ERA granted time extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jubilant backers of the Equal Rights Amendment were given three more years to win ratification of the ERA on Friday and immediately predicted a new momentum that could carry them to victory.

But disappointed opponents of the amendment said the extension will be challenged in the courts, adding that they are confident the states that have refused to ratify the proposal will stand firm until the ERA dies.

The Senate completed action on the unprecedented extension Friday, voting 60-36 to extend the time limit for ratification until June 30, 1982. The deadline had been March 22, 1979.

A parliamentary question remained over whether the extension requires President Carter's signature. Since Carter lobbied personally for the measure, however, the question is merely procedural.

The Senate margin was larger than expected, only four votes short of the two-thirds majority that opponents of the extension had argued was necessary for its passage.

Democrats voted for the extension by nearly a 3-1 margin, 44 favoring it and 15 voting against it. Republicans were more evenly divided, 16 voting for and 21 voting against. The House approved the extension 233-189 in August.

Proponents of the extension jubilantly predicted the ERA will be hammered into the Constitution, perhaps even before the original deadline next spring.

"The momentum is very, very strong right now," said Eleanor Smeal, head of the National Organization for Women.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the chief Senate sponsor of the extension, said the vote should be interpreted by the states as a "reaffirmation by the Congress of the basic principles and objectives of the ERA."

But Phyllis Schlafly, head of Stop ERA, predicted the 15 states that have not ratified will continue to resist the ERA and that additional states will rescind their ratifications.

Congress originally set a seven-year time limit on the ERA, as it did on eight of the 26 constitutional amendments that have been adopted. It set no time limits before 1917.

The ERA, outlawing discrimination on grounds of sex, has been ratified by 35 state legislatures. It must be ratified by 38 to become part of the Constitution.

States that have not ratified the ERA are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Utah and Virginia.

Idaho, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia have voted to rescind their ratifications, although the vote in Kentucky was vetoed.

Bush questions use of CETA funds

The Comprehensive Employment Training Act "is a good concept," Congressional hopeful George W. Bush said Friday, but the program is "causing some West Texans to be disturbed with it."

Bush, seeking the 19th Congressional District seat, spoke to members of the Community Action Agency attending a regional meeting at the Sheraton Inn. The region stretches from El Paso to Abilene.

The Republican nominee is running against Lubbock attorney Kent Hance, the Democrats' candidate. George Mahon is retiring from the seat he has held 44 years.

Use of CETA funds is what has disturbed Bush, he said, citing as an example that city councilmen in Buffalo, N.Y. are paid with CETA funds. "I don't want West Texans' hard-earned tax dollars to fund the Buffalo City Council," he said.

Federal government's bureaucracy and its tendency to have more control over what local agencies are doing were reasons cited by Bush as the root of many problems.

House Bill 7577 is a redefinition of CETA funding, but leans toward more Washington control over the program, Bush said. The ratio of federal to local funding has been 70 to 30, and the bill proposes to change it to 80 to 20.

"Money is power and this (increased ratio) means less local citizen participation in what goes on locally," Bush said. "You need to say to local governments that you have that responsibility to fund it and participate in it. It will give you a feeling of dignity and self-pride."

Increasing government control tends to discourage more local participation, he noted.

Inflation is the worst problem of people on fixed incomes, he said. "The middle class becomes more inaccessible to people in the lower class. Everytime they earn a dollar, it puts them into a higher tax bracket."

While salaries have doubled in the past 10 years, taxes have tripled, Bush noted.

The federal government is destroying people's self-motivation to work harder because of higher taxes and inflation, Bush gave the example of Jesse Jackson, a Los Angeles man who preaches self-motivation to people in the lower income groups.

"If the economic pie shrinks, those who have no piece won't have a chance to get a piece," he said.

The public works bill vetoed by President Carter was not the answer to today's unemployment, according to Bush. Instead, there would be more stability if private industry initiated more jobs, he said.

There has been too much reliance by the people for the federal government to solve people's problems, Bush said. "In my view, individuals need to solve their own problems. The federal government hurts what we are trying to achieve."

But one man in the audience took issue with Bush over the concept of relying upon private industry to provide more work. Industry had failed to provide the needed jobs, he said, and that is why it was up to the federal government to do something.

In reply, Bush said relying upon the federal government tends toward socialism "and it wouldn't be any more fair to the people. Our country has redistributed its money better than any other country in the world, but I realize it (the United States) isn't perfect."

During the daylong session, other speakers included Jerome Vack, president of the Texas Association of Community Action Agency Directors, Mike Baca, executive director of Project Bravo in El Paso, and Jim Mohler with the Tom Green County Community Action Council.

Midland Community Action Agency, headed by Alexandra Morris, was the host group.

Strike spreads to 408 inmates at Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A strike by some inmates at the Texas prison system spread Friday to include 408 prisoners at the Ellis Unit, a Department of Corrections spokesman said.

Ron Taylor, administrative assistant for the TDC in Huntsville, said 260 more of the unit's 2,388 inmates requested permission to join the already striking prisoners in the Ellis Unit courtyard.

The action began at noon Thursday when 148 prisoners refused to eat, return to work or go to their cells at the unit, just north of Huntsville. The inmates who started the action have not eaten since then.

Taylor said TDC officials agreed to allow the other inmates to join the strikers in the yard Friday evening.

Taylor also said 339 prisoners that work in the fields at the Ramsey unit near Houston had refused Friday to go to work. He said, however, those inmates complied with TDC requests to go to their cells without incident.

Another 209 inmates at the Darrington unit, near Angleton south of Houston, also struck in sympathy with the Ellis prisoners Thursday but returned to their cells a few hours later.

Spokesmen for the prisoners said they were attempting to gain publicity for a prisoners' class action suit against the TDC, alleging officials have subjected inmates to cruel and inhumane treatment.

The suit is being heard in federal court in Houston, and prisoners have demanded to talk with news reporters there.

Taylor said there have been no physical confrontations between inmates and officials at any of strike sites.

Officials hoped cold weather moving in and possible rain might force the prisoners back to their cells.

Taylor said the Darrington strikers have been charged with violation of department rules and regulations.

The shutdown started after the noon meal Thursday at both units.

At the Ellis unit the striking inmates gathered in the yard and told Warden R.M. Cousins they wanted to talk to reporters and to a representative of TDC Director W.J. Estelle.

Taylor and reporters from the Huntsville Item met with a group about 5:30 p.m.

"We are in sympathy with the Ruiz case and with Judge Justice and we hope prison officials will not retaliate for this action," said prisoner Dan Kimathy, 28, serving 75 years from Dallas County.

He referred to the class action suit brought by David Ruiz. Ruiz' suit and seven others challenging the way the Texas prison system is operated is being heard by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler.

The inmates said their action was "nothing personal against Warden Cousins, we just want to talk about the Ruiz case."

The prisoners complained about what they claimed was a lack of communication, brutality, inadequacy of the legal services room and inferior medical services.

It's 'battle' time again!

DALLAS (AP) — In the annual prelude to the Oklahoma-Texas football game, Dallas police took on determined revelers Friday night in the Battle of Commerce Street.

Police expected to make around 250 arrests for drunkenness and other illegal behavior.

Some 1,776 man-hours were to be logged by officers at a cost of around $20,000.

The Friday frolicking is a ritual performed on Commerce Street in downtown Dallas, in the heart of the hotel area. The Saturday clash between the University of Oklahoma and the University of Texas serves as an excuse for the party.

Those arrested will pay an average bail of $30 to keep from seeing the sights in the local lockup. They will not be the only drunks, but they will be the ones who made spectacles of themselves, leaving police little choice.

Party goers are not limited to out-of-towners. Generally, they fall into three categories:

— They are Oklahoma fans determined to tell everyone that Oklahoma is better than Texas — not just the football team, but the whole state.

— They are Texas fans determined to tell everyone that Texas is better than Oklahoma — not just the football team, but the whole state.

— They love to party and watch people from Texas and Oklahoma mix it up on downtown streets.

For the uninitiated, the Friday night preceding the game is a big deal, probably bigger than the game.

Genteel alumni go to parties in expensive homes or clubs and poke gentle fun at one another while betting occasionally large sums of money.

Not-so-genteel alumni fill the hotels (no one will have them for houseguests) and start parading around Commerce Street poking gentle fists at one another while betting the mortgage on the house.

Some of the latter group have been known to hurl things from hotel windows, causing street revelers to keep a wary eye toward the heavens.

Police say property damage seems to be getting less and less every year, and some veterans of the affair will tell you that the whole thing is getting more tame.

Wonder why the city puts up with it at an annual cost of around $20,000?

Well, the game attracts at least 100,000 out-of-towners every year. If they spend $50 each, and they will, the Dallas economy will come out of it with a few broken windows, some hurt feelings, a little vandalism and some out-and-out violence — and $5 million.

U.N. Security Council issues call for cease-fire

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. Security Council called Friday night for a cease-fire in Lebanon aimed at "internal peace and national reconciliation."

Members of the 15-nation council agreed on the text of the resolution in private consultations during the day, while Syrian and Christian forces launched bloody but futile attacks on each other's positions in embattled Beirut.

In one of the shortest meetings on record, lasting only three minutes, the council unanimously adopted a cease-fire resolution the United States and Kuwait had negotiated with other council members.

The resolution: "Calls upon all those involved in hostilities in Lebanon to put an end to acts of violence and observe scrupulously an immediate and effective cease-fire."

"Calls upon all involved to permit units of the International Committee of the Red Cross into the area of conflict to evacuate the wounded and provide humanitarian assistance."

Testimony challenged; dam hearing recessed

AUSTIN — Hearing by the Texas Water Commission on Colorado River Municipal Water District's application for construction of Stacy Reservoir recessed Friday, following additional testimony by engineer S.W. Frease on population projections.

Lower Colorado River Authority attorney Conrad Werkenthin attempted to have Frease's testimony stricken from the record on grounds Frease had simply taken figures prepared by the Department of Water Resources without independently verifying their accuracy.

Werkenthin argued that the agency had changed its figures between October 1976 and September of this year to show that Midland County would have 154,300 residents in the year 2030 instead of the 83,100 first projected.

Doesn't the change, Werkenthin asked, "give you any qualms?"

"Not for something that's 50 or 60 years in the future," Frease replied — agreeing upon further questioning from Werkenthin that "I guess it's still a guess."

