BIG SPRING (Special) — Three members of a Coahoma family were killed and three other persons injured Saturday afternoon in a two-vehicle collision just west of Coahoma on the north service road of Interstate 20.

Larry Travis Greenfield, 40, his wife, Jackie, 27, and Greenfield's daughter Tammy, 15, all of Coahoma, were killed in the 5:50 p.m. collision with a car driven by Mike Asselin, 28, of Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield were pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Bill Tune of Big Spring, and Miss Greenfield was dead at 6:30 p.m. on arrival at Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring.

Others Injured

Asselin and two other members of the Greenfield family also were injured in the crash. Jolene Greenfield, 6, was in serious condition late Sunday at Odessa Medical Center, and her brother, Darin, 8, was in stable condition late Sunday at Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring.

Asselin was in stable condition with chest injuries at Malone-Hogan.

Department of Public Safety reports indicated that the Greenfield's vehicle was northbound on Salem Road and that Asselin was eastbound on the north service road of the Interstate when the accident occurred.

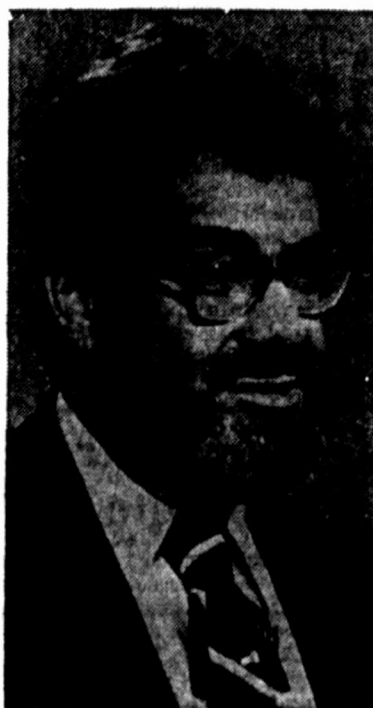

Services for Tammy Greenfield will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel in Big Spring with Glenn Sargent, pastor of the Coahoma Church of Christ, officiating.

Burial will be in Coahoma Cemetery under direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Ryan Often Undertook Dangerous Inquiries

A-J News Services

SAN FRANCISCO — During his 16 years in politics, Rep. Leo Ryan frequently subjected himself to danger, whether in the volatile Watts ghetto or behind the walls of Folsom Prison.

And, according to his aides, he was aware that he might receive a hostile reception or his tour of a transplanted religious sect in the jungles of South America.

"His trip here was in keeping with his practice of going to see for himself, to check out the problems of the people he represented," Joe Holsinger, his administrative aide and a long-time friend, said Sunday.

"He knew it was relatively dangerous," said Pat Ryan, 25, one of the congressman's five children. "But that never stopped him before. This was something he had been working on for a long time."

"I don't think he had been expecting anything to happen this time," she added. "Of course, no one ever does expect things like this."

The Ryan children had maintained an all-night vigil at the family home in Burlingame, south of here. They got the word of their father's death Sunday morning.

Ryan was divorced from his second wife, Margaret, in 1971.

His heavy foreign travel was a major issue in the recent election. But the voters in San Mateo County's bedroom communities south of San Francisco overwhelmingly sent Ryan back to the House for a fourth term.

At the time of his death, Ryan was looking forward to an increasingly active role as a member of the House International Relations Committee and chairman of the Environment, Energy and Natural Resources Subcommittee.

Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., a fellow member of the International Relations Committee, called Ryan one of a "whole new breed of investigative congressmen... who go out and see things for themselves."

Ryan was generally considered a liberal, but he had substantial support in his home district from the wealthy Republicans of Hillsborough and Burlingame as well as the workers in the industrial north of the county.

His environmental concern dates back to his days in the California Assembly when he helped write a law prohibiting the sale of seal skins in that state trying to halt the annual harvest of baby seals.

Wildlife "Man Of Year" This year he traveled to Newfoundland at the invitation of the Greenpeace Foundation to inspect first-hand the hunting of harp seal pups. His opposition to the seal harvest earned him the International Wildlife Foundation's "Man of the Year" award.

Ryan, an ex-teacher, made education one of his major interests in Congress. During the last session, he was one of the lawmakers responsible for killing President Carter's plan to create a separate federal Department of Education.

As chairman of the environmental subcommittee, Ryan had investigated whether the Auburn Dam being built in northern California would be earthquake-proof. He was sharply critical of assurances by the Bureau of Reclamation.

Ryan also served on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee and on the Board of Directors of Gallaudet College in Washington.

Born in Lincoln, Neb., on May 5, 1925, he attended grammar school in Andover, Mass. A Roman Catholic, he earned a B.S. degree from Creighton University and an M.S. from Boston College.

He served a decade as a state assemblyman.

U.S. Supports Shah, But Won't Intervene

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In apparent response to a warning from the Soviet Union, the United States said Sunday it does not intend to intervene in troubled Iran to keep Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi in power.

But Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said the United States plans to maintain its close "political, economic and security relationship" with oil-rich Iran.

Vance said the United States "does not intend to interfere in the internal affairs of any other country, and reports to the contrary are totally without foundation."

He made his remarks in a statement issued a day after Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev warned the United States to set aside any thoughts of intervening in Iran.

Brezhnev said the Soviet Union, which borders Iran, would view U.S. intervention as a matter affecting the Kremlin's security interests.

Vance warns Soviets Vance, in denying any such U.S. intentions, said the United States expects "other countries to conduct themselves in similar fashion" — an apparent attempt to turn the tables on the Soviet Union.

The secretary of state went on to say U.S. officials "firmly support" the embattled shah in the face of demands for his ouster from a loose opposition coalition of leftists and Moslems.

"We have confidence that Iran can solve its own problems," Vance said. "We intend to preserve and pursue with Iran our strong bilateral political, economic and security relationship."

Brezhnev, in a statement in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda, said the Soviets view the unrest in Iran as "a purely internal affair."

"Any interference, especially military interference in the affairs of Iran — a state which directly borders on the Soviet Union — would be regarded by the U.S.S.R. as a matter affecting its security interests," he said.

Trio Killed In Amarillo Plane Crash

AVANCE-JOURNAL Staff

A SINGLE-engine private plane attempting to land at fog-covered Amarillo International Airport Sunday night, collided with power lines and then crashed in a wheat field 2 1/2 miles southwest of the airport, killing all three persons aboard.

Killed in the 7:22 p.m. crash were pilot Russell Eugene Griffin, 38, and Ilene Ensey McKissick, 26, both of Borger, and Gary Ray Aderholt, 37, of Fritch.

A Southwestern Public Service worker discovered the wreckage about 7:30 p.m.

Cleared To Land The plane, which had been headed for Borger when it was re-routed to Amarillo because of poor weather, was cleared to land at the Amarillo airport just minutes before the crash.

An airport spokesman said there was no indication of any problems with the plane until radio contact was lost at 7:20 p.m.

However, low clouds and fog which had reduced visibility to three-quarters of a mile may have been responsible for the mishap, he added.

A Southwestern Public Service spokesman said the plane crash caused power to

Bus Blast Kills Four

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — A bomb exploded Sunday on a crowded bus in the Israeli-occupied West Bank, killing four people and injuring 30 others in the worst terrorist attack on civilians in more than three months.

Two other persons were slightly injured by a small explosive device which went off on a crowded boulevard in Jaffa, near Tel Aviv. A third device found at Jerusalem's busiest corner was dismantled without injury or damage.

The Palestinian news agency Wafa in Beirut said the bombings were the work of "the General Command of the Palestinian Revolutionary Forces," marking the first anniversary of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's visit to Jerusalem.

The Israeli national radio said two of the 30 injured in the bus explosion were in critical condition and two others were in serious condition.

The bus driver told the national radio he had just stopped to let off two Arab passengers at the Jewish settlement of Mizpe Yericho near Jericho in the West Bank when the explosion occurred.

"I stopped at the station to let two people off and the moment I went into gear to leave, the front windshield flew forward and the whole bus filled immediately with smoke and of course with screaming," he said.

The driver said the rear door of the bus also was blown off and the explosion cut a large hole in the rear section of the vehicle's roof.

The bus bombing caused the most civilian injuries in Israel since a terrorist bomb exploded in a Tel Aviv outdoor vegetable market Aug. 3 injuring 49 persons.

In Beirut, Wafa news agency director Ziad Abdel Fatah told reporters Sunday's bombings showed the Palestinian rejection of the Camp David peace talks.

"These attacks were carried out on the anniversary of the traitor Sadat's visit to Jerusalem to show our condemnation of his actions," Fatah said.

A second explosive device concealed in a brown paper sack went off on a crowded boulevard in Jaffa. Two passersby were injured by flying glass.

In Jerusalem, an explosive device wrapped in a rug was successfully dismantled by police. It was discovered on the sidewalk at Jerusalem's busiest intersection of Jaffa Road and King George Street.

Five Killed As Soldiers Refuse Aid

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — Survivors of a jungle attack that killed five persons including a congressman and three newsmen said the victims were slain with shotgun blasts to the head fired "inches away" by members of an American religious sect.

There were unconfirmed reports of mass suicides at the sect's camp, Jonestown, after the Saturday evening murders.

Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., had gone to the camp to investigate reports of abuses of members of the sect, the California-based People's Temple. Shooting erupted as he tried to take several disenchanted sect members back to Georgetown by plane.

The State Department identified four of the dead as the 53-year-old Ryan; reporter Don Harris, 42, and cameraman Robert Brown, 36, both of NBC News and both Los Angeles residents, and photographer Gregory Robinson, 27, of the San Francisco Examiner newspaper.

Gristly Deaths Described

The identity of the fifth victim was withheld pending notification of relatives, but Guyanese sources said she was an 18-year-old American woman from the settlement who apparently was trying to leave with Ryan.

Robert Flick, an NBC News field producer with the crew, said after the initial shooting the assailants walked up to the wounded and shot them in the head with shotguns. "That was how Ryan and Harris died," he said.

In an account given on NBC television, he said he saw soldiers guarding the wreckage of a Guyanese plane that had recently crashed at the airstrip and ran to them for help. Flick said the soldiers, armed with M-16 rifles, refused to intervene.

"The congressman... dived behind the opposite wheel of the airplane from the gunfire and was hit almost immediately," Flick said. "Then he was shot by people walking through with their guns." He said the others died the same way.

According to Flick, there were from eight to twelve gunmen, both black and white, who apparently had acted as Ryan's guides and became enraged and started shooting when they saw some sect members try to leave with him. He said from 50-75 shots were fired.

The State Department in Washington said one of the People's Temple refugees being taken from the area pulled a gun and opened fire after boarding one of the two waiting planes. Then other gunmen on a flat trailer pulled by a truck opened fire.

Plane Disabled By Bullets

Bullets disabled one plane but the crew of the other plane took off with the first crew and one wounded woman, State Department spokesman Tom Reston said.

All the dead and wounded were Americans, according to the U.S. Embassy.

The attack occurred at a remote airstrip at Port Kaituma, eight miles south of the Jonestown settlement. Jonestown is 150 miles northwest of Georgetown and about 50 miles south of the border with Venezuela.

The State Department said the bodies would be flown from Port Kaituma to Georgetown where autopsies would be performed to comply with Guyanese law in cases involving homicide.

Arrest Reports Vary

Flick said Guyanese troops arrested nine suspects. The government, through a spokesman in New York, Jack Gellinas, confirmed one arrest. He named the suspect as Larry John Leyton and said he was an American whose age and hometown were not known.

Top Newsmen Killed With Congressman

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The three newsmen killed with U.S. Rep. Leo J. Ryan in an ambush in Guyana had amassed numerous awards for their reporting and photography.

NBC News investigative reporter Don Harris, 41, came from Dallas to Los Angeles in 1973 to work for the local NBC affiliate KNBC-TV, as a reporter and co-anchor for the weekend news.

While working at WFAA television news in Dallas, Harris was honored by the Texas Associated Press Broadcasters' Association in 1973 for exposes of inadequate airport security and scandalous emergency hospital admissions practices.

He also won a local Emmy for his reporting during riots in Washington following the murder of Martin Luther King Jr.

U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark subpoenaed 22,000 feet of film he had taken during the riot, claiming it contained incriminating information. Harris at first turned over outtakes to his news director at station WTOG, but he quickly got them back and dumped them in the Potomac River.

Harris later said he destroyed the film because much of it was obtained on the promise that it would never be used against the subjects in court.

Harris lived in Woodland Hills with his wife and three children.

Greg Robinson, 27, had been a photographer with the San Francisco Examiner for the past three years. A graduate of San Francisco State University, he had won several awards for his photographic work and currently has a one-man show on display in San Francisco.

He was divorced and had no children.

Robert Brown, 36, had been a cameraman with NBC News since April. Previously he had worked on a free lance basis for ABC and CBS. He was born in Orange, N.J., and graduated from Franklin University in Franklin, Ind.

He lived with his wife, Connie, and daughter in Los Angeles.

CULT HOME IN GEORGETOWN—This house in Georgetown, Guyana, is owned by the People's Temple, a controversial settlement cult of about 1,200 Americans founded a year ago by Jim Jones, a former San Francisco city official. On Saturday, the U.S. State Department confirmed that Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., had been slain after an attack on his fact finding mission at the airport in Port Kaituma, Guyana. His mission had been investigating a settlement of the People's Temple at Jonestown, Guyana. (AP Laserphoto)

U.S. To Aid Stranded Viet Refugees

PORT KLANG, Malaysia (AP) — The United States has agreed to help find a haven for some 2,500 Vietnamese refugees packed aboard a rusty freighter anchored off Malaysia, diplomats negotiating the fate of the refugees said Sunday.

Malaysia, a country with some 40,000 Indo-Chinese already crowded into its refugee camps, refused to let the Vietnamese land on grounds they paid for passage on the 1,500-ton Hai Hong and were not true refugees.

Red Cross officials, meanwhile, sent food and medicine to the stranded people, most of whom are ethnic Chinese from southern Vietnam. Forty Malaysian police officers boarded the tightly guarded Hai Hong over the weekend to document the refugees in preparation for finding them new homes abroad.

Diplomats at the talks said Canada, France, Belgium and West Germany have promised to take various numbers of the refugees.

The officials said the United States has offered to take some of the refugees, though no figures have been mentioned. They said the U.S. assurance was given at talks Sunday.

U.S. officials indicated last week that they were willing to expand their already-filled 25,000-person quota for Indochina refugees in 1978. But it had been unclear whether the United States would take refugees from the Hai Hong or would take some who are already in Malaysian camps, thereby making room for the Hai Hong group.

Some sources here said the United States said it would take all those refugees who are not taken by any other country, but there was no confirmation of this point.

There was no immediate comment from U.S. officials in Washington.

Senior officials at the talks said it still was to be decided how many refugees each country would take, when they would be transported and how.

In Toronto, Canadian Minister of Employment and Immigration Bud Cullen said Canada would take 600 of the refugees. Belgium has offered to take up to 150, if they have relatives there.

A French Embassy spokesman here said France would take all refugees who speak French, have relatives in France or have worked for the French government. Officials said West Germany has not indicated how many it will take, but that it will take some.

In an interview with American Broadcasting Co.'s Sunday television program "Issues and Answers," U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim took issue with Malaysia's refusal to accept the Hai Hong passengers.

"We consider them as refugees and treat them as such," Waldheim said.

The Malaysian Red Cross, acting on a request by the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, sent a shipment of food and medicine to the freighter.

Four truckloads of rice, canned food, cooking utensils and medicine were sent to the ship aboard two navy minesweepers and three patrol boats.

The refugees were reportedly picked up off the Vung Tau Peninsula of Vietnam on Oct. 14 after they paid $5 million in gold and jewelry for passage out of the country. They reportedly paid bribes to Vietnamese officials, but Hanoi has denied this.

The Chinese in Vietnam, who generally were merchants before the communists began nationalizing their property after the 1975 takeover, have been fleeing the country by the tens of thousands.

Russian Birds More Urp Than Chirp

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet journalist Vasily Peskov has told all he knows about drunken pigs, alcoholic sparrows and a dog that is a one-animal temperance crusade.

Peskov wrote about his observations of animals and alcohol in the Sunday edition of Komsomolskaya Pravda.

Several years ago, he found a flock of sparrows that had become alcoholic because they were fed bread crumbs dipped in vodka by local tipplers who wanted to watch the drunken sparrows for entertainment.

The birds were just like people, dragging their wings in the sand, stumbling around and falling over, Peskov said.

Then he met a pig who had become addicted to the sugar beet mash used to make homebrewed vodka.

And he met some chickens who frequently became drunk eating other types of mash from home-made brews.

But top, the dog, was an inspiration, according to the reporter.

Peskov said the dog, whom he found living in the home of a forester, provided a double benefit — discouraging drinking and keeping the banks of the river clean of bottles.

Behind the forester's hoise, Peskov said he found a collection of more than 1,000 vodka and beer bottles piled in a heap.

"They were brought here by the dog," the forester said. "If you don't believe me, just take one of these bottles to the river and toss it into the bushes."

The dog returned with the test bottle, but on subsequent trips, picked up a dozen more discarded vodka and beer bottles.

The animal put them in the heap, the owner said, because it was too hard to find a place to bury them — the fate of the bottles previously collected by the dog.

Although he didn't know where the dog learned his trick, the forester said the dog becomes disturbed anytime anyone brings liquor into the house. He sits and waits for the bottle to be emptied, then dashes away with it.

Peskov said the dog doesn't like the forester when he drinks. And the journalist noted that while some other animals develop a taste for liquor, dogs don't. He speculated it was because too many dogs have been kicked around by too many drunks.

This is a good reason to admire the dog and to tame the top creation of mother nature, the human being," the article concluded.

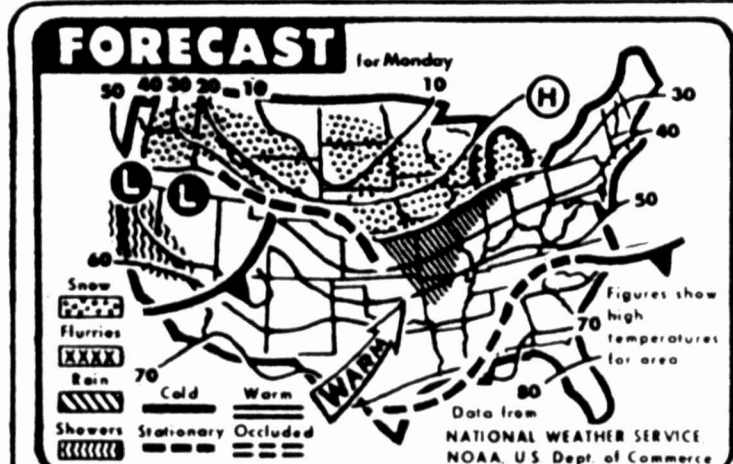

Group To Study Runaway Syndrome

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national organization concerned with the problem of runaway youths has begun a special project with the help of a $70,000 grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The purpose of the project being undertaken by the Washington-based National Network of Runaway and Youth Services Inc. is to define the nature, causes and effects of adolescent abuse and neglect and study community responses to the needs of these troubled youths.

The grant was awarded by HEW's National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect, and demonstration projects have begun in St. Charles County, Miss. and Sacramento, Calif.

The recipient of the funds is a membership organization representing more than 100 youth programs and coalitions of such programs across the country.

South-West Africa Vote To Proceed

NEW YORK (AP) — The prime minister of the Republic of South Africa said Sunday that elections would be held as scheduled next month in South-West Africa despite the guerrillas who are opposed to them.

"We have no idea of canceling it, we're going to proceed with it," Pieter Botha said in an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press" program, taped in Pretoria, South Africa, and aired here Sunday.

South Africa controls the territory, also known as Namibia, under a League of Nations mandate that has been voided by the United Nations.

The U.N. Security Council demanded last week that South Africa call off the December election in Namibia and hold one next spring under U.N. supervision. The demand was backed by a threat of sanctions against South Africa.

It was believed that a non-U.N.-supervised election next month would be won by a pro-government party rather than by the South-West Africa People's Organization.

SWAPO claims it represents blacks who want independence from white rule in the territory, but Botha disputed that claim.

"SWAPO was invited to take part in that election. They preferred not to take part because they are not interested in elections, they are interested in fosting their own ideas at the point of a gun at the majority of the people of South-West Africa," he said.

In another interview, Kurt Waldheim, secretary-general of the United Nations, said he is to report to the Security Council by next Saturday on whether South Africa will agree to a U.N.-supervised election later next year, possibly in July.

He said on the ABC "Issues and Answers" program that the South Africans maintain that the winner in the December election "will be the leaders of the people of Namibia, but the United Nations will continue to negotiate with South Africa, and not those leaders."

Waldheim said there is "uneasiness in Africa" because the function of those leaders is unclear and also because SWAPO, "the liberation movement operating outside Namibia, will not have the possibility of participating."

"We have to clarify the situation," Waldheim said, "before we can accept any further involvement of the United Nations."

Smokeless Tobacco Sales Up; Physicians Warn Of Cancer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — There were days when people who blew smoke from their mouths and noses were suspected of being poisoned by the devil.

Many turned to chewing and snuffing tobacco to escape the wrath of pontiffs and kings. Yet they continued to meet resistance from rulers like the Russian czar who, in 1634, decreed that snuff-takers were to have their noses amputated.

On the whole, though, snuffing gained in popularity because of its relative safety, simplicity and decency.

Now its safety is being questioned; its simplicity defended, and its decency, well, it's in the mouth of the user.

Researchers at the University of Alabama at Birmingham say cancer in the oral cavity is increasing, and they're blaming snuff and chewing tobacco for at least part of the problem. "It appears to be more prevalent in the southeastern portion of the United States. But apparently the use of snuff plays an important role in it," says Dr. Mario Martinez, director of oral pathology at the university's medical school.

Regardless of those findings, smokeless tobacco sales are soaring and, says Gerry Gilmartin of the Smokeless Tobacco Council, more and more connoisseurs of tobacco are dipping and munching "chaws" instead of puffing and making a chimney of their nose.

"It gives you a free pair of hands," Gilmartin says, defending the products.

Gilmartin says the smokeless tobacco industry is directing a media campaign at sports fans (who apparently require the use of both hands to cheer), and at the male sector of society in general.

A ban on radio and TV ads for cigarettes was ordered by Congress in 1971. It was extended to little cigars two years later. Officials in Washington say there are no immediate plans to extend the ban to smokeless tobacco products.

Since the 1971 ruling, tobacco harvests for smokeless products have risen from 71 million pounds in 1971 to more than 89 million pounds in 1977, says Gene Shalton, a spokesman for R.J. Reynolds Co. at Winston-Salem, N.C. Reynolds' sales for chewing tobacco last year totaled $230 million, he says.

Gilmartin says he thinks the government ban was one part of an equation that resulted in increased sales of smokeless tobacco products. Also affecting sales, he contends, is a pursuit of leisure and outdoor activities in this country.

"A lot of folks are using tobacco in the mouth today who never used any other forms of tobacco," Gilmartin explains.

Since there is no report of plans to crack down on snuff and chewing tobacco advertising on radio and television, the industry has juiced up ads for those products.

"The products are being advertised in network sports programming which is a popular type of programming for young adults and in men's magazines. New flavorings like mint and wintergreen are more appealing," Gilmartin says.

At the University of Alabama, however, Martinez says hydrocarbons in the tobacco blend probably are the irritants that cause cancers in the mouth, tongue and other oral cavities. And he says he's noticed the increase in ads for smokeless tobacco products.

"I don't think it's a better alternative to cigarettes," the doctor says. "If people start cutting the use of cigarette smoking and begin using snuff and chewing tobacco, we are going to see a different type of cancer. It's usually what they call 'snuff-dipper' cancer, which is a growth outside the tissue rather than into the tissues."

Martinez says his department expects to publish a report next month on "snuff-dipper" cancer.

