that the "Angel Dust" bill had 34 Senate co-sponsors plus the backing of the International Police Chiefs Association and narcotic agencies in 17 states.

'As things now stand, any would-be drug merchant with $600 could walk into a chemical supply house, buy all the necessary ingredients for angel dust with no questions asked and brew up a batch of the cursed compound with a street value of $100,000," Bentsen said.

Ironically, the only Administration opponent of the bill earlier this year was former White House drug adviser Dr. Peter Bourne who resigned in July after writing a Quaalude prescription for one of his aides using a fictious name. Following Bourne's departure, the White House solidly backed the Bentsen bill.

During Senate and House committee hearings on the PCP proposal, Bentsen cited the following "Angel Dust" prob-

- In 1977, PCP use caused more than 4,000 emergency room admissions and more than 100 deaths. Ten such deaths were reported in San Antonio alone.

Medical specialists blamed PCP for a recent schizophrenic epidemic in the Washington D.C. area

- Police files obtained by Bentsen revealed that youths under the influence of PCP had swallowed rat poision to kill rodents they believed to be crawling inside their bodies, pulled their own teeth with pliers, impaled themselves on fences during frightened flight from imaginary monsters and thrown themselves off tall buildings.

Bentsen also noted reports of PCPcrazed "parents murdering an unwanted child, assassinating immediate family members and strangling loved ones."

Houston Exceeds Rate Of Murders

HOUSTON (AP) - With more than two months to go, Houston already has recorded a record 370 murders this year. The old record of 362 was set last year.

Police department records indicate the murder rate so far this year is 22.8 per 100,000 population, compared with 18.6 the same period last year and with 24 per 100,000 for all of 1977.

The rates are based on Chamber of Commerce estimates that placed Houston's population at 1,505,000 last year and 1,623,000 this year.

INDIAN DISCRIMINATION

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Texas congressman, complaining that an Indian tribe in his district is being discriminat-ed against, says he will call for congressional hearings next year into Compre-hensive Employment and Training Act job-creating programs. Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, said he was angered about discrimination against the Alabama-Coushatta Indians in his district and wants the House Appropriations Com-mittee to explore problems in his district and elsewhere.

Judge Approves Oct. 23 Trial Date For Davis HOUSTON (AP) - State District Judge his arrest. That date would be Oct. 18.

The prosecution opposed the delay.

The judge also spelled out to newsmen' certain rules of coverage including the banning of television cameras from the floor on which the trial is held and denying the use of tape recorders by newsmen who try to interview witnesses on that

After four days of lengthy testimony and arguments, Moore increased the speed of the trial as he ruled on the 90 or more motions submitted by the defense. Among the motions were several to erase the charges against Davis because of insufficient evidence or improper pro-cedures. Moore said "overruled" on each At least five defense motions were sealed and were to be discussed in closed chambers later in the day. Moore also ruled that Priscilla Davis, the estranged wife of the defendant, can testify only for the defense in the case beband and wife.

Davis is accused in an alleged kill-for-hire plot involving Fort Worth Judge Joe Eidson, who had presided during the bit-ter 4-year-old divorce proceedings. Eidon capital murder charges in the shooting death of his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

The judge's ruling means that Mrs. Davis can be called by the defense lawyers, but they cannot in any way impeach her testimony. Sources said it is doubtful if Mrs. Davis will be called.

Most of the other motions either approved or denied by Judge Moore Friday involved housekeeping measures affecting the rules to follow during the trial.

Moore had ruled earlier on the most vi-tal of the motions, stating that tape re-cordings made of conversations between Davis and David McCrory, the chief pros-ecution witness, may be presented as ev-idence.

Carter Signs Major Civil Service Revision Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter signed the first major revision of federal civil service laws in this century on Friday, saying it will make the bureaucracy more responsive and "help the taxpayers get what they have been paying

The measure makes it easier to fire rank-and-file federal workers for laziness or poor performance and pegs pay raises to performance for middle and top man-

It, marks a change in direction for the civil service, which was set up 95 years ago to end the "spoils system" that had fostered inefficiency and graft in the federal government through appointments on political patronage.

But through the years the system came under increasing criticism as the protections against political hiring and firing grew so rigid that federal workers were insulated from normal management in-

"Merit" pay increases became virtually automatic, and firings for incompetence or laziness became so difficult that only 226 were attempted in a recent 12-month

The new law streamlines the court-like appeals process that had made bosses reluctant to bring disciplinary actions, making it easier to fire, transfer or de-mote employees for poor performance. It sets up a new "Senior Executive Service" for the top 8,000 federal managers, who make up to $47,500 a year. Those who choose to join can compete for salary bonuses based on good performance but will face transfer or demotion for mediocre work.

A new "special counsel" will be named to investigate allegations of improper political influence and hear the comor "whistleblowers.

Congress added to Carter's proposals amendments requiring a cut in the number of federal employees; limiting federal pay of military retirees who become "double-dippers" by getting a federal civilian job while drawing a military pension; and eliminating special hiring preferences for military retirees of the rank of major or above of major or above. The law also grants to federal employ-ee unions some long-sought concessions, including creation of a new Federal Labor Relations Authority to oversee collective bargaining in the government. But it doesn't remove present restric-tions that prevent federal unions from striking or bargaining over pay or bene-

"This legislation provides a fundamental, and I think long overdue reform of the federal bureaucracy," Carter said.

"This bill will make the bureaucracy more responsive. It will build in incentives. Excellence can now be rewarded."

Carter said the nation was built on a system of rewards and incentives.

"You get what you pay for' is part of the American folk wisdom. Civil service reform will help taxpayers get what they have been paying for," Carter said.

The new law drew praise from groups as diverse as Common Cause, the National Governors' Assocition, the Business Roundtable, the president of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Government Employees and key Republican and Democratic legislators. "During my campaign for president I made re-organization of the government a top priority, and this monumental civil service reform legislation takes a long step toward meeting that commitment to the American people." Carter said.

YWCA Programs Meet Physical, Mental Needs

"1..2..3..4... remember to keep your back straight, stomach in 5...6...7...8," says Mrs. Vivian Mendez as she instructs the women in front of her who strain their bones and muscles for the sake of a body beautiful. The women are Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (OIC) traines who Mrs. Mendez, special projects director for the Lubbock YWCA, works with as part of OIC's program to teach the unemployed marketable skills.

The Lubbock YWCA, a United Way agency, will receive $69,424 from the 1979 United Way goal of Wanda Lopez is studying at the OIC to become a medical secretary and has attended the YWCA's exercise class at Parkway Community Center for two weeks. "I needed some help with my body. I didn't want to be so flabby, and some of the girls at O.I.C. talked me into coming to the class," she

Wanda said she feels that her appearance will be important when she enters the job market. "Appearance does have a lot of effect on people. When you're overweight you look sloppy. I think these classes will help a lot."

The class, according to YWCA director Mrs. Betty Rhea Moxley, is part of the YWCA's outreach program, an attempt to bring the Y's services to all parts of the community. The advisory committee of the Y has conceived the program to take classes and activities to all women, according to Mrs. Moxley. The program has been functioning in the Parkway area since January and will be extended to the Arnett-Benson area in the fall Another relatively new program is the Y-teens program. Although the program existed in the past, it is currently being revived at Dunbar and Estacado high schools. According to Mary Hopkins, a member of the Y-teens when it was reborn at Dunbar last year, the purpose of the program is to develop leadership and teach members organization and procedures in organization. Miss Hopkins described the club as a "social-service" club. Many of their activities include work for charities and others are purely social, such as dances for Dunbar students.

Mrs. Moxley said these programs fit into the expanding purpose of the YWCA, which she deefined as "meeting the needs of women and girls in whatever area needs are found.

"Hopefully, we meet the needs of women who are looking for personal enrichment, such as young mothers who need adult communication, parenting skills or ways to understand their children. Also, we offer classes to develop artistic skills and assertiveness training and classes to help make the most of one's own talents and strengths, along with physical fitness training for healthy, strong bodies," Mrs. Moxley said.

According to Mrs. Moxley, one of the most important services the Y offers is aesthetic appreciation to its members.

"I feel strongly that we need to build within ourselves 'well-springs' of beauty, aesthetic things that give us strength through the more difficult things in life, she said. "We need these strengths for emotional well-being. We need to experience and appreciate beauty and the arts."

Mrs. Moxley said the YWCA currently offers 150 classes in each of three program terms and has 1,000 participants in the summer swimming program

Men are welcome as associate members and many of the YWCA's programs such as swimming, parenting programs and dance, include male mem

James Earl Ray Marries In Prison

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) - Bright fall eaves in the hilly woods that ensnarled James Earl Ray's 1977 escape attempt provided the backdrop Friday for his edding to a courtroom artist he met at his trial for the breakout.

Anna Sandhu, a 32-year-old divorce who says she does not believe Ray killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was marrying the convict behind the walls of Brushy Mountain Penitentiary. Ray is serving 99 years for the civil rights leader's slaying in Memphis in 1968.

The ceremony inside the stone walls of the isolated fortress was to be performed by the Rev. James Lawson, the black Methodist minister who invited King to Memphis to lend support to striking gar-

The mottled yellow, red and orange mountainsides where Ray spent 21/2 days as a fugitive in June 1977 were a sharp contrast to the wedding site in the bleak beige visitors gallery behind two locked steel doors deep inside the maximum-se-

Saying he wanted to avoid a circus atmosphere, Warden Stonney Lane told Ray and Mrs. Sandhu they could have only five guests at the wedding. Reporters and photographers were not allowed past the prison gate, about a half-mile from the site of the cermony.

Guests included Mark Lane, Ray's attorney, who is not related to the warden; April Fergunson, Lane's legal assistant; Ethan Salling, Mrs. Sandhu's brother; and Barbara Murrell, a neighbor and friend of Mrs. Sandhu.

The warden said members of the party were searched to assure they did not take any cameras inside. Lane said Ray and his bride were given permission to serve cake after the ceremony but were not allowed to spend any time alone together as four guards stood watch in the 20-by 40-foot room.

Mrs. Sandhu, who met Ray in October 1977 while he was on trial for his escape from the prison that June, was divorced five years ago after a three-year mar-riage. Ray, 50, had not been married be-

"When we first met, I guess I mainly felt sympathetic about his situation," she said. "But those situations have changed to love and concern."

She said she began visiting Ray twice a week, the maximum allowed by the prison. When Ray testified before the House Assassinations Committee in Washington

Agency Urges Detectors Use

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Consumer Product Safety Commission is offering a booklet on smoke detectors to mark National Fire Prevention Week, which concludes Saturday.

More than 6,000 persons die in home fires each year and another 300,000 are injured, according to the commission.

Commission officials say they hope the booklet will help educate the public to the advantages of smoke detectors and that this may help prevent future injuries and deaths.

Proper installation, selection and tenance of smoke detectors are discussed in the booklet and it also reviews of nighttime fires. For persons planning to purchase a detector, the booklet explains how the booklet is available without charge from: Smoke Detector Booklet, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C., 20207. Or you can call, toll-free, 800-638-2666. In Maryland the number is 800-492-2937.

A garrison of 187 Texans, including Davy Crockett, was wiped out by 3,000 Mexicans at the Alamo fort in Texas in given to him by Mrs. Sandhu. Mrs. Sandhu said Ray never formally proposed and that their plans for marriage evolved as "a mutual understanding of our feelings."

Ray pleaded guilty in 1969 to murder-ing the civil rights leader but tried to recant three days later. He has been trying to win a new trial ever since.

"They've got James behind bars as a ble man. I know he's not capable of murscapegoat," his bride said. "He's a lovader."

State Tests Hold No Surprises

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas education officials found few surprises Friday in re-sults of statewide assessment tests that showed white, higher-income students in suburban districts tend to score better than other pupils.

"Some of the result was good news," said Dr. Marlin Brockette, state education commissioner. "Some other was bad

Some 110,000 sixth and 11th grade students were tested in April and May in reading, writing, mathematics and citizenship. The State Board of Education learned results of the reading and math tests Friday, while other scores will be available in November.

School officials predicted in July that minority pupils would score lower than others and that Texas would score at or slightly below the national average. Those "guesstimates" largely were confirmed.

Two types of tests were administered. Criteria-referenced tests were designed to measure whether students had mastered certain state-established objectives in reading and math.

A norm-referenced test, the California Achievement Test, showed how students compared to national averages.

Test results were not compiled for individual school districts, teachers, schools or pupils. The scores were broken down into 20 regional service center areas.

"Results of these tests do not and cannot be used to make judgments about school districts, individual campuses, or particulr teachers or students," Brock-

Key findings included the following:

Texas sixth-graders accred alightly below national averages on achievement tests, except in mathematic computation when they were 4 percent about the national norm. · Sixth grade females scored dramatically higher than males in reading and somewhat higher in math. Girls contin-ued to score higher in 11th grade reading, but boys averaged higher scores in 11th grade math.

· Black and Mexican-Americans tended to master skills at lower levels on the average than white students. The greatest difference between ethnic groups came on mastery of cognitive, reasoning skills.

• The Rio Grande Valley area averaged lower on criteria-referenced tests than the other 20 regions. The Amarillo and Wichita Falls service region tended to scored higher.

· Children who watched four hours or less of television the night before the tests did better than pupils who viewed

Reasons behind the testing results will be studied and appropriate programs developed in improve student learning. Brockette said.

Dr. Charles Nix, associate education commissioner for planning, explained causes for test scores are not yet pin-

"I don't have an answer to the way they (the scores) are or what to do about," Nix said during a news conference following the board meeting.

Nix emphasized the tests are not mini-mum competency measurements, as oth-er states have administered.

"The tests we've used were not designed to make judgments about whether a student will be passed, promoted or graduated," he said. graduated," he said.

"The essential objectives (on criteriareferenced tests) were adopted as things for all students to master," Nix added.
"They are universally needed for all persons to operate as citizens. Objectives in math for sixth graders, for example, ranged from adding numbers to subtracting fractions. Reading objectives for 11th graders ranged from following written objectives to draw con-clusions from given details.

Although minority students tended to score lower, individual black and Mexican-American students scored in the top quarter, he said.

Individual state education board members found the results not surprising, especially the association of lower income with lower scores.

