

Weighing Of Aspirin's Benefits, Risks Urged

By SHAUNA HILL

PARENTS may be unintentionally giving their children aspirin overdoses and pregnant women taking aspirin could be endangering the lives of their unborn babies, according to a recent study by a government panel.

rheumatic conditions and irritate the stomach, possibly causing bleeding.

But three Texas Tech doctors contend the study focuses too much on negative aspects and blatant misuse of aspirin, and ignores practical medical reality.

They say aspirin is dangerous, but lack of viable alternatives makes aspirin almost irreplaceable in modern medicine.

The HEW report claims "doses recommended on the labels of children's aspirin products now on the market are too low" and one drug manufacturer said low doses may not have the desired effect and could cause a parent to "give a child too much at one time or repeat dosages before the recommended time interval elapses."

Dr. V.J. Gururaj, director of pediatrics at the Tech medical school, said aspirin overdose in children is common, but that changing the dosage in children's aspirin would not solve the problem.

"The approximately 65 milligrams of aspirin in a children's tablet is adequate for relief of mild pain and fever," Gururaj said.

He stressed aspirin is a toxic drug and many children are allergic to it. "Children with asthma and children with stomach or intestinal problems should avoid aspirin if possible," he said.

No single set of recommended aspirin dosages for children exists, but the HEW report recommends standards based on age.

Gururaj said the age standard is too general since body weight in a 2- to 4-year-old category could vary around 20 pounds.

"Some doctors prescribe 65 milligrams of aspirin per year of the child's age, but the maximum aspirin dosage for one day should be about 60-65 milligrams of aspirin per kilogram of the child's body weight," Gururaj said.

A milligram is about .015 of a U.S. grain and a kilogram is about 2.2 U.S. pounds. Most children's aspirin are 60-65 milligrams (one grain) per tablet.

Gururaj stressed that aspirin is a potent drug and should not be given as a matter of course.

The HEW report also reports that aspirin can prolong pregnancy and labor and can cause bleeding before and during delivery.

Peaceful Protest Ends In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Iranians surged through the heart of Tehran Sunday in a mammoth anti-shah protest, a "referendum in the streets," that ended without the violence many had feared.

The great march demonstrated that the people want "to put an end to the dictatorial, authoritarian and corrupt regime," opposition leader Karim Sanjaby said. He said it was "the best evidence that force cannot stop this national movement."

Estimates of the number of marchers varied. The army said 300,000 paraded along the 5 1/2-mile route. March organizers claimed up to 2 million people took part in the six-hour procession. The official Iranian news agency estimated the crowd at 400,000, but said the march was in honor of World Human Rights Day, which was Sunday.

"Yankees Go Home!" The protesters carried thousands of banners and placards, many written in English for the benefit of foreign journalists and television cameras. One placard crudely written in chalk demanded "Yankees Go Home!" University students stopped reporters, demanding they "tell Jimmy Carter we want democracy and not a royal tyrant."

Westerners, especially Americans, have become the symbol of foreign support for Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, and anti-West hostility has touched off a mass exodus of some 9,000 foreigners, including about 5,000 Americans.

President Carter has repeatedly stressed support for the shah, but the State Department has said the United States will not intervene. State Department spokeswoman Mary Ann Bader said Sunday it was inaccurate to describe the exodus as an "evacuation" and that between 35,000 and 40,000 Americans are still in Iran.

"No blood was spilled," an official of Sanjaby's National Front said of the march. "Today we proved that the opposition is more than just a bunch of hot-heads and dissidents, as the shah's people claim. The message we sent to the palace today cannot be ignored. He has to listen or risk a bloodbath."

The march was publicized by its organizers as a "referendum in the streets to show once and for all that Iranians don't want the monarchy."

In Paris, the exiled Ayatullah Khomeini, spiritual head of Iran's dominant Shiite Moslem sect and symbol of the anti-shah movement, deemed the march to be "an absolute success... It showed the shah has little support left," an aide to Khomeini said.

The religious leader has called on Iranians to spill their blood until the 59-year-old shah is ousted.

Before the march began, thousands of the shah's imperial troops, backed by tanks, withdrew to outer sections of the city to avoid provoking a bloody confrontation. But troops ringed the downtown area with roadblocks, and military helicopters whirred above the protesters.

The long procession ended at Shahyad Square, near a towering white stone monument built 12 years ago to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the shah's reign. The protesters then streamed away before darkness.

The march was led by its chief organizer, Ayatullah Telegahni, 70, and Sanjaby, 71, both of whom had been jailed in recent months for opposing the shah.

Mullahs, or Moslem priests, shouted in-to bullhorns to keep up a cacophony of chants. Sanjaby was mobbed by followers, and the chanting, normally placid women sprinkled him with Persian perfume as a sign of respect.

Demos Affirm Budget Policies

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Democrats refused to repudiate the Carter administration's budget policies Sunday after Vice President Walter F. Mondale warned that inflation will drive them from office if they fail to deal with it.

At the closing session of the party's midterm convention, Mondale warned that "the Democratic Party in 1978 has to face up to the problem of inflation... or it will be driven out of office just as our predecessors were in 1968 by the Vietnam War."

"Make the dollar worth a dollar," he said. "We've got to respond to that overwhelming plea."

Delegates then rejected, 822 to 521, a resolution that would have put the party on record supporting "an adequate budget to meet human needs, in no case less than the current services budget for human and social services."

Budget Scrutiny Asked They approved a resolution on the federal budget saying, "We believe it is essential that all areas of the budget — domestic as well as defense — be fully scrutinized and that a special effort be made to avoid unnecessary reductions in programs which aid the poor and the disadvantaged and which aid our urban areas. If errors are to be made, they would be on the side of avoiding harm to those least able to protect themselves."

The final sentence echoed statements made here repeatedly by President Carter.

Douglas Fraser, president of the United Auto Workers and a principal backer of the substitute resolution, said the position supported by the Carter administration "sanctions cuts in vital social services."

The inflation-conscious administration's allocation of budget resources has been the major issue at this convention.

Health Insurance Pact Reached Its victory on the budget resolution ended the threat the convention might adopt a position embarrassing to the Carter administration. Carter earlier had yielded to pressure from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and agreed to support a resolution calling for enactment by the 96th Congress of national health insurance.

The health insurance resolution was adopted after the budget fight. Other resolutions supported the administration's effort to obtain a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel and to negotiate an arms limitation pact with the Soviet Union.

The delegates also put the party on record as supporting full congressional representation for the District of Columbia, and for making Jan. 15, the birthday of the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., a national holiday.

Carter Talks To Panels The president spent 18 hours in Memphis, addressing the opening session Friday night and then attending panel discussions Saturday morning on arms control and inflation.

Carter tried to affirm his commitment See DEMO MEETING Page 20

Blue Law Bans Rile Shoppers

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff
DROVES of frustrated Lubbock shoppers, who could touch but not buy, suffered the "blue law blues" Sunday, a condition brought on by new, citywide compliance with state shopping restrictions.

For the first time in months, the blue law ban on the weekend sale of certain items was observed by Lubbock stores open on Sundays. That satisfied merchants' groups patrolling for offenders but left many shoppers, to use their words, annoyed, angry and irritated.

Store managers contacted by The Avalanche-Journal generally were close-mouthed about their businesses' newly enforced policy of roping off aisles and covering the 42 types of items specified by the law.

But, they ruefully confirmed, customers were disgruntled and puzzled about the new shopping situation. Customers' first reaction often was an anguished cry of "Why now?", meaning two weeks before Christmas. That soon gave way to annoyance.

Lawsuits Volatoid The stores' voluntary compliance with the blue law means no lawsuits will be filed against them as threatened, confirmed Leland Duckworth, J.C. Penney's store manager and member of the Fair Trade Committee.

The committee, comprised of merchants angry over competitors' alleged non-compliance with the statute, announced with much public fanfare last week that it would monitor stores open Sundays.

If illegal sales were noted, the group vowed, it would file suit with the district attorney's office.

The threat, apparently, was enough to bring compliance.

No Violations Found Duckworth said Sunday the committee found no violations. "Everything was roped off, covered up and nice," he said.

The group had talked with managers Saturday to learn their intentions, he said, explaining most were concerned about their competition remaining active.

"We feel most of the stores had opened up just to meet the competition, which meant other stores opened up," Duckworth said.

Sad Letters Help Compile Gifts List

CHIEF GOODFELLOW read the letters recently received from persons concerning needy children in Lubbock and wiped his eyes.

The letters told of circumstances which prevented many families from providing Christmas for their children, circumstances often beyond the parents' control.

The following letters are a sample of the circumstances: "...mother had surgery for cancer in May and then in November she was in a very bad car accident and hurt badly. She's unable to work. Her car was completely demolished...

"No car, no job, no money to pay bills or buy groceries. So, therefore, they will have no Christmas... Her mother is a widow..."

"I'm unable to work. Believe me, I would if I could... Just a little something I can put under the tree. The seven-year-old doesn't realize about there is not much money. Thank you..."

Chief Goodfellow needs the names of children under 14 years of age who live within the city limits of Lubbock who might be missed at Christmas.

But to make the 4th annual project a success, he also needs the financial contributions and names of volunteers to deliver packages of toys, fruit, nuts and candy early Christmas morning to waiting children.

Coupons, which will appear for the last time Wednesday, contributions and volunteers' names should be mailed to: CHIEF GOODFELLOW, P.O. Box 491, Lubbock, Texas, 79408.

Warm, Sunny Weather Due South Plains

A WEAK low pressure system, expected to linger over the northwestern portion of the state through Tuesday, will bring sunny skies and warmer weather to the South Plains today.

The icy winter storm, which last week brought bone-chilling temperatures to Lubbock, continued to lose strength Sunday as it moved past New England into the Atlantic Ocean, leaving a snow-packed trail across much of the nation.

Record low temperatures were broken in many Gulf Coastal cities due to scattered high cloudiness, including Beaumont/Port Arthur (24 degrees), Corpus Christi (21 degrees), San Antonio (18 degrees), Austin (19 degrees) and Victoria (22 degrees).

Midland also had a record low early Sunday morning with a 15-degree reading which knocked two degrees off the previous record low set in 1966.

San Antonio's record low nipped 2 degrees off the old mark set in 1898.

Lubbockites can look forward to warmer afternoons and nights, according to forecasters who expect the high today to be in the mid 50s and the low to night in the mid 20s.

Alamosa, Colo., broke its low temperature record for the third day in a row Sunday with a 24 degrees below zero reading. The records for the dates all had been set in 1964, according to the National Weather Service.

Elsewhere in Colorado, scattered snow is expected late tonight in the mountains which, forecasters say, should increase by Tuesday, with temperatures expected to be slightly warmer.

Sniper Kills Man, Boy

IRVING (UPI) — A sniper fired apparently random shots onto a highway just outside the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport late Saturday, killing two people in passing cars, police said.

The victims, who were in separate cars, were identified as Steven T. Gaudin, 12, of Plano and Raymond Andrews, 43, of Arlington.

Irving Police Sgt. W.H. Mauldin said Sunday they had no leads or motives in the shootings, which occurred on state Highway 183, one-quarter mile from the south entrance to the airport, at about 10:50 p.m. Saturday.

Police said Gaudin was riding with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Gaudin, taking Mrs. Gaudin to the airport following the Plano-Dallas Carter high school football playoff game at Texas Stadium.

Andrews, an employee of Mobil Oil Corp. in Dallas, was driving with his wife, Virginia.

Mauldin said both were shot in the head with a high-powered rifle. Andrews was dead at the scene and Gaudin died en route to a Tarrant County hospital.

No one else was injured, although Mauldin said there was a lot of traffic on the highway.

"The car which boy was in was the first car shot," he said. "(The parents) pulled over and were trying to wave down people when (Andrews') car came by. The other car was shot through the windshield."

Mauldin said the first shot came from the service road, between Esters Road and Valley View Lane, and that Andrews' car was fired upon from the Valley View overpass.

One shell casing, of an unknown caliber, was found on the service road, Mauldin said, but he added "We're not positive that even had anything to do with the shooting."

"We have asked that anyone in area who saw anything give us a call," Mauldin said. "The parents and wife saw nothing at all."

Mauldin would not lend credence to speculation that the sniping followed the plot of an NBC television program, CHiPS, shown earlier Saturday, in which a boy fired BB pellets at passing cars from an overpass.

Possible Viet Military Front Indicated

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam has moved most of the 40,000 troops it has based in Laos to the Laotian-Cambodian border, the Bangkok Post reported Sunday. The report raised speculation Hanoi might be planning to open a new northern front in its war with Cambodia.

On another front, meanwhile, both Vietnam and China reported clashes at sea involving fishing boats and naval patrol boats of the two countries. But their accounts of the fighting differed sharply. Relations have been tense between Hanoi and Peking because of Vietnam's reported persecution of its Chinese minority, and because of China's assistance to a situation have caused "grave concern" in Thailand and the military has been put on alert as a precautionary measure.

That concern, the newspaper said, was reflected in the government's decision to send a high-ranking military team to the United States to brief U.S. officials on the situation. The paper said the Thai delegation is now in Washington, but gave no other details.

Vietnam kept a large garrison in Laos during and after the Indochina War, which ended in 1975.

Serm was not immediately available for comment. Deputy Defense Minister Gen. Yos Thephasin, asked about the report, would not confirm it but said it "could be possible."

Vietnam and Cambodia have been locked in an all-out border war for more than a year. The dispute has its roots in old territorial claims and animosity between the two peoples. Cambodia also Cambodia in its border war against Soviet-backed Vietnam.

The Post, an English-language daily, said its report of the troop movements was based on an interview Saturday with Serm Na Nakhon, commander of Thailand's armed forces.

Serm was quoted as saying military intelligence reports about the Cambodian fighting between the two countries in their current confrontation, though Hanoi has previously accused China of violating Vietnam's territorial waters.

The Hanoi broadcast, monitored in Bangkok, said five Chinese vessels surrounded a number of Vietnamese fishing boats in Vietnamese waters off Quang Ninh Province on Saturday morning and opened fire, causing damage to the small boats.

After several warnings, Vietnamese patrol boats in the area, about 70 miles northeast of Hanoi, opened fire and drove the Chinese back to their waters, the radio said. No casualties were reported, and the broadcast gave no further details on the vessels involved.

The Chinese news agency reported earlier Sunday that two Chinese fishing boats were attacked by five Vietnamese vessels in the same general area and that one fisherman was killed and two were wounded.

Fiedler Hospitalized In Fair Condition

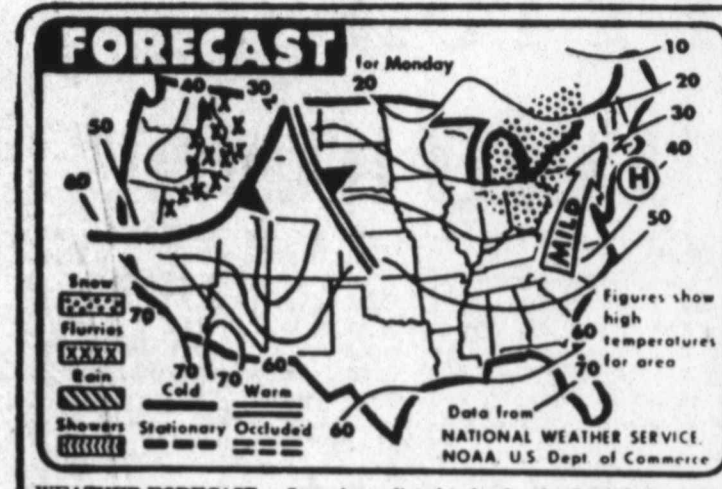

BOSTON (AP) — Arthur Fiedler, the zesty showman who conducts the Boston Pops Orchestra, remained in fair condition Sunday at Tufts New England Medical Hospital where he was readmitted the day before with undisclosed ailments.

Fiedler, who will be 84 Dec. 17, re-entered the hospital for therapy and will not be conducting any concert for at least three weeks. He was at the hospital from Nov. 29 to Dec. 1 and continued recuperation at his Brookline home.

Peter Gelb, orchestra spokesman, said Fiedler was "experiencing difficulty in mobility and other areas. The hospital expects to conduct some therapeutic measures to improve his condition."

Gelb said Fiedler hopes to be back on the podium for the New Year's Eve nationally televised "Pops" concert.

Explosive Week Forecast In Davis Trial

HOUSTON (AP) — The sixth week's testimony unfolds Monday in the merry-go-round murder conspiracy trial of millionaire Cullen Davis and it looms as the most explosive to date.

The defense popped a surprise or two last week, but did not directly attack or explain the incriminating FBI tapes at the heart of the state case.

"I don't believe we're going to get somebody to stand up with a smoking gun," said defense attorney Phil Burleson. "But I think we circumstantially will show the conspiracy against Cullen."

Burleson and lead defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes contend their wealthy client was framed by his estranged wife, Priscilla, and others.

The state scoffs at such a theory, but less casually than a week ago. A surprise defense witness testified Friday she saw FBI informant David McCrory crawl into a car with a man she identified as Pat Burleson and a woman who "looked like Priscilla Davis."

Dorothy Neel, 37, a Dallas secretary, said the incident occurred in mid-July, one month before Davis was arrested and accused of plotting to kill his divorcee.

Burleson, 42, a karate instructor, steered McCrory, 40, to the FBI and, like Mrs. Davis, 37, was an exceedingly reluctant defense witness last week. Although never asked directly about the Dallas rendezvous, the trio testified separately that such a meeting never occurred.

Prosecutor Jack Strickland called Mrs. Neel's story "incredible" and labeled her a "platinum Uewayne Polk," referring to a similarly surprising witness at Davis' murder trial a year ago.

Polk, a nurseryman, surfaced on the final day of testimony in that trial and told of seeing a man other than the defendant in the Davis mansion shortly before a bloody 1976 shootout.

Mrs. Davis was wounded and her lover and daughter slain by an intruder dressed in black. An Amarillo jury ruled, however, it was not Davis who gunned down his young stepdaughter.

On a snowy winter day after that November verdict, a defense witness said last week, he visited Mrs. Davis at the mansion and came away convinced she wanted her husband killed.

But she made no such request, said David Binion, 34, a car salesman-informant who collected debts for gamblers and nourished his reputation as a "hit man."

Mrs. Davis previously confronted Binion in court and swore she never met the man.

Contacted after Mrs. Neel's testimony, Mrs. Davis branded her story "totally incredible" and declared: "It's not just innuendo, it's a downright lie. It shows how little they have to go on in this trial. They're getting people up there now to say anything." A defense lawyer described Mrs. Neel as a "disinterested and very credible witness" and said she would not be the "last to put the three together despite their testimony to the contrary."

And so spins the legal merry-go-round toward an expected Christmas-time climax.

Jones Earmarked Funds For 'Hit List'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Peoples Temple aide says the Rev. Jim Jones planned to use the large sum of money found at the Guyana jungle settlement to pay for death contracts on his enemies, the San Francisco Examiner reported Sunday.

The newspaper quoted Terri Buford, who reportedly had responsibility for finances at the camp, as saying that cult followers in California were "to stay alive at all costs and carry out the assassinations in the event of Jones' death."

The FBI has said it is investigating reports that Jones had compiled a "hit list" that included journalists, politicians and defectors, but no such list has surfaced.

The Guyanese authorities have reported $1 million was found at the jungle settlement of Jonestown following the mass suicide-murder of more than 900 persons on Nov. 18. Unconfirmed reports have put the figure at up to $3 million.

"I was told the money found in the jungle was to be used for putting out contracts on people," Miss Buford said in an interview. She did not identify persons on the alleged hit list.

In Berkeley, two temple defectors said that Jones used to brag about connections with organized crime. "He used to say that if anybody gave him trouble, he had wonderful Mafia contacts. We didn't know if Jones was serious or not," said Al Mills, a Jones follower for six years who helped found a halfway house for defectors.

Miss Buford, who left the Guyana commune last Sept. 16 and later claimed she defected, was probably Jones' closest aide, according to members and former members.

"She's Jones' top avenger. No person in the church had a greater loyalty to him personally," said Tim Stoen, a former Jones aide and former assistant district attorney in San Francisco.

Miss Buford, 26, who was not present during the suicide-murder ritual, said that some of the surviving temple followers could be members of a hit squad but that she did not know if a hit list now exists.

"Years ago ... there was a physical hit list," Miss Buford said. "I don't know if it was maintained over the years."

Miss Buford and Temple attorney Mark Lane had a secret meeting in San Jose on Wednesday with U.S. Attorney William Hunter, San Francisco FBI chief Roy McKinnon and other federal officials.

Lane said he had asked for immunity from prosecution for Buford. But he said Hunter indicated it would not be necessary.

Russia Announces Plans To Cease Whaling Operations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Soviet Union plans to end its commercial whaling operation within the next five years, the Los Angeles Times reported Saturday.

The newspaper quoted the chief Soviet delegate to a meeting of the International Whaling Commission in La Jolla as saying the Russians have no specific timetable for stopping various areas of whaling but are "considering the question constantly."

However, Viacheslav Zemsky said the Russians, who with the Japanese are responsible for the largest share of the whale catch each year, will first eliminate their whaling activity in the North Pacific and then in the Antarctic. Zemsky estimated the Soviet fleet took about 3,000 Minke whales and a smaller number of sperm whales this year.

The decision to end whaling was based first on a "truly conservationist approach," Zemsky said. "And of course, economics plays a role. But sometimes, we make sacrifices for what we see as important long-range goals."

Human Rights Day Honored In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — More than 100 Vietnamese refugees and students peacefully demonstrated to mark U.N. Human Rights Day here Sunday, calling for an international effort to rescue the "boat people" fleeing Vietnam.

The demonstrators, from 11 refugee camps in Japan, shouted such slogans as "Thousands of Vietnamese are dying at sea; save them!" and "The Hanoi government must realize human rights in Vietnam."

The demonstrators are among some 600 refugees housed in Japanese camps.

Waldrep Arrives Home With Message Of Hope

DALLAS (AP) — Kent Waldrep returned home from Russia Sunday stronger of limb and spirit and carrying a message of hope for countless other spinal cord injury victims confined to wheelchairs.

The 24-year-old former football star at Texas Christian University, paralyzed four years ago in a game against Alabama, has been receiving special medical treatment at the Polonovsky Neurological Institute in Leningrad.

"They are just incredible men," Waldrep said of his Soviet physicians. "They have the unique capability to combine medical professionalism, compassion and a sense of honesty."

Approximately 100 reporters and applauding friends and spectators greeted him upon his arrival Sunday afternoon at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Waldrep told them that although he cannot walk yet, a combination of enzyme, oxygen and physical therapy unavailable in the United States has made him stronger.

"I wish it was available to everyone in a wheelchair," said Waldrep. "It should be." The native of nearby Grand Prairie said the Soviet approach to physical therapy is to get a patient out of a wheelchair and onto his feet to strengthen his muscles.

"Standing up was a great feeling. The world looks a lot better standing up," Waldrep said.

He plans to return to Leningrad in a year or two at the most, he said. But for now he will use a supply of enzymes he brought back from Russia and continue on his own the Soviet physical therapy methods.

He said he should be able to show some more movement in the next two to three years.

Begin Honors Mrs. Meir At Oslo Nobel Peace Prize Ceremony

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel paid tribute Sunday to Golda Meir, the young nation's fourth prime minister and a giant of its founding generation. Plans were being completed for Tuesday's state funeral.

Sorrow over Mrs. Meir's death Friday tinged national pride as Prime Minister Menachem Begin received the Nobel Peace Prize in a ceremony in Oslo, Norway, broadcast live on Israeli radio and television.

Mrs. Meir, 80, died of complications from lymphoma, a disease of the lymphatic glands that she kept secret since it was first diagnosed 15 years ago.

Accepting the Nobel prize he shared with Egypt's President Anwar Sadat, Begin opened his address by paying homage to Mrs. Meir.

"Her blessed memory will live forever in the hearts of the Jewish people and of all peace-loving nations," Begin said. The audience at Akershus Castle rose spontaneously for a moment of silent tribute to Mrs. Meir.

Israeli soldiers roped-off pathways at the Knesset — parliament — building for the public to pay its last respects to the woman who led Israel through five critical years and through the devastating 1973 Mideast war.

Mrs. Meir's body will lie in state Monday morning. Tuesday's funeral will be with full military honors. Burial will be in a section of the national cemetery on Jerusalem's Mount Herzl called "The Plot of the Nation's Great."

A 42-member U.S. delegation headed by Lillian Carter, President Carter's mother, was to arrive Monday. It will include Henry Kissinger, who as secretary of state in 1974 mediated the first Arab-Israeli partial peace agreements with Mrs. Meir's government.

The American party will be joined by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who was in Egypt Sunday for talks with Sadat aimed at breaking the deadlock in the stalled peace talks in Washington.

The Russian-born Mrs. Meir lived in the United States for 15 years until she moved to Palestine in 1921 and immersed herself in Zionist politics.

In the next half-century of public life she served as chairman of the semi-official pre-state Jewish government, Israel's first ambassador to Moscow, minister of labor, foreign minister and chairman of her Labor Party before she retired pleading ill health in 1968. Six months later on the death of Levi Eshkol, she was recalled to political life and became prime minister.

