

She wanted to look after her cats and dogs

By GREG THOMPSON

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Mamma Lena spent Christmas 1977 alone, weeping under the trees near the still-smoking rubble of her fire-gutted house. Nobody noticed.

The indigent, gritty 72-year-old widow no longer cries. But she continues to live among the charred ruins in the rugged Southwest San Antonio neighborhood. And still practically nobody noticed — until last week.

The plight of Lena Webb, known to everyone as Mamma Lena, has finally come to the attention of volunteers and authorities, who are joining together to rebuild her home.

City council members cleared a legal path for the San Antonio Development Agency to do the work and volunteers are collecting donations for the $1,000 in back taxes that must be paid before it can begin.

"Mamma Lena's got a spirit you just can't break," said Ruth Mahl, president of the Lackland Chaplain's Assistance Committee. "We just wish we'd known about her trouble sooner."

"This is all just wonderful," said Mamma Lena. "I didn't ask anybody for help before because I didn't know where to go or what to do."

It was early last Dec. 22 when a short circuit ignited flames that roared from the ceiling and engulfed her shabby, small stucco house. Mamma Lena barely escaped, leaving behind even her false teeth and eyeglasses.

She refused to move in with a neighbor — "I wanted to stay on my property and watch after my dogs and cats" — and moved back into the tiny enclosed porch, the only portion of her house left intact.

"How'd I spend that Christmas? I spent it cryin' right there under those trees," she said Monday.

Neighbors donated clothes and some other items, but Mamma Lena does without water, plumbing or electricity and sleeps on a stack of old clothes.

She cooks over wood in a converted oil drum in the yard and has even had to buy the wood.

"Don't call that an oil drum, young man, that's my cook-stove," she scolded in mock anger.

Rain regularly pours through the charred ceiling in the porch. "I'd just pile old clothes on me, cuddle up and pray to my Jesus for it to stop rainin'! That's all I could do," she said. "And I've been afraid that roof is gonna cave in on me."

In winter's sub-freezing temperatures, Mamma Lena huddled around a fire in her yard or pile on all of her blankets and clothes. She lights a campfire now to chase off mosquitoes.

Her only income is $177 per month in Social Security and the few dollars she can scrape together from pre-dawn searches for aluminum cans.

Mrs. Mahl hopes to quickly secure a mobile home until Mamma Lena's house is rebuilt. Meanwhile, Mrs. Mahl's husband and State Rep. Don Cartwright have temporarily set up a tent in the yard.

"That tent sure is lovely when it rains," said Mamma Lena.

Money, money, all around

Midland County has $230,000 in Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development funds to spend — but can't necessarily spend it where it's needed most.

And the county may lose the funds entirely unless it agrees to spend still more money.

That's the scenario that County Judge Blake Hansen likens to "a Catch-22 situation."

County commissioners learned at Monday's session HUD Community Development monies designated for paving and street improvements in the east and southeast section of the city and county have been frozen until the county complies with certain conditions set by the federal government.

Jerry Tschauner of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission told the court none of the money can be used for paving streets or other improvements inside the Midland city limits because of a ruling of which the commission just recently became aware.

Hansen said the funds are currently "in jeopardy" because about 70 percent of the streets to be paved fall within city limits.

Midland can use the funds elsewhere, but there are a few catch clauses.

Midland County must apply for federal funding and initiate a housing assistance program.

Ironically, housing assistance can be administered within the city limits, providing that the county has the permission of the city.

The city of Midland did grant Midland County permission for paving projects within the city limits (a use now ruled improper). But, some members of the court believe it is

Crash toll at 150, climbing

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Investigators want to know why two planes — a Boeing 727 passenger trijet and a tiny Cessna — collided in clear skies over San Diego after both pilots had radioed they could see the other plane.

The coroner said at least 150 persons died in what was the worst disaster in U.S. aviation history.

A Pacific Southwest Airlines jet with 135 persons aboard and a rented Cessna 172 carrying an instructor and a pilot taking advanced training collided at 9:03 a.m. Monday, killing everyone on both planes.

