Troops Aid Guyana In Gruesome Task

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — U.S. troops flew in today to begin a macabre shuttle ferrying out corpses of more than 400 American cultists who drank a lethal brew of Kool-Aid and cyanide in fanatic loyalty to a suicidal messiah. But the state of the bodies may force the soldiers to bury them on the spot in the jungle commune where they died.

The bodies of the sect's founder, Rev. Jim Jones, and his wife were among 400 corpses that a police spokesman said Guyanese troops had counted in and around the meeting hall in Jonestown. Jones and several others had been shot, presumably by their own hand. The others had drunk Kool-Aid into which the camp doctor mixed cyanide.

Attempt To Kill Attorney Fails

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An assistant U.S. attorney was slightly injured this morning when two men opened fire from the back of a van and shattered his windshield.

Kerr told police he saw the back door fly open and the guns appear. He hit the seat as the assailants opened fire. Police found 19 holes in the car, 15 from an automatic weapon, Alamo Heights Police Chief Roger Terry said.

Dark Clouds To Remain Over Area

A-J News Services
Cloudy skies accompanied by occasional drizzle or light rain are expected to continue in the Lubbock area through Wednesday, providing little relief for worried farmers.

The U.S. attorney's office said Kerr was handling drug conspiracy cases, most of them in the El Paso area, the past several months. However, he is now back on duty in San Antonio. Kerr got out of his new Lincoln Continental and stumbled around, asking for help. "Help me, help me, please. Please call the police," Lillian Haley quoted Kerr as saying.

High afternoon temperatures here the past three days have been in the 85-90-degree range, and the tropical sun has shone steadily the past two days.

The American contingent included 29 identification experts. To speed the process, the Guyanese government waived a law requiring autopsies in homicide cases.

Also found at the camp was some $500,000 in cash and some jewelry. Unconfirmed reports also said $500,000 in gold and hundreds of Social Security checks had also been found.

Israelis Approve U.S. Peace Plan

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel today approved a U.S.-drafted peace treaty with Egypt but rejected as "unacceptable" a timetable for Palestinian autonomy, leaving the talks deadlocked and possibly in need of a second summit meeting.

Sadat said Monday he would welcome another three-way meeting and an Israeli official said the Jewish nation would have no objections to such a conference.

Bank represented a change from the Camp David accords, which Israel says only commits it to begin negotiations on the question.

The Israeli Cabinet voted 15-2 at the end of a six-hour session to approve a U.S. draft treaty drawn up a month ago that ties it to an overall Middle East peace settlement. The Cabinet had earlier rejected the pact.

Begin charged the Egyptian demands for a specific timetable for Israel's withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the West Bank represented a change from the Camp David accords, which Israel says only commits it to begin negotiations on the question.

But the approval today did not meet Egypt's demand for a specific timetable for Palestinian autonomy on the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip, leaving the talks that began Oct. 12 still stymied and perhaps again requiring intervention by President Carter.

In a television interview Monday, Sadat said he would not sign an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty unless it was clearly linked to Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank and the Gaza Strip and the establishment of Palestinian autonomy there.

Government sources said if Egypt reacted favorably to the cabinet decision, Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizmann will return to Washington by the end of the week.

Sadat said 99 percent of the work for peace has been accomplished.

Congr denied most of the charges, and instead alleged that the white coaches at Atkins conspired to get him. At a meeting last spring, Nelson was quoted as saying, "I don't want that nigger coming to my school," claimed L. T. Felty, a Texas State Teachers Association official representing Conger.

The outlook for Thanksgiving Day in the Lubbock area is for slightly warmer weather with a chance of showers.

Another woman noticed him with blood all over his face and hands. She recognized him as a neighbor. She said he seemed nervous and refused to sit down.

Outside the locked headquarters of the People's Temple in San Francisco on Monday, relatives of sect members waited fearfully for word of their loved ones.

The high temperature Monday in Lubbock was 47 and the recorded low was 41. Precipitation was measured at .01 inches, giving Lubbock 1.09 inches for November and 12.48 inches for the year. At this date

Civil defense bounced back into the headlines a few days ago, when President Carter gave his support to a proposal to drastically strengthen the national program during the next few years.

The shelters, located in the basements of many privately owned buildings, were surveyed during the 1960s by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Although Payne believes Lubbock's underground shelters would protect the population from nuclear fallout, they are no longer thought to be the most effective form of refuge for the American people.

Inflation Rate Slows Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The inflation rate slowed to 7.1 percent in the July-September quarter, while the economy continued to grow moderately, the government said today.

Western Nations Quiz Refugees

PORT KLANG, Malaysia (AP) — Western immigration officials began interviewing the 2,500 Vietnamese refugees aboard the freighter Hai Hong today in preparation for giving them asylum, officials said.

U.S. immigration officials, who agreed to expand their 1978 quota of 25,000 Indochina refugees and take 750 from the Hai Hong, were expected to join three French and four Canadian officials today or Wednesday.

France has said it will take about 1,000, Canada 600 and Belgium 150. West Germany, Britain, Switzerland and the Netherlands have said they may take those with relatives in their countries.

Small groups of the refugees were being questioned on a police launch alongside the Hai Hong and then sent back to the freighter anchored off Port Klang, on the west coast of Malaysia. Malaysian authorities already have interviewed the refugees, and officials said the first group will be off the freighter in a few days.

A Canadian immigration spokesman in Ottawa said his department hopes a group will be on its way to Canada by Saturday.

France said it wants refugees who speak French or have relatives in France.

"When we have finalized whom we will take we will inform the refugees," said a French Embassy spokesman. "We are chartering several planes to take them to France. The first group should leave from the airport before Monday."

With its refugee camps already jammed with 40,000 Indochinese, Malaysia refused to let the Hai Hong land its passengers when it arrived two weeks ago. The government contended they had paid for passage on the rusty, 1,500-ton freighter and therefore were not refugees.

British Union Accepts Ford Offer

LONDON (UPI) — Union negotiators Monday night accepted a Ford Motor Co. offer that could end a costly nine-week strike at Ford's 23 British plants.

The offer of pay hikes averaging 18.5 percent is more than triple the 5 percent wage increase guidelines Prime Minister James Callaghan's government is attempting to enforce. Government spokesmen have threatened unspecified "sanctions" against the company if it signs the proposed deal.

The company's 57,000 workers still had to approve the settlement. Mass meetings were called for Wednesday morning. The offer is identical in amount to one mass meetings rejected two weeks ago. That offer tied some of the pay hikes to regular attendance and workers turning up on time, and the unions said this amounted to penalties against the workers.

The agreement will boost average weekly earnings for most Ford workers by $24 a week, to $202. Those at the top of the scale will average about $283 a week, about 50 percent above the national average industrial wage, the company said.

one government to enable to resume the flow from Vietnam.

"Now that it's certain that the Hai Hong will find temporary refuge, you can expect other ships to be sent," one diplomat said. He estimated at least two other vessels had been believed ready to join in the trade.

Officials in the southeast Indonesian state of Trangkep said 7,000 Vietnamese have landed there in great boats since Nov. 1. Most have been put into island refugee camps in the South China Sea, but about 1,500 are stranded on beaches, the officials said.

Diplomats have criticized the plan of a group of French intellectuals and others to charter a ship to gather thousands of Vietnamese refugees from small boats in the South China Sea.

"That ship will end up being a second Hai Hong with every government in the region turning it away," said a leading refugee official. "We hope the negotiators will give up that idea and instead try to pressure countries into giving help to refugees already in Thailand, Malaysia and other camps."

AWAIT WORD OF FATE — This was the scene Monday in one of the forward holds of the freighter Hai Hong, off Port Klang, Malaysia, as some 500 Vietnamese refugees awaited word of their fate. Malaysia has barred their entry, and they are awaiting word as to where they will be permitted to land. (AP Laserphoto)

Unemployment Rate Drops

LONDON (AP) — Britain's provisional estimate of seasonally adjusted unemployment for the month ended Nov. 9 totaled 1,338,900, or 5.6 percent of the workforce, the Department of Employment said today.

This was down 0.1 percent, or 20,700 persons, from October.

November marked the third straight month that seasonally adjusted unemployment has fallen, with 0.1 percent declines also registered in October and in September.

The unadjusted totaled unemployment was at 1,392,011, or 5.8 percent of the workforce, down by 37,491, or 0.2 percent, for the month, the department said. This compares with 1,409,094, or 6.4 percent in the comparable month last year.

This is the third successive month that the unadjusted figure has dropped. It is the lowest total for six months and is the largest November decrease in total unemployment since World War II.

Seasonally adjusted job vacancies, as recorded by the Department of Employment, rose for the third month in a row, rising by 2,900 to 231,300.

Republicans Seek State Offices

By WALTER R. MEARS
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans have been telling each other for years that they can't afford to be solely a presidential party, competitive only in White House campaigns and consigned to perpetual minorities in Congress. That's about where they are now, but they're trying to change — starting at the bottom.

So Joseph Gaylord already has gone to work on campaign plans for New Jersey, one of five states that will be holding state house elections in 1979.

He's trying to figure out how the national party can help New Jersey Republicans gain the 15 seats they would need to take control of the state Assembly.

That is the next phase of an operation that cost the GOP about $2 million during the 1978 campaign for state legislatures. With some races still subject to recounts, the Republicans made a net gain of 287 seats in the 45 states that elected legislators this year.

With those victories, Republicans took full control of the legislatures in 13 states. Prior to the recent elections, they had held majorities of both houses in only four states.

Democrats will hold two-house control of the legislatures in at least 31 states, depending on the outcome of recounts or the flip of a coin to break a deadlock in Pennsylvania's house. Elsewhere, legislative control is divided between the parties.

Democrats still hold about 4,800 legislative seats to the Republicans' 2,700. But those totals include Southern states in which the GOP is virtually shut out. In Alabama, for example, Democrats hold all but four of the 105 seats in the state House. Outside the South, the Democratic margin is not nearly so lopsided.

Gaylord, director of local elections for the Republican National Committee, says a gain of 113 more legislative seats in the right states would give the GOP control of 20 more legislatures.

The national committee invested heavily in legislative contests this year, and Gaylord said the Republicans will keep at it. They doled out $1 million in campaign funds to selected legislative candidates, and spent about the same amount to provide campaign research, training and other services, and to pay 15 workers in the field to help Republicans running for legislatures and local offices.

Officials of the Democratic National Committee, which did not give money to legislative candidates, question whether the Republicans really got all that much for their investment.

Their first purpose was defensive: to gain enough strength in the states to ward off partisan realignment of congressional districts by the Democrats. The 1980 census will lead to changes in House representation, with growing states like California, Florida, Arizona, Texas and Colorado gaining House seats at the expense of states that have lost population in the past decade.

