METRO EDITION

Forty-six years ago, his parents named him after two cousins, sister Chloie and brother Maurice Huffaker up at Takoha. That's what Chloice Shofner says. His mother says he was named only after Chloie Huffaker. She has since passed on.

His father's name was Oley Shofner; his mother's, Mollie Reams. They named their youngest son Reams Shofner.

But it was Chloice Shofner, a cotton farmer in the Patricia area, who took a sizeable chunk of the kidding in school and in the military for having such a name. Chloice.

Chloice Shofner's wife, Kathleen O'Neal, bore four children. And their yield, aside from the offspring, was a happy marriage of names: "My name is as Irish as his is German," said the missus, who, like the mister, was bred and born in Dawson

Their yield was four: Nathan, 19, a cadet at the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., and these three who, for now, are bound to "a little country school" called Klondike: Cheryl, 16; Marna, 9, and Vance, 9. The latter two came after the re-birth of the population explo-

Chloice Shofner decided not to name son No. 1 after himself: "Shoot," he said, "I wouldn't do that to anybody." So, he didn't. He named the boy Nathan. There would be no

His momma, Mollie Shofner, now 80 and living in Lamesa, has the best reason in the world for naming Clebern Clebern:

"I just liked the name 'Clebern.' I named him Clebern because I wanted to." No reason is needed apparently. Now, Brother No. 2 was named Nuell Shofner. His middle name was Oley - after his father. However, instead of calling Dawson County his home, he lays claim to Anchorage, e. Alaska, where he's into mechandising. All his buddies, though, are cotton farmers. Momma Shofner also has a perfectlyplausible "excuse" for naming Nuell Nuell: "My husband," she said, 'named him after one of my boyfriends." Oh, (they) ... were real good friends." Brother No. 3 was Chloice Shofner

No. 4 was Reams Shofner, who

Now, about Patricia, near which Chloice Shofner dirt farms. He taught economics for seven years at Midland College. Only it wasn't economical:

"I hated to quit teaching," said Chloice Shofner. He commmuted to the classroom each school day. "I enjoy teaching more than anything any in the world. I just couldn't make a living at it - supporting a wife and four kids."

So, Chloice decided not too venture to far from home, stuck with his 800-plus acres and family interests, and decided to make a go of it - name and all - at Patricia.

Carter, Begin meet secretly

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Carter met unannounced with Israel's Menachem Begin on Tuesday night as part of a personal search for a way to compromise Israeli and Egyptian differences over the future of the Palestinian Arabs.

The session was belatedly confirmed today by the White House press office. It lasted more than an hour. Carter and Begin had not met since last Sunday.

Carter, it was learned, is working closely with both nations' delegations on the precise language of a statement or declaration encompassing the Palestinian and other issues.

He has yet to impose a deadline for winding up the week-old Middle East summit, although it threatens to disrupt his own schedule for speechmaking and politicking.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said on Tuesday he knew of no plans to cancel Carter's planned trips Friday and Saturday to the Carolinas, Pennsylvania and Ohio. "If we get to the point that it becomes an issue, we will deal with it then," he said. The summit itself represents potential political peril for Carter, whose woes would be compounded by a fail-on the Jordan River's West Bank - a region Israel seized from Jordan in the 1967 war.

Powell belatedly acknowledged on Tuesday that Sadat had telephoned Hussein a day earlier. He gave no details but said the Jordanian leader would not join the talks here.

Carter hopes for a Begin-Sadat compromise that would draw Jordan into the peace process at some future point. Hussein, however, has pledged to boycott Mideast peace talks until Israel agrees to withdraw from the West Bank

A compromise acceptable to Hussein would bolster Arab support for Sadat, who has risked alienating other Arab states for his willingness, to negotiate directly with Israel.

Begin last year offered civil selfrule to the 1.1 million Palestinians living on the West Bank and in the Gaza Strip in the Sinai desert. Sadat rejected that proposal, which would have left the Palestinians under Israeli military control.

Blast signals mall groundbreaking

Midland's building boom got an historic blast Tuesday, when groundbreaking with dynamite charges signaled construction of the 750,000square-foot Midland Park Mall in the northwest quadrant of the city.

Developer Melvin Simon called it a 'jewel" among the more than 100 shopping centers, including about 45 climate-controlled malls, which he has built nationwide over the past 18

"I think this one is going to be a jewel," Simon said of the regional shopping center moments before the sixth and final dynamite charge of the afternoon was set off before some 350 spectators. Afterward, Simon characterized Midland as having "quality and class," and said he selected the city over Odessa as a development site in the Permian Basin.

of Melvin Simon & Associates, the nation's fourth largest developer of shopping centers. The firm is based in Indianapolis, Ind. Simon also is a film producer.

He was joined by representatives of the three currently known "anchor" department stores — J.C. Penney Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Dillard's - which will form the core of the 80-shop mall and by city officials at the groundbreaking ceremony.

The mall, to completed by early 1980, will be located at FM 868 and Midkiff Road.

Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. who was in the line-up in setting off the blasts, called the mall groundbreaking "an event for which we've been waiting a long time."

"It's just a great day for Midland," said the mayor, who with the council, took an hour's recess from a City Council meeting to attend the cerefilled skies. "I'm proud to be a part of it," he said. "We're proud to have them (Melvin Simon & Associates) and proud to have the associa-

Emceeing the "blast-off" was Ted Fratrik, Simon's public relations officer, who announced that "four major anchor department stores" would form the nucleus of the mall: Sears, J.C. Penney and Dillard's, which are full-line stores, and a specialty store to be named within 60 days.

"It goes without saying," Fratrik said, "Melvin Simon & Associates is externely proud to be here."

He described the planned mall as "the largest and undoubtedly the prettiest" to be built in Midland. William Dillard Sr., Dillard's board chairman, compared Midland with Tyler, where Dillard's operates "one stores." He said Dillard's soon will have 42 stores in seven states. Half of them are in Texas.

He characterized the line and quality of the Dillard's store in Midland Park Mall by saying the Midland Dillard's would be "a direct competitor of Sanger(-Harris) or Foley's," if Midland were closer to the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex.

The Dillard's store will take up about 100,000 square feet of the mall. The J.C. Penney store will cover about 100,271 square feet in the mall. "It's been a long time coming for J.C. Penney to make a move in Mid-land," said Kenn Acker, Penney's district manager. He said J.C. Penney has been in Midland 42 years. The company's current store is in down-values in 1977, the increases will be compounded every other year in the future, Jones said, possibly doubling most property values by 1981.

The tax assessor-collector exlained the probable increases to plained the probable midland school district trustees at their Tuesday meeting. Jones stressed, however, that the tax rates of the four districts he represents would probably be cut as the valuations increased. Jones is tax assessor-collector for the city of Midland, Midland school district, Midland Junior College district and Midland County Hospital district. To keep tax valuations even with ever-increasing market values, property in the four districts will be revalued every other year instead of at five-year intervals as it has been in the past, Jones said. 'Midland has experienced a tremendous increase in property values," Jones said. "Market values have been increasing at 20 to 25 percent per year, and I don't see any let up in the increases until 1981 or '82. 'And then they'll only level off. They will never go down.

