Coca-Cola, U.S. Firms Rush For China Market

ATLANTA (AP) — Coca-Cola Co. has signed a deal that will make it the only cola in China, the company announced

Coke Chairman J. Paul Austin said the company will begin sending bottled and canned Coke to China next month and added that a bottling plant will be built in Shanghai by the end of 1979.

The agreement apparently shuts out Pepsico Inc., Coke's chief competitor and the producer of Pepsi Cola. Pepsi is the only American cola sold in the Soviet

Austin told a news conference he did not think the agreement with China will affect Coke's business ties to Taiwan, where Coke supplies an independent bot-tler, or the Soviet Union, where it has signed an agreement to sell Fanta orange

He said Chinese officials signed the pact on Dec. 13 — two days before Presi-dent Carter announced the establishment of diplomatic relations with China.

A Pepsice spokesman refused to comment on the announcement. In another development, Pan American World Airways said in New York it hoped to begin direct San Francisco to Peking flights next month and establish a

PARIS (AP) - A massive electricity breakdown left France powerless for more than two hours Tuesday, prompting a French government that had scoffed at New York City's 1977 blackout to admit it has "a fundamental prob-

The nationwide power failure, triggered in part by a cold snap that boosted electricity demand, hit at the peak of the morning rush hour, stranding thousands of people in subways and elevators and ng chaotic traffic jams in Paris and other major cities. After New York City's day-long blackout July 14, 1977, France and other European countries belittled the American electric system, saying Europe's power grids and fail-safe mechanisms would never allow it to happen here.

"Fundamental Problem" After Tuesday's breakdown, Industry Minister Andre Giraud emerged from a routine Cabinet meeting with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and said the outage revealed "a fundamental problem" that required France "to organize our energy savings so that these incidents will be minimal." But, even as crowds of disgruntled commuters were still trudging by foot to work, Giraud declared, "The French network ... happily for us is in much better shape than the one on the other side of the Atlantic."

Unrelated power outages of 5 to 30 minutes struck Rome, Naples and other parts of southern Italy Monday. In West Germany, a spokesman for the national utilities federation said an outage like Tuesday's in France is "most unlikely to

Follow-The-Child Banned

Dr. E.C. Leslie, the school district's assistant superintendent for administration, said the district had hoped the government would allow Title I monies and personnel to "follow the child" as he or she is assigned from a school in a low-income area to a school in a higher-income

After months of working on proposals to reconcile the Title I program with the integration plan, it now is evident that such a "follow-the-child" approach will not be permitted, Leslie said.

As an alternative, the district last week submitted to the government a proposal to designate five more Title I campuses. Leslie said addition of the schools would address some but not all of the problems created by the integration plan.

School Minus Services Despite the expansion, he said, three westside schools that for integration reasons are receiving pupils from eastside Title I areas will continue to be without Title I services.

"This is the best we can do, given the regulations," Leslie said. "We still think we ought to be able to provide Title I services at whatever schools are serving Title I students. We regret that the regulations don't allow that." Leslie Cross, the school district's assistant director of special projects, last week went to Austin to submit the proposed amendment of the Title I program to the Texas Education Agency, which adminis-ters the federally funded progra ms.

The government has given the district informal approval, Dr. Leslie said. Cross said formal, written approval is expected next month.

The district intends to implement the revised Title I program Jan. 22, the start of the second semester of the 1978-79 school year.

The 18 schools currently designated as Title I are Arnett, Bean, Bozeman, Dupre, Guadalupe, Harwell, Hunt, Iles, Jackson, Mahon, Martin, McWhorter, Parkway, Posey, Tubbs, Wheatley, Wolffarth and Wright elementaries.

Under the integration plan, Guadalupe is sending half its minority students to Stewart Elementary; Iles to Wheelock; Mahon to Hardwick; Martin to Maedgen; Posey to Stubbs; and Wheatley to Overthe controversial ordinance to proceed. The defendant in the pending misde-meanor case had contended criminal prosecution of the ordinance should be thrown out because of inequitable enforcement. Warnick, county court-at-law No. 2 judge, set a Jan. 8 trial date.

The defense during a pretrial hearing had asserted that the city had entered into an agreement with a local pharmacy, L &H Drugs, Inc., and with an individual who reportedly leases portable signs that no citations would be issued against

Equal Protection Argued Defense attorney Bill Wischkaemper, representing defendant Mark Corley, argued the reported agreements denied his client equal protection of the laws in violation of the U.S. Constitution. Attorneys representing the city had expressed surprise, indicating they thought state district court injunctions in civil cases had barred citations in connection with the two instances cited by Wischkaemper. Evidence introduced by the defense indicated there was no restraining order, injunction or other legal impediment in the two instances.

The order issued by Warnick tonguelashed the city, but indicated the instances referred to by the defense were not enough by themselves to make a selective prosecution claim valid.

There is no doubt that the defendant in this case has shown the reprehensible practice of exemptions from prosecution for which no valid legal reason existed with regard to the portable sign ordinance," the order reads in part.

"That is not enough to support the discriminatory prosecution defense," it continues. "He must also show that his selection for prosecution was invidious or in bad faith. There is no such showing." Earlier in the order, Warnick indicated he was relying primarily on a 1974 U.S. See COURT RULES Page 14

Panel Cool To Pioneer's Plea

Avalanche-Journal Staff CONSULTANTS studying Pioneer Natural Gas Company's request for domestic rate increases in 63 West Texas cities believe less than half the amount is needed, the cities' representatives learned Tues-

After hearing that, the 11-man steering committee representing cities in the West Texas Distribution System instructed the consultants to continue their studies and to consider recommending a revision in the company's 100 percent fuel cost adjustment provision.

Committee Chairman Fred Poe of Midland told the group that the consultants' ion, that Pioneer needs less than half the rate increase recommended by Zinder and Associates study."

Using that study, Pioneer last summer applied for a rate increase it estimates will average 26 percent overall. It requested the increase to offset increasing deficiencies in annual revenues. Poe said, however, the consultants are 'apprehensive" about revealing an exact figure publicly because it could "hurt negotiations" with the gas company to adjust the increase requested.

"We've got to leave some negotiating room with the consultants and for them The consultants will review Pioneer data further before opening negotiations with the gas company. Their conclusions will be presented to the steering committee, which will recommend adopting or rejecting the agreement. That in turn will be forwarded to the councils of the 63 cities affected, who will adopt or turn down the committee's recommendations.

Final disposition of the rate case is expected by mid-February. Pioneer can appeal each city's decision to the Texas Railroad Commission. Poe told the committee Tuesday he believes Pioneer "is going to do something the middle of January." If the company doesn't, he added, the committee will meet again to plot new strategy. The suggestion that Pioneer's option to pass on the entire fuel cost adjustment to customers be reviewed was made initially by the consultants, Poe said. Consultant Bill McMorries, an engineer from Amarillo, said his colleagues have discussed the "reasonableness" of the # Killing Off Golden Goose?

DESPITE EFFORTS on the part of some, including the administration, to "play down" the effects of the surprise OPEC oil price boost, the facts are that it's "bad news" for the Free World.

Even if the price of gasoline is held to no more than the "three to four cents" a gallon boost projected by some in Washington, it still will be too much.

Such a "minimal" amount projected over a year or several years will add up for the already beleaguered American wage-earner.

ACTUALLY, THE price boost may turn out to be more than the "average" 14.50 percent annual boost announced.

The Saudi Arabian government indicates it will also force the West to start buying more of its heavy crude, which will cause a change in refinery techniques and plants, thus again upping costs and prices.

Ironically, the OPEC nations, which had been expected to hold the latest increases to somewhere in the 10 percent range, may have defeated the very reason given for the boost in the first place.

The declining dollar, OPEC spokesmen said, necessitated a boost in revenues to make up for the loss.

THE END RESULT was that the price boost, with its specter of more inflation for the U.S. and Free World, helped drive the dollar down further and sent the U.S. Stock Market into a dizzy drop.

The whole scenario brings ever nearer the fact that the U.S. nor the industrial West have come to grips with the real problems confronting them on the energy front-how to lessen dependence on foreign imports, or work out some formula where future purchases will not bankrupt the West.

At some point, and the sooner the better, we think the U.S. must start taking a hardnosed attitude toward the OPEC nations -but on a basis which would be beneficial to both parties.

THIS MEANS setting prices of U.S. and Western goods and services to "compensate" for increased oil supplies.

To those who argue that the Saudis and others would get their goods and service -including weapons-elsewhere the answer is "with Russia?"

The OPEC leaders aren't naive. Sooner or later, if they get in bed with the Communists, they risk upheaval and loss of

The trick is for the West to convince the OPEC nations that a more mutually satisfactory arrangement must be worked out-to furnish the Free World oil and the Third World know-how and materials.

Anything less is killing the Golden Goose which is rapidly running out of golden eggs to pay for the oil.

Credit 'Insulates' Tax Dollars

ONE CAN NEVER underestimate the influence of a prospective tax break on how the consumer dollar is spent.

The tax credits for home insulation expenditures written into the new National Energy Act generally are being credited with spurring the current boom in insulating material sales. Where the energy pinch itself did not move the homeowning public to action, the prospect of bottom-line savings has.

To give you an idea, an estimated 5 million American attics will be reinsulated this year, compared with the average of some 2.7 million during each of the past several years.

Demand is also strong for caulking, storm doors and windows, weather stripping and the like, plus solar heating and other alternate-energy equipment for installation of which tax credits may also be claimed.

THE LESS-desirable aspect of the boom is that it has encouraged greatly expanded production and attracted new companies into the field, with the result that quality control may not be all it should be in some cases.

To be sure they are getting full insulating value for their dollars, homeowners are advised to check insulation material they purchase for the R-value, the measurement of its effectiveness

The higher the value-R-26 to R-38 for ceilings or attic floors is the U.S. Energy Department recommendation-the more effective the insulation. The colder the part of the country is, the higher the R-value should investment should yield both savings on fuel bills and on next year's federal tax return. The tax credit amounts to 15 percent up to a maximum of $300 for expenditures on home insulating materials, retroactive from April 20, 1977, through 1984.

There also is great potential for saving on the national level, according to the Mineral Insulation Manufacturers Assn.

account for 20 percent of the total national energy consumption, the industry organization estimates that if all were properly insulated, the saving nationwide would be the equivalent of 500,000 to 1 million barrels of oil a day.

The immediate point of that discussion was the recent decree of the Carter administration approving the export to the Soviet Union of $144 million worth of machinery needed to make sophisticated oil-well drilling equipment.

This transaction was approved despite the protest of a Pentagon task force which pointed out the strategic and military applications of the technology in question.

This, unhappily, is only one of many examples that might be cited in similar vein.

U.S. AND OTHER Western industries have been busy in recent years supplying the Soviet Union with truck and automobile factories, warships, chemical processes and countless other items needed to build the military power of the

The procedure is described in full detail by Antony Sutton in his classic study, "Western Technology and Soviet Economic Development." If anything, the problem has gotten worse since Sutton wrote.

Miles Costick of the Task Force on Strategic Trade points out that Western-Japanese non-agricultural exports to the Soviet Union approximately tripled between 1973 and 1978-increasing from $5.1 billion to $14.8 billion.

Included in this rising tide of commerce have been such things as the largest truck factory in the world, machinery to make ball-bearings used in missile production, and advanced computers required for missile guidance and deployment of other military forces.

It would require the Commerce Department to notify Congress of all proposed export licenses, mandate disclosure of who is trading what to Moscow, require a "military impact statement" from the Pentagon, and prohibit the transfer of goods or technologies that have a significant deense, law-enforcement, or intelligence value.

WASHINGTON-Rep. John Conyers, black and from Michigan, tells us something about the Democratic Party's left-that it won't face the catastrophe of galloping inflation.

Emerging from a meeting of 100 black delespeech in which he said a good word for his antiinflation program, Conyers delivered himself of an utterance that belonged in the wild dream world of Lyndon Johnson's not-so Great Society. Carter's program, growled Conyers, "will flatly result in his defeat in 1980. He owes us the Presi-

TAXES MAY BE a painful subject for Americans, but it could be worse.

The United States actually ranks 10th among major nations in the severity of the personal income tax bite, according to a study by The Con-ference Board. At the top of the list are Denmark, Sweden and Britain, where the average figures are respectively 28, 23 and 16 percent of personal income. Low men on the tax pole are France and Italy, at 5 percent each.

That is not the entire tax story, however. Social insurance levies increase the burden in all countries and in some cases exceed direct taxes.

In the Netherlands, employer-employe contri-butions hit a high of 18 percent of income and in France, 15 percent, three times the direct tax. West Germany with 13 percent and Belgium with 12 percent are also high in this category, while the United States is in ninth place with 8 percent.

This is one international comparison where it pays individually to be an also-ran nationally.

A 71-year-old man told police that three suspects forced their way into his car Tuesday afternoon and forced him to drive to East Lubbock before striking him over the head and taking $11 cash and six gasoline credit cards.

Theron E. Milam said he was getting into his car on the parking lot of South Plains Mall, 6002 Slide Road, about 12:15 p.m. when the trio also got into his car. He said the black man who got into the front seat held his right hand in his jacket pocket and pointed it at Milam, telling him to drive or he would get hurt. Milam told officers he followed the apparently armed man's instructions to the Coronado Apartments, East 26th Street

Christmas Sales Volume Delights Merchants

By The Associated Press

America's Santa Clauses are making this Christmas a merry one for the nation's retailers, and store officials say the increase in business is almost matching last year's huge rise.

Christmas shoppers are buying lots of electronic games, gold jewelry, fancy clothing and popcorn poppers, according to

"Every year is turning into a record year," said Ann Wolff, a spokeman for the huge K Mart chain, the nation's thirdlargest.

"It appears this will be at least the third straight very strong Christmas," said a spokesman for the 570-store Dayton-Hudson Corp. who didn't want to be identified. "Last year was the strongest by a wide margin up to then. To get another good increase on top of that is almost too good to ask for, but it appears it will be that.

Sales at the chain, centered in the Midwest, were up 17 percent in November and should do at least as well this month, according to the spokesman. "That frankly is better than we expected," he

Other stores are reporting comparable increases, although few say the increase is topping last year's, when some stores' sales were up by more than 25 percent.

And some say increases are minimal. "Sales are flat in the Baltimore area, for our store and for everybody else," said Ward R. Woods, president of the Hochschild-Kohn store in that city. Sales at many Sears, Roebuck & Co. stores are the same as last year or have even fallen, according to Sears spokesman John Austin, because the company has cut its promotional budget.

But most retailers are happy with Christmas sales and say good autumn weather in most parts of the country has proved a boon to business.

Where there has been bad weather, sales usually picked up immediately afterward and made up for any adverse af-fects, although Bill Neal, manager of Smyth's Department Store in Rawlins, Wyo., said, "We started with a large increase in sales at Thanksgiving, then it dropped off when the weather got bad." But Neal said sales were "right on the money compared with last year.

Picking the year's hottest item "is difficult," said Marcus Tully, a spokesman for St. Louis' Famous-Barr store, which is owned by May Co. "There's no pet rock this year.

But there is "Simon," an electronic game manufactured by Milton Bradley Co., and the rest of his electronic ilk.