"We still haven't figured out the chick-en-and-egg question," said Dr. Virginia Currey of Arlington. "Are poor people poor because they're not smart, or are the poor children not smart because their parents are poor?"

The 54 percentile ranking of sixth graders in math computation came despite less funding in that area, said Jane Wells of Austin

"The results about television were also interesting," she said.

"It's shows that TV isn't necessarily

Here are examples of raw data educators will evaluate from both the California Achievement Test and tests designed to measure state-established goals in math and reading:

Texas sixth graders ranked in the 45th percentile nationally on achievement tests in total reading, and 48th percentile in total mathematics. This means that Texas pupils scored higher than 45 percent of the national test group in reading and 48 percent higher in math.

Texas pupils scored higher than 54 percent of all students in mathematics computation, the only area where they turned in performances above the national aver-

Test results broken down into boys and girls show male sixth graders in the 42nd percentile for reading and 46th percentile in math, while females scored in the 47th percentile in reading and 52nd in math. Overall test results by ethnic background indicate black students rank in the 28th percentile, Mexican-Americans in the 29th and whites in the 58th for reading. Percentile scores were slightly higher in math - blacks, 30th; Mexican-Americans, 38th; and others, 59th.

Pupils in suburban districts, adjacent to central cities, scored consistently higher than those from other areas.

Suburban sixth graders ranked in the 54th percentile in reading and mathematics. Urban youngsters scored in the 36th percentile in reading and 42nd percentile the 39th percentile in reading and 48th percentile in mathematics.

Educators reported test results in the 20 regional service center areas, not by individual school districts. However, among the regions scoring higher than others, percentages of minority students appeared similar or lower than the state average of 16 percent black, 27 percent Sertoma Head Sets Visit

The area around Amarillo ranked in the 57th and 60th percentiles in reading and mathematics. Ethnic breakdowns there are 6 percent black, 20 percent Mexican-American and 74 percent white.

The criteria referenced tests given to sixth and 11th graders in reading and math showed whether pupils had achieved certain goals.

Scores showed 92 percent of sixth graders achieved four out of 12 objectives in math; 77 percent mastered eight of 12; and only 13 percent mastered all 12

Objectives ranged from adding numbers to working with fractions. One-third of sixth graders can add and subtract fractions effectively, while 85 percent can add whole numbers.

Correlations between ethnic background, family income, school district type and scores are consistent in all tests.

In 11th grade reading, 43 percent of students had mastered all 10 objectives, ranging from following written directions to making generalizations based on details. Tests showed 92 percent had reached half the goals and more than 99 percent had achieved at least one objective.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. We've been married 10 years and are in our 30s. Our combined income is close to $30,000 a year. We have made a mess of our finances. The only savings we have is through a $50,000 "whole life" insurance policy. Our biggest monthly debt obns are $320 on our home mortgage and $371 on two cars. We also owe approximately $3,000 on charge accounts which we are working hard to pay off.

After we have paid off our debts, what should we do to build a more secure financial future? We know we have a lot of catching up to do.

A. At least you recognize that — like all too many people — you are in debt over your heads. Now, you have to swim out of the debt pond and get on solid financial ground.

First, pay off that credit card debt, with its tremendously high interest, as fast as you can - even if it means denying yourselves some little extras in life. And, once you have those two cars paid off, keep them for a while. I never did understand why so many people go into debt every three years or so just to have shiny new autos.

Once your debts are squared away or, at least lowered - you should regiment yourself to continue to put the money you now have to use to get out of hock into savings and investments.

Once you are unburdened by debt, you should start investing for the future. My suggestion is to tuck away about the equivalent of three months' income in savings and then begin a steady investment program in either individual stocks or a mutual fund.

Assuming that you really recognize your past errors and are serious about planning for your future, I feel you should be able to use about $3,000 a year to first retire your debt, second to build savings and third to begin a worthwhile investment program.

Q. In 1962 I invested $2,500 in a mutual fund. This past August, I had 616 shares, worth more than $7,000. I then redeemed 100 shares and received $1,278. How do I ligure out the income tax on the shares I

A. We'll have to start by assuming that you redeemed 100 of the shares you bought back in 1962. The confirmation statement you received at the time you made the original investment should show the price you paid for each share. That's your "cost basis per share."

The difference between your cost basis per share and the amount of money you received when you redeemed is your profit or loss on the sale of each share. You sold 100 shares. So, multiply your gain or loss per share by 100 and you have the long-term capital gain or loss you are

Most Banks Raise Prime Lending Rates

NEW YORK (AP) - Most of the naon's major banks raised their prime nding rate from 9% percent to 10 perarlier of Chase Manhattan Bank.

The rise in the prime, the basic rate anks charge their best customers for ns, is the fourth in little more than a nth and the ninth since Jan. 1, when e rate stood at 7% percent

Banks in the nation's top 10 joining No. 3 Chase Manattan in raising the prime included Bank of America, Citi-bank, Manufacturers Hanover Trust, Morgan Guaranty Trust, Chemical Bank, ontinental Illinois National Bank, lankers Trust and Security Pacific Na-

The only bank among the 10 largest not adopting the new rate Friday was the First National Bank of Chicago, which said it would hold to its traditionl policy of announcing prime rate changes on Monday mornings.

The 10 percent rate is the highest since anuary 1975. At that time the rate was alling back from its record-high 12 per-sent level, set several months earlier furing the throes of the 1974-75 receson. As recently as May 1977 the prime

The recent steady rise in the prime rate stood at 6¼ percent.

The recent steady rise in the prime rate is attributed by analysts to pressure from the Federal Reserve System, which has been raising the interest rates at charges member banks in an attempt push the prime and other rates up.

The Fed, which acts as the nation's central bank, believes that consumer borrowing will be slowed and inflation emmed if the cost of money is high. that, in turn, will make the U.S. dollar sore attractive to foreign investors by trengthening the economy.

Many analysts believe the Fed is now satisfied by the results of this policy, and will now allow interest rates to stabilize, but the experts say the rates may not fall significantly for some time.

CHINESE EXPAND CLASS TOKYO (AP) - Chinese engaged in on-physical jobs have become a compo-sent of the working class — by law Chin-'s ruling class — and should have the th to union representation. In previous ars intellectuals were considered ideo-required to report when you file your 1978 income tax return.

All this calculating, however, may be unnecessary. Most - not all - mutual funds supply this kind of information to shareholders who redeem. If your fund does not, write and let its management know that it is not doing a good job in shareholder relations.

Q. We recently acquired 100 shares of stock which has a dividend reinvestment program, through which stockholders can acquire additional shares. It also has an optional cash purchase plan, through which stockholders can send in more money to buy still more shares.

We could easily acquire approximately 150 more shares between now and the time we retire. Would this be worthwhile?

A. I think so - assuming that you are convinced the stock is a good investment and will continue to be so in the future. This column has long been a drum-beater for dividend reinvestment plans. Those companies which have programs through which stockholders can put in extra money to buy stock also deserve applause.

Dollar's Rally Short, New Low Hit

The dollar resumed its downward slide Friday after a one-day rally, sinking to a new low against the West German mark amidst speculation that the mark would soon be made more valuable. The price of gold rose in London but fell in Zurich.

Analysts said the mark's rise was fueled by rumors that it might be revalued upward as part of a realignment of the European joint currency float sys-A London dealer reported a "terrific rush" for marks late Friday as the rumor spread. If the mark is revalued, anyone already holding marks would automatically make a profit. Should the mark be revalued, the flood of dollars and other currencies being converted into the sought-after mark might be slowed. This would help level out West Germany's trade balance with the rest of the world by making German exports more expensive.

Flood was indicted by a federal grand jury here Thursday on 10 counts of brib-ery and conspiracy. He had been indicted on Sept. 5 by a grand jury in Los Angeles on the related perjury charges.

Militant Nazis Worry German Officials

BONN, West Germany (AP) - The West German government said Friday it is worried by increasingly militant neo-

"The near-doubling of the numberlof ultra-rightwing offenses since (1976) and increasing preparedness to commit armed violence give cause for concern," Interior Minister Gerhart Baum said in a report to parliament. Baum said the government registered "first instances of (rightwing) terrorist g 29 violent acts believed committed by hard-core neo-Nazi mili-

Papal Conclave To Commence

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church consulted in formal session Friday for the last time before locking themselves into secret conclave to choose a successor to Pope John Paul I. Five cardinals, all Italians, are being mentioned as leading candi-

On the eve of the second conclave in two months, the cardinals were described as tranquil, relaxed and in good spirits. "There isn't that aura of excitment and tension that existed the last time around," said Russell Shaw, a spokesman for the U.S. Catholic Confer-

"There are really no big question marks at this point because they not only understand each other better, but also are familiar with the conclave procedures," he said, adding that reports of ideological bickering among the cardinals are "grossly exaggerated."

Other Vatican sources predicted a quick and easy election, saying that the princes of the church expect that the 263rd successor to the Throne of St. Peter and spiritual leader of the world's 700 million Roman Catholics will again be an

For the first time ever, non-European cardinal-electors will have the edge in numbers, 56 to 55, the reverse of the August conclave. The 26 Italians are still the largest national bloc.

The Vatican announced that 113 cardinals attended the 10th and final session of the Congregation of Cardinals, which has been running the affairs of the church since Pope John Paul died of a heart attack Sept. 28 after a reign of only 34 days. Cardinal Boleslaw Filipiak of Poland died at his home in western Poland Thursday night at the age of 77, reducing the number of cardinals to 126. But only ectors will jointly celebrate a Mass in St. Peter's Basilica, calling on the Holy Spirit to help them elect a pope.

In the afternoon, the princes of the church will form a procession and file in-to the the Sistine Chapel. The door will be locked behind them and they will begin balloting the following morning.

Church sources acknowledged that five Italian cardinals, two with extensive 'pastoral" experience and three linked with the central church administration, the Curia, are being touted as favorites.

They are Giovanni Benelli, Pericle Felici, Salvatore Pappalardo, Ugo Poletti and Giuseppe Siri.

Influential cardinals have stressed that considerations of age and health will be major factors in the choice of the next pope. Others have said the next pope should have both a knowledge of world affairs and diplomacy as well as the fun-damental pastoral quality of the late pontiff, Albino Luciani.

As archbishop of Florence, Benelli, 57, presides over one of Italy's most important sees. An assistant to Monsignor Giovanni Battista Montini, who later be-came Pope Paul VI, Benelli wielded enormous power in the Vatican as deputy secretary of state. His forceful administrative style is said to have won him both friends and enemies among top church-

Felici, 63, has devoted nearly all his clerical life to Vatican service. An expert in church and civil law, Felici is a Latin scholar respected by Popes John XXIII and Paul VI. His lack of "pastoral" expence at lower levels of the church is cited as a factor that might work againt him in the conclave.

Pappalardo, 60-year-old archbishop of Palermo, Sicily, appears to have the best of both worlds with long experience in the Vatican and its diplomatic service,

Cardinal Poletti, 64, the vicar of Rome, has dedicated his long career to pastoral and evangelical activities. After years of service in the northern city of Novara, he was named archbishop of Spoleto in central Italy in 1967. He was vicar of Rome under both Popes Paul and John Paul.

Siri, the 72-year-old archbishop of Genoa, is known as a conservative. He is a native of Genoa and has devoted most of his life to the city. He was made a cardinal in Voting begins at about 9:30 a.m. Sunday (4:30 a.m. EDT), with two ballots in the morning and two in the afternoon until a pontiff is elected. No conclave this century has lasted more than four days.

day of voting.

The cardinals will cast ballots on an altar before Michelangelo's great fresco "The Last Judgment" until one person receives the required majority of twothirds plus one, in this case 75 votes. If the conclave is deadlocked, the electors can switch to a simple majority or a runoff between the top two candidates.

At the final session of the congregation, the cardinals received Vacant See medals coined in gold, silver and bronze and embossed with the coat of arms of French Cardinal Jean Villot, the papal chamber-with a Denver-area family for adoption "That's my daughter," whispered 17-year-old Kim Perkins as she looked across a Denver juvenile courtroom at a little girl wearing a short, lacetrimmed dress and bandages on her knees.

Juvenile Court Judge Orrelle Weeks allowed Mrs. Perkins to return to Dallas with her daughter Friday, but continued Colorado guardianship rights until a hearing later this month at which Mrs. Perkins must provide documentary proof that she is the child's mother.

During the hearing, Judge Weeks asked Mrs. Perkins how she could be sure Shanita was her child. Mrs. Perkins described a birthmark. The judge took the child to her chambers and upon returning said she was satisfied the child was Mrs. Perkins's daughter.

The whereabouts of Shanita Michelle Perkins had been unknown until the arrest this week in Kelso, Wash., of a 17-year-old woman, said to be a friend of Mrs. Perkins from Dallas, who was charged with kidnapping "It's fortunate that adoption proceedings take a little bit of time, otherwise Shanita could have been adopted (by now)" said Fred Persiko, supervisor of the division of services for children and youth of the Denver Social Services Mrs. Perkins, in blue jeans and a white blouse, walked into the courtroom through a crowd of reporters and television cameras after meeting Shanita at a nearby State Department of Social Services building. A few minutes later, a social worker carried in Shanita, her large brown eyes blinking in the glare of the television lights. Two days earlier, Elizabeth Campbell, 17, who listed a Dallas address as her home, appeared before a U.S. magistrate in Tacoma, Wash. Bond was set at $100,000 and she remained in the U.S. marshal's custody. A hearing on her return to Dallas was set for Oct. 20. She had been arrested for a traffic violation and investigation showed she was wanted on a kidnapping charge. Shanita was abducted April 29, 1977, while in the care of a baby sitter in Dallas, FBI records say. Persiko said Mrs. Campbell, identifying herself by her maiden name of Elizabeth Blanchard, had come to the Denver Child Welfare Division last September to discuss relinquishing Shanita. Persiko said she identified herself as the mother of the child, whom she called Nina.

Mrs. Campbell agreed to place her with foster parents, Persiko said, who would care for a child for a fee with no adoption rights. In May, Persiko said, Shanita was placed with a second couple. The division heard nothing from Mrs. Campbell and in June Shanita was declared a de-

On a 70-19 vote, the Senate sent the measure to the House of Representa-tives. The bill's chances for final approval in the last days of the congressional session hinge on how House members re-

We will not let this nation rest until it deals with those people who are left out of the society and who cannot find meaningful work," she said.