According to Jones' projections, for example, a single family residence on the tax rolls today with an assessed valuation of $30,000 would be revalued to at least an assessed valuation of

Chaparral request raises questions at meeting

Request of Chaparral Aviation to become a third fixed-based operator in Midland almost stopped the City Council from issuing $1 million airport revenue bonds Tuesday in a regular session.

Several questions were raised about Chaparral and the effect it would have upon Aquila, Inc., and Midland Regional Airport many

The council decided to delay a decision on allowing a third operation into the airport for two weeks.

The issue involves the question of free enterprise, a corporate problem between two firms, legalities in barring a firm from getting started and

Edgar R. Box, a Chaparral owner, said the firm has the money to set up the business at the airport and would not have to ask the city for funds. "But, we would like to be treated the same way as the others out there," Box said.

The firm is planning to spend from $250,000 to $1 million to get the business going, he said.

The first problem arises, though, in that Chaparral is the franchise dealer for Beech Aircraft Corp. and Rich-Air Co. also has sold the same line for many years.

Box said he has been instructed by Beech officials to find a place for a fixed-based operation in a 27 county West Texas area. The best location is Midland, he said, but if Midland does not agree, the firm will locate elsewhere in the region - such as

Big Spring or Abilene. Richard Henderson of Rich-Air and Cal White of Aquila told the council they are opposed to the third opera-

Henderson said he has been a Beech Aircraft sales outlet since 1958, but he has never had a direct factory franchise. He has applied for one but has received no answer yet, he said.

Rich-Air also has been a factory-authorized service center for the line of aircraft until Beech discontinued it this summer, Henderson added.

While Henderson said he feels competition is healthy, another Beech operator at the airport is not. "The issue of another operator now will result in a stream of proposals from other lines (of airplanes).

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. noted that part of the problem "is a corporate one. They (Beech) are dictating how and where to get service and by whom. The council does not have a whole lot of say, it seems."

White said that it has taken his firm about 15 years to build up to the point where they just now are needing expansion.

Both men asked the city council several months ago to finance about $1 million in expansion for the facilities at Midland Regional Airport.

Council does slow

shuffle on 'lounge'

"I could have danced all the night," or so the song goes — but not for Midlanders. Residents wishing to "dance all night" have a limited selection, and a move by the Midland City Council Tuesday kept that choice from expanding by one.

Gregory Alan Robinson had applied for a specific use permit to sell alcoholic beverages at a restaurant-lounge at 606 W. Missouri Ave. The city council approved the sale of alcoholic beverages and use of a live band, but stalled on the issue of the "lounge."

The restaurant is designed to serve mainly the downtown lunch bunch with a noon buffet. But after nightfall, the owners had planned on a dance floor to bring additional business.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. questioned how the owners expected to keep the restaurant from turning into a "joint." Grady Duane Robertson, one of the four owners, replied, "We're going to keep it a nice place. It's not going to be a

Midland has few places where people can go to dance at night, Robertson said. He also noted that young people have few places to go and meet others and the business would be geared toward that set of customers. A parking lot has been leased provide off-street parking for customers during the daytime. The owners would have use of additional off-street parking after 6 p.m., he said. Most of the daytime customers, though, would be "walk-ins" from downtown.

"Last time I went dancing I didn't see anything wrong with it," Councilman Tom Sloan said Tuesday.

"In fact," he said after a lengthy discussion on dancing, "I'm going to get up and take a walk," and left through a side

Council member Doris Howbert echoed his feeling on the topic saying, "I don't see anything wrong with dancing. I like to dance. The motion on the ordinance tied. A second motion to allow the sale of alcoholic beverages without dancing passed. But the topic of dancing continued to pop up throughout the council meeting, even in the late hours when the council was discussing the issue of allowing advertising in the water bills. "What would we advertise?" questioned one council mem-

"Why, dancing in the streets," quipped another.

To which another added, "That's the only place you'll do

Ceremony draws high praise

R.A. McBride, who's in the booming energy business, didn't just "happen out" to Tuesday's groundbreaking ceremony for the Midland Park

He foresees another boom...so very close to home.

"I'm just an interested neighbor," said McBride, who owns acreage northwest of the planned mall. "It's going to make my land gold-plated." McBride was among the 350 or so specatators who turned out to witness the event in northwest Midland. Among their numbers were merchants, bankers, savings-and-loan executives, architects, builders, accountants, city and county officials, chamber of commerce leaders, educators and newsmen.

Midland County Commission Durward Wright said the coming of the mall is "two years overdue, at least,

...but we're awfully glad to get it."

Overdue or not, Midland banker

Harry Clark said he is pleased the 750,000-square-foot mall is being de-

"I think it is one of the finest things that has happened to Midland," he said of the regional shopping center.

The mall is being developed by Melvin Simon & Associates, of Indianapolis, Ind., the nation's fourth largest shopping-center developer.

No cost figures were mention during Tuesday's groundbreaking ceremonies and following cocktail party. "That's one thing we don't talk about," Ted Fratrik, Simon's public relations officer, said at the cocktail party-buffet sponsored by Simon at the Midland Country Club. The party was thrown for those who had attended the groundbreaking

He said Simon, who has made or is making 32 films, is the "single largest, independent movie-maker" in the nation.

As he nation's fourth largest shopping-center developer, Simon has built more than 100 centers, including about 45 malls.

25 percent each year, the district would have to raise only an additional $452,000 for its share of the local fund assignment next year.

But, in addition to the extra $452,000 the district would have to provide, it could also lose all the state equalization funds — some $529,000 this year — it would have received with lower district valuations. The state allocates equalization money to districts to pay for its share of minimum school programs based on the wealth of the individual district. Although there is a difference of some $395 million between the values placed on real and tangible property in the district by the state and MISD, Virgil Jones, tax assessor-collector for the district, said the other values are not unrealistic.

Part of the difference will be made up when the district completes the revaluation of property outside the city limits, scheduled to be finished by the end of this year.

A difference of more than $100 million in the values of residential single-family homes and $228 million in the values for real commercial and industrial property will be corrected in the annual valuation reviews the district will begin making next year, Jones said.

The only area where the two sets of values coincide - oil and gas and other mineral reserves — is an area that is "considerably undervalued," Jones said

27 hospital employees and 3 physicians to be honored

Twenty-seven employees and three physicians at Midland Memorial Hospital will be honored Thursday during the annual awards reception. The event will be from 3 to 4 p.m. in the MMH cafeteria with awards presentation beginning at 3:30 p.m.

The 30 honorees have a combined 295 years continuous service at Midland Memorial.

