

Vance Talks Strategy

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance huddled with four other top Western diplomats Sunday to map strategy for talks this week with the new South African government on the future of South-West Africa.

Foreign Ministers David Owen of Britain, Hans Dietrich Genscher of West Germany and Donald Jamieson of Canada arrived earlier in the day from Windhoek, South-West Africa, where they sounded out local political and church leaders on the U.N. plan for a transition to independence and black-majority rule in the territory, also called Namibia.

Vance flew here Saturday. He, the three foreign ministers and France's Deputy Foreign Minister Olivier Stuenkel are scheduled to meet with this country's new prime minister, Pieter W. Botha, and other South African officials today.

They are the highest ranking Western delegation to confront the Pretoria government on its own soil in an effort to persuade the South Africans to abandon their go-it-alone plan for managing elections in South-West Africa, a plan that would probably perpetuate the anti-South African guerrilla war there.

The sparsely populated territory, the size of California, Washington and Oregon combined, is rich in uranium, diamonds and other minerals.

South Africa has governed the former German colony since 1920 under a League of Nations mandate, but the United Nations revoked the mandate in 1966 and since then has been trying to remove the white-dominated South African administration there.

The South-West Africa People's Organization, backed by black African and communist nations, has fought a hit-and-run insurgency for 12 years against South African troops.

Diplomatic sources aboard Owen's plane told reporters the major question on tap would be whether South Africa has decided to risk unilateral action in South-West Africa or whether it is prepared to continue negotiations with the West.

"We don't expect to turn South Africa around," said one source who asked not to be identified. "What we'd like to do is end up still talking after those two days."

"We are ready," said South African Foreign Minister R.F. Botha, no relation to the prime minister, before he met the visiting Westerners at the airport.

The five Western nations have been trying to get South Africa to adopt a U.N. plan for withdrawing their troops and allowing a U.N. force, including civilians, to oversee national elections in conjunction with a South African civil administration.

South Africa has set its own elections for Dec. 4. Critics contend the elections would only choose representatives who would pursue a South African line.

The formal talks here were arranged in response to an Oct. 23 deadline set by the U.N. Security Council to secure South Africa's agreement to the U.N. proposals. A decision by Pretoria to forge on with its own plan would fuel a new clamor for punitive sanctions against the white-minority South African government.

BENTSEN HONORED — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas receives the "Watchdog of the Treasury" award in Washington from Arthur Roth, chairman of National Associated Businessmen. Bentsen was honored for his votes in support of economy in government during the 95th Congress.

Businessmen Laud Bentsen, Voting Record

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas has received the "Watchdog of the Treasury" Award from National Associated Businessmen Inc. (NAB).

NAB representatives believed Bentsen was deserving of the gold bulldog symbolizing the "Watchdog" award by voting 67 percent of the time to reduce wasteful government spending during the 95th Congress.

In special ceremonies honoring Bentsen on Capitol Hill, NAB Chairman Arthur Roth said, "The people of the State of Texas are extremely fortunate to be represented in Washington by a legislator whose concern with the inflationary impact of excessive government spending is so clearly reflected in his voting record."

NAB has been rating members of the House and Senate on their votes for fiscal responsibility since 1964, Roth said. The "Watchdog of the Treasury" award is presented each Congressional session to those members who vote at least two-thirds of the time for economy in government.

"We are a nonpartisan organization," Roth said. "We believe the importance of balancing the federal budget and stopping inflation in the United States transcends party affiliation and that eliminating unnecessary federal spending is a crucial step toward achieving these goals."

Well Driller Buys Ex-Governor's Auto

DENTON, Md. (AP) — An Eastern Shore well driller is the new owner of a long, black limousine that suspended Gov. Marvin Mandel added to the chief executive's motor pool.

William K. Wood, 34, of Denton, bought the car from a Towson dealer for $8,500, and says he uses it to haul his harness racing horses to tracks.

"My partners go with me and we alternate driving," he said. "It's just like sitting on your living room sofa."

Wood said he was less impressed by the car's history than by its low mileage, television-stereo console, powerful engine and yellow fog lights.

Oil Men Rescued After Boat Wreck

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Seven men were rescued in good condition from the Gulf of Mexico early Sunday more than 12 hours after a boat ferrying them to an offshore oil rig capsized as it tried to ride out a storm at anchor, the Coast Guard said.

They brought to 96 the number of persons rescued in four separate incidents within 24 hours after heavy winds churned up rough seas on the Gulf.

The motor vessel Brimstone picked up the seven men in a life raft at 4 a.m. Sunday after spotting a their flashing light and hearing their horn.

Coast Guard Chief Bill Odom said they were in good condition except for fatigue.

Their 115-foot crew boat, the William Compton, capsized Saturday 60 miles south of Cameron, La., after they anchored it to ride out 15 foot waves and winds up to 45 miles an hour, he said.

Odom said the boat left Cameron Friday afternoon to take the men to an offshore rig. But at 2 a.m. Saturday, when the boat was only an hour from the rig, the head of the rig told the ship to return to port because of rough weather, he said.

House Kills Sugar Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House killed Sunday a compromise bill that would have added 1.5 cents to the retail price of a five-pound bag of sugar this winter.

The 194-177 vote against the bill, endorsed by the administration and passed earlier by the Senate, means that consumer prices for sugar could drop sharply next July when current support prices expire.

A 1977 law, that forced retail sugar prices up by about 3 cents a pound last winter requires a 1.2-cent-a-pound hike this winter. That means consumers will be paying $1.29 for a five-pound bag that cost $1.23 last summer.

But without a new law, a return to free trade could bring the national average price below $1.

The House defeated the compromise bill in the last hours of its session, shortly after the Senate rebuffed a move to defeat it there for giving producers too little.

Nearly every speaker in the House denounced the sugar measure as a bad bill for farmers. One called it "obviously a farce" after this year because wage rates for sugar plantation workers would have been forced up 7 percent a year while support prices rose 1 percent.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., tried unsuccessfully to have the measure sent back to a House-Senate conference committee.

