ST LOUIS (AP) — It reads like the script for a best-selling spy thriller: Board a U.S. nuclear submarine, kill the crew, head for the high seas after firing a nuclear-tipped missile at an East Coast city and then turn the sub over to a buyer.

But the FBI says the plot was real. It arrested two men Wednesday in St. Louis and a third early today in New York State.

Edward J. Mendenhall, 24, of Rochester, N.Y., and Kurtis J. Schmidt, 22, of Kansas City, Mo., were to be arraigned this morning before a federal magistrate in St. Louis on charges of conspiring to steal the U.S.S. Trepang, based in New London, Conn. They were being held in lieu of $50,000 bond each.

The FBI said James W. Cosgrove, 26, of Ovid, N.Y., was arrested in upstate New York and will also be arraigned today on similar charges.

The FBI described Mendenhall as a married insurance company employee and Schmidt as an unmarried carpet cleaner. There was no background on Cosgrove.

Roy B. Klager Jr., special agent in charge of the FBI's St. Louis office, said the alleged plot came to light last month when Mendenhall and Cosgrove attempted to recruit an undercover agent into a 12-man crew that was to take the Trepang into the Atlantic Ocean, where they would rendezvous with an unidentified buyer.

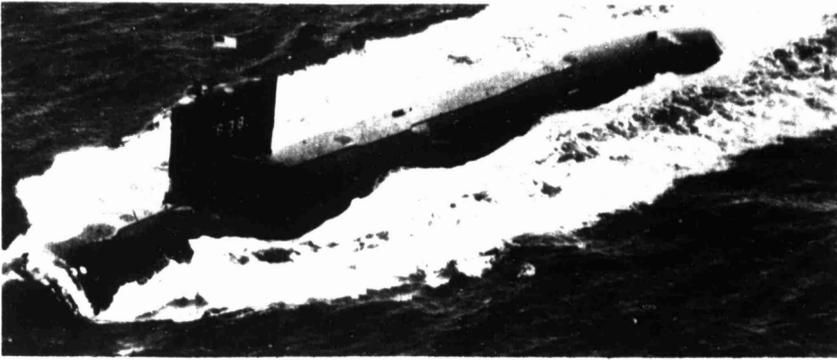

Klager said the two men showed the agent written plans for stealing the sub.

After the killing of the sub's crew of about 100, the men allegedly planned to blow up a submarine tender moored alongside the Trepang to create a diversion and to block pursuit by other naval ships at the New London base.

Sturgeon-class Submarine

If needed to cover the sub's getaway, the plan called for firing a nuclear missile at the base or a major East Coast city, Klager said.

The FBI did not say if any city had been singled out. It said other details of the case could not be released pending further investigation.

A Navy spokesman, Rear Adm. David Cooney, said in Washington, D.C., that such a plot could not have been carried out.

"No 12 people off the street are ever going to operate a submarine like this," Cooney said.

He said the Trepang would require a "crew of about 100 officers and men" who require special training.

Braniff OK'd for new Midland air service

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

LINDA HILL
R-T Staff Writers

Braniff Airways received "tentative" approval today from the Civil Aeronautics Board to provide service to Midland Regional Airport, making it the fourth major airline to operate at the Permian Basin terminal.

Jerry Cox of Braniff's Dallas office said the CAB issued a "show cause" order, asking for reasons Braniff should not be given authority to institute service between Midland/Odessa and Dallas/Fort Worth.

No date was set for making the order final, but Cox said airline officials think it may come within 30 days. Braniff then is prepared to start service "promptly," he said.

Fred Tyler, Midland Chamber of Commerce executive vice president said today Braniff officials have indicated service could start at Midland Regional Airport about Nov. 1.

According to Tyler, the Midland

Chamber began work on the project last summer when Continental Airlines announced it was dropping several flights to Dallas.

"A Midland Chamber of Commerce committee traveled to Washington, D.C. in an attempt to get the application approved, and also visited with Braniff Chairman Harding Lawrence in his Dallas office," Tyler recalled.

The Midland Chamber joined efforts with the Odessa Chamber to support Braniff's application. The two chambers announced June 15 that Braniff had filed that day with the CAB.

Braniff's application proposed six flights daily between Midland/Odessa and Dallas/Fort Worth at times to connect with flights to points along Braniff's system.

Single plane service would be provided from Midland/Odessa to Chicago, New York and New Orleans with only one stop in Dallas/Fort Worth, a spokesman for the chambers said in a June 15 news release.

At the time of the application, Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said space could be found at Midland Regional Airport to house Braniff personnel. Construction at the airport was to include space for a fourth airline, he said then.

A letter writing campaign on the part of Midland and Odessa residents was urged by the chambers to support the application. Tyler said response "was extensive" in support of the application.

Congressman George Mahon also supported the application, Tyler noted.

Boardings for Midland Regional Airport in 1977 totaled 432,000 persons.

Angelo said at the June meeting that of that number, 315,000 passengers were bound for destinations included on the Braniff line.

Boardings at the airport for July numbered 38,279, and for August, 37,084. This is up from August 1977, when

Food prices on upswing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale food prices turned upward again last month, signaling a possible new round of increases at the grocery store, government figures indicated today.

The Labor Department said wholesale food prices jumped 1.7 percent in September after two months of declines. It was the largest monthly increase since the 1.8 percent gain in April, when food prices were spiraling.

Over all wholesale prices of finished goods rose 0.9 percent, also the biggest gain since April. Non food items rose 0.6 percent.

The biggest increases were in wholesale prices for beef and veal. The higher costs of producing food are usually passed on to grocery shoppers eventually.

So far this year, prices have been rising at an rate of about 10 percent, but the Carter administration has expected inflation to slow to 8 percent for the entire year.

The administration has been counting on lower food prices to help slow the inflation rate, which was 6.8 percent in 1977.

Only Wednesday, the administration's Council on Wage and Price Stability said in a report that "pressures on food prices have eased in recent weeks, bringing some relief to consumers."

"However," it added, "the inflation rate for the year as a whole will show a clear acceleration from the rate of the past two years."

It takes more than one month to establish a trend, but prices were rising rapidly at all stages of food production.

Grocery store prices had remained steady in July and August, but the new report indicated more pressure on grocers to raise prices.

Prices turned up after decreasing in August for processed poultry, vegetable oil and black pepper. Prices also went up, but less than in August, for pork, fish, dairy products, processed fruit and vegetables and flour base mixes.

Wholesale prices declined for fresh

Trial lawyer head knocks insurance

By MARK VOGLER
R-T Staff Writer

The nation's insurance industry is talking out of both sides of its mouth — telling sob stories about its losses to the regulators while boasting of handsome profits to its shareholders, according to Bob Wilson, president of the Texas Trial Lawyers Association.

"They (insurance companies) make the utilities look like penny ante poker," Wilson said in Midland Tuesday.

As a representative of the association, he has traveled throughout the state this year speaking in behalf of insurance reform.

Wilson termed current insurance rates "a multi-million-dollar-a-year scandal," citing congressional reports and newspaper articles which suggest that the industry for the most part gains excessive profits through creating artificial losses.

"It's just a smoke screen," replied Clint Dare, director of Texas Insurance Information.

"It's just part of a statewide coordinated effort to discredit the industry. There are some proposals that apparently hit trial lawyers in the pocket so much that they have to resort to a statewide blitz."

"This is a war we may well lose because we don't have the ammunition or articulate as well as they do. We're sitting ducks."

Insurance companies, according to Wilson, managed last year to enjoy a record profit year by:

—Using slipshod accounting methods to reflect losses to state regulators.

—Resorting to "false advertisement practices to make the consumer think that insurance rates are going up because of a record number of claims."

—Using the news media to spread propaganda and place public criticism elsewhere.

In reporting losses, the insurance companies exercise the worse abuse of bookkeeping, he said, referring to a 1978 report of the Subcommittee on

ROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd

The animals had their day in Midland Wednesday.

They were blessed, thanks to St. Francis of Assisi, and went away probably not knowing how fortunate they were.

Among the hoard of critters were dogs and cats, ducks, a hare, parakeets and a dove-like pigeon, a half-moon parrot named Chico, hamsters and a gerbil, and a recuperating hummingbird who was promised its freedom on this day of the Feast of St. Francis, the nature-loving patron saint of animals.

"This blessing will last for a long time," said Sister Martha Ginaine, principal of St. Ann's School. "It's pretty powerful."

It was the first such celebration of its ilk here, and "I think the last," said Sister Martha, who surely wouldn't deny she enjoyed the feast.

The children and their mothers seemed entertained by the Catholic ritual.

Holy water was sprinkled by the bearded Rev. Ed Vrazel, assistant pastor of St. Ann's Catholic Church. He was donned in his alb for the out-of-doors blessing.

"It is right, Father, that we bless you, God of all creation," said the priest. "...All the earth; bless the Lord."

And in the ceremony, he recited praises to the Lord and thanksgiving for the "good" creatures in the air, on the earth and in the sea.

Diana Vernezobre occasionally was being jerked and tugged around by her daughter's Norwegian elkhound, Gunnar. Daughter Rhonda, 9, wasn't yet at the playground to take hold of the leash.

Betty Beumeler only brought her Yorkshire poodle.

"I decided it was too much to bring three dogs and two cats."

Susan Pruitt was cuddling her 7-month-old, raccoon-eyed Siamese cat.

"This is our first outing," she said. "We're a little hesitant today."

Sister Martha's 10-year-old deaf Siamese, Boots, seemed tranquil enough in the safety of his portable cage.

Ten-year-old All Weis was carrying — for the blessing — two box turtles and a horned toad in a cardboard box sodded with leaves, twigs and grass.

"A few months ago, this turtle hatched," she said of the smaller of the two armored crawlers. "He was small. Now, he's big."

Theresa Brown, 8, was holding her gerbil in its spherical home. With her was her brother, Karl, 10, his yellow shorthair dog, Hans, and mother, Lou Brown.

"I think I've done smarter things in my life," quipped Mrs. Brown.

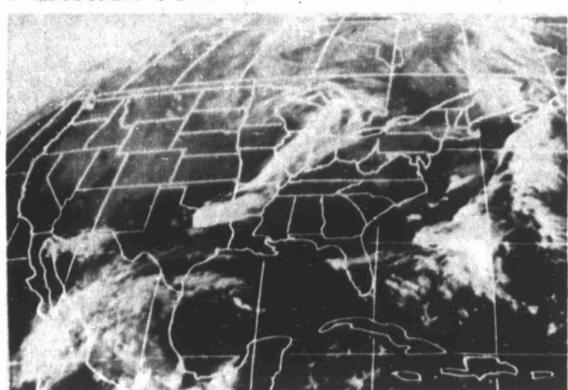

Mark Holguin, 10, was carrying his chinchilla rabbit, Bugs, and perched on Mark's shoulder was his half-moon parrot, Chico.

Shirley Gutierrez and her daughter, Shirley, 7, brought to the feast a white pigeon and two ducks.

"She walks around the house and sits and watches television with the kids," Mrs. Gutierrez said of the

Braniff gets tentative clearance

35,310 boarded airlines at the Midland Regional Airport. Braniff's application was filed on an emergency basis because of Continental's discontinuance of service to Dallas-Fort Worth.

It was estimated at that juncture that stoppage of Continental's service would mean a loss of 500 available airlines seats a day on the part of Permian Basin travelers.

Chamber of Commerce President Harrell Feldt said today the tentative approval for Braniff service is "a great, great development for the Midland business community and many Permian Basin citizens who travel to the north, the east and the south."

Feldt congratulated city officials and members of the Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee "for the efforts they have made to encourage Braniff to come to Midland."

The chamber president said it has been "a great month for Midland," with groundbreaking for a major shopping mall and the Braniff approval coming within 30 days of each other.

"I'm glad to hear it," City Manager James Brown said upon being notified of the approval.

"I think it will provide us some additional service to Dallas as the hours the community needs it."

County Judge Blake Hansen called the news "fantastic."

Hansen said he believes the East

And Tere Jeffries was carrying her 1-year-old daughter, Michelle, with one arm and a hummingbird-in-a-box with the other.

The priest blessed the injured bird, which seemed to be recovering well.

"It was wounded," Mrs. Jeffries said. "I found it Saturday at a gas station."

The minute bird's tail feathers had been damaged.

"We put him on the back porch with a hummingbird feeder," she said. "I think he's ready to go now. He hurt his tail and couldn't fly."

By St. Francis' Day, however, the hummingbird was hovering and seemed ready to fly in the wilds.

"I think today is going to be his freedom day," she said.

Fair, cool days forecast

Fair and cool weather is forecast in the Permian Basin through Friday.

The weatherman said the low tonight will be near 50. Friday's high is expected to be in the low 70s.

It should be fair to partly cloudy through Friday with cooler temperatures Friday.

Construction of hangar to begin

BIG SPRING — Big Spring officials expect the construction of a hangar will begin within two weeks and force only "an inconvenience or a delay" resulting from a citizen petition calling for a bond election here, according to City Manager Harry Nagel.

Nagel said today the petition was submitted "too late" and will have no bearing on the city's plans to begin issuing certificates of obligation later this month.

The city is authorized to issue up to $2.2 million in certificates, although Nagel said probably only $800,000 worth will be needed because the city acquired a $1 million federal grant after the City Council passed the certificate ordinance in February.

City officials plan to build the hangar at Big Spring Air Industrial Park in the hope that the building will be able to accommodate Lockheed Aircraft in that company's planned location here.

Lockheed's interest in Big Spring hinges on whether the company is awarded a multi-million dollar contract to modify the U.S. Navy version of the supersonic McDonnell Aircraft Corp. F-4 Phantom II attack fighter.

"As far as the city is concerned, the petition has no standing. It's only a petition. Our bond attorneys assure us that it was filed too late," Nagel said.

"They say the petition's only effect will be to slow us down a little."

However, Jack Watkins, head of the petition drive, said today the validity of both the petition and the ordinance which authorized the city to issue certificates of obligation will be determined by the state attorney general's office, and not by local officials.

Permit figure doubled

More than $10 million in building permits were issued by the city during the month of September, according to records.

This is more than double the amount issued in September a year ago — $4,079,348. That brings the total for 1978 through September to $72,597,560, compared to $49,968,558 a year ago.

Even though the total was higher for the month, the number of permits issued was only 94 while 146 were issued during September 1977. The total for the year also is down from the total a year ago — 1,267 as opposed to 1,402.

Permits for single family residences totaled, $1,773,700; new duplexes, $125,000, and new apartments, $1 million.

Commercial permits included those for a sign, $3,000; a golf pro shop, $230,000; a frame shop, $23,000; a motel, $1,787,000; a fire station, $232,826; a workshop, $30,000; an office building, $3.7 million and a doctor's office, $442,253.

and dried fruits and vegetables, eggs and milled rice. Roasted coffee prices were unchanged.

Among other items: — Wholesale prices turned upward for rubber shoes, home heating oil, home furnishings, soft drinks and prescription drugs.

— Larger increases for gasoline, over-the-counter drugs and paper plates were reported than in August.

— Prices dropped for motor oil and tires.

— Prices rose 0.4 percent, a smaller increase than in August, for long-lasting consumer goods, called durable goods. Prices declined for luggage, household appliances. Furniture rose slightly, but prices for home electronic equipment, cars and lawnmowers rose sharply.

The wholesale price figures covered finished goods, or those almost ready to be sold to the consumer. The index for these products was 196.9, meaning that a product costing $100 in the base period of 1967 now costs $196.9.

The 0.9 percent gain, after adjustment for seasonal variations, followed a decline of 0.1 percent in August. Wholesale food prices had declined 0.3 percent in July and 1.5 percent in August.

At earlier stages of production, prices were also going up. The prices of intermediate goods, or those need-

It reads like script

Defense Secretary Thomas Ross, the Pentagon's chief spokesman, said he had heard of the FBI's investigation.

According to Jane's Fighting Ships, the Trepang, a Sturgeon-class submarine, carries an anti-submarine weapon, called a SUBROC, with a nuclear warhead. The SUBROC is fired from the torpedo tubes, angles out of the water and after a brief flight, drops near an enemy submarine and launches a torpedo. The weapon is not for use against land targets.

Friday is voter sign-up deadline

Friday is the deadline for registering to vote in the Nov. 7 general election.

Midlanders who have not received a gold registration card this year may go to the basement of the Midland County courthouse from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and Friday to register, according to county officials.

Mailed registration applications postmarked Saturday or Sunday and received Monday morning will meet the deadline also, officials said.

Texas law requires a 30-day waiting period from the time of registration before an individual is eligible to vote. There is no residency requirement.

An individual may register for himself, his spouse, his parents or his children by furnishing name, Social Security number and date and place of birth.

Library anniversaries

Congratulations on multiple anniversary occasions, all centered around the Midland County Public Library, are very much in order at this time.

First off, this is the 75th anniversary year of the Midland County Library, which had as its forerunner Midland's first free library which was established in 1903 by two women's groups, the Time and Tide and Ninety-Nine clubs.

Next, the "Friends of the Library" group is observing its 25th anniversary, having been organized in 1953 by the Altrusa Club. This organization has taken the lead in supporting the library in many and varied ways, particularly in the expansion of facilities and the addition of departments and services.

Next, this fall marks the 20th anniversary of the occupancy by the library of its building at 301 W. Missouri St.

Finally, the Friends of the Library staged its first annual used book and record sale 10 years ago this fall.

If all this isn't just cause for celebration in the Tall City, we don't know what is.

And serving to wrap up the multiple observances in one big anniversary package, Friends of the Library is staging its 11th annual Used Book Sale, beginning Friday and continuing through Sunday, in the Midland County Exhibit Building. This is something in which every Midlander can participate by attending and purchasing some of the thousands of books offered.

Through the years, this has been one of the organization's most popular and most successful events.

It not only raises funds for needed library causes, it also puts good books in the hands of many persons who otherwise might not be able to obtain them. A record attendance and sale is anticipated.

Proceeds from the sale will be added to the sponsoring organization's Memorial and Expansion Fund to purchase any needed equipment for the proposed new library building. And the new library addition, as planned, also is cause for rejoicing.

The Friends association certainly is due a vote of thanks for the unlimited support it has given the library in so many ways. It is appreciated by a grateful community.

And certainly residents of Midland and Midland County join in shouting "HAPPY 75th BIRTHDAY" to the Midland County Library which has meant and yet means so very much to Midland and Midlanders. From its humble beginning three-quarters of a century ago, the Midland County Public Library has developed into one of the nation's very best, most complete and best operated facilities of its kind to be found anywhere. Midland County long has been blessed in this regard.

Abuse of public trust

Fraud, corruption, thievery, mismanagement and downright abuse of the public trust — all words used by Jay Solomon in describing the mess in the General Services Administration.

"An ugly and disgusting saga," said Solomon, GSA chief. And disclosures of crookedness thus far "may represent only the tip of the iceberg."

It's a sad state of affairs. The people are prone to suspect a lot of fraud in the various government agencies and the GSA probe certainly doesn't improve their confidence.

Some 74 GSA investigators are working with U.S. attorneys across the nation and day by day they uncover more cases of fraud and corruption in the massive agency which oversees federal buildings and property.

In one case, a government employee gave her GSA credit card to a parking lot attendant in exchange for a free parking space. He quickly used the card to purchase $80,000 in goods which he sold for his own profit.

A former Army officer working for the GSA in Chicago managed to steal somewhere between $300,000 and $900,000 in the agency's merchandise.

In another case an arms control agency employee used a GSA credit card to purchase $360,000 worth of film which he sold.

And on top of everything, GSA administrators who complained about the fraud often were reprimanded and sent to lesser jobs.

The public is tired of these shenanigans — which at best are an utter disregard for hard-earned tax dollars. A thorough job is called for in cleaning up the act.

ART BUCHWALD Big talk in D.C. today: high cost of real estate

WASHINGTON — Most people who live outside of Washington are under the impression that the only two topics of conversation in this town are politics and government. This may have been true at one time, but it isn't any more.

For a while the main topic was sex. But recently this subject has waned, and now all people talk about is the high cost of real estate.

I went to a party the other night and cornered an assistant secretary of state. "How did things go at Camp David?" I asked him.

"It was beautiful. My wife and I are thinking of buying a weekend retreat near Thurmont. It's 40 acres of farmland and they want $3,500 an acre."

"What about the talks? Do you think anything will come of them?"

"Oh, we talked to the bankers. They'll give us a mortgage at 10 percent, however we have to put 30 percent down. But it has a stream running right through it, and I'm told if I hold on to it for five years I'll double my money."

"Did you speak to Sadat and Begin?"

"What for? They don't know anything about real estate in Maryland."

I wandered over to a couple who were whispering and giggling. I thought there was some hanky-panky going on since he was a congressman and she was from the typing pool in HEW.

I strained my ears to hear what they were saying.

"So, I figured after my divorce, I'd keep the home in Washington and give my wife the house in Georgia. She agreed. I didn't want the house in Washington so I put it up on the market, thinking I'd get $90,000. The first offer came in and it was $120,000. I was about to agree when I got the second offer for $145,000. Do you know what I finally sold the house for? One hundred and sixty thousand dollars."

You could tell the secretary was impressed. "Now I know why the people from your district elected you."

"Why don't we go to your place for a drink after the party?" the congressman said.

"I'd love to, but I live with four other girls. We pay $250 each a month and that doesn't include utilities."

"Well, my kids are staying with me at the Watergate in a two-bedroom flat which cost me $1,000 a month. As soon as I buy a condominium for $90,000 plus $450 maintenance, I'll give you a call."

I tried to get in on the conversation. "The house next to me just went on the market for $250,000 and it doesn't even have a finished basement."

The congressman took the girl by the arm and started to walk away. "I'm sorry," he said, "this is a private conversation."

I looked around the room and saw a Treasury official. "How far do you think the dollar will fall against the Japanese yen?" I asked him.

"It's hard to say. Frankly, I think it's bottomed out. A Japanese official with the World Bank looked at a house on our block in Cleveland Park, which was selling for $180,000, and he told the owner he couldn't afford it. When the Japanese start talking like that you know the yen is in trouble."

Driving home that night my wife said, "I sat next to the most fascinating man at dinner tonight and we had a marvelous talk."

"You were sitting next to Henry Kissinger."

"Not him; the man who was sitting on my left. He's a contractor and he's building 20 new townhouses on Chain Bridge Road."

Mark Russell says

It's time we changed our thinking about dull candidates. If a candidate is dull enough he can trigger the awareness that you just may be awashbuckling by comparison.

If there are many dull candidates in an election, you may discover new horizons. All those boring monotonous may drive you into traveling to Greenland for some action.

Attention dull candidates: Be proud of your dullness. When you've got it, as they say, flaunt it. Begin every speech with the words — Knock, knock.

So don't reject someone simply because he's dull. Otherwise, Millard Fillmore, Chester Allen Arthur Rutherford B. Hayes and David Hartman will have bored in vain.

The Country Parson by Frank Clark

"No matter how much military know-how we develop, it never will be as useful as a gentle word."

NICK THIMMESCH

The African errors of Carter and Young recited

WASHINGTON — Just because he has a tentatively great success in the Israeli-Egyptian agreements, doesn't mean that President Carter is infallible in all of his foreign policy.

His misbegotten African policy is a failure which now seems totally keyed to domestic politics, i.e., Carter winning the black vote in the U.S. through Ambassador Andrew Young.

At this writing, the State Department — acting on orders from the White House, therefore, Andy Young — has stalled on granting visas to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and the three black leaders who share power with him. (Editor's Note: The visas were issued Wednesday.)

The integrated, Rhodesian group was scheduled to arrive here this week on invitation of Sen. S.I. Hayakawa and 26 other Senators interested in finding out how the transition government plan is working, and also learning about outside terrorist threats to Rhodesia.

Smith startled the world some months ago by agreeing to turn over power to the black majority in Rhodesia on a phased, but guaranteed basis. This plan makes eminent sense, and was accepted by three popular black Rhodesian leaders who joined Smith on the executive council — the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, Bishop Abel Muzorewa and Chief Jeremiah Chirau.

But Young, and therefore Carter, are fixed on the idea that the guerrilla-terrorists, the so-called "Patriotic Front" forces outside Rhodesia, must be included in any "internal" settlement in Rhodesia.

This is akin to insisting that the terrorist elements in the Palestine

Nick Thimmesch

Liberation Organization be party to any Middle East Peace settlement. Carter people will say, oh well, but Rhodesia is an illegal government, so we can't respect it the way we respect Israel. But both Israel and Rhodesia are fighting terrorist forces backed by Moscow and armed with Soviet weapons.

In fact, the "Patriotic Front" terrorists Andy Young is so personally enamored of, recently used a Soviet missile to shoot down a Rhodesian civilian passenger plane, thus killing 38 people aboard. These terrorists were so brutal, they went in and shot the 10 people who survived the crash.

Moreover, the killer gang that Young espouses used Cuban training and Soviet weapons to raid Rhodesian villages, and thus far, are responsible for the deaths of 1,712 black and 220 white Rhodesian civilians.

If the American people ever got the whole story of our disgraceful African policy, there would be much anger in the Republic. Not only have Carter and Young been wrong-headed on Rhodesia, they also failed in the effort to get South Africa to accept the peace plan for Namibia.

When it comes to Africa, Carter-Young are living in the past, when black nationalism was credible as stacked up against white racism. But the situation in Africa has changed. Black nationalism isn't so saintly (witness Idi Amin) and white racism is slowly eroding. It is a time to bring people together and Carter-Young have driven them apart.

The State Department has been a mass of legistic hypocrisy and contradiction on the visa request for Smith, Sithole, Muzorewa, and Chirau. Sure, since 1965, we have avoided Rhodesia like a white plague, and not granted visas to people with Rhodesian passports.

But Muzorewa came here last July on a British passport. Sithole has been admitted to the U.S., and so has the guerrilla leader, Nkomo, who came on a Zambian passport.

The Rhodesian leaders had hoped to tell their story here not only to Congress, but to a National Press Club luncheon, on "Meet the Press," the "Today" show, "Good Morning America," and to any newsmen or interested persons who wanted to hear. But Carter-Young apparently don't want them in the U.S.

What's the big deal about the present applications? Politics. Carter is in trouble with black U.S. voters, so Saturday night, at the Congressional Black Caucus Dinner, he lavished praise on Young, who saved Carter in 1976 by explaining away his "ethnic purity" remarks. In his eulogy, the President of the United States declared:

"I don't know of anyone in the Administration of Jimmy Carter who has done more for our country throughout the world than Andy Young. Even if you hadn't stood up for that (in applause), I was going to tell you that as long as I am President and Andy Young is willing to stay there, he'll be the United Nations Ambassador."

