Bush, Hance: A hair's difference

By LANA CUNNINGHAM R-T Staff Writer

In the beginning, their "beer hall confrontation" resembled a reunion of two long-time friends they just couldn't seem to disagree on

But when at last they got down to the question of who can best represent the 19th Congressional District, Republican George W. Bush of Midland and Democratic contender Kent Hance of Lubbock openly and strongly

The two men opposing each other for a "plum" West Texas congressio nal seat spoke Thursday evening at a public forum for employ ees of Atlantic Richfield Co. and Sun Oil Co.

The candidates and audience gathered in the Hospitality Room of the Coors Building on West Highway 80 with a "Kent Hance for Con gress" lighted billboard flashing across the highway.

Dam bursts; Seven dead

SENECA, S.C. (AP) - A temporary dam near a nuclear-power generating plant at Lake Keowee collapsed today, killing seven construction workers caught in a rush of water, authorities said.

A spokesman for the Pickens County sheriff's department had said six persons were trapped in the structure, but W.W. Adkins, general manager of the Greenville Water System, said all crewmen other than the dead had been accounted for. Adkins said walls of the temporary dam collapsed, killing five men inside the structure and two on top who were presumed drowned. The cause of the collapse was not immediately known. The temporary dam, or cofferdam, was about two miles from a dam being built to impound water for Duke Power Company's nuclear-power generating plant. The power plant was unaffected, authorities said.

The men were employees of Southern Construction and Engineering Co. of Birmingham, Ala., and were working on a pipeline project to carry water to Greenville, about 50 miles east of the lake, Adkins said.

He said the cofferdam had been built about 100 yards offshore so that water could be pumped out of a portion of the lake and construction of a water intake structure could begin.

Workmen had gotten most of the water out of theBdammed-off portion when the walls of the temporary dam collapsed at 11 a.m., Adkins said.

U.S. indicts five on fraud charge

jury has indicted a retired vice president of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and five others on charges of bribery, fraud and income tax eva-

Authorities allege it was part of a four-year scheme that bilked the utility out of more than $1.7 million.

Ray A. "Pete" Acker, 63, a former vice president for data systems at Bell's headquarters in St. Louis, was named in two indictments alleging he failed to pay $585,000 in income taxes on more than $1 million in bribes and kickbacks paid to him in 1975 and

The two indictments, both naming all six men, accuse Acker of accepting bribes for providing advance bid information and kickbacks for arranging the lease of computers and copying equipment to Southwestern Bell

The indictment said the scheme defrauded customers, competitors, stockholders and management of the telephone company from June 1974 to

Also indicted Thursday were Irven Eugene Barlow and Richard Reid Wadsworth Jr., officials of Intercap Corp. of Dallas; Robert Ancel Palmer Jr., president and owner of International Equipment Financing Corp. of Dallas; Robert Charles Sullivan Jr., former president of Citizens State Bank of Princeton, north of Dallas; and Warren Eugene Zimmerman, an Amarillo lawyer who has an office in

DALLAS (AP) - A federal grand dent of the Dallas Playboy Club, was offered immunity from prosecution in exchange for his testimony. The indictments claim Intercap and International Equipment Financing Corp., engaged in brokering, buying, selling, and leasing computer, copying and data systems equipment.

Sullivan used the Princeton bank for "laundering" money allegedly paid to Acker as bribes and kickbacks, the indictment stated.

The defendants were charged with violating federal racketeering laws by participating in a pattern of bribery prohibited by Texas criminal law and using the U.S. mail and interstate wire communications between banks to commit fraud

The second indictment charges the men of conspiring to help Acker evade $585,000 in income taxes based on the bribes and kickbacks he received.

Acker, who now lives in Diana in East Texas, took early retirement last Spring after more than 30 years with Bell. He held several management posts in different Texas cities before being promoted to corporate headquarters in St. Louis.

U.S. Attorney Kenneth J. Mighell said the two indictments were handed down by the Dallas grand jury based on evidence gathered in a one-year investigation by the FBI, Internal Revenue Service and the Justice Department's Southwest Organized Crime Strike Force.

Two other men, Bennie Bush Gee, a salesman for Palmer's company, and Sheril Ned Brown, former executive vice president of the Princeton bank, pleaded guilty to other charges earlier this week and also were named as unindicted co-conspirators.

Several persons named by Watkins and Acri - including Acri himself claimed in interviews Thursday they had received anonymous telephone calls questioning their decision to sign the petition.

He's a man of worth who is living proof there is as much virtue possible in being successful as there is in being poor, meek and able to recite the Beatitudes verbatim. "I'm not an important man. I know

He grew up in the Midwest, flew Curtiss Flying Jenny biplanes in World War I, but never got overseas for action and was grateful. "I never wanted to kill anybody.'

With the ending of the war came the beginning of his career. "I taught school at one time," said Yeager. "I had to do a little bit of everything to get along."

When the oil boom struck the Per-man Basm, Yeager came south out of Oklahoma in 1926 with his bride, Patsy, and settled in Midland. Today, he's known as a "pioneer oil scout." He did good.

He's an oil operator of note and stays, during office hours, in the Petroleum Building. It was built in the late 1920s by Thomas Stephen Hogan who, like Yeager, foresaw the prosperity petroleum would bring to the Permian Basin. Eventually, Yeager, Hogan, Midland wildcatter George T. Abell, wildcatter Sid Richardson of Fort Worth and rockbit rotary drilling inventor Howard Robard Hughes Sr. of Houston were among the 50-plus notables elected to the Hall of Fames at the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum in Midland.

Still, Yeager is modest and without pomposity. That, you often hear, is a sign of a great man. Of course, a man can be pompous and great, too. Listen to what this modest man says of his son, Wilbur A. Yeager Jr., president of the city's No. 1 bank, The First National Bank.

'Wilbur was smart when he went to school. He sure didn't take after me.'

A Navy spokesman said Thursday that it would take at least 33 men to get the 10-year-old Sturgeon-class sub under way. Rear Adm. David Cooney had said earlier that such an operation was impossible without a trained crew of 100.

Navy officials said they were so sure of security measures at the New London base and aboard the Fulton and Trepang that no extra security was called for after the FBI learned of the alleged plot. But Feeney said Thursday that the FBI could not afford to take a chance. "We don't have that luxury to discount things out of hand," he said. This is the age of terrorism. We're convinced they were serious. U.S. Rep. Christopher Dodd, D- Conn., whose district includes New London, said Navy and FBI officials assured him at a private briefing Thursday that the base was secure.

"It's not like you have the keys, get in and drive down the Thames River," Dodd said. Feeney said the plotters planned a dry run to test base security and planned to acquire weapons and plastic explosives to sink the Fulton.

Cosgrove and the two other men, Edward Mendenhall, 24, and Kurtis Schmidt, 22, both formerly of St. Louis, were arrested late Wednesday. All three are scheduled to appear in federal court Oct. 13, Cosgrove in Rochester, N.Y., and Mendenhall and Schmidt in St. Louis.

Mendenhall and Schmidt are being held in lieu of $100,000 bond each and Cosgrove in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Forecast through Saturday calls for considerable cloudiness and mild weather, with the low tonight in the mid-50s and high Saturday in the low-60s, according to the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

Midlanders have only a slight chance of getting wet, with the official prediction set at 20 percent. The Weather Service did not record any rain Thursday.

Thursday's high temperature of 71 degrees did not approach the record high of 98 set in 1937. The record low for today, 41 degrees, was set in 1932.

Area towns reported mostly cool and cloudy weather. Lamesa weather watchers recorded cool and clear skies this morning.

Elsewhere, a nearly stationary front weakened and dissipated over South Texas today after bringing cooler temperatures and northerly winds to most of the state.

The stationary front early today extended from along upper portions of the Texas coast into Mexico south of Del Rio. Behind the front, early morning temperatures dipped to as low as 43 at Dalhart. Ahead of the front, Brownsville had 78 during the pre-dawn hours.

Forecasts called for light shower and thundershower activity today in the southern half of the state. Skies were to be partly cloudy over the remainder of the state. Highs were expected to range from the upper 60s in the Panhandle to the 80s in East and South Texas

Early today some light shower and thundershower activity was reported in extreme East Texas and along the coast. No significant rainfall was reported during the night.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s. attorney general's office approves the certificates, according to Nagel. Watkins said he may ask the state attorney general's office to investigate the instances of telephone calls received by petition signers since "it seems to be a violation of the people's personal rights." "I know of at least eight persons who have received these harassing telephone calls. Some have been asked to take their names off the petition. Others have been asked why they signed. And still others have been threatened about what the action might do to their livelihoods,' said Watkins "We're just sitting still and letting week after learning about a February ordinance passed by the city council authorizing the issuance of certificates of obligation without calling for a bond election Under a state law enacted last year, a city council can authorize the issuance of certificates without a bond election. However, a petition signed by 5 percent of the registered voters can force an election. Watkins contends the petition is valid on the basis it was filed with the state comptroller and state attorney general before the certificates were approved But Nagel argued that the petition was initiated "too late." The petition includes 567 signatures. "I had a telephone call from a woman who wouldn't identify herself. She said it would be nice to get some of the people's names off the petition, said Acri of the phone call he claimed to have received. "I spent six years on the council and this sort of stuff has gone on all the time. Secrecy in government is Acri said he is convinced that had the city council put the issue to a bond election earlier this year, the hangar project probably would have been approved.

"The city council tells us that it's too late for a bond election. Hell, they could have had a bond election eight months ago. The people would have gotten the full story and would have passed it," the ex-councilman said.

Other persons reportedly have received job security threats over their decision to sign the letition, according to Watkins

He said recipients of "dubious calls" included a reserve police officer, a fireman and a city hall employ-

Larry Miller, the reserve police officer, said he was accused by Mayor Wade Choate of circulating the petition, an action which city employees are forbidden to do.

Choate could not be reached for comment today.

"I heard the mayor had contacted the chief of police concerning me. The mayor was really concerned about me circulating the petition and I was not (doing that)," Miller said.

"I feel like he was trying to retaliate against me for signing the petition. Myself, like most of the people who signed it, are not against that hangar. But a lot of people in town are fed up with the mayor, the city manager and the city council. We're sick of having everything crammed down our throat.

One woman who asked not to be identified said she was asked whether the signature of her and her husband might hurt her husband's job.

Huntsville inmates go on strike

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) -More than 300 inmates at two units of the Department of Corrections refused to work, eat, or return to their cells Thursday in sympathy for another prisoner's class action lawsuit being heard in a Houston federal court. This morning, 139 inmates of the Ellis unit, north of Huntsville, were still out in the yard. Another 209 prisoners at the Dar-physical confrontation, said Ron Taylor, administrative assistant for the Texas Department of Corrections.

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — The world's second test-tube baby, a seven-pound, six-ounce girl whose birth was announced dramatically on a television program in India's most populous city, is normal and doing

Tuesday by Caesarean section, was fine, her doctors reported today.

They said a lack of sophisticated equipment here forced them to improvise a technique different than the one which led to the July 25 birth in Oldham, England, of Louise Brown, the world's first baby conceived outside the human body.

"The baby showed reflex movement 24 hours after birth," said Dr. Bhattacharya, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Calcutta Medical College. "She is completely normal." The baby"s parents, married for 16 years, were unable to conceive because of the father"s low sperm count and blocked Fallopian tubes of the

After two years of treatment, the father's sperm level became normal. His doctor, Subhash Mukherjee, decided to try fertilizing an ovum from the mother outside the uterus instead of opting for recanalization of one of her Fallopian tubes.

Mukherjee joined with Sunit Mukherjee, a professor of bio-engineering at Jadavpur University, and Bhattacharya, to attempt this approach. The Mukherjees are not related.

An ovum was collected by a "new method," the Amrita Bazar Patrika quoted the doctors as saying, and kept in a controlled environment for 53 days. It was then exposed to sperm collected from the father.

"We were glad to see the mixed ovum and sperm fertilize after 75 hours of incubation," Bhattacharya told the United News of India.

Describing the subsequent transfer to the mother, he said: "We had to keep the fertilized embryo till the next menstrual cycle of the mother in a freeze ... For this, we developed an absolutely new technique." He did not elaborate.

The names of the parents and child were kept shielded, apparently because the stigma of laboratory conception might hamper the baby's future marriage prospects in India's conservative Hindu society. First word of the birth, at a unidentified nuring home in this teeming city of 7 million on India's east coast. came Thursday in broadcasts by Calcutta's state radio. The three researchers later appeared on Calcutta television and made their announce-

The test-tube procedure was pion-eered in England by gyneologist Patrick Steptoe and Cambridge University physiologist Robert Edwards to circumvent Fallopian blockage. They removed the tiny egg from the mother's ovary, fertilized it with the father's sperm in a sophisticated glass laboratory container, and then implanted the embryo in the mother's womb where it developed as a normal fetus. In normal conception, an egg from the mother's ovary travels through the Fallopian tube to the womb, there to be fertilized by sperm from the father. John and Leslie Brown, parents of the English infant, sold exclusive rights to their story to the Daily Mail, a London tabloid, for about $600,000. There was no indication any similar deal might be planned in India.

Baby Louise, now 11 weeks old, was born to a circus-like fanfare in the world press. Her 31-year-old mother and truck driver father have since kept the child under wraps but neigh-

Stacy Reservoir hearing testimony brief due to TWC chairman's funeral

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-Testimony in the Stacy Reservoir hearing before the Texas Water Commission was brief Thursday, with commission members Dorsey Hardeman and Joe Carrell, along with attorneys involved in the proceedings, taking the afternoon off to attend the funeral of TWC chairman Joe Carter who died Tuesday following a long illness.

Consulting engineer S.W. Freese Friday is expected to continue his testimony on the effects of the proposed Stacy Reservoir on the Highland Lakes.

