Cautious assessments still summit 'rule'

Mideast summit, now in its sixth day, is moving ahead in fits and starts with no sign of a major breakthrough in resolving sharp differences between

Israel and Egypt. President Carter, host for the session, conferred today with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat - an apparent follow-up to a similar meeting Sunday with Prime Minister Mena-

Although progress on some key issues has been reported by an official spokesman, there has been no formal conference of the three major summit participants since last Thursday.

There was a widespread expectation that discussions among Carter, Begin and Sadat will continue at least until mid-week.

Begin said Sunday the summit was fered more cautious assessments.

"We need another two or three days to crystallize things," said Ezer Weizman, the Israeli defense minister, who again met separately with Sadat during the weekend. Sources close to the Egyptian delegation said the summit was moving slowly and that there had been no breakthrough.

After taking Begin and Sadat on a Sunday tour of the Civil War battlefield at Gettysburg, Pa., XCarter met for an hour with the Israeli prime minister at Cavp David. The two leaders were joined by key advisers. Begin made his optimistic comment about the meetings when he encountered reporters during the battlefield tour.

"You can see they are going well."

He seemed to be referring to the evident rapport among the participants rather than to the Arab-Israeli dispute itself.

Weizman was more cryptic than the prime minister when he was asked, 'How are you doing?"

"We are doing," the defense minister responded. Before the Gettysburg trip, Carter vices here and conferred by telephone with the Shah of Iran.

Carter lent the Shah his personal support but also called for more "political liberalization" in the troubled

Park development occurring slower than city growth

Editor's Note: This is the first article in a two-part series on the development of more park lands in Mid-

By LANA CUNNINGHAM R-T Staff Writer

Midland has been growing at a rapid pace to the north and west, but the city parks system apparently has not been able to keep up with the

That situation came to light last week during a Planning and Zoning Commission meeting when Director of Parks and Recreation Wayne Kohout said the city should consider ways to obtain park land.

While city officials say that acquisi-tion of land for park development is not an urgent issue now, they agree it may be next year if study and action on the situation are not started soon. Midland has not acquired park land for 18 years, according to Kohout. The fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 marks the first time in many years the Parks and Recreation Department will be allotted money to pur chase park land, he said. That amount is $25,000, enough about "two four-acre sites. We had asked for $180,000 to purchase land for several sites," he said. Some city-owned land in a tract bounded by West Wadley Avenue, North A Street and Ventura Street should be one item on the City Council agenda Tuesday to be considered for a park area. Land in this area has been to given to the City of Midland Swim Team for its pool, the Cerebral Palsy Center. the Girl Scouts and the Junior League of Midland

But the City Council decided recently to close the land to any further sales for commercial use after the Federal Aviation Administration expressed a fear that too many buildings were encroaching on Midland Air

It was also noted the land is in line with one of the Air Park's runways and would be unsuitable for residential or office buildings. But FAA officials voiced no concern over developing it for a park, Kohout said.

A lack of funds for park lands and fast development of the northwest and northeast sections of the city prompted Kohout and the Parks and Recreation Commission to study ways to obtain land. It was not until recently that he stumbled across a 1969 ordinance which would allow for purchasing park land.

The ordinance reads: "Where a proposed park playground or other public use shown in a master plan is located partially or wholly within a subdivision, the subdivider shall reserve adequate space for such pur-pose within the subdivision when the commission finds the requirement to be necessary to the public health and welfare. The subdivider shall convey to the city an option to purchase the reserve site at acreage cost, as may be agreed upon, within a 12-month period after approval of the final plat. Ordinance 4480. Nov. 18, Kohout said if the Parks Department had known about the ordinance several years ago, it could have used it to get the City Council to allocate money for parks land.

The concept of parks development dates back to the 1600s, Kohout said, when large center squares were set aside in towns and used as recreational and meeting areas.

Today, cities and parks departments have master plans on which city growth is to follow

Plats for new areas are compared with the master plan to see if it complies, Kohout explained.

Midland has both a city master plan and parks master plan. But the city has grown so rapidly in the northwest and northeast sides, that the city master plan is becoming fast outdated and no parks have been set aside for those areas. This is what Kohout said worries him.

Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development for the city, said Midland's master plan was developed in November 1970 and will be revised soon.

There are no plans for development in areas that are being developed now in northwest Midland," he

These areas include Saddle Club South, Gibralter Development, Crestgate Subdivision and Skyline Terrace,

Hennessy said. If the 1969 ordinance were enforced, developers in these areas would be required to set aside land for the city to purchase within 12 months. If not purchased by that time for a park, it goes back to the developer, according to Kohout But the legality of the ordinance must first be decided, he added. A second way for the city to get park land is to rule that developers must dedicate some land to the city.

A third possibility is to follow the lead of a few other cities, which have required a fee in lieu of land with the money going to purchase land for a

"This cost is passed on to the homeowner who buys in the developer's area," Kohout said.

A problem arises with mandatory

Death was something Bob Grimes couldn't avoid. But he would have liked, under his own terms, to put it off as long as possible. That's not an uncommon wish.

Scientists claim simple test now diagnoses schizophrenia

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Scientists say they have developed a simple chemical test to diagnose schizophrenia, a group of mental disorders believed to affect millions of people.

Dr. Rajendra Varma, a biochemist with Warren State Hospital in Warren, Pa., said Sunday that a chemical test of urine would help back up traditional, imprecise ways of diagnosing the disorder such as watching for changes in behavior and attitudes over a period of time.

She said she knew of no other similar chemical tests.

Schizophrenia is a group of mental disorders that affect people in varying degrees. The condition can occur at all ages, but most frequently begins to appear in young adults.

Sometimes brought on by a traumatic event or another change in a person's life, schizophrenia can be expressed as a detachment from reality, difficulty in making logical associations and a decreased range of emotion

Doctors treat the disorder primarily with drugs and psychotherapy.

Ms. Varma's work involves measuring the level of glucuronic acid in the urine. Studies of 60 male schizophrenics showed that it was significantly lower in 72 percent of them than in 30 normal males, she said at a briefing during the national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

"As the patient recovers, the values should go up and these values could be coordinated with other tests to check the progress of treatment,' Ms. Varma said in an interview.

Tests so far have been with white men age 25 to 45, but work with women is expected soon, she said.

Females normally have lower levels of glucuronic acid, so males were used first to better test the

Chandler said he has "mixed reactions" to the proposed sewage treatment plant. "I'm proud they're going to build a plant to treat all the water, but I'd rather it be farther away from my house," he said.

He said he would favor seeking a court injunction to prohibit construction of the plant in Midland County.

Toe now new thumb for youth

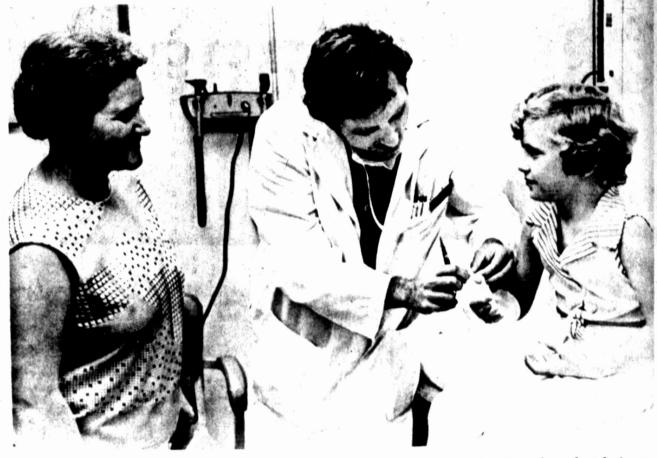

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) - Back in July, little Trudy Howie of Gastonia let Duke Medical Center surgeons cut one of her toes off. And then in a rare 14-hour operation, those surgeons turned that toe into a thumb for the 8-year-old.

Last week for the first time in her life, Trudy was able to touch her right thumb to her right little finger. Until the operation, such a simple move-ment was an impossibility for her because of a congenital birth defect that left only a nub where her thumb should have been. A team of six plastic surgeons at nique called a microsurgical composite tissue transplantation. It took them 14 hours because the microscopic arteries and veins had to be attached separately, some being as small as one millimeter in diameter. "Because we transplanted the reservation or mandatory dedication, noted the department head. Kohout said Texas traditionally has supported the idea of people having free use of their land.

Instead of requiring a developer to dedicate land for a park or pay a fee, Midland has bought land at the market value in competition with the highest bidder, according to Kohout.

Hennessy said the reason the 1969 ordinance has not been enforced has to do with the fact that the city has not allotted any money with which to buy the land within 12 months.

those funds. As time goes on, it probably will be a higher priority," he said. If the city moves to go ahead with enforcing the 1969 ordinance, Kohout said he will be looking at several developing areas, including the ones mentioned by Hennessy. For example, Kohout said, when He took stock in deeds and actions and in self-improvement.

"Most people never try; they don't realize their potential," he said. "You only get better by trying, working." Grimes enjoyed helping people.

He was a skilled craftsman, a machinist, a forger of wrought iron in his spare time. Much of that work he did for others.

"If you can't be an asset, you have to be a detriment," Grimes said. He believed in making the best of talents and time: "I think you're cheating yourself and your family if you don't achieve all you're capable of."

He sought no sympathy. "Sympathy and advice are the two cheapest things in the world.' "You can pour anything from the mouth, but actions are louder."

Long before death ended his suffer-

But it was no use. "I don't know of any place where you can run and hide. You've just got to make peace with your Maker.... You've got to pay your debt. I've made by peace with God."

Saddle Club North development poses no problem to the park situation with each house situated on large lots. But Saddle Club South will have a high density of population and the need for a park is clear, Kohout

Hennessy added that if the city had the money it probably would purchase land for a park in Saddle Club

"I just would like to avoid the haphazard growth experienced by Midland in the 1950s and early 60s," Kohout said.

Sam Chaney, a 30-year-old Midand rancher, businessman and commercial pilot who claims he was "railroaded" into a criminal conviction, is to be sentenced in federal court in Midland at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

The Spanish-speaking pilot of the aircraft asked for a Midland man named "Sam." The pilot, Chaney explained, had flown for a mutual friend, and it was natural for the unidentified pilot to ask for a

About 10 minutes after take-off, the plane's six-cylinder engine "blew up," and Chaney made an emergency landing about dusk on Dec. 10 on a farm-to-market road about five miles from Greenwood in Midland

Chaney said he taxied the craft onto an alfalfa field, locked it and walked away.

Two days later, he was arrested in his Midland home by FBI agents, Midland County sheriff's officers and Midland police.

Before that, Chaney said, he had made arrangements to get the plane trucked into Midland for repairs. But that by then, he said, the federal Drug Enforcement Administration had confiscated the plane, which was without its rear seats.

He said DEA agent Ed Alcorn found .012 gram of marijuana under the carpet of the cockpit. Chaney said he had not suspected that the plane might have been used for illicit drug trafficking.

Since his arrest, rumors of Chaney's running guns and smuggling dope have been rampant, he said.

"I can't believe gossip goes like it does," said Chaney. "I've heard people asking me 'What happened to the $10 million in dope that you got for it (the haul)?"

Furthermore, he said, his credit in Midland has been ruined. "I can't borrow five cents in Midland, Texas.

Chaney said the rumors go back to September 1976, when federal criminal investigators starting suspecting him of flying firearms down to Mexico and returning with loads of marijuana, cocaine or heroin.

Though Chaney, a commercial pilot since 1972, has flown to Mexico many times in taking people hunting and fishing, he denies ever having smuggled in dope or having flown guns across the border.

Chaney said he has proof via cancelled checks, airplane tickets, telephone calls and the testimony of reputable people that he was else-where — in Midland, Garden City or Houston — during Sept. 6 to 13, 1976, when he was suspected of running guns and bringing in dope.

A report to that effect was drawn up by federal investigators and was distributed to law-enforcement agencies statewide, Chaney said.

"Everybody in law enforcement reads that report and thinks I did it,"

Chaney seems convinced those allegations made him suspect last December, when he flew the plane for 10 denial to an FBI agent of ever having flown the aircraft. Later, he admitted flying the plane but said he was unaware that it was stolen out of Califorina and that it had false registration papers. Since then, Chaney claimed, he has been harassed by law-enforcement officers.

Chaney's trial in August lasted two days. His defense attorney, Tom Sneed of Odessa, opted not to place his client on the witness stand.

