

GOP letter big help ... for Democrats

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Basil Archey, who has never even voted Republican, was a bit startled when he received a numbered, "confidential" Republican National Committee memo outlining the party's 1978 national strategy.

It might also be somewhat unsettling for the Republicans. It seems Archey is the office manager for the Bexar County Democratic Party. "Normally, I would not let this plan out of our office because it contains vital information on our campaign strategy," Republican National Chairman Bill Brock said in a letter that accompanied the report. "I've taken the precaution of registering your copy with a special number in your name."

The report listed the 31 "most targeted" 1978 senatorial, congressional and gubernatorial races and was described by Brock as "the cornerstone of our whole Republican strategy to defeat vulnerable Democrat incumbents."

"I found it fascinating, absolutely fascinating," grinned Archey, a retired Army sergeant who released the report Monday.

"I've never had any dealings with the Republicans. I've been a Democrat since they let servicemen vote. It seems they somehow got hold of a list of retired military," he added. "I've gotten other mailouts from them."

In the Sept. 29 letter, Brock said the Republicans' fund-raising "has declined disastrously" and is lagging $3.2 million behind a projected campaign budget of $10.4 million.

"It's hurting our Republican candidates in Texas and every other state," he said. "Now that Republican election chances are better than ever, our financial situation couldn't be worse."

The only Texas race listed is that for the District 22 congressional seat between Democrat Bob Gammage and Republican Ron Paul. Bill Clements, who is attempting to become the first Republican governor of Texas since Reconstruction, is not mentioned.

Archey gleefully noted that the report omits Republican Tom Loeffler, who is running against Bexar County Democrat Nelson Wolff for the congressional seat being vacated by Democratic senatorial nominee Bob Krueger.

Loeffler, who has gotten campaign help from Republican leaders Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan and John Connally, has claimed his candidacy was one of the Republicans' top 1978 priorities.

The six targeted U.S. Senate races, the report said, are in West Virginia, Minnesota, Colorado, Maine, Mississippi and Iowa. The gubernatorial contests are in California, New York, Oregon, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Minnesota.

As for the apparent top-secret nature of the report, Archey scoffed, "That's fund-raising talk. There are no secrets in politics."

Scenes of a tree-surrounded gazebo dimly outlined in fog, with a lawn suitable for croquet in the foreground, always belong in England, right? Wrong. This is a view of Midland's Wadley-Barron Park at the corner of Cuthbert Avenue and A Street this morning. An extraordinarily thick blanket of fog enveloped the city for awhile, cutting visibility to an official eighth of a mile. But to Midlanders driving to work between 7:30 and 8 a.m., when the shrouding mist was at its worst, visibility may have seemed more like a matter of yards. Related story on Page 2A. (Staff Photo by Mike Kardos)

Heavy battle shakes Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Heavy gunfire broke out today at the main crossroad between Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors, imperiling a three-day-old cease-fire between Lebanon's Christian militias and Syrian peacekeeping troops.

All roads between the two sectors were closed as machine guns blazed and rocket propelled grenades exploded, sending vehicles and pedestrians fleeing in panic. Witnesses said other crossing points between the two sectors came under heavy sniper fire.

Reporters near the scene described the outbreak as the worst violation of the truce since it began Saturday night.

Beirut's Christian radio station reported that Israeli gunboats shelled Palestinian guerrilla camps in southern Lebanon during the night.

The Voice of Lebanon said the guerrillas returned the Israeli gunboat fire. No other details were given, there was no confirmation of the report, and the Israeli military command in Tel Aviv refused to confirm or deny the report.

Israeli gunboats shelled Moslem West Beirut, some 50 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border, last Thursday night to warn the Syrians to call off their war against Israel's Christian allies in East Beirut.

A cease-fire took effect in Beirut on Saturday after 10 days of fighting that left 1,300 dead and 2,000 wounded by Lebanese police count.

The Christian radio said Syrian snipers were still active in the Qarantina bridge area on the northeast side of the city.

The bridge is on the supply highway from Jounieh, the Christian port 15 miles north of Beirut, to the Christian half of the city. The broadcast said because of the sniping, the bridge remained closed to traffic.

The Christian radio also charged that the Syrians were maintaining their "food blockade" of East Beirut, preventing International Red Cross vehicles from bringing food and medicine to the survivors of the Syrian artillery, rocket and machine-gun fire. But foreign reporters in Beirut saw vehicles entering the Christian sector from the north on Monday.

Lebanon's moderate Moslem leadership criticized President Elias Sarkis for launching his peace initiative with Syria without consulting them. Sarkis, who negotiated the cease-fire with Syrian President Hafez Assad last week, is on a visit to three Arab governments that contribute troops to the Arab League peacekeeping force in Lebanon. Syria supplies the bulk of the peace force.

"We have neither been consulted nor represented," said Prime Minister Selim el-Hoss, a Moslem.

ROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd

Autumn is the season for fairs, livestock shows, bluegrass festivals, outings, sidewalk sales, carnivals and starving artists' sales.

The latter is coming up this weekend under the sponsorship of the normally behind-the-scenes wives of the eager Jaycees — the Jaycee-ettes. And you wonder if the artists and craftsmen really are starving and if their works reflect that.

It's elementary that to starve is to go exceedingly hungry — hungry to point the digestive tract contains only air. Nowadays, in a loose sense, to starve is to go without luxuries. And to be denied that is to be denied the American dream.

So, is that what the starving artists are seeking? You bet. Plus that same bit of immortality the author posthumously reaps in a best-selling book.

Notwithstanding, 78 artists and artisans from Arizona to Texas will be displaying their works and wares at Dellwood Shopping Mall this Friday and Saturday.

It's supposed to be a tri-beneficial thing: earnings for the starving ones; proceeds to the slaving Jaycee-ettes and satisfaction and pleasure to the paying customers and art aficionados.

Jaycee-ette Kathy Credicott doesn't exactly know what will be on display, but she's sure it'll be different and predictably unpredictable.

"Every artist doesn't do anything like anybody else," she said. Essentially, that's what makes an artist an artist and not art thieves, plagiarists or third-grade tracers and copiers.

For sale will be oils, watercolors, acrylics, silkscreens and more paintings in other media. Subjects will be from landscapes to intimate character portrayals and from the realistic to the abstract and surrealistic.

"We've got everything," she said without knowing exactly what's coming in. "If it's mentionable, we've got it."

This sixth annual arts-and-crafts sale will feature a "silent auction" of stuff donated by the starving lot and the magical antics of an anonymous Tommy the Clown. He's supposed to do uncommon things with balloons.

Money the Jaycee-ettes reap from the sale will go toward their community service projects. And with that in mind, the wives of the ever-upward-striving Jaycees don't seem to mind the labors and toiling in setting up the show.

"We enjoy it so much, it's really not work," said Ms. Credicott, who is chairman of the starving artists' sale. And after a pause, she allowed: "It's this (work), too."

The "starving" ones should appreciate the Jaycee-ettes' labors.

Commission considers public housing

By MARK VOGLER
R-T Staff Writer

Midland County is considering its first organized and federally subsidized housing program, a service which the city of Midland has, in effect, twice turned down on a point of principle.

The Midland City Council two years in a row refused to include a rental subsidy provision in its annual funding requests, causing federal Housing and Urban Developments funds amounting to a total of almost $2 million to be withheld in fiscal years 1977 and 1978.

Some of those funds subsequently became available for possible county-level use.

And while county commissioners voted Monday to defer any action on the use of $230,000 in Federal Department of Housing and Urban Developments funds until the Midland Housing Association and the County

Judge's Committee on Aging make recommendations on a housing assistance program, County Judge Blake Hansen said the commissioners court is interested in considering a rental subsidy program if there are residents in the county who are in need of the assistance.

The establishment of a rental assistance program is a stated prerequisite to the use of the community development funds, according to HUD officials.

HUD funds now being eyed by the county represent a partial reallocation of $1 million the city of Midland lost in 1977 when it refused to enact a rent subsidy plan.

Midland County must apply for more funds to establish a housing program, or risk losing the HUD grant, commissioners have indicated.

The county also must revamp its (Continued on Page 2A)

Midland GOP campaign much better financed

By LINDA HILL
R-T Staff Writer

Midland County Republican campaign "war chests" are much heavier than their Democratic counterparts, in part because of transfusions from state Republican organizations.

Best financed of all, thus far at least, is Sam Snoddy, Republican candidate for county commissioner, Precinct 2.

There are only two contested races at the local level on the November ballot.

In financial disclosure statements filed for the period through Sept. 28, William B. Ahders, Republican candidate for county judge, reported $5,232.50 in contributions, compared to $2,762.69 for incumbent candidate, Democrat Blake Hansen.

Among Ahders' contributions are election78

$1,000 from Associated Republicans of Texas and $340 from the Texas Republican Campaign Committee.

In the race for county commissioner of Precinct 2, Snoddy reported $5,785 raised, including $500 from Associated Republicans of Texas, $200 from the Texas Republican Campaign Committee and $140 from the

DPW probing pollution of Whalen Lake

AUSTIN — An official from the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife said today recent chemical tests the agency has taken reveal that excessive amounts of oil and grease may be being discharged into Whalen Lake in Andrews County.

Jim Roberts, supervisor of the department's pollution surveillance program, said the test results would be presented to the Texas Railroad Commission as evidence for an Oct. 26 hearing.

The commission will at that time review the disposal methods of the Whalen Corp., a Dallas-based subsidiary of Triton Oil and Gas Corp., also of Dallas, said Roberts.

Whalen Lake is one of several playa lakes in West Texas now being checked for possible pollution.

According to Roberts, the pollution of the lakes could lead to ground water contamination and could ultimately result in the deaths of hundreds of thousands of migratory birds which use the lakes as resting places during late fall and winter.

Although acknowledging that the Parks and Wildlife Department has no jurisdiction over anyone discharging oil and grease into the lakes, Roberts said his agency is concerned about the situation and will advise the Railroad Commission of the findings.

Allegations brought by a U.S. Interior Department official concerning bird kills at Whalen Lake were reviewed by a federal grand jury in Midland in February 1977.

However, the grand jury decided to refer the matter to the Railroad Commission, the state body which has jurisdiction in regard to possible discharges of petroleum substances into playa lakes.

The commission, following several days of hearings, granted Whalen Corp. a permit to continue disposal into Whalen Lake.

The commission also stipulated then that the company would have to make certain improvements in its disposal methods and that the permit would be reviewed in late 1978. The commission will review that permit at the hearing later this month, noted Roberts.

Roberts said he and another chemist conducted tests at Whalen Lake, 15 miles west of Andrews, on Sept. 28 and Oct. 4 and found "excessive amounts of oil and grease at the discharge points" on both dates.

"We found that the reading on Sept. 28 was 176.2 parts per million and the Oct. 4 test showed 52.2 parts per million at the discharge point," Roberts said in a telephone interview today.

"The normally acceptable levels of oil and grease are 20 to 25 parts per million. I expect the commission will take a very dim view of the 176.2 reading, which is high by anyone's standards."

"The Railroad Commission has been trying to clear this up, and I believe the tests we present to it later this month will be of some consequence at the hearing."

Ismael Nava, a San Angelo-based chemist who accompanied Roberts on the tests, said the situation at the lake "doesn't look too good since there haven't been too many improvements over the past year."

The two officials said they plan to conduct other investigations of West Texas playa lakes in the coming weeks to determine whether any other lakes pose a hazard to migratory birds, principally waterfowl.

In West Texas, playa lakes often are called buffalo wallows. The lakes usually hold water only for short periods of time following spells of moderate to heavy rainfalls.

Roberts said wildlife experts in his department are detailing an

Smith fails to dissolve opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both sides agree Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith failed to dissolve U.S. government opposition to his plans for racially torn Rhodesia during a two-hour meeting at the State Department.

"It was a meeting with all the bark off," said State Department spokesman Hodding Carter. "Both sides expressed their points of view very clearly and forcefully. There was no progress made."

Smith, who is white, and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, one of the black partners in his regime, were to meet reporters from several American publications today after the meeting Monday with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young and Peter Jay, the British ambassador to the United States.

"It was a repetition of old ideas," said Smith, whose critics say his plans for Rhodesia would perpetuate the power and privileges of a white minority under the guise of black majority rule. "They have their own ideas, and we have our own ideas," Sithole said after Monday's meeting.

And when Smith was asked if he had changed the views of the Carter administration that his "internal settlement" is an unacceptable plan for bringing blacks into power, he replied, "Negative."

A joint British-American statement issued after the meeting renewed a call for a conference among Smith's administration and all other parties to the present unrest in Rhodesia — including black guerilla groups — with the aim of agreeing to a new plan for transition to majority rule.

John Tower gets nod

John Tower has served the Lone Star State of Texas faithfully and well in the United States Senate for 17 years, and we can see no reason for making a change at this time.

He is the Republican nominee for re-election to the Senate in the Nov. 7 general election. He is opposed by Democrat Rep. Robert Krueger.

Both men are well known in West Texas and both have fine records of public service.

Both also have voting records, which express their basic political philosophy, and this is where the choice between the two nominees must be made.

John Tower's voting record in the Senate has been conservative and responsible, in line with the thinking of what we believe to be a majority of residents of this part of the state, and most of Texas, for that matter.

He has been responsive, generally speaking, to the expressed and specific desires of his constituents, while striving always to serve the best interests of his home state and its residents.

Sen. Tower has gone to bat time after time for what he considered to be the best interests of the oil and gas industry, particularly in its efforts to meet the challenge of the energy crisis, and in its significant relationship with Texas and Texans.

His interests and efforts also have been geared to the goals, progress and problems of other industries and commercial interests affecting Texas' economy.

Sen. Tower strongly opposed the so-called "labor reform" package and remains unalterably opposed to any move which would eliminate or dilute the State's Right-to-Work laws.

Rep. Krueger, on the other hand, supported the "labor reform" measure, stating his belief that it was not a threat to Right-to-Work laws. Krueger also has the support of big labor in his campaign for election to the Senate.

Sen. Tower also opposes, without reservation, the amendment giving "statehood" to Washington, D.C. Rep. Krueger voted for the measure.

Rep. Krueger, however, must be given credit for his diligent, untiring efforts to gain immediate deregulation of natural gas. And he came very near achieving this goal at one time. Texans are grateful to him for his efforts in this particular cause, but many disagree with him on other legislative matters.

Sen. Tower also strives diligently for a strong defense posture and disagrees with the Carter administration in most of its foreign policies.

Considering these and other factors based on his record and his conservative political philosophy, The Reporter-Telegram endorses John Tower and recommends his re-election to the U.S. Senate in the Nov. 7 balloting.

Any renter who has run into problems in seeking a return of a cleaning deposit for an apartment must have found a hero in Terry Sundkvist.

Sundkvist had plunked down a $50 deposit on renting a place in Sacramento, Calif., and then asked for its return when he moved out, leaving the rental in a neat and clean condition.

He was told in so many words by the manager to go to Helen Hunt for it.

Sundkvist, it turns out was a law student, and, well, he needed the practice, so he filed suit in small claims court and won a judgment of $50 plus $200 in punitive damages.

Management of the apartment complex still was unmoved and unpaying. Sundkvist continued to take legal steps and the firm which owned the units and its attorney continued to ignore them.

Then the owners attempted to sell the property and ran into a little problem. Sundkvist has clouded the title and has refused their offer of $10,000 to relinquish his interest.

It appears that the once frustrated renter is waiting for the owners to clean up their act.

INSIDE REPORT:

'Rocky Mountain tax fever' raging in Colorado

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

DENVER — The possibility that the White House and Democratic party leaders have guessed wrong on the pivotal issue of tax reduction is raised by grim re-election prospects for liberal Democratic Sen. Floyd Haskell.

The consensus here is that Haskell has been dropping for five months and either trails Rep. Bill Armstrong, his conservative Republican foe, or soon will. The just-published Denver Post poll shows an eight-percentage-point Armstrong lead among probable voters. Raw figures give Haskell a four-percentage-point lead but only 41 percent; less than 50 percent at this stage usually spells defeat for an incumbent.

The national significance: no Republican has geared his campaign to the Kemp-Roth tax reduction bill more closely than Armstrong. A close friend of Rep. Jack Kemp and an original co-sponsor of his bill, Armstrong wants this election to be a tax referendum.

Haskell is more than agreeable. He is skeptical even of the Senate's $25 billion tax cut and describes Kemp-Roth as "totally irresponsible." His beautifully crafted 30-minute TV program does not fudge, while pointing to big budget deficits, Haskell declares: "We can't at the same time have a tax cut."