At least 13 more persons died on the ground when bits of bodies and burning wreckage tore into homes in the

"Both planes were given air traffic advisories that they were in the same area and both aircraft acknowledged that they had the other plane in sight," said Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Bruce Chambers in Los Angeles.

Tape recordings from the airliner cockpit and the airport control tower were given to the National Transportation Safety Board for analysis.

In Washington today, the chairman of a House panel looking into airline safety said the disaster "perhaps could have been avoided" had the government required a proposed collision avoidance system.

Rep. John L. Burton, D-Calif., made the statement in opening a series of hearings by a Government Operations subcommittee into airline safety.

In written testimony prepared before the collision, John O'Donnell, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, had criticized the FAA for not pushing development of such warning equipment. He said the technology has been available for many years.

He said ALPA wants a collision avoidance system, known as CAS, installed in aircraft to give pilots direct, immediate knowledge of any impending threat.

"There were pieces of body everywhere," said W.T. Bradbury, a police officer at the crash site. "Parts of bodies were sticking into a wall. I hope I never see anything like it again."

North Park neighborhood about three miles northeast of Lindbergh Airport.

At dawn today emergency crews fanned out through the devastated neighborhood. Authorities said they believed more bodies might still be in the rubble.

San Diego police said they booked at least 22 persons for investigation of looting and impeding authorities at the crash site Monday. Police spokesman Dan Hall said many of those arrested were juveniles and most were picking up pieces of wreckage as souvenirs.

Officials had no immediate explanation for the cause of the crash. Visibility at the time was 10 miles.

Attorney general probes Bell practice

By MARK VOGLER
R-T Staff Writer

The state attorney general's office is investigating the legality of Southwestern Bell's longtime practice charging other government bodies for taxes the telephone company pays cities.

A finding the charge is illegal could involve millions of dollars because, apparently, few representatives of the government bodies realized until recently they were paying the tax.

Such a finding also could cause tax flow problems for Bell, company representatives said, but save government bodies a considerable amount of money.

Assistant Attorney General David Hughes told The Reporter-Telegram today he will seek a legal opinion on the matter within 30 days.

A ruling that the tax is unconstitutional could cost the telephone company millions of dollars and result in an endless round of court battles, Hughes added.

Midland County commissioners voted Monday to withhold payment of the county's two percent municipal tax to Southwestern Bell until the attorney general's office has rendered an opinion. County Attorney Leslie Acker, who consulted with Hughes on the matter Friday, said there's a possibility many counties throughout the state have been charging thousands of dollars for many years for a tax they knew nothing about.

"We're talking about millions of dollars that could be involved here," Hughes said in a telephone interview with The Reporter-Telegram.

"The Bell lawyers tell me it's as sizable as hell and that it could cost the telephone company lots of money."

The existence of the telephone company's practice of passing on the municipal tax to its customers came to light last month when the state public utilities commission ordered the company to itemize all future charges in the telephone bill, according to Hughes.

Officials in the state attorney general's office decided to seek an opinion Friday after a request from the State Telecommunications Network of the State Board of Control and an inquiry from Acker as to whether counties were legally bound to pay the tax.

"Our job is to issue a legal opinion as to whether or not this is actually a tax. And if it's a tax, we must decide whether it's constitutional under Texas law," Hughes said.

"It's really an enormous problem because it has been rolled into the rate base for many years. And until recently, we knew very little about it. The attorney general's office will seek an opinion unless Southwestern Bell decides to file suit. We are not allowed to make opinions on cases in litigation."

Southwestern Bell takes the position that the company is on legal footing and is not actually charging a tax in the true sense, according to

Law threatens north loop

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
R-T Staff Writer

A federal law may interfere with the city of Midland's plan to avoid a bond issue to finance the north loop around the city by getting land donated.

And cost for purchasing rights of way for the North Loop Road has skyrocketed since the city and county originally estimated the price on purchasing land along the proposed route.

While the city had planned for much of the land to be acquired through donations, a federal law enacted in 1970 makes that less likely.

That law requires the city to advise the land owner, before he donates the land, that he can receive full fair market value for it, according to Charles Muery.

That would prohibit the city from requiring developers to donate land as a condition for the City Council's approval of plats for subdivisions along the route.