Mrs. Meir governed through a hectic five years of border skirmishes, terrorism, peace feelers, and finally the 1973 Yom Kippur War and its aftermath of negotiations.

Flags in Israel and in Israeli missions abroad were lowered to half-staff, but the government decided not to declare a full state of national mourning because Mrs. Meir no longer held office.

Mrs. Meir's doctors said she awaited her fate calmly, hoping to live long enough to see a peace agreement between Israel and Egypt.

"I wouldn't mind dying even one day after an agreement is signed," she was quoted as telling relatives.

"She never mentioned her private war" against the disease, said Kalmann Mann, director of Hadassah Hospital where she died. "She was aware of her state, but with her usual optimism, she carried the load beautifully."

Israel's Labor Party held a memorial meeting Sunday in Tel Aviv for its former leader. It was attended by members of her family, friends and colleagues. Labor Party leader Shimon Peres complied with a request in Mrs. Meir's will that she not be eulogized. But he said, "One thing could never be said of Golda, and that's that for one moment she stopped being proud ... at the time of crisis she was the one person who would not be broken."

Country Lobby Urged For Transportation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citizens living in rural areas must lobby their congressmen to get a fair share of federal funds for development of transit systems, according to a brochure distributed by the Agriculture Department.

The booklet said transportation needs of people living in the country "are more critical than the needs of their counterparts in urban areas" because of the present lack of public transportation.

"Yet, there is no federal agency for rural people to go to for such assistance," the brochure adds. "Congress is responsible for seeing that funds are provided for both urban and rural public transportation."

Party Finds Salt Sea

Chapter 7
THE SEA OF SALT
By LUISE PUTCAMP JR.

(WHAT HAS HAPPENED: After meeting in the City of Red Rock, the three wise men head north, still following the star. For the first time, Melchior tells the boy what he and the others are seeking: a newborn baby who is a king with no palace.)

What Melchior had told me about the newborn king so filled my head that I didn't see the strange sea until we were very close to it.

We were riding through a wide valley. The ground was white and salty. The air was dry and it had a clean smell.

First I saw bluish clouds hanging low in the sky over the sea. The sea itself was a deep blue. Sunlight flew from it like sparks.

"In this water, nothing can live," said Melchior.

When we stood at its edge, I knew why. This sea was thick with salt!

"And nothing can sink," said Balthasar.

Casper was kneeling beside the sea. He drew his black hand from the water. It turned white with salt under the sun.

Already, it seemed as if they had been riding with us from the start — Caspar, tall in the saddle, and Balthasar, with his graceful hands.

And their camel drivers, getting along no better with Melchior's camel drivers than I had at first.

"Nothing can sink in this sea?" I said. "Try it," said Melchior.

While some rested, some of us tried the sea. I pulled my blouse over my head and waded in.

It seemed I walked forever before the black waters reached my chest. Then my foot stepped into nothingness. But I didn't go down. The heavy water held me up like the arms of a mother.

Afterwards, I rubbed off the salt. My skin still felt sticky as we rode on. Late in the day, we left the bank of the long, dead sea and turned toward the hills. Night was blue in the sky, and the star blazed above us.

I saw lights ahead. Miles from nowhere, people living in the salt desert? There were stone buildings. From one of them, a figure robed in white came to meet us.

It was a tall man with a stern face. He greeted my three wise men. He seemed to be expecting us, but how could he have known we were coming? Melchior, Caspar and Balthasar followed the man in white.

After the camels were unloaded, we camel drivers were led to a plain room where a fire blazed in a hearth, and the smell of cooking food warmed the air. I ate and fell asleep beside the hearth.

In the morning, I wandered about. Here was a tower, a great hall, storerooms, and a place where potters worked.

How could this little city exist in the middle of the desert? Soon I saw: An aqueduct brought water from a distant valley, and stone cisterns stored the water.

In the distance, I could see rounded bluffs, striped by the wind, and broken by small, dark spots — the entrance to caves.

All around, the white-robed people went about their business very quietly. They seemed like people whose eyes were fixed on another place altogether.

I had the feeling that information had been exchanged here, instructions had been given, and another piece of the puzzle had fallen into place.

But I was puzzled as ever as we started off across the desert again, looking for some mysterious baby. How would we know where to find the baby king?

"On to Herod's city!" said Melchior, and he turned his camel to the north.

(NEXT: The Streets of Herod)

First I saw bluish clouds hanging low in the sky over the sea. The sea itself was a deep blue.

AN EDITORIAL:

Going In All Misdirections

DESPITE ASSURANCES from President Carter that he is generally satisfied with American intelligence operations, current events in Iran and Cuba would indicate that America's information-gathering and assessment may be woefully inadequate.

"This is of critical importance at this time," says Heritage Foundation national security analyst Michael Donley, "because the government's intelligence estimates will have a major impact on the next Department of Defense budget, the Five-Year Defense Plan and the issue of verification of the forthcoming SALT II package—and later the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty."

While it may be unrealistic to look for simple reasons for the deterioration of U.S. intelligence, Donley suggests we have been relying too heavily on electronic surveillance while human intelligence has been curtailed sharply.

THE DECEMBER issue of Heritage Foundation's National Security Record notes that human intelligence, including surveillance, clandestine collection and covert action has been the principal casualty of recent reform.

"Significant harm to the confidence of sensitive sources was done by the Church Committee and by the Freedom of Information and Privacy acts."

"In addition, as a response to these events and to the subsequent climate of opinion," NSR explains, "the CIA, the Departments of Justice and Defense instituted guidelines on the surveillance of American citizens, and for the handling of human sources, which are much more restrictive than any law."

The Electronic Surveillance Act of 1978 appears to so mire intelligence in criminal law that if a terrorist were hiding in an apartment complex of 1,000 units the FBI could not tap the complex's telephone cable and separate the 999 parties to be protected from the one threatening them.

THE CIA'S clandestine service is said to be in deep trouble because, although it has been stripped of most of its clandestinity, it is still required to produce as if it had not.

"This undoubtedly contributed to the recent breakdown of timely analysis on the situation in Iran," Donley asserts.

The President as much as confirmed this when he said he had ordered the State Department, CIA and National Security Council to "see how we could improve the quality of our assessment program..."

Heritage points out, however, that even the best assessment program will fall short if the intelligence input comes overwhelmingly from technical sources.

"The importance of assumptions in technical intelligence makes it easy to present biases," warns the NSR, "in the guise of scientific conclusions."

These fundamental problems in analyzing intelligence are the real issues of intelligence reform.

AN EDITORIAL:

Mrs. Meir--Giant Of History

THE DEATH OF former Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel marks the end of one of the most remarkable careers in modern history.

The American-educated matriarch of Israeli politics who led her nation through its bitterest war, died Friday at the age of 80, perhaps only a few short weeks away from the realization of one of her long-cherished dreams: the signing of a peace pact in the Mideast.

But, to a great degree, the contributions of this first lady of Israeli politics, and Israel's crusty first premier, David Ben-Gurion, will go down as laying the basic groundwork for the State of Israel.

THE CRAGGY-Faced Golda Meir survived pogroms in Russia and poverty in Milwaukee to become prime minister of the Jewish state and guide it through some of its most tumultuous years.

"She's the only man in my cabinet," Ben-Gurion once remarked, after Mrs. Meir rushed to the United States in 1948 during a snowstorm, wearing a light dress and carrying a handbag.

On that trip, she raised $50 million for weapons to defend the fledgling state against at least five Arab armies seeking to crush Israel almost before it was born.

Mrs. Meir lived through Israel's entire history from its founding to its toughest war in 1973, when Israel at first reeled under Egypt's surprise strike and Syria's thrust on the Golan heights.

And although both she and former defense minister Moshe Dayan came under criticism for Israel's lack of preparation, both later were exonerated.

GOLDA MEIR, proving that women could serve in high positions in a world normally run by men, held virtually every post in the Israeli government.

She assumed the post of prime minister when she was 71 years of age, and served the last 12 to 13 years of her life although suffering from a form of cancer. She was prime minister from 1969 through the 1973 October war to April 1974.

Mrs. Meir's father came to the U.S. from the Ukraine in 1903 to seek a better living. The family followed in 1906. But, it was to Palestine and later Israel that Golda Meir finally turned her sights.

Not only Israel, the Mideast, but the world is better for her indefatigable energy, her dreams, her humble approach to life and diplomacy, and her strength.

It is a classic example of using one's life in a positive manner.

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Anti-Shah Movement Tied To KGB Spying

BEHIND THE SCENES in Iran the Soviet KGB secret police are as busy as a bird dog as they try to dethrone His Imperial Majesty, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi. This is undisclosed, but is a vital part of the Soviet push.

SAVAK, the shah's security force, has some 4,500 professional intelligence officers and countless agents. It knows that under Soviet direction Algeria, Cuba, Libya and South Yemen train terrorists for disruption in Iran. Also, SAVAK watches Tehran's Soviet Embassy.

For eight months SAVAK knew that the KGB had a "mole" (disloyal Iranian) in the army's high command. It turned up Maj. Gen. Ahmad Mogharrabi, 51, deputy chief of army planning and logistics.

MOGHARRABI MADE two trips to Europe and one to the United States. SAVAK decided that he was under KGB orders, prepared to move for espionage work in the United States. SAVAK arrested him.

Mogharrabi delivered classified Iranian information and photographs to outlawed Tudeh (Communist) party member Col. Ali Neeve. He taped many KGB messages on a specially adapted Uher 4000 recorder which also served as a transmitter.

By remote control, the KGB could trigger the Uher 4000 from a KGB automobile parked near Mogharrabi's home. A 60-second radio burst picked up 30 minutes of recorded Mogharrabi conversation.

The KGB gave him a miniature camera, like a small cigarette lighter. If Mogharrabi was surprised in photographing secret Iranian documents, the camera could make it look as if he simply was lighting a cigarette.

SAVAK FOUND that the general favored toothpaste tubes for concealment and left film cassettes in hidden places patrolled by Soviet agents. The KGB also gave Mogharrabi a clipboard with two thin metal sheets fastened together by a screw.

An arrow above the screw showed which way to turn it to detonate a small explosive destroying any clipboard papers.

Retired Iranian Brig. Gen. Ali Akbar Derakhshani was a Soviet spy for 28 years. Derakhshani revealed his loyalties when, at World War II's end, Communist rebels backed by the Red Army seized Tabriz in Azerbaijan.

DERAKHSHANI COMMANDED the Soviet Union's 3rd Army Division. He disarmed his men and surrendered to the rebels.

The shah faces a 1,200-mile border with the Soviet Union. The Soviets have made a mere stooge out of neighboring Afghanistan.

Moreover, the shah personally abandoned Iran's historic claim to oil-rich Bahrain. But this is not all. At Oman's request, he gave armed assistance against rebellions in Oman's western provinces. The shah acted because large Soviet, East German and Cuban units, directly aided by Yemen, supported these forces.

These forces, unfriendly to the United States, could shut off the free world's vital oil supplies on the narrow Hormuz Strait bottleneck.

THE SOVIET UNION has invaded Iran three times in this century. Czarist Russia seized Turkistan and the Caspian Sea from what was then Persia, and twice the Soviets have occupied large parts of northern Iran.

The shah received me at Sa'adabad Palace, known in Tehran as the "White Palace."

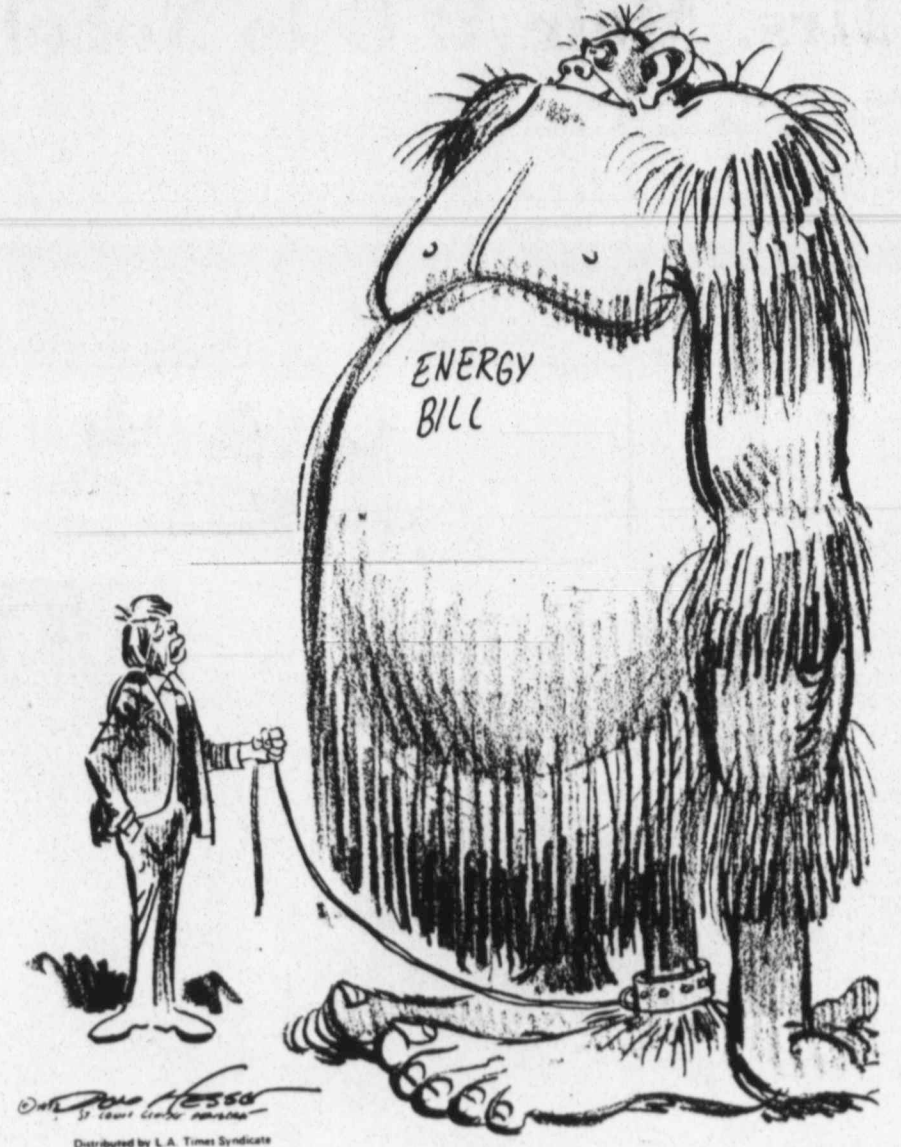

The shah was waiting, in mufti, in a chamber decorated tastefully in the French Louis style.

He has paid White House visits to Presidents Eisenhower (for whom he has great admiration), Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Ford and Carter. He has toured our country repeatedly and has been to most countries abroad.

There is a direct link between KGB spying and Iran's upheavals against the shah's regime. Clearly, the Soviets have a hand in destabilizing Iran, which President Carter properly called "a major ally of the United States."

George F. Will:

Childless Retarded?

WASHINGTON—The one publication I unhesitatingly call indispensable is the Hastings Center Report, a bi-monthly published by the Institute of Society, Ethics and the Life Sciences, which was founded in 1969 for the "sustained, professional investigation" of bio-medical ethics.

Problems within its purview include those of human experimentation, behavior modification, prolongation of life, pre-natal diagnosis and other aspects of the biological revolution.

New manipulative skills—surgical, pharmacological and psychological—entail new dilemmas involving individual autonomy, such as the definition of informed consent, and the permissible scope of society's paternalism.

On such dilemmas discussed in a recent report concerns sterilization of the retarded.

The issue is important because there are millions of retarded citizens. It is vexing because (among other reasons) the varieties of retardation mean that the category "retarded" has an artificial tidiness that cannot be matched by a legal definition of competence.

Some warm-hearted people want to deny the existence of an identifiable population of retarded people. Many subscribe to the untenable idea that "normal" is an inherently arbitrary concept and, hence, is unfair to all deviant groups.

They also have valid anxieties about the potential for injustice in any labeling process.

But without labeling there could be no special services targeted to the retarded. And it is arguable that legal distinctions regarding the retarded should extend into the uncharted moral territory of this question:

ANDREW TULLY:

Gimme's Got Us

WASHINGTON—On the subject of fighting inflation I don't trust anybody—including thee and me.

We are not a people dedicated to self-sacrifice, although individually we endorse it for the guy down the street.

That guy, in turn, endorses belt-tightening by the family two blocks away. It's always "they" who are responsible for the high cost of living.

Big Business says President Carter's inflation-fighting program won't work because Big Labor is all the time asking for wage increases.

Big Labor says the program won't work because Big Business cares about nothing but fat profits.

THUS, I WAS not impressed by Carter's speech before a meeting of the National League of Cities when he warned the mayors not to expect "constantly expanding federal programs and agencies," then, as usual, promised he would avoid "starving useful programs."

There's the old Catch 22. Everybody wants money for "useful programs." Housewives, bankers, union leaders, U.S. Steel, unilaterally decide which programs are "useful."

Chairman Sterling Tucker of the Washington City Council declares that "we can't sacrifice the tools of urban revitalization—jobs, housing, schools, services, and community development."

Jimmy Carter, a smart politician, recognizes this Me-First syndrome.

His demand that wage increases be held to 7 per cent and price increases to 6 1/2 per cent is tantamount to what the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn used to call "spitting in the ocean."

CARTER SAYS it will take 10 years to whip inflation. With wage-price standards of the kind he has more or less imposed, the American who doesn't belong to a union or own General Motors will be reduced to penury by 1988.

Should both business and labor comply with those standards' it would be like a dog chasing his tail.

Raising wages "to keep pace with inflation," and raising prices to cover the cost of wage increases at best will merely reduce the rate of inflation, not end it.

There is one step that could not stop this spiral. The cause of inflation is not multiple and complex as so many economists depose, but simply the result of printing too much money.

That means a sharp reduction in government spending.

BUT, FAT CHANCE. The U.S. prints money to please people who want more and more services.

They are aided and abetted by bureaucrats seeking to enlarge their empires with bigger appropriations and more bodies, and by members of Congress who demand pork-barrel dough lest their constituents retire them to private life.

Carter has promised to submit a new budget in January with a deficit of $30 billion or less. That, he says, "is less than half the deficit in the fiscal year 1976 when I was running for office."

That's a start, anyway. The question now is whether we the people, suffering from a bad case of the gimme's, will let Jimmy Carter save some of our money.

JAY HARRIS:

One For George...

GEORGE BUSH is a man with a mission these days.

And it's taking him all over the nation, including Alaska.

Mr. Bush was in Lubbock and the Amarillo area over the weekend, this time on one of his rare "rest and recreation" stops. To keep the record straight, we are talking about the father of the man who made a run for Cong. George Mahon's job.

The former U.S. Ambassador to the UN, special envoy to China, CIA head and national chairman of the Republican party, spent Friday night here. Then he went on a brief hunting trip with Jim Baker, who ran for state attorney general, and Bob Blake, Lubbock oil man and longtime friend.

The few days before his unofficial visit here, Bush had been in Cleveland, Wisconsin and then to Houston for speeches. In the past nine months, he has covered 100,000 miles by auto and air from Alaska to Austin, Washington to Walla Walla.

GEORGE BUSH makes no bones of the fact he is seeking the GOP nomination for President in 1980. Let's face it. He has a lot of company.

But, the man who has served his nation long and well in many capacities, and who often has been a bridesmaid when the top job was passed around, may be making his strongest bid yet.

Recently, Newsweek magazine, in an article entitled "Early Bird On The Wing," gave the elder Bush quite a plug from the standpoint of presenting him in a favorable light.

Bush's formal announcement isn't expected until sometime in January. But, observers, including White House insiders, already have tabbed him as a serious contender.

OF COURSE, the Houston oil man must somehow dispose of or enlist the aid of a stable full of worthy adherents for the job he is seeking.

In addition to fellow Texan, former Gov. John Connally, there's California's Ronald Reagan, former President Gerald Ford, Tennessee's Howard Baker, Kansas' Sen. Robert Dole and Illinois' Rep. Philip Crane, who has announced.

In addition, Benjamin Fernandez, 53, a Conservative California millionaire, and the first Mexican-American to seek a major party Presidential nomination, last week tossed his sombrero into the ring. At this point, it's still anybody's ball game, although Reagan, with his well-heeled and dedicated organization, is going to have a major say in who "the man who" is.

As a matter of fact, the Reagan forces can either help make or break the whole GOP strategy. If their man doesn't make it and they go home and sit on their hands, and pocketbooks, then they not only may be buying four more years of President Carter—or Ted Kennedy—but helping seal the fate of the GOP in the process.

WITH THAT in mind, there is talk that the GOP needs to come up with "a fresh face" this time around.

Sen. Baker, Bush and Rep. Crane all are in that category, although both Baker and Bush aren't new to politics or the national scene.

Sen. Baker, because of his exposure in Congress, has a built-in forum, of course. But there are those, and we are among them, who think the Tennesseean has been too footsy with the Carter administration—on everything from backing the Panama Canal pacts to the ERA.

Connally, who in many ways probably has the best overall qualifications for the White House, faces the problem of an Eastern media which can't stomach some Texans. But Big Jaw's "take charge" attitude, his broad knowledge and his dedication to the nation's future, including getting tough with Russia, may be just what a lot of people will be looking for in the impending shambles of the months ahead.

SO, THIS brings us back to George Bush.

In its assessment of things to come, Newsweek quotes campaign consultant Doug Bailey: "There's a feeling among an awful lot of folks that we could use a candidate who hasn't been around the track before."

"George Bush is in excellent shape for this stage of the campaign," adds pollster Robert Teeter, "especially in New Hampshire."

The reference is to the bellwether state which early on has often played hob with the best laid plans of pollsters and politicians. It is the first of 30 states which account for about 75 per cent of the GOP convention delegates.

Bush thus far has been extremely popular in the state, and for that matter in the East, where he is perceived not only as a Texan, but a man whose family roots and education also are part of the East. His father was Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut.

ALSO, VOTERS back there rightly see Bush's degrees from such prestigious places as Andover and Yale as plus points, which they are.

This is not an endorsement of the likeable and hard-working Texan. He or whoever finally gets the nod has a long, tough row to hoe.

Bush, unlike Reagan and Connally, in the past has not projected the "glamor" guy pose which seems to turn on many of the electorate. But, he has done the clean-up work, the tough tasks for Presidents Nixon and Ford. He helped lay the groundwork for admission of China to the UN and headed the CIA in some of its more traumatic moments.

He opposes the Panama Canal treaties, favors the Equal Rights Amendment and takes a cautious view on the Kemp-Roth tax cut plan. He has done his homework and served his time helping keep the nation and his party afloat.

Now, he's going after the brass ring. He denies he's a "stalking horse" for Connally or anyone else. This time, it's for George Bush. And you can quote George on that.

...Pass It On

WAS ON JULY 3, 1876, that the old Army boys in San Francisco decided to celebrate the Centennial with a mock battle. Cannon marksmen chose to sink an old scow out in the bay.

Chose to. But couldn't. They fired off more than 100 shells. None hit. A friendly fellow on a tugboat finally agreed to set fire to the thing. It was then when marksmanship practice first became Army routine.

Car Crashes No. 1 Killer Of Children

CHICAGO (AP) — Each year, about 1,000 children under the age of 5 are killed in highway accidents and about 100,000 children in the same age group are injured — often maimed or disfigured for life.

"In all due respect to diphtheria, whooping cough and measles, what kills kids nowadays is the auto crash. That's the No. 1 killer," says Dr. Robert Sanders, the Rutherford County, Tenn., health officer and a supporter of his state's recently enacted law — the nation's first — requiring child restraint seats in cars for youngsters under age 4. Sanders, a Murfreesboro pediatrician, and other safety specialists believe many child deaths and injuries in autos could be prevented by the use of effective child car restraints. One study in the State of Washington said more than 90 percent of the fatalities and almost 80 percent of injuries would be avoided with such restraints.

A 1975 study sponsored by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety found that 93 percent of children seen riding in more than 5,000 cars were either unrestrained or improperly restrained.

Furthermore, consumer groups say, parents looking for restraint seats face a confusing choice because there is no effective government standard.

Proposed federal standards have been kicking around since 1974, and recently the Department of Transportation gave a one-month extension, at the request of manufacturers, for comment on the latest proposed standard. It calls for restraint devices to pass a test under 30 mile-per-hour simulated crash conditions.

Partly as a result of the confusion, parents balk at paying as much as $40 to buy an effective restraint, says C. Ernest Cooney, a safety specialist for the Crippled Children Services of the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction.

Parents will either leave the child unrestrained or hold the child in their laps. Both are dangerous.

"What happens to small children who are unrestrained is that they literally become flying missiles," says Joan Claybrook, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

In a 30-mile-per hour crash, for instance, a 10-pound infant who is unrestrained can hit the dashboard with the force of a fall from a three-story building, Cooney said in an interview here, where he is working with the National Safety Council on a program to encourage use of child restraint devices.

In the same crash, a 100-pound woman, herself unrestrained, becomes a 3,000-pound force, more than enough to crush a child who is on her lap against an instrument panel.

Adult seat belts are not adequate either, the specialists say. A child's pelvic structure is fragile and his body is top-heavy. Impact forces on a child while he is restrained by an adult lap belt could cause potentially serious internal injuries.

