Showers Possible In Area

A Canadian cold front raced out of the Rockies toward Northwest Texas today, dumping snow on mountain areas and bringing the threat of showers to the Southwest region tonight and Tuesday.

Temperatures dipped into the teens and low 20s behind the front, but Texas weathermen said the front would lose most of its punch by the time it plunges into the Panhandle this afternoon.

Meanwhile, Indian summer weather prevailed on the South Plains again Sunday, before the arrival of the new front which is expected to drop the mercury about 10 degrees tonight.

There is a 20 percent chance of rain putting a damper on Halloween trick or treating in the Lubbock vicinity Tuesday.

Any precipitation resulting from the front is likely to be light, forecasters said, with amounts generally under a tenth of an inch.

Pushing toward Texas from Colorado, the front will drop the low temperature tonight into the mid-40s, weathermen predict.

Highs were expected to be in the mid-70s today and mid-50s Tuesday.

Fair skies were forecast for today and cloudy skies for Tuesday. Fog covered much of the area near dawn today but quickly began to dissipate after sunrise.

The wind was expected to be out of the south at 10 to 15 mph today, shifting to northeasterly at 10 to 15 mph tonight with passage of the front.

It was 72 here Sunday and 53 overnight.

The West Texas extended forecast calls for fair skies Wednesday and Thursday and partly cloudy skies Friday with mild afternoons and cool nights over the region.

Highs will range from the low 60s in the north to near 70 in the south and from the low 30s in the north to the mid-40s in the south.

Skies were mostly clear over Texas early today except for patchy cloudiness at Del Rio.

Light winds and clear skies kept temperatures in the 40s and 50s at most places across the state.

Weathermen said the front moved from northwestern Kansas into Colorado this morning and would move into the Panhandle late this afternoon and tonight.

YOUNG TRICKSTERS — People may grow too old for Halloween but you can't start too early, say Jennifer Davis, 5, right, and her little sister Megan, 1. ## Market Plunges; Dollar Hits Low

NEW YORK (AP) — Apprehension over the sagging dollar, rising interest rates and more inflation caused stock prices to nosedive again today, continuing one of the steepest declines in modern Wall Street history.

Overseas, the dollar crashed to new lows on world foreign exchanges today amid concern over America's economic woes, in one of the worst trading days on record.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had fallen 91.04 points in the last two weeks, skidded another 16.20 to 789.85 in the first two hours of trading today.

Declines overwhelmed advances by a 25-1 margin in early trading of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the market was being dragged down by investors' worries over the health of the economy and the government's problems dealing with inflation, higher interest rates and the dollar's weakness.

As stock prices and the dollar were skidding today, a government indicator of future economic trends rose 0.9 percent in September. But most of the increase was confined to building permits and a rising money supply, making it difficult to establish an economic trend.

Stock market analysts also noted some forced selling by investors who had bought stock earlier using margin, or loans from brokers. Those investors were forced to sell as the value of the shares they used as collateral on the loans dropped below minimum limits.

When this market decline began, margin debt was at a record level. The last monthly report from the NYSE showed $12.4 billion in loans outstanding among 999,000 investor accounts.

Charles Jensen at Merkin Co. said traders frightened by the $100 billion-plus decline in the market value of stocks over the last two weeks were selling today.

"The news of the dollar sinking again in Europe didn't help," he said, "but one of these days the dollar is going to stop going down. Right now there's just a lot of fear concentrated at one point."

Among actively traded issues at midday were General Motors, down 1 1/2% at 60 1/2.

Citicorp, down 1% at 24 1/2; Eastman Kodak, off 1% at 56; Holiday Inns, off 1% at 16 1/2; and Pan Am, down 3/4 to 6 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index fell 1.30 to 51.22, and the American Stock Exchange market value index dropped 6.68 to 134.63.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 15.07 to 806.05. Losers swamped gainers by an 8-1 margin in the daily tally on the New York Stock Exchange.

Overseas, the dollar dropped to new lows on financial exchanges amid growing concern over America's economic woes.

In response to the sliding dollar, the price of gold skyrocketed by as much as $11 an ounce, a record leap.

In London, gold closed at $245.25 an ounce. At major European bullion markets, Zurich's price was $242.875 while Frankfurt closed at $241.62.

Foreign exchange dealers were unwilling to predict how far the U.S. currency would sink.

Dealers said the renewed pressure on the dollar began in Tokyo and spread to Europe.

The dollar, which closed in Tokyo Friday at 179.625 yen, set three new lows today — an opening of 178.50 yen, a trading level of 178.30 and a closing 178.475.

One dealer reported: "The dollar's poor performance has to do with exporters unloading dollars during the day."

Court Takes Rights Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to review a California case that gives it a chance to clarify the scope of the 1966 Miranda decision outlining the rights of suspects in police custody.

The justices will consider later this term whether police were required to stop interrogating a 16-year-old murder suspect after he asked to speak with his probation officer.

The California Supreme Court ruled they were. It said the youth's request was "a call for help," indicating he wanted to assert his privilege against self-incrimination, just as though he had asked for a lawyer.

Among hundreds of orders today, the high court also:

—Promised to examine the constitutionality of a Massachusetts law that required unmarried girls under age 18 to get consent from their parents or a judge before having an abortion. The decision may clarify a 1976 ruling which declared unconstitutional a Missouri law allowing parents to "veto" their minor daughters' intentions to obtain abortions, but which hinted that more limited restrictions might be allowed.

—Agreed to hear arguments on a Texas case involving what procedures the Constitution requires states to use in protecting the rights of both parents and children when youngsters are taken from the home under suspicion they are being abused. A three-judge federal court ruled parts of Texas' child abuse law unconstitutional.

—Offered to consider in a Louisiana case whether a six-member state court jury must be unanimous when it convicts someone of a crime.

In the Miranda case, conservative Justice William Rehnquist already has made it clear how he feels about the California

Supreme Court's decision involving a youth known only as Michael C.

He blocked further state court proceedings on the case last summer, saying it "risks cutting Miranda loose from its doctrinal moorings."

The Miranda ruling said police must inform a suspect before questioning that he has a right to a lawyer and to remain silent, and that anything he says may be used against him. It decreed that police must stop questioning a suspect if he asks for a lawyer.

But that ruling did not say anything about a juvenile suspect who asks for his probation officer, or his mother, or anyone else, Rehnquist noted. He pointed out that the court under Chief Justice Warren Burger has been reluctant to expand Miranda beyond its original guidelines.

The court also agreed today to rule on a

Jury Panel Reports At Davis Trial

HOUSTON (UPI) — Jury selection began today in the trial of Fort Worth millionaire T. Cullen Davis, charged with trying to hire the murder of his divorcee.

Fifty prospective jurors were brought into the courtroom of Judge Wallace "Pete" Moore, where the defendant and attorneys for both sides were introduced to the panelists.

When Davis was introduced to the jurors, he rose, nodded, but did not smile. No prospective jurors responded when Moore asked whether any of them knew Davis or any of the attorneys from either side.

Each of the 50 panelists was given a four-page questionnaire in which they were asked to give information on a variety of topics ranging from religious preference to whether their spouses worked to whether they had ever been the victim of a crime.

The questionnaire also sought to determine whether any of the potential jurors were familiar with any of the companies in Davis' $800 million business empire.

Security measures so prevalent in pre-trial hearings in Fort Worth — including screening of onlookers with metal detectors — was not present today.

Attorneys for both sides said they expected a panel to be seated this week, in sharp contrast to the eight weeks of jury selection required last year in Davis' murder trial in Amarillo.

Davis was acquitted in that trial of killing his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, 12, in a mansion shooting spree in which his wife's lover, Stan Farr, died and Mr. Davis and a family friend were wounded.

The first trial, also moved from Davis' hometown of Fort Worth because of publicity, took five months.

Davis' lawyers are scheduled to go before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Nov. 7 to seek Davis' release on bond, which Judge Moore has refused. That hearing may interrupt jury selection.

Davis, 45, is charged with trying to finance the murder of Fort Worth Judge Joe Eidson, who since has withdrawn from Davis' stormy and still incomplete divorce from his wife, Priscilla.

Prosecutors expect to present tape recordings, including one on which Davis allegedly told an FBI informant "Good" when shown phony pictures indicating Eidson had been killed. Eidson helped stage the photographs and was not hurt in the alleged plot.

The informant claims Davis also planned the murder of several other persons, including his own brother, with whom he had had disputes over the billion-dollar oil tool empire founded by their father, Ken Davis Sr.

Egypt, Israel Reopen Talks

By The Associated Press
Face-to-face Israeli-Egyptian peace talks have resumed in Washington after a lapse of more than a week and an Israeli spokesman says there is "no crisis" in the negotiations.

In Baghdad, Iraq, meanwhile, Arab foreign ministers today opened a meeting to prepare for a summit conference aimed at countering the Camp David agreements and the bilateral Egyptian-Israeli peace drive.

Iraqi Foreign Minister Saadoun Hamadi, appealing for unity, said the Camp David accords were "a stab against the Arab struggle to liberate Palestine." The conference is being attended by representatives of all members of the Arab League except Egypt. The summit convenes Thursday.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin conferred with his Cabinet in Jerusalem today about the Washington talks, and the five-hour meeting ended with a decision to form two Cabinet committees to study economic questions and conflicting Egyptian and Israeli claims for compensation for oil extracted from the Sinai Peninsula during Israel's 11-year occupation.

Direct negotiations resumed Sunday night with a two-hour session between the heads of the two delegations at a downtown Washington hotel. Diplomatic sources in Washington described the meeting as "businesslike," but there was no immediate word on whether any headway was made toward resolving a treaty text.

Again acting as middleman, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance summoned the Israeli delegation to the State Department today for further talks. American and Israeli legal experts also met this morning to discuss treaty language.

In the session Sunday, Lt. Gen. Kamal Hassan Ali, the Egyptian defense minister, and Boutros Ghali, the acting foreign minister, called on Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman in their suite. Israeli officials said the Egyptians requested the meeting.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Cabinet Secretary Arieh Naor said of the talks: "As far as I understand there is no crisis at all. The negotiations go on and all of us are hopeful."

The talks had seemed to be in limbo over the weekend as the State Department analyzed the positions of the two sides. Vance met separately with both delegations Saturday.

Face-to-face negotiations were suspended 10 days ago after the delegations agreed tentatively on a U.S.-sponsored draft treaty. Both sides later returned

Marine Chief Proposes Pre-Draft Registration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Marine Corps commandant, Gen. Louis Wilson, wants Congress to pass a law to begin again registering 18-year-olds for a possible future draft.

Wilson suggested the step "as a start" in an interview in which he commented on the problems of manning the all-volunteer military force in the 1980s, when numbers of young men will shrink about 15 percent below the present level.

"I think it's going to be very difficult," said Wilson, whose service has in the past used draftees only in wartime, but found it easier to get volunteer Marines when young men faced being drafted into the Army.

Wilson said the Marines were able to meet recruiting needs of about 50,000 in the past year, three-quarters of them high school graduates, but added that for the future "none of us know just where we stand."

"I think we ought to at least start to come back to some sort of system where we have an inventory of our people, some sort of registration initially," he said. Beyond that, he added, "we'll just have to see."

His statement reflected a view being heard more frequently from military leaders these days, although administration officials and most lawmakers either oppose the politically delicate move or are unwilling to support it publicly.

While the Marines have been able to meet recruiting goals so far, they have also been plagued by publicity about recruiting malpractices. Wilson termed them "isolated," but acknowledged some recruiters "cut corners" because standards for enlistees have been raised.

He likened the difficulty of stamping out abuses completely to being able to stop car salesmen from overselling their products.

In the interview, Wilson also adamantly rejected suggestions armored troop carriers and many tanks be added to the Marine Corps, decreed by some strategists as necessary for survival in "high-threat" warfare.

He said that would be a mistake that would destroy Marine ability to move quickly "for contingencies world-wide."

"This is the stock-in-trade of Marines," he said. "We expect to be the first to fight."

A winner of the Medal of Honor for heroism in World War II, Wilson, 58, jogs up to three miles a day and is an old school Marine. But he said high-technology advances will help the Marines keep pace in the 21st century.

These include vertical takeoff airplanes Wilson said may replace troop-carrying helicopters, increasing the range that Marines can range from their ships to at-sea shore targets, and making them a more powerful threat.

He said programs are under way to replace landing craft that now move six miles an hour with either air-cushion boats or tracked vehicles that would float on inflatable collars much like rubber tubes, move ashore at speeds of 40 to 50 miles an hour, and operate on land as well as water.

The Marines pioneered the "vertical envelopment" tactics now used by the attack force.

Liberal Arts Education Being Overshadowed By Materialism

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Materialism is toppling liberal arts education, once on academia's highest pedestal, university officials were told today at the 1978 College Board National Forum.

"The liberal arts ... today confronts a new ethic in which the chief god is the bottom line, and in which to succeed materially, we must suppress our own humanity," John C. Sawhill, president of New York University said.

In a keynote speech prepared for delivery at the general meeting of the forum for 1,200 college and school officials, Sawhill said the challenge is to make liberal arts a top priority.
He said liberal arts is the study of "what we have done, what we know of our observable world, how we think and communicate, and the tools to put such information to practical use in shaping individual lives."

Sawhill said liberal arts has been shoved into a corner by:
—The federal government with "its insatiable appetite for the technical specialist" and "its use of the education system as a principal tool for change in society." An example: Uncle Sam helps those doing graduate work in science and technology, but there's practically no money for "arts" majors.

—American corporations who use universities for basic and applied research and look to them for personnel. Majors in computers, science, accounting, engineering get hired fastest and at highest salaries. History or English majors may only get jobs selling books or driving cabs.
—Student activists of the '60s and '70s with their "me first" ethic and their call for relevance who "in their headlong rush to be employable are casting aside the opportunity to be educated as well."

—Educators aboard the specialization bandwagon and ... "now handservants to these other forces."
At opening sessions Sunday, the National Urban League's president, Vernon E. Jordan Jr., urged "extraordinary steps" to help black students catch up with whites.
The head of the civil rights organization described black disadvantage as "crushing and long-lasting."
"Your job is to increase the number of black students ... and to ensure that they get the financial aid and academic assistance that enable them to ... master their chosen professions," he said to the college admissions and financial aid officials.
In the post-Bakke era, Jordan said the education set has been saying to blacks — "trust us."
"But I see nothing in the track record ... to encourage such trust," he said.

FEATURED ARTISTS — These artists were in Lubbock Sunday to meet visitors to the Baker Gallery of Fine Arts, where their paintings have been placed on display. ## Kennedy Allows Group To Speak Out On Bill

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Unable to speak over hecklers in the Capitol rotunda, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., surrendered the podium to a member of a group opposed to what they called "Nixon's criminal code."
Kennedy came to the rally Sunday night to speak on behalf of the state Democratic ticket, and appeared with 2nd District Congressman Robert Kastenmeier and Gov. Martin J. Schreiber.
Hecklers opposing Kennedy, Schreiber and the long-proposed Senate bill that would recodify federal criminal laws, continually interrupted, and at times drowned out Kennedy's remarks.
Members of a group called the Madison Coalition to Stop S-1, which stands for the proposed criminal code, waved signs opposing Senate Bill 1437, the new number for S-1.
Kennedy finally asked for one member of that group to come up and speak for three minutes "on the specific provisions you object to."
Peter Merenyi came to the podium and said his group does not want "Nixon's criminal code" re-introduced next year.
Merenyi said his group does not oppose the re-election of Congressman Kastenmeier, but only wants to make known Kennedy's "dishonesty" in supporting the "slightly altered and disguised in a new number" S-1.
"We do not want a police state bill from Senator Kennedy next year," Merenyi said.

But Kennedy said, "I was the principal leader opposed to S-1. We killed S-1 in the Judiciary Committee. I asked for a particular provision to debate and all we hear is condemnation of S-1."
The senator invited the coalition to attend committee hearings on the bill in Washington next year.
"We won't solve it here this evening," Kennedy said.
Afterward, Kastenmeier remarked to reporters that the rally was "politics as usual in Madison."
Schreiber said he was "saddened" at the behavior of the crowd.
Kennedy shrugged when politicians nearby offered apologies as he shook hands and made his way out.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.
Luke 4: 14B-24, The Living Bible

Soon He became well known throughout all that region

15 For his sermons in the synagogues; everyone praised Him.

16 When He came to the village of Nazareth, His boyhood home, He went, as usual, to the synagogue on Saturday, and stood up to read the Scriptures.

17 The book of Isaiah the prophet was handed to Him, and He opened it to the place where it says:

18, 19 "The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me: He has appointed Me to preach Good News to the poor; He has sent Me to announce that captives shall be released and the blind shall see, that the downtrodden shall be freed from their oppressors, and that God is ready to give blessings to all who come to Him."

20 Then He closed the book and handed it back to the attendant and sat down, while everyone in the synagogue gazed at Him intently.

21 Then He added, "These Scriptures came true today!"

22 All who were there spoke well of Him and were amazed by the beautiful words that fell from His lips. "How can this be?" they asked. "Isn't this Joseph's son?"

23 Then He said, "Probably you will quote Me that proverb, 'Physician, heal yourself' — meaning, 'Why don't you do miracles here in your home town as you did in Capernaum?'"

24 But I solemnly declare to you that no prophet is accepted in his own home town!

Brown Appears Sure Winner

By CARL INGRAM

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., whose 1980 White House expectations may have been lowered but not dashed, seems headed for re-election in an increasingly nasty campaign.

His opponent, two-term Republican Attorney General Evelle J. Younger, 61, an admittedly dull but tough campaigner, caught up with Brown in public opinion polls during the furor of Proposition 13. But as Nov. 7 drew closer in heavily Democratic California, Younger's popularity took a nosedive. Some Brown campaign assistants began talking cautiously in private not about winning the election but by how much.

Analysis

"I wouldn't say the White House thing is at the forefront of anybody's mind right now. We're running for re-election," a Brown tactician confided. "If we win big, then 1980 becomes a bigger possibility."

Brown, 40, roughed up Jimmy Carter as a late-starter in the 1976 primaries and mischievously refuses to renounce any further presidential ambitions, although he downplays talk of another White House run.

Repeatedly asked about 1980, Brown cites the rising popularity of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and the success of President Carter at Camp David.

"I'm lowering my expectations," he tells questioners, playing on his catchy but all but discarded politically pessimistic slogan of three years ago.

In the high stakes race for governor of the nation's most populous state, television exposure often is the key to victory. Brown aides expect him to have spent about $3 million on the general election campaign. Of this, an estimated $1.7 million will have been earmarked for broadcast advertising, including up to $750,000 in the last few days before election day.

Younger, whose campaign staff members took a pay cut when contributions fell off drastically, expects to spend about $2.1 million on the general campaign, including $1.6 million for broadcast commercials. In the final days, aides reported, Younger intends to invest $500,000 in broadcast advertising.

By contrast, records of the secretary of state show that Brown spent $2.5 million on the 1974 general election, which he won by two percentage points.

From the outset, Younger sought to fashion as campaign issues Brown's opposition to nuclear power development, his go-slow policy on freeway construction and his flip-flop on Proposition 13.

the property tax cut approved by voters last summer.

Brown led the opposition to adoption of Proposition 13 and then did a spectacular reversal when it was enacted and made himself the measure's chief implementer.

Younger's issues appeared to fall flat, and he launched a new tactic: accusing a newly appointed U.S. attorney, Herman Sillas, of foot-dragging in an investigation of suspected political corruption.

Until his appointment last year, Sillas was a director of motor vehicles under Brown. U.S. Attorney Griffin Bell has expressed full support of Sillas.

Younger, in a confrontation with Brown, charged that "we have here all the makings of another Watergate." He also demanded that the legislature investigate the financial interests of Brown family members in a company that imports oil from Indonesia to California.

Brown pronounced Younger an "undicted co-conspirator" for failing to conduct a state investigation until after the FBI began its probe.

Both candidates maintain they took the "high road" in campaigning. Younger asserts he merely raised "legitimate questions" and Brown insists that "I don't want an alley cat fight.

Although three California Democratic congressmen were cited by the House for their involvement in the Korean bribery scandal, only one, veteran Rep. John McFall, faces a serious challenge for reelection. Republican Norman Shumway has made "morality" a key feature of his campaign.

Jackie O's Notes Sold For $500

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis may be a multimillionaire but some observers of the woman who once occupied the White House say she is a penny pincher.

Some of Mrs. Onassis's notes were included in an auction recently by the Charles Hamilton Galleries at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and were purchased for $500 by Herman Darvick, a New York dealer.

The auction catalogue gave Mrs. Onassis nearly three inches of space and was another insight into the fabulous woman — a legend in her time — who was first lady from January 1960 to November 1963.

John Kennedy left her and the two children a trust estimated at $10 million; the Onassis marriage contract eventually was settled at around $26 million.

The Hamilton catalogue summary of its sales of some of Mrs. Onassis's memorabilia said the contents "largely concern trivial details in the life of a jet-setter, the ordering of booze, clothes, the pursuit of errands to boutiques and the like."

One entry: "... Deliver letter with check inside for priced furniture. It cost $93 — He owes me $3.75."

Hamilton said in an interview that Mrs. Onassis's dollar-watching was well known among merchants.

"I had one tell me," he said, "of one New York shop where she had made a purchase and had change coming of three pennies for a nickel. She waited while the clerk went next door to see if another shop had the change."

Among the "few random notes" that Hamilton's catalogue included were: "Pay bill at Fancy That ... Tell them nicely but firmly I do not appreciate seeing my purchases announced in Women's Wear Daily the next day ..."

Another: "Get awning put up outside Caroline's room — if possible today — she will roast in there. They can call awning people — I don't know where awning is."

More: "... 1 case white wine — Pouilly Fuisse. 1 case Champagne, Krug 1961 — ($90) if they have it... 2 bottles Bacardi rum, 1 bottle Russian vodka, 1 case white wine Montrechat, 1 case champagne — Baron Philip Rothschild. Please leave case of champagne at Lee's apartment (presumably Lee Radziwill, Mrs. Onassis's sister) ..."

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Debt We'll Never Repay

WHEN THE government borrows huge amounts of money to finance budget deficits, it tends to drive up interest rates and to dry up sources of money—mainly at the expense of business seeking capital funds to invest in new jobs.

In a recent message to its national membership, Shearson Harris, chairman of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, made the point that not much can be done to curb inflation if the government continues to move "in the opposite direction" by running repeated deficits even in good times.

There is no question, he says, but that government is the main inflationary force by way of:

- * TAX POLICIES that discourage saving and investing;
- * Excessive spending that breeds huge budget deficits;
- * Tax policies that stifle the productivity improvements necessary to restrain inflation; and
- * Runaway regulations that impose ever-increasing costs on business.

To illustrate the size of the problem, the federal government's tax receipts in 1950 averaged $269 per capita.

By 1977, the average rose to $1,634. "That tells you something about the rapidly growing government scale in our society," says Harris.

"It's not surprising, therefore, that inflation has become such a plague."

Inflation averaged barely more than 1 percent in the 1960's but soared to an average of almost 7 percent in 1970-75.

IF YOU HAVEN'T noticed, the federal debt—a product of deficit budgeting—is rapidly moving toward the trillion-dollar mark.

It soon will be an estimated $850 billion. A table published in the Congressional Record and outlining the expansion of the national debt in the 20th Century tells the sad story.

Rounded to the nearest billion dollars, we were in debt only a modest billion from the turn of the century until World War I.

During 1917, one billion became three; in 1918, three billion became 12; and in 1919, 12 billion became $25 billion.

Since that time, we've managed (mismanged?) to go 34-fold deeper into the red, assuming the gloomy picture of $854 billion develops for next year.

Where will it end? Taxpayers can only ask.

James J. Kilpatrick:

Watered Down Under The Bilge

WASHINGTON—For a splendid case history of what ails us, legislatively speaking, consider the Humphrey-Hawkins bill. In the name of the best intentions, it offers the worst aspects of our political process.

When it finally passed, in the closing hours of the 95th Congress, the bill emerged as a kind of popover bill—crispy and crunchy on the outside, but nothing but hot air within.

Virginia's Sen. Harry F. Byrd summed up this unfortunate enactment in a single sentence. Humphrey-Hawkins, he said, "is either fraudulent or it is inflationary."

Sen. John Tower of Texas was even more critical. In his view the bill reflects the same "ill-conceived, outdated, worn-out, tired, and stale thinking that has brought us to our present economic malaise."

THE GENERAL idea behind the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, when it first was introduced in January of 1973, was to involve the Federal government deeply and pervasively not merely in economic planning, but in economic execution also. The sponsors—Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Rep. Augustus Hawkins—were big thinkers.

Humphrey especially, God rest him, had a marvellously naive faith in the wisdom and the power of governmental decision. Nothing in his long and lively career ever deflected him from the conviction that any problem could be solved if only enough tax money were thrown at it.

The recurring failures of liberalism could be easily explained: The failed programs were not liberal enough!

The Minnesota's original concern was with jobs. He felt the unemployment of the poor as a wound. At the time, unemployment was up around 8 or 9 percent, and Humphrey was certain the rate could be brought to 4 percent if only the right authority were exerted by Federal policy.

HE DREAMED OF planning that would extend to the uses of energy, the location of plants and factories, the relocation of workers, and the allocation of mineral resources and raw materials.

He could not see that his thinking, translated into mandated action, would have led ultimately to totalitarian controls over design, production, marketing, sales and all the rest. All he could see was a job for every person who wanted one.

Well, the original bill never embodied quite the sweeping powers that Humphrey used to discuss with Capitol Hill reporters, but it was a jaw-dropper nonetheless.

And somehow it became a symbol. The Black Caucus seized upon the idea. Labor unions rushed to its support. Everybody climbed aboard—the Sierra Club, the League of Women Voters, the American Jewish Congress, Americans for Democratic Action, and so on.

THE ORIGINAL bill of January 1973 was scrapped in March of 1976. It was born again in January of 1977, rewritten and watered down in February of 1978, further diluted and revised by the Banking Committee in June, finally reported in August.

With every variation, the hot air expanded and

A young mother said, "I'm getting a little worried about my child in kindergarten. The teacher just gave him a lifetime crayon."

ONE MAN'S OPINION—

Kenneth May

Call Him 'Meck'

MY NEIGHBOR Twice Removed says he fully expected the U.S. Justice Department to ask that the Lubbock schools' desegregation plan be junked. After all, it's been working.