The agreement to take a final vote on the measure followed three days of private negotiations among Republicans and Democrats trying to write a comproover numerical targets. The Full Employment Action Council, the organization formed to lobby for passage of a "full employment" bill, wanted the measure to make it clear that unemcustody at Freer and jailed at Corpus Christi on charges of conspiracy to deliver narcotics. Also jailed in the same incident was James Goff, 35, a Childress crop-dusting pilot. They were arraigned Thursday on the charges and bond was set at $100,000 each.

Foreign Aid Bill Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate completed action Friday on the new $9.1 billion foreign aid bill, including millions of dollars in aid to several nations in the Middle East, and sent it to the White House for President Carter's signature.

The economic and military aid measure also includes a controversial $90 million security assistance fund for Syri-

After the bill was denounced as the "biggest pork barrel" of all, the Senate approved it 60-31. Though the House and Senate trimmed the bill's total some $1.25 billion below Carter's original request, one Republican farm belt senator said most of the money remaining should have been spent at home.

Sen. Milton Young, R-N.D., stung by Carter's veto of a $10.2 billion public works bill, complained that Carter wanted to spend even more money than he got for "public works projects all over the world," including a $1 billion recla-mation project in Pakistan.

"We talked with Mrs. Caddell and Bob's brother, Steve, who are both associated with Caddell Aircraft," Galligan said, "and they assure us that the airfield is in operation as usual." Mrs. Caddell is a pilot and Steve Caddell is an aircraft mechanic. In addition, the company employs several other people, officials say

Galligan said city officials are satisfied with the situation at the airport at the present time

When Bob gets back, we'll talk to him about what happens next," Galligan said. The city manager noted that the airfield services a minimum of 20 planes daily, mostly light aircraft.

Caddell and Goff were arrested by Freer Chief of Police John Corrales, who said he became suspicious when he not-iced their small airplane landing on a seldom-used dirt strip near his home.

After questioning the men, he left the area, then returned when he observed a larger, twin-engine plane landing along-side the Caddell aircraft, apparently to refuel. Corrales said one of the reasons he became suspicious of the single-engine Childress airplane was that it was carrying 11 extra fuel tanks.

Corrales said he observed refueling from the smaller craft to the larger craft. When the persons piloting the twin-en-gine plane saw Corrales returning to the strip in his marked police car, they at-tempted to run over his vehicle with the plane, he said. Corrales said he fired several shots, but the aircraft managed to

The Childress men were arrested at the scene and taken to Corpus Christi. Corrales said no drugs were found in the Caddell aircraft, but that journals inside the plane indicated the men were involved in narcotics traffic. The plane, a single-engine Cessna, was onliscated by authorities.

Vandals Do Damage To House

Deputies Friday were searching for whoever broke into a south Lubbock resi-dence and caused more than $2,500 worth of damage to the house.

Gary Allen Dedmon said someone broke into his home at 1102 94th St. between 10 a.m. and 6:45 p.m. Thursday and vandalized every room. The intrud-ers broke the frame of the kitchen door when they forced their way in, reports in-dicate, and also turned over furniture, broke a 25-gallon aquarium, fired a .45-caliber slug into one mattress and Dedmon's refrigerator and a .22-caliber shell into the wall of a bedroom.

Additionally, the vandals destroyed two televisions, knocked a hole in a bedroom wall and another hole in the living room wall was caused by furniture being thrown, Dedmon said.

A 17-year-old Lubbock woman said she was raped and robbed early Friday by two men who found her sleeping in a car.

The woman said she was asleep in the front seat of a vehicle in a parking lot at Broadway and Avenue X when two young white men jumped in the car shortly after midnight.

After asking if the victim needed help, one of the suspects allegedly raped the woman after motioning to his companion to leave the car. Reports indicate the man held the woman at knifepoint while committing the assault.

The woman said the other man then entered the car and also raped her. After the assaults the men took the woman's purse and fled the scene, according to re-

Workers Complain Of 'Lousy' Job

WARREN, Mich. (UPI) - Workers at Chrysler's army tank plant say they have a lousy job.

Literally.

Lice are tumbling onto them from the rafters over the production line. That's where the pigeons roost.

"The Chrysler people told us these are bird lice and won't hurt people," said Pete Prantera, vice-president of United Auto Workers Local 1200.

"But our people don't care what kind of lice they are," Prantera said.
"They don't want those lice crawling on them.
"Would you like to take these things home to your family?"

Lice-infested pigeons have easy access to the suburban Detroit plant through huge doors where the tanks roll in and out. They nest in the rafters.

And a state health official says it might make matters worse to get rid of

"You kill or chase away the louse's natural host and the lice that are left in the pigeon nest start moving around and looking for a new host," he said. Prantera said the company disinfected several areas of the plant this week and the lice seem to have disappeared.

"But there's no guarantee they won't come back," he said. "This is the third time we've had this problem come up in three months."

Leonard Lordy, president of the UAW local, said the company contends the lice infestation does not violate federal health and safety rules. "The Chrysler representatives said these lice were not a threat to anybody's health." The state health official agrees.

DIMENSIONS

Mr. Webster of dictionary fame could very well have defined the word "oasis" during a visit to Roaring Springs Ranch Club

Oasis - 1: a small isolated fertile area surrounded by Oasis — 1: a small isolated fertile area surrounded by general barrenness and that is typically marked by greenery and has a water supply furnished by local springs or by water flowing from a distant source. 2: something (as a place of refuge or a time of relaxation) existing or occurring in an isolated way and affording welcome refreshment or relief or contrast.

Surrounded by farms and ranches with a horizon broken by an occasional tree or windmill, the camping club north of Dickens has greenery and water from many

The fertile area boasts large stands of cottonwood, black walnut, oak and elm. Even the mesquite trees are larger than usual because of the springs. In the woods are dove, quail, turkey and even coyotes. The area is favored by bird watchers, and wildflowers can be seen everywhere

Jarrell Jennings, developer of the Roaring Springs Ranch Club, stopped under the shade of a large oak and gestured at the wooded scene around us. "When this area was a part of the Matador Ranch, they decided to preserve its beauty, so it was never cleared," explained Jennings. "It was a retreat for the Matador ranch hands, and before that it was favored by buffalo hunters and the Commanches."

We sipped some water from a small waterfall of sparkling water fed by an underground spring that pumps 2 million gallons of water a day. A few feet from the waterfall, a large swimming pool is filled by the same spring.

Jennings noted, "We had some hydrological studies done on this water. The mineral content and the temperature doesn't match the water normally found in this area. There are indications that the water comes from New Mexico, surfaces here and then surfaces again in South Texas."

The name Roaring Springs is well known to South Plains residents, and the swimming pool at the camp has been a welcome sight for many years.

Now the secluded area is a perpetual Shangri-La for campers. Improvements are being made under the direction of Roaring Springs Ranch Club, but the new private membership operation is assuring the oasis will remain a pristine retreat. Set aside in a trust by a non-profit Texas corporation, the 1,000-plus acres will remain as a designated park and can never be subdivided.

"Camping is a very popular form of recreation," said Jennings, "and it's appealing to more people every day. People want to get back to nature, but they don't want to have to rely on what I call camping ghettos or recreation ghettos. State and national parks are becoming overcrowded, and in recent years some parks have experienced a crime problem

A limit on the number of members and campsites at the Roaring Springs Ranch Club will keep the oasis free of wall-to-wall tents, mobile homes and vans. Scattered over the acreage will be nine camping clusters. Each cluster will have approximately 50 campsites, and there will be appropriate space between the campsites. The permanent sites will have electricity, picnic tables and shelter. The permanent camping clusters will also have comfort stations with showers, rest rooms, and security lighting.

Speaking of security, the camp has one exit and one entrance. There will be a security guard and a ranger on duty at all times.

Because there are campers that enjoy getting away from city life regardless of the weather, the camp is now open year-round. And there are campers that don't want all the comforts of home when they head for the out-of-doors. Those hearty individuals will find approximately half of the camping resort has been designated as wilderness. In the wilderness area will be secluded camping sites for those who Meandering throughout the acreage are trails for horseback riding and hiking. I joined Jennings on a trail that leads to an old line shack he wants to preserve and refurnish with early ranching memorabilia.

I asked the camp developer, "What do you have here at the camp for present members and for visitors to see and use?

RESTING MINDS - Shaunna Harris and Timothy Pearson, both of Spur, make the most of a day away from school.

"We already have improved campsites with hook-ups and bath houses," he re-plied. "Roads have been cut back to the wilderness areas. There's swimming as long as the weather stays warm, and we have a small outdoor restaurant open dur-

In the distance we could hear the sound of horses. "We have horses for rent and members can bring their own horses. There'll soon be an area where the horses can be turned loose for grazing during an overnight stay."

On top of a ridge we stopped to look over the valley with its trees and springs. Nearby were canyons that showed strata of red, brown and white.

Jennings took the opportunity to talk of the future. Engineers have completed studies for three lakes within the camping resort. There will be a 10-acre lake, a 25-acre lake that will be 35 to 40 feet deep, and another 10-acre lake will be shallow for bank fishing. The deeper lake will be sheltered by bluffs and trees.

All of the lakes will be stocked with crappie, catfish and bass. There will be no

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 28, had a sudden loss of vision in her right eye. She went through a series of tests and was told she had "optic neuritis." She was given no treatment. The vision did clear somewhat. It is still blurred. and color and perception are off. Would you please discuss this condition? - H.B.

This is inflammation of the optic nerve. usually affecting only one eye. The in-flammation can be viewed directly with an ophthalmoscope. In many instances, the cause cannot be found. However. there are several possibilities. They range from viral infection, poisioning from chemicals such as lead or alcohol, or multiple sclerosis. A bee sting may cause it.

The vision loss is usually sudden, and the disturbance may last several months or be brief depending on the cause. Vision usually returns, sometimes only partially, again depending on the cause.

When necessary, anti-inflammation drugs (as prednisone) are given. Your daughter should be checked periodically for other signs of multiple sclerosis, a generalized nerve disorder claim the injections kill the excess fatty cells in the blood stream. I have asked a couple of doctors if these shots are of any value and really work, but I didn't get any comment or response. - Mrs. D.I.

Well. I'll give you one. This form of weight reduction is not only expensive. it's ineffective. The program is usually accompanied by a low-calorie diet. That's what accomplishes all the weight loss experienced, and you can do that on your own or with the help of your doctor. You can show this to your friends. The injection of this substance (called HCG) is not one of the "lost secrets of reducing" covered in my booklet by that name. If you want a sensible plan, and one that won't cost a penny, read that. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210. Chicago. Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you advise a pregnant woman to stop smoking? -

I do. and at the risk of the unpopularity expected by any bearer of bad things. I maintain that quitting is at least well worth the attempt. A recent study among 894 female smokers who became pregnant bears out what previous studies hinted at. The risk of having a spontaneous abortion is increased for the smokers. Other studies have indicated that women who smoke during pregnancy have babies who weigh less than those of women who don't.

or not? My husband's doctor says coffee has nothing to do with uric acid, but his friend's doctor says just the opposite. My husband drinks about 30 cups of coffee a day. What do you say? - B.J.

Coffee contains a chemical called xanthine which takes part in the production of uric acid. Uric acid, as you may know, is the culprit in gout. A moderate amount would be OK. But 30 cups a day! He should cut down, even if he can afford that expense, and especially if his blood uric acid count is high. He must be literally floating in caffeine, which can stimulate him'into wakefulness and an erratic heart rate. If he were taking cream and sugar in those 30 cups he could also have a weight problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband uses molasses for his pancakes instead of regular syrup. Is this healthy? - Mrs. P.T.

Can't hurt him. It contains sugar pretty similar to any syrup, and has a trace of extra minerals, but not enough to make any great difference. I'll have to try it.

FOR MRS. O.O. - Diaper rash has many possible causes, but you are right in suspecting too tight diapers. That can prevent proper ventilation of the skin folds. Also, if you use cloth diapers you should rinse twice to remove any residual soap. Diapers might be left a bit looser at night, but not so loose as to be removed accidentally.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this painful disease, write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago. Ill. 60611. for a copy of his booklet. "Gout — The Modern Way to Stop It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

South gave the hand an interesting play. He won the diamond, played out three rounds of trumps and cashed four clubs in order to discard the eight of diamonds from dummy.

The game was match point duplicate and South felt that he had carefully shown West that he, South, and started with one spade, six hearts, two diamonds and four clubs.

Nevertheless, West ducked the spade lead that followed without a quiver. South called for dummy's jack and the defense got their two spade tricks. South was mad but not too mad to congratulate West on his play of the low spade and to ask him how he had worked it out. West, an old campaigner never said a word except that he felt that the score for six hearts bid and made against him would have been well below average and that he wanted to give himself every chance for a really good score. We think West had another reason for his play. It was that third round of trumps that South had played. He had no reason for that play except to make sure that West would know that South had started with six trumps.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: What can I say to a husband. 32 years old, who insists on walking around the house nude in front of his seven-year-old son and 10-year-old daughter? Phil watches TV in the nude. eats dinner that way and seems to make a point of flaunting his nakedness. (Both summer and winter.) He insists nudity is the normal state of man and that dressing is an affectation of the Puritan culture.

I've told him it is offensive to me, but he pays no attention. I live in fear that my mother will walk in unexpectedly and get the shock of her life. The minute Phil comes from work it's a race - me run ning to draw the draperies and him getting his clothes off.

The reason he goes around naked, he says, is because he wants our children to grow up with a healthy attitude about their bodies. He says the human body is God's most perfect creation. (Phil's wouldn't win any prizes. I can tell you.) I am not evil-minded and I'm not a prude, but I don't believe it's right for a man to be parading around the house nude all the time. Both our children have asked why Daddy doesn't keep his clothes on. Apparently they don't like it either. Please express your views on this subject. I've talked myself hoarse. - Overexposed In Shaker Heights

Dear Shaker: There is nothing normal about sitting down to dinner naked as a radish, at least not in our culture. Your husband's behavior is not only gross, it's unappetizing

There's another aspect of Phil's peeling that is clearly out of order. No father should parade nude before his 10-yearold daughter. Such exhibitionism needs looking into. I suggest your husband talk to someone who specializes in behavioral problems, because he sure does have one, lady.

