COTTON HARVEST RESUMES — Open weather Monday allowed the South Plains cotton harvest, delayed by prolonged damp conditions this month, to be resumed on a rather limited scale. The harvest is expected to quicken substantially this week if favorable weather prevails. The U. S. Department of Agriculture's cotton classing offices through last week had received and classed approximately 184,000 bales, compared with receipts of 2,006,900 a year ago. The cotton being harvested here is on land leased by Benny Barton from Texas Tech University on 4th Street between Indiana and Quaker Avenues. It is yielding about two bales per acre, Barton said. ## Desegregation Plan Given Good Marks But Problems Linger

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

FOR THE most part, public-school desegregation here is going well, but some students and teachers still have trouble adjusting to the situation, an expert on human relations said Monday.

"I've been impressed with the calibre of young people I've seen. If other school systems had the same kind of students, the desegregation process in those communities would have been more successful," said Dr. George Henderson, an outside consultant making a second visit to the Lubbock Independent School District.

After spending the day at the junior high schools affected by the district's court-ordered integration plan, the sociology professor said he could "detect that spark, that enthusiasm in the eyes of almost all the young people I saw."

The same holds true for teachers, he added. "There is more hope (for success) here than in most other communities" undergoing desegregation. Henderson said Lubbock's plan has "tremendous potential."

"But I'm enough of a realist to know that not all of the problems have gone away," he said. At faculty meetings during the day there were complaints voiced that some students resent being bused to a distant school, and that some white teachers have difficulty relating to minority pupils.

Henderson, who chairs the human relations department at the University of Oklahoma, will spend the week here giving advice on such matters and evaluating progress of the desegregation plan. Lubbock implemented this fall. He conducted teacher training sessions here in August.

At the junior-high level, the plan proposed by the school board and approved by federal Judge Halbert O. Woodward involved closing minority Struggles on the city's east side and dispersing those students among Atkins, Hutchinson and O.L. Slaton schools.

Conducts Student Assemblies
Henderson visited the receiving junior highs Monday, conducting four student assemblies, two faculty assemblies, an evening meeting with parents and various committee sessions.

Roy Grimes, Hutchinson principal, said that a problem among some students is that they "really don't want to be where they are. Some of the students tell their teachers, 'I don't want to be here. I don't like it here. I don't want to study.'"

This attitude, Henderson said, is a "very natural reaction to the trauma of being forced to do something" they dislike. For Struggles-area youngsters, desegregation has meant "severing the social and ethnic umbilical cord."

Schools can help overcome this attitude by getting students involved academically and socially. "The more they become involved, the less they feel alienated," Henderson said.

But he added: "We're not going to win all of them." The first students to undergo desegregation are the "lost generation," finding themselves at a social and academic disadvantage, Henderson said. He said that if schools learn to desegregate successfully, future students will not have such problems.

Another problem Grimes has found is that some white middle-class teachers contend they cannot relate to black students. Henderson called such an excuse a cop-out.

"There are more differences within

Sunny Days Due; Snows Pack Slopes

SOUTH Plains residents should enjoy clear, sunny weather for most of this week, while ski enthusiasts can look forward to a weekend of near-perfect ski weather as many of New Mexico and Colorado's ski resorts report excellent snow conditions.

The Arctic cold front which brought light rain and cold temperatures to the South Plains over the weekend, moved out of the state Monday morning. A large high pressure system now building southward over the area is expected to keep skies clear through Wednesday.

Drying conditions should be fair to good today and Wednesday — good news for cotton farmers who have held off harvesting because of last week's wet weather.

Freeze Due Tonight

However, a light freeze warning has been posted for tonight, as the mercury is expected to dip to the 30s.

Skies should be clear to partly cloudy and temperatures a little warmer this afternoon and Wednesday. The high this afternoon should reach the lower 50s with southwesterly winds 10-15 mph.

South Texas continues to be plagued by scattered thundershowers and light rain, although weather conditions have improved from the average two inches of rain which fell over the weekend.

Light rain also is forecast for the south and southeast parts areas of West Texas. The western parts of the region received up to two inches of snow above the 5,000-foot level around El Paso, but South Plains residents Monday night had only a slight chance of seeing flakes.

Ski Conditions Good

Area ski buffs should be able to take full advantage of the excellent ski conditions in Colorado and New Mexico this weekend.

Ski season opened this past weekend and local ski shops reported a booming business in ski rentals due to the record snowfall at some resorts.

Taos, N.M. reported its best beginning season conditions in history, with 53 inches of undisturbed snow and two inches of fresh snow Monday afternoon. This was the eighth straight day snow and ski conditions were good.

DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

Missing 14 Elderly Found Safe

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Authorities found on Monday the 14 elderly patients who had been missing for several days from a suburban nursing home described by one investigator as "horrible... just filthy," a state official said.

Assistant state Social Services Director Cleophus Jones said the patients were discovered safe at a boarding home 55 miles from St. Louis.

They were removed without explanation early last week from the Jera Su

Manor home in Manchester, authorities said.

A search of the grounds started when relatives of the missing patients told police they were worried because they could not contact the home during the Thanksgiving holidays. Police found the home unlocked and the patients and staff gone.

But Jones said Sunday evening that the 14 were found at the boarding home in De Soto.

"We've got them located," he said. "We have verbal confirmation that

Two San Francisco Officials Murdered

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor George Moscone and Harvey Milk, the city's first self-proclaimed homosexual supervisor, were shot to death Monday in City Hall, and a former city supervisor, who had wanted his job back, was arrested 45 minutes later.

Dan White, 32, was booked for investigation of the murders, which stunned a city still numbed by the suicide massacre in Guyana of more than 900 members of the Peoples Temple, based in San Francisco.

Former Supervisor Surrenders
The former supervisor had surrendered to police at a station eight blocks from the murder scene. He was scheduled for medical and psychiatric testing.

Police and city officials said White, who resigned from the Board of Supervisors Nov. 10 then asked for his seat back, was meeting with Moscone in a back room of the mayor's office, presumably begging to be reappointed, when the 11 a.m. shooting occurred.

Moscone had scheduled an 11:30 a.m. news conference to announce White's successor, Don Horanzy, who was waiting in an outer office at the ornate, domed City Hall when the shots rang out.

"We heard shots but we were unaware at the time that the shots came from the room," said Mel Wax, Moscone's press secretary. One of the mayor's secretaries walked to a window, thinking the noise was a car backfiring.

Shot Three Times

Moscone's bloody body was found lying on the floor when the mayor's fiscal adviser, Rudy Nothenberg, walked in for an 11 a.m. appointment. Police said Moscone had been shot three times, twice in the head and once in the left arm.

Both men were shot with a .38-caliber revolver, police said.

A City Hall worker who saw White at the time of the shootings described him as "wild-eyed."

Wax said White had appeared at the mayor's door about 10:40 a.m., asking to see Moscone without an appointment. Wax said he didn't want White and Horanzy to see each other. I thought that would be a bad scene.

The press secretary said that although it was normal procedure for a Moscone aide to sit in on every meeting, this time "George said there was no need for that."

Second Victim Shot

Police said after the shooting, White left Moscone's office through a back door and ran about 100 yards down the hall and into the supervisors' offices, where he allegedly shot and killed Milk, 48, in City Hall, and a former city supervisor, who had wanted his job back, was arrested 45 minutes later.

Moscone turned 49 Friday. A liberal, he and White had been at political odds for some time.

The mayor had been supported by the Rev. Jim Jones, leader of the Peoples Temple and one of those who died in Guyana. He once appointed Jones to the city's housing authority. Police said, however, that the murders apparently were not connected to the Peoples Temple.

Dianne Feinstein, who as president of the Board of Supervisors will become acting mayor, tearfully announced the murders outside Moscone's office to a crowd of reporters and city employees, who gasped and screamed "Oh God!"

drowning out her sobs.

"The suspect is Supervisor Dan White," she said.

All Police Bulletin

Police had immediately issued an all points bulletin for White, who they said raced away from City Hall in his blue Opel. But White, himself a former city policeman, surrendered at 11:45 a.m.

"He just walked in the door, put his hands up and turned himself in," said a police officer at the station. "He looked

Hostages In Bar Reject Freedom

WYANDOTTE, Mich. (AP) — A man with a rifle held 10 tavern customers hostage Monday for up to eight boozing hours during which the drinks were on the house and five of the hostages turned down a chance to leave, police said.

One of the hostages, Ben Dudley, a 41-year-old truck driver, said Gary Cornell, 35, of this Detroit suburb entered Bill's Corner Bar at 1:40 a.m., then went back out and returned with a rifle.

"Give everybody a drink. This is not a holdup or stickup. I've got problems," Dudley quoted Cornell as saying.

Cornell sat at a table and told his story as the barmaid served drinks. Police said the incident ended without injury after a reporter came to the bar to talk with Cornell about his problems, which included charges of mistreatment by a hospital. Cornell was then taken to Wyandotte General Hospital.

No charges were immediately filed. Cornell earlier had given a loaded .22-caliber rifle to his brother, Ronald, who was called to the bar by police. Ronald Cornell emerged to tell shotgun-toting officers, "There are five drunks in there. They don't want to come out. They love Gary."

Gary Cornell fired several shots into the wall, but no one was hit.

Saying, "I don't trust these Wyandotte cops," he spoke several times with the night city editor of the Detroit News, William Clark, to demand that a reporter be sent to listen to him.

Clark dispatched religion writer George Bullard, the closest reporter to the scene. Several hours later, when police permitted it, Bullard joined Cornell for a half-hour chat in the bar.

Cornell told Bullard the same story that he had given his hostages, and Clark: that he had been mistreated at Wyandotte General. He also claimed to have been beaten by police.

"They gave me all kinds of dope and treated me like a dog," the hostages quoted human saying.

Asked during one of his conversations with the News whether he was to be pressed because his wife had left him, as the hostages said, Cornell replied, "Something like that."

A relative who asked to remain unidentified said Cornell and his wife had repeatedly broken up and made up during a nine-year marriage, but that she had not returned after the latest split.

Hospital spokesman Steve Lada said Cornell had been treated on Saturday and given a Monday appointment. He declined to say what was wrong with him or what had been done for him.

Police Sgt. Thomas Collins said, "He has not been beaten by anybody in this department to my knowledge."

One man passed out in the bar, Dudley said. Another — or possibly the same one — staggered and fell as he left and had to be helped away by police. At least one hostage slipped out and others were released as the hours passed, leaving five who eventually were told they could go. They decided not to, Dudley said, because, "His story's legitimate."

One hostage said Cornell had four beers and two double scotches before his brother arrived. However, Bullard said he did not appear drunk.

"They sure drank a lot. They had a real good time," laughed owner Lou Touth after the incident was over.

