

Black Activists Deny Link To Murder Of King

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former members of a black activist Memphis youth group Monday acknowledged their rhetoric included violence but denied a theory that they were part of an FBI plot to assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King.

"We have never been in the employ of, worked with or, even known of FBI people," Calvin Taylor, a former of the group who called themselves Invaders, told the House assassinations committee. "That's just the movie business, I guess."

A former Memphis undercover policeman, Merrell McCullough, who infiltrated the group and became its minister of transportation, agreed.

"The Invaders were not a front for anybody," McCullough testified. "It was just a grass roots organization of young people of the community."

The committee took the testimony to answer the theory in a television program that the FBI manipulated the Invaders in a plot to assassinate King in Memphis on April 4, 1968.

Chief Counsel G. Robert Blakey said the program suggested that the FBI had the Invaders foment violence during King's March 28, 1968, march in Memphis to lure the leader of non-violent protest back to be killed on April 4.

King's successor as leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, testified in August that King did return to try to restore a tone of non-violence to the Memphis garbage men's strike.

McCullough testified that the violence during King's March 28 march for striking garbage men "was spontaneous" but said he believes the rhetoric of one Invader, John B. Smith, did contribute to it.

The undercover agent said Smith told some people in the crowd that "non-violence would not work; that it would only lead to you being taken downtown and being beaten."

"I believe that in the tense atmosphere that contributed to the spontaneous violence," McCullough said.

But Smith denied that he advocated violence to any of the marchers or even talked to the youngsters who later broke store windows and threw sticks.

"Our rhetoric is the only thing we have been accused of that is wrong," Smith added in a closing statement. "Nobody has accused us of any act of violence."

One scene in the television program portrayed Andrew Young, then a King aide and now U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, as learning from Invader members that the FBI paid them to disrupt King's non-violent march.

But the committee said Young has denied he learned any such thing from the youth group. Charles L. Cabbage, who said he probably was the Invader member portrayed in the film, also denied he had any such discussion with Young.

Taylor said he knew of no Invader involvement in the march violence but said some of the Invaders did advocate "violence as a possible alternative for solving problems."

"We said the same things everybody was saying at that time: 'Burn, baby' and 'destroy property,'" Taylor testified.

Blakey said speculation on Invader involvement in a plot to assassinate King has also been fed by the fact that Invaders left their room in the Lorraine Motel where King was shot shortly before the assassination.

But House Delegate Walter Fauntroy, D-D.C., quoted former King aides as saying they had asked the Invaders to leave.

Fauntroy said King aides had allowed some of the Invaders to become part of his Memphis staff but King became angry when he heard about it and told them he did not want anyone who advocated violence to be associated with him.

Expert Sees 'Artificial Crime Wave'

WASHINGTON (AP) — America may be experiencing an "artificial crime wave" because police statistics do not accurately reflect what is happening, a criminologist told Congress Monday.

Testifying before the House subcommittee on crime, Franklin E. Zimring of the University of Chicago said rates of serious crime by the young have stabilized and in some cases declined in recent years.

Zimring said studies by the university's

Center for Studies in Criminal Justice showed aggravated assault was the only crime that increased more quickly in the 1970's than in the 1960's.

But, he added, "There is evidence that this increase in aggravated assault is the product of differences in reporting rather than any basic increase in assaultive violence."

Between 1960 and 1970, he said, both assault by the young and deaths attributable to assaults increased dramatically. Since 1970, however, the number of deaths from youth assault has remained stable while the number of reported assaults has escalated.

Zimring said police statistics often do not present a clear enough picture to allow law enforcement efforts to be accurately targeted.

For instance, he said, studies show that an aggravated assault in downtown Chicago is two to five times as likely to lead to death as an aggravated assault in the suburbs. He said this indicates that too wide a range of crimes is being considered as one category for reporting purposes.

"We may be living through an artificial crime wave at a time when public and political concern about youth crime seems to be peaking," Zimring said.

He added, however, that "it is certain that the number of life-threatening criminal acts committed by young offenders will remain substantial."

The subcommittee is holding hearings on a Carter administration proposal to reorganize the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Killers Of Young Restaurant Workers Sought

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Spurred by a city's anguish, investigators turned Monday to "leave no stone unturned" in the search for a clue that might lead to the killers of four young fast-food restaurant workers.

The victims, who were reported missing after a $500 robbery at the Speedway

Burger Chef about midnight Friday, were found dead Sunday afternoon in woods south of Indianapolis.

Investigators were making an extensive search of the area where the bodies were found "with hopes of uncovering some type of evidence," state police spokesman Glenn Webber said.

"For $500 they took four lives from a group of kids who were trying hard to be good, decent human beings," said Caroline Friedt, whose 20-year-old daughter, Jayne, was one of the victims. Miss Friedt was assistant manager of the restaurant.

"It's a terrible thing. For a few dollars, my God," said Ken Coleman, 44, as he drank coffee in a doughnut shop next to the restaurant Monday. "It's a bad deal. It's beyond a sane person's thinking why anyone would do that."

The other victims were identified as Ruth E. Shelton, 17, Daniel R. Davis, 16, and Mark S. Flemmonds, 16. Miss Shelton and Davis were high school juniors, Flemmonds a sophomore.

Authorities said they knew little else, and they were keeping a tight rein on what information they did have. State Police Lt. Richard Jones said autopsies showed that two of the four were shot to death, one died of stab wounds and the other of head injuries. He gave no other details.

"The police agencies have left no stone unturned," including contacting other police agencies about similar crimes, Webber said.

Burger Chef Systems announced a $25,-

000 reward Monday for information leading to the arrest and convictions of persons responsible for the deaths.

Investigators were analyzing a loaded .38-caliber revolver found late Saturday along the route believed taken by the robbers to determine if it was used in the abduction. They said the gun showed no sign of rust or exposure to the elements.

The deaths marked the third major unsolved crime in the Speedway area of Indianapolis this year. In July, a 65-year-old woman was shot to death at a garage sale at her home in what police said had the earmarks of a professional assassination. In September, the community was rocked by eight mysterious bombings within a week, the last one seriously injuring a man and his wife as they walked for their own in a high school parking lot after a Freshman football game.

Woman Claims Injury From Smoke

A civilian employee at Reese Air Force Base has filed a damages suit in state district court, claiming she has been injured by exposure to tobacco smoke.

The suit filed in Judge William R. Shaver's 140th District Court asks for $100,000 in damages, and another $50,000 in punitive damages.

Plaintiff Shirley Wassom, 44, says she has been injured because of contaminated air. The plaintiff says she is in normal health, except for being highly allergic to tobacco smoke.

Because of this condition, the suit indicates, Mrs. Wassom has worn a mask in order to filter the air she breathes at work.

Mrs. Wassom had filed a federal court suit Sept. 20 asking for a temporary restraining order prohibiting authorities at Reese from terminating her from her job.

A medical diagnosis filed in the case included reported findings of recurrent laryngitis, tracheitis and bronchitis, induced by tobacco smoke.

Government pleadings filed in the federal action say a request by Mrs. Wassom for medical disability retirement was denied in January, and that her request for reconsideration of the decision was denied Aug. 1.

The government said Mrs. Wassom had been absent from work from October 1977 until Sept. 27, while on sick leave, annual leave or leave without pay.

She had filed the federal action, the government said, after being sent a notice of proposed removal.

Subsequently, the government pleadings indicate, Mrs. Wassom was advised that the proposed termination would not proceed if she returned to work by Sept. 27.

The government said Mrs. Wassom returned to work Sept. 27, equipped with a gas mask.

The government Friday filed a motion to dismiss the federal court suit.

Cockpit Tape Reveals Final Conversations Of Air Crew

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cockpit tape recording indicates the crew of a Pacific Southwest Airlines 727 jetliner lost sight of a small Cessna and then spotted it again just before the two planes collided over San Diego in the worst air disaster in U.S. history.

