Killer Tornado Hits Mid-South Hundreds Hurt; Looters Strike

TORNADO DAMAGE—The wreckage of a car lies twisted around a telephone pole in Bossier City, La., Sunday after a tornado ripped through the area early in the morning. The tornado killed at least four persons and injured 250 others. Damage estimates range from $50 million to $100 million. (AP Laserphoto)

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — A tornado ravaged this northwest Louisiana city Sunday and other twisters touched down in Arkansas and Mississippi, killing at least four persons and injuring more than 250. Looting broke out and hundreds of National Guardsmen were called in to patrol.

Among the dead were two young sisters, killed here by a car that was thrown through the wall of their home as they slept.

The twisters — rare in December — spun out from a band of violent thunderstorms that spread over the Mid-South. The damage in Bossier City alone was estimated at $100 million. The peak tornado season is in the spring, but the National Weather Service noted that violent tornadoes also struck Louisiana in December of 1933, 1947 and 1965.

Mayor Imposes 6 p.m. Curfew

"It's unbelievable the kind of damage we have out here," said Marvin Anding, mayor of the city of 60,000 persons located just across the Red River from Shreveport. "It's just total devastation."

By late afternoon 250 Guardsmen had moved into Bossier City, and Gen. Joe Daigle said the number could go to 350. The mayor imposed a 6 p.m. curfew and said, "I'm not going to have homes and businesses looted in my city." He said about 1,500 people had been forced to leave homes and apartments.

The dead girls were identified as 13-year-old Lisa Currington and her 8-year-old sister, Jana. A brown compact car lay on its back in what had been their bedroom.

"They were in their room and this car came flying at the house," a man identified as the girls' uncle said. "It came down on their room and crushed them in their bed."

Mike Liles, an Arkansas resident who was in Bossier City, said he was watching television at about 2 a.m. when he heard the tornado.

"I went to the door and I saw it wrap the gas station around a pole," he said. The small self-service station across the street was a pile of rubble.

One person died when a house trailer was demolished in nearby Heflin.

Arkansas Town Also Hit

In El Dorado, Ark., about 75 miles from here, Lurline Helms, 53, was killed when a large tree fell and crushed her mobile home. The twister and storms injured six others in the area.

Near Clarksdale in northwest Mississippi, one person was injured and homes, aircraft, trailers and farm buildings were destroyed.

The tornado sliced through the heart of the Bossier City's business district, demolishing three motels, one apartment complex, a trailer park, dozens of businesses, a school and numerous homes in a 10-block area.

Heavy Damage To Businesses

"It's a miracle numerous other people weren't killed," said Betty Miller, a member of the city council who lived in the Swan Lake subdivision where damage was heavy.

She said the Meadowview Elementary School exploded when the twister hit. Parts of the school were found 10 blocks away, she said.

Authorities reported some looting at the big Bossier Center, a sprawling shopping complex where a bank, restaurant, ice cream parlor, appliance store and other buildings were damaged.

"It's unfortunate but by the time the tornado had gone three blocks past us, See DAMAGES SAID Page 18

KISSINGER FAVORS AID TO CHINA

BERLIN (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger said Sunday it would be in the "American interest" to help bolster communist China's defensive forces. "I believe that the strengthening of the defensive capability of China is not against the American interest, and indeed is in the American interest," the former secretary of state said.

First Craft To Explore Venus Due

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first American spacecraft intended to orbit Venus will arrive at the cloud-shrouded planet today, leading a flock of U.S. and Russian probes that will attempt to investigate Earth's nearest neighbor.

Trailing the Pioneer Venus 1 orbiter are five more American probes that are the first U.S. craft aimed at the planet's surface. The probes were self-contained pieces of a single craft that split apart as it neared the planet. They are to reach Venus on Saturday.

One will incinerate after briefly studying the harsh atmosphere. The others will plummet to the surface and be destroyed by the planet's crushing pressures and intense heat.

Two Soviet craft racing toward the planet are due about two weeks after the American fleet. Both are expected to send probes to the surface.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration describes its $225 million project as an ambitious study of the planet's atmosphere and climate. Scientists hope to get new clues to the forces that drive the weather on Earth.

Directed by NASA's Ames Research Center at Mountain View, Calif., the mission is to mark the first time American instruments have been sent to the surface of Venus and the first time an American ship has been put into orbit about the planet.

The surface-bound probes will crash into the planet about an hour after entering its atmosphere at widely scattered locations to measure and report on atmospheric conditions. The probes are not likely to survive the impact, NASA said.

The orbiter is to circle the planet for at least one Venusian year, about 225 Earth days, using its instruments to examine and measure the atmosphere. It also will bounce radar through the clouds to map as much as 25 percent of the hidden surface and search for mountains and craters.

Scientists hope the mission will help explain why Venus, Earth's closest planetary neighbor and almost its twin in size, is so different from this benign planet.

Airline Refuses Passage To 18 Cult Survivors

NEW YORK (AP) — Ten survivors of the Jonestown suicide-murders flew here from Guyana Sunday night, but 18 men were left behind because three were carrying knives, the plane's pilot said.

Pan American Flight Capt. Albert Brockob said he refused to let the men board after a dispute with the FBI over a lack of FBI escorts for the group.

Knives Discovered

He said he had not seen the knives, but he had been told they were not pocketknives. He said he did not know which men were carrying the knives, which were discovered by Guyanese security.

Guyanese officials were not available to verify that the knives had been found.

Among the men who stayed behind were two of cult leader Jim Jones' adopted sons. Several of the men, including Jones' sons, are reputed to have been Jones' personal bodyguards or members of the Jonestown security force.

Nine women and a 3-year-old child made the trip, and upon their arrival they were questioned at length by officials from the FBI and other government agencies.

FBI Questions Women

FBI officials said the survivors had refused to meet with reporters. Officials said they did not know if the survivors would be leaving for their homes around the country Sunday night. Six members

Cool Reception Given Stop-Crime Hotline

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A STOP crime hotline begun last month by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce so far has met with a cool reception from both Lubbock citizens and some Lubbock police.

Although no one in the police department will comment officially on the Crime Abatement Program (CAP), some officers have questioned the hotline's effectiveness, especially after 22 of 26 calls received so far by hotline workers have turned out to be unrelated to criminal matters.

But persons involved with the creation of CAP have hinted that city officials and police have been less than enthusiastic about the program and have not given it time to get off the ground.

Since CAP's inauspicious beginning Nov. 15 when the hotline's 763-3111 number was confused with the telephone number of a local couple, only an average of two phone calls per day have been received by hotline workers.

And of those 26 calls, only four have been the kind of information officials were hoping to get from the program, according to Capt. Frank Wiley of the city's Planning, Research and Evaluation office.

Wiley said last week that three of the "tips" called into his office were turned over to burglary detectives and a fourth piece of information was forwarded to the police department's traffic office.

Calls Misdirected

The remaining 22 calls, he said, have been from persons seeking information either about the hotline itself or about general criminal problems, prank and hang-up calls, or calls that should have been made directly to the police department desk for prompt action.

While none of the information passed on to police has helped solve or prevent a crime, one burglary detective said the tips he received from the hotline helped confirm information he previously had been told.

Other detectives, however, have complained that the callers have been too vague in their information. They also contend that allowing the callers to remain anonymous makes it difficult for officers to investigate the tips. These officers say they would rather continue to work with their own private informants.

Anonymity Defended

CAP developers argue that the anonymity aspect will encourage people to call because they will not be risking getting themselves in trouble.

Frank McGlaun, a Lubbock businessman who initiated the program after he lost $4,500 worth of personal belongings to burglars three years ago, said that Lubbockites have not yet been given an opportunity to make the program work.

"We feel that the public doesn't know enough about (CAP) yet," McGlaun said, "so we are going to beef up the program beginning (today) in terms of exposure and other areas."

Part of the "beefing up," he said, will come in the form of a new tape recorder with the capability of recording more phone calls.

The recorder first installed for the hotline only was able to record for a short period of time, he said, and some calls may have been missed.

Stepping Up Campaign

McGlaun also said the chamber's crime committee plans to increase its publicity campaign to make citizens more aware of the program and its possibilities.

"I personally have gotten calls from informants who wanted to know how to get calls in," McGlaun said. "A lot of the time people see the logo and the phone number but they still don't realize exactly."

Cold Spell Respite Due Area

THE LUBBOCK area will shake off the chill of a cold front today and Tuesday, before bracing for a fresh onslaught of Arctic air.

As a surface high pressure cell continues across the Panhandle and South Plains, fair and dry conditions with mild days and cold nights will prevail.

Today's high will be near 56 before the mercury dips into the upper 20s tonight. An afternoon high in the upper 50s is expected Tuesday.

Northerly winds that invaded the Lubbock vicinity Sunday will give way to westerly winds blowing to 10 mph today and southwesterly to 15 mph Tuesday.

Farmers can expect about 10 hours of sunshine today and about nine hours Tuesday. Drying conditions will be fair to good both days, according to the National Weather Service.

Relative humidity will range from 30 percent this afternoon and Tuesday to 70 percent tonight. Light to moderate frost formations will coat low places in the area Tuesday morning.

The extended outlook for Wednesday through Friday calls for partly cloudy skies and considerably cooler temperatures.

Occasional light rain or rain mixed with snow may blanket the northern Panhandle Wednesday and Thursday and gradually will drift southward.

The strong Arctic cold front that whipped across the South Plains Sunday covered most of the state, touching off thunderstorms, marine warnings and predictions of an overnight freeze extending into parts of South Texas.

Goodfellows Depend On Big Hearts

THE LETTER was written in childish scrawl on lined tablet paper and described a family which might miss Santa Claus' visit Christmas morning, unless the Goodfellows come to the rescue.

The father had been laid off at work and had been unable to find other employment, the letterwriter said.

It concluded with these words: "...so I hope you come and make their children happy! Thank you..."

And, yes, the Goodfellows, a group of anonymous of men and women business leaders in Lubbock, will come to the rescue and provide Christmas for an estimated 10,000 needy children in Lubbock this year.

It's a big job which grows larger each year for Chief Goodfellow and his merry masked men. But the project has always been a success because the citizens of Lubbock have always supported it.

For the 44th year, Chief Goodfellow is asking the citizens of Lubbock to open their hearts and pocketbooks and provide Christmas for those less fortunate than themselves.

The program is for children under the age of 14 years who live within the city limits of Lubbock and might not otherwise have a Merry Christmas without the merry masked men.

Three things have to be done by the Goodfellows and citizens of Lubbock to help the project succeed.

First, Chief Goodfellow needs the names of every needy child who might not have a visit from Santa Claus.

Second, he needs contributions totaling $15,000 this year to provide packages of fruit, nuts, candy and toys for the needy children.

Charges Filed On Cult Leader

KINGMAN, Ariz. (AP) — Charles Dederich, who turned his Synanon alcohol and drug rehabilitation program into a religious cult, was arraigned in his hospital bed Sunday, after being too drunk to go to court, on charges connected with a suspected murder, authorities said.

Dederich, 65, was formally charged at Mohave County General Hospital with conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder in a bizarre rattlesnake attack on Paul Morantz, 33, a Los Angeles attorney. He was held in the hospital's jail ward in lieu of $500,000 bail.

Dederich was arrested on a fugitive warrant Saturday.

Inflation Chief Raps Solons' Pay Raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's chief inflation fighter said Sunday that votes by Illinois and Ohio state legislators to give themselves raises are outrageous.

"This is in direct violation of the standards of responsible behavior set by the president in his Oct. 24 anti-inflation message," Alfred E. Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said in a statement of the Illinois vote.

"I share the outrage that the citizens of the state have expressed to us in wires and telephone calls protesting the action," Kahn said.

The Illinois lawmakers overrode a veto by Gov. James Thompson in voting themselves a pay increase of 40 percent, from $20,000 to $28,000 for the next four years.

Ohio legislators voted to boost their salaries by $5,000 a year, to $22,500. Ohio Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, whose pay would increase 20 percent to $60,000 a year, has not said whether he will sign the measure.

Kahn noted that the Finance Committee of the Chicago Board of Aldermen has recommended an increase from $17,500 to $23,000 — 60 percent for the next four years — which the entire board will vote on Monday.

President Carter's anti-inflation guidelines ask that wage increases be kept to a maximum of 7 percent.

"It is only fair to recognize that all of these actions appear to be taken under statutes or constitutional provisions that limit raises to one every four years, and are therefore the first raises since 1975," Kahn said. "The fact remains that they violate the standards; and no one from those bodies attempted to discuss them with me or with any of the responsible officials of the Council on Wage and Price Stability.

"On the basis of such discussions, we might have shown them how they might have overcome the once-in-four-years problem while still complying with the president's standards; by accepting a maximum of 8 percent the first year and smaller percentages thereafter, with the average not to exceed 7 percent over the four-year period," Kahn said.

He added: "Coming from our government leaders — who should be setting an example — at a time when we are asking all the American people to exercise restraint in our common battle against inflation, they are outrageous."

He noted that the administration has no authority to roll back these increases.

"But we do intend to review the pay actions and make recommendations about adjusting government pay increases."

Mobile Home Fire Kills Four Infants

COLUMBIA, Tenn. (AP) — Four children between the ages of 5 and 14 months died in a fire at a mobile home Saturday, officials said. A 15-year-old baby sitter, sleeping in a rear bedroom, escaped.

Mauzy County sheriff's deputy James Haney identified the victims as John Tomlinson, 5; Jesse Tomlinson, 4; Jeff Tomlin, 4, and Eric Tomlin, 14 months. The Tomlinsons, cousins of the Tomlins, were staying overnight at the Tomlin trailer, Haney said.

The mother, a nurse, was working at the time, he said. The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Teddy Bear's Origins Disputed

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Everybody agrees the teddy bear is named for Theodore Roosevelt, late president and big-game hunter, but local historians say it's too early to celebrate the cuddly toy's 75th birthday.

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington currently is exhibiting a collection of teddy bears to coincide with what it says is the 75th anniversary of one of the most popular toys of the century.

The Smithsonian says it has traced the toy's origins to a 1902 hunting trip Roosevelt took in Mississippi. After an unsuccessful day in the Mississippi wilds, the Smithsonian says, the president refused to shoot a small bear cub brought to him by other members of the hunting party.

News of Roosevelt's humane act gave birth to an angular stuffed toy bear which the Ideal Toy Co. called "Teddy," according to the Smithsonian.

It's a good story, say two Glenwood Springs historians. The only problem with it, they maintain, is that it didn't happen that way.

According to Lena Doose and Nellie Duffy, the teddy bear won't be 75 years old until sometime in 1980. And she and others contend teddy was born in Colorado, not Mississippi.

In separate books written by the two women, the origin of the teddy bear is traced to a hunting trip President Roosevelt made in 1905 — to Colorado's Western Slope.

Roosevelt and his hunting party had spent a week on the Muddy and Upper Divide Creek, killing 10 bears before returning to Glenwood Springs, says Mrs. Doose in her book, "Glenwood Springs: Spa in the Mountains."

One of the bear pelts was especially admired by Roosevelt's teen-age daughter, Alice, who said she was going to call it "Teddy," Mrs. Doose's account goes on. A toymaker heard the story and began producing a line of teddy bears.

Another version of local origin teddy bear comes from Mrs. Du longtime local journalist.

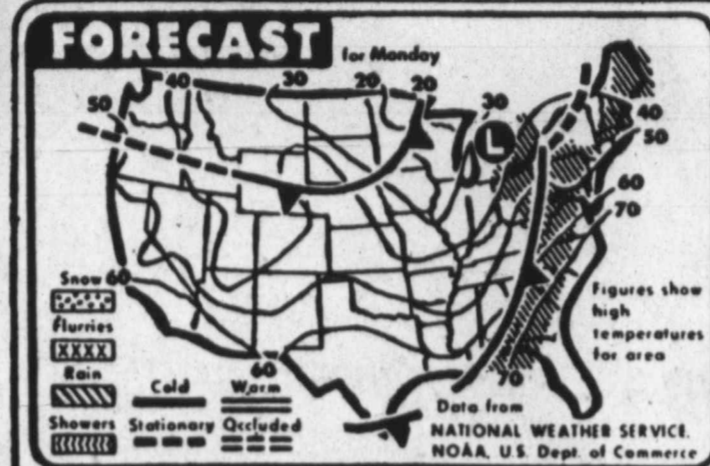

In honor of Roosevelt's visit to the area, says Mrs. Duffy in her book titled "Glenwood," officials of the Hotel Colorado in Glenwood Springs presented the president with a toy bear following his successful bear hunt. They called it "Teddy Bear."

Kirk Whiteley, current owner of the Hotel Colorado, where Roosevelt set up his "Little White House" in 1905, says he is aware of both local versions of the teddy bear story, but is inclined to believe the first — the one involving Roosevelt's daughter Alice.

Most oldtimers in the Roaring Fork Valley also believe this version of the story, Whiteley said.

"We'd like to think we fathered the teddy bear here in Glenwood Springs, but who's to know?" Whiteley said. "The Smithsonian carries some formidable credentials."