Holiday Cheer Spread By Goodfellows

AN ANONYMOUS group of Lubbock business and professional men and women have been making glad holidays out of sad holidays for Lubbock's needy children for 44 years.

They are the Goodfellows and this year is the 44th for their program.

There are three ways citizens of Lubbock may help: (1) You may know of a child or children, under the age of 14 living within the city limits, who might be missed at Christmas.

because of a situation or surrounding and, if so, fill out the coupon in today's Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and do it promptly. (2) You may make a contribution to the Goodfellows non-profit program which is 100 percent financed by this method, and (3) You may be able to help deliver Christmas gifts to an estimated 10,000 children on Christmas Day.

Wherever way you decide to help, your response should be mailed to Chief Goodfellow, P.O. Box 491, Lubbock, Texas, 79408.

It takes but an instant to make up one's mind to help in one or all of the three ways. But a great amount of time is needed to prepare distribution lists.

The Goodfellows have experienced persons who do the screening and checking of the coupons for needy children who may miss Christmas.

Therefore, your order of priority should be: (1) See that coupons are mailed promptly if you know of children that might be missed at Christmas. (2) Mail your contribution, and (3) List your name as available to help deliver Christmas sacks on Christmas Day.

The coupon may be found on Page 5, Sec. A.

'Texas Bigger Than Carter'

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Bill Clements, making his formal debut as governor-elect, boldly stated that Texas is "bigger than Mr. Carter" during a Monday news conference.

Taking a break from the Republican Governors Association conference, Clements stepped into a room crowded with reporters anxious to question the first Republican Texas governor in 104 years.

After noting that Texas' economy is not threatened with "downturns or recessions" to the same degree as other states, Clements was asked if any of President Carter's fiscal policies will hurt the Lone Star State.

"I think we're bigger than Mr. Carter," he replied. "Higher interest rates are not looked upon in great favor in Texas and we are not enamored with his anti-inflation program, as a matter of fact, I don't think you can name me any program that Mr. Carter has put forward that Texans look upon with favor."

Clements said he and the Democratic leaders of the state legislature — House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby — have agreed on a battle plan attacking the energy bill Carter signed into law this year that will allow for the first time federal regulation of natural gas sold within the state.

Clements, whose oil drilling supply business made him a multi-millionaire, said Texas' three-pronged attack includes challenging the constitutionality of the new energy law "all the way to the Supreme Court," devising a state law allowing Texas to tax energy leaving the state and working with the Texas Railroad Commission to cut back oil and gas production.

But while Clements claimed to have full cooperation from the Democratic-controlled state legislature in fighting Carter on energy matters, he did say he would take the legislature to court if they failed to pass legislation to allow Texas to have a 1980 presidential primary.

Asked who he would support in such a primary, Clements said he was "on the horns of four dilemmas and I'm not about to get in the middle of that kind of mess," referring to his "30-year long" personal friendship with both former Gov. John Connally and former CIA director and U.S. envoy to China George Bush, plus two "additional people" who have actively helped me and campaigned for me — Gov. (Ronald) Reagan and President (Gerald) Ford.

Clements was equally noncommittal on any plans he might have of running as a favorite son in such a primary.

"I have my work cut out for me... for the next 10 months just tending to my knitting in the state of Texas so I haven't even considered this question."

Clements, who made Texas the largest state represented at this conference, did say, however, that he was a "living example" of the type of broad-based support desperately needed by Republicans.

"I did get support and I'm talking

Times, Farber Denied Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber and his newspaper were denied Supreme Court review Monday of their contempt convictions for refusing to surrender confidential files.

The nation's highest court turned its back to arguments by Farber and the Times that the contempt-of-court convictions violated the Constitution's free-press protections and a state reporters' shield law.

Farber spent 40 days in jail and the Times paid $285,000 in fines after being found in contempt of a New Jersey judge's request for files compiled by Farber in his investigation of a series of mysterious hospital deaths.

None of the court's nine justices went on record as favoring a review of Farber's appeal, but Justice William J. Brennan, for unexplained reasons, took no part in considering the appeal.

Americans Express Support For Anti-Inflation Actions

By LOUIS HARRIS

By 57-24 percent, Americans support the drastic steps President Carter is taking to restore the value of the dollar abroad. Perhaps even more significant is the fact that by 56-27 percent, a solid majority is prepared to continue to back the stringent measures to shore up the dollar and to slow down inflation, even if it means this country will have to suffer a recession.

This commitment to a program that involves raising interest rates to higher and higher levels, and which may finally slow down economic growth and increase unemployment, must be taken as a measure of the desperation Americans feel about inflation. A clear majority is now convinced that there is no way to beat inflation without making some economic sacrifices. What people are also saying is that unless we are prepared to suffer a short recession in the near future, inflation will continue to soar and will ultimately result in a deep recession or even a depression.

These findings from a recent ABC News-Harris Survey of 1,200 adults across the nation also reflect the public's underlying frustration with a national leadership that somehow did not believe that people would respond to tough medicine.

Witness: 'Planes Didn't See Each Other'

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A former Convair flight test engineer testified Monday that the pilots of a Pacific Southwest Airlines 727 and a private plane could not have seen each other before an in-flight collision Sept. 25 that took 144 lives.

David S. Dixon of suburban La Jolla, testifying in the first day of National Transportation Safety Board hearings into the crash in San Diego, used models of a single-engine Cessna 172 and a Boeing 727 to demonstrate what he saw as the nation's worst air disaster unfolded.

"From my impression, there was no way that either of the aircraft could have seen each other," Dixon said, adding that neither aircraft appeared to take evasive action prior to the collision three miles from Lindbergh Field. Dixon was driving on the highway east of the crash site.

Earlier, Glenn P. Grande, who also witnessed the accident while walking to work, told the board that he saw the jet "following the same flight path" as the Cessna. Grande indicated the Cessna "pulled up and banked to the left," striking the right wing of the jet.

However, Dixon and the Rev. James P. Clifford of St. Augustine High School, which was turned into a makeshift morgue and disaster headquarters after the crash, both said they saw no abrupt evasive action by the smaller plane. Clifford was at the high school with his students about five blocks away when they witnessed the crash.

Testimony in the fact-finding crash post-mortem chaired by Francis H. McAdams of the NTSB was expected to last through Friday. Information from the hearing will be sent to Washington, D.C., for further analysis and a full report is expected to be issued in three to five months, according to NTSB spokesman Edward E. Slattery Jr.

Abram N. Lehman, an air traffic controller at Miramar Naval Air Station who was one of the controllers guiding the PSA jet, said a conflict alert warning indicating the two aircraft were dangerously close to each other sounded moments before the collision. However, because both pilots had been warned that the other was in the area, and had acknowledged having each other in sight, no warning of the alert was issued to the PSA pilot.

"The conflict had been resolved," Lehman said.

Lubbock County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1, Buffalo Springs Lake, has been notified by the Texas Department of Health that the water being supplied by their system exceeds the maximum constituent level for fluoride established by the department's drinking water standards, which were promulgated as required by the "Safe Drinking Water Act," Public Law 93-523 (U.S.).

The limit for this area has been set at 1.6 milligrams of fluoride per liter of water. The samples of water from the lake system contained 2.6 milligrams of fluoride per liter. There is no immediate health hazard for drinking water containing fluoride at this level.

However, the fluoride may cause mottling (brown staining) of the teeth in children less than 14 years of age. All dentists in this area are aware of the fluoride level.

The district intends to apply to the Texas Department of Health for a variance from the fluoride requirement while it investigates available treatment techniques to lower the fluoride to allowable levels.

GOP Governors Review Performance Of Party

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Republican governors, meeting in the wake of one of their best elections in years, said Monday the party could have done a lot better if it had not taken the taxpayer revolt for granted.

Speakers at the Republican Governors Association Annual Meeting said the GOP counted on disaffected voters falling into its arms and that didn't happen.

"In old-fashioned political terms, the stage was set for people to go to the polls and 'throw the rascals out,'" said host Gov. John N. Dalton of Virginia. "Instead, many of them stayed home, and we had to settle for less than the turnover that the history of bi-elections would have predicted."

"In other words, I think the people of America were saying, 'A pox on both your houses,'" Dalton said. "We had counted on a taxpayers' revolt, but I think perhaps we didn't look enough to see why the people were concerned about the level of their taxes."

Dalton said the public isn't just angry about paying taxes but over a "frustration that their own taxes are not solving their own, or their nation's problems."

Gov. Otis R. Bowen of Indiana said the elections three weeks ago "showed the voters want something less than a meat-and-potatoes approach" to their tax problems. He agreed with Dalton that better management and more value for the tax dollar was less glamorous but more likely to be successful.

"They still made it plain they still want limits on spending. They want their money's worth," Bowen said. "We must develop plans that address the post-Proposition 13 mood of the people."

Bowen pointed out that most of the referendum proposals calling for drastic tax cuts on the order of the California Proposition 13 adopted last June failed on the November ballot, but others merely

New Politburo Member May Succeed Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP) — Konstantin U. Chernenko, who joined the Communist Party at age 20 and is a close associate of President Leonid I. Brezhnev, was promoted Monday to full membership in the party's ruling Politburo.

Western diplomats said Chernenko's rapid rise into the top echelon makes him a man to watch in party maneuvering to replace the 71-year-old Brezhnev, whose health is not strong. Chernenko's background includes work as a party propagandist. He is 67.

The Soviet news agency Tass announced Chernenko's promotion in a dispatch that said Brezhnev made a major speech to the party's full Central Committee outlining the Soviet budget and economic plan for 1979. Details of the speech were not given.

In what amounted to a substantial shift in the Kremlin leadership, the full Central Committee also removed Kirill T. Mazurov from the Politburo, which now has 13 members.

Tass said Mazurov was relieved of his duties "for reasons of health and at his request."

Western observers said Mazurov's career had been on the downgrade for the past five years, apparently because of increasing friction with Brezhnev. Mazurov, 64, had been a Politburo member since 1965.

The last person ousted from the Politburo was Nikolai V. Podgorny. He was removed in May 1977 and a month later also lost his largely ceremonial post as president. That cleared the way for Brezhnev to add the title of president to his powerful position as general secretary of the Communist Party.

Mazurov had been serving as a first deputy to Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in the economic field and was once considered a possible successor to Kosygin. But that speculation waned and his authority was diluted when Brezhnev named an associate, Nicolai A. Tikhonov, as another first deputy chairman of the government's council of ministers.

Hospital Begins Term With Profit

A-J Correspondent

CHILDRESS — Childress General Hospital is beginning a new fiscal year with a change in administrators and a profit of more than $40,000 from last year.

