GOP letter big help ... for Democrats

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Basil Archey, who has never even voted Republican, was a bit startled when he received a numbered, "confidential" Republican National Committee memo outlining the party's 1978 national strategy.

It might also be somewhat unsettling for the Republicans. It seems Archey is the office manager for the Bexar County Democratic Party. "Normally, I would not let this plan out of our office because it contains vital information on our campaign strategy," Republican National Chairman Bill Brock said in a letter that accompanied the report 'I've taken the precaution of registering your copy with a special numer in

The report listed the 31 "most targeted" 1978 senatorial, congressional and gubernatorial races and was described by Brock as "the cornerstone of our whole Republican strategy to defeat vulnerable Democrat incum"I found it fascinating, absolutely fascinating," grinned Archey, a retired Army sergeant who released the report Monday.

"I've never had any dealings with the Republicans, I've been a Democrat since they let servicemen vote. It seems they somehow got hold of a list of retired military," he added. "I've gotten other mailouts from

In the Sept. 29 letter, Brock said the Republicans' fund-raising "has declined disastrously" and is lagging $3.2 million behind a projected campaign budget of $10.4 million.

"It's hurting our Republican candidates in Texas and every other state," he said. "Now that Republican election chances are better than ever, our financial situation couldn't be worse."

The only Texas race listed is that for the District 22 congressional seat between Democrat Bob Gammage and Republican Ron Paul. Bill Clements, who is attempting to become the first Republican governor of Texas since Reconstruction, is not mentioned.

Archey gleefully noted that the report omits Republican Tom Loeffler, who is running against Bexar County Democrat Nelson Wolff for the congressional seat being vacated by Democratic senatorial nominee Bob Loeffler, who has gotten campaign help from Republican leaders Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan and John Connally, has claimed his candidacy was one of the Republicans' top 1978 priorities.

The six targeted U.S. Senate races, the report said, are in West Virginia, Minnesota, Colorado, Maine, Mississippi and Iowa. The gubernatorial contests are in California, New York, Oregon, Connecticutt, Pennsylvania and Minnesota.

As for the apparent top-secret nature of the report, Archey scoffed, "That's fund-raising talk. There are no secrets in politics."

Fighting threatens cease-fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Heavy gunfire broke out today at the main crossroad between Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors, imperiling a three-day-old cease-fire between Lebanon's Christian militias and Syrian peacekeeping troops.

All roads between the two sectors were closed as machine guns blazed and rocket propelled grenades exploded, sending vehicles and pedestrians fleeing in panic. Witnesses said other crossing points between the two sectors came under heavy sniper

Reporters near the scene described the outbreak as the worst violation of the truce since it began Saturday

Beirut's Christian radio station reported that Israeli gunboats shelled Palestinian guerrilla camps in southern Lebanon during the night.

The Voice of Lebanon said the guerrillas returned the Israeli gunboat fire. No other details were given, there was no confirmation of the report, and the Israeli military command in Tel Aviv refused to confirm or deny the report.

Israeli gunboats shelled Moslem West Beirut, some 50 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border, last Thursday night to warn the Syrians to call off their war against Israel's Christian allies in East Beirut.

A cease-fire took effect in Beirut on Saturday after 10 days of fighting that left 1,300 dead and 2,000 wounded by Lebanese polic count.

The Christian radio said Syrian snipers were still active in the Qarantina mridge area on the noytheast side of the city.

The bridge is on the supply highway from Jounieh, the Christian port 15 miles north of Beirut, to the Christian half of the city. The boradcast said because of the sniping, the bridge remained closed to traffic.

The Christian radio also charged that the Syrians were maintaining their "food blockade" of East Beirut, preventing International Red Cross vehicles from bringing food and medicine to the survivors of the Syrian artillery, rocket and machine-gun fire. But foreign reporters in Beirut saw vehicles entering the Christian sector from the north on Monday.

Lebanon's moderate Moslem leadership criticized President Elias Sarkis for launching his peace initiative with Syria without consulting them. Sarkis, who negotiated the cease-fire with Syrian President

Commission considers public housing

Midland County is considering its first organized and federally subsidized housing program, a service which the city of Midland has, in effect, twice turned down on a point of

The Midland City Council two years in a row refused to include a rental subsidy provision in its annual funding requests, causing federal Housing and Urban Developments funds amounting to a total of almost $2 million to be withheld in fiscal years 1977 and 1978.

Some of those funds subsequently became available for possible countylevel use. And while county commissioners voted Monday to defer any action on the use of $230,000 in Federal Department of Housing and Urban Developments funds until the Midland Housing Association and the county judge's committee on aging make recommendations on a housing assistance program, County Judge Blake

HUD officials have not yet given the county a deadline for revision of their proposal, the judge added, "so there's no need to rush into a decision on this

Midland GOP campaign much better financed

By LINDA HILL R-T Staff Writer

Midland County Republican campaign "war chests" are much heavier than their Democratic counterparts, in part because of transfusions from state Republican organizations.

Best financed of all, thus far at least, is Sam Snoddy, Republican candidate for county commissioner, Precinct 2.

The secretary of state's office in Austin today confirmed state election law does not require a candidate to list his own money as a contribution, although most candidates do in order to "make the books look balanced." A contribution is defined as the transfer of funds or services for a campaign, said a spokesman for the secretary of state's office.

'Since it's his own money, he's not transering it to anyone. Most of them list it, but it's sort of a fiction...There's no reason the books have to balance," the spokesman

Cease-fire again imperiled by fighting in parts of Beirut

Hafez Assad last week, is on a visit to three Arab governments that contribute troops to the Arab League peacekeeping force in Lebanon. Syria supplies the bulk of the peace force.

"We have neither been consulted nor represented," said Prime Minister Selim el-Hoss, a Moslem. He said Sarkis would not be able "to take any major decisions without consulting

The mandate for the peacekeepers expires Oct. 28, and it was believed that Sarkis was seeking agreement for an extension

The Christian radio station said Sarkis also was trying to get other Arab nations to increase the size of their forces in Lebanon so the Syrians could be reduced until all nations had the same size contingent. But this report was considered highly suspect since it was unlikely that Assad would agree to anything less than a dominant role in Lebanon.

Sarkis went first to Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, to confer with Crown Prince Fahd. Though the Saudi troop contribution to the peace force is small, the wealthy oil state is the force's chief financial backer.

Sarkis also was visiting Sudan and the United Arab Emirates.

Assad said Sarkis was seeking endorsement of "ideas we have agreed upon" and would return to Damascus 'so we can put them into final shape.

Syria intervened in the Lebanese civil war 21/2 years ago to prevent the defeat of the Christians by the leftist Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies. But the Christians refused to disarm their militias when the Syrians did not disarm the Moslems and Palestinians, and the Syrians began trying to bring the Christians under their control last Febru-

October is keeping it's record for dry days thus far, with no rain recorded in the past 24 hours and no chance of rain mentioned in today's forecast.

A total of 12.31 inches of rainfall has been recorded this year to date, an increase of seven inches over this time last year, said officials. Record high for Oct. 9 is 92 degrees set in 1965. The record low for today is 44 degrees set in 1970. Area towns reported mostly cloudy and cool weather.

Andrews, Lamesa, Crane weather watchers said they were experiencing cool temperatures and fog early Stanton weather watchers recorded 58 degrees early today and Rankin residents said they had a 60-degree reading there.

Odessa and Big Spring reported cool and clear weather early today. Dense, patchy ground fog cut visibility to less than one mile in the Midland-Odessa area of West Texas early this morning, but forecasters

Midland may soon have women's crisis center

After repeated attempts to get a women's crisis center off the ground in Midland, the facility may be closer to reality than ever before.

