Early Treatment Eradicates Ant Beds

The time to kill a colony of cut ants is when the colonies are weakest, when there aren't any young queens, and when there is ordinarily very few young ants being produced. The time is now.

What ants are present are gathered in the central town, and the queens are found grouped together in a central cavity in this town. Since the queen's job is to lay eggs to keep the colony going, you can get rid of the colony by killing all the queens.

The main town may be 15, 20 or even 100 feet in diameter, with many entrances leading from the surface to the underground cavities. It won't do much good to treat the smaller ant hills surrounding the central town, says Allen C. Gunter, associate extension entomologist of Texas A. & M. College. You've got to get the central colony where the queens are.

The smaller ant hills are connected to the main colony by underground passages, which may sometimes be a quarter of a mile long. It's through these subways the workers carry the cut leaves to the central town.

A two or three percent chlordane solution, made up of chlordane wettable powder or an emulsion form, may be used in the control of cut ants, says Gunter. Pour about a half gallon of this solution down each opening of the colony.

Another good method is to dig up a shovelful of dirt at the surface opening to the passageway into the interior, then pour a barrelful of water down this passageway. As the last gallon or two runs down into the ant hill, add one quart of carbon disulfide (highlife). Then cover all the colony entrances in the vicinity. Gunter warns the ant killers not to set fire to the highlife. Just let it soak into the ground.

In either case, whichever way you decide to kill the queens, the treatment may have to be repeated in three or four weeks, says Gunter.

Doctor Plugs Wound With Finger; Knife Victim Lives

CLEVELAND.—A youth who was stabbed in the heart with a pocket knife was kept alive by a doctor who used his finger to "plug the dike" in the lad's chest.

Daniel Coates, 19, is on the way to recovery through the action of Dr. Frederick R. Mautz and the emergency room crew of Lakeside hospital here.

The youth was brought into the hospital nearly two hours after being stabbed in the heart. He was suffering from what the doctors called a "sucking chest wound."

Through quick infusions of plasma and whole blood, Coates was brought out of shock. While this was going on, a call was put in for Dr. Mautz, heart surgery consultant on the hospital staff.

Mautz stuck his finger in the hole in his chest, momentarily stopping the bleeding. Next, a stitch of silk was put in to curb the blood flow from the heart.

WORLD PEACE

Music Aids UN Motives

WASHINGTON.—A music maker thinks that if we substituted ballads for bullets, peace would come to the world—and stay.

Saucer eyed Sammy Eisen, a 44-year-old band leader, thought it would be smart to go to another musician for a sympathetic hearing—plano playing President Truman. Sammy couldn't get in to see Mr. T. in person, since the chief was out of town on important business.

So he did the next best thing. He wrote him a note.

He wants the President to use his high office to press the United Nations into adopting an official anthem.

He reasoned that if army and navy enlistments could be hyped and battles won with inspiring music, then the right set of octaves might turn the world toward global peace.

The baton wielder first tried his plan out on Secretary General Trygve Lie of the UN. He got a wire back saying that the United Nations merely is interested in a musical radio signature.

Appeals to President.

Sammy then appealed to the President, "who knows the value of music, which makes for companionship and friendship."

"Whoever heard of a man coming out with his fists up after singing a song?"

"Music binds folk together," Sammy said. "And an anthem, conveying respect and feeling for peace and rights of others, would do a lot. More than a million articles, speeches, books or even another war."

He thinks that a little music would do much toward knitting the UN more closely together — "and perhaps prevent a few walkouts and vetoes cast in the white heat of argument."

The band leader admits that authoring an anthem that could be acceptable to the peoples of the world would be no simple task. But he's got that one figured out, too.

World Collaboration.

According to his idea, every nation represented in the United Nations would pick its leading composer. All these musical masters then would sit down calmly (Sammy hopes) at a cleft writing jam-boree to melt their ideas into one great tune.

Imagine Toscanini, Irving Berlin and all the others sitting down at one big table!

The idea man admitted it might take a little time—years maybe—what with each composer trying to pawn his own native jingles off onto the world. The title page on the sheet music would have to be printed in small type to get all the credit lines in.

If Sammy's plan goes through, he would like to get one little word of advice in edgewise—in advance.