Muery is right-of-way supervisor and public affairs officer with the district office of the state Department of Highways and Transportation in Odessa. His district covers 12 West Texas counties.

"The city council and staff were naive and gullible with respect to requirements of the federal government in acquiring right-of-ways," Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said. "We felt some of the property could be gotten through donations and platting (requirements). The city's share in purchasing land at the price then would be maybe less than $500,000."

With the probability of having to purchase most of the land and the increasing cost of that land, the cost to the city now will be about $1 million, Angelo added.

Several people have donated "large tracts of land" anyway, he said.

The problem in the delay of buying land possibly could "lay on both sides of the road," so to speak, with the State Department of Highways on one side and the city government on the other.

Angelo said the city of Midland and the county had been working on the idea of a North Loop Road since the 1960s. It was not until 1975 that they began making any progress.

Muery said the department first conducted a study on the idea to see if it was justified. A public hearing on the project was held Sept. 15, 1976. From that meeting, the district office recommended the Loop be constructed. This also included the sister project of a proposed north route between Midland and Odessa, he said.

Angelo said normally the Depart-

ROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd

Too, there were those scholarly pursuits in those so-called ivory towers in academe.

The word "profession" meant something. It evoked clear images. Nowadays, for good or ill, it doesn't.

There are (shudder) a thousand and one professions. And physicians, lawyers and ministers are just among the lot.

The word profession is bogged down in a murky maze.

Even the mundane task of cart-and-broom street-sweeping can sweep its way into the hallowed lineup if it's done in a "professional" manner. And all that seems to mean is, simply, doing a good job.

Perhaps the sports world has abetted the further prostitution of the word. A professional player draws pay or wins the pot and pays taxes.

You're goaded to be professional in your work. The idea is good, but maybe the word is improper.

And who's to say what's fitting and proper in word usages? There are a zillion reference books, including the exhaustive, multi-volume Oxford Dictionary of the English Language to the compact but powerful Strunk and White "Elements of Style."

Some say proper word usage isn't all that important. It's nit-picking. What's important is getting the meaning across.

And that's the very reason for being persnickety in word choice: clarity. It ought to be done professionally.

Astronauts hold key to health

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Dr. William Thornton says there would be many more empty hospital beds if everyone took care of themselves the way astronauts do.

Thornton is a scientist-astronaut who has spent more than a decade studying ways to apply the principles of space medicine to individuals on Earth.

The medical doctor said many exciting and exotic things have come out of the space program.

"But the most important lesson to be learned is extremely simple, the key to good health, whether living in space or on Earth, is taking care of your body," he said.

Passengers safe after plane crash

A Cessna 182 plane crashed about two miles west of the runway at Midland Regional Airport shortly after 6 a.m. today, but the three passengers apparently were unharmed, according to the Midland County Sheriff's Department.

A spokesman in the airport's control tower said air controllers lost the plane from the radar screen at 6:05 a.m.

A signal from a locator device known as an ELT was picked up by another airplane which left the Midland Regional Airport shortly after the private plane went down, according to an officer with the Midland Police Department.

Police and sheriff's officers located the plane in a pasture west of FM 1788 after 7 a.m., according to a spokesman for the sheriff's department.

The pilot and two passengers apparently had only minor cuts and bruises, a Sheriff's Department spokesman said.

Carborator icing caused the engine to stall, according to the pilot.

Names of the passengers and their hometowns also were not known.

Grief-stricken Majors takes gift to injured champion rider

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "I just did something everybody else would like to do," said actor Lee Majors after delivering an inscribed football to Caroline Treviranus.

The 24-year-old Berryville, Va., woman has been unconscious in the University of Kentucky Medical Center since Sept. 16 when she suffered a head injury in the World Championship Three-Day Equestrian Event.

Majors visited her Sunday and left the football, which had been used in Kentucky's 25-21 victory over Baylor the day before.

"She tried to concentrate very hard," Majors said. "When I talked to her, she looked at me and a tear came out of her eye."

Members of her family said Miss Treviranus has opened her eyes in recent days and occasionally sheds tears. However, she still is listed as unconscious and in fair condition.

She was injured when her horse, Comic Relief, fell during the stadium jumping phase of the equestrian championships. A heavy wooden rail apparently struck her head.