Dear Ann Landers: Is it too late to say something about bingo cheats?

I'm a bingo player. I've also had 25 years experience in developing codes and ciphers. One must work with "probability" a great deal in this profession. I feel I know the game.

About cheating: There are countless ways a person can cheat at bingo. Almost always he is in cahoots with the numbercaller. In some states, Kansas and Nebraska, for example, bingo licenses are given only to certain organizations. In these games cheating is virtually nonexistent, particularly in small games where no more than 70 to 75 players participate. In commercial games, privately sponsored, it is not unusual to have a shill win the major prizes.

One type of cheating is perfectly legal. This is the game where very little is paid out compared to the money paid in. In large games this is almost always the

Yet most butchers, these days, are hired by chain stores, not the small independents. And butchers are not an isolated breed in the labor market

Throughout America, the need for skilled workers is on the decline as jobs requiring little or no skills are on the rise. It is a result of radical and immutable changes occuring in the U.S. economy - changes which some economists and educators predict could lead to massive dissatisfaction and social upheaval across the board of the U.S. labor force.

As American industry continues to automate and export both skilled and unskilled manufacturing jobs, service sector jobs continue to expand and fill the gap. The Congressional Joint Economic Committee predicted earlier this year that by 1985, up to 80 percent of the U.S. workforce would be employed in the service sector, where skill requirements

The poor pay and lack of security on incentive has contributed to growing legions of migratory workers. drifting from one poor job to another. from one city to another, unable to put down roots or provide for a family, say economic observers.

Columbia University economist Elli Ginzberg notes that although national weekly earnings averaged $176 in 1976. the average pay in service jobs was just $146 and the retail average only $114. And yet, he says, three out of four new jobs in the past 26 years have been in

The decline in skill requirements has not only hit the high-skill areas, such as butchers, tool-and die-makers and other machinists. Automation has also "deskilled" jobs at the supermarket checkout counters, retail stores and large

Employees at some McDonald's restaurants, for example, now merely have search for the Denver-based Education Commission of the States, "While the manager of McDonald's might go to the Kiwanis and talk about kids not reading or writing, in practice he hasn't done much to help them use those skills.'

What has happened, adds Pipho, is that America has "created a lower level of jobs where no reading or writing skills are needed."

The growth of this "lower level caste," in turn, is a contributing factor to the failure of schools to upgrade, or even maintain, educational achievement, some educators believe.

"In the past, it paid to do well in school to get a better job," said Henry Levin. Stanford University education and economics professor. "Today, there's the feeling that better jobs represent so few, you can't get them any-

This lack of motivation - perhaps the result of the students' own awareness that most jobs are poorly paid and no longer require much in the way of skills

The rate of "functional illiteracy" - not being able to read a newspaper or fill out a job application - is about 13 per cent of all 17-year old high school students (not counting the thousands who drop out annually), according to the federally financed National Assessment of Educational Progress. Functional illiteracy among blacks and Hispanics is believed to be much higher.

Motivation for education has suffered so badly that many schools are now reporting an average daily absentee rate as

Federal projections indicate a surplus of some 950,000 college graduates in relation to the market for graduates dur-ing the current period of 1974-85. Of course, what is happening is that these educated, skilled graduates are accepting jobs well below their skill levels as salesmen, secretaries and restaurant workers creating a kind of educated proletariat. Prime Minister Begin and several of his key colleagues have paid a high price for the Camp David accords. They have become the first leaders in Israel's history to agree to dismantle a Jewish settle-

The significance of this decision has been largely unappreciated outside the Jewish community, but its importance can be judged from the major changes it already has produced in internal Israeli

Just before he left for Camp David, Prime Minister Begin saw a delegation representing the Jewish settlers in northeastern Sinai. He assured them that he would guarantee under all circumstances the future existence of their settlements. Today, Mr. Begin is formally committed to evacuating the Sinai settlements and restoring them to Arab

For Begin's foreign minister, Moshe Dayan, the agreements also amounted to a major change in direction. Dayan was defense minister in the previous Labor Party government, and in that capacity he was founder of Yamit, the central new Jewish town in northeast Sinai.

Until the accords were signed, Dayan had insisted that Israel's security required the interposition of Jewish towns and forces between the Gaza Strip and the Egyptian-held Sinai. Today, he too supports returning to Egypt the land Israeli forces under his command occu-

Begin's reversal is more poignant still when it comes to the Camp David provisions for the West Bank, the Biblical Samaria and Judea to which Begin always has asserted Jews enjoy a divinely sanctioned right-of-return.

Since returning home, Begin has insisted that he agreed to a moratorium on new Jewish settlements on the West Bank only for a brief 90-day period. Yet he has ordered his troops to remove Jews forcibly from the West Bank, an action that deeply affects all Israelis, whatever their politics. What has Mr. Begin, so often considered the embodiment of uncompromising Zionist orthodoxy, bought at this price?

He has achieved some highly unorthodox successes both for Israeli diplomacy and his own political position. Following the Camp David accord, not just peace but active Israeli collaboration with the Egyptian government seems certain. Begin will soon receive in Jerusalem never mind that there is still political and legal wrangling over the status of the city — the first Arab ambassador officially accredited to Israel. This alone will mark a fundamental transition in the politics of the Middle East

Begin, so often considered a factional, divisive politician, has emerged from Camp David as the colossus of Israeli politics, both within his own party, the Likud, and within the major national leader. Within the Likud, his personal prestige has prevailed over the objections of his own hardline followers. Within the opposition Labor Party, furious with the results of Camp David. But she could do nothing to prevent the other party leaders who had served in previous Israeli governments from supporting Begin.

While the diplomatic and political fruits of compromise of Camp David were impressive, what the negotiations failed to achieve was of great import-

What Mr. Begin did not achieve was peace in the region as a whole.

There was no settlement on the issue of the political future of the West Bank and Gaza, nor on the question of the Palestinians. Instead, all that came out of the accords was the hazy outline of a way to proceed towards possible future agreements on much more difficult problems.

In the weeks following Camp David, Prime Minister Begin has reasserted his position that Jerusalem is forever indivisible, and that West Bank and Gaza local Arab autonomy - not the sovereignty the Palestinians want - is the limit to which he and Israel can be pushed.

President Carter takes a contrary position, that East Jerusalem, the part of the city under Jordanian control until 1967, is part of the West Bank and therefore its status is subject to further nego-

As the euphoria of Camp David fades, Begin also is maintaining, over President Carter's objections, that Israel soon will be free to resume Jewish settlement on the West Bank. Spokesmen for the U.S. government counter that this is far too narrow an interpretation of the Camp David pledges.

These differences between allies are harbingers of far more serious arguments yet to come, involving not just debates about verbal formulations drafted in the Maryland hills but conflicts over the entire future of the Middle East which remains divided by implacable

King Hussein of Jordan and the Saudi government may indeed by willing to live indefinitely with a set of arrangements for the West Bank which they cannot publicly accept. But Palestinian hardliners cannot. At the very least, as the Israelis move to implement full civil autonomy on the West Bank, the Palestinians wil make sure that people under their control get elected to office.

With the West Bank problem essentially insoluble, the only hope is that peace between Israel and Egypt will so trans-form the entire Middle East landscape that the old quarries may come to look different with the passage of time. In he language of Dr. Zbigniew Brzesinski, 'resident Carter's national security adisor, the Egyptian-Israeli accord is thus nly the first circle in a series of oncentric" circles in the Middle East. 'his is an elegant if semantic way of hrasing Dr. Kissinger's notion that Mideast problem as a whole is so int ctible that one can only proceed step-by-step, because attempts at overall solutions involve too many conflicting interests. No West Bank settlement seems possible now, but the success of Camp David lay in the recognition that that should not prevent Egyptian-Israeli

Is Egyptian-Israeli peace, then, all that was won at Camp David?

No, for there were important consequences for all three leaders who met

President Sadat has been given a new lease on life in Egypt. He now must turn his attention to Egypt's enormous inter-nal problems, but his task will be made easier by American help and the cooper-ation of his new good neighbor Israel. Sadat, of course, will be in deepening trouble with the Arab hardliners, not the least of whom is colonel Qadaffi of Libya, on Egypt's western border.

But there is reason to suspect that Sadat's enemies will have to be more circumspect once the Egypt-Israeli peace treaty is signed. For Sadat, no longer needing to concentrate his forces against Israel, will become a much more formidable foe for his Arab enemies. Sadat, in any event, is known to want to turn his attention away from Arab affairs to Africa, and the Camp David accords may have made this inevitable. By signing a treaty with Israel, Sadat has abdicated his position as a possible leader for the Arabs and ensured that the hardliners will be pledged to his destruction. NYC Pest Control Problem Escalating

By JANE ROCKMAN

NEW YORK - Lucky Alexander cautiously pushed open the door to the basement of a small apartment building in upper Manhattan. A large rat sprang from the darkness and rushed past. Alexander jumped backward. "The two of us were just trying to get out of each other's way," he said later with a laugh.

As a member of New York City's rat patrol, Alexander is used to such encounters. But even he is surprised at the increase in rats that run around fearlessly in daylight. After a recent bakery fire on Manhattan's Upper West Side, he recalled, so many rats gathered to feast on the leftovers that panicked residents flagged down his pest control truck for

The city Health Department's Bureau of Pest Control gets between 10,000 and 12,000 rat complaints in a normal year. But this past year, it got nearly 25 per-

New York's long-standing war with its rats usually is fought over the supply lines - the 25,000 tons of garbage discarded by city residents daily. Disposing of that much refuse is no small problem. and therein lies a tale of mind over mat-

Randy Dupree, director of environmental health programs, attributes the dramatic increase to the hard winter of 1977-78. While sanitation trucks were busy plowing snow, garbage often sat uncollected for days, and the rats had a plentiful supply of food. When the traditional spring breeding period arrived, they were already in abundance and their numbers grew alarmingly.

But Anthony Vaccarello, sanitation

commissioner, argues that both the garbage and the rat problem got much worse after the city passed laws limiting on-site incineration to help reduce air

"It was a negative trade-off," he said, "that created a lot more problems for

On-site incineration is "low-level burning." Because the garbage thrown down incinerator chutes consists of many different components - and is often wet besides - it tends to burn with a lot of unhealthy smoke.

In 1966 the City Council prohibited installation of new on-site incinerators and required that existing units be converted to compactors or upgraded to meet higher air-quality standards.

Given the choice, most landlords opted for compactors. Robert Rickles, air verting is cheaper than upgrading incinerators and that many landlords were afraid more rigid and costly burning laws would follow, even if they complied with the new requirements.

resources commissioner, said that con-

Since the law went into effect, more than half of the city's 17,000 incinerators have been converted to compactors. Instead of garbage cans filled mainly with incinerators ashes, giant plastic garbage bags are now propped up against building walls throughout the city. Torn and overflowing bags often block sidewalks right out to the gutter, attracting roaches and rats.

Rickles admits that "the compactor program was not designed to minimize vermin problems."

Garbage is supposed to be compressed to one-quarter of its original volume before it is packed either in plastic bags or containers - although it may start expanding again once the pressure is removed. Insecticide is supposed to be sprayed automatically in the machine, and property owners are expected to spray surrounding areas several times a

But one compactor manufacturer estimates that of about 10,000 New York City buildings required to have compactors, more than half have cheaper machines that simply push raw garbage from collection bins into plastic bags without compacting it.

In addition, landlords sometimes fail to spray compactor rooms as often as reguried and dilute insecticide concen-tor rooms and thrash-filled streets create an even greater problem whenever gar-bage collections are delayed. And collections repeatedly have been delayed since 1975 for a very big reason - New York's fiscal problems.

The Sanitation Department has 4,000 fewer employees now than the 14,500 it had fulltime in 1974. Fewer workers has meant less frequent collections. Four years ago, 38 percent of the city had six collections a week and 42 percent of the city had two a week. Today, no area gets six collections a week and 58 percent get only two weekly pickups.

On the bright side of all this, the air over New York holds less incinerator soot than 10 years ago.

New York's Department of Environmental Protection reports a "noticeable reduction" in the level of particulates sulphates, nitrates and trace metals - in the air. In 1966 on-site incinerators alone emitted nearly 17,000 tons of particulates. In 1974 the remaining on-site incinerators emitted 6,000 tons.

New York City air now meets federal standards for "emissions from stationary sources," but this is just a small part of the problem. Incinerators account for only a fraction of the city's air pollution. Cabon monoxide levels from cars, trucks and buses still are high.

In the best of all possible worlds, said Dupree, "we would have cleaner air and well-maintained compactors."

In the real world of New York City, however, "the garbage is lingering and the bugs are multiplying," one exterminator said. But breathing a little easier. he sets about tackling the well-fed rats

Yet Bell has one thing going for him:

tax policy has already been a volatile pol-

GOP Hopes Pinned On New Jersey Race predictable support of the strongest possible national defense, he would be pre-Republican polls show almost no change

JAMES RIDGEWAY

(c) 1978 Pacific News Service The idiom of national politics over at least the next two years may well be deermined by the outcome of a little noticed senatorial campaign in New Jersey. There, with time rapidly running out, a young conservative Republican, Jeffrey Bell, feels sure that he can still wrest vicory from the favorite: former basketball tar and liberal Democrat Bill Bradley. Across the country, new conservatives and old Bradley will show that the tax reolt has staying power and can be made to work for them, If Bell wins, the lobby behind New York Representative Jack Kemp's call for a huge permanent tax reduction will gain powerful national presence, and could — along with a Kemp drive for the nomination — be politically dominant in Republican presidentically dominant in Republican presidential politics in 1980.

Furthermore, a Bell victory would be a signal to President Carter of the tempestuous national mood with which he must grapple in the months to come.