He thinks an international anthem—if we ever get one—ought to steer shy of martial music. It should inspire peace, not belligerency.

"V" was for Victory during the war. Now "V's" are for the newest news in volumetric nylons! Through a special new Larkwood process of knitting, three V's are knitted into the top of a nylon sheer to give it a new thigh-conforming fit. And good news for MEN—the center triangle is a guide-line for instant, accurate gartering, and voila! back seams are straight! This 3-V volumetric knitting process means that the "volume content" is knitted in for a true top-to-toe dimensioning for various leg types. This volume controlled elasticity gives a shock-absorbing quality to the nylon fabric, bringing the boon of more comfortable fit, fewer runs, longer wear.

insistence of the State Department, which then felt it would further annoy the Russians and make an amicable settlement of U. S. - U. S. S. R. disagreements even more difficult. This time, significantly, the State Department took another view, and either endorsed the venture or did nothing to stop it. That in itself is a good example of the change in American diplomatic thinking that has taken place in a very short time. Our policymakers have clearly come to the conclusion that anything resembling appeasement of Russia can only result in more Communist aggression. Along with this, they feel the need to strengthen the resolve of the Western powers, particularly the smaller ones, which run the greatest potential risks when they throw in their lot with this country and Britain. The flight, in effect, served notice on the world that American power exists in fact as well as in theory, and that the entire globe is within reach of our military arms. What one plane has done, swarms of others could do in the future if the need arose. But the fact that the flight required several refueling contacts enroute again demonstrates forcefully the need of a balanced military establishment including a navy capable of defending and supplying bases. Western Europe has long wanted definite demonstrations of this country's military strength. The Western military alliance, if it is to succeed, must have its material base in the United States. Unpleasant as the fact be, the most sincere pledges of mutual purpose are meaningless unless there exists a huge reservoir of armed force to give the documents meaning. At present, there is a question of just how far this country can or will go in supporting that alliance. The European countries, very naturally, would like an outright guarantee that we would go to war if they were attacked, or their independence seriously threatened. That point of view also has many sincere adherents. But there are equally sincere opponents who believe that it might be disastrous to commit ourselves in advance of the fact. The search is being made for an acceptable compromise between extremes. Someone has said that the "cold war" is turning into a "cold peace." But no one can now see an end to the saber rattling on either side. Just how strong is the Russian economy by comparison with that of the United States? Just how successful have the Communist leaders been in restoring (Continued on Page 10)

I'm Lonesome

● Have you ever been in a hospital? Remember how the days drag? . . . the nights seem endless? Particularly if you're in a hospital a long way from home.

You might be completely surrounded by people—doctors, nurses, orderlies and a lot of other patients—yet you find an agonizing loneliness gnawing at your soul.

I'm in a ward with 50 other men but I'M LONESOME! Joe and Jack and Jim and Tom are just as lonesome as me.

Outside our ward are other wards with other Joes and Jims. Outside our hospital are other hospitals and veterans' homes—more than 140 of them. They house some 125,000 guys like me for whom the war didn't end on VJ Day. I'll stake my one good eye that they're all lonesome, too.

Take Joe there. He's an old-timer—spent nearly three years in hospitals since he lost his right leg in the Battle of the Bulge. He got so much shrapnel in the other leg it finally had to come off, too—by inches. Six separate amputations because they tried to save enough of the stump to hold an artificial leg.

Joe just kids about it. He puts up a terrific front. Says he'd save the doctors a lot of trouble if he'd sprout wings.

Yet, once in a while, the fog of loneliness engulfs him. He'll say: "For Pete's sake, pipe down!" Then you know it's best to leave him alone. You see, they amputated Joe's dreams, too—and that hurts more than losing a leg.

We all started dreaming a long time ago. About the girls we were going to marry when we got back . . . the colleges we were going to attend . . . the jobs we were going to get . . . the houses we were going to build—the whole glorious new world that would be waiting for us when the fracas was over.

But those dreams were shattered for most of us who wound up in hospitals. Tom's girl grew tired of waiting. She married someone else. Jack's little business didn't get along well without him. It was liquidated by the creditors.