Ranging from hand-held basketball games to elaborate systems using television screens, the electronic games seem to be the hottest things around. Many stores are selling them as fast as they can get them. Ed Conley, manager of the White Elephant store in Spokane, said he puts 10 "Simons" on his shelves every Monday, and people line up an hour be-fore the store opens for the chance to buy

President's Nephew Asks For Pardon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - President Carter's nephew, convict William Carter Spann, has sent a Christmas card to a San Francisco newspaper columnist sug-gesting he should be freed if his uncle ardons newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

"If Uncle Jimmy does as he should and pardons Patty Hearst, do you think Gov. Brown could sign a commutation for me?" Spann, 32, penned on a card he sent to San Francisco Chronicle column-ist Herb Caen. "I'd like to be out help-ing people instead of sitting here doing

. Spann is serving a sentence of 10 years to life at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville for his part in two 1976 armed robberies in San Francisco. He is the son of Gloria Carter Spann, the pres-

Miss Hearst, daughter of newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst, is impris-oned at the Federal Correctional Institution at Pleasanton on a bank robbery conviction. In September, she petitioned the president for clemency, and administration officials have confirmed that the request was under review.

She was convicted in 1976 of taking part in a bank robbery which followed her kidnapping by the Symbionese Lib-eration Army. She is not eligible for parole until 1980.

Spann is a vociferous letter writer whose missives are frequently published in letters-to-the-editor columns. Caen said he has received numerous letters from the Georgia native, who describes himself as the "black sheep" of the Carter family

In his column, Caen noted that Spann's hand-written note was accompa-nied by a hand-drawn happy face.

Bituminous Coal Record Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) - The bituminous coal industry is expected to mine a record 713 million tons next year, an increase of 10.4 percent from the 646 million tons it will produce this year, the National Coal Association's economics committee says. The association says 1978 production of coal will be 6.2 percent less than the 688.6 million tons produced in 1977, be-cause of strikes by coal miners and railway workers.

The electronic games are not cheap. The least expensive sells for around $25. Other expensive items are also listed as top sellers, continuing a trend toward high-ticket gifts that showed up last year.

"People seem to be making larger purchases," said Keith Mitchell, manager of the ZCMI department store in Salt Lake City. "I just okayed a check for $2,300 for glassware.

Gold jewelry has been especially popular this year, and designer jeans and clothing in lush fabrics like velvet are also big sellers. Toys inspired by "Star Wars" and "Battlestar Galactica" are favored by those persons shopping for children. Store owners in New York City, where the three major newspaper were on strike for much of the fall, and St. Louis, where papers are now on strike, say sales haven't been badly hurt.

'We feel maybe (sales) would be better if the two major papers were going," said

GROWN

Associated Press Writer You may not be getting as many Christmas cards as you expected this year.

Inflation in general and the high cost of postage in particular apparently are causing some people to pare down card lists and pay more attention to price. Sales of postcards - which require a 10-cent rather than a 15-cent stamp - are up.

An Associated Press spot check on Tuesday showed the situation varies widely from city to city and even from store to store. In general, however, retailers said sales of boxed cards are down while sales of individual cards are up.

"I think fewer people are sending masses of Christmas cards," said Alice Westervelt, co-manager of the museum store at the Rhode Island School of Design in Providence. "No one has come in and bought a hundred cards." As for postcards, she said, "We've been doing a landslide business.'

Mary Ann Bisig of the Bennett-Hallmark Card Shop in Louisville, Ky., also said customers "are buying more postcards this year. I think the whole thing boils down to postage.

Miss Bisig said the customers who do opt for the traditional cards are buying fewer than they used to. "I think they've cut their lists down," she said.

Yvonne Williams of the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers said Americans send about 3 billion Christmas cards a year - almost 15 cards for every man, woman and child in the country, She said sales generally increase about 1 to 2 percent a year and predicted that 1978 would be no exception.

Michael LeConche, the owner of Wholesale Card and Gift Co. in Hartford, Conn., isn't so sure.

He said that he was "almost cleaned out" of individual cards, but said sales of boxed cards were down. "It's not down a lot," he said, "but it is down so that I not-

David Cohen of the Fifth Avenue Card Shop, with 50 outlets along the Eastern Seaboard, said, "As we see it now, we have not seen a fall-off." He said the dollar volume of sales was higher than in 1977 and added that there has been "a fair stabilization in terms of units."

Cohen said the lower-priced, boxed cards - $2 to $4 for 25 cards - sold out quickly, but he said the store also was doing a brisk business in 25-card boxes selling for up to $16.

Bill Havey, the owner of Havey's Card & Party Shop, Inc., in Kansas City North, also said expensive cards were doing well. "Our business is just fantastic," he said. At the same time, Havey said his supply of postcards sold out almost immediately.

Like retailers, postal officials reported varying sales trends. The volume of mail handled by Detroit's post offices in the first week of December was 13.3 percent below last year's levels, while the Indian-

hours Tuesday morning, was the cause of traffic jams in the streets of Paris. Paris commuters were further disgruntled when the taxis never arrived. (AP Laserphopto)

France Hit By Power Blackout

But EDF statements left the impression the utility could not explain why the breakdown was so widespread. The Confederation Française Democratique du Travail, a major trade union, demanded an investigation.

It was the worst blackout in French history. Hardest hit was the Paris Metro, the subway famed for the speed and comfort in which it transports 2 million passengers a day. By nightfall, it was still only two-thirds in operation.

Many Frenchmen at first thought electricity workers, who have scheduled a strike for Thursday, had walked off the job earlier than planned. Their union has promised, however, power will not be cut by the strike, called to protest state fiscal moves.

"It was horrible, being trapped in that dark tunnel," said Anne Abulafia, who was stranded in a subway under the Champs Elysees. "I'm a bit claustrophobic and I thought I would faint. But nobody panicked. The 27-year-old fashion designer, like many fellow Parisians, had to walk for an hour to get to work. Others fought their way aboard crowded buses, squab-bled for taxis or hitchhiked. The blackout affected France in many small ways. The state lottery had to postpone its weekly draw for two hours. The city zoo worried that without light its tropical fish would lose their colors. Doctors in the town of Ussel in central

France completed surgery by flashlight and reported no complications. Salespeople, particularly in Paris' many subterranean boutiques, were ordered to watch for shoplifters exploiting the gloom. Unlike the New York blackout, when thousands of looters wrecked entire shopping districts, no major outbreak of crime was reported, nor were any blackout-related deaths or serious injuries. The power failure prompted some criticism of the government's energy policies. The Friends of the Earth organization, an ecology movement, accused the government of "pushing France to equip itself with electricity despite its rising cost and the waste it entails.

It urged consumers to reject electric power in favor of solar and geothermal

In Break With Taiwan WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker called on President Carter Tuesday to postpone plans

for canceling the U.S.-Taiwan mutual defense treaty until the matter can be given further consideration in Congress. Meanwhile, conservative House and Senate members, angered by Carter's decision to extend full diplomatic relations to China, said they would seek to keep the defense pact alive through a variety of legislative and legal tactics. Cancellation of the 24-year old pact was announced by Carter last Friday along with plans to establish diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China on the mainland.

Consultation Demanded

There is considerable feeling on Capitol Hill that Carter should have consulted with Congress before acting on China, and that such action was demanded by provisions of the 1978 International Security Assistance Act. The act calls for a president to consult with Congress before making major new agreements with other nations.

An amendment to that law, adopted 94-0 earlier this year, expressed the clear sense of Congress that the White House should consult extensively with lawmak ers before taking any action on a mutual defense treaty. The language was not binding, however.

"Time must be given for Congress to deal with such an important foreign policy matter," Baker said in a telegram to Carter. The Tennessee Republican urged postponing an end to defense ties with Taiwan until after the 96th Congress convenes Jan. 15.

Join In Lawsuit

In a harsher criticism of Carter's China action, several House and Senate mem-bers who are officers or members of the American Conservative Union said earlier that they will join with Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in sponsoring a lawsuit attacking the constitutionality of Carter's termination of the 1955 treaty.

They said the ACU also is helping draft binding Senate and House resolutions that would have the effect of stalling full diplomatic standing and recognition for the People's Republic of China until the mutual defense treaty with Taiwan is reinstated. Such resolutions often are introduced in efforts to halt administration action by barring action on legislation needed to help implement it.

Publicity Campaign

At a Capitol Hill news conference, the ACU said it will mount a nationwide publicity campaign aimed at producing an outpouring of telegams and letters to Congress protesting the Carter decision.

We intend to employ all of our resources to oppose this action of the president," said Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md.

Bauman said the resolutions will be offered as amendments to bills changing China's trade status and making military adjustments affecting the Taiwan re-

He said consideration will be given to attempts to add similar language to the legislation appropriating funds for the establishment of a U.S. embassy in Peking. Bauman said that while the president has the clear right under the Constitution to grant diplomatic recognition to a foreign power, he believes the ACU has a good legal case to contend that Carter campaign to uphold the treaty with Taiwan to distract it from its simultaneous attempt to prevent ratification of a new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT) with the Soviet Union. The news conference produced an abundance of carefully chosen insults aimed at the new Carter policy on China. Bauman called it "the greatest act of Sudetenland to Adolf Hitler.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., was not present but sent a news release calling the action a "reprehensible" sellout of the 17 million people of Taiwan, whom he said have become "human sacrifices at the elusive temple of world peace."

Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, called the decision "a dishonorable act" in which Carter "cast aside an honorable ally in order to embrace a communist dictatorship. Ashbrook complained that the Carter administration allowed the Peking government to "dictate the terms" of the agreement.

Warnick said that, according to the appeals court decision, the defense in order to support a selective prosecution claim must prove:

-That others similarly situated have not generally been prosecuted because of alleged similar conduct, and that the defendant has thus been singled out for prosecution;

-or that the prosecution is invidious, or in bad faith, because it is based upon considerations such as race, religion or the desire to prevent the defendant's exercise of Constitutional rights.

Warnick indicated that neither criterion had been met.

Although Pioneer justifies the over-

Dr. Jerry Miller, economic consultant said the group believes there is too high which results in too high a rate of return because the subsidiaries generate a large percentage of low-income children still is too low to qualify.

Thus, Leslie explained, the district will to the receiving schools of Overton, Stubbs and Wheelock.

In addition, Brown and Hodges elementaries - neither of which is a "receiving" school under the integration plan - are expected to be designated as Title I schools, Leslie said. At the secondary level, instead of Title

I, there is the State Compensatory Education program. The district is proposing that the SCE teachers previously designated for the recently closed Struggs Junior High be reallocated to Atkins Junior High, which is receiving Struggs-area seventh-graders; and Hutchinson Junior High, which is getting Struggs-area eighth-graders.

Once a school is designated as Title I. any student regardless of income is eligible for the special academic services available. This fall, for example, students from

Title I areas who have been assigned to a Title I school for integration reasons have been allowed to participate in the Title I program. Like the students living in the school's attendance zone, they must demonstrate a need for extra academic help.

With the expansion, Title I plans to add three reading teachers, three math teachers, one counselor and one librarian. As a result, the program here will employ 49 reading teachers, 31 math teachers, five counselors, six librarians and numerous support staff.

The president said he feels the United States has "more than honored the terms" of its mutual defense treaty with Taiwan and asserted "I see no basis for a successful court challenge" to his decision to end the agreement.

"I think what we have done is right," he said. "It is better for our country. It is better for the people of China. It does not hurt the people of Taiwan. It is good for world peace. I think we have benefited greatly, and I am very proud of it."

While Carter did not claim China has given any explicit assurance that it will not interfere with Taiwan, he said: They know our firm expectations, clearly expressed to them, that the differences between China and Taiwan will be settled peacefully. And I think to violate that understanding with us would be to wipe out all the benefits to them and to Asia of peace and their new relationship with us.

'People Want Peace" Asked if the United States would "feel free to use force" to block any mainland attempt to takeover Taiwan, Carter

"I don't want to speculate on under what circumstaces we might take military action because I think it is absolutely an unnecessary speculation because the people of China want peace, they want good relationships with us, and, of course, Taiwan is so strong and will stay strong."

The president said the latest reports he has received from Taiwan indicate "their original concerns (about his actions) have been substantially alleviated."

"I don't think the people of Taiwan are any more concerned about future peace than they were before," he said. Talked To Congress Carter said he made a point of telling Congress members "about the terms un der which we would normalize relation ships with China," and answering their But, he added, "I might say in complete candor that in the last two or three weeks, when the negotiations were building up to a climax, in an unanticipated degree of rapidity of movement, we did not consult with anyone outside of a very tiny group within the executive branch of government about the prospective success.

He contended that his views on the subject were well known to Congress members and their views known to him, so that "what did happen should not be a surprise to anyone

Lack Of Consultation

Asked why he could not have consulted with congressional leaders before making a final commitment, Carter said, "my experience in negotiating sensitive and complicated agreements with foreign leaders, including the experience at gotiate through the news media, through ublic pronouncements, and with wide divergencies of views expressed by different leaders in a country is not conducive to success.

In any case, the president said, "I am authorized and directed by the Constitution and my responsibility is to conduct negotiations of this kind."

Saying he had no doubt that he took the right and correct course, Carter added, "I don't have any doubts that had we letters sent in with contributions this week and came across one which conveys the spirit of Christmas giving. "Dear Chief Goodfellow, In the Cub Scouts, the theme for December is 'Duty to God and Country.' This theme, which is taken from the Cub Scout Promise, is to remind the Cub Scouts of the real meaning of Christmas and encourage them to practice their religion as taught in their church and home and to stress good citizenship "In Den 2 of Pack 510, the Cub Scouts stressed this month's theme by participating in our church Christmas program and making Christmas gifts for their families. As a special community service project, they decided to send Goodfellows the dues collected for the month of December, which would otherwise have gone toward the purchase of material for a craft they were going to make. By not making this craft, each boy also sacrif-iced a point toward his Cub Scout awards.

"Enclosed is their contribution. We're not a very large den and the contribution isn't much, but the thought will be of great value to them. We hope it will help some needy children to have a Good Christmas. Sincerely, Mrs. Dora Castillo, Den Leader, H. Omar Quirino, Jamie Castillo, Kent Anderson, Lance Stratton, and Mike R.

"So, Lubbock citizens and especially adults, it's up to each of us to see that this project is another success by contributing and volunteering to distribute gifts early Christmas morning," Chief Goodfellow concluded.

H.R. HALDEMAN

Gates Open Today For Haldeman

WASHINGTON (AP) - H.R. Haldeman walks out of a California prison camp into freedom today, leaving aged and ailing John Mitchell as the last man serving time for Watergate crimes.

Haldeman's release will come "shortly after they open the gates in the morning" at the minimum federal security prison at Lompoc, said a spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

The former chief of staff of the Nixon White House will have served exactly 18 months for conspiring with Mitchell and John D. Ehrlichman to obstruct justice in the Watergate case and then lying

"Few men in all history have had the privilege of being raised as high as I was; and few have had the tragedy of being brought as low," Haldeman wrote in his highly publicized book "The Erds

Turned Against Nixon "I was never a social friend of Nixon's," Haldeman wrote. He turned against the former president, saying that Nixon "himself caused those burglars" to break into the Watergate headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. And, he said, Nixon "was in on the coverup from Day One."

