Adult adoption case back to court

ATLANTA (AP) — The case of a woman who wants to adopt an ailing older friend is going back to superior court for a hearing on whether an adult can become the "parent" of an older person.

The Georgia Court of Appeals, in a ruling Tuesday, sent the case back to the Douglas County court, where Judge Arthur Fletcher had dismissed the adoption request without a hear ing. The appeals court said the lower court had to consider the request of the woman's lawyer, Ronald SanFi lippo. The higher court, however, de clined to address the question of adoption "In our appeal we basically asked two questions - whether or not a judge can summarily dismiss a request for adoption without a hearing and whether a person can adopt an older person," SanFilippo said Wednesday

No hearing date has been set. San-Filippo said if the adoption is still disallowed after the hearing, he would file another appeal.

The attorney said he has been unable to find another case in which a person sought to adopt an older per-

SanFilippo said the appeal was filed after Fletcher wrote a letter saying that because of the women's ages, the natural parent-child relationship could not exist.

Feds retain final word

WASHINGTON (AP) - Although the Department of Energy has promised not to locate a nuclear waste disposal facility in Texas without the state's "concurrence," the federal government still has the final word concerning such controversial sites.

In an Oct. 10 letter to Texas Attornev General John Hill, DOE Secretary James Schlesinger said:

"I want to assure you it is the department's view that any proposal to locate a nuclear waste geological disposal facility within the state of Texas will occur only following extensive consultation with the state and that any such facility would be constructed only with the concurrence of the state. At the present time, we do not know of a specific proposal for the state of Texas. If in the future a definite facility proposal emerges, it would be appropriate to discuss concurrence procedures.

Hill has interpreted the letter as one granting Texas the power to veto such nuclear waste sites. Two such sites are currently under consideration in the panhandle county of Randall and in Anderson County in East

"But we didn't use those words...we never use those words, 'veto power,' explained DOE spokesman Al Alibrando. "Some lawyers, I guess, contend that the government cannot surrender that prerogative of imminent domain, if you will ... but it's pretty clear that we aren't going to build anything without the concurrence of

By "the state," added Alibrando, DOE is referring to the governor and the legislature.

Hill had written Schlesinger on August 29, requesting formal assurances that "DOE will afford Texas a right of veto over any decision to dispose of nuclear wastes in Texas or to transport them through the state.'

In his answer, Schlesinger carefully refrained from using the word "veto" in answering Hill's request with but one exception.

'We do not believe that specific legislation to ensure state veto authority is necessary. We feel that such legislation would be too rigid to permit the flexibility required to deal with the specific concerns of the individual states in this very important

As to the transportation of nuclear wastes though Texas, Schlesinger said: "We do not believe that prohibition by individual states...is justified or desirable... Uncoordinated local action can even be counter productive from a safety viewpoint, as when traffic diverted by the requirements of one jurisdiction enter another less well suited to handle it.

"A proposal to severly restrict transportation in interstate commerce does not readily lend itself to a final decision by a single state or local jurisdiction since that decision may equally impact other jurisdictions and lead to a proliferation of local

There's not a place on earth, from the Arctic to the Antarctic, which the imaginations of a hearty crier cannot turn into a haven for tourists and

The landscape may be as outwardly bleak as wintry Siberia, the sandduned Sierra Desert or mesquite- and sagebrush-speckled West Texas. It may be as lush as some jungle rain

The setting may be in a farmingranching area, in a small town where every street is Main Street, or in a teeming metropolis where no one should become bored. They do, though, and seek escape.

Imagine yourself a newcomer to Texas, this "state of contrast," and you're driving through the Trans-Pecos Region, which takes in the Per-

You see spacious plains, variously covered by or dotted with bush, cash crops, cattle and pastureland, oilfield pumping jacks, fenced-off ranges, open and cloudy skies and, out in nowhere, buildings, which flat-land eople not used to towering edifices call "skyscrapers."

In West Texas, a building which zooms beyond two stories once in a blue moon may get nudged by clouds and, in a broad interpretation, is vainly trying to scrape the sky.

And the sky is a mighty big space, which has a beginning and an end very much subject to intepretation.

You can stop at just about any spot in the wilds of the West and, letting your mind turn to fancies, can make the desolate appealing.

More often than not with the right perspective, the "real world" is fascinating and certainly is not boring to the inquisitive mind.

Or if your imagination needs fuel, stop by the local chamber of commerce, historical committee office, library, museum or travel bureau, and certainly you'll find much to hail about if you're so inclined.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's decision to produce and store crucial elements of the controversial conventional arms. neutron weapon shouldn't surprise Asked about possible Soviet reacthe Soviet Union or upset strategic arms talks, presidential press secretary Jody Powell says.

He said Carter is reserving judgment about whether to assemble the nuclear devices or send them to Europe as a defense against Warsaw Pact tank forces, which greatly outnumber NATO's armored forces. Powell announced the decision

Wednesday. He said the step toward production of the neutron weapons flows naturally from Carter's announcement last April that he would defer production of the neutron warheads

Carter said then he would modern ize the Lance missile and eight-inch howitzer to accomodate either the new neutron devices or updated versions of the conventional nuclear warheads they now carry.

Carter said at that time the ultimate decision on whether to produce and deploy neutron warheads would depend on whether the Soviet Union showed restraint in its strategic and tion to Wednesday's announcment, Powell said. "I don't know how they're going to feel. I would assume it would come as no surprise.

'You don't think this will have any effect on the strategic arms limitation talks?" Powell was asked.

'No," he replied. U.S. arms control negotiator Paul

Warnke said later that Carter's decision had nothing to do with the U.S. Soviet arms talks. He said the SALT talks deal with strategic weapons only while the neutron warhead is a tactical battlefield weapon.

Warnke commented a few hours before leaving for Moscow for this weekend's resumption of the SALT negotiations

On the prospects of the Moscow talks being the final step in reaching agreement, Warnke said, "We have solved the most complex problems. It is now a question of how stubborn both sides will be about the fistful of problems left.

In the Netherlands, the Dutch gov ernment issued a communique expressing "concern" with Carter's decision on the neutron weapon. It said the Dutch government "is of the opinion that deployment of this weapon must be prevented by introducing it into the process of the Strategic Arms Limitations Treaty negotia-

Powell said, "The elements needed to produce an assembled warhead will be kept here in the United States." But, he added, the actual assembly "will take much less time once the elements are in existence."

Asked why Carter had decided to go ahead now with the components' production. Powell said, "We're simply ready to proceed now.

White House officials noted that the federal government began a new fiscal year Oct. 1, and said the timing of

Permian Oil Show not public yet but opening crowd sets record

ODESSA—The general public must wait until Friday to converge on the Permian Basin Oil Show grounds, but it looked like everyone in the world was there Wednesday-opening day for oil industry personnel. In fact, it was the largest opening day crowd in the show's history as 159,996 persons walked through the turnstiles into a maze of exhibits. Eddie Durrett of Odessa, a vice president of the show and the man in charge of the visitor head count.

"We are absolutely elated," Larry H. Byrd of Midland, president of the show, said even before the final firstday count was in.

And, Jay Alvey, executive director of the show, said "It not only is a record-setting first day, the crowd was twice as big today as it was last year on opening day when an all-time four-day attendance record was set.

The job of registering the thousands and thousands of visitors from the oil industry and allied industries was the duty of the Registration Committee headed by Cecil Smith of Midland.

"I never saw anything like it," Smith said. "We had 12 registration lines going at once and each one reached almost to the street." Members of the board of directors and the Desk & Derrick Clubs of Midland and

Odessa helped with the registration. "By nine thirty almost every parking place within blocks were taken," Alvey said. The gates opened at 10

The schedule today follows the opening day slate. The show grounds are open only to oil industry personnel and allied industry personnel and their families. The show day will end

Friday, things get rolling for the general public. A gigantic parade, featuring bands and other marching units and hundreds of floats will start moving in downtown Odessa at 11

The formal opening of the show for the public will be at 1 p.m. at the entrance to the Ector County Coliseum Complex show grounds.

Byrd will introduce Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute since 1963, who is the honoree for this year's show. It has been a tradition for the last several shows to honor a person who has made outstanding contributions to the oil industry. Ikard symbolizes the oil industry's constant battle against government regulations and interference while trying to meet the nation's demands for energy, Byrd said.

The show grounds will close at 8 p.m. Friday. The gates will be reopened for the general public at 10 a.m. Saturday.

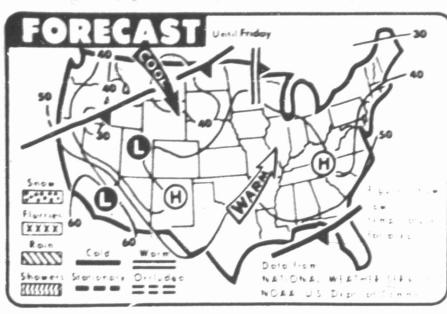

One of the final events will be a barbecue served by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang. This event begins at 5. p.m. and tickets can be purchased at the show grounds.

The four-day show will close at 8 p.m. Saturday.

More than 700 exhibits were ready to be displayed, explained and demonstrated to the Permian Basin Oil Show's first-day crowd of 159,996. Fred Johnson of Long Beach, Calif., takes a look at his one-inch to one-foot drilling rig. Johnson said the project took three years to complete and performs every function lifesized rigs do. (Staff photo by Mike Kardos)

Sulfuric acid leaks getting giant Alka Seltzer treatment

MADISONVILLE, Tenn. (AP) -Civil Defense workers poured tons of lime into pools of sulfuric acid leaking from derailed railroad tank cars in an effort to reduce chemical fumes rising into the air.

'They're making a great big Alka Seltzer," one official said.

Many of this East Tennessee town's 3,800 residents remained away from home Wednesday night

They were evacuated when a cloud about three-quarters of a mile long, a quarter-mile wide and a half-mile high spewed out of two tankers that ruptured when a Louisville and Nashville Railroad train derailed Wednesday afternoon. No one was injured in the derailment.

Officials, who toured the city and explained the danger, said it was impossible to determine exactly how many people left their homes. Some, they said, left for homes of friends and relatives instead of the evacuation centers set up in schools and National Guard armories. L&N crews were to begin cleanup operations early today and officials said evacuees probably could begin returning home later today. Armed with cone-shaped wooden pegs and paraffin, officials plugged a hole in one tanker Wednesday night. W.B. Pemberton, director of the railroad division of the state Public Service Commission, said each tanker's capacity was 7,736 gallons and that one car had leaked about threequarters of its cargo. The second was leaking only droplets and the third had been empty, he said. An undetermined amount spilled into a creek, but the creek was dammed before the chemical could flow downstream.

During the night, workers used a front-end loader and fire hoses to pour tons of lime around the derailment site and behind an earthen dam built across a drainage ditch to neutralize the acid. The chemical is not explosive but can cause severe burns to skin and eves.

Seventy-eight National Guardsmen from nearby Sweetwater patrolled streets and roadblocks.

Charles Hall, mayor of nearby Tellico Plains, said some people refused to leave. "We asked them to leave and they wouldn't," he said. "I guess they'll go when it starts bothering them."

Lions Club honors two firefighters

Lt. David N. Fawks, 45, and Firefighter George O. Sosa, 26, received plaques bonoring them as "Firefighters of the Year for 1978" during Wednesday's noon meeting of the Downtown Lions Club

Sosa entered the front door and went up the inside stairs Lt. Fawks located the child, but became disoriented by the thick smoke Sosa entered the same room as

Fawks and took the child from the exhausted fireman Both firefighters then left the house, taking the child to a waiting team of emergency technicians Fawks recalled the heat was so intense that it scorched the hair on the back of Sosa's head The heat also made Fawks' breathing apparatus too hot to hold by

Fawks has 17 years service with the department

He was born in Cleburne and moved to Midland in 1948. He served in the U.S. Army two years in the Korean War and graduated from Midland

His community service activities include being trustee of Temple Baptist Church and being active in other church-related activities

Sosa is a veteran of four years with the department. The firefighter came to Midland in 1962, having been born in Odessa

He is a 1970 graduate of Midland High School and now attends Midland College, where he is working toward an associate degree in applied sciences. He also holds an advanced first aid card from the American Red

Sosa is a member of the Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church. His other community interests include coaching YMCA basketball and being a referee in Midland Independent School District basketball games. Both men have state certification in various firefighting skills.

Afternoons remain warm

As the calendar moves into late October, Indian summer continues with warm afternoons and cool

The weatherman said the fair fall weather should continue at least through Friday.

High Friday should be in the low 80s, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. The high for Wednesday was 79 degrees. Record for that date is 90 degrees set in 1936. The mercury should dip into the upper 40s tonight, about the same as today's low temperature of 46 degrees. This still is not as cool as the record low of 36 degrees set in 1966. Winds should be variable at 5 to 10 mph tonight, the weatherman said.

Liquor store again robbed

A Midland liquor store was held up for at least the third time in two years Wednesday night, according to Midland Police Department officers.

Lt. Earl Luckey said that police arrived at the B&B Liquor Store, 612 N. Big Spring St., shortly after 7:30 p.m. in response to an armed robbery report.

Police said a man took an undetermined amount of cash from the register during the hold-up. Police are looking for a man last seen running east down Louisiana Avenue displaying a pistol, according to authorities. No one was reported injured, said

Luckey. The same liquor store was the scene of the death of store clerk Jackie Goodrum Burleigh, 45, of 500 N. Colorado St. on the night of Aug. 4, 1977.

Mrs. Burleigh was stabbed to death during an armed robbery.

The neutron warheads produce twice the deadly radiation of a conventional nuclear bomb but less than one-tenth as much explosive power. The idea is to kill attacking enemy tank crews without causing wide spread destruction of buildings in populated areas along an invasion route, the most likely of which would be through West Germany The Soviet Union, which isn't be lieved to posess a neutron weapon of its own, has made the U.S. development of the warhead the target of a worldwide propaganda campaign.

Critics say the weapon would make nuclear war more likely, on the theory that its reduced blast and shock effects would make its use more tempting.

The Carter administration argues that the weapon is a more effective deterrent against conventional attack, and that it could not be used without authorization from the presi-

Launch options being considered

WASHINGTON (AP) - Intercontinental missiles lauched from huge underwater platforms off the American coast are among the options being considered by the United States as an alternative to land-based launching systems, a Pentagon spokesman has confirmed. Long-range missiles are now housed in underground silos at stationary locations and the Defense Department is looking for ways to make them less susceptible to attack. The prospect of underwater launch platforms as a way to achieve more protection for the missiles was raised Wednesday in a CBS News report. "The Defense Department is study-

Smaller scale nuclear waste disposal tests recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) - A government study group today tentatively recommended developing a mediumsized burial vault for highly radioactive nuclear wastes to gain experience before starting large-scale waste disposal.