We need something to take our minds off our problems . . . someone to tell us how the world is changing from day to day . . . to explain its problems . . . to tell us what people are doing and thinking and saying out there on the other side of our blank, white walls.

There are moods, too, that music helps, but it has to be MY kind of music. The kind that Joe likes drives me batty—torture to the ears, I call it. Joe feels the same way about the kind I like.

Radio would be a swell thing if we could work it so that every man could get what he likes. It would keep us in touch and bring in a little of the things for which we are most lonesome—life and the world outside.

And you can't imagine how it picks up when a traveling theatrical unit makes an appearance in our ward—a pretty girl, a soft ballad, a lilting melody batted out on our ancient piano, perhaps a magician or a dance team or an acrobat. We need those morale boosters.

We're lonesome. We're all lonesome. But you can help us—if you will!

Yes, YOU can help!

You can help provide greater comfort, happier hours and lasting entertainment for the nation's hospitalized heroes by contributing to the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation.

This nationwide non-profit, non-political, non-sectarian organization and its many state chapters reaches into ex-servicemen's hospitals from coast to coast.

Among its founders are Sammy Kaye, Tom Breneman, Louis Bromfield, Perry Como, Joseph Cotten, Art Linkletter, Herbert Marshall, Walter Pidgeon, Ginny Simms, Rudy Vallee and 65 other prominent Americans from all walks of life and nearly every state.

Your contribution to the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation will help provide disabled heroes with:

- Individual bedside radio receiving sets of types best suited to their needs.
- Television receivers to keep them in touch with the changing world.
- Special record-playing and sound equipment to meet their entertainment requirements.
- Other entertainment equipment which may be requested from time to time by their chaplains.
- Network and transcribed radio shows designed especially for their enjoyment.
- And eventually a group of traveling theatrical units to tour their wards after the wartime USO-Camp Show organization is disbanded.

Make your contribution today. Do it NOW! Be as generous as you can, won't you? Thanks.

Windmills of the sort Don Quixote tilted against the Majorcan landscape (above). Windmill shows its cloth sails; to use the sails are unfurled across the arms to catch the wind. They are a much-used source of power to pump water to irrigate the rice fields and for other local uses. Top picture shows a Majorcan driving his herd of goats home for the night along a country road.

There's a lovely little island called Majorca lying between Spain and Italy on the blue of the Mediterranean. It has suddenly become another contender for the patronage of American tourists because of two recent events — the devaluation of the peseta by the Spanish government and the opening by Pan American World Airways of the first direct air service between the United States and Spain. Clippers make the flight to Barcelona via the Azores and Lisbon in 19½ hours. Majorca is one hour away from Barcelona by plane, overnight by boat.

Thirty-five miles long and equally wide, Majorca is threaded with mountains in the northwest and bounded from the sea by a wall of rock. The southeast is gently rolling with pastures and plains and white beaches fringed with huge umbrella pines.

Despite the pastoral quiet of the island, there is much there to occupy the tourist. Mountain climbers will find enough elevation for their sport, and there are tennis courts at some of the hotels and plenty of beaches for the swimmers. The capital has several theaters and one of the most magnificent bull rings in all of Spain.

Hotel costs run from $6 to $9 per day, including meals. Other prices on Majorca are always lower than those in Spain and now that the tourist dollar buys even more pesetas, shopping has become doubly attractive to the visitors.

Miner's Wife Finds Huge Sapphire at Picnic

BRISBANE, AUSTRALIA. — A blue sapphire, claimed to be the biggest in the world, has been found near Emerald, Central Queensland, by Mrs. Roy McKinney, a miner's wife.

The sapphire weighs 1,958 carats and is as big as a coffee cup, experts said. Mrs. McKinney was picnicking with friends when she found the stone on the surface about 300 yards from where the now famous Black Star sapphire was found. The Black Star weighed 1,156 carats and was sold in New York for $300,000. Mrs. McKinney sold the stone to the manager of a near-by claim for an undisclosed amount.

For a bright change of pace in your meal planning, try a main dish sandwich with a Spanish air. This one is piqued with chili sauce, green pepper and onion rings, mellowed with lots of melted cheese.

