Flooding, Ice Plague Southwest, Midwest

A-J News Services
 NATIONAL Guard troops and emergency crews mounted relief missions into the flood-swept deserts of the Southwest Wednesday and police across the Midwest were swamped with reports of auto accidents on ice-slicked roads.
 As many as eight people were reported missing and presumed drowned in the floods in Arizona and traffic accidents in the Midwest claimed at least three lives.
 Thousands were homeless in Arizona and New Mexico, but floodwaters were receding in most areas.
 Floodwaters 4 feet deep inundated the small community of Duncan, Ariz., forcing 250 residents from their homes.
 Duncan, near the New Mexico border, was hardest hit by heavy rains that melted the mountain snowpack and sent water gushing through normally dry river beds over much of Arizona.

 Most of Duncan's 1,100 residents were without electricity, telephones and natural gas. National Guard trucks delivered food, blankets and clothing to a nearby emergency center.
 About 2,500 people returned to their homes in Arizona's Safford Valley after work crews repaired a break at the top of an earth-lined dam. Water leaking from the dam had threatened two subdivisions, officials said.
 Lubbock is expected to be fair through Friday with winds decreasing as the week progresses.
 Today's high should reach near 60 as a slight warming trend takes effect, with nighttime temperatures dropping down into the upper 20s, according to the National Weather Service.

 The wind should blow from the west and southwest today at about 5-10 mph.
 No precipitation is forecast through Friday, although the relative humidity is expected to climb to 70 percent in the early morning hours today.
 A light frost is expected this morning, but drying conditions are listed as excellent today and Friday.
Bridges Washed Out
 Floods in southwestern New Mexico washed out numerous small bridges and roads and left about 6,000 people stranded at Cliff and other small communities. New Mexico Gov. Jerry Apodaca declared a state of emergency at Ruidoso and in Grant and Catron counties.
 "We have several communities absolutely cut off from the whole world," said Grant County Undersheriff Charles Kelly. "I can't even count the bridges that have been torn up."
 Freezing rain and light snow turned highways to skidways in parts of the Midwest.
 Ice roads in northern Illinois were blamed for three traffic deaths. Ice sheathed tracks on Chicago's rapid transit system, slowing rush-hour service.
 Chicago police, swamped with minor accidents during the morning rush, ordered persons involved in minor accidents to go to police stations to file accident reports.
 A bus carrying a high school basketball team overturned Tuesday night on an icy highway near Durand, Wis., injuring five persons. No one was seriously hurt.
 Arizona's Gov. Bruce Babbitt took a helicopter tour of the state Wednesday and scheduled a meeting of the state Emergency Services Council to assess the damage on his return to Phoenix.
Seven Feared Drowned
 Authorities began searching the rivers for the bodies of seven persons missing and presumed drowned. One woman was swept off an interstate bridge north of Phoenix as it collapsed. Authorities believed a second vehicle, carrying a Phoenix family of four, also went off the bridge, but neither the vehicle nor the persons were found.
 Another woman was presumed drowned in a creek in rural Yavapai County and a man was reported to have been swept away while wading in the Salt River in Tempe.
 Sunny skies returned to the state Wednesday, but forecasters warned that another major storm could strike next week.
 The release of water from upstream reservoirs into the normally dry Salt River bed through the Phoenix metropolitan area was reduced, but only three river crossings were available to workers and Christmas shoppers.
 The flooding river washed out power cables to air traffic control equipment at Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport and controllers used radar equipment at Luke Air Force Base.

Pro-Indira Hijackers Surrender Airliner

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Two armed hijackers who had demanded freedom for jailed Prime Minister Indira Gandhi surrendered Thursday and released 125 passengers of a domestic jetliner unharmed, the United News of India said.
 The hijacking climaxed nationwide protests Wednesday in which 18,000 Gandhi supporters were jailed, many voluntarily, and five persons were killed, UNI said.
 The agency said police fired into stone-throwing mobs in the southern city of Bangalore, killing four persons. A pro-Gandhi demonstrator was fatally stabbed by a government supporter near Cannore, Kerala state, on India's southwestern coast, UNI said.
 The two hijackers, identified as members of the youth wing of Mrs. Gandhi's Congress Party, will appear at a news conference in Lucknow, the Uttar Pradesh state capital, with Chief State Minister R.N. Yadav. He successfully negotiated their surrender 12 hours after they commandeered the Indian Airlines Boeing 737 jet, UNI said.
 Armed with a pistol and a hand grenade, the two seized the jet and demanded the "unconditional release" of Mrs. Gandhi, who was jailed by a vote of Parliament, an airline spokesman said. She was not released. UNI said the men broke open the door of the cockpit soon after take-off, distributed pro-Gandhi pamphlets to the passengers and shouted "Long live Indira Gandhi!"
 They ordered the plane — on a flight from Lucknow to New Delhi — to land at Varanasi, also known as Benares, 375 miles southeast of New Delhi. The spokesman said one of 126 passengers escaped through a rear exit soon after the plane landed.
 Indian Airlines commercial manager U.R. Mehta said an anti-hijacking force of 63 armed members of the paramilitary border security force, plus civil intelligence officers, landed in Varanasi early today.
 Yadav, the top elected official in Uttar Pradesh state, negotiated with the hijackers by radio from the airport control tower and was in touch earlier with Prime Minister Morarji Desai by telephone, said Industry Minister George Fernandes.
 The two men wanted to speak with Desai, who led the move to have Mrs. Gandhi expelled from her seat in Parliament Tuesday and jailed, an airline spokesman said.
 Fernandes said after an emergency meeting of government officials in New Delhi the government would not give in to the demands. "I don't think any government worth its salt would compromise on a crime like this," he said.
 The airline said three non-Indians were aboard the plane but their names and nationalities were not immediately available.
 Fernandes said after an emergency

$1.1 Million In Gold Disappears

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department disclosed Wednesday it is investigating the disappearance or theft of up to 5,200 ounces of government gold, valued at about $1.1 million, from the U.S. Assay Office in New York City.
 It may be the largest theft of government-owned gold from a federal facility in the nation's history, officials said.
 The 5,200 ounces known to be missing has disappeared since 1973, but thefts could date back almost to the beginning of the operation of the assay office in 1854, said Joe Laitin, assistant treasury secretary.
 "The full truth may never be known because of the inadequate records kept over the years," said Deputy Treasury Secretary Robert Carswell, in a letter to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who received a letter alleging theft of the gold.
 "Half of the losses may have been incurred as part of the normal melting and refining processes of the assay office; an additional percentage may be recovered at such time as the building is dismantled and equipment purged," the letter said. "However, we cannot eliminate the possibility that theft may have accounted for some part of the loss."
 The letter received by Proxmire touched off the investigation, which is still continuing. The probe has not yet resulted in any arrests or charges, although one employee was apprehended trying to steal gold earlier this year and is now in prison, officials said.

Carter Budget Cuts Rile Demo Mayors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight big city Democratic mayors emerged from an 11th hour budget gripe session with President Carter Wednesday voicing mild threats of political revolt if they feel urban programs are cut too deeply.
 Boston's mayor Kevin White, leader of the delegation, said Carter "gave us no final answers" but promised to consider urban concerns as he puts the finishing touches on the federal budget for the 1980 fiscal year. The budget goes to Congress next month.
 Although White told reporters, "I'm not here to threaten," he argued that deep cuts in urban programs "are dangerous to the Democratic party" which finds strong voting support in the cities.
Support Conditioned
 Pointedly, White added that he thinks Carter is the right Democratic leader for the 1980s "if he gives us a chance to follow him."
 Lee Alexander, mayor of Syracuse, N.Y., spoke of "ominous speculation" that the president, as part of his fight against inflation, might slash up to $15 billion from urban aid.
 Alexander said that if the U.S. Conference of Mayors, meeting here next month, does not approve of Carter's spending plans for cities, they might well appeal to Congress to revise the budget.
 Immediately after seeing the mayors, Carter met a bipartisan group of seven governors to discuss their views on budget cuts. The governors were somewhat less hostile toward the reported cuts.
Cost Cuts Eyed
 Gov. Julian Carroll of Kentucky said the governors would work with Jack Watson, Carter's assistant for intergovernmental affairs, to develop specific recommendations for consolidating government programs to save money by reducing administrative costs and to delay or change government-mandated programs.
 For instance, Carroll said, his state stopped its program of reducing physical barriers for the handicapped when the cost reached $50 million.
 Most of the governors said they would cooperate as well as they could if Carter would try to modify some programs to save money so that the states would not have to absorb the reduction in federal spending.

ment for the marketing of Coca-Cola in that country, "then I have a concern about the priorities and issues that are discussed in the White House."
 Even Carter's home state political ally, Mayor Maynard Jackson of Atlanta, said the president's penny-pinching efforts threaten to cut beyond the bone and "right into the marrow."
 Meantime, a spokesman for the bipartisan Conference of Mayors said the group learned Tuesday that Carter's budget managers are proposing cuts that could risk eliminating one of the administration's most popular new urban programs, the Urban Development Action Grants.
 Among other cuts protested by the mayors was a reported plan to eliminate some 400,000 federally supported public service jobs by the end of 1980. Some cities depend on this money to pay up to one-third of their work forces.

 The Conference of Mayors has charged that these and other cuts amount to abandonment of major portions of the national urban policy Carter announced last March.
 By contrast, the governors expressed a willingness to go along with some cuts if the administration will couple them with proposals to reduce the aid burden states and cities are mandated to shoulder.
 Mayors accompanying White, Jackson, Alexander and Gibson were Coleman Young of Detroit, Henry Maier of Milwaukee, Charles Royer of Seattle and Ernest Morial of New Orleans.

"Not Raising Taxes"
 Asked whether they would be inclined to cut state services rather than raise taxes, Republican Gov. Jim Thompson of Illinois responded emphatically: "We will cut services in Illinois because we are not raising taxes."
 Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark, who has fired 200 police officers and 241 other city workers effective Dec. 31, spoke in more bitter terms than his colleagues.
 Gibson contended that when an announcement of diplomatic ties with China is quickly followed by an arrange-

PLO Vows Revenge For Israeli Attack

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli warplanes blasted Palestinian camps in southern Lebanon at sundown Wednesday in a retaliatory strike hours after the latest in a string of terror bombings in Jerusalem. Palestinian reports said as many as 27 persons were killed or wounded.
 Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization vowed in Beirut to revenge the "criminal attack." After nightfall the city's second bombing was reported in Jerusalem — someone tossing a grenade over the old city walls, slightly wounding three persons.
 Egypt's Foreign Ministry denounced the Israeli raids as "a threat to the current (Middle East) peace process."
Egypt Praised
 The statement distributed by Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said, "Israel will never be able to obscure its intransigence in the face of sincere Egyptian efforts to achieve a just, lasting and comprehensive settlement in the Middle East."
 While punishing the Palestinians to the north, Israel moved on the peace front as well, disclosing that Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Egypt's Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil will meet this weekend in Europe to try to revive the stalled peace negotiations between their countries.
 Cairo's Al Akhbar newspaper said early today that Egypt accepted the invitation and the meeting would be in Brussels, Belgium. Khalil will fly there Friday and return home Monday, the paper said. Earlier in the day an Egyptian official said Egypt had no objection to such a meeting.

outskirts of the port of Tyre, and Dahr el Bourj, about 15 miles farther north — are training bases and staging areas for guerrilla attacks on Israel.
 The Bourj el Shimali refugee camp houses an estimated 10,000 Palestinians. The PLO statement said two civilians were killed and 11 wounded in the air strike. Palestinian sources earlier had said 27 were killed or wounded. Beirut observers believed the 13 casualties reported by the PLO were Palestinians, and the other 14 reported casualties were Lebanese.
 Israel had no casualty estimate, saying only that 10 to 20 guerrillas were at each targeted site.
 The PLO statement declared, "This en- See PLO Page 16

Panelist Cites 'New Evidence' Of Four Shots In JFK Slaying

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A member of the House Assassinations Committee said Wednesday that new evidence shows "beyond a reasonable doubt" that four shots were fired, from two directions, at President John F. Kennedy when he was murdered in Dallas 15 years ago.

The Warren Commission found that only three shots were fired, all from the Texas School Book Depository. It also concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing the president.

Rep. Harold Sawyer, R-Mich., said the evidence shows conclusively that one of the shots came from the so-called grassy knoll rather than the book depository.

Sawyer said the disclosure came from two acoustical experts testifying Monday night during an executive session of the assassinations committee.

"They concluded that there were four shots, the third of which was fired from the grassy knoll," Sawyer reported. He said the experts testified there was a 95 percent probability four shots were fired at Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

Sawyer said he cannot recall the names of the two who provided the new evidence but he stressed they are experts in the field of acoustics.

"I don't know of any reason not to accept it," Sawyer said about the new evidence. But he added the disclosure "leaves me entirely up in the air" about who killed Kennedy.

In Washington, a committee spokesman said there would be no comment on the matter.

A knowledgeable source said: "I don't think Mr. Sawyer would go on the radio and lie."

Officials in the office of Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, the assassinations committee chairman, also would not comment on Sawyer's report.

The new evidence came from "a refinement of the earlier analysis" of a tape recording made during the Kennedy assassination of the sound coming from a motorcycle police officer's radio. The officer's radio transmitter was left on for about 5½ minutes, including the period when the President was shot.

Sawyer described the technique used as one which allowed the experts to refine sounds on the tape "down to a very narrow window" so they could study tiny details, such as building echoes.

Dr. James E. Barger, an acoustics expert who testified at a public session of the committee Sept. 11, had said his work on the tape showed a 50-50 possibility there were four shots, with one from the grassy knoll.

Sawyer said Barger studied the more recent work of the other two experts and agreed with their conclusion that four shots were fired. "Barger was there and he was totally in concurrence," Sawyer added.

Sawyer said "I'm probably in hot water on the whole thing" by disclosing testimony from an executive session. But he added, "the information is going to be made public anyway. It's not anything top secret."

The information emerged while Sawyer was appearing on a talk show at a Grand Rapids radio station. The congressman said he had no idea the program would focus upon the Kennedy assassination, but a college professor questioned him closely on the matter.

"There was no way I could answer them without getting into this," Sawyer said about the professor's questions.

Asked what will happen because of the new evidence, Sawyer said he is uncertain. The committee's work is supposed to be completed by Dec. 31.

"I don't know how in the name of heaven we're going to handle this for purposes of our report," Sawyer commented. He noted Monday night's session originally was supposed to consider a preliminary draft of the committee report.

There is a meeting involving some committee members set for Friday, Sawyer reported, but he said no hearing of evidence has been scheduled for that session.

Brain-Damaged Girl Knows Speech, Writes

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — On a warm day in June 1977, Dee McGlawn was walking with friends along a country road, five miles west of Bloomington, when a motorcycle struck her, crushing her skull.

Even after extensive brain surgery, doctors all but gave up hope that she would ever progress beyond the developmental stage of a 3-month-old baby.

Today her family believes a miracle of sorts has taken place.

Although Dee, 11, has never regained her ability to speak, speech therapist Nancy Anderson says she can understand language. Miss Anderson devised a learning board to teach Dee the alphabet, common phrases and parts of speech.

This Christmas, Dee collected money for needy children in a pink flowered box beside her hospital bed and laboriously penned a letter to accompany her $4.57 donation to a local newspaper fund.

"My name is Dee. I am 11 years old. I have been a patient at Mennonite hospital a year and ½. I want to share what people give me, so please buy a toy for someone who will not get one for Christmas."

She also wrote a Christmas list for herself, asking for a doll, a skirt and a trip home. She will go home Christmas Eve and then return to the hospital.

Dee's mother, Trudy McGlawn of Bloomington, related the course of Dee's progress.

"When we left Peoria (after brain surgery at St. Francis Hospital Medical Center), the doctors told me she would always be a 3-month-old baby and that I should put her in a rest home and forget her," she said.

"We were all very, very frustrated working with her at first," said Jeanette Follick, head nurse in the Mennonite Hospital's acute medical unit.

Mrs. Follick said a prayer meeting was called to help nurses come to terms with the problems of treating Dee.

"This is when it all started happening. As soon as we started dealing with our own feelings, then Dee started responding," she said.

After two months, "you could see that glimmer of something in her eyes" when her parents walked into the room, Mrs. Follick said.

Encouraged, doctors suggested daily visits to the hospital's physical and speech therapists, where Dee began learning head, neck and trunk control,

Nature To Reveal Gift Day After Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day after Christmas, when the new toys have begun to lose some of their fascination, may be a good time to introduce children to one of nature's bright gifts if you live east of the Mississippi.

Early on Dec. 26 there will be an occultation of Venus, an event Von Del Chamberlain of the National Air and Space Museum describes as "really a spectacular sight."

An occultation occurs when the moon passes between the earth and a star or planet. It is the same as an eclipse, except the sun isn't involved.

The occultation of Venus will begin about 6:10 a.m., Eastern time, and about 5:05 a.m., Central time, when the bright edge of the moon begins to pass in front of the planet. However, the time can be as much 20 minutes later in some areas.

If you watch as Venus rises you would see the moon and Venus quite close together, Chamberlain explained. "Venus will be sitting there like a diamond on a ring."

It doesn't just suddenly go out, he noted, but disappears slowly, and will reemerge from behind the moon about an hour later.

her three or four times."

Little added. "We're still being surprised at what she's getting back. We never thought she would get this far — she went into arrest four times in the month after the accident."

"She will never be able to completely do what she used to do. You can't drop an egg and put it back together exactly the way it was."

SALT Negotiations Enter Key Stages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance flew to Geneva Wednesday night in an effort to wrap up six years of strategic arms negotiations and arrange for an American-Soviet summit next month.

The Carter administration also was trying to find room on Vance's itinerary for a hastily arranged Middle East negotiating session in Brussels this weekend. Vance was expected to participate in talks between Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

But Vance's talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on a new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty headed the agenda.

Administration sources said that substantial progress was made on the remaining SALT issues two weeks ago in a series of meetings between Vance and Anatoly Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador to Washington.

At those meetings, the sources said, the Soviets agreed to an American proposal limiting to 10 the number of warheads on any missile. The Americans were reported to have agreed to a Soviet position that any cruise missile be considered armed with a nuclear warhead.

The sources said the Americans agreed with the Soviet position that it would be impossible for one side to verify that the other's cruise missiles were not nuclear-armed.

That leaves only a couple of issues for Vance and Gromyko to haggle over.

On his arrival in Geneva Wednesday, Gromyko said agreement on a new SALT pact this week is "too much to hope."

"I do not foresee the conclusion of an accord in this round," Gromyko told reporters at the airport. He declined to speculate as to when the SALT negotiations will be concluded.

One problem is the number of cruise missiles a bomber will be allowed to carry. The cruise is a pilotless drone which is exceedingly accurate. The United States intends to mount them on bombers for possible launching from outside the Soviet Union, rather than trying to penetrate Soviet airspace to drop gravity bombs.

The Soviets want the number of cruise missiles limited to 20. The Americans want 30.

Another issue is the American demand for a ban on encoding of telemetry signals from test rockets. The Soviets fired a test SS-18 missile earlier this year and scrambled the signals which enable American monitors to tell about the characteristics of the rocket.

Unless there is a ban on encoding, the United States contends, it will be difficult to verify that each side is abiding by the treaty restrictions on new rocket development.

Finally, Vance and Gromyko must work out details of a letter which will accompany any SALT II pact. The United States wants this "side letter" to spell out the restrictions on basing and manufacture of the Soviets' new Backfire bomber, an intermediate-range plane which conceivably could reach the United States if it refueled in flight and landed in Cuba.

The sources said there has been debate in the administration about whether Vance should try to wrap up the treaty or leave a few simple loose ends for Carter and Brezhnev to tie up at a summit meeting to be held in the United States in mid-January.

Vance's instructions on that point are known only to a few men in the top echelons of the administration. Arms control advocates in the State Department have urged that the secretary wrap up the

Hospital Fire In Mississippi Believed Set

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Someone using cigarette lighter fluid set the Dec. 9 fire that killed 15 women patients sleeping in a dormitory at a Mississippi hospital for the mentally retarded, state officials concluded Wednesday.

Investigators found that lighter fluid had been spread in a storage room where the fire erupted, said state Fire Marshal George Dale and Chief Deputy Marshal J.R. Crutcher. They said a small can of lighter fluid was found 16 to 18 feet away.

Dale told reporters the fire at the Ellisville State School was deliberately set. However, he said authorities had not been able to establish a motive and won't classify it as arson at this point "since arson involves malicious or fraudulent intent."

An additional 16 residents of the dormitory were injured when smoke from the storage room spread to two wards on the second floor of the two-story brick dormitory. The fire was restricted mainly to the storage room, an area about 10 feet by 22 feet containing patient clothing and bed linen.

One partial fingerprint was found on the can but it was not enough to make a positive comparison for identification, Crutcher said.

Crutcher said investigators were "going to consider all aspects — visitors, employees, residents, staff personnel."

Dale said all employees on duty at the time of the fire and many patients had been questioned and that some had undergone a lie detector test in Jackson.

Crutcher said the tests were administered because "some of the facts did not jibe" during the investigation but "there was no indication any falsehoods were reported to us."

Dale said that school employees who were on duty at the time "did exactly as the book says you are supposed to do" in a fire.

Cleveland--An Object Lesson

A GOOD DOSE of fiscal medicine for Cleveland might just be what all of the nation's cities need to bring down their spending fever.

The city of 750,000 defaulted on $15.5 million it owes to several banks and its own treasury and Mayor Dennis Kucinich got mad because the banks wouldn't loan it any more money.

His initial reaction was to lay off 2,000 of the city's 10,000 unionized municipal employees. In passing, it seems appropriate to observe that if Cleveland had reduced its padded payroll instead of going so deeply into debt, it wouldn't now be in the fix it's in.

CITIES ALL ACROSS the land, taking their cue from Congress, have been living beyond their means.

They kept raising taxes, driving more and more residents to the suburbs and more and more employers to more friendly environs.

As tax revenues inevitably suffered even as the cost of municipal and social services for the poor who were left behind rose dramatically, city officials looked to state and federal governments for bailouts.

Always in search of a new way to buy votes with the taxpayers' money, Congressional incumbents were only too glad to create revenue sharing programs, increase appropriations to cure every ill ever experienced by man—with the possible exception of adolescent acne—and pile up $50 billion and $60 billion annual federal deficits to keep local governments fat and sassy.

In Cleveland, even that infusion of outside taxpayers' money and federal debt revenue wasn't enough to meet day-to-day operating expense and pay off its own short-term notes.

LABOR UNION reaction to Kucinich's belated announcement that the city payroll will be cut by 20 percent was to threaten a general strike. Later, it softened its position with a pledge to take a second look at things.

Meanwhile, the mayor and City Council remained at odds—as they have been throughout the crisis—over how to get the city's fiscal ship into smoother waters.

Kucinich wants to submit to the voters a proposal that their city income tax be increased by 50 percent. The Council has been refusing that proposal unless the mayor agrees to sell the city's debt-ridden municipal electric system.

Nobody, insofar as we can gather from news reports, is giving serious thought to permanently reducing the city budget to balance it against available revenues.

Such a revolutionary idea, we are left to conclude, is not thought to be consistent with the American way of doing political business.

'Whoa--I Didn't Figure To Go This Far Alone'

Belly Up To Bar-ber

WASHINGTON—That Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., leads a life agreeable to Providence is apparent. Providence has strewn Conable's path not with rose petals, which would have been banal, but with tomahawks, which he collects. He is not as fierce as his weapons suggest. He has an air of quiet if often caustic amusement that helps him endure a job in which the pay is poor (considering what a man of his qualities could command elsewhere) and in which the physical demands are crushing (in each of the last 14 years he has made at least 40 trips home). To say that the elections, and the subsequent conservative sounds from the White House, have brought a stir to Conable's blood, a flush to Conable's cheeks, and a spring to Conable's step is to offer only a feeble characterization.

