Exports down; Trade deficit grows larger

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. exports declined by the largest amount in 10 months as the nation's trade deficit with other countries grew larger in October, the Commerce Department said today.

The news followed by a day a report that inflation is running at about 10 percent, worse than the administration previously admitted, and a statement by President Carter's chief inflation adviser that it may be months before there is any improve

The 29 month trade deficit has worried administration economists, who have said it is contributing to inflation in this country and the decline of the dollar in foreign trading

The $2.1 billion deficit for October was about average for the year. It compared with a $1.7 billion trade year gap in September and a $1.6 billion deficit in Aug 1st

U.S. businesses sold $13 billion in products to other countries, but that was a decline of 3.1 percent from September Exports of food, chemicals, gold and other commodities declined sharply

About $224 million in the decline in exports was in the erratic purchases of gold, which had gained about the

The administration expects the trade deficit to decline substantially, perhaps in half, next year as other countries are able to buy more U.S. products and oil imports decline

Ms Fitzhugh was dutifully there as the state pecan queen.

Ms. Collins was there because she likes pecans, has an investment in them, and because she had hoped to win a blue ribbon. She didn't.

Some of mine were just as pretty as those that won ribbons," Ms. Collins said, as if in protest. She entered her Wichita variety, which is but one of scores of pecan varieties. Many are named after American Indian tribes.

The grand jury inquiry was requested by County Clerk Rosenelle Cherry, who said she thinks apparent inaccuracies in reporting absentee ballots should be investigated.

Also scheduled to appear before the grand jury is Sheriff Dallas Smith, who is attempting to gain access to some election records in an attempt to investigate complaints he said he has received concerning possible irregularities in absentee voting. The reporting irregularities con-

PSA traffic controllers acted properly

SAN DIEGO (AP) -Traffic controllers involved in the nation's worst air disaster insist they acted properly in not telling an airliner pilot that an automatic warning had sounded in the control tower seconds before the jet and a smaller plane collided.

Prison GO-Lab turns nightmare into community

By IKE FLORES

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — It brought to mind a somewhat rowdy school assembly: certificates of achievement handed out; brief, embarrassed speeches by those especially honored; a lot of good-natured ribbing about each other's accomplishments.

After the ceremonies, guests, students and instructors mingled and chatted animatedly, drinking coffee and eating chocolate cake off paper cups and plates while a three-piece combo played oldtime favorites.

The scene took place recently behind the tall, electrically charged barbed-wire fences of Florida State Prison — the state's maximum security facility, housing its most dangerous criminals.

It was the institution's awards ceremony for 238 graduates of an inmate-run Growth Orientation Laboratory program. Convicts claim GO-Lab has turned the prison into a more harmonious "community," reduced violence and resulted in greater understanding among the prison population of about 1,500.

There was not an armed guard in sight for the evening ceremonies. Except for specially invited guests, including some prison staff, all of those participating were prisoners. They put the show together, and they were the performers.

GO-Lab's graduates — and some of its instructors — include jewel thief Jack "Murf the Surf" Murphy, Robert "Killer" Blake, life-termer Henry Grey and assorted murderers, rapists and robbers.

"I hated all this crap when I came here," says Grey, given a life sentence as an habitual criminal when was 18. "I didn't care about myself or anybody 'cause I figured I'd never get out," he says 11 years later. "But I found myself through this program found myself through this program.

"I understand myself and my fellearned from the past. I hope to get out and make it on the streets eventually. But what's important is now. We all have to live here and get along now. GO-Lab has made it possible."

Grey, now 29, is one of the instructors for the motivational program patterned after a successful workshop for executives from private industry and government service.

Since about half the inmates have gone through both the basic two-week and one-week advanced workshops, the benefits extend throughout the prison, says Program Coordinator Bill Woodward, the only prison employee working with the convicts.

Woodward describes GO-Lab as "a basic program in rehabilitation which lets the inmate see himself honestly ... and helps him break the chains that are keeping him from becoming a better person."

The "caring and sharing" sessions are run like encounter groups, allow-selves in front of 20 or 30 other inmates, expressing themselves freely and overcoming barriers and hang-ups, Woodward says.

hang-ups, Woodward says.

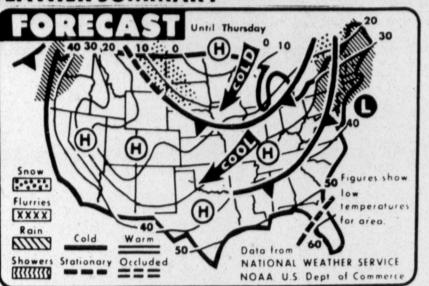

The prison's superintendent, David H. Brierton, isn't so sure that the GO-Lab workshops are the rehabilitational panacea some say they are, but he's optimistic about the program's possible long-term results and says it has "a lot of merit."

The program was adapted for prison use by a retired Navy captain, Martin J. Stack, from an expensive motivational course used primarily for corporate executives.

Murphy, the beachboy jewel thief serving two life sentences for killing two California women in 1968, has cited statistics claiming that prison violence has been cut by more than 50 percent since the program was instituted at Florida State Prison. But Brierton says GO-Lab alone has not diminished violence.

Participation up, costs down in school breakfast program

Participation is up and costs are down in the state-required breakfast program in Midland's public schools. That's the good news school trustees got at their meeting Tuesday.

The bad news was that it still costs almost $2.50 per breakfast to feed 10 students a day at Midland High School.

The 11 students who eat at Austin Freshman School on an average morning get a grilled peanut butter sandwich, juice and milk that costs the district $2.11 to prepare.

Those figures for the months of September and October are an improvement over the August figures. The first month showed an average of six students eating per day in the high schools. Costs there the first month were better than $3 per of 30 cents for the breakfasts less, of course, if they qualify.

In the elementary schools, daily participation is higher and costs much lower. Five schools actually made a small profit on the program.

Despite the good news, the district lost $7,247.27 on the breakfast program during September and October. But even that is an improvement over the first month's figures, according to Don Ferguson, business manager for the schools.

The district will apply to the state for more money to make up the deficit, Ferguson added, but since this is the first year the program has been required, there is no guarantee the district will be reimbursed.

"When we ask for the money, Trustee Ann Page suggested, 'lets tell them what we think of their program.

Bell asks Congress to clarify

General Griffin Bell says the United States will admit more Indochinese. Cuban and Lebanese refugees as an emergency measure, but he wants Congress to clarify the U.S. policy toward refugees.

Bell has authorized the admission of many of the 2,500 Vietnamese passengers from the Hai Hong, a refugee vessel off the coast of Malaysia. Other Western countries also have agreed to accept some of the refugees, but Bell said his action was contingent on the Malaysian government allowing the ship to land.

In addition, he proposed admitting 15,000 others who have fled Vietnam

Pistol, silencer linked to Davis

HOUSTON (AP) - A criminal investigator testified today he recovered a pistol, a silencer and a night vision scope from a car belonging to millionaire defendant Cullen Davis.

District attorney's investigator Rodney Hinson said the objects were found in the trunk of Davis' blue and white Cadillac after his arrest Aug.

has had to deal with a federal grant of over $1 million. I realize there are different political philosphies among those on the council involving the federal funds," he said. Then, he quietly blasted the council's past actions with, "But now I can say in all candor that in Mississippi they did more in two or three years to alleviate housing problems than we have done in Midland. We could use every resource, including federal. state and local funds, and still have a hard time to solve all the problems.

housing problems in the community, but said "I think we have to look at the big picture. Any fair examination of what has happened in other parts of the United States will tell you federal programs cannot and will not solve the problem. "There are enough bad aspects associated with rental subsidy to prove to me, without a doubt, that program will have more bad effects upon the community that they do good. "I still cannot support the program," Angelo said. Council Member Doris Howbert, though, offered a suggestion which appeared to gain some approval from the council.

"I don't like the program as a whole," she began and questioned if the housing situation could not be alleviated with loans from banks. But Dr. Coleman in the audience was shaking her head "no."

"I have thought the matter of CD funds should be put to voters in a referendum and let them decide what they want to do with their money,' Mrs. Howbert said. "This is our tax money we're talking about.'

Tom Sloan, another council member, added, "There is not a God's chance on earth to raise $1 million locally to put into housing. I am inclined to vote in support of the application with the idea of having a referendum vote on it.

That way, he said, if HUD approves the application, the city can accept it if the people vote that way. Or, if the taxpayers turn down the application in the referendum, the city only has to tell the government it does not want the money. Angelo, still saying he is against

American businessman told he could leave Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) - American businessman Leo Sonner, who had been told he could not leave the Soviet Union following a traffic accident a month ago, is now free to go, informed sources said today.

Sources close to the case said Soviet trade officials have passed word to Western diplomats that the case of Sonner, Moscow representative of the Dow Chemical Corp., will be resolved

Sonner was not immediately available for comment. Sonner, 32, was interrogated twice after slightly injuring a pedestrian on Oct. 30. He reportedly was told the investigation would last into January. However, they sources said they now expect the case may be resolved be- three to 10 years.

The sources said Soviet trade officials indicated Sonner might be asked to make a "face-saving gesture," possibly payment of a small fine or damages to the injured pedestrian. They said the tone of the questioning at Sonner's second interrogation, on Nov. 21, was much improved from the somewhat threatening atmosphere of his initial session earlier this month. The sources reported that at the second interrogation, the investigators did not repeat their previous suggestion that the American might be convicted of criminal negligence and sentenced to a labor camp for Justice Department changes heart on election objection

Midland school board members Tuesday took ada- mandatory to house the additional teachers and their vantage of a change of heart by the U.S. Justice Department and rescinded an earlier decision to have all trustees elected at large.

Board members now will continue to be elected from the numbered places trustees had fought the Justice Department for the right to use.

The action was possible because the U.S. Justice Department withdrew its objection to the numberedplace system. The board received a letter, dated Nov. 13, explaining that the Justice Department had withdrawn its objections to the way trustees have been elected for several years. The action came after a review of information provided by the board and results of the last school board elections.

"Does this mean the attorney general won't come back a sue us next year because of the results of the election?" trustee Ann Page wanted to know.