This Spanish sandwich is a meal in itself with perhaps a tossed salad on the side, a dessert and beverage. What's more, it's full of the elements that make for good health. The cheese is a bargain, nutritionally, for cheese is an excellent protein food.

Make Spanish sandwiches for dinner tonight. Keep the recipe at hand for guest-night fare, for teen-age parties, and for the Lenten dinners you'll be planning.

Spanish Sandwich 6 slices bread (crusts trimmed) 1/4 cup chopped green pepper Mayonnaise 2 tablespoons butter or margarine Onion rings 1 lb. American Pasteurized Process Cheese 1/2 cup chili sauce Toast the bread on one side and spread the untoasted side of each slice with mayonnaise. Top with onion rings.

Mix the chili sauce with the green pepper which has been sauteed in the butter or margarine. Spread two tablespoons of this mixture over each sandwich.

Cover with a slice of the cheese cut lengthwise of the loaf. Place in a moderate oven, 350°, or under low broiler heat until the cheese melts.

The Story Behind a "Special Edition"

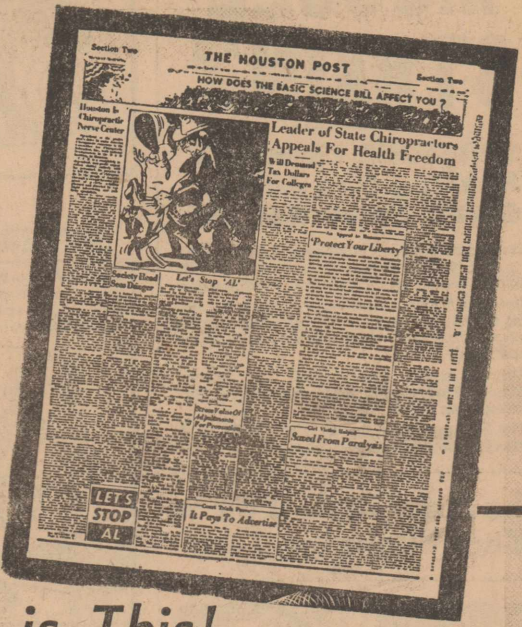

This is the news behind the news—the facts behind a vicious and unwarranted attack made upon the doctors of medicine of Texas, and slurring insinuations made against the honesty of your State Legislators. Here are the facts behind the paid "Special Edition", heavily financed by interests who are making an all-out attempt to cloud the one and only issue in the proposed Minimum Standards Law. That issue is: The Health of All Texans. The State Medical Association of Texas and your physician present these facts behind the news to help you decide whether or not Minimum Standards are needed in the practice of healing in Texas. We are convinced that they are needed for your protection.

THESE ARE EXCERPTS FROM THIS CHIROPRACTIC NEWS LETTER, WHICH WENT ONLY TO CHIROPRACTORS . . .

"The fire at Austin is real! Make no mistake about it! And it's going to take buckets and buckets of cold . . . liquid . . . cash to put the fire out." "If the Naturopaths get their bill, and Chiropractors miff it, expect to see a lot of Chiropractic signs repainted . . . quick. Wonder where all this Naturopath money is coming from. There must be gold in them thar herbs." "Many will be glad to send money to Austin to make it possible for our lobby to wrest victory from the threatening jaws of defeat . . . if that money can be obtained from new patients. There's a bottom to the well, and new springs must be tapped to keep the bucket from coming up dry." "He (the medical doctor) stands for everything good, fine and sincere in the mind of the average person. Of course, we know, in most cases, he's a scheming, conniving scoundrel, because we know him by his works." "The average person does not know the medical doctor is an allopath. In fact, John Q. Public would have a difficult time explaining the difference between a homeopath, osteopath, naturopath, allopath or chiropractor. We can call the 'allopath' a scoundrel, gangster, fraud, cheat and hypocrite, and make it stick."

An 8-page "Special Edition" appeared in the Houston Post on Feb. 23rd. It was a paid "Special Edition," packed with misrepresentations. However, it was written to look like a real news section so that its misrepresentations might appear to be legitimate. It was an obvious attempt to smokescreen the merits of the Minimum Standards Bill, which already has been recommended for passage by Public Health Committees of both the Texas House and Senate.

The TRUTH is This!