Sneed said Chaney had been "intimidated" and that under cross-examination, the prosecution would imply wrong-doings by asking: "Haven't you heard that he (Chaney) did this and did that?" He said Chaney was convicted on circumstantial evi-

"It was a very weak case," Sneed said. "But you know the federal courts. They (jurors) get the impression from the judge that they are not to try a case but to convict."

The maximum penalty the court's presiding judge, John H. Wood Jr., could mete out in the Chaney case would be two five-year sentences and $15,000 in fines.

"But I'm hoping," Sneed said, "to be the first lawyer to get 'Maximum John' to give less than the maximum. But I'm in virgin territory.' Wood has the reputation of not being lenient and of doling out stiff sentences, Sneed said.

According to Sneed, the conviction will be appealed. He has already asked for a mistrial and for an instructed verdict. Sneed holds that the evidence was insufficient to prosecute in the first place.

A U.S. Federal Court official last week said that Chaney perhaps

Carter's advisers won't help fugitive

THURMONT, Md. (AP) - The White House says fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco tried but failed to get several of President Carter's closest advisers - including his choice as secretary of state - to help end Vesco's legal problems.

Jody Powell, White House press secretary, said emissaries for Vesco, who is hiding out in the Bahamas from trial on five federal indictments. made an approach in December 1976 to Cyrus R. Vance, after he was designated secretary of state, and apparently sought aid from Attorney General Griffin B. Bell.

In addition, Powell told a group of reporters at the Mideast summit press center here, a Vesco hireling wanted to seek help from Carter's principal assistant, Hamilton Jordan, but was dissuaded from doing so by Richard Harden, a lower-ranking presidential aide Powell said, however, the administration wants to arrest Vesco and bring him to trial. He produced statements from administration officials that the Vesco matter had gotten highest-level attention.

Powell met with reporters late Sunday after syndicated columnist Jack Anderson reported that Vesco directed a "high pressure lobbying campaign" at Jordan and Atlanta attorney Charles Kirbo, a Carter inti-

Kirbo and Jordan both angrily denied Anderson's accusations, saying they had never made any effort to intercede on Vesco's behalf or ever been asked to do so. Powell acknowledged that an Albany, Ga., attorney, Spencer Lee, arrest, according to reports. Sheriff Dallas Smith said today that Friday escaped by allegedly brandishing a loaded .38-caliber pistol in the faces of unarmed jailers and armed deputies at 10:20 p.m. Sun-

Smith said the jailer on duty was confronted by a prisoner pointing a pistol at him. Other deputies had been in the process of taking prisoners upstairs to the jail, said Smith. "He simply put a few officers in a small area and took another officer down to the county courthouse area where he handcuffed the deputy and walked out the front door of the building," said Smith. Smith said Midland Police Department officers and other deputies were notified of the escape and a swift search for the man was launched in downtown Midland.

"Fortunately, the Midland Police Department was in the process of a shift change and there were many men on the street at the time," Smith said. "One of the Midland Police officers spotted the man in a taxi cab and he was transported back to jail from a downtown location," said Smith. Smith said Friday was being held in jail after transfer from state prison because he appeared in court here to appeal a prison sentence on a murder

Friday, described as 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighing over 230 pounds, was dressed in a sports shirt and gray trousers, said Smith. He said regular jail clothes wouldn't fit the man.

Smith said he believes the weapon must have been smuggled into jail to Friday earlier during visiting hours. "It's kind of hard to check everyone. We're trying to limit the number of people able to visit prisoners. It's difficult to search everybody who comes in here. 'The problem is we're always moving prisoners in and out of jail and bringing them to and from court and allowing them to see their lawyers," said Smith

He said no officers were hurt during the escape incident.

The escapee merely stuck a pistol in the faces of our officers and told them he'd kill them if they didn't work with him," said Smith.

Another dilemma

President Carter, who seemingly promised most any and everything at the recent Bonn, Germany, summit, now finds himself in another predicament. This particular dilemma stems from Panama's decision to grant asylum to the guerrillas who engineered the release of 59 "political prisoners" in Nicaragua.

Mr. Carter and the leaders of six other nations at the Bonn conference adopted a tough policy toward governments which provide a haven for terrorists.

The Bonn agreement was to suspend airline service to countries which harbor airline hijackers, refusing to prosecute them or turn them over to authorities in another country that will.

If the U.S. State Department chooses to see no culpability in Panama's attitude toward its guests from Nicaragua, it can be assumed the administration is willing to split hairs.

The Sandinista guerrillas did not hijack an airliner, of course, so in that respect the Bonn principle does not apply. What they did, however, was to kill 15 government guards, wound many others with gunfire and hold 1,000 people hostage in the National Palace under threat of death. Again, whether that constitutes terrorism or insurrection is a

Mr. Carter may find it difficult to be the stern moralist in this situation. The dictatorial regime of President Anastasio Somoza scores low on the scale of human rights. The Sandinistas are heroes in the eyes of many of their countrymen.

Practical diplomacy may demand that the United States swallow the fact that its new treaty partner in operation of the Panama Canal is giving aid and comfort to people who are terrorists and criminals in the eyes of the Nicaraguan govern-

However, one argument for the Panama treaty was that it would strengthen rather than weaken the ability of the United States to deal with the political ferment in Latin America.

If Panama's chief of government, Omar Torrijos, decides not only to grant asylum to the Sandinistas, but also to aid and abet their effort to overthrow the government of Nicaragua, the United States' new relationship with Panama certainly will be put to the acid test.

This undoubtedly is just one of the many problems which will face President Carter and the nation as a result of his determined treaty dealings with Omar Torrijos and his cohorts. The President will have to work out of this one the best way he can.

THE UNWANTED DRAFT:

The U.S. Congress had better bite the bullet

Copley News Service

Richard Nixon has been criticized for a lot of things, mostly justified, but he has so far gone unblamed for one of the costliest and most imprudent acts of a broadly flawed administration.

In his 1969 campaign for the presidency, Nixon promised to end the draft. Although we had not been without Selective Service since before World War II, although we had no idea whether we could meet our military needs without it, Nixon was quick to see that the idea of scrapping the system had political appeal.

To a Vietnam-sick America the draft symbolized everything bad about that unhappy conflict. Getting rid of it was a welcome thought and Nixon capitalized on it.

Unpopular though the draft had been, its replacement has turned out to be infinitely worse — a voracious monster with an insatiable appetite for dollars and a record of only minimal contribution to national

Called the "All Volunteer Army," the substitute for Selective Service is a purely mercenary concept - a projection of the military into the manpower marketplace with the power of the U.S. treasury behind it.

Competing with industry, competing head-to-head with each other, the Armed Forces have spent almost one and a half billion dollars in advertising and recruiting over the past five years to try and find "volunteers" to fill their ranks. And, despite the fact that the overall size of the armed forces has gone down, they have had great trouble in meeting their recruiting goals.

Fathered by intense interservice competition for manpower, there have been recurrent recruiting abuses - winking at mental and physical standards - to the extent that between 10 and 15 percent of all recruits now have to be discharged in the first 90 days because they are incapable of meeting even the minimum physical or mental standards.

The disruptive personnel problems and the great costs that have come with the All-Volunteer concept are serious. But of equal concern is what the disappearance of Selective Service has done to our mobilization readiness.

Since World War I we have relied heavily on our citizen soldiery - the Reserve forces and the National Guard - as a mobilization base. These forces were not just an essential reservoir of trained manpower to which we could turn in time of crisis. Additionally, they provided an alternative for young men who, because of educational or other commitments, preferred to discharge their obligation to their country through eight years of Guard or Reserve service rather than two active years in the regular establish-

Today our National Guard and Reserve components are in disarray because there is no longer any stimulus to join them. Young people either sign up in the active military, because of the pay or other recruiting blandishments, or they have nothing at all to do with the service. There is little to attract them to the Reserve and, as a result, a major component of our national security is sick.

Many a senator and representative understand the unwisdom of what we have done. They know that the All-Volunteer concept is a costly mistake and would like to see Selective Service back in business.

But they judge that the political volatility of the idea is still very great, and only the most steadfast are willing to be counted.

Recently, a modest proposal before the U.S. Senate to reinstitute Selective Service registration - just to ascertain for the record who is 18 years old, and where he lives, for use in case of a crisis - was badly defeated, some 71 votes to 11. This is not because seven-eighths of the senators believe the All-Volunteer scheme is working. They don't, but they still remember the searing of the anti-Vietnam sentiment that eliminated the draft.

However, unless we are satisfied that the only likely form of war is to be a two-hour mutual thermonuclear incineration, the Congress had better swallow its butterflies and set about putting a Selective Service

Because, the longer we risk being without a mobilization system the more likely we are to need it.

Justice alters Vesco case tactics

BY JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON-The Justice Department quietly switched tactics in its long standing pursuit of fugutive financier Robert L. Vesco in his alledgedly plundered union during the spring of 1977. That decision was to drop the until then fruitless course of formal extradition and seek instead his immediate expulsion from his heavily-guarded refuge in Costa It was in the mid-1940s that

What has not been disclosed until now is that this major change in tactical signals was made in the aftermath of a high pressure lobbying campaign directed at two of President Carter's closest political confidants-pre-White House aide Hamilton Jordon and Atlanta attorney Charles Kirbo

Both Jordan and Kirbo denied any knowledge of the Vesco scheme which was aimed at fixing the Washington legal problems of the expatriot millionaire in exchange for a $10-million slice of his allegedly stolen mutual fund fortune. There is, in fact, no hard evidence that either man lifted a finger, in Vesco's behalf, said attorney Richard B. Bell for the presi-

But letters, telephone messages and sworn affidavits gathered by us during the six-week investigation document the extensive campaign aimed at both Kirbo and Jordan by the Georgia-based intermediates for the Vesco fix.

Attorney General Bell insisted to us that the sudden decision to drop efforts to extradite Vesco was made in the Justice Department. Bell said the prosecutors felt they had exhausted the available avenues for bringing Vesco back to the U.S.

But Terence Todman, former U. S. Ambassador to Vesco's hideaway country, Costa Rica, told us he had been preparing a new extradition request and was also in the midst of ities there to honor it

"We hoped he would be returned to the U.S.," Todman said. "But Justice" never got the whole thing together. We still wanted him returned but we never got the formal request from Justice to present the request." (Vescoe took refuge in the Bahamas after the new Costa Rican goverment declined to extend his residency privi-

According to the sworn testimony, Vesco wanted the Carter administration "to get Todman off his back." Documents in our possession show the two ringleaders of the Georgia group were R.L. Herring, now in jail under $500,000 bond awaiting trial on unrelated fraud charges, and Spencer Lee IV, who claims he merely acted as Herring's attorney. Herring had the connection with Vesco, and Lee was a close personal friend of Jordan.

Herring has sworn under oath that he arranged with Lee to get Hamilton manipulations $12 million worth of stock in his prime corporation. This is creation which he calls Property Resources Limited. Federal investigators refer to the company bitterly as "Plunder, Rape & Loot." In financial circles it is known simply

A few days after Lee returned from Costa Rica, he flew to the Bahamas to set up a corporation called Southern Ventures Limited. The flight records show he arrived there on Jan. 27, 1977. Herring has testified that Southern Ventures was established to launder the millions that the Georgians expected to get when they cashed in their PRL stock.

The flight records show that on the following Feb. 7, Lee and Herring flew to Washington from Georgia. Telephone messages and correspondence in our possession indicate that Lee spoke to Hamilton Jordan about the PRL deal. In a letter to Jordan, Lee also reported that "the necessary arrangements have been made to protect our interest in Nassau."

Both Jordan and Lee deny that the documents are authentic. They have been verified, however, by independent sources, including the secretary who typed and mailed Lee's letter to Jordan.

Footnote: We have been investigating the allegations against Hamilton Jordan and Charles Kirbo for several weeks. We have tracked down the details from Costa Rica to Nassau. We have also made repeated trips to Georgia. Herring was questioned under oath for 14 hours.

Is human rights tail wagging foreign policy dog?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

INSIDE REPORT:

WASHINGTON-A thrice-repeated

but unsubstantiated indictment of Argentina by Assistant Secretary of State Patricia Derian testifying publicly before Congress reveals the shattering impact on U.S. foreign policy of human rights crusading. Under questioning Aug. 9 by the House inter-American affairs subcommittee, human rights chief Derian responded with language seldom used by one friendly power to another, accusing the Argentine regime of killings, kidnappings and torture. So harsh was her language that the State Department tried to expunge it from the record. But apart from being undiplomatic, there is considerable doubt of accuracy. The impact could prove tragic for

U.S.-Argentine relations and perhaps for Argentina itself. Moderate and pro-U.S. elements within the Argentine junta have been weakened; deterioration of the U.S. position in the strategic southern corner of South America has been accelerated. This cannot be dismissed as merely infortunate ardor by an idealist unfamiliar with diplomacy. Deterioration of U.S. relations with Brazil, Chile and now Argentina too closely follows the scenario of Latin American specialists in the Carter administration who privately predicted the human rights crusade would foster the left in the Western bemisphere.