"I think we've all learned the federal government can sue us anytime over anything," board member

Ed Runyan answered. The letter does indicate, however, that the Justice Department is satisfied with the numbered-place system of electing trustees in Midland, according to Schools Superintendent James H. Mailey

In other business, the board heard a report on staff trends and projections for teacher needs in the district for the next 10 years.

Using current student-teacher ratios and programs as a basis and based on projected student enrollments, the size of the teaching staff in Midland generally should decrease until 1980, then start to increase each year through 1988, the report said. -Rrojected needs show the number of secondary teachers declining sharply until 1983, when the number needed will begin to go up again. The decline in high school enrollments means more secondary teachers may have to be certified in more than one teaching field, and some high school teachers may have to be retrained and assigned to positions in elementary schools, where student enrollments are expected to increase in the next 10 years, according to the staff report.

The number of elementary teachers needed has reached its low this year, according to the projected figures. The report showed a projected increase of 116 elementary school teachers in the next 10 pupils by 1988, the report concluded.

The current trend toward reducing the teacherpupil ratio in the schools also will add to the strain on elementary classroom space in the future, as will continued increases in special programs in the elementary schools.

The report showed the number of teachers involved in state and locally mandated special programs had increased from 23 in 1968 to 170.5 in 1978, although the student enrollment in the district had declined by almost 2,500.

Trustees also heard a report on the results of the policy exempting some students from quarter final

Any high school student who fulfills five criteria can choose not to take quarter final exams. The criteria include having not more than four absences each quarter, except for absences resulting from school-sponsored activity; no more than three unexcused tardies each quarter; an unmarred classroom conduct record; a passing average in the ecourse prior to the exam, and written permission from the student's parent.

One complaint heard about the program, trustees said, was from parents who said they were pressured by their children to sign the permission slips, when the parent felt the test should have been

Some parents gave conditional permission, specifying a certain grade average to be maintained before the student could skip the exam, according to Dr. Doug Brown, assistant superintendent for

'The parent could use this method for setting goals for the student in class," Brown said, noting some parents felt the school district criteria were not

Purpose of the exemption policy originally was to increase attendance in the high schools, Brown explained, and to encourage better discipline and behavior.

Overall, about 40 percent of the high school students took the exams, either from choice or because they did not meet the exemption criteria.

Since this was the first quarter the policy had been in effect, the results are not conclusive, Brown said. But he feels now the exam option is known in the If the increase in elementary enrollment occurs as schools, it will have a positive (effect on class atten-

MOSCOW (AP) - The large increase in the number of Jews being allowed to leave the Soviet Union is not as dramatic as it appears, nor does it mean an easing of Soviet emigration policies, Jewish sources

While more Jews than ever are being allowed to leave, the number of denials also has grown to twice as many as in 1977, the sources say. And the increase in successful applicants further swells the number trying to leave, the Jewish sources here say.

This week, two well-known Jewish figures will head west after U.S. pressure helped win them exit visas - ailing baby Jessica Katz and physicist Benjamin Levich. Such successful cases, the Jews say, prompt thousands each month to apply to emigrate, despite the hardships faced by those who are refused.

Behind this large-scale surge to 'get out" lies a complex mix of emotions ranging from fear to hope to desperation. Jewish sources interviewed by The Associated Press cite the following:

The increase caused Jews to stop asking for permission to emigrate, and this year is the first that the applications have shot up again. One reason may well be the Soviet Union's crackdown on Jewish emigration movement leaders, Jewish sources

Is the size of your little girl's toy chest limited only by the imagination of today's toy manufacturers? Do you groan at the thought of buying more dolls and games? Well, clothes too are Christmas presents that can bring a smile to a little girl's face, and this year there are a lot of holiday fashions that she's sure to love.

What girl can resist colors so bright that they shine like the decorations on the Christmas tree? Ruby red, emerald green, sapphire blue and candy cane pink accent deep winter shades. They look especially well in soft plush fabrics like velveteens, Styles have noticeable appeal in several different looks. The peasant theme is dressed up with fitted camisoles, front lacings and billowy tiered skirts.

The layered tailoring of the Annie Hall look is modified by a mixing of fancy patterns, interpreted by Healthtex in a pretty flannel ensemble with a box plaid blouse underneath a ruffled floral print jumper.

No holiday would be complete without the trimmings, and fashion uses them lavishly this season. Satin and grosgrain ribbons, whimsical embroideries and appliques, and pristine ruffles and lace panele soften collars, yokes and pockets to give romantic novelty to the simplest outfits. Even jumpers receive festive treatment at Health-tex, where styles are edged with feminine white eyelet

So this year, fill a little girl's clothes closet as well as her play chest, with lots of pretty holiday outfits she'll love to wear throughout the holiday season and into spring.

This traditional jumper in festive red, green or navy corduroy by Health-tex is trimmed with pristine eyelet ruffles for holiday flair and worn over a bright white flower print blouse. Look how happy the outfit has made little Mary Sue! (Copley News Service

'Recipe' for making 'heirloom' Yule item

MATERIALS

11/2 yard fabric Twelve 2-inch diameter foam balls Seven 3-inch diameter foam balls Ten 11/4-inch diameter foam balls

Scissors 3-inch and 4-inch florist picks 13-inch diameter beadboard (florist foam) wreath Dried baby's breath

Real or artificial pine and evergreens Dried broom broom (or any small dried flower) ASSEMBLY

1. Make an evergreen wreath using a beadboard wreath form to obtain extra fullness and depth/ First, cut pieces of pine and evergreen. Then, starting on the outside of the wreath, going in one direction, insert the pine into the wreath form. Secure the pine stems with greening pins or florists picks (little wooden picks with wire attached), available in florists shops and flower departments. Large hairpins or heavy wire formed into loops can be substituted for greening pins.

Overlap the stems from each preceding piece of pine. Follow the same procedure for the inside and top

2. Place fabric-covered foam balls on picks and insert into the wreath. Insert baby's breath and dried broom

3. To make the bow, cut seven 10inch strips and two 14-inch strips of fabric. The width of each strip should be 2 1/2 inches. (Note: if your fabric appears to ravel easily after cutting, you can make your strips 3 1/2inches wide. Fold back 1/2 inch on either side along the edges. Glue or sew the stem in place. This will also make a more finished ribbon.)

4. Form a loop with each 10-inch strip by pinching the ends together and then placing them securely on 3inch picks reluctantly has confirmed reports of Soviet nuclear planes in Cuba - reports made by columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak of Field Newspaper Syndicate, and by L. Edgar Prina of Copley News Service's Washington Bureau, all of whom write for The Reporter-Telegram. "It is believed that a number of MIG-23 aircraft are in Cuba," the State Department said. "The matter is under investigation...."

Those MIGs in Cuba

It also was learned from official sources that the administration is trying to decide whether to ignore the development or make a strong protest to the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, as an indication he will pursue the former policy, the President spoke of improved relations with the Soviets and referred to progress in nuclear arms negotiations. Even so, it is said that Mr. Carter has made a prudent decision to resume reconnaissance flights over Cuba.

President Carter's apparent indifference to this sort of thing is frightening. Surely he must realize that the nation's security is at stake.

The ominous significance of this aircraft development, of course, is the offensive character of the MIG-23 now stationed 90 miles off our southern coast. It is not a defensive fighter; it is the nuclear-attack aircraft which comprises the Warsaw Pact's most advanced nuclear delivery tactical strike force; its 2,400-mile range could threaten the eastern half of the United States. Yet Mr. Carter reportedly is inclined to ignore this development.

Moreover, because the MIG-23 model in question has never before been delivered to a Soviet ally, it is not unreasonable to assume that those now stationed in Cuba are manned by Soviet

The American people should have no misunderstanding about what this means: The Soviet MIG-23s confront the United States with more than a calculated, provocative threat; they are a disdainful violation of Moscow's agreement following the 1962 Cuba missile crisis, which prohibited the introduction of any nuclear-capable weapons. In his report to the nation on this on Nov. 20, 1962, President Kennedy referred explicitly to the Soviet agreement "... to halt the further introduction of all weapons

The Carter administration systems capable of offensive use. ..."

> One can only guess why Moscow would take such an alarming step in the full knowledge that it would jeopardize acceptance by Congress and the American people of a new stragetic arms limitation treaty reported to be almost completed after years of negotiation.

> A possible explanation is the classical Soviet gambit of gaining an advantage in exchange for restoring the status quo which was disturbed by an outrageous Soviet move. Remember, the Soviet reward for removing the offensive missiles from Cuba in 1962 was a U.S. promise not to threaten Castro and removal of NATO missiles from Turkey.

The President should lose no time in making clear to Moscow that it risks much more by the MIG-23's in Cuba than it stands to gain. To be sure, radically changed conditions, including Soviet superiority now in certain strategic weapons, preclude another U.S.-U.S.S.R. showdown. like that of 1962. But this is not to say the President is not without potent persuasions.

He can and should advise Moscow that the painful consequences of not removing the MIG-23s will include a rupture of detente, an end of the SALT H agreement prospects and a freeze on American trade and equipment the Russians need so badly. He can and should take the same tough stance that the Nixon administration employed successfully in 1970 to halt Soviet-Cuban construction of submarine pens at Cienfuegos.

Any or all of these responses would involve little risk of confrontation.

The real risk in this situation is from doing nothing and thereby encouraging Moscow to undertake even more dangerous taunts and aggressions against the United States. Mr. Carter should know by this time that the Soviets are not to be trusted and that they will take full advantage of every such opportunity.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Press censorship lifted, but . . .

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - A car moves briskly through the dark, deserted city streets and stops in front of a newspaper office. The men in the car roll down the windows and spray the newspaper building with automaticweapons fire. The car speeds off.

This is not a scene from a 1930s gangster movie. It happened in real life last Oct. 9 in downtown Managua, Nicaragua. The target of the gunmen's fire was La Prensa, the country's largest daily newspaper and the major voice of opposition to Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio

Managing Editor Xavier Chamorro didn't bother to report the incident to the National Guard, which serves as the nation's police force. Nor did he ask for police protection; it would be asking the fox to guard the henhouse. We reported earlier shootings, but nothing ever came of it," Chamorro explained to our reporter Bob Sherman. "It's difficult to say who did them, but then the National Guard are the only ones allowed on the streets after the curfew. The latest attack on La Prensa came shortly before midnight nearly four hours after the government-imposed curfew. The gunmen were not stopped by National Guard patrols either before or after the shooting.