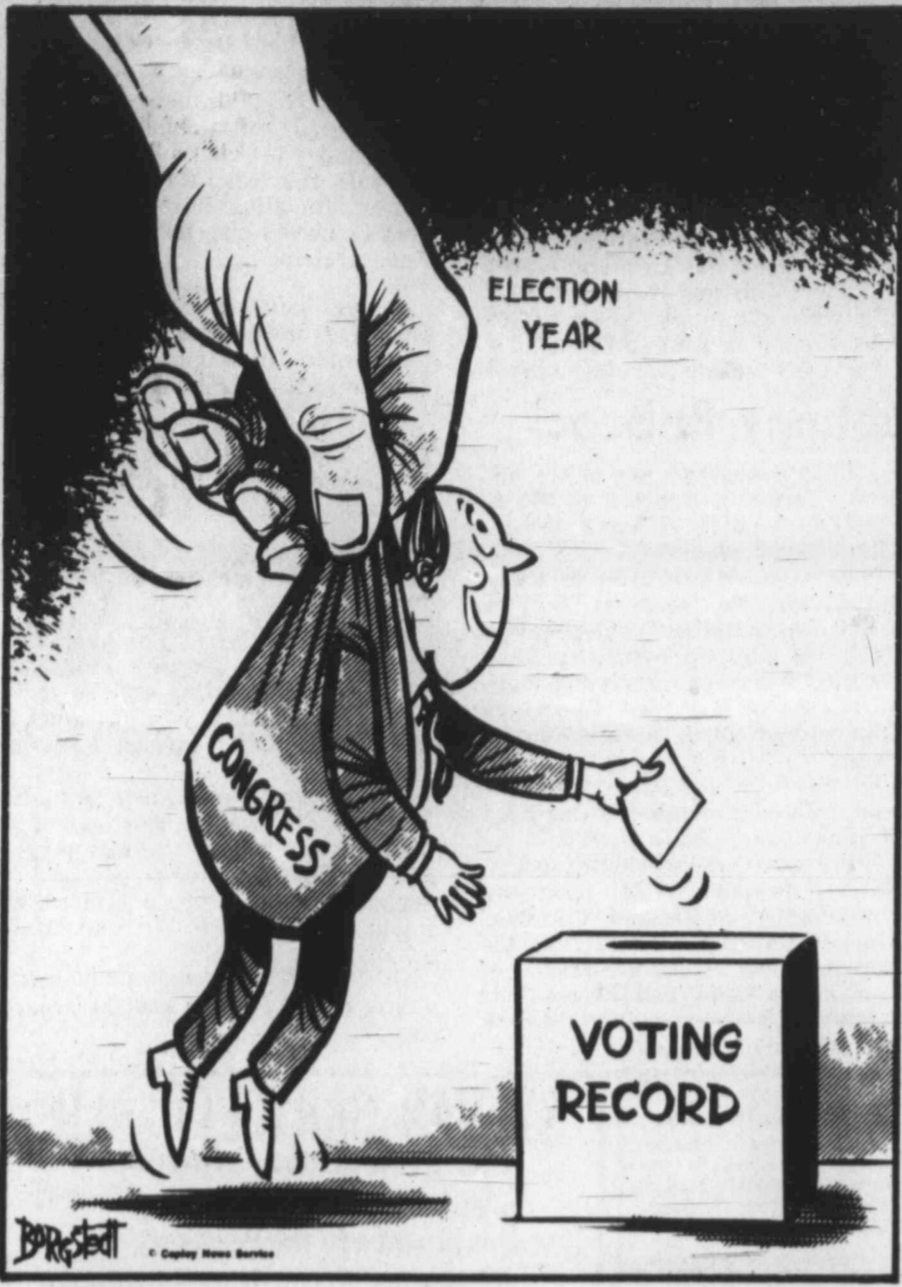

Instead, Haskell calls for a balanced budget. That may seem peculiar for a senator whose economy rating by the National Taxpayers Union is a subpar 27 percent (compared to Armstrong's 74 percent). Just last year, Haskell warned that a balanced budget now would produce

"one of the damndest recessions we've ever had." However exotic for liberal Democrats, the balanced-budget formula is the antidote devised by party strategists to neutralize Kemp-Roth. But one such national strategist, after studying Colorado polls, told us: "It's not working for Haskell." His recommendation: "Hit Armstrong as a right-winger."

There is indeed a vivid contrast. Ex-tax lawyer Haskell, 62, a transplanted Jerseyite and Harvard man who has not lost his cultivated Eastern accent, is viewed by Republicans as typical of leftist newcomers who have transformed Colorado's Democratic party. Ex-businessman Armstrong, 41, a native Nebraskan, is derided by Democrats for wearing his evangelical Christianity (he was "born again" four years ago) on his sleeve and is considered typical of Republican rightward drift here.

In 1970, Armstrong was Republican leader in the state Senate while Haskell was Republican whip in the House. Haskell's unorthodox Republicanism was increasingly challenged by fellow Republicans, and he

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Chief Justice Burger vs. press

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON — The open hostility of the courts toward the press, which has resulted in the jailing of several reporters without a trial for refusing to divulge their news sources, possibly has grown out of the private attitudes of Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Behind the heavy maroon drapes of the Supreme Court, he has assailed the press bitterly. Witnesses say he reflects the animosity of the man who appointed him, ex-President Richard Nixon. These witnesses recall that Burger, in the privacy of his chambers, castigated the press for its Watergate coverage. They say he seemed as antagonistic toward newsmen as Nixon, whose hate affair with the press now appears to have infected the federal judiciary.

It may seem ironic, therefore, that Burger wrote the 8-to-0 ruling that compelled Nixon to submit to the trial courts his incriminating secret White House tapes. But behind the scenes, the chief justice raised pro-Nixon arguments in the Supreme Court chambers. Even from the bench, he made observations and asked questions that were sympathetic to Nixon.

Our sources suggest that Burger probably decided he could help Nixon more by writing a restrained majority opinion than standing alone in Nixon's corner. Burger took pains in the decision to give Nixon credit for good faith, even though the former president clearly sought to withhold the tapes to protect himself from public disgrace and criminal charges. Those who know Burger say he has been a Nixon partisan for a quarter of a century. Of course, judges aren't supposed to let their personal prejudices affect their judicial decisions. But the chief justice displayed a vengeful spirit, our sources say, in encouraging his fellow justices to join him in anti-press rulings. Four justices were appointed by Nixon and at least two others share the former president's hostile attitude toward the press.

The Supreme Court, of course, sets the precedents for the lower courts. Its rulings against the press have encouraged judges, attorneys and grand juries across the country to serve an unprecedented barrage of subpoenas on newsmen. Dozens of reporters have been cited for contempt.

Burger was visibly elated, according to witnesses, after the recent jailing of The New York Times reporter Myron Farber for refusing to hand over his confidential notes to a New Jersey judge. The chief justice was beaming as he approached two newsmen, Fred Graham of CBS News and Steven Brill of Esquire magazine, at the recent American Bar Association convention in New York City.

"Well, I guess they're going to fire Gary Wills from The New York Times," said Burger, smiling happily. Wills had written a column contending that newsmen have no right to withhold subpoenaed papers from the courts. "Did you see it? It was great," Burger said, referring to the column.

"Wills is not a columnist for the Times. He's syndicated. I don't even

A CHANGING WORLD: United States policy threatens major industry

By JOHN PINKERMAN Copley News Service

President Carter and others before him have for several years bemoaned the nation's massive balance of payments deficit and have pointed the finger of guilt principally at petroleum imports.

The President and Congress might give greater attention to the No. 2 villain — textile and apparel imports. In some ways such as lost American jobs, increased unemployment compensation costs, disappearing tax revenue and added welfare costs, the detrimental impact of the flood of textile and clothing imports is greater than that resulting from continued dependence on Mideast oil.

There are 2.5 million textile and apparel workers in this country and 365,000 of these are either unemployed (200,000) or on short time (165,000).

At the same time, 1978 imports through August of textiles and clothing, mostly from Japan, South Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, India and Red China, have increased by 40 percent over the first eight months of 1977.

On top of this the 1977 balance-of-trade deficit in textiles of $3.4 billion has increased 70 percent this year. This includes an increase of 25 percent in Japanese imports — at the same time that the government pleads it is working hard to reduce the massive balance of trade deficit that is in Japan's favor.

John Pinkerman

Much of the government's rationale for permitting such imbalance has been that letting foreign textiles and products enter the United States at such a disadvantage to American manufacturers and workers has been in the interests of helping Third World and developing nations. As Buford Brandis, economics expert with the American Textile Manufacturers Institute, said in an interview, "We have, in essence, a 'Third World' population of our own in this country and it is being deprived of work by short-sighted policies."

What Brandis means is vividly illustrated by statistics. Along with the fact that the textile industry employs 65 percent women in its 2.5 million work force, the job rolls also include 23 percent minority participation in other industrial work.

Further impact of imports is the fact that unemployment in textiles in this country is 7.6 percent and 10 percent in apparel. This contrasts with the 6.4 percent jobless rate in other industries.

This loss of jobs in textiles, while concentrated in the southeastern states, extends across the nation, from New England to Oregon and south to Southern California where the Los Angeles area alone employs 60,000 textile and apparel workers. In New York City ethnics fill a major share of 250,000 jobs that are subject to the impact of foreign textiles and products dumped into the United States.

A new dimension in this problem is the role of Red China. Five years ago China did not send any products to the United States. Today it has a monopoly on the work gloves market in this country and, considering the "normalization" thrust of the Carter White House, it soon will have "most favored nation" status, thus worsening conditions for U.S. manufacturers.

"China has the potential of Japan in textile and apparel exports to the United States," Brandis said, "and that will further damage American industry."

Brandis claims that the American theory of "free trade is great" just doesn't work in his industry. "We must buy American cotton and wool and other products," he said, "while the foreign countries that send their material and products here can shop on the cheaper world market."

"We are also told that if our workers lose their jobs they can always switch to the electronics industry. However, almost everybody knows that electronics products — television sets, radio sets, tape recorders and others — are mostly manufactured outside the United States now."

The problem is a tough one. The United States always has sought to assist less fortunate nations and to encourage free trade. However, balance of payments deficits, increased unemployment in the textile industry and other associated problems would seem to indicate a need for a new look at policy on imports. This does not mean the erection of a rigid protectionist wall but it does mean some action that will give a better break to American industry and its workers.

Papal workload too much?

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The sudden death of Pope John Paul I is again raising the question of whether the papal workload is too much for one man.

But for the time being, long workdays seem to be in store for the new Roman Catholic pontiff the 111 cardinals will start voting for on Sunday.

"One doesn't only need typewriters, but also a reading machine," John Paul is reported to have told aides during his 34-day reign.

Some prelates say the burden of the office may have been a cause of the heart seizure that killed the 65-year-old "pastor" pope who admitted knowing little about administrative matters.

When found dead in his bed Sept. 29, he was holding study papers in his hands. On his last workday, he granted 13 audiences, read six Roman newspapers and studied reports on the Christian-Syrian fighting in Lebanon and abuses of human rights in various countries.

"In the hands of the pope — and on his shoulders — there is unequalled concentration of power and responsibility," the Turin newspaper La Stampa commented. "Seven hundred million Roman Catholics turn to him. He is head of a state recognized by over 100 countries. He is the administrator of a unit that has universal proportions."

The Vatican Curia, the church's central bureaucracy, is sizable and immensely skilled, but it can't do much without the pope's consent. No document issued by the Holy See has legal validity without his signature.

Multiplying Vatican departments only means more work for the pontiff.

"Not only is the work too much for one person but it is getting worse, and there is nothing one can do about it without changing the concept of the papacy," says one observer of Vatican affairs.

Questions currently raised include whether the papacy should be switched from the time-honored "absolute monarchy" system to one with clearer division and delegation of power and responsibility, and what that change would mean to the authority of a pope.

In addition to the cardinals and other prelates who head the Curia departments, popes consult other cardinals and bishops. But such consultations only consume more time, and the pontiffs must still make their decisions in the solitude of their office.

"The time has come to reduce the heavy burden of pontifical work, delegating some papal functions so that work will not extend beyond human toleration," Cardinal Franz Koenig of Vienna said after the death of John Paul.

John Paul went to bed around 10 p.m., but he got up around 4 a.m. to get ready for the heavy administrative workday he never anticipated he would face.

His predecessor, Paul VI, often worked from 6 a.m. until 2 a.m., with only a brief afternoon nap to interrupt his labors. But he was a Vatican veteran with a liking for administrative detail, to the extent of changing punctuation marks.

Five years ago, with Paul's frail health waning, there was active talk of a "deputy" pope. Nothing came of it since creation of the post would have meant a major break with tradition. That, too, needed careful and time-consuming study.

Despite his health, Pope Paul survived the papal work load for 15 years and died at 80, the retirement age he made mandatory for the rest of the church's bishops. But he did not extend the retirement mandate to himself and once was quoted as saying: "Kings can abdicate, popes cannot."

NEW YORK (AP) — Rudy Vallee crooned a few bars and reminisced about the days the Copacabana nightclub was the "Villa Vallee," as the famous nightclub reopened on its 50th anniversary as a showcase for recording artists.

The Copa, run as a discotheque since 1976, "is without a doubt the biggest name in show business," owner John Juliano said Monday. "During the '40s, '50s and '60s if you didn't play the Copa you were nowhere."

Vallee, 77, played the Copa in 1929. As the Villa Vallee the nightclub served steak for $2.50 and "had an overflow so big you couldn't get in," he said.

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — The 80-year-old mother of President Carter says she was surprised when she met Gov. Ella Grasso.

"Before I met Ella, I thought she was going to be a great big fat person, sort of sweaty," Lillian Carter said Monday amid laughter from several hundred Democrats including Mrs. Grasso. "You've seen 'em. But she's just the opposite — charming, not fat, not sweaty."

Mrs. Carter met Mrs. Grasso for the first time when the two were part of the U.S. delegation to Pope John Paul I's funeral.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The cowboy feud between Gene Autry and Roy Rogers was just a Hollywood game, Autry says in his autobiography, "Back In The Saddle Again."

According to Autry, his old Republic Pictures boss, Herbert J. Yates, was angered when he enlisted in the Army Air Corps after Pearl Harbor.

"By the time you come back, you'll be forgotten," the studio boss said. "And it won't hurt us. No, sir. If we have to, we'll spend a million dollars to promote (Roy) Rogers. And we'll make him bigger than you ever were."

Autry returned from the war to find that Rogers indeed was a big star. But as for their feud: "That was just a publicity thing. The Republic publicity department thought it would be a good idea... But there was no personal feud whatsoever."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Singer Bobby Vinton has received the high degree he never had time to study for because he was too busy recording hit songs.

The native of Canonsburg in nearby Washington County returned to Pittsburgh to receive an honorary Doctor of Music degree from Duquesne University. He studied the oboe there before graduating in 1956.

Vinton formed his own band when he was 15 years old, financing his college education with money he made performing at Pittsburgh area clubs. He is best known for recordings of the early 1960s, including "Roses Are Red," "Blue Velvet" and "There, I've Said It Again."

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George Wallace will become director of development for rehabilitation resources for the University of Alabama school system, a spokesman said.

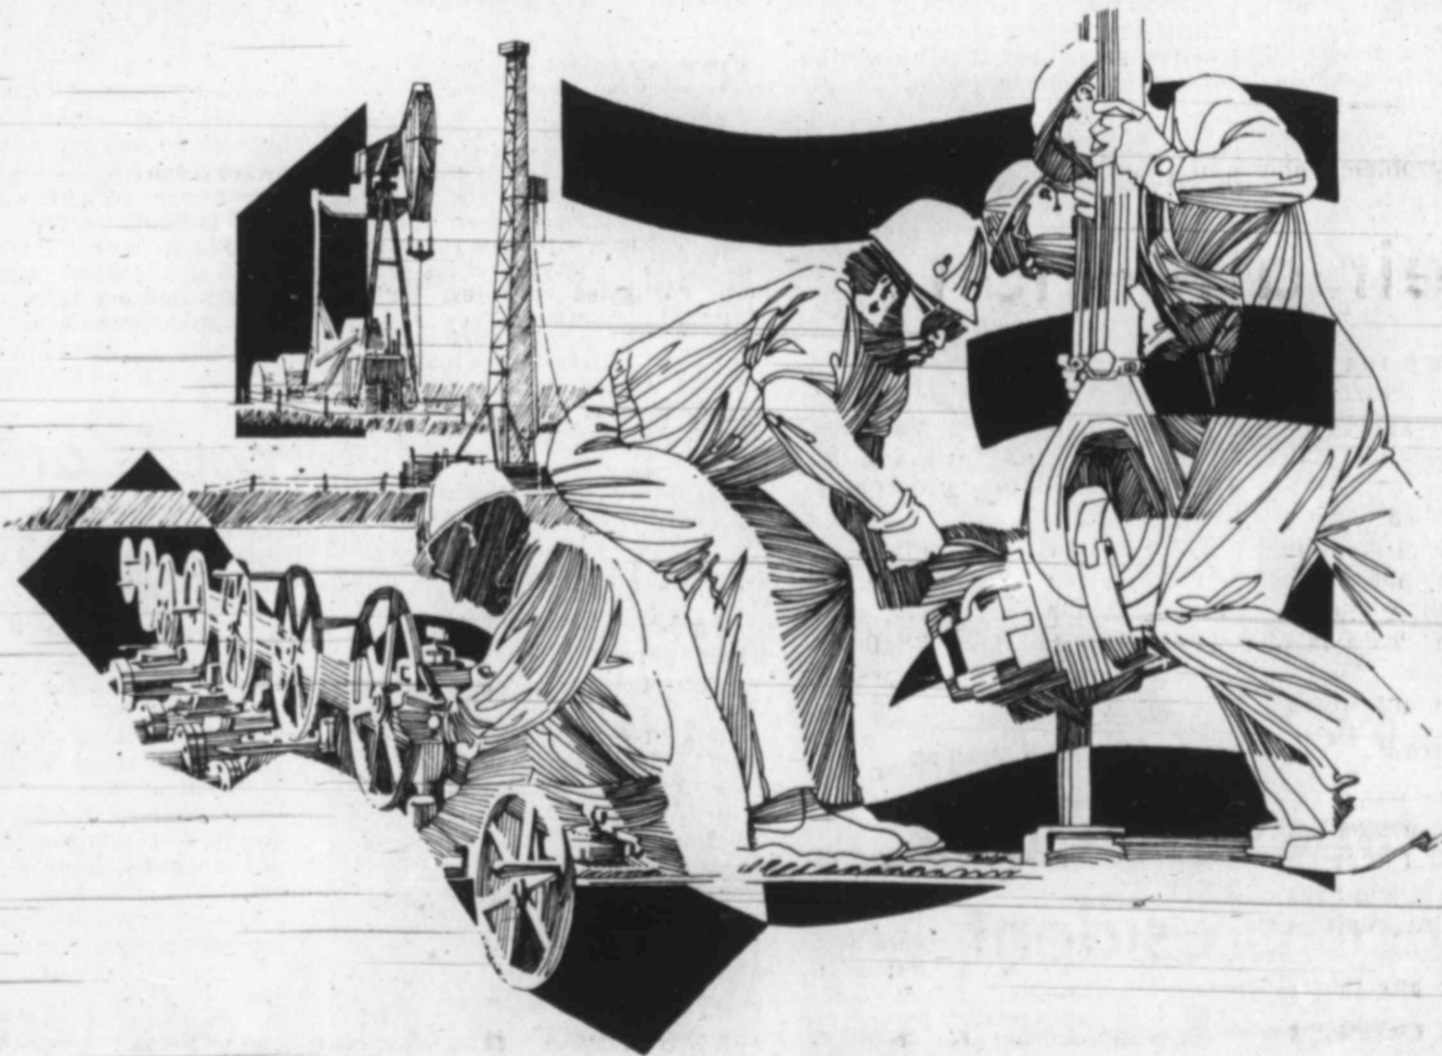

Wallace, who will be based at the UA's Birmingham campus, was partially paralyzed in an assassination attempt during his 1972 campaign for the presidency.

