Loud and fast may describe the mystique of drag racing. Racers and fans alike gather monthly at Penwell raceway, 15 miles west of Odessa, where high-powered machines scream down a quarter-mile strip at speeds approaching 200 mph. Sunday's West Texas Life spends a day at the track with the dragsters.

What's his name again?

Gaylord Marshall, Sam Houston Clinton, Jim Lacy. Who are these men? How many Midlanders know who will be on their ballot in November? The Reporter-Telegram has found that even the names of gubernatorial candidates, who have spent millions to tell people who they are, are at best only vaguely familiar to a number of Midlanders.

Cotton down to bottom dollar, just above ground

LAMESA — Cotton is scrawny this year in Dawson County.

'I don't have much. My crop is pitiful," said Don Vogler, who farms 550 acres of cotton on sandy loam south of Lamesa. "It's just like everything else in this county.

You can bet your bottom dollar that the pickings will be slim indeed come harvest time. The predicted yield is about a quarter of last year's bumper crop.

The stalks are so short and many bolls are so close to the ground some farmers fear most mechanized cotton-pickers won't be able to reach them

And you can blame it all on the weather. Like the cotton prospects, the rains were lean and scarce, too late or not at all.

In spots, such as in the western part of the county, the cotton is flourishing. But that's due to hop-scotching showers, which were too widely scattered. Those are the exceptions. Vogler was looking over some of the acreage in the southern part of the county - around Ten Mile, Sparenberg, Klondike and Patricia comROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd munities. He was driving a pickup truck in a caravan of 18 pickups and six cars in the annual Dawson County Farm Tour. His blonde daughter, M'Liss, 4, was along for the ride At first she seemed bored with the ride and indifferent to the passing rows - field after field after field. But she got a bit perky toward the end of the tour, especially when a mist as light as gossamer fell.

Joe Ed Wise, the county agricultural agent, was leading the caravan of 60 to 70 farmers.

Like most of the farmers, Vogler is resigned to a "crop failure" this

"For most of us, it's a losing deal," said Vogler, who has been farming on his own for about 10 years. He's 33. "Hoping the bankers will carry us and hoping for a better year next vear.

And for a "better" crop in 1979, the farmers are banking on rainfall later this year and next spring to supply the needed underground moisture — the seasoning. Without it, farming is gambling without any odds for win-

Farming is Dawson County, which has been the No. 1 county in the state in bales of cotton produced, is mostly a dry-land proposition. There's little underground water for irrigation.

And where it is available, the cost of pumping and distribution is "too expensive" and unprofitable. Mostly, there just isn't a water table in Dawson County.

"In the long haul, the dry-land farmer has made more net money' than the cotton producer who irrigates, Vogler said. The tour took in five stops Thursday afternoon: the Kenneth Hamilton

Krueger says current bill compounds problem

By LINDA HILL R-T Staff Writer

"It has always appealed to some people to make big charges about big ripoffs in the oil and gas industry, Rep. Bob Krueger told members of the Permian Basin Gas Processors Association Thursday night.

After more than 20 years of "confusion of politics with economics," there is movement within Congress and federal agencies toward deregulation of natural gas prices. Krueger said at the organization's quarterly meeting at the Midland Country Club.

However, he said, the natural gas pricing bill currently before the Congress "compounds" regulation instead of being the phased-in deregulation it is being "touted" as.

He said that bill has less than a 50-50 chance of passage

Krueger, who is the Democratic nominee for the Senate seat now held by U.S. Sen. John Tower, said the industry has come a "considerable distance" since gas prices were regulated at the well head in 1954.

In 1976, a bill introduced by Krueger to deregulate the price of new natural gas was defeated in the House by 205 to 201. The absence of several representatives who would have voted for the bill was responsible for the defeat, he said. But that was the first step in liberalizing gas regulation, the congressman said.

"If we hadn't fought it so close, it is clear the Federal Power Commission wouldn't have raised the price (for interstate gas) from 52 cents to $1.42." he said.

And if the regulated price had not been $1.42, then $1.75 would not have 'starting point" in the bill up for consideration this year, he said. If no bill is passed this year, he said he believes Congress next year will pass a bill similar to that 1975 legisla-

Kreuger said he withheld an opinion on the House Senate Conference Committee compromise, reached May 24, until it was translated into legislation "because I've found out legislation when it's written often comes out yery different than the memorandum of understanding. And indications are the bill still is 'not quite final." he said.

Rep. Bob Krueger

Krueger outlined for the gas processors the "problems" the bill "as I now understand it" has for Texas: — The economic impact statement

Shah's troops fire on crowd, report 100 dead; martial law set

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Troops fired into a crowd of several thousand anti-government demonstrators in Tehran today and unofficial reports said as many as 100 people were killed. The clash came just hours after the government imposed martial law in the capital and 11 other

No official death count was available, but the government-owned radio Tehran said "many" died.

The martial law order, which bans gatherings by more than three persons and imposes a curfew from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. daily, is an effort to end rioting by opponents of the Shah of Iran's liberalization program. An estimated 1,000 persons have died in the disturbances in the past eight

The angry protesters in Jaleh square, in the eastern section of the city, shouted down religious leader Ayatullh Noori who had appealed to them to disperse. Led by teenagers and followed by women in their traditional Moslem veils, the demonstrators marched toward a line of soldiers and began throwing bricks and rocks, witnesses said. The soldiers fired submachine guns into the air and then into the crowd

Witnesses said "many" bloodsoaked demonstrators fell to the ground and were hauled away in trucks after the two-hour battle.

The demonstrators set fire to sever al buildings, gasoline stations and department stores and tried to pull down statues. That section of the city also includes Baharestan, the parlia-

Slightest hint of some progress slipping through secrecy screen

CAMP DAVID, Md (AP) - A veiled hint of progress is slipping through the secrecy at the Middle East summit

The meeting's official spokesman dropped the hint Thursday as President Carter, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat wasted no time getting to the thorniest issues in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, who has gone to great lengths to avoid pronouncements that would disclose anything substantial about the talks, seemed to slip as he argued that secrecy has been helpful to the summit participants.

We have found this atmosphere to be helpful and conducive to the sort of discussions we wanted to have.' Powell said. "And the gentlemen are pleased with this arrangement."

There was no word from the Egyptians, Israelis or Americans about whether Carter was making progress. Nor was Powell willing to characterize the mood of the discussions. But strongly suggested the U.S. president was not displeased with developments so far in the summit, which began late Tuesday.

Powell's impromptu comment

As the summit began its third day today, Carter held a breakfast meeting with Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the

August price drop seen; Inflation at 10 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — An acrossthe-board easing of price pressures occurred in the economy in August as wholesale prices declined 0.1 percent, the first drop in this key measure of inflation in two years, the government reported today.

It was the most encouraging development yet in the government's fight to control inflation. Prices of consumer foods fell 1.5 percent, the biggest decline in two years Wholesale prices had increased 0.5 percent in July and were up 7.7 percent for the 12-month period ending in August. The August decline was the first since August of 1976, when prices fell 0.2 percent.

If continued for a year, the August decline of 0.1 percent would result in a 12-month drop in wholesale prices of 1.2 percent. However, not even the most optimistic economists expect that to happen.

The decline in consumer food prices was the major factor in the break in the upward price spiral in August, but Mondale, Vance and Brzezinski then met with Begin's key advisers. The prime minister was not present, and an Israeli official, asking not to be identified, said he did not expect Begin to meet during the day with either Carter or Sadat.

At the same time, a coalition of Arab-American groups monitoring human rights for Palestinians in Israeli-occupied land distributed a statement to reporters urging Palestinians be included as "equal partners in the peace process.

It asked summit leaders to "end Israeli occupation of all Arab lands and to curb immediately Israeli violations of Palestinian rights." It said violations included expulsion from homes, denial of political rights and * torture of prisoners. **

Carter accelerated the pace of his summitry Thursday evening, meeting with Begin and Sadat for the second time in less than four hours.

In addition, Mondale was flown up from Washington on Thursday for the second straight day. He joined Vance, Brzezinski and Secretary of Defense Harold Brown for midafternoon talks with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman Brown's presence revived speculation about possible defense links between the United States and Israel as part of a Mideast settlement.

Schools seeking volunteers

Anyone looking for a way to fill a few idle hours also can fill a need with the Midland public schools.

'Even if you have only one hour a month to spend as a school volunteer, we need you," said Betty Edgar, volunteer chairman for the school district. She is directing a program to place volunteers in elementary schools by Oct. 16.

All volunteers - including classroom, Head Start, Partners in Reading, library and office helpers, and even home room mothers and Halloween carnival chairmen - will be recruited under one program.

"There has been some confusion in the past about who to contact for what program," she said. "This year there will be one form sent home to parents and one volunteer chairman at each school who will process applications and then help principals match volunteers with jobs.

The forms were sent home to parents this week, Mrs. Edgar added, although volunteers do not have to be parents.

Included in the program is a speakers' bureau called Special Programs of Additional Resources and Knowledge, which will allow participants to share knowledge of a particular subject such as a hobby, a career or travel experiences by giving talks or demonstrations. In addition to elementary schools, the SPARK program also is available to junior high and freshman school classrooms..

Anyone who wishes to participate in the volunteer program may go by a school office and pick up a form or call the volunteer chairman in the school where he wishes to serve.

Volunteer chairmen for the Cluster 1 elementary schools are Brenda Mendoza at Henderson, 694-6556; Kathryn Nichols at Emerson, 697-2084, and Marjie Titus at Pease, 684-8974

Cluster II chairmen are Buffy Hodges at Jones, 682-2824; Mickey Harris at Bowie, 683-3798, and Rosemary Cox at Milam, 684-6918. Cluster III chairmen are Shirley White at Burnet, 694-4134; Judy Kibler at Fannin, 682-7110, and Tilly Acosta at South, 694-3930. Cluster IV chairmen are Joan

Brooks at Lamar, 694-0733; Judy Boswell at Rusk, 694-7475, and Larry Gilbert at Crockett, 682-9979. Cluster V chairmen are Gloria Veloz at Long, 682-2299; Jim

CLOVIS (AP) - Arizona authorities sent Clovis police a teletype message that two escaped killers from the Arizona state prison were Arizona authorities said the group was registered at the campground under the name of Larry Matthews. The message said the men were in Clovis the next afternoon.

The teletype from Lt. Tom Brawley asked police agencies to check for missing person reports on a Larry Matthews. It also asked for information on unsolved killings which might conceivable be related to the case.

Water usage for the city usually drops considerably during overcast rainy days, according to city Utilities Director John Lowe, but he said the amount this past week has not dropped as much as he expected. While the amount used has eased down to about 12 million gallons per day during the past several rainy days. Lowe said he had expected it to drop to about eight or nine million gallons per day. "It gives me the feeling our overall usage may be up this year," he said. During not-so-distant scorching summer days, the usage had risen over 31 million gallons. Usage the past 15 months has been "phenomenal," Lowe said. Maybe our population has increased our demand to the point our yearly water usage average will be

He added that the past two years have been "extremely dry. It will take a lot of what we're having now to replenish the soil moisture we've lost. But, the rainfall is moving us in the right direction. If we could continue this pattern (of rainfall) for a few more weeks, we could see more longterm benefits."

High Saturday should reach into the low 80s with the low tonight dropping to the lower 60s. High Thursday was 74 degrees, much cooler than the record 99 degrees set in 1930. Overnight low was 63 degrees compared to the record of 55 degrees set in 1957.

Midland County Sheriff's deputies said the youth's left foot became caught in an automated grain bin shortly before 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

The accident took place on South Midkiff Road about 11/2 miles south

Samuel Torres, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Torres, Rt. 3 Box 547, had been listed in serious condition late Thursday afternoon in Midland Memorial Hospital, where he was transported after the accident. Upon their arrival at the scene deputies said, they learned that the boy had been working atop an automated grain bin machine when his left foot slipped into the chute "One other boy working with Torres

That agency also would have the authority to deny pass-through of costs, he said.

Also, he said, there is no statute of limitations in the criminal provisions of the bill. "You would never be free. You would be subject to litigation in perpetuity.

Krueger said he is "not that concerned" about the $1.75 per thousand cubic feet, which the bill gives as the initial price. He said current intrastate contracts are running at about $1.82, and the market is a little soft at that price.

"But I am concerned about the compounded regulation...The federal government doesn't seem to understand market prices," he said. Krueger said he will not "take any

Manpower jury probe continues

AUSTIN — A federal grand jury probe into alleged misuse of federal manpower funds is continuing but no indictments have been returned, Assistant U.S. Atty. Jack Boone said

"It's been a long investigation and we are still going at it," Boone said. "There have been no indictments re-

Boone said the most recent development occurred Thursday when James H. Bartlett of Midland appeared to present financial records on trade schools he had owned in Midland, Odessa, Wichita Falls, Austin and Bartlett formerly had training con tracts from agencies funded by the Texas Department of Community Affairs and the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs.

"I knew sooner or later I'd be called," Bartlett told a UPI reporter. Barlett reportedly once was the recipient of government contracts totaling more than $750,000. He was supboenaed to bring his books for the defunct Midland Trade School, Tyler Career College, Odessa Career College, Wichita Falls Career College and Austin Vocational Trade Schools Inc. Boone said the records would be turned over to the FBI for checking. "It's all a part of the continuing investigation," he said.

Bartlett has been quoted as saying his trade-school operation collapsed after news reports said key state officials of the GOMA and TDCA helped him win training contracts despite disapproval by the Texas Education Agency. He also was reported to have said stories also alluded to complaints about the quality of training and physical facilities for the classes.

Building permits for the month of August dropped slightly this year and the valuation dropped a good deal when compared to August a year ago, according to a report issued by the city building department. But the total yearly amount already bypassed the record set in 1977.

The city recorded 156 permits amounting to $4,700,960 for August, boosting the year's total to $62,559,-081. Building permits issued in the same month a year ago amounted to 164 for $11,327,281. Permits for the year to date last year only amounted to $45,889,210.

The August permits pushed the year's total to 1,173, slightly lower than the 1,256 permits issued by the same time last year, according to city inspections department.