Haldeman was the 24th man caught in the Watergate net to go to prison when he entered the camp on June 20 last year. Mitchell was the last when he reported the next day to a similar institution in Alabama.

Nixon, who had been named by a grand jury as an unindicted conspirator in the Watergate coverup, was pardoned by successor Gerald Ford for any crimes committed while he was president.

Ehrlichman Freed Ehrlichman had chosen to end his series of fruitless appeals earlier than the other two and he completed his 18month sentence last April 27. Since then he's finished a second novel, divorced, remarried, and begun a career as a radio network commentator.

Mitchell, 65, was out five months on medical furlough for repair of a weakened artery in his abdomen and replacement of his arthritic right hip. He is scheduled for a five-day Christmas furlough beginning Friday and release on

While in Lompoc, Haldeman, 52, was described as a good inrate who kept a low profile. He worked the evening shift in the prison sewage processing plant as

"Time Totally Wasted" Despite his education, training and experience, his time is totally wasted," said his lawyer in one petition. "He is making no contribution to society or to himself. He is just trying to exist and stay out of trouble. He is useless to the world, a burden on society and a great concern to his family." Haldeman will be required to report regularly to a parole officer for the 21/2 years remaining on his 1-to-4 year sentence, reduced from the original 21/2-to-8 vears.

Haldeman has not disclosed his plans. Before joining Nixon when he entered the White House, Haldeman worked for nearly 20 years with the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency, rising from research analyst to vice president. His association with various Nixon political campaigns began in 1956.

There's no measuring, no cans to open and no jar tops to unscrew. Each cube equals a teaspoon of freeze-dried coffee and is individually wrapped in twisted cellophane to "lock in freshness." The students said they made the cubes by grinding regular freeze-dried coffee into a fine powder leveling it into a mold similar to an ice-cube tray and baking it for a half hour. They said the coffee would cost about 10 cents a cup.

The festival, which presents musical and theatrical works, was founded by Menotti in Spoleto, Italy, where it still is put on each summer. The U.S. counterpart was started two years ago.

Stern said Miss Reed "did a tremendous job. Without her, we wouldn't have had two successful festivals."

Miss Reed could not be reached for comment. But in her letter, she said the festival had been "a major cultural ac-

The first indication of problems came during the festival's board meeting in October. Miss Reed was upset after the meeting because of a board decision to retain a consultant on program, budget and organization.

Waiters and waitresses brought on 108 dozen Samish Bay oysters, a bit of crab and shrimp and drinks for all the Seahawks players in the house. The tab came to $1,675, not counting a $100 tip for the oyster shuckers and $75 for those

Convict Takes Stand During Davis Trial

HOUSTON (AP) — A convict testified Tuesday he was promised his freedom in exchange for perjured testimony against millionaire defendant Cullen Davis.

Sal Florio, 34, a convicted robber, said chief Prosecutor Tolly Wilson wanted him to testify that Davis hired his uncle in 1975 to kill the defendant's wife, Pris-

Prosecutors branded Florio and his uncle, John Florio, who also had a record of previous convictions, as "liars," indicating they would prove their story false on cross-examination.

The Florios told their stories previously outside the presence of the jury in the murder-for-hire trial of the Fort Worth industrialist.

Davis, 45, is accused of plotting the contract murder of his divorce judge. He contends he was framed.

State attorneys said they are convinced Davis will testify in his own behalf and will contend he was the target of a conspiracy conceived by his estranged wife They maintain that no one other than Davis can explain away the incriminating tape-recorded conversations last Augus tween the defendant and FBI inform ant David McCrory.

"Prosecutors are used to having de-fendants point the finger at them," one state attorney said. "It goes with the ter-

Sal Florio said he was first approached by district attorney's investigator Don Evans last May at the state prison and questioned about an anonymous letter concerning Davis.

"I told him I never talked to Davis before and that I've never seen him before," Florio said.

It was in a subsequent meeting, Florio said, that he talked with Wilson, who heads the criminal trial section of the Tarrant County (Fort Worth) district attorney's office.

What did he say he would do for you? asked a defense attorney. 'He said he would go to the governor's office," Florio replied. "And what did you have to do to get him to go to the governor's office?"

"Testify against Cullen Davis." Florio said he was assured he would not be prosecuted for giving false testi-

He told the jury he also was asked at one point if Davis had issued a contract on the life of District Attorney Tim Cur-

'Did you tell them that's a lie?" he was asked. "Of course I did," he responded.

Florio said he was transferred from a curity unit while pretending he would go along with the purported proposal. "Were you going to give false testimo-ny against Cullen Davis in exchange for your freedom?" he was asked.

"No, I wasn't," the witness said.

A defense lawyer told newsman he did not necessarily believe Florio but "we put him on to establish that the DA's office would deal with anyone to get Cullen

Wilson brought out in cross-examina-tion that Florio told him of the existence of a tape recording and a picture purport-edly related to the 1975 scheme to kill Mrs. Davis.

But Florio insisted that he advised both Evans and his investigative colleague, Bob Morris, that no such tape or picture

Florio did concede that he signed a paper written by his uncle in which the Florios instructed a New York acquaintance named John Harris to turn over the tape and photo to the investigators.

"Did you say in my presence that such a tape did exist?" Wilson demanded. 'Yes, I did," Florio admitted. Wilson sought to show that both he and the investigators were after a possible link between Davis and the Florios and not seeking perjured testimony. In fact, Evans and Morris did fly to

New York in search of the man named 'We never found John Harris," prosecutor Jack Strickland said after court recessed for the day. "We don't know if John Harris exists."

Florio denied any attempt to "sell" his testimony to the defense, although he admitted writing a letter to lend defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes that was not answered.

At one point, Wilson pointed across the courtroom and asked Florio if he told the bailiff last week "to tell Haynes if he doesn't come talk to me I'm going to blow his case right out of the courtblow his case right out of the court-

Florio said he did not say that and did not know if his Uncle John did.

The witness was to return Wednesday morning for another round of questioning by the prosecution.

Meanwhile, Strickland said now he does not expect the defense to put Davis on the witness stand until after a five-day Christmas break beginning Friday.

He said he doubts the defense would put him on before the break because that would give investigators those five days would give investigators those five days to seek rebuttal testimony.

"I'd just as soon they don't put him on before then," Strickland smiled. "I'd rather not spend my five days worrying about Cullen Davis."

Defense lawyers refused, once again, to confirm or deny that Davis will take the stand but Dallas attorney Phil Burleson said in response to a question, "We'll take all the evidence that's pertinent and put it before the jury."

The payments deficit was in so-called current account transactions, which measures the balance of trade and also the balance in service transactions, including such things as the return on foreign in-

than it was in the second quarter. The current account deficits have been a major cause of the decline in the value of the dollar on world money markets in the past two years. The deficits mean U.S. dollars are leaving the country to pay for foreign go ing to the already huge foreign holdings Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said last week there are between Psychologist Encourages $600 billion and $700 billion in foreign-held dollars and dollar assets. The current account deficit for the first nine months of the year totaled about $13.8 billion. The administration estimates the deficit for the entire year will be about $17 billion, so the third quarter figures appeared on target.

The nation had a current account deficit of $15.3 billion in 1977. The deficit in trade was partially offset by a surplus of $5.5 billion in service receipts during the third quarter, a decline of $500 million from the second quarter. Official dollar holdings of governments of other industrial nations increased $6.4 billion during the period, the result of foreign moves to buy up dollars on world money markets to try to supp greenback's value. A decline in the dollar can be a concern for other countries, which often do not want to see the value of their currencies increase in value

The robbers drove the truck 11/2 blocks, then switched the white canvas money bags to a blue-and-white Cadillac and drove away, police said.

The holdup occurred in a lightly popu-

Police said they knew of no connection between the incidents.

Both involved money headed for banks.

The Wells Fargo truck had made pickups at several banks on Staten Island — a borough of New York City — and was headed for the Federal Reserve Bank in

Former Golfer Warns Of Alcoholism Problem

By BOB WILLIAMS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Alcohol has a very sobering effect on John Hulbert. The former golf professional readily admits he was an alcoholic, but says he has no guilt, remorse, depression or anxiety about his drinking past. "I don't know a one of us that set out initially to become an alcoholic. We are the victims of a drug that has caused the addiction. We are the innocent ad-

Hulbert was in Lubbock Nov. 30 through Monday on a speaking engagement at several local organizations to "set the record straight on so-called problem drinkers" and to promote support for the hospital that treated him 12 years ago

"The word 'alcoholism' has come to imply mental illness, weak will, wanting in character in those who are afflicted," he said. He feels the alcoholic should not be "branded a psychotic social misfit, any more than a diabetic deserves to be damned for his inability to handle his sugar. Both are innocent victims."

Hulbert, 53, prefers to call an alcoholic an "alcobetic." "I retain the original meaning, though: Alcoholism, a disease; alcoholic, an Hulbert said he had a drinking problem for 14 years. He found relief in 1966 through conditioning treatment at the Schick Shadel Hospital in Seattle. Now residing in Euless, Hulbert spends all of his time lecturing and discussing the Seattle and Fort Worth treatment centers, which pay him for his lectures.

He left the PGA in 1970, admitting that "I wasn't a great player, but I was a good player, a club professional."

Hulbert said the federal government reports there are more than 10 million alcoholics in America, and he emphasizes that 6 percent of the drinking population consumes almost 50 percent of all alcohol used.

"Alcoholics can't admit they have a drinking problem when society has taught them 'alcoholic' is a synonym for mental weakness and a form of insanity. People don't have information that alcohol caused the problem," he added.

"Scientists declare that alcohol is a highly toxic chemical that acts on the central narrows system, producing a sensation of well-heing, but at the same time.

tral nervous system, producing a sensation of well-being, but at the same time impairing the centers of the brain that involve judgment, will power and control," Hulbert said.

"Alcohol has no nutritional value. It is a substance foreign to the body, and the body attempts to reject it by expelling it through the kidneys and lungs, and converting it chemically in the liver," he said. He added that alcohol produces a dependence that is "more dangerous to the addict and to society than occurs with opiate narcotic users."

Alcohol, he said, has been classified by scientists as belonging to the depres-sant group of drugs, along with barbiturates, morphine, opiate narcotics and other sedative-hypnotic drugs. "I believe in our society that alcohol is the greatest drug problem we have. Perhaps even the greatest problem our society has. We should educate through-

According to Hulbert, three phenomena of alcohol use are tolerance ogical dependence and mental craving. Some drugs produce in their wone or two of these components, but Hulbert said that alcohol prothree. "But where can you find such information?" he asked.

"You'll find just the opposite. Open up any newspaper, magazine or cut on the television. Instead of informing the public of possible alcohol addiction, you'll see some athletic hero plugging his favorite new beer. We are bombarded with these commercials, and they begin to condition our young and each one of us. We are brought up thinking that drinking is part of the American way of life, that success and drinking go hand in hand."

There are no warning labels on alcoholic products, nor on any of the ads such as the government requires of cigarettes, he said.

"I only wish someone had told me the facts about alcohol before I got to the point where I couldn't live without it. One out of every 15 drinkers becomes addicted, the innocent addict. True, he took his chances with alcohol voluntarily, but the drug is legal and he drank it without the benefit of honest information warning him of the dangers of addiction. Finney was a history teacher at the private all-boys school when the first two blacks walked into its tradition-rich classrooms in 1962. For the past 10 years, he's been headmaster.

More than 120,000 letters have poured into IRS headquarters opposing the plan, the most the tax agency ever received on a single issue.

During four days of recent hearings, private school officials and their congressional supporters told an IRS panel that loss of tax exemptions would financially ruin many schools.

In addition to enabling the schools to not pay taxes, the exemptions allow donors to deduct financial gifts. Loss of the deduction would have a chilling effect on gift-giving, the IRS was told.

It was the 1970s, for instance, before Gilman began a serious drive to recruit blacks from Baltimore public schools. Finney believes the recruiting, with financial aid and other projects to help minorities, will be convincing enough to retain Gilman's tax benefits.

Gilman was established in 1897 by a Baltimore woman, Francis Carey, who felt the need for a good school in a country setting. The school moved to its 67acre campus in a quiet, tree-lined neighborhood in 1910, the year it was named for Dr. Daniel Coit Gilman, the first president of Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Gilman provided invaluable advice to the school, which catered to wealthy students from grades one through 12. The academic program was designed to prepare students for college, and today virtually all of Gilman's graduates pursue a college education.

Gilman never had a restrictive admissions policy, but there was "no positive statement" toward admitting minorities,

Did that amount to a policy of segregation? "In all honesty, that was the attitude, as much as it makes me squirm today. You had a tendency to accept this

Today, in addition to its financial aid and recruitment, Gilman has a program for public school pupils who need help to See BLACKS Page 16

Dear Ann: I just finished eating two huge slices of chocolate cake and a whole batch of fudge. I am so sick to my stomach I can't see straight. I have done this sort of thing for over a year and I'm fat as I am never hungry and I don't enjoy food. I just have this uncontrollable desire to stuff myself. I'm 17 years old and my mother, who has a great figure, has been yelling at me for years because I'm a little on the plump side. Don't suggest professional help. I can't afford it and I wouldn't give my mother the satisfaction.

If you can tell me why I am doing this it may help me stop. Please, Ann, I am counting on you. - A Fat Pig In Colum-

Dear Columbus: You are asking for mail-order psychiatrist treatment and I cannot provide it. Your letter does make it clear, however, that you have a poor re-lationship with your mother and it is ob-vious, even at this distance, to see that you are stuffing yourself in order to spite her. In other words, you are saying, "You can't tell me what to do.

If you refuse to see a psychiatrist, I certainly hope you will consider talking to your school counselor. You need help.

Dear Ann Landers: Today it happened again and I am very annoyed. You made reference to a letter I know nothing

Dear Ann Landers: My first husband died 30 years ago. We were married only a short while. I was only 28 at the time and so grief-stricken I was sure I could never love again.

I bought three cemetery plots because they were the last ones on the hillside. I planned on being burried beside my beloved and leaving the third place for

The Lord was merciful and sent me a wonderful man three years later. We married soon after and have had a wonderful life together.

Would it be acceptable for both my second husband and me to be buried alongside my first husband? My mother has suggested that I sell the two plots and buy two others for myself and my present husband. But I can't bear the thought of having strangers buried beside my first husband. I need your guidance. - Look-

Dear L.B.: Have you discussed this with your spouse? If not, you should. He just might feel that three's a crowd. It seems to me that the most logical solution is to buy two plots elsewhere and have shrubbery and flowers planted alongside your first husband's grave.

THOUGHTS ON BEAUTY

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Doctor: My wife, who is 68, has chronic bronchitis. We now live on the west coast of Florida, as retirees. Would the climate be better for her in Arizona, and do you recommend such a move? -E.E.H.

I have always been hesitant to recommend a change in climate as a remedy for respiratory ills. The facts of the matter just don't seem to warrant it in most cases. It is like trying to lower the water instead of raising the bridge.

Bronchitis is inflammation or irritation of the bronchi, the tubes that extend downward from the larynx area to the lungs proper. The causes of irritation are varied, from allergy to a serious respiratory infection. Smoking and long periods of breathing dust and other matter from the atmosphere can contribute to the eventual hacking cough of chronic bronchitis. Your wife should also be checked for the presence of the tuberculosis germ. There may be some evidence of emphysema, which is a lack of elasticity in the lung spaces. Attention to these factors is more important than any homeupsetting move across country.