His duties are expected to include fund raising, consulting in rehabilitation, working for federal grant agencies and lecturing. He will assume his duties after Jan. 16, when the next governor is inaugurated.

NEW YORK (AP) — Art Linkletter made an unannounced guest appearance on the television show hosted by his son, Jack.

Jack had asked for a non-running member of NBC-TV's "America Alive" audience to assist in a demonstration on how to prevent running injuries. The camera panned the studio and singled out Art, who was seated with his wife, Lois.

The capital of one of the nation's great oil-producing regions is in Midland, Texas.

Texas American Bancshares is in Midland, too.

The Permian Basin of West Texas is one of the nation's most prolific oil and gas producing regions, whose bountiful production from thousands of wells is playing a vital role in meeting our growing energy needs. The capital of the Permian Basin is Midland, where Commercial Bank & Trust Co., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Texas American Bancshares, is an important factor in the city's financial scene.

That's why Midland is an important part of the Texas American Bancshares story of Texas-style growth.

Texas American Bancshares is the largest bank holding company in Texas which has built a statewide banking organization from a base other than Houston or Dallas.

Strong Statewide Banking Organization

Home base is Fort Worth, a dynamic part of the Dallas-Fort Worth Southwest Metroplex, the nation's tenth largest market. Our lead bank, The Fort Worth National, is the city's largest and oldest financial institution.

Of course, we're also in Houston and Dallas. We're in Houston with three banks, including a major downtown entry, Southern National Bank. Our newest Houston acquisition is the Galleria Bank, located in the famed Galleria Complex, one of the nation's most successful retail market places. We're in Dallas with Texas American Bank, the city's eighth largest bank. And we're a part of the resources-rich and thriving economies of West Texas, the Panhandle and the South Plains, with strong banks in Midland, Amarillo and Levelland.

Our long-range plans include strengthening our ties to the state's burgeoning economy through prudent expansion into other key areas of Texas.

Most importantly, we're growing across Texas. Steadily. Solidly. Forging ahead from a strong capital base which positions us to take advantage of the favorable economic conditions prevailing in our areas of operations.

13.4% Compound Growth Rate

We've grown in per share earnings, which over the past five years have risen at a compound rate of 13.4%. Each year since our formation as a holding company in 1970, we've broken the prior year's record highs in deposits, loans, total assets and stockholders' equity. We're now at more than $2 billion in assets and $1.6 billion in deposits. The comparable 1970 year-end figures were $585 million and $458 million.

Dividend Increases

In recognition of our strong earnings performance and future outlook, we increased our dividend rate by 54.4% since January 1976, including the effect of a 5% stock dividend.

We invite your comparison of our performance with those of other bank holding companies in Texas and across the nation.

Judge to hear issues

CLEVELAND (AP) — In the midst of a crippling strike by Cleveland school employees, a federal judge is again getting ready to hear arguments on the debt-ridden school system's prolonged desegregation case.

U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti scheduled a hearing this afternoon on a limited desegregation plan involving some cross-town busing that was to have been implemented last month.

Before the start of the strike, which has prevented classes from being held this fall, the school board proposed closing 19 schools for economic reasons.

The board's reassignment plan, affecting 11,000 pupils, would result in some desegregation in the 100,000-pupil system, 62 percent of whose students are non-white.

However, because of the strike, the school district asked Battisti to allow it to close 26 schools and institute an alternate plan requiring short bus rides for 300 pupils.

At the same time, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asked Battisti to retain the school board's first plan but postpone implementation until nine days after the strike ends.

A court-created office monitoring desegregation efforts has said the school system is not prepared to begin the program.

Venezuela's oil yield showing steady drop

By MONTE HAYES

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Juan Pablo Perez Alfonso, one of the founders of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, says the oil industry in Venezuela is in an irreversible decline and even huge new investments probably would not restore production capacity.

In a 72-page document presented at a graduate student seminar in oil economics Saturday, the 75-year-old Perez Alfonso claimed Venezuela has dropped the price of its oil to the point that it is now "the world's cheapest." He also bemoaned wasteful government spending and the nation's failure to reduce its dependence on the oil industry.

Responding to Perez Alfonso's criticism, President Carlos Andres Perez said Sunday the former oil minister apparently had based his study on erroneous information and denied that Venezuela was underpricing its oil on the world market.

The president agreed, however, that domestic gasoline prices, which are now subsidized, need to be raised to halt skyrocketing consumption.

Venezuela is the world's third largest exporter of oil after Saudi Arabia and Iran, and is a key supplier to the U.S. market. The country nationalized the industry three years ago.

In an effort to keep oil sales high, Venezuela has cut the average price of its oil exports from $12.60 a barrel in 1977 to $12 this year, Perez Alfonso said, compared with $12.70 a barrel for oil from the Arab members of OPEC countries and $13.25 for oil from Mexico, which is not a member of the cartel.

He warned that by dropping its prices beneath the reference prices set by OPEC, Venezuela was not only hurting its own interests, but was weakening the oil cartel and diminishing Venezuela's prestige and influence within OPEC.

The former oil minister expressed concern that Petroleos de Venezuela, the state oil monopoly, is taking a growing part of oil industry earnings for investment in development programs of dubious value while leaving a shrinking percentage for government expenses.

Observing that Petroleos plans to invest nearly $20 billion in the next 10 years, he criticized the oil monopoly for being all too willing to assume the economic risks involved in offshore exploration and implementation of experimental refining processes.

He said the international oil companies should be required to share the risks in the search for oil offshore by putting up investment capital rather than being hired to do the work.

Ralph Nader seeks Schlesinger resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, contending that Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger is a tool of energy producers, recommended at the White House on Monday that Schlesinger be forced to resign.

After a meeting with Stuart E. Eizenstat, the president's domestic affairs adviser, Nader told reporters afterward that Eizenstat was "generally noncommittal."

White House press secretary Jody Powell said it might be "a good recommendation for a secretary of energy that he is not universally loved by everyone."

Nader, accompanied by six representatives of various consumer groups, said Schlesinger has "undermined Carter's campaign pledges regarding energy," and favored big oil and gas corporations to the disadvantage of consumers.

He said Schlesinger has an "authoritarian bent of mind," and has opposed citizen participation in energy policymaking.

Nader complained that Schlesinger has not put enough money into solar energy or conservation. "In short," Nader said, "the Carter energy program, which the people in this country voted on in 1976, has been subverted" by Schlesinger.

"Whenever there is a decision to be made in the Department of Energy, it's a decision that goes the way of the large energy producers and not the users," Nader said at an impromptu news conference at the White House gates.

In response, Nader said, Eizenstat said he believed the Energy Department was "beginning to go into alternative areas, and that he was encouraged by recent trends."

Getty names McCabe group vice president

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Getty Oil Co. announced that John P. McCabe has been named group vice president-Natural Resources, succeeding J. Earle Gray who retired after 23 years with the company.

McCabe previously was vice president and general manager of the company's Southern Exploration and Production Division in Houston.

He joined the company in 1942. He held a variety of engineering and supervisory positions in the company's California and international operations, and in 1959 was named production manager of foreign exploration and production operations.

McCabe, in 1965, served in Iran as managing director of operations for offshore petroleum activities. He returned to the United States in 1967 and held management posts overseeing international operations until 1969, when he was elected a vice president and appointed general manager of the Western Exploration and Production Division.

He was named general manager of the International Exploration and Production Division in 1970 and assumed the Southern Division general manager's post in 1976. He was elected a director of the company in 1977.

Gray joined Getty in 1955 as assistant general manager of the Western Division.

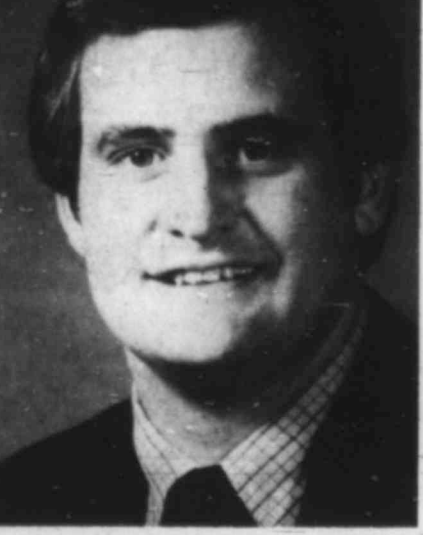

He was elected a vice president in 1964 and a group vice president in 1968.

McCabe is one of the company's three group vice presidents and he reports to Harold E. Berg, president of the company. Robert N. Miller is group vice president—Manufacturing, Marketing and Distribution, and Sidney R. Peterson is group vice president—Finance.

Jud H. Oualine, a vice president and formerly general manager of the Central Exploration and Production Division based in Tulsa, Okla., succeeded McCabe in Houston. He was a vice president of Skelly Oil Co. from 1969 until that company merged into Getty in 1977. He joined Skelly as a senior geologist in 1952. He later was district geologist, division geologist and district exploration manager before becoming exploration manager in Tulsa in 1965.

Joshua M. Tharp Jr., who recently was appointed a vice president, succeeds Oualine as general manager of the Central Division. He joined the company as an engineer in 1946. He served in various engineering and management positions in the United States until he was transferred to the Middle East in 1968.

In 1970, Tharp was appointed production manager of the Western Division in California where he served until his return to the Partitioned Neutral Zone in 1977.

Agreement getting closer on energy tax program

By MIKE SHANAHAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — After nearly 18 months of deliberation, Congress is about to come to grips with the last remaining part of President Carter's energy plan.

By voting Monday for the last two non-tax portions of the energy package — one covering energy conservation and the other electric utility rates — the Senate has now approved conference committee compromises on Monday, the way is clear for the House to begin debate Thursday or Friday on final passage of the energy package, first sent to Capitol Hill in April, 1977.

Although the Senate considered the energy package in five separate pieces, the House plans to lump the conference committee reports together for a final vote.

There will be either four or five parts in the package when the House votes, depending on whether the Senate adopts the conference committee compromise on the energy tax proposal.

In Monday's votes, the Senate decided to require mandatory standards for 13 kinds of home appliances and also approved a collection of incentives for home insulation and other energy-saving actions.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

four of the five original pieces of the Carter energy program.

The fifth, an energy tax proposal that is a severely watered-down version of Carter's original proposal, is working its way toward a conference committee agreement and could reach the Senate floor in the next day or so.

A proposed compromise was signed by House negotiators Monday and Senate members of the committee were expected to sign today.

The measure includes a tax on fuel-inefficient cars applying only to the worst offenders and beginning in 1980, instead of with 1979 models as originally suggested.

The tax would range from $200 to $550 for 1980 models getting less than 15 miles per gallon. By 1986 the levy would rise to a maximum $3,850 for cars getting less than 12.5 mpg.

The tax credit portion would give homeowners 15 percent on the first $2,000 purchase of home insulation, storm windows and doors and a variety of other energy-saving devices, to a total credit of $300. Credits of up to $2,200 for solar energy devices are also included.

As a result of the two Senate votes

Association's plans for meeting complete

DALLAS— More than 600 oil and gas industry leaders and their guests will meet Thursday and Friday at the Galleria Plaza Hotel in Houston for the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association's 50th Annual Meeting.

They will hear informed discussions of U.S. Energy policy federal tax reduction proposals, and nuclear energy developments of the year 2000.

Howard Jarvis of Los Angeles, head of a national tax reduction movement, and John E. Swearingen of Chicago, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, will head a panel of speakers for the convention's general session. It will begin at 9:30 a. m. Friday.

Alexander B. Trowbridge of Morris-town, N. J., vice chairman of Allied Chemical Corp., and H. B. Harkins of Alice, the association's president, also will speak.

The two-day meeting is the only annual Texas gathering which hosts representatives of all segments of the petroleum industry. The association's membership, which numbers approximately 3,300, includes independent oil and gas operators and executives of major energy companies operating in Texas.

Registration begins at 8:30 a. m. Thursday, with a number of committee meetings scheduled for both morning and afternoon. A noon reception and buffet luncheon is scheduled for those persons registered for the meeting.

The association's Oil Information Committee will sponsor its annual Public Affairs Conference at 1:30 p. m. Thursday. The conference, which is open to all registrants, will feature Wayne Gibbens of Washington, D.C., president of the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, and James M. Patterson, Chicago, manager of public affairs operations, Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

Gibbens will speak on governmental relations, with emphasis on the situation in the Washington. Patterson's remarks are entitled "Hanging Loose in a Tightened Noose."

The association president and Mrs. Harkins will be honored at 7 p. m. Thursday with a reception, to be followed by an informal dinner-dance in the headquarters hotel.

The meeting will conclude with the 43rd Annual Distinguished Service Awards luncheon at noon Friday. The Texas petroleum industry's highest honor will be presented to C. John Miller of Allegan, Mich., and independent drilling contractor and producer, and to John Swearingen, chairman of the board of the American Petroleum Institute.

Dorchester projects set

Dorchester Exploration, Inc., operating from Midland, announced a pair of projects in the Conger (Pennsylvanian) pool of Sterling City.

Each is slated for a 7,600-foot bottom and the sites are 5.5 miles southwest of Sterling City.

No. 1-15 Terry is 1,040 feet from south and 1,240 feet from west lines of section 15, block T, T&P survey.

No. 4-32 Westbrook is 1,620 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 32, block 12, SPRR survey.

Priscilla Davis expected to testify in hearing

HOUSTON (AP) — Priscilla Davis, a witness against her husband in a capital murder trial last year when he was acquitted of slaying her 12-year-old daughter, is expected to testify again today in the pretrial hearing of Fort Worth millionaire T. Cullen Davis.

Davis is charged with soliciting the murder of Fort Worth Judge Joe Eidson.

although Eidson was not killed. Eidson has presided in the long and bitter Davis divorce proceedings. He removed himself after the latest charges against Davis were filed.

Mrs. Davis was on the stand for about 90 minutes Monday as defense attorneys probed into her financial dealings over the past two years.

Chief defense lawyer Richard

"Racehorse" Haynes asked Mrs. Davis if she had ever attempted to contact anyone in an effort to have her estranged husband killed.

She answered quickly and firmly, "no sir."

The defense and prosecution are plodding through a thick stack of motions, 83 from the defense alone, before State District Judge Wallace Moore.

Also testifying Monday was Ron Jannings, an FBI agent, who was asked if there were more tape recordings than the four previously mentioned by the prosecution. Jannings said there were no more tapes.

The tapes, first presented in court during an August bond hearing for Davis, allegedly involve the Fort Worth industrialist in a kill-of-hire contract on the life of Judge Eidson.

The defense questioning also involved fingerprints taken from some $100 bills allegedly paid to FBI informant David McCrory for the killing of the judge.

Jannings said none of the bills contained prints of T. Cullen Davis.

Early Monday, Davis, pale from almost two months in prison but dapper in dress and impassive in appearance, pleaded innocent to all charges.

Mrs. Davis, hesitant sometimes in her testimony and often stating she couldn't remember exact dates, was questioned over and over by the defense as to the money she had loaned or the loans or gifts she had received in the past two years.

School district denies discrimination charges

The Big Spring Independent School District has denied any charges of racial discrimination in its decision not to renew the contract of a black coach for the 1977-78 school year.

School board attorney Michael McKinney this week filed the school district's "exceptions" to the findings of a Texas Education Agency hearing officer who found in favor of the coach, James E. Griffin. Griffin had charged his contract with the district was not renewed because of racial discrimination.

"Basically the exceptions centered around the fact that the hearing officer did not establish basis for the charge of racial discrimination," Superintendent Lynn Hise said.

"Our major point was that the basis for the non-renewal of his contract was centered on the teaching position. The basis for the petitioner's charge had to do with the coaching assignment," Hise said.

The hearing examiner's report said the superintendent's recommendation not to renew Griffin's contract was based primarily on a negative report from the district's athletic director.

"Griffin was a teacher as well as a coach," McKinney said. "He didn't get a good recommendation from the athletic director, but he also got a bad recommendation from the assistant principal over him."

Since Griffin's contract was to teach rather than to coach, the recommendation of the assistant principal was the most important one in the decision not to renew the contract, McKinney said.

"We have people on the staff right now who used to coach," Hise noted. "They no longer coach, but were retained as teachers."

"All our personnel are employed as teachers. They are paid extra to coach, but first of all they are teachers," he said.

If the only bad recommendation Griffin had received had been from the athletic director, Hise said, Griffin might still have kept his job as a teacher with the district.

Griffin and his attorney, Gerald Fugit of Odessa, now have 15 days to file answers to the exceptions before the matter goes to the state commissioner of education for a final ruling.

After that ruling, however, either party may appeal the matter further to the state courts.

Israel plans to develop Negev Desert

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Development authorities are working on plans to invest more than $2 billion in new towns and development projects in Israel's Negev desert, officials say.