Concern that the human rights tail is wagging the foreign policy dog is preading in both the administration and Congress. On Capitol Hill, growing attention is paid to the imminent loss of up to $1.4 billion in sales to Argentina-including $620 million in Export-Import Bank transactions.

So when Ms. Derian testified Aug. 9, she was asked by subcommittee chairman Gus Yatron of Pennsylvania why her human rights office recommended against the Export-Import Bank loans. Even Derian's own aides were taken aback by her

"The reason for our advice was the continuing violation of basic human rights by Argentina. The systematic use of torture, summary execution of political dissidents, the disappearance and the imprisonment of thousands of individuals without charge, including mothers, churchmen, nuns, labor leaders, journalists, professors and members of human rights organizations."

Moments later, Derian repeated her indictment, adding "kidnappings" and "unwarranted killings" this time. In her soft Mississippi accent, she read the litany a third time, concluding: "We see nothing to indicate that there is a gequine trend toward human rights." Horrified officials in the State Department's Inter-American Bureau crossed out Derian's indictment in the transcript, but it was too late. Word had gone to Argentina, where Patt Derian has become a household word. The U.S. am bassador in Buenos Aires was called in for a stiff protest; the Argentine ambassador in Washington was called home.

The tragedy is that Derian's outburst may well weaken the junta's relatively moderate elements headed by the president, Gen. Jorge Rafael Videla, and strengthen the extreme While President Carter's human rights admonitions probably have improved conditions in Argentina, the point of diminishing returns has been reached.

Apart from undiplomatic ravages, was Derian telling the truth? Her office insists the Argentine junta has "executed" 3,000 persons since seizing power in 1976 and at least another 5.000 persons are missing. But these figures come from private sources of dubious reliability. U.S. government bureaus with vastly more experience than Derian's say the figures cannot be verified and seem inflated.

Actually, the junta in confronting bloody far-left revolt in 1976 used-an iron fist to prevent Communist takeover. But many killings and kidnappings are traceable to rightist paramilitary groups not under government control and should not be counted as government "executions." Moreover, objective observers agree that Argentina's human rights record has improved markedly the past

Those nuances are disregarded by Derian's office. While unable to draw distinctions between moderates and extremists inside the junta, the human rights crusaders claim military rule in Argentina cannot last much longer and the U.S. should. disengage from the junta. Such a prospect is rejected by Latin American experts, whatever their ideology. But behind the naivete, a pattern emerges. A prediction was made before Mr. Carter took office by Brady Tyson, now with the U.S. mission to the United Nations, that human rights would be used to support revolutionary forces in the hemisphere. An identical prediction was made privately last year by Robert Pastor of the National Security Council staff. Ms. Derian's undiplomatic incident could help fulfill those prophecies.

Classes at Midland College have been under way for two weeks, but there are still three days left to register late for the fall semester.

Potential students must register not later than Wednesday, according to registrar Dee Windsor. They may sign up for as many as three classes before the registration deadline.

Persons wishing to register should visit the Office of Student Services in the Administration Building between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through

"While classes have started, there are many courses which still have openings and where early work would not be too difficult to make up yet,' Windsor said. "Of course, some courses have closed their enrollments due to limited space, particularly in the vocational and technical fields."

Windsor noted that both daytime and evening courses are offered in both academic and vocational areas. More than 2,000 already have enrolled and the final total for the fall semester is expected to be between 2,100 and 2,200 students...

Flagstones can create garden look

By BARBARA HARTUNG Copley News Service

Q. Our apartment living room is only 15x20 feet, so I would like to furnish it with light, small-scaled furniture in a natural decor. I have been thinking about rattan or wicker. I'd like to create a sophisticated, yet cool, crisp, garden atmosphere in the room.

My real preference is chrome and glass and teak but that's beyond my budget right now. What sort of plan would vou suggest for the living room furniture, floors and draperies?—

A. You might like a room created where designers started with a vinyl floor covering of off-white simulated flagstones. The walls were painted a dark tone to contrast with the light, .atural tones of rattan, cane and

At the window the designers placed narrow chrome venetian blinds and softened the treatment with off-white linen tie-back draperies. The chrome was repeated in the frame of a rocking chair whose seat and back were cane and a chrome-based wine rack. End tables were a variety of sizes of round plaited and twisted wicker which could double as extra seating

The sofa was a heavy framed design with woven back and arms and upholstered in an off-white, nubby fabric. The room has an extremely sophisiticated look and the furnishings would allow you to move from there into more chrome and glass and teak pieces as your budget

Q. Help! I can't seem to figure out what to do with my living room. I have pretty much decided the colors of rust, dark brown, tan and white will be used throughout the house. The carpet in the living room is rust and that's all there is in there. I like a rustic, casual. almost "cabin" effect-nothing formal at all. We might someday put in a fireplace.

What style and location would you suggest? Also we have an upright piano we want in the living room. I am planning draperies across one eight-foot window using a self-fabric cornice-type valance and sheers. Should I do the three feet of wall on each side of the window in the drapery, too? What would be good for a sofa and chairs.. What about a textured linen or a velvet?-S.K.

A. A rust, dark brown, tan and white color scheme is appealing, and you have a good start with the rust carpeting. About your arrangement question, I'd suggest you draw out your room on a large sheet of paper to scale and then also in scale try arranging a sofa or a pair of very small

Also draw in chairs, end tables and piano so you can place them against and out from walls to find the best location. Remember to plan for traffic patterns in a room.

If you are planning a fireplace and want a rustic effect, think about a Franklin stove. They can be charming and appropriate for the look you're trying to create. But keep in mind that a fireplace nearly always is a focal point in the room. Somehow, even a modest fireplace steals center stage, so place it on a wall so you can arrange furniture around it or out

Your draperies seem well planned, and I believe I would use draperies across the entire wall. You would have to extend the draperies about 12 inches over the window at least and that would leave you with only a tiny space on each side-hardly large enough to look pleasing.

I would definitely not choose velvet for a sofa or chairs if I were trying to create a rustic look. Somehow I feel velvet is much too formal for that. Rather, choose wide-wale corduroy or

Love blooms through jailhouse floor

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm sitting here in the county jail and I have a problem I need help with. Since I've been here I have fallen in love with a wonderful guy who is locked up on the floor below me. We have been talking through a crack in the floor, and have really gotten to know each other very well. We went to the same high school together, but we never dated.

We did a lot of talking back and forth, and he wants to marry me when we get out. Do you think it's really love, or are we just lonesome? I am nearly 20, and he is the same age. I could sure use some good advice, so please answer soon.—IN LOVE AND IN JAIL

"I would lose pounds and inches-but the inches were always lost in the wrong places!"

Then she discovered the Pat Walker program. Too good to be true

The remarkable thing about Pat Walker's, Simona continues, is that she counts neither calories nor carbohydrates, yet she has lost 21-1/4 pounds and a total of 36-1/4 inches.

It's time to plant bulbs

By HENRY MITCHELL The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - From Labor Day to Thanksgiving is the time to plant spring-flowering bulbs, and I prefer September for daffodils, Otober for hyacinths and November for tulips.

It is sometimes said daffodils should not be planted until October — September is supposed to be too warm. But September planting of daffodils gives that much more time for the roots to grow before bitter

In March and April nothing is more cheerful than patches of daffodils in front of houses, where passersby can enjoy them. Even five or six daffodil bulbs go far to make that contribu-

The two most important rules for the gardener are these:

1. Plant bulbs. Nothing else in all gardening produces such fine results for so little work.

2. Let the leaves die down naturally after flowering. Do not cut them down in the interests of neatness.

This may be the place to say there is no such thing as a green thumb, which is hardly necessary in gardening and which might not be attractive.

The important things are to plant things that will flourish and to arrange them so they give what you think is a good effect. It is farily clear, probably, that daffodils by the tens of thousands look fine in meadows, old orchards and expressway slopes in Rock Creek Park. But that does not mean that in a 25-foot garden daffodils should be broadcast in great sweeps, or that (since there is not space for many) they are therefore not worth growing.

Assuming the town gardener is not going to make any great study of daffodils or exert himself to acquire any sorts that he cannot find at a garden center, I suggest these as a reasonable group for small town gar-

"Tete a Tete" a first-rate little bright, rich-yellow daffodil, usually with two blooms on a 6-inch-high stem. The petal segments sweep back just a little, not as much as mules' ears in a moment of anger, but just a trifle. A clump of six bulbs, spaced 4 inches apart, in a spot that catches the spring sun (at the edge of a box bush facing south, say) will provide two or three weeks of surprising delight in early March.

Daffodils in the garden should not be cut, not that it hurts the plant in the slightest, but simply because cut blooms may last three days, while the identical blooms outdoors may last three weeks.

It is sometimes said, "My clump of Ceylon was in bloom for a month,' and in some springs that is not exaggeration at all.

In the first place, "Ceylon," like 'Sun Chariot," is a particularly longlasting flower. But all daffodils last much longer on the plant than in vases, and this is equally true of

I am horrified to see magnificent plantings of tulips in front of embassies in which all the flowers are cut just as they come into full perfection. People sometimes simply do not realize tulips, which look delicate and luxurious, may last more than two BRIDGE

This is a yellow trumpet (like what people call "King Alfred") only a sulfury yellow with a good hint of green in it, and after a few days the inside of the trumpet fades to almost white. It is almost always one of the first large daffodils to bloom, and I have several times known clumps of this variety to be colorful for four full

SUPER HANDYMAN

There's no hit, miss with this shield

By AL CARRELL

Hardwood floors have always been beautiful, and they seem to be coming back in popularity. If you're going to tackle the installation of one, you'll find that a hammer slip could cause a dent in a fairly expensive board. Even the best hammerer could be distracted for a split second and make a boo-boo. If you want to play it safe, you can easily fashion a hammering shield out of plastic from a container with square edges. Look under the sink, and you'll find a detergent bottle or something similar. Then cut a section of the container that will have a lip to fit down against the tongue with the other part resting flat against the board. Now make a notch in the lip that will be over the tongue face. After a nail is started, slide the shield in place with the nail in the notch, and your near miss won't dent the floor. Leave it in place until the nail set has driven the nail completely home.

Dear Super Al:

Here's my trick for retrieving lost parts from under a workbench or behind a stationary power tool. I have a patch of window screen formed to fit over the end of the shop vacuum cleaner hose. It's held in place by a worm-gear hose clamp which means it can go on and come off easily and quickly. When I drop something, the vacuum will reach into almost any crevice and suck the part against the screen, and I don't have to grope or crawl around. The vaccum is strong enough to hold fairly good-sized parts against the screen too. - N.S.L.

Did you ever wish your pliers had big, wide jaws? I keep an old butt hinge around, and when I could use such big-mouthed pliers, I merely slip the hinge into the pliers and use the pliers to apply pressure on the wide jaws of the hinge. It's great to have such a tool for bending sheet metal as well as for other chores that pop up from time to time. - W.A

Would also serve as glazier's pliers.

A SUPER HINT — If you have need for a pigtail adapter for any of your portable power tools, here's a way to corral it. Latch onto a plastic pill bottle that will house the adapter plug. Tape this to the power cord of your drill. Now you won't have to dig through the drawers for the pigtail when you need it.

With a carport, you don't have much protection against theft for many things that a garage owner could lock up. However, it's easy to set anchors into concrete. I found threaded anchors and made L-shaped metal plates with holes in them for a chain to go through. The bolts were coated with epoxy adhesive before inserting them into the anchors. Once the epoxy is set, the bolts hold the plates and won't come out, and I can chain bikes, lawn mower and other big items to the concrete floor to deter a thief. Maybe other readers can adapt this idea. - K.O.

QUICK ANSWERS FOR HARRIED HANDYPERSONS: Q: The commode often requires two flushes to adequately clean the bowl. Everything seems to be working, and the drain isn't clogged. How can I correct this?

A: The first thing to do is look inside the tank to see if the water level is adequate. It should be about an inch from the top of the overflow tube. Then check during a flush to see if most of the water in the tank stays there. If that's the problem, move the guide through which the lift wires move up a bit. Experiment with how high it should be to let the water run out down to within about an inch or two of the bottom of the tank.