Administrator Pat Horn recently attended his first meeting with the board of directors since assuming his duties earlier this month, and heard auditor Russell Altmiller of Olney present a 21-page report on finances during the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30.

Altmiller praised the board for holding expenses in check to balance a year when the patient census was low. According to former administrator Bob Maynard, who resigned in October, the census average should be more than 44 percent if the facility is to show a profit.

Admissions during October averaged 38.2 of capacity. Due to the low census, the hospital lost $6,000 during October.

On the debit side of the ledger, bad debt collections for the month totaled $1,208.12.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
As a postal clerk who dislikes waste, I would like to offer the following suggestions that apply to mailing at anytime during the year, but particularly during the Christmas holidays.
Be sure your cards and other mail are addressed properly and has the zip code. Put your return address on all mail, preferably on front of envelope. It's sad to see what is obviously an expensive card that someone forgot to address. Chances are there is no identification inside either, and these must go to the dead letter office. (Then the post office gets blamed for "losing" the card.) Also your card will be returned if the addressee has moved and the card cannot be forwarded.

Seal all envelopes. It costs no more to send them sealed than unsealed. There is no chance of a card working out of a sealed envelope.
If your letter is more than one (15-cent) ounce, only 13 cents is needed for each additional ounce or fraction thereof. (Over 12 ounces it costs more.) (Right now! — Heloise)

Put an extra address card inside packages in case wrapper gets torn. Write legibly.
Hope this makes for a happier holiday for everyone! Signed — Happy Holidays

I know a lot of postmen that are going to give three cheers to you for those timely suggestions — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Do you know that there are no plums in plum pudding?
Well, I didn't know this!

My husband brought home some plums the other night and we didn't eat them all before they began to get too soft. I was afraid they were going to spoil, so I decided to make a plum pudding.

I got my cook book, opened it up to plum pudding and lo and behold! it didn't call for plums.
Why don't they call it plumless pudding?
I enjoy your column very much. — Helen

That's a very good suggestion! — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
My husband is a genius. He has fixed my sewing corner so handy, with a cabinet overhead for all my sewing goodies and a long light under it.

I also have a Lazy Susan-type thing in that cabinet with long spindles where I stack my thread spools. — Mrs. Gene Hale

THIS COLUMN is written for you... the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

AN EDITORIAL:

A Time To End The Binge

AS TIME NEARS for the next session of Congress after the first of the year, the spotlight increasingly will be focused on spending, taxes and the Carter Administration's reaction to the public outcry over both items.

Much has been made of the fact that some spirit of "tax revolt" has been sweeping the land. Any reduction in taxes necessarily means a reduction in spending. Or does it?

After Proposition 13 in California this summer, the general feeling was that the voters were in such a rebellious mood that anything that smacked of taxation was in for a hard time.

THE VERDICT in the recent voting across the nation was a somewhat mixed bag.

While opting for candidates and proposals which generally called for less spending and less taxes, there were some notable exceptions.

So, as the veteran members of Congress return, along with the newcomers, the mood of the citizens, as well as the reaction of those in Washington, will be watched closely to see what happens.

On the surface, it appears that the voters themselves finally have zeroed in on the real culprit in the inflation bugaboo. Recent surveys nationwide show that a vast majority of citizens now say unbridled federal spending is the major cause of the runaway cost of living boosts.

On the other hand, special interests groups, the minorities, ethnic groups and big labor continue to raise a hue and cry over lack of adequate social programs and aid to the unemployed.

HOW THE CARTER Administration reacts to the twin pressures—do-good social programs on the one hand that mean votes, and demands for a cut in federal spending on the other—may well determine not only whether Mr. Carter is a one-term President, but whether there is a general housecleaning in Congress the next time around.

For more than four decades now, the trend in Congress has been to tax and tax and tax, and spend and spend and spend.

To put the brakes on such socialistic thinking may well be akin to drying out a confirmed alcoholic, and then sitting up with him for a long period of time to be sure everything stays on a sober note.

It won't be easy—either for millions of persons who on one hand are demanding a cut in federal spending, and millions of others who still expect the government to look after their every need. It won't be easy, but it is something that must be done. Otherwise, the whole thing can go down the drain. The nation cannot stand another tax and tax and tax and spend and spend and spend binge.

AN EDITORIAL:

A Lamb In Wolf's Clothing

WHETHER SO-CALLED discouraged workers should be reclassified as unemployed instead of "not in the labor force," has long been a matter of contention among economists, business executives and labor leaders.

The debate promises to become even more spirited with the recent signing into law of the deceptively labeled Humphrey-Hawkins full-employment bill.

The measure carrying President Carter's signature calls for a reduction in the overall unemployment rate to 4 percent and a reduction in the inflation rate to 3 percent with both goals to be achieved by 1983.

The bill's labor and civil rights backers were forced to accept the anti-inflation target to win congressional approval of the unemployment goal.

THUS, MANY of them were disturbed when Carter seemed to give priority to the fight against inflation.

I must warn you, he told the bill's supporters at the White House signing ceremony, that our fight against inflation must succeed if we are to maintain the steady economic growth necessary to avoid an increase in unemployment and to achieve the goals in the Humphrey-Hawkins bill.

Logic assumes that the nation already is in a state of full employment and has been for some time. This premise rests on the assumption that the unemployment rate among adult male heads of household is a more accurate measure of overall joblessness.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics takes into account married women holding "second jobs," retirees working part-time, and unemployable persons who register for job openings simply to become eligible for welfare payments and food stamps.

WRITING EARLIER this month in the Wall Street Journal, Professor Peter F. Drucker of Claremont Graduate School noted that the jobless rate for adult male heads of household now stands at about 2.75 percent—a level so low as to suggest that demand for full-time labor is high and is exerting inflationary pressure on wages.

While only 40 percent of the labor force (such workers) account for some two-thirds of all hours worked," he added.

The reliability of the nation's unemployment data currently is being studied by a blue-ribbon commission set up by Congress two years ago.

If the panel recommends, as it should, major changes in the present system of gathering and evaluating employment statistics, a sharp controversy is sure to follow.

Joblessness, and how to deal with it, always has been the most prickly of political issues. Humphrey-Hawkins, like a lamb in wolf's clothing, has neither the courage nor the strength to carry out its ostensible mission.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Welfare Vs. Work

WASHINGTON—People in the Federal government are always being surprised, it seems, by things that would strike the ordinary citizen as perfectly obvious.

Consider the recent findings of a team of researchers, on contract to the government, that paying people not to work results in a loss of work incentive.

To the average person, this is roughly comparable to the disclosure that water runs downhill, but to the Federal planners it is a major revelation.

It is, in fact, the central finding of an elaborate multimillion-dollar experiment conducted in Seattle, Wash., and Denver, Colo., testing the concept of a guaranteed annual income as a replacement for the existing welfare system.

ANDREW TULLY:

Demos A Mockery

WASHINGTON—People don't understand Washington, said Elena Hess of the Self-Determination for D.C. Coalition. They think of it as the federal bureaucracy.

The comment was made after the Pennsylvania House of Representatives rejected a proposed constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia full voting representation in Congress.

The District of Columbia's problem is that it is too well understood by folks elsewhere.

Most of D.C.'s adult population of 690,000 souls work for the federal government, and the federal government would run out of the money in any contest to determine the best-liked political entity in the nation.

A TELEPHONE check across the country offered verification that this state of affairs continues unabated. Of 13 citizens polled, not one favored the amendment.

Indeed, most of them blamed the Washington bureaucracy for both inflation and the decline of moral standards in the land.

I just read that the Department of Agriculture says food costs will increase by 8 or 10 percent next year, said a woman voter. "What kind of a place is Washington that it can let things like that happen?"

She was oversimplifying, of course. Agriculture was merely predicting that the price of grub would go up, not demanding that it do so. But she was not off the mark by declaring that inflation is the federal government's fault.

THE AMENDMENT requires ratification by 38 states to become part of the Constitution. So far, only New Jersey has ratified. California and Delaware sent the amendment back to committee for public hearings.

Pennsylvania's rejection was a surprise. The amendment was defeated, 105 to 89, in a legislature controlled by lame-duck Democrats.

And when the newly-elected legislature convenes in January it will be controlled by a Republican Party that is short on liberal members. Moreover, 25 Democrats voted against ratification.

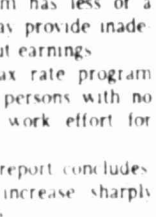

There are, of course, other reasons the amendment is suspect in so many states. A Pennsylvania legislator named Jack Seltzer, a Republican, feared that if D.C. got Congressional voting representation Pennsylvania could lose two of its own House seats after reapportionment based on the 1980 census.

ANOTHER GOP concern is that both D.C. senators would be Democrats in a city where a Republican couldn't be elected dog catcher. Republicans are in tough enough shape in Congress without the automatic addition of two more opposition seats in the Senate.

Less political perhaps is the fear in rural areas of any increase in big-city domination of Congress. "They're asking us to add two more New York City votes on Capitol Hill," said a Nebraska farmer. "The hell with that."

But overriding everything else is the fact that opponents of the amendment just don't trust Washington, D.C.

The federal bureaucracy already has too much power over Congressional law-making, and the situation would go from bad to worse if the bureaucrats were given voting rights on the Hill. And a profligate, free-spending Washington has nobody to blame but itself.

Make It A Single

STATISTICS BE hanged, there's at least one husband out there who says that—even with alimony payments—he came out ahead when the "little woman" moved out and left him with the kids.

Not only is he saving money every week, he's gotten so handy with a dust cloth and broom he may never go the marriage route again.

This is one man's answer to a recent column that presumed to speculate on what a wife is really worth (in pennies, not pearls).

When a young mother dies, according to most recent statistics, it could cost her widower up to $20,000 a year to replace her as cook, nursemaid, housekeeper, etc.

NO WAY WRITES a reader from Ohio. Anything Mom can do, Pop can do better. He can even, with food up there in double-digit territory, save on groceries.

Trouble is, when I tried to call him up to ask a lot of personal questions (like how old the kids were, what kind of meals he serves, who does the Christmas cards and who waits home for the repairmen), he turned out to have an unlisted number.

Still, on the chance that he speaks for other single parents, I pass his story along.

And, although he signed his name, address and zip code, I am granting him anonymity, in case some outraged housewife decides to show him several other ways to use a broom.

"TO BEGIN WITH," he writes, "I'm the first one to admit that girls are darling, soft, cuddly, lovely, kind, understanding, etc. But please don't come on with that old stuff that they are handy, or that it costs a lot of money to do without them."

Let's take his solution for housework first.

"Since we decided to call it quits, after 20 years, I have been keeping one son all the time and a grown daughter part of the time. And I have discovered that, in a three-bedroom home, I can do all the heavy cleaning, as well as the washing, on a Saturday morning.