New residences took top honors in the number of permits issued for August this year with 58. Permits for alterations to residences was second with 43 for a total of $177,549. Next in line was permits for commercial alterations with 23 totaling $352,976.

One permit for a shopping center at $445,000 was the largest amount issued for the month. Also under the category of permits for new commercial structures were five for signs, $4,780; three for warehouses, $62,500; one for a welding shop, $151,500; four for retail stores, $177,000; one for a covered parking lot, $53,000, and one for an office building, $120,000.

Two permits went for mobile homes for a total value of $16,000.

Bid to exempt report fails

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-The Lower Colorado River Authority Thursday failed in its attempt to keep a Texas Department of Water Resources report on the future water needs of the Colorado River Basin out of evidence in the Texas Water Commission 's consideration of the proposed Stacy Reservoir Project.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is seeking authority from the TWC to construct a reservoir in Runnels, Coleman and Concho counties. The LCRA, City of Austin, two downstream irrigation companies and several other entities are opposing the application.

With TWC chairman Joe Carter ill, TWC members Dorsey Hardeman and Joe Carroll concurred to overrule LCRA attorney Larry Smith's challenge to the CRMWD's motion to submit a TDWR document, "Present and Future Surface Water Availability in the Colorado River Basin, Texas," into evidence. Smith, during his crossexamination of one of the report's authors, argued that the witness, Dr. Quentin Martin, could not testify as to the accuracy of the data which went into computer models used to compile the document. 'The computer study," Smith noted, "is only as good as the data you put in it."

Martin said he could not explain how some of the data used in his models was developed. He added, however, that "in my opinion, it's an accurate model for the planning purposes of the state."

CRMWD attorney Jim Wilson again argued Martin's document should be accepted into evidence as the report of an expert relying on other experts' data. The two commission members agreed.

This was the first major ruling Hardeman has made as acting chairman. His authority to hear the case was challenged in June by the LCRA and other opponents due to his past service as an attorney for the City of San Angelo in an earlier attempt to build a reservoir on the Colorado River at the proposed State site.

In this latest application by the CRMWD, San Angelo has been cited as a potential user of the Stacy water. Hardeman served several terms as a state senator from San Angelo. On assuming the chairmanship Wednesday, Hardeman said he is "well aware" of the emotion surrounding the case and stressed he would make no ruling on any motions without the "audible concurrence" of

The Stacy hearing will continue Sept. 26 here before the commission.

Hitler image isn't clear

By WOLFGANG J. KOSCMNICK Copley News Service

Adolf Hitler was born in Austria around 1819 or 1933. He was an Italian half-Jew and later joined the Christian Democrats.

During World War I, he tried to dodge military service by moving to Germany — but Reich authorities drafted him just the same.

During the war he loitered behind the lines, spending most of his time washing dishes. After the war, he happened to drop into a beer joint in Munich.

A Communist party, the NSDAP, was holding a meeting there. It had split off from the Social Democratic Party, and it was a leftist-extremist organization. Hitler made himself the fuhrer of the

All of a sudden, Hitler rose to power because he was the only one who knew how to tackle the unemployment problem.

He was a very generous German king. His deputy was Bismarck, who has been languishing in an East German dungeon for more than 30 years. Immediately, Hitler took vigorous action: He declared mass unemployment strictly verboten, he built autobahns and volkswagens, and he also made the first landing on the moon. Criminals were sent to prison. Everything was clean and in perfect order in Hitler's Germany.

The Reich began to thrive under his rule. For example, nobody had to fear finding his children throttled, or his mother raped when he came home from work. And of course everybody could walk in the streeets without being mugged. Hitler saw to it that the streets were emptied of hippies and terrorists, of prostitutes and cripples, of Communists and of other riffraff.

He dubbed his enemies Nazis and had them put in gas chambers. He also made one whale of a mistake killing 50,000 or so Jews, because later this turned out to be very detrimental to the reputation of the Later he waged the 30 Years' War, which was also called World War. He was the greatest military leader of all times and he conquered many, many countries for his fatherland. He never lost a battle. Konrad Adenauer was one of his friends.

Later he turned nuts and was betrayed. At the end of the war, he jumped down from a dam in the Ruhr area and died.

But he may also have managed to escape and run around as a madman in Russia or in Argentina. He is also said to have founded the Federal Republic and to have built the Berlin Wall.

Believe it or not, this is what young West Germans between 13 and 21 know about Hitler — regardless of their education.

When this strange image of Hitler gradually took shape as a result of a large-scale analysis of 3,042 compositions by students and pupils of secondary and elementary schools on "What I Hear About Adolf Hitler," the analyst, education scholar Dieter Bossman, was convinced at first: "They are trying to lead me up the garden path." But they were, on the contrary, offering the very best of their knowledge. The notion West Germany's younger generation has of Hitler and the Nazi era is adventitious to the point of becoming even amusing, if it were not for the barbarous historical truth. And it is blatantly erroneous. It is an almost romantic malarkey that belittles and varnishes the reality of the Nazi Obviously, the majority of the young Germans do not feel much, if any, repugnance against Hitler. They also do not seem to like him. They all tend to of their business. For them, Hitler is an historic figure like any other, and apparently one that combines traits of Napoleon, Count Dracula and James Bond.

But from the murkiness of the Hitler image, a few heinous U stereotypes emerge that are indeed commonly held in West Germany: Hitler was a leftist. But he also did many good things, like abolishing mass unemployment, building autobahns, pursuing a vigorous law-and-order policy. Mass murder of Jews is judged in terms of "success." Even his "landing on the moon" is not just mere nonsense. The underlying implication is that it became possible only because the first long-range missiles were developed by the Reich's war machinery.

Vergangenheitsbewaltingung (overcoming the past) is, in many ways, the key word in Germany's intellectual postwar history. The very terminology suggests that the Germans rather strove for putting the Nazi past out of their minds than for coming to

Amid public debates over the problem of collective guilt, which rather served the purpose of negating than of clarifying it, the post-Nazi Germans focused their minds on the Wirtschaftswunder and the accumulation of wealth although, grudgingly, they deigned to admit of a certain collective respon-

As a consequence a public attitude of avoidance coupled with a private attitude of winking indulgence became the predominant stance with which the Germans tried to dismiss both the monstrosities of the Nazi period and their own involvement.

DEAR DR. SOLOMON: My brother, who is in his fifties, has been terribly depressed for four or five months, and hasn't been able to sleep at all well. His doctor has suggested that he take some sort of drug to help him get out of this-a "tricyclic drug, I think he said. But my brother is very hesitant to use anything of this kind-he feels he ought to be able to handle things on his own. Would you have any advice? Are these antidepressive drugs safe and effective?-

DEAR X: The tricyclic drugs have proved to be of great help in many cases of severe depression that don't clear up by themselves or with psychotherapy. Relatively few adverse side effects have been reported.

There is quite a group of these medications and some patients respond better to one than to another. The response can often come quite rapidly-sometimes a week or so after treatment starts. Or it can take four or five weeks.

I understand how your brother feels about getting over his depression on his own. But sometimes this condition becomes so severe that one should really think of it as a kind of disease. In other words, one should accept the fact that a drug may be needed just as it would if you had some serious infection. It is certainly nothing to be ashamed of. And it may break the depression jinx when nothing else seems to work. See if your brother won't talk this over with his doctor. I hope it all Don't Miss The

New York gearing for big Legionnaires battle

NEW YORK (AP) - City workers hosed down West 35th Street and nearby subway stations, and air and water tests were planned today as one of the nation's top medical detectives joined efforts to try to discover why five confirmed and 38 suspected cases of Legionnaires disease have popped up in the city's garment district.

By late Thursday, after the number of reported sick and dead zoomed from nine to 43 in 24 hours, two deaths had been confirmed as resulting from Legionnaires disease, and another death was "highly suspect." Tests on the suspicious cases continued.

City sanitation workers driving water trucks Thursday night began a thorough rinsing of West 35th Street, where all the known and suspected victims worked as garment workers, tradespeople or, in one case, the cop on the beat. Transit Authority employees were doing the same chore on subway stations in the area.

Building owners were asked to turn off air conditioning systems, prime suspects in earlier outbreaks, including the first and worst one in Philadelphia, in which 29 died and 151 became ill but recovered after a state American Legion convention two summers

The city welcomed the help of Dr. David Fraser, chief of a special pathogen unit in the Bureau of Epideas chief investigator of the disease.

Fraser or members of his staff have travelled the country since then studying other cases of Legionnaires disease, some of them in "clusters" and others as isolated cases.

Dr. John Marr, chief epidemiologist in the city's Department of Health, said late Thursday that two suspected cases in Rochester, N.Y., had been ruled out as connected with the garment center outbreak, since neither patient had been in New York City recently. But Bill Fagle, spokesman for the New York state Health Department, said the Rochester cases were not Legionnaires disease.

Meanwhile, in Memphis, Tenn., officials at Baptist Hospital said they had confirmed five cases of Legionnaires disease but that none had resulted in any deaths. In addition, they said that four others suspected of having the disease were under obser-

Health officials in Washington, D.C., said today that they have confirmed three probable cases. No deaths have resulted.

Marr said Fraser, after attending a morning press conference with Mayor Edward Koch, would study the work done so far in trying to find the source of the mysterious malady, which is

More than 3,000 persons have called a hot line to report possible cases, and 175 of the reports were getting further study

Koch continued to urge calm among New Yorkers, reminding residents that the disease symptoms resemble pneumonia and from 40 to 60 people die of pneumonia in this city every

"It's like 'Jaws' jumped out of the trict," said Tony Thompson, an employee of a restaurant next door to the Interstate Dress Carriers, where Carlyle Legett worked.

The 31-year-old Legett died in Brooklyn's St. John's Hospital last month, the first confirmed death from the disease that kills from 10 to 15 percent of its victims.

Key Legionnaire questions remain elusive

ATLANTA (AP) - Researchers say they still do not know the answers to two crucial questions about Legionnaires disease - how the bacterium moves through the environment and how it infects people.

And finding those answers is a primary objective of researchers at the national Center for Disease Control, said spokesman Don Berreth.

Twenty-nine persons died of the disease after a state American Legion convention in Philadelphia in July 1976. Another 151 persons recovered from the disease. Since then, 487 cases of Legionnaires disease have been reported around the country, Berreth said.

Since mid-August, there have been two confirmed deaths from Legionnaires disease in New York, and one other may have been caused by it. Forty other persons are suspected to be ill with the malady.

All the victims worked in the city's midtown garment district and all were apparently infected last month. Berreth said it is still too early to call the New York outbreak a "cluster" - cases where many victims contract the disease from the same source - but the 43 suspected and confirmed cases make New York a good candidate to be added to the

Clusters have occurred in Burlington, Vt.; Columbus, Ohio; Kingsport, Tenn.; Nottingham, England; Los Angeles; Bloomington, Ind., and Atlanta during the last two years. "Clusters" provide valuable information to researchers, Berreth said.

"You almost need that kind of cluster to identify the disease, otherwise it would probably go unnoticed," he explained.

So far, researchers at the CDC have discovered that Legionnaires disease is caused by a bacterium and that it had killed previously before it surfaced after the legion convention.

They know the disease is a type of pneumonia and can be effectively treated with Erythromycin. They know it strikes mainly older people who smoke cigarettes and that it is not contagious

And although they still don't know how people get the disease, Berreth said, researchers are getting closer to their goal. "The most recent step taken is we developed a procedure to isolate the bacteria from the environment,' Berreth said. "Now we have the tools to determine how it moves about. At some point we may be able to intervenein stopping the cause of the disease in people."

Teachers still man picket lines

By The Associated Press

Teachers in at least 14 states, some of their leaders working in jail cells and union offices instead of neat, chalkboard-lined classrooms, picketed and disrupted classes today for nearly a half-million pupils. Higher salaries was the main issue in almost all the schools districts hit by walkouts.

Classes were scheduled to begin today in Cleveland, Ohio, where officials had to obtain $20.7 million in an emergency loan from the state just to be able to

But a coalition of school employee unions, representing 10,000 teachers and non-certified personnel, urged parents to keep their children home, saying no instruction would be available at schools. All but 800 of Cleveland's 100,000 pupils were ordered to report to their classrooms. Cleveland teachers, who say they will not be left without a pay raise for a third straight year, now receive between $9,100 and $18,650 a year. They are seeking a 20 percent increase.

Teachers are also striking in Dayton, Ohio. In New Orleans, the first negotiating session since schools opened Aug. 30 was set for today between representatives of the 4,300-member United Teachers of New Orleans and school board representabeen jailed when teachers struck illegally 11 days ago, a tentative settlement was announced late Thursday night. State mediator Jack Martyn said the 500 members of the Marion Teachers Association would vote on the proposed three-year contract today. School officials said if teachers approved the contract, the system's

9,900 pupils would return to classes Monday.

No details were released on the agreement, whose first year is retroactive to cover the 1977-78 school session when teachers worked without a contract. Under the old contract, teachers earned annual salaries of between $9,125 and $17,428. Originally they sought a 10 percent pay increase over a twoyear period but the board offered and increase of 6.1

There was no word on the seven teachers who were jailed. Earlier this week, they were shuttled between jail and negotiating sessions under guard. But Wednesday and Thursday they stayed at the motel where talks were held in the custody of an MTA attorney.

They had been jailed by a state circuit judge on Aug. 30 after 343 of the district's 517 teachers went on

In New Jersey, lay teachers at Holy Cross Roman Catholic High School in Delran went on strike Thursday when contract negotiations faltered. The average $9,500 annually, were seeking an 11 percent pay increase.

There were also strikes by teachers in Belvidere and Somerset, N.J. Teachers were also striking in Washington state, Illinois, New York, Michigan, Idaho, Ohio, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Vermont, California and Pennsyl-

Here is a summary of major strike situations:

PENNSYLVANIA - Strikes continued in nine school districts involving 32,748 pupils and 2,028 teachers, but a five-day strike by 13,000 teachers and 8,000 aides in Philadelphia enyed Thursday with approval of a new two-year contract calling for a 15 percent salary increase in three stages in the second year of the pact. The contract will increase average teacher salaries in the city from $19,000 to $22,425.

