Jury probing comptroller

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Officials of Comptroller Bob Bullock's department have been subpoenaed by the Travis County grand jury to produce payroll records on Deputy Comptroller Ralph Wayne's secretary.

The grand jury was to meet this

In addition to payroll documents on Sherri Revier, the grand jurors have subpoenaed the inventory records on the typewriter she uses in Wayne's

Division heads Jim Blume, John Pratt and Bill Aleshire were named in the subpoenas as custodians of the documents sought by the Travis County grand jury. No allegations have been made against them.

Bill Collier and George Kuempel recently resigned as high-paid publicists for the comptroller's office, saying Bullock should fire Wayne and resign himself.

They said resignation would be in the best interest of Bullock's delicate health. He has lost a lung and, it was disclosed over the weekend, takes lithium to combat depression.

Collier reportedly has told the district attorney's office Ms. Revier typed correspondence, signed checks and did other work for Wayne's private businesses on state time.

Assistant District Attorney Steve Capelle said the documents and typewriter were sought as "verification" of "just the allegations Mr. Collier has made.

"We need to know some basic background — that somebody was on the state payroll and was paid state money on certain days," he said. Capelle confirmed that investigaseized files and the typewriter used by Ms. Revier late Friday afternoon. Asked what a typewriter would prove, Capelle said "each little ball can be matched up" with letters typed on paper, much as ballistics experts can match a bullet with the

Mobile home zone change denied

By LANA CUNNINGHAM R-T Staff Writer

The questionable effect mobile homes would have upon a section of east Midland, and neighborhood opposition to the idea, led to a rejection by the Planning and Zoning Commission of a requested zone change.

The commission met Monday at City Hall. Rejected was a request by Fairy Myers and a proposal by the city of Midland to change zoning from a single family district to a mobile home district. Involved were the 700 blocks of Loma Vista, Calhoun, Tilden, Lincoln and Jackson Streets and the 1600, 1700 and 1800 blocks of Mulberry Lane, Walnut Lane and 1800 Garden Lane.

Slides of the area were shown which depicted narrow dirt roads and no

Dr. Viola Coleman questioned the commission about their plans to pave the roads and install street lights.

Director of Planning and Community Development Richard Hennessy said owners of the property in the area will have to make that type of improvements "Streets and lights are needed if the area becomes more densely populated," he added.

Dr. Coleman then gave her opinion on the area

The line-up on the ramp included: the ominous gray Buecker Jungmann biplane used to train Luftwaffe and, later. Spanish pilots between the wars; the old mostly wood-and-Stearman biplane that was slow but extremely sturdy, reliable and aerobatic: the fas ter, heavier and aerobatic all metal BT-13 Vultee Valiant, which aviators dubbed the "Vi brator"; a souped-up and highly modified 1946 Taylorcraft; a sleek, ahead-of-its-time New Ryan monoplane that followed Charles Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis off the drawing board. Only 12 of those New Ryans, built by Ryan Aeronautical Co., came off the assembly line, "Ryan man" Conoley noted. World War II put a crimp into sports and civilian airplane production. A 13th Ryan "was put together from parts," Conoley said after touchdown.

More than fly-bys, static displays of rare birds and pot-luck picnic foodwere on the fare for the 250 air buffs who flew, drove or biked into Harold and Dot Vroman's Sky Ranch Airport Midkiff Road.

Hurt, an Odessa rancher and oilman, pulled off aerobatics loops, rolls, hammerhead-stalls and variations on the loop-androll theme - in his 1946 "completely rebuilt" Taylorcraft and then in his brother's Stearman biplane. He was decked out in leather flying cap and goggles like a barnstormer.

Like the other aerobatic pilots in the outing, Satterfield and Hurt are professionals who fly skillfully and safely. They want to live to fly again and again. Satterfield, a corporate jet

Federal building named for Mahon

WASHINGTON, D.C. The federal building in Midland has been named in honor of U.S. Rep. George Mahon. U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen announced today the 95th Congress in its closing hours approved legislation naming the building in honor of the representative, who is retiring at the end of this year.

"George Mahon was first elected to Congress in 1934. He has spent 44 years here attempting to resolve the numerous problems of this nation over half his life," Bentsen said.

"He came here first to fight the Great Depression, he has served here during three wars. He has known these great problems and participated in the efforts this country has made to solve them. His knowledge, his efforts have contributed to all

"I have worked with George Mahon first as a young congressman, then as a Texas businessman and now as a senator. I have sought and respected his advice in all these relationships. He is equally well respected by his fellow Texas congressmen, Bentsen said

Mahon has been chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for 14 years. The 95th Congress was his last. He is retiring from Congress at the end of this year.

"I am pleased and gratified that Congress has approved legislation to name the Federal Building in Midland in his honor," Bentsen.

"I do not know whether any single act can effectively show our appreciation for George Mahon's efforts in Congress. But this action was a sincere effort to do that," Bentsen said. Mahon will be honored in Midland Nov. 11 when the Midland Chamber of Commerce sponsors George Mahon

Firm willing to fund lakes study

By MARK VOGLER R-T Staff Writer

DALLAS - The president of Whalen Corp. said Monday his company would be willing to help sponsor scientific studies to determine how brine disposal at playa lakes affects migratory birds.

Arnold Darrow said in a telephone interview the Dallas-based subsidiary of Triton Oil and Gas would like to participate in underwriting a conclusive enviornmental study to resolve a controversy between environmentalists and oil industry officials about Whalen Lake in Andrews County. Darrow suggested the National Audobon Society or a West Texas university might join the company in the Whalen Corp., which has been accused by the U.S. Interior Department of violating the Migratory Bird Act in disposing petroleum products into the lake, will seek a renewal of its discharge permit at a Railroad Commission hearing set for Oct. 26 in Austin.

"I don't think enough is known about what the actual impact on the bird population is at these lakes. There's just no factual data available at this time. We would be willing to co-sponsor a study on the birds at the lake." Darrow said.

The company official said he is serious about the proposal. He said he discussed the issue with Dr. Dede Armentrout, a West Texas representative of the National Audobon So-

Improvements in the disposal system are expected to cost Whalen Corp. about $20,000.

Darrow is confident the company can make enough improvements in the remaining time before the hearing, or at least come up with affirmative policies, to convince the Railroad Commission the discharge permit should be granted.

Darrow also said he is optimistic Whalen Corp. can negotiate some improvements at the lake to satisfy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The outgoing Congress undertook so much legislation it could not finish all of it. leaving several bills on major issues unresolved when it adjourned Sun-

In contrast, the new Congress convening in January may shift the emphasis from legislating new government programs to weeding out existing ones found to be obsolete or too costly

A number of members are suggesting such a course, including influencial ones like House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill

"Somewhere in there we have got to find time to spot the obsolescence that takes place in government," O'Neill said in an interview

He has assigned staff and some interested members to devise changes in House rules and procedures so time can be officially set aside for oversight instead of legislation. "This would be innovative," O'Neill said. "I don't know if I can sell

Oversight is Congress' word for monitoring operation of the executive branch. It is a lesser known function and, O'Neill said, not a wholly successful one so far.

He said the answer might be to be pre-empted by the constant press of new legislation.

"I know how hard it is to get rid of a thing once it's in existence.... There's no question in my mind there's waste in government," O'Neill said.

If less effective programs can be pruned out, he said, the budget can be balanced within a few years.

California's Proposition 13 and other evidence of public dissatisfaction with enlarged government and increasing taxes have been felt by Congress and a growing sentiment for pruning is its response, O'Neill said.

That notwithstanding, Congress will continue spending much of its time on new legislative programs. What are the priorities?

"Hospital costs and health," replied O'Neill. "Absolutely, that's the

BEITEDDIN, Lebanon (AP) — The seven-nation Arab conference on Lebanon ended today with a pledge to neutralize the right-wing Lebanese Christians and, if necessary, to use force to end their collaboration with

The threat of action against the Israeli-backed Christian militias was one of eight major points contained in a statement issued at the end of the three-day conference. The meeting was called by Lebanese President Elias Sarkis to find a way to restore peace to the strife-torn country.

. The eight points were largely a reiteration of previous Arab calls for the disarmament of private militias and an end to the radio and press propaganda war waged by the warring Lebanese factions. Those calls have gone unheeded in the previous four years of fighting in Lebanon.

The statement also affirmed the need for the preservation of Lebanon's unity and independence.

Observers noted, however, that the eight points did not refer to an extension of the mandate of the Syrian-dominated Arab Leag2e peacekeeping force, dispatched to Lebanon in November 1976 to police the armistice that ended the civil war between rightist Christians and the alliance of leftist Moslems and Paltstinian guer-

But one of the eight points spoke of the "exact, accurate and thorough application of the Riyadh and Cairo summit resolutions," which created the Syrian-controlled Arab deterrent force in Lebanon

Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam of Syria said at a news conference Monday that his government is determined to end collaboration between the Christian militiamen and Israel, and that this has the unanimous backing of Sarkis and five other Arab governments who contribute token forces or money to reinforce

The Christians have refused to submit to Syrian control because the Syrians have done nothing to disarm the Lebanese Moslems or the Palestinian guerrillas. The Christians charge that the so-called Arab Deterrent Force is in fact a Syrian occupation army and have turned to the Israelis in southern Lebanon for arms, other supplies and artillery support. Meanwhile, the Syrians stay out of southern Lebanon because Israel has threatened to attack them if they move south of the Litani River.

New pontiff seen as answer to church's 'circumstances'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

VATICAN CITY (AP) - Church scholars see the election of Pope John Paul II as the enlisting of a seasoned front-line fighter against religious oppression to lead Roman Catholicism in an age when faith is variously threatened worldwide.

They said he had shown his mettle and found ways to maintain church stength under the strictures of Poland's Communist regime, and such tested-underfire leadership seemed fitted internationally to withstand diverse challenges to belief in many lands.

'We've picked a man who has lived through one of the great, historic crises of our times, keeping faith vigorous under persecution," said the Rev. Joseph O'Hare, a theologian and editor of the U.S. Catholic weekly, America.

"Similar difficult circumstances confront Christianity in many areas, not only in the Communist East but in the secularism of the West and under repressive, rightist regimes in Latin America and elsewhere. The church seems trying to gear its ladership to come to grips with the modern world,

Other far-reaching implications were seen in the stunning, unprecedented choice of a pope from the Communist-ruled sphere, Poland's Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, who also was the first non-Italian pope since Adrian VI of Holland in 1522-1523.

Scholars said the choice not only concretely dramatized the global dimensions of the church, beyond the long Italian stamp on the papacy, but seemed to back church struggles for human rights in various

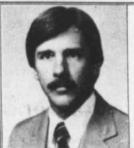

"It will be a tremendous impetus and encouragement to others fighting for social justice in the Third World," said the Rex. Paul Boyle of Chicago, head of the Passionist Fathers, who has twice lunched with the former Polish cardinal.

There are many things in this man that people have been looking for, especially people in hard and trying circumstances. Here is a man who has lived through that experience, kept people together, and been a leader in seeking social rights and justice for his people.

The new pope's stance under Communist pressures while also maintaining working relations with the Communist regime, was seen as a timely, widely applicable experience in these days.

Asked whether it would mean broadened church dialogue with Communist countries, and extending church policies of detente where possible instead of confrontation, the Rev. John Long of the Vatican's Christian Unity Secretariat, said:

"He would be able to strengthen it. He has been involved, in a sense, in doing the possible. It could mean a more positive dialogue with other countries where similar difficulties exist. I don't think it means either an aggressive anti-Communism or a support and vote so that may continue serving you as County Judge. have proven experience complete opening up to Communism."