The Environmental Protection Agency resents Sen. William Proxmire's accusation that it spent $67,214 on a two-year study to prove that cow manure runoff on farms can pollute nearby streams.

Says the $67,214 two-year study was designed to prove that farmers can save manure and spread it on their fields.

Lawyers for Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, who earlier admitted making a "mistatement" about his finances, acknowledge that some "corrections" have since been made in his financial records, but only to make them accurate. They use big words in Massachusetts.

IT HAS NOT gone unnoticed that, in order to get the tools for clearing out the bureaucratic deadwood, President Carter willingly handed Big Labor a choice plumb.

The Civil Service reform bill strengthens the union bosses' hands in getting bargaining rights for public employees.

On the positive side, the bill makes it easier to fire federal employees who do a lousy job. It was a necessary move if the federal bureaucracy is to be battle efficient.

Battle lines now will be drawn between the union wheeler-dealers who want a compulsory agency shop provision and those who want to remove the pro-union bias in the legislation. If the latter view prevails, a step toward making government more responsive to the people and less the private domain of government employe unions will have been taken.

It had to happen sooner or later, of course: Dr. Art Cooper of the NTSU education faculty was due a $7.26 paycheck for two correspondence lessons taken by a student.

After a $6.78 deduction for federal income tax and a 48-cent deduction for his retirement fund, Cooper got a check for $0.00.

HONEST TO goodness, it was just an idle thought. Now some joker who signs himself "Lakeway Luke" has done gone and made a fed'ral case out of it.

Other day, I wondered in this space what we'd call Peck McMinn when the metric system is with us in full measure.

Now comes a letter with a return address to "Mesdame 8.8096 L (d) McMinn." The inside story was the aforementioned Lakeway Luke's letter to her:

"You can always trust a newspaper person (there's that anti-sexist word again) to clabber things up with some question or other that they're too lazy to work out for themselves. Thunder in The Mountains! Now we got old Peck versus the Metric System to unravel..."

"So I get out the old trusty Webster's and have come up with something but it looks more like the printout from a computer..."

Hindsight Not Always 20-20

WASHINGTON—Despite some recent exceptions, America does not habitually elect wrong guys for the Presidency, and it's probable that we avoid choosing an egomaniac more often than not.

I make this conclusion on the basis of two hefty biographies, one of MacArthur by William Manchester, the other of Robert Kennedy by Arthur Schlesinger—who with this 1066-page door-stop vaults over several heads to become toady-in-chief of the Kennedy clan.

I am glad to see that a reviewer of "Robert Kennedy and His Times" agrees with me and brings up toadism as a related subject. Marshall Frady writes in the N.Y. Review:

"Schlesinger's chronicle of memorial to Robert Kennedy induces a question about the degree one is compromised as a historian after having engaged in an exercise something like that of a 916-page promotional pamphlet of exculpation and eulogy."

THE SAME CRITICISM can't be aimed at Bill Manchester who whoops it up even more loudly for the valiant soldier (709 pages) whom ignorant GIs and a few misguided Democrats nicknamed Dugout Doug.

MacArthur, a general's son, was conveniently born to fight three American wars for us, distinguishing himself for valor and leadership and to carry off more ribbons than his chesty blouse would hold.

Manchester could have made more of it, but Doug's toughest fights for freedom were against his clammy-handed mother who kept him in skirts and curls for much too long, followed him via hotel rooms to West Point and ruined his sex life until death set him free.

The book's title, "American Caesar" can be excused for inaccuracy for what it makes up in MacArthur's imperial arrogance.

HE NEVER CAME near being President, though he had worshipful plutocrats who fed publicists to feed laudations of Big Mac to credulous columnists. His Caesarism away from the battle area was nothing but papier-mache.

It is perfectly logical that both parties should go after Eisenhower, the modest war-hero, and that when it came to conspirators and assassinations, it was the Kennedys who became victims.

The nuclear age entirely precludes another MacArthur, but the pity is that we learned nothing from his oracular pronouncement, "There is no substitute for victory."

It took the disgraceful defeat in Vietnam to convince us that MacArthur was a big man who thought big.

And this still heftier book by Schlesinger takes us to an opposite conclusion about Bob Kennedy. Bob Kennedy found himself compromised as a liberal J. Edgar Hoover and wiretap intelligence, guilty by his association with Joe McCarthy, insulted by Jimmy Hoffa, reduced to eating the dust of Lyndon Johnson, Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy.

To disprove his "ruthlessness" and assert his humanity, Bob had to find urban and rural slums in which to wallow.

Schlesinger shows him in a filthy Negro cabin in Mississippi, holding a sear-infested baby to his face that is wet with tears, whether of compassion or frustration at the uselessness of his crusade to equalize the lot and accomplishment of mankind—or even to get credit for trying.

But MacArthur and Bob Kennedy were a pair that—for opposite reasons—we were better off without in the White House where both yearned so much to dwell.

Sylvia Porter:

Service Fees Eat Up Interest On Checks

(Second of two columns)
 ITEM: WHEN BANK of America begins to offer what are in reality interest-bearing checking accounts, starting this coming Wednesday, Nov. 1, it plans to charge $3 a month plus 10 cents a check and to require a minimum deposit of $500 for customers using this new retail banking service.

"But because of these service charges and balance requirements, the only people who can truly benefit from the new service will be the very wealthy who can afford to keep large balances.

"The working man and woman will benefit little, if any, from this new service," says Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., chairman of the Banking Committee's consumer affairs subcommittee.

"It appears that the customer will be earning on his checking account," Annunzio adds. "But what banks won't tell customers is that this interest will be eaten up in service charges."

ITEM: UNDER THE First National Bank of Oregon's "Bonus 11" accounts, holders will be charged a flat $5 per month unless they have a minimum balance of $2,000. Then the service is free.

ITEM: Under New York Citibank's "Interest Plus" plan customers with accounts containing $5,000 are to pay nothing while those with balances of $1,000 or less are scheduled to pay $5 a month.

ITEM: Under Des Moines National Bank's "Moneysworth Account," the required balance for free use will be much smaller—only $1,500. Customers with smaller accounts will pay 25 cents per check and a maintenance fee of 50 cents per month.

ITEM: And under Wells Fargo Bank's transfer service plan, customers with less than $2,000 in their savings accounts are scheduled to pay $3 a month plus 10 cents per check to have their funds moved from a 5 percent savings account into their checking account.

THE REVOLUTION in banking services has been accelerated by this new authority to commercial banks to offer what amounts to interest-bearing checking accounts—even though the banks are merely the latest category of financial institutions to gain the right to provide the accounts.

Many credit unions and savings and loan associations already offer the equivalent service by means of share draft accounts, telephone-transfer services or NOW accounts.

Banks that will offer the new automatic funds transfer service have been informed by their regulators that they must make it clear to customers that two accounts (savings and checking) are involved in the service.

For legal reasons, they also have been warned that advertising and promotion should "avoid referring to the automatic transfer service as equivalent or similar to paying interest on checking accounts," reports my Washington associate, Brooke Shearer.

THIS JOKER GOES on to say that two pints equals one quart which equals 67.20 cubic inches which equals 1.1012 liters.

"So far, so good," he says, "but a good old U.S. quart is less in volume than a liter. Things getting out of hand already but we can't quit while we're ahead."

Eight quarts, he goes on, is equal to one peck which is equal to 537.61 cubic inches which is equal to 8.8096 liters which explains the return address on Mrs. McMinn's letter.

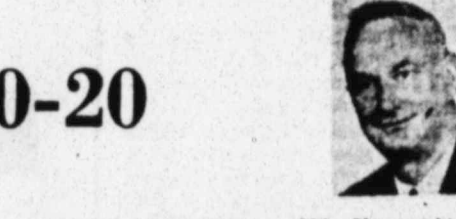

"At least we know what a Peck is," says Lakeway Luke, "so for starters we can call him either 537.61 cubic inches or 8.8096 liters...but a good old boy like Peck can't go through the rest of his life as a malfunction in the Metric system."

HE CONTINUES: "The more I thought about this, the less I thought about it. So. Back to Mr. Webster...and what do you know! They got dry measure liters and liquid measure liters. Ergo: A Peck is dry measure and the quotes above are for that."

"While I have only begun research on this searching question, all I can suggest at this time is that we call him Meck, which is a combination of Peck and Metric, or OLD 8.8096 L (d)..."

"In the meantime, please tell that newspaper yoyo to devote his time to the water table out your way and quit accelerating the Metric program," he concluded.

In reply, I can only say that I still don't know what to call Peck under the metric system, but I have a few choice ideas about what to call Lakeway Luke.

Treatment Of Acne

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 19-year-old male who has been visiting dermatology offices for four years because of an acne problem. What I would like to know is what causes acne? Is there any way to get rid of it before you outgrow it? What body changes occur to stop it? My current doctor's treatment consists of washing with an abradant cleanser and applying a clear liquid prescription, then applying a thick white liquid. I was taking pills, but this doctor found they were affecting my liver. Is this all that can be done? Isn't there any other method of treatment?

right, but defects develop at the surface of the skin so the oil glands get plugged up and retain sebum, the oily secretions formed by these glands. It's this oily or sometimes almost waxy material which becomes blackheads or whiteheads, and if the drainage of that gland is completely blocked at the surface of the skin, the accumulation may develop into a pimple.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated, to give you more information about how this problem develops and what our current thinking is about treating it. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There are stubborn cases but most cases can certainly be helped a great deal with adequate treatment.

The other major factor which contributes to the development of acne is the action of small bacteria just inside the gland that acts on the fatty secretions. Acne, then, is related to excessively oily or greasy skin, problems at the surface of the skin that prevent adequate drainage and, finally, the action of bacteria.

It follows that the proper treatment is directed toward decreasing the oily greasy formation, coupled with peeling the skin or improving the surface of the skin so that oil glands can drain properly without getting plugged up and, finally, the use of antibiotics to help eliminate the bacteria that converts the fat to irritating substances. All of these are discussed in The Health Letter I am sending you.

Unfortunately, some people do have trouble with their liver when they have taken tetracyclines, commonly used in the treatment of acne. This, however, is most often in individuals who take very large doses. Sometimes these medicines are effective in small amounts over prolonged periods of time. They should not be used during the period of life that the teeth are developing.

Every face is different, but the things a person can do at home to help include using agents to dry the skin and frequent washing of the skin. If you need more than the use of skin-drying agents and, perhaps, hot soaks to the skin with a warm wash cloth, then it is probably best to see your doctor and have him help you. This could help you avoid developing scars and pits.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
 Today is Monday, Oct. 30, the 303rd day of 1978 with 62 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

John Adams, second president of the United States, was born Oct. 30, 1735.

On this day in history:

In 1938, Orson Welles caused a national panic with a radio dramatization of a fictional invasion of New Jersey by "men from Mars."

In 1941, an American destroyer, the Reuben James, was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine, more than a month before the United States entered World War II.

In 1972, 44 persons were killed in the crash of an Illinois Central commuter train in Chicago.

In 1975, Prince Juan Carlos assumed power in Spain as head of state Generalissimo Francisco Franco lay near death. A thought for the day: American President John Adams said, "When annual elections end, there slavery begins."

Kent Hance.

When Kent Hance began work in the Texas Senate, he did not sit on the sidelines like most freshman Senators. He sponsored legislation to remove a State Supreme Court Judge from office following his indictment for perjury. He led the fight in the Senate trial to impeach a District Judge from Duval County for misconduct in office. This was the first such trial in more than 30 years, and was the first major effort to clean up corruption in Duval County. He sponsored measures to remove the Senate's top employee for questionable conduct.

Whenever Kent Hance found waste in government, he acted. He sponsored and passed into law "sunset legislation" that abolishes state agencies on a periodic basis unless they are re-established by the Legislature. This helps to keep agencies from getting out of hand, and to eliminate those that are no longer needed. He made welfare fraud or food stamp fraud a felony in Texas.

In his four-year term, Kent Hance never missed a day in the Senate's five sessions, regular and special. In four of those five sessions he didn't miss a vote. In the fifth, he had a 96% voting record.

In Congress, Kent Hance will continue this kind of representation where it is needed most... at the Federal level. Kent Hance has proved that when he sees evidence of corruption, waste or inefficiency in government he does not look the other way... HE ACTS. West Texas needs Kent Hance in Congress.

Let's make sure the man we send to Congress is the man with qualifications we can measure—and count on... !

Authorized by the Kent Hance for Congress Committee, Mike Higgins, Treasurer.

Increase Noted In Undermining Of Executives

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — In the corporate suite where the facade is neat, controlled and subtly proper, a conspiracy might be hatching that could erupt in a palace revolt that topples the chief.
 It's happening more often than before. Since 1975, presidents of major corporations have been ousted at an increasing rate, and more than half of them were undone by disgruntled subordinates.
 "This sort of thing didn't exist in the 1960s," says Professor Eugene Jennings, psychologist and confidential adviser to chief executives. There were "kitchen debates," but seldom revolts, he maintains.
 In the kitchen debate, top tier executives discuss the chief executive's weaknesses and discreetly leak to the board of directors the word that he no longer has their respect, support and confidence.
 This is usually bad news for the chief, and often it can undermine his effectiveness, but he can still assert his leadership by effectively managing other members of his executive corps and the directors too.

 Today, there is far more interaction between board and executive. Boards meet more often, and there are many more committees, often made up of both outside directors and inside executives.
 Jennings observes also that the style of business management has changed.
 "Corporate information systems today are swift, timely and accurate," he said. Others share the chief's information, so "there is no way a mediocre chief can hide his mistakes."
 This legitimate access to information, largely through electronic computers, tends to undermine the ability of any leader to be autocratic or dogmatic.
 "Strategy today is made through consensus rather than by a lone beacon," said Jennings. "It comes from analyses and planning. More so than before, strategy is subject to negotiation."
 Because of the change, "executives have more input and independence and power," so that it is increasingly difficult for one chief to gain the unquestioned allegiance of a cadre of executives.

 "In many corporations, analytical techniques also permit alternative courses, in itself a source of disunity. If the chief cannot mold out of this a cohesive group, and handle his opponents, disunity grows."
 Most deposed presidents Jennings studied were vulnerable on the issue of effective leadership, he believes.
 One demonstrable weakness Jennings found is a "tendency to patronize disgruntled people." Rather than improve their own abilities and become more formidable, the chiefs "tried to sedate the disgruntled."

 Another weakness: a reluctance to fire those opposing them. And when they did fire someone, they had the remarkable bad luck or poor judgment to fire those the board considered very competent.
 A third weakness observed in deposed executives is "getting the feeling they are invincible or at least indispensable."
 If you try to sum up the experience of today's deposed executive, the nearest explanation might be to say he got fired not for making a decision that hurt profits, but that he mismanaged people.

 "Almost any chief executive officer will tell you he's already made enough mistakes to get fired," said Jennings.
 "Those who do get fired failed to manage the board and their executive corps."

He offers cautionary advice to corporate chiefs: "If you have a few disgruntled board members and a few disgruntled insiders (executives), watch out."
 You are not, he says, invincible or indispensable.

By contrast, in an open palace revolt sides are chosen and the revolting side makes a demand upon the board: "He goes or we go."
 Jennings, who teaches management at Michigan State University and is the author of numerous studies of corporate life, attributes the rising incidence of revolt to several peculiarities of today's business world.
 "In the 1960s there was a greater respect for authority and an unwritten law among boards that no palace revolt should be successful. Almost all boards were made up of business people," he said.
 "Boards are different today. They are comprised not only of business people but outsiders from various walks of life. Boards today are not as much believers in the old ethic."
 They meet more often too. In the 1960s, when directors met perhaps six times a year, there was little opportunity for an executive to inform discreetly on his boss. He simply didn't have the personal

Dog's Owners Give Pet Insulin Shots

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — You've heard the tale of the gallant seeing-eye dog that protects its blind master from pitfalls and ne'er-do-wells. This is the story of the master and his blind dog.
 Olive is a shaggy little mutt with a loving temperament who is blind and diabetic.
 She was adopted by John and Mary Littleford 12 years ago from the Princeton, N.J., humane society.
 "She was the ugliest one of the lot. Nobody wanted her," said Mrs. Littleford.
 Olive is part Airedale, basset hound and beagle — an airbasset — and she has a sweet tooth, with a special fondness for cookies and Dairy Queens.
 At first she got fat, but then she lost weight and began ailing. Her veterinarian said Olive was among the 2 percent of dogs with diabetes, and he recommended putting her to sleep.
 But the Littlefords decided to see if Olive could adjust to her condition, and she did.
 Olive gets a shot of insulin every morning and eats three carefully regulated meals a day. She goes to school with Littleford, who is now headmaster of Breck School in Minneapolis, so he can keep an eye on her in case she goes into insulin shock. If she does, he feeds her a cookie.
 "I'm always finding something from students marked for Olive on my desk — cakes, cookies — they don't know she can't eat those things now," Littleford said. "She even gets Valentines."

Being Alcoholic No Longer Mark Of Disgrace

By DOLORES BARCLAY
NEW YORK (AP) — They came together in the basement of a church to confront a common enemy, using weapons as old as time — caring and sharing.

Forty men and women — some haunted, some at peace. Forty men and women — professionals, unemployed, housekeepers and college educated. Forty alcoholics.

The admissions flowed freely and sometimes painfully as they shared their drinking experiences at the Alcoholics Anonymous meeting.

It's hard to realize this, but they are. You just have to have the faith. There were nods of agreement, as cigarettes blazed between some fingers and coffee steamed in hand-held styrofoam cups.

slow deterioration," he said. "When I was 16 or 17, I got drunk every Saturday night. Eventually, I had the shakes and got to stammering and stuttering." He married, continued to drink, started going through crying fits.

It could have been 1935 when AA began in Akron, Ohio. Then, as now, members of the self-supporting fellowship helped one another by sharing problems in an effort to grasp sobriety. But it's today, with less of a stigma attached to being an alcoholic.

An estimated 10 million Americans are problem drinkers, according to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. Of those, an estimated 404,000 were in AA last year. Ten years ago, there were 170,000 men and women in AA groups in the U.S. and Canada.

Part of the membership growth has to do with the fact that in 1970, all federally funded treatment programs were required to use AA, a spokesman for the group said. But the figures also reflect the increase in the number of women and young people who have developed drinking problems.

According to a 1977 membership survey, the number of people under 30 in AA had increased from 7.1 percent in 1968 to 11.3 percent. The number of women in U.S. and Canadian AA groups rose from 22 percent in 1968 to 29 percent last year.

There are more than 31,000 AA groups around the world in such places as Qatar, Sri Lanka, Tasmania, Iceland, Liechtenstein and Paraguay. In the U.S. alone, there are close to 20,000 groups.

Meetings are in accessible locations at times convenient to most people. They can be scheduled at noon or midnight, early evening or late night. The meetings can be open, allowing visitors and friends and relatives of alcoholics to attend, or closed.

The organization had its beginnings with that type of mutual support. Two hopeless alcoholics met. One, Bill W., a New York stockbroker, had managed to maintain sobriety. The other, an Akron surgeon named Dr. Bob S., had not. Both began working with alcoholics at City Hospital in Akron.

By 1939, three groups had begun in Akron, Cleveland and New York, producing about 100 sober alcoholics.

"The success of AA," one member said, "has to do with the fact that an alcoholic who has achieved sobriety can help other alcoholics by simply reaching out to the problem drinker by sharing common experiences and giving support."

At the very core of the AA program is the philosophy contained in the organization's "Twelve Steps." They begin: "We admitted we were powerless over alcohol — that our lives had become unmanageable." The 12th step is "Having had a spiritual awakening as the result of these steps, we tried to carry this message to alcoholics and to practice these principles in all our affairs."

Some members say an AA meeting is like a group therapy session. Others liken it to a spiritual revival. And in this the age of self-help and personal awareness, many of the younger members find AA not unlike some of the popularized and trendy encounter programs.

"I was once told by a shrink who was treating me that I would probably be one of his only losses," said one young woman at the meeting. "If it weren't for the fellowship, I'd be lost. If you feel depressed or feel like taking a drink, you just make one phone call and get to a meeting."

There are slips. There are times when the going is tough. AA members speak of the power of the telephone — of calling another member for support and of immediately going to the nearest and next meeting.

Divers Search For Pumpkins

SEATTLE (AP) — It was an early Halloween celebration, but not with traditional costumes as 300 divers donned underwater gear and took to chilly Elliot Bay in search of the Big Pumpkin and 99 lesser ones.

The 5th annual Great Underwater Pumpkin Hunt started with a splash when divers hit the surf in search of the numbered orange treasures, each corresponding to a prize back on land.

Claiming the top award, a $400 diving suit, was Mike McIntyre, 32, of Seattle, who said he runs a "mom and pop grocery without the mom." He brought back the No. 1 pumpkin — a jack o'lantern — from 50 feet of water.

McIntyre said the pumpkin "was about the size of a medicine ball. It was filled with rocks and it weighed quite a bit. A little girl wants it. I think I'll give it to her. I'll keep the dry suit and she can have the pumpkin for Halloween Tuesday."

The pumpkins were submerged at distances up to 100 yards from shore. Visibility was good, about 60 feet. Depth ranged from 20 to 100 feet. Water temperature was 50 degrees, barely three degrees less than the beach.

"In those diving suits, they're more comfortable than we are on the shore," said Harry Truett, an organizer of the event.

Truett started the hunt five years ago and said its attendance has been growing steadily over the years. Attendance this year was the largest ever.

Prizes ranged from the diving suit to an abalone picker, a device for scooping the mollusk from its shell.

YOUNG WELDER — Six-year-old Donny Kanz, Hendricks, Minn., has made about 45 hammers in his dad's repair shop. Donny wants to be a welder. (AP Laserphoto)

Kindergarten, Then Welding For Youngster

By CHUCK HAUCK

HENDRICKS, Minn. (AP) — A welder's torch hisses and a fireball cascades off a small workbench where an elfin figure — his blond curls tucked under a large welder's helmet — is busy making a hammer.

The scene is not Santa's workshop, but Bob's Repair in Hendricks. The confident elf is Donny Kanz, the proprietor's son.

The boy, an up-and-coming welder, is 6 years old. He's been around the shop since he was 2.

"He's got his own bench and his own welder," said Bob Kanz, Donny's father. "He does a pretty good job, too. If he keeps with it, someday he'll really be good at it."

Donny is known around town for his hammers. He cuts metal on a bandsaw, welds two pieces together, grinds the rough spots smooth and then spray paints the works. His dad supervises.

The result is a serviceable and popular tool. The going rate for a Donny Kanz hammer is 50 cents, and he's sold about 50 of them, his parents say.

He's also made a drum, cymbals and a teepee. "He wanted a drum, so he made one for himself," said his mother, Arlene Kanz.

Donny started kindergarten this year. But after school and dinner, he's back in the shop, she said.

The boy is shy around strangers — except when talk turns to business.

"What do you want to be when you grow up, Donny?" a recent visitor asked as the young entrepreneur turned out his fifth hammer of the day.

"A welder."

"Do you like welding?" "Uh-huh," he said, setting the hammer down and holding out an upturned palm. "That's 50 cents."

"He's quite a businessman," the visitor observed, reaching for coins.

"He even sold me one the other day," said Kanz, chuckling. "Made me pay for it, too."

The Kanz children are accustomed to work. Donny's 11-year-old sister, Tammy, has helped her mother run a cafe for the past two years. One of Donny's first projects was welding a latch on the cafe stove.

He also used his welding skills to create what may be the only modified tricycle in the county.

He welded a weight box to the front, lowered the seat and welded on a speed shift lever and throttle controls.

"It's a hot rod now," he says, proudly. "It really works, too."

Accused Murderers Acquitted By Judge

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A provincial judge acquitted 10 persons, including a former town mayor and seven policemen, in the killing of four policemen because he could not determine which of them was guilty, says the Philippine News Agency.

"It is better to acquit a man...even though he may in reality be guilty than to confine in the penitentiary a person who may be innocent," the agency quoted Judge Amante Alconcel of Nueva Ecija province, north of Manila, as saying.

Operating Costs Of New Cars Increase 10 Percent

DETROIT (UPI) — The cost of owning and operating a typical new car in 1978 surged upward more than 10 percent to an average of 33.1 cents per mile or $3,310 a year, a study by the Hertz Corp. shows.

The annual survey released Sunday by the car rental and leasing firm was based on a normally equipped, intermediate-size two-door sedan driven 10,000 miles a year and kept for three years.

Comparable 1977 costs amounted to 30.1 cents a mile or $3,010 a year, a 7 percent increase over the preceding year, Hertz said.

Expenses estimated in the study included outlays for fuel, oil, parts, service, repairs, licenses, fees, interest and depreciation — the difference between a car's purchase price and resale value.

Hertz said since the 1973 Arab oil embargo, new car costs have climbed more than 64 percent, outpacing by more than one-third a 46.4 percent rise in the Consumer Price Index during the period.

Most of the 1978 increase was attributed to higher interest rates and insurance premiums — both now more than double their 1973 levels — Hertz said.

Interest on auto loans climbed from an average 3.08 cents per mile in 1977 to 4.13 cents in 1978, a 34 percent increase for the 12 months end a 103 percent hike since 1973, the report said.

Insurance expenses rose 15 percent, from 5.60 cents per mile a year ago to 6.47 cents in 1978. Since 1973, insurance costs have shot up 108 percent.

Insurance alone now costs the typical new car driver more than gasoline during an auto's early years, and interest is about equal to spending for fuel during this initial period of a car's life," Hertz Executive Vice President J. E. Menendez said.

Both costs, he said, were related to a 7 percent increase in the average purchase price of vehicles during the 1977-78 period. The report listed the average drive-away price of a typically equipped intermediate-size car at $5,578, taxes included, compared with $5,211 the previous year. The average 1973 price was $3,493, the report said.

More fuel-efficient vehicles helped motorists trim their average gasoline expenses for the year to 4.06 cents a mile from 4.23 cents a year ago. Average fuel consumption for 10,000 miles of driving dropped from 645 gallons to 588 gallons, Hertz said.

Other service station items rose more than 13 percent while maintenance and servicing expenses, led by a substantial increase in tire prices, rose 9 percent during the period, the firm said.

The size of a car, the length of time it is kept and actual miles driven can change the per-mile expense substantially, the study said.

For instance, a 1978 subcompact kept three years will cost an average 25.8 cents a mile for a yearly saving of more than $700 compared with intermediates, Hertz said.