"Until they're at least 4 years of age and weigh 40 pounds, they require well-designed safety devices to spread the force of impact when a car stops rapidly or in collision," said Cooney.

Cooney developed a program to encourage restraint usage with the Wisconsin Hospital Association and a group called the Physicians for Automotive Safety. He recommends only restraints that have stood up in dynamic crash tests like those that would be mandatory under the proposed government standard.

"Current government regulations, in effect since 1971, do not require dynamic testing so the tag, 'Meets or exceeds Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard 213' is not a sufficient guarantee that the device is crashworthy," Cooney said.

What should be avoided entirely are those devices, usually hand-me-downs from friends or relatives, which hook over the back of a seat.

"In a crash, these became a launching pad for the child and are outlawed by 213," Cooney said.

The Physicians for Automotive Safety publishes a pamphlet, "Don't Risk Your Child's Life!" which lists crash-tested devices on the market. It is available by sending 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed business envelope to Physicians for Automotive Safety, Dept. JT, P.O. Box 208, Rye, N.Y., 10580.

Crash-testing alone, however, does not guarantee the safety of a particular restraint for a particular car. The safety of a child restraint is usually measured by the limitation of the child's head movement and how well the forces are dissipated over his body.

Generally, restraints which utilize a second anchoring — a tether strap at the top — allow the least amount of head movement, but these restraints are not effective unless the second strap is in use.

Crash tests found that with the tether attached, one restraint restricted head movement to under 13 inches, providing a relatively safe clearance between the child's head and the interior of most vehicles. But testing of the same device without the strap showed head movement up to 25.7 inches, in which case the child's head could come in dangerous contact with the vehicle's interior.

Consumer groups noted that these restraints are difficult to install in some vehicles, and some groups are insisting that the new federal standard require that they meet the crash test requirements even without the strap attached.

'Private Courts' May End Case Backlog

By JANE SEE WHITE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Person is a portly, feisty attorney who is fed up with sluggish, backlogged courts. When he's mad, he acts. That's why Carl Person is setting up his own private court. Since he conceived the idea last year, Person has named 37 "judges" to his National Private Court; he says two are retired New York State Supreme Court justices. But Person's judiciary has handed down no decisions; no one's hired them yet to settle a case.

"I've got to market my National Private Court just the way you'd market soap. People don't just flock to new ideas without marketing," says the 42-year-old attorney, a beaming man with a disarmingly cherubic round face.

If this court-for-hire plan sounds a bit bizarre, consider the reaction of Merrill Clark, an attorney and the president of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

"I say more power to him. There has been a growing wave of thinking that there should be private methods for resolving disputes outside the courts."

Clark says Person's scheme "sounds like a very interesting experiment, a very novel idea."

The private court will handle civil disputes — no criminal matters, Person says. Both parties in a case will agree to take their differences to the private court. If one side is unhappy with the judge's ruling, they can seek to have it overturned by the private court's appellate division.

"This court is really just arbitration under the law," says Person. "It will operate under the state and federal arbitration statutes. The key difference in NPC is that you can appeal and you can't under arbitration."

And how will does the private court propose to enforce its rulings? A snap, says Person. "Any award by arbitrators is automatically filed in the state or federal court. They send out marshals to collect."

Person's private court isn't his first sally off the beaten legal path. A Harvard Law alumnus, his first job was at the prestigious New York firm where John Mitchell and Richard Nixon were then partners. He left for a smaller firm.

"When you're an associate in a big firm, you don't get to do what you want. You do what they tell you," he says now. Eventually Person rented his own office in lower Manhattan and began to practice with institutional justice:

He says he was among the first attorneys to file a suit for the right to advertise his services. He's now seeking bar association clearance to start a computerized lawyer-referral service. A federal court aided with Person when the city bar group challenged his plan to sell shares in lawsuits — offering a percentage of whatever amount the court awarded, if it made an award. And now his private court.

"I just get so goddamned angry about the way the system works — the lines, the crowding, I have a suit that's 6 years old. With my court, people with a dispute can make an appointment to go to the judge's office and let him decide it," Person says.

Person's "judges" are attorneys. To qualify for his judiciary, they fill out a 15-page questionnaire detailing their legal qualifications, specialties and interests.

The information is computerized and when there's a fight over, say, condominiums, Person can extract a list of "judges" with condominium expertise.

The private court's fee is set in advance; about 75 percent will go to pay the judge, Person says. Which party pays the fee is negotiable.

Judges have been recruited so far only in New York and New Jersey. "When the thing gets going I'll expand it. I want NPC to be a nationwide supplement to the federal court system."

Person plans to market his scheme by sending information booklets to attorneys handling suits now on file in Manhattan and Brooklyn. Then, he says the thing will get going.

"It's to the advantage of both parties — it's quicker and it's cheaper. Look, if I think you owe me $500,000 and I want to get the thing over with. I can just tell you that I'll reduce my claim to $250,000 if you'll use NPC."

"Another draw is that NPC should be able to settle disputes within four months instead of dragging on for years, so both parties will spend less on attorneys' fees. It's less threatening to the defendant if he wins or loses — it's a private court, so only the judge's ruling will be public."

RESCUE MISSION — An Air Force helicopter and a C-130 re-fueling tanker flew over western New Mexico this weekend, from Kirtland Air Force Base in Albuquerque to Window Rock, Ariz. The crafts were dispatched to airlift some 15 families reportedly stranded on the Navajo Reservation. The families were all right, but three Navajo patrolmen sent in to aid the families had to be airlifted out of the area. (USAF Photo through Associated Press)

Beaned Patron Suing Store

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A pyramid of bean cans that cascaded on a customer who picked a can from a grocery store display is the object of a $15,000 lawsuit.

Janet Parks filed suit Friday in Jackson County Circuit Court against A&P food stores, charging that she was cut and bruised when the display toppled onto her.

Miss Parks claims she suffered headaches after the incident and asks damages. Her suit says the cans were stacked in a pyramid form "so assembled and displayed on sale to entice and invite customers to take cans so displayed for their purchase."

Town Replaces Misspelled Signs

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — New "Merry Christmas" signs in Italian will be going up on downtown lampposts Monday. The originals, it turned out, didn't say quite what they were supposed to say.

The original banners, put up by the Chamber of Commerce, said "Bona Natale."

However, the Italian Cultural Institute in New York City said that in at least one Italian dialect, "bona" can mean

Women Read More Books, Study Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women are the most avid book readers in the country, according to a study reported by the National Geographic Society, particularly in the income bracket between $20,000 and $30,000.

The society said a national survey conducted by the research firm of Yankelevich, Skelly and White for the Book Industry Study Group found that half of all Americans age 16 or older read one or more books in the six months surveyed, with one out of four of these reading 10 or more books.

On the other hand, the survey showed that newspapers and magazines are the sole reading fare for 39 percent of the population, while as many as 12 percent don't read anything. And if children aren't book readers by the time they leave high school, said Arthur H. White of the research firm, there is little chance of converting them.

Young Suspect Jailed In City Beating, Stabbing Incident

An 18-year-old Lubbock man was being held in county jail late Sunday in connection with the beating and stabbing of a 68-year-old man earlier that day.

Officers were called to a stabbing at about 12:54 a.m. Sunday in the 1700-block of Avenue B and found Willie Williams lying unconscious on the ground. Reports show Williams of 1821 Ave. B had been stabbed across the eyes and had been beaten about the face and head.

Williams was undergoing surgery late Sunday at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

Police said the incident followed an apparent argument between the two men.

In another assault, Robert Burke, 22, of Lubbock was in satisfactory condition at Health Sciences Center Hospital with a stab wound suffered early Sunday outside a bar at 19th Street and Avenue R.

Burke told police that he had been watching a fight on the parking lot. He said one of the men who was fighting began hitting one of his friends and that when he tried to pull the man off his friend, the man pulled a knife and stabbed him once in the left side.

Two men, pretending to be telephone repair men, talked their way into a 76-year-old Lubbock woman's home Saturday night and took two watches and $223 from her at gunpoint.

Bessie Howington of 711 29th St. reported that about 6 p.m. she received a call from a man, who said he was with the telephone company, and that he told her the telephones in her area were not working properly and that two repair men were being sent over to check her phone.

When the "repair men" arrived at her residence, one of the men pretended to check her phone and suddenly ripped it from the wall, reports show.

Mrs. Howington said the two suspects pulled handguns on her and told her, "If your husband wasn't so tight, we wouldn't have to do this." The 76-year-old woman gave the robbers money, and one of the men took two watches from her jewelry box.

Before fleeing the scene, the duo ordered Mrs. Howington to lie on the living room floor and tied her with a piece of phone cord and some clothing. The woman said she was able to untie herself and went to a neighbor's house to notify police.

One of the suspects was tall, bearded and had brown hair and the other had blonde hair and was wearing a yellow jacket.

A man fled with Karen Sue Pleasanton's purse while she was parked at a club at 1900 50th St. early Sunday.

Miss Pleasanton said that she was sitting in her car with the door open when a man came up to her and asked if the club was still open. She said the man suddenly reached for her purse and fled behind the club to a waiting pickup truck.

She said the man was white, 18-to-25-years old, tall and thin and had blond hair.

In reported burglaries and break-ins, Delfino Rodriguez Jr. of 608 31st St. said that thieves carted off more than $1,200 in goods from his home sometime between 3:30 p.m. Saturday and 2 a.m. Sunday. The stolen property included a revolver, portable television set, vacuum cleaner, electric typewriter, CB radio and stereo system. Someone removed Gretchen Blackburn's $500 stereo system from the party room at an apartment complex at 5204 50th St. sometime between 2:30 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. Sunday.

Burglars made off with jewelry and a stereo system from Van Sharpley's residence at 4518 54th St. sometime between 7:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

After breaking a sliding glass door, thieves made off with more than $5,600 in property from Page McDonnell's home at 6908 Flint Ave. sometime between 6 p.m. Friday and 11:45 a.m. Saturday. The stolen goods included clothing, two portable color TV's, a color TV console, jewelry and a stereo system.

Arthur Williams of 102 Waco Ave. returned home Saturday morning to find that someone had taken $450 worth of new clothes from his home.

Burglars took about $4,500 worth of property from Jim Bill Overcash's vehicle, which was parked at 5200 34th St., sometime between 11:45 a.m. Saturday and 2 a.m. Sunday. The stolen goods included a payroll check, four dress suits, two checkbooks, a diamond ring and $110.

Levelland Youth Drowns At Lobo Lake

LEVELLAND (Special) — An 11-year-old Levelland boy died at Cook Memorial Hospital Sunday afternoon about an hour after he had fallen into the icy water at Lobo Lake.

Eddie Loa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerardo Loa Jr., died in the emergency room at 5:50 p.m.

Levelland fire and police personnel were called out to the scene at 4:52 p.m. and pulled the boy from the icy water within nine minutes.

Levelland police reports indicated Loa and a 13-year-old companion were chasing ducks on the frozen lake when the ice gave way from under them.

Freddy Merrill, 28, of Levelland, who was feeding the ducks at the lake, saw the 13-year-old youth struggling in the water and was able to pull him from the 15-degree water.

The boy then told Merrill that the Lobo youth also had fallen into the water. Merrill went back into the water but could not find the boy.

Services for the boy are pending with George C. Price Funeral Directors here.

The youngster was born in Levelland and was a fifth grader at St. Michael's Catholic School.

Other survivors include two brothers, Daniel and Gerardo III, both of the home; a sister, Patricia of the home; his grandparents, Maria Rios and Gerardo Loa Sr., both of Levelland; and great-grandparents, Gabriel Vasquez and Catinio Estrada, both of Levelland.

Arms Costs Hurt East-West Blocs

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — NATO allies have expressed concern at a meeting of defense ministers here that the United States might be backing off its pledge to increase defense by 3 percent annually in real terms.

On the other side of the ideological divide, Romania and Bulgaria are opposing the defense burdens which the Soviet Union wants to impose upon them as part of their commitment to the Warsaw Pact.

Each side blames the increased military spending of the other as the justification for increasing its own.

Meanwhile, the East-West Vienna talks on reducing forces in central Europe remain stalemated.

"Other nations are very much concerned about what the United States military capabilities, which in turn rest on U.S. military budgets will be," U.S. Defense Secretary Harold Brown acknowledged at the end of the ministers' meeting.

In justifying their 3 percent increase, the NATO allies point to a 4.5 percent annual increase of military spending by the Warsaw Pact for the past decade or more.

Yet at their meeting in Moscow last month, Warsaw pact defense ministers cited the NATO measures as justifying a further boost in their spending.

Of course, each side describes its own spending as defensive and the other's as aggressive.

"Soviet forces already exceed those required for defensive purposes," the NATO ministers said in their communique.

This vicious cycle of threat and counterthreat ultimately places the United States in the same kind of dilemma that led Romania to revolt against its Warsaw Pact burdens.

Brown said the United States remains committed to the 3 percent target, but pointed out President Carter's difficulties in meeting it.

The president is faced, Brown said, "by competing domestic requirements for funding and the great importance of holding down inflation by reducing the budget deficit."

Some NATO countries see a certain amount of irony in all this, since it was Washington which had all along been pressuring its allies to meet the magic 3 percent goal, even though many of them were reluctant to take the concurrent risk of increasing their own inflation.

The fact that U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will not be coming to the meeting of NATO foreign ministers Thursday and Friday also has been badly received by some countries, which see this as an example of offhandedness that could illustrate a weakening of America's interest in NATO.

And Carter's handling of the neutron bomb issue as well as fears that America might be bargaining away so-called "Eurostrategic" military advantages in the SALT talks have led to perplexity on this side of the Atlantic.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. We are retired and have owned stocks of four companies for 20 years. My husband has "been married" to these stocks and wants to keep them. But I think we should sell now and put the money into corporate bonds or savings certificates so that we could live more comfortably.

A. I feel it would be nice to have more income so that we could do some of the things we're entitled to at this stage of the game. What is your opinion?

Q. Right in line with yours. I don't like to take sides against your husband. But I agree that he's making a mistake of staying with investments no longer suited for your family situation.

Of the four stocks you named in your letter, only one produces a high dividend yield. There would be nothing wrong with keeping that one. The other three are well suited for many people. They may do very well in the years ahead. But he should face the fact that they are no longer right for you.

Since you obviously need more income to really enjoy your retirement — something you're both certainly entitled to — the wise move would be to sell those three stocks and to put the money into higher-yielding investments.

Corporate bonds and insured savings certificates are natural choices. With the high interest available on bonds and certificates these days, you could "live a little."

Q. I have a total of $65,000 in savings certificates, a savings account and a checking account at my bank. If I transfer $25,000 from my savings account to a savings certificate in my name and my sister's name, will the entire $65,000 be covered by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.?

A. Yes. FDIC insurance at banks covers each depositor up to $40,000. The same thing applies to Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp. coverage at savings and loan associations. We're assuming, of course, that the bank is an FDIC member and that the S&L is an FSILC member.

It is, however, easy to extend the coverage past $40,000 — by having one account in your name, one in joint names, another in one name in trust for another name and so on. Many combinations are possible.

Any banker or S&L officer can show you how to work this out.

Q. I began investing in a mutual fund — supposedly a "growth" fund — in 1962. I invested $9,822 of my own cash and received $7,361.55 of income dividend and capital gains distributions — making my total cost $17,183.55. I have my records to prove this.

Recently, I redeemed all my shares and received $12,240. So, I took a loss of exactly $4,943.55. Will the fund send me a statement I can use to report this as a capital loss on my income tax return, or must I write them and make such a request?

A. Many — not all — mutual funds send statements, automatically, to shareholders who redeem. In most such cases, the statement showing the profit or loss comes with the redemption check.

Since the fund you had is evidently one of the laggards in this matter, I suggest you write and request — "demand" would be a better word — such a statement.

Even though you picked a poor-performing fund and chose a bad time to cash in, it's clear that you kept concise records. Assuming those records are the confirmation slips you received each time you invested and reinvested, you have all the proof you need to document your loss when you file your income tax return.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For a list of growth stocks, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to William A. Doyle, care of King Features Syndicate, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

CHRISTMAS TRIMMINGS — Decorative Christmas pillows can turn your living room into something special for the holidays. It's a collection to use now and to keep for Christmases to come — just as you would your favorite Christmas tree ornaments acquired through the years. And if your gift list is not yet complete, why not consider Christmas pillows as gifts?

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my husband and I went to a dinner party. The men were led into the library for coffee by the host while the hostess ushered the women into the living room. (I abhor this European custom!)

I heard the men laughing uproariously as I passed the library on my way to powder my nose.

While we were driving home I asked my husband what was so funny. He said, "Someone recited the three biggest lies in the world." I asked what they were. He teasingly replied, "Ask Ann Landers."

So — I'm asking. What are they? — New Canaan, Conn.

Dear Conn: (1) My wife doesn't understand me.

(2) The check is in the mail.

(3) I'm from the government and I'm here to help you.

Dear Ann: How about a kind word for the poor so-and-so's who have to work with management's relatives? I've been reading your column for years and have never seen this problem discussed. The firm for which I work is loaded with kin. Not only are there two sons but a son-in-law, some nieces and nephews and cousins. The competition is terrific and there's a lot of in-fighting. In the meantime, the non-relatives become discouraged because they don't see much chance of advancement with so many members of the family around.

I often wonder why the relatives who hire their kin don't realize they are doing everyone an injustice. The competent person doesn't need the "advantage." He could make it without having strings pulled. More important, the satisfaction of doing it on your own is infinitely greater. Please wise them up, Ann. — Had It Up To Here

Dear Had It: There's a grain of validity in your complaint, but some relatives have greatly enhanced and even saved the business into which they were taken. It isn't fair to make sweeping generalizations about this — or anything else — but I'm printing your letter because it is a

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
When will I ever learn that many of the theories of child raising can be injurious to your mental health?

The latest one that will drive you to the ledge is, "Discuss your child's punishment with him." Maybe if you're dealing with a member of the American Bar Association, justice could be served, but face it, children are concerned with only one goal — saving their own skins.

I said to one of my kids the other day, "I want to talk to you."

"I vote 'NO!'" he said. "How can you vote 'no' when I haven't told you what the problem is?"

"I can tell by the look in your eye."

"Let us deal with some hypothetical facts first," I said. "Suppose you had a 17-year-old boy who wanted to borrow the car for an evening and when he returned it, there was mud all over the tires and fenders, onion rings in the upholstery and the gas gauge was on E?"

"What color is the car?"

"What difference does that make?"

"Mud shows up on a darker car to be much more than it is on a lighter car."

"Then you don't feel the borrower should wash the car or vacuum the onion rings out of the car?"

"You are assuming that the onion rings were put there by the borrower. The age of the rings would have to be checked to see if they were old or new."

"And what about the empty gas tank?"

"I think it is reasonable to assume that if it were after midnight, the borrower would not have the opportunity to fill the tank as most stations close at 11."

"I don't think the borrower would have filled the tank even if he had the money."

"Then you are saying that the borrower is indeed underfinanced and should have an increase in allowance if he is to support a borrowed car in the manner to which the lender is accustomed?"

"Go to your room and stay there the rest of the evening."

"You sure showed him," said my husband. "He's stuck up there in that dreary bedroom with a color TV set, a telephone, soft bed, stereo, and two deserts and you're down here with all the dirty dishes to do."

I'm tough. But I'm fair.

new subject to this column and may be of special interest to those who are walking in your moccasins.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will print my letter so all the child-molesters who read it will get an idea of the anguish they can cause.

When my husband was 14 he was molested by a homosexual relative. He went straight when he was 19. Two years later we met and married.

We have had nine happy years together and two beautiful children. Everything was fine until three weeks ago. He suddenly decided to take a ten-day trip "by himself" — just left a note and took off.

When he returned I guessed what had happened. He was accompanied on the trip by a person who is a known homosexual in our community.

I love my husband and don't want to end our marriage. He loves me and we are both getting psychiatric help. I just want the horns out there to know that seducing a normal male can ruin his entire life if he marries a woman who doesn't have compassion. — I Do

Dear Do: A "normal" male cannot be turned into a homosexual by a single incident. Your husband had the tendency or he would not have followed that pattern from 14 to 19 years of age.

It's good that you are both in therapy. It can't hurt and it might help. But don't expect miracles, dear. Chances are good that he will go off again periodically.

"Sexual freedom" presents a difficult decision for teenagers and their parents. Ann Landers offers down-to-earth advice in her new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It — A Guide for Teens and Their Parents." For each booklet, send 50 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ 7 ♥ 1094 ♦ KQJ6 ♣ AQ1054
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three diamonds. We realize that this is something of an underbid, but we want to leave as much room as possible to explore for the right contract and are reluctant to bypass three no trump. It is unlikely that partner will pass. Since we have made a two-over-one response and then raised his second suit, we must have a reasonable hand.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 2 ♥ Q87 ♦ K1053 ♣ AKQ82
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ 2 ♥ 3 ♠ Pass
3 NT Pass 4 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Bid four spades. It might seem strange to give preference with a singleton when you have three cards in partner's second suit, but consider the auction. North must have six or seven good spades and only four hearts. Playing at a heart contract, repeated leads in diamonds could kill the hand. With spades as trumps, declarer will not be faced with this threat.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ K ♥ AKQJ92 ♦ Q854 ♣ A6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♥ Pass 3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Your fitting honors in partner's suits have increased the strength of your hand and prospects for slam are excellent—if you have no more than one fast diamond loser. To get across to partner your concern about the diamond suit, we suggest a jump over game to five hearts. With the other suits bid, partner should realize exactly what your problem is.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 1072 ♥ KQ ♦ A83 ♣ AKQ94
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 3 ♥ Pass 3 NT ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. Don't do anything to disturb this contract. The opponents will certainly go down in three no trump, so go ahead and take your plus score. If you double, you only give them the chance to wriggle out into a makable contract, such as four diamonds, or even four hearts or four spades.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ A ♥ AK965 ♦ 872 ♣ 9532
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ 1 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five diamonds. It sounds as if partner has six diamonds and only four clubs, so you should play in his long suit. A cue-bid of four spades is a possibility, but we would like to have at least one honor in a minor suit for that action. We don't want to encourage partner to bid slam when we are minimum for our bidding to this point.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 9853 ♥ K10 ♦ AKQ92 ♣ 72
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Your hand is most suitable to partner, and slam is a possibility. Unfortunately, you have no good bid available. You have nothing to cue-bid, and blasting into Blackwood with two low clubs is a losing tactic. The only way you can describe your general values and fine trump support is by jumping to five spades. Partner will know what is required in the unbid suits to make a slam.

Q.7—East-West vulnerable,

as South, you hold:
♠ Q10962 ♥ QJ83 ♦ J952
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ 1 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Defensively, your hand couldn't be worse. Not only are you unlikely to contribute as much as a trick, but your spade length could damage your partner's defensive prospects. The sensible thing to do is to try to buy the contract. Bid four spades. Offensively, your hand will produce quite a few tricks, and you could make the level too high for West to contemplate further action at this vulnerability.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ AKJ ♥ AJ1084 ♦ 7 ♣ K872
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Don't lose your cool and start raising spades immediately, despite the fact that you hold three honors in support of partner's suit. Your hand is good enough for two more bids, so you should plan to show your shape. Start by rebidding two clubs, and then support spades at your next turn. If partner passes two clubs, don't worry. You will have missed a game only if partner has misbid.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

To wash small bows and narrow ribbons, dissolve a little detergent in water in a jar large enough to give plenty of room.

Add the bows or ribbons, cap the jar tightly, and shake it vigorously several times.

For badly stained bows or ribbons, you can soak them in the jar for a short time. Keep up the good work. — Mrs. John R. Miller

CRISP DUCKLING WITH CHINESE RICE

DUCKLING:
2 ducklings, about 4 to 5 lbs. each, thawed if frozen salt and pepper
2 cloves garlic, mashed
½ cup peanut oil
½ cup soy sauce
½ cup dry red wine

CHINESE RICE:
½ cup peanut oil
1 cup chopped scallions (or green onions)
3 cups long grain rice
½ cup soy sauce
6 cans (10¼ ozs. each) condensed chicken broth
2 eggs
2 tbsps. water
2 tbsps. peanut oil
scallion curls, radish fans for garnish

To prepare duckling: Sprinkle ducklings inside and out with salt and pepper. In a bowl, mix garlic, oil, soy sauce and wine. Brush wine mixture over the inside and outside of the ducklings. Place ducklings side by side on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Prick skin all over with the tines of a fork. Roast in a preheated oven at 325 degrees for 2½ to 3 hours, or until meat thermometer reaches 190 degrees, brushing ducklings every 30 minutes with wine mixture.

To prepare rice: Heat oil in a large skillet or saucepan. Add scallions and rice and saute until rice is golden. Stir in soy sauce and undiluted broth. Cover and simmer 25 to 30 minutes or until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender. Beat eggs and water in a small bowl. Heat oil in a large skillet. Pour in egg mixture and cook without stirring until egg is firm. Cover skillet with a plate and invert to remove omelet. Slide omelet, uncooked side down, back into skillet. Cook 1 to 2 minutes or until omelet is firm. Cut omelet into ½-inch cubes and stir into rice. Season to taste with salt. Serve rice with duckling garnished with scallion curls and radish fans if desired. (Serves 8)

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "Here is a hand that really shows the difference between good rubber bridge and good duplicate play."