Moreover, a black lobbying group, "Transafrica," led by Mayor Richard G. Hatcher, of Gary, Ind. and assisted by Harry Belafonte and Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., threatens to block, by legal action, any issuance of visas to Smith and his group.

Jimmy Carter knows what pressure groups and votes are. I'm not sure he knows what good policy for Africa should be. I think Sam Hayakawa and the 26 Democratic and Republican senators who joined him in trying to learn more from forbidden Rhodesia, are at least trying.

effects of stress and drugs on military prisoners of war, to determine the point at which they would crack and become robot-like slaves to their captors, doing and saying anything they were ordered to.

One CIA document, for example, states that the drug experiments were "often carried out at such facilities as the ... California State Prison at Vacaville."

Casting doubt on Death Row Jeff's credibility, Vacaville Superintendent T. Lawrence Clanon told our associate Gary Cohn there is no evidence the CIA conducted any experiments at Vacaville after 1968 — two years before DeFreeze entered the prison.

Furthermore, he said, DeFreeze could not have known of the CIA's involvement in the Vacaville experiments until August 1976, when it was disclosed. Thus, DeFreeze could not have told Death Row Jeff or anyone else that the CIA was conducting the tests, as Jefferson's affidavit says.

On the other hand, Superintendent Clanon acknowledged that DeFreeze had volunteered for medical research in July 1970, shortly after he entered Vacaville. And a source familiar with the CIA's experiments at Vacaville said it is uncertain just when the agency ended its testing there.

In their own affidavits to the federal judge who presided at the Hearst trial, Patty's lawyers described the symptoms they observed when they first interviewed her as consistent with those of a person having a nervous breakdown or under the influence of drugs.

Another affidavit, by a college friend of the heiress, described similar symptoms of emotional disorder that he and his wife observed during a jail visit.

A wild story, certainly, and perhaps nothing more than the product of an imaginative convict's mind. But stranger stories about the CIA, initially scoffed at as the ravings of science-fiction or spy-novel buffs, have turned out to be true.

WATCH ON WASTE: In addition to their own monthly telephone bills, the American taxpayers also pick up the tab for the federal government's phone calls. In Washington, D.C., alone, phone calls by federal employees add up to $7 million a month. Simple arithmetic reveals that Washington's bureaucrats chat on the phone to the tune of $84 million a year.

Choosing pope quite unlike choosing executive

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

VATICAN CITY (AP) — At the Vatican this coming week, they get down to the solemn business of finding the right man to carry on what the Encyclopedia Britannica calls the world's oldest continuing institution: the papacy.

The job description calls for an administrator, a communicator, a linguist, a motivator, a theologian (preferably a canon lawyer), a financier, a teacher, a discreet politician and an able public relations practitioner.

Some of the qualifications would be needed in any top executive job, but this is not anything like finding a new chairman for the Ford Motor Co.

Ford, a younger institution by nearly two millennia, doesn't worry about tradition as much as the Roman Catholic Church, whose goals are eternal and whose prospective clients embrace all civilization, making them difficult to program into a computer.

Ford could get executive recruiters — headhunters, they're called — to do the looking, instead of cardinals.

Even before the conclave begins Saturday, Oct. 14, the cardinal recruiters will be looking among themselves for a man of learning, of wit, eloquence, tact, charm and — something not usually sought in industry — piety.

In principle, any male — even a married one willing to put his wife in a convent — is eligible for the post first held by St. Peter 263 popes ago and most recently by John Paul I, who died in his bed only 34 days after his surprise election as the church's top executive.

In practice — a practice going back 600 years to Pope Urban VI — only cardinals, the princes of the church who do the electing in secret sessions, are likely prospects — preferably Italian cardinals.

The last non-Italian to occupy the chair of Peter was Pope Adrian VI, born Adrian Florenz in Utrecht, Holland. Roman mobs hailed his election by stoning the cardinal electors after the conclave in 1522.

The right man must not be too young, since tradition dictates wariness toward a papacy that might last a quarter of a century. Cardinal Jaime Sin of Singapore, just 50, is the youngest elector.

The candidate sought must not be too old either — John Paul's fatal heart attack at 65 undoubtedly will be a factor this time in weighing the "papabili," the papal possibilities, although the average age of the cardinals eligible to vote is just a bit over 66.

Pope Paul VI, who died Aug. 6 after a 15-year reign, revised the 1,000-year-old papal election process to exclude cardinals who have passed their 80th birthday from entering the conclave.

"Health is always a consideration," New York's Cardinal Terence Cooke admitted as he arrived for his second conclave in two months, echoing a now current theme that was not even discussed with reporters the last time.

Yet, unlike other big organizations, this most pervasive of all multinationals, dealing with 700 million members in 146 countries, does not insist on a thorough physical for its top management prospects or require an annual checkup after their selection.

In this unique high-rise world of steeples and campanile, there is room at the top for both a traditionalist and an innovator.

However, he must not come on too strong (in the beginning, anyway) as a radical reformer or a hidebound reactionary, since the Catholic Church in the past 15 years has been heavily buffeted by the cyclonic winds of change emanating from the reforms of Vatican Council II, which John XXIII inaugurated and Paul VI had to carry out.

Ford's River Rouge plant could easily swallow up the 108-acre Vatican City State and its 1,000 resident population. Yet the man the recruiters seek must have a wide knowledge of the world, without appearing worldly.

In a job where the pope is considered infallible in matters of doctrine, his credibility in temporal affairs must go beyond the image Madison Avenue seeks to create for other corporate heads.

Pope John Paul I served only 34 days in office, two days longer than the man who had the briefest American presidency, the almost forgotten William Henry Harrison who died April 4, 1841, from a chill he caught riding a horse in his inaugural parade.

Yet John Paul's influence on the conclave beginning Oct. 14 will be, in Cardinal Cooke's word, "pervasive."

The last time the cardinals met, the pre-election favorites were all cardinals with long management experience in the Curia, the church's central bureaucracy. But the electors passed these in favor of Albino Luciani, the patriarch of Venice, who had no Curia experience and none in the papal diplomatic corps when he became John Paul I.

Now, because of his brief influence, the names most often mentioned are pastoral types, bishops of Palermo, Sicily, Corrado Ursi of Naples, Giovanni Colombo of Milan, Giovanni Benelli of Florence and Giuseppe Siri of Genoa.

But as the long history of the papacy shows, the only certain thing is the uncertainty that will grip the crowds when white smoke rises from the little stack atop the Sistine Chapel and the senior cardinal deacon makes his way out on the center balcony of St. Peter's Basilica to announce the 264th occupant of the chair of Peter.

To him will go the keys of the kingdom, the traditional fisherman's ring and, for a world headquarters, instead of a glass and steel high-rise, the largest cathedral in Christendom the combined masterpiece of Michelangelo and all the great artists of the Renaissance.

Israelis foil bizarre Fatah naval raid in time

The Washington Post

JERUSALEM — It was a plot that Alisair Maclean would be hard-pressed to match.

A cargo ship loaded to the gunwales with seven tons of high explosives approaches the coastline at full speed and suddenly unleashes a salvo of 45 Katyusha rockets. The captain locks the steering mechanism to head the vessel toward a fuel depot, and the seven-man crew jumps overboard and into a rubber dinghy to make a daring escape.

As the sailors race to safety, the rockets slam into the crowded seaside town, and the ship and fuel depot explode in an enormous conflagration, spreading panic in the enemy camp for miles around.

The plot, however was not the stuff of which a good novel is made, but a Fatah terrorist raid which Israel's government said was foiled Saturday when an Israeli naval patrol boat sank a bomb-laden freighter off the Sinai Peninsula coast about 20 miles north of the Straits of Tiran.

The Israeli defense forces Wednesday released the details of the planned Palestinian terrorist attack on Eilat, at the foot of the Gulf of Aqaba, which authorities said originated in the Syrian port of Latakia.

According to the government's account, the 50-yard-long cargo vessel, bearing a Cypriot flag but owned by a Fatah front organization, was spotted at 3:30 p.m. by an Israeli patrol boat headed north toward Eilat.

The ship, named Agios Demetrios, aroused the suspicions of the Israeli crew because of what appeared to be rocket launchers covered by tarpaulins on her decks. Navy officials said the Agios Demetrios failed to stop when ordered, and, when warning shots were fired over her bow, attempted to ram the Israeli boat.

The Israelis opened fire on the vessel, causing some of the munitions to explode, resulting in injuries to three of the seven Fatah crewmen, government officials said.

The crew of a second Israeli boat boarded the freighter, authorities said, and found it hold stuffed with explosives and detonators and its deck crammed with Soviet-made Katyusha rocket launchers primed and ready for firing.

As the Israelis were rounding up the Fatah crew, the explosives in the hold began to burn, and shortly afterward the Agios Demetrios exploded and sank, officials said.

Israeli authorities said the terrorist squad was led by Fatah Maj. Abdullah Jaloud, whom they identified as a rocket specialist. One of several explosives experts aboard the ship, military officials said, had been a commando instructor for the terrorist squad which raided the coastal road near Tel Aviv last March, killing 37 persons. That raid triggered Israel's retaliatory invasion of Lebanon.

Interrogation of the crew, authorities said, disclosed that Saturday's plan was to fire the rockets toward Eilat, whose beaches were crowded with thousands of campers there for the Rosh Hshanah holiday weekend.

The government said that early in September the Fatah unit arrived from Lebanon at the Syrian port of Latakia, where they were bet by a man known as Abu Nizar, local Fatah agent. The crew members allegedly told their Israeli interrogators the ship was outfitted at Latakia with rocket launchers. And that two weeks later the crew received a briefing by the head of Fatah's military section, known as Abu Jihad.

On Sept. 21, the ship reached the Tripoli area of Lebanon, where shore boats loaded her with explosives and rockets. The Agios Demetrios then set sail for Port Said, passing through the Suez Canal toward the Gulf of Eilat.

In releasing details of the plot, Israeli officials repeatedly mentioned the connection to Syria, whose army is engaged in major battles with Israeli-supported Christian militias in Beirut.

Israeli government leaders are currently engaged in intense strategy sessions, discussing how Israel can aid the Christian forces without scuttling the Camp David peace agreements and the final round of Egyptian-Israeli talks scheduled for Oct. 12.

On Sunday night, the Palestinian news agency claimed that a terrorist vessel inflicted heavy damage and casualties in an attack on military installations south of Eilat and had sunk several Israeli ships anchored there. It said two crew members were killed and seven captured.

Since the Camp David agreements, Israel has been the target of increased terrorist bombings, and officials say they expect more as Egypt and Israel near a treaty signing.

On Saturday, a bomb exploded outside the Union Bank of Israel in downtown Jerusalem. Earlier, a bomb was exploded on a crowded beach in Yamit, on the Sinai coast. There were no injuries in either incident, but during the Holiday period police were called out to examine hundreds of suspicious objects.

Six Texas cities get bite of urban fund millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government granted some $264 million to 67 cities Tuesday to aid severely depressed public housing projects as part of President Carter's urban policy.

Patricia Harris, secretary of housing and urban development, said the funds will help "to restore rundown public housing projects and revitalize neighborhoods, particularly in large urban areas."

"In the past the solution to distressed housing projects was to demolish them," Mrs. Harris said at a news conference. "This is not the approach of this administration. Quite often, these projects can be turned around to provide an atmosphere in which the disadvantaged can live with pride and integrity."

Nearly $259 million of the money will go to 33 public housing authorities to upgrade projects that fall far below what HUD considers acceptable conditions.

Such work will include structural changes, conversions to lower density, overall upgrading of buildings and grounds, improvements to project security, improved management and "innovative approaches to give tenants a sense of "belonging," Mrs. Harris said.

Recipients of the grants included: Los Angeles County, $11.6 million to upgrade Carmelitos Housing Project in Long Beach, $350,000 for management improvements.

San Francisco County, $9 million to revitalize Hunter's Point housing complex, $350,000 for management improvement.

Hartford, Conn., $10 million to rehabilitate Chapter Oak Terrace project, $220,000 for management improvement.

District of Columbia, $7.1 million to rehabilitate the James Creek project, $350,000 for management improvements.

Dade County, Fla., $5 million for James Scott Homes project, $350,000 for management improvements.

Tampa, Fla., $5 million for Central Park Village project, $220,000 for management improvements.

Atlanta, $6.1 million for Techwood-Howell project, $450,000 for management improvements.

Hawaii Housing Authority, $3.5 million for Kuhio Terrace project in Honolulu, $220,000 for management improvements.

Chicago, $21.5 million for Robert Taylor Homes project, $450,000 for management improvements.

Gary, Ind., $1.5 million for Dorie Miller Homes, $220,000 for management improvements.

Indianapolis, $1.5 million for Salem Village, $220,000 for management improvements.

Louisville, $9.4 million to revitalize Parkway Place project, $350,000 for management improvements.

New Orleans, $8.4 million for St. Bernard project, $50,000 for management improvements.

Baltimore, $8 million for Somerset Homes project, $450,000 for management improvements.

Boston, $10 million for Columbia Point complex, $450,000 for management improvements.

St. Paul, $7 million for McDonough Homes project, $350,000 for management improvements.

St. Louis, $8.4 million for Webbe project and Darst complex, $350,000 for management improvements.

Jersey City, $4.9 million for Marion Gardens, $220,000 for management improvements.

Newark, $12.5 million for Hayes Homes project, $350,000 for management improvements.

New York City, $8.2 million for Claremont Village project, $450,000 for management improvements.

Akon, $2.1 million for Elizabeth Park Homes project, $220,000 for management improvements.

Cuyahoga Metropolitan Housing Authority, Cleveland, $6 million for Woodhill Homes project, $350,000 for management improvements.

Columbus, $4.7 million for Sawyer Manor and Trevitti Heights projects, $350,000 for management improvements.

'Losses' focus of water hearings

AUSTIN — "Transmission losses" of water in the Colorado River between the proposed Stacy Reservoir and Lake Buchanan were the focus of attention as the latest round of Texas Water Commission hearings on that project got underway Wednesday.

S.W. Freese, consulting engineer who proposed the study for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, reported he had anticipated a 32.2 percent loss in the river between the two points, and had come out with a figure of 32.6 percent.

"Remarkably accurate, don't you think?" asked Thomas George, attorney for Lake Travis Improvement Association.

"Yes," agreed Freese, "it should have been."

Freese testified that "transmission losses" between points on the river are produced by water filling up alluvial sands (either by flooding or seepage from the river channel), water loss from vegetation, recharge into underground aquifers and evaporation. Asked why he had excluded diversions by "riparian" users for various purposes, Freese replied such man-made diversions are "not a part of transmission losses."

Freese also testified regarding the effects of inflows into the Colorado between the Stacy site and Lake Buchanan from Pecos Bayou and the San Saba River.

Much of the testimony centered on the reliability of data from stream gauging stations on the Colorado, with George referring to a U.S. Geological Survey report indicating the stations had a possible margin of error of 10 percent on the flows.

This round of hearings is expected to continue through Friday.

Texas frat member, pledges indicted

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A member and two pledges of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at the University of Texas were indicted by the Travis County grand jury Wednesday on charges of felony aggravated assault.

The indictments stem from an incident Aug. 31 when an 18-year-old UT freshman said he was beaten and sexually abused by several youths in and near the ATO fraternity house.

The indictments were returned against ATO member Ron Alan Wilson, 19, Lawton, Okla., and pledges

James Patrick Hinson, 19, and Robert Taylor Herrin III, 18, both of Houston.

The charges carry possible sentences of two to 10 years in prison.

Austin attorney Roy Q. Minton said the three would appear in court next week to enter pleas of innocence. Minton said there have been no plea negotiations and he expects to take the case before a jury for trial.

The grand jury's final report Wednesday also said the Travis County district attorney should continue to monitor activities in the UT area to decrease disorderly conduct there.

Four plead guilty in fraud

BALTIMORE (AP) — Four of 18 persons indicted on conspiracy charges last week have pleaded guilty to a federal charge of conspiring to defraud the General Services Administration.

The four, including a government employee, a former federal worker and the president and former vice president of a Maryland firm, pleaded guilty as a result of a plea bargaining arrangement in which they agreed to cooperate with federal prosecutors.

Daniel Clements, the assistant U.S. attorney handling the continuing investigation, said all four have provided "substantial" cooperation since before their indictments, and asked for a delay in sentencing until at least next April.

The indictments were the first charges brought in a multi-city investigation of the GSA, the federal government's chief landlord and supplier.

Sources have estimated that losses to the GSA through fraud could run as high as $9.4 million.

Those who entered pleas were:

— H. David Levyne, 44, president of James Hilles Associates Inc. of Westminster.

— Charles Oertel, 54, former vice president of Hilles.

— William Eason, 62, former manager of the GSA self-service store at the Navy Annex in Arlington, Va.

— Robert Rawes, 58, manager of the GSA self-service store at Jefferson Plaza in Arlington.

The men were the first of those indicted to enter pleas. Each admitted participating in a scheme in which the Hilles firm provided gifts such as televisions, jewelry and trips to store managers who authorized false or inflated payments to Hilles, which sold office supplies to the government.

In return, the charges said, the managers would certify phony bills on government credit cards used by four non-GSA federal employees. Hilles would be paid for the goods, which were never delivered, according to the indictments.

Clements said that between February 1974 and June 1977, Hilles bilked the government out of $1.69 million.

He explained that the figure represented what Hilles paid for the gifts to store managers plus 30 percent.

DES could be danger to health

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small percentage of the several million women exposed to the synthetic estrogen DES during pregnancy will develop "serious health problems," federal health officials are warning.

They urged the four million to six million American mothers who were given the drug during pregnancy and their daughters to get prompt medical checkups because of the cancer risks they face.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said that while "an overwhelming majority" of the several million persons exposed to DES during pregnancy will not suffer any ill-effects, a small number will develop cancer.

Califano said a task force studying the problem concluded that no more than 1.4 daughters per 1,000 exposed in the womb to the drug will suffer cancer of the vagina or cervix between the ages of 14 to 22, less than previously feared. He said the risk may be as low as 1.4 per 10,000.

The risk of breast or gynecologic cancer from DES in the mothers is unproven, the task force said, but it expressed concern for this possibi-ty and called for more research.

DES was widely prescribed from the 1940s until as late as 1970 for pregnant women to prevent miscarriages.

Those who entered pleas were:

Woman charged with starving boy

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — A preliminary hearing for a woman charged in the starving death of a 6-year-old to resume here today, following a young girl's testimony Wednesday that she saw the boy die after he was "dropped" on the floor.

During the hearing for Brenda Carr, who is charged in the death of young Melvin Kirk Ward, the 11-year-old daughter of the woman's common-law husband said Wednesday she saw her father, Larry Gough, and Ms. Carr, 26, abuse Ward by beating him and putting him in a clothes dryer and a closet and even yanking out his teeth.

Ms. Carr and Gough, 36, are charged with second-degree murder in the death. Gough's preliminary hearing is scheduled for Nov. 8.

The girl said she saw Melvin drinking from a baby's bottle on the day he died, and told Gough, who twisted his arm.

She said Gough "had him by his arm, and he dropped him" onto the living room floor "and he was out."

The body of Melvin Ward was found early in July buried under a refrigerator in Wise County, Texas. The boy allegedly was starved to death in Lawton after being abused.

Cynthia Gough testified on Wednesday she saw both Gough and Ms. Carr abuse the boy by putting him in a clothes dryer and then turning the dryer on.

She said the first time he was put in the dryer, he was being punished for not learning his numbers. After the two put him in the dryer and tumbled it, they told him to try to learn the numbers again, she testified.

"Then Brenda said, 'If you can't do it, we'll put you back in the dryer and let you sleep there,'" the girl testified.

When he still couldn't do his school lesson right, he was put back in the dryer, she said.

When Assistant District Attorney Robert Schulte asked the girl if Melvin would climb into the dryer by himself she said, "Sometimes they'd have to help him in because he was too scared."

The boy also was punished by being forced into a closet, she testified.

The girl now lives in a children's home in Texas. During her testimony, which brought tears to the eyes of many courtroom observers, she said that the boy, who was Ms. Carr's son, had also been denied all but a sparse amount of food on many occasions.

During his final days she said he was given only small amounts of leftovers, such as cold oatmeal, beans and macaroni to eat.

By this time, "he was staying all night and all day" in the closet and allowed to come out only to use the bathroom. "And he had to count for his supper," she said.

"He was real skinny," she said. "His shoulder blades would stick out. He couldn't stand up straight. His stomach was fat, but his ribs showed."

She said the family left Odessa, Texas, and went to Wichita Falls and moved from there to a mobile home in Lawton, she said. In Lawton, the mistreatment of Melvin continued "but it got worse," Miss Gough testified.

$12,000 airplane stolen from airport in Odessa

ODESSA — An Odessa man told Ector County Sheriff's deputies Wednesday afternoon his 1964 single-engine Piper Cherokee airplane was stolen sometime between 2 p.m. Tuesday and 3 p.m. Wednesday, according to authorities.

Johnny Ray Atmstetler of Odessa told deputies someone twisted off the lock on the hangar where his $12,000 airplane was housed and apparently flew away in the machine, said Deputy Captain Don Register early today.

The airport, located in the 7600 block of Texas 385, houses a number of private planes, said Register.

The plane reported as stolen was described as being maroon and silver in color.

Rhodesian trip called ploy to embarrass Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's forthcoming trip to the United States is a political ploy designed to embarrass President Carter, according to a ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"I think the plan is to use Smith in the election campaign this fall," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who is in line to become the committee's chairman. "He can be injected into the campaign in an effort to mount an attack on Carter's African policies."

Smith and three black members of Rhodesia's biracial, transitional government were invited to make a public relations tour of the United States by 18 Republican and nine Democratic senators.

Smith and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, a colleague on Rhodesia's Executive Council, plan to arrive in New York on Saturday and travel to Washington early next week. The other members of the council, Jeremiah Chirau, and Bishop Abel Muzorewa, plan a separate trip to the United States later.

The State Department announced Wednesday it had agreed to grant visas to the Rhodesians in hopes the visit would help bring about an end to the six-year Rhodesian civil war.

Church and Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, head of the African Affairs subcommittee, expressed little interest in inviting the Rhodesians to meet with the committee. They did not rule out the possibility of such a meeting but said they would "have to think about it."

Church said that with 27 senators ready to act as hosts, Smith "won't lack for a senatorial audience."

The senators, most of whom describe themselves as conservatives, were led by Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-

Calif., who said Smith and the black members of the transitional government deserve the right to tell their story in person to the government and people of the United States.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said that story is one of "peaceful transition and democratic processes that will stand in stark contrast to the scenario outlined by the Marxist guerrilla forces."

Clark said the decision by the Carter administration to issue visas to Smith and other members of his government was "probably the right choice to make, especially if it can lead to an all-parties conference" which would include anti-Smith guerrilla leaders.

The White House and State Department have opposed the Smith plan to move Rhodesia toward majority rule on grounds it would maintain for at least 10 years some aspects of the white supremacist rule that has dominated the nation's 90-year history.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass denounced the decision to issue visas to Smith and the others as "disgraceful."

"After long maneuverings the U.S. authorities have made a move that is a gross violation of the United Nations resolution prohibiting U.N. member countries from issuing visas to members of the unlawful Salisbury clique," Tass said in a dispatch from Washington.

State Department spokesman

Thomas Reston said a decision was made to make an "exemption" to the U.N. sanctions against Rhodesia because, "we believe this visit can contribute to the process of achieving a settlement."

Joshua Nkoma and Robert Mugabe, the co-leaders of the Patriotic Front, have said they do not believe that the free one-man, one-vote elections Smith has promised by the end of the year will be fair.

They have expressed their views in several visits to the United States.

Judge impatient in prison rights trial

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has issued repeated warnings against tedious and time-consuming questioning by attorneys in a suit filed against the Texas prison system by inmates alleging their rights have been violated.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice Wednesday asked prosecutors if they are trying to "wear everybody out" and termed their questioning "some kind of filibuster." The trial began Monday and some observers say it could last up to four months.

Sole suicide survivor to get family belongings

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Rachel David, 15, sole survivor of a suicide leap that took the lives of her mother and six siblings, will receive the belongings of her family under a vote of the Salt Lake County Commission. But the action could be overruled by a probate judge.

The commission took the action Wednesday night in reaction to comments by county investigator John Christensen that the belongings of the Immanuel David family probably would be sold at auction to defray the $4,000 burial costs.

However, Merrill Davis, a deputy county attorney, says he has already submitted the David estate for probate in the 3rd District Court.

Davis said it is up to the judge to determine the rights of inheritance for the survivor and the validity of creditor claims. However, he said the county's claims take precedence over those of creditors.

Immanuel David, who claimed to be God and kept his family in seclusion in hotel suites, killed himself by carbon monoxide poisoning July 31. Three days later his wife and seven children plunged from an 11th floor hotel balcony. Police said the youngest children may have been thrown by the mother.

Rachel is still unconscious but continues to improve, doctors say.

Girls caught trying to burn bar

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Austin police said today that teen-aged girls poured gasoline around a north Austin bar, with about 30 persons inside, and were caught in the act of trying to ignite it early Wednesday.

One 16-year-old girl was arrested and turned over to juvenile authorities. Police said she admitted that she and her friends attempted to set fire to the bar because they were angry about being thrown out earlier.

Bob Miller entertains Lions Club

Members and guests of the Downtown Lions Club were entertained by Bob Miller, appearing as "Squeaky the Magician," at the club's Wednesday noon meeting in the Midland Hilton.

Miller, a native Midlander who returned to his hometown several months ago after a prolonged residence on the West Coast, performed one act of magic after another, to the amazement of his audience.

"Squeaky" was introduced by Past District Gov. Duke Jimerson, program chairman.

Singer wins Nobel Prize

MIAMI (AP) — "Are you sure it's true?" Isaac Bashevis Singer asked a reporter who had just notified him he was the winner of the 1978 Nobel Prize for literature.

"I'm grateful, but at the same time I am sorry that writers greater than I did not get it," said the 74-year-old Jewish novelist and short story writer. "I hope in the future that all people who deserve recognition shall get it."

Singer, who has lived in New York since leaving his Polish homeland 43 years ago, said he was in Miami to celebrate the Jewish High Holy Days.

"No writer writes for prizes," he said. "Tolstoy was a candidate and some other writer got it. So, the prize, while it's pleasant to get it, it doesn't prove, really, so much ..."