In every state that gains or loses House seats, congressional districts will have to be realigned. The legislatures do that, and in a state where one party has full control of the statehouse, the drawing of legislative districts can be a key to the party's political success in future elections.

Redistricting bills have to go through both branches of the state legislature and gain approval by the governor. By controlling one step in that process, a minority party can block a partisan redistricting measure.

Before this year's elections, the Republicans had that capability in only 13 states. Now they hold at least one legislative house, or the governorship, in 31.

Little Bug's Bite Could Be Fatal

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — Sandy Duvall and husband Frank don't just hop in to bed each night. They perform a little ritual first: shake out the bedclothes, keep the sheets and blankets off the floor, push the bed away from the wall.

It's a bothersome routine, but if neglected one night, it's possible Mrs. Duvall, 35, might never see the morning. As if in some recurring nightmare, Mrs. Duvall lives in terror in her own house.

Her enemy is a tiny insect with the harmless-sounding nickname, "kissing bug." She is so allergic to the bug's bite, which is harmless to most people, that a bite could prove fatal.

She fears her "days are numbered" because the major supplier of the antigen that combats the bug's poisons may soon quit manufacturing the substance.

Mrs. Duvall's life-and-death flight from the small, black blood-sucking "kissing bug," which has the scientific name Triatoma Protracta, began in 1971.

"I was in bed reading the Sunday paper when I felt something bite me on the thumb," she recalls. "By the time Frank had returned from the bathroom with the spray, I was itching all over — my ears, my mouth, even my insides."

"My face was blotching, my throat was swelling and I could hardly breathe. I was burning up. But I didn't associate any of this with the bite. I thought it was because of something I had eaten."

Duvall rushed his wife to a hospital, where a doctor, thinking Mrs. Duvall had been bitten by a spider, gave her an injection. The symptoms eased.

When the Duvalls returned home, they found the bug in the sheets and took it to an insect expert, who identified it as a kissing bug.

Since then, Mrs. Duvall has protected herself with monthly injections of an antigen made from the bugs themselves and supplied to her by Dr. Raymond Ryckmann of the microbiology department of Loma Linda University. The antigen builds up a resistance to the bites.

However, research money that enabled Ryckmann to collect the bugs, freeze them alive and produce the life-saving antigen, has run out.

"As far as I know, I am the only one supplying them (the bugs)," Ryckmann said Wednesday. He says it's a lot of work to maintain colonies of both the bugs and rabbits, which supply blood for the insects. The bugs, he said, have only a six-month life cycle.

"My supply will last only until next October," says Mrs. Duvall. "My doctor says after that, a sting could be fatal."

Ryckmann says he will resume collecting the bugs and manufacturing antigen as soon as he gets more money.

Their physician, Dr. Alan Greenfield, says the bug "is kind of endemic to the Antelope Valley and San Joaquin Valley (of California). It isn't generally found east of the Rockies."

Mrs. Duvall lives the life of a woman on the run. They can't move from California because Duvall is allergic to weather extremes.

They are trying to outsmart the bug by trimming their lawn back because the bug likes to hide out there, they've gotten rid of their dog because dogs are sometimes carriers, and they've adopted five cats to keep away rats, which are also carriers.

And they perform their ritual every night.

"Some days I cry about the whole thing," Mrs. Duvall says. "I can't believe my entire life is at the mercy of a bug."

Independent Gas Stations Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline stations operated by independents are on the increase nationwide, according to National Petroleum News.

Independents are companies whose names and signs are unfamiliar to many motorists, and they generally charge less for their gasoline.

The industry publication said independents today sold 40-50 percent of the gasoline in the United States, about double of 10 or 15 years ago.

Pittsburgh Bank Lowers Business Loan Rates

By JOHN CUNIFF
 NEW YORK (AP) — When a company lowers its prices, especially a bank, it is bound to earn the community's good will. Pittsburgh's Mellon Bank did it, and conceivably might have started a national trend.

Mellon didn't offer a general cut in prices, but it did sharply modify the formula used in calculating the cost of loans to small businesses, which it feels are unduly hurt by current money market conditions.

Under the formula, a small business' loan charges, ordinarily based on the prime rate plus one, two or three percentage points, will begin instead from a base 1 1/4 points below prime.

At announcement time, Mellon's prime was 10 1/2 percent, meaning a small business might pay between 11 1/4 to 13 1/4 percent. The new formula dropped the base to 9 1/4, making the loan charge 10 1/4 to 12 1/4 percent.

Immediately following the Nov. 14 announcement the telephone began ringing, as other banks throughout the country sought to learn the premise and procedures of Mellon's move.

A couple of days later Craig Ford, executive vice president for the metropolitan region, was still explaining the move. It was 6:30 p.m., hardly a banker's hour, but no rarer an event than the price cut.

The premise is very simple, he said. "Our office managers in conversations with small business people, those with less than $1.5 million of assets, found they were being hurt severely."

The damage to them, he said, was twofold: not only from the rapid increase in interest rates but from the absolute level of those rates. And they needed help.

"A company of this size has no financing alternative," said Ford. "There's no commercial paper market for them. And they aren't well enough known to shop around."

The high, fast rising rates come at a critical time for small concerns; many are forced to warehouse large inventories for the Christmas season. For some, Christmas is the make or break season.

Were they able to collect cash for their sales the problem wouldn't be so great. But modern merchandising emphasizes deferred payments, through credit cards or "buy now, pay after Christmas" plans.

"This we thought would cause a major crunch for these people," said Ford. They were, he said, among the most loyal of Mellon's customers, "good, long-term customers who don't shop around."

Some of them, in fact, have been coming to Mellon for so many years, said Ford, "you come to have a close personal involvement with them." The relationship, he said, is not "deal by deal." It continues.

And why was a discount of 1 1/4 percent decided on? "It was a composite," he said. "We thought it was a meaningful amount. These people borrow $40,000 to $50,000, and so 1 1/4 percent is meaningful."

Will it cost Mellon? "No question, in the short run," said Ford at first, but then he amended the answer. "We're not losing money," he said, but the lower base rate, he pointed out, would cut into profit.

The long-term gains are obvious, of course, in the cementing of business relationships. And, Ford concedes, "it might help us when we visit other customers." But, he believes, others will copy the move.

"We're very realistic," he said. "Others will do this." And that does appear to be a very strong prospect.

One reason is that banks want to demonstrate their good citizenship, not only within their communities, but with Washington too. The latter, some fear, might want to ration credit.

There is a precedent for the action.

During the Nixon administration wage-price freeze in 1973 and 1974, a low-price point was maintained. Small business had one snag, big business a higher rate.

Could 1979 bring a repeat? The threat is implicit in the economic conditions. Better to build good will while you can. And that, perhaps, is as good a reason as any why Mellon's move could spread.

Chemicals Found In Milk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists have discovered a powerful substance in human breast milk that stimulates the growth and division of cells, but they don't know yet what its function might be in a baby's body.

Researchers at Harvard Medical School and Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston say the breast milk factor is five times more powerful than similar growth factors found in the blood.

"There is something in milk — a protein — that stimulates the growth of cells, but we don't know which specific cells yet or how important it might be," Dr. Michael Klagsbrun said in a telephone interview recently.

"When we talk about growth in this case, we are not talking about the growth and development of the whole organism," he continued. "We are talking about the effect on certain tissues and cells and not the whole body."

In an article in a recent issue of Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, Klagsbrun says the milk factor is in highest concentration immediately after birth. Early milk contains 15 times more growth factor than samples taken two months after delivery.

"It seems the baby might need it more at the beginning and then perhaps its body takes over the function on its own," Klagsbrun said. "We know this happens in the case of some antibodies."

After finding the growth factor in human milk, the researchers looked for it in other mammals. Klagsbrun said similar chemicals were found in cow and sheep milk.

Klagsbrun said the chemicals, called polypeptides, were very similar in human and cow milk and probably served similar functions. But he said it was too early to tell if the human body could use the factor in cows' milk.

Referring to the current controversy over whether breast feeding is better for babies than bottle feeding, Klagsbrun said he could not comment one way or the other based on his work.

The report noted that in the laboratory the human milk factor stimulated cell division and synthesis of DNA, the fundamental genetic component of life, in human lung cells and connective tissue cells called fibroblasts. The factor has yet to be tested on other cell types.

The milk factor was found to remain active in a relatively acid environment and to be resistant to certain enzymes and agents that break down similar chemicals in the body.

Because the factor therefore could survive in the digestive tract, two doctors at the medical center, David Tapper and Judah Folkman, speculate that it could play a role in stimulating the growth of the mucus lining of the tract or in preventing abnormalities in this membrane.

The physicians say the next step is to further purify the milk factor and study its mechanism of action. After that, they say, the factor may prove useful in treating newborn infants following surgery on the digestive tract.

Construction Begins On Giant Sculpture

DALLAS (AP) — Welders and technicians from England began work today, building a giant $450,000 sculpture by Henry Moore.

The sculpture, "Vertebrae in Three Pieces," is the largest work the English artist has ever developed. It will be placed on the plaza of the new City Hall. Three giant parts of the sculpture, each weighing 9,000 pounds, arrived Nov. 11. Moore has said he will attend dedication ceremonies on Dec. 5.

Safety Board Releases Jet Crash Transcript

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It's not surprising that the crew members spoke among themselves. The crash was the worst disaster in U.S. aviation history. It killed 144 people in the two planes and on the ground.

Flipping eastward in flames, 12 seconds after the mid-air collision and five seconds before hitting the ground, McFeron radioed his final message to the tower: "This is it, baby."

Someone in the cockpit shouted: "Who!"

McFeron called to his companions: "Trace yourself."

Half a second before impact, one unidentified voice cried: "Ma, I love yah."

Another yelled: "Hey, baby."

Then silence.

The transcript, prepared from radio transmissions and the on-board cockpit voice recorder, covered the final five minutes before the crash, which occurred exactly 4.5 seconds after 9:01 a.m. EDT.

It showed the PSA crew lost sight of a nearby plane 27 seconds before the collision over San Diego, but may have spotted the small craft again just before impact.

The pilot and co-pilot of the jet nervously wondered whether they were clear of the light plane, but they failed to tell the ground of their uncertainty, according to the transcript.

The dramatic transcript indicated the PSA crew may have spotted the small Cessna just two seconds before the two craft slammed together — too late to avoid tragedy.

Less than four minutes before the crash, the three members of the PSA cockpit crew and an off-duty pilot in the jump seat were discussing the way their insurance policies would pay off in the event they lost their lives.

The insurance conversation ended with a clearance to land at San Diego, and the crew started reading off checklists in preparation for touchdown.

At 8:59:30, the control tower told the jetliner to look out for a Cessna a mile ahead.

"Okay, we had it there a minute ago," McFeron replied over the radio. "I think he's passed off to our right."