At 9:01:45, McFeron exclaims, "Whoop!" and Fox shouts, "Aight!" A tenth of a second later there is the sound of impact, and McFeron says, "Easy baby, easy baby," as he apparently is trying to control the aircraft.

PSA sought a court order to block the early release. The U.S. District Court and U.S. Appeals Court have both denied the request. The court gave the airlines until 6 p.m. EST Monday to go to the Supreme Court, but PSA officials decided not to appeal.

The recording, made public Monday, also indicates the crew members were unconcerned about the Cessna and were casually discussing life insurance policies, death and a female traffic controller in Oakland just before the collision. The transcript was released by the National Transportation Safety Board which is investigating the Sept. 25 accident in which 144 persons died, including seven on the ground.

Both planes had been alerted that they were in the same area by air traffic controllers. Previously released transcripts of recorded air-to-ground radio talk showed that the PSA captain had told the San Diego airport tower that he had the Cessna in sight 1 minute and 34 seconds before the collision. But that tape did not pick up everything said in the cockpit.

Records Probe Delays Trial

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — A district court hearing was continued Monday into whether a prosecutor turned state investigative records of the Gene Leroy Hart arrest to a newsmen who planned to write a book about the slaying of three Girl scouts. District Judge William Whittier put the hearing on a day-to-day basis until the reporter, Ron Grimley, can be located and brought to court.

Attorneys for Hart, charged with first-degree murder in the June 1977 slayings at a Girl Scout camp, allege that District Attorney Sid Wise signed a contract with Grimley to co-author a book on the case. Wise was allegedly to receive 75 percent of the profits, with Grimley to get the remaining 25 percent.

ARMY SCRAPPED SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Britain's Pacific colony of the Gilbert Islands, scheduled to become independent next year, is scrapping its 200-man army. In arguing for the bill that dismantled the force, Chief Minister Ieremai Tabai told the legislature, "I see no outside threat and even if one was to develop I cannot see what good a 200-man defense force would be against an invasion from the outside."

Child Support Cases On Increase

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff
With a great increase in the number of divorces in the past decade, the workload of the child support division of the district clerk's office has grown increasingly heavy and shows no signs of slowing its rate of growth.
Verna Boyd, chief deputy district clerk and district clerk-elect, said the office will have processed about $3 million in child support payments by the end of the year.
The office now has about 4,000 cases with 700 new ones added this year.
"A lot are dropped each year, too," Mrs. Boyd said. "But I think we get more new ones than we lose."
She and child support workers Margaret Brannon and Doris Rogers are frequently asked about the functions of the office and how it operates.
Basically, it serves as an intermediary between divorced persons to transfer and record support payments.
When a check comes in, either hand-carried or mailed, the payment is recorded in the ledger of the person owing it, and the check is mailed out the same day to the person to whom it is owed.
"No one is allowed to come in personally and pick up checks, Mrs. Boyd said, adding, "If we let women come up here and pick them up, we'd have them lined up out here in the hall."
Checks are mailed out the same day they arrive, she said.
The office has no enforcement responsibilities to make sure payments are kept current.
"We don't do anything unless she comes in and complains about it," Mrs. Boyd said.

we get more new ones than we lose.
She and child support workers Margaret Brannon and Doris Rogers are frequently asked about the functions of the office and how it operates.
Basically, it serves as an intermediary between divorced persons to transfer and record support payments.
When a check comes in, either hand-carried or mailed, the payment is recorded in the ledger of the person owing it, and the check is mailed out the same day to the person to whom it is owed.

British Politician Charged In Murder Conspiracy

MINEHEAD, England (AP) — Jeremy Thorpe, the dapper aristocrat once seen as the shining hope for the faded Liberal Party, was formally charged Monday with conspiracy to murder male model Norman Scott, his alleged lover.

Ten years ago Thorpe, 49, told a key prosecution witness, a former fellow Liberal in Parliament, that killing Scott would be "no worse than killing a sick dog," prosecutor Peter Taylor alleged at the hearing.

Thorpe's face showed the strain of the scandal as he turned occasionally to look at his wife Marion, the former Countess of Harewood, in the packed small-town courtroom in the county of Cornwall in southwest England.

The conspiracy and homosexuality allegations forced Thorpe in May 1976 to resign leadership of the Liberal Party he headed more than nine years.

The hearing is expected to last two to three weeks.

Red Radiation Levels Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet microwave bombardment of the U.S. embassy in Moscow has not jeopardized the health of Americans working or visiting there, according to the results of a health study released Monday.

Nevertheless, State Department officials, announcing the results of the study conducted by Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, criticized the Russians for subjecting the embassy to microwave emissions even though the level has declined.

"We continue to be concerned," department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

The study was authorized in 1976 at the request of the American Foreign Service Association. At the time, the Russians had heightened their microwave bombardment of the embassy as a surveillance measure. This raised concern about the effects on embassy personnel, family and visitors, particularly if the bombardment increased risk of cancer.

"The study has found no evidence to link service in Moscow, or possible past exposure to microwave radiation in the embassy there, with higher incidence of death or illness," the State Department said.

"The department is obviously pleased that this independently conducted study has found nothing to support assertions that the health of foreign service employees in Moscow has been jeopardized by service there."

co-defendants, claimed proof of the homosexual affair which he said became to the rising politician "like a black cloud always over him." Thorpe denies the affair.

The key prosecution witness is former Liberal Parliament member Peter Bessell, 57, now living in Oceanside, Calif. He is in England to testify.

Taylor claimed Thorpe said to Bessell in December 1968, "We've got to get rid of him," referring to Scott.

"You mean knocking him off," Bessell was quoted as replying. The prosecutor said Thorpe answered, "Yes."

In addition to conspiracy, Thorpe is charged with inciting a co-defendant, his Oxford school friend, banker David Holmes, 48, to arrange the killing. Each charge carries a maximum 10-year jail term.

Taylor said he has letters by Thorpe and testimony from Bessell to show Thorpe and Scott, now 38, had the affair between 1961 and 1963.

He said Holmes went to co-defendant John Le Mesurier, a 45-year-old carpet dealer, and through him met the fourth defendant, slot machine dealer George Deakin, 35.

Taylor said the conspiracy lasted from October 1968 until November 1977.

Deakin, said the prosecutor, recruited ex-airline pilot Andrew Gino Newton, who was promised $19,500 to kill Scott.

Newton drove Scott to the countryside in Devon county in October 1975 and shot his dog but did not harm Scott, the prosecutor said.

Jailed on firearms charges, Newton was paid half the price after his release last year, said Taylor. He is not charged with the conspiracy.

The money came from Bahama-based millionaire Jack Hayward, who thought it was for an election fund, and Thorpe arranged for it to be transferred to Holmes, Taylor stated.

Thorpe studied at Eton and Oxford, the traditional training ground for Britain's establishment. He was elected to Parliament in 1959 and eight years later took over leadership of the Liberal Party.

The once-powerful vehicle of prime ministers such as Gladstone and Lloyd George has been a virtually powerless third party for decades.

Under Thorpe the Liberals enjoyed new popularity. By 1973 there were only 10 Liberals among 630 members of Parliament, but a public opinion survey showed 29 percent of the electorate favored them compared to 38 percent for the Labor Party and 30.5 percent for the Conservatives.

The Liberal's rise tapered off, and they now hold 11 seats compared to their peak of 14 in 1974.

Thorpe was married in 1968 to Caroline Allpass, who died in a car crash in 1970. In 1973 Thorpe married his current wife, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II.

CORE Director Assailed As 'Dictator'

NEW YORK (AP) — James Farmer, founder of the Congress of Racial Equality, charged Monday that CORE director Roy Innis has become a "dictator" and vowed to return the organization to the "cutting edge" of the civil rights movement.

Farmer and two men claiming to be CORE regional directors discussed a suit they have filed against Innis that charges him with misuse of donations and would force him to reveal what he has done with the money.

The suit, filed Wednesday, also claims that Innis should be unseated because he has held no lawful elections since taking charge in 1968. Both sides are due in state Supreme Court in Manhattan on Dec. 20 to argue the case.