While the new pope has not been directly associated with the rising ecumenical ties between Catholics, Protestants and Eastern Orthodox, since Poland is so overwhelmingly Catholic, those acquainted with him say he has worked to sensitize Catholics to inter-Christian solidarity.

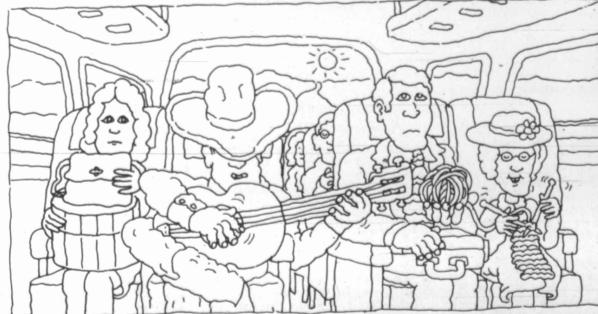

He also has been involved in Christian dialogue with atheists.

"He's gone through some good learning experiences for becoming pope in these particular days." said the Rev. Donald Campion, a Jesuit official. "His is a direct, personal contact that transcends borders of different systems and viewpoints."

Italian Bishop Luigi Bettazzi of Ivrea, near Turin, called the new pope "the sign truly of a church that opens itself to the whole world.'

It's Bill Clements

Texans have the opportunity on Nov. 7 of electing a successful, conservative, dynamic, trustworthy businessman as governor of the Lone Star State.

JAMES N. ALLISON (1902-1975)

He is Bill Clements of Dallas, the Republican nominee, who has brought a breath of fresh air into the Texas political arena and who, in our opinion, would make a forthright chief executive.

There is no doubt now as to where Bill Clements stands on any political, legislative or philosophical matter. The very same thing would hold true should he occupy the governor's man-

He is an enthusiastic person and his enthusiasm is catching. Texans seemingly are impressed by his sincerity of purpose, his spirit of confidence, his frankness, his organizational ability and his determination.

He believes firmly that he can, if elected, advance the best interests of Texas and Texans in multiple ways. We are inclined to agree with him.

Business-like performance is his pledge, and this is one of the really big needs in all elective offices.

It really is no wonder that so many persons who previously have supported and voted for Democrat candidates for governor have switched and are switching to Clements in the 1978

Gov. Dolph Briscoe's daughter. Janey Vaughan, and her husband Ed were among those joining the Bill Clements-for-Governor Steering Committee recently.

"Clements is the better man." Mrs. Vaughan said. "John Hill (the Democrat nominee) is too liberal for us. We don't agree with him."

Based on the treatment he has received from some of his Democrat associates in Austin and Washington, Gov. Briscoe, himself, would be justified in switching over to Clements' side in the upcoming election.

Clements has conducted an aggressive, effective campaign, working day and night in covering the entire state, getting acquainted with the people and letting them know his political philosophy and his views on legislative matters, state spending, taxation, government operation, labor and what-haveyou. His open and frank stance is one of his greatest qualities.

Visiting here last week, Clements said his campaign really is rolling and that he is becoming more and more confident of victory on Nov. 7. If this is the case, the Lone Star State will be the real winner. There is no doubt in our mind that he would make a great governor. We believe that he is up to most any job he cares to accept.

JAMES N. ALLISON JR. (1931-1978)

The dynamic GOP nominee is a most successful, highly respected businessman, the founder of one of the world's largest independent drilling firms. He long ago proved himself to be a top-rated business executive. His excellent judgment in business matters would work to the best interests of Texas. He is thoroughly familiar with the petroleum industry and knows full well the problems and needs of other industries and business interests of the state, as he has explained in his campaign talks.

He has said that he will resign his corporate positions and put his stock in trust if he is elected governor.

It would be difficult to find a person more steadfast in his conservative views than is Bill Clements. He is a firm believer in states' rights. He is pledged to do his dead-level best to strengthen management efficiencies in state government.

Clements served as deputy Defense secretary in Washington-, from 1973 to 1977, during which time he had the assignment of managing the Pentagon. This gained for him invaluable management experience. It also gave him the opportunity of observing first-hand how the federal system functions and of learning what is required to get and hold the attention of the various government agencies. This would be most valuable to him in the governor's office.

The Reporter-Telegram. convinced that Bill Clements is the better of the two nominees for the job, endorses him for governor of Texas and urges his election in the Nov. 7 balloting.

Japan sets an example with the Soviet Union

By EDWARD NEILAN Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - The diplomatic book on Japan-Soviet Union relations holds that ties are strained and that there is little likelihood of improvement.

That is an erroneous perception which should be corrected by our statesmen who are devoting too little time to the complexities of the new and economically powerful Japan.

The Carter administration's preoccupation with playing the 'China card' against the Soviet Union has allowed attention to our relations with Japan to lapse The White House has already bungled the trade situation with Japan by not applying the combination of toughness and enlightened policymaking that is required when dealing in Asia. As for the Japanese, they have handled their relations with the Soviet Union in a very competent manner. Their performance should be instructive to our own diplomats.

American concern over the Soviet Union's activities near Japan is generally discussed in security terms. At the moment, there is considerable discussion going on over the size and activity of the Soviet Pacific

Up to 1975, the Soviet Pacific fleet tended to confine its activities to the Sea of Japan. Today, that fleet operates all over the Pacific - including some close brushes with Hawaii - and is the Pacific Ocean's most imposing fleet. The Soviets have 750 vessels berthed at three Asian ports. The array is by no means lightly armed: There are 10 cruisers, 125 submarines — over half of them nuclear-armed, 80 destroyers, about 300 smaller warships and more than 200 support vessels.

Japan is reassessing its own selfdefense forces in the face of the Soviet buildup, which seems larger because of the scaledown of U.S. Naval presence in the Pacific.

But Japan is also active on the political and economic front. In signing a new treaty of friendship with the People's Republic of China, Japan managed to add language to the document that softened implied animosity toward the Soviet Union.

China had insisted the treaty show the parties to be against "hegemony" in Asia - Peking's code word for Soviet expansionism - but Japan added a paragraph stating that the treaty was not directed against any specific nation.

Japan still wants to regain its "Northern islands" taken by the Soviet Union after World War II and this is the source of most of the political tension between Moscow and Tokyo. The example of the United States handing back Okinawa to the Japanese made no dent in the Soviet position. Has anyone ever heard of a Communist nation giving back territory once seized?

Okinawa, incidentally, is one of the islands around which the Soviet fleet regularly holds maneuvers. It is the location of major U.S. bases. The military disadvantage at which Japan finds itself with the Soviet Union is balanced by Japan's economic superiority in the region.

The Soviet Union would like to have creased Japanese participatio the development of Siberia and other territories of Soviet Asia. Since 1970, trade between Japan and the Soviet Union has climbed from $822 million to $3.36 billion last year. You don't even have to guess who holds the balance in that trade: It's Japan, of course, with a 1977 favorable balance of $512 million.

Japan and the Soviet Union have the second and third largest economies in the world after the United States. The two find a basis for their increased trade through their seven joint economic projects in Siberia.

The largest of these projects, the natural gas development scheme at Yakutia near the Lena River, gained impetus this summer when Tokyo. Moscow and Washington planners approved a contract for Japanese and American investment of more than $3

Clever Japanese leaders insisted on U.S. participation before agreeing to the Siberian plans put forth by the Soviets.

The Soviet Union is angry with the Japanese for signing e new treaty with China, but Japan has calculated that this pique will subside.

The bright economic future of northeast Asia, the security problems, the diplomatic challenges all suggest that the United States should devote more of its attention to this part of the world.

Is Kirbo thwarting FBI probe?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - President Carter's closest friend and personal adviser, Charles Kirbo, allegedly has meddled in the FBI investigation of the Robert Vesco scandal.

Agents have learned that Kirbo advised a federal witness to use restraint in giving information to the FBI. The Carter confidant is quoted in their secret investigative reports as having told the unnamed witness: "I think it's a mistake to be too open with

The bureau has been probing the Vesco scandal for several months, including Kirbo's role in the case an involvement he has strenuously denied. Now he is conducting an independent investigation of the same case and reporting his findings to Attorney General Griffin Bell. Kirbo has also been working with the White House on the private probe, the FBI has learned.

According to FBI documents, Kirbo did not ask the witness to cover up any specific facts but merely counseled against being "too open" with the FBI. A special team of agents. nevertheless, is quietly checking into the possibility that Kirbo's intervention constitutes obstruction of justice.

His collaboration with the attorney general and the White House also raises a question of impropriety. Quite obviously, the Vesco scandal is an embarrassment to the president and his people. They would prefer to smother the scandal in its crib.

So Kirbo and Bell, as they compare notes on the case, do not appear as impartial investigators sternly searching for the truth but as a rooting section for Carter's accused companions.

Kirbo's unwillingness to be open with the FBI also raises a question about his role in the General Services Administration investigations. Originally, the president wanted him to monitor the federal probes of the GSA scandals.

The Washington Post quoted a White House spokesman as explaining: "The President has asked Mr. Kirbo to help monitor and observe the GSA investigations ... (He) will be talking to Justice people as warranted and presumably will be receiving information from Justice on the investigation.

This odd arrangement produced a backlash inside the Justice Department over the propriety of allowing a private attorney to oversee federal investigations. In fact, the two grand juries now, scrutinizing the GSA are prohibited by law from sharing their findings with outsiders. Various spokesmen for the Carter administration kept revising the story, meanwhile, until they came up with the announcement that Kirbo would be merely a consultant, proffering advice to General Services Administrator Jay Solomon. But there is increasing suspicion that Kirbo's real role is to shield his friend Carter from embarrassment.

Presumably it was in this capacity that Kirbo launched an ambitious investigation of this column. We had become aware of certain discomforting attentions from the Carter administration. Then last week Kirbo went public, boasting that he had "a good case" against us and had turned his findings over to the FBI.

use against us. There is no indication that President Carter intends to invoke these Nixon routines against us. But already, his closest friend and confidant is going after us and is trying to involve the FBI toward this end.

The attentions of the FBI should be directed at getting to the bottom of the Vesco scandal. Vesco has a reputation as one of the slickest international swindlers of all times. He transferred $10 million worth of his prime stock to some Georgia influence peddlers who Kirbo has refused to talk to us, so had persuaded him that they had a pipeline into the Carter White House.

President Carter learned about the Vesco plot, according to the White House's own admission, on Feb. 15. 1977. He responded by asking the attorney general to see one of the influence peddlers.

At the risk of treading on presidential toes for the second time in a decade, the FBI should find out why the president failed to report this criminal conspiracy to the proper authorities. Not until a year later did the Justice Department belatedly learn about it and begin an in-

Anti-inflation politics exploited for Nov. 7 election

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - The switch of conservative Republicans to President Carter's side in the battle to sustain his veto of the public works bill was dramatic evidence of Republican efforts to exploit anti-inflation politics for the Nov. 7 election against nigher-spending Democrats.

Although Rep. John Rhodes, the House Republican leader, backed House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill and the Democratic leadership in trying to overturn the veto, Rep. Bob Michel of Illinois, Rhodes' Republican whip, and 61 other Republicans, most of them conservatives, ignored Rhodes and went the other way.

'They put their votes where their mouths are," one Republican operative told us, meaning that conservatives now leading the campaign against high taxes and high spending followed Jimmy Carter's anti-inflation lead to kill 27 expensive public works projects he does not want.

When the public works bill originally passed the House, only 22 Republicans voted against it. But on the effort by the Democrats to override the president's veto, which requires a two-thirds vote, 62 Republicans voted to sustain the president, guaranteeing more than enough votes to uphold the Most were conservatives and they included a blue-ribbon list of leading ight-of-center Republicans: Reps. Robert Bauman and Marjorie Holt of Maryland, Elford Cederberg of Michigan, John Ashbrook and Sam Devine of Ohio, Robert Dornan of California and John Wydler of New York, By supplying enough votes to the Carter side to assure defeat of the override attempt, these Reublicans put themselves on the leading edge of the political battle against high taxes and high spending that is dominating the congressional election campaign.

