Hance Edges Bush In Congressional Contest

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

VOTERS in Lubbock and surrounding counties opted for legislative experience and a hometown boy Tuesday by capping the election of Kent Hance over George Bush in the 19th Congressional District.

Although Bush, a 32-year-old oil producer, swept his home county of Midland with 76.8 percent of the tally, voters in the northern portion of the 19th Congressional District appeared to be solidly behind Hance, a 35-year-old Lubbock attorney with one term in the state senate.

However, Lubbock voters, who voted heavier than ever before in a non-presidential general election, made the final decision.

Hance was victorious in all but three southern counties in the district, winning 52,890 votes (with three boxes missing) or 53 percent to Bush's 46,922 or 47 percent.

Bush won only Andrews, Midland and Ector Counties in the district.

Following his victory, Hance credited two deciding factors in swinging the election in his favor.

He cited his previous legislative experience during four years in the state senate from the 28th District and his "good organization" of volunteer workers who were able to get the Hance voters to the polls.

However, a strong underlying factor was suggested by the reluctance of Lubbock voters to elect a congressman who did not call Lubbock home.

Alluding to the often heated race between himself and Bush, Hance said the two men were friends "even though we disagreed — we disagreed without being disagreeable."

"George called and conceded and was very nice," Hance said. "I enjoyed the opportunity to get to know him."

Bush echoed the same sentiments, and said he wishes "Kent and Carol well in Washington."

"I hope they carry the cause well there."

The son of Republican presidential hopeful George Bush had no analysis of the election results, but said he had needed "45 or 46 percent of the vote in Lubbock."

Bush said he didn't have any plans for the future besides holding a noon news conference in Lubbock today and "going back to my business for now."

"I'm very proud of our campaign and very thankful of the number of the friends we made during the campaign," Bush said.

Hance said he plans several weeks of thanking his campaign staff and volunteers before putting together a "good staff for an efficient office."

Hance is only the second congressman ever from the 19th Congressional District, succeeding 78-year-old George Mahon who is retiring after 22 terms in office.

The predominantly rural counties north of Lubbock, which claim Dimmitt-born Hance as a native son, accounted for 33.5 percent of the 99,812 total votes cast in the district.

Those counties backed Hance by a margin of 77.6 percent to Bush's 22.4 percent.

However, the reverse was true in Bush's home territory south of Lubbock. The eight counties south of Lubbock, which comprised 39.7 percent of the total votes, gave Bush 60.7 percent of that support.

Lubbock voters cast 36.2 percent of the

Salinas, Robnett Leading

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

INCUMBENT Froy Salinas, who evidently will hold his District 75-B state representative seat another term, apparently will be accompanied to Austin by Nolan "Buzz" Robnett in the District 75-A position.

After trailing Republican challenger David Hester early in vote tallies, Salinas rallied Tuesday night to hold his seat by an apparent 5,206 to 4,125 margin.

For the second consecutive time, Democrat Xen Oden failed in her bid for the District 75-A seat, evidently losing to Robnett by 9,663 votes to 12,825.

In conceding defeat, Mrs. Oden, a 50-year-old civic leader and businesswoman, said there is "no question in my mind" that Robnett's recent television commercials contributed to his win.

Commercials Charged Sexist

Mrs. Oden charged last week that those commercials were sexist because they implied she as a woman did not have the physical stamina to function as a legislator.

She said Tuesday night she still believes the commercials are sexist and that they were a "significant" factor in her apparent defeat.

"Other than two letters (to voters), that's all he did" to campaign, Mrs. Oden explained.

Robnett Disputes Charge

Robnett countered her charge Tuesday, saying the only place sexism existed during the campaign "is in her mind."

"We certainly didn't mean to generate a male-female campaign issue, the 37-year-old Republican realtor claimed. The campaign was "just issue-oriented and had nothing to do with gender." He attributed his apparent victory to "hard work in general" and said he plans to do the same in Austin, "fighting the bureaucracy."

In claiming evident victory, Salinas said he believes "people apparently felt like we were doing a good job and wanted us to continue to work for them."

The only issue in the race was "who can do the best job for Lubbock down in Austin," Salinas, a 39-year-old life insurance salesman, said.

When asked whether his incumbency gave him an edge, he replied, "Well, I imagine it helped."

Early returns showed Hester, 50, edging out Salinas. But the incumbent said he was not worried. "The Republicans vote absentee because they don't have anything else to do," he quipped, in reference to Hester's 154 absentee votes against his 113.

Salinas also dismissed as probably neg-

Short Elected State Senator

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

E.L. SHORT, a drawing farmer and rancher from Tahoka, Tuesday appeared to have carried all 13 counties in the 28th state senatorial district. He beat Republican Joe Robbins by almost a 2-1 margin, according to unofficial tallies.

Short, 53, a Democrat who has been out of politics since a defeat in 1976, drew 49,095 votes, or about 64 percent of the ballots cast, preliminary returns show.

Robbins, a television news reporter who for the past two years has been state representative — often a controversial one — for Lubbock's westside District 75-A, got 27,677 votes, or 36 percent.

Complete but unofficial tabulations indicate that Short captured every county. In Lubbock, he had 23,072 votes (61 percent) to Robbins's 14,627 (39 percent). Robbins did somewhat better in GOP-oriented Ector County, where he got 8,155 votes (44 percent) to Short's 10,265 votes (56 percent).

Short won in a landslide in the rural counties between Lubbock and Odessa. He had such substantial edges as 1,712 to 368 in Crosby County; 1,165 to 455 in Yoakum County; 2,281 to 743 in Terry County; 1,995 to 258 in Lynn County and 837 to 157 in Martin County.

"I am at a complete loss to interpret the great numbers of votes I got. I thought I had the support to win. I didn't think I'd win this big," Short said.

He said much of the support might be attributed to his seven years as state representative for the seven southernmost counties in District 28 from 1969 to 1976. Short lost a bid for re-election to the House two years ago to Jim Rudd of Brownfield.

"I've had experience, and people remember that. Also, for the past 14 months I've conducted a people-to-people campaign," Short said.

Short said that in returning to the state Capitol, he will make funding for a proposed nursing school at Texas Tech University his "No. 1 priority."

"I also want to do something about the Speedy Trial Act. We've got to do something to help judges clear up their dockets before the Speedy Trial Act forces them to dismiss cases and let people loose," he said.

Robbins, 44, was unavailable for comment. However, he said in a previous interview that, should he lose the senatorial race, he would take "consolation in the fact that I've prompted my opponent to change his mind on certain issues and to go on record with what I believe is the thinking of West Texans."

Robbins had been on the offensive throughout the campaign, accusing Short

Tower, Clements Regain Leads; Tax Relief Passes

A-J News Services

DALLAS — Republicans John Tower and Bill Clements, bolstered by strong support in the state's metropolitan areas, struggled to shaky leads over Democrats Bob Krueger and John Hill in races for the U.S. Senate and governor Tuesday, in the GOP's strongest bid ever to break Democratic domination of Texas politics.

It appeared unlikely either of the races would be decided before later today as mechanical problems slowed tabulation of votes to a crawl.

A breakdown of votes by the Texas Election Bureau showed both Tower and Clements gaining steadily in votes from metropolitan and urban counties, while Hill and Krueger were ahead in rural counties — the traditional backbone of Democratic strength in Texas.

Latest Returns

Returns at 1:20 a.m. today from 237 of the state's 254 counties, 139 complete, showed Tower leading Krueger, a Shakespearean scholar who gave up an academic career for a try at politics, 904,604 to 885,700, and Clements ahead of Hill by a margin of 931,600 to 903,826.

day night. Propositions 1, 4 and 5 led by more than two-to-one margins. And propositions 5, 6 and seven seemed headed for approval with margins that varied between 12,000 and 32,000 votes.

The tax measure, the stepchild of last summer's special legislative session, led by 129,624 votes for to 19,545 against.

In state legislative races, influential Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, took a strong lead over his Republican opponent Tuesday in early returns from one of the state's hottest Senate races.

Another Fort Worth area senator, Republican Betty Andujar, lagged behind Rep. Roy English in inconclusive returns from a smattering of the 115 boxes in her district.

Meier, chairman of the Sunset Advisory Commission which is reviewing two dozen state agencies for possible erasure by the 1979 Legislature, led Drusilla Sheldon of Southlake by a 3-2 margin in first returns.

Oil, Farm Areas Differ In Trends

By CANDY SAGON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

IN THE two most hotly contested statewide races — that of governor and U.S. Senator — South Plains voters in basically urban and oil-producing areas turned out in strong numbers for the Republican candidates, while rural farm voters seemed to vote heavily Democratic.

Unofficial returns from the 33 South Plains counties showed Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements with a 17,355 vote lead over Democratic challenger John Hill, and incumbent John Tower, a Republican, with a 10,839 vote lead over Democratic opponent Bob Krueger.

South Plains voters also gave Republican attorney general candidate Jim Baker a narrow 2,000-vote advantage over former secretary of state and Democrat Mark White.

Totals for Lubbock County showed residents voting strongly for Republicans Clements, Tower and Baker, with Democrats winning more votes only in other less disputed races.

Unofficial final vote tallies for Lubbock County showed 21,005 gubernatorial votes cast for Clements to Hill's 16,900. Republican Tower garnered 20,380 votes in the U.S. Senate race to Krueger's 15,012, while GOP attorney general candidate Baker received 20,011 ballots to Democrat White's 17,429.

Voters in oil-rich Andrews, Ector, Martin, Midland and Scurry Counties voted decisively Republican in the governor, lieutenant governor and U.S. Senate races, in some cases choosing the GOP candidate by more than two to one over the Democrat.

Voters in those counties, however, reversed that trend when it came to other contested statewide races, joining their farm neighbors in balloting strongly for the Democratic candidates in the races for attorney general and the unexpired term on the Railroad Commission.

Residents in the mostly rural counties of Briscoe, Cottle, Crosby, Hall, Kent and Lynn gave Democrats their cross the board support, voting nearly three to one in every case against GOP contenders.

An example of the oil-farm vote split in the gubernatorial race could be seen between Ector and Crosby Counties. Agricultural Crosby County voters cast 1,473 ballots for Democrat Hill to 668 for Clements, while oil producing Ector County went strongly Republican, voting 13,491 for Clements to only 5,174 for Hill.

In the U.S. Senate race, rural Kent County gave Krueger a resounding 307 votes to Tower's 180, while Midland

Iran Arrests Ex-High Officials

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's two-day-old military government, trying to quell violent opposition to the monarch's authoritarian rule, announced the arrests Tuesday of at least 35 former ministers and ranking civil officials.

At the same time, officials at Reza Pahlavi Hospital said retired air force Gen. Ali Mohammed Khademi, dismissed as managing director of Iran Air, died from a gunshot wound received Sunday. The officials said they believed the wound was self-inflicted, but a member of the general's family said he was attacked at his house in a Tehran suburb by unidentified youths.

Khademi was dismissed as managing director of the national airline in a conciliatory gesture to the country's majority Shiite Muslims. He is a member of the minority Bahai sect. Many of his co-religionists also were dismissed from their positions in August when the government of Jaafar Sharif-Emami took over.

There was no indication when Tehran's daily newspapers, all but one of which ceased publication Monday because of censorship imposed under the martial law, would resume publication. The only publishing paper was a small economic daily. The country was kept informed by official announcements over state controlled radio and television.

The government warned that persons violating martial law regulations would be dealt with severely. Forty tanks were moved into the capital from garrisons on the outskirts of the city to bolster armor already on guard at key points.

Many banks remained closed as well as shops in and near the giant bazaar, which has been the launching point of much of the unrest in the past weeks. Scores of bank branches were destroyed by rioters Sunday and their records scattered or burned. Bank officials calmed apprehensive customers by announcing that records of their deposits were on computer file with the Central Bank.

Unconfirmed reports said supporters of influential Shiite holy man Ayatollah Khomeini, in exile in Paris, had called for a mass demonstration today near the city's bazaar. The government, apparently responding to the reports, moved tanks and armored personnel carriers into the area.

Fuel was in short supply in the capital because of a three-day-old strike by truck drivers. Army drivers tried to fill the gap moving supplies to gas stations between curfew hours in effect between 9 p.m. and 5 a.m.

Orthodox Moslems are demanding an end to the Shah's Westernization reforms which they say contradict the teachings of the Koran, the Moslem holy book. The religious protesters have been joined by the political opposition, seeking democratic reforms, freedom for political prisoners and an end to martial law, and hundreds of thousands of strikers who want more pay and better working conditions.

Scattered violence erupted in downtown Tehran Tuesday, but there were no serious clashes as demonstrators fled before troops arrived. Small groups of anti-government demonstrators tried to approach Tehran University as troops closed off streets leading to the campus, but they dispersed as troops fired into the air. Witnesses said several youths were beaten by club-wielding police.

Military police arrested about 35 of the 52 persons on a government wanted list on charges ranging from corruption to misuse of power and authority.

Among those arrested was Manuchehr Azemoun, minister of state in the outgoing Cabinet of Prime Minister Jaafar Sharif-Emami, which resigned Sunday at the peak of anti-shah rioting, and Gen. Mentullah Nasiri, former head of SAVAK, the Iranian secret police. Also arrested were former ministers Daryush Homayun, information, Reza Sedeghiani, rural development, Iraj Vahidi, water and power, Manuchehr Taslami, trade, and Hushang Arbabi, deputy director of the War Ministry. All were former members of Amir Abbas Hoveida's government which resigned last year after 13 years.

The nation's 37,000 oil industry employees continued the weeklong strike that has deprived the economy of more than $400 million in crude oil export revenues. Officials said daily production was about two million barrels. National Iranian Oil Co. officials said production normally is six million barrels a day. The daily production was meeting most domestic needs, they said.

Some oil experts said the cutback in Iran's production was quickly drying up the oil surplus that has been on the market for the past year or so. Dut Sheik Ali Khalifa al-Sabah, the oil minister of Kuwait who also is president of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, said the cutback does not endanger the supply to world markets. He said industrial countries can fall back on strategic stockpiles to compensate for lost supplies from Iran.

Local Minister Resigns To Accept Dallas Post

Saying that he has accomplished all he wanted to in Lubbock, the senior minister of Trinity Church and one-time candidate for Congress has resigned his post.

The Rev. Morris Sheats, senior minister at the church since 1964 and a former Democratic candidate for the U.S. 19th Congressional District seat being vacated by Rep. George Mahon, announced his resignation and gave his last sermon to the congregation Sunday night. The Rev. Vyrlie Pember, the church's new senior minister, was introduced at the meeting.

Pember, after being formally approved by the church's council, will be installed as the church's new senior minister Nov. 19.

Pember is pastor of the 1,500-member Bethel Church in Wichita, Kan., a trans-denominational church, where he has served as pastor for 20 years.

Sheats is leaving the Lubbock church to become senior minister of Beverly Hills Baptist Church in Dallas, an independent Baptist church.

Discussing his resignation, Sheats said he had done what he set out to do in Lubbock and added that there were no internal problems within the church that brought about his resignation.

Since assuming the position of senior minister, Sheats led the Lubbock church from a membership of approximately 100 members in 1964 to more than 4,000 today. During his ministry at the church, the congregation has had eight separate building programs. The latest program, a $1.2 million sanctuary, was dedicated in late August.

THE REV. MORRIS SHEATS

Sheats is a 1958 graduate of Monterey High School, where he served as student body president. He graduated in 1962 from Texas Tech University with a bachelor of arts degree. He also graduated from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth and did graduate work at Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University in Dallas and Brite Divinity School at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth.

The former Lubbock minister has served as an associate pastor at First Assembly of God and Highland Assembly of God and pastor of Highland Assembly of God.

While senior minister at Trinity Church, Sheats was in charge of the 75-member staff and oversaw the operation of Trinity Bible Institute.

He was past president of the Lubbock Ministers Association and has published several books and numerous articles. He is a past member of the Lubbock Civic Symphony Board and active in the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, the Southwest Lubbock Rotary Club, Water Incorporated, the Lubbock Economic Council and National Alliance for Senior Citizens.

He and his wife, Janet, have a daughter, Shanda, and a son, Morris II.

Mortgage Seminar Scheduled At Tech

Dr. Karl L. Guntermann, associate professor of finance at Texas Tech University, will conduct a "Mortgage-Equity Capitalization" seminar from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Hilton Inn.

The seminar is designed to introduce techniques used in appraising income-producing property and is approved for 15 hours college credit by the Texas Real Estate Commission.

Guntermann is director of the real estate program at Tech and has served as instructor for several appraisal organizations and local realtor boards.

Fee for the seminar is $145 and registration information can be obtained from the Center for Professional Development at Tech.

The Center for Professional Development and the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, South Plains chapter number 112 are co-sponsoring the seminar.

The current holder of the world's tallest building title is the Sears Tower in Chicago at 1,454 feet and 110 stories.

Temporary Warmup Due Area Until Late This Week

A high pressure system building over the South Plains is expected to bring increasingly warmer temperatures and fair skies to the Lubbock area today and Thursday.

The system should give West Texas residents a reprieve from low temperatures after a cold front passed through the area earlier in the week and left Lubbock with the state's lowest reading of 43 at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

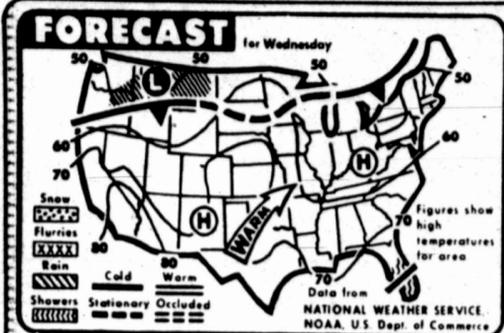

Temperatures should climb into the mid 70s this afternoon and dip into the 40s tonight, before stretching into the upper 70s Thursday afternoon.

Winds should be southwesterly at 10 to 15 mph.

Forecasters, however, are predicting slightly cooler temperatures for the Lubbock vicinity Friday and Saturday along with increasing cloudiness.

Tuesday, temperatures in the Hub City ranged from the mid 30s before dawn to near 60 in the afternoon under fair skies.

A popular belief is that if a groundhog sees his shadow on Feb. 2 (Groundhog Day), he returns to his burrow and winter continues another six months.

Heartline

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — first, if you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am a veteran of World War II. I am presently receiving a disability benefit from the Veterans Administration. My wife recently had a stroke, and now needs constant nursing care. Is there any way the Veterans Administration will assist me in this expense? — D.M.

There is the possibility that you could be eligible for an additional allowance for your wife if her condition calls for it. To be eligible, you must have a service-connected disability rating of at least 50 percent. Veterans drawing any other benefit from the VA other than service-connected disability would not be eligible for this aid for a disabled wife.

HEARTLINE: I am really having a problem with my prescription drugs. The pharmacist puts those child-proof caps on pills, not realizing that they can be people-proof as well. Because of arthritis in my hands and fingers, I find it difficult, and at times impossible to get the cap off. I even had to smash one bottle with a hammer. Is there any way I can get the old-fashioned caps on my pills? — P.O.

The Poison Prevention Packaging Act of 1970 has made this type of cap to be the kind currently required by law. It has been responsible for preventing many children from consuming medicines that are harmful to them. However, you should request that your pharmacist use the other type of lid. You may be required to sign a release form so that this may be done.

HEARTLINE: I have heard the term unearned income used. How does this type of income affect my Social Security benefits?

Unearned income has no effect at all on your Social Security benefits. It does not matter how much you have, and it will in no way lower your benefits. You do not have to pay Social Security taxes on this amount, but in many cases (depending on the amount) you do have to pay federal income taxes on it. Some examples of unearned income are: interest from a savings account, stock dividends, rental income, lottery or prize winnings and the money you receive from any pension or matured insurance policies.

HEARTLINE: I am 65 and I became married for the first time last month. A week after the marriage, I applied for wife's benefits and was told that there was a nine-month waiting period. A friend told me that this waiting period was found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. What are the real facts? — F.L.

According to the Social Security Administration, the duration of marriage requirement is one year for retirement or disability and nine months for survivor cases. If the death is accidental, there is no waiting period. The nine-month requirement was upheld by the Supreme Court on June 26, 1975, in the case of Weinberger vs. Salfi.

HEARTLINE: I am 65 years old and still working full time. I think the company I work for is going to be revamping some of the jobs and my job will probably be done away with. If this happens, and I'm laid off, I will draw unemployment. If I go ahead and retire at this time, probably the middle of next year, can I draw unemployment and Social Security benefits, or will one cancel out the other?

Yes, you can draw both unemployment compensation and Social Security. However, starting Oct. 1, 1979, your unemployment will be reduced dollar for dollar by the Social Security benefit, or any private or public pension.