Francoist Crowd Gathers In Madrid

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — A quarter-million Francoists shouting their opposition to a new democratic constitution rallied Sunday and, chanting "traitor," tried to march on the palace of Premier Adolfo Suarez.

Riot police near Suarez's suburban palace blocked all access routes and turned back the marchers and carloads of flag-waving right-wingers. The Cortes (parliament) building and key Madrid intersections also were heavily guarded.

The rally marking the third anniversary of the death of dictator Francisco Franco took place in the wake of an aborted plot by a group of right-wing military officers, code-named "Operation Galaxy," to overthrow Suarez's reformist government.

At least three officers were arrested Thursday night, when the plot to stage a coup at Suarez's Moncloa Palace was discovered.

The cabinet Sunday tried to play down the plot, but Socialist Party leader Felipe Gonzalez said the government should outline just how serious the situation was and is.

"There was a little nervousness," said Jose Manuel Otero, minister of the premier's office. "But there is no need to worry. These kind of things must just be punished and repressed."

King Juan Carlos, on an official visit to Mexico, was being kept fully informed of the situation, officials said.

The Franco memorial rally, attended by 250,000 people, came in the middle of the campaign for a Dec. 6 national referendum on a new constitution aimed at consolidating Spain's post-Franco democracy and the parliamentary monarchy of King Juan Carlos.

Escapee Running Due To Fear, Writer Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The leader of a group of three armed penitentiary escapees who Sunday continued to elude a multistate police search is a desperate man who feels safer running from the law than behind bars, according to a friend and prison author.

Mary Ann Stagakes interviewed 43-year-old John Conte extensively for her yet-unpublished book "The Seven Judgments," which deals with the way prisoners live and organize their lives inside correctional institutions.

She has seen Conte's fellow escapees, Billy McKinney, 25, and David Pilkington, 34, but does not know them. The three broke for freedom Friday while being transported from a trial in Marion, Ohio, and were last seen Saturday in the Cincinnati area after a series of kidnappings and automobile thefts.

"John is running for fear of his life," said Miss Stagakes. "There's an extreme amount of racial tension at Lucasville (home of the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility, where Conte was last incarcerated)." "This is always denied by prison officials, but I have in my possession a rules-infraction ticket written by the penitentiary against John on Nov. 1 when he stabbed a black man who'd previously attacked a white at the prison."

"He was put in chains and isolation afterwards," said Miss Stagakes, also a Columbus nurse. "He told me there were many threats on his life because of this. There have been a lot of other incidents like that too."

Miss Stagakes said Conte was contemplating a lawsuit to have the prison segregated at the time of his escape.

"I don't want to die in chains," Miss Stagakes quoted Conte as having told her. "I don't want to die like a dog."

She said Conte told her the prison administration hates him for the leadership role he played in the old Ohio Penitentiary riots.

"They (prison officials) would never do anything to keep me from getting hurt," she quoted Conte as saying.

was a person with feelings," said Miss Stagakes. "He wanted to be known as a tough guy, because in prison they take kindness as weakness."

"But I liked him. He had such a sense of humor and was always good to children. In the visiting room, if there was a child around, they'd always wind up on John's lap."

"That black guy he stabbed had raped a young kid," Miss Stagakes added. "That's the kind of thing that really incensed him. He won't tolerate bullying smaller people. I've never heard of John hurting anyone who didn't deserve it or wasn't his equal."

Miss Stagakes, who recalled that prison officials have indicated concern about her book and wonders whether they might try to prevent publication, said Conte's unpredictable nature made it impossible to speculate the direction in which the trio might be running.

She did not hesitate, however, when asked if it was a "you'll-never-take-me-alive" situation.

"Yes," she said emphatically.

Prize Buffalo Auctioned To Indian Tribe

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (UPI) — Buyers came from as far as Huntsville, Ala., to bid for buffalo at the yearly auction in Custer State Park, but the prize bull went to the Yankton Sioux Tribe of Wagner.

The South Dakota tribe bought a 3-year-old bison weighing about 1,500 pounds for $700, park director Warren Jackson said in a telephone interview.

The sale was meant to reduce the 1,400 buffalo herd, representing the largest public herd in the nation, to a manageable level.

Also at the auction block Saturday were six burros, descendants of animals used as tourist attractions decades ago in the Black Hills.

"We had 53 bidders that registered, a pretty good number considering the day we had — cold, overcast and a bit of snow," Jackson said. "Despite the weather, people came to buy the buffalo."

Receipts totaled about $171,000, with a per head average of $444, compared to last year's average of $523 per head.

"We sold a little earlier this year, and the animals were lighter," Jackson said, adding that 260 of the 384 bison sold were calves, about 70 were yearlings and the rest cows and bulls.

"There was a lot of interest in the burros. The jacks went for about $75 each, and that's a good price. Sometimes you almost have to give them away."

An Illinois research group bought the prize cow — a 10-year-old mature bison — for $1,050.

Robert Peterson of Yankton bought "the biggest chunk of buffalo" — 141 head for $55,125 — and Elmer Hanson of Philip purchased 21 heads of cow for about $14,000, Jackson said.

Miss Stagakes said Conte, serving 25 to 125 years on a variety of charges, is not a sadistic person but would be extremely dangerous if cornered.

"He could have killed the hostages, but he didn't," she pointed out.

"He never wanted me to reveal that he

Mrs. Gandhi Marks Birthday On Trip

LONDON (AP) — Former Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi observed her 61st birthday Sunday on the way home from a stormy, seven-day visit to Britain.

About 50 Indian school children came to her suite at Claridge's Hotel before she departed; they waved miniature Indian flags and sang "Happy Birthday." She planned a three-hour stopover in Moscow on her way home, an aide said.

Asked what her British visit had achieved, she said: "My visit did not set out to achieve anything. I came here simply to meet people and this I have done."

It was Mrs. Gandhi's first trip outside India since she was defeated in the 1977 national elections that ended her 11-year rule.

Her visit took on added significance when she won re-election to the Indian Parliament the week before she arrived.

GREEK TELEWORKERS RETURN

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece's telecommunications technicians returned to work Sunday after a two-week strike that brought the telephone and telex network to a near-standstill. The workers at the state-run Greek Telecommunications Organization agreed to return after the government referred the dispute to a labor court of arbitration. Under Greek law strikers must return to work pending the court's decision.

Trustees Ace Insurance Exam

LUBBOCK SCHOOL trustees, having failed their insurance course the first time, have learned their lesson well and brought their grade up to an A- the second time around.

Rather than stick the taxpayers with an extra $200,000 next year, the school board is giving the teachers and other employees the option of reduced health insurance benefits or of paying about $6 per month themselves to supplement their paid-for coverage.

Trustee Harold Harriger, who had warned his colleagues two years ago what would happen, reminded them last week that "it was a mistake" to ever start giving district employees first-dollar protection from hospital bills.

IN LIEU OF an extra cost-of-living pay raise, and at the administration's suggestion, the school board vastly improved its health plan "fringe benefit" in 1976.

At the time, the school district agreed to pick up the full cost of the health insurance premium, which cost the taxpayers $14.71 per month in 1977.

The Avalanche-Journal warned at the time that escalating costs and increased use of the "free" benefits by the employees would cause the premiums to skyrocket within a very short time.

Amend In The Code Ahead?

IT WOULD BE interesting to know how many of the votes in the gubernatorial and U.S. Senate races in Texas on Nov. 7 reflected straight-party voting by the pulling of a single lever or the punching of a single slot on a punchcard.

AN EDITORIAL:

H-e-e-r-e's Indira!

STILL SPEAKING of elections, it appears Indira Gandhi just possibly may have India to kick around again.

The former prime minister has been returned to parliament as the representative of a remote south Indian district where, not being adept in the local language, she had to campaign via an interpreter.

She is still burdened with criminal suits and a tarnished image from the authoritarian excesses of her last years in power, but the parliamentary victory is being widely interpreted as the beginning of a comeback.

Regardless, it was the people, not the politicians, who had the final word. And that word was that they wanted Mrs. Gandhi back in national politics.

A nice thing about democracy is that when it is allowed free play, an encouraging aspect can be found to just about any election outcome.

ART BUCHWALD:

Love's Labour's Lost Between The Covers

WASHINGTON—I've been flogging a new book lately. I have crossed paths with Teddy White, Betty Ford, Irving Wallace, Peter Townsend, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Robert Kennedy Jr., William F. Buckley Jr., James Michener, Erma Bombeck, Barbara Tuchman and Ann Landers.

What we are all doing is going on television to try to let people know our work is in the bookstore. Most of us have pride and would never stoop to flackery except when it comes to pushing our own book.

Then all bets are off, and we do anything the promotion department says we must do to get people into the bookstores.

There is no pleasure in this sort of work, nor is there any escape. We either do it, or we are told our books will rot on the shelves.

WHENEVER I HAVE a few moments to think about this, I wonder if William Shakespeare, had he been living today, would be out on the circuit to promote his works. If he were, it would go something like this:

"Well, Bill, I see you have a new book consisting of all your plays and sonnets. Could you give us a brief capsule of what they're all about?"

"Love, tragedy, comedy. The foibles of kings and princes; fools, knaves and villains too many to mention."

"Right. What do you think of the weather in California?"

"Alas, the air is foul and tastes of grime."

"So, what's going on between you and Jackie Onassis?"

"We've hardly met, though she did ask me to write a book for her."

"How much money do you make, Bill?"

"A REASONABLE sum, though most of it, as you know, goes for taxes."

"How do you feel about abortion?"

"I'm sorry, I'm not clear as to what that has to do with my book."

"Nothing legal, Bill, except that we have an abortion advocate coming on after you, and I thought you might like to take the anti-abortion point of view."

"Aren't we going to talk about my book?"

"Later, Bill, later. First, I'm curious about your working habits. You've turned out quite a bit of stuff here. Rumor has it that Francis Bacon writes most of it for you."

"That's a lie. I don't know Bacon and I am sick of people asking me if he writes my material."

"OKAY. AS A writer how do you think you stack up against Harold Robbins and Allen Drury?"

"I have no idea."

"Has Norman Mailer ever threatened to punch you in the nose?"

"No."

"What about Gore Vidal?"

"I say, can we talk about the book?"

"First, we have to go to a commercial. Then we have a new comedian, a singer from Las Vegas, and the belly dancer on Perry Como's new Christmas show. If we have any time after that, I'd love to talk about your book."

"Could you just hold it up so the viewers could see it?"

"SURE, BILL, but can we hold off until we talk to a lady who raises pet alligators in the bathroom?"

"Are you sure you want me to sit here?"

"Of course we do. You're kind of a celebrity. Not as big as Mel Torme, the singer, or Phyllis Diller, but I'm sure you can make a contribution to the show. Do you know how to make spaghetti?"

"I don't believe so."

"Leon Spinks is coming on the show and he's going to make spaghetti for us. It's a gas. Okay. Just move over there on the sofa, and don't say anything until one of the floor directors give you a nod."

"Ladies and Gentlemen, let's have a big hand for Bill Shakespeare, author of, of—oh, well, anyhow a lot of good plays and poems which will make a perfect gift for someone in the hospital."

M. STANTON EVANS:

What The Vote Said

WASHINGTON—Contrary to reports of its demise or weakening, the tax revolt of 1978 came out of the November 7 balloting in vigorous condition.

Many press accounts concerning referenda on the ballot in 16 states suggested that "extreme" or "sweeping" tax reductions of the sort adopted in California back in June had been rejected in favor of more "moderate" proposals—Michigan being cited as the prime example.

The conclusion drawn is that people are less opposed to high and rising taxes than the flood of stories on this subject throughout the summer had suggested.

Close examination of the election returns leads to a different verdict.

The major choice confronting voters in this election was between measures focused single-mindedly on property taxes to the near exclusion of other issues, and those which tried to put a lid on government spending and taxation generally.

The election results suggest the voters opted—very sensibly—for the second of these approaches.

The Michigan example is instructive.

There the voters turned down the so-called "Tisch amendment," which would have rolled back property taxes in the manner of California's Jarvis-Gann amendment.

This is the measure usually described as "tough" or "sweeping."

In supposed contrast was the "Headlee amendment," which passed with 52 percent of the vote.

ANDREW TULLY:

Rope A Dope-r

WASHINGTON—Expose yourself to one of those boozing bouts starring Washington's chic set and your ears are assailed by voices raised in protest against the mini-riots caused by a police crackdown on drug users in the public schools of nearby Montgomery County, Md.

The consensus question asked by these with-it groupies is: "What's wrong with a kid smoking an occasional joint?" The question ignores the fact that the cops had discovered traffic in such harder dope as cocaine and heroin.

But let that convenient oversight pass. The realistic statistics say a lot of young people are into marijuana. Thus, the argument goes, pot should be legalized. Perhaps the penalties for use and possession are too severe.

WHAT SHOULD concern the general public, however, is the facile dialectic that pot is no more harmful than alcohol. Ergo: Legalize it and control it as we do alcohol. Sounds simple.

It's not simple. The argument begs the question by alcohol and tobacco, which could permanently inflict harm and danger.

If advocates of legalized pot compare it to booze, they must agree that pot is an intoxicant. Indeed, there is virtually unanimous agreement on this point. So marijuana should be examined on that basis.

Both alcohol and tobacco are harmful and dangerous. Despite constant warnings that cigarettes cause cancer, the use of tobacco continues to increase.

SO DOES THE use of alcohol. The reason is that these two habits can't really be eliminated or their abuse controlled. Generations of use have made smoking and boozing part of our lives.

The figures fluctuate, but consumption of alcohol is associated with 50 per cent of the country's crimes of violence, especially in the home.

Drinking causes tens of thousands of automobile deaths and a million or so serious injuries every year. Most fatal accidents involving private pilots are caused by drinking.

Frequently, and fortunately, the drinker gets so drunk he can't drive. That doesn't happen to the pot smoker.

His muscular strength is not diminished. Worse, he has a false feeling that his mind is clearer and his perception sharpened. "I know I'm a better driver when I'm stoned," a pot smoker told a Washington judge.

FINALLY, IF POT is legalized it would be possible for every man, woman, and child to get stoned anywhere, at any time. The user could carry his intoxicant to work, to school, in a car or airplane.

Joints fit easily into any pocket. Doctors and nurses could get high between patients, teachers between classes, columnists at their typewriters.

This may be our last chance to pause and reflect on the marijuana controversy. There's really no hurry to legalize pot; those who are addicted are not denied the stuff.

Meanwhile, it's not too late to spare ourselves the sick-making prospect of some TV flack urging our children to find instant social acceptance, and even romance, by lighting up a joint.

JAY HARRIS:

Man And Mouse...

THE MOUSE that conquered the world marked a birthday Saturday, his fiftieth.

To some, it may seem strange that the history, antics and accomplishments of a mouse would be worth noting on these pages, as elsewhere.

But, for Mickey Mouse, the image of America might be much different among millions around the globe.

To many, he's a middle-aged actor with big ears, legs like rubber hose, a wide grin and a heart of gold. To others, he epitomizes Walt Disney, his Land and his World, and the "success story" that rewards ingenuity in this nation.

Although he is a little thicker around the middle and he's slowed up somewhat, he doesn't have a gray hair to show for his 50 years. He's still as much at home in Hong Kong and Paris as Hollywood. And at age 50, Mickey Mouse has defied all the actuarial tables on the longevity of small rodents.

MICKEY MOUSE is a diplomat, first and foremost, a commodity in short supply today.

Kings and Queens and Presidents have paid him tribute. He has been invited into palaces, castles and the White House and countless millions of theaters and homes.

Adolph Hitler banned him from Germany and Nikita Khrushchev wanted to visit him at Disneyland.

The Mouse who has been most everyone's friend was born a star. He made his public debut in a thing called "Steamboat Willie," the first cartoon film with sound, on Nov. 18, 1928.

It is only fitting that Mickey should be given the red-carpet treatment in this his golden anniversary year. Among other things the past weekend was a party at the White House.

JUST HOW Mickey came about is a bit confusing.

But, the late Walt Disney recalled in 1934 that Mickey was conceived on a train ride from New York to Los Angeles. "The idea completely engulfed me," the cartoonist wrote. "The wheels turned to the tune of it. 'Chug, chug, mouse, chug, chug, mouse,' the train seemed to say. The whistle screeched it. 'A m-m-mow-ouse,' it wailed."

Mickey put it a bit differently: "Destiny brought us together. We shared the same seat on the train. Having heard from my cousins in Kansas City that Mr. Disney was good to his pet mice as a boy, I volunteered my services as a cartoon character."

Actually, Mickey as such almost wasn't. Disney wanted to call his new creation Mortimer. But his wife said the name was too pompous and talked him into Mickey instead. Also, Disney never drew the real Mickey. The dream mouse, in a pair of red velvet pants and two huge pearl buttons, was the handiwork of Ub Iwerks.

IT WAS IN the 1930s that Mickey made it big.

In that period, when people needed a laugh, 87 of his 118 cartoons were produced.

His followers included the likes of Cole Porter, Franklin D. Roosevelt and King George V of England. Charles de Gaulle collected pop-up books of Mickey and other Disney characters.

As King Bhumiphol of Thailand honored Disney with a medal, he said in an aside: "This is an honor from my government, but more than that, it comes from me. I grew up on your cartoons."

And even today, Emperor Hirohito of Japan wears a Mickey Mouse watch, 1932 originals of which are collectors items at $100 or more.

BUT MICKEY wasn't all things to all men.

James A. Michener, the novelist, once wrote: "One of the most disastrous cultural influences ever to hit America was Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse, that idiot optimist."

Others claim that Mickey has been upstaged by the more interesting and garrulous Donald Duck, if not other Disney characters.

The main point is that Mickey provided the seed money for Walt Disney to steadily expand his Walt Disney Productions and dreams. Disney went from the short cartoons to full-length animated features. And when television came along, and movies sagged, Disney came up with "The Mickey Mouse Club" which became the biggest children's show ever.

Later, Disney put the icing on his fun cake for America with Disneyland at Anaheim, Calif., and Disney World near Orlando, Fla. Millions have thronged to these two meccas of fun and frolic, and adults as well as children stand in awe and glee as they are greeted by none other than Mickey himself.

PSYCHOLOGISTS HAVE had a field day seeking the reasons for Mickey's immediate success as an international celebrity.

David R. Smith, archivist of Walt Disney Productions notes that "special periodicals devoted to the mouse first appeared in Europe. A tabloid called Topolino appeared in Italy in 1932. And two years later his antics were amusing the French in Le Journal de Mickey. Both publications are still alive and well."

As it turned out, Germans in the late 1930s never got to meet Mickey. "He was banned by Hitler, who thought him undignified," recalled Smith. Hitler was further upset by an early Mickey cartoon showing an army of vicious cats wearing what appeared to be German army helmets.

But Mickey got the last word. The password of the Allied forces on D-Day, June 6, 1944, was "Mickey Mouse," and he rode into battle as the insignia on many a plane, ship and tank.

What does this say about a world which has gone from the Great Depression when Mickey was born, through a World War, the Atomic Age, man walking on the Moon and the trauma of an ever-changing globe?

It says that in each of us there is a yearning for laughter, for goodness, for a common bond, for brotherhood itself, if you please. If lions and lambs can lie down together, why not man and a mouse? Right, Mickey?!

Human Torch Cases Baffle Psychiatrists

LONDON (AP) — Nine persons have died in a wave of macabre "human torch" suicides in Britain during the past seven weeks, and baffled British psychiatrists say the only link seems to be a desire to imitate other self-immolators.

The latest suicide attempt occurred Saturday when 26-year-old typist Valerie Donoghue of the resort town of Brighton set herself ablaze with gasoline in her bathroom. She was reported in critical condition.

Police said the woman's screams alerted neighbors, who broke down her door and put out the flames. Mrs. Donoghue, a divorcee, was described as a generally cheerful person who had been absent from her job for two weeks because of depression.

Why the victims choose to douse themselves in kerosene or some other flammable liquid and then deliberately set themselves on fire has stumped investigators, particularly when simpler and less painful means of suicide are available.

Newspaper and television reports have played up accounts of the screaming death throes of the burning victims, so that no potential victim would think that it is a quick and painless way to die.

One theory psychiatrists offer is that the victims were imitating the flaming suicide of Australian hessess Lynette Phillips, whose death in Geneva on Oct. 2 was widely reported in Britain.

Reports from relatives, friends or neighbors indicate that most of the victims have suffered at one time from depression.

The suicides have included both men and women, young persons and middle-aged, the relatively well-off and the poor, and the deaths have been scattered throughout the country.

Two days before Mrs. Donoghue attempted suicide, the newspapers, radio and television gave wide coverage to the kerosene-fire suicide of farmer's wife Millie Appleton, 52. Her badly burned body was found in her garden in the village of Arlington.

Last Wednesday two human torch suicides occurred in the English Midlands. Police said the body of a woman in her 40s was found badly burned in the grounds of Coombe Abbey Park on the outskirts of Coventry.

Authorities said she had apparently doused herself in a flammable liquid and set herself alight alongside a driveway leading into the park, a popular tourist spot. A caretaker heard her screams and tried to douse the flames but was unable to save her.

Wednesday's second human-torch suicide occurred in Worcester. The badly burned body of 20-year-old Italian-born railroad porter Umberto di Muro was found in his bedroom at his parents' home.

On Nov. 12, a 42-year-old mother of six burned herself to death on Hearsall Common, an area of open heathland in Coventry.

On Oct. 25 horrified eyewitnesses saw West Indian immigrant Patrick Lawrence sit down on a park bench in the Midlands city of Birmingham, calmly soak himself in kerosene and strike a match. He took a few steps before collapsing in flames too intense for anyone to get near him. Police said he was about 30 years old.

Similar suicides occurred on:

—Oct. 23, when a 55-year-old school caretaker's wife poured kerosene over herself and struck a match at Coulsdon, south of London.

—Oct. 22, when an unwed mother died in flames at a sports field in Bracknell, northwest of London.

—Oct. 20, when a coal miner from Yorkshire County in northern England set fire to himself in a garden shed. He was the father of six.

—Oct. 4, when Miss Pamela Evans Cooper, a director of the posh London store Fortnum and Mason, poured surgical alcohol over herself on the banks of the River Thames at Windsor and perished in the flames.

Scrabble Champ Shows Word Skills

NEW YORK (AP) — The owner of a Manhattan billiards parlor, who says he used to read "three or four books a week," showed off his word wisdom Sunday by winning the second annual Times Square Scrabble Championship.

Among the words Steve Pfeiffer, who runs Wall Street Billiards near City Hall, plucked down was "zoysias," which is a type of lawn grass.

"Whenever I see a word I don't know, I look it up," said the 33-year-old bachelor, explaining how he acquired a large vocabulary.

Pfeiffer won seven out of eight games during the two sessions of this past weekend matching more than 100 Scrabble fans. The event was held at the Times Square Nathan's Famous next to the restaurant's hot dog counters and sauerkraut tubs.

Scrabble is played with 100 lettered squares and a multi-colored game board.

Contestants try for the highest scores by making words using the most letters, including letters like "z" or "q" which count for 10 points.

Former Aide Says LBJ Considered News Career

AUSTIN (AP) — The late President Lyndon Johnson spoke to an aide just weeks before the assassination of President Kennedy about retiring from public life and becoming a crusading Texas newspaper publisher.

Johnson's desires were revealed in a series of interviews with Johnson's friends and former aides by Austin American-Statesman staffers. The staffers were seeking comments on Johnson's reaction to the assassination.

Horace Busby, a former newspaperman and longtime Johnson friend, recalled that Johnson had spoke to him on a Belgium state visit about his ambition to own a newspaper — apparently either the American-Statesman or the Houston Chronicle.

The conversation took place Nov. 8, 1963 in Brussels, said Busby, now a Washington consultant.

