Heavy Rains Spread Across Panhandle, Advance Southward

HEAVY, DARK thunderheads moved into the Panhandle and South Plains of Texas Friday night, dousing scattered areas with heavy rainfall and pulling a blanket of mist and drizzle over the rest of the region.

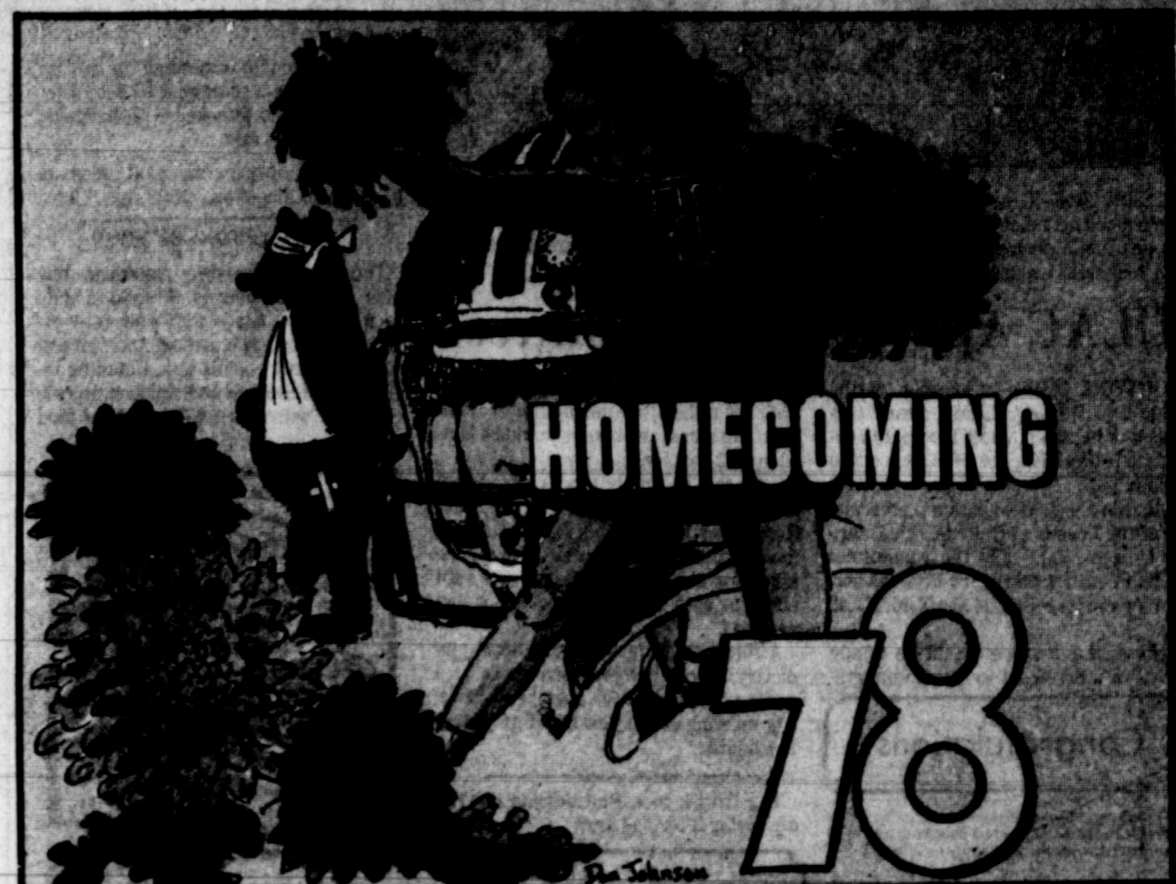

Afternoon and evening rainfall exceeded two inches at Muleshoe, and among those towns recording more than an inch were Morton, Nazareth, Bovina, Whitharar, Forsan, Littlefield and Hale Center.

Two leading members of the Egyptian delegation, acting foreign minister Boutros Ghali and Ambassador Usama Al-Baz, also will be going home for consultations, the State Department said Friday.

Dollar Surges Again; Jobless Rate Dips; Stock Mart Sobers

By The Associated Press THE DOLLAR soared again Friday on a wave of foreign ebullience over President Carter's economic moves, but the stock market sobered at the prospect of higher interest rates in the White House battle to throttle inflation.

The prime rate, the interest banks charge their biggest corporate customers, has no direct effect on interest rates for consumer and mortgage loans but usually reflects the future direction of those rates.

Overseas, the dollar rose in value against all major European currencies in response to the president's twin campaigns to rescue the dollar and combat inflation, and prices of gold — a traditional haven for investors during dollar crises — continued their sharp decline.

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Mary Vincent, the 15-year-old Las Vegas runaway whose arms were hacked off below the elbows, says she is trying to get used to temporary prosthetic devices so she can be fitted with permanent arms and take karate lessons.

"But first I have to pass the prosthesis test ... they have to see how strong and fast I get with these," Miss Vincent said in an interview, as she used the hook on her left hand to practice eating.

Miss Vincent and some members of her family have been staying in a loaned mobile home here since she was released from Modesto's Scene General Hospital after treatment for her injuries suffered Sept. 29.

"She was found wandering in a daze near Interstate 5 southwest of here after being raped and attacked with hatchets, sheriff's officers said.

LULAC Appeals To Committees

HOUSTON (AP) — Chairmen of the Senate and House judiciary committees were asked Friday to hold hearings to determine if there is a need for the Tortilla Curtain.

Eduardo Pena, Washington representative of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said only the committees can halt construction of the Mexican border fence in El Paso and San Ysidro, Calif.

Pena said the fence would be totally useless as a deterrent to illegal immigration and it is stupid to believe people who walk 600 miles from the interior of Mexico to slip across the border would be halted by a 12-foot fence.

Pena said he sent letters Friday to Senator Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., chairmen of the congressional committees. He said he asked for the project to be delayed until either or both committees could conduct hearings.

A former staff member of a Senate judiciary subcommittee, Pena spoke at a news conference at the opening of a two-day meeting of the Texas LULAC executive board.

charged with her attack and pleaded innocent Thursday to a seven-count indictment in Superior Court here.

Miss Vincent undergoes several hours of therapy daily in which she must lift weights, ride a bicycle and do crafts such as macrame, weaving, coloring and writing.

She says past ballet training has made her limber and helps with her therapy, which she hopes will be reduced to twice a week.

The teen-ager also is glad to be out of the hospital.

"That's the nicest part, to be able to go out and do things," she says, including shopping with her mother, Lucy, playing with her brothers and sisters and going out with friends she has met from a local Christian youth group.

Miss Vincent also spends part of her time reading cards and letters she receives that "gave me a lot of encouragement, to think people cared."

The notes fill two large boxes, and added to the many gifts of stuffed animals, jewelry and other items, fills the living room of the mobile home.

Her favorite gift is a pendant she wears most of the time that shows a young woman's face surrounded by wings. It was given to her by television's "Bionic Woman" Lindsay Wagner, who flew here to visit Miss Vincent.

"She says it was the wings to my soul," Miss Vincent said of the actress' gift.

Tech To Give Awards At Meet

Texas Tech Ex-Students presented "Distinguished Service Awards" to three Techsians at the 18th annual Century Club dinner Friday night at the University Center.

The awards went to J.T. King, former athletic director, Nelson H. Longley, director of the University Center, and Margret R. Stuart, associate professor of chemistry. Presentations were made by Tom Craddock of Midland, president-elect of the association.

Television and radio personality Art Linkletter was principal speaker for the Century Club members, who are annual contributors of $100 or more to the Ex-Students Association Loyalty Fund.

King joined Texas Tech in 1959 as assistant football coach, became head coach in 1961 and served as athletic director from 1970 until his retirement this year.

While at Texas Tech he produced five All-American players, 19 All-Southwest Conference players and numerous All-Star participants. He coached at the East-West Shrine game in 1966, the Hula Bowl game in 1965, and the Blue-Gray game in 1968. Before joining the Texas Tech Athletic Department he served as assistant coach at Tulane and Texas A&M universities and The University of Texas at Austin.

Longley was named assistant director of the University Center in 1955 and director in 1957, a position he continues to hold. During his service as director the center has increased five times in size, the latest addition completed in 1976.

Stuart has been a member of the chemistry faculty at Texas Tech since 1946.

She received a bachelor of arts degree in biology from Texas Tech in 1940 and a master's degree in chemistry in 1948.

She has been active in campus, community and church affairs during her more than 20 years as a chemistry professor at the university.

Compean Blasts Candidacy Of Hill

Mario Compean, La Raza Unida candidate for governor, Friday blasted John Hill, the Democratic nominee, and predicted that Republican Bill Clements will win the election.

"As attorney general of the state, Mr. Hill fought all the cases for single-member districts that would have and have improved representation of the Mexican-American community," Compean said.

The San Antonio social service agencies consultant also criticized Hill for failing to support unionized Texas farm workers in their efforts to get collective bargaining rights.

Indicating that some Mexican-Americans have indicated they plan to vote for Hill, Compean called the attorney general "anti-minority and anti-labor."

Compean made his criticisms of Hill and then took questions from newsmen at 2 p.m. Friday at the Texas Tech University Center.

Answering questions, he said his candidacy has been hampered by a lack of proper financing. He said he probably will have spent about $30,000 by the Tuesday election.

Together, Hill and Clements are expected to spend perhaps more than $5 million.

"Unfortunately, the effectiveness of a political campaign is judged by the amount of money you spend," Compean said.

His background includes 15 years as a migrant farm worker, work as a supervisor and trainer of VISTA volunteers in South Texas barrios, San Antonio mayor candidate in 1969 and service as state chairman of La Raza Unida from 1971 to 1974.

Duran had been charged Thursday with aggravated robbery in connection with Monday's holdup of the Poco Taco restaurant at 120 University Ave. and with the Oct. 16 armed robbery of the Rode-way Restaurant at 2401 4th St.

Suspect Hit With Two More Charges

Two additional aggravated robbery charges were filed Friday against Jose Duran Jr., 22, of 4521 Brownfield Hwy., No. 245.

Friday's filings bring the number of armed robbery charges lodged against the suspect to four.

Duran is accused of robbing three restaurants and a convenience store within the past two months.

Duran was charged Friday with the Oct. 23 holdup of the Taco Bell restaurant at 908 Slide Rd. in which approximately $180 was taken. The suspect also was charged Friday with aggravated robbery in connection with a reported Sept. 14 holdup at a 7-Eleven store at Detroit Avenue and Colgate Street.

AN EDITORIAL:

Good Points Outweigh Bad

IT'S A TASTY-looking morsel—unnubered, widely ballyhooed and prominently placed on the Tuesday ballot—and the so-called "Tax Relief Amendment" is calculated to be approved on its name alone.

Unfortunately, the amendment's name promises more than its body will deliver. It shifts the tax load a mite but doesn't relieve it.

Nevertheless, the good points of the "Tax Relief Amendment" outweigh its questionable features just enough to bring us down on the side of recommending its adoption.

We do so primarily (and without gusto) because its approval would remove the unenforceable but threatening constitutional mandate that intangible property such as bank accounts be taxed.

THE DRIVING FORCE behind submission of the amendment to voters came from those who want farm and ranch land to be taxed on its productive value instead of on its market value.

Currently, only agricultural land owned by an individual whose primary source of income is agriculture qualifies for taxation on its capability to produce income from crops.

Proponents say the current restrictions are too narrow. Opponents object that land in and near cities, held for speculation, and land owned by big timber interests would get a special tax break if the amendment is approved.

Whether a significant tax load would be shifted to other taxpayers would depend on how the Legislature writes the enabling statutes. Voters, in effect, are buying a pig in a poke under this part of the "Tax Relief Amendment."

LARGELY TO OFFSET those objections, the Legislature included in the same amendment a proposal to give homestead tax exemption.

AN EDITORIAL:

Pardon Me, But...

THE IRS, which has acquired considerable expertise over the years in catching tax cheaters red handed, is passing some how-to advice on to its own employees.

As reported by The Wall Street Journal, an IRS advisory suggests discouraging desk-top snitching by sprinkling items with a colorless chemical, phenolphthalein. The truth out later when the snitcher washes his/her hands and chemical traces in combination with alkaline soap turns them bright red.

That's not the end of this petty crime and punishment story, however. Phenolphthalein, an ingredient in many commercial preparations, also happens to have a laxative effect. If a snatched item happens to be edible, a culprit's subsequent experience may be considerably more moving than merely red hands.

ART BUCHWALD:

I'd Like For You To Meet The Little Ms.

WASHINGTON—This is the story of a liberated woman who is sorry she became liberated. Her name for this article will be Ghiselda Manifesto. She is a friend of mine and as far as I know she is as happily married as most people are these days. She doesn't have to work but decided that when her children went off into the world to find themselves she would get her degree and become a lawyer.

She did. She was accepted by a law firm and is now working for Blah, Blah, Objection & Sustained.

I saw her the other day at lunch.

"HOW'S YOUR tennis?" I asked her.

"I don't have time for tennis any more. In fact I don't seem to have time for anything."

"But you loved tennis," I said.

"I loved drinking coffee and watching soap operas, too. But now that I'm a liberated woman I can't do that either."

"I don't understand it. It seems like only yesterday you were telling me how wonderful it would be to get out in the give-and-take of the real world. You dreamed of becoming a lawyer and being somebody in your own right."

"Yes," she said, "but I didn't think it would mean giving up the King Tut exhibit at the National Gallery."

"YOU MISSED the King Tut exhibit?" I tried to keep the shock out of my voice.

"I was in court every day trying to keep the FCC from taking a radio station away from somebody in Hoboken, N.J."

"I guess the thrill of being a lawyer wears off very fast."

"Do you know what my dream in life is now that I'm a liberated woman?" she asked.

"I can't guess."

"To see a matinee of 'Hello Dolly' with Carol Channing."

"Why can't you go in the evening to see it with Charlie? Is he too tired?"

"I'M TOO TIRED. When I get home I just want to sit in a chair and drink a glass of white emptions to city dwellers.

In a confusing grab-bag of provisions, the amendment would mandate a $5,000 exemption on the market value of a homestead for school tax purposes, permit an additional exemption of up to $10,000 for the elderly and disabled for school tax purposes, and permit other taxing units to continue granting a homestead exemption but requiring them to do so on the basis of market value rather than assessed value.

The Legislature promised to reimburse school districts for at least part of the revenue they'll lose if the amendment is approved.

These tax exemptions sound good but would offer little real tax savings, many analysts believe.

THE LEGISLATURE would be authorized to exempt one or two family cars from property taxes. This is a very badly needed reform because some cities and school districts, including Lubbock, now tax cars and others do not, the amendment would correct this inequity.

Household goods would be exempted, too, except for those used in the production of income, thus removing unenforceable clutter from the constitution.

A state spending limitation in the amendment is meaningless because the Legislature could waive the "limit" by simple majority vote.

A "truth in taxation" section, requiring local governments to provide notice of increases in property taxes before they are adopted—including those brought about by periodic reappraisals—could be enacted by statute. Thus, this section is window dressing designed to gain votes for the amendment.

A FINAL SECTION in the "Tax Relief Amendment" contains language that would prohibit statewide appraisal of real property for ad valorem tax purposes although it will allow "formula distribution" of tax revenues to political subdivisions.

Some say this will encourage needed property tax reforms by removing the fear of statewide appraisals. Others say this prohibition of "statewide appraisals will thwart meaningful tax reform in the future.

SO, THAT BRINGS us back to the redeeming feature in the proposal: Removal of intangibles such as bank accounts from the threat of taxation will take away the basis for lawsuits that could tie up tax rolls and create a financial crisis for local governments.

That, plus the prospect of relief from the auto tax, makes the amendment worthy of a "yes" vote.

Just as its name invites passage, however, the complexity and uncertainties of the so-called "Tax Relief Amendment" could bring about its defeat.

wine and watch the evening news." "Why can't you?" "I have to do the shopping at the supermarket on my way home, and then make dinner, and then do the dishes and clean up the house. I am a liberated woman to the world, but I'm still 'good old Ghiselda' to Charlie, 'the best little woman a man could have.'"

"But isn't Charlie proud of the fact that you're a lawyer and a person in your own right?" "Oh sure. He tells everyone: 'Meet my wife, she's a lawyer and makes $40,000 a year and she still has time to cook, clean, do exercises, take vitamins and Geritol every day.'"

"Then he kisses me on the cheek and says just as they do in the commercials, 'My wife, I think I'll keep her.'"

"THAT'S TENDER," I said.

"You want to hear of another fantasy I have?" she said.

"Sure."

"I pretend it's 10 o'clock in the morning and Gloria calls me up and says, 'Let's go over to Neiman-Marcus and try on every suit they have hanging in the store. And then let's go have lunch and tell terrible things about everyone we know.'"

"That's a nice fantasy," I admitted. "I guess it will never be, at least you're not bored now."

"Have you ever tried to write a brief defending a gas line company in an antitrust suit? If you think waxing floors is drudgery, spend a day in a law library sometime."

"GOSH, I THOUGHT liberated women had the best of both worlds—ego-massaged all day long and cuddled all night."

"You've got it all wrong. No one massages a liberated woman in the daytime because he thinks he'll be patronizing her."

"And when she comes home at night the husband figures he's doing such a nice thing by letting her work that he doesn't have to cuddle her."

"What about joining a women's bowling league on Thursday?" I finally suggested.

She paid her half of the check and left in a huff.

Writer Says Probe Needed To Clear Iranian Protests

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: In recent years the streets of some cities around the U.S. have occasionally been taken over by so-called "Iranian students" protesting alleged conditions in Iran. There is reason to suspect, however, that many of these marches have been well-organized and financed attempts to discredit and destabilize the pro-Western government of Iran.

There is sufficient reason for us to be concerned about these protests, as well as the motivations of the people behind them. I know that I, as an American-born citizen of Eurasian descent, am concerned about these activities. There is reason to doubt that these so-called "Iranian students" are Iranian at all.

When these people have marched—whether in New York City, Washington, D.C., Oklahoma City or San Francisco, their tactics have been identical. They have worn bags and masks over their heads and faces and non-descript clothing. They claim this is necessary to protect themselves against retaliation by SAVAK, the Iranian secret police.

It is a fact that these "Iranian students" have attacked peaceful pro-Iranian demonstrators, as well as police in various cities.

It has also been noted that some, if not many of these "Iranian students" may not be Iranian at all. Numerous blacks and blond-haired individuals have been seen in these protests. The fact that these individuals were probably hired protestors fits in with the fact that bus loads of demonstrators have been bused into cities where demonstrations are held.

This clearly requires organization and money since it is not inexpensive to hire such transportation. Who is supplying the necessary funds? According to the State Department there are 33,000 Iranian students in this country. The largest marches have only had 2,000 marchers.

The issues which these demonstrators raise are not relevant to conditions in Iran today. Efforts to destabilize the pro-Western government of the Shah of Iran are well known and documented. This is a goal which the Communists have had for quite a long time.

Are the "Iranian students" the tools of a larger political plot seeking to gain control of Iran? What are the legitimate Iranian students being used for by those organizing these protests? These are questions and issues which warrant a Congressional investigation.

Slaton Woman Urges Calm Study Before Final Vote

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: Perhaps it is much easier to be critical than correct and in any event, particularly where "Politics" have not exactly been an abstermious diet, we find ourselves faced with political theories reflecting ideas of this nature.

Having acquired acumen regarding "dirty politics" late in the game, possibly performing perfunctory work concerning our duties as qualified voters, we still have time to become aware of the basis or motive for our casting a ballot.

The underlying fact is "have we made preparation for going to the polls?" Are the persons we vote for, standing on records which are commitment and dedication to their causes? Or are we qualified to ascertain authoritatively, maybe conclusively who will achieve, quite on the contrary all the expectations of us who will place them in their positions?

We are all hoping for amelioration in Congress but there have been too many ambiguous statements and not enough altruism in this great game of politics. We the people have the capacity to be "correct and not critical" by involving ourselves in diligently searching for reasons based on truths to put a man in office.

At this point nothing is more important than knowing why you are voting for a person. Let us not go to the Polls hastily and superficially without knowledge but let us go with an understanding gained through experience and study that we have discovered because we care who we send to Congress. It is not what they have done but what can they endeavor to become?

City Motorist Says 'Yield' Signs Ignored Across City

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: Webster's Collegiate Dictionary defines the word "yield" as: to give way; surrender; succumb. I wonder just how many drivers in Lubbock are aware of this meaning.

The triangular red and white signs are throughout our city, primarily adjacent to Loop 289 and at entrances, exits and frontage roads. This also pertains to roads leading to major thoroughfares.

The sign and its meaning seems to have an adverse effect on these drivers for I have seen them accelerate to dangerous speeds for fear of having to wait the few seconds necessary for the car having the right-of-way to pass by. They crowd lanes while entering the Loop rather than adhere to the yield sign and let the traffic flow.

So many drivers are either totally oblivious to the yield sign, or feel it has no specific meaning for them personally—perhaps the other guy. I regularly shudder at the near-misses I have witnessed and only hope that this letter might have a positive effect on at least one driver.

Head Of Letter Carriers Takes Issue With Stand

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: This is in response to your editorial headlined "Postal Users Get A Lickin'," which appeared in the Sept. 18th edition of your paper.

As President of the National Association of Letter Carriers, I represent approximately 220,000 members across the country. On their behalf, I must respond to the unfair criticisms and misleading comments in your editorial.

Specifically, we object to your totally unacceptable statement that the recent postal contract was, for Americans in general, "their worst defeat since Vietnam." Your misguided basis for comparing a labor agreement with the devastating horrors of a war is completely incongruous and totally out of line. We find such comment offensive, insulting and unequivocally inappropriate.

Furthermore, you mistakenly and misleadingly imply that postal workers were considering "an illegal strike against the American public." Our dispute was clearly with our employer, the United States Postal Service and never with the patrons we serve. It is as ludicrous to imply otherwise as to suggest that auto workers would want to strike against people who buy cars rather than corporation management.

Your editorial sadly reveals a total lack of comprehension of the postal situation. You claim "it is no secret that some postal workers...voted against the original contract in hopes that the mediator would eliminate the no lay-off clause." Quite the contrary, retention of that clause was a firm priority of every letter carrier who contacted our office. At no point during the negotiation did union officials ever have the slightest indication from our members that they were willing to sacrifice their no lay-off protection; in fact, the exact opposite was true.

In view of our experience and first-hand knowledge, we question not only your source of information, but your common sense as well.

Finally, it is sad indeed that your "one hope" for the Postal Service is that its employees "follow through with the threat to strike" and be unmercifully punished by courts that will "fine, jail and fire them." That may be your "American dream," but I know many who still prefer liberty, justice and happiness to revenge against their fellow man.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

Big Shot F-Fliers

IT'S BEEN A long time since I've had a critical go at the airlines, but that doesn't mean I'm getting mellow.

Still, having logged 25,000 miles in a dozen separate flights this month, I am cheered by news that bargain hunters are out—and freer-fliers are in.

That's what the airlines say, anyway. FF's (see above) are "the key to future profits," and from now on, they're going to cosset them with creature comforts. Even us peasants back there in steerage.

So what's the first thing they do? They ask the CAA to let them raise their coach fares by up to four percent.

BUT THEY'RE going to sweeten the deal by making it cheaper to fly first class. Beginning in the middle of November, some carriers will let you fly up front for only 20 percent more than it would cost you back in coach.

Or, to put it another way, you can rub elbows with the richies at an eight-percent discount. That lets you play big-shot coast-to-coast for an extra $60, one way. And they throw in all the regular first-class goodies.

The free champagne, on-the-house movies, fancier groceries served on real tablecloths, and seats that are wide enough to keep your backside from going to sleep.

Tempting as it all is, though, most of us FF's do our flying on a tight budget, which means that coach is the only way to go. But the airlines are fixing to jazz that up a bit, too.

NOT BY CHOICE, necessarily. If they had their way, no plane would leave the runway until every seat was stuffed with a body. They have these computers, see, that figure out how many different ways you can pack sardines into a 747.

Now, with the new deregulation kick, the airlines are wide open to free competition on rates, schedules and frills. Or, as some disgruntled passenger put it: "They're trying to figure out how much inconvenience passengers are willing to put up with."

Lately, they've been hearing from their business travelers, that bread-and-butter group that the briefcase brigade is not happy.

A lot of them use their time in the air to write reports, memorize speeches and fill out expense accounts. And having a baby in the next seat burp all over your annual report is not conducive to executive peace of mind.

ANOTHER THING: They don't like paying full coach fare and then winding up next to a discount passenger who gets the same service for a fraction as much.

That's been happening about 50 percent of the time lately, ever since the bargain rates turned commercial flying into mass transit.

So, four of the airlines—American, Pan Am, TWA and British Airways—are going to segregate the chicken-feed fares from the full-paying passengers in coach.

The cabin will be divided into two sections, with the cut-rate customers getting back-of-the-bus treatment.

The FF's will be singled out for a variety of special services: advance seat assignments and boarding passes, use of the carry-on baggage closet, first choice on drinks and meal selection and, with any luck, an empty middle seat.

BACK IN ECONOMY territory, the discount vacationers and other assorted cheapskates will have no seat selection until just before departure, every seat will be filled, they'll have to stuff their carry-ons under their feet and they get what's left after the full-fare fliers choose their entrees.

On Pan Am's London flight, the FF's come out even better: free booze, free movies, preferred seating, first choice on meals, special check-in facilities and access to special departure lounges.

On top of all this, most airlines are trying to simplify the monstrous confusion of fare plans (some offer as many as 90).

Allegheny, for instance, has a smorgasbord of cheap flights ranging from 20 to 50 percent off under catchy names like Saturday Flight, Super Saver, Flexible Flier, SimpleSaver, Senior Saver, Clergy Plan, Military Fare and Moonlighter.

BUSINESS IS just getting too good lately. July's traffic was up 20.5 percent over July, 1977, and, by the end of the year, U.S. airlines will have flown 275 million passengers (35 million more than last year), grossed more than $23 billion and netted more than $1 billion.

But to keep ahead of rising costs in 1979, they're going to need 25 to 30 million more passengers. Even though they have no place to put them either in airports or on the planes.

And by the early 1980s, they're going to have to shell out some $30 billion for new jets to replace aging equipment.

The name of the game, no matter what the TV commercials say, is profits. Somebody's going to have to square the vicious circle of how to get more people flying, keep them happy in the air, and make them pay enough to make flying pay.

Let's hope they don't do it the way one stewardess did last week. She brought Old Dad a drink, whisked away his $10 bill—and never came back with his change.

That's how much "inconvenience" one sardine will put up with.

QUESTION ARISES as to whether any famous women in recent history were able to stay married to their original husbands and still go on with their careers. Not many, not many. But six such come to mind.

Attress Helen Hayes, for one. And writer Anne Morrow Lindbergh, for another. Less widely known but eminent in their own fields are novelist Vita Sackville-West, artist Kathe Kollwitz, physicist Helen DeWiest and playwright Enid Bagnold.

Please note, the husbands of each attained much stature in their own right that they do fret about it all.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I am 45. My wife is 42. We are both employed and have a combined annual income of $33,000. We both have pensions and we have $19,500 in savings accounts. We have no debts except a $35,000 mortgage on our home, which is worth $110,000.

Four months ago, we opened an account with a major brokerage house. Our broker has the right to buy and sell without contacting us. The account is margin 50 percent. We put $20,500 into the account. The total value of the account is now $50,630, with a margin of $25,000.

I have been told that this type of account is risky. But, because the rest of our holdings are conservative, we do not mind some risk. What are your comments?

A. I agree with what you have been told. A "discretionary" account — through which your broker buys and sells stocks for you without as much as a "by your leave" — is always risky. And dealing on margin — through which you put only part of the purchase price and borrow the rest through your broker — adds to the risk.

A broker handling a discretionary account faces the constant temptation to do a lot of buying and selling. Remember that a broker collects a commission on each purchase or sale. That's how he or she makes his or her living.

Buying on margin increases the amount of money you have working for you. That's great, when the stocks you buy go up. It can be disastrous when your stocks go down. Also, you're paying mighty high interest on that borrowed money.

Under present margin requirements, you can borrow up to 50 percent. It's clear that you are margin 50 to the hilt. After deducting your margin, we see that the equity in your account is $25,430.

That's 24 percent more than the $20,400 you put into the account only four months ago — a tremendous accomplishment. Don't count on that, on a steady basis. This column cautions against risky situations such as you have put yourselves into. If you're willing to take that risk, however, I wish you good luck.

Q. I intend to retire next year. I will receive a large amount of money from my company's profit-sharing plan which I will be able to "roll over" into a special Individual Retirement Account (IRA). I want to put the money into an investment which has absolutely the least bit of risk at the highest possible yield. Your suggestions?

A. There are many different places you can open an IRA. Your mandate for freedom from risk, however, narrows the choices to U.S. Retirement Plan Bonds and savings certificates issued by banks and savings and loan associations insured by agencies of the federal government.

Among those, the highest interest rate you can get is the 8 percent from savings banks and savings and loan associations. Commercial banks are limited to 7 1/2 percent on their IRA plans.

Q. The payroll department at work informed us that the federal government has stopped issuing U.S. Savings Bonds. Why? We're worried.

A. Easy, now. There was a fairly recent three-day halt in the sale of U.S. Savings Bonds at banks and other qualified paying agents. But, even on those days — Aug. 1, 2 and 3 — bond sales through payroll savings plans continued.

The reason was Congress had not passed a necessary appropriations bill. This has happened before and will undoubtedly happen again. Our law-givers are not noted for their speed — except when chasing votes, and campaign contributions.

Dollar Maintaining Strength Abroad As Gold Price Drop Continues

LONDON (AP) — The dollar ended a week of dramatic recovery on the world's foreign exchanges with more gains Friday in response to President Carter's plan to boost the sagging American currency.

Gold prices continued their sharp fall. It was a week of frantic fluctuations in the value of dollars, yen and other leading currencies with many millions of dollars changing hands.

At the close of business Friday, the dollar had soared from record low levels earlier in the week to score an impressive 9 percent gain against the powerful Swiss franc and German mark, 7 percent against the French franc, and 5 percent against the British pound and Italian lira.

Although Tokyo exchanges were closed Friday for a holiday, the dollar rose from a postwar low of 176 yen last Tuesday to 186 at Thursday's close.

It was Wednesday afternoon European time when President Carter caught the foreign exchanges with his unadvertised announcement of a $30-billion rescue plan for the dollar after the once mighty U.S. currency had lost an average 30 percent of its value over the last 18 months.

Unlike earlier Carter and U.S. Treasury statements, this time the administration was seen as meaning business.

The price of gold bullion, which had acted as a safe haven for investors during the dollar crisis, fell through the floor in reaction.

There were warning voices. Many dealers advised their clients that the dollar will remain under pressure as long as inflation and huge trade deficits plague the American economy.

Nevertheless, the rebounding dollar came as a great relief to Americans residing ing or touring abroad. Their dollars will go further and do more to offset the very high cost of living in such foreign capitals as Tokyo, Paris, Geneva or London.