He believes that the nation may have entered a new "era of good feelings."

He says, contentedly, with a slight smile and only slight exaggeration, that the Democrats appear to have stopped their 45-year practice of running against Herbert Hoover.

If the 96th Congress is going to be, as Conable says, "a Republican Congress with a lot of Democrats in it," the Ways and Means Committee, on which Conable is ranking Republican, will again be the cockpit for the most interesting contests.

The surprise of the second session of the 95th Congress was the Steiger Amendment, the proposal by Rep. William Steiger, R-Wis., that led to reduction of capital-gains taxes.

THIS YEAR'S FOCUS of excitement could be Rep. Bill Gradison's, R-Ohio, proposal to index taxes.

Gradison proposes linking the tax-rate schedule and the standard deduction to the Consumer Price Index.

This would eliminate tax increases generated when inflation floats people into higher tax brackets and devalues the standard deductions.

Conable explains that "if the cost of living goes up six percent, all the thresholds in the income tax law would also be raised by six percent."

"It bothers me," says Conable, "that the government benefits from inflation that it causes, and that many congressmen oppose indexing solely because they like the idea of being able to cut taxes every year or two and get the political credit for it."

"THEY GET CREDIT in spite of the fact that 'tax cuts' often do no more than undo what inflation has done."

Indexing would require that tax increases be legislated. And by limiting the tax windfall to government that inflation produces, indexing might take some of the steam out of the drive for a constitutional amendment limiting federal spending.

Leaving aside the question of whether it is appropriate to use a constitution for that kind of political decision, a constitutional limit on spending would raise the thorny problems of enforcement.

If the government exceeded the limit, who would sue whom? Could any taxpayer sue? Perhaps the person sued would be the Secretary of the Treasury, but to what effect would he be sued?

IF, SAY, 10 months into a fiscal year government spending hit the constitutional ceiling, then what? Would a federal judge put the government into receivership and allocate its resources?

There are judges who would not shrink from trying to do that.

No such amendment is apt to pass Congress, but 22 state legislatures (34 are needed) have called for a constitutional convention to write a spending limit.

The idea of a constitutional convention should be hit hard, and often, with sharp tomahawks. Such a convention would be entitled to tinker with the entire Constitution, and temptation would match entitlement.

In this nation of 215 million, there may be people as gifted at constitution-making as those who came forth from a nation of four million in 1787.

BUT IT IS almost inconceivable that today's political culture would produce a convention fit to breathe the name of the convention of 1787.

The Republic shall not be saved from itself—from, that is, representative institutions—by a constitutional convention that would be all too representative of today's political wisdom.

And for the foreseeable future, Conable and his colleagues on the Ways and Means Committee, and their Senate counterparts on the Finance Committee, are where members of the Foreign Relations Committee were 10 years ago: in the center ring of the political circus. That is as it should be.

TV weathermen always tell me more than I want to know.

AN EDITORIAL:

A Second Look At China Pact

IN THE WAKE of President Carter's surprise recognition of Red China, there are those seeking reasons for the urgency of the move.

Not all the reasons add up, at least, in favor of a cold, logical move on the part of the U.S.

While no public reasons for the sudden action have been offered by the White House, there is much speculation, centered on "practical politics" rather than statesmanship.

THE ARGUMENT goes that the White House saw its hopes of a Mideast Peace accord by Christmas fading, that the SALT II talks were in trouble, that the President's gaffe on Iran had backfired.

And seeing all these things, the argument goes, the President's advisers suggested that a "major diplomatic coup" in another area would take peoples' minds off other failures.

It is a nice scenario, one which those who have been very critical of the President's foreign policy might easily buy. But it's too simple.

While all the "failures" may have played a role, we prefer to think that Mr. Carter—as he has done all along—decided that what he wanted to do was the right thing, and did it.

ART BUCHWALD:

You're Asking Santa To Bring You What?

WASHINGTON—The difference between Christmas past and Christmas present is the TV commercial. In the good old pre-television days children asked for toys by their generic instead of their brand names.

A child sitting on Santa Claus' lap in a department store might plead for a "train," "a doll," an "airplane" or a "stuffed teddy bear."

"No problem," Santa Claus would say, "providing you are good, ho-ho-ho."

But alas, today's little tyke, through the magic of television, has been told what he or she "needs" for Christmas.

"Zoom, boom, whingggg—the new Luggmobile made by Cliptoyz. It goes forward, backward and up the wall. This battery-equipped, radio-controlled car will make you the envy of every kid on the block. It only costs $39.50."

"DON'T WAKE UP on Christmas morning without one. Tell your mother and father right now that you'll stay in bed all day long unless there is a Luggmobile waiting for you under the tree."

Or "Hey kids. She's finally here. Dolly Teardrops, who not only cries and wails when her diapers get wet, but also gets carsick. She's so real she could be your little sister."

"Dolly Teardrops wants to be part of your home. She comes with a complete change of clothes and a cradle for just $49.95. If your parents buy a substitute throw it against the wall. Unless it's a real Dolly, it isn't a Dolly at all."

Okay, that's the way of the world, but it presents problems, particularly for aunts, uncles, cousins and godparents.

THERE ARE ABOUT 10 or 12 big Christmas toy items being pushed by the companies this year, and while Johnny is having problems reading, he seems to be able to remember not only the brand name of the toy being advertised, but also the price, the name of the manufacturer and the serial number.

"Many can even read the small print which says 'Patent Pending.'"

So Grandma, Aunt Tillie and Uncle George all go out and buy a Luggmobile for little Ben. So does Ben's mother, and the Winstons who live next door.

On the big day little Ben is up to his jeans in Luggmobiles, and he keeps walking around asking anyone who will listen to him, "Is this all there is to Christmas?"

LITTLE BEN'S sister Martha is just as perplexed. There are Dolly Teardrops as far as the eye can see. Most of them are carsick.

Martha asks Ben if he wants to trade a Luggmobile for a Dolly Teardrop. Ben makes the swap which disturbs his father no end.

"Don't open any more Luggmobiles or Dolly Teardrops," he says. "We'll take them back to the store tomorrow for something else. What do you want instead?"

Little Ben turns on the television set. "Lite Beer," he replies.

"That's not for kids. Think of something else."

"How can I think of something else if I don't see it on television?" Ben asks.

MARTHA SWITCHES the dial. "I want Oil of Olay so my skin won't dry up," Martha says.

"Oil of Olay is for women over 40," Martha's mother says. "Surely there must be another toy you want?"

"I won't know until next Saturday morning."

Now the worst part of Christmas morning is when the kids come back for lunch after showing their presents to their friends.

"Ann got six Dolly Teardrops."

"Didn't anyone get something different?"

"Michael got a football," Ben says, trying to keep a stiff upper lip.

"How did he get a football instead of a Luggmobile?"

"His parents won't let him watch television."

JAY HARRIS:

A Happy Yule All

ONE CAN SAY Merry Christmas in about as many ways as there are languages. The warmth of the message can be felt in all of them.

And that may explain why a tradition on these pages has been so popular through the years.

As each Yuletide rolls around, we receive numerous requests for this or that special holiday item. Always high on the list has been a rendition of "Twas The Night Before Christmas," with a Spanish flavor.

Under the title of Feliz Navidad, or Merry Christmas, Amigos! the little takeoff on what is recognized as the nation's best known Yule verse has been a source of delight to many.

FOR YEARS, no one stepped forward to claim authorship of the bit of whimsy.

Then about five years ago, just before the holidays, H. J. Kendrick of Lubbock was visiting his son, Alton R., at the latter's home in Aztec, N.M. During the visit, the elder Kendrick met one Guillermo Lobos of Aztec, who related how he had written the Spanish version.

The poem has been printed countless times. One of the first to regale readers with it was William J. Hooten, of The El Paso Times. Chas. A. Guy, longtime editor of The A-J, also carried it each Yule season. Both often speculated on its origin.

Because of the reference to a star on the mountain, many believed it was set in the state of Chihuahua, near El Paso, or Juarez, because of a Christmas star on Mount Franklin in the Border City. Anyway, here it is again:

MERRY CHRISTMAS, AMIGOS

"Tis the night before Christmas, and all through the casa,

Not a creature is stirring, Caramba! Que pasa? The stockings are hanging, con mucho cuidado,

In hopes that St. Nicholas will feel obligado, To leave a few cosas aqui and alli,

For chico y chica (and something por mi!) Los ninos are snuggled all safe in their carmas. (Some in carmas and some in pajamas.)

Their little cabezas are full of good things! Todos esperando que Santa will bring!

Santa is down at the corner saloon. (Muy borracho since mid-afternoon);

Mama is sitting beside la ventana, shining her rolling pin para manana,

When Santa will come en un manner extrana. Lit up like the Star on the Mountain, cantando,

Y Mama lo manda to bed with a right, Merry Christmas a todos y a todos "Good Night!"

THE PAST two holiday seasons, we also have carried another version of the famous poem, this one with a Texas drawl, y'all.

It is from a Christmas Greetings album by Lubbock's own Nell Oldham and is entitled "Twas The Night Before Christmas, Texas Style."

T'WAS NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

"T'was the night before Christmas, In Texas, you know,

Way out on the prairie, without any snow, Asleep in their cabins were Buddy and Sue,

A 'dreamin' of Christmas, like me and you, No stockings, but boots at the foot of their bed,

For this was Texas, what more need be said?

When all of a sudden, from out of the still night,

There came such a ruckus, it gave me a fright! And I saw 'cross the prairie, like a shot from a gun,

A loaded up buckboard come on a run. The driver was a 'Geenin' and a 'Hawin' with a will,

The hosses, no reindeer, he drove with such skill "Come on here, Buck, Pancho and Prince, to the right!

"There'll be plenty of traveling for you all to-night!"

The driver, in Levis and shirt that was red, Had a ten gallon Stetson on top of his head.

As he stepped from his buckboard, he was realy a sight, With his beard and mustache, so curly and white.

As he burst in the cabin, the children awoke, And both so astonished that neither one spoke.

And he filled up their boots with such presents galore, That neither could think of a single thing more.

When Buddy recovered the use of his jaws, He asked in a whisper: "Are you Santa Claus?"

"Am I Santa Claus? Well, what do you think?" Then he leapt in his buckboard and called in his drawl:

"To the children of Texas, Merry Christmas, You All!"

NELL READS the words against a Christmas musical theme in her Texas-Southern, "y'all drawl."

Mrs. Oldham says that the author of the Texas Yule piece is one Leon A. Harris Jr., no relation to Leon of Lubbock nor to us. It was first published in 1951 when it was copyrighted by Bob Miller, Inc. It, as others, adds a bit of extra cheer to the season.

There will be more holiday offerings, including the famed letter, "Yes Virginia, There Is A Santa Claus," in the next few days.

No doubt you've met somebody you knew automatically didn't like, and you knew automatically didn't like you, and neither of you knew why. Maybe your eyebrows didn't bob.

Fueling Mistake Causes Plane Crash; All Aboard Survive

DALLAS (AP) — Someone mistakenly pumped jet fuel into the tanks of a small twin-engine airliner before it lost power on takeoff, clipping the roof of a house and landing in an empty schoolyard Wednesday morning, the airline's president said.

"With about one minute of takeoff power, you'll completely melt everything inside the cylinder," Cooper said. Witnesses said the plane appeared to lose power after leaving Love Field, and the pilot maneuvered it through densely populated North Dallas.

"I noticed the plane was losing altitude. I noticed that the right prop was not working and the next thing I knew we were hitting the tree tops and were down," passenger Bond Beams of Oklahoma City said.

The pilot, Robert Chumard of Midwest City, Okla., said the plane had not gained sufficient altitude to make it back to the airport, so he looked for a place to land. "I saw a street, and right after I saw the street and lined it up, I saw the field. The good Lord was with us, and we made it." The Piper Navajo aircraft clipped the roof of a duplex, slammed through a chain-link fence and slid to a stop on a baseball diamond at Longfellow Elementary School, according to witnesses on the ground. Luckily, school was out for Christmas vacation, police said.

All seven persons aboard Air Central Flight 14 from Dallas Love Field to Oklahoma City survived the crash. Air Traffic Control spokesman Arthur N. Mitchell said the plane carried a pilot and six passengers.

The seven were taken to Dallas' Parkland Hospital, where spokesman Bob Clark said three were in serious condition and four were in fair condition.

Pressley E. Cooper, president of Air Central, said the fuel with kerosene had been put in the wrong fueling truck at Love Field. And he said the kerosene causes something equivalent to "engine knock" in automobiles.

Four Persons Dead In Private Plane Crash In Oklahoma

ADA, Okla. (AP) — A plane crash near here Wednesday took the life of four persons, at least two of whom were students at Oklahoma State University.

A spokesman for the school identified the victims as aviation junior Arnel Wiles, 20, of Roosevelt, Utah; Matt Simmons, 20, a Ponca City sophomore in agriculture, and Clydell C. Schultz, also of Ponca City, who was not a student.

The Highway Patrol said the fourth victim was a 15-year-old girl, Stacy Tucker of Marland.

The plane crashed in a pasture and caught fire. The party was en route from Stillwater to Arlington, Tex.

Wiles reportedly filed the flight plan and was believed to have been the pilot.

The aircraft plunged during a light rain about 3 a.m. It struck near the rural home of Buddy Henley, who said that when the crash awakened him he at first thought someone was attempting to set his house afire.

Lubbock Visitor Reports Rape

A woman visiting in Lubbock told police Wednesday that a young black man who came to the door of the east-side home where she is staying raped her.

The 27-year-old woman said the suspect, between 14 and 17 years of age, rang the doorbell of the residence and when she answered the door told her he was selling fruit cakes. The woman said she told the youth she wasn't interested in making a purchase and he left.

He returned about five minutes later, however, and when the victim answered the door the second time, she said, the youth produced what appeared to be a gun, directed her to admit him to the house, where he forced her into a bedroom and raped her.

After the attack, she said, he demanded the victim's money. She said she gave him $8 and he then started looking through a closet. At that point, the woman said, she grabbed a robe and ran to a neighbor's house, where she called police. She said she saw the suspect leave the residence and run northeast.

She said the youth was wearing a white T-shirt, jeans and possibly tennis shoes. He was about 5-foot-9, she said, and of medium build.

Police late Wednesday were questioning a 16-year-old youth in connection with the incident and also were searching for a 19-year-old suspect in the rape.

In other activity Wednesday, Dora Hernandez said burglars pried the front door of her 1913 Baylor St. residence between 7:40 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Wednesday and made off with more than $1,500 worth of property, including $125 cash, a television, stereo equipment, jewelry and clothing.

Mae Christian said that she had just driven into the driveway of her 1611 Ave. O residence about 6:20 a.m. Wednesday and was getting out of the car when a black man grabbed the wallet that she was holding. She said the wallet contained $320 cash.

Stephanie Brisenio of 2722 E. Seventh St. said burglars kicked open the door of her home, causing $50 damage to the entryway, and ransacked her house Wednesday morning. Missing, she said, was a $300 television, $220 worth of stereo equipment and a $180 car radio.

A 25-year-old Lubbock man was arrested about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday on suspicion of attempted murder after he allegedly shot at a Tech coed's car and forced it off the road at 19th Street and Avenue X.

A policeman said he watched as the suspect, riding a motorcycle, appeared to shoot at the car, forcing it off the road and into a stop sign and fire hydrant.

The driver of the car, a 19-year-old Texas Tech freshman from Dallas, was not injured, police said.

Eight Tech Employees Honored For Services To School Community

Eight Texas Tech University and School of Medicine employees were honored Tuesday for outstanding service.

President Cecil Mackey presented awards to Toby Avila, Rita Chrane and Richard Fischenich of the Medical School and Xantippe Stafford, Meredith J. Walker, Mattie Jo Stroud and Mary Crittendon of the University staff.

Dr. Reagan H. Gibbs, director of the Student Health Service, received the first Vice President's Award for outstanding service.

Avila, audio-visual technician at the El Paso Regional Academic Health Center, was commended for "exemplary friendly and cooperative efforts in accomplishing needed tasks" and for "going beyond the level of his job requirements to be of help to faculty and staff alike." A Tech employee since May 1977, he studied advertising art and photography at Crozier Technical School in Dallas and art at Southern Methodist University.

Educational program assistant in the Office of Continuing Medical Education, Mrs. Chrane was cited for dedication and planning of continuing education programs, willing cooperation and maintenance of a high level of professionalism. A medical school employee since 1975, she holds bachelor and master of business administration degrees from West Texas State University.

Fischenich, chief of Biomedical Electronics, was cited for his efforts to reduce maintenance costs, development of systems and procedures and dedication to his profession. He has continued his education. Dr. Mackey noted, through coursework in engineering and business administration, and through manufacturers' technical training programs.

Dr. Gibbs, director of Student Health Services, joined Texas Tech in 1974. A graduate of The University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston, he is certified by the American Academy of Pediatrics. He was commended for his implementation of high standards of performance, quality of communications with the student community and his overall concern with and interest in university students.

Mrs. Stafford, a secretary in the Department of Mass Communications, was originally employed in 1967 as administrative assistant in the School of Business Administration. Since 1971 she has worked with Mass Communications during its most dynamic growth period. Dr. Mackey pointed out, as the department has grown from fewer than 200 majors to almost 1,000. Her responsibilities include coordination of all clerical and secretarial services.

Walker has been a maintenance mechanic in Residence Hall Operations since 1957. President Mackey commented that during his long tenure Walker has made many friends among the students and has impressed other staff with his knowledge and ability. "The residents make many requests, from removing lost contact lenses from the drain to replacing overhead lights. These daily problems are taken care of by the cheerful and dependable Mr. Walker," Mackey said.

Serving as Centrex supervisor since 1974, Mrs. Stroud oversees all three shifts of telephone operators, who staff the Centrex system 24 hours a day. "This dedicated service has won for Mrs. Stroud a special place in the hearts of her employees and the University community," the Tech president said.

Mrs. Crittendon, programmer project leader in Tech's Information Systems, joined the University in '73. One of her primary responsibilities is the programming and maintenance of the payroll system. Fellow workers commended her willingness to work 10 hours per day and on weekends when necessary and always without complaint. "She works in a small office at the very end of the hall but touches every person employed at Tech through his or her salary checks," Dr. Mackey noted.

Judean Ruins Reveal Luxury In Ancient Homes

By VIRGINIA BORTIN
(Fourth of six parts)

During his travels through Palestine, Jesus was often invited into the homes of wealthy Jews. There, he would have seen many conveniences we regard as modern: bathrooms, bathtubs, indoor toilets, piped water — even a form of central heating.

These innovations were brought to Palestine and its neighboring lands by Greek and Roman conquerors.

Before 333 B.C., when Alexander the Great arrived, Palestine dwellings had consisted of a few rooms, offering only the bare necessities. Water was drawn from a communal well or a cistern.

A revolution in lifestyle arrived with the Greeks and continued under the Romans.

Houses continued to be built around a central courtyard, but now the wealthy added more rooms, large second stories and outside staircases. They decorated their walls with colorful frescoes, their floors with mosaic designs.

They imitated their invaders' technologies as well. Many homes were built with the comforts of indirect heating, bathrooms and ready access to water.

Recently, some of the upper-class dwellings of Jesus's Jerusalem have been excavated. They tell us much about the "new," more elegant lifestyle of first century Palestine.

Although similar residences have been found in other areas of Israel and in Syria, archaeologists had little chance to work in the populated areas of Jerusalem until 1967. However, destruction resulting from the Six Day War cleared away some modern housing in the city's old Jewish quarter, enabling excavators to gain access to earlier levels of habitation.

Dr. Nachman Avigad of Hebrew University located a number of first century houses that Jesus undoubtedly saw as he walked the streets of Jerusalem.

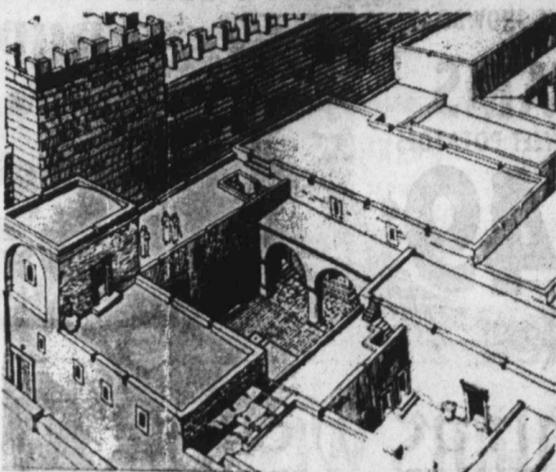

Some of these dwellings remained in use until the cataclysmic revolution of 70 overthrew the Romans. Doomed from the start, their uprising resulted in Jerusalem's destruction.

During his excavations, Avigad was constantly confronted with sad reminders of the city's fall. One house was filled with charred wooden beams and a thick layer of ash left by the fires that burned much of the area. In the kitchen of this house, he discovered a woman's arm resting against the wall.

Another residence, obviously once owned by a very rich family, covered more than 2,000 square feet. In it, beautiful and costly household pottery lay broken in wall niches that had served as cabinets.

Many of the elegant private dwellings

DIGGING THE BIBLE

LUXURIOUS LIFESTYLE — The lifestyle of Palestine was revolutionized by contact with conquering Greeks and Romans. This artist's conception depicts a typical Roman-style house in the Palestine of Jesus' time. Many such homes had such luxuries as indoor plumbing and central heat. (NEA Photo Courtesy "Biblical Archaeologist") of Palestine were equipped with their own piped water. Ceramic pipes leading from cisterns or aqueducts provided a direct water supply. King Herod the Great built a palace for his brother in the Jordan Valley, to which underground ceramic pipes carried water from a nearby aqueduct.

Elaborate private bathrooms came with these water systems. Excavations in ancient Samaria have turned up chambers with plastered floors and walls as well as drains to carry away used water. In his Jerusalem excavations, Avigad found many colorfully-designed mosaic floors in bathrooms.

A less wealthy home lacking a bathroom was likely to have a round, plastered bathtub with one or two steps leading down to it. Indoor toilets were also common. A Syrian house of this period might contain a narrow cubicle, within which a small toilet basin projected from a wall.

Fashionable Palestinian houses were frequently warmed by a primitive kind of central heating. This system, called an "hypocaust," consisted of ducts, placed between walls and beneath floors, through which hot air circulated. Hypocausts have been found in ancient houses in Galilee and Jericho.

A particularly interesting feature of these, 2,000-year-old houses was the "triklinium," a combination dining-living room, where meals were taken as the host and his guests reclined on cushions.

Often located on the second floor, the triclinium was created by constructing a platform several inches above floor level. Around this raised surface were heaped the luxurious carpets, mattresses and cushions upon which diners lounged while eating food laid before them by servants.

On a Syrian house of the fifth century, excavators discovered the word "triklinos" carved over the entrance to a second-story room reached by an outside stairway. They concluded that the home's upstairs dining-room for private gatherings.

Jesus, making plans in Jerusalem for what was to be the Last Supper, no doubt had just such a room in mind. In the Gospel of Mark, he describes "a large upper room furnished with couches, all prepared."

If that room was indeed a triclinium, the famed Leonardo da Vinci painting of the Last Supper is highly inaccurate. Jesus and his disciples would have been reclining as they took the Passover meal.

By the time of Jesus's death, Jews were chafing under the persecutions and indignities of foreign occupation. Yet their lifestyle had been revolutionized by contact with their Greek and Roman overlords who, despite obvious shortcomings, knew a lot about the art of good living.

DWI Case Conviction Reversed

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — In an unusual 4-1-3 decision, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday reversed a misdemeanor or driving while intoxicated conviction from Scurry County, holding that serious questions of due process are raised when a trial court judge requires payment of all or part of a fine assessed in a case as a condition of probation.

The DWI conviction, brought against E.L. Franklin by a Scurry County jury, was sent back to the trial court by the appeals panel.

Court records indicate that Franklin was convicted by a jury which assessed punishment at three days in the county jail and a fine of $100. The jury recommended the jail time be probated.