Chamorro did take one practical step to discourage future shootinggallery fireworks. He ordered an 8foot-high concrete wall erected in front of the newspaper building. In the brief periods when it has been allowed to publish without government control - a total of 12 out of the last 45 months - La Prensa has been sharply critical of the Somoza dictatorship and the excesses visited upon the population by the National Guard, which serves as Somoza's personal army. The paper has called editorially for Somoza's immediate resignation and has endorsed the creation of a provisional government by an anti-Somoza coalition of 15 widely divergent political parties.

La Prensa's criticism of Somoza and his corrupt cronies has been costly. The flags outside the newspaper office have hung at halfstaff since the day 11 months ago when Editor Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, Xavier's brother, was gunned down by assassins. Chamorro had been a valuable source of ours; he used to send us stories that censorship had suppressed were ever filed against him, either.

"The only charge against any of our staff is that they work for La Prensa." Chamorro observed. He said other employees have been similarly harassed in the several weeks the paper has been publishing without

The half-staff flags are expressions of grief for more than the editor's death. They are symbols of mourning for the rights of free speech and free press guaranteed by Nicaragua's rights are a farce.

ex?" he asked.

Censorship, Somoza-style, is a euphemism for blackout. Like the apocryphal wartime letters to home that had everything scissored out but 'Dear Mom Your loving son, Tony," the editions of La Prensa were so brutalized by the government censors that nothing ever saw print. Teletype machines were shut down and only two phones were left working. Like the home phones of Chammorro and his employees, the two office lines were tapped

Free of censorship now only because of intervention by the Organization of American States, La Prensa is fighting Somoza with courage born of desperation. Chamorro firmly believes that Somoza's days are numbered. But he fears that the longer the dictator clings to power, the greater the chances are that the Nicaraguan people will turn to a radical, leftist

And so, in working conditions that are beyond the imagination of journalists in this country. La Prensa's staff stands up to the dictator. In the first week of its latest rebirth, the paper published every story and photograph that had been rejected by Somoza's censors. The articles and pictures described in detail the September battles between Sandinista guerrillas and the National Guard, including the terrible destruction the Somoza forces wreaked on the civilian population of cities occupied by the rebels.

The importance of La Prensa's existence as the sole voice of opposition is made clear by its circulation figures. The paper has a daily circulation of 85,000, which represents virtually the entire literate Atlanta. Of course, if he bought Pepsi-Cola he could live in Greenwich, Conn.," I said.

"He doesn't want to live over here," Alain said. "He just wants to own something so that when he comes on a pleasure trip he can say it was a business trip and deduct his expenses.

"I see," I said. "Were you thinking of buying anything besides an American cereal company?

'Well, I'm not going out looking if that's what you mean. But if my wife takes a fancy to something, as she did the other day, I'm not going to tell her

"What did she want you to buy for her the other day?"

"Central Park," he said.

"I didn't know it was for sale." "Neither did I. The negotiations were very tricky. First, I bought up the New York subway system, very quietly, through a Nassau Island bank. Then I went to Mayor Koch and offered to give him back the subway system in exchange for the World Trade Center. He made the deal. I then went to the World Trade Center people and threatened to tear down both buildings and make a park out of it unless they could find something decent for me. They finally came up with Central Park. "But Central Park doesn't produce any income," I said.

"Who needs income? The only reason we're buying over here is to get our money out of Europe. "Now wait a minute, Alain. I don't understand this. You Europeans have been attacking the U.S. dollar for several years because you say you have no faith in it. Why put funds into America if you don't believe in our economy?

"Because, dummy, the only safe country in the world for a foreigner to invest his money in is the United States," he replied.

Alain called for the check in the bar. As he signed it, he asked, "What's a decent tip for the waiter when you own the hotel?"

Mark Russell says

The average newly elected congressman is too young to remember anything before the Korean war. I haven't been this depressed since I read that Ricky Nelson is 37.

These puberty polls have already started to arrive in Washington. I have seen a number of skateboards with low number license plates.

Talking to a congressman is soon going to be like dating a younger woman. You'll have to be careful not to use words like, "Nash Rambler", "Betty Grable" or "Red China."

These youngsters could add a new twist to bribery and conspiracy. I see them being bribed by Korean businessmen who sneak them tickets to the roller rink.

I've already met one of the young arrivals. He handed me his card and there was a picture of a baseball player on it.

Question: Will Mark Mosk Lane never, never go away?

WASHINGTON - The man does not know what restraint, grace or decent interval are. Mark Mosk Lane had scarcely arrived home after playing an odd role in the Peoples Temple horror, when he was babbling on about a "master plan," a $10 million secret fund, the possibility of more murders, and the negligence of the FBI and the CIA in preventing Jonestown's monumental grisly tragedy. Some gimlet-eyed souls here, appalled by last week's ghastly events, lapsed into uncharitable mood, and were heard to say they regretted that Lane had not fallen among Guyana's alligators when he was hiding in the jungle. But carrion-buzzard are out of the reach of alligators. It was inevitable, I guess, that Lane would become involved. The man has won platform, large audience, transient congressional approval, and much money from his career of playing vulture around tragedies such as the assassinations of John F. Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King. After surviving Jonestown, Lane is likely planning another book, laced with conspiratorial theory, and more years on the lecture and TV-Radio talk circuit for his bucks. One must be Don Quixote to hope that he will be charged that agencies of the U.S. government had "oppressed" the Peoples Temple, and warned that if "persecution" of Jones' sect continued, there would be "important consequences" and "a most embarrassing situation for the U.S.

government.' Enroute to Jonestown, Lane told Ryan and his group that Jones and his true-believers were victims of sensational journalism and a mean U.S. government out to destroy this beautiful experiment in loving socialism.

Now, according to Lane's reconstruction in the press, he knew there had been suicide drills at Jamestown, that drugs and even drugged food was used to keep the believers in line. Hence, he wouldn't eat the sandwiches offered, though he didn't warn the other visitors about them.

Lane claims he advised Ryan that Jones was sick and there might be trouble, but others aboard the plane say Lane didn't tell them, and some argue Lane should have spoken out.

Lane counters by charging that the

Since Lane discovers fascism in about everything which lives or breathes in the U.S., this must have been a frightfully ironic moment. "How do we get out of here?" he replied, apparently forgetting the importance of the struggle. It is just one excitement after another for Lane. Only a few days before he went to Guyana, Lane was castigated by one of his former supporters, the Rev. Walter Fauntroy,

D.C.'s delegate in Congress, as "a man who thrives on publicity - good or bad." Fauntroy finally concluded, after hours of Lane's outrages during the assassination hearings, that, "Mr. Lane's repeated attempts to spitefully use the death of Dr. King...for his own purposes requires that I remain silent no more.' Though Lane was instrumental in getting Congress to investigate the murders of Kennedy and King, he wound up stinking up the hearings. He produced his client, King's killer, James Earl Ray, to tell a yarn which should have won him the permanent championship of the Liars' Club. Ultimately, Lane stormed out of the hear-ing room when asked to testify about a former mental patient whom he claimed was locked up for 10 years to keep her silent.

Alas, for a long time, Lane made paranoia and conspiracy theories re-spectful. His book on JFK's assassination was a best seller, and a fictionProduction Manager Eduardo

Fiendish revenge possible against those teen fiends

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Mailboxes crushed, uprooted, thrown down ravines. Flower pots smashed. Porch furniture carried off. Obscenities scrawled on fences and parked cars with shaving foam and, worse, spray paint.

In New England this annual orgy of mindless destruction is known as Mischief Night. In New Jersey and parts of Pennsylvania it is called, for reasons unknown to me, Cabbage Night. Across the land there are other names for this night of barbari-

It happens every Oct. 30, the eve of All Hallows Eve, the night before Halloween, and enough time has passed to speak of it without fear of reprisal. The culprits are always teen-agers and slightly older types that sheriffs deputies down South class as 'young youths." The victims, invariably, are adults, usually homeowners. It's trick or treat without the

These autumnal rites of ruin and ravage probably began as a source of innocent merriment, a pressure valve of youthful practical jokes permitted and no doubt encouraged by parents to take some of the strain off long hours of homework as the year lengthened and the daylight failed. Now they have become the dark side of the harvest moon, a planned program of pillage and ruthless ruin unmatched in civilized climes since the Vandals left the banks of the Vistula deep inside what is now Poland a millenium and a half ago to sack the great city of Rome.

They were led by a teen-ager, too, the youthful mad King Generic, and egged on by an adult, the vengeful Eudoxia, widow of the Emperor Valentinian III. She invited the Vandals to do their thing in Rome as sweet revenge against the Emperor Maxi-mus, who had murdered her husband. Besides desecrating the temples with barbaric graffiti, smashing the statues of the gods and carrying off the porch furniture from the villas along the Appian Way and around the Forum, they also carried off Eudoxia and her two daughters.

Would that the same could happen to the spineless, mindless permissive parents who allow and encourage these modern day vandals to embark on their night of reckless ruin. Would that they and their urchins and all similar specimens of slack-jawed Americana end up in the same deep ravine as the mailbox. Or maybe arrive at the railway station next morning with some suitable obscenities spray-painted on their double knits for the jollification of the other commuters.

By George, there's the answer. The Emperor Justinian finally got rid of the Vandals after a nenace, nuisance and mischief by vandalizing their headquarters in Carthage, Corsica and Sardinia. Doing what the Romans did - playing their ruinous game, out-vandalizing the vandals might be the solution today.

History tells us after Justinian turned the tables on the Vandals, "they disappeared without a trace." Like Eudoxia and her two daughters, presumably.

So here then is the game plan. Revenge Mischief Night or Cabbage Night with another hallucinatory holiday to be called "4-A-Night," with the four A's standing for Adult Avenging Angel Atrocities.

On 4-A night, which could be observed one month after the eve of All Hallows Eve, namely Nov. 30, all sorts of horrors would happen to youth throughout Batteries would mysteriously disappear from transistor radios.

All dungarees, denims and blue jeans would be consigned to the laundermat or the basement washing machine and unavailable for school wear.

Molasses, maple syrup and thick gobs of peanut butter would find their way into the sprockets and gear boxes of all 10-speed bikes. Mopeds, motorbikes and motorcycles would suddenly lose their spark plugs and gas tank covers.

