Consumers lose ground

By MICHAEL DOAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers lost more ground to inflation in September as prices increased 0.8 percent, the Labor Department said today.

Prices of gasoline, housing and school tuition costs all climbed markedly. Food prices rose 0.5 percent after two months of stability, the department said

The average worker's purchasing power dropped 9.3 percent during September, the fifth decline this year, the report said. That meant most workers' wage increases had been eaten up by inflation.

The September price increase would average out to about 10 percent a year if it continued for 12 months The inflation rate for the first nine months of the year was 9.6 percent, the department said.

President Carter announced a new anti-inflation program Tuesday night.

Officials say inflation should be somewhat more than 8 percent for the year, but they are hoping the new program will get it down eventually to no more than 6 to 6.5 percent.

Although food prices rose in September, the monthly report indicated that inflation is distributed over the entire economy.

The cost of owning a home jumped 1.3 percent and the price of rent went up 0.8 percent, both the biggest increases of the year.

Home purchase prices rose 1.6 percent and home mortgage costs rose rapidly. The cost of fuel oil and furniture went up, but the cost of home

NEW YORK (AP) - The rabies death of an Idaho woman appears to be the second case in medical history in which a deadly virus has been transmitted through the most common of transplants — a new cornea.

York City practice includes about a dozen cornea transplants a year. The first case of a virus being transmitted in a cornea transplant was disclosed here three years ago by doctors at Columbia University. They said a woman died of an obscure, slow-acting nerve virus known as Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, apparently caught two years earlier when she received a cornea from a New York man who was later found to have died of the disease.

Eye surgeons acknowledged there is no practical way to spot rabies or many other fatal viruses in a donated cornea if diseases go undetected in the donor.

The cornea, the outer lens of the eye, has become the most popular tissue for transplant because it is not rejected by the recipient's natural disease defenses, the way body organs are.

More than 10,000 corneas were transplanted in the United States last year, compared with 3,902 kidneys, the second most common transplant. Eye banks, the brokers of the cornea business, check the donor's health history and test both the cornea and eyeball for disease. But tests cannot spot viruses like rabies which are too small to see with a microscope and do not show up on bacterial

"We are very careful to determine the cause of death. You wouldn't use a cornea from a patient that died of hepatitis, leukemia or malignant cancer." said Dr. John Harris, head of Ophthalmology at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. "Rather than take a chance, you just don't use

The same rule applies in organ transplants. Vernon Knight, chairman of Microbiology and Immunology at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, said standard practice was to discard an organ from a donor who was even suspected of being sick.

Whalen stop order in force for 3 weeks

By MARK VOGLER R-T Staff Writer

AUSTIN - A forced shutdown of brine disposal operations at Whalen Lake in Andrews County, initiated Monday by a Texas Railroad Commission order, will last for at least three weeks, according to the commission's senior examiner, James B.

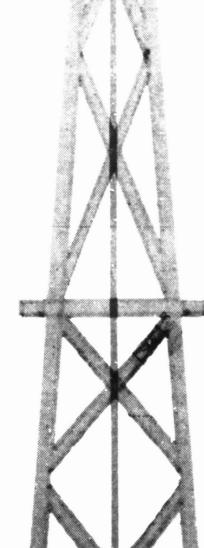

Spokesmen for three companies owning disposal facilities at the lake urged the Commission during a show cause hearing here Thursday to lift its ban on discharges into the lake, at least until the commission renders a decision on the renewal of discharge

But Peden said that, under state law governing the posting of notices for administrative meetings, the ear-liest the commission could consider the matter would be Nov. 13.

Meanwhile, a Midland representative of a national wildlife group re-commended the commission consider permanent ban on all oil company discharges into playa lakes — or risk a major law suit in federal district

Brine disposal shutdown to last three weeks

Bird Rehabilitation Center, told the commission that reinstatement of discharge permits at Whalen Lake would trigger a law suit by the Washington, D.C.-based Defenders of Wild-

She added she considered Whalen Lake to be in good condition compared to other playa lakes in West Texas and said some other lake — and perhaps not Whalen Lake - may be the basis for legal action.

Officials for Whalen Corp. of Dallas, Phillips Petroleum Co. and Petroleum Corp. of Texas, Breckenridge, appealed to the commission for immediate reinstatement of their per-

The officials said Thursday even a short-term ban would have significant impact on oil production in the Permian Basin.

The lake serves some 525 producers capable of delivering more than 700. 000 barrels of oil per month in one of Texas' riches oil field areas.

Oil company officials said the shutdown already has forced truckers who haul brine to the disposal facilities out of work and may soon halt the operations of small producers who use the lake for brine disposal.

Representatives for Whalen Corp., the principal figure in the case, just after the noon break of the day-long session, appeared optimistic that they had demonstrated affirmative action in cleaning up pollution at Whalen

Arnold Darrow, president of Whalen Corp., a subsidiary of Triton Oil and Gas of Dallas, urged the commission to adopt interim standards for discharging oilfield brines into the lake, to conduct an in-depth study on the hazards of discharges and then to determine permanent limits of oil, grease and iron sulfides in waters released into the lake as well as other standards

Darrow told the commission examiners he was astonished that the commission had shut down operations after the company had made what he termed major improvements in conditions at the lake, and particularly after Whalen Corp. was advised that it was "doing a good job.

Whalen's attorney Ivan Hafley introduced into evidence a recent letter from the commission to lake manager Merlin Handely which commended Handley for doing a good job in protecting the lake from pollution.

However, Peden told Darrow that the commission during last year's hearing had considered the operation 'something less than perfect," and said in the commission's opinion that no substantial improvements had been made by the company at the

The examiner cited "inconsistencies" in the results of laboratory tests of water samples taken by the commission and Whalen Corp. on the same day.

The commission test results of water affluent taken from skimming pits ranged from 187.1 parts per million (of petroleum material dumped into the lake) to 481 parts per million while Whalen's results were less than 1 part per million.

The commission considers 20 to 25 parts per million to be the acceptable level of oil waste discharges.

Darrow said company officials had

Leaks dampen deputies' spirits

Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith is hoping for a sunny Novem-

At least he'd like to see less rain than has been received in October thus far

The sheriff hopes rains earlier this week which left 16 gallons of water in a plastic trash can in his office will be the last. This time, though, the sheriff managed to keep the rainwater from soaking everything.

The case of the leaky roof on the County Courthouse is an old story that has grown monotonous.

Mops and buckets to cope with wet floors following heavy rains have been a way of life for the Sheriff's Department for several years, according to Smith. But the sheriff said he is convinced that County Commissioners will be able to solve the problem soon.

The leaks apparently are caused by defective material between the ceiling decking and the pre-fabricated beams, said Smith, whose office seems to be the worst hit every time it rains in Midland

When the ceiling began to drip Monday, county maintenance men decided to erect a special catch to drain the water into a 35-gallon plas-

"It saved us from having to clean up about 16 gallons of water off the floor the next day," said Smith.

"That's not enough to flood the floor with inches of standing water, but it's enough to become a nuisance. It warps cabinet doors and gets everything damp. The water usually gets all over paperwork if you're not prepared for it. The leaky ceiling hasn't resulted in any serious water damage to the department in the two years Smith has been in office. But it does keep deputies on their toes, making sure that all equipment and paperwork are questioned the validity of the test results, which had been compiled by an Odessa labratory.

"I doubt if our city water would meet that (less than one parts per million)," Peden quipped Thursday. Darrow and other oil company officials tried to focus on what they considered to be inconsistencies by the Railroad Commission. Whalen Corp., up until Monday's permit suspension, was led to believe that it was doing an adequate job in disposal practices, he said. Furthermore, there are no standard regulations governing discharges into playa lakes, said Darrow.

Peden said the commission would soon be holding statewide hearings to determine what standards are acceptable by the Railroad Commis-

"We feel very strongly that there is a definite need to have the concerned parties try to sit down and discuss recommendations for agreed limits of oil and grease discharges into the lake. In addition to that, a study needs to be made to determine permanent standards," Darrow said.

"I don't think anyone has any information to factually document what the hazard is (to migratory birds).'

The National Audubon Society, the commission, the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife, the U.S. Interior Department and other concerned parties should work together in sponsoring an indepth environmental impact study of the effects of salt water disposal operations at the lake, Darrow recommended.

U.S. Interior Department agent Richard Endress and Ismael Nava of the Department of Parks and Wildlife, testified that current discharges endanger migratory waterfowl. They said they would welcome an environmemal study.

planes reported sighting survivors from a Navy P-3 Orion aircraft that ditched into the frigid North Pacific with 15 men aboard, but a Coast Guard cutter sent to rescue the crew could not reach the site until late today.

It appeared the crewmen who went down late Thursday would have to survive at least 24 hours in 10-foot seas before rescue helicopters from the cutter Jarvis would come into range. The survivors were in liferafts, but there was no word on how many men were sighted.

The propeller-driven submarinehunter "made a controlled ditch" 690 miles west-southwest of Adak, a community in the remote Aleutian Island chain, about 3: 30 p.m. ADT (8: 30 p.m. EDT) Thursday, said a Navy spokesman in Honolulu.

A National Weather Service spokesman at Anchorage said the air temperature in the ditch area was about 50 degrees, the water temperature about 45 degrees.

The flight originated at Adak, which is about 1,300 miles southwest of Anchorage. The Navy spokesman said the plane was on a "routine patrol. It's an anti-submarine plane and you can draw your own conclusions on what it was doing.'

The ditched plane can carry 23 persons. The three Brunswick-based planes could carry 20.

The previous crashes were: -Dec. 11, 1977, a P-3 slammed into a fog-shrouded mountain in the Canary Islands, killing 13; -April 26, 1978, a P-3 went down off the Azores, killing seven;

-Sept. 22, 1978, a P-3 exploded over southern Maine, killing eight.

Rear Adm. Ralph Hedges, commander of all P-3 aircraft on the Atlantic coast, told The Associated Press in an interview last month that morale was low at Brunswick because of the unexplained crashes.

Amendments favored

Nine proposed constitutional amendments will be before Texas voters in the Nov. 7 election and with them before going to the polls.