AN EDITORIAL:

Support For Shah 'A Must'

THE EVENTS OF the past few days in Iran have confronted the U.S. with a major foreign policy crisis, the breadth of which many people may not understand. To those who casually watch such things, the rioting in Teheran and other Iranian cities may be "another one of those Mideast things." To protesting Iranian students, it may be a step toward their protest-punctuated dream. And to the Russians, sitting only a short distance away, it may be the opportunity of a lifetime.

BUT, TO THE U.S. State Department and President Carter it is a problem which poses all sorts of headaches. Whatever Washington does in this case, it will be damned by someone.

The truth of the matter is that the administration has no choice in the matter. It must continue to support, and possibly even shore up every way short of outright armed intervention, Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime.

The gut issue is one of backing an ally, one which is a key not only to the military stability of the Mideast, but one which is of vital import to the Free World's economic status.

IRAN ACCOUNTS for about five percent of the total foreign oil imported into the U.S.

AN EDITORIAL:

More Trucking Competition?

NOW THAT the airline industry is being deregulated, the trucking industry knows it's not far behind and is not exactly what you'd call overjoyed about the prospect.

The October Transport Times quotes William Cassels Jr., president of the American Trucking Association, as characterizing the deregulation advocates as anti-forces.

"They seem to be against business in general and the private enterprise system," says Cassels of adversaries.

"The theorists tell us the system needs to be changed, but they must be looking at the trucking industry in Outer Mongolia. The one here is working fairly well."

But Cassels' assault on the deregulators is Newspeak doubletalk which asserts the opposite of the truth.

IN AMERICA (we yield to Cassels' knowledge of Outer Mongolia) the trucking industry is regulated by the ICC, which exercises absolute control over entry into this business.

To be admitted as a common carrier, an applicant must obtain a certificate of public convenience and necessity," generally granted only when the newcomer can demonstrate that existing firms cannot provide the service specified.

If established carriers can show they have the (key word) capacity to handle the traffic, the application normally has been rejected. The burden of proof has been on the applicant, and it is often an impossible one.

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Iraq's Newest Stance Is Good For Our Side

BEHIND THE SCENES, Iraq—the world's eighth largest oil producer with annual exports exceeding $8 billion—is now taking a slap at the Soviet Union and turning to the United States.

President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr, through Foreign Minister Sadoun Hammadi, told Soviet Ambassador Antoli Barkovsky he refused to permit Soviet aircraft to land in Iraq or overfly Iraq's airspace in resupplying Cuban forces still fighting in the Horn of Africa.

This is despite the April 1972 15-year Treaty of Friendship President Al-Bakr signed in Moscow with Soviet Premier Alexsei N. Kosygin. And June 7, 1967, Iraq broke off diplomatic relations with the United States over America's aid to Israel.

For 11 years our country has been represented only by a small United States Interest Section in the Belgian Embassy.

MOREOVER, ALL BUT a Soviet satellite, the Soviet controlled Iraq's foreign policy and has sent—in great abundance—the most modern Russian military equipment for Iraq's 158,000-man army.

And, until President al-Bakr's edict, you found a direct Baghdad-Kremlin telephone line for the Soviet Military Mission.

Sadoun Street, Baghdad's main thoroughfare, seethed with Russian officers, advisers, technicians, etc.

Iraq, larger than California, is bounded by Iran, Jordan, Syria, Turkey, the Persian Gulf, tiny Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. In fact, if Iraq's army marches anywhere, it seems likely to enter neighboring Iran, Saudi Arabia or Kuwait.

The country was part of the Turkish Empire. But with Turkey's World War I defeat the League of Nations put Iraq under a British mandate. In 1932 this ended and Iraq was recognized as a sovereign state.

Saudi Arabia and other oil producing nations could make up the difference on a temporary basis.

That is not the immediate problem. The issue is maintaining a balance in the volatile Persian Gulf, vis-a-vis Communist Russia on the north and the radical Arab regime in Iraq.

Any new government in Iran most likely would lean heavily—not on the fanatical Moslem religious leaders who are willing to get in bed with the atheists to achieve their selfish aims—but on a ragtag group manipulated behind the scenes by Moscow or the far-out Arab nations.

SHOULD THE Shah be forced to step down and a pro-Soviet regime were installed, it is conceivable that Saudi Arabia and other pro-Western powers would take a new look at the Mideast alignment.

There are those who will argue that the Shah has ruled with an iron hand and deserves to be deposed. Actually, he has attempted to bring Iran from the medieval ages—including its women—into the modern era.

For his modernization, he has incurred the wrath of the religious fanatics, probably as much worried about loss of their land as religion, and the far left, which sees this as a golden opportunity to help further bury the West. The U.S. has no choice but to protect its own interest.

As the ICC itself admitted in a case involving an Oklahoma transportation company: "From the beginning of federal motor carrier regulation, restrictions generally have been imposed to protect already authorized carriers from unintended and unwarranted competition."

When Cassels says the present system is "working fairly well," it begs the question, for who? Certainly not for newcomers seeking to start a trucking business.

TESTIFYING RECENTLY before the Senate Judiciary Anti-trust subcommittee, a variety of individuals told how the burden of proving need for new or additional trucking service has become insurmountable.

Margaret Hardin of Fort Collins, Colo., said, "We found the burden of proof insurmountable because virtually every city and whistletop in the U.S. does have some carrier service available."

Yet there is no objective standard to determine whether it fills a need.

Indeed, the end of preferential treatment may already be in sight. Last month, the ICC in a turnaround ruled that any corporate protestor is going to have to prove it will be hurt substantially.

In sum, this is what the deregulation debate is all about—more or less competition. What is good for the ATA and its associates is not necessarily good for America.

And vice versa.

IRAQ, THE MODERN name for Mesopotamia, is the Euphrates-Tigris rivers area; the valley that held ancient Babylon, Eridu, Nineveh and Ur and inherited the Sumerian culture of 3,000 B.C.

Ultimately, although the language belongs to the Iranian language family, this culture influenced Crete (Caphtor), Cyprus (Alashiya), Egypt and Greece.

Often, we confuse Iraq and Iran, derived from Aryan and for countless centuries known as Persia. But you find immense ethnic differences between them.

The Iraqi are descendants of the ancient Medes, the Iranians are non-Arab: Indo-Europeans wedged between Semetic Arabs and Turk-Tartars.

Iraq, like Iran, is a Moslem country. The Arabs imposed Muhammadanism on the Persians during a period of Persian weakness. The Abbasid caliphs, uniting the Persians and Arabs, ruled the Islamic Empire from Baghdad and spread their culture across the adjacent world, doing so from the eighth to the 13th centuries.

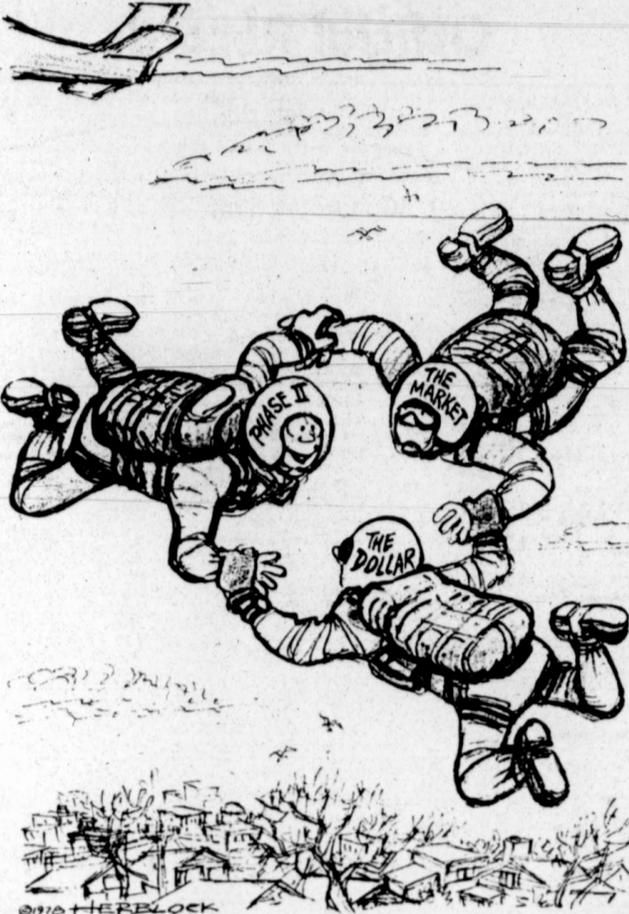

MOREOVER, IRAQ and Iran differ in Muhammadan sects. The Iraqi are Sunnis, the Iranians Shiites. They reject many Moslem traditions that Iraqis accept and could be called the Protestants of the Islamic world.

From 1970 into 1972 American and British oil companies pioneered the search for oil in Iraq. In 1972, with the Soviet Union, the country developed new fields.

Iran is beginning to think of itself as a rich oil state with the concerns and vulnerabilities of the oil-rich Persian Gulf.

Transformation from an international beggar (only four years ago forced to borrow from Saudi Arabia) into a nation ultimately among the Mideast's richest is good news for the United States.

'When Do The Parachutes Open, Fellows?'

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Shooting A Li'l Bull

EN ROUTE WITH CARTER—A hint that Jimmy Carter's self-confidence is now approaching spill-over levels after dangerous depletion last summer came in a presidential bull session in the VIP cabin of Air Force One returning from an all-day campaign swing.

Usually when Carter boards the presidential plane, he quickly takes refuge in his private quarters.

Not so on the night of Oct. 28. Buoyed by good crowds and his own above-normal rhetoric, the President felt the urge for company and political gossip with Democratic national chairman John White, political aide Tim Kraft and others.

ANDREW TULLY:

Still Safe On 'First'

WASHINGTON—In a perfect America, it might be safe to tinker with the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech and the right of people "peaceably to assemble."

But, forget it. We live in a country which is populated by human beings. And people are by design imperfect. Thus, the Supreme Court had no choice but to reject an appeal by the village of Skokie, Ill., to ban protest marches by the American Nazi Party.

Skokie's town fathers had put through three anti-Nazi ordinances aimed at prohibiting such marches.

One ordinance would ban public demonstrations by any political party wearing military-style uniforms.

The second would make it a crime to disseminate material stirring up religious or racial hatred.

THE THIRD WOULD require the posting of $350,000 in property damage insurance as a condition for getting a march permit.

Nope, said the 7th U.S. Court of Appeals, the laws did not require any proof that the demonstrations would cause violence or disorder, and thus violated the Nazis' right of free speech.

It was that ruling the Supreme Court upheld. Now then, Skokie has a large population of Jews who survived World War II persecution in Nazi Germany and Poland.

The American Nazis wanted to demonstrate to prove their contention that Jews are responsible for problems of busing and integration in nearby Chicago. Unless Nazism has changed, those creeps hoped to cause violence.

BUT THE FIRST Amendment does not require advance proof that an assembly will be peaceable.

In their hearts, most Americans might wish that all hate groups could be legislated out of existence. And the two dissenting justices, Harry Blackmun and Byron White, had a point.

They argued that the Nazi march would involve "a potentially explosive and dangerous situation, inflamed by unforgettable recollections of traumatic experiences."

They called it the kind of situation "no different from one in which a person claims a right to cry 'fire' in a crowded theater."

On that argument, they were right.

THE FIRST Amendment says there is no limit on free speech. Period.

The problem is one of precedent. Once that amendment were breached the country would be in deep trouble. Racists and religious bigots would have a field day against the targets of their hate.

Are Episcopalians unAmerican? Are Roman Catholics? Quakers? Masons? Today a mob of Nazis burns are denied equal rights. Tomorrow the world?

No. The First Amendment's guarantees are needed most by those we hate. The Supreme Court's ruling was not an endorsement of hatred, but a judicial bulwark behind which all Americans may safely repair.

The uncommon act of shooting a little bull with the boys on the long way home—uncommon for Jimmy Carter—was a subtle signal that Carter now feels he has weathered a period of grave danger to his presidency.

Ten weeks ago Dr. George Gallup's national poll found only 35 percent crediting the President with "strong leadership qualities."

Whether this new confidence is a false dawn, or represents what one aide calls the President's "feeling that he finally has his hands on the levers," time will tell.

But in these final days of the 1978 election campaign, Carter exudes an image of presidentially not visible in the darker days of summer.

He brushed aside worried liberal Democrats in Massachusetts who did not want their hostility for Edward J. King, the conservative Democratic candidate for governor, to be tainted by a presidential blessing for King.

CARTER WISELY INSISTED that the Democratic tent is broad enough for a King or two. His decision was more than vindicated in City Hall Square in the town of Lynn, when one of the most exuberant crowds of the campaign season gave him louder, longer applause than it gave Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Likewise, that same evening he passed up an easy chance to milk a partisan dinner crowd in Portland's Stevens Street Armory.

Stopped three times by applause during his opening six sentences, he shocked his political aides by saying: "I want to talk soberly and frankly tonight. I don't care whether you applaud. I didn't come up here to waste my time."

There followed a long, extemporaneous talk on the "compassion" of the Democratic party, more sermon than stump talk, centering on the uphill re-election campaign of Sen. William Hathaway.

HATHAWAY IS A likely loser on Nov. 7 to Republican Rep. William Cohen. The rhetoric, echoing Carter's early presidential campaign themes of 1975 and 1976, was stripped of applause lines but the packed crowd clearly accepted the switch of mood from stump to pulpit.

"He's really cooking tonight," one often-caustic White House aide muttered.

Here was a benchmark for the restoration of Carter, a return to the old political evangelism with enough self-confidence, as one party operative told us, "to bring the crowd down from exuberance instead of building it up even higher, and make them like it."

A similar confidence has been on display recently inside the Oval Office.

THREE DAYS BEFORE his Oct. 24 anti-inflation speech, the President rebuked his economic advisers for letting him publicly promise quick inflation relief from his proposed wage-price guidelines while these same advisers were privately warning that quick relief was impossible.

Demanding the "truth" on what the new program might achieve, and how long it might take, Carter ordered up a carefully-hedged speech that had as many caveats in it as promises of quick relief.

"The defensive quality in Carter is down," one White House aide told us. "He's acting more like he used to and he is not constantly agonizing about what he ought to be doing from one minute to the next."

The 1978 campaign trail, which short months ago looked forbidding for a President few candidates wanted anywhere near them, is where the confidence shows up most.

TESTING HIS THEMES for 1980, Carter justifiably glories in his role as Middle East peacemaker and reminds his audiences that "no matter how deep blood" has been shed by U.S. servicemen since he got elected.

In fact, Jimmy Carter may not have changed any votes at all in his extensive campaigning this fall among an electorate that is singularly disinterested in politics and which has turned ominously sour on government at all levels and the politicians who run it.

But he may have done something more important for Jimmy Carter: proved to himself that, for now at least, he has restored his presidency.

JAY HARRIS:

The Day After...

SECOND GUESSERS and Wednesday morning quarterbacks will be thicker today than Dallas Cowboy "coaches" after some recent debates.

No matter what happens, there will be those who will say "I told you so."

And if we were the type to say such things, when the air is cleared, that may be what we will be saying!

In any event, everything should wind up in good shape, no matter who came in first. After all, all of the candidates promised faithfully, again and again, that if they were elected they would get right to work and solve "what ails us."

SERIOUSLY, SINCE these thoughts are being penned on the eve of the election, what we have to say about votes and voting are based on some general opinions, not specific contests.

However, when the air clears and the final count is in, we will have some observations about how to, and not, conduct a political campaign, at least for our money, and vote.

For the moment, we would hope that those chosen from Governor to Congress to the Legislature realize the honor which has been thrust upon them.

The honor and responsibility. We hope those who will take office in January are aware of the deep-rooted unrest, doubt and fears which beset their fellow citizens.

And we hope they understand they were chosen because the majority felt they could do something to "help turn things around." Not because of their good looks, their wealth or their discussion of the non-issues.

MUCH ADDO HAS been made of late about how the majority no longer really elects the nation's public servants.

With voter turnout averaging less than 40 percent on a national basis, it is true that the minority, in numbers, often decide the winners.

And all too often, it is the "one issue" bloc or minority which tips the scales in favor of this or that candidate. Anti-abortion groups, pro-busing and anti-busing factions, environmental and consumer groups—all now play key roles in the fate of candidates.

That is not democracy. It is organized anarchy at the ballot box. And sooner or later, it will lead to the fractionalized political party system which has brought Italy to the brink of disaster and other nations such as France and at times England to compromise with splinter factions bent on narrow rather than national aims.

In brief, the American voter and the way we choose our candidates, not to mention elect them, must be changed.

HARDLY A MAN or woman in the city of Lubbock, or in all of Texas, for that matter, has gone through the past two to four years without voicing some opinion about government.

And what "they" are doing to "us."

But when it came down to the nitty-gritty of taking 15 to 30 minutes to go vote Tuesday, one half to two thirds of the voters, in some instances, opted not to "have their say" where it counted the most.

No wonder that there is much truth in the observation that candidates often promise anything to get elected and then spend much of their tenure making moves guaranteed to stay elected.

RECENTLY, NEWSWEEK magazine made a study of what it called "single issue politics."

In three case studies, the "pressure groups" zeroed in on candidates who didn't mind talking about it. In one instance, a community leader in Atlanta was named to the De Kalb County Commission with the support of Environmental groups who wanted to preserve a wild corner of the county.

Later, when the office holder opted to back an industrial park near the area, his former supporters came down on him. He didn't seek reelection.

The magazine quoted Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado as saying he hated to get on a plane for Denver. "The lobbyists line up in the aisle to get a word with me," he says. Most have two messages. The first is that there is too much government. The other is that they want something from the Federal bureaucracy.

Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa, a longtime labor supporter, was lambasted for his vote for natural gas deregulation. He says one union group ignored his previous support of labor causes and threatened to blackball him on that one issue.

IN THE MEANTIME, the Average Voter, the man and woman who have no spokesman, is left frustrated and feeling that "my vote doesn't count."

Proposition 13 has done much to change this attitude. Millions now realize they do have a voice, and apparently plan to use it.

In that vein we can heartily endorse a plan, if carried out properly, of the League of Women Voters to hold seminars and "meet the office holder" between elections. Such a meeting is planned here Dec. 12 by the Lubbock League.

All too often, once the election is over, whether we backed the winner or loser, we have a tendency to get "uninvolved." To turn it all around, we must continue our dialogue, "keep on sending them a message..."

In the meantime, if you didn't vote Tuesday, "one vote" or a lot of one votes may have made the difference. Just for the record, in 1949, one vote caused Charles I to be executed. In 1976, one vote determined English would be the official U.S. language. In 1845, one vote brought Texas into the union. In 1868, one vote changed France from a monarchy to a republic. In 1923, one vote helped bring Hitler to power. And in 1960, one vote in each precinct on the average helped elected John F. Kennedy.

Trans-Guatemala Oil Pipeline Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Interior subcommittee recommended Tuesday that several methods of transporting Alaska crude oil to eastern states, including construction of a new pipeline across Guatemala, be given prompt consideration by the next Congress.
The panel said in a report that a 227-mile pipeline across Central America "is a viable proposal worthy of close attention in the months ahead."

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Harold Runnels, D-N.M., suggested other alternatives to moving surplus Alaskan oil to inland states, including continued use of the Panama Canal and proposed cross-country pipelines.

The Alaska North Slope produces about 1.16 million barrels of crude oil a day. Of this, about 600,000 barrels a day is being refined on the West Coast, with most of the remainder being shipped at great expense to Gulf and East Coast refineries via the Panama Canal.

The subcommittee said the low West Coast oil prices caused by the Alaska oil surplus is having an adverse impact on exploration and production activity in California, where there are 12 billion barrels of recoverable crude.

"It has been reported that more than 18,000 California wells are now idle, economically shut down because of low crude prices," the report said.

According to the report, the Central American Pipeline Co. and a Guatemalan company are attempting to reach agreement with Guatemalan officials on construction of a $590 million pipeline to transport Alaska crude from the west coast of Guatemala to the Caribbean.

Tankers at the Caribbean terminal would bring the oil to the East Coast.

The committee said: "Continuing difficulties being experienced by proponents of other pipelines to be located either in the United States or Canada, coupled with the strong possibility of an agreement on the part of Guatemalan officials to allow construction to commence in the near future, has led the subcommittee to believe that the trans-Guatemalan transportation system is a viable proposal worthy of close attention in the months ahead."

The subcommittee was lukewarm on the idea of continuing shipment of Alaska oil through the Panama Canal.

"Although this nation continues to enjoy friendly relations with the Republic of Panama," the report said, "the national security implications of our reliance on any foreign-based facility are obvious."

China Sells Crude Oil To Italian Refinery

ROME (AP) — China has agreed to sell 634,900 barrels of crude oil to an Italian refinery, officials said Tuesday. It is believed to be the first sale of Chinese petroleum to a West European country.