All hair blowers would be carried off into captivity. Pocket combs would inexplicably all be busted or gape with rows of missing teeth. On Adult Avening Angel Atrocity night all amplifiers, stereo-speakers, tape decks, electronic instruments of all kinds would have their wires cut and their plugs removed. Pizza houses, taco stands, discotheques and all movie houses and drive-ins showing "Grease,""Up In Smoke,""Animal House" and similar youth-oriented flicks would suffer power Local radio stations would be encouraged to play only Lawrence Welk and Lestin Lanin albums throughout the day. Teachers would be invited to pile on the homework. Barbers would only do crew cuts. The police might find this a convenient night to check drivers' licenses for the correct age and call for I.D. cards in the local gin mills. Parents, of course, would be discouraged from loaning out the family car and might find it a nice night to re-occupy the porch swing or insist on their choice of all television programs. Some of them might go hog-wild on 4-A night and even strike up a conversation with their offspring, if they can think of anything to say and find a common language to say it in.

Out-vandalized at their own game, the Halloween vandals might next time around even revert to civilized autumnal pursuits like ducking for apples, biting a candy apple on a string or cutting out a jack-o'lantern from a big yellow pumpkin. Some might even find it more fun than bashing in mail boxes and using hubcaps for frisbees.

SEC starts Occidental investigation

By WILLIAM J. EATON The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - The Securities and Exchange Commission has started a wide-ranging investigation of Occidental Petroleum Corp. and board Chairman Armand Hammer's control over some members of the board of directors, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The SEC inquiry also center on Occidental's overseas oil and natural gas operations and financial dealings with agents of foreign governments over the past four years. The company acknowledged that the latest SEC investigation of its affairs - the fourth in seven years may delay or prevent its attempted $1 billion takeover of Mead Corp., a forest products company based in Dayton, Ohio.

Hammer, the flamboyant 80-yearold board chairman and chief executive officer of Occidental, "obtained undated resignations from a small number of past management directors," the company said in a statement filed with the SEC last Friday and made public Tuesday.

The SEC is trying to discover whether Occidental or its officers made misleading statements or failed to disclose adquately any arrangements with past or present members of its board concerning their length of employment.

It also is checking the accuracy of Occidental's claims for its domestic and international oil and gas production and reserves as well as the giant company's auditing and accounting practices.

Occidental's arrangements with foreign governments and their agents also are being examined by the SEC, according to the company's statement, along with the company's compliance with federal environmental standards.

"Occidental does not believe that it made any...misleading statements or omissions of material facts," the company said.

But it added that the SEC might file a lawsuit challenging the company's compliance with the securities laws and said that any such litigation might block its attempted takeover of Mead Corp.

Timekeepers use satellite system signal

A CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY O

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID

WASHINGTON (AP) - "Punctuality is the politeness of kings," according to Louis XVIII, but there are few kings left and being on time has progressed from politeness to necessity.

For as much as Americans depend on electricity for the niceties and necessities of daily life, the utilities depend on accurate time measurements to keep things operating efficiently.

And the spring- or weight-driven clocks of Louis' era, for all their beauty and intricacy, differed from today's quartz and atomic timepieces almost as much as the barnstormer's Curtis Jenny differs from the supersonic Concorde jetliner.

Faced with power shortages at periods of peak demand, many of the nation's utilities have interconnected their systems so they can share electricity to avoid blackouts or brownouts.

But complex switching of massive amounts of power demands exact synchronization, something that can only be achieved with accurate time information over a large geographical area.

This is being supplied by satellite, with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration relaying time signals produced by the nation's timekeepers — the National Bureau of Standards.

Bureau scientists have developed highly accurate quartz clocks which receive a signal from the satellites and continually reset themselves according to The clocks are now being manufactured commerably by persons in need of extremely accurate The satellite signal is generated by atomic clocks located at a ground station in Wallops Island, Va.

But if a utility company's recording instruments are equipped with a means of recording the exact time, a sequence of events can be established, the fault can be traced back to its point of origination and the problem can be fixed.

The satellite system can also be used by utilities to maintain accurate frequency standards for their

The satellite system went into action experimentally about a year ago to assist in meteorological studies, but has since become established as a time standard.

Since 1923 the Bureau of Standards had been broadcasting time and frequency standards on special radio'stations but these waves were bounced off the upper atmosphere. Since the ionosphere isn't always at the same height, the distance traveled by the signals varied and there would be a difference in when the signal arrived at one place and when it was received at another.

With the satellites permanently in orbit, the distance traveled by the time signal is always the same and, therefore, more accurate.

Borden, Dawson water report now available

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-Another in the series of reports on the Ogallala Aquifer-in this case in Dawson and Borden counties-has been published by the Department of Water Resources.

Report No. 225, "Analytical Study of the Ogalla Aquifer in Dawson and Borden Counties, Texas," is available without charge from the DWR, Post Office Box 13087, Austin 78711.

The report shows that the aquifer in the two counties contained approximately 3,800,000 acre-feet of water in 1974, with historical pumpage exceeding 90,000 acre-feet annually-more than twice the rate of natural recharge.

That overdraft is expected to continue, the report says, with some areas having adequate water through 1990—while other areas currently are experiencing short supply.

Gold was there, 'didn't pan out'

EDITOR'S NOTE — Before Bob Wieland, an AP staffer based in Dallas, suffered his attack of "gold fever," his hobby was collecting old cameras and oriental rugs he couldn't afford. Wieland concedes his search for a Texas version of Sutter's Mill

By BOB WIELAND

LONE GROVE, Texas (AP) - There's gold in them thar Texas hills. But you'd better have a hefty grubstake because you won't find enough to buy beans or beer.

I had a mild case of gold fever, and it took a weekend of work to sweat it out of me.

Most of the state's gold has come from the Presidio Mine in the Big Bend of southwestern Texas. But for several years, small amounts of gold were found near Llano in the hill country of central Texas. It was here I began my hunt.

"You can get flour gold from the Little Llano River and down by Sandy Creek," confirmed Wallace Hazelwood, the 76-year-old owner of the Llano Uplift

"It's hard work," he added, although tantalizing me with his boyhood recollection of seeing a gold ingot taken from the nearby Heath Mine before it closed in 1916. "The bar was worth $5,000, at $20 an ounce - over 15 pounds of gold." The mine later produced graphite, and is now nothing more than a hole in the ground, deep as two football fields are long.

It's worth more as a deer lease, and gunshots were crackling like firecrackers on the Fourth of July as I squatted with my kelly green plastic gold pan on the bank of the Little Llano near this tiny hamlet. There aren't enough folks in Lone Grove to make the springs on a church bus squeak, so I didn't expect to draw much attention.

But one woman stopped to fill her car radiator, and said with a laugh, "My daughter says you're panning

"I am," I replied, not laughing.

They left me alone and I got back to work with my "Gravity Trap" pan stamped out in the Dallas suburb of Garland.

I was whistling "Oh my darling Clementine" when referred, of course, to oil. "didn't pan out" so it's back to cameras and car- I found glistening specks of yellow among the black sand remaining in the pan. Muttering "Eureka," I carefully picked them out with my wife's eyebrow tweezers and my daughter's babyfood spoon. I then raced back into town, proud as a hunter with were dashed.

'I'll show you this once, and you'll never forget t." Hazelwood said as he unfolded a pocket knife. "If it's gold, it will dent or stretch," he said, shattering a flake.

"Mica," he pronounced. However, he estimated some of the smaller specks had left behind might have been gold.

'You'd probably make more selling river gravel,' geologist at The University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology in Austin had advised. I guess he

A 1975 bureau booklet called "Gold and Silver in Texas" says the production of those metals "was never equal to its promise."

"The flood of 'black gold'...began in 1896...and soon relegated silver, gold and all other mineral products to the background," the report said. It

Said Hazelwood, "You can work from sunup to sundown and only break for lunch and a six-pack, and still not have much to pay for the beer.'

Although health enthusiasts point to the benefits of outdoor exercise, gold panning is the kind of job I wouldn't do if somebody paid me. It's hard on the knees, arms and back, and makes you thirsty.

But the glittering lure was irresistible, and I understand now why the 49ers made their cross country pilgrimage to the California gold fields as news of the bonanza spread from Sutter's Mill.

At the end of the century, the gold rush was on to a 12-point buck. But back at the rock shop, my hopes Alaska, as a new generation of prospectors was drawn to the frozen Klondike.

The Little Llano River is not El Dorado. It was exciting, but the trip didn't pan out.

There's another spot about two miles downstream though, and I'll be back in the spring.

While saying that many agents deal period, taking out a $3,000 bank loan fairly with senior citizens, the committee said some unscrupulous salesmen, coached by their supervisors, routinely use lies and deceit to highpressure apprehensive elderly customers into buying more insurance.

The revelations prompted a call from the National Council of Senior Citizens for closer government scrutiny over the "medi-gap" policies, those sold to supplement benefits provided under Medicare.

Council director William Hutton proposed creation of a national standard to apply to such policies.

for federal supervision. Albert E. Lewis, New York state insurance commissioner, suggested passage of a law to limit the types of insurance policies that can be promoted through the mails. Richard L. Mathias, Illinois insurance director, told the panel the Social Security Administration should make a greater effort to explain to senior citizens where the gaps are in their Medicare coverage.

Meanwhile, The Health Insurance Association of America, an organization of more than 300 insurance firms, issued a statement condemning overselling of supplementary Medicare policies.

"It can't be good for the policyholder or the company," said Robert F. Froehlke, association president.

Froehlke said most companies are responsible, but added, "We are aware of the problems that exist because a few companies and some of their employees are not."

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., committee chairman, suggested having the Department of Health, Education and Welfare issue voluntary stan-

LOUIS (AP) - The assassinations in San Francisco are sparking worry among the nation's city officials that violence may be spreading as a means of settling routine political "We all live with this every day," says one mayor. "I've had meetings with Mafia types, labor hoodlums and Black Panthers. You always figure that in a political meeting, the weapons will be words. "More and more, I'm afraid the weapons will be weapons."

Wes Uhlman

Political violence now routine?

He was frustrated with the bureaucratic runaround about his application to open a restaurant. Hopkins went to trial and was found innocent by reason of insanity.