The transcript reflected less certainty in the cockpit conversation involving McFeron, co-pilot Robert Fox of La Mesa, Calif., who was flying the jetliner, engineer Martin Wahne of San Diego, and visiting pilot Spencer Nelson of Escondido.

McFeron: "Is that the one (we're) looking at?"

Fox: "Yeah, but I don't see him now."

McFeron: "He was right over here a minute ago."

Fox: "Yeah."

Fox: "Are we clear of that Cessna?"

Wahne: "Supposed to be."

McFeron: "I guess."

Unidentified laughter.

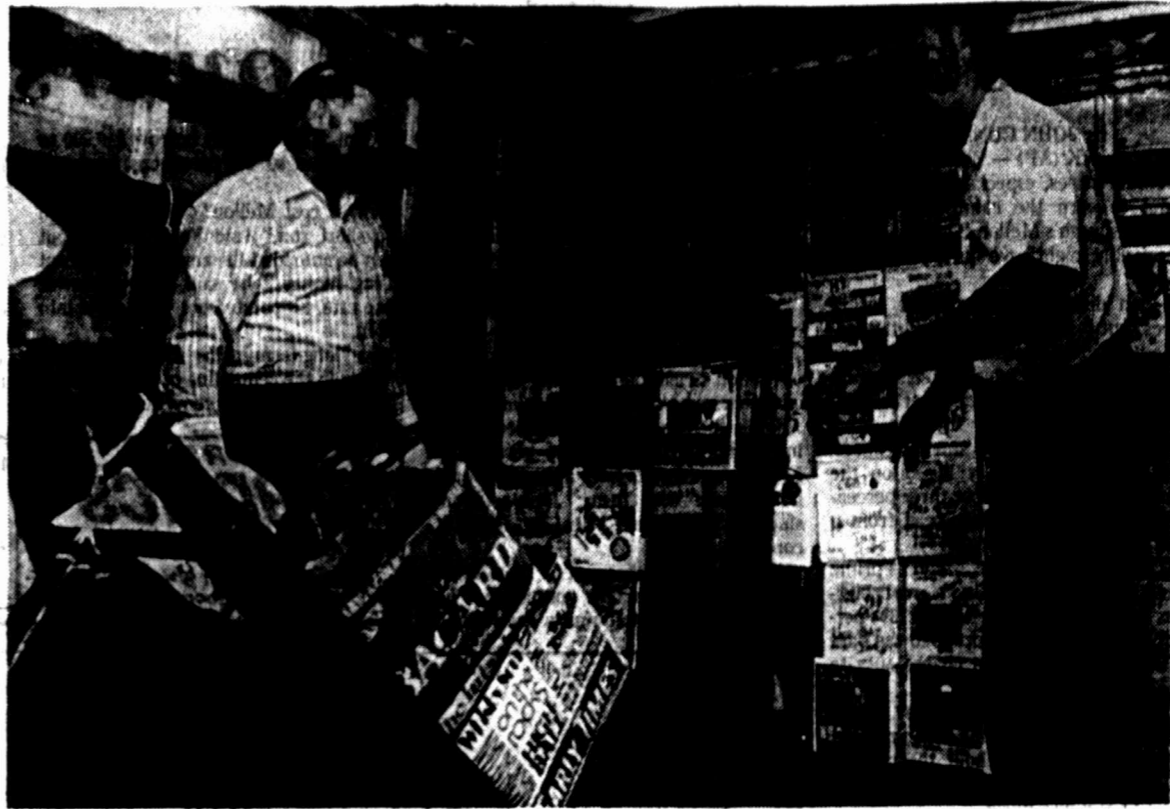

Nelson: "I hope."

At 9:01:38, nine seconds before the collision, Fox reported: "There's one underneath. I was looking at that inbound there."

Seven seconds later McFeron shouted "Whoop!" and Fox cried "Aghhh!"

Then came the sound of impact, at 9:01:47, and Nelson cried: "Oh (expletive deleted)!"

After 70 Years, Mixed Drinks Legalized In North Carolina

By MONTE PLOTT
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A 23-year-old Charlotte man drank a Bloody Mary at 8:04 a.m. today, apparently becoming the first person to legally buy a mixed drink in North Carolina in 70 years.

Hank Stoppelbin was served a $1.50 drink at Benedictines Restaurant and proclaimed: "It's very good."

Benedictines had its bartenders on duty early in an attempt to become the first establishment in North Carolina to take advantage of a new local-option mixed-drink law enacted by the General Assembly in June.

A Mecklenburg County Alcoholic Beverage Control truck pulled up to the restaurant to make a delivery shortly before 8 a.m. Bartenders quickly broke open a case and rushed a bottle of vodka to bartender Kevin Johnson, who poured the first drink for Stoppelbin.

Other restaurants planned to begin serving mixed drinks at lunch today, and some were expected to mark their first drinks with ceremonies during the afternoon.

A fleet of two-ton trucks packed with liquor made deliveries today to 96 restaurants in Mecklenburg County. The establishments had received their liquor-by-the-drink licenses on Monday, and the deliveries were made by beverage control officials to avoid a rush at liquor stores.

The General Assembly's passage of the hotly-debated mixed-drink law left Oklahoma the only state without some form of mixed-drink sales.

In less than six months — "the most hectic working time I've ever seen," an ABC agent said — regulations were established, applications reviewed and licenses granted.

Voters in Charlotte and surrounding Mecklenburg County in September were the first to approve mixed drinks, and on Monday restaurants in the area became the first to get licenses.

Ironically, Mecklenburg County was the state's first area to ban liquor sales by the drink — in 1904.

"You know, we're making history here today," Marvin Speight, state ABC board chairman, told the restaurant and lounge managers.

The new law limits mixed drinks to restaurants, lounges and private social establishments. It ends, in most cases, the practice of imbibers carrying their own bottles to dinner in a bag.

ABC officials, reporters and restaurant owners gathered in a barren, cement-floored area of an office building for Monday's ceremony. When Speight handed the first license to Bill Georges of Charlotte, owners awaiting their permits applauded.

There were no drinks Monday night, because the specially taxed liquor for mixed drinks was not to be delivered until today.

A $10-per-gallon surcharge is levied on liquor sold to be served in mixed drinks. All liquor sold in North Carolina is taxed at a rate of 64 1/2 percent.

But the liquor board set up a one-time delivery fleet for today so that 100 buyers didn't all descend on the local warehouse at one time.

Four other localities have approved mixed drinks. Speight said he will pass out licenses in Orange County, Southern Pines, Sanford and Louisburg later this week.

Meanwhile, Green said he wasn't expecting a big crowd despite an early opening.

"I doubt we'll get that many in here wanting a drink, probably a half dozen or so out of curiosity. But the staff got all excited about it and wanted to go ahead and do it," he said.

Two Navy Pilots Escape Injury In Crash

GRAND PRAIRIE (AP) — Two Navy pilots escaped unharmed when their fighter plane caught fire and crashed one mile from the Dallas Naval Air Station landing strip Monday evening.

Lt. Dennis Beaver, 29, of Duncanville, and Reserve Lt. David L. Davis, 30, of Arlington parachuted from the twin-engine plane seconds before the crash at FM 1382 just north of I-20. The men landed safely in an open field.

The plane apparently caught fire a few minutes after take off from the air station where the pilots were practicing simulated carrier landings. As the plane fell from the sky, it broke into five flaming pieces and narrowly missed a dump truck travelling north on I-20.

Texas Gross Sales Hit $44.2 Billion

AUSTIN (AP) — Gross sales in Texas hit $44.2 billion in the second quarter of 1978, topping those of the first quarter by $1.8 billion, Comptroller Bob Bullock reported Monday.

"Economic activity for the first six months of this year has been exceptionally strong," Bullock said in a statement.

Bullock's figures were not adjusted for inflation.

Plane Easy To Make, Fun To Play With

By SHARI LEWIS

I show you why this balancing plane pleases me so, but I bet it'll please you, too, so please — make it! The plane will perch on the very tip of your nose, on the end of your finger. Here's what you do:

Cut out the airplane. Put it on a picture postcard and trace the outline. Now cut the airplane shape out of the card.

Make two slits (one on each wing, as I did in the picture) and slip a penny through the slits so that one penny sits on each wing. And that's it!

Now put the tip of the nose of the plane on the tip of your nose, and you'll be amazed at the way it balances there!

Harris County Plans Recount

HOUSTON (UPI) — A recount of ballots in Harris County will begin Wednesday because no notice was given of an official vote canvass made two days after the Nov. 7 general election.

Harris County commissioners earlier had maintained recount requests by defeated senatorial candidate Bob Krueger and governor candidate John Hill were useless because they were made after the official canvass.

But Monday Commissioner Bob Bass proposed the canvass be voided and his proposal was passed by a 3-1 vote.

"It seemed appropriate because no notice of the canvass was given," Bass said.

The recount will involve only voting-machine ballots. A state district court ruling is required to recount punch-card ballots.

Krueger lost his bid for John Tower's Senate seat by about 14,000 votes after Tower carried Harris County by almost 17,000 votes. In the governor's race, winning Republican Bill Clements carried Harris County by about 19,000 votes, approximately the same margin of difference statewide.

County Commissioner Jon Lindsey said he changed his position on a recount after the two winners contacted him and asked that the issue be settled quickly.

"I don't anticipate any changes," Lindsey said. "We can get this done and we can verify who the governor is."

Diggs Faces Prison Sentence, Expulsion If Appeal Fails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless he wins an appeal in coming months, veteran Rep. Charles Diggs originally must give up his seat in Congress after expulsion by a vote of his colleagues, a House official predicted today.

Diggs, who has overwhelmingly re-elected as a 12th term despite his conviction for taking payoffs kickbacks, was sentenced Monday by U.S. District Judge Oliver Guaha to three years in prison.

His attorney, David Powell, indicated he would appeal the conviction, a process expected to last about a year.

In the meantime, the Michigan Democrat could continue serving in Congress under black majority. House rules do not prohibit convicted felons from serving, nor do they disallow felons from voting when they have been released following conviction, as in Diggs' case.

However, no House member can vote or draw his House salary while in prison — where Diggs is likely to end up for allegedly defrauding taxpayers of more than $70,000 to bail himself out of financial troubles.

Stanley Brand, general counsel to the House clerk, told UPI that if Diggs attempted to serve from prison "it's clear we would have a problem."

"Clearly, the House would want somebody who had exhausted all of his appeals" and refused to give up his seat while in prison, Brand predicted. "A representative would have obvious inhibitions in serving his constituents from jail."

The House has not expelled a member in recent memory, but neither have any served from prison — the last to do so apparently being Matthew Lyon, who was convicted of sedition in 1798.