The trial court judge then placed Franklin on probation for six months and ordered the fine paid by some future date as a condition of that probation.

"Surely," the majority opinion of the court said, "the Legislature did not intend to authorize a trial judge to circumvent and usurp a jury's verdict at his own whim to exact punishment before the conviction is final. This would be an absurdity."

In a footnote to the majority opinion, the court noted that the statute governing this aspect of law "is not and has never been a well-drafted statute," and admonished lawmakers to attempt to straighten out the confusing nature of the law.

There was one concurring opinion and a dissenting opinion joined in by three of the court's members.

Upheld by the court was the Lubbock County forgery-by-passing conviction and two-year-prison sentence assessed against Roger Wayne Potter.

Immigrant Inmate Initiates Import Enterprise

By JAMES MANION

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — He's always been a restless Romanian, but the stocky little man they call "The Mole" at Trenton State Prison says his tunnel-digging days are over.

"It's too late now," says Vasile Dovan, a 39-year old inmate serving a double life term for murder. "Where would I go if I did get away?" He picked up his nickname in 1973 after being found at the end of a 35-foot tunnel carved under a prison wall from a heating duct and leading across a nearby city street.

But now Dovan says instead of escaping, he hopes to walk out the front door of this antiquated fortress as a corporate executive. Without sanction from prison officials here, Dovan has formed a Pennsylvania-based corporation he hopes will flourish as an inmate-controlled importing firm.

Dovan says more than 20 fellow inmates have become stockholders by investing $100 each for 10 shares in "Axioma Corporation," of which he is chairman of the board.

"The business is going to be done from the outside because we're in here," Dovan said in a recent prison interview. "But we just want to make the corporate decisions."

Friends across the Delaware River in nearby Levittown, Pa., are awaiting further word from Dovan on when to start marketing the corporation's first imported product — 2,700 scissors from Taiwan.

"If the scissors are a success, we'll get involved in a whole list of mail order novelty items," Dovan said.

He said he envisions friends and relatives of other inmates rallying around his corporation as sales personnel.

"Too many people sit around here all day blaming society for what happened to them," Dovan said. "Something like this gives us a chance to work for pride and satisfaction."

Prolonged freedom has eluded Dovan since he began crawling out Communist concentration camps as a teen-ager in the 1950s.

"I'd get away for a short time, but they would bring me back in chains," Dovan said of several foiled bids to flee the Iron Curtain.

He said a general amnesty for political prisoners in 1964 led him to New York where he learned English at night school and worked as a painter until 1968.

His life as a successful immigrant ended, however, when he and a friend decided to hold up a Union, N.J., tavern on April 6, 1968. A blazing shootout erupted and a bartender and tavern patron were killed.

"It had seemed so easy because we had guns, but it all happened so fast," Dovan recalled of his single lawbreaking venture. "Now everyday you're here, you remember why."

Despite his escape attempt, Dovan, who is eligible for parole in 1984, is now considered by prison officials to be an energetic model prisoner.

"Vasile has an extreme motivation to do what others here aren't motivated to do," said David Parrish, a prison counselor. "He's the kind of guy you'd like to take around and show what an inmate can become."

Oyster Harvest Moratorium Sought

LAMARQUE (AP)—Professional oystermen from the Galveston and Trinity Bay areas say they want all harvesting of oysters stopped for at least one year.

That, the oystermen said, means on both private and public reefs.

About 100 oystermen turned out Tuesday night for a public hearing called by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Last week wildlife officials issued an emergency order closing the bays to oystering from Dec. 15 to Dec. 1, 1979. A hearing on the ban is scheduled Jan. 17 in Austin.

E.H. Rutledge of Galveston said the bays should be closed for everyone.

The oysterman said that to allow harvesting of private reefs would effectively turn the bays into private preserves for people with state leases and freeze out independent fishermen.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My associate and I are physicians, both 35. We have just started a profit-sharing plan for ourselves and our three employees. We will have about $20,000 to invest in the plan this year and expect to have about the same amount every year in the future.

Because we will not touch this tax-sheltered money for 25 years or more, what is the safest way to invest it while trying to obtain the highest possible yield?

A. Well, now, doctor, if you stick with those constraints of absolute safety and high yield, you'll really have no choice other than putting that profit-sharing money into U.S. Treasury bonds and notes.

Then you'll have absolutely nothing to worry about — as far as fixed numbers of dollars are concerned. Over the years ahead, however, inflation will probably give you the fits.

You can give up some degree of safety of fixed dollars and increase the yield by putting the profit-sharing fund into other bonds and fixed-income situations. But that still won't beat the inflation problem.

I would think that a pair of young doctors with their high-earning years ahead of them would want to put at least part of their long-term profit-sharing investment into things that figure to grow in value. Stocks — which represent ownership in corporations — seem to be a logical choice.

As doctors or anything else, you can't be expected to be stock market experts. But you can turn your investment over to stock market professionals. For you, I suggest a mutual fund, whose professional management gets paid to do that kind of work.

Most mutual funds have arrangements to handle profit-sharing plans. My suggestion would be to consider a mutual fund "group" — one which allows you to put part of your profit-sharing money into a fund investing in stocks and part in a fund investing in bonds — and move back and forth, as market conditions change.

Q. We wish to invest a little money for our 12-year-old grandson, starting off with $500 and adding $50 now and then. I read some literature from a "no-load" mutual fund which seems almost made to order. But we don't know much about this fund. Can you advise?

A. The fund you named in your letter has a rather good record of past investment performance. No one mutual fund remains a top performer every year. But that one has done reasonably well in meeting its investment objective of increasing the capital and income of its share holders.

And, because it's a no-load fund, all of the money you invest will be working for your grandson. No load — commission charge — will go to pay a broker or salesman.

Q. Is there a limit on the amount of Series-E U.S. Savings Bonds an individual can purchase in one year? Also, when is the start of the year for this purpose — Jan. 1 or July 1?

A. The annual limit now is $10,000 — face amount — for each person. In other words, you can put $7,500 up to buy $10,000 face amount of E bonds this year. Bonds registered in co-ownership form can be counted as being owned by either co-owner or apportioned between them, up to a maximum of $20,000.

Annual limits for years before 1974 vary all over the lot. That's the government, in its usual state of confusion. But one thing hasn't changed. The limits apply to calendar years — Jan. 1 through Dec. 31.

Q. Can you refer me to a lawyer who is an expert on tax law to work with my accountant to handle my estate planning and make out my will?

A. Sorry, the answer has to be "no." This column cannot recommend individual lawyers, accountants, brokers, bankers or any one else. You have to do your own looking around. I know it's not easy. I count myself fortunate in having found an outstanding tax lawyer years ago.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Troubled Company Plans Another Casino

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Resorts International Inc., facing state charges that threaten its present casino operation here, announced Wednesday that it would build a new, second casino hotel on the Boardwalk.

The company said it would tear down the 74-year-old Chalfonte Hotel wing of its Resorts International Hotel Casino and build a new $80 million, 560-room casino hotel in its place.

The company said the 30-story casino hotel would be completed by New Year's Day 1981 and would have a 50,000-square-foot casino, slightly smaller than the present 54,600-square-foot casino in the former Haddon Hall Hotel.

The former Haddon Hall has 560 rooms and qualifies for a casino on its own.

"We think it's a good investment opportunity, just as we thought our other investments here were sound moves," company President I.G. "Jack" Davis Jr. said.

Davis said the new casino hotel would be financed primarily out of corporate earnings. Its first casino has taken in more than $125 million, about half of it profit, since it opened nearly seven months ago.

Resorts International now plans to operate three casino hotels here, which is the maximum allowed one company under New Jersey's casino law.

In May 1976, six months before New Jersey voters approved gambling, the firm put a $200,000 non-refundable deposit on 56.6 acres of vacant, urban renewal land. It later announced plans to build a new, 1,000-room casino hotel on the site.

However, a Philadelphia development company has claimed the land under an agreement in the late 1960s and has filed suit against the city, preventing Resorts International from beginning construction on its project.

The company now uses some of the 56.6 acres to park cars for its casino, which is two blocks down the Boardwalk.

The 10-story, 254-room Chalfonte was hardly touched in the $50 million renovation of the former Chalfonte-Haddon Hall hotel. Some of the Chalfonte's rooms do not have bathrooms.

Resorts International said the two gambling facilities would be joined by a 58-foot wide glass passageway three stories above North Carolina Avenue. The passageway, which is already well under construction, was designed to join the Chalfonte and Haddon Hall sections.

The announcement of plans for the new casino came 16 days after the state Division of Gaming Enforcement filed 17 objections to the firm's application for a permanent license for its Haddon Hall casino, which has been operating on a temporary permit since it opened May 28.

The state charges that Resorts International in the past had ties to organized crime in Florida and the Bahamas, that it associated with businessmen of questionable integrity and that it has mismanaged its casinos here and in the Bahamas.

Resorts International officials have vehemently denied the charges. The matter will come up when the New Jersey Casino Control Commission begins hearings here Jan. 8 on the application for a permanent license.

Slot Machine Maker's Business Restricted

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Casino Control Commission in a move to force competition among slot machine makers has proposed that no casino here be allowed to have more than half of its slots from one manufacturer.

The commission then allowed the owner of the Las Vegas casino Caesars Palace to buy half of the slot machines for its proposed casino here from Bally Manufacturing Corp. of Chicago, the world's largest maker of slot machines.

Commission counsel Michael A. Santaniello said the state's casino law calls on commissioners to encourage competition and to avoid concentrations of economic power in the casino industry.

Santaniello said a restriction against a slot machine maker from supplying all the machines for any casino here would encourage competition in the slot machine manufacturing industry, dominated by Bally.

R. Joel Stomoff, a Washington, D.C., attorney representing Game Plan Inc. of Chicago, a new firm which plans to begin making slot machines next summer, estimated that Atlantic City will need about 30,000 slot machines, costing between $2,000 and $2,500 each, in the next few years.

Resorts International Hotel Casino in November reported that 40.2 percent of its $596,382 average daily win that month came from its 1,354 slot machines.

Santaniello said all but about 200 of the casino's slots were purchased from Bally because of exemptions granted to the firm last spring before the casino opened. At that time, Resorts International said that only Bally could supply enough machines in time for its May 26 opening.

Douglas T. Hague, a New Brunswick attorney representing Caesars World's subsidiary here, asked the commission to allow it to buy all of its 1,500 slot machines from Bally.

Caesars World hopes to open a casino in an addition to the former Howard Johnson's Regency Motor Hotel here on May 28, 1979.

The commission, however, allowed the firm to buy up to 843 slots from Bally. The number is half of the 1,685 slot machines which could be allowed theoretically in the firm's planned 57,400 square foot casino.

New Prime Rate Hike Expected To Spread

NEW YORK (AP) — The banking industry is expected to follow the lead of Chemical Bank, which Wednesday raised its prime interest rate from 11 1/2 percent to 11 3/4 percent in response to what analysts say may be a renewed government effort to tighten credit.

While the prime rate applies only to a bank's best corporate customers, it comes against a background of many economic moves that lead some analysts to predict that smaller businesses and consumers won't escape higher rates or tighter credit requirements on other loans.

Chemical Bank's decision followed by one day what analysts say was a signal that the Federal Reserve System, which oversees the banking industry, is dollar in currency markets abroad and to dampen inflation at home.

Chemical Bank, the nation's sixth largest, said its higher rate was effective immediately. No other bank followed at once, but analysts said they expected the move to spread industrywide fairly quickly as banks pass their higher costs to borrowers.

They cited the recent tumble of the dollar against foreign currencies in response to the decision of oil exporting countries to increase prices 14.5 percent next year as one reason the government apparently has decided to maintain a tight rein on credit.

Inflation, partly because of the oil price increase, continues to be a major problem. Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said Wednesday he expected inflation to rise above 7 percent next year, worse than the administration had previously projected.

The Federal Reserve, called the "Fed" by market watchers, does not reveal its operating strategies. But analysts believe it signaled a slightly tighter policy following its monthly policy-setting meeting Tuesday by allowing the federal funds rate — a key rate which directly affects banks' costs in raising money for lending — to increase by perhaps 1/4 to 1/2 percentage point.

While the prime rate is not directly linked to consumer rates, it is watched as one of the most visible signs of overall credit conditions.

The higher cost of funds that encouraged banks to raise the prime "ultimately will be felt in consumer rates," said David Jones, an analyst at Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. Inc.

In states that have usury ceilings limiting rates on auto loans, mortgages or other consumer loans, banks may simply be more selective and impose stricter loan requirements.

In response to previous tightening moves, all types of loan rates have risen in recent months. The prime rate hit a four-year high in October, when it reached 10 percent, and has continued to increase in rapid stages since then. Chemical Bank's announcement, if followed by the industry at large, would mark the 15th increase since Jan. 1, when the prime was 7 3/4 percent.

The Fed, after forcing short-term rates up sharply as part of the administration's dollar defense program announced Nov. 1, had appeared willing to maintain rates at those higher levels without additional pressure. But some analysts now say the federal funds rate, which represents costs to banks that borrow from each other to meet government-set reserve requirements, may climb to above 10 percent and the prime rate to 12 percent before rates stabilize or decline.

Record Year Chalked Up By Boeing

SEATTLE (AP) — The Boeing Co. will wind up a record year 1978 with sales exceeding $11 billion, topped off with airplane orders of more than $100 million each from mainland China and Canada.

With what Boeing spokesman John Wheeler called "an exceptional year," Boeing's multi-billion-dollar expectations give the firm a solid grip on the world airline market.

The previous high-dollar year for Boeing, the world's largest manufacturer of commercial airliners, was 1977 and $1.1 billion, he said.

The Peoples Republic of China and Boeing officials last week signed an agreement for three very-long-range 747SP jumbo jets worth about $52 million each. The signing coincided with President Carter's announced normalization of relations with China on Friday, Wheeler said.

The contract also provides options for two more jets with deliveries to begin in 1980.

"Obviously they have been a customer of Boeing's for some time and this certainly was part of the normalization process," Wheeler said of China, which bought 10 Boeing 707 jetliners shortly after former President Nixon's 1972 visit.

Tuesday, Air Canada ordered eight Boeing 727 tri-jets for more than $131 million. The jets will be delivered in the first half of 1980, Boeing said.

AT&T Reports Huge Gain In Earnings

NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Wednesday reported an 18 percent quarterly earnings gain, but its chairman warned that the communications giant's growth may slow next year.

"Looking ahead to 1979, I feel once again obliged to caution against expectations that the acceleration in the demand for our services that we have experienced of late can continue unabated," said Chairman John D. de Butts.

"Our internal forecasts indicate that the current U.S. economic expansion will continue, though at a moderating rate, through at least 1979," he said.

De Butts said he believes this year's results "will be our finest ever," and 1979 "will be another year of improvement" for earnings. AT&T said it earned $1.36 billion, or $1.97 a share, in the quarter ended Nov. 30, up about 18 percent over the $1.15 billion, or $1.74 a share reported in the comparable quarter of 1977. Revenues rose to $10.56 billion from $9.41 billion.

For the 12 months ended Nov. 30, AT&T said it earned $5.24 billion, or $7.71 a share, up from $4.41 billion, or $6.78 a share, a year earlier. AT&T's revenues for the 12 months totaled $40.7 billion, up from $36.05 billion.

AT&T provides nearly 80 percent of the telephones in the United States. It is the nation's most widely held company, with nearly three million shareholders.

The company keeps its accounts on a calendar-year basis, but announces earnings for the three-month periods ending with the last day of February, May, August and November. It maintains the practice so it can mail financial reports with dividend checks, which are payable on the first day of each calendar quarter.

AT&T said it will spend a record $14.8 billion next year — "the largest capital budget in all of American industry" — to update its system. The planned expenditure represents an 8.8 percent gain over the company's 1978 capital outlays.

The company said reported earnings for the last four years have been revised downward, and current earnings reduced, because of a California Public Utilities Commission order affecting AT&T's Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. subsidiary. The U.S. Supreme Court declined to review the commission's order last week.

The order, currently in abeyance, would require Pacific Telephone to lower rates and refund some revenues that already have been collected. AT&T said the California commission's order is based on a rate-making method that the Internal Revenue Service has ruled would make the utility ineligible for several federal income tax benefits.

Bell System earnings have been restated to "reflect the results as if the refunds had been made, and the tax consequences realized, even though the matters remain to be resolved," AT&T said.

"The cumulative effect is to lower Bell System net income $71 million for the latest 12-month period, by $62 million for the 12 months ended Nov. 30, 1977, and by $80 million for the period 1974 to Nov. 30, 1976," it said.

Two Texas Firms Face Indictments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four concrete contractors have been indicted by a federal grand jury in Albuquerque on bid rigging and related charges, the Justice Department announced.

The companies were accused of conspiring to rig bids and allocate projects in New Mexico from 1965 until 1978. The projects included construction of commercial buildings, highways and bridges.

Each company could be fined up to $1 million. The firms are Hydro-Conduit Corp. of Newport Beach, Cal., Stanley Structures Inc. of Denver, Crowe-Guide Inc. of Amarillo and Featherlite Corp. of Austin.

London's Times Not Good Without The Times

By MICHAEL WEST
LONDON (AP) — It's been a bad month for drowsy dukes, crossword puzzle addicts, sellers of bomb-proof cars and buyers of stuffed beavers.
 The Times of London suspended publication Nov. 30 and for hundreds of thousands of Britishers, life just has not been the same since.
 Until the close-down, England without The Times was as unthinkable as Holmes without Watson or Big Ben without chimes.
 "No paper in the world represents its country like The Times," its late owner, Canadian-born press magnate Roy Thomson, once said. "To me, The Times is really like the British flag ... The Times will go on forever."
 He was wrong. The unthinkable happened when the 193-year-old newspaper shut down indefinitely after a labor dispute the paper claimed cost it four million copies this year.
 As the voice of what in Victorian days was known as The Thunderer fell silent, its 292,714 mainly upper crust readers braced and took it with typical English stiff upper lip.
 "Please, please do not back down at the last moment, or even appear to do so," wrote Richard Y. Holdsworth from Cold Bath Road in the northern resort town of Harrogate in a letter in the Nov. 30 issue.
 H. M. Saewitz of London looked to better times. "I shall be wearing a rose in my buttonhole on that happy day after the dismal period of suspension when The Times will once more appear," he wrote.
 But beneath the stiff upper lips the emotion is visible, and it is evident the loss of The Times is keenly felt.
 Gentlemen in the financial district known as the City appear improperly dressed when their uniform of derby hat, rolled umbrella and pinstriped suit cannot be completed by a copy of The Times carried rolled beneath the arm.
 None of London's other eight daily newspapers somehow seems to fill the bill — be it the tabloid Sun with its bare-breasted girls, the Daily Mirror with its support for the Laborite government, the liberal-leaning Guardian, the Communist Morning Star, even the highly Conservative Daily Telegraph. All lack that sartorial something.
 In the gentlemen's clubs of London The Times is also sorely missed. Members, noble and commoner alike, are traditionally reputed to prefer the out-spread pages of The Times to all other newspapers for reading — and sometimes for slumbering beneath — after lunching well.

 At the Athenaeum Club in Pall Mall, which is noted for the large number of politicians and Church of England bishops among its members, the secretary, Gerald Lindow, reported: "It is greatly missed. Its disappearance is accepted with resignation and it is hoped it will return shortly." He said members had turned to The Daily Telegraph, the Guardian and American papers on sale in London.
 At the Garrick Club, home away from home of prominent actors, they were so afflicted that no one was willing to comment, and the same was true at the House of Commons library.
 Book publishers are suffering even more. The disappearance of The Times and its respected book reviews has hit them in the pocket. "We are terribly sad about it," said a spokesman for Jonathan Cape Ltd., one of Britain's leading book publishers. "The Times being a powerful organ, its disappearance does have an effect on sales."
 The same goes for theater producers but nobody could name the sum it was costing him.
 Crossword puzzle buffs miss The Times' puzzles for their brain-stretching clues, often drawn from classical Greek and Roman literature and the Bible. On Nov. 30 The Times, contrary to tradition, printed the solution to that day's crossword in the same issue so too addicts should not be disappointed.
 Many have switched to doing the Daily Telegraph's puzzle but complain it is too easy compared to the Times'.
 Also sorry about the departure of The Times are the personal column advertisers like the man who Nov. 30 advertised a "completely bomb-and bullet-proof" limousine. Obviously, like another man who in the same issue advertised "Wanted — stuffed beavers," he considered The Times his best bet to reach particular readers.
 Now those august columns are closed to them and are likely to stay so for many weeks or months. The present owner of The Times, Lord Thomson's son Kenneth, has promised there is no question of closing the newspaper for good. But the editor, William Rees-Mogg, has warned: "There is no likelihood of an early return."

London Patrolled For IRA Bombs

LONDON (AP) — Extra security forces patrolled London's main shopping area and airport Wednesday and a manhunt was under way in a suburban town after two men wanted in three Irish terror bombings fired a shotgun blast at a patrolman.
 Scotland Yard authorities said 2,000 uniformed police were walking London's West End as part of "Operation Santa." The alert is in force until shopping ends Christmas Eve. All police leaves in the capital were canceled and London was plastered with posters warning "Bombs — be alert."
 Sixty armed troops in light tanks and armored personnel carriers are guarding London's Heathrow airport.
 Guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army, which seeks to end British rule of Northern Ireland, claimed responsibility for three car bombs in London Monday, two of which exploded, and for seven blasts in five provincial cities Sunday.
 About 150 Surrey county police officers and a helicopter combed the outskirts of Farnham, 35 miles southwest of London, shortly after two men fired on a policeman who spotted their wanted car Wednesday.

"Either they have gone to ground or they may know somebody here who is hiding them," Detective Chief Superintendent Frank Truscott told reporters. "Alternatively, they have walked into a private house and are lying up until the heat dies down."
 Detective Constable Ted Morley said he was unarmed and alone in a crowd car at nearby Aldershot when he saw the white Opel Kadett wanted in connection with the suspected Irish terror bombings.
 Morley said that when he radioed an alert the car accelerated, leading police to speculate the driver had a police radio.
 Morley said he gave chase for two miles to the outskirts of Farnham, where the car stopped and the passenger leaned out the window with a shotgun.
 "I hit the deck. There was a bang. When I got up from behind the steering wheel the white car was nowhere to be seen," Morley told reporters. He was not hurt.
 Police said the car was one of four hired with a stolen driver's permit by men with Irish accents last week. Two were turned into time bombs and blew up in central London early Monday. A third car was found with an unexploded bomb on the back seat.

TRAIN CRASH — One railway coach lies atop another near Patcham, England, Wednesday, following Tuesday night's crash between two trains in a deep cutting, two miles north of the British south coast resort of Brighton. At least two were killed and 40 injured, and it was feared that the death toll might rise higher. Both trains were en route from London to Brighton. (AP Laserphoto)

Octogenarian Plans To Keep Working

FAIRMOUNT, Ill. (UPI) — Eighty-three-year-old Fred Black has spent a good part of his life working on the railroad and he has no intention of stopping now.
 "Retire? Nah, I never think about it," Fred growled while sipping coffee at the Iron Kettle cafe in downtown Fairmount.
 Most of Fred's free time is spent either chatting with friends and co-workers at the Iron Kettle or playing with his six dogs and relaxing in his three-room shanty about five miles outside of Fairmount, an east central Illinois community of 800.
 Fred, a foreman at the Norfolk and Western Railway Co., celebrates his 84th birthday in February. And he says he may work forever.
 "He's one of a kind," cafe owner Naomi Jones said. "They don't make 'em like him anymore."
 Mrs. Jones said she kind of adopted Fred when she bought the restaurant and now offers him a room for the night if the weather gets stormy.
 "He really tries to act tough, but he isn't," she said.
 Fred said his past includes stints as a coal miner, hobo and bootlegger.
 "Shucks, I earned more money in one day bootlegging than I did in a whole week on the railroad," he laughed.