"But, those who do get it should be grateful. This is how I feel. I never expected anything. If you had called me and told me I had won a prize of $500 I would also have been surprised, although I did get a few of these prizes. I don't think anyone owes me anything."

Lebanese radio station tells of continued fire

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The Syrian bombardment of Beirut's Christian districts diminished somewhat just before dawn after an all-night pounding, then "resumed and continues unabated," the Lebanese capital's Christian radio station reported today.

The Christians' Voice of Lebanon gave no new casualty figures but said four Syrian army trucks "full of bodies of Syrian soldiers killed in the fighting" were seen driving away from Beirut.

More than 1,000 dead or wounded Lebanese were reported in the first seven days of fighting that began Sept. 27.

The Christian broadcast said Syrian shelling of East Beirut and its environs "did not cease for a single moment during the night." The Lebanese government station reported: "Shelling continued during the night while efforts continued to find a solution to the situation."

The two Beirut stations and reports sent out by plane were the only sources of news of the fighting. Commercial communications channels were knocked out by direct hits on the electric power stations Tuesday.

The blackout left the Christian sector without water, and the threat of famine also was growing there because Syrian troops were blockading all approach roads and streets.

Christian militiamen were reported fighting to dislodge the Syrians from one bridge on the highway to the Christian hinterland north of the city, but so far there was no indication they were having any success.

"Beirut is like a military island surrounded by smoke, flames and destruction. ... There is no water, electricity, transportation, medicine or food supplies," the Christian station said.

The broadcast said bodies were rotting in the streets and in hospitals because the heavy fighting made it impossible to dispose of the dead.

More than 400,000 of East Beirut's 600,000 Christian residents were believed to have escaped to the mountains or the countryside. But the Syrians were reported shelling Christian towns in the mountains and there were expectations of an offensive against Jounieh, the unofficial Christian capital 12 miles north of Beirut and the Christian militias' supply port.

The air control center in Cyprus said the Beirut airport was still open officially, but some planes avoided landing there because of reports of fighting in the vicinity of the airport.

Diplomats at the United Nations conferred on the crisis. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Security Council President Jacques Leprette of France appealed to all those involved in the fighting to end "all acts of violence." Waldheim offered to help arrange a truce.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance issued a statement supporting the Waldheim-Leprette appeal.

San Antonio councilmen refuse free tickets

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two city council members here have refused to accept free season tickets from the National Basketball Association's San Antonio Spurs, saying they believe the practice is unethical.

Councilman John Steen said Wednesday that the free tickets were "a clear conflict of interest" because the council has direct control over the rental rates paid by the Spurs at the city-owned HemisFair Arena. The council also sets the concession prices charged by the team.

Councilman Henry Cisneros sent a letter Tuesday to Spurs President Angelo Drossos, saying that he was refusing the tickets because he has reservations about the ethics of the practice.

Drossos, Mayor Lila Cockrell, City Manager Tom Huebner and City Attorney Jane Macon, however, have defended the longtime custom of giving two season tickets, worth a total of $670.80, to each of the 11 city council members and some city officials.

"There is nothing secret or under the table about this," said Drossos. "I don't think it is any kind of big deal whatsoever."

Drossos said the custom, which has been in effect since the team moved here in 1973, did not affect the concession or rental rates.

"Regardless of the price they set, council members would still have complimentary tickets as city officials and as representatives of the community," added Drossos.

The Spurs sponsored a trip for city officials to an exhibition game in Austin Wednesday night. Steen took the trip, but said he will reimburse the Spurs for his share.

"I'll enjoy the trip and I want to go, but I'm going to pay the pro rate share for my wife and me," said Steen, who added that he also plans to reimburse the Spurs for his two free season tickets to last year's games.

On Tuesday, Cisneros noted the "unprecedented level of pressure and lobbying," some of it from the Spurs, that surrounded the council's recent decision on awarding a cable television franchise.

The Spurs had supported one firm that would have telecast all of the Spurs' road games on local cable television. The city's cable television contract was awarded, however, to the other competing firm, which is negotiating with the team. Mayor Cockrell said she consulted Mrs. Macon and has been advised "that the practice does not violate the city charter or city policy." Councilmen Joe Alderete and Glen Hartman have also defended the practice. "But I do think it is a clear conflict of interest," said Steen.

Youth Centers seeking members

With the high schools in full swing and with student activities going full blast, it also is time for the Midland High and Lee High Youth Centers to recruit new members, a spokesman for the centers said today.

He said that although membership cards are available throughout the year, students who purchase them early will have the benefit of the membership for the full year.

The Youth Centers are a non-profit corporation belonging to the citizens of Midland. A rotating board of directors composed of residents of the community directs the affairs of the centers. Each center has its own full-time director.

Byrne O'Neill, chairman of the Centers' board of directors, said Midland is fortunate in having these facilities since they rarely are seen in other communities.

"They provide a meeting place and wholesome recreation and entertainment for students of the high schools," he said.

He noted that each center is located adjacent to its respective high school campus. After-game and special occasion dances are held throughout the school year for all students, he explained, but members pay less to attend these functions. The centers have pool tables, ping pong and juke boxes. "Disco" sound systems, which are used at the dances, recently have been installed.

O'Neill said that parents as well as students are invited to visit the Youth Centers to check facilities, inquire about membership and see what is offered.

Legionnaire's disease confirmed in cases

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Health officials say two additional cases of Legionnaire's disease have been confirmed in the Shreveport area.

A 51-year-old Bossier City man has been treated and released from Veterans' Hospital in Shreveport and a 60-year-old Logansport man is recovering, said Karla Swacker of the state Department of Health and Human Resources.

"The Logansport man attended a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Dallas in late August where several cases of Legionnaire's disease turned up," Miss Swacker said Wednesday.

The Bossier City man had not attend the convention, she said.

State health officials said two weeks ago, five cases of disease have been found in the state in the last year, including four since May.

Two of the five persons died, although the health department said two weeks ago that one of the victims was responding positively to treatment when he died of other causes.

Local health units have contacted 156 persons from Louisiana who attended the convention in Dallas, Miss Swacker said Wednesday.

"There still are about 60 more we are trying to locate," she said.

Last week, state officials said the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reported about 100 persons from Louisiana had attended the convention and might have been exposed to the disease.

The symptoms of Legionnaire's disease are similar to pneumonia.

Questions on the ERA debate are answered

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ratifications, deadlines and rescissions are a few of the terms used as the Senate debates whether to give state legislatures more time to decide whether to make the Equal Rights Amendment part of the Constitution.

Here, in question-and-answer form, is a primer on what the debate is about.

Q: What is the Equal Rights Amendment?

A: The ERA, approved by both houses of Congress in 1972, reads as follows:

"Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex.

"The Congress shall have the power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

"The amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification."

Q: Why is the ERA important?

A: Its supporters say it would give women more clout in obtaining such things as equal pay for equal work, and could also benefit men when they are treated unequally in matters such as alimony. Its opponents say it could lead to approval of homosexual marriages and sending women to serve in combat during wartime. They argue that present laws and constitutional guarantees give adequate protection.

Q: What does ratification require?

A: Ratification requires the approval of 38 state legislatures, three-fourths of them.

Q: How much time do the legislatures have to do this?

A: Congress set a seven-year time limit on ratification and less than six months are left. The deadline is next March 22.

Q: How many states have ratified?

A: Thirty-five.
Q: That means only three more are needed, doesn't it?

A: Maybe yes, maybe no. Four legislatures have since voted to rescind, or withdraw, their ratifications. Legal scholars disagree about whether they can do this. The Justice Department says Congress will have to decide the question after 38 states have voted to ratify, if they do.

Q: What are the chances that enough states will ratify by March 22?

A: ERA backers don't think they are very good. That's why they have asked Congress to extend the deadline. They originally asked for seven more years, but the House scaled this down to 30 months and eight days, which would expire June 30, 1982.

Q: Can Congress do this?

A: It has never been tried before, so nobody knows. If the deadline is extended, it probably will be challenged in the courts.

Q: Does the Constitution require time limits?

A: No. The Constitution doesn't say anything about time limits. For more than a century, Congress did not set any. But since the prohibition amendment in 1917, it has required ratification within seven years.

Q: What do the courts say about it?

A: The Supreme Court, in two separate rulings, has said that Congress has the power to set reasonable time limits and that it is up to Congress to determine what is reasonable.

Q: How long has ratification usually taken?

A: No amendment that has been ratified has ever taken longer than four years. The average has been 1.2 years. Some that were submitted years ago without time limits, however, are still rattling around unratified.

Q: Which states have ratified and then rescinded their action?

A: Idaho, Kentucky, Tennessee and Nebraska. Kentucky's rescision was vetoed by the state's acting governor.

Q: Which states have never ratified the ERA?

A: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Utah and Virginia.

Joe Bond and Rainy Calhoun

4-H Gold Star girl, boy named

By PATSY GORDON
R-T Lifestyle Editor

Rainy Calhoun and Joe Bond were pinned 1978 Midland County 4-H Gold Star Girl and Boy, respectively, at the annual 4-H achievement banquet held Monday night at the VFW Post 7208. Both are seniors at Midland High School.

Project award winners also were presented pins by Wanda Collier and Royce Boyce, 4-H adult leaders.

Miss Calhoun, 17, first became involved in 4-H work March 10, 1970 and her first project was sewing. At the ages of 12 and 13, she competed in the District 6 Dress Revue and both years received high point, a blue ribbon.

Miss Calhoun is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rayford Calhoun of Route 3.

In the cooking project, she has entered the Midland County 4-H Food Show six times, and two of those six years she represented the county at the District 6 Food Show twice.

Short term projects Miss Calhoun has been involved in include powder puff mechanics, photography and crafts.

She began giving method demonstrations for several years and went to State 4-H Roundup for this project this year after winning second place at District 6 competition for demonstrating horse. She went on to Southern Regional competition in Montgomery, Ala., where she came in fifth.

Some of the offices she has held include every office of the Cotton Flat 4-H Club, secretary and chairman of Midland County 4-H Council, co-chairman of District 6 4-H Council, and she is a member of the Texas State 4-H Council and the 4-H Vaulting Team of the 4-H council. The latter is gymnastics on horseback.

Other projects of the outstanding 4-H'er include livestock raising, showing of lambs and calves and rabbit raising.

Bond, 17 and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Bond of 2502 W. Kansas Ave., wanted to be a 4-H'er since sixth grade because his sister was involved in Future Farmers of America. He is a member of Green Acres 4-H Club.

His first demonstration was horse and in this he placed second at district competition. He has had projects in calves, and has shown barrows or swine and lambs. This year, he did a method demonstration on landscape horticulture, placing second at district and then going on to State 4-H Roundup to place fifth.

This outstanding 4-H'er is a member of the Midland County 4-H Drill and Precision Team and has served on the Midland County 4-H Council and as vice president of his club.

Annual book sale coincides with library anniversary

For sale: Time machines. Where? The Friends of the Library 11th annual Used Book and Record Sale slated Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Midland County Exhibit Building on East Highway 80.

The Midland County Public Library is celebrating this year its 75th anniversary, in conjunction with the 25th anniversary of the Friends of the Library. The first sale was held Nov. 21-23, 1968, to coincide with the 10th anniversary of the opening of the present library facilities.

These time machines can be held in the hand and will instantly send you back in time to the adventures of the Vikings, fighting at Valley Forge.

Bull Run or Bastogne or forward into unknown space. You are there for romance, mystery and adventure while curled up in your favorite chair. There are even "machines" with condensed programming for you on history, economics, business, medicine, chemistry, religion, math, cooking, etc. And don't forget the children. There will be favorite stories for bedtime and dictionaries and encyclopedias for learning.

Keeping with tradition, Preview Night will be held from 7-9 p.m. Friday and a $1 per family donation is asked. This will give bookworms first chance to discover the books they've been looking for, or unthought of treasures.

There is no admission charge from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, or from 1-6 p.m. Sunday. On the final day, all items or half-priced or $1 a yard.

The Midland Genealogical Society will have a "Trash to Treasures" sale in conjunction with the Friends' sale. All proceeds go to buy genealogical books for the Midland County Library.

In 1903, two women's club met in Midland to form a corporation known as the Midland Library Association. Those clubs were the Ninety-Nine Club and the Time and Tide Club. Soon another group, the Woman's Wednesday Club, joined the two.

After raising money by selling homemade ice cream in the summer of 1904, the association bought some lots on the corner of Wall and Colorado Streets for $125. These same lots sold for $85,000 in 1956.

A library building soon was under construction at a total cost of $1,550. The first books were donated by the women who also served as volunteer librarians.

For 25 years, the women donated their time and services until, in 1928, the Midland County Commissioners voted to make the library a county library and moved the location into the new courthouse across the streets. The Library Association donated all their books to the county and sold its building to the Episcopal Church. Evelyn Bird Smith was hired by the county as the first librarian. The library occupied two rooms on the main floor of the courthouse and the children's department was in the basement.

As Midland grew, so did the library. In 1953, the Midland Altruist Club organized a Friends of the Library and Mrs. John Braue was the first president. Soon the Friends began circulating a petition for a bond election for the construction of a separate library building. Five years later, in 1958, the dream had become a reality. A new library, tax supported and for the use of all people in the county, was completed on the corner of West Missouri and Colorado Streets.

From 1958 to 1966, the library offered the traditional services...books and magazines for all ages and a story hour for pre-school children, plus an unusual service for a small public library, the petroleum department. The latter was created by the Friends and supported by individuals and companies of the petroleum industry and sponsored by the West Texas Geological Society. This section of the library soon became one of the best petroleum libraries in the Southwest.

In 1967, the Friends realized it was time for the library to expand its horizons. First, they provided a collection of recordings to be loaned or listened to in the library. For three years, the Friends book sale profits were used to buy recordings and equipment.

Next, Friends began the framed prints for loan collection, and book sale money was used three years toward the purchase of a basic collection of prints.

The Midland Genealogical Society, building on a small collection of books donated by the Daughters of the American Revolution, is busily establishing the Midland County Library as a fine resource for genealogical research.

As the current building expansion program begins, the Friends will be planning how to best use their "Memorial and Expansion Fund" in the furnishing and decorating of the new building addition, which formerly was the American Legion Hall. The county commissioners court reportedly is looking into architect drawings.

Library Friends recall first used book sale

The first used book and record sale was sponsored Nov. 21-23, 1968, by the Friends of the Library Nov. 21-23, 1968, to coincide with the 10th anniversary of the opening of the present Midland County Public Library facilities. It was held in what is now known as the "periodical room" of the library, and at that time it was the meeting room and art gallery, which had a new exhibit each month prepared by the Friends.

A member of the board of the Midland Friends had visited the Amarillo Friends sale and reported the many values of the sale beyond the much needed funds earned. They found the entire community could participate by donating the sale items and all members of the Friends could help with the preparations.

Many a very tired friend who had spent untold hours working for the sale felt more than rewarded for their time and sore backs as they watched whole families of underprivileged Midlanders, who had walked long distances, carry armloads of books home on the last day of the sale when the prices were drastically reduced, often to a penny or two a book.

Mrs. E. S. Keefe recalls five young brothers and sisters who came every day to lovingly admire a set of encyclopedias they yearned for. Their excitement when they saw on the last day they could afford them brought tears to the eyes of several Friends salespersons. They proudly told that their father said he would build a case for them.

More than 6,000 items were sold, and over $500,000 profit was primarily spent on new records for the Music Room.

At the time of the first sale, Mrs. John J. Redfern Jr. was president of Friends, Mrs. E. S. Keefe served as chairman of the book sale and Mrs. Henry Tillet and Mrs. Watson LaForce Jr. were in charge of sorting and pricing the items.

The Junior League of Midland, Inc., is sponsoring and staffing a cardio-pulmonary resuscitation course at Edison and Austin Freshman Schools during the schools' health classes Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. The CPR committee members are Mrs. Ross D. Roberts, chairman, and Mrs. Robert Davenport, Mrs. Bart Hotchkiss, Mrs. Gary Gilliland, Mrs. Bob Page, Mrs. Jack Nini and Mrs.

Carroll Thomas. CPR is best defined as artificial breathing and artificial circulation of blood provided by a trained rescuer, which means the rescuer must externally provide the oxygen and pump the ox-ygénated blood for a victim because the victim's own lungs and heart cannot do it. It is an emergency first aid procedure which may save the life of a victim of cardio-pulmonary arrest. Some causes of cardiopulmonary arrest are heart attack, drowning, electrical shock, suffocation, poisoning, choking and smoke inhalation. Any person interested in learning CPR may contact the Midland Heart Association.

His models not made of flesh

By MARIAN FOX Associated Press Writer MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — When Dennis Collier opened his architectural scale model firm, he got a lot of calls from young women who wanted to know whether he could help them with their careers. "I tried to make it clear to these 15- and 16-year-old girls that the models I made were Plexiglas and not flesh," said Collier, 32. "I'd tell the girls it would be nice to make them models, but I had to make money." The name of his firm — Modelmaker — drew the calls. It's the only business of its kind in Memphis. In a world in which most people concentrate on big projects, Collier thinks small. After graduation from the University of Tennessee, he started work as an architect but found himself making scale models in his spare time. Modelmaking, he decided, was what he wanted to do.

"Even now, I'll stop and think, 'When am I going to stop playing and go to work?' But every time I do something else, I end up doing this at night." "Business comes in bundles. It's erratic. Sometimes I have things stacked up and then at other times I'll have a week or so with nothing to do." More architects, he said, are using models in addition to the conventional drawings. "Models are less deceptive than drawings," he said. "Renderings are usually drawn out of perspective with huge towering trees. It's really difficult for anyone to see what they will really be getting. A model is something physical. It's there and anyone can see it. By adding people or trees, anyone can see exactly how big it is." Collier's creations cost from $500 to more than $8,000. Most of them — those with the most detail — are made of transparent plastic and have windows and even furniture. Others with less detail are made from wood and cardboard. Figures of cars, trees and people are ordered to scale. Collier has discovered flaws in projects when pieces made to scale didn't fit. He said he uncovered an architectural mistake that would have cost more than $15,000 to correct after construction began. Ideally, he has six to eight weeks for model-building. "Usually the architect comes to me with the blueprints and he's already behind schedule," he said. He took two weeks to build the model for the 11-story, $15 million Pulaski Savings & Loan near Little Rock, Ark. And not two 40-hour weeks: "I went three days without sleep. A short day was 16 hours." Nevertheless, Collier said he enjoys his work. "I enjoy working with my hands. I enjoy it a lot more than drawing something on paper and then waiting for years for it to be built to be able to see what I have done. I can put it on scale and have control of it."

SORORITY NEWS

BETA SIGMA PHI CITY COUNCIL

The Midland City Council of Beta Sigma Phi announced final plans for a fall dance Oct. 21 during a recent meeting. Music for the dance will be provided by "The Showdown Band." It was reported a letter had been received announcing Oct. 22-28 as Crime Prevention Week and asking the chapter to request a guest speaker for the week. Plans were made to sell poppies for the VFW.

The next citywide meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 6 in Trinity Presbyterian Church. The Cherry Orchard will present a style show.

XI ALPHA MU CHAPTER, BETA SIGMA PHI

Alice Williams was hostess to Xi Alpha Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Final plans were made for members, their families and a group of friends to attend the football game this weekend in Dallas between the Dallas Cowboys and New York Giants.

It was announced the sorority's Harvest Ball will be Oct. 21. Preceding the dance, a cocktail party will be held in the home of Kay and Sam Blank.

Betty Isaacs presented the program on New York and New Jersey.

Blind juror serves

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—June Loring, 62, has become the first blind juror to serve in a Fresno court since a law went into effect Jan. 1, 1978, allowing blind people to serve as jurors.

Mrs. Loring, the wife of Cantor Michael Loring of Temple Beth Israel, was impaneled to consider a burglary case.

Well, I just listened very intently," she said. "I couldn't see anyone's expression or dress. You know I have a big advantage."

DEAR ABBY

Husband sings too much

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband loves to sing. He has had a few voice lessons and is quite good for an amateur. He has a large repertoire of songs and even has the piano accompaniment on tape to take with him when he goes where there will be no piano accompanist.

Sometimes he sings beautifully, but he usually sings too long and he frequently forgets the lyrics. He is 74.

The problem is that he wants ME to ask him to sing when we have guests, or when we go elsewhere as guests. Our friends have been very patient with him so far, but no one else has ever asked him to sing, and when I ask him, it's like asking little Johnny to recite before a captive audience.

For years I have urged him to join a choral group, but he prefers to sing solo. This partly because he can't read music, and partly because he can't hold a part if someone is singing a different note next to him.

Am I wrong in refusing to ask him to sing? He gets very upset with me, and says if I loved him I'd cooperate. Is there a solution?—SINGER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. Suggest that he give recitals, invite his friends, and sing to his heart's content.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is one more comment in the debate on the mother-daughter trust that has been raging in your column.

It seems that a great many mothers have among their daily chores the cleaning up of their children's rooms. During that cleaning, mothers invariably discover things that their children prefer to keep secret.

Fortunately, I have never had that problem. My mother has always believed that I should clean up my own room—or not clean it up, as I choose. Besides, she has enough other things to do without doing for me that which I am perfectly capable of doing for myself.—N. L. IN W. H.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGNER

(Fri., Oct. 6)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There are delays and obstacles in your path today, but if you persevere you will be successful in overcoming your problems. Persistence is the keyword for success in your projects.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can get an early start on a trip that is important to your welfare, but don't let some delay bother you later. Have the meetings that can be most helpful, worthwhile. Think, be active, interesting.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Start handling responsibilities early and accomplish much. Don't be hesitant about asking advice from loved ones. Feel more secure.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Any revisions in arrangements with associates can be done successfully today. Express yourself clearly, precisely. Calm the ruffled feathers of one who does not agree with you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Schedule your work intelligently otherwise you will be frustrated and not accomplish much. Improve health via exercise, etc.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make recreational plans early and you find they work out beautifully later. Show true devotion for a loved one and get fine response.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The situation at home is both good and bad, so concentrate on the good and all works out fine. A project you start could meet with stumbling blocks, but keep at it and you succeed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact a good friend and gain the cooperation you need for some fine plan you have in mind. Get out reports and pay bills on time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be sure you analyze your property and possessions correctly so that you know where you really stand. Find new outlet for success, if necessary. Make needed repairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be persistent if you want to gain personal aims today. After a busy day at business, you can enjoy the social side of life. Make sure that you budget your money carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You stand a better chance of gaining your objectives if you do some careful planning. Work out differences with one you confide in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get in touch with friends early and make plans for a get-together later in the day. You may have an argument with someone, but don't let it bother you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to handle a bigwig with kid gloves if you are to gain your objectives. Make bigwigs aware of your talents. Settle credit affairs.

Italian cuisine: Spirited food

By DARLA WELLES
Copley News Service

Pasta and sauce.
What could be more Italian. Or more delicious. Or more characteristic of a style of food preparation that is not just cooking — but cooking with spirit.

The Italian cuisine is robust, seasoned richly, yet discreetly, with the skillful blending of herbs and spices standing out as one of its most distinctive qualities.

Many of the sauces that flavor Italian specialties are simmered gently for hours to achieve that perfect melding of the seasonings, the perfect texture of the sauce.

Yet, by and large, the cooking is neither elaborate nor difficult.

Exemplifying the ease with which delectable Italian meals can be prepared are two meatless pasta dishes, spaghetti with marinara sauce and green noodles in sauce.

The marinara sauce is quick to make, requiring only 45 minutes of simmering time. The sauce can be used with a variety of different pastas for a change in texture and appearance.

The green noodle dish takes longer because the sauce is simmered for a full hour and a half and because it takes a little time to make the fresh spinach-flavored noodles. (Of course, packaged green noodles could be substituted, but why not make the extra effort to make the meal special?)

For those who just can't eat spaghetti without meat, there are a number of alternatives — serving a side dish of spicy meatballs or Italian sausage or chicken broiled and basted with a mixture of butter and Italian-style seasonings.

Or try serving a hearty antipasto plate of meats, cheese and vegetables — marinated and plain.

Recipes for the two pasta dishes follow.

SPAGHETTI WITH MARINARA SAUCE

- 2 tbsps. olive or salad oil
  - 2 tbsps. margarine or butter
  - 1 or 2 cloves garlic, minced
  - 1 (28-oz.) can tomatoes in puree
  - 2 tbsps. chopped parsley
  - Salt
  - One-fourth tsp. oregano, crushed
  - One-eighth tsp. pepper
  - 8 ozs. spaghetti
  - 3 quarts boiling water
  - Grated Parmesan cheese (about one-half cup)
- In medium saucepan, heat oil and margarine.
Add garlic and saute until lightly browned. Puree tomatoes in electric blender about five seconds or crush with fork. Stir tomatoes, parsley, pepper, oregano and one-half teaspoon salt into saucepan. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Uncover and continue cooking 15 minutes longer. Taste and add more salt and pepper, if desired.

While sauce is cooking, gradually add spaghetti and one tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. To serve, spoon sauce over spaghetti and sprinkle on Parmesan cheese, as desired. Serves four.

SPINACH NOODLES IN SAUCE

- 1 (10.5-oz.) pkg. frozen spinach, cooked and thoroughly drained
- 4 cups flour
- Three-fourths tsp. salt
- 3 eggs
- 1 tbsps. salt
- One-fourth cup oil
- 2 small onions, minced
- 1 (29-oz.) can Italian plum tomatoes, crushed
- 1 (6-oz.) can tomato paste
- 1 (6-oz.) can water, or part water, part dry wine
- Salt to taste
- One-half tsp. pepper
- One-fourth tsp. oregano

One-half tsp. basil

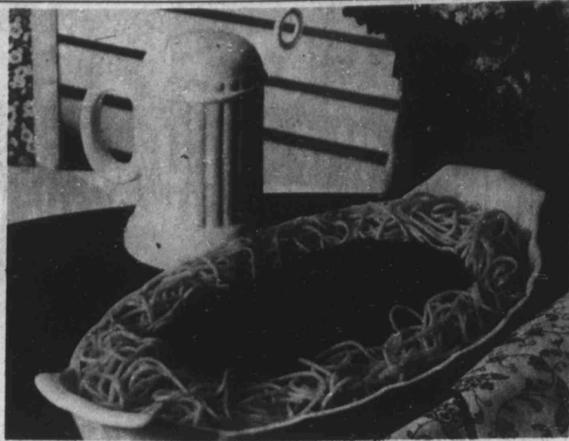

Chop spinach very finely. Put flour in large bowl and make a well in the center. Add spinach, three-fourths teaspoon salt and the eggs, beaten with the three tablespoons water.