VATICAN WINS STAMP WAR
VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican has won its stamp war with the mini-state of San Marino. Postal authorities in the land-locked republic had planned to print a stamp representing Italian sculptor Pericle Fazzini's work "Resurrection," which graces the Vatican's general audience hall. But the Vatican objected, and after secret negotiations, decided to substitute the Fazzini series.

Four Suspects Charged With Plumber's Murder

NEW YORK (AP) — Four people were accused Sunday of being the ruggers of an elderly Jewish plumber whose fatal stabbing touched off a violent demonstration in which Hasidic Jews wrecked a Brooklyn police station.

Chief of Detectives James T. Sullivan identified the adult suspect charged with murder and robbery as Jose Julbe, 20, of Brooklyn. Officers also arrested two 15-year-olds and a 16-year-old and were seeking Julbe's older brother, Juan, 27, Sullivan said.

He said the suspects were arrested Saturday morning before the demonstration at the 66th Precinct stationhouse in the Borough Park neighborhood, but that they were not linked to Irving Sussman's killing until early Sunday.

That was about 15 hours after the violent confrontation in which 62 policemen and eight demonstrators were reported injured. Hundreds of Hasidim, demanding more police protection, poured into the stationhouse, smashing windows and overturning filing cabinets and other furniture.

Sullivan called the fight "an extraordinary thing. I've never seen anything like it in my time in the police department."

Sullivan said Sussman, the murder victim, was one of four people who fell victim to the same muggers within a 10-block area of the neighborhood early Saturday.

He said Sussman, 65, was followed from a telephone booth and was attacked. Sussman had gotten change for the call at a hamburger stand and was seen there by the alleged assailants, Sullivan said.

"This does not appear to be anything anti-Hasidic on the part of the perpetrator," Sullivan said. He said the other victims were Haitian, black and Hispanic.

The police department, meanwhile, said Mayor Edward I. Koch had ordered extra patrols for the Borough Park neighborhood.

Mary Ann Evans, who wrote under the pen name George Eliot, was born in 1819.

Harold Stassen Serious About Presidential Bid

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — It is not age that Harold Stassen runs hardest against. Churchill, he likes to remember, saved a country in his 70s. And at 71, in his lightly grayed toupee, Stassen looks more like a big, somber uncle than an aging grandfather.

And after half a century in public life, he says his record has "stood the test of time."

What Harold Stassen runs hardest against is the look that came over Walter Cronkite's face last month when Stassen announced he was running for president — again.

It was the sixth time Stassen had announced a bid for the Republican presidential nomination since 1948 and today, many Americans see not a serious candidate but a perennial one with little hope.

This time, though, Stassen says public financing will allow him the money to make a serious run. And he yearns to be taken seriously.

All right, then, who is he?

On Dec. 9, 1939, in an off-the-record speech to Washington's Gridiron Club, Stassen says, he called for an end to international isolation and advocated a United Nations. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was there, named him a delegate to the conference that wrote the U.N. charter.

As early as 1954, Stassen says, he opposed intervention in Vietnam. President Eisenhower, who had named him head of the Foreign Operations Administration, was under pressure from Vice President Richard Nixon and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to help the French. Stassen says he was one of those counseling staying out — which Eisenhower did. Later, Stassen says, he met with Lyndon Johnson and told him to stay out, too — which Johnson didn't. In 1968, Stassen was a peace candidate in the Wisconsin Republican primary.

The issue of peace was one on which Stassen made his early national reputation. He played a central role in organizing the first summit meeting, an effort to end the Cold War. In 1955, he was given Cabinet rank as special White House assistant on disarmament. "If this is not to be an age of atomic hysteria and horror, we must make it an age of international understanding and cooperation," he said then.

In 1956, Stassen took a leave from the White House to lead a move to dump Nixon as Eisenhower's running mate. But it failed, and Stassen wound up second in Nixon's nomination. Today, though, he points to his effort against Nixon: "It's not a matter of what I had against Nixon. It was a matter of observing him from across the table and making a judgment of what the whole world knows now."

Stassen says his attempt to dump Nixon destroyed his standing in the GOP establishment. But Nixon was not the only one he offended. Stassen was the first of Eisenhower's advisors to publicly tangle with Sen. Joseph McCarthy. He was one of the first Republicans to support Social Security, bank deposit insurance, defense, and UN membership for both Germany and both Chinas. He tried to get the GOP to befriend labor. He remains outside the GOP establishment now.

As he opened his campaign this year, Stassen proposed a 10 percent national sales tax to balance the budget, said there was corruption in the Carter administration, and made a number of proposals dealing with interest rates, full employment and tax cuts.

But his ideas aren't the whole story. There is a political track record too — of a long slide from the center of power to the fringe.

In the 1930s, at 31, Stassen was a boy-wonder governor of Minnesota. He was re-elected twice, the second time in 1942. In 1943, he entered the Navy, and by 1944, he was being mentioned for the presidency.

That year, the Minnesota delegation agreed to offer his name as a candidate, but he withdrew in favor of New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

After the war, it is said, he could have walked into the Senate from Minnesota. But he didn't run in 1946 and instead went east to Philadelphia, closer to the seat of power. He wound up president of the University of Pennsylvania, not president of the United States.

He stayed in Pennsylvania until this year, and founded a law firm specializing in international business law. He earned as much as $100,000 a year, but the presidential nomination eluded him:

— In 1948, he travelled 200,000 miles campaigning, had his name placed in nomination, and got four second-place speeches. But he withdrew before balloting began, again helping Dewey.

— In 1952, he was the first announced candidate, but the race became one between Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Stassen got 20 votes, which he threw to Eisenhower, putting him over the top.

— In 1964, he announced but didn't get past the primaries.

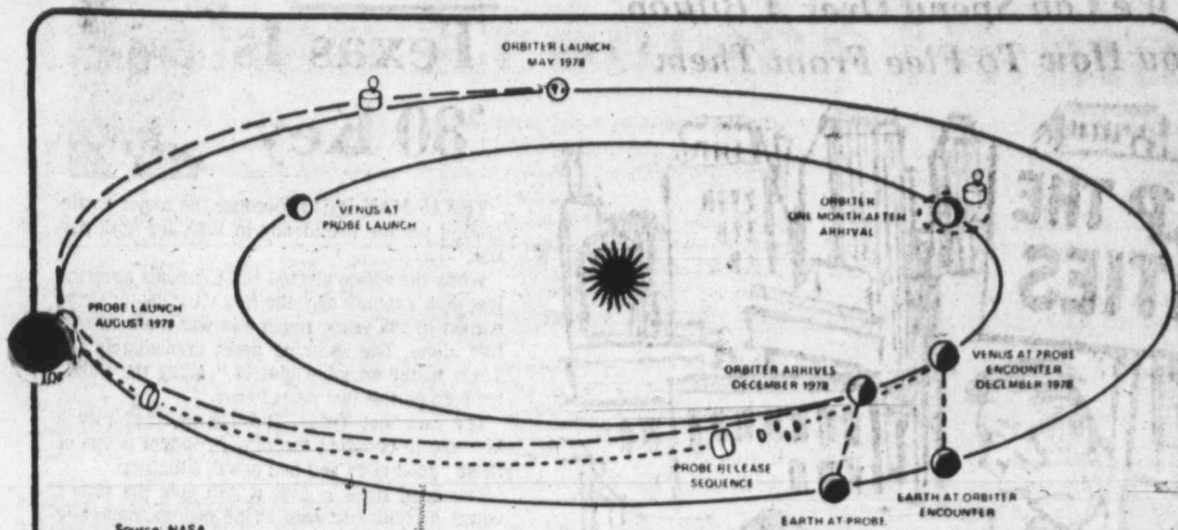

— In 1968, he entered the Wisconsin primary as a peace candidate. A Gallup poll put him dead last, behind "no preference."

— In 1976, he announced on June 4, after the primaries. President Gerald Ford easily took the nomination.

In the meantime, other defeats kept him out of elected office: two tries for Pennsylvania governor, one for mayor of Philadelphia, one this year for the Senate from Minnesota.

Today, Stassen claims his presidential runs of 1948 and 1952 were not serious — that he ran interference for Eisenhower, for example.

And his sonorous voice is hopeful. "Clearly," he says, "there has been less ridicule this time."

Venus Probe Most Ambitious Yet

By BARBARA McDOWELL

Venus, second in brightness only to the moon in the night sky, has long been a subject of human fascination. Ninevah tablets dating from 684 B.C. record observations of the planet.

Perhaps the most ambitious probe yet of the planet is America's current Pioneer Venus mission. Pioneer Venus was designed to employ more vehicles and make more measurements at more locations than any of the 13 spacecraft, 10 Russian and three American, that preceded it to the cloud-shrouded planet.

The first space mission devoted primarily to studying the atmosphere and weather of another planet on a global scale, Pioneer Venus is expected to gather data that will help scientists better understand the atmosphere and weather of Earth.

The mission has featured no fewer than six spacecraft: the Pioneer Venus 1 orbiter, launched May 20, and the five-part Pioneer Venus 2 multiprobe, launched Aug. 8, which split into a "transporter bus" and four atmospheric entry probes 8 million miles from its destination.

The orbiter, which was scheduled to begin its 243-day flight around Venus at 8 a.m. PST today, was to be the first U.S. spacecraft to circle Venus, making the longest observations of the planet to date.

Dipping at one point to within 90 miles of Venus, the orbiter will make radar maps of the planet's surface, take daily pictures in ultra-violet light of it clouds and conduct scientific experiments on its atmosphere.

The transporter bus and the four probes, three identical and one larger, that it carried most of the way to Venus were targeted to enter the planet's atmosphere Dec. 9 at points about 6,000 miles apart on its Earth-facing hemisphere. Two were aimed for the planet's night side, the other two and the bus for the day side.

The task given the bus was gathering data on Venus's upper atmosphere before burning up. The other probes were charged with studying the planet's atmosphere from top to bottom in the hour or so during which they descend to its surface. The probes were not built to survive impact.

Total cost of the Pioneer Venus mission is $220 million.

Doctor Discusses Womb Implantation

NEW YORK (AP) — The British physician who developed test-tube baby techniques said Sunday that they might be used someday to implant one woman's baby in another woman's womb.

Dr. Patrick Steptoe said that although it has not been done, women who are "unfit" for pregnancy could have their babies incubated by "surrogate mothers."

Steptoe received a flurry of publicity after last summer's birth in England of Louise Brown, the first baby known to have been conceived outside the womb.

Steptoe discussed his procedure on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Asked about the possibility of "in vitro" fertilization — conception outside the body — causing birth defects, he said the issue had been "gone into thoroughly" in more than 500 animal test tube births.

"There is a time when you must move from animals to humans," he said.

Steptoe said he planned to publish the full details of his experiments in January.

He also said there are other pregnant women — including one due in February — who are scheduled to have test tube babies. He said he would not identify the women.

women because he did not want reports following the parents around.

He said the technique probably would "become available in a fairly reasonable time" for any woman who cannot conceive a child.

Steptoe said his group used some embryos only for study and that they were never implanted and died. He said no embryos are presently discarded by himself or his associates.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. Several months ago, I purchased 300 shares of stock which was trading in the over-the-counter market. About a month ago, this stock was no longer quoted in any newspaper. My broker said the reason was that the officers of the corporation failed to file the company's annual report with the federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

How long will it be before the stock is quoted again? Will the stock's price be the same as it was when it was last quoted? Is legal action suggested against the corporation's officers for their negligence?

A. That stock will be readmitted to trading when the company files its annual financial report and complies with all other regulations of the SEC and the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD), the self-regulatory body of the over-the-counter market.

The missing report is known as a "10-K." It is a detailed report of a company's financial and other operations. It is required to be filed with the SEC within 90 days after the close of a company's fiscal year. But a company can obtain an extension of the filing time, if it can show a good reason for being unable to put the report together on time.

I have to tell you that any company whose stock is suspended from trading because of being unable to file its 10-K usually has some serious financial problems.

No one can tell you what the price of that stock will be, when and if it is readmitted to trading. But, based on similar occurrences in the past, my bet is that it will be a good deal below its last trading price. Sorry.

As for legal action, that's not for me to say. If the regulatory authorities — the SEC and the NASD — find other violations, they might very well move in. And you and other stockholders can always exercise your constitutional rights to bring suit. I suggest you consult a good securities lawyer on that score.

Q. My husband paid $200 for 50 shares of stock of a company which franchises beauty parlors. He did not buy them through a broker or bank but from a friend. I would like to see him get his money back. How can he go about this?

A. Unless the "friend" who sold your husband that stock or someone else might run into wants to buy those 50 shares, your husband will have to deal with a broker.

He can go to any brokerage firm and ask two questions: Is there a market for that stock? If so, what is its price? Most brokers aren't happy about handling small orders. But, if there's a market for the stock, your husband can sell at the going market price.

That price might be more or less than the $4 a share your husband paid. And he'd better be prepared to pay a stiff commission or "mark down" fee. These days, most brokers' minimum charges start at $25.

Q. I know my husband bought Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds through the payroll savings plan. He passed away and I can't find the bonds. I don't know if they were cashed, lost or stolen. Is there any way I can find out?

A. Yes. Write to the Bureau of the Public Debt, 200 Third St., Parkersburg, W. Va. 26101. Explain your situation and provide as many details as possible. That federal bureau will send you forms and instructions on filling them out.

Don't throw up your hands at the paperwork. If the bonds were not cashed, replacement bonds will be issued. You might have a bundle coming. This is one of the beauties of U.S. Savings Bonds. They can never be really "lost."

Q. I have tried, for years, to get my husband to make a will. He won't do it. Can I make a will myself, without his consent?

A. Of course you can. I urge you to do it. Every adult should have a will. Just because your husband has a hang-up, there's no reason for you to make the same mistake.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Califano's Cat Out Of Bag

IF NOTHING ELSE, one has to give HEW Sec. Joseph Califano credit for his candor.

The man who oversees the sprawling Health, Education and Welfare agency delivered himself of some views on his job, President Carter and former President Lyndon Johnson the past week.

In so doing, he told us a lot about the philosophy of the "do good" generation, what to expect perhaps in the months ahead and Mr. Carter.

THE GIST OF Mr. Califano's message was that the nation's liberals should not despair in the months ahead as President Carter seeks to cut back on spending and fight inflation.

The President, the man who worked with both Mr. Carter and Mr. Johnson says, is just as compassionate as the former President was — "but times have changed."

"It is essential for liberals to recognize this," Califano said, obviously referring to Mr. Carter's plans to clamp down on federal spending for social programs, especially in the cities and federal aid to states.

Liberals must realize that the economy is strained and that tight management of social programs is now more important than expanding them, he warned.

THEN MR. CALIFANO sounded both a clarion call and let drop a warning.

"We must discipline these social programs while we fight those who would dismantle them," he said, warning that the Civil Rights Act, the Fair Housing Act and the Voting Rights Act are among the real targets of many conservatives.

"The issue of effective government is our issue—a liberal issue—and we must not permit opportunists to cloak their desire to set back social and economic justice in the desire of the American citizens to get real value from their tax dollars."

MR. CALIFANO is right on some points, but grossly wrong on others.

It is true that Mr. Carter's "compassion" may be as great as Mr. Johnson's, but some suspect for a different reason. But, as for Americans' disenchantment with social programs, it is not inflation, but a realization that the federal government can not be all things to all men, and furthermore should not try.

The HEW budget this year is $164 billion. Much of this money, many believe, is wasted. In addition, HEW has involved itself in almost every facet of everyday Americans' lives, a point millions resent.

The truth is that the issue is not Mr. Carter's compassion as opposed to Mr. Johnson's, but sound government and individual freedom as opposed to, yes, the liberal policy of tax and tax spend and spend, a policy which has brought the nation to the edge of bankruptcy.

AN EDITORIAL:

Becalmed On Red (Tape) Sea

WHILE NOT the sort of ship that invokes the romance of the seas, the scruffy freighter Hai Hong has acquired a certain significance on its current voyage that points up not only one of the more distressing aspects of the human condition but the extent to which efforts to help can be complicated by political prerequisites.

The Hai Hong, out of Singapore and Panamanian registry, has been plying the waters of Southeast Asia seeking to unload a human cargo—2,500 former residents of Vietnam.

Such people are nothing new to the countries of the area. Camps, particularly in Thailand and Malaysia, are overflowing with fugitives from the Communist victory in Indochina.

BUT THE Hai Hong's passengers are not the usual "boat people," who for the past three years have been seeking freedom by sea, frequently finding death.

They are for the most part ethnic Chinese. And they are believed to have bought their way out of Vietnam.

As a consequence, the countries which with varying degrees of reluctance were once havens suddenly are taking the position that the Hai Hong's passengers are not refugees but emigrants.

As such, they are not wanted and condemned to remain aboard the ancient ship in what press reports describe as horrendous conditions.

The flow of refugees has been increasing of late coincident with the worsening relations between Hanoi and Peking.

Chinese from the once large and largely affluent community that had dominated Vietnamese commerce have become increasingly numerous.

It is believed that Hanoi has decided to rid itself of the free-enterprising Chinese at a profit to itself. At a reported average of $2,000 in gold or U.S. dollars per head, the Hai Hong's passengers represent a $5 million cargo.