A full-size car will cost an average 36.9 cents per mile or $3,691 a year, $379 more than an intermediate and $1,111 more than a subcompact.

A car driven more than 10,000 miles a year costs less per mile because "fixed" expenses, such as interest and insurance, are spread over greater mileage, the study noted. However, annual dollar outlays are higher because of greater fuel, service and upkeep expenses.

The longer a car is kept, the smaller the depreciation expense because of lower rates of depreciation on older cars, Hertz said.

Great Crash Proved Costly To Bouvier Family

Reprinted from "Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis" by Stephen Birmingham. Copyright 1978 by Stephen Birmingham. All rights reserved. By arrangement with Grosset & Dunlap, Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

EDITOR'S NOTE — "The unfolding saga of Jacqueline Onassis has contained murder, betrayal, suspense, powerful men who have used and misused our beautiful heroine," writes Stephen Birmingham in his new biography, "Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis." Yet, in the end, she manages to triumph over them all. Birmingham's tale of America's most watched woman continues with this excerpt on the disintegration of her parents' marriage.

By STEPHEN BIRMINGHAM
When young "Black Jack" Bouvier marched down to Wall Street after World War I, he was following in the jaunty footsteps of his grandfather and great uncle. It was, in those days, what one did, especially if one had no particular ability to do anything else. Hundreds of well-dressed young men, fresh out of Yale and Princeton, flocked to the "Street" after graduation. For these young men, in their bowlers and Panamas, the Street was like an extension of college.

On weekends, they climbed into roadsters and drove out to Long Island. On the Street, the hours were easy and flexible. If a party ran on all night, you could go down to the Street in white tie and tails, place a few orders and go back to your office to sleep off the night before.

Wall Street in those days was anyone's game. The rules were few and simple. Even a novice could play. No real talent was required to succeed.

And Jack Bouvier had no real talent — other than a talent to charm. At Yale, Class of '14, he had been a mediocre student, much to his Phi Beta Kappa father's disappointment. He spent most of his time on his social life; he was a play-boy before the term became current.

On the Street, it went without saying, he would be a whiz. Throughout the early '20s, stocks did so well and Jack traded them so nimbly that, by the time he married Janet Lee, he had increased his personal wealth by almost $1 million and was earning $100,000 a year in commissions alone. The future seemed limitless.

By the late summer in 1929, however, when Jack and Janet's daughter was still a baby, a number of Wall Street investors had grown wary of the steadily booming market. One of these canny fellows was Joseph P. Kennedy. Another was Jack's great uncle, Michel C. Bouvier, who converted his stock position into several millions of dollars in cash, gold and Liberty bonds.

Bud Bouvier, Jack's alcoholic younger brother, was buried on Oct. 15, 1929, a dark day for the family. Four days later there was an even darker one. Stock prices dropped sharply, the first tremor of the great crash that was to come.

On Tuesday, Oct. 29, speculators started leaping to their deaths from office windows across the country. After leaving his office that day, Jack Bouvier went out to East Hampton to spend the night with his father, Jacqueline Bouvier, just three months old, remained with her mother in a shattered and terrified New York.

Interestingly, Jack appeared to have made money during October. But when, in November, the market declined even more steeply, that paper profit was completely wiped out.

During this grim period, the Bouviers decided that, no matter what reversals they might have endured, there was no reason to alter their splendid style of life. Jack Bouvier's father continued to maintain Lasata, their East Hampton estate, with the gardener, the cook, the maids and chauffeur.

Jack, Janet and little Jackie continued in style on Park Avenue, with a governess for the baby. Jack kept his stable of jumpers in the country. The stock market would rebound soon, Jack seemed to feel, and in the meantime one could live on capital. In 1931, society columns reported that Jacqueline Bouvier celebrated her second birthday with a family trip to the dog show.

Behind this fragile and elaborate facade, there were some harsh realities that no one talked about.

At the time of the crash, Jack had gone to his richest relative, his great-uncle Michel, and asked to borrow money. Michel, then in his 80s and a bachelor, had gotten out of the market $1.6 million ahead and was worth about $7 million. Jack had hoped for a loan of at least $100,000. The old man was not in a generous mood; he was willing to lend his nephew only $25,000.

Jack then turned in humiliation to his father-in-law, with whom he had never gotten along, for money. James T. Lee was a crusty Irishman who had made every penny he had by himself. He deplored and derided the kind of "high society life," as he called it, that Jack led. He put his son-in-law on the carpet and lectured him for the better part of four hours.

It was a triumphant moment for Big Jim Lee: the self-made tycoon being asked for alms by the profligate aristocrat. He ordered Jack to cut down on his extravagant style of living, specifically to divest himself of a number of expensive club memberships. Then, though he would lend Jack no money, Jim Lee said he would help out by letting Jack, Janet and Jackie live, rent free, in a large duplex apartment in a luxury building Lee owned.

Meekly, Jack accepted this largesse. From then on, he was under the thumb of his father-in-law, who did not let him forget it. "Remember, you're living in my house," Lee reminded Jack whenever he came to visit his little granddaughter.

Franklin D. Roosevelt swept into office in 1933. Though Roosevelt was anathema to Wall Street, there was a surge of optimism in the country and something of a rally in the stock market. In anticipation of the repeal of Prohibition, Jack Bouvier had bought some liquor-company stocks, and they had begun to rise.

That was enough to make Jack decide to celebrate his fifth wedding anniversary as though the Depression did not exist with a large party at the Long Island place. It was to be a summer of parties reminiscent of the great balls that went on in Vienna as troops marched through the city. Beggars and panhandlers might be crowding the streets and the suburbs might be sprouting shanty towns, but Jack and Janet Bouvier had their party.

Three weeks later, Grandfather Lee tossed a huge birthday party for little Jacqueline's fourth birthday. The following day, her baby sister, born earlier that year, was christened Caroline Lee Bouvier in an obsequious gesture to her grandfather. Afterwards, Jack and Janet gave a garden party for 200 guests; everyone drank to the fact that the Depression was over.

But the Depression was not over. Still, there were brief bright spots for Jack Bouvier.

In the summer of 1933, he made a profit of $2 million from his liquor stocks. At his father-in-law's advice, he sold them and deposited the money in Lee's Chase National Bank. He swore that the money would stay there, drawing interest, until the day he died. But the temptation to speculate was too great. By the following January, all that was left of the $2 million was $195,211.94.

Roosevelt had appointed former stockbroker Joseph P. Kennedy to head the newly created Securities and Exchange Commission, and designed to police the Stock Exchange and prevent the unchecked speculation of the 1920s from happening again.

At first, Wall Street interpreted the appointment as a conciliatory gesture in Wall Street's behalf. After all, Wall Street knew Joe Kennedy as "one of us" — and perhaps an even greater scoundrel than any of them when it came to speculating. But when Joe Kennedy began imposing all sorts of rules and regulations designed to hamstring his old cronies and bridle their familiar, care-free practice, there were cries of dismay. Kennedy was called a traitor to his class and a great many worse things. Kennedy was blackballed by every exclusive club in the country, even ones he had no desire to join.

To Jack Bouvier, the name Kennedy was enough to make his entire face clench. If anyone told him in 1934 that his daughter would marry Joe Kennedy's son, he would have knocked that person to the floor and kicked him. When Jacqueline Bouvier was learning to read and write, one of the first things she learned was that Kennedy was a dirty word around the house.

The year 1934 was even worse for Jack Bouvier. That year he earned a mere $4,683.75 in dividends and $2,188.44 in brokerage commissions.

Nor had his cost of living diminished. To maintain himself, his wife, two daughters, the Park Avenue duplex, the summer place in East Hampton, two servants, a chauffeur and, of course, the stable of seven hunters, cost him $38,894.81 that year.

Where was the money coming from? From a steadily diminishing supply of capital. But it must have seemed a very secure world to his 5½-year-old daughter, being taken for strolls in the park with her crisply uniformed nanny, kissing Daddy goodbye as he rolled off for the office in a big chauffeur-driven car. "You're a very fortunate little girl," her nurse reminded her.

Old Uncle Michel Bouvier died the day after Jacqueline's sixth birthday. Everyone waited excitedly to see what his or her slice of Uncle Michel's pie might be.

It turned out that Uncle Michel wasn't quite as rich as everyone thought. His estate amounted to only about $3.25 million. Charities got $145,000.

Jack himself, of whom his great uncle never really approved, got $5,000. But in addition to this token bequest, he inherited the "mantle" of his uncle's brokerage business, along with such intangibles as the firm's prestige and good will. With this, he quickly formed the firm of Bouvier, Bishop & Co., which on its letterhead proclaimed itself "Successors to M. C. Bouvier & Co."

At the same time, Jack's marriage was coming apart. His indebtedness to Janet's father, of which he was daily reminded, did not help.

Jack had begun to say that he was just "not cut out for" marriage. His friends agreed. He had enjoyed being a happy-go-lucky bachelor for too long to be pinned down to a wife and children. By 1936, the couple had agreed to a trial separation. Lawyers worked on the financial arrangements.

What should have been clear to everyone was that Jack and Janet Bouvier were ill-suited to each other from the beginning. Their temperaments and goals were quite different.

Jack was a man born for good times, not bad. Also, Jack was a man not meant for middle age. He was a youth at heart, a Yale who had never grown up — because he had never had to. In 1936, Jack Bouvier was 45. Fifty loomed. The famous trim figure had begun to paunch, and the ministrations of the sun lamp could not prevent the famous square jawline from developing jowls. The dark, pomaded hair had held but there was graying at the temples. Adonis was growing old.

Kissinger Predicts Treaty Signing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger predicts a Mideast peace treaty will be signed before the three-month deadline established at the Camp David Summit, despite recent differences between Egypt and Israel.

"We have to get used to the fact that where passions are so deep, there will be many ups and downs," Kissinger told a news conference Saturday during the annual meeting of the American Jewish Committee.

Kissinger, who received the group's American Liberties Medallion, praised both Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt for winning the Nobel peace prize, saying the two leaders had "broken through the stereotypes of a generation."

He also praised President Carter.

"He had the handicap of not having my advice. You can't imagine how painful it was to me to see how much could be accomplished without me," he quipped.

"When I needed prayers, an awful lot of people prayed for me. I've never forgotten that." — JAMES SCHELICH, who was blinded and lost 75 percent of his hearing in the Korean war, indicating that part of the record $275,000 slot-machine jackpot he won will go to charitable organizations.

Firemen, Policemen Get Discount

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The best seats went for $500, but the singer requested 1,000 tickets be priced at $5 apiece for the city's policemen and firefighters.

The singer, Francis Albert Sinatra, son of a Hoboken, N.J., firefighter.

Sinatra's benefit performance Sunday night — his first Boardwalk concert in more than a decade — was for a local hospital and about 15,000 persons gathered at the huge Convention Hall to hear him.

Local civic leaders said they hoped the Sinatra concert would raise more than $600,000 for the Atlantic City Medical Center.

Newman Finishes Second

FLOWERY BRANCH, Ga. (AP) — Actor Paul Newman was relegated to a supporting role in a C Production class auto race, one of 22 weekend races at Road Atlanta.

The screen star, listed as P.L. Newman of Westport, Conn., started third Sunday but dropped to fifth midway through the 18-lap race around a 2 1/2-mile track. By the finish, he was in second place, 12 1/2 seconds behind winner Frank Leary of Santa Clara, Calif.

Both Newman and Leary drove Datsun 280Zs.

Liza Minnelli Ailing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Entertainer Liza Minnelli remained under a doctor's care here after canceling a Sunday night concert at the Indiana Convention-Exposition Center in Indianapolis.

Promoters for the concert said they would make ticket refunds.

'Angel' Marries Dennis Cole

NEW YORK (AP) — The engagement lasted "so long I can't remember," said actress Jaclyn Smith. But it ended in seven minutes when the co-star of television's "Charlie's Angeles" married actor Dennis Cole in a brief ceremony.

About 25 persons, including Kate Jackson, a "Charlie's Angels" co-star, attended the wedding Sunday in Marble Collegiate Church on Fifth Avenue. Dr. Arthur Caliendo, a pastor at the interdenominational church run by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, officiated at the service.

Cole, 38, said he considered himself a lucky man and added, "She's a beautiful woman."

Asked how long they had been engaged, Cole said, "About two years," although a recent article in "People" magazine, said the 32-year-old Miss Smith and Cole met about 18 months ago when he made a guest appearance on "Charlie's Angels."

The Fast Fist Of Justice

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A masked gunman who tried to hold up a tavern didn't have to wait out the long legal process for his punishment.

A 235-pound rugby player gave it to him on the spot.

Authorities said the gunman entered Egan's Bar in Kansas City Friday night and pointed a .38-caliber pistol at the head of 30-year-old Ray Ritchie, a 6-footer who plays rugby for the Kansas City Blues.

Instead of being intimidated, Ritchie put his fist into the gunman's jaw. Bar patrons said they had to intervene to save the assailant.

James Valiant, 36, of Columbia was charged with a string of crimes including assault with intent to kill. His bond was set at $10,000.

Rough Seas Force Salvage Delay

ST INGOES, Md. (AP) — Rough seas today forced an indefinite delay in an effort to lift the ill-fated Cuyahoga from the bottom of the Chesapeake Bay, the Navy and Coast Guard announced.

The death toll from the sinking of the cutter is now officially put at 11.

The Coast Guard said the body of Senior Chief Machinery Technician David Markin, 34, of Newport News, Va., was found Sunday two miles west of where the Cuyahoga sank after a collision Oct. 20 with the Argentine coal ship Santa Cruz II. The Coast Guard ended its search after the location of Markin's body, spokesman Fred Maldonado said.

Eighteen other crewmen on the Cuyahoga, the Coast Guard's oldest vessel, were rescued after the accident. No one on the 521-foot freighter was injured.

Efforts to raise the steel-hulled, 125-foot cutter, lying in 57 feet of water, had been scheduled to begin Sunday evening but were postponed because adjustments were necessary on the slings under the Cuyahoga, Maldonado said.

Bargain Price Asked For Maryland Farm

BALTIMORE (AP) — Buyers ready to till the land will find a 557-acre farm is up for sale at $1.25 million on the Baltimore-Harford county line at the Little Gunpowder River.

The will of the recently deceased owner, William Graham of Baltimore, says it should be sold, even at a lower price, "to one who is likely to farm it," according to attorney Read McCaffery, who's handling the estate, worth about $8 million. A developer familiar with area prices estimated the tract is worth more than twice the asking price, if it could be developed.

U.S. Agency Studying Atmosphere

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Luminescent clouds of barium released from a satellite over Alaska spread southwestward high above the earth today in a government experiment to study the movement of particles in the atmosphere.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration released four canisters of barium from the satellite early Sunday on a command from its tracking station at Gilmore Creek, Alaska.

Each canister created a separate cloud more than 600 miles long and drifting southwestward, following the satellite's near-polar orbit.

Within a few hours the glowing, bluish-white clouds were visible through NASA tracking telescopes as far south as Arizona and Hawaii, a spokesman said at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in suburban Maryland.

"If the weather conditions in the upper atmosphere are good, there's a chance the clouds will be seen (by telescope) all the way around the world," the spokesman said.

The barium, released at an altitude of 590 miles, was too high to be visible to the naked eye except in Alaska, but skies in that state were mostly overcast Sunday. On the North Slope, the only area with partly clear conditions, a security guard at a pump station on the Alaska pipeline said he hadn't seen any glowing clouds.

NASA said it has used rockets to release barium, a harmless chemical that dissipates in space, into the atmosphere. But Sunday's barium experiment was the first conducted from a satellite, and the highest the element has been released above the earth.

The satellite was the orbiting second stage of the Delta rocket that was used last Tuesday to launch the Nimbus 7 into a polar orbit.

The experiment, called Project Cameo for "chemically active material ejected into orbit," is designed to help scientists learn more about the complex movements of electrified natural particles in and above the earth's ionosphere by plotting the movement of the barium.

"It was launched as part of our continuing study of the weather," the NASA spokesman said. "We will try to determine how the upper reaches of our atmosphere affect our weather."

The NASA scientists were taking pictures of the patterns through camera stations at three Alaskan sites: along the coast, at Gilmore Creek and Ft. Yukon. In addition, a NASA jet operated out of Fairbanks.

The flow of the natural ionized particles in the upper atmosphere and in space above it is somewhat like the eddies and whirlpools in a fast-flowing river. The space scientists said they used the sheets of glowing barium in the sky as one might use dye dumped into a river to make the flow easier to understand.

Later NASA plans to release lithium, another harmless chemical, over northern Scandinavia in a similar experiment.

Ruling Pends In Inmate's Cell Hanging

A Lubbock County Jail inmate who apparently tried to hang himself Saturday afternoon died shortly before midnight Sunday at West Texas Hospital.

However, Justice of the Peace L.J. Black said early today he had not made a ruling in the death of Jesse Sanchez, 22, of 307 33rd St. The inmate died about 11:45 p.m. in the intensive care unit.

Services are pending with Sanders Funeral Home.

Jail officials discovered the inmate in the shower of his second-floor cell about 4:15 p.m. Saturday after his cellmate had become concerned about the length of time the man was spending in the shower.

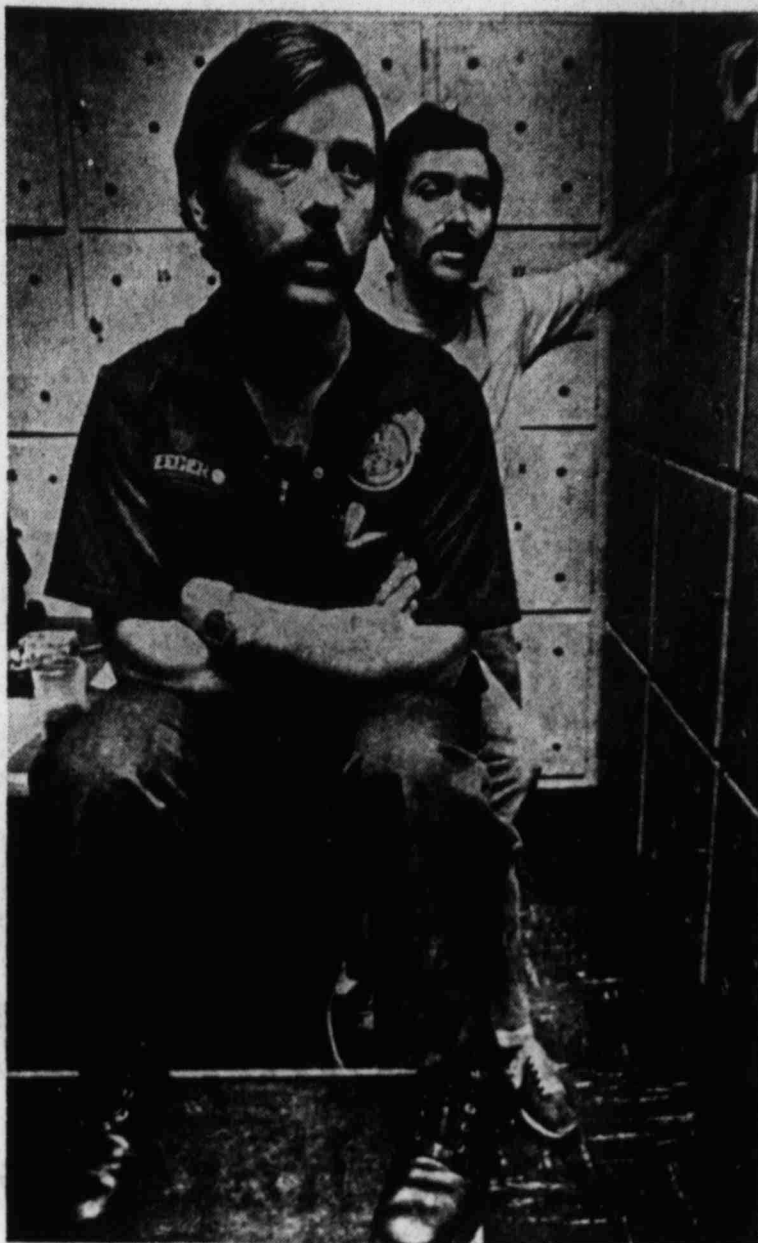

Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard said the man, who is possibly an illegal alien, tied his socks together, looped them around his neck and tied the other end of the makeshift rope to the shower handle.

He had been arrested by Lubbock police shortly before midnight Thursday when officers stopped him after he allegedly ran a stop sign at 71st Street and Avenue U. After stopping the man, officers also discovered he had no driver's license.

According to reports, the arresting officers also suspected that he might be an illegal alien and booked him into the county jail about 12:30 a.m. Friday, pending completion of a U.S. Border Patrol check on the man.

BONE MARROW BANK

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Clinic Foundation has started a bone marrow bank for persons who face possible exposure to lethal doses of radiation. Dr. William S. Kiser, chairman of the board of governors, said the clinic will take bone marrow from "persons working in high risk occupations" such as at the nuclear power plants now being built along the shores of Lake Erie in northern Ohio.

DEAD WOMAN'S BABY SAVED — Los Angeles Fire Department paramedics Ray Seeger and Mel Samples, rear, were able to help doctors save the 8-month-old fetus of a 28-year-old shooting fatality Saturday night in southeast Los Angeles. By keeping the body of Mary Miracle Ross on life-support systems as they raced to a hospital, they were able to keep her fetus alive long enough for doctors to deliver a live baby. (AP Laserphoto)

Anti-Unionists Claim Contributions Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group opposed to compulsory unionism charged today that 18 candidates for the U.S. Senate received more than $730,000 in illegal campaign contributions from organized labor.

The National Right-to-Work Committee said it planned to file a formal complaint today with the Federal Election Commission.

Committee President Reed Larson said the complaint represents "the first batch" of nearly 200 congressional candidates that the committee alleges have received illegal contributions from the AFL-CIO and its affiliated unions. Larson said similar complaints would be filed shortly.

A spokesman for the AFL-CIO said the labor federation has not violated any political spending laws and said the charges "smack of harassment."

Federal campaign financing laws limit congressional candidates from receiving more than $5,000 from any one union or business political committee.

Larson said the candidates have violated the law by accepting $5,000 each from the AFL-CIO's political committee and then accepting more money from dozens of unions that are affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

"The limit on contributions from one entity is $5,000," he said. "But some entities try to call themselves groups of separate entities in order to beat the $5,000 limit. The AFL-CIO is the No. 1 offender."

The committee's complaint named the following Senate candidates, all but one Democrats, and the amount of money they allegedly received illegally above the $5,000 limit:

Women's Dorm Guttured By Fire

GEORGETOWN (AP) — Sneed House, a Southwestern University dormitory housing 20 women students, was destroyed by fire early today. No one was injured.

School officials said the wood-frame, two-story building was insured for $89,500. Formerly a private residence, it was built in 1910 and had been purchased by the college in the 1940s to house students.

Students were awakened by a smoke alarm about 3:30 a.m. and got out before the flames spread. Officials said the fire apparently began in a second-floor bathroom.

Patrolling city police discovered the fire and reported it about the same time as dormitory residents were calling the fire department from a nearby residence.

None of the personal property of the students was saved.

All residents of the building had been accounted for and were placed in other dormitories on campus, officials said.

Opponents Of Shah Killed By Raiders

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Several hundred tribesmen raided the town of Paveh in western Iran today and killed 30 to 40 anti-government demonstrators, according to press reports reaching Tehran.

The fighting between opponents and supporters of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi reportedly occurred about 350 miles west of Tehran near the Iraqi border.

According to early reports, the tribesmen — in tribal costumes and riding horses — attacked the town at mid-day as several thousand persons were staging a rally in the town square against the shah.

Government officials were not available for comment and the report could not be confirmed.

More than 1,000 persons have been killed in anti-government protests this year. Many of the demonstrations have been led by leaders of the Moslem Shiite sect, angry about the shah's Western-type reforms that give more freedom to women and redistribute church lands among peasants. Most Iranians, including the shah, are Shiite Moslems.

The protesters also want the shah to abolish SAVAK, his secret police force. The government said 34 SAVAK officers were discharged Sunday, but it did not elaborate.

About 100,000 government foes staged a march today in the religious city of Mashad northeast of Iran, despite government declarations prohibiting such gatherings. The Kayhan newspaper said. The demonstrators, reportedly led by Shiite Moslem leaders, demanded the establishment of an Islamic government.

Soldiers watched the demonstrators in Mashad, but reportedly made no attempt to disperse the crowd.

In Tehran, thousands marched onto the Tehran University campus for an anti-shah demonstration. They demanded a new government headed by exiled leader Ayatulla Khomeini, who lives in Paris, and dispersed when it rained.

Forty-six religious leaders issued a statement denying they had called for a mass anti-government demonstration on Tuesday. They said a statement issued in their name had been fabricated.

Press reports said 50,000 persons demonstrated peacefully in Gorgan. In Zanjan, anti-government protesters reportedly set a number of fires.

In other developments: —Jaafar Behbehani, a former political leader, said today "the public will gradually resort to arms to fight the regime" if it ignores public opinion.

Speaking at a news conference to announce his return to politics, Behbehani said he was in contact with all religious leaders in Iran and is willing to help find a solution to the current political crisis.

—The government said the flow of natural gas through a pipeline to the Soviet Union was interrupted when hundreds of workers at a major refinery walked out demanding higher wages and the release of political prisoners.

The line supplies the neighboring Soviets with about 30 billion cubic feet of gas annually, officials said. Saturday's walk-out, combined with a strike by about 400,000 teachers, means about half the country's public employees are on strike for higher pay and more political freedom.

Thousands of other government employees have ended their strikes on government assurances that their demands would be met.

On Sunday, thousands of anti-government protesters clashed with police in 37 cities around Iran and authorities said at least eight were killed when police fired into crowds.

Tanks and heavy vehicles rolled to Tehran University Sunday where more than 10,000 persons gathered to demand resignation of the government of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

Bus Wreck Injures 42

MCHENRY, Ill. (AP) — A school bus rounding a curve overturned and ripped open today, injuring 42 children and the bus driver, officials said. They said one child was critically injured and 10 children and the driver were seriously hurt.

"The whole back of the bus ripped off," said 10-year-old Anthony Congine, who was taken to Ambulatory emergency facility in Crystal Lake.

"The bus driver went around a curve and she went off the road and then tried to get back on and lost control," Anthony said. "I was one of the lucky ones, I wasn't hurt."