Mix and knead until the dough is stiff and elastic. Add a little more water if necessary. Do not overknead.

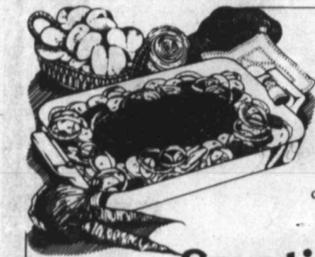

Divide dough into three parts and roll out paper thin on a floured board. Flour each sheet of dough and roll up like a jelly roll. Slice with a sharp knife into one-fourth-inch strips. Shake strips out and put them on a floured board to dry for about an hour. (Makes about two pounds of pasta.)

To cook, bring six quarts of water and one tablespoon salt to a rolling boil in a large pot. Add green noodles and cook until they are slightly chewy. Don't overcook. Drain in a colander and serve with sauce.

To make sauce, heat oil in saucepan and saute onions and garlic until golden. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, water or water and wine, salt, pepper, oregano and basil. Cook uncovered for one and one-half hours over low heat, stirring occasionally. Serves six.

A flavorful, hearty meal that is just right for dinner on a crispy autumn night is spaghetti with marinara sauce. The meatless marinara sauce is quick to make, requiring only 45 minutes. If your family insists on meat, serve a side dish of spicy meatballs or Italian sausage, or chicken broiled and basted with Italian-style seasonings.

Kitchen metrics almost here

By MARJORIE RICE
Copley News Service

Like death and taxes, it looks like we can't avoid the metric system.

Meters, liters, grams and Celsius, they're inexorably finding their way into our language.

And our kitchens.

The metrics are coming, like it or not, and we all had better buckle down and get used to the new system.

While no specific deadline for metric conversion has been set for the nation, we're already into a "soft" conversion stage in some areas, said Dr. Jean Phillips, chairman of the American Home Economics Association committee on metrication.

Some food products (milk, for example) bear labels which show contents both in conventional and metric units.

Utensils such as measuring cups are marked in conventional and metric units, giving cooks a chance to get used to the new language.

The kitchen is one of the best places to start the metric conversion, Phillips said, because every unit of measure — weight, volume, length and temperature — is used in cooking.

"We can wear old clothes and live in old houses, but we have to have new food every day," she said.

Phillips urged people to adapt to the system by estimating and rounding off, rather than trying to convert conventional amounts to metric values.

Figuring out exactly how many milliliters are equal to three-fourths cup of milk, for instance, takes tedious arithmetic and the result is an unwieldy figure.

Instead, metric experts hope cooks will round off, using "benchmark" figures offered by metrication sources.

One benchmark is the 250 milliliter (ml) measure which will replace the cup. Other standard measures that will substitute for conventional units are the 1, 2, 5, 15 and 25 milliliter measuring spoons and 50, 125 and 250 milliliter dry measure cups.

While many Europeans, who have been on metrics for years, commonly use grams for measuring foods, that won't be repeated in the United States, Phillips said.

Instead, the milliliter measures will be used, calling in recipes for amounts such as 500 milliliters (about two cups) of cooked chicken.

"Scales have to be recalibrated and cooks won't know when that's needed and will forget to have it done, resulting in measuring errors," Phillips added.

That's going to cause problems for cooks who want to buy foods commonly sold by weight, such as ground beef. One recipe offered by Phillips, in metric units, called for 450 grams of hamburger. How can the consumer buy 450 grams when the butcher sells it by the pound?

By estimating, Phillips said. A metric handbook offered by the American Home Economics Association gives some conversion benchmarks (that 450 grams of hamburger is about one pound).

Will honed recipes with long lists of ingredients in small, carefully measured amounts fall out of use as translation into metrics proves too much trouble?

Those old recipe favorites won't die, Phillips says, because cooks can estimate or even use their old measuring utensils for old dishes. (Where they'll find storage space in shrinking kitchens for two sets of measuring utensils wasn't explained.)

"People are not that precise when they cook," she said. "The rule of reason has to prevail. People's tolerance for variations in food is more than we give them credit for."

Vietnam prepares for 'final' Cambodian offensive

By LINDA MATHEWS
The Los Angeles Times

HONG KONG — Vietnamese troops who were locked in a costly war of attrition with Cambodia throughout the summer are preparing now for a massive offensive that may topple the Phnom Penh regime, according to authoritative sources here and in Bangkok.

The immediate aim of the Vietnamese drive, which is expected to begin as soon as the monsoon rains pass later this month, appears to be the destruction of the already-battered Cambodian army rather than the capture of villages or the occupation of Cambodian territory.

Vietnam apparently hopes that the erosion of Phnom Penh's military strength will so undermine the regime of Premier Pol Pot that it will collapse and be replaced by a pro-Hanoi puppet government, analysts say. Laos, Indochina's other Communist state, is virtually a Vietnamese satellite already.

The state-controlled Vietnamese press denies the existence of any long-range plan to annex Vietnam's neighbor into an Indochina federation dominated by Hanoi and allied with the Soviet Union, Vietnam's staunch supporter. But Vietnam's officials make no secret of their desire to eliminate Pol Pot and his brutal lieutenants.

Foreign visitors to Hanoi were told recently by high-level Vietnamese authorities that the current Cambodian government, which came to power in April 1975, "cannot survive much longer." One senior Vietnamese leader, in an interview with European reporters, predicted that Pol Pot "will be swept away before the end of the year."

In the expected offensive, Vietnam will rely as much as possible on guerrillas recruited from the ranks of the 160,000 Cambodians who fled to Vietnam to escape the atrocities of the Pol Pot government. These guerrillas, trained and armed by Vietnam, are already operating behind the Cambodian front lines, astride key supply and communication links between Phnom Penh and the frontier.

Their mission, intelligence sources believe, is to win over villagers, enlist defectors from the Cambodian army and foment the sort of seemingly spontaneous "uprising" that could eventually bring down Pol Pot.

"The Vietnamese don't want their own forces to sweep into Phnom Penh," says a diplomat here. "They could have done that long ago, if they'd chosen to, but for obvious public relations reasons they don't want to come on as aggressive imperialists. They'd much rather have this puppet army of Cambodians handle the operations deep inside Cambodia."

Phnom Penh has already weathered three attempted coups from within its own ranks. And the Vietnamese party newspaper, Nhan Dan, in a commentary considered highly significant here, confidently predicted early this week that "uprising is spreading throughout Cambodia, and the people will have the last word."

Vietnam has played down its support for the Cambodian guerrillas. Hoang Tung, a member of the Communist Party's Central Committee and editor of Nhan Dan, told a delegation of French journalists that Hanoi was sympathetic to the guerrillas, but "can only help them in a small way."

Despite his protests, analysts believe that almost all of the arms now pouring into Vietnam from the Soviet Union are destined for the guerrillas and for the 20,000 regular Vietnamese troops who entrenched themselves this summer on the Cambodian side of the border.

One sign of the imminent offensive is that the Soviets have established a military-assistance command in Hanoi to supervise increased shipments of weaponry. Last week, intelligence sources say, two huge Soviet cargo ships docked at Cam Ranh Bay and unloaded more munitions for the Vietnamese than all of last year's shipments combined. The number of Soviet military advisers inside Vietnam has also doubled, to about 4,000.

After a summer of bitter fighting and heavy losses on both sides, the 20,000 Vietnamese troops inside Cambodia succeeded in occupying the three key border towns of Krek, Snuol and Mimot, in the so-called Fish Hook area northwest of Ho Chi Minh City (formerly Saigon). By Phnom Penh's own admission, the Vietnamese have carved out an enclave about 50 miles long and up to 15 miles deep inside Cambodian territory.

In an apparent preparation for the upcoming offensive, the Vietnamese command has in the past month transferred another division of soldiers to the front, bringing to almost 100,000 the number of reinforcements on the Vietnamese side of the frontier.

Heavy rains have caused widespread flooding in both Cambodia and Vietnam, slowing the movement of men and heavy equipment and almost certainly delaying any major offensive. But once the monsoon lifts, some of the Vietnamese reinforcements are expected to push across the border in what one diplomat describes as a "meat-grinder operation."

Military analysts here speculate that the Vietnamese inside the Fish Hook will concentrate on neutralizing the two Cambodian divisions in the area, so that they are no longer a threat to the $110 million irrigation project the Vietnamese are building with World Bank loans on the other side of the border.

The Fish Hook, a salient that protrudes into Vietnam, has been the staging area for bloody Cambodian raids on Vietnam's Tay Ninh province. Control of the Fish Hook may also be important to the Vietnamese because they can then drive north up a major highway to Kratie, a river port which commands Phnom Penh's communications with its northeastern provinces.

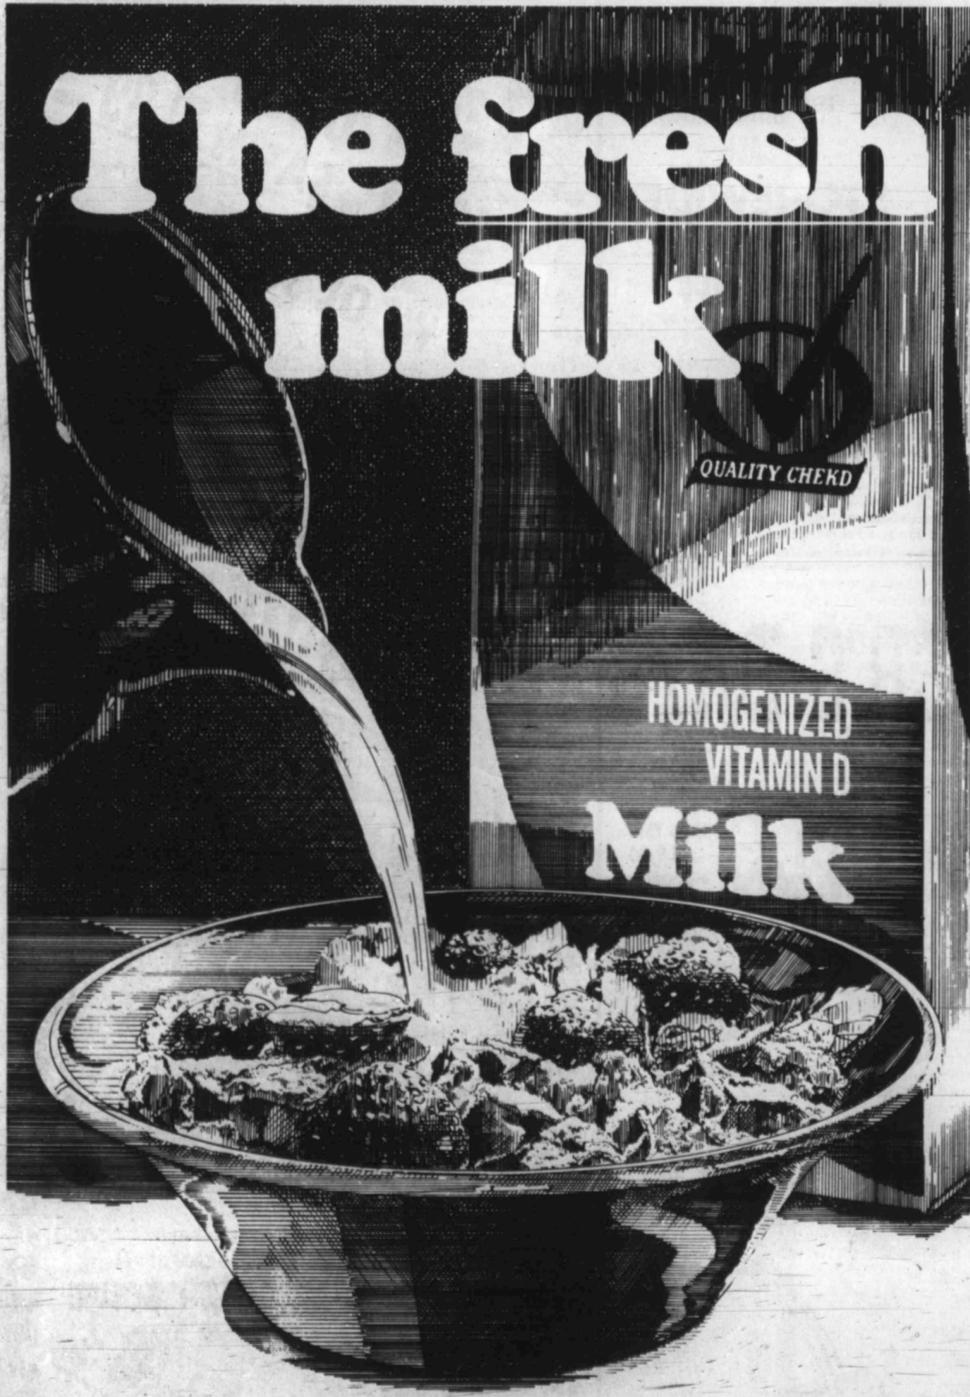

While the 60,000-man Cambodian army is outnumbered and outgunned by the Vietnamese, who can field up to 600,000 troops, no one considers the Cambodians pushovers. They suffered serious casualties over the summer but managed to conduct a skillful guerrilla struggle that often kept the larger Vietnamese forces off balance.

In addition, Cambodia can count on strong assistance from China, which views the Phnom Penh regime as the only counter to complete Soviet domination of Indochina.

Direction important in defense strategy

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Dummy's weakness often tells the defenders where their tricks must come from. Dummy's strength may tell them to act quickly and from the right direction.

West won the first trick with the king of hearts. What could be more normal?

The defenders then tried to collect three diamonds. This couldn't be done after that normal first trick.

If West led the ace and a low diamond, South would win the third diamond with the queen. If West began the diamonds with a low card, East would take the king; but if East then led a low diamond, South would play low, and if East led the jack, South would cover with the queen. Either way, declarer would win a diamond trick.

ONLY WAY

The defenders could get three diamonds only if East led the suit first. East must therefore win the first trick by overtaking the king of hearts with the ace.

Now East must return the jack of diamonds.

If South plays low, the defenders take the jack of diamonds, followed by the ace and king. If South covers the jack with the queen of diamonds, West takes the ace and returns a diamond, allowing East to take two tricks with the king and nine.

ANSWER: Pass. The hand is not quite worth a vulnerable overcall at the level of two. Change one of the low spades to a low heart, and the hand becomes worth an overcall of two hearts.

Baton twirling is the topic LuJuan Rowland will be teaching at 1 p.m. Saturday for beginners and at 2:30 p.m. for intermediates during a Baton Clinic to be held at the Central YMCA of Midland on North Big Spring Street. ## DR. NEIL SOLOMON Rare roast beef returns to menus

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is rare roast beef you can now get at the delicatessen safe? There was a big flap about this last year, and for a long time you couldn't get anything except well-done beef. What's happened?—D.W.

Dear D.W.: As you remember, last fall the U.S. Department of Agriculture ruled that pre-cooked beef had to be brought to an internal temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit. They did this because there has been over 200 cases of salmonella poisoning traced to rare pre-cooked beef. The 145-degree temperature knocked out the salmonella, but also did away with the rare roast beef lots of customers like.

USDA has now worked out various combinations of cooking times and temperatures that produce rare roast beef with no salmonella danger. They involve cooking the beef at a lower temperature but for a longer time. It is the higher temperatures that make the meat change in color from red to gray. Longer cooking at lower temperatures has little effect on the meat color.

Here's an example of how the system works: A beef roast cooked to an internal temperature of 30 degrees Fahrenheit and held at this temperature for 121 minutes is safe against salmonella. (On the other hand, a roast cooked to an internal temperature of 144 degrees Fahrenheit would have to be held at that temperature only 5 minutes to meet safety standards.)

At any rate, we're now safely in the pink again!

Dear Dr. Solomon: Isn't there some way we could get people to buckle up their seat belts when they are driving? Two friends of ours have just been seriously injured in a crash—and they weren't going that fast. But they weren't wearing their belts. Would a law help?—Fred H.

Dear Fred: From the reports I have seen, laws imposing fines on people who don't wear their seat belts in cars are effective. For instance, Ontario, Canada, has had good results with a $28 fine for non-wearers, according to Medical World News. The government did a survey of 16 Ontario hospitals and found that admissions were down 2,300 the year the law went into effect. Serious injuries decreased by 36 percent and minor ones by 11 percent.

Similar results are reported from Sweden.

Postman watches weight

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Troy Watson knows how to combine work and exercise.

Watson, who works for the Deer Valley Post Office, picks up his mail, drives his jeep to Moon Valley, unhitches his bicycle, drives to his next area and again pedals off.

"My doctor told me to quit smoking, but then I gained weight," said the 51-year-old man. "Then my doctor told me to lose weight."

So he rides his bike, takes a little ribbing but feels much better for his efforts.

It's No More Mojo' week for Bulldogs

By CECILY SHULL, VALERIE VAN PELT and JANE FORSYTH

This week our UNDER-DOGS will become WONDERDOGS as they take on Permian High School in Odessa Friday night at 8. This week has been "NO MORE MOJO" week and the Bulldogs will prove it. Boost the spirit and be at the Pep Rally Friday morning at 8:00 (A personal note to Seniors—Don't forget our special plans for in the morning).

Juniors! Friday is the deadline for your AFS applications. Don't miss this outstanding opportunity to experience the lifestyle of other countries.

Congratulations are also in order to the 100 Club on their GREAT participation at clean-ups and set-ups. The 100 club officers are: president, Judy Guyton; vice president, Gerri Gilliland.

"Felicitations" to our FANTASTIC volleyball team. This past weekend the Varsity placed second in the Key City tournament in Abilene. Cheryl Strack and Diann Shplet were named to the all-tournament team. Alright!

Our Sports department just can't be beat. The track team ran off with the victory at the Odessa College meet. Our CONGRATS!

Next Tuesday nominations open for Homecoming Queen. Homecoming's not far away and plans for floats and DATES need to be made!! The BIG weekend is Oct. 27-28. The dance is Saturday the 28th.

Speaking of dances, the Howdy Dance was a great SUCCESS. Besides the Super Stud Senior class winning the Spirit Competition we also "take our hats off" to the following Howdy Week Favorites!

RASCO says: Don't forget the 100 Club meeting tonight at 7.

And CHALUPAS again Friday at the Youth Center. Ya'll try 'em, they're GREAT!

Congratulations to Julie Stolz, this week's Jr. Rotarian!

Signed, The Three Musketeers!

P.S. Seniors—Don't forget to bring picture money Monday morning—$6.50!

P.S.S. LEE—Good luck against the Bronchos!

Auto makers plan drastic cuts in steel, iron use

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The typical General Motors car of 1985 will be 800 pounds lighter than 1978 models and most of the slimming will come at the expense of steel and cast iron, a top GM executive predicts.

"By 1985 we expect to reduce the net material weight of our typical car to as low as 2,700 pounds," F. James McDonald, GM's executive vice president, told a meeting of civic leaders Tuesday. "This, of course, has some dramatic implications for materials." Lighter-weight aluminum and plastics will be used more and more, said McDonald, who heads GM's North American automotive operations. Weight reductions are needed to meet stringent federal standards for fuel economy.

About 2,083 pounds of steel and 573 pounds of cast iron now go into GM's average car. The company plans to trim the weight to 1,500 pounds of steel and 350 pounds of cast iron by 1985. "Typical aluminum content was 108 pounds for 1978 models. That figure has roughly doubled over the last two decades and we see it doubling again to a range of 200 to 240 pounds per car by 1985," McDonald said.

"Plastics content was 175 pounds in 1978. A tenfold increase in two decades, that figure is expected to be somewhere between 225 and 300 pounds by 1985," he said.

McDonald said ferrous suppliers should remain competitive in the materials race since GM plans heavier use of thin-wall castings and new high-strength, low-alloy steels.

Women teaching airmen

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Five women have qualified as the first instructors in the South African Air Force.

The women completed the same courses as the men and stood their ground in fitness drills, the obstacle course, marches and the classroom, where they scored more than 80 percent in the written examination.

Most Egyptians hoping that peace will improve economy

By NICOLAS B. TATRO

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The average Egyptian looks at the prospects of peace with Israel and sees a television set, a working telephone, better prices, a better salary — indeed, a better life.

He sees an Egyptian-Israeli treaty as the end of 30 years of sacrifice and austerity in the name of national defense. But economists — both Egyptian and Western ones — take a more sober view.

They predict the economy will improve gradually but say peace is unlikely to produce the immediate changes expected by the man in the street.

The Egyptian government says that four wars with Israel have cost an estimated $40 billion. As a result, Egyptians are heavily taxed. A middle-class family of four with a monthly income of $643, for example, pays $51 a month in national security and defense taxes.

The same family pays a 12 per cent extra defense tax on every theater ticket and is allowed to buy meat only three times a week, in part so that the half-million man army can be fed.

The man in the street not only expects this burden to be lifted, but he anticipates an economic boom as well. And this, he expects, will improve the roads, telephones and utilities that have fallen into disrepair as the government dug deeper for guns and warplanes.

Signs of this optimism are already evident. Observed Cairo merchant Abdel Aal Hamad: "The people are happy. Their appetite is whetted and they want to buy. People who never paid their accounts are now paying and business is up about 20 per cent."

The economists, however, fear this optimism could sour into disillusionment should the economy not live up to expectations.

U.S. beer industry eyes export market

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — August A. Busch III says the American beer industry, convinced that Europe is turning toward the lighter brews, is planning a major push to crack the export beer market.

Busch, president of Anheuser-Busch, one of the world's largest brewers, made his comments at the Anheuser-Busch 1978 sales convention.

He said it's time Europe made way for American beers the way this country welcomes foreign beers. "We're making a conscious effort to do that through the U.S. Brewers Association right now," said Busch, 41.

Busch said the American brewing industry feels "that if other countries are going to ship their beer to this country, that's fine — then we ought to be able to ship our products to their countries."

This should be on "a reciprocal basis," he said, with American beer exports enjoying the same tax benefits accorded foreign beers when they enter this country.

Busch scoffed at the idea that foreigners won't drink American brews because they are too light. "I don't believe that," he said. "I think you can go to Europe tomorrow morning and do a great job with American beer."

Lower the foreign tariffs, and American beers will sell, he said.

Busch, who returned recently from a trip to Europe, said he became personally convinced that the traditional heavier beers are giving way to American-style beer.

"Their heavier beers are going down (in popularity) and their lagers are going up."

They expect taxes to remain high to finance ambitious development schemes and military spending — more than $1 billion last year — to continue unchanged because of the need to replace obsolete weapons and upgrade salaries.

"It is a dangerous attitude to assume that because there is peace, Egypt will have prosperity," said one Western economist. "Peace is not a panacea."

And said an Egyptian official: "This is why it is important that the West makes Egypt a model like West Berlin after World War II. This will show moderate Arab states the benefits of the peace."

Egypt's economy has already improved since it reached its nadir at the time of the 1973 Middle East war. Growth for the next two years is forecast at 7 per cent.

Serious problems remain, however. Inflation on non-subsidized goods is running at an annual rate of 25 per cent, urban unemployment is 12 per cent and the trade balance is currently $3.2 billion in the red.

Billions of dollars are needed to meet a housing shortage of 1.1 million units and billions more to upgrade long-neglected utilities such as telephones, sewer lines and electricity.

Western economists say peace will provide no solution to Egypt's population crisis — small economic improvements have led to bigger families — nor will peace solve the problem of declining agricultural productivity that results in part from migration to the cities.

"There will be 60 million mouths to feed in 20 years instead of 40 million now," said one Western economist. "Peace cannot provide the answers to these problems."

Egyptian Planning Minister Abdel Rezzak Abdel Meguid said in an interview, however, that the proposed peace treaty would have several positive results:

—Oil from Sinai fields now in Israeli hands will boost overall output to over one million barrels a day. Earnings from oil will total $1 billion a year — three times the current level — within 18 months. And Egypt will qualify for membership in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

—Foreign investment, $205 million last year, "could easily be doubled" in an improved business climate resulting from peace.

—Demobilization of troops would put more food in the stores for civilians. "This will be the most visible impact for the average Egyptian," he said.

—The return of Sinai will provide a potential harvest of minerals and a half-million acres of arable land. But both will require time and sizable amounts of capital to develop.

"There cannot be immediate relief for all our problems," Abdel Meguid said. "But we can now concentrate on the economy so that we don't have to live hand-to-mouth all the time looking for next week's supply of wheat."

Trade with Israel is not expected to have a major impact on the economy since the major exports of both countries are textiles and citrus. But the curiosity of Egyptians and Israelis for each other's country is likely to spur tourism.

Economists say, too, that cooperation is likely in developing the oil fields that Israel has already begun to exploit. And reliable sources say Israeli businessmen have already contacted the American Embassy in Cairo about the possibilities of setting up shop in Egypt.

Dr. Lutfi Abdel Azzim, editor of the economic weekly newspaper Al-Ahram Iqtisadi, suggested in an interview that Egypt and Israel might set up joint venture manufacturing projects on their border in Sinai.

"What better way to assure a peaceful border?" he said.

Big-car tax expected to be put off for year

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — After killing two big tax proposals President Carter hoped would cut energy use, House-Senate negotiators are trying to decide which of the remaining two to do in.

A conference committee working on a compromise energy-tax bill is deadlocked with House negotiators wanting to do away with a tax on industrial use of oil and gas and their Senate counterparts unhappy about a proposed tax on fuel-inefficient cars.

It was clear by Wednesday that the committee intended to approve only a single energy tax, and the most likely outcome seemed to be agreement on a version of the big-car tax with postponement of its implementation for at least a year.

That's what House conferees suggested Wednesday during an eight-hour negotiating session that failed to produce a compromise.

And Senate committee members appeared to be leaning in that direction, although the top Senate negotiator, Finance Chairman Russell Long, D-La., said his side needs more time to think about it.

If the so-called "gas-guzzler" tax stays, then the proposed tax on industrial use of oil and gas goes, conferees from both sides have made clear.

Congressional leaders hope the tax section of Carter's energy program — which also includes proposed home-insulation credits of up to $300 — can be completed so it can be acted on next week with the rest of Carter's energy plan.

But the new impasse casts doubts on that goal. Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, who earlier witnessed the deaths of proposals to levy a standby tax on gasoline and a tax on U.S. crude oil, said he's willing to sacrifice the industry tax to get the one on big cars.

"I would rather have the industrial user's tax than no industrial users tax, but I would rather give it up than have nothing at all," Schlesinger, who participated in Wednesday's talks, told a reporter.

Actually, congressional economists said earlier that pruning of the industrial user's tax had rendered it almost no tax at all anyway.