A more stable dollar also should create an improved climate for world trade, unsettled by the see-sawing movements of the world's leading reserve currency.

Here are Friday's closing dollar rates, compared with Thursday's rate and with Tuesday, the day before the rescue plan was announced:

Frankfurt — 1.8955 German marks, up from 1.8705 Thursday, and 1.7365 Tuesday. That means the mark was worth 52.75 cents Friday, 53.46 cents Thursday, and 57.58 cents Tuesday.

Zurich — 1.6215 Swiss francs, up from 1.60 and 1.484. The Swiss franc was worth 61.67 cents Friday, 62.50 cents Thursday and 67.38 Tuesday.

Paris — 4.29 French francs, up from 4.27 and 4.0250. Friday's French franc bought 23.31 cents, Thursday's 23.41, and Tuesday's 24.84.

Milan — 835.88 Italian lire, up from 830.50 and 790.05.

Amsterdam — 2.0415 Dutch guilders, up from 2.0215 and 1.8760. The guilder was worth 48.98 cents Friday, 49.46 Thursday and 53.30 Tuesday.

In London, the British pound was worth $1.9910, little changed from $1.9860 Thursday. At one point the pound sank to $1.97 when a group of striking Ford Motor Co. workers in Britain voted down the company's latest pay offer.

Dealers across Europe reported a certain amount of government bank intervention to help the dollar, a major plank in Carter's save-the-dollar program.

A London trader reported a nervous mood in the market. "I wouldn't be surprised to see some selling of dollars next week," he said.

Gold bullion continued its retreat in the wake of Carter's action. Prices fell by about 11 percent from Tuesday to Friday.

The London closing price was $215.25 a Troy ounce, down from Thursday's close of $221.75 and $242.25 on Tuesday. In Zurich, the metal closed at $215.50, down from $221.50 Thursday and $243.875 on Tuesday.

Gold began the year at $189.50 dollars an ounce.

In later New York currency trading, the dollar continued to strengthen but trading was light.

Closing New York rates included: 1.8945 West German marks to the dollar up from 1.87175 Thursday; 4.31 French francs, up from 4.28; 1.6225 Swiss francs from 1.6005; 189.30 Japanese yen, up from 188.15.

The British pound cost $1.9750 Friday, less than Thursday's rate of $2.0035. The Canadian dollar was traded at 85.58 U.S. cents, less than Thursday's rate of 85.45.

Jurors Assess 10-Year Term In Robbery

Freddie Joe Anderson, 22, was assessed a 10-year prison term by a jury here Friday after being found guilty of robbing a convenience store.

Jurors in Judge John R. McFall's 237th District Court deliberated about 45 minutes before assessing punishment for the robbery conviction. The range of punishment for robbery is from two to 20 years imprisonment.

The six-man, six-woman panel had taken less than 40 minutes to find Anderson guilty.

The defendant was accused of a June 13, 1977, robbery at a 7-Eleven store at 9th Street and University Avenue. Farmer store attendant Gary William Powell, 26, said the robber — whom he identified as Anderson — had threatened him with death if he didn't open a safe.

Prosecutor Rick Howell asked the complainant if he had taken the threat seriously.

"I thought there was a definite chance I'd be dead," the witness answered.

Powell said he was at the back of the store stocking merchandise when a man entered about 2 a.m. The witness said he noticed immediately that the man had his face covered by what Powell described as a sort of "flap."

"I felt like it might be a robbery," Powell said.

Powell said that he started walking toward the front of the store, as the man walked down another aisle toward the rear.

The complainant said he turned. "I turned and I was looking at this man here," he said, indicating the defendant. He said the man he said was the defendant apparently had discarded the flap.

According to Powell, the robber ordered him to turn around and stuck a "hard object" in his back before ordering him to throw the store's money on the floor. Powell said he took money from the register and threw it down.

The bandit then ordered him to open the safe, Powell said. The witness said he explained to the robber that he could not open the safe.

"He told me he was going to blow my head off if I didn't open the safe," Powell testified.

Powell said the robber made him lie on his stomach and subsequently left after informing the attendant that a customer might be outside.

Police Officer Claude Jones testified he arrested Anderson in the 2200-block of 7th Street after following the vehicle in which the defendant was riding from the vicinity of 5th Street and University Avenue.

Testimony indicated that $26 was found inside a plastic jug inside the vehicle, and that another $5 was found on the floorboard.

Powell said he had told police the robber was wearing an orange coat. Police said an orange coat was found about 150 feet from where the vehicle was stopped.

Powell identified Anderson as the robber to police immediately after the suspect was apprehended. Defense attorney Byrnie Bass pointed out that no gun or any sort of mask was found in the car.

He also noted that Powell had told officers the robber was about six-feet tall, whereas the defendant, wearing the sort of high-heeled shoes supposedly worn by the bandit, is much taller.

Anderson, who lived at 2213 7th St. at the time of the offense, had received a five-year probated sentence in September after pleading guilty to robbery in connection with an April 3 incident at a 34th Street convenience store.

Unleaded Fuel Supplies Caught Short

NEW YORK (AP) — Shell Oil Co. is cutting back supplies of unleaded gasoline to dealers in the Northeast because of a shortage caused by high demand, the company said Friday.

The company is also having trouble supplying the motor fuel to customers in the Midwest, attributing that shortage to demand and the shutdown of a section of one refinery in the area for maintenance.

In a related development, Texaco Inc. said problems at a Los Angeles refinery were temporarily limiting gasoline supplies on the West Coast. But spokesman John Aucott said high demand was not a factor in that shortage.

spokesman John Aucott said high demand was not a factor in that shortage. Shell, however, said its problems were based on what company spokesman Norm Alstedter described as "unseasonable demand."

"Normally at this time of year ... the demand for unleaded gas decreases by about 5 percent," Alstedter said. "The demand this year has not decreased by about 5 percent," Alstedter said. "The demand this year has not gone down."

One Shell dealer, in Hartford, Conn., said a delivery to his station scheduled for 4,000 gallons was cut back to 2,400 gallons.

"We're not giving them as much as we did but we're giving it to them on an equitable basis," Alstedter said.

this fall. He noted that gasoline supply figures for this year were running substantially behind the 1977 figures.

But oil company officials disputed Schlesinger's claim, saying that they felt inventories were sufficient. They said the discrepancy between supplies this year and last was due to unusually high gasoline production in 1977.

During October, according to figures compiled by the American Petroleum October 1977 figures.

Alstedter said the problem was not anticipated when Schlesinger issued his warning, which included a request that refineries step up their gasoline production. "We thought we'd have the demand ease off," said Alstedter. "But it didn't ease off."

Analysts attribute the rise in demand this year to stable gasoline prices in the last couple of years, the increasing popularity of less-fuel-efficient vans and trucks and population growth in the South and West, where better weather leads to more driving.

In a related development, Shell raised gasoline prices by 1 1/2 cents a gallon Friday, matching similar moves by other oil companies earlier in the week. The Department of Energy recently gave permission for slight price increases to cover higher operating costs.

Sex Discrimination Settlement Reached

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Friday that a Northern Virginia builder and an apartment management firm have agreed on a settlement of a sex discrimination suit filed against them.

The suit charged Dominion Management Co. and Snell Construction Co. of violating a 1968 fair housing act by refusing to consider a woman's income in determining the financial qualifications of prospective renters.

The companies agreed to accept a rental application from David and Michele Dunlap. The couple had been denied an apartment by the two firms in July 1977. There was no other immediate identification of the couple.

Special Care Needed To Find 'Muley'

SANTA FE, N.M. (Special) — Some mule deer hunters seem to take game year after year, while others may go several seasons without firing a shot.

Why? Jim Vaught, a successful veteran of many mule deer hunts in states throughout the Rocky Mountains, is a former guide and, as a conservation officer with the New Mexico Department of Game & Fish, has also watched hundreds of other hunters utilize some of the best and some of the worst of techniques.

"One of the most important things is to consider the general region where the most deer are going to be and to remember they're going to be under specific conditions within those regions," Vaught said.

"Considering all the preparation that goes into a hunt, a person should think positively about driving the extra distance to go to a better deer area. Another few dollars' worth of gasoline and several hours' driving time are well worth the trouble."

Among the most common mistakes he and other game officers have seen, he said, are "being in the worst places at the worst times, they may sound simplistic, but it's true. Guys that are road hunting, or hunting too close to the roads and camps where the most activity is, are badly hurting their own chances of finding deer."

He has watched, he said, while hunters worked the canyon bottoms heavily but herds of mule deer calmly chewed their cud from a safe distance back up on the ridge.

"They won't move a long way unless they're really pressed," Vaught said. "They'll just move away from the areas of most activity — even into less cover, rather than more, if there are fewer hunters there. The idea that there aren't enough hunters around to move the deer is shoddy philosophy when it comes to hunting mule deer. Too many hunters simply move them away and into better hiding."

Wildlife Bulletins Offered By P&WD

AUSTIN (Special) — Three important new wildlife bulletins are now available at moderate cost from the Parks & Wildlife Department.

"The Poisonous Snakes of Texas," Bulletin No. 31, which in its previous version was always in demand, has been completely rewritten and updated by John E. Werler, director of the Houston Zoo. Price is $2.25.

"The Mammals of Texas," Bulletin No. 41, by Dr. W. B. Davis of Texas A&M University, has been reprinted with slight revisions. Price is $2.63.

"The Saltwater Fishes of Texas," Bulletin No. 52, is completely new, with illustrations by Henry Compton, Annette M. Lal and Nancy McGowan. Price is $2.10. Write for any of these to Texas Parks & Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, 78744.

Where They're Biting

Buffalo Springs Lake — All species are biting with channel catfish producing the most action. A 4 1/2-pound channel went for a minnow below the bridge last week to show the way for many anglers. A few black bass weighing 1 1/2-2 1/2 pounds are being caught. Crappie action is good although scattered. TP&WD completed a survey on walleye in the Lubbock lake. The walleye are numerous, healthy and growing. One 6 month old walleye measured 13 inches. Minnows are good bait for the walleye. One walleye was recently caught with a crappie jig. The lake is in good condition.

Lake Mackenzie — Gary Martin, a lake employee, used cut bait on a trotline at 20 feet to land a 6-pound channel cat. Blues are also producing some good action. Crappie are scattered in the deep water. Largemouth bass weighing up to 1 1/2 pounds are going for plugs; no top water action. Water level is normal and the lake is in good condition.

Oak Creek Lake — Catfish and bass are active and hungry. The Stark family from Crosbyton ended a week of fishing with ALASKA AWARD — Mrs. Elwin Smith of Lubbock braved rain and a chill factor of 10 degrees to land a silver salmon near Seward, Alaska. The Lubbockite's catch during the Seward Silver Salmon Derby earned her a $20 cash award. Mrs. Smith used herring for bait at a depth of 10 feet to hook the salmon that weighed close to 11 pounds. It took 20 minutes to land the fish. Many Alaska anglers consider the silver salmon the finest of all sport fishes. Mr. and Mrs. Smith entered the fishing derby while vacationing in Alaska.

Duck Crop Seen On Level Of '77

AUSTIN (Special) — Making predictions, whether on football games or rainfall, is a chancy business. Predicting how good the upcoming duck season will be fits into this category as well.

Judging from figures provided by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, overall duck populations will not be significantly different from last year.

However, for Texas hunters, success or failure on this year's hunts may depend on weather, location and the species of ducks normally hunted.

Harold Irby, migratory game programs director for the Parks & Wildlife Department, says there are several general observations which can be made about duck prospects in Texas.

"Over most of the state, except for the coastal areas, there will be fewer mallards. Counting all flyways, mallard numbers apparently are down about 7 percent from last year, and about 13 percent below the 20-year average," said Irby.

Since the mallard is the dominant species for hunters in the Central, North and Eastern portions of the state, such a decline could affect the hunt. Mallards are a 25-point duck, due to this expected shortage, except in portions of the Panhandle, where they remain in the 20-point category.

Mallards traditionally make up the largest percentage — about 19 — of the statewide duck harvest, Irby said.

However, the mallard situation is really the only minus factor, as most other species of ducks are holding their own or have increased their numbers of last year.

"Hunters on the upper coast may be able to look forward to seeing a lot of pintails," Irby said. Pintails make up about 16 percent of the upper coast harvest each year, and this year's total flyway population appears to be about 14 percent greater than last year, according to USFWS figures.

The other duck species on the upper coast is the green-winged teal, and it is also more numerous, about 53 percent over last year.

The rise in pintail numbers may have the most positive effect on the lower coast, where that species normally provides a hefty 27 percent of the annual harvest.

The second most harvested species on the lower coast is the green-winged teal. Three other species have had good nesting success in Canada and the northern U.S. this year and are more numerous than last. They are the gadwall, baldpate (wigeon) and shoveler.

Hunters are reminded to watch out for canvasbacks. Canvasbacks and redheads are protected in Brazoria, Chambers, Galveston, Harris, Jefferson, and Orange counties. Canvasbacks are 100-point ducks in the rest of the state, and redheads are 70-point ducks outside of this six-county area.

Ducks season for most of the state is Nov. 4-26 and Dec. 16-Jan. 21. However, approximately the western third of the state is Oct. 31-Jan. 21.

Harvest Reported Good For Panhandle Deer

A-J Correspondent

HEREFORD — With the Panhandle deer season now less than a month away, area sportsmen fortunate enough to find a ranch to set foot on can look forward to good hunting for both whitetail and mule deer, and their chances of taking a turkey in a bargain are good too, according to David Dvorak, big game and upland game biologist with the Parks & Wildlife Department in Canyon.

And for those willing to pay the price to hunt exotic game, there are more aoudad sheep and aoudad permits available than ever before in the eight counties bordering Palo Duro Canyon which features hunting for this African species now at home on the walls of the canyon.

"Mule deer prospects are fairly good all along the Palo Duro Canyon area. The count is up over last year, and we are expecting a real good season for muleys. We haven't seen any real trophy heads while doing surveys, but there have been quite a number of good bucks," Dvorak reported.

The biologist reported that the buck population is "about average" but expressed some concern over the reproductive performance of the muleys during the past spring and summer.

Palo Duro, bordered by ranches and wheat farms, has come into its own as a top mule deer producer in the past decade, and with the deep ravines of the canyon sprawling over portions of Randall, Armstrong, Briscoe, Donley, Floyd, Hall, Motley and Swisher counties, there is plenty of area for the production of bragging-sized bucks.

"There are a lot of fougles in the canyons, thanks to rains in the spring and again this fall, so there will be no problem with food for the deer as the season approaches," Dvorak stated.

A limited number of whitetails are available in the area of the canyon, most of them virtually unreachable. They make their home in the dense growth along the canyon bottom, and this precludes hunting by all the most dedicated of sportsmen.

Although there is some mule deer hunting available along the breaks of the Canadian River in the northern Panhandle, Dvorak pointed out that Palo Duro offers the Panhandle's premier muley hunting, particularly in the Claude and Wayside areas.

One of the most effective hunting methods on the canyonlands is to carefully glass the breaks while perched atop a mesa or on the edge of the canyon. Keeping watch on waterholes or wheat fields frequented by the deer can also pay off early and late in the day.

Deer hunting prospects in the northern Panhandle are also good this year, although hunting opportunities may not be as numerous, Dvorak said.

"Along the breaks of the Canadian River, it is a chore to find a place to hunt, particularly for mule deer."

"There are some ranchers who will allow hunting, but they are fewer in number. There are some good opportunities for whitetails along the public land in the riverbed, however."

"We have a good population of whitetails along the eastern third of the Panhandle. There was a normal crop of deer this year, and browse conditions are good. We have whitetails a lot bigger in size than the South Texas Hill Country deer you hear so much about, and with a little luck, a hunter could come back from the riverbed with a respectable whitetail," he continued.

Deer hunters could happen onto an opportunity to take a wild turkey gobbler both on the riverbed, and along the Palo Duro, according to Dvorak.

There was a good hatch this year. The bulk of the crop is along the Canadian, Washita and Sweetwater Creek areas. There are also some birds west of the Canadian River and along the bottoms of Palo Duro Canyon," he related.

Cool weather during the Nov. 18-Dec. 3 deer and turkey season in the Panhandle region should help improve hunter success, according to Dvorak, who reports that the deer kill is not as high when hotter weather makes the bucks inactive.

Turning to the Nov. 4-17 aoudad sheep season scheduled for Armstrong, Briscoe, Donley, Floyd, Hall, Motley, Randall and Swisher counties, Dvorak explained that hunters will have an excellent opportunity to bag one of the exotic sheep that hide so well along the canyon walls of the Palo Duro.

"The aoudad population continues to increase, and more permits were issued accordingly this year," said Dvorak.

Some 500 permits for the big sheep are being issued to landowners along the canyon this year, but the mere presence of good numbers of sheep does not guarantee hunter success.

Aoudad have proven an elusive target in recent years, with 450 permits issued last year and only 133 aoudads bagged.

A BACKYARD PROJECT

that grew into a refuge for more than 30 species of wildlife has earned a unique honor for a Long Island couple.

The two-acre homestead of H. Charles and Maria Hedges, in Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y., has been certified National Wildlife Backyard Habitat No. 1000 by the National Wildlife Federation.

The Hedges' property, composed of two ponds, a waterfall, wild rice, cattails, half a dozen bird feeders, and 22 varieties of trees and shrubs, was registered as the one-thousandth mini-refuge in an international network of privately owned sanctuaries for local wildlife. The certificate was issued after the NWF determined that the Hedges' yard provided the four basic elements for wildlife habitat — food, water, cover and areas for raising offspring.

In the Hedges' yard, food for a variety of birds and small mammals is provided by both native and nursery-purchased plants and trees such as maple, sunflower, coral berry, wild black cherry, ash, autumn olive and dogwood. Acorns and hickory nuts keep the squirrels fat and happy. And the Hedges keep their feeders stocked with birdseed, suet, corn-on-the-cob and peanuts.

If you'd like to create your own mini-wildlife reserve, you can get more information and a free backyard kit by writing to the Backyard Wildlife Habitat Program, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

SEARCH FOR ESCAPEES

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Security forces launched a huge search Friday for 11 prisoners suspected of being right-wing terrorists who escaped from a state prison in suburban Istanbul. Officials said the escapees included detainees charged with membership in the "Turkish Vengeance Brigade," an extreme rightist group that has been fighting with a variety of far left organizations. Officials said the escapees mingled with visitors at the Sagmalcilar Prison after they cut through the bars of the cells overlooking the visitors' hall.

Armed Couple Robs Pharmacy Of $200 Worth Of Barbiturates

A couple walked into Twin Oaks Pharmacy, 3405 34th St., about 30 minutes before closing time Friday, threatened the three employees inside with what appeared to be large-caliber guns and made off with about $200 worth of barbiturates.

Co-owner Charles A. Curry, 47, was forced by the male suspect to fill a large cardboard box with the drugs, police said, while employees Jimmy Don Hammock, 20, and James Gant, 21, were told to lie down in the back of the store, where they were guarded by the man's female companion.

Curry said the pair entered through the front door of the business about 6:30 p.m., walked to the drug counter at the back of the store and told the pharmacist to fill a paper sack with the drugs. The sack wasn't large enough, however, and the suspect then dumped trash from a cardboard box behind the counter and told Curry to put the items in it instead.

Before leaving, Curry said, the pair ripped the receivers from two telephones behind the counter. The suspects were believed to have left the area in a blue compact car, which also may have had a child inside.

Police late Friday were searching for a white man with brown, curly hair and wearing thick glasses with gold rims. The pharmacy employees said he was of medium build and carried a blue-steel revolver.

His companion was described as a white woman with long hair, wearing a brown coat. She reportedly was carrying a chrome or nickel-plated revolver.

A 25-year-old Lubbock man who allegedly pulled a knife on a woman Thursday and threatened to rape her was arrested after the woman spotted the suspect as she was talking to police.

The woman told officers she was in the parking lot of a fast-food restaurant in the 1500-block of Quirt Avenue about 7:50 p.m. when the man came up and said she was pretty.

Reports indicate the 17-year-old clerk told the suspect to leave and the man said, "I'm gonna rape you, girl." The woman said she again told the man to leave and he replied, "This will stop you," and pulled a knife.

The woman, however, said she was able to run into the restaurant and the man fled. Police said the arrest came when the victim was reporting the incident to officers and saw the man walk across an alley near the restaurant.

Burglars had a field day Thursday at a high cost to several Lubbockites.

Keith Birchler of 1918 Eighth St. said he was gone from his house Thursday evening, and when he returned about 10 p.m., he found $2,000 in guns, cameras, jewelry and a television missing.

About $900 in musical instruments was the loss absorbed by Juan Arcos of Route 5, Box 175-C, Lubbock, when his car was burglarized Thursday night while it was parked at East 19th Street and Quirt Avenue.

Rifles and a stereo, totaling $756, were taken by burglars when they broke into Edward Prentiss Bills' apartment at 2324 Fifth St., No. 101, Thursday night, according to reports.

Joel Otis Bell Jr. said a break-in at his 5310 32nd St. home Thursday night netted the burglars $550 in guns and jewelry.

Res. J. Dockery told police Friday that two rings, together valued at $500, were missing from his 3715 70th St. home. He said the rings were taken sometime during August.

Billy Lane Williams said whoever broke a panel in the kitchen door of his 2120 39th St. home Friday morning made off with two stereo speakers, valued at $240. He said the burglars also caused $30 damage to the door.

Burglars with an apparent sweet tooth cut the padlocks from a Merchants Motor Freight truck parked in the 500-block of East 50th Street late Thursday and early Friday and took 35 cases of candy, according to Pat Patterson. Patterson valued the chocolates at $300.

CITY'S 34TH FATALITY — Rescuers place the body of Della Roson McWhorter, 66, on a stretcher at the scene of a two-car collision Friday morning at 44th Street and Avenue A. Mrs. McWhorter, of 1510 24th St., was pronounced dead at the scene after her body had been trapped in her vehicle about 10 minutes before the "Jaws of Life" rescue tool snapped off the car door and rescuers removed her from the vehicle. She was the city's 34th traffic fatality of the year. (Staff Photo by Paul Moseley)

Two-Car Collision Kills Woman, 66

A 66-year-old Lubbock woman became the city's 34th-traffic fatality of the year early Friday, despite efforts of rescuers using a "Jaws of Life" device to free her from the wreckage of her car.

Della Roson McWhorter of 1510 24th St. was pronounced dead at the scene at 44th Street and Avenue A by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy. He ruled the death accidental.

The 7:15 a.m. mishap also sent Leo Richard Clarke, 16, of 2306 55th St. to Methodist Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises. He was in satisfactory condition at the hospital Friday night.

Mrs. McWhorter was trapped in her overturned car about 10 minutes before "Jaws of Life" snapped off the 1965 Ford sedan's door and allowed rescuers to pull her body from the wreckage.

The early-morning collision stacked up rush hour traffic going both directions on Avenue A.

Investigating officer Linda Clinto said Mrs. McWhorter was pulling out onto Avenue A from 44th Street and Clarke's 1970 Chevrolet Malibu was northbound on Avenue A when the vehicles collided.

The impact caused Mrs. McWhorter's car to overturn, virtually flattening the top of the vehicle. The car came to rest upside down in front of Bolton Service Station at 4250 Ave. A.

Wayne Rawls of 3814 63rd St., who was going to school at Dunbar-Struggs High School where he is a classmate of Clarke's, was traveling behind Clarke when the collision occurred.

"All of a sudden I saw him (Clarke) lock his brakes and hit the other car," Rawls said. "He hit it so hard it just kept pushing it and rolled it over."

Services for Mrs. McWhorter, a native of Hinchey, are pending with Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home.

She had moved to Lubbock in 1951 from Memphis and was a member of the Southside Assembly of God Church.

Survivors include her husband, Leo; three daughters, Vanita Scrogins of Morton, Wanda Dunn of Houston and Mary Cahill of Lubbock; three sons, Robert New of Garden City, Kan., Lloyd New of Morton and Fred New of Pasadena; her stepmother, Noreen Roson of Ida Belle, Okla.; two brothers, William Roson of Belle Chaise, La., and Charlie Roson of Ida Belle, Okla.; a half brother, Bob Roson of Ida Belle, Okla.; two sisters, Mary Casey of Santa Fe Springs, Calif., and Betty Marshall of California; 17 grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

Late President's Sister Dead At 89

Editor's Note: AP staff writer Harry F. Rosenthal was one of the few reporters who had interviewed Mary Jane Truman, the press-shy sister of Harry S. Truman, in recent years. In this story he recalls his conversation with her at her home in 1972 as he worked on a story in connection with the 8th birthday of her brother.

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL, Associated Press Writer

Mary Jane Truman always talked fondly of brother Harry. "I think he did mighty well, considering all he had to do," she'd say. And the sparkle in her eye told you she was cut from the same cloth when it came to mischief.

There was always a special kind of closeness between Miss Mary Jane, and her brothers: Vivian, the farmer, and Harry, the president.

Now, with her passing Friday, they're all united in death.

She died at her home in Grandview, Mo., a suburb of Kansas City, after a long series of illnesses. She was 89.

Her funeral will be Monday afternoon at the First Baptist Church of Grandview with burial in Forest Hills Cemetery. She had no immediate survivors.

"I don't think anyone ever had two better brothers than I had," Miss Truman said seven years ago in a rare interview shortly before Harry Truman died. "I think Harry married later than he would have because he thought he'd have to look after Mamma and me."

Truman was 35 when he married Bess Wallace, who still lives in their home at Independence, Mo.

Mamma and Mary were always on Truman's mind — especially when he was propelled into the loneliness that goes with being president of the United States.

tha Truman was 94 when she died in 1947. Harry was 88 at his death in 1972. Mary Jane was 89.

Mary Jane had the family disease — crippling arthritis — and she spent many of her last years in pain, needing crutches or a wheelchair. But her house was neat, an old-fashioned place with family pictures everywhere — on the walls, on the end tables, on the piano.

From their parents, she said, the Truman children learned "to be honest in our dealings with everybody. I felt we lived like everybody else, but maybe we didn't. We just grew up and did what we believed in. We were taught to be honest and if we made any decisions we were supposed to stick by them."

And, she added, Harry never changed, even when he became president.

Busing For Desegregation Brings Controversy

SEATTLE (AP) — For 15-year-old Shannon McLean, the school day begins in the dark, at 5:30 a.m. Seattle is desegregating its schools, and each day she waits before dawn for the school bus.

When it comes, the bus hums with conversation, and some complaints, about busing. But so far, Seattle's experience, and Shannon's, have been less painful than those in such cities as Boston and Louisville, Ky.

No court demanded this plan. Seattle, the first major U.S. city to voluntarily bus for desegregation, has accepted it quietly so far.

But even in such a city, there is controversy. On Tuesday, voters across the state of Washington will be asked whether they want to allow the busing to continue.

Initiative 350, which a citizens' group got on the ballot with 180,000 signatures, would require virtually all children in the state to attend schools near their homes. And Seattle school officials agree with busing opponents that it probably will pass.

The impact of the measure and the message behind any vote on it are uncertain, however.

Almost 90 percent of those in a recent survey were unaware that it would, in effect, bar busing to achieve integration, and Schools Superintendent David Moberly says that even if it passes, school attorneys could win exemption for Seattle in court — by arguing that there is an overriding public interest in desegregation.

And while some opponents of busing say the so-called "Seattle Plan" is causing whites to flee the city, the head of the initiative campaign, Seattle businessman

Ben Caley, says the initiative "has nothing to do with racial problems. It's more of a right to personal freedom not to have a decision made by some social planner acting as the social conscience of the public."

The question of race is complicated here. Seattle has large black, Indian and Oriental populations, and an active Hispanic community. But few neighborhoods are off-limits to other races.

The city has had voluntary integration since 1963, and mandatory busing for middle schools since 1972. Still there were threats of legal challenge from the NAACP, the local Council of Churches and the U.S. Office of Civil Rights.

So last December, the School Board decided it was facing the inevitable and might as well bus on its own. Local leaders pledged support, reasoning that a transition of the city's making would be smoother than a court order, Moberly says.

Dozens of neighborhood hearings were held. A school district poll found two-thirds of parents opposed to the busing plan — but they apparently grudgingly accepted it.

Under the plan, children in transitional grades, such as those entering high school, are bused. They keep their friends though in a new situation, and are put on buses when they would be changing schools anyway. For every minority student bused, a white is bused.

At this point, 12,500 of the city's 53,000 students are involved.

Special programs — humanities, performing arts, marine biology — were set up to attract students to certain schools.

There were a few threats of a boycott and some fears of violence. But a teachers' strike kept schools shut until Sept. 29, and by then only a handful of anti-busing pickets showed up.

"Seattle is kind of an interesting city," says Pat Sutton, president of the school board. "In this city it would not be just the minorities concerned that segregation existed."

Still, there are different degrees of acceptance, even among blacks.

For example, Betty Sawyer, a counselor at Franklin High School, questions the need for desegregation here. "It bothers me to see what goes on in other cities and then see them come into Seattle and, whiff-bam, expect things to be desegregated," she said.

On the other hand, Principal Benjamin Canada of Franklin High School sees a chance to give children a foothold in different neighborhoods.

"Busing is good social interaction, and we try to piggyback off that by having good social activities here," he said.

Bob Dorse, leader of the Citizens for Voluntary Integration Committee, says there has been white flight, and the combination of it and Initiative 350 will doom the Seattle Plan.

How much white flight is difficult to measure. Enrollment is 53,240, not the 55,000 planners had expected. But the strike undoubtedly played a role, enrollment has been falling for 15 years anyway, and attendance at Catholic schools is little changed from last year.

Meanwhile, the students ride the bus — among them Shannon McLean and 25 classmates who gather, yawning, before daybreak on quiet, lighted street corners in the Queen Anne district.

Just blocks away, the doors of Queen Anne High remain shut so early.

Shannon and her companions are going downtown, to Franklin High — and they have another 25 minutes before they arrive.

Children In Hospital Benefit From Feast

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The dinner guests feasted on lobster and wild duck and drank from an $18,000 bottle of wine, but the small patients at a children's hospital were the real winners, as it turned out.

The $1,500-a-plate "Feast for St. Jude" netted more than $34,000 for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, a hospital spokesman said Thursday.

Paul Parham said hospital officials were tremendously pleased by the donation and with the success of the dinner given by restaurant owner John Grisanti.

Grisanti and 30 guests Saturday night feasted on pheasant, lobster, wild duck and venison from gold-embossed plates. The dinner was planned around a 1864 bottle of Chateau Lafite for which Grisanti paid $18,000 at an auction in Atlanta in May.

U.S. MAKES DONATION

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United States has donated $250,000 to the International Labor Organization, the first such grant since the United States pulled out of the organization last year, the ILO announced Friday. The statement said the money, offered by the U.S. Department of Labor, will be used to develop the world labor body's new "hazard alert system" to protect workers against health risks. President Carter pulled the United States out of the ILO last November, complaining it had become too politically oriented and had deviated from its original purpose of improving the lot of workers around the world.