REAGAN: 'NO WITCH-HUNTER'

Ronald Reagan's muted oppostion to the anti-homosexual referendum in California, while disturbing to his most fervent right-wing backers, is part of a long-range move to moderate his position for the 1980 presidential campaign.

Polls show a substantial majority favoring California's Propostion 6 probably the toughest of many antihomosexual ballot proposals around the country that began in Dade County, Fla., last year. And that poses something of a dilemma for Reagan, winter book favorite for the Republican nomination

'Ron doesn't want to be put in the position of being a witch-hunter," one close adviser told us. On the other hand, ardent Reaganites in California are ardent backers of Proposition 6. One insider urged Reagan to finesse the issue by saying he was studying it - right past the Nov. 7 election day. Reagan has publicly called Proposition 6 unnecessary and superfluous to accomplish its avowed goal of preventing homosexual schoolteachers from indoctrinating students, activity now prohibited by state law.

KENNEDY'S TAX ADVICE

A potential new source of friction between President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is Kennedy's advice that the tax reduction bill passed by Congress should be vetoed.

Kennedy objects to the lack of "reforms" (such as restrictions on the 'three-martini lunch") and to substantial tax reductions in high income brackets. Mr. Carter shares the same concerns, but it is entirely conceivable that he would sign a bill Kennedy thinks should be vetoed.

In the past, Kennedy has praised President Carter for taking positions close to his own on matters dear to the senator's heart: national health insurance and tax reform. They split on the health question during the summer; now there looms a possible divergence on tax legislation.

Misdemeanor, felony 'hot' check cases growing

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series on the "hot" check problem and its impact on Midland and Ector counties.

The woman cashing that check is violating state law.

Texas law says writing a check for an amount up to $200 on an account that contains insufficient funds may constitute a criminal offense punishable by up to one year in jail and a

The action constitutes only a misdemeanor offense, said officials.

Felony offenses, for checks cashed with values more than $200 per check, result in stiffer penalties.

The punishment for cashing a "hot" check for between $200 and $10,000 is a fine of up to $2,000, 2 to 20 years in prison, or both.

Misdemeanor "hot" check cases are growing as fast in Midland and Ector counties as are felony cases, according to county attorneys for both jurisdictions.

Midland County Attorney Les Acker said, "The growing economy of Midland" is one reason for the increase in "hot" checks the county has experinced in the last few years. In 1971, his office was responsible for the resititution of $16,680 back to merchants from the writers of "hot" checks. However, up through November, 1977, his office was responsible for $78,117 in restitution to merchanst from the writers of "hot" checks. "I wish I knew why so many people of circumstances, I guess.'

He cited the case of a man and his wife who he said recently were responsible for tallying a total of $11,400 in worthless checks in the purchase of goods from local merchants. "We filed that case as a theft offense in Midland County Court. He got 60 days in jail, and he had to pay $156 in fines and court expenses. He also received a year's probabtion," said

One of the rules of the man's probation is that he must repay the $11,400 to his probation officer, who then returns the money to the merchants at the end of a year's time.

That's what Acker calls "handling some cases differently.

In November, 1977, Acker said he noticed the "hot" checks problem was increasing. "We decided to shift ouremphasis from collection to prosecu-

"They, in effect, were actually floating a loan on us." No more. He said he decided to see if he could file a complaint on each and every "hot" check writer his office became aware of.

"The idea was to make people pay off their bad checks before merchants involved brought the checks to us," he

Between 250 to 300 merchants file 'hot'' checks complaints with Acker's office on a regular basis, he

Since September, 1978 his office has regularly written a letter to "hot". check writers warning them they have seven days from the date of the letter in which to make full restitution or show why a formal complaint should not be filed.

Acker reports a small sampling of merchants indicates the "last chance" letter idea is working, "to some extent.

Ector County Attorney Mike Atkins sends out a letter similar to the one Acker has been mailing to the writers of "hot" checks. Still, he said, 'We're getting more 'hot' check cases all the time.

His letter, he said, gives people 10 days in which to pay restitution before facing prosecution from his of-

Although Atkins was unable to produce statistics in the "dramatic increase" he said Ector County has 4 experienced in "hot" checks cases in recvent years, he had some theories behind the phemonon.

Businessmen must be more cautitious of whom they accept checks from, he said.

"They accept checks from people with false identification and sometimes even no identification," said

Some merchants and clerks "aren't paying attention," he said. "They don't have to take checks. They can accept cash. They're not in business to lose money. "The hot check problem is 98 percent misdemeanor," said Dennis Sadra, an assistant district attorney for Ector County. "We have enough here. We're not asking for more such cases. His office does not collect restititiion. "We let the people responsible pay off their debts on probation," said Sadra.

He said the problem has increased locally because of a greater tendency by people to give checks instead of cash in exchange for merchandise, and because of a greater influx of people to the area due to the booming economy

"You as the merchant have no idea whether or not the checks presented are good: Checks cannot identify the passer of insufficient funds.

"People do remember the larger checks, rather than those for smaller amounts. Nobody remembers what people look like in misdemeanor cases," said Sadra. Atkins said it's a problem which is 'probably stabilizing," but added, The real answer is to stop it at the checkstand.

He said although more merchants are becoming aware of the problem, more caution must be taken.

However, Atkins knows "hot" checks will not go away overnight. In September, 1978, his staff recovered $11,200 in restitution to merchants. compared to $30,000 for the same month in 1977.

"We're prosecuting every 'hot' check case that comes our way...It's just that we're getting more 'hot' check cases all the time, and more merchants keep seeking our help to regain their money.

Judge criticizes ongoing strike by TDC inmates

HOUSTON (AP) -Comments from the presiding judge and actions by Harris County officials overshadowed testimony in a civil rights lawsuit filed by eight prisoners against the Texas Department of Corrections.

As the trial began its third week Monday, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice criticized the continuing strike by cilities, Justice said

The suit claims prisoners are subjected to crue and unusual punishment and do not receive proper medical care.

Ground rules spelled out for UK operators

DALLAS-United States companies serving oil and gas operators in the United Kingdom sector of the North Sea have the ground rules spelled out for them in the October issue to PE-TROLEUM ENGINEER International magazine

In an exclusive interview with W.B. Bleakley, editor of the Dallas-based publication, Alan Blackshaw, head of the U.K. Department of Energy's Offshore Supplies Office (OSO), says the contribution high-quality overseas compaies can make to the U.K. is welcome -- particularly if those companies recognize the British gernment's industrial objectives. "We like companies that intend to take a permanent position in the U.K. and become part of British industrial capability," Blackshaw explains. He adds that overseas companies should have export aspirations in addition to meeting North Sea needs.

Because oilfield supply is basically an international industry, Blackshaw says British industry must be capable of operating overseas against international competition. "We see export business and local North Sea business as being closely related," he explains. 'And when we get companies coming in here, including American companies on joint ventures, we particularly like them to export from the U.K. as well as serve the North Sea. Some American companies have excellent records in this respect.'

Blackshaw says a lot of U.K. manufacturing currently is owned by overseas companies, "and we welcome that as long as it adds to U.K. capability and gets as high a U.K. content as possible in goods being exported." For service companies, however, OSO encourages joint ventures with U.K. companies, "particularly where overseas companies have contract experience which can blen with British companies' marine experience." About 2,000 companies in Britian already are involved offshore, according to Blackshaw, who say, "We have within the OSO a substantial staff concerned with British industrial capability. An incoming company can save a lot of time and effort by talking to our people, who know the market, local capabilities, gaps, and intentions of the more significant British companies. We think there is value in the counseling service we can provide, and we're always ready to Whether or not incoming companies accept OSO's adivce is up to the comapnies themselves, Blackshaw points out.

Main areas of weakness in British industry currently include installation of offshore structures, construction of semisubmersible drilling rigs, and fabrication of submarine pipeline. Blackshaw emphasizes in the PETROLEUM ENGINEER International interview, however, that "We are beginning to get favorable U.K. content in these area, which I regard as being a great credit to British industry.

American companies, Blackshaw says, see the U.K. as being a good operating area, "particularly when selling to the Eastern Hemisphere. This applies to both supply and service companies," he adds. "Also, in public management and engineering consultancy we see the U.K. and, particularly, London developing as a major center of international petroleum activity and growing rapidly.

"As these major companies have large purchasing organizations, we see benefits for the U.K in terms of direct employment as well as exports. We are quite happy," Blackshaw concludes, "with this example of international collaboration.'

Louisiana testing bill

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) -A provision of the newly-passed national energy bill is being tested in Louisiana.

The state Department of Natural Resources, using a provision of the bill passed last week, is helping the St. Tammany Parish town of Madisonville locate a supply of intrastate natural

The community of about 800 has been unable to get addtional gas supplies from its interstate supplier, United Gas Pipeline Secretary of Natural Resources William C. Huls said Monday that the action apparently is the first test of a policy in the new energy bill. Madisonville is served soley by United Gas.

Huls said the town has been in a "no-growth" position because of an inability to obtain needed gas for new residences.

At a meeting Monday in Madisonville, town officials said they would need to double present supply of about 106 million cubic feet a year to provide service for incoming residents. The energy bill allows interstate carriers to transport intrastate gas tointrastate end users for residential purposes. Huls said it will be up to representatives of Madisonvill, United and an intrastate gas producer to reach an agreement on how the additional gas will be sold and transported to the town.

In such case, Huls said, United and the intrastate producer might agree to trade an equal amount of gas.

In a statement, Gov. Edwin Edwards, who made the decision to assist Madisonville, said he anticipated the procedure should be completed in "reasonably short period of time."

Credits to be extended

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The railroad commission announced Monday that almost $87,000 in customer credits will be extended systemwide by Lone Star Gas Co. as a result of a commission audit which discovered a discrepancy in what the company was paying for natural gas.

The discrepancy, the commission said, was between the average cost of gas estimates in September and October 1976 and actual costs. The adjustment ought to lower each customer's bill by two-tenths of one percent, the commission said. An additional $83,000 already has been credited to customers, the commission said.

In other action, the commission asked Attorney General John Hill to intervene on the commission's behalf to stop a proposal by Quanah, Acme and Pacific Railway Co. to abandon 114.3 miles of track between Acme in Hardeman County and Floydada in Floyd County.

The application is pending before the federal Interstate Commerce Commission.

In other action, the commission:

- Announced that major purchasers of Texas crude oil have asked for 3,492,014 barrels a day in November, a decrease of 15,466 barrels daily from this month. The statewide oil allowable hearing will be held Thursday.

- Voted to allow minor gas service rate increases for Lone Star Gas Co. in five North Texas towns - Leonard, Fannin County; Tioga, Grayson County; Wellington, Collingsworth County; Paducah, Cottle County; and Pilot Point, Denton County. The towns had rejected gas increases, and Lone Star appealed to the commission.

- Authorized Entex, Inc., of Houston to raise gas rates slightly to customers in the unincorporated areas around Lake Jackson.

 Announced that production proration schedules for Texas' 190,000 oil and gas wells next month may be three to five days late getting to producers because of a failure in the commission's computer system. The schedules should be available, however, in the first week in November.

Oklahoma

ma will try in court to block implementation of the new federal energy bill, Gov. David Boren said Monday.

gas producing states.

Boren said his energy advisers believe the law would "cost Oklahoma consumers an additional $5 billion in utility costs" by raising utility bills 43 energy adviser, Monday told a special committee appointed by the governor that the energy law will raise an average Oklahoma family's utility bills $4 per month.