THE U.S. State Department has denounced Hanoi for its violation of human rights and the particularly reprehensible practice of forcing individuals to buy their way out of the country.

Which it certainly is, given a choice of escape routes—crawling through a border minefield or buying a place on a boat—how many would not choose the latter if the price could be scraped together.

And the fact that this new generation of boat people happens to be Chinese does not make them any the less refugees. Or human.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Jonestown Flock Chose Death Over Empty Life

WASHINGTON—The grisly murder-suicides at Jonestown in Guyana have focused renewed attention on the subject of religious cults, and properly so.

It is a truism, of course, that the cults are a symptom of our modern problem and not the cause of it.

The political-philosophical tendencies of the time have created a spiritual emptiness that is made to order not only for zany creeds and secular messiahs but for authoritarian political movements.

It would be hard to find a movement which more clearly summarized these themes than the so-called Peoples Temple of the Rev. Jim Jones. In its political dimension, Jones' "church" was an almost perfect example of the left's collectivistic search for secular utopia that is the leading heresy of the age.

JONES WAS A professed Marxist, attempting to create a Socialist commune in Guyana.

His house in Jonestown was found to be staffed with Marxist and other left-wing literature, including the literary journal "Novy Mir" and other publications from the Soviet Union.

The explicitly Soviet material takes on additional significance in view of disclosures that Jones had discussed the possibility of moving his "temple" and commune to the USSR.

Survivors of the camp report that Soviet officials had visited Jonestown to discuss this prospect with him.

In correspondence with Rep. Leo Ryan, one of Jones' attorneys hinted that if Jones were subjected to a "witch hunt" from U.S. authorities he might move to either the Soviet Union or Cuba.

JONES' ADMIRATION for the Communist state in Cuba was a matter of record. He had urged U.S. assistance to the Castro regime in a letter to Mrs. Rosalynn Carter, which she acknowledged with a cordial personal note.

"A person with a second-hand car knows it's hard to drive a bargain."

(Jones had been a power in the politics of San Francisco, boasting connections to the liberal Democratic machine there, Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally, Vice President Walter Mondale, and other political luminaries.)

Among the radicals to whom Jones was connected were Angela Davis, Black Panther Huey Newton, and attorney Charles Garry, who represented both the Panthers and Jones.

Jones' Marxism was intertwined with his own particular brand of megalomania and pseudo-religious fanaticism.

THE MIXTURE SEEMED to work a fatal fascination on at least some people—almost a thousand of whom were willing to follow him into the wilderness of Guyana, defer to him as a virtual god, and lay down their lives at his command.

Their pathetic quest for understanding seems bizarre because of its conclusion—but is of a piece with other grisly happenings of our time.

Jones' power over his tormented followers, like the vision of secular utopia that shaped his politics, was symptomatic of our nihilistic era.

We live in an age when the certitudes of traditional faith have been destroyed, and many of our traditional churches have been converted into politico-social organizations.

WE HAVE BEEN told to rest content with the assertion that there is no truth, no ultimate meaning to our existence, and that the spiritual side of life is empty superstition.

People can't live in that kind of vacuum. Deprived of their traditional faith, they turn to cults, messiahs, neo-pagan magic, or totalitarian dogmas—anything that seems to replace the meaning that is lost and give direction to their lives.

The need to believe in something higher than and other than the flux of circumstances is overwhelming.

The political orientation of the Jonestown cult, and its final plunge to suicidal madness, are poignant testimonials to that fact of human nature.

Running For Life

WASHINGTON—The mail from supporters of Sen. Ted Kennedy has been a mini-deluge since publication of a column last month suggesting that Chappaquiddick disqualifies him from striking a moral pose on questions of equal justice for all.

Curiously, however, most of the readers gave Chappaquiddick only a once-over-lightly. Instead, they wrote of their fears that Kennedy might be assassinated if he ran for President.

Perhaps nobody should say what those correspondents said, because it is too ugly. And yet—Americans are not children. We have a dark side.

And so the danger that any member of the Kennedy family would be murdered by some hate-filled lunatic if he dared to run for President is very real.

KENNEDY-HATERS are not to be confused with Nixon-haters. People who adopted a hatred of Richard Nixon as a way of life are satisfied with merely their detestation and the satisfaction that Nixon has been politically destroyed.

Those who hate the Kennedys include too many who would kill a Kennedy, or exit over the violent extermination of a political member of the family.

Indeed, the evidence is overwhelming. John Kennedy was murdered when he was President. Bobby Kennedy was murdered because he was running for President.

In baseball parlance, the Kennedy-haters are batting 1000 per cent; they've gone two for two.

We must accept the possibility that the nuts would be tempted to make it three for three if the surviving brother made a race for the White House.

NOW FOR THE tough part. Bringing up the subject of religion is distasteful in most precincts. A man's religion should be nobody's business but his own.

But in dark fact, the overriding reason why a member of the Kennedy family risks assassination is that the family is Roman Catholic.

This is a nasty reason, but it can't be swept under the rug by those who live in America's real world.

I do not say that either John or Bobby Kennedy was killed only because he was Catholic. I do say that the intolerant atmosphere prevailing in certain backwaters of the Republic made their assassination possible.

Wars are still fought over religion. See the Arab-Israeli conflict and the strife in Northern Ireland.

PUT MORE SIMPLY, there are in this age of relative tolerance still those who see a Roman Catholic President as a danger to the nation, as a sinister pawn of the Vatican.

I say these bigots exist in certain backwaters of the land. But those backwaters are not exclusively found in the swamps of the socially deprived. They exist also in fashionable Social Register neighborhoods. Bigotry lives with the chic, too.

As for Ted Kennedy, his various talents have not convinced me he is ideally qualified for the Presidency. But he has a right to safely run for that office. And should any Catholic decide to do so, it would be nice if the bigots of both Park Avenue and Main Street let him stand on his record and his qualifications. Nice, and a victory over our dark side.

running from Pennsylvania across the Great Lakes to Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa.

That self-defense, rooted in political reality, was comprised of two elements in roughly equal parts: Reagan's in-place organizational strength, which now reaches deep into Republican soil with a few conspicuous exceptions like Pennsylvania; and the lack of any practical, even visible anti-Reagan strategy by moderate governors.

Lacking an alternative, many of these governors as of today look on the nomination as Reagan's to win—or to lose.

"Reagan got a handful of delegates in my state in 1976," one Midwest Republican moderate told us here. "Today he'd get 75 percent of them."

An Eastern moderate agreed. "Reagan's got the non-primary states wired," he told us. "Show me a horse we can back and we might make a race of it, but you can't name the horse."

During a confidential chat at breakfast Monday, four governors analyzed the party's 1980 nomination.

Govs. Pete DuPont of Delaware, and two newly-elected governors, Reps. Al Quie of Minnesota and Charles Thone of Nebraska, agreed that if the 67-year-old Reagan can maneuver through the 1979 minefields undamaged and enter the 1980 primary season with something like his present strength, his momentum may be irresistible.

THE HOLDOUT WAS the respected Gov.-elect Richard Thornburgh of Pennsylvania—but not even Thornburgh suggested the outline of any strategic plan for stopping Reagan.

To exploit his credibility as 1980 nominee from the always vulnerable front-runner position, Reagan operatives have been assiduously courting both the old and the new among the current crop of Republican governors, expanded from 12 to 18 in the November election, as well as the titular party leader, former President Gerald Ford.

At lunch in Palm Springs Oct. 4, Reagan informed Ford that he definitely will be a candidate.

That followed Reagan's courtship of Ford—in an effort to end their 1976 feud—during two joint appearances in Texas on Sept. 12, when both campaigned for William Clements, now the Texas governor-elect.

PARTY INSIDERS SAY that Ford accepted the unsurprising news about Reagan's candidacy quietly, making no effort to change his mind.

But Reagan's private word to Ford that he will definitely run ended all pretense by the former President that he and Reagan would both renounce 1980 ambitions and pool their resources to find a "fresh, new face" (to quote a Ford intimate) to lead a unified Republican party.

Ford had hinted at just such a joint effort in a handwritten note to Reagan on Sept. 14, two days after Reagan's peace bid, in which he praised Reagan's 1978 campaign effort and spoke of a "common cause" between Ford and Reagan to fortify and unite the party together.

As for placating the governors, Reagan strategists are plotting a Reagan "communicating role" calculated to assuage and soothe.

"The governors are going to find out that we look on them as our friends," one Reagan operative told us.

Preliminary "soothing" moves began election night. One new governor received no less than three telephone calls from Reagan: one for himself, the others for his two top campaign aides.

OTHERS, INCLUDING Minnesota's Quie, heard from John Sears, Reagan's top strategist, whose quiet, shadowy presence was sharply felt here.

As now planned, these lines of "communicating" between Reagan and non-Reaganite governors will tighten, toward a point that Reagan hopes will make it increasingly difficult for an anti-Reagan cabal to form around George Bush or any other moderate.

Some Republicans, in both non-Reagan and anti-Reagan camps, despair that such tactics may work at all too well.

If so, Reagan's 1979 problem resolves into avoidance of error and the hope that the polls—often a front-runner's booby-trap—don't do him in.

JAY HARRIS: Texas Is '80 Key

TEXAS MAY WELL become the major battleground for the presidency in 1980, for both parties.

When the voters elected Bill Clements governor less than a month ago, the first GOP candidate so named in 105 years, much ado was made of the fact alone. The stunning upset immediately put Texas in the enviable spot of "calling the shots" for both parties two years hence.

The fact that Texas, and Texans, may play a key role in choosing the next President is one of those "good news and bad news" situations.

The good news is that it will give the state's voters a chance to help shape history, hopefully in a constructive way. The bad news is that the battle could get involved in the Legislative session and hamstringing productive and needed work.

A HINT OF that came the past week as both Gov.-Elect Clements and the man he upset, State Atty. John Hill, commented on "things to come."

Clements made his at Williamsburg, Va., where GOP governors from across the nation met. Hill's were at a meeting of State Demo party leaders in Austin, called to assess their surprise setback, take action against "defectors" and seek to rejuvenate bruised egos. Clements also spoke to Texas legislators in Austin.

In Williamsburg, while some GOP governors painted a gray picture of their states' economic outlook, the Dallas man was saying Texas' fiscal status is bathed in the sunshine of prosperity.

When things got around to politics, Clements exhibited the same "say it like I see it" approach he used during his successful campaign.

WHEN NEWSMEN asked him if President Carter's fiscal policies will hurt the Lone Star State, Clements let fly.

"I think we're bigger than Mr. Carter," he replied. "Higher interest rates are not looked upon in great favor in Texas and we are not enamored with his anti-inflation program. As a matter of fact, I don't think you can name any program that Mr. Carter has put forward that Texans look upon with favor."

That summation, plus another that he was dedicated to the defeat of President Carter should he seek reelection in 1980, was enough to set off Hill.

Seeking to keep the mantle of Demo party leadership, Hill warned that Clements planned to exploit the governor's office for his and his party's ambitions the next two years, "regardless of the damage it may do to the people's office."

He told the Demo leaders that "this is why we need to fight harder and stick together better over the next two years. We're going to be Democrats in the Spring, Summer and Fall in 1980. Let me know how I can help."

IN OTHER WORDS, it's okay for the Democrats to work toward 1980, and the possible reelection of Mr. Carter, but it's not cricket for others, including a lot of Demos we suspect, to oppose him.

All of which is why politics makes such strange goings-on, and perhaps a good reason why politicians have turned a lot of people off.

The truth is, what the President has done, and may do, will play a bigger role in which direction Texas goes in 1980 than what might be said about it, by Hill or Clements.

Recently, David S. Broder of The Washington Post, visited Texas and said the President is in big trouble in the state for a variety of reasons, ranging from his recent veto of a meat import restriction bill sponsored by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen to his backing of the Panama Canal treaties and the SALT talks.

Bob Armstrong, the state's land commissioner and dean of Democratic officeholders, says a bumper sticker Clements used hurt the Attorney General. The sticker read: "If you like Jimmy Carter, you will love John Hill."

OTHERS SEE the President not only in trouble with rank and file Texans, who increasingly have become more Conservative, but perhaps with the Mexican American community, who see themselves getting lost in Mr. Carter's cutback on some social programs.

However, most close observers agree that if Mr. Carter decides he wants a second term, chances are he would get his party's nomination. On the other side of the slate, "how Texas goes" in choosing a GOP favorite could play a major role in what sort of challenge is mounted against the Demos.

The truth is Texas is in the spotlight for two very simple reasons. One, the state has been a pivotal one in several recent Presidential contests. The other is that there are four GOP prospects who have at one time or another enjoyed heavy backing in the state.

Things could change before 1980, of course, but as of now, those familiar names high on the GOP list include former Texas Gov. John Connally, former CIA Director George Bush, another Texan, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and former President Gerald Ford.

MATCH ANY one of those up with a viable candidate from the East or Midwest, and the GOP could have itself a hard-to-beat combination.

Clements says he wants Texas to have a 1980 presidential primary and will take the Legislature to court if it doesn't provide for one.

But, in his first address to legislators, Clements was conciliatory. "Much has been said about me being the first Republican governor in Texas in 105 years," he said. "But for our state to meet the challenge of the future, I cannot be a governor just for Republicans. And those of you who are Democrats, cannot be legislators just for Democrats, and you Republican legislators cannot be legislators for Republicans only. Our responsibility is to all Texans."

It's going to be an interesting two years. What happens in 1980, in Texas and nationally, may determine how fast "1984" gets here, or if it is out indefinitely.

Iranian Economy Damaged By Rioting, Strikes

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Nearly a year of political violence and rioting battered Iran's economy and shattered Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's dream of transforming his ancient land into a westernized world power.

Violence, strikes and the collapse of foreign investment and confidence have taken a critical toll.

Inflation runs at 50 percent a year and government sources say the government has dug deeply into foreign reserves to keep the economy afloat.

Current official figures are scarce because of the crisis, but informed Western sources say between $2 billion and $4 billion have been drawn from reserves that stood in September at $11 billion.

The shah's military-led government has settled most of the strikes that crippled the economy last month.

But the monarch's opponents are keeping pressure on him with wildcat walkouts, power blackouts, gasoline shortages and commercial shutdowns.

Slowdowns by civil servants have tangled the government's bureaucracy.

"The next four or five months will be crucial," a Western economic analyst commented. "Iran now faces a severe crisis of confidence."

"If the shah cannot restore stability, get the economy cranked up again and revive confidence abroad, Iran will be in very deep trouble."

Iran's oil-based economy, overheated by a spending boom touched off by the 1973 oil price hike, was in trouble before opposition to the shah's one-man rule erupted in January.

His vision of a "great civilization" and new industrial power had raised expectations of Iranians. But when the economy began to slide into recession with rising inflation, reality hit.

"We became too greedy," lamented a prominent U.S.-trained Iranian economist. "We were blinded by the concept of growth at all costs and ignored the social upheaval it caused in a generally backward nation."

The modernization also has angered Moslem leaders, who say departure from Iran's traditional Islamic values is leading the country to decadence and corruption. Religious leaders are at the core of the riots that have rocked Iran since January.

Iran's economic woes disturb the shah's Western allies, especially the United States and Britain. Iran supplies much of the West's oil, controls the oil lifeline through the Persian Gulf and has a strategic position on the Soviet Union's southern border.

The shah had to cut back a $70-billion plan to build nuclear power stations over the next 20 years — the centerpiece of his grand design.

He has canceled orders for $5 billion worth of Western military hardware. Until the crisis, Iran was a major conduit for recycling dollars spent on oil back into Western economies through arms purchases and trade.

Industrial projects, including a huge copper smelter in the arid south, have been scrapped and major road and rail schemes shelved. Western diplomats predict more projects will be axed as Iran's supply of hard cash dries up.

The nation's credit has plummeted. Banking sources said Iran, once a model of stability, now has a tough time getting foreign loans.

Two years ago, foreign businessmen flocked here. Now Tehran's hotels are almost empty.

Foreign investment — totaling more than $5 billion by U.S. companies alone — has hit bottom. One American executive, who declined to be identified, said, "Cancellations will probably cost billions of dollars and thousands of jobs."

Banking sources say nervous Iranians transferred large amounts out of the country until the government imposed currency restrictions. But, the sources said, "the damage has been done. Industrial development has slowed down from a gallop to a crawl."

They said some banks may face bankruptcy after the heavy withdrawals.

The treasury has been badly drained by the $1.5 billion in wage hikes the shah gave strikers to lure them back to work. The hikes range from 22 to 100 percent.

A 15-day strike by oil workers paralyzed the oil industry and cost Iran more than $1 billion until paratroopers arrested some strike leaders, reportedly shot others and forced workers back to the fields.

The tough action underlined the country's dependence on its oil. Iran, the world's fourth-largest producer, earns $22 billion a year from oil.

Despite the oil losses, well-placed sources said the shah will not press for a big hike in oil prices when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meets Dec. 16.

"Iran feels that in the current situation staying friends with the Americans is more important than increasing its oil revenue," one informant explained.

Economists stress that Iran can survive economically as long as the oil flows. But as industrial growth slows, Iran's dependence on oil becomes greater.