 He left school before completing eighth grade. He did his only traveling as a hobo — hopping freights to such places as Denver, Lincoln, Neb., and Tennessee.
 Fred, a lifelong resident of Fairmount who has spent about 50 years working on the railroad, moved out of town and into his shack after his wife died about 10 years ago.
 "I wanted to be by myself," he said. "Shoot, in town all they do is gossip."
 "Keep Out" and "No Trespassing" signs warn passers-by that Fred is none too anxious to have strangers walk on the property.
 In addition, his six dogs bark when someone or something strange is in the vicinity.
 But next to his shack is a shed which houses pigeons. On the shed, Fred has painted with peace signs, smiling faces and message saying "Have a nice day."

The shack, heated by an oil stove, has no running water or plumbing. An open bottle of scotch sits on a table near the stove. A poster on the wall says "Let's Boogie."
 Fred, who is slightly hard of hearing, says he has been to a doctor only once in his life.
 He said he once smoked six to eight packs of cigarettes per day but quit about four years ago.
 "I smoked corn silk, buggy whips — anything that would make smoke."
 Most days he feels fine, but adds, "some days you think your going to croak and the next day you feel like a 2-year-old."

Lad Offers Difficult Gift To Newborn Infant

Chapter 14
A Gift and a Warning
 By LUISE PUTCAMP JR.
 (WHAT HAS HAPPENED: The boy watches the three wise men give their gifts of frankincense, myrrh and gold. He has a strange thought: this little family in the cave has no need of anything anyone could bring them. Another thought: what can he give this special baby?)

In that special moment I pretended to myself that I was the richest king in all the world. Anything there was, I could give to the baby. Elephants loaded with colored jewels. Spices heaped up like hills. Armies marching and musicians playing and dancers whirling.

Nothing would cost too much for me to give this baby! What would cost the most?

The answer came from nowhere. The thing that would cost me the most would be to show my feelings. To show love.

All my life, I had hidden my feelings from the world. When my father died, no tears. When my mother married again, no anger. When something touched my heart, no laughter, no hand stretched out.

From all of it, I had run away. And then the final flight, that moment when I hid myself in the camel's saddle bag and started on this journey to the star. And now the journey was over. I must give something special to this special baby.

The baby's face was close to my own. I leaned forward and kissed the baby's little hand.

My feet carried me to where the mother sat. Clumsily, I got down on my knees beside the frankincense, the myrrh, the gold.

The baby's face was close to my own. He smelled sweeter than incense. His light was brighter than gold. Before I could think, or be afraid, or turn away, I leaned forward and kissed the baby's little hand.

The inn was more crowded, more noisy, more dusty than before. But the jostling, the noise, the smells of this public place couldn't touch us now.

It was as if we had taken away with us some of the golden light of the cave. It was as if we were drunk on some delicate wine.

Every time our eyes met, we smiled foolishly, like people with some wonderful secret. Finally, our weariness overcame our joy, and we fell asleep on the ground.

Suddenly, in the darkened courtyard, I was wide awake.

All around, under the stars, people lay sleeping. The fires were out. What had awakened me?

And then I saw that my three travelers were awake, too. Wait. There it was

The words he said made my shoulders shiver. "You will go back to Herod's city," he said. "Alone. And you will tell the others to go home without us."

January Stargazers To See Lively Skies

WASHINGTON (AP) — January should be a delightful month for sky-watching, with a meteor shower in store and interesting planets and stars brightening the sky.

And, even though you can't see it, it's worth noting that by the end of the month Pluto will no longer be the most distant planet from the sun.

The U.S. Naval Observatory reports that the Quadrantid meteor shower will peak on the night of Jan. 3. Under excellent conditions, that is, with a clear sky and away from city lights, the observer should be able to see as many as 30 meteors an hour.

The Quadrantid, like the Perseid and Geminid showers, is very regular in its return each year and does not vary greatly in the number of meteors seen at its peak.

Meteor showers take place when the Earth encounters a large number of meteoroids moving together through space. When the particles enter the atmosphere, friction causes them to glow or even burn as fireballs, creating the shower.

Turning to the sky in general, the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada reports that the morning sky in January will be particularly impressive with Mercury, Venus and Antares in the East and Jupiter and Saturn in the West.

The late evening sky is dominated by the winter constellations, with Jupiter and Saturn adding interest in the southeast; in mid-month the moon joins the display, the society says.

For early evening viewing, the U.S. Naval Observatory suggests Orion, a very bright constellation dominating the southern sky.

Orion, the Great Hunter, is easily recognized by its many bright stars, including Betelgeuse on the shoulder and Rigel on the right foot. Betelgeuse is a supergiant, 400 times the sun's diameter. At the speed of light it would take 300 years to get there.

One of the stars in Orion's sword appears to be slightly hazy. This is the Great Orion Nebula, an extremely thin yet huge cloud of gas.

Although it won't be visible because of the distance, on Jan. 22 Neptune will become the furthest planet from the sun.

Since its discovery in 1930, Pluto has been the most distant known planet, but this will change when Pluto's orbital motion carries it closer to the sun than Neptune, where it will remain until Feb. 12, 1999.

Since its discovery in 1930, Pluto has been the most distant known planet, but this will change when Pluto's orbital motion carries it closer to the sun than Neptune, where it will remain until Feb. 12, 1999.

Jobs Crisis Seen In U.S. Shipping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert L. Leggett, D-Calif., predicts a major jump in maritime unemployment "unless we do something dramatic."

Leggett said that if present trends continue, the two-year drop in shipyard employment could reach 55,000, or 53 percent of current employment, by 1980.

He produced figures showing that the number of U.S. flag ships has declined by 42 percent from 1960 to the present, and many of these ships are reaching the end of their useful lives.

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Water Expert Devises Use-Grading Indices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Is your local water graded 100, or 75, or 50, or maybe even — heaven forbid! — minus 25?

Someday you may be able to look up your water's grade, and decide whether you want to drink it after all. Or pour it on the lawn. Or maybe decide you wouldn't even give it to the crabgrass.

This is because Jerry D. Stoner, a water expert at the Oklahoma City office of the U.S. Geological Survey, decided there should be some better definition of water quality than "good" or "bad."

"Conceptually, a simplified water quality index could be developed and used for streams much as many cities now use air quality indexes," Stoner said.

He decided to develop such a water quality index — actually a series of indices — because it is becoming more and more important to be able to classify water to determine if it is suitable for various uses.

"For example, water temperature is relatively unimportant in water used for irrigation, but is of vital importance in waters used for the maintenance of aquatic life," Stoner explained.

Under his plan, being studied by the geological survey, various scales would be developed for differing water uses. For example, there might be a scale for drinking water, another for irrigation, one for water to be used in brewing beer and another for water intended to cool atomic generators.

How many scales altogether? "As many as the traffic will bear," according to Don Kelly, a spokesman for the geological survey.

"A useful water-quality index can be developed for categories as narrow as a single fish species, a cash crop, or a single industry," Stoner said.

To develop an index for a particular use, Stoner combines the individual effects of several properties — chemical, physical and biological — into a single number.

Kelly said each scale would rate water according to the intended use. Thus a 100 would mean perfect water, zero is the minimum acceptable for the intended use and a minus rating means the water needs treatment before it can be used.

With such an index persons considering several sources of water for drinking or industry could easily compare them and select the one with the highest rating, he added.

Stoner said such an approach "solves the problem of trying to combine several conflicting sets of criteria that cover all possible uses of water."

Grain Reserve Storage Passes Minimum Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers have stored about 22 percent more grain under the government's three-year reserve program than administration planners originally set as a minimum goal.

As of Dec. 15, about 1.22 billion bushels of feed grain and wheat were stored in the program, the Agriculture Department says.

Initially, Agriculture Department Secretary Bob Bergland set one billion bushels as the minimum target.

Vance Arranges Egypt-Israel Weekend Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a bid to re-open Mideast peace talks, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is arranging a meeting this weekend in Europe with Egyptian and Israeli officials.

An announcement at the State Department late Wednesday said Vance's purpose in inviting Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil to meet with him was "to discuss without preconditions the continuation of the negotiations between Egypt and Israel."

The meeting will be held in Brussels, either Saturday or Sunday.

Vance will be in Geneva for negotiations today and Friday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. The objective is to try to complete terms for a treaty limiting U.S. and Soviet long-range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Dayan will be in Brussels for talks with Belgian Foreign Minister Henri Simonet. The meeting with Khalil and Vance on Saturday or Sunday is likely to be held there, although Geneva was considered an alternative site.

It would be the first face-to-face session between Egyptian and Israeli ministers in a month.

As for the United States, he said, "it is really not in a position to be impatient."

It took two years to complete a peace treaty with Japan and six years to negotiate a normalization of relations with China.

"I don't think we ought to take that kind of long-term view in the Egyptian-Israeli treaty, but if instead of three months it should take four months or five months, that isn't anything to be excited about," Eban said.

No Breakthrough Seen

However, there is little expectation it would lead to an immediate breakthrough in the current stalemate.

Vance failed on a trip last week to the Middle East to bridge differences between Egypt and Israel over the Palestinian dispute and other issues blocking a treaty.

Administration officials said a suspension of peace efforts for several weeks was likely, although they also predicted an eventual resumption of negotiations and completion of the treaty.

Dayan headed the Israeli delegation in the negotiations held here after President Carter's Camp David summit with Sadat and Begin, Khalil, while not a member of the Egyptian negotiating team, is considered one of the most prominent members of the "peace" Cabinet that Sadat formed after Camp David.

Issues In Dispute

Among the issues currently in dispute are these:

- Israel's refusal to accept the end of 1979 as a target date for Palestinian elections. Sadat accepted the U.S. proposal last week.
- Egypt's refusal to exchange ambassadors with Israel until Palestinian autonomy is established.
- Egypt's insistence on "clarifying" a treaty provision that would have peace with Israel supersede its military alliances with other Arab countries.
- Egypt's proposal that terms of the treaty be reviewed after five years.

A State Department spokesman, meanwhile, deplored a terrorist attack last Sunday on a bus in Jerusalem and raids by Israeli warplanes on Palestinian bases in southern Lebanon.

The spokesman, Thomas Weston, said Wednesday that innocent civilians were victims in this "escalating spiral of violence."

Glass Shattered

A spokesman for the governor's office in Sidon, provincial capital of Lebanon's south, said the sound and impact of the blasts were so strong that window glass was shattered as far north as Naameh, some 12-15 miles from the site.

The spokesman said about 12 foreign cargo ships were at Tyre and Sidon when the raiders struck and left immediately. They encountered Israeli gunboats in the Mediterranean but were not molested, he said.

He said hundreds of panicked residents fled into basement shelters in the port city of Sidon, seven miles from Dahr el Bourj.

Guerrilla Forces Also Said

Guerrilla forces also said that during the air attack Israeli gunboats duelled with guerrilla coastal positions at Tyre. But Lebanese radio said only that gunboats "cruised back and forth" close offshore from Tyre, and Israeli officials denied any boats were involved at all.

Last March, after 35 Israelis died in a terrorist attack along the Tel Aviv-Haifa highway, Israeli troops invaded southern Lebanon to clean out Palestinian bases. The army withdrew after three months, and a U.N. force is now in the region, although Israel complains that hundreds of guerrillas have re-entered the area.

The Egyptian-Israeli peace talks are stalled over Israel's rejection of Egypt's latest demands for changes in the U.S.-proposed draft treaty.

"As you see, the thread is not severed," Begin said, referring to the talks planned for the weekend.

Then he added: "We will see how it is possible to resume negotiations while rejecting the Egyptian proposals that take the breath out of the peace treaty."

Two basic disputes block agreement on a peace treaty — Egypt wants a timetable of some kind tying the treaty to progress toward Palestinian autonomy on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, and it wants to weaken a provision whereby the Egyptian-Israeli treaty would take precedence over Egypt's treaty obligations to other Arab states.

Carter-Brezhnev Summit Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's summit with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, expected around mid-January, may occur in Washington and St. Simons Island, Ga.

But White House press secretary Jody Powell cautioned Wednesday that the strategic arms limitation talks have not yet been completed.

"There are a few remaining issues," Powell said. "I would hate to see you get into a position of assuming those issues will be resolved."

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is about to begin another round of SALT talks in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko this week.

Carter said Tuesday he hopes to welcome Brezhnev to the United States in mid-January and Zbigniew Brzezinski, his national security adviser, told reporters Wednesday that Jan. 15 is a possible date for the start of a summit.

WARNING SHOT—A New Delhi police officer fires a warning shot into the air Wednesday to disperse a crowd of stone-throwing demonstrators protesting former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's arrest and expulsion from Parliament. Shah Seeks Civilian Chief TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A former Cabinet minister has accepted the premiership in a new civilian government proposed by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi as a means of saving his throne, but has imposed conditions, informed sources reported Wednesday.

The sources, who declined to be named, said Dr. Gholam-Hossein Sadiqi, 73, accepted the job after the shah agreed to a number of political conditions set by the former Cabinet minister. Sadiqi now is a sociology and philosophy professor at Tehran University.

Ahmad Banni-Ahmed, opposition deputy in the lower house of Parliament, said Sadiqi may form a government within the next four days, but added that he saw little chance of the administration succeeding.

"Certainly a civilian government headed by Sadiqi would be a lot better than the present military government... will certainly allow much more freedom of the press and of association, and may even permit demonstrations," Banni-Ahmed said. "But he will not be able to solve the current crisis. At least so long as the shah remains."

Sources said Sadiqi demanded the dissolution of the current Parliament as one of his conditions. It was not immediately clear whether the demand would be met, but if it is Sadiqi would have to hold a general election within six months under the constitution.

The shah has already pledged to hold free elections next June — at about the time Sadiqi would be required to if he becomes prime minister.

The sources declined to specify the other conditions. They said the shah, fighting to stay on his Peacock Throne amid widespread opposition to his one-man rule, has given Sadiqi two weeks to patch together a civilian government.

It would then take over from Gen. Gholam-Reza Azhari's military-led regime, appointed by the 59-year-old monarch Nov. 6 to restore order amid swelling violence.

Religious leaders, headed by the self-exiled Ayatollah Khomeini, have led riots for the last 11 months in opposition to the shah's efforts to modernize the Moslem nation. At least 1,400 persons are reported to have died, but opposition sources put the figure higher.

Mohammed Montazeri, son of the Ayatollah Montazeri, charged in Paris Wednesday that his father was beaten, whipped and chained, and his pupils forced to spit on him during torture by SAVAK, the shah's security police.

The ayatollah, 56, traveled to Paris for medical treatment, and to meet with his spiritual leader, Ayatollah Khomeini. Montazeri is considered a likely successor to Khomeini as religious leader of Iranian Moslems in Iranian circles here.

Three more persons were reported killed Wednesday and sporadic firing was heard throughout the day in the capital as soldiers shot in the air to disperse groups of demonstrators.

Informed sources said two agents of SAVAK were clubbed to death by a mob of the shah's opponents in Tehran's sprawling bazaar. One of the agents shot and killed a demonstrator before he was beaten to the ground, the sources added.

Informed sources reported that more than 100 strikers had been arrested in the southwestern oilfields and hundreds more forced back to work in an effort to end the 14-day walkout. The strike continues to cost Iran about half of its normal daily production of 6.2 million barrels.

The disclosures about Sadiqi came the day after an authoritative source close to the shah said it was unlikely a new government would be announced for at least another 10 days — much the same time scale cited by the sources Wednesday.

Sources close to Sadiqi said he has seen the shah several times in the monarch's Niavaran Palace in recent days.

Sadiqi appears to have the backing of two key figures — Ardeshtir Zahedi, the shah's ambassador to Washington and currently back in Tehran advising the monarch, and Gen. Gholamali Oveisi, the martial law administrator in the capital.

Both men are firmly behind the shah's dogged refusal to step down or relinquish his powers as his opponents demand.

Authoritative sources said Zahedi has been in telephone contact with President Carter's national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, who supports the beleaguered shah as an anti-communist bastion on the Soviet Union's southern flank and guardian of the Persian Gulf oil routes to the West.

Several previous efforts by the shah to form a civilian government have foundered on the failure to find a prime minister with sufficient political stature and popularity.

Portrait Shown Of Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger's portrait was unveiled late Wednesday at the State Department with champagne, ceremony and good humor.

"They've painted out the scepter," Kissinger remarked as his wife, Nancy, dropped the curtain from the portrait.

"It's an excellent likeness," Kissinger said, "swelled head and all."

The portrait of Kissinger in a chair holding a document in one hand is the work of artist J. Anthony Willis of Houston. It will be displayed with those of other former secretaries of state.

An earlier attempt, by Gardner Cox of Boston, was rejected last March as not dynamic enough.

"It was beautifully painted, but it did not seem to capture the dynamism of Dr. Kissinger," Clement Conger, the department curator of furnishings and pictures, said at the time.

Another and anonymous department official said that portrait of Kissinger with his hand outstretched "made him look something like a dwarf."

Ego jokes aside, Kissinger and his successor, Cyrus R. Vance, exchanged courteous tributes.

"Henry has been invaluable to me," Vance said. "Every occasion I've asked him to share with me his wisdom and advice on problems that cross the desk of the secretary of state, Henry has been there."

Vance said Carter Administration policies on strategic arms negotiations with the Soviet Union, on the Middle East, the Panama Canal and China were built on Kissinger's foundations.

Responding, Kissinger praised Vance for "an untiring effort" in carrying out the fundamental traditions of a bipartisan foreign policy.

meeting of government officials in New Delhi the government would not give in to the demands. "I don't think any government worth its salt would compromise on a crime like this," he said.

$1.1 Million In Gold Disappears

Slip Street in Manhattan's Wall Street financial district, is a Treasury Department agency that refines and processes gold, and also serves as a gold storage center. About 55 million ounces of gold, or more than one-fifth of the nation's total reserves, are currently stored there.

The gold that was stolen or disappeared is missing from the refining operation.

In addition to poor record-keeping, the reason officials were unclear about how much gold was missing was that some gold is lost during processing and refining.

As much as one-half of the 5,200 ounces that appears to be missing may have disappeared in the course of normal operations, said Laitin.

The only previous known theft of government gold from a government facility was 1,800 ounces discovered missing from the Denver Mint in 1955. That theft was traced to a clerk who apparently gave it away during the course of business operations, officials said.

Laitin said the exact amount of gold missing from the assay office may never be known because of poor record-keeping.

"It looks to me like they were using the same antiquated accounting and management techniques they started out with in 1854," he said.

The missing 5,200 ounces of gold is valued at about $1.1 million by today's prices of about $214 per ounce. It would have been valued at considerably less in 1973, for example, when the price was still under $100 per ounce.

As for the possibility of gold missing prior to 1973, "it's almost impossible to go back beyond that because of the record problem," Laitin said. The Secret Service is now conducting the probe, he added.

In his letter to Proxmire, Carswell said management procedures are being set up "to ensure the efficient and secure operation of the office" in the future.

Much of the gold in the assay office was sold to the government by the public in the form of gold nuggets, coins or jewelry. The assay office then would process and refine the gold into bars for storage.

The assay office stopped accepting gold from the public in 1969, but has been working on a backlog ever since. There are about 85 employees involved in the melting and refining operation.

Protesters Demand Release Of Indira

She is expected to be released from jail Friday when the current session of Parliament ends, but Desai's ruling Janata Party could prolong the session.

Pro-Gandhi protesters set fire to buses in Bombay and railway cars in Bangalore. In other cities mobs attacked post offices, railway stations and local stations of the state-owned All-India radio network, which Mrs. Gandhi has claimed was biased against her.

Violent Outbursts

Some of the most violent outbursts were in the southern state of Tamil Nadu, formerly known as Madras, where at least 8,000 persons were arrested, UNI said.

Effigies of Desai were burned in Calcutta and Madras.

In Bombay a mob poured gasoline over a police officer and set him ablaze. He was hospitalized and reported in satisfactory condition. In New Delhi, police fired warning shots and lobbed tear-gas canisters to disperse protesters and 2,500 parliamentary border guards were placed on alert.

UNI said most of those arrested lined up voluntarily and cheerfully boarded police vans after violating bans on street marches — a civil disobedience tactic used successfully in India's struggle for independence from Britain.

Protests Follow Vote

Demonstrations began soon after the lower house voted 279-138 Tuesday to strip Mrs. Gandhi of her seat.

"Long live Indira Gandhi!" supporters shouted as she emerged from the Parliament building four hours after the vote. She was taken to a freshly painted cell, complete with television, in Tihar Jail 10 miles from the Parliament building.

Crowds of her supporters flocked outside the jail Wednesday and her daughter-in-law brought lunch to the 61-year-old former prime minister.

Mobs stoned and burned city buses in Bangalore, near the south Indian district that elected Mrs. Gandhi to Parliament last month, and police arrested at least 200 persons.

Transit Strike

Bangalore was crippled by a transit strike by pro-Gandhi workers. The final day of the West Indies-India cricket test match, India's top sporting event, was postponed because of around-the-clock violence.

Protest strikes were reported in Bombay, Nagpur, Hyderabad, Secunderabad and other cities.

Members of Mrs. Gandhi's party forced the upper house of Parliament to adjourn by shouting anti-government slogans and then refused to leave the chamber. They said they would sit-in until ousted.

Seven of her supporters in Parliament were on a hunger strike in the building, vowing to fast until she is freed.

Had Packed Bags

Mrs. Gandhi, who spent eight months in prison during the Indian independence struggle and a night in detention last year, said she was prepared for the vote and had packed her bags.

She said she would run again for the vacated seat. Supporters predicted she would win by more than the 55,000-vote margin she rolled up last month in the first step in her political comeback.

"She will come back with thunder," said the floor leader of her Indira Congress Party, C.M. Stephen. "History will bear witness to this."

Protesters Demand Release Of Indira

She is expected to be released from jail Friday when the current session of Parliament ends, but Desai's ruling Janata Party could prolong the session.

Pro-Gandhi protesters set fire to buses in Bombay and railway cars in Bangalore. In other cities mobs attacked post offices, railway stations and local stations of the state-owned All-India radio network, which Mrs. Gandhi has claimed was biased against her.

Violent Outbursts

Some of the most violent outbursts were in the southern state of Tamil Nadu, formerly known as Madras, where at least 8,000 persons were arrested, UNI said.

Effigies of Desai were burned in Calcutta and Madras.

In Bombay a mob poured gasoline over a police officer and set him ablaze. He was hospitalized and reported in satisfactory condition. In New Delhi, police fired warning shots and lobbed tear-gas canisters to disperse protesters and 2,500 parliamentary border guards were placed on alert.

UNI said most of those arrested lined up voluntarily and cheerfully boarded police vans after violating bans on street marches — a civil disobedience tactic used successfully in India's struggle for independence from Britain.

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission said Wednesday that it will raise the "lifeblood" — the rate of return on investment — to 10 percent from the current 8 percent. The commission said the increase would be effective January 1, 1979.

The OPEC oil price rise will raise the rate of return on investment from 8 percent to 10 percent, the commission said. "I would hope that the rate of return on investment would be some 10 percent," the commission said.

The commission said it will also raise the rate of return on investment from 8 percent to 10 percent. The commission said the increase would be effective January 1, 1979.

Railroad Commission Chairman Assails Carter Energy Policies

AUSTIN (AP) — Chairman Mack Wallace of the Texas Railroad Commission said Wednesday OPEC countries are dictating that the United States pays for its "lifeblood" — oil — and the Carter administration must offer incentives to increase domestic production.

Wallace told the statewide oil allowance hearing the national energy policy "was not designed to provide incentives to the industry to produce sufficient oil and gas."

The OPEC oil cartel announced Sunday it will raise oil prices by 14.5 percent in four steps during 1979, beginning with a 5 percent increase Jan. 1.

"I would hope now that the situation with rising oil and gas prices and with the very critical situation in Iran that there would be some sort of decisions within the administration that we must come forward and give incentives to the industry to produce sufficient oil and gas to maintain our position in world affairs and to permit us to once again design and formulate a foreign policy that would be beneficial to the United States," Wallace said.

