'I don't belong in society:' Charles Manson

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Mass murderer Charles Manson failed to win parole after staging a dramatic three-hour monologue denying his guilt in the Sharon Tate murders, but admitting: "I don't belong in society. There's no place in society that I

Manson, speaking out for the first time since his 1971 conviction in the Tate-LaBianca murders, alternately stood and sat, flailed his arms and even sang a song in trying to show he was wrongly convicted.

"I didn't kill nobody and I didn't order nobody to be killed," the 44year-old Manson said.

He told the three members of the Community Release Board that if he wanted to kill someone, he would never have entrusted the job to his rag-tag hippie "family.

Leaning across the table, his face level with theirs, he said: "If I wanted anyone killed, I'd kill them myself. But I don't want anyone killed because I love my own life. Does that make any sense?"

He denied, as he had at his trial, that he ordered members of his "family" to murder actress Sharon Tate and six other persons in August 1969, or to kill grocer Leno LaBianca and his wife, Rosemary, the following

"I did not tell Tex (Watson) to do anything other than what Tex thought was right," Manson said of his chief lieutenant in murder. Watson, who says he worshipped Manson as Jesus Christ, has insisted Manson ordered him to kill.

Manson, who has been in prison for 9 years, was clad in dark blue slacks and a light blue sport shirt that showed his heavily tattooed arms. He was thin and had prison pallor, and his hair and beard were long and shaggy, much as they were when he was arrested in 1969.

He ridiculed his reputation as a demonic murderer.

"I'm not your executioner. I'm not your devil and I'm not your God," he said. "I'm Charles Manson."

Manson also let the board know he does not like being in prison.

"I'm mad, he said. "I'm indignant. I'm mad to every bone in my living." body that I have to come back to the penitentiary when I didn't break no law ... I'm dying every day in this don't want me so why should I want

The parole hearing was a session granted automatically to each inmate who has served 7 years in prison. Manson will receive another parole hearing in a year, and one each year thereafter.

Originally sentenced to death, Manson's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment when the death penalty was outlawed in California. He is serving nine concurrent life sen-

Then he turned back to the board and said cheerfully: "Good day."

Transfer of power in Rhodesia delayed

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) -The transfer of power to Rhodesia's black majority has been put off for four months by a biracial transition government increasingly beset by internal bickering and stepped-up guerrilla attacks from neighboring Mozambique and Zambia.

An official announcement Thursday said the elections scheduled to take place before Dec. 31 had been postponed to April 20 because the Executive Council "has not yet completed all the political decisions required for the finalization of the new constitu-

It has been physically impossible to meet the date owing to the lagging behind in certain measures which should have been taken.'

He did not specify which "measures" were causing the problems. However, the entire transition program is running more than two months behind schedule and the draft of the new constitution has not been published so far.

But Smith, who recently asked the United States and Britain to call a peace conference with the guerrilla leaders, said he had not sought a postponement of the elections merely for the possibility of talks with Mugabe and Nkomo.

"That thought has not even entered my mind," he said.

Muzorewa, the principal black leader in the transition government who said earlier this week that any delay credibility of the agreement

'We would have liked an earlier date, but this has been set after thorough examination of the processes that need to be done," he said.

For the last two weeks both Smith and Chirau had urged postponing the elections, provided for in an accord reached March 3. But Muzorewa, and to a lesser degree Sithole, had been insisting a delay would undermine the

Under the new timetable, the constitution will be ready by Dec. 22 and a referendum on it among Rhodesia's white voters will be held Jan. 30. The white-dominated legislature will be recalled Feb. 6 and dissolved March Nomination day for the 72 black and 28 white seats in the new legislature is set for March 23, and elections among the black and white voters will be held April 20. No date was fixed for a handover of power, but it is expected just after the rescheduled elections.

Committee fails to find guilt in FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House assassinations committee said today it has found no evidence that a squad of off-duty FBI agents assassinated Martin Luther King Jr. or that the agency was directly involved in the civil rights leader's death in any other

In an opening statement, Delegate Walter Fauntroy, D-D.C., denounced James Earl Ray's lawyer, Mark Lane, as a spiteful "consummate pitchman" and denied Lane's allegation that Fauntroy had said the panel had evidence that King was murdered by an FBI assassination squad.

U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young was called before the committee as a surprise witness to estify that Fauntroy did not tell him of the alleged FBI assassination squad as Lane charges.

As the panel began a four-day public inquiry on allegations against the FBI, chief counsel G. Robert Blakey said "the committee found no evidence of direct FBI involvement" in King's murder

But Blakey said the public hearings will deal with questions of "possible indirect involvement." He said these included questions of whether the FBI's admitted campaign to harass and discredit King as a leader resulted in King's presence in Memphis. where he was assassinated on April 4,

Young was an aide to King and was on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel in Memphis when King was shot to

He testified he knows of no evidence that the FBI was involved in the assassination, although he said "that was one of the conspiracy notions in that region.

'In the paranoia of those times," Young said, "it is no secret the civil rights movement was continually harassed. In his opening statement, Fauntroy, who is chairman of the subcommittee conducting the investigation of King's assassination, denounced Lane as "a man who thrives on publicity - good

Fair weather predicted for Basin

The sun was expected to show its face again in the Permian Basin today as the region got a respite from the overcast skies which have prevailed for most of the week

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport was forecasting fair weather through Saturday, with warmer temperatures. Tonight's low is expected to be in the middle 30s. The high Saturday should be in the middle 60s

Winds are expected to be light and variable tonight, blowing from the southwest.

Some drizzle fell over isolated parts of the Permian Basin Thursday. The Weather Service measured .02 inch of precipitation during a 24-hour period ending 8 a.m. today. Most parts of the area reported no rainfall.

Hoot Leonard of the Midland Farmers Co-op in the far east part of the city said .02 inch had fallen since Thursday morning. Bill Crawford of Greenview Estates in the western part of the county reported a heavy would go ahead with plans to force the Hai Hong out to sea if the offers fall

The 1,500-ton freighter, its decks littered with makeshift shelters, lay at anchor two miles off Malaysia's west coast for the ninth sweltering

The refugees, believing a sanctuary deal was imminent, rejected a Malaysian government order Thursday to leave Malaysian waters, although the government had tempered the ultimatum by offering to repair the ship's damaged engine and provide food, fuel, water, medicine and other supplies.

Malaysia contends those aboard do not qualify as refugees since they reportedly paid a Hong Kong syndicate $5 million for their freedom ship and left Vietnam with the complicity of authorities there.

Malaysian authorities were meeting with diplomats from France, Canada and the United States as well as officials of the U.N. refugee agency to work out plans for evacuation of the refugees.

The French Embassy in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia's capital, said the Paris government will give priority to refugees who have relatives in France or those who speak French or can render services to France.

The deal was far more limited than the offer made by France's deputy foreign minister, Olivier Stirn, who said Wednesday France would take in all those "who express a wish to settle in France. Observers saw the apparent discrepancy as a French bid to pressure other nations to take in some of the refugees. Canada has said it may accept some of the refugees, especially those who have relatives in Canada. The Quebec provincial legislature says it will take in 200 if the Canadian government agrees.

Malaysian patrol boats have barred reporters from going aboard the ship, and it could not be determined if the passengers had been told of the French and Canadian offers of sanctuary. However, one diplomat, who declined to be identified, said the refugees

"have a good radio on the ship and you can bet they are monitoring at least news reports about what is happening. Their rejection of the Malaysian order to leave for international waters could be a result of Malaysia already has about 35,000 Vietnamese refugees in its camps on various islands in the South China Sea and has taken in 3,000 more over the past five days. The government contends it is overburdened with legitimate refugees and cannot accept those it views as migrants. In Washington, the State Departmen. issued a blistering denunciation of human rights abuses in Vietnam, saying tens of thousands of persons are being forced to flee the country on boats despite enormous risks. Spokeswoman Jill Schuker said the Carter administration had given the refugee problem the "highest priority" but has not yet decided how the United States might help. Ms. Schuker condemned as "particularly reprehensible" the Vietnamese practice of permitting would-be refugees to "buy their way out" of the country.

U.S. officials have said they learned by intelligence means that a Russian freighter recently delivered to Cuba 18 to 20 of the MiG-23s, which are among the most advanced of Russia's fighter aircraft.

The Soviet Union has sent MiG-21 fighters to Cuba in the past, but those are principally air defense planes armed with conventional weapons.

The SR-71 spy plane, successor to the widely publicized U-2 of the 1950s, can operate sensing devices from altitudes of 100,000 feet and more. However, checking objects as small as the MIG-23s would require precise photography, possibly from a lower alti-

Military sources have said the SR-71's sensors also can detect radiation, a useful capability in determining the presence of nuclear weapons.

Cuba has a Soviet-provided modern air defense system, including surface-to-air missiles, and officials say there is always a risk of attempts to shoot down any spy plane the Cubans consider to be violating their airspace. But it is not clear whether the SR-71 flights have been at an altitude in the range of Cuban anti-aircraft batteries. One official, considering the SR-71's electronic "jamming" counter-mea-sures, said it is a "pretty safe" The United States has kept close watch on military developments in Cuba since the 1962 Cuban missile crisis. Increasingly sophisticated electronic monitoring devices and cameras have been used aboard patrol planes flying outside Cuban air-space. And U.S. reconnaissance forces also have tracked Soviet TU-16 reconnaissance bombers and small groups of Russian warships on visits to Cuba and nearby waters. A small Soviet naval force is there now. Sources also said this is not the first time the SR-71 has been used directly over Cuba to check for possible violations of the 1962 agreement.

In the early 1970s there were persistent reports the Russians were building a base in Cuba for nuclearowered submarines, but officials say hose reports proved to be unfound-

Israel has resisted directly linking the treaty with Egypt to negotiations over the status of the West Bank and Gaza and the 1.1 million Palestinian Arabs living in the Israeli-occupied

Egypt, on the other hand, has insisted on a strong link. It proposed a timetable be established within the treaty "package" to bridge the two sets of negotiations.

The United States, in an effort to break the deadlock, offered a compromise. It called for the two countries to set a target date of one year from treaty ratification for holding elections on the West Bank and in

"I do believe there is no reason for being pessimistic," Weizman said. But, he added quickly, "I wouldn't like to say that I'm overly optimis-

"I think we should carry on, and somehow I feel that the peace process is inevitable.

Sadat said he is optimistic that a pact eventually will be signed. Without describing the nature of any new proposals, he told reporters, "There's no obstacle for which a solution cannot be found.'

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram quoted Defense Minister Kamal Hassan Ali as confirming Egypt had proposed that "practical executive'steps for self-rule be start-ed in Gaza" and then expanded to the West Bank

A peace talks spokesman for all three nations, George Sherman of the State Department, said Mubarak affirmed that Cairo wants to "deal with the West Bank and Gaza together."

The right to work laws keeps the state "in the drivers seat," he said and serves as an attractive factor for

Brown feels the good relations he has developed with the Texas Legislature and other state agencies will help him increase the budget of the TIC which has been decreasing for the past 10 years.

First priority this year, the new director said, will be to maintain or increase the budget of the commission in the recommendations made by the Legislative Budget Board which currently is calling for a 17 percent

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A scholar says a newly discovered document shows that Woodrow Wilson believed before the United States entered World War I that total victory would lead only

"Wilson was the only war leader in history who worked hard at not winning a total victory,' said Arthur Link, a history professor at Princeton who is general editor

Link said Thursday he based his conclusion on the draft of a speech that Wilson dictated on May 6, 1916, some 11 months before he asked Congress to declare war on Germany. Link, who said he found the draft a week ago, said Wilson never delivered the speech.

According to Link, Wilson said in the draft, among other things: 'The victorious nation ... places another chip on its shoulder and becomes unendurable as a neigh-

Peace Prize irony

It is another of those ironies so common to the Middle East that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin should be declared winners of the 1978 Nobel Peace Prize in the very midst of a new misunderstanding which jeopardized all they have worked for toward a peace settlement.

Mr. Begin's statement that Israel would "fatten and thicken" its settlements in the occupied West Bank territories was provocative to the point of recklessness.

As he must have known it would, his belligerent reassertion of Israeli claims over the West Bank rallied the Arab world anew against the Camp David accords and made Egypt's position increasingly untenable.

Egypt called home its negotiating team, which had just returned to Washington for the final treaty wrap-up.

The entire world, and not least of all the American people who have invested so much hope and effort toward a settlement in the Middle East, marveled at Mr. Begin's irrational sabotage of the peace momentum - a grim rerun of the bickering which early this year derailed negotiations after President Sadat's dramatic pilgrimage to Jerusalem.

Not surprisingly, an appalled public opinion seems to support the unusually sharp U.S. rebuke to Israel for its "excruciating" action, as one State Department official described it.