"I'm going to be publisher and you be the editor," Busby quoted Johnson as saying. Busby was editor of the University of Texas student newspaper, The Daily Texan, in 1945.

"He laid out all these plans," added Busby. "He was going reform the state. He got all excited about it. I think he always wanted to own a newspaper."

Back in the United States, Busby said Johnson told him, "I'm going to check up on that paper."

A few days later, Johnson aide Walter Jenkins told Busby, "The vice president wanted me to tell you that he has talked to Harry Provencher," who was editor-in-chief of Newspapers, Inc., in Waco.

A 31-year-old man walked into West Texas Hospital early Sunday with three gunshot wounds — two to his upper left thigh and another to his right wrist.

In another assault, Craig Aikman told police that a Mexican-American man struck him on the side of the head with a baseball bat about 1:30 a.m. Saturday at

Mine Blast Bitterness Lingers

FARMINGTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The women, many of whom have slipped into middle age after a decade of anguish, made the trek to the Llewellyn portal Sunday in a final organized attempt to resurrect the memories of their dead husbands.

But in ones and twos, they'll always return here on Nov. 20 and on Memorial Day to remember the 19 bodies that may forever lay buried under tons of rubble and debris in a fire-and-brimstone hell 7 1/2 miles into the mountains of Marion County, W.Va.

It was one day short of a decade ago Sunday — Nov. 20, 1968 — that Consolidation Coal Co.'s No. 9 Mine was turned into a massive, burning tomb for 78 miners, as 16 major explosions belched red-hot cinders and angry clouds of smoke through the Llewellyn and other mine passages. The heat was so intense it fused railroad track bonds together and obliterated everything in one solid 8,000-foot passageway.

Ten days after the first explosion, as smoke continued to bill from the entrances, officials decided to seal the mine. The fires died, but the atmosphere turned to volatile methane gas, as rescuers discovered when they lifted the seals Sept. 12, 1969, and the long and arduous task of recovering the bodies began.

Lester Willard, a motorman, was the first of 78 bodies found. That was Oct. 23, 1969. Ebert E. Hartzell and Roscoe Monroe Triplett, Nos. 58 and 59, were the last, on Sept. 28, 1977.

Today, the mine is sealed again. Only recently, the last patches were applied to the ground by Consolidation despite the weary entreaties of the widows to find their last 19 men.

Since 1969, Consolidation has spent more than $11 million to recover the bodies of the 78 men. The company has cleared more than 8,188, 20-ton railroad cars of debris from the mine.

But, the company has finished recovery operations. It announced this April 19 that it was no longer safe or feasible to continue the work; that the mine would be sealed and a memorial to the dead placed there.

"We had a 1974 agreement with the bereaved families which said that we would continue recovery operations as long as it was safe, feasible and practical to do so," explained Consolidation spokesman Len Gross.

The widows filed suit against the company in August, seeking an injunction to halt the sealing and $1.4 million punitive damages for wrongful deaths and breach of the 1974 agreement. They want the case argued in a state court, before a local judge. The coal company has filed briefs requesting the case be heard in U.S. District Court.

"We were hoping first and foremost that they would recover each and every body and find out what caused the tragedy," said Mrs. Sarah Kaznoski, matriarch of the informal widows' association, who probably has more to be bitter about than any of the other wives.

Her husband, Pete, normally would have been working in the area where 21 men escaped. In his mid-50s, he was a fire boss and had agreed to fill in for a section foreman who had been burned days earlier.

"He had worked in the coal mines since he was 14," said Mrs. Kaznoski, now in her 50s.

She had packed his lunch that night and bid him goodbye, telling him to be careful and expressing her love.

"I ran to the den and saw him go clear across the hill to the car and that's the last time I saw him," the widow said. "I heard about it on the television the next day."

"We really have stuck to the cause we've believed in all these years. We feel it's only right that they recover each and every one of them and that they struggle to find the cause."

Mrs. Kaznoski got a $1,000 lump sum payment and monthly payment of $75 up to $5,000 from UMW District 31. She's too young for Social Security and does not work, although she applied to Consolidation for work four years ago and has heard absolutely nothing.

"It looks like Consol doesn't care anymore," Mrs. Kaznoski said. "They don't seem to care for our feelings; what we had hoped for, struggled for."

Carter's Smile Termed Product Of Upbringing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An article in Human Behavior magazine says Jimmy Carter's famous smile is a product of his upbringing.

The article in the current edition of the social science news magazine said Americans who smile the most live in the Southeast.

The article, written by social science writers Bernard and Elaine Feder, said Georgians in the Tidewater area, which includes Carter's hometown of Plains, smile more than residents of the state's mountain regions.

The pair said the smile "is initiated by the less aggressive individual in a tension-laden situation as a means of blunting possible hostility."

The article said Henry Wade Sealord

Jr., who teaches at Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pa., has identified 19 patterns involved in American smiles.

The "typical Southern smile," according to the magazine, has "the lower lip anchored against the teeth of the lower jaw and the angles of the mouth drawn down."

It quoted an expert in body language as saying "smiles reflect the image that people want to project, rather than their true emotional status."

Stars, Bettors Feted

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The movie stars came to the Boardwalk to mark Hollywood's 75th anniversary with a weekend of parties and parlor games. But the real celebrities were a special group of high rollers playing the East Coast tables for the first time.

Resorts International Hotel Casino spent about $250,000 for a lavish celebrity weekend to honor the movie capital and to publicize itself with such stars as Jackie Gleason, Art Carney, George Hamilton and Janet Leigh.

The stars were flown from Los Angeles on a jumbo jet chartered for $66,000 and then wined, dined and entertained with two Las Vegas-style shows, a Gleason billiards exhibition and backgammon, Monopoly, golf and tennis tournaments — all on the house.

Pan Am Blasts Kahn For Merger Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pan American World Airways on Sunday criticized Alfred Kahn, chief federal inflation fighter, for reportedly questioning the advisability of a merger Pan American seeks with National Airlines.

characterized as "disturbing" a statement attributed to Kahn in a newspaper account.

Pan American is attempting to merge with National while Texas International Airlines is trying to acquire National through stock purchases. National's management and directors have approved the merger with Pan Am and oppose the TIA takeover bid.

Kahn was quoted last Thursday in the Miami News as saying he is skeptical that a Pan Am-National merger would stimulate the competition he feels is necessary in the airline industry.

The Civil Aeronautics Board must decide both issues and has set next March as a target date. Hearings are being conducted before law judge William H. Dappert.

He said the proposed TIA takeover of National "seems to me to come closer to creating a new, vigorous competitor quickly."

Newly-Elected Governors Go To Class

BUFORD, Ga. (AP) — Eleven newly-elected governors here Sunday for a seminar on governing were told of the need for conducting business in the open — in a classroom guarded by Georgia state policemen.

Kahn resigned as chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board and became chief inflation adviser to President Carter. Seawell said the ultimate authority in deciding cases such as the proposed merger is in the White House and that Kahn's reported view "raises elemental questions of fairness."

Uniformed patrolmen were on duty to make certain that the sessions were limited to the novice governors, their aides and the 14 incumbent governors who acted as teachers.

Seawell said that Kahn was on the CAB board when the case was filed, and that if Kahn were an attorney, "he could not now represent a party in the case. Yet sitting at the president's right hand, he gives it as his opinion that one airline's application should be favored over another."

The reason, said one of the governors, is that "a lot of people want the right to ask dumb questions without being laughed at." And, he added, "We want them to ask those questions."

Pan Am has maintained it needs a domestic system to go with its overseas routes to meet competition from foreign and other U.S. carriers which have such domestic links. It claims merger is the only way it could acquire a domestic service.

"I must admit that I have a skepticism despite the plausibility of Pan Am's case that they need to acquire domestic routes by acquiring National," Kahn was quoted as saying.

He questioned why it wouldn't be better for Pan Am to fly coast to coast in the United States in competition with National instead of in partnership.

Some of the speakers at the seminar at the plush Pine Isle resort 40 miles north of Atlanta advised the neophytes to avoid all public appearances before Inauguration Day. The novices, who for the most part are recovering from an election which landed 20 newcomers in state mansions, were urged to use the time instead for setting up a new administration.

He questioned why it wouldn't be better for Pan Am to fly coast to coast in the United States in competition with National instead of in partnership.

"I don't think I could say no to speaking engagements until Jan. 1," said Massachusetts Gov.-elect Edward J. King. "I don't think I could say no to service clubs that ask me to speak."

He questioned why it wouldn't be better for Pan Am to fly coast to coast in the United States in competition with National instead of in partnership.

Most of the governors-elect seemed happy with the advice they got. The difference, said Oregon's Victor Atiyeh, was in the make-up of the faculty — all governors speaking from hard-won experience.

"I'm not sure I would have come if they were staff people," he said.

Arkansas' Bill Clinton, at 32 the youngest governor in 40 years and a Rhodes Scholar, said, "I've learned a few things about setting up the governor's office." But he added, "We're all reinventing the wheel."

The governors were divided not by party lines but by whether they run or do not run.

King jogged and swam before going to church. Colorado incumbent William Lamm got in his daily five miles. Others were on the golf course minutes after the afternoon session.

What they were doing was really in line with the lesson plan.

A 320-page handbook prepared by the National Governors Association for neophyte state chief executives stresses the need for governors to husband their time.

Russian Ex-Actress Tells Book Plans

HOLMDEL, N.J. (AP) — Victoria Fyodorova, who abandoned a career as a successful Soviet movie actress to marry an American she met while visiting her dying father, says she is writing a book.

Miss Fyodorova, now 32, was the war-born child of Russian actress Zoya Fyodorova, and the late Vice Adm. Jackson Tate. She had never met Tate, who was banished by Stalin when he found out about the love affair, until her 1975 trip to Florida. Tate never knew about his daughter until correspondence was initiated in the early 1970s.

And Tate cared for her in Russia until she was 10, because her mother was sent to a concentration camp.

"I love the life here," said Miss Fyodorova, who is married to an American airline pilot and works as a cosmetics sales representative. "People here are much friendlier than in Russia. I think it's because of the environment and society."

"In Russia, women must work to help support the family or they don't eat," she said. "They have no time to think of themselves and there are no fashion magazines or choices in cosmetics to speak of. The makeup I wear is considered too clownish over there."

"I love the life here," said Miss Fyodorova, who is married to an American airline pilot and works as a cosmetics sales representative. "People here are much friendlier than in Russia. I think it's because of the environment and society."

N.Y. Corporate Flight Discounted

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — New York City Mayor Edward Koch says the flight of corporate headquarters out of New York and into Connecticut in recent years has been for the convenience of top executives, not because of economic factors.

According to Koch, "These corporate moves are basically to facilitate convenience for the president or chairman of the companies so when the opportunity arises (to move) they take advantage of it."

there won't be companies coming in. On balance I think our situation is improving and things are looking up for the City of New York."

Speaking in Connecticut Radio Network's weekly interview program, "Dialogue-78," Koch said many executives live in Fairfield County and that he doubts whether the absence of a state income tax in Connecticut had much to do with the moves.

He says he doubts a combination of economic factors has led to corporate moves from New York City.

Connecticut Commerce Commissioner Edward Stockton, however, disagreed. According to Stockton, "The fact is you can essentially give your employers a 10 to 15 percent salary increase by moving to Connecticut."

Employment Gap Between Men, Women Wide

WASHINGTON (AP) — A white man who dropped out of high school makes more money on the average than a white woman with a college degree, according to Labor Department figures.

That is one of the findings in a new report on employment prospects of professional women and minorities.

The report's conclusion: "Things aren't going nearly as well as one would have thought 10 years ago," when the federal government had just begun to commit itself to equal employment opportunity and affirmative action for minorities and women, says Betty M. Vetter, co-author of the report.

The study found that women and minorities have made dramatic gains over the past decade in acquiring the education required for a professional career.

But opportunities for employment, advancement and good pay — particularly for women — have increased very little. In many cases, job inequities between men and women have widened, according to the report.

Miss Vetter is executive director of the Scientific Manpower Commission, a private, non-profit organization formed by the country's major scientific societies to investigate employment trends and problems common to the sciences. The report also was co-authored by Eleanor L. Babco and Judith E. McIntire.

"Among minority men who get a higher education, they are getting comparable money and jobs as white men with the same level of education and are moving up at about the same rates as white men," Miss Vetter said in an interview. "That is not the case with women," she said.

Miss Vetter gave this example based on Labor Department data: White men who dropped out of high school earned an average of $9,379 in 1976, while white women with a college degree averaged $7,176.

A sign of change, though, is that new women engineers are getting starting salaries slightly above men's because "to-ken" women engineers are in such demand, Miss Vetter said. The difference is only $180 a year — about 50 cents a day. "But it's significant just because the woman has an edge," she said.

The report said the percentage of degrees going to women in the sciences, engineering, medicine, dentistry and law has soared in recent years. For example, 19 percent in 1977 went to women, compared with only 5 percent in 1970.

The percentage of degrees going to minorities in those fields has increased, although not as fast, the report said.

Some other findings in the report: "Except for beginning engineers and industrial chemists, women's salaries are lower than those of men with comparable training and experience at every age, every degree level, in every field and with every type of employer."

"Unemployment rates for professionally trained women continue to be two to five times higher than for men in the same fields with the same level of training. In some fields, the gap is widening. In 1973, the unemployment rate for women mathematicians was 50 percent higher than for men. Last year, it was 200 percent higher.

Women professionals who work for the federal government "still lag well behind their male counterparts" in salary. For example, among the government's 1,700 mathematicians, of which about a third are women, the average salary for men was $25,200 last year, compared with $16,500 for women.

Pope Meets With French Rebel Leader

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II met secretly with rebel French Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, leader of a traditionalist movement that has pushed the Roman Catholic Church toward the brink of schism in recent years, a Vatican spokesman disclosed Sunday.

Lefebvre met with John Paul on Saturday afternoon and the audience was held in tight secrecy, as requested by the French archbishop, said the spokesman, the Rev. Romeo Panciroli.

Panciroli said the Vatican would make public no further information on the meeting.

The 72-year-old Lefebvre is leader of a worldwide conservative movement in the church that has rejected reforms stemming from the Second Vatican Council of the early 1960s, such as celebrating Mass in local modern languages instead of Latin. He also contends the ecumenical movement has begun to destroy the concept of the Roman Church as being the one true church.

In July 1976, the archbishop was suspended from performing his priestly functions and threatened with the ultimate penalty of ex-communication by the late Pope Paul VI after he continued to ordain priests at his traditionalist seminary in Ecône, Switzerland.

Lefebvre this weekend stayed in Albano, in the hills southeast of Rome, with a group of his followers. A spokesman for the community said he was about to return to France and would not comment on the audience.

"We can say absolutely nothing," the spokesman said.

There was no word on how long the Vatican audience lasted or whether other persons were present at the meeting.

Lefebvre's silence on the meeting was interpreted by Vatican observers as a gesture of defiance towards the Vatican, since the maverick prelate has rarely refused to speak his mind publicly about his differences with the church.

The French bishop repeatedly lashed out at Paul, once saying, "It is not we who have entered into schism, it is the pope who causes schism to the extent to which he breaks with the church."

Lefebvre has continued celebrating Mass in Latin in the Tridentine rite before thousands of faithful, even though the rite was banned by Vatican Council II.

The prelate has been silent through the past few months when the Vatican went through vast change with the sudden deaths of Paul and of his brief-reigning successor, Pope John Paul I.

"I hope this is the beginning of better understanding," said a traditionalist source in Switzerland, commenting on the audience.

The dispute with the traditionalists had gone on despite efforts by conservative members of the Curia, the Vatican's central administration, to soften Lefebvre's position.

Vatican experts said that the death of Pope Paul may bring about an end to the traditionalists' rebellion, although the new pope has already spoken out in firm support of papal authority and obedience within the Catholic hierarchy.

The Polish-born John Paul also has been a strong advocate of improving relations with communist nations, a sore point with Lefebvre, who has contended that the heroes of the church are those who refuse to cooperate with communist leaders.

The pope, addressing a Sunday crowd of 80,000 in St. Peter's Square from his apartment in the Apostolic Palace, made no mention of the meeting with Lefebvre. His speech dealt mainly with the problems of emigration.

ECONOMIC BOOST

GUELPH, Ontario (AP) — The North American economy would get a $4-billion-a-year boost if Canadian and United States farmers could grow and distribute marijuana, the head of a U.S. group favoring legalization of the drug said Saturday. Gatewood Galbraith, president of Kentucky Marijuana Feasibility Study, told a conference sponsored by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws that his studies show North American buyers spent $4 billion in Mexico and South America last year on the illicit drug.

'Gold Tooth Bandit' Enters Guilty Plea

BALTIMORE (AP) — Monroe D. Wright, also known as the "Gold Tooth Bandit," has pleaded guilty to charges that he robbed three Baltimore area banks.

But the prosecution agreed to drop charges against Wright, who wears a gold tooth with the initial "M" engraved in the front, in six other robberies and not to charge him in two other holdups in which he is a suspect. The charges to which Wright, 28, pleaded guilty Thursday stemmed from holdups at financial institutions in Columbia and Owings Mills, Md., last July and September. Under a plea-bargaining arrangement, federal prosecutors will recommend a 22-year sentence.

Much At Stake For Carter In Inflation Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's chief inflation fighter said in an interview Sunday failure of the new White House campaign to hold down wages and prices "will be extremely damaging" to President Carter.

Alfred Kahn, picked by the president to lead the fight against inflation, said Carter realizes he has a personal stake in the outcome of the administration's wage-price guidelines.

"I know the president is determined, because he understands the consequences to the country and that it will be extremely damaging to him if the program doesn't work," Kahn said.

In an interview in the current issue of U.S. News and World Report, he said "some form of on-again, off-again wage and price guidelines may be our fate for several years to come."

Kahn predicted the administration would cut the current voluntary wage increase ceiling of 7 percent if the guidelines are extended beyond a year.

"Our intention is to tighten up on the standards as time goes on," he said. "Look, a 7 percent wage increase ... is not compatible with price stability."

Kahn acknowledged the Carter program is somewhere between "voluntary" and "mandatory" — "call it 'semivoluntary,'" he said.

"What I'm saying is that we'll have to rely very heavily on public exposure to make this program work," he said. "We'll have to count on workers who settle for 7 percent to complain like hell if others get more."

He declined "to get into a numbers game" over how much the permissible wage rise might be cut, but said "in the long run, clearly, we've got to hope for a lesser rate of increase."

Kahn said the first major test of the wage-price guidelines will be the forthcoming negotiations between the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union and the energy industry.

"Everybody tries to read the first tea leaves he sees," he said. "So if we can get the oil workers to come within the 7 percent guideline in their negotiations beginning soon, that would be a very good sign."

He said success with the oil workers "could increase the likelihood" of getting the guidelines accepted by other unions about to negotiate — such as the Teamsters, United Auto Workers and rubber workers.

Kahn repeated his warning that failure of the anti-inflation drive would lead to either a major recession or mandatory wage and price controls.

"If the program flops, the only alternatives are a deep recession or mandatory wage and price controls," he said.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

I am 57 and need $300 a month for living expenses. I know the money won't last where I have it. Any suggestions? All I can say is "help!"

A. Although the numbers are somewhat different, your circumstances are, unfortunately, typical of all too many widows. You have barely enough capital to produce the income you need to live on.

Assuming that your $10,000 savings certificate is earning 7 1/2 percent interest — the top rate for federally-insured savings certificates, that gives you $750 a year. You need $2,850 more a year. That means your other $30,000 will have to earn over 9 percent.

It is possible to get that kind of yield from interest on some investment bonds and dividends from some good quality stocks these days. Any stock broker should be able to recommend bonds and stocks suitable for you.

Another alternative would be to buy an annuity from an insurance company. An annuity's return — based on your age — would produce more than 10 percent a year. The money you would receive would be part income and part your own capital being returned to you.

If you're not worried about leaving an estate, I'd recommend the annuity route to you.

Q. You wrote that when a person wants to make a gift of stock or sell it without going through a broker, that person's signature must be guaranteed by a brokerage firm or a commercial bank. Suppose that person only does business with a savings and loan association or a savings bank? What then?

A. The S&L or savings bank should have no trouble having the customer's signature guaranteed by the commercial bank with which the S&L or savings bank does business.

Q. We are in reasonably good financial shape and are trying to decide the merits of purchasing a retirement home now, versus buying one at the time we will retire in 15 years. We would probably pay cash for the retirement home and would not rent it out.

It seems to us that the cost of upkeep of the second home would be offset by its increase in value due to inflation. Do you agree?

A. If it's just normal upkeep and repairs, plus real estate taxes, I have to agree. The value of property and good homes has gone up and up in recent years. And there's no end in sight.

If you're planning to use your retirement home for vacations, that will be an "extra" for you. Many people do just that — successfully. But we have all heard some horror stories about vandalism of unoccupied homes. If you go ahead with your plan, make sure you have someone keeping an eye on your retirement home — even if it costs some money.

Also, you might reconsider your thoughts about not renting property can produce good income and a nice tax shelter. Talk it over with a good accountant.

Q. I have owned stock in a certain company for a number of years and have never received a penny in dividends. Yet, one officer of that company receives a $150,000 a year salary. Another receives $84,500. Still another receives $73,000. Should I consider this stock a rip off?

A. That depends. Are the company's profits growing? Is the stock's price rising? If you answer "yes" to those questions, my answer is "no." Some companies never pay dividends. Instead they "plow back" their earnings to make the

Refugee Policy Draws Praise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Republican Party is praising the Carter administration for its willingness to help resettle some 2,500 Vietnam refugees stranded off the Malaysian coast.

The Justice Department said Attorney General Griffin Bell will meet with congressional leaders to discuss plans for permitting the additional Indochinese refugees to come to the United States.

In a statement released Saturday, GOP Chairman Bill Brock praised Bell, saying "it is in the best tradition of the United States to offer refuge to people fleeing tyranny."

"It is my hope that the administration will develop a well-thought-out and humane policy concerning the refugees that continue to flee Vietnam," Brock added.

West Point, the United States military academy in New York, was founded in 1802. It awards a B.S. degree and an Army commission for a 5-year service obligation.

companies bigger and more valuable. They're called "growth companies." Frankly, these are things you should have investigated, before you first bought that stock.

Sex With Patient Nets Psychologist Suspension

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Board of Examiners of Psychologists has temporarily suspended the license of Dr. John Abell because he admitted he had sex with a patient.

The Saturday decision means that Abell cannot practice psychology in Texas. The board will meet again Jan. 13 to make a final determination on the suspension.

The board acted on the complaint of Polly Durham, who said Abell had sex with her Nov. 17, 1977, on the floor of his office.

Durham, who now lives in Houston, and Carolyn Craig of Austin — both in their early 20s — have filed multi-million dollar damage suits against Abell, alleging that he had sex with them while they were patients. The suits are pending in state district court here.

Abell admitted having sex with Durham in his office but said it "never was part of her therapy. I felt there was a relationship other than professional developing between us. At the time I felt it was emotionally beneficial for both of us. But it turned out not being beneficial to anyone. I am sorry it happened. I wish it would never have happened."

Durham told the board she sought

Abell's professional help because of her hostility and distrust of men.

Durham said she told Abell she felt "he was an attractive man" and that she had asked to see him outside the office.

"I was very uptight when I went to see him for a session that day," Durham recalled. "He said he was going to try something new and told me to lay on the floor. He began stroking my stomach."

"Did you protest his actions at any time?" asked Abell's lawyer, Joe Milner.

"I did not know what he was doing," she replied, sobbing. "He said I should relax, and I did not become aware of what was happening until it happened. I did not fight him, but afterwards I felt very defeated and very hurt. I felt like I had nothing left to fight for. I felt very angry and he said I needed to accept the notion of love and of returning affection."

and he told me to think about what had just happened."

"I attempted to compartmentalize our relationship as a professional and as a personal level," said Abell. "It seemed to me at the time that I could have a good relationship. I did not feel that I had violated any ethical standards. That was extremely poor judgment on my part."