A spokesman for the Garrone refinery said the first delivery, of 317,450 barrels of crude, would arrive in Genoa in early December. A second shipment of equal size is expected later in the month.

The refinery plans to test the oil to determine if its quality is acceptable for commercial use. Garrone officials would not reveal how much the oil cost but said China would be "very willing" to make additional sales if the company is interested.

China has exported oil to Japan, but the petroleum has been found to have a high content of paraffin, or wax, which makes it more difficult to refine. China also has exported petroleum to Romania.

Many major West European and U.S. petroleum companies have expressed interest in China's petroleum resources. These include the Italian state energy group, Ente Nazionale Idrocarburi, and Pennzoil Co. of Houston which has submitted drilling proposals.

PARKWAY BUZZING

MARIETTA Ga. (AP) — The Marietta Parkway in this Atlanta suburb was literally buzzing Tuesday with an estimated 28 million honeybees, set loose when a truck overturned. A portion of the parkway was blocked off for a time as police and beekeepers tried to contain the bees, which authorities said were worth about $75,000.

PATS is the Plains Automatic Transfer Service which links savings accounts and checking accounts to give you greater convenience. Effective November 1, 1978, Plains National Bank can automatically transfer funds from your savings to your checking account, if you choose to use either of the PATS plans.

WHY is Pats important to you?

PATS gives you greater financial flexibility and helps you use your money more efficiently. Here are just a few of the many advantages this great new service offers you:

- ★ No-service-charge checking
PATS maintains a minimum daily balance in your checking account through automatic transfer from savings. You won't pay a service charge on your checking account if you maintain a sufficient balance in your savings account.
- ★ Special overdraft protection
PATS assures you overdraft protection through automatic transfer from savings to checking. So long as you have the funds at or above the minimum savings balance, you won't have a check returned for insufficient funds.
- ★ Maximum interest on your savings
PATS allows you to put more of your money in your Plains National savings account, where it will draw interest until it's needed in your checking account.
- ★ Easy access to your savings account
PATS gives you access to your savings account through automatic transfer to checking. Want to make a spur-of-the-moment purchase? Need extra money for an emergency? As long as you have the minimum balance in your savings account, you can write the check, and funds to cover it will be transferred automatically to your checking account.

HOW does Pats work?

With your authorization, the Plains will link your savings and checking accounts, allowing automatic transfer of funds, when needed, to protect your checking account balance and avoid overdrafts. You can choose from two different PATS plans: PATS I, to provide you with no-service-charge checking and overdraft protection; or PATS II, for overdraft protection only.

Then, depending on which plan you use, a minimum amount will be automatically transferred from savings to checking, when needed, to maintain a minimum checking account balance or to cover overdrafts.

WHO can take advantage of Pats?

Anyone with both a checking and a savings account at the Plains can sign up for PATS. To take advantage of this new service, however, a depositor must maintain a minimum balance of $300 in savings.

WHERE can you find out more about Pats?

To get more information about PATS, come in and talk to one of our PATS specialists in New Accounts. They'll be glad to answer any questions you may have about the service, explain the qualifications needed to take advantage of it, and show you how it can save you money and give you added protection and convenience. # FBI Agent's Silence Stirs Davis Trial Battle

HOUSTON (AP) — An FBI agent refused Tuesday to answer defense questions regarding a mystery figure in the murder-for-hire trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

"When was the last time you saw David Binion?" defense attorney Richard "Rag-horse" Haynes asked agent Ron Jannings on cross-examination.

"I respectfully decline to answer..." Jannings replied.

"Did you meet with David Binion...?" Haynes continued.

Prosecutors objected, the judge overruled them and Jannings then asked to speak privately with Ray Woods of the U.S. attorney's office.

After a brief meeting outside the courtroom, Woods told the judge the questions posed by Haynes were not germane to this case. He said if Haynes intended to pursue the Binion matter he must file an affidavit with the U.S. attorney's office. Lawyers for Davis, 45, a Fort Worth industrialist, have identified Binion only as a car salesman with a Houston firm and "apparently an FBI informant."

In response to newsmen's questions Monday, defense lawyer Phil Burleson said: "We contend David Binion is the person Priscilla Davis tried to hire to kill Cullen."

The defense contends Davis was framed by his estranged wife, Priscilla, and others. He is accused of soliciting a gunman to kill the presiding judge in his lengthy and bitter divorce case.

At one point, State District Judge Wallace Moore sent the jury out and permitted Haynes to ask two questions concerning Binion, neither of which was answered.

Haynes wanted to know if Jannings accompanied another FBI agent and a representative of the district attorney's office to Binion's "place of business" to talk with him.

Haynes also asked if Jannings attempted to find out from Binion what the man had told a defense representative in connection with this case.

A short time later, the judge ordered a recess. When newsmen asked prosecutor

Tolly Wilson about Binion he replied, "Ask Haynes."

Said Haynes, with a grin, "I'm not telling you and if my troops tell you, I'll kick their shins."

Another defense attorney said he could not comment on Binion.

Sitting at the counsel table and watching the whole episode with a bemused grin on his face was the defendant Davis.

Lawyer Urges Bail For Fort Worth Millionaire

AUSTIN (AP) — A defense lawyer for Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis urged three judges Tuesday to set a "reasonable bail" for Davis, who is charged with hiring someone to kill another judge.

The case was viewed as a test of whether the Texas Constitution guarantees a defendant the right to bail.

Davis, 45, is on trial in Houston for allegedly trying to hire a man to kill State District Judge Joe Eidson, who was presiding over Davis' divorce case.

"There is no question that he (Davis) is entitled to bail during trial," said Dallas lawyer Phil Burleson.

He asked a panel of the nine-judge Texas Court of Criminal Appeals not only to order bail but to deny the state a rehearing so it could not continue to hold Davis in jail.

"The bail right is a fundamental right and any limitation must be viewed with strict scrutiny," said Davis lawyer Randy Schaffer of Houston.

Assistant District Attorney Marvin Collins of Fort Worth said, "There is no absolute right to bail during trial. Any rights to bail during trial are statutory — not constitutional. ... I don't know of a statute that extends the right of bail to a person in custody once the trial begins."

The constitution allows a judge to deny bond when the state convinces him it has a strong case that a person committed a felony while free on bond in another felony case.

Davis was charged Aug. 20 in the Eidson case. Bail was first denied Davis in Fort Worth on Sept. 1, then in Houston on Oct. 20.

Both denials were based on the fact that Davis was free on bond in three other felony cases, including the 1976 shooting of his wife Priscilla and the slaying of her lover, Stan Farr, in Fort Worth.

Schaffer said the constitution requires a judge to set bond if the defendant is not tried within 60 days on both the previous offense and the latest indictment.

Assistant District Attorney Candy Howell of Fort Worth said the 60-day deadline applied only to the Eidson case. In that case, she said, the state could not be held to 60 days because Davis had obtained two delays in the Houston trial.

Davis' lawyers also contended that the three pending felony indictments could not be legally used to deny bond because each involved double jeopardy.

Farr, Mrs. Davis and Gus Gavrel, the victims named in the earlier indictments, all were shot in the same incident in which Andrea Wilborn, Davis' step-daughter, was killed.

Davis was acquitted of her death following a 1977 trial in Amarillo. The appeals court recessed Tuesday without ruling on the bond request.

Search For Killer Continues

Police Tuesday continued their search for the killer of 24-year-old Lindsey "Lynn" Henton Bentley, whose body was found about 11:30 p.m. Monday stuffed in the locked trunk of a car parked in the 3800-block of 51st Street.

Officials said Tuesday that autopsy results indicated that Bentley, of 4605 44th St., had been dead at least four days before his body was found. Police said the autopsy also revealed three more stab wounds on the body, bringing the total to 30.

Bentley's death was ruled homicide by Justice of the Peace L. J. Blalack.

Bentley's 25-year-old girlfriend, Kathy Ann Stalcup, who also lives at 1009 Ave. T, said she last heard from her boyfriend about 2:30 a.m. Oct. 29 when he called to say he could not pick her up at work.

Police Lt. Billy Knox said Miss Stalcup filed a missing persons report at 2 p.m. Oct. 30, and the next day she reported her car — in which Bentley later was found dead — missing.

The woman's 1971 white Ford Galaxy, however, was recovered Thursday in an apartment parking lot in the 1600-block of 16th Street.

Knox said the body was found Monday when Miss Stalcup's brother, Tad Stalcup of 6025 Ave. A, No. 108, took out the back seat of his sister's car and reached through to the trunk to find a tool to fix a flat tire on the vehicle.

Miss Stalcup said she had lost her trunk keys when her car came up missing. The vehicle was parked in front of a residence where Miss Stalcup was babysitting when the grim discovery was made.

The woman's brother told police he used a flashlight to look inside the trunk and saw the dead man's legs.

The Lubbock Fire Department's "Jaws of Life" was then called to the scene to force the trunk open. The body, reports show, was wrapped in a red sleeping bag. Bentley's legs had been tied together and white cord was tied around one of the dead man's wrists, according to police. He was wearing blue pants and brown boots, but did not have a shirt on.

Reports show Bentley had been stabbed over most of the body, including 15 wounds on the back.

Officer Tom Robison, who investigated the recovery of Miss Stalcup's car Thursday, said the vehicle's doors were locked and windows rolled up. He said he could not smell any odor indicating there was a body in the trunk.

However, police theorize the body had been in the trunk for several days.

The abandoned vehicle was reported to police by the apartment manager, Robison said.

Police Information Officer Bill Morgan said a weapon thought to have been used in the murder had not been recovered by late this morning.

Services for Bentley will be at 2 p.m. today in Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Paul Jantzen, associate pastor of Trinity Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park under direction of Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

He was a native of Anniston, Ala., and lived there until 13 years ago, when he moved to Lubbock with his family.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bentley of Lubbock; a daughter, Christy Bentley of Austin; a brother, Lesley of Lubbock; two sisters, Ilene Bentley and Gina Bentley, both of Lubbock; and his grandfathers, L.A. Bentley of Anniston and L.H. Williamson of Del Rio.

Palbearers will be Sonny Keese, Bill Van Natter, Bedford Raley, Lynn Green, Randy Mayes and Jimmy Keese.

Three Charged With Murder

Three Lubbock County men, reportedly a father and two sons, have been charged with murder as a result of the Saturday shooting death of Elutiro "Joe" Gonzales.

Witnesses said Gonzales was shot in the head by one man as two of his brothers and a young woman were held at bay with a shotgun.

The woman, 19, subsequently was raped at gunpoint, authorities allege.

Charged with murder were Juan Sierra, 59; Manuel Cruz Sierra, 29; and Fermin Sierra, 26, all of Route 3, Box 236. The suspects remained in Lubbock County Jail Tuesday after Justice of the Peace Charles Smith set bond on each of the murder charges at $50,000.

Manuel Sierra was also charged with aggravated rape. Smith also set bail at $50,000 on that charge.

The suspects were arrested about 4:45 p.m. Monday by sheriff's deputies at their home about a quarter-mile north of Lubbock International Airport. Officers reportedly confiscated a pistol and a shotgun at the residence.

Gonzales, 30, of 806 40th St., Apt. 3, died at 10:55 a.m. Saturday, about five hours after he was taken to West Texas Hospital.

Reports indicate Gonzales, his two brothers, Isreal, 46, and Tony, 24, and the woman met by chance a group of men in the early morning hours Saturday at a convenience store at Clovis Road and Avenue U.

The woman told deputies the men offered to take her group to a county residence where they could get some beer.

Once they arrived at a county residence, however, the driver of the other car took money from Gonzales, the woman stated. She told officers the driver pulled a small-caliber gun, and that another man covered her and Gonzales' two brothers with a shotgun.

According to reports, the woman said the driver pointed his weapon at Gonzales, stated he was going to kill him and then shot him just above the left eye.

The woman stated that after Gonzales was shot, the gunman said his weapon fired blanks. But, the woman said in a statement, she saw a hole in Gonzales' head.

Reports say the young woman later identified Manuel Sierra as the man who shot Gonzales.

The woman said the driver indicated that Gonzales' two brothers could leave with him if she stayed.

Subsequently, the woman said, she was raped twice at gunpoint.

M. C. Pool of 2605 78th St. said when he returned home Monday after being gone during the afternoon, he discovered $3,000 in property missing, including stereo equipment, jewelry and furniture.

A television set and stereo equipment totaling $1,950 was the loot taken by burglars when they entered the home of Thomas A. Sanchez at 1714 28th St. Monday.

Charles R. Wilson of 5802 22nd St. said someone entered his truck about 7 p.m. Monday and stole $700 worth of tools.

'Sharpened' Tire Tool Used In Assault

A 21-year-old Lubbock man was treated for stab wounds about 2 a.m. Tuesday after being beaten by a man wielding a tire tool "sharpened on one end," according to police.

Richard Lee Parker suffered a large cut on the back of the head and multiple stab wounds on the head and shoulder. He was treated at Methodist Hospital and released.

Parker told police he was assaulted by a tall, white man, about 20 years old, with a stocky build and brown or blonde hair. He said the man attacked him after they got into a fight in his apartment parking lot about 2 a.m. Tuesday. He said his attacker chased him up to the third floor of the complex, striking and stabbing him with the sharp tool.

In another reported assault, a 39-year-old Lubbock County woman was treated and released about 11 p.m. Monday from Health Sciences Center Hospital where she was taken after reportedly being knifed by a man trying to make a date with her.

She told police she was in a parking lot in the 4600-block of Avenue A when the suspect, described as a Mexican-American wearing a gray shirt and blue pants, forced his way into her car and asked to go out with her.

When the woman refused, the suspect laughed, she said, pulled a knife and cut her on the arm.

A 23-year-old Lubbock man was arrested about 12:10 a.m. Tuesday after a police officer watched him force a woman off the road, then walk up to her car and hit her twice, according to reports.

The officers said the woman was traveling in the 900-block of University Avenue when she was assaulted.

Reports of Lubbockites suffering heavy losses continued to mount Tuesday.

Charles R. Wilson of 5802 22nd St. said someone entered his truck about 7 p.m. Monday and stole $700 worth of tools.

Reose Ann Warwick of 917 E. 37th St. reported the loss of $544 in stereo equipment, clocks and clothing when burglars struck her home between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday.

Armando S. Sedeno of 2203 E. Sixth St. said he was gone only an hour Monday night, but when he returned home a television set, stereo and clocks, totaling $485, were missing.

Juanell Jo Teague told officers that sometime between Oct. 31 and Saturday, someone took $300 worth of lawn equipment from beside her 5701 71st St. home.

Stephen Moore reported that someone stole his daughter's $250 flute while the instrument was stored at Adkins Junior High, 58th Street and Avenue U.

Supreme Court Justices Want Pretrial Hearings Kept Private

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Supreme Court members voiced doubts Tuesday that a criminal defendant's right to be tried by an impartial jury can be preserved if certain pretrial hearings are held in public.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices William H. Rehnquist and John Paul Stevens peppered lawyer Robert Bernius with questions challenging his assertion that defendants must share the constitutional right to a "public trial" with the public itself.

At issue in a case from New York is an attempt by the Gannett news organization, represented by Bernius, to have the Supreme Court narrow significantly judges' discretion to close pretrial hearings.

New York's highest court called the competing interests of a fair trial and the public's right to know what occurs in its courts "a recurring and delicate issue of concrete significance both to the courts and the news media."

The case centers on two young men arrested in connection with the 1975 death of a Rochester, N.Y., area resident, former policeman Wayne Clapp.

County Judge Daniel DePasquale held a Nov. 4, 1976, pretrial hearing to consider a request by the defendants' lawyers to bar certain evidence — a confession — from being used at trial.

Approving a request by the defense lawyers, DePasquale ordered that all spectators — including three newspaper reporters — leave the courtroom. The judge ruled later that holding the suppression hearing in public could have jeopardized the chances of impaneling an impartial jury.

Gannett protested the ejection of one of its reporters, but New York courts ruled that DePasquale had acted properly.

In arguing the state courts were wrong, Bernius said that before closing pretrial hearings, judges should have to show why an open hearing would hurt a defendant's chance to receive a fair trial.

Giving judges broad discretion to close criminal proceedings without considering the need to do so or the alternatives erodes "the confidence of the public in the judicial system," Bernius said.

Burger, Stevens and Rehnquist clearly appeared disturbed by Gannett's arguments.

If the purpose of suppression hearings is to determine what evidence a jury should not hear, Stevens asked, don't public suppression hearings defeat that purpose?

Bernius said he thinks it is wrong to assume that making certain facts public means prospective jurors will be affected by such disclosure.

Rehnquist quizzed the Rochester lawyer on the wording of the Constitution's "public trial" guarantee: "Why did the framers of the Sixth Amendment say the 'accused' enjoys the right of a public trial?" he asked. "Why didn't the framers say the 'press' enjoys the right?"

Burger asked whether the Sixth Amendment right should apply to pretrial criminal proceedings as well criminal trials, and introduced what might be considered a compromise.

"Could a judge close a pretrial proceeding but order that a transcript of it be released after the trial?" Burger asked.

The justices will announce their decision sometime before the end of their current term in June.

Man Incompetent To Stand Trial

A jury Tuesday found murder defendant Algie Stokes currently incompetent to stand trial.

Jurors in Judge William R. Shaver's 140th District Court deliberated about two hours and 30 minutes before announcing the finding. The panel also found that there is a substantial probability Stokes will attain competency in the foreseeable future.

Shaver ordered that Stokes be sent to Rusk State Hospital for a period of at least 60 days, but not to exceed 18 months.

Stokes, 67, who lived at 1515 E. 28th St., Apt. 1, at the time he was charged, is accused in connection with the May 6 shooting death of his wife, Virgie Mae Stokes, of 4310 E. 63rd St.

Mrs. Stokes was shot twice with a .38-caliber weapon, sheriff's deputies indicated. She was found in her residence. Stokes was arrested a short time later at his apartment, and deputies reportedly confiscated a gun.

Berkowitz Quiet Patient At N.Y. Mental Facility

MARCY, N.Y. (AP) — David Berkowitz is a quiet patient at the state mental facility here, plays ping-pong badly and has put on some weight, according to published reports.

The Utica Daily Press, quoting state employees who asked not to be identified, reported some details of the stay of the convicted "Son of Sam" killer at the Central New York Psychiatric Center in this Utica suburb.

Officials have declined comment on their notorious patient. The facility's director, Martin Von Holden, was not available for comment Tuesday because state offices were closed for the election.

"He's like a kid that sits in the back of the classroom," one employee was quoted as saying. "He's quiet and follows all the regulations."

"He's a very quiet guy," a second worker said. "You have to draw things out of him and then he gives you very short answers."

The former Yonkers postal worker lives in a dormitory with about two dozen other patients at the maximum-security facility. The center is surrounded by high floodlights and a chain link fence topped by razor-ribbons — a looping band of sharp steel.

Berkowitz, 25, was brought here for treatment in July, after confessing to killing six young people and wounding seven others in a series of attacks that terrorized New York City more than a year ago.

Berkowitz was sentenced to 315 years

Overall, the nation's major scheduled airlines were on time 78 percent of the time in July and 75 percent of the time in August.

On the other end of the scale Pan American was on time only 9.7 percent of the time between Houston and New York in July. The same airline also took last place in August, with a 6.5 percent on time performance between Honolulu and San Francisco.

Brooke Unseated; Percy Claims Win

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats marched toward renewed command of Congress Tuesday night in mid-term elections studded with Senate upsets that ousted Republican Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts and installed Thad Cochran as Mississippi's first popularly-elected GOP senator.

Democratic Rep. Paul E. Tsongas, 37, beat Brooke, the only black senator, whose third-term bid was crippled by his admitted misstatements about his personal finances in divorce testimony.

In Maine, Rep. William S. Cohen, 38, billed in advance as a potential national Republican leader, defeated Democratic Sen. William D. Hathaway.

Democrat Carl Levin, 44, a former president of the Detroit City Council, led Michigan's Republican Sen. Robert P. Griffin, who first said he was quitting the Senate, then changed his mind.

Percy Claims Win
 Sen Charles H. Percy of Illinois was withstanding the challenge of Democrat Alex Seith. Percy claimed victory there.

In Texas, Democratic Rep. Robert Krueger edged ahead of Republican Sen. John G. Tower, after a campaign more notable for name-calling and big spending than for issues.

CBS News said its projections showed Roger Jepsen, a former lieutenant governor whose conservative campaign seemed constantly in trouble, would defeat Democratic Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa.

In New Jersey, Bill Bradley, the former Princeton and professional basketball player, won a Republican Senate seat for the Democrats. Bradley beat conservative Jeffrey Bell to succeed Sen. Clifford P. Case.