Approximately 18 persons Monday night met in Hope Lutheran Church for an organizational meeting. The center will be known as the Crisis Center For Battered Women and Children. According to the Rev. David C.

Baker, pastor of Hope Lutheran and coordinator for the meeting, about half a dozen people met six weeks ago and decided to try again to get a women's crisis center going. Baker said the center will concentrate first on battered women and children and, hopefully, will branch out to rape victims and women and girls with unwanted pregnancies. The center will be able to house 10 women and children who find themselves in a violent domestic situation. Such victims will have a place to go for safe refuge and help in making decisions to either get out of an unhealthy marriage situation or to go If they choose the former, there will be help available in finding jobs and going back to school. The task force committee is made up of Baker; Sandie Crutchfield, secretary; Hazel Trent, treasurer;

It was brought out that battered children have no place to go if not injured enough to be hospitalized. Only four foster families are available in Midland.

The facility will be patterned after the Center For Battered Women in Austin, which opened in June 1977. Temporary shelter has been provided at this center for 364 women and children since it opened.

Through a 24-hour hotline telephone service, the staff at the Austin center has talked with 1,300 other individuals requesting counseling, referral information or residence at the center. It handles women and children ages 16-76 and has a capacity of 14 residents at one time.

According to police records, there were in Midland 57 reports of assaults in domestic settings in 1977 and 29 for the first six months of this year. Battering can occur in a tenement or behind the walls of a $100,000 suburban home. It crosses all socio-economic racial and religious lines. This type of family violence, spouse abuse, remains one of the least reported crimes in the country. However, statistics indicate that some five million married women in this country endure beatings Some wives hesitate to take any legal action because of social pressures, although society is becoming more and more aware of the battered wives syndrome

The next meeting of the group will be 7 p.m. Oct. 23 in the 1st National Room of The First National Bank.

Angolan government begins offensive against UNITA

PARIS (AP) - Angolan government troops reinforced by Cubans, Russians and Katangan gendarmes have launched an offensive against guerrilla positions of National Union for the Total Independence of Angola in the center and south of the country, a UNITA statement said today.

The statement by the UNITA mission here, said to have been recorded by UNITA leader Jonas Savimbi at his headquarters inside Angola, denied recurrent rumors that he had been killed or captured by government forces or imprisoned in neighboring

The reported new government offensive could not be confirmed.

The statement - the first in several months attributed directly to Savimbi - rejected an amnesty offered to UNITA by Angolan President Agostinho Neto and pledged to continue the guerrilla struggle until the "total liberation of our country from Soviet-Cuban domination."

"We do not accept the peace of the cemetery and the concentration camp, we do not accept a dialogue under Cuban cannons.

The statement said the Katangans, exiles from Zaire's Shaba Province, have been rearmed and integrated with the Cuban forces lined up against UNITA. Savimbi said Neto's reconciliation with Zaire's President Mobutu Sese Seko helped to free some Angolan forces for the offensive against UNITA, but he said he was confident in the guerrillas' ability to repel all attacks

"Our armed resistance is holding the Cubans down and prevents them from attacking other peoples in the region," he said. If not for the UNITA struggle, he added, the Cubans "would flock into Namibia," or South-West Africa, to try to impose a Soviet-dictated policy there. He claimed that thousands of Angolan children-were being sent to schools in Cuba "in a new form of slavery" for Communist indoctrina-

John Tower gets nod

John Tower has served the Lone Star State of Texas faithfully and well in the United States Senate 'or 17 years, and we can see no reason for making a change at this time.

He is the Republican nominee for re-election to the Senate in the Nov. 7 general election. He is opposed by Democrat Rep. Robert Krueger.

Both men are well known in West Texas and both have fine records of public service. Both also have voting records, which express their basic political philosophy, and this is where the choice between the two nominees must be made.

John Tower's voting record in the Senate has been conservative and responsible, in line with the thinking of what we believe to be a majority of residents of this part of the state, and most of Texas, for that matter.

He has been responsive, generally speaking, to the expressed and specific deaires of his constituents, while striving always to serve the best interests of his home state and its residents.

Sen. Tower has gone to bat time after time for what he considered to be the best interests of the oil and gas industry, particularly in its efforts to meet the challenge of the energy crisis, and in its significant relationship with Texas and Texans.

His interests and efforts also have been geared to the goals, progress and problems of other industries and commercial interests affecting Texas' economy:

Sen. Tower strongly opposed the so-called "labor reform" package and remains unalterably opposed to any move which would eliminate or dilute the State's Right-to-Work laws.

Rep. Krueger, on the other hand, supported the "labor reform" measure, stating his belief that it was not a threat to Right-to-Work laws. Krueger also has the support of big labor in his campaign for election to the Senate.

Sen. Tower also opposes, without reservation, the amendment giving "statehood", to Washington, D.C. Rep. Krueger voted for the measure.

Rep. Krueger, however, must be given credit for his diligent, untiring efforts to gain immediate deregulation of natural gas. And he came very near achieving this goal at one time. Texans are grateful to him for his efforts in this particular cause, but many disagree with him on other legislative matters.

Sen. Tower also strives diligently for a strong defense posture and disagrees with the Carter administration in most of its foreign policies.

Considering these and other factors based on his record and his conservative political philosophy, The Reporter-Telegram endorses John Tower and recommends his re-election to the U.S. Senate in the Nov. 7 balloting.

A CHANGING WORLD: United States policy threatens major industry

By JOHN PINKERMAN Copley News Service

President Carter and others before him have for several years bemoaned the nation's massive balance of payments deficit and have pointed the finger of guilt principally at petroleum imports.

The President and Congress might give greater attention t o the No. 2 villain - textile and apparel imports. In some ways such as lost American jobs, increased unemployment compensation costs, disappearing tax revenue and added welfare costs, the detrimental impact of the flood of textile and clothing imports is greater than that resulting from continued dependence on Mideast oil.

There are 2.5 million textile and apparel workers in this country and 365,000 of these are either unemployed (200,000) or on short time (165,000).

At the same time, 1978 imports through August of textiles and clothing, mostly from Japan, South Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, India and Red China, have increased by 40 percent over the first eight months of

On top of this the 1977 balance of trade deficit in textiles of $3.4 billion has increased 70 percent this year. This includes an increase of 25 percent in Japanese imports — at the same time that the government pleads it is working hard to reduce the massive balance of trade deficit that is in Japan's favor.

Much of the government's rationale for permitting such imbalance has been that letting foreign textiles and products enter the United States at such a disadvantage to American manufacturers and workers has been in the interests of helping Third World and developing nations. As Buford Brandis, economics expert with the American Textile Manufacturers Institute, said in an interview, "We have, in essence, a 'Third World' population of our own in this country and it is being deprived of work by short-sighted policies."

What Brandis means is vividly illustrated by statistics. Along with the fact that the textile industry employs 65 percent women in its 2.5 million work force, the job rolls also include 23 percent minority participation in other industrial work.

Further impact of imports is the other industries.

This loss of jobs in textiles, while concentrated in the southeastern states, extends across the nation, from New England to Oregon and south to Southern California where the Los Angeles area alone employs 60,000 textile and apparel workers. In New York City ethnics fill a major share of 250,000 jobs that are subject to the impact of foreign textiles and products dumped into the United States.

the role of Red China. Five years ago China did not send any products to the United States. Today it has a in this country and, considering the "normalization" thrust of the Carter favored nation" status, thus worsening conditions for U.S. manufacturers.

'China has the potential of Japan in textile and apparel exports to the United States," Brandis said, "and that will further damage American Brandis claims that the American theory of "free trade is great" just doesn't work in his industry.