- (This is why you should demand Minimum Standards) 1. Is the bill against chiropractors? In backing the Minimum Standards Bill, the doctors of medicine are not opposing chiropractors or any other branch of the healing arts. In fact, doctors of medicine have even recommended that the legislature license qualified chiropractors. The only stipulation made is that chiropractors—like all other legalized professions—agree to meet minimum standards before an impartial board of examiners. Any person who has been practicing a healing art in Texas for a year or longer, and who has lived in Texas for two years, is NOT required to take the Minimum Standards examinations. 2. Would the examination be fair? Yes—for two reasons. First, all branches teach these basic sciences—in many cases from the same text. Thus, the sciences covered are those which are basic to all branches. Second, papers would be signed by number, not by name. There is no way to tell whose paper is being graded. 3. Would the examining board be fair? Yes. A board of six science teachers would give the examination. They would be appointed by the Governor from the staffs of our leading Texas colleges and universities. No practitioner from any branch may serve on the board. What could be fairer? 4. Would the examining board be qualified to give the examinations? Yes. Who is better qualified to give a scientific examination than the man who teaches the subject? These are the same people who teach your boys and girls in our colleges and universities. 5. What are the basic sciences? They are six sciences—Anatomy, Physiology, Chemistry, Bacteriology, Pathology, and Hygiene and Public Health. Why object to an examination in sciences so important to healing that all branches agree that they must be taught? 6. Do we really need the law? Yes. The Public Health Committee of both the Texas House and Senate agree we need it. These are your law-makers who must study all public health legislation. They have not been misled by special interests and pressure groups who want to cloud the real issue for selfish reasons. To these legislators, the question still is: Will we or won't we demand that our health be protected from incompetence? Will we or won't we require reasonable minimum standards of all practitioners regardless of their branch of the healing arts?

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: Could you tell me how to mend a marble table top which is broken straight across. Of course, I'd want it to show as little as possible, but at the same time, be strong.

ANSWER: Marble in thin slabs, as table tops, when broken, can be permanently mended only when supported by a reinforcement. Plasterboard can be used for this, or a strip of board. The reinforcement is cut to fit within the frame. The marble is turned upside down, the edges of the break are cemented and pressed together, a thin mixture of plaster of Paris is spread on the back of the marble, and the reinforcement placed in position. After a number of hours for hardening the marble is returned to place.

Albino Horses

While cases of albino horses are known, ordinary white horses are not born white. Horses of certain colors, particularly dappled grays, become lighter as they grow older—until they become pure white. Such horses do not give birth to white colts which are so rare that they are virtually unknown. Many Arabian horses are light gray at birth and become pure white at the age of four or five years.

The Race Question

Lesson for March 27, 1949.

JESUS DID NOT know there was a race question. That is to say, there was no question for him, though he well knew that his neighbors found the race problem a hot one.

All the germs of any race problem, even of race riots, were there in Palestine as in all of our world today.

First there was the feeling of racial superiority. Few, if any, peoples think of themselves as an inferior race. Nobody would mind being kicked around if he thought he deserved nothing better.

The Jews, to which race Jesus belonged, were no exception to the rule. They felt themselves the superior of any race on earth.

Two Sides of the Question
JESUS' time the Jew of Palestine was in the middle. The Romans, having conquered the land, were top-dog in Palestine. With the Romans, the Jews saw the under-side of the race question. But there were other races, much less pure than the Jews, races called "canaanite" for want of a better name.

These people were kicked around by the Jews, just as the Jews in turn were kicked around by the Romans. Looking at the Canaanites, the Jews saw the race question from the top side.

In Palestine the wounds of race quarrels were made worse by the vinegar of religious differences. In those days it was taken for granted: Different race, different religion.

Jesus' neighbors and relatives in Nazareth, like most Jews, supposed that God would favor only the "chosen people," namely themselves. So the Jew's resentment toward the Romans above him and his contempt of the Canaanites beneath him were made more bitter by his conviction that they would all end in hell except his own race.

What Jesus Did About It
THE TWO STORIES in our lesson (see the Scripture references) show the astonishingly simple way in which Jesus walked straight through those walls as if they did not exist. He passed no resolutions, he denounced nobody; he simply treated all races alike. He helped the Roman army officer and the Canaanite woman precisely as if they had been Jews. (By the way, his remarks to that woman should not be misunderstood as rude. She did not take them that way. He spoke to her, we may well believe, with a smile, and she took him with equal good humor.) Jesus appreciated faith wherever he found it.