The Constitution states Congress the judge of its members, and the House can vote to expel a member for virtually any reason. However, members were reluctant to vote over the matter, disciplinary action this year against congressmen charged with misconduct in connection with the Korean influence-buying scandal.

Diggs, who is likely to yield or lose his chairmanship of the House District Committee in January, is keeping quiet about his future plans.

The 12-term congressman avoided reporters following his sentencing and his office said it would issue no statement until after this week.

Gas Rate Hikes Gain Approval

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission approved increased natural gas rates in three separate cases Monday.

Some 16 small commercial and 14 residential customers of Entex, Inc., in Kilgore and surrounding area will pay $18.40 in additional annual revenue under a commission order. Southern Gas Co. formerly served the customers.

Rates for both classes will go up by $0.23 for eight thousand cubic feet of gas. The new charges are the same as other Entex customers pay.

Line Star Gas. will up its annual revenue by $804 following commission approval of hikes to 20 residential and commercial customers near Lampasas. The average bill increase will be $1.58.

Markham Gas Co. received an emergency rate increase for the town of Markham in Mitchell County. The temporary increase will raise average bills by $1.44.

The new rates will apply only until a permanent rate order is entered.

It is all very well to have a thorough understanding of percentages and probabilities. But to be a truly accomplished declarer you must be able to ignore the odds when the evidence tells you to do so.

Since his hand was flat, North opened a convenient club to prepare a rebid. Once North raised spades, South jumped to game on the strength of the double fit in the black suits.

West led the king of hearts then boldly shifted to a low diamond. Declarer was looking at three certain losers in the red suits, so the fate of the contract hinged on not losing a trump trick. With nine cards in the suit, the percentage play, by a wide margin, would be to take the finesse. But before committing himself to the finesse, declarer decided to see what he could learn about the hand.

BRIDGE WINNERS

SOUTH PLAINS
South Plains Duplicate Bridge Club met Friday at the First Federal Savings and Loan building for a charity game to benefit Meals On Wheels, Inc. Tied for first and second were Mrs. Valton Cox and Mrs. J.D. Jones with Mrs. Charles F. Nielson and Mrs. Weldon Wells. Third place winners were Mrs. Max Lowmiller and Mrs. Ray Thompson. The club will meet again Friday.

West exited safely with a club, won by declarer's jack. South paused to consider the situation. West, who had passed initially, had already shown up with the ace-king of hearts and ace of diamonds. If he had the king of spades as well, he would have had 14 points and would certainly have opened the bidding. Therefore, East had to have the king of spades, and the finesse was doomed to failure.

Since the only chance was to find East with a bare king of trumps, declarer led a spade to the ace and when the king came tumbling down, the contract rolled home.

This is an excellent example of what, in musician's parlance, is called "playing by ear."

DO-IT-YOURSELF DECORATION — This quick and easy, do-it-yourself, holiday wreath can be made without any artistic talent. The hand-painted wreath will brighten halls, walls or the front door and is an ideal Christmas gift.

Holiday Wreath Provides Quick, Easy Decoration

NEW YORK, N.Y. (Special) — Deck the halls, walls or front door with a hand-painted holiday wreath that you can make yourself.

The wreath, which can become a lasting decoration for your home, is painted with ball point paint tubes, then stuffed and sewn. The paints are fun to work with and can be quickly and easily applied without any artistic talent.

To make the wreath shown in this project, you will need five tubes of paint in yellow, red, forest green aqua and lime; crewel yarn; embroidery floss; two pieces of 25" square light weight, white pelton fabric; two pieces of 25" square quilt batting and a size 20 embroidery needle. The wreath can be made for under $15.

The first step is to select a pattern to be copied. Look through magazines, books and greeting cards for ideas. Trace the pattern on a 25" square sheet of paper, using dark colors. Tape the drawings on the back of the pelton so that the design outlines show through.

To begin painting, stretch the fabric over a piece of stiff cardboard to make it taut or use a paint hoop. Protect the surface beneath the pelton fabric. Hold the paint tube vertically and bear down against the surface of the fabric. Rub the color in as if coloring with a crayon. Use dark colors first, then light until the entire area is decorated. The paints are fast drying and permanent. Wait at least 48 hours after applying the paints, before ironing, dry cleaning or machine washing the fabric.

Next, embroider with a running stitch through the veins of the leaves. Back stitch and wrap around the edges of the ribbon, balls and candy canes. The wreath has a 20" diameter when it is flat. The painted ribbon extends 4". Allow 3/8" border around the outer edges of the wreath and ribbon design for sewing the front and back together. Cut the batting the same size as the wreath and baste together carefully by matching the edges. Use a blanket stitch to sew the edges together. Stuff the wreath and finish sewing the seams.

The wreath is now completed and ready for hanging or gift giving. The paints can be used to decorate any fabric as well as wood, metal, glass, china, plastic and pottery.

Lombard, Moore Plan Wedding

HOUSTON (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Lombard announce the engagement of a daughter, Christine Lombard, to Jon Lawrence Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moore of Lubbock.

The couple plans to be married Dec. 22 in the First Presbyterian Church in San Marcos.

The bride-elect attended Westchester High School in Houston and attends Southwest Texas State in San Marcos. The future bridegroom attended Monterey High School, Western Texas College in Snyder and Southwest Texas.

Lie down and be counted.

In America, 3% of the people give 100% of all the blood that's freely donated.

Which means that if only 1% more people—maybe you—became donors, it would add over thirty percent more blood to America's voluntary bloodstream.

Think of it! But forget arithmetic. Just concentrate on one word.

The word is Easy. Giving blood is easy. You hardly feel it (in fact, some people say they feel better physically after a blood donation).

And, of course, everybody feels better emotionally. Because it's a great feeling knowing your one easy blood donation has helped up to five other people to live.

So how about it, 1% of America? Are you going to lie down and be counted?

Call your local Red Cross Chapter, or your community's volunteer blood bank. We need you now.

Cult Experts Not Surprised By Mass Suicide

By JANE SEE WHITE
NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of members of a religious cult formed an orderly line, then took their lives with a draught of poison. Shocking, yes. And bizarre. But not, say the experts, surprising.

Challenged from without, shaken by defections within, the Rev. Jim Jones' People's Temple swelled with uncertainty, then "imploded," experts believe. Nearly 400 cultists took their own lives in the isolated jungle of Guyana, a tiny South American republic.

Some reportedly were shot, but Guyanese authorities said most apparently died of poison. An estimated 700 others were believed to have fled into the jungle. The suicides — including Jones, his wife and son — died just hours after the sect ambushed and killed five Americans, including U.S. Rep. Leo Ryan of California.

Mind-befogging though the mass suicide appears, scholars on suicide and cults such as the People's Temple say they saw it coming. It was only a question, they say, of who and when.

"Nobody has believed we silly people who said it is possible to control people to this degree. But it has happened," said Boston psychiatrist John Clark, who has studied these cults for five years.

"This is not surprising," said Rabbi James Rudin, an official of the American Jewish Committee who has written extensively on cults. "It's not surprising when you consider the totalitarian atmosphere in which most cults operate."

"Our war, our side — it's a madness of many," said Dr. Edwin Shneidman of the University of California, the nation's only professor of thanatology — a discipline named for Thanatos, the Greek god of death.

These men say that strong, even totalitarian, leaders like Jones leave no room for their adherents to dissent. Often, says Clark, it is this uniformity of thought and belief that attracts followers:

"People who go into cults are in a state of mind that does not allow inside information to enter. They feel safe, cozy. They can talk their own language to each other. It's reinforced by their opposition to all outside reality — an 'us and they' mentality."

Clark believes Congressman Ryan cracked this wall of uniformity when he visited the People's Temple commune

Saturday to investigate alleged abuse of sect members, several members chose to leave with him. These events, Clark says, "tore apart the cult's sense of certainty."

"I think the thing imploded," he said. "You have to understand that there is no room for ambiguity in groups like this. When ambiguity occurred, when something went wrong, they all panicked and the cult destroyed itself."

The ambush and killings followed. Within hours, according to witnesses, cult members lined up for a draught of poison reportedly brewed in a large vat.

Mark Lane, a lawyer representing the cult, was at the camp just before the deaths. He said the members discussed suicide before he fled, fearing for his own life. He said two cult members told him: "We are all going to die now."

"They were smiling ... they looked genuinely happy," Lane said.

A California psychologist, who accompanied Ryan to Guyana to try to get his daughter out of Jonestown, said members of the group rehearsed mass suicide and signed undated suicide notes before they left California for Guyana.

One can only speculate about Jones' motives. There were reports he was seriously ill. He was apparently fascinated by suicide and once led a demonstration calling for a "suicide barrier" on San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge. But a more compelling question is why his followers were willing to join him in death.

"There is something called 'altruistic suicide,'" said Shneidman, "when ties to the society are so strong that the dictates of the group govern the individual's life."

It would take enormous ego strength to step out of that line in the jungle and say, 'I prefer not to.' If he does, they might shoot him."

Shneidman said he was reminded of Masada where nearly a thousand Jews under siege by the Romans during the first century A.D. committed suicide rather than be slaughtered or enslaved.

"The true believer is a tragic phenomenon in world history. They are often intolerant. They are prone to follow authoritarian leadership. And they'll do anything to further the cause."

U.S. Officials Still Concerned With Microwave Bombardments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversy over Soviet microwave bombardment of the U.S. embassy in Moscow continues despite a health study that concludes the practice has not endangered the Americans working or visiting there.

The State Department said Monday, "The study has found no evidence to link service in Moscow, or possible past exposure to microwave radiation in the embassy there, with higher incidence of death or illness."

"The department is obviously pleased that this independently conducted study has found nothing to support assertions that the health of foreign service employees in Moscow has been jeopardized by service there."

The study by Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, was authorized in 1976 at the request of the American Foreign Service Association when the Russians heightened their microwave bombardment of the embassy as a surveillance measure.

The use of microwaves raised concern about the effects on embassy personnel, family and visitors, including questions about increased risks of cancer.

However, State Department officials criticized the Russians for using the microwave emissions even though the level has declined.

"We continue to be concerned," department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

In addition, the association, which represents 6,500 active and retired foreign service officers, said the study was coordinated by Dr. Herbert Pollack, a department medical expert, "who actively participated in the earlier coverage on the part of department management."

The association issued a statement saying the State Department had refused its request to review the report before it was released.

While saying it was not criticizing Johns Hopkins University, the association cited "some important and unfortunate elements about the way the report has been handled," including Pollack's role and not permitting researchers access to original data.

Johns Hopkins researchers said that the study covered about 3,800 employees and their dependents who were stationed in Moscow and a control group of about 7,500 persons at other Eastern European embassies.

Dr. Abraham Lilienfeld, who headed the study, said the health records of the two groups were "essentially, markedly similar."