FTC Considering Game Break Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission is proposing to limit the break that supermarkets and service stations have to take between promotional games.

Under current rules when a game of chance ends the company cannot begin a new game immediately. Instead there must be a pause for at least as long as the first game lasted.

Following requests from supermarkets, the commission is now considering limiting this pause between games to 30 days. The change would require a pause for as long as the first game lasted, or 30 days, whichever is less.

Interested persons have until Nov. 30 to send in comments on this change. Letters should be sent to the Federal Trade Commission, Cleveland Regional Office, Suite 500, The Mall Building, 118 St. Clair Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, 44114.

FBI Summoned

In Kidnapping

At Burger Chef

SPEEDWAY, Ind. (UPI) — The FBI has been summoned to search for a trail left in the disappearance of four employees on midnight cleanup duty at a Burger Chef restaurant who apparently were kidnapped by robbers.

Local police formed search parties and a statewide alert was issued, but there was no trace of the four who disappeared late Friday or early Saturday.

Police said they believed the victims were forced to leave the fast-food restaurant in a car owned by the assistant manager, Jane C. Friedt, 20. The car was found early Saturday in Speedway, an Indianapolis suburb.

Gone with her were Daniel Davis, 16, Ruth Shelton, 17, and Mark Flemmonds, 16. All were believed to have been wearing their brown and orange uniforms when they vanished.

There were no signs of a struggle, but an off-duty employee, Brian Kring, 17, told police he discovered the restaurant's back door standing slightly open when he passed the place at 12:15 a.m. Saturday. Normally, it would have been locked from 11 p.m. on, unless an employee was out emptying trash.

Investigators said Kring told them he found the cash drawers and Miss Shelton's jacket on the floor and the manager's office ransacked.

Two empty currency bags and an empty roll of adhesive tape lay next to an open safe in the manager's office when police arrived.

Probably less than $500 was taken in the holdup, authorities said.

None of the families received ransom demands and no witnesses to the abduction were found, but Police Lt. William Crafton said he was sure it was no prank.

"It just doesn't make any sense. They have got their money and they made their escape. Now why the devil don't they give back our children?" said Carolyn Friedt, Jane's mother.

Kidnap situations "usually break down about this time or previously to this time. We're taking it very seriously," said FBI agent Dan Kelly.

He said there were no indications of violence, but "the girls' purses were there, which they wouldn't leave voluntarily without, I think."

Kelly said it was unlikely there was any connection between this case and kidnappings in Ohio by three fugitive convicts, because the fugitives appeared to have been occupied elsewhere at the time the Burger Chef was robbed.

Jurors To Decide Murderer's Fate

BELTON (AP) — Jurors were ordered back to court Monday to recommend punishment in the trial of convicted murderer Thomas A. Barefoot. Prosecutors seeking the death penalty said they plan to call about 15 witnesses during the penalty phase of the trial.

Jurors must recommend death by injection or a life prison term for Barefoot, 32, who was convicted Friday of the shooting death of police officer Carl Levin of nearby Harker Heights. Jurors took about an hour and a half to find him guilty.

Barefoot was convicted of killing the policeman after Levin stopped him to inquire about a fire in which arson was suspected.

Barefoot was a fugitive from the Valencia County, N.M., jail at the time of Levin's death Aug. 7. He was being held on two counts of criminal sexual penetration and one count of kidnapping in an October 1977 case involving a 3-year-old girl.

Israelis Reject Set Time Frame

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Prime Minister Menachem Begin, after running a gauntlet of angry Israelis and being hit by an egg, told a political meeting Sunday that Israel rejects inclusion of timetables in a peace treaty with Egypt.

But while refusing to accept a set time frame for resolving the Palestinian question, Begin also said that at an earlier Cabinet meeting "I recommended today and will again recommend that the Israeli government proclaim its readiness to sign the treaty."

Palestinian guerrillas struck a new blow Sunday in their war of terror against Israel. A bomb exploded on a bus packed with Israelis and tourists in the occupied West Bank 10 miles east of Jerusalem, and hospitals reported four persons were killed and 37 were wounded. No Americans were reported among the casualties.

Begin told his Herut Party Central Committee that Israel was ready to sign the treaty draft as it existed Nov. 11, one without a timetable. He said Egypt added "unacceptable" demands by calling for a precise time periods to implement portions of the pact.

Begin spoke to the central committee after a Cabinet meeting discussed the deadlock in the Washington peace talks. No decision was taken at the Cabinet meeting, and it was adjourned until Tuesday.

As Begin arrived for the party meeting, angry Jewish settlers from occupied territories and other Israelis pelted his car with rocks and eggs.

The prime minister was hit on the left shoulder by an egg. Demonstrators also threw stones and eggs at Defense Minister Ezer Weizman's car when he arrived.

Begin was clearly upset at the party meeting, and when several persons criticized his handling of the peace talks he surprised his colleagues by calling for a vote of confidence — the first from the party since he took office in June 1976. It was announced the vote was 306-51 in support of Begin's stand.

$2 Bill Falls To Hard Times

By SHAUNA HILL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Since its re-issuance in 1976, the $2 bill has been as welcome in Lubbock as a dust storm in December.

Lubbock bankers say the bills generally have been re-shuffled from bank to bank or left to gather cobwebs in a corner of the vault.

Lubbock retailers call the bills a nuisance and consumers won't even use the bills for $2 bets at the racetrack.

But a local spokesman for the U.S. Treasury says the government still thinks the bills are a "good idea" and will be used in time.

"Consumers just aren't used to making change and thinking in a different denomination," the spokesman said. "And $2 bills soon may be worth as much as a $1 bill anyway."

Becomes Unpopular Currency

Local bankers say the infrequent use of $2 bills in Lubbock is caused both by consumer disinterest and banks' hesitation to circulate large amounts of the unpopular currency.

"People give us $2 bills, but we do not give out any unless they ask for them," explained Chuck Seaberg, Bank of the West teller supervisor.

Spokesmen for other banks agreed. Sherlan Selke, a cashier at the Security National Bank, said the bank ships, but never orders, the seldom-used bills.

"We send about $1,000 every three weeks to the Federal Reserve Bank, but we never order any," Selke said. "I think the bills are unused because stores do not have extra space in their cash drawers for them."

Up For Grabs As "Scratch Pads"

The Lubbock National Bank ordered about $16,000 in $2 bills a few weeks ago, but plans to use the bills for "scratch pads."

"Scratch pads are made of new money and are used (by bank customers) as Christmas presents," said Gary Cocanougher, vice-president and teller supervisor.

"The Santa money and supplies to correspondent and customer banks are all we really use the $2 bills for," he said.

Brad Clark, vault supervisor of the First National Bank, said they ordered about $6,000 in $2 bills two or three weeks ago, but that there is no special need for them.

"Really Don't Like Them"

"We keep about $4,000 to $10,000 in $2 bills in stock, but we really don't like them," he said, adding that customers seem to consider the bills an inconvenience.

Other banks, such as the Citizens Bank of Slaton and the First State Bank of Shallowater, have not ordered any $2 bills since they were re-issued more than two years ago.

Major retail outlets also seem to have little use for the bills. Lee H. Coil, president of McWhorter's Inc., a local auto supply company, said it's just too easy for cashiers to mistakenly give out $2 bills instead of $1 bills.

"The re-issuing of the bills was just politics anyway, and I have not waited on a customer in years who asked for one," he said. "They were considered good luck in the past, but even that seems to have passed now."

Vic Hines, assistant manager of Hemphill-Wells, called the bills "a nuisance."

Create Too Many Problems

"We do not stock $2 bills because they would create problems in the cash register and the computer. I do not know of one business that bought new cash registers to stock the extra bills," he said.

Hines estimated the store receives one $2 bill per day from a customer. Kenneth Jensen, head cashier at Sears Roebuck and Company, said the store does not keep a supply on hand.

"We send any $2 bills we get to the bank immediately," he said. "I do not think we take in more than $30 (in $2 bills) per week."

Even local coin collectors would not admit to keeping large numbers of the bills, although some people keep one or two around for luck.

Charles Guy, former editor-publisher of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, says he has kept one $2 bill for the past 35 years because the bill was given to him under unusual circumstances.

"I was walking down the street in Baltimore, Md., after spending some time at the Bowie Racetrack, when I spied a sign advertising 40-cent Tom Collins," Guy said.

"Well, it was hotter than gee whiz, so I went in, belted up to the bar and paid for my drink with a $5 bill.

"I got a $2 bill as part of my change and wouldn't have thought anything about it, except the upper left corner was torn off.

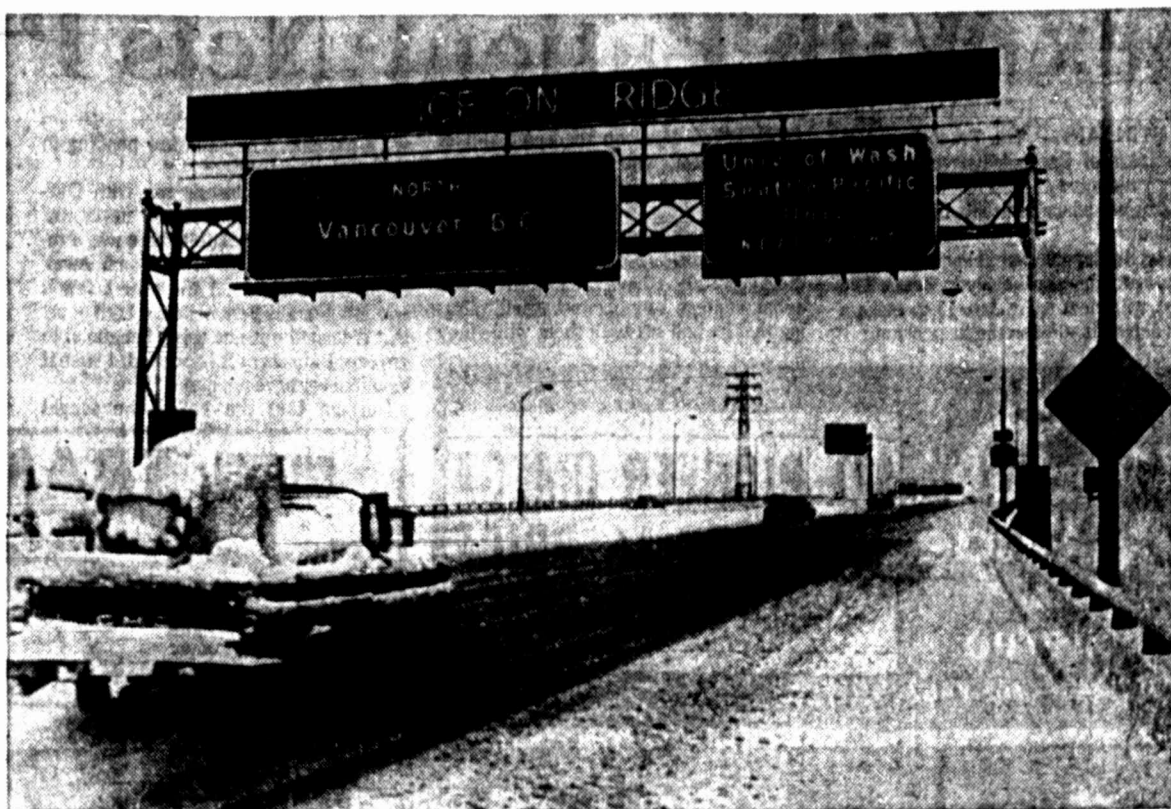

"It is an old gambler's superstition that tearing the corner off a $2 bill lets the bad luck out, so I kept it and gave it to my wife.

"I found another one with the corner torn later, so I kept it too," Guy said. Contemporary gamblers apparently have abandoned that old superstition, failing to use $2 bills even around racetracks.

Murdell Holbert of Ruidoso Downs in Ruidoso, N.M., said the bills are seldom used for $2 bets, although their use would seem logical.

"We had a few ($2 bills) during the summer, but not enough to really consider."

"We do not pay in $2 bills either," she said.

Survivor Describes Trip, Fatal Ambush

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is the first-person account of San Francisco Chronicle reporter Ron Javers, wounded Saturday in the gunfire that killed Rev. Lee J. Ryan and four others on a remote airstrip in Guyana. Javers, en route to Washington for medical attention, dictated the story to his city desk for today's edition.)

By RON JAVERS

(e) 1978 San Francisco Chronicle
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Jonestown is every evil thing that everybody thought — and worse.

We knew that before the shooting started.

The slaughter began at 4:20 p.m. Saturday (Guyana time) while we were standing beside the twin-engine airplane that had brought us to Port Kaituma, seven miles outside Jonestown, on Friday and that had returned to pick us up.

I was waiting between Bob Brown and Don Harris, the two NBC men who were killed. We had become close friends during the course of our ordeal.

The firing erupted from guns close by. I was hit first. I was knocked to the ground by a slug in the left shoulder, apparently from a .38-caliber weapon.

I crawled behind the right wheel of the plane.

Bob Brown stayed on his feet and kept filming what was happening, even as the attackers advanced on him with their guns.

He was incredibly tenacious. While I was trying to decide whether to stay where I was or risk the 100-yard dash across the close-cropped grass field to the jungle, I saw Brown go down.

Then I saw one of the attackers stick a shotgun right into Brown's face, inches away, if that.

Bob's brain was blown out of his head. It splattered the blue NBC minicam.

I'll never forget that sight as long as I live.

I ran, and then I dived head-first into the brush.

I got up and scrambled as far into the swamp as I could. I was about 150 yards from the airstrip and up to my waist in water.

I pushed through the rain forest, walking parallel to the runway, trying to figure out what had happened.

I couldn't see much. I had lost both pairs of glasses I had with me.

But there was silence. Apparently the party of attackers which must have included four, five or six men with guns, had fled.

I was far down the field by the time I returned to the airstrip.

And then, like the other survivors, I returned to the crippled plane.

Leo Ryan was on his back in a blue cord suit, lying in the mud in front of the right wheel of the aircraft.

His face had been shot off.

Don Harris lay alongside the middle of the plane.

Brown was at the tail of the 18-passenger Otter.

Pattie Parker, one of the people who had asked us to help her escape from Jonestown, was lying at the foot of the plane's stairs.

There were four Guyanese soldiers at the far end of the field.

They told us they had not been able to shoot at the attackers during the assault because they were afraid they would kill still more people.

The only policeman at the field, carrying a single-shell shotgun, had been disarmed the moment the men from the People's Temple began firing from their truck and trailer while we were getting ready to board the two planes; our own craft and the smaller one that was set to carry away the fugitives from Jonestown.

As nearly as we could tell, about half the attackers were white and half were black. Those of us who had survived were still terrified.

Three Killed, Others Hurt In Accident will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Winston Bell, minister of the Golf Course Road Church of Christ, officiating, assisted by Larry VanSteenberg, assistant pastor of the church.

Burial will follow in Trinity Memorial Park in Big Spring under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Greenfield, who was a native of Colorado City, had lived in Coahoma since 1943. He was employed at Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. and was a member of the Coahoma Church of Christ.

Mrs. Greenfield was a native of Kansas City, Mo., and had lived in Howard County for the past five years, moving here from Arlington. She was a checker at the Safeway food store in Big Spring and was a Baptist.

Greenfield is survived by a son, Darin of the home; two daughters, Cheryl and Jolene, both of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Carr of Wichita Falls; four sisters, Mrs. Robert (Ramona) Pierce, Mrs. Tommy (Patsy) Willis, and Mrs. Jimmy (Lawanda) Graham, all of Midland, and Peggy Smith of Wichita Falls; and his grandmothers, Ruby Greenfield of Colorado City and Mattie White of Stephenville.

Mrs. Greenfield is survived by a daughter, Jolene of the home, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Kincaid of Arlington; four brothers, Franklin Cecil Kincaid of Long Beach, Calif., Melvin Kincaid of Ranger, Edward Earl Kincaid of Seattle, Wash., and Ricky Kincaid of Hereford; four sisters, Shirley Elliott of Arlington, Carolyn Williams of Slaton, Roberta Kincaid of Lancaster and Patricia Trent of Dallas; and her grandmother, Eletha Yandle of Fort Scott, Kan.

Ambush Blame Put On Cult

The government said it could not confirm the suicide reports. It said it had not received such reports from the 170 soldiers and police sent to the area.

The State Department said it had unconfirmed "alarming indications" that at least 200 of the outpost's estimated 1,100 American settlers committed suicide after the attack. Reston said one settler from the compound walked 30 miles to Matthews Ridge, where the troops had stopped because of darkness Saturday night, and reportedly said at least 200 had killed themselves before he left.

Reston said two American lawyers, Mark Lane and Charles Garry, who were on the trip as counsel for sect founder Jim Jones, were unharmed and in Jonestown.

Lane defended Martin Luther King's convicted assassin James Earl Ray.

The U.S. Embassy identified the seriously injured as Jackie Speier, Ryan's administrative assistant; Steve Sung, 34, of Pasadena, Calif., who is a sound man for NBC, and Anthony Katsoria, Carolyn Boyd and Beverly Oliver. The embassy identified the last three as relatives of sect members who accompanied the Ryan party.

Wounded less seriously were Richard Dwyer, deputy chief of the U.S. Embassy here; Ron Javers, 32, a reporter for the San Francisco Chronicle; and Tim Reiterman, 31, a reporter for the Examiner, the embassy said.

A White House statement issued in Washington said President Carter was saddened by Ryan's death. "It was his drive to get his information at first-hand that led to his tragic death," the statement said in part.

A Guyanese military plane brought the wounded back to Georgetown, where a U.S. Air Force C-141 transport plane picked them up.

Snow, Ice Threaten Northwest Region

drop in parts of the city, although no customers reported power outages.

The thick fog caused travelers advisories to be posted Sunday night for all of the South Plains, plus Amarillo and the Panhandle area, as the widespread mist obscured roadways throughout the region.

A Department of Public Safety spokesman, however, said no major highways were closed in the area and none were expected to be closed.

The weak cold front which shrouded the area in fog is expected to continue to hamper motorists through today, while light rains and cloudy skies will keep a damp, chilly blanket over the area.

Temperatures should be somewhat cooler today and a 20 percent chance of light rain is forecast this afternoon.

Highs this afternoon are expected to reach the mid 50s, dropping to near 40 tonight.

Skies should be cloudy and winds southerly 5 to 10 mph. Some improvement is forecast for Tuesday, as temperatures should warm up slightly.

Light rain fell steadily over the South Plains Sunday, as well as in the north central and south central parts of Texas, with Waco receiving more than an inch of rain, the heaviest reported in the state.

Heavy snow warnings also were issued for much of the northwest, as a winter storm continued to dump heavy snow in Oregon, Washington and Montana.

Travelers advisories for gusty winds and more snow were issued for Idaho and western Nevada, as the winter snow continues to be fueled by Pacific moisture.

The central and northern plains states were warned to expect icy weather due to a cold arctic airmass which engulfed the area late Sunday.

Forecasters predict no relief for the Montana area, which received nearly 17 inches of snow during a weekend storm. Up to seven inches of snow surprised Seattle and was blamed for 100 traffic accidents, power failures and a run on snow tires and chains, according to the National Weather Service.

LANDING GEAR COLLAPSES
MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The front landing gear of a Philippines Airlines domestic jetliner collapsed on landing here Sunday morning, injuring 13 passengers, an airline spokesman said.

The spokesman said the plane, a BAC-111 with 91 passengers and a crew of five, had taken off from Manila airport early Sunday morning on a flight to the southern Philippines but the pilot decided to return after determining that the front landing gear had failed to lock in place.

Top General Recommends New Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said Sunday he has recommended registration of draft-age persons be resumed to speed mobilization in the event of an emergency.

Appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation" program, Gen. David Jones said his recommendation has been forwarded to Secretary of Defense Harold Brown.

"There are some problems with the all-volunteer force, some fairly serious problems particularly with our reserve components," Jones said.

"I would advocate a restoration of the registration for the draft, and I would seriously consider a classification of people — this would help us in mobilization."

"Today it takes about 110 days before the first recruit comes aboard in a crisis, and also it would be available in case we had to have some sort of national service to meet our reserve needs."

"I don't advocate that (the draft) at this time but to me it is inconceivable that at some day we'll have to go back to a draft or some sort of national service."

Jones said he also favors a physical examination for those who register.

"I think that it would have a great psychological effect on this country of having people register and it would be advantageous to have young people to take tests — both physical, mental and aptitude tests — and be combined with other actions in our society of helping our youth."

Asked about the deferment of college students, Jones said, "There were great inequities in the draft, particularly during Vietnam War. I would try to eliminate those inequities and get a representative group of the population."

On the strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union, Jones said the Joint Chiefs of Staff have reserved judgment until the final treaty is worked out, and he cautioned about complacency.

"We'd better not be seduced with the overall argument that you just need a few weapons to maintain equality with the Soviet Union," he said.

Responding to a question concerning the controversial cruise missile capability, part of the SALT treaty negotiations, Jones said it would be an "effective weapons system, it will be complementary. I don't believe it will substitute for a penetrating bomber."

Jones said he would continue to press for a new penetrating bomber capability.

DOLLAR GAINS ON YEN
TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. dollar showed a strong gain Monday on the Tokyo foreign exchange market, opening at 195.30 yen. That was up 2.5 yen from Friday's closing. It continued to gain in "nervous, hectic" early trading, dealers said, reaching 196.5 yen.

Davis' Attorneys Claim Tapes Are 'Distorted'

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys defending millionaire Cullen Davis contend the state's devastating tape recordings offer a distorted image of an alleged murder-for-hire scheme.

"It was no surprise to us what was on the tapes and video," Dallas lawyer Phil Burleson said of the sound and visual recordings of two August encounters between Davis and his chief accuser.

"The real question is what preceded those meetings... Everything is not what it always appears... and it may appear incriminating at this point."

Indeed, the tapes supported the state's contention that Davis conspired with FBI informant David McCrory a plot to kill a Fort Worth divorcee judge and others.

The videotape purported to show an exchange of a silencer-equipped pistol for Davis and $25,000 earmarked for a non-existent killer.

On the other hand, the defense contends McCrory conspired with Davis' estranged wife Priscilla and others to frame the Fort Worth oil heir.

McCrory, 40, the state's key witness, returned to the stand Monday for another round of probing cross-examination by chief defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes.

The trial began Oct. 30. "It's like pulling teeth with rusty pliers," Burleson snapped, suggesting that McCrory's memory went sour about the time prosecutors ended their questioning late last week.

Among the many things McCrory could not recall was when he married his fourth wife, Martha.

State attorneys privately concede that the burly, onetime pool-shooting buddy of Davis is a vulnerable target but they feel the tapes can stand on their own merit.

Speaking rather graphically, prosecutor Jack Strickland said of Haynes: "He can make McCrory out to be a mother-stomping, baby raper and it's not going to do anything to diminish the effect of those tapes on the jury."

Burleson obviously disagrees. "This is not like a painting," he said. "It may not look like a picture in the early stages with a little paint, but with all the paint you get the total picture..."

Burleson said the defense prefers to present its case in court and promised that it would be "fully developed on cross-examination of the state witnesses and through witnesses we will call."

And, he added, "It takes time for these things to unwind."