John M. Deutsch, director of the Energy Department's Office of Energy Research, told reporters such an intermediate facility, to store from 100 to 1000 spent nuclear fuel assemblies or cannisters, could be operating

The leading candidate for the facility is a site near Carlsbad, N.M., but the state has not been enthusiastic about the idea and Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger has assured both New Mexico and Texas that nuclear waste disposal sites would not be established there without their 'concurrence," Deutsch said.

The group's tentative recommendations were included in a draft report that will be reviewed after a 30-day period for public comment. Then the group will prepare and send to President Carter its conclusions and rec-

Botha tells election compromise

Pieter W. Botha announced a compromise today under which South Africa will proceed with its own elections in South-West Africa while resuming fullscale negotiations for U.N.-supervised elections in Botha issued a joint statement approved by his government and Western foreign ministers, including Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who had spent three days in secret negotiations on South-West Africa's transition to independence and black-major-

Botha stopped short of full acceptance of the U.N. plan. But he said he would use his "best efforts" to persuade local leaders elected in December to go ahead with the later elections.

The Western powers, for their part, said they would urge special U.N. representative Martti Ahtisaari "to immediately resume discussions" with South African Administrator-General Marthinus Steyn within the framework of the Security Council resolutions calling for an internationally acceptable independence in the long-disputed territory.

The United States, Britain, France, West Germany, France and Canada made clear in the joint statement they would regard the December election as "null and void."

South Africa said the December poll "must be seen as an internal process to elect leaders.' Answering questions at a news conference later, Botha indicated the leaders chosen in the poll would be used as a counterbalance to U.N. recognition of the black militant South-West Africa People's Organization as the "sole legitimate representative" of the Namibian people." The December election is virtually certain to provide a heavy majority for the South Africanbacked Democratic Turnhalle Alliance, since neither SWAPO nor the moderate Namibia National Alliance are participating. The joint statement basically represents South Africa's acceptance of the "two-election" compromise frequently suggested during the three days of highly secret talks by Western diplomats. Although South Africa has yet to give its irrevocable approval to the U.N. plan, it should have little trouble persuading the Democratic Turnhalle Alliance to urge its acceptance in December. Vance and the other Western diplomats left Pretoria Wednesday.

Vance stopped briefly in Khartoum to talk with Sudanese President Gaafar Mohamed Nimeiri and arrived today in Geneva. He was meeting today and Friday with the U.S. delegation negotiating a new nuclear arms limitation treaty with the Russians and on Saturday goes to Moscow for another round of those negotiations with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Vance and the other foreign ministers left compromise proposals they hoped would persuade Botha and his conservative cabinet to accept the United Nations plan for an internationally-supervised transition to independence in mineral-rich South-West Africa, also called Namibia.

It called for a U.N. supervisory force of up to 7,500 men, a seven-month transition period, a joint U.N.- rate supervised election for a constituent assembly.

Informed sources said earlier the ministers offered to reduce the U.N. force to about 4,000 men, with most of them to come from Canada and Britain instead from black African nations sympathetic

Syrian forces replaced by Saudi Arabians, Sudanese

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Saudi Arabian and Sudanese troops prepared today to replace Syrian forces in flashpoints around Beirut's Christian sector as part of a plan to ward off further Syrian-Christian

Officials said the redeployment was the first step in a security plan worked out by Lebanese President Elias Sarkis to consolidate a 13-day-old cease-fire between the Syrians and Christian militias. The plan was endorsed at a weekend meeting south of Beirut by Syria, Saudi Arabia and other Arab nations contributing troops or funds to the Syriandominated Arab Deterrent Force in Lebanon.

Saudi Arabia has 2,000 men, Sudan 800 and Syria more than 26,000 in the force, which is supposed to enforce the armistice that ended the Lebanese civil war in 1976.

Saudi armored cars waited at three locations in Beirut's Moslem sector, ready to cross the dividing "green line" as liaison officers checked deployment

The Christian command announced it ordered its militiamen to observe the cease-fire strictly during the redeployment, which was expected to take 48 hours. But occasional gunfire was heard in the heart of the Christian enclave in the residential quarter of Ashrafieh and at the Qarantina Bridge where the Syrians have been blockading the Christian supply route from the hinterland north of the city to East

The shooting did not prevent hard-pressed Christian inhabitants from surging to the streets to shop and line up for water.

Both sectors of the capital still were without public water as a result of the recent 10-days Syrian attack in which 1,200 Lebanese were reported killed. Electricity was rationed, but business started to pick up after announcement of the results of the Arab conference

Sources at the headquarters of the Christian Phalange Party in the Ashrafieh district said they expected the Saudis and Sudanese to take over the Qarantina Bridge and the 25-story Rizk Tower plan indicated they were staying. Syria's troops intervened in the Lebanese civil war in 1976 to save the Christians from defeat and prevent the establishment of a radical government of Lebanese Moslems and Palestinians on Syria's doorstep.

The Syrians stayed on in the Arab Deterrent Force to police the civil-war armistice along with token forces from other Arab governments. But the Christians refused Syrian orders to disarm their militias and put their areas under Syrian control because the Syrians did not disarm the Moslems or the

Soviets find solution

An intriguing dispatch from Moscow reports the Russians are planning to heat homes with steam from nuclear reactors in plants located relatively close to their cities.

Their technologists say they have found an "engineering solution" to what is considered the greatest potential danger in nuclear plants — a loss-of-coolant accident and reactor meltdown with a disastrous release of radioactive material into the atmosphere.

Further, the Russians see no problem in disposing of radioactive waste from their growing number of nuclear power plants and the steam-heating plants soon to be built. They will concentrate it into a glass-like substance and bury it in salt deposits or abandoned coal mines in remote areas.

Considering the endless debate in America about nuclear safety. this makes us wonder. Do the Russians know something that we don't? Or have they just decided to live dangerously?

Probably the answer lies somewhere in between. The fact that the new nuclear steam plants will not have the heavy concrete containment domes characteristic of this nation's own nuclear plants does suggest a technological innovation. As for safety, Soviet standards are presumed to be lower than ours. American astronauts, for instance, have hinted they would not like to risk their necks in a spacecraft as primitive as the Soviet's Soyuz.

What the latest development in the Soviet nuclear program does tell us is that the Russians have looked at the risks in harnessing nuclear energy and concluded to move ahead at a faster pace than most countries in the West. And the news comes at a time when the argument over safety of nuclear plants in the United States may take a new turn.

An independent panel of scientists has just completed a reassessment of the "Rasmussen Report," a study completed in 1974 under Dr. Norman C. Rasmussen which sought to calculate the chances of a nuclear accident with highly fatal consequences. The report's conclusion that the odds against it are astronomical has been the basis for defending the nuclear option through many recent battles.

The reassessment which began 13 months ago under Dr. Harold W. Lewis of the University of California at Santa Barbara supports many aspects of the Rasmussen Report, but finds fault with others. The anti-nuclear lobby is sure to seize on it. Among other things, it questions the way the Rasmussen Report applies the laws of probability to reach its comforting conclusion. According to the Lewis team, the possibility of error in these calculations has been greatly understated."

Physicists, mathematicians and others with nuclear expertise now will debate whether the Lewis study calls for any change in nuclear policy.

The comments of Dr. Lewis, however, are most significant. He says nothing has turned up to change his own conviction that nuclear power is here to stay.

Power plant safety, he says, is the "least worrisome" of the

What should concern us more, in his view, is the need to control international proliferation of nuclear materials which could be used to make bombs, and the tardiness in setting up a system for permanent disposal of nuclear waste in the United States.

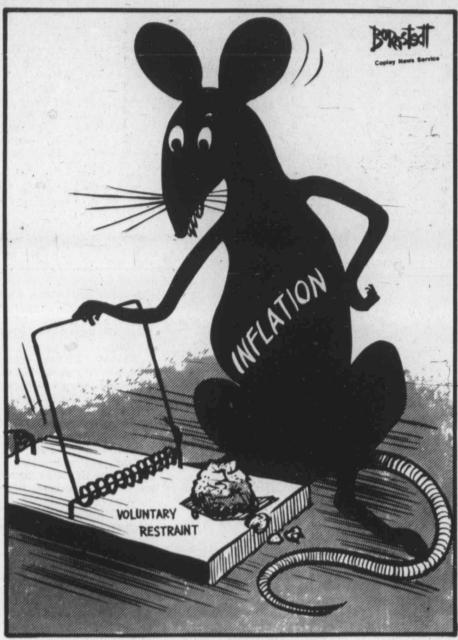

The Lewis study may cast a new light on the risk-factors that go with nuclear energy, but it does not affect another risk - that fossil fuels may run out before there are reliable energy sources to take their place.

nuclear steam plants will achieve 4,900 ships kept in presumably a 30 percent reduction in the consumption of oil, gas and coal to heat homes and buildings. Obviously they looked at their fuel inventory, weighed all the risks, and came down on the side of the nuclear option.

The United States also must do some serious thinking along this line, particularly in the face of a possible doubling of the price of oil produced and sold by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, as suggested by Iraqi Oil Minister Tayeh Abdul last Sunday.

Defectors need love too, but let's be reasonable

WASHINGTON - As the conscience of America, I have been giving a lot of time and thought to recent events surrounding the Soviet defector Arkady Shevchenko and his paramour Judy Chavez.

While all the facts in the case have not been disclosed (we have to wait for Judy's and Arkady's books to get the rest of them), this much is agreed upon by everybody

Shevchenko had a high position in the U.N. when he came over to our side. He met, or was given, as a reward, Miss Chavez who worked for an "escort" service in Washington. He paid Miss Chavez $500 a night for her friendship, and spent between $35,000 and $40,000 on her for gifts and a trip to the Virgin Islands. He was known in the CIA as "the spy who was never cold."

The facts that are in dispute are whether Mr. Shavchenko paid for Miss Chavez' services out of his own pocket or whether they were paid for by the CIA to keep him happy and talking. If Arkady spent his own money, he was taken advantage of for being a foreigner. But if the CIA paid for the undercover operation, then the taxpayers have a right to ask some questions.

The first is: Why on earth was the CIA paying Miss Chavez $500 a night when the going rate in the intelligence business for this sort of thing is $100? If Arkady was paying for it, why didn't someone in the FBI or CIA warn him that he was being over-

If the CIA is footing the bill, as Miss Chavez claims, it means there is a serious lack of cost control in the agency when it comes to providing escorts for Soviet defectors.

No loyal American would take issue with the fact that a high-ranking Soviet official, who wants to come over, should get anything he wants from the CIA in exchange for intelligence se-

But when you start paying outrageous prices for close encounters of this kind, you are not only contributing, as President Carter said at his press conference, to inflation but you are setting a precedent for other Soviet defectors, which the United States can ill afford.

The next defector will also expect a $500-a-night female companion, and if she is paid less he will feel that the CIA is not treating him with the same respect they did Arkady. How many "escorts" can our intelligence agency supply at these rates before it starts shortchanging our other spy opera-

"What better way to break the CIA budget than to have a defector demand a woman with expensive tastes, a yen for beautiful cars and a desire to make love in beautiful resorts. We could have put up a spy satellite for what it cost the Americans to keep Arkady talking.'

Because of all the publicity, the CIA must now give Shevchenko a new cover and move him to a safer city than Washington.

I suggest Cleveland. It is not only a nice place to live, but the going rate there for an "escort" is $35 a night including taxi fare. Making Arkady live in Cleveland while they debrief him would certainly save the CIA a lot of money.

Navy ships said in sad shape

WASHINGTON - At the end of World War II, the United States Navy had the most formidable fleet in the world - hundreds of battle-ready warships ready for action, an lmpressive symbol of the free world's command of the seas.

Our seapower was bolstered by the The Russians believe their National Defense Reserve Fleet combat-ready condition for any international emergency that might arise. Virtually every military official interviewed by the congressional investigators who prepared the eyes-only study agreed that in the event of a major conflict in Europe, the United States wouldn't even be able to provide adequate protection for supply convoys. One high-ranking admiral confided that our ships "would have to leave port and ... make a run for it.' Another member of the top brass said, "The Joint Chiefs include the Ready Reserve Fleet in contingency plans, but It doesn't exist. It is marginal at best.'

And in secret testimony before Murphy's committee. Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Installation and Logistics Everett Pyatt, admitted frankly that the reserve fleet is "a disaster

According to the secret report to Marphy, "A review of the fleet available and a summary of the opinion of those knowledgeable in high command makes it clear that the effectiveness of our military is limited to brushfire wars." Yet the U.S. Navy's "state of the art in search and destroy on the high seas" has not advanced since 1945. Incredibly, the report says, "at present U.S. fleet modernization programs are being curtailed. Worse still, the U.S. merchant

They make numerous studies, attend hundreds of staff meetings and seminars, generate tomes of detailed regulations and produce mountains of memos, letters and forms - in short, they behave like bureaucrats everywhere. Very little of this activity has a direct impact on what happens in the classroom... It is difficult to determine whether more senior teachers are quitting, or just complaining. But a study done for the National Education Assn., a large labor union, claims that experienced teachers are leaving in record numbers. The study says that in 1961, some 28 percent of all teachers had 20 or more years experience, and that in 1976, it was down to 14 percent. It could be, however, that a disproportionately large number of younger teachers came in during the late 50s and early 60s to accommodate the postwar baby boom. The study also says that the average age of teachers was 41 in 1961, and now is 33. John Ryor, NEA's president, calls the exodus of senior teachers "deplorable" and laments this great loss of "maturity and wisdom" in American education. Naturally, the NEA study is laced with all manner of statistics telling how unhappy teachers are, but no material suggesting it might just be the relativist philosophy NEA pushes which contributes to the ennui in American education. Tsk,

The NEA claims, with justification, that many penny-pinching school boards won't hire older teachers who move into their districts and also tries to push their own higher-salaried older teachers into early retirement, in order to hire younger replacements at lower pay.