In the afternoon, I do yardwork—the lawn plants, etc.—and then go shopping for groceries. This sometimes takes most of the day, but Saturday night and Sunday are free.

"I RISE AT 6 a.m., get the boy-child off to school, full of whatever kind of hearty breakfast, and clean up the dishes. Maybe I put a load in the washer, and sometimes I put dinner in the slow cooker.

I then proceed to work, generally spend a nine-hour day there, and come home to a quiet evening of doing whatever I enjoy. Maybe, in the middle of a lousy TV program, I'll do a little dusting.

I do send my shirts out. And I did try a cleaning woman a couple of times, but driving her back and forth took up nearly as much time as it did to do the same amount of cleaning myself.

You'll never convince this fellow that the biggest bargain in the household budget is the "little woman."

"I SAVE AT least a third, or $20 a week on food. We now have only one car, so I save $40 there. No cigarettes to buy, another $6. No spouse insurance, $5, no beauty shop, $12.50, and no cleaning woman to help, $20.

My wife didn't like to iron, so we sent out her dresses as well as my shirts for $10 every week. Dinners out (once in the middle of the week and once on weekends) because I like to get out once in a while, came to $45.

Her clothes, which admittedly are hard to figure, usually cost around $20 a week, her night out with the girls, $8 every week, lunch with Mary, $4.50 cosmetics, etc., $2.50 and pocket money, $20.

Altogether, he writes, he lost a wife and gained $213.50 a week. In after-tax money.

"I THINK MY ex would agree that I gave her a more-than-fair settlement. I have sent it to her cheerfully for quite a few years, and I still figure I'm money ahead.

He figures he's ahead on a few other things, too.

"No more I've got a headache. I'm tired, it's too early, it's too late, you haven't been nice to me lately. Oh, God, not in the morning, you'll mess up my hair, you can have it for Christ, mass, wait till your birthday, you'll wake the dog, you'll wake the children, you'll wake the neighbors, my back is out, I had too much to drink, I didn't have enough to drink, etc."

"NO MORE breakfast while listening to the tirade of arguments with children or why don't I get a better job? Dinner—ditto, ditto, ditto.

"No more unmade beds. I've been so busy, dishes in the sink (I went to lunch with Mary, no more calls to my office (Your son is sick, please pick him up at school, I'm not dressed ...

"No more 'It was just a tiny tick on the front fender. The garage door wasn't all the way up. We should have that fixed.' What did you expect, he takes after you ...

"And that's how one man is making it as a single. Not that as a card-carrying member of the housewives union, I'd like this to get back to Old Dad.

And I'd still like to know who did the car pools and who struggles with the Christmas card lists.

Network Hype Jockeys Win Place In Shows

WASHINGTON—In case you haven't noticed, the networks are spending more and more time plugging their future shows and less time telling you what is going on at the moment.

Anyone who has watched a televised football game is conscious of how sports announcers are forced to hype other network programs that have nothing to do with the game.

"FOURTH DOWN and a yard to go, Dallas has decided to try a 32-yard field goal. If they succeed they will tie the score."

"Fred, there's beautiful Rachel Carberry of the HYP network's smash series, Ripoff From Star Wars. I hear next Thursday's episode is a dilly."

"You heard right, Harold. What time is it on?"

"Eight o'clock in the East and West, and 7 Central time."

"The Redskins have called time out to give the Dallas kicker more time to think about the field goal."

"WELL, IF THEY want to think about something, I might remind the Cowboys that next Saturday HYP Sports will bring you live, on most of these stations, the Orange Bowl Demolition Derby, the Grand Prix grudge car racing match between Paul Newman and Dolly Parton."

"There goes a penalty flag, Dallas has taken too long in the huddle."

"Speaking of huddles, Fred, on Friday evening, three weeks from tonight, Charlie's Angels get themselves into a huddle and have to be rescued by Bill Cosby. It's all in fun right here on HYP."

"I THINK DALLAS is ready to try for a field goal from their own 45."

"Sam, I hear your next show has to do with a race horse who tries to jump off the bridge."

"That's right, Harold. He's despondent because his jockey is riding another horse in the Kentucky Derby, and he decides he has nothing to live for."

"HAROLD, WHILE YOU were talking to Sam, Dallas made the field goal and then kicked off to the Redskins' Tony Green, who ran 90 yards for a touchdown.

"Fred, before Dallas scores, or loses the ball, I think we should remind everyone that HYP network's presidential election coverage is only two years away, and we advise everyone to stay tuned to this station for complete up-to-the-minute results by the best political reporters in the business. We have spared no expense to bring you the most exciting election night ever."

"Back to you, Fred."

"THERE'S AN INJURED man on the field, Dave, you were telling me about a mini-series you're appearing on in 1981."

"It's sort of a white man's version of 'Roots.' I play a slave owner who goes back to England to discover where my ancestors came from, and what got us into slavery in the first place.

"I find an old man, who lives in Yorkshire, who remembers my grandfather as the biggest bigot in the county."

"We won't miss that, will we, Harold?"

"It depends on whether we have a football game or not, Fred. And speaking of football, what's the score of this game?"

"I HAVE NO IDEA, but next week's contest between Oakland and Pittsburgh should be a beauty."

"Not to mention the show that precedes it, King Tut Meets the Incredible Hulk."

"So it's good night from all of us here in Dallas. See you in Pittsburgh next week, or if you can't make it then be sure to be with us on Jan. 12, 1980, for the Lake Placid Winter Olympics."

Q "HOW DID the game of tennis come to be scored in such an oddball way?"

A. Most theorists think it goes back to the Middle Ages when something called the sexagesimal system was used. In money, in weights and measures, etc.

It's based on a round total of 60 points divisible into groups of 15. As on a clock. Between 1310 and 1410 in France, coins there were put out in such denominations.

The most common silver piece was worth 60 sous. Each of its four parts were worth 15 sous. A lot of betting went on. The earliest tennis was scored by the money won and lost, it's believed. Later, the 45 was abbreviated to 40, and the 60 was simply recognized as end of game, or game.

A. Remember Pearl Harbor? There.

Police researchers studied 1,000 felonies. They learned: It takes the victim an average of 6-minutes-30-seconds to report the crime, after looking over the scene and contacting relatives or whomever first. Takes the police dispatcher 2-minutes-50-seconds to get officers underway. Takes those officers 5-minutes-30-seconds to show up at the scene.

Agent Testifies Davis Wary Of Surveillance Van

A-J News Services
HOUSTON — An FBI agent testified Monday he recognized Cullen Davis as he circled a surveillance van moments before the millionaire defendant met with informant David McCrory.
 "I could see a figure move by the window at the rear of the van," special agent Joe Gray told the jury in Davis' murder-for-hire trial.

"... I saw Cullen Davis walk by that window."
 Prosecutors contend that Davis approached, inspected and rapped on the van because he was suspicious that someone might be monitoring the pivotal meeting with McCrory.
 "I think it showed a guilty state of mind," prosecutor Jack Strickland said outside the courtroom. "There is no other reasonable explanation."

Defense lawyer Phil Burleson disagreed, saying: "I think further evidence would show Cullen's frame of mind at the time... and it will justify why he took those actions."
 Burleson added, however, "I just don't feel at liberty to tell you what that justification is."

Gray testified he and three colleagues videotaped the Aug. 20 meeting in which Davis allegedly gave McCrory $25,000 for a phantom hit man.
 Investigators recovered the purported blood money from McCrory several minutes after the encounter in the parking lot of a Fort Worth restaurant.

McCrory, 40, a one-time friend and employee of Davis, told previously how he cooperated with the FBI to gather evidence against Davis in an alleged scheme to kill a Fort Worth judge then hearing Davis' divorce case.
 A composite audio and video tape of that meeting, which lies at the heart of the state's case, has now been seen and heard by the jury several times — always over defense objections.

Gray gave the jury a running commentary on the surveillance operation, including the fact that Davis almost torpedoes it before it began.

"I knew he was coming," Gray said. "There was a reasonable certainty that Mr. Davis was going to be in the vicinity of the van."

The Dallas agent told how he and his comrades hurriedly camouflaged the monitoring equipment, "to withstand somebody making a close examination of the van."

At one point, he said, "I changed the arrangement of the drapery," referring to the curtains covering the windows on the undercover vehicle.
 "I rearranged the videotape gear some few seconds after he (Davis) left the vicinity of the van," he said, explaining why the tape did not show Davis' car pulling alongside McCrory's.

The jurors once again saw and heard the composite fruits of that Sunday morning episode and Gray testified that

Pilot Testifies In Thorpe Trial

MINEHEAD, England (AP) — An airline pilot testified Monday he was hired to kill a male model who claimed to have had a homosexual relationship with former Liberal Party leader Jeremy Thorpe, but lost his nerve.

Andrew Newton testified as a prosecution witness in proceedings to decide whether Thorpe, Liberal leader from 1967 to 1978; merchant banker David Holmes; company director John Le Mesurier; and club owner George Deakin should stand trial on charges of conspiracy to kill male model Norman Scott. Thorpe also faces the charge of inciting Holmes to murder Scott.

Newton told magistrates court he was promised 10,000 pounds — about $20,000 — in 1975 to kill Scott by Deakin, Le Mesurier and Holmes but only killed Scott's dog, an offense for which he was sentenced to two years in jail in 1976.

In cross-examination, he admitted he found "difficulty in distinguishing between fact and fantasy to do with this case" and when asked if he had not "told a fair number of lies over the years" about the case, he replied: "I am as good as any politician."

He also said he had received $8,000 from the London Evening News for stories about the case, $8,000 from the German magazine Der Spiegel, $4,000 from The American Broadcasting Corp., $1,000 from CBS and $1,200 from the London Daily Express.

FOOD PRODUCTION
ROME (AP) — World food production this year has increased faster than in 1977, mainly because of increased output in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization said Monday. Food output was expected to increase by between 3 and 3.5 percent in 1978, compared to only 2.2 percent in 1977, the office of the Director-General said in its annual report to the FAO council.

For the price of this pretty begonia, you can visit your Mother Long Distance.

And, it's much more fun than talking to your plants.

If your mother lives out-of-town, you'd be amazed at how little it costs to keep in touch. Even if she lives as far as nineteen hundred miles away, you can visit her by Long Distance for just $3.80, and talk 10 minutes. (8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday-Friday, dialed One-Plus, out-of-state, tax not included.) That's about the cost of this inexpensive houseplant. And it's much more fun than talking to a begonia. Isn't there someone you'd like to call right now... just to keep in touch?