He was the last person to fancy that all human beings are alike. But he was the first to give all an equal chance. He took people as human beings, not as "Romans" or "Canaanites."

He neither cringed to the Romans nor bullied the Canaanites. He looked at all men and women with level eyes, seeing not their skins nor their clothes, but their hearts.

What We Can Do
OUR NORTH AMERICA is also criss-crossed by walls of prejudice—racial, political and religious. In Canada (for example) there is the friction between Canadians of French and those of English or Scotch descent; in the United States (not by any means confined to the South) between Negroes and white people, or between Japanese and white people; and recent immigrants; and so on. Those walls look pretty solid; but a Christian will find that if he follows Jesus' example he can walk right through them. Last winter a national interdenominational organization challenged its 28 million members and through them the Christian world, with one of the most sweeping declarations of human rights ever drafted by an American church body.

Hitting at every type of discrimination—racial, political, social, economic, religious—the group has challenged the Church to work for the creation of a non-segregated society "as proof of their sincerity."

Yet the real breakdown of human prejudices, hatreds and contempt of the injustices growing out of these, does not come at one stroke by resolutions. It comes only by degrees, as Christ-inspired individuals make their own bright doorways.

KATHLEEN NORRIS Torture at Home

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

DESPITE THE FACT that David and I are deeply in love with each other," writes Janet Harrison from Toledo. "ours is a disturbed and unhappy home, and I am writing to ask your help in solving what has become a real problem."

"Two years ago, at 26, I married my office boss. I had been divorced, and have one child, Ann, who is 5. David also secured a divorce and also has a daughter, Pamela, who is 8. Pamela's mother has already married again and gone away, not even sending the child a card at Christmas.

"My first husband and his people are devoted to Ann, who goes to them for a week end twice a month, returning loaded with presents and stories of good times. Under the circumstances I can hardly ask them to include Pamela in these affairs, and as David often takes me on short business trips, we leave his daughter with my old Mammy here at home. But this is hard on Mammy, who has family and church interests of her own.

Sensitive Little Thing
 "Naturally, David loves his own child deeply, and so do I. But she is a shy, sensitive little thing, and has made only one friend, a crippled boy of 10 in the adjoining apartment, whose parents are about to move back to their Philadelphia home.

"This is the problem. They adore Pamela, and she is quite as devoted to them. Bob, the son, never will walk and they tell me he has never found so congenial a companion as Pam. They want to adopt her. On investigation I have learned that they are fine people, have a big house, a boat, and so on. "They don't want half measures. It must be full adoption or nothing. Pamela's mother, to whom I wrote, agrees to the plan and David is influenced by the fact that with the atmosphere here so much eased I would be glad to have another child or two, a responsibility I am certainly not willing to face as things are now.

"Knowing that you advise many other younger couples as to marital problems, we come to you with the confidence that whatever you say will be actuated by a desire to do the best for all parties. And that is all David and I want."

Give Up Pamela
 Since you ask me, Janet, my advice would be to surrender Pamela completely to the care of this family that has apparently discovered the real child under the confusion and dismay that must so often have flooded her little heart. Betrayed by her mother, precipitated into a totally strange environment, where she was by the very nature of things unimportant and superfluous, subjected to constant contrast with a more attractive and beloved child, one can only congratulate her upon this opportunity to escape from as selfish and callous a household as it has ever been my experience to meet.

Infinite harm has probably already been done this child's spirit. But since she is gentle and shy, she is perhaps not hardened as yet and may bloom like a little flower when she gets into the sunlight.

As for you and her father,—well, you didn't ask me for a lecture on parental morality and responsibility, not to mention common decency and humanity. But I marvel that so many intelligent men—and women more often than men—can assure themselves fatuously that by uprooting one domestic set-up they are qualified blandly to begin to build up another. You take your Ann away from her father. lightly assume the care of another small girl, this one motherless, and are confident that you are a fit person to bring other children into the world.