Israeli sources in Jerusalem blame the latest blowup on statements made by Assistant Secretary of State Harold L. Saunders while on a mission to Jordan, Saudi Arabia and the West Bank Palestinians seeking acceptance of the Camp David accords; Mr. Saunders suggested East Jerusalem was on the table for future West Bank negotiations.

This infuriated the Israelis who vow they will never surrender any part of their capital, and it compounded Mr. Begin's domestic pressures from his own Likud party members, who accuse him of giving too much away.

The entire issue of Jewish settlements has become sensitive following the Israeli government's decision to abandon 26 Isareli towns in the Gaza Strip and Sinai Peninsula under the Camp David accords.

And while the Carter administration's maladroit timing has provided Prime Minister Begin with a handy excuse to reaffirm his own trenchant views, one cannot escape the belief that there has to be more to it than

After all, Mr. Saunders was merely repeating long-standing U.S. policy regarding the occupied territories; he blazed no new policy trails.

Because Mr. Begin is too shrewd and experienced to throw such a bomb under the peace table without knowing precisely what he intended, we must speculate about his motives.

The only logical explanation is that the Begin government has made a highly adventurous decision to force the Carter administration to compromise what is considered to be a pro-Arab position on the future of the occupied West Bank territories.

Mr. Begin's timing suggests a policy of thinly disguised diplomatic blackmail. This, of course, is the most dangerous sort of folly. How, one wonders, can he hope to win by spitting simultaneously at his numerous enemies and his only true friend?

Washington has been rushing about in an effort to smooth all this out. But only Jerusalem can set things right now.

It is hoped that Mr. Begin's new status as a Nobel Peace laureate will prompt him to renew the only true role which offers his nation

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Sadat's troops shifting borders

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has already started to shift his troops and armor, according to intelligence reports, from his Israeli front to the Libyan border. The redeployment is a direct result of secret understandings that were reached at Camp David, our sources say.

This confirms our report a year ago that Sadat had a secret reason for visiting Israel. "He sought to neutralize the Israeli threat on his eastern front," we wrote on Nov. 29, 1977, "so he would be free to confront his unruly neighbor to the west, Libya's enfant terrible Muammar Qaddafi."

There was a time when the two leaders seriously considered unifying their nations under a common flag. But in 1973, Sadat countermanded a Qaddafi order to an Egyptian submarine to torpedo the Queen Elizabeth II which was carrying American and European Jews on a pilgrimage to Israel.

This precipitated an exchange of insults, which grew more heated over the years. Qaddafi accused Sadat of betraying the Arab cause; Sadat said Qaddafi was a "madman." The words erupted into occasional border clashes.

Sadat may also have hard economic reasons for pressing his quarrel with Qaddafi. Sadat has been fighting a losing battle against insolvency. The Libyan oil fields, with their $8 billion annual income, must look tempting to

The Egyptian leader also feels threatened by the Soviets, who are building a wall of steel around him. He cut his military ties with the Soviet Union and threw out his Soviet advisers in 1972. The Kremlin responded by shipping arms to Egypt's hostile neighbors - mainly Libya, Ethiopia,

The arms buildup in Libya, our sources say, helped to spur Sadat into making his dramatic peace overture to Israel. When the Kremlin later dispatched Cuban troops to spearhead an Ethiopian drive against Somalia, Sadat wanted to send an Egyptian expeditionary force to bolster the Somalians. He was talked out of it by the United States, whose logistics support he sought.

Meanwhile, an agitated Sadat has repeatedly urged President Carter to take a stronger stand against the Soviet power play in the Middle East. At Camp David, the president assured Sadat that the quiet cooperation of Egypt, Israel, Iran, Saudi Arabia and the United States would checkmate Soviet expansion in the area.

At the same time, Carter agreed to the Egyptian buildup along the Libyan border, with emphasis that it should be a defensive redeployment not a prelude to an invasion. The maneuver also had Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's tacit consent. For months, the Israelis and Egyptians have been secretly exchanging intelligence.

PRICE CONTROLS: The prevailing wisdom in Washington is that mandatory price controls won't work. But this is disputed by the only living person who has had responsibility for enforcing price regulations on a national scale.

He is Washington attorney Edward P. Morgan who was the enforcement chief at the Office of Price Stabilization during the Korean War. "Mandatory controls have worked effectively," he told us, "in every instance where they have been tried.

The federal government held the line on wages and prices during World War II and again stopped galloping inflation dead in its tracks during the Korean War, he said. He also contended that controls worked "to the extent that they were employed" during the Nixon administration.

"The secret to holding the line on inflation," said Morgan, "is firm, even-handed enforcement of wage and price regulations by an enforcement organization that ruthlessly ferrets out and prosecutes the cheaters."

ENCOURAGING SNITCHERS: The Internal Revenue Service is encouraging businessmen to snitch on employees they suspect may be overclaiming dependents in order to cut down or eliminate tax deductions from their paychecks.

Falsification of a withholding form is punishable by a $500 fine and a year in jail, so an employer who cooperates with the IRS could be getting his workers in deep trouble.

A small businessman in Ohio has written us in anger after receiving a form letter from the Cleveland IRS office instructing him to turn in any employee who "suddenly increases substantially the number of exemptions claimed or ... files a form claiming exemption from withholding.

Wrote the feisty Ohio businessman, "I consider this an outrageous document indeed ... I think that IRS has become paranoid by reason of growing resentment of thousands of employees and employers who simply are rebelling against autocratic and arbitrary tactics of this government

"I for one will certainly not cooperate in any way that requires my scrutiny or my speculation into my employees' private affairs," he continues. "If an employee willingly or inadvertently falsifies on his W4 form, it is the business of IRS to detect such transgressions and pursue the matter with the transgressor, preferably without the knowledge of any outsiders, including myself."

Although Treasury regulations require employers to report suspicions of incorrect statements by their employees, there is no penalty for refusing to tattle. Even so, the businessman asked that he not be identified because "no one wants the vengeance of IRS upon their heads."

the day. There are other variables but the charisma of the candidate and the efficiency of the campaign organization are in my opinion the two decisive factors in most races.

Issues are almost never decisive, though there are exceptions. One reason issues are rarely decisive is that today's professional politicians have no qualms about lying. Most of themwill poll the district and take the stands on issues that a majority of the people do

It's this crass opportunism which accounts for the Tweedledee-Tweedledum oratory. Have you ever heard any candidate who was not in favor of all the things you are in favor of? You wonder, since all politicians are against high taxes and big bureaucracies, why we have high taxes and big bureaucracies. Well, the answer is because they lie.

In short, it's difficult to know if a candidate is saying what he thinks or saying what he thinks you want to hear. The latter is the safest assumption, especially in the cases of professional politicians who float from one office to another.

Finally, you can never be sure issues decided a race because you can never be sure if the voters understand the issues or the candidate's positions. For example, California Gov. Jerry Brown vigorously opposed Proposition 13, but a poll taken just before his re-election showed that 42 percent of the people thought he had been a supporter of Proposition 13.

basis of truth. We don't. We vote on' our perception of what is true. Unfortunately, though it need not be, much of many political campaigns is a deliberate effort to hide the truth.

The picture is not black, though Living in a free country is a fascinating business and to perfectionists, frequently frustrating. A free citizen must maintain a continuing state of adjustment. Elections don't always turn out the way we want them to; people we support sometimes disappoint us; policies we think are essential are rejected; yet, despite it all, the nation goes on.

I suppose you could say being a free citizen is like being a housewife. No matter how hard you work, there is never an end of the jobs that have to be done in order to maintain a house-

Tolerance of change and imperfection, however, is the glue which has held our Republic together. The great danger of the juvenile left is that it lacks this tolerance.

The most important thing about this past election is that it was held. Whether our guys won or lost is not as important as the fact that they all had a chance to win and that those who lost did not reach for a gun.

Jody Powell's man wins in New Hampshire balloting

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Working quietly in the background, presidential press secretary Jody Powell played a major role in the upset victory of Democrat Hugh Gallen over threeterm conservative Gov. Meldrim Thomson for governor of New Hamp-

The uphill Gallen campaign, which was known in the bowels of the White House as "Jody's project," was rated one of President Carter's highest election priorities for two reasons: because New Hampshire holds the earliest presidential primary in 1980; and because Gallen was one of Carter's foremost political allies in the 1976 New Hampshire primary — a landmark on Carter's road to the presidential nomination.

Powell's help for Gallen was discreet. He travelled without publicity to Boston during the campaign for a meeting with Paul McEachern, Gal-len's chief fund-raiser, on how to fat-ten Gallen's campaign purse. He also made personal appeals to Democratic

The payoff came Nov. 7 when Gallen scored just under 50 percent of the vote against Thomson and independent candidate Wesley Powell. That assures Carter full support from Gallen and the state party in case Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, California Gov. Edward M. Kennedy, California Gov. Edward G. (Jerry) Brown or any other Democrat decides to run for

DRY PRESIDENTIAL EYES

While President Carter did not claim credit for Democratic midterm victories, White House eyes were dry over the defeat of Democratic candidates who ran away from the president during the campaign.

Heading the list were the two defeated Texas candidates: Rep. Bob Krueger, running for the Senate, and state Atty. Gen. John Hill, running for governor. Neither wanted any contact with Carter or his energy policies.

But what rankled the White House most was the performance of Peter Flaherty, the defeated Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania. Flaherty, as mayor of Pittsburgh, was the state's first important Carter-for-president backer in 1976 and later came to Washington as deputy attorney general. But with Carter uty attorney general. But with Carter down in the polls, Flaherty gave him a wide berth in the campaign.

A footnote: Presidential aides had been hoping for an upset in North Carolina by state insurance commissioner John Ingram over Sen. Jesse Helms. The president developed a strong affection for Ingram, like Carter a born-again Christian and neo-populist who won the Democratic nomination against the wishes of the party establishment.

REVERSE COATTAILS

Sen. Charles Percy's spectacular ampaign comeback unwittingly elped undermine his party's single most important congressional election goal: to defeat Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva, the esteemed leader of liberal Democrats in the House. When polls showed Percy's re-election efforts trailing badly with less than a week to go, Mikva appeared to be behind Republican state Rep. John Porter in the tightly contested Chicago North Shore district. But Percy's rise doomed Porter. The reason: besides Percy, two Republican statewide candidates -Gov. James Thompson and Atty. Gen. William Scott - were running very well in Mikva's district. "It was too much to expect the suburban ticketsplitter to vote a straight Republican ticket," one party strategist told us. "Mikva was the beneficiary."

A footnote: The Illinois outcome suggested the limitations of the tax cut issue. Both Percy and Mikva defeated candidates who stressed tax reduction, and Thompson won in a huge landslide despite vetoing two tax cuts passed by the legislature.

BAKER RUNNING

A confidential letter from Sen. Howard Baker asking to be retained as Senate Republican leader is raising eyebrows among some Republican senators. Expressing thanks for the "personal privilege and great honor" of having been elected minority leader two years ago, Baker said: "I would greatly appreciate your support to continue in that capacity next year." Howard Baker asking to be retained

The "next year" formulation is curious. If re-elected leader, Baker would serve the full two years of the 96th Congress. One recipient of the letter told us privately that, even if the phraseology was inadvertent, it suggests that Baker may be considering quitting as Republican leader in 1980 to devote full time to campaigning for the Republican presidential Muted opposition to Baker - not yet jelled - is based precisely on the presumed conflict between his presidential aspirations and his job as Republican leader. The "next year" formulation, according to senators skeptical about re-electing Baker as leader in January, plays into anti-Baker hands.

A footnote: Although Baker is not opposed by another Republican senator for the leader's job, allies of other potential presidential candidates worry that Baker's exposure and political profit from the leader-ship job could give him an unfair

J.W. McMillen, 75, of 1810 W. College Ave., a Midland mayor during the 1950s, died Thursday in a Midland hospital following a lengthy illness.

Services were to be at 10 a.m. today in St. Ann's Catholic Church. Burial will be at 4 p.m. Saturday in St. Mary's Cemetery at Ponca City, McMillen was born April 27, 1903, in Stroud, Okla., located in Indian Territory. He was reared in Ponca City, Okla., and attended school there.

He was graduated from the School of Mines of the University of Wisconsin in 1908 with a degree in geology. He became associated with Marland Oil Co. at Ponca City for a few years before moving in 1932 to Midland. He and Fred Wright formed the Wright and McMillen Petroleum Geologists firm. They operated that firm until 1968, when McMillen became an independent geologist. He maintained his office until 1975.

McMillen was a member of St. Ann's Catholic Church. From 1949 to 1953, he was on the Midland City Council. He served as mayor from 1953 to 1955. The McMillen Water Field located northwest of the city bears his name.

He was a former trustee and member of the board of Midland Memorial Hospital. McMillen worked actively for High Sky Girls' Ranch.