George Holmes, a CORE publicist, attended the meeting and said afterward that no illegal activity on the part of Innis would be found. He dismissed the charges as "lies."

Holmes also denied that Waverly Yates and Charles Cook, two men with Farmer who said they were present regional directors of CORE, were still affiliated with the organization.

Farmer said Innis had changed CORE from a "multiracial organization using non-violent techniques" into a group "dedicated to the self-determination of black people."

"We have some individuals who are witnesses and others who claim they were participants in violent activities on orders of Mr. Innis," Farmer said. "He stays in office because he has established himself as a dictator."

Discussing reports that Innis recruited black Vietnam War veterans to fight as mercenaries in the Angolan conflict of 1977.

Latin Community Working To Preserve Heritage

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Nestled in a corner of Tampa is a tiny Latin Quarter boasting the proud history of a tobacco-based culture carved in sweat from palmetto scrub and palms.

It's Ybor City, where a single commodity uniquely melded immigrants from three countries into a community with a purpose. And soon, those immigrants became industrialists, factory workers, entrepreneurs, restaurateurs, revolutionaries, soldiers of fortune and gamblers. It's a city within a city built before the turn of the century by people used to struggle — exiles from despotism.

Descendants, some of them in their 70s today, are carrying on the fight in a different vein. For them it has been a long, quiet struggle to preserve their heritage.

Within the past few years, there has been a concerted effort toward preservation and restoration of buildings, architectural forms and cultural traditions. There are those who say a renaissance of sorts is possible; others who doubt it.

Ybor City bears the name of Spanish-born Vincente Martinez Ybor, founder of a three-story factory in 1886. Cubans, Spaniards and Italians colonized Ybor City in the 1880s when Tampa was little more than a tiny fishing village. As the community grew, bakeries, coffee mills, shops and hotels were established. During the city's heyday, more than 50 factories and 20,000 artisans produced hand-rolled smokes from Havana-grown tobacco.

The center of life outside work was the social club, and each nationality had its own. The men played dominoes or worked out in gyms, and families congregated there for festivals, weekly dances and frequent theater or stage productions.

Through it all, residents did not forget their homelands or the special kind of courage that brought them to the new land.

In the 1890s, a man named Jose Marti stirred 3,500 Cubans with an impassioned speech from the steps of a cigar factory. They took up arms and gave 10 percent of their earnings to the revolution in Cuba.

But now, some residents are struggling to preserve Ybor City. At the same time, they remember how it used to be.

"People made $50-60 a week then and it was like $300 today," says Mario Puig, owner of Tampa Rico Cigars. It's a buck-eye shop — a small independent where only a few craftsmen hand roll cigars.

There are an estimated 700 workers left in the industry today and only five or six factories.

"Now machines do the work," says Puig, who began work in a cigar factory when he was 14. "A machine can produce 7,000 cigars a day. Three people doing the hand work — two rollers and one buncher — can produce 600."

Ybor City has been neglected. Today, the houses are gone — bulldozed to make room for urban renewal. Inhabitants scattered to Tampa. Most of the factories are empty and the coffee mills closed.

"I don't think Ybor City can ever be the same," says Jerome Sierra Jr., 49. He was born there and worked most of his life in the cigar industry when the area was king in the trade.

"It's a dream. It's gone. We still have a little bit left — our chicken and yellow rice, our Cuban bread and cafe con leche, our cigars, and one mill where you can still smell the aroma of Cuban coffee.

"But the kids today don't even speak the language," Sierra says. "It used to be when you walked down the streets on a Saturday night you met all your neighbors. Now the streets are empty. There aren't so many festivals anymore. It's the little things nobody thinks are important that are gone. You would have to bring back a lot to rebuild Ybor City."

There are those who disagree. A commission has been set up to oversee future building in Ybor City, to make sure the architecture is compatible. A community college campus has been erected.

"There's a future in Ybor City," says Harris Mullen, publisher of Florida Trend magazine. "It's coming back. What we have is an ethnic tradition that we can adopt. We didn't have to manufacture it the way some cities have had to do. And people are recognizing it."

RELAXATION — This Ybor City resident enjoys a comfortable chair and a good hand-rolled cigar while watching the passing scene. In the heyday of cigar making, in Ybor City, as many as 20,000 artisans produced hand-rolled smokes from Havana-grown tobacco. Today, there are an estimated 700 workers left in the industry. ## Court Orders Diggs To Prison For Fraud, False Statements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles Diggs was ordered Monday to serve three years in prison for mail fraud and making false statements after a judge brushed aside arguments that his re-election this month meant he should be in Congress, not jail.

Diggs, a 12-term Michigan Democrat, was found guilty Oct. 7 of inflating the salaries of several staff members and then accepting kickbacks from them to pay business, personal and congressional expenses.

Following Monday's sentencing, Diggs was released on personal recognizance pending an appeal, according to his attorney David Povich.

Diggs was re-elected Nov. 7 to a 13th term in the House of Representatives with an 80 percent vote margin in his Detroit district despite his conviction.

Noting his success at the polls, Diggs asked the court to "permit me the freedom to redeem myself for the remainder of my public service."

In pleading to remain out of jail, he told U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Gasch: "This has been a very devastating experience. I know the conviction has been a very painful experience for me personally and professionally."

"The court has no desire to heap an unwarranted penalty on the head of Mr. Diggs," replied Gasch. "But, by the same token, the court realizes that the court must seek to be evenhanded."

Then, Diggs stood impassively beside his attorney as the judge told him he was to serve three years on each of the 29 counts on which he was convicted. However, the terms are to run concurrently. There is no minimum time connected with the sentence and the U.S. Parole Commission ultimately will decide how long Diggs must serve.

Proceedings connected with Diggs' appeal could last about a year, according to prosecutor John Kotelly.

Diggs' conviction had carried possible penalties of five years per count and fines of $191,000.

The judge, choosing not to impose fines on the congressman, said he had read reports that Diggs was $174,000 in debt and had sold his home. Gasch said he planned to review a report on Diggs' finances within 120 days.

Diggs, who is the senior black member of Congress, was a founder of the Congressional Black Caucus. Until his conviction he was chairman of the House District of Columbia Committee and of an International Relations Committee subcommittee on Africa. He stepped aside from those posts pending the outcome of his planned appeals.

Diggs' press spokeswoman, Joan Willoby, said the congressman planned to announce on Wednesday whether he would seek re-election to those chairmanships. There have been reports that he would resign from them permanently.

Povich told the judge that Diggs' re-election was an indication that his constituents in Michigan wanted the congressman to continue to serve them in Congress, "notwithstanding the great damage that he has done to himself and his standing."

But Kotelly maintained that Diggs' "crimes really are stealing money from the citizens of the United States."

The congressman's conduct "does not call for leniency, does not call for a period of probation, but calls for a period of incarceration."

Request For Letter From Space Denied

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Vladimir Dzhanibekov has apologized to a retired auto worker in this northern Ohio city for not being able to send him a letter postmarked in space.

In a handwritten reply to a request to be the first man in the United States to get a letter from space, Dzhanibekov, commander of Soyuz 27, told 68-year-old Alois Schoenberger that it would be close to impossible to grant the wish.

Among the reasons cited by Dzhanibekov was that while his crew brought back letters postmarked in space, the service "works only for relatives and VIPs."

Schoenberger had read that the Russian space crew would be operating a postal station in space and wrote the commander in January with his request. The reply came last week, almost nine months later.

Court Dumps Drug Conviction

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The words of a dead man convicted Gilberto Pablo Alvarez of trafficking in heroin in Rio Grande, Texas — but that was reversed by a federal appeals court Monday.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision came on a plea filed by Gilberto Pablo Alvarez.

He appealed after being convicted of conspiracy to possess heroin, and possession of heroin with intent to distribute, drawing a total of 24 years in prison.

However, the 5th circuit said a major bit of evidence in the jury trial before U.S. District Judge Owen D. Cox was a statement by Lucio Mejorado, who told an informer that Alvarez was his supplier.