It was once a $40 billion proposal that would have taxed every major industry and utility that burned oil or gas.

But shortly before House conferees decided to do away with it completely they trimmed it to a tax that would be levied only against oil-burning plants that disobeyed government orders to switch to coal.

House conferees voted to kill the user's tax after Senate conferees voted 7-6 to suspend the automobile tax unless the auto industry failed to achieve fuel-efficiency standards under existing law.

Sponsors said such a scheme would probably mean the tax would never be imposed.

The automobile tax proposed by House conferees would begin in 1980 — a year later than an earlier version tentatively approved by the negotiators — ordering taxes ranging from $200 to $550 for cars getting less than 15 miles per gallon.

Dr. George B. Asquith

WTGS slates Asquith talk

Dr. George B. Asquith, associate professor of Geology at West Texas State University, will be the speaker for the Tuesday meeting of the West Texas Geological Society.

The event will get underway at 11:30 a. m. in the Midland Hilton. Reservations should be made by contacting the West Texas Geological Society office by 5 p. m. Friday.

Dr. Asquith will speak on "Depositional History of the Lower Permian Council Grove 'B' Zone Oolite Shoal, Ochiltree County, Texas."

His talk will be accompanied by a slide presentation.

Dr. Asquith earned a B.S. degree at Texas Tech University. His M.S. degree was taken at the University of Wisconsin, and he received his Ph.D. at the same university in 1966.

He is a member of the Geophysical Society of America, the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, and the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists.

His professional experience includes summer work with Humble Oil & Refining Co. and four years, from 1966 to 1970, with Atlantic Richfield.

He joined the West Texas State University staff in 1970.

Managers say bill needs compromise

By JOHN LENGEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key House and Senate managers of the Alaska lands bill agree that a compromise will have to be reached before there can be Senate action on the legislation.

Lack of time is the main problem facing Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., the committee chairmen working for final congressional action before adjournment, which is set for Oct. 14.

Neither is optimistic, but both say they will try to finish work this year on what conservationists call the bill of the century.

Jackson's Senate Energy Committee was to have voted Wednesday on a bill which is drastically different from the version drafted by Udall and the House Interior Committee. However, a technical hitch forced a delay in the final vote.

Conservationists say the Energy Committee has mangled the proposal and administration representatives — the bill is President Carter's top environmental priority — expressed disappointment.

There will be plenty for Udall and Jackson to talk about since the Senate bill provides far less protection for the conservation lands than the House-passed legislation.

Jackson says he will not try to bring the bill to the Senate floor unless there is an agreement on the final form of the bill with the House. To do otherwise, he said, "would be an exercise in futility."

Any solution ultimately would have to satisfy in both houses the allies of conservationists on the one hand and those of the mining, logging and oil industries on the other.

A compromise would have to preserve just the right amount of land without, as industry sees it, throttling the economic development of the resource-rich state.

Industry spokesmen were reserving comment on the Senate bill until they see the exact language of the provisions. One lobbyist has said, "anything is better than the House bill."

If there is an agreement, Jackson, as manager of the bill in the Senate, would offer the compromise on the Senate floor in the form of an amendment to the Senate committee bill and it would likely carry. Then the bill could be sent to the House for action and on to the president without a time-consuming House-Senate conference.

Under the House bill, some 120 million acres of federal land in Alaska would be set aside as national parks, preserves, wildlife refuges, wild river corridors and national forests. Some 65.5 million acres would be designated as wilderness and off limits to development.

Energy Committee members on a 15-1 vote approved a bill which would set aside 100 million acres, with 38 million acres designated as wilderness.

Carter vetoes energy, water development bill

By LEE BYRD

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, risking congressional wrath, vetoed a $10.2-billion energy and water development bill today he said was wasteful and inflationary.

House and Senate leaders prepared for quick attempts to override.

"The question is one of fiscal responsibility," Carter said moments before signing the veto message in the Oval Office.

"This has not been an easy decision for me to make," he said. "It's something I do not enjoy."

He urged members of Congress to work with the administration to develop a "responsible bill" for water projects, one that "we actually need at a cost we can afford."

But he said he would "continue this process no matter how unpleasant it is" so long as Congress sends him legislation he considers wasteful.

In a two-paragraph handwritten note to members of Congress, Carter said: "The Producer Price Index for finished goods rose 0.9 percent in September."

"I urge you to help me control inflation and to set an example of leadership for the nation by supporting my veto of the public works bill." He underlined the words, "control inflation."

In his formal veto message, the president said: "Each bit of additional spending always looks small and unimportant against the total federal budget. The temptation to look the other way in each case is always great, but both Congress and the executive branch must recognize that there is no one, single dramatic act which will control the budget."

Carter said control would be achieved "by the cumulative impact of hard choices, such as the one I am presenting to the Congress today."

It was the sixth time Carter has used his veto authority.

Frank Moore, Carter's chief of congressional liaison, said, "We're still making calls right up to noon" to stave off an override.

The showdown followed a day of furious lobbying Wednesday by administration officials and emotional arguing by both sides in the quest for public support.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., told the Senate on Wednesday that he expected override attempts from both houses within hours of Carter's veto.

He said he believed the Senate would succeed in its attempt, but House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, said he wasn't sure the two-thirds vote could be mustered among House members.

"I think we had them today," he said Wednesday night, "but the White House is really putting on a full-court press."

He said House members told him Vice President Walter Mondale and Cabinet members were pressing them to support the veto.

Both Byrd and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., took issue with the veto, which Carter promised Tuesday, and warned it could lead to a backlash against the president's top-priority energy package.

"I don't like to see this brewing," said O'Neill, who predicted the House would override the veto. "There's going to be some anger."

The bill contains $6.1 billion for the Department of Energy, but that's not at issue. Most of the rest would go for dams and other water-resource projects, and Carter has complained that the 53 starts on water projects — 27 more than he wanted — are "pork-barrel" goodies that are "inflationary ... wasteful ... and absolutely unacceptable."

He was unhappy, too, that Congress restored six water projects he thought had been scuttled last year in a compromise on similar legislation.

In a related action, the House late Wednesday night passed a bill authorizing an additional 120 water projects in future years, a step also opposed by the administration. Those projects, for which funding would come in separate legislation next year and later, total $1.25 billion.

The administration argued that many of the projects envisioned in the bill had not been thoroughly reviewed for cost effectiveness. But sponsors said they were necessary for flood control, adequate water supplies and commercial transportation.

White House press secretary Jody Powell declared that even if Carter loses a veto fight, "The people will believe the president has done the right thing."

But Gov. Richard Lamm of Colorado and several other Western officials called it "an act of war on the West" where more than half the projects are slated for construction.

Lamm appeared at a briefing session for congressmen by Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, Budget Director James T. McIntyre and others, explaining, "This administration has recommended no new water project starts in Colorado ... with the result that California takes a bigger drink from the Colorado River than we do. We have a claim to some of those resources. ... It's our life blood."

Rep. Gunn McKay, D-Utah, belabored at Andrus, "Talk about pork barrel! But you can't name a single other project where the government gets its money back from the users."

Andrus agreed the costs are recovered over periods of up to 50 years from farmers and other users of such benefits as crop irrigation. But meanwhile, he said, "the American taxpayer is going to have to pick up the deficit."

And Howard Jarvis, a force behind California's tax-cutting Proposition 13, also backed Carter, calling the measure "the big-tax, big-government, big-spending, big-waste bill of the year."

Actually, the money is $537 million under the president's own water-resource budget. But instead of fully financing the 26 water projects he wanted, it makes down payments on a list more than twice that size, committing the government to eventual expenditures of $1.8 billion more than Carter proposed.

Five wildcats scheduled

Wildcat projects have been announced for Pecos, Crockett, Concho and Runnels counties.

Magnetex Corp., Oil Division, of Midland No. 1 Iowa Realty Trust is to be drilled as a 5,000-foot explorer in Pecos County, 10 miles south of Imperial.

The drillsite is 1,980 feet from northeast and 660 feet from southeast lines of section 61, block 10, H&GN survey.

It is one mile northeast of the Apo Warner, West (Ellenburger) pool.

RE-ENTRY TEST

A. G. Kasper of Midland announced plans to re-enter a well in the Sheffield, Northwest (Canyon) area of Pecos County and plug back to 6,960 feet for tests of the Cisco through perforations from 6,520 to 6,530 feet.

The old total depth is 8,102 feet.

Location for No. 1-A-F. A. Perry and Nita Silliman is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 23, block Z, TCRS survey and 10 miles southwest of Iraan.

CROCKETT WILDCAT

Dan J. Harrison Jr. of Houston spotted location for a 9,000-foot wildcat in Crockett County, 16 miles west of Ozona.

It is No. 3-30-30 University Lands, 660 feet from north and 760 feet from east lines of section 30, block 30, University Lands survey.

The location is 3/4 mile east of the depleted Howard's Creek (Canyon gas) field and one and one-eighth miles southwest of the University 30-32 (Fusselman 8250 gas) pool.

CONCHO PROJECT

Rio Bravo Energy & Minerals, Inc., of Eagle Pass, staked No. 1 W. C. Vordick as a 1,500-foot wildcat in Concho County, one mile southeast of the discovery well of the one-well Bussey (1100 oil) field.

Location is 1.5 miles northeast of Millersview and 467 feet from north and 2,173 feet from east lines of Fisher & Miller survey No. 2785. Ground elevation is 1,589 feet.

The site also is 1/2 mile south of Tannehill gas production in the Hartgrove multiphase field.

RUNNELS TRY

Frank J. King of Abilene No. 1 W. T. Billups is a 4,100-foot wildcat in Runnels County, seven miles northeast of Winters.

The site is 4,500 feet northwest of the southeast corner and along the line of Thomas J. Hardeman survey No. 267, then 467 feet east to location in Wharton County School Land survey No. 509. It is 3/8 mile north of a well in the Sykes, West (Gardner gas) pool.

126 field, wildcat tests reported in Permian Basin

The weekly tabulation of planned exploration and development projects, in the Permian Basin, showed 126 applications filed, with the Texas Railroad Commission and the New Mexico Conservation Commission.

Included in the count were 30 wildcats and 96 field projects.

Two weeks ago there were 161 applications filed, making this weeks count a decrease of 35 sites. Railroad Commission District 8 headquartered at Midland topped all districts in wildcat projects, with eight, while District 7-C, San Angelo, recorded seven and Southeast New Mexico had six.

District 8 reported 35 field tests, followed by District 7-C, with 25 and District 8-A, with 17. Southeast New Mexico reported 18 test sites.

Four Out Of Five Families Do!... BUY WITH COUPONS SAVE CASH!

If You Think They "Don't Count," Think Of This...
$500 MILLION WORTH REDEEMED LAST YEAR!

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, WED., JULY 2, 1978

U. S. consumers cashing in coupons to save cash

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Clip and cash. That's the motto for millions of Americans who are clipping, collecting and cashing in coupons in an effort to cut grocery bills.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that four out of five families — 80 percent — use coupons today. In 1970, a survey by the Nielsen Clearing House division of the A.C. Nielsen Corp. showed 65 percent of all households using coupons.

Manufacturers alone are expected to issue almost 70 billion coupons this year, according to the USDA, up from 62 billion in 1977 and 46 billion in 1976. Those figures do not include the millions of coupons issued by retailers, usually in newspaper advertisements.

The more than 2 billion coupons redeemed last year had a face value of $500 million, the Agriculture Department says.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE TO BIDDERS FOR CONSTRUCTING A CENTRAL FIRE STATION

Sealed bids addressed to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Midland, Texas will be received until 2 p.m. Friday, 20th day of October at the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Midland, Texas, and then publicly opened and read aloud, for furnishing all labor, material, tools and equipment, and performing all work, including mechanical and electrical work, required for the construction of a new Central Fire Station for the City of Midland, in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by Chakos-Zentner-Marcum Architects for the City of Midland.

Any bid received after the above fixed time of receiving bids will be returned unopened.

Bids must be submitted on the prescribed bid and proposal forms to be furnished to prospective bidders, and the bidder must supply all the information required by such bid and proposal forms.

Bidders must submit with their bids a Cashier's or Certified Check of a bank satisfactory to the City, payable to or endorsed, without recourse, to the City of Midland, Texas in the amount of 5% of the maximum price bid, or submit a Proposal Bond in the same amount from a reliable Surety Company satisfactory to the City, as a guarantee that the Bidder will enter into a contract and execute the required bonds within ten (10) days after notice of acceptance of his bid and the award of the Contract to him. Bids without Check or Proposal Bond will not be considered. The Checks and Proposal Bonds of unsuccessful bidders will be returned.

In accordance with Article 3160 V. A. T. S. the successful Bidder will be required to furnish not only a Performance Bond in the amount of the Contract, but also a Payment Bond in the amount of the Contract, for the protection of all claimants supplying labor and materials as defined in said law. The bonds must be executed by an approved Surety Company holding a permit from the State of Texas to act as Surety, and acceptable according to the latest list of companies holding certificates of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States and acceptable to the City.

All prices must be stated in both script and figures. The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive formalities. In case of ambiguity or lack of clearness in stating the price of the bid, the City reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof, or to reject the bid. The City reserves the right to delay its acceptance of any bid for a period not to exceed 45 days after the aforesaid date set for opening bids and it shall be a condition of bidding that no bidder shall be entitled to withdraw his bid within said period.

Bidders are expected to inspect the site of the work and to inform themselves regarding local conditions and conditions under which the work is to be done.

Plans and specifications, contract documents, bid and proposal forms are on file at the office of the City Engineer, City Hall, Midland, Texas, and at Chakos-Zentner-Marcum Architects, 125 S. Washington, San Angelo, Texas, and they may be examined at both of said places without charge, and copies of same may be obtained from said Architects upon the deposit of Fifty dollars ($50.00), which deposit will be refunded provided the specifications regarding the return of such documents are satisfied.

Since the project will be funded in part with funds received from the Federal Government, the Contractor and any Sub-Contractors will be required to abide by the following requirements:

The provisions of the Equal Opportunity Clause, as included in the Special Provisions of the Contract documents, will be made a part of the proposed Contract.

The proposed Contract is under and subject to Executive Order 11245 of September 24, 1965, as revised by Executive Order 11735 of October 1967, and to the Equal Opportunity Clause.

A Contractor having 50 or more employees and his sub-contractors having 50 or more employees and who are awarded a subcontract of $50,000 or more will be required to maintain an affirmative action program.

Certification on Non-Segregated Facilities:

(1) A certification of Non-Segregated Facilities must be submitted prior to the award of a federally assisted construction contract exceeding $10,000 which is not exempt from the provisions of the equal opportunity clause.

(2) Contractors receiving federally assisted construction contract awards exceeding $10,000 which are not exempt from the provisions of the equal opportunity clause will be required to provide for the forwarding of the following notice to prospective sub-contractors for supplies and construction contracts where the sub-contract exceeds $10,000 and are not exempt from the provisions of the equal opportunity clause. Note: The penalty for making false statements in offers is prescribed in 18 U.S.C. 1008.

Notice is additionally given to prospective sub-contractors of requirements for certification of Non-Segregated Facilities, as follows:

(1) A certification of Non-Segregated Facilities must be submitted prior to the award of a subcontract exceeding $10,000 which is not exempt from the provisions of the equal opportunity clause.

(2) A Contractor receiving sub-contract awards exceeding $10,000 which are not exempt from the provisions of the equal opportunity clause will be required to provide for the forwarding of this notice to prospective sub-contractors for supplies and construction contracts where the sub-contract exceeds $10,000 and are not exempt from the provisions of the equal opportunity clause. Note: The penalty for making false statements in offers is prescribed in 18 U.S.C. 1001.

It will be a condition of the Contract and shall be made a condition of each sub-contract entered into pursuant to the Contract, that the Contractor and any sub-contractor shall not require any laborer or mechanic employed in performance of the contract to work in surroundings or under working conditions which are unsanitary, hazardous, or dangerous to his health or safety, as determined under construction safety and health standards, Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations, Part 1514.38 F.R. 7946, promulgated by the United States Secretary of Labor, in accordance with Section 107 of the Contract Work Hours and Safety Standards Act, 40 Stat. 369 (October 5, 12, 19, 1978).

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals addressed to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Midland, Texas, for construction of a water pond at the Water Purification Plant will be received at the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Midland, Texas, until 2:30 p.m. on the 19th day of October, 1978, and publicly opened and read aloud at 3:00 p.m. on the same day.

Any bid received after closing time as stated above will be returned unopened.

Bid envelopes shall be plainly marked "Waste Pond."

Complete copies of plans, specifications and contract documents may be examined and/or obtained at the office of the City Engineer, City Hall, Midland, Texas.

A bid or proposal guaranty is to accompany the bid, thereby guaranteeing the good faith of the bidder and that the bidder will enter into the written contract. The guaranty is to amount to five percent (5%) of the total bid and must be in the form of cash or certified check, issued by a bank satisfactory to the City of Midland, or a bid bond. If in the form of cash or certified check, it is hereby expressly understood and agreed that the City of Midland is given the right to retain such cash or certified check if such bidder withdraws his bid anytime after such bid is opened and before official rejection of such bid or, if successful in securing the award thereof, and such bidder fails to enter into the contract and furnish satisfactory performance bond and payment bond. If a bid bond is submitted, it shall be executed on forms contained in these contract documents by a corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of Texas, and acceptable to the City of Midland.

The City of Midland, Texas, reserves the right to accept or reject any or all proposals or bids, to waive technicalities, to make any investigation deemed necessary concerning the bidder's ability to perform the work covered by the plans and specifications, to award this bid by items, and to accept what in the judgment of the Mayor and City Council is the most advantageous bid.

City of Midland
J.W. McCullough
City Secretary
(October 5, 12, 19, 1978)

Sealed bids will be received until 2:30 P.M. October 12, 1978 to be opened at 3:00 P.M. October 12, 1978 in the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Midland, Texas. (Bid #4-79)

For the Purchase of 150,000 sets of Parking Tickets

Information for bidders, proposal forms and specifications, may be obtained from the office of the Purchasing Agent, City Hall, Midland, Texas. The City of Midland reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any formalities.

Our Used Cars Are Sold With As Much Pride As Our New Cars.

Many people are not aware that on many occasions we spend good money and time on the used cars we sell.

Those trade-in cars that do not meet our standards never appear in our used car department. The newer model trade-ins in fine condition, get a quick check, a lick and some polish...while the good older ones do get fixed up, if we feel they are worth the money.

That's why we offer every used car with pride.

Kansas City bounces back to rap Yankees

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Larry Gura, who wasn't supposed to be good enough for the New York Yankees, proved too good for them in the hour of Kansas City's greatest need.

"The revenge factor's not there anymore," Gura said after hurling six strong innings in a 10-4 Royals triumph that squared the best-of-five American League championship playoff series 1-1 Wednesday. "I just wanted to settle us down and help us win because we knew we had to win this one. It was a must for us."

Traded by the Yankees to the Royals two years ago for now-retired catcher Fran Healy, Gura gave up eight hits and two runs and had this to say about Billy Martin, the former and future Yankees' boss who insulted him and cast him out:

"If Billy Martin was still managing the Yankees, we'd be playing the Red Sox."

THE ROYALS got started in the same sloppiness, mistake-prone fashion that dogged them in the opener Tuesday night when the Yankees breezed to a 7-1 triumph. With one out, Fred Patek made a throwing error on Thurman Munson's grounder, and Reggie Jackson, reaching base for the 12th consecutive time in postseason action, walked.

But Gura got Graig Nettles to ground out, ending the threat and leadoff batter George Brett quickly smacked what was to be the first of 16

Royals' hits.

"There were probably only 25 people in the world who thought we had a chance after what we did Tuesday night," said Brett. "We had something to prove out there today."

Amos Otis singled Brett to third, then Darrell Porter hit a long sacrifice fly, putting the Royals ahead 1-0.

THE YANKEES threatened in the second on the first of Chris Chambliss' four singles, Roy White's fielder's choice and a single by Mickey Stanley. Then Patek made a backhanded stop of Bucky Dent's grounder behind second and started a deceptively easy double play.

"That was a big play for us," Patek said. "It stopped their momentum and could have prevented a big inning."

The Royals chased starter Ed Figueroa with a four-run burst in the second that started with consecutive singles by Clint Hurdle and Al Cowens and kept rolling when shortstop Dent

Yankees claim natural grass will help them

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — If you didn't know better, you might have thought the New York Yankees and Kansas City Royals were discussing the latest issue of "Lawn & Garden."

The subject was grass — the real stuff that grows lushly in Yankee Stadium versus the artificial variety carpeting Royals Stadium.

"When we get back to New York and play on natural grass, it will help us," admitted Lou Piniella, Yankees outfielder.

That grass was looking especially green after the Yankees dropped Game 2 of the American League Championship Series to the Royals, 10-4, Wednesday and left New York tied at one victory apiece with the Royals in the best-of-five series.

"I feel we have an advantage," said New York first baseman Chris Chambliss, eyeing Yankee Stadium's cozy left field wall as well as the natural surface. "We have a good ballclub. And you always like to go back home."

But the Royals, 3-2 against the Yankees in Kansas City this season and 3-3 in New York, weren't ready to concede the pinstriped crew's edge at home.

"No, not really. This is our third time around," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, whose team began its string of AL playoff appearances in 1976. "It seems like the first year, we were in the same predicament."

"Last year we had the advantage. I don't know. These three years against the Yankees have really been something out of this world."

The Yankees remained confident as

Garvey's bat sizzles in 9-5 win over Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies' third baseman Mike Schmidt predicted an "offensive explosion" and Manager Danny Ozark foretold a three-game sweep.

Yet it was Los Angeles that did the exploding, led by Steve Garvey, and it's the Dodgers who may do the sweeping after their 9-5 victory Wednesday night in the first game of the National League championship playoffs.

"I hit a curveball up, a fastball and a screwball down," said Garvey, who rapped two homers and a triple in a Dodger assault that set a NL playoff record with 30 total bases.

"We are extremely high and we are going to be extremely difficult to beat," said Dodger sparkplug Dave Lopes, who along with Steve Yeager also homered for Los Angeles to hush 63,460 Phillies Phanatics.

YET THE DODGER romp, secured by the poised relief pitching of baby-faced rookie Bob Welch, left Ozark outwardly undaunted.

Going into the best-of-five set, Ozark flatly forecast his NL East champs would win in three games.

"I didn't say we'd win the first games," Ozark amended with a thin smile in the postgame interview room.

"I think I said we'd take three straight, and I'm still going with three straight."

DODGER MANAGER Tom Lasorda, whose team took three of four games to oust Philadelphia in the same post-season series a year ago, maintained a reserved stance.

"When you give up five runs like that and you win a big game, I think you're very fortunate," said Lasorda.

What did he think of Ozark's bold optimism?

"He said the same thing last year," said Lasorda. "All I know is we won the first one, now we're thinking about the second one."

Schmidt, among several Phils whose bat production fell off this season, had said he was looking for dynamic hitting against Los Angeles. But it was the Dodgers who detonated.

"I've always enjoyed pressure situations," said Garvey. "That is what life is all about—challenges, and in my profession that means batter against pitcher."

THE SCORE was 1-1 in the third when Garvey dug in against Larry Christenson with two runners on base. Before the homer, Christenson had a conference on the mound with catcher Bob Boone.

"I wanted to throw a curve ball in the dirt and away," said Christenson. "Boonie wanted me to throw an inside fastball. I threw a curve and hung it."

"I like to see a pitcher a little indecisive," Garvey said. "I think that homer really broke the ice."

Lopes made it 6-1 with his two-run homer in the fourth, and he circled the bases with more than playoff pressure on his mind.

Lopes revealed that the Dodgers dedicated their play to coach Jim Gilliam, hospitalized in a coma since sustaining a brain hemorrhage.

"We're going to do our damndest to win it for him," said Lopes. "He's with us every single day, every minute. We love the man."

In the fifth, Garvey chased Christenson with a triple, then scored on a single by Ron Cey.

THE PHILLIES made their prime push in the bottom of the fifth, knocking Burt Hooton out of the game with three runs on five singles, including a

Ranger faces UMM tonight

It has been said that West Texans love football and they will travel hundreds of miles to watch a game.

Midlanders will only have to travel as far as Memorial Stadium tonight to see one of the finest junior college teams in the country when Ranger Junior College squares off with the University of New Mexico junior varsity at 7:30 p. m.

The Rangers, 2-1 and coming off a big 30-6 victory over Cisco Junior College last weekend, will face the undefeated UNM team in a game sponsored by the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Ranger opened its season with a 13-0 win over highly-ranked Northeastern Oklahoma and its lone setback came at the hands of West Texas State University's JV, 13-12 two weeks ago. In that game, Ranger accumulated more than 400 yards total offense, but turned the ball over nine times.

Individual leaders for the Rangers include runningback Delbert Thompson, a U-T transfer from Hamlin along with Walter Turner, a wide receiver. Thompson has a season total of 326 yards in three games, despite sitting out last week's contest with Cisco.

Tuner, meanwhile, caught six passes last week for 106 yards and is expected to see plenty of action tonight against UNM.

The seventh leading scorer in the nation last year was Ranger kicker John Calderon. Last week, he kicked field goals of 43,42 and 47 yards and last year, had a 57-yarder against Cisco.

Ranger also has a stout defense. It held Northeast Oklahoma to 59 yards total offense and Cisco to just 41 yards rushing last week and one of the main cogs is linebacker Ronnie Greer from Enls. Greer, another U-T transfer, is 6-foot-3 and weighs 230 pounds.

Defensive back Freddie Page of Garland, has been called by some senior college scouts as "the best defensive back in the country". Free safety David England has already picked off three passes for the Rangers.

Tickets to the game are available at the Chamber office, 211 North Colorado or at the gate for $2 each.

Golden Cranes seeking fourth win over Owls

By STEVE O'BRIEN
R-T Sports Writer

A pair of area football rivals, scrapping for the momentum that could establish them as contenders in their respective upcoming district races, square off Friday in an inter-class match-up that highlights this weekend's prep schedule.

Crane, hot off a 7-6 upset of Tahoka, travels to Big Lake and the Golden Cranes will be after their fourth win of the season when they tangle with the Reagan County Owls.

Coach Joe Allen's Golden Cranes have a 3-1 slate for the year, the only blemish a disappointing 10-9 loss to Coahoma in the third game, and as they approach the season's half way mark they stand as legitimate threats to capture a title and trip to the playoffs in District 7-AA.

HOWEVER, UNBEATEN Sonora (3-0-1) and once-beaten Kermit stand as formidable roadblocks on down the line in the four-team district race. Ozona, the league's fourth member, is winless in four outings.