Religion Roundup

Problems Arise

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Executive bodies of two major Protestant denominations — the United Church of Christ and the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) — met Oct. 28 to explore unification, but the session ran into trouble over race and sex.

Several blacks and women joined in a protest by the Rev. Marvin Morgan of Brooklyn, president of the United Church Black Ministers, that major presentations at the meeting all were by white males. He suggested females and minorities "go and be the body of Christ" and leave the "white males" to their methods.

Despite the flareup, however, further union talks were planned, and presidents of the two churches pledged that hereafter the "rich diversity" of women and minorities would be evident. The Rev. Dr. Kenneth L. Teegarden, Disciples president, speaking both for himself and the United Church president, the Rev. Dr. Avery Post, said:

"We have been reminded forcefully today that white male dominance cannot exist in our conversations, if we are ever to achieve our goal of being one people of Christ."

Family Life Cited

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The American Jewish Committee says the survival of Jewish identity may well depend on willingness to maintain the kind of family life that has been "going out of style" in the United States.

An executive committee report of a task force study said marriage and family life are the most important means of transmitting Jewish values, institutions which recently have become fragmented by divorce, youth disillusionment and other factors.

Colleges Warned

NASHVILLE (AP) — Two of the 10 black senior colleges related to the United Methodist Church — Philander Smith College in Little Rock, Ark., and Wiley College in Marshall, Tex. — have been warned that they have failed to meet management guidelines established by the church, and may lose its financial support unless steps are taken to improve their procedures.

Stapleton Speaks

HANOVER, Germany (AP) — Ruth Carter Stapleton, sister of the U.S. president, told a monthly Lutheran magazine that "my brother is first of all a Christian, and then president."

He is a "follower of the radical Jesus, the leader of the rejected," she told Lutherische Monatshefte. She added that he therefore always will give first place to human rights and "hold the mirror up to America's materialism."

Church Takes Over

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. F. Forrester Church, 30, son of Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, is to be installed on Sunday, Nov. 12, as the ninth minister of the 159-year-old Unitarian Church of All Souls in Manhattan.

Dean Krister Stendahl of Harvard Divinity School, where young Church studied, is to deliver the charge to the new pastor. Church got his doctorate at Harvard last summer. His father was to be present for his installation.

Religious Importance

HUNTINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Hispanic Catholics place more importance on religion than do other people in the United States, according to a Gallup survey of their religious and social attitudes. The study was commissioned by Our Sunday Visitor, Inc., a national Catholic weekly.

The study found that 90 percent of Hispanic Catholics feel that religion is fairly or very important in their lives as compared to 84 percent of all Americans.

Chinese Seeking Financial Help

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — The Bank of China has asked the Amsterdam-Rotterdam Bank of the Netherlands to organize a syndicate to help finance construction of a deep sea harbor north of Shanghai, the bank said this week.

Although details about the size of the financing and the members of the proposed banking syndicate are still being negotiated, Dutch newspapers reported that such a group would extend to China about 2 billion guilders (about $1 billion) in credit for the project.

The Dutch foreign ministry announced Tuesday that Chinese Communications Minister Yeh Fei will visit the Netherlands later this month. He is expected to discuss the project further with the Dutch government and business officials.

The project would involve the construction of a deep sea port at Lien Yung Kang on the Yangtze River, about 400 miles from Shanghai. A second project, dredging a channel in the mouth of the Yangtze to accommodate ships of up to 50,000 tons, is also planned.

St. John's Slates Christmas Bazaar

A bazaar of potential Christmas gifts and ideas for holiday festivities to be sponsored by Subgroup 1 of St. John's United Methodist Women will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 15 in the church's Garden Room.

Featured in the bazaar will be baked goods and an assortment of gift items, most of them handmade.

Money earned will be used for various mission support items.

Local Nun To Attend Ordination Conference

Sister Regina Foppe, director of Lubbock Social Action Services for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Amarillo, will attend the Second Conference on the Ordination of Roman Catholic Women Nov. 12 in Baltimore.

Sister Regina has been invited to participate in the professional at the Eucharist liturgy at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 11, also in Baltimore.

The Lubbock resident is a member of the Women's Ordination Conference and has completed her training and studies with the first group of men ordained to the Permanent Diaconate of the Diocese of Amarillo and is awaiting the day that the Roman Catholic Church will admit women to ordination.

Planners of the conference, which is expected to have 1,500 in attendance, have extended an invitation to all Catholic bishops to attend the meeting in Baltimore "as a sign of your caring interest as we struggle to understand God's call."

The Ordination Conference is being held immediately prior to the Bishops' annual fall meeting in Washington, Nov. 12-15.

"We couldn't make it more convenient for them to attend. We do sincerely want all church leaders, women and men, clergy, religious and lay, to participate in the conference. This is an important issue in our church and we need to discuss all aspects of it openly and fully," conference coordinator Dolly Pomerleau said.

In a letter signed by conference spokeswoman Sister Mary Luke Tobin of Denver, the planners said, "We are women who love the church as you do. A recent study shows that women who seek priesthood are not naive, are not following a fad, nor do they seek power. Their experience of ministry is leading them to seek full service in cooperation with the men of the church."

The recent study referred to in the letter is "Called To Break Bread," a psychological investigation of 100 women who feel called to priesthood in the Roman Catholic Church. The study indicates that women who currently feel called to priesthood are psychologically more well-balanced than the average male priest today. The study was directed by Fran Ferder.

The Women's Ordination Conference is an organization of women and men established to work for the ordination of women within the context of a renewed priestly ministry in the Roman Catholic Church.

Walk A Mile In His Shoes

They say you don't really know a man until you've walked a mile in his shoes.

Maybe it's impossible to know our own children because we can't fit into their shoes.

Our sons and daughters at every level of growth have needs which depend for fulfillment on our awareness. One of these is their need for early and continuing religious education.

The Church is your ally in providing your youngsters moral and spiritual training. The initiative must come from you. And the example. But the Church's educational program can be a decisive factor in fashioning your child's future.

Bring your child to church this Sunday!

Russia-Vietnam Treaty Defies Mainland China

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and Vietnam signed a long-awaited treaty of friendship and cooperation Friday night that Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev called of "special significance" because of difficulties created by the Chinese.

The agreement was the result of two days of intensive talks between Vietnam's top leaders, Communist Party chief Le Duan and Premier Pham Van Dong, and their Soviet counterparts, President Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

The Kremlin signing ceremony was broadcast on Soviet television, and at the end all four men were shown embracing, congratulating each other and sipping champagne to celebrate the event.

The contents of the friendship and cooperation treaty were not disclosed but a communique was expected later.

President Backs Brown On Western Tour

SACRAMENTO (AP) — President Carter, shouting to be heard above demonstrators, asked Californians Friday to give Gov. Jerry Brown "a tremendous victory" in his bid for re-election.

Speaking to a crowd of thousands gathered in the state capital, Carter called Brown "a breath of fresh air." The president said he wanted to "add my own voice of admiration and support and confidence to one of the greatest governors."

Earlier, Carter promised a Gresham, Ore. audience there would be no recession because of the administration's tightened monetary policy — one of a series of moves intended to bolster the dollar.

Brown, long rumored as a potential Carter rival for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, has a healthy lead over Republican Attorney General Evelle Younger in the polls.

Brown met Carter at the airport and rode with him to the downtown rally, where the president was greeted by a huge crowd that included noisy demonstrators.

lined plans to publicize the names of companies that violate Carter's wage and price guidelines, and said it would use the list to retaliate by withholding federal contracts.

The White House Office of Management and Budget said exceptions would be made if a contract is urgently needed to meet shortages of national security needs.

Companies seeking contracts totaling more than $5 million after Jan. 1 must certify they are complying with the guidelines — a ceiling of 7 percent a year on wage increases and a complex formula intended generally to limit price boosts to 5.75 percent annually.

As if to reassure the jittery stock market investors as well as Congress, Schultz, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, said:

Mexican Jail Raid Verdicts Reversed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court Friday threw out the convictions of two men in connection with a commando-style raid on a Mexican jail that freed 14 American prisoners in 1976.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that, among other things, the trial judge did not question the jury closely enough to see if anyone was influenced by the extensive news coverage of the event.

The case involved the convictions of William McCoy Hill, 22, and Sterling Lake Davis Sr., both of Dallas.

During their trial, Donald Fielden, 28, a burly ex-Marine, testified that Davis financed the raid to get his son out of the Pinedas Negras jail, across the border from Eagle Pass, Tex.

He and Hill were found guilty only of a law which forbids someone who knows he is doing it to carry a sawed-off shotgun across the American-Mexican border.

"There was ample evidence that Davis knew that Hill intended to use a sawed-off shotgun," the court ruled. "But only a sawed-off shotgun with a barrel less than 18 inches long is proscribed by the Munitions List, and it is much less clear that Davis ever knew that Fielden had short-

Arabs To Spend $11 Billion On Defenses Against Israel

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Arab leaders have agreed to spend $11 billion to bolster their defenses against Israel because of the expected loss of Egypt in the confrontation with the Jewish state, summit sources reported Friday.

The money will be allocated over a period of five years, the sources said. At $2.2 billion per year, the approved sum is much smaller than the $9 billion annual fund proposed by Iraq, which is hosting the ninth Arab League summit conference here.

The fund was agreed upon at Thursday night's opening session and was based on a revised proposal by Kuwait, which sources said balked at the expensive Iraq suggestion. The Iraqi figure would have amounted to nearly 10 percent of all Arab oil revenues each year.

The sources said $1.7 billion of the $11 billion was allocated for Lebanon to restore security and to launch the long-awaited reconstruction program after the 1975-76 civil war.

Christian leaders in Lebanon are not likely to welcome the Arab largesse, fearing the "Arabization" of their country with Lebanese Muslims and their Palestinian allies and the prospect that the troubled country would be turned into a confrontation state with Israel.

Palestine Liberation Organization spokesman Mahmoud Labady said supporters the money would be distributed three ways — for the reconstruction of Lebanon and for the PLO.

There was no indication that the Arab leaders had yet agreed on how much each state would contribute.

Sources reported that the greatest standing block at the summit was disagreement on whether to include Soviet funds in the Arab camp of aid to Iraq. Iraq has proposed spending up to $6 billion a year to bolster Egypt's economy if Saudi abandons its peace offensive but it appears from the amount of money approved that this idea was scrapped.

A leading Cairo newspaper said Thursday that Egypt would not be invited.

Arab sources pointed to the diminished amount of the fund as a sign of the split in Arab ranks on how to conduct the impending Egyptian-Israeli treaty.

"What is $2 billion a year from a group that earns more than $99 billion in oil revenues," scoffed a Palestinian observer.

The failure to take a strong united stand against the Camp David accords was cited as the reason Libya's hardline leader, Col. Moammar Khadafi, refused to attend this summit.

Iraq up to now had appeared as the most obstinate of the rejectionist states, but the summit host now is striving to assume the role of unifier in the Arab ranks, seeking at least a minimum agreement to oppose the Egyptian-Israeli peace moves.

Observers here believe Iraq's standing in the Arab camp has improved since the Camp David accords confirmed Baghdad's original warnings that Egypt planned to sign a separate peace with Israel despite earlier disclaimers from Cairo.

"Iraq and Syria have looked good all

WESTERN DIPLOMATS here also point out that the closer relationship between Vietnam and the Soviet Bloc countries was formalized in June in Bucharest with Vietnam's acceptance as a full member of the socialist economic group, COMECON.

Also signed by the Vietnamese and Soviet leaders Friday night were separate treaties covering economic, scientific and cultural cooperation between the two nations.

The economic agreements are particularly important, a Soviet television announcer said, because Vietnam is starting to carry out its first five-year economic plan for socialist development.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the economic parts include Soviet help in "ensuring normal traffic" on the Hanoi-Ho Chi Minh City railway as well as construction work on the Hanoi-Haiphong railway, help in building the Thanh Binh bridge across the Red River, help in starting plantations of medicinal herbs and in constructing in Vietnam a great space communication station in the "b' tropical" program.

Senate Mice Rate Better Mousetrap

By CHERYL ARVIDSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maintenance crews battling a mouse invasion of Senate office buildings are trying what is touted as the long-sought better mouse trap — an electronic machine designed to trick the mice into starving themselves to death.

Four of the experimental machines have been installed in the Senate's Dirksen and Russell office buildings to augment 1,000 traditional mouse traps deployed against the increasingly pesky rodent horde.

Dave Stevenson, an employee in the Dirksen building superintendent's office, likened the space age mouse-killing machine to an "electric mouse trap."

"It works on the magnetic field or something like that, and it affects the digestive tract and makes them not want to eat," Stevenson explained.

According to the manufacturer, the machines affect the nervous system in such a way that the mouse stops eating and drinking and dies within 14 days.

They are also supposed to work on pigeons and roaches — while not affecting humans — and leave the victims "mummified" through dehydration, thereby eliminating stench.

Judging by body counts, Stevenson said, the local mouse population "is going down every day." But he doubts the fancy two-by-three foot, crated machines deserve the credit.

"I think we will exterminate the mice regardless of whether or not the machines work," he said.

"I personally have very little faith in it myself ... We caught a mouse in my closet today and he's very fat, so I guarantee he's not been affected by it. He was hungry, too, because we caught him in a trap. I've caught 14 in my closet with traps in the past week."

Elliott Carroll, a spokesman for the Capitol Architect's Office, said the machines are on a 30-day trial loan from the Solara Corp.

"If they work, we will buy them," he said. "It's too soon to tell."

The magnetic field machine was one of many cure-alls recommended by the letter writing public in response to a speech delivered in September by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who jocularly likened the mouse invasion to the Barbarian onslaughts against Rome.

Proxmire said other suggestions included a machine that electrocutes mice; feeding the rodents carbonated beverages on the theory they cannot burp and would die of bloating; and getting "an ecclesiastical court to cast out the demons controlling the mice."

But by far the most common advice, he said, was to get some cats.

Middle Class, Middle-Aged Jury Seated For Davis Trial

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys selected a middle class, middle-aged jury Friday to hear the murder trial of a Texas industrialist.

The panel includes seven men and five women, no blacks and no one approaching the financial stature of the handsome, dark-haired defendant from Fort Worth.

Despite the pervasive publicity surrounding the case, District Judge Wallace "Fate" Moore chose not to sequester the jury, issuing a stern warning instead.

Saying improper contact or conduct would trigger a mistrial, he sent the jurors home for the weekend with instructions to return at 9 a.m. Monday.

For Davis, 45, as inscrutable as ever, the courtroom ordeal is his second in two years. He is accused of soliciting a hired gunman to kill the judge in his protracted, multimillion dollar divorce case.

Conviction carries punishment ranging from five to 99 years of life in prison.

The alleged target, District Judge Joe Eidson of Fort Worth, was a state witness in a sensational 1977 murder trial at Amarillo in which Davis was acquitted in the slaying of his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

That charge stemmed from a 1976 shooting spree at the $8 million Davis mansion on Fort Worth's southwest side.

The defendant's wife, Priscilla, was wounded and her lover, Stan Farr, was slain in the midnight rampage.

Davis has been confined in jail since his arrest Aug. 20. The case was moved to Houston on a change of venue.

Eight of the 12 jurors selected Friday are in their 50s, three are in their 40s and the youngest, an electrical engineer, is 31.

The panel also includes a stenographer, an oil company executive, a bookkeeper, a medical technician, an auto mechanic, a flight controller, a supply technician, a medical secretary, a self-employed mail order businessman and two housewives.

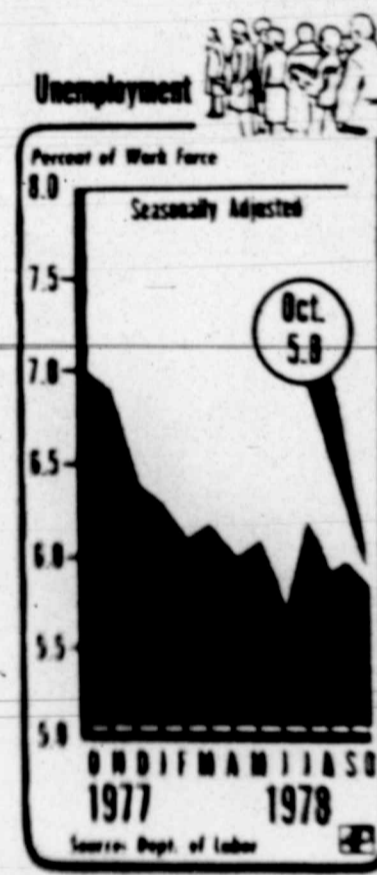

Not unexpectedly, both sides hailed the jury as honest, intelligent and impartial.

"These people were very attentive and demonstrated a high degree of concern for the proceedings," said Richard "Robby" Haynes, the crafty Houston lawyer who heads the defense team.

"I'd say the significant portion of their responses were candid and forthright."

WHAT'S UP A capsule view of tastes, interests and attitudes

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

What's up in ghosts?

In Texas, a person has to watch out for more than cacti, snakes and spicy chili. Texas Monthly, after searching most forbidding corners of the state, has come up with a list of phantasmal characters:

Most of Navarro House: Sandwiched between San Antonio police station and jail, the house is said to harbor the spirit of its original owner, a signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence, as well as those of a Confederate officer, a bartender slain on the job and a prostitute murdered in bed.

The Goat Man of Lake Worth: The gnarled half-man, half-goat — said to be "as mean as a rabid pit bulldog" — supposedly flourished near the Forth-Worth-area lake in 1909 but has recently kept a low profile.

The Lady of White Rock Lake: The ghost of a wealthy man who died in a night boating accident 40 years ago, is said to emerge from a Dallas-area lake in a soaking evening gown. She hitches a ride with an unsuspecting motorist, but is nothing more than a puddle of water by the time the car reaches her destination.

The Fiddling Janitor: One Mr. Cramer, who worked and lived in the old Houston Public Library until his death in 1905, supposedly still walks its halls with his shepherd dog, sometimes stops on the balcony to play a Strauss waltz.

Smiley's Light: Brit Bailey, whose request to be buried with a jug of whiskey was not honored, is thought to stalk Interstate Highway 35 near Waco at night in search of a drink.

The Haunted Tracks: A railroad crossing southwest of San Antonio is said to be haunted by the spirits of children killed there in the 1940s when their stalled school bus was hit by a train. Whenever a car rolls up to the crossing, the spirits are said to be standing by, ready to push stalled vehicles over the tracks.

What's up in contributions?

Mark Twain once commented that the nation had the best government money could buy. Whether or not that has ever been true, special interests have indeed spent hefty sums this year on candidates for public office.

Aside from political parties, these are the organizations that have made the largest campaign contribution this year, according to latest figures from the Federal Election Commission:

1. American Medical Political Action Committee (American Medical Association). $1,063,000
2. Realtors Political Action Committee (National Association of Realtors). $566,000
3. AFL-CIO Political Contributions Committee (AFL-CIO). $566,000
4. UAW Voluntary Community Action Program (United Auto Workers). $558,000
5. Automobile and Truck Dealers Election Action Committee (National Automobile Dealers Association). $526,000
6. Transportation Political Education League (United Transportation Union). $480,000
7. American Dental Political Action Committee (American Dental Association). $361,000
8. United Steelworkers of American Political Action Fund (United Steelworkers of America). $345,000
9. Committee for Thorough Agricultural Political Education (Associated Milk Producers Inc.). $316,000
10. Machinists Non-Partisan Political League (Machinists and Aerospace Workers). $28,000

What's up in the Cabinet?

Defense Secretary Harold Brown went to the head of the class when U.S. News & World Report recently ranked out report cards to cabinet officers.

According to a survey by the magazine, Brown scored top points out of a possible 10.

The secretary's greatest strengths were considered to be his knowledge, organizational ability, toughness and loyalty to the president, while a cold personality and lack of trust from Congress were cited as his chief liabilities.

- This how all 12 Cabinet members scored in the survey:
1. Defense Secretary Harold Brown: 8.5
 2. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance: 8.0
 3. HEW Secretary Joseph Califano: 7.5
 4. HUD Secretary Patricia Harris: 6.5
 5. (Tie) Attorney General Griffin Bell and Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland: 6.0
 6. Secretary of the Interior Cecil Andrus: 5.5
 7. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall: 5.0
 8. (Tie) Secretary of the Treasury Michael Blumenthal and Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps: 4.5
 9. Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger: 4.0
 10. Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams: 3.5
- Though Adams knows his field and has good contacts in Congress, said the magazine, he lacks leadership skills and is ignored by the White House. And another source, the Wall Street Journal, recently hinted Adams might soon become the first Cabinet member to leave the Carter administration.

What's up in football?

How did the Dallas Cowboys get to be Super Bowl champions? One big reason is quarterback Roger Staubach, recently voted the best all-around quarterback in the National Football League by five of his fellow players.

Top five quarters in the poll conducted by Sport magazine were:

1. Roger Staubach, Dallas Cowboys.
2. Bob Griese, Miami Dolphins.
3. Fran Tarkenton, Minnesota Vikings.
4. Bert Jones, Baltimore Colts.
5. Ken Stabler, Oakland Raiders.

Judges in the poll were Bill Bergery of the Philadelphia Eagles, Jack Ham of the Pittsburgh Steelers, Charlie Waters of the Cowboys, Tony Greene of the Buffalo Bills and Ken Houston of the Washington Redskins. All five played in last season's Pro Bowl.

What's up in November?

The lasso is associated with two November holidays.

For one thing, it was a trademark of humorist Will Rogers, whose birthday is celebrated on November 4.

For another, it could come in handy for catching reluctant fellows on Sadie Hawkins Day, which occurs two weeks later.

Here are 10 off-beat entries on the November calendar:

- Nov. 1: National Doubletalk Week begins.
- Nov. 4: Will Rogers Day (Oklahoma).
- Nov. 5: Guy Fawkes Day (England).
- Nov. 12: Elizabeth Cady Stanton Day.
- Nov. 14: Children's Day (Nehru's Birthday) (India).
- Nov. 18: Sadie Hawkins Day.
- Nov. 19: Discovery Day (Puerto Rico).
- Nov. 23: Labor Appreciation Day (Japan).
- Nov. 25: St. Catherine's Day (France).
- Nov. 26: Sojourner Truth Day.

Russia-Vietnam Treaty Defies Mainland China

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and Vietnam signed a long-awaited treaty of friendship and cooperation Friday night that Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev called of "special significance" because of difficulties created by the Chinese.

The agreement was the result of two days of intensive talks between Vietnam's top leaders, Communist Party chief Le Duan and Premier Pham Van Dong, and their Soviet counterparts, President Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

The Kremlin signing ceremony was broadcast on Soviet television, and at the end all four men were shown embracing, congratulating each other and sipping champagne to celebrate the event.

The contents of the friendship and cooperation treaty were not disclosed but a communique was expected later.

At a dinner in honor of the visiting Vietnamese officials, Brezhnev noted that the alliance between the Soviet Union and Vietnam was important because of Chinese moves in the area.

"At this complicated moment when the policy of the Chinese leadership has created new considerable difficulties for socialist construction on Vietnamese soil, the strength of our friendship, the strength of the solidarity of the states of the socialist community holds special significance," Brezhnev said.

The Vietnamese-Chinese quarrel was sparked earlier this year by Chinese accusations that Vietnam was mistreating its ethnic Chinese population. The situation worsened as about 150,000 of the Chinese made their way to China. A series of border incidents also has been reported.

Reflecting Chinese worries about Soviet influence in Southeast Asia, Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping will tour Thailand, Malaysia and Singapore beginning this weekend, apparently seeking to undercut Soviet and Vietnamese initiatives in the region.

The Soviet president called the friendship and cooperation pact "a document of great historic importance." It is the first such agreement signed between them in the history of the two countries.

"The treaty is called upon to make the fraternal friendship between the peoples of the two countries still stronger and deeper," Brezhnev pointed out. "Acting together we grow stronger in politics, economics and other spheres of social life."

The Kremlin leader said the treaty "reaffirms the main direction" of the two countries' foreign policy. "We are for strengthening peace in Asia and throughout the world, for just and equal international relations."

Brezhnev warned that "the treaty will be resented by those who do not like friendship between the U.S.S.R. and Vietnam, who place reliance on aggravation of tension, on dividing the socialist countries."

"But the treaty has already become a political reality. And whether they want it or not, they will have to reckon with this reality."

The Vietnamese visit comes at a time when the Soviet Union's propaganda war with China has reached a fervent pitch. The battle lines in Indochina already have been drawn, with Cambodia and China on one side and Vietnam and the Soviets on the other.

Western diplomatic sources here say that the Soviet-Vietnamese treaty is the Kremlin's reply to Chinese Chairman Hua Kuo-feng's visit to the Balkan states of Yugoslavia and Romania in August.

The friendship treaty implies, the sources say, that the Soviet Union can have as much influence in China's backyard as the Peking leadership can attempt to have in Eastern Europe.

Western diplomats here also point out that the closer relationship between Vietnam and the Soviet Bloc countries was formalized in June in Bucharest with Vietnam's acceptance as a full member of the socialist economic group, COMECON.

Also signed by the Vietnamese and Soviet leaders Friday night were separate treaties covering economic, scientific and cultural cooperation between the two nations.

The economic agreements are particularly important, a Soviet television announcer said, because Vietnam is starting to carry out its first five-year economic plan for socialist development.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the economic pacts include Soviet help in "ensuring normal traffic" on the Hanoi-Hai Phong railway as well as construction work on the Hanoi-Haiphong railway; help in building the Thanglong bridge across the Red River; help in starting plantations of medicinal herbs; and in constructing in Vietnam a ground space communication station in the "Intersputnik" program.

President Backs Brown On Western Tour

SACRAMENTO (AP) — President Carter, shouting to be heard above demonstrators, asked Californians Friday to give Gov. Jerry Brown "a tremendous victory" in his bid for re-election.

Speaking to a crowd of thousands gathered in the state capital, Carter called Brown "a breath of fresh air." The president said he wanted to "add my own voice of admiration and support and confidence to one of the greatest governors."

Earlier, Carter promised a Gresham, Ore., audience there would be no recession because of the administration's tightened monetary policy — one of a series of moves intended to bolster the dollar.

Brown, long rumored as a potential

Carter rival for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, has a healthy lead over Republican Attorney General Evelle Younger in the polls.

Brown met Carter at the airport and rode with him to the downtown rally, where the president was greeted by a huge crowd that included noisy demonstrators.

At K Street Mall, protesters were spread through the ranks of party faithful and others, chanting loudly and seeking to get the president's attention. One group held a large red banner that said, "No U.S. military intervention in Iran."

At several stops on his campaign trip, including one earlier in the day near Portland, Carter has encountered demonstrators who oppose U.S. support of the shah of Iran.

Praising Brown's efforts to cut spending and state taxes, he said: "I'm very proud to be here on his behalf."

At the end of his speech, in a seeming afterthought, Carter said: "I also ask you to vote against Proposition 6."

But Carter's comments on the issue were made only after Brown told him that former President Gerald R. Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan also oppose the ballot issue.

The president, after finishing his speech and apparently thinking his comments were not being carried over a loudspeaker, turned to Brown and said: "Do you think I ought to say anything about Proposition 6?"

Brown told the president: "Reagan and Ford have come out against it. You'll get your loudest applause if you do. It's going to be defeated and Ford and Reagan have already come out against it, so I think it's perfectly safe."

Carter's exchange with Brown could not be heard clearly over the loudspeakers, but it was picked up by tape recorders plugged into the audio system set up by the White House staff for the rally.

Proposition 6 is an initiative on the California ballot that would give school boards authority to fire teachers, administrators or counselors who are openly homosexual or those who advocate a homosexual lifestyle.

Mexican Jail Raid Verdicts Reversed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court Friday threw out the convictions of two men in connection with a commando-style raid on a Mexican jail that freed 14 American prisoners in 1976.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that, among other things, the trial judge did not question the jury closely enough to see if anyone was influenced by the extensive news coverage of the event.

The case involved the convictions of William McCoy Hill, 32, and Sterling Lake Davis Sr., both of Dallas.

During their trial, Donald Fielden, 29, a burly ex-Marine, testified that Davis financed the raid to get his son out of the Piedras Negras jail, across the border from Eagle Pass, Tex.

He and Hill were found guilty only of a law which forbids someone who knows he is doing it to carry a sawed-off shotgun across the American-Mexican border.

"There was ample evidence that Davis knew that Hill intended to use a sawed-off shotgun," the court ruled. "But only a sawed-off shotgun with a barrel less than 18 inches long is proscribed by the Munitions List, and it is much less clear that Davis ever knew that Fielden had short-lined plans to publicize the names of companies that violate Carter's wage and price guidelines, and said it would use the list to retaliate by withholding federal contracts.

The White House Office of Management and Budget said exceptions would be made if a contract is urgently needed to meet shortages of national security needs.

Companies seeking contracts totaling more than $5 million after Jan. 1 must certify they are complying with the guidelines — a ceiling of 7 percent a year on wage increases and a complex formula intended generally to limit price boosts to 5.75 percent annually.

As if to reassure the jittery stock market investors as well as Congress, Schultz, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, said: "The administration does not propose to deal with inflation by creating a recession and sharply rising unemployment, nor shall we impose mandatory wage and price controls."

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall assured the National Conference of Black Mayors that the anti-inflation program does not mean the administration is abandoning its commitment to full employment. "We want to give the country both full employment and stable prices," he said.

Schultz said the administration is philosophically opposed to both courses "except in the event of national emergency."

The total of Americans holding jobs in October rose by 325,000 to 95.2 million, with big gains reported in airline, construction and service industries.

Peace Talks Broadened leaders have agreed to spend $11 billion to bolster their defenses against Israel because of the expected loss of Egypt in any confrontation with the Jewish state.

Palestine Liberation Organization spokesman Mahmoud Labady said the money would be distributed three ways — for the confrontation states, for reconstruction and security in Lebanon and for the PLO. There was no indication that the Arab leaders had agreed on how much each state would contribute.

Arabs To Spend $11 Billion On Defenses Against Israel

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Arab leaders have agreed to spend $11 billion to bolster their defenses against Israel because of the expected loss of Egypt in the confrontation with the Jewish state, summit sources reported Friday.

The money will be allocated over a period of five years, the sources said. At $2.2 billion per year, the approved sum is much smaller than the $9 billion annual fund proposed by Iraq, which is hosting the ninth Arab League summit conference here.

The fund was agreed upon at Thursday night's opening session and was based on a revised proposal by Kuwait, which sources said balked at the expensive Iraqi suggestion. The Iraqi figure would have amounted to nearly 10 percent of all Arab oil revenues each year.

The sources said $1.7 billion of the $11 billion was allocated for Lebanon to restore security and to launch the long-awaited reconstruction program after the 1975-76 civil war.

Christian leaders in Lebanon are not likely to welcome the Arab largesse, fearing the "Arabization" of their conflict with Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies and the prospect that the troubled country would be turned into a confrontation state with Israel.

Palestine Liberation Organization spokesman Mahmoud Labady told reporters the money would be distributed three ways — for the confrontation states, for Lebanon and for the PLO.