"We have a bill that's been dictated by the White House...I don't know anyone who likes it," Dole told the Senate.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the conference committee, said Carter had threatened to veto earlier House and Senate versions because he could not accept what either would have done to consumer food prices.

Those who favored the last-minute compromise anyway were mainly from sugar cane areas. They said it would give growers a little aid in meeting rising production costs until Congress could enact a better program.

The Senate approved the compromise on a voice vote after rejecting Dole's bid to send it back to committee by 36 to 20.

In addition to the boost in raw sugar prices, growers would have received subsidies of three-fourths of a cent per pound through next September — subsidies both houses opposed but sought by the administration.

A Senate passed bill would have added 6.5 cents to the price of a five-pound bag immediately and at least 45 cents more over the next four years. The House passed a bill that would have added 1.5 cents to the price of a five-pound bag this winter and 20.5 cents more by 1983.

The compromise bill would have set a raw sugar price in the United States of 15 cents a pound, from the present 13.5 cents and the 14.7 cents mandated for the 1978 crop.

The price would have risen to 15.8 cents for 1979 and 16.28 by the time the law expired.

VW STRIKE ENDS

Paint oven clean-up workers and maintenance personnel were called after union members voted Saturday to resume work a week after they struck for better pay.

HAYS AND OPPONENT — George Contos, left, a Republican opposing Democrat Wayne L. Hays, right, in a general election for an Ohio Legislative seat, says voters in the 99th Legislative District need to be reminded of Hays' Washington affair with Elizabeth Ray. Scandal Becomes Election Issue

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — "WATERGATE — KOREAGATE — WAYNE HAYS ..." begins a political ad in a race for a freshman seat in the Ohio Legislature in which one candidate was once one of the nation's most powerful congressmen.

As Wayne L. Hays tries to re-enter politics, his Republican opponent, George Contos, is reviving the scandal that forced Hays to resign from Congress two years ago.

"The nation is looking at this race," the 46-year-old Contos said, noting that Hays served in the U.S. House of Representatives nearly 30 years before he quit Congress amid charges he had kept his mistress on the congressional payroll.

Hays, 67, has been in two elections since the Elizabeth Ray affair broke and won both and is the favorite in this one.

The general election for a legislative seat representing the three-county, 99th legislative district, however, is the first in which paid campaign ads have mentioned the affair.

Miss Ray, a blond half Hays' age, was a clerk on his staff who said she performed no clerical duties but had a sexual liaison with Hays. She maintained she couldn't even type.

At the time, Hays admitted having an affair with Miss Ray, but maintained she was on the payroll for doing her government job.

Hays, while representing the 18th Congressional District, chaired the powerful House Administration Committee, which helps write election rules, and the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, which distributes funds to party candidates throughout the nation.

Contos, who publishes a trade journal "Coal Monthly & Energy News," had said earlier that he did not plan to mention the scandal in the race for the seat held by Rep. A. G. Lancione, a Democrat who is retiring.

"I've changed my strategy," Contos said as the Nov. 7 election neared. "I thought I would stick to issues. I don't think it's picking up much ground. I think the voters need to be reminded that Wayne Hays used their tax dollars to put a mistress on his payroll."

"Do we want Richard Nixon as our president again? Do we want agents from other countries buying influence from our congressmen? Do we want Wayne Hays, with his reputation for spending taxpayers hard-earned dollars for sexual favors roaming the halls of the Ohio General Assembly?" says Contos' ad aired by an area radio station.

Hays said he was not concerned about Contos using the affair against him. "It was used in the primary. Perhaps not as blatantly as he's using it," Hays said. "The only reaction I've had is that it's hurting him."

Contos said he has seen some backlash and that he is puzzled.

"I'm being criticized now because I'm bringing up the sex scandal. These same people don't think it's bad that Wayne Hays used their tax dollars for sex. He's getting off the hook locally because people have him portrayed as a folk hero."

Hays, in the midst of the scandal, won 61 percent of the Democratic vote to be nominated for re-election to the House. He resigned two weeks later, however, ending House Ethics Committee and Justice Department investigations into allegations he misused public funds.

Graham Gives Final Sermons Of Polish Crusade

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham delivered the final sermons of his 10-day Polish crusade Sunday to a total of about 5,000 people in two services at a Lutheran church, and earlier at an evangelical sanctuary on the border of what had been the Warsaw ghetto.

At evening services in the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Graham said: "I have been preaching the gospel almost 40 years and these are the busiest 10 days I have ever spent."

Graham told the congregation he would be preaching during the next three months in Japan, Singapore and Brazil. "I will carry a part of Poland with me," he said.

The congregations at both services included large numbers of young people and a few protestants who had come from East Germany, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia to hear Graham.

A young man from the church stood on the curb encouraging strollers to join the service.

In his evening sermon, Graham stressed God's love for mankind and his concern for human redemption. "The Bible says we are like sheep," he said. "Every one of us are lost sheep, lost from God."

The morning sermon followed a recount by evangelical Bishop Jan Niewierzal of the sufferings of Poles at the hands of the Nazis in World War II and the destruction of Warsaw during those years.

"There was a time here when our whole nation faced destruction and was condemned to death," he said. "It was 35 years ago when this church was surrounded by a sea of burning houses and salvos of machine guns were heard nearby."

He was referring to the unsuccessful uprising in April and May of 1943 by Polish Jews herded by the Nazis into the Warsaw ghetto.

Graham used the example of the late billionaire Howard Hughes to illustrate the meaninglessness of "wealth in comparison to spiritual matters."

Without mentioning Hughes by name, Graham said, "There was once a wealthy man in America, they said he was the richest man in the whole world. No one had even seen him for years. And when he died they said he had long fingernails and stringy hair, he lived on drugs and alcohol. They said he lived in a kind of hell."