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) - The natural fabrics of spring and summer - cotton and silk — are giving way to the winter natural - wool. But wool, like all natural fabrics, needs special cleaning and handling care, says Charles R. Riggott of the International Fabricare Institute.

"Wool is warm and comfortable to wear because it readily absorbs moisture without making the wearer feel cold. It resists wrinkling and holds creases and shape very well," says-Riggott, executive vice president of the association of professional launderers and drycleaners.

Miss America 1979 enjoys chivalry practiced by men

By PETER MATTIACE Associated Press Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - The new Miss America, pretty and petite Kylene Barker of Virginia, sees herself as "the all-American girl next door" who enjoys having men open doors for her and take her to dinner.

"I feel that I am a typical American citizen," said Miss Barker, 22, looking fresh with only 21/2 hours sleep on the Sunday morning after becoming the 51st Miss America. "I think a Miss America should look like an all-American person, like the girl next door, and not someone superficial that people are afraid to touch. I don't want people to put me on a pedestal," she Miss Barker, a former college cheerleader, de-

'That's why I competed for Miss America and that's why I'm standing here today," she said. Miss America added, "I don't get upset when someone calls me a girl."

Born on a dairy farm near Galax, Va., the blonde, green-eyed Miss Barker was named after her father. Kyle, a supermarket meat cutter. She is a recent graduate of Virginia Tech, where she majored in Partner opens with one heart, and you respond one spade. Partner now bids two hearts, and it is once more up to you, holding: S-KJ976; H-3; D-J63; C-K753. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. Since partner's bid is weak and you have a poor hand, game is out of the question. Pass at the first reasonable part-score contract. Partner's hearts are unlikely to be weaker than your spades.

Road agency urges more aids to safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 5,000 people are killed or injured in the more than 12,000 train-vehicle accidents each year, according to a recent study by The Road Information Program. Only plane crashes have a higher percentage of casualties per accident.

'Most train-auto collisions result from motorists' inattention, carelessness or an assumption that they have the right of way," says H. W. Reece, president of TRIP, a research and public information agency supported by the road-building industry.

"But it is not always the motorist's fault," Reece adds. "More than 15,000

TRIP's report noted that 43,944 crossings need additional safety devices such as warning signs, flashing lights, bells or automatic gates, and overpasses are needed at 2,167 particularly hazardous crossings to separate vehicle and train traffic. There are 218,975 grade crossings on public

These recommendations would bring each of the nation's grade crossings up to the average of safety standards used by the states. There are no federal criteria for grade crossing safety.

If its recommendations are followed, TRIP predicts deaths would be reduced by half and injuries by more than one-third.

The recommended warning devices and construction of the overpasses would cost about $4.3 billion, TRIP estimated. Years ago, diphtheria was a widespread and greatly feared disease. Before the turn of the century, 15 out of every 1,000 Americans died from diphtheria each year. Through the 1920s, about 150,000 cases occurred annually, with about 15,000 deaths. Since that time, the disease has gradually declined. There were 910 cases in 1960, 435 in 1970 and only

Nevertheless, diphtheria remains a threat in many parts of the U.S. today, and because it is most dangerous in the very young, it is still a disease that parents should know about and have their children protected against. Diphtheria is cause by a

Angelo said the permanent chairman is nominated by a convention committee on permanent arrangements. This was the second year in a row a Midlander served that function, he said, since 318th District Court Judge Barbara Culver held that role

"These tax protestors are plenty mad, and we've got to damn sure do something," Ford added.

Reports from Texas newspapers which are members of The Associated Press showed that property owners in communities across the state have stepped up their battles against rising property taxes and spending by local governments. City officials, like Ford, say California's Proposition 13 success has probably encouraged tax protestors and given them higher visibility, but griping about axes is nothing new.

"The complaints I got about taxes

"People are coming unglued when they discover their property apprais-als have increased by 40 to 50 percent within four years," said Mayor Pro Tem Jim Bradshaw of Fort Worth. "I think there has to be a way to assure these people their tax money is not being wasted through unnecessary

Runners James Lari and David Simmons are reflected in a pool

Corpus Christi City Council members voted to reduce property taxes by 16.1 percent this summer, then had to back down to a 7 percent reduction because of citizen protests against service cutbacks.

And, even with the smaller reduction, the council — to balance the city budget - approved higher fees for such services as garbage collection, building permits, swimming, tennis, golf, slip rental at the city's marina and for keeping animals at the city

Smaller cities and counties have not escaped the taxpayers' anger, either.

In Sherman and Palestine, suits by taxpayers have blocked, at least temporarily, the certification of 1978 property tax rolls which contain re-valued — and higher — property list-

Farmers in Grayson County, around Sherman, had for years seen their land taxed at the 1920 level of $7 an acre. They sued to block the new roll that values some property at $500

The revaluation, however, was the result of a suit brought by taxpayers living in the city, whose property was valued at far higher prices than that of their rural neighbors.

Most communities, especially larger ones, revalue property in sections of the city each year, on a rotating basis, so that a home is revalued once every several years instead of annually.

And inflation in several years causes some big value increases.

Many cities have partially offset the higher property valuations by lower tax rates. Politically, a city council does not have to raise taxes. It can simply allow the tax assessor to increase property values.
It was the revaluation notices that angered the Odessa residents who burned their tax notices.

Three killed, seven injured when train crashes into house

MIAMISBURG, Ohio (AP) - Two women and a month-old baby were killed when a Conrail freight train derailed and crashed into a two-story house while people inside were playing cards, authorities said. Seven people suffered minor injuries.

"Someone said, 'Here comes the 5: 30 and she is going awful fast," said Michael Call, whose son was among those killed in the train wreck Sunday night. "When I saw what was happening, I turned around to yell for every-one to get out of the house and the whole wall just came down on top of

"All we've got left is a hope chest. It's all gone," Call said today as he watched workmen clear way the crumpled freight cars from his

One freight car stood inside the ruins of the house where the bodies were found and another was part way into the structure. Other cars in the 20-car train were piled nearly as high as the house.

"They just stacked up like a car wreck," said Police Chief Ronald McBride. "They squeezed together like an accordion."

The dead were identified as 4-weekold Michael Joseph Call and Kathy Barkalow, 17, both of Miamisburg; and Linda Humerick, 26, of Germantown, Ohio. Seven people were taken to Grand-view Ambulatory Center, where six were treated for minor injuries and released, officials said. The seventh, a bystander who was not in the house, was kept at the hospital and was reported in good condition today.

Police said they believed they had accounted for all the people in the house but that they were still searching the debris

Police said Call and his wife, Donna, who lived in the house, Ms. Barkalow and Ms. Humerick apparently were playing cards in the living room when the train hit Sunday. They said Ms. Humerick was found clutching the child when the rubble was cleared from the bodies nearly two hours later.

Police and Conrail officials were still trying to determine the cause of the derailment, which squeezed most of the cars against an abandoned feed

Dale Trucker, who lived with his family in the other half of the two-family house, said he was on the back porch when he saw a freight car with all its wheels in the air and all of a sudden, there was a sound like they dropped a bomb."

Trucker said he ran inside, grabbed his 6-month-old baby and yelled to his wife to get out of the house.

As they reached the front door, he said, the train hit, dislodging bricks and plaster.

Their four other children, ranging in age from 4 to 9, were playing in the front yard and ran across the street to

Dorsett finds life easier 2nd time around

By GARY MYERS

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Tony Dorsett gained 1,007 yards as a rookie despite starting only the last five games of the season and being uncomfortable with Dallas' intricate

Things are different this year, however, for the former Heisman Trophy winner. Two outstanding performances in the opening weeks of the season indicate the shifty halfback is finding life in the National Football League more to his liking this time

Dorsett followed up last week's 147yard showing against the Baltimore Colts by rushing for 111 yards and scoring the clinching touchdown in the Cowboys' 34-24 victory over the New York Giants Sunday.

"The difference this year is, No.1, I'm starting and, No.2, I'm more comfortable and relaxed with the sys-tem," Dorsett said. "I don't have to think about each move I make now, I just do it. Just like it was in col-

DORSETT'S 3-YARD TD run made it 34-17 in the fourth quarter after the Giants had staged a second-half comeback. Roger Staubach connect-ed on 18 of 28 passes for 212 yards, including short first-half TDs to Billy Joe DuPree and Jay Saldi. Robert Newhouse bolted over for scores of 1 and 2 vards.

scores came on Bobby Hammond's 11-yard run, Dan Doornink's 1-yard plunge and Joe Danelo's 42-yard field

"It's easy to prepare mentally this year knowing I'm going to start," Dorsett said. "Last year I knew I wasn't going to start but I didn't know how much I was going to play.

"OUR TEAM, in my opinion, has unlimited potential. We're explosive and can score from anywhere on the field. The best has yet to come,' Dorsett added. "I cheated myself last year because I was hurt and I didn't feel in it. I fell behind on my studies and our system can be confusing. This year I got it down and am running with authority."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry was upset that his team lacked intensity after building a 21-7 halftime advan-

"It wasn't one of our best defensive efforts," he said. "It's tough to get up every week. It obvious we weren't up defensively. On a 16-game schedule, there can be a lot of down games. When we got 21 points I know a lot of the guys were thinking it was going to be easy. But the Giants are a hustling. hard-working football team."

DESPITE THE loss, Pisarcik thought the Giants played well offensively. He was especially pleased with the wide-open play.

"This was my kind of game," Pisarcik said. "I like throwing the ball.

Minnesota faces tough test tonight

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Even in the weak National Football Conference Central Division, an 0-2 record could be difficult to overcome. And that's exactly the position defending champion Minnesota will be in if it cannot rebound from an em-barrassing loss by beating the Denver Broncos tonight.

The Vikings, who have not played well on national television in past years, were beaten 31-24 by New Orleans last week and now must face an inspired Denver team which downed Oakland 14-6 in its season opener.

"WE'LL HAVE to be at the top of our game or it will be the same result," warned Vikings running back Chuck Foreman, who gained 122 yards against the Saints.

"With the tough schedule we have, we'll be in serious trouble trying to win the division if we start out 0-2," Foreman said. "We lost to New Orleans because we weren't ready to play. If you aren't ready mentally, you put yourself in a category with every other average team in the NFL (National Football League)."

And the Broncos, who represented the American Football Conference in Super Bowl XII, are not an average

ALTHOUGH DENVER does not boast a powerful offense, the defense is magnificent. Against the Raiders last week, the Broncos managed only two touchdowns, but they were enough because the defense intercepted two Ken Stabler passes and allowed just two Errol Mann field

"We survive by playing great de-fense," said Denver Coach Red Miller. "We got into a pattern last year of being close to the vest on our side of the 50-yard line. Ultimately the defense is going to get the ball for us in the other team's territory and we'll

No one is more aware of this than Minnesota Coach Bud Grant, whose teams have not lost the first two regular-season games since 1967.

"Denver is a team that takes advantage of everything," he said.
"They lean heavily on their defense and get a lot of big plays."

Sam Houston scores upset

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were a lot of firsts in the Lone Star Conference Saturday night but none sweeter than Melvin Brown's debut as head football coach at Sam Houston State.

The Bearkats were a decided underdog to Southwestern Oklahoma, rated No. 4 by the NAIA.

However, quarterback Arthur Lewis nailed wide receiver Clay Lowry on two touchdown passes in the first half and SHS prevailed 12-0. It was SHS's first season-opening victory since 1971.

TEXAS A&I suffered its first home loss in 27 games by losing 6-2 to Livingston (Alabama) University.

A&I, the NAIA champion from 1974-76, last lost at home to Howard Payne in November of 1973.

In another first, Southwest Texas defeated arch-rival Texas Lutheran 14-0 ontouchdown runs of 11 and 22 yards by quarterback Greg Hamilton. It was SWT's first victory over TLC

IN OTHER games involving LSC teams, Nevada-Reno shut out Stephen F. Austin 32-0, East Texas State ripped Delta State (Miss) 17-6, Angelo State bombed Central Oklahoma 42-13, and Howard Payne downed East Central Oklahoma 21-9.

East Texas State rode the 138 yards rushing by Mike Richardson to vic-tory. Richardson also scored on a 21-yard run.

Quarterback Mark Embry passed for four touchdowns as pre-season LSC favorite Angelo State mauled Central Oklahoma.

Connors ends Borg's slam bid

NEW YORK (AP) - Bjorn Borg's Grand Slam dream and Pam Shriver's Cinderella story both ended as tennis' love match, former sweethearts and current "good friends" Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert, waltzed off with the big prizes at the U.S. Open.