Survivors include his wife, Pauline; a nephew, Jim McMillen of Crawfordsville, Ind., and a niece, Mary Margaret Byrd of Dallas

Pallbearers for the service were to be Fred Wright Jr., Perry Pickett, John Fuszek, Robert A. Estes, Jno. P. Butler, Arthur Yeagur, Reece Cleveland, Murray Fasken, Paul Davis, C.S. Black, all of Midland, and Henry Franka of San Antonio.

The family has suggested memort als be made to the building fund for Midland Memorial Hospital and High Sky Girls' Ranch.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market moved broadly higher today in quiet trading despite indications that the rising cost of credit is far from its peak.

At noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead by 2.34 at 796.52. Advances led declines by better than 4-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Big Board volume came to 10..6 million shares at noon, against 9.93 million in the first two hours Thursday.

A few major New York and regional banks earlier this week had raised their prime lending rate 4-point to 11 percent. Today, the higher rate spread to Citibank — usually the pace-setter in interest-rate moves - and others. In Singapore, meanwhile, Bank of America Vice Chairman Leland S. Prussia predicted a 12 percent prime rate within six months.

Higher interest rates traditionally a stock market depressant - are seen by the Federal Reserve as a weapon against inflation because they can cut consumer demand. Some indication that tighter money moves might be working was given by the latest weekly money supply figures, which showed a moderate $1.1 billion gain even though loan demand remains heavy.

Boeing was down 1/8 at 6234. Sears Roebuck was unchanged at 2014 and General Motors was unchanged at 54%. Oils were higher following several favorable brokerage-house and news reports, with Exxon up % at 49% and Texaco ahead by %

The NYSE's composite index rose .28 to 52.37; at the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 1.57 to 142.60.

Some insurance companies lower rates

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Some prices are coming down. Major insurers have already lowered their rates on individual life policies, and more cuts are likely by the first of the year.

Officials say the decline in premium rates reflects at least three factors:

-The increased return on company investments, particularly the yield on fixed-income securities. -Greater efficiencies, particularly through use of electronic computers.

-Lower than anticipated death rates that might be attributed to medical progress, better personal health habits, and safer driving.

An industry study of 90 companies shows the average price of policies already has dropped from $15.60 in 1975 to $15.10 in 1976 and $14.30 in 1977. A sharper decline may have occurred over the past

Among the largest insurers, New England Mutual and John Hancock already have cut premium rates, and New England Mutual plans another cut Jan. 1. Metropolitan is "seriously looking into" the possibili-

Prudential, the largest life insurer, said "At this time our data doesn't support a reduction based on life expectancy." But it plans lower rates after Jan. 1 for women, based on their greater longevity.

Even if their own underwriting experience fails to warrant reductions, other companies might for competitive reasons be forced into line with the lower rates, an industry source suggested.

A mutual company, for example, is compelled to reflect an improved underwriting experience in its rates, and thus could force stock companies to lower their rates also or risk losing business. The better mortality rates - or less than anticipated death rates - are most pronounced in the 30-year to 60-year age bracket, said Walter Bussewitz of the National Council of Life Insurance, Washington, D.C. He said the trend has been observed for 25 years or so, and that it has compelled the Society of Actuaries to embark on the production of new actuarial tables, a task he said takes considerable time. In the interim, he said, some companies have decided to go ahead with lower premium charges, or in some instances improved dividends, based on their own rather than general actuarial experi-

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Statistical Bulletin shows the average longevity of the residential population reached a record high of 73 years in 1977, with both sexes sharing in the improvement. Citing the publication, Bussewitz said that in 1977 life expectancy at birth increased to 69.2 years for males and 76.9 years for females, both sharp in-

Longevity for the entire residential population has increased two to three years since 1969-1971, and 13.8 years since the years 1929-1931, when the average was 59.2 years, he said.

Hospital Board OKs indigent care contract

The Midland County Hospital District Board of Trustees Thursday approved a contract between Midland and Ector counties concerning procedures and payments for furnishing hospital care to indigent residents.

The agreement, said officials, recognizes people's ability to live in one county and receive care, under certain circumstances, in the other county's facili-

The agreement establishes a formula for reimbursement purposes. It also notes Midland Memorial Hospital is not to become involved in Ector County obstetric cases, which are now being taken in an Andrews hospital. Medical Center Hospital of Odessa has no such facilities, except in emergencies.

The contract also involves a set of guidelines to be made by both counties to determine who qualifies as indigent care patients.

Procedures to determine if a person is actually a resident of the county in question are also included, said officials.

Also spelled out are circumstances under which a person can be rejected. The agreement can be terminated by either side.

Ted Kerr, attorney for the district, said, "It's an agreement hammered out between both counties after long discussions between officials of both

The inauguration of the 75-mile ferry run adds a vital sea link to passenger transportation between the two commercial centers, which have remained tied by rail and resumed air service last month.

The 63-seat, diesel-powered ferry averages 30 knots and cuts 41/2 hours off the train trip. Seats - which cost $14 one way - are already sold out through Christmas, mostly to Hong Kong Chinese who want to visit rela-

The original agreement for air service covered the duration of the month-long Canton Trade Fair, which ended this week, but Communist newspapers in Hong Kong indicated the 20-minute flights to Canton may become permanent and possibly extend to other cities.

For the trend-conscious, jogging is no simple matter of pulling on faded high school gym shorts and panting 'round the block. No, like so many other seemingly uncluttered pleasures, running is rife with paraphernalia. And expensive, too, if you heed the outdo-your-neighbor fervor that has taken over this young sport.

Clearly marketed for the upper income end of the running set, it is a combination billy club and swagger stick intended to beat back snappy mongrels and aggressive automobiles.

Self-help treatments may delay baldness

phetamines

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am 25 years old, and I am nafac, and Sopor. Mandrax is a European brand extremely worried about becoming bald. My father is almost completely bald at age 50, and my hair is already thinning. I'm afraid I'll be bald before I get married! Is there anything safe I can do to prevent balding?-Mark B.

Dear Mark B .: Unfortunately, what you may be describing, is a dominant trait, male pattern baldness. This trait is characterized by hair loss and may start as early as the teen-age years or early 20s, and your forefathers most probably suffered the same male pattern baldness. However, self-help treatment may help delay balding.

If your hair loss is associated with seborrhea of the scalp, treatment of this disorder may decrease hair loss. For the best treatment you should see your doctor. I have found patients who had a thyroid or vitamin deficiency which, when corrected, helped preserve their remaining hair. Avoid hair abuse, which can hasten hair loss, such as exposure to sun, wind, and extremes of temperature, as well as carelessly harsh combing and brushing.

There's not too much else that can be done for hair loss, and the doctor may offer no more help other than hair transplants. Good advice is to change your attitude by accepting it with pride and realize that is a sign of maturity

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am taking Quaaludes. What do you know about them?-A.G.

Dear A.G.: Methaqualone (Quaaludes) is a synthetic sedative chemically unrelated to the barbiturates, glutethinide, or chloral hydrate. It has been widely abused because it was once mistakenly thought to be safe, nonaddictive and to have aphrodisiac qualities. Actually, methaqualone has caused many cases of serious poisoning. It is administered orally. Large doses cause coma and may be accompanied by thrashing movements or con-vulsions. Continued heavy use of large doses leads to tolerance and dependence. Methaqualone has been marketed in the United States under various brand names such as Quaalude, Parest, Optimil, Som-meowners having problems making payments on home-improvement loans will soon be able extend some of the loans for up to 15 years.

The extra time to repay the loans will become available under a rule change being put into effect Nov. 27 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The change covers HUD's Title I program for insuring loans made by private lenders for home improve-

Currently such loans can be refinanced for up to 7 additional years as long as the new obligation does not become due more than 12 years from the date of the original loan.

Under the new rules a home improvement loan for a single-family residence can be extended for up to 15 years as long as it doesn't come due more than 25 years from the original

And for multifamily residences and non-residential property the loan can be refinanced for up to 12 years as long as it doesn't come due later than 22 years from the original issue

Borrowers who want to refinance loans under this program will have to make arrangements with the lender who granted the original loan.

SUPER HANDYMAN

Grip important for removing stubborn bolts

Screws and bolts are usually excellent fasteners. However, there are times when they are a little too excellent and don't want to let go when you want-them to. It can be rust or corrosion, or they can just be stubborn. Makes you want to give up your religion when you run across a tiny screw that may get the best of you. Probably the biggest key to putting up a proper fight is to start with the proper size and type of screwdriver. The tip should fit the slot in both width and thickness for the maximum leverage. Next, select the longest screwdriver that will fit. The grip is also important, but every "expert" has his own best grip. Generally, you get more force if you have good downward pressure as well as the twisting force. If you can use both hands for the tool, twist with your dominant hand while exerting downward force with the palm of the other. If it's a one-handed job, grip the handle so the heel of your palm is against the end of the handle for downward pressure while the fingers and thumb circle for twisting. You may still have a problem, but starting out right gives you a fighting chance.

Often a stubborn screw will break oose if you have just a little extra nuscle. You can add a little extra twist by attaching an adjustable wrench to the flat part of the screwdriver blade. - B.E.

Of course, if you have squareshanked screwdrivers, they are made to take a wrench for extra torque. Too much extra muscle on a regular screwdriver can ruin it.

Dear Super Al: A stubborn screw or bolt requires considerable downward pressure, and this can result in a big blister in the palm of your hand. I added crutch tips to the handles of several of my screwdrivers. I selected sizes that would fit snugly. Then I poured a small amount of epoxy glue into the rubber cap before installing it, and when the adhesive set up, the tips were there for good. They help to cushion the palm of the hand, and you'll get a better grip. - R.K.H.

A SUPER HINT - If you're smart, and if you're having a problem with a rusted nut, bolt or screw, you'll let penetrating oil do the work. It will do away with rust and corrosion as it works its way along the threads. Be patient and let the stuff have time to work. If you don't have penetrating oil, kerosene, lighter fluid, hydrogen peroxide and even lemon juice may help. Heat can often save your muscles also. By touching a hot soldering iron to the head of a stubborn fastener (but NEVER in conjunction with any of the flammable liquids mentioned), expansion will sometimes break it loose. Another helper is a sharp hammer blow to the head (of the screw, that is) which may shock it loose.

Dear Al:

Here's a trick that will give the tip of a screwdriver better friction in the slot, and thus make it less likely to slip. Rub the tip over a piece of blackboard or carpenter's chalk, leaving a coat of chalk dust on all surfaces that will come in contact with the fastener.

Dear Super:

If your efforts to remove a stubborn screw or bolt results in botching up the slot, it is often possible to saw a

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - When former magazine editor James F. Fixx decided to write a book about running, he had no idea how successful that book would be.

"The Complete Book of Running" just celebrated its first anniversary of publication with 660,000 copies in print. The Random House book made best-sellers' lists one month after its debut in October 1977 and has stayed there ever since.

'I really wrote the book to please myself," said Fixx in a telephone interview from his home in Riverside, Com. "I had such a great time writing it I would have felt rewarded even il it hadn't been a success, lems, according to a study of 92 patients. The results were outlined at an American Heart Association conference by Dr. Erika Friedmann, a University of Pennsylvania biologist. She said 11 of 39 patients without pets died within a year after hospitalization, while all but three of 53 pet owners were still alive.

Inexplicably, the percentages held up for both married and unmarried nts, she said. The relationship between pet owof owner's heart attack nership and survival, she said, held up even when compared statistically with other factors, such as severity of illness, sex, income, education or type

"Pets are a form of social contact ... that keeps you from being totally preoccupied with yourself," Dr. Friedmann said in an earlier interview. "People tend to personify their pets, to talk to them and ask them questions. The pet is not just an ani-mal to them. It has some definite place in the family. Co-researcher Margaret Noctor, a registered nurse at the University of Maryland Hospital, added: "The patients now have someone else to live for and that may play a role. The pet cannot survive without its owner, and they feel needed."

Dr. Friedmann said the effect of psychological factors on recovery is well-documented and that pets have proven therapeutic value as companions for the elderly and in treating severely withdrawn children.

Moreover, they said, the faulty research technique may also have caused erroneous findings in studies that reported a relationship between birth control pills and breast cancer.

The new research, conducted by Ralph Horwitz and Alvan Feinstein, was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine, the same journal that carried three of the original estrogen reports.

Women often take estrogen to relieve the ill effects of menopause. Previous studies during the past three years warned that the medicine can cause cancer of the endometrium, the inner lining of the uterus.

Those studies, now challenged by the Yale doctors, showed that women who take estrogen during menopause face up to eight times the risk of uterine cancer as other women their

"We conclude that the strength of the much-publicized association between estrogens and endometrial cancer has doubtlessly been exaggerated and needs re-evaluation," they wrote.