His sermon was delivered in one of nine evangelical churches in Poland. The denomination has about 5,000 members nationwide, compared with the nearly 30 million Roman Catholics.

Only about 2.8 million of Poland's 35 million people are members of the Communist Party. Graham's largest crowds have been in Roman Catholic churches. He drew 6,500 Wednesday in Katowice and 5,000 Saturday night at Warsaw's All Saints Church.

Graham, who held his first Soviet Bloc crusade last year in Hungary, is scheduled to leave for the United States today.

Hearing Set Today In Espionage Case

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Two Soviet citizens convicted of espionage are to learn Monday whether they can remain free until their sentencing Oct. 30.

U.S. District Judge Frederick B. Lacey scheduled a hearing on the request by Rudolf Chernyayev, 43, and Valdik Enger, 39, to remain in the custody of Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin pending sentencing and appeal.

The two men, both employees of the United Nations, were convicted Friday after a two-week trial on charges they attempted to pass U.S. defense secrets to their homeland.

They face a maximum penalty of life imprisonment after being found guilty of conspiracy to obtain secret defense data.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.
 Luke 3:1-7, The Living Bible

In the fifteenth year of the reign of the Emperor, Tiberius Caesar, a message came from God to John (the son of Zacharias), as he was living out in the deserts. (Pilate was governor over Judea at that time; Herod, over Galilee; his brother Philip, over Iturea and Trachonitis; Lysanias, over Abilene; and Annas and Caiaphas were the Jewish High Priests.)

3 Then John went from place to place on both sides of the Jordan River, preaching that people should be baptized to show that they had turned to God and away from their sins in order to be forgiven.

4 In the words of Isaiah the prophet, John was "a voice shouting from the barren wilderness. 'Prepare a road for the Lord to travel on! Widen the pathway before Him!'

5 Level the mountains! Fill up the valleys! Straighten the curves! Smooth out the ruts!

6 And then all mankind shall see the Savior sent from God."

7 Here is a sample of John's preaching to the crowds that came for baptism: "You brood of snakes! You are trying to escape hell without truly turning to God! That is why you want to be baptized!"

Canadian By-Elections Presage Trudeau's Fate

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians pass judgment on Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and his government Monday in a series of special parliamentary elections that may forecast his fate in next year's national campaign.

Canada's sagging economy has been the dominant issue, but the Quebec separatist movement and Trudeau's personal leadership are key elements in the background.

Fifteen empty seats among the House of Commons' 264 electoral districts are up for grabs in the by-elections, and opposition spokesmen say a poor showing by Trudeau's governing Liberal Party will increase pressure on the prime minister to resign.

But Trudeau, 59 years old next Wednesday and prime minister for the past 10 years, insists he will stay on to lead the Liberals into the national elections set for next spring.

He has made clear he wants to remain prime minister to fight the push for separatism in French-dominated Quebec province. The provincial premier, separatist Rene Levesque, intends to ask the Quebec electorate in the next year or two to vote for or against taking Quebec out of the union with largely English-speaking Canada.

Liberal strategists concede Trudeau could face stiff challenges to his leadership if the Progressive Conservatives, the major opposition party, win 10 or more of the by-elections.

The prime minister will retain his majority in the House of Commons — currently 134 Liberals to 87 Conservatives — even if he loses all 15 contests. But heavy government losses would give Trudeau's opponents an important psychological boost in the final months before the next general election.

Conservatives, under 39-year-old leader Joe Clark, are quietly confident they will gain ground in the by-elections. The moderately socialist New Democrats, Canada's No. 3 party, say they, too, are optimistic.

The party leaders have campaigned actively for the by-elections, hammering away at issues that vary as widely as the 15 electoral districts, which reach from Newfoundland in the east to British Columbia in the West. Seven of the vacant seats are in politically critical Ontario.

In the last general election, in 1974, the Liberals took seven of the 15 districts, Conservatives captured six, and the New Democrats and the tiny Quebec-based Social Credit Party each won one.

If the Liberals hold their own or gain in the contests, Trudeau is expected to argue that he is on the right track with plans for tough economic restraint and to write a new Canadian constitution to meet demands for greater regional autonomy.

If the Liberals lose, opponents are expected to accelerate their assaults on both fronts, arguing that Trudeau's constitutional reform plans do nothing to satisfy the aspirations of Quebecers and that more than spending cuts and civil service layoffs are needed to turn the country's economy around.

The economic problem is seen in three key statistics — unemployment and inflation rates running at more than 8 percent, and a dollar that has dropped to a value of about 84 U.S. cents from $1.03.

But underlying all issues has been Trudeau's leadership. Candidates, including such Liberals as former magazine editor Doris Anderson running for one of five empty Toronto seats, report strong anti-Trudeau feelings across the country.

Nearly a million Canadians are eligible to vote Monday.

Many of the vacancies were created by Trudeau himself early this year when, clearing the decks for an anticipated summer election, he appointed a number of members of Parliament to the Senate, government boards and the judiciary. The Canadian Senate is an appointive body.

But a poor Liberal showing in opinion polls led Trudeau to cancel plans for elections this year.

Census Bureau Issues Report On Fertility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Between 1972 and 1976, almost one out of four newlywed women under age 25 either had a child before marriage or were pregnant when they arrived at the altar, the government reported Sunday.

"This means that almost one-quarter of all newlyweds under 25 began their marital careers with an already existing or developing family which could potentially strain their financial or emotional resources," says a detailed Census Bureau report on the fertility of American women.

The report says that of the 6.7 million women ages 14 to 24 who first married between 1972 and 1976, 9.4 percent had a child before marriage; 14.4 percent were already pregnant when they married, and 76.1 percent had never had a child.

Twenty years earlier, census figures showed that about one out of five newlywed women either had a child or were pregnant when they first married.

However, the report says that as of June 1977 the 1972-76 premarital pregnancy and childbirth findings are statistically similar to those found in the 1967-71 census fertility study, "possibly because of the increased accessibility and usage of effective contraceptive methods in recent years."