Connors was at his fiery, fist-shaking, foot-stomping best Sunday in trouncing Borg, who was bothered by a blister on his right thumb, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 for the men's title.

Hours earlier, Evert sent the 16year-old Shriver back to school with a 7-5, 6-4 tennis lesson in the women's championship before a record crowd of 19,537, including 18,032 paid, and an international television audience.

"I CAME here to play tennis, to win the U.S. Open — and I did it," exhult-ed Connors, who achieved a measure of revenge for the 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 beating he suffered against Borg two months ago at Wimbledon.

It was Connors' third U.S. Open title. He won in 1974 and 1976 and was a beaten finalist in 1975 and 1977.

"I won the Open on grass, I won it on clay, I won it here (on a fast artificial surface, Deco-Turf II, at the new National Tennis Center)," said Connors. Now I've shown I can win on any surface. I'm riding on a cloud right now.'

Before the tournament, Connors had vowed to go "to the ends of the earth" to stop Borg's Grand Slam bid — the French, U.S. and Australian opens and Wimbledon, all in the same year. Borg already had won the French Open and Wimbledon, but instead of the ends of the earth, Connors was able to halt that streak in New

"It seems I play my best tennis when I come to New York," Connors told the crowd, which often has rooted against him in his matches here and which had mixed allegiances Sunday. Whether you like me or not, I like

BORG, MEANWHILE, couldn't give his best effort because of a painful blister on the thumb of his racquet hand. The injury occurred Saturday and was treated with ice packs, oral medication and spray antiseptic in the 24 hours before the match.

Twice the racquet flew from Borg's hand as he attempted to serve, and on other occasions he seemed to mis-hit the ball after apparently losing his grip. Although Borg insisted the blis-ter hadn't bothered him during the

"He was in pain. Anyone could see that. He couldn't hold the racquet." Whether a healthy Borg could have handled Connors, the way he was playing Sunday, is questionable.

"I hit the ball real solid and real deep throughout the match," said the 26-year-old Connors. "I was fired up when I was out there. I don't know if I've ever played a match where I started so well, so aggressively, and kept it up throughout."

ONE REASON Connors was so fired up was a videotape he had seen of a couple games from his Wimbledon match against Borg.

"It made me sick," said Connors.
"I said to myself, 'This is ridiculous how can I let myself be so tentative?' I knew I had to be more aggres-

And he played very aggressively. He charged the net with assurance, served well and returned Borg's serve superbly, often sending the ball back faster than it came. Connors broke service in the fifth game and held the rest of the way in taking the first set, then broke again in the third game of the second set. After that, it was all Connors as he dealt Borg his first defeat in 50 matches, not counting a pair of defaults due to injury.

"I never let up," Connors said. "I got on top of him and I stayed

Connors compared the match to his first Open title, when he whipped Ken Rosewall 6-1, 6-0, 6-1. "I played then like I played today," he said, "like a crazy man."

BORG, meanwhile, took the loss in stride.

"For sure I'm disappointed," he said of losing his bid to join Don Budge and Rod Laver as Grand Slam champions. "I was very close. I won two and was in the finals here. But there's always next time.'

There should be plenty of next times for Shriver, the lean 6-footer who lent a breath of fresh air to this tournament with her on-court play and off-court charm. The youngest Open finalist ever, she was to begin 11th grade classes at McDonough High School in Lutherville, Md.

"My only worry was that I'd get blown off the court," said the young-ster who had beaten top-seeded Mar-tina Navratilova in the semifinals. "But I didn't. I played pretty well. I'm happy with my game."

Campbell saves Houston's soup

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When the time came to win, the Houston Oilers went to work like loan sharks foreclosing on a widow.

All the papers are in order, gentlemen, let's wrap this deal up. Sixtyfive yards the Oilers needed and 65 they got. The emotionally charged Kansas City Chiefs, gunning for a second straight upset victory that would have put their season in orbit, saw them coming but seemed powerless to stop them.

Earl Campbell carried four straight times for 39 yards and delivered them to the Chiefs' 26. Rob Carpenter took his turn and toted three times for 23 yards to the three. Let Tim Wilson make a yard

Then with 1:53 remaining Campbell hurdled a stack of desperate defenders at the goalline for his second touchdown of the fourth period and the Oilers went home with a 20-17

"I KNEW we were going to score all the way," said Quarterback Dan Pas-torini. "You get that feeling some-

Said Campbell, "I was only thinking about doing my job. That's the way they teach you, if you do your job the other people will do theirs.

"This was a real test of our charac-ter as football players and a football team," said Bum Phillips, Houston's folksy head coach. The Chiefs, with their wing-T offense clicking for 261 yards on the ground, outplayed the favored Oilers most of the first half and the third period. They mounted a 17-6 lead when Tony Reed spurted 19 yards for a touchdown on a double reverse in the third quarter.

Then Bill Currier's interception of a Mike Livingston pass put the Oilers in business on their own 43 and with 37 seconds elapsed in the final period Campbell plunged one yard to paydirt to draw the Oilers to within a touch-

CAMPBELL, LAST year's Heisman Trophy winner and this year's No. 1 selection in the college draft, collected 111 yards, the second time he's cracked the century mark in as many professional starts. But he lost game honors to Reed, Kansas City's second-year pro out of Colorado who enjoyed his greatest day as a profes-sional with 141 yards, including 106 in the first half.

"Coming in here at halftime I felt so said the downcast Reed. "But now I can't go home and feel good about today. I can't feel elated. Sure, I had a good day, but...

Phillips was gracious in victory, heaping praise on Marv Levy, the Chiefs' first-year head coach, for the job he's done with a team that went 2-12 a year ago.

"Kansas City is a good football team...not an average football team but a good football team," he said. They had a good offensive scheme and they blocked well. They are well coached. I mean well coached. I didn't expect them to execute as well against us as they did."

Oakland Raiders pull rabbit from hat to nip Chargers

By The Associated Press

Yes, said Ken Stabler, I really did fumble on purpose. Yes, said Dave Casper, I really did help the ball along. No, said Jerry Markbriet, there was nothing wrong with any of that. The Oakland Raiders, a National Football League power for many years, appeared doomed to their sec-ond straight loss of the season Sun-

But with 10 seconds to play and the Raiders 14 yards from the San Diego goal line, Stabler intentionally fum-bled and Casper fell on the ball in the end zone for a touchdown. Errol Mann kicked the extra point with no time remaining and Oakland had a 21-20

The Colts have not been playing the best brand of football this year. They've been shut out twice and have allowed 80 points — tops in the NFL. After their 38-0 loss at Dallas last Monday night, the Colts came home Sunday and were blitzed 42-0 by the Miami Dolphins.

Raiders 21, Chargers 20 "Somebody (defensive end Fred Dean) grabbed me and I was trying to throw the ball about the time I got hit. I fumbled it on purpose. Yes, I was trying to fumble," Stabler said after his quick thinking enabled the Raiders to defeat San Diego.

Casper was equally candid when asked about his part in the play. "I got lucky," he said. "Sure, I helped the ball along into the end zone. I saw the fumble come out of the pile."

Markbriet said Chargers Coach Tommy Prothro protested that the fumble had been thrown forward and batted illegally by Casper. "I ruled it a fumble," said Markbriet.

Earlier in the final period Stabler teamed up with Morris Bradshaw on a 44-yard touchdown play that started Oakland back from a 20-7 deficit. The Chargers built the lead on Hank Bauer's two short scoring runs and Dan Fouts' 14-yard TD pass to Pat

He recovered the ball but lost 6 yards on the play and the 49ers, leading by four points in the fourth quarter, had to go to the air to try and maintain possession. Doug Buffone then intercepted and Chicago wound up with the winning touchdown.

Richard Todd passed for three touchdowns, two of them to Jerome Barkum. The second of those, a 3yarder with 50 seconds to play, enabled the Jets to beat the Bills.

More accurately it was Pat Leahy's extra point that did Buffalo in. The Bills also scored three TDs, two on Joe Ferguson passes, but on one of them, placekicker Tom Dempsey missed the conversion.

As far as Joe Theismann was concerned, the biggest man in the Washington offense was Joe Walton, the Redskins' new offensive coordinator.

"Walton has a tremendous offensive mind and he's given this team a confidence we've never had before," said Theismann, whose three TD passes and one TD run were instrumental in defeating Philadelphia.

Patriots 16, Cardinals 6

Steve Grogan passed for one TD and ran for one in New England's victory over winless St. Louis. "If we had anything we did particularly well, we'd work on that," said Bud Wilkinson, the Cardinals' disheartened coach. "But there is just not that much that went well."

Robinson, Paterno are not pleased

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

If the start of the season is any indication, hold off a while before including Penn State and Southern California among the contenders for college football's national championship.

That's the word from Joe Paterno and John Robinson, who were far from pleased even though both nationally ranked teams were winners on the season's first large-scale week-

And then, of course, there was Notre Dame, which began defense of last year's national championship and may have ended it, too - by losing to Missouri's upset kings 3-0.

"I never saw a Penn State team with so little effort," said Paterno, whose third-ranked Nittany Lions struggled past Rutgers 26-10 after edging Temple 10-7 a week earlier. "I don't know if we expect people to fall down, or what. We're just not a very good team yet."

ROBINSON FELT the same way about his ninth-ranked Trojans. "This game makes us realize we have a long road ahead to be an outstanding football team," he said following a come-from-behind 17-9 triumph over unheralded Texas Tech despite losing five of nine fumbles. We were a little unsettled in the first half but we just continued with our plan over the whole game. It was our intention to be conservative and not to open our season with all our weap-

Fourth-ranked Oklahoma, traditionally among the nation's more adept fumblers, fumbled eight times and lost four of them but managed to outlast Stanford 35-29 as Thomas Lott scored on runs of 19 yards and 1 yard and connected for TD passes of 70 yards with Steve Rhodes and 17 to Bobby Kimball.

NOTRE DAME also was mistakeprone, fumbling the ball away three times, suffering two interceptions and wasting several scoring chances. The costliest bobble came when holder Joe Restic bobbled a snap after Notre Dame reached the Missouri 14-yard line in the final period and the Tigers followed with a drive that culminated in Jeff Brockhaus' 33-yard field goal. Since the Irish lost to Mississippi in their second game a year ago, then surged from fifth place in the final regular-season poll to the national title, it wasn't all gloom and doom in South Bend.

"I have to be critical of myself for not realizing field goals win games,' Devine added. "The idea is to win, and we were in range several times." The fumbled snap, however, came on ND's only field goal attempt.

It was a brilliant debut for Warren Powers, Missouri's new coach, who led Washington State to a 19-10 upset over Nebraska in last year's opener.

"When you play Missouri you'd better be ready to play," he warned future opponents, the next of which is top-ranked Alabama.

'BAMA AND runner-up Arkansas were idle over the weekend, along with Michigan, Ohio State and Texas, the 6-7-8 teams in The Associated Press preseason poll.

UCLA edged No.11 Washington 10-7, No.16 Texas A&M trimmed Kansas 37-10, No.17 Florida State whipped Syracuse 28-0 and No.20 Iowa State overcame Rice 23-19.

Paterno was unhappy with Penn State despite Matt Bahr's four field goals and Chuck Fusina's school record 27th career scoring pass, a 53yarder to Scott Fitzkee. The coach had a message for Ohio State's Woody Hayes, the Nittany Lions' next oppo-"Tell him not to worry," Paterno

"I felt Stanford would throw about 50 passes, but I didn't expect them to complete 32," said Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer. Southern Cal erased a 9-0 halftime

"Our plan was to wear them down physically and we felt we'd do better n the second half," said White, who rushed 30 times for 156 yards. He was ably supported by quarterback Paul McDonald, a first-time starter, who completed 12 of 18 passes for 193

Yanks complete Boston massacre

Who's afraid of the big, bad "Green Monster"? AL boxes Certainly not the New York Yankees.

With fabled Fenway Park and its legendary left field wall — the Green Monster — as the backdrop, the Yankees swept through a four-game series with alarming ease, capping its own Boston Massacre with a 7-4 beating of the Red Sox Sunday.

That pulled the red-hot New Yorkers even with the Red Sox in the American League East, a situation hardly imagined when the Yankees started the important series last Thursday night four games

"The whole country must be shocked at what we've done," said reliever Rich Gossage, one of Sunday's heroes for New York.