"This is a big occasion for us and for our total community," Wayne E. Ulrich, hospital administrator, said. "Two of our employees have completed 25 years employment, and we have three outstanding physicians who have completed 20 years on the active staff. These are enviable records for any business, and we are proud to have them on our staff."

Recognized for 25 years tenure will be Nellie Roberts, an aide in central supply, and Suzie Subia, an aide in surgery supply. They will each receive an extra week of vacation plus an additional two weeks pay. The three physicians who have completed 20 years active service on the medical staff are Doctors Durwood N. Clader, Phyllis Huffman and Bill Youngblood. They will be presented with bronze plaques in recognition of their contributions to Midland Memorial and to health care in the community, Ulrich said.

Annie Johnson will receive a 15year pin containing one sapphire and two diamonds. She works in the laboratory.

Receiving 10-year pins will be Elodia Avalos, dietary; Barbara Conner, laboratory; Ann Preston, administration; Ruth Johnson and Ruth Ramirez, central supply; Juana Trevino and Lady Mueller, housekeeping, and Mary Truex, Inez Steward and Mildred Johnson, nursing service.

Ten-year pins have two blue sapphires and one diamond.

University Lands sale

A total of 108,573 acres of land was put up for sale this morning in the Tall City .... and the bidding was brisk right off the bat, with Blake Moore of Paris handling the auction process.

The occasion is the 68th public auction of University Lands oil and gas leases. The Midland Hilton is the scene of action.

This is the third successive sale to be held in Midland - home of the University Lands office — and only the third ever to be held outside the state capital. The initial sale was held here in April 1977. It was the third most successful in the history of the auction, pouring $13,326,500 into The University of Texas System's Permanent Fund.

Another sale held here last December smashed all previous records, when the leases sold for $17,870,500, exceeding the previous record by more than $1.5

Early indications are that today's sale most likely will be another record-breaker.

Would-be buyers from all over the country are on hand to bid for the choice offerings.

The Board for Lease of University Lands, incidentally, includes Bob Armstrong, commissioner of the General Land Office, and Dan Williams and Dr. Sterling Fly Jr., members of the Board of Regents of The University System.

It is great to have the land sales held in Midland, and it is hoped that the periodic sales will continue to be held here.

Midlanders are delighted at the opportunity of being hosts to the Board for Lease members, other officials and staff members in charge of arranging and staging the sale, and all other bidders and visitors here for this particular event. A great big, cordial, typically West Texas WELCOME is extended to one and all.

The irony of it all

In what has become a tiresome and largely meaningless ritual, the United Nations Decolonization Committee schedules an annual debate on whether Puerto Rico is an oppressed colony. This year is no exception: the debate began Aug. 28.

Routinely, the United States and Puerto Rico's elected officials - insist that Puerto Rico's 1952 plebiscite adopting commonwealth status and a 1953 General Assembly resolution recognizing that status place the issue outside committee jurisdiction.

No matter, Cuba and a handful of Puerto Rican separatists who have no official standing demand these debates. The committee, top-heavy with Communist and Third World states, complies.

This year, the truth had a particularly effective witness. Puerto Rico's Gov. Carlos Romero Barcelo became the first incumbent commonwealth governor to address the committee. Romero, an advocate of American statehood for Puerto Rico, noted the committee had no jurisdiction in this matter. But Romero understands that charges of colonialism are best refuted by those allegedly colonized.

He cited the record. In five general elections and one plebiscite since commonwealth status was achieved in 1952, candidates and political parties advocating independence have

Confession of a klutz: 'It happened this way'

WASHINGTON — I stepped on a tennis ball this summer while running for another ball. I wouldn't mention it except that Time magazine did a piece on people over 40 who still think they are youngsters when it comes to sports. They ran a picture of me in a leg cast (I had a badly sprained ankle) and they called me a "klutz," which means a klunk who doesn't know what he's doing.

Naturally, I was offended, because Howard Cosell has said on many occasions that my performance on a tennis court could only be compared to Nureyev's on a ballet stage.

The problem with having any kind of sports injury when you're over 40 is not what it does to your body or even to your pride. It's the flak you have to take from well-meaning people who keep asking you what happened.

Since I was in the cast for six weeks, I was able to break these people down into categories.

In the first category were those who demanded to know WHY I stepped on the tennis ball. My stock answer for them was: "I always wanted to do it but I never had the nerve. It beats the hell out of ballooning, because when you're flying through the air you have a complete sense of weightlessness.

The second category of sympathizers I ran into would ask, "Why didn't you move the extra tennis ball off the court before you started playing?"

"Because that would have taken the fun out of the game," I would reply. "The thrill of tennis is to get the ball back without stepping on the one you left on the court.'

I said this with so much conviction that most people would reply, "I didn't know that."

"Of course. Why do you think you play with three tennis balls? You need two to serve with, and one to leave on the court so you can trip over it."

The real agony of being in a cast is that you have to listen to everyone else's cast story. I don't believe I ran into one person who hadn't been in a cast at one time or another. And when you're on crutches, it's very hard to move away when someone starts telling you his or her own tale.

They were all horror stories and ranged from the fact that their bones hadn't been set right and had to be set again to how they were driven up the wall when their injured leg started itching and they had to poke knitting needles down the cast to get relief.

"The worst thing," one lady told me, "is that when they take the cast off and you see what your leg looks like, most people faint." After a while I realized that people were not impressed with how I was injured, so I devised a story which would get their attention.

When asked what happened, I would say, "It's very boring, but if you're really interested — I was on a tennis court, and suddenly this flying saucer landed by the net and a little green man got out wielding a laser pistol. He said, 'Take me to your leader.' I didn't know who to take him to - so he shot me in the leg."

Is letter valid or is it a hoax?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - An incriminating letter which, if valid, would implicate White House aide Hamilton Jordan in a $10 million payoff that was supposed to be laundered through a Bahamian corporation, has turned up in our investigation of the Robert Vesco fix.

The letter allegedly was written by Jordan's hometown buddy, Spencer Lee IV, the scion of a fine Old South Georgia family. He vehemently denies writing the letter, and Jordan denies receiving it.

Their alleged partner in the fix, R.L. Herring, a bankrupt businessman now awaiting trial on unrelated fraud charges, has sworn that he was present when Lee drafted the letter. Herring's former secretary, Gerolyn Hobbs, a housewife with two children, has attested that she typed and mailed the

Ford, Reagan rap Carter during $1.3 million dinner

DALLAS (AP) - Texas Republicans opened their wallets and paid a total of $1.3 million to hear the Republican Party's top vote-getters speak at a fund-raising dinner for Texas gubernatorial candidate Bill

Clements here. About 1,300 party backers polished their brightest jewelry, shined up their best lizard-skin boots and shelled out $1,000 a plate to hear former President Gerald Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan blast the Carter administration and praise Bill Clements, Texas' GOP gubernatorial candidate.

Ford spoke only briefly, telling the assembled luminaries that he had a particular message for President Jimmy Carter.