Also, Boren said he talked to Govs. Dolph Briscoe of Texas and Edwin Edwards of Louisiana on Monday and both indicated their states are likely to join in the legal challenge.

Will the market make a comeback?

NEW YORK (AP) - A couple of rather new investment attitudes have been circulating among the pros in recent weeks, and perhaps it might

The first is that sooner or later, and maybe not too much later, it is the stock market's turn to inflate. Everything else has risen in price, the theory goes, so why not stocks?

The second falls into the category of contrary acrossthe-board losses again thinking. If everyone is talking up housing as an investment, the assumption goes, then you should be wary of housing as an investment. The Dow Jones average of Neither attitude is based in science. Indeed, the

If the anticipated return is not good, the analysts argue, the residential real estate prospector will not put up his money; he will search elsewhere for an investment and let the house rot on its lot.

There are those, however, who claim stock market people are poor real estate analysts, that while they might know what is going on in Wall Street, they have no understanding of what is happening on Among other things, these critics say that demo-

Inflation hard topic for many to grasp

NEW YORK (AP) - To most Americans, inflation means simply ... I pay more, so why do I get less? We hear about inflation almost daily. Everyone agrees it is a serious economic problem. There is little agreement over what can be done about it and that's probably because the problem is so poorly

Standard explanations for its cause usually rattle off a series of current ills - the dollar is weakening on overseas money markets. The government is spending money faster than it can print it or tax it. The federal reserve alternately pumps money into the economy, then yanks it out. Business boosts prices to beat inflation. Workers demand higher wages to pay for higher prices. Clear? hardly. It's like saying that there is inflation because there is inflation.

And the explanation holds little hope for breaking a seemingly endless cycle leading to cheapened money.

President Carter is due to announce soon an anti-inflation plan with "teeth" to reduce the rate that now stands at about 9.5 percent.

Most feel Carter's proposals will be more than just a polite request that business and labor curb their demands, but somewhere short of mandatory wage and price controls that hardly anyone wants. Carter has already indicated that some form of government sanction would result if wage demands exceed 7 percent and prices go up more than 5% percent. Economists have often been called upon by the White House to prescribe cures for the mysterious disease. In recent interviews, several who have advised past presidents were asked what "inflation 1978" really is and why it seems to resist a cure. To Prof. Walter Heller, chief economic adviser to

Presidents Kennedy and Johnson and now a teacher at the University of Minnesota, the problem has its most clear-cut historic roots in the shortages and stunning price rises of raw goods and fuel that marked 1973 and 1974. Salaries couldn't possibly increase fast enough to match the quadrupled price of foreign oil and other price rises. But now - nearly four years later - labor has seized its chance to "catch up" with those higher prices. That includes non-industrial workers like farmers. Food prices have gone up 9.7 percent in the last eight months. Unfortunately, wages are rising rapidly but productivity is not. "Simple arithmetic shows that if average hourly compensation is rising 9 to 9.5 percent a year and productivity is rising 1 or 2 percent a year then you have a built-in inflation rate of 7 or 7.5 percent," says

Workers aren't entirely to blame for lagging productivity, says Heller. Industry has been too slow in making needed investments in new equipment, in training managers in the latest techniques, and in making work and the workplace more stimulating. And part of the productivity problem has its roots in arbitrary government regulations that lower economic efficiency and raise prices. The Carter administration, by relaxing airline regulations, proved that point and ticket prices to many destinations plunged as a result.

But making the economy more productive and thereby curbing inflation "is a very slow process," says Heller. In his opinion, Carter can hope for quicker results in his inflationary battle by concentrating his plan on the other side of the equation getting business and labor to curb their wage and price demands.

Thousands join disc jockey in tax march on city hall

By FRED BAYLES

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) -Disc jockey "Cuzzin" Dave Williford says it was only an "off-handed comment" when he told listeners he was going to City Hall to complain about higher property taxes.

When he arrived at city offices Monday, 4,000 angry protesters were

"Needless to say, I was a little amazed. I was shaken," said Williford, who was substituting on a Saturday talk show when he suggested listeners take their gripes to city officials. "I expected maybe 100 peo-

The crowd, angered by the city's first property re-evaluation in 50 years, mobbed downtown New Bedford for four hours, crawled up scaffolding around City Hall, and even climbed onto the mayor's black Cadillac to wave signs reading, "Don't Pay Taxes!"

One man was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. Another was picked up at the scene on motor vehicle violations. 'This is one of the first battles in

Testimony starts in Granger trial

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) - Testimony starts Wednesday in the capital murder trial of a Louisiana man accused of being the triggerman in a murder-for-hire case where a woman has already received the death penal-

Nine women and the men were seated Monday night to hear charges against Faryl Granger, 29, of Lafayette, La. He is accused of killing a Southeast Texas couple, Steve and Margie Anderson. Their bound and gagged bodies were found in their home in Sugar Land last Jan. 3.

Prosecutors allege that Granger was hired by Mary Lou Anderson, 35, of Lake Charles, La., to kill her father and stepmother in order to collect a $5,000 life insurance payment.

the tax revolt," said Mayor John

"I don't know how to stop the spending," he said. "I sort of welcome their becoming involved but not on such an emotional basis."

Markey ordered the building evacuated as a safety precaution three hours after sign-waving demonstrators appeared. But the crowd wouldn't leave until Markey spoke to them. When he appeared, they

"No one is more concerned about taxes than I am," he told the crowd from a second-story window. "If they want to cut services, there are no services to cut. You can't take off the police, you can't take off the firemen. you can't stop picking up the trash."

Property taxes have been an emotional issue in New Bedford, particularly to members of the old seaport's Portuguese community. Assessments for about 13,000 properties have been raised - some going from $400 to $4,000 - including some in the Portuguese community After tax bills were mailed out Wednesday, listeners called into Williford's show on WBSM to complain about "windshield evaluation," charging that the city's three elected assessors did much of their work from their cars.

Williford, a country music disc jockey, suggested a "quiet, peaceful" march. Similar suggestions were made on a "Hot Line" program Sun-day night on WJDF, a Portuguese-language station. Many of our callers have only been in this country a few years and are not aware of the intricacies and inequities of the tax system," said Alvero Antonio, WJDF program director. "Many of those hardest hit were immigrants who bought rundown tenaments and fixed them up. New Bedford, a city of 100,000 residents, is the largest fishing port on the East Coast Williford, whose taxes "went up a few dollars," said he hoped city officials had gotten the message.

"Instead of politicans always promising to give me something, I would like them to promise they won't take anything else away," he said.

City, county committee investigating landfill problem has been disbanded

A joint committee of city and Midland County officials studying the city's landfill problems has been disbanded, according to County Judge Blake Hansen.

The city will continue to operate by charging a fee for all trash disposed at the dump, Hansen said Monday. Officials had considered establishing a new system after the newly implemented fee policy encouraged some area residents to dump their trash throughout the county. One proposal was to have the county regulate the dump by levying a tax. Another plan under consideration was for the county to pay the city for landfill

The city began charging a fee when officials discovered that the landfill space was being used at a rate which would not allow it to live out its expectancy.

'We've decided that the way we're going about it now is the fairest method, said Hansen.

"If garbage being dumped in the county continues to be a problem, then the committee will take another look at the situation. But as it stands now, the fee charged at the dump is

Crawford to address Lions Clubs

Glenn Crawford, executive director of the Texas Lions League for Crippled Children, will be the speaker Wednesday noon at the meeting of the Midland Downtown Lions Club in the Midland Hilton.

He also will address the Midland Westside Lions Club at its Thursday noon meeting in the club's den. Crawford is expected to discuss all phases of the League's operation, including the Texas Lions Camp at Kerrville, in his Midland addresses. He assumed his present position in April of this year, after having served as director of the Division of Rehabilitation for the State of Colorado for more than two years. As director of the League, he is responsible for the administration of camping and educational activities for physically handicapped and diabetic children. He also has administrative responsibility for Texas Center for the Blind, a vocational rehabilitation training program. The Texas Lions League for Crippled Children is supported by the Lions Clubs of Texas.

Crawford holds bachelor of science and master's degrees from North Texas State University and has done post-graduate work at a number of other universities.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - The surprising election as pope of Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, Poland's No. 2 Roman Catholic, injects a new element into relations between his country's Communist government and the church that claims the allegiance of 80 to 90 percent of the 35 million Polish peo-

> West8ern observers in the Polish capital say Wojtyla, the 58-year-old archbishop of Krakow, was unpopular with the regime because of his tough stand in bargaining for greater religious freedom.

His elevation as the first non-Italian pope in 455 years is bound to embolden the Polish church.

"Exactly what happens now is subject to a lot of speculation," one observer said. "He wasn't popular with the regime. He has the reputation of being rather uncompromising in his stand for things like access to the mas media, construction of new churches and the catalog of things the church wants from the state."

Only last month, Cardinal Wojtyla joined Poland's other Catholic bishops in an open letter to the government demanding an end to censorship, religious programs on the government radio and television networks and implementation of the regime's promises to improve reli-

Relations between the ruling Communist Party and the powerful Polish Catholic hierarchy have undergone a number of changes since the Communists took over after World War II.

Improvement in relations has been followed by periods of tension. After party boss Edward Gierek's meeting with the late Pope Paul VI in 1977, relations seemed to be warming.

But some priests say privately the struggle has just become quieter, with both sides seeking peace in public while competing for the allegiance of the people, especially the young.

Moving outside the purely religious sphere, Cardinal Wyszynski has criticized the government for its economic policies snd the periodic food and housing shortages that have result-

But Western church officials who have extensive contacts throughout Eastern Europe say the Poles enjoy greater religious freedom than any other people in the Soviet Bloc.

News of the papal election took the government by surprise, just as it did the rest of the world. The government television network opened its first newscast of the evening with a brief announcement and a phot80graph of the new pope. The official news agency, PAP, reported the election in a four-line dispatch from

But on the late news, the television network showed Pope John Paul II on the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica giving his first papal blessing. Many Poles crowded around TV sets in hotels, offices and night spots, wept and made the sign of the cross.

"The conclave chose a Pole, a man who in his biography has everything," said government spokesman Wlodzimierz Janiurek in an official

"He went through the hell of war. This is why we greeted with particular attention his election and the fact that he has chosen the name of John Paul II, thus binding his pontificate to those of his great predecessors."

In dealing with Communists both in his native Poland and elsewhwere, the new Pope has one strong attribute, solid working-class credentials. Although now known as one of Poland's leading intellectuals and a cultured expert on art and poetry, before the war he worked in a chemical

Father, son dead after telephone suicide

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I have something for you to hear," Bertrand Thompson told Judy Labat over the telephone. Then, according to Ms. Labat, Thompson shot their 4-yearold son and himself.

Ms. Labat told police she heard the child, Corey Thompson, cry out at the first shot. After the second shot, the line was silent.

The boy's body was found on the bed in his father's bedroom Monday, with a .357-caliber bullet wound in his chest, police said. Next to the bed was the sprawled body of Tmompson, 26, a

Tailgate feed sets tone for big game

By TOM HOGE AP Newfeatures Writer

With fall here and the football season in full swing, the time has come again for one of America's most enjoyable customs; the tailgate lunch.

The meal can start with that old standby, deviled eggs, and proceed to cold meat loaf and potato salad, if you want to keep things simple. Or you can serve a movable feast featuring a juicy steak or stew.

Picnicking was once a matter of packing a hamper with sandwiches or cold chicken and bringing along a jug of lemonade. Today most picnic grounds are equipped with grills, but since you may not find one near a football stadium, you can bring along a portable barbecue, if you want to cook your meal on the spot.