Although no one knows how long the trial will run, insiders say another month is a realistic estimate.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.
29 Soon Levi held a reception in his home, with Jesus as the guest of honor. Many of Levi's fellow tax collectors and other guests were there.
30 But the Pharisees and teachers of the Law complained bitterly to Jesus' disciples about His eating with such notorious sinners.
31 Jesus answered them, "It is the sick who need a doctor, not those in good health!"
32 My purpose is to invite sinners to turn from their sins, not to spend My time with those who think themselves already good enough."
33 Their next complaint was that Jesus' disciples were feasting instead of fasting! "John the Baptist's disciples are constantly going without food and praying," they declared, "and so do the disciples of the Pharisees. Why are yous wining and dining?"
34 Jesus asked, "Do happy men fast? Do wedding guests go hungry while celebrating with the groom?"
35 But the time will come when the bridegroom will be killed; then they won't want to eat!"
36 Then Jesus told them a story: "No one tears up unshrunk cloth to make patches for old clothes, for the new garment is ruined and the old one isn't helped when the patch tears out again!
37 And no one puts new wine into old wineskins, for the new wine bursts the old skins, ruining the skins and spilling the wine!"
38 New wine must be put into new wineskins.
39 But no one after drinking the old wine seems to want the fresh and the new! 'The old ways are best,' they say."

Carter Buys Time On Inflation Action

By LOUIS HARRIS
By a 63-24 percent margin, Americans support President Carter's anti-inflation program. However, this does not mean that most people are convinced it will really work. Only 8 percent think it will be "highly effective." 54 percent believe it will be "only somewhat effective" and 30 percent think it will be "hardly effective at all."

What Mr. Carter is buying with his program is time. When people are asked how long they think it will be before they can tell if the program is really working, a 55 percent majority feels that it will take a year or more. The President has repeatedly stressed that there can be no quick solution to the inflation problem, and the public seems to have accepted his counsel.

President Carter has not only bought time to make his program work, but he also has relieved many of the pressures that were mounting to have the country so quickly into a mandatory controls condition.

The "voluntary controls on price increases" increases at a percentage point below the average increase of the past two years.

—By 57-32 percent, a majority also supports "voluntary controls on wage increases at 7 percent."

—A 63-25 percent majority is in favor of "giving employees a tax credit for the difference between a 7 percent wage rise and any rise in the cost-of-living over 7 percent." This, of course, is the President's effort to try to compensate workers who might actually lose purchasing power if the rate of inflation exceeds the rate of their wage hikes.

—A 64-25 percent majority also favors "the federal government not giving government business to companies who break the guidelines." The federal government dispenses roughly $80 billion a year in contracts to private corporations. Those which break the new standards simply will be removed from the lists of companies that are eligible to bid on such contracts.

Another anti-inflation proposal which President Carter did not include in his message, but which has considerable support in Congress, would be to "change the tax laws so that companies that limit their price increases to an average 5-4 percent and wage increases to 7 percent would pay lower corporate taxes, while companies going above these limits pay higher federal corporate taxes." Such a change is favored by a substantial 62-25 percent of the public.

HEARTLINE: I am a senior citizen. What I am writing about is not something most people like to think about. However, I'd like to know where I stand. I'm trying to get all my affairs in order so that my survivors will not have to do it after I'm gone. I want to be able to set aside in a special savings account enough money to pay for my funeral expenses. But I don't have any idea about these costs. Is there any place where I can get good, unbiased information on all the costs involved? — V.A.

Write to: Federal Trade Commission, 2840 Federal Building, Seattle, Wash. 98174.

Also, a book called The Last Rights: A Look at Funerals is available for $1.00 from: Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, Owings Mills, Md. 21117.

HEARTLINE: I recently purchased a nursing home policy that offers pretty good protection. But there is a clause which states that this policy will only pay when Medicare pays. What does this mean? — I.O.

Unfortunately, it means just what it says. It will only cover you as long as Medicare will cover you. The sad fact is that Medicare only covers a small percentage of Medicare participants who go into a skilled nursing facility, and those who receive Medicare coverage in a skilled nursing facility rarely receive the full 100 days of coverage which is implied in all governmental literature. If you go into a skilled nursing facility and do not qualify for any coverage under Medicare, this policy will not give you any protection and therefore is worthless.

If you want a nursing home policy, get one which covers you whether Medicare covers you or not. The policy you mention offers limited coverage, if any at all.

Heartline has written a book to help you understand health insurance policies and to give you some good advice on what to know about purchasing health insurance and Medicare supplements. To order, send $1.75 to Heartline's Guide to Health Insurance, P.O. Box 11934, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

HEARTLINE: I would like to know whether I will receive any refund of the money I paid into the railroad retirement fund. I paid into it for six years before I took a Social Security-covered job. I am eligible for no benefits from the railroad. — W.G.

As you may know, the minimum service requirement for a railroad retirement annuity is 120 months of creditable railroad service. The railroad retirement credits of workers like yourself who have completed less than 120 months of service at the time they retire are transferred to the Social Security Administration and treated as Social Security credits in the calculation of any Social Security benefits. This transfer is made automatically at the time an individual applies for Social Security benefits. Your local Social Security office should be able to advise you whether you are eligible for the special minimum Social Security benefits based on your combined railroad retirement and Social Security credits.

HEARTLINE: Do I have to take Medicare out at age 65? If so, am I penalized if I do not? — T.Y.

No. For 98 percent of the people reaching age 65, however, hospital insurance is available without any premium payment. There is no penalty for not signing up for hospital insurance other than that you will lose free coverage. Medical insurance requires a monthly premium. The penalty for not signing up when you are first eligible is that the premium goes up 10 percent for each year you could have signed up for it, but did not.

HEARTLINE: I am 54 years old. I worked for the same company 31 years. I have developed mild cases of arthritis and emphysema. My employer fired me in May 1977. I have been trying to find work since then, but no one will hire me because of my age and health problems.

I could work some jobs, I guess, but I think my age is my greatest handicap. Would I be eligible for Social Security disability due to my age and health? — R.G.

No. Even though your age may affect your capacity to work in competition with others, unemployment due primarily to age does not show inability to engage in substantial, gainful work by reason of medical impairment.

Another significant development that has occurred as a result of the Carter voluntary controls approach is that public pressure to institute a system of mandatory price and wage controls has abated considerably. The public is still in favor of mandatory controls, by 49-43 percent. Before Mr. Carter announced his program, support for a federal system of wage and price controls had risen to a 58-35 percent majority, up from 52-42 percent in July and a turnaround from 46-38 percent opposition back in 1976. Thus,

Here is the public reaction to the major specifics of the President's anti-inflation program, according to a recent ABC News-Harris Survey:

—By 80-12 percent, people favor the cuts in the federal budget promised by Mr. Carter.

—By 70-22 percent, most Americans also support the cuts in federal hiring that are part of the program. President Carter announced that of every two federal employees who leave government service, only one will be replaced.

—By 59-28 percent, a majority backs

Air Transport Crash Kills 76 In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — An Indian air force transport plane with 77 servicemen aboard crashed Sunday while approaching an airport at Leh in northern India, killing 76 passengers and crew members and one person on the ground, the Defense Ministry reported.

The lone survivor was in critical condition at a local hospital. The person killed on the ground was identified as a civilian airport employee.

The aircraft, a Soviet-built AN-12 transport, was making a routine flight with 70 passengers and a crew of seven. All the passengers were Indian army personnel, a ministry statement said.

The ministry said an official inquiry was ordered to try to determine the cause of the crash.

A report received here said that skies were clear over Leh, which is 380 miles north of New Delhi and is the main town in the Ladakh region, near China's Sinkiang Province.

SHOE STASH SEIZED — A police officer inspects some of more than 60 shoes, most of them singles, found by police Friday in the apartment of a man who lives in an area plagued by "shoe bandit" thefts. The unidentified man was arrested for investigation of robbery. In the recent thefts, a man has attacked women and stolen one of their shoes. Police are not sure what final charges may be filed against the man. (AP Laser-photo)

TENDON SURGERY

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Implants of a carbon-polylactic acid "scaffolding" around injured tendons in dogs have produced successful results and may be tested on humans in a year, the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey says. The "implant," in a sports medicine project co-directed by Harold Alexander, temporarily replaces the injured tendon and slowly degrades as the tissue heals. He said short-term results have been good on 13 of 14 dogs who underwent the procedure.

Castro, Cuban Exiles Confer On Prisoners

HAVANA (AP) — About 50 Cuban exiles, including some who took part in the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion, were here Sunday for rare face-to-face meetings with President Fidel Castro.

They are hoping to work out the speedy release of more Cuban political prisoners and visits by thousands of refugees to the island.

"It's the first time a socialist country has invited its dissidents to sit down and confer. It's an historic occasion," said one of the exiles, Juan M. Rodriguez of Washington, D.C., of the talks scheduled for Monday and Tuesday.

Castro called for the dialogue, and it was accepted by many of the half-million exiles in the United States and Latin America.

Grand Jury Studies Loan To Carter

ATLANTA (UPI) — A federal grand jury has questioned the circumstances of a $1 million loan President Carter received for peanut business improvements from a bank formerly headed by former budget director Bert Lance.

The New York Times said Sunday bank regulatory officials were calling the transaction improper but not illegal. The loan was not fully secured for more than a year, meaning there was insufficient collateral, the report said.

Made in 1975 and 1976 by the National Bank of Georgia, the loan was first questioned by a federal grand jury investigating Lance's tangled business affairs.

The Times reported the owner of the company that made the improvements at the peanut business said the actual cost was about $700,000, leaving unaccounted the use of the remaining $300,000.

Robert D. Flynt, a former officer of the Georgia bank, testified before the grand jury in Atlanta about the loan.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Friday that questions pertaining to the loan and improvements at the Carter warehouse would be answered by reappraisals by state and local tax authorities. He declined to respond further.

The Times said the inquiry into the loan stemmed from the overall Lance investigation. The loan apparently came in two parts: $700,000 to build buildings and buy machinery in 1975 and $300,000 in 1976 for a storage building.

EFFECTS FROM FIRE

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Southgate's budget continues to feel the effects of the May 1977 fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club in which 165 persons were killed. "Legal fees for the Beverly Hills litigation are running $3,500 higher than budgeted," Councilman Don Berkemeyer said Thursday. The city was named in many of the damage suits filed in connection with the fire, but won immunity from prosecution. The city says it also has lost considerable tax revenues because of the destruction of the night spot.

Title IX: More Than Just Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Rhode Island man complained that his son was the victim of sex discrimination because the toilet stalls in the girls' bathroom at school had doors and those in the boys' bathroom didn't.

A federal civil rights official in Seattle accused the Bellevue, Wash., schools of illegal discrimination because a statistical survey revealed that school officials had spanked several boys but no girls.

In its own defense, the Office for Civil Rights in Washington quickly points out those cases never got very far.

But for some they have symbolized the federal government's efforts to enforce what school officials, feminists and the National Collegiate Athletic Association call Title IX, a 6-year-old law that makes it illegal to discriminate on the basis of sex in any federally assisted education program or activity.

The law unquestionably has revolutionized interscholastic athletics, and officials boast of correcting hundreds of substantial violations in the classroom and personnel office, if not the lavatory.

After the toilet door matter sat around about a year, the U.S. Office for Civil Rights decided Congress did not intend for it to worry about such things and dismissed the complaint. And when he heard about the spanking case, civil rights director David Tavel rescinded a regional finding and dropped that charge, too.

Tavel's office, an arm of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, points to recent settlements, like one in which 85 female teachers in West Virginia shared $100,000 in back pay for past abuses, as evidence the government is not obsessed with trivia.

Some critics of the office agree — up to a point.

"Has the government spent six years running after trivial issues? I'd say the answer is definitely no," says Holly Knox, director of the nonprofit Project on Equal Education Rights. "It's spent six years not doing very much at all."

Despite her dissatisfaction, Miss Knox is among the first to point to the sweeping changes in athletics. "In 1972, there were 12 boys for every girl playing interscholastic sports on the high school level," she said. "Today, that ratio has narrowed to 2 1/2-to-1."

"And it's a lot clearer today than it was six years ago why that's important. Women are beginning to realize that sports are an important training ground for the future of girls as well as boys, that there are things kids learn on the playing field that they don't get anywhere else in the education system."

Sports have received a lot of the attention, but federal officials have found sex discrimination in many areas.

A medical school required higher grade averages for females to be accepted than for males, and some colleges used different residency requirements for the two sexes and even charged unequal tuition.

A California high school offered "Auto Mechanics I" for boys and "Elementary Autos for Girls." Another had "Cooking" for girls and "Bachelor Cooking" for boys.

A curriculum brochure for still another school described a course called "Marriage and Family Planning" as all about "finding a husband and planning a family." (Federal officials say that, while that description constituted an obvious violation, classes dealing specifically with human sexuality may be segregated by sex.)

But in many cases, Miss Knox says, HEW has not decided thorny questions behind complaints. Soccer and hair length are two cases.

In June 1975, HEW exempted "contact sports" from its rule giving girls the right to try out for boys' teams if no comparable girls' teams existed. More than three years and many complaints later, it still can't decide whether soccer is a contact sport.

The dispute over hair length and dress codes is even older. Colleen O'Connor, a spokeswoman for the civil rights office, says the government has 112 cases pending on hair length, most of them involving school rules that say boys must wear their hair beyond a certain length but setting no similar standard for girls.

"There's just no consensus on that issue," Miss O'Connor said.

Miss Knox blames HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. "Califano has simply been unwilling to say what the law is," she said. "I may think it's trivial for a school to tell a kid how long to wear his hair, but when the kid gets thrown out of school it becomes important."

"More than any of his predecessors, Califano has taken personal control of decisions on Title IX," she added. "And the biggest hangup is still just deciding what the law means ... I think it's obvious he does not have a strong personal commitment to equal rights for women."

Another group, the National Coalition for Women and Girls in Education, recently accused Califano of "foot-dragging" and insisted that he announce his long-promised plans for enforcement of Title IX in college and university athletics.

HEW Undersecretary Hale Champion said a draft policy statement on the subject is still being reviewed and changed, but a final draft could be made public later this month.

Miss O'Connor says the civil rights office got off to a slow start on Title IX but has closed nearly 1,100 cases in under two years, nearly twice as many as the previous administration closed in four years.

Rosa Wiener, chief of the office's sex discrimination branch, said many people have concluded Title IX is silly because some apparently trivial issues have received widespread publicity.

"It may not seem important whether girls and boys take cooking together," she said, "but when a career counselor tells a girl she shouldn't take a certain vocational course because 'that's for boys,' it may directly affect the girl's future life and income."

"Now that's blatant, it's serious, and it's not funny."

Nicaraguan Leader Vows To Hold On

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — President Anastasio Somoza addressed thousands of cheering supporters Sunday, just two days shy of the opposition's deadline for his resignation, and told the crowd he will not quit.

"I am proud to be your president and I will deliver the presidency, God willing, to another Liberal in 1981," the West Point-educated Somoza, 55, said in a sun-drenched field outside a government hospital he dedicated.

"With a deep sense of patriotism, of the faith I have in the Nicaraguan people, in the vote, I tell the people of Nicaragua, the ballot is more powerful than the rifle."

As the deadline approaches, Sandinista National Liberation Front guerrillas have stepped up their anti-Somoza activity with border raids, bank robberies, car thefts and hijackings of milk delivery trucks.

Security sources said a 6-year-old girl, three government soldiers and two suspected Sandinista guerrillas were reportedly killed in these actions. At least 51 people have been killed in political strife in the last three weeks, they said.

The sources believe that if Somoza does not step down by Tuesday when the 15-day deadline ends, the Sandinista guerrillas will feel compelled to unleash their much-anticipated, anti-government offensive.

They have been regrouping and rearming themselves, reportedly with Venezuelan and Panamanian-supplied arms, in training camps believed to be operated in neighboring Costa Rica. Israel and Argentina have reportedly supplied arms to the Somoza arsenal, badly depleted during last September's Sandinista-led uprising.

Somoza has repeatedly said he will not step down until his six-year terms ends on May 1, 1981. The Broad Opposition Front has demanded his immediate resignation and his departure from the country with his family.

The crowd, which the president estimated at 40,000, chanted "So-mo-za, So-mo-za" and "stay, don't go." One banner read, "Neither Carter nor Castro, only Somoza for Nicaragua."

Opposition leader Alfonso Robelo said the gathering was staged.

"Somoza has imposed martial law and the state of siege which prohibits these rallies, but ye he can stage one for his party," Robelo said.

Soldiers Feel Forced To Use Drugs

STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — A congressman investigating drug abuse in the U.S. armed forces says some young soldiers feel forced to use drugs.

Rep. Glenn L. English, D-Okla., chairman of a House subcommittee, said some soldiers told him if they refuse to use drugs other soldiers call them "narks" — slang for federal narcotics agents.

He said they felt they had to use drugs avoid becoming outcasts, and some soldiers feared reprisals if they refused.

"We have heard of soldiers who felt forced to use drugs here in Europe," English said. "Some of the soldiers tell unbelievable stories."

The subcommittee split into four groups last week for unorthodox and unscheduled interviews with soldiers in Germany.

They came to Stuttgart during the weekend to examine the interviews and about 500 questionnaires soldiers filled out. They also planned to hold open hearings.

Besides English, other members are Reps. Benjamin A. Gilman, R-N.Y., Bill

Lee Evans, D-Ga., Cardiss Collins, D-Ill., and John W. Jenrette Jr., D-S.C.

They were accompanied by 25 assistants from the Drug Enforcement Agency, the State Department and the U.S. Army.

English said in order to get unbiased information the committee used unorthodox methods.

The investigators said they ignored soldiers the army selected for them and instead chose their own candidates for interviews at random.

TOAST TO SNOW — The ski season has begun, and warm ski-wear makes gliding down the slopes even more enjoyable. Nylon coveralls repel moisture and insulated parkas add warmth to the outfits worn by this young couple.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY THE LATE GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
IN COLLABORATION WITH PAUL E. RUBLE, M.D.

(Editor's Note: This material was prepared by the late Dr. George C. Thosteson in collaboration with Paul E. Ruble, M.D., who has worked with Dr. Thosteson for the past four years. The column will continue to be carried in the Avalanche-Journal under Dr. Ruble's byline.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to work with mongoloid children, perhaps adopt one. Would you please write something on the subject — the cause, their character, etc. — A.L.M.

Your ambition to work with these unfortunate children is commendable, and so is your determination to learn about the subject beforehand. Both motivation and knowledge are indispensable.

Mongolism is a congenital (birth) defect featured by faulty arrangements of chromosomes, the chemical structures that tell the body how to grow. Normally, we have 46 of these. The mongoloid child has 47. The condition is called Down's syndrome, and occurs chiefly in offspring of women who conceive late in life, and is expected in about one in 700 births.

The child is born with slanted eyes, a flattened nose, large tongue, and a characteristic crease on the soles and palms. He is severely handicapped mentally, normally attaining the mental age of about 7. Mongoloid children have very poor musculature and coordination.

Those devoted to their care find them pleasant youngsters. They tend to cry very little. Older ones are quite docile. They tend to have other physical defects, the chief of which is heart disorder. They have poor resistance to infection, and they often die young. With special care, they can be taught simple tasks, and with improvement in rare some live to adulthood.

HOLIDAY DEADLINES

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, deadlines for stories to appear in the Family News Section of the Avalanche-Journal during the holiday week have been advanced.

All stories with pictures to be printed in the Sunday, Nov. 26, edition — including bridal announcements and anniversaries — must be turned into the Family News office no later than 5 p.m. Monday, Nov. 20.

Those items for the Sunday paper which do not have an accompanying photograph — including engagement announcements, club notices and volunteer directory items — must be turned in no later than noon Tuesday, Nov. 21.

All material for publication in the Friday, Nov. 24 editions — including bridal courtesies — must be turned into our office no later than noon Tuesday, Nov. 21.

I hope you find working with these youngsters as satisfying as have other dedicated adults I have known. It takes great patience and understanding. If you like challenges, try it. Before you decide to undertake the work, go to a children's home where they are often cared for, or to a ward in a children's hospital, where you will get some idea of their behavior and the kind of care necessary.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Five years ago I had an ovary and my uterus removed, which has made a new person of me. But one new problem has come up. I just turned 40, and am growing a beard, a light one. I work in the public eye, however, and will not shave. The removal of ovaries turn my skin red. My doctor just laughs, and doesn't give me an answer. Is it a sign of a hormone imbalance? I am depressed. — D.R.

Having had an ovary removed very likely speeded up the events of menopause (surgical menopause). As you may know females normally have both male and female hormones present in their bodies. The female hormones normally predominate. When these are reduced, as from ovary removal, then the male hormone (androgens) may predominate slightly, causing such mild male-type characteristics as a beard.

I don't know why you scorn shaving as an answer. If you think, as many do, that it will intensify your beard, you are mistaken. It will not affect growth. Since you obviously are sensitive to the removal of ovaries...

Canister vacuums are a good choice for apartments or homes where storage is a problem. Many canisters stand on end and can be stored in little space. And for bare floors and above-the-floor cleaning, a canister's easy-to-use attachments are a real advantage.

lotions, I suggest you try this. Some physicians will consider use of small doses of estrogen (female hormone) for this condition if it is causing great distress in a patient. But I seriously question the need for that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read a medical report that mentioned "vaginal flora." I didn't want to ask my doctor about this. Can you tell me what it is? Not knowing is driving me up the wall. — Mrs. P.E.

Every woman has vaginal flora. It is medicalese for the total environment of the vaginal membranes, including all the organisms (yeasts, bacteria, etc.) found there. If the doctor found nothing unusual in your vaginal flora you can stop worrying.

What action do you take?

A.—Partner's bid is not forcing, but it is the nearest thing to it. He has made a takeout double and then jumped in his own suit despite the fact that you have promised very little. While we are not here to contend that you have a good hand, you do have a smattering of values and you should give partner a chance. We suggest you show your club stopper by bidding two no trump.

2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. There are those who might claim that your trump support is too good for a mere preference. We are not among them. Bear in mind that you have already shown your ace-king of spades in the values you hold for your two-over-one response of two clubs. While it is pleasant to have those cards in partner's suit, they still represent values you have already shown, and a simple preference does your hand full justice.

What action do you take?

A.—To bid freely at the two-level, vulnerable, partner must have a reasonably good hand and strong suit. You have fair values, and game is definitely a possibility. The obvious way to tell partner of this is to raise to three spades. Take a demerit if you chose to bid three clubs—that is not forcing, so partner might pass. And even if he does rebid three spades, you won't know what to do.

1 ♦ 2 ♥ ?

What action do you take?

A.—Only two alternatives suggest themselves—a raise to two spades or a pass. One thing is certain: you do not have the values for a bid of three diamonds, which would create a forcing-to-game situation. It is a close decision, but we feel that you have just too much to pass. Our choice is a raise to two spades.

2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—It is a close decision, and we would not blame you much if you decided to pass. However, your hand is worth 10 points at a heart contract, so we feel it is just strong enough for a raise to three hearts—game cannot be ruled out altogether.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

What do you bid now?

A.—Your hand has improved dramatically in value. Despite the fact that you showed a minimum opening bid by passing at your second turn, partner chose a jump rebid. A mere preference now won't do justice to your holding—every card is working and your king of clubs and queen of hearts should be promoted in value. You should either cue bid four spades or jump to five hearts, and we have a slight preference for the former since partner might have a doubleton spade and be afraid of slam because of that.

Q.8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ8742 ♥AK73 ♦Q6 ♣8

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass

2 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Now is the time to introduce your second major—not because you expect to find support in partner's hand (the bidding to this point makes that unlikely), but to enable him to clarify his holding. If partner now bids three spades, we would choose to play in a suit and would consider a forward going move. If partner were to bid three no trump, we would pass, secure in the knowledge that it must play better from his side.

The First Lady of Candidness has done it again. Betty Ford has done for facelifts what the YWCA did for belly-dancing. She has given it respectability.

But, as I was telling my friend, Mayva, the other day, "What's so bad about wrinkles? My goodness, they're beautiful! They give you character and depth." "I couldn't agree more," said Mayva. "Wrinkles are the jewels awarded survivors."

"That's beautiful, Mayva," I said. "But be fair! We're lucky. We haven't aged like our friends. I mean some of them look like an unpaved road."

"Don't I know it," said Mayva. "Florence uses that cream to erase bags under her eyes. The other day she erased her entire face."