Alan: "It sure does. I guess that if this hand were played a hundred times in match point duplicate, 88 declarers would go down one at three notrump."

Oswald: "They would all rise with dummy's queen of spades. They would count one spade winner plus two in each red suit and five clubs for a starting total of ten tricks. Then they would play out their ace and queen of clubs. West would show out and all of a sudden they would find themselves held to eight tricks."

Alan: "A good rubber bridge player would note that he would only need four club tricks to win the rubber. He would decide to guard against that bad club break by leading dummy's ten of clubs and letting it ride. He would feel slightly silly if West scored a trick with the jack but he would be sure of four club tricks and the rubber bonus."

Oswald: "That first-round finesse would be poor percentage in match points where overtricks are so important but it would sure be good play with a rubber at stake."

Film Finds Curtis 'In Trouble' Again

EILAT, Israel (AP) — As usual, Tony Curtis is in trouble. This time, he and Lou Gossett are a couple of wisecracking adventurers left to die in the Sahara Desert, who find themselves embroiled in a battle over water supplies to an African village. "I'm always a nice guy in trouble," Curtis said between takes on the set of

"It Rained All Night the Day I Left," a comedy-adventure being filmed in the desert near here. "I love that part," said Curtis, 53, who is making his 104th movie. "The characters never repeat themselves. There are always new subtleties, new variations to include. I never get tired of it." And apparently neither do audiences.

"It's entertaining. People are attracted to people a bit irreverent because that's what life is like," Curtis said. "And everybody likes to see the hero get the proverbial pie in the face. Well, I get it all through this movie." Partners Curtis and Gossett ("Fiddler" of TV's "Roots") become enmeshed in a mix of love and war with rich landowner

Sally Kellerman, her daughter Lisa Langlois and her rival, John Vernon (the tormented college dean of "Animal House"), before the whole escapade explodes in native rebellion. "We're kind of like 'I Spy,' only a bit hipper, because it's 10 years later," Gossett said, recalling the black-white team of Bill Cosby and Robert Culp in the hit TV series. "And in the end we wind up with nothing, but we're back together again."

The $5 million film, scheduled for release next year, is the first to be filmed under a Canadian-Israeli co-production treaty signed last March. Under the arrangement, interior scenes were filmed in Montreal in October, before cast and crew moved to Israel's Red Sea resort 200 miles south of Tel Aviv. A week of shooting at El-Arish in northern Sinai follows in late December.

Substituting for the African locale is a desolate patch of desert ringed by craggy stone peaks which has uprooted two plantation houses, stables and a primitive village. Impersonating other countries is nothing new for Israel, which works hard to lure foreign film companies. Because the many biblical-oriented films shot here, Israeli landscapes have served as backdrops for cowboy shoot-'em-ups and tales of Arabian intrigue.

Last summer, "Ashanti" used Israel to recreate Africa and Arabia, while in "The Big Red 1," Lee Marvin stormed onto a "Normandy Beach" just 20 miles north of Tel Aviv. "Of all the countries we have co-production agreements with, Israel has the most spectacular panoramas," said the Canadian production manager, Matthew Vibbert. He added that constant sunshine — Eilat averages one inch of rain annually — and low production costs were added incentives to film here.

About 60 percent of the film's investment comes from Canada, with the remainder divided between Israel and France, said Vibbert. "So responsibilities are divided three ways, with the great majority going to Canadians." Except for Americans Curtis, Kellerman and Gossett, the cast and crew are from the three co-producing countries.

Air Deaths Include Apparent Suicide

By The Associated Press
Six people died Sunday in three air crashes, including the apparent suicide of a pilot of a small plane.
He radioed a Portland, Ore., airport tower shortly before midnight Saturday that he planned to commit suicide, Coast Guard officials said. Nearly two hours later a Coast Guard helicopter pilot saw the craft nose-dive 1,000 feet into the choppy Pacific Ocean.
Seattle Coast Guard Lt. Phillip Johnson identified the victim as Les Reynolds, 28, of Salem, Ore.
"He (Reynolds) gave no indication why he was doing what he was doing," Johnson said.
A search Sunday by a Coast Guard helicopter failed to locate Reynolds' body or debris from the crash. Ownership of the plane and origin of the flight were not immediately determined.
Five persons were killed when a military cargo plane crashed early Sunday in a farm field short of a runway at Fort Campbell Army base in southwestern Kentucky, a military spokesman said.

Lt. Col. A.T. Brainerd, public information officer at the base, said the Air Force C-130 Hercules crashed as it was preparing to land on a flight from Little Rock Air Force Base in Arkansas.
It was the seventh fatal crash of a C-130 from the Little Rock base since the planes were deployed there in 1970.
Sgt. Gary Loudon, information officer for the Little Rock base, identified four of the dead as Lt. Col. Larry G. Hodge, 40, of Marion, Ky., the aircraft commander; Capt. Earl R. Gray Jr., 27, of Easton, Kan., navigator; Staff Sgt. Joseph M. Babicz, 28, of Chicago, flight engineer; and Sgt. Donald G. Estes, 26, of Melbourne, Ark. Loudon said all four lived in Jacksonville, Ark.
The fifth victim was not immediately identified, pending notification of relatives.
In the crash of another military airplane Sunday, the pilot of a one-seat jet fighter ejected safely before the plane crashed at the end of a runway at England Air Force Base in Louisiana. The A-7D crashed shortly after takeoff.

Post Office Takes Role Of Surrogate St. Nick

By JERRY SCHWARTZ
NEW YORK (AP) — Terrence doesn't want much for Christmas, just a little proof that Santa Claus really exists.
"I waited for you last year, but you didn't show," he writes. "But I sure hope you can come this year because my mother couldn't get us anything and she said it might happen again this year."
He says he wants only a few things — some clothes and a few toys for his sisters, and "if you can give my mother something special. She said a turkey, but I said something special."
"Oh yes," he adds, "Santa Claus what do you want?"
Terrence's letter from the Bronx sits in a cardboard box in the city's general post office, along with hundreds of other letters from rich and poor children to the man in the red suit.
If the Santa mail follows the pattern of previous years, 5,000 to 6,000 letters will have arrived here by Christmas from every state and from many foreign countries. Some of the mail is addressed here because people are aware of the program, other letters are forwarded by post offices elsewhere.
Most of the letters — the ones asking for "Star Wars" toys and digital clock radios in gleeful juvenile greediness — will go unanswered.
But the U.S. Postal Service will try to help the others have a merry Christmas. For more than 40 years, the Postal Service has collected donations to help make Christmas wishes come true for the needy. About 150 families received gifts last year.

Starting Monday, the letters will be put on public view. New Yorkers will be allowed to take letters home and play Santa Claus to as many poor children as their pocketbooks allow.
"It is my hope that the public's response will assure no loss of any child's faith in Santa Claus," said Postmaster John R. Strachen.
In previous years, postal officials noted, one pet dealer has asked that all requests for dogs, cats, fish and other animals be forwarded to him. He has been successful in placing pets with 80 percent of the requests, and every pet has been a gift.
But there are never as many Santa Clauses as poor children.

"I have 2 sisters, but I don't have no dad he left us when I was real little," wrote Tina, 12, of Moore, S.C. "And my mother is not able to work this year. So we won't get no Christmas this year unless you help us. Mostly I need clothes. And shoes. And I would love to have a toy or two."
Elizabeth of East Elmhurst, N.Y., said: "I am writing to you because me and my family won't have a lot of money. I was wondering if you could get us something of small value, like something for my Mother and 2 sisters and brother and I. ... Thank you because I really want this Christmas to be a good one, not like last year when my mother didn't get anything and my father didn't get anything just to give us something."

Of course, there are also the light-hearted letters. There was one from Brian of the city's Flushing section, who dubbed himself a "half and half boy. Half of me is good and half of me is bad. Since I was a half and half boy most of the time, here is half of my list."

Soviet Press Lauds Russian Farmers

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet farmers overcame bad weather to achieve a record harvest this year because they "worked enthusiastically, using all their diligence and skill," the weekly Moscow News said Sunday.
The newspaper credited the Soviet policy of spending $480 million on capital investment in agriculture the past 12 years, more than in the previous 49 years. A bumper crop of 235 million tons of grain was announced by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev last week.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM

The Newspaper Bible.

Luke 6: 47-49; 7: 1-7, The Living Bible

47 But all those who come and listen and obey Me

48 Are like a man who builds a house on a strong foundation laid upon the underlying rock. When the waters rise and break against the house, it stands firm, for it is strongly built.

49 But those who listen and don't obey are like a man who builds a house without a foundation! When the floods sweep down against that house, it crumbles into a heap of ruins."

CHAPTER 7

When Jesus had finished His sermon, He went back into the city of Capernaum.

2 Just at that time the highly prized slave of a Roman army captain was sick and near death.

3 When the captain heard about Jesus, he sent some respected Jewish elders to Him to ask Him to come and heal his slave.

4 So they came and began pleading earnestly with Jesus to come with them and help the man. They told Him what a wonderful person the captain was. "If anyone deserves your help, it is he," they said.

5 "For he loves the Jews and even paid personally for building us a synagogue!"

6, 7 Jesus went with them; but just before arriving at the house, the captain sent some friends to say, "Sir, don't inconvenience yourself by coming to my home, for I am not worthy of any such honor or even to come and meet You. Just speak a word from where You are, and my servant boy will be healed!"

Li'l Mam'selle Holiday Fashions Reflect Leadership, Selection

Holiday Magic — seldom has it been more in evidence than now... at Li'l Mam'selle Young Fashions, 2147-A 50th St.
Notable in the fresh, new and extensive stock is the black magic motif... in velvet and satin... for all occasions.
Yes, there's holiday magic... for evening, for dancing... for street wear and all. You'll thrill at the disco wearables in satin, softly draped quiana for the slinky look, and in pastels and bright colors.
The popular new holiday colors and fabrics are presented by Li'l Mam'selle in the most gorgeous array of fashions yet.
(There are dresses and sweaters, too, in the dressy or tailored look... so right for the season or for gifting.)

"We'd love to have you come in and browse; we know you'll love what you discover."
Free Gift Wrapping
Free gift wrapping is featured, and Li'l Mam'selle, in Oakwood Center, welcomes layaway, Visa and Master Charge purchases, and provides a gift certificate service.
One may select at Li'l Mam'selle from fashions stocked in girls sizes 7 through 14 and petite and junior sizes 1 through 11.
New lines are found in the already-elite stock, and one soon discovers that brand names are important at this better store, with labels one can respect and enjoy.

(Even with all the magic holiday wearables, it is emphasized that Li'l Mam'selle doesn't minimize the all-season needs of the career girl, with dressy and tailored pantsuits, dresses and skirts, as example, that can enhance any business woman's appearance.
"Mothers are welcomed to shop with us, along with their daughters, as we accommodate each with delightful apparel."
"Come in, let's be sure we're ready for Christmas and the holiday activities; let Opal Jones, Ola Hamilton, Monta Beasley and the entire staff assist in the 'right' wardrobe items for you, our cherished customer."

Endura Steel Siding Savings, Other Benefits Explained By House Clinic

"Give the entire family a Christmas present this year!"
"Let the House Clinic show you how to be a Santa long to be appreciated and remembered; let the House Clinic show you how you can eliminate all of your painting (wouldn't this be a thoughtful gesture for a parent's house, as example?)
On Any Surface
The House Clinic, at 1922 Ave. E, phone 747-4436 in Lubbock, can cover your complete outside walls with quality Endura vinyl-coated steel siding that is especially designed to go over any outside surface of the home, regardless if it is stucco, asbestos or even brick!
And note these other factors of special import at this time:

"Beat Price Rise"
"Buying now can avoid the increase in steel costs that looms after Jan. 1. Also, no payments need be made until February 1979 if one desires to finance (financing is available; ask for details)."
Special Stamp Offer
And also:
The House Clinic is now giving one the choice of 10,000 S & H or Gold Bond stamps with all complete jobs!
"Endura is the only steel siding in the industry that is guaranteed against hail," the folks at House Clinic emphasize, inviting inquiry about the special benefits and provisions of this guarantee.
The House Clinic has over 85 years of combined experience on its staff; so you know you can depend upon them to get the job done, right.

House Clinic is the exclusive distributor in this area for Endura Steel, as well as complete overhang covers manufactured by the same reliable company.
"Stop in and visit at 1922 Ave. E in Lubbock for complete details on how to eliminate painting, increase property value and save on utilities.
Or call collect to 747-4436 for more information.
All the products at House Clinic are manufactured in the United States. Be sure to learn of the hail and materials guarantees that are added benefit... at House Clinic, 1922 Ave. E.

AT HEADQUARTERS FOR SKI ENTHUSIASTS — Ski equipment including finest in apparel joins with the professional assistance at Ski-Lubbock Sports to underscore the fact that 'ski fun begins here.' Shown with some of the quality ski lines and wearing apparel from the selective stock are Peggy Reynolds and Mary Garlock.

Ski-Lubbock Sports Providing Sure Solution For Fun, Gifts

'Tis the ski fun season, with great conditions on the slopes and with great assistance from Ski-Lubbock Sports!

For the impending ski trip or for Christmas gifting solutions, one can turn to Ski-Lubbock Sports, 2918 4th St., for "everything for the skier."

Ski-Lubbock Sports is easy to reach from just about anywhere... Texas Tech, LCC, the loop and principal cross-town arteries.

Traditionally providing the very best ski equipment available, this Lubbock firm has stocked even more extensively for the current season.

Not only is the stock of apparel and all ski equipment most impressive, but Ski-Lubbock Sports is manned by dedicated, top-notch specially-trained "pros."

"Our staff is professional in every way, and dedicated to serving you. If you are a skier or ski enthusiast, you know what it means to have the proper equipment and clothing, have it fitted or mounted right, and have your questions answered authoritatively. You can depend on our staff."

"Put yourself in our hands" is the qualified invitation of this staff whose whole job is to assure maximum satisfaction, correct fitting, everything that is right for the avid ski enthusiast or the rank beginner.

(Isn't this the type Santa you can appreciate?)

Personal Service Feature

Some facts of immediate interest at Ski-Lubbock sports are worthy of special mention:

(1) For the convenience of out-of-town customers, Ski-Lubbock Sports is glad to arrange appointments at other than normal shop hours. Simply call 747-5748 or 747-7740, and late appointments will gladly be arranged, even at hours other than the extended pre-Christmas hours. This is the personalized service way of business at Ski-Lubbock Sports.

Ski Reports

(2) A 24-hour ski report is provided; simply dial 747-6641 for latest conditions.

(3) Ski-Lubbock Sports maintains the finest repair facilities in the state, it is reported, and one should be sure all his or her present equipment is in readiness.

Ski clothing has been stocked, but fully!

The new colors for the season are like a rainbow in new fabrics, and Ski-Lubbock Sports is happy to present Roffe parkas and accessories, Demetre sweaters and Bogner apparel as new additions to their clothing lines this year, enriching the existing lines of Anba, Innsbruck, White Stag, Beconta and Bogner — all great names in the world of ski apparel.

Olin, Dynastar and Head quality ski lines, with Head added this year at Ski-Lubbock Sports, make for sure satisfaction.

Tyrolia bindings, with 25mm of lateral elasticity in the toe, have been added to the existing Salomon and Look systems. All have high shock absorption and quick return to center force characteristics. Step-in or turntable types are available.

The award-winning Hanson, as well as the Dolomite lines, comprise the ski boots stocked, in a full price range.

The Hanson is truly a revolutionary boot designed around the foot, providing comfort and warmth, with the latter obtained from the microcellular Elastomer sock-type inner boot with custom fitting obtained from a packet of fast-forming micraseran beads.

The Hanson boot, unlike most boots, provides separate thermal and foot form fitting systems.

The new Hanson boot, the Citation R, is designed for all-around performance and recreational skiing. Special features include lower liner and front tab as well as tapered back; these features together with the adjustable flex and Flottite reservoir system, make it ideal for skiers of all abilities.

The Citation is the best selling high performance boot in America and re-

About those fresh turkeys for Christmas... and of course from Prater's.

Deadlines Defined

Reserve orders are being taken now for pickup Dec. 18 through Dec. 22. All turkeys not picked up by the final date will be placed in open stock for sale.

Plenty Available

There is plenty of all the delicious Prater's products in stock at this time, and one is invited to check in a favorite supermarket or at the Prater's headquarters (just drive about two miles south of Loop 289 on University Avenue and look for the Prater sign on the left).

At the Prater plant, clean throughout, there is noticeable attractive decor and ease in shopping. Everything is modern and convenient, inside and out, and a huge paved entry and parking apron makes for easiest access.

turns with minor improvements, such as the one-piece shell thickened in selective areas to further improve durability and flex pattern.

The Avanti, a standout for the past three seasons in both competition and aggressive recreational skiing, is the only ski product to be selected last year by Fortune Magazine as one of the 25 best-designed products in the world!

Then there is the Esprit designed especially for women. The low back and wrap-around seamless liner fits the contours of a woman's leg.

Dolomite boots offer a lower foot profile, and the shell is of durable polyurethane construction, IOS standard sold configuration, and it is offered in three or four-buckle models. The Turbo, GTS and Espada are stocked in a full range of sizes and widths.

Fitting Specialists

Comfort and flex patterns are criteria in the selection of boots stocked, and Ski-Lubbock Sports recognized years ago that some feet were more difficult to fit than others. They set out to educate themselves in the art of boot fitting, and for the past three years have trained under the foremost boot fitter in the nation.

"Our purpose is to fit the boot to the foot and not to assume the foot is going to fit perfectly in all boots. Pronation and flat feet are common causes of problems, so if you have a boot problem, in many instances you can find relief from a good boot fitter."

Agricultural Investment Consultants Professionals In Management Systems

Absentee landlords and successful resident farmers alike profit from the specialized services of Agricultural Investment Consultants, Inc., the home-area professionals in the First National Bank Building, Suite 810, phone 765-9477 in Lubbock.

With the complexity of today's farming operations extending into phases unknown or overlooked by the operator of only a few years ago, a broad area of agricultural services can be of exceptional value in productivity gains, dollars-and-cents profits and ease of management.

Today's farming operation without question can be more effective with target market development, systems analysis, establishment of operating goals and policy, resource evaluation, cash flow analysis and risk management.

For the farmer interested in managing his money to maximum benefit, Agricultural Investment Consultants can be of measurable benefit... with its own personnel, with its application of methods personally tried and proven (some extending over decades of testing and proving). The company has access to specialists in almost every area of agriculture. Many of the company's support specialists are recognized authorities in their field.

In operation since 1969, Agricultural Investment Consultants is headed by Rob Anderson, vice president, and his father, Don Anderson, president. Both were born and reared in the area and are successful farmers, ranchers and businessmen. They are especially known and respected throughout the cotton industry. Rob is a Texas Tech graduate with BBA in Marketing; and Don also is a Tech graduate, especially active in regional and national cotton activities.

The Andersons' own operations have been utilized as a "proving ground" for most of the services they now make available to others. Rob has been involved since '73 and has used computerized accounting systems to improve cash flow management in the operation.

Not only do they call upon their own resources, but they assist and cooperate with other companies and institutions including lending agencies and trust departments, etc., in achieving the maximum return for each dollar invested. They operate management programs tailored to your needs — "a management program just for you", as they say.

Do any of the above factors, on first glance, appeal to you in your own program? If so, really exciting benefits can be discovered when you get full details!

Whether the need is revamping of administrative activities, development of a practical cash flow plan in your own operation, crop planning to minimize the risk (so important to us all) or if you just need the assistance of someone who can help you with new programs they have found successful in their own situation, then by all means let's get acquainted.

"Agricultural Investment Consultants, Inc., are your neighbor and friend making available a more professional approach to successful agriculture and ag-related business. May we have the opportunity of knowing you and discussing the advantages of management systems to supplement your modern farming program?"

Fireplace Screens, Tools, Accessories Included In Childress Hardware Stock

"There's nothing like a home fireside when the cold envelopes the area, when snow swirls outside and when the chilling wind whistles around the corners!

And in the Lubbock region, the heating units have come in for early-season use. Right? Did you find in your own situation that possibly a new screen was needed for the fireplace, or that tools and accessories were inadequate?"

"Or possibly you are considering a 'gift for the home' for a friend or relative."

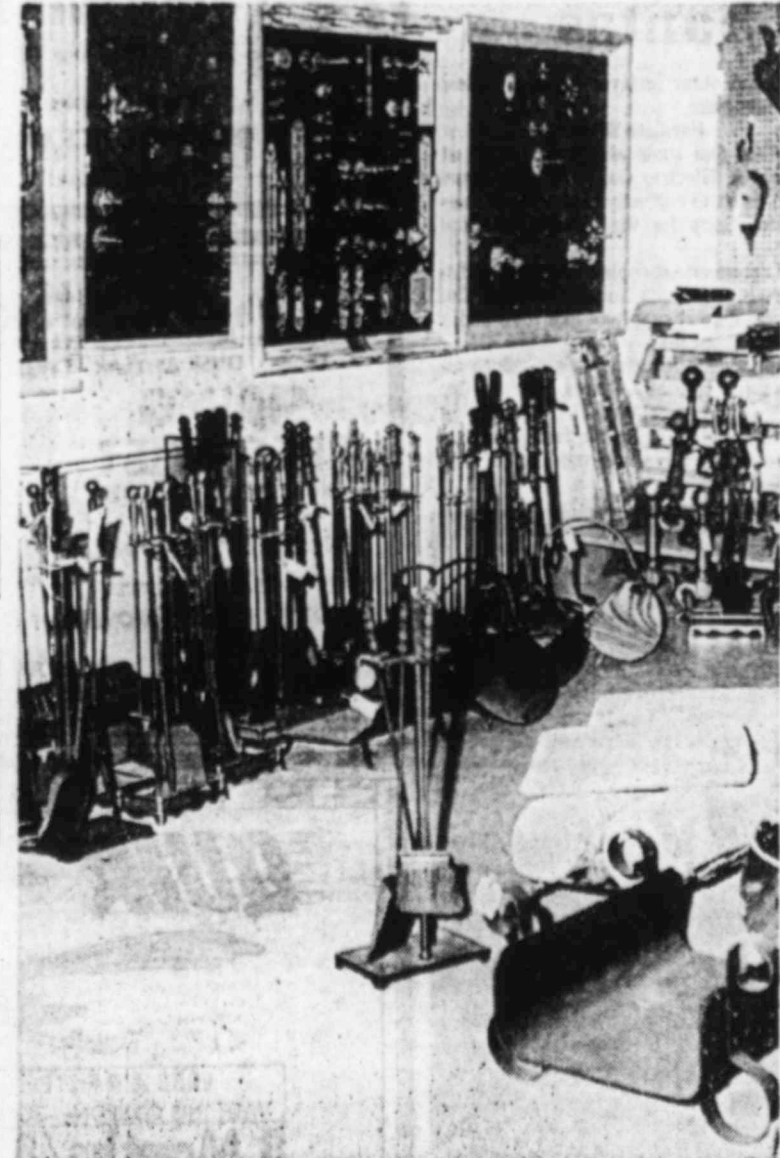

In any event, consider this: One can turn to Childress Hardware for the best in gas logs, stoves, grates, logholders, fireplace sets, screens, Dearborne space heaters, radiant heaters, wood stoves, andirons and other fireplace accessories and heat-related needs.

Childress Hardware Store, at 902 Main St. in Lubbock, has a long, long record of stocking needed items — and the heating line is no exception.

Fireplace Accessories
 A complete stock of accessories and major items is maintained, and one has only to see the wide selection grouped on the second level at Childress Hardware to recognize that here is the one-stop shopping center for winter heating needs.

Replacement Radiants
 Even replacement radiants are stocked among the practical items for which Childress is known.

MoDean's Holiday Happening, 'Guys Night' Benefit Shopper

It is a "Holiday Happening" underway until Christmas at MoDean's... home of "the finest ladies apparel for the finest!"
 Christmas readiness seldom has been more in evidence than at this so-attractive Sunshine Square (4515 50th St.) shop.
Special Guys Night
 And MoDean's is open until 9 p.m. every weekday night until Christmas.

Powers Jewelry Promises 'Short Drive Will Save'

"In a quandry regarding what to give... and getting nervous because time is running short for Christmas shopping and the budget just won't stretch much farther?"
 "There is a ready solution, however, that should minimize these pre-holiday situations."
 It is Powers Jewelry, in Wolforth, actually just a few minutes drive, in all probability, from one's home.
 Located just a block west of the school on Main in Wolforth, Powers Jewelry probably is best known for its watch repair ability and specials. (Check the Powers ad in this section for eye-opener repair specials.)
 Especially in this pre-Christmas season, one should not overlook the other benefits of Powers Jewelry... such as the selection of "wanted" items and names to trust.
Great For Gifts
 Select from Waltham, Elgin, Midas and Timex watches (Arnex pocket watches, too).
 And Cross pens and pencils, Art Carved class rings, Speidel bands, and more.
 Special orders are taken on Seth Thomas grandfather clocks, and if one hurries, delivery can be made before Christmas.
 Also select from the in-store stock of jewelry boxes, trophies, plaques, Win and Chrysler lighters, solid gold serpentine chains (14k and gold filled). Engraving is available.
 Custom jewelry work is expertly done, including diamond setting.
School Rings
 Class rings, including those for Texas Tech and any area school, can be ordered.
 Complete clock repair is a service, as is the watch repair.
 Powers Jewelry is essentially a family operation, with Melvin Powers as owner of the Jewelry and the adjacent Wolforth Barber Shop. Melvin is a former resident of Slaton, moving to New Mexico some 30 years ago where he managed the Furrs jewelry department in Albuquerque.
 Returning to the South Plains, he opened the Wolforth jewelry establishment just over two years ago. Reception to his type of service and products has been most gratifying. Folks seem to appreciate friendly service and prices that invite comparison!