Frease denied, however, Werkenthin's assertion that CRMWD General Manager Owen Ivey had "intervened" with DWR and had had the population figures revised upward.

"We didn't do any such thing," Frease said.

Werkenthin contended the figures, exhibits prepared from them, and Frease's testimony regarding them

Weather forecast designed for those with outdoor plans

Midlanders who have scheduled a weekend outdoors probably can go ahead with their plans as the weatherman has predicted only a 20 percent chance of showers and thundershowers today and tonight.

While some precipitation could fall in the Permian Basin today, the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport said there should be no chance for rain Sunday, although it should warm up to the 80s.

Big Spring State Hospital to host alcoholism seminar

BIG SPRING — The Big Spring State Hospital will conduct the 35th alcoholism seminar starting at 8 a.m. Friday when registration takes place, said a spokesman.

The session will take place in the hospital's auditorium with seminars being made available through the facility and in conjunction with Howard College.

Dr. Barbara L. Smith of the Los Angeles County Employees Assistance Program will be a consultant for this day-long seminar.

Both alcoholism counselors and citizens are welcome to attend to learn more about this problem, said a spokesman.

The session starts at 9 a.m. and a registration fee of $1 will be charged with an additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive continuing education units from Howard College.

Persons wishing to receive academic credit for attendance should remain the full day, said the spokesman.

For more details, persons should talk to Clyde J. Alsup, training officer for the Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Program at Big Spring State Hospital.

Major denies he, city officials involved in alleged harassment

BIG SPRING — Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate Friday denied allegations that he or any other city official has been involved in harassment against those residents who signed a petition calling for a bond election here.

Choate specifically termed as "false information" a charge by a reserve police officer that the mayor had accused the officer of circulating a petition, an action which city employees are forbidden to do.

The mayor said he knew nothing about any of the 567 people who signed the petition being intimidated in any way.

He added the petition would not interfere with the city's plans to issue up to $2.2 million in certificates of obligation for the construction of an airplane hangar at Big Spring Industrial Park, a major step to attracting Lockheed Aircraft Corp. to the city.

Choate predicted construction of the hangar, estimated to cost as much as $1.8 million ($1 million from a federal grant), will be completed by February of next year.

"I don't think we'll hear anything more from the (state) attorney general until the certificates have been approved. I don't expect to hear anything more on the petition," Choate said.

"The petition only applies to Big Spring and will have no impact on the project. It's of no status whatsoever. The time when the petition should have been filed has long since passed.

Weather forecast designed for those with outdoor plans

High Friday was 69 degrees, only 10 degrees warmer than the overnight low of 59 degrees. Record high for Oct. 6 is 96 degrees set in 1937. Record low for today is 38 degrees set in 1976.

High today should reach into the middle 70s, with the mercury dropping near 60 tonight, the weatherman said.

Southeasterly winds should be at 10 to 20 mph today.

Fire Prevention Week: It's time to think in terms of fire safety

America leads the world in fire deaths with more than 12,000 victims each year.

Midland City Fire Department officials said $273,145 in fire losses were recorded here in 1977.

Over the last five years $938,764 in fire losses were recorded locally as compared to $2,595,932 in insurance premiums.

That accounts for a 36 percent ratio of fire losses in Midland to insurance premiums paid. In fact, officials said last year there were 308 actual fires in Midland County compared to 1,182 in the city of Midland.

"The main reason for a decrease in fire losses over the past five year period is because people are becoming more fire prevention conscious," said Fire Chief Raymond Lewis of the Midland Fire Department.

Lewis said many people can no longer afford to insure their homes to rebuild them. "More people are taking precautions to avoid fires, such as using smoke detector alarms. We've placed a lot of emphasis on these in past years, but we don't recommend one brand over the other," said Lewis.

Fire Prevention Week kicks off nationwide Oct. 8-14 and the Midland Fire Department plans to be doing its share to tell the public the importance of thinking in terms of safety concerning this hazard.

As part of Fire Prevention Week 10 Midland Independent School District students received awards for their fire safety posters in an annual contest. It was sponsored by the Independent Insurance Agents of Midland and the Midland Fire Department.

First place winners took home trophies and a $25 U.S. Savings Bond, second place winners won ribbons and $15 and those who placed third received ribbons and $10. The 15 winners were selected from among 2,000 entries this year, said a Midland Fire Department spokesman.

Special Education winners were Robert Valencia, first, Austin Freshman School; Alan Rany, second, Austin Freshman School, and Abdon Ramos Vigil, third, also of Austin.

Primary division winners in kindergarten through third grade were Julie Greaves, first, Emerson Elementary; Chris Simar, second, Emerson; and Kevin Wallum, third, Midland Christian School.

Intermediate division winners in fourth through sixth grades were Kevin Hancock, first, Emerson Elementary; Robert Kowert, second, South Elementary, and Steven Rowland, third, Emerson Elementary.

Junior high division winners in seventh and eighth grades were Cathy Shelly, first, Goddard Junior High; Carol Cappadonna, second, Goddard Junior High, and Pam Gibbs, third, Goddard Junior High.

High school division winners were Jeff Dillard, Lee High; Teresa Flores, second, Midland High, and Patty Williams, third, Midland High.

Contest judges were Wayne Runkles of the Independent Insurance Agents of Midland; Fire Chief Raymond Lewis; Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith; Midland Mayor Pro Tempore G. Thane Akins and Midland County Judge Blake Hansen.

"Squeaky" the clown has volunteered to appear at schools this week when firemen conduct prevention programs in local schools.

"The fewer fires you have, the more lives you save and the more property you save," said Assistant Fire Marshal Jerry Petree. "That's what Fire Prevention Week is all about. Fire prevention is something we should work at all year around. Fire Prevention Week is a time we try to focus on the hazard."

Officials said fire prevention tips and literature are available at the Midland Fire Department throughout the year. Fireman also are available to conduct fire prevention inspections and give advice on the subject.

Program includes special education, gifted student programs, bilingual education and vocational education.

The finance issues to be studied are teacher compensation, pupil-teacher ratio and equalization.

Accountability consists of goals for education, student testing, teacher competency and classroom discipline.

Committee hearing scheduled at airport education facility

A hearing for all subcommittees on John Hill's Committee on Education is scheduled Thursday, Nov. 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Region 18 Education Service Center at the Midland Regional Airport.

The commission met Monday to begin planning for public hearings on education in Texas. Hearings are planned for Midland, Odessa, Iraan, Big Lake and other areas.

Results of the committee's work is to be used by Hill to formulate his recommendations for public school education, said Lucius Bunton, chairman of the Region Eight Trans-Pecos committee.

Region Eight includes Andrews, Martin, Howard, Loving, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Glascock, Sterling, Reeves, Ward, Crane, Upton, Reagan, Iraan, Pecos, Crockett and Terrell counties.

Region Eight has channelled its discussions into several areas. Dr. J.W. Donaldson, Midland, serves as chairman of the finance section; Russell McMeans, Stanton, is chairman of the program committee; Raymond Legg, Midland, heads the accountability group.

Other committee members are Marilyn Baker, Jim Leeper, Mike

Moore, Dr. James Mailey and Marion Sell of Midland, Linda Blaydes of Big Lake, Bill Holm of Odessa, Kermit Sorrells of Iraan and Sidney Sadler of Pecos.

"We hope that many people will participate in the work of the committee and attend the hearings," Bunton said.

The public hearings will cover three main areas: programs, finance and accountability.

More than 90 percent of interstates now open

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Transportation reported Friday that 91.9 percent of the planned 42,500-mile interstate highway system now is open to traffic.

Total cost of the road network is estimated presently at $104.3 billion. Most recent cost estimates indicate that 68.3 percent of the total cost had been obligated as of June 30, DOT said in its quarterly report on the interstate system.

A total of 39,064 miles now is open to traffic. Of this total, 10,964 miles are complete or essentially complete, 1,881 still require major improvement to bring them to full standard, and 26,219 miles are under improvement or require additional minor work.

More women, fewer teen-agers hold jobs; Nation's jobless rate reaches 6 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, more than half the nation's adult women were in the labor market, but job losses by teen-agers pushed the unemployment rate up to 6 percent last month, the government reported Friday.

TESCO to teach weatherstripping

"Operation Tighten-Up," a series of programs on weatherstripping for the homeowners, will be held at 7 p.m. each Tuesday and at 1:30 p.m. each Thursday in the Texas Electric Service Co. Building in Midland, said TESCO Manager C.W. Barclay.

"We will show how to weatherstrip around doors and windows, use caulking guns, and other methods of tightening up which help home owners use energy more efficiently," he said.

Barclay said TESCO is interested in reaching as many customers as possible "because we're trying to help them cope with the rising cost of energy."

The program will show residents how to make energy-saving home improvements and reduce waste in the heating and air conditioning of their homes.

"One of the more important tips provided by the program is that just two inches of properly-installed insulation in the attic could pay for itself in a year," Barclay said.

Program leaders also will demonstrate how to make storm windows out of plastic. Booklets giving tips on weatherstripping, caulking and insulation will be available at the meeting.

"A unique feature of the presentation is the audience participation. Interested members of the audience can actually get up and caulk a window or apply weatherstripping," Barclay said. "It's a great asset to anyone who is genuinely interested in energy conservation."

The Labor Department said the jobless rate rose from 5.9 percent of the work force to 6.0 percent in September. It marked the ninth straight month that the rate has hovered around 6 percent, ranging from 6.3 percent last January to 5.7 percent in June.

Both the number of adult women entering the job market and women finding jobs rose by nearly 500,000 during the month, the department said. But analysts said they could not explain the sharp gain during September.

The new figures boosted to 38 million the number of women who either held jobs or were looking for work, marking the first time more than half of all American women over 20 "were working or seeking work," the department said. It estimates that there are just under 76 million adult women in the country.

For the past decade, government analysts have recorded a steady rise in the number of women entering the labor market. Among the reasons cited are these: Women are having fewer children and thus are better able to work; new social trends have made women more career-oriented, and rising inflation has encouraged women to find jobs to increase family income.

Earlier this year, the government reported that a record 56 percent of adult and teen-age American women held either permanent or temporary jobs in 1977. But Friday's report was the first indication that more than 50 percent of the adult women were in the labor market.