Freese, whose firm designed the reservoir for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, has calculated "channel losses" of water from the river between the Stacy site and Lake Buchanan and, when the proceedings were recessed Thursday, was discussing the effects of siltation on Lake Buchanan.

As siltation proceeds and moves eventually out of the water, plant life such as salt cedars will invade these areas and water loss will be enhanced by the use of the reservoir water by the plants, Freese noted.

Braniff anxious to serve Midland

Braniff Airways looks forward to being "the new kid on the block," John A. Weinhart of Dallas, vice president, sales planning, of Braniff International, told members of the Downtown Rotary Club Thursday noon at their meeting in the Midland Hilton. Weinhart's comment came moments after he had announced that the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington, less than two hours previously, had given Braniff Airways "tentative" approval to serve Midland Regional Airport.

"This will be our 59th airport," the speaker said, "and it certainly is one of the finest."

He said that Braniff is the third oldest airline in the country, presently celebrating its 50th anniversary year. It is the 14th largest airline in the world, he

"But this is just the beginning, he said. "Applications to serve any number of principal cities abroad and in the United States now are on file. Braniff has developed into a billion dollar a year business, with much of the growth having taken place within the last 12 to 15 years.' Weinhart, who was accompanied to Midland by Mike Jolly, Braniff's regional sales manager, cited the leadership role played by the airline in numerous industry innovations, with many firsts to its credit.

Braniff's effective marketing program and the tools used in same were mentioned by the speaker, who said the firm's rapid growth rate is proof of the program's effectiveness.

Back to the new Midland service, Weinhart said Braniff proposes to start with six flights daily, providing through service to Chicago, New York and New Orleans, with no change in planes. The flights also will connect with Braniff's 200 departures a day from Dallas-Fort Worth, he said.

Texas trying to improve education for handicapped

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland Thursday said the State of Texas does an adequate job of educating the handicapped student, but he expects it to be a much better job in the future. Snelson chairs a special committee of lawmakers, educators and experts in the field of aiding the handicapped, which is trying to improve the facilities in public schools for such disadvantaged students. But after the panel's meeting Thursday, Snelson said more money and equipment alone wouldn't solve the problem. He said colleges and universities must begin new programs for training for student teachers in the problems of educating handicapped, either on a fulltime or parttime basis. Snelson also maintained the state must be willing to pay more of the cost of educating handicapped students, to augment funding currently available from the federal government. The committee's exact recommendations will be finalized in the coming months, and will be submitted to the 1979 Legislature in January. "We feel that some type of training in dealing with special education will be required of every teacher at some point-in-time," Snelson said. He added a major problem, as brought out in committee testimony, was regular classroom teachers who had a handicapped student in their room for only one or two periods

Recent court decisions have aided programs of educating handicapped students in local schools, Snelson pointed out, adding that virtually every district in Texas has felt the impact of such rulings.

A new organization - Texans for Tax Relief - has been formed to win voter approval of a "tax relief" amendment to the Texas Constitution in the Novem-

Former state Republican Party chairman Ray Hutchison of Dallas and Marcella Perry, a conservative Democrat from Houston, announced the organization's birth at a news conference Thursday.

"We will spend what we can raise," Mrs. Perry said of the campaign. She has banking interests and is chairman of the board of regents of Texas Woman's University.

The proposed constitutional amendment the organization supports provides for the valuation of farm and ranch land on the basis of productivity rather than market value; creates a general homestead exemption from school taxes; provides for increased homestead exemptions for the elderly; and ties state spending to the growth of the economy - unless the Legislature votes otherwise.

"That would be a very tough vote and, accordingly, a very real limitation" on state spending, Hutchison said

Rep. Bob Krueger, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, said he will be in Austin Oct. 16 for a $25-a-couple fund-raising reception in his honor. The committee for the fundraiser includes Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

strong, following the recent rains which blessed West Texas. Tall weeds in the Tall City have resulted. It's remarkable, the growth which has occurred in such a brief period, particularly after a dry, hot summer. Some of the plants already have reached championship proportions.

It appears now that Midland will have a near-record if not a record crop of weeds before the first frost.

But right now is THE time to harvest the crop, communitywide, before the weeds and wild grass take over completely. Let's give this a bit of serious thought, and then get out the tools used in harvesting a bountiful weed crop.

In addition to being unsightly, the weeds also present, or will present health and fire hazards throughout the fall season.

The weeds very definitely are not in keeping with the usually most attractive appearance of the Tall City - both commercial and residential districts. A Reporter-Telegram reader and city booster has reminded the editor that this would be an ideal time to cut the weeds and to cleanup the premises generally in advance of the biennial Permian Basin Oil Show, which will attract

It would be wonderful, indeed, if a majority of Midlanders would accept the weed-cutting challenge during the next week or 10 days. The results would be amazing and the benefits tremendous.

It's not just in the residential districts (mainly alleys and vacant lots) that the weeds have gotten the upper hand. The busy downtown area and other commercial districts also have their share of the weeds. They are growing real good along property lines, in alleys and vacant lots and elsewhere within the shadows of the towering skyscrapers in the central business district. ORLANDO, Fla. - Sen. Frank Church, of Idaho, one of the real donkeys of American politics, brayed recently about the sins of Anastasio Somoza, the president of Nicaragua.

Well, I don't know Somoza from Santa Claus. Church, on the other hand. I've listened to and read about for years. I wouldn't take his word on the time of day. There is nothing wrong with a sena-

Any American with common sense, however, can draw several conclusions about Nicaragua, the first of which is that its internal politics are none of our business

There is only one fair way to judge another country and that's how it treats our country and its citizens. Nicaragua under Somoza has played it square and friendly with us. It has supported us in the United Nations and in the Organization of American States and it has not abused Americans or American interests.

That kind of loyalty hardly deserves the pious condemnation of Church and other American liberals and it certainly does not deserve the loss of American aid which the Idaho charm boy engineered in the Senate.

For one thing, the Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua for 40 years and so far as I know the U.S. has kept its mouth shut until just recently when the shooting started. If Somoza is as bad this year as Church claims, where was Church last year and the year before and so on. Too busy attacking the CIA, I suppose, to notice

Anyway, what is Somoza supposed to be guilty of according to Church? Well, Church says he has looted the country. If we are going to divorce ourselves from every government in which the head honcho's have gotten rich, then we'd better start with our American politicians who leave office poor or even with no net gain of assets are so rare they deserve a spot on the Endangered Species list. After we have broken diplomatic relations with Washington, then we can reduce the diplomatic corps to the size of a Cub Scout den because in all the world there are precious few national leaders who have not gained assets as well as high honors by virtue of holding high office.

Church's criticism is down right stupid. Somoza may not be a Thomas Jefferson but he is a far cry from Church's buddy, Fidel. There is a legislature. There is an opposition party. There are newspapers free to criticize Somoza. There is none of those things in Cuba.

Only a phoney baloney like Church would have the gall to propose cutting $1 million in aid from Nicaragua on the same day he is voting billions of foreign aid, much of which is going to nations run by men who make Somoza look like St. Francis of Assisi.

You know all this abuse that is being poured on Somoza has a familiar ring to it. How often have the liberals screamed about the anti-communist leaders of China, South Korea, Chile, Rhodesia, South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, and Brazil? How many times have we pulled out support and then seen a country go communist?

We plain Americans may be gullible, but there is a limit and Church exceeded it. You can only work a flim flam so many times before even the dullest people catch on and this onesided outcry by the liberals against anti-communist leaders is wearing

Since 1945, it's been often fatal to be an anti-communist, American ally. We have a habit of leaving our allies at a crucial time. To buy Church's philosophy is to believe that we should go punch our best friend in the mouth and then bake a cake for our worst

That's nutty and nutty is what our foreign policy has been for decades. That's why we've bob-sledded down the hill from a position of unquestioned power and supremacy in 1945 to a position of weakness and insecu-

I don't know what Nicaraguans think of Somoza. Don't really care, but if they would like to trade Somoza for Church, I'd sure consider it. Whatever other faults he has, Somoza at least knows who his enemies are.

Tunney has 'stake' in Olympics

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - John Tunney's boyishly photogenic face may no longer be grinning toothily from the society pages and gossip magazines, but life away from the spotlight has proven financially rewarding for the former California senator

During his brief tenure on Capitol Hill, Tunney was noted more for his good looks and casual charm than for his grasp of complex issues. The son of a former heavyweight champion proved to be too much of a lightweight even for California's tolerant voters, and he was knocked out two years ago by a 70-year-old semanticist, S.I.

Hayakawa. Now, thanks to a connection that he says had nothing to do with his status as a one-time Washington celebrity. the enterprising Tunney stands to make millions out of the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow.

He has formed a company, Image Factory, Inc., that has snared the exclusive U.S. rights to license the commercial use of the Soviets' official Olympic symbol, Mischa the Bear. A businessman who wants to produce Mischa T-shirts or Mischaburgers or Mischa pillowcases must clear it with Tunney-and pay for the privilege.

Business is booming already, even though the Olympic Games won't get underway for another two years. So far, 25 companies that want to emblazon their merchandise with the little Russian bear are negotiating with Tunney and he has already received payments from three firms.

His potential licensees include a large hat company, T-shirt makers, other apparel manufacturers, one of the nation's biggest hamburger chains and a credit card firm that wants to use Mischa the Bear in its advertising. Tunney also has plans for a television show, a feature-length movie and an Olympics phonograph

Image Factory, Inc., should wind up grossing anywhere from $10 million to $25 million, Tunney told us. But the officially anti-capitalist Soviets aren't blind to the attractions of private enterprise. Far from it. They'll get more than two-thirds of the profits Tunney makes.

'The Soviets are very capitalistic when it comes to getting their fair share," Tunney told our associate Larry Kraftowitz. "They know how to cut a hard bargain"

The former senator's lucrative deal with the Russians was arranged by David Karr, a partner in Lazard Freres, the prestigious financial house. Karr, who's based in Paris, originally held the licensing rights through a separate company, Financial Engineers, but decided he needed a partner in this country.

"He felt there was a real opportunity for both of us to make some money," Tunney told us candidly. The former senator explained that he's in charge of contacts with prospective clients and negotiations with the Russians. His partner, Stanford Blum, takes care of the merchandising end.

Asked how he was able to gain the Soviet's approval, Tunney said: "I was a person they apparently felt they could trust in a business relation-He insists that his Senate activities didn't give him any inside track to the juicy contract, and noted that he didn't even visit the Soviet Union till after he left office.

Ironically, Army Secretary Clifford Alexander has now ordered a complete review of the policy on fraternization between officers and enlisted personnel. But as Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., noted in a private letter to the

President Carter's new 'small steps' policy aired

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - The first break for President Carter's new "small steps" policy in wooing anti-Sadat Arabs to his Mideast peace plan came Sept. 29 when the way was finally cleared for Congress to give Syria, leading the Arab resistance to the Camp David accords, $90 million in non-military aid.

The entire aid package for Syria had been thoughtlessly dumped from the House version of the aid bill months ago. The extraordinary reversal by the House conferees after Camp David resulted from hours of telephone calls to House members by Mr. Carter's aides, led by national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski. Here was the first success for the "small steps" policy.

With Mr. Carter's plan for peace in the Arab-populated, Israeli-controlled West Bank and Gaza hanging on Arab willingness to cooperate, such small steps mark the limit of presidential room for maneuver to keep the non-Egyptian part of his peace deal from collapsing. But it may be enough. Syria's President Hafez Assad is chief architect of an anti-Egyptian front to isolate President Anwar Sadat for making a separate peace. Giving him the full U.S. aid will not change Assad's mind overnight. But it is Mr. Carter's way of sending this message to skeptical Arab leaders: the U.S. did not convene the Camp

David summit to underwrite a separate peace; the U.S. will not permit Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to sabotage the West Bank and Gaza agreements

Similar stroking, mixed with U.S. muscle, is being applied backstage to Jordan's King Hussein and, most important, to Saudi Arabia. Carter aides are really more concerned about Saudi reactions than they admit. "The Saudis are absolutely crucial," one top adviser told us, "and they haven't given us the slightest signal of coming

The heart of Jimmy Carter's difficulty in winning the trust of the angry Arab world lies in Israeli politics. Begin barely squeezed out a one-vote majority in his own hard-line Herut party when the Israeli parliament overwhelmingly approved the Israeli-Egyptian peace agreement. To achieve even that razor-edge margin, Begin angrily disavowed a public pledge by Mr. Carter that no new Jewish settlement would be constructed on the West Bank during negotiations for a West Bank-Gaza settlement. After that vote, Israeli supporters in Congress insisted that if Begin had not been able to win the support of the Herut party, he would have resigned as prime minister, throwing Israel into political cri-Both the U.S. and Israel now agree to disagree on the explosive settlements issue, which is the Arab litmus test of U.S. intentions on the West Bank. Mr. Carter does not yet dare to force the issue over settlements with Begin for fear of undermining the prime minister at home. But until the Arab world is certain that Israel will be forced to stop colonizing the West Bank, the cooperation of Jordan and West Bank Arab leaders remains doubtful. Accordingly, Mr. Carter's switch from the grand stage of Camp David to an undramatic policy of "small steps" is the only way open to him for now. But as the Israeli-Egyptian peace process moves along, there inevitably will be a showdown over new settlements. In that showdown, the president will have powerful cards to

Chief of these is the transformed mood in Congress, particularly within the potent Israeli bloc. Begin has never been popular with the American-Jewish community, and the Camp David agreements did not change that. Rather, a surprising sentiment has emerged that is in total conflict with Begin's Biblical claims to the West Bank.

Israel's supporters in Congress have carefully avoided taking public sides in the bitter Carter-Begin dispute over who said what at Camp David about new settlements. But the word has been passed privately to the president that when the settlements showdown comes, he will have full political backing on Capitol Hill long the protector of Israel's interests whenever a president applied pressure on the Israeli government.

