Carter Claims Mideast Talks Face 'No Crisis'

Carter, insisting "there is no crisis," in-tervened in the Mideast peace talks Tuesday as Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said the negotiations had encountered difficulty.

Carter met separately with the Israeli and Egyptian delegations — a tactic he used when the two sides drifted apart during the Camp David summit, whose Middle East accords led to the current round of talks here.

Dayan, emerging from the first of the two White House meetings, had told reporters, "We have come against some difficulties in our negotiations with the Egyptian delegation," adding:

"Waiting For Meeting" When we came here, the president told us that whenever we are stuck, we should turn to him. So we used this opportunity, and we have met with him. We are waiting now for his meeting with the Egyptian delegation, and then we'll find out how constructive we have been and how much he managed to solve and to help us go ahead and advance with the

Dayan refused to disclose the details of the problems involving the talks aimed at bringing Egypt and Israel together on the details of a peace treaty. The foreign minister said the problems had to be handled "carefully and quiet-

Carter, however, took pains to allay any alarm that Dayan might have caused "No Particular Problem" Speaking in a loud voice as reporters and photographers came into the Cabinet Room to photograph the start of his meeting with the Egyptians, Carter said: "I might say to the press so there won't be any misunderstanding ... there is no particular problem. There is no crisis. There is no real need for an emergency agreed upon and there are still areas that need to be covered," Ghorbal said.

Davis Gets Citizenship

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Jimmy Carter of Georgia Tuesday officially restored citizenship to Jefferson Davis of Mississippi and said it's high time for the North and the South to forgive and for-

Carter signed an amnesty bill restoring the Confederate president to all the rights a Reconstruction era Congress took away - including the rights to hold public office and serve in the military.

Davis died in 1889. Our nation needs to clear away the guilts and enmities and recriminations of the past, to finally set at rest the divisions that threatened to destroy our nation and to discredit the great principles on which it was founded," Carter said in a solemn statement.

The Jeff Davis amnesty bill, he said, 'officially completes the long process of reconciliation that has reunited our people following the tragic conflict between Congress restored citizenship to Gen. Robert E. Lee in 1976 when, in a burst of bicentennial spirit, it also tidied up history by promoting Lt. Gen. George Washington posthumously to General of the Army. The bill signed Tuesday restores Davis' citizenship retroactively to Christmas Day, 1868 and says that, "in accordance with section 3 of amendment XIV of the the legal disabilities Constitution Constitution ... the legal disabilities placed upon Mr. Jefferson F. Davis are hereby removed. In plain language, that proviso symbolically restores Davis rights to hold office and bear arms for America, rights the post-Civil War Congress took away from any former state or federal officeholder who had engaged "in insurrection."

Before the war, Davis had served as both a senator and congressman from Mississippi and was a member of President Franklin Pierce's cabinet. Davis - who took a dim view of Lee's decision to surrender the Confederacy at Appomattox Courthouse, and never gave his permission - was imprisoned without trial for two years after the Civil War and was excluded from the 1876 amnesty bill that restored citizenship to most Confederate officers and leaders. faction with the progress so far. They re-affirmed their determination to continue that progress, so that the negotiations can be completed as soon as possible, the statement concluded.

In another development, Israel radio reported Tuesday that Prime Minister Menachem Begin gave an optimistic assessment of the peace talks to a committee of the Israeli Knesset. Begin was reported to have told the committee that Egypt and Israel have agreed to arbitrate disputes over Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula.

It was reported that Begin spent more than eight hours Tuesday briefing the parliament's defense and foreign affairs committee after consulting with delega-tion leaders in Washington.

State Department press officer George Sherman refused to discuss the nature of the issues that remain unresolved, but he hinted at what they might be when he refused to say whether progress has been made on what he has called the "side talks" at Blair House.

The so-called "side talks" involve the sensitive and intractable issues of the West Bank, including Jerusalem, the Gaza Strip, and the Palestinians who live there. American officials have always resolve than the issues strictly between Israel and Egypt, most of which were resolved at Camp David.

Since Camp David, Egyptian leaders have indicated that they might insist on some progress on the West Bank and Gaza issues before they sign the treaty with Israel.

The two aspects of the Mideast prob-lem were handled in separate frame-works at Camp David. Carter's position has been that while the two parts are not legally linked, a connecttion exists, if only in the minds of the Camp David partic-

The former California governor said he will make his decision next year. In the meantime, he said, there is "more important business" — notably, getting fellow Republicans elected to Congress and the state house.

Election of Republicans in the South Plains and Permian Basin areas will help insure the survival of the nation's two party system, said the leader of the GOP's more conservative wing.

"It is the two party system that is at stake. For 42 of the last 44 years, one party has been calling all the shots, laying down the programs and writing the tax laws. That's not good," he said.

The Republican party, I think, is more in step today with the jority of Americans. What we have always believed in our party the Avalanche-Journal Staff PLAINVIEW - In sharp contrast to last week's heated exchange during a joint public ap-pearance, 19th Congressional District candidates George Bush and Kent Hance amicably quipped about the similarities of their views here Tuesday night.

Asked if the suit might block implementation of the federal energy act, Hill said. "No." He said he would seek a judgment striking out certain provisions.

"We all know we need a national energy policy," Hill said. "I think we've adopted the wrong one. Clements said in a release that was distributed before Hill's news conference had been completed that Hill "has reached new heights of demagoguery." "If John Hill was sincere in his claimed opposition (to the energy bill)," Clements said, "he would have begun working long ago ... to defeat the measure with which Texans are now saddled."

Also, in a speech scheduled for the Retired Officers Association in Texarkana. Clements proposed a "taxpayer's bill of rights" that would ban all income taxes and would allow local taxpayers to reject tax increases by local governments.

He said Texas needs to increase starting teachers' salaries and provide annual salary increases, but he added, "I am absolutely opposed to any immediate, across-the-board pay raise for all teach-

He said he wants to remove 25,000 state employees from the public payroll by retirement, resignation, and other attrition by 1983."

In still another release, Clements said more than 150 student leaders from 52 colleges - including student body presidents at Baylor, Texas Christian University, the University of Texas at El Paso and San Antonio College - are supporting his candidacy.

Heartline

Heartline is a service for senior citizens, its purpose is to answer questions and selve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not an swered in flese columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayten Street, West Alexandria, Ohie 45381. You will receive a prompt repty, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: How do I go about withholding taxes on my Civil Service pension? I have read about writing here and there before, but it seemed so complicated. Isn't there a more simple way?

The simplest and fastest way to withhold taxes from a Civil Service armuity is to contact your local Internal Revenue Service Office and ask for the W-4P tax withholding form. This form asks for your name, address, Social Security number, annuity identification number, amount to be withheld from each pension payment and the signature of the annuitant. This form can be completed and mailed to the payer of your pension.

HEARTLINE: I have an illness and my doctor has ordered some tests to be run on me at the hospital. I am not to be admitted, just be there for a few hours. My doctor needs these tests to determine what is wrong with me. I know my Medicare will pay if I am admitted to the hospital, but will they pay for this? Do I have to send in a claim form for this as I do for my doctor calls? - G.M.

If you go to a hospital for diagnosis or treatment and are not admitted as bed patient, the services you receive are called out-patient hospital services and these tests are covered by Medicare, as long as the doctor orders them. The hospital will take care of the claim forms and will receive their payment from intermediaries, rather than the Medicare carrier which ordinarily handles your medical insurance claims.

If you need more information on Medicare, you can now order our new 1979 edition of Heartline's Guide to Medicare by sending two dollars to 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

HEARTLINE: How much of a reduction in my widow's benefits must I take by drawing Social Security widow's benefits before age 65? - C.P.

If you draw Social Security widow's benefits before age 65, your benefits are reduced 19/40 of 1 percent per month for each month prior to age 65 that you begin drawing Social Security widow's benefits. If your husband never received any Social Security benefits, then your percentage is figured on his unreduced age 65 benefit. If your husband was drawing Social Security benefits at his death, then your widow's benefit percentage is based on the amount of money he was drawing. The following shows the percentage of your husband's benefits you are eligible to receive as a wid-

Age 60 - 71.5 percent of deceased husband's Social Security benefit; age 61 - 77.2 percent of deceased husband's Social Security benefit; age 62 - 82.9 percent of deceased husband's Social Security benefit; age 63 - 88.6 percent of deceased husband's Social Security benefit; age 64 - 94.3 percent of deceased husband's Social Security benefit; age 65 - 100 percent of deceased husband's Social Security benefit or older.

HEARTLINE: Why does Social Security put an earning limitation on people drawing Social Security since the cost of living is so high today? - J.D.

The Social Security cash benefits program is not designed or financed as an annuity plan under which benefits begin at a specified age even if the beneficiary continues to be fully employed. Rather, it is a system of social insurance which provides protection against the risk of loss of income from work because of retirement in old age, disability or death, and against the cost of hospital care for the disabled and at age 65.

Thus, when a loss of income from work occurs because of retirement in old age, disability or because a worker dies, benefits are payable as a partial replacement of the worker's earnings, and the retirement test is the measure used to determine whether such a loss has actually occured.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I am in my late 50s and have been working since I was 13. I recently sold most of the stocks I accumulated in the course of years and lost a lot of money. I, therefore, want to do the right thing with my money in the future.

I still own stocks of two electric utility companies which pay high dividends every three months. When a $3,000 savings certificate I have comes due next month, I am thinking about using approximately $2,200 to buy 100 shares of another utility. This would leave me with $17,000 in savings certificates and about $5,300 in my savings account. What do you think?

A. Without knowing what stocks you sold at a loss, I think you learned a lesson about the dangers of trying to make big profits in the stock market. Granted, it was an expensive lesson. And I'm not trying to grind your nose into the dirt.

The fact that you kept the two good income-producing stocks you named in your letter — the kind that are right for a person in your position — shows that you haven't soured on the stock market. The utility stock you are thinking about buying — although it provides a somewhat lower yield — is also right for you.

So, I would say that you are on the right investment track. Just don't detour into speculations again. With your savings account and savings certificates, you have a solid financial base. The stocks you own and the one you are considering buying produce higher yields than your savings certificates.

As your other savings certificates come due, you could think about putting more money into high-dividend-paying utility common stocks.

Q. You mention "no-load" mutual funds in your column and say that there is no commission charge to investors who buy shares in such funds. I know there is no such thing as a free lunch. Who pays the salaries and expenses for operating a "no-load" fund?

A. The shareholders of the fund. That answer applies to all mutual funds — "no-load" and "load."

A mutual fund, like any other corporation, has operating expenses. Those expenses are listed in each fund's income statement. The income statement is printed in the fund's report to shareholders and prospectus. No secrets. Federal disclosure laws and regulations take care of that. The "load," or commission, charge is a completely different thing. The commission charged when shares of most mutual funds are bought by investors does not go to pay the operating ex-penses of the funds. It goes to the salesmen and other people who are involved in the sale of the shares."No-load" funds, however, sell their shares directly to investors - not through sales organizations and brokerage houses. No salesmen: no commissions. It's as simple as

But all mutual funds have operating expenses.

Q. I am retired and have a few hundred shares of stock I'd like to transfer, in equal amounts, to my son and daughter. How can I do this?

How can I do this?

A. First, write to the "transfer agent" of that company's stock and explain exactly what you have in mind. The transfer agent — usually a big bank whose name is printed on the stock certificate — will send back instructions which will be about as follows. (Details can vary, a bit, from one transfer agent to another.)

Sign your stock certificates on the back, exactly, as your name appears on the front. Have your signature "guaranteed" by either a brokerage house or a commercial bank. Send the certificates, by registered mail, to the transfer agent — with children.

And tell your son and daughter exactly what you paid for the stock. If either of them ever sells the stock, his or her "cost basis" for tax purposes will be your cost or the price of the stock on the date of the gift — whichever is lower.

Absentee voting for the Nov. 7 general election will begin Wednesday and continue through Nov. 3 in the County Clerk's office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Citizens may vote absentee if they are expecting to be absent from the county on election day, are 65 year old or older, or will be unable to attend the polls because of physical condition, religious belief, confinement in jail, or duties as an election clerk or poll watcher.

TEACHERS' FUTURE FUZZY
The American Federation of Teachers fears that more than a million teachers could lose their jobs during the next several years if elementary and high school enrollment decline as much as 15 percent. One bright spot, however, is that schools will need — each year through 1981 — 30,000 to 40,000 new teachers trained to deal with handicapped children. After 1981, that need is expected to remain steady at 15,000 to 20,000 annually.

Congress--Mostly Mixed Bag

AS CONGRESS wound up its 95th session this past weekend with a marathon meeting. Texas residents must have felt as though they had been through it all before.

For more years than most of us want to recall, Texas lawmakers have waited until the waning hours to enact legislation—often bad and mishandled—which would have been better left alone, or refined earlier in the

Congress' record—praised by President Carter as "courageous and constructive"—falls in the same category.

TWO OF THE most important matters which faced the Congress when it convened earlier in the year—an Energy package and tax relief—were left to the final moments to be resolved.

What came out of the "compromises" and last-minute pressure left much to be desired.

The compromise tax package, an $18.7 billion measure which could cut taxes for 65 million couples and individuals next year, still may face the obstacle of White House opposition.

Regardless, it is far less than a proposal offered by the Republicans, under Kemp-Roth sponsorship, which would have let inflation-battered Americans keep even more of their own money. Too, since no change was made in the sharp boost in Social Security levies starting next year, much of the tax relief will be wiped out for the ordinary wage-earner.

ON THE ENERGY package, the most immediate effect will probably be more upward pressure on the cost of living for most Americans.

The energy bill extends federal controls on re-electron natural gas prices through 1985, and if held In far constitutional, puts such curbs for the first dered.

Instead of helping encourage the search for more gas, the measure will only delay such drilling and make the U.S. more reliant on foreign oil imports.

The only good thing to say about the energy measure is that it is not as bad as Mr. Carter would have liked to have made it.

BUT, IF THE administration was stymied somewhat in this area, it made up for it in "slapping the economy and free enterprise system around" in another.

The socialistic Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill was approved, although in watered-down form from its original far-out plan. Put to the wrong use, it, as the minimum wage hike, can be another drag on the nation's economy.

ALSO FOR THE record, it was this Congress which did some other things...
The Senate approved the Panama Canal

treaties, despite the fact that a majority of Americans opposed them.

The FRA extension was approved with

The ERA extension was approved, with heavy White House lobbying, and a plan whereby the states could rescind their ERA votes was rejected.

A major effort was made, and blunted, to pass a so-called labor reform bill, also pushed by the President.

Back on the plus side, a Civil Service reform measure was approved. And if properly implemented it should make it possible to clear up some of the deadwood in the bureaucracy.