"Without the oil there is no economy," a Western diplomat commented. "You can bet your boots the shah and the army will make sure the political isn't hit again. If by some miracle political stability can be restored, the economy could probably recover quite quickly — but that's a pretty big if."

Mondale To Stay Home At Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale will be having Christmas dinner with his family, much to the chagrin of dozens of youngsters around the United States.

Al Eisele, Mondale's press secretary, suspects that a flood of letters inviting Mondale to holiday dinners was prompted by a Thanksgiving Eve television program that led viewers to believe the vice president was to be a guest at a television family's Thanksgiving dinner.

He wasn't and never knew about the TV plot, but dozens of youngsters got the idea of inviting Mondale to dinner.

One wrote that he was inviting Mondale because "I think you should get out of the White House. Another wrote that he wanted to see a limousine, and a youngster from St. Paul, Minn., reminded the vice president that "we voted for you."

Rather than favor one family and slight the others, Mondale is writing each youngster to say thanks and to inform them that he'll celebrate Christmas with his wife and children.

Mondale's response adds that "this Christmas is even more special because our daughter Eleanor Jane will be coming home from college to be with us."

CLASSIC STYLES — If you're dressing up for any occasion, then you will want the latest in dress shoes. These shoes feature the latest in tasteful styling, like tapered toes, a 3-inch heel, and a choice of open or closed toe patterns with delicate looking ankle straps. Done up in black, brown or burgundy uppers, these dress shoes are designed to complement any of today's new dressed up outfits and are made for a day at the office as well as an evening at the disco.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I hate wearing bras, mainly because they are so uncomfortable.

I worked in an office (alone) for several weeks and then a few others were added to the "staff" — mostly women. I have always dressed conservatively, no tight or see-through stuff, no plunging necklines or any of that jazz. I am a 38-D cup.

Not a day went by that a woman in that office didn't make some remark about my bralessness. I decided my independence and comfort was worth more to me than their opinions, so I ignored the catty remarks and continued in my own lifestyle. (Incidentally, I am not working there anymore. My assignment was finished — I wasn't fired.)

Now my family and a few friends are hassling me about the same subject. Can you throw me a witty line to get these people off my back? — Comfy

Dear Comfy: Sorry, dearie, you rattled the wrong cage. Any woman who would fit into a 38-D cup IF she wore a bra — and doesn't — gets no support from me.

What you need is a competent salesperson in a bra department to fit you with a garment that is NOT uncomfortable. I assure you, it can be done. Or would you rather bounce around town and create undesirable comment for two very obvious reasons?

Dear Ann Landers: Four years ago, my husband and I took a weekend trip with his sister and her husband. A drunk driver hit us broadside. Through some miracle Curtis and I walked away from the accident without a scratch. His sister and her husband were killed instantly. My husband was driving.

A precious two-year-old boy was orphaned as a result of that accident. We adopted him. Six months later I became pregnant. We now have two beautiful sons who look very much alike.

It is apparent to me (and others) that Curtis is extremely partial to our adopted son. Everything our own little boy does irritates him, yet he has infinite patience with the other child.

Doesn't it seem strange that a father would show marked favoritism toward an adopted child? I see serious trouble ahead and I don't know how to deal with it. I need guidance. — Blue Skies

Dear Blue: The obvious reason for your husband's partiality is that he feels guilty about the death of his sister and brother-in-law and is trying to compensate by being excessively attentive to their child. Your natural resentment against your husband for his lack of patience with his own son is creating additional tension.

This problem is deep-seated and can never be resolved between the two of you. Outside counseling is needed promptly. Urge your husband to get it.

Dear Ann: My husband sits in the sunroom wearing nothing but shorts every night after supper as he watches TV. When people come in he doesn't even apologize. He feels every man has a right to be comfortable in his own home.

What can I do about this? I am — Humiliated

Dear Hum: A well-cut Japanese kimono is comfortable and good-looking as well. Surprise him with one. It could solve the problem — especially if you tell him how sexy he looks in the new garment.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (15 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Oswald: "When you tend to overbid you can compensate by learning how to make doubtful contracts."

Alan: "Here is a good example. South might well have stopped at two spades and North didn't have to bid four. Still the contract was reasonable except for the bad start when West opened the queen of clubs and dummy's king became useless. South ruffed the third club, laid down his ace of trumps and noted that West was unkind enough to fail to follow suit."

Oswald: "At this point South stopped to study. Things looked bad indeed, but there was some hope. A drowning man grasps at straws and South found his straw. He led his three of hearts and finessed his ten. West took his ace and led a heart. South won in dummy, repeated the diamond

Ask the Experts

Oswald Jacoby keeps getting asked: "How good a bridge player was President Eisenhower?"

He was a very good player. In fact, an exceptionally good player.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
You'd have to look a long time before you'd find anyone more supportive than I am of the First Amendment guaranteeing freedom of speech to people, but if someone doesn't impose a "gag" rule—soon—on grandmothers, I can no longer be responsible for the kind of children I'm raising.

If I've told my mother, Chatty Kathy, once I've told her a million times, it is not important that my children know that as a child, my bedroom once caught fire from polluted gym clothes.

It is of no consequence to my children that I lost three wristwatches within a three-month period or that I once parked the family car in the garage, neglected to put it in park and it rolled back against the door and we had to climb in through the window to get it out.

Heaven knows it's tough enough for parents to be taken seriously by their children without parents pointing out their two or three imperfections. Kids not only begin to see in you human qualities, they begin to draw parallels between your life and theirs.

Frankly, I never thought Mother would turn on me. We had a great relationship when I was growing up. She regarded me as a punishment from God and I regarded her as a storm trooper with a job to do. Every once in awhile she'd say something intimate like, "You're going to get yours someday... just wait..."

When I was sinking in a sea of diapers, formulas and congenital spitting, I didn't get the support I had hoped for. Mother couldn't wait to pull her grandchildren on her lap and say, "Mommy never took naps. You know what she used to do when Grandma would lie down every afternoon? She'd hie off and turn the hose on and make the muddiest mess in the backyard you'd ever see."

Her words would return to me like an echo at the most inopportune times. One day when I had called my son down for using a word that curled your hair, he said, "Grandma said you had a mouth like a drunken sailor in Shanghai. She said she washed your mouth out with soap so many times, she had to starch your tongue."

"Grandma was kidding," I said.
"Grandma never kids," he answered.
"She said once you were a little kid just like us."

I looked at my son and said, "You're going to get yours someday... just wait."

Being original means being yourself.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY THE LATE GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
IN COLLABORATION WITH PAUL E. RUBLE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For almost a month and a half I had recurring attacks of what seemed to be stomach or intestinal flu. When my diarrhea got to be a real problem I went to my doctor. He took stool samples and found a parasite called giardia. He prescribed the old malaria medicine, Atabrine, which I took for a week. It helped right away.

Where could this have come from, and could a week's treatment have killed the bug? Four years ago, when we were in Mexico I became mildly ill with some diarrhea, which continued for four weeks. Could this parasite have been dormant in my intestinal tract all that time? — Mrs. W.R.M.

The organism is called giardia lamblia, a common intestinal parasite that may infect visitors to any area where sanitary facilities are primitive. The last patient I treated for this traveler's diarrhea had just returned from a trip to Leningrad, Russia, so it is no respecter of climate or geography.

There is some disagreement as to just how potent the organism is in causing such symptoms as diarrhea. Many may harbor it indefinitely without discomfort. In others it may cause the diarrhea, along with abdominal swelling, flatulence and general malaise. It is possible you had it in your intestines all that time, and that it suddenly decided to get busy. Its presence must be verified by stool examination. The usual route of entry is from hand to mouth, which is why great care should be taken in this regard by travelers.

Finally, giardiasis is frequently accompanied by amoebic infestation, the familiar amoebic dysentery. Both the conditions have been treated successfully with the anti-malarial medicine Atabrine. Malaria is another form of parasite invasion. Any prolonged or frequent diarrhea warrants a stool examination.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter-in-law has started feeding her 20-month-old baby skim milk. She says she read that fat babies turn into fat adults and are apt to develop arterial hardening. I can't agree with the idea of that child drinking this. She hasn't asked her doctor about it. What do you say? — Mrs. T.A.C.

I think her pediatrician might agree that this isn't a good idea. At this age it's important for the infant to get the full nutritional benefits from the milk, including the fats. True, studies show that fat babies tend to develop abnormal fat cells that carry on through adulthood, but I don't believe that drinking whole milk in infancy can be blamed. The real problem is the tendency of parents to overfeed through the early years. Low-fat milk is not a bad idea. It lacks only the fat. But I would prefer to see this mother put it off for another year.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been unable to wear wool, because I break out ter-

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
3 ♣ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
7
What do you bid now?
A.—It is certainly not too much to presume that the diamond suit is solid. If that is the case, the final contract depends only on how many aces partner holds. Bid four no trump, intending to bid five diamonds if partner shows no ace, six diamonds if he shows one, and a grand slam if he shows two.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q109754 ♥6 ♦KQ10952
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?
A.—Bid two diamonds. It might seem strange to overcall in a minor suit when you hold a six-card major, but you should look ahead. It is quite possible that, when the auction gets back to you, the opponents will be in four hearts. If you overcall one spade now, you will then have to choose between suppressing the diamond suit or introducing it at the five-level. By bidding two diamonds now, you will be able to show both of your suits conveniently.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK872 ♥KJ ♦95 ♣10943
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Partner surely has a six-card suit, and you have the equivalent of a light opening bid. Therefore, you are in game territory. Since your hand does contain a lot of losers, we would accept a conservative raise to three hearts. However, with two honors in partner's suit, that really doesn't do your hand justice. Bid four hearts.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ92 ♥K985 ♦K ♣AKJ7
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?
A.—With first- or second-round control of every suit and an excellent fit, you should be in slam territory. Experience has shown us that the best way to handle this type of hand is to flash the slam signal to partner at once. Therefore, we recommend a jump shift to three clubs.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠98 ♥AKQ92 ♦K86 ♣A94
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—You have considerably better than a minimum opening bid, but finding a good rebid is not easy. If you had a sixth heart, a jump to three hearts would describe your hand nicely, but we are not keen on that action with only a five-card suit. A jump to four diamonds could bypass your best contract—three no trump. Therefore, we would settle for the slight underbid of three diamonds. Partner is unlikely to pass unless he was sub-minimum for his response, in which case you are probably in a reasonable spot.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A62 ♥Q85 ♦AQJ5 ♣1074
The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♥ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Partner's jump in hearts has improved your hand considerably. Your queen of hearts is a most important card, so slam is a distinct possibility. You can convey your interest to partner by cue-bidding three spades.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠9852 ♥Q6 ♦A83 ♣AK107
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 NT Pass 3 ♥ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Partner's bid is forcing, so you have to choose between raising to four hearts or rebidding three no trump. Since you do not have a true spade stopper, a raise to four hearts should be the unanimous choice—on this auction, 2x is more than adequate support.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠Q952 ♥A8 ♦A76 ♣Q1076
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♥ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—As a passed hand, you could hardly hold more. However, your hand is unsuited for a jump response, and you should suppress the urge to leap to three no trump—it might be better to have the heart lead come up to partner's hand rather than through it. A cue-bid of three hearts will describe your strength and distribution quite nicely.

WHY LESS THAN A GIFT OF JEWELRY — Lee Tyler Jr. where quality and selection dominate, Christmas time and wife, Willene, are pictured at Lee's Custom Jewelers throughout the year.

Lee's Custom Jewelers Stocks 'Christmas Items That Please'

"For Christmas giving, why choose less than a gift of jewelry?" "And where better could one select a cherished gift than at Lee's Custom Jewelers, 2115 50th St.!"
Something for all ages is evident in the selective and attractive displays... from quality diamond jewelry to watches and bands.
Whatever the choice, one may be sure that "quality" has been the foremost consideration of Lee's, passing on this quality at sensible prices.
Diamonds
Lee's Custom Jewelers, in Oakwood Center, has a very good selection of mountings, with equally impressive choice in diamonds and colored stones. Gift certificates are available, too, and might in many instances be the proper Christmas consideration.

A very good selection of Longines, Wittnauer, Seiko and Technos fine watches is stocked.
Custom-made jewelry is one of the shop's specialties, and there still is time to have custom jewelry orders completed by Christmas, but only if one hurries, for the holidays are near!
Watch repair receives expert attention at Lee's Custom Jewelers, with qualified watchmakers including owner Lee Tyler

Jr. on the job. All repair work is done right in the store, with none "sent out," thus assuring both personal and expert attention.
Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed.
Lee Tyler Jr. a Lubbock resident of some 13 years, purchased the firm seven years ago, and he and his wife, Willene, head a staff dedicated to quality merchandise and finest service.
"For jewelry items sure to please, and for watch service and repair (of all major brands), one can turn with confidence to Lee's Custom Jewelers, phone 744-4814, in Oakwood Center, Lubbock.

Storewide Price Cuts Seen In Gray's Quitting Business Sale

Unbelievable but true... Gray's Fashions is going out of business! This means that a tremendous "Going-Out-of-Business Sale" is underway at the 50th & Salem (Sunshine Square) store, with every item drastically cut in price. The sale is a no-nonsense event, with even the fixtures being sold.
Other stores, dealers... anyone is welcome to come in and take away the top-line merchandise, even the store decorations, at sale prices!
Every apparel item is marked with regular price and with the sale price.
Stocked are girls items in toddlers through juniors and pre-teens, and boys in toddlers through student sizes 20.
It is emphasized that no special purchases have been made by Gray's for this sale, but that all items are first quality from stock and even include new arrivals great for the holidays.

In fact, it would be wise not only to buy for Christmas but to purchase the basic items needed for seasons following.
Everything 'Goes'
There are jeans, tops, coats and all, everything from underwear to outer coats. There are stuffed animals, too, and tree trim!
Name lines are a hallmark of Gray's, and include Doressa, Billy the Kid, Sedgfield, Luvit, Dijon, Elder, etc.
"When have you heard of such lines included in drastic price markdowns? It could only happen at Gray's Going-Out-of-Business Sale!
Extra sales staff is on hand to speed transactions.

As this is a going-out-of-business event, it is pointed out that no layaways are possible, no alterations, no gift wrap. All sales are final.
Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed.
Appreciation Voiced
Owners Kay and Tom Gray wish to thank all the loyal customers who have made the store's ownership and operation such a pleasure since its founding in early 1976. The host of friends cannot be minimized; both Tom and Kay are ever mindful of the pleasant associations they have been privileged to enjoy.
"Thank you" is from the heart at Gray's Fashions; and the invitation is most sincere to rush on out for fantastic savings presented until every item is sold.

Business & Industrial Review

WHERE QUALITY, SELECTION IS TRADITIONAL — Meinecke Bros. recognizes that the many Christmas situations call for an equally great choice in gifts, and they have stocked accordingly. Pictured in a lamp area of the diversified store are Steve Meinecke and staffmember Mrs. Mary Alderson.

Meinecke Bros. Gift Selection Eases Search For Wanted Items

Appropriate gift items for the home-maker, the special friend, the man of the house... they all can be found at the Lubbock location, Meinecke Bros., 1633 Broadway, where Christmas shopping is made easy.

Down every aisle delightful discoveries await for the gifting season.

Thousands of quality and "different" items are stocked, as Meinecke customers know, and only a few items are listed here to hint of the type and selection afforded at Meinecke Bros.

Microwave cookware for microwave and for smooth-top cooking is noted, as is Corning cookware, Corning counter savers;

Cutlery by Case, Chicago and Henkel, with open stock or sets, also knife blocks.

And West Virginia cake covers and stands; hot mitts, place mats, pot holders, too;

Glassware
 Plus a large assortment of brassware, and glass by Fenton, L.G. Wright, Imperial and Westmoreland.

Turkeys, Many Other Prater Items Available For Holiday Table, Gifts

Fresh turkeys for Christmas — and of course from Prater's!
 "If you had a Prater's turkey for Thanksgiving or have ever eaten one, then surely you are looking forward to another as the highlight of Christmas holiday meals to please family and guests."
 ("If you have not formed the Prater's habit, then a delightful new experience awaits.")

Deadlines Defined
 Reserve orders are being taken now for pickup Dec. 18 through Dec. 22. All turkeys not picked up by the final date will be placed in open stock for sale.

Prater's mailing service continues until Dec. 9 for individuals and firms wishing to send Prater's products as the perfect remembrance.

Plenty Available
 There is plenty of all the delicious Prater's products in stock at this time, and one is invited to check in a favorite supermarket or at the Prater's headquarters (just drive about two miles south of Loop 289 on University Avenue and look for the Prater sign on the left).

At the Prater plant, clean throughout, there is noticeable attractive decor and ease in shopping. Everything is modern and convenient, inside and out, and a huge paved entry and parking apron makes for easiest access.

Check the several products for which Prater's is famous, products that are available for the holidays and for value and goodness at any time.

A delicious smoked turkey roll is one of the members of the Prater's product family. These are breasts that are put in

There are Suncatchers glass fire-screens, fireplace tool sets; canisters, decorative plaques, bath accessories, Carolina scented candles and Christmas and fall candle rings.