WASHINGTON - More than 90,000 pupils are out of school, including 55,000 in the Seattle school district and 31,000 in Tacoma. The Seattle school district has offered to increase the $17,300 annual average salary of striking teachers by 8.1 percent, including longevity pay, but that has been rejected.

ILLINOIS - Elgin's 41 schools remained closed, affecting 26,000 pupils. Teachers in the district, who have a starting pay of $9,800 annually, are seeking a 0 percent increase. In Thornton Township, south of Chicago, 10,000 pupils in three high schools were out of class waiting for 700 teachers and the school board to settle their differences over salaries, benefits and class size. Strikes were also continuing in Collinsville, Paris and Waterloo.

RHODE ISLAND - In Cranston, school Superintendent Joseph Picano told a judge, "Negotiations are over. We are now in court." The city's 800 annually, have rejected a three-year contract offer to increase those salaries by between 4 percent and 7 percent the first year and by 6.5 percent each year in second and third years of an agreement. In Westerly, 210 teachers continued a strike affecting 3,900

MICHIGAN - Teachers in 13 school districts affecting nearly 65,000 pupils were on strike. Most of the strikes centered on higher wages.

CONNECTICUT - About 19,000 of Bridgeport's 22,500 students stayed away from school Thursday because of a walkout by 1,250 teachers. The start of grades 8, 11 and 12 in the 14,000-pupil Norwalk system was postponed until Monday because of a walkout there. Salaries for Norwalk teachers range from $9,700 to slightly more than $20,000, officials have offered a three-year pact with pay increases of 6.5 percent, 6.4 percent and 7 percent. In Bridgeport, Superior Court Judge James Henebry postponed a contempt hearing for officials of the Bridgeport Education Association until Monday. Teachers there defied a back-to-work order Thursday. Henebry ordered that negotiations be resumed instead of mposing fines or jail terms for union officials. Bridgeport officials have said they offered a fouryear contract including 6 percent pay increases each year. The BEA is seeking a two-year contract with a 7.5 percent increase each year. Salaries in Bridgeschool's 65 non-religious teachers, who earned an port range from $9,450 to $20,180.

Tear gas flushes mental patient

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - An armed former mental patient who holed up in his house for 14 hours then began shooting from a window was flushed out by tear gas and wounded in the leg early today after he refused repeated police orders to surrender, a police official said.

Police Chief Joe Casey said the man, identified as Donald Davis, 35, had barricaded himself in his family's two-story, white-brick home at midday Thursday with his elderly aunt, Sudie Murbury, and an arsenal - a semi-automatic rifle, a cross-bow, automatic pistols and a scoped

Casey said Davis fired 20 to 25 shots before coming out onto the front lawn carrying a rifle at his hip. Davis came to within 25 yards of an officer, still carrying the rifle and refusing repeat-ed police commands to drop the weapon, Casey said. ## Home brew issue: Register for six-pack?

By BENJAMIN SHORE Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., listened to a constituent, a manufacturer of kits for homemade beer and wine, and was convinced.

So Conable last year introduced a bill to lift the federal registration requirement for making wine and to make the brewing of beer legal, but with registration. The House approved the measure on a voice vote last March and sent it to the Senate.

Then Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., heard from some of his constituents, home beer brewing clubs with names like the San Andreas Malts, Maltose Falcons, Yeast Bay Packers and Redwood Lagers. They liked the general drift of Conable's bill, but they didn't like the registration requirement.

Cranston looked into the issue and agreed with the home beer crowd. When Conable's bill reaches the Senate floor this fall, Cranston will be waiting with a substitute proposal that already has the essential backing of the committee that handled the bill.

That means a selected group of House and Senate members will have to have a conference to reach a compromise.

Conable isn't saying whether he'd

And while the feds — the revenuers who still smash several hundred moonshine stills a year - say for the record that home brewers of beer should register, they give the clear impression that they have more important things to worry about.

And so does Congress as it tries to focus on truly serious legislation before everyone goes home to campaign.

But there always is room on the legislative calendar for dozens of minor bills, and this beer-wine measure is one of them. Americans have been brewing wine and beer at home for decades. Some experts estimate that 20,000 make their own wine while at least 100,000

Home wine makers who obey the law obtain a $1 federal permit good for maximum of 200 gallons per head of household. In terms of beer, that would amount to about a six-pack a day.

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (BATF) just files the permits. No permit-holders ever have been investigated. It's all very

Furthermore, beer-making mash uses hops, and any home-brewer will tell you that any liquor distilled from it would taste pretty bad.

Rare birth of baby crocodile earns curator praise

BUENA PARK, Calif. - To a crocodile, the birth of a baby crocodile is a blessed event.

But among reptile experts, news of any of the 25 endangered species of crocodiles breeding in captivity is a 'significant event.

And Kenneth Earnest, curator of reptiles at the Alligator Farm in Buena Park, probably will earn the praise of his colleagues at zoos around the world with the first successful hatching of the extremely rare Cuban The three sleek babies, hatched

Because of the outdoor temperature fluctuations, Earnest said, those two would not hatch. But he was hopeful that four others taken from the 180pound mother croc in early June would soon pop out of their 3-inch

The Cuban crocodile is believed near extinction in its native Cuban fresh water marshes. Under Castro's regime, experts have been unable to determine the exact size of the remaining populations.

But there are only 50 of the species in captivity, and efforts to breed the reptiles that have been hunted so long for their skins had, until now, been unsuccessful.

Now that he has found the proper combination, Earnest intends to raise as many as he can with the intention of eventually returning them to their native habitat.

For now, the three hatching crocs paddling around and over each other in their enameled tub were blissfully unaware that the future of their kind might depend on them.

At 86, Helen Walker still wants to Actually, she was 85 and on a ship in the Pacific when her determination to see the stars during a solar eclipse meant that she had to walk up several lights of stairs. She did it - with the aid of a walker.

Dr. Helen Walker of Claremont, Calif. succeeded - much in the same fashion as she has with other en-

"I tell people it's all exterior," she said about her age. "The chassis is going to pieces, but my engine is still good."

She was on the faculty of Teachers College at Columbia University for 30 years; has written nine books and innumerable professional papers; has held Fulbright Fellowships to Chile and Japan; helped develop a National Institute of Research, Education and Training in India on a special grant and, as a friend puts it, "Helen has virtually made a second career of retiring — a pursuit in which she has failed dismally ..."

It is perhaps one of the few things at which she has failed. Walker's success has been in a field that has been dominated by men. "Women have been taught that being good in mathematics wasn't

She did not find being a woman a hindrance to achieving or getting jobs she wanted: "I never struggled to get into anything. I never applied for a job I lost except one — a teacher's job - when I was 22. I was told I was too young. I never applied for a job after that. They always found me."

Even so, Walker, a member of the National Organization for Women, recognizes that achievement has been a struggle for other women. She is a member of the National Organization for Women. "I think it's a terrible waste of talent to get only half of the human race to do the work of the world. Limiting important positions to men is a terrible waste of talent the world cannot afford."

Walker had strong support from her parents in her pursuits, even as a youngster in Keosauqua, Iowa. "I was grown woman before I knew some families preferred boys. Before father was married, when he was in the Iowa Legislature, he was the chairman of a woman's suffrage committee. That was in the 1880s. "It never occurred to father there wasn't anything a woman couldn't do.'

It was after her "retirement" that she went to Chile, Japan and India.

In 1965, she began a series of teaching assignments at the Claremont Colleges that included positions on the faculties at Claremont Graduate School and

Sept. 29 deadline for entering recipes

Readers of The Reporter-Telegram will have an opportunity to win cash prizes by submitting their original recipes for publication in a special cookbook supplement to the newspaper.

"Recipes '78" will be published as a tabloid supplement to the Oct. 29 (Sunday) edition of The Reporter-Telegram. It will feature scores of recipes submitted by readers.

First prize winners in each of eight categories will receive $25, said Gary Grant, retail advertising manager, in announcing the cookbook section.

A grand prize winner to be selected from the eight first prize winners will receive an additional $75. The categories of recipes will be: (1) Salads; (2) Meats; (3)

Casseroles, vegetables and side dishes; (4) Candies; (5) Breads; (6) Cakes; (7) Pies and (8) Soups and chowders.

Winners will be announced in 'Recipes '77" on Oct. 23. Deadline for entries will be Sept. 29. All entries will be judged by a panel of professional home economists not connected with the newspaper.

The judges will select the three best recipes in each category, and the entrants will be contacted and asked to prepare their dishes and take them to Texas Electric Service Co. at a specified time for

All entries will be published either in "Recipes" "78" or in subsequent Thursday editions of The Reporter-Telegram. Readers are asked to submit only one entry per category.

Entries should be typed or neatly printed, and all measurements and instructions clearly stated. Any unclearly written recipes will be disqualified qualified.

Each entry should be clearly labeled at the top with the entrant's name, address, telephone number, the name of the recipe and category entered.

The contest is open to everyone in the Reporter-Telegram's retail Trading Zone except employes and agents of The Reporter-Telegram and

Heritage board meets to discuss new plans

Heritage Study Club met in the home of the president, Carmen Martin, to discuss plans for the year.

Mary Garay, second vice president-hospitality chairman, outlined her plans for the 1978-79 social events.

Some damaged screwdrivers can be restored with hand file

y AL CARRELL

The screwdriver is probably the nost common tool around. Everybody has one and should have everal. One problem, though, is that eople use screwdrivers for such hings as pry bars, ice picks, chisels, nd many other abusive things instead of just for driving screws. eople also fail to use the right size crewdriver, and this is another way o ruin one. That's why there are just bout as many ruined screwdrivers s there are good ones. It's probably est to junk a botched-up tip, but maybe a restoration is at least worth try. The most common malady is a rounded tip. A slight problem is best handled by dressing with a hand file. Hold the tool in a vise and use straight strokes until it's square. If it's badly worn, or if you're the lazy type, you'll use your bench grinder. Dip the tip in water often as you grind so it doesn't overheat. If the screwdriver is beyond restoration, then you can use it as a can opener or pry bar or in one of those other torturous ways.

Dear Al:

When a screwdriver doesn't want to hold the slot of the screw head, you can often gain extra purchase by rubbing a piece of chalk over the surfaces of the tool where it will likely to slip out. - R. O. McG. It is a way, but generally the better way is to "purchase" the right-sized screwdriver.

When I had an impossible-toremove screw, I went to the hardware store and found a cheapie screwdriver from the bargain bin. It was the kind with a clear plastic handle. I then drilled a hole at right angles through the handle up above where the shank was imbedded into the plastic. Then I put a metal rod through the hole, and this gave me a tremendous amount of extra leverage. The screw came out. I know that's not the way to treat a tool, but this one did a special job, and I've even used it a couple of times since. -

I hope you'll be alert when the extra torque breaks the handle so you don't skin your knuckles.

A SUPER HINT-There are a bunch of ways to use screwdrivers that you've ruined. Drill a hole in the tip. and you have a wire bending tool. File in the end of the tip, and you have a tack puller. Grind it to a point. and you have an awl or ice pick. If you've thought of other exotic ways to convert a screwdriver you've ruined into again being a useful tool, send them in, and I'll pass them along to the world. It's possible that everyone in the world has one they've botched

SHOP TALK - In addition to special screw-holding screwdrivers, there are a couple of other good ones that are new. The ratchet type with a ball-type handle is probably my favorite. There's also one with offset in the shank and once the screw is started, a good operator just turns the handle like a crank for very rapid installing or removal. I'm a sucker for new gadgets, but these two seem to have been a good investment.

Keep unsafe cars off road

By HENRY GILGOFF Newsday

Joan Claybrook's job is to keep unsafe cars and can motorist should have confidence in the job being done.

Claybrook heads the National Highway Traftion, an agency that can order the recall of dangerous cars and tires and set safety standards. Two of the agency's most recent findings were of defects in 12 million to 13 million Firestone 500 Steel Belted Radial tires and in 1.5 million Ford Pinto automobiles.

Claybrook's outlook on the roads, crowded still with alleged defects on millions of cars and tires, is a mix of a regulator's philosophy and historical perspective. Boiled down, she's the sheriff, she's apprehending the outlaws, and it's all being noticed. So. there's a deterrent to future abuse. As for history, she feels that the last sheriff let too many of those outlaws run loose without even stopping them to pose a question or two.

Or, as she put it in an interview last week: 'Our kind of review of safety standards and compliance with them and the defect-investigation work serves another function besides protecting the public on the highways today in any one car. It serves the function of having the manufacturers give a priority, an attention, to the critical issues that are raised about the safe-ty of their vehicles . . . Pinto fuel tank, thereby making it highly vulnerty of their vehicles . . .

"You see, recalls cost a lot of money. They (the tires off the roads. After manufacturers) don't company desperately more than a year on the want to be faced with job, she says the Amerilarge, large recalls. So, there's a huge economic incentive in the auto companies if we are properly enforcing the law. And that's a big if, to do fic Safety Administra- this. If we are not properly enforcing the law, then it doesn't cost them anything or very little, unless there's a product liability suit" because, otherwise, no outside force holds them ac-

> Claybrook's agency suspects or rules to be safety-related defects have emerged despite the economic incentive she cites to do otherwise. The agency's finding that the fuel tanks in 1.5 million 1971 to 1976 Pintos and 30,000 1975 and 1976 Mercury Bobcats (excluding station wagons) pose a fire hazard is one such example. Here are the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's latest figures, which some critics say presents too conservative a reflection of the casualties: "The agency has received 43 reports of collisions involving damage to fuel tank or leakage or fire that resulted in 32 fatalities to Pinto occupants and 25 nonfa-> tal burns.' Mark Dowie of the muckraking magazine Mother Jones had charged in the September-October issue last year that Ford Motor Co. saw an economic incentive in scrimping on its able in rear-end crashes, because, he said, the wanted a low-cost subcompact to compete with the Volkswagen Beetle. So, Dowie charged, they rushed out a car that was a fire hazard, knowing through its own tests before the car's release that it was unleashing a lethal menace. Ford issued a lengthy denial, but since then, testimony by a former Ford executive at a liability suit, internal Ford records widely distributed by now, But problems that and tests done for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration buttress some of Dowie's key allegations. Prompted by an Aug. 10 press conference last year by Dowie and consumer advocate Ralph Nader, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration under Claybrook took a preliminary look at the case; on Sept. 13 it opened a formal investigation. Just about eight months later, the agency concluded that there was a hazard and scheduled a hearing as a prerequisite to ordering a recalcitrant manufacturer to recall its cars. Ford agreed to recall the cars about a week before the hearing, saying that the company wanted to assuage public anxiety even though the company still believed no defect existed. There is much more in the chronology of the Pinto case that, as far as Ford executives are concerned, has been repeat-ed ad nauseum. Ford spokesman Chuck Gumushian says the public should be confident in Ford, despite the barrage of attacks that has come its way. "We are an industry regulated by the federal government. Does the consumer have confidence in the government?" He noted that Ford improved the integrity of the Pinto's fuel-tank system to meet a safety standard that the government put into effect for the 1977 model

though, starts much earlier than many realize. On April 9, 1974, just about three years before Claybrook took office, the nonprofit Center for Auto Safety, founded by Nader and Consumers Union, wrote the then gation, Andrew Detrick.