The statement was allowed into evidence, even though Mejorado had been killed in an auto crash before police arrested Alvarez, who had left for Mexico a few days after the 1976 indictment and remained there until he was extradited.

Dollar Rise Hikes Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rose sharply in moderate trading Monday in what analysts said reflected encouragement over the continued strength of the dollar.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than 10 points at its highest level of the day but gave up some of that in the afternoon. The blue chip index posted a 7.88 point gain to close at 805.61.

Although the volume of trading was not heavy, gains covered a broad range of issues. Overall, gaining stocks outnumbered losers by a margin of almost 3-to-1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume came to 24.44 million shares down from 25.17 million the previous session. The dollar's gains against other major currencies Monday were not dramatic. But analysts said the upward trend of the currency over the past few sessions was seen as a favorable sign that the administration's dollar defense program is working.

The dollar has become the focus of the market, said Robert Stovall, an analyst at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. "Its more important than how high the prime rate goes or how low inflation lasts," which have long been familiar concerns to the market, he said.

Past Mayors Review Terms In Office

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff
The 11 men gathered at city hall Monday may not have looked elite, but as a group they represented 50 years of Lubbock history.
Represented were all but one of Lubbock's former mayors who still are living, plus the city's present mayor Dirk West. The occasion was the initial meeting of an association of Lubbock mayors suggested by West.
Over sandwiches in a room which was not even on the drawing board when many of the men were in office, the 11 mayors proudly discussed their achievements.
The oldest mayor present, H.D. "Harley" Woods, took office the same year West was born (1928) and served until 1930.
During Woods' tenure, the city purchased the first section of land for the old airport at the price of $52.50 an acre and completed two underpasses under Santa Fe Railroad tracks.

At the time Lubbock had less than 20,000 people and Texas Tech University, which opened in 1925, had "not over 1,200 students."
When Clarence Whiteside began his two-year term as mayor in 1950, no city budget had been formulated and the city's checks were bouncing.
Although the city legally could only borrow $50,000, Whiteside said he talked $100,000 out of a local bank at 2½ percent interest to get the city back on its financial feet.
The Canadian River Project, which many years later began supplying the city with water from Lake Meredith, was conceived while Whiteside was in office.
S.S. Forrest Jr., who served as mayor from 1956-58, said he spent much of his term "fighting lawsuits against citizens of Muleshoe who didn't want us to take their water."

The Bailey County sandhill wells, the subject of the courtroom skirmishes, now are the source of much of the city's water.
Lennis Baker, who succeeded Forrest as mayor, presided over annexation of the Loop property, settled the Muleshoe lawsuits and continued working on the Canadian River Project.
"I guess I was pretty controversial," Jack Strong, mayor from 1962-64 conceded. The controversy centered around Strong forcing the ouster of then-city manager H.P. Clifton over objections from city council members and newspaper editors.
The mayor from 1964-66, Max Tidmore, faced the "battle of the beauty parlors" and presided over the only city council meeting ever held in the Municipal Auditorium.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. We would like to know if we are managing our money properly. I am 54. My husband is 56. He hopes to retire at 62 on Social Security and a pension which will take care of our needs. But we would like to travel with the income from our savings.
Our house is paid for and we have enough insurance. We have $15,000 in a six-year savings certificate which has five years to go, $5,000 in a 2½-year savings certificate with a year and a half to go and $5,000 in regular savings for car purchase, furniture, emergencies and vacations. Is our money in the right places?
A. It's in places as safe as any you can possibly find. And, because you are not hurting for income now and will not be after retirement, that means your money is really in the "right" places.

You could, of course, aim to increase your $25,000 nestegg by shifting some of it into investments with higher yields or hopes for growth in value. But any such move would involve some risk. From the way you spell things out, there's really no need for you to take any risk.
My recommendation is to leave things as they are for the present. When that $5,000 savings certificate comes due 18 months from now, check to see what yields are then available. You might want to make a move with that money then—but not now.

at a "discount" below the quoted market value. Please explain further. How much discount? Is there ever a possibility of not being able to sell a $5,000 municipal bond?
A. The discount can vary all over the lot—depending on how actively the particular bond issue is traded, the size of the bond issue and the ability of the brokerage firm or bank handling the sale, as well as the brokerage house or bank "making the market" in the issue.
If you sell a $5,000 municipal bond, the amount you receive might be just a couple of dollars less for each $1,000 par value of bonds than the seller of a large amount of the same bond issue would receive at the very same time. But your discount could be more or less—depending upon conditions in the market.
There is little or no possibility that you will ever run into a situation where you will not be able to sell a $5,000 municipal bond "piece"—the smallest denomination for most such bonds. There's an active trading market for municipals. They can be bought and sold on any business day.
None of this should bother you, assuming you hold municipals until maturity. When a municipal bond matures, it is paid off at par value—unless the municipal government unit which issued it goes bankrupt.

Q. How successful has commodity futures investing been lately? One commodity house tells me my $10,000 investment can go to $50,000. Their commission fee for the initial investment is 19 percent. Isn't that high?
A. It's sky-high. I just hope you read this answer before you make the mistake of putting $10,000 on the line.
The commodity futures market is no place for the uninitiated. Its function is worthwhile for farmers and other producers of raw materials who want to protect their profits and for the users of raw material who want to be sure of the prices they will pay.
For everyone else, it's a gambling game. Personally, I would prefer Atlantic City or Las Vegas. Thoughts of running your $10,000 into $50,000 are so much blue sky.

Eskimo Whalers Seek End To Offshore Drilling

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — Eskimo whalers have filed suit to stop oil drilling in the Beaufort Sea, considered by some the most promising offshore oil area in the country but also the habitat of the endangered bowhead whale.

The whalers fear oil spills under the ice could wipe out the bowhead, one of the Eskimos major food sources.

The International Whaling Commission, concerned that the whale was nearing extinction, this year imposed the first-ever quota on the several-thousand-year-old Eskimo hunt of the bowhead.

The drilling going on now is being conducted by Exxon Corp. on a man-made gravel pad in the mouth of the Sagavarnirktok River, 200 miles east of Barrow.

Thomas P. Brower, a 73-year-old whaling captain, said, "noise and pollution from the drilling site threaten the Inupiat with more trouble in hunting whales and fish... If there were a major blowout, we could be faced with the end of our marine hunting."

The Eskimos are suing the state, the federal government and Exxon on grounds the drilling began without the required environmental impact statements and water quality certification.

Donald Clocksin, a lawyer representing the hunters of the villages of Barrow, Nu-iqsut and Kaktovik, said the move is the "opening shot in a major battle" against an outer continental shelf oil lease sale tentatively scheduled by the state and federal government for December 1979.

The sale involves 500,000 acres of primarily offshore lands in what the industry considers to be the most promising area in the United States for oil and gas exploration. Geologists have said the amount of oil in the Beaufort Sea could equal or surpass Prudhoe Bay, currently producing 1.2 million barrels a day.

The sale is expected to bring more than $1 billion in bonus payments for the right to explore in the area, and potential royalty payments to the state of hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

"We're not saying it's impossible to drill up there," Clocksin said, "We're saying don't do it until you can do it right."

The industry says it has proven it can operate in environmentally sensitive areas.

Robert LeResche, a former wildlife biologist, and now Alaska natural resources commissioner, said, "Nobody is going to tell me that we didn't give notice we allegedly should have..."

Crandall Jones, manager of Exxon USA's Pacific Exploration Division said

"There is no evidence or indication that our operations are harmful to any endangered species. Exxon has drilled and produced oil and gas in many environmentally sensitive areas including Big Cypress Swamp in Florida, the King Ranch in South Texas and Avery Island bird sanctuary."

But the Eskimos say no one knows how to clean an oil spill in Arctic ice or how to stop 30-foot-high ice ridges from pushing wells into the sea. Brower said he believes oil trapped under the surface would form a thick mass and "marine mammals and fish would be killed by the oil waiting for them."