There was no indication that the Arab leaders had yet agreed on how much each state would contribute.

Sources reported that the greatest stumbling block at the summit was disagreement on whether to isolate Sadat from the Arab camp or try to lure him back into the fold with promises of vast aid to ease his country's economic plight.

Iraq had proposed spending up to $5 billion a year to bolster Egypt's economy if Sadat abandons his peace offensive, but it appears from the amount of money approved that this idea was scrapped.

A leading Cairo newspaper said Thursday that Egypt would not be bribed.

Arab sources pointed to the diminished amount of the fund as a sign of the split in Arab ranks on how to confront the impending Egyptian-Israeli treaty.

"What is $2 billion a year from a group that earns more than $90 billion in oil revenues," scoffed a Palestinian observer.

The failure to take a strong united stand against the Camp David accords was cited as the reason Libya's hardline leader, Col. Moammar Khadafy, refused to attend this summit.

Iraq-up to now had appeared as the most obstinate of the rejectionist states, but the summit host now is striving to assume the role of unifier in the Arab ranks, seeking at least a minimum agreement to oppose the Egyptian-Israeli peace moves.

Observers here believe Iraq's standing in the Arab camp has improved since the Camp David accords confirmed Baghdad's original warnings that Egypt planned to sign a separate peace with Israel despite earlier disclaimers from Cairo.

Middle Class, Middle-Aged Jury Seated For Davis Trial

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys selected a middle-class, middle-aged jury Friday to hear the murder-for-hire case of millionaire Texas industrialist Cullen Davis.

The panel includes seven men and five women, no blacks and no one approaching the financial stature of the handsome, dark-haired defendant from Fort Worth.

Despite the pervasive publicity surrounding the case, District Judge Wallace "Pete" Moore chose not to sequester the jury, issuing a stern warning instead.

Saying improper contact or conduct would trigger a mistrial, he sent the jurors home for the weekend with instructions to return at 9 a.m. Monday.

For Davis, 45, as inscrutable as ever, the courtroom ordeal is his second in two years. He is accused of soliciting a hired gunman to kill the judge in his protracted, multimillion dollar divorce case.

Conviction carries punishment ranging from five to 99 years or in prison.

The alleged target, District Judge Joe Eidson of Fort Worth, was a state witness in a sensational 1977 murder trial at Amarillo in which Davis was acquitted in the slaying of his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

That charge stemmed from a 1976 shooting spree at the $6 million Davis mansion on Fort Worth's southwest side. The defendant's wife, Priscilla, was wounded and her lover, Stan Farr, was slain in the midnight rampage.

Davis has been confined in jail since his arrest Aug. 20. The case was moved to Houston on a change of venue.

Eight of the 12 jurors selected Friday are in their 50s, three are in their 40s and the youngest, an electrical engineer, is 31.

The panel also includes a stenographer, an oil company executive, a bookkeeper, a medical technologist, an auto mechanic, a flight controller, a supply technician, a medical secretary, a self-employed mail order businessman and two housewives.

"Not unexpectedly, both sides hailed the jury as honest, intelligent and impartial."

"These people were very attentive and demonstrated a high degree of concern for the proceedings," said Richard "Rachorse" Haynes, the crafty Houston lawyer who heads the defense team.

"I'd say the significant portion of their responses were candid and forthright."

Senate Mice Rate Better Mousetrap

By CHERYL ARVIDSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maintenance crews battling a mouse invasion of Senate office buildings are trying what is touted as the long-sought better mouse trap — an electronic machine designed to trick the mice into starving themselves to death.

Four of the experimental machines have been installed in the Senate's Dirksen and Russell office buildings to augment 1,000 traditional mouse traps deployed against the increasingly pesky rodent hordes.

Dave Stevenson, an employee in the Dirksen building superintendent's office, likened the space age mouse-killing machine to an "electric mouse trap."

"It works on the magnetic field or something like that, and it affects the digestive tract and makes them not want to eat," Stevenson explained.

According to the manufacturer, the machines affect the nervous system in such a way that the mouse stops eating and drinking and dies within 14 days.

They are also supposed to work on pigeons and roaches — while not affecting humans — and leave the victims "mummified" through dehydration, thereby eliminating stench.

Judging by body counts, Stevenson said, the local mouse population "is going down every day." But he doubts the fancy two-by-three foot, crazed machines deserve the credit.

"I think we will exterminate the mice regardless of whether or not the machine works," he said.

"I personally have very little faith in it myself ... We caught a mouse in my closet today and he's very fat, so I guarantee he's not been affected by it. He was hungry, too, because we caught him in a trap. I've caught 14 in my closet with traps in the past week."

Elliott Carroll, a spokesman for the Capitol Architect's Office, said the machines are on a 30-day trial loan from the Solara Corp.

"If they work, we will buy them," he said. "It's too soon to tell."

The magnetic field machine was one of many cure-alls recommended by the letter writing public in response to a speech delivered in September by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who jocularly likened the mouse invasion to the Barbarian onslaughts against Rome.

Proxmire said other suggestions included a machine that electrocutes mice; feeding the rodents carbonated beverages on the theory they cannot burp and would die of bloating; and getting "an ecclesiastical court to cast out the demons controlling the mice."

But by far the most common advice, he said, was to get some cats.

WHAT'S UP

A capsule view of tastes, interests and attitudes

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

What's up in ghosts?

In Texas, a person has to watch out for more than cacti, rattlesnakes and spicy chili. Texas Monthly, after searching the most forbidding corners of the state, has come up with a list of phantasmal characters:

Most of Navarro House: Sandwiched between San Antonio police station and jail, the house is said to harbor the spirit of its original owner, a signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence, as well as those of a Confederate deserter, a bartender slain on the job and a prostitute murdered in bed.

The Goat Man of Lake Worth: The gnarled half-man, half-goat — said to be "as mean as a rabid pit bulldog" — supposedly flourished near the Forth Worth-area lake in 1969 but has recently kept a low profile.

The Lady of White Rock Lake: The ghost of a wealthy woman who died in a night boating accident 40 years ago, she is said to emerge from a Dallas-area lake in a soaking wet evening gown. She hitches a ride with an unsuspecting motorist, but is nothing more than a puddle of water by the time the car reaches her destination.

The Fiddling Janitor: One Mr. Cramer, who worked and lived in the old Houston Public Library until his death in 1936, supposedly still walks its halls with his shepherd dog. He sometimes stops on the balcony to play a Strauss waltz.

Bailey's Light: Brit Bailey, whose request to be buried with a jug of whiskey was not honored, is thought to stalk Interstate Highway 35 near Waco at night in search of a drink.

The Haunted Tracks: A railroad crossing southwest of San Antonio is said to be haunted by the spirits of children killed there in the 1940s when their stalled school bus was hit by a train. Whenever a car rolls up to the crossing, the ghosts are said to be standing by, ready to push stalled vehicles over the tracks.

What's up in contributions?

Mark Twain once commented that the nation had the best government money could buy. Whether or not that has ever been true, special interests have indeed spent hefty sums this year on candidates for public office.

Aside from political parties, these are the organizations that have made the largest campaign contribution this year, according to latest figures from the Federal Election Commission:

1. American Medical Political Action Committee (American Medical Association) $1,063,000
2. Realtors Political Action Committee (National Association of Realtors) $566,000
3. AFL-CIO Political Contributions Committee (AFL-CIO) $566,000
4. UAW Voluntary Community Action Program (United Auto Workers) $558,000
5. Automobile and Truck Dealers Election Action Committee (National Automobile Dealers Association) $526,000
6. Transportation Political Education League (United Transportation Union) $480,000
7. American Dental Political Action Committee (American Dental Association) $361,000
8. United Steelworkers of America Political Action Fund (United Steelworkers of America) $345,000
9. Committee for Thorough Agricultural Political Education (Associated Milk Producers Inc.) $316,000
10. Machinists Non-Partisan Political League (Machinists and Aerospace Workers) $28,000

What's up in the Cabinet?

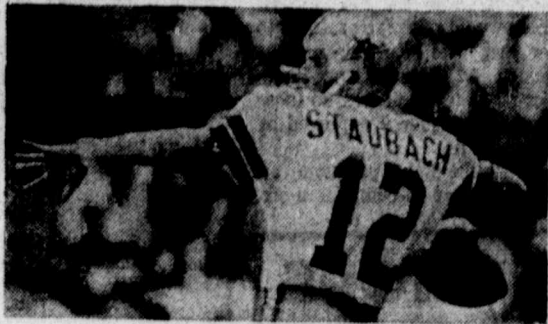

Defense Secretary Harold Brown went to the head of the class when U.S. News & World Report recently handed out report cards to Cabinet officers.

According to a survey by the magazine, Brown scored 8.5 points out of a possible 10. The secretary's greatest strengths were considered to be his knowledge, organizational ability, toughness and loyalty to the president, while a cold personality and lack of trust from Congress were cited as his chief liabilities.

Brown: Top secretary

- This how all 12 Cabinet members scored in the survey:
1. Defense Secretary Harold Brown—8.5
 2. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance: 8.0
 3. HEW Secretary Joseph Califano: 7.5
 4. HUD Secretary Patricia Harris: 6.5
 5. (Tie) Attorney General Griffin Bell and Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland: 6.0
 7. Secretary of the Interior Cecil Andrus: 5.5
 8. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall: 5.0
 9. (Tie) Secretary of the Treasury Michael Blumenthal and Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps: 4.5
 11. Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger: 4.0
 12. Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams: 3.5
- Though Adams knows his field and has good contacts in Congress, said the magazine, he lacks leadership skills and is ignored by the White House. And another source, the Wall Street Journal, recently hinted Adams might soon become the first Cabinet member to leave the Carter administration.

Staubach, like his team, is No. 1.

What's up in football?

How did the Dallas Cowboys get to be Super Bowl champions? One big reason is quarterback Roger Staubach, recently voted the best all-around quarterback in the National Football League by five of his fellow players.

Top five quarters in the poll conducted by Sport magazine were:

1. Roger Staubach, Dallas Cowboys.
2. Bob Griese, Miami Dolphins.
3. Fran Tarkenton, Minnesota Vikings.
4. Bert Jones, Baltimore Colts.
5. Ken Stabler, Oakland Raiders.

Judges in the poll were Bill Bergery of the Philadelphia Eagles, Jack Ham of the Pittsburgh Steelers, Charlie Waters of the Cowboys, Tony Greene of the Buffalo Bills and Ken Houston of the Washington Redskins. All five played in last season's Pro Bowl.

What's up in November?

The lasso is associated with two November holidays.

For one thing, it was a trademark of humorist Will Rogers, whose birthday is celebrated on November 4.

For another, it could come in handy for catching reluctant fellows on Sadie Hawkins Day, which occurs two weeks later.

Here are 10 off-beat entries on the November calendar:

- Nov. 1: National Double-talk Week begins.
- Nov. 4: Will Rogers Day (Oklahoma).
- Nov. 5: Guy Fawkes Day (England).
- Nov. 12: Elizabeth Cady Stanton Day.
- Nov. 14: Children's Day (Nehru's Birthday) (India).
- Nov. 18: Sadie Hawkins Day.
- Nov. 19: Discovery Day (Puerto Rico).
- Nov. 23: Labor Appreciation Day (Japan).
- Nov. 25: St. Catherine's Day (France).
- Nov. 26: Sojourner Truth Day.

'Modest' Funding Increase Suggested For MHMR

AUSTIN (AP) — The Legislative Budget Board approved modest spending increases for the state's mental institutions Friday, including construction of a new $10.3 million school for the retarded in the Houston-Galveston area.

Recommendations of the board — consisting of House and Senate leaders in fiscal affairs — go to the 1979 Legislature, which will appropriate funds for the 1980-81 biennium.

The board recommended appropriations to the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation of $404.9 million in 1980 and $396.1 million in 1981, compared with this year's $370.9 million budget.

Included was a 253-bed institution for the retarded somewhere in the Galveston-Houston area, where about 25 percent of the department's entire waiting list lives.

The exact location has not been determined. Board examiner Greta Rymal said the department "feels there will be no problem" of obtaining land through donation.

Also in the budget is $1.7 million for a new ward building at the Terrell State Hospital, which probably will use it for treatment of alcoholics.

Special provisions added by the board would prohibit the hiring of additional administrators and the use of state funds to publish slick house organs.

Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, said, "Some of them look like Life or Time magazines... There is no telling how many millions of dollars we are wasting on those things."

Included in the budget approved by the board is almost $3.9 million to upgrade salaries and status for "front line" attendants in state mental hospitals and schools for the retarded.

Attendants represent over half the department's 11,000 employees and work directly with patients and students. But they are on the bottom rung of the state's job classification ladder, along with janitors and laundry workers.

They are paid $6,624 a year, before taxes.

Upgrading them to the next highest classification would raise their salaries to $7,080 per year. The board already has recommended 5.1 percent annual increases for all state employees, so those figures would be higher if approved by the 1979 Legislature.

To qualify for the higher pay grade, attendants would have to complete a six-month probationary period and pass a proficiency test.

In the higher pay grade, the attendants' official job title would change from MHMR aide to MHMR services assistant.

"I don't see how they get as many (attendants) as they do," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, board chairman, said.

"Maybe we'll save some money by increasing (their pay). Maybe we'll keep some of them," Sen. A. M. Aikin, D-Paris, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said.

Radio Bombardment Affecting Oregon Town

By TOM TIEDE
EUGENE, Ore. (NEA) — Walter Deposki was among the first to feel it. The 48-year-old bachelor says his modest suburban home began shaking and rattling nearly three years ago. "I would lie in bed and listen to the vibrations," he says. "When I closed my eyes I sometimes thought the house would fall down."

Initially, no one paid attention to Deposki's complaints. Then, last spring, other residents here began to notice that something was not quite right. Besides the vibrations in houses, dozens of people said that odd atmospheric sensations were causing headaches, dry throats, irritability and loss of sleep.

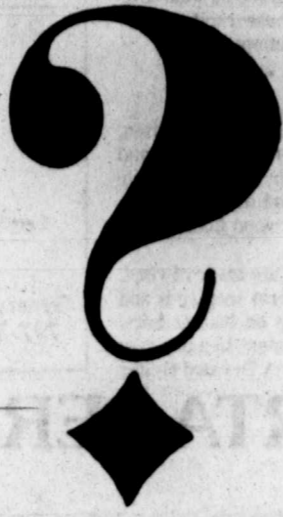

As it turned out, the sensations were found to be concentrated radio waves. Among other things, government monitors determined that a 4.75 megahertz signal was shooting through Eugene at a rate of 1,100 times per second. Deposki's home was said to be directly in the path of the frequency blast.

Case closed? Not hardly. Though the electronic sleuths uncovered the cause of the disturbance, they were unable to stop it, or even learn precisely where it originated. Today, Eugene continues to be bombarded by an unseen force of unknown origin, and, not surprisingly, nobody much enjoys it.

State and federal authorities have done their best to allay fears regarding the signal barrage. They say much of the problem is probably caused by leaking power lines. At any rate, whatever the source, the government says the electronic disturbance is not sufficient to cause real harm to human beings.

Actually, the government adds, the disturbance can't even be blamed for the vibrating houses. Walter Deposki has been told that his home shakes because of faulty construction. Officials say the joists are weak in the home, as is the foundation. "and you can feel a jiggle even when you walk across the floor."

But the government optimism is not convincing everyone. Deposki, for instance, he says he has had carpenters put additional support under his house, yet the vibrations have not ended. The force is so strong at Deposki's place, a friend says, that he can unplug the refrigerator and it will continue to operate.

The chief critic of the government optimism is Marshall Van Ert, a one-time industrial hygienist at the University of Oregon. He was the first to monitor the radio signals here, in various neighborhoods. Now living in California, Van Ert says the government is lying about the scope and implications of the Eugene bombardment.

Van Ert believes the local disturbance is coming from Russia. He says he has monitored and photographed two radio signals from the Soviet Union, both of which are strong enough to cause harm: "One of the waves creates a high, exciting feeling in people; the other, which is worse, makes you feel depressed or sick."

Van Ert says the Russian signals are part of that nation's "intensive effort" to create military uses for electronic and radio impulses. He says the Kremlin is now able to send "standing waves of energy" around the world. The waves, he insists, can shake a building, or knock it down, whichever the Russians choose.

Though curious, Van Ert's view is apparently not invented. A spokesman for the Federal Communications Commission says the Russians have indeed been experimenting with powerful radio signals. At one juncture, in 1978, the Red waves were so enormous that several nations grouped together to lodge a protest in Moscow.

No one knows exactly what the Russians are doing. Speculation is they are working on the theories of Nikola Tesla, a brilliant American scientist who claimed he could destroy the world through the use of wireless electricity. Tesla died in obscurity in 1943; the Soviet Union has many of his notes and papers.

In general, the U.S. government has not put much credence in talk of a Tesla-Russian connection. Other nations have, however. Last year, a consultant in Canada's State Department said flatly that the Kremlin was using Tesla's genius to modify world weather; Canada continues to research that possibility.

For his part, Van Ert says the Russian signals may be modifying more than the weather. He thinks the Red waves also affect human behavior. When he visits Deposki's house, for example, Van Ert says he becomes personally disoriented. After one visit, he recalls, "I couldn't even find my way back home."

Given this explanation of Russian motives, then, Van Ert says it is not surprising that government is less than candid about what he thinks is going on in Eugene. "But it's time the people were told the truth," he believes, "and the truth is that the Russians are trying to get control of our minds."

Are they? Few in this sophisticated university town would agree with Van Ert. Nonetheless, residential concern is deep. Monitoring is continuing here, and new studies are being proposed. The bombardment is real, it is coming from somewhere, and Walter Deposki is not the only one having trouble sleeping at night.

Scientist Still Probing Einstein's Brain

By TOM TIEDE
WICHITA, Kan. (NEA) — Like everybody else, Albert Einstein knew he possessed the most original intellect of the 20th century. But why? How was he so different from other men? Always the inquisitor, Einstein asked that his brain be removed on his death, and studied for the secret of his genius.

The deed was done the day after Einstein expired in 1955. A pathologist named Thomas Harvey removed the great man's matter, and a team of specialists picked it apart for probing. Alas, initial observation revealed nothing unique about the brain; it was of normal size, weight (2.64 pounds) and construction.

But the picking over of Einstein's brain was not to end there. Though most of the scientific world accepted the early findings, and forgot about it, pathologist Harvey believed further investigation of the brain was warranted. And so he kept the material to launch a private, almost secret, study of his own.

Recently a magazine article revealed that Harvey's study is still continuing, here in Wichita, 23 years after Einstein's death. Now a medical supervisor in a biotesting laboratory, Dr. Harvey keeps pieces of the brain in ordinary jars filled with preservatives; the jars are stored in a worn-out cardboard box.

Harvey says he has Einstein's cerebellum, his cerebral cortex, some aortic vessels "and other bits." The rest of the brain was sectioned long ago, according to Harvey, and given to other professional researchers. Harvey says he acts as the central repository for the result of the investigation.

ALBERT EINSTEIN

But where are the results? Harvey has not published a word on the brain study in more than two decades. He has told Einstein's family that he will eventually issue a full report, but he refuses to set a date. The only thing he tells newsmen is that "I'm still trying to see if the brain is different."

Harvey's secrecy has provoked some consternation among neuroscientists, most of whom thought the study of Einstein's brain ended with the initial observations. One eminent brain researcher, Dr. W. Maxwell Cowan of Washington University, says flatly that he thinks Harvey's study is "morbid" and "without merit."

Cowan says that studying Einstein's brain to determine its difference from the norm hints something of the discredited practice of phrenology. Phrenologists at the turn of the century believed they could predict a person's character and behavior by the shape of his head. "Ridiculous," says Dr. Cowan.

Aside from phrenology, Cowan says there used to be a belief that the size of the brain dictated intelligence. Then there was the preposterous notion that the criminal brain could be ascertained by the distance between one's eyes. Cowan says Dr. Harvey's mysterious work

Youngsters Learn Sign Language

O.L. Slaton Junior High wanted to help make its deaf students feel more a part of the school. So 100 kids are giving up their morning free time to learn to communicate with their hearing-impaired classmates.

The youngsters, all seventh-graders, are taking a crash course in sign language.

"We want the deaf students to feel at home here. This is one way we can get to know and understand each other better," 13-year-old Mary Lopez said.

The course, offered during homeroom period in the O.L. Slaton auditorium, was Principal Edgar Payne's idea.

"We are already seeing some results," Payne said. His school is designated by the state to serve deaf students from throughout the South Plains area.

"For example, the deaf students no longer all stay together in the cafeteria. The last time I looked in on a lunch period, there were four deaf youngsters — each sitting at a different table, talking in signs with a different group of hearing kids."

Deby Nichols, the junior high's deaf education teacher, added, "When students

Hi!
 Now that fall and winter are just around the corner, we begin to think of moving our plants indoors and, even worse, trying to find a place to put them. A bathroom garden is both pretty and practical. The plants perk up your bathroom and the natural humidity of the room is very good for most house plants. If you don't have enough natural light, a small "grow light" is inexpensive and can be used very effectively. You can use a narrow planter box, hanging from the ceiling over your toilet tank, and filled with small pots of vine-type plants. Hang a macrame holder from the ceiling over your sink in the kitchen, but high enough so you don't hit your head every time you lean over to wash dishes. With pretty plants hanging around in your kitchen and eating area, when you go in to cook early in the morning, you feel more like facing the world. Hope your husband is a plant lover also! — Heloise their travel memories. When you leave for your trip, pack a perfume or cologne that you have never used before. Long after you have returned from your faraway place and those precious memories have faded, just dab on some of the scent that you wore on your trip and relive some of those exciting moments. Fun! — "Sentimental"

DEAR HELOISE:
 After your last golf fling of the season, wash the irons in warm soapy suds and use an old toothbrush to help remove stubborn dirt. Rinse and dry thoroughly. Wax the woods with a wood floor wax or furniture polish. Since most golf bags are made of vinyl, simply sponge with warm soap suds and rinse. Use saddle soap on leather bags. Then store your equipment in a dry area away from the heat. — A Devoted Golfer

And away from where your wife can find them. She just might get them lost for you. — Heloise

The correct play at four hearts is really easy once you see it.

In case you haven't seen it yet, we'll give you a hint. It is a variation of the lose on the peanuts, gain on the bananas play.

In other words, South must let West hold the first spade.

If South wins that first spade he has several lines of play at his disposal, but all lead to the same result. He will be set two tricks.

Now suppose that South lets West hold that spade. West is very likely to lead a trump to stop a ruff of the second spade. If he leads the ace of trumps and follows with a second spade, South will take his ace of spades, draw trumps and eventually discard his queen of clubs and last two spades on good diamonds. Five odd.

If West leads a low trump at trick two, South wins, leads trump back and makes four or five odd depending on whether or not West cashes his ace of clubs.

West's best defense is to continue spades. This bothers South a little but doesn't hurt him. He ruffs the second spade and leads a club to his queen and West's ace. West leads a third spade. South wins, goes to dummy with a diamond, discards his last spade on the club king, ruffs a club to get back to his hand; leads trumps and makes 10 tricks.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 25 years old and never had any allergies. Suddenly, for the last month, whenever I touch anything cold or am out in slightly chilly air, my exposed skin turns red, itches and breaks out in white welts. It only lasts for a half hour or so, but is very uncomfortable and unsightly. I have been told that it is possibly an allergic reaction. Can you tell me anything more — why it happened all of a sudden? Should I see a doctor? — V.V.

From your description it certainly appears to be an allergy of sorts. Our bodies can develop so-called "physical allergies," that is, reactions to things such as heat, cold or the sun.

There are various forms of this. In a few, the presence of certain proteins (cryoglobulins) in the blood may cause it. These tend to thicken the blood locally in areas exposed to temperatures that would not bother others. More commonly, it is a histamine reaction. Sometimes, such reactions can be present with various illnesses. In some, they may be inherited. In others, they can accompany a food allergy.

We are all potentially allergic to some substance or other. Often, the allergy develops gradually, waiting to make an appearance dramatically, as it did with one person who broke out after drinking large quantities of iced drink at a picnic. The allergy can be demonstrated by placing an ice cube on the skin. The precise area will develop a welt or angry redness. You should see a physician.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have acne on my face and forehead. Now I have been informed by a friend that I have something bad in my blood. My mother says blood has nothing to do with it. I'll believe your answer. — A.K.

Believe your mother's answer. Acne has nothing to do with bad blood. It is almost exclusively a problem of the oil-producing glands of the skin. Hormone production may have something to do with it, since it does appear most often in young adolescents whose sex glands have begun producing the hormones at a higher level. Let your friend read this. You may also want to present her with my booklet, Acne, which you can have by sending 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Thosteson: Please explain what the word exogenous means, as in exogenous obesity. — H.C.

It means overweight caused by outside factors, in this case the food one eats — too much of it. The term is used when glandular or other internal disturbances have been ruled out as possible causes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How long after a woman stops breastfeeding should her breasts still have milk? I finished nursing my last child over six months ago, but I still have tremendous milk supply. I get so full that it aches and my bras don't fit. I know I am not pregnant. I never had this problem after breastfeeding my other two. Is this anything to be concerned about? — Mrs. J.V.

Milk production (lactation) ceases gradually with the gradual weaning of the child. In rare cases it continues indefinitely, and that can reflect a hormone imbalance. Continued stimulation of the breast, as in sex foreplay, can prolong the end of lactation. From your description of your prolonged lactation I would advise examination for a hormone imbalance.

Confidential to H.F. — I would not settle for the vinegar douche routine as a cure for any vaginitis. You should have the infecting organism identified so that appropriate medicine can be used, either oral or suppository. In fact, the douche may be a factor in your problem by removing normal bacteria. See another doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In general, how soon after removal of tonsils can a child return to school? — Mrs. O.T.

Within a week or ten days, so long as the child has begun eating a regular diet and temperature is normal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that some bladder stones can be crushed and allowed to flush out? — M.H.

Yes, some urinary bladder stones can be crushed with a special instrument and removed that way. The process is called lithotripsy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: One morning I stepped out of bed, took four steps and fell onto the end of the bed unconscious. I was in the hospital for three days. I could walk within two weeks. Doctors told me my blood pressure is that of a 16-year-old girl. I am 90. Was this a slight stroke or was it because I drank two cups of coffee with vodka and Kahlua in it for dinner the night before, then took sleeping pills? — A.F.F.

You are living dangerously, even for a lady with the blood pressure of a 16-year-old. It is speculation, but I would lay the episode to your drinks, combined with sleeping pills, rather than to a stroke. Perhaps there was a bit of postural hypotension thrown in. That's the low blood pressure symptoms some people get when arising suddenly from a prone position. Better limit yourself to an occasional glass of wine and forget the alcoholic coffee.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, booklet, How to Handle Angina Pectoris. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: So many times while reading your columns these past several years, I have thought about the things I missed from my own parents. Here are a few things they did NOT do for me.

They didn't let me do whatever I wanted, whenever I wanted — until I was old enough to handle my life.

They didn't shower me with things, things, and more things. For some reason they didn't believe it served any useful purpose.

They didn't pass up an opportunity to teach me the value of money and the benefits (both physical and moral) of hard work.

They didn't try to tell me what friends to choose or which career to follow. They decided I was the best judge of that.

They never failed to listen to me when I had a problem, nor did they refuse to give me sound advice when I asked. And when I DIDN'T want advice or help, they didn't offer it.

They didn't try to spare me the pain of making mistakes when I was trying to grow up. At the same time they left no doubt about their love for me.

So often when I read the sad letters in your column from confused, unhappy, overindulged kids, I end up wishing more parents wouldn't do for their kids what my parents didn't do for me. God bless 'em. — Love My Folks

Dear Love: From your description they have earned your love. Thanks for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: At what age should a female stop sunbathing with absolutely not a stitch of covering from the waist up? Please answer in print and settle an argument. — Six In Saratoga

Dear Six: In what country? Coed bathing in the nude is acceptable in certain cities in Europe. Naked from the waist up is OK for females in other European cities. In the United States, both tops and bottoms are required for girls who have reached puberty. (Age doesn't count any more. It's a matter of "development.")

Dear Ann Landers: Our three-and-a-half-year-old son is healthy, happy, well-adjusted, and very precocious. The problem is that whenever I tell him to take his nap or pick up his toys or eat something he doesn't like (he hates all vegetables), the boy inflicts pain on himself.

For example, last week he bit his lip till it bled. He also pulls chunks of hair out of his head. Today he banged his head on the floor because I relieved him of a sharp knife he had taken from the kitchen drawer.

This child has a baby sister six months old. He is so jealous of the little girl I dare not leave him alone with her. I'd like some advice on whether to spank the boy or simply put him by himself. — R.R.L.

Dear R.R.L.: Your opening sentence contradicts the rest of your letter. A child who bites his lip till it bleeds, pulls chunks of hair out of his head and bangs his head on the floor is neither well-adjusted nor happy.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED — Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Scoggin, Sr. will be honored with a reception today in Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church, in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary. Hosts will be Harry Scoggin, Jr., of Houston and Mrs. J.B. Stennett, children of the couple. Scoggin and the former Inez Fisher were married Nov. 11, 1928 in Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Scoggin moved to Waco in 1939 and returned to Lubbock in 1947. In 1955 they moved to Levelland where Scoggin was a farmer for 21 years. After his retirement they moved to Lubbock.

Punishment is not the answer. Take the boy to a doctor for evaluation. Your pediatrician can direct you.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995 Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Flying Pigs Symbolize U.S.-China Relations

By JON STEWART
Pacific News Service
More than 800 American pigs recently became the first passengers on U.S. commercial flights to the People's Republic of China.

The export of the swine to China, which is interested in testing them for breeding stock, marked an historic occasion in the fast-evolving world of U.S.-China trade and relations.

A U.S. Agriculture Department spokesman said the deal could be the "beginnings of substantial livestock imports" by China.

Ray Vidal, president of Skylift International, the Redondo Beach, Calif., brokerage firm that arranged the inaugural flights, said the "definitely" expects the Chinese import market to grow quickly in the near future. Skylift plans to arrange "about 15 more flights from the United States over the next six months," he said, serving "about 10 different Chinese cities, including Peking."

The first flight, on Oct. 4, carried 450 swine from the Illinois Agricultural Service Co. of Bloomington, Ill., to Canton, China, on a specially-designed DC-8-43. That shipment was estimated to be worth about $160,000, said Vidal. Airlift International of Miami, Fla., provided and flew the aircraft.

The second shipment, worth "in excess of $200,000," was flown on Oct. 23 by Trans International Airlines of Oakland, Calif. to Shanghai. The exporter was another Bloomington firm, Ag World.

Some experts have predicted that agricultural exports to China could amount to more than $900 million this year. Vidal said that there was "a little bit of hassle" in dealings between his company, the State Department, the Agriculture Department and the Chinese government. "But it's something which is natural," he said. "Our company has been dealing with the Chinese from Australia and Hong Kong for the last two years. We tend to think that we're year or two ahead of the opposition."