"I would tell President Carter retirement isn't all that bad," Ford said. "I would respectfully suggest he try it at the earliest possible date." But it was Reagan who garnered the most applause, yee-haws and table thumping from the enthusiastic Reagan also touched on U.S. de fense policies.

Anne Armstrong, former ambassador to England, and George Bush, former CIA director and a party leader, also spoke at the dinner.

Earlier in the day, Ford and Reagan campaigned in Houston, San Antonio and Austin.

"Let us face it, the 1978 Texas gubernatorial election is a referendum on the Carter policies," Ford said at a Houston breakfast.

Later, at a noon rally in Austin, he told a crowd of several thousand supporters and University of Texas students, "We hope you can do what you can to turn things around. We have double-digit inflation and a record deficit. That is not the way we can strengthen our democratic system."

While Ford spoke in Austin, Reagan was in San Antonio appearing for congressional candidate Totm Loeffler.

Ford and Clements left the Austin rally wearing big black cowboy hats, a gift from the University of Texas Cowboys, a student service organization that distinguishes itself by wearing big black hats, chaps and cowboy

The Cowboys had sponsored the appearance of Ford and Clements and plan a similar rally in October for Attorney General John Hill, the Dem-

Ford said Clements did "a good job running the Pentagon" when he was deputy secretary of defense "and he will do a good job in Austin for the people of Texas."

Accused congressmen get rebuttal, confrontation

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two members of Congress accused in a South Korean influence-buying scandal are getting their first chance to rebut charges against them and to confront their principal accuser, rice merchant Tongsun Park.

Park, after being summoned to Washington in a surprise move by the House Ethics Committee, was waiting to testify today.

The committee, after nearly 10 hours of deliberation, decided Tuesday to hold public sessions to present evidence against two congressmen. The committee also has charges pending against two other members of Congress but it decided to temporarily defer any action on those cases

The first session, to consider allegations against Rep. Edward R. Roybal, D-Calif., was to be held today. The second session, to consider allegations against Rep. John J. McFall, D-Calif., will be held next week, according to Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., the committee chairman.

The sessions will be the first opportunity for the two members to present their defense against the allegations in an open session.

The committee earlier heard Park publicly detail his dealings with 30 present and former congressmen. The testimony of Park, who has been accused of trying to buy influence in Congress on behalf of the South Korean government, was the basis for the charges against the four.

The committee temporarily decided Tuesday not to proceed to public hearings on allegations against Reps. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., and Edward J. Patten, D-N.J. Flynt said the committee felt the two should have a chance to argue against the basis for the charges in a closed session before any public hearing was held. The House deliberations are separate from a Justice Department investigation in the scandal. That inquiry so far has resulted in criminal charges being filed against Park and two former congressmen, Richard T. Hanna, D-Calif., and Otto Passman, D-La. Hanna pleaded guilty to conspiring with Park to defraud the government while Passman, charged with accepting $213,000 in bribes, has yet to come to trial.

Park, who has agreed to testify truthfully in return for the Justice Department dropping all 36 criminal charges against him, flew to Washington Saturday night from South Korea to testify. He told reporters he was "totally prepared" to testify in all cases but did not know what plans the committee had for him.

If the committee determines the violations did occur, it can recommend penalties for the congressmen ranging from a reprimand to expulsion. The full House would determine what the final penalties are.

Roybal and McFall both appeared before the committee Tuesday in a closed session to argue against the

The committee alleged in a complaint issued two months ago that the four congressmen violated House rules in their dealings with Park. It accused Roybal of failing to report a $1,000 cash contribution from Park in 1974, of converting the cash to his personal use, of testifying origi-nally that he received no funds from Park, and of testifying in an amended statement that he accepted the funds but put the money into his re-election campaign account.

The panel accused McFall of failing to report a 1974 campaign contribu-tion of $3,000 from Park, of converting those funds to his personal use and of conducting himself in a manner that did not reflect creditably on the House by accepting $1,000 in cash in 1972, a tea set worth $500 in 1973 and $3,000 in cash in 1974 from Park.

Wilson was accused of falsely stating to the committee that he received nothing from Park. The committee contended that he received $600 from an agent of Park in 1975.

Patten was accused of conduct unbecoming the House by allegedly violating the laws of New Jersey when he claimed as his own a $500 contribution to the Middlesex County Democratic Organization. The committee contends the contribution actually came

Jury to determine if Ford should be charged in deaths by a van driven by Robert Duggar, 21

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) - The deaths of three young women in the fiery crash of a Ford Pinto are being investigated by a grand jury that will decide whether Ford Motor Co. should be charged with criminal recklessness and reckless homicide.

An Elkhart County grand jury of five men and one woman was expected to complete deliberations today in the case, which stems from the Aug. 10 accident in which Judy Ulrich, 18, of Osceola, her 16-year-old sister, Lynn, and their cousin, Donna Ulrich, 18, of Roanoke, Ill., burned to death.

The Pinto in which the Ulrich girls died was one of 1.5 million Pinto and Mercury Bobcats made between 1971 and 1976 that Ford recalled in June because of government complaints about the fuel tank. Ford denies the tanks are any more susceptible to explosion than other small cars of those model years, when no federal rear-end collision standards existed.

William Connour, an Indianapolis attorney who helped draft the revised state penal code under which the action was brought, said the consideration of criminal charges against Ford was unprecedented.

The teen-agers' 1973 Pinto sedan exploded when it was hit in the rear of Goshen. County Prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino said the grand jury also is investigating possible charges against Duggar.

Testimony by two Ford engineers and four other witnesses, including the Ulrich sisters' parents, ended

The engineers were called to testify about the design of the Pinto fuel tank, said by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to be too susceptible to explosion in rearend collisions.

The Association of Trial Lawyers of America said in June there are up to 50 civil suits stemming from Pinto crashes pending in various courts. At least six suits have been settled out of court by Ford, including three of more than $1 million.

The biggest jury award was last Feb. 6 when an Orange County, Calif., jury awarded $127.8 million - $125 million in punitive damages - to a teen-ager badly burned when his 1972 Pinto burst into flames after being hit in the rear by a car going 35 mph. The plaintiffs argued Ford knew from its own tests that the Pinto tank would rupture too easily, but sold the cars anyway to save $10 a car.

Confession may be key issue in trial of man charged in brutal slaying

District Judge Lee Duggan was to rule today whether a confession from a man charged with murder in connection with the brutal slaying of three persons will be admitted as evidence in the murder trial of David Roeder. Duggan accepted as evidence Tuesday Roeder's confession to the robbery, abduction and shooting deaths of Don Fantich, Georgina Rose and Dr. William Fitzpatrick.

Roeder's attorneys, Bob Scott and W. B House, said they would try to destroy the prosecution's case by challenging the validity of the confession by J.C.

"Claude" Wilkerson. The attorneys said they would put their 20stand today if the at- was not voluntary, the tempt fails. "If we can show that broken," Scott said.