The British took Philadelphia in 1777.

Doctors Treat Algerian President

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The official Algerian news agency said Monday that President Houari Boumediene was in the care of an international team of doctors.

Algerie Presse Service (APS) did not specify the nature of the illness, but informed sources said it was believed Boumediene was undergoing kidney dialysis treatment since hospitalization Saturday following a sharp decline in his condition.

APS said that since his return from Moscow last Tuesday, Boumediene's "state of health has required increased surveillance."

"Highly qualified medical teams of various nationalities" are helping Algerian doctors, the agency said. Two French specialists were reported to have arrived in Algiers and it seemed likely that after his treatment in Moscow, Soviet doctors might have been called to the Algerian capital.

The first official news that he was ill came only last Saturday. The APS story

Monday night said his health was "the main preoccupation" of the governing bodies and the Algerian people.

GRIM WORK — Two members of the Reese Air Force Base Fire Department carry a "victim" of Monday's mock plane crash to a waiting ambulance. The disaster drill was staged by Reese and Methodist Hospital to test their ability to deal with a major emergency. ## Simulated Plane Crash Tests Emergency Medical Services

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock's emergency medical services are well prepared to deal with the casualties from a major disaster such as an airplane crash or indoor explosion, if Monday's disaster drill is any indication. Reese Air Force Base and Methodist Hospital cooperated in staging the "biggest disaster since the 1970 tornado" — the mock crash of an Air Force plane carrying 40 passengers. The disaster drill took place two miles east of Reese on FM 179, Monday afternoon. Several local ambulance companies also participated, delivering the "dead" and "wounded" to Reese AFB and Methodist Hospitals. The crash was simulated to test the capabilities of the military and civilian communities to coordinate their efforts to "save the largest number of lives in the shortest time possible," according to

Col. Richard Arnold, chief of Reese's exercise evaluation team. Observers from Reese, Methodist, the Texas Department of Public Safety and the Texas Department of Health Sciences Division of Emergency Services were on hand at the site and at the hospitals to mark response times, coordination of communications systems and personnel of the two staffs, as well as check medical supplies and facilities available to treat the injured. "Using the waiting room as a holding area for 'wounded,' and extra space to treat the most severely 'injured,' Methodist Hospital was able to treat 31 casualties of the drill. Five 'patients' were taken to the hospital at Reese AFB, which has a 10-bed capacity. The victims of the drill were student nurses from the Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, and flight training students from Reese.

Comments by observers and participants was unanimously positive during the hours following the drill. Col. Arnold's immediate reaction was that the drill "appeared quite successful." Wounded were removed from the site of the wreck within 45 minutes, which was "considerably faster than anticipated." Mervin Hardin, vice president of patient services at Methodist Hospital, called the drill "very effective as a test of disaster plans for Methodist and its involvement with Reese Air Force Base and the ambulance companies." According to Hardin, the drill came on a day when the patient census at Methodist was high, and the emergency room was busy with actual patients. The 31 casualties brought to Methodist's emergency room were "sufficient to test its capabilities," Hardin said.

Citibus Chooses Advertising Agency

Phil Price Advertising Co. was unanimously chosen by the Transit Advisory Board Monday as the firm to direct the multi-media campaign promoting Citibus route changes in January. The Lubbock firm was given a $20,000 budget for a nine month period beginning the first of next year. The firm has represented Citibus for the past two years in advertising campaigns. The board objectives are to project a positive image of riding Citibus, to promote the idea of "It's your bus, ride it," to increase overall ridership by educating the public, and to introduce the improved transit service beginning Jan. 15. The board decided last month to double the number of Citibus routes to the South Plains Mall in January. The route changes will include an experimental route with stops at Monterey High School, an apartment complex for the elderly at 66th Street and Hartford Avenue and other area elementary and junior high schools before ending at the shopping mall.

Persons still will be able to transfer downtown, but with the new routes East Lubbock patrons not wishing to go downtown will be able to change buses at East Broadway and Quirt Avenue. The advertising campaign is aimed at reaching not just one geographic or demographic segment of Lubbock, but, according to a film strip presented to the board's members, "several groups we need to reach to maximize our potential for increased ridership. The elderly who no longer can or wish to drive, Texas Tech students, faculty and staff, shoppers, major employers, and employers in the Central Business district of Lubbock." Transit officials are hopeful the route rearrangement will increase revenue per mile from 21 cents to nearly 23 cents.

Vegetarian Feast Set For Holiday

NEW YORK — Julia Child, the well-known chef, has come up with a Thanksgiving dinner that should be of interest to the country's estimated 10 million vegetarians. She will whip up a meatless feast on public television's "MacNeil-Lehrer Report" to be seen Thursday night. The appetizer consists of pumpkin soup garnished with croutons and herbs. The main course is a fresh vegetable platter, containing steamed eggplant, topped with garparcho sauce, to be served with a salad of white beans, kidney beans and broccoli vinaigrette. There's also molded fresh corn timbale, surrounded by brussels sprouts and braised chestnuts. A warm loaf of homemade bread and a bottle of red Cabernet wine are included in the menu. Dessert is homemade vanilla ice cream, topped with cranberry preserves and/or flaming meatless mince meat sauce. Champagne is suggested to wash it all down.

Voters To Decide Fate Of County Jail

LEVELLAND (Special) — Hockley County voters will decide whether to approve a $1.25 million bond to erect a new jail, or a $500,000 bond to remodel the existing structure, or to reject both bond proposals. According to a Hockley County Sheriff's Office spokesman, the present jail does not meet all standards set by the Texas State Jail Standards Commission. Originally the county commissioners recommended that the structure, built in 1938, be remodeled.

But other county officials said remodeling would cut down the jail's capacity and not necessarily increase that much additional office space. It would be better to construct a new jail, the officials said. A petition was circulated in October calling for an election so voters could decide on approving either of the two proposals or rejecting both. The spokesman said if both proposals are rejected, then the state will have to decide what to do about the problem.

Bids Taken For Seal Coat Road Work

A-J Austin Boreas AUSTIN — The Department of Highways and Public Transportation will take bids Dec. 14 on an estimated $1,799,335 worth of seal coat work on 163,394 miles of roads in 12 West Texas counties, including Lubbock County. The work will require an estimated 75 working days. Project engineer is William M. Pope of Lubbock. The work includes the following: Lubbock County: FM 2255, from Spur 309 to Loop 189, 5.348 miles; and U.S. 84 east of Shallowater to Loop 289 in Lubbock, 6.355. ## Engineers' Group Provides Scholarships

The National Society of Professional Engineers is making available 91 grants and scholarships to aid high school seniors interested in pursuing engineering careers, according to Harold W. Harris, professional engineer and local chairman of the nationwide scholarship program. Harris, who heads the scholarship effort of NSPE's South Plains chapter, said students will be selected for the awards on the basis of academic standing, participation in extra-curricular activities, evidence of leadership, character and self-reliance, comments of teachers and administrators, and federal need. NSPE scholarships are provided with the cooperation of 31 companies and educational institutions. Recipients receive awards of $1,000 to $4,000 with some full scholarships. To be eligible for the awards, a student must be a high school senior ranking in the top quarter of his or her graduating class, plan to enroll in a college or university with an engineering curriculum approved by the Engineers Council for Professional Development, and be a U.S. citizen or plan to become a naturalized citizen. Students must submit scholarship applications to the local chapter by Dec. 15. National winners will be chosen in March. Harris may be contacted for additional information at 2118 34th St., Lubbock, 79411.

Traffic Enforcement Cuts Accident Rate

Slide Road has become a safer thoroughfare with the advent of the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP), Lubbock police officials say. Accidents with injuries on Slide Road have dropped significantly since the STEP officers began writing tickets Oct. 1, and drivers on Slide are slowing down, police say.

"But a lot of accidents are happening because drivers continue making left turns after the left turn arrow goes off," he said. "This is extremely hazardous, because the oncoming traffic is traveling 45 miles an hour and has a green light signal."