 Powers is assisted in the jewelry by his wife, Bonny, and daughter, Lisa, a cheerleader in the Wolforth Schools; and by Dawn Hutcheson, a South Plains College student.
 Powers Jewelry is open from 9 until 6, Mondays through Saturdays. Both MasterCard and Visa purchases are welcomed.
 "Let us prove that a short drive will save a lot, whether the need is watch or clock repair, or selection from a quality line of jewelry items great for Christmas giving. Come out and renew acquaintance or become acquainted for the first time."

 the prolonging effect can help those prone to premature births and can harm those with full-term babies.
 "Benefits and risks are always present and must be weighed before using aspirin or any other drug," Semchyshyn emphasized. "If more stress is being caused by unrelieved headaches, it is sometimes better to use aspirin and alleviate the stress."

 Women are now more aware of the dangers of aspirin, but some women are developing a fear of all drugs, the doctor said.
 "Complications caused by aspirin are uncommon, but it is not healthy for a woman to take combinations of drugs, especially during the early stages of pregnancy," Semchyshyn said.

 "Aspirin use and dangers depend on many factors such as the mother's health and the state of pregnancy, so I recommend no medication without consulting a doctor."
 Dr. Bruce Bartholomew of the medical school's internal medicine department also said use of aspirin should be under a doctor's care, especially if use is prolonged.

 The HEW report warns that aspirin can cause stomach bleeding and can be dangerous in the amounts needed to reduce the inflammation and reduce the pain of arthritis and rheumatism.
 Bartholomew said many drugs irritate the stomach and intestinal tract, but that aspirin is almost irreplaceable in the treatment of on-going diseases.

 "No particular kind of person is prone to aspirin side effects, but the amount or presence of irritation varies greatly among individuals," Bartholomew said.
 The arthritis specialist said a person must choose the risk of aspirin or suffer the consequences of having arthritis or rheumatism without relief.

 "Taking aspirin under a doctor's care can make the difference between being employed or unemployed after five years of an arthritic disease," he said.

1,000 Flee Homes In Frankfort Flood

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Floodwater filled the streets of more than half of downtown Frankfort Sunday, forcing 1,000 people from their homes, interrupting water, gas and phone service and cutting off the state Capitol.
 Three days of rain had sent the Kentucky River spilling from its banks overnight in the worst flood on record in this city of 23,000.
 Schools were ordered closed until after the Christmas holidays.
No Deaths, Injuries
 There were no reports of deaths or injuries.
 Swollen by 3 inches of rain preceding an icy cold front that moved through the East on Saturday and runoff from the mountains of eastern Kentucky, the Kentucky River inundated nearly all of south Frankfort and low-lying areas in north Frankfort. The National Weather Service said the river crested at 48.3 feet overnight, more than a foot over the previous high mark set in a flood on Jan. 25, 1937.

No Damage Estimate
 Authorities said it was too early to make a damage estimate.
 Water extended from the banks of the Kentucky a half-mile to the Capitol, practically the only dry structure in south Frankfort, which was barred to all but essential traffic. Water was so deep on some streets that National Guard trucks could not get through and boats had to be used to evacuate people. Workers were also hindered by icy streets left when temperatures plunged into the teens early Sunday.
 The water was slowly receding Sunday, the weather service said, but none of the 1,000 people who evacuated their homes had returned.
Water Slowly Receding
 "It'll probably be late Tuesday or sometime Wednesday before we'll be letting any of them go back to their houses," said Joe Jennings, the city's fire chief and civil defense director.
 Mayor Jim Burch said a 5 p.m.-to-dawn curfew ordered Saturday would remain in effect Sunday night, mainly to keep away sightseers. Gov. Julian Carroll declared a state of emergency Saturday for flood-stricken parts of the state and postponed a previously scheduled special session of the Legislature from Monday to Wednesday.

Evacuations Along Ohio River
 In neighboring Ohio and West Virginia, hundreds of families have been evacuated along the Ohio River, which flooded at some spots this weekend and is expected to crest above flood stage at several points — including Second Street in Cincinnati — later this week.
 Floodwaters washed over pumps of the city water plant, forcing officials to cut off water to areas of the city hit by the flood.
 Gas and telephone service also was out for an undetermined number of people in scattered areas, including some in the higher areas of west Frankfort, which was untouched by the flood.
 Authorities said it probably would be Tuesday or Wednesday before those services could be fully restored.
Schools Disrupted
 School Superintendent Ollie Leathers said city schools probably would not reopen until after Jan. 1 because of damage from the high water.
 Jennings said authorities were worried Saturday night when three tanks filled with propane were torn loose by the floodwaters and swept into the downtown area, where they snagged near bridges. However, they were swept away by the river, he said. The tanks had not been located Sunday but were believed to have ended up in a rural area.

Vance Meets Sadat As Nobels Awarded

By United Press International
 Secretary of State Cyrus Vance arrived in Egypt Sunday to try to revive the Egyptian-Israeli peace talks, stalled at what President Anwar Sadat said was the "moment of truth."
 American officials said they still hope Egypt and Israel can sign a treaty by next Sunday — an agreement by Dec. 17 was a goal of the Camp David accords — and noted Vance is ready to try another round of "shuttle diplomacy" if it can help.
 Peace in the Middle East also was the prime topic Sunday in Oslo, Norway, where Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin received the 1978 Nobel Peace Prize. Sadat, who shared the award with the Jewish leader, stayed home to show his displeasure at the lack of progress in the talks with Israel. He sent a deputy, Sayed Marei, to accept the award in his place.

Vance issued a brief statement when he arrived in Cairo Sunday afternoon, then left immediately by helicopter for Sadat's Nile-side presidential retreat.
Talks Called 'Constructive'
 Vance and Sadat met privately for 70 minutes and agreed to meet again before the secretary of state flies to Israel to attend the funeral of former Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir.
 Neither man spoke to reporters after the session, which was originally scheduled to last two hours. An aide to Vance later described the meeting as "very good, full and constructive."
 U.S. officials said an Israeli-Egyptian treaty by the Dec. 17 target date would be a milestone on the road to a peace that would encompass all Arab nations now opposed to the accords.
 "Our common goal is a comprehensive peace and the early conclusion of the discussions between Egypt and Israel as an important step on the road to a comprehensive and lasting peace," Vance said on his arrival in Egypt.
 Vance is to fly to Jerusalem Tuesday for talks with Jewish leaders. He also will lead the 42-member U.S. delegation at the Meir funeral.
 Israel has steadfastly rejected Sadat's demands that the peace pact be linked to a timetable for negotiations on Palestinian rights, and also allow Egypt to honor its present defense commitment to other Arab nations.

Yule Shoppers Rankled By Blue Law Ban

 next weekend.
 The scene in most stores open Sunday was one of shoppers, armed with Christmas gift lists, reaching through rope barricades to inspect forbidden items, then reluctantly returning them in the face of signs which read, "Not sold on Sunday."
One Shopper Undaunted
 At least one shopper spotted by the A-J was not daunted by the warning. Ignoring the rope barrier and sign, he calmly picked up a package of mirrored tiles, paid for it at the cashier stand and left.
 The store manager acknowledged the cashier had been given a quick course in blue law bans but said it would be difficult to remember everything at once.
 A woman in another store was overheard wondering aloud whether it would be possible to "sneak" a wanted but banned item through the checkout stand. Evidently she decided not to risk it, for with a sigh, she returned it to the plastic-draped shelf.
 Children seemed the most puzzled by ropes that barred access to toy aisles. They were heard to quiz parents about the reason they couldn't have a new toy on that particular Sunday.
Pared Lists Bemoaned
 Other shoppers grouched to neighbors about having to work during the week and on Saturdays and Sundays for shopping. They didn't like having to pare their lists to fit blue law conditions, they said.
 One store manager told of an elderly woman who complained to him that she lived outside of town and that Sunday was the only day her daughter could take her shopping. She had planned to buy Christmas gifts at his store Sunday, he added.
 When asked whether he detected a loss of business because of the blue law regulations, he replied, after looking over the teeming aisles, he didn't believe so.
 Besides, he added, shoppers probably would plan now to do more of their buying on Saturdays to make up for Sundays.

Begin, Sadat Laud Carter
 At the Nobel awards ceremony in Oslo, Begin described the much-sought peace in poetic language as he accepted his share of the Peace Prize.
 "It is sunshine," the Israeli leader said. "It is the smile of a child, the love of a mother, the joy of a father, the togetherness of a family. It is the advancement of man, the victory of a just cause, the triumph of truth. Peace is all of these and more."
 Sadat warned in a message read by Marei that any peace not built on justice "would be a structure of sand which would crumble under the first blow."
 "We have now come, in the peace process, to a moment of truth which requires each one of us to take a new look at the situation," Sadat said.
 Both Begin and Sadat — as well as the Nobel award committee — reserved their warmest words for President Carter's role in bringing the Middle East leaders together at Camp David and getting them to sign the initial accords.
 The Nobel prize was awarded immediately after the Camp David summit in September, but Carter was not eligible to receive it because he had not been nominated in time.
 "Mr. Jimmy Carter unforgettably invested unsparring efforts, untiring energy and great devotion in the peace-making process," Begin said.
 Sadat's message paid tribute to Carter as "a man of the highest integrity ... whose signal efforts to overcome obstacles in the way of peace deserve our keenest appreciation."
 Carter was "the master builder responsible for the bridge that had to be built between Egypt and Israel," Aanes Lionaes, chairwoman of the Norwegian Nobel Committee, said.
Palestinians Vow Recovery
 In Beirut Sunday, Palestinian guerrilla leaders George Habash and Yasser Arafat vowed friendship and pledged to "recover every inch of our occupied territory" from Israel.
 The former enemies, now united in their opposition to the Camp David accords, reviewed a military parade and received the cheers of 5,000 people who shouted, "We will shed our blood for you!"

1978 Nobel Laureates

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Here are capsule sketches of the 1978 Nobel Prize winners, who received their awards in Stockholm and Oslo, Norway, on Sunday.
Physics — Shared by Pyotr L. Kapitsa, 84, of the Soviet Union for pioneer work in low-temperature physics, and Arno A. Penzias, 45, and Robert W. Wilson, 42, of Bell Laboratories, New Jersey, for exploring cosmic radiation and gave support to the "Big Bang" theory that the universe was created in a giant explosion.
Chemistry — Peter Mitchell, 58, of Britain for his discovery of the energy-generating potential of certain enzymes, the chemical process responsible for energy supply and transfer in all living cells.

House Leaders Plan 'Oversight' Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — If House leaders have their way, members of the new Congress which convenes in January will spend most of their time routing out government waste and corruption, and less time on new federal programs.
 Members of the hierarchy of both political parties say the demand among the voters is for less expensive, more efficient government.
 "People want more for their money," said Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, the third-ranking Republican leader in the House. "I would like to see us convene an oversight Congress," he said.
House Staff Meets
 Last week, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill arranged three days of meetings for House staff members on how to pinpoint government fraud and find out which federal programs are wasteful or have outlived their usefulness.
 So many people signed up that registration had to be cut off at 400 participants.
 Among the speakers was Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., who directed the congressional investigation that led to the indictments of dozens of officials of the General Services Administration.
 "People really have lost faith and confidence in Congress' ability to oversee the federal bureaucracy," Chiles said.
Funds Decimated By Fraud
 Noting a Justice Department estimate that one in every 10 federal dollars may be lost to fraud, Chiles said the GSA scandals may be only the start of disclosures of widespread wrongdoing among bureaucrats.
 Chiles said the GSA fraud was allowed to run so deep for so long, principally because no congressional committee ever gave more than a superficial examination of how its money was being spent.
 "The question Chiles said troubles him now is, 'How do we put GSA back together again?'"

Concorde Greeted At D/FW

GRAPEVINE (UPI) — A British Airways Concorde jetliner touched down Sunday to the sound of popping champagne corks and jubilant cheers from onlookers and officials at the mammoth Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, where the plane soon is expected to make flights to and from Europe.
 Motorists lined the highways into the airport, which officials say was designed for such supersonic transport jets, as the sleek plane swooped out of the sky shortly after 3 p.m. for its second appearance at D/FW.
 More onlookers pressed up against the airport's windows while approximately 250 invited guests waited in the Braniff Airways terminal for the arrival of the Concorde in the first of a series of demonstration flights before service to Europe can begin.
Braniff Starts Concorde Service
 Braniff will become the first domestic air carrier to use the Concorde under an interchange agreement with British Airways and Air France once the necessary government approval is granted. Braniff officials said they expect the go-ahead later this month to begin Concorde service between D/FW and Europe.
 A Concorde jet landed at D/FW five years ago during dedication ceremonies for the massive facility, but Sunday's appearance still drew gasps and comments from the onlookers gathered in the Braniff terminal as the plane's slender fuselage swooped out of the sky onto the long runway.
 The Concorde is expected to begin three flights a week to London's Heathrow Airport and two flights a week to Paris' Orly Airfield in January. Braniff currently has one Boeing 747 light daily from Dallas/Fort Worth to Gatwick Airport in suburban London.
Flight Time Cut To Seven Hours
 The airline claims the Concorde will cut the current flying time from 13 hours to seven. Federal law limits the plane's speed over land to approximately 600 mph — slower than the speed of sound — but it is capable of speeds near 1,500 mph and altitudes of 50-60,000 feet over water.
 Under the interchange agreement, Braniff crews trained to fly the supersonic transport will pilot it from D/FW to Dulles International Airport in Washington, where Air France and British Airways crews will take over the plane and fly it to Paris or London.
 One side of each Concorde will retain the British Airways or Air France markings, while the other half will carry the Braniff insignia.
Area Concorde Landings Set
 The jet will make a number of demonstration flights while the Southwest area. During the proving flights — which are required by the Federal Aviation Administration — Braniff will make one-time stops in 13 cities in the Southwest, returning to D/FW each evening, to promote the gateway flights to Europe.
 The Concorde will fly from D/FW Monday to Phoenix, Ariz.; Las Vegas, Nev., and Salt Lake City before returning to D/FW. It will stop Tuesday in Denver, Midland-Odessa, Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla. The plane is scheduled Wednesday to be in Amarillo, Kansas City and Memphis, Tenn. On Thursday, the Concorde will stop in San Antonio, Houston and New Orleans, and then return to Washington.

Demo Meeting Supports Carter to Democratic social programs, but he was unable to satisfy factions who demanded more than promises that urban and poverty programs would not bear the brunt of his campaign against inflation.

 While the dissenters were vocal and active in pressing their demands, Carter, the one-time outsider, now was clearly in control — a control gained, in part, by a willingness to compromise.
 Carter's appearance at the panel discussions was an extraordinary gesture for an incumbent president. But a few hours after the president left for Washington, Kennedy arrived and electrified the audience at the panel on health insurance with a rousing speech that brought listeners to their feet cheering and applauding.
 For hours afterward the reception given Kennedy was the talk of the convention complex. Later that night, the administration agreed to endorse the call for quick action on health insurance, a move it had resisted on the grounds it might fan the fires of inflation.

Soviet Attitude Toward Rock Music Less Strict

MOSCOW (AP) — The most daring rock group ever to perform on a Soviet stage is meeting with cautious smiles from communist officials, a sign of growing acceptance here of Western pop music.

The opening nights this weekend of a 10-concert stand by the hard-driving West Indian pop group Boney M were the biggest entertainment sell-out this season, and the official press is giving the band a warm welcome.

The same newspapers that less than a decade ago condemned all rock as "bourgeois poison" now talk about the music of the disco-reggae group as "art."

But it's still Russia. The opening-night audience at the 3,000-seat Rossia Auditorium consisted mostly of middle-aged officials from the government and Communist Party. Only about 100 tickets were offered to the public.

As the slightly bewildered audience clapped along politely with the music inside, hundreds of young Russians who had heard Boney M on foreign radio broadcasts milled around in the snow outside, watched by Soviet militiamen.

Another reminder that this is Russia: Officials censored out of the program a song called "Rah Rah Rasputin," about the mad monk whose hold on the last Czarina contributed to the collapse of Russia's Romanov dynasty.

"Rah Rah Rasputin, lover of the Russians," the censored lyrics go. "Oh, how they carried on. Rah Rah Rasputin, Russia's greatest love machine." At the end of the song a female singer cries out, "Oh, those Russians!"

At Moscow's exclusive Rus restaurant, however, a local Russian group called Khodiki played a selection of Boney M songs Saturday night, including "Rah Rah Rasputin" with all the lyrics.

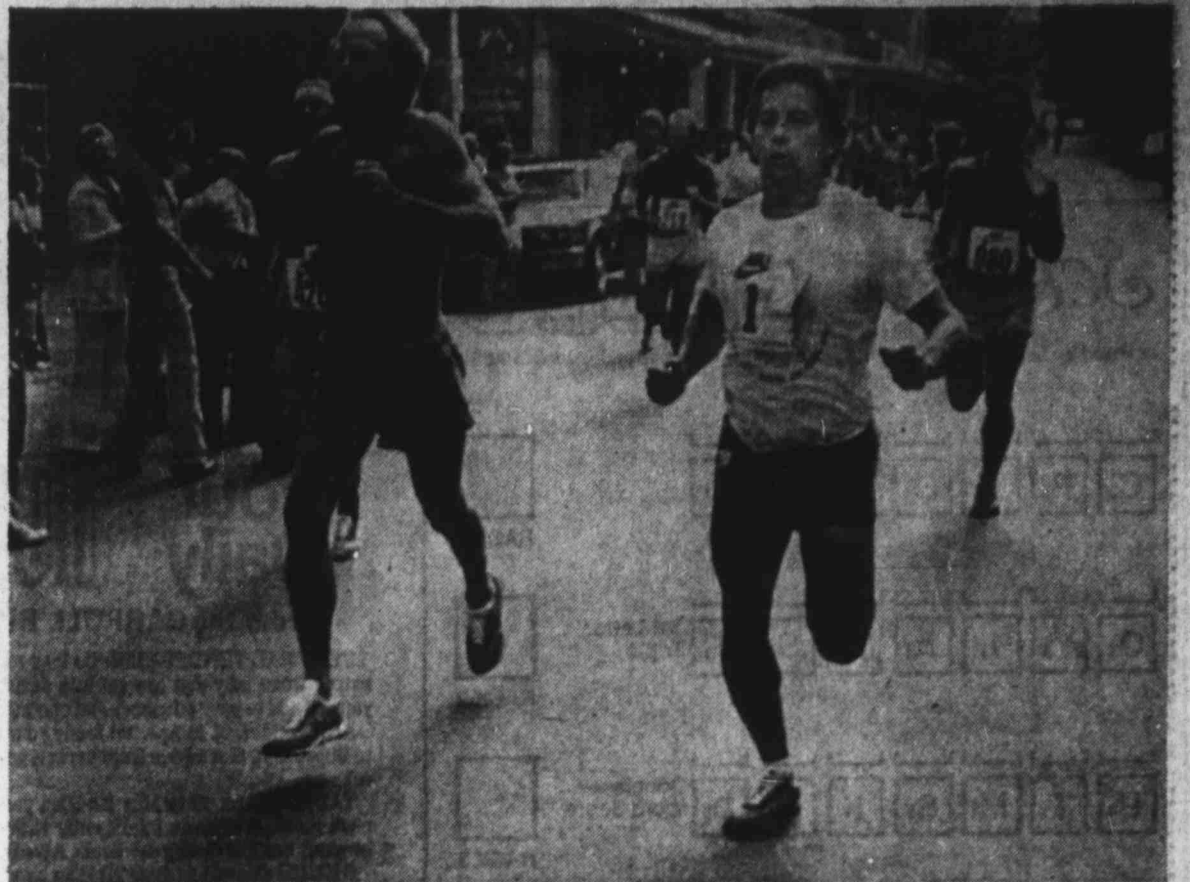

Rock music in Russia has been coming slowly out from underground in recent years. Carefully organized and controlled Soviet groups are permitted to copy some songs from the West and to write their own music in conformity with official guidelines.

Moscow Radio has instituted a Sunday afternoon program of rock from the West, and a youth newspaper now publishes news about top pop records, most of which are available here only on the black market.

But the Boney M concert was something different. Male singer Bobby Farrell, in a black jumpsuit and gray cape, and the group's three women, in white gowns and feathered headdresses, gave a show of bump-and-grind and sexually suggestive antics unlike anything presented here before.

Group members, whose latest record "Mary's Boy-Child," is No. 1 on British charts and No. 2 in their adopted home country of West Germany, were nonplussed by their quiet reception, calling it "reserved."

Three young fans did run onstage to dance along briefly and collect autographs, but uniformed police forcibly removed one of them, putting an end to any Western-style spontaneity.

Cosmetic Lack Aids Russian Marketeers

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet women, faced with shortages of cosmetics in government stores, are turning to the black market, where they can buy bootleg beauty aids made from such substitutes as chalk, furniture lacquer and shoe polish.

The Moscow newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda recently carried a report on black market cosmetics as a follow-up to a series of complaints in the press from women who said they could not find what they needed at the perfume counter.

The women's magazine Rabotnitsa reported a year ago that Soviet officials recognized there was a shortage and promised to correct it. But according to Moskovskaya Pravda, black marketeers have beat the government to the punch.

Times have changed in this nation where not long ago cosmetics were a rarity reserved for the Bolshoi Theater crowd. Today kerchiefed women at the village pump or on Moscow's snow-shoveling crews are often rouged and perfumed as if for an evening on the town.

The result, said the newspaper, is "the sharp increase in demand for mascara, rouge, compact powder and nail polish that has put cosmetics in the front rank of deficit items."

Moskovskaya Pravda said a plumber, identified as Y. Shevtsov, was one of the first to try to fill the gap. The paper said Shevtsov, who is now on trial for profiteering, "saw that another opportunity like this wouldn't come soon."

Citing trial testimony, the paper said the defendant had little trouble manufacturing his ersatz cosmetics or selling them at three times the government price.

"You grind up different colors of children's chalk ... for eyeshadow. You can easily prepare a modish nail polish from furniture lacquer, adding in some metal filings for sparkle. Mascara can be made from black ink, shoe-polish and other simple ingredients," the paper said.

Shevtsov allegedly had the help of a partner who manufactured the necessary packaging at a fountain pen plant.

The paper said Shevtsov did good business for several months until his arrest Oct. 10.

The cosmetics shortage remains.

The newspaper quoted officials as saying that last year cosmetics manufacturers met only half their production quota for lipstick, one-third the requirements for mascara and one-eighth the requirements for eyeshadow. No figures were given.

Physician Says Fear Of Aging Major Cause Of Early Deaths

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A human body should last up to 120 years, but it wears out so much earlier because we are more terrified of growing old than we are of dying, says a Stanford University physician.

really an exciting opportunity and that you will be valuable to yourself and others, then you would give up smoking, you'd run three times a week, you'd lose weight. And you'd live longer," Bortz said.

"The solution is in celebrating old age," said Dr. Walter Bortz of the Stanford University Medical School. "Our idea of who we're going to be when we're 85 is just so grim. And if there is no value to it, then why seek it?"

He said the key to longer life sounds deceptively simple — "good nutrition, good exercise and good rest. Those are the three elements of health."

Coupled with an aggressive program of preventive medicine, he said, that prescription would add at least 10 years to the average American lifespan. "But the problem is in really doing it. We must believe that (growing old) can be something valuable, something to look forward to."

Bortz, 48, led a panel discussion on aging at the American Medical Association's national conference, which ended Sunday. He said a variety of evidence indicates human beings are biologically and genetically capable of living to be 120 years old.

"Nobody dies of old age," he said in an interview. "You die of a disease. You die because you wear out at one critical point. The rest of your body is fine, but the chain is only as good as its weakest link."

Heart attacks and strokes are the leading cause of death in America and most researchers agree both can often be prevented by changing to a more healthy lifestyle. The emphasis almost always is on better nutrition and more exercise.

"If I could convince you that to be 85 is "But we don't want to be 85. That's not so much a conscious decision as it is a kind of abandonment (of the body), and because of it, we wear out prematurely."

He said American society, with its glorification of youth, sustains the dread of growing old and useless.

Compulsory retirement, Bortz said, amounts to little more than telling a person who has lived a productive life that "you are no longer of any value."

"America is like a nomadic society," he said. "We're always dashing around. So old people have to integrate themselves into that or they are left behind. Old folks' homes are the repositories of these left-behind people."

Libyan Leader To Abolish Free Trade

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy has announced plans to abolish free trade in his oil-rich North African country as part of a drive to build "a new socialist society."

The Libyan news agency JANA quoted Khadafy as saying, "Trade is an exploitation phenomenon. The merchants' sector is a consumer, not a productive sector. Therefore, the abolition of free trade is imperative."