Select from Revere, West Bend, Mirro and Farberware cookware, and stone-ware dishes by Nikko, Vernon and Poppytrail pottery.

Also Mirrograms, happy plaques and photo frames, plus animal bean bags, table lamps, Oster blenders and mixers, KitchenAid mixer canisters, and more

Eggery
 Such as the Hoky floor and carpet sweeper; Coney Island steamer, the Eggery for wonderful eggs and other things; G.E. food processors, elegant wooden ware, skewer sets, bath soap ensembles, decorator pieces including metal sculpture.

Or the electric pizza baker, crock pots, American teakettles and the Mr. Bacon pan.

Porcelain birds and figurines.

The brown-and-serve baked turkeys are marinated by Prater's then completely cooked, ready to eat. They are cooked in foil to retain all the delicious juices, then placed in plastic bags and vacuum packed. The average turkey requires only 1 1/2 hours oven time to be ready for the table. (It is advised to remove the foil from the breast and legs during the last 15 minutes of preparation to bring the bird to a golden brown.)

Boneless Hams
 The boneless hams are prepared at the Lubbock facility and are completely cooked, ready to eat and have the same sugar-cured goodness of the other hams for which Prater's is so favorably known. The boneless hams are available in 4 to 8 lb. sizes.

Or maybe the choice is brown-and-serve baked turkey:
 Fresh, fattened birds;
 Smoked turkeys; or those long-cured country hams, smoked or spiced;

Bacon, Sausage
 Hickory-smoked Canadian bacon; country-cured bacon; smoked sausage, and smoked turkey breasts.

For the small family, Prater's comes through with smoked chickens at a 3 1/2-4 lb. average size.

It's all at Prater's.

A spacious display room with self-service refrigerated cases makes viewing and selecting especially convenient at Prater's.

For assurance of a Christmas meal unmatched in tasty goodness, depend on Prater's products (that also are great for gifting).

Store hours are 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. The phone number is 745-2727.

The Lap-Eze portable desk for home, car or leisure;
 Or a White Mountain ice cream freezer.

There are many fireplace needs including the screens and grates, log carriers, even Pioneer electric fire starters and Blue Flame log lighters and Cedar Glo chips for a cheery fire.

There even are table cloths for the holidays, for gifting and for year-round use; see the vinyl cloths with felt backing!

There are lots of stocking stuffers throughout the stock at Meinecke Bros. Gift wrapping is available, of course.

"For complete satisfaction, who could go wrong in selecting at this time-honored store with its many departments including housewares, hardware, small electric appliances and hundreds of general items?"

Name-line merchandise, prices that are right, and where service and appreciation is clearly visible... this is Meinecke Bros., downtown at 1633 Broadway, where Christmas shopping takes on new dimensions in pleasure and fulfillment.

KIMBALL ADDED TO TREMENDOUS STOCK — Ray Jent of Jent's House of Music is shown here with one of the Kimball units from stock. Jent's now is authorized Kimball dealer for the South Plains, he reveals, with this line added to other prestigious names throughout the big music store.

'Name' Lines, Wide Selection Mark Jent's House Of Music

It would seem that Santa has teamed with Jent's House of Music, for sure! For gifts of music, remembrances that will be appreciated for Christmas to come (and in between), Jent's House of Music at 2646 34th St., could be a very wise choice.
 Quality Lines throughout (for everything in music) mark Jent's, and now a new name has been added:
 Jent's now is authorized Kimball dealer for the South Plains area, stocking everything from the so-beautiful Spinet to the gorgeous 6 ft. 7 in. grand.
Many In Stock
 Stocking both organs and pianos in the Kimball and Yamaha lines, Jent's provides a truly quality choice.
 For the beginner or for the professional, Jent's comes through with a piano, organ or any other musical instrument as it takes pride in providing everything in music, just as it has done for decades in Lubbock.

 It is pointed out that "there's a touch of Bosendorfer in every Kimball," an item of significance to those who know their pianos. Kimball is honored to own the Bosendorfer company and continues to maintain the standards of magnificence for which the name is known.
No Newcomer
 Kimball pianos are exceptional instruments, created in the tradition of craftsmanship since 1857. Careful blending of traditional quality and modern technology offers unexcelled purity of tone... in a Kimball.
 Jent's takes equal pride in each of its several departments... the guitars, for example, with such respected names as Gibson, Ibanez, Hamer and Gretsch.
 And instruments and music aids for instructors and students, all in keeping with the firm's pledge of "everything in music."

Rentals
 Band and orchestra instrument rentals is another service, with rental payments applied to purchase when desired.
 A complete repair department is one of Jent's best known departments.
 A complete stock of accessories for all instruments is stocked, and these should be considered, too, as appreciated Christmas gifts.
 "We at Jent's House of Music would like to welcome you... whether you have a son or daughter who is just beginning in a music program or if you are involved for the second or third time, or if you just want to remember a dear friend with a gift of music; in any event we want to thank you for choosing Jent's, at 2646 34th St., phone 795-5579, in Lubbock."

Little Shoppe In Cactus Alley Greet Season With New Items

Even for those who have recognized in seasons past how much is offered at The Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley, a current situation is of prime significance.
 Stock at The Little Shoppe actually is more than double the inventory amount of a year ago!
 This means that Christmas gifting comes especially easy if The Little Shoppe enters the picture.
 (And did you realize that expanded quarters in a new location within the Cactus Alley center enables open display of thousands of Little Shoppe items for selection and comparison?)
Intriguing, Enlarged
 For the hobbyist, for the amateur and avid miniature collector, for folks who simply appreciate the unusual, the pretty and the intriguing, The Little Shoppe comes through!
 The "miniature" selection is fantastic, understandably said to be larger than any in all West Texas.
 For the hobbyist, note the new miniature decorations in holiday motif, the vignettes, the delightful stocking stuffers and all.
 A full "lumber yard" of supplies is maintained for building of miniature houses.
 A limited number of kits, including Victorian and Tudor, are on hand.
 Plus a new shipment of full-sized shadow boxes, sorority items, and those adorable clothespin-handmade dolls by Gay Hendrix; select from brides, grannies, nannies, children, angels, etc.

 There are many, many new arrivals for the miniature-enthusiast, such as toys to place under the miniature trees; even logs for the miniature fireplaces!
 The Little Shoppe, owned and actively managed by Norma Bartley, is open Mondays through Saturdays during this pre-Christmas season (formerly closed on Mondays).
 One cannot enumerate all that is The Little Shoppe. Pages could be written listing and describing the miniature copper cookware, the furnishings for every room of a miniature mansion, etc., but one can only comprehend the completeness of the stock through a personal visit.

 "May we have the pleasure of your visit and have opportunity to assist in your Christmas selection (after all, The Little Shoppe at 2610 Salem Ave. is more than miniatures, and we want you to see it all!)."

Pre-Christmas Sale Values Inviting Patronage Shallowater Mix & Match

A special Pre-Christmas Blouse Sale is underway at the Mix & Match Shop in Shallowater, with prices even more attractive than the always marked-down tags.

Featured is one group of blouses marked down to $7.49. And the Close-Out Rack is full of top quality items!

Mix & Match, at No. 1 South Ave. L in Shallowater, has a selection of long-skirt and party suits for the holidays.

There also is a new group of blazers and matching pants with waist band, fresh from the factory.

The Junior rack is loaded with tops and gabardine weave pants with waist bands.

Mix & Match is an independent factory outlet for excess merchandise at the factory and for salesman's samples. Mix & Match handles only overflow of first-line products and stocks no factory seconds.

Besides ladies wear in sizes 6 to 44 extra large and juniors 3-15, the shop also stocks a line of foundation garments.

Salesmen always are invited to Mix & Match as an outlet for their sample line. This approach presents the customer with a great line of merchandise at a very low cost ("most items at wholesale cost or below") and always the very latest styles since they come directly from the cutting rooms to make room for the next season production which always starts before this season merchandise is in the stores.

For those who need to buy many Christmas gifts on a small budget, Mix & Match is the complete answer in ladies and junior wear. The extra size ladies will be pleased to take note that Mix & Match stocks extra sizes 32-44 pants and 38-44 blouses.

"Every day is bargain day at Mix & Match . . . with some days more so than others! It is well worth the drive to Shallowater for the great prices and friendly service."

"For a convenient store, easy to find and providing a real service to a wide Lubbock, Shallowater and South Plains area, it is the Mix & Match, 1 South Ave. L in Shallowater, where you can save on your clothing needs."

Israeli Leadership Hesitates On Talks

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Israeli Cabinet conferred over the current impasse in the Washington peace talks Sunday, and the majority was reported favoring a resumption of negotiations based on the U.S.-proposed target date of late 1979 for moving toward Palestinian autonomy in occupied lands.

President Carter. But the Israelis have balked at setting such firm guidelines, saying it could lead the Egyptians to abrogate the entire treaty if a timetable for Palestinian autonomy is not met.

Though government officials refused to say whether the letter would reply directly to American and Egyptian calls for resuming negotiations, Israeli television said it would reject the latest demands by Sadat, demands that have not been made public.

Iranian Troops Dispel Rioting

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Imperial troops fired into the air and used tear gas in battles throughout Tehran with thousands of anti-shah demonstrators Sunday night.

begin, sporadic gunfire crackled across this nervous city following a night of rioting in which troops killed at least five protesters and wounded 20 others. A general strike called by Iran's exiled religious leader was faltering.

There was one indication that no immediate resumption of the Washington talks was planned—Israeli officials said Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, Israel's chief delegate to the negotiations, still plans an official two-day visit to Switzerland beginning Wednesday.

Peking Says Mao Made Big Error

TOKYO (AP)—A high-ranking Chinese official said China made "a historic error" in not mending diplomatic relations with the United States after the Communists came to power in 1949, the Japanese news service Kyodo reported Sunday.

Officials of the city's martial-law government said the deaths occurred Saturday night when soldiers fired on a crowd that was leaving a mosque after the 9 p.m. curfew. Anti-government slogans blaring from loudspeakers on the mosque's roof incited the crowd, which refused to disperse, the officials said.

Hidden Cult Fortune Alleged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Cult leader Jim Jones apparently accumulated at least $10 million in secret bank accounts scattered around the world before leading more than 900 Peoples Temple members in a bizarre murder-suicide pact.

A mysterious international battle has begun for the fortune which some former church members estimate to be as high as $15 million, the newspaper said.

Six Killed, 60 Injured When Train Derails In Virginia Mountains

SHIPMAN, Va. (AP)—A Southern Railway passenger train jumped the tracks on a curve and piled into a ravine in mountainous south-central Virginia early Sunday. Authorities said six persons were killed and at least 60 were injured, several critically.

At the scene, snow mixed with rain was falling in near-freezing temperatures. Blood was smeared on windows that had been broken when passengers escaped. Inside, seats were torn from their moorings and mattresses lay piled in a jumble in the aisles.

Violence Continues As Major Concern For Public

By LOUIS HARRIS
 By 77-18 percent, a large majority of Americans are convinced that "this country is slow to find ways to control violence." The continual explosions of violence of every kind clearly have the American public deeply disturbed.

percent did not hold that view. Now, in 1978, the number who think we are "violent by nature," has gone up to 43 percent, although 50 percent are still prepared to deny it.

Moreover, a big majority, 71-23 percent, continues to feel that "this country is an easy place to commit assassinations." Americans have recently been reminded of the shocking experiences of the 1960s, when John and Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. were killed by assassins' bullets. It is apparent that people believe that such killings of prominent leaders could be repeated, as indeed occurred last week in the fatal shootings of San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and City Supervisor Harvey Milk.

By a 72-19 percent majority, Americans also believe that "violence is played up too much by the media." This concern has risen from 64 percent to 72 percent just over the past three years. While most people are averse to invoking censorship over the display of violence on TV or in newspaper or magazines, there is a growing sense that the showing of violence gets more violence.

The public appears to be suggesting that greater discretion and restraint should be exercised by the media. The news should not go unreported, but the emphasis on violent acts should be muted.

According to a recent Harris Survey of 1,201 adults nationwide, doubts continue to flourish about the shocking assassinations of the 1960s. The number of people who are convinced that President Kennedy was killed as the result of broad plot or conspiracy has grown from 44 percent in 1967 to 75 percent this year. It is evident that for all of the reassurances of the House committee investigating once more the assassination of President Kennedy, the hearings have raised more doubts than they have dispelled. By 45-40 percent, a plurality of the public also believes that more than one gun was used to kill John F. Kennedy.

Similarly, concerning the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy, the number of people who think that the shooting of the senator by Sirhan Sirhan was a broad plot has jumped from 44 percent to 55 percent over the past decade. As for the shooting of Martin Luther King Jr., the number of those who feel that it was part of a broader conspiracy has gone up from 60 percent to 69 percent just in the past three years. Again the House committee hearings have made people more skeptical ever.

Of course, people are aware of the fact that violence is not peculiar to this country. It is worldwide, and terrorism has become a major political weapon.

One of the consequences of this public concern about violence is that majorities of better than 2-to-1 favor the death penalty for certain kinds of murders. But people are under no illusion that any one remedy will diminish the pall of violence that hangs over this century.

Grand Jury To Probe Sadler Case

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Singer-author Barry Sadler apparently acted in self-defense when he shot a songwriter who died early Saturday, but the case will be turned over to a Davidson County Grand Jury for routine investigation, police said Sunday.

Sadler, whose 1966 "The Ballad of the Green Berets" sold more than a million records, fatally wounded Lee Emerson Emery Friday night after the man came to the apartment of Darlene Sharp. Sadler said Emery had been "hounding" Miss Sharp for more than a year. Emery died from a bullet wound to the head.

No charges were filed against Sadler, a former Green Beret turned songwriter and music industry critic in Nashville.

Sadler, 31, said Emery had telephoned the woman at a lounge earlier in the evening and threatened her.

Two bullet fragments removed from the 55-year-old Emery were sent to the state crime lab to determine whether they came from Sadler's .32-caliber pistol or from Emery's .38-caliber gun, or possibly whether one fragment came from each weapon.

Sadler, who described himself as a "damn good shot," said the bullet from his pistol did not kill Emery.

CONDITION IMPROVING
 HONG KONG (AP) — China's purged former Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-Hua is recovering from lung cancer in Peking and is out of danger, Hong Kong's leftist Cheng Ming magazine reports in its December issue.

"I'm a weapons expert and there's no way my little .32 could have made the kind of wound they're talking about," he said.

"If I'd been trying to kill him, I could have put a bullet in his ear. But, I shot to miss and I've never heard of a bullet making a 90-degree turn," the former Army paratrooper said.

"It would be a very bizarre accident," said Detective Jim Sledge of Sadler's statement that Emery may have shot himself between the eyes during the gun battle. "From what I've determined, I don't see how he could have shot himself."

Sadler said he and a group of friends had had dinner at the woman's apartment after returning from the lounge.

"About 20 seconds after the others left the door bell rang," Miss Sharp said. "I looked out the peep hole and when no one was there I knew it was Lee."

Sadler told authorities he left by a side door and circled around the building where he spotted Emery climbing into a van.

"I shouted 'Stop' and he pulled a piece on me. I drew mine and told him to stop again, then I fired," Sadler said.

Sadler has a commission from the Davidson County Sheriff's Department to carry a .32-caliber revolver.

"I guess either his own gun was cocked and went off, or a bullet ricocheted off the glass," Sadler said.

Sledge said police have "no reason to doubt" Sadler's account of what happened.

Kreps Hopes For Unconditional Soviet Trade

MOSCOW (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps Sunday said the administration is hopeful that U.S.-Soviet relations will improve to the point that Congress will reconsider current restrictive legislation that ties trade benefits to increased Jewish emigration.

Jackson-Vanik amendment, which was added to the Trade Act of 1974, made improved U.S. trade and credit terms to the Soviet Union conditional on liberalization of Soviet emigration policies.

Critics argue that the amendment, viewed by the Soviets as meddling in their internal affairs, is counterproductive and has led to a drastic cutback in Jewish emigration.

"It is clearly true that the Soviets view that (amendment) as an impediment, therefore the psychology is clearly an important factor," Mrs. Kreps said in an interview with UPI.

"We are hopeful that overall relations between the two countries will improve through time in such a way that people and the Congress will reconsider that restraint."

Mrs. Kreps said the Carter administration has not yet pressed the Congress to act "because we sense a need for an overall improvement."

Texas Boasts First American Settlement

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of 10 articles excerpted from a new book entitled "Texas — The Beginning," written by Ed Syers of Kerrville. The available through Texian Press, P.O. Box 1484, Waco, Texas 76792; chronicles the state's least-known years, 1519-1824.)

America's first recorded settlement is not St. Augustine, Florida. A half century earlier, near Brownsville, Spain founded the ambitious colony of Garay.

Even as Hernando Cortez in 1519 seized Mexico's fabulous Aztec treasure, rival conquistadores hunted for solid-gold cities to the north — an attempt embracing Texas almost simultaneously with the establishment of Spanish Mexico City.

Just six months behind Cortez, Capt. Alonso Alvarez de Pineda, cruising the Gulf coast, selected Rio Grande's mouth below today's Brownsville as a likely beachhead.