WELL, AT least the Red Sox are shocked. "New York's got the advantage, I'd say," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer. "I don't know what the hell is happening to us. They hit everyone I put

"It's been a total team slump for two weeks. Too many strange things are happening. But there ain't no one around here who's going to quit." It wasn't only the four-game sweep, but the humiliating way the Yankees did it in Boston's backyard. They pounded 14 pitchers for 42 runs and 67 hits in

"It's back to opening day," said New York outfielder Paul Blair.

Each team has 20 games left in the fight for the division championship, with Milwaukee and Baltimore hovering close behind.

MEANWHILE, THE California Angels also made things interesting in the AL West, beating Kansas City 13-3 and moving within a half-game of the Royals, the division leaders.

at the final gun to congratulate Alborn and his scrappy Owl out-

"He came up to me right after the game was over and said he and his his teammates were thoroughly impressed with our kids," said Alborn. "He said they frankly had heard we weren't very good and they thought we would be easy."

"They (the Owls) are vastly underrated," said Green. "They gang tackle."

Three field goals by Blade Adams gave Tech its early lead but the vaunted USC offense and tailback Charles White finally got untracked.

"You've got to give USC credit for coming back," said Dockery. "In the second half they made the proper adjustments and our defense made some mistakes.

Sophomore quarterback Mike Ford passed for two touchdowns and 280 yards as SMU ripped the Horned Frogs although he had a sore arm earlier in the week.

"Mike had a sore arm from a dove hunt last Sunday," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer. "I was worried to death. Here we had our conference opener and I've got a quarterback with a sore shoulder from firing 50 shots on a dove hunt.

"I MEAN I was worried. We had four offensive starters injured and then Mike comes along on Monday with his problem. Thank goodness by Thursday he could throw again. He missed some work and that always makes coaches nervous.'

TCU's defense wasn't as improved as some experts thought it would be with the addition of three junior college transfers.

"I thought our defense would be more solid, especially in the big play department," said TCU Coach F.A. Dry. "I thought this was a speedy secondary but SMU just ran by us and we made some wrong decisions on our pass coverages...

The Aggies, known as a ground-oriented club, exploded for 122 yards and two touchdowns passing behind quarterback Mike Mosely.

In intersectional games this week, Baylor is at Georgia on regional television, SMU is at Florida, Houston is at Memphis kansas in intersectional games.

Texas opens defense of its SWC title by traveling to Houston to meet the Owls.

That same team bowled 12 series of greater that 3,500 during the 1957-58 season, also a record.

On March 12, 1958, the greatest team demonstration in history occured, as the Budweisers rolled to a 3,858 series that included a multitude of records including 138 strikes, a record that tied the Herman Undertakers team mark set in 1937 when the Undertakers piled up a 3,797 total.

In that series the following records were set: Most number of pins by two teams in a three game series (7,352 - the opposing team, Pulaski of St. Louis, did some excellent bowling in their own right to the tune of 3,494); Most number of pins by two teams in one game (2,552 - Budweisers 1,293, Pulaski 1,259); and Pat Anderson, one of the stars of the team, earned the distinction of being the "highest low man in the team series with a three game set of 736.

Brookshier guessed a face mask violation, but second-guessed the replay, "I don't believe he got the face mask.'

Sonny patiently advised, "It was that arm he used to club the quarterback. You can't use the arm like that above the shoulder pads on the quarterback."

A PLAY later, Harvey was asked to retire for the day after his response to a quadruple team block by the exasperated Giants. The Cowboys defense wasn't the same without him. Harvey has claimed that playing alongside Randy "Manster" White has made him. "They can't afford to concentrate on me anymore. Randy's so strong, it opens things up for

It works both ways. Without Harvey, White at times seemed like a lost, befuddled soul. Like Harvey, he didn't enjoy the same freedom without his partner in assualt and battery on quarterbacks.

Dallas even tried to make up for Martin's loss on one play, but even 12 men on the field, they couldn't block a Giants' field goal..

It may not hold up, after all they are the remanents of the notorious Over-the-Hill Gang, but with a 2-0 record on victories over New England and Philadelphia, new coach Jack Pardee must have Washington Redskins' fans wondering if George Allen was all that much of a motivating magician.

And at Houston, Earl Campbell, the Heisman Trophy winner from Texas, is off to an even more impressive first-season start than Dallas' Tony Dorsett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Pittsburgh in 1976, got last

Of course, there was no Preston Pearson in front of Earl and the Oilers couldn't afford the luxury of waiting until the 10th game to start their prize prospect.

Texas Electric engineer Damon Holditch: "We burn 55 pounds of lignite to generate the electricity to run a three-ton air conditioner for a day.

"Last year, using lignite coal saved Texas Electric's customers $48 million. It's a step in the right direction."

"Prior to 1972, Texas Electric made all your electricity by burning natural gas and oil. By last year, lignite coal had replaced gas as boiler fuel for about a third of this. In dollars and cents, here's what that meant to you, our customers:

The cost of lignite burned in 1977 was about $20.5 million. Had that same amount of electricity been generated using natural gas at then-current market prices, it would have cost $107.7 million. That's $87.2 million more than the lignite cost!

Even after deducting the annual cost of the new lignite plants, Texas Electric saved its customers $48.4 million last year because of the switch to lignite.

And that's just the beginning. As gas prices continue to rise, Texas Electric plans to become less and less dependent on this increasingly scarce fuel. By 1983, lignite coal and nuclear-fueled plants are scheduled to provide more than half of our customers' electricity.

It gets harder all the time to provide dependable, economical electric- Electric ity. But this has always been Texas Electric's goal. And it always will be."

Conglomerates show signs of regaining some of old allure

By CHET CURRIER AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Though their collective image took a severe beating a few years back, the diversified companies known as conglomerates have hung on to a prominent place in American industry.

At the moment, few observers foresee a return to Wall Street's conglomerate craze of the 1960s, when a good many companies went on acqu sprees merely for the sake of making

La the siege of recessions and bear markets that followed, a lot of the shaky empires that were built up in those years collapsed or had to be at least partly dismantled.

But recently conglomerate stocks have shown signs of regaining some of their former allure for investors on Conglomerates' continuing impor-tance to the economy is evidenced by the brand names that still represent m — Canada Dry soft drinks (Norton Simon Inc.), Fruit-of-the-Loom garments (Northwest Industries), Kent cigarettes (Loews Corp.), Gibson musical instruments (Norlin Corp.) and Paramount Pictures (Gulf & Western Industries), to name a few of the most familiar.

Actually, there is no "conglomerate lustry." Business and securities analysts tend to group the companies together simply because they are too diversified to fit into any of the tradinal industry categories.

"We use the term 'conglomerate' to describe those multi-industry com-panies commonly included in that grouping even though a 1960s defini-tion of the term no longer is applicable," the brokerage firm of E.F. Hutton & Co. said in a recent report.

"The quality of companies, growth prospects and market appeal among conglomerates range from very high to very low. Among the conglomerates formed in the 1960s that have survived, Williams noted that some are still struggling, but that others have grown into 'solid organizations." He also expressed the view that "diversification is a valid approach to corporate expansion and improved earnings stability."

The conglomerates' return to respectable status has been accompanied, as one might expect, by an improved showing in the prices of their stocks, many of which nosedived between 1968 and 1974. In the 90 days ended Sept. 1, the Value Line Investment Survey reported, the average conglomerate stock price rose 11.5 percent, outpacing the 8.5 percent gain recorded by the Dow Jones industrial average.

Williams said some of this might simply reflect "bargain hunting in a good market." But he also suggested that it might stem from a new ap-praisal of the stocks by some investors who no longer regard "conglom-erate" as an off-color word.

House group studying '4th shot' possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Assassinations Committee is studying the results of acoustics tests designed to show whether three gunshots or four were fired at President John F. Kennedy when he was slain.

The tests could provide an answer to one of the most important questions lingering from the assassination in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

To make that determination, the committee hired the acoustics firm of Bolt, Beranek and Newman of Cambridge, Mass. They were to present their findings in public testimony today as the committee began its second week of hearings on the Kennedy assassination.

The Warren Commission concluded from its investigation that three shots were fired. That determination was based largely on the fact that three cartridge cases were found on the floor beneath the sixth floor window of the Texas School Book Depository,

But conspiracy theorists claim four shots were fired, suggesting the presence of two gunmen. The Warren Commission said Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone assassin.

The House comittee retained the Cambridge firm to find out whether there could have been a fourth shot. It is the same firm which analyzed the 181/2 minute gap in one of the White House tapes during the Watergate investigation and reported the tape was deliberately erased. The work on the Kennedy case involved a tape recording made during the assassination when a motorcyle police officer's microphone accidently stuck in the "open" position. Some students of the case say the tape contains the sound of a fourth shot.

To find out, the analysts conducted gunshot tests last month in Dallas' Dealey Plaza, where the assassina-tion occurred. More than 50 microphones were placed around the plaza to record sound as shots were fired and bullets slammed into sandbags.

More than 40 shots were fired, some from the depository and some from the grassy knoll where some theorists Company officials have said the analysis involved comparing the police tape with tapes of the test-firing

Bureaucratic bickering slowing probe of GSA

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rival government investigators probing the General Services Administration are being pressured by a prominent senator to bury the hatchet and get on with uncovering what has been termed the largest money scandal in federal government history.

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., has undertaken the peacemaking effort after becoming upset at what he calls the "internecine warfare between bureaucracies."

Chiles had a meeting scheduled today with Assistant Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti and GSA Special Counsel Vincent Alto.

"As public interest in the GSA scandals rises, the race for glory becomes more intense," Chiles said in announcing the meeting last week. "Unfortunately, this race is working to the detriment of the investigation

Chiles, who heads the main congressional probe into the GSA scandals, also planned to meet with Attorney General Griffin Bell about the

The antagonisms, which have sparked investigators to trade accusations of incompetence, are rooted in the often parallel nature of the GSA and Justice Department probes.

Both probes are searching for corrupt employees and contractors. Officials say the various theft and fraud schemes involve as much as $66 million annually

Alto's task force has the job of rooting out corruption and suggesting changes to prevent reoccurence while the FBI and U.S. Attorneys offices concentrate on prosecuting criminal

The cooperation among the agencies has varied widely.

Sources say that a Baltimore probe involving GSA self-service stores and government credit card fraud is a good example of smooth cooperation. GSA investigators, say the sources who asked not to be identified, are working as a team with FBI agents and U.S. prosecutors.

The FBI Washington field office, however, has been mentioned often as a source of little cooperation.

For example, one non-GSA source said GSA investigators are frustrated because they have seen little FBI

"They gave them nearly 40 complete cases months ago," said the source who asked anonymity. "Now depending on who you talk to, six or a dozen of the cases are ready according to the Justice Department peo-

But Justice Department investigators have, in turn, been frustrated by what they see as GSA trying to take all the credit.

A brief glimpse into the current set of antagonisms was seen Friday when GSA Administrator Jay Solomon and Bell disagreed about what role Charles Kirbo, President Carter's close friend and unofficial adviser, would play in monitoring the probes.

Solomon said he thought Kirbo could help both the GSA and Justice. But he backtracked after Bell fired off a tough statement denying that Kirbo would be involved in any invest tigation by Justice.

Health investigators pondering new findings

NEW YORK (AP) - Federal and city health officials, studying an outbreak of Legionnaires disease which has killed two persons here are trying to figure out why some local residents have a larger-than-expected number of antibodies to protect them against

Dr. William Foege, director of the National Center for Disease Control, says blood tests of victims and some "control" subjects who didn't have the disease have indicated that both groups have antibodies against Legionnaires disease at levels "higher than we would expect.'

'There's undoubtedly some sporadic disease transmission going on. We don't know at this time how important this outbreak is," Foege says.

By Sunday, six cases, including the two deaths, had been confirmed as caused by Legionnaires disease, the bacterial malady that killed 29 people and sickened more than 150 after an American Legion convention in Philadelphia in 1976.

The list of possible victims had risen to 97, jumping by 25 cases in a

Norwalk, Conn., teachers voted Sunday night to accept a new contract and return to work today, ending a four-day strike against the 14,000 pupil system. Details of the pact were not announced. Teachers salaries ranged from $9,700 to slightly more than $20,000 under the previous contract, and the system had offered annual raises of about 7 percent for each of three years.