Merchants should look for "jobs in other productive fields like industry, agriculture or house construction," Khadafy was quoted as saying.

"Cooperatives and public supermarkets will be established to replace free trade and do away with exploitation and profiteering."

The JANA report, carried Sunday in Beirut's pro-Libyan newspaper As Safir, gave no target date for the transition but said merchants would be given ample time to find new jobs.

Henry C. Traute, the go-getting who fathered matchbook advertising, also thought up what may be the world's most ignored safety suggestion: "Close Cover Before Striking."

Khadafy accused merchants and contractors of amassing "huge profits" following his overthrow of the Libyan monarchy in 1969. "But now we are about to assault and destroy all forms of exploitation," he said.

The mercurial Libyan strongman said no private bank accounts would be touched and merchants would be free "to make reasonable withdrawals or deposits in other productive fields."

Martha Graham Dance Dedicates Museum Wing

NEW YORK (AP) — A thrillingly dramatic stage — the space in front of the Egyptian Temple of Dendur at the Metropolitan Museum of Art — was the inspiration and setting for "Frescoes," a dramatic new Martha Graham dance work Saturday night.

Occasion was the dedication of the Sackler Wing of the Met Museum. Three brothers, Drs. Arthur M., Mortimer D.

and Raymond R. Sackler, major donors of the $9.5 million wing, commissioned a dance work from Miss Graham.

There were no speeches. Invited guests sat in chairs on either side of the space in front of the temple while the company danced. Later, there were cocktails and a dance band in the main lobby of the museum. Guests could, if they wished, go up to the second floor of the Sackler Wing and walk through the heralded "Treasures of Tutankhamen" exhibit. That opens to press and museum members next week and to the public Dec. 20. The Sackler Wing, on the north end of the museum, is 200 by 165 feet in size. It also has a mezzanine. The second floor Exhibition Hall, which has most of the King Tut exhibit, is the museum's largest hall.

Three Graham dancers, Janet Eilber, Yuriko Kimura and Peggy Lyman, first danced the solo "Lamentations," one at each side and one in the front of the space in front of the Temple of Dendur.

The 25-minute dance Miss Graham created for the dedication, "Frescoes," she did not want reviewed.

Marine Guards Lose Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve Marine Corps guards at the presidential retreat at Camp David have been relieved from duty because they are believed to have smoked marijuana, a Marine spokesman confirmed Sunday.

The 12 were transferred from guard duty at the retreat in the Maryland mountains to duty at the Marine Barracks in Southeast Washington, said Capt. Edwin Walke, duty officer for the barracks.

The Marine Corps said the 12 were suspected of smoking marijuana while off duty, not while serving as guards. However, use of the substance anywhere violates regulations, the corps said.

Col. John Monahan, the barracks commander, said the action was part of a major investigation into marijuana use by Marines in the Washington area.

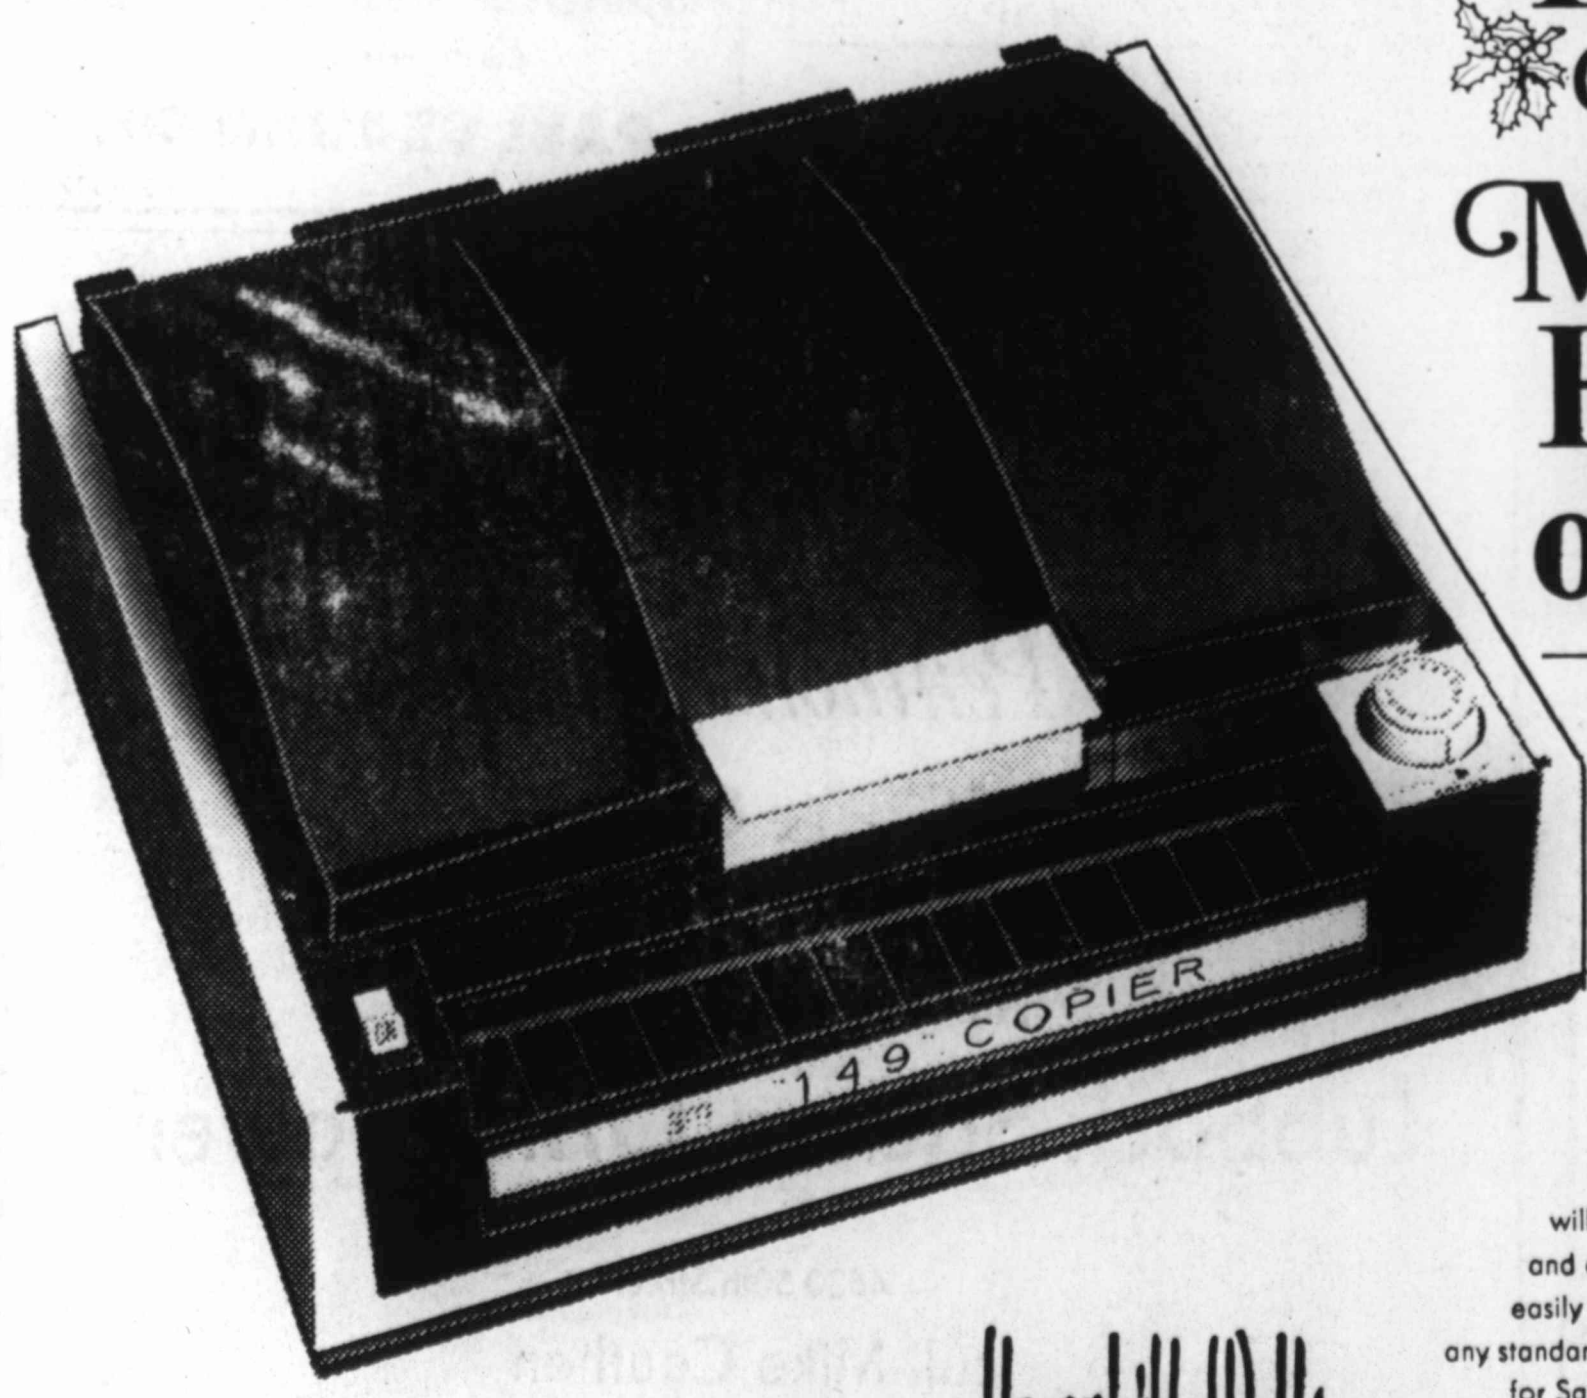

He said no charges had been filed yet against the 12.

Employers Fill Posts Readily This Season

By JOHNNY HOLMES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock is enjoying one of its best holiday employment periods on record, with temporary job openings plentiful for those seeking extra cash for the holiday season.

The Lubbock office of the Texas Employment Commission (TEC), which handles much of the city's employee placement, reports that this year's employment boom has blossomed about as expected.

"If anything, this year seems to be better than usual for local employee hopefuls," said a spokesman, "but the last few years have been pretty good."

The city's current 3 percent unemployment rate is almost 50 percent lower than the national 5.8 percent unemployment rate and a point lower than the 4 percent figure considered optimum by the U.S. Department of Labor.

All the major retail employers contacted, including Sears, J.C. Penney, Best Products, Gibsons and Dillard's, said they had little trouble recruiting temporary, minimum-wage help.

Vivian Rice, Penney's personnel director, said her store was carrying about 400 employees during the Christmas rush as opposed to about 340 during the rest of the year.

She said the store plans on keeping 5 to 10 percent of the new help after Christmas, explaining that "a lot of our people seem to turnover now. Christmas seems to be a good time to start or quit."

Help was easy to get this year, she said. "Usually we run an ad in the paper announcing our extra openings, but we didn't this year and got as many applications as always."

Apparently would-be employees are actively seeking work now, which the TEC spokesman said was normal for this time of year.

"During other parts of the year, people might be a bit reluctant to walk into a big store and apply for work unless they knew there was an opening," said the spokesman. "But that's just not the case before Christmas. The rush is so heavy, there's always a chance for work."

Most of the new employees are in sales, and their unfamiliarity with a store's system may account for some of the long lines at checkout counters.

"We try to schedule our employees so we have more on the floor at certain especially busy times, like Saturdays and right after work during the week," said Rice. "But if we added many more, they'd just get in each other's way. We do have problems with lines sometimes, both from our new people and from so many customers, but it's no worse than anywhere else. That's usually not too much of a problem, though."

Other major Lubbock employers virtually ignore the rush which overtakes the rest of the city. Texas Instruments, for instance, hires no new people for its Christmas production lines because, as a spokesman explained, "We don't really need them. Our production schedules remain fairly constant and we try to prepare ourselves early for the Christmas demand of our products."

No one really knows how much extra money is socked into payrolls because of the added employment during December. The TEC currently is working with managers from the major retail outlets to compile some sort of measuring system for next year. In any case, most of the extra money made by the part-time employees is spent before the season is over.

Almost every temporary employee interviewed said that the money earned from the new job would be spent on Christmas presents or other holiday expenses. "Easy come, easy go," said one. "But at least it's coming."

Goals Urged For Democrats

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Coretta Scott King called on the Democratic party Sunday to dedicate itself to jobs, comprehensive health care and the Equal Rights Amendment as a memorial to her husband.

"It is highly fitting," Mrs. King told delegates to the Democrats' National Conference, "that this session ... not be dedicated only to my husband's memory ... but that we recommit ourselves to the principles he espoused."

Mrs. King spoke briefly at the conference's final session opened Sunday with a memorial service to the civil rights leader slain in Memphis 10 years ago. The service came on the 14th anniversary of King's acceptance of the Nobel Peace Prize for his civil rights battle.

Following the service, the convention adopted a resolution asking that King's birthday, Jan. 15, "be declared a national holiday ... and that all schools call attention to the life and messages of this great American."

King's father, the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., was to be on the program along with his daughter-in-law and United Nations Ambassador Andrew W. Young, a long-time King associate. But the elder King was reported ill and did not appear to deliver the invocation.

Less than half of the convention's 1,633 delegates were in the big hall when the King Memorial Service began with a program of hymns by the city's Metropolitan Baptist Church choir and the Memphis State University Choral. Many stood in small groups and talked or read newspapers during the hymns, but when Mrs. King began speaking, the hall began to fill and the delegates, alternates and guests became quiet.

In her introduction of Young, Mrs. King praised the ambassador for keeping her husband's memory alive.

"Andy, Martin is pleased with your stewardship ... You carried his truth to the United States, the United Nations and the whole world ... You stood up for justice and truth," she said.

Young, a Baptist preacher before his election to Congress from Georgia, recalled his old friend's dream of racial brotherhood.

"He reminded us we were a gigantic symphony of brotherhood that could not be played on the black keys or the white keys alone," he said. "He understood ... that the struggle for black men's bodies was also a struggle for white men's souls."

Conspiracies To Takeover Texas Hatched

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth in a series of 10 articles excerpted from a new book titled "Texas — The Beginning," written by Ed Syers of Kerrville. The book, available through Texian Press, P.O. Box 184, Waco, Texas 76787, chronicles the state's least-known years, 1519 to 1834.

By early 1800, America's revolution seemed a memory; the hard reality was Europe's Napoleon, and the world too bloodily embroiled to notice a struggle for Texas.

Yet in plot and counterplot, New Spain's time was running out. On the Sabine, the so-called "Burr Conspiracy" projected the seizure of that empty land, perhaps more.

The real conspirator was less Burr than James Wilkinson. That general, for years in Spain's pay, was to provoke what seemed inevitable war with Spain. Burr would produce volunteers: was not the land really America's through the Louisiana Purchase?

At the last moment, Wilkinson dodges the showdown, created an illegal "neutral ground" along the Sabine, "exposed" Burr, and sought Spanish pay-off. A nation-shaking trial expelled America's former vice-president. It tarnished but did not finish Wilkinson.

Nor his obsession for Texas. Now came war with England, and Spain was her ally. Then invade this land she emptily claimed. The plan drew quiet, top American approval.

In 1812, a "Republican" army of Americans and Mexicans fought its way from Macdoches to San Antonio, when events changed radically. Bernardo Gutierrez, figurehead commander, took over in fact; his would be no republic — America's hope — but a dictatorship.

U.S. support stopped, for her own War of 1812 was going badly. In San Antonio, Wilkinson's son maneuvered replacement of Gutierrez with a Cuban, and disaster followed. Ironically at the same time, disaster also had overtaken Napoleon.

For a brief time in 1818, Napoleonic exiles planned a Texas base for New World empire, but America's French were sick of bloodshed. Texas remained desolate emptiness.

Claim to such valueless emptiness, America then traded for once-Spanish Florida.

The trade enraged America's West — a fresh Wilkinson opportunity. Into Texas went his kinsman-by-marriage, Dr. James-Long, leading a handful of filibusters — their declaration of independence and their constitution, Wilkinson-written. Finance the new republic by selling land! But America blocked the Sabine to recruits; the venture failed.

The raider era was done and with it, its architect, James Wilkinson, ready to sell colonial land, too. But not to Wilkinson. He died in Mexico City.

For colonization, fledgling Mexico was listening to a man named Stephen F. Austin.

Slight Opposition To Carter Observed At Demo Meeting

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter had political enemies at the Democratic midterm conference, but there were no surefire signs anyone is preparing to seriously challenge him for the 1980 nomination.

One potential rival, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was lobbying for his own national health insurance plan — which poses enough conflict of emotion and principle with Carter's approach to justify speculation he is getting ready to take on the president in two years.

Kennedy let out the rhetorical stops in his workshop speech on health care, producing the first real excitement at the conference. But he stopped short of threatening to lead a fight for his bill at the meeting and gave no hint he had anything in mind beyond verbal persuasion to make his point.

After his talk, Kennedy, who disclaims 1980 presidential campaign plans, left town immediately.

Further, the usual evidence of a presidential campaign — especially a Kennedy campaign — was not there. The hustling, tight-knit organization, the approaches to start lining up influential leaders and elected officials, the convention corridor tips and the hotel barroom rumors — all these were absent.

So if Kennedy is preparing a challenge, he kept it strictly under cover at the meeting, the only national meeting of Democratic rank-and-file before the 1980 nominating convention and a good place to at least launch a few trial balloons.

The other man Carter already knows would like his job, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., didn't come to Memphis. There was no activity on his behalf and what talk there was about him was mainly critical.

Charles Jeniken, vice chairman of the Montana party, said "I don't view Brown as a serious challenger. He's lost some of his push he had two years ago. I think he lost a lot of his credibility by turning around on Proposition 13."

Jeniken does consider Kennedy a serious contender and says health insurance could be his launching pad.

A similar view was expressed by Vermont Chairman Peter Galbraith: "My guess is that Brown will run" but "I don't think he has any credibility in the Democratic Party — certainly not in the East. He's slip-flopped on the issues and made the liberals mistrust him."

Other New England Democrats aren't speculating much on a Kennedy run, but most agree if he does they think he will win the early primaries in their region.

Failing a Kennedy entry, most New Englanders felt Carter will do well. And some of them find it hard to detect that Brown is even giving serious thought to the New Hampshire and other early delegate hunts.

Which means that if only 1% more people — maybe you — became donors, it would add over thirty percent more blood to America's voluntary bloodstream. Think of it!

But forget arithmetic. Just concentrate on one word.

The word is Easy.

Giving blood is easy. You hardly feel it (in fact, some people say they feel better physically after a blood donation).

And, of course, everybody feels better emotionally.

Because it's a great feeling knowing your one easy blood donation has helped up to five other people to live.

So how about it, 1% of America? Are you going to lie down and be counted?

Economic Policy Backing Drops

As public worries about high prices increase, confidence that President Carter's anti-inflation and dollar support programs will work is beginning to fall off. Just in the past month, support for the Carter program to control inflation has dropped from 63-24 percent to 58-27 percent. As for his dollar support program, public backing has declined from 57-24 percent to 48-36 percent.

However, the most precipitous drop has taken place in the willingness of people to endure a recession, if necessary, in order to stop inflation. Just after he announced his program to shore up the dollar overseas, a 56-27 percent majority said it would favor measures such as raising interest rates, even if they are likely to cause a moderate recession. Now, the margin in favor of such measures has slipped to 46-41 percent.

These shifts do not mean that Americans anticipate any cataclysmic results from Mr. Carter's new economic program. A 56-25 percent majority thinks it will cause a short recession, but by 50-31 percent, people do not think there will be a deep recession. And a 58-29 percent majority does not think there will be a depression.

But as the press of inflation is felt more strongly by Americans, their patience is beginning to wear thin.

The latest ABC News-Harris Survey of 1,197 adults nationwide shows clearly that the impact of inflation is now being felt more deeply than at any time since 1975. The number who feel that prices are now rising faster than a year ago has jumped from 62-81 percent over the past month. Of even greater significance, the number who feel that a year from now prices will be rising more rapidly than they are now has jumped from 37 to 54 percent. This expectation that inflation will be well into the double digit range next year is the highest ever recorded since the question was first asked back in 1973.

Making matters worse is the fact that a 46-40 percent plurality does not think the Carter program will cut the rate at which prices are rising, and a 50-37 percent plurality does not think the program will result in significantly lower federal spending. To add to the gloom, a 55-33 percent majority feels the plan will result in a sharply reduced number of new houses being built.

As Americans see it, there are two posi-

Reformed Thief Repays Store For Clothing

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Store managers didn't believe it at first, but the money kept coming in $5 and $10 batches. Debts they didn't even know about were being paid off.

"It was the right thing to do," Lucius Wilson said. Wilson is a 29-year-old teacher at Breadloaf Bible College here who got religion and turned his wallet and his life inside out.

There was a time, Wilson said, when he didn't do the right thing.

In 1967, he was voted best-dressed student at Williams High School. After graduating that year, he took a job at a department store and "developed this system of helping myself to clothes."

But, Wilson said, he kept a record of all the clothes he took — every necktie, shirt and pair of slacks. The total came to about $1,000 in six months.

Then in 1971, he turned to Christianity, prayer and Bible study. It was then, he said, that he realized he had to atone for his past.

He visited several stores to pay for items he had stolen, then screwed up his courage and walked into Sellars, the department store where he had worked.

"They were real shocked," Wilson said. "They said a lot of people had sent money in after stealing something, but this was the first time they had ever had anybody come in."

Wilson set up an account, and paid in $10 or $15 every couple of weeks. Last Tuesday, he dropped off the final $35.

Macao Allows 151 Refugees To Land

MACAO (AP) — A flotilla of eight fishing boats carrying 151 Vietnamese refugees arrived Sunday at this Portuguese island colony west of Hong Kong after being turned away from communist China, police said.

Police said the refugees were rejected by authorities at China's Lappa Island. Police allowed them to land here after the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees in Hong Kong said they would be resettled elsewhere.

Tens of thousands of Vietnamese have fled their country since the 1975 communist victory in the Indochina War. Many are ethnic Chinese who China claims are persecuted by the Hanoi government.

Consequences that will result from the Carter economic measures: A 46-41 percent plurality feels that they will cut the rate at which pay is rising, and a more sizable 49-35 percent plurality thinks it will restore the value of the dollar abroad.

Originally, a 55 percent majority thought it would take about a year for the Carter economic plan to take hold — a point that was made by the President and his economic advisers.

The question that now must be raised is whether public patience will last for another year, particularly if prices keep rising as rapidly as they have risen during the past few months. Mr. Carter and his chief economic spokesmen have stoutly maintained that the new program will not cause even a mild or moderate recession. But a better than 2-to-1 majority of the public expects some kind of recession in the near future. This does not mean that the public's estimate is any more accurate than the White House's estimate. But it does mean that if he wants to raise public confidence in his program, the President must spell out the pain and sacrifices involved.

If, after President Carter's optimistic pronouncements, interest rates create a bigger crunch on people than expected, then the President may be jeopardizing the credibility of his entire program — perhaps, ironically, at a time next year when the program may be about ready to work.

Tech Tries Again

By DON HENRY
Executive Sports Editor

With its unbeaten season buried in a Wyoming avalanche, Texas Tech will try to get back on the winning side tonight, hosting Northeast Louisiana.

The two teams will tip off at 7:30 p.m. in Lubbock Coliseum in the Raiders' last home game of 1978.

The Raiders were outplayed, in the opinion of coach Gerald Myers, by Wyoming Saturday night, and Myers didn't like the mental approach of his team.

"We weren't mentally ready (for Wyoming)," Myers was saying after the 68-65 loss. "That was the big thing. Even in warmups, you could see that our guys weren't mentally prepared."

The Raiders tonight will be playing their third game in five days and will be facing one of the top rebounders in the nation. Calvin Natt, a 6-5 ace with international experience, was fifth in the nation last year in rebounding, averaging 13.2 per game.

And rebounding was one of the problems that the Raiders failed to resolve during the Wyoming game. The visitors outrebounded Tech 20-10 in the first half and held a 36-32 advantage for the game.

Also tonight, coach Myers will try to get more accuracy in his shooting. Tech shot but 33.3 percent against Wyoming after hitting near 50 percent in the previous four games.

The Raiders will take the court tonight with a 4-1 record, as they whipped Central Oklahoma, Northern Montana, North Carolina-Charlotte and Colorado State prior to the upset by Wyoming.

Tech got 18 points — his highest this season — from forward Kent Williams in the Wyoming game, as the junior from Hobbs ripped in 25-footers most of the night. Tech was not able to penetrate the Cowboys' zone, forcing outside shooting.

Williams accounted for all of Tech's scoring in a 12-point stretch in the second half when the Raiders were playing catch-up.

The only other Raider in double figures was 6-8 sophomore forward Ralph McPherson, who had 11 points, 7 of them coming at the free-throw line.

The other forward, 6-8 Ralph Brewster, scoring 8 points, and freshman Jeff Taylor had 5 and senior guard Geoff Huston contributed 8 among the starters.