Anthony said the children who had been sitting in the back of the bus were the ones most seriously injured. "Some people were bleeding on the face and on the arms," he said.

RUSSIA AIDS CASTRO — Communist Cuba now has Russia's most advanced MiG-23 jet fighters, like the one shown above, according to U.S. intelligence sources. Some of the MiG-23s used by the Soviet Union are equipped to carry air-to-ground missiles, which could pose a threat to the United States in time of war. (AP Laserphoto)

Cuba Reportedly Gets Speedy Russian MiGs

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, Russia reportedly has given Cuba advanced high-speed MiG-23 jet fighters.

The acquisition of MiG-23s substantially upgrades Cuba's air defense force, which until now has been equipped chiefly with less sophisticated MiG-21s and other, older MiGs.

Some types of the MiG-23 "Flogger" are believed by U.S. intelligence officials to be capable of firing tactical nuclear weapons as well as conventional arms on ground-attack missions. It could not be learned whether the new jets sent to Cuba are designed for ground attack as well as for air-to-air combat.

Intelligence sources, who declined to be named, said an estimated 18 to 20 MiG-23s arrived in Cuba earlier this month aboard a Soviet freighter. That many planes would comprise about a squadron.

The aircraft were shipped disassembled in crates and it was not until they were observed flying that U.S. intelligence identified them as MiG-23s.

Earlier this year, Defense Secretary Harold Brown listed the MiG-23 among several newer types of Soviet warplanes which he told Congress "have substantially better ranges and payloads than their predecessors."

MiG-23s have been assigned to Soviet fighter units based in East Germany for five years and the Russians supplied them to only a few Warsaw pact allies and Arab countries ahead of Cuba.

It is uncertain whether Russian or Cuban pilots have been flying the MiG-23s provided to Fidel Castro's air force. Several months ago, U.S. intelligence officials reported Moscow had sent about 30 Russian pilots to Cuba to replace Cubans then flying combat missions in Africa.

Thanks to billions of dollars in Soviet weapon gifts since the early 1960s, plus combat experience gained in Angola and Ethiopia, the Cuban armed forces are rated as the best in Latin America.

The level of Soviet military aid to Cuba has increased noticeably since Castro committed his troops to the pro-Marxist side in the Angolan civil war in 1975.

Since early last year, U.S. intelligence has reported Soviet ships delivering to Cuba T62 tanks, SA3 low-altitude air defense missiles, radar, patrol boats, landing craft, short-haul transport planes, MiGs, ammunition, communications equipment and military trucks.

As with military assistance, the Russians have been subsidizing Cuba's economy and analysts estimate that Russia has supplied Cuba nearly $10 billion in economic aid since 1961. Most of this aid has been in the form of subsidies for purchases of Cuban sugar and oil, as well as some consumer and industrial goods unavailable from Western sources.

Reward Of $50,000 Offered For Child

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A wealthy couple, their nerves shredded by days of silence from their 6-year-old son's kidnapper, added a tearful plea to a $50,000 reward offer for the boy's safe return.

"We beg you, please don't hurt him, we haven't seen him in so many days," Marilyn Sayegh, the child's mother, sobbed Sunday as she stood in front of her rambling, two-story home in a fashionable neighborhood about a mile west of the Las Vegas Strip.

"Please don't hurt him and we'll do anything," she pleaded. "Please just let him come home. He's so little..."

Cary Sayegh disappeared from the playground of Albert Einstein Hebrew School last Wednesday about noon. The family since has received only one telephone call from his abductor, said FBI spokesman Bill Jansen.

The call came about three hours after the child disappeared. The kidnapper demanded $50,000 and said instructions on how the money was to be delivered would follow in a call at "midday Friday," Jansen said.

"As of this time, no additional telephone calls have been received and the boy is still missing," he said.

Cary's father, Sol Sayegh, the owner of a large carpet firm, was unshaven and looked haggard as he stood silently beside his wife.

Sayegh, 33, along with two other men, faces trial in federal court for allegedly attempting to bribe the chairman of the Nevada Gaming Commission in an effort to have a new type of coin-operated gaming device approved for use in the state's casinos.

Jansen said the family had offered a $50,000 reward for information leading to Cary's safe return.

The news media learned of the kidnap shortly after it occurred, but voluntarily withheld publication of the story at the FBI's request. The family decided to break their silence after hearing no more from the abductor, Jansen said.

He declined to say whether the caller was a man or woman, and added that the parents "have not talked to the boy. All we can tell you is there has been only one telephone call."

Jansen refused comment on whether the FBI had a suspect, but said he believed the case was "the most intensive investigation that has ever been conducted in Las Vegas."

Fred McGowan, a juvenile division detective of the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, said Cary is about 4-foot-2, weighs 60 pounds and has dark brown hair and brown eyes.

The Sayeghs also have a 13-year-old son and a 9-year-old daughter.

Mideast Peace Talks Resume

Further negotiations were then delayed last week because of a U.S.-Israeli dispute over Israel's declaration that it intends to expand Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Although the Israeli Cabinet's discussions were kept secret, the new Egyptian proposals for a draft treaty were likely to have been discussed.

The current differences between Egypt and Israel focus on how the treaty should be linked to progress in talks on the more complex issues of the Palestinians and the West Bank. Egypt wants a strong link and Israel wants the treaty to stand on its own.

Naor said the two newly appointed Cabinet committees are expected to report their recommendations within a few days.

One, chaired by Finance Minister Simha Ehrlich, will study such questions as trade, tourism and development projects. The second, headed by Energy Minister Yitzhak Modai, will determine Israel's claim to compensation for the development of new Sinai oil wells and improvements in captured Egyptian oil fields. Egypt is putting up counter-claims for the oil Israel extracted.

Israel Radio on Sunday said U.S. officials were awaiting a letter from Begin to President Carter on the West Bank settlements issue, and that the Americans would then prepare a new draft treaty to try to bridge the reported differences between the two sides.

The letter follows complaints from President Carter that Israel's decision to expand Jewish settlements in the West Bank was detrimental to the talks.

The text of the correspondence was not made public, but Naor said Sunday it reiterated Begin's position at the Camp David summit that there would be an "addition of several hundred families" in the occupied area.

Tech To Conduct Oriental Art Sale

A collection of original Oriental art containing approximately 500 pieces from China, Japan, Indian, Nepal, Thailand and Tibet will be exhibited for sale from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday at Texas Tech University Center Courtyard.

Modern pieces consist of many original woodcuts, mezzotints, lithographs, etchings and serigraphs. Artists of these include Saito, Azechi, Mori, Katsuda and Maki.

Older prints date back to the 18th and 19th centuries. They include Chinese woodcuts, Indian miniature paintings and manuscripts and master works by such artists as Hiroshie, Kuniyoshi and Kuni-sada.

Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, first published in 1865, was written by C.I. Dodgson under the pen-name Lewis Carroll.

In London, the pound jumped more than 3 cents to $2.0990, the first time it has been as high as $2.09 since mid-September, 1975. The pound closed Friday at $2.0630.

In Amsterdam, the dollar fell sharply to 1.8940 guilders in early trading from Friday's closer of 1.9400 guilders.

Some European dealers commented that only central bank intervention could stop the dollar sliding further. However, a Tokyo dealer reported that despite the U.S. currency's fall there the Japanese Central Bank made no move to prop it up.

The dollar has shed about 30 percent of its value in its 18-month nosedive. This has been caused by major problems in the U.S. economy.

President Carter last week announced a major counter-inflation package in a bid to halt the dollar's slide. It gave the currency only a brief boost.

The dollar opened at 1.4982 Swiss francs, down from Friday's 1.5040-franc closer. By mid-morning it had tumbled to 1.4917 francs.

In Milan, the dollar was quoted at an

IRS Denies Meddling In Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says it is not trying to interfere with private education with its new anti-discrimination proposal.

The IRS will hold hearings Dec. 5 on its plan to remove tax-exemption status from schools which it says discriminate on the basis of race.

Since 1970, a private school with a racially discriminatory policy has not qualified for tax exemption and cannot get tax-exempt contributions.

However, the IRS says some schools have been found by courts to discriminate while still keeping their tax-exempt status.

On Aug. 21, the IRS proposed new rules which would remove tax-exempt status if a judge found the school to be discriminatory.

It could also remove tax-exemption if the schools "were formed or substantially expanded at or about the time of desegregation of public schools in the community and do not have significant minority enrollment."

The IRS will retain the tax-exempt status of these schools, however, if a school has a significant minority enrollment or if it shows it "is operated in good faith on a nondiscriminatory basis."

That can be shown by having four out of the five following activities: minority scholarships, minority recruitment, minority teachers, increased minority enrollment and other good-faith efforts.

A school would have significant minority enrollment if it had enrolled 20 percent of the percentage of minority school age population in the community. For example, if a community had a 50 percent minority student population, a school with 10 percent minority students would meet this test.

In a speech at Stony Brook, N.Y., last Thursday, an IRS official said many of the comments received so far "appear to be based on a misunderstanding of the role of the IRS."

Chief counsel Stuart E. Seigel said, "The service is not attempting to establish social policy or to regulate private education in the United States."

"Our role in this area is thrust upon us by our responsibility to monitor the tax-exempt status of charitable organizations. Our role is to reflect, not to create, public policy."

Seigel said some religious groups have protested that the proposals "do not adequately take into account special conditions they face in attracting minority students. This is a question we will be examining closely."

He said some schools report they cannot meet the guidelines, "yet assert vigorously that they are not discriminatory."

Seigel said the program does not set a racial quota.

High Court

At issue is whether former deputy administrative assistant Shirley Davis can sue former Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., for money damages. She says her constitutional rights were violated when Passman dismissed her in 1975 because he wanted to put a man in the job.

In addition, the court: —Turned down an appeal by a competitor who charges Sen. William Proxmire's wife unfairly used special privileges in operating a convention tour business in the nation's capital.

—Agreed to consider whether a person who wants to bring an age discrimination suit must seek relief through a state agency, if possible, before going to federal court.

—Refused to prevent the Securities and Exchange Commission from making public detailed questionable overseas payment charges against International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

County Candidates Discuss Issues

This set of questions posed to candidates for Lubbock County Commissioner, Precinct 4, marks the beginning of a series of interviews to be conducted before the Nov. 7 general election. All candidates who will appear in contested races on the Lubbock County ballot will be polled on issues considered pertinent to the offices they seek. The names of the candidates are presented in the order in which they will appear on the ballot.

BRAZZELL

Alton Brazzell, 50, is a graduate of Lubbock High School and the incumbent Precinct 4 county commissioner. He has been a commissioner for the past 20 years. He and his wife Nila live at 4801 11th St. They have a son, Kirk, 17. He is a Democrat.

AGÜERO

Bidal Agüero, 29, has a bachelor's degree from Texas Tech University and a master's degree in education from the University of Wisconsin at Whitewater. He is editor-publisher of El Editor, a weekly bilingual newspaper, and El Portavoz, a quarterly bilingual magazine. He and his wife live at 2902 Grinnell. They have two children. He is a Raza Unida candidate.

Dixie Ryan, 48, has a bachelor's degree in English and psychology from Howard Payne University in Brownwood and is a business woman and part-time teacher. She and her husband, Dr. John Ryan, live at 7707 Knoxville Dr. She is a Republican.

District Clerk Hopefuls Queried

The following set of questions was posed by The Avalanche-Journal to the two candidates for district clerk. Their unedited responses are listed alongside the questions. The names of the candidates are presented in the order in which they will appear on the ballot.

What are your qualifications that you consider pertinent to being a county commissioner?

Twenty years' experience as a Lubbock County commissioner advocating conservative local government, with prior experience as a farmer and businessman in Lubbock County.

I am familiar with the needs and problems of the community and am also openminded and willing to communicate with public officials and the citizens of Lubbock. I have had considerable experience in administration and am familiar with the functions and duties of commissioners. I have had much experience in grant-writing for social service programs to both federal and state agencies. I have good rapport with city, state and federal elected officials and their staffs.

I have worked in the office for 25 years and have been the chief deputy for the past 15 years. I have served in every capacity, and this has allowed me to fully experience the responsibilities of the office.

My experience, which includes many years of administrative work, business management, teaching and social work, which has developed my ability to work with people, to recruit and train personnel, to juggle the multiple and simultaneous administrative details of large office, the capabilities of taking initiative and making decisions, I feel I am qualified for the office, also, because of my access to and capability of working with important resource people throughout the community, to help make the working of the office more efficient and more responsive to the public it serves.

How do you perceive the role of a county commissioner?

The primary and most important role of a county commissioner is representing the citizens of this county as one of the five members of the Lubbock County Commissioners Court, the policy-making and budget board of the county. In return for the taxes and fees paid to the many offices in the courthouse by the taxpayers of this county, the commissioners court must work diligently to provide the best and most effective local government services; but the citizens should realize that the court must operate within the strict limits and constraints of the Texas Constitution, state and federal law and the ever-present Texas Legislature. By law the commissioners court is a court of limited jurisdiction and can perform only those functions specifically authorized by either the state constitution or the Texas Legislature. Providing local governmental services which we can afford, based on a sound fiscal policy of pay-as-you-go, with no deficits or debts to burden taxpayers in the future, has always been the objective of all my actions as a Lubbock County commissioner.

The role of a county commissioner is to maintain a stable, efficient and consistent county government and fulfill the needs of its residents to a maximum degree. It is the duty of a commissioner to establish a good communication system between the citizens and the county government and to take the initiative to better the lives of all residents within the County of Lubbock regardless if they live within or outside the city limits.

How do you perceive the role of a district clerk in the legal system?

The functions, in general, of the clerk of the court have not changed much over the years. The duties of a clerk of court are, generally speaking, to serve in a ministerial capacity for the court; ordinarily to perform certain judicial duties in connection therewith; to act as custodian of its records; to receive money in his official capacity and to perform generally such duties as are enjoined by statute or imposed by the lawful authority of the court.

The district clerk's office is to the legal system as the heart is to the circulatory system. If the heart isn't functioning properly, the circulatory system is in trouble. Since the district clerk's office handles all the paperwork and documents for the legal system, it is obvious that the legal system depends greatly on the district clerk's office functioning in a speedy and efficient manner. The office keeps the minutes and records of the court, compiles the list of potential jurors and impales the individuals, maintains the court dockets, handles the processing of all indictments, initiates filings and pleadings, processes all depositions and carries a large accounts receivable file for all court ordered payments, such as child support payments and judgments — to name only part of the duties of the district clerk's office.

In what specific areas do you feel that city-county cooperation is most important?

City-county cooperation is important in all areas of our operation; but it is most important in the areas of law enforcement, public health, libraries and tax assessing and collecting.

City-county cooperation is important and essential in all areas of services in order to make maximum and effective use of our limited tax dollars. Cooperation is important in the specific areas of subdivision regulation, fire protection, police protection, health, welfare and communication with state and federal officials in order to obtain better services for our residents.

Do you feel that the party affiliation of candidates is relevant in a district clerk race?

Yes, but the oath of office is the same for all parties. As a generally, normally I would say that party affiliation is not that important to the qualifications for district clerk. In fact, it is my feeling that, because of the nature of the position, along with several others at the county level, certain of these offices really should be non-partisan. However, at this time, I believe there is one important reason to consider party affiliation. I believe the greatest hope for our country is a strong two-party system. When one party becomes too strong, and is in power too long, the old adage, which says, "Power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely," holds true, and it becomes imperative for the voters to restore the balance of power to make both parties and their governments more responsible to the people. This balance is just as important at the county level as it is at the national or state level. At this time we have a single party-dominated county government, most of which have been there for a long, long time. For the good of the community, it is time for change.

What would be your approach to providing rural fire protection in Lubbock County?

Continued contracting with existing fire departments and continued development of rural volunteer fire departments with the county providing basic equipment and operating costs and the rural citizens providing the manpower through volunteer programs similar to the rural fire department now operating in the Roosevelt-Acuff area.

The safety of our rural residents should be the No. 1 priority. When elected, I will work toward reaching a five-minute response time in every portion of our county. Volunteer fire departments should be made more adequate. Cities should not be required to pay back commissioners for buying fire trucks for providing a service which commissioners are supposed to provide anyway. Volunteer fire departments should be enhanced and developed into full-time departments in order to meet the needs of county residents. Communications and renegotiation with our city officials should be established and maintained.

Is there any issue not covered by the above questions on which you would like to comment?

There is a special need and responsibility of safekeeping any and all records which may be passed on to our successors in office for the benefit of posterity. One important issue is that of procedure. The system used today in the district clerk's office is the same one put into use during the 1920s. We do not need to look at the statistics to realize the tremendous growth in Lubbock County since then — growth in population and growth in the crime rate. Changes must be made in the district clerk's office to handle the tremendous work load, and to do a better job of assisting the courts. The election of a new district attorney was indicative of the voters' desire to do something about the rising crime problem in Lubbock County. In order for Mr. Montford to do the job people want him to do, he will need the cooperation of a district clerk who is willing and able to work with him and a more efficient system in the district clerk's office.

Do you feel that county road and bridge funds are being distributed fairly among the four precincts?

Yes, the county road and bridge funds are now being distributed fairly among the four precincts by the commissioners court; however, I am in favor of developing a single county-wide public works department as a more efficient and more effective way to maintain our county roads, streets and parks.

A better county road system is a vital part of my platform and I fully realize the importance of it toward the very existence of our rural residents. I would favor re-evaluation of how the monies are distributed. It would seem logical that if a certain precinct has to provide more services, that precinct should get more funds, but at the same time not cutting back from funds needed in other precincts.

Is there anything about the current financial condition of the county that disturbs you?

Our county government is now in very good financial condition as indicated by our recent independent audit, but continued inflation is making it more difficult to meet our day-to-day operational costs without imposing additional taxes on the over-burdened property owners of this county. Demands for any additional or new services must be tempered with the knowledge that the county has very limited authority to levy any tax other than property taxes.

It disturbs me that many of our citizens are being over-taxed and that rich landowners are being favored at the expense of the majority of our taxpayers in Lubbock County. County government was not meant to have a savings account that currently serves to bail out the haphazard game of guessing how much money is needed to run our county. We should have a balanced budget but not a fat savings account.

Is there any issue not covered by the above questions on which you would like to comment?

For over 100 years the counties of Texas have been operating under extreme limits and constraints imposed by the Texas Constitution which was adopted after the local government scandals of the days of the "Carpetbaggers" following the Civil War. The Texas Legislature has balked at most efforts to give counties the authority to operate county governments with control at the local level; and the State of Texas has never accepted their responsibility for paying their portion of the state judiciary, an extremely heavy financial burden on the counties. The county commissioners court must work with local state legislators to alleviate these problems in Austin. The issue of state versus county control of county government must be solved before we can be assured that the Lubbock County Commissioners Court can continue to operate a fiscally sound government to meet the needs of a more urban than rural population.

The health needs of our residents have for too long been ignored. With the opening of our new county hospital, there is no need for anyone to be refused health services. There is no need for people to continue to have to go to Corpus Christi, Big Spring, Waco or Houston for adequate service.

Many services need to be immediately improved, including the qualification requirements for indigents and the prevention programs in our county. The mortality rate of our children must not continue to be a shameful statistic for a city such as Lubbock.

Home Devices Favored

AUSTIN (UPI) — Two constitutional amendments being submitted to voters Nov. 7 could save money for suburban homeowners and those who install solar or wind-powered energy devices on their homes.

If voters approve Amendment No. 4, one of the nine proposals on the long ballot, the Legislature will be authorized to exempt from property taxes any solar or wind-powered energy devices Texans use in their homes.

The constitution currently permits exemptions for government-owned property and church property and authorizes special homestead exemptions for persons over 65, but requires payment of property taxes on all other property.

The move to exempt solar and wind-powered energy devices was prompted by the shortage of natural gas and oil, the most popular fuels for home heating and a key ingredient in generation of electricity by utilities in the state.

Backers of the amendment say the tax breaks could encourage homeowners to invest in solar energy devices such as water heaters, which would reduce the drain on remaining natural gas resources. Opponents contend, however, the exemption would merely shift the tax burden to other taxpayers since local governments are not likely to reduce expenditures because of the new exemptions.

Amendment No. 8 would expand the authority of water districts, known in some areas as municipal utility districts, to permit the districts to spend tax revenue and issue bonds to provide fire fighting services areas they serve.

The districts currently are limited to providing water and sewer services, and many of the subdivisions they serve are outside city limits and have no fire protection.

Small Contribution 'Sweetens' Campaign

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Jay Swanson, finance chairman for Kansas Attorney General candidate Robert Stephan, found out what it's really like to dig for donations.

A $125 campaign contribution — in coins — was delivered Thursday night in a half-gallon jar filled with honey.

The gooey donation came from William D. DeVore, a friend of Swanson and Stephan, who decided that he wanted Stephan "to work for" a contribution he planned.

As a result, fire insurance rates for the suburban areas are higher than in areas which have municipal fire protection.

Biggest impact of the amendment would be in Harris and adjoining counties, where about 425 of the state's nearly 1,000 water districts are located.

A House committee studying the problem concluded fire insurance rates outside cities could be significantly reduced by allowing water districts to install water lines sufficient to serve fire hydrants, and for the districts to provide fire fighting services.

Although some of the areas served by water districts have volunteer fire departments, constitutional restrictions prohibit the districts from installing fire hydrants on their water lines, making fire-fighting difficult.

Opponents contend residents of water districts already face high taxes and should not have to bear the additional burden of financing firefighting operations by the district. They also argue development of firefighting functions would utilize time and money the districts should be devoting to their primary function, conservation and development of local and state water resources.

Accidents Claims Six Lives

By United Press International
Six persons, including three Dallas County residents whose car smashed into a concrete column on a Dallas freeway Sunday morning, died in traffic accidents during the weekend, authorities said.

The three Farmers Branch residents were killed about 5:30 a.m. Sunday when their car crashed into a concrete walkway support column on LBJ Freeway. No other vehicles were involved, police said.

The victims were identified as Hal Benton Coulter, 28, the driver of the vehicle who was dead on arrival at a local hospital; Denise Coulter, 27; and Mrs. Coulter's brother, Mark Croissant, 20.

Police said Coulter lost control of the car while driving north and hit the structure. Two other traffic deaths were recorded before dawn Sunday in Dallas County in two separate accidents.

John William Finney, 28, of Garland, died in a one-car accident about 1:30 a.m. in a rural section near Rowland.

Police said Finney was alone in the car, which was traveling at a high rate of speed when the vehicle overturned. Finney was thrown from the car and was dead at the scene.

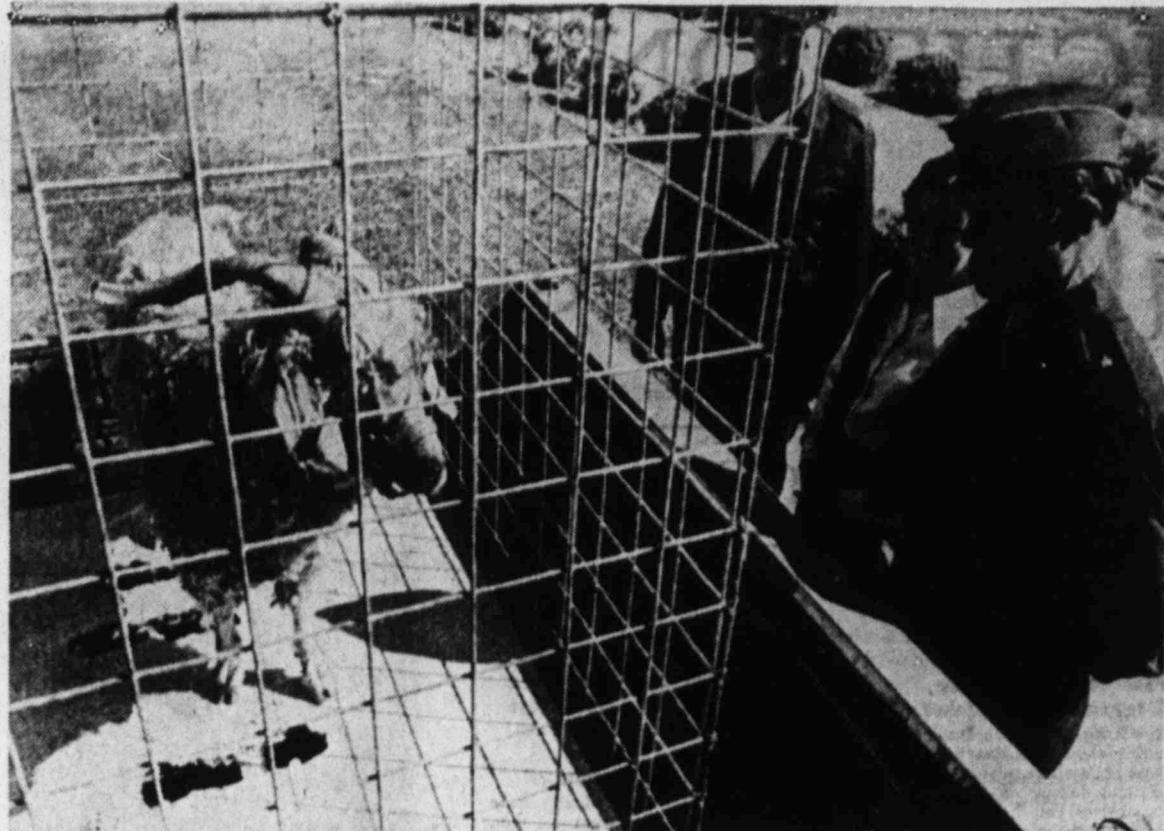

In another fatal accident, Menson Davis, 55, was struck while walking in the middle of a Dallas freeway viaduct about 2:30 a.m. and was dead at the scene, police said.

Authorities said the motorist swerved to miss Davis, but the man apparently bolted in front of the oncoming vehicle. No charges were filed against the driver.

In neighboring Tarrant County, a Dallas teen-ager was killed when the car in which he and a female passenger were riding hurtled off the third level of an Interstate 20 loop in Fort Worth and broke in half on impact 60 feet below, authorities said.

Officers said it was a miracle Patricia Lynn Martinez, 18, Dallas, survived almost unscathed the mishap in which Gilberto S. Siller Jr. died instantly.

Miss Martinez was expected to be treated and released from a Fort Worth hospital sometime Sunday night.