Urban Leaders Warned Of Tight Budget

ST. LOUIS (AP) — President Carter, declaring that "no aspect of government will be sacred," warned the nation's top urban leaders Monday that the next federal budget will be "very, very tight" and that they will have to exercise restraint to help fight inflation. "All of you have been through the budget cycle yourself, and you know what it is to face unlimited demands with limited resources," he told the board of directors of the National League of Cities.

In an earlier speech before the league's annual convention, Carter pledged "to do this without starving useful programs." He said repeatedly that military spending will be scrutinized as carefully as domestic programs, but he did not say military spending would be cut.

Carter is committed to cutting his 1980 federal budget by between $15 billion and $20 billion to achieve a federal deficit of no more than $30 billion. White House officials have said previously that military spending would not be cut, raising concerns among city officials.

Carter left little doubt that urban programs will be reduced. City leaders are anticipating these cuts, and Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles told the president: "This year is going to be critical for us because we have pledged that we will work with you and that we will take our fair share of cuts."

The League of Cities says it supports Carter's anti-inflation strategy, including budget cuts, as long as it does not lead to an economic downturn that would substantially increase unemployment. Carter, addressing that concern, asserted that, "I do not anticipate a recession or, of course, a depression. No economic adviser who works with me believes there will be a recession in 1979."

Carter's speech, before almost 6,000 persons, won a polite reception.

"The gospel of austerity is accepted, but not necessarily embraced," said one unidentified city council member from South Carolina as he left the convention hall.

Carter then went into a 15-minute briefing for leaders of the municipal lobbying group, where he said his next budget, due for release in January, remains in the formative stages. He mentioned no programs specifically, but said, "The 1980 budget will be very, very tight."

"It will disappoint those who do not take inflation seriously. It will disappoint those who think only of next year, not the next decade. And it will disappoint those who expect constantly expanding federal aid — and a constantly expanding number of new programs and agencies."

Carter exhorted the local officials to some anti-inflation warfare of their own. "The single most important thing you can do is to buy only from firms that certify they are working within the voluntary wage and price guidelines. Also, he said, city officials should adhere to those guidelines themselves in negotiating wages and setting fees.

"I don't need to tell you how inflation affects your cities. You can see it every week in purchasing invoices, on utility bills, higher salaries.

Inflation cuts into maintenance and capital funds and with restricted budgets your streets, buildings and parks fall into greater disrepair," Carter said.

Ignace Paderewski, Polish pianist and statesman, made his New York debut in Carnegie Hall in 1891.

Nations Hedge On Refugee Promises

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — European nations are hedging on earlier commitments to take Vietnamese refugees from the freighter Hai Hong, which could mean more than 1,000 of them will wind up in the United States, diplomats here said Monday.

Malaysia says the United States agreed to take any of the 2,500 refugees on the ship who cannot find havens in other countries. Most of the refugees are ethnic Chinese.

The tiny, dilapidated Hai Hong anchored off Port Klang, 20 miles west of here, on Nov. 9. Malaysia said since the refugees bought their way out of Vietnam they were not true refugees and refused to admit them to transit camps.

It threatened to tow the ship back out to sea of no other country would take the refugees.

So Canada said it would take 600 and France's deputy foreign minister told the National Assembly in Paris that France would take up to 1,000.

Belgium said it would take up to 150

Warner Named Winner Of Virginia Vote

RICHMOND (AP) — The tight U.S. Senate election in Virginia was officially resolved Monday with the certification of John Warner as winner — 20 days after the election.

Warner, husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor, was certified the winner by the State Board of Elections. Warner, a Republican, defeated Andrew Miller by a margin of 4,721 votes, or four-tenths of a percent of the more than 1.2 million cast.

The official canvass gave Warner 613,232 votes — 50.1 percent — to 608,511 — 49.7 percent — for Miller. The other two-tenths of a percent went to write-in candidates.

Warner "unequivocally, but with humility" claimed victory at a news conference in Williamsburg. He and Miss Taylor were there to attend the Republican Governors' Conference.

Miller, however, did not concede defeat. And a spokesman left open the possibility of a recount request or appeal to the U.S. Senate, citing several vote discrepancies the Miller campaign had found that did not show up in the official count.

Under Virginia law, a candidate may seek a recount if there is less than a 1 percent difference in the vote margin.

Joan Mahan, secretary of the elections board, said the official canvass was derived from a computer count, plus hand tabulations. The totals, she said, were "checked and rechecked and checked again."

"I assure you these figures are as accurate as we can possibly get them," she said.

Carter Names New Chief Speechwriter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Aronson, 32, who has served for more than two years as Vice President Walter F. Mondale's speechwriter, became President Carter's chief speechwriter Monday.

Aronson, a native of Rye, N.Y., succeeds James Fallows, who is becoming Washington editor of Atlantic Monthly magazine.

Before joining Mondale's staff, Aronson worked for the United Mine Workers for four years in public information posts. Previously, he was a journalist in Beckley, W.Va.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time to plan ways by which you can put in motion your most talented expression, whether in relation to vacation plans or in personal pleasures. Be on the alert for putting them in effect soon.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You get fine ideas now how to use more advanced methods so that you can become more successful in the future. Some special thought for a loved one brings good results. Be wiser to the way of others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You could suddenly meet one who can be of assistance to you in a new venture you have started. Show appreciation for any associates you may have. Try not to make enemies.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you have a health problem, take care of it properly now. Good day to show more devotion to loved one. Do nothing that could jeopardize your reputation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Finish a project you have and bring it into the public eye. Don't forget to buy a thoughtful gift for a loved one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Doing something unusual that will make those who live with you happier, is wise now. You understand how to have more success with a new interest you have. Think along very practical lines.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take time out to contact associates who have new plans to talk over with you. Later get into favorite hobbies with friends. Avoid one who is pessimistic and could make you feel unhappy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to improve your financial status now because you have good, practical ideas. Formulate a plan early and then follow through.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an opportunity to do something unusual and important, even though it may not seem so at the time you are doing it. Be with talented individuals and have fascinating talks.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you spend some time in quiet meditation, you have fine intuitive promptings. Then you know better how to handle important matters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you listen to what unusual people have to say, you can utilize ideas profitably. Be with a small group of individuals in the evening for sociability.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Ideal day to add to your prestige in the outside world and to gain benefits in company of bigwigs. You can do much to expand in your career, too. Work up a greater enthusiasm for whatever you do.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have several avenues through which you can advance and grow, so pick the best of these early and follow through. Be careful of those who are in weird professions.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have many talents and should therefore have a fine, varied course of education to equip for a most successful life. The field of research will very likely be uppermost here. Teach him to be broad minded, otherwise it will diminish the potential here.

Families To Get Utility Aid

Low income families in Lubbock can receive help in paying their utility bills this winter thanks to a federal grant to the City of Lubbock.

Assistance is available to help pay electric and gas bills if the bills are no more than 30 days past due, said Madeline Amalia, special projects coordinator for the city's Community Services Department.

Applicants must document their eligibility by producing check stubs or proof of earnings, if they are employed, or Social Security check stubs or identification cards from any welfare agency program.

An unemployed applicant must submit evidence he or she is seeking a job through the Texas Employment Commission.

Lows: 1-9, 25-27, 53-56, 81-85 — A discouraging time

INTELLECTUAL
Circulate: 9, 25, 42, 58, 75, 91 — Awareness may prevail
Highs: 10-24, 43-57, 76-90 — You are thinking clearly
Lows: 1-8, 26-41, 59-74, 92-95 — Hazy thoughts

Peter Sellers' permanent numbers are 34, 45, 23

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be B for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Parents Of Homosexuals Form Organization

HOUSTON (UPI) — Like many mothers, Annela Harrison for a while hoped her son would abandon his homosexual life. Now she has accepted it and hopes to show other parents how to do the same for their children.

Mrs. Harrison said her master's degree training in psychology helped her intellectually to accept son Patrick McIlvain's homosexuality.

"It took me longer to accept it emotionally because even though I knew the chances of his ever becoming 'straight' were practically nil, I secretly would think, 'Well, now, maybe some day.'"

"I never felt this was a terrible thing, but I felt at that time that it was impossible for gay people to ever be happy. I have learned an awful lot."

At age 60, she has organized a group called Parents of Gays to try to help parents deal with a difficult adjustment and to improve understanding and acceptance — of themselves and their homosexual children.

The group has met twice and has yet to attract fathers. She hopes to change that and is consulting similar groups in other cities for advice.

Meanwhile, she counts her small human successes.

"The first meeting, there was one other mother and myself," Mrs. Harrison said. "This was her first opportunity to talk to another mother in 20 years. The last meeting there were five mothers there."

"We have been so brainwashed about sweeping this kind of thing under the rug as we have been taught throughout the years not to talk about sex at all, not even heterosexuality."

She has persuaded a practicing psychologist, Dr. Muriel Flake, to help and some of the homosexual children have joined in.

"I hope eventually to include the friends of gays because there are so many and I think we can't accomplish our purpose without the help of friends in the community."

Ultimately, she hopes to work to improve community attitudes toward homosexuals.

"First and foremost, is to get the parents together who have never been together before, who have never talked outside the family about the fact that they have a son or daughter who is gay," she said.

"Then, to talk about how this affected them because it has been a very traumatic, very devastating experience for many people."

"Then, I would hope that our sights could be turned toward doing something to help change the way our immediate community sees the problem," Mrs. Harrison said.

Among the misconceptions, she said, is "prosecuting gays do not mean they're not interested in making other people become gay. It just isn't that way."

McIlvain, 30, is pleased with the group. "I think it's great," he said. "Through understanding we get the better of things. Maybe it would alter a lot of our preconceptions, show that we are in reality that different from anyone else."

Career Day Planned On Tech Campus

Representatives from 25 state, federal and city agencies will be available to Texas Tech University students on Dec. 5 to answer about government employment.

The fourth annual Government Career Day will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Ballroom of the University Center.

Topics will include Civil Service employment requirements, availability of positions for liberal art students, specific major areas of education in demand and application information for summer jobs.

More information may be obtained by calling Patricia Romo, career counselor at Texas Tech.

Routine Decisions Taken

Lubbock County Commissioners were reluctant to resolve any but the most routine items on their agenda Monday.

Carried over motions that Dover Elevator Service be contracted for service and repairs to the eight elevators in county-owned buildings throughout Lubbock, and that National Linen Services be awarded the new contract for uniform service for courthouse personnel. In other action, Jack Strong Sr. was awarded a Public Weigher Bond.

Other matters were discussed, but no action was taken.

A request by Justice of the Peace L.J. Bialack for an additional secretary was deliberated, but no action was taken, pending further study.

Southwestern Bell Telephone representative John Chambers was present for a discussion of possible alternatives to the county's current phone system, but commissioners were not even convinced a new system is warranted. It was decided that Southwestern Bell will conduct efficiency tests on the present system, and action will be taken later.