The commission routinely set the statewide allowance for January at 100 percent, with the exception of 11 fields. The large East Texas field was restricted to 86 percent production.

Texas has had a 100 percent allowable every month except three since April 1972.

The hearing was the final allowable session for commissioner Jon Newton. He resigned to avoid a possible conflict of interests brought on by the completion of gas wells on South Texas land that Newton's wife inherited this year.

Rep. Jim Nugent of Kerrville was appointed to succeed Newton, a former House member from Beeville, on the oil and gas regulatory agency.

Nominations for Texas crude oil in January totaled 3,477,406 barrels a day, an increase of 945 barrels daily from December.

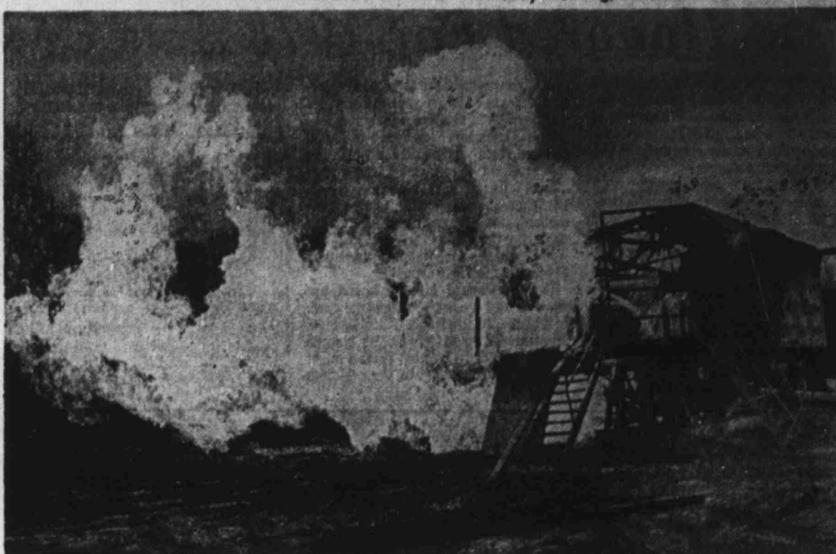

Wallace noted that crude oil and petroleum imports into the United States were 8,902,000 barrels a day for the four-week average of Dec. 8, an increase of 1,224,000 barrels a day from a year ago.

Here are the crude oil nominations for January, in barrels per day, with any changes from December in parentheses:

CHINESE BUY RIGS

DALLAS (AP) — LTV Corp. said Wednesday The People's Republic of China has agreed to pay $40 million for seven oil drilling rigs to be used in on-shore and offshore oil recovery. The contracts were signed in Peking Dec. 16, five hours after the United States and China announced resumption of diplomatic relations, according to LTV President Raymond Hay and R.C. Rieder, chairman of LTV subsidiary Continental-Emsco Co.

Heating Oil Price Crisis Played Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The spiraling cost of home heating oil may cause a financial hardship on homeowners this winter but does not justify reimposition of federal price lids, a top administration energy official said Wednesday.

The official, Deputy Energy Secretary John F. O'Leary, disputed claims by Northeast officials that the sudden price hikes — as much as five cents a gallon since September in some areas — are unjustified.

He cited the tight world crude-oil market caused by reductions in Iranian production and increases in U.S. imports of higher-priced petroleum products as major contributors to these price increases.

The 14.5 percent hike in the world oil price recently voted by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) will boost heating-oil prices by at least another penny a gallon this winter, O'Leary told a House Commerce subcommittee.

He said the price now averages 53 cents a gallon nationally.

Federal controls were lifted from home heating oil in June 1976, when prices to residential users averaged 39.5 cents per gallon.

O'Leary told the panel, "Experiences since decontrol, particularly since the severe winter of 1976-77, have demonstrated that the heating-oil market works effectively."

However, Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso and energy officials from New York and Massachusetts told the same panel the OPEC increase, coming on top of the earlier price boosts, is a potential disaster.

They said the combined effects of these price increases will mean severe hardships this winter for many persons living near the poverty level who rely on oil to heat their homes.

Mrs. Grasso called for stepped-up federal aid to help poor people pay their heating bills. She said that even before the OPEC increase was announced, state energy officials had predicted an additional two-cent-a-gallon hike in the price of heating oil this winter for Connecticut homeowners.

Heating oil now sells for about 55.5 cents a gallon in Connecticut, five cents a gallon more than it cost last winter, she said.

"The (average Connecticut) family will be paying $56 more this winter than it did last winter," she said.

Trio Honored For 1978 Acts Of Heroism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Transportation Secretary Brock Adams Wednesday honored a tugboat captain, a high school student and a bus driver for individual acts of heroism "under very difficult and dangerous circumstances."

Receiving the department's 1978 Awards for Heroism were Glenn McDonald, 42, of Gulf Breeze, Fla.; Kimberly Davenport, 17, of Hayesville, N.C., and Allan Thomas, 38, of Rockledge, Pa., who played crucial roles in aiding victims in three separate and unrelated accidents.

When a National Airlines jet crashed into Escambia Bay near Pensacola, Fla., on May 8, McDonald steered his tug alongside and he and his crew rescued 55 of the 58 persons aboard even though the operation was hampered by fog and darkness and was endangered by thousands of gallons of jet fuel spilled in the water.

Miss Davenport rescued two small children from a pickup truck which she watched skid off a highway and plunge into an icy creek near Hayesville on Feb. 16. When she was unable to free their mother from beneath the truck, she stayed in the frigid creek and held the woman's head above water for more than 30 minutes until help came.

Thomas stopped his Greyhound bus when he saw a small private plane crash beside the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Morgantown on March 23. He ignored warnings that the burning aircraft might explode and rescued two persons from the plane.

Adams said he was impressed that all three award winners "went immediately to the rescue. Their actions were spontaneous and completely unselfish."

American, Ex-Prisoner Of Russians, Denounces Communists

By BOB WILLIAMS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

John Noble has a deep affection for freedom. His was taken away for 16 years. Noble was held prisoner by the Germans for 6 1/2 years before and during World War II and by the Soviet Union for 9 1/2 years after the war. He was in Lubbock this week at the invitation of the Chinese Students Association at Tech to speak at their Sunday rally protesting President Carter's decision to sever ties with Taiwan in favor of Communist China.

would not have the problems it has today. But we've given the Communists so much of our military and scientific knowledge that we have created a Frankenstein."

Noble, 56, said it was a mistake recognizing Russia "and to recognize China is a much worse one. Most people feel that China and Russia are at odds with each other. This is not true. The Russians are very good at playing chess, which is what they are playing with China. We say they are divided, but they know they are perfectly coordinated."

After hearing of President Carter's decision about Communist China Friday, Noble sent Carter a telegram. "Lord, give me the words to say," he said. In the telegram Noble said, "Your act of recognition of this handful of murderers . . .

is a slap in the face to every American who respects the word of God and recognizes the inhumanity to man which communism has demonstrated. With your act you are stating to the world that America has no respect for human rights and is willing to bow to the lowest form of governmental tyranny this world has ever known."

Born in Detroit, Mich., Noble and his family in 1938 were on a business trip in Germany, where his father owned a camera factory. Fifteen-year-old Noble planned to study some of the factory procedures while his father transacted business, but the Germans placed his family under house arrest in Dresden, seizing the factory, and later placing Noble and his father in prison. Noble's mother and brother were eventually released, but Noble and his father re-

Cratchits Have Taken Over 1978 English Yule

LONDON (AP) — Bah Humbug yourself, Scrooge. The Cratchits have taken over.

Tiny Tim's got a free crutch from the National Health service. There are preserves in the plum pudding and televised holiday soccer matches in the living rooms of the poor.

Oh, it's a long way from perfect in the British welfare state. But the Ghost of Christmas Present today conducts a much altered London tour from the one he gave Charles Dickens' "covetous old sinner" Scrooge in the "Christmas Carol" of 1843.

No snow for one thing — or barely enough to frost a miser's heart. Dickens describes Bob Cratchit sledding through the banking district. This decade's usual allotment is a half-inch of gray gruel, and so far this winter the London skies seem to be flakeless.

And the cold that gnawed poor Cratch-

B Local Family News
METRO
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Thursday Dec. 21, 1978

London's fogs have abated to a fifth of their former frequency, about a dozen a year. And they're not as unhealthy.

Dr. David Ball, air pollution scientist for the Greater London Council, says a reconstruction based on coal trade records, puts soot levels for Scrooge's London of 100 micrograms per cubic meter, compared to about 40 today, and sulfur dioxide at 160 micrograms compared to about 100 today.

"If I was Bob Cratchit I'd have old Scrooge in front of an industrial tribunal so fast it'd make your head swim," says one white-collar union member about the skinflint's personnel practices.

Indeed, Scrooge's counting house would be moaning like other small firms today about government red tape. And Scrooge, who fired Cratchit with no good reason, would be told to reinstate him with back pay.

The Scrooge of 135 years ago paid Bob 15 shillings (equivalent in today's buying power to about $26) a week and grudgingly granted him a single holiday — Christmas — calling it "a poor excuse for picking a man's pocket every 25th of December."

Kathie Dixon, researcher for the Association of Professional, Executive and Clerical Staff, figures her union would get Cratchit an average of $136 a week, with eight paid holidays and as many as six weeks vacation a year. "Most of our members have a 37-hour week and some have 35," she adds.

And if Cratchit 1978 were as poorly paid as his 19th-century ancestor, he would be eligible for an income supplement of $29 a week from the government, plus $30 family allowance for his five at-home children and $20 mobility allowance to help Tiny Tim get around.

He'd get free dentistry, eyeglasses, drugs, vitamins and milk. And his local government would probably pay all his rent and all but about 24 cents of his local taxes.

If the Cratchits still lived in the Camden Town section of North London they'd be paper-rich, with trendy young couples moving in on all sides, driving up property prices by redoing old houses.

Tiny Tim probably would be cured of his crippling illness, but if he weren't, there would be free medical care, braces and crutches. However, with the logjam in the bureaucracy-plagued National Health Service, chances are 50-50 he'd wait more than a year for orthopedic surgery.

With all that, the social evils that spurred Dickens have not vanished. Every winter, pensioners die from cold. The Salvation Army still puts up 2,000 transients a night — although now it has to charge $1.50 for bed and breakfast from those who can pay.

The big event of the old Cratchits' Christmas was the plum pudding, labored and worried over for hours, with "a smell like an eating-house and a pastrycook's next door to each other, with a laundress's next to that."

Today's Christmas pudding, a confec-

tion of currants, raisins, suet, sugar, apples, breadcrumbs, flour, fruit peel, eggs, treacle, nuts and spices, is probably from a store and costs $2 a pound.

But it's served, as ever, with generous measures of brandy and good cheer.

Townhouse Builder Seeking Variance On City Setback Requirements—Again

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Zoning Board of Adjustment will be asked today to grant a variance the setback requirements for a townhouse at 8633 Knoxville Drive, after rejecting virtually the same request last month.

The townhouse, which is about two-thirds complete, is located about six feet from a curving alley, and about 14 feet short of the setback requirement placed on the townhouse construction by the Lubbock City Council.

The ZBA turned down builder J.D. Chandler's request for a variance last month when those who own homes adjacent to the townhouse protested the variance request.

Part of Chandler's original request, for a variance of the 50-foot setback for the two-story portion of the townhouse, was settled last week when the city council instructed Chandler to redesign his floor plan so no windows would be needed on the side or rear of the second story.

If the ZBA rejects Chandler's request a second time, he may be forced to remove a section of the townhouse garage to comply with the setback requirements.

Chandler will be represented at the 8:15 a.m. meeting in city council chambers by attorney Elroy Sinnacher.

Also on today's agenda are the first requests for special exceptions to permit self-service gasoline pumps in a local retail (C-2) zoning district since the council amended the zoning ordinance to permit the gas sales in C-2 zones.

Ken Flagg, representing Sonny Arnold, will request such a special exception to gas pumps at a convenience store to be located at 6201 34th St.

C. Clayton Yeager, representing Furr's, Inc., will ask for ZBA approval for gas pumps at a convenience store to be built north of 74th Street and west of Quaker Avenue.

R.D. Burchell, representing Southland Corporation, will request a special exception and a variance in the setback requirements for gas pumps at a convenience store at 2334 Broadway.

Also on the agenda is the request of Juan Mendoza, representing Mendoza's Furniture and Upholstery, for a special exception to expand the upholstery shop which is a legal non-conforming use.

However, Mendoza cleared the lot where the shop was located before seeking the special exception, and so is not considered an expansion of an existing use by city staff members.

C. Clayton Yeager, representing Furr's, Inc., also will ask board members to vary the required setbacks on property south of 71st Street and west of Quaker Avenue.

Students Assist In Health Drives

Cooperative Health Education students from Dunbar-Struggs High School recently walked a block apiece for the Diabetes Association fund drive and donated 83 pints of blood during a blood drive as part of their community activity efforts.

For the past several years CHE students have walked a block per student each year for every major community drive, donated to Community Chest and sponsored a blood drive for the students in their high school.

The group has won several awards from Texas Health Careers and the Texas Association of Health Occupation Students of America for their efforts.

This year they were commended statewide for their participation in the March of Dimes Spook House.

CHE students attend all regular classes and work about 20 hours a week under supervision in a health institution. They participate in community activities in their leisure time.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I need help. My husband brought his parents here from Europe for a visit. They don't speak English and I don't speak their native tongue. But that's the LEAST of my troubles.

My mother-in-law is driving me nuts! She refuses to use the dishwasher. I wouldn't mind if she'd WASH the dishes, but I'm sick and tired of seeing coffee stains in my cups and finding pulp from lemonade in my glasses. To make matters worse, she never dries anything. I don't know how many times I've reached in the cupboard for a plate and spilled a half cup of water on myself.

I'm a nervous wreck and my husband wants to know what's wrong. If I say anything against his mother, it would start a fight. His folks planned to stay for a month and announced yesterday they are extending their visit another three weeks. Please tell me what to do. I can't risk offending her. — Stuck

Dear Stuck: You can be grateful it's only three more weeks instead of a permanent arrangement, as it is for some women who write to me. In the meantime, let her continue to "wash" the dishes but put them in a dishwasher after she has finished, quietly and without comment. If she catches you, no harm done. She'll figure it out. No translation will be necessary.

Dear Ann: Three cheers for that smart lady who has no guest room, no hideaway bed and sofas that are too short to sleep on.

A woman's home should be HER castle, too, and not a free hotel for slap-happy gypsies. The other loon who expressed delight at bedding down and feeding eight unexpected relatives for five days must be soft in the head. She also must have a secret tunnel to the First National Bank.

Years back when I had an extra bedroom, it was never vacant. All sorts of relatives and friends came to visit us, bringing huge appetites and several pieces of luggage (always a bad sign). One couple brought their St. Bernard dog and, would you believe, two boxes of dog biscuits!

Two months after that experience, we converted the extra bedroom into a workshop for my husband and we've never been happier. Just sign me — Familiarity Breeds Contempt

Dear Familiarity: I was astonished to discover that the vast majority of readers who wrote to express their views on his subject actually love unexpected company! It does indeed take all kinds of people to make a world. Speaking strictly for myself, I'm the other kind.

Dear Ann: Your advice to the couple who fought over the bridge table was lousy. It's obvious you do not play bridge. You told the woman that she and her husband should "throw in the deck" — permanently.

Throwing in the deck is an admission of failure. No one ever became a good bridge player by giving up. You should have told the woman to keep the rule book on the table. When an argument starts about who should have played what card, she should look it up and settle the beef then and there. Of course, it will slow up the game but everyone will learn something. Even a dumbbell like you. — Grand Slam In Boise

Dear Grand: Not me. I'm no card player. Your suggestion sounds like a peachy way to start a series of new arguments. If Goren says one thing and Kantar says another, you're in more trouble than before.

Here is a really tough hand. The defense starts off with a spade to East's king. The queen of clubs is led to West's ace and the four of clubs shot back. South plays low from dummy. East ruffs and leads back a trump.

South has lost the first three tricks and needs the rest. He also should know where all the rest of the high cards are and have a fair idea of their distribution. Also he should make his contract although when we watched this hand played in a duplicate game, most four-heart declarers wound up in the soup.

Here is the winning line of play. South must cash two high trumps and hope his opponents will have to follow so that there will be no trumps left out.

He leads a club to dummy's jack and ruffs a club to establish dummy's fifth club. Then he returns to dummy with the ace of diamonds, discards his queen of diamonds on that fifth club. Leads the jack of diamonds for a ruffing finesse and eventually is able to ruff one spade and discard the other on a good diamond.

DEAR HELOISE:

I buy whipping cream by the quart or pints when on sale, or when I run low. Whip the cream, adding powdered sugar to sweeten (if desired), scoop it into muffin tins and place in freezer.

When completely frozen (I leave overnight), run a little warm water over bottom of tins to loosen slightly, remove each cream "muffin" and place in freezer bags. Replace bag in freezer.

The whipped cream is always ready for use, and in the desired amount.

You can also take advantage of any sale on this item without worrying about spoilage.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

My wife and I both use our hand-held hair dryer daily. Our bathroom is small and we don't have much storage space. Our dryer cluttered our bathroom since we usually "store" it on top of our vanity.

To solve this problem, we bought a chrome-plated toothbrush and tumbler holder and mounted it on the side of our vanity. The tumbler hole is a perfect size for hand-held dryers.

Thanks to our idea, our bathroom is neater and our dryer is attractively and conveniently placed. — James Rivers

DEAR HELOISE:

The other day when I was looking for my candles, lo and behold, I found them but they were crooked and bent out of shape.

I found that if you put them in a cake pan and slip them into an unlighted oven (oven with pilot light, that is — it won't work if stove is electric) for a few minutes, they will become soft and pliable and you can mold them back to their original shape. — Linda Engstrom

Tune In Tomorrow

By JOHN—MICHAEL REED
NEW YORK—He's back, and this time "Love of Life" has him.

On the show Van and Bruce Sterling have embarked on new lifestyles because of Bruce's new college teaching post. One of the school's professors is Timothy Thomas McCauley and the actor seen in the part is Shepperd Strudwick, who's been plying his acting craft for over 50 years in London, Paris and the States in every show business medium. He has 55 movies to his credit, including "All the King's Men" and "A Place in the Sun," and he was nominated for a Daytime Emmy for his performance of Victor Lord on "One Life to Live" two years ago.

Also joining "LOL" is Valery Cossart as Sara Caldwell, Van's mamma. Joanna Roos, who has long portrayed the part, decided not to renew her contract. Wendie Malick is another newcomer as Miss Jones, Carrie's nurse. And Heather Bicknell appears as little Suzanne Harper.

Ned Schmidtke wasn't exactly overjoyed that his character of Greg Barnard was bumped off "Another World." Ned lived in New York where "AW" is taped while his wife and two children reside in Chicago where Ned taught acting at the Goodman Theatre School. The actor expected Greg's demise because villains have a habit of not surviving long on soaps. But Ned's determined to stay in Manhattan to pursue other acting chores while transplanting his household from the Windy City.

Another current soap exit was made by John Driver when his character was killed off "The Edge of Night." But John will be sticking around behind the cameras of the show on which he's appeared for six years. This time he'll be one of the show's directors. John's already an accomplished off-Broadway and Broadway stage director of both dramas and musicals, some of which he's scripted.

Fans of "One Life to Live," be warned. Prepare yourselves for a socko, shocko story development that will lead to a murder trial and more twists and turns than a mystery novel. Sorry we can't divulge more, but the "juice" is being turned on just in time for a holiday treat.

THE MAILBAG:
Who's the guy who plays Howard Lansing on "General Hospital"? He's really sharp.—J.V. Millington, Tenn.

Richard Sarradet is "GH's" attorney Howard Lansing. Born in New Orleans on May 16, 1946, Richard graduated as a drama major from the University of Kansas in 1971. Before that he'd been a lieutenant in the artillery division of the U.S. Army. "GH" is his first bigtime professional role and he's divorced from his high school sweetheart.

Please help settle an argument about who is the natural father of Kim's son, Andrew, on "As the World Turns."—S.T., Sarasota, Fla.

Unlike some serial children, there's never been any doubt that John Dixon fathered Andrew. However, dastardly John had his paternal rights stripped away because of his shoddy nature. Kim and her current husband, Dan, however, allow John visitation rights and have promised that Andrew will grow up knowing who his natural father is, which is also unusual in soapland.

Whatever happen to Peggy, the third Brooks sister, on "The Young and the Restless"? I rarely hear any mention of her since she was raped by Ron Becker—L.W., Boulder, Colo.

Well, don't you think that's a good enough reason why Peggy packed her bags and headed for college, far away from the scene of her shame? But hold on. Soap characters usually return sooner or later and Peggy's a prime candidate to surface sooner rather than later.

Does the actor who plays that pimp Billy Clyde on "All My Children" really wear his hair long and straggly like he does on the show?—P.T. Houston, Tex.

When actor Matthew Cowles joined "AMC" he did, indeed, sport a head of blonde hair that reached his shoulders. But a few months ago Matthew cut off his locks for a film role. When he arrived in London for start of filming, however, he learned that his character was scratched from the project. So, since he's returned to "AMC" Matt has been wearing a wig until his crew-cut lengths.

CHRISTMAS EVE MIDNIGHT SUPPER — Top off this holiday season with a festive Christmas Eve Midnight Supper of Brown Rice with Chicken Livers, Mushrooms and Wine. An elegant way to say "Merry Christmas," use a lovely rose wine to enhance your dish and to toast the coming year.

Christmas Eve Midnight Supper Enriches Holiday Celebrations

NEW YORK (Special) — Christmas is one of the most joyous times of the year. Family and friends gather together for parties, presents and good cheer. This year, top off the holiday season with a festive Christmas Eve Midnight Supper. Brown Rice with Chicken Livers, Mushrooms and Wine is an elegant way to say "Merry Christmas." Prepare it in advance, ready to be served buffet style, using a lovely rose wine. When your guests arrive, join them in a glass of rose and toast the coming year.

BROWN RICE WITH CHICKEN LIVERS, MUSHROOMS AND WINE
 1 cup brown rice
 2 cups canned chicken broth
 1/2 tsp. thyme
 1/4 tsp. basil
 4 tbsps. butter
 1 lb. chicken livers
 1 tsp. salt
 Freshly ground pepper
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/2 lb. small mushrooms
 1/3 cup rose wine
 1/3 cup chicken broth
 1 tsp. cornstarch
 1 tbsps. brandy
 1 tbsps. sherry

Chopped parsley for garnish
 In heavy pot, combine rice, chicken broth, thyme and basil. Cover tightly and cook over low flame until liquid is absorbed, about 45 minutes. Remove from heat, let stand, covered, about 10 minutes. In large skillet, melt 3 tablespoons butter and, when foaming, add livers. Sauté until meat has lost its pink color. Remove to a large bowl. Add onions to skillet and sauté until golden. Add mushrooms and sauté 2-3 minutes. Remove onions and mushrooms to bowl with livers, season with salt and pepper. Add wine, chicken broth and cornstarch to skillet, stir to blend. Cook until thickened. Gently combine livers, onions and mushrooms with the wine sauce, add brandy, sherry and rice and turn onto a hot serving dish, garnished with chopped parsley. Serves 8-10.

POST SERVICE
 (WNS) — There have been so many lonely, unmissed deaths among elderly widows in West Germany that postmen in major cities are making regular check-ups on apartments and houses when they deliver the mail.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
 DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Doctor: Several years ago my husband had a routine chest X-ray and a spot was found on one lung, a nodule. Exploratory surgery revealed he had Valley Fever. I don't know the correct name. The nodule and part of the lung were removed along with two ribs. Since then he has had pain, sometimes unbearable, in the area where the ribs were removed. He's been told that a nerve has been severed and that nothing can be done about it. Do you have any suggestions? — Mrs. C.H.