Carter seeks Lebanon cease-fire

Three Christian militiamen stand on a street in the Asrafiyah area of east Beirut, which has been destroyed by shellfire from the heavy guns of Syrian troops of the Arab Peace Keeping Force. Heavy fighting continue between the two factions. (AP Laserphoto)

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian and Christian forces locked in a life-or-death struggle in Beirut launched bloody but futile attacks against each other's positions Friday and mortar shells struck just yards from the U.S. Embassy, wounding as many as 13 persons.

The Carter administration stepped up its diplomatic efforts to end the bloodshed in Lebanon, asking for a U.N. Security Council meeting in New York to call for a cease-fire and separation of forces. Continued violence and a deeper involvement by Israel on the side of the Christians could undermine the Camp David plan for a Mideast peace.

A U.S. spokesman at the United Nations said he expected overwhelming Security Council support for a cease-fire resolution as a result of contacts by President Carter with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and other world leaders.

Washington sources said the United States also was urging restraint on the part of Israel, whose gunboats late Thursday unexpectedly shelled Syrian-held west Beirut.

President Hafez Assad of Syria wound up a visit Friday to Moscow, where he reportedly received a note from Carter on the Lebanese situation.

Western diplomats in Moscow said a joint Syrian-Soviet communique's reference to "relevant decisions" on strengthening Syria's "defense potential" indicated Moscow had granted at least part of Assad's substantial military aid requests.

Both countries also condemned Israel's interference in Lebanon as an effort to "increase tensions and provoke a split of the Lebanese side."

Western diplomats in the Lebanese capital, speaking privately, blamed the U.S. Embassy shelling on Christians seeking to spur faster American action to end the furious five-day-old battle here between Syrian peace-keeping troops, who are trying to bring the private right-wing Christian militias under their control, and the Christians, who want the Syrians out of Lebanon.

Four shells landed close to the front of the embassy in Syrian-controlled west Beirut, a mostly Moslem area, witnesses said. Another shell struck near the adjacent West German Embassy. The witnesses said the blasts blew out the glass in a heavy metal door at the American embassy.

A U.S. Marine guard said six Lebanese employees of the embassy were wounded, none seriously. A State Department spokesman in Washington said two Marines and 11 Lebanese, some of them embassy employees, were wounded. The discrepancy in the reports was not explained.

Christian militiamen made repeated thrusts to dislodge Syrian troops from two key bridges guarding a main supply route to Christian east Beirut from the Christian heartland in northern Lebanon. But no major changes in ground positions were reported.

The Syrians reported destroying two World War II-vintage U.S. tanks that the Christians used in an assault on the Quarantine Bridge late Thursday.

The rightist "Voice of Lebanon" radio said Syrian forces tried to advance into the Christian quarters of Ashrafiyah, Ein Rumaneh and Hadath in east Beirut but were driven back. Intense fighting also was reported in hill resort areas northeast of the city and in the industrial suburb of Dor.

East Beirut was blanketed with black smoke from scores of fires.

Accurate casualty figures are difficult to obtain, but police sources estimated some 400 Lebanese had been killed and 600 wounded since the latest round of heavy fighting erupted early Monday. Palestinian sources said at least 150 Syrians had died, but Damascus released no casualty figures.

Proposed amendments to Texas' constitution gaining interest

By The Associated Press

Interest in the nine proposed constitutional amendments on the Nov. 7 ballot in Texas picked up Friday.

The Texas Association of School Administrators said it was supporting the "Tax Relief Amendment" and urged all Texas teachers and school administrators to do the same.

TASA President Delwin Webb, superintendent of the Abernathy district, said TASA believes that the proposal "contains meaningful property tax relief for individual citizens, home owners and the agricultural community of Texas without limiting the ability of locally-elected boards of education and school administrators to effectively manage the day-to-day operation of their respective school districts."

In Victoria, Democrat John Hill, nominee for governor, told the South Texas Chamber of Commerce that he endorsed Proposition No. 2. The amendment would allow local government to issue revenue bonds to permit local government financing of industrial facilities. He said cities in 46 other states have authority to issue revenue bonds for the purpose of industrial development and the creation of employment opportunities.

"The availability of such programs in other states puts Texas communities at a competitive disadvantage," Hill said.

Republican Bill Clements, also seeking the governorship, announced another 115 Democrats and independents supporting Clements. He said this made a total of 656 on the steering committee.

Clements' list included Mrs. William A. Blakley, Dallas, wife of the late former U.S. senator; Weldon Hart, Glen Rose, former press aide to Gov. Beauford Jester and Gov. Allan Shivers, and Sherry Martin Hill, Austin, daughter of the late Crawford Martin, former attorney general.

Hill's headquarters reported to the secretary of state Friday that the Democratic candidate has collected $1,474,656 since April 28 in the campaign, and spent $1,017,636. His office said a total of 12,000 Texans have contributed to Hill's campaign, including about 4,500 since April 28.

Rep. Bob Krueger, Democratic nominee for U.S. Senator, said Secretary of Interior Cecil Andrus will be in Austin Thursday to personally announce a $365,859 federal grant to purchase 51.4 acres of land for the Wild Basin County Park near Austin.

He said Andrus would walk through a section of the proposed park, then attend a fundraising reception for Krueger in Austin.

In Austin, a group of state employees announced they had organized a political action committee and would hold a fund raising event Oct. 30 in Austin to raise $25,000 for the John Hill campaign. Rob LaRue was named state chairman of State Employees to Elect John Hill.

Senate moves on several, avoids other proposed tax-cutting bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a flurry of election year activity, the Senate on Friday voted larger tax cuts for low- and middle-income Americans and tacked on a tuition tax credit designed to avoid a presidential veto.

However, the Democratic-controlled Senate rejected a major Republican Party plan for long-term, across-the-board, 33 percent cut in tax rates over the next three years.

In a surprise move, the Senate approved 52-43 an amendment by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., that increases the total tax cut from the Finance Committee's recommended $22.9 billion to $26.7 billion. This includes $3.8 billion which was added to the committee's proposed $16 billion in tax cuts for individuals.

Ninety-five percent of the additional reductions would go to those with incomes under $30,000 a year. The amendment would mean an extra $130 tax cut for a typical four-member family with income of $20,000; it would give only $9 more to a single person at that income level.

In an effort to sidestep a threatened veto by President Carter, the Senate attached to the tax-cut bill a compromise plan allowing a new tax credit to help pay college tuition costs.

The credit, which would start at $100 per student this year and rise to $250 in 1980, is awaiting final approval in the House and Senate as a separate bill. Carter is said likely to veto that bill.

But backers reason that he would be much more reluctant to veto the big tax cut bill just to kill the tuition credit.

Tying the two bills together may not avoid a veto, however, White House press secretary Jody Powell said Friday. He said it remains "a very real possibility" that Carter will veto the tax cut bill if it fails to meet his criteria.

Enlarging the tax cut would appear to increase the likelihood the president will disapprove it. Carter was seeking only $20 billion in tax cuts, and he has vowed to use the veto if necessary to reduce the federal budget deficit.

Unless other parts of the Finance Committee bill are reduced, the Kennedy-Bumpers amendment would run its total cost to $26.7 billion, which is considerably more than the federal budget would allow.

By a 60-36 vote, the Senate refused to substitute the Kemp-Roth proposal, which would reduce individual income tax rates by an average of 33 percent over the next three years, for the one-year tax cut recommended by the Finance Committee.

The Republicans had adopted Kemp-Roth, named for Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., and Sen. William Roth, R-Del., as a major issue in next month's elections.

The political impact of the proposal was emphasized when the Senate's Republican and Democratic floor leaders squared off.

"The people of America are saying we want the government off our back and out of our hair," said Senate Republican leader Howard Baker of Tennessee. "This bill is in substantial agreement with what the people demand at this time."

Baker's Democratic counterpart, Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, rejected GOP arguments that the Kemp-Roth plan would pay for itself by creating up to five million jobs over the next few years. Instead, Byrd said, it would overwhelm the nation's productive capacity, bring a big surge in consumer demand and add more inflation.

"American consumers would pay for the Kemp-Roth tax cut with higher prices," he said.

Seven Democrats voted for the GOP proposal; seven Republicans opposed it.

Sen. Russell B. Long, who is managing the Finance Committee's $22.9-billion tax-cut bill, said Senate approval of the GOP proposal could result in no tax bill at all this year.

Even if the House reversed itself and approved Kemp-Roth, Long said, the measure would almost surely be vetoed by Carter.

Kemp-Roth would cut individual income taxes in 1979 by $14.5 billion, or about 8 percent; an extra 10 percent in 1980 and an additional 15 percent in 1981. Corporate tax cuts would have been added in 1980 and 1981, bringing the three-year cost of the bill to between $100 billion and $120 billion.

By contrast, the Finance Committee bill would cut individual taxes by about $16 billion, or 8.8 percent next year, along with reductions for business. The Kennedy-Bumpers amendment would run that total to $19.8 billion.

While there is general agreement that new tax cuts may be necessary to keep the economy growing in 1980 and 1981, Democratic leaders are insisting that Congress should avoid committing the government to those additional cuts at this time.

Without his plan, Roth said, most Americans, especially those at middle-income levels, would face a tax increase next year due to higher Social Security taxes and being nudged into ever-higher tax brackets by inflation.

Graham welcomed

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — American evangelist Billy Graham was welcomed Friday by the Roman Catholic Church, which is opening its doors for the first time to his crusade for Christ.

"We are happy that you will preach in several cities in Catholic churches, where the overwhelming majority of listeners will be Catholics," Bishop Wladyslaw Miziolek told Graham at Okęcie Airport.

"We wish the abundant grace of God for your evangelistic mission and best results," said Miziolek, chairman of the committee on ecumenism of the Polish Catholic Church.

About 90 percent of the 35 million Poles belong to the Catholic Church, and most churches are jammed for Sunday worship services across this communist-ruled country.

Food never touches these plates

By ELAINE Q. BARROW
AP Newsfeatures

Plates never intended for food are whetting an incredibly different appetite among collectors. Thousands packed a New York City hotel recently for a two-day World Plate Collectors Fair.

Special plates are described as the most widely traded art form in the world, and the waiting line in the hotel's mammoth lobby spilled outdoors in a throng halfway down the block.

"It could be the biggest rush of plate collectors ever," said Thomas Foster, director of development for the Bradford Exchange, the largest single trading center. "We alone filled 19,000 requests for tickets."

Collectors are said to include such notables as Muhammad Ali, John Wayne and Betty Ford, wife of the former president.