There are many other factors you can correct. While changeable temperatures (from day to night) can aggravate conditions, you can control that. Keep the house at between 65 and 70 degrees and the humidity at about 40 percent. If your wife is chilly, she can wear a light sweater. An air filter will help control house dust and molds. These devices will be less expensive in the long run than a geographic change. Chronic bronchitis is often aggravated by neighborhood industrial fumes. I have known patients to solve their problem with a move across town to a new apartment

If you do decide to make a move, I suggest that you do so gradually. Make a preliminary extended visit to the new area to see if it really does help. If there is marked improvement, then a move might be warranted, but I doubt you will find it helps.

Dear Doctor: My doctor says I have cryoglobulin anemia. I recall you writing on this a while back, but don't know whether you mentioned any cure. Is there one? — A.M.R.

It is not a common disorder. Cryoglobulinemia signifies the presence of a particular protein called cryoglobulin in the blood. It causes a severe reaction to coldness. A circulation disorder ensues, causing a dusky appearance of the skin, particularly of the fingers and toes. In some cases there is an underlying disease present such as rheumatoid arthritis or leu-

I know of no really satisfactory treatment, although one study of severe cases at the Rochester School of Medicine in New York) did show some success with use of the drugs melphalan and prednisone. This is tried in the most severe cascs. Otherwise, keeping warm in cold weather in the only preventive.

any diet with sufficient protein provides the needed amount. In fact, your friend is getting more than required so long as he is eating reasonably well. Thre is such a thing as poisoning from too much of these so-called trace elements. My advice is to forget about supplements unless a doctor tells you you need them. You can pass this advice on to your friend, too.

The diplomat, who did not wish to be identified, said, "The United States knows our maximum and minimum positions and understands them. That is why they will come up with a move soon. This is what happened in previous occasions when we reached critical stages in the negotiations."

The criticism in Jerusalem by the Knesset, Israel's parliament, marked a new low in relations between the two close allies.

The Knesset resolution put the responsibility for the deadlocked talks on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who met with Begin and President Carter at the Camp David summit.

"The submission of new and hardline proposals by Egypt prevented the signing of the peace treaty," it said. While Israel will continue working for a treaty, it "cannot accept proposals that endanger the peace and security" of the nation, the resolution added.

Egypt has proposed several amendments to the draft treaty and its position has been supported by Washington, which said Sadat made major concessions. Vance said he was "disappointed" by Israel's rejection after he flew back to Washington from Cairo on Friday, ending an unsucessful effort to get the proposed treaty signed by the original Dec. 17 deadline.

In his speech opening a seven-hour de-bate in the Knesset, Begin said Israeli security was the reason his coalition government rejected the Egyptian amend-settlements in occupied Arab territories.

He said Israel should stengthen Jewish settlements in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip "to prevent the thought by either friends or enemies of the possibility of expelling us ... from these areas."

He did not say if he would recommend lifting the Israeli freeze on establishing new settlements before the negotiations with Egypt are concluded.

In Paris, a spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization said the PLO "is ready to negotiate peace with Israel im-mediately if it is invited to do so by the United States."

Ibrahim Souss, PLO representative in Paris, said PLO chieftain Yasser Arafat would agree to "de facto" recognition of. Israel if it agreed to creation of a Palestinian "homeland, flag and passport" in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Israel has refused to talk or deal with the PLO, saying it is a terrorist organization dedicated to Israel's destruction.

The Egyptian diplomat's prediction that America would initiate a new round of talks after Jan. 1 came despite statements from Washington that the White House wants Egypt and Israel to try it alone without U.S. intervention.

"Peace will have to be made between Israel and her Arab neighbors," President Carter's spokesman, Jody Powell, said Monday. "We are more than willing to be of assistance, but that's where the

to be of assistance, but that's where the resolution has to come. The United States can't impose peace."

There are two main issues in dispute:

—A timetable linking progress in Egyptian-Israeli relations with the establishment of Palestinian autonomy in the Gaza Strip and in the West Bank of the Josdan River

—An understanding that Cairo's rela-tions with Tel Aviv must not affect Egypt's commitments to joint Arab de-

Begin told Parliament: "We have to be ready to reject Egyptian proposals that imperil our people, even if they are sup-ported by the United States."

Outlining the Egyptian proposals, Begin said they would leave in force Cairo's mutual defense agreements with other Arab states if Israel launched an attack. "We are standing before the possibility of the defender being accused of aggression," Begin said.

SEATTLE (AP) - Attendance was lower than usual at some Seattle secondary schools, where students had threatened to boycott classes because of a delayed and shortened winter vacation. Vacation for the district's 52,000 students would have begun Monday, but it was cut in half and delayed because of a 17day teachers' strike in the fall. School officials said some of the absenteeism Monday may have been due to an out-

CLINT AND CLYDE - Clint Eastwood has chosen a 165-pound orangutan named Clyde as his acting partner in the new comedy titled "Every Which Way But Loose." The film, directed by James Fargo, only serves to prove that monkeyshines do not always pay off. Rated PG and currently showing Fourplex, it is labeled a very dumb film in today's A-J film critique.

'Every Which Way But Loose' Done Every Which Way But Well

"Every Which Way But Loose." Screenplay by Jeremy Joe Kronsberg. Directed by James Fargo. Songs by a variety of country artists, theme song sung by Eddie Rabbitt, Stars Clint Eastwood, Sondra Locke, Geoffrey Lewis, Beverly D'Angeio and Ruth Gordon, Rated PG. At the Fox Fourplex.

By WILLIAM D. KERNS A-J Entertainment Editor

Though it was a close race, a tough battle, Clint Eastwood's new comedy "Every Which Way But Loose" has edged out Ryan O'Neal's "Oliver's Story for the honor of being recognized as the dumbest movie yet to be released as a Christmas attraction. But for summertime tripe like "The Swarm," the Eastwood flick would be in the finals for dumbest picture of the year.

After viewing just the first reel - no, the first scene! - Eastwood's fans have to wonder just how their idol ever managed to walk so blindly into such a horrible part. With so many roles made available to Eastwood, surely he only agreed to make "Every Which Way But Loose" as a favor to screenwriter Jeremy Joe Kronsberg and director James Fargo. If so, these two should stay forever in his debt.

FILM REVIEW

The picture, which has all the style of a combination of "Muscle Beach Party" and "Hell's Angels On Wheels," no doubt strives to appeal to the country and western music audience. Eastwood plays a brawler named Philo, hanging out at the Palamino Club when he's not picking up an extra buck by breaking someone's jaw. It is at this noted L.A. nightspot that he falls for a devious country singer named Lynn Halsey-Taylor.

Played by Sondra Locke, who couldn't sing if her life and the film depended on it, Miss Halsey-Taylor soon splits with Eastwood's money and affection. So he chases her from Los Angeles to Denver, via Albuquerque for some unexplained reason, but with trouble on his tail. It seems Clint, whose co-stars are an array of human punching bags, has beaten up not only several members of a motorcycle gang, but also a couple of redneck (even a black redneck) police officers. So the dumb cops, who call Eastwood a "hippie" (that's gotta be a first), are chasing Clint. And the dumb motorcycle gang, which most re sembles Eric Von Zipper's motley crew in the Frankie & Annette flicks, is al-

And dumb Clint is chasing dumb Sondra. And...oh, forget it.

A friend watching this picture at an advance screening described it as best-suited for a free flick at the Honky Tonk, a popular local C&W hangout. I disagree. By trying to cater to the country music crowd, "Every Which Way But Loose" winds up stereotyping it instead. Though the soundtrack is filled with songs from Eddie Rabbitt, Charlie Rich, Mel Tillis, Wayne Parker, Hank Thompson and more - with Tillis and Rich making on-screen appearances - the movie merely plays on the myth that country music fans get their kicks through fistfights, cruel jokes, bigotry, car chases and dialogue which goes no deeper than "Breaker, breaker.

Shoot, even "Smokey and the Bandit" possessed an easy-going flair, not to mention Burt Reynolds' excellent comic timing. This new film is an insult, and not even an entertaining insult at that.

"Every Which Way But Loose" is a comedy, called by publicists "a departure" for Eastwood (perhaps because he wasn't very funny in "Kelly's Heroes"). But the laughs that come are, for the most part, of the unintentional variety. After all, how many times has a comedy used the tired plot device of an elderly woman cursing on screen? Well, we've got another live one in Ruth Gordon as Eastwood's feisty mother.

But the primary comedy ingredient is Clyde.

Clyde is a 165-pound, full-grown, beer-guzzling orangutan — and we are expected to guffaw at his every monkeyshine, such as kissing his human co-stars square on the lips, shooting the finger at nasty intruders and bellying up to the bar with Clint. But even the occasional laughs sparked by this well-trained animal is not enough to carry "Every Which Way But Loose" into the ranks of

James Fargo is inappropriate as a director of farce, which is the cinema form this film most closely resembles. Eastwood is wrong for his part, too. since while we can accept him as a street fighter, he is totally out of place as a lovesick macho mushmind talking over his troubles with an ape while chasing after a woman who would fit handily into the gun rack on his pickup truck.

The real pity, though, is not that Eastwood's fans will be disappointed or that the actor's intelligence in choosing screen roles will be questioned. No, Clint will surely get everyone back in the theater when his action picture "Escape from Alcatraz" is released next June. Instead, the sad aspect is that so many fine thespians have wasted a good part of a year on this nonsense.

Beverly D'Angelo, who offered the only memorable performance in the otherwise boring picture "First Love," is wasted in a small role as a hanger-on fruit-seller who hops into bed with Clint's brother. And Sondra Locke, a favorite of Eastwood's who co-starred in his prior films "The Outlaw Josey Wales" and "The Gauntlet," is also too talented (as an actress, not a singer) for this schlock. Even Eastwood has made more than one artistic film in the past.

It is also a pity that country music fans are still being pigeonholed as carbeurator mentalities on film, a stereotype which may even be likened in past years to the screen treatment of the American Indian.

In any case, "Every Which Way But Loose" is to be avoided. It's best acting comes from a newcomer orangutan with a limited bag of gags — and you just can't teach an audience to appreciate old tricks. Besides, didn't anyone tell these filmmakers they're supposed to provide us with a barrel full of Clydes if CALIPATRIA, Calif. (AP) -"Chicano," a novel about a Mexican-American family, has been banned from use by school board officials in this agricultural town near the Mexican border.

Written in 1970 by Richard Vasquez, the book traces the story of a Mexican-American family through three generations. The last generation lives in the East Los Angeles barrio, where youngsters in the family encounter prejudice at

Objections to the book focus on the use of street language and references to

However, Choice magazine, a journal outlining books for school and public li-braries, said of the book, "For libraries with Chicano readers and collections, this book is a must."

The banning of "Chicano" touched off a storm of protest by parents and students in the town of 2,000 persons. The book is required reading in the neighboring Brawley Union High School and is available to students in the Central Union High School library in El Centro.

Teacher Mike Romero had assigned the novel to his high honors literature class at

'My whole intention was for the students to learn a lesson about life," he said during a board of education discussion on the issue last week. "If you don't prepare for life, you won't make it." Romero had sent permission slips home to parents, asking parents to approve their child's reading of a particular book, normal procedure when a book contains any objectionable material. One parent out of 15 refused the permission and contacted Superintendent Eddie Ikard, who then banned the book. The board later supported his decision.

"It was not the kind of book I feel we wanted," the superintendent explained. School Board President Jack Wright, confronted at the meeting by angry students from Romero's class, responded, "This stuff is just garbage.

Safeguards Against Pesticides In Foods Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal agencies fall far short of protecting Americans from foods possibly tainted by pesticide residues, a congressional report said

Increasing insecticide resistance called for new control methods. One of the more significant control tactics is the use of resistant varieties or, in the case of sorghum, resistant hybrids.

Teetes stresses that plant resistance is but one of the available control tactics. However, it has a number of advantages: it's economical; it's specific for the problem; it leaves no harmful residue in food or the environment; it is not harmful to pollinating or other beneficial insects; it does not (or only minimally) disturb nature's balance between destructive insects and their natural enemies; and, it's compatible with biological, chemical, cultural, and other control

The fact that plant resistance is compatible with other control tactics is the main reason it's so important to interated pest management.

For example, plant resistance to insect damage may alter the effectiveness of

Plant resistance may also slow the rate of increase of the pest and the buildup of natural biological. permit a buildup of natural biological control agents or, influence pest density, thereby providing a food supply reservoir for beneficial organisms useful later in the growing season in the same or neighboring crops.

An example is the beneficials which develop to abundant numbers in sorghum and later move to cotton.

Soon after 1968, Station scientists found sources of greenbug resistance in a number of sorghums, which were re-leased to commercial seed companies. This resistance has meant direct savings of $20 million to $54 million a year to producers and, indirectly, to the pu So the initial problem with greenbugs was eased on High and Rolling Plains the greenbug-resistant sorghum hybrids outyielded susceptible hybrids by 900 pounds to the acre where greenbugs were a production factor.

But Texas' problems with the greenbug were by no means over. The greenbug resistance that solved Plains producers' problems-was not in hybrids best adapted for Central and South Texas.

The complicating issues were adaptability and the fact that the greenbug-resistant hybrids were susceptible to downy mildew and head smut. Consequently, recent research efforts hav concentrated on developing sorghum parental lines resistant to downy mildew, head smut, and greenbugs and adapted to South and Central Txas. Such parental lines are being developed and released insecticides or permit reducing or even by Experiment Station sorghum breed-um hybrids will be available commercially in 1979, and additional improved hybrids will be available in the future.

One of the factors that makes possible the rapid development of greenbug-resistant sorghums is that the resistant character is dominant and simply inherited. This allows flexibility in its use for combining the greenbug-resistance fac-tor with other desirable characteristics in hybrid combinations.

Teetes emphasizes this point because it explains one of the problems in developing midge resistance, which is not

"We have been evaluating experimental hybrids for 2 years and are confident we're making progress," Teetes says. "As a point of comparison based on my observations, under unnaturally high midge density, the best midge-resistant sorghum hybrids set about 50 percent seed when susceptible hybrids set none. "During 1979, we will start a large-scale hybrid evaluation program, and by 1980 we should have a good idea what the best hybrids are for future development of midge resistance," Teetes concluded.

we're making any money on." To grain trader Ralph Hayenga, sunflower oil made from crushed seeds of the flower is the "preferred oil in every nation it has been introduced." The Soviet Union, which developed sunflowers into an oil crop in the 1920s, needed cash to buy Canadian wheat in the 1960s. The Russians sold the oil for as little as seven cents a pound, said Hayenga of Honeymead Co., a producer of sunflower oil.

"The European housewives liked it," he said. "Now they prefer sunflower oil over other cooking oils. The current European wholesale price is 31 1/2 cents a

Firestone Blames Huge Deficit On Recall Of Defective Tires

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. reported a $148.3 million loss during the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 and blamed it on the recall of millions of steel-beited radial tires.