A year later, in 1520, the settlement of Garay was begun near there — an effort fought off by the ferocious Karankawa Indian, yet one that over the next three years would see 16 ships of the line land 750 cannon-supported reinforcements, a complete government and a relentless determination to discover treasure mountains.

Yet Spain had only begun with Rio Grande. For more than a century she would stumble on it in many remote places and would know it by many names.

Finding only fertile Valley land, they moved on, and Garay died.

Yet Spain had only begun with Rio Grande. For more than a century she would stumble on it in many remote places and would know it by many names.

One who saw it only as a great river imprisoned in mighty mountains — yet the beginning of his trial to salvation — was the extraordinary wanderer, Alvar Nunez Cabeza de Vaca. With another rival expedition, he set out in 1526 — 600 armored conquistadores to scour all the Gulf coast until they found Garay and its treasure, somewhere near.

Landing on southwest Florida, they knew only disaster — victim to Indian, to wilderness swamp, to missed rendezvous with their ships, finally to hurricane, crushed ashore on Galveston Island. Towering over De Vaca stood naked giants — the inexorable Karankawa — who would enslave him for nearly six frightful years.

Yet by miracle, he escaped and with three others — all that remained — he pushed west and still farther west, circling Big Bend's mountains to reach Rio Grande at today's Presidio. From Indians there, he found the trail to Mexico and salvation.

Emaciated, naked, burnt black, he told what he had seen. Yes, there must be treasure to the north — those mountains: the Indians spoke of golden cities. Seven of them? Cibola? That was all that Spain needed to remember.

For Cities like that, this search must go on.

Apartment Tenants Want Stars Gone

NEW YORK (AP) — Burt Reynolds and Candice Bergen may have powerful appeal at the box office, but as far as Mary Jane Schang and Michael Cirker are concerned, the two movie stars are unwanted guests.

Cirker and Miss Schang are trying to evict Reynolds, Miss Bergen and the rest of the movie crew shooting "Starting Over" in their apartment building on Manhattan's Upper West Side. They charge that their seventh-floor lobby has become a jungle of thick electrical cables and other production equipment.

The two tenants, the only other residents on the floor, said in papers filed Friday in state Supreme Court in Manhattan that their neighbors, Carolla and Hans Van den Hauten, illegally sublet their sprawling 10-room apartment to Paramount Pictures.

They contend that commercial activity was not allowed in the building and that the production interfered with normal services provided to other tenants.

The movie, based on a book of the same name by Dan Wakefield and directed by Alan Pakula, deals with two divorced persons who fall in love.

Egyptian Women Request Separate Transit Space

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — In an age when most Western women demand equality with men, some Egyptian women still believe in the principle of separate but equal.

A meeting on women and transportation has asked the government to restore the so-called "harem compartments" in Egypt's buses and trains. They said they wanted the separate facilities to protect themselves from "indignities," apparently a reference to problems encountered while traveling in mixed company on Egypt's teeming mass transit systems.

Transportation Minister Aly Fahmy el Dagishany told the women's weekly magazine Hawaa that the call for restoration of separate compartments was not feasible. He cited the vast and growing numbers of commuters who use mass transit.

Rollerskater Gets New View On Life

DENVER (UPI) — People jeered at the first automobiles, so roller-skating Jilene Freed accepts the looks, snickers and hostility she encounters as part of pioneering.

"Being a pioneer, you have to come up against a lot of criticism. But it makes you strong within yourself," she said of merchants who have barred her skate-outfitted feet from their establishments.

Freed first laced up her skates four years ago in Los Angeles, where roller skating has become an accepted, if uncommon, alternate method of transportation. Since then, she has barely taken them off.

"I do have a pair of old boots," she said, but no other shoes. "No one's going to steal them. When I go down hills, I can practice my skiing. I hope I'll still be skating when I'm 80."

She long ago abandoned automobiles and now skates to business appointments, lunch, her job at Holographic Innovations, shopping and friends' homes.

Freed said other advantages of skating include not contributing to pollution, saving on gasoline, improving her general physical conditioning and not being cooped up inside a car.

Television Regains Ken Howard As Coach In New CBS Series

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A year ago a friend suggested to Ken Howard that he might do a show about a former pro basketball player who becomes coach in a predominantly black school.

Howard turned to another long-time friend, writer-producer Bruce Paltrow, who wrote the script.

"I've known Bruce since I got out of high school," Howard said. "He did all the legwork for the story and did it wonderfully. He wrote my part the way I talk."

The story became the new CBS Monday night series, "The White Shadow."

Howard said he "got nervous" when NBC aired "The Waverly Wonders" in September, with former pro football quarterback Joe Namath playing a basketball coach at a small high school. He needn't have worried. The comedy quickly folded.

Any resemblance between "The Waverly Wonders" and "The White Shadow" is purely superficial. "The White Shadow" is a marvelous show, with strong character development and excellent stories.

Paltrow, incidentally, is married to Blythe Danner, who has frequently been Howard's co-star.

"By the way, I had won a Tony for 'Butterflies Are Free' and I had won a Tony for 'Child's Play,'" Howard said. "We met at a party for the Tony winners. Somebody saw us on television doing our acceptance speeches and thought we would work well together. We were offered 'McMillan and Wife,' but Blythe didn't want to do it."

"Then we did some movies and both went into the toilet. That's why we did 'Adam's Rib.'"

"Adam's Rib" was Howard's first television series, which he said died of the "curse of sophistication." He immediately came back as a 1930s bounty hunter in "Manhunter."

"Manhunter was a change of pace for me," Howard said. "Then it became drudgery, and finally like Guadalcanal. I just hated it. I didn't believe in it, and I think that showed."

"That's why I love 'The White Shadow.' I believe in it. I even like watching myself in this — most of the time."

"I love being an integral part of it rather than just the 'talent.' That's just the way it started, with me bringing the idea to Bruce. It puts me on another level besides just acting. It comes from the heart. It won't change. We may go off the but we won't go in another direction."

"I'm actually doing something on television for the first time that I believe in. There are no cloying, awful scripts. You don't say, 'Oh, God, do I have to say that?' So you know it won't last."

Six episodes have been made so far for the series, which is from MTM Enterprises. Paltrow directed one and Jackie Cooper directed the other five. After its premiere, CBS ordered the show back into production.

"The White Shadow" also stars Jason Bernard as the high school principal who lures Howard to the school and Joan Pringle as the assistant principal who at times is a thorn in his side. Members of the basketball team are Kevin Hooks, Eric Kilpatrick, Nathan Cook, Timothy Van Patten, Ken Michelman and Ira Angustian. Robin Rose and Jerry Fogel play Howard's sister and brother-in-law.

Stars Send Get-Well Wishes To 'Mama Dunn'

CHICAGO (AP) — She is neither actress, producer, director nor writer. But she's so well known among entertainers you would think she was godmother to half the show business world.

Rose Dunn, better known as Mama Dunn, evokes fond memories from some of the biggest names in entertainment — especially in the year since a stroke left her partially paralyzed.

Through her son, one-time comedian and night club manager Benny Dunn, the widowed Mama Dunn, 80, came to live the night hours of show biz people in Chicago's Rush Street district after World War II.

Sharing a small apartment, Mama Dunn and Benny got to know many of the big names before they got that way. They treated them with class just the same.

"She used to feed them when they were broke, before they were famous," recalls Benny Dunn. "They used to come to my mother's house and she used to feed them."

Dunn once came home to find comedian Alan King dozing on the living room couch. "He fell asleep after eating a big Jewish meal," Dunn says.

Since her stroke last January, Mama Dunn has received thousands of get-well wishes by mail, over the phone, in person or on TV, like the tributes from George Carlin and Don Rickles on Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show.

One card reads: "Rosalynn and I were sorry to learn of your illness. We hope you will be strengthened knowing that the thoughts and the prayers of your family and our family and friends are with you." It was signed, "Jimmy Carter."

Others who have visited or called include Tony Bennett, Sammy Davis Jr., Bob Hope, Dick Gregory, Don Adams, Merv Griffin, Joey Bishop, King and Gary Morton (Lucille Ball's husband).

But show business people were not Mama Dunn's only acquaintances. "She is known by everybody, the big, the small, the hoods and the police," her son says.

He remembers coming home early one morning to find five young women being treated to a meal by his mother. He said hello to them and pulled his mother aside and asked who they were. She told him they were prostitutes who had fallen upon hard times.

"They're hookers. They're hungry," he recalls his mother's reply. "I don't care what they do for a living. They're hungry."

"She was the home away from home for the homeless, the hungry and the down-trodden," says Dunn, who has kept an eight-hour evening vigil at his mother's bedside for nearly a year.

The stories go on and on, without mentioning Mama Dunn's hobbies, things like gin rummy, poker, the horses, heavy-weight fights and rooting for Muhammad Ali.

Rose Dunn is a patient at Illinois Masonic Hospital in Chicago.

GET-WELL GREETING — Rose Dunn, better known as "Mama Dunn," and her son, Benny, look over a get-well card sent to her by President Carter. Although not an actress, producer, director or writer, Mama Dunn evokes fond memories from some of the biggest names in the entertainment world. Now partially paralyzed, the 80-year-old matron lived the night hours of show biz people in Chicago's Rush Street district after World War II. (AP Laserphoto)

Hints from Heloise

HELLO GUYS AND DOLLS:

We are going into the holiday season and you will be having parties, or maybe just friends dropping in for coffee and cake. Anyway, some friends may not be used to sliding glass doors — even those who are, sometimes don't pay any attention to them!

Have you ever seen anyone walk through a glass door? Just awful — first aid, then the hospital, stitches, waiting for word on their condition. I'm sure you don't want this to happen to you or your guests.

If you are planning a party, please follow these holiday hints:

Tape your Christmas cards all up and down your sliding doors, or you can use wide red and green satin ribbon and make huge bows with long streamers and tape these at eye-level for adults, little ones and little, little ones (pets). You know even pets can get hurt when they hit the glass.

Accidents don't just happen. Generally it is because someone has been careless.

S-o-o let's all have a safe and happy holiday and remember — do your safety-first decorating first. — Love ya! Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Can you please tell me what to do with my leftover pineapple juice? I hate to just throw it away. — Thanks, Billie G.

As suggested by Carol Franz, there are several uses for leftover pineapple juice. Here's one idea to get the most from the syrup in canned pineapple: think of it as a sugar-saver. Use drained syrup when a small amount of sweetener is required in a recipe. For instance warm, drained syrup is perfect to proof yeast for bread-baking.

Hope this suggestion helps you. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

My senior high school son broke his ankle during the holiday season and a cast had to be put on his foot.

The cast left his toes sticking out and they got pretty cold.

I got some heavy green flannel (felt would be nice also) and made him a shoe large enough to go over the cast and all. Then I decorated it with red fringe and jingle bells, in keeping with the holiday season.

It kept his toes warm and was quite a conversation piece. — Mom

DEAR HELOISE:

When my twin girls wanted a drum, I cut the top and bottom out of a three-pound coffee can and replaced these with the plastic lids that come on the cans.

They were already gaily decorated, so I just gave the girls two spoons for drum sticks. This made a lovely toy and a much less noisy one than the metal drums which cost more.

Undecorated cans could be spray-painted and cotton cord glued on the sides to form a design. Then two red lollipops attached for drum sticks. Excellent gift for shut-ins. — Mrs. John Matthews

DEAR HELOISE:

I was out of talcum powder, so I put some foot powder in my rubber gloves instead.

It felt wonderful, and helped heal up some small scratches on my hands, too, since it is medicated.

I read your column as often as it appears in our paper and enjoy it very much — Mrs. Lois Schindwein

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Nixon Spends Quiet Day In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — An entourage of Secret Service men accompanied former President Richard Nixon as he left his hotel for a quiet Sunday afternoon of watching football and visiting with his family.

Nixon and his wife, Pat, emerged from the Waldorf-Astoria and were immediately whisked to a waiting limousine by a protective cluster of agents.

He said he planned a quiet family day visiting his daughter, Tricia, and son-in-law, Edward Cox. The former president said he planned to do some Christmas shopping during his 10-day visit in New York and did not have any public appearances scheduled.

The 'Duke' Supports Release For Patty

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Actor John Wayne, citing the tragic mass suicide of Peoples Temple members, has told ABC-TV newscaster Barbara Walters that he favors Patty Hearst's release from prison.

In a telegram sent to Miss Walters on Thanksgiving Day, Wayne said:

"It seems quite odd to me that no editors or television opinion-makers have pointed out the fact that the American people have immediately accepted the idea that one man can brainwash 900 human beings into mass suicide but will not accept the fact that a ruthless group, the Symbionese Liberation Army, could brainwash one little girl by torture and degradation and confinement."

"Signed John Wayne"

Miss Hearst, 24, is serving a prison sentence for her conviction on bank robbery charges that grew out of her 1974 kidnapping by the SLA. She is eligible for parole on her seven-year sentence in July.

- 28 Pray for the happiness of those who curse you; implore God's blessing on those who hurt you.
- 29 If someone slaps you on one cheek, let him slap the other too! If someone demands your coat, give him your shirt besides!
- 30 Give what you have to anyone who asks you for it; and when things are taken away from you, don't worry about getting them back.
- 31 Treat others as you want them to treat you.
- 32 Do you think you deserve credit for merely loving those who love you? Even the godless do that!
- 33 And if you only do good to those who do you good—is that so wonderful? Even sinners do that much!
- 34 And if you only lend money to those whom you expect to repay you, what good is that? Even the most wicked will lend to their own kind for full return!
- 35 No! Love your enemies! Do good to them! Lend to them! And don't be concerned about the fact that they won't repay! Then your reward from heaven will be very great, and you will truly be acting as sons of God: for He is kind to the unthankful and to those who are very wicked.

Congress Berates Draft System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System is not capable of mobilizing enough recruits to meet Pentagon needs in time of a crisis, a congressional report said Sunday.

Even with the most optimistic assumptions, the study said, it would take more than twice as long as the timetable set by the Pentagon to deliver the first recruits to boot camp.

A pessimistic estimate is that it would take more than three times as long, according to the report.

"Considering the present shortfalls in our reserve forces, the present Selective Service situation cannot continue," Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said in releasing the report.

Promising Congress will investigate Selective Service in its next term, Price said. "In 1978, the committee found that the shortcomings in Selective Service were an unacceptable risk to national security, and if anything, matters are worse today," he said.

Selective Service is now in what is called "deep standby," with only 98 employees in its national and regional headquarters, and no state or local structure. With the military depending only on volunteers, Selective Service does not register or classify potential recruits.

The system is supposed to be able to put the first recruits in camp within 30 days of a mobilization order and deliver 100,000 inductees within two months, the study said.

Using optimistic estimates, it said, it would take 65 days to deliver the first recruits, and 90 days to deliver 100,000.

Under a pessimistic set of assumptions, the first recruits would not reach training until 95 days after mobilization, and 100,000 recruits would not be delivered until 120 days after the first order went out, according to the study.

It said Selective Service is supposed to deliver 650,000 recruits to training 180 days after mobilization, but that it actually would take 250 days to deliver that number under the best of circumstances.

Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said recently the military chiefs are recommending revival of draft registration and classification of military-age youths to improve mobilization ability.

He said the chiefs also might favor giving physical, mental and other exams to potential recruits.

The study said Selective Service lacks a reliable plan for quick, mass registration that would provide necessary data to begin computerized selection and induction operations.

In addition, it said Selective Service's computer system is not adequate for the quick-reaction response that would be needed.

The study also said the field structure proposed for mobilization is too complex and cumbersome to be set up quickly.

Congress appropriated $7.1 million for Selective Service in the current fiscal year.

The study said one option would be to spend an additional $2 million for an improved computer system and revision of the post-mobilization plans.

Another option would be to reinstate peacetime registration, at an additional cost of $4 million, while a third option, to reinstate peacetime classification, would boost the cost over the current policy $13 million.

Peter Bourne Faces Physician's Inquiry

ATLANTA (AP) — Former White House adviser Dr. Peter Bourne says he will attend a Dec. 12 hearing before the Georgia medical examining board in connection with a drug prescription he issued for a White House employee under a fictitious name.

"I have a letter from the board requesting that I appear before it, and I will," Bourne said in an interview Saturday. "I don't know if I will lose my license or not."

Bourne also is licensed to practice medicine in Washington — where he still resides — Colorado and California. Medical authorities in those areas have said they plan no action against him in connection with the Quaalude prescription. Law enforcement officials who investigated the matter have said no criminal charges will be filed against him.

Bourne addressed the Southeastern Conference on Alcohol and Drug Abuse here.

Bourne served as President Carter's chief adviser on health matters until last July when he resigned after the incident was publicized.

China Cuts Growth Of Population Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — China has managed to cut its population growth rate in half over the last decade, according to the Agency for International Development.

Dr. R. T. Ravenholt, director of AID's Office of Population, told a seminar of the Population Action Council that China should experience less than a 1 percent natural population increase in 1978. China's population was increasing at a rate of 2 percent a year in 1969.

Ravenholt, who based his predictions on a 21-day visit to the Chinese mainland, said China's population now is estimated at about 907 million.