The showdown will be delayed until Israel and Egypt are well along the road to their separate peace and the rest of the Arab world faces the reality of that weeping transforma- . tion of Middle East politics. Soothing the Arab world with small steps until he can safely come to terms on new settlements is Mr. Carter's only course, but so far it seems to be work-

Bicycling in urban America newest 'adventure'

By MAGGIE STEBER

NEW YORK (AP) - To argue whether it is sheer daring or simply throwing caution to the wind is pointless: for the urban cyclist, riding through the pulsating traffic on the streets of New York is like a purging of the spirit, a flirtation with the hereafter, like being a note in the jazzy song that the city sings.

People go to almost any extreme to meet challenge. At great cost, they climb Mount Everest, swim from Cuba to Florida, fly across the ocean in a balloon. I need only steer my trusty wheels down Fifth Avenue at 5 on a Friday afternoon to find every sense challenged, my every instinct

I gave up long ago trying to figure out how my friends and colleagues saw me. Some think I'm foolhardy. And, I must admit, there are times when I wonder just how much gasoline and oil and clean air I'm saving by riding my frail vehicle among the most gargantuan of trucks and through flocks of people who constantly step out in front of me.

No one could understand, except perhaps another cycling addict. To be in charge of one's own power of travel, to set one's own speed, is one of those secret freedoms one discovers all too seldom in life.

I can glide as fast — or poke along as slow — as I wish. No matter the trucks that rumble past, nor the pedestrian who refuses to move. Forget that seemingly endless source of exhaust that hangs over the city on a hot summer afternoon.

I can go as far as I can as fast as I can, for hours and miles; on my bike, I can see more of the city in a day than anyone on foot or in car. I am closer to it, part of it, like the paintings Edward Hopper did of New York City, so many scenes in a picture.

As well, riding has provided its own education. One learns timing, it's all in the wrist, how well you maneuver in terms of miliseconds. Patience, too, is quickly learned. And the surprising fact that people on foot look at things but don't see-much. Cars they notice, buses, too, but bikes must be invisible, for they inevitably step out in front of one a foot or two away.

I've learned that truck drivers are the best drivers. They really see little things, like people and cyclists, the way an elephant can see a mouse. It's amazing since they're so huge, but necessary for the same reason.

I've found there is more, too, rolling down those streets than cars, trucks, buses, and bikes. There are unicycles and skateboards, mopeds and delivery wagons, hot dog stands and horse-drawn cabs, people on skates and cops on horses, dogs and cats, and worst of all, other cyclists.

Some are speed demons, whistles clinched tightly in teeth, shouting out a shrill warning. Some bikers whiz through oncoming traffic, against the

Some even practice hit and run. And what damage one cyclist reaps, another cyclist pays for.

Strictly from a sociological viewpoint, I have found women cyclists are noticed far more than males. Perhaps it's because a lot of them ride in high heels and wear skirts that dance in the breeze. But attention is there as well when one is blue-jeaned and wrapped so well that it would seem impossible to tell gender.

Attention is expressed in different ways, and is a help or hinderance, depending upon one's demeanor. Women cyclists can tell you where to find the wolf whistles, and which route to take to avoid them.

The best thing I have discovered is the city at night, the later the better. There are fewer cars and the city at night shows a different side. In a full moon, the light falls on the pavement like a soft wash, and the lights of the city are like diagonds. It has made a midnight rider of me, one of those who roams while others sleep.

Years from now, I'll probably look back in horror - and with some pride - that I took such chances. As for now, let me freeze in the winter and burn in the summer, as long as I can pedal my wares, I'll wear my

Arthritis collection to begin

About 800 "victory marchers" will begin collecting Wednesday from their neighbors for the Arthritis Foundation, according to Susan Frazier, march chairman.

Goal this year is $8,000. she said. Thirty percent of the money collected goes to the national association to pay for national research.

Rest of the money stays in the West Texas area, where it will be used to purchase equipment for loaning to arthritics, pay for extensive research programs, conduct public forums, provide for physician training and purchase literature for arthritics, said Ms. Frazier.

The drive is being sponsored by the Midland branch of the West Texas chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, according to Mrs. Frazier.

The branch has 20 board members and is headed by Watson La-Force Jr. as president. The West Texas chapter covers 86 counties from El Paso to Amarillo, she said.

This will be the 12th year for the march. Members will be collecting during the evening Wednesday, Thursday and next Friday. Money will be turned into the local fire stations, she said

Arthritis is the leading crippling disease in the nation today with one out of seven families afflict ed, Mrs. Frazier said.

Israelis shell Beirut as warning

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Israeli gunboats shelled Moslem western Beirut during the night in an apparent warning to the Syrians to call off their non-stop artillery, rocket and machine-gun war on the Christian eastern section of the city. But the firing continued and three shells were reported to have hit near the U.S. Embassy early today.

The Syrians repulsed a tank-led Christian assault on the Syrian-held Qarantina bridge on the northern outskirts of Beirut, and kept up relentless pounding of the eastern sector and Christian positions in the mountains 20 miles north of the capital.

In Washington, sources said a shell landed in a courtyard of the U.S. Embassy and two others hit nearby. There was no immediate word on injuries or

The Syrians reported destroying two Super Sherman tanks in the bridge assault, but the Christians continued to pour artillery and rocket fire against the Syrian troops holding the bridge, which controls the Christian supply routes to the port of Junieh, 15 miles north of Beirut, and the Christian hinterland on the mountain slopes behind the capital.

No casualties were reported in the Israeli gunboat shelling, but Lebanon's Red Cross said Syrian fire was raining down on civilians and hospilals in eastern Beirut, and that "nothing is being spared." Lebanese police said victims of the Syrian-Christian fighting had mounted to at least 1,000 dead and 1,700 wounded since February.

A high State Department official in New York said President Carter had sent a letter to Syrian President Hafez Assad in Moscow, where he is holding talks with President Leonid I. Brezhnev, expressing the United States' "deep concern and the need for an immediate cease-fire to stop the bloodshed."

The United States was expected to ask for a U.N. Security Council meeting today to call for a truce if one isn't worked out.

U.N.-Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said he was sending Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan from Geneva to Beirut to try to arrange a cease-fire. The Iranian prince was U.N. high commissioner for refugees in Geneva from 1966 to 1977 and has remained available to Waldheim for special assignments since resigning.

The official Lebanese radio said three Israeli gunboats fired on a Moslem section of beachfront highrises and night clubs called Ramlet Baida on Thursday night, then withdrew when Syrian artillery opened fire.

An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the vessels fired on a Palestinian guerrilla naval base in southwestern Beirut. State Department officials said the Israelis told them the raid was to thwart a planned guerrilla operation.

Israeli radio said Defense Minister Ezer Weizman would report to an emergency meeting of the defense and foreign affairs committee of Parliament today.

It was not known what effect the shelling would have on next week's peace talks between Israeli and Egyptian, which Syria and other Arab hardliners are trying to sabotage with money and arms, much of it Soviet-supplied.

> The latest round of fighting in Beirut has raged for a week, and Christian militia leaders said it had already spread to the nearby resorts of Bickfaya, Proumana, Beint Mery and Faraya where many of an estimated 400,000 Christian refugees have fled.

The conflict erupted in February when the Syrians, backbone of an Arab League peackeeping army that ended Lebanon's civil war two years ago, began trying to disarm the Christians. The Christians resisted because the Syrians refused to disarm the Palestinians and Moslems, not only in Beirut but in southern Lebanon near the frontier with Israel, the Chritians' ally.

Panel says nuclear safety lacking

The Los Angeles Times

An independent panel of scientists, acting at the request of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, has completed a retrospective assessment of a 3-yearold, federally commissioned study of nuclear power plant safety and has found it lacking in many

The assessment is significant because the original safety study's findings have been widely used by the nuclear industry to fend off its critics.

But even as the panel scored major parts of the study, known formally as the Reactor Safety Study WASH 1400 and informally as the "Rassmussen Report" (after its director, Prof. Norman C. Rasmussen) - it also declared that the work was "a conscientious and honest effort" to analyze possible accident sequences in nuclear power plants.

Moreover, the reviewing panel stated that the particular method used in the Rasmussen Report to identify potential trouble spots in nuclear plants "sound and should be developed and used more widely" with certain modificaions.

On the other hand, the panel stated that the 'absolute values" of risk which the Reactor Safety Study attached to nuclear power plants were not nearly as absolute as claimed and should not, therefore, be used either in the regulatory process or for public policy purposes.

The panel also found that there was insufficient data to justify certain conclusions in the Rasmussen Report, that it underestimated the severity of some accident-triggering mechanisms (like earthquakes) and that the 2,400-page, 11-volume study was in many ways and sections simply impossible to understand or to follow.

The Rasmussen Report has been the subject of a heated debate ever since it appeared, first as a preliminary draft in 1974 and then as a final document in 1975.

The study was commissioned by the old Atomic Energy Commission, predecessor organization to the NRC, and carried out by an industrial-academic-governmental team under Rasmussen, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor of nuclear engineering. Its central premise was that the chances of a catastrophic accident happening inside a civilian nuclear power plant were extremely small.

Advocates of nuclear power hailed the report as corroboration of what they had been saying all along that nuclear power plants are basically safe. Critics, on the other hand, assailed the study as an unsound and poorly substantiated whitewash.

Because of the controvery engendered by the the House Committee on Interior and Insular Afindependent panel of scientists to have another look at the study.

Complying with Udall's request, the ommission at the University of California in Santa Barbara, and asked him to head such a panel. Lewis agreed and assembled a balanced group of scientists, including some who had praised the Rasmussen Report, useful tool to assess the likelihood of accidents. some who had criticized it, and some who had never taken a specific position on the study.

September 1978, before submitting their critique of the Reactor Safety Study to the agency almost a month ago. The NRC made the critique public late last week

But are these probabilities any good? Should people place any confidence in these figures as indicators of nuclear plant safety?

The answer is "no," according to the Lewis panel, because there is not enough hard data to support such a calculation as once every 100,000 or every 1 million years. "The RSS (Reactor Safety Study, or Rasmussen Report) was driven to make numeri- bombs might be fashioned). We can't solve it all by cal assessments for the sake of public policy," Lewis

The Lewis panel then went on to make eight recommendations, all of them corrective to one or more of the 17 criticisms. Lewis said that despite his criticisms of the Rasmussen Report, "I still support nuclear fission as an

Linda White echoes candidate husband

By PATSY GORDON R—T Lifestyle Editor

As a campaigner, she is a feminine version of Mark White, often repeating his words almost verbatim and echoing his campaign themes.

Linda Gale White, on the campaign trail for her husband who is Democratic candidate for Texas Attorney General, above all is her husband's cheerleader.

Except for the soft lilt to her voice and her unabashed praise of the former Texas Secretary of State, Mrs. White's words were similar to her husband's as she campaigned Thursday in the Tall City on the last leg of a three-day tour of several West Texas towns, which also included Abilene, Sweetwater, Roby, Snyder, Colorado City, Robert Lee, Bronte, San Angelo, Sterling City, Big Spring, Lamesa, Seminole and Andrews.

She has traveled to 100 counties since August.

After a tour of the Midland County Courthouse with Les Acker, a Midland coordinator for the Mark White campaign, Mrs. White was the guest of honor at a coffee at the Midland Racquet Club, hosted by Mrs. Harrell Feldt, where she shook hands with and was introduced to local voters.

The very pleasant, attractive and friendly woman first spoke of how White, long before Californians were thinking about Proposition 13 and before Texas politicians were calling for tax cuts, was practicing economy in government. "As secretary of state, out of a $21 million budget, Mark returned $4 million back to the state treasury by cutting down on government red tape and, at the same time, increasing services of the of-fice," said Mrs. White.

The homemaker and mother of three children also talked about White's vow to sue the state of Montana to stop that state from levying high severance taxes on coal which White sees as an improper restraint on interstate commerce. "Mark believes it unfair that Montana is shipping coal and charging Texas a 30 percent tax on coal, which is passed on to the consumer.

Mrs. White believes her husband is the "active fighter we need who will fight government and deregulation of oil and gas," another issue in the race for attorney general.

'Mark feels we have too much federal government," explained Mrs.

Mrs. White pointed out White's concern about crime and the fact it is becoming more of a problem and no longer is confined to the big cities. White has been quoted as saying "No longer is violent crime confined to the big cities. Now all across the state we're seeing violence. We're seeing violence in our schools, seeing reports of our educational achievement levels falling off."

Mrs. White said her husband believes the solution lies in crime prevention and cooperation, and that the efforts to reduce youth crime should begin at an early age by teachers, students, school administrators working together to reestablish respect for society's rules and regulaions, to rees tablish mutual respect between students and law enforcement personnel. "Mark believes we need to set guide-

Do you have a job today?

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Did you have a job last week?

If not, were you looking for one? The nation's unemployment rate, which was to be released today, depends on the Janswers to questions

Politicians, businessmen and labor leaders watch the monthly rate for clues to the nation's economic Bregger. health. In recent years, however, critics have charged that the figures fail to reflect the complete labor picture, and a special commission is reviewing the way we count our workforce. What do all the numbers really mean? Here, in question-and-answer format, is a look at how the unemployment rate is calculated: Q. How does the government determine who is working and who is not?

A. "The assumption people make is that we count people drawing unemployment insurance," said John E. Bregger of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. "That's wrong." Information on employment is collected by the Census Bureau which surveys 55,000 households each month. Each family member over 16 is asked: Did you have a job last week? If not, have you looked for work in the past four weeks?