"I think plate collection is the biggest unknown phenomenon," Foster said. "It's not much noticed that there are four million people out there in the United States alone who actively collect for artistic, cultural and financial reasons."

Glistening displays represented the newest and most popular wares of such firms as Wedgwood, Spode, Lenox, Goebel, Jensen and Haviland. But the largest share of the market goes to two Danish firms, Royal Copenhagen and Bing & Gröndahl, according to the Exchange.

Bing & Gröndahl is credited with inspiring the idea of collecting plates when it issued a blue and white porcelain Christmas plate in 1895 called "Behind the Frozen Window." It cost 50 cents then. Today its value is approximately $3,170.

The first cameo collector's plate appeared in 1977 and was acclaimed "Plate of the Year." It drew the year's biggest volume of trading. Entitled, "She Walks in Beauty," it was created for Incolay Studios by Gayle Bright Appleby, a West Coast sculptress. The work was based on the idealized woman of Lord Byron's poem and became the first issue of the Romantic Poets collection. It sold out at the $60 issue price and now is valued at $260.

Many of the plate themes are sentimental, centering on Christmas, Mother's Day, animals, small children, and historical and religious events. One newly introduced is "Scarlett" in what will be a "Gone with the Wind" series.

According to Foster, "Almost all Norman Rockwell plates have a very large following. And plates based on the work of Sister Berta Hummel are a hot item."

Because most of the plates are of limited editions, their value is determined by the ratio of supply and demand. Many which sold originally under $50 now bring prices in the hundreds, some in the thousands, of dollars.

Judicious use of credit urged by university finance professor

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — If you're worried about getting into debt, you may want to take a look at a few barometers offered by a University of Iowa professor to see how your debt load stacks up against those of your neighbors.

The average American is using 20 percent of his after-tax income to pay installments on a home mortgage and such major items as cars and household appliances, Professor Richard Stevenson notes.

"If you're in the 25-to-44 age bracket, you may be earmarking considerably more than one dollar out of every five left after taxes for such debts," the finance professor points out.

"These are the years when you're setting up housekeeping and raising a family, so you'll be in the market not only for a house, but for all its furnishings. Many of us make such purchases 'on time.'"

Since 1972, the number of Americans aged 25 to 44 has been increasing at seven times the rate of the 1946-71 period as a result of the post-World War II baby boom.

This accounts, in part at least, for the recent boom in consumer installment credit, Dr. Stevenson explains.

The amount of money Americans owed for installment purchases at the end of 1977 was $216 billion, up more than 31 percent from the end of 1975. This did not include mortgage loans on residential property, which totaled $652 billion at the end of 1977, up 33 percent from two years before.

More Americans are in the first-car-buying stage now, too, Stevenson points out. This accounts for some of the 32 percent rise in automobile installment credit from March 1977, to March 1978.

Going into debt has some pluses, the University of Iowa professor points out:

— Homeowners often can take interest expense and property taxes as itemized deductions on their tax returns.

— If inflation continues, you'll be paying off that mortgage and those installments on new cars and household appliances with cheaper dollars, since prices and interest rates "freeze" at the time you make your purchase in most cases.

— The salary from which you'll be making those payments will be going up as wages rise to keep up with inflation, so your installment payments will shrink in the percentage of your income they take.

— You build up a good credit record by paying off your debts on time.

Stevenson believes that by 1985 many Americans may be spending as much as 35 percent of their after-tax income on housing expenses — mortgage payments (interest and principal, property taxes and insurance).

"As prices continue to rise and interest rates go up, it's hard to argue today against buying a house, even if you become 'house poor' for a few years," he says.

Each family is unique in the amount of installment credit it can handle, Stevenson says. So study your resources: Are both wife and husband bringing home paychecks? Are teenagers earning their own clothes and incidentals? Do your job benefits include health and major medical insurance and a good pension plan? Do you have a financial "security blanket" in savings you can tap if an emergency arises?

new-car bargain because your existing debts keep you from getting more credit.

"If you're still in doubt about whether to buy your first home or make some other major investment, seek professional advice," Stevenson says. "Find an investment counselor or some other unbiased professional to assess your financial situation."

Celibacy hurting vocation for Catholic priests

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A study by a psychologist finds that Roman Catholicism's requirement of celibacy for priests is hurting the vocation and keeping more independent personalities out of it.

Dr. Mark J. Kane of Adelphi University's Institute of Advanced Psy-

Rev. Cliff Blackburn

Rev. Blackburn joins staff at St. Ann's

The Rev. Cliff Blackburn, O.M.I., this weekend will take up his new duties at St. Ann's Catholic Church.

Father Blackburn is new pastor of St. Ann's parish, effective Sunday.

A member of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, Father Blackburn was born in New Rochelle, N.Y., in 1921. He entered St. Anthony's Seminary at San Antonio in 1938 and was ordained to the priesthood in May, 1947.

From 1948 to 1956, Father Blackburn was a member of the faculty of St. Anthony's Seminary, and from 1956 to 1963 served as vocation director for the U.S. Southern Province of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate. He then served as retreat director at St. Joseph's Retreat House in San Antonio, in the years 1963 to 1969.

In the spring of 1969, Father Blackburn was appointed Provincial Superior of the U.S. Southern Province of the Oblates, an area encompassing the states of Texas, Louisiana, Colorado and New Mexico. He served in that capacity for two terms, completing his assignment in the summer of 1975.

From August of 1975 to June of 1976, Father Blackburn attended the Institute of Religious Formation at St. Louis University. In June, 1976, he was appointed associate director of Ave Maria Retreat House at Marroero, La. He held that position until receiving the pastoral appointment to Midland's St. Ann's parish.

chological Studies reports his findings in a new book, "Lions of God, Lambs of God."

He says extensive tests administered to 50 Catholic priests and 50 Protestant ministers show a greater degree of dependency and passivity in the Catholic priests than among Protestant ministers.

However, he says that those qualities are more pronounced in clergymen in general than in people in most other fields. He says a majority of clergy display various similar traits, including:

- A tendency toward loneliness, a great need to love and receive love and attention, insecurity about ability, ties, weak ego strength, inner conflicts over dependence and authority, and inhibition of aggressive tendencies.

They also manifest a "desire to expiate an existing sense of guilt," Kane says, speculating that this may indicate a kind of masochism.

He maintains that Catholicism's insistence on a celibate priesthood and its "reliance on an autocratic nurturing church structure" is behind the greater degree of passive-receptivity among its priests.

"Christian clergymen who are not obliged to mandatory celibacy ... function with greater individual latitude and are less passive receptive and less dependent," he says.

This "implies that organizational changes within the Roman Catholic priesthood might possibly attract more contented and effective candidates," he adds.

Such changes, allowing an option for priests on whether or not to remain celibate, has been advocated in recent times by some church groups. CORPUS, an organization of ex-priests who have married, also seeks readmission into the church's ministry.

However, church authorities maintain celibacy adds a special spiritual dimension to priestly service, and permits full-time concentration on it.

Kane says personality factors affecting the choosing of a religious vocation are particularly important at present because of the Catholic church's mounting difficulties in attracting professional religious personnel.

Recent statistics have shown a steady decline in the number of priests, seminarians and nuns since 1965, he says, in contrast to an oversupply of clergy candidates in many Protestant denominations.

Clergymen included in Kane's study all are American-born, living in the New York City area, and were subjected to an array of different psychological tests, measuring 30 aspects of personality relating to passive-receptiveness and dependency.

On the basis of the findings, Kane concludes that mandatory celibacy and insistence on strict obedience to church authority is "peripheral to the vocation of the priesthood and damaging to it."

Antioch Church sets Homecoming

Members of Antioch Baptist Church, 1400 E. Golf Course Road, will hold special "Homecoming Day" events at the church Sunday.

An old-fashion "dinner-on-the-grounds" is planned at the church Sunday noon, following the morning worship service. At 3 p.m., a special service is scheduled, with the Rev. G. T. Curry of Houston, a former pastor of the congregation, delivering the sermon.

During the day's homecoming celebration, clothing fashions of yesteryear will be worn by members of the Antioch congregation.

Sunday's events will be open to all residents of the city and surrounding area, said the Rev. Johnny A. Mitchell, pastor of Antioch Baptist Church.

each spring to focus on the work of missionaries in foreign mission fields. The home missions meeting coming up this weekend will place emphasis on the work of missionary personnel in the United States.

Home missions outreaches include those to American Indian tribes, to the Teen Challenge program and to denominational children's homes, Cox said.

Tonight, a church-wide supper will honor missionary guests at the convention. Following the meal, the missionary personnel will give reports and make film slide presentations on their work. The covered dish meal and special program to follow will be open to all interested persons in the city, the pastor said.

Steady services will feature additional reports by the visiting missionaries. At the church's 10:50 a.m. service, the speaker will be Mrs. Gene Davis, head of the Women's Ministries Department for the West Texas District of the Assemblies of God. At the 7 p.m. service, the speaker will be the Rev. Ernie Aldridge, director of a children's home at Fairfield. Special music will be a feature of both worship services, to which the public is invited.

SBC embarking on TV broadcasts

FORT WORTH — The Southern Baptist Convention's Radio and Television Commission, headquartered in Fort Worth, is embarking on a new adventure in broadcasting.

For the first time in its history, the commission will take programs to TV viewers via satellite.

This Sunday, the commission, in cooperation with the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, will air two 15-minute series — "The Athletes" and "Listen."

The programs will be distributed to 350 cable systems in all 50 states via the RCA satellite, located about 25,000 miles above the earth.

"The use of satellites is a tremendous step for Southern Baptists because it is the most inexpensive way to reach a potential 1.5 million homes," said W.C. Woody, vice president of the Radio and Television Commission.

"The cost of mailing tapes to television stations to reach this audience would be $126,000 or more annually. With the satellite, our distribution cost is only $25,000," he said.

"The decision to distribute Radio and Television Commission programs through satellite came after considerable research to learn which one transmitted to the largest number of cable systems," Woody said. "This new venture puts Southern Baptists on the threshold of the greatest era of mission expansion since the 1st Century," declared Paul M. Stevens, president of the commission.

The commission's programs will vary from week to week, officials said. In January, the commission will begin satellite transmission of "The Human Dimension," a series of 65 documentary-type programs ranging from subjects such as the Middle East to the ecology crisis in America. "The Human Dimension" has previously been aired by TV stations across the continent.