"Oh, Mayva," I laughed, wiping tears from my eyes. "I wouldn't believe we'd spent so many years together, you look so young. Sometimes, I forget about your neck."

"What about my neck?" asked Mayva, sobering up.

"You've said yourself every time you look into a mirror it reminds you to defrost the chicken."

"I never said that! At least I don't have laugh lines that I can plant winter wheat in."

"I'm not laughing," I said evenly. "I can never tell," she said coolly.

"Mayva, at least my whole body isn't suffering from erosion."

"EROSION? I never thought I'd hear that from a woman who wore ponytails until she was 35 just to pull back the extra skin around her face."

"I never did that!" I said defensively. "You tied your hair back so tight that every time you opened your mouth, your eyes blinked."

"You always told me my face was interesting," I said.

"I said the same thing about the Pyramids."

We sat in silence. Finally, I said, "Face it, Mayva, we've got a lot of fat that doesn't fit anymore."

"I know," she said. "It seems like one morning I got up and during the night everything had fallen. I looked like someone slammed a door while I was baking."

"I'd consider taking a tuck here and there," I said.

"I know, I'd like to look like anyone's sister just once before I go. Incidentally, what happened to 'wrinkles are beautiful and create character and depth? The jewels that are awarded survivors?'"

"That's before we got them. Incidentally, I wonder what Betty Ford did with what she didn't want?"

Be thankful for the bounty Nature brings us every day.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the wife who complained about her husband because he insists on walking around the house without a stitch of clothes on gave me the courage to write to you. What really upset her was his nudity in front of the 10-year-old daughter.

My wife does the same thing—only worse. She gets a kick out of answering the door stark naked and watching the surprised reaction of whoever happens to be there. Yesterday it was our clergyman. I nearly died.

What I want to know is can she be arrested—like maybe for indecent exposure? Please answer. I am—Worried In Buffalo

Dear Buff (no pun intended): So long as your wife is in her own home she cannot be arrested. If she goes outside nude—well, that's another story.

The woman is clearly an exhibitionist and should seek professional help if she develops a yen to "branch out."

Dear Readers: When I goof I do it right and I am prepared to take my punishment. Haul out the wet noodle. Dress me in sackcloth and ashes. Get out the branding irons and put a D on my forehead—for Dummy.

In response to a letter from the anguished parents of a young college student who had joined a religious cult, I recommended APRIL (Alliance for the Preservation of Religious Liberties). I was bombarded with letters from former cult members and parents telling me I had been taken in.

Almost all the letters were low-key, non-hysterical, and non-judgmental. They just wanted me to know I had made a mistake and hoped I would do further research and retract my endorsement. Well, I have done a great deal of research, and I was wrong to endorse this controversial group. My reconsidered recommendation to families with this sad problem is to get personal advice from a professional—a clergyman or a counselor who knows the individual's situation.

The following groups have been recommended by Rabbi Maurice Davis of White Plains, N.Y., who, four and a half years ago, founded Citizens Engaged in Reuniting Families.

Also supporting these organizations is Rev. Joel A. MacCollam, Associate Rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Glendale, Cal. Here are the organizations: Citizens Freedom Foundation, P.O. Box 7000-89, 1719 Via El Prado, Redondo Beach, Cal. 90277; Individual Freedom Foundation, Pittsburgh Chapter, Box 131, Allison Park, Pa. 15101; Individual Freedom Foundation, Michigan Chapter, P.O. Box 382, Trenton, Mich. 48183; Ad Hoc Committee of Concerned Parents, P.O. Box 343, Lexington, Mass. 02173; Love Our Children, 125 North 34th St., Omaha, Neb. 68131; Personal Freedom Foundation, 7915 Milbury Road, Baltimore, Md. 21207.

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever I order toast—even in the best restaurants—I get only the center buttered. The rest is bone dry. This irritates me and I always send it back. The result is a dirty look and a long wait.

I don't know about anyone else but I eat the whole piece of toast—not just the center—and I want the butter spread evenly. Am I being petty? Is there a cure?—Not Getting My Butter's Worth

Dear N.G.: When you order breakfast, make a point of the way you want the toast buttered. It's bound to help at least 50 percent of the time which means you'll be twice as well off as you were before.

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: I've just purchased a beautiful suede and leather coat. Can my regular dry cleaner take care of it for me when it needs cleaning?—Jerr M.

The experts at the International Fabricare Institute (IFI) tell us that genuine suede and leather requires special processing to preserve finish, feel and color. So you should take your coat to a professional suede and leather cleaner equipped for this type of cleaning.

One of the problems pointed out by IFI is that skin defects are often masked by the manufacturer by treating the skins with oils, dyes or pigments. The masking dyes are not always color fast and may fade during processing. If this happens, the skin defects become noticeable as a light area on suede and a dark area on leather.

IFI offers these tips to follow at the time of cleaning:

When you take your suede or leather garment to be cleaned, take along the care labels and hang tags.

All pieces of a multi-piece outfit should be processed at the same time to help insure that its color will match after cleaning.

Point out to your cleaners all stains and spots so that he will know how best to handle your garment.

Inspect your garments immediately after cleaning. If you have any problems or questions, your professional suede and leather cleaner should be contacted.

Do not store your leathers or furs in plastic bags: They must have air circulation to keep them from drying out.

And our thanks to Greta DeBolsky for helping out with this great information.—Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Thanksgiving will soon be here and, of course, we all love turkey with stuffing. But what a job to scoop it out of that old bird!

Alan: "We discussed the Stayman convention last week. Let's go a little further into notrump bidding and show the Jacoby transfer bid, which is now in almost universal expert use and which has spread to a great majority of tournament players."

Oswald: "The bidding in the box is what transpires without a Jacoby transfer. South plays in four spades and is very unlucky indeed. West opens his jack of clubs and the defense gets three clubs and the ace of diamonds."

Alan: "Playing Jacoby transfer, South responds two hearts. This is an artificial bid to show spades. North dutifully bids two spades. South jumps to four and North is going to make at least four odd since East is on lead."

Oswald: "The transfer bid doesn't always work. It just will produce an average of at least half a trick extra when used year in and year out."

Ask the Experts

Several readers have asked how the Jacoby transfer was invented.

Oswald Jacoby answers: "When I got back from the Korean war, Dave Carter of St. Louis had introduced the four-level transfer responses of four diamonds and four hearts in the opening auctions. I adopted this bid enthusiastically. Then in 1955, Richard Trumble of Waukegan, Ill., suggested using two-level transfers and I proceeded to develop a complete system of responses employing these low-level transfers."

'Immigrants' Lands Actress First Starring Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You've just signed an acting contract with a movie studio and you see fame and fortune in your immediate future.

Possibly, but most overnight success stories are years in the making. Sharon Gless had to give up a $200-a-week job as a secretary to take a $186 job as a Universal contract player.

After six years of walk-on parts and a brief stint as the Girl Friday on the ill-fated "Switch" series, she finally landed her first starring role.

"My contract is now very generous," Miss Gless said. "I get paid the same as a featured player. The TV movie 'The Islander' was my first starring role. I was always a co-star before, but Dennis Weaver was billed above the title and I got star billing."

That may set the pattern for her future. She stars in "The Immigrants," a two-part movie in the Operation Prime Time series airing on independent stations in November and December. The program was not seen in preview.

Miss Gless also stars in the NBC comedy pilot "Turnabout" with John Shuck.

"The Immigrants," based on the novel by Howard Fast, tells of the rise of a young Italian fisherman in San Francisco and his marriage to the daughter of the city's leading banker. Stephen Macht stars as Daniel Lavette and Miss Gless as his spoiled, aristocratic and headstrong wife, Jean Seldon Lavette.

"I don't know how many girls I was up against for this role," she said. "I can't imagine any actress not wanting it. You get to age 20 years. It's a period piece ending in 1931. I'll probably never get another role like this."

She almost didn't get this one. The executive producer, Robert Cinader, didn't even want her to read for the part. "I'd one an 'Emergency' for him and I'd always played kookie ladies," she said. "Then I did 'Switch,' where I played an asexual lady."

Monique James, the head of Universal's contract players, set up the appointment with Cinader. Being under contract doesn't mean actors automatically get roles — only the chance to audition. The casting decisions are up to the producers and directors.

"Cinader didn't want to see me because he said he didn't want to embarrass me," she said. "But I saw him and before I got back to Monique's office he called and thanked her for insisting he see me."

She went through two weeks of auditions before getting the part.

Miss Gless had feared she was being typecast as the kookie blonde. "The only thing that saved me as Maggie on 'Switch' was that I could do a role within a role when she went undercover," she said. "It showed I could stretch. If I played a hooker I couldn't play her as Madeilyn Rhue would have played her. I had to play her as Maggie would play her."

Miss Gless lost 17 pounds for "The Immigrants," which called for her first nude scene.

"It was most painful for me," she recalled. "They closed the set because of the color of my face. I was so frightened I thought I would pass out. But I didn't want the crew to know I couldn't handle this. I thought they'd be embarrassed for me."

Operation Prime Time bypasses the network censors and is a little more revealing than the networks. Nevertheless, it's still television, which means it's mostly implied.

Miss Gless said she may do a sequel to "The Immigrants," in which she would have a grown daughter.

"I'd thought comedy was where I was until 'The Immigrants,'" she said. "Now

I want to do both comedy and drama. I felt very comfortable as Jean.

"My progress as an actress has been very slow," she said. "I would look at actresses who make it on television overnight. But they burn out quickly. My progress has been slow and uphill, but I feel I've become better."

Amish Flock To Altar In November

INTERCOURSE, Pa. (AP) — With the crops harvested and the vegetables and fruits canned, the industrious Pennsylvania Amish now have time for marriage.

November is the Amish wedding month, one of the few times during the year that they have time to attend the all-day celebrations.

"We're swamped with Amish this time of year," says Alex Frey, who heads the marriage license bureau in Lancaster County with its 11,000 Amish.

"We've got as many November weddings in this county as we've got in June on account of the Amish," she said.

She said about 150 Amish couples applied for licenses last November and only December, and she expects about the same number this year.

The Amish, who shun electricity, cars, public schools and too much contact with the outside world, settled in Pennsylvania about 200 years ago.

Amish couples keep their engagements secret until two weeks before the wedding when it is announced at church services.

Nonetheless, an impending Amish wedding is foretold by certain signs, such as the planting of a large quantity of celery which is served at the wedding feast and placed on the tables as a decoration in place of flowers.

Although the sermons are long, the Anti-Semitism Against Fraternity Investigated

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — What's described as "a few isolated incidents" of vandalism directed at predominantly Jewish Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity has prompted the University of Florida to sponsor a series of activities exploring prejudicial behavior, university president Robert Q. Marston announced.

A student-dominated judiciary committee found Kappa Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon guilty of provocative conduct, but innocent of anti-Semitic remarks during a Nov. 9 egg-throwing incident on the lawn of Tau Epsilon Phi house. Marston said Friday the incidents were not organized and were no worse than those on any other large campus.

wedding ceremony is simple. The couple stands before the minister. He asks if they want to marry each other, they say yes, and then, placing their hands together, the minister pronounces them man and wife.

No rings are exchanged, there are no flowers and the brides dress is no different from the dresses of the women guests.

Amish newlyweds do not go on honeymoon.

Until quite recently, Amish couples usually lived at the home of one of their parents until spring, the traditional land-transfer season, when they got a farm of their own.

Now, because increasing land costs make it impossible for every newly married Amish couple to have a farm, they are more likely to move right away into some temporary, rented property. Some young couples are given farms in central Pennsylvania where land is less costly.

Male Home Ec Teacher 'Liberated'

BLAINE, Minn. (AP) — When one of Carl Savick's students told her mother that her new home economics teacher was a man, the mother asked, "What's wrong with him?"

Such remarks don't faze the 33-year-old Savick, now in his seventh year of teaching high school home economics.

"Women's lib is the greatest thing because it's liberating men too," says Savick, whose basic foods classes are composed of more than 50 percent boys.

"When my boys get out of school and get married, they should be able to cook breakfast as well as their wives."

In one recent class, the bearded, stocky Savick whipped up a nutritious treat of chocolate pudding mix, corn syrup, peanut butter and cereal as 20 Blaine High School students crowded around to watch.

The students then split into small groups to duplicate the recipe as Savick, dressed in blue jeans and a navy sweater, ambled from stove to stove to offer advice and answer questions.

David Vos, a 17-year-old junior, said he often cooks dinner for his entire family and plans to take more home economics classes.

"I make steaks, spaghetti, cakes — whatever I'm game for trying," said Vos, who plans to go into the construction business with his father. "It helps my mom out because she works late and doesn't usually get home before 7."

Savick, one of a just a few male secondary school home economics teachers in the country, says he got into the field almost by accident. While growing up in Kiester, Minn., he helped out in his parents' restaurant. After high school, he studied hotel management at a vocational school and earned a college degree in home economics and business administration.

Following college graduation Savick managed a restaurant in Briceville, Minn., which was the local teen-age hangout. Savick heard a lot of complaints about school and teachers.

"I decided that working with kids was important and something I would like to do, so I went back and got my teaching certificate."

Savick says that despite an occasional negative comment, his reception from students, parents and colleagues as a male in a female-dominated profession has been overwhelmingly positive.

"If I was worried about my masculinity, I sure wouldn't be doing this," he says. "When I was in college, I was insecure about telling people I was a home economics major. But now I'm proud of what I'm doing."

Savick is active in professional home economics organizations and likes the lifestyle teaching brings. "I made up my mind a long time ago I wasn't going to get a heart attack going up the corporate ladder. I really get off on the kids — just having a positive influence and being a role model to show that men can do these things."

Bizarre Scandal Mars Politicians

LONDON (UPI) — It isn't every day that the former leader of a political party in a highly developed Western country goes on trial for conspiracy to commit murder.

Yet Jeremy Thorpe, 49, for nine years chief of Britain's small Liberal party, faces that charge Monday in a small-town magistrate's court. It climaxes a case so wild it would give thriller writers pause.

Its elements are the stuff of pure fiction — men, famous names, a hired killer, a murder attempt on a lonely moor, hush money, blackmail.

In the best thriller tradition it started with a bizarre obscenity. A Great Dane dog called Rinka was shot and killed on a wild road on Exmoor on Oct. 24, 1975.

Police launched an investigation which lasted 24 months. Rinka belonged to a former male model named Norman Scott, who turned up in an obscure court three months later charged with social security fraud. During the hearing Scott blurted out in court:

"I am being hounded the whole time ... just because of my sexual relationship with Jeremy Thorpe."

Thorpe, who remarried after his first wife was killed in a car crash, issued an instant denial, saying, "There is no truth in Mr. Scott's wild allegations."

But over the months a wild tangle of revelations dribbled out.

It became known that Peter Bessell, a Liberal party member of Parliament under Thorpe's leadership, had been paying money to Scott regularly from 1968 to 1976.

Bessell, 57, said Scott was blackmailing him because of an affair with a secretary. Later he said this story was "a cover-up."

Bessell, a close Thorpe associate for 20 years who moved to the United States after he lost his seat in Parliament, has returned from California to testify at Thorpe's trial.

In the meantime, David Holmes, 48, once deputy treasurer of the Liberal party, admitted giving Scott a substantial sum without Thorpe's knowledge, saying it was for "certain letters" from Bessell to Scott.

Holmes and Thorpe now face the charge that "on divers dates between Oct. 1, 1968, and Nov. 1, 1977 ... they conspired together and with others to murder Norman Scott."

The murder accusation was barely mentioned when in March 1976 police charged airline pilot Andrew Newton with shooting Scott's dog on that Exmoor road.

Newton admitted it, went to jail for unlawfully possessing a pistol — and, when he got out, declared loudly and publicly that his real target had been Scott.

Newton claimed he had been paid $10,000 by "a leading Liberal" to murder Scott. He failed, he said, only because his gun jammed after he shot Scott's dog.

Thorpe, long considered one of the most brilliant British politicians of his generation, resigned as Liberal party leader

May 10, 1976, at the height of the scandal. He has vehemently denied any part in the web of events. In his fullest public defense, Thorpe said in a speech:

"Not a scrap of evidence has been produced to implicate me in any alleged plot to hire somebody to murder Norman Scott ...

"I tried to help (Scott) in various ways ... However, no sexual activity of any kind ever took place ...

"I was at no time a party to any form of cover-up or attempt to put pressure on Scott. I did not know of David Holmes's negotiations to buy any letters ... I did not know of any other attempt to buy off Mr. Scott ...

"I do not know Mr. Newton. I have never met Mr. Newton. I have had no direct or indirect communication with Mr. Newton ... I have made no payment to Mr. Newton. I have no knowledge of any payment being made to Mr. Newton ...

"I have not at any time engaged in any discussions with Mr. Bessell or with anyone else in relation to any proposed murder or attempt to harm Mr. Scott. I would have been horrified at any such suggestion."

On Monday, however, Thorpe, Holmes and businessmen John Le Mesurier, 45, and George Deakin, 38, appear before a magistrate at Minehead, 168 miles west of London, to hear the prosecution's case. The magistrate must decide if there is enough evidence to commit the four men to a full trial.

Child Safety Devices Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety says it agrees with federal safety officials who have asserted a need for revised standards on child restraints.

The Washington-based institute, an independent, nonprofit educational organization, commented Saturday on the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's proposed revision of two closely related safety standards.

In so doing, the institute endorsed the idea of requiring crash testing of child restraints and a proposed standard for seat belt assemblies.

Two Wives Die In Collision With Husbands

KIRBYVILLE (AP) — Two women from the Southeast Texas community of Call were killed in a bizarre accident Saturday afternoon when the car they were riding in collided head-on with a vehicle carrying their husbands.

The men escaped injury.

The accident occurred in Jasper County, three miles east of Kirbyville on Farm Road 363.

The women killed were identified as Mattie Denise Valew, 25, and Cheryl Pearce, 21.

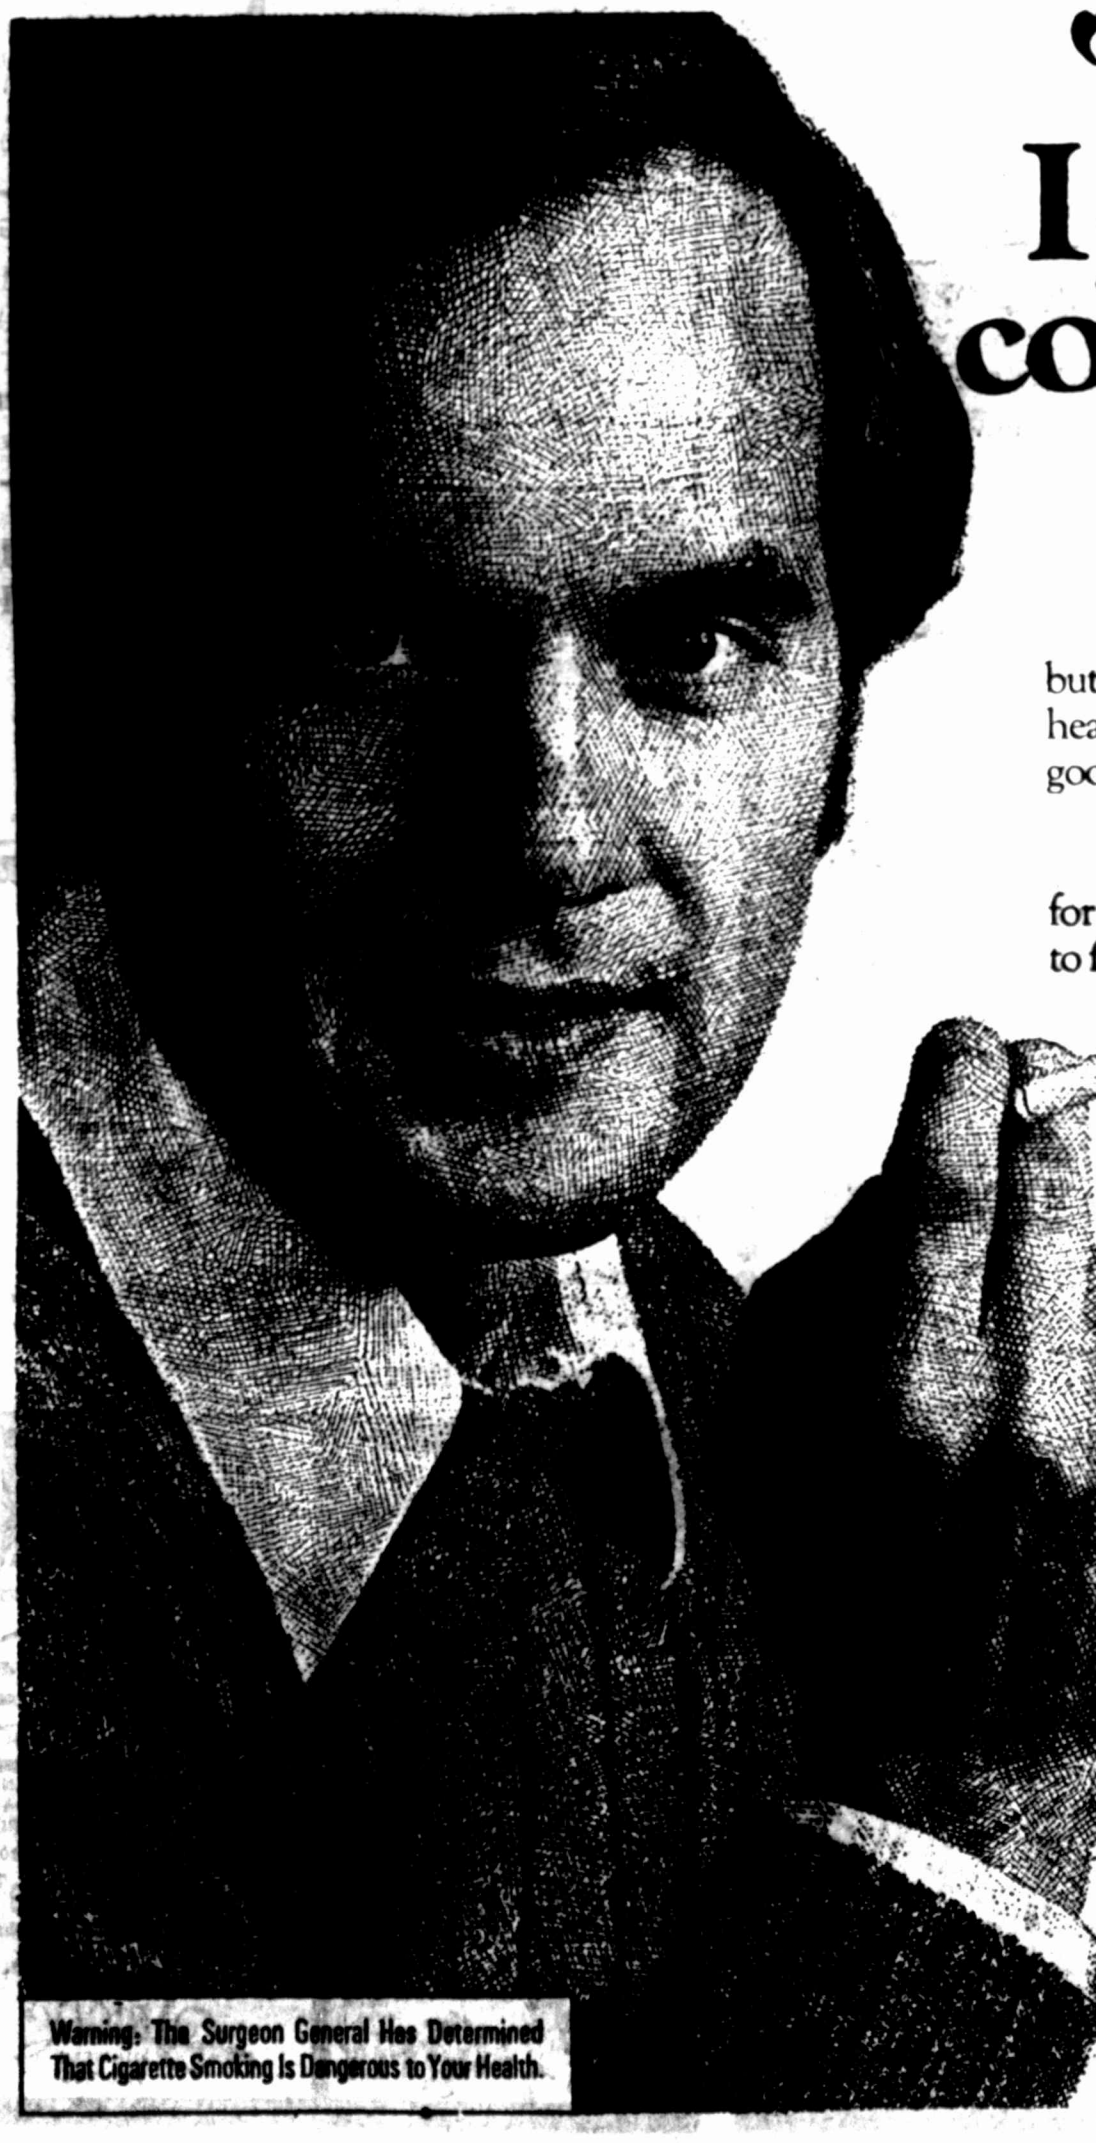

A Department of Public Safety spokesman said the compact car driven by Mrs. Valew collided with the pickup truck driven by her husband, Michael Vilew. Timothy Pearce, the husband of Mrs. Pearce, was riding with Valew in the truck.