DEAR ABBY

Is honesty outdated?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I work at a motel, and I hear complaints daily about the high cost of accommodations.

Following is a partial explanation for the benefit of the innocent, who are unfairly penalized, and the guilty, who go unpunished. I speak on behalf of all motel and hotel owners who have no choice but to increase their rates.

I am convinced that honesty has become as outdated as high button shoes and buggy whips.

Our motel has 170 rooms. When a guest checks out, it's not unusual for the room to be partially or wholly stripped of all towels, wash cloths, toilet tissue, Kleenex, light bulbs, and even bedspreads, sheets, pillows and cases!

On the average, we lose $2 per room per rental. This does not include the cost in time, labor and paper work to replace the stolen items.

Perhaps if the public were informed of these facts, they might think twice before collecting souvenirs and household supplies. If not, the next time they visit our fair city, they can expect the rates to be even higher than before.—DISGUSTED IN S.C.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Thanks for a good letter. Also for reviving some vivid memories of my high school days.

My twin and I learned a lesson in honesty after returning home from a football game at Sioux Falls, S.D. (We made the trip with about 100 other Central High school students on a special train from Sioux City, Iowa.)

When our parents discovered that we had brought home several "souvenirs" from a hotel in Sioux Falls, (ashtrays, silverware, bathmat, etc.) they ordered us to pack up all the loot and mail it back to the hotel manager with our apologies. (We had to pay the postage, too!)

We also got a long lecture on honesty and we have never forgotten it.

Cats overshadow dogs

By ERMA BOMBECK

The world is divided into two groups: those who aren't crazy about cats and those who think cats are the greatest thing to hit this country since sliced bread.

I personally cannot relate to anything that licks its feet while I'm talking to it, but I have to say since seeing cats on television, I have never seen a more impressive animal.

I used to think cats wandered from room to room looking for a velvet sofa to shed on, but since watching them on television I have gained a new respect for them. They type, answer the phone, play the piano, take baths and do the cha-cha-cha. In one commercial, there were 18 of them nudging one another out of a bowl of their favorite food.

If anyone out there has a cat out of work, it's their own fault. As Mary Worth once said, "I don't mean to meddle," but it's my observation that dogs had better shape up. Just tipping over a 50-pound bag of dog food and panting isn't going to do it anymore. How much longer can they slide in on the coattails of Benji?

If dogs don't get an image-maker pretty soon, their popularity will go right down the tube. Do dogs have a big poster going for them? Cats do. The picture of a cat hanging from a parallel bar saying, "HANG IN THERE, BABY" is a classic.

Have dogs made an impact on Washington? If so, then how come the words "fat cat" dominate the political scene?

And who can quarrel with cats' association with sex symbols? A starlet can purr like a sex kitten, but where is she if someone calls her a bow-wow?

I don't think I'm being dramatic when I say it's only a matter of time before cats hit Broadway in "CHORUS FELINE," take over movies with a

Mondale should have known better

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Mondale should have known better. He should have known that Jim Abourezk does not go to joint sessions and that he certainly would not go to one to listen to a speech about a Middle East peace plan he had already called a sellout of the Palestinians.

But it was a busy and confusing night and Mondale was only trying to do his job as vice president of the United States, to play his part in the ritual of joint sessions of Congress.

Understand that a president does not just walk into the House chamber and start talking. He is escorted into the chamber by a duly appointed committee of senators and congressmen.

So it was that the speaker of the House appointed six members of the Democratic and Republican leadership to the committee.

Then it was Mondale's turn. He appointed 12 senators, six Democrats and six Republicans.

His list included: "The senator from West Virginia, Mr. Byrd; the senator from California, Mr. Cranston; ... the senator from Connecticut, Mr. Ribicoff; the senator from South Dakota, Mr. Abourezk..."

The committee marched off and found the president and escorted him into the chamber.

It went smoothly. Hardly anyone noticed that the senator from South Dakota was not there. Abourezk was home watching the show on television.

And where were Americans on Sunday night when President Carter descended from the Maryland mountains with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to announce the Camp David accords?