All programs will run Sundays at 9 a.m. (Eastern Time), 8 a.m. (Central Time), 7 a.m. (Mountain Time) and 6 a.m. (Pacific Time) on Home Box Office cable channels. "Any person who receives cable TV in his home can learn if he will receive the satellite transmission by contacting his cable station manager," the commission officials said. "As the cable systems continue to expand, we will use them more and more for regular programming," the officials added.

Mahon Bible Week co-chairman

NEW YORK — Congressman George H. Mahon of Texas has been named co-chairman of the Congressional Committee for National Bible Week, scheduled Nov. 19 through 26. The veteran Texas lawmaker's appointment was announced by Donald E. Procknow, national chairman of the 38th interfaith observance spon-

Rev. Robert C. Tieuel Jr.

Plans announced for library

PECOS — Plans are being announced for a black history library to be housed in a Pecos church.

The Rev. Robert C. Tieuel Jr., pastor of Friendship Community C.M.E. Church of Pecos, said that a drive to finance a $5,000 improvement program to provide facilities for a regional library of black history has begun. The funds raised in the campaign would be used to clear church property of all remaining indebtedness and also provide funding for the library facility.

Tieuel is a columnist for The Midland Reporter-Telegram. His "Ring-ing the Bell" column has appeared regularly in that publication for many years. He also is executive director of The Christian Call News Service which researches black history and chronicles black events.

Of the proposed library, Tieuel said "we want to preserve our 'roots' and the great contributions of black people to the establishment and continued growth and development of the Old West tradition."

Tieuel said that donations to the proposed library may be sent to Friendship A.M.E. Church Improvement Fund, Care of Security State Bank, Pecos 79772, or to Christian Call Mission Fund, P.O. Box 1204, Midland 79701. All contributions are tax deductible, Tieuel said.

Rohre named pulpit minister

Doug Rohre has been named pulpit minister of the North A. and Tennessee Streets Church of Christ of Midland, succeeding Bill Walker who recently accepted a new post in Port Arthur.

Rohre, a native of Mercedes, Texas, holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from Abilene Christian University. He served six years in the U.S. Navy. He has been preaching for the Crestview Church of Christ in Waco for the last three years and before that served for two years as minister of a congregation at Longview, eight years as minister of a church at Brownfield and six years as minister of a church at San Angelo. For a time he served as director of the Bible Chair at West Texas State University, Canyon.

Rohre is active as an evangelist for gospel meetings throughout the Southwest and elsewhere and is a frequent speaker before college and high school youth groups on the topic of "Home and Family Living." He has written numerous study booklets for adults.

Rohre and his wife, the former Doris Jeanne Scott of Vernon, are the parents of two daughters, Sherry, a senior student at Abilene Christian University, and Susan, a high school senior, and one son, Gary, a high school freshman.

Jeff McCowan can also play some defense too.

The 215-pound senior rushed for 178 yards in 26 carries and scored two touchdowns, but the Cactus Flower made three tremendous plays at a linebacker slot late in the game as the Robert E. Lee Rebels turned back a furious Odessa High rally to take a heart-stopping 21-20 victory over the Broncos before more than 11,000 fans in Memorial Stadium Friday night.

McCowan got a lot of help too from the rugged Rebel Express defensive unit led by Michael McCreary, Dwight Washington, Clay Calhoun, Gary Butler, Doug Crawford, Rodney Taylor and Jody Sessom.

Odessa gambled and lost when the Rebels pulled to within one point of the Rebels with 1:30 left in the game and it was the play of Butler and Calhoun that stopped OHS tailback Scott Caywood less than a yard short of the goal on the two-point conversion that would have given them a 22-21 victory.

It was a classic battle with good, clean, hard hitting and lots of offense and defense by both teams which went into the District 5-4A opener unbeaten in three games.

Besides McCowan, Lee also got a great performance from tailback Ricky Johnson who also went over the century mark, rushing for 108 yards in 22 carries. McCowan and Johnson combined for 286 yards between them against the swarming OHS defensive unit.

ODESSA HIGH got a fine performance out of Caywood who rushed for 132 yards in 23 carries and fullback Daniel Stevens, who missed the first three games of the year with a thumb injury, added 54 yards in five carries and had some key gainers in the final OHS drive of the night.

It was hard-hitting with Lee's Mark Thompson, Steve Pitts and McCreary being injured in the first half. McCreary was the only one able to return to the game and that came in the final period.

Lee took the opening kickoff and McCowan exploded for 28 yards on the first play from scrimmage, but OHS blunted the drive which started on the Rebel 26 when William Allred picked off Butler's first passing attempt of the night at the Bronco 34.

Lee got the ball right back on the very next play when Taylor pounced on a fumble at the OHS 44. Thompson gained seven yards and then McCowan showed why he is called the Cactus Flower when he literally ran over two Bronco defenders and stiff-armed the safety in romping and stomping 37 yards for the first touchdown of the evening. Bill McPherson booted the extra point and the Rebels had a 7-0 lead with 8:37 left in the opening period.

THE BRONCHOS came back to tie the game when Terry Wilkerson gobbled up a fumble by Butler at the Lee 46. In nine plays, OHS scored with Caywood going the final three yards. The key gain was a 20-yard pass from quarterback Billy Rumbaugh to end Alfred Rodriguez. Charlie Whittington boomed through the PAT to tie the game, 7-7 with 47 seconds left in the quarter.

Lee came right back to drive 72 yards in 13 plays in a ball-control drive with McCowan and Johnson sharing the duties. Johnson capped the drive with a five-yard run and McCowan's PAT made it 14-7 with 7:04 left in the first half.

Odessa took the second half kickoff and moved down the field to score in a six-play, 72-yard drive that stunned the Rebels. Stevens ripped off 19 yards on a trap play down the middle to ignite the drive, but the key was a 15-yard penalty on Lee that moved the ball all the way down to the Rebel 14. On the next play, Caywood skipped the final 14 yards to paydirt and Whittington's PAT tied the game, 14-14 with 8:11 left in the third period.

NOT TO BE OUTDONE, Lee took the ensuing kickoff and promptly marched 64 yards in 19 plays to take the lead again with McCowan banging over from four yards out. McPherson's kick was all-important as it (Continued on 9A)

ODESSA — Odessa Permian's defense gave the Midland High Bulldogs a lesson of domination here Friday night at W. T. Barrett Stadium, but it's not a story you would want to tell your Mother. It was almost that obscene.

The defending 5-4A champion Panthers opened defense of their title with a 28-0 victory over the helpless Bulldogs, and defense is the key word. It is fair to say that Midland never got untracked in this one.

Mojo magician Vic Vines passed for three touchdowns of seven, eight and 56 yards to lead the Permian offense, but this victory belongs to the tenacious defense that kept the Pack going backwards almost as much as it went forward.

Midland managed only a net 50 yards rushing and 37 passing. They had only four first downs, coughed up two costly fumbles and had four passes intercepted. Fullback Jeff Robnett led the Pack with 65 yards rushing while the season's leading rusher Billy Applin gained a mere 27 steps on nine carries. All of the other Pack runners were going in the wrong direction.

The offensive woes of the Bulldogs was understandable for the way Permian's Chris Soape, Mike Moore, Ricky Reynolds and Carl Cunningham played. They harassed the Bulldogs at every turn.

What hurts even more, however, is that Permian had a lot of chances to add to the victory margin. Permian field goal kicker Robert Orocco missed on five field goal tries at distances of 35, 42, 32, 31 and 33 yards. With his toe it could have very easily been 43-0.

The beleaguered Bulldog defense is not to blame for this loss. They held so many times it wasn't funny, but Mojo had the ball most of the night as Midland would run three offensive plays and punt. Rick Ankerherf, Jimmy Zachary, Todd Liberty, Link Grimes, John Beane and Jeff Spangler were playing defense to the bitter end, but the Permian pressure was just too much.

Midland High's lone moment of glory didn't last very long. On Permian's first offensive series, Spangler recovered a John Muery fumble at the Panther 29, but Midland's offense ran three plays before Bobby Stovall badly missed a 40-yard field goal try. That was Midland's chance to get Permian down, and they didn't do it. It was all over after that.

Vines hit Muery with TD bombs of 56 and seven yards in the second quarter for a 14-0 halftime lead as Orocco never misses a PAT attempt. The 56 yarder was a back breaker since it came on a third down and 23 yards to go for a first down. Permian then began to break it open.

Vines came back in the third quarter for an eight yard pass to David Loper and Permian added insult to injury in the final period when tackle Cunningham caught a mid-air fumble when Tommy Somers was trying to pass and ran it in four yards for the final score of the night.

Gregg Lambert led all rushers on the night with 96 yards on 19 tough carries. Permian had 309 yards total offense with 190 rushing while Vines completed seven of 14 aerials for 119 yards. Two Midland quarterbacks completed only four of 15 passes for 37 yards while four were picked off. On top of that, Midland had only 24 yards total offense in the first half and did not produce a first down.

Midland is now 1-3 on the year and 0-1 in 5-4A play while Permian is 4-0 and 1-0. This contest shouldn't hurt Mojo's chances of improving their seventh place ranking in the AP poll.

Sooners declared ready by Barry Switzer

NORMAN, Okla. — "We're ready to play" head coach Barry Switzer said after observing his top-ranked Oklahoma University Sooners go through a light workout Friday, before the team departed for Dallas.

The Sooners went through a spirited 30 minutes of timing drills in their final preparation before facing the Texas Longhorns Saturday afternoon.

Carlton hurls, bats Phils to win

By JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Left-hander Steve Carlton complemented his pitching with a homer and four runs batted in to keep the Philadelphia Phillies alive in the National League baseball playoffs with a 9-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday night.

Carlton's shoulder, which has troubled him all season, had little effect as he controlled the Dodgers after the opening innings. His homer in the second, with two teammates aboard, cleared the right-center field fence at the 385-foot mark.

He drove in another run in the sixth with a single, sending rival pitcher Don Sutton out of the game with his first career loss ever in postseason competition.

PHILADELPHIA had lost twice at home to the Dodgers, 9-5 and 4-0, in this best-of-5 series for the National League pennant and a spot in the World Series. A defeat before the 55,043 at Dodger Stadium would have ended the season for the Phillies.

But they struck fast in the second inning with two out.