Even after his upset of Senator Clifford

Case in the Republican primary, achieved by careful targeting of conservative voters by direct mail and a low turnout, Bell was given little chance of beat-ing Bradley. Polls showed a 30-point ad between the two, with almost half the voters undecided. It was widely assumed that Bradley, with his name recognition from a 10-year stint with the New York Knicks, would win in a walk. Bell's problem has always been to link the voters' tax rage with his own name and candidacy. Bell's advisers now claim that Bradley's support is dropping away. They say that results of a recent poll show Bradley has lost 12 points (from 47 to 35) in three months. It was this poll, the Bell camp says, that persuaded the senatorial Relican Campaign Committee to begin souring money into New Jersey in unprecedented support for a nonincumbent

The party is beginning to rally to Bell. Case has finally brought himself to prodaim an endorsement. Jerry Ford, who carried New Jersey in 1976, is scheduled to campaign for Bell in the state; and similar appearances by Republican big-wigs will coincide with a last-minute media blitz and another direct-mail shot, this one of a million and a half pieces, to

Bradley has responded to all this with streme caution. He stays away from the ress and adheres to a bland style of polpress and auneres to a sposes on the cen-itical rhetoric which reposes on the central foundation of name recognition. Thus, on the surface, the citizens of New Jersey face an extraordinarily clear choice. Bell, at 34, unmarried, is almost a paradigm of conservative Republican political biography. The son of a Dupont executive, he came under the influence of William Buckley, William Rusher, and al surprises. In foreign policy, apart from

At 35, he is rich, well known, and has been planning this race for a long time.

It must be said, on the basis of a swing through New Jersey, that Bell is by far more interesting and personable candidate. An hour-long interview produced a confident and unfaltering enunciation of his philosophy.

In the face of almost all problems, from welfare to pollution to business confid-ence to energy, Bell brandishes his phiopher's stone: "Deep, permanent, uniform tax reductions, consequent high growth, and resolution of crisis. A rising tide lifts all boats," he proclaims.

Then he wrenches a dollar bill from his pocket and asks, "What is the one thing we ask the federal government to make? Do we ask them to make steel or autos and God knows what a federal auto would look like - No. This is the only thing we ask them to produce, and when we do we ask them to tell us that a year from now it will be worth 100 cents and not 89. When the government fails to do this, it is failing in its most fundamental task and loses its legitimacy."

It's an act that goes down well in an era

Bell is an apostle of a new Republican recipe, one which Democrats should watch with great care. It combines a great many of the old Republican watch-words (less regulation, thrift, small gov-ernment, fiscal prudence, etc.) with a new clarion call for growth. With the magic recipe of a 33 percent tax cut, Bell and others like him across the country can approach hitherto closed constituen-cies among blue-collar workers, blacks and other minorities with the word that they, not the Democrats, are the crusad-ers for growth through less taxes and bet-

Unlike many Republicans, he's prepared to say that industries should be shut down if they are proven causes of cancer and other fatal diseases. He cites sbestos as a case in point.

Twelve hours after these reflections, Bill Bradley was addressing a state convention of the International Brotherhood of Electrrical Workers in Atlantic City.

After some mild polemic against his opponent as a would-be architect of destruction of the labor movement and some reflections on the anti-labor campaigns of "management," Bradley dwelt on the "social contract" forged in the 1930s between management and labor and reflected how each side had formerly gained from this harmonious ar-

Moments of great nph, moments of pressure, moments of sadness. And I think some bond was established, so when I come before you today I come not just as another political candidate but as someone you know and have known for a number of years. To me that offers a great opportunity. It is also a great opportunity to level with people."

But where Bell may win and where Bradley makes such a limp impression is in the realm of energetically expressed ideas. This became abundantly clear in a debate between Bradley and Bell organized by the South Jersey and Cherry Hill Chambers of Commerce Executives from RCA, Price Waterhouse, kCampbell Soup, Texaco, and Corning Glass listened as Bradley opened the proceedings with a positive avalanche of conservative buzzwards. After saying that he's been lucky in family and education, avocation, and "a chance to spend public service," Bradley got down to business, in every sense of the word. He wanted to solve problems "in a costeffective manner." He was "skeptical about govenment and its capacity." He had "no vested interest in old ideas or ineffective government programs." "We need," he said, "to cut the federal deficit and cut the federal budget. We need less

Bradley also said some progressive things. He spoke up against nuclear power, argued for an alternative energy policy as one way of controlling inflation, favored more public works to cope with unemployment. Amid Bell's assaults on the CETA program, Bradley actually became eloquent about the chances CETA funds were giving those who might otherwise have none. He invoked the likelihood of higher local taxes if Bell's federal surgery were to come to pass. But the ardor of a Hubert Humphrey eloquently defending liberal big government and big spending simply was not in him. And his lack of eloquence on this issue is an omen for Democratic candidates across the country, where voters are in a contrary mood.

In New Jersey, Bell's chance for victory is a long shot. His polls may show a narrowing gap with Bradley, but other a vice officer. Peter Mackid, 33, is to be 792-9797 sentenced Oct. 24 and could be ordered to a maximum 10-year term. BOOTS BOOTS BOOTS

Testing On Turin Shroud Finished; Final Results Still Months Away

TURIN, Italy (AP) - After an unprecedented series of scientific tests, the mysterious Holy Shroud was returned to its closed silver casket Friday. A spokesman for the researchers said he personally believes the linen is the 2,000-year-old burial cloth of Jesus Christ, though final results are months away.

Previous studies have ruled out that the image may have been painted.

The image shows the marks of scourging, thorn-like wounds on the head and a large wound on the chest - the same kind of torture the Gospel says Jesus Christ suffered. It also shows the signs of nails in the wrists and feet.

The Roman Catholic Church, while encouraging veneration of the relic, has avoided taking a formal stand on the authenticity of the shroud because under Catholic doctrine this is the task of historians and scientists, not theologians.

Some Italian experts among the researchers cautioned against over-optimism about the test results.

"We made all possible tests on both sides of the linen," said Professor Baima Ballone. "However, we may come to conclusions that are far from being final."

Foreign Students Fill U.S Enrollment Gaps

By Al Goodman

(e) 1978 Pacific News Service

American colleges, facing a financial crunch because of declining enrollments, are tapping vast reservoirs of foreign students in their fight to survive.

Like oil flowing from an OPEC well, foreign students are being welcomed, and even recruited, to help take up financial burdens created by the shrinking pool of American applicants.

This fall, more than 220,000 students from abroad are studying on U.S. campuses, according to an estimate of the New York-based Institute of International Education (IIE). Some 40,000 of those al Education (IIE). Some 40,000 of those — and perhaps many more — come from Iran alone, according to Iranian government officials.

Though the foreigners still represent only a fraction of the 11 million U.S. college students, there are about 66,000 more of them here than there were four years ago and they carry increasing financial and academic weight.

At the University of San Francisco where tuition accounts for 90 percent of revenues, foreign students make up one-fifth of the student body. Without them, said Rev. Theodore Taheny, dean of the Evening College, "there would be drastic reductions in programs and professors."

At George Washington University in Washington, D.C., where tuition is $3,000 a year, there are 1,400 foreign undergraduates. The school's foreign enrollment jumped 54 percent between 1976 and 1977, the last years for which there are reported figures.

Even higher percentage increases were registered at many schools during that period. Drexel University in Pennsylvania, a respected technological school, saw a 121 percent increase in foreign students; Emory University in Geor-gia jumped 110 percent; the University of Southwestern Louisiana was up 103 percent, from 381 to 773.

Foreign students overall spend at least $1 billion annually in the U.S., Taheny estimates. "In the budget planning of most American institutions," he wrote recently, "the revenue generated from foreign students is an increasingly important en-

"If I had the chance to study in my country, I would," said 20-year-old Iranian Saeed Nasseri, an engineering major at San Francisco State. Like many for-eign students, especially from the Mideast, his family can now afford to pay for higher education, but Nasseri was thwarted by severely limited university

'The 200,000 here don't represent a fourth of those who would like to come,' said Marvin Baron, foreign student advisor at the University of California-Berke-

But it is coming at an opportune time for American colleges. Because of lower birthrates, prime college-age students, 18-21, are expected to decline 15 percent by 1965. Keeping classrooms and dormitories filled will be even more difficult due to rising tuition costs and growing evidence that college diplomas are worth less than before in the U.S. job market.

"Some private schools will go under if they don't get some students," said Dr. Gale Martin, an IIE official, adding that foreign students are also important at state universities where they pay the much higher "out-of-state" tuition.

Although most foreign students come to the United States through contacts with relatives or friends already here, recruiting is also on the rise.

cruiting is also on the rise.

"We get letters from our offices around the world telling about recruiters who stop by to leave their literature and ask our assistance," said Martin.

One school reportedly recruiting is the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, where annual student expenses total $7,000 and where 2,700 foreign students. dents, by the last IIE count, make up the greatest number in any four-year U.S.

Foreign students are not only having a financial impact on U.S. colleges. Their academic presence is also being felt, particularly at the graduate level, because of their heavy concentration in fields such as engineering and business management, skills badly needed in their rapidly developing home countries.

Almost a third of the 2,641 engineering developing and the 2,641 engineering developing home countries.

Almost a third of the 2,641 engineering doctorates awarded in 1976-77, reports the National academy of Sciences, went to foreign students. They also picked my more than 15 percent of the math, physics, economics and business doctorates.

At Central State University in Edmond, Oklahome, near Oklahome City, about 25 percent of the 750 Masters of Business Administration (MBA) students are from abroad, although the total foreign enrollment is only 6.5 percent.

A BEAUTIFUL GREEN LAWN FOR ALL SEASONS

Q. How often does "Dixie Green" have to be mowed?

Q. When does "Dixie Green" need to be planted?

A. Approximately once a week except during the coldest part of the winter, when it is usually mowed once during the period although it remains a beautiful lush lawn.

A. Anytime during the next six weeks, but the earlier, the better. Q. What are the fertilizer and water requirements of "Dixie Green"? A. The grass only requires half as much fertilizer as bermuda grass, and needs about the same amount of water as bermuda grass.

Q. How is "Dixie Green" planted?

A. It is a mixture of rye and feacue seed. A person wanting to seed over an existing lawn should scalp the lawn, and apply "Dixie Green" with a spreader, and water throughly. In a new yard, level ground and loosen soil, apply with spreader and rake thoroughly.

Interferon Tested As Potential Cancer Fighter

By DIANNA SINOVIC NEW YORK (NEA) — Why is the American Cancer Society (ACS) now pre-paring to spend $2 million for clinical tests of interferon, a bodily substance known to the chemical world for 20

A relative unknown in cancer treatment, interferon, a protein produced by cells to ward off invading viruses, has been shown to reduce the size of tumors in experiments with animals as well as in scattered applications to human patients.

Clinical testing on humans has centered primarily in Sweden, where 34 patients, children and young adults, have survived the bone cancer osteogenic sarcoma after being treated with high doses of interfer-

According to the ACS, the survival rate of these patients was 70 percent over a period of three years, compared to the normal expectations of 10-to-30 percent in patients treated by surgery alone.

But interferon has several catches. "So far, the experimental use of interferon as a anti-cancer agent for specific kinds of cancer is more or less a shot in the dark," says Dr. Robert Friedman, chief of the experimental pathology lab at the National Institutes of Health, in the journal CA.

The molecule is short-lived within the body and protection declines rapidly within the cells. It is also species specific. That is, interferon produced by a chicken protects the chicken; human interferon protects the human. Animal and human nterferon cannot be switched.

This leads to the most crucial drawback in interferon testing, and the reason for the 20-year lag in its use: the limited availability of human interferon. The price, as a result, is extremely high. The ACS estimates a cost of $30,000 to $35,000 per patient for the clinical tests. Finland supplies most of the world's clinical interferon. The Finnish Red Cross collects and processes blood through massive drives. But large quantities of whole blood yield only minute amounts of processed interferon.

A possible alternative source involves Interferon's advantages as a drug are numerous. Interferon reacts to a broad range of viruses. Instead of responding to a specific virus, as does the antibody, the interferon moves against any viral invader, and a number of viruses have similar initial symptoms.

The molecule is also extremely active.

Little of it is required to activate the de-fense system. And interferon, because it is produced naturally within the body, is apparently harmless to the cells of the

Why does interferon appear significant in cancer treatment?

"In addition to the interferon's anti-viral properties, we now think it is antimitotic. That is, interferon has a selective ability to prevent cancer," Rauscher

As a cancer treatment, interferon would be injected into the tumor sites to supplement the body's natural supply of

In addition to the promising results of the Swedish tests, 15 breast cancer patients have been treated with interferon at the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston. And six lymphoma patients have been treated at Stanford University Medical Center in Palo Alto, Callif.

The ASC funding reflects a significant interest in the molecule's potential for cancer treatment. The $2 million is the largest the ACS has ear-marked for such a narrow area of testing.

But because of the shortage of interfer-on, the clinical tests will be limited to less than 200 patients. Drawn by lot, the patients will be under the supervision of a ACS committee of scientists and physi-

What's up with Melba?

Melba Moore has just released a single, "You Stepped Into My Life," "You written by three of the Gibb brothers. She just stepped out of her lead Broadway role in Timbuktu." And, she is stepping up her role as spokesperson for the children's TV series,

'Big Blue Marble." The former teacher and new mother describes her involvement with the syndicated TV series quite simply, "They were looking for a spokesperson ... this is my second year." Miss Moore will make her first appearance on the show this fall in a segment on eight-year-old jazz singer Tisha Campbell. "It was by accident, I didn't mean to be in it," Miss

Moore insists. "I looked at her picture; you could see her spirit. I had some time free, some people in common. I went down to Jersey ... I was supposed to interview her, but she interviewed me!" Demure in a peasant skirt and vest, Miss Moore explains,

"If I do TV, if I'm promoting an album or concert, or if I'm promoting a local function, I throw in a pitch for 'Big Blue Marble,' — or I visit schools. I lend my presence."

She starts elementary school appearances by describing the show to students. "Then they want to talk," she says. 'They ask, 'What kind of car you got Miss Moore?'

SMOTHERING THE ACT - The famous doo reunited in Broadway's "I Love My Wife," but the Smothers Brothers "act" stays shelved. "We decided to put away the string and bass," says Tom, right, in Oct. 17th's US magazine, "and never pick them up again." In their current stage hit, though, the characters seem familiar: Dick plays the pseu-dosophisticate to Tom's lovable dolt in the musical about ould-be wife-swapping. (NEA Photo)

Student Pioneers Ag Degree

Roy M. Ranne is a graduate student blazing a new trail at Texas Tech Uni-

"I find it a challenge and I'm continually striving to do better and make it even though I don't have a precedent to follow," he said.

Ranne is the first to attempt a master's degree in animal science with maior emphasis in feed mill technology and feedlot management at Texas Tech.