In Washington, Mayor-elect Marion Barry - then a city councilman was wounded as a band of Hanafi Muslim gunmen shot their way into the office of the city council president. The incident was part of a takeover of three buildings stemming from the Hanafis' grievances with the District of Columbia Superior Court over lenient sentences meted out in a murder case and over a demand that American movie owners stop showing a film considered sacrilegious by Hanafi

William Stafford, aide to former Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman and now to Mayor Charles Royer, says Uhlman received any number of death threats during his tenure but never actually implemented strict security precautions. Police in Seattle announced Tuesday, however, they were increasing security around Royer but did not elaborate.

Vice Mayor Nicholas Carbone of Hartford, Conn., visibly shaken by the San Francisco murders, expressed fears that "we're a society increasingly willing to settle our scores with

He suggested that local political systems are often so unresponsive that frustration explodes into violence. This is especially true, another city official noted, when dealing with emotional issues such as abortion and gay rights that frequently crop up in city halls.

Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles, personally stunned by the deaths of his San Francisco political allies, said, "The public is the real loser, not only because of the loss of George Moscone and Harvey Milk, but because the system suffers when people in public life are faced with these sorts of attacks."

Bradley's posture, reasonably enough, was one of helplessness. Moscone's meeting with his alleged assailant was nothing more than one of dozens of routine meetings that every mayor conducts daily.

Moscone allegedly was killed during a late-morning conference with County grand jury declined to bring Dan White, who had resigned as a supervisor but then told Moscone he wanted his job back. Before he was shot, Moscone apparently told White that he would appoint someone else to the post. White then allegedly shot Milk before surrendering to police.

Milk was a leader of San Francisco's large gay community and White was a political foe of both him and Moscone. White is a conservative politician who seemed unlikely to adhere to the Mao credo of protracted revolution: "Political power grows out of the barrel of a gun.'

The Mao dictum seems a long way from other city halls, too, but Mayor Daniel Whitehurst of Fresno, Calif. reflected glumly, "I hate to think I'll have to pack a gun every time I sit down across the table from another WASHINGTON (AP) - In the hideous aftermath of Jonestown, the government is being criticized because it did not, somehow, act to prevent the mass suicide and murder of 912 Americans in the jungle of Guyana.

But no one has suggested what the government should or could have done to rescue disenchanted cultists or to save the others who died with the Rev. Jim Jones. Perhaps congressional investigators can come up with answers when

Chaparrals have 'Big Time' in conference opener

By TERRY WILLIAMSON R-T Sports Writer

The Midland College Chaparrals showed some signs of sandlot brillance at the Chaparral Center Tuesday night in a 91-79 cage victory over New Mexico Junior College.

That is to say the Chaps looked at times like they could play against any college team in the country while at times they looked like someone's grandmother would shame them. At any rate, the Chaps won and this was a big one since it marked the opening of the Western Junior College Athletic Conference play.

The victory in itself was enough to make MC coach Jerry Stone pleased, but he was left shaking his head after

"Yeah, the final score was O.K., but I'm not really sure about all that stuff that went on in between. It was a good way to start the conference race, but we've played nine games now and this team should have more consistency than it does."

Stone was displeased with the 30 turnovers the Chaps committed, but the taller Thunderbirds helped out with 27 of their own. Still, the Chaps chipped in 49 per cent of their shots from the field and controlled the boards in surprising fashion from a big NMJC team by a wide margin of boot the ball around a bit more than was expected, 6-foot-5 Houston Wheatley product Kenneth Young dumped in 17 points in a fashion that lifted more than one fan out of their comfortable seats at the Center. The Chaps' Dr. Frankendunk produced four net slammers and converted two of them into three-point plays.

And even if the Green and Gold did

When the Dr. was doing his thing, the Chaps seemed to ignite. Big Time, as the Chaps call him, can strike fear into any opponent when he goes for the basket. Heads are going to knock around like a marble game, and when he's finished, he usually has two points and a battered foe to boot. Dr. Frankendunk seems better than

And when the Thunderbirds cut off the Dr. of Terror underneath, 5-9 sophomore Cullen Mayfield, a misfit Tuesday with all that height on the court, went to work with a outside bombardment display. Mayfield had only 12 points, but they all came in the second half, and most of them came when the Chaps were deciding whether to play or not.

Early in the game, Luis Alvarado, the 6-7 El Pasoan, kept the Chaps afloat. He ended the night with 14 points, but eight of those came in the first 10 minutes of play. And then there was Henry White, who pumped in 16 points in the first 30 minutes of action. Tim Shelby added 10 markers as five Chaps hit in double digits.

Vic Singleton led NMJC with 14 points while Ronnie Black and Clarence George had 10 each. That in itself would seem to be the reason for the Thunderbirds' loss. None of the above is of the skyscraper variety of which the visitors possessed plenty Gigantic 6-10 Rod Camp from Washington, D. C., was held to a mere nine points, only four by field goals as Alvarado, Young and Chucky McGill did a mean number on him underneath. And former Hobbs, N. M., star, Rod Williams, a 6-51/2 shooter was held to a mere four points while 6-6 Derek Charles, another D. C. product, Tscored only six.

That was the difference and a good omen for the Chaps, who will probably be out matched in height throughout the conference race.

The score was knotted on six occasions while MC held leads seven different times. NMJC led five times, but never by more than four.

A Dr. Frankendunk dunk at the 15: 30 mark of the second half gave the Chaps a 50-48 advantage and that was the last of the ball game. The Chaps then ran to a 14-point lead on two Big

Time free throws with 4:34 left. The Chaps are now 6-3 on the year and 1-0 in conference play while NMJC fell to 5-4 and 0-1.

Lee Rebs gun down Pecos, 81-49

By BOB DILLON R-T Sports Writer

It was all over in a hurry. Coach Paul Stueckler's Robert E. Lee Rebels zoomed out to a halftime lead of 43-10 and never looked back Tuesday in gunning down the Class AAA Pecos Eagles, 81-49 in basketball action in the Lee Gymnasium.

The victory gives the Rebels a 4-3 record going into Friday's non-district game in Abernathy with the Class AA Antelopes

Ernest Merritt flipped in 20 points to lead the Rebel attack followed by Tim Walker and Forrest Allen with 16 and 12 points, respectively. Merritt, is a 6-foot-1 senior while Walker is a 6-1 junior and Allen stands 6-2 and is a Big gun for Pecos was Gary Rogers with 18 markers. He was the only Eagle in the double figures as the Warbirds were dropping to 0-5 read-the hands of Class AAAA outfits.

ing on the year with all five losses at

WALKER SCORED six points in the opening period as Lee took a 14-8 lead as it looked like Pecos might make a game of it, but the Tall City team outscored the Eagles, 29-2 in the second eight minutes and it was all over after that.

Lee hit 38 field goals and only six of 12 free throws while Pecos managed to score 19 field goals and 11 of 23 charity tosses.

Merritt had a better second half, scoring 13 of his 20 points with nine of those coming in the third period when the Rebs outscored the Eagles, 21-17. Pecos did come back to outscore Lee, 22-17 in the final period when Stueckler used a lot of substitutes.

Tyler Alcorn and Bruce Crawford was just out of the double figures for Lee with eight points each as nine Lee players got into the scoring column. Larry Mosby of the Eagles was the second leading scorer with eight LEE'S JUNIOR VARSITY also had an easy time of it, winning, 78-32 with four players in the double figures for Coach Greg Wright's five. Leading the way was Tim Fisher with 15 followed by Charles Washington's 13, 12 by Brent Sanders and an additional 10 by James Peterson.

After Friday's game with Abernathy on the road, Lee doesn't return home until Dec. 21 against Class AAA Snyder during the Christmas break. The Rebels do travel to Snyder Monday and then compete in the gigantic Austin Invitational Tourney in the Capitol City, Dec. 8-9.

Hooks residents believed Sims born to grid greatness

By TERRY LEONARD Associated Press Writer

HOOKS, Texas (AP) - Residents of this tiny northeast Texas town, basking in the glow of their J.C. Sims, Billy's great uncle. favorite son, are excited and ecstatic, but not surprised that Billy Sims won the Heisman Trophy.

News of the announcement swept across this town Phillips, superintendent of schools. of 3,000 faster than Sims ran through the Texas defense. And it confirmed what people here already knew, that Oklahoma University running back is the

"I cried for joy and then done everthing else," said Sims' great-grandmother Marcella Hubbard, who lives on Billy Sims Road almost next door to the small frame house where the Heisman winner lived with his late grandmother.

"I don't know what to say. I feel so happy and great athlete." merry that my old boy won," said Mrs. Hubbard."He always wanted that. He's a good boy. I love

Although Sims is just the sixth junior to win in the 44-year history of the Heisman Trophy, people here were confident he could win.

'He looked like he was just born in football," said

"There was nothing like him for generating excitment. When Billy played here people would be in the stands by 4 p.m. for a 7:30 game," said Charlie

And Sims gave them what they waited to see. In three years at Hooks, he rambled for an incredible 100 yards in 38 consecutive games and, counting 48 extra points, tallied a whopping 516 points.

"I never realized at the time he would win a Heisman," said Joe Roper, former Hooks backfield coach and now a coach at Hallsville. "But when I saw him in the ninth grade I knew he would be a

Reds fire Anderson for another nice-guy manager

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have fired one of baseball's nice-guy managers and replaced him with another man known for rapport with his players.

Saying they wanted a new approach, the Reds fired Sparky Anderson after nine years and hired twicefired McNamara Tuesday.

Anderson guided the Reds to consecutive world championships in 1975 and 1976 - Cincinnati's first World Series triumphs since 1940. But even though he had compiled one of the best managerial records in baseball, Anderson was dismissed after the Reds finished in second place the last two years.

THE JOB was offered to McNamara, 46, who has been managing a last place team in the Dominican Bepublic winter leagues.

'I had hoped to get one more oppor-funity at managing," said McNa-

Anderson, the winningest manager in Cincinnati history, hopes to stay in baseball. "I just hope I've made a big enough impression on this game that comeone will come calling," Ander-son said from his home in Thousand Daks, Calif.

"Reds' president Dick Wagner, who parlier in the day, declined to explain the firings, said in a radio interview that the team lost its aggressiveness under Anderson.