The answers to the questions fed into computers which classify people as employed, unemployed or not in the labor force. If you had a job - even if it was only part-time - you are classified as employed. You are counted as employed if you worked 15 hours or more in a family business, even if you did not get paid. If you didn't have a job, but you were looking for one, you are counted as unemployed. The sample is projected to reflect the entire population. The employed plus the unemployed make up the labor force. To get the unemployment rate, divide the number of unemployed by the total labor force. Q. What about the people who have given up looking for work? A. They are not counted as unemployed. They are classified as "not in the labor force" and are listed, in a separate category which is tabulated quarterly, as "discouraged workers." Some critics of the current system say that the statistics tend to understate unemployment because they do not take into account these workers. Other critics say the figures are inaccurate because they do not reflect the number of people who say they are looking for work, but have not really tried very hard. Q. Where are the people who are not in the labor

A. The majority of them are keeping house. Others are in school, retired or disabled or (have individual reasons for not wanting a job.

Q. What about seasonal ups and downs in employ-

A. That's where adjustment comes in. All the figures are seasonally adjusted to take into account changes that normally would be expected. Employment traditionally reaches a low in February, for example, because of the cold weather which halts some outdoor work and because of the post-Christmas lull in retail sales. If the figures were not seasonally adjusted, the large jump in unemployment from January to February could be misinterpreted, leading people to think economic canditions were much worse than they really were. There often are differences of a million or more between the number of people actually employed or unemployed and the number the government lists that way. "We're interested in adjustment because we're interested in seeing what trends are," said

Q. Are there sub-divisions in the employment

A. Lots of them. The survey also yields information on employment by age, sex and race. There are five basic job categories: white-collar, blue-collar, service workers, farm workers and those with no previous experience. Within these categories are further divisions, including administrators and managers, craft workers, clerical employees, etc.

Q. What about that review commission? A. The National Commission on Employment and Unemployment Statistics was formally set up in March and expects to complete its survey by the end of next year. Its job, said executive director Avril V. Adams, is to "appraise the methods of collecting, processing and analyzing the labor force statistics and suggest ways of improving them." The commission is looking not only at national statistics, but at state and local ones as well.

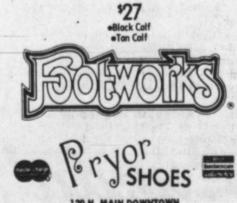

Q. What changes are likely to occur?

A. "I expect significant changes in terms of the details on minorities ... the labor force activity of minorities," Adams said. Beyond that, the biggest changes will come in state and local unemployment figures which, Adams said, have become increasingly important because they are used as the basis for distribution of billions of dollars of federal funds. The commission also is trying to determine whether there should be a change in the way discouraged workers are counted.

Teaching different job

WASHINGTON (AP)-The U.S. Tax Court has held that being a teacher is a new and different profession from assisting teachers.

The decision by Judge Richard C. Wilbur came in the case of Leonarda C. Diaz of Ozone Park, N.Y., who had served as a paraprofessional assistant in the New York City schools.

Miss Diaz had obtained her bachelor's degree and sought to deduct the costs of her college work as an educational expense.

This was turned down by the Internal Revenue Service on the basis that the costs of qualifying for a new trade or business are not deductible and the degree qualified her to teach rather than merely assisting.

The court agreed with IRS, ruling that the "education expenditures were made to enable petitioner to meet the minimum requirements for becoming a teacher, and were therefore not deductible.

Oatmeal cookie recipe has good flavor plus

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

When I sent a sample of some new oatmeal cookies to my Kentucky neighbor, one of my most discriminating tasters, she called right back: "Those are the best plain oatmeal cookies I've tasted. What did you put

"We used an old-fashioned recipe with twice as much oatmeal as flour, I told her, "but we updated it by substituting corn oil for the shortening. That, along with the fact that only one egg is called for, keeps the saturated fat low and should make cholesterol-watchers happy."

Another plus. Some recipes for oatmeal cookies call for too much baking soda, resulting in undesirable flavor. This one uses only a minimum of baking powder.

These cookies are fine to pack into lunchboxes. Delicious, too, for snacks

11/2 cups quick-cooking oats

1-3rd cup corn oil 1 large egg

1 tablespoon water 1 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 cup raisins

In a medium bowl, with a wooden spoon, stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Add the brown sugar; with the back of the spoon stir until any lumps are tiny. Stir in the oats. Make a well in the center; add the corn oil, unbeaten egg, water, vanilla and raisins; stir vigorously until the dry ingredients are moistened. Drop by level tablespoonfuls, 2 inches apart, onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until lightly browned — about 13 to 15 minutes. With a wide spatula, remove at once to wire racks to cool. Makes about 21/2 dozen. Recipe may be doubled.

Proper posting needed

DEAR AL:

DEAR AL

If you spot a fence that's leaning and looks like it won't make it through the year, it's probably because the posts weren't properly installed. Done right, the posts should hang in there even if your neighbor backs his car through the fence. If at all possible, set all the posts in concrete. If that's not possible, at least use concrete on posts at strategic locations to make for a well supported fence. These strategic spots should include gateposts, ends and corners. If possible, have a third of the post below ground. This applies to wood or metal posts. Here again, at least use that rule at those strategic points. (After digging post holes, you'll probably decide to compromise with a little less on those in between.) Since stability is the byword for fence posts, you might wish to go an extra step before you set the posts. Attach metal cross braces to the bottom part of the posts so they're parallel to the ground. Bolt one of the pieces on each of the four sides of the post, and use braces that are as long as possible. (This depends on how you dig digging because you have to make the hole wide enough to accomodate the braces. And if you're setting them in concrete, it also depends on how much money and effort you want to spend on the extra concrete for a bigger hole.) With stable fence posts, the fence may last longer than you do.

DPS director concerned over rising traffic toll

AUSTIN - The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety recently expressed "serious concern" over the state's rising traffic death toll and increasing rates of violent

In fact, DPS officers said one of every 13 traffic deaths across the nation occur in Texas.

Col. Wilson E. Speir said these trends are "symptomatic of the rapid population growth experienced in Texas during the last few years." He said traffic deaths on Texas streets and highways are 11 percent higher than at the same time in 1977. "If this trend continues, we will for the first time kill over 4,000 people in Texas traffic in a single year," said the DPS director. The all-time traffic death record was 3,698 killed in 1977. Deaths previously peaked at 3,692 in 1973 - the last year of the 70 mph speed limit, but had been lower in the 1974-76

Regarding crime, Speir said while the overall crime rate per 100,000 residents was down by 1 percent for the first six months of 1978, actual numbers of major crimes rose.

There were an estimated 336,302 major offenses in Texas during the first half of 1978, compared to 330,169 such crimes in the same months of Speir said reports submitted to DPS indicate violent crimes soared during the first six months.

The murder rate rose 14.7 percent, rapes were up 15.2 percent, and the rate for aggravated assaults climbed 6.2 percent.

"Part of the problem, " said Speir, "is that growth in law enforcement just has not kept pace with the state's growing and increasingly mobile population. That certainly is true in the Department of Public Safety.'

Speir said that while the crime rate per 100,000 population has risen 32 percent since 1973, the department's authorized criminal law enforcement strength has risen by only 10 per-

He said that California, Florida, Illinois, Michigan, and Pennsylvania - states with populations comparable to Texas - have an average of 2,043 highway patrol troopers per state while Texas has but 1,350.

"If we compare our strength to population, these states have one trooper per 6,083 people while we have one for each 9,504," Speir added. He said the problem is further compounded by what he called inadequate pay levels for law enforcement officers and essential support personnel. "We have a department-wide annual turnover of 15 percent, and our turnover in enforcement personnel is nearly 50 percent more than just two years ago," he said.

"The DPS urgently needs additional personnel, and we need salary adustments which are sufficient to permit retention of trained and productive employees," Speir added. This is essential if we are to provide the proper response to these growing

Roth seeks investigation in CIA employee's death

Roth, R-Del., cited a newspaper story that suggested a possible connection between the shooting-death of John Paisley and reported Soviet acquisition of documents on the K-11 surveillance satellite system.

Paisley's body was found floating in Chesapeake Bay on Sunday. Police said he died from a gunshot wound to his head and that 38 pounds of divers' weights were strapped to his waist and chest. Investigators have said they were leaning to the theory that he had taken his own life rather than had been murdered.

Paisley retired in 1974 as deputy director of the CIA's Office of Strategic Research.

Roth asked the Senate Intelligence Committee to look into the matter.

In a letter to committee Chairman Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Roth said: "There is a report in today's Wilmington Morning News that the alleged murder of John Paisley may be directly related to the loss of information on the K-11."

The article also quoted a CIA official as saying that equally important documents in connection with other surveillance programs were also missing, Roth noted.

Bible stops bullet, saves man's life

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) -Night watchman Robert Hanson says he always carries a small New Testament in his shirt pocket because "it gives me strength." Police say that on Thursday it saved his life.

As Hanson was making his final rounds before dawn in the basement of a department store building, an intruder shot him in the chest. City police patrolman Michael Walker said the .22-caliber pistol bullet struck the Bible and penetrated all but the back leather cover.

Hanson, 36, was knocked down but suffered only a bruised chest, doctors

He said the intruder, whom he encountered in the offices of the American Cancer Society, "was about 30 yards away.

"I don't know why he shot me," Hanson said. "I was unarmed. I just remember seeing a flash, like when you get into a fight and get hit

Wagon trip provides 'escape'

By GAYLE FISHER

FALLON, Nev. (AP) - Cactus Bob washed his face with stream water as a cool breeze blew through his hair. Dust had collected after a slow day's ride through the Nevada desert.

"This is living," the prospector said. "People that stay in cities don't know what real living's all

Cactus Bob, who prefers not to give his last name, was dressed in western clothes and an old miner's hat. He was on a six-day wagon train journey from the C Bar D Ranch at Fallon to Roundhill at Lake Tahoe - about 70 miles. He'd made the trip several times before with Dean Calkins, the train's

About 30 others were in the train this time, sharing four wagôns and several horses. An average day's ride covered about 10 miles in eight hours, barring major problems.

"I'm doing these trips about eight months out of the year now," said Calkins, who rides a horse hitched to the lead wagon. He said he liked to organize the wagon rides because he liked to see the changes in people as they made the trip.

"People come to my place at the ranch, have a little something to eat and drink, sit around the campfire, and then pretty soon they come down to just being people. It doesn't matter who they are any more," he said.

Calkins said his wagon hands are people who want to get away from their regular jobs for while. "It's a good escape for them," he said

Lunch was at Ragtown, named because of the way settlers drenched themselves in the long-awaited water and then hung their ragged clothes on the trees to dry.

The wagons are similar to ones used by the settlers, with wooden wheels and hardboard seats. But food on Calkins' trip is plentiful. There are soft drinks, beer and ice along with things such as eggs and bacon, ham and cheese sandwiches, steak by about a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Exchangelisted issues. Analysts said some buying apparently had been encouraged by the market's steadiness lately in the face of some negative economic news. For instance, the government reported Thursday that wholesale prices of finished goods rose at a 10.8 percent annual rate last month, but the market nevertheless managed to gain ground. In today's news, New York's Citicorp decided to keep its prime lending rate at 9% percent. There has been considerable speculation that the basic charge on blue-chip loans might go to 10 percent before long.

Ramada Inns topped the active list, unchanged at

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .11 to 58.30. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .60 at 170.23. Volume on the Big Board totaled 11.42 million shares at noontime, against 12.13 million at the same point Thursday.

Japanese citizens play role in combatting gangs

WILLIAM CHAPMAN Washington Post

OSAKA, Japan — When they first oved into Yoshikazu Kamimura's ighborhood of this big industrial ty, the gangsters caused no trouble d an uneasy calm prevailed.

They decorated their house with a ang symbol, showing that they were ffiliated with the Yamaguchi-Gumi, apan's most feared criminal syndiate, but for a month there were no

Then the gangsters made a miske: they refused to pay their bill to a eighborhood restaurateur and beat the clerk who came to collect.

That set Kamimura to work. He rganized parades, complete with baons and placards, that went past the angsters' house. Thouands of stickrs were posted urging residents to eport any violence to the police. Citiens massed by the hundreds and houted pledges of cooperation. Such incidents are common in apan, where the citizens play a rowing role in combatting gangs. incouraged by the police, they orgaize protest demonstrations and use nany kinds of community pressure to proot the gangsters, or "yakuza," ho settle in their neighborhoods.

Their strongest tactic is the public haming of hoodlums, a form of social stracism whose roots go deep in apanese culture. The greatest fear f a Japanese, it is often said, is to be numiliated by one's peers and neighors. In Japan, even hoodlums can't bide the disrespect of the people next

The anti-gang movements have been going on for years, ever since the great gang wars of the 1960s, and recently the National Police Agency embraced the movements as an important part of police work. Police call it the "isolation policy."

Raisuke Miyawaki, director of the NPA's detective bureau, said the isolation policy often succeeds in destroying the infleunce of gangs without violence.

"We are seeking to create a society where gangsters cannot breathe," he said in a recent interview.

A new round of gang wars has given citizens cause for alarm this year. In Kyoto, the boss of the Yamaguchi-Gumi, Kazuo Taoka, was shot and wounded in a nightclub, and his followers and the police both began a manhunt for his assailant, a member of a rival gang. The gangsters found him first; his decomposing body turned up on a mountain near Osaka

Their internecine warfare is often gruesome. This week one mobster's body was found in a wooded area with the hands missing. Another gangster confessed to killing the man in a gang feud and then throwing his severed hands into a vat of noodle soup which was later sold for 300 yen a bowl in a Tokyo street stall, police said. The killer said he wanted to destroy the man's fingerprints.

Rooting out gangsters has been hard because many citizens have secretly admired them as later-day Robin Hoods who give help and jobs to lower-class outcasts and because many are employed by reputable businessmen to collect bad debts. Nevertheless, police say, in the last 15 years the number of gangs has been

The gangsters themselves are curiosities in staid Japan. They dress in flashy suits and drive big American cars, an ostentation that sets them apart. They proudly post their gang symbols above doorways and many cover their bodies with extravagant tattoos. Their money comes from gambling, drugs, and prostitution.