Finally, the House and Senate have gone home, many of its members to campaign for re-election and to await the voters' verdict. In far too many cases, it will not be rendered.

AN EDITORIAL:

Terror Still Way Of Life

ONE ERA OF terror has ended. Will there be others?

The statement and the question are prompted by the sentencing of the last two major leaders of the Symbionese Liberation Army, William and Emily Harris.

A court on the West Coast has sentenced the two architects of the SLA two federal prison terms for their roles in the bizarre kidnapping of newspaper heiress Patricia Hurst.

TWO OTHER members of the bloody band which left a trail of death and defiance in California also are serving prison terms. Several other members of the group died in a flaming shootout in Los Angeles.

The SLA and its members from its beginning had sought to rally support for its cause against "the establishment," to seek black support to challenge authority, to bring about a "new order."

Instead, by its inept assassination of a popular black school official, by its defiance of even the most basic of human rights, the organization became an "outlaw" even to other revolutionary groups.

In the meantime, terrorist gangs abroad still have a bloody hand in the affairs of government.

In Italy and France, in Germany and the Netherlands, a motley group of international gangsters still poses a threat to political and business leaders.

Their goal is disruption of constituted authority and a reign bordering on anarchy.

No nation, the U.S. included, can tolerate such a challenge to law and order and survive. The "end of an era" as it applies to the SLA is only one chapter in what could be a long battle.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Liberals Tailor Ethics To Fit Circumstances

WASHINGTON—Unpleasant as it has been in many respects, the wrangle over extension of time for approval of the Equal Rights Amendment has served one highly useful purpose.

This battle has made it clear, once and for all, that American liberalism's vaunted regard for procedural fairness and respect for the rights of others are relics of the distant past.

The name of the game for liberals nowadays is to impose your will on the other guy, and if this involves a blatant violation of the rules, so be it.

LIBERALISM THUS defined amounts to little more than the raw pursuit of power by any means considered necessary.

This theme was implicit, of course, in the very nature of the extension proposal.

Having failed to win sufficient support for the

Having failed to win sufficient support for the ERA in the seven-year period allotted for ratification, backers of the amendment came to Congress and demanded additional time to get the job done.

This despite the fact that no previous amendment has ever taken more than fours years to win ratification, and that the object of the time limit is to insure a "reasonably contemporaneous" set of judgments by the states—a goal torpedoed by allotment of more than a decade to the ratification process.

EVEN THIS BIT of flagrant unfairness was not, however, considered sufficient by proponents.

To help nail down the prospects of one-sided victory, they also demanded that no state which had ever agreed to ratification could change its mind and move to rescind.

They therefore mobilized their forces to defeat the rescission amendment submitted by Sen. Jake Garn of Utah, specifying that in the extra time allotted for ratifications states could also decide to reverse their original approval.

The nation's birth rate has gone up this year, but scientists say it doesn't necessarily indicate a trend. It just shows how bad late-night television has been.

Proponents, and the Senate, said no dice.

In effect, therefore, the backers of the ERA not only demanded an overtime period to allow them to catch up, but added a proviso that in this overtime only they be allowed to score any points.

STATES THAT HAVE previously rejected ERA will be required to vote repeatedly until they approve the amendment through fatigue or change of personnel, but states that have voted to approve a single time are locked into that position forever.

Putting the icing on the cake were the tactics employed by the proponents to get the extension passed, and to make sure that no vote for a rescission would be permitted.

After the Garn amendment was beaten, for example, backers of the ERA bragged that they had arranged for Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri to be sent to Rome as U.S. representative to the transport of Rome Lohn Paul I funeral of Pope John Paul I.

Eagleton is an ERA supporter who nonetheless backed the Garn proposal; thus was the funeral of a Pope employed as a political power gambit.

The Eagleton shuffle was only one of many such maneuvers employed by proponents of the While Sen. James Pearson of Kansas dawdled in New York as a representative to the United Nations and thus was unable to cast his vote in favor of rescission, Sen. Floyd Haskell of Colorado was jetted in to Washington in an Air Force plane to cast his vote with the ERA proponents.

ERA within the Carter administration.

EFFORTS BY THE White House on a number of other fronts were equally intense. All of this was justified by proponents of the extension on the grounds that "there is no time limit on human rights."

In other words—we know we're right, and the idea of fair procedure should not get in the way.

This is the rhetoric of authoritarianism, which seeks to change the rules of the political process at will in order to suit its own convenience.

Few issues have exposed more clearly the intellectual bankruptcy of the liberal position in contemporary politics.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Kemp Versus Jarvis

WASHINGTON—Angry disagreement between two rival leaders of the tax revolt, Howard Jarvis and Rep. Jack Kemp, exploded into a shouting match Oct. 10 in the congressman's office.

The immediate cause was Kemp's objection to the way Jarvis handles endorsements of congressional candidates. He refuses to lend his nowtowering prestige to any candidate who does not back his new federal tax-cut proposal.

The broader disagreement involves opposing views on gearing spending reductions to tax reductions. The Jarvis bill limits federal spending to a flat percentage of gross national product; the Kemp-Roth tax-cut scheme, rejected by Congress this week, argued that revenue is expanded by tax-cut inducement.

ANDREW TULLY:

Now Cut Fat Out!

WASHINGTON—One must be cautiously optimistic about crowd-pleasing Congressional actions in an election year. Once that botheration balloting is done with, our legislators tend to revert to their traditional big-spending habits.

But the "sunset bill" passed by the Senate, 86-1, in the last hours of the 1978 session just might be hailed as the biggest Congressional achievement of the year.

The bill provides for the automatic expiration of all government spending programs every 10 years if they are not re-authorized by Congress. Its backers, led by Sen. Ed Muskle, D-Me., call it a way to allow ineffective programs to lapse, with enormous savings for taxpayers.

SEN. CHARLES Percy, R-Ill., told his colleagues the bill was "a reasoned, sensible response" to the tax revolts across the country, because it makes possible the elimination of government programs that have proved non-productive over the years.

Both business and labor should appreciate inclusion of the Percy amendment extending the bill's application to legislation establishing more regulatory agencies.

In short, Senate passage of the bill put that House on the side of plain people. Its members at last heeded Muskie's frugal New England plea to "stop whining about the cost of government and do something to cut it down to size."

INDEED, THE Senate Appropriation Committee made a start in that direction on the same day by adopting a scaled-down substitute for the $10.1 billion pork-barrel public works bill.

The substitute saves at least $1 billion and fired a shot at the federal bureaucracy by rejecting proposals for 2,300 new jobs in the Army Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation.

At last Congress is lending an ear to its constit-

At last Congress is lending an ear to its constituents. But one hopes it will not stop at the sunset bill, which is a long-term project. There's another action it can take in the next session which would offer more immediate relief.

If the Democratic majority accepts the proposition that even a Republican can come up with a good idea, it can put new pressure on bureaucratic barons to run tighter shops.

THE REPUBLICAN is Laurence Siberman, a lawyer and former undersecretary of labor, deputy attorney general and ambassador to Yugoslavia

He would put those bureaucrat barons on the spot by writing into law that the Office of Management and Budget publicly call for elimination of programs that have proved their relative worthlessness. As Siberman puts it:

"Bureaucrats facing an annual day of reckoning would necessarily devote great efforts to managing existing resources."

Such legislation is in the spirit of the support bill

Such legislation is in the spirit of the sunset bill because it would regularly call Congress' attention to the burmers in the budget. Even the big spenders on Capitol Hill would hesitate to okay programs already exposed as not worth another slice off the taxpayer's hide.

Jeffrey Bell, the former Ronald Reagan aide who upset Sen. Clifford Case in the New Jersey Republican primary, supports the Kemp-Roth concept and refuses to accept the inflexible spending restraints of the Jarvis bill. As a result, Jarvis refused to campaign for or even endorse Bell—assistance badly needed in his uphill race against Democrat Bill Bradley, the former basketball star.

Kemp asked Jarvis to reconsider. That set up

Kemp asked Jarvis to reconsider. That set up the Oct. 10 confrontation between two strong personalities: Kemp, 43, and Jarvis, 76.

Kemp argued that commitment to wholesale spending cuts would alienate one voting bloc after another. Furthermore, he contended that the Jarvis spending commitment is hard, while the linked tax-spending reduction (sponsored by Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia) just passed by the Senate is soft, explaining why only a handful of congressmen have endorsed the Jarvis plan.

Jarvis snapped back that he would support nobody who could not bring himself to slash federal spending. Asked whether Jeff Bell was not incomparably better on the tax-spending issue than Bill Bradley, Jarvis allowed that Bradley was terrible, but refused to budge beyond agreeing to a future meeting with Bell.

BEHIND ALL THE tough White House talk about a Stage II anti-inflation program lies deep foreboding that, no matter what President Carter dishes up in the next few weeks, it will not and cannot work.

This has led to quiet second thoughts at high administration levels. Since inflation has become so intractable, both here and in many industrialized democracies, the President should have delayed Stage II and tried a radical new approach: basic studies of all the economic and political factors that are causing runaway inflation and how they fit together.

"We just do not know the root causes of this inflation," one presidential adviser confides. His worry: that unveiling a new Stage II program will not produce any good results and thus lead to even more disillusion among voters rocked by double-digit inflation. Indeed, some presidential aides fear that disillusion over solving inflation has reached such a point in this country that Stage II has already been discounted.

A footnote: Supporting this concern was the stunning increase in the last wholesale price index reported: the index was up. 9 percent, but its food component roared shead at 1.7 percent. Neither increase had been expected by experts.

POST-CAMP DAVID euphoria inside the White House has been limited by the prospect of President Carter's worst domestic crisis within a few months: a national trucking strike.

Carter's anti-inflation fighters feel the national Teamsters' contract due next March will be the make-or-break test of the new Stage II wage guidelines. If the Teamsters break the ceiling, the United Auto Workers union cannot be expected to obey them. That would set off repercussions among the Steelworkers and others.

The President will push all-out against the Teamsters, but the giant union has been totally uncooperative. That points toward a national strike with far worse economic repercussions than the coal or rail stoppages. It would also make prophets out of those administration anti-inflation advisers now having second thoughts about the political wisdom of moving into a second-stage anti-inflation program without knowing where it will lead.

RHODESIAN PRIME Minnister Ian Smith agonizes that the nation's first biracial election will have a disastrously low voter turnout if it takes place in December, but fears international anger if it is postponed.

There always has been concern that rural black Africans, unfamiliar with voting, would be intimidated by guerrillas into staying home.

Consequently, high white officials close to Smith would like a postponement for a few months, at least until the rainy season ends. But Smith was told here by American friends that a postponement would endanger what public support he has in the US.

The New Right?

AFTER A DECADE of indecision and drift, is the American voter's mood finally jelling? Is he ready to take a stand, do something besides "just

The answers to those questions may determine not only the future of the nation's two major political parties, but the fate of the nation.

There is no question but there is deep unrest across the land. The basic reasons are many—ranging from an ever-soaring cost of living to feeling that "no one in government" is listening.

The pervasive thought is that things keep trying

The pervasive thought is that things keep trying to come apart at the seams, and no one knows how to keep it all together.

IT ISN'T something that has just happened. The feeling of frustration—from a faucet that leaks to an auto that has to be recalled—has taken years to come about.

Joseph Kraft, the columnist, took note of this attitude the other day when he said that although no central theme marked this November's election, one thing did dominate both the election and a national feeling.

He described it as "the coming apart of national consensus." The 1978 election could be a measure of whether consent continues to crumble.

"The term crumbling of consensus," Kraft says, "is an impressionistic generalization. It is easier to feel than to define. It finds its most vivid examples not in politics but in the everyday life of the home, the office and the workplace. It is impossible to date with precision.

IN THE MID-60s, Kraft notes, "what was a relatively well-established order came up against a spirit of (to use a term of the times) confrontation."

"Wives became more assertive in challenging husbands, children in defying parents, students in sassing teachers and workers in resisting orders from the boss.

"The political consequences of that change have been universal. Ins at every level have been increasingly threatened by outs. Legislative leaders have had to concede to the rank and file. Chief executives have been forced to yield to legislatures."

The end result of all this has been a society which all too often has seemed to be adrift in a sea of indecision and lack of direction. Our opinion, not necessarily Kvaft's.

Forces seeking change for whatever reason, including change itself, have exerted power and influence on everything from legislation to lifestyles far beyond their importance and contribution to society.

IN BRIEF, WE have been living in a nation and world bent on seeking "the good life" so zealously that we are now confronted by the challenge of just surviving lenge of just surviving.

Wherein lies the answer? Where and who are those who will point the way? Who will say "Follow me," and be relatively certain the direction is the right one?

Which brings us back to the nitty-gritty. That is, is the American voter ready to take the time and trouble to start charting his own life, being more realistic in choosing those who serve as well as govern? Is he willing to do for himself what he has delegated at great cost, to government?

has delegated, at great cost, to government?

Or, is a vast majority of the citizenry willing to continue to "go along" with 40 years of giving up personal freedom and privacy in exchange for a benevolent Uncle Sam gradually turned into a dictatorial Big Brother?

SOME OBSERVERS claim they see a trend toward a "New Right" developing in America.

ward a "New Right" developing in America.

They cite not only national surveys indicating more and more of the vast middle class moving away from more liberal views, but some recent election results.

Conservatives have won over liberals or moderates in recent primary elections in Massachusetts,

Minnesota and New Jersey. People are expressing "real anger," says Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, who lost a bid for renomination to conservative challenger Edward J. King.

Voter complaints cover a broad range, from forced busing and high taxes to legalized abortions, reverse discrimination and homosexual rights.

The goal of conservative strategists is to mobilize those unhappy over those "gut issues," as well as others, into a nationwide coalition. Although past such efforts have failed, even the liberals are not taking the move lightly.

THE PROBLEMS, and answers, are complex.
As late as August, a Gallup poll showed 43 percent of those contacted terming themselves Conservatives as against only 30 percent Liberals.

Yet, in a 1977 year-end Gallup poll, only 20 percent of those studied classified themselves with the GOP, a drop from 28 percent in 1972 and the lowest total in four decades. By contrast, 49 percent identified themselves with the Demos, the highest since 1965.

Why the seeming contradiction? The answer

Why the seeming contradiction? The answer seems to be that the New Right has opted to pursue its aims outside the traditionally Conservative GOP ranks. New Right spokesmen denounce big government, big business and big labor, all a part of what is seen as "a rigged system" created by Liberal Democratic and Republican politicians and paid for by hard-pressed taxpayers.

The problem, of course, is that since we govern through a two-party system, in the final analysis it is through that system that opinions must become part of government. If the New Right or Conservatives want "a piece of the action," they have a hard choice.