In Collinsville, Ill., teachers voted 289-14 Sunday to ratify a two-year contract that gives raises of about $1,700 in the next two years, ending a strike against the 7,200 student school district that began Aug. 27. By next year, teacher salaries will range from $10,100 to $20,200. The 14,500 student Fall River, Mass., system was struck for the first time in the city's history today. Teachers, who make top pay of $15,-476, asked for raises of 6 percent to 8 percent this year, while the district offered a three-year contract with two options of raises - 2.5 percent, 6 percent and 7 percent, or no raise the first year and increases of 7 percent and 8 percent.

tiations broke down with the 500 teachers over guidelines for reducing the workforce.

Cleveland schools were closed for a second day because of a strike by 10,000 school system employees, including 5,000 teachers, who have not had raises in two years. Teachers, who make from $9,100 to $18,650, are seeking 20 percent raises. The school system, which had to borrow money last year to meet its payroll, has 100,000 pupils.

In New Orleans, school officials announced early today that a tentative contract agreement had been reached with teachers, who struck the 91,000 pupil system Aug. 30. The teachers and city officials had been talking throughout the weekend. Details of the tentative agreement weren't announced. Teachers, whose salaries range from $10,096 to $15,000, originally asked for 8 percent raises. The system offered 4 percent boosts. Officials said New Orleans schools would remain closed today.

The nine city colleges in Chicago remained closed by a teacher strike that began Aug. 18. The 1,450 teachers want improved working hours before they will return to the 112,000 student

About 500 custodians and gardeners, 350 food service employees and 21 security guards reached a tentative settlement Sunday with the 55,000 pupil Seattle School District. A rankand-file vote was scheduled for today. But teachers still were on strike.

Nearly 38,000 public school pupils remained out of school in Dayton, Ohio, as the board of education awaited a judge's decision on a request for a back-to-work-order for the 2,200 teachers who struck Wednesday.

In Bridgeport, Connecticut's lar-gest city, teachers who went out Wednesday remained on strike. Bridgeport has 22,500 pupils.

In Cranston, R.I., 12,500 students remained out of school for a fourth day. Teachers were meeting to decide what to do after Sunday's Rhode Island Supreme Court decision to let a lower court's back-to-work order

FBI agent who monitored Oswald would like to drop a few 'bombs'

DALLAS (AP) - FBI agent James P. Hosty Jr., who monitored Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas before the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, says the House Assassinations Committee is trying to get out of calling him as a witness.

And Hosty, whose checkered FBI career finds him now in Kansas City, says he has some explosive, new revelations for the investigative panel. He won't say what they are, yet, howev-

In a copyright story in the Sunday editions of The Dallas Morning News, Hosty said the "bombs" he could drop on the committee's public hearings this month are unrelated to a threatening note Oswald delivered to the Dallas FBI in early November 1963 or to recurring rumors that Oswald was an FBI informant.

The Warren Commission identified Oswald as Kennedy's lone assassain on Nov. 23, 1963, in Dallas.

Hosty, now an agent in Kansas City, said he is skeptical of the House committee's dedication to finding the truth about the assassination.

"If they are going to try and contain this (assassination probe) like the Church (Senate Intelligence) committee and the Warren Commission, they don't want me up there," Hosty

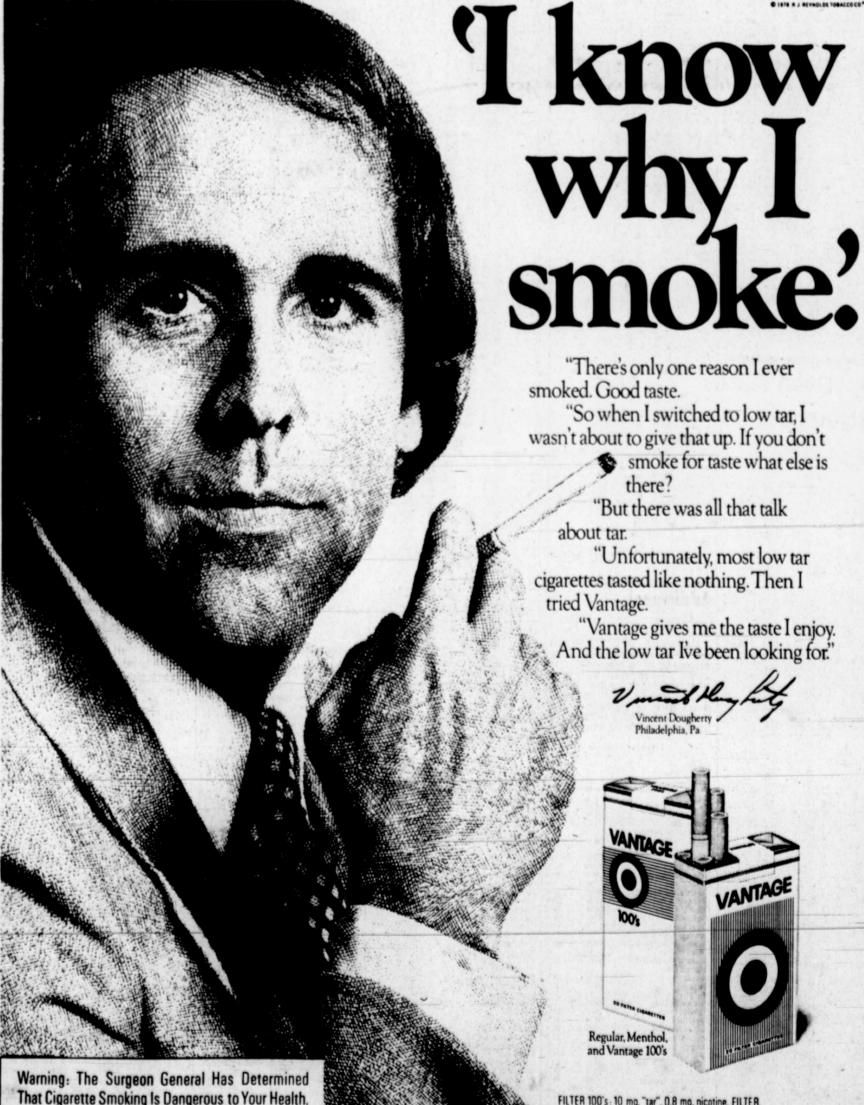

He said committee investigators gave him the impression last month they were "all done with the investigation and they were writing the report (due in December) - that they were not opening any new grounds any more. They almost didn't call me. I had to ask why I wasn't called (to testify in private) before they would Hosty gave a deposition Aug. 25, but is not scheduled to testify publicly at the Sept. 20 hearing on the FBI and Department of Justice.

Hosty has drawn the FBI's displeasure several times for his comments regarding Oswald and his part in the assassination.

The agent was in Dallas before and during the Nov. 22, 1963, assassina-tion. Only hours after the assassination, Dallas police detective Jack Revill sent a memo to Police Chief Jesse Curry quoting Hosyas telling Revill the FBI knew Oswald was "ca-picked up the story. In 1975, it was revealed that Oswald left a threatening note at the Dallas FBI office about two weeks before the assissination. The note, Hosty said, warned Oswald "would take action againse FBI ... if I did not stop talking to his wife

Canadians seeking to up exports

OTTAWA, Canada—Oil companies recently urged the government to allow greater natural gas exports to the United States to reduce a gas surplus in western provinces.

In briefs filed with the National Energy Board, the companies said exploration and development will lag without increased sales. The papers were filed for board hearings beginning Oct. 11 that will determine whether exports to the United States should be increased.

The current Canadian policy is to allow exports only on a swap basisshipping Canadian gas now in return for promises of Alaskan gas expected to be available in the 1980s.

Gulf Canada Ltd., one of Canada's largest firms, and Imperial Oid Ltd. said the surplus is about 1 billion cubic feet of gas a day. The companies claim gas from producing areas in Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia should meet domestic needs until the mid-Hudson Bay Oil and Gas Ltd. told the board that even if all excess gas is exported, supplies from the western provinces will meet domestic needs until 1997 "The time at which Canada will become dependent on supply from the frontier is essentially the same regardless of the export policies adopted for the intervening period," Hudson said.

By the mid-1990s, supplies from frontier areas in the north will be said new markets will be needed to ensure developpment of natural gas reserves in the Arctic

Imperial said saving the surplus for future Canadian needs would delay by only a year the time when frontier gas will be needed.

But the Inuit Tapirisat, representing northern Eskimos said more exports will only hasten the time when an Arctic pipeline will be needed. The pipeline would cross lands claimed by the Eskimos.

Shell book published

HOUSTON-Conservation may not stop the United States from running out of oil and natural gas, but it will long remain the cheapest, cleanest "energy source" there is.

That is just one of the many points covered by a new Shell Oil Co. booklet, which also contains 41 ways to help save energy in the home, on the road and at work.

"The Energy Book: Where Will We Get the Fuels for Our Future?" does much more than encourage conservation, however. It examines the tradional and alternative energy sources, citing the advantages and disadvantages of each. It also explains misconceptions about petroleum reserves and imports.

The author is Sheldon Lambert, manager of Shell's Energy Economics Department.

While the OPEC nations have large deposits of oil, the booklet says, world production is expected to peak before the year 2000. Consequently, U.S. dependence on foreign oil supplies must be reduced, for this dependence makes the United States vulnerable to supply cutoffs and sudden price in-

U.S. domestic petroleum supplies that can be economically recovered are rapidly being depleted, the booklet says. Since a significant portion of the oil and gas remaining is expected to be found in areas of the Outer Continental Shelf, and since the federal government has leased only a small percentage of these areas, dependence upon foreign oil is increas-

There are several alternatives to oil and gas, and conservation can help to provide the much needed time to develop them. All of these alternatives, however, have development and production problems which prevent rapid utilization of these potential new sources, the booklet says. Two of these sources—coal and nuclear-have much potential within the near future. Coal's contribution to solving the energy problems will be limited because of production, transportation, storage and use problems, the booklet points out. "But coal can be used much more than it is now," it explains:

reaction, which is partly recycled. It results in an oil product which is essentially free of solid contaminants and is low in sulfur, Nussbaum said. The process can make three to four barrels of oil from a ton of coal at a cost of about $80, Nussbaum said.

Although four barrels of imported crude oil currently cost about $50, Nussbaum said, the price of crude is expected to increase faster than that of coal, making the process more economical in the future.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A New York oil company and three brothers who run the firm have been accused of planning an oil-pricing scheme that officials say may have cost consum-ers millions of dollars in over-

The Justice Department filed a civil suit in federal court in Brooklyn, N.Y., Friday seeking restitution from the Howard Oil Co., two affiliated firms and Howard Ross and his two brothers, H. Peter and Theodore.

The civil suit charged the Rosses with a so-called "daisy chain" scheme which used intermediary companies to raise the price of home heating oil and other petroleum prod-

In addition to seeking restitution, the government is also asking for fines of $1,500 for each violation.

The government said among the victims of the alleged overpricing were customers of Orange & Rockland Utilities, a electric power company in New York state.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two congressmen say they want the Federal Trade Commission to investigate whether increasing control by the oil companies over the production of copper will inhibit the growth of solar energy in the United States.

Copper is a major component of collectors used in solar heating and cooling systems.

Reps. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., and Robert Drinan, D-Mass., asked FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk Friday to look into the possiblity that oil companies might "inhibit the marketing of solar heating and cooling systems in violation of federal antitrust statutes ....

The letter expressed fears that "control over copper production may enable action to inhibit the commercialization of of solar heating and The House members cited studies showing that oil companies control between 35 percent and 40 percent of domestic copper production.

The Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — A planned pipeline to transport much-needed natural gas from Alaska's Prudhoe Bay to California and other states will be seriously jeopardized if the natural gas bill is defeated in Congress, knowledgeable government and business executives say.

Senate debate on the natural gas pricing compromise, which was worked out after almost a year of tortuous negotiations between Senate and House conferees, begins Monday. Decisive Senate votes are expected within a few days.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., and Senate Energy Committee Chairman, Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said in separate television interviews Sunday that the bill does not yet have the votes for Senate passage, but they said they are optimistic.

"We're going to win it by a narrow, shall we say a razor-thin, margin,' Jackson predicted.

The importance of the bill's passage to the proposed 4,800-mile pipeline has been submerged in debate over the merits of the bill, which would phase in deregulation of the price of newly produced natural gas by 1985.