Constitutional amendments are tremendously important to Texas and Texans and citizens should be prepared to vote intelligently on them whenever they have the opportunity. All too often, voters simply skip the amendment issues completely rather than do their "homework" and vote their convictions. This isn't the prescribed procedure.

The amendments are listed at the top of the voting machine, so please don't overlook them.

It also is important to differentiate between the Tax Relief Amendment, which is unnumbered and at the top of the amendment list, and Amendment No. 1, which is in second place on the list. The others follow in order.

All of the proposed amendments, to our way of thinking, merit approval, and The Reporter-Telegram recommends same in the upcoming balloting.

The unnumbered "Tax Relief" amendment would provide "for tax relief for residential homesteads, elderly persons, disabled persons, and agricultural land; for personal property exemptions; for truth in taxation procedures, including citizen involvement; for a redefinition of the tax base; for limitations on state spending; and for restrictions on property tax administration."

The other amendments are numbered as follows on the

No. 1. Exempting certain products manufactured by handicapped persons from the requirement that purchasing by state agencies be done by competitive bidding.

No. 2. Authorizing political subdivisions to issue revenue bonds for industrial development, such as is done by many other states. Texas needs this in order to meet the competition. (This one will be discussed more in detail in a later editorial.)

No. 3. Authorizing cities and towns to issue tax increment bonds to finance redevelopment of blighted areas.

No. 4. Exempting solar or windpowered energy devices from taxation.

No. 5: Extending jurisdiction of justice of the peace courts by

Additional information on the amendments will be published between now and election day. Pro and con information on the proposals has been made available by the Texas State Chamber of Commerce, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, League of Women Voters and other organizations.

All of the amendments are important and all merit serious consideration. Again, The Reporter-Telegram recommends approval of all of them.

The U.N.: World's great monument to hypocrisy

By CHARLEY REESE n Belt Syndicate

CHARLEY REESE

ORLANDO, Fla. - The world's greatest monument to hypocrisy, the United Nations, observes its anniversary this month, marking 32 years of rancour, deceit, treachery, bombast, lies, war and theft.

A Congress of sensible Americans would vote us out of this Tower of Boobery but common sense and concern for America's national interest are as rare as humility in recent Congresses.

The United Nations evangelists are out on the fried chicken circuit prattling about its contributions to peace which in reality have been zip. They are silent about its contributions to death and destruction. Most United Nations fans don't even understand it. They think it was created to prevent war. Actually, if you read the charter, you can see that it was clearly intended to be a front for the World War II Allies and an instrument of war. As a front for a victorious alliance of great powers, the United Nations was destroyed. Britain and France had no stomach for empires after the war and with no empires both of them quickly fell from the ranks of "great powers." The legitimate government of China was overthrown by the communists.

Unfortunately, the Alliance came apart. The Soviets never intended to

Consequently of the five original allies, all of whom occupy permanent seats on the Security Council which is the only part of the organization with any power, two (the USSR and Red China) are mortal enemies of one (the U.S.) and two (Britain and France) are so weak that even lidi Amin, the Ugandan lunatië, thumbs his nose at

Without the original alliance, the United Nations became in fact an empty shell which is manipulated by its members to suit their national

The Arabs use it in their war against Israel. The African dictaturs use it in their war against Rhodesia and South Africa. Britain and France use it to maintain their charade of being important. The communists use it in their war against the United States. Internationalists use it in their scheming for one world government and almost everyone uses it to fleece the American taxpayer who foots 25 percent of the entire cust.

For our generous contributions to the United Nations we get spit and spies and the spectacle of buffions from countries where the standard of living is so low that even New York City seems like paradise.

A friend of mine in the government service once told of a coup in a two-bit country. For days after the coup there was no government because the coup leaders were arguing over who could be president and who would get the real plum which was being ambassador to the United Nations

We might tolerate the United Nations as a hit of expensive cumedy except that it is dangerous in a number of ways. It offers an excuse to wage war as in the Congo and Korea; it encourages war, as in the Middle intention of doing.

The two-bit world is attempting to use it to fleece the industrial nation out of their wealth and the United Nations financial organizations cheat the American taxpayers by using their money to rebuild the countries the same taxpayers just spent a fortune destroying.

The dream of peace via a world government is just that, a dream. It will never be realized in the way starry-eyed surburban housewives are led to believe. World government will come, as it has in the past, only when one nation or cluster of nations is powerful enough to crush the others with military force.

In short, the United Nations is a danger to world peace, a threat to American independence, an unnecessary expense to the taxpayer, an insult to the concepts of justice and human rights, a dangerous meddler in American foreign policy, a home for Andy Young, and an opiate for the dummies-but-goodies who actually believe its propaganda.

If he turned out to be a quixotic political activist, or an undistinguished, time-serving political hack, the damage could be both great and lasting. For only death or the cumbersome impeachment process could remove him from power once he was appointed.

The post-Watergate era has become one in which the judicial branch is exercising tremendous power. Its decisions will affect the fundamental rights of individuals and institutions far into the future.

Unfortunately, both the tone of the federal judiciary and the substance of its decision-making are being dominated by a chief justice who was appointed by Richard Nixon - the only president ever forced from office and who shares many of his disgraced benefactor's social and political views. And our investigation of Warren Burger has disclosed that one of his most strongly held Nixonian biases is his detestation of the press.

Some of the federal courts' most significant recent decisions - allowing police to fish through newspaper files and throwing reporters in jail without trial for refusing to disclose sources or turn over their notes constitute a serious attack on the nation's press.

This is not a mere matter of reporters' ruffled feelings or derailed ego trips, as press critics would have you believe. The function of keeping the powers-that-be honest was stitution as a fundamental right that could be tampered with only to the peril of every citizen. Our investigation turned up a number of disturbing facets of Burger's character, some previously reported and some not - but all of which we confirmed. Put together, they reveal a complex, often contradictory individual: rigidly conservative, obsessively secretive, pompous, condescending, manipulative possessed of a hair-trigger

Burger clearly does not understand what a free press is all about. He refuses virtually all requests for interviews, except on rare occasions when he deigns to talk to the conservative news magazine, U.S. News and World Report. He demands the right to edit the interviews before publication - a form of censorship that no perceptive public figure would demand, and no self-respecting reporter would grant.

There is no doubt by Jerry Brown that he can fulfill this mission better than Jimmy Carter. Furthermore the excitement he has generated this fall on the campaign trail has convinced his handlers that there is still the old Brown magic that bested Mr. Carter in seven out of seven 1976 primaries. Justice reconsidering historic Indian role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department officials say they are ready to meet with Indians who are unhappy about a possible change in the department's historic role as a champion of Indian rights. Kay Oberly, a special assistant in the department, said Thursday that officials are attempting to arrange the meeting for "early or mid-November," but no date has been set.

The meeting was requested by the Native American Rights Fund in an Aug. 18 letter to Attorney General Griffin B. Bell. On May 25, Bell told Sens. Warren

G. Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson, both Washington Democrats, that he hoped to begin a "high-level policy study" of the department's treaty obligations to represent Indians. The government has responsibility as trustee for Indian tribes under many treaties between the United States and the tribes; most of them dating to the 19th century. As part of the trust relationship, the Justice Department often represents tribes in

Bell told the House Judiciary Committee early this year he thinks that situation raises a conflict of interest. He said he thinks the Secretary of the Interior should hire outside lawyers to represent the Indians "and let Justice represent the United States, so to

The Native American Rights Fund officials told Bell his testimony and his letter to the Washington senators were at odds with President Carter's position on Indian rights.

John E. Ecohawk, director of the fund, and Robert S. Pelcyfer, one of its attorneys, told Bell they were getting "signals from Washington that the attorney general is not the Indians' friend.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who conducted Senate hearings on the protection of Indian natural resources in 1971 and 1972, urged Bell in a Sept. 14 letter to approve the meeting. "I share the concern that has been voiced by Indian leaders," he wrote.

In a letter to fund officials on Oct. 11, Bell said their views would be given "careful attention" and a meeting would be arranged.

Magnuson and Jackson wrote to Bell in March complaining that the

Webster paints Chicago as a key spy target CHICAGO (AP) - FBI Director William H. Webster says there are about 1,900 Soviet-bloc spies operating in the United States, and Chicago is among their key targets.

"We have substantial foreign intelligence activity taking place in this city," Webster told 1,000 civic and business leaders Thursday. "They (spies) are here," he said, and their work "is not something that occurs only in a James Bond movie.'

Webster said the number of agents from Soviet-bloc countries has doubled in the last 12 years. And he said 100 such spies arrived in the United States within the past three months.

"Serious efforts are being made against your companies" to obtain a variety of secrets, Webster told businessmen attending a law enforcement luncheon sponsored by the Chicago

He said specific areas of interest to the spies are microelectronics, lasers, computers, nuclear energy and aerospace technology.

The FBI director urged stepped-up internal security measures by business and industry, saying spies will not hesitate to corrupt employees and use bribery or burglary to get what they want.

He declined to detail spy activity in Chicago because of the classified nature of FBI investigations, but he cited one recent case, that of William Kampiles, 23, of Munster, Ind. In that case, "very valuable and rather critical information" was sold to two Soviet agents, Webster said.

A former employee of the Central Intelligence Agency, Kampiles was arrested in August and is awaiting trial on charges he delivered a CIA document relating to a U.S. defense spy satellite to agents for $3,000.

'Pilotless' plane crashes near Tucson junior high

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - Students at Mansfeld Junior High School heard "a noise like a sonic boom," and then scattered in panic as a pilotless Air Force jet crashed into an adjacent street, killing one person and injuring

"It was turmoil, it was turmoil," said Patty Linder, a teacher at the school, which is near the University of Arizona campus in central Tucson. Brig. Gen. Robert Kelley, commander of Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, said the A7D Corsair jet was about eight miles short of the base Thursday when its engine stalled. The pilot, Capt. Frederick Ashler, 28, attempted some last-minute maneuvers designed to aim the plane toward a vacant practice field and then bailed out at an altitude of 200 feet, Kelley Ashler was not seriously injured but was badly shaken by the results of the accident, he said.