The Yale doctors stopped short of saying estrogen definitely does not cause this form of cancer. "All we can say is that the relationship has not been proved," Feinstein said in a telephone interview.

Birth control pills raise pressure, increase risks of heart attack

By ROBERT LOCKE AP Science Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Birth control pills tend to raise blood pressure and cause other physical changes believed to increase the risk of heart attack and stroke, according to a University of Michigan scientist.

"There is no question that while women take oral contraceptives, some conditions associated with cardiovasuclar disease are altered in an unfavorable way," said Dr. Leon D. Ostrander Jr.

The changes apparently are not permanent, however. He said they disappear when women stop using the

Ostrander said in an interview his research does not accuse the contraceptives of causing heart disease and none of the women studied had heart problems that could be blamed on the

"The changes are not very great," he said, but they are significant enough that doctors should be extremely cautious in prescribing the pill for women already susceptible to heart disease. Adding the impact of contraceptives in women with high blood pressure, for example, might cause a dangerous increase, he said.

Apartment hunting at best is hard work. And, there's a certain degree of luck in locating a place that is just right for you and your needs. Some of the important factors are location of the apartment complex and, in particular, the location of your unit, security, floor plan and

If you find a place that rates high scores on all of these things, you'll probably sign the lease ... and with

But, too often, you have to make compromises in your selection, even when you find something that comes close to your "dream place."

What do you do when your new apartment has a bright blue carpeting and all of your furnishings are in shades of browns, golds and greens? In the past, you'd either have to talk the landlord into laying new carpeting (a request which probably would get a turn down or go out and buy new furniture or upholstery that blends with the blue floor covering.

The latter option was a costly one so you might have had to make do with a place that looks like a mismatch or take an apartment with the right color floor covering even though it had other drawbacks.

Now a furniture designer has come up with an idea that solves some of those problems.

It's a new do-it-yourself concept in furniture fashion which lets you change the fabric on an upholstered sofa, chair, loveseat or sectional.

Take a custom-made furniture trame and put heavy duty velcro along the sides, top and undersurface. Then cover with a fabric that has been custom-made for a snug fit on the

Bergman's 'Autumn Sonata:' dubious neuroticism

By GARY ARNOLD The Washington Post

Ingmar Bergman's "Autumn Sonata" is a dubious variation on familiar neurotic themes. If anything, Bergman places an insupportable strain on his customary inconsolable tune by presenting a new note of accusatory self-pity, indulged in by a resentful child at the expense of an allegedly negligent parent. At its worst this movie sounds like the ideal entertainment for the guy who recently sued his parents on grounds of mental cru-

A review

The movie is arguably worth endur-

reflects a complex interplay of emotions, culminating in an impression of sincerely affectionate solicitude. Unreasonably carving praise, Eva sets herself up for a crusher by insisting that Charlotte demonstrate her interpretation of the passage. Charlotte acquiesces, and the difference is overwhelming: Anyone less vain than Eva might appreciate the demonstration as a privileged moment, revealing how much thought and feeling an artist can devote to her work.

Since she's feeding her resentment. Eva responds to Charlotte's commentary and playing wih an expresion of dumbly smoldering hatred. Ullmann is phenomenal at projecting the stolid ugliness that can deface a personality overcome by feelings of inferiority and self-pity. She doesn't overdo it, but her eyes begin to dilate and her mouth to slacken in a way that seems peculiarly terrifying. Slowly modulating from shy anxiety, she begins to resemble something vaguely subhuman - a stricken, helpless beast of

Whether such privileged moments of acting intensity compensate for the weirdly partisan emphasis of the text is a moot point. The idea of recriminatory conflict between mother and daughter seems fair enough, but Bergman declines to play fair. For reasons that may or may not be worth

Charlotte's egotism seems a cliche rather than a reality. Bergman contradicted himself in "Wild Strawberries" when he tried to pretend that the old doctor, played by Victor Sjostrom, who looked sublimely compassionate in his old age, had been living a life stunted by selfishness. It didn't play then, and it doesn't play now on a facial landscape as proud and sensitive as Ingrid Bergman's.

What could Berman have in mind when he compels Charlotte to acknowledge Eva's accusations and ask her forgiveness only to have Eva respond with mad self-righteousness, "There can be no forgiveness"? The late Louis B. Mayer would certainly Bergman's casting cup lives up to expectations. Ingrid Bergman and Liv Ullmann invest their roles with undeniable emotional conviction and impact. These high-powered, spellbinding actresses are a pleasure to watch. Unlike Ellen Burstyn and Melino Mercouri in "A Dream of Passion," Bergman and Ullmann compete on equal terms, drawing on comparable imaginative and technical resources. Moreover, Bergman and cinematogropher Sven Nykvist impose the sort of concentrated, intimate pictorial scheme that inspires rapt attention by relying on the expressive range of the performance in sustained close-ups.

delights for readers

And that's what this book is all about, a log by Gerald Durrell of his and other persons' attempts to capture some skinks, bats, boas, pigeons and other animals from Mauritania and nearby parts.

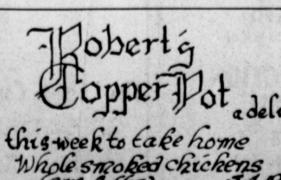

So, right off the bat, so to speak, it will take a little above-average interest in animals for readers to delve into this book

But for those with a fondness for feather and fur and others there's a bonus here: the delightful writing talent of Gerald Durrell.

He obviously has two loves - animals and literacy - and it quickly becomes obvious in "Golden Bats & Pink Pigeons." His warmth and affection for all creatures come through very clearly in his description of the need for and the difficulties of preserving vanishing species.

Whether it's describing the distinct and unforget-table aroma of a bat trap baited with rotting fruit, the undisturbed beauty of sea life in an underwater coral bed, or the trust and innocence in a pink pigeon's curious glance at his approaching captor, Durrell mixes a mastery of language and a gentle sense of humor for a treat of smooth and pleasant reading.

Leadership not the point, says 'RCO All Star' Levon

By MARY CAMPBELL to give Richard a rest Dixie Down." AP Newsfeatures Writer

Drummer Levon Helm doesn't have to be group leader all the time. "The main thing isn't who drives," he says. "It doesn't mean a lot to me, as long as we get there. I'll take my turn at the wheel and when I get tired, somebody else can drive a while. Helm has been a leader - there's Levon and the Hawks. And he's remembered as lead singer of the Band. In conversation, he qualifies both.

He has made two records for ABC Records, "Levon Helm and the RCO All Stars" and "Levon Helm." As they finished the first one, doing it by trial and error, Helm says, "Duck Dunn emerged as leader, without elections and without campaigns. And Tom Malone emerged as co-captain, handling horn arrangements."

On the second album, those two told the rest what to do and it went smoother and quicker,

Helm says. The RCO All Stars are some 15 musicians, whose schedules often conflict. But any time about 10 of them can get together, Helm says, they can make an album or go on a tour. Some of the musicians on the first album who were busy and couldn't work on the second may be heard from again on the third. RCO stands for "our co. (company)," with our pronounced as it is in Arkansas.

Helm is a native of Phillips County, Ark., which is near Memphis. He was a musician on weekends in high school and met Ronnie Hawkins, a native of Huntsville, Ark. "Playing in his band was my first job out of high school. I graduated and hit the road," Helm says. "By a strange coincidence, Conway Twitty, who is from the southeastern part of Arkansas, had connections with a couple of different nightclub circuits in Canada, so we went there to play. We had three more musicians from Arkansas. Over the years they quit and were replaced by Canadian musicians.

"When the Hawks left Ronnie to try to do something on our own, we called it Levon and the Hawks because I had been with Ronnie the longest and I knew all the club owners. That was never anything impor-tant to me; I didn't really enjoy being leader."

There were six or seven of them then, Helm says, but by the time the Hawks became the Band there were

'Star Wars' spectacular makes nice bubble gum for the brain

By JERRY BUCK

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - "I don't sing, I don't dance, and don't ask me," says Harrison Ford of "Star Wars" fame.

Ford, the laconic Han Solo of the swashbuckling space epic, said he leaves the singing to Carrie Fisher. At least she's the daughter of Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds.

But Ford, along with Mark Hamill, 3CPO, R2D2 and Chewbacca, stick to their characters and the tenuous plot for "The Star Wars Holiday Special" Friday night on CBS.

Is it an exploitation of the biggest grossing movie of all time? You bet, but relax and enjoy it. It's bubble gum for the brain. It loosely centers on the family of

Chewbacca, Solo's 7-foot-2 Wookiee co-pilot, on the planet of Kazzook. At home are his wife, Malla; his father, Itchy, and his son, Lumpy.

It's Life Day on Kazzook, and the Wookiees are visited by many of the stars of the movie and are entertained by Beatrice Arthur, Art Carney, Harvey Korman, Diahann Carroll and the Jefferson Starship.

Miss Arthur tends a bar not unlike that on Tatooine that attracted such strange customers in the movie. She looks like she could handle the

The special has its own dazzling special effects. Part of it is found in the Wookiees' sophisticated electronic equipment. Diahann Carroll appears as a water goddess singing only for Itchy's enjoyment. And when Lumpy gets bored, he plays halographic TV cassettes in which the characters emerge full-size from the screen. The Jefferson Starship comes in an electronic music box.

Co-producer Ken Welch said, "We wantedSto do things you've never seer before. For one sequence we've got the camera in a lighted mirror box and it endlessly repeats the image to

Most of the "Star Wars" cast -Ford as Solo, Hamill as Luke Skywalker, Miss Fisher a Princess Leia, Athony Daniels as 3CPO and Peter Mayhew as Chewbacca - will assemble early next year in Norway for the first movie sequel, set on an ice planet. Undoubtedly Darth Vader, given voice by James Earl Jones, will be there, too.

Miss Fisher, attired in Princess Leia's white gown and with her dark hair up in buns, said, "I've never been more excited. I get a new gown and a new hair style for the movie."

Ford credits "Star Wars" with putting his career together, but claims to be a "15-year overnight success." Since then he's starred in "Force 10 from Navarone" and the World War II romance "Hanover Street." He said, "It's the movie that made the world safe for war movies."

Daniels came here for the special after completing a run in South Africa in the play "P.S., Your Cat Is Dead," in which he played an American cat

"That was a great chance to get away from C3PO," Daniels said. "He's zappy and has a great sense of humor. C3PO is terribly formal, which gives him his sense of Mayhew said after his role as Chewbacca he went back to his old job as a hospital orderly. "But it was no great strain on me," he said. "It was what I had done before and I enjoyed it. I'm basically out of it now.

Mark Hamill was another unknown whose career went into orbit after 'Star Wars." He starred in "Corvette Summer" and in the upcoming "Big Red One."

"All our personalities are close to our characters," Hamill said. "George Lucas cast it that way. I'm very pop oriented. I love being on bubble gum cards. I'm not worried about being typecast."

Russian cellist finds music, life in United States exciting, difficult

By JOSEPH McLELLAN The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - "It would be easier," says Olga Rostropovich, "if I were a boy. "I tell my father, 'Papa, I wish I would be born a boy — everything is so easy,' and he says, 'Nonsense. You are a girl and you should be a girl.'

"But it is true. If you are a girl, they tell you: Go buy a nice dress, go sew something, go cook something, go to a movie and cry a little bit. I would rather play the cello.

Rostropovich, 22, is the second notable cellist of that name. She took up the instrument after years of studying piano, and over the serious objections of her father, National Symphony conductor Mstislav Rostropovich.

"WOULD YOU BELIEVE that three years ago I could not speak a word of English?" Olga's hazel eyes cloud as she remembers her beginning at the Juilliard School, her introduction to New York, the shock of the giant hectic pace and sheer strangeness of this city and country — her new home whose language she did not

No, you would not believe it; her English is fluent and almost without accent — a slight Slavic tinge in some of the vowels, a subtly foreign lilt in the rhythm. But it is hard to believe that she has learned it all, while also intensivly studying music, in the last three years. She seems very Ameri-

But is she? Certainly, there is a Russian soul behind the chic, fluffy turtleneck, the casual, bouffant hairdo. At lunch, she asks the waiter for more black bread ("we have black bread in Russia") and she confesses to moments of weakness:

"ON THE WAY downtown, we drove past a church that looked like the Kremlin, and for a few minutes I had this terrible nostalgia. I wanted to go home. I wanted to cry. Then it was all right again.'

There is a long-standing, friendly family argument in the Rostropovich clan echoeing the archetypal Russian argument between Moscow and Leningrad. Olga's mother, soprano Galina Vishnevskaya, is a Leningrad patriot, Olga a dyed-in-the-wool Muscovite. For the parents, who have lost their Soviet citizenship, the argument is academic. Olga and her younger sister Elena still have Russian passports, but don't know whether they will ever see Russia again.