The Golden Cranes needn't fret over the upcoming race for a while yet since all that action is reserved for the season's final three weeks. Yet, since the number of district contests is limited, the importance of each becomes magnified. The mental aspects of the game take on added significance and the team that enters district play with the best season record could have an emotional advantage.

Reagan County is a more immediate obstacle. The on-again-off-again Owls won their first two games of the season but have been treated roughly in their latest pair of appearances. In the last two weeks they've been shut-out by Iraan (36-0) and Sonora (33-0).

For the Owls, Friday night's contest will close the curtain on their non-district schedule. The Class A Owls know a win here, against a 3-1 AA opponent, could send them off and running to a showdown with Junction for the District 9-AA title.

LAMESA GETS AN early start this week as they take on Lubbock Dunbar tonight in Lubbock.

Success hasn't come by the bushel this year for the Golden Tornadoes as they're struggling through a 1-3 start. After being shutout their first two games, the Tors showed signs of an offensive resurgence in last week's 37-15 loss to Hobbs, N.M.

But, while the Tors have had their problems, Lubbock Dunbar can't be too concerned—they've got enough of their own. The Panthers are 0-4 on the year and lost to cross-town rival Lubbock High last week, 7-6. In that contest, Dunbar edged to within a point with fourth quarter touchdown but a pass for the two-point conversion fell incomplete.

ANDREWS, AN UPSET loser to Snyder last week, hopes to get their offense untracked when they entertain Brownfield Friday night.

After jumping out to a 3-0 start, things took a downhill turn for the Mustangs last week. A questionable offense which had been only as good as they needed to be in the first three contests fell apart against Snyder. The defense, which has been superior all year, kept Snyder outside the 20 all night. But, a blocked punt and a punchless offense spelled their defeat.

on the year. A week ago Brownfield bit off a little more than they could chew when they went against Monahans, Andrews' District 2-AAA counterpart. Monahans shut Brownfield down and out, 25-0.

AFTER A WEEK layoff they're ready to get down to business in District 5-A as this week marks the beginning of district play. Stanton picked up their first win of the season in their last outing two weeks ago, an 8-0 homecoming win over McCamey. The Buffaloes open their charge for a district crown by hosting winless Ropesville.

Despite losses to Tahoka and Coahoma, Stanton remains a good bet to make a run for the district crown. Shallowater and Seagraves enter loop play as unbeaten but its a cinch both won't escape round one in that shape. Perennially champion Seagraves hosts hard-charging Shallowater in a game that could prove to be decisive in the 5-A race.

AT FIRST GLANCE it would appear McCamey has a pretty good deal with winless Van Horn next on the schedule. But, the Eagles aren't push-overs and they proved that last week by forcing a 13-13 tie with unbeaten Clint, McCamey's District 6-A mate.

Van Horn trailed 13-0 in that game but came back with 13 fourth quarter points to earn the deadlock.

McCamey stands 2-2 on the season, winning their opener and losing a pair before last week's 24-0 win over Eldorado.

RANKIN WILL attempt to extend their unbeaten streak to four games when they travel to Ozona. Ozona has yet to win a game while Rankin has been virtually unbeatable. The Red Devils have not given up a point in three games while scoring 72 of their own.

Richard Barrett enters the contest for Rankin just 84 yards shy of 500 yards for the still-young season.

FRIDAY'S SCHEDULE

District 2-AAA: Brownfield at ANDREWS, FORT STOCKTON at Sweetwater, MONAHANS at Kermit, ECTOR at Lubbock High, Alpine at PECOS.
District 3-AAA: BROWNFIELD at Andrews, LAMESA at Lubbock Dunbar, Levelland at SNYDER, Fort Stockton at SWEETWATER, SAN ANGELO LAKEVIEW open.
District 4-A: LAMOGORDO, N.M. at CLINT, Pecos JV at MARFA, Van Horn at MCCAMEY, RANKIN at Ozona, IRAAN open.
District 5-A: Crane at REAGAN COUNTY, Robert Lee at ELDOBARO, Sonora at JUNCTION, MASON at Comfort, MENARD open, WALL open.

Pats' receiver being moved

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Darryl Stingley, the New England Patriots' wide receiver who was left paralyzed by an injury suffered in a summer exhibition game at Oakland, has been transferred from Eden Hospital here to a rehabilitation center in the Midwest.

The hospital announced the transfer Wednesday but, at the request of Stingley's family, the location of the rehabilitation facility was not given.

The player was accompanied by his wife, Tina, and a doctor when he traveled to the Midwest on an air ambulance Wednesday, a spokesman for Eden Hospital said.

Football is intriguing

Football is an intriguing sport. Above and beyond the realm of physical competition, there is more than enough strategy involved to boggle the mind of the most brilliant tactician.

The game is a life-size chess match. Eleven offensive and 11 defensive players are assigned positions on a playing surface of thick green grass. Coaches man the headphones on the sidelines, watching and analyzing his opponent's every move, constantly looking for that opportunity to put the other team in check.

However in this game, the outcome may depend as much on the respective quality of each team's chessmen as on the strategy employed.

Just when it may appear that a trend has been set, that a pattern has formed and the opponent is dressed for the kill, a simple re-positioning of a single piece can drastically alter the course of the match.

SUCH IS THE CASE in football. Just when it seems that things may have settled into some kind of a routine, when a football team's strengths, weaknesses and capabilities become seemingly apparent, a single position change can turn weaknesses into strengths and thus redirect a team's course.

A couple of such position switches have had great impact on a pair of area teams.

At Lamesa, the Golden Tors decided a change of personnel was in order after dropping their first two games of the season. Veteran quarterback Mark Price had been unable to move Lamesa to as much as one score in those two games.

So, sophomore Joey Froman was elevated to the No. 1 quarterback spot while Price moved to halfback. Since that switch was made, the Tors have scored 29 points in two games.

Granted, that's not an earth-shattering offensive production, but 29 is better than 0 any day.

THOUGH FROMAN is the starter, Price is still the guy Lamesa coaches want in there late in a game. So, with Froman starting the games and Price coming in to finish up, Lamesa has split games with Levelland and Hobbs, N.M.

Another move by Lamesa coaches may have contributed even more significantly to the Tornadoes' offensive resurgence. Senior linebacker Armando Morales was inserted at tight end for last week's game with Hobbs and he responded with four catches and a pair of touchdowns. A 10-yard Morales reception put Lamesa on the Hobbs 10 when the game ended.

Another personnel change is paying off in big dividends at McCamey. Raul Arana was scheduled to be one of the Badgers' starting halfbacks prior to the season's start but McCamey coaches quickly decided he could be of more value at quarterback.

Well, it appeared as if it had been an ill-advised move for the first two games after the switch. Arana, still uncomfortable in his new role, found moving the football team a difficult chore as the Badgers dropped contests with Reagan County and Stanton.

THE 8-0 LOSS to Stanton was particularly disappointing. The defense had done their job, holding Stanton to just one touchdown. But the offense was a disaster area, picking up only two first downs the entire evening and one of those came by penalty.

But, it all fell into place for Arana and the Badgers last week. Arana threw four touchdown passes and passed for over 200 yards in a 24-0 blitz of Eldorado. That performance moved him all the way up to third on the district passing charts. Arana has now completed 17 of 42 passes for 326 yards and five touchdowns and has given up only two interceptions.

And what about the guy Arana displaced at quarterback? Well, Gary Stacy hasn't been riding the bench, that's for sure. Stacy was shifted to split end when Arana made his move and that has proved another significant re-positioning. Last week Stacy caught two passes and turned both of them into touchdowns of over 30 yards.

LAST WEEK: With 5-4A and District 5-A teams off last week, it was a light round of predictions. We were right on 11 of 16 picks, bringing the season total to 81-36 for a .692 mark.

CRANE 28, REAGAN COUNTY 6—After beating the state's No. 2 ranked Class AA team last week Crane established themselves as one of the top prep football teams in this area. They should have little trouble with the Owls.

ANDREWS 24, BROWNFIELD 6—Last week's loss to Snyder proved Andrews has some things they need to work on. They may not correct everything this week, but they should still win handily.

LAMESA 19, LUBBOCK DUNBAR 8—Some rearranging has given the Golden Tornadoes a new offensive look for tonight's game in Lubbock. Look for the Tors to pick up win No. 2.

RANKIN 20, OZONA 0—The Red Devil defense still hasn't given up any points. Richard Barrett should add to his league-leading rushing total.

STANTON 30, ROPESVILLE 12—It's the district opener for the Buffaloes and it looks like a breeze.

MCCAMEY 20, VAN HORN 14—With Raul Arana filling the air with footballs and Lenny Luna doing it on the ground, the Badgers are the choice in this one. Van Horn is a tough customer and won't give McCamey anything.

POTPOURRI—Abilene 27, Big Spring 6; Abilene Cooper 23, San Angelo Central 14; Midland Lee 24, Odessa 20; Permian 28, Midland 7; Fort Stockton 33, Sweetwater 0; Kermit 21, Monahans 20; Ector 26, Alpine 0; Snyder 14, Levelland 6; Sonora 28, Junction 20; O'Donnell 21, Anton 6; Forsan 14, Plains 12; Shallowater 13, Seagraves 6; Clint 22, Alamogordo 12; Marfa 38, Pecos JV 18; Robert Lee 14, Eldorado 6; Comfort 18, Mason 12.

Brigade to face OHS in JV tilt

The Robert E. Lee Stonewall Brigade takes on the undefeated Odessa High JV at 7 p.m. today at Joe Coleman Field on the OHS campus while Midland's JV game with Odessa Permian, has been switched to 2 p.m. Saturday in Midland's Memorial Stadium in order for Ranger Junior College to play the University of New Mexico JVs tonight in the Tall City.

Lee takes a 1-1 record into tonight's game while OHS stands 3-0 and only last week, whipped the Monahans JV, 48-6. Both Lee and Midland were idle last week. In fact, Lee has been open for two weeks since beating the Bullpups, 26-0. Midland will take a 1-2 record into the Permian game Saturday afternoon. Mojo, meanwhile, is 1-0-1 with a 22-22 tie with Odessa Ector and a 28-0 win over Pecos. To get a comparative score between Pecos and Permian, Midland lost to Pecos, 9-3.

The Bullpups lone victory came over Monahans, 28-20 two weeks ago and they have been working hard for the Permian game.

Seventh grade teams in action

Three 7th grade football games are on tap today with Alamo Grey (1-0-0) taking on San Jacinto White (0-0-1) at Alamo; Alamo Scarlet (1-0-0) at Goddard White (0-1-0) and Goddard Red (0-0-1) battling San Jacinto Green (0-1-0) at San Jacinto with kickoffs set for 3:30 p.m.

In 8th grade games Saturday, Odessa Nimitz (0-1-1) battles Midland Alamo (3-0-0) at Alamo; Odessa Blackshear (1-1-0), takes on Midland Goddard (1-0-0) at Goddard while Odessa Bowie (0-1-1) plays Odessa Crockett (0-0-1) at OHS; Odessa Hood (1-0-1) tries Midland San Jacinto (1-1-0) at Memorial Stadium. Games in Midland start at 10 a.m. and Odessa tilts are at 10:30 a.m.

One 9th grade contest is set for 7 p.m. today when Bonham (3-0-0) battles arch-rival Nimitz (2-1-0) at the Permian High School practice field. Then on Saturday, Austin White of Midland (1-1-1), takes on Austin Orange (2-1-0) at the Austin field; Bowie (1-2-0), battles Edison Purple of Midland (0-2-1) at Edison; Edison Gold (1-1-1) challenges Hood (3-0-0) at Permian and Ector (0-3-0) tangles with Crockett at OHS. Midland games start at 10 a.m. on Saturdays and Odessa tilts at 2 p.m.

Buehler goes to Cleveland

OAKLAND (AP) — Guard George Buehler has been traded by the Oakland Raiders to the Cleveland Browns for an undisclosed future draft choice, and linebacker John Huddleston has been signed to fill his place on the roster.

Buehler, 31, joined the Raiders as a No. 2 pick in the National Football League's 1969 draft after playing at Stanford. He had played in 112 consecutive games for the Raiders going into this season before losing his starting job to second-year player Mickey Marvin.

Huddleston, a free agent, was cut during the preseason by the Denver Broncos, who had drafted him 16th out of Utah in 1976. He missed the entire 1976 season with an injury and sat out the 1977 season.

Midland's Brad Wright tops WAC in offense

By The Associated Press

Texas-El Paso and Colorado State, two teams which have self-destructed on turnovers and penalties so far this fall, hope to get well Saturday when they meet in a Western Athletic Conference football game in Fort Collins.

Wyoming is the last team to begin conference action, having compiled a 1-2 record in non-conference games. The game with New Mexico is the first of five straight WAC games for the Cowboys, who lead the league in defense, having surrendered a per-game average of just 196 yards a game. The Lobos, 0-1 in the WAC and 2-2 overall, have benefited from the consistent quarterbacking of Midland, Tex. sophomore Brad Wright who is No. 1 in total offense in the WAC.

The Miners, 1-0 in the WAC but 1-4 overall, have lost 12 fumbles, had 11 passes intercepted and been penalized an average of 63 yards a game.

The Rams, expected to challenge for the WAC title but winless in three outings and 0-2 in league play, have lost nine fumbles, had five passes intercepted and been penalized 86 yards a game.

UTEP Coach Bill Michael says his team is looking to re-establish its ground game, which generated only 48 yards on 42 carries in a 27-0 loss to Arizona State last week.

"We weren't able to run against ASU, and that put a lot of pressure on our passing game," said Michael. "We're trying to get our rushing game going so we won't be so one-sided."

UTEP quarterback Oscar Ramirez is the WAC's fourth-rated passer, having connected on 44 percent of his throws for 642 yards and four touchdowns. But he's been picked off 11 times. Harold "Roach" Johnson is the WAC's leading receiver with 25 catches for 246 yards.

CSU opened its season against three teams from the state of Utah — and lost all of them. With that behind them, the Rams have "rolled up our sleeves and just worked harder this week," according to Coach Sark Arslanian.

Arslanian may switch to Keith Lee at quarterback if Steve Fairchild continues to be bothered by a bruised shoulder. Lee played some at wide receiver last week because of the thigh injury which has hobbled Mark R. Bell.

In other WAC action Saturday, New Mexico is at Wyoming. In non-league games, Brigham Young hosts Utah State, San Diego State entertains Fresno State, and Utah travels to Iowa.

Victory yell is given by Kansas City relief pitcher Al Hrabosky after he came in to halt the New York Yankees Wednesday afternoon in Kansas City in the AL playoffs. The Royals won, 10-4, to even the series at 1-1. The two teams are open today and move on to Yankee Stadium Friday afternoon for the third game. (AP Laserphoto).

Kansas City evens series

A RUN scored on the play and the runners wound up at second and third, then Frank White hit a chopper through the middle for two more runs.

Reliever Dick Tidrow got a quick out, then gave up two more singles as the Royals took a 5-0 lead.

That was the end of the scoring until a tense and bizarre seventh that saw a near-fight, an embarrassing lapse of memory by both umpires and players and a homer that Patek called the most satisfying hit of his life.

Chambliss and White singled leading off, moved up a base on Cliff Johnson's grounder and scored on Dent's single to make the score 5-2. A single by Mickey Rivers brought Marty Pattin from the Royals bullpen, who coaxed a popup from Thurman Munson and a fly ball from Lou Piniella to end the inning.

A one-out double by Pete LaCock and Hurdle's triple off the right field fence gave the Royals a 6-2 lead and rookie Willie Wilson, possibly the fastest man in the major leagues, ran for Hurdle. Cowens grounded to Nettles at third and Wilson broke toward the plate, where he collided violently with Munson on the tag.

BOTH MEN went sprawling, but Munson was up like a cat and charging toward Wilson. Players from both benches stood tentatively on the periphery of the action while umpires pacified the angry Yankee catcher, who later had several stitches for a cut on his chin.

Order restored, Patek leaned his 150 pounds into a high fastball and popped it into the left field bleachers for a two-run homer.

"It was the most gratifying hit I ever had," said the diminutive shortstop. "There was no doubt in my mind it was fair. I watched it and loved every minute of it."

Sparky Lyle then came in and retired White on a ground ball, but in all the confusion nobody remembered that was the third out. The Yankee fielders held their position and Brett, the next hitter, came to the plate. But before a pitch could be thrown plate umpire Rich Garcia, raising his hands as if to say, "Nobody's perfect," signaled the end of the inning.

"I looked at my indicator after the out and it read 2," said Garcia. "I knew then that the out was No. 3, but the Yankee players just stayed out on the field. I then tried to reconstruct the inning in my mind."

"I've never seen anything like that in all my days in baseball," said Royals Manager Whitey Herzog. "I wonder what would have happened if he'd thrown a pitch and Brett had hit a home run?"

EACH TEAM picked up two runs in the eighth, with Chambliss and Dent getting RBI singles for the Yankees and Otis and LaCock knocking in runs for the Royals. Reliever Al Hrabosky sat New York down in order in the ninth, only the second time all day the Yanks went 1-2-3.

And for the third straight year the Yankees and Royals split the first two games in what has become for them an annual October rite. The series resumes Friday in Yankee Stadium, with the Yankees throwing Catfish Hunter and the Royals countering with left-hander Paul Splitteroff, who won last year's playoff opener in New York.

Garvey paces Dodgers' win

two-run liner by Garry Maddox.

But that's when Lasorda called the 21-year-old Welch from the bullpen.

Welch gave Los Angeles an instant boost when summoned from the minors in late June.

"He has the bulldogness of a Drysdale, the cunningness of a Sutton, and the control of an Erskine," said Lasorda.

"He's extremely poised," said Lopes. "If you look in his eyes, I think you'll see the Twilight Zone."

Welch yielded two hits, including a solo homer to Jerry Martin, and no walks over the final 41-3 innings. The Dodgers added insurance runs on Yeager's homer off Rawley Eastwick and Garvey's solo homer off Tug McGraw.

"We've got to cut down on those dingers," said McGraw.

"We can't give up," said Greg Luzinski, who tripled and scored the first Phillies run. "We haven't been doing anything easy all year. Why start now?"

"What can you do?" said Richie Hebner. "Have a drink and go to bed."

Welch, just old enough to drink beer in Pennsylvania, sipped a cold one as he soaked his right elbow in ice that was as cool as his mound demeanor.

"There were a lot more people in here than the last time, and everybody knew it was the playoffs," he said casually.

"But really, it was still just a good 'ol baseball game."

The second game was set for today, with Dick Ruthven to pitch for the Phils against Tommy John.

"We're going to bounce back and beat the Dodgers," said Ozark. "We should. We will."

Sparky likes LA's chances

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson believes the Los Angeles Dodgers have the psychological edge over Philadelphia because the Phillies have lost twice in the National League playoffs.

"Having lost twice in a row in the playoffs can work against the Phillies," said Anderson at the beginning of the best-of-five series.

"You try extra hard, put so much pressure on yourself. No one likes to live all winter knowing he did it again; he lost."

Anderson gives the Dodgers a slight edge in talent, too.

Are Cowboys in trouble?

Everybody thought the former six-man footballer from Cristoval had rocks in his head. After all, you just don't walk off a leave and up-and-coming team like the Chicago Bears, the team many believe has the best running back in the business, to succeed George Allen, who for all of his Geritol magic couldn't stop his aging Redskins from fading.

The popular belief was that Allen had milked the Redskins' franchise dry.

Jack Pardee took over a club that not only was feeling its age with every creaking move, but had no draft future, at least, not in Pardee's coaching lifetime.

Allen, who worshipped at the altar of experience, had seen to that.

Undoubtedly a teaspinner in Austin would have nodded sagely at Pardee's leap to the nation's capitol and grunted, "It figures. Pardee's an Aggie, is it he?"

MAYBE SO, but how do you explain that Jack's spring-chickens Redskins are 4-0 and two games up on the Dallas Cowboys, who are the ones behaving like the Over-the-hill gang.

And while one is inclined to shrug off the current state of the Cowboys with a "It's a long season and a lot can happen," the new NFL schedule setup favors the Redskins.

Under this year's set up the teams that finished as division champions last year were rewarded with tougher assignments this year.

For example, while the Cowboys face the new improved New York Giants, the Redskins take on the old, inept Detroit Lions. Later, when the Cowboys are facing the Minnesota Vikings, the Redskins catch San Francisco. When Dallas plays the Miami Dolphins, Washington will be playing the Baltimore Colts, which looked like a fair enough exchange before the season when Bert Jones was still healthy and before Lydell Mitchell moved off to San Diego in a huff, but now is a joke.

Of course, Washington catches Miami later in the season, but about the same time Dallas will be playing New England.

And as a portent of things to come, Washington beat New England, a team it was supposed to lose to, while Dallas was losing to Los Angeles, a team it was supposed to beat.

COMPOUNDING THE Cowboys' problems is that while Washington commands respect, Dallas, as Super Bowl champion, is the prime target on every opponent's schedule. A victory over Dallas is enough to make a year and the sad truth is that the Cowboys aren't playing with the kind of emotional pitch that can handle that kind of assault every week.

Coch Tom Landry likes to keep his team at an even keel, avoiding the peaks and valleys that make for inconsistency. Last year it worked because the schedule, really, was less demanding and while the Cowboys represented something special to rivals, they weren't Super Bowl champs.

But the season is young and a lot can happen. However, it would be foolish not to view the Cowboys' current state without a certain degree of alarm.

PASS DEFENSE deficiencies, Tony Dorsett's tendency to fumble in crucial situations are enough to make a Dallas fan uneasy, but there is one other disturbing factor, one no one suspected could happen.

Every one knows nobody, but nobody, can run on the Doomsday Defense. You heard it anytime you flipped on the TV. It comes as part of the introduction. It's repeated so often that everybody believes it... fans, the Cowboys themselves and most important their opponents.

Only lately there has been a disturbing tendency of Dallas opponents to break ranks. What's surprising is that it took this long, but then it's easier easier in the pros to accept a myth and pursue the line of least resistance, and with the rigors of a 20-game schedule, who can blame them.

After all, a running attack requires greater concentration, more precise execution and greater risk to body and limb of the linemen. Why run if you can't throw, seems to be the attitude.

At any rate, some opponents do seem to be making the sacrifices and enjoying unexpected success at moving the ball on the ground.

IT'S SURPRISING in a way it took so long. Back in the 1977 exhibition season, Houston proved the Cowboys were vulnerable to the run in posting a surprising win. It should have lifted a few eyebrows since Houston, at the time, had no running back worthy of the title.

Later in the season, the Pittsburgh Steelers ran over Randy White, Harvey Martin, Too Tall Jones and the rest like they were the TCU front four in handing the Cowboys their only real embarrassment of the season.

This year when the Oilers' running attack made pancakes out of the Dallas defense, some people apparently sat up and took notice. Maybe it was because Earl Campbell ran on the Cowboys like a guy who hadn't been told this wasn't the University of Texas, but the pros, where such liberties with legends simply weren't taken.

Since then, the Los Angeles Rams have run effectively against the Cowboys, although missing their top running threats, Washington had no trouble running against Dallas, although it must be admitted they failed to push over a touchdown. Still, it didn't matter, Dallas with a far superior ground attack couldn't score either.

Things are going so bad for the Cowboys, that we've stopped rooting for the opposition to score when they have the chance, just so it will keep the game interesting. Shoot, they are making it too interesting for comfort. And don't say, it can't happen. That's what they said in Boston last July.

Dodger first baseman thrives on All-Star postseason playoffs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Garvey, who thrives on All-Star and postseason play, has powered Los Angeles into a 1-0 lead in the National League playoff series over the Philadelphia Phillies, and he believes his long ball hitting has given the Dodgers momentum.

Garvey struck out leading off the second against Phillies starter Larry Christenson-Wednesday night, but came back with two home runs, a triple, three runs scored and four RBI as the Dodgers shelled the Phillies 9-5.

"I think the home run that gave us the big lead was the key," said Garvey, whose first shot in the third inning came with the score tied 1-1 and teammates Bill Russell and Reggie Smith on base. "It broke the ice between the teams feeling each other out and gave us the momentum," said Garvey.

"I've always enjoyed the pressure situations," said the Dodger first baseman. "The playoffs and World Series and All-Star game have always been very important to me because they are showcases for baseball and it's very easy to get up for them. I always want to rise to the challenge of those situations."

Los Angeles pitcher Bob Welch, a rookie, who relieved starter Burt Hooton in the fifth after the Phillies drew to within 7-4, rose to the challenge too, picking up the victory by pitching 41-3 innings, allowing only two hits and one run while striking out five. "He's an amazing young man. He's got super stuff," Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda said. "Welch has pitched well all year. It's made a big difference for him up from the minors."

Welch posted a 7-4 record with a 2.03 earned run average in 23 regular season games for Los Angeles this year.

Dodger second baseman Davey Lopes, who also seems to shine in the playoffs, particularly against the Phillies, also had three hits, including a home run off Christenson.

Lopes said he and the Dodgers were up for the series against the Phillies because they have dedicated their play to coach and former Dodger infielder Junior Gilliam, hospitalized in a coma after suffering a stroke.

"We are extremely high and are going to be difficult to beat," said Lopes, who had two RBI and scored twice. "It's my job to motivate the team and I felt the entire team was very high emotionally tonight."

In the Phillies locker room, Manager Danny Ozark said his club was no less ready, even though they lost their fifth straight playoff game at home. They lost two to Cincinnati in 1976 and came home 1-1 last season before dropping two to the Dodgers.

"We were just as high as they were," said Ozark. "We're certainly not going to get down because of one loss. It's still a five-game series."

Rebels, Panthers to win 5-4A openers

Now we are finally getting somewhere!

The District 5-4A race opens Friday night after four weeks of non-district football action if you want to include last week in which all eight teams had an open date in order to get ready for tomorrow night's action.

A quick look at last week's picks in Class AA8AA circles across the state. For this corner, it wasn't too bad, hitting 27 out of a possible 33 to at least stay above 80 percent on the year.

With last week's 27-6 reading, it stands 128 correct and 30 incorrect for an .810 percentage. That's nice I guess, but it won't last for long, not the way the outfits in the Little Southwest Conference go at each other's throats.

It ought to be an exciting evening with four big openers and one that could rate as one of the headliners not only in 5-4A, but in the state, will take place in Memorial Stadium as Coach Gil Bartosh sends his Robert E. Lee Rebel Express against Coach Dick Winder's Odessa High Bronchos. Anyway, I'm so excited that I won't use up any more space by taking a long, hard look into my crystal ball.