Amendments Designed To Help Homeowners

Constitutional Changes Listed

AUSTIN (UPI) — A capsule of nine proposed constitutional amendments being submitted to Texas voters Nov. 7:

— "The Tax Relief Amendment" providing tax breaks for homeowners, farmers and ranchers and the elderly from local school taxes, with the option for the state to reimburse school districts for the revenue lost because of the new exemptions.

— No. 1: Permits the state to purchase products manufactured by nonprofit sheltered workshops for the handicapped without taking competitive bids.

— No. 2: Permits local governments to issue revenue bonds to finance construction of industrial facilities, which then could be leased to private industry.

— No. 3: Authorizes cities to issue tax increment bonds for redevelopment of blighted areas, with the bonds paid for from higher taxes collected on the redeveloped property.

— No. 4: Exempts solar and wind powered energy devices from property taxes.

— No. 5: Expands jurisdiction of the justice of the peace courts in civil cases up to $500.

— No. 6: Permits the Legislature to expand membership on the courts of civil appeals and allows the courts to hear cases in sections.

— No. 7: Abolishes the State Building Commission.

— No. 8: Permits water districts to issue bonds and use tax revenues for fire-fighting purposes.

GOP Battling For Offices

AUSTIN (UPI) — As is almost always the case, candidates for the statewide offices below governor and senator again this year have had to scratch for contributions and publicity.

The attorney general nominees have done all right, but that's only because the GOP is finally represented by more than a token candidate.

Houston attorney Jim Baker, a former undersecretary of commerce and manager of former President Gerald Ford's unsuccessful race in 1976, will spend more than $1 million trying to become the state's first Republican attorney general. He is qualified and has launched an upbeat issue-oriented campaign against Democrat Mark White.

But despite his aggressiveness and qualifications, Baker must overcome tough odds to whip White, another Houston attorney, in the Nov. 7 election.

White, a former secretary of state, upset former House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. in the Democratic primary and is confident of replacing Attorney General John Hill in January.

Baker has worked hard to convey his message that he will be an effective attorney general devoid of political haggling. He has presented position papers on solutions to problems in crime, energy and consumer protection.

The Republican, who has practiced law in one of Houston's bigger firms for 18 years, has criticized White for being a free-spending secretary of state who doubled his staff and budget while in office.

White has confined his campaigning to the traditional Democratic strongholds and has made inroads with educators by proposing that the state establish a code of conduct in public schools. He also vowed to protect Texas' energy interests from federal control.

But White's biggest advantage is that he is Democrat and Baker is a relatively unknown Republican.

The race for lieutenant governor should be nothing short of a repeat of 1974 when Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby thoroughly trounced Republican Gaylord Marshall, a Dallas commodity company manager.

Hobby has done little or no campaigning for his third term and Marshall has kept a low profile. Witnessed by the fact that Hobby or Marshall for lieutenant governor car decals or campaign billboards are not to be found.

Marshall has said he would let the other Republicans on the ballot carry him in the big cities while he concentrated his campaign in the rural areas.

A staunch conservative, Marshall has portrayed Hobby as a liberal who is using the lieutenant governor's office as a stepping stone to the governor's mansion.

But still Marshall has done little to convince voters that there is a real choice between the two candidates.

Democrat John Poerner and Republican Jim Lacy are running for a seat on the Railroad Commission in another race where the Democrats seem certain victors.

Poerner, a former advisor to Gov. Dolph Briscoe, was appointed to the seat when Jim Langdon resigned last year. He beat out former Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler in a runoff in the Democratic primary.

Poerner, a former legislator who has the backing of oil and gas industry, has been accused by Lacy of being an "on-the-job" trainee who was appointed to the commission solely on his friendship with Briscoe.

"The biggest difference between me and my opponent is that I'm qualified for the job," Lacy said recently.

The independent Midland oil operator has pumped $100,000 of his own money into the campaign. But Lacy — like Baker and Marshall — is hampered by his party affiliation.

Clements Poll Shows Close State Race

By United Press International
Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements says a so-called "Mood of Texas" poll proves what he's been saying all along — that the governor's race was in virtually a dead heat as of mid-October.

"This poll is particularly significant in that it confirms the findings of my own survey contractor," Clements said Sunday in Austin. The poll was reported in the Dallas Morning News in Sunday's edition.

The GOP candidate said including the figures in the Belden Poll, surveys outside the Clements campaign show his Democratic opponent, John Hill, has lost more than half his support since the primary while Clements has doubled his.

"As my momentum continues to build and John Hill continues to falter, I predict that I will win with 53 percent of the vote on election day," he said, although the Belden poll shows him only 1 percentage point behind his opponent.

The Belden poll shows Hill with 33 percent and Clements with 32 percent. The GOP nominee predicted he'll gain many of the undecided voters when the ballots are cast.

However, Hill said Sunday that the latest public opinion polls indicate he'll win the governor's race Nov. 7 by more than 300,000 votes.

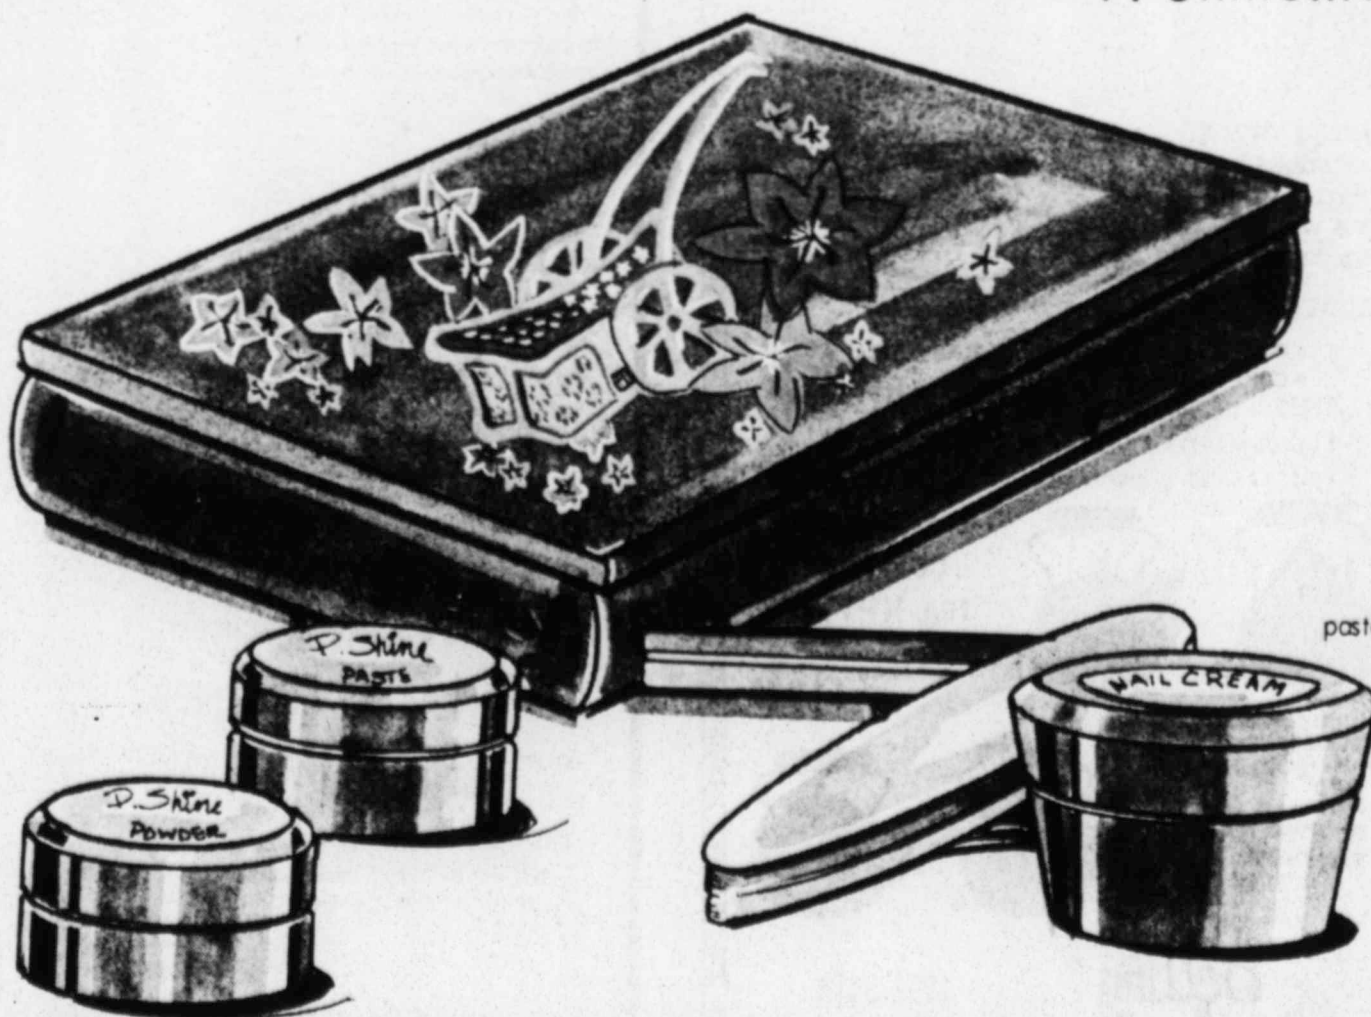

"A survey conducted by Henson-Hopkins-Shipley of Austin for the Krueger campaign showed that among the people who were most likely to vote, the race is now 51 percent for Hill and 36 percent for Clements," the attorney general said in campaign stops in Houston and Pasadena.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I love a houseful of plants as well as the next person, but frankly I am sick and tired of people telling me how easy it is to maintain an indoor jungle.

Oh sure, there are a few plants that thrive on neglect and take root on my kitchen tile, but generally plants take a lot of care. I must have 15 or 20 plant books that divide species into "Easy to Grow" and "Takes a Little Extra Care."

Today, I'd like to list in this column "Plants that Will Never Grow." (Please clip and save.)

The Nephrolepis (Boston Fern) grows only in the pages of Better Homes and Gardens and Sunset magazines. To my knowledge, it has never prospered without a camera lens trained on it.

There is no way you can water them in hanging baskets without killing carpet and tile. It was just an amusing idea.

The species is so demanding that many women are looking for options. A friend of mine said she would not have a Boston Fern this year, but would have a baby. She explained, "I'm getting too old for ferns."

The Euphorbia pulcherrima (Christmas poinsettia) would take another miracle out of the East to keep it alive after Christmas Day.

Once you follow explicit instructions to set it in a cool, dark room until spring in a dormant stage, it slips off into a sleep of death and you're stuck with a stupid pot of dirt and a dead thing in the closet for six months. (Poinsettias have been known to die on a church altar attended by four priests and three bishops.)

Euphorbia grandicornis (cowhorn cactus) are born dead. I have never known of a person who had the courage to pull the support systems on a cactus and say, "Throw it out! It's gone."

Saintpaulia (African violets). I had one that lived for three weeks once only because it had the perfect blend of light and humidity. If I had just been able to keep the oven door ajar, flick the light on the toaster 20 minutes out of every hour, keep the vaporizer going and the earth from revolving on its axis, I felt I could have sustained life.

I do not want all of you gardeners who have had success with these flowers to write. It is depressing and I wouldn't believe you anyway.

Face it. When my Maranta leuconeur kerchoveana (Prayer Plant) thumbed its nose at me... I knew it all over.

HAPPY OIÐHCHE SHAMHA

The name Halloween means the night before All Halows or All Saints' Day, Nov. 1. But this pre-Christian festival is also known by other names. In the British Isles, where chestnut roasting is a Halloween custom, it's often called Nutcrack Night. In Ireland its ancient title is Oidhche Shamhna, or Death's Vigil. And on the Isle of Man, Halloween is Hogunias. Another name for the festival is Mischief Night, because of the practical jokes played by youngsters in some parts of the world.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AK7 ♠952 ♦AQ10653 ♣Q
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Without the overall, it would probably be right to rebid your diamond suit. However, the fact that North bid spades freely and you know that he is missing the two top honors make it a moral certainty that he has a five-card suit or longer. Under the circumstances, we feel that it is wiser to show your support right now by raising to two spades.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AKJ92 ♠J7 ♦AS3 ♦A107
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass Pass 2 ♠

What action do you take?

A.—While you have a reasonable hand, you have no margin of safety. Unless partner has a long suit of his own or spade support, any action by you could be disastrous. It is wiser to pass and see how the bidding develops. If West also passes, partner might still come to life.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦K972 ♠8 ♠93 ♦K10762
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♥ 4 ♠ Pass
5 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Bid six spades. Trust partner. He knows that you have a weak hand with great trump support. Nevertheless, he is trying for slam, and his only possible concern can be two quick heart losers. Since you have second-round heart control, you must bid the slam.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦SONNY BUILT MINE ♦SONNY SOLD MINE

SONNY ARNOLD IS A HOUSE "SOLD" WORD

♦SONNY SOLD MINE ♦SONNY BUILT MINE

♦A1065 ♠93 ♦Q1072 ♣K98

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠
Pass 4 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—It is not clear whether partner is showing a distributional hand in an effort to get to game, or cue-bidding for a slam. Regardless, you should be happy to cooperate, since your fitting cards in partner's second suit increases the value of your hand. On the way to five diamonds, however, we would stop off to cue-bid the ace of spades. If partner is looking for slam, he would like to know about our spade control.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦3 ♠KJ94 ♠K10762 ♦QJ5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—We wouldn't criticize a jump to four hearts. However, since partner might have made a light opening bid in third seat, we feel that a raise to three hearts describes your hand adequately. The one thing you cannot do is to temper with two diamonds—that is not forcing and partner might pass.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦AQJ9574 ♠K ♦K1083 ♣3
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ 2 ♠ 4 ♥ 4 ♠
Pass 5 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The enemy has taken advantage of the vulnerability to make you guess at an uncomfortable level. Nevertheless, we would take our chances at six diamonds, in the hope that partner has two aces—there is no scientific way to investigate the possibilities, but partner should have a reasonable hand at his vulnerability.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦72 ♠1085 ♦QJ8 ♣KQ943
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 3 ♠ Pass Pass
Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Since partner's double is for takeout (you have not yet bid), you have to say something. Four clubs is a huge underbid—you would make that bid with six little clubs and nothing else in your hand. However, a jump to five clubs is a bit drastic and could bypass your best spot. We would settle for four hearts, for partner almost certainly has a five-card suit on this auction.

Q.8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦K92 ♠74 ♦109752 ♣872
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have some useful values—the king in partner's first-bid suit and a doubton in his second suit. To bid a mere three spades, which you would do with absolutely nothing, is an underbid. Our choice is a jump preference to four spades.

Rural Handicapped Children Receive Training From Family Link Program

By LYNN HOHERTZ
Family News Staff

If a child needs special education but doesn't live in Lubbock, parents shouldn't get discouraged. Family Link I and II, Texas Tech University's Regional Training office program, which provides a home-based intervention program for developmentally slow pre-school children, may be the solution.

Family Link I, which is in its second year, is funded by the Bureau for Education of the Handicapped and serves children outside Lubbock.

According to Harold Orr, the objective of Family Link I is to provide services to children, newborns through 4 years of age, and their families who live in rural areas surrounding Lubbock. These rural counties include Bailey, Cochran, Dickens, Hale, Hockley, Terry, Yokum, Lamb and Floyd.

Education of the parents is important in helping these children. "Parents are often reluctant to seek help because of environmental impact, lack of direction or motivation concerning a child who may be handicapped," Orr said.

Halloween Sweets May Adversely Affect Behavior

NEW YORK, N.Y. (Special) — The usual treats given out on Halloween could play tricks on some children's behavior, warns Alan C. Levin, M.D., medical director of The New York Institute for Child Development, Inc.

"The large sugar content in most Halloween candies can trigger negative reactions such as irritability, restlessness, decreased attention span and loss of concentration in school the next day," adds Dr. Levin, who specializes in treating hyperactive and learning disabled children.

"Teachers and parents have told us that the day after Halloween is havoc," Levin continues. "Classes are unmanageable — children are agitated, disruptive and won't sit still. There are fights at home and parents throw up their hands in despair. Halloween is no treat."

Alternative suggestions from The New York Institute for Child Development for trick-or-treat goodies are popcorn, nuts or homemade foods such as oatmeal cookies or peanut butter balls, all of which are tasty and can be made from readily available inexpensive foods.

A national non-profit center specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of learning disabled, hyperactive and underachieving children, the NYICD's ten years of clinical experience with thousands of children has shown that diets high in carbohydrates and sweets adversely affect behavior and learning patterns in some children.

"Eliminating sugar is a factor in treating hyperactive and learning disabled children," says Dr. Levin. "There is no doubt that diet affects learning performance."

Some parents may not think their child is handicapped enough to benefit from special services. Mental retardation is not the only handicap which slows the development of a child.

"The program literally helps overcome language problems and hearing problems and the child's adjustment in general is improved," emphasized Orr. "Early intervention is the key," he added.

In order to qualify for the program, each child is assessed by the Alpern-Boll Developmental Profile method. "We aren't interested in the I.Q. of the child, only the developmental age," said Orr.

A home teacher is assigned to each child. The teacher visits the home once or twice a week to instruct the parent in what to teach, how to teach, what to reinforce and how to observe and record behavior.

During each visit the teacher provides a prepared lesson for the parents to do with the child. The teacher will demonstrate the lesson with the child and then ask the parent to practice while the teacher observes.

Individual curriculum is prescribed weekly based on an assessment of each child's behavior in language skills, self-help, cognitive, motor and social skills. Each weekly lesson selects three behavioral goals on which to work. "If only one area is stressed, the others suffer," said Orr.

A record is kept of each projected goal including data taken to determine if the prescribed concepts have indeed been learned.

All Family Link teachers (or para-professionals) are given in-service and pre-service training for teaching developmentally slow children. "We require that our staff have experience working with young children and handicapped children," said Orr. "It is also ideal, particularly in this region, if they are bilingual."

"We try to match our parents, child and teacher in order to obtain the best working relationship," said Orr. "If learning is easier for the child in a language other than English, we provide instruction in that language."

Family Link also attempts to enlist siblings into the program as helpers in the delivery of lessons as part of family enrichment activities.

Every six weeks the program sponsors a family day on the Tech campus.

"This allows the parents to share information and is a type of low-key family counseling service," said Orr.

In addition to the home-based teaching program, Family Link I also provides transportation to medical facilities and a materials lending library.

Family Link I has a corresponding project, Family Link II which serves Head Start handicapped children in rural areas.

According to Tom Rhea, coordinator of the program, Family Link II serves children 3-5 years of age who qualify for the Head Start program.

PARK LAND ENTREE

1 lb ground beef
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1 (16-oz.) jar sweet-sour red cabbage, drained and liquid reserved
1/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 tbsps. cornstarch
1 (20-oz.) can pineapple chunks, drained and liquid reserved
1/2 cup water
1 tbsps. soy sauce
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup sliced onion
1/2 cup sliced green pepper

In large bowl, combine ground beef, bread crumbs, egg, milk and half the red cabbage. Form into balls using about 1 tablespoon for each. Set aside. In large skillet, combine brown sugar and cornstarch. Stir in 1/3 cup reserved red cabbage liquid, 1 cup pineapple syrup, water, soy sauce and salt. Cook; stir until clear and slightly thickened. Add remaining red cabbage, pineapple, onion and green pepper. Simmer an additional 10 minutes. Serve with hot rice.

The Slim Gourmet

By BARBARA GIBBONS

What do homemade fudge, pate de foie gras, creme de cassis, maple sugar and croissants have in common? They all belong on the calorie counter's "Junk Food" list, just like purple soda pop and plastic-wrapped pink cupcakes! Food doesn't have to be cheap kidstuff just to be junk.

If "food" is nourishment and "junk" is anything worthless or useless, then any food that offers more of calories than it contains of anything else is "junk food" — unless you need the extra calories. (High-calorie, low-nutrition foods are worse than worthless: they often take the place of nutritious foods.)

Some junk foods are junkier than others. It's the proportion that matters: the ratio of calories to body-building vitamins, minerals, protein and appetite-appeasing fiber. The basic elements of junk food cuisine are sugar in all its forms, refined starches, fats and oils ... ingredients that are mainly calories and little else. They're commonly found in snack foods, cheap sweets, processed and commercial "fast foods" ... but by no means are they limited to the cheap, common and inexpensive. Here are some junk food categories you may never have thought of.

HOMEMADE JUNK FOOD — Just because Mom "made it from scratch" instead of from a mix, doesn't mean it's not junk. The PTA bake sale may harbor just as many empty calories as the candy machine in the corridor. No matter who makes it, a layer cake is primarily sugar, starch and fat. Effort may not add a thing to the nutritional bottom line.

OLD-FASHIONED JUNK FOOD — "The way grandma used to make it" may be nothing more than nostalgic junk. Some of the most notorious junk food pushers are grandmas. If fat is a family trait, it may be grandma's legacy of heirloom recipes, not fat genes.

'NATURAL' JUNK FOODS — Some of those high-priced goodies on the health food shelf are unadulterated junk ... "all natural" on the label has nothing to do with nutrition. Many "natural" products are extraordinarily high in calories: butter, cold-pressed oils, frozen yogurt desserts, "real" mayonnaise, "pure" peanut butter, more "natural" jams and jellies. Honey, molasses and genuine maple syrup are all sugars. Brown, raw, turbinado ... sugar is still sugar!

IMPORTED JUNK FOOD — Paying a duty on foods doesn't spare you an extra tariff in unwanted calories. Some Americans have a reverse chauvinism about foods, believing that anything foreign is somehow better ... more natural or nutritious. But "natural" and "nutritious" doesn't travel well. What you find on import shelves — along with high price tags — are the tinned, canned and processed products that can be every bit as junky as purple grape jelly or your native American potato chip. And no nutritional labels, either.

GOURMET JUNK FOODS — You can find elegant junk food in four-star restaurants, epicurean junk food techniques in $50-a-lesson cooking schools, and haute cuisine junk food recipes in gourmet magazines and costly cookbooks.

SOPHISTICATED JUNK FOOD — Just because thin is "in" doesn't mean that the beautiful people's favorite foods aren't fattening. Today's sophisticated fast food treat is ice cream with the latest status liqueur poured over it. But nutritionally and calorically, there's not a lot of difference between Amaretta and marshmallow sauce!

Breakfast wisely and well! For a complete guide to calories, carbohydrate, protein and fat in today's packaged cereals — by brand name — send a stamped self-addressed envelope and 35 cents to SLIM GOURMET CEREAL GUIDE, in care of this newspaper, Sparta, N.J. 07871.

NECTARINE WILTED SPINACH SALAD

6 slices bacon
1 bunch spinach (about 2 qts. loosely packed)
1 small onion, chopped
2 fresh nectarines, sliced
1 avocado, sliced
2 tbsps. vinegar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. basil

Cook bacon in skillet with crisp. Drain on paper towels. Add chopped onion to bacon drippings and saute until translucent.

Wash and dry spinach leaves. Tear into pieces and place in serving bowl. Add nectarines and avocado slices. Crumble cooked bacon and sprinkle over salad.

Stir vinegar, salt and basil into skillet with onions and bacon drippings. Heat and pour over salad. Toss. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I read that the voters in California now have another controversial proposition that is causing a heated battle. It's Proposition 5, having to do with smoking. If passed, exactly what will it DO — and NOT do? I do not live in California, but there's been talk of initiating the same kind of legislation in my state.

LIKES TO SMOKE

Dear Likes: If passed, Proposition 5 will:
 Recognize both the right to smoke and the right to breathe clean air.
 Establish non-smoking and smoking sections in restaurants.
 Guarantee smoke-free hospital rooms unless a smoking room is requested.
 It will not:
 Prohibit or restrict the sale of tobacco products.

Regulate smoking outdoors.
 Restrict smoking in designated smoking sections indoors.
 Affect smoking in private places.
 Cost the taxpayers money. Instead, it will save tax dollars.
 Be carved in granite, since the Initiative allows the legislature to amend it with a mere majority vote.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and daughter-in-law have a son (a college senior) who announced that he plans to marry the girl with whom he has gone for a long time. It seems that our son and his wife feel that this girl is not right for their son, so they suggested that the young couple live together for a year while he is in graduate school, hoping the love affair won't survive beyond that time.

This doesn't seem like the right solution to us. What do you think?
PERPLEXED

Dear Perplexed: Although your son and daughter-in-law prefer to have their son live with the girl rather than marry her, the final decision will be made by the young couple, and not by either the parents or the grandparents. (Or me.)

DEAR ABBY: What in the world do they put on this newspaper that causes an instant hay fever attack? Two minutes after I start reading my newspaper my eyes begin to water, my nose itches and I start to sneeze! In five minutes I'm weeping.
 Has anyone else complained about this?
HOWARD E.

Dear Howard: Much in today's world news would make anybody cry. As for your itching schnozz, maybe you have no nose for news. (P.S. An allergist might be more helpful.)

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby: 122 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Cable TV Bid Receives Approval From FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has voted to make it easier for cable television systems to pick up sports, movies and other offerings from leading independent stations.

The commission last week approved an application by four companies to distribute via satellite the signals from WGN in Chicago, one of the nation's leading independent stations.

Cable operators and satellite firms agree that the action gives them a chance to show varied programs from around the nation, making them stronger competitors against network-fed broadcasters.

The companies whose applications were approved are Southern Satellite Systems, Inc., United Video, Inc., American Microwave Communications, Inc., and Midwestern Relay Co.

American, United and Midwestern have been involved in land-based microwave distribution of WGN programs. Southern pioneered satellite distribution of broadcast programming to cable operators, carrying channel 17 in Atlanta to more than 500 cable companies, which it initiated in 1976.

Business & Industrial Review

ASSURING A JOB WELL DONE — Larry Weiss is shown here with the modern and extremely functional unit that makes for trouble-free, expert carpet cleaning the Vann-Weiss way! Around-the-clock emergency service even includes water removal.

Vann-Weiss Carpet Cleaning Services Meeting Area Needs

Consider the following features, one by one, and you will see why the Vann-Weiss Carpet Cleaning Service should fit into your own program of home or business carpet maintenance. You will discover why these home folks and their services have proven so beneficial and popular, most likely already serving in an instance of your personal knowledge.

Vann-Weiss Carpet Cleaning Service, phones 792-4431 or 797-3007, is owned and operated by Myron Vann and Larry Weiss, with the latter as active operator.