"We must buy American cotton and wool and other products," he said, "while the foreign countries that send their material and products here can shop on the cheaper world

"We are also told that if our workers lose their jobs they can always switch to the electronics industry. However, almost everybody knows that electronics products television sets, radio sets, tape recorders and others - are mostly manufactured outside the United

The problem is a tough one. The United States always has sought to assist less fortunate nations and to encourage free trade. However, balance of payments deficits, increased unemployment in the textile industry and other associated problems would seem to indicate a need for a new look at policy on imports. This does not mean the erection of a rigid protectionist wall but it does mean some action that will give a better break to American industry and its workers.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Chief Justice Burger vs. press

By JACK ANDERSON

The open WASHINGTON hostility of the courts toward the press, which has resulted in the jailing of several reporters without a trial for refusing to divulge their news sources, possibly has grown out of the private attitudes of Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Behind the heavy maroon drapes of the Supreme Court, he bas assailed the press bitterly. Witnesses say he reflects the animosity of the man who appointed him, ex-President Richard Nixon. . These witnesses recall that Burger, in the privacy of his chambers, castigated the press for its Watergate coverage. They say he seemed as antagonistic toward newsmen as Nixon, whose hate affair with the press now appears to have infected the federal judiciary.

It may seem ironic, therefore, that Burger wrote the 8-to-0 ruling that compelled Nixon to submit to the trial courts his incriminating secret White House tapes. But behind the scenes, the chief justice raised pro-Nixon arguments in the Supreme Court chambers. Even from the bench, he made observations and asked questions that were sympathetic to

Our sources suggest that Burger probably decided he could help Nixon more by writing a restrained majority opinion than standing alone in Nixon's corner. Burger took pains in the decision to give Nixon credit for good faith, even though the former president clearly sought to withhold the tapes to protect himself from public disgrace and criminal charges. Those who know Burger say he has been a Nixon partisan for a quarter of a century. Of course, judges aren't supposed to let their personal prejudices affect their judicial decisions. But the chief justice displayed a vengeful spirit, our sources say, in encouraging his fellow justices to join him in anti-press rulings. Four justices were appointed by Nixon and at least two others share the former president's hostile attitude toward the press.

The Supreme Court, of course, sets the precedents for the lower courts. Its rulings against the press have encouraged judges, attorneys and grand juries across the country to serve an unprecedented barrage of subpoenas on newsmen. Dozens of reporters have been cited for con-

Burger was visibly elated, according to witnesses, after the recent jailing of The New York Times reporter Myron Farber for refusing to hand over his confidential notes to a New Jersey judge. The chief justice was beaming as he approached two newsmen, Fred Graham of CBS News and Steven Brill of Esquire magazine. at the recent American Bar Association convention in New York

"Well, I guess they're going to fire Gary Wills from The New York Times," said Burger, smiling happily. Wills had written a column contending that newsmen have no right to withhold subpoenaed papers from the courts. "Did you see it? It was great," Burger said, referring to the column.

"Wills is not a columnist for the Times, He's sypdicated. I don't even think his column appears in the Times," said Graham.

"Well, won't he be fired from his profession because he exercised his First Amendment rights?" taunted the chief justice.

Burger became more animated as he talked, witnesses recalled. Chortling, he said: "You know they took Farber off to jail a little while Graham became involved in a side conversation with Justice Lewis owell. So, Burger turned to Brill and demanded: "Do you think you have special privileges like this guy Farber

The Farber case is expected to come before the Supreme Court where the chief justice, who is supposed to render impartial judgments, will be asked to rule on "this guy Farber." Now that he has been caught expressing his hostility in the open, he may feel compelled to disqualify himself from joining in the verdict. But he hasn't hestitated to particIpate actively in other antipress rulings, despite a bias that he hasn't tried to hide from his colleagues on the court.

Burger has occasionally erupted in anger over press attempts to cover his public activities. At an earlier American Bar Association convention in Atlanta, another CBS television reporter, Phil Jones, had arranged to film Burger's speech. But at the last minute, the chief justice ordered the cameras removed. Jones approached him to appeal the decision, and the confrontation was recorded.

"I don't care who he is," sputtered Burger when a convention official tried to introduce Jones. But Jones spoke up. "I'm asking why I cannot cover the speech."

'Come over to my office some time when you have an hour or two, and I'll be glad to discuss it with you,'

'You don't consider this a public speech?" asked Jones. "I don't care to discuss the subject with you," Burger said. Well, we're charged with covering

"Call somebody and remove him," ordered the chief justice, "or am I going to have to remove him? ... Afterward, a Supreme Court aide called Jones' superior to ask whether the reporter was a troublemaker. The question of allowing TV coverage of the Supreme Court sent Burger up the wall earlier this year.

Footnote: A Supreme Court spokesman insisted that Burger "is not biased" against the press but refused further comment. Friends of Burger also defended him, saying he was a private individual whose seeming arrogance was really shyness. They described him as "conscientious" and "dedicated" with a passion for dignity that has led him to adopt a regal manner.

'Rocky Mountain tax fever' raging in Colorado By ROWLAND EVANS

AND ROBERT NOVAK

INSIDE REPORT:

DENVER — The possibility that the White House and Democratic party leaders have guessed wrong on the pivotal issue of tax reduction is raised by grim re-election prospects for liberal Democratic Sen. Floyd Haskell. The consensus here is that Haskell has been dropping for five months and either trails Rep. Bill Armstrong, his conservative Republican foe, or soon will. The just-published Denver. Post poll shows an eight-percentagepoint Armstrong lead among proba-ble voters. Raw figures give Haskell a four-percentage-point lead but only 41 percent; less than 50 percent at this stage usually spells defeat for an

The national significance: no Republican has geared his campaign to the Kemp-Roth tax reduction bill more closely than Armstrong. A close friend of Rep. Jack Kemp and an original co-sponsor of his bill, Armstrong wants this election to be a tax

Haskell is more than agreeable. He is skeptical even of the Senate's $25 billion tax cut and describes Kemp-Roth as "totally irresponsible." His beautifully crafted 30-minute TV pro-gram does not fudge; while pointing to big budget deficits, Haskell declares: "We can't at the same time have a tax cut."

Instead, Haskell calls for a balanced budget. That may seem peculiar for a senator whose economy rating by the National Taxpayers Union is a subpar 27 percent (compared to Armstrong's 74 percent). Just last year, Haskell warned that a balanced budget now would produce

"one of the damndest recessions we've ever had.'

However exotic for liberal Democrats, the balanced-budget formula is the antidote devised by party strategists to neutralize Kemp-Roth. But one such national strategist, after studying Colorado polls, told us: "It's not working for Haskell." His recommendation: "Hit Armstrong as a right-winger."

There is indeed a vivid contrast. Ex-tax lawyer Haskell, 62, a transplanted Jerseyite and Harvard man who has not lost his cultivated Eastern accent, is viewed by Republicans as typical of leftish newcomers who have transformed Colorado's Democratic party. Ex-businessmen Armstrong, 41, a native Nebraskan, is derided by Democrats for wearing his evangelical Christianity (he was "born again" four years ago) on his sleeve and is considered typical of Republican rightward drift here.

In 1970, Armstrong was Republican leader in the state Senate while Haskell was Republican whip in the House. Haskell's unorthodox Republicanism was increasingly challeneged by fellow Republicans, and he switched parties the day after Ri-chard M. Nixon's 1970 invasion of Cambodia. In 1972, tapped as the sacrificial Democratic candidate, he defeated the supposedly impregnable Sen. Gordon Allott. Whereas Colorado politicians a decade ago raced for the middle of the road, Haskell and Armstrong exemplify the ideological polarization of 1978.

Abandonment of the center is underscored by contrasting attitudes on the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). Haskell has opposed even a small business exclusion. Addressing an appreciative Rotary Club audience in Fort Collins, Armstrong advocated outright abolition of OSHA because "it has done more harm than good."