We've come a long way from the days when a vacuum bottle for hot coffee was about the only equipment for keeping anything at the right temperature.

Almost any dish, hot or cold, can be enjoyed at today's outdoor spread without danger of a salad spoiling or a ragout getting cold. We have all sorts of insulated bags, vacuum bottles and

Surviving twin expires

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — David A. Bain, a 39-year-old state worker, says he had hope until the last minute that at least one of his Siamese twin daughters would survive.

"I had hope until the last minute, until the last minute I had hope,' Bain said Sunday. "Never, never lose hope, as long as you have a breath in your body, you gotta hope.'

Tonya Bain died at 9:10 a.m. Sunday - less than 24 hours after the death of her sister, Sonya.

'Her weakened heart was never able to supply fully the needs of her body tissues and she died from unremitting cardiac failure," Dr. Howard Filston said in a brief statement.

The twins, born Oct. 3, were separated Thursday by doctors at Duke Medical Center in a desperate attempt to save their lives. Doctors never offered much hope that either child would survive.

"A lot of people have been calling to tell me how sorry they are, that they'll keep praying for me," Geraldine Bain, 36, mother of the twins, said. "I'm just trying to hold on."

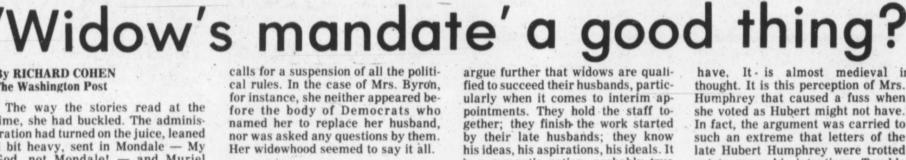

Mrs. Bain, who has seven other children, said she never saw the twins in person, only in pictures.

Bain, who lives in Fuquay-Varina, about 15 miles south of Raleigh, is a $123-a-week technician in a state agricultural laboratory.

The girls were born by Caesarean section at Wake Medical Center in Raleigh because they were positioned improperly for normal delivery. Doctors said they were not aware the infants were joined until the surgery was under way.

Doctors had wanted to delay the separation surgery for several months to allow the infants time to grow stronger but they went ahead because they said the babies' conditions were deteriorating.

A team of four senior surgeons and five staff physicians performed the five-hour operation. They said following the surgery that the twins faced "horrendous" odds. The twins were joined from the chest to the navel and their hearts and livers were connect-her tragic widowhood.

By RICHARD COHEN

The Washington Post

She is a widow.

There is probably some good in all this. In the first place, without the so-called widow's mandate, there would have been precious few women in Congress over the years. Of the 95 who served in either house from 1919 to 1975, fully 40 percent were named to replace their late husbands. Some of them have turned out to be eminently qualified. Margaret Chase Smith, for instance, went on to create a strong independent career for herself. Maureen Neuberger, who replaced her husband in the Senate, was generally thought to be his equal, and currently Lindy Boggs has proved herself a congresswoman in her own You could argue that any way in which women enter the political sysfied to succeed their husbands, particularly when it comes to interim appointments. They hold the staff together; they finish the work started by their late husbands; they know his ideas, his aspirations, his ideals. It is a romantic notion, probably true much of the time. But there is also something in all argue further that widows are quali-this that reflects a male view of widon whood - a notion that the widows are in some sort of political neutral corner. They are a given place to go until the real candidates are chosen, wonderful vehicles for treading water, for ducking the hard ones, and, in effect, doing nothing. It would be wonderful to say that this is a mistaken notion were it not for the fact that most of the political widows play their roles as expected. They serve their terms, say a fleet goodbye and leave with a proper curtsy. No matter. What you have here is a view of women as an extension of men. You get the notion that they are perceived as clones of their own, have never formulated their own views, and will vote as their husbands would some of the same thinking went into the selection of Mrs. Byron. She was asked nothing of her views, nothing of her programs, nothing at all. She may or may not be qualified, whatever that means and however that is judged. What is clear, though, is that once again an exception has been made for women on the basis of sex, this time to their advantage, this time chivalrously, this time for what some people would say are all the right reasons. It doesn't matter. It matters that Mrs. Byron, like the other widows, will be going to Congress for the wrong reasons - not for what she can do but for what she is.

It's thinking like that that has kept women out of Congress for years

'What is the role of sex?'

By DR. LAURA SCHLESSINGER Copley News Service

"I'm really getting very frustrated with this situation. I've read all kinds of articles and books about a woman's sexual needs and responses and consider myself to be pretty knowledgeable. I know all about a woman's capacity for multiple orgasms and such and I have been trying very hard to make sure Becky will experience these things.

"After all, I do love her very much and I want to be a good lover for her. But for some reason she either can't or won't get into it."

"I find this humiliating and irritating," Becky answered abruptly, "I'm not on this earth for the sole purpose of fulfilling his notion, or anyone else's, of what I'm supposed to want or do or feel sexually. It makes it difficult to enjoy sex with Lloyd when I feel that if I don't respond in a specific way to something he does he'll be disappointed or upset. Frankly, sex with Lloyd is starting to feel like a job responsibility."

One of the arguments against this new era of free and open discussion of sexuality is that it is causing people to view sex as a mechanical event, dehumanizing and de-romanticizing

Certainly this is a time of freedom to explore, demystify and demyth-tify an area of our humanness which has been kept suspiciously hidden and unexamined. All the new information available is invaluable - and also insufficient because we still need to learn how to integrate this knowledge into our personal lives; therein lies the real test and value of both the freedom and the knowledge accessible to us.

Perhaps Lloyd does not realize that in his sincere efforts to "give" Becky a full sexual experience he is leaving her out of the equation.

This can be looked at as an issue of control. Lloyd is taking responsibility for controlling Becky's body and sexuality and attempting to orchestrate responses in some predictable manner. His efforts appear to be aimed at having Becky "produce" something rather than "experience" something.

Becky's reaction indicates that she is feeling as though she must produce something for Lloyd rather than enjoy the sensual, sexual feeings for her-

What we have to examine is our perception of the goal of sexuality. Many see sex as a "doing to" the other person using physiological clues as a signal as to whether all is going OK: physically this refers to an erection for the male and lubrication for the female.

The problem with this perspective is that it leaves both partners feeling very self-conscious about their own body's reaction or the technique being used on the other. Self-consciousness and anxiety are definitely inhibitors of comfortable sexual feelings and responses. And for many, the measure of a good sexual interlude, where everything has been done properly, is an orgasm - or many orgasms.

All of these prescriptions and expectations do little to enhance sensual, romantic, comfortable feelings between lovers.

So let us try to redefine our goals in sexual sharing from these artificial hurtles of "doing to" and 'producing" to a new view of mutuality and reciprocity.

No one knows better than you what pleases you sexually because it's your body and only you can feel and interpret its sensations. This makes it essential for you to relay this information to your partner. This is one of the most intimate forms of reciprocity - perhaps the epitome of giving yourself to another. Communication is an essential part of sexual sharing.

A good sexual experience need not even include erections, lubrication or orgasms if you are feeling close, content, satisfied. Sex is more than bodies; it is mind, emotions and relationship, too. Sometimes just being together for a period of time in each other's arms, caressing and holding can be yet another height of ecstasy. Each time is different, and the "goal" is constantly changing with the moment and the mood.

So keeping score, attempting to repeat some past experience, trying to fall in the right statistical category of that last survey you read, becoming the ideal example of that graphy on sexual response, gritting your teeth to get to your or your partner's orgasm are all impersonal, anti-intimacy and anti-sexual ways of pursuing a fulfilling sexual relat-

Piracy still alive and well on South China Sea

By DENIS D. GRAY

KLONG YAI, Thailand (AP) - Piracy - complete with gun duels, sea chases and ransom - hasn't gone the way of three-masted galleons and Jolly Rogers. It thrives today in the waters off Southeast Asia, but with little of the swashbuckling romance of novels and Hollywood.

The only things romantic about the sea brigands are the areas in which they still plunder: old spice routes pn the Straits of Malacca between Malaysia and Indonesia; the waters off Borneo and the Southern Philippines, and tropical islands in the Gulf of Siam.

Fishermen, yachtsmen and even refugees fleeing Communist Indochina have been attacked by pirates in those waters despite the use of swift patrol boats, radar and air surveillance to prevent attacks. Sometimes the sea gangs show a dash of gallantry and send their victims off after filching valuables. But they have also shot innocents down in cold blood or forced them to swim for it on the high seas. A few recent incidents:

-Thai police last May disguised themselves as fishermen and set out at night to investigate the waters between Cambodia and Thailand where more than 100 fishermen reportedly were killed last year by pirates. They were attacked and a police colonel was killed.

- Rival gangs clashed in early August in the Straits of Malacca, apparently over ransom money from fishing companies. Fishermen reported seeing at least one headless corpse in the area after the fight in which long spears and other weapons were reportedly used -In March, off of Sabah in East Malaysia, a boat opened fire and gave chase to a yacht occupied by a German couple and their 5-year-old son. The Germans hauled up a white sheet to surrender, and the yacht was boarded by Filipinos and put in tow. Later, without explanation, the pirates later cut the yacht loose and fled.

"I'll probably write about this voyage although few people in Europe will believe that there are still pirates around," the German yachtsman

For centuries pirates preyed on rich traders — many of them Chinese - who plied these and other Asian waters. Piracy in Asia sometimes stemmed from a "protection" tax levied by local strongmen on ships passing through their waters. Reports from Associated Press bureaus show that piracy has been eradicated or largely suppressed in the waters off China, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Taiwan, Vietnam and Burma.

In Malaysia, however, newspapers now carry reports every few weeks of a pirate attack, which is usually blamed on Thais preying on Malaysian fishermen to seize their boats, nets and catch.

Hang glider contest starts

Victims are rarely killed and some fishermen carry cartons of cigarettes, canned food or cash to offer as tribute when they are stopped. Ransom money, as much as $2,000, is sometimes paid by the fishermen to get back boats and nets.

Piracy in the Philippines occurs largely in seas in the South. It is believed related to Moslem efforts to secede from the Philippines and, like elsewhere, to smuggling.

Cambodian border where the pirates are probably the most brutal in Southeast Asia. The raids have prompted a fairly effective naval-police operation and the incidents have dropped off. But fishermen complain there are still not enough government patrol boats.

Thongkod Chaisiri, a 28-year-old fisherman, said 10 of his friends have been killed by pirates and he has encountered them seven times, usually cutting valuable nets to escape quickly.

Some fishermen carry weapons, but Chaisiri says these are little use against the brigands' U.S.-made M-16 rifles, M-79 grenade launchers and machine guns. "It's like having nothing," he explained. "You go ping-ping and back comes a spray of bullets and you're dead."

Police here said the pirate boats, mostly converted trawlers with powerful engines, either fire warning shots at the smaller fishing craft this is often enough to send crews diving into the sea - or simply shoot to kill. The pirates are usually after the boats, police say, and tow them to Southern Thailand or Malaysia to sell.

Refugees escaping Vietnam by boat also claim to have been stopped by Thai pirates and robbed of their last possessions.

Thai authorities believe there is collusion between the pirates and Cambodians: the pirates providing needed goods to the communists in exchange for protectionv Much of the piracy reportedly occurs in Cambodian waters where Thais illegally harvest the rich fishing grounds and can't be protected by Thai patrol boats.

Marine police say many of the pirates hide out on Thai islands near the frontier that are graced with palms, coconut plantations and waterfalls. One of the islands, also a haven for smugglers doing business with Cambodia, even has a place called Pirate's Bay.

Dedications scheduled at area boys' ranch

SAN ANGELO — Dedication of the Harvey Hartgrove Field House and two staff dwellings at West Texas Boys Ranch will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday prior to the quarterly meeting of the ranch's board of directors, announced John Bonner of San Angelo, WTBR president.