The gangsters are society's dropouts and spurn legitimate careers. Police find that the risk of arrest and punishment has little effect on them and that cutting off their community links is often the only way of combatting them. Over the years, different tactics have been devised for cutting those links. Landlords refuse to renew the gangs' leases. Citizens boycott gangland bars. Neighbors harass gangland members with telephone calls and signs demanding that the hoodlums move away. Companies stop hiring Yakuza bouncers to keep peace at stockholders meetings - once a popular form of criminals' extortion.

The citizens try to hit where it hurts most. Japanese gangs historically have been deeply involved in theater and nightclub life, so in Kobe the city was induced to close public auditoriums to any show that had gang connections.

When one major gang tried to arrange a large Appalachian-style meeting, the local government and news media pressured them out. The gang arranged to hold the meeting in Seoul, South Korea, but police there also were induced to clamp down. Finally, the gang settled for a quiet little gathering in southern Japan.

Another gang planned an ostentatious pilgrimage to the famous Kinpira temple on the island of Shikoku. The citizens responded by closing all the bars and shops, leaving no place for the gangsters to celebrate after their religious observance.

news media descended on one gang-ster's house behind a parade of Boy Scouts, a band, marching girls and large placards. The gangster was summoned into the street where a neighborhood proclaimation was read to him. It said:

In another area of Osaka, 10 landlords got together and agreed to rewrite rental contracts permitting them to cancel leases if tenants clear-In Osaka last July, citizens and the ly demonstrated gangland characteristics, such as posting their symbols

sary - anyone who feels that cooperation with authorities might invite gangsters retaliation. Under a special Osaka law, one threatening word by a hoodlum is punishable by a jail

Tomoko Nakahata got into the fight against gangs when she discovered she had rented an office to members of the Tama-Gumi, a small gang involved in gambling and prostitution in Sakai, an Osaka suburb.

She suddenly became the target of citizens who were angry that she had rented - unknowingly - to gangsters. So she oranized neighborhood protest marches and told her unwanted tenants she would sue to break their lease on grounds tht they had violated a clause requiring friendly relations with neighbors.

The case had a distinctly Japanese conclusion. Detectives approached the Tamba-Gumi leaders and convinced them that they would lose the suit and be humiliated. Rather than lose face, the Tama-Gumi dissolved.

"The idea was that everybody who got a broom was supposed to sweep every week," he said. "But I'm the only one that has carried it forward."

Each week since, the 29-year-old lawyer has donned grubby clothes, grabbed his broom and trash can and swept both sides of the 300 block of Scott - some 20 buildings, driveways included - collecting a 75-pound

"It is a long process," he said. "It takes close to three hours. I had hoped that other neighbors would start helping. Unfortunately, that has not happened. I've gotten to know everybody - that's about all."

In fact, some people, neighbors and outsiders, have given the civic-minded barrister a hard time as he goes about his self-appointed rounds.

"Some people want to know why I'm working on Sunday and costing the city double time," he said. 'Others want to know why I don't sweep on their block, and a lot, when I tell them I'm doing it for nothing, just don't believe it

One of Armstrong's more illustrious neighbors is county Supervisor Ella Hill Hutch, who said his efforts are noticed - and appreciated.

"In fact, I plan to present him with a Certificate of Honor for his efforts and I will find out how I can assist him," she said. "The certificate is the city's way of commending citizens for their contributions to making the city a better place to live and he most assuredly is deserving of one.'

The dominant theme was to endorse federal legislation to require the FCC to assign at least one commercial station for the state's 7.5 million residents.

'The lack of local television outlets has had a cumulative negative effect on the way the people of New Jersey perceive themselves and the place in which they live," said Robert Mulcahy, Gov. Brendan T.

"It might be junk, but at least we'll be watching our junk, our fires and murders and not someone else's," he said.

But why not first let New Jersey Public Television and its new multimillion dollar expanded state news coverage gauge concern for daily television news?

Unique premise doesn't destroy movie's effect

"THE BOYS FROM BRAZIL" would have us believe that scattered through the northern hemisphere are 94 teen-age boys who are cloned Adolf Hitlers, any one of which might some day establish the Fourth Reich. Once this whopper is swallowed, the film can be enjoyed as an expertly made adventure.

Franklin J. Schaffner's deft direction reduces implausibility to minimum, and his efforts are aided by two superior performances. Gregory Peck is chillingly effective as the maniacal surgeon whose concentration camp experiments made the cloning possible. His opponent is Laurence Olivier, tracer of war criminals; it is a well-shaded characterization. Rated R, apparently because of about 450 miles north of here.

Australia joins war movie trend

By EDITH M. LEDERER

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The Australians have joined the Vietnam War movie sweepstakes with a biting comedy about a group of Australia's toughest soldiers who fought beside the Americans in the jungles of Phuoc Tuy and the bars of Vung Tau.

"Punk" rocker Lita Ford, left, swings her hair as she sings and comedian Phyllis Diller

"The Odd, Angry Show" is the first non-American movie about Vietnam and views the war through the eyes of friendly but sometimes competitve allies. Many Americans may have forgotten that Australia was one of the few countries to send combat troops to Vietnam - 47,000 over seven years - but the Aussies haven't forgotten. In fact, Australia's involvement in the war became almost as much an issue here as the American involvement did in the United States.

Graham Kennedy, one of Australia's leading television personalities, who stars in the movie, said in an interview that the producers felt "enough time has passed now to bring the subject up again.

The Americans have apparently made the same assessment, because a half-dozen Vietnam movies have been or are about to be released after more than a decade when producers considered the war an untouchable subject. The new American crop includes "Who'll Stop the Rain?," "Coming Home," "The Boys in Company C," "Heroes" and "Tell it to the Spartans.

"The Odd Angry Shot," scheduled to be released early next year, follows the six-man "21 Patrol" of the Australian army's Special Air Service during a year's tour of duty in Vietnam in the late '60s.

The little-known but highly trained SAS, somewhat comparable to the American-Ranger units, specialized in long-range reconnaissance behind enemy lines and lived by the motto "Who Dares Wins." There were about 100 SAS troops in Vietnam at all times from 1966 until 1972, based in Phuoc Tuy Province southeast of Saigon.

During the war, the Australians lost 415 men but only four were from the SAS. Kennedy noted that the casualty figure in the movie in which two members of the patrol are killed is unrealistically high for an actual SAS operation.

The film traces the frustrations and petty pleasures of life in the base camp, mixing the boisterous enjoyment of cards, booze and women with the harsh reality of mortar attacks and booby trapped mines. One scene shows a fight between the SAS' pet giant spider and the pet scorpion of a group of American artillerymen.

"It has some dramatic moments but the director tells us it's a comedy," said Kennedy. "We don't quite go as far as wrecking Saigon, but we do some stupid things. When it's time to let off steam, we really let off steam.' Kennedy, who plays battle-scarred Cmdr. Harry, said: "Hopefully it will just be enjoyable. It doesn't have a strong message. If it has any message, it's just don't go to war." NBC casts

WASHINGTON - Even if the bobtailed energy tax bill dies, and it is expected to pass before Congress adjourns this fall, Congress has ready a fall-back bill that would give homeowners a tax credit for insulating their homes.

Last August when it appeared that the energy tax conferees might not meet again and that there would be no bill, the Senate attached to a minor House-passed measure the tax credits for home insulation and solar heat that both the House and the Senate had passedJlast year as part of President Carter's energy package.

This week the House rules committee approved a resolution that would permit the House to take up that bill and accept the Senate amendment without the time-consuming necessity of convening another House-Senate conference to settle the differences. Sponsors have agreed not to call up the bill until the very end of the session to give priority to the energy tax bill which contains the credits but has been held up by other issues.

The energy conferees agreed to give a maximum tax credit of $300 to persons who spend $2,000 or more on home insulation and $2,200 for investments of $10,000 or more in solar heating equipment.

The energy tax bill was sidetracked Thursday because leaders of the Senate Finance Commitee, which handles the bill, were tied up on the Senate floor with opening debate on the tax cut bill.

consideration a proposal made Wednesday evening by House conferees which, in addition to tax credits, contains a watered down version of the tax on gas guzzling cars that would not take effect until next year. Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., and others want to hold out for inclusion of language redefining small "stripper" wells which Hansen said would have the effect of removing price controls and encouraging production of 300,000 to 500,000 barrels a day of oil from wells that otherwise would be abandoned. House conferees rejected this Senate provision.

As the natural gas pricing compromise headed for a final congressional test in the House next week, opponents made another try to get a vote on gas separate from the rest of the energy package. They think that would provide a better chance to de-

Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., headed a group of at least 50 House Democrats who signed a petition forcing the call of a caucus of all House Democrats Friday morning to act on a 'sense of the caucus" resolution that the gas issue should be put to a separate House vote

Moffett faces two major hurdles in this effort. The monnthly caucus has not been able to attract a majority of members required to do business for months. And the party leadership opposes a separate vote and will work to prevent a quorum from showing up or to defeat the resolution. And even if it were approved it has no binding ef-

Spill fund established

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate voted Thursday night to establish a $200 million fund to compensate the victims of oil

The money also would pay for the cleanup of oil and hazardous substances dumped from oceangoing tankers, offshore oil rigs or oil refineries.

The bill, passed unanimously by the Senate, also makes shipping and oil companies ultimately responsible for the costs of oil spills.

Revenues for the fund would be raised through a 3-cent-abarrel fee to be levied on crude oil which arrives at U.S. refin-Each oil tanker or ship carry-

The bill covers spills in inland waterways and coastal waters. extending 200 miles offshore.

Businessmen and land owners along the ocean could make damage claims when a spill occurs

It would also allow states to set their own oil spill cleanup policies, while a similar House bill gives the job completely to the federal government.

That and other differences will have to be worked out in the remaining eight days of the 1978 congressional term.

day and was plugged. But the company added "plans for the future assessment of the Porcupine Basin area are now being drawn up. Desmond O'Malley, government minister in charge of offshore drilling, expressed "cautious optimism" about the find, saying it was important because the oil was of good quality and free of sulphur. O'Malley said he hopes the find will encourage more searches for oil off the Irish coast. Phillips said it drilled 11 holes before striking oil.

Liberals maneuvering for split in package

WASHINGTON (AP) - Liberal opponents of natural gas deregulation are maneuvering to get the House to split up President Carter's energy package to make the gas pricing section more vulnerable

But Democratic supporters, trying to hold the package together, may be able to defeat the attempt by simply not appearing at today's scheduled meeting of the House Democratic Caucus. Opponents of the bill claimed House to attend the session - at which a vote on the issue of breaking up the energy bills was scheduled. Without the 144 members needed for a quorum, the caucus would be leaders quietly asked Democrats not

Jr. hoped to keep the natural gas bill linked with other less-controversial parts of Carter's five-section energy plan so it can all be voted on together next Thursday.

Meanwhile, House-Senate conferees on the tax section of the plan are close to wrapping up their work.

They've already approved tax credits for home insulation and solar energy, and are expected to reach agreement soon on tax issues.

Under the proposed compromise, there would be a tax on fuel-inefficient cars, beginning with 1980 models, ranging from $200 to $550 for cars getting less than 15 miles per hour.

But another administration-sought tax, on certain inefficient industrial uses of oil and natural gas, would be dropped entirely under the compro-

Sharp said he thinks the House will approve the energy package, although he said the margin may be fairly slim.

Will Thursday's vote sustaining President Carter's veto of a $10.2 billion public works bill hurt chances for the energy bill? "It does complicate the issue," said Sharp.

However, he said he hopes that congressmen who had threatened to vote against Carter's energy bill in retaliation for the veto - he said there are probably "less than 10" will have cooled down and reconsidered by Thursday.

"I think we're generally in a positive position," he said.

John sinks Phillies, 4-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, playoff flops at home for the third straight year, battle long odds and the Los Angeles Dodgers here tonight in what could be the final game of the National League title

"We want to end this as quickly as we possibly can," Dave Lopes said after he and pitcher Tommy John led Los Angeles to a 4-0 win Thursday in Philadelphia that left the Dodgers a step away from a three-game sweep in the best-of-five set.

'Nobody in the athletic world right now thinks we have a chance - except us," said Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt, whose team is now 1-8 in playoff games over the last three seasons and 0-6 at usually friendly Veterans Stadium.

Schmidt led off Thursday's game with a line drive single to right. Phillies partisans roared and John wondered on the mound.

"I thought it might be a long day maybe a short one for Tommy," John

But he allowed only three more singles and two walks as his sinking deliveries were continually beaten into the turf for groundouts by the frustrated Phils.

It was Lopes, the Dodger team captain, second baseman and adrenal stimulator, who delivered the key hits a home run, a single and a triple that each drove in single runs.

"Aggression is our key to success. We come out swinging," said Lopes, who the night before rapped a two-run homer, a double and a single in a 9-5 Dodger romp.

"I'm at a stage right now where it doesn't matter what they throw up there. The ball is just stopping and I'm hitting the hell out of it." The Phillies began the day banking on starting pitcher Dick Ruthven, now 1-11 lifetime against the Ruthven retired nine straight Dodgers before Lopes led off the fourth inning with a homer over the left field wall. "My teammates were looking for something out of the ordinary," said Lopes.

In the fifth, the Dodgers chased Ruthven with two more runs on three hits, including RBI-singles by Steve Yeager and Lopes. "I really feel those two runs took a little fire out of the Phillies," Lopes The Dodgers added another run in the seventh when Rick Monday singled and Lopes tripled him home. It was more insurance than John need-Of the 27 Philadelphia outs, 21 came on ground balls. John, idled more than two weeks in September with a leg injury, got a bit tired in the seventh. But even that didn't help the "My arm got a little heavy, but when that happens my ball usually sinks more," said John. Garry Maddox and Greg Luzinski led off the Philadelphia seventh with singles, but Jose Cardenal bounced into a foreceout and Bob Boone grounded into a double play.