Valley Fever has a long medical name — coccidioidomycosis, a word that might even intimidate some doctors. It gets the name from the fungus that causes it, prevalent in the Southwest. The fungus spores are breathed in from the air. Natives seem immune to it from gradual exposure, but visitors may get ill from it, yet not have symptoms until months afterward. The chief symptoms are fever, cough, chest pain, chills, sputum production and sore throat.

Your husband's infection must have been serious if it required surgery, which normally does not produce any long-lasting pain. Rib removal seldom does. There could be some disturbance of the pleura (the lung covering), or invasion of it by the disease itself. I suspect, though, that the pain he has now is from surgical scar tissue, which may have entrapped a nerve, or from a neuroma (growth on the nerve). He should see a neurosurgeon, who can evaluate matters firsthand.

often change if a great deal of body weight is lost, since some medicines are prescribed according to weight. Antivert, a brand of antihistamine, can contribute to general problems of this kind by causing drowsiness. I think you should seek a reevaluation of your medicine and the dosage. Are you taking any other medicine?

As to your morning symptoms, try preparing yourself before standing. Sit on the edge of your bed and move your arms (rub your head, etc.) and tense your leg muscles. Even people with normal blood pressure may have what is called "postural hypotension," a lag in adjustment of pressure during the switch from a lying to a standing position. It may contribute to the dizziness. It's called "positional vertigo." I'm sending on the material. Other readers can get a copy by sending 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Doctor: I am 27 and pregnant for the first time. I want very much to breastfeed, but I'm very small breasted — hardly anything. My mother says I won't be able to produce enough milk. Do you think she is right? — C.V.

Hogwash! Most women who can conceive, carry and deliver a baby can breastfeed. Nature takes care of breast size and milk supply, a fact you should begin noticing fairly soon.

Dear Doctor: Please send me your material on dizzy spells. I had high blood pressure, which seems to be considerably lower now — 129 over 57. I am taking Antivert, also Persantine for this. I seem to have the problem upon rising in the a.m. I am 71. Any suggestions? — M.H.

Most backache (about 80 percent) is caused by muscle tension or spasm. Hence, when sitting you should watch your posture. Avoid slouching. If your legs are short, the pressure on the backs of the thighs when seated for any length of time can cause nerve disturbance and numbness. Bending exercises to tone the back muscles might help.

You don't say how long you have stayed with the present dosage of Persantine. Needs do change, however. Witness your lowered pressure. An "adult" dose can be too much for an older person, just as it might be for a child. Dosage needs

Ex-Prisoner Scores Carter's China Recognition

 mained under house arrest until the Soviet Union moved into Germany in 1948.

Instead of freeing Noble and his father, the Soviets arrested them and imprisoned every American in the area, he said. They were taken to six prisons and seven different camps — including Dresden, Muehlberg, Buchenwald and Weimar — for five years. Then Noble was finally moved to Vorkuta, one of the dreaded Soviet Arctic slave camps.

"I think that unless you've lost your freedom, you don't really appreciate it. I stayed alive only by the grace of God," he said.

Working as a slave in the coal mines for 16 hours a day, Noble was fed very little. "In the morning I was given black bread, cabbage soup and cereal. The evening meal was cabbage soup, cereal and raw fish. I had to eat raw fish for three years. The meals were not enough in calories, but nutritionally it was better food than many of us eat today because there were no artificial preservatives and sugar. But I'm sure that's not what the Soviets had in mind." He weighed less than 100 pounds during his imprisonment.

Despite his many years of speaking to audiences about the slave camp experiences, Noble still feels somewhat uncomfortable talking about what he saw. "I saw many horrors," he said. Once the Russians refused to feed 700 prisoners in a camp in Buchenwald for 15 days, Noble was one of only about 22 who survived. He said, "I was in solitary confinement and I came to the physical end of myself. And when you do that, you'll try to cling to almost anything. It was then that I prayed and asked God to close my eyes and keep them closed or take my life and make it whatever he wanted it to be."

He said he learned about Christianity from his fellow prisoners, and there were secret religious services held every day in the Vorkuta slave camp by the prisoners.

"I made many friends. When you get to know people behind the Iron Curtain, you find they are the most kindhearted people on earth. They hate communism. It's safe to say that today in Russia, 90 percent of the people hate communism. I know that sounds unrealistic, but you have to understand the life they live, and their daily existence. The statement is true."

The Russians released Noble's father in 1952, but denied to U.S. authorities that Noble was alive or imprisoned in the Vorkuta slave camp. Then in 1954, Noble smuggled a postcard to distant relatives in West Germany. He signed it, "your noble nephew."

U.S. State Department officials were contacted by Noble's family, but were unsuccessful in obtaining his release until President Eisenhower stepped in. Eisenhower sent a letter to Russian officials in 1954 which prompted his release on Jan. 10, 1955. After coming through the Iron Curtain in Berlin, Noble was flown to Washington, D.C., and testified before several congressional committees.

He married in 1955, and is the father of five children. He has since founded the Faith and Freedom Forum in Muncy, Pa., and uses his experiences to evaluate current events. He has appeared on numerous television and radio shows, and is the author of "I Found God in Soviet Russia," and "I Was a Slave in Russia."

Noble said in one camp there were only 14 of an estimated 5,000 prisoners released. "We had contact with 33 of them six months ago. Those 33 Americans have survived as Soviet political prisoners since World War II."

He said they are held on Wrangel Island, an island off the northeastern coast of Siberia in the Arctic Ocean. But according to Noble, there is a terrible irony in the situation. "It was an American island used by the Soviets as a naval base. But on April 14, 1975, President Ford turned the island over to the Communists without the consent of Congress. When I confronted President Ford's press secretary about this a couple of years ago, I was told I was trying to be a troublemaker, and that I would get into all kinds of trouble about that."

Noble hopes he can initiate enough public concern about the Wrangel Island prisoners to force State Department officials to obtain their release.

"State Department officials tell me it would tear down our relationship with the Soviets if we tried to get those men back. They said even if I got 10 million signatures, the people in the State Department would not change their policies about it. In that case, I said, we need to change some of them."

The policy changes with the Soviet Union Noble advocates include stopping trade relations, obtaining satisfaction to all claims by the free world made against the Soviet Union, and forcing the Soviet Union to return all military and financial aid we've given them. Noble admits he is not too popular with the State Department.

He estimates that as many as 200 Americans still remain political prisoners in the Soviet Union.

"I think it's a big mistake going to the Olympics in Russia. Remember the holocaust started in 1938, just as the Olympics were held in Germany the same year. People all over the world are going to marvel at Moscow, which will be the showplace to the world in 1980. Yet no concern will be given to what's happening beyond the facade of the Olympics."

"The Communist world is still depending on us. I personally feel that the major solution to the problem in the U.S. is that the people must realize what our forefathers gave us. They gave us material, spiritual and physical freedoms. But they demanded personal responsibilities as well, which we have now lost," he said.

We must understand what made our nation great and understand the Constitution and the word of God, Noble said.

78 Traffic Deaths Foreseen in Texas By State Officials

Department of Public Safety officials have predicted 78 persons will lose their lives in Texas traffic accidents during the holidays — 44 during the Christmas season and 35 during the New Year's period.

Every available trooper will be on duty through the holidays as part of the DPS's "Operation Motorcade," said Maj. C.W. Bell, DPS regional commander.

Drivers License, Motor Vehicle Inspection, and License and Weight Division employees will assist highway patrolmen in policing the holiday traffic, Bell said.

The Christmas period for Operation Motorcade will begin at 6 p.m. Friday and end at 11:59 p.m. the following Monday. The New Year's period will begin at 6 p.m. Dec. 28 and end at 11:59 p.m. Jan. 1.

"DPS officials hope that traffic violations, and perhaps traffic deaths, will be curbed as a result of their efforts to control traffic, lower speeds and get the drinking driver off the roads.

Motorcyclist deaths on the highway have been increasing over the past few holiday periods, according to Bell. Motorcyclists are not wearing protective headgear and the loss of lives without helmets is overwhelming, he said.

Texas reached a record high of 3,606 traffic deaths in 1977, Bell said. The 1977 figure is a 14 percent increase over the 1976 figure.

Bell emphasized the 55 mph speed limit, saying it has been proved that any speed above 55 mph will take a large toll in lives. He added that the 55 mph is not only a safety factor but the law as well.

Ginners Slate More Conventions Here

TEXAS COTTON GINNERS' ASSOCIATION — Lubbock Memorial Civic Center officials and representatives of the Lubbock Visitors and Conventions Bureau signed a contract with TCGA vice-president, Tony Price, center left, to host all future even-year conventions of the association. Also present at the contract signing were Jim Fron, deputy director of the Civic Center, left; Randall Hodges, chairman of executive committee of TCGA, center right; and Bob Dunbar, board president of the Lubbock Visitors and Conventions Bureau. (Staff Photo)

The Texas Cotton Ginners' Association has chosen Lubbock as the host city for all future even-year conventions, according to Tony Price, association vice president.

Price signed contracts for the Ginners' 1980 and 1982 conventions and discussed future convention plans with Lubbock Memorial Civic Center officials and personnel from the Lubbock Visitors and Conventions Bureau Wednesday.

The success of the convention hosted in Lubbock in March of this year and the fact that so many of the association's members reside in the Lubbock area were the primary factors for rotating back to Lubbock each even-numbered year in the future, Price said.

Dates through 1988 have been selected and plans for the March 12-16, 1980 convention are being formulated. More than 60,000 square feet of floor space in the Civic Center will be used to show farm machinery, supplies and services related to cotton ginning, production and marketing.

PASSPORT HAS LONG HISTORY

Passport derives from two French words: "passer," to pass, and "port," meaning a harbor. Originally granting permission to enter a nation's ports, the documents were issued to ships as well as to people. The earliest passports were "letters of transit" written by rulers or other authorities to identify prominent individuals who carried them. The letters requested that their bearers be assured safe passage and courteous treatment. They were a convenience when traveling, not a requirement.

High Plains Weather Plan To Get Funds

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Water Development Board has agreed to accept $690,000 in federal funds from the U.S. Department of Interior to be used for continuation of the so-called "HIPLEX" weather modification project.

The federal money will be used in conjunction with some $70,000 in state monies.

The 1979 HIPLEX (High Plains Cooperative Program) will involve the following contracts:

- An agreement with the Colorado River Municipal Water District which is to provide an aircraft, pilot, meteorologist, "rawinsonde" technical, radar equipment and is to seed clouds according to approved HIPLEX work plans and provide required support services and installation of support facilities.

- A contract with Texas A&M University to provide a chief scientist for the HIPLEX program, to analyze data, operate a "mesoscale field program," compare radar echo patterns to synoptic features and apply existing mesoscale computer models to the Texas HIPLEX project area.

- An agreement with Texas Tech University to analyze 1977 radiance satellite data and analyze imagery data of the 1978 satellite tapes, to perform rainfall analyses of individual storms and general rainfall patterns affecting the Texas HIPLEX rain-gauge and to collect and process radar data.

Convict Continues Testimony In Davis Trial

HOUSTON (AP)—A convicted burglar testified Wednesday he spurned an investigator's offer to furnish false and incriminating evidence against millionaire Cullen Davis.

"I wasn't going to get up and lie to get my charges dropped," Randall Craig, 26, told the jury in the murder conspiracy trial of the Fort Worth industrialist.

Craig, a self-described drug addict, said district attorney's investigator Don Evans wanted him to testify that Davis sent him "shopping around" the state prison for a "hit man."

"He said it would be to my benefit," Craig said.

Craig said he was told earlier by another Fort Worth investigator that his probation would be dismissed if he could find someone to testify that Davis purchased testimony in his 1977 murder trial.

Craig testified he found no evidence of a Davis bribe.

Defense attorneys indirectly confirmed that Davis will take the stand, presumably after a five-day Christmas break beginning Friday.

None of the four defense attorneys would comment on a published report to that effect, but two said the defendant "will not be the last witness."

Prosecutors said earlier it was evident only Davis could rebut and explain his conversations with FBI informant David McCrory.

McCrory secretly tape-recorded two August discussions in which Davis ordered him to find a hired gunman to kill his divorcee and others.

Davis maintained he was the target of a triangular conspiracy involving his wife, Priscilla, McCrory, and the Fort Worth karate instructor who put McCrory in contact with the FBI.

Craig, the second convict to testify before the jury, said he thought Evans summoned him from his jail cell the day after Davis' Aug. 20 arrest.

He said Evans told him he had received a letter from an inmate at the state prison indicating that Craig "had been shopping around there for a hit man for Mr. Davis."

According to the report, Davis told Craig in Amarillo last November he wanted him to find a professional killer inside the Walls unit of the state prison at Huntsville.

The witness said he was subpoenaed by the defense in Davis' murder trial, that he did meet the defendant but that there was no such request.

Craig said he was not shown the letter but that he told Evans the substance of it was erroneous.

He said Evans told him to "think about it" and let him know later if he wanted to change his story and get the charges against him dropped.

Craig said he was between prison stints when investigator Morris Howeth contacted him last May and told him to use his "street contacts" to find someone to say Davis bribed an Amarillo witness.

"He told me if I could find somebody to say that Cullen Davis has bought them or bribed them ... they would get my probation dismissed," he said.

"Did you give them the name of anybody who had been offered money or paid money by Mr. Davis?" a defense lawyer asked.

"No sir," he replied.

The Amarillo jury acquitted Davis of a murder charge stemming from a 1976 shooting spree at the $6 million Davis mansion in which two persons were killed and two wounded.

The courtroom proceedings were abruptly halted early Wednesday afternoon when a defense witness failed to appear.

Defense lawyer Phil Burleson said Jay Hand, who was described as a former drug enforcement officer, notified the court that a doctor's appointment precluded his scheduled appearance.

"Apparently, he's not the most friendly person in the world," Burleson said when asked was the witness "hostile" to the defense.

Prosecutor Jack Strickland said he understood Hand is also a private investigator who works for an electronics firm and sells "some kind of police gear."

Burleson said Hand would be one of four witnesses the defense expects to call Thursday.

One was identified as Jim Hunter, a private investigator, who also served once as an agent for the Drug Enforcement Administration. The others are district attorney's investigators Rodney Hinson and Bob Morris, the duo involved in the nighttime search at the residence of a witness who testified for the defense.

Burleson indicated there would be but two more defense witnesses after the Christmas recess. He refused to identify either but Davis is expected to be the next to last witness.

Hill Suit Against Water Quality Board Voided

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court made final on Wednesday its Nov. 15 decision that attorneys general cannot sue state agencies to block orders they deem illegal.

Without comment, the high court overruled Attorney General John Hill's motion for a rehearing.

Hill had sued the Texas Water Quality Board to block its order establishing county-by-county rules for protection of the Edwards Aquifer instead of a single rule for the entire underground reservoir.

He also had tried to block a Texas Water

Rights Commission order permitting the South Texas Nuclear Project to contract with the Lower Colorado River Authority for cooling water.

Trial courts and the Austin Court of Civil Appeals said the attorney general could not sue state agencies, and the supreme court agreed without writing a new opinion.

In his motion for rehearing, Hill said the supreme court's action left unanswered the question of who is the "lawfully constituted guardian of the public interest."

The high court also upheld an injunction prohibiting a man who is not licensed as an accountant from using terms such as "public accounting offices."

William Lester Fulcher Jr. had appealed from decisions of a Brownsville trial court and the Corpus Christi Court of Civil Appeals. The appeals court said Fulcher's office door had a sign saying, "Public Accounting Office" and his business cards, letterheads and stationery said, "Accounting Offices."

It said the terms were likely to be confused in the public mind with "public accountant" and "accountant" — designations that can only be used by licensed accountants.

In another case, the court upheld $8,490 in workers compensation death benefits for the widow of an oil field worker who died when he choked on food during a break.

The court said it found no reversible error in decisions of a Cuero jury and the Corpus Christi Court of Civil Appeals.

Robert John Prasek, a tool pusher for Harkins and Co., was in a company-owned house trailer, maintained for employees kept on 24-hour call. His wife, visiting the drilling site, had just fixed him dinner when he choked and died about midnight on April 1, 1975.

Texas Employers Insurance Association

A gold mine near Johnsville, Calif., may have been the home of America's first ski lift. In the 1880s, the miners skied down the mountain slope on Sundays, riding up again aboard the mine's chain line of ore buckets.

denied death benefits to Mrs. Prasek, contending her husband did not die of an on-the-job accident.

The appeals court said workers compensation covers accidents occurring when a worker tends to such needs as hunger and thirst.

"We hold that the injury suffered by Mr. Prasek was incidental to and originated in his employment. ... The fact that Mr. Prasek was at the drill site at midnight supports an inference that the drilling was at a very critical stage and that his presence was required," the appeals court said.

Convictions Overturned For Technical Reasons

AUSTIN (AP) — A judge's decision to proceed with the murder trial of Jesse R. Flores, even though his lawyer had not received an investigator's report, resulted in reversal of Flores' conviction Wednesday.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals sent the case back to San Antonio for retrial.

Flores was assessed a life sentence in the April 22, 1975, shooting death of Thomas Burton.

His lawyer said he had waited more than four months for a court-appointed investigator's report on the facts of the case, but the investigator never came through.

Nonetheless, the judge in the case refused to delay the trial so investigation could be made.

The appeals court said Flores' attorney's trust in the investigator was "sorely misplaced, and as a result neither the investigator nor the counsel did the job they were appointed to do."

It said reversal was necessary because Flores was denied effective assistance of counsel.

The court also reversed a Waco jury's verdict assessing Buddy Heflin 50 years in prison on an aggravated rape conviction because the trial judge allowed prosecutors to use as evidence pills found in Heflin's army field jacket.

Heflin's lawyers contended introduction of the Valium and amphetamine pills prejudiced the jury.

The court also: — Reduced bond from $500,000 to $50,000 for Humberto Sandoval, a Colombian citizen held in the Harris County jail on charges of possessing cocaine with intent to deliver.

— Reversed the robbery conviction and 50-year prison sentence assessed Horace Barry Jordan of Dallas. The court said introduction of illegally seized evidence — including a .45-caliber pistol and five rifles — could have caused the jury to impose a stiffer penalty than it otherwise would have.

— Overturned the conviction of Charles Edward Smith of burglary of a motor vehicle as well as the life sentence assessed against him by a Houston jury. The court said the trial judge improperly allowed police officers to relate that a teenager told them she had heard over her CB radio that a van had just been stolen from a nearby parking lot.

Smith was arrested after officers spotted a van fitting the description of the stolen one.

— Dismissed the indictment against Edwin Paul Brantley, convicted by a Beaumont jury of attempting to pass a forged Dilaudid prescription and assessed a seven-year prison sentence. The court said the indictment failed to allege an offense enumerated by the Texas Penal Code.

Paraplegic Wins Access To Mezzanine
 WASHINGTON (AP) — John A. Coffin, a 28-year-old paraplegic, has won a two-year battle with his local library in Towson, Md., to gain access to the Federal Register, the daily publication of government rules, regulations and procedures.
 Coffin complained that the Towson Area Library, built with the help of federal funds, kept the periodical on the mezzanine, which could only be reached by stairs that he was unable to negotiate in his wheelchair.
 The U.S. Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board, which enforces a 1968 law requiring federally funded facilities to be accessible to the handicapped, won agreement from Baltimore County and Maryland officials to install a $15,000 hydraulic lift to permit Coffin and other disabled people access to the upper floors of the library.

Red China Service Sought By Airline
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans International Airlines asked the Civil Aeronautics Board Wednesday for authority to operate a scheduled plane service between the United States and the People's Republic of China.
 If the board approves the request, TIA then would have to obtain permission from the Chinese government.
 "The establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries created a vast potential for tourism both to and from mainland China," TIA President Henry P. Huff said in a statement.
 TIA said it would soon file with the CAB schedules, fares and other information about its proposed service. TIA is the world's largest charter carrier.

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — Farmers across the nation's breadbasket are sitting on mountains of grain because prices are too low.

More grain is on hand now than at any time since the early 1960s when the federal government bought much of it to keep prices from being too depressed.

But if the farmers feed the grain — particularly the corn — to their livestock, the result would be better beef and more of it.

The consumer isn't likely to run short of beef for the next few years, said Will Anthony, an agricultural economist at the University of Minnesota.

Two years ago, drought devastated crops. But back-to-back bumper crops have been harvested since then and farmers — bolstered by $3.7 billion in federal loans — are holding on to most of their grain, hoping prices will rise.

There are no statistics yet to tell exactly how much grain lies dormant in Midwest elevators.

The USDA estimated 4.7 billion bushels in storage as of Oct. 1 but those figures don't reflect the latest crops, including a record 6.9 billion bushel corn crop and a record 1.8 billion bushel soybean crop.

South Dakota alone this year produced 372 million bushels of corn, oats, wheat, barley, soybeans, sorghum and flax, agriculture department figures show.

There were 295.5 million bushels of grain stored as of Oct. 1, the department said, but that was before officials knew how much of the 165 million bushel corn crop would be held.

There's enough grain being stored in South Dakota now to fill a train stretching 763 miles from Pierre to Chicago.

"Increasingly, it will be the farmer who decides whether to put that grain on the market or feed it to his livestock. And we're already seeing sharp increases of grain-fed livestock," Anthony said.

"That should affect the beef market in 12 to 18 months."

At Holabird, S.D., snow-capped grain piles dot the fields around Wayne Peterson's farm.

In the Holabird area, perhaps a full year's harvest already crops most available grain elevators.

"When you figure all the costs — including a fair return on your investment, labor and land — grain costs more to produce than we get for it," said Peterson, a leader of the American Agriculture Movement, an organization that has been trying to get federal help for farmers.

The federal government is providing loans to store 1.8 billion bushels of grain, most of which is in a three-year reserve program that prohibits farmers from selling the grain until the loan must be repaid or until a target price is reached.

Grain prices, however, are well below the target. Reserve corn may be sold when it reaches $2.50 a bushel, but farmers are only being offered $1.80. Wheat is about 45 cents a bushel low.

Many farmers worry that the vast amount of grain must inevitably bring prices down when the three-year loans for the 1977 crop come due.

Farmers who are selling their crops often are having problems getting grain to market. There are not enough railroad cars. And many miles of track have been allowed to deteriorate beyond use.

Electric Jolt Called Beef Tenderizer

BELTSVILLE, Md. — Beef carcasses that have been given a shock treatment produce more tender meat than traditionally chilled carcasses, says Dr. H. Russell Cross, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Science and Education Administration (SEA).

Meat that has been electrically shocked can also be removed from the carcass in less than four hours, versus 16 to 24 hours for carcasses that are chilled in the traditional manner.

This can mean huge savings in labor, chilling costs, and storage space, and fresher meat for consumers. Meat that has received a shock treatment also has a brighter, more uniform color, says Cross, a research food technologist with SEA's Meat Research Laboratory here.

Cattle Futures Close Mostly Higher

By Reuters. Cattle futures closed 70 points higher to 7 lower on 23,204 contracts on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Expiring December paced the market after gaining 80 and losing 5.

January contracts were down 67 early, basis of delivery, with only distant February buyers in the close.

Early selling on the heavy beef stock market during November uncovered good commission house support as traders sought light cattle supply and firm prices.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at $1.72 to 60 cents a pound, L.o.b. river beef, which is the highest since July, was unchanged to up 50.

Angus Association Seeking Director

DENTON (Special) — Candidates for the position of executive director of the Angus Association of America are being interviewed, according to Jim Leachman, association president.

The association is searching for potential candidates for the position in being conducted by the board of directors, Leachman said. The association hopes to fill the vacancy by March 1, 1979, the effective resignation date of present director Mike Dent.

Those who have resigned to take a position with the American Angus Association.

Headquartered in Denton, the association is looking for a director who will provide a vision as the chief administrative officer of the organization, as well as assist in the areas of public relations, membership coordinator, convention planning and industry association.