The field house and dwellings were made possible through a $153,000 cash gift to the Ranch by the Mabee Petroleum Corp. of Midland. The gift also includes funds for an athletic field, which is not yet completed.

Midland's Guy Mabee of Mabee Petroleum Corp. and Della Hartgrove, widow of Harvey Hartgrove for whom is field house is named, are to be at the ceremonies. Also attending are to be associates of Mabee and members of the Hartrove family and friends. Hartgrove, of San Angelo, was president of the Ranch from 1969 to 1971 and was instrumental in starting the athletic program here. He fostered development of the peewee and junior-high Ranch basketball teams and pee-wee football tournaments in the gymnasium. The field house joins the gymnasium by way of a covered passageway and provides showers and dressing rooms, space for laundry units for uniforms and a memorial fover, where Hartgrove memorabilia will be displayed with Ranch trophies.

The new staff dwellings provide "much-needed living space" for supervisory personnel who had been living in apartments in the dormitories. Those apartments now are occupied by relief house parents assigned to each dormitory.

Today, approximately 72 boys who had been deemed "dependent, neglected, homeless and...pre-delinquent" live at the Ranch. The Ranch accepts boys from ages 7 to 14, and the boys may stay at the Ranch until they finish high school either at San Angelo or Christoval. The ranch has 62 from Midland County, since its tims.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New York Yankees, unhealthy but happy, Hunter's arm is not 100 per cent and he is just one of several Yanks who are hurting as the long season draws to a close. Catcher Thurman send tender-armed Catfish Hunter against Don Sutton tonight in the game the Los Angeles Dodgers must win to keep alive the 75th World Se-Munson, suffering from knee and shoulder ailments, had treatments on an ailing ankle Monday, according to Lemon. Other walking wounded who used Monday's off day for medical attention were shortstop Bucky Dent and second baseman Brian Doyle, who has filled in admirably for injured Willie Randolph. Lemon indicated that first baseman Chris Chambliss (bad hand) probably would not play tonight, while Mickey Rivers, the hobbling center fielder, is expected to

It is a measure of the Yanks' depth that they are winning this World Series with several regulars in and out of the lineup. The makeshift right side of the infield, with Doyle and first baseman Jim Spencer in Game 5, did not hurt the Yanks at all.

Sutton said the scouting report on the Yanks' reserves had the tag line: 'On a lot of ballclubs, they could be starting.'

With Nettles playing third base in textbook fashion in the Series, the Yanks' infield has far outshone the Dodgers' inner circle:

Lasorda and Sutton used the Monday news conference to defend their leaky infield, which has committed four errors, but more importantly, has yet to make a situation-saving play.

"I'm not sure of the statistics, but I think we had the second best defense in the National League," said Lasorda. "The infielders shouldn't be buried because of a couple of tough plays.'

NETTLES' spectacular play has magnified the Dodgers' defensive problems. Los Angeles' infield had made only the routine plays during the first four games of the Series before collapsing Sunday in the Yanks'

"All I can say is they are the same guys who helped me get my 21 wins in 1976 and the same guys who got me in the World Series the last two years and three of the last five years," said Sutton.

Another area in which the Dodgers have come out a poor second is the designated hitter spot, the American League's wrinkle which is being used in this Series. Reggie Jackson, with a .444 batting average, six runs batted in and his mere presence in clutch situations, has given the Yanks a major advantage over the Dodgers, who have gotten three hits and one RBI from their designated hitters, Lee Lacy and Rick Monday.

Without the DH, one of the Yanks' four best outfielders - Rivers, Jackson, Roy White and Lou Piniella — would not be in the lineup. All of them have made big contributions to the Yanks' attack.

"When you have a hitter the caliber of Jackson and are still able to use those other guys, it's a big advantage," said Lasorda. "If there was no DH, one of those guys wouldn't be playing." If the Yanks win tonight, they will be the first team in Series history to win four straight after losing the first two games. A Dodgers' victory would mean the home team had won each of the games, setting up another possible first: No Series ever has ended with the home team winning every game.

"It's certainly an advantage to have the fans pulling for you instead of against you," said Lasorda. "We have Tuesday night's game and we're

Sutton sees no gloom for sixth Series game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A relaxed Don Sutton, the veteran right-hander who drew the starting assignment for the Los Angeles Dodgers tonight in Game 6 of the World Series against the New York Yankees, said there was no gloom on the National League

"We haven't made the funeral arrangements yet," Sutton said after the Dodgers returned from New York where the Yankees swept three games for a 3-2 lead in the best-ofseven series.

"It may end with this game or it might not end with this game, but all of us are in a position where a lot of other people would like to be," Sutton Manager Tommy Lasorda announced Sutton as tonight's pitcher and also named veteran left-hander Tommy John as the starter Wednesday night if a seventh game is played.

Sutton and the Dodgers were happy to return to Dodger Stadium for what now has become their biggest game of the year.

Asked how he would describe the Dodgers' infielders who have been criticized during the Series, Sutton replied, "Very carefully. These guys got me 21 wins in 1976 and into the World Series three of the past five years. I think you will forget what happened in New York after we play Sutton started the third game of the Series, the first in New York, and he termed it the "Nettles game. Yankees third baseman Graig Nettles robbed the Dodgers of four or five runs with several great fielding plays as New York won 5-1. "Sutton pitched very well in that game," said catcher Steve Yeager.

'He had his stuff." Sutton was loose enough to joke about the Nettles game, saying, "I started in the third inning telling them (the Dodgers) to hit in the other direction.

Counting 1974 and 1977, Sutton has a 2-1 record in World Series games, and Lasorda said, "He's a guy who has been through it and won a lot of important ball games."

Asked if he was disregarding the percentages by using right-hander Sutton instead of left-hander Doug Rau against a predominately lefthanded hitting Yankees' lineup, Lasorda answered in the negative. Lasorda said he had decided to go with a three-pitcher rotation of Sutton, John and Burt Hooton.

Sutton, 33, was 15-11 during the regular National League season. Asked if he still pitches with the zing of past seasons, he said, "I don't throw as hard as when I won 20, but I have better control and a better understanding what pitching is about."

Hollywood stars may be only hope By SCOTT OSTLER The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES - Ah, the home-field advantage. For the Dodgers, facing a do-or-die situation in Tuesday night's game, it means something extra.

It means having Don Rickles and Milton Berle sitting behind the visitors' dugout, peppering the bad guys with good-natured pregame insults. It means having Frank Sinatra call up and wish the team good luck. It means dozens of celebrities from TV, movies, records and every phase of the entertainment industry yelling encouragement from the stands, even during regular-season games, cheering their adopted favorites. Opponents wouldn't be surprised if Lassie jumped out of the box seats and began nipping at the heels of their base runners. It's the Dodgers' Hollywood Connection, a sort of mutual horsehidecelluloid admiration society.

THE HOLLYWOOD Connection is Rickles verbally slashing his way through the Dodger clubhouse...It's Dodger manager Tom Lasorda closing a-phone conversation with: "So long, Frank. I love you too"...It's Tony Tennille and Ron Cey in the dugout before a game discussing whatever pop singers and third basemen discuss in dugouts...It's the Fonz (Henry Winkler) sitting in the dugout explaining that he doesn't know "diddly squat" about baseball, but he thinks the Dodgers are great guys...It's various Dodgers on network TV talk shows, and network TV talk show hosts like Johnny Carson and Mike Douglas dropping by Lasorda's office....It's a rumpled rock band on a late-night rock concert TV show, the drummer wearing Steve Garvey's No. 6 Dodger home jersey.

It's Jonathan Winters, Cary Grant, Redd Foxx, Walter Matthau, Gene Kelly, Tom Jones, Telly Savalas, Alice Cooper and many more stars tramping through the Dodger clubhouse over the last couple of sea-

Outfielder Rick Monday was asked to describe the ebb and flow of entertainment personalities. In reply, he did a pretty fair impersonation of a circus calliope

'There have been times when this locker room looks like a proving ground for the Tonight show," Monday says. "But it's fun for me. I'm a nut at heart. They hang around baseball as a release....just like we go to movies or watch TV as an outlet. They tell us it must be good to put on a uniform and go out in the field, and we tell them it must be a thrill to go out on the stage or in front of a movie camera. They want to talk about baseball, and we want to talk about their business.'

LASORDA: "We look up to them and appreciate the entertainment

they give us, and they appreciate the entertainment we give them.'

It's only natural for the Dodgers to go Hollywood and vice versa, considering the proximity. Sunset Boulevard runs approximately parallel with the third-base line just a short hop over the ravine. Burbank and part of the TV industry are just around the bend beyond Griffifth

But not until Lasorda took over as manager before the '77 season did the Hollywood Connection turn into a freeway. It all started when Lasorda met Frank Sinatra at a restaurant when Lasorda was among the candidates to succeed retiring Walt Al-

"Frank told me he was pulling for me," recalls Lasorda. "He knew all about baseball. He said, 'When you become manager, I'll come out and sing the National Anthem."

Lasorda got the job and Sinatra kept his word. He also came to Lasorda's aid that winter.

"I called Frank and told him I was on the entertainment committee for the baseball meetings being held here in L.A. in December of '76," says Lasorda. "He said, 'I'll help out."

So Sinatra sang at the banquet. As backup entertainment he brought along a few pals - Rickles, Pat Henry, Sue Raney, Cary grant, Monty Hall. "It was the greatest show in the history of the baseball meetings," sorties Lasorda.

Sinatra was having dinner with Johnny Carson one night when Carson mentioned he'd like to have Lasorda on his show. Lasorda has been a guest on the show four times and has also appeared on the Tomorrow show.

THE MOST loyal member of the Hollywood Connection is Ron Masek. a TV and movie actor and veteran of some 1,500 commercials. His credits include Police Story, Ice Station Zebra, Harper Valley PTA and Love American Style. He is host of the Hollywood portion of the annual Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, which always features several

Masek became attached to the team four years ago when he played in a Hollywood Stars game at Dodger

Masek, who says he turned down a contract offer from the Chicago White Sox when he was 15-year-old to become an actor, occasionally works out with the Dodgers and is usually in Lasorda's office after games.

"I used to just come down when the Dodgers won, but Tommy told me that I'm part of the family and I should come down, win or lose. He said, 'Anyone can come in when we win, but your friends come in when you lose.' So that night the Dodgers lost and I came right down. Tom was throwing a chair against the wall and all Sinatra's pictures came down. Since then I give him a few minutes

Rivera's luck runs out as Ketelsen wins crown

Sometimes you can go only so far before luck runs out and fate takes over. For Jose Rivera, luck ran out just a day too soon.

The Midland College player, the seventh-seeded player in the Midland Coca-Cola Tennis Open, saw his bid for an upset title in the championship men's singles go down the drain Monday with a little help from Kimm Ketelsen, the tourney's top seed.

Ketelsen, a teaching pro from San Angelo and a former Midlander. ended Rivera's dream with a tough 6-3, 6-4, decision. The Ketelsen-Rivera match was the only match of the day as action in the tournament's other divisions wound up on Sunday. The Coca-Cola Open is one of the Texas Tennis Association's major zone tournaments and the tournament results will have some bearing on the TTA's 1978 state rankings. The tournament was sanctioned by the United States Tennis Association. By winning the championship division, Ketelsen, the TTA's 10th ranked men's singles player in 1977, took a step toward maintaining that lofty standing. "Each one of these ranking tournaments is just one step toward your ranking," Midland College tennis coach Brian Gilley explained after Monday's round. "Of course, the more tournaments a player wins, the higher his ranking will be." Gilley also said he believes the tournament win will go a long way toward entrenching Ketelsen in the TTA's top ten men's singles rankings

"It was a good, tough field so I think it should secure his (Ketelsen's) ranking real good."