Now public teachers in public schools aren't all in shell-shocked condition. When something's working, it's rare for the media, including an opinionated fellow like me, to write it big or broadcast it loud, but there's enough trouble in public education that a liberal like Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin voted against the $50 billion education bill this year, and said: "We must not continue to blindly, thoughtlessly pour money into programs and approaches that simply aren't working. And Dr. Onaleee McGraw, a scholarly defender of parental rights in education, notes: "Because education is a family thing, parents have been busy hiring tutors, policing halls as aids to reduce violence, drugs and vandalism, working at second jobs to place children in private schools, and analyzing textbooks to try and teach at home what is lacking or attacked in

Dr. McGraw, a graduate of Georgetown University, shows "sensible concern" in "Family Choice in Education: The New Imperative," a monograph obtainable at The Heritage Foundation, 513 "C" Street, N.E., Wash., D.C., 20002. I dislike listing addresses, but how else to get a senior teachers. Much as the Council for Basic Education welcomes the self-pruning of overstaffed public education, it isn't happy with a pruning which "takes some of the strong and healthy limbs, teachers of proven competence or bright promise." That concern seems sensible therefore, fear the research results could wind up in South African police dossiers. They object to the fact that Northwestern is indirectly subsidizing Feldberg's work by providing him with office space and paying his visiting professor's salary. Back to the question of departing

It should be noted, however, that Feldberg is considered a liberal on racial matters by South African standards. A university spokesman told us the professor was "not in favor of apartheid." All faculty members, added the spokesman, are expected to

Flood pleads innocent to bribery, conspiracy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., pleaded innocent today to bribery and conspiracy charges involving allegations he traded his power as a House subcommittee chairman for tens of thousands of dollars in payoffs.

Federal Judge Louis F. Oberdorfer ordered Flood to return to U.S. District Court Oct. 30 for the judge to set a timetable in the case and begin considering pretrial motions. He released the 74-year-old congressman without bail.

Flood, wearing a dark suit, refused to answer reporters' questions and moved swiftly past cameramen outside the courthouse on his way to a waiting limousine.

The congressman previously has denied any wrongdoing. He said the charges against him were "absurd" and would be proved false at the Flood's lawyer, Axel Kleiboemer, protested to the judge about a meeting with reporters held earlier this week by a high-ranking Justice Department official, who asked that he not be named. The official said no further charges would be brought against Flood by the federal government because "at some point you say we have enough.

Kleiboemer characterized the official's remarks as saying, in effect, 'we're going to get him with what we

Assistant U.S. Attorney Mark Tuohey said that was not the intent of the official's remarks, but rather that the federal government's case would stand or fall on charges already Tuohey promised the judge there would be no further remarks by federal officials in the case.

Flood was indicted Oct. 12 by a flood was indicted Oct. 12 by a federal grand jury in Washington on charges of conspiring with a former aide, Stephen B. Elko, who is cooperating with the government, to take $65,000 in bribes from various sources and 100 shares of stock in a Pennsylvania bank.

He also was accused of seeking another $100,000 from the developer of a townhouse project in Pennsylva-

Those charges were consolidated today with the bribery and conspiracy allegations and will be tried togeth-

Kleiboemer asked Oberdorfer to excuse Flood from attending further pretrial proceedings.

But the judge told Flood, "You have a duty to be here." He said if Flood fails to appear, he could be subject to additional charges that carry maximum penalties of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

If convicted on existing bribery, conspiracy and perjury charges, Flood faces a maximum of 25 years in authentic driver's license number, and, if possible, Social Security number for identification prior to cashing any checks.

He said an additional safeguard, which smaller merchants especially should use, is to call the bank in cases of suspicious acting persons or unusual looking checks prior to cashing them. "That 30-seconds could save a lot of money at the end of a year," he said.

However, Acker sees an additional purpose to such close scrutiny of cus-

"It's virtually impossible for us to proceed in prosecuting someone if we do not have some sort of identification of who passed the check."

He said he, along with other county attorneys, usually receives "hot" check cases which merchants have been unable to collect restitution on. And, he added, some "hot" check cases are handled at the municipal court level.

Ector County Attorney Mike Atkins

said his office boasts "an excellent system" because he prosecutes virtually every "hot" check case he He said he issues a letter giving

"In some cases we do send a letter notifying people that their checks are insufficient. Sometimes we assume it's a mistake."

"However," he continued, "the second check from that person that comes into this office, means they receive a warrant for their arrest." He said he believes the crime is a "very serious problem." "There have always been 'hot' checks. But here in the Permian Basin in recent years we've noticed an increase. That, is a relatively new phenemonon.' Odessa Police Detective David King said he finds many people who switch from one bank to the next while cashing "hot" checks. King concentrates on check crimes nearly fulltime for the department.

He said professional "hot" check passers are a force to be reckoned

He cited a case being investigated now involving as many as five persons who he said have systematically passed thousands of dollars of worthless checks in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Louisiana to date.

"It's a typical pro 'hot' check ring. They open a bank account or two on Friday with $50. And on Saturday, before stores can check their bank accounts, they cash checks all over town. They are gone before Mon-

On a single day this year, King said, officials believe the ring ripped off Odessa merchants for $2,000 using just four checks. "They also hit one store with two checks for a total of $1,800. I think they've been responsible for as much as $3,500 per weekend. That's about a $14,500 per month in-

"When you can take a $50 bank account and run it into $2,500 to $2,800 in one day, that's a pretty fair day's work," said King, shaking his head. The ring also is believed to have hit

Colorado City and Andrews, he said. "They haven't been caught yet." 'Some people write 'hot' checks to feed their families. Others do it anyway," said the veteran investigator. Ector County Assistant District Attorney Dennis Sadra said a major problem is property stolen must be specifically described as required by

However, he said, "The Court of Criminal Appeals has said that merchandise is not a sufficient description. I'm saying that good legislation to increase 'hot' check prosecutions should amend the state theft laws to allow less specific descriptions of property sold in stores.' Sadra said as the state law stands now, merchants cannot testify in

In addition he would seek more assistant district attorneys to prosecute such cases in Ector County. 'We've three now, but we could use six to nine," he said.

A small Midland merchant bitterly declared, "The criminal has got every right. There is no law protecting the merchant."

He complained that rather than press for a legal resolution of the problem, "a lot of businessmen will write it all off as a bad debt loss."

"Hot' checks are mostly misdemeanor cases. I get a lot of complaints about them from people who say they don't know what they can do to avoid it."

The Ector County Attorney's Office and the Odessa Police Department Crime Prevention Unit has published two informative leaflets which tellmerchants what they can do about this problem.

Atkins calls his four-page black and white leaflet, suitably, the "Hot is Checklist."

It contains definitions of a "hot" check, tells the penalties involved, offers a message from Atkins, talks of collection and restitution, explains how to process a worthless check complaint step-by-step and informs businessmen of preventative measures to avoid such incidents.

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) - A seven-hour shooting rampage that left four persons dead and four others wounded ended with the capture of a wounded suspect today, police said. Among the dead was the suspect's mother, state

The suspect, identifed as Billy Edward Hardesty, 21, of Van Buren Township near Belleville, was hospitalized. His condition was not known. Troopers besieged the Hardesty home briefly and there was an exchange of gunfire, but it was not immediately known how Hardesty was injured and his mother was killed. Police did not immediately release the identities of the other victims, all of whom they said were believed shot with a .22-caliber pump-action rifle.

The first shootings took place in the parking lot of Abigail's Dirty Shame Saloon, authorities said. Two men were killed and one was wounded, they said. About 41/2 hours later, the third man was found shot to death at a home near Interstate 94, about a mile east of the saloon. Two other men were wounded in that incident, police said. Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies said the second shootings were discovered when someone ran from the home screaming, "People have been shot."

WASHINGTON (AP) - The world's population time bomb, expected to begin exploding in the 1980s, may have been defused by birth control programs in some of the most populous nations, two Chicago sociology In a report titled "Declining World Fertility: Trends, Causes, Implications," demographers Amy Ong Tsui and Donald J. Bogue of the University of Chicago write that in most developing countries, birth rates have been declining faster than expected. "Only 10 years ago, doomsday prophesizing called for mass starvation, world chaos and possible world war by the year 2000," the report says. "If recent trends continue, the world population crisis appears resolvable. The report says that contrary to demographic predictions, the world's average rate of childbearing declined significantly between 1968 and 1975. As a result, the authors estimate, in 148 countries the rate dropped from 4.6 to 4.1 births per woman of childbearing age in these seven years. Some of the most populated countries which were viewed as seedbeds for population explosion, such as China, India, Indonesia and Egypt, were showing evidence of major and continuing fertility decline, the au-In Indonesia, for example, the fertility rate between 1968 and 1975 dropped 29 percent, or from 6.5 to 4.6 births per woman of child-bearing UPHOLSTERY An Excellent Value at this Low LOW Anthony Plush Velvets and Velour fabrics that are both durable and handsome age, the authors say. They claim that a key factor behind the fertility decline has been family planning movements in developing countries. By 1976, 63 countries in the developing world had launched their own family planning programs, the authors say.

They add that in 1976 almost $1 billion was provided to developing countries for family planning services by numerous private foundations and national organizations in the developed world.

"As of the year 2000, less than a fifth of the world's population will be in the 'red danger' circle of explosive population growth - 2.1 percent or more annually," says the report, pub-lished by the Population Reference Bureau, a nonprofit research organization specializing in population

Lions hear discussion of camp for blind

"No man stands so tall as he who stoops to help a crippled child." That's the motto of the Texas Lions League for Crippled Children. And that's what Glenn Crawford. executive director of the organization, spoke about to members of the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday.

He discussed the Texas Lions Camp for blind children and adults and crippled children in Kerrville, as well as Camp Madison near Houston.

Lions Clubs have been helping crippled children and the blind for years by dues and fundraising events, he said. The camps are an extension of

Missing boy found dead

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) - An 8-year-old Joliet boy reported missing Wednesday was found dead about dawn today in an apartment building.

Police arrested James McDaniel Jr., 18, who lives in the apartment and charged him with unlawful restraint.

Authorities said Willie E. Fox was reported missing by his mother after she went into his bedroom to wake him for school. He was last seen playing outside about 9 p.m. Tuesday. His mother told police she thought the child had come in and gone to bed. Police said there is an outstanding warrant for McDaniel from Dallas for capital murder.

The camp concentrates on teaching adults and children daily living skills needed by the blind "so that they can begin the road to independence and become self-supporting," he said.

"We encourage full participation in all activities with the overall goal being for each child to have fun and to accomplish what they never before felt confident of doing," he said.

He said such experiences provide 'that feeling of self-worth and enjoyment of life that is not always

The Lions Club two-week program for diabetic children in Kerrville and in Camp Madison near Houston is an extension of the main goal of this service club: aiding crippled children

Nine months per year blind adults use the Kerrville camp facilities. Next, crippled children come to summer camp there, said Crawford. They come, he said, at the rate of between 160-180 every two weeks.

"We want these children to live a happy life," he explained.

Crawford pointed out the Downtown Lions Club stands ninth in donations to the Kerrville camp.

Hospital trustees OK new staff position

Midland Memorial Hospital trustees Wednesday approved the addition of a new staff position and heard a report on hospital construction progress.

At their regular meeting, the trustees approved hiring an assistant administrator for finance at a salary of $30,000 per year. The position is to be added to the hospital staff this

The new assistant is expected to help implement a proposed computer accounting system the hospital will be using soon. Bids are being accepted on the computer equipment now, and trustees expect to award the bids at the January meeting.

"In any operation this size there is room for added ecomonies and added control," Finance Committee Chairman John M. Grimland told the

The new assistant administrator's expertise in computer accounting could be expected to save the districtmore money than his salary costs, Grimland said.

The position already has been offered to an applicant, and trustees are waiting for his reply, according to Wayne Ulrich, administrator of the Trustees also were told that the move-in date for the new north wing of the hospital has been moved from October to mid-December because of delays in shipment of equipment.

Trustees still expect the entire building and renovation project to be complete by January, 1980. Trustees also heard a report by Ulrich on the operation of the hospital's emergency room last Saturday

During the night, four young girls were brought in with severe burns from an fire in their home. The four patients and three adults were transported to San Antonio for special treatment on Air Force planes after an Army team of specialists nad seen them at Midland Memorial.

Transporation of the army crews from the airport and the patients to the waiting aircraft took coordination of police, all three city ambulances and hospital personnel, Ulrich noted.

Head of the army team said the movement to and from Midland Memorial was one of the best organized efforts he had seen, Ulrich said.

While coordinating the treatment of the girls, emergency room personnel handled an acute heart attack patient, several cuts and bruises, a case of severe emotional distress. DWI cases and regular emergency room traffic without undue delay, the administrator said.

"You never know what your organization is capable of until it's put under pressure," Ulrich said. "I'm pleased to know that we met the test Saturday night."

Carter hopes treaty to bind Israel, Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Diplomats report the Carter administration plans to get Egypt and Israel involved in joint economic projects funded by the United States as soon as they have signed a peace treaty.

The sources said administration officials plan to lose no time in getting the two countries working together in a relationship that will cement the treaty, but they are having trouble coming up with enough ideas to match the amount of spending envi-

Carter to unveil 'Phase II' program

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is expected to unveil his long-awaited "Phase II" anti-inflation program next Tuesday, possibly in a televised adress, it was learned today.

Carter has not yet requested broadcast time for a speech, however, and White House officials continue to insist that the president has not yet put the finishing touches on the new package.

Presidential spokesman Jody Powell said Wednesday that the new program would be announced early next week "at the earliest."

Carter has been saying publicly for weeks that his new program will be announced soon, will be "tough" but "fair," and will not include mandatory wage or price controls, which the president has consistently said he would not seek except in a national emergency.

The toughened-up program comes after the restraints.

weaker anti-inflation program Carter announced earlier this year, when he held pay raises for federal workers to 5.5 percent and called for business and labor to show restraint.

However, inflation has shown signs of worsening since then, and Carter's advisers have been working for months on a new package.

Some administration officials have predicted the new program will include voluntary guidelines of about 5.75 percent per year on prices and 7 percent per year on wages. But Powell has warned reporters that such reports may not prove accurate because the president hasn't yet made the final decisions.

And in a speech Tuesday, AFL-CIO president George Meany complained that news leaks about the coming anti-inflation program are prompting businessmen to raise prices now to avoid the predicted

Susan Ford to marry Secret Service agent

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Wedding bells will be ringing in June for Susan-Ford, the 21-yearold daughter of former President Gerald Ford, who is marrying a 37-year-old Secret Service agent.

Both families confirmed Wednesday that Miss Ford will marry Charles Vance, a Secret Service agent since 1965. Vance spent two years helping protect the former president.