Demos Pacing Governor Races
By The Associated Press
 Democratic gubernatorial candidates rolled to victory in seven states Tuesday, picking up Republican-held South Carolina, while GOP candidates wrested statehouses in Pennsylvania and Tennessee from Democrats.

Democratic incumbents were re-elected in Georgia, Connecticut and Rhode Island, while newcomers won in Maryland, Florida, South Carolina and Arkansas.

Republican incumbents were re-elected in Michigan and Vermont.

Ella Grasso of Connecticut, one of the nation's two women governors, was re-elected to a second term as she turned back a challenge from Republican Congressman Ronald Sarasin.

Republican Richard Thornburgh, a former assistant U.S. attorney, defeated Peter Flaherty, former mayor of Pittsburgh, to succeed Pennsylvania's Democratic Gov. Milton S. Eisenhower, who is retiring.

In Tennessee, Republican attorney Lamar Alexander defeated Democrat Jake Butcher, a banker, to succeed retiring Democratic incumbent Ray Blanton. President Carter had campaigned for Butcher just two weeks before the election.

In South Carolina, Democrat Richard Riley, a former state senator, defeated former GOP Rep. Edward Young for the statehouse being vacated by Republican Gov. James Edwards.

In other key races, Republican Gov. James Rhodes held a narrow lead in his try for an unprecedented fourth term in Ohio, while Democratic Gov. Hugh Carey of New York jumped into a nearly two-to-one early lead over Republican Assemblyman Perry Duryea.

Other Democrats elected Tuesday were incumbent Govs. J. Joseph Garrahy of Rhode Island and George Busbee of Georgia. Harry Hughes, a former state transportation secretary, in Maryland; Robert Graham, a state senator, in Florida; and Bill Clinton, state attorney general, in Arkansas.

In Michigan, Republican Gov. William Milliken won a third term, surviving a statewide controversy over chemical contamination of dairy products. He defeated William Fitzgerald, a liberal state senator from Detroit.

Vermont's Republican Gov. Richard Snelling defeated Democrat Edwin Granai, a state legislator.

In the 36 governor races to be decided, Democrats had won seven and led in 11 others in early returns, while Republicans won four and were leading in nine others.

If those trends held, Republicans would pick up four statehouses overall.

Clements, Tower Regain Lead In See-Saw Texas Election

 with budget problems and the continuing headache of school finance, convenes Jan. 9.

Few legislative leaders were opposed in Tuesday's election. Seventy-nine House members and nine senators were re-elected without a contest.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who presides over the Senate and is believed by some to be the most powerful man in Texas government, had only token Republican opposition. Hobby was leading Republican Gaylord Marshall, 289-233 to 142-363.

House Speaker Bill Clayton already had claimed victory — on the basis of primary election results — in his bid for an unprecedented third consecutive term. House members will elect the speaker in January.

Both officials appoint the standing committees that decide which bills reach the floor and make parliamentary decisions that often can pass or kill a measure.

Neither is expected to make drastic changes in the organization of the chambers over which they preside. But Hobby must choose a new Senate Finance Committee chairman to replace Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, who decided against seeking re-election.

Only 15 of the 31 senators had to stand for re-election this year.

Re-elected without opponents were Sens. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, chairman of the Senate Nominations Subcommittee; Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches; Lindon Williams, D-Houston; Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, chairman of the Senate Human Resources Subcommittee; Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin; Pete Snelson, D-Midland, chairman of the Senate Intergovernmental Relations Committee; Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg; and Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls.

House committee chairmen re-elected without a contest included Reps. Bill Prenal, D-Bryan, appropriations; Ben Grant, D-Marshall, judiciary; Bill Sullivan, D-Gainesville, environmental affairs; John Wilson, D-LaGrange, health and welfare; Tom Uher, D-Bay City, state affairs; Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, intergovernmental affairs; Jerry Donaldson, D-Gatesville, financial institutions; Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, constitutional amendments; Joe Hanna, D-Breckenridge, energy resources; Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, criminal jurisprudence; Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, public education; Tom Caddick, R-Midland, natural resources; Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, House administration; Craig Washington, D-Houston, social services; Ben Reyes, D-Houston, rules; Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, transportation; and Bennie Book II, D-New Braunfels, liquor regulation.

Early Bird Voting Gives GOP Boost

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire's traditional early bird precincts reported at mid-afternoon Tuesday, giving Republican candidates the expected boosts for their morale.

The northern New Hampshire hamlets of Dixville Notch, with 18 voters, and Hart's Location, with 17, traditionally provide the state's first election returns.

In presidential years, Dixville Notch gives the nation its first returns, the voters gathering at one minute past midnight under the glare of television lights. In off years, voters in both White Mountain towns still gather at a specified time — if a more civilized one — and go through the ritual of casting votes and opening the ballot box right away for the count.

Between them, they put Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson, seeking an unprecedented fourth term, ahead of Democrat Hugh Gallen, 26-9, and Republican airline pilot Gordon Humphrey ahead of incumbent Democratic Sen. Thomas McIntyre, 25-7.

Over the state line in rural northern Maine, meanwhile, Grand Falls Plantation reported that state's first returns in similar fashion.

The town favored Republican William S. Cohen for U.S. Senate with four votes against one for Democratic incumbent William D. Hathaway; and Democrat Joseph E. Brennan for governor with three votes, against two for independent candidate Herman "Buddy" Frankland, Democrat Markham L. Gartley got all five votes for Congress.

Kansas Elects Woman

Nancy Landon Kassebaum, daughter of All, won Senate election in Kansas, holding a Republican seat and defeating former Rep. William Roy to become the season's one beneficiary of middle name recognition.

CBS and NBC said that David Durenberger, 44, a Minneapolis lawyer, had defeated Democrat Robert Short in Minnesota, delivering to the Republicans the Senate seat of the late Hubert H. Humphrey.

And Rudy Boschwitz, 48, a plywood manufacturer, was leading Democratic Sen. Wendell Anderson, who had himself appointed to the Minnesota seat vacated by Vice President Walter F. Mondale. NBC said Boschwitz was the winner.

Black Cat Shooed By Krueger Aide

NEW BRAUNFELS (UPI) — Bob Krueger's press aide was not taking any chances when it came to possible bad omens Tuesday.

Krueger, seeking a seat in the U.S. Senate, voted early Tuesday in his home town and as he left the polling place a black cat began walking across the sidewalk.

Before the cat could stroll in front of Krueger, press aide Bob Mann rushed to the cat, scooped it up and shooed it away from the candidate.

Law Changed On Write-In

AUSTIN (UPI) — Rob Wildes, an employee of the Railroad Commission, and his wife went to their polling place Tuesday expecting to write in someone else in place of Comptroller Bob Bullock, the only candidate for that office.

But Mr. and Mrs. Wildes were not allowed to write in their choice because of a new law in the Texas Election Code.

A spokesman at the Secretary of State's office said a write-in candidate for a state or county office during a general election must file his or her name with the secretary of state — if running for state office — or with the county clerk — if running for county office — the day before absentee voting is to begin to be eligible as a write-in candidate. A list of write-in candidates is then issued at polling places.

The spokesman said the new law was adopted by the 1977 Legislature and applies only to county and state write-in candidates in general elections, but not during primary elections.

Wildes said he and wife and another person in line were denied an opportunity to vote against Bullock, who recently has been involved in a controversy concerning alleged improprieties in his office.

Mother Charged With Murder

DALLAS (AP) — Murder charges have been filed against the mother of a 3-year-old, lice-infested boy who died of starvation.

Kathy McLean, 26, was arrested Monday and placed in Dallas County Jail after Justice of the Peace Tom Naylor set her bond at $50,000.

The boy's twin sister, Christie, whose body also was emaciated and covered with lice-infested sores, remained in serious condition at Parkland Memorial Hospital. Doctors said she was suffering from malnutrition and dehydration.

Each child weighed about 25 pounds and their arms and legs were said to be "about the size of a quarter."

James McLean was dead on arrival Sunday at a Dallas hospital. A medical examiner Monday ruled the boy's death a homicide.

Oden Concedes Loss In House Race

 ligible the possible effect Hester's recent allegations of travel expense mishandling had.

Just "Campaign Rhetoric"
 "As far as I'm concerned, it was campaign rhetoric," Salinas explained, adding he successfully refuted the allegations.

Hester, who late in the campaign charged his opponent with collecting state travel expenses illegally, said the claims "might have" affected his vote total.

But, he added, he felt obligated to call the matter to public attention.

The businessman, who pledged his support for Salinas after conceding defeat, said he hopes his campaign "maybe furthered the two-party system a little bit."

Hester explained he ran for office "to give the people a choice" and to "further the interests of the Republican Party."

Next time around it will be someone else's turn, he added.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter reportedly signed bills to rehabilitate handicapped persons, to overhaul bankruptcy laws and to pump nearly $54 billion into the nation's highways and transit systems.

The president, meanwhile, remained for most of the day Tuesday in seclusion at Camp David, where he has been since returning early Saturday from a six-state campaign swing.

He returned to the White House in time to follow election returns and to call Democratic candidates for whom he had campaigned.

On his way to the White House, Carter stopped at Dulles airport to greet about 250 West Berliners who were arriving for an eight-day goodwill exchange.

He told the German visitors that election night is "an important night to us. I will go from here to the White House and I will be on the telephone a large part of the night calling and congratulating the winners, and calling and consoling the losers. I hope we won't have many Democrats who will be the losers."

Bill Mattea, an aide to Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., said the White House had told him Carter put aside veto threats and signed a $53.8 billion Surface Transportation Act Monday night.

The measure includes $13.4 billion for mass transit, authorizes the start of construction on the last segments of the interstate highway system by 1986, provides $20 million a year for bicycle trails and $50 million a year for state enforcement of the 55-mile-per-hour national speed limit.

The measure is substantially above the $48.5 billion measure Carter originally proposed, and exceeds even the $52.4 billion sum which Transportation Secretary Brock Adams had said was the maximum amount he could accept.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on the handicapped, and Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., the measure's chief House sponsor, said Carter had signed the handicapped bill. There had been reports earlier that Carter might veto it.

The measure authorizes giving up to $5 billion over the next four years to states for rehabilitating handicapped persons, and also creates a new National Institute of Handicapped Research and extends a program to provide community employment for the disabled.

Jobs For Handicapped

The employment program would authorize the Department of Labor to provide jobs for about 20,000 handicapped people.

And a lawyer for the House Judiciary Committee, who asked not to be named, said the White House had notified him that Carter signed the bankruptcy bill Monday night.

It overhauls the nation's bankruptcy court system and laws for the first time in 40 years, and also elevates bankruptcy referees to the level of presidentially appointed federal judges.

The White House, however, refused to confirm the reports.

Associate Press Secretary Claudia Townsend said no announcements about bill signings or vetoes would be made until today, and refused to give a reason.

Delays In Notice

Assistant press secretary Dale Leibach said the delay was caused by difficulties in notifying congressional sponsors about the fate of their bills and because the documents themselves were with Carter and not available to the White House staff.

However, Brademas, Randolph and others not only were notified that their measures had been signed, but announced the signings themselves.

And a high White House official, who asked not to be named, said the staff was fully aware of what Carter had done about several bills but decided to keep the news secret until after election day.

City Couple Terrorized By Bandits

An elderly Lubbock couple was terrorized Tuesday night by armed bandits who forced their way into the couple's home and threatened to kill them if they did not cooperate.

Scott and Elma Buckner of 3506 Avenue K told police at least three robbers, armed with a long-barreled blue steel revolver and knives, took about $100 in cash, two wedding bands and a set of silverware.

Buckner, 78, said that a woman he thought to be a neighbor entered to use the telephone about 7:30 p.m. She then left the house and re-entered seconds later with at least two male suspects who threw the elderly man on a couch, tied him up and covered his head with a bedsheet.

While one man, armed with a knife and gun, stayed with Buckner, the other robbers entered another room in the front of the house where Buckner's 74-year-old wife was sitting. When the female suspect threatened to cut Mrs. Buckner's head off, Buckner pleaded with them not to harm her.

Family members said, however, that when Mrs. Buckner later complained her heart was bothering her as the robbers were ransacking the house, one of the male suspects retrieved her medicine for her.

Rain In Alabama Eases Fire Siege

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (UPI) — A 7,000-acre forest fire raged near Tuskegee Tuesday, but many other portions of the parched Southeast reported some rain and a letup in woodland fires that have plagued the area for weeks.

In Macon County, Ala., where the 7,000-acre fire was centered, Forestry Commission spokesman Frank Sego said, "People tried to backfire these fires away from their homes and they didn't do anything in the world but merge them."

Firefighters from Kraft Paper Co., which owns a considerable amount of timberland in the Tuskegee area, pitched in to battle the fire. Five men from the Florida Division of Forestry arrived on the scene and additional help was also being sought from South Carolina.

Despite these efforts, two homes were destroyed by the wildfires in rural communities surrounding Tuskegee, about 40 miles east of Montgomery.

In addition to the Macon County fire, eleven other blazes raged out of control in the mountainous northeast corner of Alabama, in Jackson and Cherokee counties. "They can't get to them," Sego said. "It's simply out of reach."

The Alabama Forestry Commission said damage caused by the fires since they began in early October has exceeded $3 million in the state.

"Patchy rain that accompanied the arrival of a cold front in the Southeast had only a minimal, if any, effect on the tinderbox conditions in Alabama, but in neighboring Georgia, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman said "things look much better."

A total of 169 woodland fires were reported in Georgia Monday. Officials said, they did not have an exact count Tuesday, but that rain and higher humidity had helped conditions in the woodlands, which are full of hunters this time of year.

Fire conditions in the Carolinas also eased, and Mississippi lifted a three-day-old edict against burning trash, or setting any other fires, after the state received its first rain in several weeks.

Many areas received only light rain, but a half-inch was recorded at Pensacola, Fla., the first measurable precipitation there in 38 days.

Parliament Seat Won By Gandhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, swept from power 20 months ago by her reaction to her emergency rule, has recovered a seat in Parliament.

Returns showed early today that she had defeated her main opponent — Veerendra Patil of the ruling Janata Party — in Chikmagalur, a district in southern India firmly controlled by her supporters.

With nearly 90 percent of the ballots from Sunday's by-election counted, Mrs. Gandhi, 60, had 216,947 votes to 148,829 for Patil, the United News of India reported from Chikmagalur, 1,100 miles south of here.

"In Steady Mood"

Mrs. Gandhi, who returned from the district in southern India to her New Delhi home Tuesday, told waiting photographers hours before a decisive trend appeared to develop that she was going to bed.

"I am not so excited about defeat or victory," she said. "I am always in a steady mood."

Outside, supporters danced in the street and set off fireworks after each announcement of her mounting lead over Patil, 54, a former chief minister of Karnataka State where Chikmagalur is located.

The by-election, called after a member of her "Indira Congress" Party resigned in June, was the first political contest Mrs. Gandhi has entered since her stunning defeat in the March, 1977 general election.

Opposition Leader

The downfall of her regime brought Prime Minister Morarji Desai's Janata Party to power.

A victory in Chikmagalur, a sleepy backwater district famous for its prosperous coffee plantations, would clear the way for Mrs. Gandhi to become parliamentary opposition leader because her party is the second largest in both houses of Parliament.

But she told a news conference earlier this week she would confer with party leaders before deciding to accept the time-consuming post of opposition leader.

Mrs. Gandhi's strong showing indicated that the 1975-77 state of emergency, sharply attacked by Patil's campaign, did not turn enough voters against her.

During the emergency, declared by her authoritarian regime, thousands of people were reported jailed, millions of people were reported sterilized by force in a birth control campaign.

Home Construction Drop Seen For '79

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing construction probably will drop sharply in 1979 because of rising interest rates, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.

In its 1979 construction forecast, the department said mortgage rates will exceed 10 percent during the first half of 1979. But interest rates should range from 9 percent to 10 percent in the second half.

About 1.65 million new houses and apartment buildings are expected to be built in 1979, a decline from the 2 million housing starts in both 1977 and 1978, the department said.

Industrial Boon Seen

However, strong activity is still expected in construction of industrial and commercial buildings and new sewer systems.

Consumers probably will continue buying houses because they see them as a hedge against inflation, the department said.

"The degree to which high mortgage rates will dampen demand in 1979 seems likely to be less than in the past, since there will be little anticipation of a substantial fall in interest rates," the report said.

Careful Screening Foreseen

Mortgage lending will be limited by a careful screening of borrowers and a tightening of lending terms, forecasters said.

A 20 percent decline in housing starts would not be as severe a downturn as in past housing recessions, the department said.

The forecast was made on the following assumptions: there will be no recession in 1979; there will be a slower growth rate in 1979; housing prices will rise faster than other prices; and the shortage of mortgage money will not be as severe as in the mid-1960s and early 1970s.

In its five-year predictions, the department said housing construction probably will average about 1.8 million to 1.9 million starts a year and mortgage rates will be less than 10 percent.

"The shift of construction to Sun Belt areas will continue," it added. "Fast-rising land costs in the larger metropolitan centers will also act as a deterrent to new construction."

Rising labor, construction and land costs will continue to push prices up, the report said.

There will be more use of prefabricated housing and new housing designs to offset rising energy and materials costs, it added.

Despite the housing downturn, an increase of about 5 percent is expected in industrial construction, the department said.

"The need for more modern and energy-efficient plants is increasing," the report said. "The growing pressures to become more competitive with imports and the growing recognition that greater tax incentives to investment are needed has probably accelerated industrial projects."

More commercial buildings also will be built, particularly shopping centers to serve people in the new houses built this year. Rebuilding of downtown centers is also moving rapidly.

Public construction also continues to be strong, particularly sewer and water projects, which are paid for by the federal government.

School construction may fall off because of a decline in the school-age population and possible voter resistance to taxes, the department said.

New Jersey Casinos Lure Prostitutes

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The gamblers' flashy clothes, all-night drinking bouts and fat bankrolls are luring more prostitutes to the city that crowns Miss America. Image-conscious officials say there aren't as many as they expected — but police are still cracking down.

Atlantic City has long lived on conventions, and hookers have always lived off the conventioners.

But when New Jersey voters approved gambling here two years ago, the local joke was that casinos would at least bring in a better class of prostitute.

Earlier Prediction Disputed

"If ours carried brooms, you'd think a witch had crashed," one policeman said at the time.

Since gambling started May 26 at the Resorts International Hotel, though, (Additional Story of Atlantic City Casino Bonanza, Page 15, Sec. A) hookers have begun robbing gamblers leaving the casino and propositioning men strolling the street with their wives.

And that has brought the Boardwalk publicity it didn't want.

"There has been a slight increase in the number of prostitutes working the city, but not as great as we thought it would be with casino gambling," says Capt. Al Salvatore, head of the vice squad.

Nevertheless, police have arrested 206 women for prostitution so far this year — more than twice the number arrested in 1977. And more than 80 percent of the arrests have been made since May 26.

Municipal Judge Chaim H. Sandier has toughened his attitude, handing out six-month jail sentences and $500 fines for repeat offenders.

Professionals Given Maximum Sentences

"If I get a career hooker, I give consideration for imposing the maximum sentence and the maximum fine," Sandier said. "But if I get the amateur, the runaway kid, then we use clemency and compassion."

There has been no crackdown on men who patronize hookers.

State police, who have primary jurisdiction on the casino floor, say they have arrested 20 women on prostitution charges. But Lt. Anthony DeMasi says the hookers don't work the casino floor too much, and when they do it is usually hotel security men who throw them out.

The state police, DeMasi says, are more interested in casino cheats.

"It's the world's oldest profession, we're never going to get rid of it," DeMasi said. "Besides, how do you use your resources, to get hookers or to protect the state's revenue in the casino?"

Meanwhile, long-time residents shrug off the recent publicity. Over the years, prostitutes have become as much a part of the local scene as the Miss America Pageant in September — although few hookers work the Boardwalk, preferring to hail passing cars and bar-hopping conventioners along Pacific Avenue near Convention Hall.

Sadat Says Palestinian Rights Vital To Treaty

By United Press International

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said Tuesday he will not sign a peace treaty with Israel unless it clearly refers to negotiations with the Palestinians over the future of the occupied West Bank.

Sadat, speaking to foreign reporters in Cairo after a four-hour cabinet meeting, also said the West Bank negotiations must start no later than one month after an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty is signed.

Sadat's remarks appeared to constitute an unequivocal warning to Israel that the peace treaty being negotiated in Washington must be linked to the West Bank and the future of the Palestinians living there.

Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman returned to Washington Tuesday after briefing the Israeli cabinet on the negotiations which, despite the West Bank dispute, have made what a high Egyptian official characterized as unprecedented progress.