By the ninth inning, John looked fresher than ever. Schmidt grounded out. Larry Bowa grounded out. Then Maddox flied out to Rich Monday in right and it was over.

Whether it's all over this season for the Phils will be determined tonight

"We're capable of doing the reverse. We can beat them there," said Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark. Ozark predicted on the eve of the first game here that his team would sweep the series in three: "It never entered my mind that they would take two from us here," he

"We've got three to go," said Ozark, managing a faint glimmer of the smile that marked his original

"We're in a position you don't want to be in," said Bowa. "If we win the next one, we play Saturday. Lose it and we start the winter." "I guarantee you it's not going to be easy for them," said Schmidt. "I'm sure they think it will be easy.'

NEW YORK (AP) - The best-offive American League Championship Series resumes today with the Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees deadlocked at one game apiece. But KC Manager Whitey Herzog sounds as though his team is in a must win

"This is a big game for us with Guidry going for them Saturday," Herzog said Thursday after the Royals completed a one-hour workout at Yankee Stadium, site of Games 3 and 4 and, if necessary, Game 5. But Herzog almost sounded as though he were conceding Saturday night's fourth game to the Yankees and pitching ace Ron Guidry. "He's only lost three games, so he can be beaten," Herzog said, "but he's the best pitcher in baseball. I wish I had him going for me.' Herzog has Paul Splittorff, 19-13, going today (2:30 p.m., CDT) against New York's Catfish Hunter, 12-6, one of baseball's more inspiring comeback sagas. The rest of the Royals didn't sound as though they were conceding an inch to Guidry. In fact, they couldn't understand what all the fuss was "It's not only Guidry," griped pitcher Larry Gura, winner of Wednesday's second game that squared the series. "You talk to anyone and they make out like all the Yankees are gods. It's nice that Guidry's 25-3, but he gives up runs, doesn't he? That 25-3 record isn't going to help him Saturday.' "He'll be 25-4 Saturday, I guarantee you," said infielder Jerry Terrell. "Didn't Toronto beat him a couple of weeks ago?" wondered shortstop Splittorff, at least, wasn't looking beyond today's game.

"In a five-game series, you can say that every game is a big one - and it's true," he said. "Every time you take the field in a best-of-five series it's a must-win situation. Splittorff will be pitching for the first time in more than a week. He missed the Royals' final series of the regular season when he had to go to Chicago for his father's funeral. That forced Herzog to juggle his pitching rotation for the playoffs. He had planned to open with the veteran left-hander Tuesday night. "I didn't get back from Chicago until late Monday night," Splittorff said. "Whitey did the right thing. It would have been tough getting ready for that game." For most of his career, Splittorff has been something of a Yankee-kill-

Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda said he believes the Dodgers were destined to repeat as NL champs on the strength of their showing during the regular season when they trailed the San Francisco Giants. "They have played very well," Lasorda said. "When they were 61/2 back and we had a disastrous road trip, they all had a feeling they were going to turn things around. They never had a doubt in their minds they were going to win the pennant."

Phillies Manager Danny Ozark, who had predicted a three-game sweep for his club in their third try for the league crown, now is at the bottom looking up.

"It never entered my mind that they would take two games from us here," said Ozark, whose contract expires at the end of the season. "I never gave it a second thought. I expected to win both games.'

Lee, Midland High draw 5-4A battle lines

Bulldogs are not awed by high Panther ranking

R-T Sports Writer

ODESSA - The Midland High Bulldogs couldn't pick a warmer spot in which to jump into the District 5-4A fire here tonight when they open the league war against defending champion and seventh-ranked Odessa Permian in W. T. Barrett Stadium.

But, at least, Midland High will take to the task with a full team since they have emptied the hospital wards of all the wounded. Six players, who all missed some playing time in the first three games for the Bulldogs, will be in the lineup ready for action. They are not all 100 per cent as of yet. but the bodies are at least ready for a go for the first time since the Brownfield scrimmage.

Permian will carry a perfect 3-0 mark into the 8 p.m. contest and the high state ranking along with a long winning tradition in 5-4A. The 1-2 Bulldogs have that to contend with, but they seem ready for the chal-

"The coaches and the team are the only people in the Permian Basin who think we are going to win this game,' a confident Midland High Coach Dennie Hays said this week. "We feel we are prepared both offensively and defensively for Permian. The Panthers may be a better team, but they are going to have to prove it. We are not entering the game to just play good against Permian. We hope to win the game. Our attitude is to win. A victory would go a long way toward healing a lot of injuries. It would make a lot of people well. I think it would be good for the league and Midland for us to win the game. It would put a different slant on the While Midland High is ignoring the the automatic loss column theory, Permian Coach John Wilkens seems to be taking the game in his usual stride. It's just another game on the way to a title.

"Our kids are anxious to play. We worked hard last week to improve the techniques of our individuals. We haven't worked that hard on Midland High in particular, but we hope to improve in some areas and become more consistent," Wilkens said. "We are a good football team, but we are not a great one at this point. We are not deserving of the ranking we have. This is one of the smallest offensive teams I have had, but they do have a lot of quickness."

The two coaches see strengths on both teams. Hays thinks the key will be turnovers. He thinks his Bulldogs can't give Permian the ball in four down territory. Wilkens, on the other hand, talks about consistency as the

"We respect Permian. We know what they have done in the past, and you just can't give them the ball in four-down territory. We need to control the ball and score when we can. We need to make them go a long way for every score they earn. Their quarterback Vic Vines is the key to their team. He is a leader on the field and has the talent to make things happen." Hays said.

"Midland High has had some of the same problems we have had. They have been inconsistent at times from what I have seen," Wilkens noted. "They have also been inconsistent at quarterback with injuries and all, but they are more aggressive on defense

Meyer is happy despite SMU role

There will be a lot of football wars involving Southwest Conference teams this weekend but no coach will be more at peace than Southern Meth-

Meyer actually has the sideline ticket to get into Ohio Stadium where he used to hide in the men's restroom so he could watch Ohio State play.

The Mustangs will be 14-point underdogs to Ohio State but the oddsmakers would have had no line on Meyer's chances of getting caught sneaking into the games when he was a Boy Scout at Westerville, Ohio. Meyer would sneak into the stadium at 9 a.m. and hide in the men's restroom. He would stand on a toilet seat when a guard came in to check the room. He would stand there for hours until the crowd started coming

"You've got to really want something bad to stand on a toilet seat for three hours," said Meyer. "I guess I wanted to see the Buckeyes pretty

And Meyer wants to beat them pretty bad Saturday as the Mustangs, who almost upset Penn State two weeks ago, return after a week's layoff.

Meyer said,"It would be great for our program if we beat them but you have to be realistic. I don't think they are as good as they were last year, but they are a good football team. They're better than we are."

Of course, all eyes are on Dallas where No. 1-rated Oklahoma plays No. 6-ranked Texas in a clash of unbeaten, untied teams. Oklahoma is a seven-point pick over the Longhorns, who ambushed the Sooners 13-6

There are three big Southwest Conference games as everybody chases the defending champion Longhorns, who are off to a quick 2-0 start in league play. Texas Tech is at No. 7 Texas A&M, hardluck Baylor hosts Houston, and No. 4 Arkansas entertains Texas Christian in Little Rock

The Aggies are 19-point picks over the Red Raiders who fell to Texa 24-7 last week.

Texas A&M is averaging 474.3 yards per game in total offense. Tailback Curtis Dickey is reeling off 144.3 yards per game.

"I know we are going to meet a lot of good teams down the road but I won't lose any sleep worrying about whether our players being ready to play," said Aggie Coach Emory Bellard. "All of them are very determined in their preparations.'

Baylor plays its first home game but is a one-point underdog because wingback Greg Hawthorne is out for the season with a cracked hip.

"It hurts when you lose a player of Greg's caliber," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "I have always said that Houston was the darkhorse team in the conference. They have some super athletes.

We are going to have to contain their option if we want to win the game, especially since they have a guy like Danny Davis running the Arkansas was a 35-point choice over Texas Christian which it has defeated 19 consecutive times. TCU's last win over Arkansas was 1958 when the Horned Frogs prevailed 12-7 back with All-America Bob Lilly a star for the Fort Worth team.

Houston employs dual quarterback grid attack

HOUSTON (AP) - Innovative University of Houston Coach Bill Yeoman's latest novelty is the dual quarterback attack of Danny Davis and Delrick Brown but the two signal callers insist there's no duel for the starting job.

They're too busy shooting down enemy defenses.

"I'm really glad he's back, I've improved because of him and he's better because of me," said Brown, who guided the Cougars last season while Davis sat out with a shoulder separation. "We room together on the road and talk about our plans. We keep each other on our toes."

Davis, still rounding back into shape from a year's inactivity, had his best performance of the season last week when the Cougars upset then 10th-ranked Florida State 27-21. UH is 2-1 going into Saturday's Southwest Conference opener against Bay-

Davis completed seven of 10 passes for 79 yards but mostly was content to pull the trigger on UH's well-armed veer offense and let his running backs

"People told me after the Florida State game that I looked like my old self," Davis said. "I was almost be-lieving it until I looked at the†film. I've still got a ways to go.

"I was a little more reckless in 1976 than I am now. Maybe I'm more conservative because I know better. I am trying hard but sometimes you have to let the team help instead of trying to do it all.

Brown, who led Houston to a 6-5 season last year, moved the offense in spot appearances against Florida State and in the previous week's victory over Utah.

Yeoman says the Baylor Bears, this week's opponent at Waco, will see both quarterbacks.

"Delrick took some of the pressure off of Danny last week," Yeoman said. "I think it got them (Florida State) off balance. Danny would do something one way and Delrick would come in and do it just a little different. Delrick also ran by them a few times

"I think I'm a little faster than he is but there's not much other difference," Brown said. "Really, after 1976, I started patterning myself after Danny and the way our system works, every quarterback has to be of a Brown said he has learned to use his speed better. "I used to try to outrun everybody but now I try to pick the right angle and make the right cut,' Both quarterbacks are wary of the Bears, despite their 0-3 record, which came on the road against tough com-"Baylor is backed into a corner and they know somebody's out to get them," Brown said.

The Robert E. Lee Rebel Express seeks its fourth straight football victory as do the Odessa Bronchos in a big District 5-4A opener in Memorial

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. with Lee remembering last year's 13-7 loss to the Red Hosses on an 80-yard pass play on the final play of the game, spelling defeat for the Maroon and

But this is a different season, with a new coaching staff, new uniforms and a whole new look for the Rebels.

Coach Gil Bartosh returns to 5-4A as the headmaster of the Rebs after leaving Odessa Permian after winning the 5-4A crown and state championship on 1972. Bartosh and OHS coach Dick Winder are no strangers since they faced each othertwo times in 1971 and 1972 with Bartosh coming out on top both

Lee sends powre running Jeff McCowan against the small, but quick Bronchos. McCowan has been nicknamed the Cactus Flower and for a very good reason. The 215-pound senior has rushed for 466 yards on 78 carries for an average of 5.9 yards per carry. The gifted senior has already scored seven touchdowns on the season in leading the Rebs to victories over Snyder, El Paso Austin and a very strong Plainview outfit. 'We expect a very tough game from OHS, because we know that they have a good team, " said Bartosh. Winder counters with the same feelings saying --- "Lee is big and strong and really can play that defense, but then so can we.

BESIDES MCCOWAN, Lee has some other guns on offense in junior quarterback Gary Butler and tailback Ricky Johnson. Johnson had some trouble holding on to the football in the 16-14 win over Plainview two weeks ago, but is also a threat.

"We plan some new wrinkles for the Bronchos in our district opener, quipped Bartosh. Winder, meanwhile, is pleased that Daniel Stevens, 196pound senior fullback and linebacker will return to the starting linup after missing the first three games with a dislocated thumb. "Daniel is a great blocker and gives us good senior leadership on the playing field, " said Winder. It is doubtful that Stevens will play an on defense but Winder will alternate him with Pat Mendoza at the fullback slot on offense.

Lee's forward wall is led by Herb Pearce (215), Rodney Taylor (235), Paul Speight (215) and Brian Briscoe (200). All four are seniors and very talented along with linebackers Michael McCrea (190), Doug Crawford (175) and defensive ends Dwight Washington (188) and Clay Calhoun OHS, meanwhile, is led by Steve Perkins (194) and Charle Whittington (188) and is a big play team. Quarterback Billy Rumbaugh has hit on 11 of 32 passes for 309 yards and four touchdowns and the infantry is led by tailback Scott Caywood who is the leading gainer for the Bronchos with 211 yards in 44 carries for an average of 4.7 yards per carry. HOUSTON (AP) - The "Texas championship" already had been decided before Houston's 117-111 National Basketball Association exhibition victory over San Antonio Thursday night. But the rivalry is just getting started.

The Spurs had a 6-0 exhibition record going into the game including two previous victories over the But the Rockets won Thursday night on a third quarter scoring and rebounding surge by Moses Malone, who finished with 25 points and 17 rebounds, and served notice they'll hold up their end in the regular season series. 'We didn't want to let them think they could

By The Associated Press BASEBALL NEW YORK — Pitcher Ron-Guidry of the New York Yankees and outfielder Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox were named co-winners of the sixth annual Joe

pamed co-winners of the sixth annual Joe Cronin Award for "distinguished achievement" in the American League. Guidry, who established a host of records in 1978, including the highest major league winning percentage (.883) for pitchers with 20 or more victories, and a 25-3 record as he helped the Yankees win the Eastern Division pennant. His 1.74 carned run average was the lowest for a left-hander (tied with Sandy Koufax) since Carl Hubbell's 1.66 in 1933 and second lowest in AL history.

Rice had his biggest year with Boston, leading the majors in six categories—hits (213), total bases (406), triples (15), home runs (46), runs batted in (139) and slugging percentage (.800). He became the first in the AL to reach 400 total bases since Joe DiMaggio in 1937.