MIDLAND LEE and OHS both take perfect 3-0 records into the game here Friday and it won't be the first time that Winder and Bartosh have squared off. They played each other during the 1971-72 seasons when Bartosh was at Permian. This one shapes up as a real headknocker. They have been in recent years, so why should it change now? Lee has Jeff McCowan, the Cactus Flower along with a rugged defense. It may be low scoring and I've got to go with the Rebels to win, 20-14. OHS will be hard to score on and the Bronchos have given up only seven points in their first three games...

MIDLAND HIGH has a big job in facing Odessa Permian in W.T. Barrett Stadium. Mojo is ranked in all of the football polls and has another good outfit. So what else is new? Midland may play the Panthers closer than a lot of people think. Injuries have hurt Coach Dennis Hays' Purple Pack and a lot hinges on who will be ready to go against the Panthers. Hate to do it, but have to go with Permian to take a 28-14 victory...

ABILENE COOPER, the pre-season pick to win 5-4A, still is loaded even though the Cougars are 0-3, thanks to a UIL ruling that they have to forfeit the Brownwood and Wichita Falls contests that they won, 38-22 and 42-14. Cooper has not beaten San Angelo Central but once in the past seven years. It will again be a dandy with Coach Ray Overton's Cougs to take a 20-16 victory over the Concho Cats...

ABILENE HIGH was bombed 49-0 by top-ranked Temple two weeks ago and is will be interesting to see how the Warbirds react. They have the easiest job in taking on the Big Spring Steers. Reggie Fields and Company will be too much for the Bovines, taking a 35-7 victory to join Lee, Permian and Cooper in the winner's circle the first weekend...

OTHER PICKS El Paso Irvin to nudge El Paso Austin, 14-13; El Paso Coronado to post 26-8 win over El Paso Bowie; Ysleta Bel Air over Carlsbad, N.M., 20-10; Amarillo Tascosa over Ysleta High, 26-13; Hereford 20, Amarillo 15; Borger to roll past Caprock, 33-6; Palo Duro 20, Lubbock Coronado 13 tonight; Odessa Ector 14, Lubbock 14 in a tie; Hobbs, N.M. 20, Lubbock Monterey 13; Plainview has too much size and speed for Clovis, N.M. to the tune of 20-8; Denton 22, Gainesville 12; Wichita Falls Rider over Altus, Okla., 27-7; Wichita Falls 22, Hirschi 12 tonight; Arlington Heights 33, Western Hills 20; Arlington 20, Richland 13; Arlington Sam Houston over Bowie, 27-14; Arlington Lamar to whip Haltom, 33-13; Trinity Euleus 26, Grand Prairie 12; Garland 43, Corsicana 8; W.T. White 14, Skyline 10; South Oak Cliff 21, Adamson 6; Highland Park to dump Lake Highlands, 26-14; Longview over Nacogdoches 28-8; Texarkana 26, Pine Tree 13; Lufkin to trip Tyler, 20-14; Bryan 33, Richfield 19; Killeen 28, Copperas Cove 8; Temple 47, University 7; Conroe 26, Spring 14; Stratford 29, Alief 19 on Saturday night; Baytown Sterling 20, Houston Wheatley 16; Port Neches-Groves 21, Beaumont Charlton Pollard 17; LaPorte 30, Rayburn 16; Dobie 27, Clear Lake 16; Austin Reagan 20, Stephen F. Austin 12; Corpus Christi Carroll 26, CC Ray 20; San Antonio Jay 33, Del Rio 14; San Antonio Churchill to win Saturday over Clemens and San Antonio Lee over San Marcos 27-17.

Trotters set Kentucky run Friday

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Speedy Somolli, co-holder of the world mile record for trotters, bids Friday to capture the $100,000 Kentucky Futurity at the Red Mile and become the first 3-year-old in six years to win the sport's Triple Crown.

Not since Supt Bowl did it 1972 has a trotter swept the Yonkers Trot, the Hambletonian and the Kentucky Futurity.

Melvin Barr, owner of Brisco Hanover, feels that Speedy Somolli will not sweep the three races. "There won't be a Triple Crown winner this year," Barr said.

But Speedy Somolli was brilliant in the $241,280 Hambletonian, winning his first heat in 1:55, best ever in a mile race and only four-fifths of a second off Nevele Pride's world record, which came during a 1969 time trial.

Speedy Somolli earlier had beaten all his rivals, except Florida Pro, in capturing the $233,594 Yonkers Trot.

A victory Friday would be a double treat for Speedy Somolli's driver and trainer, Howard Beissinger.

Beissinger, of Hamilton, Ky., guided 1969 Triple Crown winner Linder's Pride.

Under Beissinger, Speedy Somolli won 10 of 16 starts as a 2-year-old, never finished worse than third and was chosen 2-year-old trotter of the year.

He broke stride six times last year, but Beissinger said his colt "was just overanxious."

Brisco Hanover also is entered in Friday's classic. Other top contenders include Doublemint, Count's Pride, Way to Gain and Noble Move.

Lee Rebels host Big Spring today

The Midland Lee volleyball team will host Big Spring tonight at 7 p.m. in a key District 5-4A volleyball match.

Lee defeated Abilene Cooper, 15-7, 15-9, Tuesday to run their district record to 2-1. Coach Linda Weikel praised the Rebels for a team performance in the Cooper win. "Everyone played very well," she said.

The junior varsity dropped a 15-8, 4-15, 15-11 decision to Cooper Tuesday, and will face the Big Spring junior varsity today, at 6 p.m. in the Lee gym.

Woman reporter barred by judge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal judge has upheld, for now, the Philadelphia Phillies' right to bar a woman reporter from locker room interviews.

U.S. District Judge Donald W. Van Arsdale denied the emergency request for access in a suit filed Wednesday by freelance writer Samantha Stevenson, 29.

The suit contended the Phillies' shutout violated Ms. Stevenson's constitutional rights to equal protection under the law and freedom of the press, as well as the equal rights granted under Pennsylvania's constitution.

Ms. Stevenson's suit said she is writing an article on the Phillies for Sports Magazine and must "have access to such sources and opportunities as any competing writers" if she is to prepare the article "properly and competently."

Larry Shenk, publicity director for the team, said of the suit: "Major league baseball takes the position that we take the athletes to the gals."

The only exception to that rule so far is at New York's Yankee Stadium, where last week a federal district court judge ordered that a woman writer for Sports Illustrated must be admitted into the locker room. Baseball Commissioner Bowie

Kuhn has urged teams to stand together in barring women from areas where male athletes may be nude. He describes the intrusion of women into the locker room as "inimical to the welfare of organized baseball."

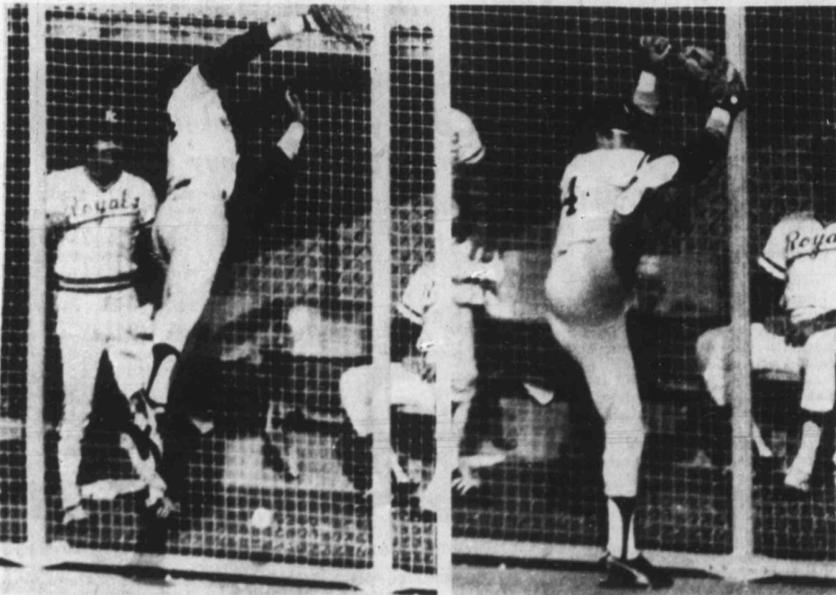

The suit said the Phillies' refusal to allow Ms. Stevenson access to club room and the locker room interferes with her rights to "pursue her chosen trade and profession and denies her equal protection and benefit of the law."

Ms. Stevenson said Wednesday she has covered sports since 1971 for print and broadcast media. She said she was permitted access to the locker room of the National Basketball Association's Philadelphia 76ers earlier this year, when she gathered material for an award-winning article in the June 1978 edition of Sports Magazine.

Throws out pitch

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sarah Brady of Dayton, Ohio will throw out the ceremonial first pitch for the opening game of the Cincinnati Reds' 1979 baseball season.

She won the honor at the National League team's Fan Appreciation Day last weekend. The Reds presented her with four tickets to their April 4 game against San Francisco.

NFL owners will take two steps Cage coach says NCAA is powerful

CHICAGO (AP) — National Football League owners have taken two uniform steps — to ensure that those on cheerleaders are more proper, and that their players' jerseys stay on their backs.

NFL owners decided at a Wednesday meeting to allow each of the league's 28 teams to individually monitor cheerleading squads — agreeing that "closer supervision" is needed over costume appearances and off-the-field activities of cheerleaders.

They also agreed to outlaw tear-away jerseys beginning with games scheduled for this weekend.

The two-day meeting concluded today.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said it was agreed that the jerseys are a safety hazard because they don't provide adequate support for shoulder pads.

"The pads are made to be worn with regular jerseys," Rozelle said. "Another factor in the decision to discontinue the tearaway jerseys was the delay involved when players had to leave the game to change."

The owners, who met at the downtown Chicago Marriott Hotel, decided not to adopt an official NFL policy on the cheerleader question, which has become a controversial issue in the past few weeks.

However, Rozelle said the owners agreed the cheerleaders need "closer supervision." He said the owners felt it would be better if each club appointed a "responsible person" to monitor the squads.

The NFL commissioner said the owners interpreted "more supervision" to mean screening of cheerleader applicants, checking out costumes before games and signing application agreements placing certain restrictions on their off-the-field activities.

There has been controversy over the exposed navels of the Washington Redskins' cheerleaders, and the cut of the skin-tight uniforms of the Los Angeles Rams' Embraceable Ewes. The controversy came to a head when the San Diego Chargers' contingent was disbanded after one of its members posed nude for Playboy magazine.

The owners decided to wait for their annual meeting in March before deciding on whether NFL owners can own franchises in other sports.

Rozelle said the North American Soccer League was concerned about how an ownership ban would affect it. The NASL went to court last week to seek an injunction against such a ban and the judge advised the NFL officials to wait until the outcome of the case before deciding the question of multiple-team ownership.

"The soccer league wants more NFL owners to buy soccer teams," Rozelle said.

Most owners frown on cross ownership. The two who stand most directly affected in the event of a ban would be Jack Kent Cooke and Lamar Hunt. Cooke, of the Washington Redskins, owns the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League and the National Basketball Association's Los Angeles Lakers. Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs, also owns the Dallas Tornado of the NASL and has a big interest in the NBA's Chicago Bulls.

The owners also put off until March a decision on the feasibility of using TV cameras to decide controversial decisions on plays.

Death claims soccer player

ANOKA, Minn. (AP) — A 17-year-old Anoka High School soccer player collapsed on the field and died shortly after the start of the Anoka-Blaine game Tuesday night, authorities said.

The Anoka County coroner's office identified the victim as Brad Boynton of Brooklyn Center, Minn., a senior who was captain of the Anoka soccer team.

High school Principal Art Dussel said the youth collapsed on the field just after the game started at 7:30 a.m. He said there had been no physical contact when Boynton collapsed.

The principal said Boynton died on the field despite attempts to revive him. The cause of death has not been established and an autopsy has been ordered.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Norm Sloan, a veteran basketball coach at North Carolina State, says the NCAA is a powerful organization that can affect a person's sports career.

Sloan, under threat of a subpoena, testified before Congress Wednesday that he did not want to be a witness for Jerry Tarkanian, University of Nevada at Las Vegas coach, because he feared the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"I had a fear of getting involved in opposition to the NCAA," Sloan told the House investigations subcommittee. "They're very powerful, as you know, and have a great deal of influence on my life or the life of any other coach at a member institution. I just didn't think it was a healthy situation, having those people upset at you."

Sloan testified that he was told in 1973 that the NCAA had plans to drive Tarkanian out of coaching when he was with Long Beach State.

The NCAA placed the University of Nevada-Las Vegas on two years probation in 1977 and ordered the school to fire Tarkanian. The case is under appeal before the Nevada Supreme Court.

Sloan said he was given the statement by Bill Hunt of the NCAA investigations staff, who denied making the comment last week when he appeared before the House subcommittee.

"I would deny that I ever indicated to Norm Sloan that we were trying to run Jerry Tarkanian out of coaching," said Hunt.

Sloan said Hunt told him that Tarkanian's ouster was being sought because of a number of suspected rules violations.

Sloan also quoted Hunt as saying that "the NCAA had information that Jerry and some friends were going to arrange to have drugs planted in (investigators') rooms and prostitutes to discredit the NCAA investigation."

Tarkanian has denied participating in any frame-up.

In August, Tarkanian accused the NCAA of plotting to drive him from the ranks of college basketball coaches.

"After today's hearing, any neutral observer would have to agree the NCAA was out to get Coach Tarkanian," said Rep. Jim Santini, D-Nev. "I don't think the UNLV got a fair shake."

Sooners lose top tackler

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — With only two days separating Oklahoma from their annual clash with the Texas Longhorns, the thing the Sooners did not need was to lose their leading tackler in the secondary.

But they did.

Senior strong safety Sherwood Taylor is out for the remainder of the regular season with a neck injury.

"He was an excellent player for us in the secondary, as well as a fine leader for the team. He will be missed, but there is a possibility he will be ready to play for a bowl game," Head Coach Barry Switzer said. Taylor, from Ada, had 17 unassisted tackles, assisted on seven more as well as intercepting two passes, this year.

Switzer said he will move Mike Babb to strong safety from his right cornerback position, and move Jay Jimerson to corner to fill the defensive alignment.

Switzer says the Sooners have plenty of depth in the position.

He says it is the Longhorn defense and their kicker that concern him.

"Houston was the first team to score a rushing touchdown on them last year, and that was in the eighth game of the season. That's unbelievable," Switzer said.

Switzer said kicker Russell Exleben can give the Sooners bad field position.

He said the Sooners are practicing with "a concerned attitude this week" which was not present last week.

Royals win

they prepared to return to New York for Game 3 Friday, but they were clearly disappointed at losing an opportunity to grab a two-game series edge.

"I felt real good about winning last (Tuesday) night, because it gave me a chance to get my pitching straightened out," said New York Manager Tom Seaver.

Seaver said he will send right-hander Catfish Hunter, 12-6, against Kansas City southpaw Phil Spletteroff, 19-13, Friday. "But you really want more than a split after you win the first one."

While the Yankees said they hoped their turf would negate Kansas City's speed, the Royals, more than happy with the split after their 7-1 loss Tuesday night, said they planned to keep the pressure on with continued aggressive play.

"It's the best two-out-of-three now," emphasized catcher Darrell Porter. "I came to the park today feeling the same way I did Tuesday night ... excellent. But I feel a lot better after this one than the last one."

Added shortstop Fred Patek: "We've had a bad tendency to sit on leads in the past. We decided not to do that this time around. They have too much dynamite in their lineup ..."

"If you score big against this club, you can keep (relievers Rich) Gosage and (Sparky) Lyle out of the game."

The Yankees, who helped the Kansas City cause Wednesday with shoddy fielding, talked of eliminating mistakes against the Royals.

"What you can't do with a team like Kansas City is give them more than three outs in an inning," said Piniella.

"If you start lousing up and make mistakes, they'll hurt you. But if you can stay close, you can beat 'em."

Olympic stadium one of many costs in '76

MONTREAL (AP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau says he consulted a top adviser of former Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa about hiring a consulting firm that later failed to complete much-needed plans for the Olympic stadium.

Paul Desrochers, once described as the "grey eminence" of the Bourassa administration, knew the head of the firm, Regis Trudeau et Associes, Drapeau told a Quebec inquiry into the $1.27 billion cost of the 1976 Games Wednesday.

The mayor said the city hired Regis Trudeau after Desrochers informed him that the firm had no major projects in the works. He did not elaborate on the extent of Desrochers' influence.

The firm began work on the 70,000-seat stadium in June 1973, but was forced to withdraw from the contract in August 1974 after being unable to complete the plans.

Later that year, Drapeau said, his attempt to negotiate a no-strike agreement with trade unions involved in Olympic construction fell through. This left the door open for labor problems that were to plague the construction effort.

Although most of Regis Trudeau's stadium plans had to be redone, the firm still received a full $1.7 million fee.

Inquiry lawyer Jacques Dagenais grilled the mayor on several alleged discussions with Desrochers, who was recently relieved of his duties with the Quebec Liberals by the new party leader, Claude Ryan.

Drapeau said he clearly recalled asking Desrochers whether the Regis Trudeau firm was working on any large projects for the Quebec government or whether it would be in the near future. The reply was negative.

The mayor said the city did not want to hire a firm with too much work.

Regis Trudeau was among a number of companies raided five weeks ago by provincial police officers investigating alleged transactions between Olympic contractors and Gerard Niding, chairman of the City of Montreal executive committee, who also was raided. No charges have been filed.

Previous testimony indicates that the firm was hired on Niding's recommendation.

Drapeau said he did not know who had negotiated the resolution of the Regis Trudeau contract for the stadium plans, which included a clause renouncing the city's right to legal recourse because of failure to complete the contract.

"Certainly somebody knew about the negotiations; somebody made the recommendation to the city's executive committee," he said.

It was easier to drop the right to legal recourse because "construction of the Olympic facilities could have been delayed by court cases," he added.

He conceded the delay in production of stadium plans was probably a major cause for construction not beginning until August 1974, less than two years before the Games opened.

Joe Garagiola will call World Series

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Joe Garagiola will be calling the shots for NBC Tuesday night as the 75th World Series gets under way and he'll be a lot better prepared for it than he was 32 years ago.

Garagiola made his first Series appearance in 1946 as a 20-year-old rookie catcher with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I didn't know what was happening. I was just over-awed by it," he recalls. "My biggest concern at that time was concentrating on not missing the bus to the ballpark."

"I'll tell you, the easiest thing about the Series for a player is playing the game. The rest of it is tough. You have to worry about getting tickets for all your friends. You come out to take batting practice and feel just fine. Then so many people start asking you how you feel, you begin to wonder. You have to go back in the clubhouse and look in the mirror to see if you're okay."

"I remember the '46 Series. Man, I heard from everyone I was in the army with except Eisenhower and MacArthur. Everybody I ever played ball with called. You hear from all your relatives. One year Eddie Sawyer was managing the Phillies in the Series and he had so many relatives staying with him he had to sleep on the floor."

This time around Garagiola will be better prepared. He will be working his fourth Series as a play-by-play man for NBC and has done several others on radio or with his late, lamented pre-game show, "The Baseball World of Joe Garagiola."

"I just make up my mind that nothing is going to distract me from my job," he says. "I'm not going to make any appearances. I'm not going to get involved with any meetings. I don't care who calls. I'm going to get to the ballpark early, talk to the trainers, talk to the guys during batting practice, get up to the broadcast

Nick Lowery lands his job in newspaper

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP)—Nick Lowery landed his job through the local newspaper, hopping from a relaxing Hanover, N.H., pub to the National Football League pressure cooker.

The former Dartmouth College kicker was waiting on tables in the college town when he read that the New England Patriots needed a replacement for John Smith, out for the season with a leg muscle injury.

"It was a Thursday before the Monday night game against Baltimore, a nice day, worth the drive down," Lowery recalls. "I borrowed my roommate's car."

He drove to Foxboro, not even sure that was where the team practiced, and arrived at 6 p.m. A receptionist told him everyone was gone, but Coach Chuck Fairbanks was rounded up, and in the gathering dusk, held the ball for Lowery, who tried about 30 kicks.

"Fairbanks never even heard of me," Lowery said. "I had sent a football-type resume but I guess someone filed it away."

The trial ended Lowery a second look, and he eventually was signed, replacing Smith on the roster for the Sept. 24 game against the Oakland Raiders.

In two games, Lowery has missed his one field goal try—a 45-yarder—but made all seven extra point conversions, including several late in the games.

New England came from behind in both games to beat Oakland and San Diego.

Making the team was no fluke, however. At Dartmouth, Lowery made all 51 extra point attempts and 22 of 36 field goals, including 16 of 17 inside the 35-yard line.

The rookie flunked a tryout with the New York Jets last summer and was mulling a career in government, or perhaps the theater, until last month.

The son of a U.S. State Department official, Lowery has lived in England and Germany and worked in Washington, D.C.

His kicking career began as a youngster in London after watching a rugby match. He played football as a schoolboy in Virginia.

The 6-foot-4 Lowery, one of the tallest kickers in the NFL, also is one of several Dartmouth College athletes to turn professional in recent years. Jim Beattie, a former baseball teammate, has become an important member of the New York Yankees' pitching staff.

Lowery's future with the Patriots, however, is not so secure.

"There's a lot of pressure if coaches judge you by each single kick," Lowery said.

Wednesday, Fairbanks was continuing to test prospective kickers, and Lowery's job with New England is on the line every day.

Fairbanks said Lowery has shown he can kick extra points, and probably field goals, but added, "He's been a disappointment on kickoffs. We've lost a lot of field position, not having those kicks deep enough or long enough."

Crime in rural areas on upswing in this decade

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — It's 2:30 a.m. when someone gets into a $29,000 tractor on a dealer's lot and drives it away. A few people notice it going down the rural highway in Champaign County, but no one calls the police.

A farmer near Lake City goes to his unlocked barn to get his soybean herbicide. Seven bags are missing. These isolated incidents are indicative of what is happening all over the country — crime in the rural areas has been on the upswing this decade.

The rate of serious crimes, known as the crime index, increased 43 percent in rural areas of this country between 1972 and 1976.

"This thing sort of exploded on us," said Ken Cheatham, director of local governmental affairs for the Farm Bureau. "We know that across the nation rural crime is going up 2-to-1 to urban crime."

In Illinois for example, there was a 1.1 percent increase in crime in rural areas from 1975 to 1976, while crimes in major cities declined 7.3 percent and in suburban areas they went down 5.7 percent.

"Law enforcement agencies everywhere say it is a rapidly escalating problem, but it's hard to say what the volume is," said Cheatham. "Our best estimate from talks with law enforcement people across the country is about $500 million annually."

One reason rural areas seem to be attracting more thieves is the isolated nature of the area. "They think they won't be caught," said Sheriff Jim Durst of Woodford County, who is secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Sheriff's Association. "Out in the country, there will be no witnesses who might see something."

People who moved from big cities to rural areas to escape crime may be surprised, said Cheatham. "A farmer who was isolated back on a country road used to be safe, and he didn't worry about crime," he said. "Now, they are being selected by the thief because they are isolated."

Wayne Baughman, executive director of field services for the Farm Bureau, said the interstate highways had made the criminals more mobile.

"They can make a raid on property and be on their way in short order," said Baughman. "You can get $3,000 to $5,000 worth of agriculture chemicals on a pickup."

Another factor, cited by many sheriffs, is the attitude of some country people. Sheriff Butch Kimmel of Whiteside County said some thieves were heading for rural areas because of stricter law enforcement in the cities.

Rosalynn remembers a tougher campaign

By MAUREEN SANTINI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rosalynn Carter remembers how it used to be when she was out hunting votes as the wife of just plain Jimmy Carter. Getting a crowd was hard work. Almost no one would pay $100 to hear her speak.

During a three-day political swing last week, Mrs. Carter recalled at a black-tie fundraiser in Miami — she's now the chief attraction at these affairs — that she had spent 75 days in Florida in 1975 and 1976.

"I would say, 'I'm Mrs. Jimmy Carter, my husband is running for president and we need your help.' They would say, 'President of what?' And I would say, 'President of the United States.' And they would say, 'You've got to be kidding!'"

The incredulity in her soft voice made it a great applause line.

And it was the same story in Iowa. "I went to coffees and teas in your homes," she said at the Iowa Democratic Party's Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Ames. "I walked up and down streets campaigning with you, went to factories with you."

With a giggle she added: "I spent the night with about half of you, I think."

"You did those things because you believed in Jimmy. Certainly not because you thought he would ever be president. And we're grateful to you for that."

More applause. This election season, as she steps out on the campaign trail for the first time as first lady, things are different.

Not only do people pay $100 to hear her speak at fundraisers for Democratic candidates, they crush tightly around her as she moves from table to table greeting each person individually — as she always does. They line up outside to catch a glimpse and a snapshot of her — even, as in Terre Haute, Ind., in the rain.

Instead of traveling on a small chartered plane, she rides in a DC-9 full of Secret Service agents, staff, press, and dignitaries. Local and state officials greet her on the runway; 10-car motorcades with police escorts whisk her to her destination.

In Cedar Rapids, Iowa, local police operated a helicopter above her motorcade for extra security, just as they do for the president.

As one of the most popular members of the administration, Mrs. Carter will spend about 12 days on the road this fall for Democrats facing tough election challenges. In return, the candidates pay travel expenses for the first lady and her staff.

She visited North Carolina, Florida, Iowa and Indiana last week, and plans a tight two-day tour of four Midwestern states this weekend.

Though this is not a presidential election year, the first lady still is stumping for Jimmy Carter. But instead of telling audiences what he would do if elected, she tells them what he has done.

She cites a 12 percent reduction in paperwork. Peace in the country. Six million more people employed. A reduction in the budget deficit. Government reorganization.

Echoing the president's campaign theme this fall, Mrs. Carter says Democrats can provide efficient, compassionate government with fiscal responsibility.

And she urges the audiences to elect the Democrat standing next to her so they can help Jimmy Carter accomplish even more.

If campaigning Rosalynn-style seems similar to two years ago, there's one important difference, Mrs. Carter said during an interview on the plane back to Washington last week. "I don't have that tension about whether or not we're going to win or lose."

"I can just enjoy the people and hopefully help the candidate," she added above the roar of the engine, "but it's not the same as when I was campaigning for myself and not knowing whether you're going to win or lose."

Despite her promoting of the administration, she wouldn't accept the suggestion that she seemed to be campaigning for her husband.

"I feel like it's a good opportunity for me to be able to tell people what the administration is doing," she said. "But as for campaigning for Jimmy for the next election, it never even crossed my mind."