Vance's stepfather, John Earley of Reno, Nev., said the wedding will take place June 2. He said the couple visited him and Vance's mother, Christine, in Reno last week. Earley, who said he and his wife, a retired buyer for the Federal Bureau of Mines, have never met Miss Ford's parents, described Susan as a "down-toearth, level-headed young woman. I think they're a good match for each other. We were kind of hoping this would happen and it did. His mother is just thrilled to death.

The official engagement announcement from the Ford family here said only that the two would be a reduced charge of prostitution and was given a probated 15-day sentence and $200 fine Wednesday night.

Prosecutors dropped the more severe charges after Albert Roy Thompson Jr. pleaded guilty to the Class B misdemeanor.

Visiting District Judge Woodrow Bean ordered a competency trial for Thompson last week after the attorney was examined at Kerrville State Hospital. Two psychiatrists testified Thompson was not fit to stand trial, while a third argued he was competent. The jury took 15 minutes to find Thompson competent Wednesday evening.

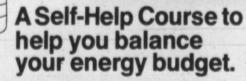

Thompson was one of six men indicted on charges alleging they compelled the prostitution of a minor child. They also were charged with rape of a child and sexual abuse of a child.

Four of the other defendants entered guilty pleas to simple prostitution charges and were fined $500 each and court costs. The fifth man was granted immunity after he agreed to testify against Thomp-

The defendants were charged after a Kerrvillearea motel operator alleged that the two young girls were being used as prostitutes. Investigators said the girls had been hitch-hiking from Florida.

Officials said one of the girls, now 14, is living with her mother in Florida. The other girl was convicted of car theft and received a probated sentence.

Congressional record said to show influence of money

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The record of the 95th Congress offers clear evidence" that this country is becoming a "special interest state" because congressional behavior can be influenced by money, according to the citizens' group Common Cause.

The self-styled citizens' lobby issued a 112-page study Wednesday which said congressional behavior is influenced by money in a variety of ways, including campaign contributions, honoraria, outside earnings, gifts and lobbying expenditures.

"While substantial campaign contributions may not actually 'buy' votes, they do ensure easy access says. "And taxpayers pay the price." to public officials and create an unhealthy atmosphere of familiarity," Common Cause said.

With perfectly legal contributions, special interests - business, agriculture, labor, maritime, lawyers and so on - 'invest' in politicians.

In 1976, the report says, special interests poured an unprecedented $22.6 million into congressional campaigns, nearly double the $12.5 million they 'invest-

Youths building homes

FREDERICK, Md. (AP) - Some people may think that 17-yearold Charlie Watson is too young to supervise the construction of a house. But a builder here has given him just that chance.

Watson is among 125 students at the Frederick County Vocational Technical Center who will eventually participate in the various phases of building the house.

With the help of Ryan Homes, Inc., a national homebuilder, the students are getting practical on-the-job experience in house construction.

A non-profit association formed by the school - The Frederick County Students Construction Trade Foundation, Inc., purchased the house package through Ryan at the builder's cost, said Chris Clore, a Ryan production manager.

"We arranged for them to buy a lot from Land Development Associates at our cost, but LDA picked up the closing costs," Clore said.
"They wanted to build it from the foundation up. So we built the foundation on a fee basis ... pretty near our costs." After the foundation was completed, a carpentry crew of about 15 students took over. That was toward the end of September, and since then they've been working on the house two hours a day.

Watson and Doug Hert, 17, both of whom had some experience in house construction, are the student supervisors of the carpentry phase of the project.

"Most of the guys don't know what's going on," Watson said. "We tell them what to do. We take them step by step.

The students follow the plans of the house and sometimes enlist the aid of their teacher, Don Marshall, and Ryans' job superintendents. Clore said its a lot like "putting puzzle together.

While some may scoff at the thought of buying a house built by students, Watson said: "I think the house will be built just as well. We're just taking a not more time.'

"We're following the same methods as Ryan, we're just taking longer," Hert said.

Marshall agreed, saying: "It will be built just as good or better as other homes because we're paying close attention to Clore, who said he thought the quality of the house would be "terrific," added that the Ryan supervisors overseeing the housing development stop by periodically to check on the progress of the house and see if the students have encountered any problems.

The carpentry students are not totally alien to what the house will be like when fin-Ished. Last year, they built a small-scale structural model of the house 'to give them an idea of the dimension of it," Marshall said.

After the carpentry class has the house under roof, the electrical class will take over. Under the supervision of David Stumpf, a registered electrician and their teacher, they will design the electrical plans for the house and wire it.

Other classes, including masonary, heating and air conditioning, and distributive education, will also do their part in the project.

A subcontractor who works for Ryan will do the plumbing, because of permit problems, Clore said.

He added that the teengers probably will finsh the house "in the spring ... April or May." And when the house is completed, it will be sold, with the profits will be out back into the foun-dation for next year's housing project.

Deadwood Yankees pack their bags

By FRED ROTHENBERG

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Blair was stumbling around the New York Yankees' champagne-soaked locker room shouting to no one in particular: 'Am I still here? I'm supposed to be Big Cliff Johnson watched Tuesday night's Yankee victory celebration while perched atop his locker. He seemed very far away.

Few people expect Blair or Johnson to be part of the 1979 Yankees, who will go after their fourth straight American League pennant and their third consecutive World Series title. As reserves, Blair is too good and

Johnson is not good enough. Blair, the classy center field, will replortedly be dispatched to Texas. The Yanks will also send along some big bucks and get in return young outfielder Juan Beniquez and relief pitcher Paul Mirabella.

AT 33, Blair still marketable, so the Yanks, always looking ahead, will opt for the younger players. Johnson, meanwhile, was deadwood on this championship Yankee team and wants out.

"I'm gone," he says to anyone who will listen. Johnson is one of many Yanks who had said over the past few wacky years, "Get me out of here." The big names on the list have included Reggie Jackson, Thurman Mun-son, Graig Nettles, Mickey Rivers, Roy White, Sparky Lyle, and Ed Fi-

But owner George Steinbrenner, who has re-established the pride and winning tradition of the Yankees since buying the club in 1973, won't give up something for nothing. Baseball observers feel all the malcontents on the list, except Lyle and Rivers, will be wearing Yankee uniforms next season.

The acquisition of Beniquez would make Rivers expendable. A superb talent, Rivers' temperamental play and constant harping about money have soured the Yanks on him.

MEANWHILE, LYLE, the 1977 Cy Young Award winner, was convinced he could not share bullpen duties with Roch Gossage, who signed as a free agent after the 1977 season.

Whether Lyle psyched himself into a bad season or whether he really became ineffective because of his infrequent work is a chicken-or-egg question. But Steinbrenner intimates Lyle won't be here in '79.

'Sparky has a lot of good baseball left," the energetic owner said. "Billy Martin thought he could use both of them (Lyle and Goaasage), but he found out it only fouled things up."

Martin resignd under fire at midseason of this miraculous comebackyear and then was rehired to manage in 1980. Bob Lemon, Martin's replacement on the field, will become Yankee general manager in 1980, even though his steady hand has been credited with allowing the Yanks to win their 22nd World Championship, beating the Dodgers 4-2 in the 75th Series.

"NOTHING'S changed on the Martin-Lemon situation," said Steinbrenner, who added that Munson will be back and intimated that Figueroa would be pitching to him.

"Thurman ain't going nowhere. He likes New York. He wouldn't be happy unless he was griping. And Figgy is a 20-game winner (although a post-sea-son bust). How many of those are Steinbrenner has built the Yanks with lots of hard cash, buying value able free agents Jackson, Gossage, Hunter, and the oft-injured Don Gullett, one of the best pitchers in the game when he is healthy. With the free-agent market practically bare this year, the Yanks will not do any real shopping, relying on their farm system, which has been pumped full of life with Steinbrenner's cash. But that doesn't mean the Yankees will stand still.

"No way. The guy who stays with a pat hand gets beat," Steinbrenner said. "We've got enough great kids in our minor league system to feed the team with stars for years. I don't want to say this is the start of a dynasty, no - but we're solid for the future, believe me."

THEN STEINBRENNER mentioned Ken Clay, "our righthander of the future," who saw limited action with the Yankees this season. With 25-game winner Ron Guidry, Figueroa, World Series rookie winner Jim Beattie, and the hope for a return of Gullett, the Yanks' starting staff looks solid.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - Many New York Yankees supporters waited for over three hours just to catch a glimpse of the returning world champions. But because of the overeagerness of the crowd, some of them just Over 5,000 fans turned out at Newark International Airport Wednesday night to welcome the Yankees home. But the crowd, orderly at first, soon grew overanxious and impatient.

Barriers set up to restrain the fans from the arriving team were knocked down, and police were powerless to stem the tide of people as it streamed into the area where the plane was supposed to stop, forcing authorities to temporarily close the airport.

THE CROWD refused to listen to the pleas of airport police: "Everybody must move back. You're in an active aircraft landing area.'

When that didn't work, a fire truck was brought to the scene, soaking the crowd for 30 seconds. But they got the message this time and moved back. While this was going on, the Yankees were completing the four-hour flight from Los Angeles, where Tuesday night they became the first team in baseball history to win four straight World Series games after dropping the first two.

Airport scenes are very familiar to most of the Yankees. A year ago, after clinching the American League title against Kansas City, the Yankees were mobbed by adoring fans as they made their way through the ter-

This year, however, things were a bit easier. The Yankees' plane landed out of sight of the fans, and three buses went out to meet it. The Yankees were whisked away without the knowledge of the fans, who were told by authorities that the plane hadn't landed or it was being rerouted to LaGuardia Airport in New York City. Nobody knew what to believe.

"THIS IS no way to treat Yankee fans," snapped one angry man.

Said another fan: "This is exciting, but very disappointing. There's such confusion. People on the runway, typical New York fans. If people didn't act like animals, this wouldn't happen. There's got to be a better way. For something as big and great as they've done, the fans should be able to see them.

Airport officials said they had the situation totally under control.

"I ordered the hose to be put on the crowd when they surged forward," said John Dickerson, the general manager of New Jersey Airports for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey. "It changed the mood the crowd

'The situation was under control all the time," Dickerson continued. "We

NL wins exhibitions, AL wins money games

It's a familiar story. The National League wins those mid-summer exhibition games and the American League wins those money-on-theline games in the fall.

Maybe that's why you somehow got the feeling that when the Yankees beat the Red Sox in that one game American League playoff, the rest would be just window dressing. The world champion had already been decided. Comments by Yankee players conveyed the same impression.

Perhaps it was because the divisional playoffs are beginning to resemble necessary evils between first and second division winners, New York has deflated Kansas City with such regularity and the Phillies opposition is little more than token. Even supporters of the Royals and Philles accept the inevitable with stoicism.

Perhaps, the first division vs. second division is unfair, but think about it. If Kansas City were in the American Leegue East, who would they have beaten out, Toronto, Cleveland...maybe Baltimore? And if the Phils were in the National West, after Atlanta and Houston, what then, San

AND OUTSIDE of Yankee and Dodgers fans, a rematch of last year's dull series (except for Reggie's last game heroics), wasn't the kind of rematch the free world was exactly screaming for. But we're probably prejudiced by the memory of the 1975 Cincinnati-Boston series.

The American League has won five of the last seven series and seven of the last 11 and in two of those the National League victory was classified as a startling defiance of form.

The Dodgers have won two NL pennants in a row, but it only serves to emphasize the mystifying decline

the fragile difference between a great

THIS WAS the eighth time the Yankees have beaten the Dodgers in Series play and that out to be convincing enough for permanent possession

The Dodgers seemed to be dogged by disasters in their jousts with the Yankees and the throw that hit Reggie Jackson in the fourth game carried the same impact of Hugh Casey's 'game-ending third strike to Tommy Henrich" the one that eluded catcher Mickey Owens. Henrich reached first and before the inning ended the Yankees had pulled it out with a spirit-breaking rally. Instead of being all even at 2-2, the Dodgers were down 3-1 and it was all over but the champagne baths.

SATURDAY JACKSON was hit by an apparent double play throw, causing a deflection that permitted the tying run to score. They Yankees went on to win and tie up the Series at 2-2. There's no question the one play flip-flopped the Series momentum. Would a Dodger team leading in games 3-1, playing without pressure, come unravelled as they did Sun-

On shortstop Bill Russell's throw to first after the force at second, it seemed as though Jackson leaned into the ball, a smart play. If caught the worst that could have happened would be that he would have been called out for interference. Russell probably should have thrown high and hard to give Jackson an option of ducking or getting hit and hurt.

Umpire Frank Pulli didn't have the benefit of the TV replay and called it as he saw it. That's understandable. It's his explanation that leaves us hanging. After the force at second by Russell, Pulli said it looked to him like Jackson was just trying to return to first. If Reggie was already out, why would he return to first, if it wasn't for the specific purpose of deliberately trying to confuse

Erxleben's punting has Steer fans biting nails

By JACK KEEVER AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - With a crucial Southwest Conference game against Arkansas coming up Saturday, Texas Longhorns fans are apparently getting anxious about the punting of Russell Erxleben.

Erxleben was the NCAA punting champion as a sophomore with an average of 46.6 yards and would have tied for the top spot last year, but he didn't get to kick enough for his 45.9yard average to qualify.

This year, however, Erxleben kicked for just over 37 yards a punt in Texas' 31-10 loss to Oklahoma and last week had punts of 22 and 28 yards and dropped a perfect snap in the end zone, which cost Texas a safety against North Texas State.

He is averaging 41.5 yards a punt, the same as Arkansas punter Bruce Lahay, which ties for third in the

In other comments at the film showing of Texas' 26-16 victory over North Texas, Akers said the running backs of Arkansas and No. 1 Oklahoma "are very much alike, but Arkansas has more of them.'

Oklahoma is the only team to beat the eighth-ranked Longhorns in five games, and No.3 Arkansas is 4-0.

In addition, wide receiver Johnny "Lam" Jones bruised his shoulder last week, but Akers said he sould play Saturday. Johnnie Johnson, who missed the North Texas game with a pulled muscle, also will resume his duties as safety and punt returner.

"We're probably healthier than we've been for three weeks," said Akers, but he disclosed that secondteam offensive tackle John Tobolka apparently will miss the remainder of the season with a knee injury.

Expos shake up front office

MONTREAL (AP) - The Montreal Expos shook up their front office Wednesday, relieving General Manager Charlie Fox of his current duties and making him director of the National League team's major league scouting program.

President John McHale will take over the general manager's duties, while Gene Kirby, formerly a vice-president of the American League's Boston Red Sox and the Expos travelling secretary in their first two seasons, returns to the team as an administrative assistant for player relations.

Scouting director Danny Menendez will take on additional duties as McHale's assistant, the team said in a statement.