"It's easy to misjudge the time you have to make a left turn," he said. The whole of Indiana Avenue also will be scrutinized by STEP officers because of continued speeding on the thoroughfare, he said.

From January through September, a total of 58 accidents with injuries, or an average of more than six a month, occurred on Slide Road between 34th Street and Loop 289. However, since Oct. 1, only two injury-causing accidents have occurred — one at 34th Street and one at the entrance to South Plains Mall, according to city records. "People can complain about getting tickets if they want to," said STEP coordinator Sgt. Jerry Stevens. "But they sure have cut down on accidents." When the STEP program began Oct. 1, traffic officers were ticketing speeders on Slide Road for speeds up to 85 miles per hour, according to city officials. "Right now I'd say the average speed on Slide road is about the speed limit," Stevens said Monday.

Scholarship Beauty Named In Contest

Irasema Estrada, an 18-year-old Lubbock Christian College freshman, has been named Lubbock's first "Senorita" in the La Senorita Scholarship Beauty Pageant held Saturday in Lubbock's Memorial Civic Center. Miss Estrada, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Estrada of 2109 Cornell St., was a pick from 16 contestants to represent Lubbock's Mexican-American community. She also was named Miss Photogenic. The pageant was sponsored by COMA (Comerciantes Organizados Mexicano-Americanos), the Mexican-American Chamber of Commerce which serves to unify and develop local Mexican-American businesses. Miss Estrada's prizes include a $500 scholarship and a wardrobe. Other winners include Vanessa Quintana, first runner-up and Miss Congeniality; Kathy Cantu, second runner-up;

Nickie Zambrano, third runner-up; and Lydia Garza, fourth runner-up. Approximately 1,000 persons watched the contestants participate in sportswear, casual wear and evening gown competitions. State Rep. Froy Salinas and his wife Olivia crowned La Senorita, who is expected to attend civic affairs during her reign.

Killer Sought In Skid Row Stabbings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two new skid row stabbers were probably the work of the Skid Row Stabber who has slain nine transients in the past month, police say. But both of the newest victims will live. "There are strong indications that these two stabbings are similar to the previous ones, but the case has not officially been turned over to the special investigative team handling the skid row murders as yet," said police spokesman Lt. Dan Cooke. The latest victims were identified as Jose C. Ramirez and Ricardo Seja, both 24. Passersby said they saw the two bleeding men staggering along a downtown skid row street early Monday and called an ambulance. The two men were taken to County-USC Medical Center, where Ramirez was in fair condition. Seja was treated and released. Like the dead victims of the stabber, Ramirez and Seja were knifed in the chest and were found shortly after midnight. But unlike the other victims, Cooke said, these two were young and Spanish-speaking. "These two don't seem to fit the wino image of previous victims, but the investigators haven't ruled anything out yet," said a police spokesman.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY THE LATE GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
IN COLLABORATION WITH PAUL E. RUBLE, M.D.

(Editor's Note: This column was written by Dr. Thosteson before his death. The Avalanche-Journal will continue to carry the column "To Your Good Health," which will be written by two of Dr. Thosteson's colleagues.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My granddaughter was born with a misshapen head. It is not plainly seen, but when she is held up it is very obvious. My daughter acts as though there is nothing wrong. She had another child, a seemingly perfect three-year-old. She had a dry birth. Do you think anything can be done at this time? Do you think the shape of her head will mean brain damage? — Mrs. R.

It is not unusual for a newborn to have what appears to be a misshapen skull. The bones of the skull may overlap a bit from the pressures of a difficult delivery. The face may appear crooked because of the position the fetus assumed in the womb. Swellings may be accumulations of fluids, and these may persist for many weeks, although they usually subside in short order.

If the infant is alert and otherwise healthy, I would not be overly concerned. It is difficult to draw reliable conclusions from a description as vague as yours. The pediatrician can assure her, if she needs any assurance. Many are the grandparents who have had to swallow hard before exclaiming, "What a beautiful child!"

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 41 years old. My joints or the muscles become acutely sore, and by evening they are so tender I cannot use them. The pains seem to travel. One day it will be in my knee, and a couple of days later in my shoulder. Right now my whole right hand hurts. My doctor says take aspirin. — Mrs. P.L.

Traveling or migratory pain can occur with early rheumatoid arthritis. Other tests will help confirm this. Don't pooh-pooh the regular use of aspirin. It is one of the prime treatments of RA. I trust the doctor gave you a schedule for taking the aspirin on a regular basis and also specified the dose. If he didn't, ask about it. About 80 percent of RA occurs between the ages of 25 and 50, with peak years in the 30s and 40s. If arthritis is confirmed by tests, a reading of my booklet, "How to Control Arthritis," should be of some help to you. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I think I had rubella (German measles) as a child, but my mother is concerned because she cannot be sure it wasn't something else. I want to be immunized. I am married and use no birth control method, but do want to get this protection. What is the best time to get it? — Mrs. O.K.

You are wise to have this done. A recent study shows that a surprising number of young women who thought they had rubella protection from childhood exposure were wrong. Tests showed they never were exposed. The best sure time to get the protection is while you are menstruating. That is the safest indication that you are not pregnant. Afterwards, you should take care not to become pregnant for at least three months. The first three months of pregnancy are the most hazardous times for rubella exposure (of any kind).

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am somewhat confused. I understand that gout is caused by certain substances in foods — purines is what I think you call them. Yet you say that diet alone is not always sufficient to control gout. Why not? It would seem to me that if one avoided the foods with purines then gout could be controlled. Maybe you can "unconfuse" me on this. — T.J.

It's true that foods high in purines contribute to gout because the body converts that substance into uric acid and the uric acid can crystallize about joints — gout. But the body, as it does with many other substances, has the habit of making uric acid on its own, regardless of what the person eats. Are you confused?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter retains water and has swellings. I tell her this is dropsy, but she says she never heard of that. Her doctor calls it something else. Please explain dropsy for her. — Mrs. T.B.

Dropsy is the old term for edema, which is the word your daughter's doctor probably used. Whatever the name, the cause is an accumulation of excess fluid in body tissues. The old term came from the Greek word "hydrops," meaning water.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this painful disease, write To Your Good Health, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of the booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way to Stop It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Ann: On Veteran's Day, I did it again. I sneaked out at dawn to make sure the coast was clear and started to do my thing. Suddenly a stranger appeared out of nowhere and caught me red-handed. I was hanging up our country's flag. I should be used to it by now, but I was crushed by his look of pity and contempt.

As I fled inside the house, I could hear him muttering something about "right-wing fascist reactionary." You see, I'm the only one in the neighborhood who displays a flag on national holidays.

Embarrassed friends and relatives have begged me not to flap my flag so openly. I know the neighbors talk about me. I hear them whisper things like "freaky weirdo" or "Mrs. Archie Bunker." My children are taunted by their classmates because of my "aberration." Should I go into therapy and try to find out why I'm so "different"? The neighbor kid who wears his flag on the seat of his blue jeans tells me to get with it, that flag-waving is the pits nowadays and patriotism is the last refuge of scoundrels.

Can I help it if I love my country in spite of everything? I need an answer. — Freaked Out On Old Glory sure is a long time. Most of our arguments lately have been because she says I ignore her.

I've told the woman at least a hundred times to talk louder so I won't miss what she's saying, but it doesn't do any good. I'm beginning to think she talks softly so she'll have a reason to criticize me. She used to complain about my chewing tobacco but since I quit it she needs something else to harp on. Can you give me some advice? — Nagged At

Dear Nagged: The experts say males tend to lose the ability to hear high-pitched sounds as they get older — especially if it's the wife's voice. Suggest she speak in a lower register — and listen a little harder, Dad.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm one who applauds the idea of teaching children how to cope with real-life situations in the classrooms. You are right when you say it's the only chance some kids have. But I'm a little fearful of what he (or she) wants to teach the children.