Polarization is more dramatic on national defense. Armstrong declares defense spending must go up; Haskell pledges "to lower the nuclear buildup," attacks "clearly excessive" weapons programs and promises he will "not let them get away with waste.

Haskell's handlers have no trouble finding outrages in Armstrong's record. Newspaper ads attack his votes against funding for senior citizens, handicapped persons and solar energy. A newly published flyer attacks his votes against ERA, Headstart and congressional ethics. "He is a candidate without sensitivity, without a heart," Haskell's campaign manager Jean Galloway told us.

Are Coloradans all that concerned with sensitivity and matters of the heart? "I'm afraid not," a Democratic national committeeman told us. "Our hope is pollution, not good works." With the "brown cloud" hovering over Denver, even Republican environmental voting record, espe-cially his support of the auto industry on emission standards at high alti-

It is the heart of Armstrong's strategy that votes on auto emission standards are minor compared with his call for lower taxes. In the first of three non-televised debates, Haskell called Armstrong's proposals "truly, truly dangerous." Off the stump, he compares Armstrong with the Texas demagogue of 40 years ago, W. Lee (Pass-the-Biscuits-Pappy) O'Daniel, who promised "$40 every Monday" for each head of household, then called for his hillbilly hand to play when somebody asked where the money would come from.

But wasn't O'Daniel elected governor and didn't he nose out Lyndon B. Johnson for the Senate in 1942? "Is that so?" Haskell asked. "I didn't know that." A few days later, the Denver Post's poll showed times may not have changed.

NEW YORK (AP) - Rudy Vallee crooned a few bars and reminisced about the days the Copacabana nightclub was the "Villa Vallee," as the famous nightspot reopened on its 50th anniversary as a showcase for recording artists.

The Copa, run as a discotheque since 1976, "is without a doubt the biggest name in show business," owner John Juliano said Monday. "During the '40s, '50s and '60s if you didn't play the Copa you were nowhere."

Vallee, 77, played the Copa in 1929. As the Villa Vallee the nightclub served steak for $2.50 and "had an overflow so big you couldn't get in," he said.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The cowboy feud between Gene Autry and Roy Rogers was just a Hollywood game, Autry says in his autobiography, "Back In The Saddle Again."

According to Autry, his old Republic Pictures boss, Herbert J. Yates, was angered when he enlisted in the Army Air Corps after Pearl Harbor.

'By the time you come back, you'll be forgotten," the studio boss said. "And it won't hurt us. No, sir. If we have to, we'll spend a million dollars to promote (Roy) Rogers. And we'll make him bigger than you ever

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The sudden death of Pope John Paul I is again raising the question of whether the papal workload is too much for one man.

But for the time being, long workdays seem to be in store for the new Roman Catholic pontiff the 111 cardinals will start voting for on Sunday.

"One doesn't only need typewriters, but also a reading machine," John Paul is reported to have told aides during his 34-day reign.

Some prelates say the burden of the office may have have been a cause of the heart seizure that killed the 65-year-old "pastor" pope who admitted knowing little about administrative matters.

When found dead in his bed Sept. 29, he was holding study papers in his hands. On his last workday, he granted 13 audiences, read six Roman newspapers and studied reports on the Christian-Syrian fighting in Lebanon and abuses of human rights in various

"In the hands of the pope — and on his shoulders — there is unequaled concentration of power and responsibility," the Turin newspaper La Stampa commented. "Seven hundred million Roman Catholics turn to him. He is head of a state recognized by over 100 countries. He is the administrator of a unit that has universal proportions.'

The Vatican Curia, the church's central bureaucracy, is sizable and immensely skilled, but it can't do much without the pope's consent. No document issued by the Holy See has legal validity without his Multiplying Vatican departments only means more work for the pontiff.

'Not only is the work too much for one person but it is getting worse, and there is nothing one can do about it without changing the concept of the papacy," says one observer of Vatican affairs.

Questions currently raised include whether the papacy should be switched from the time-honored absolute monarchy" system to one with clearcut division and delegation of power and responsibility, and what that change would mean to the au-

In addition to the cardinals and other prelates who head the Curia departments, popes consult other cardinals and bishops. But such consultations only consume more time, and the pontiffs must still make their decisions in the solitude of their office.

"The time has come to reduce the heavy burden of pontifical work, delegating some papal functions so that work will not extend beyond human toleration," Cardinal Franz Koenig of Vienna said after the death

His predecessor, Paul VI, often worked from 6 meant a major break with tradition. That, too, needed careful and time-consuming study.

Despite his health, Pope Paul survived the papal work load for 15 years and died at 80, the retirement age he made mandatory for the rest of the church's bishops. But he did not extend the retirement mandate to himself and once was quoted as saying: "Kings can abdicate, popes cannot."

Texas American Bancshares is the largest bank holding company in Texas which has built a statewide banking organization from a base other than Houston or Dallas.

Strong Statewide Banking Organization

Home base is Fort Worth, a dynamic part of the Dallas-Fort Worth Southwest Metroplex, the nation's tenth largest market. Our lead bank, The Fort Worth National, is the city's largest and oldest financial institution.

Of course, we're also in Houston and Dallas. We're in Houston with three banks, including a major downtown entry, Southern National Bank. Our newest Houston acquisition is the Galleria Bank, located in the famed Galleria Complex, one of the nation's most successful retail market places. We're in Dallas with Texas American Bank, the city's eighth largest bank. And we're a part of the resources-rich and thriving economies of West Texas, the Panhandle and the South Plains, with strong banks in Midland, Amarillo and Levelland.

Our long-range plans include strengthening our ties to the state's burgeoning economy through prudent expansion into other key areas

Most importantly, we're growing across Texas. Steadily. Solidly. Forging ahead from a strong capital base which positions us to take advantage of the favorable economic conditions prevailing in our areas of operations.

13.4% Compound Growth Rate

We've grown in per share earnings, which over the past five years have risen at a compound rate of 13.4%. Each year since our formation as a holding company in 1970, we've broken the prior year's record highs in deposits, loans, total assets and stockholders' equity. We're now at more than $2 billion in assets and $1.6 billion in deposits. The comparable 1970 year-end figures were $585 million and $458 million.

Dividend Increases

In recognition of our strong earnings' performance and future outlook, we increased our dividend rate by 54.4% since January 1976, including the effect of a 5% stock dividend. We invite your comparison of our performance with those of other bank holding companies in Texas and across the nation.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - Juan Pablo Perez Alfonzo, one of the founders of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, says the oil industry in Venezuela is in an irreversible decline and even huge new investments probably would not restore production capacity.

In a 72-page document presented at a graduate student seminar in oil economics Saturday, the 75-year-old Perez Alfonzo claimed Venezuela has dropped the price of its oil to the point that it is now "the world's cheapest." He also bemoaned wasteful government spending and the nation's failure to reduce its dependence on the oil

Responding to Perez Alfonzo's criticism, President Carlos Andres Perez said Sunday the former oil minister apparently had based his study on erroneous information and denied that Venezuela was underpricing its oil on the world market.

The president agreed, however, that domestic gasoline prices, which are now subsidized, need to be raised to halt skyrocketing consumption.

Venezuela is the world's third largest exporter of oil after Saudi Arabia and Iran, and is a key supplier to the U.S. market. The country nationalized the industry three years ago.

Venezuela has cut the average price of its oil exports from $12.60 a barrel in 1977 to $12 this year, Perez Alfonzo said, compared with $12.70 a barrel for oil from the Arab members of OPEC countries and $13.25 for oil from Mexico, which is not a member of the cartel.

Agreement getting closer on energy tax program

By MIKE SHANAHAN

WASHINGTON (AP) - After nearly 18 months of deliberation, Congress is about to come to grips with the last remaining part of President Carter's energy plan.