Supporters of the administration-backed bill have recently begun to emphasize that its passage is essential to building the pipeline, which will carry gas from Alaska across Canada to the Pacific Coast and to the Mid-

"If the Senate doesn't pass the bill, the pipeline is killed," Jackson said in a recent interview. "The builders won't be able to finance it." Administration officials, including

Platform fire blazing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A fire burned out of control Sunday on a natural gas production platform in the Gulf of Mexico about 50 miles from the Louisiana coast, the U.S. Geological Survey said. The fire started at 4:20 a.m. Saturday, about four hours after a well blew out. No injuries were reported. The platform, operated by Tenneco Oil Co., is located about 50 miles south of the western Louisiana coast. The Geological Survey said all personnel aboard the platform were evacutated

The blowout occured as drill pipe was being removed from a depth of 4,190 feet. Attempts to stop the blowout with emergency equipment were unsuccessful. There was no significant pollution reported, the Geological Survey Officials said a backup rig would be brought in to start drilling a relief well, while spray barges attempted to contain the fire.

Personnel from Tenneco and from the Geological Survey were on a nearby barge, monitoring the emergency

Last-minute battling under way for votes

WASHINGTON (AP) - A natural gas pricing compromise, object of the heaviest administration lobbying effort since the Panama Canal treaties earlier this year, is heading for Senate debate without a clearcut majority on either side.

Both adminstration lobbyists and opponents - an unusual coalition of liberals and conservatives - were making last-minute bids to sway uncommitted members as the Senate prepared to take up the measure today after months of delay. The Congressional Budget Office estimates the gas compromise would cost consumers some $16 billion through 1985 in higher gas bills.

By contrast, opponents claim it would add a total of $29 billion to $41 billion to gas bills through 1985 while the administration says it doubts the cost would exceed $5 billion.

The legislation would lift federal price controls from newly discovered gas by 1985 and permit a steady rise in the regulated price between now and then. Supporters say this would provide gas producers with the financial incentive to find new supplies of the scarce, clean-burning fuel.

The White House sees the compre mise as a vital - if heavily modified - part of the energy plan the presi-dent submitted back in April 1977 as "the moral equivalent of war." Administration officials claim it will help reduce U.S. imports of oil and liquefied gas, thus restoring U.S. prestige abroad and helping stabilize

Neither side can yet claim a majori-ty of votes although each camp is predicting it will prevail when the first roll call is taken. An Associated Press survey last week showed 28 senators still undecided with 34 senators favoring or inclined to support the compromise and 38 against it or leaning that

In other action this week, Congress will decide how big a reduction in income taxes it wants to vote this year for individuals and businesses. Budget negotiators will choose between holding the tax cut to the $16.3 billion favored by the House and the $19.4 billion recommended by the Senate. Actual details of the tax cut will be worked out later.

planning the pipeline, said that pas-sage of the gas bill is "very key to the pipeline project in maintaining its time schedule," and that current plans were to build the western leg early, thus allowing Canadian gas from Alberta to flow to the West in 1980, before the northern pipeline section to Alaska goes into operation.

Passage of the gas bill would give investors the kind of pricing information they need to have the confidence to invest in the $10 billion project, businessmen say. Failure to pass the bill, they say, could mean years of delay in getting the pipeline started. "Each year of delay means an ad-ditional cost of $1 billion," said Darrell MacKay, vice president of the Northwest Alaskan Pipeline Co., which is leading the pipeline effort. "At some point, a long enough delay could foreclose building the pipe-

MacKay said there are two major provisions of the bill that would facili-tate building the pipeline. First, the bill sets the maximum price of Prudhoe Bay gas at $1.45 per 1,000 cubic feet, adjustable for inflation. He said Alaskan gas producers will not sign contracts to sell gas until they know the price.

Baggage labels one remembers

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

DUBLIN, Eire (AP) - For some years now in lieu of nicking lobby ashtrays, which in some emerging and quite a few declining nations is deemed a felony, this itinerant Toscanini of the typewriter has been collecting hotel labels as a souvenir of his to-ing and fro-ing on the face of the

These rapidly vanishing status symbols of the inkeeper's trade are the colorful gummed stickers that bell captains and hall porters in the posher hostels freely affix to one's impedimenta to gain some free publicity for the premises and provide another reason for giving them a

The paste-on ad gimmicks impart to both the house and its departing guest a glossy aura of prestige. They also serve to cover up the scuffs and rips in one's luggage and even keep the old carpetbag in one piece against the onslaughts of morose airport baggage handlers and violence-prone ste-

Forty or 50 overlapping labels gaily trumpeting the traveler's preregrinations from "The Ritz" in Lisbon to the "Crillon" in Paris to the "Savoy" in London to the "Shah Abbas" in Isfa-han and "The Regent" in Fiji might not save a calfskin three suiter from being cleft in twain by a forklift truck at Orly Field or from being agandoned on a dolly in the monsoon rains of Panang.

They might, perchance, keep the outer skin attached to the frame long enough for Uncle Sam's customs men to have a go at it, with their singular skill and leaving everything hanging out at the hinges, before a New York taxi driver applies the coup de mort by slamming down his trunk lid.

A global spread of fading hotel labels on a wellworn Galdstone bag gives fair warning to porters and bellhops everywhere on the spreading palms circuit that here is an experienced traveler not prone to giving lavish rewards for surly service. Ice cubes, quick, my good fellow.

The desk clerk knows straight away not to settle this lodger next to the elevator shafts, directly below the disco bandstand or across from the church steeple that bongs the quarter hours all through the night, unless he wants to hear language that will wilt his carnation and blow the com-

In addition, when there's no place to go and no readies to get there with, the grounded globe trotter can always sit on the cellar stairs dreaming of the far away places, the bygone vacations and long-spent expense accounts spelled out in living color on a dusty portmanteau or busted carry-all.

The other night I sat on the cellar stairs in the silent company of an old bag, the constant companion of many years and miles. Just below the handle in bright green and yellow loomed the Montreux Palace Hotel against a backdrop of purple Alps and, in the foreground, a large swan on Lake Geneva. Memories rose with the dust of my interview with Vladimir Nakokov, his last. He spoke of winter coming on.

Two Belfast labels speak to me again of Ulster's lingering tragedy and dogged courage that permits laughter after tears. The Grand Central Hotel, a press favorite, never was reopened after a bomb destroyed the kitchen and now serves as a British army barracks. "To this day," jested the breadman, "they don't know whether that bomb was placed by the IRA or an irate gourmet." The tat-tered symbol of the British-owned Europa Hotel, bombed more than 30 times, calls to mind the green tie ornamented with flaming red bombs that the management awarded to guests who survived a bomb blast.

There's the Royale in Phnom Penh who goes there now? - and the Royal in Saigon, now a communit flag factory. I wonder what became of the sign, in French, over the registration desk: "This is a family hotel, all ladies of the evening must be regis-

Some of the stickers remind me of wars where first we went out of the hotel to cover a battle but in time the hotel became the battlefield: the Phoenicia Intercontinental in Beirut, a Christian stronghold in Lebanon's bloody street fighting; Nicosia's lovely Ledra Palace, right on the green line between battling Turks and Greeks; the Jordan Intercontinental, a hilltop objective for Israeli paratroopers storming the Old City of Jerusalem in the Six Day War.

Then there't the Tel Aviv Hilton with its wonderfully arrogant Jewish waiters: "You ordered prune juice? Take the orange juice, it's better for you." And Moscow's proletariately uncomfortable Intourist Hotel, brought to you by the same people who brought you the Gulag Archipelago, and the pardonably tedious Saga Hotel in Reykjavík, where reporters hung around for weeks that seemed like years waiting for Bobby Fischer and Boris Spasky to glower headlines across a chess board.

In an age when most hotels around the ball are becoming as alike as army barracks and as inhospitable as a state prison farm, it's soothing to gaze at the labels of Peking's Hotel of the Nationalities, the Negrisco in Nice or the Oriental in Bangkok and know that at any hour of the night a roomboy lurks in the corridor ready to fetch a cold beer or a freshly shined pair of shoes.

The Gresham in Dublin speaks of elegance without obsequiousness, which is why the dawn comes up rather unthunderously with a brogue on the telephone lilting: "This your 8:30 wake-up call sir. Actually, it's gone quarter past nine, will that be all right, sir?"

OTTAWA (AP) - A bargain Canadian dollar has helped increase the number of U.S. tourists this year to the provinces of Quebec, British Columbia, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, Canada's tourism industry says.

But in other parts of the country the cheaper Canadian currency, selling at around,86 U.S. cents; lower provincial sales taxes; and other incentives have not attracted enough U.S. visitors to cancel a national tourism trade deficit of $1.4 billion for the first half of 1978.

Industry spokesmen in British Co-lumbia on the West Coast predict a record year for U.S. tourism and report a major increase in U.S. vehicles entering the province, many from California. Hotels werefuller than usual, restaurants 10 percent busier than last year and gasoline sales up, they said. The lower Canadian dollar, extensive provincial government promoting of travel and the Captain Cook bicentennial celebrations were major reasons for the increase in the west-

Spanish leader visits Castro

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) - Adolfo Suarez, the first Spanish premier to visit Cuba, arrived here Saturday to a 21-gun salute and a warm embrXce from President Fidel Castro.

Suarez, who flew in after visiting Venezuela, was greeted by a crowd of several hundred people waving paper Spanish flags and a sign reading, "Long Live Spanish-Cuban Friend-

Diplomatic observers described the reception here as "formal" and less elaborate than that accorded visiting leaders from socialist and Third World countries.

Spain has had diplomatic relations with Cuba since the 1959 revolution that brought Castro and his communist government to power.

In 1974, Spain gave Cuba a $150 million credit line and discussions during the premier's two-day visit were expected to center on further

The King Tut exhibition in Seattle has brought an overflow of American visitors across the border to Vancouver, British Columbia, where an alternate accommodations program finds lodging in private homes for travelers unable to find hotel space, the spokesman added.

In the East, Quebec appears to have recovered from a tourist slump fol-lowing the 1976 Olympics, according to a spokesman there.

Montreal hotels were booked well into last winter, which is unusual for a cold and snowy city. The occupancy rate in Quebec City is up from 68 percent last year to 79 percent so far

The cheaper Canadian dollar and Quebec's abolition of the 8 percent hotel tax yield U.S. visitors a benefit of 20 percent and were listed by the tourism industry as major reasons for

In the Maritimes on the Atlantic coast, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island registered noticeable increases in U.S. visitors over 1977: 170 percent in Newfoundland and 103 percent in Prince Edward Island.

Toronto, Canada's business center, was the only other bright spot for U.S. tourism this year. Hotels were booked nearly solid in August, thanks to the annual Canadian National Exhibition and an 11,000-delegate convention of the American Psychological Association, tourism officials said.

Toronto's stores were reducing prices by as much as 20 percent. Elimination of Ontario Province's 7 percent hotel tax, the cheaper Canadian dollar and a reduction of the provincial sales tax to 4 percent from 7 percent were other lures

Hotels in Ottawa, the Canadian capital, reported average numbers of American guests, and U.S. visitors said they had no problems getting

Some of the Americans interviewed here said the cheaper Canadian dollar was not a factor in their decision to come to Canada.

Q. Do you have some tips for measuring accurately ingredients such as lard or shortening, oil, powdered sugar, brown sugar, melted butter and sticky

A. These ingredients do seem to invoke certain problems in measuring but there are some practical ways to get accurate measurements which have been standardized by home economists and people in

Solid fats such as lard and shortening used to be measured using the old water-displacement method but this is no longer considered accurate. The more accurate way is to pack the fat a little at a time in a dry measuring cup (not the clear glass or plastic liquid measuring cup). Press out air pockets and level off. Scrape out completely with rubber spatu-

When a recipe calls for certain amounts of melted butter, cut butter to measure before melting to avoid any waste. If using leftover melted butter or shortening, remelt butter if it has hardened then measure, but if soft, measure as for solid fats.

Like flour, powdered sugar should be sifted before measuring. Then spoon lightly into measuring cup and level off. Do not tap or shake the cup. Brown sugar should be packed firmly into the dry measure. If it is lumpy, place between sheets of wax paper and roll out before measuring.

Molasses, honey and other syrups can be measure more easily in lightly greased dry measures so that the surface can be leveled off, then scrape out with rubber spatula.

Q. What would you suggest as a substitute for buttermilk when a recipe for chocolate cake calls for buttermilk? We've tried making sour milk in which we add 1 teaspoon vinegar to 1 cup of milk, Is that right? It would be a saving to use a substitute as we always end up throwing away leftover buttermilk.

A. You can subtitute sour milk for buttermilk in chocolate cake and certain baked goods and get about the same effect. In some instances though, you may just learn to stick to buttermilk if you're after the proper flavor and texture. To obtain 1 cup of sour milk, add 1 teaspoon vinegar or lemon juice plus enough milk to make 1 cup and let stand until