The Valews and Pearcees were neighbors, and the women were returning from work at the Kirby Lumber Co. and Plywood Plant nearby when the accident took place, a witness said.

Ship's Hull Found On Bottom Of Lake

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A male-carrying ship found on the muddy bottom of Lake Champlain may date back to the 19th century, say archaeologists at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The 60-foot wooden hull, described as half-barge and half-chooner by MIT's Dr. William Baber, was discovered last month by a team of underwater archaeologists from Canada and MIT. "This is interesting because it is in a fantastic state of preservation," said Marc Thero-

I just won't compromise on taste.

"I'm willing to make some concessions, but taste isn't one of them. Even though I've heard the tar stories, I still want a cigarette with good taste."

"That's why I'm glad I switched to Vantage. With Vantage, I get the taste I smoked for in the first place. And that wasn't easy to find in a low tar."

"For me, Vantage is the best tasting low tar cigarette there is."

Angelo St. Leads Playoffs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Top-ranked Angelo State, which posted the first undefeated regular season in its 15-year history, heads a list of eight teams selected Sunday to battle for the NAIA Division I football championship.

The Rams, who downed East Texas State, 38-14, Saturday to finish the year 11-0 and win their first Lone Star Conference title, will host eighth-ranked Oregon College of Education, 8-1, in a Dec. 2 quarterfinal game at San Angelo.

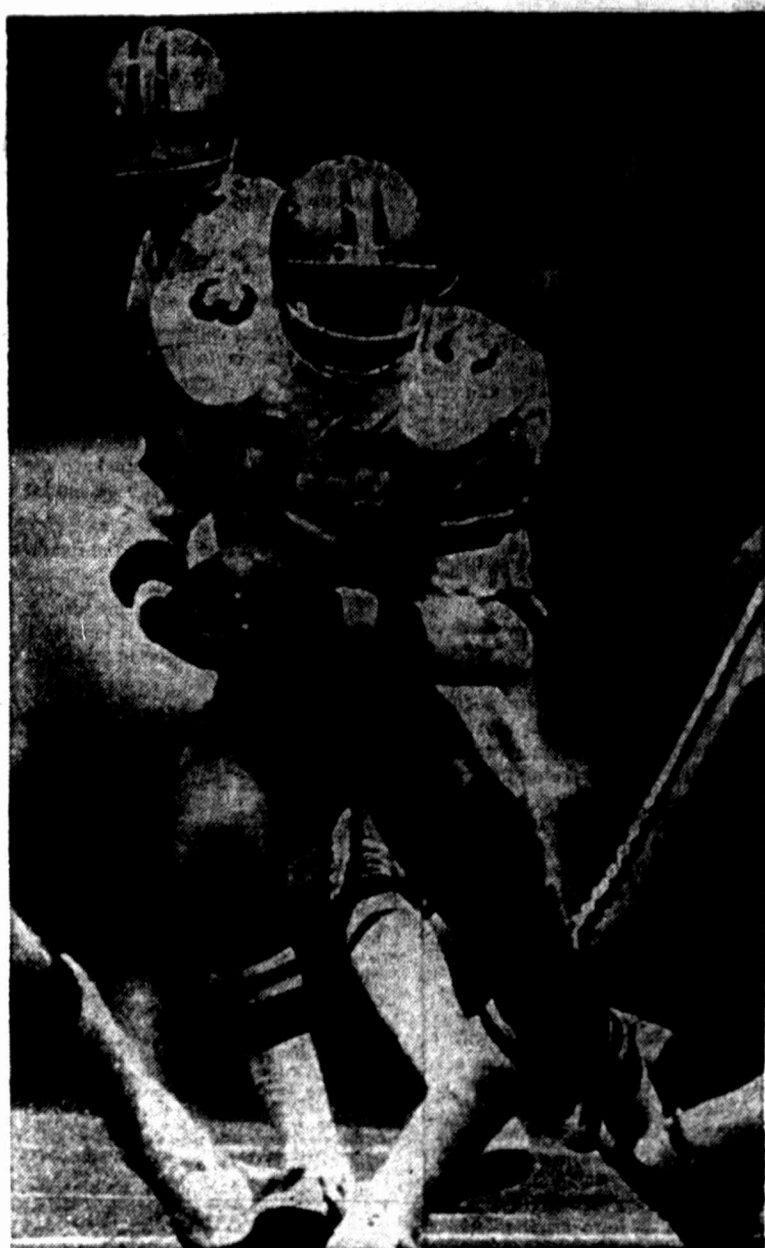

On the same day, No. 3 Central Arkansas, 9-1, will meet second-ranked Western State (Colo.), 9-0, at Conway, Arkansas; No. 5 Wisconsin-Lacrosse, 9-1, will host seventh-ranked Grand Valley State College (Mich.), 8-2, and No. 6 Elon (N.C.), 9-1-1, will entertain fourth-ranked Concord (W.Va.), 10-1, at Burlington, N.C.

The Angelo State-Oregon College contest will begin at 1:30 p.m., local time; the others will start at 1 p.m.

Angelo State and Grand Valley State will be making their first postseason appearance in NAIA football. Although the six other teams have previous playoff experience, none has won a gridiron championship.

Central Arkansas lost the Division I title to Texas A&I, 26-0, in 1976, while Elon was defeated, 42-14, by Abilene Christian in the 1973 championship game.

The quarterfinal winners will meet Dec. 9 at sites to be determined later, then the championship will be decided Dec. 16 in the City of Palms Bowl at McAllen, Texas.

2 Pokes Back In Fight

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys set the stage for their Thanksgiving Day showdown with Washington Sunday by getting first-swinging mad against the New Orleans Saints.

Quarterback Roger Staubach and running back Tony Dorsett, who both were involved in altercations with the hustling Saints, ignited Dallas to a 27-7 victory that propelled the Cowboys into a National Conference Eastern Division tie with Washington.

Staubach ran for one touchdown and passed for another and Dorsett scored on a two-yard run and rushed for 152 yards to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the year.

Dorsett was tackled out of bounds late in the first period to trigger a brief brawl and awaken the slumbering Cowboys who fell behind yet again in the first period, which has been their habit this year.

"We are looking forward to Thursday and it is going to be tough," said Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "We always knew we would have to beat the Redskins to do anything and whether they lost today was really unimportant."

Landry said the Cowboys "We are playing tough football right now. We are playing hard and tough."

The Dallas victory was tempered by the loss of fullback Robert Newhouse, who suffered a fracture in his right leg.

"We're going to miss Newhouse. He's been one of our steadiest players all year," said Landry. "He will be out a couple of weeks at least."

The Cowboy pulse also quickened after Washington's loss to St. Louis was flashed on the scoreboard.

Dorsett now has 1,020 yards for the year after his third best day in a Cowboy uniform.

"We're rolling now," said tight end Billy Joe Dupree.

Staubach ran for a touchdown and passed 24 yards to Billy Joe Dupree for another.

Dorsett, who was involved in an out-of-bounds tackling incident that aroused the Cowboy team, rushed 25 times for 152 yards to go over the 1,000-yard mark as Dallas tied the Washington Redskins with an 8-4 ledger. Dorsett got 63 of his yards on his longest run from scrimmage this year.

Washington and Dallas collide Thanksgiving Day in Texas Stadium in a nationally televised showdown for the NFC East leadership.

Linebacker Thomas Henderson and tackle Larry Cole made big second quarter steals to help erase a 7-0 first quarter Saints lead. Dallas has a 69-21 deficit this year in the first 15 minutes of play.

Tempers flared frequently between the teams after an incident late in the first quarter when cornerback Clarence Chapman tackled Dorsett out of bounds near the Dallas bench.

Chapman was immediately set upon by a fourth of the Cowboy team with Benny Barnes and Alois Blackwell leading the charge. Order was restored with Chapman getting a 15-yard roughing penalty besides the punishment he suffered at the bottom of the pile.

Officials quickly put down two other scuffles, one involving Staubach and Saint defensive end Joe Campbell.

Dallas wide receiver Butch Johnson was kicked out of the game for throwing a ball in an opponent's face mask.

Dallas also lost fullback Robert Newhouse for an undetermined period of time with a fracture of a small bone in his right leg.

New Orleans, now 5-7 for the year, moved 73 yards in 12 plays with the opening kickoff as Chuck Muncie scored from a yard out.

But Dallas scored twice in the second quarter. Dorsett dashed two yards for a score after Henderson recovered Tony Galbreath's fumble and Staubach sneaked for another score after Cole swiped a fluttering Archie Manning pass.

Galbreath got Dallas back in the game by fumbling the ball away at the Saint 33 with New Orleans leading 7-0. Staubach hit Drew Pearson with a 17-yard pass and Dupree with an 11-yard strike to set up Dorsett's touchdown from two yards out.

Dallas' defense struck again in the second period when Harvey Martin hit Manning as he tried to throw, and Cole intercepted the ball and returned it 13 yards to the Saint 39. Staubach completed short passes to get in position for his quarterback sneak.

Dallas made it 21-7 after Johnson returned the second-half kickoff 56 yards.

Placekicker Rafael Septien kicked fourth-quarter field goals of 24 and 26 yards to put the 13-point underdog Saints away.

Dorsett dashed 63 yards to give Dallas Septien's first field goal opportunity and Dupree caught a 38-yarder for Septien's second field goal chance.

The game ended with Dallas on New Orleans' one-yard line as the crowd boomed because Dallas Coach Tom Landry refused to run up the score on his old friend, Saint Coach Dick Nolan.

Dallas intercepted Manning three times in one of its best defensive performances of the year.

Title Fight In Sugar

By The Associated Press
The score—28-31—was awfully familiar to the Nebraska Cornhuskers. They beat Oklahoma by that count in a classic 1971 shootout en route to a second consecutive national college football championship.

But this time, the second-ranked Huskers were on the wrong end. They dropped a 26-31 thriller Saturday to Missouri's upset kings, thereby erasing their own dream of No. 1 and thoroughly scrambling the postseason bowl picture.

Instead of a national championship Orange Bowl showdown between top-rated Penn State—the Nittany Lions were idle Saturday—and Nebraska, there apparently will be a national championship Sugar Bowl showdown between Penn State and third-ranked Alabama.

The only flies in the ointment are that Penn State, which accepted a Sugar Bowl bid, must beat 18th-ranked Pitt next Friday to remain No. 1 while Alabama must defeat Auburn on Dec. 2 to get into the Sugar Bowl. And who can say whether Alabama, Oklahoma or Southern Cal will be runner-up to Penn State in this week's Associated Press poll.

Eighth-ranked Georgia could have become the Southeastern Conference's representative in New Orleans by defeating Auburn but the Bulldogs settled for a 22-22 deadlock when Coach Vince Dooley dissuaded a two-point conversion attempt with 5:18 left to play.

Perhaps the biggest stunner of all was fourth-ranked Oklahoma's acceptance of a rematch with Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. The Sooners dropped a 17-14 decision to Nebraska on Nov. 18 but gained a tie for the Big Eight crown Saturday by thrashing Oklahoma State 62-7 behind Billy Sims' 209 rushing yards and four touchdowns.

The host team in the Rose Bowl will be fifth-ranked Southern Cal. The Trojans defeated No. 14 UCLA 17-10 as Paul McDonald threw two touchdown passes. The loss sent UCLA to the Fiesta Bowl against No. 13 Arkansas, a 26-7 winner over Texas AM.

UBC's New Year's Day opponent will be the winner of next week's annual Big Ten shootout between seventh-ranked Michigan and No. 19 Ohio State. Michigan whipped No. 18 Purdue 24-6 as Rich Leach passed for two touchdowns while Ohio State needed a pair of second-half touchdowns to turn back Indiana 21-14.

Besides Penn State and Alabama, sixth-ranked Houston was the only other idle member of The AP's Top Twenty. The Cougars need only to beat either Texas Tech or Rice in their final two games to host the Cotton Bowl against 10th-ranked Notre Dame, which trimmed No. 20 Georgia Tech 26-21 as Vaggs Ferguson broke his own school rushing record by rambling for 256 yards. He also set a single-season Notre Dame mark of 1,160.

The Michigan-Ohio State loser will go to the Gator Bowl to meet 12th-ranked Clemson, which captured the Atlantic Coast Conference crown by edging No. 11 Maryland 28-24 as Steve Fuller threw scoring passes of 87 and 62 yards and Lester Brown scored on a 5-yard run in the final period.

Meanwhile, ninth-ranked Texas clobbered Texas Christian 41-0 and earned a Sun Bowl berth against Maryland.

In the Second Ten, No. 16 Michigan State walloped Northwestern 52-3 but the Spartans are on probation and can't go to a bowl although they can tie for the Big Ten championship. Louisiana State, ranked No. 17, was upset by Mississippi State 16-14 but the Tigers accepted an invitation to meet Missouri in the Liberty Bowl.

And Pitt, which trounced Army 35-17, will go to the Tangerine Bowl to meet North Carolina State, which defeated Duke 24-10 as Ted Brown rushed for 96 yards and passed Texas' Earl Campbell for fifth place on the all-time NCAA career list with 4,471.

The rest of the bowl picture looks like this:
Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl — The University of Georgia has accepted conditionally a bid to play against Stanford University in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl on Dec.

21, Georgia Athletic Director Paul Ewers announced Sunday night.
Georgia accepted the bid on the condition that it does not represent the Southeastern Conference in the Sugar Bowl, Ewers said.

Peach Bowl — Purdue vs. a team to be selected.
Hall of Fame Bowl — Iowa State, a 28-16 victor over Colorado, vs. Texas A&M.

Holiday Bowl — Western Athletic Conference champ Brigham Young, which lost to Utah 23-22, vs. Navy, a 28-6 loser to Florida State.
Garden State Bowl — Rutgers, which knocked off Holy Cross 31-21, vs. Arizona State of the Pac-10, which downed Oregon State 44-22.

Missouri's James Wilder scored on runs of 9, 1, 4 and 7 yards to key the Tigers' upset of Nebraska. The last one, with 3:42 remaining, set a Missouri single-game TD record and negated a 255-yard rushing effort by Rick Berns, who set Nebraska game and career marks and scored on runs of 62 and 2 yards.

"I'd gladly trade everything I got today for one more touchdown," Berns said. "It was a tough loss, but I think we'll come back in the bowl. We've got to go out in style like the Huskers are known for. I wanted the Big Eight championship and the national championship and that's gone now."

All that's left is Oklahoma — again. "I was really shocked," Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said of the Orange Bowl bid. "It was really all we had left. When Georgia tied Auburn that knocked us out of the Sugar Bowl. Nebraska would probably prefer to play someone else in the bowl and we would, too. But it's really all we've got left."

And Now, The Houston Cougars

By DON HENRY
Executive Sports Editor

"Saturday afternoon... Saturday night... Sunday morning... you can enjoy it, remember how great a win it was," remarked Rex Dockery.

"But, then you got to get ready for Houston."

It was Sunday afternoon when Dockery made the remark, or past that twilight zone of euphoria created by Saturday's 19-16 surprise over SMU. And, as he said, it was time to turn to the future.

And the future brings the Cotton Bowl-bound Houston Cougars, a team which kicked the Raiders 45-7 last year, which has lost but once this year and which is but one game away from a date with Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl.

"They just could be the best team in the country right now," said Dockery, a frown creeping over his face. "Goooooood."

Even though the Saturday afternoon-Saturday night-Sunday morning period was past, Dockery admitted he had checked the films which revealed that "Both teams played with great effort and intensity... Super effort on both sides."

"Overall, our defense played its best game of the year. The last five minutes was tremendous. What'd they get, three fourth-down plays inside the 5-yard line? And we stopped them... Big plays."

An offside penalty, a holding call, then the final fourth-down play saw Tech hold every time and prevent the Mustangs from crossing with the score 19-14 in the game's final minutes.

"The offense played well, but we fumbled three times inside their 10. But, we didn't give it to them in our end of the field. We had set out to control the game (keep the ball away from SMU quarterback Mike Ford), and we did that."

Dockery lauded end Jeff McKinney, linebacker Don Kelly, "and the entire secondary" on defense. Willie Stephens intercepted two passes, and Ted Watts pulled off three big plays in the game's final minutes.

Offensively, Dockery pointed to quarterback Ron Reeves, fullback James Hadnot, center Kim Talaferro and guard Larry Martin. "And what about Blade"

Dockery said the Raiders came out of the game limping. Hadnot, who had 160 yards rushing, sustained a severe rib bruise, wide receiver Godfrey Turner hurt an ankle, linebacker Jeff Copeland was knocked out and will miss contact work early this week, tackle Jim Verden came out with arm and shoulder hurts, Watts had his nose broken in the first half, and noseguard Jamie Giles injured an ankle.

Williams Won't Be Nice Guest

HOUSTON (AP) — Miami running back Delvin Williams says he'll have a lot of "his people" in the Astrodome tonight when the Dolphins play the Houston Oilers on national television in a game that could scratch the loser from the playoffs.

"It's really going to be something," said Williams, a former Houston schoolboy. "I'll have a lot of my people there. It's a Monday night game. I'm going home."

Williams was referring to friends and family from his hometown but the Oilers will be much more concerned with Williams' on-the-field friends such as offensive linemen Bob Kuechenberg, Jim Langer and Larry Little.

Miami's offensive line has cleared the way for Williams to become the leading rusher in the American Football Conference with 1,057 yards.

Williams doesn't expect to have a completely amiable homecoming since he'll be jockeying for yardage against Houston rookie sensation Earl Campbell, the AFC's No. 2 rusher.

"Since Earl's No. 2 to me in rushing, I'm sure they'll be trying to hold me down to help out Earl," Williams said.

Campbell could clear the 1,000 yard hurdle against the Dolphins. He is Houston's leading rusher with 944 yards.

As Usual, Dunbar Sings 'Rebuilding Year Blues'

By BOB RAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
According to the Dunbar Coach Joe McWilliams, this will be the year that he laughs a little harder at an opposing coach's jokes.

The first opponent McWilliams will be nice to is Morton. The Panthers will open the season on the road tonight at 8 p.m. Last year, the Panthers finished with a 27-5 and 11-1 district records. Looking down the roster, McWilliams has a reason to be concerned.

James Nelson, 5-9, junior guard. The other two players McWilliams will put on the floor are Thomas Braxton, 6-3, Sr. forward; and Todd Knight, 6-1, Sr. post. "I think the key to our success last year was that we had most of the kids in the gym that started for us," said McWilliams. "This year, a lot of our starters are in football, and it will take them a while to get some basketball conditioning."

In particular, McWilliams is referring to Wayne Williams, 5-8, Sr. guard; Michael Baldwin, 5-2, Sr. guard; and Raphael Scott, 6-4, Sr. forward.

Will having a 1-9 football record have an effect on the basketball program? "All I can say is that it is important that we have some success early," said McWilliams. "Because if we don't, then the morale of the team can become very low."

To prove that the Panthers are in dire need of bodies, the Dunbar coach plans to have the kids who are just coming out of football suited up for the season cage opener tonight.

anybody with good size." However, this season the Panthers will compete in 1-AAA. And McWilliams admits it will be a learning experience for him.

Action On Tap Tonight

With a holiday schedule breaking the week's routine, city high schools will be starting the basketball week early. And more than half a dozen games are on tap tonight.

McWilliams said he will set the Panthers in a man-to-man defense. "I like the man-to-man because if someone on the opposition is scoring, I want to find out the reason in a hurry," said McWilliams.

Though Dunbar will be putting basically a young team on the floor, McWilliams doesn't plan to change his offensive or defensive strategy.

Now, before you begin to feel sorry for McWilliams and the Panthers remember, Dunbar's basketball outlook every season is bleak. And all they did last year was qualify for the playoffs.

Harrell Runs Washington Into Tie With Cowboys

By The Associated Press

Willard Harrell's 70-yard punt return and Jim Hart's two touchdown passes propelled St. Louis to a 27-17 victory over Washington Sunday, setting up a Thanksgiving Day showdown between the Redskins and Dallas for the National Football Conference East lead.

The herpicks by Harrell and Hart paced the Cardinals to an early 21-0 lead against the stunned Redskins. St. Louis, with its fourth consecutive victory, raised its record to 4-8 while the Redskins fell to 8-4.

Jim Baaken booted field goals of 27 and 32 yards, moving the 17-year veteran into second place on the all-time National Football League scoring list with 1,367 points, behind only George Blanda's 2,002.

Harrell's punt return set the tone for the Cardinals' domination in the first half. Harrell zipped through the vaunted Redskins' speciality unit on the game's 11th play for the first punt return touchdown against Washington in four years.

Joe Theismann intercepted three times, twice by Ken Stone, also threw two scoring passes beginning with a 12-yarder to running back Mike Thomas. Following a Joe Lavender interception at the start of the second half, Theismann hit wide receiver John McDaniel for a 42-yard touchdown. Two other potential Theismann touchdown passes were dropped in the second half by split end Danny Buggs.

Mark Moseley kicked a 50-yard field goal, completing the Redskins' scoring. Twenty plays after Harrell's punt return, Hart's end zone pass bounced off the hands of St. Louis wide receiver Mel Gray and into the clutches of wide receiver Dave Stief for a 14-0 St. Louis lead.

Two plays into the second quarter, Hart found tight end Al Chandler in the end zone for a 4-yard scoring toss and a 21-0 advantage.

CHARGERS 13, VIKINGS 7

Dan Fouts fired a 10-yard touchdown pass to rookie John Jefferson late in the third quarter to lift San Diego to a 13-7 victory over Minnesota and their fourth straight National Football League triumph.

Fouts, who left the game in the fourth quarter with an ankle injury, stumbled as he took the handoff from center but recovered and drilled the pass to Jefferson, who slammed past three Viking defenders to score his ninth touchdown of the season.

San Diego evened its record at 6-6, while the Vikings had their own four-game winning streak snapped and fell to 7-5.

Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton threw a 10-yard pass to Rickey Young for the Vikings' only touchdown and Hank Bauer ran two yards for the Chargers' first score to produce a 7-7 halftime tie.

Tarkenton connected on 26 of 42 passes for 231 yards but he suffered two key interceptions and was sacked twice by San Diego, which entered the game as the NFL leader in quarterback sacks.