The Air Force said it did not know what caused the engine to stall. Major Myron Donald said the A7Ds at Davis-Monthan will be kept in the air pending a formal investigation and review of their maintenance his-

The plane, which exploded in a "bigball of flame," according to one witness, struck a car in which two sisters, both from Tucson, were riding, killing one and critically injuring the Authorities were unable to immediately identify which sister was killed and which survived with burns over 90 percent of her body.

Also hospitalized was Richard Flagg, 56, of Tucson, who was listed in guarded condition after being hit by flying debris. The other injured were treated and released.

Dennis Phillips, a seventh grader, was one of the dozens of people at the junior high, the university and nearby residential areas who saw or heard the noon-hour crash.

"First of all there was a noise like a sonic boom," said Phillips. "They just looked up and everyone ran out front. They didn't know what to Witnesses rushed to the scene to help and police said a crowd of about 3,000 people gathered within 10 minutes. One of the first on the scene was registered nurse Janet Ireland, who said she "looked up and heard an explosion and saw the plane come down and the upper part of it break up and crash in the street. Part of the plane hit the car and pieces flew everywhere.'

Federal authorities said Underhill was "extremely instrumental" in the issuance of federal indictments charging Thevis with murder, arson and racketeering. Thevis escaped from a county jail in Indiana in April, three months before the federal indictments were returned, and is still

One of the indictments charged the 46-year-old Thevis with offering $10,-000 to have Underhill killed. The fugitive, who is one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals, was also indicted in the deaths of two rival pornogra-

Underhill told the Atlanta newspaper Thevis tried to blame him for those two slayings.

"The man left me no choice, really," said Underhill, who was granted immunity for his testimony. "I kept my mouth shut even when he tried to kill me. But when he snitched off and then lied about me, that was it."

A former locksmith, Underhill told the Constitution he first met Thevis in 1967 when Thevis was looking for house. Underhill soon became a fulltime member of Thevis' organization, the newspaper said.

Underhill repeatedly turned down federal protection, Assistant U.S. Attorney Harvey Harkness said Thursday. Underhill was an "extremely self-reliant" man who felt "he was careful and clever enough to avoid what happened to him," Harkness

But Underhill had finally agreed to federal protection and was in the process of entering a witness protection program at the time of his death, the federal prosecutor said.

Also killed Wednesday in the ambush at a wooded lot north of Atlanta was grocer Isaac Galanti, 48. Officials said Galanti was a legitimate businessman who was considering buying the property.

Harkness could not say Thursday whether the government's case against Thevis was seriously harmed by Underhill's death. He said prosecutors may petition federal court for permission to use prior written testimony from Underhill, but "this is a gray area in the law.

Good news, bad news for Republicans on Carter's austerity, inflation plan

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) - For the Republicans, there's good news and bad

They're getting network time for a rebuttal to President Carter's nationally televised inflation program.

But Carter already has a plan that seems to fit the mood of the voters. And his government austerity vows could have come out of a Republican price guidelines. An AP-NBC News survey showed 54 percent support that approach to inflation control.

Carter's promises to hold down federal spending, erase needless regulations and foster competitive free enterprise sound a lot like Republican orthodoxy.

The Republican reply to Carter will lean heavily on a call for sharp cuts in federal income taxes over the next three years, their chosen issue in the congressional election campaign. They've refined it now to include a curb on federal spending.

There's no indication that the Republican tax cut has swayed many voters, although when people are asked whether they would like a onepercent say yes.

Among the same people, 1,600 adults interviewed in mid-October, 33 percent said the Democrats can do a better job of keeping taxes down, while 31 percent chose the Republicans for that task.

"Tax reduction has never been more politically popular than it is today," Carter said in announcing his new inflation control plan - the fourth, and most stringent, he has adopted. "But if future tax cuts are made rashly, with no eye on the budget deficits, they will hurt us all by causing more inflation."

So Carter said he will oppose any further income tax cuts "until we have a convincing prospect of controlling inflation.

The Republicans counter that the absence of tax cuts means tax increases because inflation will keep pushing people into higher brackets. They say Carter is counting on the tax proceeds of inflation to cut the federal budget deficit. In the AP-NBC News poll, 31 percent of those interviewed said cuts in federal spending are the best way to fight inflation, and 25 percent said controls on wages and prices would be

The Carter plan touches both bases, although it stops short of outright controls, which the president called simplistic and extreme, and which he couldn't invoke without congressional action anyhow.

ly can argue with Carter's declared goals. The president promised tough budget restraints, lower deficits, and said he will use vetoes as necessary to achieve those ends. Gerald R. Ford used to talk the same way, but the Republicans argue that he meant it and Carter doesn't. . The American people have a right to know why he has consistently proposed increases over the budgets and projections submitted by President

Ford just before he left office," said

Bill Brock, the GOP chairman. As for Ford, he said voluntary controls don't work. "Once you start down that road, you wind up with government wage and price controls," Ford said of the Carter plan. "It may be good politics temporarily, but it's bad economics."

Ford didn't always see it that way. When President Richard M. Nixon clamped on his wage and price controls seven years ago, Ford, then the House Republican leader, joined the applause. He called the Nixon controls "strong medicine, but the right action for these times.

In those times, inflation wasn't nearly as severe as it is now.

"From the high point of 6 percent a year in 1969, the rise in consumer prices has been cut to 4 percent in the first half of 1971," Nixon said as he imposed his controls. " ... We can and we must do better than that.

Number of U.S. surgeons growing

CHICAGO (AP) — The number of surgeons in the United States is growing but the percentage of surgeons among all physicians is declining, the American College of Surgeons reports.

Between 1949-50 and 1976-77, the number of medical students rose 132 percent, from 25,103 to 58,266, the college's 1978 Socio-Economic Factbook for Surgery says.

During the same period, the number of surgical residents rose from 7,966 to 19,017.

But the college said surgical residents made up 40.2 percent of all residencies in 1969-70 but dropped to 31.4 percent in 1976-77. During the same period, the percentage of residents in primary care specialties rose from 25.5 percent to 42 percent.

The factbook also indicates that a growing number of operations is being performed but that the rate of increase has slowed. The number rose from 18.4 million in 1973 to 20.1 million in 1976, an increase of 9 percent. During 1971-73, the rate rose 17 per-

The statistics show a marked decrease in tonsillectomy and adenoidectomy. The procedure, which frequently has been questioned, dropped 29 percent between 1973 and 1976.

During the same period, appendectomy dropped 10 percent, hernia repair dropped 3 percent and hysterectomy dropped 2 percent. Controversy frequently has surrounded all of these procedures.

In rank order, biopsy heads the list surgical procedures, followed by dilation and curretage, hysterectomy, tonsillectomy and adenoidectomy and hernia repair. For many years, tonsillectomy and ademoidectomy headed the list.

Obstetric nurses pregnant

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Exactly nine months after a blizzard drove the inhabitants off the streets, Oklahoma City hospitals are bracing for a storm of a very different kind.

A check of local hospitals indicates the forced indoor togetherness may have contributed to a baby blizzard.

But nowhere has the mini babyboom made more of an impression than at the obstetrics department of Deaconess Hospital where nine nurses are themselves pregnant.

CAMDEN, S.C. (AP) - Eleanor Wells says her Ernie is "eating like a pig," and she's not too happy about

When she and a friend, Lucy Hines, bought Ernie, the pig was supposed to be a 7-year-old Yorkshire miniature which would never grow larger than three pounds.

But Ernest Pigg -- the piglet's formal name - is growing at an alarming rate. About two weeks after the women bought him, he was up to 10

Kershaw County's Clemson University extension agent, B.T. McIntosh, took one look at Ernie and told the women they had bought not a 7-yearold miniature but what would soon be a full-sized porker.

But if Ernie's pedigree isn't all its supposed to be his lively personality is more than making up for it.

According to Mrs. Wells, Ernie is the life of the party. He sings and can lap up a full can of beer in five utes, she said.

Topic of MCAA draws forum heat

The county's involvement in Midland Community Action Agency brought the most response from candidates and audience during a forum sponsored Thursday night by the Midland League of Women Voters.

Appearing on the forum were William Ahders and Blake Hansen, candidates for county judge, and Charlie Welch and Sam Snoddy, candidates for county commissioner, Precinct 2.

Welch, one time was a member of the MCAA board, defended the agency. He admitted the agency had trouble with its bookkeeping at one point, but said the group's problems were not entirely its fault.

"There were board members, I was told, that were appointed specifically for the purpose of destroying the agency and tearing it down," he said. "When you have that kind of board members, you have internal prob-

"But in spite of all those problems, it still is hauling senior citizens to doctor's offices, it still is insulating homes. It is serving a fantastic purpose that no one in Midland wanted to

Hansen said he knew the agency had problems in the past, but said he feels the agency is just as good as the people working with it. Ahders added that he knew the city and school boards had withdrawn from it and anything else he had heard about MCAA was only hearsay.

Snoddy had no comment on the On the question of taking federal funds for some projects, such as an airport. Welch said he sees no need to turn down one type of federal funds and then to accept another. "It all comes from our tax dollars. They're all the same color," he Hansen said he is not against receiving federal funding if it can be used properly.

"I'm not for walking around with your hand out, but there are some projects that could benefit from it

The idea of a county manager to take over the administrative duties in county government was rejected by Ahders said by leaving the duties to an elected official that person is directly responsible to the people.

Reaction to the county having ordinance-making power was mixed. Snoddy was in favor of some ordinances, such as building codes, while the other three were against having

Pintos involved in fiery wrecks

DETROIT (AP) - Thirteen Ford Pintos - more than double what might be expected from the number of Pintos on the road - were involved in fiery, fatal rear-end crashes in 1976 and 1977, federal figures show.

The figures are different than those Ford used to defend itself against charges about the Pinto and its gas tank near the rear bumper, and they show more rear-end crashes with fires and deaths than the Ford figures would indicate.

The new figures on such rear-end crashes were compiled from National Highway Traffic Safety Administration computer files at the request of The Associated Press.

They also show that two small cars with fuel tanks away from the rear bumper, the Toyota Corolla and Volkswagen Rabbit, were not involved in a single such fatal crash over the two years.

American Motors Corp.'s Gremlin had, like the Pinto, more rear-end, fire-accompanied fatal crashes than would be expected. But the low number of such accidents involving Gremlins - four - made the Gremlin results less conclusive.