Way off target!

The President's anti-inflation program is having a difficult time getting off the ground — mainly because the powers that be refuse to recognize the primary cause of inflation: government.

An "off the record" meeting of Mr. Carter's inflation fighters with several Dallas business executives was held recently in Big D.

The federal team was in Dallas to meet with some top businessmen to discuss possible means of solving the inflation problem.

Those invited to attend the session were told in a letter that their guidance would be sought in regard to the inflation problem.

"Ambassador Robert Strauss, inflation counselor for the President, and his staff are contemplating holding a series of conferences across the country this year to discuss the President's anti-inflation program," the letter advised.

The Washington team apparently wanted to get the feeling of the Texas business leaders concerning the proposed conferences and inflation-fighting in general. Reports coming out of Dallas described the response of the Dallasites to the conference idea as "cool."

This might have beem putting it mildly, judged by what several of the business leaders told Big D newsmen.

T.L. Austin Jr., chairman of Texas Utilities, for instance, said he feels that such a meeting would simply be "cosmetic." "I don't know of any businessmen gouging the public." he was quoted as saying. "They raise their prices because costs go up and half of the cost increase comes from government. He said he "feels for" the President and Strauss in their efforts to solve the inflation problem, "but the way they are attacking it is purely cosmetic."

Austin cited specific instances in support of his observations. He said much government regulation really is overregulation costing millions of dollars without any real benefit, particularly where the Environmental Protection Agency and cleaner air are concerned.

Pointing out that the United States has more coal than the Arabs have oil, he said he is of the opinion that coal is the way to approach the U.S. energy problem, "and we have the technology to mine it and burn it without affecting our health." Doing so, he added, would create 300,000 jobs in the U.S.

"But President Carter signs the Strip Mining Bill and Congress comes up with the Clean Air Act and the President goes along with it. We need to have strong leadership in Washington."

John Harbin, chairman of Halliburton Co., also had some pertinent remarks. He said he perhaps was impatient in the meeting, adding, "We work on this all the time. Any successful businessman tries to prevent inflation. You have to be competitive in the labor market and, then if you over-price, you lose business. That's the selfregulating feature of free enterprise."

He also attacked the rising cost of government regulation which costs businesses such as his millions of dollars just to fulfill reporting requirements.

Jack Evans, president of Cullum Companies, also attended the Dallas session. He, too, termed the meeting as purely cosmetic. He said it is incumbent upon business to cooperate with government, but, there's no point in going through the exercise if government comes to the meeting with predetermined ideas."

"They didn't even hear us," Evans added. "I don't think they even understood the language. I've long believed that any decision is easy if you just have the facts. We must do what's best for the country, and not just what's politics."

These observations hit the nail squarely on the head. The Tyler Morning Telegraph, in commenting editorially on the subject, said, and we agree wholeheartedly, "These executives represent businesses that are down with the people and that furnish the things that make the country go, such as electricity, oil products and the food and drug industry. Their reaction would indicate the administration's fight against inflation is headed totally in the wrong direction.... The (administration's) plan is not what the nation wants and needs."

CHARLEY REESE

Education should make child aware of heritage

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla.-An English teacher recently attended a public school workshop at which an "expert" on adolescent literature told them that such literature today is filled with explicit sex, drugs, drunkeness, homosexuality and

"And rightly so," the expert said, "as this truly represents life today." How long are we going to tolerate this kind of assinine, non-thinking in our public schools?

Only an ignoramus like an educational consultant would not know that there has never been a time in man's civilized history when sex, drugs, drunkeness, homosexuality and crime have not been representative of

None of these things is new. Nothing that is happening today is new-except the stupid practice of some educators of forcing students to study vulgarity and vice.

We once had the idea that one of the purposes of an education-indeed one the main benefits—was exposing students to things which are good and noble. They, too, are not new but they are also representative of life today.

The teacher who told me about this travesty put it quite plainly.

"There was a time," she said, "when the good old Dick and Jane books literally held kids together; kids whose lives at home were troubled and who found in those stories stability-something they could see as an alternative to their own lives."

She is profoundly right. It is stupid to suppose that you are going to benefit a child from a broken home by exposing him to literature about broken homes or help a slum child by carting the slum into the classroom. They already know about those subjects. What would help them would be the realization, which literature can create, that there are other, better ways to live.

We don't need experts to tell us this. We can look at our own lives. In my case, school and literature told me there was more to life than wearing overalls, chewing tobacco and spitting on the sidewalk. The classroom and the teacher stood in sharp contrast to my environment. The message to me was: you don't have to accept your present situation, there are other alternatives, endless possibilities.

The message of the liberal educator, moving under the guise of relevance, is: resign yourself to your present situation, there is no escape. You live with violence and ignorance and when you come to school you will discover more violence and more ig-

To do this to a child is to commit a heinous crime against the human spirit.

Every child has a heritage which stretches back into the mists of prehistory. No matter what his color or origin or economic situation is, he is, by virtue of his humanity, the leading link to a long chain of human pro-

Education should make a child aware of his heritage by exposing him to the triumphs and contributions made by the best people of every age and culture.

To rob a child of that heritage by concentrating on the defects, the failures and the ugliness at the expense of the healthy, the successful and beautiful is an evil act.

Furthermore, education should be concerned with ideals, not relevance. Mankind is moved by ideals. The history of human progress is the history of rebellion against the status quo. Every advance in both science and religion was made by someone who was not concerned with "life as it is" but with life as it could

No where will you find more heroes and villians than in education for that is where the struggle for the future is taking place. The schools are turning out the men and women who will deal with the future and set its course.

If we allow fools and foes to poison the stream at the source, then there is no point in bemoaning the results.

Perhaps when parents can bring themselves to get as excited about what is going on inside the classroom as they do about where it is located and how much it costs, then we may be able to correct a dangerous situa-plainly wrong." A footnote: The president's agents, in seeking support for the bill from business groups, use the magic word "deregulation"—a label Mr. Carter shuns in public for fear of losing support from consumer states.

THE 'SUPERB' PRESIDENT

Backstage efforts by aides to wean President Carter from his incessant use of the word "superb" proved only partially successful in his most recent press conference.

Mr. Carter, both privately and publicly, uses the adjective "superb" so frequently-particularly when applied to somebody under attack—that it has lost nearly all meaning. In one staff conference, he even referred to "superbity" of one widely criticized official. So aides have pleaded with him to drop "superb" for a while.

Nevertheless, in his Aug. 17 press conference, the president used the forbidden word twice-both times in

Today's political polemic has a different twist: It's the Republicans - conservative ones, at that - who are charged with attempting to seduce a naive electorate with a free

On both sides of such charges - on the giving and receiving ends of the swords of acerbity - are economists, who are probably wishing they had remained in the pure world of theory, rather than venturing into the political netherlands.

The punchboards - that is, the people on the receiving end of the barbs — are the politicians and economists behind the Kemp-Roth tax-cut bill that was defeated in a recent House vote but is sure to be around for some time. Prof. Arthur Laffer of the University of Southern California economics faculty is the brains behind Kemp-Roth, which would reduce people's income taxes by 33 percent over three years and also knock about $15 billion off cor-

Kemp-Roth would slash taxes by well over $100 billion, but it has no provisions for slashing federal spending as well. Kemp-Roth's sponsors, Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., and Sen. William V. Heller said Kemp-Roth - and Laffer's supporting theories - suffer from over-simplicity: "The whole Laffer thesis and Kemp-Roth initiative rely excessively on post hoc. ergo propter hoc reasoning and a onedimensional view of the world. There's more to life than economics, and there's more to economics than taxes," he said. The Kennedy tax cut (which finally took effect in 1964) "was injected into economy characterized by (a) plenty of slack in both labor and product markets, coupled with (b) virtual price stability - inflation averaging about 1.2 percent per year - and stable-to-falling unit labor costs," said Heller.

BUT TODAY'S ECONOMY is hardly a slack, non-inflationary economy-and therefore a tax cut on the magnitude of Kemp-Roth "guarantees dizzying deficits and sizzling inflation," said Heller.

He also thrust his pointed pen at Jude Wanniski, former associate editor of the Wall Street Journal, who is Laffer's anuensis of sorts authoring a book, "The Way the World Works," which applies many of Laffer's theories to political and economic systems past and present. Wanniski believes that the Andrew Mellon (then Treasury secretary) tax cuts of the 1920s largely generated the economic and stock market boom of

Scoffed Heller, "At a time when a relative handful of Americans paid income taxes and federal spending was less than 5 percent of GNP (gross national product), we are asked to believe that federal income tax reduction powered growth of GNP from $70 billion in 1921 to $103 billion

Heller also said that the "German economic miracle" of 1948 was not caused largely by tax cuts - as Kemp-Roth proponents say — but was predicated broadly on a number of factors, including currency reform, removal of wage and price controls, good crops, and the Marshall Plan as well as tax reduction and reform.

PROF. HERBERT STEIN, head of CEA in the Nixon administration now an economist in residence at the University of Virginia, favors Kemp-Roth but doesn't believe it will pay for itself in new tax revenues. "There is no present evidence to support the opinion that a large tax cut of the character of Kemp-Roth would increase the revenue. But this does not destroy the case for the bill. "A large phased-in tax cut, whether the Kemp-Roth bill or some other, should be accompanied by an explicit commitment of tge government to reduce the growth of expenditures. One way to achieve this would be to include in the bill a provision requiring the president to submit a budget each year for the next five years in which expenditures do not exceed 20 percent of the estimated GNP," said Stein.

Needless to say, Laffer disagrees with Heller on just how much the Kennedy tax cut, the 1920s boom and the German post-World War II economic miracle were directly related to the tax cuts of those times.

He knows other factors were involved - but puts more emphasis on the effect of the tax cuts than does

As he has emphasized in interviews in these columns many times before, Laffer believes that taxes are now so high that they inhibit people's desire to work and produce, hence cutting productivity and economic output. A tax cut will restore incentives and thus bolster the supply side of the supply-demand equation.

THUS, KEMP-ROTH could pay for itself by generating an economic boom which would boost tax receipts.

But this doesn't make him a free lunch-monger, Laffer said. Laffer has always been for spending cuts on the state, local and federal levels. Indeed, the cornerstone of his philosophy is that the public sector is too large visa-vis the private sector - it's just that Laffer thinks it's more politically realistic to build up the private sector through tax cuts than to try to pare down the public sector with unpopular

Rattlers a surprising sight for newly arrived Easterners

By ERIC NEWHOUSE

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — Out here in the West, you have to mow the rattlesnakes down like weeds.

Or so I thought when the angry snake coiled itself with a menacing whirr in front of my lawnmower the very first time I cut my brand-new grass in a posh subdivision on the edge of the prairie.

Westerners may take such things in stride, but it still raises the adrenaline in a transplanted Easterner.

My first reaction was amazement that the rattler actually looked like something out of a cowboy movie, tightly coiled with a menacingly underslung, triangular head.

For an instant, I was grateful it warned me off about five feet away. But then I saw my girls - Erica, 4, and Sarah, 2 - playing with 3-yearold Angela Harding about 20 feet away. Action was obviously necessary.

But the mower, which is electric, stopped. The sudden lunge had pulled the cord loose. And I could hear that furious rattle from beneath the "Snake," I shouted uncertainly, trying not to alarm the kids. Nothing happened. Finally I called to my wife to bring me a shovel.

"What in the world for?" she asked as she handed it to me. So I pulled the lawn mower back and that rattler rose up angrier than before.

Her scream distracted the snake, and in that instant I smashed it with the flat side of the shovel. As the children fled terrified into the house with my wife in hot pursuit, I dissected the rattler from a respectful distance with the shovel blade

Then I laid the dead snake, still writhing, across the sidewalk and counted the rattles. Five were still intact, but the rest were apparently lost to the mower or the shovel.

Before I buried the snake, we brought the kids back out to examine it and to be instructed in the proper procedures for identifying, getting away from, and informing their parents of the menace.

AUSTIN-An irrigation of water the irrigators farm rather than charg-Department of Water rigate more acreage. Resources Wednesday predicted farm water-use efficiency will improve in the Lower Colorado River Basin in coming years placing less demand on the river for irrigation water. Comer Tuck Jr., a TWDR agricultural engineer, told the Texas Water Commission a joint study involving the water agency and Soil Conservation Service indicates the lower basin water users-primarily rice farmers-have been using irrigation water from the Colorado approximately a 68 percent efficiency rate.

TDWR estimates show an improvement to 72 percent statewide by 1980, however, and to 80 percent by 2000.

The water demand of downstream water users is one of many issues in the commission's consideration of the application of the Colorado River Municipal Water District for the Stacy Reservoir proposed for construction in Runnels, Concho and Coleman counties.

The Lower Colorado River Authority, the City of Austin, downstream irrigators and others are opposing the CRMWD application.