What she sees most often now is New York, and as Olga descirbes it. her life there is very Spartan - almost totally dedicated to her art: "I wake up at 6: 30 every morning, go to the Y and swim from 7 to 8, come home, shower, make breakfast, clean my room, dress and then practice.

hours a day, then I go to school and there the work is endless — just forget about it. I also run for two miles every day, around the reservoir in Central Park, where Jackie Onassis also runs sometimes I see her there.

There have been no romantic interests in her life since she moved to New York - not, she says, as a matter of principle, but because "I didn't meet anyone who interests me.

'Nobody believes I don't have boyfriends," she says, a shade apologetically. "I don't even have anybody I like, so I say to myself, 'Why not use the energy for the cello?"

OTHERWISE, SHE FINDS the cultural life of New York very exciting ("you can have everything there all the musicians come there"), but Moscow remains "the most beautiful town in the world." Her voice grows slower, softer when she talks about it. though some of the memories are painful and she has strong reservations about returning: "Does the free bird fly back into the cage? If you don't know what freedom is about, you can be very happy there."

Her parents, as musicians of international stature, were outside of the Soviet Union frequently in the late 60s and early '70s while Olga was studying at the Moscow Conservatory; when her father publicly sided with Alexander Solzhenitsyn in his dispute with the Soviet government, life became difficult.

"I remember at the Conservatory, one of the maids would come into my room and tell me: 'I just heard on the BBC, your father is in Italy and he says he will never come home again.' Then a few days later, she came back: 'I just heard another broadcast about your father in Italy. You will never see your father again.'

BECAUSE OF Rostropovich's unique status in the world of music, the Soviet government finally allowed the whole family to leave the country at the same time - an almost unheard-of concession. But Olga recalls an incident shortly before they left which she believes was arranged by the government.

"One day, in the elevator going up to our Moscow apartment, a man pulled a knife on my sister Elena and asked for her money. She didn't have any money, so he told her to be quiet and let her off at our floor and went down in the elevator.

"Elena came into our apartment, very upset, and told us about it and wanted to call downstairs. But I told her: 'Don't telephone. The police will be brought in and we will be witnesses and they can hold us for three years, maybe five years, and we will never get out of Russia.'

OUT OF RUSSIA NOW, in the Manhattan apartment where she lives with her pianist-sister Elena, also a Juilliard student, she still has a reminder of communist life nearby. Her window overlooks the building that diplomats have a recreation area. "Every morning in the summer, if I want, I can see their naked bodies swimming in the pool or watch them doing their exercises. They do it all together with a leader, and it is very funny to see all those politicians and diplomats jumping up and down."

Olga is quick and precise in her gestures and inclined to give you a cool, level gaze while she says mildly outrageous things:

"Do you have children? Are you strict with them? I will not be strict with my children, except that I will teach them music and in that I will make them work hard - lock them in a room and make them practice, practice, practice.'

While her parents jet around the world from concert to concert, Olga, with one more year to go at Juilliard, can hardly wait to be free.

"MY FATHER SAYS I must get apiece of paper from the Juilliard. Why? I already have a piece of paper from the Moscow Conservatory, which is supposed to be the world's hardest, and I don't even know where it is. Nobody has ever looked at it. When I applied at Juilliard, nobody asked to see my piece of paper from

Although still a student, Olga Rostropovich has already performed publicly on three continents, sometimes with her father conducting: 'He is very strict, but I think he is happy - a little bit happy; he could be happier.'

When she first became interesed in the cello ("very late - at age 13. I started studying the piano when I was 5 or 6"), her father told her that it was "too difficult - he says the cello is physically the most difficult instrument to play, and I think he is right. He said I was too skinny and it is not a girl's instrument, but my mother thought I should try the cello and I

ONE OF HER RECENT performances was in Brazil with her father conducting the Shostakovich concerto, which was composed for Mstislav Rostropovich and dedicated to him.

He said in his column that celibacy should never be completely abandoned in the church. "But we must ask the question today, is celibacy an essential part of priesthood? History and theology seem to answer 'No.'

He wrote that celibacy continues to be optional in several countries, particularly in the Orient. "Due to the efforts of Archbishop John Ireland, this universal privilege of oriental Catholics was denied those in the Americas, an action that is the cause of continuing controversy.

Landregan declined to categorize the Dallas area as a conservative stronghold within the church, but one clergyman said, "The public stand he has taken would be unique in New York. That tells you what it means in Dallas.

LUBBOCK WELL

Lawrence Barber Jr. of San Francisco, Calif., No. 1 Lulian, scheduled as a 5,350-foot wildcat, has been completed and assigned to the Edmission (Clear Fork) field of Lubbock Coun-

Two miles north of Lubbock, it completed for a daily pumping potential of 24 barrels of 27-gravity oil and 36 barrels of water, through perforations from 5,108 to 5,218 feet after 11.000-gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio is too small to measure.

It is one and three-quarters miles southeast of other Edmisson produc-tion and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block A, TTRR

Total depth is 5,318 feet and 5.5-inch pipe was landed on bottom.

Gas spews into flames

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP) -Wild well specialists planned to move in today to choke off an old natural gas well that was spewing million of cubic feet of gas into a raging fire.

"There are a few valves still reachable at the wellhead and we hope to butt into the pipe at some point and try to pump in heavy mud to kill it," said Hubert Landrum, production fore-

Boots and Coots Inc., troubleshooters from Houston, were directing the tricky operation at the Quintana Petroleum Co. gas well - located in a remote marsh area of St. Mary Parish beside Bayou Sale. The alternative would be the expensive process of drilling a "relief" well nearby to intersect the 17,000-foot-deep wild well at a point underground and kill it down there.

However, drilling such a well could take 90 to 100 days.

Quintana officials said the 10year-old well, being prepared for a workover, sprang a leak at a valve Wednesday and blew wild despite efforts to keep control. No one was hurt.

Landrum estimated that 5 million to 8 million cubić feet of gas a day was shrieking from the broken valve to feed the

Swearingen proposes two-step price plan

CHICAGO, ILL. - The chairman of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) has proposed a two-step crude oil pricing policy "designed to break our growing dependence on others and put us back on the path toward national self-sufficiency.

In a presentation at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute this week, John E. Swearingen -- speaking as "an individual and not as chairman of the API" -- called for decontrol of all oil prices except lower tier oil on June 1, 1979, when mandatory controls under the Energy Policy and Conservation Act expire; and a phasing out of lower tier controls by Oct. 1, 1981, when the discretionary provisions of the EPCA ex-

These decontrol actions, he emphasized, would "encourage production, increase supplies, reduce imports, help alleviate our balance of payments problem, and put some spine back into our enfeebled dollar." In the inrerim, Swearingen explained, "the Department of energy should also allow crude prices to rise to the statutory levels allowed under EPCA - something it has not thus far seen fit to do for purely political reasons.

"Through September of 1978, we estimate the DOE has withheld from domestic producers crude oil revenues authorized by the Congress that total about $3 biullion. That figure is rising at the rate of about $250 million each month," he reported.

The Standard chairman also recommended that price controls be lifted from all refined products, that greater incentives be allowed for the development of synthetic fuels, and that refiners be offered incentives for expansion and conversion of facilities to enable them to process higher sulfur crude.

A possible obstruction to his pricing plan, Swearingen noted, would be the implementation of mandatory wage and price controls.

'We live in an intensely political world," he said. If mandatory wage and price controls come to pass, "we must recognize that these steps I have outlined will become difficult if not impossible to take."

Swearingen stressed that continuing interference by government is the industry's "single most pressing problem. As an example, he continued, "the issue to petroleum pricing has become a political rather than an economic issue, and therefore involves careers, power, and influence." The issue has attracted clusters of articulate new political constituen-cies, he stated. "Whenever the logical step of gasoline decontrol is suggested, these new political contituencies react as if we'd proposed paving over the Grand Canyon. Commenting on the President's anti-inflation program, Swearingen

Company is accused

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Securities and Exchange Commission accused Tiger Oil International Inc. of Houston, Tex., and its chairman of securities fraud Thursday on grounds that they misled shareholders.

The SEC said it obtained a permanent injunction restraining and enjoining Tiger Oil and its chairman, Mike Davis of Las Vegas, Nev., from violations of the anti-fraud provisions of securities laws.

The injunction, issued in U.S. District Court in Washington, may complete the SEC's actions. Tiger and Davis consented to the judgment without admitting or denying the allegations.

The SEC alleged that Tiger Oil, which drills for oil and gas, and Davis 'engaged in a fraudulent course of conduct which included the issuance of false and misleading press releases and other communications to Tiger Oil shareholders and to other per-

Sporty styling, loads of standard features and a smooth, comfortable ride—that's the Spirit!

Introducing the sporty new AMC Spirit! As fresh and lively a little car as any that's ever taken to the highway. From the new ladder-type grille and quad rectangular headlamps to the swept-back styling of the rear hatch, the Spirit DL Liftback shouts sportiness. The rear hatch flips up for easy access, too, making it ideal for load-and-go lifestyles.

The Spirit DL Liftback is more than just sporty. It's luxurious, too. There's a surprisingly high level of standard features, inside and out. Like bucket seats in Caberfae corduroy or Sport vinyl; woodgrain instrument panel overlays; electronic quartz digital clock; luxury woodgrain steering

Football finale is set

There's nothing at stake tonight but

Robert E. Lee's Rebel Express tangles with the Midland High Bulldogs in the season football finale in Memorial Stadium.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. with Lee getting a shot at evening the city series with a victory tonight. Midland holds a narrow 8-7-2 edge in the seies which enters its 18th year in this

Both Lee and Midland come off disappointing losses to Abilene and Abilene Cooper last week and for the Rebel Express, it has been two weeks of frustration in losing to Permian and Abilene in close District 5-4A contests. Lee lost last week, 23-14 to the Eagles and Midland was blanked by Cooper, 26-0 in the Key City in a game that Coach Dennie Hays and his Purple Pack would like to forget.

TONIGHT'S ANOTHER night for both Tall City rivals and a win by Coach Gil Bartosh's Rebels would give them a final 8-2 reading and a win by Hays' team would give them a 5-5 split on the season which isn't bad for a team picked seventh in the 5-4A race at the offset of the year.

Lee, which is the home team tonight, features the power running of Jeff McCowan, known as the Cactus TD. Flower, who has rushed for 1,185 yards on 228 carries on the year and has scored 17 touchdowns, good for 102 points. McCowan is currently tied with Abilene's Reggie Fields with 721 yards each in six district games. They trail Odessa High's Scott Caywood who has rushed for 732 yards, so a big night by Jeff tonight will give him the rushing title in the Little Southwest Conference.

across the league. Lee tailback Ricky Johnson has picked up 422 yards in loop play, but won't start tonight. In his place will be junior Steve Waldron, who gets the nod in the backfield with McCowan along with quarterback Gary Butler and flanker Elmer Montgomery.

The Rebels have the No. 3 offense in stand second behind Permian in team defense while Midland has the No. 7 offense in the league and fifth best DWIGHT WASHINGTON, Michael McCrea, Herb Pearce, John White and Brian Briscoe head a ruuged Rebel defense which has picked off nine enemy passes and recovered nine fumbles in six league outings.

Sophomore quarterback Michael Feldt leads the Midland I-offense and is joined by Applin and Jeff Robnett in the backfield. Robnett is a junior and the fourth member in the backfield is wingback Craig Heine-

The Rebels Express has rushed for 1,224 yards in league play compared to Midland's 846 while through the airways, Lee has picked up 467 yards. McCowan has scored 48 points in league play while Applin has 32. Field goal specialist Bill McPherson of the Rebels has tallied 21 points on 18 PATs and one field goal. BUTLER HAS connected on 24 of 49 passes for 433 yards and four touchdowns and is the No. 4 passer in the league while Feldt has hit 15 of 48 aerials, good for 203 yards and one Montgomery and White have been Butler's favorite targets in league play. Montgomery has latched on to nine passes for 179 yards and two TDs while White has seven receptions, good for 148 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

Midland's line is anchored down by Brook Reeves, a 220-pound senior guard along with center Todd Liberty, a 193-pound senior on offense while on defense, Blake Feldt, 215-pound MIDLAND HAS Billy Applin, a 172- senior, has stood out at a tackle slot pound junior tailback, who has rushed along with John Beane, 200-pounder for 473 yards and is the No. 6 carrier and Jeff Spangler, 187-pound senior in 5-4A going into tonight's finales who plays tackle on offense and middle guard on defense

Lee starts seven players both ways and on offense, tackles Rodney Taylor (232) and Paul Speight (215), give the Rebs good heft there along with Briscoe (200) over the ball at center. The guards --- Clay Calhoun and Doug Crawford, are not real big, but quick 5-4A behind Permian and Cooper and ones. Calhoun weighs 185 pounds and Crawford 170.