Officials win reversal of 'Oh, Calcutta' award

NEW ORLEANS (AP)

—The Lake Charles city attorney and two aides, found in contempt of court and fined $1,000 for allegedly interfering with the "Oh! Calcutta!" have won their appeal.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday that the lawyers were cited for criminal contempt and should have been afforded due process, including a hearing.

U.S. District Judge Earl Veron held City Attorney Robert McHale and aides Louis Bufkin and Michael Dees last February for allegedly violating his injunction against interfering with the play.

"Oh! Calcutta!," a touring version of the Broadway show that includes nude scenes and rough language, raised a fuss in several Louisiana cities on its itinerary last February.

In Lake Charles, Lafayette and St. Bernard Parish, prosecutors threatened legal action against it, but it played in all three places without incident.

In Lake Charles, after Veron issued his injunction, McHale and two of his aides, Bufkin and Dees allegedly halted ticket sales for a couple of hours while the city attorneys discussed the legal situation.

Veron fined the city attorney and his aides $1,000 each. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the contempt citations and dismissed the fines.

The 5th Circuit said that although Veron held the lawyers in civil contempt, the $1,000 fines and other circumstances were those of a criminal contempt citation — which in most cases requires that the defendant be given due process.

"Due process requires that, except for a limited category of contempts in the court's immediate presence, one charged with criminal contempt must be advised of the charges against him, have a reasonable opportunity to answer them, and have a chance to testify and call witnesses in his behalf," the 5th Circuit said, in reversing the lower court.

"Like the trial judge, we are conscious of the importance of First Amendment rights. Having issued an injunction to protect freedom of speech, the (lower) court evidently was attempting diligently to prevent impairment of constitutional guarantees accorded (the play's) producers and disobedience of the court's lawful process."

Four more adult courses start next week at MC

Midland-area residents may sign up for four non-credit evening short courses which are slated to begin at Midland College next week.

The courses, offered through the college's Department of Community Services, are as follows: Intermediate Belly Dancing, taught by Karen Sharma.

This is a continuation of the beginning course and covers new and more difficult dances. Classes are limited to 20 students meeting on Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. for four weeks. Course fee is $16. Students meet in the Midland College gym.

Italic Calligraphy (for beginners), instructed by Laird Considine. During this five-week course, students will learn to use a broad-tipped pen to form italicized script which can be used for greeting cards, invitations, signs and everyday writing.

Classes are limited to 15 students meeting

Monday and Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. in room 100 of the Occupational-Technical Building. Course fee is $20, and the cost of supplies will be approximately $10.

Psychological Concepts of C.G. Jung are reviewed by Laird Considine in a six-week course meeting on Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. in room 100 of the Occ-Tech Building.

Jung's research into the depths of the psyche have influenced the work of psychologists, parapsychologists, theologians, anthropologists, historians, artists and physicists.

Laird Considine explains the practical value of Jung's findings and introduces the basic ideas and their application toward better self-understanding. The fee for the course is $12 and classes are limited to 15 students.

A six-week course in Watercolor covers the use of transparent water colors, composition and perspective. The instructor, Judy Morrison, asks that students bring paper, brushes, colors and a water container to the first class meeting.

Instruction will be on Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in room 100 of the Occ-Tech Building. The fee for the course is $15.

The course titled "Reflexology: Foot Massage" has been cancelled.

Pre-registration for each of the courses is in progress now between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays in room 140 of the Occupational-Technical Building.

Ohio inventor constructs replica of old locomotive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When Charles S. Mooney goes into his basement workshop, there's no telling what he'll come up with.

The 64-year-old inventor has combined hobbies with work for the past 30 years.

"I don't know where my work begins and my hobbies stop," says Mooney, his eyes gleaming with thoughts of a new creation. He recently completed a 100-pound, working replica of a coal-fired steam locomotive and tender.

The real thing he used for the design of his model was built around 1880, with working controls for the steam boiler, wheel brakes, throttle and safety valve.

This is only one in a lifetime series of unusual models and inventions. This one can operate on marble-size chunks of coal and tiny pieces of wood soaked in kerosene.

In his younger years,

Mooney's love affair with tiny models was sidetracked into medical studies. He graduated from Ohio State University in June 1941 and received a graduate degree in serology.

But his plans for a medical career were altered by World War II when he commanded a U.S. Navy PT boat.

After the war he returned to Ohio State for advanced study in engineering and medicine.

But his love of modeling persisted, and in the late 1940s he operated two stores for hobbyists. In the past 20 years, he has had a varied career as a sales engineer and technical medical consultant.

He has designed and built prototype models of a fetal stethoscope, a disposable nasal filter for use by people with allergies and a filter cartridge for a type of dialysis machine. He also developed a machine to mass-produce a pliable material used in certain dental work and a fabrication method for large-gauge hypodermic needles.

But when time permits he returns to his models.

He has a half-dozen model racing hydroplanes that operate by radio command. He constructed a 5-foot, battery-powered model of a "Victory Ship," and a scale model of the PT boat he commanded during World War II.

Several members of the "Shakespeare As We Like It" group are welcomed to Theatre Midland by Midland Community Theatre executive director Art Cole, right. The study and discussion group will hold meetings on alternate Sundays at Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave. A needlepoint banner displaying well-known Shakespearean characters will be displayed at the theater when the group is in session. ## Theatre Midland has new tenant Theatre Midland, the new home of Midland Community Theatre and its Pickwick Players and related organizations, now has another tenant — the "Shakespeare As We Like It" group. The group, formerly known as "Shakespeare-in-the-Living Room," has in past seasons held Sunday afternoon sessions in private homes in the city.

With the move to UMC's Theatre Midland to join other units of the MCT "family," the organization changed its name to "Shakespeare As We Like It." The group holds meetings on alternate Sunday afternoons, and membership in the informal organization is open to all interested persons in the city and surrounding area. Additional details may be obtained from Robert Anson, the organization's founder, at 683-6868.

In recalling the formation of the Shakespeare study group, Anson said "it was my notion to organize a 'Shakespeare Enjoyment Society' on a basis quite different from the many study-lecture-playing groups around the world. I wanted to arrange matters so that participation would be easy, and the effort would be directed towards pleasurable discovery rather than formal erudition or scholarly study."

Anson's ideas became reality after he moved to Midland from Tulsa in 1973. With help from Midland Community Theatre director Art Cole and a group of Shakespeare devotees in the area, the "Shakespeare-in-the-Living Room" group was organized. Members of the group read and discuss the plays, scene by scene.

Members find it easy to participate in the "presentation" of the drama by reading the assigned parts which are interchanged from scene to scene.

According to Anson, "the amount and depth of the discussion which can follow one of the more exciting scenes is amazing. Some very amusing, unusual or 'insightful' observations are made.

"When a dozen or so interested readers try to unravel a problem plot or line, to experience the poetic impact, or to provide a modern paraphrase for high-faloot Elizabethan imagery, the exchange of ideas becomes hilarious as well as stimulating. That's a big part of the intended enjoyment!"

The group spends from two to six sessions on any given play, dependent upon length, complexity, level of interest and the time devoted to listening to selected recordings of certain scenes. Nineteen plays have been completed thus far, among them "Twelfth Night," "A Winter's Tale," "Antony and Cleopatra," "Much Ado About Nothing," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "The Tempest," "Hamlet," "Taming of the Shrew," "Macbeth," "As You Like It," "Richard II," "Julius Caesar," "Cymbeline" and "Henry IV" (parts 1 and 2).

Discussion leadership of a given play is occasionally rotated. For "Romeo and Juliet," which which the study group will be starting this coming Sunday afternoon, Anson and Dorothy Perkins, one of the founding members of the organization, will be serving as co-leaders of the discussions.

In preparation for the organization's name-change and move to Theatre Midland, another longtime member of the group, Rosemary McLaren, in recent months created a needlepoint banner for "Shakespeare As We Like It."

When the study group is in session at Theatre Midland on alternate Sunday afternoons in the months to come the banner will hang from the balcony in the main lobby of the spacious new theater structure.

Dorothy Perkins prepared the character designs for Mrs. McLaren's colorful banner. Surrounding Shakespeare's coat-of-arms are characters who represent the full spectrum of the playwright's stage works: Broad comedy is represented by Kate of "Taming of the Shrew," supreme tragedy by Hamlet, the longest and strongest female of all Shakespearean heroines, Cleopatra, and the Bard's most recognizable figure, Falstaff.

In addition to Anson, Miss Perkins and Mrs. McLaren, the Shakespeare As We Like It group consists of a dozen other members. These 15 Shakespeare devotees will welcome all other Shakespeare buffs of the city and area at their Sunday afternoon meetings.

Makk works shown

ABILENE — International artists Eva and Americo Makk, who have exhibited their paintings in Midland on several past occasions, are represented in a new exhibition at the Abilene Fine Arts Museum.

In the Abilene show, the Makks are joined by their son A.B. Makk, who has recently launched his own career as a professional artist.

The Makks, widely regarded as international artists, are showing paintings of scenes of several continents, including Europe, Africa and North and South America.

The new show opened early this week with a preview reception at which the Makks were honor guests.

The exhibition will continue through Oct. 11. The Abilene Fine Arts Museum is open to the public free of charge from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Thouvenel Quartet to open season Sunday

A work by 20th Century composer Alban Berg will share honors with works by Franz Joseph Haydn and Franz Schubert in the Thouvenel Quartet's season-opening concert Sunday night.

The Thouvenel ensemble, Midland's string quartet-in-residence, will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday in the recital hall of the fine arts building of Midland College.

The event is the first of five concerts planned by the Thouvenel ensemble here during the fall, winter and spring months. Season tickets for the series are priced $10 for adults, $5 for students, and may be purchased before the start of the concert Sunday night.

Programmed for the recital are the Berg Quartet, Op. 3, along with Haydn's Quartet in B-flat major, Op. 76, No. 4, and Schubert's String Quintet in C major, Op. 163.

Berg, one of the giants of 20th Century music, composed his String Quartet Op. 3 in 1910. The work was written soon after the composer came under the influence of his mentor, Arnold Schoenberg.

The quartet reflects typical musical traits of Berg with its dramatic climaxes and contrasts and its highly emotional style.

The work is in a direct line from the composers of the late romantic musical era, such as Gustav Mahler and Richard Wagner, and in it Berg achieved a synthesis of traditional and modern elements.

Haydn's Quartet in B-flat major is one of his most famous work and was composed during his most mature period of creativity.

The work is often called the "Sunrise" Quartet, a name derived from the first theme of the first movement in the piece, whose ascending melody has often been likened to a rising sun.

For the third work of the evening, Schubert's String Quintet in C major, the Thouvenel ensemble will be joined by a guest artist, cellist David Vanderkooi of Nashville, Tenn. Vanderkooi is artist-in-residence and teacher of cello at the Blair School of Music in Nashville.

Schubert's quintet, dating from 1828, was the last work he composed.

ABC picks up where it left off

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a story told many times last season — ABC's "Three's Company" tops in the week's prime-time TV ratings, eight of the network's shows in the first 10 ranked by the A.C. Nielsen Co.

But it was the second week of the new television season — third by ABC's accounting — and the clear message was that ABC had picked up where it left off last spring.

After "Three's Company," ABC had two holdovers, last season's top show, "Laverne and Shirley," in third place, and "Happy Days" in fourth, and three newcomers, including No. 5 "Battlestar Galactica," No. 8 "Mork and Mindy" and No. 10 "Taxi," in the first 10.

ABC called the week ending Oct. 3 the third of the new season; competing CBS and NBC, who began their fall programming a week after ABC, said it was the second. The argument was academic: It was the second — or third — triumph in a row for ABC.

CBS and NBC each had a single show in the Top 10, "M-A-S-H" on CBS was fourth for the week, "Little House on the Prairie" on NBC was seventh.

The heavy concentration at the top left ABC with a rating for the week of 21.2, followed by NBC at 17.7 and CBS at 16.3. The networks say that means in an average prime time minute during the week, 21.2 percent of the country's homes with TV were tuned to ABC.

NBC, which spent much of last season in-third place, was runnerup for the second week in a row.

The rating for the week's top program, "Three's Company," was 30. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 30 percent saw at least part of the program.

New shows, on the whole, did not fare well. In addition to the three ABC programs in the Top 10 — "Battlestar Galactica" was fifth, "Mork and Mindy" eighth, "Taxi" 10th — the only other new programs in the first 20 were ABC's "Vegas," No. 14, and the first installment in NBC's miniseries, "Centennial," No. 15 for the week.

'Gang!' marks change for Benson

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What happens when a film company enters street-gang territory to make a movie about gang warfare?

"It was scary," admits Robby Benson, who is starring as a Chicano in "Gang!" a Turman-Foster production for Universal Pictures.

Benson believes that publicity about gang attacks on the film company during the production in nearby Venice has been exaggerated.

"There was allegedly one shooting incident, but I didn't see it," said the actor. "The tension was there. When the gangs thought they were mistreated by the company, they cruised past the location shouting out of the windows."

"Those of us on the picture were scared to death. Much of the shooting was at night, and under those lights we could have r... de a prime target. Nothing happened, but I know I can't walk the streets of Venice anymore."

Benson was relieved when the company returned to Universal studios for the conclusion of the eight-story of his doomed son. Also "One on One," last year's surprise hit which fulfilled Benson's ambition to be a college basketball star.

"I'm proud of the picture because my father (Jerry Segal) and I wrote it," said Benson. In his own life, he never went beyond high school, where he was valedictorian and claims the highest scholastic rating (learning lines was an advantage: "I can memorize whole books").

Entries in Big Spring show have already exceeded 1977

BIG SPRING — The second annual Big Spring Art and Crafts Festival is fast approaching.

This year's festival will be held Oct. 21 and 22 in the newly-completed Howard College Coliseum. Entries in the event have already exceeded the total number of artists and artisans who participated in the 1977 festival a year ago.

Planners of the art festival believe the event is destined to become one of the largest unlimited art shows in the West Texas area.

Mel Prather, co-chairman of the upcoming event, said "we already have more than 100 entries for the festival." He added that entrants include such well-known Southwestern artists as George Boutwell of Austin, Paul Kime of San Antonio, Walter Dick of Austin, Marianne Caroselli of San Marcos, Frank Delaney Ward of Midland, David Brownlow of Fort Worth, Bert Gilbert of Lubbock, Michael Story of Wichita Falls and Jim Thomas of Amarillo, among numerous others.

"In addition to moving the festival of Howard College Coliseum, we also are adding some new features to this year's event," Prather said. "This will be the first year we have provided purchase awards by local merchants. We already have received seven purchase awards of $650 apiece."

Discussing additional booth entries, Prather noted that "we are receiving new entries for the festival each week, and will continue to accept booth reservations until all the display space on the main floor and concourse is leased."

Prather urged area artists and craftspeople interested in exhibiting at the festival to contact the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce without delay. The chamber may be contacted at P.O. Box 1391, Big Spring 79720.

Props, costumes sought for an MCT production

Midland Community Theatre is searching for World War II costumes and props for its next production, "Stalag 17."

The comedy, set in a German prison camp during World War II, opens a week from Friday at Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave. The theater box office, 682-4111, has opened to accept seat reservations from MCT members for performances of the play. Tickets will go on sale to the public next week.

According to Mae Dawson, costume chairman for the show, and Dean McLain, props chairman, many varied clothing items and props are needed for the production. Persons with military boots, fleecelined flight jackets, pilot jumpsuits, longhandle underwear or non-dress military uniforms to lend to the theater, or to contribute to the MCT costume department, are invited to telephone 682-2544 to make arrangements to have the items picked up.

The production also needs German pistols with belts, German rifles with bayonets, and gray or olive drab woolen Army blankets. Persons having any of these items to lend or to donate also may telephone the theater office at 682-2544.

"Stalag 17," with a 21-member all-male cast, is having its second production at Midland Community Theatre. The hilarious comedy was first presented here in the early 1950s. Art Cole, MCT director, staged and directed that production, and he also is directing the current production.

OC students set portrayal of Chinese story for children

ODESSA — "Land of the Dragon," a Chinese fairy tale for children, will have performances this week and next at Odessa College.

The production is being staged and directed by Dr. Dorothy Dodd, head of the Odessa College theater department.

Performances will be at 7 p.m. Friday and 1 p.m. Saturday in the main auditorium of Odessa College. A third presentation is scheduled for 1 p.m. on Oct. 14. Admission will be $1 per person and tickets may be reserved through the theater department. Tickets also will be available at the box office before the start of each performance. Proceeds from ticket sales will benefit OC's drama scholarship fund.

"The play is very visual with colorful Oriental costumes, settings, props and makeup," Dr. Dodd said. "Drama instructor Jane Ann Crum, the set designer, and the entire cast have gone to great lengths to impart a Chinese flavor to the production."

Designed to entertain adults as well as young people, the play revolves around a beautiful princess named Jade Pure and a wandering minstrel who owns a pet dragon. The couple's romance and adventures form the plot of the play.

"Land of the Dragon" is the OC theater department's first production of the fall term. Following the series of Odessa performances, the production will be presented later this year at the American College Theater Festival, scheduled on the campus of Sam Houston State University at Huntsville.

week schedule. He admitted that he, a Jewish New Yorker, had been criticized for playing a Mexican-American of Los Angeles. He did his home work, talking with social workers who strive to keep peace in the barrio and observing the gangs themselves.

"The character I play is surrounded by a web, like many Chicanos, who can see no way of breaking out," said Benson. "He is caught up in the baloney of macho until a romance with an Anglo girl. Then he grows as a person and learns about responsibility. "I can understand the reason for the gangs. They are really an extension of the family, a natural result of growing up with a rough situation and no way out of it."

The 22-year-old actor realized the risk of playing a Mexican-American — "I could really screw up." But he found the script by Evan Hunter ("The Blackboard Jungle") to be "by far the best of those that have been submitted to me." Also, "Gang!" marks a turn to dramatic realism after the sentimental "Ode to Billy Joe," "One on One" and the unreleased "Ice Castles."

His fans will see a different Robby Benson. The makeup is dark, the hair long, but the biggest change is in the eyes. "I wear contact lenses to give me brown eyes," he said. "The change is amazing; the different color creates a totally different line structure to my face."

Robby Benson is among the most promising of a new generation of stars and he seems to have kept his head amid the onrush of fame. No wonder. He has been acting for 17 years.

"When I was five, I started doing commercials," he remarked. "And I've done everything — Broadway theater ('The King and I'), television (a long run in the soap 'Search for Tomorrow'), films, summer stock. I did a lot of dubbing for foreign language movies; they need children's voices for movies, too."

"I managed to get through the awkward period when I was too old to play young kids and too young for an adult role. Mainly, it was a matter of being in the right place at the right time and letting things happen."

Of his work thus far, he is pleased with "Death Be Not Proud," the TV movie based on John Gunther's

Ships go from war to peace

NEW YORK (AP) — An estimated 30 million passengers have taken a sightseeing cruise around the island of Manhattan since World War II, but few have been aware their odd-looking craft once bristled with guns.

Every ship in the fleet now making the three-hour circle of the island was at one time a warship on full battle duty.

"They saw action from the D-day landings at Normandy to Allied invasions in the South Pacific," said an official of the Circle Line, which operates the eight sightseeing vessels, all former Coast Guard cutters or LCI(L)s of the U.S. Navy.

"LCI(L) stands for Landing Craft, Infantry; large," the spokesman explained. "They originally were designed to transport assault troops to enemy beaches on Sicily and Italy."

With typical GI humor, American servicemen dubbed them "lice."

But many of the vessels chalked up a combat record that was no laughing matter.

"Circle Line X," which had a wartime naval designation of U.S.S. LCI L-758, made five landings in the Philippines, for example — at Leyte, Ormoc Bay, Mindoro, Lingayen Gulf and Mindinao.

It was the first ship to return to Corregidor, which fell to the Japanese early in the war with heavy losses to the American defenders. It was given credit for shooting down two enemy planes and assisting in the downing of several others.

And in September 1945 it was caught in a vicious typhoon off Okinawa. Before the month was up, however, the vessel took part in the "Sand Pebbles" operation, liberating Shanghai.

The Circle Line was founded in a merger of three different sightseeing cruise operators in 1945, the year the war ended. Since the need for the "lice" ended at the same time, the Navy put them up for sale. With a few alterations, they soon became 500-passenger cruise vessels.

By the time the company was ready to expand its fleet, the Coast Guard cutters were being decommissioned. They, too, soon became sightseeing craft, carrying 600 passengers.

If the Circle Line had an admiral aboard a flagship, most likely it would be Capt. Edmond Miller, who commands Circle Line XVI, the former cutter Nike, which won a Battle Star for her wartime service.

The 39-year-old Miller has been a captain with the company for 15 years. His father also was a captain until he retired five years ago.

The Nike had an illustrious battle career.

She was one of three cutters rushed to defend the Atlantic and Gulf coast shipping lanes from marauding enemy submarines in the early months of the war.

Based at Key West, the three ships got help only from 10 unarmed Coast Guard planes and 14 lightly armed Army planes.

According to official records, "Nazi U-boats lay offshore and sank clearly-silhouetted coastal shipping targets — four ships were torpedoed in four days in late February 1942."

Forty-one were sent to the bottom by hostile submarine action off the Florida and Gulf coasts in May.

The Nike chased and battled the enemy subs and rescued many crew members from burning ships. "She was patrolling as far north as the Delaware coast when she rescued 40 survivors from the United Fruit freighter 'San Gil' on Feb. 3, 1942.

"Three days later she picked up the entire 38-man crew of the American tanker 'China Arrow,' which had been torpedoed off the Maryland coast," the history reports. The Nike also rescued eight men clinging to a spar from the burning tanker "Portrero Del Llano" in the Florida Straits.

Today, the Nike resembles anything but the sleek fighting ship she once was. Gone are the two three-inch deck guns and two 20mm anti-aircraft weapons.

Among the modifications required before the vessel could assume its daily circuit of Manhattan was a lowering of the pilot house to clear the Harlem River bridges. Added was a covered second deck at the stern for passengers, giving the vessel its "Circle Line" look.

There are no submarines lurking off Manhattan these days, or at least Capt. Miller hasn't come across any.

Harold Bates of Phoenix, Ariz., was back doing business at the same old stand this week: carrying his signboard, fashioned from an old shower door, at the state Capitol. It marked his 10th anniversary of picketing everything from nude paintings in the Phoenix Art Museum to streetwalkers on East Van Buren—with zingers aimed at politicians and ministers tossed in. Bates began picketing Oct. 1, 1968, he said, when he couldn't get his children excused from school classes where "evolution and, thus, to me, atheism" was being taught. (AP Laserphoto)

Gideons present 200 millionth Bible to Carter

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The group who made the Bible as much a part of the nation's hotel and motel rooms as the color TV or ice bucket has put one of its volumes in the White House.

In a ceremony Tuesday, the Gideons gave Jimmy Carter, the nation's best-known Baptist, a special volume commemorating placement of the organization's 200 millionth Bible.

From its business-like brick Nashville headquarters, the 44-member Gideons International staff directs daily distribution of about 50,000 Bibles and New Testaments to 115 countries. The 18 million volumes distributed annually are printed in 46 languages.

The 55,000-member Gideon organization — including 20,000 members overseas — places free scriptures in such diverse institutions as hospitals, schools, military bases and jails.

But the emphasis has always been on the wayfarer. The genesis of the Gideons, a sort of evangelical civic club, stretches back 80 years to a Boscobel, Wis., hotel room shared by two prayerful traveling salesmen interested in spreading the Gospel among their more colorful peers.

In 1899 they organized and the first hotel Bible went to an Iron Mountain, Mont., innkeeper in 1908.

"We have a marvelous relationship with the hotels," executive director M.A. Henderson said in a recent interview. "Two or three chains require the Bible to be in the room." They come in five decor-keyed colors now. "If you find a black Bible in a hotel or motel, it's got to be about 10 years old," he said.

Gideon camps, as chapters are called, regularly replace aging or defaced volumes. Some people apparently can't resist scribbling their words next to those of God.

H.L. Mencken delighted in inscribing flyleaves. "With the compliments of the author." And resourceful ladies of lesser light sometimes append their numbers to passages about loneliness.

But, Henderson says, nine of 10 times the writers pen a blessing. Gideon membership is restricted.

Authorities search for body to fit leg

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — Authorities are combing the fields and swamp area 20 miles west of Marietta in an effort to find the body that belongs to a decomposed leg found by a farmer's dog during the weekend.

District Attorney Ron Worthen said the leg, estimated to have been exposed for two to three weeks, has been sent to the state medical examiner's office in Oklahoma City.

Special Investigator Wayne Warthen said the leg was encased in a dark brown or black motorcycle boot, sized about 12 or 13.

"That would indicate this is a pretty big fellow," Warthen said.

An aluminum shin guard runs down the front of the boot. The words "Hi-Test," and a design also is inscribed on the guard.

The smooth-soled boot has a steel-capped toe, Warthen said.

Warthen said the leg, which exists from the knee down, does not appear to have been cut off.

"It's more likely it was animals," he said. "It could have been someone who was out riding the trails. We may find a body and a motorcycle."

The leg was discovered Saturday after a farmer's dog carried it home from an area about 20 miles west of Marietta in Love County, officials said.

Warthen asked anyone with knowledge of an individual who might have been in the area, or who is unaccounted for, to contact Love County authorities.

Tractor convoy to hit Washington

WINNER, S.D. (AP) — Another convoy of tractors is expected to converge on Washington in January.

Earl Burtz, a leader in South Dakota's American Agriculture Movement said at least 11 tractors from five states were expected to arrive there about Jan. 20 as part of a move to demonstrate that farmers aren't in any better shape than they were last year.

Burtz said many farmers didn't have good crops this year and are still producing for low prices.

Castle added to wax museum

LONDON, England (AP) — Madame Tussaud's, London's famed wax museum, has added Warwick Castle to its growing string of tourist attractions.

Michael Herbert, chief executive of Madame Tussaud's, announced that his company paid about $3 million for the Earl of Warwick's 600-year-old ancestral castle, what's left of its contents and 100 acres of park.

The castle on the River Avon 75 miles northwest of London has been open to the public for some years, and more than 500,000 persons now tour it annually. It was sold by Lord Brooke, the heir to the seventh earl, who has been liquidating the family's holdings in Britain.

Herbert said there would be some improvements but no major changes.

Madame Tussaud's in the past five years has also bought a paper mill in Somerset where craftsmen demonstrate the making of paper by hand and a tinmithy in Cornwall.