The bulk of the loss occurred during the fourth quarter when Firestone lost $127.2 million, according to company of-

INVESTORS'

Q. I am 53 and a part-time school teacher. Each month, I have the maximum amount allowed taken out of my salary and put into an annuity retirement plan. This reduces my income taxes, because I do not have to pay taxes on the money that goes into the annuity plan. At the present time, I have $10,000 invested in

If we go into a recession or a depression, will this money be safe? Would I do better putting this money into insured savings certificates? I am married, and we have other savings in certificates.

A. Your last sentence was the clincher. In my mind, it leaves no doubt that you should stay with that annuity and keep putting as much money as possible into

Tax-sheltered annuities such as you have are available to the faculty and employees of schools, colleges and universities and to employees of certain non-profit organizations. You not only don't pay income tax on the money you put into such a plan, but you don't pay tax on the money your money earns. So, everything is sheltered from taxes, until you start taking money out - normally after retirement, when you figure to be in a lower tax bracket.

Many readers, no doubt, will quickly pick up on the fact that an annuity plan such as you have has many of the earmarks of the Keogh plan for self-employed people and Individual Retirement Accounts for people who are not in any other qualified retirement plan.

Anyone who is eligible and doesn't take advantage of such a plan simply makes an unnecessary gift of taxes to Uncle Sam. That especially applies to you, since you do have savings tucked away and have no immediate need for the money you are putting into that tax-sheltered an-

Is your money going to be absolutely 'safe''? I can't give you a flat-out "yes" answer. In a recession, the value of your investment would probably decline. In a depression, it could plummet. Insured savings certificates don't present that

WOLLA We have to recognize the fact that this country will go through a recession every so often. Many pundits see one just over the economic horizon. But no one in his or her right mind is predicting a depression of the kind we went through in the 1930s. If you throw away your tax shelter because you think the sky is about to fall, you'll have no one to blame but yourself.

Q. My retirement income of $600 a month does not go far these days. I have mutual fund investments with a total value of approximately $17,000. Would it be best to draw a monthly amount from these funds or cash them in? I also have individual stocks, savings accounts and savings certificates. Do you have any advice on these?

A. First, start receiving monthly checks by contacting those mutual funds and setting up "periodic withdrawal plans" of about 6 percent of the value of your investments. Some of the money for each check will come from dividends and some will come from the liquidation sale - of shares.

Second, sit down with a broker and straighten out your holdings of individual stocks. Your letter listed 17 different stocks, in amounts of from 12 to 450 shares. Keep the stocks paying high dividends; sell those paying low dividends;

On Tuesday, the Washington Post, quoting bank sources, said an accountant auditing Citibank's currency transactions in Zurich found possible violations involving the shifting of profits to another bank in Nassau.

Citibank spokesman Lamson Smith said while negotiations with Swiss officials over taxes are being held, "at worst," the bank's "possible tax liability in Switzerland could be only a very small fraction" of the $50 million cited by the Post.

He did not specify how large the tax liability could be, saying Swiss authori-ties have not yet presented a claim.

NEW YORK (AP) - A former American Stock Exchange member has been barred from the securities industry for allegedly reporting fictitious options trades for his own account so that they would show a profit when submitted through the exchange's clearing network.

Announcing the disciplinary action in its weekly bulletin, the Amex identified the former member as David K. Brenner.

The Amex said that on numerous occasions Brenner "acting in concert with a floor clerk ... caused the purported transactions to correspond in price to actual trades printed on the options tape so as to induce (others) to believe that they were actual trades.

"Most of Brenner's purchases were at the lowest reported price of the day and most of his sales were at the highest reported price of the day," it said. The Amex said Brenner was directed to sell his membership and that he agreed to a lifetime bar from the industry. He settled his case without admitting or denying guilt.

THEFT OF CHECK

NEW YORK (AP) — Police charged a man with stealing the $250 welfare check of a 77-year-old woman who was found in her Brooklyn apartment suffering from malnutrition and dehydration. Police said the victim, Mary Liggons, had not eaten for four days and was unable to rise from her bed when they entered her apartment Monday.

The entire device was invented by Stanford University engineers and first produced in 1971 by Telesensory Systems Inc. of Palo Alto, Calif.

A New Jersey state instructor, Sharon Zebrick, began training Sara on an Opta-con in March 1977, and four months later she was using it independently.

Standard book and newspaper print is ideal for Optacon, the teen-ager said, but labels with varying type sizes can present problems. She recalled trying to feed her two cats with the help of Optacon.

"Catfood cans resemble tunafish cans.

trial-like hearing into the allegations, but Talmadge said he is confident of being cleared.

There has been no similar Senate proceeding — which roughly parallels a grand jury indictment or formal court charge - since the late Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., was censured for misconduct in 1967.

The next step following Monday's 4-1 ethics committee vote will be a Senate hearing, conducted under rules similar to those in a criminal court trial and expected to begin in January.

The committee has been conducting a preliminary inquiry for five months. A federal grand jury also has been looking into Talmadge's finances.

The major allegation against Talmadge focused on a secret account at the Riggs National Bank of Washington. Established in Talmadge's name in 1973, the panel said, it contained about $26,000 in unreported campaign contributions and $13,000 in reimbursements for Senate expenditures.

A former close aide to Talmadge, Daniel Minchew, has said he established and maintained the account on Talmadge's orders. Talmadge denies knowing of the account.

Sources say the ethics committee has checks in which most of the funds were withdrawn or converted to cash, but it is not clear who received the money.

Talmadge has acknowledged accepting thousands of dollars in small cash gifts, clothing and services from constituents.

He has returned $37,125 in reimbursements for Senate expenses improperly claimed between 1972 and 1977. Talmadge said the repayment was made after his own audit turned up errors by his

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., the only committee member to vote against expanding the inquiry, said he opposes the existence of parallel investigations.

"The rights of all principals in the matter would be better protected if the grand jury is allowed to move ahead with its investigation," Ribicoff said.

Eventually, the committee must decide whether to clear Talmadge, vote to censure his handling of finances or strip him of the chairmanship of the Senate Agriculture Committee and his seniority on the Senate Finance Committee.

GAO Wants More Frequent Fund Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Social Security Trust Funds could earn more money each year if they required states to turn over their contributions more frequently, the General Accounting Office said Tuesday.

The GAO said the current practice, under which states deposit contributions of state and local government workers and their employers' share quarterly, has cost the trust funds about $1.1 billion in the past 19 years.

Under regulations going into effect July 1, 1980, states will be required to make deposits eight times a year instead of quarterly.

The GAO said even the proposed change does not go far enough. The agency recommended semi-monthly deposits by the states, and said under such a schedule the trust funds could earn $281 million more during the five years beginning July 1 than they will under the pending changes.

Officials say about 9.4 million state and local government workers par-ticipate in Social Security, or about 74 percent of all eligible workers. Their contributions and the matching share paid by governments amounted to over

Three Wise Men Present Their Gifts To Christ

Chapter 15 GIFTS OF THE WISE MEN By Luise Putcamp Jr.

(WHAT HAS HAPPENED: In a cave, the travelers find the little family the man with the graying beard and calloused hands, the young woman with the sweet, wise look, and the baby whose blue eyes seem to hold the past and the future.)

As Balthasar knelt before the baby, holding the carved box, I felt something thrust into my hand.

It was a heavy, rolled-up cloth. Melchior was smiling gravely, nodding to me and then at the floor before the baby and his mother.

Like someone coming out of a sleep, I stepped forward unsteadily and unrolled the cloth on the dirt floor of the cave.

It was a heavy cloth, embroidered in thread of silver. I saw circles and spirals and crosses on it. And designs I didn't

Now Balthasar put the opened box on the rich cloth before the baby. The sharp, sweet smell frankincense, This incense was very useful, very costly. I knew that people used it to worship

The man bowed his head politely. The young mother smiled at us, and shifted the baby in her arms as if to let him see this first gift.

Next Caspar knelt before the mother and the baby. His big, black hand held a pot of polished stone, pale and glowing. He lifted the lid. The pot was filled with small pieces of reddish-brown gum. It had a strong but not unpleasant smell. I knew it must be myrrh. Myrrh made a cheerful noise. At last Melchior stepped forward.

Before him, he held the green leather pouch.

It was this heavy purse I had saved from the robber at the riverbank. It was this purse I had dropped in the desert and had to search for, following our own footsteps back through the burning sand. Melchior knelt, more slowly than the others, perhaps because he was older.

I looked at him. Weeks ago, he had been a stranger. Now, though we said little to each other, he seemed closer to me than any other person in the world.

Melchior's eyes were shining, his blueveined hands were steady as he upended the green purse over the cloth. Out spilled glistening churks of gold!

In all my life I had seen one gold coin, perhaps two. But chunks of gold! I could see why people prized it so.

The baby waved his hands. The man and the woman smiled gently. Thanks were in their smiles. But for people who looked so poor, they seemed not as impressed by the gifts as I might have im-

And then I had a strange thought: This old man and this young woman and this shining baby needed no frankincense, no myrrh, no gold. This little family needed nothing in the world that anyone could

I had another thought: I wanted to give something to this baby, this king born in a cave.

What had I brought with me on the long journey? Nothing but myself. What did I have to give? (NEXT: A Gift and a Warning.)

HEARTLINE: In view of the recent Social Security change concerning length of marriage and eligibility of previous wives to draw against a previous hus-band's Social Security credits, providing that marriage was of at least 10 years duration, will I still be eligible for Social Security based on my first marriage?

I was married to the same man on two different occasions. The first time for a period of approximately six years and the second time, after being divorced for one year, for a period of approximately nine years. Can these two periods be ad-

After the second period of marriage, I divorced and subsequently remarried for one year (not the same man) and then that marriage was terminated. I do not expect to remarry.

I have read that a present and previous wife may both draw against a previous husband's Social Security account when he starts drawing on it himself, but does my second short marriage, and the fact that my marriage to my first husband was not a continuous 10 years, make me ineligible? - A.N.

The law states that if a marriage is interrupted and if remarriage occurs within the calendar year immediately following the calendar year of the divorce, then it may be considered to have been consecutive years for the purpose of qualifying for Social Security benefits. In your case, if you remarried during the calendar year immediately following the calendar year in which the first divorce was granted, it would appear that you qualify for Social Security divorced wife's benefits. Social Security will check marriage records very closely to make sure this qualification is met. If you are nearing age 62 and wanted this information for application purposes, you should go ahead and make application for wife's benefits on your ex-husband's account. Take all information and documents having to do with the marriages and divorces with you to the Social Security office.

HEARTLINE: I live in Arizona and am retired. I am trying to budget my money the best way possible, and also trying to conserve as much energy and electricity as possible, due to my fixed income. Do you have any suggestions on how I can save on my water bills? They are very outlandish in this part of the country. - S.M.

Most households waste hundreds of gallons of water a day without even knowing it. Leaks in your toilet tank can mean anywhere from $6 to $20 down the drain each month. We suggest that you add a small amount of food coloring or ink to your toilet tank when you expect it to be idle for several hours. If ink shows up in your bowl, this means you probably need a new flush ball, which only costs around $2. Make sure you

TAX REVOLT - The fall of the temple at Jerusalem in A.D. 70 was a result of a tax revolt led by members of the Jewish sect Zealots. The destruction of the temple ushered in a period of increasingly oppressive taxation for Jews in the Roman Empire. Eventually, Jews paid as much as 50 percent of their incomes in taxes. Photo shows recently excavated monumental stairway that was the main entrance to the temple in Jesus' time.

Sometime between 8 and 6 B.C., Jesus was born at Bethle-hem in Roman-held Judes. His parents had traveled there to register for the census that was held every few years to update the tax rolls.

the tax rolls.

At that time, the nation carried a heavy tax burden. Jews were required to pay a fixed yearly tribute to Rome. In addition, their king, Herod the Great, financed his massive and numerous building projects by more taxes

After Herod, the situation grew worse. Besides regular assessments paid by all citizens, Jews living in the conquered Roman provinces were forced to register and pay a special tax.

Ancient tax receipts found by archaeologists in Egypt reveal that Jewish taxation became cruelly oppressive as the years of Roman domination wore on

Roman domination wore on. After Herod's death in 4 B.C., his subjects petitioned Rome for tax relief. By A.D. 6, they received their answer: another census and new Roman taxes. Riots erupted. In Galilee, an extremist group calling them-selves Zealots used the issue as leverage to establish a fantatic resistance movement.

Galilee was now governed by Antipas, one of Herod's sons, Antipas is said to have liked peace and quiet. During his 43-year rule, he managed to keep the Zealots under control. But Gailileans struggled against an ever-increasing tax load.

In other parts of Palestine, the situation was no better. Not only were Jews required each year to pledge the temple a religious tithe of 10 to 20 percent of their income; they were also obligated to turn over to the state substantial additional sums.

There were lead and soil to reas sales town on slaves oil and There were land and poll taxes; sales taxes on slaves, oil and clothing; taxes on fishing rights, trade routes, city water, leather workshops, butchery, prostitution and pasture land. A tax was even placed on bachelors.

Finally, during the last third of the first century, the Jews had had enough.

Inflamed Zealots set out to break the Roman stranglehold. They were doomed from the start. In A.D. 70, the temple at Jerusalem fell. With it fell the last vestiges of Jewish authority. Victorious in Palestine, Rome began to impose an even stiffer tax burden. This has been confirmed by Egyptian tax receipts dating from the rebeilion, found by archaeologists at Edfu. Also Roman territory, Egypt harbored many Jews during the first

Receipts were written on pottery fragments called ostraks. From these records, it is clear that the age at which an individual could be taxed, 14 years in the time of Jesus, had been drastically lowered to 3.

Women were separately taxed; one, named Tryphaena, is included in the listings. The upper age limit for taxation, which once stood at 60, had probably been raised, for a man of 90 is recorded as having paid.

Thedetos, an area resident, had been on the tax rolls since A.D. 72. But he had ducked the Jewish tax for 17 years. An audit must have occurred in the year 89, because he suddenly started paying.

Punishment for a tax evader often meant torture of his relatives or neighbors. One instance is recorded of guards coming to the house of an Egyptian who was unable to pay his full tax. They took his mother's clothing and left her severly wounded.

Often, citizens were taxed heavily in a household head with lependents was compelled to pay a yearly tax on each of them. This may account for the small size of most families listed. Although registered Jews may have been most cruelly taxed, Gentiles, too, had their problems over the assessment. Unscrupulous neighbors could accuse a family of maintaining secret Jewish affiliations without paying the tax. Since many Jews of the period adopted Roman names, it was often hard to prove who was liable and who was not. Blackmail frequently resulted who was liable and who was not. Indirect taxes, like customs duties, were collected by large Roman tax companies whose officials were called publicant. The publicant would bid at auction into obtain tax receipts of a large district. The highest bidder was commissioned to manage that region.

He was free to keep any monies beyond the sum he agreed to turn over to Rome. By controlling these vast revenues, most of the Roman publicani became very wealthy.

Local farmers frequently collected the direct land and head taxes for their communities. Some of them charged more than the stipulated tax and pocketed the surplus. Neighbors considered them in a class with sinners, prostitutes and robbers because they took from their own people — often unscrupulously— to fatten the ruler's treasury.

Surprisingly, some of the local tax collectors were early followers of Jesus. Regardless, they and the monies they exacted aroused constant public outcry. First century Jewish residents of the Roman provinces did not take Roman provinces kindly to giving up between 40 and 50 percent of their income for taxes.