Mike Schmidt doubled and after

Tim McCarver walked, Ted Sizemore blooped a single to drive in the first run of the game. With a count of no balls and one strike, Carlton lashed his first homer of 1978 to give his team a 4-0 lead.

The southpaw, who has been bothered by inflammation of the bursar sac in his throwing shoulder since August, had trouble with the Dodgers in both the second and third innings.

Bill Russell doubled home a run in the second and another would have scored if a fan in the left-field corner hadn't reached out and grabbed the ball, making it a ground-rule double and holding at third base Dusty Baker, who had started at first. The fan was moved to another seat "for his own protection," a National League spokesman said.

THE DODGERS pulled within a run in the third as Steve Garvey doubled in a run and scored on Roy Cey's single. After that Carlton settled down and Philadelphia wrapped up the game with three unearned runs in the sixth.

With two out, McCarver was safe on Davey Lopes' error at second, Sizemore beat out a bunt and Carlton

Stanton rumbles 21-8

STANTON—Stanton's Buffaloes opened their District 5-A season with a 21-8 victory over Ropesville here Friday night as Todd Smith led the way with 152 yards rushing on 23 carries.

Smith broke a 70-yard run off a draw play for Stanton's third score, giving the Buffs, now 2-2 for the season, a 21-0 halftime lead.

Mitch Elmore's searing 53-yard sprint put the Buffs on the scoreboard in the first period and Alonzo Padron's kick made it 7-0. Then in the second quarter, quarterback Tommy Morrow punched in on sneak from the one and Padron kicked his second of three extra points.

proved to be the winning margin again for the second straight game. That made it 21-14 with 1:29 left in the period.

McCowan's runs of 13 and 11 yards keyed the drive along with a 16-yard pass from Butler to John White.

To start the final period, OHS marched from its 28 to the Rebel 39 where Sessom and Steve Waldron made the big step on Caywood, throwing him for a two-yard loss on a fourth and two situation.

It looked like Lee might seal the victory when it moved down the field from its 37 to the Bronco 12, but Trey Hawkins literally took the Lee Rebels back to the starting line.

The interception fired up the Red Hosses as they drove all the way, some 88 yards in 11 plays, to score and make things very interesting indeed. Even a five-yard penalty along the way, didn't halt the determined drive which saw Rumbaugh hit Rodriguez with a 26-yard pass and Caywood break on runs of 11 and 10 yards. The play that got OHS back into the game was a swing pass from Rumbaugh to Brian Cantrell who gathered it in and scampered 31 yards for the score. OHS called time out and Coach Dick Winder decided to go for broke and gambled on the two-pointer which just fell short.

EVERYBODY IN the stands knew what was coming next and Odessa tried an onside kick which Lee fumbled and the Broncos came up with the ball, but were offside. They tried it again and once again, it worked with Gary Young punting on the ball at the OHS 46.

Then came the real test for the Lee defense. McCowan almost picked off a Rumbaugh pass, but dropped the ball and then Washington broke up another passing attempt and McCowan threw Rumbaugh for a 17-yard loss and came right back and belted Cantrell on a pass behind the line of scrimmage for another loss, this time of 10 yards. Washington then sealed the hard-fought victory for Coach Gil Bartosh when he recovered a fumble with five seconds left and the ball on the OHS 27. Butler fell on the ball and Lee had its fourth win of the season without a loss while OHS was dropping to 3-1 on the year.

Lee faces San Angelo Central here next week while Odessa takes on Abilene Cooper in District 5-4A action.

Cranes rally to nip Owls, 19-14

By STEVE O'BRIEN R-T Sports Writer

BIG LAKE — For a while there it appeared the Crane Golden Cranes were on the verge of coming out on the bad side of their third straight one-point decision until quarterback Rock Rives decided to take matters into his own hands.

With six minutes remaining and Crane trailing upset minded Reagan County 14-13, Rives directed the Cranes on an 80-yard drive that culminated on his eight-yard run for the winning touchdown.

Rives' touchdown with 3:40 left gave the Golden Cranes their fourth win of the season, a 19-14 decision over the pesky Owls.

The saving touchdown came just moments after it seemed Reagan County was about to hammer the final nail in Crane's coffin.

After taking a 14-13 lead when sophomore James Phillips trapped Rives in the end zone for a safety, Reagan County took the ensuing kick and moved them to the Crane 16 in six plays.

But Rodney Roussarie intercepted Owl quarterback Byron Bitner's second down pass in the end zone to kill the crucial drive. It was from that point that Rives directed the Cranes to the winning score.

A couple of long distance aerials from Rives to end Gilbert Sena were the key plays in the drive. On second and 10 from the Crane 35, Rives connected with Sena for 31 yards and the two hooked up for 23 more yards on a third and nine situation at the Owl 33.

After a scoreless first quarter, Reagan County jumped to a 6-0 lead when Bitner found sophomore split end Leon Watson all alone for a 43-yard TD pass on the second quarter's second play.

Bitner, starting in place of Mickey Owens who suffered a leg injury in last week's Reagan County loss to Sonora, made the score possible when he picked up two yards on a fourth and one on the previous play.

Crane came back to match that lead. Reagan County led 16-6 at halftime with 10:27 left. In the second half, Reagan County took a 19-6 lead on a 63-yard pass from Rock Rives (Rives kick) on the first play of the second half. Reagan County led 19-13 at the end of the third quarter with 7:48 left. Reagan County took a 19-14 lead on a 43-yard pass from Byron Bitner (kick failed) on the first play of the fourth quarter. Reagan County led 19-14 at the end of the fourth quarter with 0:00 left. Reagan County won 19-14.

score on their next possession, but Carl Gibbs' 40-yard touchdown run was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Crane blew another chance to knot the score minutes later when Reagan County defenders Mark Noland, Travis Black and Ken Burleson stacked Gibbs up for no gain on a fourth and goal at the one with 3:33 left in the half.

But when the Owls failed to pick up a first down, Crane got excellent field position after Johnny Mitchell's punt to the 42.

The Golden Cranes moved 10 yards in four plays and then with only 36 seconds left in the half, Rives then found Andrew Hannon for 32 yards and the tying score. Rives kick made it 7-6 at the half.

Reagan County moved ahead 12-7 when fullback Burleson blasted 34 yards for a touchdown on their second possession of the half.

Rives and the Cranes, who seemed to work best when they were pushed, quickly retaliated for a 13-12 lead the next time they got the ball, breaking runs of six, five, and 29 yards. Rives moved Crane from their own 45 to the Owl 14 and with 3:10 left in the period, Albert Ureta covered the remaining yards. This time Rives' kick sailed wide, leaving Crane a precarious 13-12 lead.

In their two previous outings, Crane was involved in one-point decisions—a 10-9 loss to Coahoma and last week's 7-6 upset of Tahoka.

The win moves Crane to 4-1 on the year while Reagan County fell to 2-3. Burleson had a fantastic night to lead the Owls. The 155-pound junior picked up 166 yards on 25 carries. Dewayne Draper's 96 yards were tops for Crane.

Rives, the brilliant senior signal caller, rushed for 78 yards and passed for another 99.

Van Percy scores twice to lead Andrews to 36-7 win over Cubs

ANDREWS—Van Percy, the leading rusher in District 2-AAA, paced Andrews to its fourth victory in five starts this season, but running seven and three yards to touchdowns as the Mustangs flogged Brownfield's Cubs, 36-7, in a league opener here Friday night before a homecoming crowd.

Percy gave Andrews an early lead by scoring from the seven and Billy Green converted. Brownfield boomed back early in the second period as Charles Burse took a 23-yard Kelly Reid scoring pass and Elias Garcia converted to make it 7-7.

Andrews reclaimed the lead for good in the second period on Steve Bailey's 76-yard punt return to lead 13-7 at half and then made it 16-7 on Lee Wilson's 35-yard third-period field goal.

Andrews then salted it away with a 20-point burst in the final period with Percy scoring on a three-yard run, Johnny Lopez going in from the one and Bill Green scoring from the six.

The loss leaves Brownfield with a 2-3 record for the season.

single to right. McCarver scored on the hit and Sizemore went around third and scored on right-fielder Reggie Smith's throwing error, with Carlton winding up at third.

Pinch-hitter Jerry Martin doubled the pitcher home to make it 7-3.

Singles by Garry Maddox and Greg Luzinski plus a sacrifice and an infield out gave Philadelphia another run in the seventh.

Carlton had coasted through four innings until Garvey blasted a solo homer in the eighth, his third home run of the championship series.

Luzinski matched Garvey's homer with a blast to left-center in the top of the ninth for the Phillies' final run. He now has hit in each of the 10 postseason games in which he has appeared.

PHILADELPHIA's victory brings the two clubs together again at 4:30 p.m. EDT in the fourth game of the series Saturday, with Randy Lerch, 11-8, scheduled to pitch for the Phils. The Dodgers are expected to counter with Doug Rau, 15-9.

McCamey defenses Van Horn

MC CAMEY—McCamey's Badgers drove 44 yards in the first quarter to send tailback Lenny Luna into the end zone from one-yard out and, strangely enough, the score not only stood up for a 6-0 win over Van Horn's Eagles, but it was the only serious scoring threat of the game here Friday night.

The touchdown, coming at the end of a 13 play drive and with 4:40 left in the quarter, made a success of homecoming for the Badgers who now are 3-2 for the season.

Most of the game was a defensive duel waged between the 20 yard lines and the statistics reflect the closeness of the game. McCamey had an edge in first downs, 8-7, and rushing, 66-63, but Van Horn outgained McCamey in the air, 74-40. McCamey survived three turnovers, two by interceptions and one fumble while Van Horn had just one turnover, an interception.

12 griders suspended

Can good UT pitching beat good OU hitting?

Good pitching will beat good hitting and a stingy defense will stop a high-powered offense, so they say, so why is it whenever there's a classic confrontation of the irresistible force against the immovable object, the sentiment always seems to lean toward the offense?

The question comes up for debate once again today in the storied old house that Doak finished building when Texas-Oklahoma square off in their annual blood-letting, which isn't why they named it the Red River...is it?

Oklahoma is averaging a shade under 50 points a game while Texas has yielded 3.3 points per outing. Neither, however, has faced the caliber opponent that will be met today.

WHETHER IT'S a free-wheeling point orgy or a defensive tug-of-war, it will have to go some to match the drama of last year's meeting in which the Longhorns scored their first victory in seven tries.