It is a good bet many were home in front of their television sets watching "Battlestar Galactica," "King Kong" or the Emmy Awards.

Don't be upset if you found the adventures of a giant ape tearing up the New York subway system more exciting than the ceremony in the East Room of the White House. At least one senator admits he has been able to control his enthusiasm.

Interviewed on Capitol Cloakroom on CBS radio, Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., remembered the historic moment this way:

"Well, first of all, I must say I have not been as euphoric about all this as some of my colleagues have been, the press has been and a lot of other people have been.

"Sunday night, I was sitting trying to distract my daughter's attention from some new program called 'Galactica' or something or some three-hour movie, while I was trying to engage her in conversation, this thing at Camp David developed..."

There are folks in Washington who will never forgive Robert Short for moving the Washington Senators to Arlington, Texas.

Those are the baseball-playing Senators, not the talking senators. Short, a businessman-politician from Minnesota, owned the Senators, who now play under the name Texas Rangers.

Now, Short wants to return to Washington as one of the talking senators. Back in Minnesota, he recently won the Democratic nomination for the Senate.

That prompted Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., one of the most avid baseball fans in Congress, to warn his House colleagues that if Short is elected "it is very likely he'll have some idea of moving the Capitol out west."

Quote of the week comes from Rep. Millicent H. Fenwick, R-N.J., who suggested to her colleagues:

"We must begin to look at ourselves not as princes or princesses, but as part of the population."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

No evidence linking Pill, liver cancer

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is it true that the Pill can cause cancer of the liver? A friend of mine claims that this is so.—H.

Dear H.: There is no evidence linking the Pill and liver cancer that I am aware of. I think your friend probably heard about how the Pill increases the risk of a benign liver tumor called hepatocellular adenoma.

The most recent report on that comes from researchers at the Center for Disease Control. They estimate that women 27 or older who have been on the Pill four years or more have at least 20 times the normal risk of getting a liver tumor. For women under 26, the figure was 19 times.

I should add that the "normal" risk is very low. The CDC study figured one case a year per million women with less than a year's use of the Pill.

However, Dr. Carl W. Tyler, who heads the CDC team, and his colleagues advise certain precautions:

—If you are on the Pill, be sure that liver palpation (doctor presses with his hands on your abdomen over your liver) is included as part of your regular physical.

—Be sure to check with your doctor if at any time you notice an abdominal mass or pain.

—If a tumor has been diagnosed, but is not yet removed, be sure to use another form of contraception. Don't simply stop taking the Pill, as pregnancy may cause the tumor to rupture and bring about a fatal hemorrhage.

—Stay off the Pill after the tumor is removed.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Can mumps be controlled?—Mrs. U.V.

Dear Mrs. U.V.: Once someone has mumps there is little that can be done but to let it run its course. But mumps can be prevented by administration of live mumps virus vaccine.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Does mumps, like measles, cause meningitis?—Mrs. E.M.

Dear Mrs. E.M.: The most common complications of mumps are those associated with the nervous system: encephalitis, encephalomyelitis, and meningitis. These forms of inflammation of the brain are most common, although almost always less severe, with mumps than with measles. They may be accompanied by such symptoms as stiff neck, headache, dizziness, delirium and convulsions. Most patients recover completely, but a few are left with permanent damage to the nervous system.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Who should get vaccinated against measles?—Mrs. H.H.

Dear Mrs. H.H.: 1. Children who received the killed vaccine. 2. Children who received live vaccine shortly after receiving killed vaccine.

3. Children who were vaccinated before they were 12 months of age. 4. Children who received gamma globulin with the live virus vaccine at any age need to be reevaluated by their doctor to determine if revaccination is necessary. (c) 1978, Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

Under the changes, the Egin wing's air defense mission will be assumed by the F-106 Delta Dart detachment previously stationed in New Orleans and a Texas Air National Guard unit from Houston.

Personnel to change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said today it is making some changes in its air defense units that will result in minor personnel shifts at four air bases in Florida, Louisiana and Texas.

An Air Force spokesman said the changes are in line with the earlier conversion of the 33rd Tactical Fighter Wing at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., from F-4 to F-15 jetfighters.