Fox, a former manager of the San Francisco Giants and manager of the Expos from Sept. 4, 1976 until the end of that season after Karl Kuehl was fired, was given the title "vice-president, baseballgeneral manager" on Oct. 5, 1976, when General Manager Jim Fanning was put in charge of the team's minor league system. The Expos had a 76-86 record in 1978 after expectations of much better things in their 10th season. Fox, 57, was involved in a clubhouse altercation with pitcher Steve Rogers on July 20 and punched the star right-hander, who is the Expos players' representative. Rogers had intervened when Fox berated shortstop Chris Speier for a lack of aggressiveness at

"They had trouble getting their own team to the dugout," he said. "We had to weigh the mood of the crowd against the circumstances. We moved the plane, got the buses out there, and they were gone."

One policeman, who refused to be identified, said: "The Port Authority is too cheap to hire enough police. They only put 15 officers on duty.' Dickerson said, however, that a total of 35 men were on duty. The Yankees departed the airport for a hotel in Hasbrouck Heights, N.J., where many of them live during the baseball season.

"I THOUGHt we would ride by the crowd. After last year, we knew we wouldn't be walking through the terminal," said New York first baseman Jim Spencer, a member of the Chicago White Sox a year ago. "There really wasn't much discussion about what happened among the players." At the hotel, fans were gathered for a little star gazing. One teenage coed longed for Yankees shortstop Bucky Dent, voted the most valuable player in the series. "He's gorgeous," she said to a friend. "You don't think so? You must

Real season arrives and everybody starts out even

By STEVE O'BRIEN R-T Sports Writer

Some people call it the "real" season. It's that point in a season when records and statistics are thrown to the wind. From here on out it doesn't make any difference if a team is 6-0 or 0-6. Last week is history and next week is just too far away to think

The "real" season is, of course, the district season when teams are playing for all the marbles - a playoff berth. There are no tomorrows and all the yesterdays become little more than something to casually discuss over a cup of coffee in the months to come. It is the time, as coaches like to philosophize, for "taking them one at

DISTRICT WARFARE unveils in four of six area districts Friday, District 2-AAA, 3-AAA, 6-A and 9-A, and, to use a well-worn sports axiom, records become meaningless when these crucial battles start cropping up.

It's not that all those weeks of nondistrict battles don't count for anything - far from it in fact. Records can say a lot about two team's relative strenghts and weaknesses. But, they can also be very misleading.

CASE IN POINT - District 5-A. League action there is already heading into its third week. The Stanton Buffaloes entered district action with a 1-2 slate while Shallowater came in with a clean 3-0 mark. Two weeks later the Buffaloes are riding high with a 3-2 record and 2-0 mark which ties them with Seagraves for first in the league. Meanwhile Shallowater dropped its two loop encounters and is now mired at the bottom of the league standings.

After posting a dismal 1-5 mark in non-conference play, Lamesa is hoping to get off on the right foot in District 3-AAA when they travel to Sweetwater. Sweetwater is also 1-5 on the season, getting in the win column for the first time last week with a mild upset of Monahans. The Mustangs won that game by a 7-2 count.

THE ANDREWS MUSTANGS have the week off as District 2-AAA play opens, but you can bet they'll be keeping their eyes peeled for a couple of Friday night scores. Unbeaten and fourth-ranked Fort Stockton, fresh off a 76-0 devastation of Anthony Gadsden, N.M., hosts Monahans while Pecos, also unbeaten and ranked sixth in the state, entertains Odessa

McCamey probably wishes it had gotten an easier assignment on their first night out in District 6-A as the Badgers play host to undefeated and sixth ranked Iraan. Iraan has been unstoppable in five games, racking up 196 points while giving up only three. The lastest outing for the Braves was a 61-0 whitewash of Ozona McCamey, on the other hand, had a much less pleasant warmup for this game. The Badgers lost to Eunice,

N.M., last week, 7-0, and in the process lost quarterback Raul Arana for the season with a shoulder separa-

THE RANKIN RED Devils will wait a week before jumping into the thick of the District 6-A battle. The Red Devils, 4-1 on the season, travel to Wink for their final non-district

After a week off the Reagan County Owls are raring to go in District 9-A. The Owls, who won their first two games of the season only to drop the next three, are on the road against Menard, 1-4 on the year.

Menard was credited with its first win of the season last week when quarterback Danny Hanna lofted a 72-yard touchdown pass to Cary Rambo with 19 seconds left to beat Rankin, 14-13. The day before that game the UIL ruled that Menard had to forfeit wins over Eden and Ozona because a Yellow Jacket defensive back was found ineligible

Stanton, on top of the District 5-A charts with a 2-0 league reading, entertains Plains in round three of loop action. Plains comes into the game matching Stanton with a 3-2 season record and a 2-0 league mark.

The Crane Golden Cranes still have a couple of weeks left before they get into District 7-AA warfare and they'll host Van Horn Friday.

PRIDAY'S SCHEDULE

Badgers face Iraan sans slingshot, rocks

McCamey's District 6-A opener Friday with the awesome Iraan Braves smacks of a David and Goliath mismatch with the Badgers playing the underdog role. But, at least David had a slingshot and a couple of rocks.

The Badgers don't even have that advantage. They'll enter the game without their slingshot, quarterback Raul Arana, who suffered a season-ending shoulder separation in McCamey's 7-0 loss to Eunice, N.M., last week.

Arana, a converted running back, was injured on the game's fourth play and according to McCamey Coach Ronnie Page the junior spark plug may have to undergo surgery.

His absence will most certainly take an edge off the McCamey offense. That fact was evident in the Eunice loss. "We made 50 yards on the first four plays of the game," Page said. "Arana got hurt on the fourth play and we only made two first downs the rest of the night.'

That's bad news anytime but even worse when it comes on the eve of a contest with Iraan, unbeaten through five games and ranked sixth in the state. The Braves have been spectacular thus far, showing not only the capability to light up the scoreboard almost at will, but also the knack for flogging opposing offenses into submission.

Iraan has played five times previously and none of those contests were even close. The Braves have racked up 196 points in those five games while giving up only a meager three points. That's very near a 40 point margin each time out.

"Total balance" is how Page describes McCamey's next foe and the statistics more than supports that description. Offensively, Iraan sports their own version of Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside in running backs Martin Russell and Sammy Castaneda.Russell, at 205 pounds, is the bruiser in the Iraan running attack, picking up 457 yards and scoring five touchdowns.

Castaneda leads the team in rushing with 468 yards and the 175-pound junior has scored seven times. As a team, Iraan has rushed for 1,358 yards.

But, the Brave attack is far from one-dimensional. Page calls Iraan quarterback Johnny Rosales, "the best passer in the league." Rosales has completed 24 of 47 passes for 416 yards and seven touchdowns.

His favorite target has been tight end Mark Lang who has caught 10 passes for 190 yards and a pair of scores. Page is also unwavering in his praise of Lang. "He is the bes4t tight end in the state. Shoot, he's 6-4 and weighs 205 has good sped most valuable basketball player in this district last year as a

Defensively, Iraan has been stingier than the IRS, giving up only 113 yards per game.

"They're just super," Page said. "Out of 21 players on their varsity squad, 16 of 'em are seniors. They've got size, speed, everything. They're just exces-

"You know, sometimes you can look at a good team like that and spot a couple of weaknesses. If Iraan has any weaknesses, I can't see them.'

U.S. takes 8-stroke lead Amateur tourney

The United States, led by Bob Clampett, Scott Hoch and Jay Sigel, grabbed an 8-stroke first-round lead Wednesday in the Eisenhower Cup men's world amateur golf team championship. The U.S. trio finished the day with a 213 total. Eight strokes back were Sweden and Great Britain. Canada and Australia were another stroke behind at 222...

THE BOO-BIRDS have nested in Madison Square Garden. They were heard loud and often as the New York Knicks lost their first two NBA games. New York has looked like anything but the championship contender it was supposed to be after signing free-agent center Marvin Webster to a 5-year, $3-million contract, losing its their first two games, 111-109 to Houston and 120-109 to Seattle. Both losses came at home and in both cases it took a late New York surge to make the final score respect-

FORMER TCU football player Kent Waldrep boarded a plane bound for the Soviet Union Wednesday. Waldrep, confined to a wheelchair since a neck injury during the TCU-Alabama game four years ago, is seeking treatment at the Polenov Neurological Institute in Leningrad. He is primarily interested in the Soviets' "enzyme treatments," in which the enzyme is injected into the spinal canal to dissolve some of the scar tissue that blocks the nerves from regeneration. Waldrep, 24, admits the treatment is experimental, but he said the Soviets "have been doing it for a number of years. Naturally, they won't release a lot of information on the treatment

IT'S BEEN a tough year for Royals Manager Whitey Herzog. His Kansas City ballclub didn't want to offer him a new contract until after the playoffs, his team lost the AL Championship Series to the New York Yankees, And when he went to transplant some trees Wednesday, his equipment broke down, causing him to miss a meeting with GM Joe Burke.Herzog was hoping for better luck today, saving he planned to meet wit Burke."I haven't decided one way or another yet (on accepting Burke's contract offer)," Herzog said Wednesday night after returning from the tree transplanting expedition. "I hope we can get this thing settled soon."Herzog and Burke last met Oct. 12. The Royals have offered Herzog a one-year contract to return for a fourth season at the helm of the three-time American League West

Despite Cougars it was good week for picking

So much for last week's upset sepcial of the week! This corner made the dubious mistake of thinking that the Odessa High Bronchos would knock off Abilene Cooper in Odessa last Saturday night.

The Cougars were just too tough, plus the fact that the Red Hosses handed the Key City team three touchdowns on a silver platter.

I guess that's what I get for getting so cute.

Anyway, last week, it was still a good week overall, hitting 37 games out of a possible 44 and on the year, it stands 197 right and 49 wrong for an .803 percent-

Another tough week is on the horizion with plenty of tough games to chose from in Class AAAA circles across the state.

MIDLAND LEE travels to Abilene for a battle with the District 5-4A favorite Cougars who have bombed San Angelo and OHS to date in loop games. Jeff McCowan will be meeting headon with Cooper's Tim Orr. a 6-5, 229-pound junior, so there ought to be lots of fireworks. Lee has only beaten Cooper two times out of the last 10 years, winning 13-7 in 1976 and 16-13 in Midland last year. Going with Lee to post a 21-17 victory to remain undefeated on the vear...

MIDLAND HIGH picked up its second win of the year against Big Spring last week and will be at home Friday night against the always-speedy Abilene Eagles. Abilene gave Permian a battle for one half and still has plenty of talent. Going with the Warbirds to post a 28-13 victory over the Purple Pack in Memorial Stadium...

ODESSA PERMIAN faces winless Big Spring in W.T. Barrett Stadium and Mojo can just about name its score. The Black Cats got some people banged up pretty good in Abilene last week, and lost a starting guard with a broken ankle, but that won't make any difference Friday. Permian to take a 42-0 victory over the hapless Steers.

ODESSA HIGH still have a fine ball club, but may bne without the services of its fine tailback in Scott Catwood, who suffered a hip pointer in practice Tuesday. Still going with Coach Dick Winder's crew to down San Angelo, 27-8 in the Concho City Friday night...

Yanks up to old tricks, winning Series over Bums

Los Angeles Times Syndicate The Yankees won the World Series. And there's a cow in Texas and there's bear tracks in the woods and in Los Angeles. The ghosts of the two dozen major league teams of the past could have nodded at the Dodgers and said, "I could have told you so." Charlie Root. off whom Babe Ruth hit his calledshot home run in 1932, could have told them. The New York Giants who lost a game to the Yanks, 18-4, in 1936, could have told them so. Ernie Lombardi, who lay prone at home plate while Yankees ran across his face to win their fourth straight in 1939 could have told them so. Mickey Owen who dropped a third strike which would have been the game-ending out in 1941 and then saw the Yankees crash in four runs and a win, could have told them so.

THE YANKEES win more often than the house in Vegas. The Yankees are the house. You're bucking their wheel, playing their game, fading the hottest hands in the game.

So, now you know the Yankees won again, would you like to guess how? You lose. You probably guessed the cleanup hitter hit 3 or more home runs. The middle of the lineup pounded out a whole bunch of triples or hits off the light tower. They broke fences in centerfield and windows downtown. They stood there and pointed out home runs before they hit them, right?

Wrong. This time, for the National Leaguers, it was like being nibbled to death by your poodle, like being knocked to a pulp by Mickey Rooney, getting shot fatally by a cap pistol. When you pitch against the Yankees, you worry about the successors to Ruth, Gehrig, Mantle, DiMaggio, Dickey et al. You try to figure how to get Thurman Munson, Reggie Jackson and Lou Piniella. You certainly don't worry about those two bowlegged infielders out there, Bucky Dent and Brian Doyle. Bucky Dent is a .240 hitter. He's in the lineup for his glove. He bats ninth. Brian Doyle is in the lineup because Willie Randolph is hurt. If Willie Randolph isn't hurt, he's in Tacoma. Even with Randolph hurt, he's pla-tooned.

These two, a platooned player and a punch-hitting shortstop, got six straight hits between them in the first six innings of Game 6 Tuesday - and that made 12 hits for them in the last two games - and the Dodgers felt like the cat who got eaten by the mice, the hawk fell victim to a couple of chickens.

When Brian Doyle doubled in the first run of the game in the second inning that was - get this! - the SECOND run he had driven in in his major league career. (The first was in a playoff game at Kansas City last BIRAN DOYLE is a veteran of exactly 48 major league baseball games. He has never driven in a run in a regular season game in the majors. He is batting his weight for the regular season. That was the first extra-base hit he had ever hit against a major league pitcher.

Going into this World Series, Brian Doyle had exactly 12 major league hits, all singles. He had made about 60

You won't find Brian Doyle in the bubblegum cards; so for the record, he's somewhere between 5 and 6 feet tall, probably about midway, he's got these big blue eyes, kind of dirtyblond hair and if you were in Bowling Green, Ky., during the offseason and needed a two-pants suit, or a whiteon-white shirt or a sincere tie which said "Welcome To Kentucky, Home of the Derby" on it, Brian would sell it to you. Reggie Jackson might own half of Arizona but Brian Doyle had to hold the coat in the back and say "But, sir, it's YOU!" to make ends meet. They don't give out million-dollar contracts

Wadkins left the course and returned to his hotel as soon as he finished his round. Tournament organizers have not been able to contact him to discuss the merits of his performance.