Like Weizman, acting Egyptian Foreign Minister Butros Ghali was also called home for weekend consultations and was due to return to Washington today Ghali briefed his cabinet at a four-hour meeting Tuesday night.

A statement read afterward said "the linkage between the settlement on the Egyptian front and the solution of the other aspects of the problem is an inevitable matter."

Speaking to reporters, Sadat added that "Egypt will not sign a peace treaty with Israel unless it refers clearly to future upcoming negotiations with representatives of the Palestinian people so that they decide on their future in the West Bank and Gaza."

He also said "it is necessary that negotiations with the Palestinians start within a month after the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty is signed."

Weizman and Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan were to meet today with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance while awaiting Ghali's return to resume the talks.

"I hope this is my last journey to Washington before the finalization and signing of the peace treaty," Weizman said before departing Israel.

But in sharp contrast to the optimism in Jerusalem and Cairo, more than 3,000 West Bank Arabs gathered in Nablus to shout their rejection of the Camp David accords in one of the largest rallies in years in the occupied Jordanian territory.

"We must say no to all these things offered by the Americans and Egypt," said Karim Khalaf, mayor of the occupied town of Ramallah. "They gave us nothing as Palestinians."

"If they want peace, they will give the Palestinians their rights," echoed Hahed Kwasme, the mayor of Hebron.

Though the Israeli cabinet approved the first stage of Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai, Weizman left little doubt he was chagrined by the ministers' attitude toward the Washington talks.

"The atmosphere that I found in Israel in the last four or five days — it's as if a peace calamity were on the way," Weizman said, commenting on a reportedly stormy confrontation with the cabinet Monday.

But the cabinet approved most of the military package that Weizman presented, including the first stage of Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai desert.

Asked to predict when a peace treaty might be signed, Weizman said only, "by the end of 1978."

Atlantic City Hotel Casino Business Thriving

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two years after New Jersey voters approved casino gambling, Atlantic City is beginning to move out of the days of Boardwalk barkers and salt water taffy.

The phenomenal gross-revenues reported at Resorts International Hotel Casino have encouraged a surge of new real estate and construction activity in this rundown old resort.

There is now construction or demolition going on at six locations along the Boardwalk. With Boardwalk frontage at a premium, many potential casino hotel developers are now looking at land in a marina area nearly two miles from the beach.

Perhaps as the final reason for optimism, more than a half-dozen Nevada casino firms have announced investments in Atlantic City since Resorts International opened its casino May 26.

"Atlantic City is where the cheese is," says colorful Boardwalk merchant Reese Palley.

The Resorts International casino packs them in day and night. Business is three times better than comparable casinos on the Las Vegas strip. Renovations continue in the nearby old Chalfonte-Haddon Hall and work has begun to join the two hotels with a pedestrian bridge. The adjacent 258-room Ramada Inn was recently purchased and plans are to also connect it to the casino hotel, making a 1,072-room complex.

There are still no announced plans for Steel Pier, which Resorts picked up this summer. Plans for a new, 1,000-room casino hotel on 56.6 acres of vacant urban renewal land nearby are held up by a third-party suit against the city.

Caesars World, owner of the Las Vegas casino Caesars Palace, is laying the foundation for a $30 million casino and hotel addition to the former Howard Johnson's Regency Motor Hotel. Plans are to open the Boardwalk Regency by Memorial Day, which could make it No. 2. There is no work at Caesars' other Boardwalk location, the six-acre former site of the Traymore Hotel.

Bally Manufacturing, a Chicago slot-machine company, is moving ahead with its plans. The old Marlborough Hotel is demolished and plans are to blow up most of the Blenheim Hotel soon. Work on renovating part of the Blenheim and the adjacent Dennis Hotel is expected to begin soon. Bally plans to spend more than $100 million in a two-stage project that could have a casino opened by late next year or early 1980.

Playboy Enterprises has workmen testing pilings at a small site next to Convention Hall where Playboy plans to build a new 576-room casino hotel. All permits have been obtained but there has been no official groundbreaking. Playboy officials say they are not plagued by financial problems.

Penthouse magazine publisher Robert Guccione recently won state permission to combine the 391-room Holiday Inn and the 115-room Four Seasons Motel in a $80 million construction and renovation project. Guccione says he'll soon begin work and apply for a state license. There has been no word on Guccione's plans for the small Mayflower Hotel farther up the Boardwalk.

Work has begun to gut the interior of the tall, 395-room Claridge Hotel. A group headed by Connecticut contractor F. Francis D'Addario plans to add on to the back of the tower to make a 500-room casino hotel.

Ambassador Hotel is now owned by Ramada Inns, which bought the concrete behemoth in late September and immediately sent in workmen to pick up and survey the remains. The Ambassador, once the proud "Monarch of the Boardwalk," is falling apart a decade after it was closed by bankruptcy. Ramada Inns says it will put $70 million into renovations for a casino hotel to open late next year. It also has an option to buy the adjacent Sheraton-Deauville Hotel.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My mother, 85, recently had a stroke and is now in a nursing home. I will have to handle her affairs. She has some stocks — her only assets — worth about $60,000 and which pay dividends of approximately $4,000 a year. Her only other income is from Social Security and a small pension, totaling $250 a month.

I have been approached by a mutual fund representative who suggests I sell all the stock and put the money in his mutual fund. He says this will provide a 9 percent return a year and that shares can be sold to pay for mother's nursing home care. What would you suggest?

A. The mutual fund representative clearly is talking about a "periodic withdrawal plan" which would provide monthly checks. The money in the check comes, first, from dividends, second, from capital gains distributions, and, finally, from the automatic redemption of shares.

Because none of the mutual funds in the organization that representative handles pays 9 percent in dividends and/or capital gains, some of the shares would definitely have to be redeemed each month. That means your mother's assets would gradually be eroded.

The stocks she owns are now yielding 6.7 percent in dividends. You would have to start selling some of the stocks anyway. And selling small amounts of stock can be troublesome.

Assuming that the check from the mutual fund, plus her Social Security and pension, will meet your mother's nursing home costs, I'd say follow the mutual fund rep's recommendation.

Q. I am a captain in the U.S. Army, stationed in Europe. Because I am single and have income of approximately $20,000 a year, I would like to invest in tax-free municipal bonds, issued in the U.S. Where can I buy such bonds in Europe?

A. Gee, Captain, you should really look around next time you are in any major European city. Every one I have ever visited has branches of U.S. brokerage firms and banks. Brokerage firms handle all kinds of securities. Banks handle municipal bonds.

My advice to you is the same as it is to anyone living stateside. Visit a number of brokerage houses and banks. Explain your situation. Do business with the brokerage house or bank that appeals to you.

Q. I am getting along in years and will leave a rather large estate. I have heard that "flower bonds" would be a good thing for me to buy. Can you explain why?

A. Flower bonds are those U.S. Treasury bonds which contain the special provision that they will be accepted at face value in payment of federal estate taxes.

If you own flower bonds with a face — par — value of, say, $50,000 and after you leave this vale of tears your estate has to pay federal estate taxes of $50,000, the flower bonds can be turned in to square away that tax liability.

That can be done, despite the fact that the flower bonds might have a market value a good deal less than $50,000.

And all flower bonds are now trading in the marketplace well below their face values. This is because those bonds were issued years ago, when interest rates were much lower than today. The last U.S. Treasuries with flower provisions were issued in 1971.

They get their nickname from the floral wreaths at funerals. Since you're going to have a sizable estate, I hope you have sat down with a good tax lawyer. There's more to estate planning than flowers — in either wreath or bond form.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Seniors Get Break On University Fees

Thanks to a new state bill, local senior citizens now may audit courses at Texas Tech University without paying a cent.

The senior citizens audit program is in accord with the general university regulation that those who audit a course do so only for the purpose of gaining exposure to the subjects involved. Audit students don't have to submit assignments or receive grades or credit for the course.

Interested persons 65 and older can receive detailed information to prepare for their studies and instruction on the use of the library before entering a course, according to Dr. Suzan H. Schafer, associate director of Continuing Education.

More information may be obtained by calling or writing to Texas Tech University, Division of Continuing Education, Box 4110, Lubbock, Texas 79409.

Hundreds Hurt As New York Ferry Hits Manhattan Seawall

NEW YORK (AP) — A Staten Island ferry carrying 2,000 passengers across fog-bound New York Harbor crashed into a concrete seawall at the tip of lower Manhattan Tuesday, tossing the passengers about and peeling the steel deck back like a sardine can.

Officials said 173 persons were treated at five hospitals and dozens were given first aid at the scene.

The conditions of two people were listed as serious — one with a possible fractured spine and the other with a possible heart attack.

Other injuries ranged from broken bones to cuts and bruises suffered when the ferry American Legion struck the seawall at an estimated speed of 3 to 4 knots.

"There were people flying around the vessel, people thrown from their seats, just about everyone was knocked about," said Coast Guard Cmdr. Joseph Smith, who headed a Coast Guard investigation.

It was the first major ferry mishap here in 20 years, and the city Department of Transportation announced it would open a board of inquiry in addition to the Coast Guard investigation.

The ferry left St. George, on Staten Island, at 7 a.m. loaded to more than half its capacity of 3,400. Some passengers normally would have taken the 6:30 a.m. run, but it was canceled because it was election day.

Piloted by a 30-year veteran captain, the radar-equipped ferry emerged from a fog bank about 7:30 a.m., some 700 feet west of its slip and with the seawall looming straight ahead.

Many passengers were standing, ready to run for subways or buses.

Subpoenas were issued to Satler and to the assistant master, bridge and bow lookouts, mate, and engine room chief, with a hearing scheduled Thursday. Leon Tracy, commissioner of the Department of Marine and Aviation, which runs the ferry, said there was no sign of mechanical trouble and that Satler had an excellent record.

EDITOR'S NOTE: "The unfolding saga of Jacqueline Onassis has contained murder, betrayal, suspense, powerful men who have used and misused our beautiful heroine," writes Stephen Birmingham in his new biography, "Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis." Yet, in the end, she manages to triumph over them all. This part brings the tale of America's most watched woman up to date.

Part 11: 'Her Own Woman' At Last?

By STEPHEN BIRMINGHAM

In 1977, just two years after joining The Viking Press, Jackie suddenly and angrily quit. At issue was a publishing matter that did no credit to any of the people involved.

Viking earlier that year decided to publish a novel by British author Jeffrey Archer called "Shall We Tell the President?" Set in 1983, it involved the fictional assassination of President Edward M. Kennedy. As word of the book began to appear in the press, members of the Kennedy family expressed their distress and displeasure of their former in-law, the new Viking editor.

There are at least two versions of what happened. Viking President Tom Guinzburg says he discussed his firm's plans to publish the Archer novel with Jackie prior to drawing up the final contract, and at the time she expressed no objections. It was only the later pressure from her Kennedy relatives that made her upset.

According to Samuel Vaughan at Doubleday, however, that is not quite true. Vaughan claims that Jackie first heard of Viking's plans from her friend, Lisa Drew, sometime after the contract had been signed, that no prior discussion with Jackie had taken place and that Guinzburg had, in a sense, made his decision to publish behind her back.

In any case, the press, in reviews of the book, implied that Jackie had somehow been directly responsible for the book's publication. In his review for the New York Times, John Leonard called the book a "bad thriller," and said, "There is a word for such a book. The word is trash." Somewhat churlishly, he added, "Anybody associated with its publication should be ashamed of herself." Though he did not say who "she" was, it was quite clear to whom he was referring. Following the lead of the Times, the Boston Globe also ran an article blaming Jackie for the book.

Jackie was incensed. Although Guinzburg called the newspaper articles "grossly unfair," it was the end of a long friendship between himself and Jackie. He was particularly stung by the fact that Jackie did not discuss her resignation with him personally. She had simply cleaned out her desk and left him a curt hand-written note. The romance with Viking was over.

Jackie had discovered that publishing is no longer the "occupation for gentlemen" it might once have been, and that mixed with lofty aims to publish important literature are today's very real needs to make a buck. ("Remember the Ladies" had not been exactly a best-seller; "Shall We Tell the President?" has to date earned nearly $1 million for its author.)

Jackie's brief statement to the press at the time of her resignation reflected her hurt at this discovery. "Last spring," she said through Nancy Tuckerman, "when told of the book, I tried to separate my lives as a Viking employee and a Kennedy relative. But this fall, when it was suggested that I had something to do with acquiring the book and that I was not distressed by its publication, I felt I had to resign."

In New York, the literature and society worlds tended to take her side. After all, Viking had had a reputation of being a little thoughtless — not to say tacky and tasteless — for Viking to publish a book on a subject so sensitive to one of its contributing editors.

It was widely rumored that Jackie would soon join another publishing house — Doubleday, perhaps, where she had many friends. However, it was pointed out that John Sargent, Doubleday's chairman, was one of her frequent escorts; it seemed unlikely that a company head would hire a woman he was dating. Still, in the early spring of 1978, it was announced that Jackie would, indeed, join Doubleday's editorial staff.

To put off the press, she arrived at her new job later than had been announced. Soon everybody at Doubleday was saying the same nice things that had been said at Viking: that she was bright, efficient, undemanding, and well, just fitted right in.

She continued, meanwhile, to move in more or less literary circles in New York. She turned up, for example, at a publication party for friend Pete Hamill's new novel. On that occasion, a crowded roomful of supposedly sophisticated New Yorkers pushed, shoved, jostled and elbowed each other and stood on chairs to get a better look at her, offering such penetrating comments on her appearance as, "Her hands look old" and "Her feet are too big."

These semi-public surfacings were, it was said, all part of the "new image" Jackie was endeavoring to project.

But close friends disagree. "She doesn't even think about projecting an image," her sister, Lee, and her friend, George Plimpton, say. Plimpton says, "It's silly. One doesn't sit down one morning and say, 'I think I'll give myself a new image.' If she thought that way, she'd hire a public-relations agency."

Another friend says, "Look, you've got to remember that she was married to not one, but two, of the most difficult men in the world. They were both egomaniacs and bullies who treated women like chattel. Jackie was always somewhat diminished by them, dominated by

Four Piggly Wiggly Markets To Close

Shop Rite Foods Inc. has announced it will close four of its five Piggly Wiggly supermarkets in Lubbock on Saturday.

Stores involved include: No. 247, 6703 University; No. 255, 106 N. University; No. 262, 3101 E. 4th St.; and No. 270, Briercroft Shopping Center.

The company will maintain its printing department, and will continue operation of Store No. 248 at 3701 50th St.

Shop Rite closed the No. 264 unit, located at 3405 34th St., in July.

Officials of Shop Rite said the stores have been sold to another grocery chain.

Shop Rite operates its home office at Grand Prairie. Wallace F. Williams is president of the firm.

them and forced to live in their shadows.

"Jackie endured them both and out-lived them both. Now she's on her own as her own woman, and she seems to be finding it a thrilling experience. She doesn't want to be known as the wife of the president of the United States or the wife of one of the richest men in the world. She wants to be known as herself. Of course she's ambitious, and wouldn't settle for being anything second-rate. She wants to be important — and in her own right."

She enjoys being important, her friends feel, and she does not mind being a public figure. But she is also determined to maintain a high degree of privacy. Doubleday, the friends believe, helped provide this, and so has the city of New York. In the large, well-secured flat, decorated in sunny yellows, golds and greens, she can spend quiet evenings alone with her children.

In front of one living room window — overlooking the park, the lake and the Metropolitan Museum — stands an easel where she sits and sketches. There is also a telescope through which she can study her West Side neighbors. (How many women on Central Park West, reading about Jackie in their magazines, realize she is watching them?)

When she wishes, she gives one of her little dinners, like the one she gave for Sir Hugh Frazier, who had been Caroline's host in London. The guests — the George Plimptons, the Roger Mudds, the Stephen Smiths, the Arthur Schlesingers, Candice Bergen, Barbara Walters, the Peter Duchins, loyalists all — offered lengthy and humorous toasts to their hostess, congratulating her on joining the ranks of the employed. She answered each toast with a bright smile, nothing more. And the make-up of the guest list guaranteed that the party would not make the papers.

Still, whenever she ventures out — for an evening at the theater, for example, with Peter and Cheray Duchin, followed by a hamburger at P. J. Clarke's and a drink at Jimmy Weston's (where the party was joined by Frank Sinatra) — the photographers manage to find her. And her picture winds up in Newsweek and Time. Why does the public — and, in turn, the press — remain so interested in her every move?

Photographer Cornell Capa thinks it is her physical beauty — "the excitement, elegance and electricity she radiates." It lies in the wrap-around smile and the big, wide-set eyes.

"She projects," Capa says. "She doesn't have to do much. Her face carries its own spotlight. She has the ability to be looked at, and to be one who sees. She always knows what she's saying, and to whom. She can fit in everywhere. She's absolutely unique. Throughout history, there's been no comparable figure — modern, a queen, but not living on a pedestal."

Jackie's friend, Muffie Brandon, thinks it's her combination of determination, spunk and a certain daintiness. "She's a blend of iron and silk," Mrs. Brandon says.

Karl Katz of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, an occasional escort, speaks of her sense of humor — "a wonderful way of seeing the funny side to even a serious solution. She loves to giggle. She's great fun to be with."

George Plimpton also talks of the giggle: "It's a very intimate giggle. She and her sister both have it, a very soft, intimate speaking voice that completely absorbs you."

Louis Auchincloss, a cousin by marriage, also speaks of that intense personal magnetism, the magic gaze: "When she talks to you, she fixes those eyes on you and you feel as though you're the only person in the world she's interested in or cares about. Then, when she turns to talk to someone else, it's as though you've been dropped off the planet."

Others mention her considerateness. "I happen to have a bad back," Katz says, "the way Jack Kennedy did, and Jackie knows this, and she's always making sure that I've got the most comfortable chair. She sleeps things around town that she thinks I shouldn't carry — that sort of thing."

Katz also notes, "She's a wonderful mother, silly as it sounds to say that. But all you have to do is watch her with those kids — the way she laughs and jokes with them — and you see they're more than her children. They're her best pals."

Still, none of this explains why we, the public, remain so tantalized by her. Perhaps it is because, better than any famous woman in history — tentatively at first, then with growing aplomb and finally with magnificent mastery — she has learned how to play on her public and to manage her celebrity. Today she is in utter control of it. Her family has long had a streak of theatricality. There was her grandfather Bouvier's dramatic courtroom manner; her flashy, handsome father, who liked nothing better than to be mistaken for Clark Gable; her sister, the frustrated actress, and her aunt and cousin, the two Edies, both of whom had dreamed of stage careers.

One has only to watch the Mavles Brothers' film, "Grey Gardens," to see how Jackie's Bouvier aunt and cousin relished displaying their disheveled lives before the cameras, achieving a stardom they had always wanted but never before attained.

At the time of the film's release in 1974, it was widely criticized as a cruel invasion of the two defenseless eccentrics' privacy. The film included a scene in which one of "Big Edie" Beale's withered breasts tumbled out of the top of her swimming suit.

The Beales, themselves, did not take that view at all. "They're very nice people," Big Edie said of the filmmaker in 1976, not long before her death. "It's the greatest thing that ever happened to me in my old age. You know, I'll be 81 in October. Nobody else wanted to take my picture. I'm thrilled."

Not long after her mother's death, Little Edie, now in her 50s, made a belated attempt at a theatrical career, though her show-business debut was not all that auspicious. It consisted of a short engagement as a song-and-dance act at a New York night spot. The club figured people would come to see her out of sheer curiosity, and it was right. Before opening her act, Little Edie held a press conference, in which she admitted that Jackie had been paying many of her bills, and added, "Jackie's sweet. I should write her a letter."

Jackie's formula for dealing with her celebrity has been her own creation. See PUBLIC Page 8

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Will you give space to just one more letter initiated by the importance of wearing "nice" underwear in case of an emergency trip to a hospital?

I drive an ambulance. Our service makes an average of 4,000 runs a month. I won't go into detail about the gore and drama we see. The condition of a person's underwear is the least of our worries.

Anyone who thinks you make up letters doesn't know a thing about human behavior. Since I have been in this line of work I've learned that the sanest-looking, straightest-appearing people can be the loneliest. For example:

Recently we picked up a man who had to be rushed to the hospital. He was unclothed when we arrived. This highly respectable gentleman had a large tattoo around his belly button. It was unmistakably the rear end of a horse.

I'll never forget the elderly woman who was involved in a minor accident. When she was taken to the hospital it was discovered she had inserted a large roll of $20 bills in a place you wouldn't believe. "It's the only safe place these days," she explained.

I can't count the number of times we've pulled people out of wrecked cars who were dressed like women and they turned out to be men. Come ride with us sometime, Ann. You'll get an eyeful. It might be a welcome change from the earful you've been getting for so many years. — J.C., An R.N. in Louisville, Ky.