Emergency service is rendered 24 hours a day, including water removal in emergency situations such as a hot water heater flooding an area.

The firm is bonded and insured.

Modern equipment includes the Hydra-Van, only integrated system unit of its kind in Lubbock, Weiss emphasizes.

Both residential and commercial carpet cleaning is solicited.

Sample areas are cleaned free! Service is anywhere within the area. Discount prices are effective on vacant houses.

Genuine Scotchgard carpet protector is available.

No Hidden Costs
No-obligation estimates are gladly given, and there are no hidden costs.

Larry Weiss, a Lubbock resident and formerly with Gristy Cleaners for 3 1/2 years, takes pride in his work, building a business on quality, satisfaction and interest in "doing the job right."

Using the Hydra-Master mobile carpet cleaning plant, it is pointed out by Weiss that minimum inconvenience is imposed on the home or business resident, with all equipment housed in the versatile all-new Hydra-Van. (Actually, this unit is "really something," with all powered components attached to the van's engine rather than to other space-filling energy units.)

"May we serve your carpet cleaning and water removal needs the modern way, with a personal interest in giving the best in service? We hope you will call us at Vann-Weiss, for free estimates or other carpet cleaning related needs, at 792-4431 or 797-3007. Let's have the home looking its greatest for Thanksgiving and other fall and winter occasions!"

Three Martinizing Cleaners In City Afford Same Comprehensive Services

"There is a Martinizing Cleaners easily accessible to you, no matter your Lubbock address, and the same great services are available at each, whether at the newest facility, 3322 83rd St. (1 block east of Indiana on 83rd), at 30th & Slide, or at 49th and Knoxville!"

Though these services are quite numerous, the following could well be considered as of special immediate interest:

- (1) Waterproofing is available ... great for raincoats, ski wear, jeans, etc., helping one better enjoy the outdoor events of the season.
- (2) Fast service always is available, and even on Saturdays, cleaning brought in by 11 a.m. can be out by the 3 p.m. Saturday closing time at any of the three Martinizing Cleaners in Lubbock, each owned by longtime Lubbock drycleaner Gordon Mahon.
- (3) Complete alterations are available.
- (4) Pockets and half pockets are available, too, as are the two-way reversible ski wear zippers. Unusual lengths and several colors of zippers are kept in stock.
- (5) Cleaning of suedes, leathers and furs is expertly done.
- (6) Pillow renovation is another pride and service of the firms.
- (7) Ozone odor removal is a banner benefit.
- (8) And finally, one of the most important services is the cleanability, gentleness and other advantages of Valcene drycleaning. (If you've a problem garment, ask your cleaner to Valcene!)

Great for woolens, suedes and all, this quality, gentle cleaning assures a rich finish, keeping colors bright and making for longer garment life. Its low drying temperature eliminates the setting of stains, and wrinkles or breaks are not generated.

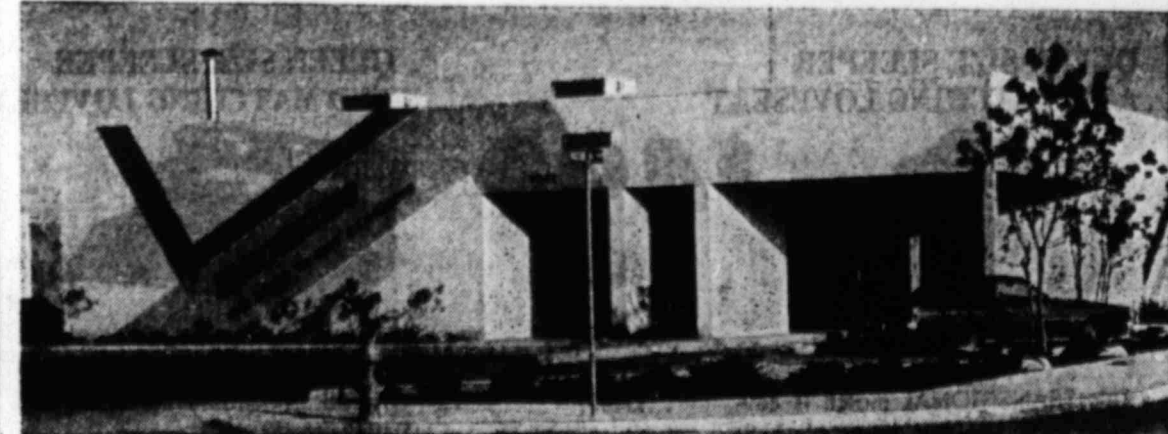

Capable staffs man each Martinizing facility. Among these are Scott Rickman, manager of the 83rd Street plant, with Billy Griffin as drycleaner; Johnnie Bates as manager on Slide Road, with Noah Reeves as drycleaner; and Sam Caddell managing the Knoxville plant, with Delbert Banks as drycleaner. All are most qualified and thoroughly experienced.

"They appreciate your business and want to prove it with the above-listed services and all the other plus-benefits of the Martinizing Cleaners in Lubbock."

Western Mobile Air Arranges Exceptional Fall Bonus Offer

For the mobile home resident, there is exceptionally good news from Western Mobile Air, 1825 N. University, phone 762-4878:
Beginning Nov. 1, for each Coleman air conditioner unit purchased at retail, Western Mobile Air will give . . . free . . . a Coleman furnace for the mobile home!
"Or, if you already have a furnace, Western Mobile Air will give a $400 utility trailer!"
What a way to save as winter preparations are made!
Get full details now; there should be a Coleman environmental system in your future. See Bert Maze and profit!
Maze, a Lubbock resident since 1949, has been owner of the present Western Mobile Air for three years, and he has served many throughout the region, both in retail sales and in turnkey jobs for heating and cooling of mobile homes.
The firm has its own experienced crews, assuring fast, efficient service.
Anchoring Supplies
Anchoring supplies are stocked for mobile homes, too, at this well-established firm easy to reach from most anywhere!
Western Mobile Air services Coleman and other home heating and air conditioning units alike.
In selecting an environmental system, choice may be made from several Coleman units including the Presidential II deluxe energy saver and the heat pump.
Coleman advertises "the only heating system for total year-around comfort, designed specifically for the manufactured housing industry."
"Quality you can depend on" is cited as one of the good reasons that about half of the mobile homes manufactured today contain Coleman furnaces.
Each Coleman product is subjected to one of the most rigid and complete testing programs in the industry.
Five atmospheric gas heating systems

COLEMAN — FOR YEAR-AROUND COMFORT from 45,200 to 80,000 BTU output are available, together with oil and gas gun heating systems to 77,000 BTU output.
"Lee Bert Maze and the fine folks at Western Mobile Air, 1825 N. University in Lubbock, explain in detail how Coleman can make your life more comfortable, and how the new offer of the free furnace with purchase of an air conditioning can be of special saving."

Cowling's Adds Clock Lines, Reveals Specials, New Arrivals

"If it is all-around good taste that is a consideration, then the out-of-the-ordinary Cowling's Furniture is sure to appeal — and serve."
Even with its traditionally discriminating and large stock, Cowling's has still more that is new!
Clocks Now Stocked
As example, both the Hamilton and Gazo clock lines have been added. Both are of unmistakable quality craftsmanship, and both use genuine West Germany movements. Both mantle and grandfather clocks are stocked.
Bonus Offer
And look at this:
At the present time, Cowling's is giving a man's or woman's Hamilton watch (approximate $200 value) with the purchase of any Hamilton grandfather clock in stock! What an opportunity to save and to select, possibly for Christmas remembrances to someone special.
Cowling's currently has the best selection of recliners in its history. A wide choice in styles and colors in the prestigious Barcelonaer line is provided.

And there are lamps, lamps and lamps, together with other decor pieces and both investment art and just "plain pretty art work."
In-Store Specials
In-store specials presently enable special value buys, just in time for holiday preparation, entertaining and gifting. These must be seen to be fully appreciated.
Specials are posted on the famous Beautyrest bedding at Cowling's.
Everything seems to say that "we at Cowling's want you to have the best without strain on the budget; we like you and want to serve accordingly."
Opening in late 1975 at its 1210 Ave. Q quarters, Cowling's has become recognized as a good firm, with good merchandise, with integrity and with a quality-savings combination to be appreciated.
Individual pieces and groupings for every room of the home are stocked.

Whether the search is for a credenza, console, bedroom and dining room groupings, sofas, or other furniture needs, Cowling's promises that its current stock is the largest yet, with one still being assured of only respected and well-known brands.
Modest on the outside, the big store is most impressive within; and entry there actually is into a whole new world of quality furniture at prices to please.
Cowling's Furniture is family owned and operated, with family members doing their best to bring your own family the very finest home furnishings to fit your budget.
Ken Cowling and family want to know you and help you in your furniture situation.
Financing is available.
Remember the location, just south off Broadway on Avenue Q in Lubbock. Both an east and north entry is provided, with appreciated off-street parking at the north.

"YOUR KIND OF STORE" — Ken Cowling of Cowling's Furniture emphasizes here that the stock of the big downtown store is quite diversified, including clocks, recliners, decor and art items, and lots, lots more, all reflecting quality without exorbitant expense.

AMONG SPECIALLY PRICED UNITS — L.A. Caraway, Modern Chevrolet used car manager, calls attention to a group of lease autos secured by the firm and marked on sale as a special value presentation.

'Lease Auto Sale' Spells Top Values In Modern's Used Cars

In keeping with Modern Chevrolet's used car policy of "nothing less than the best," a special situation is presented at this time.

In addition to the impressive values throughout the department, Modern Chevrolet is staging a "Lease Sale" in which 29 lease cars, just received, have been made available at very, very special prices.

L. A. Caraway, used car manager and a veteran of 23 years with Modern Chevrolet, knows his cars and he is most enthusiastic about these lease cars he has been able to secure.

"All are '78 models and all qualify for the 12-month or 12,000 mile extended warranty. Some have as little as 13,000 miles on them."

"All these fleet cars are serviced and ready to go. They have been checked out mechanically, of course, and are actually quite good buys. Modern is glad to pass on such opportunities on every occasion possible."

All 'Loaded' Included in the Lease Sale are 18 Monte Carlo 2-door models, and 11 Caprice 4-door cars, all loaded, with a variety of colors from which to choose.

In addition to this special group in the Lease Sale, Modern's used car department is stocked at this time with over 100 late model vehicles. Very good buys have been arranged throughout this stock.

Bank rate and GMAC financing is available.

The Stork Shop, Exclusive Maternity Wear Store In City, Tells New Items

"For everything in maternity wear, it makes sense to patronize Lubbock's only exclusive maternity wear shop . . . The Stork Shop, 3416 34th St. (in Indiana Gardens.)"

Selection always is enabled from stock that is new, items for the season at hand.

A complete line of maternity lingerie is stocked.

Sale Rack

The fall and winter merchandise is most, most attractive — in style, colors and price; there even is a sale rack of in-season, up-to-date merchandise that includes some blouses, pants and dresses at special low prices.

Be sure and note the jeans, including slim cut and straight leg styles.

And there is a line of tops, made by Daran, that are exceptionally good buys.

Names To Trust

Brand names are important at The Stork Shop where quality is assured without exorbitant price. Lines such as Phil Jacobs, Marion Sue, Charles Lewis and Maternity Circuit are featured.

Layaway purchases are welcomed, together with use of Visa and Master Charge.

Store hours are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days a week.

Under ownership and active management (since February) of longtime Lubbock resident Mrs. Doyle (Ida) Langford, The Stork Shop actually dates its record of service back some 30 years.

Since its establishment, it has been in the same Indiana Gardens location, and under the ownership of Ida Langford it has been remodeled, rearranged, and stocked most admirably.

Everything at The Stork Shop says "welcome."

Ida Langford is on hand personally to render service to old friends and new customers alike at the so-attractive shop, assisted by Rebecca McKinley.

Doyle Langford has been in the dry-cleaning business in Lubbock some 30 years, and Ida, consequently, is no stranger to the public's needs and preferences in apparel.

"I really enjoy providing this kind of exclusive maternity wear shop, serving both Lubbock and regional residents with as complete a selection as I can in maternity wear," owner Ida Langford reports.

It seems then, without question, that Indiana Gardens, Lubbock and region, and all in need of maternity wear are most fortunate in having the kind of shop and the attention of service-minded personnel that is presented via The Stork Shop, 3416 34th St., phone 799-5618.

IN INDIANA GARDENS — Ida Langford, owner of the popular Stork Shop, exclusive maternity wear store, assures the customer a selection, fashion, value combination in every purchase.

COULD SOLVE GIFT PROBLEM — West Texas Salvage Sales managers Alice Moreno and Kitty Brown are shown with a segment of the small appliance stock recently received there and placed on sale at low, low prices. Multiple departments at the Avenue Q facility assure something for everyone 'always below retail'.

West Texas Salvage Sales Includes Drug Stock Purchase In Key Savings

"At West Texas Salvage Sales, 3524 Ave. Q, we surely must have one of the most diversified businesses in the city and area!"

"Not only is there a regular stock of grocery items, drugs, furniture, tools, clothes and cosmetics, but from week to week there is new merchandise in the way of totally different items."

"For example, only this week we were fortunate enough to purchase a complete drug store in Austin. Everything you could imagine in the line of Christmas items came with this purchase! We bought it all, and it was a big store stocked to the rafters with really good merchandise."

"It has been difficult for the salesladies here to concentrate on stocking quickly . . . when we want to try the cosmetics ourselves . . . the eye shadow, creams, lipsticks, perfumes, etc., all of which are respected name brands!"

Small Kitchen Appliances
 And there is a bunch of small appliances in this purchase, too, great for completing one's own kitchen needs, as example, or for Christmas giving. Select from such handy and practical items as toaster, air pots, mixers and all.

"Being in the sales business affords us many contacts," the owners of West Texas Salvage Sales report, "from school desks to burglar alarms! We buy from throughout the country, from Memphis, Tenn., to Las Vegas, Nev.!"

West Texas Salvage Sales is owned by T.M. and Lenore Cox and by Larry and Sheryl Hardy. Actively managing are Kitty Brown and Alice Moreno.

The firm is open seven days a week. Hours are 9 to 5:30, Mondays through Fridays; Saturdays from 9 until 6; and on Sundays from 10 to 5:30.

With a motto of "where you never pay retail for anything", the firm adds further that its regularly-stocked grocery items are priced even below wholesale! And all is absolutely first line merchandise, the managers emphasize.

"For low, low salvage prices without sacrifice of quality, and for a fabulous selection that provides something new every week, come to West Texas Salvage Sales, under its present ownership for four months, at 3524 Ave. Q in Lubbock."

Lubbock Electric Announces Industrial Supply Expansion

Lubbock Electric Co., 1108 34th St., has quite a record of making numerous industrial and farming operations throughout the region trouble-free and less expensive.

And in keeping pace with the industrial growth of West Texas, Lubbock Electric has expanded its stock to include a vast quantity of industrial supplies . . . such as V-belts, bearings, pulleys, fuses, sprockets, power tools and gin parts.

Netting Stocked
 Of special interest to area farmers is the large supply of Vexar netting for cotton modules and stripper bats and brushes.

Compressor Sales-Service
 Although Lubbock Electric is well known for electric motors, few may be aware of its air compressor sales and service.

Whether it is for the large industrial screw-type units or the smallest reciprocating machines, Lubbock Electric stocks repair parts and has the know-how to keep all types of compressors on the job.

Presently in stock are the Quincy and Campbell-Hausfield lines of both portable and stationary units.

(Lubbock Electric also is a warranty repair station for both the lines above.)

Custom Building
 The sales force is trained in design and applications, and the service department can custom build compressor units from available components.

Sale Priced
 On sale now is the 1/2-hp electric Campbell-Hausfield tank mounted portable, Model FL-3301, and is now priced at only $135.63.

"Stop in now, or give us a call and we will come to you to help satisfy your air needs."

Service is a big item at Lubbock Electric Co. The complete staff is on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week; and this can be mighty important to the person with a crucial task awaiting qualified assistance.

"Call Lubbock Electric now, at 744-2336, and learn of the many products and specific services available . . . whether regarding a compressor, changeover to electric power for farming operations, the fine products stocked, etc. Lubbock Electric Co. can be of assistance, whatever your electric or compressor need. (See our line of power tools, too, great for planning ahead to Christmas.)"

COMPRESSORS INCLUDED — Steve Moffett, on the staff at Lubbock Electric Co., emphasizes the completeness of stock and services there, with the several departments geared to maximum benefit for regional needs. Farm and industry alike come in for full consideration, as correctly indicated in the accompanying report.

PROFESSIONALS ASSURE RIGHT PRODUCT, SERVICE AT LELLEM WELCH

Lellem Welch Firm Urges Early Pre-Winter Heating Unit Check

That's right, the heating season is approaching, as has been hinted in some late October weather.
 So... now is the time to start checking out those heating systems, is the wise word from Lellem Welch, Inc., 1401 Ave. J, phone 762-8797.

Save On Heating Costs
 Most people actually don't pay much attention to the appliances used for home heating, but with the cost of energy going up for both gas and electricity, users of heating appliances will begin to look closer at those heating costs. Right? Clean filters are a "must" for efficient heating operation. Dirty filters eat up energy by making the furnace motor run harder because less air is pulled over the heat exchanger. Setting the thermostat lower also helps, but the addition of a humidifier (either portable or one attached to the heating ducts) helps put moisture back into dried-out heated air, and a humidifier makes lower temperatures more comfortable.

 Floor furnaces should also be checked out to be sure they are clean. Remember, lint is a fire hazard and that a floor furnace just hangs under the floor out of sight and mind (and jumping up and down on it to make it come on is a hazard to one's health, for sure.)
 Wall heaters should be checked for cracked heat exchangers, and all vents on all types of heating should be checked out to be sure the vents are tight. Gas supply lines should be checked for leaks. All copper supply lines should be removed for safety reasons.

 Lellem Welch maintains a service department for those who do not wish to do this themselves, but Welch also maintains a complete sales store, with professional plumbers as salesmen, to help the "do-it-yourself" person.
 "So, if you are looking for a part or parts for that old heating unit, give us a try. We also stock wall furnaces, floor furnaces and forced air heaters and furnaces."
 "Mr. Winter is just around the corner, so don't be one of those who is out in the cold when it is cold!"

Fireplace Screens, Tools, Accessories Included In Childress Hardware Stock

"We know of some folks who already have tried out their fireplace or other heating units this year! Did you find, if you were one of these, that possibly a new screen was needed, or that tools and accessories were inadequate?
 "And if you have not tried out your heating unit, wouldn't it be a good time to look ahead and be ready when the need arises?
 Then, why delay; turn to Childress Hardware... for the best in Dearborn space heaters, gas logs, stoves, grates, logholders, fireplace sets, screens, radiant heaters, wood stoves, andirons, other fireplace accessories and heat-related needs.
 Childress Hardware Store, at 902 Main St. in Lubbock, has a long, long record of stocking needed items — and the heating line is no exception.

Fireplace Accessories
 A complete stock of accessories and major items is maintained, and one has only to see the wide selection grouped on the second level at Childress Hardware to recognize that here is the one-stop shopping center for winter heating needs.
Replacement Radiants
 Even replacement radiants are stocked among the practical items for which Childress is known.
 Then, too, Childress Hardware has a lot of other appropriate items for the season, things that one should be considering for Christmas plans!
 Cast iron cook ware, Corning Ware,

Stanley Tools, Revere Ware, Pyrex, power tools and other hardware items are sure to please someone on the Christmas list.
Tools For Builder
 For completeness, shop Childress Hardware, on the corner at 902 Main. Whatever the job at hand, there is no reason for it being made more difficult by inadequate tools and equipment.
 So — rely on the Fred Childress Hardware Store where again the finest builders' tools have been stocked.
 Remember the old-fashioned hardware store, where one could buy just about anything from a box of nails to harness snap or a pulley wheel for the well?
 The Fred Childress Hardware Store still retains that well-remembered atmosphere, while at the same time stocking the most up-to-date items offered by space-age hardware suppliers.
No Newcomer
 There has been a hardware store at this location, right across the street north of the courthouse, for more than 50 years, and the Childress name has been associated with the hardware business in Lubbock for nearly half a century. Old traditions of quality and services survive amid the attractive, modern displays.
 Here you can purchase an old-fashioned sprinkling can or a lawn watering device that negotiates your yard; a well pulley (believe it or not they're still in demand) or a lamp chimney.
Wide Selection
 "If it's in the hardware line," partners Leslie Duncan and Dick Jay emphasize, "you can get it here."
 "And at inventory time we show more than 10,000 different items!"
 Childress Hardware is a popular place with carpenters and craftsmen, who make it headquarters for nails of all sizes, as well as a wide range of other fastenings — capscrews, stove bolts, carriage bolts, machine screws and brass screws.
 Then there's chain and rope in all sizes for anything from home to industrial or farm use.
Cabinet Hardware
 Hand tools of all kinds are displayed and brands — Stanley, Crescent, Thorson, Nicholson, Bluegrass, Disston, Lufkin and Plumb — are those associated with quality and integrity in tool-making for generations.
 Fred Childress Hardware also stocks one of the most extensive line of cabinet hardware in the city, with latest designs in hinges, pulls and latches attractively displayed. Here again brands such as Stylecraft, Christensen, Wicker-Stamey, Phylrich and Pfanstiel are indicative of top quality and design.

Why not go back to work? Tired of staying at home? Is inflation ruining your budget? Are you good with your hands (sewing, crocheting, building models, or do-it-yourself hobbies)?
Texas Instruments in Lubbock has the answer. We are now accepting applications for temporary openings on all shifts and a few permanent openings on evening & night shifts for electronic assemblers, and we provide the training. Drop by the North End Employment Center, at North Loop & University, for information or to apply for a job.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE
TAKE YOUR PICK!!

NOT ELABORATE --- But nice and clean. Not big, just comfortable. Not expensive, but affordable. 3 Bedroom, 2 bath, VA approved at $34,900.

IT'S NOT PERFECT --- and that's why you can buy this older home for only $33,000. Owner must carry his paper on this 3 bedroom home with 1/2 acre, down, ideal starter home.

SUDDENLY IT'S --- autumn. And we are glad. Throw a log on the fire of this handsome custom built fireplace. Large family room, dining area, and brick corners near the kitchen make this 3 BR brick home a good buy at $35,500, with VA approval.

FALL IS FABULOUS --- in Lubbock, Monterey, and this house is fabulous, too. Plenty of room to spread out with over 2400 SqFt of living space, 4 BR's, 2 baths, 2 car garage, plus office --- all on a nicely landscaped corner lot $63,900.

MELONIE GARDENS DUPLEX --- just listed. Beautiful, luxurious, 3 BR, 2 1/2 baths, 2 car garage --- both sides. Located on corner lot, this two story duplex would be a super investment. Live in one side and let tenants help make mortgage payments. Lovely wallpaper, MBR ceiling is beamed. Fireplace in each side. Call today for details.

PARDON OUR ENTHUSIASM --- Better yet, come share it with us and see this 3 BR, 2 full baths, energy efficient beauty. Built to FHA/VA specifications, this home is constructed under the HUD program. Call today and let one of our professionals explain the many advantages to you in purchasing this new home, $44,900.

LOCATION IS THE KEY WORD --- Raintree. Priced at $49,900, you can't find a better buy for such a lovely 4 BR, 2 bath, cozzy den & fireplace, nice landscaped, covered front porch.

PERSONALITY PLUS
The "plus" in New Personality homes means extra insulation in attic, insulated windows and doors, high energy efficient rated air cond. units, attractive decor. Heat and cook with gas. Clean energy for today and tomorrow. VA or FHA financing. Prices from $34,850.

Famous Broadcast Shocked America

By KENNETH R. CLARK
United Press International Writer
 Forty years ago tonight, the Martians invaded Earth, a million Americans became unhinged and folks around Grovers Mill, N.J., filled the local water tower full of bullet holes.

The occasion: a battle that never existed outside the pages of H.G. Wells' science fiction classic, "War of the Worlds," but under the masterful hand of another Welles — one named Orson — it came a bit too alive the night before Halloween in 1938.

Eddie Kemp, now 66, never heard the "Mercury Theater of the Air" radio bulletins that struck terror to the hearts of his neighbors, but he remembers the terror well. It was supposed to be happening in his back yard.

"I drove through the area ... but I had the radio shut off in the car," he said Sunday night. "I drove right through a big traffic jam, but I thought it was a fire or accident or something. Next morning, there in the newspaper was a picture of my home which was right in front of the field where the Martians were supposed to have landed.

"My good God in heaven," I thought. "I'm sure glad I didn't have the radio turned on. If I did I probably would have been gone with the rest of 'em right into the hills of Pennsylvania."

They took to the hills all over the nation that night as Welles and his crew rapped out one terse radio bulletin after another, describing in horrifying detail the inexorable march of the Martians, in war machines like gigantic spiders, striding across the countryside on their long legs, slaughtering everyone in sight.

That's why the Grovers Mill water tower got the business.

"It was a foggy, misty night, and people could see this image through the fog — the four legs of the tower," Kemp said. "Oh God, they thought they had one. The tower hasn't been used in a good many years, but I supposed it's still got the bullet holes."

But Grovers Mill, picked by Orson's writer Howard Koch as the Martians' beachhead after he closed his eyes and aimed a pencil point at a map of New Jersey, wasn't the only area swept by panic at the coming horde of aliens.

Never mind that Welles and his CBS broadcast crew ran frequent disclaimers saying it was all make-believe. An estimated one million of the six million who heard the program heard only disaster.

In Pittsburgh, a man returned home just in time to keep his wife from swallowing poison.

"I'd rather die this way than like that," she wailed as the radio relentlessly pounded out its fictitious bulletins.

In Indianapolis, a hysterical woman ran into a church and screamed. "New York is destroyed. It's the end of the world. You might as well go home to die." The worshippers promptly went home.

A man in Oakland, Calif., called police and shouted, "My God! Where can I volunteer my services? We've got to stop this awful thing!"

Later, in what had to be the understatement of the decade, an unrepentant Welles was to describe the classic dramatization as "a Halloween prank," but few of the embarrassed victims who fled were laughing.

At one point, they learned that of 7,000 men battling a single Martian machine at Grovers Mill, only 120 had survived.

"The rest strewn over the battle area from Grovers Mill to Plainsboro, crushed and trampled to death under the metal feet of the monster," the breathless "announcer" said, rattling on with other battle statistics.