"We've got to be an aggressive ballclub on the field. I didn't feel he did that this year. I don't think we can sit back on out laurels. With the personnel we have, you can't finish where we finished. You just can't sit back and let the ballclub go down-

ANDERSON, a surprise choice when he was hired by the Reds in 1969, became one of the most successful managers in baseball, winning two world championships, five division titles, and four National League pennants. He has a 863-586 record, an average of almost 96 victories a

The two-time National League Manager of the Year said he was stunned when Reds' President Dick Wagner flew out to California Monday with the decision.

"I had no idea it was coming," Anderson said. "But that's what life is all about. You never know what's around the corner."

The Reds said Anderson, 44, would be asked to fulfill special assignments for the remaining year of his two-year contract.

"I'm flabbergasted to have an opportunity like this," said McNamara, who signed a one-year contract with McNamara, a soft-spoken man, is known for his ability to get along well with his players.

'He communicates with players as well as any man I've ever been around," said Roger Craig, who was McNamara's pitching coach and now manager of the Padres.

But communication has not always meant success. He was dismissed by A's owner Charley Finley, despite a second place finish in 1970, and left San Diego after three seasons in

HE HAS a major league managing record of 321-388.

McNamara noted there are many similarities between himself and Anderson. "We both have a similar type of personality," said McNamara, who described himself as low key. "I'm not a talkative person, but if I have something to say, I say it."

"I've gone through what he's gone through. I've been there before. I fee! for him," McNamara sympathized.

"They handled it right and they did things first class," Anderson said. "They told*me face-to-face and I'll always be grateful for that."

After spending almost a decade with Anderson, Cincinnati Reds' catcher JohnnyBench says "it's going to be difficult walking into the clubhouse.'

"VERY UNSETTLING," said Bench. "My throat was down in my stomach when I heard it." He added, however, that he talked to McNamara by telephone and welcomed him to the team. "I don't know if I would have settled on anyone other than John McNamara."

Second baseman Joe Morgan said he was stunned by the announcement. "I've come to be a Sparky Anderson fan. I never thought of him as a manager, but as a friend. He's above the pettiness in baseball. He got the best out of the ballclub. He treated everyone as an individual."

With Anderson gone, Bench said he will be "the senior member of the club now. And it's going to be strange." But he is confident the Reds will survive the loss of Anderson and free agent Pete Rose, who apparently won't be returning to Cincinnati.

by Reds' decision

CINCINNATI (AP) - Sparky Anderson says he was surprised when the Reds decided to dismiss him as manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

"I never had any knowledge," said Anderson in a telephone interview Tuesday from his home in Thousand Oaks, Calif. "I guess maybe I'm not smart enough to have the knowl-

Reds President Dick Wagner flew to Anderson's home Monday and personally gave him the news. Wagner confirmed that Anderson appeared "genuinely surprised" by the news he was being replaced by John McNamara, "but he accepted it ·like a gentleman.

"It's funny. I feel a little bit like I did when I first got the Reds' job as manager ... a strange, tingling sensation," Anderson said. "I'm not a crying-type person. People have to un-derstand that nobody likes to fire another man. They felt they had to have a change. You have to respect that and I'll always respect them for 'at least sitting down with me."

Anderson was one of baseball's youngest managers - and a virtual unknown - when he took over the Reds Oct. 9, 1969. Only one day before becoming manager of the Reds, Anderson had been named a coach for the California Angels.

Now, at 44, the white-haired manager can look back on a career which included two world championships, five division titles and four National League pennant victories. Anderson twice was named National League Manager of the Year, in 1972 and 1975, and is the winningest manager in the club's history with a 863-586 record.

"This has been a period that has changed my life more than anything I've ever done," said Anderson.

Anderson expressed no bitterness toward his former employers.

"I came from nothing to what I am financially today," Anderson said.
"Those people there in the Reds' front office will always be my friends.'

As for his future plans, Anderson said, "for right now, I'll probably play golf and relax and kind of enjoy things. I have a another year on my contract. I'll just wait. I hope I have made a big enough impression on the game of baseball that somebody will come calling for me.

"Until then, I'm just going to enjoy the old golf course and relax."

McNamara still shocked

CINCINNATI (AP) - John McNamara was still shocked after the consummation of a whirl-wind, 24-hour courtship which led to his being named as new manager of the Cincinnati Reds. Only a day before he had been the manager of the last place Licey team in the Dominican Republic winter league and had gone back to his hotel after pitching batting practice. "Ray Shore (Reds special assignment scout) was at the hotel and we were talking when he got a telephone call. He came out and told me that (Reds President) Dick Wagner wanted to talk to me," McNamara said.

What Wagner wanted to talk about was the Reds managing job. Wagner admitted he had decided Sunday night to replace Anderson "I got on a plane to Miami, and then to Atlanta where I met Dick Wagner," said McNamara, who admitted that he hadn't made up his mind about the job when he got on the olane with Wagner.

Somewhere in the air on the way to Cincinnati, he made up his mind to take the job.

"I had hoped to get one more oppor-junity to manage, but whether it would ever come I didn't know,"

AcNamara said. McNamara has become known dur-ng his career for his ability to com-nunicate with his players.

"He communicates with players as well as any man I've ever been found," said Roger Craig, who was tiching roach when MeNamra was manager of the San Diego Padres. Willie McCovey in 1974 also noted McNamara's leadership abilities while Padres' manager.

"He doesn't do it with word of mouth," McCovey said. "He does it by example.

McNamara's communication has not always meant success however. He was dismissed in May 1977 as manager of San Diego after finishes which were no higher than fourth.

He finished second in two years with Oakland before Charlie Finley let him go in 1970. Late in the season, Finley announced that McNamara would finish out the year.

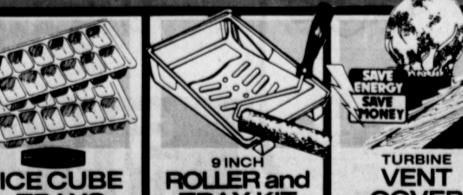

McNamara took the announcement

'The day you take a job in the major leagues as a manager," McNa-mara said, "you have to make up your mind you could be fired at any time."

Jazz edges Philadelphia, 107-103, in front of record NBA crowd

By The Associated Press

Elgin Baylor, bolstered by a twoyear extension on his coaching contract with the New Orleans Jazz, held a pregame pep talk with his players. We had a talk about pride," said Baylor, "and the team went out there and played hard. We showed a lot of character and pride."

Pete Maravich's 32 points and Truck Robinson's 31 points and 23 rebounds didn't hurt, and neither did a tenacious second-half defense that shut out Philadelphia's Julius Erving over the final 24 minutes. The result was a 107-103 Jazz victory over the 76ers Tuesday night.

The team picked the right time to get its act together, too, since the announced attendance at the Superdome was 35,139, the most ever for a regular season National Basketball Association game.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Washington Bullets trounced the New York Knicks 133-106, the Detroit Pistons surprised the Los Angeles Lakers 105-103, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Atlanta Hawks 112-98, the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Denver Nuggets 117-100, the Chicago Bulls upset the Phoenix Suns 124-112 and the Portland Trail Blazers topped the Boston Celt

The Jazz led 105-97 with 1:27 to play but saw Philadelphia draw within two before Robinson clinched the victory with a basket on a goaltending call against the 76ers' Harvey Catchings.

But Baylor, who was told earlier in the day that his contract had been extended for two years, said the key was blanking Erving in the second half after Dr. J had scored 14 in the first half.

'We know the things he likes to do," said Baylor. "One-on-one, it's going to be very difficult to stop Julius Erving. So we tried to run him into traffic where we can get some help from the weak side or where we can get the center to help out on him.'

Doug Collins led Philadelphia with Bullets 133, Knicks 106 Washington won its eighth in a row, the club's longest winning streak in a decade, hitting 52 percent of its shots and routing the Knicks. Elvin Hayes led the way with 35 points and 16 rebounds.

"This is the best we have ever played," said Hayes. "Even last year, when we were winning the championship, we didn't play any better than this."

Pistons 105, Lakers 103

Earl Tatum scored five of Detroit's final seven points as the Pistons, despite playing without center Bob Lanier, ended Los Angeles' home winning streak at 10 games despite 27 points, 16 rebounds and 11 blocked shots by the Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Tatum, a former Laker, finished with

Bucks 117, Nuggets 100

Milwaukee scored 15 straight points late in the first quarter and was never caught by Nuggets. Brian Winters had 16 of his game-high 27 points in the opening period for Milwaukee. Norm Van Lier, starting his first game for the Bucks in place of Quinn Buckner, who was out with a knee injury, scored 16 points.

'The effort was pitiful," said a discouraged Denver Coach Larry Brown. "We are not a team. We do nothing that looks like a team."

Bulls 124, Suns 112 Artis Gilmore scored 28 points and grabbed 17 rebounds while Mickey Johnson and rookie Reggie Theus added 27 points each for the Bulls, who earned the praise of Phoenix Coach John MacLeod for showing that "despite 16 losses, they are a team that must be reckoned with."

Blazers 102, Celtics 97 Portland led 96-91 before consecutive steals by Dave Twardzik and Ron Brewer led to a basket and two free throws that clinched the victory.

Both Pete Maravich (7) of the New Orleans Jazz and Doug Collins (20) of the Philadelphia 76ers appear suspended in the air as Maravich pauses to consider his next move in their NBA games Tuesday night in the Louisiana Superdome. Maravich scored 32 points in New Orleans' 107-103 win while Collins topped Philadelphia with 25. (AP Laserphoto)

Gil Brandt pushed the button on the Dallas Cowboys' computer and out came ... the Seattle Seahawks.

The master builder of the National Football League's defending Super Bowl champions has to get as much credit as anyone for turning the Seahawks, a 2-year-old expansion team when the season began, into a potential division champion.

Brandt, Dallas' director of person-Dick Mansperger, to Seattle when the team was formed in 1976. Since then, a veritable posse of Cowboys has trotted off to the Pacific Northwest to turn the Seahawks into quick win-

JIM ZORN, Efren Herrera, Steve August, Tom Lynch, Terry Beeson, Duke Fergerson, Bill Gregory, Ron Howard ... virtually all are starters on a team which won just two games two years ago, was 5-9 last year and now has a 7-6 record - and has the Oakland Raiders and Denver Broncos looking over their shoulders.