Expressing annoyance at the Wadkins' casual attitude towards the tournament, Mason said he had telephoned Hughes Norton, vice president of Mark McCormack's International Management Group in Cleveland, Mason said that Wadkins had not even hit a practice ball since arriving in Australia and he had been told that on the back nine holes he backhanded three putts.

in Syracuse, Tacoma, Wheeling and points south.

WHEN YOU'RE a pitcher facing the Yankees, you save your best stuff for the guys whose pictures are on candy bar. When you get to the bottom of the order, you just throw strikes. You just make sure you don't walk them. They can't hit it anyway - right? Otherwise, they wouldn't be batting down there.

Both Bucky Dent and Brian Doyle agreed in the champagne sloshing after the game that they were looking at "Here, hit this, kid" pitches. "He threw us strikes, pitches to hit," they both agreed. Dodger starter Don Sutton saved the good wine for the Munsons, the Jacksons, the Whites and Lou Piniella. He figured he could dispose of Doyle and Dent on the interest, that he wouldn't have to dip into the income, the capital talent. He could run them out of the game with white chips

Dent and Doyle won the contest, the game and the Series. They got six hits, drove in five runs and scored two between them. That was more than enough to beat the Dodgers. Oh, Reggie Jackson got his home run in the seventh. But it was a meaningless gesture, a souvenir for a fan, another notch for Reggie's gun, firing a load into a man already dead.

But it doesn't matter how the Yankees do it, they just do. The manager? Bob Lemon is a swell guy but the Yankees could win with a guy whose description was lemon. They win with Miller Huggins, Joe McCarthy, Bucky Harris, Casey Stengel, Billy Martin, Ralph Houk. They win if they change managers in July. Or if they don't.

They win with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. And they win with Bobby Richardson or Brian Doyle. they win with ivy league pitchers pitching their first complete games. And they win with a 23-year-old second baseman they sent down to Tacoma three times during the season who had scored exactly six runs in his major league career prior to this World Series whereupon he proceeds to bat .438 or more than double what Ted Williams batted in a World Series.

THE NEW York Yankees didn't vote Brian Doyle a full Series cut. Shucks, they didn't even vote the manager one.

I don't think they were sure Doyle hadn't been sent for to pick up the bats or the locker room towels. Don Sutton made the same mistake. He thought the bat was just a prop. No cloak-and-suiter from Bowling Green was going to hit his curve ball out of the infield. After fanning Jackson tie after the game.

Indoctrination into Deep Sea angling rewarding to 'Texas Salt'

BY TED BATTLES

For the central Vermont brook trout fisherman of questionable skills, who for a change of pace will try Lake Champlain for northerns, lake trout, bass, muskies or even perch, it was like going from the friendly, cozy confines of Cubs Stadium to the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Deep sea fishing is an entirely different ball game. The philosphies and techniques just aren't the same for Fishing for brook trout requires a special finesse. The angler ignores the temptation to throw into the clear deep pool where the nine to 12 inchers seem to be waiting to be taken. Ever get a bite in one of those pools? Instead, he casts into the bubbling white water under a waterfall and hopes the tug on his line isn't a dead branch or a rock.

The brook trout angler is dutifully on the scene at the break of day or late in the evening. If it's over cast or even drizzling, so much the better. Apparently, time isn't that critical to the saltwater angler. In fact, it was 8 a.m. in the cottage at Sandwich and between bites of cereal, Dutch had an ear to the CB, as two scratchy voices exchanged pleasantries.

'That's the Seawitch and Aquarius," Dutch explained. "They are advising each other where the fish are. It's in code, but I've broken their

ON THE way to the docking ramp in nearby Barnstable with the 16footer in tow, Dutch informed that boat-berths run about $400 a year, "I'd like to get one, but there just aren't any available.

Dutch is an optometrist in Barre, Vt., but each weekend, Friday night, the family makes the long trek to Sandwich on the Cape and each Monday night heads back for work in Vermont. Texans think nothing of 250 miles trips, but in New England, that kind of traveling is cruel and unusual punishment. And a little mystifying when one considers the clear lakes, brooks, rivers and verdant, unspoiled mountains at the finger tips at

But then the sightings of that 70-foot monster, ah, er verified in Reader's Digest, has anglers wary of Lake Champlain, unless they are out after the REALLY big one.

It was after 10 a.m. when Dutch, the visitor from Texas, eight-year-old Dutch stands clear of those sharp teeth.

Dom and a buddy from Boston, headed out into the bay, past Buoy Six, passed the Target ship off Well Fleet in search of the fishing fleet, the striped bass and blue fish.

When the fleet was finally located, the small 16-foot craft was far enough out so that Pilgrim's monument at the end of the Cape was barely visible through the haze on the starboard and the smoke tower of the power plant on the Cape canal was discernible to port, if one stared long enough.

The fishing fleet consisted of boats in all shapes and sizes and so thick, it almost seemed as though one could have stepped from one boat to another, if they hadn't been busy crisscrossing paths.

THE CRACKLING voice of the CB informed that the crew of the charter-Aquarius was fighting off the blues and stripes with any weapons available and, not to be outdone, the Seawitch sent out an SOS for help in combating the aggressive blues.

Dutch spotted the Aquarius and altered our course to give pursuit. Everybody was catching fish but the crew from Sandwich.

Eventually, as thunderstorms moved across the neck of the Cape and obscured visibility, we broke

'She's always there," Dutch informed. "No one pays her. She does it on her own, but for the small boat she's a life saver. She knows where all the boats are and has all the up to date weather conditions.

This time, it wasn't necessary for Myrtle to tell us a storm was approaching. The shoreline had become obscured. In fact, with the compass unreliable, Dutch relied on his instinct to find shore. Of course, he was wrong, and we informed him he was going 90-degrees off course.

"If we continue in this direction, we'll be lucky if we catch a tip of Nova Scotia." he was warned by the new Salt, but Dutch was stubborn...lucki-

Through some navigational miracle, we spotted Buoy Six and Dutch CBed the cottage in Sandwich to inform Jean we were heading in.... "And, by the way, how'd you like to eat at Quantel's tonight," which is one way of informing the Mrs. that we got skunked, or close to it.

THE NEXT day we were on the water by 9 a.m., launching at Sandwich and moving between the dead trees that had been staked to mark the narrow channel through the sandbars. This time it was a crew of three. Dom's friend had to return to Boston for Sunday morning hockey practice, hockey practice in the middle of summer.

It was still foggy, so rather than wander too far off shore with a faulty compass, Dutch decided the best bet was to drop our lines over the side and fish the bottom for floun-

Within minutes, blues began breaking the water all around us. Strategy and tactics were quickly altered. Dom was the first to hook into a Blue and a battle of attrition quickly developed. It soon became a question of whether we would land the blue or lose Dom, who was holding on for dear life. It was at least 20 minutes before anyone could answer affirmatively, his repetitive, "Doesn't any one see him yet?" He became more desperate with each repitition. Dutch finally gaffed the Blue and pulled him into the boat. The crew scattered out of respect to the sharp, cutting teeth of the Blue. One reason for Dom's desperate struggle was that the blue had

DOM BROKE had the ice and soon the Blues were being hauled in as fast as they could be reeled in and with these fighting 10 to 15 pounders, it wasn't very fast.

Dutch called Jean on the CB with the good news and to inform her that we would be in early.

By noon, we had all the Blues we could handle and where once there hadn't been a boat in sight, they now were circling us like we were a wagon train in the center of an Indian raid.

Included among the scavengers was the Seawitch. As we headed back for Sandwich, someone suggested to Dutch, "I think your CB code has been broken," but by now it really

Customers donate CB signs, other decor for Hennigan's old-time country store

CATAWBA STATION, Ohio (AP) -The decor in John Henningan's country store is a montage of contemporary CB handle signs, picture postcards and early American mementos, many donated by customers.

It's been a year since he bought The Country Stop at this rural crossroads and he is determined to make a go of the one-man operation.

"This is an old-time country store," he says. "You are not after the customer's money all the time. You take the time to notice them."

And they notice him. The ominous rumble of the horn on a tractor-trailer rig is likely to shatter the country stillness at any hour.

"That's their way of waking me up," Hennigan said. "Sometimes that goes on all night." It's a trucker's signal for Hennigan to man his CB radio, one means he uses to establish a clientele.

"It takes a little bit of everything to keep the place going," Hennigan said. "I try to watch everything pennywise: I make every penny count.'

That may account for his CB radio nickname of "penny pincher."

Aside from the many gasoline and diesel pumps and ample parking lot outside, the merchandise offered inside ranges from potted plants to sandwiches and freshly cut meat.

"I open the store about 7 in the morning and close anywhere between 10 and midnight," he said. "I'm going to push longer than that if I can stand it. You've got to do it that way in order to pull it through. I get a lot of truckers who run from 12-3 a.m."

He lives in the rear of the store, sleeping near his CB base station.

When he opened the store, Hennigan designated one wall of an entryway as a graffiti board for CB names. The wall soon filled up and he started another for the same pur-

When Hennigan started he began work on a Western decor in the store, putting up murals of cowboys and Indians on the walls. This inspired one customer to give him a Jesse James poster that was put amid the decorations. Another customer sent a picture of Doc Holliday and it joined the James poster.

Railroads want to abandon tracks into fields, prairies

EDITOR'S NOTE - Long ago, the iron horse opened up America's heartland, sending tracks into the wheat fields and the prairies. But today, the railroads are abandoning those precious but unprofitable branch lines and tracks are vanishing into the wheat fields.

By ERIC NEWHOUSE

GETTYSBURG, S.D. (AP) — The brakes sighed at the prairie crossing, the 10-car train crept over sagging tracks and eased into the station. Engineer Marion Stoppelmoor blinked.

There, at the East Street Crossing, against a backdrop of one grain elevator and one water tower, he saw the Mother's Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary, the JCs, the farmers of wheat, oats, barley, alfalfa and corn, the cattlemen and the elevator and fertilizer folk.

It was last summer and Stoppelmoor had just guided the second precious train of the year over treacherous track into this town of 2,000 farmers who till the land 17 miles from the Missouri River.

"We love you," someone shouted to a stunned Stoppelmoor.

Mayor V.L. "Pete" Klein, a 72year-old retired banker who now grows chrysanthemums, said, "We got together to show Chicago and Northwestern that we want continued rail service. It's our life's blood in the Today it's not that the farmer and the cowman can't be friends; it's that the farmer and the cowman are having trouble staying friendly with the railroad man. He now wants to abandon the tracks he built into their wheat fields and ranges.

Little towns like Gettysburg depend on those rickety branch tracks that long ago pierced the prairies, opened up the midwest and still serve as arteries for the heartland's bounty. The farmers want to keep their trains.

The branch tracks are seasonal, used for hauling fertilizer and machinery in to the farmers and crops out to the marketplace. The state of South Dakota says that many lines are so dilapidated, with rotted ties and weakened trestles, that they have caused derailments and creeping trains.

The railroads say the branches are too costly to operate or repair. And so they are abandoning them throughout the midwest and leaving farmers to send cattle and crops by truck to modern terminals on the main line. There they can be mass-loaded into huge hopper cars in huge grain trains headed for Gulf ports.

For the present, the 40-mile branch between Gettysburg and Blunt is safe. But it needs so much upgrading that trains often chug along at 5 miles per

But Gettysburg can see the highways and the handwriting on the South Dakotan landscape from the Black Hills to the Big Sioux River.

Thirty percent of the state's track already has been abandoned, leaving 3,130 miles of iron.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, the Milwaukee Road and three smaller carriers want to abandon another 1,500 miles of track - about half the state's remainder.

Because it has almost exclusively branch track, South Dakota is hardest hit, but 12 other midwestern and north central states also are losing their trains.

James R. McDonald, C&N's public relations director, says that most of the track was built between 1860 and 1890, and says, "We're still living with the incredible maze of spaghetti that was laid down when railroads were a central mode of transportation. "No one supposed then that we would have such an incredible system of secondary roads.'

Lloyd Richardson, an Aberdeen, S.D., attorney for the Milwaukee Road, says, "If we have to maintain this archaic system, we won't be able to maintain even our main lines, and the government will have to come in and take us over.

But the farmers don't want to be left to the mercy of the truckers.

"There's no way that trucks could handle the load," said Charles Pearson, the miller on the Milwaukee Road. "In my three elevators alone, there's a quarter of a million bushels of grain that can't get shipped, and it's the same way up and down the

The South Dakota Transportation Department says that the doomed branch lines serve areas with the worst roads and that gigantic grain trucks will damage highways.

The iron horse is more energy efficient than the truck, says Arnie Stenseth of the department's railroad division. "If gas and oil go any higher, the trucking industry won't be able to handles the load," he says. "And someone will ask what happened to the railroads.'

The U.S. Transportation Department has proposed rail-swapping in which companies would give up competing lines serving the same area. But often both companies already wanted to abandon those lines.

One salvation could be federal aid, like the funds used to maintain 25 miles of doomed track between Redwood Falls and Sleepy Eye, Minn.

In South Dakota, the Sioux Valley Railroad Authority wants to buy 56 miles of C&N track with money from the Railroad Revitalization and Regulatory Reform Act of 1976.

But the most successful track salvation is in Iowa which works with railroads and shippers to revitalize 790 miles of rail.

The railroads say it costs $150,000 to renovate one mile of branch trackand that's too high for them to bear alone.

The FDA's Bureau of Radiologic Health has done tests with rabbits and found that low-level microwave oven radiation does not cause cataracts in them. The rabbits are used for testing because their eye is similar to the human one in size.

In a recent study, rabbits were exposed to radiation from an oven leaking at 10-12 milliwatts per square centimeter for one hour a day over a period of 12 weeks. At the end of the experiment, their eyes were as clear of cataracts as at the start.

The lowest exposure level found to cause cataracts is 180 milliwatts per square centimeter at the rate of 1 hour a day for 20 consecutive days. But FDA standards for microwave ovens limit leakage radiation to 1 milliwatt per square centimeter at the time of purchase and to 5 milliwatts over the lifetime of the oven. And of course nobody sits in front of a microwave oven for an hour a day.

To avoid any accidents with microwave ovens, the FDA has some advice to offer. Check a new oven for any shipping Never use at oven if the door does not close snugly or if it is bent or warped in any way. B-52 crash kills four

SUNNYMEAD, Calif. (AP) - A B-52 bomber crashed this morning in near March Air Force Base, killing at least four of six crewmen, officials Authorities said the plane, which had just taken off from March AFB, was not carrying nuclear weapons. Ground damage appeared slight, although one official said a structure was set on fire.