Joe Baxter, the 6-8 senior center, came off the bench to score 7 points and grab a team-high 12 rebounds. And in two games, Baxter has now scored 15 points and grabbed 14 rebounds in an effort to work back into the starting lineup.

After tonight's contest, the Raiders will face only tournament action rest of 1978.

They will play Oklahoma State in the opening round of the four-team Birmingham (Ala.) Classic Friday night, then face either Samford or Western Illinois on Saturday.

Then on Dec. 22-23, they will compete in the Sun Bowl tournament at El Paso. Tech's first-round foe at El Paso will be nationally ranked Michigan. Host Texas-El Paso and Clemson fill out the four-team field.

Cowboys Rolling Now...

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys finally have got their act together.

The Cowboys, with Tony Dorsett and Scott Laidlaw each scoring a pair of touchdowns, ripped the Philadelphia Eagles 31-13 Sunday.

The Eagles virtually were eliminated from National Football League playoff contention, although they still have a slim chance if they beat the New York Giants next week and a few other teams lose.

In addition to scoring two touchdowns, Dorsett ran for 63 yards to establish a Dallas one-season ground gaining record.

And while Dorsett and Laidlaw, along with quarterback Roger Staubach, were keying the offense, the Dallas defense forced five Philadelphia turnovers.

Dorsett said of his running record accomplishment, "It's no big deal. It's not that great a feat. The most important record is 11-and-4."

Dallas coach Tom Landry also believes his National Conference East champions are peaking for the upcoming NFL playoffs.

"We've played extremely well the last five weeks," Landry said. "We just seemed to make the big plays today. And we got the turnovers and that was the difference."

The Eagles turned the ball over twice in the first quarter and both mistakes wound up in Dallas touchdowns.

NFL teams have learned that you don't give the Dallas Cowboys a 14-0 lead and come back to beat them often.

Philadelphia coach Dick Vermeil said, "The worst thing I feared was getting behind against a team like Dallas. We hoped they'd turn over the ball. They didn't. Instead they created the turnovers."

Vermeil said he felt his team still had a chance when it trailed 14-7 early in the third period, but Staubach threw a 54-yard pass completion to wide receiver Tony Hill for a first down at the Eagles' 23 and on the next play Dorsett took it the rest of the way for a touchdown.

"That was it," said Vermeil, resignedly. "Santa Claus came early for them."

"(Quarterback Ron Jaworski was subject to too much harassment," Vermeil concluded.

The Eagles finally got their offense going late in the opening quarter, driving 73 yards on seven plays for a touchdown.

The big play was a 42-yard pass from Jaworski to Carmichael Carmichael, who caught a pass in his 95th straight game, grabbed this one at the Dallas 30, and was dragged down from behind on

...Houston Strong Too

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was minus yardage on everything but the scoreboard, but it was one of the smartest runs of Earl Campbell's brief National Football League career and it clinched a playoff berth and a 17-12 victory for his Houston Oilers over the New Orleans Saints Sunday.

Campbell, a rookie, gained 1,369 yards this season, but it was a 5-yard sprint in reverse gear that showed his poise.

He scooped up an Oiler fumble in the end zone and ran off the field to take a 2-point safety instead of putting New Orleans in position for a touchdown.

"You know what I was thinking about when I was looking at the ball roll down there?" Campbell asked. "I was thinking of that Oakland game where they batted the ball in for a touchdown."

"That's the first thing that entered my mind. It was probably one of the quickest decisions I ever made. I just knew the ball wasn't supposed to go the other way."

New Orleans defensive end Don Reese batted the ball into the end zone after Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini fumbled it.

"I was thinking touchdown," Reese said. "But I had two thoughts and they collided. I thought that some of us were behind me and would pick it up then I thought I could pick it up."

"I didn't really hit it that hard. It just took off."

Houston wide receiver Robert Woods came up with the day's biggest offensive play. He turned what would have been an 8-yard pass from Pastorini into an 80-yard scoring play.

"We were basically going for a first down," the 5-foot-7, 170-pound rookie speedster said after the game.

"We ran a short pattern. I got by the defensive back and I knew it had to be a touchdown."

Woods, who played college football at Grambling closed out his amateur career in the Superdome last year with scoring receptions of 76-yards and 66-yards against Southern.

Reese said Woods' touchdown run broke the Saints' back.

"That killed us," Reese said. "That and my dumb play."

Campbell and Tim Wilson carried almost the entire first-half offensive burden for the Oilers while they were piling up a 10-0 halftime lead.

On the Oilers' 76-yard, first-quarter scoring drive, Wilson got 41 yards and Campbell got 20.

The Oilers scored on a 22-yard field goal by Tony Fritsch in the second quarter and were held off the boards until midway through the fourth quarter when Pastorini hit Woods with the bomb.

With the Oilers backed up to their own 20 yard line, Woods took a pass from Pastorini at the 28, slipped by cornerback Maurice Spencer, then outran safeties Ray Brown and Tom Myers to the end zone.

New Orleans scored on a six-yard pass from Archie Manning to Tinker Owens in the third quarter, got a safety when Campbell ran out of the end zone with a Pastorini fumble in the fourth quarter and capped the scoring with a 21-yard field goal by Steve Mike-Mayer.

New Orleans is now 6-9 and closes out its season against Tampa Bay Sunday.

AUSTIN (Special) — Snyder High School made short work of Waxahachie in the state finals and headed home in West Texas with the Class AAA girls volleyball championship.

The Snyder girls struck down Waxahachie in straight matches, 15-8, 15-6, in the finals.

Two other teams from West Texas finished as runners-up.

Seminole fell to Kountze 15-10, 15-8, in the Class AA championship battle here Saturday. And Plains lost the Class A crown to Brazos Consolidated.

San Antonio Churchill took the Class AAAA championship, with a 13-15, 15-8, 15-3 victory of El Paso Coronado.

The Class B title went to Abbott, following a 12-15, 15-5, 15-1 verdict over Bronte.

Andretti Gets Racing Honor

DETROIT (AP) — Mario Andretti, the first American to win the world championship since Phil Hill in 1961, has been named winner of the $10,000 Olsonite Driver of the Year award.

The Nazareth, Pa., driver was selected by a panel of sports writers last week and joined NASCAR star David Pearson as a two-time winner of the award which was instituted in 1967. Andretti also won it that year.

Andretti piled up 27 points when the four quarterly ballots were combined, finishing well of stock car driver Bobby Allison, who had 18. Al Unser and Cale Yarborough wound up in a third place tie with 12 apiece.

Racing Group Gets Backing

DENVER (AP) — The Sports Car Club of America has given its sanction to the Championship Auto Racing Team, a dissident group of car owners and drivers that bolted from the United States Auto Club.

Bill Johnson, chairman of the SCCA board of governors, said the SCCA and CART "agreed and signed a contract" last week at a meeting in Denver.

"All that remains is for the CART board of directors to ratify the agreement and that is expected when its board meets Wednesday," Johnson said. That meeting will be in Jackson, Mich., where U.E. "Pat" Patrick, CART's head, resides and sponsors a racing team.

CART was formed this year in opposition to several championship car rules of the United States Auto Club. USAC relented in some areas, but held firm in others.

San Francisco Wins NCAA Soccer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — University of San Francisco junior forward Alex Nwosu assisted on one goal and scored another to lead the Dons to a 2-0 shutout over the Indiana Hoosiers and the NCAA Division I national soccer championship Sunday.

Nwosu set up a first-half goal when he hit across from the left corner to senior defender Dag Olavsen. Olavsen then hit the shot with his back to the net, smacking the ball over his head in a classic bicycle-style kick.

The ball sailed into the right corner of the net just out of reach of Indiana goalie John Patna.

Jones Third At Bluebonnet

MONTGOMERY, Tex. (Special) — Texas Tech's Greg Jones placed third to lead the Red Raider golf team to a seventh-place overall finish at the first Bluebonnet Golf Tournament here Sunday.

Lamar and New Mexico State tied for the top team spot and Lamar won the honor on the second hole of sudden death. Rounding out the field were Houston in third, Pan Am fourth, TCU fifth and Texas sixth.

Houston's Ray Barr won medalist honors with a 70-70-140. Rawlins' Drew DeVon was second with a 74-69-143.

Tech's Mel Calender made up the other half of the two-man team, he finished with a 78-74-152.

Jones' third place netted Tech $400 from the $15,000 pot put up by the "Sandbaggers", a booster group backing the tournament.

Paducah Wins Own Tournament

Larry Hickman and Jimmy Smart both tallied 17 points to give Paducah a 68-49 up-per hand over Crowell in the championship bracket of the Paducah Basketball Tourney. Dwayne Dishman held the high scoring honors for Crowell with a total of 20 for the night.

In other boy cager action, Mike Halton took a total of 22 points to lead the way for Quana's 63-59 win over Motley County in the Consolation bracket of the Ralls Tourney.

Valley went on top of Vernon 52-50 to win the third place in the Ralls Tourney. Kenny Chandler popped in a total of 23 to earn high point honors for Valley, while Mitchell Whiteside took 19 points to lead Vernon.

Jodi Grades fed 12 points into Crowell's side of the score board to lead them in a 37-33 decision over Valley as the Crowell Wildcats took the championship bracket of the Paducah Tourney.

Vernon grasped the consolation bracket of the Paducah Tourney after the Lions slipped by the Chillicothe 37-33. Kim Lindsay had a total of 13 to lead Vernon's scoring.

Buoni Zadietski jammed in 15 points to lead Motley County in a close 57-55 victory over Quana Saturday night. The win gave Motley County the third place bracket title of the tourney.

the 5 by linebacker Bob Breunig.

Substitute quarterback John Sciarra gained 4 on an option run, and Hogan drove the final yard. Michel kicked the point with 59 seconds left in the action-filled first quarter.

In the third period, Dallas moved 79 yards on just four plays, the big strike a 54-yard completion from quarterback Roger Staubach to wide receiver Tony Hill. It was a 48-yard pass and a 6-yard run.

And on the next play, Dorsett dashed 23 yards for his second touchdown to make it 21-7.

Later in the third quarter, a 22-yard pass from Staubach to Dorsett, a 10-yard pass interference penalty against the Eagles and a 4-yard Dorsett run set up Septien's 18-yard field goal and made it 24-7 with 5:45 remaining.

The Cowboys boosted it to 31-7 early in the final period when Staubach connected with Laidlaw on a little screen and the big running back turned it into a 44-yard touchdown.

The Eagles final touchdown came with five minutes to play on a five-play, 64-yard drive. The key was a 42-yard pass-run play from Jaworski to Carmichael for a first down at the 4 from where Barnes scored. The conversion attempt was blocked.

The Dallas defense forced five turnovers with three interceptions and two fumbles, and sacked Eagles quarterback Ron Jaworski seven times.

Dallas gained a quick 14-0 first quarter lead with the help of a fumble recovery and intercepted pass. Laidlaw scored from the one on the third play after the fumble, and Dorsett romped 16 yards for his first touchdown just one play after the interception.

The Eagles snapped back late in the opening period to score on a 1-yard run by Mike Hogan, capping a 73-yard drive. Mike Michel's extra point made it 14-7, which was how it stood at halftime.

The Eagles' only other score came after they trailed 31-7, on a 4-yard run by third-string fullback Larry Barnes.

Dallas completed its scoring for its ninth straight win over the Eagles in the third period, on a 23-yard touchdown run by Dorsett and Raphael Septien's 18-yard field goal.

The Eagles offense was muffled by two fumble recoveries, an intercepted pass by Cliff Harris and three Randy White sacks.

Oilers Aiming At Playoffs

The Houston defense twice turned away deep penetrations by New Orleans — once as the first half drew to a close and once in the fourth quarter.

The Saints penetrated to the Houston 19-yard line with 18 seconds left in the second quarter, but back-to-back penalties and an incomplete pass left the Saints on their own 43 when time ticked away.

The Saints pushed to the Houston 6-yard line early in the fourth quarter, but defensive end Elvin Bethea and line backer Robert Bralovek stopped New Orleans

Prep Playoffs Nearing Climax

By The Associated Press

Defending state schoolboy football champions are doing just that. After three weeks of playoffs, three current title holders are still in the hunt for yet another crown.

Class 4A champion Plano blasted Dallas Carter 30-0 Saturday night to set the stage for a replay of last year's semifinal match with Odessa Permian.

Wylie guarded the entrance to its class 2A throne room with a 28-0 shelling of Pittsburg Friday. And class B kingpin Wheeler stretched its winning streak to 31 games in a bruising 17-0 victory over Italy.

Plano, behind quarterback Steve Ulmer who passed for one touchdown and dived for another, exploded for 25 points in the final quarter to smother Dallas Carter.

Quarterback Vic Vines passed for three touchdowns Saturday as Odessa Permian, Plano's opponent in the semifinals, clobbered Plainview 28-0 in Lubbock.

San Antonio Churchill's stingy defense and opportunistic offense combined to thrash Lamar Consolidated 23-7 in the other class 4A quarterfinal contest Saturday.

Churchill capitalized on a fumble recovery and an interception to take an early lead, while its defense held Lamar to a measly 72 yards total offense.

The win propels Churchill into the semifinals against Houston Stratford, that whipped LaPorte 35-14 Friday.

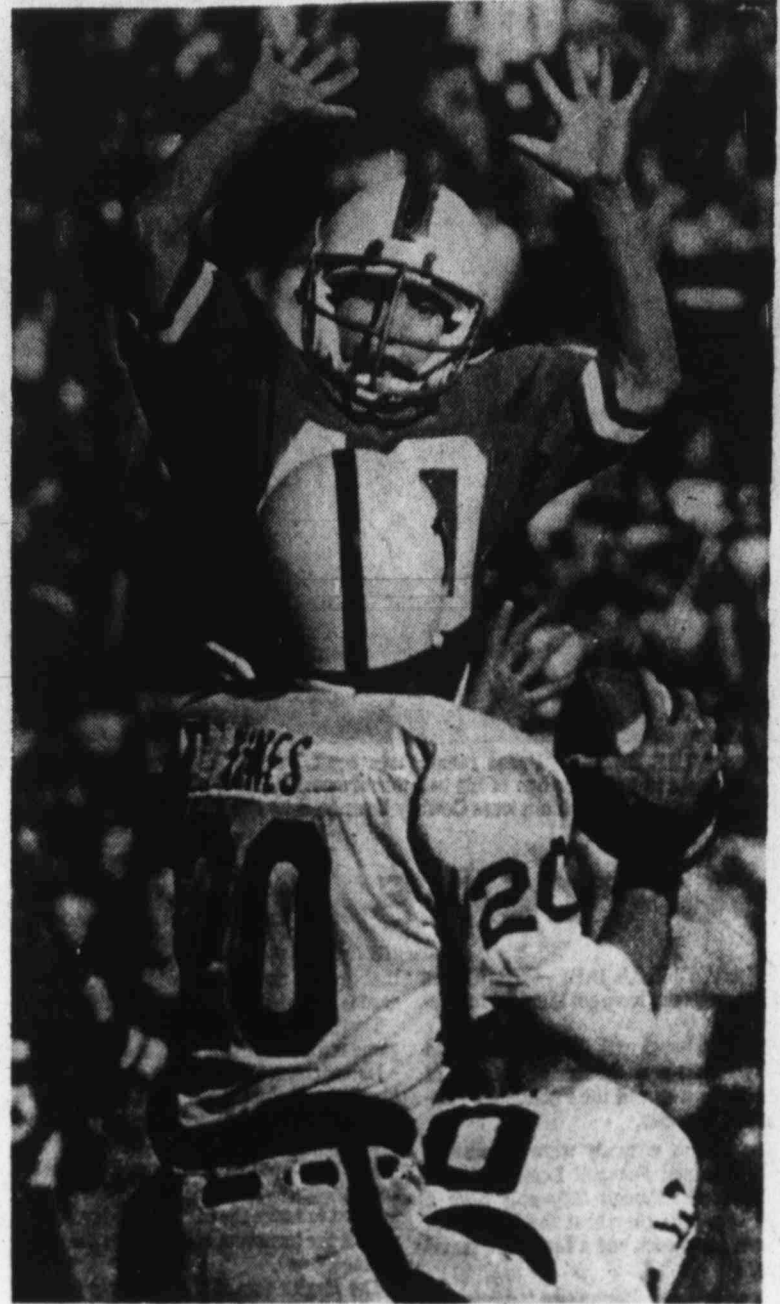

Brownwood, beaten by Dickinson in last year's 3A finals, edged Bay City 33-28 in a wild semifinal game Saturday and will try to get past Gainesville for the championship this weekend.

Brownwood's Glen Coles crashed over from the two with just 26 seconds left to cap a dramatic 16-point fourth quarter rally to overtake Bay City in a game where the lead seasawed five times.

Gary Marshall rambled for 196 yards and one touchdown while teammate Charles Jackson stepped out for 122 yards and two touchdowns as Gainesville crushed Lubbock Estacado 27-0.

In the other playoff game played Saturday, Union Hill held off a fourth quarter rally by Thrall to win 12-7 and earn the chance to play Wheeler for the class B championship.

Graham Nabs Win On January Miss

MEXICO CITY (AP) — David Graham of Australia, down by three strokes at the start of the day, fired a 5-under-par 67 and won the $210,000 Mexico Cup golf tournament Sunday when frontrunner Don January missed a 5-foot par putt on the 18th.

Graham finished the 72-hole tournament at 273, 15-under-par. January was tied with Graham as the Australian watched the Texan miss the money putt. January carded a 1-under-par 71.

Graham won $40,000 in the first running of this tournament. January, who led after the second and third rounds, won $20,000.

Bobby Wadkins rode a very strong finish to third place, 3 strokes off the pace, and collected $10,000.

By the seventh hole, Graham had made three birdies to catch up. He went a stroke ahead moments later when January bogeyed on a 6-foot putt on the same hole.

Tseneyenka Nakajima was fourth with a 10-under-par 278.

The battle between Graham and January was tied six times before the fatal putt. Graham had parred the hole and watched from the edge of the green as January's second shot went into a bunker on the left side of the green. He came out with a beautiful shot that left him a putt of about five feet.

His first putt fell to the left of the hole as a groan went up from the 11,000 fans in the gallery at the Club de Golf Mexico course.

"I didn't try to take too many chances today, but I did shoot at a few flags," January said. "My last shot, I went right for the hole because it's my kind of shot."

"I thought about waiting to get him in overtime but I'd rather do it on a shot I like."

The shot fell off to the left and was half buried in sand.

The conservative play was evident during the first nine holes as January, who set a course record 64 Friday, played even par through six holes. Graham, meanwhile, birdied three of the first seven to pull even.

Nastase Downs Gerulaitis

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Ilie Nastase of Romania outlasted Vitas Gerulaitis in a grueling 3 1/2-hour battle Sunday, defeating the American 6-7, 6-3, 2-4, 6-1, 6-4 for the singles title in the $100,000 Frankfurt Cup tennis tournament.

The temperamental Nastase, who upset favored Jimmy Connors in Saturday night's semifinal, broke Gerulaitis' service five times in the last two sets in claiming the $30,000 first prize.

In the doubles final, Gerulaitis teamed up with fellow American Marty Riessen and swept Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Wojtek Fibak of Poland 6-1, 6-2.

Nastase's victory followed Saturday's surprise 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Connors, whose lackluster performance disappointed the crowd, which had paid as much as $120 for a ticket at Festhalle Stadium.

Pats, Broncos Nab Titles

By The Associated Press
The New England Patriots clinched their first National Football League division title since 1963, beating the Buffalo Bills 26-24 Sunday, while the Denver Broncos also captured a division crown, downing the Kansas City Chiefs 24-3.

New England's victory gave the Pats an 11-4 record with one game remaining, against runnerup Miami, 10-5. But even if the Dolphins win, giving the teams identical records, the Patriots would be champions of the American Football Conference East by virtue of a better intra-division record than Miami.

The Dolphins won Sunday, 23-6 over the Oakland Raiders, and gained one of the two AFC wild card berths. The Houston Oilers got the other AFC wild card spot, defeating the New Orleans Saints 17-12.

Thus, the Dolphins and Oilers will meet at Houston in the opening AFC playoff game Dec. 24.

The Broncos' triumph gave them a 10-5 record and their second straight AFC West crown.

Three division champions were crowned last week — the Pittsburgh Steelers in the AFC Central, the Dallas Cowboys in the National Football Conference East and the Los Angeles Rams in the NFC West — leaving only the NFC Central undecided.

The Green Bay Packers and Minnesota Vikings remained tied for the NFC Central lead by losing over the weekend, dropping their records to 8-6-1. The Packers were blanked 14-0 by the Chicago Bears Sunday, and the Vikings were humiliated 45-14 by the Detroit Lions Saturday.

In their final games next Sunday, the Vikings are at Oakland and the Packers at Los Angeles. Should Minnesota and Green Bay still be tied after those games, the Vikings would be division champions because of a 1-0-1 record against the Packers during the regular season.

In addition to the Central champion, both wild card berths still are undecided in the NFC. Five teams are in the running for them — Minnesota, Green Bay, Atlanta (9-6), Philadelphia (8-7) and Washington (8-7).

The Falcons enhanced their chance for a wild card spot, edging the Redskins 20-17, while Dallas dealt Philadelphia a damaging loss, walloping the Eagles 31-13.

In next weekend's game, Atlanta is at St. Louis, Washington entertains Chicago, and Philadelphia is home against the New York Giants.

In other games Sunday, the Cleveland Browns snuffed out the New York Jets' playoff hopes with a 37-34 victory on Don Cockroft's 22-yard field goal with 3:07 gone in overtime. The Giants smothered the St. Louis Cardinals 17-0. The San Diego Chargers routed the Seattle Seahawks 37-10 and the San Francisco 49ers nipped the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Saturday, the Steelers, 13-2, assured themselves of the home field advantage if they make it to the AFC final, beating the Baltimore Colts 35-13.

In tonight's nationally televised game, the Los Angeles Rams, 11-3, entertain the Cincinnati Bengals.

David Posey's 21-yard field goal with eight seconds left gave New England its title-clinching victory over Buffalo and triggered a champagne party in the Patriots' dressing room. Denver's Craig Morton completed a team record 19 of 22 passes, including 16 in a row, for three touchdowns in the Broncos' big triumph over Kansas City. Two of Morton's TD passes went to Riley Odoms.

Miami gained a playoff berth for the first time in four years and eliminated the Raiders from the playoffs for the first time in six years, beating Oakland with the help of six interceptions, three by linebacker Larry Gordon.

The running of Earl Campbell and Tim Wilson, plus Dan Pastorini's 80-yard touchdown pass play to Robert Woods carried Houston past New Orleans and into the playoffs. Walter Payton's 1-yard TD run and Mike Phipps' 35-yard scoring pass to James Scott helped Chicago beat Green Bay.

Detroit's Gary Danielson put on one of the season's best passing shows, completing 26 of 33 aeriels for 352 yards and five touchdowns — three to Leonard Thompson and two to Horace King — as the Lions overwhelmed Minnesota.

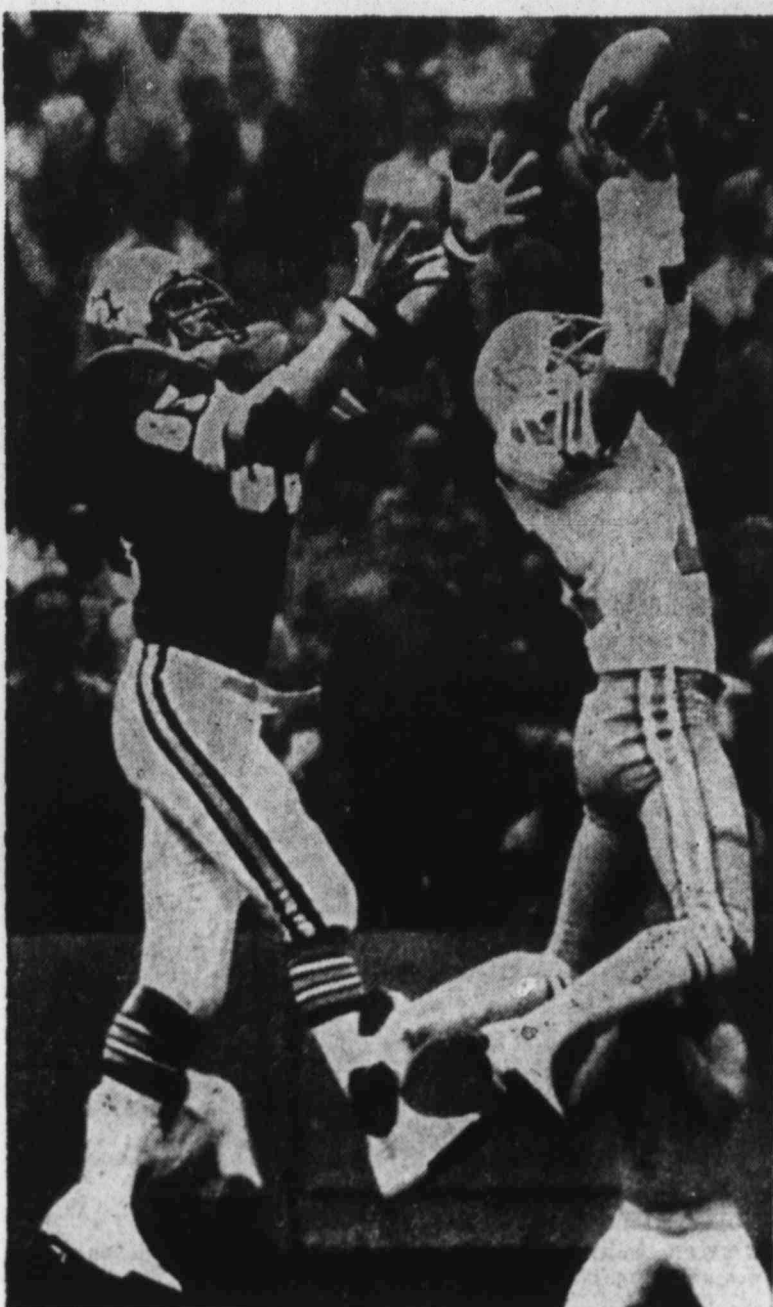

Tim Mazzetti's 32-yard field goal on the final play of the game — after he had missed a 37-yarder, but was given a second chance because of a Washington penalty — lifted Atlanta over Washington. Tony Dorsett and Scott Laidlaw each scored twice, while Dorsett set a Dallas club season record with 1,204 yards rushing in the Cowboys' victory over Philadelphia.