Zorn is a Cowboy castoff, the last player cut by Dallas before the start of the 1975 season. The left-hander from little Cal Poly-Pomona missed that season, then signed as a free agent with Seattle the next year. He instantly became the Seahawks' No.1 quarterback and has repeatedly wowed the crowds with his bombthrowing, his scrambling and his knack for manufacturing sometimes implausible comebacks. 'Zorn has matured a great deal. He's a much better quarterback today than he was a year ago," says John Thompson, the Seahawks' gen-

ZORN THREW two touchdown passes against Oakland last Sunday, then guided the Seahawks into position for the 46-yard field goal with three seconds to play that beat the Raiders, the first season sweep of Oakland by any team since 1965. "There's no question but that we've often said we're modeling our franchise after the successful expansion franchises ahead of us - and Dallas certainly is one of those," says Thompson.

ONE OF THOSE believers is Brandt. In fact, he was more than a the Seahawks on television.

Brandt suggested that Mansperger's knowledge of the Dallas players and of the Cowboy front office may have had a bearing on Seattle's acquisitions. "A lot of teams, when you try to trade someone, are reluctant to make the trade because they think they know more about the player than they really do or because they figure if you're trying to trade him he must not be very good," he said.

"We tried to trade Efren to a number of teams. We just wound up getting the best deal from Seattle. With Dallas, of course, is doing quite nicely without Zorn & Co. "When the Cowboys win, we often say our farm team is doing well," says Thompson. 'That's a common joke around here.

Hooks flash is only sixth junior to win Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — Six players 3-2-1 point system. Fusina's count was have won the Heisman Trophy as 163-89-83—750. juniors. Only one, Archie Griffin of Ohio State, repeated as a senior. Oklahoma's Billy Sims has a chance to follow in Griffin's footsteps ... and he plans to give it a shot.

Although his original class at the University of Oklahoma will graduate next June, Sims has another year of eligibility remaining. And after he was announced Tuesday as the winner of the 44th annual Heisman Trophy as the nation's top college football player, he said that he will be back to try for two in a row.

"I'll just play like I did this year and let things fall in place," said the 6-foot, 205-pound junior running back from Hooks, Texas, who missed almost all of the 1976 season with an injury. "I am not going to go in the (National Football League) draft. I am coming back to school. A degree is something no one can take away from

Sims' narrow Heisman victory over Penn State quarterback Chuck Fusina by a point total of 827-750 was the second closest ever and Fusina actually received 12 more first-place votes than Sims. The only closer Heisman voting occurred in 1956 when Notre Dame's Paul Hornung edged Johnny Majors of Tennessee by 72 points.

Sims is the nation's leading rusher and scorer and smashed the Oklahoma and Big Eight Conference singleseason records by gaining 1,762 yards in 11 games and scoring 20 touchdowns while averaging 7.6 yards per carry. He tied a national record by rushing for 200 or more yards in three consecutive games.

Sims received 151 first-place votes, 152 second-place ballots and 70 for third place and totaled 827 points on a ring injury, they figure to wage a

Michigan quarterback Rick Leach finished third with 89-58-52-435 and Charles White, Southern California's junior tailback, was fourth with 36-74-

Rounding out the top 10 were Louisiana State running back Charles Alexander, 42-51-54-282; North Carolina State running back Ted Brown, 5-19-29-82, and Clemson quarterback Steve Fuller, 19-6-13-82; Georgia Tech running back Eddie Lee Ivery. 11-19-10-81; Washington State quarterback Jack Thompson, 13-11-11-72, and UCLA linebacker Jerry Robinson, 12-11-12-70.

Besides receiving more first-place ballots, Fusina also carried three of the six Heisman voting regions — the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic and South. Leach took the Midwest while Sims led in the Southwest and Far West. Sims finished second in the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic and Midwest and third in the South.

"I never thought I would win it, but I thought I was going to be close," Sims said.

"I'm really flattered about the way it came out," Fusina said. "I'm honored just to be mentioned. To come in second is really something. I really didn't expect to win the Heisman and to get all those votes really shocked Leach said finishing third "was really a blow at first. But just to realize that you are one of the Heisman candidates is really a great White said he "wasn't surprised that Billy Sims won it. I'm not disappointed. I knew that whoever won would deserve it."

Like Sims, White is a junior. Bar-

"There won't be any rivalry," White said. "As a matter of fact, I'm looking forward to meeting him at an All-American thing we'll both be going to. I've been wanting to meet him for a long time."

By game, Sims rushed for 107 yards on 19 carries against Stanford, 8-114 vs. West Virginia; 8-33 vs. Rice while playing less than one quarter; 14-166

'We have had great backs here," said Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, but we have never had a back with Sims' combination of speed and power. I told him four years ago that if he came to Oklahoma he'd win this thing. No back in the country did what

Sims will formally accept the Heisman Trophy from the sponsoring Downtown Athletic Club at a banquet here Dec. 7. At that time, the winners of the six DAC Awards, inaugurated

Success won't spoil Sims

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) - Will success spoil Billy Sims?

Encountering him shortly before he picked up the nation's top individual football award, the Heisman Trophy, out in front of his dorm room in an undershirt shaking a floor rug would make one wonder.

"This was a good year," he insisted in his slow John Waynestyle drawl. "I was able to stay healthy and play some pretty good ball. I would like to win the Heisman, but if I don't, it ain't no big deal. I would much rather win the national championship.

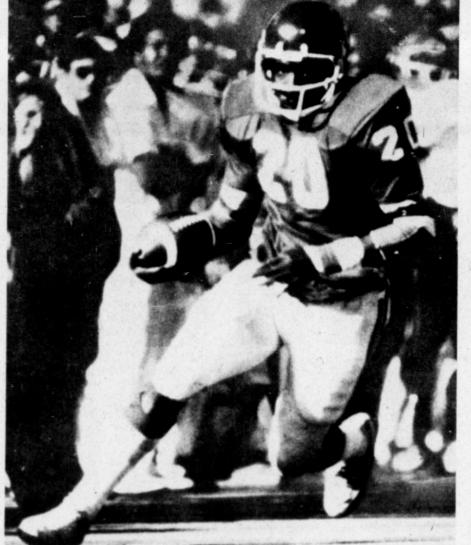

With his fourth-ranked Oklahoma University Sooners going into an Orange Bowl rematch with Nebraska, it looks like he won't get his main wish. But he did get the Heisman.

Tuesday, New York's Downtown Athletic Club named Sims this year's award winner following some very close balloting. Sims' 827 points was closely followed by Penn State quarterback Chuck Fusina's 750 points. He will pick up the award Dec.

During the phone call from New York when he learned he won the award, he reportedly told his benefactors that he was without a doubt "No. 1," but that type of boastfulness is not ordinarily present during a conversation with Sims.

"I've been real lucky this year," Sims said. "I stayed healthy for the first time. I got to give a lot of credit to the man upstairs for that.'

Sims' helper "upstairs" has gotten credit for a number of the and was this year's winner of the Outland Trophy.

Sims is only the sixth junior and the third Oklahoma Sooner to win the Heisman. Other Oklahomans who won the award were Billy Vessels in 1952 and Steve Owens in 1969. Besides the trophy and the fact Sims was this year's top running back statistically, picking up a Big Eight Conference record 1,762 yards, the best thing about Billy, as far as the Sooners are concerned, is that he will be back next year.

Due to a redshirt season, he has another year of eligibility and insists he will not pass up the extra college year for a pro contract.

"I am not going to go in the draft. I am coming back to school. A degree is something no one can take away from you," he said

Midland College has the two-night set as its only non-conference action for a while. There are three conference games in December, the Christmas break, then a three-day tourney in Big Spring in January. After that the Chaps face 14 consecutive conference games in seven weeks.

When the Chaps take the floor, opponents don't know who to key their defense on. The scoring has been spread around. For example, in the first game in the Valley of the Sun Classic last week in Scottsdale, Ariz., Tim Shelby got 12 points, Henry White 11 and Cullen Mayfield 10. The second game saw Luis Alvarado hit for 25, Kerry Bennett netted 15, Mayfield 19 and Kenneth Young 10. In the third game Mayfield got 22, Ron Tate 13, Shelby 13 and White 10.

"We've got an exciting bunch of players who are playing with enthusiasm and desire," Stone said. "They are beginning to get together as a team. In fact, they really only played one bad half during the entire tournament in Arizona and they learned something from that letdown.

Rose continues spree across baseball map

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Hopscotching across the baseball map, Pete Rose headed today for Columbus, Ohio, and a meeting with Pittsburgh Pirate officials after stops in Atlanta, Kansas City and St. Louis on a whirlwind shopping spree for wealth and happiness.

Everywhere he goes, people are begging him to accept both.

Atlanta promised the 37-year-old switch-hitter it would top everyone else's money package. Kansas City offered him, besides money, a challenge that "made his eyes light up," and Pittsburgh was reported banking on the celebrated free agent's fondness for race horses.

Less was known about Rose's fourhour huddle with the St. Louis Cardinals. But their offer had to be substantial if team spokesman Jim Toomey was correct when he said, .Rose seemed to be receptive to the ideas that they discussed.

After meeting with Pittsburgh Pirate officials, Rose will rendezvouz with the Philadelphia Phillies, who launched his trip in style with an offer said to surpass $2 million.

Rose, only the 12th man to reach the 3,000-hit plateau, is traveling with his attorney, Reuven Katz, and film clips of himself.

'The tape runs about 25 minutes," said a spokesman for the Kansas City Royals. "It showed some of the variety of things Pete can do. There were clips of him being interviewed on network television shows and some shots from his (44-game hitting)

In Atlanta Monday, Braves owner

Ted Turner reportedly told Rose to go out and find the best offer and then come back so he could top it.

Tuesday morning in Kansas City, Royals owner Ewing Kauffman was faced with the task of prying him away from the National League, where he has spent his entire career with the Cincinnati Reds. Kauffman aimed his pitch at Rose's competitive

"I told him I knew he had a little girl and a little boy, that he was a great baseball player and that he only needs 1,068 hits to break Mr. Ty Cobb's record," said Kauffman after their 21/2-hour meeting.

"His eyes sort of lit up and he said, 'I didn't know that."