Maj. Harry Sunderland, a spokesman for the Strategic Air Command headquarters at Offutt AFB near Omaha, Neb., said four crewmen were dead, one survived and a sixth was missing. A B-52 normally carries six to eight crewmen, depending on its mission.

Sunderland said the crash occurred as the B-52D, an older model of the B-52, was on "a standard training mission."

SAC bombers are designed to carry nuclear weapons, but Sunderland said the bomber that crashed had no such weapons. "There are no nukes on such a mission," he said. March is an SAC base and three squadrons of the eight-engine B-52s are based there.

Personal incomes climb sharply cans' personal income rose $8.3 billion or 0.5 percent in September, with more than half the increase in wages and salaries, the Commerce Department said Wednsday In a good sign for the economy, the department reported that total manufacturing payrolls rose by $2 billion last month to a total of $303 billion, compared with a decline of $600 million in August.

The gains in manufacturing are important because they show employment and production are strong in the backbone industrial sector of the economy. The September gains were strongest in transportation equipment, non-electrical machinery and fabricated metals industries.

age hourly earnings accounted for most of the parvoll increases.

When income is increasing, it means Americans have more money to spend. However, the over-all gains in income this year appear to be lagging behind the rate of inflation in most months, so that the buying power of many Americans is shrinking, even though dollar income is up.

The increase in personal income for September was only slightly less than the August gain of $8.5 billion, but was below the more substantial monthly increases in income earlier in the

Artists and craftsmen to meet at Colorado City for roundup

COLORADO CITY - Artists and craftsmen from all over West Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico are expected to set up booths and displays of their works for the Sixth Annual Colorado City Railhead Arts and Crafts Roundup Oct. 28-29.

The event, so named in recognition of the city's status as a railhead for West Texas in the 1880s, will be held in and around the Mitchell County Fairgorunds off West Highway 80, said

Many of the participating artists and craftsmen attending have donated items which will be given away in drawings throughout the day. Everyone attending is asked to register in order to be elgible for the drawings. In conjunction with the event, the restored Colorado City Opera House will present a melodrama entitled, 'Lady Audley's Secret or Death in Lime Tree Walk, slated to start at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday nights. Tickets will be available at the Opera House.

Live music featuring local fiddlers and pickers will fill the air Saturday, and the Do-Si-Do Square Dance Club will entertain between 2-4 p.m. the same day

West should refuse to win the first trump trick. If declarer leads a second trump, West would win and return a third trump, limiting South to one diamond ruff in dummy.

If declarer abandoned trumps after the first round in order to ruff two diamonds in dummy, East would overruff with the nine of spades.

There may be other advantages in refusing the first trump trick, but you needn't work them out. Unless you see a reason to win the first trump trick play low and go on from there.

Adobe Oil & Gas Clorp. has announced a gas discovery in in the Cherry Canyon at its No. 9 Barstow Unit in Ward County, four miles south of Barstow.

The project, located in Adobe's 5,574-acre Barstow Deep Gas Unit, flowed on porudtion test at a daily rate of 4 million cjubic feet of gas, through a 24/64-inch choke.

The flow was from the Cherry Canyon opposite perforations from 5,957 to 6,181 feet. The flowing tubing pressure was 1,-170 pounds per square inch. Adobe owns 32 percent interest in the well. The 5,574-acre unit presently produces gas from the Fusselman at 117,000 feet, and has shut-in gas reserves in the Ellenburger below 19,000 feet.

The No. 9 Barstow unit is onehalf mile west of a recent Cherry Canyon oil discovery,.

Adlobe has contracted the Cherry Canyon gas to Trans-Western Pipeline Co. with sales to commence in the near future

Addition drilling is planned on the unit.

Egypt wants to regain it territories in the Sinai as early as possible in part to press the development of oil resourcs there. More than 20 foreign companies are now drilling for oil in Complicating the Sinai oil negotiations is the claim by Standard Oil of Indiana (Amoco) and Superior Oil Company of Houston to the same fields in the Sinai. Egypt gave concessions to Amoco in the early 1970s and Israel subsequently issued concessions to a Panamanian-registered company called Neptune for part of the same area. Neptune is effectivly controlled by Superior and a Texas independent oilman, Richard McRief.

The Neptune field is now producing between 10,000 and 20,000 barrels a day from the Alma oil field, as it is known. The oil is refined at Israel's Haifa refinery. Amoco is operated at a number of locations in Egypt, including adjoining territory in the Sinai, with a production of 130,000 barrels a day. Egypt is barely in the ranks of the major exporters and seems unlikely to achieve its 1-million-barrel-a-day 1980 export goal. Since the 1973 war, both the Egyptians and Israelis have been encouraging foreign, and in particular American, oil companies to enter into concession agreements to explore and produce oil in the Sinai region, particularly offshore. Israel is almost wholly dependent

II agreement negotiated by then-Secretary of State Henry A. Kissiner committed the United States to guaranteeing Israel's oil needs in the event it was cut off from normal supplies. Most of Israel's imports come from Iran, and smaller amounts from Mexico.

As recently as 1972, however, Israel was producing about 80,000 barrels a day from the Abu Rudais fields it occupied in the Sinai after the 1967 war. These fields were subsequently returned to Egypt after the 1974 withdrawals.

In 1976 Israel signed an agreement with Neptune, which has since found oil inside the Sinai territory still occupied by Israel.

The Egyptians have claimed that the Neptune concession area granted by Israel occupies some, if not all, of an area already given in concession to Amoco. During the fall of 1976, Israeli gun-by Amoco in the Gulf of Suez to delineate potential drilling areas. Kissinger, after meeting with Amoco officials, sent Israel a warning from the Ford administration that Washington regarded the gunboat at-boats attacked buoy markers placed tacks as provocative. Amoco and the Superior Oil officials who control Neptune have yet to come to a firm agreement on the disputed Sinai oil concessions.

Last January Egyptian Premier Mamdouh Salem said that the Egyptians would ask Israel for $2.1 billion in compensation for oil extracted from the Sinai fields during the eight years of Israeli occupation.

Arkansas voters won't be shorted federal judge has ordered the Pulaski County Election Commission to provide platforms in voting machine booths so short voters can easily reach slots for write-in candidates. Judge G. Thomas Eisele recommended Tuesday that the commission place soft drink cases in the booths, but commission members protested.

saying that might be unsafe.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - A

A case was brought to Eisele's courtroom, and he tried it out for size inside a booth. The 5-foot-10 judge said it put him in a good position to write in a name. Eisele issued the order after Jack Files, a write-in candidate for chancellor, filed a lawsuit complaining that the voting machines discriminated against short voters. The write-in slot in the machines is 5 feet, 71/2 inches above floor level.

'The Lion's Share' gives male's view of divorce

By JOHN BARBOUR

NEW YORK (AP) - For every two guys taking their vows at the altar these days, there is another running pell mell out of the jaws of matrimony.

That's the divorce rate, American style, and it is rising.

Which is what prompted J. Alan Ornstein, once divorced and now separated, to write an absolutely vindictive, arbitrary, male chauvinist, beastly, brutal and outrageously unfair book called "The Lion's Share -A Combat Manual for the Divorcing

"When they read this book, women react very strongly," Ornstein understates. "They say it isn't a fair book. It isn't intended to be a fair book."

A leading New York divorce attorney, Ornstein, 48, is an angry man. "Other guys wrote books with fancy names about divorce, but they didn't know what they were talking about," he says. "They ignored the driving force - emotion "I wrote the book because I was angry, because I was feeling pain, because I thought the stuff that had been written was stupid and guys were being misled.'

No punches pulled here. He slaps womanhood around the bedroom. He slaps the law around too. He is an advocate of male rights, a finger-pointing Clarence Darrow who knows his client has been wronged. He may be the Black Knight to women, but his armor shines for the man in the

Ornstein takes the divorcing male by the hand, gives him a pep talk, rummages through his soul to assuage his guilt, tells him how to evaluate his lawyer, tries to keep him out of hock, advises him about women past and present and future, shows him how to set up housekeeping and how to stay single so that he doesn't rebound into a marriage worse than the one he left

Naturally no woman would welcome his kind of discourse. He throws chivalry aside, refers to the woman as the canine mistress of Buchenwald, laces his narrative with epithets and aphorisms.

Men should, he says, shed the locker room training in fair play when they contemplate divorce. The woman is no longer his best friend. Divorce when it is inevitable is necessary for sanity and survival.

"We live in a world of contracts," Ornstein says. "Everyone signs contracts. But nowhere do you sign a contract that can't be modified, that you're stuck with forever, except the marriage contract.'

The woman in the case looks at the man as a pension plan, Ornstein says. "It's the horror of our whole system. There has to be an alternative to the marriage contract as we know it today.' Divorce has become a billion dollar business, Ornstein says, and he is one of the major stockholders.

"It creates the gurus of matrimony who are lawyers, and who have no more right, quite honestly, handling dirorce, than I have being a NASA astronaut."

They are not trained to handle divorce. They've taken a bunch of courses in contracts, and a course somewhere along the line in family or domestic relations, Ornstein says.

"Divorce is dreadful, gut-rending anguish and emotion. The lawyer comes out of law school and says he can handle divorce. He can handle divorce on paper. But that is not handling divorce. Handling divorce is handling people.' "What do they do?" Ornstein asks. "They get on the job training. God help the first eight or ten people they handle.'

Lawyers, he says, should be dealt out of divorce proceedings except for handling the paperwork. There should be a kind of divorce counsellor, someone who knows the economics of divorce, is sensitive to its emotions, who will act almost as an ombudsman in respect to the children. In the emotional turmoil of divorce, Ornstein says, the adversary procedure between lawyers only makes matters

Veto totals reveal

president, Congress

agreed rather well

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Carter marked the end of the 1978 congressional session with a series of vetoes and veto threats, aides produced figures that suggest he really gets along rather well with the Democratic-controlled Congress.

In his 31 months in the White House, Carter has resorted to the veto six times. By recent historical standards, that's not very many.

White House researchers came up with the following figures for other recent presidents:

John F. Kennedy, 21 vetoes in three years; Lyndon B. Johnson, 30 in five years; Richard M. Nixon, 43 in five years, and Gerald R. Ford, 66 in three

By any standard, Republican Ford emerges as King of the Veto. Of course, he wrestled with a Congress controlled by the opposition party, as If you use the White House figures to average each man's vetoes per year, you find Ford tops at 22, followed by Nixon at eight, Kennedy at seven and Johnson at six.

Who can say Carter doesn't get along with Congress, aides argue, when he has averaged a mere three vetoes per year?

Some bills, you can bet, will never get vetoed. They are the ones naming federal facilities for retiring or former members of Congress. Just last week, for example, Carter signed legislation designating:

—The Roman L. Hruska Meat Animal Research Center in Nebraska, named for that state's former Republican senator who did not seek reelection in 1976.

The Carl Hayden Bee Research Center in Tucson. Hayden, who died in 1972, represented Arizona in the House, then in the Senate from statehood in 1912 until his retirement in —The W. R. "Bob" Poage Pecan Field Station at Brownwood, Texas, in the district of a retiring House Democrat.

Carter, who has campaigned for the elimination of unnecessary boards, commissions and agencies, must wonder sometimes about the panels to which he must nominate members.

Recently, for instance, Carter signed a document formally nominating Army Col. John M. Adsit to be a member of the California Debris Commission.

The "United States Government Manual" gives no clues to the nature of this organization. It simply lists an address and phone number in Sacramento, Calif.

Sam Donaldson, White House correspondent for ABC News, has been jousting with the president's mother, Miss Lillian, for more than two years.

All in good fun.
When Miss Lillian s howed up for a recent news conference, he challenged her with, "Haive you got a press pass?"

Unruffled, she retort ed, "If you can get one I know I can."

When Lew Wasserman, entertainment magnate and contributor to Democratic candidates, followed them back from Camp David, Md., without passengers last week, it was a different story.

The bodyguard-drivers, knowing that a U.S. Park Police cruiser would be making a high-speed run over the same route, fell in behind the cruiser and sailed down Interstate 270 at about 70 miles an hour, with the cruiser flashing red warning Lights whenever traffic intervened.

A Secret Service spoke sman said the drivers simply "wanted to get

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices lost more ground today after failing in an early bid to rebound from the slide of the past three sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up about a point in the early going, was off 5.20 at 854.47 by noontime today. The average had fallen 37.42 points in the last three trading days.

Losers outpaced gainers by about a 4-3 margin among New York Stock Exchangelisted issues.

Talk of higher interest rates persisted following evidence Wednesday that the Federal Reserve was moving to tighten credit fur-British Petroleum topped the active list, off 1/8 at 17 1/4. A 308,000-share block traded

Point-plus losers among the glamors included International Business Machines, offd Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, off 1 at 58%. The NYSE's composite common-stock index dropped .20 to 56.20. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .50 at 160.09.

Volume on the Big Board set a moderate pace, totaling 11.74 million shares at noontime against 13.89 million at the same point Wednesday.

Rhodesian forces attack headquarters

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - Rhodesian forces attacked guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo's military headquarters 12 miles north of the Zambian capital of Lusaka today while other Rhodesian soldiers fought Robert Mugabe's forces 50 miles inside Mo-

Zambian Radio said the attack was "repulsed by gallant Zambian forces.' A Rhodesian army communique said Rhodesian troops attacked the headquarters of Nkomo's Zimbabwe African People's Union "from which terrorist operations ... are planned and have been launched against Rhodesia.

It said the troops were returning to their bases from the raid some 90 miles inside Zambia but gave no other details. The Zambian government said Rhodesian warplanes began bombing the guerrilla camp at 8:30 a.m., and Zambian troops and ambulances were rushed to the site. Casualties were believed to be heavy, a dispatch from Lusaka said. It reported the bombing was felt in the shantytowns surrounding Lusaka, some of which were damaged by the impact of the explosions.

The road to the camp was reported crowded with vehicles taking dead and wounded to Lusaka's University Teaching Hospital. There was no immediate comment from Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda, who earlier this month reopened the Zambian-Rhodesian border so imports could travel from South Africa and Mozambique across Rhodesia to his land-locked country. The attack was the third major raid into Zambia which Rhodesian forces have admitted since Nkomo's and Mugabe's two guerrilla forces began their war against white rule six years ago. More than 10 cross-border attacks have been made against Mugabe's guerrilla forces in base camps in Mozambique, to the east of Rhodesia. Zambia is on Rhodesia's northwest border.