Refusing education creates 'subculture of poverty'

"It is creating an underclass of people we will not educate. . .a real subculture of poverty," Edinburg at-torney David Hashmall said Tuesday during a hearing before the Texas Advisory Committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

These children will have a harder time getting a job and will stay along the border where they can speak the language. A real danger is aggravating a strip of poverty in South Texas and making it worse," he added.

Hashmall and attorneys Alfredo Saenz and Linda Hanten have all been involved in lawsuits challenging the 1975 state law forbidding school districts from giving free educations to illegal aliens.

The law was aimed at preventing increasing numbers of illegal alien children from becoming a financial burden to Texas school districts, especially those along the Rio

"I think that the state, by passing this law, is doing an extreme injustice to the children of the state," said Saenz. "These children are not going back to Mexico. They have no control over where they are. They're here with their parents. It's keeping them at home without an education.

"It may be even worse than that. By excluding children at that age and admitting other children who are Mexican-American or documented aliens, it creates animosity," he added. "The line is drawn. From then on, there will be nothing but prob-

In a 1974 state court suit, Saenz unsuccessfuly challenged what was then only a policy of the Houston Independent School District. He says hundreds and "maybe thousands" of illegal alien children are being excluded in Houston.

Ms. Hanten, however, won a preliminary federal court injunction last year against the Tyler Independent School District, which charged more than $100 per month tuition for each child from usually indigent illegal alien families.

Hashmall filed his federal suit against three lower Rio Grande Valley school districts on behalf of children who are U.S. citizens living with relatives in Texas, but whose Mexican parents remain in Mexico. Some districts refuse to admit such children because their parents don't live in the district.

Charles F. Hart, director of pupil services for the El Paso school district, told committee members that the law was unfortunate, but necessary. He said that without the law. thousands of Mexican children would illegally cross the border to attend El Paso schools.

More than 700 children, most of them illegal aliens from Mexico, are turned away each year from El Paso schools, which have an enrollment of 60,000, Hart said. The average cost per student in El Paso is about $1,300 per year, he added.

Hart's statements were echoed by Oscar Hakala, an adminstrative officer for the San Antonio school dis-

"This is a ruling we have to live with," he said. "It's a painful experience for us to turn away any children who are apparently going to remain here. The local taxpayers would have to pay the entire cost of educating these children.

"There must be some way to educate the children, in my personal opinion. I see a dim future for them. I'm very much concerned about the future of our community and those individuals if they don't get an education," he added.

Saenz and Hanten contended that the illegal alien parents usually don't own property in the districts but support schools indirectly through sales taxes and rent navments.

N & W strike may spread to 72 other railways

WASHINGTON (AP) - The possibility that a strike against the Norfolk & Western Railway might spread to 72 other railroads loomed today after a federal judge refused to ban such an expansion.

Fred J. Kroll, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, said the judge's decision makes it clear his union members have the right to take "appropriate action" against the other lines.

However, union officials said they had no immediate plans to attempt a coast-to-coast strike. Brief rail work stoppages connected with the N&W strike occurred last week in Chicago and Buffalo, N.Y.

Attorneys for the railroads had no comment.

The union has been on strike against N&W since July 10 in a dispute over work rules. Charging that the union planned to call for a strike against the other lines, which have been helping N&W, the railroads obtained a temporary restraining order against such a strike expansion on Aug. 27 and asked for a temporary injunction.

U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. issued an order Tuesday dissolving the temporary restraining order and denying the temporary injunction. Robinson said he had no iurisdiction in the case.

Robinson transferred the case to Chicago, where the industry's lawsuit against the union, contending that an expanded walkout is illegal, is before the U.S. District Court.

N&W is a member of a strike insurance program set up by 73 railroads and has been receiving $800,000 a day under the mutual aid pact, Robinson

Kroll said the N&W has had little incentive to negotiate constructively for a settlement of the dispute. "At the same time,"he said in a statement, "it has sought to deny to BRAC members at N&W any right to counteraction against those railroads whose financial contributions have materially lengthened the strike."

"Speaking for BRAC and its 4,500 striking members, I can only hope that Judge Robinson's action will spur N&W management to enter into a constructive phase of collective bargaining," he said.

Former ambassador probed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal authorities reportedly are studying whether to prosecute a former U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam for keeping classified documents presumably taken along when Americans were evacuated from Saigon in 1975.

Justice Department officials declined comment on the report in today's editions of The Washington Post, which said any prosecution of Graham Martin could involve a seldom-used statute barring "misuse" of classified documents.

Martin, who is recuperating in a Winston-Salem, N.C., hospital from lung surgery, was quoted as saying he considered the materials to be his personal property and that he intended to turn them over to the Lyndon B. Johnson Library on Austin, Texas.

"I thought the historians might be able to do a better job at telling the story than has been done so far; they should have a shot at it," Martin told the newspaper.

Martin's possession of the documents first came to light in January when North Carolina police found some of them in the trunk of his car after he had reported the vehicle stolen.

The Post quoted an un-named, highly knowl-edgeable official as saying the documents include CIA communications between the Saigon embassy and Washington and cover the entire period of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war from 1963 to 1975.

Mrs. Oswald to make first public testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) - As a 37year-old mother living and rearing children in a Dallas suburb, Marina Oswald is light-years removed from her life as the fun-loving Russian teen-ager who married Lee Harvey Oswald.

But Marina Oswald is traveling backward in time to describe for the House Assassinations Committee her life with the strange, volatile American accused of murdering President

John F. Kennedy.

She was scheduled to testify today as the committee moves into a new phase of its hearings on Kennedy's assassination in Dallas on Nov. 22,

Through the first five days of hearings, the committee has presented in mind-numbing detail the results of a battery of scientific studies of the evidence. Those reports generally support the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, killed Kennedy.

Today, the committee turns its attention to Oswald, summoning widow to testify publicly for the first

Two years after the assassination and Oswald's murder by Jack Ruby, Marina married a Dallas factory foreman, Kenneth Porter, and they settled into what they hoped would be a private life in a Dallas suburb. Her two daughters by Oswald, June Lee, now 16, and Rachel, almost 15, live with them. A son, Mark, was born to the Porters in 1966.

They were divorced in 1974 but later resumed living together and Marina continues to use the Porter name.

How different was her life nearly half a world away in the Soviet city of Minsk, where she met Oswald at a trade union dance in March 1961.

Marina was not yet 20, a headstrong girl who left her home in Leningrad because she resented her stepfather's strong discipline, according to the Warren Commission's summary of the testimony she gave in sessions closed to the public.

In Minsk, where she lived with a favorite uncle and aunt, she enjoyed socializing with student friends, the commission wrote.

After a six-week courtship, Marina and Oswald were married. Oswald's diary entries showed that he proposed to Marina to spite another girl friend who had rejected him. "In spite of the fact I married Marina to hurt Ella, I found myself in love with Marina," he wrote the day after his wedding.