EPA won't approve Texas' clean-air plan

Austin Bureau

DALLAS—The state's tentative plan for cleaning up Texas air by a 1982 federal deadline apparently will not be approved by the Environmental Protection Agency in its present form, the Texas Air Control Board was told Friday.

The TACB staff has prepared a State Implementation Plan (SIP) which would show 13 of the state's 15 polluted areas as demonstrating attainment with the national air quality standards by 1982.

However, EPA regional air quality chief Ray Lozano, Dallas, wrote the state agency earlier in the week, citing what EPA believes to be "inconsistencies" in the use of certain technical data by the TACB in calculating future natural or "background" levels of ozone and in determining the amount of ozone that is "transported" into a nonattainment area by wind currents.

TACB Deputy Director Roger Wallis said that while he is not exactly certain EPA plans to disapprove the state's SIP, a reading of Lozano's letter seems to indicate such a predicament.

Failure by the state to submit an approvable SIP by July, 1979, would result in several severe sanctions being taken against Texas, including a prohibition against any major industrial expansion in polluted areas and a withholding of almost all federal funds to the state. The latter would include more than $300 million in federal highway grant monies.

TACB Chairman John Blair, and the four other board members attending the session in the Dallas City Council Chambers, agreed with staff recommendations that the draft plan be considered in five public hearings across the state late next month in its present form.

TACB Executive Director Bill Stewart told board members that technical changes that may be needed to satisfy the regional EPA office could be incorporated during or after those hearings, before the SIP is finally adopted by the board in December.

Wallis said the proposed plan will use as a base number of ozone the 0.1 parts per million standard proposed by EPA for adoption as the new national health standard.

EPA has suggested last month the TACB use the current 0.08 ppm ozone standard in its calculations.

By using the 0.1 ppm level, Wallis said all nonattainment counties could demonstrate attainment of the standard by the 1982 deadline with the exception of Harris (Houston) County and, perhaps, Dallas County.

At the 0.08 ppm standard, Harris, Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar, and El Paso counties would be unable to meet the federal deadline and would be subject to additional emission control measures, including required inspection and maintenance of motor vehicles.

The TACB also plans to extend its Regulation V, relating to the control of volatile organic compounds, to the state's 15 nonattainment counties. Regulation V emission controls, which include vapor recovery devices on gasoline service station storage tanks, would be removed from Denton County.

VA offers benefits on tapes for blind

The Veterans Administration's basic booklet on veteran's benefits has been recorded on cassette tapes for use by the blind. The tapes are the work of Blinded Veterans Association.

Two cassettes cover VA benefits for former servicemen and women, and their dependents or survivors.

They are available to blind veterans on request by writing the association at 1735 DeSales St., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20036, or by calling (202) 347-4010.

Sets of the cassettes have been sent to VA counselors who work with the blind and also were distributed to Blinded Veterans Association members at their recent annual convention.

Blind Veterans Association Field Director Charles H. Moore Jr., said the cassettes contain "six hours of information on VA benefits for blinded veterans, including compensation, pension, education and medical benefits."

The booklet from which the tapes were made, "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents," can be purchased from the Superintendent for Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 or the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 0297, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. The price is $1.

Midland club receives AIMEE award at national convention

The Desk & Derrick Club of Midland has won the national Association of Desk and Derrick Club's AIMEE award for best program presented by a Desk and Derrick organization during the last year.

Co., second vice president; Sheila L. Berlin of Palatine, Ill., with Union Oil Co. of Calif., secretary, and Virginia R. Lange of Casper, Wyo., with Rainbow Resources, Inc., treasurer.

tion's final address Saturday, predicted the Senate "will take a major step toward creating a meaningful national energy policy by meaning the gas pricing compromise."

Other AIMEE Awards went to the Kansas City Desk and Derrick Club, best bulletin; Cleveland Desk and Derrick, best news story; El Dorado, Ark., Desk & Derrick, best editorial, and Oklahoma City Desk and Derrick, best feature story.

Featured speakers at the convention included B. J. Thorpe of Cleveland, 1977 ADDC president, who gave the keynote address; British Ambassador Peter Jay Spook who spoke on "North Sea Oil: Asset and Liability," and George H. Lawrence, president of the American Gas Association, who spoke on "Pride and Politics."