Stanton savors victory as other area teams fall

By STEVE O'BRIEN R-T Sports Writer

While the Stanton Buffaloes were savoring the 22-15 win over Shallowater which gave them their third consecutive victory and second conference triumph, the other area football powers who were in action over the weekend were dusting off the bottoms of their britches and counting on a bit better luck next time

After a pair of opening losses to Class AA schools, Stanton has come storming back to capture their last three decisions, including a pair of district wins in the past two weeks. The Shallowater win gives Stanton a 2-0 record for league play, knotting them for first with Seagraves, the team that has emerged as the league's champion for the last five

Stanton trailed Shallowater 15-14 in the final period, but Richard Perez's one-yard plunge late in the game gave the Buffaloes the crucial district deci-

ANDREWS, LAMESA, Rankin and McCamey all had much less to show for their Friday night of work.

Andrews traveled to Kermit to renew an old neighborhood football rivalry, but they might as well have played the game in a dark alley as in a stadium because the Mustangs were mugged all the same, 23-12.

It was a disappointing loss for Andrews, coming as it did in the Mustangs' final non-district encounter. The Ponies had taken a 12-2 lead only to see it evaporate in the second

While the Mustangs were absorbing their second loss of the season a pair of unbeaten and state-ranked District 2-AAA foes continued to make life hard on their opponents. Seventhranked Fort Stockton, which has yet to give up so much as a single point this year, dropped a 76-0 bomb on Anthony Gadsden, N.M. and Pecos, ranked eighth in the AP poll, topped Snyder 23-12.

LAMESA CONTINUED their hardluck story, dropping an 18-0 decision to Lubbock Estacado. At first glance, it would appear the offense-less Golden Tornadoes at least made a contest out of it. But, a closer look reveals a different story. Had not four Estacado touchdowns been called back by penalties, the Matadors might have piled up a 40 point victory margin. Plagued by offensive troubles all year, Lamesa wound up with a minus-45 yards rushing and only 26 yards passing.

Rankin saw their four-game run of victories come to halt in their homecoming battle with Menard. But, then again, it all happened so fast that maybe they didn't see it.

Menard quarterback Danny Hanna fired a 72-yard touchdown pass to Cary Rambo with just 19 seconds on the clock to give the Yellow Jackets a heart-pounding 14-13 upset win. Hanna had teammed with Eric Kothmann earlier in the fourth period for a 75-yard scoring pass.

Even in defeat, however, it was very hard to find fault in the performance of Rankin running back Richard Barrett. The big senior scored his 11th and 12th touchdowns of the season and rushed for 173 yards in an amazing 33 carries. The workhorse runner frequently carried the ball on six or seven consecutive plays and lost yardage only on his final carry of the evening, a two-yard loss.

Barrett has now rushed for 736 yards in five games.

MCCAMEY ENTERTAINED Eunice, N.M., in an intra-state matchup but when it was all over, the Badgers had lost twice. The first loss was plainly visible on the scoreboard that read: Home - 0, Visitor 7. The second loss wasn't flashed on the scoreboard but it was visible nonetheless.

Raul Arana, a junior running backturned-quarterback, suffered a shoulder separation after breaking off a 25-yard scamper in the first period. Since taking over the quarterback reins after the first game, Arana had become the McCamey sparkplug, throwing five touchdown passes. But, with Arana out, McCamey will once again have to shuffle some players to fill some holes. But, now is not the ideal time to have to do any shuffling with seventh-ranked Iraan coming into town for next week's district opener.

Crane and Reagan County both had

Emanuel Tolbert earns SWC player of week

DALLAS (AP)-Baylor Coach Grant Teaff was trying to explain the frustration of keeping the football away from Emanuel Quezon Tolbert.

"We mixed coverages but there's no way you can stop a kid who can jump like that," said Teaff. "He's just a great athlete.'

Tolbert, a junior wingback from Little Rock, Ark., caught 13 passes, four of them for touchdowns, and gained 134 yards Saturday as Southern Methodist charged from behind to nip the Bears 28-21 in a Southwest Conference game.

It earned Tolbert The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week award in the SWC. On two of the touchdown passes, SMU quarterback Mike Ford just floated the ball in the air and Tolbert outleaped the Baylor defenders for the ball. "I guess he could dunk a basketball if he tried," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer of Tolbert. "He is just fantastic. There's none in the country any better." Tolbert, who stands only 5-feet-10, has caught 34 passes for 544 yards and 7touchdowns this year. Last season he was the second leading receiver in the nation with 64 receptions for 966 yards and 6 touchdowns.

If he stays healthy, Tolbert stands an excellent chance of ranking No. 1 on SMU's All-time receiving list. Jerry LeVias snared 155 passes and Tolbert has 115 in two and one-half Meyer, who scouted for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League before going to Nevada-Las Vegas and to SMU three years ago, said "Tolbert has it all. He has excellent speed. Some defensive backs are fooled because he doesn't look like he's going very fast. He has great hands and great jumping ability. And he runs precise routes.

Meyer said "Tolbert is a short Drew Pearson. If he touches it, he usually catches it."

Pearson is the ace receiver for the Cowboys.

Tolbert was a running back at Little Rock Central and not many colleges sought his services. Memphis State gave a call but Arkansas decided it

"I heard about this great little player at Central so we gave Emanuel a call and told him what we had in mind," said Meyer. "I guess he was overlooked but we sure wanted

Arkansas has paid for the oversight ever since. In one game, Tolbert caught three touchdown passes against the Razorbacks. In another, he caught 13 passes.

Hayes thinks teams fat-headed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The leveling of football scholarships at 95 for every major college had nothing to do with the wave of upsets last

At least that's what Woody Hayes thinks.

The Ohio State coach insists such shockers as Michigan State over Michigan and Purdue over the Buckeyes are strictly human nature.

"Teams win and get fat-headed and believe everything written about them and all the nice things said about them. Boom! Down they go,' Hayes told his weekly media luncheon Monday.

"If anything, it's more true nowadays because communications are sharper. Players become more quickly aware of how good they are. As a coach, we have to keep them on an even keel." The National Collegiate Athletic Association now limits total grantsin-aid for the sport to 95 at major schools, with 30 the limit for a single recruiting year. In the past, some national powers would issue as many as 150 scholarships over a four-year period, often redshirting a batch of players each

Now the NCAA makes colleges count those redshirts - players on grants who are not participating in a given year - as part of the 95 total. Hayes was asked to evaluate the Big Ten Conference race, in which heavy favorites Michigan and Ohio State lost on the same weekend for the first time since 1967. Purdue leads the "I hope somebody will beat them.

But if people give them the breaks we gave them, they won't be beaten. I think the team up north (Michigan) will have a real good shot at them because the game's up at Ann Arbor," Hayes said of the Boilermak-

Ohio State is off to its worst start in 11 seasons, 2-2-1. Hayes accepts it philosophically. "Who am I to say I should win them all?" he asked. "I'm not an egomaniac. I know. I live with myself. That fella over there (Purdue Coach Jim Young) did a great job of coaching. 'What do we do now? This is an unusual situation for Ohio State. We've lost as many as we've won. I don't like it worth a damn. We'll just have to go back to work.

Ironically, Purdue walloped Ohio State 41-6 in 1967, dropping the Buckeyes to 1-2-0. Since then, the Big Ten power never had been at .500 until the Boilermakers beat them 27-16 Satur-

Women set golf deadline

Qualifying rounds for the Women's City Golf Championship Tournament will be hled Thursday at the Hogan Park Golf Course.

The three-day flighted match play tournament will be held Oct. 24 through Oct. 26 at Hogan Park, and an awards luncheon is scheduled following play Oct. 26 at the Ranchland Hill

Country Club. All women golfers who have been residents of Midland for 30 days are eligible to play and need not be a member of any golf club. Women with handicaps of 25 or more will not have to qualify, but may play a practice round on qualifying day if they wish. Entry fee is $12 for all golfers.

> A year ago, when the seventh game signaled the season's halfway mark, Washington was a so-so 4-3. This year they're 6-1, having sustained their first loss on Sunday in Philadelphia. And Los Angeles, 4-3 a year ago under Chuck Knox, is unbeaten under Ray Malavasi, a second choice after Allen was dismissed during the preseason. Knox has Buffalo at 2-5, not much better than the Bills' 1-6 under Jim Ringo a year ago.

> In almost every other case, too, a change in head coaches has done nothing to dramatically improve team records.

> Steadman, president of the Kansas City Chiefs, fired Wiggin a year ago when the team lost six of its first seven games. Today, Levy's got the Chiefs at exactly the same point, 1-6. Hudspeth was Detroit's head coach in 1977 until Ford decided he had a better idea. After seven games a year ago the Lions were 3-4. With Clark at the helm now they've sunk to 1-6. Ken Meyer had San Francisco struggling along at 2-5 a year ago. After the season DeBartolo and General Manager Joe Thomas called on McCulley to improve things. The 49ers are now 1-6. Cleveland, under Gregg, got off to a pretty good start in 1977, winning five of its first seven games before nosediving and finishing at 6-8. Goodbys, Forrest, said Modell. Rutigliano's Browns are behind Gregg's with a 4-3 mark. The biggest letdown, though, is in St. Louis, where Coryell's Cardinals were 4-3 a year ago and staggered to a 7-7 finish. At Bidwill's bidding, in came Wilkinson, a collegiate legend, to change things . He did ... sort of. With defections, injuries and internal turmoil tearing the team apart, St. Louis hasn't won a game this year.

Meanwhile, in a few places where the front office decided to stick with their men, things are looking up. In Green Bay, Olejniczak ignored cries for Bart Starr's scalp following the Packers' 2-5 start (and 4-10 finish). Now the Pack is roaring along at a 6-1

In Philadelphia, Dick Vermeil had trouble last year convincing Veterans Stadium's inveterate boo-birds that the Eagles were a promising team, especially after their 2-5 start and 5-9 season mark. This year, though, after their upset of the previously unbeaten Redskins, Philadelphia is 4-3 and to George Steinbrenner sinkers which is a definite strike in the AL is likely called a ball if an NL man is making the calls.

Don't mention umpires

It's very confusing, since the AL and NL divide World Series chores and rotate assignments.

AL plate umpires, who wear red jackets, look over the head of the catchers, while the NL umps, in basic blue, lean over the left shoulder of the catchers. Most AL umps, not all, hold bulky padded chest protectors, while those in the NL wear protective vests. Those in the field, especially at first and second, adopt different positions, according to their league.

Steinbrenner cited an incident in the third inning of the first game in Yankee Stadium last Friday night to illustrate his complaint of intimida-

"Two were out and Bill North was on third for the Dodgers when Bill Russell hit a ball to deep short." he said. "It was an elementary call for Marty Springstead, who is one ofZour (AL) best umpires. Russell was definitely out and the run scored. Springstead leaned too far the other Steinbrenner said he was happy to learn that a committee had been set up to study the umpire problem.

'My feeling is this: First, umpires should be trained centrally. They should operate from a common pool. They should operate under a single set of guidelines regarding equipment, strike zones and positioning in the field. They should be paid well and removed from the monastic life they are forced to live.

"And only the best ones should be chosen for the World Series."

Rudy 'T' makes long road back

AP Sports Writer

It's been a long road back for Rudy

Tomjanovich, but he's made it. Tomjanovich, whose face was shattered by Kermit Washington's punch on Dec. 9, 1977, is back at his familiar forward position for the Houston Rockets, a key member of one of the National Basketball Association's premier teams. He again is hitting that smooth outside jump shot, picking up points off offensive rebounds and battling the league's big forwards on defense.