They can continue to follow the bankrupt poli-

They can continue to follow the bankrupt policies of the Liberal wing of a Democratic party which has led the nation down a primrose path of prostituting the principles by which the nation was founded or it can work within the party most closely aligned with its own thinking, organize a completely new party—or "just stand there!"

Congress--Mostly Mixed Bag

AS CONGRESS wound up its 95th session this past weekend with a marathon meeting, Texas residents must have felt as though they had been through it all before.

For more years than most of us want to recall, Texas lawmakers have waited until the waning hours to enact legislation-often bad and mishandled-which would have been better left alone, or refined earlier in the

Congress' record-praised by President Carter as "courageous and constructive" -falls in the same category.

TWO OF THE most important matters which faced the Congress when it convened earlier in the year-an Energy package and tax relief-were left to the final moments to be resolved.

What came out of the "compromises" and last-minute pressure left much to be desired.

The compromise tax package, an $18.7 billion measure which could cut taxes for 65 million couples and individuals next year, still may face the obstacle of White House opposition.

Regardless, it is far less than a proposal offered by the Republicans, under Kemp-Roth sponsorship, which would have let inflationbattered Americans keep even more of their own money. Too, since no change was made in the sharp boost in Social Security levies starting next year, much of the tax relief will be wiped out for the ordinary wage-earner.

ON THE ENERGY package, the most immediate effect will probably be more upward pressure on the cost of living for most

The energy bill extends federal controls on constitutional, puts such curbs for the first time on gas produced and consumed within the same state.

Instead of helping encourage the search for more gas, the measure will only delay such drilling and make the U.S. more reliant on foreign oil imports.

The only good thing to say about the energy measure is that it is not as bad as Mr. Carter would have liked to have made it.

BUT, IF THE administration was stymied somewhat in this area, it made up for it in 'slapping the economy and free enterprise system around" in another.

The socialistic Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill was approved, although in watered-down form from its original far-out plan. Put to the wrong use, it, as the minimum wage hike, can be another drag on the nation's economy

ALSO FOR THE record, it was this Congress which did some other things...

The Senate approved the Panama Canal treaties, despite the fact that a majority of Americans opposed them.

The ERA extension was approved, with heavy White House lobbying, and a plan whereby the states could rescind their ERA votes was rejected.

A major effort was made, and blunted, to pass a so-called labor reform bill, also pushed by the President.

Back on the plus side, a Civil Service reform measure was approved. And if properly implemented it should make it possible to clear up some of the deadwood in the bureaucracy.

Finally, the House and Senate have gone home, many of its members to campaign for re-election and to await the voters' verdict. natural gas prices through 1985, and if held In far too many cases, it will not be ren-

Terror Still Way Of Life

ONE ERA OF terror has ended. Will there be others?

The statement and the question are prompted by the sentencing of the last two major leaders of the Symbionese Liberation Army, William and Emily Harris.

A court on the West Coast has sentenced the two architects of the SLA two federal prison terms for their roles in the bizarre kidnapping of newspaper heiress Patricia

TWO OTHER members of the bloody band which left a trail of death and defiance in California also are serving prison terms. Several other members of the group died in a flaming shootout in Los Angeles.

The SLA and its members from its beginning had sought to rally support for its cause against "the establishment," to seek black support to challenge authority, to bring about a "new order." Instead, by its inept assassination of a popular black school official, by its defiance of even the most basic of human rights, the organization became an "outlaw" even to other revolutionary groups. In the meantime, terrorist gangs abroad still have a bloody hand in the affairs of government.

In Italy and France, in Germany and the Netherlands, a motley group of international gangsters still poses a threat to political and business leaders.

Their goal is disruption of constituted authority and a reign bordering on anarchy.

No nation, the U.S. included, can tolerate such a challenge to law and order and survive. The "end of an era" as it applies to the SLA is only one chapter in what could be a long battle.

Liberals Tailor Ethics To Fit Circumstances

WASHINGTON-Unpleasant as it has been in many respects, the wrangle over extension of time for approval of the Equal Rights Amendment has served one highly useful purpose.

This battle has made it clear, once and for all, that American liberalism's vaunted regard for procedural fairness and respect for the rights of others are relics of the distant past.

The name of the game for liberals nowadays is to impose your will on the other guy, and if this involves a blatant violation of the rules, so be it.

LIBERALISM THUS defined amounts to little more than the raw pursuit of power by any means considered necessary. This theme was implicit, of course, in the very nature of the extension proposal. Having failed to win sufficient support for the ERA in the seven-year period allotted for ratification, backers of the amendment came to Congress and demanded additional time to get the job done. This despite the fact that no previous amendment has ever taken more than fours years to win ratification, and that the object of the time limit is to insure a "reasonably contemporaneous" set of judgments by the states—a goal torpedoed by allotment of more than a decade to the ratifica-

EVEN THIS BIT of flagrant unfairness was not, however, considered sufficient by propo-

To help nail down the prospects of one-sided victory, they also demanded that no state which had ever agreed to ratification could change its mind and move to rescind.

They therefore mobilized their forces to defeat the rescission amendment submitted by Sen. Jake Garn of Utah, specifying that in the extra time allotted for ratifications states could also decide to reverse their original approval.

The nation's birth rate has gone up this year, but scientists say it doesn't necessarily indicate a trend. It just shows how bad late-night television

Proponents, and the Senate, said no dice.
In effect, therefore, the backers of the ERA not only demanded an overtime period to allow them to catch up, but added a proviso that in this overtime only they be allowed to score any points.

STATES THAT HAVE previously rejected ERA will be required to vote repeatedly until they approve the amendment through fatigue or change of personnel, but states that have voted to approve a single time are locked into that posi-

Putting the icing on the cake were the tactics employed by the proponents to get the extension passed, and to make sure that no vote for a rescission would be permitted.

After the Garn amendment was beaten, for example, backers of the ERA bragged that they had arranged for Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri to be sent to Rome as U.S. representative to the funeral of Pope John Paul I.

Eagleton is an ERA supporter who nonetheless backed the Garn proposal; thus was the funeral of a Pope employed as a political power gambit. The Eagleton shuffle was only one of many such maneuvers employed by proponents of the ERA within the Carter administration. While Sen. James Pearson of Kansas dawdled in New York as a representative to the United Nations and thus was unable to cast his vote in favor of rescission, Sen. Floyd Haskell of Colorado was jetted in to Washington in an Air Force plane to cast his vote with the ERA proponents. EFFORTS BY THE White House on a number of other fronts were equally intense. All of this was justified by proponents of the extension on the grounds that "there is no time limit on human rights." In other words-we know we're right, and the idea of fair procedure should not get in the way.

This is the rhetoric of authoritarianism, which seeks to change the rules of the political process at will in order to suit its own convenience. Few issues have exposed more clearly the intellectual bankruptcy of the liberal position in connporary politics.

Kemp Versus Jarvis

WASHINGTON-Angry disagreement between two rival leaders of the tax revolt, Howard Jarvis and Rep. Jack Kemp, exploded into a shouting match Oct. 10 in the congressman's office. The immediate cause was Kemp's objection to the way Jarvis handles endorsements of congressional candidates. He refuses to lend his nowtowering prestige to any candidate who does not back his new federal tax-cut proposal.

The broader disagreement involves opposing views on gearing spending reductions to tax reductions. The Jarvis bill limits federal spending to a flat percentage of gross national product; the Kemp-Roth tax-cut scheme, rejected by Congress this week, argued that revenue is expanded by tions in an election year. Once that botheration balloting is done with, our legislators tend to revert to their traditional big-spending habits. But the "sunset bill" passed by the Senate, 86-in the last hours of the 1978 session just might be hailed as the biggest Congressional achievement of the year.

The bill provides for the automatic expiration of all government spending programs every 10 years if they are not re-authorized by Congress. Its backers, led by Sen. Ed Muskle, D-Me., call it a way to allow ineffective programs to lapse, with enormous savings for taxpayers.

SEN. CHARLES Percy, R-III., told his colleagues the bill was "a reasoned, sensible response" to the tax revolts across the country, because it makes possible the elimination of government programs that have proved non-productive over the years. Both business and labor should appreciate inclusion of the Percy amendment extending the bill's application to legislation establishing more regulatory agencies. In short, Senate passage of the bill put that House on the side of plain people. Its members at last heeded Muskie's frugal New England plea to stop whining about the cost of government and do something to cut it down to size.

INDEED, THE Senate Appropriation Committee made a start in that direction on the same day by adopting a scaled-down substitute for the $10.1 billion pork-barrel public works bill.

The substitute saves at least $1 billion and fired shot at the federal bureaucracy by rejecting proposals for 2,300 new jobs in the Army Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation.

At last Congress is lending an ear to its constituents. But one hopes it will not stop at the sunset bill, which is a long-term project. There's another action it can take in the next session which would offer more immediate relief.

If the Democratic majority accepts the proposi-tion that even a Republican can come up with a good idea, it can put new pressure on bureaucratic barons to run tighter shops.

THE REPUBLICAN is Laurence Siberman, a lawyer and former undersecretary of labor, deputy attorney general and ambassador to Yugoslavi-

Such legislation is in the spirit of the sunset bill because it would regularly call Congress' attention to the burmers in the budget. Even the big spenders on Capitol Hill would hesitate to okay programs already exposed as not worth another

Jeffrey Bell, the former Ronald Reagan aide who upset Sen. Clifford Case in the New Jersey Republican primary, supports the Kemp-Roth concept and refuses to accept the inflexible spending restraints of the Jarvis bill. As a result, Jarvis refused to campaign for or even endorse Bell-assistance badly needed in his uphill race against Democrat Bill Bradley, the former basketball star. Kemp asked Jarvis to reconsider. That set up the Oct. 10 confrontation between two strong personalities: Kemp. 43, and Jarvis. 76.

Kemp argued that commitment to wholesale spending cuts would alienate one voting bloc after another. Furthermore, he contended that the Jarvis spending commitment is hard, while the linked tax-spending reduction (sponsored by Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia) just passed by the Senate is soft, explaining why only a handful of congress-men have endorsed the Jarvis plan.

Jarvis snapped back that he would support nobody who could not bring himself to slash federal spending. Asked whether Jeff Bell was not inomparably better on the tax-spending issue than Bill Bradley, Jarvis allowed that Bradley was terrible, but refused to budge beyond agreeing to a future meeting with Bell.

BEHIND ALL THE tough White House talk about a Stage II anti-inflation program lies deep foreboding that, no matter what President Carter dishes up in the next few weeks, it will not and cannot work.

This has led to quiet second thoughts at high administration levels. Since inflation has become so intractable, both here and in many industrial-ized democracies, the President should have delayed Stage II and tried a radical new approach: basic studies of all the economic and political factors that are causing runaway inflation and how

"We just do not know the root causes of this inflation," one presidential adviser confides. His worry: that unveiling a new Stage II program will not produce any good results and thus lead to even more disillusion among voters rocked by double-digit inflation. Indeed, some presidential aides fear that disillusion over solving inflation has reached such a point in this country that Stage II has already been discounted.

A footnote: Supporting this concern was the stunning increase in the last wholesale price index reported: the index was up .9 percent, but its food component roared ahead at 1.7 percent. Neither increase had been expected by experts.

POST-CAMP DAVID euphoria inside the White House has been limited by the prospect of President Carter's worst domestic crisis within a few months: a national trucking strike.

Carter's anti-inflation fighters feel the national Teamsters' contract due next March will be the make-or-break test of the new Stage II wage guidelines. If the Teamsters break the ceiling, the United Auto Workers union cannot be expected to obey them. That would set off repercussions among the Steelworkers and others.

The President will push all-out against the Teamsters, but the giant union has been totally uncooperative. That points toward a national strike with far worse economic repercussions than the coal or rail stoppages. It would also make prophets out of those administration antiinflation advisers now having second thoughts about the political wisdom of moving into a second-stage anti-inflation program without knowing where it will lead. .

RHODESIAN PRIME Minnister Ian Smith agonizes that the nation's first biracial election will have a disastrously low voter turnout if it takes place in December, but fears international anger

There always has been concern that rural black Africans, unfamiliar with voting, would be intimidated by guerrillas into staying home.

Consequently, high white officials close to Smith would like a postponement for a few months, at least until the rainy season ends. But Smith was told here by American friends that a postponement would endanger what public support he has in the U.S.

JAY HARRIS: Right?

AFTER A DECADE of indecision and drift, is the American voter's mood finally jelling? Is he ready to take a stand, do something besides "just

The answers to those questions may determine not only the future of the nation's two major political parties, but the fate of the nation.

There is no question but there is deep unrest across the land. The basic reasons are many -ranging from an ever-soaring cost of living to feeling that "no one in government" is listening. The pervasive thought is that things keep trying to come apart at the seams, and no one knows

IT ISN'T something that has just happened. The feeling of frustration-from a faucet that leaks to an auto that has to be recalled-has taken years to come about.

how to keep it all together.

Joseph Kraft, the columnist, took note of this attitude the other day when he said that although no central theme marked this November's election, one thing did dominate both the election and a national feeling.

He described it as "the coming apart of national consensus." The 1978 election could be a measure of whether consent continues to crumble.

"The term crumbling of consensus," Kraft says, "is an impressionistic generalization. It is easier to feel than to define. It finds its most vivid examples not in politics but in the everyday life of the home, the office and the workplace. It is impossible to date with precision."

IN THE MID-60s. Kraft notes, "what was a relatively well-established order came up against a spirit of (to use a term of the times) confronta-

"Wives became more assertive in challenging husbands, children in defying parents, students in sassing teachers and workers in resisting orders from the boss.

The political consequences of that change have been universal. Ins at every level have been increasingly threatened by outs. Legislative leaders have had to concede to the rank and file Chief executives have been forced to yield to leg-

The end result of all this has been a society which all too often has seemed to be adrift in a sea of indecision and lack of direction. Our opinion, not necessarily Kraft's.

Forces seeking change for whatever reason, including change itself, have exerted power and influence on everything from legislation to lifestyles far beyond their importance and contribution to society.

IN BRIEF, WE have been living in a nation and world bent on seeking "the good life" so zealously that we are now confronted by the challenge of just surviving.

Wherein lies the answer? Where and who are those who will point the way? Who will say "Follow me," and be relatively certain the direction is the right one?

Which brings us back to the nitty-gritty. That is.

is the American voter ready to take the time and trouble to start charting his own life, being more realistic in choosing those who serve as well as govern? Is he willing to do for himself what he has delegated, at great cost, to government? Or, is a vast majority of the citizenry willing to continue to "go along" with 40 years of giving up personal freedom and privacy in exchange for a benevolent Uncle Sam gradually turned into a dictatorial Big Brother? SOME OBSERVERS claim they see a trend toward a "New Right" developing in America. They cite not only national surveys indicating more and more of the vast middle class moving away from more liberal views, but some recent election results.