By voting Monday for the last two non-tax portions of the energy package - one covering energy conservation and the other electric utility rates - the Senate has now approved conference committee compromises on Monday, the way is clear for the House to begin debate Thursday or Friday on final passage of the energy package, first sent to Capitol Hill in Although the Senate considered the energy package in five separate pieces, the House plans to lump the conference committee reports together for a final vote. There will be either four or five

The fifth, an energy tax proposal that is a severely watered-down version of Carter's original proposal, is working its way toward a conference committee agreement and could reach the Senate floor in the next day

A proposed compromise was signed by House negotiators Monday and Senate members of the committee were expected to sign today.

The measure includes a tax on fuelinefficient cars applying only to the worst offenders and beginning in 1980, instead of with 1979 models as originally suggested. The tax would range from $200 to $550 for 1980 models getting less than 15 miles per gallon. By 1986 the levy would rise to a maximum $3,850 for cars getting less than 12.5 mpg.

The tax credit portion would give homeowners 15 percent on the first $2,000 purchase of home insulation, storm windows and doors and a variety of other energy-saving devices, to a total credit of $300. Credits of up to $2,200 for solar energy devices are also included. As a result of the two Senate votes

Firm makes highest bid

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah-Coastal States Gas Corp. announced its wholly-owned subsidiary, Coastal States Energy Co., was the high bidder and apparent winner of 2,632 acres of federal coal leases in a Bureau of Land Management lease sale recently in Salt Lake City.

The Coastal unit submitted a bid of $227 per acre for the lands located adjacent to its Southern Utah Fuel Co. underground mine near Salina in Sevier County, Utah.

The company said production from the newly-acquired lands will begin as soon as the lease is awarded by extending operations from the Southern Utah Fuel mine's existing por-

Mine outpout, currently running at 1,500,000 tons a year, will be increased to approximately 2 million tons as a result of the acquisition.

Upcoming books to examine death, threat of Moro

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON

ROME (AP) - Via Aldo Moro: streets all over Italy now carry that name. Medals and monuments, too, honor the former premier, turning him into a popular hero four months after his death at the hands of terrorist kidnappers.

But fallout from this Moro-mania also threatens to unglue the political alliances that held together so firmly during Aldo Moro's long captivity by Red Brigades terrorists.

At least three books will go on sale soon in which major authors examine Italian terrorism and the handling of Moro's kidnapping by the government and its political allies.

Recent publication of new letters written by Moro during the 55 days he was held has also touched off a political storm. The letters, kept secret until now by police investigators, are viewed as damaging to the Communist Party. It is not known who leaked them to the press.

As happened in the United States after President Kennedy's slaving in 1963, many Italian cities and towns renamed schools, streets and squares following the abduction of the fivetime premier in an ambush in Rome on March 16 and the discovery of his body June 9.

A table-tennis tournament in Genoa, a cycling race near Rome and a gymnastics exhibition in Naples were all renamed for Moro as part of the recent trend to honor him.

The trade fair in his hometown of Bari in southern Italy sold Moro coins valued at 5,000 lire each - $5.50 that were accepted as money at the fair. And the annual festival of his Christian Democrat Party issued Moro stamps for use in sealing let-

Italians still make pilgrimages to Via Michelangelo Caetani, the narrow street, a stone's throw from the Communist and Christian Democrat parties' headquarters, where Moro's body was found stuffed in the back of a car. They pray and leave flowers and such notes as "Man dies but the ideal remains, the blood of martyrs is the seed of Christianity."

But some critics say the rush to create a Moro myth is in bad taste and is merely an attempt to make political capital out of his death.

Moro's widow, Eleonora, and family friends have cut ties with the Christian Democrat Party, which along with the Communists supported a hard-line stance and ruled out any negotiations with Moro's captors. Some reports say Mrs. Moro will join the Socialists, the one party that urged no door be closed in an attempt to save Moro's life. Socialist leader Bettino Craxi recently was given a bullet-proof Alfa Romeo, protection Moro was without when he was grabbed by gunmen who killed his five bodyguards. Craxi said the donors included friends of the

The government's no-deal stance, applauded at the time by Italy's allies and Italians themselves, is now subject to considerable second-guessing.

And the press is filled with reports of various schemes to free Moro that were said to have been under consideration by top officials - despite their proclaimed hard-line stance - such as releasing one jailed terrorist and giving the Red Brigades "recogni-

Noted Sicilian author Leonardo Sciascia in an upcoming book disputes the contention that Moro's letters were not "morally attributable" to him but were written by a man under duress or perhaps drugged. He claims Moro was abandoned or betrayed by his allies for their own political reasons.

Other critics say the refusal to recognize the letters as indeed those of Moro "the politician" is merely an attempt at myth-making.

Moro wrote several dozen letters from captivity, addressed to political and governmental leaders and friends, urging the government to make a deal to save his life.

"I die if my party so decides, in the fullness of Christian faith and in the immense love for an exemplary family I adore. But this bloodbath will not go well for (party secretary Benigno) Zaccagnini, (Premier Giulio) Andreotti, the party. Or for the country.

Paradoxically, the wave of Moromania is coming just as police appear to have made a breakthrough in the hunt for Moro's kidnappers with the arrest of Corrado Alunni, the reputed leader of the Red Brigades.

Senate seeks spending, taxing tie

- If the Senate has its way, there'll be no tax cuts in future years unless Congress holds down the growth of federal spending.

On the other hand, a successful fight against rapid spending increases would reward Americans with new tax cuts totaling $164.5 billion between 1980 and 1983. That would mean a tax reduction of about $453 over those four years for a typical four-member family earning $20,000.

There is no assurance that the tie between future tax cuts and reductions in federal spending growth will be accepted by the House.

But the fact the amendment won such broad support, 65-20, in the Senate Monday night

That vote could end any chance of enacting this year either the Humphrey-Hawkins fullemployment bill or legislation to control hospital

Passage of the tax bill also may be expedited by the fact the Senate has already enlarged the tax cut to the point where there is no room in the budget for a bigger reduction.

The bill, which came out of the committee with a $22.9 billion price tag, now is valued at $30 billion. The budget limit on revenue losses will companied by other rev- inflation rate, and enue raisers.

The budget squeeze is jeopardizing the current tax deduction allowed for taxes. The House voted to repeal the deduction, as did the Finance Com-

Judge orders Farber to return to jail

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) - New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber was ordered today to return to jail Thursday unless he surrenders his files in a murder case.

Superior Court Judge Theodore W. Trautwein said Farber, who is Jewish, would be given the extra time so that he could observe Yom Kippur, a holiday in the Jewish religion.

"I want this man to be able to observe his High Holy Day," Trautwein said. "Maybe there will be a change of mind Thursday morning. Think abhout it, Mr.

Trautwein asked Farber if he still insisted on withholding files subpoenaed by attorneys for Dr. Mario Jascalevich, who is accused of three deaths of patients at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell, N.J. "Your honor, I respectfully decline to comply with that order in accordance with my rights under the Constitution and the New York and New Jersey shield laws," Farber said.

An attorney for The Times had said Monday he "would not be surprised" if Farber continued to withhold the files.

Last July, Trautwein sentenced Farber to an indefinite jail term and fined the Times $5,000 a day because of Farber's refusal to hand over files on Jascalevich, the defendant in a 7-month-old murder trial.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Friday that Farber's freedom is governed by Trautwein, pending an appeal, if he continues to withhold the

But Times attorney Eugene R. Scheiman said Monday the court had made no "definitive ruling" on Farber's claims of journalistic privilege. He said Farber, who spent 27 days in the Bergen County Jail, remained firm in his decision to go to jail rather than release his confidential files.

The high court, on a 7-1 vote, set aside an order by Justice Potter Stewart, which temporarily spared the reporter from more time in jail and suspended fines against the Times while the appeal was pending.