Meanwhile, there were racial differences in the fertility status of women who married between 1972 and 1976, the report shows. About 6.6 percent of white women between the ages of 14 and 24 had a child before marriage, compared with 37.7 percent of black women in the same age group.

Also, the figures show that 14.3 percent of white women in this age group were pregnant when they married, compared with 16.8 percent of black women.

The report shows that in the last decade, women's attitudes about childbearing and marriage have changed significantly. More women are postponing marriage; more women are working before and after marriage, and women are choosing to have fewer children.

In 1967, young married women said they expected 2,800 births per 1,000 married women — or about three children each. Advance figures show that in June 1978, married women ages 18 to 34 they said they expected 2,113 births per 1,000 wives — or around two children per woman.

The 1978 figure is very close to the 2,115 births per 1,000 wives needed to keep the size of the population constant, the report says. Among women ages 18 to 24 lifetime birth expectations are slightly below the replacement level at 2,033 per 1,000 women.

Within the last decade, there has been a significant increase in the number of black women who use oral contraceptives, the report shows.

Among black wives ages 15 to 24 who use contraceptives, the use of oral contraceptives increased from 27.8 percent in 1965 to 73.5 percent in 1973; the corresponding increase for white wives in the same age group was from 51.4 percent in 1965 to 64.4 percent in 1973.

Although both black and white married women interviewed in 1977 said they expected about two children per woman, black women have had more births per woman than white women.

"Undoubtedly, if young black wives intend to have a completed family size similar to that of white wives who have significantly fewer births to date, they must practice a high degree of fertility control in future years," the report says.

SLEEP HABITS STUDIED
MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — People can sleep just as well in 90-degree and 50-degree temperatures as they do at 70 degrees, says a Kansas State University professor. Frederick Rohles, of the university's Institute for Environmental Research, said Saturday the results of his research could lead to energy savings, if people would set their heaters back to 50 degrees in the winter and turn off air conditioners on summer nights.

Total Cereal Commerical Draws Consumer Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's consumer adviser and a private consumer group called Sunday for a federal investigation of advertising for Total breakfast cereal.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest filed a petition with the Federal Trade Commission urging it to ban a commercial for Total that it called misleading. The group said the ad has contributed to consumers being overcharged about $31.6 million since 1973.

Esther Peterson, White House consumer adviser, sent a letter to FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk calling for a "prompt investigation" of the issues challenged by the center.

In Minneapolis, an official of General Mills, maker of Total, defended the product and said there have been no overcharges.

"The advertising claims are truthful and direct and were reviewed by federal agencies concerned with advertising as well as television and industry regulatory groups," said Robert W. Hatch, vice president and general manager of General Mills' cereal division.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest, a non-profit group interested in nutrition and health, attacked an advertising claim that "it would take 16 ounces of the leading natural cereal to equal the vitamins in one ounce of fortified Total."

The center said the claim is true only for those vitamins that have been added to Total.

The center also said the commercial erroneously implies that people will have an adequate diet if they eat a food, such as Total, that contains 100 percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances.

"In fact, we have RDA for only about one-third of the nutrients known to be essential to the body," the center said.

Center Executive Director Michael Jacobson said, "Total is a total ripoff to the consumers."

"Wheaties, another General Mills cereal, is nearly identical to Total, except that it is fortified with smaller amounts of vitamins and minerals," he said.

"It costs General Mills only about two cents to add the extra nutrients to a 12-ounce box of Total, yet the retail price of Total is about 30 cents higher than the price of Wheaties. We calculate that this overcharge cost the public approximately ... $31.6 million since 1973."

Hatch said in a statement that it would be cheaper for consumers to eat Total than to eat Wheaties and take a vitamin pill.

"It is actually less expensive for consumers to receive 100 percent of the Recommended Daily Allowances, nine important vitamins and iron with Wheat Total than with a lower fortified cereal and a vitamin pill," he said.

Mrs. Peterson wrote the FTC: "I am particularly concerned over the disproportionate pricing of Total because it represents an attitude that contributes importantly to the rampant inflation with which consumers are struggling."

"Consumers are increasingly concerned with the nutritional value of foods and, because of inflation, are trying to get the most for their money. Total's commercials appear to prey upon these concerns," she said.

Hertz Must Make Refunds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hertz Corp., the nation's largest car rental company, must refund credit balances to customers under an order announced Sunday by the Federal Trade Commission.

Hertz spokesman Tom Elliott said the New York-based company began issuing the refunds in 1976, "more than one year prior to the commencement of the FTC's review of the company's program."

The order signed by the company obligates it legally to issue the refunds in the future.

The credit balances resulted from an overpayment or a duplicate payment by the customer.

When the FTC initiated the case, it charged that the company before May 1976 had no system of informing all credit customers that they had overpaid and did not make refunds without a request.

It charged that these past practices were unfair and illegal. Hertz did not acknowledge any violation of law in the order that ended the case.

Under the order, Hertz will be required to provide periodic statements to credit customers who have a balance of more than $5 and tell them of their right to a refund. Hertz also will be required to make refunds within 30 days of a request.

The order will take effect when it is approved by the five-member commission.

HEARTLINE: I started drawing Social Security retirement benefits at age 62 and have been drawing them for 14 months. Now I have an opportunity for an exceptionally high-paying job, which will last for three or four years. Can I stop drawing Social Security retirement now and start drawing again three or four years from now? — J.B.

Yes, you may suspend your Social Security retirement benefits for the duration of your new job. But your age 62 reduction will not apply when your benefits resume after your high-paying job ends.

When a retired person age 62-64 receives no monthly benefit or only part of a monthly benefit due to work deductions, these months are no longer counted at age 65 and a new reduction factor is computed. In your case, if you are 65 or older when you start drawing benefits again, your benefit would only be reduced by the 14 months you received benefits and not 36 months. Thus, at 5/9 of 1 percent per month, your benefit would only be reduced 7.8 percent and not 20 percent.