Cowboys Win East

JUST A TOUCH — Dallas linebacker Guy Brown barely misses tackling Stanley Morgan, the New England Patriot kick return specialist, in the fourth quarter of the teams' game in Irving, Texas. The Cowboys kept their win streak going and clinched the National Football League's Eastern Division title with the victory. (AP Laserphoto).

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry turned the playbook pages back 17 years Sunday to find the recipe for yet another Dallas Cowboy divisional football championship.

What Landry unearthed was an old play which in 1961 involved quarterback Eddie LeBaron, fullback Amos Marsh and receiver Bill Howton. The quarterback handed off to the fullback, who lateraled back to the quarterback.

The Cowboys used that combination for its first National Football League victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Against the New England Patriots Sunday, quarterback Roger Staubach took a lateral from Scott Laidlaw and mailed a strike to Tony Hill to complete a 49-yard touchdown play.

The ambush tied the score 10-10 late in the third quarter and Staubach threw a 26-yard game-winning touchdown pass to tight end Billy Joe Dupree early in the fourth quarter and the 17-10 victory over gritty New England.

"We had to pull some of the old plays out," Landry said. "We had to, the way New England was playing. It's a pretty old play. ... We go back to the early 1960s with that flea-flicker."

Landry said, "We had a similar flea-flicker this year against St. Louis, but Tony Dorsett handled the ball. You have to keep it (the flea-flicker) under wraps until just the right moment."

Landry had to be told that he had earned his ninth divisional title, his 12th playoff berth in the past 13 years and his third consecutive National Conference Eastern Division crown.

"Somebody said that gave us the Eastern Division championship, and if they're right, we're happy about it," Landry said.

They were right, Tom. With a 10-4 record, the Cowboys have the tie-breaker edge over both Washington and Philadelphia, who both lost Sunday and are two games back with two games to play.

New England's lead in the AFC East slipped to one game over Miami, as the Patriots' record also went to 10-4.

Patriots Coach Chuck Fairbanks said, "I just want to give credit to Dallas."

Fairbanks never mentioned the flea-flicker, but arched in on a Steve Gronau touchdown run that was called back because tight end Russ Francis was ruled in motion.

That hurt, Fairbanks said. What also hurt the Patriots were two blocked field goals by Ed Jones and Randy Hughes and a 30-yard miss off the toe of Dave Posay.

Posay did manage a 30-yard field goal — which just barely cleared the crossbar. Coupled with Sam Cunningham's 52-yard touchdown run, the Patriots held a 10-3 halftime lead.

"We were fortunate they scored only 10 points," Landry said.

Dallas' only first-half points came on a chip shot field goal by Rafael Septien. New England totally throttled the Cowboy offense until Landry dusted off his exotic play.

Defense Keys Steelers

HOUSTON (AP) — Pittsburgh's defense decked Earl Campbell and alertly grabbed six Houston turnovers and Franco Harris embellished his position among all-time pro rushers Sunday as the Steelers cooled off the Oilers 13-3 and wrapped up the American Conference Central Division title of the National Football League. Campbell, the NFL's leading rusher, crumpled to the Astroturf after a 10-yard gain in the first quarter. He left the game before a hushed record crowd of 54,261 and did not return.

The former Heisman Trophy winner suffered bruised ribs, but Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips said Campbell should be ready next week.

"We didn't have enough bandages," Phillips said, referring to Houston's string of injuries that also included quarterback Dan Pastorini, receivers Mike Barber and Mike Renfro, middle guard Curly Culp and cornerback Willie Alexander.

"I said it would be that kind of game," Phillips added. "In my 31 years of coaching, I've never seen a game that was hammer-and-tong like that one. It was also the best one I've ever seen played defensively."

The Steelers intercepted three Pastorini passes and recovered three Oiler fumbles. Two of Houston's miscues led to field goals of 41 and 23 yards by Roy Gerela.

That gave Pittsburgh a 6-3 lead in the third quarter, and Terry Bradshaw hit John Stallworth with a 5-yard touchdown pass to ice the game with 3:42 to play.

Bradshaw agreed with Phillips' assessment.

"I've never played a game so hard and so intense in my life," Bradshaw said. "Both teams wanted to win so bad and played so hard that the defenses were as tight as a drum. We played awesome on defense, and the Houston Oiler defense was incredible."

Bradshaw said losing Campbell didn't hurt the Oiler offense, but Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll said, "I'm sure it (losing Campbell) had some effect on their football team. It really came down to a

Tech Season Over

By DON HENRY
Executive Sports Editor

There was no aroma of mothballs, but just the same, Texas Tech Sunday began packing away the football gear. It will not be disturbed until spring training. And Sunday, Raider coach Rex Dockery and his staff set to work on another game plan.

It is called recruiting, and although it had been under way since last summer, the pace picks up now that the actual season is over.

And it came to a grinding halt in Fayetteville, Ark., Saturday afternoon when the Razorbacks, warming up for a Christmas-day battle with UCLA, demolished the Raider machine 49-7.

It was a case of the Raiders' string running out and the Razorbacks having a giant-sized pair of scissors poised to do the cutting.

"We can't play any better than we did in the first quarter," is the way Razorback coach Lou Holtz saw it.

About 43,000 loyal Razorbacks and a few Raider fans would agree.

Ben Cowins rushed for 148 yards — all in the first half — as the senior Razorback passed the 1,000-yard mark for the third time in his career. Only Chris Gilbert of the University of Texas can say he did it in the Southwest Conference.

And the Razorbacks' defense was just as effective, holding Tech runners to only 91 yards. Tech passers and receivers picked up another 107, but the Razorback offenders were marching 520 yards on the ground, just about 7 yards every time the football was snapped.

Tech was playing without senior noseguard Curtis Reed, out after sustaining a knee surgery Thursday, but his loss was not the key factor; the fired-up Arkansans were.

"They have some good backs," said defensive tackle Tracy Kensing. "Their line is real quick and comes off the ball. I don't think we were ready to play. Arkansas got the momentum early and took care of the game. All their backs were good."

Reed was one of nine seniors on the squad, and throughout the season, Dockery has lauded the seniors.

He will lose a pair of centers, Kim Taliaferro and Travis Mileur, both wide receivers, Brian Nelson and Godfrey Turner, quarterback Tres Adami, all-SWC linebacker Don Kelly, cornerback Mike Patterson and Reed.

And with the recruiting drive on, these will be some of the voids Dockery and his staff will try to fill.

Tech, picked for the last three spots in the conference, finished with a 7-4 record and a 5-3 conference reading.

Rams Win Sixth Straight West Title

Interception Return For Touchdown Gives Los Angeles Share Of Record

By The Associated Press
Los Angeles Rams, winners of five straight National Football Conference West titles under Coach Chuck Knox, extended their divisional domination Sunday, capturing the championship for the sixth year in a row.

The opportunistic Rams, 11-3 under the guidance of Ray Malavasi, did it with a 20-17 victory over the stumbling New York Giants, 5-9, who suffered their sixth consecutive loss.

The Rams broke a 10-10 tie with 5:21 to play when Pat Thomas raced 33 yards with an intercepted pass — Los Angeles' fourth interception of the game — then scored the winning points on Frank Corral's 35-yard field goal after Dave Elmendorf's fumble recovery and 39-yard return to the Giants' 20.

Only two other teams in National Football League history have won six consecutive divisional titles — the Cleveland Browns from 1950-55 and the Dallas Cowboys from 1966-71.

The Pittsburgh Steelers also clinched their division crown Sunday, winning the American Football Conference Central title, defeating the Houston Oilers 13-3. The Steelers' 12-2 record is the best record in the league.

Dallas became the third team to clinch a division title Sunday, overcoming the New England Patriots 17-10 and capturing the NFC East title. The Cowboys, 10-4, are two games ahead of Washington and Philadelphia, each 8-6, with two games remaining, but they have a better tiebreaker record than either the Redskins or the Eagles.

The loss reduced the Patriots' AFC East lead to one game over Miami, the Dolphins closing ground with a 16-0 victory over slumping Washington, the Redskins suffering their first shutout since 1971.

Meanwhile, the Minnesota Vikings and the Green Bay Packers, each 8-5-1, remained tied for first place in the NFC Central. The Vikings rode Fran Tarkenton's four touchdowns passes, including a 20-yarder to Ahmad Rashad with 1:49 remaining, to a 28-27 triumph over Philadelphia. The Packers downed the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 17-7.

In other NFL games Sunday, the Cincinnati Bengals routed the Atlanta Falcons 37-7, the New York Jets beat the Baltimore Colts 24-16, the St. Louis Cardinals topped the Detroit Lions 21-14, the New Orleans Saints defeated the San Francisco 49ers 24-13, the Kansas City Chiefs edged the Buffalo Bills 14-10, and the Seattle Seahawks routed the Cleveland Browns 47-24.

In Oakland, safety Bernard Jackson stopped an early Oakland drive with a goal-line interception, linebacker Randy Gradishar scored Denver's game-clenching touchdown on a 29-yard fumble return in the fourth period and the Broncos beat the Raiders 21-6 in their first-place showdown late Sunday night.

The Broncos, defending American Football Conference champions, took the Western Division lead with a 9-5 record. The Raiders, 8-6, fell into a second-place tie with Seattle and are in serious danger of missing the National Football League playoffs for the first time in seven years.

In Monday night's national TV game, the Chicago Bears play the Chargers at San Diego.

Pittsburgh stopped Houston, 9-5, by forcing six turnovers and scoring on Roy Gerela's two field goals and a 5-yard touchdown pass from Terry Bradshaw to John Stallworth. The Oilers' stoutest rookie running back, Earl Campbell, suffered a bruised ribs late in the first period and never returned to action.

Dallas rallied from a 10-3 third-quarter deficit and beat New England, 10-4, on two touchdowns passes by Roger Staubach — the first a 40-yard play to Tony Hill on a flea-flicker and a 36-yarder to Billy Joe DuPree.

Miami, 9-5, shackled Washington with an airtight defense that registered four interceptions against Redskins' quarterback Joe Theismann and an offense that scored on three field goals by Garo Yepremian and a 40-yard pass from Bob Griese to Jimmy Cefalo. Yepremian has kicked 12 straight field goals over seven games.

Tarkenton tied Minnesota club records with 30 completions in 56 attempts, good for 289 yards and the four TDs against Philadelphia. He hit six of nine passes during the winning drive, which covered 90 yards in about 5 1/2 minutes.

Green Bay used David Whitehurst's passing — he completed 13 of 19 attempts — in beating injury-riddled Tampa Bay, 5-9.

Cincinnati, winner of only one of 13 previous games, jolted Atlanta's playoff hopes, destroying the Falcons, 8-6, on Pete Johnson's two touchdowns runs, including one for 50 yards, and TD interception runs by Scott Perry and Dick Jauron.

The Jets, 8-6, celebrated the 10th anniversary of their Super Bowl III championship victory over Baltimore, beating the Colts, 5-9, with the help of Matt Robinson's two touchdowns passes, including one for 50 yards, and TD interception runs by Scott Perry and Dick Jauron.

St. Louis, 5-9, broke a 14-14 tie against Detroit, 5-9, on Jim Hart's 53-yard touchdown pass play to rookie Dave Stief midway through the final period. Hart passed for a total of 161 yards, putting him over the 2,500-yard mark for the sixth time in his 13-year NFL career.

Rookie wide receiver Wes Chandler scored his first two NFL touchdowns — one on a 58-yard sprint after catching a pass one yard behind the line of scrimmage and the other a 12-yarder on a controversial call in the end zone for New Orleans, 6-8, against San Francisco, 1-13. The victory was New Orleans' sixth of the season, the most in its history.

Mike Livingston's 3-yard touchdown pass to Walter White on the final play of the third quarter lifted Kansas City, 4-10, past Buffalo, 4-10.

Surprising Seattle, 8-6, won its third straight game, hammering Cleveland, 7-7.

King, Evert Key U.S. Third Straight Fed Cup

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The United States became the first nation to win the Federation Cup in three successive years when it rallied to beat host nation Australia 2-1 behind veterans Chris Evert and Billie Jean King in a tense final Sunday.

King and Evert clinched the cup when they outlasted Kerry Reid and Wendy Turnbull 4-6, 6-1, 6-4 in a 104-minute struggle in the deciding doubles match. Earlier, Reid beat young American Tracy Austin 6-3, 6-3 and Evert downed Turnbull 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, setting up the crucial doubles match.

Fittingly it was King, the grand old lady of tennis who wrapped up the remarkable comeback by the Americans, hammering a service that Reid couldn't handle for match point. The elated Americans threw their rackets high into the air and fell into each other's arms as team member Rosie Casals rushed onto the court.

"We were concerned with our loss in the Wightman Cup (in Britain) and we knew we had to pull together and give it all we had," King said. "And that's exactly what we did."

Games On Tap Tonight

After a short break from tournament action, four of the city's UIL girls' basketball teams will be in action tonight, and two will be involved in intricacy action.

Coronado girls will drive eastward and take on the hostess Dunbar girls in one game. Also tonight, Estacado girls will play at Frenship, and Lubbock High girls must play at Amarillo Caprock. The Dunbar and Lubbock High girls were in tournaments through last Saturday.

Estacado boys, after spending the latter part of the week in Plainview for that city's tournament, will be returning tonight, to take on the host Bulldogs at 8. Estacado lost in Plainview tournament finals to Lubbock Christian High School.

Saints Finally Win Six

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints hit the six-victory mark Sunday for the first time in the team's 13-year National Football League history, beating San Francisco 24-13.

Three times in the past the Saints have registered 5-9 regular seasons — in 1969, 1973 and 1974 — but they never managed to win six in a season. It was a record for futility unequalled in the NFL.

"It was 12 years coming, and 17 points late, but win No. 6 sure feels good," said owner John Mecom. "The numbers 6 and 17 are two numbers I'd never bet on a roulette wheel, that's for sure."

Holtz Predicts Aides' Success

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz said Sunday that as many as three of his assistant coaches could land head coaching jobs this year.

"Our assistant coaches are excellent," Holtz said. "I don't believe we're going to keep them all."

"If we lose a great coach, and we have many of them up there, we'll just have to replace him with a great coach," Holtz said.

He refused to name his assistants he believed were the prime candidates for head coaching jobs.

Osborne To Coach Colorado?

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne and Colorado athletic director Eddie Crowder have confirmed a two-hour meeting in Lincoln, Neb., to discuss CU's football coaching vacancy, but they have declined to comment on whether Osborne actually has been offered the job.

A report from a source close to the five-person screening committee Colorado is using to find candidates for the coaching job said the post was offered to Osborne by Crowder when the two met on Saturday.

Osborne has denied this.

Jet Reunion Celebrates Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The crowd of 50,248 cheered when defensive back Johnny Sample trotted onto the field at Shea Stadium Sunday. And they roared when running backs Emerson Boozer and Matt Snell, Coach Weeb Ewbank and wide receiver George Sauer made their entries.

But, as always, the fans gave their biggest ovation to their favorite New York Jets' player, Joe Namath.

It was the 10th anniversary of the Jets' Super Bowl championship team, and they had returned for halftime ceremonies.

Fittingly, the Jets' opponents Sunday were the Baltimore Colts. In Super Bowl III, the Namath-led Jets upset the Colts 16-7. Sunday, quarterback Matt Robinson teamed with wide receiver Wesley Walker for two long touchdown pass plays, sparking New York to a 24-16 victory over Baltimore.

Only four members of the 1968 team were missing — all now connected with other NFL teams.

Improvements Key Mats

by BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Estacado Coach Louis Kelley has been as consistent with his victory statements as the Matadors have been posting victories during the AAA high school football playoffs.

"We're very proud of the way out kids played," Kelley starts...

But there are a few more generalities in the Matador mentor's speech, before he'll go in depth about the opponent.

Generalities like, "I think we just wanted the game more than they did in the second half," "this is just another stepping stone," and "we're just taking it one game at a time."

While Kelley's low-keyed comments haven't turned any heads, neither has Estacado's 11-game winning streak impressed posters.

The Matadors failed to make either of the wire service rankings, while the Harris poll rated Estacado 31st three weeks before the regular season ended. "I feel that not being ranked is to our advantage now," said Kelley. "And, I won't mind not being ranked just as long as we keep winning."

Though ratings aren't released during the playoffs, the Matadors can't be any worse off than being the fourth best team in the state. After all, that's all the teams left in the battle for the state championship.

However, in an effort not to offend any opponent down the line, the closest Kelley will come to discussing his team's chances of winning their first state title since 1968 is to say, "I like our chances."

And the Matador coach backed up the statement Friday night in Snyder when a reporter informed him that Estacado was a slight underdog going into the quarter-final contest against the Tigers.

"We were," said a startled Kelley while staring at the reporter as if to take offense by the comment. But then the Matador mentor's face changed into a wide grin and he said, "Looks like, we proved them (the experts) wrong."

However, no matter how conservative Kelley is with his speech to the press, whatever he told the Matadors after an opening defeat to Plainview (40-6), has been effective: Estacado has not lost since their 1978 debut.

What Kelley has been quoted as saying is that, "We made some changes after the loss to Plainview."

That remark is worthy of a yawn or two, but it's believed that improvement at the skill positions is the main reason for Estacado's 11-game winning streak.