After several weeks of hearings on other matters, the proceedings Wednesday turned to the projected needs of downstream irrigators which purchase water from the LCRA. Ironically, the attorney for the opposing Garwood and Lakeside Irrigation Districts did not attend this first session dealing with irrigation.

Lee Rebels to welcome Snyder with open arms

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

With neither team having played a game yet, there is only one thing certain about today's 8 p.m. encounter between the Snyder Tigers and the Midland Lee Rebels at Memorial Sta-

The lone fact that you can hang your hat on is that the Rebels will welcome the Tigers with open arms. The rest of the story will have to wait until the scoreboard tells the final

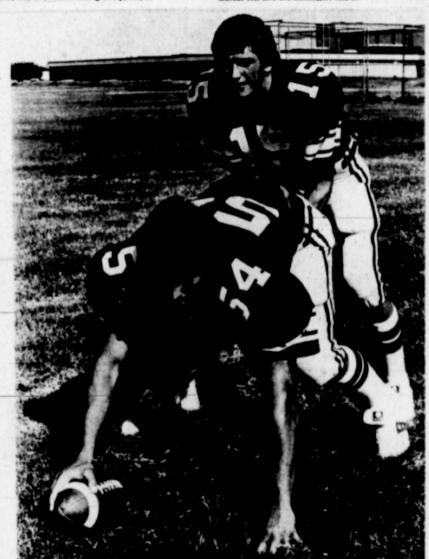

"We're just ready to play someone," Lee coach Gil Bartosh said Thursday. "The kids are getting tired of practice. They want to play a game. We scrimmaged Andrews last Friday, and the kids responded with the two best workouts of the year, including spring training. They're eager and I am too. It's always more fun when the season gets under-

THE AAA Tigers should be a good test for the Rebels tonight when the Stonewall Brigade makes its debut under the direction of Bartosh. Snyder is the co-favorite to win the District 3-AAA title this year with Lake View, and the Tigers should have an offensive unit that is capable of putting points on the board. Snyder returns six starters in the offensive line that averages 201 pounds per man, and has people in the skill positions to keep things interesting. Quar-terback Clay Johnson and tailback Richard Crayton return and both complemented Snyder's 5-5 team of a

"It's always good to get started with a win," Bartosh said while pondering the importance of the season debut. "You always want to enter district with a good record. We want to improve every game and this is the first step. This game will allow us to evaluate our offense and defense. We have a new staff and a new system and we really want to see how our kids are going to adjust to that.

"I DON'T really hold any special significance to this game as far as I'm concerned," Bartosh said when asked how he felt about his debut as the Rebel mentor. "I think we have that phase of things out of the way. We've

Frogs, Mustangs tangle in high drama of sorts

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

There's high drama of sorts on the first Saturday of Southwest Conference football jousts with the Texas Christian Horned Frogs hoping 13 newcomers to the starting lineup can overcome the dread "Mustang Mania.

Southern Methodist's new Athletic Director Russ Potts has been papering citybuses, automobile bumpers, the backsides of coed's bluejeans and anything else that moves with the Mustang motto.

There's big hopes on the Hilltop that Coach Ron Meyer's aerial circus featuring sophomore quarterback Mike Ford's bombs to acrobatic receiver Emanuel Tolbert will pay big dividends in the win column. SMU was a 10-point pick for Satur-day night's collision with the Horned Frogs who have lost six consecutive games to the Ponies This used to be a big season-ending finale before both private schools fell on hardtimes. SWC schedule makers decided to move the game up to make it more attractive to paying custom-

There is certainly no love misplaced between the combatants. Meyer is openly critical of TCU's scheduling a 4 p.m. game in near 100-degree heat last year. "I'm burned at TCU and I don't care if they know it," Meyer said recently."I respect (Coach) F.A. Dry but not some of the other people in their athletic department. I had two players collapse in that heat last TCU Athletic Director Frank Windegger said he knew of no SMU request to move the game to night.

Dry will have 10 junior college transfers and three freshmen in the lineup against the Mustangs. There are 14 sophomores on TCU's two-deep Ford passed for 2,064 yards last year as a freshman and Tolbert snared 64 passes.

Some 25,000 to 30,000 fans were expected in the Cotton Bowl for the game which proceeds will go to the muscular dystrophy charity.

Other games involving SWC teams were intersectional.

The No. 15 ranked Texas Aggies were 13-point selections over the Kansas Jawhawks in a day game at Lawrence; Texas Tech was a 19-point underdog to Southern California in Los Angeles; and Rice was a 20-point underling to No. 20 ranked Iowa State at Houston in a night game. Kansas Coach Bud Moore said of the Aggies: "I can think of a lot of people I'd rather open up against.

A&M is an experienced team with no weakness that I can see. They aren't the kind of team you want to throw a young team like ours against to open the season, but we aren't shying away from them by any means."

been here since spring, and the staff already feels pretty much at home. Still, we would like to get a victory."

The Rebels will enter the contest with 10 seniors starting on offense and 10 seniors on defense. Two-way starter Gary Butler is the only junior with a starting job on both units. Butler will run the offense at quarterback and will be a cornerback on defense. Seven of the Rebels will start both ways, but that doesn't seem to bother Bartosh a great deal.

"I've even done some study on it," Bartosh notes. "Championship teams nearly always have a lot of people going both ways. Our kids are in good shape. We don't have a lot of depth, especially in the line, but if these areas develop, we could really be salty by district. We have a lot of kids that will play besides the starters, but I believe in putting the best people on the field as your top group.

IN ADDITION to Butler, the Rebels will send six others two ways. Clay Calhoun will double as a defensive end and an offensive guard while Herb Pearce will lineup as the tight end and defensive tackle. Brian Briscoe will serve as a center and linebacker and Elmer Montgomery will be the free safety on defense and flanker on the offensive unit. Doug Crawford will see double duty at guard and linebacker while Rodney Taylor, the large 232-pounder, will go both ways at tackle.

However, Lee's running backs should be rested for mail toting. Powerhouse fullback Jeff McCowan, 205pound senior, is expected to be one of the top performers this year. Against Andrews, McCowan scored three times and made several big gains despite missing practice the week before the scrimmage with a pulled muscle. McCowan will be in top shape tonight.

Also speedster tailback Ricky Johnson, another Rebel with an outstanding performance against Andrews, will be in the lineup, and he may split time with Steve Waldren. Tailback is one of the stronger positions for the Rebels.

SPLIT END Jody Sessom and 215pound tackle Paul Speight round out the offense while strong safety John White, cornerback Steve Pitts, end Dwight Washington and linebacker Michael McCrea round out the defense. Pitts will probably also see some duty at quarterback.

Snyder has only four starters going both ways, and they are the heart of the Tigers. Linebacker-tackle Baron Land leads the beef parade at 220 pounds while tackle Sam Willis weighs in at 210. Scott Crenwelge is a 215-pounder that doubles as end both ways, and he is a good one. Crayton, the 155-pound speedster, also plays safety, and is one of the better AAA backs around.

"SNYDER SHOULD be a good test for us even though they are a AAA school. They are co-favorites to win that district over there and they have a lot of experience. They are also a larger AAA team. They have good size for a AAAA school. Their timing could also be better since they've had longer to work this fall with no spring training. Brownwood always gives Cooper a good game early in the year because of this. Snyder is solid as most AAAA schools we will face," Bartosh noted.

Mike Jenkins, heading into his third year as the Tigers' top man, thinks the Rebels will be more than a challenge. "Lee has a great football tradition and we know they are going to be tough. We saw them against Andrews last week and we are very impressed with their running backs. Andrews moved the ball pretty good early against Lee, but they adjusted and just about shut them down com-

"WE WANTED a tough schedule for our kids and Lee is certianly no. exception. This game won't make or break our team. We just want to go out and do our best and hope that it is close enough that a break or two will make the difference. Our kids should be ready for district play after games like this one," Jenkins said.

The Tigers could be a tougher opponent for Lee than most expected, but the Rebels are ready to play anyone at this stage. It's time to face someone besides a teammate for a change. And that goes for the fans as well. It's time to "get it on."

Dodgers strike in stretch drive

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers have stopped fighting among themselves. Now they're beating everyone else's brains out.

The notorious clubhouse battle between Steve Garvey and Don Sutton long behind them, the defending National League champions appear to be pulling together now in the September stretch drive.

And after Thursday night's 3-2 triumph over the Houston Astros, the Dodgers moved into a four-game advantage in the NL West race - their biggest lead since they took over first place for good on Aug. 15.

For this victory, the Dodgers' eighth in 10 games, the heroes were Burt Hooton and Dusty Baker. Hooton won his 17th game despite lacking his best stuff and Baker hit his 11th home run and later scored the winning

"I had trouble the whole game." said Hooton. "But I threw good pitches when I had to. That's the key to success. In the Houston Astrodome, you can get away with a few more things because it's so big.'

Hooton, who has won six in a row and last lost on Aug. 1, became the third pitcher in the National League to reach 17 victories this season. Atlanta's Phil Niekro and Ross Grimsley of Montreal are the others.

Baker, meanwhile, clubbed his 11th homer in the fifth inning and scored the winning run in the eighth on a sacrifice fly by Vic Davalillo.

"I had some things on my mind that didn't help my concentration this year, but I can't tell you what they were," said Baker, who is suffering through a subpar season after hitting 30 homers last year. "But I got my thinking straight right now and that's been the biggest thing.

"I remember talking to Doug Rau after he had a death in the family and I couldn't understand how he kept going on. He told me you've got to list your priorities in life and go on. I remembered that and it helped me get things back in the proper perspective. I've been praying a lot and I was determined not to give up. If you give up, you never can come back."

Baker, whose homer in the top of the fifth had given the Dodgers a 2-1 lead before the Astros tied it in the bottom of the inning, walked to lead off the eighth, was sacrificed to second by Rick Monday and went to third on a single by Joe Ferguson. Davalillo's sacrifice sailed into shallow left field, but Dennis Walling's throw to the plate was well behind Baker's fly in the eighth drove in the winning run as Philadelphia defeated Chicago. The Phillies completed a 15-game, five-city road trip during which they won nine games.

'When we left home, I don't think anybody gave us a chance to return to Philadelphia with the division lead," said Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark. "The media thought we'd just go through the motions and fold.

'We hadn't been playing well at home, but we got our pitching and hitting going in the Los Angeles series. I think the challenge has been there all the time. We've been waiting for this team to play well, and now we're doing that."

Braves 6, Giants 5

Glenn Hubbard broke a tie with a run-scoring single in the eighth to lead Atlanta over San Francisco as Vida Blue failed for the sixth time to record his 17th victory.

The score was tied 5-5 and Dale Murphy was on second base when Hubbard's grounder off John Curtis barely eluded the reach of shortstop Roger Metzger, allowing Murphy to score the winning run.

Craig Skok, the fourth Atlanta pitcher, picked up his third victory in four decisions.

Reds 6, Padres 2

Home runs by Ken Griffey, Johnny Bench and Pete Rose powered Cincinnati over San Diego. Griffey's homer, a three-run blast in the third inning, was the third hit off Padre starter Bob Owchinko. It was followed by a solo shot by Bench, his 21st of the season.

Rose's fourth-inning shot was an inside-the-park home run, a line drive down the left field line that bounced over the head of Gene Richards. Cardinals 5, Pirates 4

Ted Simmons blasted a two-run homer with two out in the eighth to power St. Louis over Pittsburgh, stopping the majors' longest winning streak of the year at 11 games.

Simmons' wallop off Pirate reliever Grant Jackson temporarily derailed Pittsburgh's surge in the National League East. The defeat dropped the Pirates 11/2 games behind the division-leading Phillies.

Mets 9, Expos 4

Nino Espinosa scattered nine hits and Willie Montanez drove in four runs as New York hammered Montreal. Espinosa gave up one sacrifice fly and struck out two on the way to one of his easiest victories of the season. The Mets led 9-0 after the third inning.

New York catcher John Stearns established a National League record in the first inning when he stole his 24th base of the year. That erased the previous mark of 23 steals in a season by a catcher, set by John Kling of the Chicago Cubs in 1902. Kling equaled

Jones captures Southern lead

Jones is playing less and enjoying it more, while Lanny Wadkins is just trying to make the best of what he considers a bad year.

Jones held a one-stroke advantage over Wadkins and five others after shooting a five-under-par 65 Thursday in the opening round of the $175,000 Southern Open golf tournament over the 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

"I haven't played a lot this year, but when I have, I've played well," said the 32-year-old Jones, a tour veteran who has earned almost $72,-000 this year including a second-place finish in the Jackie Gleason-Inverrary tournament.

"I'd like a win here or in the World Series. That would make a real good and turn a bad one into a respectable one," said Wadkins.

"I didn't miss a green but couldn't make a putt. I could have shot right off the charts, but I missed many makeable par putts. I just couldn't get it in the hole," he said.

NFL sellouts abound

NEW YORK (AP) - Six National Football League games were sold out 72 hours before their scheduled kickoffs and will have local television blackouts lifted the weekend, the league said Thursday.

The sellouts were Dallas at the New York Giants, New Orleans-Green Bay at Milwaukee, Oakland at San Diego, Philadelphia at Washington, and Seattle at Pittsburgh, all Sunday, and Denver at Minnesota Monday night.

Last week, when the league set an opening day attendance record, only two games were sold out 72 hours in advance of kickoffs.

League playoff finals.

The winners got only one earned run in the outburst and it came home on a double by shortstop Orland Ramirez. Two of the three errors that figured in the El Paso scoring were by Met shortstop Hubie Brooks, who had theee for the night.

Jackon got its run in the fourth when Mookie Wilson walked and scored on a Dave Covert single to right, which was bobbled by the field-

Overall, El Paso had five hits and committed one error. Winning pitcher Ken Schrom, who ran his record to 10-6, allowed Jackson only four hits and his mates committed only one error.

Losing pitcher Jeff Grose's record dropped to 4-4.

The game, the first of two at the home of the Eastern Division champions, drew 2,873 fans.

After Friday night's game, the teams will move to El Paso to finish the best-of-five series.