On top of this, your high earnings up to the year you stop work will be included in your benefit increase, depending on how high the earnings actually were. You should notify Social Security as soon as you start this job so that you are not paid benefits for your months of work, and then notify them again when you stop.

The only other choice you have is to withdraw your claim and refund all benefits you have received. You would then have to file a new claim when you stop work and you would receive your full unreduced benefit if you were 65 or older, since you had refunded all the previous benefits you received. In this case, as above, all your earnings up to the year you retire would also be used to compute your benefit.

Yes. However, if you have children, they can continue to receive benefits. Contact your nearest VA office for applications for each child.

Poll Shows Less Government Control Of Business Favored

By LOUIS HARRIS

For the first time in many years, the mood of the country has shifted and a plurality of the public now favors less government regulation of business. By 44-32 percent, most people also feel that "businessmen's complaints about excessive government regulation of business" are justified, compared to the narrower 39-55 percent plurality who felt the same way two years ago.

Back in 1976, 31 percent of the public wanted more government regulation of business, 27 percent wanted less regulation, and 30 percent wanted about the same amount as before. Now, only 24 percent opt for more government regulation of business, 30 percent want less, and 40 percent want essentially no change.

These latest Harris Survey findings reflect a situation in which there has been a sharp fall-off of high confidence in all governmental institutions over the past nine months, while the private sector has basically held its own. The clear implication is that Americans are simply not inclined today to give the government a mandate for further control or regulation of the private sector.

It appears that confidence in the federal government's ability to regulate business has slipped. Only 15 percent now feel that "if the federal government were given the main job of trying to regulate business and enforce standards of product quality and reliability," it would do a "very effective job."

A much higher 57 percent believe that the federal establishment would be "only somewhat effective," and 21 percent believe government regulation would not be effective at all. The percentage of those who feel that the federal government can effectively regulate business has dropped from 25 to 15 percent since 1972.

By contrast, a somewhat higher 27 percent feel that consumer activists could do an effective job of monitoring business and enforcing standards of product quality and reliability. And almost that many, 23 percent, feel the same way about individual consumers doing the basic monitoring and regulating of business.

These results imply that people are becoming increasingly convinced that business will maintain high standards only when a process of bargaining begins to take place between consumers and business. In this sense, the consumer-business relationship is viewed much as the collective bargaining process between labor and management. It is not farfetched to conclude that such negotiations between consumers and business might not be far off.

Essentially, Americans have concluded that federal government regulation is not working well, but that business cannot be trusted to do the job of regulation by itself. Therefore, people are inclined to trust themselves and others who would speak on behalf of the consumer to maintain high standards of quality and reliability in business.

Neighbors Want Display Elsewhere

PRAIRIE VILLAGE, Kan. (AP) — Last year, some 30,000 persons saw the 75 animated pieces and 5,000 lights in the Christmas display in Mike Babick's front yard. But it didn't improve the holiday spirits of his neighbors, whose driveways were blocked by the crowds.

So with Babick talking about putting up an even bigger display this year, neighbor Kirk Kiloh has circulated a petition asking that the display be set up in a shopping center or on city property instead.

The petition, has been signed by residents of 10 of the 32 houses along Babick's street, but Babick is unconvinced.

"I plan to hit that switch Dec. 5," says Babick. "And I'm hoping to give out treats this year." He says the rooftop scene includes "Christmas in Comville," with a Santa's workshop, 31 new animated pieces, and a life-sized mechanized Nativity scene.

Your Personal Biorhythms

by Bernard Gittelson

Figure your numbers here — For your own permanent biorhythm number for the Physical (P), Emotional (E), and Intellectual (I) cycles, just follow these steps:

BIORHYTHMS FOR OCT. 16, 1978

PHYSICAL
 Critical: 7, 18, 30, 41, 53, 64
 High: 8, 17, 27, 40, 54, 63
 Low: 14, 19, 29, 42, 52, 62, 75
 Missing: 0

EMOTIONAL
 Critical: 9, 23, 37, 51, 65, 79
 High: 1, 8, 24, 36, 50, 64, 78
 Low: 10, 22, 35, 49, 63, 77
 Missing: 0

INTELLECTUAL
 Critical: 13, 27, 41, 55, 69
 High: 11, 25, 39, 53, 67, 81
 Low: 15, 31, 47, 63, 79
 Missing: 0

Notes: Ricksteller's permanent numbers are 42, 46, 55

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Year	P	E	I
1910-19	1	1	1
1920-29	2	2	2
1930-39	3	3	3
1940-49	4	4	4
1950-59	5	5	5
1960-69	6	6	6
1970-79	7	7	7

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be B for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Jan	Feb	March	April	May	June	July	Aug	Sept	Oct	Nov	Dec
P	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
E	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
I	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11

Step 3 — Day of birth. Enter your day of birth three times in the figure chart, once each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's biorhythm readings. Neighbor House's Emergency Program Aids Low-Income Person

The United Way
When Glenda Moore's husband was killed she had nothing — except a 3-month-old fetus growing in her womb — five other children and a mountain of bills.

What's more, she lost the man she deeply loved. She described the months after his death as "dazed." She couldn't work or concentrate, most of the time living in a world of grief.

Also, her pregnancy was troubled. She was in and out of the hospital. At five months, she began to hemorrhage. At six months, the baby was born by Caesarean section, just barely able to stay alive. The trauma of the early birth of her child was almost too much for the young mother to bear. The fact that she did not know if the baby would live, compounded by the death of her husband, her critical financial state and five other mouths to feed, put her in a state of hopelessness. She realized she would have to get help somewhere, at least to keep her family going. She contacted several local agencies before she was aided by Neighborhood House and decided to ask them again. For the first time this year, Neighborhood House will receive $10,404 from the United Way's 1979 goal of $1,682,369. Neighborhood House did help Mrs. Moore. It assisted her in obtaining food stamps and in paying utility bills, with plans to make arrangements for her house payment.