The new communities will be home to some 4,000 Israelis now living in the controversial Jewish settlements in the Sinai Peninsula, which is to revert to Egypt during the next three years following the signing of an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

A spokesman for the Jewish Agency, Israel's semi-governmental authority for Jewish immigration and settlement, said the agency is preparing plans for 20 new settlements in the western Negev along the Israeli-Egyptian border.

They will replace the settlements Israel established in the Rafah Salient southwest of the Gaza Strip after it occupied the Sinai in 1967. The Knesset, Israel's parliament, has authorized the government to abandon the settlements in exchange for peace with Egypt.

The new settlements are to be built near Kerem Shalom, about 25 miles southwest of Gaza, spokesman Arnon Hadar said Monday. An Egyptian demilitarized zone will be to the west and the Negev's main town, Beersheba, will be to the east.

Planning of the new settlements will take about seven to eight months, then infrastructure work can be started, according to Hadar.

DA resigns post stripped from him despite appeals

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) — Bill Green has resigned from a district attorney's post that had already been stripped from him by the courts and says he will be a write-in candidate for county judge of Anderson County.

The 30-year-old Democrat was disbarred last February and suspended from office last April after being convicted in 1977 of public lewdness in Austin. But he had refused to leave office, insisting that he was still the district attorney until all his appeals were exhausted.

He announced Monday, however, that he was abandoning that course because of the "slow and tedious" court proceedings involved.

"I thought it was somewhat futile to continue twisting in the wind waiting for the ... process to run its course," Green said.

He said Monday his letter of resignation to Gov. Dolph Briscoe would be "in the mail tonight" and that he had already filed his intent to run Nov. 7 against Democratic incumbent County Judge N.R. Link.

Green said "folks all across the district" encouraged him to run. "They are the rank and file, the John and Jane Does of this county, and they have asked me to remain active in county government," Green said.

An acting prosecutor, Richard Handorf, was appointed district attorney after Green was suspended last April, but the controversy never ceased.

A tri-county Democratic Party committee met last month and voted to put the name of Billy Bandy on the General Election ballot to serve out the remainder of Green's term. Republicans challenged the action, saying Handorf should serve out the 27 months left in the term.

Father charged in two stabbings

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — A 45-year-old Clifton plumber has been charged with two counts of murder in connection with the stabbing deaths of two of his daughters.

Robert Hannah was being held under police guard at Passaic General Hospital Monday night where he was reported in fair condition with an apparently self-inflicted stab wound in the abdomen, police said.

He was being held on $150,000 bail.

Senate seeks spending, taxing tie

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Senate has its way, there'll be no tax cuts in future years unless Congress holds down the growth of federal spending.

On the other hand, a successful fight against rapid spending increases would reward Americans with new tax cuts totaling $164.5 billion between 1980 and 1983. That would mean a tax reduction of about $453 over those four years for a typical four-member family earning $20,000.

There is no assurance that the tie between future tax cuts and reductions in federal spending growth will be accepted by the House.

But the fact the amendment won such broad support, 65-20, in the Senate Monday night indicates the election-year concern about inflation.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., a sponsor of the proposal, said that while there is little doubt Americans want tax relief, "I do not believe that they would welcome tax reductions at the expense of increased inflation, continued deficits and profligate government spending."

With final action on the overall bill expected tonight, some of the biggest battles on the measure were still to come.

The Senate was faced with efforts to scale back the capital-gains tax cut recommended by the Finance Committee and attempts to include some of President Carter's tax-revision proposals that were rejected by the panel.

A big roadblock to final

Senate passage of the bill — and to congressional adjournment for the year on Saturday — was removed Monday when the Senate voted, 62-28, to bar non-tax amendments from the bill.

That vote could end any chance of enacting this year either the Humphrey-Hawkins full-employment bill or legislation to control hospital costs.

Passage of the tax bill also may be expedited by the fact the Senate has already enlarged the tax cut to the point where there is no room in the budget for a bigger reduction.

The bill, which came out of the committee with a $22.9 billion price tag, now is valued at $30 billion. The budget limit on revenue losses will rule out any additional cuts unless they are accompanied by other revenue raisers.

The budget squeeze is jeopardizing the current tax deduction allowed for state and local gasoline taxes. The House voted to repeal the deduction, as did the Finance Committee.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., is leading a fight to retain the deduction, as the Senate had voted consistently to do in recent years.

When it was pointed out that the $1.2 billion cost of keeping the deduction would break the budget, Helms agreed to put off a vote.

The Nunn amendment automatically linking new tax cuts to the federal budget would allow the new tax cuts starting in 1980 if the increase in federal spending is held to one percent above the inflation rate, and if spending drops, by a graduated scale, from today's level of about 22½ percent of Gross National Product to 19½ percent by 1983.

The tax cuts in those four years would be spread among various income levels in about the same proportion as the proposed 1979 tax reductions.

Already in the bill is a Finance Committee provision that seeks to hold down spending by threatening higher taxes. Under this plan, an automatic tax increase would go into effect if federal spending in any year exceeds a target level.

Taxpayers would have to be told on their tax forms exactly why their taxes were being raised.

Judge orders Farber to return to jail

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber was ordered today to return to jail Thursday unless he surrenders his files in a murder case.

Superior Court Judge Theodore W. Trautwein said Farber, who is Jewish, would be given the extra time so that he could observe Yom Kippur, a holiday in the Jewish religion.

"I want this man to be able to observe his High Holy Day," Trautwein said. "Maybe there will be a change of mind Thursday morning. Think about it, Mr. Farber."

Trautwein asked Farber if he still insisted on withholding files subpoenaed by attorneys for Dr. Mario Jascalevich, who is accused of three counts of murder in the deaths of patients at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell, N.J.

"Your honor, I respectfully decline to comply with that order in accordance with my rights under the Constitution and the New York and New Jersey shield laws," Farber said.

An attorney for The Times had said Monday he "would not be surprised" if Farber continued to withhold the files.

Last July, Trautwein sentenced Farber to an indefinite jail term and fined the Times $5,000 a day because of Farber's refusal to hand over files on Jascalevich, the defendant in a 7-month-old murder trial.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Friday that Farber's freedom is governed by Trautwein, pending an appeal, if he continues to withhold the files.

But Times attorney Eugene R. Scheiman said Monday the court had made no "definitive ruling" on Farber's claims of journalistic privilege. He said Farber, who spent 27 days in the Bergen County Jail, remained firm in his decision to go to jail rather than release his confidential files.

The high court, on a 7-1 vote, set aside an order by Justice Potter Stewart, which temporarily spared the reporter from more time in jail and suspended fines against the Times while the appeal was pending.

Jascalevich's trial was recessed last week to await the Supreme Court's action. The trial was to resume today.

Jascalevich is accused of murdering three patients at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell in 1965 and 1966 by injecting lethal doses of the muscle relaxant curare. He has been acquitted of two related murder counts.

The New Jersey Supreme Court already has rejected on a 5-2 vote the appeals filed on behalf of the Times and Farber. That court said that in a conflict between the constitutional guarantees of a free press and a fair trial, the rights of the defendant should take precedence.

Jascalevich's attorneys say they need Farber's notes to assist in their defense. They contend the reporter collaborated with Bergen County authorities to indict Jascalevich.

The county's dormant probe of the mysterious hospital deaths was not reopened until Farber presented authorities with information he had uncovered during his investigation.

Trial Judge William J. Arnold has said he would examine Farber's files confidentially to determine if they should be given to Jascalevich's attorneys. However, the Times and Farber say even a private inspection by a judge would violate their rights.

The Times, which has paid $135,000 in daily $5,000 civil contempt fines, has turned over everything it says it has on the case. Trautwein has refused, however, to lift the contempt citation.

In addition to the civil contempt penalties, Farber was sentenced to six months in prison and fined $1,000 and the Times fined $100,000 for criminal contempt.

Workers feel sold out by labor union

NEW STANTON, Pa. (AP) — Anger among the blue-collar workers who struck Volkswagen's only U.S. assembly plant has been directed toward the United Auto Workers as well as the German automaker.

Several hundred members of UAW Local 2055, shouting that the union "sold us out," on Monday barricaded entrances to VW's sprawling Rabbit assembly plant near this Westmoreland County community.

Leaders of the newly organized, 1,800-member local were summoned to a hearing today in Westmoreland County Court, where VW sought an injunction ordering the strikers to open their picket lines so salaried personnel could enter.

"They are preventing access to the plant for anyone," said VW spokesman Chet Bahn, who along with other plant officials set up a temporary office in a nearby motel.

State police were called in to clear up a traffic bottleneck, but no arrests were made.

Pickets, displaying signs saying "No money, no bunny," closed the plant, 35 miles southeast of Pittsburgh, after the local overwhelmingly rejected on Sunday a proposed contract announced by Harry Davis, a UAW international representative.

"This Harry Davis, people don't want him down here any more," said local member Jerry Kolosky.

"We're not radicals. We want to work. But Davis and his people are making us like that. We want to get paid a decent wage and that's what we're fighting for."

The plant, which opened in April and manufactures about 300 Rabbits a day, is Volkswagen's first in the United States. The facility was shut down by a wild-cat strike in September when workers protested disciplinary actions against two fellow employees.

The UAW said it would not sanction a strike after members voted 1,235-94 at Sunday's raucous meeting to reject a contract offer that proposed minimum wages of $9.62 an hour by 1981.

Despite the raises, strikers say, members of Local 2055 would be working for significantly less than other locals at Detroit's Big Three automakers, who are about to enter talks on a new contract.

The strikers say UAW production workers in Detroit now earn at least $8.20 an hour, while VW's offer would give production workers immediate raises to $6.50 from $5.50.

The shaded area shows the in-city boundaries of county commissioner Precinct 2, from which voters will choose a county commissioner in November. Democratic incumbent Charlie Welch and Republican challenger Sam Snoddy are facing each other to determine who will hold that post the next four years. The precinct includes voting boxes 2, 10, 12, 14, 16, 23 and 25, or most of the eastern portion of the city and much of the area to the east and southeast of the city limits.

"Thanks, boss!"

Almost three million Texans are grateful and happy that their companies provide Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance.

Why?

Because they know it's the best group health insurance coverage... and the best group health insurance value. They know it offers a complete insurance package—not just health care coverage. They know that claims filing is easy, and that claims are paid promptly. And they know their familiar I.D. card is instantly recognized by doctors and hospitals everywhere.

Best of all, almost three million Texans know their companies think enough of them to provide the best health care insurance. That's something they can be really thankful for. And their companies can feel really good about.

NOW now has hope

By JEFFREY MILLS Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Organization for Women concluded its annual conference Monday with national president Eleanor Smeal expressing hope that more than the required number of states will ratify the Equal Rights Amendment.

"We have one more chance to reaffirm the principle that this country was founded under, that all people were created equal," Ms. Smeal told a news conference.

During the conference, the Senate voted to extend the ratification period of the proposed amendment for three more years.

The NOW members reaffirmed that winning ratification of the ERA would be the organization's primary goal. Ms. Smeal said NOW plans a "major national campaign that will be as active in as many states as possible."

She declined to name any states that will be targeted for a special lobbying push.

The ERA, which would outlaw discrimination based on sex, must be ratified by 38 states by June 30, 1982, to become part of the Constitution. The original deadline was March 22, 1979, but was extended by act of Congress.

To date, the ERA has been approved by 35 states, but four have since rescinded approval. The validity of that move still is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide. The states that have rescinded approval are Kentucky, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska. Kentucky's action was vetoed, however.

The ERA would outlaw discrimination on the basis of sex. NOW has urged a boycott of the 15 states that have not ratified it, an action the group says has caused conventions and travel business to go elsewhere.

"We hope that in the last push more than three states will ratify. We are going to make the point over and over that this whole country is unratified on the issue of whether all people have the same rights," Ms. Smeal said.

Opponents of ERA also have vowed a determined effort. Phyllis Schlafly, head of Stop ERA, has predicted that the 15 states will continue to withhold approval.

The NOW conference also passed resolutions urging criminal penalties for people who sterilize others without their informed consent; backing a proposed constitutional amendment giving congressional representation to the District of Columbia; supporting organized labor; saying home-makers are entitled to half the money in their households; supporting the Humphrey-Hawkins Full Employment bill in Congress and backing rights for homosexuals.

NTSU Band to play for MOD charity ball

The North Texas State University Lab Band, under the direction of Leon Breeden, will return to Midland as part of the grand opening festivities of San Miguel Square. The band will play for a charity ball benefiting the March of Dimes to be held Oct. 27. "All That Jazz" will set the mood for dining inside a striped party tent and dancing under the stars. The Lab Band was received with great enthusiasm at its concert last spring with the Midland-Odessa Symphony. The band has received a total of 38 national awards for bands and individual performers at national jazz festivals. The band has traveled as a representative of the United States to Mexico, Russia and Portugal. In 1975, its album, "Lab 75," was nominated for a Grammy award as one of the best jazz performances by a big band. The nomination was repeated with the album, "Lab 76." The evening will benefit the March of Dimes, which on a national level is researching the fetal alcohol syndrome and providing education about pre-natal care. The local chapter sponsors the Mothers March, Golden Mile Walkathon, "CB" Event and other fund-raising activities to help support research into birth defects.

Dottie is married to Keith. "At least that's what it says on the marriage certificate," she mused. "But it feels more like we are not-so-congenial roommates. We have our two boys in common, the house and 15 years but not much goes on between us. "I thought he would be a lot different than he turned out to be. It's bland, boring and the worst kind of lonely because since I'm married I'm limited in what else I can do. "You know, if it weren't for my memories of Larry and the few times we speak and see each other every year or so, I would have gone completely bonkers a long time ago!"

When Dottie was in college she became emotionally involved with Larry and had an intense, yet cautious relationship. "Well, we were young, still in school, and it just wasn't the right time to follow through on serious thoughts. But we made a lot of plans for the future and both our parents expected we would eventually marry. We necked a lot, but in those days people just didn't go any further, so we didn't have intercourse."

Larry, however, did become sexually involved with another girl who became pregnant. As a result they married and over the last 15 years have had three more children. "I was just devastated. I couldn't believe it. And I have always felt so bad that he got trapped into that marriage. I got married because it felt right at the time, whatever that means — I don't know." Over the last few years Larry and Dottie have contacted each other by phone and have seen each other privately a number of times. They commiserate over their respective bad marriages and express mutual pain for what could have been and wish was.

Yet neither is willing to make any move to divorce so that they can be together "as it should have been." Why not?

"Well, I'm waiting for Larry to make the first move. It would be difficult and there would be a lot of hurt feelings. There are children involved. It would be so complicated. Maybe we'll wait until all the children are at some better age...." Dottie sniffed. What makes these "reasons" (excuses) seem substantial is that they suggest a heavy sense of duty and responsibility — commendable, appropriate, self-sacrificing and considerate.

In fact, the best excuses are those which leaves the individual appearing noble. This gives the individual a way out of a situation feeling like a "good person."

However, very little of either Dottie's or Larry's behavior in general over the years is really consistent with this sudden awareness of obligation, since neither became truly involved with the spouse and their lives together.

Romances, infatuations, affairs, flings are all very easy. Most of the time we are not dealing with another person on a truly deep level so much as we are living out fantasies, situationally good feelings, excitement of the novelty. Commitment is difficult and effortful because we are no longer merely able to satisfy our own needs — we have to concern ourselves with another's needs. Committed relationships demand mutual understanding, respect, nurturance, tolerance, cooperation, interdependency, dependency, openness, vulnerability, forgiveness, attention.

Dottie was not only disappointed over Larry's predicament and precipitous marriage, she was angry. After all, she had been intimate with Larry, had dreams and plans and he destroyed them all by fooling around on her. It is interesting that she has only retained positive images of him and their relationship.

'The man of my dreams'

As a girl of 20, Dottie was filled with romantic notions of life, love and marriage. She had felt betrayed by Larry but her pride would not allow her to admit it because that was too painful. She chose to re-interpret the situation as one of his "getting trapped."

Her anger, feelings of rejection and disappointment never resolved have affected her since. When the difficulties inherent in daily and family life interrupted her romantic projection of marriage and adulthood, she tuned out, withdrew from her husband, Keith. She became critical of him, constantly finding reasons to justify her negative feelings. She never got "into" her marriage and she won't "get out." She's afraid to do either.

In the back of her mind she thought and dreamed of Larry. In fact, her dreams were her true marriage. Since Larry was unavailable to her she pined and felt resigned to her plight. That is why she really doesn't want Larry to become available by divorcing his wife.

Dottie has avoided taking responsibility for her decisions, her marriage, her life. She has hidden behind the veil of circumstance. If Larry were available she couldn't hide any longer. But with her dreams, she didn't have to do anything about anything.

The answer's easy: Apply now for a temporary job at TI.

Right now, Texas Instruments is accepting applications for rapidly approaching temporary openings for electronic assemblers. Openings will be on both day and night shifts, helping produce Texas Instruments consumer products such as electronic calculators.

This is an outstanding opportunity for students, housewives or others who would like to work until mid-December without giving up their other priorities.

TI is accepting applications Monday-Friday, 8AM-5PM, and Saturday, 8AM-noon. Apply at the Employment Center, Texas Instruments, Midland-Odessa Air Terminal.

DEAR ABBY

Second mate mutinies

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am Wife No. 2. My husband's previous marriage ended in divorce seven years ago. (They had three children.)

My husband's ex-in-laws recently invited him (and me) to their 50th wedding anniversary party. He accepted even though he has not been part of their family for seven years.

Of course, his ex-wife and their children were at this party. When Wife No. 1 asked my husband if he would mind posing for some "family" pictures with her, their children and the grandparents, my husband agreed willingly, as though they were still one big happy family!

I think I did well to attend this party without having to sit on the sidelines while my husband posed for "family photographs" of a family that he is no longer a member of.