Lawrence said that increasing supplies of gas, the most efficient, most environmentally compatible, most economic form of energy, which has a truly vast resource base potential, qualifies as the centerpiece of a rational U.S. energy policy.

Firefighters await plug

HACKBERRY, La. (AP) — They stood back and let the gushing oil burn Monday as they awaited delivery of a special expansion plug which they hope will stop the flow from a huge underground oil storage vault.

Coast Guard anti-pollution specialists estimated the area covered by the thick brown skin of crude at 1,000 by 150 yards. The oil was being pumped out of the lake into ditches, where it was vacuumed into tank trucks, and then emptied into a barge.

These additional production volumes," Lawrence said, "will help offset our growing reliance on foreign oil. Between now and 1985 nearly half a million barrels a day of imports and $19.6 billion (1978 dollars) of foreign payments could be saved. If this compromise is not enacted, payments for foreign oil by 1990 will amount to more than $70 billion which could otherwise be saved."

Lacy hits commission for failure on report

Jim Lacy of Midland, Republican candidate for Texas railroad commissioner, said today that the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission had asked for comments on "emergency gas sales" proceedings by Sept. 13. He said that upon checking with the FERC no comments were filed by the Railroad Commission of Texas on behalf of Texas and/or the producers. He also said that most other states filed a proceeding or intervened.

than the national area rate for fear of having the FERC disapprove such payments. Sales to intrastate purchasers have been cut back due to an oversupply of gas and accordingly, producers' cash flow has been reduced drastically. Emergency sales would tend to alleviate this condition, he said.

Elcor reports dividend hike

Roy E. Campbell, president of Elcor Corp of Midland, announced that its directors increased the annual cash dividend rate by 25 percent from 16 cents to 20 cents per share, and declared a 5 cent per share quarterly cash dividend payable Nov. 2 to shareholders of record Oct. 12. Campbell said the dividend, announced this morning, is the third increase in the dividend rate in less than two years, during which time the annual rate has doubled from 10 cents to 20 cents per share.

Remember first bid when planning play

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

In today's hand the opening bid located all of the missing high cards. South must use this information as a guide to the play.

East dealer Both sides vulnerable

NORTH ♠ 4 3 2 ♥ J 6 ♦ 8 7 5 3 ♣ 7 5 3 2

WEST EAST ♠ None ♠ A K 9 8 ♥ 10 8 7 5 3 ♥ K 9 4 ♦ J 9 2 ♦ 10 6 4 ♣ 10 9 8 6 4 ♣ K Q J

SOUTH ♠ Q J 10 7 6 5 ♥ A Q 2 ♦ A K Q ♣ A

East South West North 1 NT Double 2 ♣ Pass 2 ♣ Double Pass 2 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ All Pass

Opening lead — ♣ 10

If South takes the ace of clubs and leads the queen of spades, East wins with the king and returns the club.

Now South can lead the queen of hearts to drive out the king. East returns a diamond, and South gets to dummy with the jack of hearts to lead a trump. East plays low, of course, and he will later get two more trump tricks to defeat the contract.

MUST START EARLY

After taking the ace of clubs, South must immediately lead the queen of hearts to drive out the king.

Back comes a diamond, and South wins and leads a heart to dummy's jack. Only now can declarer begin the trumps—by leading the suit from the dummy.

East must play low, since South would have no further problem if East put up a high trump. South wins with the ten of spades, and West's discard reveals the bad news.

South next leads the ace of hearts and ruffs it in dummy! This enables him to lead dummy's last trump through East.

Now there is no way for East to get more than his two high trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer you hold: S-QJ10765; H-AQ2; D-AKQ; C-A. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades (forcing to game). You should expect to lose at most two spades and two hearts. Game should be easy if partner has as little as the jack of hearts.

And now would you believe they have 'Kuralt's Angels'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you snoozed or spent valuable time drinking Saturday night, you sure missed an amazing show. CBS calls it "The American Girls." It stars Priscilla Barnes and Debra Clinger.

These competent, pretty actresses play apprentice newshawks for a "60 Minutes" kind of show, "The American Report." The executive producer of "Report" is essayed by David Spielberg.