You printed a letter recently which said, "Most parents are too embarrassed (or uninformed) to deal with subjects like masturbation and Funny Uncles." That term, "Funny Uncles," is highly prejudicial for one who is speaking out for enlightenment. (You are, of course, referring to homosexuals.) Such a term is derogatory and insulting. I am surprised that you have chosen to discriminate against this group in such a manner. You are displaying a shocking lack of compassion. Ann — Michagander Here

Dear Mich: A "Funny Uncle" is NOT a homosexual. He is a relative who sexually abuses young children. Almost always such a person is heterosexual — as any professional who has dealt with these situations will tell you. I'm glad you wrote so I could set the record straight.

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON-MICHAEL REED
NEW YORK—The rumor that "Another World" will become the first daytime TV soap opera to expand to 90 minutes a day early in the new year is approaching official confirmation.

However, some cast members of the show are putting up a fuss and fight against the expansion. The actors are demanding that their salaries be increased in direct proportion to the proposed additional working hours required for such a mammoth undertaking. And they feel that what they are being offered during new conditional contract negotiations apparently isn't up to par. With the hour shows, the actors' average yearly salary ranges in the $70,000 to $100,000 bracket, with "star" performers often earning twice the amount. The hour-and-a-half format should push them toward the 200 grand mark or over.

Excessive, you say? Consider that with the hour format, casts usually spend a 10-12-hour day on the set. An additional half hour would necessitate tapings into the evening, unless a "split" schedule such as the one used by "As the World Turns" is devised. That show schedules half of a day's cast's tapings for an eight-hour period in the early morning with a second, half-cast period commencing in the early afternoon.

"AWers" are also concerned that the added load would mean less "outside" work time available for commercials, films or nighttime TV guest spots. And certainly the new work schedule would have the actors' families and lovers burning the midnight oil, if they wanted to see them.

Another rumored development at NBC is the proposal to extend "Days of Our Lives" into a longer format by breaking up the show into two daily parts. The first half would focus on storylines involving the Horton families. Part two would revolve around the other residents of Salem. Both parts would air in a single time block that would run for 90 minutes or perhaps two hours daily.

In the recent past, network and sponsor officials have fretted over the reportedly dwindling serial viewing audience. What they seem to forget is that soap operas began on radio in 15-minute a day doses. The half hour televised versions are generally the medium's most comfortable format. With the advent of the 45-minute and the hour versions, soaps became plodding, character-counting confusions. Core families, the backbone of the medium, became lost amid a mass of more than 40 or 50 characters per show. Modern viewers don't have the time or patience to want to bid again and frequently does just that.

With today's hand either North or South can make two hearts. Neither one is likely to make an overtrick although with South as declarer West might get off to a lead that will give him nine tricks.

The heart lead is not one of those leads. South is going to lose a trump, a diamond and three tricks in the black suits.

ANOTHER AFTERNOON lover boy, Kipp Whitman, who plays nasty Hank Robinson on "As the World Turns," married his longtime sweetie, professional model Jo Wynne. Kipp's newly acquired marital status, however, doesn't make a dent in his "love to love that bad boy" appeal to female soap fans.

ON "EDGE OF NIGHT," which has a penchant for unusual character names, Michael Longfield joins the cast as Tank Jarvis, while an actress with the single name of Yahee plays Star Wilson, yet another member of the burgeoning Children of the Earth cult group.

NEWCOMERS to "All My Children" include Minnie Gentry as Nancy's Aunt Bessie, who shares Nancy's secret about the paternity of Nancy's child. Harry Boda has taken over the role of policeman Mel Jacoby from departing Chris Wallace.

THIS WEEK, beginning Nov. 13, "Family Feud" will incorporate cast members of ABC soaps as contestants in an all-star battle of the serial families. The members of the grand winning team of the week's bouts will donate 10 grand to the charity of their choice.

But it isn't all charity on the tube front during family feuding on the soaps, as you'll see when you tune in tomorrow.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
With pumpkins rather plentiful this time of the year, I'd like to share my way of cooking them which, to me, is a great time-saver.

I slice a portion off the top of the pumpkin and save this 'lid,' then remove the seeds.

Put the whole pumpkin in a pan, place the lid back on and pour a cup or two of water in the pan.

Bake in a 350-degree oven for an hour, or hour and a half, depending on the size of the pumpkin.

Remove from oven and just peel off the skin or cut the pumpkin in half and scrape out the inside.

You'll have enough pumpkin for several pies — just follow the same recipe you use for canned pumpkin — with some left over for freezing.

What's more, you'll be surprised at how easy it is. — Dorothy

And... how delicious!
Give this a try, gals, if your family likes pumpkin pie. It really is easy. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
The next time you have any type of pan that needs soaking to loosen the remains of stuck food, just boil some water in the pan and add dishwasher detergent.

For the gals who don't own dishwashers, I urge them to keep a box of this detergent around just for this purpose. Saves time and fingernails! Never fails! — Joanne Sullivan

- 2 cans (6 1/2 or 7 oz. each) tuna in vegetable oil
- 8 taco shells
- 1 cup shredded lettuce
- 1 tomato, chopped
- 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Heat oil in skillet. Add onion, green pepper and chili powder. Cook until vegetables are tender. Add tomato sauce; cook uncovered over low heat for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. When you use the Jacoby transfer (JTB) you must remember that the two-diamond response to an opening notrump is artificial and forcing. It shows nothing about your hand except that you hold at least five hearts. The opener will rebid to two hearts and you go on from there.

Similarly, the two-heart response shows spades and is a transfer to that suit. The transfer bid has several advantages. The first one is that the notrump bidder gets to play the hand with the opening lead coming up to his strength. The second is that somehow or other when you respond with a normal weak two hearts with a hand such as that held by North, the opening bidder

Peking Poster Presages Power Palpitations

TOKYO (AP) — With the appearance in Peking of a wall poster directly attacking the late Mao Tse-tung, Chinese leaders seem to have taken a crucial step in a campaign to debunk the myth of infallibility wrapped around the venal leader. But the move could bode ill for Mao's successor, Chairman Hua Kuo-feng.

The poster, spotted by Japanese correspondents in Peking on Sunday, accused the father of China's communist revolution of backing the purged Gang of Four rebels during a 1976 power struggle within the Communist Party.

Posters are often used within Chinese society to presage official changes in party policy.

The poster was believed to be the first to directly name Mao, who died in September 1976 at the age of 82.

The poster accused Mao of backing the Gang of Four. The radicals, who included Mao's wife Chiang Ching, were charged with plotting to take power after Mao's death, and were purged from the party and stripped of their government posts.

Earlier attacks on the group only referred to Mao indirectly, and excused any improper behavior on his part on grounds that he was deceived by his wife and her supporters.

In a separate case, China's leading newspaper said Monday that any unjust decisions made under Mao should be reversed to prevent anyone from taking advantage of the errors to attack Mao's name and try to seize power.

The People's Daily Commentary, broadcast in part by the official Hsinhua News agency, blamed errors on the Gang of Four and praised "the great banner of Chairman Mao." It praised the purging of radicals like the gang as being consistent with Mao's policy of correcting mistakes.

The two-way criticism and praise of Mao points to the dilemma facing China's leadership.

Mao's theories of self-sufficiency and near-isolation are not consistent with China's aggressive modernization program.

Mao was for going it alone. He decreed there should be no reliance on any foreign country for technological aid and frowned on borrowing money from abroad. He gave an approving nod to the party radicals, who attempted to turn China inward while rejecting Western civilization.

But China's new leadership has chosen to make a great leap into the industrial age by the year 2000 and they have decided that China can't make the deadline by going it alone.

This aggressive program has been pushed by Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, who was later diagnosed during Mao's rule, and whose plans of opening China to the world sharply contrast with Mao's ideas.

Teng now leads China in the direction of foreign trade pacts, foreign borrowing, and an open society at home.

So, if Teng is right, then Mao must have been wrong. Teng's job is to convince the masses who were wedded on the idea of Mao as the infallible, inspirational revolutionary hero that the new road is the correct one.