It was a game in which Texas survived the ultimate disaster of losing its two top quarterbacks, Mark McBath and Jon Aune, on season-ending injuries on successive series in the first 12 minutes of play.

Third stringer Randy McEachern rode off the bench and, at the time, no one noticed he was wearing a mask or that lurking somewhere there must have been a faithful Indian companion. Randy guided the Longhorns on the game's only touchdown drive, Heisman Trophy recipient Earl Campbell climaxing the 80-yard hike just before half with a 24-yard touchdown run.

BUT IT was a game in which defenses dominated and it all eventually boiled down to a goal line stand by Texas at the five-yard line with 4:10 to go.

Neither Texas' Russell Erxleben nor Oklahoma's Uwe Van Schamann have been in much evidence this year. The way the Sooners and Longhorns have been winning this year, their kicking talents haven't been required to determine game-on-the-line situations.

If the teams are as evenly matched as they seem to be, that could all change today. You'll remember last year's game. Except for Campbell's run—and he's gone—was a field goal kicking swاپout. Van Schamann booted 47 and 32 yards and Erxleben retaliated with 64 and 58 yards and nailed down the victory by booming a 70-yard punt out of his own end zone after that fourth quarter stand.

There's just one hitch. With the new rule on field goal attempts, which decrees the ball be brought back to the line of scrimmage on misses outside of the 20, how many 60-yarders will Coach Fred Akers' risk and how many 50-yarders will Coach Barry Switzer consent to?

THOMAS LOTT, the Oklahoma quarterback, perhaps is the key figure in the game as far as the Sooners offense is concerned. Last year, he was contained by both Texas and Arkansas, the only games the Sooners lost, and he concedes the UT defense will be a problem.

"They are going to be a lot quicker than any defense we've faced yet...They say when a great defense plays a great offense, the defense should prevail. I'd like to prove our offense is not make believe. We can move the ball on anyone."

Lott adds, "I don't think anybody can line up and stop us. I think we can stop ourselves, if we fumble and don't execute. If we don't score at least three touchdowns every game, it will definitely surprise me."

As for a forecast, a defensive tussle, but the vote goes to the team with the offensive wallop...Oklahoma, 13-10.

Jackson State forfeits cage wins

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Southwestern Athletic Conference has stripped Jackson State of all basketball victories and honors won while two ineligible players were members of the Tiger squad.

The SWAC Compliance Committee ruled Thursday that all games in which the two players participated in should be listed as forfeits. The Tigers were 21-5 last season and conference champions, a title that now goes to Southern University in Baton Rouge.

The players, Ricky Hill and Northern Shavers, had attended Evansville University during the 1976-77 school year prior to enrolling at Jackson State. However, JSU's eligibility list stated that the students had come straight from high school.

The rules of the SWAC as well as the NCAA require that a scholarship athlete who transfers from one four-year school to another sit out one full year before he is eligible to compete in varsity sports.

The Compliance Committee ruled that both players are ineligible for the coming season but that the Jackson State team will be eligible for conference team honors.

Hill and Shavers, both from Oakland, Calif., did not inform Jackson State coach Paul Covington about their attendance at Evansville.

Cougs storm past Bobcats

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper stormed past San Angelo Central's Bobcats, 38-14 here Friday night in a District 5-4A opener at P.E. SHowell Stadium.

It was the first win for the Cougars over Central in seven years and Cooper responded with a total offense of 491 yards.

Quarterback Tracy Thomas connected on 14 of 20 passes for 241 yards and passed for three touchdowns and ran 63 yards himself, for another score.

The victory gives Cooper a 1-3 season mark since the Cougars had to forfeit two previous games due to an ineligible player while Central, with the loss, is also 1-3 on the year.

Thomas got the Cougs off to a great start with a 63-yard TD, but the Bobcats came back to take a 7-6 lead on a 35-yard pass from Fields to Fannon. Knapp's PAT gave the Concho Cats a 7-6 edge, but Keith Pantalione struck a 23-yard scoring strike from Thomas and the run failed, making it 12-7. Tim Orr caught a five-yard pass for an 18-7 lead at halftime.

Pantalione ran seven yards for a TD in the third period and the pass failed, making it 24-7 and Johnny Slaughter was on the scoring end of another pass from Thomas, good for 45 yards and this time, Stuard booted the PAT to make it 31-7.

Orr had a 5-yard run for another Cooper TD and Stuard's boot made it 38-7 before San Angelo finally scored on a 13-yard pass from Fields to Larson. Knapp booted the PAT.

Magic of Sooners-Steers will fill Cotton Bowl

BY TED BATTLES
R-T Sports Editor

DALLAS—The magic of Texas-Oklahoma will fill the Cotton Bowl (72,032) for the 33rd straight year when the longtime rivals clash at noon today and for the 21st time in the series, the Sooners and Longhorns bring unbeaten records into the fray.

And as has become the custom, the winner, or survivor, will go on to contest for national laurels. It's a classic match, not only in tradition, but in that it will pit the No. 1 (Oklahoma) team against No. 6 (Texas), according to the most recent AP poll. But it goes beyond that. The anticipatory whistle is whet by the collision of the unstoppable offense against the immovable defense. Oklahoma tops the nation in rushing (439.5 yards per game), total offense (515.7) and scoring (49.2). Texas is No. 1 in total and rushing defense and No. 2 to only Navy in yielding a paltry 3.3 points per game.

SOME ASSERT the Texas offense is suspect, particularly in the wake of a sputtering 17-3 win over Wyoming. Others point to the OU defense as being vulnerable, possibly an Achilles' Heel. The Sooners surrendered 29 points against Stanford and 23 against Missouri. Last week, the Sooners, led by half-back Billy Sims' 166 yards (including four touchdowns among which were 42 and 49 yarders and a 78-yarder that was called back), piled up 45 points against Missouri. It was enough to impress such a perfectionist as Coach Barry Switzer.

"We've had some real track meets here, but not against a good team like Missouri. It was an awesome day. We sustained probably the finest performance I think we've ever had against a good team."

Switzer, however, isn't deluding himself. He well remembers last year when Texas snuffed out OU's attack to score a 13-6 upset to end a string of six winless years for the Longhorns.

"THOSE BIG holes our backs have been running through are a thing of the past. If we're fortunate enough to create any holes, they'll fill up fast. Texas has an outstanding defense, probably the best in the country right now. They can run. Their offense is good. Their offensive line really comes off the ball and they have plenty of speed in the backfield."

Fred Akers
...OU offense a problem

While no one muscles OU-Texas out of the limelight, three SWC family squabbles plus an intersectional scrap between SMU-Ohio State at Columbus, Ohio, shares the schedule. Baylor (0-3) hosts Houston (2-1) at 2 p.m. in Waco, a game between a couple of foes who harbor SWC title ambitions. The Bears' title hopes suffered a severe blow when ace running back Greg Hawthorne broke the back of the hip socket during the final stages of last week's loss at Ohio State. He will be lost for the year. It will be Baylor's first home game after exciting road losses to Georgia, Kentucky and Ohio State.

Texas Tech (1-2) and Texas A&M (4-0) kickoff at 1:30 p.m. at College Station, the Aggies coming off an impressive 58-0 massacre of Memphis a good team."

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The scantily clad, high-kicking Angels, cheerleaders who prance on the sidelines at New Orleans Saints football games, were cut Friday.

In fact, the whole 24-member squad was disbanded. No replacement was planned. "The Saints take this action with deep regrets. We are sorry for the many fine, loyal girls on the squad," said Saints Executive Vice President Eddie Jones in a prepared statement. "But our action is the result of an accumulation of demands by the girls which convinced us they were losing perspective of their value to the football team."

Coach F.A. Dry is trying to turn the TCU Frog program around and got a boost in the come from behind win over Oregon, but the loss to Penn State last week showed the Frogs still have a lot of work to do. An upset win over Arkansas would be the kind of boost the program could use, but the Razorbacks, less than awesome the last two weeks, are a solid favorite to prolong their domination.

SMU could strike a mighty blow for the SWC at Columbus. The 2-1 Mustangs threw a genuine scare into Penn State before losing, 26-21, while the Lions beat the Buckeyes, 19-0.

As explosive as the Mustangs seem to be this year, an upset is a distinct possibility.

Post-season baseball stars usually the unsung Dents

Los Angeles Times Syndicate

PHILADELPHIA — Surprised that Russell Earl Dent is one of the stars so far of the 1978 playoff and World Series events? You shouldn't be. Bucky Dent has an almost perfect profile for a post-season baseball star. Any computer would have picked him on information programmed from the past.

He's a .243 hitter and batting ninth in the lineup and the home run he hit to sink the Red Sox is the fifth of the season and the 23rd of his career. Bucky Dent always wind up playoff and Series stars.

The explanations are many, but Babe Ruth and Reggie Jackson are almost the only season superstars who perform up to their capabilities in World Series. Ted Williams was a bust. He hit .200 in his one World Series. Ty Cobb was about as dangerous as Irvin S. in his World Series. Roger Maris hit 61 home runs in 1961 — and batted .100 in the World Series that year. Rogers Hornsby was a Series failure. In 1929, he batted .380, hit 40 home runs. In the World Series that year, he struck out eight times and batted .238. Jackie Robinson, one of the great players of the ages, never really had a good World Series. The only one the Dodgers won, he took himself out of the last game and was hitting .182.

ON THE other hand, look who does star in World Series. In his book, "The World Series — a 75th Anniversary" (Simon and Schuster), Joe Reichter tells of the Who Dats and How's-That-Again who dominated the fall classics.

In 1931, John Leonard Roosevelt Martin, was a sparingly used outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals who had hit just .300 in 43 at-bats. He got in the World Series against the Philadelphia Athletics, he stole everything but the Liberty Bell. He hit .500, slugged .792, stole 5 bases, drove in five runs, scored five and ran the bases with such abandon the press dubbed him "The Wild Horse of the Osage."

In the 1906 World Series, George Rohe was a .200 hitter

Reggie Jackson
...rare exception

who suddenly began to rip triples off "Three Fingers" Mordecai Brown and other Chicago Cubs pitchers.

In the 1914 "Miracle Braves" Series, Hank Gowdy was a .243 hitter, a solid catcher but an "out" in anybody's lineup. In the Series against Connie Mack's A's, he batted .545 with a homer, a triple and three doubles.