In fact, when he graduates Ranne will be one of the relatively few in the nation who have a formal education in feed mill and feedlot management. And he will be entering a wide open field with excellent job opportunities, especially given his experience and background.

Ranne grew up on a ranch near Brady, about 70 miles east of San Angelo. The primary function of the ranch, owned and operated by Ranne's father, J. A. Jr. is raising both finished fat cattle and feeder cattle for commercial feedlots.

Ranne decided to stay in agriculture when he left the ranch to earn his bachelor's degree in animal science at Tarleton State University.

He began his graduate work at Texas Tech last January, again in animal science but with emphasis in feed mill and feedlot operations. At about the same time. Ranne also began working at the feed mill at Tech's College of Agricultural Sciences field laboratory at New Deal. The feed mill provides a unique educational opportunity for those interested in feed processing techniques, according to Dr. C. Reed Richardson, assistant professor of animal science at Tech and director of feed mill programs. The feed mill is one of only a handful of operational feed mills used for educational Ranne said he has had some experiences in all the operations of the feed mill since he began, including management, processing and economic aspects. "Because of my chance to work at the feed mill in combination with the more one who has worked in a commercial feed mill or feedlot for a comparable length of time," Ranne commented. His degree plan is a non-thesis pro-

formal education, I believe I will have as much experience and expertise as somegram involving 36 college hours. The majority of the hours, 18, will be in animal science, with the remainder drawn from at least four other agricultural departments in the college.

His minor is in economics and he will also have classes in range and wildlife management. entomology and agricultural mechanics.

Although his program is non-thesis, Ranne has been involved in a research project comparing efficiency of pelleting feed containing liquid phosphate, or artificially prepared phosphate, verses feed containing dicalcium phosphate, or phosphate in the natural granular state. He feels results will show that he artificial phosphate will be more energy efficient in the pelleting process than the natural phosphate.

Ranne plans to enter the commercial feed processing field immediately after his scheduled graduation this May.

Weeds Increase After Dry Period

By ROBERT L. HANEY
Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Drought, a common occurrence on Texas ranges, causes many insidious problems including poor plant growth, overgrazing, and changes in vegetation.

One of the major problems that ranchers must cope with is the increase in brush and weeds following drought, especially where ranges and pastures were overgrazed.

Recent drought conditions and the influence of high energy costs and weed control practices appear to be causing increases in weeds on Texas ranges. In creases in several species of weeds have years, according to Dr. Joseph Schuster, professor of range science with The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and head of the Range Science Department at Texas A&M University.

Common broomweed appears to have spread statewide. This unpalatable species is toxic and causes eye problems in cattle. Since it's an annual, its density in any particular year appears to be related to climatic conditions, but severe infestations have occurred in the Rolling Plains, High Plains, Edwards Plateau, Blackland Prairies, and Coastal Prairies.

The perennial weeds common on the High and Rolling Plains include Western been noted by range scientists in recent ragweed, threadleaf groundsel, Riddell's groundsel, perennial broomweed, and woolly locoweed.

Most of these weeds are always present, but their density increases under favorable climatic conditions. And most of them increase after drought and disturbances caused by brush control treatments. But only perennial broomweed, a species known to cause abortions, appears to be spreading.

Ranchers are generally not aware of the detrimental effects of weeds on forage production. For example, common broomweed has been shown to reduce forage as much as one-half pound for every pound of broomweed in the Rolling Plains. Forage production can often be doubled by controlling weeds.

When perennial weeds become established, they are a potential source of seed for stand increases. Their influences must be recognized and steps taken to reduce them.

The herbicides 2,4-D, 2,4,5,-T, are commonly used but not uniformly or universally effective. Schuster says. Other herbicides such as dicamba and picloram are also used. New chemicals which show promise but are not yet cleared for range use are Glyphosate and tebuthiuron.

"Weed control programs on rangeland and pastures should consider all alternative methods such as herbicides, mowing, plowing, or fire in a pest management system which maximizes the good points of each technique and minimizes environmental problems," Schuster con-

CHICAGO (AP) - Corn prices were mostly lower while soybeans and wheat edged mostly higher Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Government reports predicting increased use of soybeans, combined with continued expectations of good future export demand for U.S. beans, led to buying in the soybean complex.

Harvest-time selling pushed most corn prices lower, with only the December 1979 contract showing a price increase. Analysts said seasonal selling by country elevators, called hedge selling to avoid losses on recently purchased new-crop corn in the event that prices decline, was a factor in corn trade.

Wheat prices were mostly higher on reports of good export demand. Reports of a large wheat purchase overnight by Brazil, combined with exporters buying late in the session, pushed prices higher for all contracts but the December 1979 de-

Calf Sets Record For Heart Survival

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - A Holstein calf named Curly Joe has broken a world record at the University of Utah by surviving 185 days with an artificial heart, the school's Division of Artifical Organs said Friday. School officials said the 273-pound calf is healthy and exercises regularly on a treadmill. The earlier record - 184 days - was set by another calf, Abebe, in May 1977. Curly Joe received his artificial heart April 11. But unlike Abebe, who died May 12, 1977, he has received no anticoagulants to prevent blood clotting problems, said Dr. John Lawson, one of several who directed post-opera-

A DELEGATION OF TOP PEOPLE'S Republic of China officials is visiting the United States as the result of special market development efforts begun last year by Cotton Council International on behalf of U. S. cotton.

The visitors will be in Dallas and Lubbock Wednesday and Thursday.

The group includes Yao Chin-Ching, manager of the import department; Sun Teh-Chaun, manager of the cotton import department; and Chung Lun-Mao of the cotton and synthetic fibers department.

All are from Peking and are representing China National Textiles Import and Export Corp. (Chinatex), the government purchasing agency for all cotton imported by the PRC.

Sponsors of the trip include Cotton Council International, overseas arm of the National Cotton Council, American Cotton Shippers Association, AMCOT, and the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service.

FOLLOWING SEVERAL DAYS IN WASHINGTON, the group begins a special orientation tour of the Cotton Belt Sunday in Memphis. They will meet with industry representatives across the belt.

Other stops on the tour, in addition to Lubbock and Dallas, include Phoenix, Ariz., on Friday; Los Angeles, Bakersfield, Corcoran and Fresno, Calif., on Oct. 22, 23, 24, and 25, respectively.

A similar orientation tour was conducted last year for the PRC officials in the Liaison Office in Washington. Last spring a special trade mission of U. S. cotton exporters, arranged by CCI, went to Peking and Shanghai where an invitation was extended to Chinatex officials to visit the United States.

Outstanding sales and accumulated exports of U. S. cotton to the PRC mounted to 510,000 bales for the marketing year ended July 31. This makes PRC the fifth largest U. S. cotton export customer. Volume potential for sales in the current marketing year is considered excellent.

THE HOUSE HAS APPROVED, 289-66, a bill that would tie beef and veal imports to U.S. production.

Under the bill, approved Thursday, imports would decrease as U. S. production increases and increase as domestic production goes down. The bill determines annual quota levels.

The Ways and Means Committee has said the formula would restrict imports to about 7 percent of domestic production.

The bill also would use a 1968-77 base for computing levels of imports and domestic production instead of a 1959-63 base period. It would establish a floor of 1.2 billion pounds a year for beef imports.

PRESIDENT CARTER HAD THREATENED to veto a bill which signifi-cantly reduced his presidential discretion. The House bill sets a 10 percent limit on raising or cutting imports based on relative farm price and retail meat price movements. Before approving the bill, the House adopted an amendment which would allow the President to set aside the import limitations if he determines there is an overriding need to do so because of a disaster.

The measure would go into effect on Jan. 1. A provision limiting it to 10 years was deleted by the House.

A staff aide to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who sponsored a sim ilar bill which the Senate passed last May, said Bentsen can accept the House bill because there are only relatively minor differences in the two measures.

Baptists To Initiate Mission Through Staked Plains Group

he five-year long range planning of the Staked Plains Baptist Association, a joint hurch-college-association effort has inched a new Southern Baptist Mexian mission that could lead to another Mexican-American church in Plainview. The association's number one priority reaching the Mexican-American popuation locally in Plainview.

Additionally, the starting of a new Bapist mission in the South Plains city is diectly related to the Southern Baptist Convention's Bold Mission Thrust, an wangelistic effort to reach every person the world with the Gospel message. Parget date for the effort is 2000, less han 22 years away.

The new Baptist fellowship is meeting in the Caprock-Plains Baptist Area Center for Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. Sundays, with a morning worship at 11 a.m. and an evening worship at 7 p.m. The center formerly housed Plainview's Secand Baptist Church which has disbanded.

The new Southern Baptist Mexican mission is sponsored by Plainview's First Baptist Church, which will lend financial stability to the mission and give direction

An assistant professor of modern languages at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, whose administrative leadership has given its endorsement of the new effort, Golden is serving as the mission's director.

The title of pastor is not being used for the new mission. Golden, a member of Plainview's First Baptist Church, also works with the Staked Plains Baptist Association as a volunteer and holds an official title of "catalyst missionary." A former foreign missionary to Honduras, Golden speaks fluent Spanish.

An organizational meeting was held recently with eight persons present. Each individual member agreed to serve as a Sunday School teacher in the mission, added Golden, and "some of them will be preaching occasionally."

The mission does not have a name at present. However, Golden said the group is referring to it as Baptist Temple.

Although Golden is not using the title pastor, the mission has a co-pastor, the Rev. Ruben Carrasco. He is a Wayland ministerial student.

Golden said he will be doing much of the preaching initially. The services are ly the mission will call its own pastor, Golden said, adding, "that is the pur-

When the mission reaches the point it can call its own pastor, Golden said he will leave the mission. He added, "I will move on to some other place and help someone else start a mission

Presently Plainview has a First Mexican Baptist Church, whose pastor is the Rev. Glen Godsey. However, Golden said that Godsey, along with the Staked Plains' mission committee members, and many people "feel that greater effort should be made to reach the Mexican-American people and the pastor of First Mexican Baptist Church has said 'he is all for this."

Golden added that the mission idea had been developing for several months and is the outgrowth of a special long range planning program undertaken by area pastors and laymen nearly two years ago.

"This specific work has been developing since August. It came to me from Dr. Strauss Atkinson," said Golden. Atkinson is director of missions for the Staked Plains Association and coordinates the work of three other associations in the Texas Panhandle.

'According to a survey that has been made, there are between 6,000 and 7,000 Mexican-Americans living in Plainview now. Within a few years there will probably be as many Mexican-Americans as there are white people. We think they are missing an evangelical witness. That's the purpose of this Bold Missions effort of our Baptist denomination," Golden

A report developed through the Staked Plains Association's Steering Committee, entitled "A Comparative Analysis Between Southern Baptist and Other Texas Residents on Social, Economic, Demographic, and Religious Attitudes in the Staked Plains Baptist Association," maintains that the racial composition of the area is 92.2 percent white and 7.8 percent Spanish surname and blacks. The survey was compiled by Dr. William A. Stacey and associate Sam Stigall of the Center for Social Research, the University of Texas at Arlington.

day at Arnett-Benson Baptist Church. Dr. Hernandez has been in the international evangelism field more than five years and has traveled throughout the world, speaking at revival meetings, conventions, conferences and other meetings where people gather.

The evangelist plans a peace mission trip in early 1979 to countries in Central America, where he has been requested to spend two or three days in each capital city. While in Central American countries, he will not only preach at services, but also appear on radio and television to communicate with the public.

Based in Grand Prairie, Dr. Hernandez plans to videotape sermons this winter for the Radio and Television Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Jubilee Celebration For Sister Today

The evangelist served 15 years as the first director of evangelism for the Spanish-speaking people with the Baptist General Convention of Texas. He preached his first sermon when he was 13 years old, and led his first revival crusade when he was 15 years old. He also has served as a pastor during approximately 19 years in his ministry.

The evangelist, who served four years as pastor of the First Mexican Baptist Church in Corpus Christi, has worked closely with the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in his ministry. He has preached in countries of the Orient, the Phillipines, India, numerous countries in Africa, Spain, and has traveled in his ministry to Israel, Italy

Dr. Hernandez has preached to crowds of various sizes throughout his ministry, ranging from 41,000 at the Astrodome in Houston to 41 people in smaller churches. He has preached in numerous countries throughout Latin America and has ministered to numerous government officials in those countries.

He was a trustee of Howard Payne University in Brownwood for nine years.

He preaches before more than 100,000 people and travels more than 100,000 miles each year.

Dr. Hernandez said on his trip to Central America, he and his team of five people will try to reach the public and the powers-that-be with a message of hope and peace. He added that he hoped this message might bring a climate of peace and understanding to Central American countries that are currently in stages of political strife.

ist Sisters arrived, leaving New Mexico for the South Plains. There was still no resident priest in Lubbock and little church ministry for the few scattered Catholics in a population dominated by white Anglo-Saxon Protestants. A backyard pump, coal heater and kerosene cookstove in a little frame house featured the first year for the new Sisters as they worked to help the poor Mexican families and Catholic minority people in Lubbock. Besides the "doctrina" classes for adults and children, there were home visits, mostly for health services; sewing and homemaking classes for mothers; Scouts and Brownies: choir and altar-boy training; and general parish work for the

The Victory Noll Sisters also served many communities far beyond Lubbock, traveling sometimes 500 hundred miles each week to hold religion classes in places like Morton, Pep, Slaton, Tahoka, Plainview, Littlefield, Levelland, Brownfield and others. There were usually four Sisters at a time in the little convent and over the years more than 100 Victory Noll Sisters have called Lubbock "home.

As years passed, the work of the Sisters changed to an emphasis on the organizing and training of the lay people to teach religion classes and on social action in behalf of the poor. Sister Frances Meyer is director of religious education in St. Joseph's parish, coordinating the program in which about 50 men, women and youth are active as teachers or helpers. Sister Miriam Doyle, Associate Diocesan Director of Religious Education, maintains a resource library and office and serves as consultant for parishes in the southern half of the Diocese of Amarillo.

Sister Regina Foppe began to emphasize social action some years ago, when she saw the futility of trying to catechise hungry children suffering from various forms of deprivation. She has worked in the Head Start program, food stamp awareness, housing, tornado recovery and advancement in the fields of education and civic participation, especially among Mexican-Americans. Her present office is Diocesan Director of Social Action. Sister Barbara Marie Witt, homemaker, is the fourth member of the convent household at this time, and she recently won Best of Show for cookies in the South Plains Fair.