Jascalevich's trial was recessed last week to await the Supreme Court's action. The trial was to resume today.

Jascalevich is accused of murdering three patients at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell in 1965 and 1966 by injecting lethal doses of the muscle relaxant curare. He has been acquitted of two related murder counts.

The New Jersey Supreme Court already has rejected on a 5-2 vote the appeals filed on behalf of the Times and Farber. That court said that in a conflict between the constitutional guarantees of a free press and a fair trial, the rights of the defendant should take precedence Jascalevich's attorneys say they need Farber's notes to assist in their defense. They contend the reporter collaborated with Bergen County authorities to indict Jascalevich.

The county's dormant probe of the mysterious hospital deaths was not criminal contempt.

reopened until Farber presented authorities with information he had uncovered during his investigation.

Trial Judge William J. Arnold has said he would examine Farber's files confidentially to determine if they should be given to Jascalevich's attorneys. However, the Times and Farber say even a private inspection by a judge would violate their rights.

The Times, which has paid $135,000 in daily $5,-000 civil contempt fines, has turned over everything it says it has on the case. Trautwein has refused, however, to lift the contempt citation.

In addition to the civil contempt penalties, Farber was sentenced to six months in prison and fined $1,000 and the Times fined $100,000 for

Workers feel sold out by labor union

NEW STANTON, Pa. (AP) - Anger among the blue-collar workers who struck Volkswagen's only U.S. assembly plant has been directed Workers as well as the German automaker. Several hundred members of UAW Local 2055, shouting that the union "sold us out," on Monday barricaded entrances to VW's sprawling Rabbit assembly plant near this Westmoreland County community. Leaders of the newly organized, 1,800-member local were summoned to a hearing today in West-moreland County Court, where VW sought an injunction ordering the strikers to open their picket lines so salaried personnel could enter.

'They are preventing access to the plant for anyone," said VW spokesman Chet Bahn, who along with other plant officials set up a temporary office in a nearby motel.

State police were called in to clear up a traffic bottleneck, but no arrests were made. Pickets, displaying signs saying "No money, not sanction a strike offer would give produc- $5.50. no bunny," closed the after members voted 1,plant, 35 miles southeast 235-94 at Sunday's rauof Pittsburgh, after the cous meeting to reject local overwhelmingly re- a contract offer that projected on Sunday a proposed contract announced by Harry Davis, a UAW international rep-

'We're not radicals. We want to work. But Davis and his people are making us like that. We want to get-paid a decent wage and that's what we're fighting for."

The plant, which opened in April and manufacturers about 300 Rabbits a day, is Volkswagen's first in the United States. The facility was shut down by a wildcat strike in September when workers protested disciplinary actions against two fellow emposed minimum wages of $9.62 an hour by 1981.

Oops, Playboy gets Baltimore cheerleader ber of the Baltimore Colts' cheerleading squad has been dismissed for posing in the nude for Playboy magazine, the National Football League team said Monday.

The Colts said Andrea Mann. 22, a postal worker from suburban Towson, was fired by Arch Schmersal, director of the team's marching band. The cheerleaders are under the band's direction.

Neither Mann nor Schmersal was available for comment.

MANN'S DISMISSAL is the latest in a series of such actions acround the NFL. The Chicago Bears dismissed a member of their Honey Bears cheerleader unit for posing for the magazine and the entire San Diego Chargers' unit, the Chargettes, was axed after it was learned that one member posed in the

"The photos are part of a special pictorial on NFL cheerleaders, scheduled for publication in Playboy's December issue.

Ernie Accorsi, the Colts' assistant general manager who announced the firing, said Playboy had asked for three cheerleaders to pose in their cheerleading outfits. When the women arrived for the photo session, the photographer asked each individually is she would pose nude, Accorsi said.

Two other Colt cheerleaders, whose names were not released, reportedly turned down the nude-photo offer.

DAN SHERIDAN, a Playboy spokesman, told the Baltimore Evening Sun that the dismissal is part of a situation that "probably is going to happen all across the country ...

"One of the women who runs the Chargettes said something to the effect that the girls didn't know what was happening and that there was misrepresentation," Sheridan said in a tele-"That is nonsense."

MIAMI (AP) - Don Strock has hardly been a Cinderella story as the Miami Dolphins' quarterback, but he can take pride in his accomplishments as the clock nears midnight in his starting Strock tossed two touchdowns Monday night and nose tackle Bob Baumhower returned a fumble 13 yards for a touchdown as the Dolphins blanked the winless Cincinnati Bengals 21-0. Strock, who has been booed each home game, yielded to Bob Griese in the fourth quarter. The crowd greeted Griese, making his first appearance since a knee injury in the final exhibition game, with a thunderous ovation. Griese opened with a 17-yard pass completion, finished with two of four, and indicated he's ready to pick up where last season the best of his career — ended.

"IT FELT great to be in there. I'm able to set up and throw, and the knee feels fine. It's hard to answer how much more time I need, but it's mainly just timing now," said Griese, who quarterbacked the Dolphins' final two possessions. Coach Don Shula said he won't decide until Thursday whether Griese will start at San Diego Sunday, but added, "It goes without saying how good it was to see No. 12 back on the field.'

Griese's return to the starting position will mean Strock's return to the bench, where he's languished most of his five-year career.

against the Bengals. As he was being hit by Reggie Williams in the first quarter, he hit on a 4-yard scoring pass to Duriel Harris. The Dolphins took a 14-0 lead in the second quarter.

STROCK completed 12 of 20 passes for 154 yards on a 27-yard Pottstown-to-Pittston pass. Strock is from Pottstown, Pa., and the recipient, rookie Jimmy Cefalo, is from Pittston, Pa. Strock has thrown nine touchdown passes.

The victory kept Miami tied with New England, also 4-2, atop the AFC East. Shula was encouraged by his defense, sometimes inconsistent this season.

"IT'S THE same old story," said quarterback Ken Anderson. "We're making mistakes and stopping

Anderson, making his second start since recovering from a broken hand, completed 19 of 35 passes for 161 yards. He threw two interceptions, giving him six

'We've got some pretty good ballplayers on this team. You hope you can turn it around," he said. Delvin Williams, whose 107 yards rushing gave him an AFC-leading 571 yards this year, said the Bengals' defense showed promise.

Pate Museum to display UFOs

CRESSON, Texas (AP) — Has anybody got a spare flying saucer lying around? If so, Jim Peel wants to know about it.

Peel, curator of the Pate Museum of Transportation at Cresson, near Fort Worth, says the museum plans to establish the nation's first comprehensive display on unidentified flying objects. But, he says, not many people want to talk about encounters with "The main obstacle has been finding factual information," Peel said. "We've had calls from several people telling us experiences they've had with UFOs, but they're not backed up with scientific data.'

The museum's founder, oil tycoon A.M. Pate of Fort Worth, says the government hasn't been any

"The Air force is extremely reluctant even to discuss the subject," Pate said. "Even the Smithsonian hasn't been able to help us. They have a 20-foot mockup of a UFO in storage, but it's too big to transport across the country and there's no way to disassemble it." The museum has been successful, however, in getting UFO authority Dr. J. Allen Hynek as a major contributor, says museum special coordinator

Blann says Hynek will provide the museum with motion pictures of "actual unknowns" and a copy of UFOCAT, the largest organized catalogue of UFO reports in the world.