He looked over his shoulder, then at the beautiful woman beside him. There was no doubt. They were being fol-lowed.

A mystery story? Not really.

In this case, the detective knew the drivers behind him also were private eyes - all on the same case involving a movie star.

On this night, in a Universal Studios screening room, some 60 real-life detectives checked out actor Richard Dreyfuss skulking through the role of a modern gumshoe in

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Some shellfish low in cholesterol

Dear Dr. Solomon: I'm on a lowcholesterol diet, and I wonder if you could clear up something for me. One list of high-cholesterol foods I have includes oysters. But a friend of mine says he thinks that information is out of date, and that oysters actually aren't that bad. Is this correct? I happen to be very fond of them, and would like to be able to enjoy them without feeling I'm breaking the rules .- Frank L.

Dear Frank: The standard view has been that shellfish in general are high in cholesterol. But there is a special problem here: shellfish contain quite a number of different sterols (the family of compounds to which cholesterol belongs), and this makes it difficult to get a precise figure on cholesterol alone in laboratory analysis.

Sterols other than cholesterol may be included in the amounts given in various tables. That is certainly one reason different figures keep turning up in published reports.

Interestingly, oysters appear as a low-cholesterol food in a recent analysis by a researcher of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Mary H. Thompson. Eastern oysters had only 58 milligrams of cholesterol per 100gram (3 1/2 oz.) serving, meat only, and Pacific oysters even less-37 milligrams

This compares to an average of about 70 milligrams of cholesterol per 100-gram serving of fish or lean beef.

Trade deficit grows

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. trade deficit grew slightly in September as Americans bought $1.69 billion more from foreign countries than they sold abroad, the Commerce Department reported

The trade deficit was larger than the $1.62 billion in August, but substantially better than the deficit buildup at the start of the year.

The excess of imports over exports has been a big reason for the sharp decline in the value of the dollar against foreign currencies this year. That, in turn, has contributed to inflation in the United States.

The September trade figures, released a day early, may provide some encouragement to the Carter administration in its attempts to convince other countries that the U.S. trade situation is improving. Last month's $1.69 billion deficit is smaller than the average deficit this year of $2.5 billion a month. At a news conference Wednesday, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal predicted a big improvement in the trade balance next year. So far, in the first nine months of this year, the trade deficit is $22.67 billion, approaching the record $26 billion deficit last year.

In September, exports increased about 8 percent to a record $13.4 billion, the department said. Imports, also a record, increased about 7 percent to $15.12

Alvin Grille wears his favorite shirt pointing out Ralph Nader was wrong in his conviction about Covairs.

Engineer believes in Corvair power

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Alvin Grille has never met Ralph Nader. And it's a good thing, too. You see, Grille owns 175 Corvairs and thinks they are just swell.

'I have nothing against him," Grille says. "And I know 'Unsafe at Any Speed' brought about a lot of good safety legislation. But I think it's hard for a person to condemn a car he has never driven.

"If you take care of a Corvair, it doesn't handle any differently than an average American car. The National Safety

Traveler awakens blind

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — A diabetic British grandmother traveled halfway around the world to see her family in Australia but woke up blind the day after she arrived.

'We had planned this trip since the beginning of the year just to be here with my son and his family while his latest child was being born. But I haven't seen the baby. All I can do is hold her and have a few cuddles," Helen Attwooll said

"It is heartbreaking," she said. "There's no other word for it."

She and her husband arrived here last month. After playing with their other grandchildren, Jolyon, 3, and Josephine, 19 months, they went to bed. She awoke to a world of darkness.

Grille, an engineer for Louisiana Power & Light Co., likes the little rearengine car so much, he may own more of them than anyone in the coun-

Without making any puns about being an auto-collector named Grille, he explains he got into Corvairs quite by accident. He bought a new silver-gray Corvair in 1965 for $2,400, three months before Nader's indictment of the car came out.

"I couldn't find anyone to work on it," he recalls. 'So I started tinkering, doing my own repairs. Pretty soon I was helping other people fix their Corvairs and restoring old ones. I figured my time worked out to about a dollar an hour.

"So I started collecting them for spare parts. Then something happened spontaneously. I never collected anything before - not even stamps.

That spare parts collection grew so big that man out of one for $25 or in 1970 he had to move it $50. to his father's farm 40 miles away in Gonzales. He has been adding to it ever since. A few are at his house, including that first one, with the rest

Count Dracula and his bride-to-be will stalk the halls again this year at Utah State Hospital's 10th annual haunted house. PROVO, Utah (AP) — Visitors will get the shock treatment when mad scientists test their evil potions in the patient-run Halloween haunted house at Utah State Hospital.

The house's vampires may be admitted sex offenders, and its werewolves may be convicted criminals. But they are all on their way to a cure, hospital officials say.

In fact, their appearance in the

This year, sex offenders will stage a "vampire wedding" in one room while other criminal offenders will be part of the "Werewolf Coven" and the "Mad Scientist's Lab."

Jensen said about 120 patients and 30 staff members are involved in the project, which will also include a "Hall of Hysteria," a 'Ghoul Dining Room" and a "Mummy's Tomb." Admission is $2.

Not all patients are eligible to participate. Depressed, delusional patients, for example, are excluded, said Jens

"They've got to be responsible enough to be with the public. They have to have proven themselves in their therapeutic programs," he said.

The program started almost 10 years ago as a small spook alley for patients only. Last year, it brought in $4,000 for the recreation budget, said Tom Haraldsen, public relations director.

Patients seem to benefit from the responsibility of months of planning and contact with visitors from the community, said Jensen.

Acting out horror scenes, far from adversely affecting them, seems to be therapeutic, he added. "They're involved in the psychodrama; they really look forward to it," he said.

The private aircraft association argues airport improvements, such as improved radar capabilities, are needed, saying private and commercial flights should not be segregated into different airports.

"There is no such thing as an air carrier (commercial) airport, reliever airport or general aviation airport," the association says.

The transportation secretary said more reliever airports are needed in larger cities. Under his proposals, funds would be allocated to upgrade small airports to give private and student pilots opportunities for instrument training now available only at major airports.

The one-day hearing at the Naval Training Center is headed by Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., and Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif. Scheduled to attend were congressmen from California, Pennsylvania and Arizona.

Donald Duck and friends go to work for HUD

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald Duck and 29 of his cartoon colleagues recently slipped onto the federal payroll. And Donald's salary — $99,000 — sure wasn't Mickey Mouse.

Congressional investigators, exposing the "Walt Disney Affair" they engineered, say the incident points out the chaos in federal payroll procedures

Donald, Mickey, his girlfriend Minnie, and 27 other cartoon creatures all went to work for the Department of Housing and Urban Development in a test of the agency's payroll computer.

The computer flunked, the General Accounting Office disclosed Thursday.

GAO auditors told a House subcommittee they were able to trick the HUD computer into making "clearly unreasonable payments to fictional individuals."

Even for a real live person the idea of a $99,000 check was preposterous, GAO investigator John J. Cronin said. For duck, mouse or man the amount is more than double the top federal bureaucrat's salary of $47,500.

But Donald's payroll authorization waddled right through without so much as a quack from the computer. That, Cronin warned, is an invitation to fraud.

"An employee skilled in the use of a computer could do the same thing using a fictitious name," he said.

What's more, the auditors said, several real-life bureaucrats haven't had to turn to the comic pages to pull down huge amounts of extra money from Uncle Sam.

In a recent 12 months, about 600 employees got $7 million in overtime payments, the auditors found, noting that each worker averaged roughly a half-year's added pay in overtime.

Of the 600 employees, 458 worked for the Justice Department, the auditors said. But Cronin charged that the two "most derelict" agencies were the departments of Defense and Health, Education and Welfare, which together spend almost half the federal budget.

At the Pentagon, internal auditors found 50 percent of overtime payments were "not properly justified." Either they hadn't been authorized or the forms were incorrectly filled out.

Auditors foun one HEW worker with a base salary of $13,158 and $18,441 in overtime.

And when the National Institutes of Health needed seven persons for extra duty in a laundry room one weekend, 21 were brought in. Why? Managers cited "morale reasons," the auditors said.

The GAO's findings were disclosed before a House compensation and employee benefits subcommittee headed by Rep. Gladys Spellman, D-Md.

She said that no one has taken a good look at the overtime despite the fact that it ate up about $1 billion in fiscal 1977.

GAO officials blamed computers that run themselves and don't need much human help, a lack of expert advice by the Office of Management and Budget and frequent top management changes at the various agen-

Several cases of alleged overtime fraud — ranging from the Internal Revenue to the Forest service — are in various stages of investigation or prosecution, officials said.

Mrs. Spellman said Justice and Defense officials will have their chance to testify next month. Officials from HEW and other federal agencies who testified Thursday said improvements in their accounting systems were underway.

to his battle with Dorsett for playing time)

"I'm gonna end it by saying that nobody cares about my position. I've been a pawn twice and it's not going to happen

As so often happens, turnovers decided the game. The Vikings played errorless football while Dallas was fumbling the ball away twice deep in their own territory in the game's first six minutes.

Fumbles by Larry Brinson (on the opening kickoff) and Dorsett (on the fourth play of Dallas' first possession) set the Vikings up at the Dallas 28 and 37 and with Fran Tarkenton at the controls, the Vikes quickly parlayed that field position into a 14-0 lead. It was a hole the Cowboys could not climb out of.

"This might be the first game we've played this year when we didn't have a fumble or an interception," Minnesota Coach Bud Grant said after the win which puts the Vikings over the .500 mark at 5-4. "The two fumbles by Dallas hurt more than the interceptions we picked off. It put them 14 points down and even a great team, which Dallas is, has a hard time coming back from that deficit."

Grogan forecasts Jets team to watch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The way Steve Grogan sees it, the

New York Jets are a team of the not-too-distant future - and he and the rest of the New England Patriots are hoping the future isn't now. "I picked them as the dark horse even before season started," the Pats' quarterback said. "They remind me of the way our team was a few years ago. "They're a young team and they make up for their mistakes by being aggressive. The Jets have a young defense but they don't play like they're young. They have a great future.