When selfishness and blindness hit at our homes, and children are told blithely that Daddy isn't coming home any more—there's going to be a wonderful new Daddy who loves them very much—and when the inevitable bitterness and bewilderment of divorce and remarriages strike at their small lives, then the very roots of character and mental adjustment are loosened, and presently the young tree shows signs of early decay.

Divorce is more deadly than war, although there are, nevertheless, many happy second marriages.

their basic industry after the strains and ravages of a long war?

These are questions of the highest importance. Russia's capacity to fight again, regardless of how large her armies and air forces may be, will be largely determined by her industrial potential, military power burns out swiftly unless there is an unbroken stream of supplies to feed it.

U. S. News and World Report dealt with the Soviet Union's economic situation in a recent article whose first paragraph said: "Russia is continuing to lead from weakness, not from

A bedroom should bear the stamp of its occupant, and the junior miss will want a room that suits her own feminine fancy.

A cheerful and inviting bedroom, one that will inspire pride and merit sufficient care and attention, can be very simply achieved. In the room shown, the solid colored bedspread stands out strikingly against patterned walls. Two wall papers have been combined for a different and dramatic look—a large floral design in contrast to trim, bold stripes gives the room real distinction. Wide ruffles on the spread, a thick matted scatter rug, a delicate arrangement of hanging ivy, are all in keeping with a love of glamour in interior decoration. This is a room to be lived in and enjoyed. It will prove popular with the homemaker as well as being a boon to its young occupant. And its smart slightly tailored appearance will be a constant source of pleasure.

Bedroom decorative schemes should be designed to suit the individual taste. The wide and interesting selection of wall papers available today (especially during March which is Wall Paper Style Month) make it an easy task to do a custom-made redecorating job for every one of your rooms.

strength, in her challenge to nations of the West. This fact is shown by the condition of Russian industry and agriculture at this time."

The magazine backed that up with a series of revealing statistics. First of all, Russia's post-war industrial comeback has been relatively slow. The output of her factories is still 6 per cent below the 1940 level. U. S. production, by contrast, is now 54 per cent above Britain is also exceeding the prewar figure, though by a much smaller percentage.

When a direct industry-by-industry comparison is made with this country, Russia's inferiority is striking. She now produces 10 per cent as much oil as we do, 18.5 per cent as much electric power, 23 per cent as much steel, and 31 per cent as much coal, all basic products which have a direct bearing on her entire economy. She produces only 3.2 per cent as many trucks and cars, though she is now making strenuous efforts to build up her motor industry. To take examples of vital consumer goods, she produces 39 per cent as many leather shoes and 35 per cent as many cotton and woolen articles. The advantage in our favor is even more evident when it is remembered that Russia has a considerably larger population.

In its summing up, U. S. News observes: "Russia, today, is not in the same league with the United States. American production, however, is geared to consumers while Russia is concentrating everything on expanding industry. A slowdown in U. S. industrial expansion may enable Russia to narrow the gap." So, while our industrial advantage over Russia is enormous at present, we are not in a position to believe it can safely be maintained without continued development on our part.

There is some speculation to the effect that Stalin's periodic 'peace overtures' may be designed to conciliate public sentiment in the Western world, while Russia strives to bring her industrial output nearer to desired levels.

BURBANK, CAL. — (Soundphoto) — The Lockheed Shooting Star (P-80) has a new look. This front view of the craft shows a large rocket protruding from the nose. Flame and heat from the rocket's thrust is dissipated through an opening in the underside of the nose. The pilot is protected by a special fire wall. It has been reported that the rocket has been fired while the ship was in flight. Plane also carried banks of smaller rockets under each wing.

BREMEN — Dr. Eldon Burke, supervisor of much of the distribution of CROP Food train commodities received here, today called officials of the Christian Rural Overseas program in America that "we are greatly encouraged by the success of your 24 state Christmas trains, composed of 2000 carloads of foodstuffs."

Burke said that most warehouses in Northern Germany were empty and that orphans, widows, refugees, and old people were in greater need than last winter.

He concluded: "Your decision to conduct CROP campaigns in all 48 states in 1949 will certainly help us in rehabilitation and in building for peace."

CROP is sponsored by Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service, and Lutheran World Relief.