Today, many Americans would sympathize.

Final Lawsuits In Mine Dam Disaster Settled

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) - U.S. District Court Judge John Copenhaver ordered the dismissal of the last three suits stemming from the Buffalo Creek disaster Tuesday, bringing to a close nearly seven years of legal battles. The plaintiffs in the cases, all children at the time of the flood, had agreed to out-of-court settlements with the Pittston Co.

A Pittston attorney said all Buffalo Creek suits against the coal company in both federal and state courts now have been resolved.

In February 1972, a Pittston subsidiary's dam collapsed at the head of Buffalo Creek hollow, unleashing a wall of water which killed 125 and left 4,000 homeless.

Pittston made two major settlements with survivors. One, involving 645 persons, was settled in 1974 for $13.5 million. The other, involving 1,170 individuals, was resolved out of court last June for $4.84 million.

The plaintiffs in the second case were juveniles at the time of the flood and sued for psychological damages. Each re-ceived about $3,000 after legal fees.

The three persons whose settlements were announced Tuesday chose not to agree to the $3,000 and negotiated further with the company. The three — Timothy Franklin, Michael Franklin and James Porter - settled with Pittston for about $5,000 each.

Timothy Franklin, who works at a coal preparation plant, said he was 13 at the time of the flood. "I lost some real close friends in the flood," he said.

James Porter said his family lost its home and business in the disaster.

"I'm not satisifed still," he said of the

Cleveland Mayor Agrees To Compromise Plan

CLEVELAND (AP) — For the first time since Cleveland plunged into de-fault, the mayor and the city council moved toward a compromise aimed at restoring the city to solvency.

Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich Tuesday re-versed a long-held stand and agreed to let voters decide whether the city should sell its debt-ridden Municipal Light system. In return, he asked the council to place a proposed 50 percent increase in the city's 1 percent payroll tax on the ballot at the same time as the referendum on the Kucinich then left Cleveland for New York, where he told reporters it would be a very short visit, and then hailed a cab and told the driver, "Take me to Wall Street." His finance director, Joseph Tegreene, had flown to New York earlier to meet with financial consultants.

Kucinich said he wanted council action on both measures by Friday. Then, he said, he will ask the banks that hold $14 million in notes that the city defaulted on to extend the loans for another 60 days,

YMCA Youth Groups Attend Conference To Ready For Meet

About 300 Lubbock members of Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y, YMCA youth and government programs, attended a district conference at Odessa Saturday to prepare for an Austin conference Feb. 1-4.

The members competed for nomination as candidates as youth governor, speaker of the house, president pro tem, chief justice and editor in chief. District nominees will compete for positions at the state level. The youth governor elected at the Austin conference will be eligible to go to the National Youth Governor's Conference in Washington, D.C.

Mike Brown, member of the Lubbock Bar Association and the YMCA board, served as judicial adviser.

Candidates elected from the Lubbock district were Kelly Karvis and Kelly Blevins, best attorney team; Betsy Johnson and Beverly Smith, defense runnerups; Cindy Culp, chief clerk; Laurie Hearn, president pro tem; Fonda Taylor, court bayliff; Ann Bosquez, chief justice; Pam Moore, governor; and Eliz-abeth Nelson, best judicial news story.

leaders in Cleveland finally softened Tuesday as Mayor Dennis Kucinich, left, agreed to let voters decide if Cleveland should sell its municipal power system, a key issue in the default crisis last week. City Council President George Forbes, right, a longtime political opponent of Kucinich's, expressed cautious optimism at the proposal. (AP

Cleveland defaulted at 12:01 a.m. Saturday when it was unable to repay $15.5 million in short-term notes owed to six local banks and its own treasury.

The council had refused to act on the mayor's tax proposal unless he first agreed to sell Municipal Light. Kucinich had refused, saying the utility provides low-cost electric service and its sale would lead to a monopoly for Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.

The plan the mayor endorsed is one he bitterly objected to Friday when put forward by the City Council.

"You're kidding," was the reaction to Kucinich's offer by George L. Forbes, the council president.

"Some sanity is being restored to this city after all," he added. Forbes noted, however, that one of six banks holding the city's notes had earlier objected to any financial plan based on "Nothing is sure," Forbes said. "This might lead to another crisis."

Alcoholism occurs frequently among certain peoples, he said. "The Eskimos and American Indians have the highest rate of addiction to alcohol on earth. Next highest are the people of North European backgrounds, such as the Irish, Scandinavian, French and English, in that order. Least susceptible are peoples of Jewish, Greek and Spanish ancestry."

"Alcohol abuses people, people don't abuse alcohol," he said. "Man seeks pleasure and avoids pain. Alcohol numbs the brain, the senses, the reasoning center. It reacts differently on people, the same way that certain people can't take penicillin or eat certain foods - such as chocolate - or be near pollen. We call these allergies. Each and every one of us is individualized.... And alcohol creates different reactions on individuals that we cannot predict. Some people become addicted, others don't. The possibility is always there."

Hulbert said that people are taught from childhood that the word "alcoholic" is a synonym of mental weakness. "And a form of insanity. People today still don't have the information that alcohol caused the problem. Alcohol abused

Alcoholics must realize their drinking problem is physical, he added, and they must not be afraid or ashamed to discuss their problem with others. "They become withdrawn or hide behind elaborate defenses," he said. Such defenses create personality changes and the alcoholic's family and doctor are usually ignorant of the source of the compulsive drinking, he said.

Alcoholics would have a greater chance of recovery if they would realize they are perfectly normal except for the fact that they have a low tolerance to alco-

Campaign Readied For Farm Labor Collective Bargaining Bill

By LISA PAIKOWSKI Avalanche-Journal Staff

Members of the West Texas Support Committee of the Texas Farm Workers Union have announced plans to back legislation that would give Texas farm laborers collective bargaining rights.

Bidal Aguero, a La Raza Unida candidate in the November county commissioner's race, Tuesday read at a news conference in his office a statement saying that union members, with the help of support committees, will march from Muleshoe to Austin in support of the bill.

"Support committees will be mobilized throughout West Texas, the state and the county to get publicity and raise food for the march," said Marcial Silva, West Texas organizer for the farm workers union. Silva said the march, planned to start Jan. 27, will be financed through dona-

Legislation titled the Texas Agricultural Labor Relations Act already has been filed by Reps. A.C. Garcia, D-Pharr, and Paul Moreno, D-El Paso.

Aguero said that similar legislation has been introduced in other sessions but that "it was put into the agriculture and livestock committee, so it wasn't brought to the floor. We hope it will be submitted to a better committee - the labor committee," he said.

Silva said, "We've done extensive lobbying before. We have a representative from Houston supporting the bill and we're writing legislators."

Silva said farm workers are behind the bill. He said that last year in January during the onion harvest in the Rio Grande Valley laborers asked for the support of the farm workers union.

"They had no bath facilities, no water, and they asked for our support," he said. The organizer said that farm workers from Texas make up about 60 per cent of the country's migratory work force. "In California they're making $3.50 an hour, but here they get $1.20 or $1.80. He said that although mostly mecha-

In 1968-69, 17 black students attended Gilman. The number rose to a high of 71 in 1973-74 before dropping to its present level of 63. Jerome Fryson, an 11th grader recruited by Gilman from the Baltimore public schools, said he and fellow black students initially lost the respect of their friends when they entered the private school.

"They would say, 'He goes to Gilman, he's a white boy," said Fryson, who has been at Gilman since 7th grade. "But a lot of kids have matured. Now they ask how I'm doing.

When high school senior Kevin Ray, another black, came to Gilman eight years ago, he felt his friends ostracized him. They thought I was trying to be anti-social or uppity," he recalls. "Blacks felt private schools were only for whites. Now it's not a new thing, so they accept it more than they did."

Finney hopes the IRS also accepts what Gilman School has done.

"The only way to guarantee that growers will keep up with the cost of living is by having a signed contract," said Silva. 'So we're concentrating our efforts on the legislative area."

Antonio Orendain, director of the Texas Farm Workers Union, said in Austin; We feel the introduction of this bill at this time has a significant meaning for us which is universally recognized as the time of peace, justice and brotherhood." He acknowledged that Governor-elect Bill Clements is likely to oppose any collective bargaining bill for farm work-since it comes so close to Christmas, ers, but told reporters at a news conference on the Capitol steps, "We're hoping with this march to gain the support of the legislators so the governor, like it or not, will have to listen to the majority of the people.'

SKYLAB DOOMED — The Skylab space station, shown in a between mid 1979 and mid 1980, the National Aeronautics and 1974 photo, is doomed to plunge into the earth's atmosphere Space Administration says. (AP Laserphoto)

Fiery Plunge Forecast For Skylab Station

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said Tuesday the Skylab space station could plummet from orbit as early as next spring, showering the earth with fiery chunks weighing two tons or more. But officials of the National Aeronau-

But officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration emphasized that the chances of injury or damage are slight.

"The odds of anyone being hit are less than for meteorites," Robert Aller of NASA told a news conference. "In 200 years no one has been killed by a meteorite. And there have been reports of an injury only about once every 30 years."

Aller noted that although Skylab, last manned by astronauts in 1974, passes over most of the world's major population centers, it orbits 75 percent of the time over water and much of the rest of the time over open land.

the time over open land.

Nevertheless, NASA associate adminstrator John Yardley said the agency is considering contingency plans, including the possibility of standby medical teams in case of a problem. He said a modest plan of this type was used when the 45-ton rocket stage that hoisted the 85-ton Skylab into orbit re-entered the atmosphere.

Yardley said that stage fell back to earth over the Atlantic Ocean and nobody even saw the blazing re-entry that must

He said the United States is one of about 40 nations that have signed a treaty making a country liable for damages if parts of its space vehicles hit Earth.

Yardley said that if Skylab's re-entry was centered over a metropolitan area like Washington, D.C., only one of the 400 to 500 pieces expected to survive re-entry heat would land in the nation's capital.

That is based on computer calculations which predict that when the end comes for Skylab, the station will tumble and break apart, scattering pieces over a track 4,000 miles long and 100 miles wide. The chunks will weigh from a few ounces to as much as 5,000 pounds.

Some, like pieces of metal skin, will float down like a leaves, while larger pieces will strike at speeds up to 200 feet per second. Yardley said.

The two largest pieces which could hit Earth are an airlock protective shroud weighing 5,000 pougds and a lead film vault weighing 4,000 pounds. But Aller said these could break into smaller chunks. In all, he said, 20 to 25 tons of material might survive re-entry.

NASA announced Monday that it is abandoning a plan to try to keep the station, as large as a three-bedroom house, aloft until a team of space shuttle astronauts could fly up and attach a rocket to it. The rocket would have been used either to boost Skylab into a higher, safer orbit or to guide it to a controlled re-entry over a remote ocean area.

The agency said it is giving up the attempt to prolong the life of the station because of deteriorating systems on board, and because of the slim chance that astronauts can reach it before it tum-

'Grandpa' Carter Gets Granddaughter

ATLANTA (AP) — Judy Carter, daughter-in-law of President Carter, gave birth Tuesday to the president's first grand-daughter: 7-pound, 11-ounce Sarah Rose-

Jack Carter, the eldest of President and Mrs. Carter's three sons, said after watching the birth of his daughter, "I'm sure I've ensconced myself in Carter family history. We don't have girls very easi-

The president and his wife Rosalynn have two other grandchildren, both boys. For a husband to be present "is the greatest thing... I recommend that to anyone," Jack said.

Sarah Rosemary was born at 12:17 p.m. at Crawford W. Long Memorial Hospital. She was 21 inches long and had red hair. bles to destruction

For several months, a team of NASA specialists has been trying to extend Skylab's life by maintaining it in a position of minimum atmospheric drag. But because of the failing systems, including gyroscopes and power, the chances of maintaining that position for another 15 to 18 months are not good, Yardley said.

He said the earliest realistic date for a shuttle mission to Skylab is April 1980.

The Monday announcement estimated the station would fall from orbit between mid-1979 and mid-1980. Yardley narrowed this to between July and September next year, with the possibility of a reentry as early as May if there is increased sunspot activity on the sun.

Sunspot eruptions spill ultraviolet radiation into the atmosphere, heating and expanding it, thus increasing the drag on satellites passing through. Higher-than-usual sunspot activity in Higher-than-usual sunspot activity in the last year upset NASA's original estimate that Skylab would stay aloft until 1983, which would have given plenty of time to mount a shuttle mission.

A reporter noted that the Soviets have an active manned space program, while the Americans have been idle, awaiting the development of the shuttle. He asked if the Russians had been asked if they could do anything to save Skylab.

Yardley said NASA considered the possibility but determined it probably wasn't feasible.

He said the Russians are aware of the Skylab situation, and "if they make any proposals, we'll certainly entertain them."

Carter Move Sparks Lubbock Criticism

By JOHNNY HOLMES

Avalanche-Journal Staff
Two Texas Tech University authorities in Chinese affairs Tuesday criticized President Carter's recent move to normalize diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China, predicting that Taiwan eventually will be dropped from U.S. diplomatic and trade plans.

Dr. Key Ray Chong, associate professor of history, said he expects "the U.S. will drop Taiwan real quick. Once the momentum with China is built, the U.S. will move quickly away from Taiwan, even though many businesses have pledged to stay and help."

Both Chong and Dr. Helen Purkitt, an assistant professor of political science, agree with Carter's intention to establish ties with Red China, but strongly question the manner in which the president handled the announced split with Taiwan, an ally since Chiang Kai-shek fled the Chinese mainland for the island of Formosa in 1949.

Dr. Purkitt felt the move "shows a continual error of American foreign policy, especially in Asia," but felt it was "an important symbolic action, symbolizing a new flexibility in American foreign poli-

Expounding on her theory, she explained that "when President Nixon began working with China in 1971, he turned his back on the Japanese, and now Carter has done the same with Taiwan."

"What really worries me," she said, "is that the U.S. gap of understanding is no smaller now than it was during the Vietnam conflict. I'm not saying there is an Oriental mentality or anything like that, but I don't think many of our diplomats understand the Oriental culture, and that's very important to better our relationships, not only with the Chinese but all over the Orient."

Ruth Schiermeyer, chairman of the Lubbock County Republican party, offered a personal opinion, explaining that the local party had not discussed the Democratic president's move.

"I personally feel China is a country, and not recognizing it for 30 years didn't make it go away," she said. "My problem is in accepting that Carter turned his back on a longtime ally."

The GOP leader suggested that Carter's recognition of Red China was politically motivated.

"Politically speaking, I'm not sure that this wasn't done at this particular time to draw attention away from the failure to achieve a Mideast peace treaty by the deadline. The timing was just too good. Otherwise, it was an immature and distracting move," she said.

Dr. Purkitt, Chong and Mrs. Schiermeyer agreed that while the normalization of relations between America and Red China was inevitable, the part involving Taiwan could have been handled with more finesse.

The seemingly sudden action "hascaused some uncertainty, both politically and economically," said Dr. Purkitt, "and I think it could have been avoided. It's caused some very unnecessary reactions. The change could have been much more gradual."