That future has arrived a lot quicker than some people expected. A year ago at this time the Jets were 2-6 and headed for their third straight 3-11 finish in the American Conference East. And when quarterback Richard Todd was injured four games into this season and New York slipped to 2-3 (after winning its first two games), it looked like another bleak season.

But Matt Robinson, the Jets' second-year quarterback out of Georgia

Grid tickets going on sale Tickets for the Midland Lee-

Odessa Permian football game, which is next Friday in Memorial Stadium, will not go on sale to the general public until Wednesday at 8 a.m. according to Sam. Cox, Midland athletic director.

The 8 p.m. contest is expected to be a complete sellout, and fans wanting tickets must wait until Wednesday to purchase

"It has been our policy not to sell tickets for home games until Wednesday the week of the game," Cox said. "In fairness to everyone, this policy will continue. There will also be no tickets available at the booster club meetings. We have done this for out of town games, but for home games, tickets must be purchased at the stadium office.'

According to University Interscholastic League rules, the visiting team must be offered half the tickets available, and Permian has requested its full allotment, virtually insuring a complete sellout.

"I expect the tickets to go very fast," Cox noted. "The phone is already ringing off the hook for tickets. The Lee-Permian game has had title implications before, but I don't think I've ever seen this type of interest since both teams are undefeated."

End zone bleacher tickets will also be sold for the game in an effort to get as many people in the stadium as possible. Tickets will remain on sale through Friday at the stadium ticket office or until they are sold out.

who completed just 37 percent of his passes for two touchdowns and eight interceotions a year ago, has guided the team to three straight triumphs for a 5-3 record, good enough for a second-place tie with Miami, one game back of the Pats heading into Sunday's National Football League game at New England. SUNDAY's OTHER games are Baltimore at Miami, Denver at Seattle, San Diego at Oakland, San Francisco at Washington, Buffalo at Cleveland, Houston at Cincinnati, Kansas City at Pittsburgh, St.Louis at Philadelphia. Detroit at Chicago, the New York Giants at New Orleans and Tampa Bay at Green Bay. Los Angeles visits Atlanta on Monday night.

On Thursday night, Minnesota capitalized on a pair of fumbles to take a 14-0 lead in the first four minutes and the Vikings went on to upset the Dallas Cowboys 21-10. Fran Tarkenton threw two touchdown passes for the Vikings and Chuck Foreman rushed for 101 yards

In the last three games (45-14 over Buffalo, 33-10 over Baltimore and 23-10 over St. Louis), the Jets have coughed the ball up just once but have snatched it away from the opposition 12 times. "You can't make mistakes against this team," Patriots Coach Chuck Fairbanks observed.

NEW YORK, once the scourge of the airways, has become a groundoriented team. It is the only club in the AFC with two runners in the top 10 - Kevin Long fifth with 553 yards and Scott Dierking ninth with 412. And if the Jets can't get the ball over the goal line, they can count on Pat Leahy to get it over the crossbar. The Jets' place-kicker, besides being perfect on TD conversions, has come through on 15 of 17 field goal attempts@- and the only two he's missed were from 50 and 52 yards out. THE PATRIOTS' offense is the best in the conference, averaging 373 yards a game. And Grogan plays the biggest part in it. He's eighth in AFC passing and 14th in AFC rushing.

"The biggest factor in their 6-2 record is Grogan running with the ball," says Jets Coach Walt Michaels. "He's like a third running back who runs effectively, knows how to fall, how to hit and does his running by design and not by chance.

The Dolphins, also 5-3 following their loss last Sunday in New England, will be trying to rebound against Baltimore, which pulled off a surprise last time out by beating Denver 7-6 when defensive tackle Mike Barnes blocked Jim Turner's seemingly "sure" 27-yard field goal with a second to play.

Denver and Oakland share first place in the AFC West, the Raiders failing to break out of the tie when they lost to Seattle, thanks in part to four Seahawk interceptions against Washington may go with Billy Kilmer instead of Joe Theismann at quarterback against San Francisco in an attempt to halt the Redskins' slide. They've lost two straight after winning their first six games.

HOUSTON (AP) - There were times prior to this season when Houston Oilers strong safety Kurt Knoff doubted if he had the ability to play in the National Football League.

Bucks ink Van Lier from Chicago Bulls

MILWAUKEE (AP) - The Milwaukee Bucks, whose most pressing need is a big forward, have signed playmaking guard Norm Van Lier, a three-time All-Star thought by the rest of the National Basketball Association to be washed up at age 31.

Van Lier, waived by the Chicago Bulls Oct. 11, signed a one-year contract Thursday. The contract does not have a no-cut provision and is believed to be worth about $50,000, onefourth of the estimated $200,000 per year Van Lier had earned with the Bulls.

"I think he can still play," Bucks Coach Don Nelson said. "Nobody else seems to think he can, but I do. It's just a hunch, an instinct.

'I've always admired him as a player," Nelson said. "I feel a player reaches his maturity between 26 and 33. He's been a great player, and you don't lose it at age 31 if you still love to play. We talked about a lot of things Monday, and I know he still loves to A 1969 graduate of St. Francis, Pa.,

Van Lier has averaged 12.2 points per game in nine NBA seasons. However, his average dropped to a career low of 7.3 per game last season and his field goal shooting percentage fell to .419. Perhaps more significantly, the fiercely competitive Van Lier in recent years has acqu of being a clubhouse troublemaker. To make room for Van Lier, the Bucks waived rookie guard Delmer Beshore. They have four other guards in Quinn Buckner, Brian Winters, Junior Bridgeman and Lloyd Walton. Nelson said he has been unable to find a suitable strong forward to replace Dave Meyers, who is on the injured list because of a back ailment. It is expected Meyers will miss an-natural since this is only my third game to start in the NFL," Knoff said. "But I'm pleased with the way I've played. So much of this game is being in the right place and when you get a chance you have to take advantage of it." Knoff got his chance several weeks ago when starter Bill Currier went down with an injury and Knoff will be in the starting lineup again Sunday when the Oilers go against the Cincinnati Bengals in Cincinnati. Knoff can sympathize with Currier.

Knoff suffered a serious knee injury on the final game of his college career at Kansas and eventually sat out his rookie year in 1976 on Denver's injured reserve list.

He was cut by the Broncos prior to the start of the 1977 season and picked up by the Oilers. Along the way there were moments of doubt. "It's definitely been a struggle," Knoff said with the air of a man who at last can see hard work paying off. "I lost a lot of confidence and wondered if I was good enough to play in the NFL.

"I thought I had lost it but that's where my friends came in. They encouraged and reinforced me. They told me the good breaks were going to happen soon. I kept working and finally something did happen.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Baldwin-Wallace's unbeaten football team could win the Ohio Conference title this year and yet fail to qualify for the NCAA Division III playoffs.

mally just a bit player in the National Basketball Association drama, Paul Griffin came close to stealing the scene from the high-scoring stars of the New Orleans Jazz.

Griffin's tough defense, rebounding and passing helped ignite a third-quarter rally that erased a 13-point halftime deficit and led the New Orleans Jazz to a 123-111 victory over the New York Knicks in the only NBA game played Thursday night.

Spencer Haywood led the Knicks with 46 points, hitting .714 of his shots, 20 of 28, from the field - his best field goal percentage ever as a Knick.

Although forward Leonard Robinson had 32 points and 24 rebounds to lead the Jazz in both departments, and although guard Pete Maravich had 29 points, both acknowledged Griffin's contribution. The crowd of 33,192 gave Griffin a long, loud ovation when he left the game for a breather early in the fourth

"Griff has a role to play and he played it to perfection tonight," said Maravich. "He's supposed to come in, get the rebounds, get the ball out, and he did that. He had a great

Asked what chance his underdog Houston Cougars had against the Arkansas Razorbacks this Saturday in a Saouthwest Conference football showdown in the Astrodome, head football coach Yeoman alluded to basketball and twin upsets inspired by Cougar Coach Lewis last winter.

"I don't think our people realize the emotion that you have to have available to go play someone like Arkansas," said Yeoman. "But, it was graphically illustrated during our basketball season when our basketball team beat them (the Razorbacks) twice in 10 days. That's the kind of emotion that we've got to have

Yeoman added "I really think that our youngsters will play very, very hard, and, they had better. Cowins, Eckwood and Co. are great. There's no question about their capabilities."

Arkansas, shocked 28-21 by Texas last Saturday, was a three-point fa-vorite over the fast-jelling Cougars who outlasted Southern Methodist 42-28 to move into a tie with Texas atop the SWC ladder at 3-0.

SMU, which has one league loss along with Arkansas, travels to Austin to match its awesome air game against the tough Texas defense. In other games, new Texas A&M head coach Tom Wilson makes his debut against the Rice Owls in College Station, and revived Baylor heads to Fort Worth to play Texas Christian in other SWC games.

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz said "Last year we played well against Houston but this year we're coming back under more adverse conditions: Last year, Houston wasn't near as good, didna't have any momentum, didn't have Danny Davis and the game was played in Little Rock.

"We knew before the season began Houston would be very good. They have a very explosive offense and their defense is playing very well. They're just a much better football team than the one we played a year

And what about Arkansas' mental outlook?

"I hope our players can go from being hunted to being the hunter," said Holtz. "It hasn't been much fun being the hunted.'

Texas A&M was a three-touchdown choice over Rice, Texas was an 11point pick over SMU, and Baylor was a 16 and 12 point nod over TCU.

Texas Coach Fred Akers said it will be an entertaining day when SMU comes calling.

"SMU is really an explosive, dangerous football team," said Akers 'Everyone who has seen SMU knows the kind of team they have. All the conference knows SMU has talent. will fight and they will present us a lot

PENSACOLS, Fla. (AP)-"I'd like to know this golf course better," said Mac McLendon after shooting a seven-under-par 65 for the first-round lead in the Pensacola Open, the final event on the 1978 PGA tour.

He was serious since his first tour of the 7,133-yard Perdido Bay Country Club course was Wednesday, when he played in a pro-am preceding the 72-hole event.

"I rushed here Tuesday night after helping my son Lance celebrate his seventh birthday," McLendon said. "and I wasn't really sure where some of the bunkers were when I started the tournament.