Conservatives have won over liberals or moderates in recent primary elections in Massachusetts, Minnesota and New Jersey. People are expressing "real anger," says Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, who lost a bid for renomination to conservative challenger Edward J. King.

Voter complaints cover a broad range, from forced busing and high taxes to legalized abortions, reverse discrimination and homosexual

The goal of conservative strategists is to mobilize those unhappy over those "gut issues," as well as others, into a nationwide coalition. Although past such efforts have failed, even the liberals are not taking the move lightly.

THE PROBLEMS, and answers, are complex. As late as August, a Gallup poll showed 43 percent of those contacted terming themselves Conservatives as against only 30 percent Liberals.

Yet, in a 1977 year-end Gallup poll, only 20 per-cent of those studied classified themselves with the GOP, a drop from 28 percent in 1972 and the lowest total in four decades. By contrast, 49 percent identified themselves with the Demos, the highest since 1965.

Why the seeming contradiction? The answer seems to be that the New Right has opted to pursue its aims outside the traditionally Conservative GOP ranks. New Right spokesmen denounce big government, big business and big labor, all a part what is seen as "a rigged system" created by Liberal Democratic and Republican politicians and paid for by hard-pressed taxpayers. The problem, of course, is that since we govern through a two-party system, in the final analysis come part of government. If the New Right or Conservatives want "a piece of the action," they have a hard choice. They can continue to follow the bankrupt policies of the Liberal wing of a Democratic party which has led the nation down a primrose path of prostituting the principles by which the nation was founded or it can work within the party most

Korchnoi On Ropes In Match

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Chess experts said Tuesday that champion Anatoly Karpov appeared to be in a position to finish of challenger Viktor Korchnoi in the 32nd game of the world chess championship and clinch the $350,-000 winner's prize.

Karpov, defending the title for the first time since he won it in 1975, had a positional advantage and several threatening pieces when Korchnoi sealed his 41st

Aside from the better position, Karpov had the advantage in pawns, one of which is so advanced that it will be very difficult for Korchnoi to prevent it from being promoted to a queen.

"It's very difficult for Korchnoi," said British grandmaster Raymond Keene.

"It's a lost game for him." Each player has won five games and GENERAL TENDENCIES: Poor judgment is in the works where matters of a financial nature are concerned. Double check all facts and figures. Concentrate on making sure your motivations are aboveboard.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good day to become involved in financial dealings since you are not thinging very clearly at this time. Avoid social engagements which could prove disappointing.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Forget about trivial matters today since you are inclined to be confused. Plan to rest more and forget recreation that could prove tiring and disappointing. Go over financial accounts, though.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A personal worry requires some time and thought or you could make the wrong decision. Take care of chores and estabish better order around you. Concentrate on pleasant things. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't expect friends to help you with plans they do not understand, so work alone for best results. Avoid socializing which could be a waste of time now.

LEC (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show you are a conscientious citizen and you gain the favor of bigwigs now. Don't argue over a credit affair or you get into trouble. Take more interest in civic affairs.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Fine time for studying new methods for advancing in your career, but don't take any action as yet. Forget about going off on LIBRA (Sept. 23 to-Oct...22) Be meticulous in handling obligations and you make progress, relieve tensions. Avoid getting into an argument with a loved one. Meet temptation with silence and all is fine. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Steer clear of partners as much as you can now since there could be friction. An annoying civic matter arises, but there is little that you can do about it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care of minor tasks now and leave the important ones for later. Try to maintain harmony with fellow workers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't put a strain on your budget by overspending for amusement. A wrong word to a loved one could cause trouble. Make sure business affairs are in good order.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be considerate at home and all goes smoothly there. Be tactful in getting rid of whatever is not to your liking. Don't neglect to pay pressing bills.

PICES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Exercise caution in motion of all kinds. A little gift to an associate could do wonders to further ingratiate yourself in his good IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will tax the patience of both parents and teachers, but once a lesson is learned, it will never be forgotten and your progeny will be ahead of others in later years because of the thoroughness in this nature. Slant education along financial lines.

partment Blaze Kills Eight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Screams pierced the pre-dawn silence and roused neighbors across the street, but no one was able to reach the eight members of one family trapped in a burning apartment. All eight died in the fire Tuesday that officials say might have been arson.

They were screaming to me but what was I going to do? I couldn't stand to sobbed Maria Marrero, a neigh-

The dead included four teen-age girls and their parents, and two young men, the dead woman's children by a previous marriage, said Dr. Marvin Aronson, city

Two of the victims jumped from the burning building, located in a predominantly Hispanic and black neighborhood near the Philadelphia Art Museum, fire

Witnesses reported smelling a strong odor of gasoline, and fire officials and homicide detectives were investigating possible arson.

A second family who lived in the threestory building - a mother and father and their six children whose last name is Aponti - escaped without injury, said Deputy Fire Commissioner Joseph

"They were screaming in Spanish, 'Call the fire department! Call the fire department! It was a shame. I was just standing there and I couldn't help," said Zorada Marrero, 26, Mrs. Marrero's daughter, who was awakened by the pleas for help. The women live in separate apartments across the street from the gutted build-

Miss Marrero said the blaze spread so quickly the entire building was in flames in about four minutes. She said she reported the fire to police and seconds later noticed a member of the Aponti family running down the street in his underwear to pull the fire alarm.

She and other women on the block wept openly as the victims, wrapped in yellow body bags, were removed with a fire department cherry picker. Aronson tentatively identified the vic-tims as Santo Diaz, 50; his wife, Elba, 46; their daughters, Juanita, 17, Martha, 16, Dianne, 15, and Edna, 14: and Luis Rivera. 20. and Harold Rivera. 19.

Lucy Aponti, one of the survivors, said her mother found a gasoline can on the first floor of the house - which was converted to two apartments - after the building was on fire and threw it outside.

Carmen Guzman, 58, who lives across the street, said Julia Aponti, the mother of the family who escaped, told her there was "some gas in the hallway. I don't know if that was gasoline. She just said ran from the house "screaming in Spanish 'There were two bombs. One in the hallway and one on the step," said another neighbor, Patricia Clayton, 20.

A male member of the Aponti family

Fire officials would not comment on Manuel Rolon, 21, a nephew of Mrs. Aponti, said he believed the fire was race-related. "They don't want us in this neighborhood, they're trying to get rid of us. There's so much racial hate and prejudice in this neighborhood right now," he said, tears streaming down his cheeks. The burned house was owned by the Philadelphia Housing Authority. Longtime residents charge that renovations by middle-class people are driving up rents and taxes in their neighborhoods, forcing them to leave.

On Oct. 5, 1975, four members of the Radames Santiago family and a visiting child died when their home in the city's Feltonville section was firebombed.

Cleveland Schools Open

By The Associated Press

Cleveland's 100,000 public school students - kept from classes because of a lengthy strike - opened their 1978-1979 school year Tuesday. But job actions by school employees continued in Memphis. Wilmington, Del., and Benton Harbor,

Representatives of Memphis's 5,000 striking teachers and the school board agreed to resume bargaining, but the teachers said that if strike leaders were jailed for contempt of court they would not bargain. A judge has found 38 teacher leaders in contempt.

Classes in the 113,000-studest district were held, however. About 64,000 students in Wilmington. where the New Castle County school district was created to integrate the city core and suburban schools, were without their regular teachers Tuesday. Officials said at least 20 secondary schools were unable to open and they were uncertain how many buildings would have classes

Among issues that prompted the strike was pay disparity among teachers from the merged districts.

Benton Harbor school officials warned 250 striking non-certified school workers they would be fired if they did not return to work Thursday.

Bus drivers and cafeteria and maintenance workers walked off their jobs Monday in the 9,700-student district.

Cleveland's strike ended Thursday and students reported for orientation sessions Tuesday. Regular classes were to begin

The State Controlling Board approved the district's request that it be able to use some of a $20.7 million emergency loan to pay the 8 percent pay increase the six unions accepted.

Also Monday, U.S. District Sudge Frank J. Battisti said Cleveland could close 26 of its 182 buildings without regard to the racial make-up.

Vanguard Of Cranes Spotted

AUSTWELL (AP) - About a dozen whooping cranes were spotted Tuesday at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge near here, the first of the rare birds to check in for the winter.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service flew a single-engine plane low over the marshy coastal bend and spotted the birds.

We found about 12," said refuge manager Frank Johnson. "We didn't expect that many this soon. They probably came in Sunday, on a cold front that moved through the area.

The wild crane flock contains 77 of the rare birds, including seven hatched last summer in Canada. However, none of the youngsters had arrived yet.

"The young birds usually are the last to arrive, by Thanksgiving," Johnson said. These birds are mostly those older ones we banded last year.

The cranes will pair off, and spend the winter feeding in the marshes and fields of grain planted for protected birds. "They mostly eat crabs, small clams and marine worms," Johnson said. By spring, the birds will leave South Texas for the long flight back to Canada. They'll leave by April 15th - about income tax time." Johnson said. The SHERICK Wants You

Powell said he gave the suspect $1,250 in jewelry and some loose change. The bandit then reportedly agreed to let his victim go home and get more money. Once at Powell's residence, Powell was able to gain control of the robber's knife and get an unloaded tear gas gun.

Powell said he was able to recover all his jewelry and drive the bandit back to his apartment. He then notified police.

City Presents Case At Rate Hearing

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

Avalanche-Journal Staff
At a continuation Tuesday of the Lubbock City Council hearing on the rates charged Pioneer Natural Gas Company's industrial customers, City Attorney John Ross attempted to show the utility's rate base and requested rate of return are excessively high.

The city will resume presenting its side of the rate case on Nov. 10 and PNG attorneys will cross-examine city witnesses on Nov. 17. City officials were hopeful, but not optimistic, the hearing could end on the 17th.

City rate analyst Ervin Looney testified he did not think the inclusion of $1.65 million of construction work in progress by PNG in the rate base is necessary for the utility "to raise capital or to prevent the impairment of Pioneer's service."

Looney said gas company representa-tives had not justified that the inclusion is necessary under Railroad Commission rules, but had offered only "general assertions.

The analyst also discounted the gas company request for $5.1 million in working capital above what is invested in the company's physical plant.

Looney said the utility's cash is "adequate to meet its cash outflow" and said there is "no requirement for an additional amount to be included."

The money collected by the utility from consumers in anticipation of future taxes also should be reduced from the rate base, Looney said. 'The three items would represent a significant amount of money would they not?" Ross asked.

"It would," replied Looney, adding "all (three) items should be eliminated from the rate base. Under Ross' questioning, Looney also began chipping away at the gas compa-ny's suggested rate of return.

He objected to the company's stated cost of capital because those costs attributable to PNG are not accounted for separately from those for PNG's parent company, Pioneer Corporation. Looney suggested the utility was using $95 million in the cost of capital which "had nothing whatsoever to do with the utility division" of Pioneer Corporation. Stockholders, not consumers, should bear the cost for a management decision to borrow numerous smaller amounts of money rather than to borrow a large amount at lower interest rates, he said The net effect, Looney said, is an "exceptionally expensive debt structure for the company" with an average overall interest rate of 8.74 percent — "very close to what it would be if all the debt were issued today," he added.

Mindszenty secluded himself in the U.S. Embassy for 15 years and Pope Paul forced the prelate, who had become a symbol of anti-communism, to leave Budapest in 1974.

The cardinal's removal did away with a major stumbling block to Vatican-communist relations, but it also drew fire from conservative Catholics who viewed it as a sell-out.

The only communist country ever condemned by name by Pope Paul was Albania, which declared itself the world's first atheist state. Even in the case of China, Pope Paul never abandoned hope for improved relations.

Vatican observers said the lack of a pontiff during the recent visit to Rome of Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua may have been a missed opportunity for talks.

The Polish primate, Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski, helped prepare the unprecedented visit of Polish chief Edward Gierek to the Vatican last December. In their meeting, the pope and Gierek pledged themselves to aid church-state cooperation within Poland. But the church in Poland must still survive under stress. Restrictions on the printing of religious textbooks and the construction of churches remain.

In his Christmas message last year, Cardinal Wyszynski criticized totalitarian regimes, but said Poles had more freedom than people in some communist countries.

The former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Krakow, Poland, also took a trip outside Vatican walls on his first full day as leader of the world's 700 million Catholics.

In a televised sermon delivered under Michelangelo's fresco "The Last Judgment" in the Sistine Chapel, the pope pledged to carry on the church reforms launched by the 1962-65 Second Vatican Council and to follow the guidelines laid down by Paul VI and John Paul I.

A Polish government spokesman, Kazimierz Kakol, said passport restrictions would be eased to allow a "large number" of Poles to travel to Rome for the installation. He did not say how many visas would be granted. Poles normally have to wait three to four weeks to obtain a travel visa.

In his his first papal sermon, the 58-year-old pontiff warned that the "general criteria of loyalty to the Vatican Council" must not affect loyalty to the basic doctrinal truths of the church. This was perhaps an indication of that he would pursue a conservative stance on such matters as the church's ban on artificial contraception, the ordination of women and the cyclical Humanae Vitae when he was archbishop of Krakow.

Clad in the traditional papal robes of brilliant white satin and a red skullcap, the pope celebrated Mass jointly with the cardinals who elected him Monday. He delivered a half hour sermon in Latin and then released the 110 men from the secret conclave where they had been sequestered since Saturday afternoon. Less than 24 hours after his election, John Paul left the Vatican to visit Polish Bishop Andre-Marie Deskur, 54, head of the Pontifical Commission for Social Communication. Deskur was taken to a hospital about two miles from the Vatican Friday after suffering a heart attack.

Few Differences Arise At Bush-Hance Rally

The exchange marked the first time in this general election campaign that the candidates reduced their politics to personal issues. However, none of the accusations that Hance levelled at Bush were repeated during the Democrat's brief address to the Plainview audience.

And Bush, who angrily refuted the charges last week, made no reference to them Tuesday.

In response to a question about party allegiance, Hance told the audience that his party membership would mean "I will be on the court where the action is made. He (Bush) won't be on the court. "To have the input, you need to be where the action is," the Democrat said.

The only advantage of the energy legislation is that it is so "hopelessly complicated" that it probably will "fall on its face," he said.

Reagan said that under the energy plan, the government will have to set up and regulate as many as 23 categories of natural gas alone.

"The answer to the energy problem is for government to get out of the way and turn the energy industry loose" to explore for more oil and gas and seek new sources, he said.