Taiwanese students across the country spent much of last weekend showing their resentment of America's latest shift in foreign policy. In Lubbock Sunday, the Chinese Students Association of Texas Tech voiced its disapproval with a protest demonstration in front of the Federal Publisher.

But neither Dr. Purkitt nor Chong expect the demonstrations to continue.

"This is just a guess," said Dr. Purkitt,
"but I don't think there will be too many in the next few weeks. The students appear to be taking a wait-and-see attitude.
I'm not really sure what will happen when the Red Chinese come here to open their embassies (the U. S. and China are expected to begin trading ambassadors in March). It depends on whether we abandon Taiwan completely or try to work with them."

"The students have to show their dissatisfaction with the way their homeland is being treated," said Chong, "but they probably won't keep it up like the Irani-

Dr. Purkitt compared the China situation to America's recent Vietnam conflict, saying that "there was a real negative reaction among students after the initial cease-fire in Vietnam, but nothing really happened until after the actual fall of the government. I think the real demonstrations could come after Taiwan is abandoned economically, whenever that happens."

Mrs. Schiermeyer, a host parent of a Taiwanese girl for two years, said she felt the Taiwanese students in America were "feeling pretty insecure right now, not knowing exactly what their role is going

Dr. Purkitt and Chong agree that the American involvement with Red China is another in a long line of foreign policy moves that may have begun with good intentions but was bungled in the process.

Said Dr. Purkitt, "Style is the essence of international politics and the key to how we conduct our foreign affairs, especially in a part of the world where style and protocol are very important."

and protocol are very important."

Summing up his feelings about the matter, Chong said, "American foreign policy is dictated by public opinion and is therefore very erratic. This situation seems to mirror the way America has handled Korean, Vietnan and now China. And it could happen to Korea again."

Viet Refugee Says Country 'Stalin-type'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Vietnamese who fought the American-backed Saigon regime and later escaped communist rule said Tuesday Vietnam has been converted into a "Stalin-type gulag" where people are denied the most elemental human rights.

Doan Van-Toai, who left Vietnam last year after serving 28 months in prison, told a news conference that "Vietnam is just like a closed and isolated box, where the people are like little ants.

"The communists can pick up anyone they wish, to kill them at any moment wish, and nobody will know about

Toai, 32, said that eight years ago, as vice president of the Saigon students un-ion, he cooperated with groups opposed to the Saigon government. He said he was arrested in 1975 after refusing a request by the new regime to draw up a plan for confiscating private property.

"At home, my mother died because she had been refused admission to hospital for the simple reason that she had a son in prison," he said. He said the regime is able to maintain control by threatening to cut food ra-"It is strange to see, then, a father the father to be murdered so that the est of his family can have the rice it needs," he said. "Strange - but it happens in Vietnam today.

The government also exposes dissidents by creating fake "resistance movements" whose sole purpose is to smoke out its enemies, he said.

Of his life in prison, Toai said he was confined to a small cell with 40 other prisoners. Like the remaining prisoners, his right hand was permanently chained to his left leg and vice versa, he said.

"Each day, some of the prisoners would die from torture, from starvation, suffocation, illness or suicide," he said. Another Vietnamese, Nguyen Huu Hieu, told the news conference that the desperation of the Vietnamese people is best illustrated by the thousands trying to flee their homeland by boat.

Out of every 10 who try to escape, "maybe one or two make it to safety,

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) - It might changed from a team that rarely threw to and TCU and losses to Arkansas and Texseem a little late in the season to be worried about getting your offense installed properly, but that's what Texas A&M coach Tom Wilson hopes for in the Hall of Fame Bowl against Iowa State tonight.

Wilson took over the coaching job for the Aggies when former coach Emory Bellard, whose team was expected to challenge for the Southwest Conference crown, resigned after the first six games

Not content to finish the season with the wishbone offense that Bellard ran for seven seasons at A&M, Wilson immediately installed the "I". The Aggies one that threw about 26 times a game.

"The strength of our team all year has been the defense," Wilson said during a tull in Hall of Fame Bowl preparations.
"We've been inconsistent on offense all year, and we're hopeful the preparation for the bowl game gave us time to put in some new ideas and fulls recover from the transition period between coaches."

Under Bellard, the Aggies were 4-2. He resigned after consecutive defeats by Houston, 33-0, and Baylor, 24-6, games in which the Aggies failed to score a touch-

Iowa State Coach Earle Bruce had his third consecutive 8-3 season, after guiding the Cyclones to 4-7 records his first three years.

Bruce said he would be hesitant to pick this squad as the best of his 8-3 teams, but said it was different.

"This team is unique. It lost three games in a row in the middle of the season, then won four straight," he said. "From a comeback point of view, I've never had a team like it."

An off-season expansion of Legion Field increased seating capacity to nearly 77,000 this year.

Bob Lochamy, executive director of the foundation, said 35,000 tickets had been sold as of early Tuesday. The founda-tion's goal for the second game was to sell 50,000 tickets, and Lochamy said an increase in sales Monday and lines at ticket windows Tuesday made him confident of reaching that goal.

Morris, a walk-on wide receiver for Texas Tech, has been in a comatose state since Dec. 11 when he underwent a thyroid operation and sustained two cardiac arrests within a short time. Since the operation and the heart troubles, he has been unconscious.

Mrs. Morris has been in Lubbock since that time, as she and members of the family waited at the bedside. Expenses of their stay here — the family is from Dallas - as well as those from Morris' hospital care will have to be handled, Morris has been listed in critical condition since the time of cardiac arrests. Last month, Morris was called upon when injuries cut into Tech's receiver corps. He caught a 21-yard pass which set up the winning touchdown in Tech's 22-21 upset win over the University of Houston.

He is scheduled to go on scholarship for the second semester.

Owner Debates Fairbanks' Pact

BOSTON (AP) — Chuck Fairbanks is suspended without pay as coach of the New England Patriots, but the National Football League team sought Tuesday to have him

Fairbanks accepted a job as coach of the University of Colorado football team Monday and was promptly evicted by Patriot officials from the team's clubhouse in Miami prior to a game New England lost 23-3 to the Dolphins.

The next day team vice president Chuck Sullivan, a lawyer and son of Patriots' owner William H. Sullian Jr., said the NFL team wants Fairbanks on the sidelines for the upcoming playoffs and for the remaining four years of his contract.

Sullivan made his remarks through a team spokesman, who was mum when asked to It was not clear if the Pats really wanted, or expected, Fairbanks to return to the club or if the team was maneuvering for position in case of a lawsuit from Faribanks.

The bizarre events unraveled as two Patriot assistants, Hank Bullough and Ron Erhardt were temporarily placed in charge of the team for its Monday night game and the immediate future. Both were told by William Sullivan that they are in line to re-

Here is the scenario: -For several days prior to the nationally televised Monday, reports had circulated that Fairbanks was heading to Colorado. The Patriots' coach made his name in the college ranks at Oklahoma before arriving in New England in 1973 to build the NFL team into a Superbowi contender.

—Fairbanks fold Sullivan on Sunday he would take the Colorado job although he had seyeral seasons remaining on his $150,000 per year NFL contract.

-Sullivan asked Fairbanks to reconsider, and the coach said he decide at 6 p.m. Monday— three hours before the Dolphins game.

-But at 3:45 p.m. Monday, Fairbanks told his assistant coaches and players he was leaving after the season. -Kairbanks then told Sullivan his decision was final, but he wanted to coach the remainder of the Patriots' season, into the playoffs. —Sullivan said "no" "I told him he couldn't serve two masters," said Sullivan. "I had asked him to put off any announcement until after the Super Bowl ... He said he had to go to Colorado to recruit and would return to Foxboro later in the week ... I told him he was suspended and no longer associated with the Patriots. -Sullivan then named Bullough and Erhardt, the team's defensive and offensive coordinators, interim coaches. One of those two assistants likely will be named permanent head coach of the Pa-

-At 5 p.m., 11 veteran Patriots' players - John Hannah, Russ Francis, Steve Nelson, Dick Conn, Leon Gray, Tim Fox, Steve Zabel, Tony McGee, Shelby Jordan, Sam Cunningham and Ray Hamilton — went to Sullivan to ask that Fairbanks be allowed to continue coaching the team until the season ends. Sullivan refused.

-Fairbanks then boarded the team bus heading for the Orange Bowl, and said he would give "150 percent" if he could remain with the NFL team temporarily. -Sullivan rushed to the stadium, and when the team and Fairbanks arrived, told the coach to leave, that he was suspended "for being disloyal." 'When an employee voids a contract, we notify the league," said Sullivan, "and the employee, in so doing, is suspended without compensation.'

Fairbanks has been unavailable for comment. But it was an exit from the NFL that had something in common with his rushed departure from the college ranks. After leading Oklahoma to a 52-15-1 record, Fairbanks was hired by Sullivan - after Penn State Coach Joe Paterno rejected the team's offer to take a stab at the pros. Soon after Fairbanks left Oklahoma, the school was slapped with a two-year NCAA probation, ruling out bowl games, for recruiting violations during Fairbanks' tenure. As it stands, Sullivan is mulling court action, either against the University of Colorado or Fairbanks, to force the coach or school to cover the remaining four years -$600,000 — on the contract of the Patriots' coach.

Patriots' players, meanwhile, are stunned. Some, like Fairbanks, wept before the

"I felt hurt," said Conn, a reserve safety. "The only time I felt worse was when they told us Darryl Stingley was paralyzed."

"It's like losing your daddy," said another veteran. Several players, quoted anonymously, said Fairbanks could have led the team into the Super Bowl, despite his future commitment to Colorado.

Some former Oklahoma stars, like defensive lineman Ray Hamilton, have played for Fairbanks their entire careers. Fairbanks, 45, only 10 days ago reached his NFL pinnacle when the Patriots beat Buffalo to clinch the American Conference East title, the first championship of any sort for the franchise in 15 years, since the American Football League days. The taciturn coach had signed a long-term contract with New England in 1977 saying, "I plan to be here for a while."

That, however, turned out to be less than two more seasons. The victory over Buffalo gave Fairbanks a career coaching record in the NFL of 46-39.

New England finished the regular season 11-5, but the loss to the Dolphins isn't on Fairbanks' ledger. It apparently will be split 50-50 between Bullough and Erhardt. "The timing of this was atrocious," said Sullivan. "Yes, I am very, very disap-

Buff Officials, Team Happy With Fairbanks

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) - University of Colorado officials remained tight-lipped about the financial particulars, but there was no doubt whatever Tuesday that CU's football players were delighted Chuck Fairbanks was leaving the New England Patriots to become their football coach

"I can't really believe it," said All-Big Eight defensive back Mark Haynes, "You look at his record and he's a winner. I

"We're behind in recruiting and a coach of this caliber is really going to help," said tight end Bob Niziolek. Eddie Crowder, the university' athletic director, continued to withhold details of the financial package offered to Fairbanks, although the contract is believed to be about $70,000 a However, Crowder did confirm that the school had been negotiating with Fairbanks since Nebraska coach Tom Osborne turned down a CU offer two weeks ago. "We've been avoiding saying anything in order to let him (Fairbanks) discuss the matter with his owners," said Crowder. "He has shown a definite inclination to come here and coach, and yet he thought it was appropriate to discuss the op-portunity with his owners before doing anything specific." Fairbanks' contract reportedly includes revenue from a weekly television show to comprise part of the estimated $70,- 000 salary. But both Crowder and Denver oilman Jack Vickers have denied speculation that Fairbanks also would receive a $1 million share of a golf course-residential development in by two men who coached under him at the University of Oklahoma, Jerry Pettibone and Gene Hochevar.

Crowder said both Pettibone and Hochevar began coaching under Fairbanks and are now in private business in Oklahoma

Hochevar, a native of Pueblo, Colo., served as offensive line coach at Oklahoma until last spring when he resigned from Barry Switzer's staff, Crowder said. Pettibone was Oklahoma's recruiting coordinator until he also resigned from the Sooners staff last spring.

Fairbanks' insistence on announcing his acceptance of the CU offer apparently was a key factor in his suspension Monday by Patriots' owner Billy Sullivan. The owner had asked Fairbanks to delay a decision until after the Super Bowl, but Fairbanks reportedly refused because Crowder had insisted the job be filled promptly in order to proceed with high school recruiting.

Several Colorado players, gathered around a television to watch the Patriots-Miami game Monday night, agreed that Fairbanks' presence would be a boon to recruiting. But they were uncertain whether the new coach would bring a pro-oriented playbook with him or return to the wishbone-formation he used at Oklahoma.

"If we run something like a wishbone, I'm through," said quarterback Bill Solomon. "It almost doesn't seem possible, though, to put in a type of offense that we've never run in just

It's a safe bet that Epley's crew could bench-press most of The AP All-Americans without too much trouble, even though both squads include offensive tackles Keith Dorney of Penn State and Kelvin Clark of Nebraska and linebacker Tom Cousineau of Ohio State.

Epley, the University of Nebraska's strength coach, also is executive director of the newly formed National Strength Coaches Association, which has selected the first All-America Strength Team.

"For two reasons," says Epley. "To recognize the effort put forth by college football players in the weight room as they improve their football skills through strength. And to recognize the NSCA as a group of individuals who are producing stronger football players. Through our guidance, football players have been able to develop beyond their natural potential."

On the NSCA's team, yardage, completions, receptions, tackles and other such data put out by public men don't count. Instead, the credits include:

Kelvin Clark — "All-time incline (360 pounds), bench press (400 pounds), both records for Nebraska tackles."

Keith Dorney — "His intensity in the weight room carries over to his performance on the field."

Mark Chandless — "Designated as an average athlete but, through the use of weight training, his quickness increased two-fold."

Jack Thompson — "Spins the ball with more consistent velocity because of increased tricep strength."

Tom Rusk — "Has put on 35 solid pounds during his career. Because of strength he is also very durable and not only has never missed a game but has never missed a practice."

If there is the equivalent of a Heisman Trophy-winning strong man, it probably is Rich Tuten of Clemson, who bench-pressed 350 pounds as a freshman and is now up to 510. # Cowboys' Reeves Said Interested In Giants

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) -George Allen has all but sent the New York Giants his resume as well as a list of assistants he wants to fill the job openings that cropped up here this week.

But Allen and Giants owner Wellington Mara would be a match made quite a distance from heaven. To put it bluntly, Allen has no chance for the job.

"If they had the right coach and the right leadership, they can have a great season in 1979. There's no question about that," Allen said after learning of Coach John McVay's firing on Monday and the resignation of Andy Robustelli, the director of operations.

"I know the Giants personnel very well. They have outstanding defensive personnel. The improvement has to be mostly on offense.'

Despite his open campaigning for the jobs, Allen doesn't have a shot for the same reasons Carroll Rosenbloom was willing to swallow the coach's huge contract with the Los Angeles Rams. Allen wants full and complete control which is not an easy thing for any NFL owner to give. The Mara family is said to have considerable dislike for Allen's method of operation.

Sources on the team chuckle when Al-len's name is mentioned. "That's nice," was the reaction of one Giant official when he was told of Allen's remarks. Another said it was absurd that Allen would be offered the job. So an ever-growing list of potential candidates is trimmed by one.

The Giants have indicated a preference for hiring two men for the two jobs. They might make an exception in the case of Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, who has indicated no desire to leave the collegiate surroundings of University Park.