In Newark, N.J., hundreds of residents ran into the streets covering their faces with wet towels and handkerchiefs to protect themselves from the poisonous gas of the oncoming aliens. In Asheville, N.C., five boys at Brevard College fainted as students fought for telephones to call parents, begging to be taken home.

There were prayer meetings in Atlanta and in Richmond, Va., traffic jams in Scranton, Pa., and hysterical reports in Boston that "I can see the fire."

One stalwart soul stood his ground.

William Dock, a 73-year-old Grovers Mill farmer, grabbed his shotgun and went looking for the invaders — posing willingly for photographers who really were invading the town.

While panic spread, Welles and his crew were blissfully unaware of the havoc their "newscasts" were spreading.

Gil Godfrey, now with United Press International, was a student, working in the studio at the time.

"We started getting all these calls, and we didn't know why," he said. "We just couldn't understand why people were so excited."

Later there was debate. Should Welles and his imaginative crew be given medals — or hempen neckties?

Columnist Dorothy Thompson finally came down on the side of medals — or at least kudos — for a program she said pointed up the nation's vulnerability to panic in the very real war already raging in Europe and overnight, Welles was an international celebrity.

Could such a thing happen again, today? Some say yes, but Kemp disagrees.

"People are too educated now," he said. Forty years ago, it was something new, but a radio story is a lot different than television. Today, it wouldn't cause a ripple."

Midwesterners Can Expect Bitter Winter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least one weather expert says most of the country — particularly the western portions of the Midwest — can expect another bitter winter this year and, in fact, for the next five or six years.

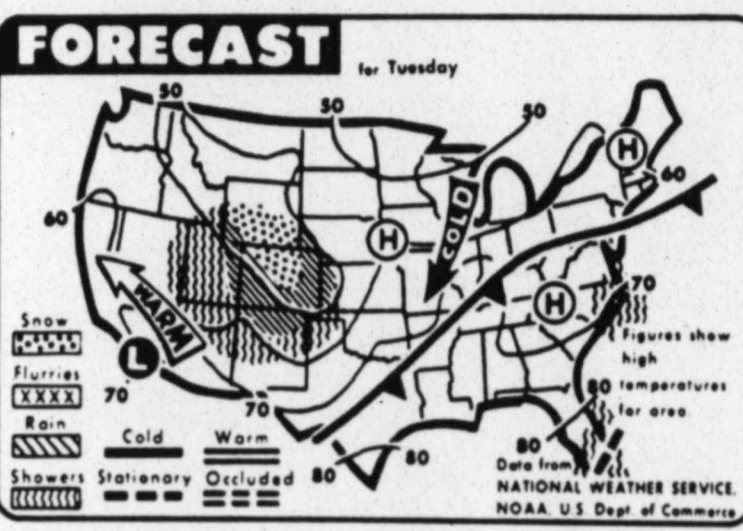

But Hurd C. Willett, professor emeritus of meteorology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said in an interview published Sunday in U.S. News and World Report that the weather will be milder on the mid-to-southern East Coast this year.

Willett predicted wide variations in the severity of the winter across the country, with the chilliest weather centered west of the Mississippi River and east of the Rocky Mountains.

The West Coast will escape the harshest weather, but is expected to be wetter and somewhat colder than last winter, he said.

West of the Appalachians and along the Mid-Atlantic and Southeast coasts the weather will be "relatively warm" with less snow than last year, he said.

He said it will be milder than last year but "on the cold side in the Northeast" with snow similar to last winter from the upper Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes eastward across New York, Pennsylvania and New England.

FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for Tuesday predicts areas of showers in parts of Virginia and South Carolina and in parts of Florida. An area of rain, showers or snow is predicted for parts of some states in the central southwestern portion of the nation. (AP Laserphoto)

Philippine President Stops Rice Exports

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Ferdinand Marcos today ordered suspension of rice exports as a result of crop losses wrought by Hurricane Rita, the worst storm to strike the Philippines in eight years.

Authorities said today an estimated half-million persons had been forced from their homes with 50,000 still marooned on the roofs of their flooded houses. Some areas reported water still was waist-deep.

The Ministry of Social Services Development reported 109 dead, 81 injured and 155 missing in the typhoon, the worst to strike the Philippines since 1970.

The ministry said the typhoon, with peak winds of more than 100 miles an hour, destroyed 11,475 houses Thursday and Friday as it smashed across Central Luzon just north of Manila then spun out to the South China Sea. It said 18,294 other houses were damaged.

Estimates of damage to crops ranged from $28 million to $110 million.

Five provinces in the Central Luzon breadbasket were declared a disaster area and Marcos ordered the suspension of rice exports. For the first time in several decades, the Philippines this year had enough rice to export to neighboring Indonesia and Malaysia.

Marcos and his wife, Imelda, flew over the damaged area and the government said the president termed the damage "widespread."

On his return, Marcos, who had already proclaimed a "calamity," directed government agencies to provide housing materials and relief goods to homeless families. He also ordered the immediate replanting of the rice-rich disaster zone.

A government report said 15,871 families or 86,342 persons had taken refuge in evacuation centers.

Three days after the storm, some low-lying areas remained flooded. Residents said Taguig, just outside Manila, still was under waist-deep water.

Police in Isabela Province 200 miles north of Manila ordered the constabulary to bring in boats in order to rescue about 10,000 families marooned on roofs in 13 towns.

Bush Defends Contributions

Congressional candidate George Bush today said more than half of the money raised in his campaign against State Sen. Kent Hance has come from residents of the 19th Congressional District.

"Contrary to erroneous statements made by my opponent, only 16 percent of my contributors live outside the state of Texas," Bush said in a campaign release. "Twenty-one percent reside in Texas but outside the 19th district."

"Since I announced my candidacy in July of last year, 1,889 West Texans have contributed to my campaign. That is 63 percent of the total contributors and represents 52 percent of the total funds raised since July 1977."

Of the 3,040 persons who have contributed, the Midland Republican said, 1,889 live in the district, 642 outside the district but in Texas and 509 outside the state.

"We have had fantastic success in raising funds for our campaign," he said. "It is a time-consuming, hard job, but I am extremely happy and grateful that so many West Texans have given to our campaign."

Little Miss Pageant Slated Dec. 9

Judge In Flood Trial Disqualifies Himself

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judge assigned to conduct the bribery and conspiracy trial of Rep. Daniel J. Flood removed himself from the case today because he had contact with the Pennsylvania Democratic congressman in a tax investigation 14 years ago.

"Such an important and sensitive case ought to be conducted as nearly free as possible from side issues which might attract additional pre-trial publicity," U.S. District Judge Louis F. Oberdorfer said in a memorandum.

He set a tentative trial date of Jan. 15 for Flood but said the judge to whom the case will be assigned, Oliver Gasch, has the option of changing it.

Mark Tuohy III, a special trial counsel for the organized crime and racketeering section of the Justice Department, said that both he and defense lawyer Axel Kleiboemer regretted the judge's decision because they are sure there had been nothing improper in the contact. He said neither he nor Kleiboemer had asked the judge to leave the case.

Oberdorfer was the assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's tax division in 1964 when an investigation was conducted in Pennsylvania involving one of Flood's constituents.

At that time, he said, "I received a telephone call from Congressman Flood in which he requested division consideration of the economic impact of the prosecution of the taxpayers in his district because their company was the largest employer there."

He did not name the target of the investigation but said that a memorandum he made at the time indicates he told Flood he was reluctant to discuss a criminal case with him.

Tuohy told reporters that 10 days before the phone call from Flood to Oberdorfer "the tax division determined on the merits ... that the tax fraud investigation not proceed criminally."

The government lawyer said he wanted to make sure "absolutely and unequivocally" that Oberdorfer had determined not to proceed with the 1964 criminal case on the merits and not because of any influence by Flood.

The judge said he had considered whether he should disqualify himself from trying the case but that he had decided after a review of public and sealed documents "that my impartiality could not reasonably be questioned."

But he said the tax division memoranda about the 1964 case could not be made public under the Privacy Act and therefore he concluded it would not be appropriate for him "to try such an important case with him."

Judges Select 12 Finalists In Pageant

Twelve young women were chosen Sunday as finalists in the Miss Lubbock Scholarship Pageant.

The dozen beauties will compete Dec. 2 in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium for the crown of Miss Lubbock, a $750 scholarship, a $1,000 wardrobe and an expense-paid trip to the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant in Fort Worth next summer, where she will compete for the state crown.

The finalists, chosen from a field of 21 young women, were:

Marilyn Lou Campbell, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Campbell of 5206 46th St., who currently is a dance instructor.

Terri Lynn Eoff, 18, daughter of Bea and T.R. Eoff of 3516 B 50th St., and a freshman at Texas Tech University.

Judi L. Johnson, 22, daughter of Lt. Col. Glenn and Janet Johnson of Georgia, and a graduate student in electrical engineering at Texas Tech.

Alice Kindle of Rockwall, and a freshman at Texas Tech.

Judi O'Banion, 20, daughter of Max and Sibyl O'Banion of 3006 59th St., and a sophomore at Texas Tech.

Rhonda Porter, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther E. Porter Sr., of Fort Worth, and a senior at Texas Tech.

Karen C. Roberts, 18, daughter of Thomas and Mary Lee Roberts of Irving, and a freshman at Texas Tech.

Rae Lynne Stone, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan R. Stone of Pampa, and a physical education major at Texas Tech.

Debra S. Tyler, 18, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Ralph Tyler of 6102 Nashville Drive, at Texas Tech and a Tech twirler.

Sarah J. Watkins, 22, of James and Laverne Watkins of Tahlequah, Okla., and a Texas Tech graduate in music.

Dana Elaine Wendel, 19, of Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Wendel of Slaton, and a sophomore at Texas Tech.

Kathy Zaicek, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Zaicek of Vernon, and a Texas Tech student.

Military Course Topics Listed

Topics including leadership, financial management, maintenance, communicative arts, military strategy and combat support tactics will be the focus of the Warrant Officer Senior Course set for November in Lubbock.

Capt. Perry Barber of the 4166th U.S. Army Reserve School in Lubbock will conduct the course.

Active duty, national guard and reserve warrant officers in the grade of W4, W3 or W2 are eligible for enrollment.

The course is the highest level of professional education available to warrant officers. It is designed to prepare selected warrant officers for successful performance in the most professionally demanding positions in their career fields.

The two-year program is presented in four phases: two inactive duty training phases and two active duty training phases. Students unable to attend the active duty phases may complete them by correspondence.

Retirement point credit for attendance will be awarded and a certificate of graduation will be presented upon completion of the course.

Interested persons should contact Capt. Barber at 797-1175. Deadline for enrollment is Tuesday.

Bengals Upset Houston

CINCINNATI (AP) — The bomb is back in the Cincinnati Bengals' long-ailing offense. And so is quarterback Ken Anderson, who lit the fuse.

After managing only four touchdowns all season, the previously winless Bengals equaled that total Sunday in a 28-13 National Football League victory against the Houston Oilers.

With Anderson tossing completions of 43, 45, 57 and 45 yards, the Bengals ended a long scoring drought and snapped a club record nine-game losing streak dating back to last year.

The Bengals, now 1-8, did it at the expense of the No. 2-rated defense in the American Football Conference.

"We knew we had it. We just kept the faith," said rookie defensive standout Ross Browner, who has turned Cincinnati's defense around.

Coach Homer Rice, in a team meeting Saturday, told the Bengals that a turnaround was just a matter of time. "We're a time bomb. We're just waiting to explode," Rice said, prophetically.

With Anderson rounding into top form, Rice was convinced Cincinnati's offense was primed.

"Kenny hasn't been ready to go deep," explained Rice. "Friday he started zipping the ball again. I knew he had his arm back."

Anderson's passing set up two touchdowns and he added a 45-yard TD toss to wide receiver Isaac Curtis, who had not caught a touchdown pass in more than a year.

Curtis finished with four catches for 130 yards and Billy Brooks had two for 88.

Pete Johnson scored twice and Tony Davis once, each from the one yard line. Rookie David Turner, a replacement for injured Archie Griffin, set up the third TD with a 65-yard run.

Circle Nov. 11 on your calendar. 2 p.m. Austin, Texas, Memorial Stadium.

That's the High Noon of Southwest Conference football this year. Houston versus Texas.

Not Dec. 2 when the Longhorns and Texas Aggies play; or Nov. 18 when Arkansas and the Aggies play; or Nov. 25 when Texas plays Baylor.

The oddsmakers and the experts never thought Nov. 11 would be your basic shootout for league championship with the winner the host team in the Cotton Bowl.

The Longhorns and the Cougars are the only unbeaten SWC teams with 4-0 records and their nearest rivals are two games back.

No team has ever lost two games and been atop the league ladder at season's end.

After the Houston-Texas collision, the Cougars would have only Texas Tech and Rice left on the schedule. The Longhorns would have TCU, Baylor and the Aggies.

Arkansas, the preseason SWC favorite and the pick of some for the national title, lost 20-9 to Houston Saturday while defending champion Texas was smothering "Mustang Mania's" last stand with a 22-3 victory over Southern Methodist.

SMU also has two losses.

Texas' defense was superb, stopping SMU quarterback Mike Ford and wide receiver Emanuel Tolbert like no other team had.

Texas Coach Fred Akers said "We played the best defensive game we've played since I've been here. In fact it was the finest I've seen."

Houston coach TCU, which lost 28-21 to Baylor, this week in the Astrodome, while Texas is idle.

"If we had been healthy I'd rather not take the week off but we are beat up," said Akers. "It will be to our advantage to have this week off."

Akers ticked off injuries running backs Johnny Ham Jones, A.J. Jam Jones, Johnny Lam Jones and others.

In the other SWC game Saturday, Tom Wilson made his debut as head coach at Texas A&M with a 38-21 victory over the Rice Owls. Wilson, who was offensive coordinator under the resigned Emory Ballard, used a man-in-motion for the first time this year.

Houston fullback Randy Love sounded a warning for his Cougar teammates immediately after the thorough victory over Arkansas: "We're not going to look ahead to Texas. We have TCU next."

The victory was particularly sweet for head Coach Bill Yeoman. Arkansas was the only team Houston hadn't defeated since entering the SWC.

Besides the TCU-Houston matchup Saturday, Rice is at Arkansas, Texas A&M is at SMU, and Baylor is at Texas Tech.

Time Of Decision

THE DALLAS COWBOYS may have faced more important games than their upcoming duel with the Dolphins at Miami, but not recently. The 'Pokes are at an extremely critical point in their quest for another NFC East title and a playoff berth, so the trek to Florida next Sunday has unusual significance.

Even the most loyal Cowboy fans were shocked by the manner in which the Dallas lads lost to the Minnesota Vikings. Two fumbles in the opening minutes, plus a series of costly penalties throughout the game, drove some Cowboy followers to undelivered expletives long before the final whistle.

Howie, Dandy and Frank called it early Halloween. But it really was Christmas, with the 'Pokes giving and the Vikings receiving, joyfully.

All is not lost, though, thanks to seven games still on the schedule and the fact that other division foes have had their problems. But the Cowboys must make their move soon, because the days of the regular season are dwindling rapidly.

The schedule is against Dallas now, with a host of formidable teams ahead for the Cowboys. The next two weeks are particularly crucial, with Dallas on the road against the Dolphins and Green Bay Packers. That is no easy task!

Coach Tom Landry says one of the major reasons for the Cowboys' success through the years has been the character of their players. They'll get a good chance to prove it during the next seven weeks.

THERE IS A GROWING belief among many NFL observers that the Cow- See EARL SCUDDAY Page 2

Cardinals Collect First Victory

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are no more zeroes on the left side of the National Football League standings. A couple of formerly wounded quarterbacks took care of that on Sunday.

Jim Hart launched a 55-yard touchdown pass to rookie Dave Steif to propel St. Louis past the Philadelphia Eagles 16-10. And Ken Anderson completed 11 of 16 passes for 268 yards, including a 45-yard TD to Isaac Curtis, in Cincinnati's 28-13 victory over Houston.

Just as upsets of Pittsburgh and Los Angeles wiped out the NFL's unbeaten ranks a weekend ago, NFL's by the Cardinals and Bengals cleaned out the winless ranks.

Elsewhere it was Washington 38, San Francisco 20; Cleveland 41, Buffalo 20; Denver 20, Seattle 17 in overtime; San Diego 27, Oakland 23; Detroit 21, Chicago 17; Pittsburgh 27, Kansas City 24; New England 55, the New York Jets 21; Green Bay 9, Tampa Bay 7; Miami 26, Baltimore 17.

click," said Rice, who got his first NFL victory after replacing Bill Johnson four weeks ago.

Anderson, passing with the pinpoint precision that made him the NFL's top passer in 1974 and 1975, completed 11 of 16 for 268 yards.

Anderson credited his offensive line with springing loose the running backs for a season high of 189 rushing yards.

"For the first time, our running game worked and that opened things up for our passing game. The five guys up front took charge. The difference was a diversified attack," he said.

Veteran offensive tackle Vern Holland saw it as a case of revenge. Houston knocked the Bengals out of a playoff berth in the season finale last year. "That's all we talked about all week," he said.

Two of the touchdowns came after Rice spurned field goals, gambling on fourth-and-one situations near the Houston goal line.

"They deserved it," said Oilers' rookie running back Earl Campbell, "because they whipped us all over the field." Campbell led all rushers with 102 yards on 18 carries.

Houston's Dan Pastorini tossed fourth quarter touchdown passes of 16 and 6 yards to Ken Burrough and Mike Rentro, respectively.

more 8, and New Orleans 28, the New York Giants 17. Los Angeles visits Atlanta tonight.

Bud Wilkinson of St. Louis was finally rewarded with the faith he had shown his players.

"I've been telling you guys for eight games that I've never been more proud of any group of men," Wilkinson said he told his team. "You just refused to give up."

The most impassioned speech, though, was made to Wilkinson by Jim Bakken of the Cardinals, who kicked a 31-yard field goal.

"I've been in this league 17 years, and I can tell you that other coaches would have quit on us," he said. "But you stayed with us and gave us inspiration. A lot of coaches would have berated us, called us on the carpet. But each week you told us we were getting closer. And we want you to have the game ball."

He handed the ball to his coach — and the 62-year-old Wilkinson cried. "It was the greatest thrill of my life," said the legend who coached the Oklahoma Sooners to a 145-29-4 record, three national championships, two Sugar Bowls, four Orange Bowls and four unbeaten seasons in 17 years.

Hart, who suffered a slight shoulder separation two weeks ago, was a surprise starter for St. Louis. He completed 12 of 24 passes for 260 yards and the winning TD. Jim Otis also scored on a 7-yard run.

There was, no doubt, a time Billy Kilmer would have given anything not to get clobbered by a defensive lineman or linebacker — but the safety of the bench turned out to be even more painful. After eight games of watching Joe Theismann call the plays (including losses in the last two), Kilmer got the call once more.

"It felt good to get hit again. I hadn't been hit in eight games," he said after completing 12 of 23 passes for 185 yards and two touchdowns as the 'Skins wiped out San Francisco's 10-0 lead and went on to the victory that re-established their one-game lead over Dallas in the National Conference East.

Kilmer's scoring tosses covered 50 yards to Danny Buggs and 17 to John McDaniel. John Riggins scored two TDs from the 1.

SWC Tourney To Move

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Southwest Conference's post-season basketball tournament appears headed for a 1980 date in San Antonio.

Albert M. Witte, SWC president, said conference representatives met Sunday in Houston and agreed to move the annual tournament from Houston's Summit.

A contract has yet to be signed with San Antonio's recently-expanded Convention Center Arena, Witte said.

"We're 99 and nine-tenths percent sure that there will be no problems," he said. "We're very hopeful and optimistic. We're confident that all the details will be worked out."

The conference president had earlier denied that a decision had been reached. "I think they're going to consider some other offers," Witte had said.

Witte had said.

Witte had said.

Browns 41, Bills 20
It was finally Mike Pruitt, not Greg Hill who got the ball in the Cleveland backfield. After 2½ seasons of being ignored, he was given a chance by Coach Sam Rutigliano and he responded with a vengeance — 173 yards rushing and two touchdowns in 21 carries.

"It's my first 100-yard game," Pruitt said. "I'm glad I finally got the opportunity. I thank Sam for the chance and I hope my role has changed. Not playing bothered me, but I was willing to wait my turn."

Brian Sipe completed 12 of 15 passes for 217 yards, including TDs of 16 and 44 yards to Reggie Rucker and 15 to Calvin Hill. Hill also caught a 3-yard scoring pass from rookie Mark Miller.

Broncos 20, Seahawks 17
Steve Foley picked off a Jim Zorn pass and ran it 30 yards to the Seattle 35-yard line, then Denver drove into position for Jim Turner's 18-yard field goal with 12:59 gone in overtime to beat the Seahawks.

Efren Herrera kicked a 37-yard field goal with 53 seconds to go in the fourth period, forcing sudden-death. With the victory, the Broncos opened a one-game lead over Oakland in the American Conference West.

Chargers 27, Raiders 23
It was San Diego's first victory in Oakland in 10 years, its first points there in four years — and maybe the Chargers' sweetest victory ever.

"We battled back and took it fair and square," Dan Fouts said, and everyone knew what the San Diego quarterback meant. Earlier this year the Raiders beat the Chargers on the highly controversial Ken Stabler-to-Pete Banaszak-to-Dave Casper last-play fumble for a TD.

Fouts' game-tying 29-yard TD pass to Greg McCrary, Rolfe Benirschke's decisive extra point and his insurance field goal were the key scores as Oakland squandered a 20-7 halftime lead.

Lions 21, Bears 17
Gary Danielson's TD passes of 8 yards to Jesse Thompson and 2 yards to David Hill and short scoring runs by Horace King and Roland Harper gave the Lions their second straight victory and saddled the Bears with their sixth straight loss.

Steelers 27, Chiefs 24
Franco Harris ran for touchdowns of 1 and 11 yards and John Stallworth gathered in a 23-yard scoring pass from Terry Bradshaw, but it was safety Donnie Shell's 17-yard TD run with a recovered fumble late in the third period that enabled Pittsburgh to stave off the Chiefs and open a three-game lead in the AFC Central Division.

Patriots 55, Jets 21
Steve Grogan demolished New York with a first-half barrage — completions on 15 of 19 passes for 281 yards and four touchdowns — and the Patriots cruised to their sixth straight victory. Grogan threw touchdown passes of 11 and 28 yards to Harold Jackson, 30 yards to Stanley Morgan and 11 yards to Russ Francis. Horace Ivory also ran for two TDs as New England remained a game ahead of Miami in the AFC East.

Packers 9, Bucs 7
David Whitehurst passed 18 yards to Steve Odum at the Tampa Bay 29-yard line on a fourth-and-10 situation, then Chester Marcol kicked a 48-yard field goal with 41 seconds left to boost the Packers past Tampa Bay. Green Bay remains two games ahead of Minnesota in the NFC Central.

Saints 28, Giants 17
Archie Manning passed to tight end Henry Childs for fourth-period TDs of 1 and 3 yards and runs of 1 yard by Chuck Muncie and 20 by Tony Galbreath enabled New Orleans to beat the Giants.

Dolphins 26, Colts 8
Bob Griese passed 63 yards to Duriel Harris and 33 yards to Nat Moore and defensive end Vern Den Herder caught a 7-yard TD toss from Don Strock on a faked field goal in the Dolphins' romp over Baltimore. Colts quarterback Mike Kirkland was intercepted four times.

boys were overrated in preseason rankings. Because they won the Super Bowl with a lot of young players, it was assumed they would remain at the head of the pack for several years to come. There was a renewal of dynasty talk, to the horror of Landry and club President Tex Schramm.

Now that Dallas has lost three games, the second-guessers are pointing out that the Cowboys didn't face a single top-notch quarterback in the playoffs last season. Dallas beat a Chicago team led by Bob Avellini, then the Cowboys nipped the Vikings after Fran Tarkenton was sidelined by an injury. In the Super Bowl, the 'Pokes faced their old pal, Craig Morton, who is not destined to enter the Hall of Fame.

That reasoning overlooks the fact that Dallas also beat Minnesota early in the season, when Tarkenton was alive and well and pitching those dinky little passes all over the turf at Bloomington. But the Cowboy schedule in 1977 admittedly did not include many of the tigers of the NFL, and the 'Pokes lost to Pittsburgh in one of their few outings against a highly rated team.

But if Dallas was overrated this season, so were a lot of other teams. Oakland, Denver, Houston, Minnesota and Miami have had their woes the last couple of months. Baltimore and Cincinnati were destroyed by injuries to their quarterbacks, of course.

If misery loves company, then the Cowboys ought to be smiling.

DALLAS INSIDERS HINT that the erratic performance of the team this season will result in some changes before next autumn rolls around. A couple of trouble spots have developed in the machinery, and Landry undoubtedly will do everything possible to remedy the situation.

Dallas' offensive line needs help, for sure. It would not be surprising if Landry uses a couple of his top draft choices next May to grab some outstanding blockers for the forward wall. Cornerback has been a vulnerable position, too, so Landry will be looking over the crop of secondary defenders very carefully.

This probably is the final season that Preston Pearson will wear a star on his hat. Preston gave the Dallas front office a lot of problems about his contract in the off-season, and now he is sniping at the coaching strategy and the fact he is running behind Tony Dorsett.

Lamar Wins

Texas Tech blew an 11-2 lead in the fifth and deciding set as Lamar won the fifth and deciding set as Lamar won the Texas Tech Invitational volleyball tournament Saturday night.

After losing the first two sets 15-10 and 15-4, the Raiders won the next pair 15-13 and 15-11. Then, leading 11-2, they rotated serve 13 times but drew only 1 point to lose the set and match.

Lamar is ranked No. 3 in Texas and has been in the Top 10 nationally for three straight years. It finished the regular season 20-6. Tech is 20-15-3.

Showdown Scheduled In 2-AAA

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Fort Stockton's opponent Friday night had just as much success against the Panthers' defense as seven previous foes.

Meanwhile, the Pecos Eagles have relinquished points about as rarely as the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Bengals have won football games.

Last week, the Panthers walloped Open Date, while the Eagles blanked Monahans 24-0.

In seven football games, Fort Stockton has scored 238 points while shutting out its opponents. On the other hand, Pecos has put 219 points on the scoreboard and allowing just 28 in eight contests.