Common uses of microwave beams are radar and the transmission of television and long distance telephone calls. Reasons for the Soviet bombardment have remained unclear since the beams first were detected at least as early as 1972.

U.S. officials have said privately they believe the microwaves are intended to foil American electronic intelligence-gathering operations at the embassy.

ation, many dairy producers have continued to trim their herds and some have sold out altogether because of high prices for slaughter cows.

Last month, the dairy herd averaged about 10.8 million head, down one percent from Oct. 1977.

Egg-laying hens in commercial flocks as of Nov. 1 totaled 283.9 million, about the same as a year ago, says the Agriculture Department.

But their rate of lay was up slightly, averaging 64.6 eggs per 100 hens, compared to 64.4 a year ago, the department said Monday in a monthly report.

Egg production in October totaled 5.7 billion eggs, a gain of one percent from a year earlier.

Government Indicator Shows Dairy Producers Doing Well

WASHINGTON (AP) — An indicator used by the government for relating milk prices at the farm with feed costs illustrates why many dairy producers are doing well right now.

According to the Agriculture Department, the milk-feed ratio in October nationally averaged 1.84, compared to 1.81 in September and 1.79 in October of last year.

The figure expresses the amount of dairy cow feed in pounds that can be bought for the price farmers get for one pound of milk. Thus, the higher the number, the more feed a pound of milk will buy.

However, the ratio does not take into account other production costs of milk — only feed rations for cows. But the figure is considered a legitimate indicator of the dairy business and does show comparisons from one period to another.

Department records show that the October ratio of 1.84 pounds of feed was just under the record for the month of 1.85 set twice before — in October of 1968 and 1969. The all-time high for the indicator was 1.88 in November 1971.

Milk prices at the farm are expected to average about 8 percent more than in 1977, according to department analysts. Another gain of 8 percent to 10 percent may occur in 1979.

Immunologists Share Research Award

NEW YORK (AP) — An American researcher who kept fighting pneumonia when other doctors thought the disease had been licked has been honored for developing a potent pneumonia vaccine.

Dr. Robert Austrian, chairman of research medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, shared the prestigious Albert Lasker clinical research award with two other pioneers in the field of immunology.

The award, announced Monday, was one of three to be presented formally today in New York by the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation at its 33rd annual awards ceremony.

Twenty-eight former Lasker winners have gone on to win Nobel prizes.

Austrian shares a $15,000 prize with Dr. Emil Gotschlich of Rockefeller University, who developed a similar vaccine for meningitis; and Dr. Michael Heidelberger of New York University, whose early work made both vaccines possible.

Austrian's vaccine provides protection against bacteria that cause 80 percent of the 750,000 cases of pneumococcal pneumonia seen by U.S. doctors every year.

Pneumonia of all forms, including some types that Austrian's vaccine does not stop, killed 56,180 people in 1976, making it the fourth most common cause of death by disease.

The prize committee noted that Austrian's work was done after penicillin, streptomycin and other antibiotics came into wide use just after World War II.

"Most doctors assumed that the 'wonder drugs' as they were called would wipe out bacterial infections like pneumonia."

"Interest in pneumococcal diseases disappeared and the reagents for identifying them in hospitals ceased to be commercially available," Austrian recalled at a news conference Monday.

Since the disease could not be readily identified, Austrian said, most doctors thought the death rate was much lower than it really was.

In fact, Austrian's studies showed that the number of people dying of pneumonia in 1960 was still half what it was in 1909.

He was the first to succeed in using the cell coatings of bacteria to make an especially potent pneumonia vaccine and devised clinical trials that led to federal approval for the drug a year ago.

Three million doses have been manufactured so far.

The $15,000 Lasker award for basic medical research went to three men who discovered the body's natural opiates and mapped their receptors in the brain.

They were Dr. John Hughes of the Imperial College of Science and Technology in London; Dr. Hans Kosterlitz of the Unit for Research on Addictive Drugs in Aberdeen, Scotland; and Dr. Solomon Snyder of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine.

State Department Ambassador at Large Elliot Richardson and Dr. Theodore Cooper, former head of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, shared a special $15,000 public service prize for their program to combat heart disease. The program began while Richardson was Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Farm March Delayed Four Days

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI)—American Agricultural Movement farmers gearing up for a December tractor parade to the capital to support formation of a multi-state grain compact, face a change of plans. Hundreds of tractors were scheduled to arrive in Topeka Dec. 14—the day representatives from at least 14 states meet to vote on forming a compact. The date also marks the first anniversary of the farm strike.

Monday, a Kansas agricultural grain-marketing committee drafting the compact switched the date of the compact conference to Dec. 18. The committee changed the date to accommodate members of a federal Council on State Governments visiting Topeka.

Although the switch means missing the strike anniversary, AAM spokesman William Nicholas of Johnson said the farmers probably will go along with the four-day postponement and time their arrival with the opening of grain-marketing conference.

As the third such conference organized by the state of Kansas at the suggestion of the 1978 Kansas Legislature, it is scheduled to come to terms with the compact concept.

According to a rough draft put together Monday by the 11-member state committee, the agreement would establish a commission to investigate grain-marketing practices, procedures and controls. It also gives the commission the power to subpoena documents and grain transaction records from private grain companies.

The AAM and the National Farmers Union already have pledged their support for the agreement that would link grain-producing states searching for marketing improvements.

In two previous conferences, the compact earned the unofficial support of delegates from Kansas, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and Washington D.C.

At the Dec. 18 conference, representatives will be given a chance to amend the draft. Official membership is subject to approval by each state's legislature.

According to the current terms of the document, the compact becomes valid when at least five states decide to join and agree to divide equally the costs of administering the compact.

Modest Gain Posted By Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market reversing its trend in the early going, posted a modest gain by midday in light trading. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.65 to 807.26 at noon after slipping more than 2.5 points near the opening.

In the broader tally, gaining issues outnumbered declining stocks by a narrow 6-5 margin. The New York Stock Exchange composite index of all listed stock rose 0.5 to 53.00.

Analysts said the market came in for some early selling pressure following gains which pushed the blue chip indicator up more than 11 points in recent sessions.

The dollar, which also has been widely cited as a reason for optimism on Wall Street, also declined on world currency markets after a string of nearly steady gains over the past two weeks.

Analysts said the Commerce Department report showing stable economic growth, milder inflation and a modest increase in corporate profits in the third quarter contained no surprises.

Trading was light with 8.9 million shares traded in the first two hours down from 10.11 million the previous day.

Kellogg Co., unchanged at 18 1/4, topped the noon NYSE most active list. Trading included a 259,500-share block at that price.

Among other actively traded issues, United Air Lines gained 3/4 to 30 3/4. Inco Ltd slipped 1/4 to 15 1/4, and General Motors gained 1/4 to 55 1/4.

GM Chairman Thomas Murphy told a group of analysts today that the company's recent decision to cut its year-end dividend was "misinterpreted."

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .65 to 145.68.

Livestock

AMARILLO (AP)—Packer area corn lot trade (1.4 million) at 47 1/2 c. (beef trade-Texas Panhandle, western Oklahoma and New Mexico).

No early sales any class fresh beef reported. Both buyers and sellers holding a wait and see attitude. Packers report limited interest.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Cattle and calves: 250, limited bid on all livestock steady. Receipts down sharply due to rain. Slaughterers: Canner 39.25-40.00.

OKLAHOMA, Neb. (APHUSDA)—Livestock quotations Tuesday. Hogs: 3.50; barrows and gilts closed active, uneven largely 1.40 to 1.50 higher.

DR. LAMB Eating Bulk Advised. By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - A friend of mine who was concerned about my continued use of enemas gave me one of your columns about constipation. It was with a great deal of interest and relief that I read it. I have suffered from irregularity for many years now, and I have done everything possible to have normal elimination. Would you be kind enough to send me The Health Letter you mentioned in your column? I am quite a nervous individual and works very hard at the office. My day begins early at 6:30 a.m. and I don't get home until 7:00 p.m. Aside from my office responsibilities, I have to take care of my aged mother and my husband who is ailing. I would really appreciate any help you can give me. DEAR DR. LAMB - I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation. It will discuss in more detail than I can here what you need to do to develop better bowel function. Briefly, I can say it depends on including enough bulk in your diet, and that usually means cereal fiber, drinking enough liquids, including water, and taking advantage of normal reflex patterns that help you to establish regular elimination. I should add to that, chemical laxatives on a regular basis should be a real "no-no". They usually make matters worse rather than helping them. Your best opportunity to train reflexes is immediately after the breakfast meal, and you may have to take that into consideration in planning your day's schedule. A lot of people develop poor bowel habits because they rush to the office before they have had time for their day to really get going, and their body to be functioning in a normal way. Other readers who want to learn about training reflexes and other matters related to irritable or spastic colon can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for this issue. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. DEAR DR. LAMB - My nails are splitting and breaking. My doctor has me on calcium tablets, but they are not helping. Please suggest what I might be lacking. I am 40 years of age. DEAR READER - It may not be what you are lacking, but what you are doing. A common cause for difficulty with fingernails is the use of fingernail polish and the use of fingernail polish remover. You might try doing nothing to your nails for a change and see if that doesn't help. In case you are using either nail polish or nail polish remover. Beyond that, another cause for splitting and breaking of nails is the dryness that develops. To help combat excessive drying, you can oil your nails each time after you have finished washing your hands, or soak your hands for washing dishes, laundry or anything else that would scrub the oil out of them. You can use common baby oil or even any of the cooking oils, you want just to oil up the nails so that they will retain moisture. Newspaper Copyright Reserved