"They did wonders for me at Neighborhood House," said Mrs. Moore, expecting her baby home from the hospital soon. "When I was turned down at other places, they didn't turn me down. They were so kind and friendly and they helped me the best way they could. They made me feel like I was somebody. They made me feel welcome and they made me feel they were concerned." Other places didn't do that. I felt like I was part of Neighborhood House.

Mrs. Caroline Signor, director of Neighborhood House, explained that the assistance given to Mrs. Moore and many others like her is part of the agency's emergency aid program. She said the purpose of the program is to aid people who have no or very low income in emergency situations. The assistance may come in various forms, according to Mrs. Signor, such as clothes, food, help in purchasing food stamps, food vouchers, payment for rent, utilities or prescriptions and transportation.

She said the agency also makes many referrals to other agencies, like community services, the welfare department and human resources center. For those who can pay or insist on the dignity of paying for what they get, Mrs. Signor said, the agency maintains a thrift shop, selling clothing at 5 cents per item.

Other services provided by the Neighborhood House include a children's recreation and organization program and a friendly visiting program. The children's program offers unstructured recreational function for children — a playground, pool tables, air hockey and wrestling — and structured activities such as Girl and Boy scout troops, field trips and some instructional groups. Mrs. Signor said approximately 50 to 100 children use the facility each day.

The friendly visit program, which began as a government contract on aging, provides visitors over 55 years of age to those who are shut in. The volunteers, Mrs. Signor said, visit shut-ins once a week, providing companionship for those less fortunate. Also, she said, the program works with other agencies to identify shut-ins in the Lubbock community.

The Neighborhood House, which originated through the Lutheran Council for Community Action also serves as a clearing house for local churches through its good neighbor ministry, sponsored by the Lubbock Ministers Association. The agency coordinated emergency aid and interviews prospective recipients to determine their need.

Neighborhood House is among 34 United Way agencies.

Stance On Bilingual Education Maintained In Board's Decision

AUSTIN — Following lengthy criticism of a proposed plan to require mandatory bilingual education in kindergarten through fifth grade statewide, the State Board of Education Saturday backed off from that proposal and gave tentative approval instead to changes which substantially maintained the status quo.

As approved on second reading, the plan now continues required bilingual education through grade three and supplemental English language development instruction in grades four through 12.

E.R. Gregg Jr., Jacksonville, told the board that the committee he chairs on policy, budget, and finance felt that the roll-back of the mandatory bilingual requirement is necessary in light of the testimony which the committee received Thursday from local school administrators and other officials indicating intense opposition to the board's proposal.

Board chairman Joe Kelly Butler, Houston, stressed his support of the action, saying any fundamental policy change in this area should be made by the Texas Legislature.

"I think it is right and proper that we move back to a sound program," Butler said. "Anyone who says different is blind to the facts."

But board member Ruben E. Hinojosa of Mercedes urged his colleagues not to "back down" from their previous position.

He agreed the plan could, as Gregg pointed out, impose a hardship on smaller school districts, but said he was "flexible" in this area and had been willing to work with the committee to find a way around the sticky problem of lasting qualified personnel and finances for such programs.

"I was willing to compromise," Hinojosa said, "but the committee was not willing to bend. Let's not roll back after taking a giant step to help the children who scored the lowest on these tests (Texas Education Agency tests which this week revealed that Mexican-American children are far inferior to their white peers in reading and math skills).

Board member Dr. Virginia Currey, Arlington, called the changes a "tragic weakening" of the bilingual education plan while Austin board member Jane Wells said adoption of the unaltered proposal would demonstrate the board's ability to provide leadership in this area.

Board member Mary Ann Leveridge, East Bernard, however, said the board asked for changes to the proposal noting the lack of needed "resources, facilities and teachers" in many of the smaller school districts from her region would make it impossible to comply with the proposed expansion of the bilingual program.

She stressed the current program, as modified, will enable Spanish-speaking youngsters "to make the transition into the society in which they live" effectively.

With four opposing votes, the board adopted the roll-back changes, which include a reinstatement of the provision that bilingual education be required in those districts "with 20 or more children of limited English-speaking ability in any language classification in the same grade level during the preceding scholastic year."

Hinojosa said he is hopeful he can find some compromise position in this area before the board considers final adoption to the changes at its next meeting.

Tech To Offer Course On 'How To Stay Cool'

"Rational Self Counseling or How to Stay Cool," is the title of a course offered at Texas Tech beginning Thursday and running through Nov. 30.

Texas Tech Division of Continuing Education, in cooperation with the Center for the Study of Aging and the Junior League of Lubbock, has prepared the seminar to help persons better cope with problems of everyday life.

It is a non-credit course and there are no academic prerequisites. Enrollment is open to all interested persons. The fee is $25.

According to Dr. Paul A. Knipping, interim director of the center and professor in the Department of HPER (Health, Physical Education and Recreation), rational self counseling can minimize unpleasant emotions, reduce tensions, facilitate stress-management, aid in avoiding a heart attack and increase the individual's state of happiness.

The method can help persons to become more productive, enjoy life to a greater degree and "it can measurably help those experiencing difficulties in marriage, divorce, drinking, smoking and interrelationships with others," Knipping said.

As course instructor, he will provide an understanding of the origin, maintenance and extinction of emotions, attitudes and beliefs. Knipping will encourage participants to channel undesirable behavior into a supportive and useful direction.

Classes will meet Thursdays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Junior League of Lubbock, 1901 50th, except on Nov. 23.

Veterinarian Blasts Farming Techniques

DETROIT (AP) — Mass farming techniques aimed at accelerated food production push animals "to their genetic limit," often subject them to horrible treatment and cause damage that must be repaired by feeding the animals drugs that wind up in our food, a director of the Humane Society of the United States says.