Nuclear power, Reagan continued, is "the only chance we have of not coming to serious power shortages in the next 10 to 15 years." But because of government red tape, he said, it takes four times as long to build a nuclear power plant in the United States that in other countries.

"At the time (of the constitutional convention) I questioned why initiatives and referendums were even necessary,"

"Even to this day I wonder what's wrong with Texas," he said, adding voters in many Texas cities have initiative and referendum powers already but "I have yet to hear of any problems."

Short also took the defensive on his campaign financing. "Some things have been said about how I got enough money to gain the cord straight on that once and for all. I mortgaged a half-section of land and made this investment as a loan to my campaign," Short said. "I did this as an investment for the future in the government in which I be-

"Old Fashioned" Campaign
Short classified his campaign as "old fashioned and mostly person-to-person," adding he has campaigned in Lubbock on 46 days since the June 3 run-off.

He predicted he has seen "two to three times more people than any of my opponents" and said he had never quit campaigning since obtaining the nomi sized his state senatorial experience and his agricultural background, which he said is "the most important aspect you can consider in the campaign.

He also said he would, if elected, introduce sunset legislation and would support a constitutional amendment to prohibit federal deficit spending. When asked how they, as freshmen legislators, would make an impact on Congress, Bush and Hance again revealed philisophical party differences. Hance answered by saying he would have to be "well prepared." And, he stressed, most delegates "have had prior experience before going to Washington." Bush replied by returning to the theme of balancing Congress. "If you want a philisophical change in the country, you need balance," he said. And, he added, his "sheer presence" will be a deciding factor.

He also said that his party affiliation would mean that "when they (Congressional party majority members) are wrong, I can oppose them without fear

In almost identical responses, the opponents agreed that they oppose the Equal Rights Amendment, publically funded national health insurance, abandoning funding for the B-1 bomber, federal bi-lingual programs for school students past the third grade, repeal of the Right to Work law, liberal federal funding for abortions, and the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill

When asked whether they favor legislation to limit Congressional terms, Hance unequivocally said no, while Bush expressed tentative opposition.

Hance said the idea "sounds good on the surface" but that it would help urban areas to the detriment of rural areas, which often repeatedly elect legislators who gain valuable seniority.

While he is "not irrevocably opposed to it," Bush said he would "straddle the issue for now." If such legislation were passed, he said, the first step should be limiting the presidency to a one-time,

Lebanese Christian Militias Threatened

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Seven Arab Minister Louis de Guiringaud said Monnations pledged at the end of a three-day summit Tuesday to neutralize the rightwing Christian militias that have been fighting for months against Syrian forces in Lebanon

They also threatened in an eight-point statement to use force if necessary to end collaboration between the Christian militiamen and Israel

The meeting was called by Lebanese President Elias Sarkis to find a way to restore peace to this war-torn country The eight points were largely a reiteration of previous Arab demands for the disarmament of private militias and an end to the radio and press propaganda war waged by the factions. The statement also affirmed the need to preserve Lebanon's unity and independence.

Many Lebanese Dismayed Many Lebanese reacted with dismay and disappointment to the summit re-

"After laboring for three days, all that they have produced is just another wordy statement that means nothing," a political commentator said.

Foreign Minister Fuad Butros told newsmen. "We could have done better." Sarkis called for the conference specifically to consolidate the fragile, nine-dayold cease-fire between Syrian troops of the Arab League peacekeeping force in Lebanon and the Lebanese Christians.

Sarkis said he hoped the summit participants - Syria, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Sudan, Kuwait and Qatar - would agree on a formula to solve the basic problems that plunged Lebanon into civil war four years ago. That conflict, which pitted leftist Moslems and Palestinians against the Christians, ended in November, 1976 when the Arab League force, which includes some 26,000 Syrians, came to Lebanon.

Fighting To Disarm

The Syrians saved the Christians from defeat in the civil war, but since February have been fighting to disarm them. More than 1,200 Christians were killed in the 10-day Syrian artillery and rocket attack in Beirut that ended with the cease-

"I hope that the ... agreements will not suffer the same fate of all previous Arab agreements on Lebanon that have yet to be implemented," said Pierre Gemayel, leader of the rightist Christian Phalange Party, the group with the largest militia organization

Butros told reporters the communique contained recommendations to Sarkis. not resolutions which "necessarily entail executive power to implement them." Plan Speculated

He refused to give details of a reported security plan presented to the conference by Sarkis. Reports said the plan envisages the replacement of Syrian troops with soldiers from an enlarged Saudi Arabian contingent at confrontation points along the battle-line dividing Christian and Moslem sections of Beirut.

plan guarantees adequate action to end clashes and future bloodshed, and it will also enable displaced persons to return to their homes," Butros said, without elaboration.

Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Saud el-Faisal said the conference considered it "inadvisable to increase the number of Saudi Arabian troops under the circumstances." The Arab League force also consists of small units from Saudi Arabia, the UAE and Sugan. The other conference participants help finance the army.

Camille Chamoun, the overall Christian leader and a former Lebanese president, said the summit produced "nothing but talks "

Observers noted the eight points did not refer to an extension of the mandate of the Syrian-dominated Arab League force. One of the eight points, however, spoke of the "exact, accurate and thorough application of the Rivadh and Cairo summit resolutions." which created the Arab deterrent force.

The Christians have refused to submit to Syrian control because the Syrians have done nothing to disarm the Lebanese Moslems or Palestinian guerrillas. The Christians charge the Arab League force is a Syrian occupation army and have turned to the Israelis for arms, other supplies and military support.

DeLaGarza told the crowd, comprised mostly of Crosby, Garza, Lynn and Floyd County Democrats, that Stenholm had expressed an interest in serving with him on the agriculture committee. "There's nothing I'd like to see better than to see Charlie on the agriculture committee," DeLaGarza said. "If my friend Charlie wants to be on the agriculture committee, I'll get him on that committee," the 14-year Con-

Woodpeckers chew up thousands of poles each year, according to utility company statistics. They cause more damage than wind, lightning and ice storms

Federal law protects the chisel-beaked birds, but nobody protects the poles. Now, scientists at Southwest Research Institute think they have an idea. They would like to develop chemically treated poles which would put a bad taste in the woodpeckers' mouths.

That would induce "avoidance behavior," they say. SRI is conducting the anti-woodpecker research for six rural electric coopera-tives covering 59 counties in South Central Texas. The Guadalupe Valley Electric Cooperative of Gonzales, a managing member of the groups who commissioned the study, estimates that woodpeckers damage more than 67,000 poles a year in its nine-county area alone, at a cost of $75,-

The birds probe the wood for food and excavate large cavities for roosting or

The project manager said the chemicals would be tested by observing reactions to golden-fronted woodpeckers sampling sections of wooden utility poles placed in their cages.

The scientists are also considering wrapping poles with heavy wire mesh or applying materials to make the poles too slick for a bird to cling to

Output Boosted By Industry In September

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite high interest rates and inflation, the nation's economy continues to perform at a pace that makes a recession unlikely in the immediate future, the latest government statistics showed Tuesday.

The government said output of the na tion's industries rose by a solid 0.5 percent in September, the same as in August, and was 6.5 percent ahead of a year earlier. Output advanced 0.7 percent in both June and July. Since industry is already producing at near capacity, the September production report was a sign the economy is continuing to grow at the moderate rate the Carter administration now considers desirable, about 3.5 percent a year. The Federal Reserve Board said production rose during the month for business equipment, construction supplies, and materials, although the transportation problems caused by the railroad strike forced a cutback in auto output. Some slowing in economic growth from the more rapid rates earlier in the year is considered necessary by the ad-ministration to help restrain inflation. But it is trying to apply the brakes gently enough to keep from pushing the economy into a recession. Tuesday's figures seems to indicate the strategy is working. Not only is production continuing to expand, but business and retail sales activity, homebuilding and auto production remain at satis-

However, the latest economic statistics cover the period before the most recent round of interest rate hikes, which have pushed the stock market into a tailspin. The Federal Reserve Board increased its key discount rate Friday to a record 8.5 percent, and banks raised their minimum lending rates to 10 percent last Some economists and business leaders say the steady increase in interest rates business activity to a near halt, causing a recession sometime next year. But with production high, sales up and business inventories generally low, such an outcome is unlikely for the next few

The Federal Reserve Board said industrial production in the July through September quarter expanded at an annual rate of 7.7 percent.

The increase in industrial production in September occurred despite a fall in auto output which contributed to an 0.7 percent decline in production of durable consumer goods, which are goods with a life of more than three years. Produc-tion of durable home goods did increase,

Auto assemblies fell to an annual rate of 8.9 million units from the August rate of 9.4 million units. However, auto sales have continued at near-record levels, so the cutback in production probably was only temporary.

The board said output of non-durable consumer goods rose 0.3 percent in September. Output of business equipment rose 0.6 percent and was 9.3 percent above a year earlier.

Federal Alcohol Report Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) - An estimated 10 million Americans are problem drinkers or alcoholics, and drinking may be to blame for as many as 205,000 deaths a year, federal health officials reported Tuesday.

The risk of death from disease, accident or violence is two to six times greater for the problem drinker than for the population at large, the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism said in its third special report to Con-

But the acting director of the institute said the report also has good news, including statistics showing a decline in deaths from cirrhosis of the liver, a leveling off in per capita alcohol consumption and a rise in the number of alcohol treatment programs.

"As a nation, we seem to be getting a handle on the problem," said Loran D. Archer, the acting director.

The report estimated that drinking problems cost society about $43 billion in 1975 in lost production, medical bills, accidents and other expenses.

Alcohol may be involved in up to onethird of all suicides, half of all murders, half of all traffic deaths and a fourth of all other accidental deaths, the report "Furthermore alcohol is now suspected to be a major factor in child abuse and marital violence," as well as such crimes as rape, the report said.

In addition to the 10 million adult problem drinkers, or 7 percent of all adults, an estimated 3.3 million youths aged 14 to 17 have drinking problems ranging from trouble at school to car accidents often caused by weekend binges. The report says alcohol is the third leading cause of birth defects involving mental retardation and the only prevent able cause of the defects. It also says al-cohol "is indisputably involved in the cause of cancer" as well as contributing to numerous other diseases.

Despite those statistics, the report also said per capita consumption levels, after soaring throughout the 1960s, have held steady at just under 2.7 gallons per person 14 and older annually

Death from cirrhosis of the liver, which increased 37 percent in the 1960s, leveled off in the early 1970s and actually fell 6 percent in 1975. However, cirrhosis remains the sixth-leading cause of death.

The number of programs to treat prob-lem drinkers and alcoholics has increased from 500 in 1973 to nearly 2,400 in 1977. Most are in the private sector, where businesses have realized they can save money by helping drinkers overcome

"The programs appear to be effective," Archer said. "It's kind of a hopeful time. It's a very hopeful disease. Someone can recover and they do recover and they do become productive again."

Archer estimated that 4 million to 5 million of the problem drinkers are "classic alcoholics" who have an increased tolerance and a physical dependency on alcohol

But Archer said alcohol was not a problem for the 80 percent of the drinking population who have less than two drinks a day. He defined a problem drinker as anyone whose drinking was causing health problems or problems on the job, in the home or in social life.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said in a forward to the report that the alcoholic beverage industry should examine its "cur-rent policies and procedures" to try to "lessen the potential ill effects of marketing strategies on youh." The report said

"The evidence is overwhelming," Cali-fano said in a statement, "This report documents the reality that problem drinking is threatening or damaging or destroying the lives of literally tens of millions of Americans."

He promised to announce plans for na-tional action to address those problems

Hill Backers Bring Campaign To Area

A group of municipal and school board elected officials campaigned briefly in Lubbock Tuesday for gubernatorial can-didate John Hill, saying he is "sensitive to local problems."

Glen Hartman, San Antonio mayor pro tem, told The Avalanche-Journal the officials support Hill because he has been "a strong supporter of local governments as opposed to a Washington bu-reaucrat (Republican opponent Bill Cle-ments), who comes in and decides to spend a couple of million dollars to get elected governor."

The group, which includes Childress Mayor Walter Lockhoof, Eagle Pass Mayor Pro Tem Roberto Barrientos, Corpus Christi Councilwoman Ruth Gill, El Paso Alderman Richard Wagner and Eagle Pass School Board Vice President Robert Gonzalez, is stumping a dozen cities on Hill's behalf.

In his appeal to South Plains voters, Hartman said Hill understands the need to develop water resources in this area.

Alcoholic 'Soft Drink' Hit By Nurses

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - The beer manufacturer calls its new product a "not-so-soft drink" but a nurses' group wants it boycotted, saying it could help soda-sipping children grow into beer-guz-

An amber blend of lemon, ginger, and apple flavoring in a malt-flavored base, Chelsea" is being test-marketed by Anheuser-Busch in six markets, including Richmond and Staunton, Va.

Its trouble, from the point of view of the 3.000-member Virginia Nurses Association, is that it contains about one-half of 1 percent alcohol and is packaged to look like premium beer.

What's more, says Mrs. Barbara Bolton, executive director of the association, it forms with a head on it, exactly like a

But, with so little alcohol in it, it can be purchased by children.

Chelsea, however, is expensive for a soft drink - $2 a six-pack - and Anheuser-Busch denies both that it could addict children to alcohol or that it is even aimed at the children's market.

"The irony is that this soft drink is more pure than many others. It's totally natural, has no caffein, less sugar and, in that way, is probably the least harmful on the market today," company spokesman Joe Finnigan said in St. Louis.

Nevertheless, its availability upset the nurses' group chapter in Staunton, a Shenandoah Valley city of 24,500 in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. At the chapter's request, the state association voted last week to urge a boycott wherever Chelsea is being sold.

Anheuser-Busch would not identify the other test markets beyond saying they are in New England, the mid-Atlantic states, the Deep South, Midwest and Far

Mrs. Bolton said Tuesday that the nurses' group fears that drinking Chelsea will condition" kids to consuming beer and other, stronger alcoholic beverages when they grow older.

"It's not a toy and it's not funny to play with, but children have a great habit of pretending," she said. "The concern is that in this case it could develop into a very bad habit ... Our main interest is preventive medicine."

Mrs. Bolton said the Staunton nurses' interest in boycotting Chelsea was whetted when some church groups - she mentioned "Pentecostals and Seventhday Adventists" - criticized the drink. Finnigan said the company, too, thinks Seventh-day Adventists set off the furor in Staunton - the only test market, he said, where problems have arisen.

Finnigan said the drink is meant to appeal to "the urban adult," and a brochure included in each six-pack of the drink as distributed in Richmond says "a normal 70-pound child" would have to drink a gallon in an hour to feel any dizzying effect.