Confidence In Future Of Casino Stocks Remains Despite Drop

By WILLIAM GLASGALL NEW YORK (AP) - For most of the summer, Wall Street watched the "casino group" - the gambling industry issues - with amazement. Stock prices soared, sometimes by $10 or more in a single day. A share of class A stock of Resorts International, since May the operator of the East Coast's sole legal casino gambling spot, in Atlantic City, jumped from 22 1/2 at the start of 1978 to a high of 210. Bally Manufacturing, the nation's leading slot-machine maker, rose from 17 1/2 to 71 1/2. Del E. Webb, a major Nevada casino operator, gained 27 1/2 to 38. Dean Witter Reynolds Inc.'s gaming index rose 242.7 percent from its inception on Nov. 4, 1977 to last Sept. 16. The index measures the performance of gambling industry and some hotel stocks which may expand their gaming activities in the future. During the same 10 1/2 months, Standard & Poor's broad index of 400 industrials gained by just 14.3 percent. Mid-September was the turning point for the casino group, however. "It was speculation by the public," Dean Witter Reynolds vice president Victor J. Raskin said of the gambling fever. "You knew it just had to break." The break was a big one indeed for some issues. Resorts A, which split 3-for-1 in October, now is selling in the mid-20s, the equivalent of the mid-60s before the split. Bally dropped into the low 30s. Del E. Webb fell back to the 11-a-share range. Dean Witter Reynolds' gaming index slipped 34 percent between mid-September and early November, while the SP 400 declined by 7.8 percent. But things may not be as bad as a first glance suggests. While the gaming stock index has declined substantially since its September peak, it remains more than 120 percent above its level of a year before. This suggests that although some of the euphoria has evaporated - and although Florida voters on Nov. 6 rejected a measure that would have allowed gambling in Miami Beach - there still is a fair degree of confidence in the industry's future. Gambling's loss in Florida "takes a little steam out of the situation because the strength of the defeat was greater than expected," Raskin said in an interview. "But New York and New Orleans may be the next two markets. "By November 1979, gambling may be on the ballot in New York," he said, although other analysts have predicted casino gaming won't arrive in New York before 1981 or 1982. One of the reasons behind optimistic industry forecasts is gambling's past resistance to recessions. According to a report by Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith analyst Harold Vogel, "the casino gaming industry in Nevada has grown at a compound annual rate of about 15 percent since 1946" and, "has not had a down year in that time" despite recessions in 1949, 1953-54, 1957-58, 1960-61, 1969-70 and 1974-75. While high-rolling gamblers in Las Vegas are likely to continue losing money at a healthy clip even if there is a recession in 1979, Raskin noted that "Atlantic City is a little bit more" subject to a turnaround if the economy slows because "a smaller type of player" frequents the New Jersey resort. Raskin also said "the industry is without a lot of management expertise," and added a recession also might pose bigger problems for small companies than for such diversified firms as MGM, Hilton or Holiday Inns.

Pope Urges Nuns To Maintain Role. VATICAN CITY (AP) - Pope John Paul II today urged nuns not to allow feminist claims to overshadow their call to a chaste, poor and obedient life in the church. He said they should always dress in a fashion clearly indicating their religious state. The pope's speech came four days after a meeting of American nuns and laywomen in Baltimore demanded admission to the all-male priesthood and an enhanced role for women in the Roman Catholic Church. The three-day gathering in Baltimore said it planned a personal call on the pope to ask him to reverse the ban on women priests. The pope also met four bishops from Vietnam. The pontiff spoke in French for about an hour to the delegation led by Cardinal Joseph Marie Trinh Nhu Khue of Hanoi. The Vatican declined to release details of the meeting, but said the pope asked about church conditions under Hanoi's communist government. It was the first time that so many Vietnamese bishops reported jointly to the Holy See since the communist takeover of South Vietnam in 1975. The prelates included Archbishop Joseph Marie Trinh Van Can, Bishop Pierre Nguyen Huy Quang and Archbishop Philippe Nguyen Kim Dien of Hue. In his speech to about 600 superiors of female religious orders, Pope John Paul made no open reference to the issue of women priests or to the Baltimore conference, but he warned against letting the traditional image of the nun to be overwhelmed by "public opinion, even if an ecclesial one." Attorney For Davis Grills Key Witness HOUSTON (AP) — FBI informant David McCrory denied today telling Cullen Davis that his estranged wife Priscilla had tried to hire a "hit man" to have Davis killed.

"Did you tell Cullen Davis that Priscilla Davis was going to hire someone to come shoot up 4200 Mockingbird Lane so they could claim Cullen Davis did it?" a defense lawyer asked McCrory, referring to the Fort Worth address of the Davis mansion where two killings occurred in August 1976.

"I told him so many stories and lies I might have," replied McCrory, the state's key witness in the murder-for-hire trial of the Fort Worth millionaire.

"What was the biggest lie before August 1978 that you told Cullen Davis?" defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes asked.

"...that I had gotten professional killers from Kansas City and they would get rid of his problem for him."

Asked what his "second biggest lie" was, McCrory said, "I told him I was doing everything I could to get people killed for him."

After several heated exchanges between Davis and McCrory, Haynes asked:

"Did you tell anyone that Priscilla Davis had attempted to hire some out-of-town hit men... to kill Cullen Davis?"

McCrory said he had not.

"Did you ever say Priscilla tried to hire someone who looked similar to Mr. Davis... to come shoot up the place?"

McCrory responded, "No, sir, not that I remember."

Haynes then asked, "Do you deny saying anything like that in your life?"

"Yes, sir," McCrory responded, "I do not remember saying anything like that."

The defense strategy in this trial is to show that their client was set up as a fall guy.

McCrory admitted on the stand Monday stealing $5,000 from Davis but said he felt his life was in jeopardy and he stole the money to guarantee an education for his son.

He told how he went to Las Vegas late in June to "launder" $50,000 allegedly earmarked for a "hit man." The purported target was a Fort Worth judge presiding over the Davis divorce case.

"Why, when you got back from Las Vegas, did you take the $5,000," Haynes asked.

"To give to my son," said the state's key witness, "so in case Mr. Davis had me killed, my son would have at least $10,000 to go to college on."

Asked at one point why he took only $5,000, McCrory, 40, told the relentless Haynes, "I wanted to take it all and run and hide and get out of that mess."

Presumably, half the $10,000 McCrory said he gave his son came last spring from a $5,000 evidence Davis paid his onetime pool-shooting crony for "investigative" activities.

McCrory took the stand a week ago today to tell how Davis allegedly ordered him to find a professional killer to dispose of the judge and others. The essence of the state's case revolves around FBI tape recordings of two meetings between Davis and McCrory last August on the parking lot of a Fort Worth restaurant.

In the first meeting, Davis purportedly discussed the murder for money of the judge, and in the second he allegedly handed over $25,000 to pay the nonexistent killer.

McCrory's role in the unusual episode has been under siege since Haynes launched his withering cross-examination late Thursday.

Castro Ponders Prison Release

HAVANA (AP) — A delegation of Cuban exiles expects a "dramatic announcement" that most of 3,000 political prisoners said to be in Cuban jails will be freed by President Fidel Castro.

Miami banker Bernardo Benes, a delegation leader, said Castro could disclose the release at a second meeting with the 75 visiting Cuban exiles slated for today.

Delegation members also voiced optimism two other issues could soon be resolved: reuniting Cuban families and permitting visits by family members to and from the United States.

At Monday's first closed-door session between the exiles and Castro, the president brought tears to the eyes of one delegate, 66-year-old Rosa Rivas Izaguirre, by announcing the release of her son from prison as his wedding present.

Alfredo Izaguirre, 40, was married in a prison ceremony Sunday to Maria Munero, 26.

Benes repeated his criticism of President Carter and Attorney General Griffin Bell, accusing them of moving too slowly in accepting the prisoners Castro already has said he would free.

"If they do not expedite this, their human rights program will be a farce," Benes said following Monday's session.

Castro freed 46 prisoners in late October and another 14 several days ago. The latest group still is being processed for entry to the United States by a Justice Department team in Havana.

Two Solons Blast SBA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preliminary government reports indicating that millions of dollars advanced to minority-owned businesses may be uncollectable led two senators today to call for abolishing the Small Business Administration.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said in a statement that the 28-year-old agency should be eliminated as "a repository of patronage and scandal" that has helped only a small number of small businesses.

"If it cannot be reorganized... I will join Sen. Proxmire in a move to abolish the whole shebang and fire all 4,500 employees," Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said at a hearing.

Nelson, who heads the Senate Small Business Committee, made the statement at the start of an inquiry into preliminary findings about the misuse of federal funds given to minority businesses, most of whom serve as subcontractors in providing business services to the government.

SBA figures indicate that of $137 million advanced to the businesses, $54.6 million has not been paid back. Roughly half the unpaid amount is considered overdue, the SBA said.

A. Vernon Weaver, SBA administrator, testified that the problem first was uncovered during a routine investigation in the New York-New Jersey region earlier this year.

Luxury Car Recall Announced By GM

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. says it will recall about 4,100 luxury cars because the automatic transmissions might not engage in the "park" position.

GM said Monday it has reports of five non-injury accidents when drivers thought they had shifted into park but their cars instead began rolling.

To be recalled are 3,550 Cadillac Eldorado and 2,550 Oldsmobile Toronados, all 1977 models. GM said some might need new "park actuators." Owners will be notified by mail in the next few days to bring their cars to dealers for free repairs.

Meanwhile, GM urged owners to use the parking brake at all times.

last year the city had received 16.12 inches of precipitation.

A city spokesman reported wet pavement throughout Lubbock and visibility of about one mile in the northern sectors at 8:15 a.m. today.

In the South Plains region Monday, a high temperature of 53 was recorded in Big Spring and a low of 32 in Silverton. Precipitation ranged from trace amounts in four communities to 0.6 inches in Big Spring and Matador.

Further north, light freezing drizzle was reported Monday night in northern and eastern sections of the Panhandle, causing a travelers advisory to be posted through this morning for those areas. Icy spots were prevalent on bridges and overpasses.

Dense fog was also reportedly widespread Monday in the Panhandle region, frequently reducing visibility to less than one-half mile.

Conditions were expected to improve in the Panhandle this morning, with temperatures predicted to rise above freezing in the northern sectors during the afternoon.

A Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman in Amarillo this morning said overpasses there were slick in places but contained no ice.

New Hampshire Girl Battling State School Attendance Law

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Heidi Tompkin hated her first day at school in 1976 and decided not to return. Her mother agreed. Now, the state education board is grappling with their stubborn stand.

The girl's mother, Betsy Tompkin, told the state Board of Education Monday that Heidi, then 6 years old, rejected the "fighting and teasing" she found during her four-hour exposure to public school.

"As we were waiting for the school bus (the next day), she asked me why she had to go back and I couldn't really think of a reason," said Mrs. Tompkin, who now is single.

"Heidi has a right to decide her own future, to determine what she wants or doesn't want. She doesn't want to go to school and I support her desire and right not to go," Mrs. Tompkin said.

State education chairman William Bittenbender says the Tompkin challenge is the first time he recalls that the board has been asked to rule on whether a New Hampshire youngster can be educated at home.

As the board discussed her fate, Heidi, who celebrated her ninth birthday Monday, played with new toys and two pet dogs in a van parked outside the board building.

"All this talk about me being out of school is just boring and I'm tired of it," she said.

After her brief exposure to the Munsomville public school, Heidi entered a private school in Nelson, a small town in southwestern New Hampshire. But she left there less than a year later.

The Nelson school board then attempted to enforce a state law requiring all children between 6 and 16 to attend school except when physical disability or mental problems prevent it.