Yankees close in on slumping Sox

By The Associated Press

A 15-3 shellacking of the Boston Red Sox caused different reactions from New York Yankee players Thursday. Whatever their opinions, however, one thing is crystal clear — New York is just three games back of first-place Boston in the American League East and coming fast.

"We wanted to get at them right said Willie Randolph, who helped by knocking in five runs, three on a bases-loaded double in a five-run fourth. The Yankees scored twice in the first, three times in the second, two more runs in the third and made it 12-0 in the fourth.

'We wanted to be aggressive, put the pressure on them and keep it

Obviously, they did just that. Mickey Rivers thought the victory was just the start of big things for New York, which once trailed Boston by 14 games, but now is as close to first place as it's been since June 1.

"We want to think big and sweep this series," said Rivers. "Win all the games, that's what I want ... get serious with them.

Reggie Jackson, who was in a hospital earlier this week with a virus, drove in the first run for New York with a single. He spoke seriously of the Yankees chances of catching Bos-

"I'd still rather be three games ahead," noted Jackson. "When we were 14 games behind it looked tough and most of us asked if it was possible to catch them. But you have to go to the ball park, put on the uniform and

'They started to lose and here we are. There's still a lot of baseball to be The Yankees built their big lead with three hits apiece by Roy White, Thurman Munson and Randolph, who also had a two-run single. They knocked out former teammate Mike Torrez in the second and continued on their way to a 21-hit assault by shelling relievers Andy Hassler, Dick Drago and Bill Campbell.

New York received two scares in the game. Catfish Hunter, who started, had to leave in the fourth with a groin pull after Carl Yastrzemski tripled. Ken Clay came on, surrendered a homer to Carlton Fisk and then held Boston to one unearned run the rest of Munson was beaned on the forehead by a Drago pitch in the sixth. He did not lose consciousness and walked off the field by himself.

Bouton back in majors

ATLANTA (AP) -The betting in April was that Jim Bouton wanted material for a book about 39-year-old former baseball star who made one last effort to recapture the glories of his youth and failed.

Eight years ago, after all, Bouton wrote a best seller - the reminiscences of a 31-year-old pitcher trying to hang on in the major leagues after losing the ability to throw the ball past hit-

But the plot to the sec-ond book will have to be changed. One year shy of his 40th birthday, Bouton has made it back to the majors after an eightyear absence during which he earned his living as an author, actor and sportscaster.

Thursday night, the former New York Yankee fireballer was called up to the Atlanta Braves and told he would pitch Sunday's game against the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers. But Bouton wasn't

By BOB DILLON

35 3 8 3

While Midland and Lee open the 1978 campaign against Tascosa and Snyder tonight, the other six District 5-4A football teams also open the season in big games.

Headlining the schedule is the Abilene Cooper-Brownwood tussle and the big game between San Angelo Central and Stephen F. Austin of Cooper and Brownwood square off in Brownwood in what should be a dandy. The Lions are favored to win the Class AAA state championship while the Cougars are the 5-4A choice this year, according to the experts.

Cooper will be seeking revenge after losing to Gordon Woods' outfit last year. The Lions went on to the Class AAA finals, losing to Ron Little and Company from Dickinson.

The Cougar attack is led by 225-pound junior Tim Orr along with quarterback Tracy Thomas as the Key City team runs out of the Wing-T offense.

San Angelo, meanwhile, faces a strong Austin team in the Maroons in the Capitolcity in a game that rates as a tossup. Tailback Glen Payne, another talented junior, paces Coach Smitty Hill's Bobcats.

In others games tonight, Odessa Permian entertains El Paso Coronado's Thunderbirds while Abilene's Eagles take on the Wichita Falls Rider Raiders in P.E. Shot-well Stadium in Abilene. Big Spring tangles with Class AAA Andrews. Odessa High's Bronchos wait until Saturday night to open their season in W.T. Barrett Stadium against the Amarillo Golden Sandies.

Permian, coming off a 13-1 season last year, is loaded offensively, but the defense is questionable with only one starter back from the Class

AAAA semifinalists from last year. Mojo's backfield is talented with Vic Vines at quarterback, Greg Lambert at tailback; fullback Roger Lightfoot and wingback John Muery.

Abilene has a top running back in speedster Reggie Fields and a big line to boot, but the Warbirds will have their hands full with the District 6-4A Raiders from the Red River city.

The Big Spring-Andrews contest could be another close one with the Steers boasting of a big 210-pound offensive line. Andrews is reported to be as big if not bigger up front.

Odessa's attack is built around tailback Scotty Caywood, a 175-pound senior and 190-pound fullback Daniel Stephens. OHS Coach Dick Winder rates Stephens as the best blocking back in the Lone Star state, but he will miss the Sandie game with an Tackles Steve Painter (236) and Robbie Wrinkle (225), give Big Spring good size and quarterback Ricky Myers and guard Johnny Hardeman (205), are also good football players for new coach Ron Logback.

Tall City JVs take to the road

The 1978 junior varsity football season officially opens Saturday with both Robert E. Lee and Midland on

Coach Ernie Johnson's Lee Stonewall Brigade, plays the Snyder JV at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in Snyder while Coach John Howell's Midland Bullpup JV meets the Pecos JV at 7 p.m. in BOTH TEAMS had scrimmages last week with Lee taking on Monahans and Andrews with the squad divided and Midland going against the Brownfield JV. Johnson and Howell feel like their teams should have good seasons in 1978.

LEE AND MHS square off against each other on Thursday, Sept. 14, but the Brigade doesn't play again until

Oct. 5 with a two-week layoff that will hurt as far as keeping the team ac-tive. Lee faces OHS, San Angelo, Cooper, Big Spring, Permian, Abilene and Midland again on Nov. 16 to round out its schedule.

Midland, meanwhile, faces Monahans on Sept. 21, has an open date and then squares off with Permian, Big Spring, Abilene, San Angelo, Odessa, Cooper and Lee.

George Allen inked by CBS

NEW YORK (AP) -George Allen, fired as coach of the Los Angeles Rams two games into the exhibition season, has been signed as a pro football color commentator by CBS Television, the network said Thursday.

Hogs obtain two days off

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) -Although he wasn't very happy with the results of an extensive game-type scrimmage Thursday, Arkansas football Coach Lou Holtz decided to give the Razorbacks a two-day break.

"Our players are tired mentally and physically, so we'll give them Friday and Saturday off," Holtz said. 'The time off should come as a relief to the players and will give us a chance to re-evaluate everything we've done in preseason practice."

Despite granting his team the off time, Holtz expressed extreme displeasure with the scrimmage.

"The intensity was poor, the hitting wasn't good and our concentration wasn't what it was supposed to be," Holtz said. "Offensively, we had no consistency. We didn't make the big third down plays like we have to.

Notre Dame earns nod over Missouri's Tigers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

NEW YORK (AP) - Well, we're about to find out what Notre Dame can do for an encore.

Obviously, anything less than a national championship will be a disappointment after 1977's incredible finish - a 38-10 Cotton Bowl romp over No. 1-ranked Texas and a leap from fifth place all the way to the top of The Associated Press ratings.

The Fighting Irish, ranked fifth in this year's pre-season poll, begin defense of their national crown Saturday by entertaining Missouri, which has a well-deserved reputation as a giant-killer. And in the wonderful world of college football there is no

No one can expect us to be heavily favored to repeat as national champions, or even be ranked very high, if you look at our situation realistically," says Coach Dan Devine. We lost some excellent football players through graduation and several top people who were expected to fill in at key positions."

Devine is well-aware of Missouri's capabilities. After all, he coached there for 13 years (1958-70), compiling a 93-37-7 record. Devine was coaching the Green Bay Packers when Missouri stunned the Irish 30-26 in 1972 in what probably ranks as the greatest upset in the school's football history, coming as it did one week after a 62-0 shellacking at the hands of Nebras-

WASHINGTON (AP) - Next week's primary elections and uncertainty on both sides about the fate of the natural gas pricing bill have combined to delay Senate debate on the key portion of President Carter's 16month-old energy plan.

"No one knows how the vote will come out," Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., said as the Senate tried and failed Thursday to agree on when to take a conclusive vote in the natural

A number of senators are running in next Tuesday's primary elections and Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia said he wanted to guarantee they would know when crucial votes would take place.

Byrd is trying to ensure there will be no attempts to force a showdown on the issue before next Wednesday. But Senate opponents of the multibillion-dollar gas pricing bill objected, with the result that the energy debate was put off again.

Meanwhile, Carter could take some solace from a vote in the House, which rejected an attempt to prohibit him from imposing fees on imported oil.

By a 201-194 vote, the House refused to go along with the Senate, which had moved to slap such a prohibition on

Byrd declined to call up the compromise unless the opponents agreed not to force any important votes before Wednesday, after the primary elections. Hansen accused Byrd of making his demand out of fear that the bill's supporters were short of

That angered Byrd, who noted that both Republican leaders of the Senate, Howard Baker of Tennessee and Ted Stevens of Alaska, had taken a few critical Republicans with him. ### Task force optimistic about energy from sun

By JONATHAN WOLMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "very aggressive" program of solar development could quadruple the nation's usable supply of solar energy by the turn of this century, according to a Cabinet-level task force.

The task force, noting the recent increase in government spending for energy research, says that at today's pace of solar development, solar energy supplies will double by the year 2000 as compared to 1978 levels.

The report, a draft document released today for public review and headed for President Carter within a month, takes a cautious approach toward the nation's solar future. "Unfortunately, there is simply no tool available - no computer model, no divine oracle - that can be used to predict confidently the trends," the paper said.

As a result, the task force presents not one but three scenarios of the nation's 21st century solar supply.

In Scenario 1, called "the base case," the task force assumed the continuity of current financing and policies through this century. The conclusion: with oil prices rising moderately, solar would displace 9.4 quads of energy out of an estimated 114-quad demand. That means solar would supply about 8.5 percent of U.S. energy needs.

A "quad" is one quadrillion - or 1,000 trillions - British Thermal Units. U.S. energy consumption this year will be about 76 quads.

Currently, solar power provides 4.8

In Scenario 2, called "the maximum practical case," the task force considered the possibility of "very aggressive programs" sponsored by the government to promote solar development. This would provide 18.1 quads of fuel, about 16 percent of national need.

In Scenario 3, "the technical limit," the task force sought to measure the uppermost limit of solar use "imposed by the state and the rate of technology." This unlikely scenario would provide another 50 percent boost in solar supply above Scenario

The report immediately drew fire from the Solar Lobby, the Washington-based group that organized Sun Day last April and is promoting an accelerated transition from fossil to solar fuel.

"We're disappointed. It reads like a bureaucratic policy for confusion rather than a blueprint for a solar society," said Dick Munson. "I've never seen so many 'if, ands or

It was on Sun Day, while he stood on the construction site of the Solar Energy Research Institute in Golden, Colo., that Carter ordered Energy Secretary James Schlesinger to head the solar energy review which included 30 departments and agencies.

On the same day, the president announced his request for an additional $100 million in spending for solar research, bringing the fiscal 1979 cost of solar research to more than $500 million.

The task force said the furthest advanced technology involves photovoltaic cells, which use solar collectors to convert sunlight directly into electricity.

"Most solar energy technologies, while technically feasible, are costly and not ready for commercial application on a large scale today," the task force says. "However, their potential is great."

Carter gets narrow win

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House handed President Carter a narrow but symbolically important energy victory Thursday, refusing to prohibit him from imposing import fees on foreign oil.

On a 200-to-194 vote, the House rejected a motion by Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, that would have told House negotiators to go along with the Senate-passed amendment to a Treasury Department appropriations bill.

The vote came when the administration, which has had scant victories on energy issues, is engaged in an all-out battle to win support for a controversial compromise on the natural gas part of its program.

While the two issues are not directly related. Thursday's victory in the House on import fees could add steam to the administration's drive to build Senate support for the gas bill, expected to be debated next week.

Although the White House says it has no immediate plans to impose import fees, it has long held out the possiblity of levelling a fee of as much as $6 a barrel on imports should Congress fail to pass the president's proposed crude oil tax.

Since the House-passed Treasury bill does not contain such a measure, a House-Senate conference committee must produce a compromise.

Procedure on debate keeps gas bill off floor

By ROBERT G. KAISER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Attempts to bring the controversial natural gas conference report to the Senate floor failed Thursday when proponents and opponents of the bill disagreed on parliamentary procedures for the de-

As a result, Senate action on the measure, which President Carter has called a crucial test of the national will, won't occur before next week at the earliest.

In another development Thursday. Carter narrowly escaped a potentially serious embarrassment in the House when pro-administration forces averted defeat on a surprise vote by a margin of only six.

The vote was on a motion that would have put the House on record in support of a Senate-passed amendment lifting the President's power to impose import fees on foreign oil. The Senate passed this amendment, offered by Sen. Bob. Dole, R-Kan., last summer, on the eve of the Western powers' economic summit.

Administration officials were reportedly thrown into turmoil Wednesday night when they learned that the House would consider the Dole amendment Thursday. Frantic lastminute lobbying helped produce the administration's 200-194 victory.

By that margin the House defeated a motion offered by Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, that would have instructed House conferees on the Treasury Department appropriations bill to accept the Dole amendment when they met with Senate conferees.

The administration has repeatedly denied that it has any imminent plan to put a new import duty on oil, but this weapon has always been described as a potential response if Congress fails to take other action to control oil consumption. A tax on domestically produced oil that was originally the key element in Carter's energy plan was meant to achieve reduced consumption, but that tax is regarded as a dead letter on Capitol

Carter sent written instructions to key members of his administration last summer that blocking the Dole amendment had to be a top legislative priority. But according to one official, that memo was quickly forgotten, and little lobbying on the issue had been

Friends of the administration in the House said it would be a blow to Carter's prestige and to the dollar to support the Brown motion. The procedural stalemate blocking consideration of the gas bill in the Senate could continue for some time. Opponents of the gas bill, which would raise prices on gas substantially before decontrolling them entirely in 1985, have refused to agree to a proposal from Senate leaders to set a fixed time for a vote on the measure with a promise not to move to "table" (i.e., kill) the bill before that time.