But Oswald, who had settled in the Soviet Union in 1959, soon became dissatisfied with the dullness of life as an American expatriate working in a Russian factory. He returned to the United States with his wife and baby daughter in June 1962, and the family settled in the Dallas-Fort Worth

"Immediately after coming to the United States, Lee changed," his widow told the Warren Commission. "He became a little more of a recluse. He was very irritable, sometimes for a trifle."

Before turning to Oswald, the com-mittee on Tuesday presented the last major scientific report of its investi-

American League leaders find way to keep things interesting

By The Associated Press

The three leaders in the American League East have found yet another way to keep things interesting. But none of them could be satisfied with the new method.

All three of the top contenders lost Tuesday night. The Milwaukee Brewers, who were beaten 6-5 in the bottom of the ninth by Seattle, had to be the most disheartened. The Brewers knew first-place Boston had lost to Baltimore 3-2 and New York, now trailing the Red Sox by one-half game, was beaten 7-4 by Detroit. By winning, Milwaukee would move within 31/2 games of first place.

The Brewers carried a 5-4 lead into the ninth, mainly on the strength of Larry Hisle's three-run homer. But Tom Paciorek's two-run single with the bases loaded and one out gave Seattle the triumph.

"We had it all wrapped up," said Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger. "We're letting so many get away. We've had lots of chances to pick up ground. We've got to start winning games with leads in the ninth

David Sledge named as a Baylor captain

WACO, Texas (AP) — Baylor head Coach Grant Teaff has announced the selection of captains for Saturday's regionally televised game against Guard David Sledge and tailback Greg Hawthorne were tabbed to captain the offense, while linebacker Jerry Harrison and end Russ Slicker were picked to head the defense. All four are three-year lettermen. Sledge is a returning starter from Midland Lee and Hawthorne was the Bears' leading ground gainer last Harrison and Slicker are both seniors Teaff said have had "excellent pre-season workouts.

Just wait until the pedals open

The Cactus Flower bloomed right in the middle of the Mémorial Stadium gridiron Friday night, and the sight was so pleasing to Midland Lee football fans that they were doing everything but mid-air flips.

Before the season is over, even mid-air flips may be in vogue for the usually staid onlookers known as Midland football fans.

The Cactus Flower, of course, is 215-pound senior fullback Jeff McCowan, West Texas' pillbox version of Earl Campbell, the Tyler Rose himself. And when a Cactus Flower ful this side of Austin. McCowan brings spring to fall and, hopefully, a lot of victories to Midland Lee.

Actually, the Cactus Flower had just your average opening night. He picked up 167 yards rushing in 20 carries for an 8.4 yard per carry average. He scored three touchdowns in a 32-8 win over AAA Snyder, one of which came on a 63-yard romp up the Tigers' middle. He could have had two extra points, but bad snaps from center held him to a mere 18 points. Of course, he didn't play every offen-sive down for coach-Gil Bartosh's

And on his 63-yarder, he had a little help from his friends like key blocks by Brian Briscoe and Michael McCrea. And quarterback Gary Butler may have had a few words for The Flower on a couple of missed blocking assignments in passing situations.

Still, it was a pretty good night-all things considered-but you still feel like The Flower has more good news while waiting for the season to progress. You still get the feeling that he just hasn't put it all together yet. If he does, tie a yellow ribbon around the old record book and hang up for keep-

McCowan has blocks of TNT for legs, and size enough to run over the biggest gorilla on the field. In the open field, he's not your average wire walker, but more like your average King Kong turned loose on New York City. If Jeff ran during a Los Angeles earthquake, California would surely fall into the sea and be lost forever. And the best part is that McCowan has room for improvement, and Bartosh expects him to.

"Jeff missed a week of practice with a hamstring pull just before the Andrews scrimmage. He missed some things, but he's going to catch up. We expect him to break at least one long one every time out. Against Andrews he broke a couple of big gainers, but he got tired because he string. He's fine now. All he has to do is get after it, and knowing the type of kid he is, he will do what ever we ask of him. He knows where he needs work," Bartosh observed. I've known The Flower for two years now, but most of my contact with him has been in track. But I do know what kind of person Jeff McCowan is. When Jeff was a sophomore, he earned a regional berth in the shot put but failed to earn a state berth. At that time, he said he would come back and go to state the following year. He was young, and I really don't think too many people took him-

As a junior, the track season didn't progress according to his calculations. He really wasn't throwing much better than the year before. His best was a toss of 56-0½ feet, by no means a toss good enough to even think of earning a state berth in the shot. Still, McCowan said he was going to work hard and get that berth and a trip to Austin.

He didn't even win the district title, but his second place to Permian's Tommy Sager was good enough to earn a regional berth.

Under the tutelage of assistant track coach Earl Miller, also an assistant Lee football coach, McCowan produced a toss of 58-81/2 to win second in the regional meet and earn that state berth. In the space of two weeks, he had improved his best mark by two-feet, eight inches. At state, his form was down pat and he had his personal best of 60-6% for third place, and he beat El Paso Eastwood's Kevin McGinnis, who beat Jeff in the regional meet.

The point of all this is that Jeff McCowan will not sit on the talents he possesses. He dares to believe in his potential, and one can only believe that he will improve. He is that type

Doctor takes shot at Walton

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The doctor for the Portland Trail Blazers says Bill Walton has engaged in a 'dirty campaign' to discredit management connected with the National Basketball Association team.

Dr. Bob Cook, interviewed Tuesday night on KYXI radio in Portland, had been quiet until now on the subject of Walton's medical problems with the Trail Blazers.

Walton, who led the Blazers to the 1977 NBA championship, has asked to be traded from the team, partly be-cause he disapproves of what he thinks is excessive administration of pain-killing drugs.

Cook said Walton has engaged in "a very dirty campaign to discredit a lot of people, and myself included, and has dealt in innuendo and half-

Walton complained of the medical practices and of other aspects of Blazer management in an interview on KINK radio in Portland last Friday.

Cook said he gave Walton a detailed explanation about the pain killer that was administered before a playoff game April 21, which Walton left with a broken foot that still keeps him on crutches.

Cook said of Blazer management, "I've never seen a more concerned group of individuals."

Cook said he was surprised that Walton's dissatisfaction apparently had increased greatly since he and Walton spoke by phone July 17. He said Walton at that time blamed some of his agents for remarks that had been made about team officials.

John Basset, a Portland lawyer who was one of Walton's agents at the time, said he thought Cook had violated a doctor-patient relationship in going on the radio show. He claimed Cook's version of some of the events involving Walton was distorted.

Plunkett finds home in Oakland

OAKLAND (AP) - Veteran quarterback Jim Plunkett, who said he didn't believe he was washed up at age 30, has chosen to try to prove his point as a reserve quarterback with the Oakland Raiders.

Plunkett signed three one-year contracts with the Raiders Tuesday and had his first workout with the team. His 1979-80 contracts depend on his ability to make the team, the Raiders said.