Fouts, who completed nine of 19 for 131 yards, was replaced by James Harris, who hit on four of four and directed the Chargers as they ran out the clock after two late game drives by the Vikings failed.

STEELERS 7, BENGALS 6

Rocky Bleier scored the game's only touchdown in the second quarter, and the Pittsburgh Steelers held on despite four pass interceptions off Terry Bradshaw to edge the Cincinnati Bengals 7-6.

The Bengals, who fell to 1-11 in their most woeful season ever, yielded just 187 net offensive yards to a Steeler team that climbed to 10-2 despite its puncheon performance.

Bradshaw, who hit just 12 of 30 passes for 117 yards, threw all four of his interceptions in the first half. Two of the thefts were made by Bengal rookie cornerback Louis Breeden.

However, the Steelers managed a 7-6 lead at halftime on the strength of a 1-yard touchdown run by Bleier that capped a 64-yard scoring drive early in the second quarter.

Chris Bahr kicked a 29-yard field goal in the first quarter for Cincinnati and added a 48-yarder 14 seconds before halftime. His latter boot set up Breeden's second interception.

PATS 19, JETS 17

David Posey's 24-yard field goal with 2:30 to play, following a controversial personal foul call that helped a New England drive, gave the Patriots a 19-17 squeaker over the New York Jets.

New York quarterback Richard Todd, starting for the first time after missing seven games with a broken collarbone, performed poorly, then injured his left shoulder on the last play of the third period.

Early in the fourth quarter, Todd's replacement, Matt Robinson, teamed with Wesley Walker on a 56-yard touchdown pass play to put the Jets on top 17-16.

BROWNS 45, COLTS 24

Brian Sipe, under fire during Cleveland's recent slide, completed four touchdown passes — three to Calvin Hill — and threw for a career record 309 yards while leading the Browns to a 45-24 victory over the Baltimore Colts.

The Browns, who had lost four of their previous five games, ran up their biggest point total in 10 years and evened their record at 6-6 in the AFC Central. The Colts, playing again without injured quarterback Bert Jones, dropped to 5-7 in the AFC East.

After falling behind 10-0, Cleveland scored on four consecutive possessions and then tacked on a 29-yard interception return by Oliver Davis to roll up a 31-10 lead with 6:51 left in the third quarter.

RAMS 31, 49ERS 28

Frank Corral kicked a 24-yard field goal with two seconds remaining, after three successful passes from Pat Haden to Ron Jesse covered 41 yards, to lead the Los Angeles Rams past the San Francisco 49ers 31-28.

The Rams were confronted by a wet field for the second time in two weeks and faced a San Francisco team playing by far its best game of the year.

The 49ers tied the score in the last period on an 89-yard kickoff return by Dave Williams and the third touchdown run by Paul Horfer.

BRONCOS 16, PACKERS 3

Craig Morton awoke Denver's slumbering offense with a 14-yard touchdown strike to Haven Moses, and Rob Lytle, rushed for more than 100 yards and another score, lifting the Broncos past the Green Bay Packers 16-3.

Denver, which raised its record to 8-4, scored on its first two possessions of the second half to erase a 3-0 halftime deficit. Morton connected with Moses on a 31-yard pass play to help set up his scoring pass to a diving Moses in the rear of the end zone with 11:29 left in the third quarter.

EAGLES 19, GIANTS 17

Cornerback Herman Edwards raced 26 yards with a fumble recovery with 20 seconds remaining, giving the Philadelphia Eagles in a 19-17 thriller over the New York Giants.

Edwards scooped up New York quarterback Joe Pisarcik's fumble after Pisarcik and veteran running back Larry Csonka missed connections on a handoff as the Giants were trying to run out the clock with a 17-12 lead.

The victory was the third in a row for the Eagles and boosted their record to 7-5. The Giants, suffering their fourth straight defeat, fell to 5-7.

BEARS 13, FALCONS 7

Bruce Herron's blocked punt set up a 2-yard touchdown by Walter Payton and Bob Thomas booted a pair of field goals Sunday to give the Chicago Bears a 13-7 surprise over the Atlanta Falcons, snapping an eight-game National Football League losing streak.

Trailing 7-3 early in the second half, the Bears put on a rush for the first blocked punt against John James in four years. Two plays later, Payton dove into the end zone to end Atlanta's five-game winning streak.

The two teams were scoreless until the Falcons drove 30 yards for a touchdown with 1:19 left in the first half on a 7-yard pass from Steve Bartkowski to Jim Mitchell and Tim Mazzetti accounted for a 7-0 lead.

SEAHAWKS 20, CHIEFS 17

Mark Van Eeghen booted his way for two short touchdowns and powered on a fumble in the end zone for a third as the Oakland Raiders downed the Seattle Seahawks 20-17 in a penalty-marred game in the rain.

Van Eeghen, who had only 20 yards rushing in the first half, gained 70 in the second as Oakland controlled the game to rally from a 14-13 halftime deficit.

Van Eeghen scored both Oakland touchdowns in the first half on one-yard runs. His third score, early in the third quarter, came after quarterback Ken Stabler hit wide receiver Cliff Branch near the goal line. However, the ball popped loose and Van Eeghen, running a pass route nearby, fell on it for the touchdown which gave the Raiders the lead for good, 20-14.

SEAHAWKS 13, CHIEFS 10

Efren Herrera booted two field goals and David Sims scored his 11th touchdown of the year as the Seattle Seahawks held off the fumble-prone Kansas City Chiefs, 13-10.

The Chiefs threatened to upset the Seahawks with an unusual three-quarter surge and Troy Hand's fumble was held away on a third-and-goal play from the Seattle 1-yard line with 25 seconds remaining.

Rae, who also wanted to call a Chiefs drive earlier in the fourth quarter, but the ball while trying to swing left, and Seattle's Dave Brown pounced on the ball to preserve the victory.

BUCCANERS 21, BILLS 20

Mike Rae, directing an injury-depleted offense, threw two touchdown passes to lead the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to a 21-10 victory over the Buffalo Bills.

Rae threw scoring passes of 23 yards to Jimmy Giles and 23 yards to Morris Owens as the 5-7 Bills trailed a three-game lead and handed the 3-9 Bills their fourth straight loss.

Ricky Bell gave the Bucs a 7-0 lead on a 12-yard run in the first quarter, but left the game in the second quarter with a mild knee sprain and didn't return.

Lautenslager In Nationals

MADISON, Wisc. (Special) — Greg Lautenslager will be Texas Tech's lone entrant in the NCAA cross-country championships scheduled here this morning. The runners from over the nation will race the 10,000-meter course. Lautenslager, a junior from Mesquite, is only the third Raider runner ever to qualify for the NCAA nationals. Roger Ellis finished 105th in 1975, and Terrell Pendleton competed in 1976. "If I run really well, I can get in the top 50," said Lautenslager. "That doesn't sound too impressive, but you have to remember these are the top long-distance people in the country." Lautenslager qualified for the nationals by placing eighth in the district meet at Georgetown Nov. 11.

1920's, and Ted has personally manufactured mattresses for over 40 years, all in Lubbock. The Tannery Mattress Co. has been on Avenue A since 1963, locating at its present address in 1969. Bedding manufacture, renovation and sales are conducted within the complex.

New Models, Wide Selection, Special RV Anti-Freeze Offer Told By Pharr

What a selection of recreational vehicles — and right here in Lubbock — at Pharr Trailer Sales & Service, 1702 Clovis Road!

Yes, recent receipt of a wide range of '79 models has filled the big lot at Pharr's, and the huge stock enables selection rarely available anywhere in the area.

For example, there are (in stock) five floor plans in the 22-ft. Leprechaun Coachmen mini motor homes. Plus other sizes and other floor plans!

And travel vans and van campers, also by Coachmen; and Apollo motor homes "designed with you in mind."

Anti-Freeze Special
 Also:
 Pharr has received a big shipment of non-toxic antifreeze and has placed it on sale at $3.98 per gallon.

It is high time to winterize one's trailer, motor home or other RV unit, and Pharr is happy to contribute with this special. (Of course, Pharr can do a complete winterizing job for you if desired.)

Pharr Trailer Sales & Service is convenient to you wherever you live in West Texas. Long respected in Lubbock, Pharr also has a big facility at Odessa, some may not have realized.

Located at 1820 E. 8th Street at Odessa, the modern firm there, under management of Jerry Pharr, is starting its second year and it stocks the same lines and offers all the services of the Lubbock unit.

Exceptional growth and public response to the Odessa facility has been the story there in the year marked by achievement and a host of friendships. We thank you!

A very good selection is on the lots at both Odessa and Lubbock where one may inspect the 5th wheel units, travel trailers, mini homes, Class A motor homes and vans. They all are something special!

Come and see the newly-arrived units, by all means. The '79 Coachmen is everything you asked for, and more! The right combination of quality, luxury and innovation makes it a Coachmen.

All in all, Pharr Trailer Sales likes to prove that travel and relaxation can take on a new enjoyment, new convenience and new thrill with the right RV unit, accessories, equipment and service from Pharr, phone 765-6088, at the Amarillo Highway—Clovis Highway "Y" on Avenue Q in Lubbock, and at 1820 E. 8th in Odessa.

Harold Pharr calls special attention to the selection of parts and accessories stocked within the attractive showrooms.

When planning a trip, or even when just completing one, a person could do well to check for needed accessories "while it is fresh on his or her mind," with Pharr most likely having the very item desired.

And the brand names need no apology or introduction... such as EZ Lift hitches, Coleman air conditioning, etc. A lot of little things are stocked, too, that can make a mighty big difference in comforts while on an outdoor vacation.

Pharr knows recreational units, and can help immeasurably in correct selection that will give pleasure for years to come. Ask the man who owns a Pharr unit.

New Travel Vans
 Pharr is especially excited about the new Travel Vans that have skyrocketed in popularity. Actually, Pharr believes the Coachmen Travel Van is the ultimate in van versatility, and they welcome the opportunity to prove it. It is a unique design for luxurious travel or practical transportation. All the travel vans are equipped with four comfortable swivel seats and a pedestal table. Depending on the model, rear dinettes, sofas or rear U-dinettes are available. All convert to roomy double beds!

The entire Travel Van is decorator coordinated with a deluxe textured fabric padded interior, buried elm panel accents in the ceiling and plush nylon carpeting.

"If you want a van that is built for traveling and is family-functional, look at the full line of Coachmen Travel Vans.
 "See you at Pharr's!"

CONSIDERATION OF CUSTOMERS OF EVERY AGE — gift needs in a manner sure to ease the holiday search for quality, price and selection.
Hershel Pigg and Jonnie Nixon (pictured) are among those at Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry dedicated to serving Christmas

Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry Gift Stock Reflecting Holiday Readiness

"Why delay in Christmas gift selection when complete choices already are available at Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry, 2147 50th St.?"

The gift items there reflect the firm's traditional consideration for every age group.

"If you have someone very special in mind for a very special Christmas gift, it is high time to visit Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry in Oakwood Center."

For watches, rings, diamonds, pins, neck chains, bracelets and more — all in a sensible quality-price combination, one cannot go wrong at this well-known and long-respected jewelry firm.

Figurines
Unusual, beautiful Gorham porcelain figurines (drummer boy, birds, etc.) with finest workmanship, are available at modest prices.

Crystal
And now there is beautiful crystal pieces, "the best" from West Germany and Bavaria.

A large selection of rings is maintained, including dinner rings, engagement rings, birthstone rings, diamond guard rings, mountings, etc.

The gift choices at Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry are truly numerous and delightful.

And musical jewel boxes in a variety of prices.

"If you are shopping on a planned and limited budget for that extra special gift on the list, a man's or lady's fine watch from Pigg Bros. might well be just the thing.

Digital Watches
There you'll find the so-popular quality digital watches, the prestigious Accutron, and more.

And remember this — gift items are not limited to adult appeal, or to timepieces for that matter, at Pigg Bros.

There is something in stock for every member of the family, for any possible recipient of any age.

There are seeds of baby gifts, costume jewelry items, beautiful lockets, pens, pencils and lighters, Franciscan ware, and more!

The smart and easy thing to do then, would seem to be to go right this week to Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry, 2147 B 50th St., and make a selection from the full but selective stock, with new items and patterns quite evident.

Even Engraving
Have the gift engraved, if wished, and be assured your Christmas gift situation has been most satisfactorily solved."

This south Lubbock store has an established reputation for offering only quality merchandise, and highest quality workmanship in watchmaking and jewelry repair. The present season is no exception.

No gimmicks — no so-called cut-rate prices on inferior merchandise — Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry simply wants your business the next time, too, and they go all out to make one completely satisfied — the very first time you come in to the store.

Why wait — shop now at Pigg Bros. Shamrock Jewelry, in Oakwood Center, and know that your Christmas selection has been right, thoughtfully chosen, and at a price that won't frighten you!"

Fair Features Daily Specials

Day or night, the Fair Restaurant at Avenue A and 8th Street is open to offer all its services.

As a locally-owned and locally-managed Martin & Lewis restaurant, every effort is made to serve in a manner inviting repeat visits, time and again!

Breakfast specials include biscuits and gravy, with coffee, for just $1.10, and another special of two eggs, hash browns, toast and coffee for $1.15!

Delicious new luncheon specials are presented every day at an economical $1.90, and the fast "in and out" service makes it really easy for the working person to eat at the Fair and be back on the job on time.

On Wednesdays, the Fair Restaurant features "all the chicken you can eat" for $2.60, with fish on Fridays at the same $2.60 price, and these specials good from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. on the indicated days.

Optical Store & Boutique, On Slide, Tells Price, Quality, Style For All

"Many of you already have discovered your pleasure that our boutique is unique!"

"But did you know, too, that The Optical Store & Boutique, 5202 Slide Road, also stocks the complete spectrum in frames, including a utility selection combining style with surprisingly low price?"

Yes, quality lines in frames and glasses are just as near as The Optical Store & Boutique just south of 50th & Slide, clearly marked on the west side of Slide, Phone 792-0901.

There a departmentalized arrangement of rooms and areas provides the four distinct categories: (1) utility, (2) quality, (3) designer frames, and (4) Boutique.

So, whether the attractively priced lines in frames and glasses for the student, as example, or the very finest in choices from the Designer collection or the unusual and expensive lines within the Boutique are preferred, this Lubbock facility is outstanding, in a class by itself.

Upon entry into The Optical Store & Boutique, one is impressed with the pleasing but striking decor (such as the art deco in the Designer Room carried out in mirrors, pictures and fixtures), a customer consideration that exemplifies the firm's uniqueness.

One may first discover the Designer Collection where an area is devoted entirely to designer frames by Ralph Lauren, Givenchy, Diane Von Furstenberg, Oscar de la Renta and other top designers.

Then there is the Children's Corner in another segment of the complex.

And who could not help but be most intrigued by the Boutique where antique decor dominates and where the unusual and expensive lines are displayed. Some glasses are set with diamonds, some with 18K gold settings, some with real cultured pearls. Custom design with special precious stones, etc., is a specialty.

Lines are out-of-the-ordinary, with some exclusive in Lubbock to the Boutique, such as the Martin Creations from West Germany.

"See what we mean when we say that 'Our Boutique is Unique,' providing a product and service seldom experienced anywhere?"

"May we have the pleasure of your visits? We know we can serve you within one or more of our departments."

W.M. Smith Electric Now Authorized Campbell Hausfeld Master Distributor

"W.M. Smith Electric Co. continues to make news... for your benefit and profit!"

Along with the many services and products for which the Lubbock firm has long been known, a significant further announcement is made.

W.M. Smith Electric is now authorized master distributor for the complete Campbell Hausfeld line of compressors and accessories.

In related action, the full line of parts is being stocked here; full service is afforded; and Smith also serves as a Campbell Hausfeld warranty station.

What a benefit to industry... of any size!

Cranes

Smith also is distributor for the complete overhead traveling bridge cranes manufactured and marketed under the trade name of SECO.

Smith is a major distributor for crane and hoist components and parts bearing the distinguished trademarks of Dresser Industries, Detroit, Wright, Demag and David Round.

You can depend on W.M. Smith Electric Co., 1911 Clovis Road, in Lubbock, long serving industry throughout West Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

The Lubbock branch of the Dallas-based company was established way back in 1952, and the growth of the firm here reflects the quality and demand of the service offered.

Multiple Services

Among the many products and services afforded are air compressors by Campbell Hausfeld, Gardner-Denver and Kellogg-American. They are available in both tank mounted and stationary type, and new or rebuilt ones are stocked up to 150 hp.

Smith rebuilds all makes of compressors, from the smallest to largest.

Sales and service for all makes of hoists is another key segment of the business.

W.M. Smith electric is distributor for three major lines of electric motors: General Electric, U.S., and Baldor, in all sizes.

Furthermore, the firm has parts for everything it sells, offering service on everything sold, also.

A staff of qualified mechanics and trouble shooters is maintained at all times.

Wire-in and installation of irrigation motors is another area-appreciated service provided by the company.

Pick-up and delivery is provided, and service men are on call day or night. Facilities in the shop enable prompt attention and repair in any emergency need.

History Recounted

Herb Witcher is vice president and manager of West Texas operations of the company. In fact, it was in August, 1952, when he opened the Lubbock office as a one-man operation.

"There was just a trickle of business at first. But as Herb's old Chevy pick-up truck became a familiar sight on the streets and roads in and around Lubbock, business picked up — fast. Night and day service at a fair price, which was what Herb offered, was a way of winning friends! By spring of 1953, Herb had four men working for W.M. Smith Electric Co., Lubbock branch."

And how the firm continues to grow!

"The people of Lubbock and a wide surrounding area have been mighty nice to W.M. Smith Electric Co., Witcher says, "and we appreciate it more than we can tell you."

The present large, all-brick building of the firm at 1911 Clovis Road was constructed in 1957, and facilities within it were designed for maximum service.

"And possibly some of this service meets a need for you, in your own industrial or farming operation."

Motors, Generators

Sale and rentals of motors and generators is a popular service, as is repair and installation of electric motors, controls, rectifiers, pumps, transformers, etc.; machine and metalizing, dynamic balancing and other services.

"Chances are you already have used one or more of the services of W.M. Smith Electric Co. if you have ever had need of air compressors, electric motors and equipment or the related parts and supplies."

As the W.M. Smith Electric Co. pointed out in an Avalanche-Journal advertisement upon opening of the present offices in 1957:

"If you're willing to work you 'can't hardly' miss in a dynamic, fast-growing city like Lubbock. Under Herb Witcher's leadership, our Lubbock office has doubled its volume of sales and service each year since 1954."

"This same brand of service continues — and can save for you, too."

Western Mobile Air's Bonus Offer Spells Year-Around Comfort Saving

"As a mobile home resident, was your heating adequate for the finest cold spell? Is the home cool and pleasant on the balmy days?"
If there are problems in either event, there is a Lubbock firm that can do something about it... and with a special money-saving offer.
For the mobile home resident, there is exceptionally good news from Western Mobile Air, 1825 N. University, phone 762-4878.
For a limited time, for each Coleman air conditioner unit purchased at retail, Western Auto will give... free... a Coleman furnace for the mobile home!
"Or, if you already have a furnace, Western Mobile Air will give a $400 utility trailer!"
What a way to save as winter preparations are made! And it is time to act, before the holidays and before colder weather.
Get full details now; there should be a Coleman environment system in your future. See Bert Maze and profit!
Maze, a Lubbock resident since 1949, has been owner of the present Western Mobile Air for three years and he has served many throughout the region, both in retail sales and in turnkey jobs for heating and cooling of mobile homes.
The firm has its own experienced crews, assuring fast, efficient service.
Anchoring Supplies
Anchoring supplies are stocked for mobile homes, too, at this well-established firm easy to reach from most anywhere!
Western Mobile Air services Coleman and other home heating and air conditioning units alike.
In selecting an environmental system, choice may be made from several Coleman units including the Presidential II deluxe energy saver and the heat pump.
Coleman advertises "the only heating system with a matched air conditioning unit for total year-around comfort, designed specifically for the manufactured housing industry."
"Quality you can depend on" is cited as one of the good reasons that about half of the mobile homes manufactured today contain Coleman furnaces.

COLEMAN — FOR COMFORT TO APPRECIATE

Each Coleman product is subjected to one of the most rigid and complete testing programs in the industry.
Five atmospheric gas heating systems from 45,200 to 80,000 BTU output are available, together with oil and gas gun heating systems to 77,000 BTU output.
Let Bert Maze and the fine folks at Western Mobile Air, 1825 N. University in Lubbock, explain in detail how Coleman can make your life more comfortable, and how the new offer of the free furnace with purchase of an air conditioning can be of special savings."

Holiday Needs Receive Gary's Attention In Service, Products

Electric nut crackers again are available — for holiday preparation — for gifting — at Gary's Frozen Foods.
And pecans are for sale there, too!
Custom cooking of game comes in for attention at this season, also, at Gary's, the firm traditionally providing the finest in nutritious barbeque, corn dogs, super dogs, and more.
For the third year, Gary's is stocking the dynamic electric nut cracker, without increase in price; it still is at $49.95 at Gary's, 100th Street at South University Avenue, phone 745-1933. Response to this offering in seasons past has been so enthusiastic that if presented again, with satisfaction guaranteed.
This electric unit cracks any size pecans, English walnuts, Brazil nuts, etc., with little or no damage to kernels. Each nut is locked and cracked automatically! Kernels and shells fall out for fast repeat. A safety shield prevents against flying shell particles. Actually "it is the fastest hand-fed nut cracker available," with nothing to adjust; one machine cracks all, and the estimated life is 10,000 lbs. pecans!
Custom Cooking
And don't forget the custom cooking service, and the other fine Gary's products.
Gary's is glad to custom prepare any meat, at any time, whether it is wild game or whatnot.
Or one may simply discover that the Gary's Frozen Food label in a favorite grocery or supermarket opens the way to variety and nutritious goodness.
Select from Gary's Barbeque Flavor Delight, Gary's Corn Dogs, Gary's Bar-B-Que Beef Brisket in bar-b-que sauce, and Gary's super dogs. Whether the occasion is a holiday meal, a Sunday dinner or even a snack, late-season picnic, pregame meal or a birthday party, one can profit from dependance upon the home-owned, home-operated Gary's Frozen Food firm and its products.

The Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight is newest of the Gary's family of labels, and it is oh-so-good. A beef, beef suet and textured vegetable protein product, it is a new experience in delicious eating. Keep it frozen, and just heat to eat.
This new product is available in the area, distributed to retail stores and to institutions. Look for the label.
Also, Gary's still has something else relatively new: the 10-pack of Gary's Corn Dogs!
Consisting of batter mix around a frankfurter, partially cooked in pure vegetable oil, these, too, are easy to prepare. Simply thaw, remove from bag, place in 375-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes or deep fat fry.
Corn Dogs from Gary's are enjoyed by kids and adults alike.
Also, one still can get the delicious Gary's Barbeque Beef Brisket in a favorite grocery or supermarket.

The barbeque brisket, super dogs and other quality items from Gary's Frozen Foods, 100th Street at South University Avenue, make many a West Texas meal something special — whether for a special event or simply a change of pace.
These products, long recognized as the finest obtainable, are prepared in the modern, enlarged, functionally attractive for Gary's specifically designed and built for for service, in south Lubbock.
Every Gary's Frozen Food products is an experience in goodness! School children, their parents and a lot of other people (unexpected guests included) can attest to the deliciousness of Gary's Bar-B-Que package available on retail basis.
Gary Tidwell, and the entire staff at Gary's Frozen Foods personally devote all efforts to insure that Gary's Super Dogs, for example, are made from the finest wieners, dipped in a batter that is a distinctly different flour mixture.

ELECTRONIC NUTCRACKER AGAIN AVAILABLE — Gary Tidwell emphasizes that not only is this popular unit marketed at Gary's Frozen Foods, but there is no increase in its price. Pe- cans also are available at this south Lubbock home of finest custom cooking and numerous meat products.