It may not be for any league championship, but it still is a big game for the Rebs and Pack with a lot of Heading the Bulldog defensive unit talented seniors on both squads wind-

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Lou Holtz switched from football coach to mathematics professor, of sorts, to discuss Texas A&M quarterback Mike Mosley and Arkansas quarterback Ron Calcagni.

"Mosley can beat you with his feet," Holtz said. "He can beat you with his arm. He can beat you with his head. He can beat you with his heart.'

Mosley is the son of a football coach and was a wishbone quarterback in high school. The Aggies have been a wishbone team in recent years, but have used the "I" formation since Tom Wilson took over as head coach a couple of weeks ago.

The Aggies beat Rice and Southern Methodist University under Wilson and then had an open date jast week. Wilson put it to good use.

"The last two weeks he's had a whole new game thrown at him," Wilson said. "Mike has grasped it very well. He's done everything we've asked of him. No matter if we ran the shotgun or the winged-T, his talents would come through."

Holtz also fears the talents of A&M tailback Curtis Dickey.

In other league games, Baylor was a 17-point selection over Rice in their game at Houston, and Texas was a prohibitive favorite over Texas Christian in Fort Worth.

Houston is idle. The Cougars can seal at least a tie for the SWC title next week when they meet Texas Tech in Lubbock.

"From a talent standpoint, UCLA is as gifted as any team in the United States," John Robinson said as his fifth-ranked Southern California Trojans headed into Saturday's Pacific-10 showdown with the UCLA Bruins. "I look at their game films and think 'Oh, my gosh.'

"USC is the most balanced team we've faced this season," said Terry Donahue, coach of the 14th-ranked Bruins. "I've read where John Robinson says his team is a very young but great team and, after watching films, I would have to concur."

The Trojans match their 8-1 overall record and 5-1 Pac-10 mark against the Bruins' 8-2 and 6-1, with the winner the conference's champion and Rose Bowl representative.

"The conference championship has again come down to the final game as it traditionally has," said Donahue. "That's the way it should be - two great schools fighting for the league championship right down to the

"It will be a great game because of the rivalry involved. There are other great rivalries, but this one is unique because both schools are in the same city."

"This has been the biggest game of the season for both schools year in and year out," said Robinson. "And it's usually been a sensational game."

A glance at the defensive personnel and statistics of the teams would lead one to believe the game will be a low-scoring contest. Southern Cal, led by nose guard Rich Dimler, linebackers Dennis Johnson and Rikki Gray, has allowed just 103 points this season. The Bruins, with two-time All-American linebacker Jerry Robinson, nose guard Manu Tuiasosopo and safety Kenny Easley the standouts, have given up 145.

But another look — at the offenses - would appear to make the game shape up as a high-scoring affair.

USC features the running of tailback Charles White and fullback Lynn Cain and the passing of quarterback Paul McDonald to wide receivers Kevin Williams and Calvin Sweeney

White has run for 1,258 yards on 241 carries and Cain for 736 yards on 137 carries. McDonald is 87 of 155 passing for 1,289 yards and 14 touchdowns. Williams has caught 13 passes eight of those for touchdowns - for 247 yards, and Sweeney has 22 catches for 431 yards and one score. UCLA counters with halfbacks Theotis Brown, 1,181 yards on 192 carries, and James Gwens, 155 carries for 678 yards, and the passing of Rick Bashore to split end Severn

Irish face grudge battle

ATLANTA (AP) - Both coaches may deny it, but Saturday's college football matchup between 10thranked Notre Dame and No. 20 Georgia Tech is expected to be a grudge battle with a top bowl bid likely going to the victor.

The Irish of Coach Dan Devine are rated a 10-point favorite for the 1:30 p.m., EST, kickoff at Grant Field with a crowd of 55,000 anticipated. Both squads are 7-2 after opening the season with consecutive losses and each has a seven-game winning streak on Adding fuel to the contest is the fact that Notre Dame, the defending national champion, routed Tech 69-14 at South Bend a year ago. The Yellow Jackets upset the Irish 23-14 in Atlanta the previous year, knocking the Irish out of a major bowl bid.

"If there is a feud between us, I don't know about it," said Devine. "We scored 69 points last year, but not because we were running up the score. Our last three touchdowns were scored by freshmen, and they were set up by Tech misfortune."

"It will be an emotional game, I'm sure of that," said Tech Coach Pepper Rodgers. "I haven't had to do anything in that area to get them ready. Notre Dame did that for us a year

Another reminder is a copy of last year's game story on the bulletin board in Tech's dressing room. There's a headline that reads, "Nov. 18, 1978 — The Day of Revenge."

Beavers face unusual situation

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Oregon State football team finds itself in an unusual situation this week.

The Beavers are coming off a big victory, a 15-13 triumph over UCLA. The OSU gridders are not accustomed to such psychological highs, and Coach Craig Fertig is wondering how they'll handle it.

"The mark of a good team is coming back from adversity. We've done that," Fertig told a meeting oof Oregon State boosters here this week. 'And I told them Monday the second mark of a good team is coming off a tremendous victory and playing well the following week.

Oregon State takes on inconsistent

Arizona State in a Pacific-10 Confer-ence game Saturday at Parker Stadium in Corvallis. The Beavers are seeking their third straight conference victory, a feat OSU hasn't accomplished since 1970.

But Arizona State is pushing for a bowl bid, with a 6-3 overall record, although the Wildcats are 2-3 in their first Pac-10 campaign.

"This game scares me more than last week," Fertig said. "They've got more weapons than anybody we've faced this season, and they're quicker than anybody we've played.

The Wildcats' problem has been inconsistency, Fertig said. "They beat the heck out of 'SC. That was no fluke," the Oregon State coach said. "Then the next week they didn't play very well. It's been like that all season. Unfortunately this is scheduled to be their up week.

The Wildcats are coming off a 21-14 loss to Stanford, and also have the 20-7 victory to Southern Cal and a 41-7 loss to Washington on their record.

"That's the kind of a team we are inconsistent," said Arizona State Coach Frank Kush. "Maybe we're trying to hard."

'Our inconsistency might come down to a lack of concentration or a lack of discipline," he said. "We don't want to get to the point where we have to limit our offense though."

Nebraska aches as Tigers plan

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The University of Nebraska's second-ranked Cornhuskers will take their sore muscles into their all-important clash with always-tough Missouri Saturday.

The big question in Husker land this week is whether Nebraska can get up for the Tiger tilt in the wake of the Husker win over Oklahoma last week. The Tigers, 6-4, see a win over Nebraska as a potential ticket to their first bowl game since 1973.

Coach Tom Osborne's Huskers have locked up an Orange Bowl berth and a share of the Big 8 title, but a win over Missouri would give NU the title outright and could help insure a showdown with No. 1 Penn State in Miami and, of course, the potential for a national championship.

Missouri dropped a 21-10 decision to Nebraska last year, but the Tigers have come away with victories in their last three appearances in Lincoln.

Missouri Coach Warren Powers is quite familiar with the NU system after his days as an assistant Husker coach. He is in his first year at Missouri but led Washington State to a 19-10 win over Nebraska quarterback Phil Bradley leads the Big 8 in passing and total offense, flanker Leo Lewis is third in receiving, and tight end Kellen Winslow has five touchdown receptions to lead the conference in that category. In addition, the Tigers rank only behind Nebraska and Oklahoma in total offense. The Tigers will be coming off a 48-0 victory over

Kansas, in the wake of a 35-20 loss to Oklahoma State and a 28-27 defeat at the hands of Colorado. The Huskers and the Tigers have traditionally played one another tough. Nebraska has the advantage in the 37-31-3 series that dates to 1892. The clash will mark the final Memorial Stadium appearance for 19 NU seniors including George Andrews, Rick Berns, Bill Bryant, Kelvin Clark, Lawrence Clark, Lawrence Cooley, Barney Cotton, Bruce Dunning, Tim Fischer, Steve Glenn, Jeff Hansen, Lee Kunz, Steve Lindquist, Frank Lockett, Tom Ohrt, Jim Pillen, Randy Poeschl, Tom Sorley, Billy Todd and Darrell Walton.

It will be NU's 100 consecutive home sellout. Andrews, who has been a stalwart at defensive end for NU, says the Huskers know they have to be ready

'There's too much at stake for a let down," he said. "A team that's going to be good can't let down each week and we know how good Missouri is and we'll be ready."

For what it's worth, Browns rooked again

BEREA, Ohio (AP) - For what it's worth, the Cleveland Browns have for the second time this season received confirmation from the National Football League that an official's call which may have cost them a game was wrong.

Rookie Keith Wright, who fumbled a punt in the final minutes of last Sunday's 19-7 loss to Denver, Thursday received a message from Art McNally, supervisor of officials for the NFL. The critical fumble came late in the fourth quarter with the Browns trailing by six points. The Broncos took over on the play at Cleveland's 24 and went in for their second touchdown of the game to wrap up

Wright claimed at the time that though he signalled for a fair catch, he wasn't given opportunity by the defense to catch the ball. Field judge Jack Vaughn ruled otherwise and the Broncos were given

However, after viewing films of the incident, McNally sent word to Wright that Vaughn's call was "flagrantly bad." He said, "Not only did Wright not have the opportunity to catch the ball, he also was bumped by the defender (Maurice Harvey)."

Midland's focus finally changes

When Midland Lee hosts Midland High at 8 p.m. today in Memorial Stadium, there won't be a single title on the line, much to the disappointment of many Tall City football fans.

If you happen to be in the category of the disappointed. then maybe you should take stock of your values. What was accomplished by these two teams this year is worth more than all the titles in the world.

I happen to like football championships as much as anyone, but I hope the 1978 grid season can be kept in perspective by all of us. After all, the focus was turned back to the kids this season, and this was the most important factor for the two

THE KIDS seemed to be left out of the picture in 1977 as probation and football politics took the spotlight. A key concern of mine, and many others, was could we again focus back to the game itself instead of the circus sideshow that went on a year ago? After all, football, in its purest form, should be noted for the game itself, and the participants of that game. Hopefully, we have burned our bridges and can now build for the fu-

Surely, your mind doesn't have to be jarred to remember what it was like before this season ever started.

At Lee, the players suffered through that tumultuous probation year when the kids were secondary in thought. The rights and wrongs of it all filled everyone's mind and a split among the fans seemed to

Finally, Gil Bartosh was brought in as the new head coach, and he inherited the woes, attitudes and the kids that were all a part of that miserable season, even though he was not a part to any of it. It had to be one of the worst springs in his

AND EVEN at Midland High. things were not all that rosy. Jerry Hopkins resigned his position as head coach of the Bulldogs well after the season had already ended for reasons to be forever his own. Grumbling was heard even before Hopkins resigned because many Bulldog followers seemed to be displeased with the way the program was going

Finally, Dennie Hays was elected to guide a very young Midland High team, and the football politics was again heard. Many Bulldog fans felt they had been cheated without ever giving Dennie a chance. Many were displeased because Lee was given a head coach with a proven record while Hays had never been a head coach before. Few fans knew how well Hays was respected by fellow coaches across the state.

The rest is history. Midland will not have a championship team this year, but the building blocks of success have been put into motion. It is to the credit of both Bartosh and Hays that the community was able to turn their thoughts to football instead of eternal bickering. We owe them a lot just for that.

IT IS not the purpose of this column to bring up memories of a forgettable past, but it is to say that football has become fun again in Midland.

Hays and Bartosh have given our kids a good atmosphere in which to show their skills. They stepped out of the limelight and put the kids in it. Our schools are better off for it.

The relationship of the two schools has also dramatically changed, and I have been in a position to see that first hand. You can't possibly realize the difference. I mean the two coaches like each other. On any given day, you can see the two coaches having coffee together. They help each other in preparing for common opponents and they have praise for each other when victories come. And they both want to win the city championship tonight.

THEY ARE concerned with the image their schools produce, so they both treat the working press with respect. In the long run, you, the fan, benefit from their attitude. They know you want information about their team, and they are willing to sacrifice time even when they don't want to. It's hard for some coaches to talk about a loss anytime with the media, but in Midland you can know their feelings because they respect their players, their fans and their schools

They handle disappointment better than most, even when it hurts the most. This is the type of character we want our kids to have, and it can't help but rub

In short, Midland is a little better off in 1978 because of Dennie Hays and Gil Bartosh. So tonight, even though there is no championship at stake, let's enjoy football like it was meant to be enjoyed. Thanks have to go to the two schools' coaching staffs for helping us rediscover fun. In this life, that is impor-

Dan Pastorini most cussed of all Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini could pick off elephants at 50 yards with his rifle arm and long range passing accura-

Or, he might just as easily erupt scatter-gun style with a rebuttal to anyone from Oiler management, coaching staff, fans or press if he feels he has something to say.