"I was playing probably the best golf I can remember for the first 15 holes. I hit the ball well until the last three holes, when I struggled and still Open last month. It's healed now and I hit more good shots than in a long time.' Randy Erskine, 30, on the verge of giving up the tour for the insurance business in Battle Creek, Mich., shot a first-round 67, along with Alan Tapie of Irvine, Calif., who is having his best year on the tour, and Jim King of Altamonte Springs, Fla.

The field got crowded after that. In all, 79 of the 150 starters shot par or better on a summer-like day on the open course with broad greens.

Eight were at 68, among them tour regulars George Burns and Jim Dent. Another eight at 69 included Phil Hancock, Curtis Strange, Dale Douglass and Allen Miller.

The highest ranking money winner, No.3 Andy Bean, was one of 20 at 70 in the closely bunched field. Hubert Green, last year's U.S. Open champion, and his predecessor, Jerry Pate, both had 73s.

Garden fights feature brothers in top bouts

NEW YORK (AP) - The Brothers Viruet, Edwin and Adolfo, shook hands in the Madison Square Garden ring in 1969. Tonight, they should have their hands full in that ring - Edwin fighting Esteban DeJesus and Adolfo fighting Bruce Curry.

The Puerto Rican brothers fought their way to the featherweight final of the New York Golden Gloves nine years ago, but that's where their fighting ended. The rules prohibit brothers from fighting. So, they shook hands and shared the title.

The Viruets both turned pro in 1969 and have had successful careers. Edwin is 25-3-2 and Adolfo 15-3-0. Both as have fought several top opponents.

Curry, of Los Angeles, has knocked out 10 of his 17 victims including Monroe Brooks and had unbeaten Wilfredo Benitez, former World Boxing Association junior welterweight champion, down three times in losing a controversial 10-round decision in the Garden.

A third 10-rounder pits Alfredo Escalera of Puerto Rico, a forme WBC junior lightweight champion, against Julio "Diablito" Valdez of the Dominican Republic.

Don King, who is co-promoting the show with the Garden, has promised the winner of the DeJesus-Viruet fight a shot at WBC junior welterweight last year.

McCowan, Robnett lead city stats

A pair of Jeffs are leading the city football statistics going into tonight's District 5-4A games.

Lee's Jeff McCowan and Jeff Robnett of Midland, are having banner seasons. McCowan, a 215-pound senior power runners, has already rushed for 856 yards in 161 carries and scored 14 touchdowns for an amazzing 84 points in leading the Rebels to a perfect 6-0 reading going into tonight's game with the Big Spring Steers in Big Spring. He should add to that already impressive total against the winless Bovines.

ROBNETT, MEANWHILE, has rushed for 391 yards in 96 carries, barely edging out teammate Billy Applin for the 2-4 Bulldogs. Applin has gained 388 yards in 74 carries as the Purple Pack celebrates homecoming tonight against the San Angelo Central Bobcats in Memorial Stadium.

Both Robnett and Applin are juniors. While McCowan has impressive credentials, teammate Ricky Johnson, is also having a great season for Coach Gil Bartosh. Johnson has picked up 418 yards in 84 carries and actually has a better average than McCowan. McCowan is averaging 5.4 yards per carry and Johnson 5.8. He has three TDs on the year.

Applin has tallied four touchdowns and Robnett two. Applin also has a two-point conversion to he credit to give him 26 points on the year for the WHILE MCCOWAN has 84 points for the Rebs, field goal and extra point sepcialist Bill McPherson has 22 points with 19 PATs and one field goal, but it was a big one in beating Plainview, 16-14.

NEXT COME Johnson and Wilber Montgomery with 18 points each with Montgomery's all coming on TD passes from junior quarterback Gary Butler. Butler has hit 25 of 49 passes for 383 yards and six TDs.

Montgomery has latched on to eight passes for 157 yards and the three TDS and is averaging 15.4 yards per reception for the unbeaten Rebels.

Michael Feldt, sophomore signalcaller for Midland, has hit nine of 30 passes for 99 yards and no touchdowns while junior quarterback Tommy Somers has 12 of 32 aerials for 104 yards and one TD. Top receiver is Pat Hickey with six catches for

UCLA not taking Arizona lightly in Pac-10 game

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Terry Donahue says Arizona has an distinct advantage because of time off. Tony Mason believes UCLA has a bigger edge - awesome talent.

This verbal psychological warfare football coaches are famous for is being waged for tonight's Arizona-UCLA Pacific-10 Conference game at the Coliseum.

The 10th-ranked Bruins are the Pac-10's only unbeaten team with a 4-0 record. UCLA is 6-1 overall. Arizona, meanwhile, is 1-1 in conference play and 3-3 on the season

Arizona hasn't played since Oct. 14, when it dropped a 33-20 decision to California in Tucson. UCLA clobbered the same Cal team 45-0 in Berkeley last Saturday.

"They are coming off a bye and I think that's an advantage," said UCLA Coach Donahue this week. "They have nearly two weeks to get ready for us while we really have just three days to prepare for them.

"We've got to do a great job in order to win." "On both sides of the football, I haven't seen anybody with as many players as UCLA," said Arizona

Coach Mason. "They're awesome." Donahue pointed to Arizona's performance against eighth-rated Michigan earlier this month, a game which the Wolverines won 21-17 in Ann Arbor, as a measure of the Wildcats'

"The Michigan-Arizona game was dead even," said Donahue. "Michigan had an extremely difficult time trying to move the ball ... I was particularly impressed with the Ari-

The Wildcats' leading ground-gainer is fullback Hubert Oliver, who has picked up 430 yards on 103 carries. Heater, who missed the Cal game with a bruised thigh, has gained his yardage on 89 attempts. His status for Friday night's game is uncertain.

"We had all our guys and we played pretty well," Mason said of his team's game against Michigan. "But I don't think Michigan is as good as UCLA. I don't mean to put Michigan down because they'll probably be in the Rose Bowl. But I found UCLA awesome."

While Arizona, in its first Pac-10 season, has a potent one-two running punch in Oliver and Heater, UCLA's pair of Theotis Brown and James Owens have been even more impressive. Brown has gained 702 yards in 121 carries while Owens has picked up 531 yards on 113 tries.

Neither team's quarterback has extraordinary statistics. The Wildcats' Jim Krohn has completed 47 of 85 passes for 627 yards while the Bruins' Rick Bashore is 43 of 86 for 511

By The Associated Press Is Navy for real?

The unbeaten Midshipmen will face their biggest - some would say their first - test of the college football season Saturday when they entertain

New York Islanders at Atlanta, 8:05 schedule," concedes George Welsh, coach of 18th-ranked Navy, which is off to its best start since 1960. "We haven't had to play Penn State and p.m. Detroit at Colorado, 9:35 p.m. Michigan back-to-back like we did my Saturday's Games New York Rangers at Montreal, 8:05 first two years here. Our schedule has good balance right now. It gives us a Vancouver at New York Islanders, 8:05 p.m. Atlanta at Pittsburgh, 7:35 p.m. Washington at Los Angeles, 11:05 chance to get started, to get some momentum. What Welsh is saying is that the Midshipmen had a chance to fatten up on some easy opponents during the first half of the season. They have won their six games by a combined score of 158-24, beating Virginia, Connecticut, Boston College, Air Force, Duke and William & Mary.

None of those opponents is nearly as good as Pitt, and Welsh knows it.

"In Pittsburgh we face one of the big-league teams in the country," he said. "They have a strong defense led by Hugh Green. Their running backs are quick, and quarterback Rick Trocano does a fine job running the option. And there aren't many better receivers in the country that Gordon Jackie Sherrill, coach of 5-1 Pitt, said, "Navy's defensive scheme is really devised for an option team. They play the option very well, so we'll look for some other things from our offense.

Conner is happy with gym award

STRASBOURG, France (AP) -Bart Conner says he is extremely grateful for what Romania's Nadia Comaneci has done for American gymnastics.

'I think Nadia is a pretty neat girl," Conner, 20, the top United States gymnast, said Thursday of the Olympic triple gold medallist, "both for her gymnastics and for what she's done to build up the sport."

Conner, of Chicago, was the top American after the two-day team phase of competition at the world Gymnastics Championships, with 11th pice. Conner, who finished 46th in the Olympics, was to compete today in the individual competition.

'Nadia's now a woman but still performing at a high level of gymnastics," Conner said. "She seems more like a real person today.'

Comaneci, 16, has gained four inches and 20 pounds since the 1976 Montreal Games. She no longer is a doll-hugging child and is reported to have a 20-year old boyfriend, also a gymnast, to prove it. She tied for second place in the individual scoring during the team event Thursday, behind European champion Elena Mukhina of the Soviet Union. Mukhina collected 78.25 points, while Comaneci and Natalia Shaposhnikova of the Soviet Union each had 77.95. After the award ceremony, Comaneci said, "I have grown older, I can't spend so much time in training because I have many other preoccupations. I am very happy.

Mother of eight takes to campaign trail

By SUSAN RUTHERFORD R-T Lifestyle Writer

Susan Garrett Baker believes that campaigning for public office in Texas is like covering five geographic states. Her Midland visit qualified as her sixteenth swing through the state campaigning for husband Jim, who is running for Attorney General on the Republican ticket. Thus far she has logged over 7,000 miles in her fulltime effort.

Mrs. Baker was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walne, 5 Cambridge Court, at a coffee held in her honor. Her husband is best suited for the office, she says, because "the office is a professional one and we need someone with a sound legal background." Jim has practiced law and managed a Houston firm for 18 years. Mark White, his opponent, has only practiced law for seven or eight years and has been Texas Secretary of State so that he hasn't practiced law at all for the last five years.

"Jim has a broad base and has been in Washington as President Ford's national campaign manager. He believes the person in the position will have to deal with Washington to defend the Texas state rights against the increasing encroachment of the federal government." Baker has served also as Undersecretary of Commerce in 1975 and 1976 and was appointed by Ford to a 5-year term on the Board of Trustees of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in the Smithsonian Institution.