No salary figures were disclosed. Estimates on Plunkett's salary prior to his being waived Aug. 28 by the San Francisco 49ers ranged upward from $150,000.

Plunkett, the 1970 Heisman Trophy winner at Stanford and the National Football League Rookie of the Year with New England in 1971, had offers from at least four other clubs, his attorney said last week. The others were believed to have been Green Bay, the New York Giants, Baltimore and Houston.

Big Lake's Joe Barnes reinjures his left knee

MONTREAL (AP) - The Montreal Alouettes have placed quarterback Joe Barnes and defensive halfback Dickie Harris on the 30-day injury list, a spokesman for the Canadian Football League club said Tuesday.

Harris underwent surgery Monday for repair of a tear in the bicep of his Horse Racing Standings

Fumble toward end zone would make things easy

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Norris Weese could have saved everybody a lot of grief simply by fumbling the ball toward the end

Denver's quartertback laughed at the suggestion. Weese, under the gun - and half a ton of Minnesota Vikings as well — only a few hours earlier, allowed himself a moment of comic

"Yeah," he joked, "we've practiced that play a lot, where I sort of flip the ball toward Jon Keyworth and he sort of kicks it ahead to Riley Odoms. But we just didn't have enough time to set

Had he pulled off a play equal to the Ken Stabler-to-Pete Banaszak-to-Dave Casper "fumble" that won Sunday's game for Oakland, Monday night's game between the Broncos and Vikings would have ended on a lot less confusing note.

The National Football League has rules governing just the sort of mayhem perpetrated by Weese and Denver Coach Red Miller.

To quote the pertinent section of the rules, an automatic referee's time out is called "...from the time an intended passer is downed behind the line until all players involved in a clearly intended pass have had a reasonable time to reassemble.'

What happened, basically, was this: Denver, trailing Minnesota 9-6 with 11 seconds to go, was on the Vikings' 6-yard line with no time outs left. Weese sprinted out to his right and was tackled for a 3-yard loss. Referee Don Wedge called time out with three seconds left — and didn't call time in until the Broncos lined up to tie the game, enraging the Vikwon 12-9 in overtime. The two key phrases in the rule are clearly intended pass" and "reasonable time to reassemble."

"The play (rollout) was sent in from the sidelines," Weese said. "I slipped after a step or two and got pressure pretty quickly. I couldn't get behind my blockers as well as I might have. I was running all the way initially. It wasn't a pass play. By the time I realized what was going on and tried to throw it away, I couldn't get rid of it. I was going to throw it away but they brought me down."

The game, it seemed, was over. "I thought it was," Weese acknow-ledged. But it wasn't. And when the Broncos were given time to set up and kick their field goal, Bud Grant, the usually stolid coach of the Vikings, erupted.

"It was a run all the way and the clock still goes," he fumed later. "If he was sacked, it would be different. But we shouldn't have had to wait for the team to gather for a field goal."

Weese admitted he was taken aback by the time Wedge gave the Broncos. "I did think it was a little bit of a long time. Yeah, I was surprised that we could get all lined up and ready before they blew the whistle." Despite Weese's admission that he never intended to pass, Wedge was right to whistle play dead. "Any time a player is sacked while behind the line of scrimmage attempting to pass, the clock is stopped ..." he began his postgame explanation.

Tommy Bell, a 15-year NFL referee for a field goal. Jim Turner kicked it who retired last year and watched the game from his home in Lexington, Ky., backed Wedge's time-out whistle. "I think he handled it right," he said. "Any time a passer rolls out and is tackled you've got to say he clearly intended to pass. You can't make a judgment that he wasn't going to throw the call. It's not up to a referee to read minds."

But the rest of Wedge's explanation raised a question. " ... The ball is spotted and the clock doesn't start again until players from both teams are lined up," he said.

There, Bell seems to waver in his support of Wedge. "After I whistled play dead," Bell recalled, "I'd usually stand about three yards behind the line of scrimmage and once the passer passed me on the way to the huddle I'd signal time in."

There was an awful long wait between the time Weese returned to the backfield and the time the clock started, but as Bell put it, "It looked like the defense was hanging around thinking they were goingFto make the clock run out. It was more Minnesota's fault than Denver's.'

The Cowboys yielded 24 points to the New York Giants last Sunday after blanking the Baltimore Colts in 'Our defense didn't play well but there's nothing wrong that can't be fixed," said Landry.

No. 1 draft choice Larry Bethea got a workout in Martin's position, but Landry was not displeased.

Landry said Harvey Martin was ejected from the New York Giant game last Sunday because the All-Pro was reacting to an illegal block by runningback Willie Spencer. "Tempers were hot and Spencer tackled Harvey and Harvey tried to kick loose ... Harvey was the last one the referee saw," said Landry. "What Spencer did was illegal."

Earlier, Martin was flagged for unneccessary roughness when he tackled quarterback Joe Pisarcik.

"That was a good call," said Landry. "There was too much enthusiasm on the tackle. You can't use your forearm when you tackle. Harvey hit him in the back and knocked

USC's Trojans make believer of Robinson

Southern California's Trojans, heading into their Pacific-10 opener this weekend against Oregon, have made one man a believer despite their somewhat stumbling performance against Texas Tech.

"I know we're going to have to keep improving if we're going to be really good," Southern Cal Coach John Robinson said Tuesday. "But I'll say one thing; I came away from Saturday's game believing in this football team." The Trojans, ranked eighth nationally in the latest poll, had to rally from a nine-point half-Texas Tech 17-9 Satur- Automotive day in a game in which USC was favored by three touchdowns. Southern Cal dominated the statistics, rolling up 468 yards to Tech's 161. But nine Trojan fumbles five lost - kept the game the key to power football like we try to play is to keep pounding, keep going after the other team," he said. "Al-though we hurt ourselves a lot with fumbles, we hammered away and wore them down.

Nevertheless, Robinson was generally pleased.

Robinson had particular praise for quarterback Paul McDonald, a junior starting his first game for Southern Cal. A left-hander whose soft passes and accuracy bring to mind Oakland's Ken Stabler, McDonald hit 12 of 18 passes for 193 yards. "I thought McDonald played very well," Ro-binson said. "He threw the ball very accurately and he audibilized probably more than any quar-terback we've had here. He did everything we expected of him and even did some good things like his changing plays - that we didn't." Charles White, who gained nearly 1,500 yards last year, picked up where he left off in Saturday's game, rushing for 156 yards on 30 carries

Thompson, a 6-foot-10 center-forward from the University of Minnesota, did not work out in rockie camp while his agent Irwin Weiner negotiated with the Blazers

He showed up for rookie practice Monday, however, and signed his contract Tuesday. Regular practice begins Sunday.

Details of the contract were not announced but Weiner, asked to compare Thompson's pact with those of any other first-year players joining the league in the last two or three years, said, "I think we're on the top." The signing left the Blazers with some good news to report. The team has been in a turmoil since center Bill Walton announced nearly six weeks ago that he would never play for the Blazers aga because of the team's medical practices.