Skip Crawford, President of the Lubbock Zoological Society solicited commissioner's endorsement of the society's efforts to build a zoo in Lubbock, but commissioners declined endorsement on the grounds that it is against their policy to do so.

The county commissioners will take applications for county tax assessor-collector, to fill the gap which will be left by retiring Russell Hardin, until Monday, Dec. 1. Commissioners will meet the following Tuesday to consider the applications and decide on Hardin's successor.

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON MICHAEL REED
NEW YORK — The New York Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences has instituted an art exhibit program to honor the artists and designers of the TV serials.

Each month at the Academy Art Gallery one of the Manhattan-based serial productions is spotlighted with an exhibit including paintings, photos, designs and graphics. "All My Children" was the kick-off show with an exhibit in October that included the work of scenic designer Marvin Reiss, costume designer Saul Bolasni, lighting directors Mel Handelsman and Bill Itkin, scenic artist Leo Danna, makeup expert Sylvia Lawrence, hairstylist Michael C. Huddle and graphics designer Hy Bley.

Last week the Academy previewed the "Another World" exhibit which features the work of costume designer Lewis Brown and scenic art director Robert Franklin.

Lewis and Franklin's sketches and photo reproductions at the Academy Gallery prove that they are the best in their respective fields. But those viewers who watch the elaborately sumptuous settings and costumes of "AW" already know that. So does an appreciative cast. Unlike the "AMC" exhibit which attracted only one performer at the preview showing, the tribute to Lewis and Franklin attracted at least half of the 40-plus "AW" cast list.

Among those perusing the exhibit were Brian Murray (Dan Shearer) who had to dash off to catch the curtain for his starring role in Broadway's "Da." Dorothy Lyman (Gwen Frame) revealed she's seeking financial backing for "Winter Solstice," a play written by one of her beaus. Irene Dailey (Liz Matthews) was still mourning the death of her brother, film actor Dan Dailey, with whom she began her career as his dancing partner. "But the night before Dan died," said Irene, "a new little Dailey was born to the son and wife of my other brother. So life goes on and the cycle repeats itself."

Anne Meacham (Louise Goddard) had just returned from two weeks visiting London theatre friends. Tim Holcomb (Jamie Frame) sported a week's beard growth to "test whether hair would grow on my face." Beverly Penberthy (Pat Randolph) was home entertaining conductor Pierre Boulez, but a beloved former "AW" castmember, Virginia Dwyer, who played Mary Matthews, dropped by to pay tribute to the geniuses of Lewis and Franklin.

If you're in the New York area, call the Academy offices for exhibit hours in the gallery. As Natalie Walker, costume designer for "As the World Turns" (which will be featured in January) was heard to exclaim, "This is going to be a tough act to follow."

SHORT TAKES: "SUDS," A COMEDIC soap "opera" about soap operas, with a special focus on music, will open at the Gallery Theatre in New York City on November 30. Leslie Ann Ray (ex-Donna Davis on "Search For Tomorrow") wrote the book, music and lyrics, and secured the services of "Searcher's" Marie Cheatham (Stephanie Wyatt), John James (Tom Bergman) and Billie Lou Watt (Elle Bergman) for this scintillating expose of what goes on behind the making of a TV afternoon serial. "I'll probably never get work in the business again," says Leslie, "but the chance to see Billie Lou do a tap-dance routine is worth it."

ON "GUIDING LIGHT" the role of Hillary Kincaid will be recast because actress Linda McCullough decided to return to California where she's a hot property in nighttime TV guest roles. Her longtime boyfriend also lives there and Linda couldn't stand being apart from her dearie. From the same show, David Bailey (ex-Russ Matthews on "Another World") subbed for an ailing Chris Bernau in the role of Alan Spaulding. And Cynthia Bostick (ex-Connie Saxton on "For Richer, For Poorer") filled in for Cindy Pickett as Jackie Marler until Cindy wrapped up a filming commitment, Roger Vadim's "Nightgames."

VICTORIA MALLORY (Leslie Prentiss), Jaime Lyn Bauer (Laurie Prentiss),

Jeanne Cooper (Kay Thurston), Brenda Dickson (Jill Foster), and Erica Hope (Nikki Reed) of "The Young and the Restless" modeled fashions from the posh Beverly Hills boutique, Giorgios, on the syndicated "Everyday" variety program. The boutique furnishes most of the female togs on the soaps. After their appearance the gals were quickly labeled "Conboy's Angels" after "Y & R" executive producer John Conboy.

Tune in tomorrow to see why they are no angels on "Y & R."

At Pat Walker's Figure Salon Memories Become Realities!

Mable Bailey of Columbus
Went from a Size 10 to Size 7.

After years of exercise and dieting I had never been able to go below 125 pounds. Now thanks to Pat Walker's I am finally losing those extra pounds and extra inches - especially in my thighs, which I had always had a problem with.

I have more pep, and energy, my circulation is so much better and my skin looks clearer.

Even with my busy schedule in my school of Modeling and Fashion Merchandising I still have time for my treatments on the passive exercise unit - there's no disrobing and it does not even muss my hair - and there is complete privacy.

As you can see I am pretty sold on the treatments. Even when I reach my perfect figure, firmed and toned, I won't want to stop going because it makes me feel so good.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH
BY THE LATE GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
IN COLLABORATION WITH PAUL E. RUBLE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please discuss cluster headache. I went from doctor to doctor and none recognized this as my problem. I finally got a diagnosis and my doctor has me on antihistamines, which seem to be helping. I've been told that special suppositories might help even more. Can you explain? — Mrs. B.D.

This kind of headache has until recently been more of a male problem. That might explain why it was not recognized. The victim usually is an aggressive, hard-driving, sometimes hard-drinking man whose work and lifestyle keep him in a state of tension. As women with that emotional make-up are coming themselves in "male" occupations they will begin showing the same symptoms. The word cluster describes the attacks, which are in clusters of 10 or 12 a day. These king-size attacks fall into the general category of vascular headaches, those in which blood circulation disturbance is a factor. They're also called Horton's or histamine headaches, a reference to the release of histamine in the body that causes the blood vessel changes.

The headaches usually occur on one side of the head or face with reddening and tearing of the eyes on the headache side. They may occur following a drinking bout, so alcohol is best avoided. In fact, for some that may be all the treatment required. There is not the nausea or vomiting found with migraine. Ergotamine, a standard drug for this, acts by inhibiting the action of the body's histamine. For many, suppositories are more effective than the pills. The rectal suppositories are more easily absorbed and avoid interactions with stomach juices.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Seven years ago my husband had prostate gland treatment. Now the same doctor advises him he has a slow-growing malignancy, which needs no treatment. We thought early treatment was a must for such growths. A friend of his is getting X-ray, chemotherapy and diethylstilbestrol for this. Is this doctor correct, or should he see another one? — T.J.H.

There must be a serious misunderstanding here. Certainly, any malignancy requires prompt treatment. Get a clarification from this doctor or find a different one. My booklet, "The Peaky Prostate," discusses what is done for various disorders of this gland. You may want to read it with your husband. Send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Your Good Health, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, newspaper.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Speaking of biofeedback, which you were in a recent column regarding treatment of headaches and other pains, just how is it done and how expensive is it? — Mrs. P.Z.

It refers to the feedback or biological signals from muscles and nerves that may appear in pain production. The patient is hooked up to an electronic device that displays visually the actual physical events of pain. His job is to attempt to alter these events consciously. Success is measured by changing electrical impulses. A patient with hypertension may consciously lower his blood pressure reading and see this being done before his eyes.

Costs vary, of course, but about $15 an hour is in the ballpark. The machines aren't terribly complicated, the simpler ones costing between $300 and $400. Someday, with increased use, they may be available more cheaply. A rehabilitation center near you should be able to give you more reliable local figures.

One word of caution. It is always important to find the source of any headache or other pain. Biofeedback will never change the causes. In this respect it is the same as treating pain with aspirin or other drugs without seeking the cause. That can be counterproductive.

am not nauseous, just wide awake and usually very hungry. My husband now has this and he drinks far more and more often than I do. — S.M.

Alcohol is a notorious dropper of blood sugar. Your wakefulness and hunger are both signs of a low sugar level. It may take a few hours to appear after drinking. Meanwhile the sleep-inducing quality of the alcohol are being felt. Since your husband drinks more than you do, that effect would last longer than yours. A protein snack after a night of merry-making might help.

Dear Doctor: I have never had an unqualified answer to this. I had a hysterectomy with everything removed except the ovaries. Is a Pap smear test possible and necessary? — B.T.

Possible and advisable.

Headaches! You can beat them. Write To Your Good Health, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611 for a copy of his booklet, "How to Tame Headaches." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm going wacko trying to figure out the relationships in our family. The big problem is what is Bob to Tim? Sheldon and Fran married and have a son named Tim. They got divorced. Phil and Louise married and have a son named Bob. They got divorced. Phil and Fran married and have a son named Arthur. They split. Tim and Bob are stepbrothers, while Tim's mother Fran is married to Bob's father Phil.

What is Tim to Bob after Fran and Bill divorce? Remember, they have a stepbrother in common. Can you figure this out? — Dodo

Dear Dodo: I'm not about to try. By the time you read this, Sheldon and Fran could be remarried.

Dear Ann Landers: A few years back I read a letter in your column from a person who tried to lose weight by making herself vomit after eating. I was once obsessed with both my figure and gluttony. I began retreating to the bathroom after eating rampages to upchuck. This was the least of my problems. I was a college student at the time and heavily into drugs and alcohol.

Each time I found myself hanging over the toilet bowl, the fear of self-destruction consumed me. I realized I was sick, but knew neither the cause nor the solution to the mad habit to which I had become addicted.

Near the end of last year I had a life-changing experience. I asked the living God, Jesus Christ, to come into my heart and live there as my Lord and Savior. By that time I was an alcoholic and had been fired from my job. At the age of 23 I was ready for the junk pile.

Ann, a miracle took place in my life. As I confessed, the guilt slid away and so did the problems that were ruining my life. I feel better for having confessed this to you. Please tell others that faith in Jesus can do what psychiatry can't.

— Reborn

Dear Reborn: I am always happy for people who succeed in overcoming an overwhelming problem—and you certainly have. If Jesus was the answer for you—wonderful! I always suggest professional help for those who have emotional problems but I'm printing your letter as a testimonial that religion, too, can in some instances effect a cure.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing in hope I can help my best friend. I'll call her Jennie. She has long, beautiful blonde hair. Her mother is always yelling at her for washing her hair too much and brushing it too often.