The young heroines travel about in Clinger's van, gathering stories. You could call them "Kuralt's Angels." But Charles Kuralt, who really does this for CBS News, might take umbrage or even get mad.

Saturday's episode opened in San Clemente, Calif., where Ms. Clinger, as a rookie scribe for a college paper, wangled a free, exclusive chat with Richard Nixon. Network newsmen paced impatiently outside.

As she emerged, they asked what he said about Africa, his book, the China trip. She smiled sweetly and said: "If you want to know what Mr. Nixon said, you'll have to buy ... the Campus Chronicle."

Lo, a network man told the nation "she's done what every reporter in the country would give his eyeteeth for ... she just interviewed the former president." Also revealed "she scooped the networks."

Well, Spielberg up and hired her. He also fired

Newman, a reporter who failed on a separate story, a chat with a magician (Ross Martin), a mysterious defector from a foreign country.

Ms. Barnes, as an ambitious researcher, wants to cover the story. "I have certain assets Newman doesn't have," said she. The camera focused on a pair of shapey gams. Hers. He appointed her a field reporter.

But she said she didn't want to spend all her life "out there," i.e., outside New York. Sneered the executive producer: "Oh, I see. You want to be an on-air commentator, you want to sum up profound conclusions to controversial stories, you want to interview Anwar Sadat, Henry Ford, Burt Reynolds, Miz Lillian."

She said yes. He said no. She asked how to get on-air. "Like me," he said. "I pounded the newspaper beat, covered Vietnam for UP, had a radio show for CBS, produced the nightly news in Chicago."

"If I have to do all that before I get on the air, then I'll be as old as you are," was what she moaned.

But this lovely, sophisticated New Yorker was loosed on the big defector story with bubbly Ms. Clinger, whom she considered a raw beginner. They and the story then shifted to Reno, Nev.

The defuncting magician worked there. He proved to be a double agent for the FBI. He was from Czechoslovakia. Enemy agents wanted to slay him. The girls briefly hid him. Were I a punster and the magician a midget, I would say they cached a small Czech.

Some reporter pals want me to come right out and call this series awful. I say no. It'd be like drop-kicking a wounded butterfly.

Another example of "poof," or pretend-journalism, is "People," hosted by Phyllis George and on CBS. I missed the debut show, having fallen asleep during it. It was as if an occult hand had nudged my eyelids shut.

As with "American Girls," its star is pretty and hosts her show from a van. Tonight's "People" viewers will see Kristy McNichol riding a roller-coaster and Bette Midler making a movie.

Other sights include Cheryl Tiegs getting her picture taken and Archie Bunker, the guy who plays Carroll O'Connor, showing Ms. George his new saloon and singing "You Are My Sunshine" with her.

Lee Rebels have real tough 'win machine'

By: Robin Bennett, Julie Oschner & Cindy Canfield

You wanna take away my spirit? You wanna take away my pride? Well, you can't take my spirit and you can't take my pride 'cuz the Mighty Rebs are moving and they're leaving you behind!!! That's right, Rebs. Our Rolling Rebel Express really poured on the steam and left those Pansy Plainview Bulldogs far behind Friday night.

After much howling from those "mangy mutts," The "Marron Platoon," brought home the VICTORY with a fantastic score of 16-14: Our UNDEFEATED Rebel Men really showed their No. 1 Talent against those supposedly rated No. 8 Plainview Puppies! Way to go, Guys! NEVER GIVE IN-HUSTLE TO THE VERY END!

We'll be open this Friday so that will give all of you Rebels a chance to get your voices back and store up twice as much spirit for our first district game next time against those Bewildered Bronchos from Odessa High.

U.S. consumers cashing in coupons to save cash

By LOUISE COOK AP Newsfeatures Writer

Clip and cash. That's the motto for millions of Americans who are clipping, collecting and cashing in coupons in an effort to cut grocery bills.

Manufacturers alone are expected to issue almost 70 billion coupons this year, according to the USDA, up from 62 billion in 1977 and 46 billion in 1976.

More than 2 billion coupons redeemed last year had a face value of $500 million, the Agriculture Department says.