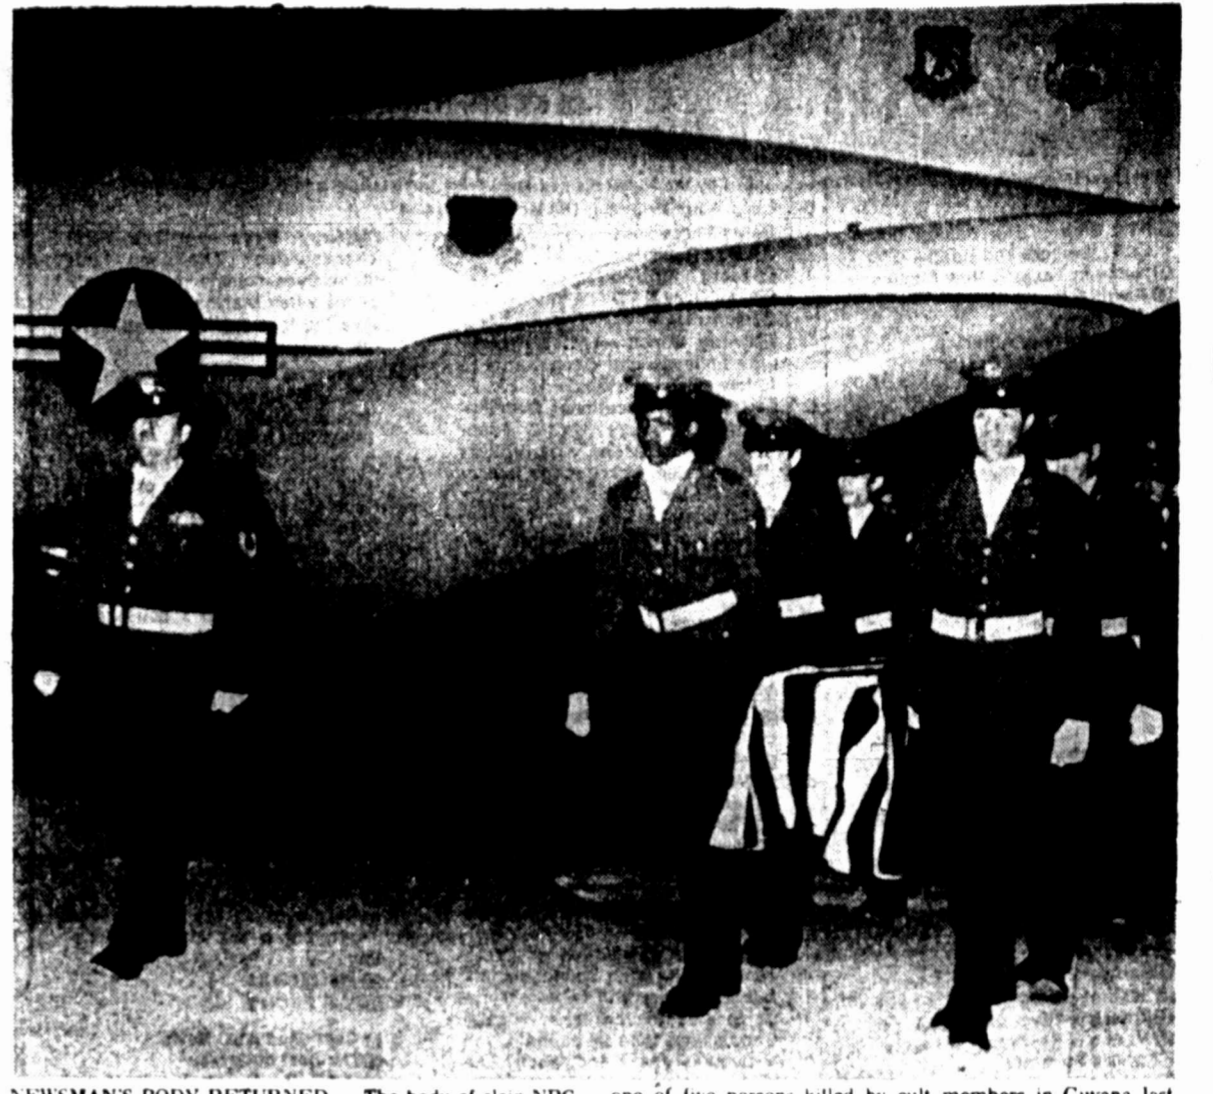

Mrs. Tompkin told the Nelson board at two previous hearings Heidi had signed up for a home-study program with a Baltimore correspondence school.

The Nelson board rejected that plea, leading to Mrs. Tompkin's appeal.

The Nelson school board has filed a petition seeking appointment of a guardian to make certain Heidi attends school, but a board lawyer said, "It is not our intent to take the child away from her mother."

The state board, meanwhile, will meet Dec. 11 to further consider the case.

Mrs. Tompkin, who also has a 16-year-old daughter in high school, said if the state board fails to rule in Heidi's favor, the family will leave New Hampshire. "Logic will prevail at some point. I just don't know when," she said.

NEWSMAN'S BODY RETURNED — The body of slain NBC newsman Don Harris is removed from an Air Force plane early today at Robins Air Force Base in Georgia. year-old Jo Victor Stoen, a child Jones claimed he fathered by the wife of a member of the cult.

Jones' 19-year-old son, Stephen, escaped the suicide because he happened to be in Georgetown at the time. He said the mass suicide was "senseless and insane. I denounce it."

He said he grieved "somewhat" for his father, "but I am grieving more for my little brother and my mother and everybody that's gone."

The hall was packed with bodies, and more were piled up outside. Charles Krause of the Washington Post, who visited the camp as the representative of the foreign press, reported:

"From the air, it literally looked like a garbage dump where somebody dumped a lot of rag dolls."

Krause said the bodies apparently were lying where they fell and had not been touched. He said many were holding one another.

Krause also reported $500,000 in cash and a safe containing at least 800 passports and items of jewelry were found in the settlement.

The Guyanese police said they arrested two of the survivors who came out of the jungle, but no charges were filed against them immediately. Presumably the police believed they were implicated in the killing of Ryan and his companions.

In Washington, the State Department set up a task force to inform the families of the cultists as soon as the department learned the identities of the dead and the missing.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said President Carter was taking a "personal interest" in the jungle tragedy, and he and his wife, Rosalynn, were "shocked and grieved" at the slaying of Ryan and the three American journalists with him.

The bodies of Ryan and the newsmen were flown to the United States early today.

The people filled the hall, which had no side walls, and spilled out into the yard around it. Armed guards were stationed around the crowd.

The settlement doctor, Lawrence Schacht, 30, of Houston, Tex., and two nurses brought in a large stainless-steel vat which they filled with the poisoned Kool-Aid. They began lading it out, spooning it or squirting it into the mouths of babies and filling paper cups which the adults brought up.

One woman who balked was shouted down by other members of the cult. She drank her dose.

After the people drank, they went into convulsions. Their eyes rolled up. They had difficulty breathing, and they died after about five minutes.

Rhodes said he escaped when the doctor requested a stethoscope, and he volunteered to get it. Instead of returning, he said he hid in the woods and did not see the end of the ceremony or the death of Jones, or whether the doctor himself died.

The body of the 46-year-old cult leader was found on the stage of the meeting hall, near the chair from which he preached. He was wearing black pants and a sport shirt, and there was a bullet wound in his head.

One report from Jonestown said the body of Jones' "child" was nearby, and it was thought it might be the body of 6-

Suspect Held In Shooting Case Here

A 30-year-old Lubbock man was shot in the head about 10:15 a.m. today while he stood in the hallway of an eastside residence watching a card game.

Joe Earl Tucker of 2905 Ave. H was listed in critical condition at Methodist Hospital with one gunshot wound in the head, according to a hospital spokesman.

About 15 minutes after the shooting at 1324 E. 25th St., a 22-year-old suspect was arrested by police at the Lubbock County Adult Probation Office. Two females accompanying the suspect also were taken to the police department.

Police Information Officer Bill Morgan said Tucker reportedly was watching a card game involving seven players when a young black man entered the house, said something like "momma wants you home" to Tucker and then shot him in the back of the head with a pistol.

Tucker was found lying in the hallway by police. A weapon had not been recovered by early today, according to Morgan.

Tucker and the suspect reportedly had been in an argument about an hour before the shooting at an apartment in the 1000-block of East 28th Street, Morgan said.

After the shooting, the suspect reportedly fled to a car parked in front of the East 25th Street residence and drove off with three black women. Morgan said the Lubbock man apparently drove to the probation office, where he was arrested.

The card players reportedly fled through doors and jumped out windows after Tucker was shot. Stewart Hawkins of 2605 Weber Drive said he saw two young black men running away from the scene of the shooting.

"One came right under my breezeway. I told myself something must be wrong they way they kept looking back," Hawkins said.

Seagoring mammals can survive under water without breathing for up to 30 minutes.

Gallup Poll Shows Rise In Church Attendance

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—When pollster George Gallup took a long, hard look at the churches nearly two years ago, he declared the nation to be in what he believed was "the early stages" of a "profound religious revival."

At that time, Gallup found an upturn in recorded church attendance for the first time in nearly two decades, with 42 percent of adults attending church or synagogue in a typical week.

Just as important as attendance, said Gallup, was the fact that church membership seemed to be on the upswing, with seven of every 10 people surveyed describing themselves as church members.

"All of our studies," Gallup told the convention of the Episcopal Church, "indicate that God is alive and well in America."

"Virtually all of our survey indicators show that evidence that the long slide in religious interest and participation — beginning in the early 1960s and accelerating in the late 60s, has leveled off in the 1970s."

It wasn't just church attendance, however, that gave Gallup and other observers of U.S. religious life their new optimism.

A born-again Christian had just been elected president and Gallup found that "a surprising number" of Americans had developed an interest in what he called the inner or spiritual life.

He estimated that some 31 percent of those surveyed say "they have had a religious or mystical experience" while some 19 million people had turned to sects and movements that stressed meditation, mysticism and spiritual renewal.

There were also other developments among the mainline churches:

—The United Church of Christ, traditionally one of the most liberal and social action-oriented denominations, began an aggressive "southern strategy" of new church development in the "sunbelt" area of the South and Southwest.

—Dr. David Preus, president of the 2.3 million member moderate American Lutheran Church, spent the spring and summer of 1978 telling his constituency that the ALC was now "a church on the move" following a decade of tinkering with the denomination's bureaucratic structure.

—The United Methodist Church, which has lost nearly a million members in the past decade, is beginning to see a "bottoming out" of its membership decline.

—A 1978 poll of unchurched Americans, done by the Gallup organization for a coalition of Protestant and Roman Catholic church groups, showed that 52 percent of those considered "unchurched" can envision the possibility of becoming active church members again.

The new confidence and renewed stress on evangelism — winning new members for the church — is not limited to Protestants.

Roman Catholic bishops have established an Office of Evangelization that will devise strategies for reaching the 12 million Catholics who are not churchgoers.

At the bishops' meeting in May, 83-year old Archbishop Fulton Sheen, one of Catholicism's most respected personalities, told his colleagues that people were in a "new stage."