Veterinarian Michael W. Fox, addressing delegates to the society's national conference Friday, also showed slides of such animals — cows with enormous udders, veal calves in pens perpetually dark so they conserve energy, hogs in pens so small they can't turn around, chickens with beaks removed by pressing their heads on a hot iron.

Few Explanations For Inflation Make Any Sense

NEW YORK (AP) — To most Americans, inflation means simply ... I pay more, so why do I get less?

We hear about inflation almost daily. Everyone agrees it is a serious economic problem. There is little agreement over what can be done about it and that's probably because the problem is so poorly understood.

Standard explanations for its cause usually rattle off a series of current ills — the dollar is weakening on overseas money markets. The government is spending money faster than it can print it or tax it. The federal reserve alternately pumps money into the economy, then yanks it out. Business boosts prices to beat inflation. Workers demand higher wages to pay for higher prices.

Clear? Hardly. It's like saying that there is inflation because there is inflation.

And the explanation holds little hope for breaking a seemingly endless cycle leading to cheapened money.

President Carter is due to announce soon an anti-inflation plan with "teeth" to reduce the rate that now stands at about 9.5 percent.

Most feel Carter's proposals will be intended to sell newspapers, but was in "poor taste."

Brewer said Cogbill "relates to the students as well as any teacher we've ever had here" and felt he was helping out the newspaper by posing for the photograph.

Lillie Spain, the paper's faculty adviser, insisted the photo was meant only as a spoof on women's magazines that have featured male centerfolds.

She denied she had been present at the modeling session and would not say whether she had seen the picture before publication.

more than just a polite request that business and labor curb their demands, but somewhere short of mandatory wage and price controls that hardly anyone wants.

Carter has already indicated that some form of government sanction would result if wage demands exceed 7 percent and prices go up more than 5% percent.

Economists have often been called upon by the White House to prescribe cures for the mysterious disease. In recent interviews, several who have advised past presidents were asked what "inflation 1978" really is and why it seems to resist a cure.

To Prof. Walter Heller, chief economic adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson and now a teacher at the University of Minnesota, the problem has its most clear-cut historic roots in the shortages and stunning price rises of raw goods and fuel that marked 1973 and 1974.

Salaries couldn't possibly increase fast enough to match the quadrupled price of foreign oil and other price rises.

But now — nearly four years later — labor has seized its chance to "catch up" with those higher prices. That includes non-industrial workers like farmers.

Food prices have gone up 9.7 percent in the last eight months. Unfortunately, wages are rising rapidly but productivity is not.

"Simple arithmetic shows that if average hourly compensation is rising 9 to 9.5 percent a year and productivity is rising 1 or 2 percent a year then you have a built-in inflation rate of 7 or 7.5 percent," says Heller.

Workers aren't entirely to blame for lagging productivity, says Heller. Industry has been too slow in making needed investments in new equipment, in training managers in the latest techniques, and in making work and the workplace more stimulating.

And part of the productivity problem has its roots in arbitrary government regulations that lower economic efficiency and raise prices. The Carter administration, by relaxing airline regulations, proved that point and ticket prices to many destinations plunged as a result.

But making the economy more productive and thereby curbing inflation "is a very slow process," says Heller. In his opinion, Carter can hope for quicker results in his inflationary battle by concentrating his plan on the other side of the equation — getting business and labor to curb their wage and price demands.

To accomplish this, administration officials have indicated that, among other measures, the inflation plan may use the threat of withholding government contracts from businesses that break Carter's price guidelines. The federal government distributes about $100 billion worth of these contracts a year, and this threat might be very persuasive, says Heller.

But Alan Greenspan, a business economist who was President Ford's chief economic adviser, doubts the strategy would work.

"That's not easily done. We're not dealing with the federal government trying to buy pencils. The vast proportion of government procurement is very specialized. You can't have the McDonald's hamburger chain making aircraft carriers," he says.

"What I hope to see is a very severe curtailment on government expenditure. I would look at two major areas: the federal deficit and a too-rapid growth of money supply, and a too-weak growth in productivity. If you can bring inflation down, then you would find that capital spending would begin to rise," he says.

Two lessons that economists and politicians seem to have learned about combating inflation are that wage and price controls and federally-induced recessions are cures that are probably worse than the disease.

Business and labor are adept at end-running government controls. And even if they worked for a short period, they would do nothing to address the underlying cause of the current inflation, which is lagging productivity.

And economists agree that "cooling off the economy" with a recession has grown increasingly ineffective in bringing down the inflation rate. According to some calculations, it would take an economic downturn of $200 billion in lost national productivity just to bring the inflation rate down by 1 percent.

BROOKVILLE, Va. (AP) — Brookville High School's football coach has been reprimanded for posing for a centerfold-type picture published by the school newspaper.

The monthly newspaper, Beeline, was also criticized by school administrators, who said the First Amendment prohibited them from blocking publication.

Coach Bill Cogbill, 27, held a football in front of him, but was wearing gym shorts, Principal Paul Brewer said.

School Superintendent Arnold Oates Jr., whose daughter is an associate editor of the school paper, said the photo was intended to sell newspapers, but was in "poor taste."

Brewer said Cogbill "relates to the students as well as any teacher we've ever had here" and felt he was helping out the newspaper by posing for the photograph.

Lillie Spain, the paper's faculty adviser, insisted the photo was meant only as a spoof on women's magazines that have featured male centerfolds.

She denied she had been present at the modeling session and would not say whether she had seen the picture before publication.

SKI-LUBBOCK SPORTS EASILY IDENTIFIABLE ON WEST 4TH STREET

'Where You Buy Skis Said As Important As Kind You Buy'

The selection of a ski dealer may seem nothing more than a question of convenience. "Yet, where you buy your skis is perhaps the most important consideration of all. "For the dealer you choose will affect the skis you choose, as well as the boots, poles, bindings and accessories you need to improve your skiing and enjoy the sport. "Finding a dealer who can satisfy you in each of these areas is not difficult, provided you know what qualities to look for. "We Can Help" "And in Lubbock and the South Plains area, the trek is to Ski-Lubbock Sports, 2918 4th St., where finest products, professional assistance and multiple services have been proven the rule rather than exception. "Skiing is our only business . . . at Ski-Lubbock Sports." Selecting a ski is not easy, it is pointed out. There are so many makes and models to choose from that unless you have your mind made up, you are probably going to be confused. Ski-Lubbock Sports, as a knowledgeable dealer, can be a big help in such circumstances.