Mrs. Baker and her husband are the parents of eight children-a combination of his, hers and ours that she described as "happily explosive. Both other parents were deceased when the couple joined families five years ago. At that point they had three teenagers and three in the preteen years. "There was a lot of turmoil with all those teens not know-ing where they stood," she said. "Family unity made up for the confusion and terf fights, however." The children now range in ages from 12 to 23 with the exception of the "ours," Mary Bonner Baker, who is 13months-old.

"Before we started, Jim and I talked about the sacrifices we would have to make as a family. We decided that our eight children are the eight best reasons we have for becoming involved," she said. "I feel my responsibility is in helping Jim after the election as I do now.

"Jim Baker talks in specifics," said the native Texas who was born in Houston and raised on a ranch in Danbury. "He has written papers on his views on fighting crime, energy and consumer protection. He believes that one of the reasons the crime rate in Texas is one of the fastest growing in the country is because it breeds disrespect. Punishments are too lenient and too disparate."

Athlete's diets need more nutrition, less hokum

There is much that is delightfully amusing and much that is shameful, even appalling, in athletics today, said Dr. Nathan J. Smith, professor of sports medicine and pediatrics at the University of Washington in Seattle.

experienced several years ago by the New York Giants, when no one could get optimistic about the outcome of a coming game with the Washington

The Giants arrived late and had no time for dinner at the hotel. Once at the stadium, someone showed up with a large pot of Swedish meat balls and a bucket of noodles.

"This story gets told because the Giants went on to play inspired football, winning the game 48 to 6." Smith said. "It was no surprise that they arranged for a Swedish meat ball-noodle breakfast in every NFL city remaining on their schedule."

However amusing these superstitions may be, Smith said they cannot be taken lightly when applied

"Our preferred advice to the athlete petition is to have a meal that is low in fat, modest in its protein content, high in carbohydrate, avoiding bulky or very salty foods and taking in abundant fluids," he said.

"The traditional big steak dinner doesn't meet these requirements very well. An important lesson we try to teach our athletes is that Saturday's game is played on Thursday and Friday's food intake; the pregame meal isn't the time to try to provide for all the energy needs of intense competition.' The phenomenal increase in serious recreational exercise, seen during the past few years, was applauded by Smith as delaying the aging process, and for allowing for a healthy increase in food intake, offset by energy expenditure, which ensures an adequate supply of nutrients essential for good health. However, Smith has no applause for the changes that have occurred in sports for children. "If overzealous adult athletes may be using themselves on occasion, the many abuses of our children in the rapidly growing community-based sports program should be recognized as a national

Smith said it is estimated that more than one-third of the persons in this are involved in some organized community-based sports program. "These programs make no demands that the volunteer coaches or leaders, well-meaning as they may be, know anything about the sport, about child behavior or child development, or, most critically, the safe conduct of practice or games. first aid or sports medical concerns related to any of the hazards of participation.

"None of these community-based programs that I am familiar with even require a pre-participation health evaluation of the young athletes. Smith said it is documented that the high school athletic coach is often a highly effective nutrition educator.

"The fact that he or she teaches inappropriate and potentially dangerous misinformation has nothing to do with the fact that his teachings are, more often than not, effectively transmitted and enthusiastically implemented."

Eager athletes in their late teens and 20s want good nutritional advice, Smith said, and are particularly vulnerable to nutrition misinformation. "That misinformation can interfere with performance or be, frankly, dangerous," he said.

Parfait quick, easy, elegant

By CECILY BROWNSTONE AP Food Editor

If you are short on time but enjoy entertaining at dinner occasionally with a little style, consider serving parfaits for dessert. They may be assembled speedily and varied endlessly.

Parfaits - at least in the United States - conof ice cream or sherbet (or scoops of both) layered with a dessert sauce or some other sweet ingredient, fruit or liqueur. You can use what's at hand or what you want to buy.

Inexpensive parfait glasses, needed for the dessert, are sold in some variety stores. They're tall and narrow with short stems. They don't need to be crystal, just clear glass. It's the special shape of the glasses and their clarity that make their contents look so inviting.

You will also need spoons with long han-dies. Iced-tea spoons of silver or stainless steel are perfect if their handles are not in the form of sipping straws. We acquired our parfait spoons by collecting old-faned ice-cream-soda spoons, bought at junk ps, antique shows, garage sales and flea markets. They don't match, but we think that adds to their charm.

Here are some parfait combinations our guests have liked. You may want to try some of them, then invent your

WASHINGTON - He has a briefcase and a pipe and a tweedy coat. That seems all wrong. Richard Leakey senses the disappointment. People are forever trying to make a romance of his work, he shrugs. They want khaki shorts and a Land Rover. "I should like to disabuse that."

By PAUL HENDRICKSON

The Washington Post

Actually, Richard Leakey, whose work is puzzling out the secrets of man's origins, does pretty well in spite of himself in making it all sound romantic. Ask, for instance, for a picture of his fossil-hunting camp at Koobi Fora, on the banks of Lake Turkana in northern Kenya, and he will paint a fierce Impressionist canvas of yellow-green spiking grass and languid crocodiles and mountains baking under a brittle blue sky. At night the wind comes up, and it is cool

'The camp is on a spit and so the lake is before and behind the camp,' he says with a pleasant-sounding colonial British accent. "The camp faces north so that one in fact gets the passage of the sun continually changing colors on the water. You can stand out there and in half an hour the lake will go from blue to green to brown to what is nearly a pewter gray.'

Leakey is 33. He is heir to the most famous genes in modern anthropology. Quick and polite, he conducts himself in that sure, almost sporty British way, tucking a parenthisis here, inserting a phrase like "the quote, women's lib, unquote, movement" there, begging of any claim to authority, yet by virture of his name and intellect and polish being one just

He likes to hold doors and thank you quite a lot. He is tall and rangy. Brown hair licks down the back of his neck. He is a third generation Kenyan and is proud of it.

He's come to the States this time (he averages a couple of hops a year) to hold meetings on the museum he heads and to chat about his new book, "People of the Lake," written in conjunction with Roger Lewin, science editor of the New Scientist magazine in London

He likes America, he says. It's vital and it's one of the few countries where you can get something done. Arbitrary place, though: The cafe he's just stepped into, and out of, closes down from 11 to 11: 45 every day. "See what I mean?"

After stops in Chicago and Los Angeles, he will fly to London, then home to Nairobi. A few days after that Leakey will pilot his single-engine Cessna up to the fossil site. He's anxious to get back.

Life of anthropologist romantic

Can we pinpoint the specific time man became man?

'Somewhat of a semantic discussion, don't you think? I don't know anyone who's really certain when mankind became mankind - or even what it is. Certainly we know what we are - Homo sapiens.

Was the Garden of Eden in East Africa?

"I don't think there was one, do you? You do? Well, if you wish a Garden of Eden, you have to put in in Africa. But I do think it was a big garden. A big garden.'

He says this smiling and leaning in a centimeter.

This isn't to suggest Leakey is not a serious, even intense, human being. In the past 10 years, on a combination of drive and what he calls dumb luck, he has moved himself to the forefront of modern cultural anthropology, making striking fossil discoveries, writing books, postulating new and unpopular theories (a chief one being that Homo Sapiens doesn't necessarily have aggression in his bones). threatening, some say, to eclipse even the sacrosanct reputation of the two people who raised him.

His father, Dr. Louis B. Leakey, pioneer in research of Homo habilis (handy man), an important link with that other hominid, Homo erectus, died in 1972. But Mary Leakey, his tough, cigar-smoking widow, is still known to put in a full day on the sites, one of which is the Olduvai George on the Serengeti Plain in Tanzania, where she and her husband were digging for fossils as much as 40 years ago. Mother and son don't mix in their professional lives; never have. There was a time when father and son bare-

'If one wants to put it simply in those terms, it may have happened in some areas already, this eclipsing business," Leakey says cautiously, 'but the work is different, too."

On one hand, it might seem the natural, happy way of things for a son following in his father's footsteps to eventually overtake him. Even if the father was the powerful, crotchety, charismatic Louis Leakey. In this case, the son happens to be unschooled in the profession, lacking any formal higher studies whatever. Richard Leakey left the Nairobi public schools at 17 to set up a safari business (which became highly succesful). About the only thing he was sure of back then was that he wouldn't follow in his father's footsteps. "One felt a little intimidated," he says. From the time he was 6 months old, he and his brothers, Philip and Jonathan, were being carted around on expeditions.

"I just wanted to get out - go away and look at animals. But it passed. The time came.'

He sounds matured now in his attitude toward his parents. "In my own mind, nothing I do will ever cast a shadow on my father's accomplishments," he says at one point. At another, he says his mother, primarily an archeologist, is about the best in her field - though it's a new field now, with things like clinical lab analyses, and she's of the old school.

He pauses suddenly; his voice is kind. "You know, my parents worked at Olduvai Gorge from 1931 to 1959 without making an important discovery. I found fossils a couple years out. A lot of it is just luck.'

Leakey seems inversely proud not to have academic initials tacked after his name. He likes saying he's learned it all on the job, that he's "not an 'ist' of anything." He suspects a few anthropologists still consider him a spoiled upstart; his rapport with most academics is fine. "I don't think I'm being patronized or tolerated." In fact, they might all be envious. Last year he made the cover of Time and got 9,000 letters.

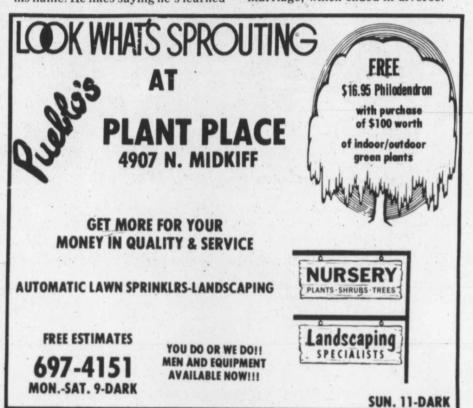

What is surprising about Richard Leakey is that he's only a part-time anthropologist. His real job is directing the National Museum of Kenya, a post he's held since 1968. This means he lives most of the time in Nairobi and goes to work as a bureaucrat. Three hundred people work for him, he says. "Lots of brunches and that sort of thing.

"My feeling is you can't have a research project like ours at Turkana without a solid financial base. Well, we've established that.'

You'd rather do the other?