Dear J.C.: Eyeful? Earful? What's the difference? Nothing I read, see or hear surprises me anymore. I'm positively shockproof. But thanks for an inside look from another vantage point.

Clip 'n' Cook

MUSHROOM CREOLE OMELET

1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms or 1 can (6-8 oz.) sliced mushrooms
6 tbsps. butter or margarine, divided
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup diced green pepper
1 1/4 tsp. salt, divided
1/4 tsp. ground black pepper, divided
1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes, broken up
4 eggs
4 tbsps. water

Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms or drain canned mushrooms; set aside. In a medium skillet melt 4 tablespoons of the butter. Add onion and green pepper; saute until tender, about 3 minutes. Add mushrooms; saute for 3 minutes. Sprinkle with 1/4 teaspoon of the salt and 1/4 teaspoon of the black pepper. Add tomatoes, bring to boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Set aside; keep warm. To prepare omelet, separate eggs. In the large bowl of an electric mixer beat egg whites, water, remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon black pepper until stiff but not dry. Lightly beat egg yolks. Gently fold yolks into egg white mixture. In a 10-inch ovenproof skillet melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Add egg mixture; gently smooth over surface of pan. Cook over low heat for 5 minutes or until mixture is puffy and golden on the bottom. Place skillet in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees) for 10 minutes or until omelet is cooked as desired. Quickly run a spatula around inside of skillet to loosen omelet. Cut partway through omelet, down center. Spoon one cup of the filling over half of the omelet; fold remaining half of omelet over filling. Spoon remaining filling over omelet.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a very active male of 63. My blood pressure is now 110 over 68. I am six feet tall and weigh 200 pounds. About 10 years ago my doctor prescribed vitamin capsules for me. My pressure had always been low. I have taken the vitamin capsules since. Everybody tells us about the dangers of high blood pressure, and what we should do about it. What about those of us with low pressure? — C.J.

Too much is made of so-called "low" blood pressure, and I suspect from recent mail that some popular book has been written on the subject. This is the way these things develop. The very fact that people are constantly warned about high blood pressure and not about low blood pressure tells you something. High blood pressure carries many risks. Low blood pressure is not a disease, but a symptom. Pressure is not considered low unless it is consistently well below 100 (upper reading). That can be a symptom of a systemic disorder which would have other symptoms.

For most people low blood pressure is a positive factor. There's nothing you can do about it except to keep active. You say you were told about your "low blood pressure" ten years ago. Many things can happen in a decade of living — your weight, for example. A physical examination might turn up some surprising statistics. You may not even have such a nice low pressure today with your 200 pounds, which is somewhat high for your height. In some, low blood pressure may be produced by use of potent diuretics.

Persons with lower blood pressures seem to live longer than those with higher ones — just as skinnies seem to outlive the fatties.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Spinal X-rays show I have calcium and arthritis in my spine. The doctor calls it "cervical spondylosis." My right hand gets numb some mornings and I usually wake up with headache and aching in the back of my neck. Can the neck problem cause the headaches? The doctor just said to take pain pills. — M.L.

Cervical spondylosis (CER-vih-cal SPON-dih LOW-sis) is arthritis of the neck spine. There is a narrowing of spine discs and knobby formations. These cause pressure on nerves and can result in headache and numbness of the arms. Traction helps separate the spine joint spaces and relieve muscle spasm. You can do this at home, but it's wise to be instructed by a physical therapist initially.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can low iron cause itchiness? — M.M.

It can, and cases have been reported where otherwise unexplained itching has been eased with iron supplements. Usually, though, there would be other signs of iron-deficiency. Tests can easily be made to determine whether one is low in iron.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that there are drugs that can actually clean out artery deposits, more or less like drain cleaners can unplug a kitchen pipe? — B.L.

The arterial deposits (plaques) are not quite like the lime deposits in a pipe. In the arteries the deposits are part of the various layers of the arterial wall — part of the artery itself. In a few cases surgery can clear arteries. Much research is being done in non-surgical methods.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Explain colostrum. Is it a milk? How long does it last? — Mrs. P.T.

Colostrum is not milk, although it is sometimes referred to as "first milk." It is produced by the mother's breasts immediately after birth. It contains fats and sugars, and is slightly laxative. It also passes on some immunoglobulins that give a newborn limited and temporary immunity from some infections. It lasts only a few days at most, and is soon replaced by milk. It may be produced a few days before birth.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I had a dream the other night that I can't get out of my mind. The adults of the world became the children and the children ran the world.

It was terrible, standing down there wedged among all those knees. I couldn't get a drink of water, mail a letter, or open a door. Cars were even worse. If you didn't kill yourself getting to a window you just sat there on the seat with your legs sticking straight out, staring at the back of the seat. Every once in awhile, the child driving would say, "You sit down or you're going to break your neck. You know I can't drive and yell at you at the same time." But that wasn't true.

At the supermarket, I was just standing there when, without a warning, someone whipped me off the floor and forced my legs through a grocery cart seat that was so cold my teeth frosted.

I never got introduced. Sometimes, someone would say, "Oh, is this your youngest parent...or your only girl?" Or someone would say how much I looked like someone. But for all purposes, I had no name.

I took naps when I wasn't sleepy, ate when I wasn't hungry, had sweaters put on me when I wasn't cold and got thrown into swimming pools when I didn't want to swim.

I was tossed into the air when I had an upset stomach, forced to go to the bathroom whether I had to go or not, and ordered to stop crying when I had a perfectly good reason for doing it.

There were apartments with signs on the lawn that said, "NO PETS OR ADULTS." There were movies and rides that announced, "ADULTS MUST BE ACCOMPANIED BY CHILDREN TWELVE YEARS OR UNDER." Occasionally, everyone would laugh and when I asked what they were laughing about, they would say, "We'll tell you when you're younger."

I never did anything right. I played with chewing gum, wiped my hands off on my dress, leaned back on chairs, made faces in the toaster, and sniffed instead of using a handkerchief. Once when I came into the kitchen with a comb in my hand, I thought life was all over.

I crayed when I was supposed to, played with strangers when I was told to, and washed my hands 50 million times a day. I was seen a lot and not heard. "Given reasons of 'Because I said so, that's why' and told with regularity. 'You should have gone before you left home.'

But the worse part was that people kept telling me, "This is the best part of your life, so enjoy it."

I thought I'd never wake up.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag
A correspondent writes in part: "This hand has really caused a lot of trouble in our bridge group. As you can see, six clubs makes easily because after South draws trump he can set up dummy's diamonds with one ruff. It also makes six no-trump because West gets squeezed in diamonds and spades. The one contract that doesn't make is six spades and that is the one we played. Could you comment on the bidding?"

This is a very hard hand to bid. However, South started the trouble when he responded one spade. He has a very good hand and should respond two clubs. With good hands it is really important that you show your distribution.

North would rebid two diamonds and if this hand were played in a match point duplicate (even with the best players in the world) practically all South players would bid three no-trump and play it there.

The good club slam might be reached if South tried two spades as his second bid and North rebid to three diamonds. South could bid three hearts, North three spades, South three no-trump, at which point an ambitious and imaginative North might try four clubs to cause South to bid the club slam.

All wishful thinking. The main point is that South should not have responded one spade.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

My dishwasher conked out recently and I caught me without a dish drainer. You know how wet dishes stacked on a bare drainboard slip and slide and water seems to run all over the place... what a mess!

I tried using a thick, folded towel to drain the dishes on — which was OK — but I had a wet towel to cope with.

Then a friend said, "Let me show you how Heloise does it!"

She proceeded to place several thicknesses of newspaper over the drainboard, then one layer of paper toweling over that.

She washed and rinsed a mound of dishes without a drop of water running down the drainboard. The newspaper had absorbed every bit of the excess. Kisses to you, and my friend, for a slick trick! — Janie C.

Glad to be of help, dear heart. Old newspapers are almost as handy as nylon net! New uses are always cropping up. Drop in anytime — our door is always open — Hugs, Heloise.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE:
We hear a lot these days about ESP (extra sensory perception) and I've become a firm believer in it.
How else could you have all my great ideas before I've even sent them in? — Betty Shaw

DEAR HELOISE:

My young son cleaned up our garage in such record time that I investigated and found a clean, "swept" floor and a dirty dust mop.

After my initial reaction, I found the mop to do a faster and better job than a broom and it washes sparkling clean.

Here's to you, Eric! — J. Johnson

Volunteer Workers Receive Awards From State School

Lubbock State School honored its volunteer workers at a special awards presentation Sunday at the school.

Thirty-six volunteers received awards for their hours of service to the school including Mary Lackey, who was honored for 20,000 hours of volunteer time.

According to Mrs. Donny Kelsey, coordinator of volunteer services for the school, volunteers, both individual and groups, serve the students of the school in a variety of ways including providing parties and other special occasions and transportation.

Individuals often work as volunteers by serving as advocates for individual children, such as taking a child home for the weekend or sewing for a child.

Rice Gets American League MVP

Becomes Sixth Red Sox To Earn Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Slugger Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox, the first American Leaguer in 41 years to accumulate more than 400 total bases in a single season, was named the AL's Most Valuable Player for 1978 by the Baseball Writers Association of America Tuesday.

Rice beat Cy Young Award winner Ron Guidry of the New York Yankees comfortably. The Boston slugger received 20 first-place votes from the 28-man BBWAA committee and a total of 352 points, while Guidry, a unanimous choice for the AL Cy Young Award last week, had 291 points in the MVP election and the other eight first-place votes.

The only player to break the Rice-Guidry hold on the first two voting positions was Milwaukee's Larry Hise, who received one second-place ballot and finished third with 201 points.

Rice won the MVP designation following an awesome season at the plate. He led the majors with 46 home runs and 139 runs batted in, and had 406 total bases — the first AL hitter to reach that plateau since Joe DiMaggio had 418 total bases in 1937.

Rice also led the majors in hits with 213 and in triples with 15. He had a slugging percentage of .600 and batted .315, third in the American League behind 1977 MVP Rod Carew of Minnesota, who hit .333, and Al Oliver of Texas, who had a .324 average.

It took that kind of statistical dominance to beat Guidry, who led the majors with a 25-3 record that included nine shutouts and a 1.74 earned run average. Guidry's .893 winning percentage was the highest for any 20-game winner in baseball history.

Rice and Guidry were the only players named on all 28 ballots.

Following Hise were Amos Otis of Kansas City, who had 90 points, Rusty Staub of Detroit, 88. Graig Nettles of New York, 86; Don Baylor of California, 51; Eddie Murray of Baltimore, 50; Carlton Fisk of Boston, 49; and Darrell Porter of Kansas City, 48.

Carew finished 11th with 46 points. Under the point system used for the MVP voting, a first-place ballot was worth 14 points, with second place worth 9, third place 8, etc.

Rice's outstanding production helped Boston build a huge lead in the American League East, and even when the Red Sox slipped back, the muscular slugger continued to pound the ball at a frightening pace.

He reached the 400 total base plateau in the season's final week, an impressive accomplishment that may have sealed the MVP verdict for him. He was only the sixth player in the history of the American League to break that barrier. Ironically, when DiMaggio had his 418 total bases in 1937, the AL MVP award went to Detroit Tigers' second baseman Charley Gehringer.

Guidry's chances for the MVP probably were damaged by the existence of the Cy Young Award. Since 1956, when the baseball writers added the Cy Young to honor the best pitcher in each league to their post-season awards, only five hurlers have won both that award and the MVP. They were Don Newcombe in 1956, Sandy Koufax in 1963, Denny McLain and Bob Gibson in 1968 and Vida Blue in 1971.

Rice was the sixth Boston player to win the MVP award. Teammate Fred Lynn was the 1975 winner, when he also captured the AL Rookie of the Year Award. Other Red Sox winners were: Carl Yastrzemski in 1967, when he won the Triple Crown; Jackie Jensen in 1958; Ted Williams in 1949 and 1946, and Jimmy Foxx in 1938. Foxx also was the winner in 1932 and 1933 when he played for the Philadelphia Athletics.

Tech's Hadnot Earns SWC Offense Honors

By DON HENRY

Executive Sports Editor

Stopping James Hadnot is kinda like whistling Beethoven's Ninth; it can be done, but it helps if you have more than one.

The Baylor defensive unit would probably agree, after it saw Hadnot rush for 212 yards last Saturday afternoon. For that performance, the Texas Tech fullback has been named the Associated Press Southwest Conference back of the week.

The effort was Hadnot's third straight time to go over the 100-yard mark in rushing and the second time in three games to exceed 200 yards. For the past three games (New Mexico, Rice and Baylor), Hadnot has picked up 623 yards.

For the season, Hadnot has gained 863 yards and is in a position to break the school's season rushing record of 1,068 set eight years ago by Doug McCutchen.

The heavy yardage has come after Hadnot learned more about his position. He started the season as a tight end but was moved to fullback before the first game.

"Now, I know more about how to follow the blocking," Hadnot said Tuesday. "I'm learning how to cut off the offensive linemen's blocks now. That makes a lot of difference, too."

"It's just experience. At first, I wasn't used to playing in the backfield, and I had to think about getting the handoff, hitting the hole, starting out on the right foot, things like that."

"Now, though, that comes by instinct, and I can concentrate on picking my way and getting more yardage."

"I know that when we played Southern Cal (in the first game), I didn't run very well. Now, I think I could do a lot better, because I don't have so many things to worry about. I missed a lot of holes against them that I would find now."

Hadnot said he had learned how to hang onto the football better, when to change hands to avoid having the ball knocked loose. Many of the ball-carrying details he learned while watching films, both of himself as well as other backs.

"Also," Hadnot said, "Ron See HADNOT Page 3"

Speed-Tech
Swann Song

THE WAY REX Dockery tells it, he was speaking at the Permian High School athletic banquet, spotted this good-looking young man on the front row, asked about his future plans and immediately decided to pursue him.

The way Alan Swann tells it, it seems that no one on the major-college level wanted him after the word got out he was a bit on the slow side.

The way Tech opponents tell it now, he is fast enough — and good enough — to play in the major-college competition. He's doing it, and already, he's reaching for recognition. And speed plays a part.

Speed played a part in his landing a scholarship at Tech.

"Coach (Jim) Bates told me after I got up here that they had heard last spring that I ran a 5 flat (40-yard dash). I don't know where that came from," Swann recalled Tuesday, "because they timed me last fall in 4.6."

"But, then I started cutting my times in track (high hurdles), and then Coach Dockery talked to me and recruited me. I had already signed with Angelo State; I was going to play football and run track down there."

"I don't know if I will run track up here or not."

If he doesn't, he has a job just the same.

AT PERMIAN, SWANN played both cornerback (two-year starter) and fullback. But Dockery wanted him all the way as a defensive back and was able to recruit him, since Angelo is an NAAIA school and its letter was not binding on Tech.

Slow? As a high hurdler, the 6-foot Swann dipped as low as 13.7 in his specialty. For this time of the year, folks may tend to forget track times, but that matched the regional record set by Plainview's Randy Lightfoot several seasons back. And Lightfoot is remembered as later matching the national schoolboy hurdles record.

But, off his football days, only schools to show any interest ere Angelo State and some junior colleges. Colorado State showed some interest, but that was it on the big-time level. Until Dockery made his banquet pitch.

SPEED HASN'T HURT on the natural grass, either, as Swann has picked off five passes in the last three games, including two against Baylor. He returned one at Rice for 80 yards and a touchdown.

But, against Baylor, his first theft came on the Bears' initial offensive opportunity and allowed Tech to grab an early advantage. Striking fast and first is a key to winning, Dockery said in talking about the Baylor victory.

It took a bit of backing up to make it, however. Seems that Baylor quarterback Steve Smith stepped down the line after wheeling out from under center. Seeing Smith's initial move, Swann started for the line of scrimmage in a hurry, to get in on the action.

Just a couple of steps down the line, Smith stopped, and set up to throw.

"I thought it was an option play at first," recalls Swann. "I had already taken a step or two toward the line when he raised up. I was lucky to get back. The receiver was behind me, in between (Johnny) Quinney and me."

"I had to jump to get it."

Speed got him back in the passing lane, but the key to a cornerback's starting spot?

"I really don't know what I rely on," admitted the freshman. "You have to know (realize) quickly what is happening, so you can react, instead of having to think what to do."

"I try to read the linemen, to see what they're doing. Looking at films helps in this."

BEFORE ARRIVING AT Tech this fall, Swann had the feeling he might be red-shirted this season. But, as two-a-days progressed, he realized he might be playing some.

He made the trip to California and played about a quarter against the Trojans. "They completed a pass in my area which carried to the 2, but our defense held them."

He played off the sidelines until the New Mexico game when he started. But, that night, he was ill (influenza) and played only sparingly. "I had to play the last half, we had so many people hurt."

"But, playing here isn't too much different from Permian. The workouts are about the same, only we watch films a lot more."

"Going to college, I thought about Colorado, but they didn't offer me anything, because I like hunt, outdoor photography."

"Well," he paused, trying to choose his words correctly, "this area is all right, but you can't drive out a few miles and see some deer."

Cowboys Suffering From Early Dozing

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry, a coach in the National Football League for 18 years, said Tuesday he doesn't have the slightest idea why the Dallas Cowboys are dozing at the start of their games.

"We've been getting a lot of theories and I appreciate 'em," Landry said with tongue in cheek as he glanced at a table of writers during his weekly press conference. "I just don't know specifically why we start out the way we do but I know one thing — we have to stop it."

The defending World Champions are 6-4 and trail Washington by a full game in the National Conference Eastern Division. Dallas has been outscored 55-14 by its opponents in the first quarter and last week fell behind Miami 17-0 after a period and eventually lost 23-16.

"I was the most surprised guy in the stadium when Miami came out and scored 17 points on us," said Landry. "It's hard to explain."

Then Landry tried to explain.

"Our guys have been working hard," said Landry. "But just about everybody has what they want financially. You have to have a goal you are hungry for and willing to fight for. When you have it (the goal) on both fingers (two Super Bowl rings) motivation is different."

Landry said he had tried just about everything to get the Cowboys out of the blocks faster.

"I've cut down plays, meetings and workout times," laughed Landry after he was asked if he had been working the players too hard. "Maybe I didn't work them hard enough."

Landry said he had decided that Dallas' 38-0 victory over a crippled Baltimore team in the Cowboys' opener was "the worst thing that could have happened. It just came so easy. It looked like we could beat the world."

"The players felt that way and the press did, too. I didn't feel that way. Baltimore was a crippled team and didn't have Bert Jones. Now, we are fortunate to be where we are within striking distance."

Landry again could thank Baltimore for that.

The Colts defeated Washington 21-17 Monday night and Landry said "that was a break. I didn't expect Baltimore to win. The division championship is back in our hands again. We still have a game to go with Washington."

It was noted that Landry was no longer wearing his 1977 Super Bowl ring and he explained: "The ring is too heavy. I don't like rings anyway — except my wife says I have to wear this one (his wedding ring)."

Six years ago Landry took off his Super Bowl ring because of his team's poor performance.

Alborn Raps Holtz...

HOUSTON (AP) — Ray Alborn, the new Rice University football coach, admits he is a rookie who raves and rants a bit about officiating during games.

But Alborn says he is getting tired of reading newspaper complaints by Lou Holtz, whose Arkansas Razorbacks beat Rice 37-7 Saturday in Fayetteville.

"He wouldn't let the officials in the dressing room before the game, and he said in a newspaper he didn't want his kids to see the officials from Texas," Alborn said.

The assumption, he said, was it "would get his kids all shook up and distressed that they had Texas officials."

"Personally, I don't think we need that in college football," Alborn said. "There are a lot of insinuations when you say things like he said in the newspaper. By saying you don't want your players to see the Texas officials, that's implying they're incompetent or even crooked."

"I'm afraid what's eventually going to happen is some group of officials is going to go up there (Arkansas) and refuse to work a game," he said.

Alborn said it makes no difference whether officials are from Texas, Arkansas or Louisiana.

"I don't believe there's an official in our league that makes a call just because we're from Rice, Texas, Arkansas or A&M," he said.

"To me, it's asinine to drag that stuff out in the newspapers. I think it casts a bad reflection on every guy that wears a striped shirt. I know I'm a rookie, but I don't give a damn how many years you've been coaching, it's not right to say those kinds of things in a newspaper."

Alborn said he gets upset every Saturday.

"And I scream and holler and throw stuff and say things to the officials, but officials don't beat us," he said. "I don't think a bad call beats very many people."

Alborn said a former Aggie was among the officials at the Arkansas game.

"Rice and A&M have quite a rivalry," he said.

"Am I supposed to go raise hell because we've got an Aggie working our game? I think that's silly. The guy made some calls I didn't particularly like, but it wasn't because he's from A&M and I'm from Rice. That had no bearing."