The museum plans to include in its presentation an introduction to the UFO phenomenon, UFO reports dating from 1897 to the present, natural phenomena commonly misidentified as UFOs and a discussion of different types of organizations which study UFOs. Peel said the museum display is not designed to prove UFOs exist, although he personally "firmly believes" in them. He had never given much thought to UFOs until he began putting together the museum display, Peel "I'd been pretty skeptical," he said. "But the more

I get into it, I believe there are other beings on other planets. There's so much that has not been proven false by the government. Peel said the museum still needs photographs, drawings or scale models based on eyewitness accounts of UFO sightings and information on docu-ments, reports or any physical evidence or memora-bilia pertaining to UFOs.

"We hope to put together a nice enough permanent exhibit that it could become a traveling exhibit," Peel said. "Who knows. Maybe while we're traveling with it we'll have a close encounter ourselves.'

Gold hits new highs

LONDON (AP) - Gold prices hit new record highs on Europe's two major bullion markets today as the dollar slid downward in fairly active trading.

In Zurich, Europe's biggest bullion center, gold rose to $223.875 an ounce during the morning trading. This was 50 cents above the previous high, at the end of last Friday's trading, and $2 above Monday's close of $221.875.

In Lonon, the five major bullion dealers "fixed" the price of gold for morning trading at $223.60, 10 cents above the record set last Wednesday and $1.85 above Monday's close of 221.75.

Gold dealers said they believe the record highs are linked to rises in silver and platinum.

"Of course, the weaker dollar helps, too," one dealer added. The beleaguered dollar appeared in for another bad day on European money markets, opening lower than its late Monday rates in most major financial There was no trading in Tokyo Tuesday because Japan was having a national holiday.

Morning dollar rates in Europe: Frankfurt - 1.9004 West German marks, down from 1.9022 at the close of trading Monday. Zurich - 1.58125 Swiss francs, down from 1.58475.

Milan — 819.50 lire, down from 820.15. Paris - 4.2925 French francs, down from 4.2935 Amsterdam - 2.0605 guilders, down from 2.0645. In London, the dollar increased fractionally against the British pound. The pound was selling for $1.9806, down from $1.9819. The price of gold began the year at about $169.50 an ounce on the London market and broke through the $200 level on July 28.

Nation to get look at Mark Rothko's paintings

By MALCOLM N. CARTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Always controversial, the painter Mark Rothko was never more so than after his 1970

His dark brooding paintings caused controversy until his death at the age of 66. Afterward, a scandal involving millions in questionable art sales rocked the outwardly genteel world of high-priced artists, sophisticated dealers and wealthy collectors.

The tempest rescued Rothko's art from the obscurity of private collections but ruined the lives of men he called his friends.

And now, in a retrospective show this month, the nation will get its first chance to see the bulk of Rothko's work as it evolved into the famous wall-sized canvases.

But an artist says the scandal destroyed him. A celebrated dealer fled the country. An intimate of the day's best painters is a broken man who could lose a collection of Picassos, de

The troubled painter entrusted the 800 works he left behind to these friends, doubtlessly expecting them to treat them as he would have and to display them with reverence. Instead, they permitted wholesale liquidation of the estate at virtually bargain-basement prices.

Such sales led to a trial that lasted eight months, cost millions in legal fees, produced 22,000 pages of contentious testimony, launched two years of appeals and made the restrospective possible.

The exhibition of some 150 works opens Oct. 27 at the Guggenheim Museum here and travels next year to Houston, Minneapolis and Los Angeles, giving the public and critics alike a fresh look at Rothko. The public has sometime been confused by his works and those of gontemporaries like Jackson Pollock and Barnett Newman, but the art world has customarily hailed him. Says one scholar, curator John Elderfield of the Museum of Modern Art: "Rothko is recognized as one of the greats of abstract expressionism." Beliving that Rothko would have been horrified by the haphazard dispersal of his estate - and knowing the paintings' value — the artist's daughter, Kate Rothko Prizel, brought the suit that led to the 1975 trial and to the appeals that followed.

"I felt very strongly that my father had been betrayed by his best friends, or people he thought were his best friends," says the 27-year-old Mrs. Prizel, an intern at Johns Hopkins.

Manhattan Surrogate Millard L. Midonick agreed, finding these executors of the estate and trustees of the Mark Rothko Foundation guilty of "improvidence and waste verging upon gross negligence."

Midonick ruled that two of the executors - his accountant and confidant, Bernard Reis, and his friend, artist Theodoros Stamos — had conflicts of interest in selling the paintings Frank Lloyd, once powerful head of the Marlborough Gallery, he said, acted with them. And another friend, anthropologist Morton Levine, didn't stop them.

Stamos says he is ruined because collectors won't buy his works. Levine won't comment. Lloyd, indicted on a charge of having tampered with evidence in the case, won't comment either and resides beyond the long arm of U.S. law in the Bahamas and

Lloyd and his gallery, run now by his nephew, were assessed a $2,730,-000 fine, after they returned 78 paintings that the gallery purportedly had sold from the estate, which is worth

As for the once-courtly Bernard Reis, who was at the center of the double-dealing, he now lies bankrupt and dying with kidney disease at age 83. "He is not at all well," his wife relates.

"The court case was a misfortunate," she says. "Everything that was said against the executors and Marlborough was largely exaggerated falsehood.'

On the walls of the couple's fivestory townhouse hang a wealth of paintings including one by artist Joan Miro inscribed "pour mes amis." Once the Reises played hosts to the art world's shining lights in a home. reputed for gourmet fare. Now Reis tosses absently on a bed there, strains to follow conversation, tries to tell an anecdote in a voice become a croak, then tires, seemingly oblivious.

"I wish the American courts were a little less persecutive," his octogenerian wife sighs in her first interview since the case began.

Arthur Olick, the bankruptcy trustee, says that he has sold $100,000 in Reis's securities and that the art collection may be tied up in lengthy litigation. He also had their house appraised, though he says he is reluctant to sell it.

West's bid of two clubs was a special tournament convention promising length in hearts bid therefore did not promise length or strength in hearts. Reinhold knew he had told his whole story with the opening bid, but the result justified his overbidding.

If West had led a heart, the defenders would have earned a heart, a club and two spades. But West led his singleton, not knowing that he didn't need a ruff to get a second trump trick.

Reinhold took the first trick with the ace of diamonds to lead a trump. When East played low, declarer finessed with the jack.

GETS RUFF West took the ace of spades and put his partner in with a club. Back came a diamond, and West got his ruff.

But now the shift to hearts was too late. Reinhold took the ace of hearts, drew the missing trumps with the king and cashed the top clubs to discard dummy's remaining heart. Dummy was then good.

Student body president adds touch of humor

By TIMOTHY HARPER

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - Jim Mallon figures his finger is firmly on the pulse of his 40,000 constituents.

"All the average student cares about is sex and drugs and rock 'n' roll. In that order," says the student body president at the University of Wisconsin-Madi-

Chairing student senate meetings with a huge plastic gavel or cavorting on campus in clown suits, Mallon and his vice president, Leon Varjian, have brought new humor to this campus, a hotbed of anti-war radicalism in the 1960s.

Mallon, 22, a communications arts senior, and Varjian, who at 27 is in his 10th year of college, founded the "Pail and Shovel" party last spring.

They proposed converting students funds into pennies and dumping them into a campus fountain, so students could dig in - with pails and shovels.

"Pail and Shovel is dedicated to the 4-year-old in all of us,' Mallon said in his disheveled student union office, which features a filing cabinet marked "Tovs.

Mallon and Varjian began by building a giant campaign "platform" out of Popsicle sticks. Now, they're the dominant figures in student politics - 29 Pail and Shovel candidates won election to the 36-member student senate last week.

'We have two more than a two-thirds majority now and no one can stop us," Mallon gloat-

Stop them from what? Their campaign promises include:

Flooding the football stadium for mock naval battles, stuffing and mounting all deans, converting parking meters into gumball machines and running clocks backward so classes end before they start.

And they are apparently serious about some of their plans.

Last week, the student senate changed the school's name to the University of New Jersey.