A few months ago Jennie's mom started something new. Every time Jennie does something her mom doesn't like (stays out too late, doesn't clean her room right or hangs on the phone too long) her mom cuts off an inch or two of Jennie's hair. The poor girl is scared to death that she'll end up bald when her report card comes out. She is about to flunk geometry. Is this fair? I feel so sorry for her I could cry. Please say something to help. — Trouble In Troy

Dear Trouble: That mother is sadistic. She needs professional help and I am dead serious. I'll go along with being grounded, but hair-cutting, NO!

Confused about what's right and what's wrong in today's "new morality"? You're not alone. If you want honest, down-to-earth information on your sex questions, read Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With Self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. discarding and wound up with just two tricks for down seven.

At table two, East made the super brilliant lead of the six of clubs at trick two. South could do nothing better than to put up his queen and it held.

Now South ran off dummy's diamonds, took a heart finesse and wound up with 12 tricks because the defenders had each chucked a heart.

A typically British comment was that the hand might have broken some sort of record since one declarer made 10 more tricks than another.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Both teams in the finals of England's Gold Cup used weak notrumps, although when each South opened one notrump he had really carried the weak bid a trifle too far. Each North went right to three notrump and each West opened the 10 of spades.

Each East took his ace and then they parted ways. At table one East played his ace of clubs. West dropped the jack, a play that clearly denied the queen so East led his jack of spades. The defense had six spades and a club in, somehow or other poor South got confused in

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My wife and I are thinking of putting $24,000 in a six-year savings certificate at our local bank. The certificate would pay 7 1/2 percent interest and could not be cashed without a penalty before the end of the six-year term.

A. Yes. The rules of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC) are explicit on this. If the owner of a savings certificate issued by a bank dies, the certificate can be cashed without penalty. These rules also apply to jointly-owned bank savings certificates. If one of the owners passes on, the certificate can be redeemed without penalty.

The Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp. (FSLIC) has similar rules for savings certificates issued by savings and loan associations with FSLIC coverage. Savings certificates at banks and S&Ls can also be redeemed before maturity without penalty when they are in an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) or Keogh Plan and the owner becomes "disabled" — meaning that he or she can no longer work and earn a living.

Along with many other people, I feel that the penalty should be waived for all savings certificate holders who become disabled — not just those with IRA or Keogh accounts. But neither the FDIC nor the FSLIC agrees with this idea.

The penalty for early redemption of a savings certificate involves both the loss of three months' interest and the reduction of interest for the rest of the time the certificate was in force to the regular savings account rate.

Q. My husband could never save for our later years. So, I skimmed and saved a $7,000 nestegg which he knows nothing about. It is in my safe deposit box but is doing nothing there. Is there any way this money could earn interest, without him finding out?

A. About the only solution I can see to your problem is to buy municipal bonds, the interest on which is not subject to federal income tax, or shares of a mutual fund which invests in municipal bonds and pays tax-free dividends.

The hang-up is that individual municipal bonds and mutual funds which invest in municipals produce relatively low yields. But even low yields are more than you're getting from the non-income-producing dollars you have hidden away in the lock box.

The income on any other investment you make would have to be reported on your income tax return. I imagine your husband would get awfully suspicious, if you suggested filing separate returns.

One last thought. Why not come clean and surprise your husband with news of your "joint" $7,000 nestegg? You could then put the money to work at higher rates than you can get in the municipal bond market.

Q. Why are "little guys" like me, with less than $10,000 to invest, advised not to buy municipal bonds? It seems to me that a person doesn't have to be in a tax bracket of 22 percent or higher to benefit from the tax-free interest paid on municipal bonds.

A. It may seem that way to you. But it's not so. Because the interest paid on municipal bonds is not subject to federal income tax — and also not to state tax in the state in which the particular bonds is issued — the interest rate is low. There are much higher yields available elsewhere — on corporate bonds, savings certificates, common stocks, etc. — income tax bracket, you get more keeping money from the higher but fully-taxable yields. You can find those higher yields by but fully-taxable yields. You can find those higher yields by just reading the financial pages of your newspaper and simply shopping around.

Five Bodies Found In Plane Wreckage

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — State troopers said Monday five bodies have been recovered from the crash of a De-Havilland Beaver at the head of Twelvemile Arm.

State troopers said the five were flying on a regularly scheduled commercial flight from Ketchikan to Hyadaburg in a plane owned by Tyece Air on Prince of Wales Island. The plane crashed Saturday.

A hunter in the area saw flames from the crash on a hillside and notified authorities.

State troopers said identification has been difficult. Fog and wind hampered recovery efforts and investigations Sunday. A pathologist was scheduled to arrive from Seattle to aid in identification efforts.

Troopers said they have tentatively identified those aboard from a passenger list. The dead are believed to be pilot Jacob Tenbrink of Ketchikan, Mr. and Mrs. Elbie L. Gann of Hyadaburg, Tracy Lance of Klawok and Theodore W. Nix of Hyadaburg.

Father Shoots Son In $1 Argument

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A man was jailed in the fatal shooting of his 8-year-old son in an apparent dispute over $1, police reported Monday.

Investigators said the boy had been shot at close range in the forehead late Saturday. They said it appeared that Ralph Knute Cortez, 28, had demanded money from his son, Frank, who said he had none. But the father searched the boy and found a $1 bill in his pocket, police said.

Authorities were alerted by the mother, Anita Cortez, who telephoned from a nearby residence to say she feared the father would harm the child. An ambulance crew found the boy inside the residence lying face up, dead of a single bullet wound.

After a search, the father was taken into custody at a nearby home. Police said he was armed with a pistol. He was booked for investigation of murder.

Syrian To Placate Russians

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Syrian President Hafez Assad, leader of the Arab confrontation states against Israel, flies to Eastern Europe and possibly Moscow this week to try to settle a reported feud with the Soviet Union, his main arms supplier.

Well informed sources here and in the Syrian capital said Monday that Assad will leave Wednesday for Hungary, where Communist Party chief Janos Kadar has offered to mediate the dispute with the Kremlin.

Whether or not Assad personally goes to Moscow to deal with the dispute will depend on the results of his talks with Kadar, sources said. Assad visited Moscow early last month.

Both Syria and Iraq, which recently put aside their political differences to form an alliance against Israel, are shopping for more and better weapons to bolster their opposition to the Camp David peace accords and a possible Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

Western analysts estimate 1977-78 Soviet military aid to Syria to be more than $1 billion. The Soviets also supply the Arab confrontation states of Algeria, Libya, South Yemen and the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Damascus sources say Syria's differences with Moscow center on a repayment schedule for previous purchases and the amount and quality of new weapons the Soviets are prepared to sell Assad's army.

They say another source of tension is that Assad also wants to diversify his weaponry by buying more sophisticated arms in Europe.

There also have been reports from Damascus that Syrian military commanders have complained of delays and shortfalls in Soviet spare parts.

Some analysts feel Assad's government is letting the dispute with Moscow leak

Clements Estimates Campaign Cost

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) - Bill Clements said Monday his historic victory in the Texas gubernatorial race cost him "$65,000 of my own personal funds" and more than $2.7 million in loans he guaranteed.

The Dallas businessman, who began as a roughneck and built a multimillion dollar oil drilling empire, also said his Democratic opponent, Attorney General John Hill, lost votes by claiming Clements was attempting to buy the election.

The governor-elect spoke to a press gathering at the Republican Governors' Conference.

"I want to make it very clear that I think anyone who would put that forward doesn't understand the Texas voter," he began. "If anyone knows of a Texas vote for sale, I want you to tell me about it, because you know more about that than I do."

I believe my opponent made a bad mistake when he took off on that track and when I debated him, I encouraged him to keep making those remarks because I believe every time he said it, it hurt him."

Clements said his primary and general election cost will total "in the neighborhood of $6 million." His campaign office in Dallas said only the finance chairman had the figures on how much was spent and how much Clements borrowed and he was out of town Monday.

Clements also contended Hill "had been running for governor for 10 years" and had spent "something like $8 million."

When asked if he had become Texas first Republican governor in 104 years due to outspending the Democrats, Clements said: "That's an interesting observation but it won't hold water. My opponent first ran for governor in 1968. If you add up all the money he has spent in that 10 years gaining name identification and all the dollars he has spent that belonged to the taxpayers using his office and the physical equipment that goes with his office over that 10-year period, I would suspect he has spent something like $8 million."

COMPLETE STOCKS MARKET, NYSE, AMEX

Quiet Trade Boosts Mart

NEW YORK (AP)—A late lull of buying in blue-chip and glamor issues carried the stock market to its third straight gain in quiet trading Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down fractionally an hour before the close, finished with a 3.72-point gain at 813.84.

In the last eight trading days the average has risen 28.58 points after hitting a seven-month low at mid-November.

New York Stock Exchange volume was a modest 19.79 million shares, against 14.59 million last Friday in a session sandwiched between Thanksgiving Day and the weekend.

The leaders of Monday's late upswing were some of the big names of the list—International Business Machines, up 2 1/2% at 27 1/4; General Motors, up 1 1/4 at 56 1/4; Du Pont, ahead 1 1/4 at 123 1/4; and Halliburton, 1 1/2 higher at 63 1/4.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 115.97, off .20.

Chinese Criticized By Amnesty Organization

LONDON (AP) — Amnesty International accused China Monday of systematically repressing political dissent through social censure, imprisonment, mental torture and execution since the 1949 Communist takeover.

In its first major report on China, the London-based human rights group quoted official Chinese documents indicating the number punished for straying from official policy is in the millions.

Amnesty International, which advocates the release of political prisoners around the world and won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1977, said the 176-page report called "Political Imprisonment in the People's Republic of China" is the result of "several years of intensive research."

Most material in the report, Amnesty said, came from official sources such as the Chinese press, decrees, statements and legal documents or from unofficial accounts from people who fled China. "There are some holes in it," Thomas Hammarberg, chairman of Amnesty's executive committee, said of the report. He said the group hoped to include an estimate of the number of persons now jailed in China for their political beliefs but did not "because it would be guesswork."

Among the reforms urged in the report is a "repeal of all laws prescribing administrative or criminal punishment for the nonviolent expression of beliefs." It says the "laws are loosely worded and have been interpreted broadly, permitting large-scale imprisonment on political grounds."

Amnesty said it sent a copy of the report in June to China's ambassador to Sweden for correction or comment and decided in August to publish the report when no reply or comment was received. China still has not responded, Amnesty said.

Ariette Ladigue, a researcher in the organization's Asian department, told The Associated Press: "Each (political) campaign has contributed to broaden the range of political offenses because each of them has defined new categories of people who could be imprisoned for political reasons according to the politics of the period."

Over the past three decades, Chinese authorities have singled out for repression such "class enemies" as "landlords," "rich peasants," "counter-revolutionaries," "bad elements" and "rightists," Amnesty said.