Those two qualities have helped to make Pastorini the most cussed and discussed Oiler player of the decade. When the Oilers lost, it was usually Pastorini's fault. When they won, it was in spite of him.

There was a time when an enterprising newsman could always come up with a juicy, controversial story about Pastorini.

The topic usually came from one of four angles: 1) Pastorini was too emotional to direct an NFL team; 2) his personal life; 3) he only wanted to throw the bomb and 4) his lack of leadership ability.

But alas, the muckrakers' list on Pastorini is shrinking. In this opinion, items three and four can now be scratched from the list

Now that Pastorini has rookie Earl Campbell as an alternative to the lights out bomb to Kenny Burrough, the Oilers have become an effective running team.

And anyone who questions Pastorini's leadership ability probably doesn't know that, after trailing 23-0 against New England last Sunday, Pastorini jerked the Oilers back a 26-23 victory.

As for item one, Pastorini likely always will be an emotional person who will speak his mind. Sometimes he regrets his statements and other times he'll stand by them.

Prior to signing a six-year contract at $200,000 per year in February, Pastorini made headlines in 1977 when he was quoted as saying he disliked Houston, its fans and Oiler managment; demanded extra pay to continue his punting duties and asked to be traded to Los Angeles.

Earlier this season Pastorini walked out of practice after learning in the newspaper that Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips would call some of the plays. The controversy eventually led to the resignation of offensive coordinator Ken Shipp.

But that's in the past, Pastorini

"I was talking with Bum earlier and we reflected back over the past eight years and it's all been worth it,' Pastorini said. "What we suffered through to get where we are now was worth it and with the group of people we have it's just a pleasure to work

tune after win By The Associated Press Barely a week ago, Coach Tom Landry was muttering that the worst thing that could have happened to his Dallas Cowboys was to beat Baltiin Dallas. more so convincingly at the start of the National Football League sea-

Landry changes

My, how his tune has changed. 'The best thing that could have happened to us was the Green Bay game," he said as the Cowboys prepared for this Sunday's meeting with the New Orleans Saints The Cowboys' 42-14 victory over the Packers last Sunday was every bit as convincing as the 38-0 shellacking of the Colts 11 games ago. But while the first one gave Dallas false confidence, the second one restored flagging con-

"It gave us the confidence we needed, believe it or not," said Landry, whose Cowboys are the defending Super Bowl champions but stand second in the National Conference East, a game behind Washington. "We kept hearing negative things and we were starting to believe them.

"Sports is a tough thing," he added, "because everybody believed he's an expert. We weren't just reading the negative things in the newspapers. We were starting to hear them in the grocery store."

In Sunday's other games it's St. Louis at Washington, San Diego at Minnesota, Green Bay at Denver, De-troit at Oakland, Buffalo at Tampa Bay, New England at the New York Jets, Philadelphia at the New York Giants, Atlanta at Chicago, Cleveland at Baltimore, Seattle at Kansas City, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh and Los Angeles at San Francisco. On Monday it's Miami at Houston.

When I first started coaching," said Landry, the only coach the boys have ever had in their 18, "I wanted to win 'em all. But no realize you're going to have valleys.

The key is you've got to win when you're not playing well."
The Cowboys played very well last time out with Robert Newhouse and Tony Dorsett running for two touchdowns apiece and Roger Staubach throwing for two. The game against the Saints (and the Redskins' game against the Cardinals is only a prelude to the Thanksgiving Day collision between the 'Skins and Cowboys Says Washington running back Mike Thomas: "We have an 8-3 rec-ord and that's damn good — but we still don't have any breathing room with Dallas only one game behind us. We can't afford to lose to St. Louis on Sunday or Dallas on Thanksgiving Day.

"The way we started off (six straight victories) I thought maybe we'd still be undefeated now, and wouldn't it be great if we didn't even have to play these last games, especially against that huge defensive line that Dallas has.'

Minnesota and Green Bay are headed in opposite directions, the Vikings having won four in a row and the Pack having dropped three of four to wind up tied for first.

GREENWOOD - It was a cleen sweep for the Greenwood boys and girls basketball teams as both squads took big wins over Westbrook last night. The boys won 77-53 and the girls team blasted the Westbrook girls, 86-

The Greenwood girls pushed their season mark to 2-1 on the year with their win while it was a successful debut for the boys team.

Joe Mobley sparked the Greenwood boys with 27 points and Mark Swaf-ford and Rex Evans each added 13. Nancy Ortiz led the way for the Greenwood girls with 18 points while Jenni Anderson tallied 13 in the winning cause. Greta Black and Alecia Collins each chipped in 12 points for Both Greenwood teams will be in action today against Borden County with the first game starting at 3:30

Lee Brigade rolls over MHS teams

The Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade swept both the sophomore and junior varsity football games in Memorial Stadium Thursday evening, downing the Midland sophs, 27-6 and the MHS Bullpups, 13-6 for a clean sweep to wind up the 1978 football season.

In the sophomore contest, Midland struck first at the offset of the game when Billy Taylor took the opening kickoff 80 yards and a touchdown. The extra point attempt failed, giving the Bullpups a 6-0 lead.

LEE CAME back to score four times while holding the Pups at bay the rest of the way. Rodney Hemphill raced seven yards for a Lee score, but the extra point was no good, making it 6-6 in the first period.

The Brigade then added another touchdown when Jay Stewart caught a 17-yard TD pass from quarterback Michael Letner. He also caught a pass from Letner for the two-point conversion, making it 14-6 in favor of Lee.

In the second period, Lee added another TD when David Corrales scored from eight yards out. The try for the PAT failed, making it 20-6 at the half in favor of the Brigade.

DAVID PICCOLO scored the final TD of the evening for Lee in the third period when he went seven yards for the score. Teammate Greg Reed booted the PAT for the final 27-6 reading. With the win in the second game, Lee winds up with a 3-5-1 record with two of those victories over its cross-town rival while Midland finishes with 3-7-0.

In the sophomore tilt, Lee scored twice to take a 13-0 lead before Midland's sophomores scored with 58 seconds left in the season finale.

WITH THE score 0-0 at intermission, Lee took the second half kickoff and drove 57 yards in 11 plays to score first. Quarterback Barry Corley passed 25 yards to end Bill Dern and Corley booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead with 9:08 left in the period.

Lee added another score in the same period when Eugene Merritt skipped 39 yards for a score. Midland's Elston Montgomery blocked the PAT attempt. The second TD was set up by a fumble recovery by Lee's Warren Kyle at the Bullpup 39.

Midland's only score came on a 19-yard pass from quarterback Doug McLean to wingback Russell Hays. The extra point failed, however.

Lee and Midland's varsity teams wind up the city rivalry today with kickoff set for 8 p.m.

berths will be up for grabs here Saturday at 10 a.m. at Mae Simmons Park when the Region I Cross Country run

The Midland Lee boys and the Midland High girls will be among the team entries hoping to qualify for state berths.

The Lee boys recently finished third in the District 5-4A meet to earn a regional berth while the Midland High girls won the 5-4A meet. The top three teams in each division will earn a state berth as well as the top 10 individuals.

The MHS girls are headed by Donna Repman and Lisa Harrison. Repman finished second in the 5-4A run while Harrison was fourth. Renee Ramsey was an 11th place finisher and will add depth to the Bulldogs. Other team members include Angela Ochoa, Eleanor Scott and Mary Ann Lee's Rebels are paced by Steve Hooper, who was second in the 5-4A meet. Keevin Harper and Jeff Ryan are also strong members of the team which also includes David Harwell, Ramon Molinar, Robert Samuels and Alan Jones.

The Midland High boys team failed to qualify for the regional meet, but one Bulldog individual will be gunning for a state berth. Gene Tuttle, a third place finisher in the 5-4A meet, will carry the only colors for the MHS

Lee's girls also failed as a team for country programs.

Moore's dismissal brings regret from Big 8 colleagues

By The Associated Press

Bud Moore's dismissal as Kansas football coach brought reactions of regret Thursday from his colleagues in the Big Eight.

"That's too bad," said Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer. "I hate to hear it. Bud's a good guy, and a good coach. With all the injuries he had this year, I don't know what he could have done any differently.'

"Personally, I'm against firing coaches," said Jim Dickey of Kansas State, Moore's opponent this Saturday. "I just hate it. I particularly don't like it right before we play. But I just hate it for Bud, because I think was handled OK.

he's a good coach and a good person. "Everything I've ever had to do with him, he's been very professional. It's one of those things you hate."

"Poor Bud," said Gary Darnell, Kansas State's defensive coordinator. "How much sense and logic is there in this thing? It's cold-blooded and heartless. That's bad."

At least one player, however, did not seem disappointed the coach was

"I'm just glad the decision came when it did," said junior tight end Kirby Criswell. "I'm glad it came just before the K-State game. I thought it

Bowl committees face deadline

By BARRY LORGE The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - At noon Saturday, a group of 10 prominent Miami businessmen will gather in a comfortably furnished room at Orange Bowl Committee headquarters and close

No outsider will know what, if anything, they mix with their orange juice, or what they say to each other for the next six hours.

They will watch college football games on television, and talk by phone to six of their fellows deployed strategically around the country: two each at the Maryland-Clemson game in College Park, Md., the Nebraska Missouri game in Lincoln, and at State College, Pa. - where they will keep Joe Paterno, head coach of idle Penn State, company.

The men in Miami will discuss — mostly in the cool voice of reason, occasionally with heated words of passion — most of the teams ranked in the top 10 nationally, debating their relative merits on the gridiron and the gate.

They will assess theoretical matchups, argue the strengths and weaknesss of each school's offense, defense, coaching staff, athletic department and administration.

They will talk about each team's appeal on national television, theattractivenes of their stars and styles, their ability to bring free-spending out-of-towners with them to Miami for the holidays.

They will take straw votes, outline contingency plans, and promptly at 6 p.m. - barring unexpected circumstances - they will invite Penn State (ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press and United Press International) to play Nebraska (No. 2 in both polls) in the Orange Bowl on New Year's

The only unexpected circumstance likely to affect the deliberations of the 16-man Orange Bowl Selection Committee would be a Nebraska loss to Missouri. Should that occur, it would touch off a chain reaction of furious rhetoric and politicking at similar conclaves in New Orleans, Dallas, Jacksonville and in other cities where pigskins are worshipped.

Saturday is D-Day, Decision Day, when the Cardinals of the collegefootball religion choose the teams that are to be rewarded - competitively, financially and hedonistically for having outstanding regular-season records

Six p.m., Eastern Standard Time, is the appointed hour at which post-season bowl games, major and minor, can tender invitations to the colleges of their choice. Likewise, it is the earliest time schools can officially accept bids

At stake are dreams of a national championship, hundreds of thousands of dollars in revenue, rankings and television exposure important to coaches trying to build programs. And the holiday plans of teams, stu-dent bodies, alumni and large segments of entire communities.

The "major" bowls played on Jan. 1 are, of course, competing for the most attractive pairings they can concoct from among the highly-rated teams available. As soon as their lineups fall into place, the spate of "minor" bowls that keep college football flowing along with the eggnog throughout the holiday season swoop in to snatch up the choicest leftovers.

This all adds up to an auction among slick organizations, with big bucks and athletic prestige riding on the outcome. How is it all decided?

First, the givens. By contractual agreement between the major bowls and the traditionally most powerful conferences, the Rose Bowl pairs the representatives of the Big Ten and the Pac-10, the Southwest Conference sends its best of the Cotton Bowl, the Southeastern Conference winner plays in the Sugar Bowl and the Big Eight boss goes to the Orange Bowl.

The Rose Bowl at Pasadena will pit Michigan (8-1), Purdue (7-1-1) or Ohio State (6-2-1) against the winner of Saturday's game between Southern California (8-1) and UCLA (8-2) at Los Angeles. Michigan hosts Purdue this week and plays at Ohio State Nov. 25 - Nebraska (9-1) clinched an Orange Bowl berth by defeating previously unbeaten and top-ranked Oklahoma, 17-14, last Saturday.

If Nebraska beats Missouri Saturday, it will almost surely play Penn State (10-0, with only Pittsburgh remaining on the regular-season schedule, Nov. 24). If the Cornhuskers stumble, Penn State would probably go elsewhere, leaving the Orange Bowl scrambling for a replacement. Perhaps the scouts at the Maryland-Clemson game indicate where they would look.

-Georgia (8-1) needs only to beat Auburn Saturday to secure a place in the Sugar Bowl. A victory would tie the Bulldogs for the SEC title with third-ranked Alabama (9-1), which does not play Georgia this year. By a conference tie-breaking rule, Georgia would go to the Sugar because Ala-bama represented the SEC in New Orleans last year.