The opponents, led by Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Russell B. Long, D-La., on the Democratic side and Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., and Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., on the Republican side, argued that any agreement on a fixed hour for a final vote would only insure that most senators would leave Washington in the interim, safe in the knowledge they wouldn't be missing any important

A full, well-attended floor debate "is the only thing we have," Abourezk said Thursday.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.V., said he wanted to "protect" senators who are out of town from the embarassment of missing what could be a key vote on the gas bill, which he called one of the most important pieces of legislation before the Senate this year.

Long, a principal strategist for the opponents, said earlier he did not want to "spot any points" to proponents of the bill by agreeing to any limitations on the normal room for parliamentary maneuver.

The opponents said repeatedly Thursday that they have no plan to seek to table the gas bill, but rather hope to win majority support for a motion to recommit it to the conference committee with instructions to structure for gas. Several opponents said that sup-porters of the bill actually did not want to bring it up Thursday because they lack votes to carry the mea-

Waving tally sheets of the Senate for dramatic effect, Byrd denied this heatedly, saying he had the votes but just wanted to "protect" senators who happen to be out of town (many of them campaigning in an election year. Byrd said 29 senators were away from Washington Thursday.

In otehr developments Thursday, Sens. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., released a letter to President Carter challenging his apparent change of policy regard-ing the development of nuclear breed-er reactors, which both these senators oppose. Aides indicated this letter could be a precursor to both senators voting against the gas bill, which both of them earlier supported.

The League of Women Voters Thursday announced its endorsement of the natural gas bill, making it the first major consumer-oriented organization to do so.

Jackson subpoenas documents on Dresser

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of a Senate investigating subcommittee, has subpoenaed a quantity of documents from Dresser Industries of Dallas related to its oil-drill deal with the Soviet Union.

Jackson's action came to light Thursday, a day after President Carter informed him that he intended to allow Dresser to proceed with the $145 million transaction.

Jackson, among other critics, had urged the administration to cancel Dresser's export licenses as a response to the Soviet Union's trials of political dissidents.

Other administration officials, including national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, also had urged the president to reconsider the license approvals.

Dresser, a multinational corporation that produces machinery for energy and natural resources development, is assisting the Soviet Union in setting up a plant to produce hard-tip drill bits for use in petroleum exploration.

Carter earlier canceled a pending deal between the Russians and Sperry Rand, an American firm, for a computer that was to have been used by the Soviet news agency, Tass.

Jackson, meanwhile, announced that his Permanent Subcommittee on-Investigations would conduct an inquiry into the review procedures being used by the administration for issuing export licenses. The subpoena to Dresser, a Jackson aide said, is

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Word that wholesale prices and the money supply had dropped unexpectedly sent the stock market on a buying spree today.

The Dow Jones industrial average zoomed ahead 9.70 to 903.41 at noon. Advances took an 11-3 lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Labor Department said today that wholesale prices had fallen 0.1 percent in August, the first drop since August 1976 and one that had not been anticipated by analysts. The news followed on the heels of the announcement by the Federal Reserve late Thursday that the nation's basic money supply had fallen $1.8 billion in the latest reporting week. Ramada Inns continued to trade heavily, leading the mostactive list and falling 1/4 to 10%.

The NYSE composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks rose .53 to 60.03. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 2.26 to 174.24. Volume on the Big Board was frantic at 19.88 million shares in the first two hours, compared to Thursday's 16.18 million at noon.

Petroleum issues were among the leaders of the rally. Maathon Oil jumped 21/8 to 501/2, Mobil gained 13/8 to 701/2. Standard Oil of Indiana rose 1 to 521/2 and Atlantic Richfield was up 7/6

Glamor stocks also were strong. Texas Instruments rose 2 to 904, Polaroid gained 11/8 to 581/8, IBM was up 234 to 302 and Xerox advanced 1/4 to 611/4.

Single-bullet theory gets House boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators have developed strong new evidence to support the disputed "single-bullet theory" adopted by the Warren Commission when it concluded that a lone assassin killed President John F. Kennedy, according to a knowledgeable source.

The theory is that the same bullet struck Kennedy in the back, passed through his body, then wounded former Texas Gov. John B. Connally in the back, chest, wrist and thigh. A scarcely damaged bullet recovered from Con-nally's stretcher at the Dallas hospital where he was treated was said to be the missile that wounded both Using sophisticated analyses, scientists have determined that metal fragments recovered from Con-nally's wrist match the bullet found on his stretcher, said the source, who requested anonymity.

A critic of the Warren Commission has said such evidence would strongly support the single-bullet

The House Assassinations Committee, which ordered the tests, was to hear the results today. The committee also was to question ballistics expert Larry Sturdivan and Dr. Charles S. Petty, chief medical examiner of Dallas County, Texas, and one of nine pathologists who studied the Kennedy autopsy procedures for the committee. Petty, who was not working in Dallas at the time Kennedy was assassinated there on Nov. 22, 1963, was expected to "confirm and verify and support" many of the pathology findings submitted to the committee Thursday, the source said.

At the committee's direction, scientists subjected the recovered bullet and the wrist fragments to neutron activation analyses, in which solid objects are bombarded with a stream of neutrons, forcing the objects to emit a variety of rays.

The rays can be measured to determine the amounts of certain elements present in the test objects. If the amounts present in two different objects match, that is considered proof that the objects

The technique has been described as a way of "fingerprinting" objects because no two contain the same elements in precisely the same quantities.

Disputes over the single-bullet theory dominated the testimony Thursday, the second day of the committee's hearings on the Kennedy assassina-Eight of the nine pathologists concluded that the single-bullet theory was valid, said Dr. Michael Baden, the panel moderator and chief medical examiner of New York City. The dissenting panelist, Dr. Cyril H. Wecht, argued vehemently that "no bullet could have caused all these wounds" in both Kennedy and Con-

Wecht, coroner of Allegheny County, Pa., said that abandoning the single-bullet theory would strongly suggest the existence of two gunmen and thus a conspiracy to assassinate Kennedy. Hinting at the evidence to come, deputy committee counsel Gary Cornwell asked Wecht: "What would be the effect on the single-bullet theory if we could show that (the bullet found on Connally's stretcher)

did hit Connally's wrist?"

Wecht conceded that he wrote an article several years ago, asserting that a match of the bullet with the wrist fragments through neutron activation analyses "would lend strong support" to the single-bullet

But he said he is less positive of that assertion

Baden said the eight pathologists concluded that the bullet entered Kennedy's back and exited through his neck, possibly nicking the thin edge of one vertabra. The same bullet then could have struck Connally in the back, exited through his chest, struck his wrist and finally lodged in his thigh, Baden

Discussing trajectory, Wecht said the bullet would have traveled in a straight line after exiting Kennedy's body and that it could not have hit Connally because of his position in front of and slightly to the left of Kennedy in the jumpseat of the presidential limousine

Baden said the panel majority concluded that Kennedy and Connally were lined up in such a way that the same bullet could have passed through

Houston council asked for pornography ruling

HOUSTON (AP) - Mayor Jim McConn, after listening to several speakers demanding the City Council order a crackdown on the sale of pornography, says it would be "an exercise in futility" to pass an ordinance that could be shot down in court.

McConn said Wednesday night an ordinance passed in 1977 was declared unconstitutional by a federal court and that a study now under way may provide a sounder legal basis for an anti-pornogra-

Among those appearing before the City Council Wednesday was the Rev. Albert Walling, an Episcopal clergyman and president of the Greater Houston Clergy Association.

He said pornographers, fleeing a "hostile legal climate in Dallas," are moving to Houston.

Carter dangerously linking energy bill to dollar

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is going to bat for its energy bill with the claim that the future of the U.S. dollar may depend

It's a potentially dangerous claim, because it seems to invite future at-tacks on the dollar by currency speculators if the energy program is not

Carter, of course, is gambling that Congress will enact the bill, and his warnings about the dollar are intend-ed to bring additional pressure on the

The administration is particularly eager to dispel concerns over the portion of the legislation that would deregulate natural gas prices, which eventually will mean higher prices to ners and industry.

During meetings with governors and businessmen at the White House last week, Carter and his advisers asserted the deregulation plan would provide sufficient incentives for producers to develop new sources of gas, which could be substituted for im-

The White House argued persuasi-vely that greater use of domestic natural gas would reduce the demand for imported oil by 1.4 million barrels a day by 1985, a savings of $6.75 billion yearly at current world oil prices.

Few would argue that such a savings would be welcome to the economy, and that reduced reliance on foreign oil would be beneficial for several reasons, including the country's security.

However, the White House emphasis on what could happen if the energy bill isn't enacted took on the appearance of scare tactics.

Carter said congressional rejection of the bill would be "a devastating blow to the character and esteem with which our government is held throughout the world" and would have "a devastating effect on our national image, on the value of the dollar, on our trade balance, on inflaHe linked passage of the bill to the image abroad of the "effectiveness of the federal government, including my own office."

Stuart Eizenstat, the president's chief domestic adviser, said:
"Frankly, there is no acceptable alernative to the bill. If it fails, it is highly unlikely there will be gas legislation in the foreseeable future.'

High Plains farming life with few pleasures, says Abernathy couple

ABERNATHY, Texas (AP) — Tommy and Bobbye Wages were born and reared on West Texas farms where they grew up helping their folks work the land against drought and insects.

Tommy Wages, 36, like his father and his father's father before him, considers a normal summer workday to be 5: 30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

His wife Bobbye was a little girl when her father lost their farm to the drought of the 1950s. It happened right after her mother died of cancer at the

Without such backgrounds, the two admit they probably would have given up their cotton and milo farm 30 miles north of Lubbock a long time

"Most anybody in farming has to postpone life's pleasures," said Mrs. Wages, 35, who remembers having to cancel her honeymoon at the last minute because a sandstorm threatened Wages' cotton

That was 15 years ago. The Wages never got that honeymoon, but they did manage to take their two adopted children on a vacation to New Mexico four years ago.

"It's a tough, tough life," said Mrs. Wages. But she admits it is her choice. "There are times when I've wanted to say, 'Let's forget it and move to the city.'
But I know I would never be happy if we did."

Tower slated to speak Saturday at area Young Farmer convention

U.S. Sen. John Tower, Republican candidate for re-election to that post, will be featured speaker at the Area II Young Farmer Convention Saturday in Midland at Midland High School. Twenty local West Texas chapters representing more than 400 active members are to participate in the convention.

The afternoon session in the Midland High School cafeteria will begin at 1: 45 p.m. State Young Farmer president Ronny Stewart of Sulphur Springs and state vice president Bobby Cohorn of Lamesa will participate. Tower will discuss "Agriculture and its Importance to America" at 3:30 p.m. That session is open to the public. Other convention highlights will include presenta-tion of awards to individuals and chapters. State Young Farmer candidates are Bobby Eggermeyer of Wall and Gerald Caswell of Terry County. One of these will be named Star Young Farmer of West Texas and will enter State Star Young Farmer erly.

The awards banquet begins at 6:30 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by The Lonesome Road Travelers, area winning FFA Talent Team from Welman. Participants in the state contest also will be featured Marine archaeologist Barto Arnold, who headed up efforts this summer by the Texas Antiquities Committee to locate the wreck of the "Amiable" and a smaller vessel, reports that this summer's TAC field season failed to find the sites—if they are in fact within Matagorda Bay near Port O'Connor.

Arnold notes that "documentary evidence" indicates the vessels were lost there in 1685-but a magnetometer search of five square miles of the sandy bay bottom (guided by 17th century maps as well as 20th century technology) failed to located the

Twelve "anomalies" were located-and five of those did turn out to be shipwreck sites, Arnold says—including one "interesting" wreck of a small sailing vessel dating to the period of the Civil War or

New branch sought

AUSTIN-The Texas Savings and Loan Department has set an application by First Texas Savings Association of San Angelo for a branch office in Midland for its Oct. 2 docket call.

If the request is protested, it will be set for a full hearing, with all parties given an opportunity to present testimony and evidence.

If there is no protest, the application may be referred to Savings and Loan commissioner Alvis Vandy Griff without a public hearing.

First Texas' proposed location is "the vicinity of the intersection of Midkiff Road and FM 868."

Hearing date slated

AUSTIN-A hearing has been set for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 2 by the Texas Savings and Loan Department on the application of Andrews Savings Association for a branch in Seminole. Lamesa Federal Savings and Loan Association protested the application at the department's monthly docket call.

The hearing will be at the department's offices, 1004 Lavaca, Austin, before the hearing examiner Fred Condor. The location of the proposed branch office is 400 N. lain Street in Seminole.

Top writers still drawn to Key West mystique

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Pulitzer Prize-winner Joseph Lash likes it for the water — not too warm and not too cold. Former war correspondent Philip J. Caputo enjoys fishing in the Gulf Stream. Novelist Evan Rhodes chose it for the solitude and sun.

The three are among the latest in a long string of writers who have made this island at the end of America their place of business. And though the bars and piers hum with the legacy of the man Caputo refers to as "Dr. Hemingway," each writer dismisses the suggestion that he might be part of that legacy. Ernest Hemingway chose Key West as one of his stopping places, writing in detail about the land and surrounding sea in such classics as "To Have and Have Not" and "Islands in the Stream.

The island and neighboring keys have played host to other writers. James Hersey set up a writer's compound on the island; Tennessee Williams, a town figure, donated his paintings to benefit auctions.

But Caputo and his brethren deny they chose Key West for any reasons other than the climate, the fishing,

"You're always asked about the Hemingway mystique down here says Caputo, a former reporter for the Chicago Tribune and author of "Rumors of War," a book about Viet-

"Hemingway certainly left his mark, but it just happens to be a good place for sport fishing, and a number of people I know happen to be writers and fishermen."

Caputo spends about four hours a day at a desk in the attic, writing another book about war - this one set in Ethiopia. He writes in longhand, and quotes Hemingway on the sensual quality of writing with pen and paper that is lost in the clatter of a ty-

At 36, Caputo also enjoys the peace of the island while trying to recall his skirmishes with war.