Was I, Wife No. 2, out of line to object to the picture taking bit under the circumstances?—WIFE NO. 2

DEAR WIFE NO. 2: Yes. Even though your husband is no longer married to the mother of his children, perhaps the golden wedding couple (and conceivably your husband's children) would treasure a picture of the three generations (of which you are not a part).

DEAR ABBY: I have many comments in mind when I read various letters in your column, but I must write about the newly-coined word, "clergyman" in lieu of "clergymen"—in order to avoid offending women.

I think the funniest feminist term I ever saw was in a college newspaper that referred to a freshman as a "freshperson."—MARION F. IN PHILLY

DEAR MARION: Thanks for another for my collection. I still think replacing "manhole" with "personhole" takes the prize.

DEAR ABBY: Never in my life have I been so miserable. I am writing this as I sit in a hospital corridor where I have been for six hours, waiting, waiting, waiting, waiting until a 12-year-old boy comes out of surgery.

Last night I was driving my car when I suddenly struck something. It was this boy on a bicycle. He was directly in front of me without a light anywhere on his bicycle. He was wearing a dark shirt and dark trousers. I had no idea that he was there until I hit him. I wasn't going fast, but this poor kid was badly injured, and I was told that his chances for survival were slim. And if he does live, what his mental condition will be is anybody's guess.

You can't help me—or this boy—but maybe if you print this, parents will see it and make sure their kids have the proper lights on their bikes, so that accidents like this can be avoided.

Thanks, Abby.—MISERABLE IN OHIO

DEAR MISERABLE: Thanks for a worthwhile reminder.

SORORITY NEWS

EPSILON DELTA CHAPTER, BETA SIGMA PHI

The Epsilon Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Deborah Bench, 3605 Stanolind St., for a business session and cultural program

Mrs. Bench presented the program on the artist's techniques used in painting and hand finishing of plaster forms of animals.

Epsilon Delta members Marilyn Butler, Johnnie Moritz and Mrs. Bench will model clothes from The Cherry Orchard at the citywide Beta Sigma Phi City Council meeting Nov. 6 in Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Martha Jo McNair, program chairman, announced the chapter will meet for a business session followed by a social committee workshop Oct. 19 in the home of Joann Gardner, 3327 Cimmaron St.

AT WIT'S END

Gang's standing

By ERMA BOMBECK

At 5-4, Kylene Barker of Virginia has become the shortest Miss America since 1926.

I can't tell you all the ramifications yet, but for someone who walks under coffee tables, this has to be the most exciting news since the secret sauce stains came out of my car upholstery.

Hopefully, it will mean the end of discrimination for women 5-5 or under. The long-legged beauties who can braid their legs and still have them touch the floor are out of style. We've lived in a tall world too long. Maybe some of it will change.

Are you listening, Ann Landers? There may be a day when we don't have to go on an elevator and be sick with worry about what we'll do if we have to push the button for the 14th floor.

Rejoice, Rona (Barrett)! This could mean a breakthrough in ready-made clothes where we don't have to chop 14 inches of material off every dress, skirt or coat we buy. (Which if sewn together would be enough to put a band-aid on the world.)

Think about it, Bette Midler. We can get a drink of water without a reach 'n seat, and hold onto straps on the bus without looking like we're being strung up for horse stealing.

And you, Helen Hayes, who has long fought the war on short people. Imagine being able to climb into the driver's seat of a car and not have to dig your heels into the floor and scoot your way to the steering wheel.

Tracy Austin, can you appreciate what it will be not to have to jog alongside a companion who is "walking or skipping" in order to keep up?

Imagine, Bonnie Franklin, no more treading water in the wading pool, or dancing and getting your hair caught in a belt buckle.

Ah, Nancy Walker, can you imagine driving through a drive-in bank and not having to swing on the car door to the box with your deposit slip?

Think about it, Sally Struthers. Pay phones you can reach. Shoes that don't give you a nosebleed.

It's a new day, gang. Let's stand up and hear it out there for short. I said stand up. Oh, you are standing...

New products discussed

By ANDY LANG
AP Newfeatures

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A transparent adhesive for leather, vinyl and fabric.

Manufacturer's claim — That this product can be used to repair vinyl handtops, convertible tops, spare tire covers, seat covers, leather and vinyl jackets and trousers, leather gloves and dozens of household items ... that it patches neatly and almost invisibly ... that it requires no heat and dries quickly ... that it is tough and waterproof.

THE PRODUCT — Latex caulking in colors.

Manufacturer's claim — That the line of caulking comes in woodtone, redwood, green, brown, grey and black, five color tones most likely to match most house siding ... that it can also be used indoors on such surfaces as plaster baseboards and doorways ... that it is especially good for sealing openings in exterior shakes and siding ... and that it is water- and mildew-resistant and will not stain other surfaces.

THE PRODUCT — A synthesized lubricant.

Manufacturer's claim — That the lubricant contains micron-sized "ball bearings" that penetrate, clean and lubricate virtually any mechanism ... that it coats surfaces with a film that literally displaces dirt, reduces friction and wear, shields against rust and corrosion, dissolves hardened grease and sludge, and frees frozen mechanism ... and that it is especially good for coating power and handsaw blades to make them glide through any wood.

THE PRODUCT — A wire stripper with an adjustable slide stop.

Manufacturer's claim — That the adjustable stop allows stripping without damage to the wire by loosening a slide screw and positioning the stop to a point where the cutter penetrates the insulation without cutting wire strands ... that the stripper also has a convenient cushion grip and a finish to resist rust ... and that it will handle most wire from 10 to 26 gauge.

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much valuable information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N. J. 07666.)

Christmas is SEW EASY!

Plan to attend the demonstration presented by Juanita Achord showing many novel ideas for home decoration for the Christmas holiday season and year round. She does a professional job of explaining how to make drapes, laminating window shades, and decorative pillows. You will enjoy the 1 to 1½ hours.

MS. Achord will be available to answer questions following the show. Plan now to attend and bring a friend.

IT'S A GREAT BIG, WONDERFUL WORLD

but...

it just won't fit in a textbook

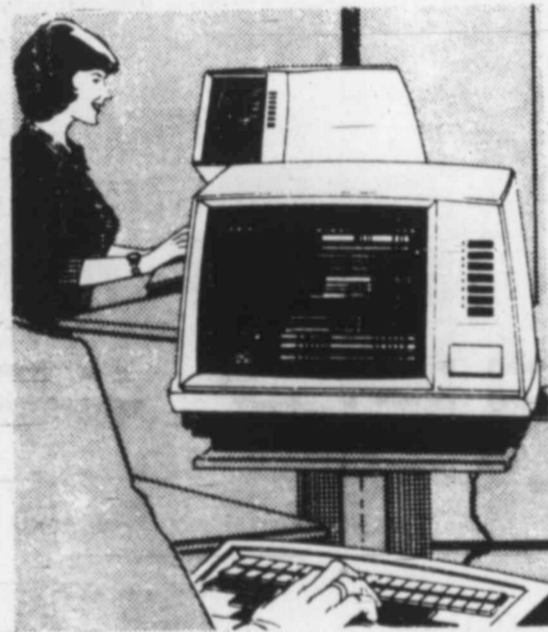

Nor does it stand still.
So much happens every day that textbooks would have to be revised and printed continuously to keep up with developments.

Each day The Reporter-Telegram contains enough information to fill an average size novel.

Prior to the age of printing and distribution of information to the general public, a thousand year span once was required to double the world's knowledge

With the advent of movable type and the printed word, that period was successively shortened to less than 100 years.

Now, in the age of the computer, the world's knowledge doubles in less than ten years!

At this rate more inductive data will be developed in the next ten years than in all of the millenia since the beginning of time to this day.

The information machine spews out mountains of data by the hour.

Macrocosmic knowledge to evaluate, classify and correlate.

What is the impact of this upon Today's Teacher?

- How current are the textbooks?
- Were they printed this year?
- Last year?
- The most current textbook available was printed yesterday, and today, and every day... as new data are introduced.
- And it's the most economical textbook in the world.
- As low as four and one-half cents.
- It's the "real life" textbook.
- The textbook that relates.
- It's the newspaper.
- In the hands of a skilled teacher the Newspaper In Education program can be a motivating magician that transforms lethargy into eager participation.

Lasorda picks John to face Figueroa

By SCOTT OSTLER

The Los Angeles Times
LOS ANGELES—Dodger manager Tom Lasorda threw out the ceremonial first pitch of the World Series Monday afternoon when he announced that Tommy John, not Burt Hooton, would be his starting pitcher in Game One Tuesday at Dodger Stadium.

The Yankees will send Ed Figueroa (20-9) to the mound in a rematch of last year's Series, won by the Yankees four games to two.

The announcement that John would start came as only a mild surprise. Hooton will pitch the second game Wednesday night and Don Sutton the third game Friday at New York.

"I JUST felt TJ (John) was ideal to open with," said Lasorda, who delayed the announcement until just before the team's workout at 4:30. "The Yankees have a lot of left-handers, and starting John gives him an extra start or two. He's a veteran, and he's been very, very consistent. He's won 37 regular-season games for us the last two seasons, and he pitched very well in the playoffs at Philadelphia (four-hit shutout)."

Hooton started the opener of the playoffs and was the Dodgers' big winner (19-10) in the regular season, but was hit hard at Philadelphia and has been weakened recently by a throat infection.

Nonetheless, most people expected

Hooton to draw the Series opening assignment. "My wife expected Hooton to start," said Lasorda.

John was also somewhat surprised.

"I just thought Burt would be starting," John said. "It never crossed my mind until I read the Los Angeles Times this morning and saw that I was being considered."

"It would be a good choice either way, Burt or I."

"I'VE BEEN sick the last week," Hooton said, "and this will give me an extra day to recover. In the game at Philly (last Wednesday), I got a little tired, I sapped early."

Lasorda also announced that Lee Lacy would be the Dodgers' designated hitter, at least in the first game. Lacy batted .261 this year and was used mainly as a pinch hitter the second half of the season. He had five pinch-hit homers.

"He's been our most productive pinch hitter for power," said Lasorda. "He can give you power, base hits, he runs the bases well, he's just the complete designated hitter."

The Yankees were still undecided on whether second baseman Willie Randolph would be activated for the Series, and manager Bob Lemon hadn't picked his second-game starter—it will be either Catfish Hunter or Jim Beattie. Ron Guidry will start the third game at New York.

"I'M PROUD to be the starting pitcher for the New York Yankees," said Figueroa, who, more than any of his teammates, benefited from the midseason managerial change from Billy Martin to Bob Lemon.

"When Billy (Martin) was here, I pitched every eight days, every seven days, I just wasn't working much," said Figueroa. "Lemon pitched me every four or five days."

Lemon declined to take credit for the Yankee surge, coming back from 14 games out of first place in June to tie Boston for the division lead at the end of regular-season play, after which the Yankees beat Boston in a one-game playoff.

"All I inherited was a healthy, championship ballclub," said Lemon.

"Earlier in the season, they weren't all healthy. Could they have won without me? I imagine. (Mickey) Rivers and (Thurmon) Munson are both healthy now, or they were when they got off the plane."

Reggie Jackson was asked if the Yankees are stronger than last year's club.

"You're only better if you win," he said. "We're at least as good, and I think the pitching's better. Guidry probably makes us a better team than last year."

Jackson also said he was "not that crazy about DHing (being designated hitter), but Lemon got us the pennant, so what ever he says, I'll go along with."

Yanks, Dodgers swap Series roles

By ROSS NEWHAN

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES—Last year it was billed as Good vs. Evil.

Last year it was called harmony and togetherness vs. the dispirited and disjointed.

Last year it was Billy Martin inviting Reggie Jackson to kiss "my Dago" and it was Tommy Lasorda hugging everyone from Don Rickles to Don Sutton.

"Last year," Graig Nettles said, "it was the love-dovey Dodgers vs. the fighting Yankees. Now the roles have changed almost completely and it kind of worries me."

The New York third baseman was being facetious, of course.

Or was he? "I always said the key to beating the Dodgers was to keep them hugging each other," Nettles needed. "Now it sounds like they found the key to Yankee success."

WHAT NETTLES referred to was the Sutton-Steve Garvey hair-puller that, along with various other incidents, have left the Dodgers resembling, in part, the fractious Yankees prior to the midseason appointment of Bob Lemon as manager.

Tranquility soon replaced turmoil in the New York clubhouse. Quietly, peacefully and with continual displays of character and confidence, the Yankees channeled their energy into the comeback from a July 19 deficit of 14 games, the comeback that included playoff victories over Boston and Kansas City, giving New York its 32nd American League pennant and a World Series rematch with the Dodgers.

If last year's controversy proved a source of stimulation, this year's peace—orchestrated by the low-key Lemon—provided a passive environment in which the club's talent could flourish.

"We would not have won again the way it was," shortstop Bucky Dent said the other day. "Not after 1½ years of controversy. Lemon created a steady, settled atmosphere. All we had to do was go out and play. All we had to do was worry about what happened on the field."

THIS, IN a spiritual sense, neither team is the way it was last year. Yet both have prospered. The Yankees are 56-23 under Lemon. The Dodgers caught fire immediately following the Garvey-Sutton incident, and Garvey has yet to cool off.

"They played their best ball after all that garbage," Nettles said. "I hope it doesn't continue to work to their advantage."

Nothing, however, can dilute the exhilaration and satisfaction stemming from the greatest comeback in American League history.

Said Reggie Jackson: "I'm a human being. I'm a realist. I didn't think we could still win it when we were 14 down. But we're also professionals. We owed it to the fans, the owner, each other to keep pushing.

And you could gradually feel the professionalism take hold. We simply walked out expecting to win. There was nothing surprising about how we did it or how often we did it."

"OPTIMISM can take you only so far," outfielder Lou Piniella said. "If Boston had kept us at bay for a while, we probably wouldn't have won. But when we got hot, they started losing. It gave us second hope. When it came down to this, to beating Kansas City, it was exciting, sure, but we're at a point now where we expected it, where we simply expect to win."

It's reached this point for the team that has won three straight American League pennants: Rich Gossage, who has pitched relief in both leagues, said, "The Dodgers have a good team in every area, but this is the best team I've ever seen anywhere."

"Twenty or 30 years from now," Ron Guidry said, "when people talk about the 1978 Yankee team, the team that made one of the greatest comebacks ever, we can all be proud to have been a part of it. It was exciting to win last year, but this means so much more."

The Cajun from the Louisiana bayou, winner of 26 games in 29 decisions this year, smiled and said, "Now I'd really like to beat the Dodgers in four games. I've already missed too much of the hunting season."

IOC gives LA final okay, 74-3

LAUSANNE, Switzerland—The International Olympic Committee announced its final approval for Los Angeles to stage the 1984 Summer Olympic Games by an overwhelming 74-3 margin.

The special mail ballot among IOC members, which also drew eight abstentions, approved a decision by the IOC's executive board in August, which had recommended acceptance of Los Angeles' plan to hold and finance the Games.

Okker breezes Sher in opening round

TEL AVIV, Israel—Top-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands breezed past Israel's Ilan Sher 6-0, 6-1 in the opening round of the first Israel Tennis Center Classic.

The second and third seeds, Peter Feigl of Austria and David Carter of Australia, respectively, also won easily, but fourth-seeded Rod Frawley of Australia was upset by Eric Friedler of the United States 6-2, 6-4.

Ruzici rallies to beat Walsh

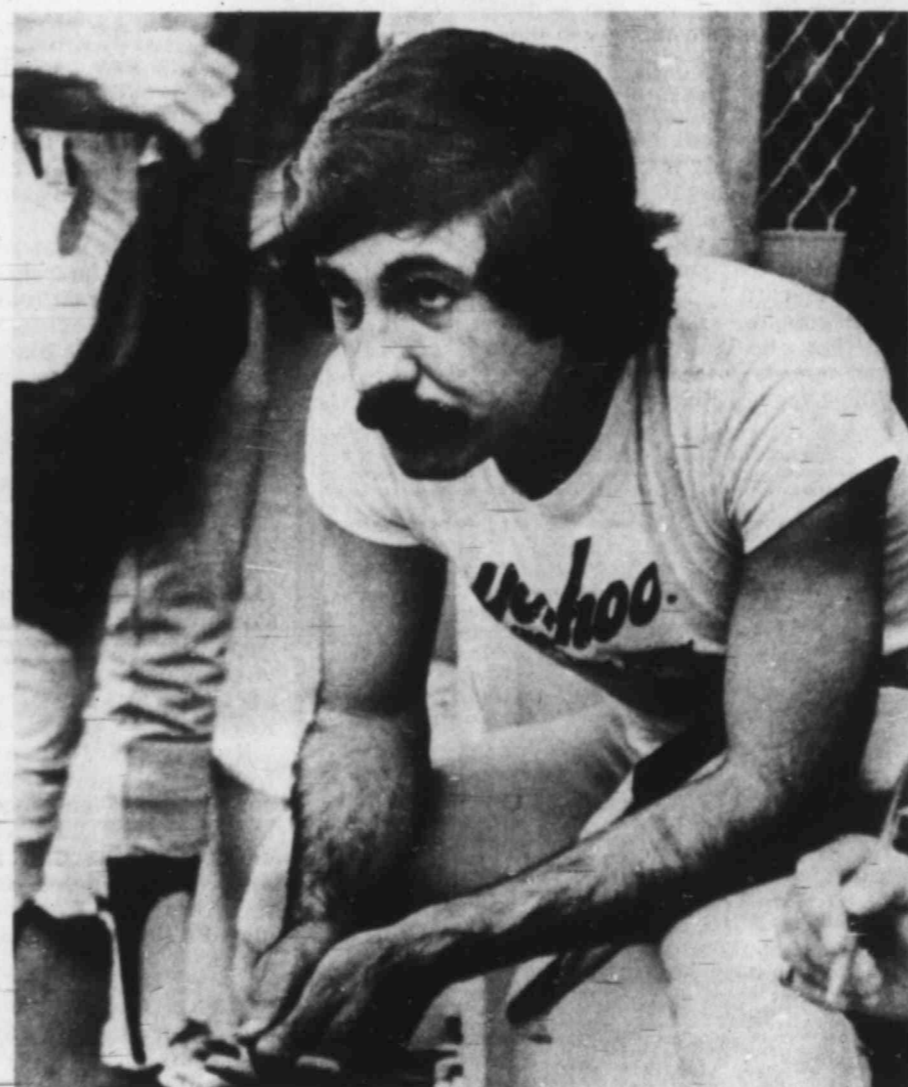

BLOOMINGTON, Minn.—Eighth-seeded Virginia Ruzici of Romania rallied for a hard-fought, three-set victory over Sharon Walsh, highlighting the first day of the $100,000 U.S. Women's Indoor Tennis Championships.