This week, Fort Stockton (rated fourth in AAA) will visit Pecos (rated sixth) in a battle for first place in 2-AAA. Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

"I really don't know why our defense has been able to dominate," said Fort Stockton Coach John Blocker. "So far, our defense has played sound aggressive football."

The Panther defense also has Pecos Coach Jerry Millsapps confused about establishing an offensive game plan.

"I really don't know what we can do against Fort Stockton," said Millsapps. "We're definitely going to have to block better. We will also throw."

In regard to putting the football in the air, Millsapps is confident about the arm of quarterback Jim Bob McNeil.

"He hasn't thrown much," said Millsapps. "But he has been starting for us for two years. We know though that he can throw."

Fort Stockton mentor Blocker agrees with his opponent and expects Pecos to run a balanced attack against the Panther defense.

"We scouted their game against Monahans," said Blocker. "In that game, the Eagles threw three times. However, in many of their games they have operated 60-40 run-to-pass."

How does Millsapps evaluate the Fort Stockton offense?

"Their a big-play offense," said Millsapps. "We're going to have to prevent the long pass or long run in order to win the game."

But Blocker doesn't agree that the Panthers are big-play oriented.

"Earlier in the year, we did make the big play," said Blocker. "But in our last three games, our offense has been controlling the ball and being able to eat up the clock."

Guiding the Panthers offensive attack is quarterback Rick McIvor. McIvor has relied on fullback Paul Pogue to spark Fort Stockton's rushing game.

"We're not going to put in any wrinkles for Pecos," said Blocker. "After all, what you've done the longest is what you'll do the best."

What Fort Stockton has been doing the longest is pounding the football down the field.

"I would have to say that we're bigger, but they're (Pecos) quicker," said Blocker.

Eagle Coach Millsapps agrees with the assessment.

"We've always had a small team," said the Pecos coach. "I really can't even say that we're an experienced team this year. We had 30 seniors graduate, however, there are 25 seniors, most of whom played on our junior varsity last year, that will play against Fort Stockton."

Defensively, Millsapps isn't concerned that the Pecos defense will be at a weight disadvantage.

"We've been getting great leadership out of ends David Gomez and Joel Rodriguez, tackles Gernaro Rodriguez and Ben Deishler," said the Eagle mentor. "Our defense is small, but they're quick."

Blocker doesn't feel Pecos will have a home field advantage. According to Blocker, "we'll have just as many people there as them."

Both clubs are injury-free, undefeated and are looking forward to settling the question—who has the best football team in 2-AAA?

Los Angeles, Atlanta Meet In NFL Action

ATLANTA (AP) — Defensive end Jeff Merrow of the Atlanta Falcons finally realizes his dream tonight.

"I have been wanting to play on Monday Night Football ever since they put it on TV," said Merrow, a 250-pounder in his fourth National Football League campaign since leaving West Virginia.

The Falcons, making their first such appearance since 1974, tangle with the Los Angeles Rams in the nationally televised (ABC) game, set for an 8 p.m. CST kickoff before a sellout crowd of 60,763 in Atlanta Stadium.

Los Angeles, which held the Falcons to only 74 yards in a 10-0 triumph earlier this season, is a seven-point favorite to continue its series domination which now stands at 19-3-2 over Atlanta.

However, Coach Leeman Bennett and the Falcons are hoping a roaring crowd can spur the Falcons to another major upset such as occurred the last time the Monday night game was played here. That came in 1973 when the Falcons ended a Minnesota winning streak, 20-14.

"If you make a good play on the road, you don't hear anything," Merrow said. "When you make one at home, the place gets to rocking and people start going crazy. And that just fires us up."

The Falcons must win to retain any hope of approaching the Rams in the National Conference West title chase. Los Angeles dropped its first game in eight starts last week when the New Orleans Saints registered a 10-3 upset over the mistake-plagued Rams. Atlanta is 4-4 for the year, having won three of its last four.

Both coaches are concerned about the rash of penalties that has hampered their teams this year. The Rams were penalized 13 times for 138 yards last week and now have yielded 657 yards on 71 infractions for the year.

Atlanta's defense got stuck with several piling-on penalties last week that left the club in trouble before Steve Bartkowski unloaded two long bombs in the final quarter, igniting a rally to trim San Francisco 20-17. The Falcons had eight penalties for 79 yards, lifting their season total to 68 for 476 yards.

Bartkowski, who did not play in the first Rams' game and who hasn't allowed an interception in two games, will be facing one of the NFL's toughest defensive units.

Producer Henry Winkler Sells ABC On Broadcasting Special

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Scratch a television series superstar like Henry Winkler and you'll find a super salesman who could sell rib roast to a vegetarian.

On "Happy Days" Winkler uses considerable force of his personality to sell the Fonz. In his debut as a television producer, he used that same salesmanship to sell his product to a variety of people from ABC top executives to Paul Newman and Muhammad Ali. Like all good salesmen he really believes in his product — and with good reason.

Winkler produced and will host an ABC special on Dec. 17, "Who Are The DeBoltz And Where Did They Get 19 Kids?" It is an Academy Award-winning documentary on the DeBoltz, a San Francisco area couple who adopted 13 of their 19 children; most of whom are handicapped.

Winkler wanted to produce the film on television and was told it already had been turned down by all three networks.

"I knew I had to do it after I saw the film. Everybody said it couldn't be done. More than anything I loved that — when they said I'd never get it on the air," Winkler said in an interview, laughing at himself.

As a star of ABC, he attended an ABC board of directors meeting along with the chairman of the board, the president of the company and other top brass.

"Have I got a special for you!" Winkler told them, and his voice was soft and eager as he recalled the scene. "I reminded them 1979 was the International Year of the Child, and they could get a jump on it with a very special holiday special. I ended up shaking hands with (ABC Television president) Fred Pierce on it that night. My first time out and already I'm shaking hands."

Winkler talked ABC into giving him Sunday night at 6 p.m., Central time for the show. Problem: the film runs 74 minutes and the 6-7 p.m. hour runs 48 minutes and 16 seconds — the rest of the time goes to commercials, station identification and Newsbreak.

Winkler and his associates edited the film down to 54 minutes, the network gave up its ID and Newsbreak, and Aetna, the sole sponsor, made two one-time-only commercials to blend with the show.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Tomorrow will be a good day to review your goals. You may have been chasing an unattainable objective. The more realistic your target, the more likely your success.

though they may prove to be a hardship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your logic must take precedence over your hunches tomorrow or you could be seriously blown off-course. Steer safely in charted waters.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Some changes are in store where your social life is concerned. You may see evidence of this tomorrow. The effects will be both adverse and beneficial.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Tomorrow will be a good day to launch a new enterprise in an area where you have knowledge, experience and expertise. If you get out of your balliwick, however, it might be costly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In your anxiety to tie up loose ends tomorrow you may deprive yourself of all that's due you. Take the time to do things right.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't make foolish concessions tomorrow in negotiating important agreements. Your position is strong. Deal from your strengths.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Actions predicated upon sober reflection will produce desirable results tomorrow. In cases where you're too nonchalant, the opposite will be true.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Face issues squarely tomorrow. Don't try to dodge them. You can clean up an old problem and remove a big weight from your mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before getting further involved with one who is presently indebted to you, ask him to settle his old bill. Don't chase bad money with good.

Your Birthday

Irwin Allen Pushes Cast In Making Of Sequel

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A stagehand greeted the visitor to Stage 15 at Warner Bros. with, "I hope you're a psychiatrist. We could use one on this set."
 He had a point.
 Producer-director Irwin Allen positioned four cameras and aligned his stars in waist-deep water. Michael Caine, Karl Malden, Jack Warden, Shirley Jones, Sally Field, Slim Pickens, Angela Cartwright and Shirley Knight gingerly entered the cold, murky water.
 The sound man yelled, "Speed"; the camera operators announced they were ready. Allen shouted for action. High pressure jets boiled the water to a froth.
 Over the actors' heads five late-model cars swung perilously upside-down.
 Director Allen whipped out a horse pistol and fired several shots — blanks — into the air as the actors struggled in frenzy to pull away heavy crates from a bulkhead and hatch.
 In the midst of the tumultuous scene an enormous light plunged from a catwalk, coming within three inches of Michael Caine's head. One of the actresses screamed. Allen bellowed "Cut!" at the top of his lungs.
 The thunder of the jets stopped and all was momentarily quiet. Then the performers slogged out of the water onto ramps. Caine, shaken by nearly having his head split open by the light, sank down on a crate.

 "All right," Allen said. "Let's get that light fixed."
 The cast straggled off, Sally Field to do some needlepoint, Shirley Jones to have her hair sprayed with a mixture of water and glycerin to make it look wetter. Warden, Pickens and Malden made jokes.
 It was all in a day's work on the set of "Beyond the Poseidon Adventure," Allen's sequel to his 1972 hit which made more millions than even the master of disaster films can count.

 The story picks up the overturned luxury liner minutes after the end of the original film. New survivors are discovered when a salvage tugboat crew boards the floundering vessel. Complications are compounded by the arrival of a yacht captained by Telly Savalas.
 The scene Allen was shooting depicts several of the principals attempting to escape a flooded compartment in a desperate attempt to save their lives.
 All was made ready once more with Allen adding a fifth camera to the scene.

"Let's try it again," the director called. The actors groaned and the stagehands laughed and giggled.
 Again the call for action: the jets roared; Allen gleefully fired the horse pistol; and the cast floundered around in the water. It was organized chaos, a condition which gladdens Allen's heart.
 This time all went well. The actors cleared the way to the hatch and managed to push it open.
 First through the hatch to temporary safety was Angela Cartwright. She was wearing a dress and struggled mightily to maintain her modesty. She slithered through the hatch to drop several feet into another freezing tank of water.

 Each performer in turn splashed from the hatch to fall into the water on the other side of the bulkhead. Each had a distinctive move.
 Warden, playing a blind man, plopped in on his side. Pickens did a bellyflop. Shirley Knight slithered in. Malden simply fell. Sally Field, wearing pants, dived. Shirley Jones, her skirt flying over her head, jumped.
 Last through was Caine who barked his shin painfully on the hatch.
 The crew howled with delight at each plunge into the tank.
 "Cut!" Allen called. "Terrific. Just right."

been hoped for.
 "I call this kind of work personal effect," Allen said happily. "We'd already done the master shot. Now, using five cameras, we're close up on the actors and their terror as they fight for their lives."
 "But it's dangerous working in these conditions. None of the actors wanted doubles to do their stunts. Even the girls climbed that 40-foot ladder over there for another spectacular shot."
 "We take all the precautions we can. The underwater lights are well insulated. No problem. But in that big arc that fell into the water there is enough voltage to give the cast a hell of a shock. Could even be fatal."
 Allen said his $11.6 million budget makes the sequel more than three times as expensive as "The Poseidon Adventure." But he's bringing it in on schedule.
 "Next week we go out beyond Catalina with a 170-foot hulk we built for some ocean scenes of the upside-down hull," he said. "It'll be even more exciting."
 The stagehand at the door told the departing visitor, "What'd I tell you about this movie needing a psychiatrist?"

NBC To Air Drama On German POWs

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — A shopgirl in a tacky 1940s dress stands among the crowd at a small town southern railroad depot, keeping time to Bing Crosby and the Andrews Sisters singing Johnny Mercer's "Accentuate the Positive."
 That the opening of NBC's "Summer of My German Soldier," to air tonight at 8 P.M., is a far cry from the town's actual history is not surprising.
 The townspeople are waiting for the train that will bring a group of German POWs to Jenkinsville, Ga., their fascination mixed with hate.

Also at the train station is Kristy McNichol as Patty Bergen, 13-year-old daughter of the town's only Jewish family. Patty doesn't belong — not even within her own family. Her father, Michael Constantine, loathes her for reasons unexplained. Her mother, Barbara Barrie, remains only a vague presence. Only the black maid, Esther Rolle, loves the teen-age girl.
 One German POWs speaks excellent English, which fascinates Patty when the prisoners are brought to her father's store. The handsome blond German, little more than a boy, escapes and Patty offers him refuge in an old shed, sneaking food to him and looking for an innocent intimacy her life lacks.
 What prompts a teen-age Jewish girl to provide a hideout for a Nazi enemy of her country remains unclear, disturbing an otherwise touching story of an odd, doomed relationship.
 In the end, Patty not only loses her German soldier, but the must hold up her head in a town that hates her.
 Miss McNichol's poignant performance as a yearning young girl, whose socks keep slipping down, is a four-hander chief delight, and Bruce Davison makes his young German as sensitively defined as a vague script will allow. Esther Rolle combines dignity and compassion, although her final defiance of the town probably would have stirred up a lynch mob in real life.
 It is the fine performances by all concerned that overcome the flaws in the storyline, and provide a rare quality of television drama.

The next night is Halloween, and both NBC and CBS have horror shows. Over at CBS on Oct. 31, 8-10 p.m., Central time, Richard Crenna and Yvette Mimieux star in "Devil Dog: Hound of Hell," about a suburban family whose lives are threatened by their Satanically possessed pet pooch.
 The NBC horror is "Stranger In Our House," also from 8-10 p.m., starring Linda Blair (of "Exorcist" fame) as the daughter of a household increasingly bewitched by her orphaned cousin. Carol Lawrence plays the mother, Jeremy Slate is pop, McDonald Carey is a witchy neighbor, and Lee Purcell plays the wicked witch who gets a nicely horrid look toward the end.

Married Couple Seeking Return Of Skeleton

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Missing is a former person, more than six feet tall, weighing about 60 pounds and having no hair. Ron and Linda Mullinax want their skeleton back and promise no questions asked of the thief.
 Mullinax said Sunday the skeleton was hanging on the semi-enclosed front porch of their home along with three Jack O'Lantern pumpkins for Halloween decoration. In fact, he said, the neighborhood kids thought it was effective and a few came close enough to give it a good look.
 "We wanted to rent a coffin too, but they're too expensive," Mrs. Mullinax said.
 They had planned to hang an ultraviolet light on the display to increase the ghostly effect but the skeleton was missing when the couple got up Saturday morning.
 "The worst thing about its being stolen is that I borrowed it from a friend," Mullinax said. "The skeleton was a laboratory skeleton, but is fairly old and when they replaced it with a newer one, they gave it to him."

 Mullinax said he is fairly sure he could identify the skeleton if it turns up, since it was painted white with the mouth and rib cage trimmed in red. The skeleton had three toes missing from the right foot, a wooden duplicate for a missing left arm and a missing right hand.
 Mrs. Mullinax said police were contacted on the theft, but were somewhat skeptical of the matter. Police did promise to look into the case and hold any skeletons that fit the description.

 The Mullinaxes said they are more concerned about getting the skeleton back than about punishing whoever took it, so the culprit can just drop it on their porch and ring the doorbell before running away — like any other Halloween pranks-ter.

Over the actors' heads five late-model cars swung perilously upside-down.

Household Glue Used In Rock Sculptures

By SHARI LEWIS
 I love to handle rocks. Some are smooth; others pitted with tiny holes. Many are brown or gray, but what fun to discover a pink or orange pebble in the pile! Each rock has its own character, and often, if you put a few of them together on a table and just stare at the pile for a quiet moment or two, the rocks will tell you what they want you to make out of them. Household glue is a very sturdy "stickum" for making rock sculptures, and you can color them with most felt-tip pens, crayons or nail polish.
 My daughter Mallory has made rock sculptures for me over the years, but my favorite was a small turtle named Pebbles and a big one named Rocky. On Rocky's back it said, "Please turn me over." When I did, I was surprised to see that on Rocky's stomach it said, "Thank you."

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Children as young as 9 years old think nothing of popping an aspirin without asking their parents, say researchers at Michigan State University. The researchers, who studied 3,300 Michigan children from grades four through 12, voiced concern that youngsters are learning early to turn to a pill whenever they feel discomfort. Forty percent of the 9- to 11-year-olds questioned said they took aspirin at least once a week, the researchers said, and a quarter of them said they didn't check with their parents first.

Wolfforth Man Injured In Stabbing At Nightspot

An early morning stabbing Sunday at a club on South U.S. Highway 87 sent a 24-year-old Wolfforth man to Health Sciences Center Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Luis González Pesina told sheriff's deputies he got into a fight about 1 a.m. and was being escorted out of the nightspot when a club employee stabbed him.

Reports show Pesina's 19-year-old brother also was injured during the altercation, but not seriously. Deputies were told the suspect was a middle-aged, heavy-set, Mexican-American with graying black hair and wearing glasses.

In another reported assault, Richard L. Shiers, 48, of Lubbock told police he and his wife were playing golf about 3:30 p.m. Sunday at a local country club golf course when he was shot in the ear and chest. Shiers' injuries were not serious, reports indicate.

Shiers said he heard shots and then felt pellets striking him. The victim said he saw two boys and a young man with shotguns in a pickup truck parked near the course.

The suspects, all believed to be white, reportedly drove off when Shiers walked over to talk to them.

Police about 7:15 p.m. Sunday met with a 20-year-old woman who said she was assaulted after surprising burglars inside her house.

Jan Carol Flowers said she entered her residence and was turning on lights when she noticed her back door open. She said she saw a black woman running for her front door and a short white man coming at her with a "short black stick."

Reports show the man struck Miss Flowers in the forehead, knocking her out several minutes. The woman said she lay on the floor until she was sure the burglars had left and then got up to call police.

Nothing apparently was taken from the house, according to police, but items wrapped in two bedspreads and a pillow case found in a back room are thought to have been the burglars' intended loot.

A 23-year-old Lubbock woman told police her husband beat her up about 7:45 p.m. Sunday. She said she was hit in the jaw and her face was slammed to the cement floor three times.

A burglary about 12:45 a.m. today resulted in the arrest of a 20-year-old Lubbock man.

Police answering an alarm at Brown's Pool Hall, 2020 Idalou Road, entered the business and found the suspect sitting in a chair in a back room. The man was taken to the county jail.

A 23-year-old man was taken into custody about 10:30 a.m. Sunday after he allegedly tried to get away from police in his car.

Reports show the suspect, traveling in a late-model sports car, was first called to pull over at Clovis Road and Detroit Avenue. Police said the man refused and a chase followed, involving speeds of more than 100 miles per hour on University Avenue.

The suspect was finally apprehended on University about 3/4 mile north of Loop 289. The man reportedly resisted arrest and threatened the life of a police officer while being booked into the county jail.

Sheriff's deputies today were investigating the theft of parts from a Model T Ford pickup truck which Glen William of Route 9, Box 151, said he was rebuilding. The antique was parked near William's house in a cow shed when the parts, valued at $890, apparently were stolen sometime during the past week, William said Sunday.

Property and money losses mounted for Lubbockites as burglars and thieves continued their activities throughout the weekend.

A diamond wedding ring set, valued at $1,200, was taken from 8202 Louisville Ave. Sunday morning.

Lynnda Jenkins, who was conducting a garage sale at her home, said the set had been in a soap dish in the bathroom.

After she discovered the set missing, Mrs. Jenkins recalled that she had let a woman use the bathroom. The suspect was described as white, 26-35 years of age, short, of medium build and with brown hair.

The manager of the Town House Inn at 4401 Ave. Q reported the theft of a $450 portable color television set from one of the motel's rooms shortly after noon Sunday.

Vallabhai Patel said the suspect was a white male, 18-25 years old, who was tall and thin with blond hair.

Burglars made off with an undetermined amount of cash early Sunday from a club at 7301 S. University Ave. Michael Sutherland, manager of the club, said the thieves entered the office sometime between 4 a.m. and 8 a.m. by boring through a sheetrock interior wall and ripping open the floor safe.

Victor Lopez Gonzalez, 36, of 3308 31st St. was the victim in an aggravated robbery Saturday night.

While he was walking in the 1300 block of 13th Street, Gonzalez said a man stuck a long-pointed knife to his stomach and demanded his wallet.

The robber, described as white, 20-30 years old, heavy, of medium height and with blond hair, fled with $25.

Thieves carted off three pairs of ski boots, valued at $600, from a residence at 2715 41st St. between 10:30 p.m. Friday and 3:50 p.m. Saturday, Michael Hartley said the boots were taken from the garage.

After prying a window, burglars removed a $150 portable color TV from Carmo Garrett's home at 1312 60th St. sometime Saturday afternoon.

In weekend assault activity, a 17-month-old baby was bruised while at a babysitter's home Saturday night.

William H. Beard of 3018 44th St. told police that after the couple took the child home, his wife noticed bruises on the baby's leg. He said the babysitter had told him that the child had cried for several hours but that she had rocked the baby until she stopped crying.

The baby, who has cerebral palsy, was taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital for examination.

In another assault, Betty Jean Monroe of 1821 E. First Pl. reported that a 47-year-old male struck her in the mouth and then did $300 worth of damage to her rented car Saturday night.

She told officers that she and the man began arguing about who should drive the car. When Miss Monroe told the man she was going to drive the car since it was rented in her name, she said he struck her in the mouth and knocked out two teeth.

The complainant said the man also shattered the front and side windows of the car before he fled on foot.

A six-year-old boy was the object of an aggravated kidnapping in the 6400 block of 38th Street Saturday afternoon.

The boy told police that two men in a white and brown station wagon had approached him. He said the driver got out, picked him up, put a knife to his chin and placed him in the car. While the boy was in the car, he said the other man said they were going to shoot his brother.

The men drove to the corner of 38th Street and Ironton Avenue, told the youngster to get out of the car and drove off.

The boy described the duo as white, 18-25, tall, of medium build and with black hair.

Errant 'Dozer Crushes Car

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 24-year-old woman escaped serious injury when a driverless, runaway bulldozer roared from a darkened field onto a northwest Oklahoma City street, crushing the woman's auto.

Diana Huddleston told police the incident occurred about 7:30 p.m. Sunday when one of two bulldozers, both apparently set in motion by vandals at a nearby construction site, headed for her car.

"I put my foot on the brakes to try to stop, and he (the bulldozer) wouldn't stop," she said.

She jumped from the car seconds after the bulldozer's blade collided with her car and the two vehicles moved toward a 15-foot embankment on the side of a lake.

The bulldozer followed the rolling auto over the edge of the embankment and crushed the car before stopping.

The second bulldozer bogged down when its shovel snagged in the ground before getting to the roadway.

Mrs. Huddleston suffered only scrapes and bruises and was treated and released at a local hospital.

Pledge No Longer Required

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Students at an Annapolis junior high school now can decide for themselves if they want to say the pledge of allegiance thanks to a 13-year-old girl who bucked a school policy.

Barbara Mello, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, said Sunday the principal of the Wiley H. Bates Junior High School has agreed the policy of requiring a student to receive parental permission not to say the pledge is "un-constitutional."

The controversy began when school officials told Ruth Wyatt she had to have a note from her parents approving her decision not to stand and recite the pledge.

Ruth brought the note. But her parents and the ACLU objected, saying the decision was solely a student's to make and any interference from school officials was an infringement of First Amendment rights.

Mrs. Mello said notification of school officials' change of heart came in a weekly bulletin from Principal Don Rodkey to his faculty.

The bulletin said any child can be excused from reciting the pledge and Mrs. Mello said "it's their opinion that requiring a letter from home is unconstitutional and violates the rights of the students."

Martha Wyatt, Ruth's mother, said Rodkey's note to the faculty was "certainly a victory" and her daughter agreed.

"I'm sitting, so I have won something," Ruth said.

But both Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. Mello expressed concern over Rodkey's additional statement. He said he had the option to hold conferences with the parents of any child who refused to say the pledge for whatever reason.

The two women also want School Superintendent Edward Anderson to clarify his intention to discipline a student who refuses to recite the pledge "for impermissible insubordinate reasons."

Mrs. Mello said she does not know if the letter to the Bates faculty applies to the whole county school system.

Ruth has continued her silent protest since the first day she came home and told her mother, "I did it. I sat there."

Despite her victory, no other student has joined her, Mrs. Wyatt said.

"I think it is a fairly intimidating atmosphere," Mrs. Wyatt said. "I know a child that tried to do it on her own last year, but couldn't hold up when her parents were brought into the matter."

Ruth, an honor roll student, "had a very rough first week," Mrs. Wyatt said. She said a day has not gone by where "one or two vicious, hate letters appear in the local newspaper."

The newspaper, which she refused to identify, decried the teenager's action and charged Ruth and her parents were "publicity hounds," Mrs. Wyatt said.

Schrafft Recalls Candy

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Schrafft Candy Co. has recalled 24,000 one-pound bags of Halloween candy corn after the discovery that hard, non-toxic particles were mixed with it.

The recall Saturday came after an order from Connecticut's Department of Consumer Protection that the Caldor store in Old Saybrook take the Schrafft candy corn off its shelves.

The order came Friday after state chemists discovered what they thought to be pieces of ceramic-coated metal in sample bags of the candy.

Schrafft maintains the hard particles are "pieces of dried, caramelized corntarch ... and do not constitute a health hazard."

Thomas McNulty, president of the Boston-based company, declined to name the other retailers or to specify the number of retailers involved in the recall. He would not say to which states the candy was shipped.

The particles were reported to health officials by a Clinton school teacher who had bought eight bags of the candy for her pupils.

J. Gordon Hannah, chief chemist at the state agricultural experiment station in Hamden, said the particles looked like pieces from a ceramic-coated tray.

Council Urges Halloween Safety

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Safety Council has issued a plea to parents to insure Halloween trick-or-treat activities are safe for their children.

"Parents have a responsibility not only to prepare their children for the evening, but also to show their children the responsible way to go out on their Halloween rounds," Council President Vincent L. Tofany said.

The Council published a long list of tips in preventing Halloween accidents, urging common sense be used in designing children's costumes to avoid obstructing vision or impeding walking.

"If both parent and child accept responsibility, Halloween should be fun, exciting and safe," Tofany said.

Three Youths Die In Lake Drowning

HOUSTON (AP) — Three youngsters drowned Sunday while on an outing at Lake Houston. A fourth was rescued. Investigators said the children apparently stepped into a deep hole while wading.

The dead were Meta Theresa Schlott and her twin brother, Ottomar Hans, and their younger brother, Rochus Sylvester. A brother, Edgar, 14, was rescued.

Friends said the mother, Martha Curtis, and six children moved to Houston from West Germany several years ago.

Former high tar smokers report having “no regrets” in switch to low tar MERIT.

Read what former high tar smokers had to say about their switch to MERIT in a new, nationwide research effort.

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an “easy switch” from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

And in research conducted among high tar smokers who taste-tested MERIT against leading high tar brands:

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking
MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first real alternative for high tar smokers.