...Cougars Eye Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — Sixth-ranked Texas has won 53 of its last 56 home games, including an NCAA record 42 straight, but Houston Coach Bill Yeoman said Tuesday his eighth-ranked Cougars are just happy to be playing before a crowd.

"You talk about home field advantages, we've never been in a situation where that meant very much," Yeoman said. "Our kids are just excited about playing before a crowd and they don't care whose crowd it is."

A sellout crowd of 80,000 is expected. Yeoman made similar statements in 1976, the Cougars' first year in the SWC, when they shocked the Longhorns 30-0 in Austin. His opinion of the home field advantage hasn't changed.

"A good example was down at Florida State this year," Yeoman said. "We had about 110 people there and they had about 45,000 and our kids loved it. I thought it was super that 64,000 saw us play at SMU. Our kids did too and they didn't care who they were cheering for."

"And I'm sure there will be a good crowd in Austin Saturday and it gives an indication of being a pretty good football game."

Houston will go into the game with a 7-1 record and a seven-game winning streak since losing its season opener to Memphis State. The Longhorns are 6-1 losing only to No. 1-ranked Oklahoma.

Yeoman said the Longhorns played great defense and had offensive personnel capable of making the big play, primarily Olympic speedster Johnny "Lam" Jones.

"I don't know how many times they've had third and 20 or more yards to go and wound up scoring," Yeoman said after studying Texas game film. "As you can see, field position doesn't mean much to someone who can run as fast as that kid (Lam Jones) on the flanks."

Yeoman said the Cougars would go into the game with no serious injuries.

Yeoman also wanted to refute rumors that he is superstitious. When asked why he had worn the same sweater and sat in the same seat at the weekly Houston Sports Writers and Sportscasters luncheon the past six weeks, he replied:

"I am NOT superstitious. I just don't want to take any chances."

Seagraves, Stanton Gear Up

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Now it can be told. On his preseason district prediction, Seagraves coach Jim Eddins picked Stanton as the champ.

Stanton coach David Thompson returned the favor, picking the Eagles. And that's the way the season has gone.

Now, with only two games left, the two coaches find themselves squaring off for what will be the district championship game this Friday night.

Seagraves is 5-0 and 8-0 over the regular season. Stanton is 4-0-1 and 5-2-1. The game played in Seagraves will decide who will advance to state.

"It's going to be the biggest one yet," said Eagle coach Jim Eddins, the survivor of innumerable big games this year. "This one is for the district."

If tradition is any indicator, Seagraves should win hands down. This will be the Eagles fifth straight conference championship, should they come out on top Friday.

Stanton, on the other hand, hasn't been to the state playoffs in 28 years.

"We've been looking forward to this one for a great while," said Richey. "We knew when we started that this was what it would come down to. They're the defending district champions and until somebody takes it, that's what they are."

For Eddins, this season has to be somewhat of a surprise. The Eagles lost 11 all-District players off last season's state semifinal team. But they've allowed only 16 points all year and have won several close games.

"To tell the truth," Eddins said, "I didn't feel like we'd be 8-0 right now at the beginning of the year."

"But I think our offense is improving — it's a lot harder technique-wise to play than defense — and our defense has been getting after it and keeping us in some games."

"We maybe have won some games we shouldn't have, but we've played some good ballclubs we feel like."

Just looking down the list of Seagraves' opponents, there's New Mexico powerhouse Eunice, Sundown, Lorenzo, Shallowater, O'Donnell. All of them were winners when they played the Eagles.

"At the first of the year we had to start over," Eddins said. "At the first of the year we had a long way to go."

"I don't know really if there's been one turning point in our season. I know our first game was big for us. Eunice has proved themselves to be a good ballclub and we beat them."

"I've been real pleased with our team," he said. "We didn't have much experience when we started."

The Buffaloes also had it tough early. They played Tahoka in their opener, then Coahoma and then McCamey.

"We had a real tough preseason," Richey said, "I thought that would help us and I think it did a little bit as far as being tougher. We're a pretty physical team and we've got a little speed."

Richey confided that he had an special urge to beat the Eagles. "It's been 28 years since they've won a district championship here in Stanton," he said. "They (Seagraves) have won it a bunch."

"This is an excellent opportunity for us to play them and beat them."

In other Class A area action, Bovina goes to Kress and Vega hosts Farwell before next week's climactic game. Bovina and Vega are tied atop District 3-A with 3-0 conference marks.

In 4-A things are, as usual, confused. With Hale Center, New Deal and Lorenzo 3-1 and Crosbyton, Petersburg and Ralls 2-2, the situation is what could be called competitive.

Hale Center goes to Lorenzo in a game which will knock out one co-leader and the other. New Deal, goes to Spur.

Player Of Week Honors Go To Plainsman Hanna

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 Trying to find complimentary conversation about Arthur Hanna causes the Monterey coaching staff to scratch their heads.
 After all, at 155-pounds, Hanna is not the biggest person to ever play football. Neither is Hanna fast or strong.
 And all the Plainsman junior did against the Coronado Mustangs last week is swipe two passes, one of which Hanna took 45 yards for a touchdown.
 You may say that Hanna played bad enough to be the Avalanche-Journal's defensive back of the week.
 "He's neither fast or strong," said Monterey Coach James Odom. "But Arthur does have good quickness and gets good position on the football."
 Hanna, who played a wide receiver last year, was swifited to the defense this season. Why would Odom move a player who is not gifted with speed to defensive back?
 "Because we had receivers returning this season," said Odom. "But we didn't have any defensive backs."
 Of course, speed is an ingredient that Monterey is used to being without.
 "We don't have any speed burners and our team traditionally doesn't have speed," said Odom. "Arthur can run between a 4.8 and 4.9 40 yard dash. That again, isn't good. But his best quality is being able to break on the ball."
 While Hanna was attracting the attention of the crowd Thursday night, others played important roles behind the scenes.
 Coronado's Alan Harp was in on 21 tackles. Lubbock High's Chris Bigham, 13 tackles, 2 interceptions and blocked a field goal; Estacado's Preston Davis, three tackles and one interception; Dunbar's Raphael Scott, graded 84 percent and had six tackles; Lubbock Christian's David Wisniewer, nine unassisted tackles; and Christ the King's fill in statistics.

Monterey's George Morris. Morris graded out 92 percent.
 Morris enjoyed a comfortable lead. Trailing the Plainsman tackle were Estacado's Darryl Saunders, 87 percent; Coronado's Ronnie Burnam, 78 percent; both Lubbock High's James Shelby and Dunbar's Kevin Lusk, 75 percent; Lubbock Christian's Mike Holt won the trench war against the Plainsman junior varsity's two-stack linebackers; and Christ the King's Phillip Buescher scored 90 percent.
 Coronado's Rodney Staggs defensive lineman award. Staggs was in on 20 tackles.

 But the competition was close. Lubbock Christian's Greg Mullins, who forced the Plainview junior varsity to change the direction of their offensive plays; and Christ the King's Justin Mehta and Steve Giber. The two Trojans had 17 and 9 tackles respectively.

Dunbar Beats EHS

Hadnot Honored By SWC

 (Reeves, Tech's quarterback) is running and throwing so well, and Mark (Johnson) and Phil (Weatherall) are too, and our receivers are catching the ball. All these things make it harder to load up on defense.
 "They just can't say, 'We're going to key on him' now, they can't key on anybody."
 After the Baylor game, coach Grant Teafel commented, "They can quit calling him a tight end. He is officially a heck of a runningback. He is as good as we have faced in some time. He breaks tackles-runs hard and is an Earl Campbell type."
 SMU coach Ron Meyer commented recently, "He's probably the best tight end in the conference. I hope they move him back before we play 'em."
 But, this week, the Raiders take on TCU, and the Frogs are coach Rex Dockery's main concern.

The Raiders put on full pads for Tuesday's workout, a session which drew a stamp of approval from Dockery. "It wasn't too good at first, but it got better, especially the last half."
 Mark Johnson, who started at tailback last week only to sustain a severe-ankle sprain on a blocking assignment, was able to walk Tuesday but not participate in the workout.
 "We just don't know about Mark yet," Dockery said. "We'll just have to wait and see. We'll definitely start Phil Weatherall (at Johnson's tailback spot), with (freshmen) Mark Olbert and Paul Rodgers as backups."
 Dockery indicated there is a possibility that cornerback Ted Watts, who sustained a broken jaw in the New Mexico game, will be ready to play by Saturday. Watts was able to work out Tuesday, wearing a large protective pad over the jaw.

Actor Leaves Catalina Island For Challenging Screen Work

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gregory Harrison believes that the island of Catalina off the coast of California is a great place for an actor to grow up.

It's crimeless, smogless, peaceful, he said. "I was always in the water, fishing, skiing, rowing or hiking around the island."

You could develop a very independent lifestyle. You could leave home early in the morning and not come home until night and your parents didn't have to worry.

Most important, he said, "is that at an early age I learned to entertain myself. Your imagination takes over. I guess that's what led to my becoming an actor."

Harrison might still be, on Catalina, where his father runs the glass bottom boat, if Jason Robards Jr. hadn't spotted him in an amateur production and encouraged him to seek training.

Little on Catalina, however, prepared him for other aspects of his role as pioneer Levi Zandt on NBC's "Centennial," the 26-hour series adapted from the book by James A. Michener. "Centennial"

His is a pivotal role that bridges the era of early exploration and the foundation and growth of the town of Zandt Farm, which becomes Centennial. Colo. Harrison, who ages from 23 to 66 in six segments, said, "All the aging in the show depends on how Levi looks. He becomes the patriarch of the town of Centennial."

Donald Pleasence knocked me into the Ohio River," he said. "I got a four-inch gash and staph from the polluted water. I was laid up for four days."

I had to learn to drive a team of grays. Then I had to drive six oxen with a whip. It had to be me in the shots and I felt terrible hitting the oxen. Then I realized their hides are so thick they hardly felt it.

Harrison, who had never been on horseback, also had to learn to ride like an expert. He said, "I had an accident with the saddle horn and I couldn't go to the bathroom for five days without excruciating pain."

Harrison, 28 and unmarried, spent four months on location in Kentucky and Colorado.

GREGORY HARRISON

"The hardest thing is leaving a production when it's over," he said. "You've established a lifestyle and made friends. It reminds me of the bond you form with friends in Army basic training. I've been melancholy since I left. I miss the people and the place."

"It's a wonderful, simple life. All you have to do is think about going to work in the morning and being with your friends at night."

Harrison said he had only one gripe about the production: "They spent so much time on the sets, the horses and the cattle that when we started shooting they'd say, 'We're behind schedule and can't shoot it a second time," he said.

"But the actors got together in the evenings and rehearsed, so when we got on the sets we were prepared. I don't think Universal Studios was aware of that. I think they thought they'd hired some nitzy actors."

Harrison said he had no fears at taking on such a major role. His previous experience was starring in the TV series "Logan's Run" for a short time and roles in two movies and several television shows.

"I was charged up," he said. "I had been doing a play. Four days before I left for Colorado the play closed. The play wasn't supposed to close for another five months. If it hadn't closed, I wouldn't have gotten the role."

Simon's Offering Via Chekhov Falls Short Of Early Standard

NEW YORK (AP) — Neil Simon performed some radical surgery on the short stories of Anton Chekhov to come up with "The Good Doctor," and admirers of the Russian master may want to sue for malpractice.

Chekhov's pathos, irony and deep sympathy for human foibles simply do not blend well with the wisecracks and light-hearted caricature that have been Simon's forte in such hits as "The Odd Couple" and "The Sunshine Boys."

Nevertheless, the result (which may be seen on Ch. 5 at 8 p.m. today) has its engaging moments and gives some good actors a chance to show their versatility.

Simon has adapted the 90-minute show from his Broadway play of the same name, which had a modest run in the 1973-74 season. That, in turn, was adapted from several of the late 19th Century Russian writer's stories — both comic and tragic — which Simon says just "knocked him out" when he first read them.

The title refers to Chekhov's own profession before he became a successful writer.

To bind together what is really just a series of separate sketches, Simon had the none-too-novel idea of using a character called The Writer, who sits in an empty theater in the middle of a Russian winter and tells us more than we want to hear about the agonies and joys of the creative process.

He is portrayed by Richard Chamberlain, who got his start playing another doctor — Kildare — and who tries his best to bring life to the stilted platitudes he is made to utter.

Other actors who pop up in the various scenes include Bob Dishy, Ed Asner, Lee Grant and, most frequently, Simon's wife, Marsha Mason.

In fact one of the episodes, "The Audition" is not based on a Chekhov story at all but was concocted by Simon simply to give Miss Mason a chance to read the final scene of Chekhov's play "The Three Sisters." She reads it pretty well — all three sisters.

Asner is his usual genial self in two brief appearances, while Miss Grant is particularly effective in "The Government," playing a rich woman who mercilessly cheats Miss Mason out of her wages, all the while reprimanding her for being too timid.

Dishy gets a chance to show off his flair for the manic in the two most substantial sketches, "The Sneeze" and "The Seduction." In the first he plays a government clerk who accidentally sneezes on his boss at the theater and becomes so obsessed by the action that he lets it literally destroy him. In the second he is a husband who unwittingly helps a rake seduce his wife.

Childress Building Contract Awarded

(CHILDRESS Special) — The U.S. Postal Service has awarded a negotiated contract to the architectural firm of Killebrew-Rucker and Associates of Wichita Falls to design the new main post office building here.

The proposed building will have approximately 11,708 square feet of floor space and will be located on a site on the southeast corner of U.S. 287 and 6th St. NW intersection.

The site, containing 58,350 square feet of land, was purchased in August for $72,937.50.

When the architect completes the design in March 1979, the Postal Service will call for construction bids.

SPC To Have Open House Here

LEVELLAND (Special) — South Plains College at Lubbock, which recently moved into new headquarters at 1302 Main, will have an open house Nov. 12.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony at 4 p.m. will be followed by remarks by guest speakers, dedication of a portrait of the late R.B. "Mac" McAlister, who was a supporter of SPC at Lubbock, followed by a reception and tours of the facility.

SPC at Lubbock has invited a number of distinguished visitors to participate in the ceremonies including U.S. Rep. George Mahon, State Sen. Kent Hance, Lubbock Mayor Dirk West, former mayor Roy Bass, Robert Stack of the Urban Renewal Agency, and a number of others involved in the move from SPC's headquarters since 1973 at 2404 Ave. Q to the newly renovated West Texas Hospital building this fall.

The hospital building was given to South Plains College by American Medical International, and a fund drive subsequently was headed by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to raise $160,000 over a three-year period to pay off an existing mortgage on the facility.

A $2 million grant was awarded by the Environmental Development Agency to remodel the seven-story building.

SPC at Lubbock opened this fall in its new facility, offering wide variety of technical-vocational programs and community service short courses.

Students Sweep Chimneys

PROVO, Utah (AP) — John Hansen and Brett Pincock walk atop the rooftops of Provo dressed in top hats, black pants and tails, poking their heads down soot-filled chimneys.

Using long wire brushes, the chimney sweeps scrape the insides of chimneys in much the same way as the legendary sweeps of 12th century Italy.

Both are Brigham Young University students who ply their unusual trade on Saturdays to help pay for their education.

Hansen, 22, a sophomore from Washougal, Wash., said he became interested in chimney sweeping six years ago. He said he persuaded Pincock, 30, a junior from Provo, to join him.

Pincock said it takes about two hours to thoroughly clean a chimney. They charge $36 for a regular fireplace and $25 extra for each additional one in the home.

Hansen said he traced the history of the trade back to 1250 when the sweeps cleaned chimneys in the old cathedrals in Italy.

"In the old days, a father would send his son down to clean the chimney, and he would crawl inside it," Hansen said.

Prince Born In Nepal

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Queen Aishwarya, wife of King Birendra of Nepal, has given birth to a son, it was announced Tuesday.

On the occasion of the prince's birth Monday, 10 prisoners serving various jail terms were released from the central jail.

The new prince is the third child of the royal couple. Crown Prince Dipendra was born in 1972 and Princess Shruti was born two years ago.

Soviets Honor Poet

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei Voznesensky has been awarded a Soviet state prize for his collection of poems "A Master of Stained Glass." Tass reported The Soviet news agency said Voznesensky's poems "clearly reveal the interests of a poet who is an architect by profession, a connoisseur of art, music and poetry."

VOZNESENSKY

Voznesensky has developed wide popularity in the Soviet Union and abroad since his first collection, "Parabola," was published in 1960. He is currently on a tour in the United States.

Ill Bishop Sent To Clinic

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Polish Bishop Andrzej Deskur, who was in a coma when Pope John Paul II paid him a visit a day after election as pontiff last month, was flown by a Swiss Red Cross plane to Zurich Tuesday for treatment at a clinic.

Vatican officials said the 54-year-old president of the Vatican's Commission for Social Communications, has made progress and was transferred to the Swiss clinic at the urging of relatives.

Deskur was unconscious and could not recognize the Polish-born pope during his 30-minute visit to the Home hospital. He has since regained his speech but is partially paralyzed.

'Poseidon Adventure' Spawns Encore Maritime Spectacular

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Undaunted by a swarm of perverse bees, filmmaker Irwin Allen is continuing his topsy-turvy way of capitalizing on human fears.

Allen discovered a bonanza by frightening audiences with water ("The Poseidon Adventure") and fire ("The Towering Inferno"), but he stumbled when he tried to employ insects ("The Swarm"). The irrepressible producer-director is back to water again with "Beyond the Poseidon Adventure."

Next, "Beyond the Towering Inferno"? Negative: his project for 1979 is "The Day The Earth Ended."

Allen's latest project is scattered over Stages 15 and 20 at the Burbank Studios, where he is filming "Beyond The Poseidon Adventure" for Warner Brothers. Everything is upside down, including a half-dozen new automobiles that are chained in a cargo hold. Allen was shooting a scene in which the hold slowly descended into a tank of water — warmed to 92 degrees for the comfort of the actors.

Mobile homes outside the stages bore the names of the cast: Michael Caine, Sally Field, Telly Savalas, Peter Boyle, Jack Warden, Shirley Knight, Slim Pickens, Shirley Jones and Karl Malden.

"I believe in the star system," proclaims Allen. Obviously, he also believes in putting his stars through the wringer, as Caine can attest.

"Every night, I go home with a fresh supply of bruises and cuts," he remarked. "Because the ship is upside down, the surfaces are irregular, so you're always stumbling, especially when you're waist-deep in water. Also, you encounter chandeliers and other objects and you have to step up four feet to pass through any doorway."

"I drew a nasty sprain in my leg yesterday. Fortunately, I didn't have to work this morning, so I could rest up."

The cast is well compensated for bumps and doublings. Karl Malden remarked that he is receiving his highest fee for a movie, high enough so that he doesn't have to worry about leaving home without his credit card.

As he prepared to dunk his stars in the tepid water, Allen discussed the new project:

"This story begins seconds after the 'Poseidon Adventure' ended. I commissioned the new book from Paul Gallico: it was the last thing he wrote before his death. He was kind enough to dedicate the book to me, and he explained in his foreword that the new story starts not where his first book ended, but where the movie ended.

"Gallico sank the Poseidon in his book. I kept it afloat."

Allen said Gallico finished all but eight pages of "Beyond the Poseidon Adventure" before he died last year. His wife, Virginia, completed it.

The new plot concerns a group of salvagers (Caine, Field, Malden) who board the capsized liner in search of loot. They are joined by a suspicious doctor (Savalas) and along the way they encounter various survivors of the disaster (Boyle, Jones, Warden, et al.).

Allen is spending $12 million on his faith that the disaster movie will rise again. This, despite the failure of "The Swarm" last summer.

"What happened?" he mused. "Apparently, the subject matter was unpleasant to a large part of the audience. They didn't like to see insects as a menace. That was something our research didn't show."

He added that "The Swarm" will show a modest profit through TV and foreign sales. But nothing like the $130 million in film rentals for "The Poseidon Adventure" and $155 million for "The Towering Inferno."

Anti-Dog Doo Law Working

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's anti-dog doo law is such a success that "New Yorkers are finding it easier to walk the streets with their heads held high again," says Mayor Edward Koch.

Koch said Tuesday his conclusion was based on reports of public compliance with the law which went into effect last Aug. 1.

Despite initial public skepticism, the mayor said: "Today, I can safely say the law is working and is serving as a model for other cities throughout the world."

Under the law, people walking dogs are required to pick up their pets' droppings or face fines of up to $100.

The mayor said that in the first three months, a total of 4,298 dog owners cleaned up the droppings after being warned by law enforcement officers that they would be issued summonses.

Shark 'Attacks' Not Fatal

ATLANTA (AP) — Sharks of a toothless variety "attack" about 150 persons at a city park 300 miles from the Atlantic Ocean. The sharks play hard and fair. But nobody gets hurt.