On Wednesday, the Rhodesian military announced their second major attack within four weeks against the bases in Mozambique. Rhodesian troops were still fighting in Mozambique today, military sources said, but there has been no report of what they have Nkomo is believed to have up to 10,000 guerrillas in camps in Zambia and Angola, while Mugabe has some 15,000 in Mozambique and 8,000 more operating inside Rhodesia.

The Zambian raid came on the eve of talks in Washington between U.S. and British officials and Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith. The British. and American governments are trying to get Smith, Nkomo and Mugabe to open negotiations to form a government uniting all factions.

Warheads to be shipped to Texas weapons plant

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) - Mass production of plutonium components for neutron warheads probably will begin soon at the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant northwest of Denver, a plant official said on Thursday.

The plant, owned by the federal government and operated by Rockwell International, is the only facility in the country for making the plutonium parts essential to modern nuclear weapons. James Nicks, the Department of Energy's assistant area manager at the plant said authorization to begin mass production of plutonium parts of neutron bombs can be expected in the wake of President Carter's decision to produce those parts essential to neutron warheads. Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, announced Wednesday that the president had ordered the production of the crucial elements of neutron warheads, but did not order that they be assembled and deployed.

Nicks said the production of neutron-warhead components "will be a matter of diverting present resources to that system." The plant produces the plutonium components for a certain mix of nuclear weapons, he explained, and that mix will be changed to meet the requirements of Carter's decision."

The components produced at Rocky Flats, which is located 17 miles northwest of Denver, will be shipped to the Department of Energy's Pantex Plant in Amarillo, Texas, Nicks said.

Rocky Flats officials said in July 1977 that Rocky Flats had produced the plutonium components of neutron warheads for underground tests conducted Nicks said the production of neutron-warhead components will have no appreciable effect on the weapons-production rate or size of the work force at Employment has increased from 2,800 persons to 3,100 persons over the past 15 months "because of a general over-all increase in the production rate" at the plant, he said. The neutron weapon most frequently discussed by U.S. officials would be a small warhead that could be placed on Lance missiles and 8-inch artillery

Neutron weapons are designed to produce twice the deadly radiation of a conventional nuclear bomb but less than one-tenth the explosive power. They are designed to kill enemy soldiers without causing widespread destruction of property.

Billie Sol Estes pleads guilty to three charges

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -Paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes has traded a guilty plea on three charges for a list of assurances from federal prosecutors, but whether or not the plea bargain agreement takes effect is still up to the U.S. Parole Commis-

Court records show Estes entered a guilty plea Wednesday to charges of conspiracy to evade federal income tax and mail and wire fraud as part of the agreement.

One of the assurances Estes got in the trade allows him to withdraw his guilty plea if the commission revokes his earlier parole before the date on which he would begin serving a sentence on the recent charges.

If the commission allows Estes to remain on parole until that date, the deal will stand. The charges carry a maximum penalty of five years in

Puerto Rico battling for culture

By BEATRIZ RUIZ DE LA MATA

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - Despite a government-claimed rise in sentiment to make Puerto Rico the 51st U.S. state, this Caribbean island of 3.5 million remains torn between its Hispanic traditions and the American dream of an affluent society.

The conflict underlies the question of political status, a perennial debate involving proponents of the present commonwealth status, statehood and independence. The island has been a U.S. commonwealth, maintaining its Spanish language and selfgovernment, since 1952.

The 80-year relationship with the United States has not erased 400 years of Hispanic culture and Spain is still referred to, as it is in the rest of Spanish America, as the "mother country." The cultural clash has created conflicts involving language, entertainment, education, religion, sexual mores and family life.

THE UNRESOLVED QUESTION is how much Americanization Puerto Rico can take without losing its historic and cultural identity. And, people ask, will it be worth it?

Goy. Carlos Romero Barcelo, who favors statehood, was echoing a popular feeling when he addressed the United Nations Decolonization Committee in New York recently, saying in Spanish: "For more than four centuries Spanish has been the first language of the people of Puerto Rico. It will continue to be our first language, regardless of the changes we make in our political status."

His statement sparked a reply from Ruben Berrios, the Yale- and Oxford-educated president of the Puerto Rican Independence Party: "What the governor did not say was that for 40 years in the Puerto Rican public schools, arithmetic, science and all other subjects were taught in English to a people who did not know then, as they do not know now, En-

PUERTO RICO WAS CEDED to the United States in 1898 at the end of the Spanish-American War. As a commonwealth it shares a common currency, citizenship and defense with the United States. Puerto Ricans elect their own government, but cannot vote in U.S. presidential elections unless they reside in the mainland.

In a 1967 plebsicite voters picked commonwealth status as the formula they wanted. Statehood came in second and independence a distant third. Gov. Romero has pledged to hold another plebiscite in 1981 if he is re-elected in 1980 and predicts statehood will win

Chases for whom every big-city telephone books Commonwealth and independence advocates argue that statehood would mean the end of Puerto Rican culture and its Spanish language. Dr. Arturo. Morales Carrion, a former deputy assistant secretary of state during the Kennedy administration in Washington, says that before commonwealth, "there was an attempt to corrupt the language. The existing institutions had to be transformed into a carbon copy of those in the United States."

He drew a parallel between the proposed plebiscite here and the one in Quebec scheduled for 1980. Puerto Ricans and French-Canadians, he said, are trying to retain their identities in an English-speak-

'Christmas is the only time of the year in which you find genuine Puerto Rican food," she said. "The rest of the time we eat like Americans.

"The young people are American even in their way of dressing. They go around half naked."

U.S. Protestant churches have sprouted on an essentially Roman Catholic island. The Protestant Evangelical Council says its practicing members number almost half a million.

"In Spanish colonial times, when a peasant went 'Did you bring a recommendation from your parish priest? Do you know the Hail Mary and the Our Father?' If he didn't he was sent back home until he learned them or starved to death." said Jose Roses Perello, 82. "Now as long as you know your job nobody asks you anything. That's what the Americans brought with them.'

NOT EVERYONE SHARES his feelings.

A sociologist, Hector Estades, said: "At least the Spaniards left us inserted in the Latin American world. When the Americans leave, there will be nothing to remember them by.'

Estades argues that the Americans only taught the Puerto Ricans some technical skills, which he said they would have learned anyhow and which are common to all technological societies.

"From a creative viewpoint, the relationship has strengthened our cultural defenses. We have found we belong to ourselves and to no one else," said Pablo Cabrera, a theater director who lives in New York but returns each summer to direct Puerto Rican plays.

Folk singers, such as Lucecita and El Topo, lead in popularity with songs that stress a nationalistic

The confusion extends to television. The local office of a major New York advertising agency gained wide acceptance and a host of imitators by running a commercial portraying a 19-century Puerto Rican wedding. It depicted a pastoral society in which the traditional concepts of family, modesty and respect were highly valued.

Other advertisers have since turned to local themes to sell everything from furniture to deodorant, doing away with the once popular backdrops of ski-lodges, middle-America scenes and New York City streets.

BUT WHILE THOUSANDS FOLLOW a primetime soap opera featuring a poor but honest Puerto Rican girl, the government television network has looking for a job the first thing he was asked was, turned almost exclusively to all-English programming after 9 p.m.

> "A great number of people prefer the Englishspeaking programs," said Dr. Elsie Calero, the public network executive director.

She described her station's audience as middleclass professionals with intellectual interests apd who are more selective in their viewing habits and have total command of both English and Spanish.

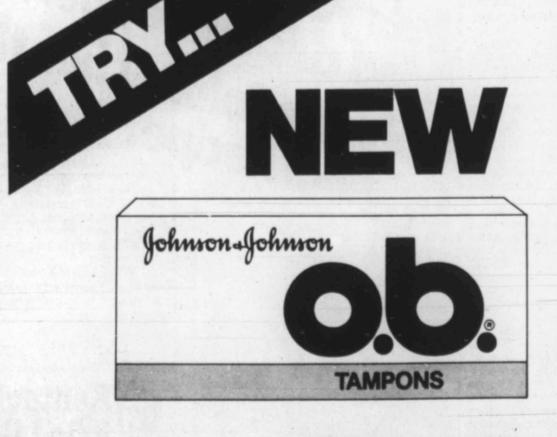

While prime-time television viewing is almost blanketed with U.S.-produced shows, the works of Latin American writers are eagerly sought by university students and intellectuals.

RICARDO LEGRIA, WHO FOUNDED the Institute of Culture in 1952, says the current emphasis on historial links with Latin America is still inade-

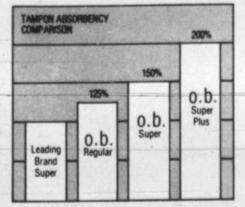

"It is necessary to make the other Caribbean nations realize that Puerto Rico is also part of the Caribbean," said Alegria. "Due to our political situation for the last 80 years, sometimes we are looked upon as if we were outside the Caribbean cultural scene.'

Despite soaring housing prices and interest Prospects for peace improving

WASHINGTON (AP) - The prospects for direct peace talks between Rhodesia's warring political factions are apparently improving.

A senior U.S. official, asking to remain anonymous, told reporters Wednesday that Rhodesian guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe have "certainly not ruled out" participation in such a conference.

Combined with recent statements by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith that he would be willing to attend an all-parties conference without preconditions, the statements by the guerrilla leaders brightened prospects for direct negotiations.

After Smith had threatened to "liquidate" the rebel forces a month ago, Nkomo declared the idea of an all-parties conference was "dead and buried."

Meanwhile, Smith, who is touring the United States trying to drum up support for his own internal settlement plan, is due here Friday to clarify his position on the question of an all-parties confer-

Smith met last week with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance in a session both sides described as a standoff. But Smith later told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he had no objection to direct peace talks without preconditions.

The State Department then invited Smith back to Washington to clear up the apparent misunderstanding. Smith, though, said that he has not changed his position, but that Vance misinterpreted him.

Smith is accompanied on his U.S. tour by the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, a black member of Rhodesia's Executive Council. The other two black members, Bishop Abel Muzorewa and Chief Jeremiah Chirau, arrived here late last week and will attend Friday's meeting at the State Department.

David Newsom, U.S. undersecretary of state for political affairs, will head the U.S. delegation at the meeting. Great Britain, which has joined the United States in trying to arrange an all-parties conference, also will participate.

Firestone may recall radial tires

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government hopes to announce soon whether it has reached an agreement with the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. for the voluntarily recall of an estimated 9 million As a result, they are Firestone 500 steel-belted radial tires, a government

> The Washington Post reported in Thursday editions that an agreement had been reached.

> But Bob Boaz, spokesman for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, declined to comment on details of the report. He said, though, "As of today (Wednesday) we have no agreement or announcement. We hope to have an announcement tomorrow (Thursday).

> The Post reported that major issues have been resolved but an announcement has been delayed pending the resolution of some details

> The newspaper said the NHTSA agreed to waive any penalties against Firestone that would have been imposed in a mandatory recall. It also said the recall could cost Firestone as much as $100 million before the company deducts losses related to the recall from taxes. According to the newspaper, the agreement calls for Firestone to replace, free of charge, every model 500 steel-belted radial tire still on the road that had been manufactured between Sept. 1, 1975, and May 1, 1976. It is unclear whether proof of purchase will be required, The Post said.

Although 9 million tires would be recalled under the reported agreement, there are an estimated 12 million of the tires still in use. The safety of the tire was officially questioned by the NHTSA three months ago and hearings were held two months ago, when witnesses told of tire failures. The tires are no longer sold. Firestone has steadfastly maintained that the tires

Consumer activist Ralph Nader has also said the tires are defective and unsafe, and he has attacked the government for negotiating with Firestone over a possible voluntary recall of the tires.

Traffic victim identified

LAKEVILLE, Ind. (AP) - A woman struck and killed by a pickup truck in northern Indiana last weekend has been identified as a Texas woman who police said had been hitchhiking around the country

St. Joseph County Police Chief Lester Myers said the woman was Theresa Jean Brandt, 48, Dallas. Myers said positive identification was made through FBI fingerprint charts.

Police contacted more than 20 law enforcement agencies throughout Canada and the eastern United States in an effort to identify the woman.

When you buy a used car, what else do you get besides the car?

In a good restaurant, when you buy a dinner, you get more than just food. You get service, a pleasant atmosphere, and a feeling that the owners would like you to come back.

It's the very same way that we like to sell used cars. Since our reputation is more "on the line" when we sell a used car, you can be sure we'll do everything we can to make our used car customer a satisfied customer.

Texas Renaissance Festival a medieval Woodstock for the entire family

By MICHAEL O'CONNOR

MAGNOLIA, Texas (AP) - Come to the revel, m'lords and ladies, and bury your cares 'neath a sumptuous repast for the body and soul. Such is the promise of the Texas Renaissance Festival, a medieval Woodstock for the family in the midst of the East Texas piney woods. It's a sensuous conglomeration of feasting and festival patterned after the fairs held in Italy, France and England between the 13th and 16th

Here, peasant and noble alike can partake of a hearty cup of mead and gnaw on a turkey leg while feasting their eyes upon the sensual delights of belly dancers or gypsy terpsichore.

The entertainment ranges from magic, mime and mock battlers to singing, Shakespeare and Scottish bagpipes.

A variety of acts run continuously on the stages of three theaters on the 150-acre grounds, while street entertainers perform for those meandering past, and stopping occasionally to inspect, the many arts and crafts displayed in buildings and booths lining tree-shaded lanes

Particularly large crowds were awed and amused by the antics of Jim Ridgley, a tightrope walker and juggler from Los Angeles.

There are six or seven of these fairs around the country at various times during the spring, summer and fall, and I travel from one to the other," he said. "In the winter, I go back home to practice and do street entertaining."

Ridgley said he usually is paid a small salary by the festival promoters, but supplements his income by passing the hat after each performance. It invariably was filled almost to the brim by the appreciative tury moniker of Bill Palmer.

'There are about 1,200 actors working at the festival," he said. "Over half live here during the festivities, and the rest of us have to go back to real jobs in Houston.'

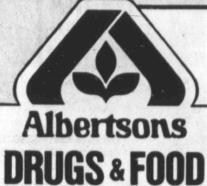

Palmer said the number of visitors to the festival, which runs each weekend in October and the first weekend in November, ranges from 10,000-15,-000 on Saturday and 20,000-25,000 on

The immense popularity of the festival, which is 45 miles northwest of Houston, brought with it that old nemesis of the Houstonian — the traffic

Getting into the festival grounds meant a wait of about 30 minutes in a line of cars that ran for miles. But the line ran smoothly, and there was plenty of free parking.

The Master of the Revels said they were trying to make the Texas festival as much a duplicate of the original as possible.