Interested persons should write to the Angus Association of America, c/o Jim Leachman, P. O. Box 776, Denton, Tex. 76201. All correspondence should be marked "Confidential."

cents, with the best top $58 per hundredweight at Amarillo. There were 1,535 deliveries. Slaughter was 138,000 head. The major markets are expecting 9,600 head today.

Feeder cattle futures closed 40 higher to 25 lower on 2,569 contracts. November was up the most at the day's high with January pacing the nearby contracts lower. The break ran to 92 in March before rallying.

Prices fell to the lowest in two weeks in an extension of Tuesday's selling with easy tone to carcass beef bringing some pressure along with erosion of cash feeder-cattle prices.

Cash feeders were off $2 to up $3 with the best top $96 per hundredweight at Greeley. About 6,100 head are expected today at the major terminals.

Hog futures closed 67 lower to 45 higher on 6,593 cars. July was off the most after October slipped 92. February led the nearby contracts higher with expiration December gaining 40 early. The nearby contract settled at 53.12.

Early selling followed the negative implications of the cold storage report and heavy hog runs. Support was attracted on the scale-down as cattle futures rallied. Traders are looking for unchanged to five percent more hogs on farms.

Wholesale hams were off 3 to 4 cents at 82 to 83 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were off 50 to up 50 cents with the best top $52.50 per hundredweight at Omaha. Kill was 305,000 head. Receipts at the major markets today are expected to be 26,500 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed 85 to 117 lower led by March and May. The former was down the 200 limit level the second day in a row before stiffening.

Prices fell to the lowest since September, off 11 in the past two weeks, on aggressive commission house selling following the negative cold storage report and continued heavy pace of storings locally and out of town.

OSHA Eliminates 2,400 Work Safety Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's watchdog agency for workplace safety moved Wednesday to eliminate 2,400 mandatory fire safety regulations as the second step in its campaign to strip away "nit-picking" rules.

The Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) proposed an overhaul of its fire standards that would condense 400 pages of complex and detailed requirements into 10 pages.

"Nothing in this proposal weakens the protections available to workers," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said at a news conference. "All we have done is to make our rules clearer, simpler and more enforceable."

The changes were made to emphasize protection of workers rather than property, the agency said. In addition, the new rules would require only that employers have plans for guaranteeing protection of workers. Currently, the job safety agency spells out in fine detail how an employer is to provide adequate protection.

"OSHA is taking another major step forward by beginning a total rewrite of its fire safety standards," President Carter said in a statement released Wednesday. "When this job is done, employers will no longer be required to dot every 'i' and cross every 't' — no matter how unrelated to fire protection — of the 2,400 separate provisions spanning 400 pages."

Carter called the agency's new fire safety proposal "a victory in the battle against inflation; a victory for workers' safety; and a victory for lean, effective, streamlined government."

Last month, the agency eliminated 928 "nit-picking" rules that it said were unnecessary to protect workers on the job. One of the rules, for example, specified the design of toilet seat covers.

The agency's efforts to rewrite its regulations came in response to extensive and bitter criticism from the business community, which said it was being harassed into complying with costly rules that provided few if any benefits for employees.

Carter has pushed to eliminate regulations deemed unnecessary as part of his campaign to reduce government-caused inflation. In the future, the job safety agency plans to rewrite and simplify regulations dealing with electrical codes.

When approving a zone change for the property, the city council tied construction to a site plan which stipulated any buildings would be setback 100 feet from 74th Street.
Yeager will ask the ZBA to reduce that setback.
E. Reuel Nash, representing Lester Shaver and Ron Betenbough, will request a variance in the requirement that townhouses be constructed from street to street.
Nash wants permission to build townhouses three at a time beginning at the southwest corner of 66th Street and Salem Avenue.

Other ZBA requests include:
—Joyce Raines Lansford for a special exception to allow an attorney's office in a residence at 3405 19th St.
—Roger Loter, for La Fonda del Sol Restaurant, for a special exception to allow a dance floor in a restaurant at 50th Street and Salem Avenue.
—American Sign Indicator Corporation for West Texas Savings and Loan for a variance in the setback and size requirements for a sign at 3400 50th St.

—Chester A. Green, for Plains Cooperative Oil Mill, Inc., for a special exception to permit the construction of a water treatment facility east of Elm Avenue and north of the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad near 29th Street.

—Chester T. Dean for a special exception to add a garage to a legal non-conforming use at 6310 24th St.

Two Murder Convictions Overturned

AUSTIN (AP) — Two murder convictions — one connected with 1973 mass sex-torture slayings in Houston and the other with a sensational convict siege at the state prison in 1974 — were reversed by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in a surprise move Wednesday.

The court overturned convictions of Elmer Wayne Henley, a Pasadena high school dropout assessed six life terms in a case involving the killing of 27 youths, and Ignacio Cuevas, sentenced to death for the slaying of Julia Standley, one of two women hostages killed at the siege at Huntsville's downtown prison.

Henley's case has been ordered returned to San Antonio, where in 1974 he was found guilty of killing six youths in a trial moved from Houston on a change of venue.

The grisly, homosexual rape-torture murders unfolded in 1973 as one of the most sensational crimes of its kind in the nation's modern history. Henley was 18 at the time.

He was arrested after telephoning Pasadena police, telling them he had shot and killed Dean A. Corll, head of the homosexual torture ring. One teenage girl also told officers she had been strapped nude to a large board and tortured just before Corll was killed.

Over a period of days, Henley led officers to 27 bodies, all males, buried in a boat shed in Houston, on a beach near Galveston and in the East Texas pine forests north of Houston. Many of the young victims were from Henley's neighborhood.

Henley was denied due process, the appeals court ruled, when District Judge Preston H. Dial refused to allow him to present evidence in efforts to move the trial from San Antonio.

The appeals court said failure to allow that evidence "precluded a determination of the community attitude" toward Henley and "constituted a deprivation of due process."

In their decision, the justices also expressed "deep concern" over Henley's contention he was denied a fair trial when the court refused to sequester the jury and overruled his objection to placing newsmen within the bar.

The Cuevas case, which evolved from one of the nation's longest attempted prison break-outs in August 1974, was overturned because of the judge's refusal to grant a defense challenge to a prospective juror.

The high court returned the case to Walker County for retrial. Cuevas joined convict strongman Fred Gomez Carrasco and Rudolfo Dominguez in the seizure of the top floor of the educational building of the Walls Unit and the taking of several hostages on July 24, 1974.

In a tense melodrama, the trio threatened to murder the hostages and bargained on and off with prison officials for their release.

Authorities refused to budge, and the convicts, hiding behind a moveable shield with three hostages, tried an escape from the prison that ended in a hail of gunfire.

Carrasco, Dominguez and two hostages died in the fight with guards and Texas Rangers.

Cuevas, the lone survivor of the three inmates, was tried in Houston on a change of venue from Huntsville.

Prosecutors Stunned By Reversals

HOUSTON (AP) — Unexpected murder conviction reversals by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday sent shock waves rumbling through prosecutor's offices in Houston and Huntsville.

The state's highest criminal court ruled that Elmer Wayne Henley, convicted in the mass homosexual rape-torture slayings in Houston, and Ignacio Cuevas, sentenced to death for his alleged role in the sensational Carrasco prison siege in 1974, were denied fair trials.

Justices overturned the Henley case because the judge refused proper consideration of an effort to gain a second change of venue and move the trial out of San Antonio.

"I don't think holding a change of venue hearing would have changed the results or outcome at all," said Carol Vance, Harris County (Houston) district attorney.

"I am very disappointed the verdict was reversed and we will have to go through a very costly and expensive trial once again so many years from the date of the offense," said Vance.

"We are going to ask for a speedy trial and attempt to try the case at the earliest possible time," the prosecutor added. "Naturally, there may be some difficulty in putting all the pieces together on an offense that occurred 5 1/2 years ago and was tried 4 1/2 years ago."

Henley's attorney Will Gray said he wants "a new trial in Houston. After this length of time I believe we can get an unbiased jury."

Gray, also the defense attorney for Cuevas, said he was not surprised the conviction was overturned because a defense challenge of a juror was denied.

However, Walker County (Huntsville) District Attorney Mark Ward said "It was quite a shock. 'We'll have to read the opinion to see where we are. Most likely we will try the case again.'"

The disqualification of the juror was the key point of the appeal, said Gray.

Ward succeeded Jerry Sandel when Walker County was authorized its own district attorney. Sandel prosecuted the Cuevas case and is still district attorney for other counties adjacent to Walker.

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

Lear Gets 'Uncle Jake'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Meir Kahane, founder of the Jewish Defense League, and members of his Conference of Jewish Activists tethered a 30-pound piglet to television producer Norman Lear's door knob to protest Lear's contributions to the American Civil Liberties Union.

In awarding what he said would be the first in a series of "Uncle Jake" awards, Kahane declared Tuesday that his anger stems from the ACLU's defense of an American Nazi group's right to march earlier this year in Skokie, Ill.

Lear, whose company has produced such television shows as "All in the Family," "Maude," "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," and "Differnt Strokes," called the presentation "a great tribute and a great honor" and added he'll stick with the ACLU.

Franco's Daughter Fined

MADRID (UPI) — A Madrid court fined the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco's daughter $96,000 Wednesday for allegedly trying to smuggle medals and coins out of the country.

Maria del Carmen Franco, the Duquesa de Franco, was stopped by customs officials at Barajas Airport last April 7 when a metal detector registered the articles in her bag.

She later told a news conference she was on her way to spend the weekend in Switzerland with a friend and had taken the coins and medals with her to have them mounted and made into a clock as a present for her mother. They had been presents to Franco.

Crane Reports Royalties

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., the first major candidate for the 1980 presidential race, Wednesday released his 1977 tax returns. But the most interesting item wasn't in the donations or capital gains column.

It was a mere $14 entry under "miscellaneous income."

"Oh, that," said Crane with a laugh. "That's from a song I wrote years ago."

It turns out that the presidential hopeful penned the lyrics for Jimmy Dean's first hit in 1957, a Christmas tale called "Little Sandy Sleightfoot."

The $14 represents the Illinois Republican's 1977 royalties from the one-and-only song he wrote with a friend 21 years ago.

"It was a big hit. We sold 300,000 copies. Only 'Jingle Bell Rock' beat us that year," he says. "We even beat out Crosby's 'White Christmas.'"

In addition to the awesome $14 income on his lyric-writing career in 1977, Crane also earned $54,275 for representing his Illinois district in the House and $24,287 for speaking engagements.

Criticizes Marijuana Laws

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's Mary Tyler Moore says she's smoked marijuana and regards it as no more dangerous than her nightly before-dinner martini.

Her husband, Grant Tinker, quoted also in the January issue of Ladies' Home Journal, said he too has smoked pot and agrees with his wife that marijuana possession laws should be eased.

On using hard drugs, however, Miss Moore says:

"People who use drugs are not facing the reality of their problems, or of their lives in general. And that's sad."

"I guess I've always had a good outlook on my work and life in general, because I never tried to commit suicide; I never became an alcoholic; I never got into drugs and all those things that people who are intrinsically unhappy eventually go to."

Councilman Shuns Big Car

TUCSON (UPI) — City Councilman Thomas J. Volgy says he doesn't need any big, fancy car to drive at taxpayers' expense.

A used Volkswagen will do just fine, thank you.

Volgy has asked the city purchasing agent to see if a used Volkswagen can be found for him. Other council members drive Mercury Monarchs and Volgy even tried a smaller Mercury Capri for a while but it was not to his taste.

David Mackey, the city purchasing agent, said the city has never handled such a request and it posed some problems. For example, how do you evaluate bids on used cars?

However, Mackey said his department will work out the details and put it out to bid for local car dealers and, apparently, any private citizen who might want to part with his vehicle.

Special Gift Continues

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — For the third year in a row, Grover Cleveland has turned up in a Salvation Army kettle in the form of a $1,000 bill.

Capt. Oliver Michaels said he received a call Tuesday informing him that there was something special in the kettle outside a local bank.

"They told me 'you need to check the kettle at the First National Bank' and that's what a did. I'm not going to argue with anyone about that," he said.

The anonymous donation has been made for a number of years, but it was skipped in 1975.

Nixon Aide Haldeman Set Free

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP) — H.R. Haldeman, once a trusted aide of former President Richard Nixon, walked out of a federal prison on parole Wednesday, closing another chapter in the Watergate saga.

Only one more Watergate conspirator — former Attorney General John Mitchell — remains imprisoned. He is due for parole Jan. 19.

A codefendant convicted with Haldeman and Mitchell, former domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman, was paroled in April after serving 18 months.

Haldeman left the facility grinning and offering a cheerful "Merry Christmas," but had nothing to say about his former boss or the Watergate scandal.

"This is generally considered a special time of the year to rejoice. It sure is for me," Haldeman said in a brief statement to reporters.

"I'd like to share it with all the people — close friends and strangers — who expressed their support over the years with their letters, visits and prayers. I certainly appreciate every one of them."

"Now I'm on my way home, to rejoin my family and I wish you all a very merry Christmas."

Haldeman, clad in blue jeans and a khaki jacket, appeared tan, fit and much younger than his 52 years.

Haldeman ignored questions about the past and his plans for the future as he and his wife carried his belongings from the prison in two brown paper bags.

Three hours later, he arrived at his home in Los Angeles' Hancock Park section, 150 miles southeast of the Lompoc prison camp. He declined to talk to reporters, repeating virtually the same comments he had made outside the prison.

Haldeman, whose loyalty to Nixon turned to bitterness in the aftermath of Watergate, was convicted of conspiring to obstruct justice, obstructing justice and three counts of perjury.

His efforts to appeal his conviction failed, and he was imprisoned June 21, 1977. In prison, he worked as a lab chemist in a sewage treatment plant.

During Haldeman's term, attorneys sought to win an early release, saying imprisonment made him "useless to the world, a burden on society ... living a totally wasted life."

The federal parole board could have released him last June, but chose to extend his term six months beyond the minimum time required.

In prison, Haldeman completed a book, "The Ends of Power," which exposed the deep rift that had developed between him and Nixon. The book became a best seller and reportedly earned Haldeman at least $500,000.

Gaines Panel To Eye Suit Against Judge

SEMINOLE (Special) — A special session of the Gaines County grand jury today will investigate the state attorney general's office lawsuit against County Judge-elect Max Townsend.

Proceedings begin at 9 a.m. in the Gaines County Courthouse.

On Dec. 11, the state attorney general's office filed a lawsuit, seeking $5,478.20 in damages against Townsend for improper filing of campaign contribution and expenditure reports.

The former Seagraves teacher was cited with failure to provide names and addresses for some of the contributors to his campaign.

About a dozen individuals are expected to be subpoenaed for the grand jury session, including George Shering, Jr., of Seminole, who filed a lawsuit here in October requesting that Townsend's name be removed from the November general election ballot.

Sherling had contended that Townsend failed to submit his list of campaign contributions and expenditures as required by guidelines of the Texas Election Code. Judge George Hansard denied Shering's request.

Sherling later asked for an investigation into the matter by the state attorney general's office.

Townsend, scheduled to assume office Jan. 1, won a close election against incumbent Marcus Crow in the June runoff and survived a limited write-in campaign by Seminole Mayor, Bob Clark in the November general election.

LEVELLAND (Special) — A South Plains College committee has named seven young women to serve as Presidential Hostesses for the spring semester and the 1979-80 school year.

New Presidential Hostesses are Susan Cloude of Plainview, Susan Corkery of Whitharral, Nancy Herrin of Anton, Tammy Mullinax of Morton, Denise Phillips of Abernathy, Cindy Thompson of Lubbock and Pryncess Parkman of Maple.

Other members of the selection panel were: Darrell Grimes, dean of men; Judy Bryant, assistant director of student activities; Eddie Trice, dean of college relations; and Natalie Berryhill of Wellman, current Presidential Hostess.

The young women were chosen, following extensive interviews, on the basis of personality, poise and appearance, awareness of college and community life, ability to relate to and communicate with people, and maintenance of at least a 2.5 grade point average.

The sophomore class led the way in the door-to-door charity drive, the proceeds of which will be distributed to almost 900 residents, according to Bruce Hardison, director of the high school's student activities.

The students gathered 7,119 pounds of food last year.

DPS To Enlarge Childress Facility

By A-J Correspondent

CHILDRESS — The regional Department of Public Safety office here is adding an extra 1,800 square feet to its facility, making it possible to house all local DPS services under one roof.

The improvements, expected to cost $125,000, according to Sgt. Danny Smith, will permit the divisions of License and Weight, Texas Rangers and Drivers License to work in the same building as the Texas Highway Patrol.

The Childress DPS office serves five counties.

Hobbs School Election Slated Feb. 6

By A-J Correspondent

HOBBS, N.M. — Hobbs school officials have set Tuesday, Feb. 6, for an election to fill two positions on the city school board.

Board President Mrs. Pat Richards will retire while first-term member Bob Whitten, comes up for re-election.

In other business, the board voted to appeal a recent court decision awarding a 15-acre tract of land north of the city to the school district.

The board had filed a condemnation suit on the land and an additional 25 acres after a local developer outbid the school district for the land. The site is being considered as a possible home for future school buildings, said a school board spokesman.

Childress May Sell Lake Property

By A-J Correspondent

CHILDRESS — Mayor Walter Lockhoof has announced a proposal to sell thousands of acres of city property at Baylor and Childress lakes.

Lockhoof said revenue raised from the transaction would be spent on "priorities selected by the people of Childress."

The city would retain the rights-of-way to both lakes, permitting residents to continue using boat ramps and parking areas, according to city manager David Galligan, who said the city would conduct an opinion poll to determine how the money would be spent.

A city election must be held to approve the sale, said Lockhoof, who suggested that one could be held as soon as April 1979.

COMPETE STOCKS OF NYSE & AMEX

Start In New Small Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market eked out its second small gain in a row Wednesday, with two prominent blue chips — International Business Machines and American Telephone & Telegraph — showing the way.

Gainers outpaced losers by about a 5-4 margin in the daily tally of the New York Stock Exchange.

And the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials chalked up a 3.81 advance to 793.66 on top of a 3.41-point gain Tuesday.

After a sharp decline Monday that dealt the Dow Jones industrial average a 17.84-point setback, the market got a lift Tuesday from IBM's stock split and a planned 4-for-1 stock split and a dividend increase.

The split was expected to encourage a broader market for the shares of IBM, which ranks among the most prominent blue-chip names in the NYSE list.

Dickey Ignites Aggies Past Iowa State 28-12

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Junior speedster Curtis Dickey raced for 276 yards on 34 carries Wednesday night and led Texas A&M to a 28-12 victory over Iowa State in the Hall of Fame Bowl.

Dickey, a 205-pound tailback, scored the icing touchdown on a 19-yard run with 9:02 remaining, giving the Aggies a 21-12 lead.

The Southwest Conference team, finishing the year at 8-4, added another touchdown with about five minutes remaining on a 5-yard run by Adger Armstrong after Doug Teague had recovered a fumbled punt on the previous play.

Dickey had a 54-yard run wasted in the opening quarter when the Aggies stalled and ace kicker Tony Franklin was wide on a 35-yard field goal try into a brisk wind.

The defeat snapped a four-game winning streak for the Cyclones, who entered the post-season event on the heels of a third straight 8-3 season.

Iowa State played without 10 of its players because of academic ineligibility. That group included two defensive starters.

A&M's other scoring came on a 1-yard run by David Brothers and 4-yard pass from Mike Mosley to Gerald Carter.

Dexter Green, Iowa State's all-time rushing king, scored the Cyclone touchdowns on a 28-yard run and a 5-yard pass from Walter Grant.

Green finished with 148 yards on 21 carries to pace the Iowa State attack.

Dickey, named the outstanding player in the game, had three other runs of more than 20 yards besides his 54-yard scamper in the opening quarter.

Iowa State opened the scoring by driving 62 yards in eight plays with the Grant-to-Green touchdown pass that came with 12:34 remaining in the second quarter.

Grant completed two other passes for 29 and 14 yards and Green had a 29-yard run on a draw play. However, Steve Johnson missed the extra point.

Dickey gained 57 yards on five carries as the Aggies marched to the tying touchdown with 7:38 left in the half. Brothers went the final yard on the 58-yard drive and Franklin put the Aggies ahead for good with his extra point.

The Aggies moved 72 yards in the final 1:14 of the half to score on Mosley's short pass to Carter. Dickey had a 35-yard run in that drive and Mosley accounted for the rest of the yardage, including an 18-yard run.

The Cyclones had the longest drive of the night, 96 yards, in the third quarter. The drive ended on Green's 28-yard run on a fourth-and-two situation.

A&M's Carl Grulich intercepted Grant's pass attempt for a two-point conversion.

IT WAS A brilliant stroke of thinking on the part of someone, almost as striking as when that guy touched a burned pig, stuck his finger in his mouth to cool it and came up with the first pork roast.

Since some football stadiums are made in the shape of bowls, and since we need some big stadium to hold a post-season game, why not just call the game a bowl? So... Ta-DAH...

The first holiday extravaganza. The answer to what to do on New Year's Day after the first effects of New Year's Eve has worn off and the black-eyed peas have been consumed.

It was another reason to charter a train and head south for warmer climes — and before the discovery of Fort Lauderdale's beckoning beaches. A way to relieve the tensions of a fall of study and classwork. And just one more reason for Old Grad to dig blazer out of the closet and trade a yelling good time for a sore throat.

Thing is, one good bowl deserved another... and another... and...

JUST AS THE name at first followed the thought train about circular stadiums, now, the bowls have taken on a different definition.

Now, they're just like cereals: There are so many to choose from, you never know whether you're getting nourishment or sugar-coating.

What once was a game of the Big Four and then the Sun and Gator, there now are so many games spotted about, one has trouble keeping them all straight. Is it the Liberty in Philadelphia or Memphis — or Mobile? The Fiesta, in Tampa or Nogales? Is it the Astro Bowl in the Dome, or the Bluebonnet Bowl in Rice's bowl-shaped stadium?

The Holiday Bowl: Is that a game or an TV sitcom?

An overabundance of such games has meant some of them have to do without TV exposure-money, or at least the network type. Thus, some are falling, or in danger of doing so.

It's all money. Money and glossy records. Like the chicken and the egg, you need money to lure teams with shiny records, and you need teams with nine or so wins to attract the crowds and TV contract, which produce the money to get the good teams, which are looking for good money, which...

Fairbanks Agrees To Guide Patriots Through Playoffs

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Suspended New England Coach Chuck Fairbanks and Patriots officials agreed Wednesday that the National Football League mentor will lead the team through the playoffs and then depart for the University of Colorado.

"I've fulfilled the job I came here to do," said Fairbanks, who had been suspended by Patriots owner William H. Sullivan Jr. for accepting the Colorado job.

Fairbanks, however, had his suspension lifted when he sent a telegram to Colorado saying he was "not in a position at this time to engage in any further negotiations."

Sullivan said the team and Fairbanks' lawyer, John C. Russell, will negotiate an agreement on the remaining four years of Fairbanks' $150,000 NFL contract.

Emerging from three days of hiding, a solemn and weary Fairbanks told reporters, "I wanted to get back to the college atmosphere. The circle of friends is different. It's a different game."

The Patriots will play either Denver or Houston Dec. 31 in the American Conference semifinals after having clinched the AFC East title, capping Fairbanks' six-year pro career.

"We are delighted that Chuck Fairbanks is going to be the coach of the New England Patriots in the playoffs and hopefully the Super Bowl," said Colorado Athletic Director Eddie Crowder. "At the conclusion of the Patriots' post-season endeavors, he will be the University of Colorado's football coach."

The tangle developed Monday when Sullivan suspended Fairbanks hours before a nationally televised game against the Dolphins in Miami. Two Patriots assistants, Ron Erhardt and Hank Bulough, were put in charge.

Sullivan said Wednesday the search for a new, permanent New England coach will begin after the playoffs.