Vidal said he expects regularly scheduled flights, perhaps on a weekly basis, to carry cargo in both directions in the near future.

Jim Anderson, a spokesman for Trans International, predicted that there will be increased activity, particularly in light of the current visit to China by Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland and about a dozen aides. Bergland will be discussing long-term plans for both grain and livestock sales.

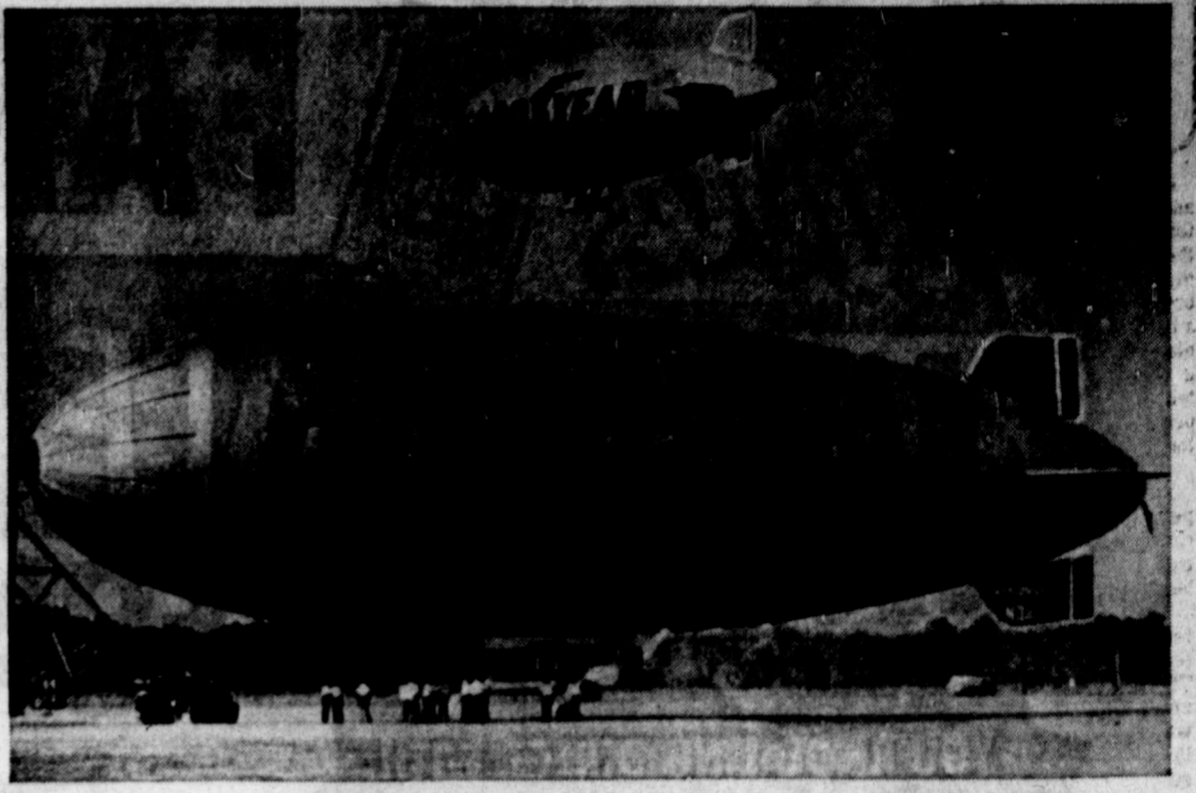

The export of livestock, Anderson explained, was made possible by provisions of the Federal Agriculture Trade Expansion Act of 1978. That legislation amended the Commodity Credit Corp. to permit federal funds to be provided for three-year credit on livestock sales.

Anderson said his company probably will be involved in more flights to China, both from the United States and from Australia. He added that the airline is also eager to establish charter service for human passengers to China as soon as possible. "We can see that coming down the road," he said.

Ben Thompson, spokesman for the Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agriculture Service, described the recent flights as "a real nice breakthrough. We have the swine and we need the dollars. It's good business," he said.

Vidal, who claims his company initiated the deal, said he sees "a very bright future" in terms of U.S.-China trade. He credits much of the increased prospects to the signing of the China-Japan Friendship Treaty this month. "People here don't seem to realize how significant that is for us. But its going to be of extreme benefit in the future. It's going to build, definitely," he said.

Vidal also believes much of the credit goes to American commercial interests "who've been clamoring at the door" for easing of trade restrictions with China. "If we left it all up the State Department," he said, "it would be another 10 years."

Trade With China Picking Up Where Early Sailors Left Off

By DONALD J. FREDERICK
National Geographic News Service

WASHINGTON — Trade winds are stirring once again "outer China 'cross the Bay."

They bring good news to Western businessmen. The People's Republic of China has indicated that it intends to expand industry and modernize agriculture in an ambitious program extending to the year 2000.

Reflecting high trade hopes, as many as 25,000 foreign businesses — including representatives from about 350 U.S. firms — are attending the Chinese Export Commodities Trade Fair in Canton, which runs until Nov. 15. The Commerce Department predicts that two-way trade between the People's Republic of China and the United States will exceed $1 billion in 1978.

American merchants have dreamed of selling to China's hundreds of millions of customers since the days of sailing ships, the National Geographic Society says. Revolutionary guns had hardly cooled before adventurers set out to find the commerce which would stabilize the young country's chaotic economy.

In 1784, the Empress of China pioneered the route to Canton with a cargo of ginseng roots, furs, and small quantities of cotton, lead, and pepper.

The 360-ton merchantman returned 13 months later loaded with 403,000 pounds of tea, 962 pieces of chinaware, 490 pieces of silk, and 2,790 pounds of cassia, a medicinal herb.

The successful voyage signaled the expansion of the merchant marine, and tiny ships manned by young American sailors soon were prowling Eastern seas, beating the monsoons up the China coast, and cluttering the Canton Harbor.

Yankees made fortunes exchanging furs and ginseng — a root prized by Chinese as a medicine — for teas, silks, and porcelain.

The earliest China traders went around Africa. But a Boston ship, Columbia, captained by Robert Gray rounded Cape Horn in 1788 and made for the Pacific Northwest. She bartered tools and trinkets to Indians for sea otter pelts, then crossed the Pacific to trade furs for tea at Canton.

The Columbia not only launched another rich traffic route, but gave her name to a great river, and became the first United States vessel to girdle the globe.

A portion of the new hall of American Maritime Enterprise at the Smithsonian's Museum of History and Technology is devoted to the China trade and the feat of the Columbia.

The booming China trade lured ships of all kinds to Canton. When the sloop Experiment pulled in, the Chinese took her for a tender and asked for the big ship. "We are the big ship," replied her skipper, and started to buy tea.

The sleek, swift Baltimore clippers gave the China trade its real impetus, however. Homes in Salem and Boston and, to a lesser extent, in New York and Philadelphia, became veritable museums of Chinese goods and curios. By 1790 the trade represented about one-seventh of the country's foreign imports. Within another 50 years, the vessels were bringing home about 15 million pounds of tea a year.

French Hesitant About China Arms Deal

PARIS (AP) — The French government is hesitating on giving the go-ahead for negotiations on the sale of Mirage jet fighters to China, the aircraft's builder Marcel Dassault said in a radio interview Friday.

Dassault said the Chinese are "keenly interested in the planes, but the government still has not given us authorization to have talks."

France is already well advanced in negotiations with China to sell defensive arms worth several hundred million dollars, including the Hot and Milan anti-tank missiles and the Crotale anti-aircraft missile system.

The government's reluctance over the Mirage jets appears to reflect its unwillingness to offend the Soviet Union, which is sensitive to Western arms sales to China. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was here only last week on a visit which both sides indicated repaired a long period of cool relations.

Kids Put Razor Blades In Own Candy

CENTRALIA, Wash. (AP) — A group of youngsters booby-trapped their own Halloween treats by putting razor blades in candy bars, police said Friday.

Police Sgt. Ed Tietsel said the youngsters apparently pulled the prank for publicity. He said they admitted it after he gathered them for a meeting.

The sergeant said he has asked the prosecutor what should be done with the case. Tietsel declined to identify the kids or say how many there were. He said the oldest was 14.

Hearing Students Learn Sign Language At O.L. Slaton School

are changing classes, the deaf and hearing kids are now able to talk to each other in the hall. Some hearing students can converse rather fluently in sign language. It's beautiful."

Miss Nichols and her aide, Betsy Seal, provide the morning instruction, with help from a few of the deaf youngsters themselves.

Payne said the course is open only to seventh-graders, because the older students already have booked their 25-minute homeroom periods for athletics, student council meetings and other activities.

The principal said he hopes to offer the sign-language course to future seventh-grade classes, too. "In three years, all of our students will have had a chance to learn sign language. That would really be something — to have almost an entire school 'bilingual' in oral speech and sign language," Payne said.

O.L. Slaton's approximately 210 seventh-graders, about 100 volunteered for the course. Provided there are no other scheduled activities, they meet at 8:20 a.m. in the school auditorium for the instruction.

Miss Nichols said she expects the course to take 15 sessions, spread over a four-week period. The course presently is in its third week.

Many of the seventh-graders are taking the program "quite seriously," Miss Nichols said. Sixteen students have paid $4 each for a Texas Education Agency guide on sign language, and many others go to the O.L. Slaton Library to consult the manual when they have a free period.

There are 11 deaf students attending O.L. Slaton. Special instructional services are provided for them by the Regional Education Program for the Deaf, a state-funded project.

The state has designated O.L. Slaton, Lubbock High and a few elementary schools here as campuses equipped particularly for deaf youngsters.

Since O.L. Slaton students graduate into Lubbock High, they will have an opportunity to practice their sign-language skills throughout their secondary education, Miss Nichols noted.

DEBY NICHOLS

Some of the students were familiar with sign language before they went to O.L. Slaton, because they attended Brown Elementary, another campus in the deaf-education network, she said.

With sign language, hearing students will be able to help deaf students, who are integrated into regular classes for most of their academic work, Miss Nichols said.

And, she said, hearing students benefit by gaining a skill that could be valuable in pursuing a career.

The most important reason for learning sign language, though, is making friends, kids say.

"A lot of my friends are deaf, and I want to communicate with them. So often I've wanted to say something but have not known how," Trina Jones, 12, said.

Four teachers also are taking the sign-language instruction, and Larry Marshall, coordinator of the regional deaf education project, said that is important.

Marshall jokingly remembers that in conjunction with a lesson on Helen Keller, he taught a local junior high class some sign language. Afterward, Marshall said, the teachers complained — because students were talking in class and sharing test answers without making a sound.

Braniff To Add 18 Cities To Route System

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International will add 18 cities to its route system immediately in its first phase of expansion under the new Airline Deregulation Act, the airline announced Friday.

The 18 cities are Albany, N.Y.; Birmingham, Ala.; Boston; Cleveland; Hartford, Conn.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Orlando, Fla.; West Palm Beach, Fla.; Los Angeles; Oakland, Calif.; Sacramento, Calif.; San Diego; Milwaukee; Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Phoenix, Ariz.; Tucson, Ariz.; and Salt Lake City.

Service will begin Feb. 1 at Hartford and between Dec. 15 and Dec. 20 at the 17 other cities.

Braniff said it will announce next week the exact schedules which will link the cities with the existing cities on its route system.

Braniff also will be announcing additional expansion of its service in the near future, airline officials added, including inauguration of new routes which have become available between current cities on the Braniff route system.

Brain Probe Termed 'Morbid'

with Einstein's brain is just as outdated.

Even if Einstein's brain were different, Cowan adds, the time for determining it is long past. He says tissue cells begin to deteriorate immediately after death, and it's been nearly a quarter of a century since Einstein's death; by now, Cowan feels, the soaking brain remnants have become little more than unrevealing rubber.

Finally, Cowan says he has a personal dislike for the kind of study that Harvey says he is conducting. Cowan grew up in South Africa, where scientists try desperately to prove the inherent superiority of the white man's brain. "Our brains are pretty much the same," Cowan says, "we should know that by now."

Withering criticism aside, however, Dr. Harvey of Wichita insists that his probe into Einstein's mind is ongoing and scientifically legitimate. He admits his research is only part-time, but he says his interest is all consuming. He also says he has "learned a lot," even though he will not cite specifics.

As for his long-promised report, Harvey says there is no hurry. He reminds that Einstein's brain, like all human brains, has something on the order of one billion cells, and therefore "a thorough study takes time." He says he will probably issue his report "soon," but then again "I may not." Harvey is likewise taciturn regarding the precise nature of his long research. He concedes that Einstein's brain has not proven to be "anatomically different" from normal; but he refuses to say whether this, after all, is the ultimate finding of his search or whether there are true revelations forthcoming.

Meantime the brain remnants of one of history's great figures continue to float in Mason jars, which in turn sit on the floor of a cluttered office here in southern Kansas. And so far, after 23 years, the only known difference in them from others is that they are not buried forever at rest with their owner.

Stanford Student Teaches Language To Gorilla

By BARBARA S. MOFFET
National Geographic News Service
WASHINGTON — When Koko the gorilla gets a silly grin or a guilty look on her face, you don't have to wonder why. Just ask her.

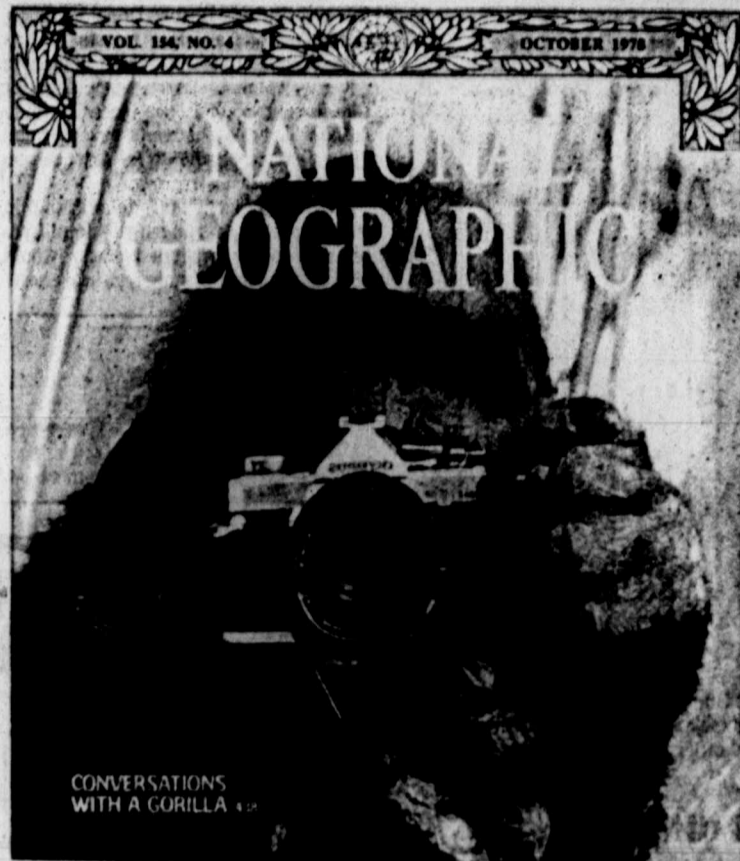

Koko, a 7-year-old lowland gorilla, has become the first of her species to master language.
Six years of intensive training from Francine "Penny" Patterson, a Stanford University doctoral candidate, Koko's working vocabulary consists of 375 signs, including such diverse terms as airplane, belly button, lollipop, friend, and stethoscope. The project is partly funded by the National Geographic Society.

Jokes and Fibs

Koko responds to and asks questions, tells Miss Patterson when she feels "happy" or "sad," refers to past and future events, and has begun to give definitions for words. She also shows an impish sense of humor, insults human companions, talks in rhymes, and even lies on occasion to avoid blame.

In the past decade researchers have successfully taught several chimpanzees sign language, but Koko is a trailblazer among gorillas.

"When Koko uses language to make a point, to joke, to express her displeasure,

COVER GIRL — Koko, a 7-year-old gorilla who has mastered 375 gestures of sign language, also is a photographer who owns her own Polaroid camera. Koko even delights in operating this complex motor-driven 35mm camera, which she used to take this self-portrait in a slightly wavy Plexiglas mirror. Koko learned sign language from Francine "Penny" Patterson in a project partly funded by the National Geographic Society. Koko's photograph appeared on the cover of the October issue of National Geographic magazine. (NGS Photo)

STORY HOUR — As Francine "Penny" Patterson tells the story of the three little kittens who lost their mittens, Koko, a gorilla, comments that their mother is angry and the kittens are crying. Then, making her own judgment about the kittens' behavior, Koko says "bad" in sign language. Koko is learning sign language from Miss Patterson. (NGS Photo) or to lie her way out of a jam, then she is exploiting language the way we do as human beings," Miss Patterson wrote in the October issue of National Geographic. "Certainly that is linguistic, though perhaps not moral, progress."

Koko converses in Ameslan, short for American Sign Language, the method of communication for about 200,000 deaf Americans. The language consists of gestures, each signifying a word or idea.

Teaching a gorilla to talk was not easy. At first, Koko attempted to bite Miss Patterson when she tried to get the gorilla to make signs by "molding" her. In this technique the experimenter takes the hands of the subject and forms the sign representing an activity or object while in its presence.

The animal comes to associate the hand movement with its meaning until it eventually is making the sign by itself.

Profanities Mastered

Koko did catch on and her vocabulary developed at a remarkable pace. After three years of training Koko was reliably using 184 signs — that is, she used each spontaneously at least once a day, 15 days out of a month. By age 6½, she had used 645 different signs at least once. Her regular working vocabulary is estimated at 375 signs.

Koko eventually added abstractions to her repertoire — "imagine," "understand," "gentle," "stupid," "boring," and "damn." She also built up an expressive lexicon of insults — "rotten stink" and "dirty toilet" in addition to "bird" and "nut" for people who are unmannerly. In a fit of anger, she has referred to Miss Patterson as "Penny toilet dirty devil."

Many instances of evasive behavior have convinced her that the gorilla deliberately lies. Once, while Miss Patterson was writing, Koko snatched up a red crayon and began chewing on it. A moment later Miss Patterson noticed and said, "You're not eating that crayon, are you?" Koko signed "lip" and began moving the crayon across her lips as if applying lipstick.

Gradually Koko acquired signs that refer to past and future. One bright morning that followed weeks of rain, Miss Patterson told Koko that if it was sunny in the afternoon, they would go outside. When Miss Patterson returned at 3 p.m., Koko looked out at the still bright weather and collected her gear to go out.

In recent months, Koko has begun rhyming, a complex mental translation that requires her to produce in sign language a word that rhymes with what she has heard. "For instance, we say 'long,' she says 'wrong,' we say 'blue,' she says 'do,' we say 'squash,' she says 'wash,'

Miss Patterson said.

"What makes all this awesome — even for me, after six years of witnessing such incidents — is that Koko, by all accepted concepts of animal and human nature, should not be able to do any of this," Miss Patterson, 31, writes.

She Types, Too

Now Koko has a new challenge — a keyboard computer linkup designed by Stanford Professor Patrick Suppes and colleagues that permits her to express herself through a speech synthesizer by pressing buttons.

Koko also has a new companion, a male gorilla named Michael who joined her at her mobile home on the Stanford campus in 1976. Michael is now learning sign language, and although his vocabulary is only about 45 signs, he is able to converse.

"Gorillas are tragically misunderstood animals," Miss Patterson said. "In fact, exceedingly shy, placid, and unaggressive, they are conceived to be ferocious, slaving man-killers."

Indeed, her colleagues initially had doubts about the gorilla's capacity to learn sign language. But they need not have worried about Koko's mind: The Stanford-Binet Test has shown her IQ to range from 85 to 95, only slightly below average for a human.

Canadian Airline Strike Averted

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — A tentative agreement was reached early Friday between CP Air and its 572 pilots, averting a threatened strike.

Norm Hoye, western representative of the Canadian Airline Pilots Association, would give no details of the one-year pact, reached after 16 hours of continuous negotiations.

The union had served strike notice, effective at 12:01 a.m. PST Saturday.

The main stumbling block in negotiations had been pension benefits. Hoye said that issue had been resolved.

CP Air spokesman Jim McKeachie also refused to release details of the new agreement.

McKeachie said regular airline service would continue while the agreement is submitted to the pilots for ratification. The vote is expected to take a couple of weeks.

CALPA has been without a contract since November 1977.

AILMENT AMONG WORKERS

L'AQUILA, Italy (AP) — About 5,000 workers at electronics manufacturing plants here stayed home Friday while the company checked on a mystery ailment that has caused nausea and itching in the past two weeks. A spokesman for the state-owned Siemens group said tests were being conducted, particularly on the ventilation system in the welding division. The company and the unions agreed to close the plants to allow careful checks.

Christian Democrats Gather For Summit

CADENABIA, Italy (AP) — Leaders of the world's major Christian Democrat parties and movements Friday gathered in a heavily guarded villa in this Italian lake resort for a two-day summit meeting.

A spokesman called it "an informal, reserved meeting. Nothing will be announced after its conclusion."

European and Latin American Christian Democrat officials met at Villa Collina, a panoramic site which in the past received as a guest West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The late German chancellor used to spend his summer vacations in Cadenabia, along the shores of Lake Como.

Dozens of paramilitary carabinieri policemen were on duty around the villa, inside the park and along the streets of this resort.

Blacks In Public Life Viewed By Research

The past decade has seen steady gains in the number of blacks holding public office. However, experts on the subject at the nonpartisan Joint Center for Political Studies are hesitant to predict that the ranks of black elected officials will expand much further as a result of the November 7 elections.

Currently, 4,503 blacks hold elective public offices, ranging from local school board to the U.S. Senate. (The figure does not include appointive posts, such as many judgeships, or political offices, such as seats on party committees.) That represents a 280 percent increase over the number of blacks holding such posts in 1969.

However, less than 1 percent of all U.S. elected officials are black, though blacks make up more than 11 percent of the nation's population.

Among the most visible black elected officials are the 15 members of the Congressional Black Caucus. The lone black senator, Republican Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, faces a tough re-election campaign this year amid controversy over how he represented his finances during his divorce proceedings. Three black members of the House are not seeking re-election this year. They are Robert Nix of Pennsylvania, who was defeated in his primary contest; Yvonne Burke, who is running for attorney general of California; and Barbara Jordan of Texas, who is retiring — at least temporarily — from public life. In addition, Ralph Metcalfe, a veteran black congressman from Illinois, died October 10.

All incumbent black representatives are expected to win re-election and blacks are expected to take the seats vacated by Nix, Burke, Jordan and Metcalfe. But analysts at the Black Caucus and Joint Center doubt that blacks will gain any seats in Congress this year.

According to the Joint Center, five blacks who hold statewide elective offices are seeking re-election this year. They are: California Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally and Schools Superintendent Wilson Riley, Connecticut Treasurer Henry Parker, Michigan Secretary of State Richard Austin and Colorado Lt. Gov. George Brown.

Other black candidates for state office

Source: Joint Center for Political Studies
THE NUMBER OF black elected officials in the United States has nearly tripled since 1969. "As encouraging as this progress is," notes the nonpartisan Joint Center for Political Studies, "the total number of black elected officials today represents less than 1 percent of all elected officials in this country."

this year include Burke; Donald French, candidate for California treasurer; Aris Allen, candidate for Maryland lieutenant governor; Ronald Burris, candidate for Illinois controller; James Webb II, candidate for Georgia lieutenant governor and Steve Jenkins, candidate for Arizona secretary of public instruction.

Nearly 300 blacks hold membership in state legislatures. Though the Joint Center had earlier predicted blacks would pick up a number of state legislative seats this year, its projections are now more guarded.

Black officeholders are far more numerous — both numerically and proportionately — at the local level. About 48 percent of all black officials hold municipal offices and another 24 percent are on school boards. In contrast, only about 5 percent hold federal and statewide offices.

Garlic Without Odor Salvation For Noses

By WILLIAM J. O'NEILL
National Geographic News Service
WASHINGTON — The food editor of a national magazine once told readers to ignore recipes calling for "a hint of garlic."

She said they were worthless, since the herb is too strong for any hinting. Either it's present or it isn't.

She might have to alter her thinking today. A farmer in Japan is cultivating odor-free garlic for sensitive diners apparently willing to pay more for less.

The higher price tag for removing the fragrance is caused by the cost of special soil and fertilizer. Toshio Nakagawa says he must use to grow the sanitized garlic bulbs.

While Nakagawa's may be the first non-aromatic garlic, an odorless garlic extract has been available for years. But the herb the juice comes from is as odoriferous as ever.

Not everyone objects to garlic's pungency. When a New Yorker sued a neighboring restaurant for emitting "foul smells," he lost. The judge who ruled

Do-It-Yourself Cuts Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thinking about adding a new room or other home improvements? Perhaps you'd like a new house, but the prices seem outrageous.

You can save some money by finishing a new home yourself or by doing much of the work on an addition or improvement.

And a new 223-page book on wood frame houses issued by the Department of Agriculture can help.

It's an encyclopedia of house construction techniques and terms with detailed instructions and illustrations on everything from foundations to roofs.

Home buyers will find it handy in making repairs or evaluating workmanship in a new purchase.

There are also sections on fire protection, painting, termites and other maintenance problems.

For example, you may want to convert your basement into another bedroom or family room.

If its floor is far below ground level, you'll need to insulate against moisture and heat loss — and step-by-step instructions are included.

Or perhaps you want a new sidewalk? The book says to plan on four inches of concrete over undisturbed soil — never over fill — and place contraction joints every four feet.

For home buyers, the book tells what to look for in an inspection, such as cracks in the foundation, defective moisture barriers or termite damage. With a penknife you can check for decayed structural wood.

Copies of "Wood-Frame House Construction" cost $3.40 from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 061F, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

BUFFALO AUCTION SET
LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — About 120 buffalo at the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge will be sold at public auction Thursday.

against him expressed surprise that "the redolent odors of garlic" could be offensive.

But garlic has been both praised and denounced through history, the National Geographic Society points out. One culinary philosopher wrote: "The world is divided into two classes — those who eat garlic and those who do not."

The hardy plant has been used in seasonings and medications for 5,000 years. The Romans, possibly seeing how easily garlic-eaters faced down opponents, decided the plant imparted strength and bravery. Aristocrats fed it to their workers and soldiers — but shunned it themselves.

Garlic preparations were used in the ancient world to cure everything from stomach disorders and colds to wounds. Modern research indicates it can aid digestion by stimulating gastric juices, and may even help control blood pressure.

A mild antibiotic called allicin is made from garlic extract in the Soviet Union, where it is sold to treat lung infections. British soldiers in World War I had their wounds dressed with garlic juice and water, and the poultices were credited with saving thousands of lives.

In the kitchen, the rougher garlic is treated, the harder it hits back. Mashing garlic cloves in a salad bowl, for example, may produce a salad that will overpower all but the most addicted.

Some cooks choose instead to rub garlic on a crust of bread, then wipe the inside of the salad bowl with the bread. Queen Victoria's chef was even more circumspect: He would chew a raw garlic clove, then breathe on the royal salad.

Garlic can be partially tamed by cooking slowly for hours, then removing the cloves before the dish is served. But California's Lloyd J. Harris has contempt for such timidity.

Harris, who has written a book in praise of garlic, says his favorite breakfast is eggs boiled in garlic water, accompanied by toast heaped with garlic spread.

Black elected officials

MAP shows the state-by-state distribution of black elected officials as of mid-1977. Sixty percent of all black officeholders are found in the South, which has 53 percent of the nation's black population. States where blacks comprise the highest proportion of total elected officials are Alabama, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Air Force Cadets Stage Food Battle

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — The entire 4,360-member cadet wing of the Air Force Academy has been restricted to the academy grounds because of a food fight during a pep rally in the cadet dining hall for Saturday's Army-Air Force football game.

The food fights took place Tuesday evening, the restriction was imposed on Wednesday and it will continue until Saturday morning, said Col. John H. Price Jr., director of information at the academy.

The restriction, however, was lifted Friday for 475 cadets being flown to West Point for Saturday's football game, Price said.

The cadets "failed to show proper military decorum" at the pep rally and continued with the rally despite repeated orders to leave the dining hall and return to their dormitories. Price said.

The order restricting the cadets to the academy grounds was issued by Brig. Gen. Thomas Richards, commandant of cadets.

The Denver Post reported Friday that 50 to 60 cadets actually were involved in the food fight and that a top cadet officer was the target of thrown food when he tried to stop the demonstration.

The menu Tuesday night was stuffed green peppers, mashed potatoes, peas and cherry cake.

Ex-Museum Director Writes 'Untold' Tut Story

By NORMAN NADEL
 NEW YORK (NEA) — "... I inserted the candle and peered in. Lord Carnarvon, Lady Evelyn and Callender standing anxiously beside me to hear the verdict... as my eyes grew accustomed to the light, details of the room were merged slowly with the mist, strange animals, statues and gold — every where the glint of gold... when Lord Carnarvon, unable to stand the suspense any longer, inquired anxiously, 'Can you see anything?' it was all I could do to get out the words: 'Yes, wonderful things'..."

Nothing in history of archeology can touch that movement in the afternoon of Nov. 26, 1922, when English Egyptologist Howard Carter first glimpsed what proved to be the antechamber of King Tutankhamun's tomb in the barren Nile cliffs near Luxor.

And no discovery has been written about, talked about, more. At the time and for years after, King Tut, as he was tagged by the press, dominated newspapers, magazines and movies, not to mention fashions, fabrics, cosmetics, interior decor and the fine arts.

Once again, Tutankhamun's burial treasures are creating incredible excitement. Never before have such crowds thronged museums. Almost five million so far have come to see 55 of the Egyptians boy-king's possessions, first at the National Gallery of Art in Washington two years ago, and successively in Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles and Seattle. All tickets of admission already are sold out for the exhibition's four-months stand at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, starting Dec. 20.

Under these circumstances, and considering the enormous archeological, historical, social and even romantic literature about Tutankhamun, it would seem highly unlikely that anyone could find anything new to write. Yet Thomas Hoving, former director of the Metropolitan and the one man most responsible for engineering this loan of the treasures from the Egyptian government, is not exaggerating when he titles his new book "Tutankhamun: The Untold Story" (Simon and Schuster, $12.95).

It's a grand book, eclipsing most novels in suspense, drama and tension; you won't want to put it down until it is finished, and even then, reluctantly. While that might testify to its appeal as entertainment, Hoving's account is perhaps even more significant for its new facts and remarkable insights.

For example, according to Carter's own account of the discovery, after he and the others looked into the antechamber through the small hole above the sealed door, they left to return for the official opening of the door in the presence of the Egyptian authorities the next day. Carter wrote that they "slept but little, all of us, that night." Months were to pass before the archeologists penetrated beyond that room.

NEW INSIGHT ON TUT — The touchy character of Egyptologist Howard Carter is a key aspect of Thomas Hoving's engrossing "Tutankhamun: The Untold Story." Contrary to Carter's own account, the author alleges that Tut's tomb's discoverer did not wait for the Egyptian authorities before penetrating the tomb. (NEA Photo)

According to Hoving: "They 'slept but little ... that night' because they must have spent practically the whole of it physically inside the tomb, going through every chamber, penetrating even into the Burial Chamber — the 'Holy of Holies,' as Carter called it — and into the so-called Treasury beyond."