Ruzici had to rally from a 1-4 deficit in the third set to win the match 5-7, 7-5, 7-5.

Fourth-seeded Wendy Turnbull won her first-round match, overpowering Mareen "Peanut" Louie 6-0, 6-3, and Britain's Sue Barker won over Lesley Hunt of Australia 6-4, 6-2.

Breakfast guest stayed for Series

By FRANK BROWN
By Associated Press Writer

At that moment, on a sunny July Tuesday in Kansas City, the New York Yankees' future was as cluttered as the breakfast table in Al Rosen's hotel suite. There were plates of half-eaten eggs, cold bacon and untouched fried potatoes, unfinished cups of tepid coffee and a virtually ignored platter of glazed pastry with jelly filling.

Across from the white-haired Yankee president, who still was wearing his suit from the day before, sat a heavy-set man who just had finished lighting one of the innumerable menthol cigarettes he would smoke that day.

The breakfast guest was Bob Lemon, a man who would walk to the exit if someone yelled "fire" in a crowded theater. His left leg crossed over his right, the smoldering cigarette in his fleshy left paw, Lemon sat in that suite and pondered the first hours he had spent as manager of baseball's most unsettled team.

"I tend to be lazy," he said, looking down at the floor, where there lay a front-page account of Billy Martin's resignation the day before. "It's a hellva lot easier to have things go smoothly than to have to be on your guard all the time."

BUT THINGS were not going smoothly that bright midwestern morning. The Yankees—though they had won five of the six games so far on that road trip—were a polarized, fragmented team stuck in fourth place. Reggie Jackson was just returning from a well-chronicled five-day suspension.

First place? A fantasy. When Lemon said, "I don't think Boston's won it yet..." the newsmen in the room filed the words away for anything but publication. He couldn't have been serious; the Yankees were 10½ games behind.

"Being realistic," he continued, "on the plane coming here, I was thinking that every club goes through injuries and Boston really hasn't had their share yet. I just hope they've run their route with this team."

HE HAD arrived in Kansas City from his California home at 3 that morning, after accepting the job during a telephone conversation with Rosen—his buddy and teammate on the Cleveland Indians decades earlier. He couldn't have had much sleep.

Redskins uppermost in minds of Cowboys

The Dallas Cowboys had just disposed of the New York Giants, 24-3, but in every post-game cluster of writers and reporters, the subject of the Washington Redskins continued to rear its ugly, unforgotten head.

What happened up there? Can the Cowboys overtake them? Hey, are the Redskins for real? After all, George Allen was supposed to have left a club that was going the way-of-Lake Erie.

Pat Donovan, the big, two-time All-America tackle from Stanford via Montana, assures that the Redskins are indeed for real.

"I know a lot of people questioned Jack Pardee's move from the Chicago Bears to Washington as coach, but even under George, the Redskins were rebuilding," Pat began.

"In 1975, the Redskins were a good, old team, but they've been picking up some younger players since 1975, players in key positions," he said.

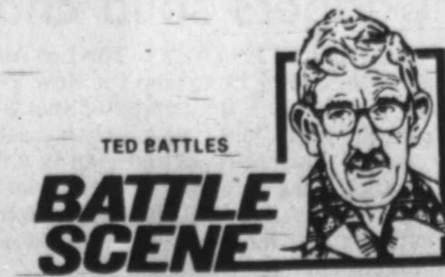

"THEY PICKED up a middle line-backer, who is one of the best, and Coy Bacon had added to the pass rush. Actually, they weren't as bad last year as their record might indicate. They got off to a bad start, but were putting it together by the end of the season."

"This year, things have worked out for them and, of course, they are off to a much better start," Donovan added.

The Redskins, barely escaping with a win over the Detroit Lions Sunday, remain two games up on the Cowboys going into this week's games.

"Yes, I think they'll lose two," Donovan states matter-of-factly and from the way he said it, you get the impression that he still believes the Cowboys can catch the Redskins. However, the big question remains: How many more can Dallas afford to lose?

QUARTERBACK ROGER Staubach also is confident that the Cowboys are still in it because of the Cowboys bench strength, which really hasn't yet become a factor.

"There are a lot of tough games left," he points out, "and it's when teams starting getting beat up a little that the race will be decided."

Even with the loss to the Redskins, Staubach feels the Cowboys are "playing well and with confidence. At Washington, we really played defense with character. We made the big plays."

It was obvious he wasn't satisfied with the offense at Washington. "It still bothers me because we had the opportunities and didn't take advantage of them."

In some minds, it seemed Sunday against the Giants that Roger's scrambling was in part because of the unexpected New York blitz, but at times he almost seemed determined to make up for what he felt was a less than acceptable performance against Washington on his own.

"I was pretty satisfied today, but I still missed on too many passes when I had the guys open. Tony (Hill) just had a super game. He's quite a receiver, but we have a lot of good receivers and I feel confident in throwing to any of them."

"On our running game, we did a lot of fakes to the inside to try to get Tony (Dorsett) outside, it worked pretty well. We put in a couple of new wrinkles, a bootleg off the spread, and I think it will get better."

IF ROGER had any misgivings about his passing, they weren't shared by Hill, who caught two touchdowns passes.

"The second pass Roger threw me for the touchdown was probably the most beautiful pass I've ever received. It was right there. I was

Island? Garvey is more like a lone fortress

By THOMAS BOSWELL
The Washington Post

LOS ANGELES — Perhaps no man is an island, but Steve Garvey often feels like he is becoming a fortress.

"Why do I constantly have to defend my basic human feelings?" Garvey said quietly as he sat in a T-shirt soaked with sweat and champagne in the Los Angeles Dodgers' clubhouse Saturday night.

"Thousands of people were cheering for me today. Millions were rooting for me on TV. Does anybody know how good that feels? How much you want to be worthy of it. And keep it that way.

"Why is it so hard to understand that I want to put something back into the game, that I want to be an example for people?"

A DODGER teammate walked past Garvey and said, "Break it up, Steve. Cindy's waiting." The words had a sarcastic edge.

There the galling image was again. Steve and Cindy Garvey, the Ken and Barbie dolls of baseball.

Garvey gave a tired, forbearing grin. For the millionth time he would have to swallow the putdown comeback that sprang to mind. One more needle in his thick hide.

"These so-called pressure games are a pleasure to me," said Garvey, awaiting the start Tuesday of the World Series against the New York Yankees. "They're no pressure at all, really. I'll tell you what pressure is. It's being 29 years old and having a school named after you.

"You can't wake up one morning and shuck it all and go to Tahiti."

GARVEY NEVER wakes up thinking of Tahiti. He'll settle for Chavez Ravine, and TV commercials, talk shows, Rotary luncheons, autograph sessions and interviews.

"I'll never deviate from the path toward what I have to accomplish. I know that for certain. I'm doing what I've always wanted to be doing. It's a weight, but it's a nice weight.

"There's no place in the country I can go and not be recognized. But that's all right. I'm a ham. Those people want Steve Garvey to say 'Hello' to them, and how can I honestly say, 'No'.

"They believe in me. But I'm the one that's asked them to. Sometimes when they ask for an autograph, I say, 'How about a handshake instead? Then we'll really be buddies.' "If they like that better, so do I."

THERE WAS a time when this Frank Merriwell life would have been simple. Being a hero was as safe and manageable and ritualistic as taking batting practice or lifting weights.

But a cynical age distrusts, sometimes seem to hate, the appearance of flawlessness. In a time when political candidates promise to admit their mistakes, rather than not to make any, Garvey's role can be perplexing.

"Sometimes I feel like people are chipping away at me, trying to find their hidden crack. Yes, it makes you feel like some kind of fortress," said Garvey, not with great feeling, since it has been a familiar emotion for years.

"But when they chip away at Steve Garvey, they always seem to come out losers. It seems like the fans mass behind me. Even more than before," he added with a touch of menace.

THE LATEST to discover that truth is pitcher Don Sutton, the only L.A. player booed during his playoff introduction by the normally idolatrous Dodger fans. Garvey points at a huge carton of mail in his locker. "That's four days' worth," he said. "Somehow, I'll manage to answer it all. They all tell me that I was right to fight Don. They said it was the only thing a man could do.

"It was just the last straw," Garvey said of Sutton's August remarks implying, if not directly saying, that Garvey was "a Madison Avenue image, a facade."

"I've had to hear that kind of stuff pretty regularly for quite a while," said Garvey. "I just had to draw a line some place. I had to stand up for my family and my integrity."

What good is a fortress if you let people climb all over the walls? Sometimes you gotta push them back into the moat.

Few people close to the Dodgers doubt that the wrestling match with Sutton inspired Garvey to the finest September of his career: a .430 final month, 46 hits in his last 29 games.

"PEOPLE ALWAYS tell me how strong I am," said Garvey, looking at his Popeye arms. "But my real strength is in my ability to concentrate, to block things out, when it's really important to me.

"I think that explains my success in these (postseason) games. People who fall are people who can't concentrate, who can't achieve a state of controlled aggression.

"I have little tricks. Once I get to the park, I keep as busy as I can. If I sit in one place too long, I start to get too tightly wound. That's the worst possible thing.

"Oh, yes," said Garvey, annoyed with himself. "I almost forgot. I'm not a heavily religious person, but I've found it really helps to say to yourself, 'Lord I put my life in your hands.' It takes pressure off."

Garvey, in his state of maximum calm, maximum concentration, maximum self-confidence, is a hitter without a weakness.

"Garvey is awesome, frightening, when he's hitting like he is now," said Philadelphia's Randy Lerch. "I threw him a fast ball low and in, it wasn't even a strike. But he crushed it... I still can't believe he hit it halfway up the bleachers."

"Steve's something, all right," said the Phils' Mike Schmidt. "He'll come out of his grave to hit line drives in the playoffs."

"That's what sound fundamentals do for you under pressure, I guess. He's like a little rock up there."

GARVEY'S NORMALLY alert, bemused face gets quiet, withdrawn and a trifle mysterious when playoff, World Series and All Star game statistics are mentioned. They are his greatest pride.

"Kinda hard to explain, isn't it," he said, face exploding in a lantern-jawed grin.

Garvey hit .389 with 22 total bases and four homers in last week's four playoff games against the Phils—the unquestioned MVP performance. Yet that .389 mark actually lowered his career average in "spotlight" games to .394.

The 5-foot-10, 190-pound first baseman has hit .367 in three playoff series, .378 in two World Series and .500 in five All Star games. His slugging average for all 28 games (109 at bats) is beyond all probabilities — .752, a mark that is 250 points above his career slugging average.

To those who chip away at the walls of Fortress Garvey, to those who laugh at the son of the one-time Dodger bus driver, those numbers are his concluding argument.

afraid I might drop it because it was so beautiful. On that play, I got open by giving the defensive back a fake to the inside. Then went outside and back inside before cutting to the corner of the end zone and Roger laid it in there."

Of course, Hill has been one of the most pleasing developments of the campaign. How else could you trade off a player of Golden Richards caliber? And one reason for Hill's success is supreme confidence.

"I feel I can catch eight or nine passes every game if given the opportunity. I have a lot of confidence in myself and I feel I can catch any pass thrown to me."

It's an opinion more and more Cowboy fans are beginning to share with him each week.

finish his meeting with Rosen. "I don't know whether he's going to put me on a weekly, daily or monthly contract," said the new manager of baseball's world champions.

Then Lemon would meet with his coaches and players.

Jackson, a constant irritant to Martin, would be no problem. "All I know about Reggie is he scared the heck out of me when he played against me."

NOTHING, IT seemed, would be a problem to Lemon. The troubled Yankee waters might be calmed after all.

At the ballpark later, Lemon sat in the manager's office that had been vacant the night before while third base coach Dick Howser ran the team. He wore a uniform that did not fit at all; he had been assigned a number in the high forties.

"Will you keep that number through the season?" he was asked through the smoke of another cigarette.

"No," he replied. "I'd like to get my old number, 21, back."

The number, at that time, belonged to outfielder Jay Johnstone. "I had him in the minors," said Lemon, "and we got along well, so I think he'll give it up."

"Gladly, if he wants it," said Johnstone, sitting in the dugout before the game.

"And what number will you take?" Johnstone was asked.

"Well, No. 1 is available," he said with a smirk. And he was right. Billy Martin wouldn't be wearing it for a while.

Aggies' Green tops on defense

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Last spring, the Texas Aggie No. 1 defense got a heavy dose of meeting one of the nation's most explosive offenses head-on. While it made a lot of grown men wince, it also helped the green Aggie defense grow.

At least that's the opinion of left defensive end Jacob Green, who has teamed with left tackle Eugene Sanders to make that side of the Aggie interior line something akin to crossing Central Expressway in Dallas at 5 p.m. on a Monday.

Green made 11 tackles, caused two fumbles, deflected a pass, dropped ballcarriers for losses six times, and notched three quarterback sacks Saturday in a 38-9 Southwest Conference football victory over Texas Tech.

IT EARNED Green The Associated Press SWC Defensive Player of the Week award. The week before, Sanders was accorded similar honors.

"It was a tough spring," recalled Green. "We did everything Coach (Emory) Bellard asked us to do. He worked us hard.

"I guess the big difference this year is the attitude of the players. We have our mind on winning. Everyone on this team is trying to do the right thing."

Green earned a starting berth last year against Houston in a nationally televised game. He was named the player of the game after the Aggies' runaway victory.

"I guess you could say I rely more on my quickness than I do power," said Green. "I use power rushes but I would prefer to set somebody up with my quickness."

Green said he ran a 4.7 in the 40-yard dash when he was a sophomore.

The 6-foot-2, 235-pound junior from Houston Kashmere earned four letters in high school as a junior. He was All-State and made several All-America teams.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "That makes four. Now Pee Wee is the last one of the infield that's still living," Roy Campanella said sadly.

The ranks of the fabled "Boys of Summer," memorialized in Roger Kahn's excellent book on the old Brooklyn Dodgers, were further thinned overnight Sunday by the death of Jim Gilliam, former second baseman and a coach for 13 years of the team that found a new home in Los Angeles.

Death now has taken four members of that great championship team of the late 1940s and 1950s — Jackie Robinson, Gil Hodges, Billy Cox and Gilliam, all infielders — leaving Pee Wee Reese as the lone infield survivor. Reese is a businessman in Louisville, Ky.

GILLIAM'S passing was particularly hard on Campy, a longtime personal and family friend, the once rugged all-star catcher who himself now is confined to a wheelchair, his hands and legs paralyzed by an automobile accident in 1958.

"I knew Junior — that's what we always called him because he looked so young — when he was 15 years old, playing in the Negro National League," he said. "Junior, Joe Black and I all came up together from the Negro League.

"Junior — he was a great one." Campanella received the news as he and his wife were preparing to fly here for tonight's opening World Series game between the Dodgers and the New York Yankees.

"We had our annual reunion this summer," Campy said. "Mr. O'Malley (Walter O'Malley, chairman of the board) gets us all together once a year. Junior was here in great spirits. So were most of the other guys."

CAMPANELLA speaks feelingly but without maudlin sentimentality of the chairs that were not occupied.

Robinson, who played second, third and the outfield as the first black in the majors, was almost blind when he died in the fall of 1971. First baseman Hodges died of a heart attack at spring training in 1972 while managing the New York Mets. Third baseman Cox recently died of cancer.

"People talk of a jinx following this team," Campanella said. "Bosh. People die every day."

Campanella said he was a member of the Elite Giants, playing in Nashville's old El Sulphur Dell, when he first met Gilliam.

"Junior was the bat boy," the catcher recalled. "Tom Wilson, who owned the club, persuaded Gilliam's dad to let him play on week-ends."

Whitey Herzog...ponders 1-year offer.

Dodgers solid choice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers are a solid favorite to beat the New York Yankees in the World Series, but computer specialist Bud Goode sees the Fall Classic as nearly a tossup.

Goode, consulting statistician to a dozen National Football League teams and head coaches, says after studying statistics of his Univac computer that he believes that the true odds give Dodgers about a 52 percent chance of winning.

Whitey unhappy with pact

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Whitey Herzog says he's displeased with a one-year contract offer to continue as manager of the Kansas City Royals.

Herzog's future as Kansas City manager has been uncertain since the New York Yankees handed Kansas City a third straight defeat in the American League playoffs that ended Saturday.

"I received an offer for a one-year contract and I'm thinking it over," Herzog said. "But I'm not very happy with the offer."

He declined further comment.

Herzog said several times during the last week of the season he was resentful of not hearing any word from team management until after the playoffs, which has been the case for three straight years.

"They haven't said a word about me or my coaches for next year," he said. "I think they should tell me something."

"I offered Whitey a one-year contract this afternoon," Joe Burke, general manager, said Monday. "We had a long conversation and talked over a lot of things. Whitey said he would get back to me."

Burke also said silence on the part of the front office should not have been construed as disapproval of Herzog's managerial ability.