"Play hard, play fair, nobody hurt" is the slogan of the New Games Foundation, a non-profit organization that offers an alternative to traditional sports.

"Jaws" is one of the alternative games. It is played with a giant parachute and as many people as possible. The parachute is the "ocean" under which three or four "sharks" gather.

Everyone else holds the ocean waist-high, and the sharks circle underneath. When they attack someone at the edge of the ocean, that person screams, feigns an untimely demise and then becomes a shark.

Among other games are "earthball," played with a giant ball painted like a globe, "boffing," a sword-fight with pliable swords, "levitation," where a group of people lift someone over their heads, and "annihilation," where two teams on hands and knees try to push each other out of a marked area.

Cancer Victim Not So Heroic, Friends Not So Supportive In 'First You Cry'

NEW YORK (AP) — Television has dealt several times with the trauma and tragedy of cancer, generally in the portrayal of a victim supported by family and friends through months of illness.

"First You Cry," to be broadcast at 8 tonight on Channel 13, adds new dimension to TV's approach to the sensitive subject. "If I don't die," the victim says in the drama's concluding scene, "then all I've lost is a breast, and that's not so bad."

"First You Cry," starring Mary Tyler Moore, is the story of NBC News correspondent Betty Rollin and the wrenching physical and emotional pain she endured before and after a mastectomy. And unlike some of its predecessors — "Brian's Song," "The Gathering," "Little Mo" — the victim is not always heroic, the family and friends not always supportive.

The story differs from the others in another sense: the victim lives. The difficult parts come as the victim reacts to the disease and its effect on her.

"I'm not terrific, gutsy Betty anymore," she says at one point. "I'm damaged goods." And, of her husband, she says at another, "Well, he's not exactly ready to deal with the fact I'm mangled."

But granting the show an upbeat ending is not the same as saying all is well in the end: "Every time my feet hurt," Miss Rollin tells her mother while waiting for a checkup, "I'm convinced I've got cancer of the toe."

Miss Moore calls the role one of her most difficult. "It was the first time I really had to create a role where I had to be somebody else and couldn't use my bag of tricks — the reactions, all those qualities I've been trading on for years," she said in a recent interview.

"First You Cry" is hardly sentimental in approach. Miss Rollin's marriage it shakes even before she learns she has cancer; her mother acknowledges engendering a feeling of invincibility in her daughter, and the surgery leaves her, as she says, "a bad soldier."

Yet, with the support of Miss Moore, the story is not without a sense of humor.

In one scene, after the operation, she slips a rolled-up pair of socks down the front of her dress to replace the lost breast. It pops into sight as she raises her arm.

"Think anyone will notice this?" Miss Rollin asks a friend.

Anthony Perkins, in his first TV role in 19 years, is Arthur Herzog, Miss Rollin's husband. Richard Crenna plays David Towers, a former admirer who re-enters her life. Jennifer Warren is her best friend, and Florence Eldridge her mother.

Elton John Rushed To London Clinic

LONDON (UPI) — Rock star Elton John was rushed to a private London clinic Tuesday suffering from what his record company described as a "mystery illness."

A spokeswoman for Rocket Records emphatically denied newspaper reports the 31-year-old singer had suffered a heart attack.

"That is just not true," she said. "He has a mystery illness and tests are being carried out now. He played football on Sunday and as far as we know he was in good health."

John had been due to fly to Paris Tuesday for a checkup on his much publicized hair transplant. He reportedly collapsed at his home in Buckinghamshire, just northwest of London, and was rushed to the Harley Street Clinic by ambulance about midday.

A clinic spokesman said the rock star was conscious when admitted and had undergone a comprehensive series of tests in the intensive care ward.

"He is now comfortable," the spokesman said.

GOSPEL MUSIC AWARD NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The recording industry's Manna Music has named the outstanding gospel publisher of the year by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

chief of police at a salary of $1,590 per month.

A graduate of Hobbs High School, Cheney has a bachelor's degree from College of the Southwest in Hobbs and is a graduate of the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Va. The new chief has been with the Hobbs department for more than 15 years.

In announcing Cheney's appointment, Harvey emphasized the city's goal of "providing professional, swift police service to all of the citizens of Hobbs."

Harvey continued to say that "because of his excellent credentials and experience, it is felt that Cheney will provide the essential leadership necessary to continue the excellent record established by the Hobbs Police Department."

Cheney is a member of the legislative committee of the Region VI Criminal Justice Planning Commission.

Uncertainty Surrounds Ownership Of Farmland

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite scores of studies and countless statistics in recent years, the vast and complicated issue of farmland ownership in the United States still is a long way from being explained satisfactorily.

The General Accounting Office, an auditing agency of Congress, is among the latest to examine accrued perplexities regarding land ownership, farm size and the perennial debate about "family farms" and where they are headed.

One concern common to many farm organizations, economists and consumer groups is whether land is being or will be gobbled up in such quantities as to affect the future agricultural capacity and costs of producing food in this country.

As other reports have done, the GAO study raises more questions than it answers. It does, however, define some of the patterns that have affected agriculture in the past and points out some of the gaps in the information available at the present time.

The report, a 152-page document, says that "there is much that is not known about who owns, controls and operates" farmland in the United States.

Congress, various interest groups, and federal and state governments "have been focusing on the potential problems of increased foreign ownership" of farmland, it said.

For example, Congress recently approved legislation that will require foreign owners of land to report their holdings to the Agriculture Department, including prices paid for it.

The GAO said that information on foreign ownership of land is important but added that "other complex questions" also deserve more attention, such as:

—How many daily farm operators own and manage the land they till? What is the trend?

—Is a "landed aristocracy" being created which effectively bars prospective new farmers?

—What is the make-up of the partnerships and corporations which own farmland? How many are owned by families that do not actively engage in the farming operation?

The report said that farmland ownership studies that have been initiated by USDA "may clear up a few of the questions" but that "many of the significant issues about ownership and control of farmland will not be touched."

In its study, GAO said there are many reasons why it is important to know who owns the land, including a trend of having federal price supports capitalized into land values, thus benefiting the owners of land and not necessarily those who actually farm it.

The GAO warned that those who gather information on farmland ownership "must be careful to avoid the myths about ownership structure" and to recognize that "sole proprietorship may not be the most advantageous organization for the family farmers."

Similarly, the agency said, "It is misleading to group together all corporations and talk of corporate influence taking over agriculture."

The GAO said that "family farmers incorporating for management purposes must be separated" by those who study U.S. agriculture "from the multi-interest corporation" that owns farmland and from corporate or individual owners who do not actually farm the land.

As other studies have indicated for many years — and farmers themselves have known — the GAO report said that large farms, whether they are owned by individual farmers or corporations, have become "the dominant force" in American agriculture.

It may be useful in considering agriculture to listen to the report's version of what has happened over the years:

"Finding economic pressures too great, many farmers left the land. Others nearing retirement age, also sold their farms. Mandated by the changing times, technological advances allowed neighboring farmers to consolidate the additional land into more-economical units.

"A few aggressive, successful farmers have managed to dominate agricultural sales, with the top 2 percent of the farms in 1974 accounting for nearly 37 percent of all sales (of agricultural products).

"These few significant farms have annual sales of $200,000 and above. Although there are still many traditional family farms, they are having a decreasing influence on agriculture as a whole."

Further, the largest farms — representing 20 percent of all farms in the United States — market about 80 percent of the nation's total agricultural products.

"Corporations, accounting in 1974 for only 1.7 percent of farms, have become the 'bad guys' of organizational structure," the report said. "The term 'corporation' conjures up a large multi-interest organization, invading agriculture on a grand scale and putting small family farmers out of business."

A study by the Agriculture Department, now 11 years old but still the most recent in-depth analysis of corporate farming, said that nearly two-thirds of the farming corporations were family owned and that an additional 14 percent were controlled by individuals.

Even so, large multi-interest corporations can have a big impact in certain parts of the country and in the production and processing of some commodities.

"In 1970, 100 percent of sugarbeets, 92 percent of broilers, 88 percent of processed vegetables and 47 percent of citrus fruits were produced either on land owned by agribusiness corporations or under corporate contract," the GAO said.

The report concluded "the picture is far from total because of some serious problems with the completeness and the reliability of existing information."

A lag in assembling and making available census information, lack of cooperation among various federal agencies and budgetary restraints on carrying out comprehensive studies were cited as reasons.

Chinese Give U.S. Officials Agricultural Proposals List

By IAN NACKENZIE
PEKING (Reuters) — Chinese officials have given an American agriculture mission a "very concrete" list of proposals for possible bilateral cooperation, with an emphasis on mechanizing China's food processing industry, U.S. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said.

He told Reuters his two days of official talks so far in Peking have been very, very successful. The atmosphere has been friendly, open and congenial.

Bergland said he had been discussing China's interest in American technology and equipment in general terms, while three panels of experts accompanying him had been getting down to details.

The expert discussions included basic agricultural research and data gathering. American agricultural scientists are particularly interested in soybeans and sorghum, both of which originated in China.

Asked about Chinese agricultural sales to the U.S., Bergland said this came up only indirectly when he referred to his government's general open-door trade policy and desire to reduce trade barriers.

Asked whether his mission is likely to achieve concrete results similar to the agreement projects for cooperation reached by an energy mission under U.S. Energy Secretary James Schlesinger last week, Bergland said, "We have a very concrete list of proposals put forward by the Chinese."

Net U.S. Farm Income Expected To Increase

By Reuters
WASHINGTON — Net farm income this year (before inventory adjustment) in the United States is forecast to increase by at least one-fourth above the $20 billion of last year, the U.S. Agriculture Department said.

In a summary of its agricultural finance outlook report, the USDA said higher prices for meat animals and a general price improvement for many other products have resulted in a sharp rise in cash receipts from farm marketings.

Increased government payments under price support programs is also expected to contribute to the increase, the USDA said.

A further increase of about 13 percent in farm debt is projected for 1979, the USDA said.

Eyen though the increase in total farm debt is forecast to outpace the rate of gain in farm asset values, the debt-asset ratio is projected to reach 17.6 on Jan. 1, only 1 percent higher than the ratio of 10 years ago, the USDA said.

The current condition of farm debt reflects cautious borrowing by many farmers and efforts of borrowers and lenders to modify and restructure loan terms when needed, the USDA said.

The American Agriculture chief arrived in Peking on Saturday, and had official discussions with Chinese Agriculture and Forestry Minister Yang Li-King yesterday and met Foreign Trade Minister Li Chiang earlier Tuesday.

China re-entered the American market this year after an absence of several years, making substantial purchases of wheat, corn, cotton, oil and hogs.

Bergland said, however, further short or medium-term sales of American commodities to China have not so far been discussed.

The USDA said prospects continue favorable for 1979, and net cash farm and off-farm incomes both are expected to increase next year. Widespread increases in farmland values continue and are expected to average between eight and 10 percent nationally, the USDA said.

Livestock producers' income improved this year and further improvement is expected in 1979, as reduced cattle herds and less beef on the market boosted prices for red meats as well as poultry, the USDA said.

Hog production has not expanded this year as expected, despite favorable feed-product price ratios, the USDA noted.

The USDA said farmers will be paying about $8 billion more this year in production expenses and, with most costs continuing to rise, further increases are expected.

Total farm asset values are expected to rise $66 billion, or 9 percent this year, with the value of farmland expected to increase about $47 billion, up slightly from 1977, the USDA said.

The gain in total assets compares with an 8 percent rise in 1977 and the average gain of 12 over the last five years.

Farm debt is expected to increase by $17 billion this year and is forecast to reach $136 billion by Jan. 1, the USDA said.

China officials expressed interest in American technology to modernize agriculture, ranging from feed factories and the modernization of livestock production, particularly poultry and swine, to irrigation equipment and farm tools of various kinds.

Methods of financing Chinese imports have not so far been raised.

Bergland said Chinese and American officials also discussed in great detail steps taken by the U.S. government to prevent smut fungus (TCX) from appearing in wheat shipments to China.

He said the Chinese appeared to be quite satisfied with the "very firm measures our government has taken to ensure U.S. wheat is free from TCX."

Russians Harvesting Record Wheat Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Boosted mainly by more wheat, the Soviet grain harvest this year was a record 230 million metric tons, nearly 18 percent larger than the 1977 production, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

One effect of the huge harvest will be to cool off Soviet grain imports at least slightly in the coming year, the department said.

Sales of wheat and corn to the Soviet Union in recent years have been an important factor in a thriving U.S. farm export business.

The new estimate followed an announcement Nov. 4 in Moscow by Premier Alexei Kosygin that grain output this year probably would exceed 230 million metric tons.

A month ago, the department's special task force on Soviet grain production estimated the crop at 220 million metric tons — the goal set by Moscow this year — but noted that the final outcome could range between 210 million and 230 million metric tons. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

The report said Soviet wheat production this year was about 115 million metric tons, compared to 92 million in 1977 and the department's estimate a month ago of 110 million metric tons.

Coarse grains such as corn were estimated at 103 million metric tons against 93 million in 1977 and 100 million metric tons estimated last month.

The remainder consists of 12 million metric tons of "miscellaneous grains" such as rice, buckwheat, beans and other pulses which the Soviet Union includes in its total grain figures.

Sources had indicated late Monday that the department soon would announce its estimate at the level mentioned by Kosygin and that it traditionally accepts the grain production figure announced by Moscow.

Last year's Soviet grain output was 195.5 million metric tons, substantially less than Moscow's 1977 goal of 213.3 million metric tons.

The new estimate would make the Soviet grain harvest the largest on record, exceeding the previous high of 223.8 million metric tons in 1976.

Officials said that it appears the Soviet Union will import about 15 million metric tons of grain from all foreign sources in 1978-79, down one million from earlier projections.

The Soviet Union bought about 14.8 million metric tons of wheat and corn from the United States in the year that ended Sept. 30, up from about 6.1 million in 1976-77.

FFA Adviser Honored At Convention

SPUR (Special) — W. W. "Bill" Gregory, vocational agriculture instructor and FFA advisor at Spur High School received the Honorary American Farmer Degree at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo. this week.

Gregory was nominated by the Texas FFA Association for the highest national honorary degree presented by the FFA. Ten Texas vocational agriculture teachers were among 85 instructors from across the nation to receive the degree this year.

During his 28 years at Spur High School, Gregory has had two students who have earned the American Farmer Degree and 20 students who received the State Farmer Degree. Twelve of his students have earned state proficiency awards.

The degree is awarded on the basis of points scored by a teacher for his accomplishments as a vocational agriculture instructor, FFA advisor and as a participant in professional vocational agriculture teachers organizations.

At least 50 of the nations 11,500 vocational agriculture teachers receive the award annually.

Farm Wives Hold National Convention

WIFE (Women Involved in Farm Economics) held its national convention in Billings, Mont., this past weekend where members heard speeches on economic theory, learned new ways to be effective, and elected new officers.

Arnold Paulson, National Director of NORM (National Organization of Raw Materials) told nearly 900 farm wives and their husbands that "The nation's economy is facing collapse by consistent underpayment to the nation's raw material producers."

The economic theorist told farmers that agricultural products make up 70 percent of those raw materials.

Montana Sen. John Melcher credited WIFE members with taking agriculture to Washington, D.C., saying "Their fresh new approach was extremely effective in lobbying for agricultural legislation."

Jim Olson, acting chairman of legislative affairs for the Soil Conservation Service, conducted a workshop on legislative process.

He stressed the importance of being specific and concise when communicating with congressmen and with committee members from other states.

National officers elected for 1979 are Betty Majors, of Nebraska, president; Lavena Swanson, of Arizona, first vice-president; Lucille Bowman, of Wyoming, second vice-president; Mildred Van Naman, of Kansas, third vice-president; Alice Parker, of Washington, fourth vice-president; Vee Dunn, of Texas, recording secretary; and Nancy Kinder, of Washington, treasurer.

Nicaraguan Refugees Live In Squalor

CAMPO LUNA, Honduras (AP) — Some 10,000 Nicaraguans, many ill with malaria, dysentery and other diseases, are crowding Honduran refugee camps such as this one, living in misery but afraid to go home.

A Honduran camp volunteer said they fear reprisals in Nicaragua because of their support for a guerrilla uprising against President Anastasio Somoza. The refugees started crowding in during September as guerrillas battled against the Nicaraguan national guard.

"The children are full of parasites and nearly all have diarrhea. We estimate 80 percent of the people here have malaria," said Frances Crawford, 49, a nurse-midwife from Farmington, Mo., who runs a small clinic at the camp.

Near the dirt-floor clinic, 450 blue-and-white tents are spread in long lines across the camp. Each tent able to shelter up to 10 people.

The camp is about 30 miles from the Nicaraguan border, is near Choluteca and is housing several tent communities war in Nicaragua who fled the guerrilla maintain a neutral Honduras tried to Outside the camp in the conflict silently cradled a crowd of mothers they waited their turn to nurse their children against him," she said. "Three strikes old baby from its mother. A 6-week-old baby was given an injection in the leg and as the infant whimpered she turned him to show a cleft palate," she said.

"His stomach is bloated by parasites, and he's got some other illness as well," Crawford added. "I'm just trying to keep him alive until we can find a way to get him to a good hospital."

The woman said several persons at the camp exhibited symptoms of typhoid and dengue fever, but she said blood samples had not yet been returned which could confirm the diseases.

"A Nicaraguan doctor who was here diagnosed the typhoid, but he was afraid he might be killed (by Somoza supporters) and fled to Costa Rica," said Crawford, who runs the clinic for the Southern Baptist Convention's Foreign Mission Board.

The Honduran Red Cross administers the camp.

On this day, it was being run by a 19-year-old volunteer, Manuel Ismael Flores. He said many people in the camp are afraid to return home for fear of reprisals because they sympathized with the guerrillas — led by the Marxist-organized Sandinista National Liberation Front — who are fighting to topple Somoza.

Flores interrupted a tour of the camp briefly to talk to two rifle-bearing Honduran soldiers who he said were there to protect the refugees from Somoza supporters.

Flores said 15 babies had been born in the camp since it was opened in late September. He proudly showed one 13-day-old infant that had been named for him.

"We're giving the people three meals a day, but we're not certain how long the food will last," he said. "We're also short of medicine."

The camp has one kitchen where workers using three-foot-long spoons stirred cauldrons of stew that simmered on a wood fire. One woman cooked tortillas on an iron-sheet that had been placed atop the grill.

"They line up with their plates behind these wooden railings. It only takes a few minutes," Flores said.

Ex-Policeman Reports Attempted 'Lynching'

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (AP) — A retired policeman who claims four men tried to lynch him says he would be unable to identify his assailants because his glasses were knocked off in the attack.

Charles Marcinek, 58, said that by the time he located his glasses using a cigarette lighter the lynch mob had dispersed, apparently frightened away by the noise.

"I have no real idea who they were. There's no way to identify them. I have no way to identify them. I have no way to identify them."

A police officer, Charles Marcinek, said Tuesday "we start talking" before until somebody is arrested. "We start talking" before until somebody is arrested.

"Who would expect to be lynched in this day and age?" Marcinek said. "I heard footsteps behind me," he said.

Marcinek said he was attacked day evening while walking his dog. "I heard footsteps behind me," he said.

"The heavy-set guy took the rope off my neck and they ran for their car and took off," he said. "That guy who probably saved my life."

shovels and wheelbarrows picked up litter and kept the trenches clear.

Flores said the occupants receive mail at the camp, but there is no telephone service. A loudspeaker at the center of the camp was blaring the rock record "Staying Alive," interspersed with a few announcements.

Flores said most people slept on the floor and there was an urgent need for blankets and clothing. He said many children had respiratory ailments from sleeping on the tent floor, which he said got cold at night.

Some of the tents were supplied as emergency quarters by the U.S. government for use after Hurricane Fifi struck the north coast of Honduras in 1974, Flores said.

Luis Aguirre Rodriguez, area Red Cross commander based in Choluteca, said the camp was intended to be in existence only three months when it was set up.

"Now we're looking into the possibility of setting up prefabricated buildings," he said. "Those tents won't last forever."

Plainview Museum Sets New Displays

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Indian war garments and a Victorian spinnet are two small parts of the new exhibits at the Llano Estacado Museum in Plainview.

The Indian exhibit is the largest of the new displays according to Eddie Guffee, museum curator.

The war garments, a brush arbor, a lifeline teepee, and a winter count will be part of the Indian display. A winter count is a buffalo hide on which Indians kept tally of the animals they killed.

Indian songs and war chants, taped and triggered by an electric eye, will be also a part of the exhibit.

Victorian furniture for a living room, bedroom, and a music room fill the three rooms on the first floor set aside for the Victorian display.