"I wanted it so badly," he said of his return to the pro basketball wars. "Basketball had played such a big part in my life for so long, I was prepared to do anything in order to compete again."

TOMJANOVICH, a four-time NBA All-Star, looked as strong as ever last weekend. He contributed 20 points, 12 rebounds and 6 assists to the Rockets' 111-107 victory over the New York Knicks in their season opener Friday night and had 12 points as the Rockets beat the Boston Celtics 114-108 Saturday night.

He says he had that special, nervous feeling prior to his first game. "I just couldn't wait to get out there," he said. "I was so anxious for the game to start I was like a rookie playing his first game. I want to get back to playing basketball and getting judged on what I do on the court. I'm tired of talking about my in-

But talk about it he will, an endless number of times as the Rockets tour the NBA.

Dec. 9, 1977 is a day he never will forget. That is when, racing across the floor at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif. to break up a fight during a game against Los Angeles, he ran smack into the punch by the Lakers' Washington, who thought he was being threatened and said he acted in self-defense. Tomjanovich crumpled to the floor, his facial structure shattered, his fine basketball career and his life in danger.

DID THE 30-year-old former University of Michigan standout ever think he might not make it back?

"Yes, I doubted it," he said. "I doubted if I would ever walk in public. The way I looked when I got out of the hospital, I wanted to stay in my room and never leave. I didn't believe anyone could look so bad and not be laid out, I mean dead.

"You know the picture that was on the cover of Sports Illustrated, the one they took of me at the airport? People kept calling me and saying how terrible I looked, but I thought I looked great. They should have seen me before that."

Slowly but surely, after surgery to rebuild the bone structure of his face, then plastic surgery to make himself presentable, Tomjanovich began coming back. He stayed in shape as best he could through the winter and spring, then started working out. His first test came during the summer.

"I went to Los Angeles with our rookies and free agents and played in the summer league," he said. "Here were guys clawing to make the team and I wasn't even in shape. But I found out what would happen when I get popped - I knew I could take

HE SAID he is not afraid of contact and has no bad visions.

"I never saw the punch coming, so I have no flashbacks," he said. "I just woke up on the floor and asked, 'What hit me?' Maybe that's why I'm not

He showed no hesitation during the exhibition season nor in his first two regular-season games, shooting from outside, driving to the basket and going to the boards for rebounds.

"I'm the big forward on this team now, so part of my job is to hit the boards," he said. "I'm not afraid. I can't afford to be. I haven't been popped yet, not hard. I know it's going to happen, but when it does I think I'll be able to handle it."

It will all be worthwhile, he said, if the Rockets live up to their potential this season and win the NBA champi-

"We won our division two years ago and we have a better team now," he said, pointing to the maturation of center Moses Malone and the addition of forward Rick Barry as reasons why the Rockets are improved. "I had a long dry spell before that, seven years of playing on bad teams. It's nice to be with a good team.

"We have all the ingredients for a championship, and I want to be a part

Series scalper gets arrested

NEW YORK (AP) - In case Rodney Parker has not heard, the Yan-

Parker thought he had tickets for good seats to the fifth 1978 World Series game between the New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday. The problem was that the tickets were not his; they belonged to Dodgers President Peter O'Malley.

The tickets, along with jewelry and an undisclosed amount of cash, were taken Thursday night from the Dodger president's room at the Summit Hotel in Manhattan, police said.

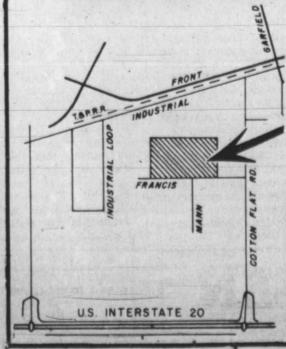

Police said they arrested Parker, 41, on Monday after he scalped the tickets outside Yankee Stadium Sunday. The ducats were among 30 stolen tickets for O'Malley's private box.

Police said they charged Parker, who did not see the game, with possession of stolen property, a misdemeanor. He was not charged with robbery pending an investigation. Parker was given a desk appearance summons for a Criminal Court hearing on Nov. 21.

Authorities began searching for Parker after they questioned two men who showed up to sit in a pair of O'Malley's seats.

The two baseball fans said they had not stolen the tickets but had bought them outside the stadium for $100 each. Given a description, police said they tracked down Parker. He also claimed he had not stolen the tick-

O'Malley is the son of Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers owner who took the team to Los Angeles from Brooklyn in 1958. The younger O'Malley was not available to comment on the robbery.

TENNIS BRISBANE, Australia — Mark Edmondson upset second-seeded John Alex-ander 6-4, 7-6 to win the all-Australian final of the $50,000 South Pacific Tennis Classic on Brisbane's grass courts. The final was to have been played Sunday, but was washed out by rain. Sunday, but was washed out by rain. Threatening skies prompted the tournament organizers to reduce the match from five sets to the best-of-three sets. In the doubles final, Alexander and Phil Dent of Australia defeated countrymen Alan Stone and Syd Ball 6-3, 7-6.

The hunt was launched Monday, one day after a partial shoulder separation suffered by Jim Hart in the Cards' 24-21 National Football League loss to the Dallas Cowboys.

"We have names of people, and we're contacting them," said Joe Sullivan, the St. Louis director of operations. "There aren't a lot, but there are enough so that we'll bring some Sullivan said the search for a backup, should it prove unsuccessful, could lead the team back to placekicker Jim Bakken, a onetime University of Wisconsin quarterback. "Some people haven't thrown a football since training camp," Sullivan said. "You don't know whether a guy's going to be receptive or if he has the qualifications you're looking

The 24-year-old Pisarkiewicz, until Hart was sidelined late Sunday, had not played a down for St. Louis except in preseason.

"I wish I had some playing time under my belt, but I understand why there wasn't a chance," he said. "Being a quarterback is different. You don't take a quarterback out of . kiewicz," he said.

the game because he's tired. A quarterback is the nucleus."

Pisarkiewicz' debut as a starter will be Sunday, when the Cards go on the road to play the New York Jets. Because of NFL rules, the Cards cannot hire Bill Donckers, Clint Longley or Mark Jackson, released by the team before the start of the regular Sullivan, although anxious to obtain quarterback insurance, had seemingly reconciled himself Monday to the loss of Hart .-

Kramer released from hospital

BLOOMINGTON (AP) - Doctors say Vikings quarterback Tommy Kramer will be out of football for at least two weeks following a mild concussion suffered in Sunday's game with Los Angeles.

Kramer was discharged from Hennepin County Medical Center Monday, where he underwent a battery of tests after being knocked unconscious on a tackle by Rams' linebacker Jim Youngblood.

Doctors have advised the 23-yearold Kramer to avoid any exercise for two weeks. He is to return for another brain wave test before he plays foot-

Otherwise, I feel fine.' Kramer, who suffered injuries to both shoulders playing football at Rice University, is confident that his injury will not affect his desire to play football or his performance.

"I was not concerned about running with the ball after I hurt my shoulders," he said. "This experience won't change my attitude about playing football, either. If I'm going to play football, I have to accept the injury factor.

The prognosis for Kramer appears much better than for his team and its chances of overtaking surprising Green Bay in the Central Division of the National Football Conference.

The Vikings fell to 3-4 in the division after being hammered 34-17 by the Rams. They trail the Packers by three full games. Green Bay, 6-1, defeated Seattle 45-28.

The Vikings meet the Packers Sunday at Metropolitan Stadium in the first of their two annual head-to-head meetings. Minnesota has won five straight divisional titles and the Packers were the last team to dethrone the Vikings, in 1972.

"The Green Bay game next week will be our biggest game so far," said Vikings Coach Bud Grant, who has an 18-4 career record against the Pack-be four games back, and that'll be tough to overcome.' The Vikings and Packers play again Nov. 26 in Green Bay. The Vikings have won the last six meetings between the two teams. Quarterback Fran Tarkenton, who completed 16 of 31 passes for 131 yards and two touchdowns against the Rams, was critical of the Viking de-"I imagine I've played against Rams teams just as good," said the 38-year-old quarterback. "But the truth of the matter is we're not as good. We've been kicked around physically all season."

"We need some guys like (Dale) Hackbart, (Ed) Sharockman and (Karl) Kassulke to stir some things up. We're just not a very aggressive football team."

Hackbart, Sharockman and Kassulke were inspirational leaders of past Vikings teams.

Mary Sadler, 94, who grew up waltzing to "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," now puts on her boogie shoes and her prettiest dress and moves to the beat of the "Saturday Night Fever" disco platter.

The therapy meetings haven't resulted in any miracle recoveries, says activities director Nancy Darigol, but it has gotten many of the patients up out of their chairs.

"A few people were too stubborn, too lazy or had been in their chairs so long they didn't trust themselves, but they are up and dancing now," said Ms. Darigol. "The idea was to get them using muscles they hadn't been

She said disco dancing loosens muscles in the arms, legs, heads, necks and shoulders.

"Everything else — hand clapping and bouncing balls — had gotten too easy for them," she said. "They were bored and we were bored with it."

"It's new to me," said Ulli Hardman, whose family came west in a

Prosecutors will appeal dismissal of indictment

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) -Federal prosecutors have decided to appeal the dismissal of a federal murder conspiracy indictment against suspended Hidalgo County district attorney Oscar McInnis.

The notice of appeal to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has been filed here.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Woods of Houston would not comment on the basis for the appeal.

McInnis and Patricia Parada of McAllen were indicted on federal charges that they plotted to have her ex-husband kidnapped and killed.

wagon train when she was 8. "When I was a girl, there were all kinds of dances - waltzes and two-steps and square dances. Papa hated dancing, but he used to take mama and me and just watch. I like disco, but I hope I got through without doing it wrong

Most of the nursing home residents dance in their wheelchairs, putting the parts of their bodies that work through the disco motions.

At the first disco get-together, "the few who could walk were hesitant to get up and dance. They didn't want to be on display in front of all their friends," Ms. Darigol said.

Administrator John Fontana came up with the idea. He suggested something besides the waltzes and polkas and big band music the residents grew up with.

About 20 residents take part in the three 30-minute disco sessions each week. Ms. Darigol, her assistant Barbara Orr, and therapy aide Randy Martin lead the dances.

The patients are delighted with the new therapy, even though few have seen a real disco dance.

There have been a few complaints from nurses who think the music is too loud.

"The whole idea is to play the music loud," Ms. Darigol said. "Some of the patients are deaf, or nearly deaf, but they can still pick up on the vibra-

Donna Hunter selected for exchange program

Donna Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hunter of No. 11 Linda Court, has been selected for Youth for Understanding's new Australian exchange program. Miss Hunter is one of five students selected for this new year-long program from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Southeast New Mexico.

As an exchange student, she will live with an Australian family and attend an Australian school beginning in January 1979, which is the beginning of their school year.

Miss Hunter will return to Midland in January, 1980.

Youth for Understanding is a nonprofit international student exchange organization which has exchanged more than 55,000 students world-

Students aged 14 through 18 can participate in the program and live with a local family in one of 23 countries in Europe, Latin America, the Far East, Africa or Australia for a summer or a year.

Youth for Understanding students become regular family members in their overseas country participating in all facets of local life. Typically, students gain an interest which lasts a lifetime and provides an investment in their future which is unparalleled,

You maintain good communications between Pizza Hut units and a central office, doing a lot of work "on your own". You'll need good general office skills, familiarity with various machines, reasonable ability with figures and good typing. Shorthand will be a plus. Above all, you must like handling a big flow of paper and information with skill, intelligence and reliability. With Pizza Hut, a great "success store", you'll have every chance to share our continued growth. Pay depends on experience.