"I never said anything about Whitey coming back because I assumed he'd be back," he said.

"I feel when a guy is doing a good job he doesn't have to hear he's coming back. When nobody says anything different, I would think he'd assume we wanted him back."

Since taking over for the fired Jack McKeon during the 1975 season, Herzog's record is 325-227, including three straight Western Division championships.

Burke also dismissed criticism directed at the front office by certain players following the loss to the Yankees over the weekend and said the team will continue to make fair offers to free agents, but will not jeopardize its salary structure to sign big names.

"I'd like to add a Darrell Porter every year, or an Al Hrabosky, and come up with some rookies like Rich Gale and others who do a good job," he said.

Stock market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, leveling off after Monday's sharp rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial, which had climbed 13.7 points Monday for its biggest gain in more than a month, slipped back 1.73 to 891.46 by noon Tuesday.

Gainers held a very slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts had found little in the news to explain Monday's upsurge. For a while, it seemed to generate its own momentum, but today it apparently ran into some skepticism.

President Carter was scheduled to hold a press conference at the close of the market this afternoon. And brokers noted that traders often tend to move cautiously in advance of such pending matters.

Citicorp topped the active list, unchanged at 27 1/2. Most other issues showed only modest price changes.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dipped .05 to 58.85. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .06 at 171.55.

The trading pace picked up as many traders returned from a Columbus Day holiday. Volume on the Big Board totaled 11.17 million shares at noon, up from 7.76 million at the same point Monday.

Conferees debating funding of abortions for military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, which has banned most government-financed abortions for the poor, appears on the verge of clamping similar restrictions on taxpayer-funded abortions for the military.

Senate and House conferees agreed Monday night that the policy on abortions in the military should be the same as that covering poor women in health programs run by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In a recent report, the Pentagon said that 26,000 abortions were paid for with military funds for servicemen or dependents in a 12-month period ending in August, 1977.

The agreement by Senate and House conferees would end virtually all those abortions performed in military hospitals or financed through defense insurance programs.

The abortion issue was one of dozens of differences being resolved in a huge defense appropriation bill. The legislation must be approved by the full Senate and House after conferees complete their work.

The legislation provides money for practically all Pentagon spending. The House version totals $119 billion while the Senate version totals $116.3 billion.

Under the conferees' agreement, defense money could be used only for abortions where the life of the mother was endangered, in cases of rape or incest or where two doctors determined the mother would suffer "severe and long-lasting physical health damage." Those are the same prohibitions imposed on Medicaid abortions for the poor.

The Pentagon has opposed abortion restrictions, but announced late last month it was halting payments for abortions while Congress decided the issue.

The House version of the money bill had prohibited defense money for abortions unless the mother's life was endangered. No such ban was included in the Senate legislation, leaving the issue to the conferees.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said they opposed putting the abortion restriction in the defense appropriation but feared endless arguments against the bill if it wasn't included.

The abortion restriction, sponsored by Rep. Robert K. Dornan, D-Calif., had solid support in the House. It was approved on a 226-163 vote.

In other action on the bill, conferees seemed near agreement on paying travel and moving allowances for the families of junior enlisted servicemen, but only with some type of ceiling on the number of dependents overseas.

'Day of embarrassments' marked Monday by politicians in Texas

By The Associated Press

It was a day of embarrassments for some Texas politicians Monday.

A Democratic judge in West Texas says he was "set up" by Republicans and misrepresented in a GOP literature as a supporter of Bill Clements' campaign for governor.

In San Antonio, a Republican strategy plan marked "confidential" was accidentally mailed to the office manager for the Bexar County Democratic party, who promptly gave it to the press.

The GOP memo, sent apparently by accident to Democrat Basil Archey, said the Republican's fundraising "has declined disastrously" and listed the party's "most targeted" 1978 national races against "vulnerable Democrat incumbents."

The target races included six U.S. Senate seats, 19 congressional races, and six contests for governor. The only Texas race mentioned was U.S. House District 22 where Democrat Bob Gammage is challenged by Republican Ron Paul. The race between Clements and Attorney General John Hill was not mentioned.

In the South Plains town of Post, Garza County Judge Giles Dalby said he backs Democratic candidate Hill and has never supported Clements, despite a GOP campaign publication showing the judge with Clements and identifying Dalby as a Clements supporter.

Dalby admitted signing a release the Republicans say authorized the campaign flyer, but the judge said he did not realize what it was at the time. "They moved in on me like gangbusters. This little girl was handing me a paper to sign, someone was taking my picture...I didn't realize it was a release. I thought it was a voter registration form," Dalby said.

Hill called the campaign literature a "fake newspaper" and said it was another of "political sabotage."

In other developments, Clements released a personal financial report showing he is worth more than $30 million.

The statement showed that Clements owns 630,191 shares of Sedco Inc., which the New York Stock Exchange quotation Monday would make the holding worth about $25.3 million. Clements also said he owns or leases real estate worth $4.9 million in Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Virginia.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, also complained in Austin that his opponent, Democrat Bob Krueger, is trying to obscure Krueger's position on the recent labor reform bill.

"Texans overwhelmingly favor the right to work and the favorable labor-management climate it promotes that has so clearly benefitted the Texas economy," Tower said.

"That is why my opponent is so defensive on this subject, because his labor 'reform' vote to increase the power of the union bosses in Texas is still haunting him in his desperate bid for a new job... I would remind my opponent that the U.S. Senate is a non-union shop — at least where the senators from Texas are concerned."

Krueger spent the day campaigning in border towns in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Hill aide says Clements' tactics wear Watergate scandal brand

By LINDA HILL
R-T Staff Writer

John Hill's deputy campaign manager today lashed out at "underhanded tricks" he said were being used in the Bill Clements' Republican gubernatorial campaign.

Harry Ledbetter, speaking at a Midland press conference on behalf of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Hill, labeled Clements' tactics "the brand of campaigning Mr. Clements learned when he was part of the 1972 Nixon campaign that gave this country the Watergate scandal."

Clements was deputy secretary of defense during the Nixon administration.

Later in the press conference, Ledbetter predicted "we will see some pretty hard hitting" during the final weeks of the gubernatorial campaign.

Specifically, Ledbetter accused Clements of falsely claiming support from Giles W. Dalby, Garza County judge.

Ledbetter brandished a telegram from Dalby in which Dalby said he did not authorize the Clements campaign to use his picture in a newspaper-format mailing sent to more than two million Texans.

In the telegram, Ledbetter said, Dalby also indicated he supports Attorney General Hill for governor.

(In August, Dalby attended a Clements campaign coffee in the town of Post. That coffee was covered by The Reporter-Telegram. On that occasion, Clements was heard asking Dalby to serve as county chairman for the Clements campaign. Dalby declined. That evening, Dalby was seen attending a fund-raising reception for Hill in Lubbock.)

During today's press conference, Ledbetter termed the "fake newspaper," which included Dalby's picture, Clements' "latest effort at political sabotage."

Asked if Hill campaign officials' attacking the material brings more attention to it than it otherwise would have gotten, Ledbetter said that "could be."

But, he said, "People need to know that kind of technique is being used."

Is the Hill campaign concerned about the impact of what officials there charge are inaccurate statements? "We weren't until they put out 2.4 million copies," Ledbetter replied.

About the Clements "truth squad," which Ledbetter said monitors Hill's press conferences, the Hill campaign official said that effort is not harmful to the candidate's campaign, but is "silly."

Instead of being a "truth squad," he said, it is more of a "goon squad."

"The best vehicle in the country for truth is the press... We will depend on the professional press to keep people informed, not a bunch of amateurs," said Ledbetter, who was hired by the Hill campaign after Ledbetter was defeated in his bid to become state treasurer.

Answering Clements' statements that the attorney general's office budget has increased dramatically while Hill has been in that office, Ledbetter said approximately two-thirds of the office's budget consists of the Workman's Compensation fund, created by the Legislature since Hill took office.

The office's operating budget, Ledbetter said, has increased less than that of most state agencies, although the case load is much higher.

Ledbetter said Hill has proposed a "trade-off" concept he adopted in which, for every increase in funding a state agency requests, it would have to recommend areas in which its budget could be cut to compensate.

The deputy campaign manager conceded that Clements has gained strength since the campaign began and that Hill has slipped a few percentage points in the polls.

That comes for the large amounts of money Clements has spent, Ledbetter said, adding that 85 percent of the people of Texas now know who Bill Clements is.

But Ledbetter said Hill still has a large lead in the polls.

"His (Clements') biggest problem is a negative reaction. At least half the voters who meet him don't particularly like him," Ledbetter claimed.

Tuscola man receives cuts

BIG SPRING — A Tuscola man was listed in good condition early today in Malone Hogan Hospital here with scalp lacerations he received in a one-truck accident Monday afternoon, according to a hospital spokesman.

Curtis Eugene Conway, 44, was driving a truck east on Interstate 20, about a mile east of here, when the vehicle went off the road and struck a guard rail, bouncing back through the guard rail and coming to rest in a dry creek bed, according to a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety here.

Lee Rebel train engineered by Bartosh

By JULIE OCHSNER, ROBIN BENNETT and CINDY CANFIELD

Hey all you Rebels out there in UNDEFEATED Rebel-Land!

There is a train at Robert E. Lee that has proven to us is the best that can be! It's engineered by Bartosh, an extremely fine coach. To whom our opponents bow down in approach! The power behind this mighty machine, is a group of MACHO MEN that make up our Maroon & Grey team! With muscles of iron and nerves made of steel. They made El Paso feel like a heel. After giving those pansy Panthers a GREAT many licks, The LEE VARSITY steamed ahead 33 to 6!!! Those Plainview Puppies bowed down in defeat, when our Maroon & Grey showed them who'd be beat! And those supposedly rated No. 8-in-the-state Bulldogs were a sight to be seen. For our REBEL MEN showed them up 16-14! When those timid Snyder Tigers came into town, Our Maroon Platoon proved to them we're the best around! Undeclared and looking great, We silver streaked those Tigers 32 to 8!!! Friday night our Maroon Machine really poured on the steam, as it took on that Baffling Broncho team! Our Maroon &

Grey made touchdowns a many. As we BASHED those Broncos 21 to 20! This GREAT REBEL TRAIN that is traveling to state, Is No. 1—that's what we rate!!! With STATE CHAMPS as our goal, by far no less, We call this mighty train—The ROBERT E. LEE REBEL EXPRESS!

You heard it right Rebs, our undefeated team is rolling on to state! This Friday night the Silver Streak will pick up the second car on its district train as we take on those Bumbling Bobcats from San Angelo. This is also our Homecoming Game so ya'll come out and see the Rebel Express Bash, Box, and Batter up those Baby Bobcats—same game station! RED LIGHTS ARE FLASHING, YOU BETTER GET BACK 'CUZ THE REBEL EXPRESS IS ROLLING DOWN THE TRACK!!!

Last Thursday night our Stonewall Brigade put up a hard fought battle against those Broncos but lost 52-15. NEVER GIVE IN; HUSTLE TO THE VERY END!!!

REBS: As you know next week is Homecoming!!! October 13 and 14. Guys—if you don't have a date—Hurry up and get one so you don't miss out on all the fun. The Bonfire will be Thursday night in the east parking lot. School gets out at 2 o'clock Friday for the Homecoming Parade that starts at 3 o'clock. Come on to the Bonfire and FIRE UP! FIRE UP UP UP!!! Also come out to the parade and see if your class wins the float!

A reception for all ex-LHS students is scheduled from 2-4 p.m. Saturday in the cafeteria.

Hey Rebs, we'll be having HATS OFF TO THE REBELS DAY, BOOT THE BOBCATS DAY, AND MAROON AND WHITE DAY this week, so get into the Homecoming spirit and participate. Saturday night is the Homecoming Dance to celebrate our victory over those baby Bobcats! Disco fever starts at 8 and ends at 12 so ya'll come out and party hearty!!!

The Rebel Express is proud to announce its 1978-79 Football Sweetheart is Holly Bartosh! CONGRATULATION, Holly! The PASF Sweethearts are Katherine George and Alex Rangel! The National Honor Society Sweethearts are Kim Culvahouse and Mike Sites! The Swim Team Sweetheart is Sara Hellinghouse! Congratulations to all the great Rebels!

The Senior class is still selling mums, but the last day is Wednesday, in front of the Youth Center and cafeteria, during both lunches. It's not too late to ask that special girl and show her how much you think of her! Mums can be picked up in the foyer of the auditorium during both lunches and after school Friday!

The Lee Chorale will be having its first concert at 8 p.m., Oct. 16 at Lee. It will feature the Chorale choir, the Lee Singers, and the Origin. Cost for this great concert will be 50 cent per student, and $1 for adults. Season tickets are on sale this year and may be purchased through a Chorale member. It includes four concerts for only $3 for the adults. The student price for season tickets is $1.50. The Chorale is under the direction of Mr. Doug Browne. The choir also has a Spook House on Halloween. It will be really great more info about it at a later date!

Our Rebel Volleyballers played Big Spring last Thursday night and soundly defeated those stumbling steers to make their district record 3-1. Way to go, girls. They travel to Seminole to play in their tourney Friday and Saturday. Friday they took on the Lobos from Monahans but were defeated after three hard games. Saturday they went all day undefeated. The teams they beat were Andrews, El Paso Irving and Denver city for consolation! Keep up the good work, girls. They will be taking on those pansy Panthers form Permian Tuesday at Permian, and Thursday they will travel to Abilene to play those Abilene Eagles.

Rebellettes: Ya'll looked great at our first district game against Odessa so let's keep up the spirit and show the Bobcats whose best. Important: Wrap your football player, trainer or manager, and coaches house Thursday night!!! Yard signs need to be put out at this time also. Squad meetings will be at 7:30 and you will find out if you get to ride on the Homecoming Float!!! Keep on Yellin' girls! 'Til next week.

Julie, Robin, and Cindy P.S. MHS, SPRING ON THOSE BIG SPRING STEERS!!!

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Physical symptoms related to amount of narcotic

DEAR READER: This is a continuation of yesterday's column in which I was answering a question about narcotics—particularly opium and its derivatives. The intensity and character of the physical symptoms experienced during the withdrawal period are directly related to the amount of narcotic used each day and are characterized by states of increased excitability of those same bodily functions that have been depressed by the use of the drug. With the deprivation of morphine or heroin, the first withdrawal signs are usually experienced shortly before the time of the next scheduled dose. Complaints, pleas and demands by the addict are prominent, increasing in intensity and peaking from 36 to 72 hours after the last dose, then gradually subsiding. Symptoms such as watery eyes, runny nose, yawning and perspiration appear about 8 to 12 hours after the last dose. Thereafter, the addict may fall into a restless sleep.

As the abstinence syndrome progresses, restlessness, irritability, loss of appetite, insomnia, goose flesh, tremors and finally violent yawning and severe sneezing occur. These symptoms reach their peak at 48 to 72 hours. The patient is weak and depressed with nausea and vomiting. Stomach cramps and diarrhea are common. Heart and blood pressure are elevated. Chills alternating with flushing and excessive sweating are also characteristic symptoms. Pains in the bones and extremities occur, as do muscle spasms and kicking movements, which may be the source of the expression "kicking the habit." At this time an individual may become suicidal.

Without treatment the syndrome eventually runs its course and most of the symptoms will disappear in from 7 to 16 days. How long it takes to restore physiological and psychological equilibrium, however, is unpredictable. For a few weeks following withdrawal the addict will continue to think and talk about his use of drugs and be particularly susceptible to an urge to use them again. The withdrawal syndrome may be avoided by reducing the dose of narcotic over a one-to-three-week period.

Detoxification of an addict can be accomplished quite easily by substituting oral methadone for the illicit narcotic and gradually reducing the dose. However, the addict's entire pattern of life is built around drug-taking and narcotic dependence is never entirely resolved by chemical withdrawal alone.

Infants born of addicted mothers may also be expected to experience withdrawal symptoms. Since narcotics pass the placenta, these babies are themselves physically dependent and possibly in a life-threatening condition. Therapy may be necessary to preserve the infant's life.

BRIDGE Caught in middle, aided by opponents

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Chicago beat Miami in the finals of the 8000-team Grand National Team Championship last July in Toronto, one player was caught in the middle: Bud Reinhold, captain of the Miami team and a Chicago businessman for over 30 years. Reinhold got a bit too high on the South cards shown today, but brought his game home when the defense slipped.

West's bid of two clubs was a special tournament convention promising length in hearts bid therefore did not promise length or strength in hearts. Reinhold knew he had told his whole story with the opening bid, but the result justified his overbidding.

If West had led a heart, the defenders would have earned a heart, a club and two spades. But West led his singleton, not knowing that he didn't need a ruff to get a second trump trick.

Reinhold took the first trick with the ace of diamonds to lead a trump. When East played low, declarer finessed with the jack.

GETS RUFF
West took the ace of spades and put his partner in with a club. Back came a diamond, and West got his ruff. But now the shift to hearts was too late. Reinhold took the ace of hearts, drew the missing trumps with the king and cashed the top clubs to discard dummy's remaining heart. Dummy was then good.

ANSWER: Bid 3 NT. If you had the barest possible 9 points in high cards, you might be satisfied with a raise to 2 NT, but in this case you have two tens and a nine and should therefore jump to game in notrump.

Student body president adds touch of humor

By TIMOTHY HARPER

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Jim Mallon figures his finger is firmly on the pulse of his 40,000 constituents.

"All the average student cares about is sex and drugs and rock 'n' roll. In that order," says the student body president at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Chairing student senate meetings with a huge plastic gavel or cavorting on campus in clown suits, Mallon and his vice president, Leon Varjian, have brought new humor to this campus, a hotbed of anti-war radicalism in the 1960s.

Mallon, 22, a communications arts senior, and Varjian, who at 27 is in his 10th year of college, founded the "Pail and Shovel" party last spring.