This volume exceeds the capacity of the stomach." the brochure says, adding that it would take more than 212 gallons in an hour before a 150-pound adult would be legally under the influence.

ment stores closed its doors, more than half the downtown retailers fled in a stampede. Office workers followed. Then came the deserted streets and deteriorating sidewalks and broken street lights, the sad, familiar pattern of America in the '60s and '70s.

Wednesday, Oct. 18, 1978

It seemed particularly sad in Lancaster, a lovely old city, once the capital of Pennsylvania - once, in fact, considered as a site for the national capital.

As a trading and manufacturing center it produced for a westering nation the storied Conestoga wagon. Today, its quaint brick streets echo to the horsedrawn wagons of the Amish, the "plain people" who long have questioned the

In short, attract people. People need places to shop, eat, relax. Demands of the marketplace would lure them. That was the hope.

The city, meanwhile, set about restoring those brick streets, planting trees, sprucing up public facilities. Equally important, City Hall streamlined the tedious procedures contractors face with building inspectors and permit issuers.

"We haven't relaxed standards," Mayor Richard Scott said, "but our attitude is one of helpfulness rather than of seeming to stand in the way. We even put out a brochure on how to get permits, deal with inspections and so forth.' Because no flashy new buildings went up all of a sudden, in the fashion of more typical renewal plans, many in Lancaster became dispirited if not skeptical.

The new "wealth" figures assigned to the Lubbock Independent School District could cost local taxpayers plenty, state officials admit. But they have told Superintendent Ed Irons not to worry - yet. In a letter to the superintendent, the School Tax Assessment Practices Board said there is "every likelihood" that the 1979 legislature will adjust the figures before using them in the distribution of state public-education funds. In fact, if the figures are adjusted, instead of losing state aid, Lubbock would realize a considerable increase in state monies, according to the STAPB letter.

The letter was in reply to objections filed by the Lubbock school system concerning STAPB findings on the size of the local district's taxable wealth. Lubbock officials say the figure set by the state agency is way too high because it includes intangible property

State aid is distributed according to the state-determined values, with poor districts having more of their costs paid by the state than rich districts.

Lubbock always had been considered a poor district - until this year, when for the first time the state included intangible property, such as bank deposits and stocks, in computing each school system's theoretical taxable wealth.

Irons and other officials warn that if the STAPB figures are used in distributing state aid next year, Lubbock would suffer a multimillion-dollar loss, and local taxpayers would have to make up the

The bidding was not scientific, but it was a fast, exciting, shoot-for-the-moon sort of auction that ended in a sound contract.

A beginner would think the contract depended on a dia-mond finesse, but a more experienced player would realize that the discard of his club loser on the opening lead opened up a second possibility - playing A K of clubs and ruffing the third club in the hope that the suit would divide 3-3.

But declarer on the di agrammed hand made the slam even though the diamond finesse was offside and clubs were divided 4-2.

He immediately attacked trump, driving out East's ace. East returned a spade which declarer ruffed. South then drew East's remaining trumps, played a diamond to dummy's ace, played the A K of clubs and ruffed a club.

Most declarers would now take the diamond finesse and complain bitterly when it lost. South was made of sterner stuff. He realized he had one extra chance, and

In the eighth grade, my husband answered the phone one night. When he hung up, he turned around and said numbly, "Bruce is not motivated by curriculum innovation. They don't want him to stagnate in a lockstep system and they're trying to stimulate his awareness. What does all that mean?"

er exposure to the infecting organism. They include fever, headache, sore throat, stiff neck, fatigue and vomiting.

It is diagnosed by examining some of the spinal fluid for the presence of the microorganism. The blood shows a high white cell count. In some cases, the infection may spread to the brain itself, but this is uncommon. However, certain cranial nerves may be damaged, and deafness, for example, may result. Rarely, there will be mental retardation. Prompt treatment of the bacterial infection (meningiococcal meningitis) with antibiotics, chiefly penicillin, is usually successful. The viral infection usually runs its course.

In any form, meningitis is a serious disease, particularly since it can occur in epidemics (as in army camps). The need for prompt reporting of symptoms and equally prompt treatment cannot be overemphasized. Fortunately, the symptoms of meningitis are so dramatic that there is seldom a question about seeing a doctor or not in this you can why my husband's urine is foamy. It has me worried. - Mrs. A.P.

Foamy urine usually means there is albumin (protein) being excreted via the kidneys. An occasional voiding of protein can be insignificant, but if it is persistent it always demands examination. Why? Because protein is valuable for the body and the kidneys void it very sparingly in normal circumstances. Thus if it continually appears in urine something is amiss. Kidney infection may cause the filtering system to break down temporar-

In younger persons there may be a condition called "orthostatic albuminuria."

In this, the first morning urine will be clear and transparent (normal). However, urine voided later when the person is up and about will show the foaminess indicating protein. This is usually a harmless, temporary situation that disappears

A test of a single urine specimen is seldom sufficient to tell very much. But doctors can tell quite a bit from examining samples over a 24-hour period.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 39-year-old female. I take 150 milligrams of the tranquilizer Mellaril a day. Suddenly my menstrual periods stopped and I have not had one for the last four months. Is taking this high a dose causing them to stop. or could it be that I am starting the change of life at this age? - Mrs. M.R.

Amenorrhea (absence of menstruation) is one of the possible side effects of this tranquilizer (a brand of the drug thioridizine). The 150 milligrams is not a particularly heavy dose, but you should report the symptoms to the doctor prescribing the pills. Age 39 is definitely on the early side for beginning of menopause, and I would have to blame the pills unless proven otherwise. One way to find out stop them. The menstruation should resume. Gradual discontinuing of the tranquilizers is desirable

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can having the tubes tied cause a woman to miss her periods? - Mrs. O.R.

The usual reason for missed periods is that the woman who has this surgery has recently abandoned the Pill as a contraceptive. Some delay in periods can be expected after discontinuance.

Women's News Service If you were marooned on a desert isle, which book would keep you from going bananas?" Remember those teen-age discussions - sometimes with more theatrical than literary focus?

Well, what if you had to choose one cookbook from the thousands of standard, comprehensive or specialty compilations in print? A judicious selection (for everything except its probably outmoded canning section) could be the original 'Settlement Cookbook." Compiled by Mrs. Simon Kander from: Milwaukee public school kitchens; Settlement cooking classes; a girls trade school and 'experienced housewives,' this practically all-inclusive volume of plain and fancy recipes saw its 17th printing in 1928. One of its most endearing qualities is its revelation that "butter the size of an egg" equals one-quarter cup. Search for a copy in flea markets or old-book stores.

I'ew must make such a choice, however though solitude and serenity, even at the cost of isolation - sometimes beckon. Libraries abound and book sellers encourage browsing. And after acquiring a basic book or two, you may want to investigate the ethnic and regional genre.

One such volume - not just a recipe book, but a photographic essay and source of lore - is "Pueblo and Navaio Cookery." Author Marcia Keegan, former food editor of the Albuquerque Journal, is a photojournalist who has admirably chronicled the culture of the Southwest's native Americans. Published by Earth Books, Division of Morgan & Morgan, the soft-cover volume, costing $7.95, depicts in color, rituals relative to planting, gathering and preparation of food.

The text is a testament to the sacred ness of food in traditions of the tribes. And the recipes for soups, appetizers, meats, vegetables, desserts and breads seem as "delicately flavored, nutritionally sound and surprisingly easy to prepare" as promised by Pablita Velarde. She is an Indian artist from Santa Clara Pueblo, N.M., who wrote the book's forward high is that the STAPB included estimates of intangible property and household goods in its figures.

District-Gets Reassurance On State School Aid

"Although we realize that local taxing authorities do not have the ability to discover and tax some of the properties covered in our study, our agency was mandated by the legislature to develop values for all property, both real and personal, both tangible and intangible, in each district," the STAPB said.

We do not have the authority to omit any category of property from our study. There is every likelihood, however, that the legislature will have this authority when it meets in January

The legislature will get that authority if the so-called Tax Relief Amendment on the Nov. 7 ballot is passed. The proposed constitutional amendment would allow the state to exempt intangibles from tax-

"Should the legislature choose to remove the value of intangibles from our study, your district's percentage of state wealth should decrease significantly," the STAPB told Irons. That would mean Lubbock would get more state aid.

Lubbock officials estimate that under current funding formulas, inclusion of intangibles would cost the district about $2 million a year. If intangibles are left out, the district actually would gain about $2 million in state monies.

The Legislative Commission on School Finance said that even if the state greatly improves its funding formula, Lubbock stands to lose about $350,000 a year in state funds if intangibles are used in defining each district's wealth.

"The losers are going to be in the millions in urban Texas," commission director Raymon Bynum, also an associate commissioner of education, said.

Bynum's calculations deviated from current law in one respect. They applied a 9 cents per $100 tax rate instead of the statutory 18 cents in computing local costs.

Otherwise, he said, the numbers would be out of sight.

Bynum said the six biggest districts -Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Austin and El Paso - would lose $14.7 million in state aid in 1979-80 under current law even if the 18-cent rate is

He said the 46 largely suburban districts with 10,000 to 49,999 pupils would lose $24 million.

For all districts, the local cost of the Foundation School Program in 1979-80 barring a change in the law - would increase $32.8 million, Bynum said.

Bynum said counting intangibles would strip North Forest Independent School District in Harris County - one of the poorest - of $500,000 in aid. Through a slip of the tongue, Bynum said North Forest would lose "$500 million." He corrected the mistake, but Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said, "It probably sounds like millions to them.'

Edgewood ISD in San Antonio, another of the 20 poorest districts, would lose $243,700.

Including intangibles would cost Houston $8.1 million in aid, while Dallas would have to replace $3.6 million with local funds, Bynum said.

The two districts in the state that would be the hardest hit are Richardson and Midland . ... on a per pupil basis, Bynum said, with Richardson losing a total of $2 million and Midland $537,000.

The Texas Constitution now requires of the so-called Tax Relief Amendment on the Nov. 7 ballot would eliminate that requirement.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, said if the constitutional amendment passes, a majority of the Legislature would want to do away with inclusion of intangibles in state aid calculations.

Otherwise, he said, a rural-urban fight taxation of intangibles, but the mandate is almost universally ignored. A provision the numbers to prevent a cut in state aid strength in the Legislature.

After a last-minute delay because of a legal dispute, it is not clear when - or even if - a massive 2 1/2-story home will be moved from the 19th Street location it has occupied for more than 40 years.

Owner Joe Batrice said afterward that he would lind another mover, but no new plans had been reported Tuesday after-

The move was called off at 10 a.m. Tuesday after power lines had been cut in front of the home and police and utility company workmen stood ready,

Work stopped because of the disagreement between Batrice and mover Jimmie Dickey of Woodrow.

Batrice said he had understood that and workmen from Southwestern Bell Dickey would move the house without Telephone Co., Lubbock Power & Light Dickey would move the house without his signature on a contract on liability that Dickey presented Monday after-

Dickey said he gave Batrice the con-tract and told him to make known any changes he wanted after he talked to his Dickey asked for the signed contract at the site Tuesday and Batrice told him he had been advised not to sign it. Batrice then said he would get another mover to pull the house down 19th Street to the Brownfield Highway and to property he owns at the west end of 82nd

Several city policemen to handle traffic

Co. and Southwestern Public Service Co. to handle telephone and power lines were in place when the move was called off after an hour of last-minute preparations and discussion. The University-City Club next door owns the property that the old home is on. The club wants the house either moved or demolished so that it can expand on the property.

Batrice, a mechanical engineer, said he spent six or seven months removing the bricks from the outside of the house and getting it ready to move.

Dickey said he and other men have been helping prepare for the move.

The house, estimated by Dickey to weigh 350,000 to 400,000 pounds, was elevated onto "skids" and three sets of heavy duty wheels by hydraulic jacks and a winch truck.

Batrice said he decided to handle most of the move himself after several movers gave him estimates of $50,000 to $120,000 for the entire project.

A telephone company representative said its costs are about $6,000 including the construction of steel beams to protect cables that will have to be taken down and passed over on each side of the Brownfield Highway.

Bell spokesman Jim Goodwin said a cable already has been rerouted at Quaker Avenue and Brownfield Highway in prep-

"The average house is 18 to 20 feet high, and Bell usually can raise the telephone cables high enough to allow the house to move under the cables," Goodwin said. "However, this house is more than 40 feet high, and the cables cannot be stretched that far."

Batrice also is having to pay for the services of the other utility companies. The electric companies were ready to unbolt traffic lights and swing them out of the way as the house passed by.

If the house is moved, it will be the first time that any structure that large has been moved in Lubbock since the Nicolette Hotel was moved across Yellow-house Canyon to downtown Lubbock in the late 19th century, said city planning director Jim Bertram.

Batrice said he bought the house last Dec. 23 with the idea of moving it to his property on 82nd Street.

Bertram said the house was built around 1930 by J.C. Penney Co. manager Ellsworth J. Parsons. It was later used as living quarters for nuns working at St. Mary's Hospital, now the University-City Club, and as an Alpha Delta Phi sorority

Weeping lovegrass can be one of the with sand shinnery oak Tand, but only if intensive management methods are practiced

By seeding only one-tenth of available pasture land to lovegrass, with the remainder left in native grasses, a rancher can even double the number of livestock on the range, according to Dr. Billie E. Dahl, professor of range and wildlife management at Texas Tech University

Dahl and his associates have been studying Aovegrass and its ability to survive in sand shinnery oak country and have developed several management practices for optimum growth and palatability of the grass

"Some ranchers have tried lovegrass as a supplemental range grass in the past, but did not use correct management practices and had bad results Dahl said. "With porper management, lovegrass aan be more economical and productive on the loose soil of sand shinnery oak country than almost any other

Good management practices for lovebest supplemental grasses for ranchers grass include short rotation cycles with the native grasses, fertilizing with nitrogen and feeding supplemental phosphorus and crude protein

The main concern, Dahl said, is to keep the lovegrass either grazed or mowed down.

Lovegrass grows extremely fast, especially with good moisture." Dahl said. If is it not kept grazed off to keep new leaves coming in, it becomes like broomstraw in as short a time as six weeks. Though the animals may still eat the grass, if nothing else is avialable, they won't gain weight

Dahl has found the best rotation time for lovegrass, in combination with native grasses, to be 35 days. If the grass cannot be kept grazed down. Dahl said the rancher can mow it and bale it for hav

Lovegrass makes a very good hav when baled before it is more than 40 days old," Dahl said. "It is particularly good horse hay.

A GRAIN SORGHUM PROMOTION TEAM that has just returned from Europe says grain sorghum farmers have a big sales job ahead if they want to continue exporting a large share of their production.