Others mentioned include: -Dan Reeves, 34, offensive coordinator of the Dallas Cowboys. He's very

USC Prepares For Rose Bowl Clash

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Michigan's bowl success has been somewhat less than spectacular in recent years, but Southern Cal Coach John Robinson said that should make his Trojans even more wary of the Wolverines when the two teams meet in the Rose Bowl

"Knowing Michigan the way I do, I think the fact they haven't done well in past years is an advantage for them. The good teams like Michigan don't get snake-bit, they just get meaner. Good teams just keep knocking on the door until it opens The 1979 Rose Bowl appearance will mark the third in as many years for the Wolverines, who are fifth-ranked and have a 10-1 record. Michigan has lost in Pasadena each of the past two years, however, and also lost there in 1970 and 1972. The Big Ten power hasn't won a Rose Bowl since a 1965 victory over Oregon State.

The Trojans, 11-1 and rated No. 3, is the overwhelming historical Rose Bowl champ. USC has a 15-6 record in Pasadena, and has won the New Year's Day classic six of the past 11 years, the latest a 14-6 victory over Michigan in 1977. Robinson, in addition to being concerned with Michigan's "hunger," is also worried about more concrete things - like Rick Leach, and the Wolverine de-

"I think Leach is one of the better players in the nation," the Trojan coach said of the Wolverine quarterback. "He's a great runner and passer, and I met him this summer and he's just a great guy.

"Michigan's offense doesn't make many mistakes, has turned the ball over just something like 15 times this season, so when you get the football you know you're going to have to drive.

"And you're trying to drive," Robinson contineud, "against one of the best defenses in the country. You don't get any easy touchdowns against Michigan." The USC coach said he has a great deal of respect for the Michigan football program and Coach Bo Schembechler

"I've got a son, and if Bo came to the house recruiting him, I wouldn't hesitate to tell him to go to Michigan.

Dimmitt Doubles LHS Score; Triumphs 71-35

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff The last time the Lubbock High Westerners were able to win a basketball game, there were 20 days before Christmas. Oh, the good old days ...

However, reminiscing was about as close as the Westerners came Tuesday night at the Lubbock gym to ending their losing streak.

The Dimmitt Bobcats sank the first three buckets to set the pace of the contest and then strolled to an easy 71-35 nondistrict victory.

In fact, half of the first quarter had elapsed before Lubbock High could get on the scoreboard. Forward Jeff Manley broke the ice for Lubbock High to narrow the deficit to 6-2.

But that was about as close as the Westerners were going to come to getting back in the game. The Bobcats 10-6 the rest of the period, and Dimmitt had a 15-8 advantage.

Postman Mark Summers topped the Dimmitt scoring attack with 20 points. The 6-5 Bobcat senior put two of his total in from under the basket the first time down court as Dimmitt was off and running again. "There were times that we played

LCHS Teams Take Wins

Both boys and girls teams from Lubbock Christian High School took wins Tuesday night over Cotton Center, the boys by a 73-60 count and the girls by a 44-36 final score. Shawn Bowe's 18 points and Tim Per-rin's 15 led the LCHS boys to their 13th win in 15 tries this season, while Cotton Center dropped to a 1-4 ledger. Cotton Center's John Davis counted 24 for the losers, while Jerome Davis hit 15. The girls took their win on the strength of an 18-point performance by Glenna Jeffries, while Cotton Center had three girls scoring 8 points, Margaret Martinez, Kathy Burnett and Marie Flores. Next LCHS game is with Lazbuddie Thursday.

Wells. "But we can only play well for two or three minutes at a time. We're not consistent for an entire quarter."

The Westerners proved Wells' point by bothering the Bobcats with a halfcourt trap. But the Bobcats were equally as effective in keeping Lubbock High off the scoreboard.

Then Dimmitt was able to break the trap and get the ball inside.

Summers seemed to break the Westerners defensive spirit by connecting on a bucket in the lane. Lubbock High then became over aggressive and quickly wound up putting Dimmitt in the bonus situation.

Postman Randy Roberts and quard Jack Stewart both connected on both ends of one-and-one situations as the Bobcats built a 31-14 lead. Dimmitt ended up taking a 35-16 advantage to the halftime dressing room.

"There was really nothing we stressed at the half," said Dimmitt Coach Ken Cleveland. "We just wanted our players to keep hustling.

Dallas, with the longest current winning streak in the league, obviously has some momentum. So it would not have bothered coach Tom Landry if the Cowboys had to play next Sunday instead of happen to have going at the moment.

'We are on such a regimented schedule," Landry said, referring to all league clubs and not just his own, "that it is to our advantage to play every week. It is to our advantage to stay on the routine. Anytime you break the routine it doesn't always help you like you think it would.

"We have been doing that (getting ready in a week's time) for the last 20 weeks. So it would not have upset me at all if that was the case this time.'

Dallas will play Atlanta if the Falcons down the Philadelphia Eagles next Sunday in Atlanta. But if Philadelphia wins the NFC wild card game, Dallas' foe on Dec. 30 will be Minnesota.

'There is always the chance a team might run into an injury problem," Landry said in outlining the chief benefit in playing a team that had to play the week before. "That would be the only main adwin."

Landry said he felt Sunday's Philadelphia-Atlanta game would be a close af-

But it's going to be tough in Atlanta because they have such a good track record at home. Things seem to happen better for the Falcons at home. I think it might be a tossup, and that makes it tougher for us to get ready."

Fans Name Waters Favorite Cowboy

DALLAS (AP) - Guess who is the Most Favorite Dallas Cowboy? If you said Roger Staubach, you would have been correct the last four years.

But in 1978 the winner is...of all people, a defensive back.
"Humbling, I find this very humbling," said Charlie Waters Tuesday after he had learned he was No. 1 in the hearts of the Dallas Cowboy football fans in balloting conducted by a local dairy.

Waters and his wife, Rosie, won a week-long, expenses-paid trip for two to either Acapulco, Aruba or Hawaii, plus $500.

The vote total was Waters 3,336, Staubach 3,301.

"I'll disclose at a later date how Rosie and I were able to stuff the ballot boxes," Waters joked.

In the 10 years of the contest, the only other defensive players ever to win were Bob Lilly and Lee Roy Jordan.

miliar with the Vikings, having played them so often in post-season competition and in the regular season as well the past two years.

"Minnesota is a very strong, veteran team with lots of playoff and Super Bowl experience," the Cowboys coach said. "I think they resent the fact nobody gives them much credit. When they play they will play well.

"Atlanta is a very unpredictable team to play. They are a blitzing team, a gam-bling team. If it works for them all day they can beat you. If it doesn't work you might get some bombs on them. You have to make big plays against Atlanta. You don't drive it down the field. You have to have the athletes who can make the big plays."

Landry pronounced his team relatively healthy after its 30-7 regular season end-ing victory over the New York Jets.

Quarterback Roger Staubach, held out of the game as a precautionary measure because of a sore hand and foot, will work out as usual this week. And Landry said he hoped fullback Robert Newhouse, who saw his first action in a month against the Jets, might be at full strength in another week.

"I don't know what the starting situation will be yet (at fullback)," Landry said. "I'll just have to wait and see how ers, who will meet the Miami Dolphins Sunday in the first round of the National Football League playoffs, have not yet learned to be a good team all the time, Coach Bum Phillips says.

Phillips could have pointed to several examples over the Oilers' season, but the most glaring Oiler off-performance came Sunday when San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts riddled the Oilers 45-24. "We had to beat New Orleans last week and we did," Phillips said. "That put us selves ready for a routine team the week in the playoffs. We needed to win Sunday to guarantee the homefield advantage, but it just wasn't the same.

"A team like Pittsburgh is used to being good and it stays on top, play after play and week after week. We can't do that yet. We've got just enough young players that they all take turns messing must face the Dolphins in Miami's Or-ange Bowl Sunday in the battle of American Football Conference wild card Houston's good game-bad game syndrome showed up earlier in a 24-17 victory over Pittsburgh on Monday night followed by a 28-13 loss to Cincinnati, which was 0-9 at the time.

After playing tough in a 21-17 loss to Oakland, the Oilers barely escaped defeat the following week in a lackluster 17-10 victory over Buffalo.

The Oilers go into the game with a 10-6 record for their first trip to the playoffs in nine seasons.

They'll be led by Earl Campbell, the first rookie to lead the National Football League in rushing since Jim Brown's 942 vards in 1957.

Campbell finished with 1,450 yards on 302 carries. He had 77 yards on 14 carries against San Diego and clinched the title Monday night when Miami's Delvin Williams gained 6 yards on five carries against New England. Williams could have won the title with 199 yards rushing against the Patriots. The Oilers won't resume practice until Wednesday afternoon, allowing time for some of the wounded to recover, including quarterback Dan Pastorini, who suffered a strained knee against San Diego. Phillips said Pastorini likely would not work out until late in the week, if at all.

Raiders Squabbling About Poor Season

OAKLAND (AP) — A split has developed between Oakland Raiders managing general partner Al Davis and quarterback Ken Stabler, the San Jose Mercury reported today.

According to the report, Davis blamed the veteran NFL signal caller for the club's 9-7 finish, which left the Raiders out of the American Football Conference playoffs for the first time since 1971 And Stabler, according to more than one teammate, isn't happy about it. "It's not just Stabler, the whole club didn't play well. But you've got to point to someone, so blame Stabler. He makes whole new season," says Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett who will guide his troops in their first National Football League playoff ever when the Falcons host the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday.

"The only difference is that this one's sudden death," said Bennett Tuesday at his weekly news conference at the training camp north of Atlanta. We've spent 16 weeks preparing for it," said Bennett of the Falcons who finished with a 9-7 record to reach the playoffs for the first time since entering the NFL in 1966. "It can all end in one game The Eagles, also 9-7, on the other hand have not been in a playoff in 18 years, since winning the NFL title in 1960. The Falcons ended the regular season by getting drubbed by the St. Louis Cardinals 42-21 Sunday as Jim Hart passed for more than 300 yards.

"That doesn't mean a thing," said Bennett, who feels the Eagles, will rely pri-marily on a what got them into the play-

"But they can pass, too," he said. "Ron Jaworski is a quarterback a lot like our Steve Bartkowski. He's maturing and he throws very well. I look for him to attack us with a running game and mix it up with some passing Bennett said he feels they will try to add some plays that worked for St. Louis. But basically, he said, they will go with what works best for them. He added that he would not change much for the game either. 'Really, the only difference in this game and any other is that your season is over if you lose. I don't anticipate any wholesale changes.

"What else can you do? We're not going to change anything in practice and I think that's the way anybody would approach it. We have to rely on the things that were good enough get us here and hope they are good enough to keep us there," said Bennett.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Chamber of Commerce of the United States says the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission still has much work to do before it can properly assume additional enforcement responsibilities.

Two new functions, involving enforcement of the newly amended Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 and the Equal Pay Act, are to be trans-ferred the Labor Department to the EEOC on July 1, 1979.

'We question whether enough planning and coordination is taking place in order to effectuate a smooth and effecthe transfer of these functions on July 1979," William H. Knapp, a labor relaions attorney for the chamber, said in a Natement submitted to the House subcommittee on employment opportuni-

The source said some the shah's optimism was prompted by:

-An increase in oil production to 3.4 million barrels between Monday and Tuesday, up from the previous daily mark of 2.2 million. Normal production is 6.2 million barrels daily and much of that goes for export.

The government says 95 percent of the nation's 37,000 oil workers are back on the job, after a slowdown that cost Iran $750 million. A 15-day strike last month cost it an estimated $1.5 billion.

political insiders earlier this week said time was running out for the monarch in participation of the shah's main political opponents, the broad-based National Front led by Karim Sanjabi. Last week Sanjabi refused a personal request by the shah to join a coalition.

Some Western analysts believe the shah's dogged efforts to cling to power despite the fierce religious and political opposition to his one-man rule will only prolong and worsen the crisis.

The National Front claimed scores of soldiers joined the anti-shah rallies in Ta-

Parliament Jails Indira Gandhi; Martyr Role Seen

NEW DELHI (AP) — Former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi went to jail Tuesday by order of the lower house of Parliament, which also expelled her from the seat she won in a special election last

That election had been seen as a major step in her policital comeback.

Supporters chanting, "long live Indira Gandhi!" mobbed her as she emerged from Parliament with a small group of uniformed and plainclothes police four hours after a rousing voice vote affirming

Mrs. Gandhi staged a sitdown strike with about 200 supporters until police served an arrest warrant and led her outside past the throng of cheering support-

"The punishment is lenient considering the enormity of the crime," Prime Minister Morarii Desai told the lower house before it voted approval of his motion sentencing his predecessor for breach of privilege and contempt of parliament. Mrs. Gandhi said the vote was politically motivated, but accepted it. In a dramatic moment, members of the house shouted approval of a resolution by Desai to jail and expel Mrs. Gandhi. A few minutes earlier it voted 279 to 138 for expulsion and jail over more lenient pun-

The 61-year-old Mrs. Gandhi, prime minister for 11 years until Desai's Janata Party won the March 1977 general elections, vowed to return to Parliament. She said she would run in the by-election for the seat from which she was expeled in remote Chikmagalur district. Her election there in November was a major step in her political comeback. "She'll come back with thunder," C.

Tech Plans Leadership Conference

A campuswide leadership conference designed to promote personal growth of organization leaders and other interested persons will be conducted in the Texas Tech University Center on Jan. 20. Mary B. Reeves, assistant director of Student Life, said registration deadline for the all-day conference on "Dimensions of Development and Lead-ership" is Friday. The fee is $3.50. "Participants can learn to be more assertive when dealing with other people," Reeves said. "They also can learn how to deal more effectively with stress, whether the source of the stress is their job, roommate, professor or parent. There will also be sessions on communication techniques and listening skills."

Registrants may choose from 11 discussion sessions dealing with assertiveness, value clarification, motivation, activity planning, listening skills, publicity, stress, leadership, record keeping and

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Robert Leach, vice president of Student Affairs at Florida State University. His address will be followed by discussion sessions, a buffet luncheon and get-acquainted time

Discussion sessions will be conducted by Texas Tech faculty, including Drs. Paul N. Dixon and Dayton Y. Roberts of the College of Education, Drs. Michael C. White and Vincent P. Luchsinger of the Management Area of the College of Business Administration, Ron Gesky and Ralph L. Sellmeyer of the mass communications department, and Carol A. Prior, University Center Cultural Events

Students registering for the conference will be asked to choose five or six sessions in order of preference. A computer then will assign participants to their requested sessions, which may be offered several times during the day in accord-

bers argued adoption of the resolution would work to Mrs. Gandhi's favor by making her a martyr in the eyes of her supporters.

It is amply clear from the debate and from Mr. Desai's own statement that the conclusions reached are not based on facts of the case, but on past grivances of honorable (Janata) members," Mrs. Ghandi said after the motion was adopt-

She was arrested in October 1977 for alleged violations of India's Prevention of Corruption Act, but was freed after 16 hours by a magistrate who ruled there was not sufficient evidence to hold her.

In the late 1940s she spent eight months in jail during the Indian independence struggle from Britain. "Even before I made my statement in the house, I was prepared," she said Tuesday. "I have packed up my things. I have peace in myself, I have no difficulty in spending time anywhere."