Sister Agnes Kozla, who was superior of the Lubbock convent from 1932 to 1937, is expected to be among the visitors for the event. Now semi-retired at the motherhouse of Victory Noll Sisters in Huntington, Ind., she has developed several liturgical dance expressions and is sharing them at Saturday's liturgy.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY - The 53rd anniversary of Mount Vernon United Methodist Church, 2304 Cedar Ave., is being observed Sunday during a special service at 3 p.m. Guest speaker for the anniversary observance is Dr. John T. King, president of Huston-Tillotson College in Austin.

Green Lawn Church Of Christ Starts Pre-School For Disabled

Green Lawn Church of Christ, 5701 W. 19th St., is beginning a pre-school class for handicapped children Sunday.

Bible class for the children begins at 9:45 a.m. in a special room near the au-ditorium. The class will continue during the second morning worship service, which begins at 10:45 a.m.

The class is designed for children who have a physical handicap, a speech handicap, deaf children and mentally retarded children. There will be four people work-ing with the Bible class session and several working with them during the second worship service hour.

During the Bible class hour and the second morning worship hour, the children will learn not only religious but also secular ideas. There is a planned curriculum for the children in the Bible class hour and the second morning worship hour will be geared toward chapel training, such as learning to pray.

Several women members of the church saw a need in the city for a pre-school class for handicapped children. As far as the women members can determine, the new Green Lawn Church of Christ class is the only one of its kind in Lubbock. There are some other classes for the physically handicapped and mentally re-tarded in several other city churches, but they are for older youths and adults.

The Better To See You

When Grandma wants to get a good look at you, she takes off her glasses. She needs them for reading and for needlepoint, but not for distance. Her sister, however, wears glasses for distance, but takes them off when she reads or sews.

Our physical vision spells out the way we see, yet it is our mental vision that determines the way we look at things. We form opinions, we judge, according to our background, education, experience, the way we were taught when we were young. Like our eyesight, the way we think becomes a part of

Sometimes we are wrong. Sometimes we judge too quickly. In our humanness we need help, guidance, particularly when the going gets rough

The Church, remember, is there for all times-good and bad. Have you visited it recently?

PROVO, Utah (NEA) — The husky, bearded adventurer and his pretty, young wife had heard all the questions be-

Where did you come from? When did you start? Why are you doing it?

They methodically repeated the answers to those and other questions. Then they got down to their business: asking questions of their own.

'So what brings you to Utah? Are you a Mormon? What did you do before you came here? What do you think of Provo? How do you like being a reporter?"

You see, Peter and Barbara Jenkins aren't your typical cross-country hikers, out to put in their miles, see the sights, meet a few people and pocket a paycheck for ending up on the Johnny Carson Show.

They are out to discover what America is all about, what it really stands for and where it is going.

'We want to break down the stereotypes that Americans have about America," says Jenkins, a 27-year-old "Connecticut Yankee" who started his cross-country trek from Alfred, N.Y., as a single, somewhat confused college graduate in 1973.

'We want to write about good things, about good people in America," he explains. "When we find people that interest us, we stop and live with them for awhile. That's when you really get to know somebody."

Jenkins felt the nation was falling apart at the seams in the late '60s and early '70s with student protests, peace marches, Kent State, racial violence, conservation battles, Watergate. "I was confused," he recalls. "I felt isolated from whatever truth lay behind the headlines. I had to find the certainty I

"And so I decided on this walk of mine. It amounted, in my mind, to giving the nation another chance.'

He is glad he did. 'What's really surprising is the great freedom and diversity," he says. "You can be anything you want to be in this nation. And there isn't any place else in the world where you could have the diversity of religion that we have.' Jenkins started the walk with his dog, Cooper, intending to make a "V" across the United States, from New York to New Orleans, west through Texas, New Mexico, Arizona,

Colorado and now, Utah. His jobs along the way have included five months on an oil rig in Texas and farm work on a commune in Tennessee. He also spent several months living with a black family in Ala-

He met and married his 30-year-old wife, Barbara, while in New Orleans.

"We plan on starting a family as soon as we get to the west coast," Mrs. Jenkins says. "Then we'll be ready to settle down." The couple plans on heading north through Salt

Sadly, Cooper is no longer with them. While Jenkins was working on a farm, a pick-up truck accidentally ran over his companion of many miles.

Before leaving Provo, the couple spent several days in a motel room, proof-reading the final draft of Jenkins' book, "A Walk Across America," which will be published later this

He says he has contracts to do another book and has been offered a job with National Geographic.

Desperate Battle With Government Leaves Nicaraguan City Flattened

ESTELI, Nicaragua (UPI) - Esteli today is a city of young children and old during a three-hour walk around the city people, with its teenage sons nearly all ne - either dead or in hiding with Sandinista guerrillas.

"If the National Guard catches any teenagers with long hair or beard, they say, 'You're a Sandinista' and you're dead," one woman told reporters as she flicked nervous glances up and down the street, apparently looking out for guards-

"Please don't use my name or they'll kill me, too," said the woman, a widow. "I am too alone and there are no guarantees. The first chance I get I am going to

The woman was one of the about 24,500 residents of Esteli, 80 miles north of Managua on the Pan American Highway, who lived through 14 days of terrifying guard attacks that razed most of the lowntown area.

Some 500 persons died as guard airplanes pounded Esteli for six hours a day with rockets and heavy machine gun fire to drive out a half-dozen Sandinistas and hundreds of teenagers who captured 75 percent of the city Sept. 9 as part of a nationwide uprising to overthrow President Anastasio Somoza.

This reporter, who spent two days with the rebels before the guard launched the major part of its counterattack, was shocked by the scene of near total destruction when he returned to the city after the battle ended.

"Have you ever gone through a winter without any electricity," asked Mrs. Azevedo. "With no power for heat? Getting up every two hours during the night to start the generator? Crawling under the trailer because the water

There's one bright spot in the bill. The original cost esti-mate to Azevedo was $33,000.

For the Raiders, Hadnot carried the ball 59 times in the first three games, but last week at College Station, he carried only nine times. Those nine trips were worth 62 steps - his longest carry measuring 30 yards. And this performance left coach Rex Dockery thinking the junior from Jasper should get more action.

Not only did Dockery say this week that he wanted Hadnot to get the call more often, but he commented quite emphatically that the Raiders need to establish their running game.

The intention for quarterback Ron Reeves to hand off to Hadnot more often is just one of the ways of jazzing up the running game which generated but 170 yards against Another move was to insert freshman Mark Olbert at the tailback spot. Olbert earned his spot by his play against the Aggies after Tech had started two others in the up 4.1 yards every carry. The senior Lobo has gained 428 yards this season, getting the ball 103 times. And even though that comes to about 20 carries a game, coach Bill Mondt feels that's not

"We haven't been giving him the ball quite as much this year," explained Mondt. "It's probably because of the formation we're running. We're running the veer now (as against the veer and pro set of a year ago), and people are overshifting to the

Williams, with more than 3200 career yards at UNM, is within range of the all-time Western Athletic Conference rushing record.

But, with Williams not getting the ball as often, Jimmy Sayers, the starting tailback, has rushed for 254 yards, and quarterback Brad Wright has picked up 226 steps. This leaves Mike Carter, a 9.4 sprinter playing behind Sayers, with 21 carries for 123 yards. New Mexico has been gaining 232 yards on the ground every game, and allowing but 156. But, through the air, the Lobos have picked up only about 137, allowing 155.

Tech, riding the arm of the freshman Reeves, has picked up an average of 140 yards, the rushing total just 10 yards per game less. However, the Raiders' chief offensive weapon has been kicker Bill Adams, who has toed eight of eight field goals, including three against the Aggies last week. "We need to be able to score when we get down deep," commented Dockery. "That's why we're trying to find the right combination of runningbacks."

Aiding the Raiders has been freshman punter Maury Buford, who is second in the nation in punting with an average of 46.1 yards per boot. He had one punt of 75 yards against the Aggies last week.

Yankees Not Dead, Triumph 5-

Graig Nettles dazzled the Los Angeles Dodgers with four brilliant defensive plays, and Thurman Munson and Reggie Jackson broke open a tight game in the seventh inning, leading the New York Yankees to a 5-1 victory in Friday night's third game of the 1978 World Series.

Ron Guidry, ace left-hander of the Yankees staff, battled Los Angeles on a night when he didn't have his best pitches, but he hurled New York to its first victory in the best-of-seven series. The gloved shots that seemed sure doubles Dodgers won the first two games at Ed Figueroa will pitch for New York

Nettles brought back memories of the glove work of Baltimore's Brooks Robinson in the 1970 World Series against Cincinnati with some miraculous stops that short-circuited three Dodgers threats.

Nettles cost the Dodgers more than one run in the fifth and sixth innings.

With the Yankees still nursing a 2-1 lead built on a first-inning home run by Roy White and Bucky Dent's RBI grounder in the second, the Dodgers made their first concentrated run at Guidry in Yeager walked with one out, the fifth base on balls Guidry allowed. Lopes followed with a single to left, moving the runner to second. Guidry got Russell on a Nettles' neighborhood.

The third baseman knocked the ball down behind the base, holding Smith to a single on what seemed at least a two-base

Now, though, Los Angeles had the bases loaded with cleanup man Steve Garvey at bat. Again the ball was hit to third and again Nettles made a brilliant stop and turned the hard shot into an inning-ending forceout.

SOUTHLAND (Special) — Eddie Davila was his school's homecoming king here Friday night. But the Southland Eagles coach thought he was a sweetheart after his running back broke a school record, scoring seven touchdowns in a 74-24 slaughter of the hapless Ira Bulldogs. It wasn't until after Ira runningback

Davila also gave Southland touchdowns on a 50-yard run in the second period and

Stanton Upends Shallowater

SHALLOWATER (Special) - Wingback Richard Perez scored from 1-yard out in the third quarter to put the Stanton Buffaloes over the top of the Shallowater Mustangs 22-15 in a hard-fought District 5-A football game at here Friday night.

Perez' TD erased a 15-14 Shallowater lead, and the Mustangs were unable to move back into control in the final stanza, falling to 0-2 in district play, 3-2 for the season. Stanton's win moved their season record to 3-2, their district ledger to 2-0.

The win was the Mustangs' first of the year after five setbacks. Monahams—which had hoped to celebrate its homecoming with a win—fell to 2-3-1.

Ponies Meet Bears | Spartans Face Rival Michigan In Key SWC Tilt

Southern Methodist quarterback Mike Ford has vivid memories of the Baylor Bears. They've been bad news to collegiate football's premier passer. "Last year I had a bad day against Baylor," said Ford, who completed only 5 of 18 passes for 21 yards. Baylor won 9-6.

The winless Bears challenge the Mustang aerial circus again Saturday at 2 p.m. in Waco in a key Southwest Conference game.

"The whole offense had a bad day last year," said Ford. "We never got into the end zone so we have something to prove. In the last two years, we've lost to Baylor in close games. I'd like to make it where we don't have to let one or two plays decide the whole game. Baylor has about as much talent as Texas A&M or Arkansas, and Baylor Coach Grant Teaff says this is the best defensive team

"SMU will come in here higher than a kite," said Teaff. "They are undefeated in conference play and there is no question that they outplayed Ohio State and should have won the game which was tied 35-35. This by far is the best SMU team that I've seen. I watched them play TCU the first week and was impressed and they have done nothing but get better since then.

"Mike Ford is a lot better football player than he was a year ago. SMU will te their yardage. I can assure you of that. The key will be for our defense to them out of the end zone and that looks pretty tough right now." For Teaff there is little consolation in knowing that Baylor's four losses are

"I don't have any idea what the future holds for this team," said Teaff. "We

The college football season has reached haps because he doesn't care to look back the time of the year when most teams are engaged in conference races. Top-rated Oklahoma visits Kansas in a Big Eight clash while runner-up Southern Cal is at Arizona State for a Pacific-10 night game.

Arkansas and Penn State, tied for third place in this week's Associated Press ratngs, are idle. Elsewhere, No. 6 Texas A &M visits No. 17 Houston for a Southwest Conference night game, No. 7 Alabama entertains Southeastern Conference rival Florida, No. 8 Nebraska hosts Big Eight foe Kansas State, No. 9 Pitt visits Notre Dame in a matchup of two of the nation's leading independents and No. 10 Mary-land of the Atlantic Coast Conference is at independent Syracuse.

In the Second Ten, Georgia is at No. 11 Louisiana State under the lights, North Texas State at No. 12 Texas at night, No. 13 Colorado at Oklahoma State, Washington State at No. 14 UCLA after dark, No. 15 Florida State at Mississippi State, No. 16 Ohio State at Purdue, Washington at No. 18 Stanford and No. 20 Iowa State at No. 19 Missouri.

Oklahoma may have to go against Kansas without quarterback Thomas Lott (sprained ankle), fullback Kenny King (hip pointer) and split end Steve Rhodes (shoulder), all of whom were hurt against

Although the conference has a new name and fewer teams, coaches still feel they will have easy pickings against Lubbock Christian College in the upcoming basketball season.

DENVER CITY (Special) — Tailback Jerry Hill galloped 175 yards in 35 carries to lead his Denver City Mustangs to their first win of the season, a 27-7 victory over the Seminole Indians in a District 5-AA

Neither team earned points until the third quarter when Mustang quarterback Perry Hunt threw a 6-yard TD pass to end Mark Ivy. Hunt kicked the extra point. The score was set up by defensive tackle Kenneth Harvey who caused a Seminole fumble.

The Mustangs went over the goal line again in the fourth quarter on a 1-yard keeper by Hunt, but the PAT failed. It was the Indians' turn next when quarter back Mike Grass threw an 8-yard touchdown pass to tight end Kirk Jackson. Pete McClesky kicked the extra point.

Starting from its own 36, Pampa used a 24-yard dash by Rudy Roland, and a couple of passes from Dougherty to ends Brent Rogers and sophomore Jeff McDougal to move down to the 6. From there, Roland, the game's leading carrier with 120 yards on 11 tries, took a pitch Dougherty scored on the 2-point conversion, sending the game into the locker room with Pampa on top 8-7.