Even if that chapter, "The Long Night," is the most adventurous and awesome in the whole book, it is prelude to a strange and engrossing story, centered around the touchy character of Carter himself.

Right at the start he created friction by giving exclusive rights to the story to the London Times. Naturally Reuters, the American press services and newspapers in Egypt and elsewhere were furious, with the result that some of them, notably the New York Times, attacked Carter and his patron, Lord Carnarvon, at every opportunity.

Meanwhile the Egyptian Department of Antiquities bureaucrats were compounding difficulties by changing their demands and regulations. When Carnarvon and Carter were given permission to dig, years before the Tutankhamun discovery, it was with a written contract for a 50-50 split with the Egyptian government.

But soon after the treasure was uncovered that altered, with the Egyptians eventually keeping all the booty except some pieces Carter was able to spirit out.

A few of those today may be seen in the museums of Cincinnati, New York, Cleveland, Brooklyn and Kansas City. To this day, most of them are not positively attributed to Tutankhamun's tomb. Conceivably, if they were, Egypt could still lay claim.

So it turns into a bitter story of disappointment, enormous frustration, litigation, intrigue and often sheer hatred, intermingled with the excitement of continuing and exotic discoveries as the tomb was more deeply penetrated.

Finally — and this is sad — Hoving reports that the Tutankhamun collection of the Egyptian Museum is in deplorable condition, with identification labels turning brown on priceless objects, 11-11 in dusty display cases. Earnings from the loan of the 55 pieces will assuredly correct that, but he's not sure.

All these grim aspects notwithstanding, "Tutankhamun: The Untold Story" is a radiant reading experience, and one of the books of the year.

Gardeners Seeking Advice To Aid In Preparing Plants For Winter

 Texas Certified Nurseryman
 Fall is here and with winter approaching the question is asked, "How might I protect my plants from winter injury or possible death?" A good winter program starts much earlier in the year, with a fall fertilizer program being applied in the months of August or September. Application earlier than this would be considered a spring or summer fertilizer program. The spring application is very important for overall plant growth, however, the nutrients are nearly exhausted at this time; thus the need for a fall feeding. Later applications may be made, but the plants need time to harden (new growth matured) before cold weather. A later fertilizer application may stimulate a tender flush of growth which may be easily damaged by frost or freezing weather.

What fertilizer should I use? A good rule of thumb is to use a complete fertilizer, containing Nitrogen, Phosphorus and Potassium. The ratio of the materials may be 1-1-1 or other acceptable formula; however, the Nitrogen content should be fairly low. This is to prevent a rapid flush of tender growth, as stated earlier, which may be damaged by cold weather. It is best to not use a fertilizer with some major elements missing such as 0-14-14. The plant needs all the major elements for best growth and a healthy plant is better able to survive any adverse conditions. Ask your Texas Certified Nurseryman — he can give you good advice.

Should I use pesticides on my plants? A good spray program (insect/disease control) is beneficial for plant protection in that the presence of insects or diseases may weaken the plant to the point of being easily killed or severely injured by the first freeze. A general spray program of an insecticide such as Malathion or other suitable insecticide in combination with a broad spectrum fungicide such as Benlate be acceptable. These should be used strictly according to label directions.

What about water? If the plant is wilted it cannot withstand the adverse weather as well as if it has adequate water. Therefore, when cold weather is expected, it is advisable to water your plants in mid-morning to early afternoon. It is important to water your plants when the sun is present so that the water can be effectively utilized. This watering will provide adequate moisture for the plant and also act as a collector (wet soil) for solar energy. Heat collected will be given off in the night, providing for a slight temperature rise which may be just enough for protecting the plant through the cold freezing period.

A good water system so that you might provide a continuous water cover do not use water for this purpose. The water frozen on the plants acts as an insulator and when continuously applied, the temperature of the plant is maintained around 32 degrees; however, should the water not be continuously applied the resulting ice will take the plant much lower than 32 degrees resulting in possible bark split and eventual death. It may be freezing to apply water before the sun rises to wash off any frost and prevent possible frost bite; however, there is a good possibility you will still obtain a frost burn even using this produce. The best rule to remember in watering is to use moisture for the plant adequately supplied at all times.

How about sheets or covers over my plants? Plants are not like humans as they do not have a system providing heat to keep them warm; therefore, a cover for this purpose does not good. A cover does prevent frost burn and provides protection from the sun (rapid thaw) the following morning and for this use may be helpful. Covers should be of some material that would prevent the full force of the sun's rays from reaching the frozen plant first thing in the morning. The fact that the plant (most woodys) is frozen does not cause the damage to the plant. Damage is caused when the plant rapidly thaws thus rupturing the cells with the thawing ice crystals, with death or damage tissue resulting. Covers should be removed during the day so the plant might receive the necessary sun light for proper growth. It is best not to leave the covers on without ventilation for extended periods of time.

The key to protecting your plants from winter damage is to provide that plant with the best possible growing conditions including water, spray and general care. This would also include proper selection of varieties suited for your geographical area and landscape need.

Your Texas Certified Nurseryman can offer sound advice on plant selection, and can help with any special problem. Trust him. He's a nursery professional!

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

THE PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL Cattlemen's Association has explained to President Carter why the Meat Import Act amendments passed by Congress will contribute to the fight against inflation.

Letter to the President, NCA president Richard A. McDougal said the legislation's limits on executive authority to suspend import quotas, as well as a counter-cyclical import quota formula, will contribute to more stability of beef supplies and prices.

McDougal asked the President to sign the bill (HR 11545) into law.

"The factor of most importance — because of the effects on beef supplies and prices in coming years — will be the effect of your action on cattlemen's attitudes and abilities to plant ahead," the NCA president said. "As it is now, there is a great deal of uncertainty in the minds of cattlemen — because of the presidential authority to suspend quotas without a known set of rules."

"UNDER A 'FORMULIZED' SITUATION as provided in HR 11545, we will know where we are in relation to imports and the government, and we will have the confidence that will enable us to start rebuilding basic herds.

"The suspension authority under the present law is viewed by cattlemen as a 'tool of surprise' which the government may wield at any time in order to break the market. As a result, herd liquidation has been continuing, and there is a reluctance in the country today to rebuild herds and thereby rebuild beef supplies.

"You can change the present situation and outlook for the better. By your signing HR 11545, we will know that our markets will be more stable, and we will begin rebuilding herds. This will benefit the consumer, the cattle industry and exporting nations, too. Our trading partners as well as the U. S. public will actually benefit from the longer term stability which this legislation can help bring to the international as well as domestic beef market."

THE BILL HAS BEEN MISREPRESENTED by U. S. meat importers, exporting nations and some administration officials, McDougal said. He made several additional points which, he indicated, apparently have been overlooked by critics of the legislation:

— The base import quota or "floor" will be raised to 1.2 billion pounds annually "as a concession to exporting countries who feel the need for a guaranteed quantity."

— Contrary to the protestations of exporting countries, total imports will not be cut. USDA's own figures indicate that, over the next 10 years, the counter-cyclical formula will permit an estimated total of 14.4 billion pounds of imports subject to the law. Under the present law — and including projected quota suspensions during years of smaller domestic supplies — imports over the same period would amount to 14.1 billion pounds.

— The counter-cyclical formula (with increasing imports when domestic supplies are decreasing and vice versa) will add stability to supplies and hence prices. By helping to level out supplies, the measure is anti-inflationary.

— The limitations on executive authority to suspend quotas are offset by provisions of the counter-cyclical formula. "What purpose does continuation of the present, loosely defined authority serve when, through the counter-cyclical formula, the consumers of America can be more sure of dependable, stable supplies of beef and most stable, moderate prices?"

"You have asked all of us to tighten our belts, to sacrifice, to give a little of ourselves in order to beat inflation," McDougal said. "I hope that, in return, you can appreciate the fact that what you are giving up on this issue is a tool which actually will not be needed and therefore will be of no use. It will be replaced by a better tool, the counter-cyclical formula, while still permitting executive discretion in the event of real emergency."

As previously noted by NCA, the government's sudden action last summer to increase imports was perceived by many cattlemen as reflecting a determination on the part of government not to let beef prices continue at a profitable level for any extended time.

One result, it was noted, is that many cattlemen have not started herd rebuilding. Also, some lenders have been reluctant to provide financing to cattlemen, who need an extended period of profitable prices to repay debts accumulated during the prolonged herd liquidation period. If confidence is not restored, NCA has explained, the nation will see smaller supplies and higher prices in future years than otherwise would be the case.

Humble Gayule Bush Forseen As Major Source Of Rubber

LAS CRUCES (Special) — The humble gayule bush, a scruffy desert weed, is on the verge of becoming the center of a new natural rubber industry which could ultimately free America from dependence on foreign rubber supplies.

"And that's important to New Mexicans," says Dr. Wayne Whitworth, a gayule researcher with New Mexico State University's Agricultural Experiment Station. "With proper research and development, gayule could provide New Mexico's economy with an important cash crop."

According to Whitworth, "America currently imports about 1 million tons of natural rubber annually, and it costs us one-half billion dollars."

Just as important as the cash outlay for rubber, Whitworth says that in case of a national emergency, the rubber supply would obviously be vulnerable. And even if there never is such an emergency, scientists now estimate that the world's natural rubber will be in short supply by the mid-1980s.

Looking ahead to that shortage, the U.S. Senate recently passed legislation authorizing the secretaries of agriculture and commerce to appropriate a total of $30 million over the next four fiscal years for researching and developing gayule.

Whitworth and other gayule researchers in Arizona, California, and Nevada say gayule, which is native to Mexico and the Big Bend area of Texas, can also be grown on an estimated 5 million acres of land in the Southwest. However, there are problems, and that's where those appropriated funds could help.

According to Whitworth the funds would allow him "to determine if gayule will grow and produce rubber at a level which will be economically competitive with other, conventional New Mexico crops."

Whitworth explains that one problem with growing gayule in New Mexico is that the plant is a warm-season crop, meaning its growth in New Mexico would be limited to the southern one-quarter of the state. One solution may be to cross gayule with a cold-tolerant relative named marloa.

"Marloa produces little, if any, rubber," Whitworth says. "But it is very tolerant to cold weather. By crossing gayule and marloa, we may produce a cold-resistant, rubber-bearing plant with an extended climatic range."

In addition, Whitworth is trying to increase the rubber content in individual gayule plants. Increasing that content is important because one-third of the plant's rubber supply is in the roots which means the entire plant must be digged up to obtain maximum yield.

Whitworth points to experiments conducted by Dr. Henry Yokoyama in Pasadena, Calif., which have shown that gayule's yield of natural rubber can be increased two to six times.

Other research shows that four acres of gayule plants would be needed to net one ton of rubber. To meet the nation's rubber requirements of 1 million tons a year, Whitworth says, "quite a few acres will be needed."

Then, too, in order to extract rubber from the plant, factories will be needed. Mexico now operates the world's only gayule processing plant, which converts 400 pounds of gayule to rubber daily.

Obviously, the United States will need its own plants. "Some people estimate 10,000 acres of gayule are needed to justify building a rubber factory," Whitworth says. "But I think at least 40,000 are needed."

The agronomist reasons that because gayule is harvested only at three-year intervals, and because the whole plant is harvested, more acres will be needed to maintain the factory.

Whitworth says the process of extracting rubber from gayule is relatively simple. "The plant is defoliated, as the rubber is in its roots and bark," he says. "It is then ground up to release the latex and put in water. The latex coagulates and floats, while the debris sinks. Once the latex is extracted, it still contains a high resin content which must be removed."

Whitworth concluded by saying gayule has been used for centuries. For instance, the Aztec Indians chewed gayule, extracted the rubber and converted it into balls which they used in games resembling basketball.

Back in 1910, the bush also supplied 10 percent of the world's rubber supply. And during World War II, under the Emergency Rubber Project, gayule supplied more than 50 percent of the United States' supply of natural rubber. Unfortunately, at the war's end, when Asian rubber again became accessible and inexpensive, the Emergency Rubber Project was abandoned and the humble, desert-loving bush was relegated to the status of a weed and forgotten.

But in the future, this hardy weed may once again play a significant role in the world's rubber supply.

Grain Surpluses Expected To Rise To All-New World Record Levels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aided by record global harvests this year, world grain stocks are expected to rise by mid-1979 to their highest levels in a decade.

The Agriculture Department said that world grain output in the 1978-79 season is expected to rise about 6 percent from last year.

Officials said that the record grain output includes bumper crops in Western Europe, the Soviet Union and the United States.

In a related report, the department said that China has bought an additional 800,000 metric tons of U.S. corn, its second grain purchase announced this week.

Purchases by China this year now total about 4.5 million metric tons of grain — 1.3 million metric tons of corn and 3.2 million of wheat.

The grain production and utilization report said that output in 1978-79 now is estimated at more than 1.14 million metric tons of wheat and coarse grains such as corn, barley and oats.

Last year's production was about 1.08 million metric tons of those grains. The new estimate also is about 10.9 million metric tons more than the department estimated in a similar report on Sept. 27.

The report said that, based on the new production and consumption figures, it now appears there will be about 188.4 million metric tons left over next July 1, compared with 163.1 million tons in inventories since it was 197.1 million metric tons in 1969.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

The report, by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, said that since Sept. 27 there have been "large upward revisions" of grain production for European Common Market countries and increases for some major exporting nations in the Southern Hemisphere, including Australia and Argentina.

Looking at the demand side of the grain picture, the report said that there was a "sizeable increase" of China's import requirements since Sept. 27.

Officials said, however, that China's larger grain import requirements appear to focus on corn, meaning that there will be some reduction in the amount of wheat it may buy from foreign countries this year.

"In light of extensive use of corn for human consumption in China, one possible factor in these developments is the increasing world price spread, which may encourage purchases of corn over wheat," the report said.

Grain prices in world trade "have remained firm" despite the huge supply, the report said. And one important factor is China's demand for more foreign grain.

"Some countries may also be taking advantage of the recent decline in the U.S. dollar to increase grain utilization and (or) stocks," the report said.

Another factor has been the participation of American farmers in a government grain reserve in which they store wheat, corn and other feed grains for up to three years or until prices rise enough to trigger their release.

Labor Specialist Reports On Dangers Of Farming

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Last August a 2-year-old boy's arms were severed in a corn auger on his parents farm in central Illinois and doctors labored 12 hours to reattach the limbs.

A year ago, another boy tumbled from a silo 60 feet to the ground and now is paralyzed from the waist down. In September, a man was killed and his son injured when a grain auger they were operating became entangled in electrical wires.

Those incidents illustrate a little-noted aspect of life on the farm — danger.

University of Illinois safety specialist Ordie Hogsett says farming is the third most dangerous occupation. Only mining and construction are more hazardous to the health.

No specific records are kept on the number of farm accidents or the number of farm-related fatalities.

But Hogsett said tractors are the No. 1 safety problem on a farm, simply because of the exposure rate. A pamphlet on tractor safety prepared by Hogsett showed 10,500 tractor accidents in Illinois last year, including 75 fatalities.

Hogsett has started a number of safety programs, including the 4-H "no rider" campaign which urges farmers to ignore pleas from their children for rides on tractors and place "no rider" decals on their machines. Extra-ride accidents rank second to tractor overruns as the leading cause of tractor-related fatalities.

Another serious threat on the farm, Hogsett said, is grain storage facilities where many farmers, their employees and children suffocate. He said it takes only four seconds to become helpless in moving grain and five more seconds to be completely submerged.

In addition, he said, falling into spoiled grain forces the victim to breathe toxic gases and dust, dulling his senses and making it even harder to get free.

Children pose a special problem on the farm because they often are involved in the farming operation itself and very small children can move out of sight quickly in such a large area.

Dr. Allen Van Buek echoed the same concern over safety when he restored the arms of Devin Vannoy, the 2-year-old Atlanta, Ill., boy in the corn auger accident.

Cattle Futures Finish Mixed In Active Trading

By Reuters

CHICAGO — Cattle futures closed 80 points higher to 60 points lower in active trading of 25,361 contracts Friday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Nearby December futures were up the most with October leading most other months lower. The market ran into profit-taking and week-end evening up after one week highs and a gain in distant December.

Early support continued from Thursday's limit level advances on firmness in cash cattle and steady beef demand in the face of sizeable slaughter, lifting prices 350 from recent lows.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 79 1/4 a pound, f.o.b. river points, for all weights. Cash cattle were steady to up 50 cents with the best top $54.50 per hundredweight. Slaughter was 146,000 head. The major terminals are expecting 16,900 head on Monday.

Feeder cattle futures closed 60 higher to equally lower with January up the most and August and October sharing the most loss. Sales totaled 2,602 contracts. The market reacted after January posted a limit level gain for the second day in a row on spillover demand from the live cattle pit.

Cash feeder cattle provided no direction, but traders noted reports of improved beef demand and forecast for a modest run of feeders on Monday as early buying incentives. Profit-taking and evening up ahead of the weekend pressured the late trade.

There were 29 deliveries. The major terminals are expecting about 1,400 head on Monday.

Hog futures closed 45 lower to 20 higher on 7,551 sales. April fell the most at the day's low with nearby December up the most. June rose 55 before running in to late selling.

Initial support spilled over from the strong cattle pit and continued firmness in pork products. Traders seemed wary of higher product prices in the face of weak cash hogs, however, and took profits despite outlook for a light hog run Monday.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up 2 1/2 cents at 90 1/2 to 105 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were steady to off $1, with the best top $51 per hundredweight. Kill was 297,000 head. On Monday, about 29,000 head are expected at the major markets.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed 52 lower to 15 higher on 5,395 contracts. March was the weakest at the day's low with July up the most. Reaction came after May and August ran up 100 early on cattle gains.

Traders also seemed dubious about higher cash bellies on weaker cash hogs and took to the sell side when cattle futures came off early peaks. Some technical selling also noted after prices climbed more than 300 from recent lows.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to up 1 cent at 55 1/2 to 58 1/4 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

Campaign Reports Tell Contributors, Expenses

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although E. L. Short has spent nearly $133,000 in his bid for the Texas Senate seat being vacated by Kent Hance, only $10,000 of that amount has financed the Tahoka rancher's general election campaign, Short said.

The Democratic contender said a significant portion of his contributions have been used to pay off debts incurred in the primary and runoff.

The most recent campaign contribution and expense report filed with the secretary of state shows Short has collected $98,099, spent $132,538 and personally loaned the campaign $115,000 since the race began.

That contrasts with the $13,162 collected thus far by his Republican opponent, state Rep. Joe Robbins, and the $9,458 Robbins has spent on his race.

Of the $115,000 in personal funds he has loaned the campaign, Short said only $35,000 has been returned.

Robbins collected $2,175 during the most recent reporting period and spent $2,311.

District 75-B state Rep. Froy Salinas collected $4,049 between Oct. 6 and Oct. 28, for total contributions of $16,210 in his bid for a second term.

Of the $3,800 in contributions above $50, Salinas received $3,000 from political action committees (PACs) and only $800 from individual contributors.

He reported expenditures of $1,271 in October, almost exclusively for advertising, for a total spent on the campaign of $12,023.

Salinas' Republican challenger, David Hester, reported contributions of $2,334 last month, for a total collected of $7,929. Hester's contributions, none of which exceeded $100, came largely from individuals in Lubbock.

Hester had expenditures of $4,800 during the reporting period, for a total of $6,396. His largest expense was $3,931 paid to the Phil Price Advertising Agency for newspaper and radio advertising.

Nolan "Buzz" Robnett, Republican candidate for the District 75-A House seat Robbins is vacating, is outspending Democratic opponent Xen Oden.

Robnett received $3,239 in contributions last month, for a total of $18,274. Robnett received about half the most recent contributions from PACs, with the remaining portion coming from individuals in Lubbock.

Robnett spent $6,387 on the campaign during October, $6,000 of which was paid to an advertising agency. That brings his total expenditures to $14,805 for the campaign.

Although Mrs. Oden outspent Robnett last month, she lags behind in total expenditures.

She reported spending $8,478 during October, for a total of $12,391. Mrs. Oden spent $5,812 last month for advertising and consultation, her largest expenses.

The Democrat reported contributions of $4,795 in October, for a total collected of $13,442.

Houston Lawyer Jailed In Cocaine Deal

HOUSTON (AP) — A lawyer was jailed and a warrant issued for the arrest of a former investigator for the district attorney Friday after a bonding company withdrew bonds in a cocaine theft case.

Ralph Chambers, 52, the lawyer, and Lannie Phillips, 46, the former investigator, were indicted following the theft of 4.5 pounds of cocaine July 12 from a Harris County courtroom. They had been free under $30,000 bonds.

The indictments charge the two men with possession of cocaine with intent to deliver. Chambers also was charged with burglary of a building and Phillips with being a party to a burglary.

State District Judge George Taylor of Beaumont ordered Chambers be jailed but reduced the lawyer's bond to $15,000. The $30,000 bond was retained for Phillips as Taylor issued the bench warrant for his arrest.

The cocaine was stolen during the trial of a Chambers client.

Raiders Return Home To Host Bears

By DON HENRY
Executive Sports Editor

Finally... Rex Dockery can look up, check the crowd, find folks wearing the same color garments as he, and hear some comforting cheers.

After more than a month of standing on the fields, Dockery will be back at home. It's a homecoming, for him as well as the former students.

It's the annual homecoming weekend, with floats, mums, frat reunions, and a chance for the returning exes to buy a new Texas Tech sticker for the car and a school T-shirt for the 2-year-old.

And, it's a chance for 50,000 people to crowd into Jones Stadium and see Dockery's Raiders take on Baylor University in a battle to lengthen short winning streaks. Rain could dampen the crowd and the crowd size, as the forecast is for temperatures in the 60s with a 50 percent chance of rain.

Rain or not, the teams will hit the turf in Jones Stadium at 2 p.m. today, and both hometowners and Bears will be shooting to make three out of two in the consecutive-win department.

Tech has picked up a couple of wins on the road, holding off New Mexico 36-23 and then Rice 42-28. And in both instances, the Raiders saw their lead narrowed to less than a touchdown before scoring insurance TDs.

Both instances were before foreign crowds, however. When last the Raiders played in Jones Stadium, they were going against Texas in a conference opener. That was on Oct. 30.

But, with three straight road games and an open date, the Raiders saw the home stadium only for practice sessions.

Baylor, meanwhile, hit the road for a series of nonconference battles and found themselves in a 0-5 hole. But, with the addition of a running sensation straight out of high school and "what our people have inside," the Bears shocked the nation with a solid thumping of Texas

A&M and then throttled TCU for their first two wins of the year.

"You have to give it to Coach (Grant) Teaff to keep his team going after that many losses," Dockery said earlier this week.

"This (comeback) shows the character of our players," said Teaff.

"Rex has done a good job of getting the right people in the right spots," added Teaff. "He moves (James) Hadnot to full-back, and the Johnson kid (Mark) to tail-back."

And the two will start side by side in the Raider backfield this afternoon.

Hadnot has picked up more than 400 yards in the last two games, and Johnson earned a starting spot for his work the past two weeks.

Tie Ranks With Loss For LHS, Hereford

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

As Rusty Talbot stalked off the field Friday night, he commented something about how ties don't mean that much.

"Not a thing," the Lubbock High coach said, shaking his head.

Normally that statement wouldn't have been so brash because in most cases Talbot's assessment about sums things up, but not this time.

And deep down Talbot knows it.

In the case of Lubbock High and Hereford, the 0-0 tie WAS a loss. Both had entered the District 4-AAAA matchup with one loss under their belt in the loop race. That meant one more loss — or one more tie — and that's that for this season.

So Friday night what Hereford and Lubbock wound up doing at Lowrey Field was eliminating each other at the same time. The closest either can get to claiming the loop crown — if past history is correct — is a half-game. And that's as good as mile — even further.

The Westerners are now 1-1-1 in loop play, while the Whitefaces slip to 0-1-1. Overall LHS stands 4-4-1, Hereford 2-6.

Talbot, who admitted posting his biggest win as the LHS head coach last week when the Westerners whipped crosstown rival Monterey 10-7, didn't have much to say following the deadlock with Hereford.

"There really wasn't much he could say, really."

"We just had too many turnovers," he said.

Check.

Neither team even came close to playing flawless football this time around. Lubbock wound up turning the ball over to its guest five times, via two interceptions and three fumbles. Meanwhile, Hereford had the same misfortunes, losing the ball three times through the air and twice to an alert LHS defense.

In every case, really, the miscues hurt. But fumbles and interceptions weren't all that hurt Lubbock, Talbot said — there was also a little inconsistency on the part of the Westerner offense.

"The defense played well," explained Talbot, "but the offense just couldn't do anything."

Lubbock was limited to only 146 yards total offense, while Hereford — led by the 130-yard performance of tailback Paul Bell — gained 271 in all.

Bell, injured throughout most of the season, came on strong against Lubbock. In fact, he did everything but score — but nobody did that.

Both teams certainly had their chances to put the game on ice several times, but in every case a turnover came into play.

In the first period, Hereford drove all the way down to the LHS 3. But on a second-and-goal try from that point, Herd quarterback Jackie Mercer fumbled right into the waiting arms of defensive lineman Martin Garza.

Playing the part of a congenial host,

Fight With Coach Injures Gridder

De KALB (AP) — Threats of racial violence swirled around this East Texas town Friday night as a black De Kalb High School football player lay paralyzed from the waist down after a fight Thursday with two white football coaches.

James Arthur Cuba, an 18-year-old senior running back, was in critical condition Friday from injuries he sustained in a fistfight Thursday with head coach Johnny Lowe and assistant coach Lynn McCord.

More than 40 law enforcement officers surrounded the football field Friday night to head off what they termed "almost certain violence" prior to a game against the predominantly black Jefferson High School team.

Only a dozen white players on the De

Kalb team had suited out for the game. Some said members of the black community had warned the Bear's black players not to participate in the game.

A quarrel between Lowe and Cuba erupted into a fistfight near the sidelines at Thursday's practice, according to De Kalb's football sweetheart, 17-year-old Glenda McGowan.

She said Coach Lowe ordered Cuba to the dressing room after the player failed to return to the huddle when told. Cuba stopped to talk to someone on the sidelines, she said, and "then the coach said something to James; he was up in his face."

"I saw James push Coach Lowe back, and the coach said 'Don't push me.' Then

GRIFFIN TO PLAY
CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals running back Archie Griffin has decided to continue playing despite what a foot specialist has diagnosed as a calcium buildup on his big toe. Griffin said Thursday he will have the toe "scraped" at the end of the football season, but faces surgery if that method does not prove successful.

Slaton Eases Over Roosevelt

SLATON (Special) — Things did not start off well for the Roosevelt Eagles in District 5-AA football action Friday night. And they didn't end well either, as the Slaton Tigers eased to a 28-14 victory that was never really in question.

Slaton had a 28-0 lead with less than half a minute left in the third quarter, leaving little doubt in fans' minds that the team would exit the field sporting a polished 6-2 record. Roosevelt stands 2-5-1 for the season.

The first half scoring came when Slaton's Lance Bownds bumbled for a 12-yard touchdown scamper. Fullback Mike White plunged over from the 1 and, adding insult to injury, Tiger guard Darrel Normn recovered Roosevelt quarterback Roger Lindsey's fumble in the end zone. Jesse Titus kicked true on all extra points.

game. A "Hail Mary" pass of 80 yards from Lindsey to end Ray Smith helped make the score more respectable. Slaton managed to pound out the win without benefit of a completed pass. The Eagles managed 117 yards through the air, but rarely in crucial situations. With the win, Slaton stayed in a tie for the 5-AA lead. Slaton is tied with Freeship and Seminole with 4-1 records.

Fort Stockton Stays Unbeaten

PECOS (Special) — The Fort Stockton Panthers kept their slate unblemished by blanking the Pecos Eagles here Friday night 21-0 in a battle of state-ranked teams.

Scott Blocker, son of the Panther coach. The touchdown ended another 69-yard march, this one in 10 plays. McIvor again booted the extra point.

Brad Jackson bucked over from 2 yards away with 1:11 left in the contest after a 64-yard drive in only seven plays. McIvor kicked his third extra point of the night to complete the shutout.

Britons Take 2-1 Advantage In Wightman

LONDON (AP) — Virginia Wade wore down 15-year-old Tracy Austin 3-6, 7-5, 6-3 Friday night to give the British women's tennis team a 2-1 lead over the United States in the Wightman Cup.

Ford Gets Chance At CU

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — "Who is this Eddie Ford?" Colorado football fans must have asked last week when the underdog sophomore exploded for two of the Buffaloes' final three touchdowns in a dramatic, come-from-behind 28-27 victory over Missouri.

The young prodigy from Rolling Hills, Calif., kept Wade, the British captain and 1977 Wimbledon champion, on the court at the Royal Albert Hall for more than two hours.

Ford is a 5-foot-10, 203-pounder from San Diego who, as a high school senior, had doubts about his ability to play college football. He wasn't considered good enough to play for Southern Cal by Trojan recruiters, and wound up choosing Colorado over UCLA and Arizona because he wanted to play in the Big Eight.

Miss Wade looked rusty as the American teen-ager raced to a 2-0 lead. The British star broke back for 2-1, but then made three unforced errors and allowed Miss Austin to break again to lead 3-1.

Win Puts Lorenzo Into Tie For Lead

RALLS (Special) — Lorenzo exploded for a pair of touchdowns in both the first and second quarters and propelled itself into a tie for the District 4-A lead here Friday night with a 26-13 win over Ralls.

The win gives Lorenzo a 4-3-1 season mark and a 3-1 district ledger, enabling the Hornets to share the top spot with idle New Deal.

Although he scored four touchdowns in a junior-varsity game last year, he carried just once in a varsity game. This season, thanks to a rash of injuries to Buffalo running backs, he began seeing more action and got his big chance last week.

That break was enough to give the pony-tailed schoolgirl the set. Games went with service afterwards.

Greg Cunningham opened the scoring fireworks for Lorenzo in the first quarter as he burst over from the 1-yard line with 10:42 left in the opening stanza for the game's initial score.

The coaches told me to be ready, that I'd be playing a lot against Missouri," Ford recalls. "I had no idea I'd wind up scoring the winning touchdown and another one. Our line blocked real well up front."

Miss Wade tried to play short, sliced backhand and bring Austin forward from her baseline. But more often than not these shots failed to clear the net.

Cunningham came right back with 8:55 remaining in the period on another 1-yard blast for a TD. The PAT tries after both scores failed.

Ford said offensive tackle Matt Miller told the backs in the huddle "to just stick together, hold onto the football and that everything would be taken care of up front. They kept their word."

The pattern changed dramatically at the start of the second set. Miss Wade allowed the young American only seven points in five games as she raced to a 4-1 lead with a break in the second game.

Again it was Cunningham as the Horkent tailback slashed his way over from the 1 with 9:45 left in the first half.