The team was led by Elbert Harp, executive director of the Lubbock-based Grain Sorghum Producers Association and Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Accompanying Harp were Ben Baisdon, director of marketing of the Texas

Department of Agriculture, and Dr. Reed Richardson, livestock nutritionist at "We will lose our current sorghum markets unless we fight to keep them,"

PROBLEMS THAT MUST BE OVERCOME, he said, are: - Widespread lack of knowledge about the nutritional value of yellow sorgh-

Poor performance from livestock fed high tannin sorghum imported from

Argentina, South Africa and other countries. Lack of market information about prices of sorghum in relation to corn, barley and other grains. The promotion team, sponsored by the U.S. Feed Grains Council and the US-

DA's Foreign Agricultural Service, visited England, Germany, Norway, Poland, Romania, Spain and Switzerland. The mission lasted almost three weeks. Prospects for large grain sales this year are dimmed by huge barley and wheat crops which have been harvested in Europe, Harp said. Many countries which normally are importers are actually exporting grain this year. UNTIL THESE SURPLUSES ARE USED, sorghum sales from the United States will suffer, Harp said.

Poland, one of the major new customers for sorghum, can buy European barley delivered to its ports for the price of sorghum at U. S. Gulf ports, he said. So long as this price relationship exists, he added, barley will be used.

To overcome the prejudice that has developed in recent years because of high tannin sorghum, the GSPA, through the U.S. Feed Grains Council, is conducting demonstration feeding tests.

Such tests in poultry, swine, beef and fish feed are being completed in Poland. All tests have shown favorable results with U. S. No. 2 yellow sorghum, Harp said. These tests will help us sell more sorghum to Poland in the future," he add-

THE TEAM ALSO MET WITH OFFICIALS in the London office of Reuters Commodity News Service to encourage them to carry current market prices of

When a prospective customer doesn't know the advantages and savings of U. S. sorghum, he won't buy it," Harp said. "Informing them is a necessary part of

The GSPA has been active in market promotion for 20 years. In that time sales have risen from virtually none to more than 200 million bushels a year, about one-third of the total U.S. production. "Less than $50,000 has been available annually to carry on the worldwide grain sorghum market development program," Harp said. "Ten times that amount is needed to carry on an adequate educational program in areas that already have been identified as potential customers. "Farmers are just beginning to realize that selling is as important to their crop as producing it.'

raise broiler chickens are prospering as a result of reduced supplies of red meat caused by massive cutbacks in the nation's beef herds and a reluctance of hog producers to boost pork output more that "all indications point to a substantial increase in broiler production in 1979" and that an 8 to 10 percent boost appears reasonable.

Agriculture Department experts say that because of the red meat crunch broiler producers can expect thriving demand from consumers and relatively good prices for years.

Broiler production this year is setting another record, "and the increase would have been larger if more hatching eggs had been available." the report said.

After leveling off in 1973-74 because of high feed costs and "unstable economic conditions" generally, broiler producers saw good profits in 1975 and in 1976 boosted output 11 percent to around 3.3 billion birds.

Last year broiler production climbed another 4 per cent to about 3.4 billion birds. Officials expect that about 3.6 billion broilers will be produced in 1978, up about 5 percent from last year.

Gerald R. Rector, co-author of the analysis, told a reporter that the farm price of live broilers this year may average about 26.8 cents a pound, compared with 23.6 cents a pound the past two

The report said that it has not yet been indicated whether cattle producers will rebuild their herds as rapidly as possible or take more time. "Whatever the rate of rebuilding, it probably will be 1983 at the earliest before beef output (for the consumer market) gets back to the 1978 level," the report said. 'Considering the increase in population, it may be the mid-1980s before the per capita supply of beef and veal reaches the 1978 figure." The production of broilers as they are known today is a relatively recent achievement. In 1934, for example, only 34 million were produced, contrasted against this year's 3.6 billion. Broiler producers were able to achieve such a phenomenal increase in production and sales because they were able to keep prices of broilers relatively low." the report said. This was brought about through comparatively low feed prices and by "technological advances in producing, processing and marketing broilers," it said. The farm price of broilers averaged 19 cents a pound in 1934, climbed to 20 and 30 cents through much of the 1940s and 1950s and then dropped below 20 cents a pound from 1956 through 1972, a year when broilers averaged only 14 cents a pound at the farm.

"In contrast, farm prices of hogs climbed from $4 per 100 pounds in 1934 to $24 in 1972, while beef cattle prices rose from $4 to $33.50 per 100 pounds," the report said.

Dairy Industry Ponders Whey Disposal Problems

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - That stinky liquid left from milk after the making of cottage cheese or butter will mean higher food budgets soon unless an alreadyperfected process finds an entrepreneur. The stuff is whey, as in "Little Miss

Muffet sat on her tuffet, eating her curds and whey." Families who make their own cottage cheese from sour milk pour whey down the drain or on the ground. Dr. Robert Henderson, director of the Indianapolis Center for Advanced Research, said the dairy industry, which nationally must dispose of about 30 billion pounds of whey annually, no longer

can get rid of the stuff willy nilly. "It's a serious problem for the dairy industry," Henderson said. "Some cities are now telling dairies they will not accept whey (as sewage) or they are charging them extra money."

The process for which the ICAR is trying to find an interested commercial producer involves fusion of whey and iron dust, a waste from the steel industry, into iron and steel pellets and other products. Arthur Ferretti, an ICAR staff member, said Clyde Humphrey, a retired manufacturing engineer from Cleveland, has patents on a process by which iron ore dust or particles can be reclaimed from the manufacture of pig iron or steel ingots.

Humphrey asked ICAR to further his research and find greater uses for the process. ICAR is a non-profit scientific and educational organization affiliated with Indiana and Purdue Universities, and helps inventors and licenssees or entrepreneurs get together for development and marketing purposes.

Since ICAR already was aware of the growing whey problem for dairies, which may close one of every 10 dairies under Environmental Protection Agency regulations, the ICAR scientists turned their attention to the waste product. Henderson and Ferretti reported use of whey and lactose as binding agents offers dairies a marketable commodity which can convert a costly liability into a profitable asset. Their research demonstrated pelletizing of iron ore with whey and lactose is more efficient than other binding methods being used.

Ferretti said experiments also included combining whey with sludge and coal dust from the Indianapolis waste treatment plants to produce fuel briquettes. A study is being made to determine if Indianapolis can save money by using the sludge briquettes as a replacement for fuel oil used to incinerate municipal sludge

In the laboratory, fly ash and whey also were combined successfully for making lightweight concrete blocks and for road surfaces with improved traction.

However, Henderson said "the gap we are trying to close is broad. Steel industries and dairy industries are far apart from each other.

MOUSE BEDEVILED - Jan and Dan Mouse play a tune in this scene from the syndicated cartoon, "The Devil and Daniel Mouse," that will air in 140 U.S. cities between Oct. 21 and the end of the month. Painstakingly animated, the cartoon deals with the story of Jan and Dan Mouse, folk singers tossed out of work by a manager who wants to open a disco. Jan mistakenly signs a contract with the devil, who shows up to claim her soul just when she is reaching the peak of her career, and Daniel argues with him for Jan's soul. The story is based upon the classic "Devil and Daniel Webster," and unlike its computer-bred cousins of Saturday mornings, is hand drawn. (AP Laserphoto)

Mouse" took about a year to complete. Hirsh attributes a great deal of Nelvana's success in the competitive syndication market that kind of extra effort, an effort he says is not extended in computerized cartoon-making for Saturday morning. "We're trying to revive the art of anima tion," he says. "And in a film, good animation is like good acting.

"The Devil and Daniel Mouse" was attractive to station managers, Hirsh says, because "it has a contemporary slant, is based on a well-known story with a sort of American appeal, and John Sebastian created the music specifically for it.

"If I were watching it," he says, "I would notice the fresh approach, the col-or, the music. We put a lot of work into this, and others don't.

Hirsh says Nelvana is trying to develop "a team of animators that will be the best in the world" - 12 worked on the latest production - and will aim for production of at least one cartoon special a year. ### United Way Agencies Help 12-Year-Old With Difficulties

Rhonda Wallace used to be shy. So shy, her mother says, she hung on her skirts and did a good job of hiding in the folds. Rhonda had a poor self image, and, coupled with a stature taller than most, she withdrew into a shell stronger than any snail's. Through the staff at the Parkway Center, however, Rhonda has danced her way out of self consiousness and into a world of big hopes and dreams. The Parkway Center, along with Guadalupe Neighborhood Center, United Way agent will re-ceive a total of $117,977 from the United Way's 1979 goal of $1,682,369.

Rhonda, now 12, began going to the Parkway Center two years after its opening in 1971. The center contacted parents in the community and offered their services which include neighborhood organizations, referral services, counseling, organized and unstructured programs for youth and a senior citizens program. Rhonda's parents saw the center's activities as a potentially good experience

Rhonda attended the center, participating in a myriad of programs, including girl scouting, arts and crafts classes, swimming, gynmanstics and her current love, dance.

Rhonda began dancing in a program set up by the center about three years ago. Now, she is helping to teach younger children at the center to dance, as well as attending a local dance academy through a scholarship provided by the center. And with further study, her mother said, she hopes to become the first Without the help of the center, she would never have been involved with dance," explained her mother. "They've given her a lot of confidence. She used to be unsure of herself-she didn't think she could do things. They encouraged her to build up her self esteem." Mrs. Wallace said the center has helped Rhonda in other ways besides build-ing her interest in dance. She said Rhonda has been given the opportunity to see more of life through field trips sponsored by the center. "They're helping to prepare for the world," she explained, saying she was happy Rhonda sees new situations and is getting experience from them. The center also provides assistance to parents, Mrs. Wallace said. "I don't have to worry what she's doing," Mrs. Wallace said, citing a need for more centers. She said she trusted the staf at the center like herself and is glad there is somewhere for children to go while their parents are working. Also, said Mrs. Wallace, the center provides an opportunity for youths, like Rhonda, to develop their talents and potentials even when parents cannot afford to pay for special training. Director of the Parkway and Guadalupe Neighborhood Centers, Barbara

Sommerville, said the purpose of the centers is to help the community residents do a better job with their own lives and make the neighborhood a better place Miss Sommerville explained that the centers are there for the neighborhood and they try to set up programs that neighborhood members request. These programs may range from food stamp and welfare applications, to dealing with neighborhood problems as a group, to a simple cooking class at the center.

However, their work with children is a major factor. Rachel Divers, program Director, said that in their work with children they hope to help them "discover who they are as individuals—to understand and know themselves. We want them to be proud of who they are, no matter their culture, and to learn something from other persons."

The Parkway and Guadalupe Centers currently serve more than 700 persons. The Parkway and Guadalupe Centers currently serve more than 700 persons.

Americans, Russian Share Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - Two Americans whose work with microwave radiation supported the "big bang" theory of the creation of the universe shared the Nobel Prize in physics Tuesday with a Russian scientist. The prize for chemistry went to a Briton. Dr. Arno A. Penzias, 45, and Dr. Rob-

Bodmin, Cornwall, in southwestern England, for his work in bioenergetics, which concerns the chemical process responsible for the energy supply in living cells. ## Study Reveals Shortcomings Of IRS Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Internal Revenue Service still doesn't have enough people on telephones to help taxpayers, and inquirers still may get incorrect tax information, a congressional study says.

The report the House Government Operations Committee made public Tuesday, however, gave IRS credit for improving its performance since the committee studied it two years ago and for planning further improvement.

"Updated IRS estimates show that between 6 million and 7 million taxpayers calling in for answers to questions about preparing their returns or the status of their tax return accounts may not be answered this year, and 3 million calls were not answered during the 1978 filing period," the report said."

IRS told the consumer affairs subcommittee that limited resources prevented it from giving perfect service, but that it achieved 87.5 percent response during the filing period.

Spot checks of the quality of information given over the telephone gave accuracy ratings of 91.2 to 97.4 percent, the report said, but added that the rate may be overstated because it includes replies to simple questions. A study of questions referred to IRS specialists indicated that the inquirers received correct answers only about 79 percent of the time, the report continued. What is particularly disturbing about this high error rate is that IRS is not bound by its mistakes, so that a later audit might result in the imposition of additional taxes," said Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., the subcommittee chair-He commended IRS for launching a program to review the performance of its specialists.

The committee recommended better training of personnel assisting taxpayers, including part-time workers and volunteers working with the elderly and others, budgeting funds adequate to make the assistance program effective and further simplification of tax forms, including consideration of a special form for the elderly.

There's nothing out there to cause it. That radiation was left over from the initial explosion from which the entire universe erupted.

Yanks Win World Series!

New York Wins Fourth Straight Game To Take Crown

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Slap-hitters Bucky Dent and Brian Doyle combined for six hits and five runs batted in, and Reggie Jackson added a monstrous homer as the New York Yankees defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-2 Tuesday night to claim their 22nd World Champi-

Crafty veteran Catfish Hunter scattered six base hits through seven innings to pick up the victory. Yankees bullpen ace

Rich Gossage replaced Hunter after Joe Ferguson's leadoff double in the eighth and held the Dodgers in check on one hit the rest of the way.

The Yankees captured their second consecutive World Series after losing the first two games in Los Angeles. They thus became the first team in World Series history to win the classic in six games after losing the opening two.

Don Henry ... Hadnot

AS HE LEANED up against a gate though, I can read their blocks a lot betleading to the Raiders' dressing room, James Hadnot looked too big to be afraid of anything.

Idly tapping his helmet against the gate and with his shoulder pads carried over that much. his shoulder a la knapsack, Hadnot showed little fear. But, he admitted to being afraid of being a runningback.

That was back in early September: by last Saturday, that fear of flying had evaporated. And, if he had any fear locked up inside last Saturday night at Albuquerque, the New Mexicans didn't spot it Never - before last week - had a Tech athlete rushed for more than 210 vards. Walter Schlinkman, one of the school's all-timers, bruised for 206 yards back in 1942 against Creighton, and only two other times had a Raider climbed to that 200-yard plateau.

But, at the half, last Saturday, when Hadnot had picked up 124 yards, hiscoaches, in challenging him, said he could reach 200 yards. But 268? ."I didn't know until after the ball game when some one told me that I had rushed for that much, or carried the ball that many times (26). I didn't get tired, ei-

AND THE RUSHING total was 26 yards more than he had accumulated in the previous four games.