Few economists think inflation slowdown real

By CHET CURRIER AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - In spite of a sharp improvement lately in government figures on the pace of wholesale and consumer prices, few economic observers are scheduling any victory parties in the battle against inflation. "The recent slowing in the rate of inflation over the summer months has been more apparent than real," analysts at Merrill Lynch Government Securities Inc. observed in this week's bulletin to clients. The rise of the consumer price index, which had been running at close to a 10 percent annual rate for most of the year, slowed to a 6 percent annual rate in And in August the producer price index, one of the Labor Department's measures of wholesale prices, dropped at a 1.2 percent yearly rate, raising hopes for a further letup in pressures on retail prices. But as private analysts were quick to point out, the dropoff in both these inflation yardsticks stemmed primarily from a decline in food prices, which are notoriously volatile. And, while that might be potential good news for supermarket shoppers suffering from checkout-line trauma, it also suggests to the experts that whatever break occurs in the inflationary spiral might be Economists at New York's Citibank said they would like to be enthusiastic about the latest data. 'But unfortunately we can't," they said, "since the slowdown was due largely to declining food prices. With the exception of the year-long slide in coffee prices, most of these declines should prove short-

"Even if food prices show only moderate gains for the remainder of this year - a big 'if' in our estimation - there is little doubt they'll be accelerating again early next year."

Merrill Lynch Government Securities pointed out that, in contrast to food items, prices for industrial commodities are still climbing hard.

"The rate of increase in the industrial component of the producers' price index has increased to an annual rate of 8 percent over the last six months, compared to a 6 percent rate in the last six months of 1977," the firm said.

'Similarly, the services, and commodities other than food components, of the CPI have accelerated to an almost 5 percent annual rate this year from a rate just over 3 percent in the last half of

The Federal Reserve Board, likewise, has indicated its continuing concern over the inflation outlook by tightening credit further in recent days in its effort to slow the growth of the money supply.

"The Federal Reserve's concern about inflation is well founded," said Wall Street's Argus Research

Aside from the recent sharp rise in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' index of spot prices for 13 industrial commodities, Argus observed, "the latest survey of the Association of Purchasing Management showed that not only did raw materials prices rise in August, but that most purchasing managers expected the increases to persist through the remainder of the

Among other reasons for concern, Merrill Lynch Economics cited the fact that, "after something of a lull this year, wage settlements next year will be negotiated for about 3.5 million workers. Those settlements, particularly in the first year of the contracts, will reflect recent past behavior of

"In addition, existing agreements with built-in escalator clauses will be triggered by past performance of the CPI.

"Even in the event of a slackening in business activity next year," the firm concluded, "the likelihood of a meaningful reduction in prices is not great."

Skylab watchers gain confidence

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - Skylab, America's aging 85-ton space satellite that less than two months ago threatened to fall prematurely back to earth, apparently has decided to behave itself. Toward the end of July, the huge space station obeyed commands given to it by Johnson Space Center controllers that would allow the space craft to remain in earth orbit until late next year or early 1980. Prior to those computer commands, the satellite had acted like a petulant child, swerving out of control, refusing to obey certain commands and mis-interpreting other commands. All that has changed and space center officials again are confident of keeping control of the spacecraft until they can figure out a way to either keep it in orbit or control its re-entry into the earth's atmosphere. "We have a much better idea now of what we're working with," JSC spokesman Charles Redmond said. "We know more about the limitations of the equipment, the power requirements and how to use the onboard power supply."

The space agency wants to keep Skylab orbit. The alternative is five weeks." an early return to earth over populated areas.

announced.

Prior to the electrical failure earlier this year that started the series of Skylab problems, two 12man crews of controllers monitored Skylab's movement on a 16-hour schedule. Space center officials now have made plans to add a fourth tracking station at Santiago. Chile, and currently are training three additional groups of controllers. When the Santiago tracking stationis ready, possibly in mid-Novem-ber, the three additional groups of controllers will begin watching Skylab on a 24-hour basis. About 110 controllers here and at Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., will be involved in monitoring Skylab when the Santiago tracking station goes into operation. Present tracking stations are located at Madrid, Spain, Goldstone, Calif., and Bermuda. Skylab has been getting added attention from controllers and more computer equipment during the past five weeks and that is part of the reason for its current good behavior, Redmond

But with a natural gas compromise hanging in the balance, Vice President Walter F. Mondale has moved in for real to orchestrate the administration's lobbying campaign for the bill President Carter claims is so crucial to the U.S. energy future.

Sources say Mondale doesn't plan to leave until the issue is resolved one way or the other. For one thing, Mondale might be needed to cast a tiebreaking vote. It's that close.

Meanwhile, he is holed up in the office, where he entertains wavering senators, tries to persuade longtime their minds, and occasionally wanders out onto the Senate floor to confer with the leadership. As the Senate began its third day of debate on the measure today, the vice president's constant presence was a reminder of the heavy lobbying the legislation is undergoing.

Both sides agree it's the most intense lobbying since the Senate took up the Panama Canal treaties last An Associated Press survey shows

39 senators supporting or leaning toward supporting the compromise, 41 against or leaning against and 20 undecided. However, an analysis of undecided votes suggests the administration now has a better shot of preailing than do opponents.

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker conceded Tuesday that opposition forces probably do not have enough strength to have the bill recommitted to a House-Senate conference committee for retooling in what would be a killing blow. If he is correct, the opponents would have to resort to other tactics - perhaps a filibuster.

A motion to recommit the bill was expected today, with a vote on the move possibly coming as early as Thursday.

The compromise would lift federal price controls on newly discovered natural gas in 1985 and allow for a steady increase in the regulated price between now and then.

With so much still unresolved, the lobbying proceeds at full pitch. Near Mondale's command post, Jim Flug of Energy Action, a consumer group opposed to the compromise,

Not far away, Mike Baly of the American Gas Association — one of the few industry groups to support the bill — is trying to persuade senators that the ball game is already over and that the administration has won.

Meanwhile, mayors, governors and Cabinet members are among those calling on senators to praise the com-promise.

Senators are busy lobbying each other. "There are groups of senators going around all with little lists in their pockets," said one bemused

The administration campaign "is a tightly coordinated White House ef-fort," said Jim Bishop, a spokesman for Energy Secretary James R.

He said much thought goes into deciding the best way to approach each senator — whether to send Schlesinger or White House inflation fighter Robert Strauss, for instance, whether an appeal from Mondale is enough or whether the president himself should phone a wavering sena-

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, one of the leading opponents of the compromise, had this to say of the White House lobbying campaign:

"They carry on their lobbying activities morning, noon and night. I've heard of them calling one senator while he was in a hospital bed and another while he was on a boat up in Alaska. I've heard of other senators Alaska. I've heard of other senators being called by almost one after the other: the president, the vice presi-dent, Strauss, Schlesinger..."