Through pipe smoke and with great measure: "Actually, I don't think I've done anything I haven't wanted to do for a long time."

Leakey is married to an anthropologist. Meave Leakey did her Ph.D. in Wales. The two have two children. There is another child by an earlier marriage, which ended in divorce.

When Kent Hance began work in the Texas Senate, he did not sit on the sidelines like most freshman Senators. He sponsored Legislation to remove a State Supreme Court Judge from office following his indictment for perjury. He led the fight in the Senate trial to impeach a District Judge from Duval County for misconduct in office. This was the first such trial in more than 30 years. and was the first major effort to clean up corruption in Duval County. He sponsored measures to remove the Senate's top employee for questionable conduct.

Wherever Kent Hance found waste in government, he acted. He sponsored and passed into law "sunset legislation" that abolishes state agencies on a periodic basis unless they are re-established by the Legislature. This helps to keep agencies from getting out of hand, and to eliminate those that are no longer needed. He made welfare fraud or food stamp fraud a felony in Texas.

In his four-year term, Kent Hance never missed a day in the Senate's five sessions, regular and special. In four of those five sessions he didn't miss a vote. In the fifth, he had a 96% voting record.

In Congress, Kent Hance will continue this kind of representation where it is needed most . . . at the Federal level. Kent Hance has proved that when he sees evidence of corruption, waste or inefficiency in government he does not look the other way . . . HE ACTS. West Texas needs Kent Hance in Congress.

Let's make sure the man we send to Congress is the man with qualifications we can measure-and count on...

an oil shortage, that's no excuse for not lubricating all the things we have around the house. Many of the strange noises you hear from mechanical monsters may really just be a cry for lubrication. It's amazing how many times a shot of oil will prevent a repair charge. The best guide on when to lubricate gadgets is the owner's manual. Lots of other things around the house work better with proper lubrication. It's such an important part of keeping things going that it's no surprise I get new lubrication hints almost daily. Maybe some of them will strike your fancy and get you thinking about sone items you may have neglected. Metal saw tables are often forgotten about, and yet they should be lubricated from time to time. I like to use wax so that no oily residue will come off on the work. You

Dear Super Al:

As you know, one of the best lubes for a lock mechanism is graphite. In the absence of this, a lead pencil will do. Rub the pencil over the key to get as much powdered pencil lead as possible. Then insert the key in and out of the lock several times to distribute the graphite inside. After a couple of these treatments, the lock will be lubricated. I have also found that you can mix graphite with rubbing alcohol and squirt it into places you couldn't otherwise reach. The liquid carries the powder, and when the alcohol evaporates, it will have distributed the powder. - B.O.T. Dear Al:

I'm one of those people who never oil anything until it quits working. I recently had a flat tire. When I got out the jack, I found it had rusted to the point it wouldn't work. I was ready to hike for help when I had an idea. I dipped a rag into my gas tank, and it soaked up enough gasoline to use as a solvent to break up the rust. Then I used the dipstick to bring out enough oil to lubricate the jack. I was then able to change the tire. I didn't have to use enough oil to impair the operation of the engine. - J.F. A SUPER HINT - Having all your lubrication gear in one place will make it easier for you to schedule regular lubrication days. Some time ago, a reader suggested a very neat kit. It was just a cardboard soft drink carton. This container will hold oiler cans, spray lubes, wax sticks and whatever else you need. However, I found that after a while, the drips of oil softened up the bottom of the carton so it fell apart. By coating the new carton with clear shellac, it will handle all the drips and should last much longer. Dear Al:

Oiler cans have an opening in the spout that is often too big for some of the oiling operations. Too much oil can be almost as bad as too little. If you ever need to cut down on the flow, here's a trick. Dip the oiler spout into a drop of glue, and then prop the can so the spout aims down. Before the glue sets up, insert an oiled straight pin into the center of the glue. When the glue dries, the oiled pin can be easily pulled out, and you have a tiny opening for a droplet of oil. Glue won't have drooled down inside the spout since it was aimed down. The pin will be the oiler's cap. - T.S.T.

Fertility drug risk to babies

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) - A widely used fertility drug may endanger the babies it helps bring into the world, a Rutgers College psychologist says. A study by June Machover Reinisch indicates the drug prednisone, when taken by women for infertility and pregnancy maintenance, causes a significant drop in the birth weight of their infants.

The drug increases the number of full-term infants weighing about 51/2 pounds or less at birth, according to the study, published this week in Science maga-

Ms. Reinisch suggested physicians be alert to the possible risks of prednisone, but she did not recommend that use of the drug be discontinued.

DEAR ABBY Don't begrudge a grandmother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: All through school I went with Steve (fake name), although my mother hated him. He was a really nice kid, but he was poor, and my mom kept telling me that I could do better. She even told him to his face that she would rather see her daughter dead than married to him!

Well, we loved each other, and got married against my mother's wishes. Naturally, Steve and my mom don't speak to each other.

I recently had a baby (mom's first grandchild) and now she's trying to make up with Steve, but he's still hurt about the way she treated him all those years.

Mom invites us to her house, and Steve says I can go if I want to but he'll never set foot in her house. He says if she wants to see the baby she'll have to come here while he's at work. What can I do? I can't blame Steve for feeling the way he does, but she's still my mother and this terrible feud between them makes it awfully hard on me.-DOWN IN THE DUMPS DEAR DOWN: I hope you can persuade Steve that forgiveness is a mark of maturity. Life is too short to hold a grudge. Harry E. Fosdick said, "Hating people is like burning down your

I don't dare ask anyone but you. Please print your reply, but don't mention my name or town. Hurry your answer. I love this man and I am worried.-NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: Avoiding income tax is a very serious offense and if caught and found guilty your husband could be fined, jailed or both. So if you love him, persuade him to play it straight. He may not eat as well, but he'll sleep better.

DEAR ABBY: We work in a store. and hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. We are usually here at 8:30 a.m. preparing for the day's business, which requires getting the money and merchandise out.

Our problem concerns impatient customers who stand outside between 8:30 and 9 a.m. banging on the door and rattling the knob until it sounds like the building is coming down. Some of them even yell and gesture, demanding that we open the door!

Is there a solution to this problem?-COUNCIL BLUFFS,

DEAR C.B.: Put a shade on your door and curtains on your windows so you'll not be in evidence. (If they can't see you, they won't hassle you.) If that's not practical, just play deaf.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices headed lower again today after another unsuccessful bid to rally from the slide of the past 11 days.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up about a point in early trading, was down 4.33 at 816.79 by noontime. Losers outpaced gainers by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts said some internal factors were working in the market's favor, since a sharp slide in prices like the one since mid-October normally attracts "bargain hunters" at some point. But adverse inflation and interest-rate news kept the market from making much headway, and sellers took over again by midday. The government reported that the consumer price index rose at a 9.6 percent annual rate last month.

And several major banks joined in an increase in the prime lending rate from 10 to 101/4 percent, while analysts were already talking of a possible further move soon to 101/2 Goodyear led the active list, off % at 1614. A 219,000share block traded at 161/4. The NYSE's composite index fell .24 to 53.24. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .78 at 145.60. Volume on the Big Board reached 13.61 million shares by noontime, up from 11.48 million at the same point Thursday.

NEW YORK (AP) - All Americans must make sacrifices, President Carter said Tuesday night, but some people will say he is doing whatever he can to avoid the sacrifices that austerity implies.

He shuns mandatory controls. He continues to abide a huge and inflationary budget deficit. He seems inclined to sign a tax cut. He tried soft persuasion before reluctantly, accepting firm stan-

And the standards, on reflection, are likely to be considered less than harsh by both business and labor. They are in fact designed to continue inflation, although with a gradual lessening in severity. While the president referred to sacrifices, and said

'We must face a time of national austerity," his new wage-price standards give him away. He seeks a less painful remedy. Recession as a remedy is out. Critics, however, feel that despite his policy of tolerating moderate inflation as the price of avoiding recession, the president might get both. And that he might also be forced into mandatory controls. Economists generally foresee higher prices and lowered output in 1979, disagreeing mainly in degree. Inflation forecasts range from 6 percent to 9 percent, and output changes from below zero to plus 3.5

percent. All such forecasts were made before the president's request for limitations of 7 percent on wages and 5.75 percent on prices, which he said could reduce inflation to 6 percent or 6.5 percent next

However, over the past year or more the administration has been notably more optimistic than nongovernment economists. It expected the 1978 inflation rate to be just over 6 percent. It may exceed 8 percent. Throughout the inflation siege, individuals have tried various survival tactics, few of them successful. Pay raises, for example, were exceeded by higher prices, and real income therefore declined. Others went deeply into debt, not just for luxuries but for basics too. Obligations to repay installment credit now take between 15 percent and 16 percent of disposable personal income, a record.

The president's call for sacrifices, therefore, may have served merely to validate what many Americans already know is necessary, and which already they have been practicing for many months. Business and financial leaders especially, but consumer and voter groups too, have been telling

Washington that sacrifice began there, and that federal spending, a primary cause of inflation, had to The president has recognized that demand, promising to cut the fiscal 1979 deficit to $40 billion, but even in advance of his address many economists maintain it isn't enough, and blame it for inflation. "Balance it now, not later," one former adviser commented, saying it was discouraging to see the president pointing his finger at others and not dealing more forcefully with the issue of the deficit. But the president disagrees with that approach, which he believes could drop the country into a severe recession.

Quadruplet goes home

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The fourth Schwebach quadruplet, 15-week-old Bradley Francis, was home Thursday, after being released from Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital for Children

Bradley, who weighs 4 pounds, 12 ounces, joined his three sisters on Wednesday. The girls, Jill Courtney, Laura Elizabeth and Angela Marie, were released from the hospital about a month ago.

The quadruplets were born three months prematurely on July 12 to Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Schwebach of Chesterfield, Mo. Linda Schwebach said the couple's fifth child, 22-month-old Melissa, will go to Cardinal Glennon Tuesday for removal of a body cast she has worn to correct a hip problem. "Pretty soon my life's going to get back to normal," Mrs. Schwebach said.

Mrs. Schwebach, who had taken fertility drugs, said the family plans to go home at Christmas to Dell Rapids, S.D., weather and pediatricians permit-