This week, Ford and the Buffaloes face an even more formidable challenge when top-ranked Oklahoma, boasting the nation's most potent offense, invades Folson Field.

American Bob Lutz also moved into Saturday's semifinals, downing West Germany's Ulli Pinner 7-6, 6-3 in another quarter-final match in the Grand Prix tourney.

Cunningham got the call again on the final play of the half, this time through the air as he latched onto a 27-yard scoring strike from quarterback Bob Brown. Brown then hit halfback Darrell Lawson for a 2-point conversion pass.

And sophomore Bob Humble are expected to share the fullback duties for Colorado, leaving ex-fullback James Slavberry to work at tailback and give the Buffs some quickness to the outside. Bill Solomon, who ignited the second-half rally against Missouri by completing 8 of 11 passes for 145 yards in the late stages, is the quarterback.

Jones, who has played only 10 minutes all season while recovering from a separated shoulder, threw long and hard while directing the offense in practice Thursday.

Austin Quits Tennis Field

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tracy Austin, the 15-year-old tennis whiz from California, announced Friday she was withdrawing from next week's $75,000 women's tennis event in nearby Oldsmar.

Although he said the shoulder hurt even more than it did preceding his only appearance of the season against the New York Jets on Oct. 15, Jones said he was optimistic about playing on Monday.

Jones Optimistic About Game Chances

BALTIMORE (AP) — More and more, it looks as though Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones will be able to play when the Colts face the Washington Redskins in Monday night's National Football League game.

He could play now, but the question is can he play well enough to win," Marchibroda said. "We can only decide by the way he looks in practice."

In a printed release, agent Sara Kleppinger said the teen-ager is exhausted from the pressures of school, recent international travel and competition.

Gullikson Advances

PARIS, France (AP) — Tom Gullikson of the United States advanced to the semifinals of the $50,000 Paris Open Tennis Tournament Friday with a 7-5, 6-3 victory over France's Patrick Proisy.

He played well, but the question is can he play well enough to win," Marchibroda said. "We can only decide by the way he looks in practice."

Miss Austin, who recently turned professional after collecting 17 U.S. Junior titles, is playing with the U.S. Wightman Cup team in London.

He played well, but the question is can he play well enough to win," Marchibroda said. "We can only decide by the way he looks in practice."

Martina Navratilova, 1978 Wimbledon champ and top women's player, is seeded first in the Nov. 6-12 event. The field also includes Yvonne Goolagong, 1977 Wimbledon titlist Virginia Wade, Wendy Turnbull, Betty Stove, Kerry Reid, Regina Marsikova and JoAnne Russell.

Midland Lee Stumbles Against Odessa Permian

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
MIDLAND — The Midland Lee offense kept up with the pace of the U.S. economic situation here late in the fourth quarter as the Rebels dropped to a 14-3 loss at the hands of Odessa Permian. Like the dollar, Rebel quarterback Gary Butler dropped two passes into the hands of Panther defenders, which made Midland coach Gil Bartosh feel an all-time low.

Thompson — into a crowd, and Odessa cornerback Randy Peterson picked off the pass and scooted 6 yards for a touchdown to put the game out of reach. Just minutes prior to Peterson's interception, Panther safety Ricky Reynolds swiped a Butler pass on the Midland Lee 8. But in four downs, the Panthers could move only 6 yards. Butler was forced into throwing the ball after Permian drove 80 yards to grab a 7-3 lead. Midland Lee, which protected a 3-0 lead until 10:04 remained in the game.

saw its lead dwindle in 11 plays. Fullback Roger Lightfoot sparked the Panther drive with a 19-yard scamper. Lightfoot, on a trap block from center Jed Street, gave the Panthers a first and goal on the Rebel 3. Then tailback Gregg Lambert took a handoff from quarterback Vic Vines on the next play and dashed into the end zone or left tackle untouched. Robert Orozco kicked the extra point and the Panthers had a 3-point advantage. In the third quarter, Midland Lee's only score was set up via a Panther mistake. Permian punter Greg Rodriguez failed to control the snap from center and when the stack was cleared, Rebel linebacker Jess McCowan was lying on top of the football on the Panther 14. However, the Permian defense stalled the Rebels' drive at the Panther 4 and Bill McPherson kicked a 21-yard field goal.

blemished at 8-0, and 5-0. The loss drops Midland Lee to 4-1 in loop action, 7-1 for the year. If Peterson's interception was the score that earned Permian the gold medal, then the Rebels blew some silver and bronze scoring opportunities in the first half. While the Lee defense kept Permian's offense at bay, the Rebels mounted 138 yards in the first two quarters. Three times in the first half, the Rebels drove inside the Panthers' 30. But the net result for their efforts was only one penetration. Lee's offensive strong points is their ability to rush the football," said Permian coach John Wilkins before the football game. "We're going to have to shut down the Rebels' running game if we expect to win." In particular, Wilkins was referring his comments to Lee halfback McCowan. Though, McCowan was the leading rusher, the Panthers held the Rebel senior to 78 yards on 23 carries. "They don't make mistakes," said Lee coach Bartosh. "They also have a tendency to capitalize on every break you give them." The Panthers did indeed play almost errorless football. They didn't fumble, have a pass interception or make very many mental mistakes. The Panthers were only penalized twice for 24 yards. Not only did the victory keep Permian in first place in the district race, but it was the second consecutive time the

John Selected High On Free Agent List

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Tommy John and infielder-outfielder Lee Lacy were among the high priority items on the free agent shopping lists of major league baseball clubs participating in the re-entry draft Friday. Both players, teammates on the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers, were selected by the maximum 13 clubs in the grab-bag, along with three others — pitchers Larry Gura, Jim Slaton and Elias Sosa.

Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh, Texas, California, Philadelphia, the New York Mets, Oakland, Atlanta and San Diego. Lacy, who batted .261 for the Dodgers, was the lone non-pitcher to be chosen by 13 clubs. Slaton's was 17-11 with a 4.42 ERA for Detroit, while Sosa, working out of the Oakland bullpen, posted an 8-2 mark with 14 saves and a 2.64 ERA. The Mets opened the draft by selecting Rose, who batted .302 for the Reds last season, pushed his career hit total to 3,164 and set a modern National League record by hitting in 44 consecutive games.

Longhorns Stampede Visitors
VEGA (Special) — The hometown Longhorns, in stampeding over the visiting Hart Longhorns 46-6, have only one obstacle in their way of being on top in District 3A — the Bovina Mustangs. Both Vega and Bovina own 3-0 records in district play, with Bovina savoring a victory Friday night. Hart now has a lowly 0-3 state in the district. It didn't look like it would be a romp at the end of the first quarter with Vega managing only six points when Rick Jones nabbed a 5-yard TD pass thrown by quarterback Randall Galbraith. The two-point conversion failed. Things started picking up for Vega in the second period. Joe Rodriguez scored on a 60-yard run and Galbraith threw to Jess Newhall for the two-point conversion.

Littlefield Explodes Past Friona

LITTLEFIELD (Special) — Littlefield exploded for 13 points each in the second and fourth quarters to breeze to a 29-18 win over Friona in a District 3-AAA clash Friday night. The win raised Littlefield's season record to 5-3 and the Wildcats' district mark to 2-1, while Friona fell to 4-4 and 1-2. The game was delayed for 35 minutes in the first quarter as heavy rain forced the teams to leave the field with 7:27 left in the opening stanza. Littlefield put two touchdowns on the scoreboard in the second quarter as Ronnie Martin hauled in a 52-yard pass from Eddie Gregory with 4:30 left in the half and Rudolph Smith sprinted 62 yards for a score with 1:24 left. Richard Soria added one PAT. Friona came back with a 20-yard TD sprint by Joe Malouf in the third quarter.

but Littlefield's Soria countered with a 37-yard field goal in the period. Friona scored again with 4:07 left in the game on a 34-yard run by Chitto Calballero, but the PAT try failed. Friona's final tally came with 40 seconds left on a 38-yard pass from Mike Hudson to Brett Moore. In the meantime, Smith scored for Littlefield on runs of 25 and 15 yards and Soria added a PAT. Smith finished the night with 26 carries for 182 yards and Martin latched onto four passes for 125 yards.

Plainview Dismantles Pampa

PAMPA (Special) — Royce Coleman ran for three touchdowns and set a new season rushing record for his team as the Plainview Bulldogs defeated the Pampa Harvesters 34-13 Friday. Coleman scored on a 1-yard run in the first quarter, a 1-yard run in the second period and a 4-yard carry in the third quarter. Bruce Wesley, on a 5-yard carry, also scored a touchdown in the third quarter for the District 4-AAA Bulldogs. Plainview kicker Steve Alexander connected on field goals of 35 and 40 yards. He also booted two extra points. Pampa scored in the second period on a 65-yard pass from Rick Daugherty to Steve McDougal, and in the fourth quarter on a 65-yard run by Rudy Roland. Coleman gained 120 yards on 21 carries, giving him a season total of 1,028 yards rushing. Plainview's Ervin Davis carried nine times Friday for 81 yards. Roland carried nine times for 93 yards for the District 3-AAAA Harvesters. The Bulldogs, now 7-1, had 26 first downs, 338 yards rushing and 49 yards passing. Pampa, now 2-6, managed five first downs, 125 yards rushing and 106 yards passing.

Ellerd, Castro Spark Eagles

FORSAN (Special) — It was the Keith and Johnny show here Friday — and, fittingly, there was an intermission between the two acts. Keith Ellerd scored four touchdowns in the first half, and Johnny Castro three in the second, to spark District 5-A power Seagraves over Forsan 50-0. The Eagles remain undefeated at 8-0 and 5-0 in their search for another 5-A title. Forsan is 2-6 after dropping the loop encounter and 1-4 in the league. Seagraves struck for 19 points in the opening period and 12 more in the second stanza to put the contest out of reach. Ellerd tallied on runs of 7, 21, 1 and 4 yards in the first half. Halfback Davis Morgan rambled for a 38-yard TD in the first period for the only touchdown of the night not recorded by Ellerd or Castro. Castro scored on runs of 1, 54 and 11 yards in the second half.

Gridder Hurt In Fight

James said, "Don't be pushing me. I didn't see what happened then, but then the coach hit James in the nose. James was trying to hit him; he was swinging." Miss McGowen and another student said Lowe wrestled Cuba to the ground, let him up and started walking away, but James started swinging again. As the coach was walking away, Miss McGowen said, Cuba threw his helmet at him. "The other coach (assistant coach McCord) caught James from behind when he threw the helmet, and both of them fell to the ground," said a teacher who arrived just as Coach Lowe was walking away. Cuba began to yell "I'm paralyzed" as the coaches tried to get him up, Miss McGowen said. Parents picked up their children from school early Thursday, and Lowe and McCord did not teach their classes Friday. School officials said Lowe broke up a fight between Cuba and another student at the school two weeks ago, and Cuba

Tigers Get Title Share, Playoff Spot

SNYDER (Special) — Quarterback Clay Johnson passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more to spark Snyder to a 28-15 victory over Lamesa and to at least a share of the District 3-AAA championship. Johnson hit end Mitch Mackey, with TD passes of 16 and 34 yards, then reeled off an 8-yard touchdown run to give the Tigers a 21-7 halftime lead. The victory, coupled with the Sweetwater win over Brownfield, gives Snyder a share of the loop crown and a berth in the playoffs. After Johnson hit Mackey with the first TD pass, Lamesa quarterback Mark Price had raced for a 57-yard touchdown, and, after James Goolsby kicked the extra point, the score was knotted 7-7 at the end of the first quarter.

Idalou Falls To Abernathy

IDALOU (Special) — A fourth quarter goal by Abernathy's Gilbert Cuevas tied Idalou from the unbeaten ranks as the visiting Antelopes pulled out a 16-13 victory in one of the major upsets of the 1978 season.

The Antelopes are now 6-2 on the year and District 4-AA counterpart Idalou dropped to 7-1. The loss came at a time when the Wildcats were ranked ninth in the state among Class AA teams.

The loss dropped Idalou out of a tie for the district lead and left Tulia as the only team in the league with an unbeaten record. Abernathy is now 2-1 in district, a game back of Tulia. Idalou is now 1-1.

The Wildcats broke the scoring ice on a 5-yard run by fullback Ricky Hobbs in the first quarter to move ahead 7-0. Scotty Moore tacked on the PAT.

Abernathy then knotted the score on a 45-yard pass from quarterback Tony Heath to halfback Roger Linsey. Cuevas added the extra point.

The Antelopes moved into the lead a short time later on a 3-yard burst by fullback Eugene Sanders. The try for extra point was wide.

Still in the first period, Idalou tailback Buckles Bryant jaunted into the end zone on the receiving end of a 30-yard pass from quarterback Brad DeBusk. This time Moore's kick was blocked to leave the score tied at 13-13. That's the way it remained until Cuevas entered the contest in the fourth quarter to boot home a 25-yard field goal and provide the margin of victory.

The Antelopes led the statistical charts with 280 yards in offense, 130 of that on six of 10 completions by Heath. The Wildcats managed 224 yards on the night with most of that (136 yards) on the ground.

Seminole Blanks Post 13-0

POST (Special) — The visiting Seminole Indians stayed alive in the District 5-AA race with a 13-0 victory Friday over the Post Antelopes.

The Indians, now 4-1 in loop action, are tied for the district lead with Slaton and Frenship.

In the closing seconds of the second period, Seminole quarterback Mike Graf hit David Stone on a 23-yard pass to move the ball into Post territory. Graf then threw a 39-yard touchdown pass to split end Summer Shaw. Pete McClesky kicked the extra point.

The Antelopes almost got the points back. Cliff Kirkpatrick broke loose on a 54-yard sprint, but was tackled on the Seminole 7-yard line as time ran out in the first half.

In the third quarter, the Indians fumbled away two scoring opportunities inside the Post 15-yard line. In the fourth quarter, Seminole marched 75 yards, with fullback Jim Hill going the final 23, for a touchdown.

The Antelopes then drove to the Seminole 19-yard line but were held.

Post, now 2-3 in district, lost four fumbles and had two passes intercepted. Seminole lost five fumbles.

Seminole logged 15 first downs, 291 yards rushing and 72 yards passing, to Post's 12 first downs, 231 yards rushing and 63 yards passing.

The game was Post's homecoming.

Patriots Toss Cowboys 23-8

TURKEY (Special) — Valley produced two fourth-quarter touchdowns to bounce back from a 9-8 deficit and defeat the Happy Cowboys 23-8 here Friday night in District 2-B North action.

The win clinched the zone title for the Patriots, who raised their district mark to 4-0 and their season mark to 7-0-1. Happy fell to 3-5-1 for the year.

Valley jumped out to a 9-0 first quarter lead as tailback James McNary sprinted 52 yards to paydirt and Kurt Procter booted the PAT.

Later in the quarter, Joe Kirk Smith blocked a Happy punt out of the end zone for a safety.

Happy picked up a safety in the second quarter, then cut the gap to 9-8 in the third quarter on an 83-yard touchdown pass by Vincent Venhaus.

Valley then came back in the fourth period as Darrel Dowd jaunted 4 yards to score and Kenneth Helms rambled 12 yards for another TD. Procter booted both PATs.

McNary was the top rusher of the night with 195 yards with Dowd added 136 and Helms 71.

Valley picked up 21 first downs, 396 yards overland and 33 through the air. Happy had five first downs, 77 yards on the ground and 150 passing.

Tulia Rallies To Nip Lockney

LOCKNEY (Special) — The Tulia Hornets bounced back from a 7-6 deficit in the fourth quarter to post a 12-7 victory over Lockney in a District 4-AA encounter Friday night.

The victory left the Hornets in a tie for the district lead with a 2-0 record. Lockney is still without a win in district.

Tulia drew first blood in the contest in the first quarter as fullback Monty Jones dived over from the 1. The PAT kick was wide of the mark, however, leaving the Hornets with a 6-0 lead.

Lockney bounced back to take a 7-6 lead in the third quarter as defensive end Curtis Ford blocked a Tulia punt and ran it in from 20 yards out for a score. The PAT was good, giving the Longhorns the lead.

But Tulia came back in the final stanza with Jones again going over from the 1. A two-point conversion try was stopped short.

Tulia had 13 first downs, 302 yards rushing and 30 passing. Lockney was limited with five first downs, 94 rushing and 22 passing.

Tulia now stands 3-5 for the year, while Lockney is 4-5.

LHS, Hereford Battle To Tie

Lubbock High fumbled the ball right back to Hereford five plays later when quarterback Larry Walker's pitchout to runningback Ricky Moreno went astray. Cory Springer hopped on the bobble, setting up the Whitefaces at the 13.

An 18-yard field goal attempt by Kevin Bunch was blocked by defensive back Chris Bigham, thwarting the drive.

Hereford even put together a nifty 18-play drive late in the second period only to see it washed down the drain when Bigham stepped in front of a Mercer pass intended for Bell and picked it off at the LHS 18.

Lubbock's best chance at grabbing the lead came with 4:42 left in the final period.

Lubbock's best chance at grabbing the lead came with 4:42 left in the final period.

Lubbock's best chance at grabbing the lead came with 4:42 left in the final period.

However, a 39-yard field goal by kicker Andy Vasquez barely managed to get into the end zone, much less clear the cross bar.

One play before Vasquez' attempt, though, Walker spotted scatback Jimmy Garza all alone on the 5. Walker's pass was a bit short, though, and Garza was unable to pick the ball off the top of his shoes.

In the closing minutes of the game, both got the ball back for one last attempt. Neither, obviously, converted the chances into scores.

Eagles Soar Over Levelland

CANYON (Special) — The Canyon Eagles remained undefeated in District 1-AAA action Friday night with a 10-0 triumph over Levelland.

Paced by the running of halfback Paul Parencia, the Eagles rolled to their seventh win of the season against no losses and one tie. They are 3-0 in district. Levelland, in suffering its first district loss in three games, fell to 4-4 for the season and

Canyon picked up its first score of the night with 2:37 left in the first quarter as Eddie Clements split the uprights on a 40-yard field goal.

Parencia then provided the only TD of the night on a 21-yard sprint with 7:21 left in the first half and Clements' PAT kick gave the Eagles a 10-0 halftime lead that would stand up for the rest of the game.

Levelland was stymied by the Canyon defense as the Lobos crossed the mid-field stripe only once in the contest, that coming in the third quarter. Canyon also picked off five Levelland passes.

Parencia paved the way on the ground for Canyon as he rushed 21 times for 115 yards.

Canyon finished the night with 14 first downs and 197 yards rushing and 92 passing, to Levelland's five first downs, 58 yards rushing and 34 passing.

Canyon is still in a virtual tie with Lubbock Estacado for the district lead; both are unbeaten in 1-AAA.

BOVINA (Special) — The hometown Mustangs remained undefeated in District 3-A play with a 25-0 win over the Springlake-Earth Wolverines.

It was a dreary, rainy Friday night for the Wolverines who have absorbed three losses in three tries in district play and are 0-8 for the season.

The first and only score in the opening period came when Mustang quarterback Ronnie Gary kicked a 42-yard field goal.

With three minutes gone in the second quarter, Bovina halfback Ruben Salazar punched his way over the goal line from 4 yards out. The extra point missed.

Mustang halfback Richard Villarreal put 6 more on the board in the waning minutes of the third period and Cary was on target this time for the point-after.

With 10 minutes showing in the final period, Cary kicked another field goal, this time from 31 yards out. Five minutes later Villarreal broke loose for an 18-yard TD run. Cary kicked the extra point to finish up the game.

Perez also scored on a 21-yard run. Northside's Larry Lee added two touchdowns runs. The winners' other TD was tallied by Gary Stevenson on a pass from Gordon Thomas.

Don Baxter scored three of Patton Springs' four touchdowns on runs of 6, 18 and 14 yards. Bobby Kautz passed to Tim Paty for the Rangers' other TD.

Wildcats Rally To Claim Win

WHITHARRAL (Special) — The Wellman Wildcats exploded for four touchdowns in the second half to come from behind and beat the Whitharral Panthers 38-24 Friday in District 3-B six-man football.

Down 16-14 at halftime, Wellman scored three unanswered TDs in the third period — on runs of 30 and 4 yards by Tye Paris and 38 yards by Alan Berryhill.

The Wildcats scored again in the fourth quarter, on a 15-yard carry by Berryhill. Whitharral responded with a 33-yard touchdown pass from Brian Kay to Jimmy Avery to trim the deficit to 38-24.

Berryhill had opened the scoring for Wellman in the first quarter on a 20-yard TD sprint. The Panthers came back on a 30-yard pass from Roger Reding to Avery.

In the second period, Wellman's Paris ran 25 yards for a touchdown, and Whitharral's Reding tossed another 25-yard TD pass to Avery.

Both teams are now 4-4 for the year. Wellman logged 15 first downs, 210 yards rushing and 112 yards passing. Whitharral had eight first downs, 184 yards rushing and 112 yards rushing.

Farwell Blanks Kangaroos 6-0

FARWELL (Special) — The Farwell Steers scored Friday's only touchdown in the waning seconds of the first half, then held on for a 6-0 win over the Kress Kangaroos in a rain-soaked District 3-A game Friday night.

Later in the second quarter, Farwell safety Max Lonsdale intercepted a Kress pass and returned the ball 52 yards to the Kangaroos' 10-yard line. A few plays later — with only three seconds before halftime — fullback Rowdy Chandler ran 4 yards for the lone touchdown.

Both teams were hampered by wind and rain throughout the game. Besides throwing the interception, Kress fumbled six times.

Farwell had five first downs and 148 yards' offense, all on the ground. Kress recorded 11 first downs and 141 yards, all rushing.

With the win, Farwell increased its record to 2-1, and the Kangaroos fell to 1-2.

Higgins Coyotes Mauled By Guthrie

GUTHRIE (Special) — It hasn't been the Higgins Coyotes' season. And it very definitely was not the visiting team's night, getting slaughtered 74-34 by the Guthrie Jaguars.

In six-man competition, the Jags are now 2-2 in District 4-B play and 2-6 for the season. Higgins is 0-4 in the district and winless in eight outings.

The standout Friday was Jaguar runningback Jay Hurt who ran for four touchdowns and threw for three more. Coyote back John Piper hit for two TDs and Guthrie end caught two touchdowns.

Runningback John Blocker led Higgins with four touchdowns.

Matadors Corraled By Nazareth 24-7

MATADOR (Special) — The Motley County Matadors drew first blood during Friday night's District 2-B North football action. But the struck vein immediately closed, and the visiting Nazareth Swifts swiftly jumped back to a 24-7 victory.

The loss left the Matadors with a 1-8 overall record, while the Swifts climbed to 5-3. In zone play, both teams are now 1-3.

The scoring started in the second quarter when Matador quarterback Julian Zabieliski hit flankerback Robert Parker on a 55 yard bomb. But Nazareth's Bryan Huseman then proceeded to rush for 159 yards, score two touchdowns and kick a 29 yard field goal in leading his team's comeback.

Nazareth outrushed and outpassed the Matadors — in addition to outscoring them.

'Birds Clinch 3-B East Championship

JAYTON (Special) — The Jayton Jaybirds clinched the District 3-B East championship Friday with a 54-0 win over the Garden City Bears.

The Jaybirds, now 4-0 in zone play and 7-2 overall, will face the District 3-B West champs Nov. 17. The 3-B West title is still up for grabs.

Quarterback Patrick Parker got Jayton on the scoreboard late in the opening period with a 45-yard touchdown pass to Kenny Kidd.

In the second quarter, the Jaybirds scored four times — on a 6-yard run by fullback Donnie Shipp, a 4-yard run by tailback Robert Segura, an 8-yard pass from Parker to Brian Cleveland, and a 20-yard pass from Parker to Joe McMeans.

During the third period, Parker scored from 1 yard out on a quarterback sneak, and Segura returned a Garden City punt 75 yards for a TD. Shipp wrapped up the scoring in the final quarter with a 9-yard touchdown carry.

Garden City, now 1-3 in district and 4-5 for the year, managed only six first downs, 28 yards rushing and 12 yards passing. Leading the Jayton defense were Kidd, Timmy Seaton and McMeans.

The Jaybirds rolled up 23 first downs, 244 yards rushing and 112 yards passing. Segura was the leading ball carrier with 132 yards on 22 attempts.

Early Scores Lift O'Donnell

SHALLOWATER (Special) — O'Donnell powered across two touchdowns in the first half to take a 14-0 win over Shallowater here Friday night in a District 5-A encounter.

Both teams were hampered by a driving rain that left a quarter inch of rain on the Shallowater stadium turf.

O'Donnell's first TD came in the first quarter with 3:37 remaining as Don Forbes rambled in from 2 yards out.

In the second quarter, Eagle quarterback Mike Heid sneaked over from the 1, then connected with end Raul Rodriguez for the 2-point conversion with 8:32 left in the half.

O'Donnell picked up 17 first downs in the contest to Shallowater's 13 with the Eagles picking up 210 yards total offense to the host Mustangs' 188.

Both teams now sport identical 5-3 season records.

Dawson Ties Sands On Late Touchdown

DAWSON (Special) — It may have been just another tale of kissing one's sister, but Dawson Dragon fans are happy that Jon Hataway was able to work up enough passion to score a late fourth quarter touchdown and extra point.

The scores enabled the Dragons to tie the visiting Sands Mustangs 22-22 in District 3-B West football action Friday and, yep, you guessed it: both teams also tied in penetrations with four apiece.

It was a see-saw battle all the way with Sands scoring the first, third and fifth touchdowns of the game, and Dawson following with the second, fourth and sixth.

As the old saying goes: he who laughs last, laughs loudest — or at least in equal volume. 22-22, folks.

SWC Leader Houston Hosts TCU; 'Horns Rest

By PAUL McGRATH
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
And then there were two.
Call it a coincidence perhaps, but the two remaining unbeaten teams in the Southwest Conference, Texas and Houston, are the league's past two representatives in the Cotton Bowl.

The two have also knocked off Arkansas and SMU in consecutive weekends. But there are other coincidences.

In 1976, the Cougars rode high with Danny Davis at the helm. Alas, the Texas Longhorns fuzled that year as their champion, the Earl of Campbell, nursed a leg injury.

A fall later, it was the Longhorns' turn in the Cotton Parade as the Tyler Rose captured college football's Holy Grail, the Heisman trophy. Meanwhile, Bill and his Yeoman took a back seat after Davis was carried from the field of honor early in the year.

Davis has returned to again perform his knightly deeds, aiding and abetting the destruction of Texas A&M, SMU and Arkansas in that order. While the Longhorns have no individual standout, their Round Table is adequately filled with 11 stingy men from the defense.

The Longhorns have a date with Open this week as they ready for what will likely determine the SWC champ, next Saturday's encounter with Houston. The contest will be staged in Memorial Stadium, where the Longhorns have not lost since losing on Thanksgiving 1976. Already this season two of the league's elite (SMU and Arkansas) have been taught a gridiron lesson in Austin, proving the schedule can be a valuable ally.

Tonight, the Cougars host F.A. Dry's TCU Horned Frogs in a 7:30 p.m. contest, one which has Yeoman casting a wary eye. He has faced Dry's former Tulsa squads twice, each team taking a win. The Cougars got the better of TCU last year 42-14.

The Houston game plan will be interesting to watch as they may attempt to conceal a few things from the Texas scouts.

Scouts of the bowl variety will be circulating in Dallas today as the Aggies and the Mustangs kick their heels in the Cotton Bowl before an estimated 66,000 fans and a regional television audience. The kickoff is tentatively slated for 3 p.m.

The fact that the winner of the contest may earn a bowl berth has not been lost on the respective coaches.

"This is a big game for us. We know if we want to go to a bowl that we have to win this one. We're not living in a pipe dream," Mustang mentor Ron Meyer said.

New Aggie boss Tom Wilson, whose 1-0 record gives him the best winning percentage amongst major college coaches, said, "We feel definitely it's a must game. Our football team understands the importance of the game as far as the bowl aspect."

Both coaches said they have been approached from various bowl committees, but declined to name names.

"If we win, we conceivably have a chance for a bowl," Meyer stated simply.

Wilson and Meyer agreed that the Aggie pass rush will be a key to the ball game. "I'm really impressed with (Jacob) Green and (Eugene) Sanders," Meyer said of the A&M defensive ends, pointing out that the Texas pass rush was greatly responsible for the Ponies' demise in Austin last Saturday.

"There's no question that the offense is outstanding," Wilson said, alluding to Mustang passing combo Mike Ford and Emanuel Tolbert. "They've also improved themselves with a strong defense."

Last season, the Mustangs led A&M 21-7 at the half before a rash of defensive injuries allowed the Aggies 31 second-half points. Ford threw two touchdown passes in that game.

"The Aggies are hard to figure," said Meyer. "They have a new coach and they have a big victory under their belt."

Wilson had his offense go for the bomb on their first play last Saturday against Rice, working for a 52-yard score. A&M also utilized a great deal of motion plays as the Wishbone disappeared for the first time in half a decade.

"We have a lot of new things in our offense that we'll add from week to week," Wilson said, giving hint of a few surprises.

But, little surprise awaits in the form of runningback Curtis Dickey, who returns to the lineup after a virtual three week absence.

"They're all well when they play the Mustangs," moaned Meyer.

The Arkansas Razorbacks, having been rudely been cast from the title picture, will be seeking to lick their wounds against Rice in a 1 p.m. contest at Fayetteville.

Owl coach Ray Alborn set his quarterback Randy Hertel in the shotgun against A&M, triggering 190 yards in air power and three touchdowns.

Alborn's counterpart, Lou Holtz, says his Hogs won't be preparing strictly for the shotgun. He said it takes about 1.2 seconds for Hertel to set up after taking a snap underneath and that the ball arrives in two-tenths of a second from the direct snap.

"By the time he adjusts the hemming and gets his feet set, you save maybe half a second," Holtz said. "I'm worried more about where the receivers are than where the quarterbacks are."

West Texas Takes On Tulsa

TULSA (Special) — Trivia question for the day: What do New Mexico State and Arkansas have in common?

Answer: They're the only two teams to beat Tulsa this year.

West Texas State, with its back to the wall in the Missouri Valley Conference, will try to become the third today as the Buffaloes stamped their 3-5 record into Skelly Stadium for a 1:30 p.m. date with destiny.

A loss would virtually eliminate any hopes WTSU might still entertain of returning the MVC crown to Canyon.

NMSU and Tulsa are tied for the division lead with only one conference loss a piece. The Buffs have lost twice.

Despite their 3-5 record, the Buffs have produced MVC players-of-the-week for the last two games. Fullback Bo Robinson won the honor following the 55-16 rout over Lamar for his 117 yards rushing. Then David Johnson did it in the 36-7 win over Indiana state for his 171 yards.

Robinson now has 3,235 career yards, an MVC record. He is now only 153 yards shy of the WT school mark established by Mercury Morris from 1966 to 1968.

Johnson is also working his way onto the WT record book. He has already topped the 1000-yard mark, and is taking 1,087 career yards into today's game.

Coach Bill Yung is pleased with his team's recent improvement.