"That way kids from Wisconsin can say they graduated from a prestigious Eastern school," Mallon said. "And we should be able to get the New York Times a lot cheaper.' Earlier, Mallon and Varjian helped plan and okayed funds for a wild "toga party," attended by about 12,000. And then there was the marijuana "smoke-in," which drew 5,000 to the state Capitol.

Paul Ginsburg, dean of students, said the rise of Mallon and Varjian means students are seeking a little light-hearted relief from academic and social pressures. "People are just looking for something less serious," he said.

Merchant seaman arrested in brutal rape, mutilation

SPARKS, Nev. (AP) — A 51-year-old merchant seaman — described by a neighbor as "a peach of a fellow" was being held today in connection with the rape-mutilation of a young girl who was found staggering naked along a California freeway, her arms hacked off below the elbows.

Sparks police on Monday booked Larry Singleton for investigation on on charges of attempted homicide, sexual assault and mayhem - a term whose legal definition includes mutilation of a human body.

Police gave no details of the arrest, except to say that, acting on a tip, they picked up Singleton at the home of a former wife.

The 15-year-old victim, identified only as "Mary," had assisted Modes-to, Calif., police from her hospital bed, submitting to hypnosis and working with a police artist to form a sketch of her attacker. She had said the man who chopped off her arms was named Larry.

The girl, a Las Vegas, Nev., runaway, was known as Maria Vargas in Sausalito, Calif., where she lived with her boyfriend in his car. Her real name has not been released because of her age and the nature of the Investigators say they believe she was attacked after accepting a ride at or near Richmond, Calif., on Sept.

The next day, a couple who had stopped to rest at the side of Interstate 5 west of Modesto, found the girl wandering nude and in shock with her arms hacked off below the elbows. Her assailant had apparently left her Doctors said the girl didn't bleed to death because the ax-blows had effectively "sealed" her truncated blood vessels. Her arms were never found.

Information pieced together from accounts by the girl enabled a police artist to draw a sketch of the attacker. It showed a heavy man in his 50s, with glasses and dark hair streaked with gray.

Of the suspect, Stanislaus County Sheriff Lynn Wood said, "I'll tell you this. Everything fits. One of our leads panned out."

Asked if the sketch was the basis for Singleton's arrest, Wood said, "I would have to say that's true. Our investigation was based on the sketch and subsequently led to the arrest."

When told of the arrest, a male neighbor of Singleton who requested anonymity said: "Oh, my God...Oh, my God...I don't believe it. He's a peach of a fellow."

Other neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lewis, said they didn't know Singleton very well but "he always said hello and was very pleasant."

Sparks police said others in Singleton's neighborhood described him as "a sea captain" who spent about half his time away from the house he had lived in for two years. They said he was away at sea for as long as six months at a time.

Singleton had been married at least twice and had a 15-year-old daughter.

Name identification is the name of game

By KEN HERMAN

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) - The challenger with the German name that Mexican-Americans have trouble pronouncing knows that the senator he wants to replace has a name that voters remember.

But U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger of New Braunfels says he is used to hearing his name mispronounced. His father did it half the time. "When he answered the San Antonio line, he said, 'Kroo-ger.' On the New Braunfels line it was, 'Kree-ger.' Actually, it should be about halfway between those," he said. Name identification is the name of the game now as Krueger tries to unseat veteran Republican U.S. Sen. John Tower.

Krueger aides said "frankly" they are disappointed about the lack of enthusiasm they have found for the Senate race in important South Texas. They are looking for something to spark voter interest.

They think Krueger's quick-hitting helicopter whistlestop tours are Monday, the helicopter touched down in nine South Texas towns. Last week it hit 58 Texas cities in four days. Krueger said a simple introduction and handshake can be as important as a vigorous campaign talk.

"It does have an effect. A majority of people in this country have never met a U.S. senator or congressman. I remember every senator I met before I went up there," the two-term representative said.

The day began at 7:30 a.m. in Alice. After a brief stop in Falfurrias, the Krueger copter touched down at Pan American University in Edinburg. The stop got off to a stumbling start when a campus campaign worker introduced Krueger as the "next congressman from Texas.

But Krueger quickly won the crowd's support - especially when he adeptly handled a question from a Tower supporter. Throughout the day Krueger chided Tower for claiming solidarity with the Mexican-American community.

'Un amigo con sincero," he said, mimicking a Tower slogan. "Doesn't that make you feel good," he added sarcastically.

The Democrat also blasted Tower for being no more than a "losing vote" on Capitol Hill. "It's like the Cowboys last week. Only a defense and no offense," he said, referring to a Dallas football loss to Washington.

Back in the copter, Krueger said he gets a sort of backdoor enjoyment from campaigning. "It's like when I did my doctoral dissertation. I liked doing it but I only did it so I could teach. I do this because I want to serve," he said.

As the candidate used a campus newspaper to fan himself, the noisy chopper rumbled east to Harlingen. A wet field forced an impromptu landing in a hospital parking lot.

Fresh from a campus appearance where he convinced students he understood their problems, Krueger met with farmers at a Harlingen lun-"I know what it is to raise cattle. Four days after the election we'll have a sale of Krueger brangus in Crockett," he said. And, again the Cowboy analogy 'They had a fair defense and almost no offense and they lost. Tower's been there to vote against some things but he's never been there to stand for anything," he said. During the flight to Raymondville, aide David Wildman dozed. Krueger also appeared to sleep intermittently in the front seat.

"I like to sit in the front because I can sleep and it looks like I'm looking out the window," he joked. A group of 25 dimunitive, elderly Mexican-Americans greeted the

After quick stops in Port Isabel and San Benito the chopper header for McAllen. While some 30 supporters munched nachos and sipped free drinks, aides talked about the campaign. They are confident of gaining a high percentage of the "M-A" vote. What they worry about is the size of the Mexican-American voter turnout. One aide said he hopes for a 40 percent turnout. The mayor of a small area town said he is pushing for an almost unheard of 65 percent turnout in his Mexican-American city. The name problem is real, aides said. But they feel the whirlwind tours will help generate interest in the man and the race. Some aides see a need for a big spark — such as a tour by Sen. Edward Kennedy. One worker said Kennedy has already been contacted about such a campaign swing. Krueger made his talk again in McAllen ("If you have an offense you'll fumble sometimes. With no offense you'll always lose") and headed for Brownsville. The local businessmen hear heard Krueger again blast Tower's record.

"If you have only defense and no offense you lose," he said. The final stop was in the lavish home of a local Jewish leader. A letter to members of a temple here said rumors of anti-semitic remarks by Krueger had been proven untrue.

Before heading into a late night strategy session after a 16-hour campaign day, Krueger talked about his race. "The consciousness about the race isn't as high here as in other parts of

Meanwhile, in Cleveland, where 100,000 pupils have yet to see their classrooms this year, six striking unions agreed to vote again on a contract providing average salary increases of 8 percent if the district could win a guarantee that it could use a state loan to finance the raises. On Monday the district asked the state to rule on the request.

John Freeman, superintendent of the Memphis school system, said the district's strike contingency plans called for use of substitute teachers, administrators and perhaps parents to keep school open.

Evelyn Temple, an organizer for-the National Education Association, said bus drivers had indicated that they would honor teacher picket lines and added that she had been promised support by the policemen's and firefighters' unions, both of which struck over the summer.

When talks began April 11, the MEA sought a 9.5 percent salary increase, but has reduced that to 8.1 percent. The board offered a 5.4 percent increase, not including experience increments, which would bring the average increase to 7.1 percent. Beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree earn $1,028 a month.

In Connecticut, University of Bridgeport teachers were back on the job Monday at the 8,000-student campus after agreeing to submit their demands to non-binding arbitration.