They proposed converting students funds into pennies and dumping them into a campus fountain, so students could dig in — with pails and shovels.

"Pail and Shovel is dedicated to the 4-year-old in all of us," Mallon said in his disheveled student union office, which features a filing cabinet marked "Toys."

Mallon and Varjian began by building a giant campaign "platform" out of Popsicle sticks. Now, they're the dominant figures in student politics — 29 Pail and Shovel candidates won election to the 36-member student senate last week.

"We have two more than a two-thirds majority now and no one can stop us," Mallon gloated.

Stop them from what?

Their campaign promises include:

Flooding the football stadium for mock naval battles, stuffing and mounting all deans, converting parking meters into gumball machines and running clocks backward so classes end before they start.

And they are apparently serious about some of their plans.

Last week, the student senate changed the school's name to the University of New Jersey.

"That way kids from Wisconsin can say they graduated from a prestigious Eastern school," Mallon said. "And we should be able to get the New York Times a lot cheaper."

Earlier, Mallon and Varjian helped plan and okayed funds for a wild "toga party," attended by about 12,000. And then there was the marijuana "smoke-in," which drew 5,000 to the state Capitol.

Paul Ginsburg, dean of students, said the rise of Mallon and Varjian means students are seeking a little light-hearted relief from academic and social pressures. "People are just looking for something less serious," he said.

Merchant seaman arrested in brutal rape, mutilation

SPARKS, Nev. (AP) — A 51-year-old merchant seaman — described by a neighbor as "a peach of a fellow" — was being held today in connection with the rape-mutilation of a young girl who was found staggering naked along a California freeway, her arms hacked off below the elbows.

Sparks police on Monday booked Larry Singleton for investigation on charges of attempted homicide, sexual assault and mayhem — a term whose legal definition includes mutilation of a human body.

Police gave no details of the arrest, except to say that, acting on a tip, they picked up Singleton at the home of a former wife.

The 15-year-old victim, identified only as "Mary," had assisted Modesto, Calif., police from her hospital bed, submitting to hypnosis and working with a police artist to form a sketch of her attacker. She had said the man who chopped off her arms was named Larry.

The girl, a Las Vegas, Nev., runaway, was known as Maria Vargas in Sausalito, Calif., where she lived with her boyfriend in his car. Her real name has not been released because of her age and the nature of the crime.

Investigators say they believe she was attacked after accepting a ride at or near Richmond, Calif., on Sept. 29.

The next day, a couple who had stopped to rest at the side of Interstate 5 west of Modesto, found the girl wandering nude and in shock with her arms hacked off below the elbows. Her assailant had apparently left her for dead.

Doctors said the girl didn't bleed to death because the ax-blows had effectively "sealed" her truncated blood vessels. Her arms were never found.

Information pieced together from accounts by the girl enabled a police artist to draw a sketch of the attacker. It showed a heavy man in his 50s, with glasses and dark hair streaked with gray.

Of the suspect, Stanislaus County Sheriff Lynn Wood said, "I'll tell you this. Everything fits. One of our leads panned out."

Asked if the sketch was the basis for Singleton's arrest, Wood said, "I would have to say that's true. Our investigation was based on the sketch and subsequently led to the arrest."

When told of the arrest, a male neighbor of Singleton who requested anonymity said: "Oh, my God... Oh, my God... I don't believe it. He's a peach of a fellow."

Other neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lewis, said they didn't know Singleton very well but "he always said hello and was very pleasant."

Sparks police said others in Singleton's neighborhood described him as "a sea captain" who spent about half his time away from the house he had lived in for two years. They said he was away at sea for as long as six months at a time.

Singleton had been married at least twice and had a 15-year-old daughter, police said.

Memphis teachers prepare to man picket lines today

By The Associated Press

Teachers in Memphis, Tenn., are preparing to set up picket lines, but school officials say they have a contingency plan to keep classes open for the district's 113,000 pupils.

The 5,200-member Memphis Education Association said it would begin its strike today after the rank and file voted 2,659 to 973 Monday to reject a contract offer providing average salary increases of 5.4 percent.

School officials said they would seek an injunction against the union, but did not indicate when they would go to court.

Meanwhile, in Cleveland, where 100,000 pupils have yet to see their classrooms this year, six striking unions agreed to vote again on a contract providing average salary increases of 8 percent if the district could win a guarantee that it could use a state loan to finance the raises.

On Monday the district asked the state to rule on the request.

Union and Cleveland school officials planned to meet with state legislators today to discuss the guarantee.

The unions, which have been trying to negotiate a contract since November 1976, want a 20 percent raise. The starting salary of a Cleveland teacher is $9,100 a year, with the average teacher's salary $14,873 a year.

Strikers continued to defy a judge's back-to-work order, despite the jailing of a strike leader and threat of other contempt-of-court actions.

Memphis Education Association president Lorene Osborne said MEA board members had unanimously recommended rejection of the contract.

John Freeman, superintendent of the Memphis school system, said the district's strike contingency plans called for use of substitute teachers, administrators and perhaps parents to keep school open.

Evelyn Temple, an organizer for the National Education Association, said bus drivers had indicated that they would honor teacher picket lines and added that she had been promised support by the policemen's and firefighters' unions, both of which struck over the summer.

When talks began April 11, the MEA sought a 9.5 percent salary increase, but has reduced that to 8.1 percent. The board offered a 5.4 percent increase, not including experience increments, which would bring the average increase to 7.1 percent. Beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree earn $1,028 a month.

In Connecticut, University of Bridgeport teachers were back on the job Monday at the 8,000-student campus after agreeing to submit their demands to non-binding arbitration.

Champion tripe nets record price

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Who in their right mind would bid anything, much less $4,000, for a pot of soup made from beef tripe? Try Williams Distributing Co.

The beer distributing firm paid $4,000 Monday for the pot of menudo that won last weekend's World Championship Menudo Cook-Off. The money will go to the local Boys Club, said Sales Manager Bill A. Gaither.

Name identification is the name of game

By KEN HERMAN

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The challenger with the German name that Mexican-Americans have trouble pronouncing knows that the senator he wants to replace has a name that voters remember.

But U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger of New Braunfels says he is used to hearing his name mispronounced. His father did it half the time.

"When he answered the San Antonio line, he said, 'Kroo-ger.' On the New Braunfels line it was, 'Kree-ger.' Actually, it should be about halfway between those," he said.

Name identification is the name of the game now as Krueger tries to unseat veteran Republican U.S. Sen. John Tower.

Krueger aides said "frankly" they are disappointed about the lack of enthusiasm they have found for the Senate race in important South Texas. They are looking for something to spark voter interest.

They think Krueger's quick-hitting helicopter whistlestop tours are helping.

Monday, the helicopter touched down in nine South Texas towns. Last week it hit 58 Texas cities in four days.

Krueger said a simple introduction and handshake can be as important as a vigorous campaign talk.

"It does have an effect. A majority of people in this country have never met a U.S. senator or congressman. I remember every senator I met before I went up there," the two-term representative said.

The day began at 7:30 a.m. in Alice. After a brief stop in Falfurrias, the Krueger copter touched down at Pan American University in Edinburg. The stop got off to a stumbling start when a campus campaign worker introduced Krueger as the "next congressman from Texas."

But Krueger quickly won the crowd's support — especially when he adeptly handled a question from a Tower supporter. Throughout the day Krueger chided Tower for claiming solidarity with the Mexican-American community.

"Un amigo con sincero," he said, mimicking a Tower slogan.

"Doesn't that make you feel good," he added sarcastically.

The Democrat also blasted Tower for being no more than a "losing vote" on Capitol Hill.

"It's like the Cowboys last week. Only a defense and no offense," he said, referring to a Dallas football loss to Washington.

Back in the copter, Krueger said he gets a sort of backdoor enjoyment from campaigning.

"It's like when I did my doctoral dissertation. I liked doing it but I only did it so I could teach. I do this because I want to serve," he said.

As the candidate used a campus newspaper to fan himself, the noisy chopper rumbled east to Harlingen. A wet field forced an impromptu landing in a hospital parking lot.

Fresh from a campus appearance where he convinced students he understood their problems, Krueger met with farmers at a Harlingen luncheon.

"I know what it is to raise cattle. Four days after the election we'll have a sale of Krueger brangus in Crockett," he said.

And, again the Cowboy analogy.

"They had a fair defense and almost no offense and they lost. Tower's been there to vote against some things but he's never been there to stand for anything," he said.

During the flight to Raymondville, aide David Wildman dozed. Krueger also appeared to sleep intermittently in the front seat.

"I like to sit in the front because I can sleep and it looks like I'm looking out the window," he joked.

A group of 25 diminutive, elderly Mexican-Americans greeted the copter in Raymondville.

"Should I say anything to this group? Can I speak in English?" he asked an aide.

He spoke mostly in English but delighted the group with his smooth Spanish.

After handshaking at the courthouse and downtown (I'm Bob Krueger, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate) the campaign was again airborne.

After quick stops in Port Isabel and San Benito the chopper headed for McAllen. While some 30 supporters munched nachos and sipped free drinks, aides talked about the campaign.

They are confident of gaining a high percentage of the "M-A" vote. What they worry about is the size of the Mexican-American voter turnout. One aide said he hopes for a 40 percent turnout. The mayor of a small area town said he is pushing for an almost unheard of 65 percent turnout in his Mexican-American city.

The name problem is real, aides said. But they feel the whirlwind tours will help generate interest in the man and the race.

Some aides see a need for a big spark — such as a tour by Sen. Edward Kennedy. One worker said Kennedy has already been contacted about such a campaign swing.

Krueger made his talk again in McAllen ("If you have an offense you'll fumble sometimes. With no offense you'll always lose") and headed for Brownsville.

The local businessmen heard Krueger again blast Tower's record.

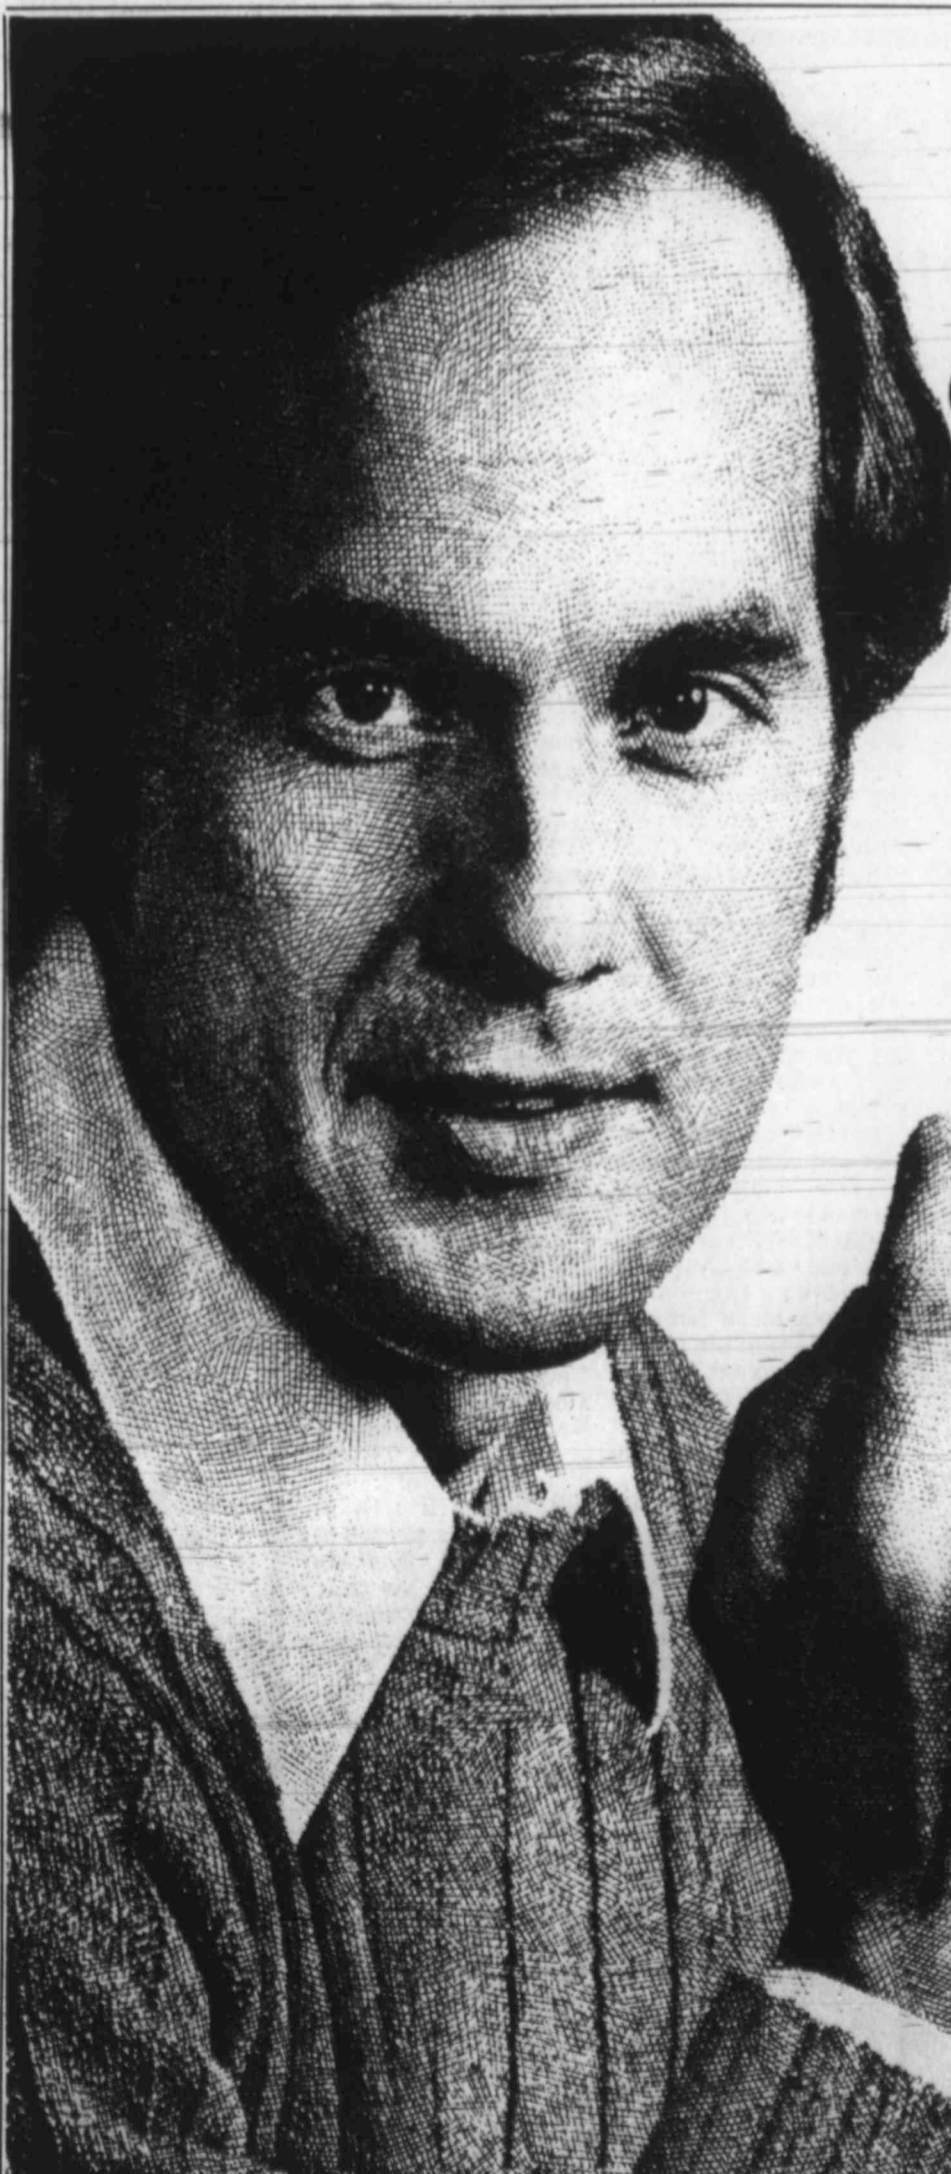

"If you have only defense and no offense you lose," he said.

The final stop was in the lavish home of a local Jewish leader. A letter to members of a temple here said rumors of anti-semitic remarks by Krueger had been proven untrue.

Before heading into a late night strategy session after a 16-hour campaign day, Krueger talked about his race.

"The consciousness about the race isn't as high here as in other parts of the state," he said.

"We want a big voter turnout. Exactly what it will take... Who knows?"

'Vantage. I just won't compromise on taste.'

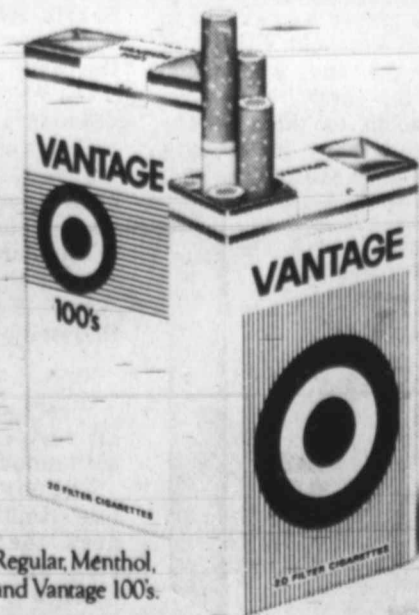

"I'm willing to make some concessions, but taste isn't one of them. Even though I've heard the tar stories, I still want a cigarette with good taste.

"That's why I'm glad I switched to Vantage.

"With Vantage, I get the taste I smoked for in the first place. And that wasn't easy to find in a low tar.

"For me, Vantage is the best tasting low tar cigarette there is."