-Houston (8-1) won its Showdown of the Southwest against Texas last weekend, and needs only to knock over mediocre Texas Tech Saturday or weakling Rice Nov. 25 to secure its position as the Cotton Bowl host in Dallas.

After the designated spots have been determined by the conference races, the real fun begins. Completing the bowl lineups is like putting together a jigsaw puzzle whose pieces keep changing shape, and this is what will happen in the selection committee meetings Saturday.

Scouting and glad-handing have been taking place on far-flung campuses for weeks. Bowl representatives have watched teams, met with coaches and administrators, and then reported back to weekly conferences with their fellow committeemen. Orange Bowl selectors, probably the most-traveled of all, have seen more than 50 games this season and have carried on what chairman Tom Wood calls "a year-round campaign to sell the game and the city of Miami."

The end product of all the trips, meetings, intelligence reports, consultations with exectuves of the television networks carrying the various games, and pep talks on behalf of personal favorites will be decided in sessions like the one at Orange Bowl headquarters.

Those close to the bowl selection process insist that rankings, TV and drawing power are the major considerations, with behind-the-scenes political maneuvering and wining and dining of bowl committeemen coming into play only marginally, in cases of deadlocks.

NBC-TV, which pays more than $3 million in rights fees for the Rose Bowl, $2.3 million for the Orange Bowl and $400,000 for the Fiesta Bowl on Christmas Day, does not try to influence bowl selections, according to knowledgeable sources.

CBS, which pays in the neighborhood of $3 million to televise the Cotton Bowl, and much smaller amounts (less than $300,000) for the Sun and Peach bowls, reportedly makes "suggestions" to selection committees for those games, but does not exert untoward pressure.

ABC, which pays close to $3 million for the Sugar Bowl, about $350,000 for the Gator Bowl and less for the Liberty Bowl, takes an active role in influencing the invitatons for those games, according to insiders.

ABC has more leverage than the other networks because it televises the regular season NCAA football package, and can influence a school to go to a particular bowl with the promise of lucrative extra regular season TV appearances.

Oklahoma spoils perfect scenario

By KEN DENLINGER The Washington Post

Oklahoma spoiled a wonderful scenario. Some of us were openly rooting for the Sooners and Penn State to roll into the Orange Bowl unbeaten, for there has not been a Game of the Century in nearly 10 years. Then we were prepared to insist that the winner represent the NFC in the Super Bowl.

What we have at the moment is a No. 1, Penn State, and seven No. 2s. That and the ancient Bear growling in Alabama and assorted bowl officials ready to chew their breast patches in frustration if Nebraska fails to beat Missouri and Georgia wins this week-

It is possible, if the above takes place and Penn State stumbles against Pitt Nov. 25, for Alabama to be top-ranked in the nation and relegated to a minor bowl, for the usual New Year's Day suspense to be hungover boredom.

For nearly two weeks, however, the coach of the No. 1 team is the one who believes college players ought to be able to autograph a football in addition to passing and catching it. Joe Paterno is unusual, although not unique, in semi-amateur football for his insistence on severe academic standards. He also has the laudable notion that the national championship ought to be decided on the field instead of in the polls.

But whatever fretting Paterno has done over his Lions should play in what bowl has been a waste of energy, for it says here there is no single No. 2 at this time. There might be more than seven by the time most bowls extend their bids this weekend.

At the risk of having worn chemistry books hurled in this direction from such as Tuscaloosa, Ala., Omaha, Neb., and Los Angeles (to say nothing of the Golden Dome), the view here is that teams two through eight in the latest wire-service polls are of equal ability.

How's that, Bear? Yes, I know it smells of Orange Bowl conspiracy for a team you beat, Nebraska, to vault over Alabama and into second place after barely winning over an Oklahoma team that won't pass and fumbles everything after the National An-

From L.A. comes an equally loud bleat: Southern California beat Alabama and still was ranked two notches behind the Tide. And the best of the bunch might well be Houston, although the Southwest Conference historically is vastly overrated.

All of which reinforces the opinion that, with minor variations, Georgia is Michigan is Oklahoma is Nebraska. As Mr. Agnew might say, there isn't a dime's worth of difference in the lot.

In truth, John Taladay and Cappy Gagnon said that very thing Tuesday, and they are as qualified as anyone in the country. They are even more qualified than the coaches and writers who vote in the polls, because they check on the polls.

All season and with their separate methods, Taladay and Gagnon have been using the polls and then ranking the teams based on who they beat and by how much and also who their vanguished opponents beat.

Their conclusion after 10 weeks is that the wire-service polls - after all the politics, occasional apathy and voter ignorance - are basically useful. But that No. 8 is as good as No.

In Taladay's view, Penn State beat enough Ohio States and Marylands to be a clear No. 1. His composite two through six, in order, was Alabama, Houston, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Maryland.

Gagnon had Penn State and Oklahoma tied for No. 1 before the Sooners tripped over Nebraska. Based on his system, the most overrated team in the country has been Texas A&M and the most underrated team has been Notre Dame, because its two losses were to fine teams.

Before the polls were released Wednesday, all manner of rumors were afoot, with Bear Bryant trying to coax Paterno and Penn State into a one-vs.-two showdown before the major bowls take place.

A tale out of Birmingham had Penn State and Alabama colliding in the Liberty Bowl, with ABC luring the schools to Memphis with a few zillion each and the promise of being the first Monday night attraction after its NFL series ends.

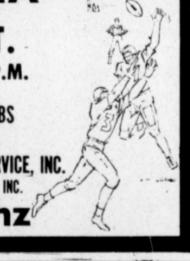

The Gator Bowl was mentioned. That would have been appropriate for Penn State, because it gained a measure of national prominence in the '61 Gator Bowl. And Paterno earned early attention in-the '67 Gator Bowl, when a decision not to punt on fourthand-inches near the Nittany Lion 15 allowed Florida State to gain a 17-17

South took the dummy's king of diamonds, drew two rounds of trumps and tried the heart finesse. East won and returned a heart to the ace. South got to his hand with the ace of clubs and tried the diamond finesse. East took the queen, and South praised his partner's bidding (which was actually quite automatic).

The odds were almost 2 to 1 against a 3-3 break in clubs, but this was the only play that would have worked. How could South play the slam for all possible chances?

DIAMOND FINESSE

After drawing trumps South should try the diamond finesse. East wins and returns a diamond. South discards a club on this third diamond an is then in position to take the top clubs and ruff a club.

If the clubs break evenly, as they do in this case, dummy's last club furnishes the 12th trick. If the clubs fail to break well. South can then try the heart finesse.

Playing for two finesses and a suit break is better than playing for just the two finesses.

ANSWER: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards. If he bids three hearts you will raise to four hearts; if he bids anything other than three hearts, you will bid three notrump.

'New' Betty Ford emerges after many crises

By DOLORES BARCLAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Ann Bloomer Ford — tiny, posture perfect and still smiling - a woman who once reigned at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave-

But to the world, she's still just Betty. Betty who smiled her way through personal tragedy and public joy. Betty the mother. Betty the First Lady. Betty the wife of Gerald R.

At 60, she's survived a radical mastectomy, a battle with alcohol and pills and the political defeat of her husband. And at 60, she's literally put on new face and is busy selling her first book.

"I suddenly have a new image," she said from the corner of the sofa in her hotel suite. "I can project better. It's really a great sensation - a great feeling.'

It was hard to say if she was speak ing about the cosmetic surgery done on her face in September, her life without the pressures of politics and pills, or her book, "The Times of My

She was talking of it all, but focused on her radiant new face. "It's given me a tremendous lift," she said, pun definitely intended. "It gave me a big boost. It makes me feel younger and my family feels my personality has

Hawking a book is something like selling a candidate, so Betty Ford will have no trouble on the promotion circuit. New York was her first stop to discuss the autobiography

"I hope it's not as strenuous as campaigning," she said. "I found campaigning rather strenuous, but I plan to go at my own pace with the book. I'm trying not to overdo it. I'm not on medication and I still have arthritis and pinched nerve.'

Those ailments led to medication and a dependency for which she ultimately sought treatment last April. "I've never been one to cover up, whether a happy occasion or a difficult occasion," she said, discussing her decision to talk about her problem in public. "Through my family's love and concern, I wanted to do something about it and I wanted to do it on an open basis. The mail has been fantastic. Everyday has been rewarding and reaffirmed my belief that I did the right thing.'

Betty Ford ends her autobiography, which was written with actor-writer Chris Chase, with her stay at Long Beach Naval Hospital's Alcohol and Drug Rehabilitation Service.

"I tried to explain to readers what they could expect," she said. "I think I first realized I had a positive power when I had my mastectomy in 1974. I saw that by being very honest about it what a tremendous benefit it could be to a lot of women.

"That made an imprint on my mind," she said. "After that visit to Long Beach, I thought it could be helpful to other women. She's a tough lady, but she's not without treasured support systems. "I draw a lot of strength from my background in religion and from my husband and family," she said, her face wide with that smile.

"I feel that I've always had my own identity, as a mother and a wife, which I think is sometimes more important than being in the business field or the professional field."

Abandoning ballet was a big disapppointment in her life, she said. "I did a limited amount of dancing in 1964. But now I've had to give up the activities I enjoyed most - tennis, golf. I've substituted walking. I can't jog because it would be too painful." Another major setback was her husband's defeat in the 1976 presidential election. "Coming so close, working so hard but not actually winning," she said. "I also felt he was the best prepared and I still feel that way.'

Police search for 'high-heel' thief

SEATTLE (AP) - Police are looking for a man who at least three times in three months has attacked women pedestrians, knocking them down and running off with one of his victim's high-heeled shoes

'The guy definitely is different, there's no question about that," Lt. Robert Holter, police robbery commander, said Thursday. "He's got a fetish. Some people have fetishes for clothing - bras, women's underclothes - this man has a fetish for shoes.

Holter said that besides the known incidents, other cases may have gone unreported because "a lot of women would rather not go through the problems of making a report and having to explain this.

So far none of the women has been injured. Holter said authorities do not know whether to classify the incidents as thefts, sex crimes or assaults.

But he said police are anxious to catch the man as soon as possible.

"This type of thing could possibly lead to other more aggressive interests," Holter said. "I'm not sure how long a person like this can be satisfied with shoes. The chance of injury is always there.'

Austerity program to cancel promises

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) - It looks as though 1979 will be a big year for vetoes, and a bad one for leftover presidential campaign promises. President Carter's austerity program is going to override some of candidate Carter's more ambitious proposals.

Carter has said repeatedly that he will use the veto as he deems necessary to enforce federal spending restraints and hold the deficit next year to no more than $30 billion.

He warmed up with 20 vetoes during his first Congress, 14 of them exercised to kill legislation that reached his desk after adjournment. Carter called them "a clear indication that the federal government is prepared to do its part to reduce inflation.'

But Carter won't make his budget goals by rejecting only measures that Congress wants and he doesn't. He is going to have to drop or defer some programs he does want but can't afford.

That means a welfare reform plan far less costly than the total overhaul he promised during the campaign, or even the scaled down version that failed to win congressional approval this year.

It could mean the further scaling down of his plans for national health insurance, which Carter had said should be universal and mandatory. Federal public works and public service jobs programs for the unemployed may have to be Presidential aide Hamilton Jordan acknowledged that some of the steps Carter will take to rein in spending probably are at variance with what he said during the 1976 campaign. Jordan said that is because of changed economic circumstances. That explanation does not quite cover another evident change, on defense spending. Carter had promised to cut it. He now plans annual increases of about 3 percent in real dollars, above the inflation the defense budget would go up about 10 percent. "There is no way I can cut down on the ability of our nation to defend itself," Carter said in explaining rate. Thus, if inflation went up by 7 percent in a year, his defense budget plans. During the campaign, he had said he could do it for less money. "Without endangering the defense of our nation or our commitments to our allies, we can reduce present defense expenditures by about $5 to $7 billion annually," he told the Democratic platform committee in 1976. Later on, Carter and his aides said what they meant was that tighter management would enable them to save that much money from projected levels of defense spending, not necessarily to cut the outlays of the Republican past.

In any event, the current game plan on defense spending means an even tighter squeeze on domestic outlays to meet the Carter target.

"The president means business and is willing to run the political and other risks that are associated with the effort to fight inflation," said presidential adviser Stuart Eizenstat.

"Somebody's got to say 'no,' and the president is going to do it," Jordan said. "You can't have it both ways. You can't please all these people and still fight

The new Congress is heavy with members who campaigned on promises of restraint in federal spending. Democrats and Republicans both talked that way, which would seem to align Congress with the Carter austerity plan.
But they're nonetheless likely to present Carter with an assortment of measures he will consider too costly. The trouble is that congressmen usually want the scrimping done on somebody else's favorite programs, not their own.