'There is a wonderful, rundown quality to the city," he says. "The sidewalks are crumbling and you have the stragglers on Duvall Street. But there's a charm to it, too."

Summer Moscow chill not unique

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

WASHINGTON (AP) - The chain of events is

In Russia, there is a crackdown against Jews. In the United States, American Jews bring pressure on the White House to do something.

The president publicly protests, condemning the Russians for human rights violations. The Russian leadership responds that it's no business of the United States. The crackdown continues. Finally, Congress passes legislation revoking trade benefits previously negotiated with the Russians. The hope is that economic leverage can be brought to bear where moral protests were unavail-

It could be a summary of the past year in U.S.-Soviet relations. But all of the incidents above occurred between 1870 and 1911. The president who defended human rights was Theodore Roosevelt, not Jimmy Carter. The Russian leader who told him to mind his own business was Czar Nicholas II, not Leonid Brezhnev. And the trade agreement Congress revoked was not a product of the detente of the early 1970s. It dated from

This example from history illustrates the fact that this summer's chill in relations between Moscow and Washington was not unique.

Periods of cooperation and agreement between the two countries have been rare, particularly since the Russian Revolution of 1917.

But the historical pattern also indicates the United States and the Soviet Union may have a fleeting opportunity to improve relations in the next few months, an opportunity that could soon be lost.

The Soviets may have signaled they want to seize the opportunity by their decisions to drop a slander case against two American reporters and to seek only a suspended sentence for Frank Crawford, a U.S. businessman accused of currency violations.

Since the Russian Revolution, there have been several periods of detente between the two powers with one notable example the joint fight against Nazism in World War II. That evaporated as soon as the Germans were crushed, and was quickly followed by the Cold War.

Another occurred after the Cuban missile crisis. President John F. Kennedy, having stood at the abyss with Nikita Krushchev, made a dramatic 1963 commencement speech at American Universi-

"No government or social system is so evil that its people must be considered as lacking in virtue," he said, adding that both superpowers "have a mutually deep interest in a just and genuine peace and in halting the arms race." That summer saw agree-ment on a nuclear test ban treaty, a Washington-Moscow "hot line," a ban on nuclear weapons in space, a $250 million grain sale to Russia.

But the brief flowering of detente was cut short by Kennedy's assasination, by expansion of the Viet-nam War, and by Krushchev's ouster. New Soviet leaders, jockeying for power, adopted a cautious attitude toward the United States and embarked on a spending program to close a strategic weapons gap exposed in the Cuban crisis.

The most recent detente, during the Nixon Admin-istration, brought the signing of a strategic arms limitation agreement, increased grain sales, and such joint efforts as the Apollo-Soyuz space flight.

That Nixon detente if the early 1970s is all but gone, the victim of tensions raised by Soviet actions in Africa, of Carter's human rights campaign and the Soviet crackdown on dissent, and of the inability, thus far, to come up with a second strategic arms

Investigators seeking identity of hijackers

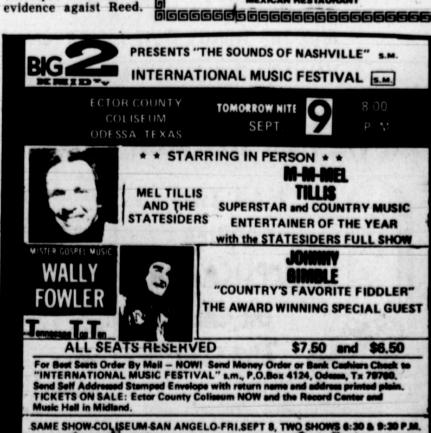

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Investiga-tors haven't determined who hijacked a Malaysian airline Boeing 707 last December but say both pilots were shot minutes before the plane crashed, killing all 100 persons aboard.

After the pilots were shot, someone tried to fly the plane, the investigators said. They said their report was based on studies of the plane's cockpit voice recorder. One American, O.D. Hoerr, 41, of Washington, D.C., was among the victims.

The plane, flying from Penang to Kuala Lumpur last Dec. 4, was hijacked about four miles from Kuala Lumpur. The hijackers ordered it to Singapore, but it crashed 170 miles west of here. All seven crew members and 93 passengers died. Government officials said the hijacker was a man.

They point out that past periods of detente have occurred when both sides had experienced leadership which was unafraid of political challenges from "hard-liners." They feel leaders on both sides need at least a year or two to begin to feel comfortable about the game that one observer, Richard Barnet, has likened to "chess players in the dark, absorbed in a game they can barely see." President Carter, these experts feel, has now been "bloodied." But while he may have gained experi-ence in his frustrated efforts to achieve a quick strategic arms limitation agreement and improve Soviet treatment of dissidents, he is still likely to be challenged for every concession he might make.

On the Soviet side, Brezhnev is experienced and politically secure, these experts feel. But his health s questionables and he may soon be replaced by inexperienced, insecure new leaders. Thus, the next few months offer a favorable set of circumstances that may soon change as the Soviets change leadership and Carter becomes embroiled in his re-election campaign.

KLAMATH RIVER, Calif. - Yurok Indian fishermen dragging nets with their small boats dotted the placid Klamath River as dusk spread across the Northern California skies.

Great salmon war pits

Indians against feds

The only sounds were bird calls, plashing salmon and the crash of distant surf at the river's mouth.

But it was a deceptively peaceful scene — soon erased by a bizarre naval battle unique in the stormy history of Indian-U.S. relations, the most violent episode in the simmering Klamath Salmon War.

Speeding down the river was a federal flotilla — five boatloads of heavily-armed U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service agents in bullet-proof vests — looking like a water-borne cavalry answering a bugle call.

had come from as far away as Alas-ka, Louisiana and New England to take on the bigest enforcement action in the history of the agency.

The federal force was charging into the Indian fishing grounds to enforce an emergency ban on salmon fishing, a ban orderd after state and federal biologists warned that the fish popula-tion in the Klamath may be endan-

In the melee that followed, oarswinging Indians tried to protect their nets from seizure. Boats on both sides were disabled in a churning series of rammings. An Indian boat capsized.

U.S. agents countered with mace and night sticks. They boarded two boats in a rocking scuffle to handcuff and arrest four Indians.

As many as 30 boats clogged the river at one point as nonfishing In-dians rushed to the fray to harass the agents. Some with women and chil-dren circled and taunted the agents while others got close enough to at-tack fuel lines and motors with oars.

"It was quite a show," said one sport fisherman who watched the action from the banks along with many friends who cheered the federal "Something had to be done or this river was going to die," he added. When calm returned to the river the only injuries were cuts and bruises. But the seeds of more serious violence

"A bunch of Indians with oars held off the feds, but next time we'll use more than oars," warned one Indian leader. The situation is so volatile that secretary of the Interior Cecil D. Andrus headed here to mediate the The key to the issue is salm

There is little dispute that the highly sought fish is in trouble on this traditionally popular spawning run. Last year only 4,000 salmon reached an upstream hatchery where 20,000 did the year before.

Sport fishermen and some state and federal officials blame the Indians who use gillnets (non-Indian fishermen cannot use nets) and who fish commercially, taking thousands of Indians and just about everyone else blame the logging companies for littering the vital spawning streams, closing them to the migrating fish. More than 1,000 creeks and streams are believed affected.

Dams built on the Kalmath and its tributary, the Trinity River, cause water temperatures to rise down river, adversely affecting the salmon

And foreign fishing fleets fish the ocean off the mouth of the river under controversial agreements with the U.S. Commerce Department. Indians contend that Russian, Polish and Danish ships are taking their salm-

"We're gonna have to plunk a few arrows their way, I guess," said Walt Lara, president of the Klamath River Indian Wildlife Conservation Association, which represents the Yurok

"The white man builds dams to save water for Sacramento swimming pools, he destroys our beautiful redwood forests and he lets the Russians take our fish — then he tries to blame the poor Indian fisherman for killing off the salmon. It's crazy," Lara in

But if salmon is the focus of the violent controversy, Indian rights is an underlying issue. The Indians say they will not be told where and when or if they can fish on their reserva-

Last week federal authorities imposed a strict moratorium on fishing the Klamath River, urged on by concerned state fish and game officials. The order banned all fishing for two miles up from the river mouth.

Elsewhere on the river most salmon fishing was outlawed, but other fish could be caught any day but Monday and Tuesday when fishing of all kinds was to halt.

The Yurok Indians who live along the lower Klamath River, part of the Hoopa Valley Indian Reservaton, charged the rules were illegal since authorities failed to consult the affected Indians in advance.

The Indians also complained that the rules made no exceptions for subsistence fishing in the river mouth by Indians who have traditionally fished that area.

And Indians who insist they have a right to fish commercially in the river said the ban puts them out of busi-ness. Such rules, they say, must be approved by the Indians.
"Look, we all want the salmon protected," said Lara. "But we want the Indians to set the rules. We aren't going to let the Feds take away our A shaky truce prevailed on the river in anticipation of Andrus' arrival. Indians want him to lift the moratorium Despite the moratorium, however, some Indian fishing has continued. Dozens of nets have been confiscated.

The confrontations have caused bitterness and some tense n This week a Fish and Wildlife Service enforcement land unit patrolling the riverbank was ambushed by angry Indians who surrounded the car with a road block. Hasty negotiations and the arrival of a sheriff's unit ended the incident without violence. Agents on river patrols reported being attacked by rock-throwing Indians on shore one night and rumors of armed Indians planning assaults on the agents have created nervousness

An official from the Department of Interior, trying to ease the tension between Indians and agents, asked agents to make their enforcement patrols unarmed. Agents refused.

Indian women complained that fed-eral agents insulted them by flipping them the finger. Agents responded to taunts during the night patrols by issuing a chorus of war whoops. ey re animais!

gray-haired Indian woman. The hostility may have temporarily delayed plans to improve the da-maged salmon habitat. The California Resources Agency had a planner on the Klamath River when the salmon war broke out.

The state plans to use conservation corps workers to clear six stream beds of logging debris. Also planned is construction of hatching ponds. The project requires Indian cooper-ation and assistance, however, and for the last two weeks all attention has been focused on the controversial fishing regulations. Even with the promise of state assistance in restoring the habitat, improvements will come too late for many sport fishing resort operators along the river. Some say they face bankruptcy this year. The fishing ban came at the peak of the season for resort owners — the Labor Day Weekend. Camps normally filled and turning away fishermen were nearly empty and losing more tenants every day.

"We're down 70 percent from our normal business," said Bill Davies, manager of one camp. "Gillnetting caused this problem. It destroyed the lmon run and now everyone is payng for it. A lot of our people won't be

Country music superstar Mel Tillis will be among the headliners for the International Music Festival scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday in Odessa's Ector County Coliseum. Other featured performers for the big show include "Mister Gospel Music" Wally Fowler and Johnny Gamble, country music's favorite fiddler. Tickets for the performance are on sale at the coliseum box office as well as at the Music Haul and the Record Center in Milland.

The miners' day begins in a steel cage hurtling downward at nearly 40 miles-per-hour past layers of time im-bedded in rock.

It is almost an hour of stop-and-go before they reach the bottom, where they crawl through a maze of tunnels little more than a yard high to take their turns with jackhammers against the solid rock.

The temperature of the rock is 135 degrees. The dust-filled air is refrigerated to a relatively cool 90 degrees, with huidity 95 percent.

Mosutt Moatsdugha, a 35-year-old black miner from neighboring Botswana, is one of 378,000 black and 38,000 white miners who descend into the bowels of the earth every day in South Africa to drill and blast specks of gold to fill the country's coffers.

Mosutt says he likes it here "because of the money." As a team leader, or "boss-boy," he su-pervises a dozen drillers and "cheezers" — men who place explosives into drilled holes. Mosutt earns $11.06 per eight-hour shift and works 11 hifts in 14 days.

New series 'a dream' to young TV actress

NEW YORK (AP) — Audrey Landers hardly looks the seasoned TV actress, eight years in the business. But at 21, she's got two scaps, a number of guest spots and a string of commercials to her credit. And now Audrey Landers has a regular role in "The Waverly Wonders," NBC's new comedy series featuring former pro football star Joe Namath.

"This year, I did three pilots that didn't sell," says the blonde actress from New York. "It's one of those things. You get your hopes up and then the network doesn't buy it.

"Getting a series is like a dream come true."
In "The Waverly Wonders," Namath is Harry Casey, coach of a hapless high school basketball team. Miss Landers plays Ginger, the school's head

An episode from the new series will be broadcast Thursday evening at 8 EDT as part of a "Joe Namath Special" on NBC. The series will be aired Pridays at 8 p.m. EDT beginning Sept. 22.

Andrey Landers spent four years as Heather Kane on the NBC daytime series, "Somerset," and was Joanna Morrison for two years on CBS' "The Secret Storm." She's also appeared on "Where the Heart Is," "Love of Life" and "Search for Tomor-Prime time credits include appearances on

"Happy Days," "Police Woman," "Marcus Welby,
M.D.," "Emergency" and "Room 222."
That kind of background means.

It's not as bad as you'd think it would be," she says. "You see the same girls quite often, and I guess you sort of become friends. You talk over the script and what you've been up to.

"I guess you have to rationalize. If you're right for the part, you'll get it."

Once the show gets rolling, she says, it's five full days of work each week. "The Waverly Wonders" is taped before a live audience, "like putting on a little show each week," the actress savs.

Namath has done some acting, both for television and in the movies, but "The Waverly Wonders" is his

"He's a very down-to-earth person," Miss Landers says. "He takes his job seriously, and works as hard as everyone else. And he takes criticism graceful-

A prime time series greatly increases an actor's opportunity for exposure, and Miss Landers says she takes that prospect seriously. "Doing soaps made me aware that people take what I am saying seriously. I think it's important for television to get the right messages across, and that doesn't mean censoring, it means chosing parts that promote ideas you believe in."

Acting isn't all that's on Audrey Landers' mind these days. She's got a record, "The Apple Don't Fall Far from the Tree," coming soon, and says, "I want to pursue my singing career to the fullest. It's a chance to be creative, writing, singing ...

"I've always done several things at once," she says. "I'm hoping both careers will feed off each