"People are ready to hear about Christ," he said. "The only way to win audiences is to tell people about Christ. Every other approach is a waste."

Gallup's poll of the unchurched — estimated to be 41 percent of the U.S. population — tells almost as much about the state of religion in America as does statistical information from the denominations.

"The unchurched are not so much people who know nothing of Jesus Christ and the church," said the Rev. James H. Davis, research director for the National Division of the Board of Global Ministries of the United Church of Christ, "as they are persons who have let their church membership lapse for specific reasons or because they are not interested at this particular point in their lives."

Among the complaints most often cited by those polled by Gallup were that the teachings about belief were too narrow, there was too much concern with money and the moral teachings were too narrow.

But Gallup, when he released the results of the poll, found that basic beliefs remain intact and even the unchurched are "remarkably religious and spiritual, they feel religion is a good thing and would like for their children to receive religious training."

Some observers, however, are less certain that "revival" is the best characterization of the contemporary religious situation.

"If you define religious revival as how people act religiously in relation to their society," said Dr. Claire Randall, general secretary of the interfaith National Council of Churches, "I don't know whether I see any revival."

"In some ways, there appears to be a religious revival in the United States," she said. "I think certainly within the area of fundamentalism or conservative evangelicalism there is great activity," she said. But she questioned whether the activity suggested a revival or simply media attention.

"These groups have determined and are able to get the resources for a media blitz on their own," she said. "Now I don't know whether or not that kind of media activity has indeed caused a lot of people to be converted — to become Christian. Are people simply aware of that religion? Or are they responding to it?"

"I'm not aware of what I would call a religious revival among mainstream Protestants or in the Roman Catholic church," Dr. Randall said. "That is not to say they are dying, or that they are about to disappear or that they are weak and ineffective. It is to say that they are moving along without there being some great burst," she said. "I think there's some fairly solid life in those churches."

Calling Signals

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ
And STEVE PERKINS

Q. Some years ago, it was my understanding that the NFL passed a rule prohibiting quarterbacks from using subtleties like voice inflections to draw a defense offside. A number of quarterbacks such as Bob Griese still appear to be using voice inflection very successfully. How come?

—R.J. George, Atlanta, Fla.

A. There is no rule governing voice inflection, or the cadence used by the quarterback. What was changed, known as the "Roman Gabriel Rule," prohibited a quarterback from bobbing his head during the count — or making any other movements. For instance, once the quarterback's hands are placed to receive the snap, they have to stay there until the ball goes in play.

Incidentally, safety Jake Scott of Washington was recently flagged 15 yards for sportsmanlike conduct on the other side of the coin. Scott mimicked the quarterback's count as he yelled, "Defensive signals."

Q. Harry Mehre died last month. Can you tell me what his coaching record was?

—Cole Davidson, Mobile, Ala.

A. Mehre, who was 75 at his death, had a long coaching tenure in the Southeastern Conference. He coached at Georgia from 1928 through 1937, then at Ole Miss from 1938 through 1945. His teams were 59-34-6 at Georgia, and 39-26-1 at Ole Miss.

Mehre later wrote a very humorous sports column that was used by the New Orleans Times-Picayune and several other papers in the South. He claimed that Notre Dame and Purdue got involved in a recruiting war over him when he came out of high school. "Purdue wanted me to go to Notre Dame, and Notre Dame wanted me to go to Purdue."

Q. What has happened to the Dallas Cowboys? Has Tony Dorsett been the disruptive influence?

—Coreen O'Connell, Tulsa, Okla.

A. The Cowboys were going bad long before Dorsett overslept and missed practice. If there were any ill feelings toward Dorsett, they were dispelled when he stood up and made a long apology at a team meeting. The trouble with the Cowboys is simply that they have spent too much time polishing their Super Bowl rings.

Campbell Tramples Miami

THREE-YARD LEAP — Houston runningback Earl Campbell jumps his center, Carl Mauk (56), to pick up 3 yards before being hit by Miami's Bob Matheson (5) and Doug Betters (7) in the first quarter of Monday night's game at Miami. (AP Laserphoto)

HOUSTON (AP) — It was supposed to be Earl Campbell vs. Duane Williams, a battle of two super runningbacks.

It was no contest. "I don't try to compete against anybody or anyone except to myself," said Campbell, Houston's out-spoken rookie. And there was no way anybody could compare anybody with him after he ran roughed over Miami Monday night.

His four touchdown runs, his 100 yards, 61 of them with barely a minute to play for what turned out to be the winning score in the Oilers' 20-0 victory — all those were merely surface numbers, not indicative of just how great this Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Texas may become.

His explosive performance vaulted him from fourth to first in National Football League rushing with 1,345 yards, 13 more than Williams and just 29 fewer than the rookie record of 1,172 set last year ago by San Diego's Don Woods.

His four touchdowns — from 1, 6, 12 and 81 yards — gave him 13 for the season, just one shy of the rookie record set by Cookie Gilchrist in 1963.

And as the names were tossed around — Woods, Gilchrist, Williams, and the bigger ones like Brown, Simpson, Payton and Dorsett — Campbell's voice became almost plaintive.

"Please, please," he begged. "Don't put me on the spot. I don't set goals for myself now. The game I had tonight, I didn't plan it. That one yard that would have gotten me 200, that didn't matter as long as we won. If I hadn't gained the 56 to go over 1,000, that wouldn't have mattered just as well as...

Without him, of course, the Oilers would have been winning Monday night.

With Houston holding Williams to 79 yards rushing (Miami finished with 127 on the ground to the Oilers' 200) the Dolphins had to count much more on Bob Griese's passing.

Panther Cagers Topple Morton

The Dunbar boys basketballers will be shooting for a second victory in as many nights when they host Lubbock High tonight. At the same time, Monterey will be going for its second straight victory—and over the same opponent.

Dunbar was the only city boys team to win Monday night, as the Interscholastic League schools are jamming their week's games into the first days because of the Thanksgiving holidays.

ton 68-61 in the Morton gym Monday night. At the same time, Abilene High held off Coronado in the CHS gym, and host Palo Duro clipped Estacado 62-42.

In girls games, Monterey crushed Abilene Cooper 64-20. Lubbock High nudged Dunbar 59-54. Abilene High handed CHS a 47-31 loss in Abilene, and Palo Duro eased past hostess Estacado 51-47.

Girls games have Caprock play at Coronado, Dunbar at MHS, Estacado girls going to Morton and Odessa High playing at LHS.

Stanley Whitfield hauled down 12 rebounds. Dub Gilliam was high for the game, getting 26 points for the Indians. Bobby Patton had 16 more.

Coronado lost a 23-19 halftime advantage but missed a last-second shot which could have kept it unbeaten after two games. The visiting Eagles took the lead in the second half and kept fighting off Coronado's challenges. In the final minute, and trailing by 1 point, Coronado fouled, but the Abilene free shot went wide, and CHS controlled the rebound. It went for a shot with five seconds, but it was off the rim, Abilene controlled, and CHS had to foul. This time, both AHS shots fell in for the final 3-point difference. Sam Law led the Mustangs in scoring with 11 points. Palo Duro's 6-6 Todd Loftis scored 30 points as the host Dons rolled over EHS. And it was a third-period outburst which ruined the Matadors' chances. PD led only 29-24 at intermission, but it outscored Estacado 18-8 in the third period to break the game open. James Barnett led the Matadors with 16 points. Monterey's girls had an easy time, crushing Abilene Cooper after a 16-2 first-period getaway.

By halftime, it was 18-0, as the girls were able to play reserves. Margaret Gremmel scored 16 points, and Chris Echelger 10 more for Monterey, which improved its record to 2-1 for the fall. Coronado girls could hit but 20 per cent of their shots in the first half, and the cold shooting allowed Abilene to grab a 19-12 lead at intermission. The Mustangs increased their accuracy to 33 percent in the final half and played even with their hostesses the final 18 minutes. D'Aun Hickman paced Coronado with 14 points, and Washington had 22 points for Abilene High. Mary Jones scored 27 points in leading the Lubbock High girls over Dunbar 59-54. The game was tied after three quarters, but the Westerners pulled away in the final eight minutes. In addition to Miss Jones' points, Jennifer Smith had 11 points for LHS. The Westerners are now 1-1 for the season. Pitts was high scorer for Dunbar with 9 points. Palo Duro girls were able to hold off ever challenge by Estacado in their game at the EHS gym, and the hostesses fell to 1-1 for the year. Valerie Willis scored 19 points, and Theola Freeman 12 more for Palo Duro. JoyDale Guyton netted 16 and Chantel Jackson 10 more for Estacado.

Idalou-Mules Rematch On Tap

By RUSS PARSONS
 Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 For all but three teams, the long, hectic 1978 football season is over. Muleshoe deposited perennial champion Littlefield in District 3-AA, Idalou repeated (just barely) as the 4-AA champ and Slaton, a bridesmaid for the last two years, got into the playoffs on a draw. The Mules almost made it look easy in the western-most district. They ripped out with a 20-14 win over Portales in the opener, then topped Floydada (which only lost twice all year) 27-7.

The only loss Muleshoe suffered, in fact, was to Idalou by 21-7. And there lies the rub. For the Wildcats and the Mules are slated to play in a bi-district playoff Friday night in Canyon. Does having already beaten your opponent once in a season take some of the edge off a game? "That was a real close ballgame," Idalou coach Tom Ritchey said. "They had some untimely fumbles."

HEY, LUBBOCK HERE'S YOUR RELAXOR KING EDWARD IMPERIAL

Cotton Said Lucky

DALLAS (AP) — The Cotton Bowl was placed in a quandary by the wild college football upsets of last Saturday and the New Year's Day Classic was lucky to get Notre Dame — a team that had lost two games — for its guest team, a member of the selection committee said Monday. "It was not a situation we jumped into, it's a situation we wound up with. We were tickled to death to get what we have," Field Scovell said.

Houston is expected to be the SWC host representative. The Cougars just have to win one of their last two games. The Cotton Bowl is already sold out, said Jim Brock, executive secretary of the bowl. "We've always had excellent television rankings when Notre Dame played," Brock added. Scovell said the Cotton Bowl has been winning its head-to-head clash with the Sugar Bowl in the television ratings. "The Sugar was below everybody last year as far as television ratings," Scovell said. "It bothers me that it might happen to us someday."

There has been a long relationship between independent Notre Dame and the Cotton Bowl. In fact, the Fighting Irish won the national championship last year by defeating Southwest Conference champion Texas in the bowl. Notre Dame came out of decades of a no-bowl policy in January 1970 to lose to a Texas team that won the national title. The Irish came back the next year to beat Texas. Notre Dame has a tremendous national following and the appearance of the Irish all but guarantees a lofty television ranking.