"There wasn't any need to sit on the ball there," said Odom, explaining why time left and run out the clock. "We had been getting open on them and we just felt we could get some more points."

Spur Stung By Hornets

SPUR (Special) - The Spur Bulldogs got the bite, and that's no bull. And the Bulldogs took the sting Friday as they saw their record drop to 0-6 after suffering a 33-15 defeat at the hands of the visiting Lorenzo Hornets. Lorenzo is now 2-3-1 on the season.

Spur managed 274 yards rushing on the evening, but lost five of seven fumbles and we know what turnovers can do, right? Lorenzo managed 260 yards rushing and 134 more through the air - but it could have been worse, as sloppy play saw the Hornets penalized 12 times for a whopping 140 yards.

Touchdowns by Harold Johnson and Fred Reed served as bookends for the Bulldogs, the first and last scores of the game, and the only scores for the home team. In between, Lorenzo scored 33 points on three touchdowns by Greg Cunningham, and one apiece by Darrell Lawson and Dale Miller.

Cunningham was Lorenzo's big gun Reed led all ground gainers with 16 car-

Coronado responded immediately by driving 72 yards in nine plays, with Davis completing passes of 19 yards to Russell Murrell and 30 yards to McCormick. Davis then connected with McCormick on a 30-yard scoring play.

Carlsbad stopped the Mustangs' extra point attempt and retained a 7-6 lead with 8:04 remaining.

The Cavemen then mounted a drive from their own 31-yard line, which carried to the Coronado 15. But, Inman's would-be touchdown pass to Danny Quinonez was nullified by a motion penalty. Carlsbad settled for a 32-yard field goal attempt, and Inman kicked it through with 1:56 showing on the clock, expanding the Cavemen's lead to 10-6.

SLATON (Special) - Slaton "Posted" its third win of the season here Friday by downing the visiting Antelopes 21-14 in a game which saw all the scoring take place in the first half.

The Tiger effort offset a fine performance by Post's Cliff Kirkpatrick, who romped for both Antelope touchdowns and garnered 138 vards rushing for the ROPES (Special) - The hometown Eagles racked up 387 ground yards and scored 25 points to the Forsan Buffaloes' 0, to get their first win of the season in a District 5-A contest.

Eagle quarterback Randy Lowrie scored first in the opening period on a 2-yard keeper. The extra point was kicked by fullback Junior Ybarbo. With 4:31 left in the first period, Ybarbo was the one to hit for a touchdown from the Buffaloes' 4-yard line. The PAT failed.

The game went through the second and third quarters without a score. Then Eagle halfback Kenneth Chambers scampered over from 2 yards out.

Grady Sets Mark

GRADY (Special) - After running up a 50-6 lead at halftime, the Grady Wildcats came back and scored 12 more to set a school record for most points scored in one game. The Whitaharral Panthers were the football players on the short end of the stick, losing 62-33. It was the Panther's first defeat after five wins. Grady is now 4-1. The game's big gun was Grady running back Ronald Chee, rushing 21 times for 318 yards and six touchdowns. The game marked the first time Grady had ever beaten Whitharral - and the fact the Panthers had been picked to win district made the victory doubly sweet.

But then Davis put his passing arm to work and the Mustangs moved quickly down field for the winning score. And Carlsbad dropped to 1-5 for the

The Wildcats wasted no time getting on the scoreboard. They marched 80 yards in 15 plays on their first possession eating 5:15 off the clock. Tailback Buckles Bryant provided the capper, taking in a pitchout from 17 yards. But still, Hobbs was pretty much the hero here, too. He carried nine times gaining 35 yards and converting four first downs on the drive. After seeming stymied for most of the first quarter the Muleshoe offense found itself with six minutes left at the half.

After the Mules recovered a Joe Espinoza fumble on the Idalou 46, they drove the distance on only six plays. The biggie was a 26-yard dash by tailback Jeep

Shanks for the touchdown.

The durable runningback took a pitch from quarterback Mike Northcutt and then motored around the corner, just outside the grasp of a tripped defensive player. Once outside, he shifted into high gear and followed the white line of the sideline to the end zone.

Shanks carried 7 times for 70 yards in the first half.

the third quarter, runningback Alfred McGilbra threw a 40-yard TD pass to Nutt for the go-ahead Kermit TD, with the PAT added by Nutt.

Kermit runningback Todd Ethridge blocked an Andrews punt on the An-drews 33-yard line and Deon Bryant carried it into the end zone to cinch the vic-tory. Nutt added the final PAT for the 23-year he led the league in hits.

In 1968, after winning the first of his three league batting titles, Rose staged a spring holdout, seeking a healthy increase in his $54,000-a-year salary.

He vowed to become baseball's first singles hitter to command $100,000 a year—an outrageous thought to some, considering few players at the time had reached that pay level, but not to Rose.

Rose said the offer he rejected was more than Frank Robinson's club-record salary of $68,000. "I'd be the top-salaried player in this club's history. But it's not enough," he said. enough," he said.

Rose played his first big league season for $7,000 and made $12,500 in 1965, the year he led the league in hits.

A year later, after his second straight batting title, he got what he wanted, but not without a fight. He staged a two-week spring holdout before winning a $2,500

He settled for no raise after the Reds' disastrous fourth-place finish in 1971, al-though he hit .304 and had 192 hits.

In 1973, saying he was worried that the fans "will think I'm a money-hungry punk," Rose asked for a $5,000-a-year pay boost after his sixth straight season with a batting average better than .300.

"I've given in to the club in the past and I'm tired of it. Every year it's got to be me who they get tough with," he said. During the 1976 league playoffs, he denied a report that he might jump to the Philadelphia Phillies if the Reds didn't

Five months later at spring training, he issued an ultimatum — either the Reds would meet his $400,000-ayear demand by opening day or he would be a free agent. full-page advertisement in a Cincinnati newspaper and outlined Rose's demands point by point. "We must seriously ques-tion whether Pete really wants to remain in Cincinnati as he keeps saying." the ad said.

Less than 24 hours before the season opened, Rose signed for a package reportedly calling for $425,000 in 1977 and $375,000 for 1978.

Prior to his rejection of the Reds' latest offer, Rose said on national television earlier this week that he would like to play for Philadelphia "if I couldn't get together with the Reds."

NEW YORK (AP) — This is traditionally the National Football League's "lost weekend," when the nation. tuned in to baseball's World Series, focuses on the diamond instead of the gridiron.

Cowboys Meet Cards In Sunday Rematch

It is, on paper, one of those games in which the outcome is supposed in the control of the contr which the outcome is supposedly all but decided. But when the Dallas Cowboys and St. Louis Cardinals get together, funny things can happen.

For the Cards, of course, there's no-thing funny about this National Football thing funny about this National Football League season, one in which they have played six games and lost six games. The Cowboys, for that matter, may be feeling a bit grim. A 4-2 record is far from dismal, even for a defending Super Bowl champion, but it's still two losses more than the Washington Redskins have. The 'Skins are leading the National Conference East.

The Cowboys, who defeated St. Louis by a less-than-impressive 21-12 last Sept. 24 in Dallas, venture into Busch Stadium as a two-touchdown favorite. But Bud Wilkinson, the Cards' beleaguered coach, observed: "We played head to head with

Even though the season is less than half over, some fans are wondering if the Cards are going to be the Buccaneers of '78. Tampa Bay established an NFL re-cord in its inaugural season when it lost all 14 games. This year the schedule is 16

In case you're interested, the odds of losing all 16 have been computed at 65,-536-1.

A special attraction of Sunday's game will be the return of former St. Louis tight end Jackie Smith, now a member of the Cowbovs.

They switched coaches in midstream nearly two weeks ago when Bill Johnson resigned under pressure and Homer Rice took over the top spot. A HELPING HAND - Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor Warner is given a hand by her husband John W. Warner, Virginia Republican U.S. Senate candidate and former Secretary of the Navy, as she leaves the Lonesome Pine Community Hospital in Big Stone Gap Friday. Liz In Hospital For Treatment After Choking

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - Elizabeth Taylor arrived at a Richmond hospital Friday for treatment of a throat disorder after the latest in a series of mishaps while on the campaign trail for her husband, Republican senatorial nominee John Warner.

Leaning on Warner's arm, the 46-yearold actress walked into Richmond Memorial Hospital and was taken away in a wheelchair to the office of Dr. Owen Gwathmey, a specialist in thoracic and vascular ailments.

Hospital officials said she would be admitted for treatment.

Miss Taylor had been rushed to a hospital in Big Stone Gap, Va., Thursday night after she choked on a chicken bone. Reporters at the restaurant said she went to the kitchen to compliment the chef and accepted his offer to try his fried chicken.

Dr. H. T. Patel dislodged the two-inch chicken bone and pushed it down her esophagus into her stomach in what he described as a simple, non-surgical procedure. But while it was being performed, said he found a pear-shaped 'outpouching' of the esophagus, requiring further treatment by a specialist.

Dr. Patel said the ailment is known as Zenker's diverticulum and is a stretching of the esophagus that took place before Miss Taylor choked on the bone.

Joel Hart, administrator of the hospital in Big Stone Gap, said Miss Taylor's condition was not considered serious, but treatment by a throat specialist in Richmond appeared advisable

Warner, a former secretary of the Navy, spent the night with his wife in her hospital room. She was taken by ambulance to an airport about noon Friday for the flight back to Richmond. The choking incident was the third in recent weeks to delay Miss Taylor's com-paign trips on her husband's behalf

Her husband, director Jules Dassin, says that she spends most of her time these days on her political activities. He finds it hard to lure her away to do any acting. She says that her new career has liberated him.

"He can go where he wants and do what he wants," she says. "He doesn't have to wait to find a part for me."

So they both are happy. And their latest collaboration is a film they are both happy with and proud of. It is "A Dream of Passion," which Dassin produced, direct-ed and wrote, and which stars Melina Mercouri and Ellen Burstyn. It is a powerful film in the Greek tradition, full of

She says to every reporter that she won't talk politics, but that means simply she won't discuss issues. She will talk about her political career, however.

She says it is now a fulltime job with her. She represents the Athens seaport, Piraeus. In Greece, a parliamentary deputy need not live in the district he or she

"And Melina has to do just that." There is also the problems her constituents face that she must try to remedy.

Farrah's Debut Movie Receives Passing Grade

FILMETER is compiled by Dick Kleiner in Hollywood and the N.E.A. staff in both Hollywood and New York.

NEW RELEASES SOMEBODY KILLED HER HUS-BAND (PG) - Farrah Fawcett-Majors, Jeff Bridges. Romantic thriller. Farrah, in her first film since "Charlie's Angels," has the good sense to pick a solid script done with class by good people. She plays an unhappy wife who finds happiness with a department store toy salesman, and then her husband is done in. It builds nicely and has some surprises en route. GRADE: B.

WHO IS KILLING THE GREAT CHEFS OF EUROPE? (PG) - George Segal, Jacqueline Bisset. Comedy-mystery. Against a background of Europe and, especially, great European restaurants, there is a murderer at large. This works very hard - perhaps too hard - to be cute and amusing as it toddles along. The recipe badly needs a pinch of calmness, because it is too contrived. GRADE: B.

GENERAL RELEASE BLOODBROTHERS (R) - Paul Sorvino, Tony Lo Bianco, Richard Gere. Drama. Confused Bronx youth squares off against his Italian family-manhood code. Decent, sensitive story and fine performances are marred by a heavy touch and immature resolution. Should have had the once-over from a pair of shears. But well worth a look. Caution: strong language, some violence. GRADE: B (Han-

THE BOYS FROM BRAZIL (R) -Gregory Peck, Laurence Olivier. Thriller. From Ira Levin's gripping novel, this deals with some scientific dirty work the left-over Nazis are up to in South America - including murders all over the world. It works out to be a very nasty plot, but scary. The cast all use different accents, which is disconcerting, but it will keep you watching. Caution: It gets pretty bloody at the end. GRADE: B-

the relationship between a trio of itinerants and a prosperous but doomed Texas Panhandle wheat farmer, circa 1916. Lovely to look at, difficult to become involved with. Not at all the usual fare, which makes it worth a look for buffs, even if it isn't wholly successful. GRADE: B-plus. (Handler)

DEATH ON THE NILE (PG) - Peter Ustinov, David Niven, Bette Davis, Mia Farrow, etc. Mystery. Aatha Christie's dandy puzzler turned into a classy murder mystery. A much-hated heiress is done in aboard a Nile cruise ship and Hercule Poirot tries to find whodunit.

ane Keaton. Drama. Woody Allen wrote and directed this, but don't expect humor. It's very serious - and very good, if you can take the heaviness. It's the story of a family full of hidden (and not-so-hidden) problems and emotional traumas. Beautifully photographed and acted, but dark and somber. GRADE: A-minus.

A WEDDING (PG) - Carol Burnett, Geraldine Chaplin, Desi Arnaz Jr., Mia

Mice Satisfy Munchies With Police Dope

NOVATO, Calif. (AP) - The five mice in the Novato police station are no dopes, but what they eat is.

And their hosts are less than pleased with the mice's ravenous appetite for the confiscated marijuana stored in plastic bags in the department's property

So police clerk Doris Pauley — who doesn't like the thought of killing animals - plans to trap the annoying nib-

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana is about to spend $50,000 for a report on two other reports aimed at removing the confusion in running its $40 million data processing system.

But first, the consultant who will make the report and the director of the data processing authority must agree on a preliminary report showing how the fi-nal report will be conducted.

There are both majority reports and minority reports.

Thursday, consultant C.A. Thornton went before the data processing council and said he planned to use state employ-ees to do about a third of the work in reporting on the other reports.

The council members complained, but authorized the council chairman to work out that problem and report back to and young moneymaker, too.

At his or her age, your carrier is a long way from college and a Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree.

But that youngster already has come a good distance toward learning the fundamentals of business by the daily practice of them.

Your newspaper carrier operates a business of which you are the customer. The carrier delivers our newspaper to you and collects for it and pays us for the paper, does a bit of selling of new customers (his is a growing business), gets business and marketing counsel from our circulation staff, handles money and keeps financial records --- and makes a profit.

Earning and saving --- learning, too --- your carrier handles a route which could lead to college and an MBA. Certainly to the success that comes to all active doers. Saturday, October 14, is International Newspaper Carrier Day --- the day to greet your own young MBA.