WHO CAN forget Howard Ehmke in the 1929 World Series for the A's, a sore-armed pitcher who had started only eight games that year and finished but two of them, on a staff that included the great Lefty Grove (28 wins), George Earnshaw (22) and Rube Walberg? Ehmke was nominated to pitch the first game, and he set a Series record, striking out 13 Cubs and defeating them 3-1.

Who would have picked Bobby Richardson to set an all-time record — 13 — for hits in a single Series, 1964? Bobby batted .267 that season. But that's nothing. Bobby got 11 hits in the 1960

Series when he was a .252 hitter and go nine hits in the next year's Series when he was a .261 hitter. Billy Martin got 12 hits in a six-game Series in 1953 when he was a .252 hitter during the season and a .500 hitter in the Series. Would you believe a Gil Hodges could go through an entire 7-game Series without a hit?

REICHTER POINTS out how many Series heroes never again achieved the star billing. George Rohe was sold the year after his triumph to New Orleans and disappeared into the bush leagues.

Remember Al Gionfriddo? He was the tiny, substitute left-fielder who robbed the great DiMaggio of a homerun with two on in the 1947 World Series. They wrote poems about that catch in the press box, but would you believe that's the last time Gionfriddo's name appeared in a big league box score? That same year, Floyd "Bill" Bevens, a 7-13 pitcher, had the World Series first no-hitter going for 8 and 2-3 innings. All he had to do was get Cookie Lavagetto out. This Cookie wouldn't crumble. Lavagetto hit a base-clearing double and Bevens not only lost his no-hitter, he lost the game. Neither Bevens nor Lavagetto ever played another major league game.

IN A World Series and playoff series, the cream rises to the bottom. Class won't tell. Bet the longshot. Throw the chalk out the window. Would you believe Stan Musial only batted .300 in one World Series? Would you believe the great Walter Johnson once allowed 15 hits, eight of them doubles, and 25 total bases, in one World Series game? That Carl Hubbell gave up seven runs in an inning?

People have always been sorry great stars like Hall of Famers Ernie Banks and Ralph Kiner never got in World Series. Maybe they were lucky. Just ask Ted Williams. World Series belong to Al Weiss, who hit .215 in the season in 1969 and .455 in the Series with one home run. Tab the guys with one foot in the American Association. World Series are not star wars.

Borg, the Swede who is ranked as the top player in the world, player, spoiled Ashe's Davis Cup comeback, outlasting him 6-4, 7-5, 6-3. It took Borg almost two hours and it did not come easy.

Barazzutti triumphs

MADRID (AP)— Top-seeded Corrado Barazzutti of Italy defeated Parel Slezil of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 7-5 in the men's singles quarter-finals of the $100,000 Madrid Grand Prix Tennis Tournament Friday.

He joined Jose Higuera of Spain, Thomas Smid of Czechoslovakia and Balazs Toroczy of Hungary in the semifinals.

Higuera downed Chile's Hans Gildemeister 6-7, 7-6, 8-6; Smid beat Adriano Panatta 4-6, 7-6, 6-4; and Toroczy downed Chile's Jaime Fillol 6-3, 6-3 in quarter-finals matches.

British lead, 2-0

LONDON (AP)— Buster Mottram and John Lloyd scored singles victories Friday to lead Britain a 2-0 lead over Australia, last year's winner, in their best-of-five Davis Cup tennis semifinal at Crystal Palace.

Mottram took nearly 3½ hours to down veteran Tony Roche 8-6, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4 but Lloyd cruised to a straight set victory over John Alexander 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

The 33-year-old Roche conceded 10 years to Mottram, and the strain told in the end.

America's Gerulaitis, ranked No. 3 in the world, pounded a weary Johansson 6-2, 6-1, 6-4 to tie the score, just as expected. The doubles will be played Saturday and the reverse singles in the best-of-five series on Sunday.

"He surprised me. I didn't expect him to play that well," said the 22-year-old Borg.

By REX WORRELL

Ashe, back on the tour recently after a heel injury, played Borg last time two years ago and noted he had changed quite a bit.

"Bjorn is serving 30 percent better and he is mentally right — 500 percent better," he said. "He earlier lost matches he shouldn't but when he gets an opportunity now he takes it," she added.

Heart study to be broad

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Arthur J. Moss has been named to head a four-year, multi-institutional effort that is aimed at finding answers to some of the questions about the human heart.

Moss is clinical associate professor of medicine at the University of Rochester Medical Center and director of the Heart Research Followup Program of the Department of Preventive Medicine and Community Health.

"We expect to learn about the mechanical and electrical aspects of heart action in a detailed way," Moss says. "We plan to identify the high risk coronary patient and to elucidate the mechanisms responsible for fatal complications."

"This study should provide the foundation for developing specific preventive approaches to reduce mortality and to improve the ability to survive after a heart attack."

"Since this research is based on a number of locations, we will be able to study a broad spectrum of patients in university and community hospitals."

The program is funded by grants of $713,000 from the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute of the National Institutes of Health, and $150,000 from the Gebbie foundation, Jamestown, N.Y.

Studies will be made at Highland Hospital, Rochester; Jewish and St. Luke's Hospitals of Washington University, St. Louis; and Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, Roosevelt Hospital, and St. Luke's Hospital, New York City.

BRIDGE Delay in hold-up play can be costly

South took the first spade because a shift to hearts would be more dangerous than a spade continuation. South then led the eight of diamonds for finesse. East pounced on this with the queen of diamonds, planning to hold up the ace of diamonds the next time the suit was led.

When East returned a spade, South held up. This delayed hold-up was perfectly effective.

South won the next spade and went back to diamonds. East refused the trick, but this delayed hold-up was ineffective. Dummy won the second diamond and continued the suit to force out the ace.

OUT OF SPADES

East was out of spades, and South could win any return and get to dummy with the king of hearts to run the diamonds for a total of ten tricks.

When South finessed with the eight of diamonds at the second trick, East must refuse to win.

East wins the next diamond and clears the spades. Now South has no diamond to lead. He can get to dummy with the king of hearts to set up the diamonds; but can never get back to run them. South therefore wins only seven tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer bids one club, your partner doubles, and the next player bids two clubs. You hold: S J 8 2; H Q J 10 8 2; D A Q 4; C J 6. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts. This jump is highly invitational but not forcing. If your partner has minimum values for his takeout double he can pass, and you should make your contract.

California cookoff heads calendar of chili buffs

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If there was ever a dish that stirred the emotions, it is that volcanic mixture of minced meat, beans and chili peppers which is said to have been invented by a group of nuns in Mexico.

Humorist Will Rogers said he judged a town by the quality of its chili con carne. And Jesse James, the outlaw, is reported to have refused to rob a bank in McKinney, Texas, because his favorite chili parlor was located in the town.

With such devotion, it is not surprising that a group of aficionados, known as "chili heads," have formed an International Chili Appreciation Society. This year, the society will stage its annual World Championship Chili Cookoff on Oct. 22 in Rosamond, Calif.

About 30,000 chili buffs are expected to show up for the cookoff, tasting spoons in hand. There will be marching bands, various kinds of entertainment and above all, a series of chili-eating contests. The air should be redolent with the tantalizing aroma of the big chili pots, their contents at various stages of preparation.

California is an appropriate site for the fete. The Golden State is regarded as unofficial headquarters for the spicy peppers from which chili takes its name.

Actually, chili powder forms the flavor base for the dish. It is a blend of spices, with chili peppers as the main ingredient. Also included are ground cumin seed, ground oregano, powdered garlic and salt.

The powder makes a delicious seasoning for eggs, stews, marinades, Spanish rice, sauces and soups. Some enthusiasts even mix it with butter and daub it on corn on the cob.

Chili lovers who cannot make it to Rosamond can console themselves with a local cookoff. They are a lot of fun at group picnics, church suppers and after-game get-togethers. Start with a container of chili powder and let your imagination take over. And it doesn't have to be limited to beef and bean mixtures. Here's a recipe for chili chicken.

- 1/2 cup instant minced onion
- 1 teaspoon instant minced garlic
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 2 jars (15 1/2 ounces each) meatless spaghetti sauce
- 2 tablespoons chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
- 4 cups diced cooked chicken
- 4 cups cooked macaroni
- 2 cups cottage cheese
- 8 ounces mozzarella cheese, sliced

Combine onion and garlic with water, let stand 10 minutes to rehydrate. In medium saucepan, heat oil. Add rehydrated onion and garlic, saute 5 minutes. Stir in spaghetti sauce, chili powder and Tabasco. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in chicken. Pour one third of sauce mixture into bottom of oiled 13 by 9 by 2-inch casserole. Top with 2 cups macaroni, then 1 cup cottage cheese. Repeat layering once more, ending with layer of sauce. Top with mozzarella cheese. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven about 30 minutes. Serves 10. Good with chilled beer or ale.

Ohio seeking its past

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A statewide search is under way for the "calling cards" of people who roamed prehistoric Ohio 10,000 — perhaps even 15,000 — years ago.

From the arrowheads, axes and hammers, bits of pottery and flakes of flint that mark the locations they visited, hunted and lived, an inventory of Ohio's prehistoric sites and treasures is being compiled.

Archaeologist Ken Deaver is directing the work in 10 counties of central Ohio, one of 11 regions in the state. Deaver's regional Archaeological Preservation program, operates from Ohio State University's Anthropology Department.

Deaver, 30, who has taken part in many archaeological field projects in this and other countries, says Ohio "is considered probably the most spectacular in the country" for its archaeological treasures.

Prehistoric people were attracted for many reasons, he said, such as "rich agricultural land, exceptionally good river system."

There are traces of Ohio country inhabitants as early as 11,000 to 12,000 B.C., and they roamed this land for some 9,000 years.

The total of 81 known prehistoric sites in Franklin County is small in comparison to what Deaver believes is here. "There could be 800 or 8,000 or even more and I wouldn't be surprised," he said.

He has fewer documented sites in other counties of his region: Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Knox, Licking, Madison, Pickaway, Ross and Union.

"With people wandering around for at least 10,000 years, we've got to figure there is an enormous amount of sites," Deaver said. Walking is the primary means used to locate undiscovered sites.

"That's the only way it's done," he said. "There are no short cuts. We walk along the ground in a semi-systematic way and pick up stone material."

The procedure is fairly easy on flat, cleared land and plowed fields, but it's another matter in woodland or areas of heavy undergrowth.