Though Mao is denounced for the political sins of his old age, he continues to win praise for his early contributions to the Chinese Revolution, in particular the liberal phase of the 1950s.

But in cutting away at the Mao myth, the central climax partially due to loathing Chairman Hua.

Nationally unknown before the 1966 Cultural Revolution, he rode to power on the strength of Mao's support. After Mao's death, critics from the Communist Party began to question Mao's role in the Cultural Revolution.

Heart Ailment Stalls Brandt

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Former Chancellor Willy Brandt, hospitalized since last week, has suffered a "local cardiovascular disturbance of the heart," a mild heart attack, his Social Democratic Party said Monday.

Party spokesman Lothar Schwartz said Brandt's condition followed a high fever contracted in the United States in October and that there was "no cause for concern" over his condition.

Schwartz did not say how long Brandt would stay in the hospital but said he likely would go to a spa to rest after his discharge.

Brandt, 64, won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1971 for his work toward reconciliation with East Germany.

He was chancellor from 1969 until he resigned during a spy scandal in 1974.

Campbell, Oilers Down Miami

HOUSTON (AP) — Rookie Earl Campbell exploded for four touchdowns, including a go-ahead 12-yard run with 4:46 left in the final period and a brilliant 80-yarder three minutes later, to lead the Houston Oilers to a 35-30 National Football League victory over the Miami Dolphins in a nationally televised contest Monday night.

Campbell's 80-yard run gave him 29 yards rushing on 28 carries and a season total of 1,143 — tops in the NFL.

The Oilers, who never had won a Monday night appearance in four games until Oct. 23 when they beat Pittsburgh 24-17, appeared headed for a loser's role again when Dolphins' defensive tackle A.J. Duhe tackled Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini for a safety with 12:20 left in the game.

Pastorini, who last week rallied the Oilers from a 23-0 deficit to a 26-23 victory over New England, went right back to work and swept Houston 80 yards for the winning touchdown following the safety that put Miami ahead 23-21.

A key play in the drive included a 24-yard pass play from Pastorini to wide receiver Ken Burrough to the Miami 44.

Campbell ran 11 yards, then Pastorini hit Rich Caster for 7 yards to the Miami 26. Three plays later, Campbell swept the side for 12 yards and the winning touchdown.

Houston, struggling for its first playoff berth since 1969, improved its record to 8-4, two games behind Pittsburgh in the American Football Conference Division. Miami, meanwhile, fell to 8-4 and slipped one game behind New England in the AFC East.

The Dolphins, ignited behind the pinpoint passes of Griese, took a 7-0 lead on a 10-yard aerial to wide receiver Nat Moore.

Houston came back for a 14-7 lead on a 1-yard touchdown run by Campbell and a 15-yard pass from Pastorini to tight end Barber.

Griese again picked the Oilers' secondary clean, completing five of six passes leading to a 1-yard scoring plunge by Delvin Williams and a 14-14 halftime score.

Campbell's 6-yard TD run put Houston ahead again 21-14 in the third quarter, but Miami's Leroy Harris capped an 89-yard drive with a 1-yard touchdown run for a 21-21 deadlock, setting up the thrilling fourth-quarter finish.

Williams, who began the game as the leading rusher in the NFL, finished with 73 yards on 18 carries, giving him 1,130 yards for the season, second behind Campbell.

Griese, who entered the game having hit 64 percent of his passes, finished with 23 completions in 33 attempts for 340 yards and two touchdowns. Griese's second TD pass came on the game's final play, an 11-yarder to rookie Jimmy Cefalo.

Griese engineered Miami to a 7-0 lead on the Dolphins' first drive of the game, completing four of five passes in the drive, including a 27-yarder to Moore to the Oilers' 9. Then, on third-and-10, Griese fired to Moore over the middle for the score.

Pastorini and Barber then went to work with pass-run plays of 29 yards to the Miami 41 and 12 yards to the 4, setting up Campbell's first score with 3:32 left in the first quarter.

After Oilers' defensive end Elvin Be-thea sacked Griese on third down, forcing a punt, the Oilers moved to a 14-7 second-quarter lead, with a seven-play, 87-yard drive spiced by a 36-yard pass interference penalty by Miami's Curtis Johnson.

After Mike Renfro's 9-yard end-around play, Pastorini hit Renfro for 8 more yards and Ken Burrough for 13 yards to the Dolphins' 18. On third down, Pastorini wriggled through a Miami blitz and flipped to Barber for the touchdown.

Griese came back throwing again, completing five of six passes in a 59-yard drive, leading to Williams' touchdown with 21 seconds left in the half for the 14-14 tie.

Lions Remain Atop Polls, Tide No. 2

By The Associated Press
Alabama moved into second place in The Associated Press college football poll Monday, setting up a possible national championship showdown with No. 1-ranked Penn State in the Sugar Bowl.

Both Penn State and Alabama were idle last weekend. The Nittany Lions remained No. 1 for the second week in a row, receiving 59 first-place votes and 1,306 of a possible 1,320 points from a nationwide panel of 66 sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama, No. 3 a week ago, received three first-place votes and 1,213 points and took over second place from Nebraska, which lost to Missouri 35-31 and dropped to seventh. Last week, Penn State's margin over runnerup Nebraska was 1,296-1,209.

Penn State, which accepted a Sugar Bowl invitation, winds up its regular season Friday against No. 15 Pittsburgh. Alabama must defeat Auburn in its Dec. 2 finale to become the Southeastern Conference's representative in the Sugar Bowl.

In The Bowls
Of Bowls...

DOWN THE ROAD, the men could be spotted. In one hand they clutched Chamber of Commerce brochures, in the other notes with a bunch of scores and names and dates scribbled about.

They sat together in the press boxes, each group talking only among its members. They grinned a lot, looked like cousins in their matching blazers and cute little emblems which featured an orange, a boll of cotton, a silver cup of sugar, a sombrero, liberty bell, or a tangerine which looked like an orange.

And as the shadows lengthened over the playing fields from Raleigh to Los Angeles, these groups of men would huddle, run to the telephone, huddle again, then surround a nearby athletic director. Usually, he would return their smile and motion for one group to follow him to the dressing room.

The other groups would frown, shrug, pick up their brochures and head for the airport, ignoring the game's final minutes. Maybe next year.

FOLKS IN Lincoln and Athens will long remember last Saturday, but not with great relish. It wasn't their day to celebrate.

But, last Saturday, Nov. 18, could be remembered for some time in other spots. It was a day for great elation in some areas, so-so in others, and for some, it was one of the strangest in bowl-inviting history.

And the matchups created by Saturday's selections will make great prophets out of some selection committees, goats out of others.

And the indications are that there could be some shifts in prestige for the bowling list.

But, at the top of the heap stands Joe Paterno, the only coach around holding an undented shield. And in that position, Paterno could dictate where he wanted to play.

Maybe there was some doubt in his mind for a time. . . . Go to the Orange Bowl against Nebraska, which would be a toughie. . . . go to the Cotton Bowl against an even tougher Houston. . . . go to the Sugar against Georgia, possibly the easiest of the Big Three routes. . . . or take Bear Bryant's bait and play in the Gator for both bowl checks?

Money talks at times, one knows.

IT'S TO PATERNO'S credit that he never flinched, never dodged a bullet. Georgia and Nebraska, by their respective tie and loss, removed much of the suspense. He decided it would be Alabama in the Sugar, against the highest ranking team at that time.

And the rest of the marbles began falling into the holes on the gigantic post-season pinball machine.

The Sugar folks had to be overjoyed with their No. 1 match. The Orange pulled a shocker — especially for Nebraska fans, players and coaches — with that rematch. And the Cotton Bowl, seemingly, had to take what was left. Now, the Irish could make the Cotton folks look good by defeating Southern California, but this would have to be an upset.

Notre Dame has plenty of followers, but this will be its fourth trip to Dallas in ten years.

AND WHEN THESE bowls made their announcements, all the others started scrambling. The final arrangement resembles Grandmother's prized patchwork quilt. Arzo