There was a time, though, when Hadnot wondered if he could do it. He was a tight end when two-a-days began. Then, with runningbacks in short supply, coach Rex Dockery looked at the 240-pound, 6foot-2 specimen and thought, "It's worth

"Well, I wondered for a while if I could handle the job," Hadnot said Tuesday. 'That was right after the coaches had talked to me. "Then, I had a pretty good first scrim-

That was one of the big things about other night. We felt I could run on them, but I didn't know if I would be carrying

But, the linemen were really blocking. The big keys were I was reading the guard and tackle's blocks and just cutting off the blocks. All I had to do was find the hole and

THE FIRST PLAY of the game, Hadnot cracked inside and mashed upfield for 11

Yeah, that first one made a lot of difference, to get a good start. I felt that our plays would work. Most of them were inside plays, not options.

And Godfrey (Turner) and Brian (Nelson, the wide receivers), they were really getting some good blocks downfield to carry me more.

On Tech's second drive, Hadnot rupped off 69 yards to the 8, then came out to catch his breath. When he returned, he was still breathing hard.

"I don't know why, I just felt kinda funny then. But, the rest of the time, I felt okay. I never did get tired.

"Carrying the ball that much. . . You don't have time to get tired. But, anyway, I was playing tight end before, and you're going downfield blocking just about every play anyway, so there's not that much difference (in being a ball-toting full-

NOW THAT THE record has been posted with a felt pen, there's the matter of learning more about playing fullback. There's the matter of picking up some of those techniques which went with playing tight end

"I think I have to learn to improve my pass-blocking," Hadnot observed, "I have to do better blocking on the defensive end.

Maybe he can practice with the though that he has a football under his wing and just run over the defensive end.

World Series capped one of the greatest comeback seasons in baseball history.

The Yankees had to come from 14 games behind on July 19 to catch Boston in the American League's East Division. They won a division playoff - only the second in AL history - when Dent and Jackson belted home runs in Fenway Park. Then they eliminated Kansas City for the third straight year in the playoffs to qualify for the Series.

This Series started in reverse for New York. The Yankees dropped Garnes 1 and 2 in California last weekend and. playing with the knowledge that only five teams in Series history have come back from that kind of deficit, they turned the classic upside-down.

The Dodgers, stung by three straight losses in New York, had vowed they would recover at home. And, very briefly, it looked like they might.

Davey Lopes, heroic in defeat, opened the game by sending Hunter's third pitch into the left-field bleachers, giving Los Angeles a quick lead as the Dodger Stadium crowd of 55,985 roared its apprecia-

It was Lopes' third homer of the Series and marked only the 13th time in World Series history that a batter has opened the game for his team with a home run.

But the lead lasted only until the Yankees came to bat in the second inning. With one out, Graig Nettles - whose spectacular defensive play in Game 3 be-

Jim Spencer walked, and that brought up Doyle, the rookie second baseman pressed into playoff and World Series action because of hamstring injury to All-Star starter Willie Randolph.

The 23-year-old infielder, who spent most of the season in the minors, responded with the first extra-base hit of his major league career - doubling over the head of left fielder Dusty Baker on a 1-2 pitch.

That scored Nettles and sent Spencer to third. Then Dent, the AL East playoff hero and who was named the Series' most valuable player, drilled a single up the middle to score two more runs. The Yankees were in front 3-1.

Don Sutton, the Dodgers' starter and, like Hunter, a veteran right-hander escaped further damage.

Los Angeles shaved a run off the New York lead in the third when Ferguson, inserted into the Los Angeles lineup at

He wanted his message to get through to the Raider defensive backs that Rice had some athletes worth watching. And Bates was having to preach to some young troops, too, as Tech's defensive unit, especially the secondary, has been victimized by injuries.

Missing the workout were tackle Curtis Reed (foot problem), tackle David Hill (leg sprain), end Andy Thomas, lineback Greg Copeland, safety Johnny. Quinney and cornerback Ted Watts. And reserve Fred Taylor is out for the year "It doesn't look real good," said Tech head coach Rex Dockery with a grin which he really didn't mean.

With that boost, Hunter took over in the middle innings, retiring 11 straight Dodgers. The game stayed 3-2 until the sixth, when the Yankees slap hitters took over again. Piniella led off with a single, but Sutton got Nettles on a fly ball and struck out Spencer. The last strike was a wild pitch, moving Finiella to second. It turned out to be Sutton's downfall.

Doyle drilled his third hit, scoring Piniella, then took second on the play at the plate. It was the fifth hit in a row for the young infielder. Right-hander Bob Welch relieved Suter run batted in. That made it 5-2, and in the seventh, the Yankees added some insurance on the strength of one of Jackson's more titanic home runs.

Roy White opened with a walk and after Thurman Munson struck out, Jackson faced the 21-year-old rookie who had struck him out so dramatically to end the second game of the Series - the last one the Dodgers won.

With the fans howling at the Yankees' designated hitter, Jackson got even. He tagged the second pitch on a high arch toward the Yankees bullpen in right field. The fence in that sector is marked 360 feet, and Jackson's homer sailed at least 100 feet beyond that.

The blow was so stunning that it silenced the crowd and, after circling the bases, Jackson tipped his hat as he reached the New York dugout. His ninth career home run made him No. 6 on the all-time list behind Mickey Mantle, Babe Ruth, Yogi Berra, Duke Snider and Lou

That made it 7-2, but when the Dodgers came to bat in the eighth and Ferguson opened with a double, New York Manager Bob Lemon wasted no time in signalling for Gossage - the flame-throwing reliever who led the league with 26 saves during the regular season.

Gossage surrendered an infield single to Davalillo, giving Los Angeles runners at first and third with none out. But then he struck out Lopes and Russell made the mistake of hitting the ball to Nettles, who started an inning-ending double play that finished the Dodgers for good.

When Gossage retired Ron Cey for the last out on a foul popup to Munson, the Yankees dugout emptied in joy to celebrate the team's second straight World Championship - an improbable one that often seemed impossible.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) - Michigan quarterback Rick Leach skipped a scheduled TV appearance this week, but both the university and the producer of the show say the absence didn't have anything to do with the Wolverines' upset loss to Michigan State.

"He was booked by me personally, but Ididn't go through the coaches like I was supposed to," said Andy Kindle, producer of the early Monday evening show "J.P. and the Lions" on WWJ-TV in Detroit.

Kindle said Michigan tried contacting him Friday to say Leach couldn't make "It was not because of Saturday's game whatsoever," Kindle said. Bruce Madej, assistant sports information director at Michigan, also said the decision to skip the show was made before the then fifth-ranked Wolverines dropped the 24-15 decision to Michigan State.

"It wasn't that Rick didn't want to come on," Madej said. "When Bo foundout he (Leach) was asked to go on, he wasn't too thrilled.

He said Coach Bo Schembechler has a policy against such live appearances during a season.

Practice ended about 6:15 p.m. Monday and Leach had been asked to be at the TV studio by 7 p.m., Madej said.

Leach did appear on an NBC network football pregame show, on tape. "Taping is no problem," Madej said, "but live stuff is."

Leach had a speaking engagement at 9 p.m. Monday before a group of underprivileged children, Madej added.

Leach, fourth-year starter being touted for the Heisman Trophy as college football's best player, completed only five of 15 passes against Michigan State. He had three intercepted.

His counterpart, Ed Smith, hit on 20 of 36 for 248 yards and guided the Spartans to another 248 on the ground. Smith was named Big Ten offensive player of the week by the Associated Press.

Stock Mart's Dip Persists

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market, still sagging under the pressure of rising interest rates and a weak dollar, recorded one of the broadest declines in Wall Street memory Tuesday.

Declining issues outnumbered advances 1,541 to 145 - a spread of better than 10 to 1 — in the daily tally of activity on the New York Stock Exchange.

Although precise records weren't available, technical analysts said that they recalled few such lopsided counts and also noted that the number of losers was most likely a record.

The American Stock Exchange market value index, meanwhile, skidded 4.28 to 163.55, far eclipsing Monday's 2.96 drop as the largest decline since the index was established in 1973. The damage to the Dow Jones industrial average was a little less severe. The widely recognized average of 30 blue chips, off about 13 points at its mid-afternoon low, finished with an 8.83 loss at 866.34.

Worried About Eagles

DALLAS (AP)-Dallas Cowboy coach Tom Landry said Tuesday the defending world champions should take note of halfback Preston Pearson's recent sermon on the team being too passive. Pearson said Dallas was "too passive and needed to start intimidating teams."

"I hope they (the team) feel that way football is tough," said Landry. "I'm not all that sure we have been holding back but perhaps Sunday's game will help

The Cowboys acted like they had captured their first division championship after Rafael Septien kicked a 47-yard overtime field goal into the wind to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 24-21. They ried him off the field.

'It was an unusual show of emotion, said Landry who even got excited himself. "I guess we had just taken things for granted so much. It was a big win because Washington had lost."

Landry said the Cowboys needed to bolster their running attack if they expect to duplicate their Super Bowl XII

We have to develop a solid running game if we want to be a solid team," said Landry, who had to resort to a trick plays to hoodwink the Cardinals. "When you have to throw the ball as much as we have you are at a big disadvantage.

The Cowbovs aren't sure. But one thing is certain, Newhouse won't be wearing the mouthpiece anytime in the future.

While watching Dallas' 9-5 loss to Washington on Monday night football, richard Woldow, a sports producer for WBBM in Chicago, noticed that the Cowboys' fullback seemed to let his white mouthpiece dangle on passing plays. On running plays, he inserted it into his mouth.

He aondered if Washington, who was in the process of shutting down Dallas' strong rushing game to only 109 yards in 33 carries, was also aware of the idio-

The next Tuesday he and station sportscaster John Morris watched replays to confirm their suspicions. Morris, who once played on the Chicago Bears with Cowbos receiver coach Mike Ditka, teleihoned the Cowboys and warned them

"When I got the call, I just told Robert about it and he agreed to stoi wearing a mouhpiece," Ditka said. "John Morris is a good friend of mine and I appreciate it very much that he called me.

Newhouse has not worn the mouthpiece for the past two games. He said he doesn't plan to wear one in the future. "Maybe I was doing that, but I really don't know," Newhouse said. "When you are out on the football field, you don't think about things like your mouthpiece. It's an unconscious thing.

Lady In Red?

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Aside from the usual "z-outs." "square-outs" and "fly patterns," the St. Louis Cardinals tried another unsuccessful ploy Sunday against the Dallas Cowboys. George Thornton, a fan whose mission was ostensibly to brighten the atmosphere at Busch Stadium, brought in a more than amply endowed "Lady in Red" to offer a sideline attraction. Thornton and his friends paid $200 and expenses to hire Sue Ellen Welman, whose spectacular form - displayed in a tight sweater - dazzled the Cowboys on a runway prior to the National Football League game. But, alas, the effect was not lasting as Dallas won the game 24-21 in overtime and kept St. Louis winless.

"It's too bad the team didn't win," lamented Floyd Warmann, a friend of Cards owner Bill Bidwill who gained clearance for Miss Welman's crowd-pleasing appearance.

Dickey Doubtful

COLLEGE SATION, Texas (UPI) - Texas A&M coach Emory Bellard said Tuesday running backs Curtis Dickey and Adger Armstrong were both doubtful for Saturday's game with the Baylor Bears.

"Dickey has a sprained left foot and a bruised right knee," said Bellard, "and Armstrong has a bruised knee. They are doubtful. We are gravely concerned about our injurs situation.

Bellard said center Ed Pustejovsky would miss the Baylor game with a strained knee and that his backup, Don Wright, strained a knee in practice and was also doubtful for the game.

'Cornerback Elroy Steen, who suffered a slight concussion against Houston, is on a wait-and-see basis this week," Bellard said. If Dickey and Armstrong can't play, the Aggies will have David Brothers and Holly Wilson at halfback and Raymond Belcher at full-

PITTSBURGH (AP) - While the 7-0 Pittsburgh Steelers are off to their best start ever, two team members have a good chance to win National Football League titles at their respective positions.

We certainly didn't have a good day against the Cardinals," he said. "Tony Dorsett just couldn't find any holes to run. The Cardinals played us as tough as any team this year.

"He's got some kind of a disc problem and you just don't know about an injury like that," said Landry. "I know since I had the same problem in January. It could come around quicker than mine, though, since he (Fitzgerald) is a little younger than I Landry said "Our offensive line is very capable but it's just not as stable yet as the one we had last year. You don't have a team play like that very often when we had our drive to the Super Bowl. We were playing to our full potential with inexperience.

"Every team worries me these days." said Landry. "I just hope we can start controlling the ball on the ground.

Dallas Cowboys president and general club would study means by which female reporters could interview players following a game.

There were indications the Cowboys were considering barring all reporters from the locker room in exchange for into players.

Schramm said he would invite any suggestions from reporters.

The basic conflict is whether the customary practice of disallowing women reporters into male dressing rooms, on the basis of the right of privacy, prohibits and-or hinders the right of these women reiorters to compete on an equal basis with their male counterparts," Schramm

In one decision the court found that, on balance, the scales tipped more heavily toward dual access:

Therefore, the Dallas Cowboss will immediately undertake a study by which the locker room area will be organieed in such a manner as to fulfill the requirements of equal access and at the same time preserve the privacy and proiriety of the restroom, shower and dressing areas in accordance with accepted social and community standards.

Tolbert Honored As Saturday Hero

DALLAS (AP)-Baylor Coach Grant Teaff was trying to explain the frustration of keeping the football away from Emanuel Quezon Tolbert.

'We mixed coverages but there's no way you can stop a kid who can jump likethat." said Teaff. "He's just a great athlete.

On two of the touchdown passes, SMU quarterback Mike Ford just floated the ball in the air and Tolbert outleaped the Baylor defenders for the ball

"I guess he could dunk a basketball if he tried," said SMU Coach Ron Meyerof Tolbert. "He is just fantastic. There's none in the country any better.

Tolbert, who stands only 5-feet-10, has caught 34 passes for 544 yards and 7touchdowns this year. Last season he was the second leading receiver in the nation with 64 receptions for 966 yards and 6 touchdowns. If he stays healthy, Tolbert stands an excellent chance of ranking No. 1 on SMU's All-

Jerry LeVias snared 155 passes and Tolbert has 115 in two and one-Meyer, who scouted for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League before going to Nevada-Las Vegas and to SMU three years ago, said "Tolbert has itall. He has excellent speed. Some defensive backs are fooled because he doesn't look like he's Pearson is the ace receiver for the Cowbovs Tolbert was a running back at Little Rock Central and not many colleges sought his services. Memphis State gave a call but Arkansas decided it wasn't interested. "I heard about this great little player at Central so we gave Emanuel a call and told him what we had in mind," said Meyer. Gone are the entire front line and top reserve from last year's national championship team, but Hall seems to relish the task of rebuilding around a veteran guard corps and three freshmen of fabled potential.