Cockroft's winning field goal for Cleveland came after the Browns had blown a 27-10, fourth-quarter lead to the Jets, then rallied to tie the score 34-34 on Brian Sipe's 18-yard scoring pass to Calvin Hill with 14 seconds left in regulation.

Randy Dean tossed his first NFL touchdown pass, a 6-yarder to Gary Shirk, Doug Kotar ran 12 yards for a score and Joe Danele kicked a field goal for the 16th consecutive game as the Giants snapped a six-game losing streak against St. Louis.

San Diego ended Seattle's playoff hopes, thrashing the Seahawks with the help of Dan Fouts' three TD strikes and Rolf Bernicki's three field goals. San Francisco ended its nine-game losing streak, edging Tampa Bay on Ray Werschling's 30-yard field goal as time ran out.

The Steelers, the team with the best record in the league, used Terry Bradshaw's three touchdown passes — 34 yards to John Stallworth, 12 yards to Randy Grossman and 29 yards to Jim Smith — in beating Cleveland on a frigid, snow-covered field in Pittsburgh.

Five teams remain in contention for three playoff berths in the National Football Conference with one game remaining.

The teams are: Green Bay and Minnesota, tied for the Central Division lead with 8-6-1 records; Atlanta, 9-6, and Washington and Philadelphia, each 8-7.

All five teams play their final games next weekend — with Chicago at Washington, Atlanta at St. Louis, Green Bay at Los Angeles, Minnesota at Oakland and the New York Giants at Philadelphia.

Here are the playoff possibilities: If Minnesota and Green Bay tie in the Central Division, Minnesota would be the champion on a better head-to-head record (1-0-1 vs. 0-1-1).

If Minnesota loses its final game, it can be a wild-card team only if Philadelphia and Washington both lose.

If Green Bay wins its final game, it clinches a wild-card berth.

If Green Bay loses its final game, it can be a wild-card team only if Philadelphia and Washington both lose.

If Atlanta wins its final game, it clinches a wild-card berth. The only way Atlanta cannot qualify as a wild-card team is to lose its final game while Washington, Philadelphia, Green Bay and Minnesota all win.

If Washington, Philadelphia and Atlanta all finish with 9-7 records, Philadelphia would get the wild-card berth because of a better record against common opponents (Philadelphia would be 3-1 against the New York Giants and St. Louis while Atlanta would be 1-1 and Washington 2-2).

Philadelphia can be a wild card team if it wins its final game and either Green Bay or Minnesota loses (9-7 compared to 8-7-1).

Philadelphia would win a two-way tie with Washington since the teams split their two games but the Eagles would have a better record against common opponents (6-4 vs. 5-5).

NBA Rookie Robey Gains Confidence

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rick Robey has his confidence now, and that should be heartening news for the Indiana Pacers in their struggle for National Basketball Association respectability.

The 6-foot-11 rookie from the University of Kentucky scored 28 points and pulled down 15 rebounds — both career highs — in leading the Pacers past the Portland Trail Blazers, 115-109, Wednesday night.

Starting only his second game of the season, Robey got the Pacers off to a fast start and helped hold off the Trail Blazers when the game got close at the end. He hit 9 of 13 shots from the field and all 10 of his free throws in 36 minutes — and he did it playing against Maurice Lucas, who is generally regarded as one of the most intimidating power forwards in the NBA.

Robey credited the performance to a conference with Coach Bobby Leonard. "Coach told me my role," he said. "I said I would sit down and then relieve James (Edwards) at center. This helps mentally. Before I didn't know what I was supposed to do.

"It made me feel good to hit in a pressure situation. That's what it's all about. Now this will give him (Leonard) some confidence in me, and it will give me some confidence in myself."

Before the Portland game, which boosted Indiana's record to 9-15, Robey had averaged just 20 minutes' playing time per game as part of Leonard's plan to give the big forward a chance to adjust to the pro game.

"We went 23 ball games with Robey just coming in, and we felt it was time to give him a chance to play," Leonard said.

McEnroe Gives U.S. Cup

By CHRISTY BARBEE
AP Sports Writer

It was a scene of glowing patriotism — back-slapping, bear-hugging and flag-waving, and in the midst of it all was the wiry American kid with the messy curls falling from a headband, the vanquisher of the well-groomed, classicist from Britain.

John McEnroe, plotting his tactics and playing beyond his years, plundered Buster Mottram 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 Sunday to give the United States the Davis Cup of tennis for the first time since 1972. In a year when the competition was viewed fatalistically by some for its failure to command the services of the games biggest stars, McEnroe was the young savior.

Mottram had given the United States its only cause for alarm, having beaten Brian Gottfried in a grueling five-setter Friday. There was little he could do right against McEnroe, who gave credence to the growing belief that he is among the top players in the world at the age of 19.

Tournament Director Barry MacKay told the young victor he considered him the No. 1 player in the United States, to which McEnroe replied practically, "That's a debatable question. Jimmy's (Connors) one and Vitas (Gerulaitis) isn't here."

McEnroe beat Bjorn Borg in the semifinals of the Stockholm Open a few weeks ago.

"It's nice to play for your country regardless of how you do. But it's better to win," McEnroe said and explained his feelings about the Davis Cup. "It means a lot to me or I wouldn't have played. If Tony (Trabert, the team captain) asks me to play again, I'll try to do it. Davis Cup takes about four weeks out of the year. That really isn't all that much to take away."

McEnroe turned pro just last June, after a year at Stanford University. He has won four Grand Prix tournaments this year and is ranked sixth in the world.

Watching him here were his mother, father and brothers.

McEnroe beat John Lloyd for the first point in the five-match series. Americans Stan Smith and Bob Lutz beat Britons David Lloyd and Mark Cox for the other point.

One more match remained in the British-American series between Gottfried and John Lloyd.

The British, settling for second best, nonetheless achieved a certain distinction. They made it to the final for the Cup for the first time since 1936.

Attending to his maturity as a player, McEnroe's playing style Sunday varied considerably from the lightning-paced, hard-driving game he played in the opening round against John Lloyd in Friday's opening match.

Against Mottram, he was craftier, mixing soft shots and an occasional long rally with sharp serves, bullet volleys and sparkling passing shots. From the very beginning, McEnroe moved his opponent around and set as the hallmark of the match the following procedure:

Continually, he served hard and wide, propelling Mottram to one side of the court, then sent his second shot in the other direction.

Yet, he was playing relatively conservatively in the first set, taking some of the pace off Mottram's serves, coming in on some of his own but staying back for many.

He broke service in the fourth and eighth games of the opening set.

Mottram picked up his game some early in the second set, anticipating better and making good on his serve. He served a love game in the fourth for 2-2.

But it wasn't until the fourth game in the next set that the 23-year-old Englishman won another game, getting just six points in that period, even though McEnroe's play fell off, too, as the American lost a bit of his speed.

Mottram next held serve for 1-3 at 30 in the final set, winning the game with a service winner. McEnroe held easily in the next game, when Mottram carelessly returned service into the net post.

In the sixth game, McEnroe reached break point in typical fashion — an overhead, an unforced error by Mottram, a forehand on the line and a forehand volley cross-court. But for the first time in the match, McEnroe did not go in for the kill. Unforced, he sent a backhand into the net for 30-40. Mottram dumped a drop shot into the net next point, though, and virtually sealed his fate.

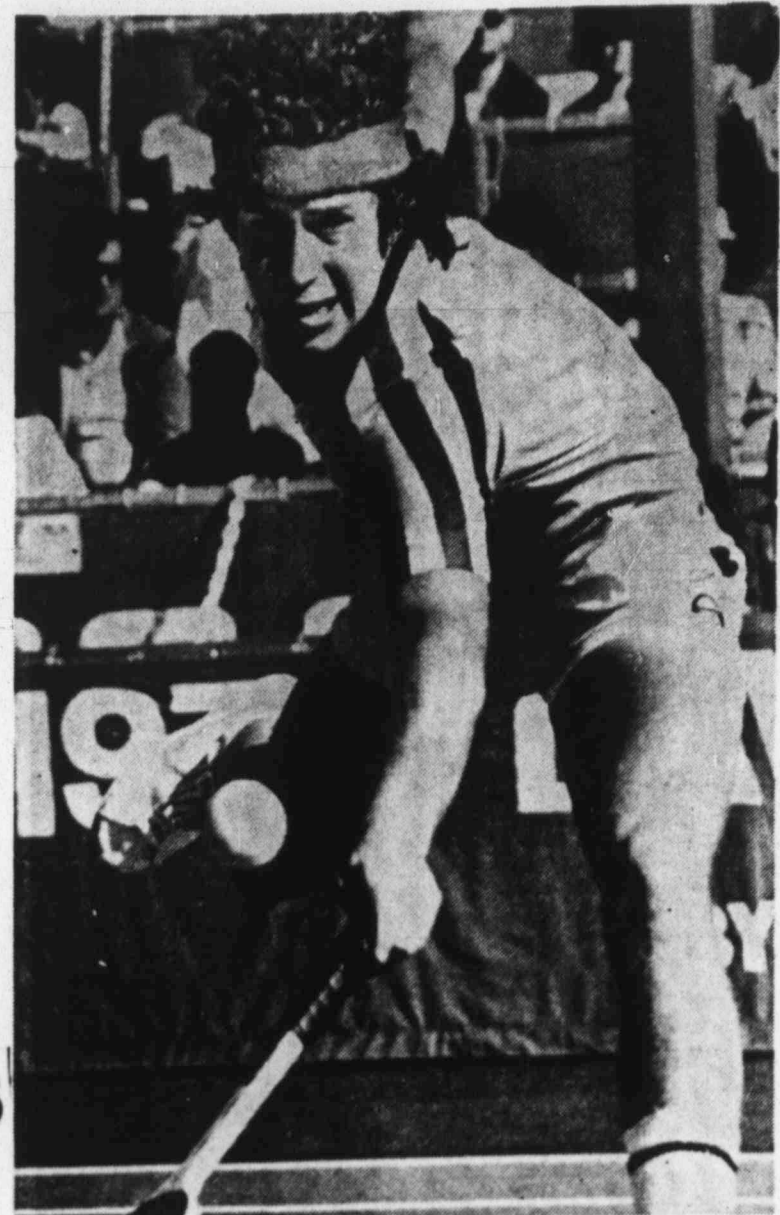

The final game was a cinch. McEnroe won the first two points on an overhead and a backhand cross-court. Mottram returned the next serve with a winner but was powerless on the next point as McEnroe aced.

The match ended with a hard serve that Mottram could only bowl into the net.

McEnroe sent his second ball into the air as a victory sentinel.

Brian Gottfried made it 4-1 for the United States by beating John Lloyd 6-1, 6-2, 6-4 in the final match.

The American team was sponsored by Congoleum Corp., the British team by Coca Cola of the United Kingdom. A paid crowd of 4,839 attended the championship match.

Kentucky Upsets Jayhawks In OT

By The Associated Press

Technically speaking, Kansas should have won the game.

The Jayhawks had Kentucky on the ropes with a six-point lead with 21 seconds left in overtime.

That, however, disappeared faster than you could call a technical foul on Kansas Coach Tom Owens. Which was what the officials did and why the fifth-ranked Jayhawks dropped a wild 67-66 decision to No. 10 Kentucky in Lexington Saturday night.

"My boys deserved to win," said Owens. "It was an absolute crime they didn't. That's all I have to say."

Owens was just as mad at himself for losing as he was at the rest of the world, and you couldn't blame him. Here's what happened:

With 21 seconds left, Kansas was in front 66-60 by virtue of two free throws by Darnell Valentine. But then Kentucky freshman Dwight Anderson hit a layup and added a pair of free throws to narrow the Jayhawks' lead to 66-64.

The Jayhawks had problems getting the ball inbound against Kentucky's pressure defense and when they did, the Wildcats' Kyle Macy scooped up a deflected pass and put in a 12-foot shot to tie the game at 66.

Owens called a timeout at this point, but was hit with a technical for exceeding his allotted timeouts. Macy went to the foul line with three seconds left and calmly converted Kentucky's winning point.

"I had a feeling we could win it all along," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall.

"We really struggled and those guys just didn't give up — and the effort in making up seven points in 21 seconds was almost unbelievable."

In another big game involving Top Twenty teams, third-ranked Notre Dame beat No. 2 UCLA 81-78.

Elsewhere, No. 4 Michigan State edged Cal State-Fullerton 92-89. No. 6 Michigan tripped Dayton 66-61. No. 7 Louisville routed Idaho 101-54. No. 8 North Carolina State beat Campbell College 108-83 and No. 9 Syracuse nipped Rhode Island 70-68.

Also, 12th-ranked LSU whipped Tulane 98-88. No. 13 Texas walloped Oklahoma State 85-70. No. 14 North Carolina posted an 85-56 victory over Jacksonville. No. 16 Marquette beat Missouri 74-57. No. 17 San Francisco hammered Sacramento State 78-59. Villanova shocked No. 18 Rutgers 86-67. No. 19 Maryland smashed Biscayne 86-60 and No. 20 Georgetown took a 77-71 decision over St. John's.

In tournament play, Brigham Young won the Cougar Classic with a 76-64 victory over Purdue. North Carolina-Charlotte took the First Union Invitational with a 66-61 decision over George Washington University and Indiana State beat Cleveland State 102-71 in the finals of the Hatter Classic.

In the finals of the Bayou Classic, Southwestern Louisiana defeated Southern University 100-82. Florida Southern won the Citrus Invitational by beating Mercer 72-70, and Cornell won the Big Red Classic with a 61-57 decision over Colgate.

Macy was a key figure for Kentucky. The junior guard not only scored the winning point at the end, but because that had contributed a basket that sent the game into overtime tied at 66.

Kelly Tripucka and Rich Branning led Notre Dame over UCLA in their big inter-sectional shootout. After UCLA tied the game at 62 with 6 1/2 minutes to play, Tripucka scored the next five points to give the Irish a 67-62 lead with 5 1/2 minutes to play.

Freshman Tyrone Nauls scored to bring the Bruins within one point at 77-76 with 27 seconds remaining after Branning missed the first of a 1-and-1 free throw situation. But Nauls then fouled Stan Wilcox, who converted both free throws for the Irish, then fouled Tripucka, who also hit two free throws to put the game away.

"We wore down UCLA physically, but you saw two great basketball teams tonight," said Irish Coach Digger Phelps. "UCLA will be in the NCAA's Final Four at playoff time."

Gregory Kelsor scored 27 points to lead Michigan State past Cal State-Fullerton.

Rams Playing For Home Advantage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cincinnati's Bengals are going nowhere in the National Football League this season yet on Monday night they could thwart the Los Angeles Rams' hopes to stay at home until the Super Bowl.

The Rams, who have won the NFC West title a sixth straight year, will be home for the Divisional Playoffs, either Dec. 30 or 31, and a victory over the Bengals would assure them the host role for the NFC Championship game on Jan. 7 if they get there.

Although the Rams are favored by a touchdown in the nationally televised game starting at 8 p.m. CST, they are no cinch.

Cincinnati, with Ken Anderson at the helm, swamped Atlanta 37-7 last week and the Rams only divided a pair against the Falcons. Coach Leeman Bennett of Atlanta termed the Bengals as the best club his team had played against.

Yet overall, the Rams stand 11-3 and Cincinnati just 2-12.

Coach Ray Malavasi of Los Angeles says he's satisfied with his club's offense but can't understand why the Rams don't score more touchdowns.

In addition to losing to Atlanta, New Orleans and Cleveland, the favored club has had close calls against San Francisco and the New York Giants in recent weeks.

"I'm proud of this football team," said Malavasi after the Rams clinched the West title. "I think our opposition has been underrated. The teams we play are much tougher than you think they are — the team coming in Monday night, for example."

"They didn't play like a 2-12 team against Atlanta, for example."

Both the Rams and Bengals have made coaching changes this season. Malavasi took over from George Allen after two preseason losses and Homer Rice replaced Bill Johnson when the Bengals failed to win in the regular season.

Scientists Analyze Venus Data

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Scientists began analyzing readings of sunlight, heat and pressure transmitted 33.5 million miles from Venus after pronouncing America's first comprehensive space mission to the planet a complete success.

Five probes plunged through Venus' atmosphere Saturday, transmitting data to elated scientists monitoring the experiment.

The data transmitted from the probes was translated into sketches of clouds, winds and other features of Venus. It was then transmitted some 33.5 million miles to tracking stations in California and Australia.

The finished portrait may take months to complete, but the first data will be analyzed early this week. The first thing 35 scientists from around the world will examine is the effectiveness of the instruments aboard the five probes.

Scientists said they want to take a closer look at one of the probes which, in an unexpected development, continued to transmit after impact, giving out after an hour.

They also plan to cooperate with and learn more from the launching of two Soviet probes, Venera 11 and 12, scheduled to land on Venus later this month for similar atmospheric monitoring.

Four probes made the hour-long descent within minutes of each other, while a fifth, the cylindrical "bus" that carried the probes from Earth, plunged into the Venusian atmosphere an hour later. It burned up within two minutes after sending back its share of data.

Scientists said they were surprised one probe continued to send back data after hitting Venus' surface, where temperatures are around 900 degrees Fahrenheit.

The probe continued to operate for 67 minutes after hitting the surface, the second longest a probe has survived on Venus. The Soviet Union's Venera probe lasted 108 minutes on July 8, 1972.

The Day probe was built by Hughes Aircraft Co., and scientists said they would examine the structure of the spacecraft to determine why it outlasted the others.

The first information scientists received was that the temperature 25 miles above Venus was 243 degrees Fahrenheit.

Scientists at Ames, from which the $225 million, 243-day Pioneer Venus probes were controlled, said the multicraft mission was the first of its kind.

The probes leave behind in space Pioneer Venus 1, a vehicle that last week began an estimated year-long orbit around Venus, which is similar to Earth in size but whose atmosphere appears to be inhospitable to life as found on Earth.

The orbiter, which was launched May 20, also returned data to Earth during its circuitous seven-month, 300 million-mile journey to Venus.

The multiprobe Pioneer 2, because its trip was shorter, was launched Aug. 7.

KIVA's 'Cold News' Bundles Telecasters

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — Forecaster Linda Peed didn't have to rely on weather instruments to tell KIVA-TV viewers about the cold that gripped the mountain community — it was inside.

The station's heating system failed Friday evening and temperatures inside the studio plummeted to 3 degrees by the 5:30 p.m. news and 1 below zero during the 9 p.m. broadcast.

Anchorman Richard Draper delivered the news bundled in a thermal ski jacket, sportscaster Dale Hansen wore a full-length corduroy coat and Miss Peed was wrapped in a double-lined, fur-collared coat.

"Sure is cold in here," Draper said as Miss Peed began her forecast.

But Farmington's Channel 10 newscasters were in good spirits. "You think it's cold outside? You should be in here," Draper quipped to viewers.

HEARTLINE: My husband has a small business at which we have both worked together for 24 years. He will soon be 65 and could draw Social Security retirement. Could he put the business in my name so that I could build up Social Security coverage on my own account to enable me to have benefits of my own when I turn age 65? If so, what steps do we take? — P.F.

Social Security sources tell us that you can do this, but you must meet certain requirements. First, it has to be a legal, valid transfer of the business and there must be a written document of such. Second, it would have to be made clear that your husband is no longer responsible for the debts of the business and that you have accepted this responsibility. Third, you must be qualified to take over management of the business. In cases such as this, the situation would be closely monitored by Social Security to make sure that your husband is not still running the business. We suggest that you check with Social Security to see what documents or statements you will need to show them.

For persons who are drawing Social Security benefits or will soon be retiring on Social Security, Heartline has an easy-to-understand booklet on many aspects of Social Security. To order, send two dollars to Heartline's Guide to Social Security, P.O. Box 11934, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Please allow eight weeks for delivery.

HEARTLINE: I am now 69 years of age. My ex-husband was a Union Pacific Railroad employee and he is now retired and remarried. We were married for 19 years. I believe his wife is now drawing retirement benefits on his railroad benefits. I am now drawing Social Security benefits and have a small alimony. I need to know if I can now or ever draw benefits on his railroad credits? — L.G.

The Railroad Retirement Act, unlike the Social Security Act, does not provide for the payment of annuities to the divorced spouses or widows of railroaders. Thus, you are not entitled to any railroad retirement benefits on your husband's account under current law.

An amendment to the Railroad Retirement Act would be required for annuties to become payable by the board to divorced spouses or widows. Amendments to the act are generally based on joint recommendations made to Congress by railroad management and labor on the basis of negotiated agreements between the two parties. Whether a provision to pay annuities to divorced spouses or widows will ever be agreed upon and recommended to Congress by management and labor, or on this would happen, cannot be determined at this time.

HEARTLINE: I received some literature in the mail from an insurance company that claims that, if we purchase it, their Medicare supplement will pay everything that Medicare does not pay — everything! Is there such a company and policy? They say they will also pay the 20 percent of the medical bills that Medicare doesn't pay. — Y.D.

We checked on the company you wrote to us about. Their literature was misleading. This company will pay 20 percent of the reasonable medical charges which Medicare does not pay. Medicare rarely pays 80 percent of the doctor bill. Instead, Medicare will pay 80 percent of the reasonable charges. If you have a bill for $100 from the doctor and the Medicare carrier decides that $100 was not the reasonable charge, but that $80 is the reasonable charge, then Medicare will pay 80 percent of $80, not $100. Thus, Medicare would pay $64 on that $300 charge and this insurance policy will pay 20 percent of $80, or $16, and you will still owe $20 out of your own pocket. If — and stress that if — Medicare had allowed the doctor's entire charge as reasonable, and paid 80 percent of $100, then this Medicare policy would have to pay the other 20 percent and thus your entire bill would have been paid.

For this company to say that with their policy and Medicare all your bills will be paid is to assume that your Medicare carrier will allow all of your doctor's charges as reasonable. This simply is not the situation. Medicare rarely finds any doctor's charges as reasonable. Heartline has a free list of tips on purchasing health insurance. Your Personal Biorhythms

by Bernard Gittelson

STEP 1	YEAR OF BIRTH	P	E	I
STEP 2	A-B MONTH OF BIRTH
STEP 3	DAY OF BIRTH
TOTALS

YOUR PERMANENT NUMBERS

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

'Vantage. I just won't compromise on taste.'

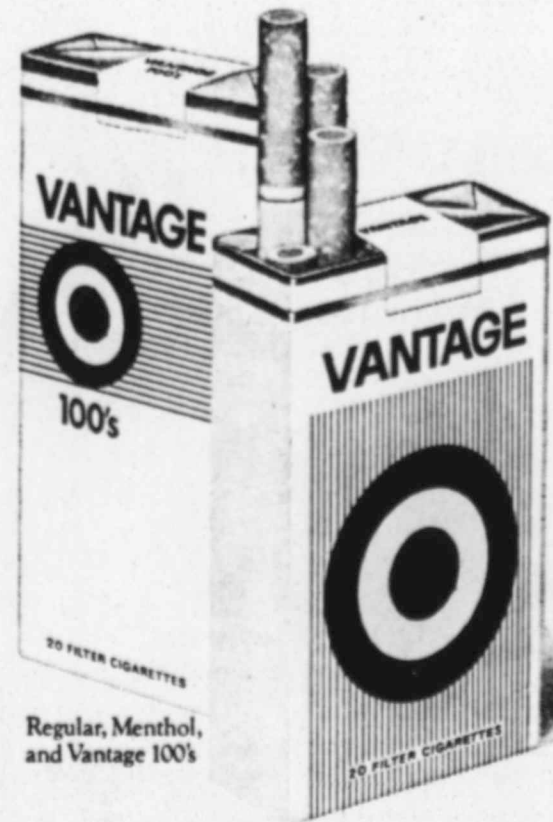

"I'm willing to make some concessions, but taste isn't one of them. Even though I've heard the tar stories, I still want a cigarette with good taste.

"That's why I'm glad I switched to Vantage.

"With Vantage, I get the taste I smoked for in the first place. And that wasn't easy to find in a low tar.

"For me, Vantage is the best tasting low tar cigarette there is."