Rose's hit total stands at 3,164 and the record-conscious hustler has said he wants Stan Musial's National League record of 3,630. Kauffman, whose figures were slightly off, told him that in the American League, with its designated hitter rule, he could pace himself into his 40s and Pittsburgh Pirates don't have the inside track on signing Pete Rose, but they may mention the horse track in their longshot contract offer.

Okun principles called unifying economic factor

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

in reartion to release of a NEW YORK (AP)-With the polarizers and the popularizers of one-issue political themes on the rise. Arthur Okun, the economist, offers an explanation, a reminder, and a perspective worth reading.

The American society, he observes, is built on two differing foundations. The capitalistic foundation stresses efficiency. The democratic foundation gives top priority to humanitarian values.

'By grasping at either the market or democratic value system and ignoring the other, one can readily indict our society for grave defects and grievous crimes," he says. It's happening today.

And so, in a lecture co-sponsored by Columbia University and McGraw Hill, Inc., the former chief economic adviser to President Lyndon Johnson sought the unifying principles rather than disruptive

It may not have received the immediate publicity afforded lesser commentaries, but time, the strength of analysis and the clarity of presentation almost certainly will correct that oversight.

A summary of the Okun principles: PRINCIPLE NO. 1 - The market and the government need each other.

"The governmeent needs the marketplace in two distinct ways. As a support for government in a capitalistic system, the private economy is the goose that lays the golden eggs.

"As a counterweight, the decentralization of power inherent in a private enterprise economy supplies the limitation of government that is essential to the survival of democracy

"On the other side, the marketplace depends critically on the government and on the exercise of its legal powers to make and enforce the rules of economic activity.

"The value of contracts, orders, promises to pay, and money itself stems from the power of politicians and bureaucrats to penalize the violators of the rules of the market game." It is the referee.

PRINCIPLE NO. 2 - The competitive marketplace is generally the best system for organizing

"In the competitive marketplace, economic selfinterest becomes an engine of social welfare. When competition works, it creates values for the consumer far greater than the wealth it bestows on successful enterpreneurs and their financial back

PRINCIPLE NO. 3 - Our democracy should mitigate inhumane penalties of the market.

"The unmitigated verdict of the marketplace would condemn millions to deprivation. The cases of serious deprivation cannot be accepted passively or justified complacently in a democratic society.

"Even if the 'losers' are all beaten in fair races, we must ask what is a fair penalty for a loser in a fair

PRINCIPLE NO. 4 - The government must look after the interests of third parties.'

"It is axiomatic that voluntary transactions in the marketplace are mutually advantageous to both the buyer and the seller - or else they would not be agreed upon by the two parties.

"But a transaction may harm some third parties whose interests are not reflected in the exchange decision. Only the political process can determine when the interests of third parties are sufficiently weighty to warrant protection.

PRINCIPLE NO. 5 - Government actions must be subjected to the test of efficiency.

"The record of performance on the additional tasks that the federal government has undertaken in the 1960s and 1970s is candidly disappointing. There is a highly significant controversy about the lessons

"Many conservatives see a confirmation of their convictions about how little the government can do constructively and a demonstration of the need to abandon some social goals.

"In contrast, to liberals and many centrists, the record is a keen disappointment but also a challenge for reforms to improve government efficiency." Conclusion: "I expect capitalism to survive and thrive in the United States. And I expect us to continue to pursue the goals of democratic capital-

Free lights to make Christmas brighter

AMHERST, Ohio (AP) - Christmas will be a little brighter in Amherst because the City Council has voted to give 10,000 residents a special present - free

And if Mayor Anthony DePaola has his way, it may ecome an annual gift.

The free electricity comes in the wake of negotia tions between the City Council and Ohio Edison Co., which supplies electricity to many northern Ohio DePaola said Ohio Edison last year boosted electric rates 36 percent. The city, however, subsequently negotiated a nine percent reduction in that increase, he said. That "meant they owe us about $150,000 to $160, Amherst serves its customers over a city-owned system that distributes the power generated by Ohio Edison. DePaola said the city frequently can absorb utility rate increases without passing it on to residents. In this instance, the city chose to transfer the savings directly to customers by forgiving their December bills, DePaola said.

"I expect that will use about $145,000 to $150,000, said the mayor. DePaola said there is more than $462,000 in the city's electric fund and he wants to make the free December bills permanent. "I've proposed that we do this every year so long as the fund has $250,000 in it," DePaola said.

West

South ruffed the second club, led a trump to the ace, ruffed another low club and drew two more rounds of trumps. Then he tried a finesse with the queen of diamonds.

East won with the king of diamonds and returned the jack. When West showed out South refused the trick, but East continued with the ten of diamonds to dummy's ace.

Now South tried the heart finesse and was happy when this lost to the king since he could complain. The ace of clubs and both red kings were offside! Was there ever such an unlucky bridge player!

DEVELOPS HEART

Readers of this column would play the head properly instead of complaining. After drawing trumps South should play the ace and queen of hearts.

When he gets to dummy with the ace of diamonds South can discard a diamond on the jack of hearts, thus assuring the contract even though every card is wrong. But if he fails to make this hand South should know what to say. (Please don't write in to make other suggestions.)

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-63; H-952; D-KJ108; C-A986. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 2 NT, inviting partner to go on to game. He will do so with 17 or 18 points, and he should have a reasonable play for game.

200 battle to save rusty Liberty Ship

By JOHN C. EAGAN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Crusty old salts from across the country are rallying to rescue a rusting Liberty Ship, an authentic relic of America's military might in World War II.

About 200 men who built or rode the decks of the Liberty Ships - dubbed "Ugly Duckings" by President Franklin D. Roosevelt - or worked in the shipyards which built 2,742 of the vessels, are taking part in the effort.

Its aim is to restore the S.S. Jeremiah O'Brien, tie the ship up at a San Francisco dock and turn it into a free museum to honor those who built, loaded, sailed or died aboard these workhorses of American war power over three decades ago. "These are men of maritime heritages, who have made their lives at sea - it's a kind of an emotional project with them," said Cy Lee, a retired Merchant Marine captain who is president of the National Liberty Ship Memorial, the O'Brien museum

The history of the Liberties is legend," said Lee. "It is the largest single class of ships ever built from a single design.

"It touched the hearts of more people than any other vessel. It was one of the most outstanding efforts ever mounted in the history of this nation,"

The Liberties carried tens of thousands of Americans to battle, hauled their food and guns, and as hospital ships brought the wounded home. At least 200 of them were sunk, many by Nazi submariners who called the slow-moving Liberties "Kaiser's Creeping Coffins" — a reference to shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser.

About 300 were turned over to the Russians during World War II. In peacetime, hundreds of Liberties were converted to commercial uses and for 20 years plied the world's oceans as tramp cargo vessels. When they became obsolete, Liberties were cut up for scrap, or sunk déliberately to form artifical reefs.

Lee recently accepted the first donation toward the $350,000 restoration project, a $10,000 check from Harry C. Allendorfer Jr., a retired Navy captain who heads the maritime unit of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Shipyard operator Bob Blake has BY DEAN FOSDICK donated $10,000 of work, already under way, to restore the wood fixtures from the ship, now tied up with other "Mothball Fleet" vessels in Suisun Bay, 30 miles northeast of San

Allendorfer said how soon the museum becomes reality will depend on how fast the money can be raised. "It could be done within a matter of months if we had the money," he

Public donations are being solicited, and men and women who worked on or sailed aboard Liberty Ships are being urged to contribute interesting anecdotes for possible use in a book about the vessels.

Jeremiah D. O'Brien, a former Navy lieutenant commander who sailed aboard Liberties in the Pacific during the war and is now an engineer in suburban San Rafael, said he believes he is a descendant of the man for whom the last authentic Liberty was named. History's O'Brien was a native of Ireland who immigrated to Machias, Maine, and as a privateer disrupted British shipping during the Revolutionary War.

Salt Lake's wave machine wins Golden Fleece award

(Wadley & Garfield)

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - They huff and they puff and they blow their competition down in a display of mechanical muscle seldom seen in any farm field. They're farm tractors modified for use in "pulls," rural America's answer to the city drag race.

David Grimm, executive director of the National Tractor Pullers' Association of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, said about 2,000 persons from 23 states and one Canadian province are involved in the effort to standardize competition and build interest in the sport.

"It's unique," Grimm said in a telephone interview. "Farm folks have been interested in tractor pulling for years but now city people are beginning to relate to it. We scheduled 53 pulls on the national circuit for 1978. We'll wind up drawing about a million people and paying out nearly $1 million in purse money before the year is out. That's more than twice what we saw five years ago."

The contest involves moving your tractor farther and faster down a 300-foot dirt track than the other guy, while hitched to a sled weighing anywhere from 40,000 to 65,000 pounds.

The pull gets tougher as the tractors advance because the sled's movable weight box is adjusted to slide closer to the tractor, increasing resistance on the tractor's rear axle. It's not uncommon for a tractor to stall before making the full 300 feet.

The sport generally involves four divisions in various weight classes super stocks, modifieds, mini-modifieds and four-wheel-drive trucks.

$20,000 worth of high performance engine and drivetrain parts," Grimm said. "Many of them develop 10 times their factory-rated horsepower, and in the heavier weight classes, 1,200 to 1,500-horsepower outputs aren't un-Just about anything goes in the modified classes, from 12-cylinder aircraft engines to three automobile engines arranged in step-ladder fashion, he said. The minimodifieds are souped-up garden tractors and fourwheel-drive trucks are becoming an increasingly popular phase of the activity, Grimm said.

One leading participant is Gary Cook, a drag racer-turned-tractor puller. Cook, 36, runs a 317-acre grain and beef cattle operation near Springfield, Tenn. He said when he isn't plowing, he's pulling.

"I've taken in about $13,000 in purse money this year from the 40 to 50 events I entered. In the summer, I generally compete in two to three pulls a week. In the winter, I go to a couple of the big ones - Houston and Indianapolis, for example.

Cook is president of the Tennessee Tractor Pullers' Association and a director of the national body.

"About 75 percent of our members are farmers or are somehow associated with agriculture. Pulling takes some commitment because you're talking about some expensive, special-purpose equipment. Modified superstock tractors will cost about $50,-000. You're not going to risk that kind of investment in a farm field."