"I feel good because we look so much better now than we did in the early part of the year. The players have a super attitude and that attitude has served as a springboard to a rejuvenated outlook."

"We certainly look forward to playing Tulsa in this big shootout. To me, our main challenge is the new five-game season. That's what we're working for. If we take care of our own housecleaning, the championship will take care of itself."

Fireworks Strike — Frenship Slips By Tahoka

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
There's a little white shed beside the Frenship football field. It has printed on it, in big bold red letters "FIREWORKS".

It's where Victor Bugg lives. He scored twice on lightning plays in the first half to make the Tigers believers and take them past Tahoka 28-13 in a key District 5-AA match.

The loss drops Tahoka, preseason fa-and Slaton, by virtue of their Friday night wins, join Frenship atop the district with one loss each.

Nobody gave the Tigers much of a chance coming into the game. After all, Tahoka had the most explosive backfield in recent memory and an unbreakable defense.

But Bugg broke the defense with a 54-yard scoring pass from Pat Gaston in the first period and then defused the Tahoka offense with an 85-yard return of an interception in the second to give Frenship enough points to get by the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs, operating without all-South Plains runningback Clifford Bailey, did pretty much as expected on their first possession. They drove 53 yards in 11 plays, scoring on a 4-yard run by Jerry Hatchett.

Bailey, who suffered a back injury last weekend and will be out for an indefinite period, had provided much of the fire for the Bulldog offense to date.

Without him, they were forced to run Hatchett at three different positions (quarterback, halfback and wingback) and rely on some trick formations to get their offense moving.

It worked the first time but not after that.

After Bugg's first score, Tahoka had two more tries at the ball in the first period. It could only pick up one first down.

Then, on the first possession of the second period, when the Bulldogs tried to go up top on third-and-1, Bugg was right there, picking the ball off at shoetop level and racing down the sideline to score.

With a 14-7 advantage, the Tigers began to feel a little more stunk.

Their defense stiffened consistently, holding Tahoka out of the end zone until the second half — and then on a play that would have scored on anybody.

Hatchett broke right behind perfect blocking and ran a sweep 54 yards to paydirt, just the way it was diagrammed in the playbook.

But by that time it was 21-13 as Ralph Gonzales had scored the first of his two touchdowns and the game, for all practical purposes, was over.

"It was a good game," understated Frenship coach John Parchman while hurrying off the field. His players still celebrated with some fans out in the middle, not wanting to end the night.

"That was the best effort we've had all year. Our offense was good but that was really the best defense we've played all year."

Of the Bulldogs trick formation at the beginning of the game, Parchman said, "It took us a while to adjust to that. I'm just glad they didn't stay in it."

"We played with real intensity tonight. It was a real big game for us, but we need to try and stay playing at this level all year. That is what will decide the season for us."

Frenship has road games with Post and Denver City remaining. Neither had won more than two games going into Friday night's contests.

Slaton, tied with Seminole and Frenship atop the district after beating Roosevelt 28-14, plays Seminole next week and then Tahoka.

Seminole closes the season with Cooper after playing Slaton.

Denver City Mauls Conference Rival

WOODROW (Special)—Denver City trounced Cooper 47-0 in a District 5-AA clash here Friday.

Tailback Broderick Williams raced for a 6-yard TD and quarterback J.D. Milligan hit tight end Mark Ivey with a 24-yard TD pass to boost the Mustangs to a 14-0 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Jerry Hill rushed for touchdowns of 7 and 2 yards to help spark the victory. Milligan connected with Ivey for a 9-yard TD pass in the third period. Greg Hix scored the final TD of the night on a 59-yard run.

Denver City is now 2-5, while Cooper is 1-7.

Hale Center Stages Comeback To Put Down Crosbyton 16-14

HALE CENTER (Special) — Kicker Trinidad Pardo booted a 32-yard field goal with two minutes remaining in the game to give Hale Center a come-from-behind 16-14 win over Crosbyton here Friday night in a battle between two District 4-A contenders.

The win enabled Hale Center to move into a three-way tie for first place in the district with idle New Deal and Lorenzo, a 26-13 winner over Ralls.

Hale Center, New Deal and Lorenzo all have 2-1 district records. The win hiked the Owls' season mark to 6-2, while Crosbyton fell to 5-2-1 for the year and 1-2 in district play.

The final moments of the game proved the most exciting as Hale Center trailed 14-7 going into the final quarter.

But with 5:35 left in the contest, Hale Center fullback Robert Smith sprinted 23 yards to paydirt. However, the PAT try failed and the Owls still trailed 14-13.

A heavy rain then hit the field and the slipperiness enabled Hale Center defensive end Gordon Compton to pounce on a Crosbyton fumble at the Chiefs' 33 to set up Pardo's winning field goal.

But Crosbyton was not through as the Chiefs moved down the field in the final two minutes. However, Hale Center's Mark Latspeich intercepted a Crosbyton pass with 1:30 left in the game to preserve the Owls' win.

Hale Center scored first in the contest as halfback Dale Gaston rambled 6 yards to the end zone with 6:54 left in the first quarter. David Trotter then booted the PAT.

Crosbyton came back to tie it with 16 seconds left in the opening stanza as quarterback Dale Stegal connected with Kelly Ferree on a 14-yard scoring pass. The PAT try was good, knotting the game at 7-7.

Crosbyton took the lead with 7:54 left in the third quarter as defensive back Chad Davis grabbed a fumble in mid-air and returned it 30 yards for a touchdown. The successful PAT gave the Chiefs a 14-7 lead.

Gaston was the top rusher for the game, leading the Owls' charge with 113 yards on 15 carries. Hale Center had 320 total yards and 15 first downs to Crosbyton's 190 yards and 10 first downs.

MULESHOE (Special) — Relying on a consistent ground game, Muleshoe plowed to a 28-8 victory over Olton here Friday.

The Mules notched a touchdown in each quarter of the District 3-AA contest to up their season slate to 7-1 and district slate to 3-0. The Mustangs are 3-5 for the year, 1-2 in district.

Quarterback Mike Northcutt rambled for 108 yards on 11 carries and scored two of the four Mule TDs to key the victory.

Northcutt tallied on an 8-yard run in the first period and kept for a 4-yard TD in the third stanza. Tailback Jeep Shanks tallied from the 5 in the second quarter.

Muleshoe's final score of the night came on an 8-yard run by fullback Charles Walker in the fourth quarter.

Olton quarterback Vance Stroeble hit wingback Charles Brown on a 20-yard TD aerial with two minutes left to play, and Danny Garcia ran for two extra points.

The Mules rushed for 286 yards and added 66 through the air while rolling up 21 first downs. Olton had ten first downs and 162 yards in offense.

Coronado triumphed in girls volleyball in Monterey in a District 4-AAAA volleyball match Friday night, by a 15-9, 15-6 margin.

Coronado was led by server Laura Richards with 8 points and spiker Beckie Lovett, who connected on 100 percent of her slams. Mindi Holloway had 11 points for Monterey.

CHS is now 17-13 on the year and 5-1 in district; it is defending district champion. Monterey fell to 4-2 in district play. The Coronado JV also won, upping its district mark to 6-0 with a 10-15, 15-10, 15-4 win.

Cooper Claws Big Spring

ABILENE (Special) — Terry Orr rushed for 152 yards on 25 carries and six touchdowns to lead Abilene Cooper to a 54-0 victory over District 5-AAAA foe Big Spring Friday night.

The win raised Cooper's season record to 5-3 and its district mark to 3-2. Big Spring fell to 0-8 and 0-5.

Kyle Stuard booted six PATs in the game and also returned a fumble 23 yards for a score in the third quarter. Kirk Russell provided the final TD on a 32-yard interception return.

Cooper's defense was solid throughout the game, holding Big Spring to 100 yards and 10 first downs. The defense forced three turnovers and intercepted four passes.

Coronado Triumphs In Girls Volleyball

Monterey in a District 4-AAAA volleyball match Friday night, by a 15-9, 15-6 margin.

Mustangs Nip Unlucky Cubs

BROWNFIELD (Special)—Wingback Greg Shane scored on a 30-yard pass play with only 1:08 left on the clock here Friday to give Sweetwater a 19-15 come-from-behind victory over Brownfield.

The visiting Mustangs scored two touchdowns with less than four minutes to play to win it.

It was a heartbreaking loss for the hometown Cubs, who led 9-7 at halftime and 15-7 early in the final period.

Mike Scott had run 5 yards on a dive play to give the Cubs the 15-7 lead with 8:19 to play.

The Cubs' first half points came on a 22-yard field goal by Eli Garcia and a 38-yard jaunt around end by halfback Gilbert Franco.

WHITEFACE (Special) — Fans of the District 2-B South Whiteface Antelopes should make plans now to flock to their team's support next Friday. The Antelopes are closing in on a Texas schoolboy record.

Only once in history has a Texas high school football team gone the entire season without scoring a point, but the Antelopes just may become the second.

The Antelopes entered Friday's game with the Lazbuddie Longhorns without memories of a score the entire season. Nothing has changed as Whiteface fell 44-0 to the 'Horns.

Whiteface managed but 85 yards rushing.

Meanwhile, Lazbuddie came out and scored on the first play from scrimmage. Charleston Steinbock pounded for a 45-yard TD run. On Lazbuddie's second play from scrimmage, Russell Windom ran 29 yards to paydirt.

Dunbar, Matadors Renew Rivalry

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Estacado coach Louis Kelley has never studied medicine, but the Matador mentor knows how to cure Dunbar's anemic record: Beat Estacado.

What does the doctor prescribe? "Two pep rallies a day for a week," quipped Kelley. "Those people at Dunbar really get up for this game. I know; I was a coach over there for 14 years."

Tonight, the Estacado Matadors and the Dunbar Panthers will renew their rivalry in a District 1-AAA game which will be 7:30 p.m.

In other city action, Western Hills Baptist Academy will host Calvary Christian of Clovis, N.M., this afternoon.

"Yes, it has been a bad year for Dunbar," said Kelley. "But just ask Van. He'll tell you that if Dunbar beats Estacado, it will make their season."

Though Dunbar coach Van Jefferson dismissed most of his rivals remarks as a lot of noise, the Panther coach did agree about the importance of beating Estacado.

"It definitely will help us," said Jefferson. "I'd even go so far as to say it would make us forget about our poor season."

Talk about a seeming mismatch... While Estacado's football success has been as big as 19th street, Dunbar on the other hand, has been running into a dead end. The Matadors will enter the contest with a 6-1 and 2-0 record, while the Panthers are 1-6 and 0-2.

However, according to Jefferson's law of rivalry-winning, the Panthers should be able to walk away from Lowrey Field tonight with win No. 2 under their belts.

"In the four years that I've been the head coach here, we've split with Estacado," said Jefferson. "Last year, they (Estacado) were the victors. So, now it's our turn."

Running Club Sets Buffalo Lake Races

The West Texas Running Club will sponsor a 13 and 2 mile races, Nov. 11, starting at 10 a.m. at Buffalo Springs Lake.

There will be classes for high school students, men and women. For more information contact race director Ray Lamont at 797-2460 or 743-2890.

The 13-mile distance will be for men and women's divisions. The three-mile course will be for open divisions, high school boys and girls, in addition to men's and women's classes.

Entry fee is $2 for WTRC members, $3 for nonmembers. This is in addition to the regular charge for entering Buffalo Springs Lake property.

Dunbar's quarterback situation has been about as mysterious as the return of Houdini.

For three consecutive weeks, the Panthers have lost signal callers to injury. The walking wounded include Daryl Green, Dewayne Williams and LeRoy Adams. Who will the Dunbars stick in the Lions' den this week?

"Darrell Harris and Paul DeLeon have been both working out at quarterback for us this week," said Jefferson. "We don't plan to change from our veer offense."

Does Dunbar's quarterback situation have an effect on Estacado's defensive preparation?

"No, said Kelley. "We are just going to try and adjust as the situation occurs."

Last week, Estacado edged Berger 20-14, while Canyon clobbered Dunbar 34-7. With Adams at the controls, Dunbar went to the air 24 times, the most the Panthers have thrown in a game this season.

"I hope they throw that much against us," said Kelley. "Because that will mean we'll have shut down their rushing game."

Will Dunbar try add a few wrinkles to its offense against Dunbar?

"You never know what we might do," said Jefferson.

But what Jefferson knows the Panther defense must do is control Estacado's sweep plays.

"We've been definitely working that in practice," said Jefferson. "Our kids are going to get after Estacado. We'll give them everything they can handle."

WHBA-CALVARY

Western Hills Baptist Academy will host Calvary Christian of Clovis, N.M. this afternoon at 2:30.

Western Hills Baptist coach Jim Briggs believes the running game will be the deciding factor in the contest.

Western Hills, playing in its first Saturday game this season, will enter the contest with a 5-3 record. Calvary, will come into the game with a 4-4 slate.

Three-Way Splashes Loop In 25-6 Win

MAPLE (Special)—The Three-Way Eagles tied Loop in a knot here Friday night by a score of 25-6 as both teams splashed through a hard rainstorm during the contest.

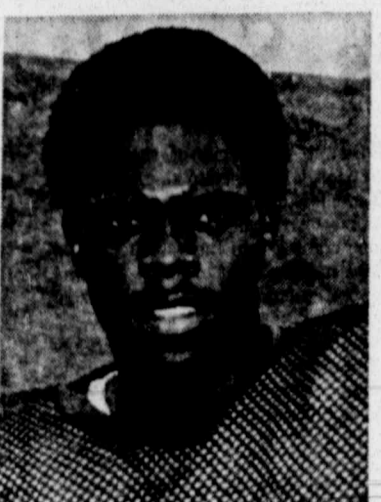

Loop got on the scoreboard first on a 50-yard gallop by tailback Barren Arincina in the opening period. The try for extra point failed.

The Eagles countered with a pair of scores before the first quarter ended, the first coming on a 40-yard run by tailback James Simpson less than a minute after the Longhorns went ahead. The missed PAT left the score tied at 6-6 until fullback Mike Nichols punched over from 2 yards out.

The Eagles padded their lead with touchdowns in the second and third quarters. Quarterback Wayne Parkman connected with split end Keith Layton on a 30-yard pass and Layton then scored two more points on a conversion pass from James Simpson.

Nichols closed the night's scoring by recovering a blocked punt in the Longhorn end zone.

Three-Way moved its record to 5-3 with the win while District 3-B rival Loop fell to 4-4.

TIGHT END — Fred Ivory, former Estacado athlete, is working as a reserve tight end at Eastern New Mexico University. He could be playing against Panhandle today.

Union Takes Two Wins

UNION (Special)—The Union boys and girls basketball teams both scored wins over Bledsoe Thursday night to open their season.

Led by Gregg Wilks' 31 points, the boys won 65-46 and the girls, keyed by 10 points apiece from Jean Faght and Dixie Hooper, triumphed 30-15. Stacey Dunn with 14 points and Valinda Davis with five led the Bledsoe attack in the contests.

OFFICIALS NEEDED

Persons interested in officiating or scorekeeping for the YMCA basketball program are asked to attend a meeting at the Y Sunday at 7 p.m. For more information contact Gail Aleman at 795-4578.

ENMU Plays Panhandle In Dust Bowl

GOODWELL, Okla. (Special) — The Dust Bowl has returned to eastern New Mexico and the Oklahoma Panhandle, but it is not of the windy variety. The Dust Bowl is an annual football game between Eastern New Mexico University and Panhandle State University.

The third Dust Bowl clash between the Greyhounds and the Aggies will get underway here today at 7:30 p.m.

Eastern won the first Dust Bowl game, also played in Goodwell, by outscoring the Aggies 52-6 in 1975. In 1976 the Hounds dumped Panhandle 33-3 in Greyhound Stadium. The game was not played in 1977 due to scheduling conflicts.

Under the guidance of new starting quarterback, Doug Patton, the Greyhounds enter the tilt following a startling 14-13 over traditionally tough Northern Colorado last week. ENMU now holds a 4-4 won-loss mark under first-year coach Dunny Goode.

Patton, a junior who transferred to Eastern last year, connected on 12-16 attempts for 213 yards and two touchdowns against Northern Colorado.

Eastern's impressive passing attack was coupled with the rushing effort of sophomore runningback Julius Hill, who ramblred for 128 yards against the Bears.

Meanwhile, Panhandle, having a tough go this season under first-year coach Don Cortez, owns a lackluster 1-6 mark. The team's lone victory was a 14-12 win over Langston University.

Maryland, Penn State Match Glossy Records

By The Associated Press
The capital of college football these days is not Norman, Okla., or State College, Pa., or Tuscaloosa, Ala., or Lincoln, Neb., but rather a little corner of eastern Maryland which is home to the University of Maryland and the U.S. Naval Academy.

Although the Terrapins of Maryland and the Midshipmen of Navy are two of the nation's four unbeaten-untied major teams, both are underdogs today. Maryland, No. 5 in The Associated Press ratings, visits State College for a nationally televised clash with second-ranked Penn State while 11th-ranked Navy is in Cleveland for a battle with No. 15 Notre Dame's twice-beaten defending national champs.

"No one expected either team to be this good," says Maryland coach Jerry Claiborne. "We're enjoying it, they're enjoying it and it's good for this area, where all you usually hear about is the Redskins."

Elsewhere, top-rated Oklahoma visits Colorado, third-ranked Alabama meets Mississippi State in Birmingham, No. 4 Nebraska is at Kansas, sixth-ranked Southern Cal at Stanford and No. 8 Michigan at Iowa while ninth-ranked UCLA entertains Oregon and No. 10 Houston plays host to TCU in a night contest.

Texas, the No. 8 team, is idle, while the schedule for the Second Ten lists Mississippi at No. 12 LSU, VMI at No. 13 Georgia, Northwestern at No. 14 Purdue, No. 16 Clemson at Wake Forest, Rice at No. 17 Arkansas, No. 18 Michigan State at Illinois, No. 19 Pitt at Syracuse and Arizona at No. 20 Washington.

Claiborne calls the Maryland-Penn State clash "what college football is all about." He also says the Nittany Lions are rather awesome.

"Penn State is great and we're outstanding," he says. "This is the best Penn State team since I've been at Maryland. Their linemen look like they all came out of the same mold — between 6-3 and 6-5 and 240-250 pounds. And (quarterback Chuck) Fusina gives them a dimension they haven't had in the past, especially on long passes. He hits two or three long ones in every game."

Penn State owns the nation's longest winning streak at 16 in a row while Maryland has a 12-game skien going. Penn State, led by tackles Bruce Clark and Matt Millen, leads the nation in rushing defense but Navy's no-name unit is No. 1 nationally in total defense, yielding only 158.1 yards per game — Penn State is third — and scoring defense (5.0 points per game). The Middies are second against the pass. Maryland, by the way, ranks No. 4 in total defense, seventh in rushing defense and fifth in scoring defense.

Following last week's convincing 21-11 triumph over Pitt, Navy is finally starting to get some respect.

"We have a lot more confidence and a lot more credibility after beating Pitt," says coach George Welsh. "I was worried about the Pitt game. Our players haven't experienced that kind of thing before. The team felt it was a very big game and I wondered how they'd react. They survived the test very well. The defense did an exceptional job."

How about Notre Dame, which had to erase a 17-7 fourth-quarter deficit to beat Pitt 26-17 earlier in the season?

"It's another important game," says Welsh, "but I don't think it's that a big game, as such. Let's wait and see how things shape up at the end of the season. I do think we have a good chance to beat them because of the way our defense is playing."

Navy, however, has Notre Dame coach Dan Devine convinced.

"There's no question about the validity of this Navy team," he says. "We have been told that this is the best Navy team since the days of Roger Staubach. We know exactly what we must do to get ready and we realize what kind of challenge we are facing. And I guarantee you our players will understand these things, too."

"Navy obviously has generated momentum with such a good start and with last week's victory over a good football team like Pitt. With their record and last Saturday's victory, the confidence becomes a real factor."

Linebacker Bob Golic agrees. "The players have a lot of enthusiasm about this game," he says. "We still remember the near-miss two years ago in Cleveland and most of those Navy players are back this year. They're scrappy and disciplined and you just never count on them quitting or being overawed by any opponent."

Switching from offense to defense, Oklahoma leads the nation in three categories — total offense (493.2 yards per game), rushing offense (418.7) and scoring (42.0 points per game). And halfback Billy Sims, now second nationally behind Cornell's Joe Holland, will be shooting for his third 200-yard game in a row, which would tie a major college record.

"These next three (Colorado, Nebraska and Oklahoma State) are going to be the heart of our schedule, it looks like," says coach Barry Switzer.

"What do I need to say about Colorado? We've won only two of our last six up there. I think people tend to remember only that they lost to Oklahoma State and Nebraska and not that their record is 6-2. That's a darned good record and shows me they can play. It's going to be a hard, close game like it always is. They'll be ready to play Oklahoma. Everybody usually is."

Mississippi State has contributed mightily to Bear Bryant's overall coaching record of 280-77-16. The Bear's 1952 Kentucky team lost to Mississippi State while he had three victories over the Bulldogs at Kentucky and is 20-0 against them since coming to Alabama.

Naturally, though, the Bear is worried.

Raiders, Baylor Seek To Continue Streaks

With an open date, the Raiders tried to get some of their walking wounded to running. This also gave Johnson a chance to step up from the second unit.

But, the junior from Corpus who started the year as a quarterback aspirant, will split time with freshman Phil Weatherall at tailback.

The quarterback will be Ron Reeves, the freshman from Monterey. Baylor will be guided by Steve Smith, a transfer from UTEP, with senior Steve Howell (214) at fullback and freshman Walter Abercrombie (195) at tailback.

Abercrombie, after playing only a game and a half, is the Bears' leading rusher with 374 yards, and a whopping 8.1 yards per carry.

But, the Bears' defense has Dockery worried. In the middle are tackles Joe Campbell (253) and Gary Don Johnson (250), with Mike Singletary at middle linebacker.

"This threesome is what Tech will have to break up, Dockery said.

"We really haven't changed that much," said Teaf of the sudden turnaround in the season. "Our offense is exactly the same except for tailback, where injuries forced all those changes from Greg Hawthorne to Frank Pollard to Abercrombie.

"And, on defense, we have four defensive ends that have started, and our four tackles have played almost equal time. Our linebackers are the same, four cornerbacks have started at various times."

Dockery has said that he felt that the game will be a high-scoring affair, but to reach this level, the teams could have to spend a lot of time en route to the goal or strike for long distances.

Tech owns the No. 1 punter in the land in freshman Maury Buford. His 46.7-yard average is tops in the nation, and Baylor's Luke Prestridge is fifth with a 44.2-yard average on 34 boots.

Also, Tech possesses kicker Bill Adams who hasn't missed a field goal this year, but he has not had try once since the A&M game.

After today, the Raiders will head out of town again, to Fort Worth next Saturday to play TCU.

Hancock, Fergus Cop Team Golf Top Spot

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Phil Hancock and Keith Fergus mastered swirling winds for another 9-under-par 63 to take a 3-stroke lead after the second round of the Disney World National Team Golf Classic Friday.

Hancock, a former University of Florida star in his second year on the pro circuit, dumped in five birdies and Fergus birdied all four par-5s en route to a 36-hole total score of 126 in the unique best-ball PGA event.

Brothers Lanny and Bobby Watkins were tied with the team of Wayne Levi and Bob Mann for second place at 15-under 129.

Four other two-man teams — including first-round co-leaders Bill Calfee and Eddie Pearce — were next at 14-under 130.

The best round of the day belonged to Forrest "Fuzzy" Fezler and Larry Ziegler, who sank seven birds, one eagle, one double eagle and one bogey for a 61. This put them among the four teams tied for third.

"We've got a lot of confidence, that's the name of the game out here," said Fergus, a University of Houston product who placed 58th in 1978 PGA money winnings to gain a 1979 qualifying exemption.

"The wind played a big factor today," said the 25-year-old Hancock, who also finished in the top 60 money winners this season.

Hancock-Fergus played the par-72, 7,197-yard Magnolia course as did the Wadkins brothers and Levi-Mann. Fezler-Ziegler toured the adjoining par-72, 6,951-yard Palm course.

At 13-under par 131 were Marty Fleckman-Dale Hiskey, Bob Duval-David Eger and Dan Pohl-Bill Sander. Duval-Eger combined for a 62 on the shorter Palm course.

Also in the third spot at 130 along with Calfee-Pearce and Fezler-Ziegler were veterans Miller Barber-Don January and Frank Conner-Orville Moody.

Hancock-Fergus and Calfee-Pearce had shared the first-day lead of 63 with Joe Porter and Bob Zender, who fell to 11-under 133.

The field was cut to the low 58 teams — shooting 136 and under — Friday for the final two rounds, which will be played on the tougher Magnolia course.

Cotton Center Keeps Record Unblemished

GRADY (Special) — Cotton Center struck for three touchdowns in the final quarter here Friday to break open a close six-man ball game and defeat Grady 32-8.

Alvin Garcia scored on runs of 33 and 3 yards in the final stanza, while Jamey Johnson escaped for a 65-yard TD romp. Johnson rushed 116 yards on 16 attempts for the night.

David Castilleja had hit Garcia with a 38-yard TD pass in the first period and connected with a 47-yard scoring toss to James Garibay in the third quarter.

Grady's scores came on a 1-yard TD run by Ruben Gutierrez and a safety. The safety came when end Alex Perez tackled Castilleja in the end zone.

Dimmitt Bobcats Roll Past Morton

MORTON (Special) — The game was a series of close splashes for the first half, but the second half saw the visiting Dimmitt Bobcats use the Morton Indians for a slip 'n' slide and roll up enough points for a 33-14 victory.

Dennis Veals was the big gun for Dimmitt in this rain plagued contest, scoring four of his team's five TDs. Jack Stewart scored on a quarterback sneak for the other Bobcat TD. Runningback David Moore scored both of Morton's touchdowns, on an 11-yard run and a 11-yard pass from Joe Bob Wynn.

Soccer Match Slated

The Texas Tech soccer team will take on a squad from West Texas State today at 10:30 a.m. at the Tech track stadium.

and directed this, but don't expect humor. It's very serious — and very good, if you can take the heaviness. It's the story of a family full of hidden (and not-so-hidden) problems and emotional traumas. Beautifully photographed and acted, but dark and somber. GRADE: A-minus.

GENERAL RELEASE
THE BIG FIX (PG) — Richard Dreyfuss, Susan Anspach, Bonnie Bedelia. Mystery. A curious combination of the old — a private eye — and the new — he's now involved with campus activists — that somehow works beautifully. It's well-plotted, well-acted, well-made. A bit of wit, plus suspense and surprises. GRADE: A.

REMEMBER MY NAME (R) — Geraldine Chaplin, Anthony Perkins. Drama. A girl ex-convict makes life miserable for her ex-husband and his new wife, in a film that has some dramatic moments and some foolish ones. If you can overlook the latter, you'll find the film memorable. Caution: Gutter language. GRADE: B-plus.

UP IN SMOKE (R) — Cheech and Chong, Stacy Keach. Comedy. The far-out comedy team makes its movie debut with this far-out film. The plot may offend — the two are frankly trying to buy some drugs — but you find yourself laughing anyhow. Good rock music along the way. Strictly for the '20s crowd. GRADE: B.

WHO IS KILLING THE GREAT CHEFS OF EUROPE? (PG) — George Segal, Jacqueline Bisset. Comedy-mystery. Against a background of Europe and, especially, great European restaurants, there is a murderer at large. This works very hard — perhaps too hard — to be cute and amusing as it toddles along. The recipe badly needs a pinch of calmness, because it is too contrived. GRADE: B.

Newspapers Struggling To End Costly Strikes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Times and Daily News Friday reached tentative contract agreements with their delivery drivers and hurried to complete negotiations with four other unions in the hope of returning to the newsstands Sunday.

The two major morning dailies, idled for 86 days by a pressmen's strike, said they could still put out lucrative Sunday editions if they can settle with the remaining unions by Saturday.

The Times and News attained tentative three-year pacts with the 3,100-member Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union Friday morning after a 18-hour bargaining session.

Douglas LaChance, head of the drivers union, said the contract would go to the union's executive board later Friday and, if approved, he would waive a rank-and-file ratification vote.

Earlier, the News reached a tentative agreement with its 100 striking delivery truck mechanics. A ratification vote was not immediately scheduled.

The tentative settlement with the drivers helped clear the way for the pressmen's union to hold a ratification vote on the six-year contract they reached Wednesday. No time was set, however, for that vote.

William Kennedy, head of the 1,500-member pressmen's union whose Aug. 9 walkout shut down the papers, has held up the vote until the drivers and stereotypers reach settlements.

The 400-member stereotypers union, which is not on strike, was to resume negotiations about noon.

Two other striking unions, the 300-member paperhandlers union and the 200-member machinists union, were scheduled to resume negotiations at 6 p.m.

Talks between the Times and the Newspaper Guild, which is not striking, are stalled and no new sessions are scheduled. Guild executive Harry Fisdell said both sides were "far from agreement."

The agreement with the drivers — the most powerful newspaper union in the city — was reached when the Times and News agreed to a new contribution formula to help bail out the deficit-ridden union welfare fund.

LaChance announced the settlement at 7:15 a.m. Friday, saying: "Arrangements have been made that will make the welfare fund solvent the length of the contract." He had claimed the fund was $500,000 in the red.

He called the pact "complicated and unique," and said it involved a new source of funding but declined to give details.

John Mortimer, Times senior vice president, said the contract was one "we can live with."

THE BOYS FROM BRAZIL (R) — Gregory Peck, Laurence Olivier. Thriller. From Ira Levin's gripping novel, this deals with some scientific dirty work the left-over Nazis are up to in South America — including murders all over the world. It works out to be a very nasty plot, but scary. The cast all use different accents, which is disconcerting, but it will keep you watching. Caution: It gets pretty bloody at the end. GRADE: B-plus.

DEATH ON THE NILE (PG) — Peter Ustinov, David Niven, Bette Davis, Mia Farrow, etc. Mystery. Agatha Christie's dandy puzzler turned into a classy murder mystery. A much-hated heiress is done in aboard a Nile cruise ship and Hercule Poirot tries to find whodunit. More red herrings than you'll find at a Moscow smorgasbord, and an all-star cast to bring them to life. GRADE: A-minus.

Studio Files Copyright Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — A magazine featuring "famous monsters" was accused in a lawsuit Friday of adopting "Battlestar Galactica" as its main cover title to illegally capitalize on the success of the science fiction series.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Manhattan by Universal Studios, Inc., producers and developers of the popular television show.

The defendant, Warren Publishing Co., of Manhattan, put out a series of 149 publications with "Famous Monsters" as a cover title. Universal claims the 149th issue had the title "Famous Monsters" in small letters beneath the inscription of "Battlestar Galactica" in bold type. The suit charged that the publisher was knowingly infringing on Universal's copyrights by taking advantage of the "enormous popularity and good will" of "Battlestar Galactica" and selling large numbers of issues at $1.50 each.

In the suit, Universal asked that the publisher be enjoined from using the newly adopted title and be forced to turn over all profits resulting from the alleged infringement.