The 1978 constitution, Amnesty said, introduced a new category: "newborn bourgeois elements," defined as "those newly emerged elements who resist socialist revolution."

Miss Ladigue said she does not believe organized dissident groups operate in China, "certainly not on a large scale."

She said punishment for political deviation in China range from public criticism — amounting to social censure — to execution.

The report cited the case of He Chunshu, 45, a Canton teacher whose execution was announced Feb. 18. Amnesty said he "had been sentenced to death with immediate execution for printing and distributing a counter-revolutionary leaflet."

The Amnesty report said "physical torture is prohibited by law and is generally not inflicted on prisoners." But it cited a form of psychological torture called "struggle sessions."

"It is a peculiarly Chinese invention, combining intimidation, humiliation and sheer exhaustion," former prisoner Bao Ruowang is quoted as saying in the report. "Briefly described, it is an intellectual gang-beating of one man by many, sometimes even thousands, in which the victim has no defense, even the truth."

Bao Ruowang said the offender "is ringed by jeering, hating faces, screaming in his ear, spitting. Fists swipe menacingly close to him and everything he says is branded a lie."

"There is a system and a rationale behind it all," the former prisoner said. "A man must be made to confess before he is punished, even if his punishment has been decided beforehand...after three or four days the victim begins inventing sins he has never committed, hoping that an admission monstrous enough might win him a reprieve. After a week of 'struggling' he is prepared to go to any lengths."

The report cites the "systematic use of handcuffs and shackles" by interrogators to break resistance of detainees during interrogation.

Nixon Gives Views On Guyana

PARIS (AP) — Former president Richard M. Nixon told a television interviewer Monday night the Guyana mass murder-suicide should not be seen as "a reflection on American society and on the society of the West."

The former president is in Paris to answer viewer's questions on a French television show. After the Tuesday program, Nixon is to leave for Britain, where he is to give a talk at the Oxford University Debating Union.

In an interview with the television station Monday, Nixon noted the Rev. Jim Jones' cultists called him "probably a little bit insane."

"I would say a great deal or very insane," Nixon said, adding however that Jones offered his believers "something to believe in."

"Now what he offered them was perhaps wrong, but they were searching for something and I think that throughout the world today, in America, perhaps France and throughout Europe, people have a need to believe in something, to have faith," Nixon said.

Jones, founder of the Peoples Temple cult, led 908 Americans and a Guyanese in a poison-drinking rite Nov. 19 after a congressman came to investigate Jones' agrarian colony in Guyana. The congressman and four members of his party were murdered, allegedly by cultists.

Earlier Monday, about 60 Frenchmen momentarily overwhelmed Nixon's Secret Service guard to get close as he left the Ritz Hotel en route to visit the Charles de Gaulle Institute. Nixon smiled, shook hands and gave autographs to the crowd.

"The people of Paris have a world view that's not parochial," he remarked. After a 35-minute visit to the institute, Nixon said that of all the foreign leaders he had met, "I would say that Gen. de Gaulle was perhaps the one that most inspired me."

He met with the general's son, Vice-Adm. Philippe de Gaulle, and visited the office where de Gaulle wrote his memoirs.

He said Adm. de Gaulle reminded him on the occasion in 1963 when, at a private lunch in Paris, de Gaulle "proposed a toast in which he said he thought I had in effect an opportunity for leadership."

"At the time I didn't think he was right, he did prove to be right," Nixon said.

"In these days when (Soviet dissident Alexander) Solzhenitsyn and others are talking about the lack of will they see in the West, de Gaulle symbolized by his life the will the West needs to survive," Nixon told newsmen as he stood next to Adm. de Gaulle.

He added: "He has passed from the scene, but Gen. De Gaulle's indomitable spirit lives in the heart of every Frenchman and in the hearts of the people who love freedom around the world."

Nixon said, "I would sum it up this way. De Gaulle was one whose friendship and counsel I valued when I was in office...but I valued perhaps even more the fact that he was a friend when I was out of office, and just as true a friend."

Nixon was attending a private dinner given by an unidentified French friend Monday night. The only confirmed guests were former French ambassador to Washington Herve Alphand and his wife.

Reservations must be made in person from 8 a.m. to noon and by telephone from noon to 5 p.m. on weekdays at the office.

FIRE ANTS ENEMY

WASHINGTON (AP) — An almost invisible mite known as Pymotes Tritici can kill fire ants, which have infested up to 250 million acres in nine Southern states, according to Agriculture Department scientists. Limited field tests resulted in 75 percent of the ant nests becoming inactive after three treatments with the parasite, they said.

Storm Delays Appearance

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — A sudden snap of icy weather kept Liza Minnelli from making an appearance at a palace cocktail party given by Princess Margriet.
 The 31-year-old entertainer sent her apologies to the princess, who is 35, and her husband Pieter van Vollenhoven, after being delayed by bad weather on the 120-mile drive from a concert in Antwerp, Belgium.

Miss Minnelli's Dutch agents said she was tired after the slushy trip and decided to stay in her hotel to rest for a Monday concert.
 She was to have been a guest at a small party at the Het Lom palace, some 50 miles east of Amsterdam. "The princess was very disappointed that Miss Minnelli couldn't make it," a palace spokesman said.

At the same time, Miss Minnelli's agents said, the princess expressed understanding for the reasons Miss Minnelli did not attend.

The royal couple are to attend the concert and have been invited to a gathering in miss minnelli's dressing room after, her agents said.

The price of houses is so high nowadays that mobile homes make up about 16 percent of new one-family dwellings, according to the National Geographic Society.

Tech Takes Opener

"Good shooters are like that; they can hit 'em every time. Adam's that way; he hits like that every day in practice."

Gerald Myers was talking after his Raiders had outgunned Central State of Oklahoma 85-61 to officially open the basketball season.

And Adam was the first man... in the scoring column.

Adam Beadle, the transfer from Western Texas College, drilled six of his first seven shots — all from the 16-22 foot range — and paced the Raiders to the win.

And the sophomore did it in a reserve role, too. He played but 16 minutes as Myers shuttled his troops in and out of the game, playing all 14 men. But, Beadle had 12 points in the first half when the Raiders built a 20-point lead, and he finished with 19.

Like Beadle, the Raiders eased off in the second half as the visiting Bronchos switched defenses. And the Raiders weren't able to attack the man-for-man opposition as well as the zone.

Beadle's points came against — over — the zone.

"We just didn't do as well against their man defense," said Myers. "And on defense, we didn't press as well the second

The Early Bird...

FIELD SCOVELL COULD laugh about it, he had been in the same situation before.

The former Tech Regent popped up at Jones Stadium last Saturday, wearing his green Cotton Bowl blazer and acting as representative of the sponsoring organization. He was on hand to officially extend an invitation to the University of Houston to attend a New Year's Day party in the big stadium in Dallas.

He never made it to the UH dressing room. But, as he loitered around the press box after the final play of that 22-21 Tech upset, he could see the humor of it. "I ought to be used to this by now," he said. "It's not the first time this has happened."

Heck, I was out here in '66."

That was when Arkansas was just a step away from the Cotton Bowl, but that afternoon, Scovell's young son, John, engineered a stunning 21-16 upset of the nationally ranked Razorbacks. Not only did the elder Scovell not reach the dressing room, no one did, the invite went to SMU.

So much for advance plans.

THERE'S NOTHING NEW about the procedure, nor is there likely to be anything changed. But, the trend continues for bowl teams — the ones with the flashy records and affluent followers — to be selected a week or so before the end of the season, then failing, if not on faces at least on their reputations, in later games.

This year, it happened to both Cotton Bowlers. Not only did Tech whip Houston — if it makes it and it was supposed to, after beating Texas two weeks ago — but Notre Dame took it on the chin. The Notre Dame loss was one of those choose-ems, with the Irish playing nationally ranked Southern Cal.

But, the two Cotton Bowlers weren't the only ones coming up with mud on their uniforms — and records. Texas couldn't get out of the Bear trap at Waco and will carry at least three losses to El Paso.

Rutgers, headed for that that old national favorite, the Garden State Bowl in New Jersey, blew it to a team which was 2-8 prior to Saturday.

It has been worse. The Orange Bowl, until last year when Tech scared Arkansas before falling 17-14, had gone something like five years with a record of at least one of its teams losing the week after being selected.

IT COMES DOWN to not how many you win but how many you win early. In the case of Tech, bowl talk is just something that sprang up the past ten days, or since the win over SMU.

Prior to that, folks were talking about how it would be a successful year if the Raiders won more than they lost. But within minutes after whipping SMU, for a 6-3 record, there were queries about a possible bowl.

That win came the afternoon the bowl folks were allowed to extend invitations.

and with the prospects of facing nationally ranked Houston and Arkansas, Tech was not that attractive a team. Besides, no one had seen it play, what with the preseason predictions of a lower-division finish and a 1-3 record a month into the season.

Now, the 7-3 mark looks a lot better, capped by that shocker over Houston. At least three bowl teams will be playing with at least four losses. Missouri is in the Liberty Bowl and Stanford in the Bluebonnet with four defeats, and barring a tie, the loser of the Aggies and Texas will have four smudges on its uniform. And the three-loss teams are legion.

BAYLOR GOT CAUGHT in such a pinch. In 1976, it had a team good enough to play in a post-season game, being 7-2-1 prior to the last game (with Tech), but it stayed at home.

The Aggies in '74 were 8-3 but were squeezed out.

In the Raiders' case this time, it had a couple of open dates during the season which delayed the final game until December.

However, those two open dates — after Southern Cal and before Baylor — could be the keys to such a successful season. Rex Dockery was able to regroup his forces and made adjustments after USC, added preparation and an opportunity to get folks healthy were evident against the Bears.

But this prolonged season, combined with the anxiety of the bowl people to lure the most attractive teams away from their competitors, brought no callers.

At times, however, bowls could delay a few days and probably come up with better matchups.

Mused one local official over the weekend: "Maybe it sounds like sour grapes, but the Bluebonnet Bowl didn't pick Stanford until Sunday or Monday (of last week), and it had completed its season. You know they would be waiting. They've lost four and how many people will follow them from California?"

What difference would a few days have made? Sure, Tech wasn't picked to beat Houston, but the Bluebonnet could have gotten Stanford as well this (past) weekend as last.

A year ago, Tangerine Bowl officials invited Tech the night it was humiliated 45-7 by Houston, after the decision had been made earlier in the week. Then, the following Saturday, Tech bowed to Arkansas. It finished the regular season with a 7-4 record and went to a bowl.

Some years, yes... some years, no. But don't expect the bowl invitation date to be changed, until enough folks are burned by poor attendance or loss of revenue.