Said quarterback Kenneth Henderson: "After the first game against Plainview, the coaches worked hard with me in getting my timing down and putting more zip on the ball on roll-out passes."

Then there is sophomore tailback Kelvin White, who had trouble holding on to the football not only against Plainview, but for the first five games of the season. All White ended up doing by the time the regular season was over was rushing for 1,058 yards.

"My main improvement has been concentration," said White. "Now that holding on to the ball, my confidence improved and I'm a better runner."

So, this week the unknown Matadors advance into semifinal action against Gainesville at Memorial Stadium in Wichita Falls. Kickoff is slated for Saturday night at 6.

Matador fans can pick up tickets for the contest at the Central Athletic Office on 19th St., or at Estacado High School. The cost is $4 for adults and $2 for students.

Now it's time to reach into Kelley's bag of prepared statements and say, "this is just another stepping stone." It makes one curious what the Estacado coach will say if the Matadors should win the state championship.

Chapparals Still Searching...

Larry Hays is one man who wouldn't mind Christmas coming a bit early this year. "If we could just get a little luck, we'd be all right," Hays said, reflecting back on the 0-6 start by his Chapparals. "We're going to get over the hump sooner or later, and I just hope it's before we lose 15 or so."

The Chaps, who have shown sparks of brilliance this season, will have two opportunities to "get over the hump" here tonight, as host Texas College at 7:30 tonight and Sul Ross Tuesday night.

They will be LCC's final home games of 1978. The Chaps will close out their first-semester schedule with four games on the road, and they have lost 34 straight on the road.

"If we'd just had a little bit of luck of any kind, we'd have won two (of four games) last week," said Hays.

Injuries continue to plague the Chapparals.

First, Marshall Smith broke a finger in the opener but played until sustaining a shoulder separation.

Then Keith Gardner, who had 27 points and 15 rebounds in the opener, missed a game with a shoulder separation. He is averaging 19 points and 12.2 rebounds per game.

Kevin Wharton started fast but hurt an ankle. Bill McGee and Bruce Carver, a pair of long-range bombers, have filled in at guards. Freshman Jim Stensma, with 10 points against West Texas State on Saturday, and Mike Wrinkle are expected to be in the lineup tonight.

LCC is averaging 82.6 points a game but giving up 93.2.

Texas College will bring a 5-3 record to Lubbock, and Sul Ross holds an earlier 81-69 overtime win over the Chaps. That game was played in Alpine.

defensive game and the ability to make the right play at the right time.

Pittsburgh ran its record to 12-2, tying its best performance ever, while the Oilers dropped to a 9-5 record and remained in contention for an AFC wildcard playoff berth.

The Steeler defense sent Oiler rookie Earl Campbell, the National Football League's leading rusher, to the sidelines with bruised ribs with 1:04 left in the first quarter and the former Heisman Trophy-winner did not return the rest of the game.

Pittsburgh's Franco Harris went over 1,000 yards for the sixth time in his career and moved into fifth place on the National Football League's all-time rushing list. It was a 31-yard run by Harris in the third period that helped set up Gerela's 23-yard third quarter field goal.

The Steelers, meanwhile, turned an interception by Jack Lambert into a 41-yard field goal by Roy Gerela in the first quarter and took a 6-3 lead in the third period on a 23-yard Gerela field goal after Houston's Mike Barber had fumbled.

The Oilers' only scoring play came on a 37-yard field goal by Tony Fritch in the second quarter. The kick was set up when Bradshaw fumbled a snap and Houston middleguard Curly Culp returned it four yards to the Pittsburgh 15.

Bradshaw then directed the Steelers to an insurance touchdown late in the fourth quarter keyed by a 34-yard pass-play to Stallworth.

Key players for both teams were in and out of the lineup in the viciously-played game.

In the first quarter, Pittsburgh's ace receiver Lynn Swann left the game with a bruised rib but after x-rays returned in the second half.

Pastorini crumpled to the Astro turf with 59 seconds left in the third quarter after being tackled for a loss. Pastorini suffered a possible rib fracture but returned to the game.

SD, Bears Meet Tonight For Pride

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears and San Diego Chargers, two National Football League teams going nowhere this season, get some motivation tonight — a national television audience — when they square off at San Diego Stadium.

The contest, to be televised by ABC starting at 8 p.m., CST, will be played before a sellout crowd of more than 50,000 fans.

The Bears will be playing their third Monday night game of 1978 and will be looking for their first victory of the year under the lights. They lost to Minnesota 24-20 and to Denver 16-7 earlier on Monday nights.

Chicago will be after its third straight victory. After opening the season with three straight wins, the Bears dropped eight in a row. But the two recent triumphs raised their record to 5-8.

San Diego, meanwhile, will be playing its first Monday night game since 1975. An up-and-down team all season, the Chargers bring a 6-7 record into the game. They had won four in a row before being flattened 23-0 by Kansas City last week.

SUCCEED IN OUR MANAGER TRAINING PROGRAM
If you've ever lived in the Southwest you almost certainly know Furr's Cafeterias. Our quality cafeterias are located throughout Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and Arkansas. What you may not know is that Furr's currently is the nation's second largest publicly owned cafeteria chain.

Thinking about a career in management? We can offer you excellent opportunities for personal advancement in our aggressive, expanding company. If you have drive and enthusiasm, if you are willing to learn, you'll find success with us in the dynamic food service industry. To qualify for the training program, you should have a high school diploma or G.E.D., equivalent. College or vocational school background will be a plus. Leadership ability is a must, since a self-starter can motivate others. A neat, well-groomed appearance is essential.
Experience in food service is preferred, but not necessary due to our extensive training program. Experience in other professions should prove helpful to you. We seek individuals who require the minimum of supervision to get the job done right the first time.

Our manager trainees receive in-depth, on the job training in all phases of cafeteria operations. The management training program leads to appointment as an assistant manager and then cafeteria manager based on the quality of your overall performance. Top performers can quickly move into your management positions. Here management positions are not a hollow promise — not growth without substance. We have expanded from 38 cafeterias in 1970 to 73 in 1978. Buy 1982 we plan to have over 100 units!

As you progress into management you may have the chance to be relocated to some of the fine cities where we have cafeterias.
You should be willing to accept these opportunities.
The starting salary for manager trainees will be based on your background and experience. The minimum starting salary is $200 a week, as your career progresses and your responsibilities grow, you can expect a rapid growth in earnings.

Prices Of Color Gems Climbing

NEW YORK (AP) — Rubies, intense and bold. Emeralds, gleamingly verdant. Sapphires, icy and remote. Color them costly.

Because of their short supplies and a surge in demand by wealthy purchasers — who want them as investments or simply for their beauty — the highest quality color gems are becoming ever more expensive.

"I'm recommending to my clients to invest in good quality color stones because they are difficult to find and will increase in value," says Nathalie Hocq, director of design for Cartier in Paris.

"We're selling more color stones than at any time in the history of the company," adds Henry B. Platt, president of Tiffany & Co. "The price of color stones has been increasing quite substantially along with the price of diamonds and gold for the past few years."

Unlike diamonds, whose supplies are primarily controlled by the massive DeBeers Consolidated Mines, color stones are extracted and mined by individuals with little backing except their own.

"Most people making major gem strikes are not the DeBeers but individuals who have invested their life savings for a long shot," said John White, associate curator in the department of mineral sciences at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

"Mining is on a small scale and mechanization doesn't really work," he said. "One must look at every piece of rock that comes out. You can't have large crews because you have to shake down miners at the end of the day to make sure they're not smuggling. One small emerald can be the profits for an entire month."

White said most quality emeralds are still being found in Colombia. Sapphires and rubies are still extracted in Sri Lanka, India and Burma. But Zambia and Tanzania in Africa recently have been good sources. There are thought to be undiscovered reserves elsewhere.

Sufficient quantities are not being mined so some retail jewelers are buying back jewelry from old customers.

"We have files in the archives of everything we've ever sold," said Miss Hocq. "So we find people from the family that originally owned the pieces."

Most color stones are being repurchased in India, where once maharajahs dazzled their subjects from thrones of rubies wearing vests encrusted with emeralds and shoes studded with sapphires.

According to the monthly color stone price index in "Keystone," a jewelry industry publication, the increases for rubies, emeralds and sapphires over the past year have been sharp.

The "Keystone" prices quoted here are the ones gem dealers charge jewelers and others in the business. What a retail buyer would pay is much higher, but these prices are, for stones likely to be bought by the wealthy, not the average man buying his wife a birthday gift.

The price per carat of medium to better grade rubies currently ranges from $900 to $6,000 and from $550 to $3,100 for commercial grade. In October 1977, the median price for better grade red stones was $1,700 and $700 for commercial grade.

Sapphire prices also reflect the upward spiral. The latest price for the medium to better grade of the blue gems is $400 to $3,600 and $150 to $900 for commercial grade. The median prices in October 1977 were $800 and $375, respectively.

In October of last year, emerald prices averaged $5,000 per carat for medium to better grade and $1,300 for commercial grade. Now, the green stone ranges from $3,200 to $6,500 for the better grade and from $500 to $3,000 for the commercial grade.

But color stones still do not approach the value of the best diamonds. A D-flawless diamond — the highest grade — now ranges in price per carat from $42,000 to $44,360, according to "Keystone." In October 1977, a D-flawless averaged $16,000 per carat.

"The demand for color stones is completely different than the demand for diamonds," says Robert Nelson, president of R.C. Nelson and Son, a dealer in gems. "The source of demand today is the foreign buyer — people who are worried about what will happen to their governments ... These are the only forms of portable wealth. You can't pick up $1 million worth of gold and leave."

But some jewelry experts caution against investing in color stones.

"The market of precious stones is very volatile," says David Rose, president of Robinson International, Ltd., a diamond broker. "The prices can jump from 20 to 25 percent in one month. There's no stability in the market and no specificity of quality. Diamonds get grading from the Gemological Institute of America. All you get for color stones is whether they're real or not."

Rose said that unless the Institute begins giving a rating he will not advise his clients to invest in color gems.

West Texans Assert Summit Excludes Working Farmers

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — A West Texas wheat farmer said Sunday the National Farm Summit is nothing more than reports from some "egghead experts" who know nothing about "the problems we real farmers face, like losing $100,000 a year."

Jerome Friemel of Hereford, Texas, said the national meeting has denied representation to the working farmer and added: "How can they come up with any answers unless they talk to us?"

The farm summit begins Monday at Texas A&M University with a goal of solving numerous problems facing U.S. agriculture.

Prior to the meeting, several members of the American Agriculture Movement met in a College Station motel with officials of Texas A&M in an effort to insure they would have a say in the three-day session.

While the talks were going on, trucks carrying grain and driven by farmers were en route to the Port of Houston for a direct sale to foreign nations.

Leaders of the AAM said this is the first time farmers have marketed their own products without the use of a middle man.

During the motel meeting, sponsors of the farm summit agreed the AAM could include in the formal report their feelings about the problems facing American farmers.

Marvin Meek of Plainville, another member of AAM, said the group wants to make sure the farmer's voice is heard.

"We are tired of all of these solutions to our problems being made by people who know nothing about digging in the dirt," Meek said.

"The experts are doing little more than giving us a two-foot ladder to climb out of a 12-foot economic hole."

Eugene Schroeder, a farmer from Campo, Colo., said farmers who drove their produce-loaded trucks from Colorado and elsewhere in Texas to the Port of Houston "are already moving grain into public storage facilities" at the port.

"We are in the position now to sell our grain to any ship that wants to take it aboard. More and more of our grain is arriving in Houston each day," Schroeder said.

American Humorist Leaves Hospital

HONG KONG (AP) — American humorist S.J. Perelman has been discharged from a Peking hospital after being treated last week for acute bronchitis suffered during a visit to the Chinese capital, his traveling companion said Sunday.

The companion, Hong Kong journalist Nancy Nash, reported by telephone from Peking that the 74-year-old author of numerous books, plays and film scripts, including the Marx Brothers' classic "Monkey Business," left Peking's Capital Hospital on Saturday and has moved back into his hotel room.

"He is still weak but recovering and very happy," she said.

Perelman went to Peking hoping to be the first foreigner to drive through China since 1949 and copy the famous 1907 Peking-to-Paris classic.

His 30-year-old MG sports car, which was slated to be shipped by rail to the Chinese capital, is still in Hong Kong and Perelman's companion said plans for the drive have been abandoned.

Hard-Luck Family Get New Car

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Frank Larabee, a 42-year-old father of six, was upset when his 1969 car needed repairs that would cost more than the car's value. He'd just been hired as a baker for a doughnut firm after several months of unemployment.

Friends and neighbors offered rides so the Larabees could do errands. On Thanksgiving, "We thanked the Lord for all our blessings, including those friends who had helped us," Mrs. Larabee said.

The day after Thanksgiving, a stranger knocked at their door. He pointed to a red 1971 station wagon in the driveway. "Just sign the sales slip," he told Mrs. Larabee, "and the car is yours."

The man explained that an anonymous donor had picked out the car, paid for it and asked that it be delivered to the Larabees.

GM Boss Sees Strong '79 Economy

DETROIT (UPI) — Brushing aside the popular notion of an imminent recession, General Motors Corp. Chairman Thomas A. Murphy Sunday predicted a strong U.S. economy and record car and truck sales in 1979.

In his annual forecast, Murphy praised the Carter administration's anti-inflation efforts and said the program should result in continued expansion next year.

The GM chairman, whose predictions have been within 100,000 units of actual totals since 1976, said car and truck sales next year should hit 15.5 million units. He issued the same figure for calendar 1978, and sales now are expected to reach a record 15.4 million.

New passenger car sales, he said, should reach 11.5 million next year, with trucks topping 4 million.

Murphy said GM planned to keep its lion share of industry sales, particularly with introduction next spring of a new line of front-wheel-drive compact cars.

"GM's sales forecast and our spending plans (a record $5 billion in 1979) are consistent with our expectation that the U.S. economy will continue to grow at a moderate and sustainable rate," Murphy said.

"As always, there are some who have expressed concern regarding the current outlook. However, in view of the constructive steps being initiated by the administration to bring about monetary, fiscal and regulatory discipline, we are confident that there will be continued moderate economic expansion in 1979."

Murphy said the gross national product should rise from 3 to 3.5 percent.

HEARTLINE: Can you tell me what the changes in deductibles are for Medicare in 1979? — L.T.

For 1979, when you enter a hospital as an in-patient under Medicare Hospitalization Insurance Part "A", you must pay the first $100 in charges (was $144 in 1978). Medicare will pay all further charges on covered services for up to 60 days. From the 61st to the 90th day of a hospital stay, Medicare will pay all covered services, except for $40 per day ($36 per day in 1978), which you must pay.

If you are admitted to a skilled nursing facility and meet Medicare requirements for coverage, Medicare will pay for all covered services in a participating skilled nursing facility for the first 20 days in each benefit period, and all but $20 per day ($18 per day in 1978) for the 21st through the 100th day in that same period.

The deductible for Medicare Medical Insurance Part "B" remains $60 per year.

HEARTLINE: My cousin is the widow of a coal miner who had to take a disability retirement because of lung problems. In 1973, she applied for black lung widow's benefits and was told that there was a three-year time limit on filing the application and that she was four days late. Have any changes been made that would allow her to draw these benefits? — D.M.

Yes, the three-year time limit for a widow's filing for Black Lung benefits has been removed. She should file with the Department of Labor and her claim will be reviewed.

HEARTLINE: An insurance man came to my home and explained about his Medicare Supplement policy. The policy sounded good, but I always talk insurance matters over with my son before I buy a policy. This insurance man politely insisted that if I was to have his policy at all, I must take it out then because he could not come back. I almost gave in, but fortunately I have your excellent booklet (Heartline's Guide to Health Insurance) and I — did not as your booklet suggests — let him pressure me into buying. I just don't understand why insurance companies let their agents act that way. Can you explain? — K.W.

These pressure tactics are common. Most insurance agents selling Medicare supplement policies are paid by commission. In other words, no-sale, no-pay. In many cases the insurance agent who insists that he or she cannot come back really could, if he or she wanted to. The fact is, the agent probably would come back if it appeared that you were really going to buy, but if not he doesn't want to waste his time. Most insurance agents who sell Medicare supplement policies work on some type of "lead" system. The agents' philosophy is usually "if they don't buy right away, they won't buy later. Why waste time when I have other leads to follow?"

Many Medicare supplement agents do work large territories, even as much as a quarter or half a state. There is sometimes a situation where the agent really cannot come back because he might be 150 miles away the next day and may not be back in your area for months. These are only a few reasons why insurance agents may pressure the prospective buyer.

No matter what the reason, you should not buy unless you are sure. In most states, however, there are state laws that will protect you. These state laws allow you a period of time, normally 10 days, to read the policy and return it for a full refund if not satisfied. Heartline does have a booklet entitled Heartline's Guide to Health Insurance, which costs $1.75. It is available by ordering from Heartline's Guide to Health Insurance, P.O. Box 11994, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Please allow eight weeks for delivery. We also have free literature which gives you tips on purchasing health insurance. Send for "Tips on Buying Health Insurance."