Iowa State fans huddle

AMES, Iowa (AP) - Snuggled up in sleeping bags and gulping schnapps to keep warm, Iowa State students huddled around their tents at the football stadium gates, ready to make the dash for choice seats at Saturday's game against Nebraska.

"Crazy, aren't we?" said 18-yearold Jim Bair, a freshman from Odebolt, Iowa, lying in front of his tent Thursday afternoon as winds gusting up to 25 miles per hour made the temperature seem much colder than the actual reading in the low 50s.

Ardent Iowa State fans began arriving Wednesday morning and by late Thursday at least a couple of dozen had arrived to pitch tents on the cement by the student gates. Student seats are unreserved and Saturday's game is a sellout. "It's gonna be cold tonight," shivered Tim Holmes, 19, a sophomore from Burlington, Iowa, who said he was saving places for members of his fraternity. "But I brought $40 worth of booze to keep warm. Others among the early arrivals -

Cowboys dig own hole, but all hope is not lost

By The Associated Press

Nobody's writing off the Dallas Cowboys just yet — espcially not the Washington Redskins. But both teams acknowledge the defending Super Bowl champions have dug themselves into a bit of a hole.

"We must stay within striking distance of at least two games by the halfway mark of the season," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said, reflecting on the two-game lead the Redskins built in the National Conference East with their 9-5 Monday night victory over the Cowboys. "Washington is streaking right now and we almost have to streak to get into the playoffs."

"For us to have a two-game lead, Dallas has to be reacting a little differently now," Redskins Coach Jack Pardee observed. "Instead of them being in the drivers' seat and knowing we have to go down there and play, well, it puts some pressure on them ... They're not shoo-ins to win the division like they figured before the season started. But don't write the Cowboys off yet. With two losses in a 16-game schedule, they're certainly not out of it."

The Redskins visit Detroit on Sunday while the Cowboys host the New

night's game is Cincinnati at Miami. Washington is off to its best start since 1940 and owns several winning streaks — this year's 5-0 mark, an 8-0 string running back into last year's regular season and a four-game run against Detroit, including a 20-7 victory over the Lions in 1976.

Dallas, meanwhile, has turned back New York eight straight times, including 34-24 four weeks ago. Despite having won 22 of the last 26 games, the Cowboys are treating the Giants as equals (Dallas is about a twotouchdown favorite). The only thing really equal are the records. Each

"The Giants are a very good team and this will be one our toughest games to bounce off a Monday night game," said Landry.

One Cowboy looking for a tough time is defensive end Harvey Martin. He was ejected in the first meeting after taking exception to the way running back Willie Spencer was trying to block him - at the knees. Martin responded by kicking

"I thought they took some cheap shots at me and we'll see how brave they are in our stadium," Martin

Pittsburgh and Los Angeles, along with the Redskins, are unbeaten. On the other end of the spectrum, St. Louis and Cincinnati are still looking for victory No.1 this year. The Bengals are making their first start under Coach Homer Rice, who took over when Bill Johnson guit in the wake of their loss to previously winless San Francisco.

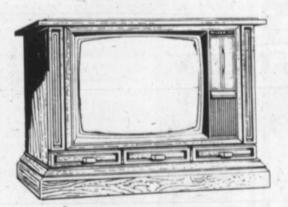

Don Coryell, the St. Louis head coach a year ago, is still looking for his first win this year in his second Sunday as the San Diego head coach. The Chargers were 28-23 last-minute losers to New England last Sunday. Sam Rutigliano, an assistant with the Saints last season, returns to New Orleans as Cleveland's head coach snd with the Browns riding two streaks — a 6-0 record against the Saints and an 0-2 record the last two

'Red River Rivalry' invades Cotton Bowl

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

It's called the "Battle of Big D" and the "Red River Rivalry," among other things.

But mostly, the annual Texas-Oklahoma football game is really a battle of big hearts. As Darrell Royal used to say: "It's time to nail your bellybutton to the ground.

The Southwest's glamour game is upon us once again, this Saturday in Dallas, and the noted "Royalism" by the long-time Texas coach is just as apropos now as it was in his day.

As usual, big things are at stake like national rankings and undefeated records. Top-ranked Oklahoma, unbeaten in four games, is a seven-point favorite over No. 6 Texas, 3-0, in the regionally televised game in the Cotton Bowl

And, as usual, both teams have the greatest respect for one another.

'We haven't played anybody with the offensive firepower of Oklahoma," says Texas Coach Fred Akers. 'Oklahoma has great team speed. You just try to slow them down, not shut them down."

Of Texas, Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer shows equal admiration.

"Texas has the greatest defense college football has had in the last two years," he says, "and nine times out of 10, defense wins football games." The Texas-Oklahoma game clearly will have the most significant effect on the national rankings, but there are several other intriguing matchups in college football Saturday.

Some other Top Twenty teams will be meeting each other. In one game. 10th-ranked Nebraska and No. 15 Iowa State, will play at Ames, Iowa. This one features two of the best running backs in the game - Iowa State's Dexter Green and I.M. Hipp of Nebraska.

Maryland, the nation's No. 12 team, hosts 20th-ranked North Carolina State in a battle of Atlantic Coast Conference powers. The Terps have already disposed of North Carolina, the ACC's defending champions and this contest will go a long way toward deciding the league title

Also, No. 16 UCLA plays No. 17 Stanford in an important Pac-10

Elsewhere, third-ranked Michigan hosts Arizona in a battle of Big Ten and Pac-10 teams. The Spartans are coming off an impressive 52-0 rout of bechler. "That's not going to happen this year. We're going to be up for every game.'

After last week's 58-0 thrashing by Penn State, TCU has another tough one this weekend in fourth-ranked Arkansas. Fifth-ranked Penn State. meanwhile, plays Kentucky, the only team to beat the Nittany Lions last

In other games, seventh-rankec Texas A&M hosts Texas Tech; No. 8 Alabama is at Washington; No. 9 Piti plays Boston College; No. 11 LSL meets Florida; No. 13 Colorado takes on Kansas; No. 14 Ohio State tackles SMU; No. 18 Florida State meets Mississippi State and No. 19 Auburn hosts Miami of Florida.

OHS JV bombs Lee by 52-15

ODESSA---Odessa took the opening kickoff 80 yards and had a 75-yard punt return to stun the Robert E. Lee Stonewall Brigade, 52-15, here Thursday night at Joe Coleman Field on the OHS campus in junior varsity football

About the only bright spots for Lee was the play of Warren Kyle, Eugene Merritt, Leonard Williams and Michael Letner.

With the score 14-0, Kyle intercepted a Broncho pass and raced 60 yards for the touchdown. Alan Koonce booted the extra point to cut the lead to 14-7, but the other Brigade score came when Lee was behind 30-7 when Merritt hit Williams with an 8-yard TD pass. Letner then passed to Kyle for the two-point conversion.

Coaches Ernie Johnson and Tim Whalen were disappointed with the play of the team which just made too many mistakes. "They (OHS) played a lot of juniors that were big and fast, said Whalen. "In fact, we stunk up

Lee lost three our four players early in the game with injuries. Linebacker David Cornelius suffered a dislocated thumb while quarterback Barry Corley's knee was also injured during the

The victory gives the OHS JV a 4-0 record while Lee is now 1-2 on the year and next faces the San Angelo JV in San Angelo, a week from Saturday at 1:15 p.m.

LUBBOCK - Lubbock Dunbar quarterback Daryl Green hooked up with Geoffry Crawford for a 77-yard first quarter touchdown pass and ran 11 yards for an insurance score in the fourth period as Dunbar downed Lamesa, 14-3, here Thursday night.

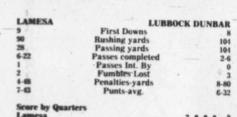

James Goolsby got Lamesa on the scoreboard first with a 24-yard field goal and a 3-0 lead.

But Dubar wasted no time in taking the lead for good when Green zipped the scoring pass to Crawford. Robert Tolbert's extra point made it 7-3.

The two teams battled scorelessly for the second and third period before Green added the only other score of the game in the final period. It was the first win in five tries for Dunbar. Lamesa fell to 1-4. Lamesa produced only 118 yards total offense while Dunbar had 208. Lamesa, however, had nine first downs to Dunbar's eight.

Lamesa will host Lubbock Estacado next Friday in their last non-conference game of the year.

Ranger Junior College erupts for 37-14 win

By Bob Dillon

Ranger Junior College erupted for 23 second half points to down the University of New Mexico junior varsity, 37-14, Thursday night before a small crowd in Memorial Stadium in football action.

Alvin Cartwright and Delbert Thompson, a pair of transfers from the University of Texas, sparked the Rangers to their third victory in four games while New Mexico was losing its first game of the year in four

UNM scored first in the opening period when former Brownwood, Tex. standout, quarterback Nathan Allen, sscored from 12 yards out on a broken play when the freshman went back to pass and then saw an opening and scampered in for the TD. Keith Adle booted the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 1:36 left in the opening period. Ranger came back to tie the game in the second quarter on a six-yard TD run by Thompson, a quick, 6-foot-2, 210-pounder. John Calgame, 7-7 with 5:04 left in the first

The Rangers scored once more before halftime with a 56-yard pass from quarterback David Wortham to split end Walter Turner, setting up the score. Wortham went in from the one and Calderon's PAT made it 14-7 in favor of the Rangers at intermis-The Loboes struck quickly in the third period to get back into the game when Allen hit wide receiver Larry Hogan, a 200-pounder from Tucson. Ariz., on a beautiful 70-yard TD bomb. ### Corrales has only two firm rules

DALLAS (AP) - The free-wheeling millionaires on the Texas Rangers baseball team should be happy now. Pat Corrales only has two rules: a, get to the park on time; b, hustle.

Billy Hunter was fired Sunday by majority owner Brad Corbett because "he didn't have the ability to communicate with the players.

Corbett had an underling "communicate" the news to Hunter.

Hunter, making considerably less than most of his players, had the gall to suggest a few rules defining where alcohol could and could not be con sumed. This was too much for some of the Rangers.

PITCHER DOCK Ellis sent a handwritten "release" to the press box by runner last June. It stated: "I fee! that some of these rules are juvenile and not for Tgrown men.'

Hunter was furious and wanted Ellis gone, N-O-W. Corbett, who openly admits he coddles players besides digging deep for a $2.6 million payroll, said he would take care of the Ellis situation by a trade.

Hunter waited and waited and waited until Sunday.

"Now Ellis is still here and I'm gone," he said. Corbett, a plastic pipe manufacturer who Billy Martin once said, "knows about as much about baseball as I do plastic pipe," had a ready explana-

"We had a bitter team," said Corbett, "8Baseball has changed and sports have changed. It's a new game. You have to adapt or die."

THERE IS some question the Rangers were a "bitter" team as Corbett suggests considering that even jour-ney players like Kurt Bevacqua were making at least $65,000 a year on a four-year contract.

Catcher Jim Sundberg says it is ridiculous to blame Hunter for finishing five games behind Kansas City in the American League Western Divithey are blaming our year on him," said Sundberg. "I for one certainly don't think it should be blamed on him. It's a poor excuse for a player to blame it on the manager. It's a good cop-out."

"By firing him like this it looks like

Corrales, the third base coach, is a favorite of the Ranger players. He also has never had any previous experience managing in the big leagues except losing a doubleheader last year when the Rangers went through five managers in one season.

Rangers down Rankin, 26-6

Joe Mobley scored three touch-downs and kicked an extra point to lead Greenwood's Rangers to a 26-6 win over the Rankin JV's Thursday while Rankin Junior High defeated Greenwood Junior High, 46-14.

Mobley's first TD came on a 35yard run up the middle and later in the first period he caught a 21-yard pass from Homer Lopez for a touchdown. Mobley converted after the second TD to make it 13-0.

Mobley's 13-yard run and Lopez' conversion made it 20-0 at half while Vondell Wolffolk returned a punt 73 yards in the third period for Greenwood's final score.

The win gives the Rangers a 4-0 record. Defensive standouts for the Rangers were Oscar Lopez, Ronnie Taior, Mobley and Tommy Pyle. Greenwood Junior High is now 0-4.

MC season cage tickets to go on sale Monday

Season tickets for the 1978-79 Midland College home basketball season go on sale Monday, it was announced by MC Athletic Director Delnor

Ticket prices are $20 for an individ-ual, $30 for a couple and $40 for a family. Season tcikets are for 11 single games plus a two-day tournament. Single game tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children ages three to 18. Fulltime MC students are admitted free.

"We feel this is going to be an exciting year for Chaparral basketball fans," Poss noted. "First, the team will be playing in the marvelous new Chaparral Center for the first time. Coach Jerry Stone recruited some outstanding players to go with his returning lettermen. And we know that action in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference is always fast-paced and competitive.'

Season tickets are available from the MC athletic department in the Physical Education building, Stadium Sports, 2040 Cuthbert, or Taylor Sporting Good, 603, W. Missouri. They also will be on sale the first two games of the season.

"OUR PLAYERS are really excited about playing in the Chaparral Center," Stone said. "Sophomores watched it being built last year and the freshmen saw it being finished up this spring and summer when they visited the campus. The building is going to be excellent for basketball. The floor is lively, the lighting is good, the acoustics are excellent and the new scoreboard is great. We can hardly wait until the season begins."

The Chaps open their season with a pair of non-conference games at home aganst McMurry College junior var-sity Nov. 8 and Wayland College JV Nov. 14. Then they have tournaments in Odessa and Scottsdale, Ariz. The Chaps have 18 WJCAC games plus the Chaparral Classic Nov. 30-Dec. 1 and the ABC Classic in Big Spring in January.