"As such a dealer, we at Ski-Lubbock Sports can actually guide you through the maze of makes and models and provide you with clearly defined choices. "More importantly, the knowledgeable staff can help determine precisely which ski is best for you, considering your age, sex, weight, height, physical condition, level of ability, and the kind of terrain and snow conditions you most frequently ski. "If a dealer and his staff cannot provide you with such guidance, you should seriously question the wisdom of doing business with him, the Olin Ski manufacturers add. A good dealer doesn't just sell skis! In searching for a dealer, one will no doubt find some that seem to make a practice of "special deals" and "unbelievable sales," Olin says. Such retail operations and the merchandise they offer should be approached with caution. A reputable dealer will offer his products at a competitive price . . . one that is fair to you and fair to him, Ski-Lubbock Sports aptly points out. Service Range Important "And unlike dealers that just sell skis, this Lubbock firm offers a level of expertise and service that is worth far more than the extra few dollars a lesser dealer might save you." A good dealer not only will help you choose the right ski, in terms of model and length; he will see that your boots are properly fitted. He will make sure that your bindings are correctly mounted and adjusted. And he will provide you with the kind of service all skis periodically require. A recent advertising release from Olin Skis added: "At Olin Skis, we believe that skiers at all levels of skill can actually feel the difference that superior quality makes in skis. Our objective is to make only the best possible product. "Every authorized Olin dealer has been carefully chosen for his expertise in the sport of skiing. Before a ski shop is permitted to handle our skis, it is personally researched by an Olin Ski representative. Only those dealers who provide the full range of skills and services are appointed as dealers. Such a dealer is the reliable and true friend to the ski enthusiasts of this area, the Ski-Lubbock Sports firm at 2918 4th St. in Lubbock. "Remember . . . where you buy your skis is just as important as what kind of skis you buy."

House Of Shades & Lamp Repair Aids New Look For Any Room, Any Season

Is the house in ship-shape for fall and winter activities? Are there things that can be done now that will ease the tasks of last-minute party preparations, readiness for Thanksgiving company and Christmas festivities? Does the home's decor need a finishing touch? Think on these questions and then think of the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, 2710 50th St., a firm that can effect a new look for any room in any season! "Likely new shades . . . or new lamps . . . can solve your situation in a delightful manner. Or maybe you received a lamp for birthday, anniversary, etc., but the shade doesn't quite match the decor of the room." In either event, why not make a visit now to the House of Shades and Lamp Repair and let the experts there give a big assist. Even with their professional approach, the folks at the House of Shades are the friendliest ever, showing beyond doubt that the customer's trade and friendship is appreciated. Even for those familiar with the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, a visit there at this time will reveal added services, newest shades and a full staff to afford every customer consideration. Unique lamps of distinction, quality lamp shades, replacement lamp parts and glass, expert lamp repair, custom building, re-wiring, re-design and re-finish (to make your lamp a shade better) in essence comprise the business scope of this better lamp house. Some months ago the House of Shades and Lamp Repair made giant strides, doubling its floor space, as example, to better serve. Consequently, more merchandise was stocked and more convenient display was enabled. From an outsider's viewpoint, it is noted that actually the expansion in physical facilities was simply another step in many progressive moves at this popular Lubbock firm. "Come on out and let us personally thank you for your trade and confidence that has made our steady growth possible." An exceptional plaster stock is just one of the things going for Rhea's Crafts, 2831 34th St. Rhea's has expanded its stock, showroom floor space and instruction opportunities. (An ad last week incorrectly referred to Rhea's largest selection of "plastic" items, and should have read "plaster" items, of course.) These plaster selections even include the copyrighted Western plaster by R.J. Moore of Denver, and the Montford western pieces, together with the Apsit

Even at its beginning, this Lubbock firm recognized the needs in its field, and stocked and served accordingly. Since that date, even more has been learned of customer preferences, and consequent growth and expansion has followed. Yes, the House of Shades and Lamp Repair is here to stay! Owners Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Houchin report that continually they are able to get more and better stock. The House of Shades has complete facilities for lamp wiring, repair and rebuilding. Bros. of California; and new numbers are arriving daily. A host of other hobby, craft and art items are on hand ready for Christmas projects (and it is high time to start on these, right?) Come in to Rhea's Crafts, long in Lubbock and now actively owned and operated by the husband-wife team of C.L. and Ruby Clingman. "We think you'll appreciate and enjoy the expanded Rhea's Crafts, 2831 34th St., phone 795-2655."

Ritter Adjusts To TV Fame

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When John Ritter encountered Henry Winkler at a big ABC network bash, the star of "Happy Days" asked the star of "Three's Company" how things were going.

"At times like this," sighed Ritter, "I feel like I'm one step away from being a phony." He explained that in the previous few minutes he had started eight conversations, none of which he finished.

Winkler nodded knowingly. "I used to stay away from these events for that reason," he said. "Then I decided that they were just part of the game; people don't expect anything more than a quick hello at these things."

John Ritter, who just turned 50, is still learning. He is now in the third season of the overwhelmingly popular "Three's Company," in which he shares a Santa Monica apartment with Joyce DeWitt and Suzanne Somers. The series has several times occupied the no. 1 spot in the ratings.

"Three's Company" has resulted in an onrush of fame for Ritter, and it doesn't seem to have overwhelmed him. He has had good advice from experts like Winkler, who has since become a friend. Most of all, said John between rehearsals for the comedy, he profited from being the son of cowboy actor-singer-composer Tex Ritter.