Foo-delphia can't win it

The Los Angeles Times Syndicate

PHILADELPHIA -"Foo-delphia," the natives call it. The town that isn't New York - but the climate's just as bad. A loser's town. Its heyday was the British occupation. Ben Franklin slept here. Its chief tourist attraction is a cracked bell. W.C. Fields said he preferred Forest Lawn, all things considered. A generation of vaudevillians noted it was closed on weekends. And not very open the rest of the week.

They used to have great baseball teams here. But nobody in Philadelphia cared. Connie Mack had to sell them off. Philadelphia preferred teams that were like the rest of the town - second rate. They'd rather boo in Philadelphia. Excellence annoys them. Competence, even, bores them. They want somebody to blame, not praise.

The Phillies are a perfect team for them - not very good but good enough to get to where their incompetence shows up - and matters. Philadelphia loves the Phillies. Every strikeout, every two-base error. They come to bury Caesar, not to praise

The Phillies never disappoint them. They get in a World Series once every 50 years — and lose it as fast as they can. Like Philadelphia, their team is just something to hurry through.

ON PAPER, the Philadelphia team couldn't win in the old Pacific Coast League. They have no pitching. They don't have a single .300 hitter. They have two first basemen. The average age of the pithing staff is about the same as the old soldier's home prostate ward.

This is a team 2 Philly fan can sink his teeth into. For Philadelphia, this was a team made in heaven. It was born to be yelled at. It couldn't win a pennant in any league that didn't have the Cubs in it. The team moves just faster than junk mail. The manager forgot to put a leftfielder in with a 2-run lead in the top of the ninth last year. Phillie fans love that. Gives them something to throw beer cans

It is the view of no less a scholar than Frank Edwin "Tug" McGraw who is an authority on the subject by virtue of having been a relief pitcher for both the New York Mets and the Phils that it is frustration that drives the anvil chorus of Philadelphia. "You've got to remember New York had the Yankees all those years and then the Dodgers and Giants and, then, the Mets won. These people haven't won a pennant since 1950 and they had to live through 1964 and it has scarred them.'

It was in 1964 that the Phils had a 7-game lead at the end of September and just enough games left to blow that lead and then some. It was the biggest curtain-call pratfall in baseball history. Tickets had been not only printed but distributed for the World Series, hotels were booked, starting rotations discussed. Then the Phils disappered like the Titanic.

THE MANAGER, Danny Ozark, probably the most second-guessed creature this side of a man with two mother-in-laws thinks the problem is over-education. "The fans know a lot about baseball but they think they know more than they do. In fact, they think they know more than you do.". Ozark, who spent his apprenticeship with the Dodgers in the Alston years, the sweetheart-relationship years, thought, at first, they had mixed him up with Jack the Ripper. The press seized on his malaprops as proof Danny didn't know the infieldfly rule thoroughly enough. The "Fire Ozark" column was staple fare for the morning headlines. The cleanup man went 0-for-4, the pitcher served up gopher balls all night, the infield threw double-play balls in the seats and the town had a solution - fire the

The Phils were overmatched in the 1976 playoff series. But they took the first game from the Dodgers last year and had a 5-3 lead with two out and nobody on base in the third game. The poor patrons had to sit there and watch a pair of octogenarians bounce balls over the outfield and through the infield for a 3-run Dodger rally and win, and they had to sit in the steady rain the next night as their hitters glumly took called third strikes and another playoff loss.

EVEN IF it were a tropic paradise with swimming pools gleaming in the sun and hibiscus curled around the front porch and ukeleles strumming in the canoes out on the reef, this kind of steady disappointment would be hard to live with. But Philadelphia isn't Maui. It isn't even Fort Worth, to be truthful about it. It's a nice place to park the truck and change your socks or unload a freighter.

In L.A., the fans go home in the seventh inning, win or lose. Around the league, they boo the other guys. But Philly is the only town where they boo BOTH teams.

They came to the ball park in their "Well, how will we louse up this year?" They're all ready with 'Ozark, yer a bum!" the first bleeder that trickles through the infield. Their all-star third baseman is a man who has hit 190 home runs, some of them 2 miles long and 8 miles up. He bears the brunt of the self hate in the stands. Not that anybody escapes. You could cut the venom with a sword. They are insulating themselves against defeat with abuse — also with beer.

But Philadelphia isn't Palm Springs and the 1978 Phillies aren't the 1927 Yankees and 63,460 showed up for the opening of the championship series fearing the worst. The Phillies didn't let them down. They were bearing down out there. They had a tradition to uphold. W.C. Fields would have been proud of them. They leaped into a 1-0 lead. They always do that. Then, they began running around squirting seltzer bottles, hitting each other with rubber bladders. The Phillies are like the fall guy in Tom and Jerry cartoons. They think they're the ones doing the chasing when all of a sudden there's the outline of their body going through a wall and they're dancing in mid-air off a

DANNY OZARK started a pitcher named Larry Christensen for reasons best known to himself and Larry was a true Phillie. By the sixth inning, the Dodgers had hit three home runs, two triples and a double. The Phils must get their pitchers out of gopher holes

It all came as no surprise to the fans in the cheap seats. It was like going to a picture where you've read the book. Or to a mystery where you know who did it.

"Phoo-delphia" wouldn't have it any other way. Their team which used to be known in the Sporting News as the "Futile Phils" or the "Phoolish Phils" has not forgotten the act.

THE THIRD baseman let a soft hopper go through his legs. The centerfielder got at least an assist on the two triples. When the pitchers weren't giving up triples and homers they were hitting batters.

It was as inartistic as a Bulldog Drummond movie, but the Phils, as usual, sank to the occasion. A pity, Because the World Series could use a laugh. And the Phils against the Yanks could make the world forget Charlie Chaplin. A laugh an inning.

God must have spent a weekend in Philadelphia once. That's why a burned fan stared heavenward as the sixth Dodger extra-base hit sailed into the stands in the sixth inning and roared "Us again, huh God?" But then, this is Philadelphia. Even the British gve it up without a fight. And, as Robert E. Lee said when he retreated from Gettysburg: "Oh, well, this means we won't have to spend

Oklahoma's irresistible force to conquer immovable object

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Once again, we have the irresistible force against the immovable object.

The irresistible force is Oklahoma's offense. The immovable object is the Texas defense. The twain shall meet Saturday in Dallas, the 73rd confrontation in the Red River border war between the two states. Oklahoma's famed and fearsome wishbone has managed only six points in each of the last two shootouts - a touchdown in a 6-6 tie two years ago and two field goals in last year's 13-6 Texas victory. And from the way Coach Barry Switzer is talking, you get the impression he might not be surprised to see it happen again. "Texas has the greatest defense college football has had in the last two years," says Switzer. "And nine times out of 10, defense wins football games. That's why coaches want to have a great defense first. If the other people can't score, you've got a great chance to win regardless of how poor

Texas' Fred Akers isn't about to be soft-soaped by Switzer.

"I don't know of anything where you have that kind of percentage," Akers says, "but I hope he's right."

Speaking of being right, last week's score was 51 right, 19 wrong and 3 ties for a .729 percentage. For the season, it's 180-86-6-.677. And this week's leadoff prediction is ... Oklahoma 23, Nebraska at Iowa State: A duel between running backs Dexter Green of Iowa State and I.M. Hipp of ... Nebraska 27-20.

North Carolina State at Maryland: The Terrapins have already disposed of North Carolina's defending ACC champs. A victory here could set up a season-ending showdown with Clemson ... Maryland 20-14.

Stanford at UCLA: If Tulane can hold Stanford's explosive offense to 17 points, so can ... UCLA 27-17. Arizona at Michigan: "In past

Rice, Guidry share honors

NEW YORK (AP) - Slugger Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankee pitching ace Ron Guidry are co-winners of the sixth annual Cronin Award for "distinguished achievement" in the American League this season.

"To select a single winner this year would be grossly unfair," said AL President Lee MacPhail in announcing the selection Thursday. "Both Rice and Guidry have enjoyed remarkable seasons of such magnitude that this joint presentation was man-

It is the first time that dual winners have been named in the history of the award, named for retired American League president and Hall of Famer

While leading the Yankees to the AL East title this season, Guidry established a host of records in 1978, including the highest major league winning perentage for pitchers with 20 or more victories. Guidry had a 25-3 record for an .893 percentage. Also, his 1.74 earned run average was the lowest for a left-hander (tied with Sandy Koufax) since Carl Hubbell's 1.66 in 1933 and second lowest in AL history. Dutch Leonard had 1.01 in Guidry's 248 strikeouts this season was the most ever by a Yankee, as were his nine shutouts. His major league-leading shutout total tied Babe Ruth for the all-time league record for left-handers Rice had his biggest year with Boston, leading the majors in six categories - hits (213), total bases (406), triples (15), home runs (46), runs batted in (139) and slugging percentage (.600). Rice became the first player in history to lead his league in homers. triples and RBI. He was second in the majors in runs scored with 117. Rice was the first in the AL to reach

400 total bases since Joe DiMaggio in HOUSTON (AP) - Shipp. When Pastorini ie Earl Campbell, who Houston Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini isn't calling all of his plays and offensive coordinator Ken Shipp has resigned but don't expect a drastic change in the Oilers game plan for Sunday against the Oakland Raiders.

"You won't be able to tell the difference," said Oilers Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips, who assumed the added duties of offensive coordinator when Shipp resigned under fire Monday. 'Everything went smooth (in workouts this week). Hell, I knew it would. I don't want this to sound bad, but we didn't miss Kenny a bit, just like they won't miss me or anybody else when we're gone. People have a way of adjusting to change and gettting on with what they have to

The Oilers will be getting on without Shipp Sunday when they try to improve their 3-2 record against the Raiders in Oakland.

Shipp, whose conservative philosophy clashed with that of Pastorini, resigned Monday following a week of controversy over Pastorini's play-calling in a 10-6 loss to Los Angeles two weeks

Junior students may register for PSAT beginning Monday

Junior year students at both Lee and Midland high schools may register for the Oct. 28 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test starting Monday, said a spokesman for the Midland Independent School District

The registration procedure for the test will continue until all available laces have been reserved, said the spokesman No fee is required at the time one registers for the test, but a $4 fee must be paid at the time the student takes

Because both high schools will have a limited number of tests available, students must register early to make sure a place is set aside for them, said the spokesman.

Additional instructions will be available on reporting time, testing location, and the length of the testing

A copy of the 1978 PSAT-NMSQT Student Bulletin will also be given to

Midland and Lee High School students will be joining one million pupils around the world in taking the PSAT-NMSQT, according to Gene Isaacs, head counselor at Lee High

He said the test measures verbal and mathematical aptitude - two abilities important in doing college

The test can also lead to other opportunities for high school students, said Isaacs. He said students can ask to participate in the College Board's Student Search Service which helps colleges learn about students like them.

By taking the PSAT-NMSQT students can enter the compettion for scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and pupils can also receive a good idea of what the Scholastic Aptitude Test is like, noted Isaacs.

Isaacs suggested junior year students take the test, since the National Merit Scholarship competition begins with this examination, and the National Merit semifinalists are named in September of the senior year on the basis of scores obtained on the junior year PSAT-NMSQRT.

The test also will be available to a limited number of sophomore students, even though the exam is not as important to sophomores as to jun-

Control of drug smuggling sought by Hill, DEA director

Eastern seaboard drug smugglers are increasingly appearing in Texas, according to U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration Director Peter Ben-

In a joint news conference held by Texas Attorney General John Hill and Bensinger earlier this week, both men advocated the formation of a task force to control sea and air routes used by drug traffickers.

More than 70 state law enforcement officials and their federal counterparts attending a three-day antismuggling conference in Corpus Christi discussed methods to choke off the flow of illegal drugs into

Because drug smugglers in the east, especially in Florida, have encountered stiff law enforcement resistance, "We are now seeing some of the traffic shift to the Texas Gulf Coast," said Bensinger.

He predicted the highly organized and well-financed traffickers will succeed in Texas unless authorities develop "an element of unity and an information exchange that is desperately needed."

Bensinger said recent East Coast seizures include two million pounds of marijuana, 1,000 pounds of cocaine, 82 mother ships and 462 defendants.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said troopers confiscated approximately 122,000 pounds of marijuana in 1977, compared to a total of about 30,502 pounds in 1976, and even less in 1975 and 1974, according to a recent report listing amounts of drugs seized in those years statewide by the

Law spells out testing conditions

By ROBERT LOCKE

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Donna Horney says she started having problems a few weeks after she began taking experimental birth control pills.

First it was a rash and that turned into acne, said Mrs. Horney, 31. She said her menstrual periods stopped, her hair started falling out in clumps and one leg sometimes was numb. Then, she said, she developed occasional twitches in her left eye and her vision sometimes blurred.

The problems are disappearing now, but, "I feel like I was really being used," the Los Angeles mother of two girls said in an interview. "I wouldn't have taken that pill if I had known what was going to happen.'

Such experiences, says the Institute for the Study of Medical Ethics, explain why California recently passed the nation's first state law requiring informed consent for subjects of medical experiments and providing penalties if violations occur.

The Los Angeles-based organization, which claims about 200 dues-paying members, used a series of "horror stories" such as Mrs. Horney's to press its long fight for the bill. The measure, sponsored by Democratic Assemblyman Herschel Rosenthal, was approved during the summer and becomes effective Jan. 1. 'What this new law means," Rosenthal said, "is that they've got to tell you what the experiments's about; they've got to tell you all the side-effects they know about; they've got to tell you where you can get help if one of these things happens to you, and you ought to be able to withdraw from an experiment at "Basically, it says that if I explain it to you and then I sign my name and you sign your name, then when you walk out of there you can't say I didn't The U.S. House of Representatives, meanwhile, is considering Senate-passed legislation to establish an independent commission to review human experimentation that involves federal agencies. The commission would have no direct regulatory authority but would make recommendations and force public discussion of the subject, said Robert Wenger of the Senate's health and scientific research

He said hearings by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., documented scientific abuses and showed that human experiments must be closely moni-