The telegram sent by Fairbanks to Crowder was the move that cleared the way for Fairbanks to return to the NFL team temporarily, as many veterans on the squad desired.

The coach, however, made it clear, "I have not rejected the offer from Colorado." He simply told the school he cannot now sign a contract.

"We will be happy to have him (Fairbanks) back here to get the team ready

Redskins Criticize Allen's 'Second-Guessing'

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Allen was fired by the Washington Redskins a little less than one year ago. He hasn't been forgotten, especially by the general manager who replaced him, Bobby Beathard.

Recently, Beathard has attacked Allen for comments he made about the Redskins while analyzing games on television. Allen replied readily.

Earlier this week, Beathard told the Washington Post's Leonard Shapiro that he has not been pleased "to have George Allen constantly second-guess us. He has done everything he can to screw up the Redskins."

"I think he's taken advantage of his position not being in coaching this year. Nobody's asked for his advice, but he certainly didn't hesitate to give it, and I don't think what he's done is very fair. It's unbelievable a guy would be so small as to say some of the things he said."

"He's always second-guessing: 'I would have done this, I wouldn't have gotten rid of this guy.' It doesn't mean his team would have been any better. He wasn't here to coach it, so why knock everything."

"But I have a feeling he enjoys doing it. He had his chance to do something with the Rams and he didn't do it. I don't even know if he'll get another opportunity.

"I don't believe in George Allen's philosophy. You may do well for a while, but it doesn't last. That's obvious. It's time to start building here because it got to the end of the line. Everybody around the league knew that. The only people who don't like to admit it are George Allen and some of his older players."

Beathard, without amplifying, said it probably would be in the Redskins' best interest for Allen to land another coach-general manager's job with another team.

He obviously believes Allen would want to trade the Redskins for some of the older players. And he would be correct in his thinking.

Allen told the Post that if he returns to the NFL as a coach next year, veteran quarterback Bill Kilmer and the rest of the Redskins' "Over the Hill Gang" would be high on his shopping list.

"I'd be interested in (Ron) McDole, Kilmer, (Diron) Talbert, Jake Scott, Harold McLinton, Mike Curtis, Kenny Houston, Terry Hermeling, Ted Fritsch. I'd even be interested in Lenny Hauss and Rusty Tillman."

Hauss and Tillman were released before the 1978 season by the Redskins.

"It seems to me that Beathard is going out of his way to link me to the Redskins' problems and frustrations," said Allen who was hired and then fired by the Los Angeles Rams after he left Washington. "I am not responsible for the troubles and I don't want to get in any further quarrels with Washington. That's all I want to say about it."

That wasn't the end, however. Later, in a 20-minute telephone interview with the Post, he said:

"Beathard inherited a tremendous organization. He inherited great players who have character. He inherited winners. And he inherited the best facilities in the NFL. And look what they did with it"

The Redskins finished the season with an 8-8 record, the first season with eight losses since 1970, the year before Allen arrived.

In compiling the 8-8 record, the Redskins opened the season with six consecutive wins, then lost eight of 10 games, including their last five.

Giants Frustrated With Many Changes

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP)—It was The Fumble game that cost New York Giants coach John McVay his job. But it was an early season loss to Atlanta that ruined the Giants season, says center Jim Clack.

"Our biggest game was Atlanta, we should have won and kept on winning," Clack said. "It was the turning point of the season. We had the game within our grasp."

The Giants dropped a 23-20 game to the Falcons in the fifth week of the season after opening a quick 14-0 lead. A victory would have improved New York's record to 4-1, but a late fourth quarter touchdown by Atlanta took care of that. New York finished the season 6-10.

"If we won, the whole season would have been a lot different," Clack noted. "I still think the Giants are a good football team."

Clack was a key member of the Pittsburgh Steelers two Super Bowl teams, and he was also with the Steelers when they suffered through the lean years.

"Things started to turn around in 1972. That year we beat Kansas City and Minnesota, games we were not supposed to win. It proved to us we could play with playoff contenders," Clack said.

Clack didn't draw any direct comparisons between the pre-Super Bowl Steelers and the Giants, but said, with a little luck, 1978 could have been the Giants year.

"If a couple of games went the other way, close games we lost in the last minute or two, it could have been a heckuva season," he claimed. "I'm proud of this team. We didn't quit."

"But I'd be lying if I said this wasn't the most frustrating thing in my life," Clack added. "Not just the losing, but the way we lost. If we were getting blown out, it would be a different story. But we were in every game, that's the most frustrating thing."

Clack came to the Giants in an off-season deal for John Hicks. He had a fine year, shifting from guard to center, and learning a new system in the process.

Hubbard Remains At FAMU

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Florida A&M football Coach Rudy Hubbard, fresh from a NCAA championship victory, rebuffed overtures from other colleges Wednesday and announced he'll stay on as head coach of the Rattlers for at least another year.

Hubbard told a news conference here that he intends to sign a $39,000, one-year contract with the predominantly black university that includes a four-year letter of intent. Since 1974, Hubbard has worked under one-year contracts for FAMU.

"I've decided to stay on as head football coach at Florida A&M because of the football players we've had, the coaching staff and the potential at Florida A&M is unlimited," Hubbard said.

He added that he was taking himself out of the running for the coaching job at Wichita State University. He also had been interviewed for the coaching job at the University of Minnesota.

"I think my position at Florida A&M has been to build a program second to none. I don't think we've reached that point. I'd like to one day have a program other people are as high on as I am."

Hubbard, whose ideas on the football program have clashed in the past with the college's administration, said FAMU President Walter Smith has promised to give him more authority over football program decisions.

"My problem has been long-range programming as far as facilities and how far we can go with the program," Hubbard said. "The football program didn't have much clout. That won't happen any more."

A former Ohio State star running back, Hubbard served as an assistant coach to Woody Hayes from 1968 until 1974, when he took over the faltering FAMU program.

His first team was 6-5-0, the Rattlers' first winning season in four years, and he's followed with seasons of 9-2-0, 6-3-2, 11-0-0 and 12-1-0.

Struggling Celtics Try To Regain Old Magic

An AP Sports Analysis
Thirteen championship banners hang from the rafters of Boston Garden, state-ly reminders of past glories achieved on that famous parquet floor.

But the once-mighty Boston Celtics have fallen on hard times, and owner John Y. Brown, president Red Auerbach and player-coach Dave Cowens are struggling to put the pieces back together.

It's not going to be easy. Jo White, one of the last links to the Celtics' proud past, is sulking on the bench and has publicly blasted management. Newly acquired talents like Marvin Barnes, Tiny Archibald and Billy Knight have shown only glimpses of their past stardom.

The precision teamwork that was so much a part of the Celtics' success is al-here," White said after the meeting. "I have been humiliated, I have been embarrassed, I have been demeaned and I have had it."

Among the rumors making the rounds in Boston is that the Celtics are hoping to deal White to Houston for veteran guard Mike Newlin. There also have been trade rumors involving Knight and Archibald.

However, regardless of what trades are made, the key to the Celtics' success is Cowens, the All-Star center who took over the coaching duties five weeks ago when Satch Sanders was fired after the team staggered to a 2-12 start. Sanders had replaced Tommy Heinsohn in the middle of last season, when the club was on its way to a 32-50 record, its worst ever.

"Dave is learning all the time," Auerbach said. "He's a very intelligent kid player, not a player-coach," said Auerbach. "You can't have a player-coach on the floor because he'd be so busy watching what everybody else is doing, his game would suffer immensely."

"Dave's an aggressive, inspirational player, but no man is a superhero."

Following a 105-101 loss to Kansas City last Friday night, Cowens huddled with Auerbach for an impromptu strategy session in the Celtics' locker room. After 20 minutes, Cowens opened the door and newsmen slowly filed toward the coach's cubicle.

"These are the kind that really hurt me because we could have won and we let it get away," Cowens said softly. "We got our shots, I got my shots, and I missed them. I feel so responsible."

"It's a difficult transition," Auerbach said. "Dave knows that after a game, no matter how tired or emotionally drained or physically worn out he is, he's got to pump himself up and talk to the press—win or lose. (Bill Russell also had that problem.)" most nonexistent. And that is understandable, since the players are virtual strangers: eight of the 11 men on the roster have joined the team within the past 18 months.

“We’ve got a lot of talent but I don’t think the players have properly complemented each other,” said Brown, who along with Harry Mangurian, gained control of the Celtics in last summer’s franchise swap that saw Irv Levin take over Buffalo and move that club to San Diego.

“I think we’ll probably have to make a few moves to get the kind of talent that does complement each other.”

One of those moves may involve White, the guard who has been an All-Star in seven of his nine National Basketball Association seasons. White’s playing time has decreased dramatically this season and he is now the Celtics’ fourth guard—and not happy about it.

White met with Brown and Auerbach last Friday in an effort to bring his situation to a head.

and he loves challenges.”

And, added Auerbach, nobody can motivate Cowens the player better than Cowens the coach. In recent games, the 30-year-old center has played with much of his old intensity, especially under the boards, in an attempt to set an aggressive example for the other Celtics.

As for coaching, Cowens still is experimenting, trying various lineups in hopes of finding the right combination.

“I think we’re fortunate to have K.C. Jones and Bob MacKinnon to work the bench for him,” said Auerbach of the Celtics’ assistant coaches, who make the actual coaching moves during games.

Cowens handles the team during practices and in game preparation.

“The major problem I’ve tried to get across to Dave is that he must have supreme confidence in those two guys so that when he’s on the court he becomes a

Johnson broke open a tight game by pouring in six straight points midway through the second half as the Bears raised their record to 5-3.

Mike Ray topped Texas Wesleyan's scoring with 23 points and Carl Webb added 17.

Terry Teagle and Pantley followed Johnson by chalking up 14 points each.

Kenneth Williams' 24 points and a sticky pressing defense paced the Houston Cougars to an 89-79 non-conference basketball win over Pan American here Wednesday night.

The win boosted Houston's record to 5-2 and dropped the Broncs to 3-4. The loss was also Pan Am's first home defeat in 20 games.

Williams' hot outside shooting was backed by 16 points each from guard Ken Ciulli and substitute Chuck O'Neal.

Pan Am was topped by forward Danny Salisbery with 25 and guard Billy Bailey who connected for 22.

Craig Ehlo Tabbed Top Cager Of Week

Craig Ehlo, the versatile Monterey guard who hit 18 points to lead the Plainsmen to a win over Morton and 18 in a victory over Estacado Tuesday night, has been honored as the Avalanche's high school basketball player of the week.

Also nominated were Wayne Williams of Dunbar, Coronado's Steve Ahlenius, and Tim Perrin of Lubbock Christian High.

Copping the girl's weekly honor was Gena Jeffreys, a sophomore from Lubbock Christian High. Miss Jeffreys led the Eagles in scoring this past week, hitting 15 of 30 shots from the field and pulling down 18 rebounds the past two games.

Lisa Cavell of Dunbar, an all-tournament selectee at Plainview a couple of weeks ago, was also cited by local coaches.

Prior to the start of the season, Monterey coach Joechalka went as far as to call Ehlo, "one of the top players in this part of the country."

So far, Ehlo hasn't disappointed his coach.

During the past 14 games, Ehlo has hit 99 of 188 shots from the field and 58 of 79 free tosses, totaling 256 points. He has also pulled down 122 rebounds.

Perrin, named to the all-tournament team at the Reese tournament, is LCHS' leading scorer, averaging 17 points an outing. He has also pulled down 88 rebounds and dealt out 45 assists.

Williams continues to carry the scoring load for Dunbar. Over the past three games, the 5-9 guard has bucketed 56 points and handed out 16 assists.

Leading the Ponies in scoring is Ahlenius with points. Ahlenius also leads the team in rebounding with 126.

Honored from Christ The King, was Randy Kitten. Kitten has been one of the city's most productive rebounders during the past week, pulling down 39 cars. He also scored 57 points in four games.

Pastorini Listed Questionable

HOUSTON (UPI) — Quarterback Dan Pastorini Wednesday appeared to be in worse shape than "questionable" for the Houston Oilers wildcard playoff game against Miami this weekend.

Questionable, with a 50-50 chance of playing, was the status afforded the key offensive player five days before the team was to play the Miami Dolphins. But Pastorini limped around the practice field wearing a knee brace, and he spent considerable time in the training room.

"I don't know whether I'll be able to play Sunday," he said. "Right now it's questionable, and it may go up to game time questionable."

Oilers coach Bum Phillips said an examination of the quarterback's sore right knee by doctors Thursday could determine his availability.

If he cannot play, Houston would start rookie Gifford Nielsen at quarterback and back him up with untested Tommy Duniven.

"I feel like it would be a tremendous opportunity," Nielsen said. "I would want to jump on this opportunity just like it did in Dallas."

He played the entire preseason game in a victory over the Cowboys in September, but in regular season Nielsen's only exposure was in the fourth quarter of Sunday's 45-24 loss to San Diego. Pastorini had played every offensive down in the 15 previous regular-season games.

"I'm not real tickled to death right now," he said.

Pastorini was injured when he was forced to run, after halfback Earl Campbell missed an audible.

"I turned to run and when I cut back, I got into the knee from both sides," Pastorini said. "The leg got caught up beneath me, and it snapped."

He said a special knee brace was being built for Sunday's game, the first playoff game for Houston since 1969. Pastorini was drafted by the Oilers in 1971.

Starting fanker Rich Caster was listed by the team as "doubtful" with a pulled groin muscle. He has not played in three weeks, and Houston has not used a "doubtful" player this year.

Offensive left guard George Reihner and starting cornerback Greg Sternick probably will play, the team said.

Holtz, Hogs Eye Fiesta Bowl

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The University of Arkansas isn't as well prepared as it should be for its Fiesta Bowl meeting with UCLA on Christmas Day, according to Coach Lou Holtz.

"We just haven't been able to prepare the way I would like," Holtz told a news conference in suburban Scottsdale shortly after the Razorbacks arrived in Arizona on Wednesday.

He noted that final examinations, along with poor weather conditions the past few weeks, have hampered practices. In addition, he said the coaching staff has been scattered around the country on recruiting trips.

"We just haven't had a good practice session since the end of the season," said Holtz, whose Razorbacks have a 9-2 record.

To make matters worse, Holtz said preparing for UCLA's 8-3 Bruins is extremely difficult.

"They run a multiple defensive scheme," said Holtz. "We think we can anticipate what we're going to get on defense, but on offense I don't know."

"Terry Donahue is always been a veer offensive coach. This year he went to the I. But I personally believe that they will go to the veer."

"I think they will change their offense a great deal."

Meanwhile, Holtz said his Razorbacks, which normally shy away from the pass, "will throw the ball more than any time in the season."

"I don't know how well we'll play in the Fiesta Bowl," said Holtz. "But I will tell you this, the last three games of the season were the finest I've ever been associated with. We could have beaten anybody."

Meanwhile, Holtz said he's still not sure whether starting quarterback Ron Calcagni will be able to play against the Bruins.

Calcagni suffered a knee injury during practice and has missed practices the past week. The doctors have given their okay for him to play, but Holtz said it will depend on how painful the injury is.

But if Calcagni can't play, Holtz said he is confident that backup Kevin Scanlon will turn in a good performance.

The Razorbacks will conduct closed practices at Shadow Mountain High School through Sunday.

UCLA's football team was scheduled to arrive at midnight Wednesday.

Kickoff for the Fiesta Bowl is set for 1:30 p.m. MST on Monday at Sun Devil Stadium in neighboring Tempe. The stadium holds just over 70,000 but bowl officials have said they don't expect a sellout for the nationally-televised contest.

Fairbanks Comes Back

for the biggest chapter in the history of the Patriots," said Sullivan.

"It is my utmost concern that the club have its best chance to be successful in the playoffs," Fairbanks said. "I'm pleased to have the opportunity to coach during the playoffs."

The agreement enabling Fairbanks to return was negotiated by his lawyer, John C. Russell and Chuck Sullivan, a lawyer and son of the Patriots' owner, in New York.

"I think we have a chance for a championship," said the elder Sullivan, "and I was concerned that the absence of this man could hurt us."

Fairbanks denied that one reason he accepted the Colorado job on a verbal basis initially was to begin immediate recruiting.

"It's never been my intention to be actively involved in recruiting at this time," he said. "It's not an ego thing with me. We've had a great deal of turmoil. I hope I can bring it together. One of my fondest ambitions is to bring a championship to New England."

The agreement between Fairbanks and the Sullivan's apparently ended a topsy-turvy episode that began with the coach denying he would take the Colorado job, then telling Sullivan he had accepted it early this week.

Asked why he had denied as recently as last Sunday the persistent reports he had been offered the Colorado job, Fairbanks said: "My statements were not entirely correct. I was placed in a position where there was nothing I could say at that time. I should have made no comment. I regret making the statements."

Later he said: "I came here to find out if I could be successful as a professional coach. It was not necessarily a case of money. I was making (at Oklahoma) somewhere in the neighborhood of what I am now."

"Whatever happens from here on in, I know in my own mind that I can be successful coaching at this level. Before the last game (a 23-3 loss at Miami Monday

NBA ROUNDUP

Boston Dumps Indiana

By The Associated Press

Chris Ford scored 32 points and Marvin Barnes added 22—season highs for both—to lead the Boston Celtics to a 121-105 National Basketball Association victory over the Indiana Pacers Wednesday night.

Ford scored 15 points in the first period to propel the winners to a 29-25 lead after the first 15 minutes.

Holding a 91-77 advantage after three quarters, Boston drew away in the fourth.

The Hawks outscored New York 11-2 in the opening minutes of the third quarter, and were up 75-57 with 9:17 left. Going into the final period of play, Atlanta led 97-83.

Mike Newlin scored 16 points, 14 in the fourth quarter, to lead the Houston Rockets to a 108-105 National Basketball Association victory Wednesday night over the New Jersey Nets.

Newlin, who did not enter the game until the middle of the third quarter, hit on all 12 of his fourth-quarter free-throw attempts as the Rockets—the best free-throw shooting team in the NBA—connected on 22 of 25 foul shots in the fourth quarter.

The Rockets held a 94-93 lead entering the final quarter after holding a 45-41 lead at the half. Houston took the lead for good at 84-82 midway through the fourth quarter on a pair of foul shots by Robert Reid.

Houston scored 34 points in the last quarter, 22 of those coming on foul shots.

The Nets were led by John Williamson's 32 points. Bernard King, the Nets' second-year forward, arrested Monday on charges of cocaine possession, driving while intoxicated, and driving without a license, scored 29 points.

John Drew scored a season high 44 points to lead the Atlanta Hawks to a 121-112 victory over the New York Knicks in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday.

The victory, the first for Atlanta following two losses, snapped a three-game Knicks winning streak and dropped New York's record to 16-17.

Atlanta, now 16-15, opened the game with an offensive explosion, outscoring New York 14-2 before the Knicks got their first field goal with 7:14 left in the period.

Atlanta extended its lead, thanks in part to six New York turnovers, to 24-4 with 5:30 left in the first quarter. But the Knicks came back to close out the quarter trailing the Hawks 36-22.

Atlanta held a 64-55 halftime advantage. Free throws kept the first half margin from being even greater, as New York went 23 for 35 from the line. Atlanta was 8 for 8.

Nicklaus Gets Sportsman Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Nicklaus' major victories in golf have spanned the 20-year period which started with a duffer in the White House and now has a jogger there. But no matter who has occupied the Oval Office, Nicklaus has been King of the Links.

For 20 years of excellence, and not particularly for his 1978 achievements, Sports Illustrated has crowned Nicklaus Sportsman of the Year.

"It was a complete surprise this year," Nicklaus said Wednesday at a news conference toasting his award. "I've had better years — 1972 and '75 were exceptional — but this is more of a cumulation."

Nicklaus has won more major tournaments than any golfer in history. Beginning with his U.S. Amateur title in 1959 (when President Eisenhower ruled the fairways of Washington), Nicklaus has won 17 major titles.

His major tournament victories include: the U.S. Amateur in 1959 and 1961; the Masters in 1963, 1966, 1967 and 1975; the U.S. Open in 1962, 1967 and 1972; the PGA in 1963, 1971, 1973 and 1975, and the British Open in 1966, 1970 and 1978.

Nicklaus gauges his years in terms of winning the major titles, so 1978 wasn't bad because he won the British Open at historic St. Andrews in Scotland. He also won the Australian Open and three PGA tour titles.

The golfing-sophisticated Scots applauded Nicklaus' greatness by showering him with a thunderous ovation as he headed up the 18th fairway at St. Andrews in the final round of the British Open.

"A man is lucky if he can have that kind of moment once in his life. I've been fortunate to have it twice. The other time was also in Scotland in 1972. It hits you right in the middle," said Nicklaus, tapping his chest.

Nicklaus, 38, thinks he can continue winning major tournaments for several more years. He plans to cut back his schedule even more in 1979, playing February to August in the major tournaments and the ones he uses as preparation for the majors.

"Ability-wise, I'm a better golfer than I ever was. The only question is whether, mentally, I can sacrifice and give up things so I can continue to win on the level I've won."

Nicklaus likened himself to Muhammad Ali, another Sports Illustrated Sportsman of the Year who has dominated his sport for nearly 20 years.

"When Ali lost some of his skills, he could still win with his head. I can win now by knowing how to win. I'm a few years away from having to totally use my head because I still have the knockout punch. I can still hit the long ball," said Nicklaus.

Nicklaus said that knowing how to win was a key to his rapid rise in professional golf. An all-around athlete growing up in Ohio, who could have played basketball at Ohio State during the school's championship years 20 years ago, Nicklaus grew to his current height of 5-foot-11 at the age of 13.

"That meant I got over my gangly period early and I played better as a kid. I didn't have to go through the learning process of winning. By the time I turned pro, I knew I could win."

Purdue's Young Eyes Rose Bowl

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Coach Jim Young of Purdue is looking past the Boilermakers Christmas Day Peach Bowl battle with Georgia Tech in hopes of building a team that can go to the Rose Bowl next year.

Young, who guided the Boilermakers to an 8-2-1 mark during the regular season, doesn't anticipate a squad with many freshmen.

"With so many players returning I doubt that we will have too many freshmen play for us next year," said Young, as the Boilermakers completed preparations for Thursday's trip to Atlanta for the Peach Bowl.

The success of the Boilermakers, who were in contention for the Rose Bowl until late in the season, should help recruiting, said Young.

"It's too early to say anything definite," Young said. "But the reception has been good. The winning record and bowl game are a plus."

A victory and a strong showing in the nationally televised game would be another plus for Young, who plans on handing out 25 scholarships to newcomers.

To achieve that victory, the Boilermakers' defense will have to contain running back Eddie Lee Ivery. The 200-pounder rushed for 1,562 yards during a campaign that produced a 7-4 record.

"He's a good one," Young said. Wallace Jones, who rushed for 103 yards in 26 carries as Purdue defeated Indiana in its regular-season finale after recording only three carries in the club's first 10 games, will be one of three running backs Young plans to use.

"When we started practice, Jones just did not seem to be ahead of the other, running backs," said Young in answer to a question about the limited use of the freshman.

Jones was pressed into service when sophomore tailback John Macon pulled up lame early against Indiana.

"He'll play against Georgia Tech," Young said, who is expected to start Macon and fullback Mike Augustyniak in the backfield with quarterback Mark Herrmann.

Herrmann, who is well on his way toward becoming the Big Ten's all-time leader in pass statistics, completed 140 of 250 passes for 1,738 yards as a sophomore. Twelve of his passes resulted in touchdowns.

"We've had a good season and a victory in the Peach Bowl would be a good way to start working toward an even better season in 1979," said Herrmann.

Nolan, Michaels Coach Bowl Game

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Head coaches Walt Michaels of the New York Jets and Dick Nolan of the New Orleans Saints have been chosen to coach in the 30th Senior Bowl football game Jan. 13, Senior Bowl officials announced Wednesday.

Michaels, whose club posted an 8-8 record this year, will coach the North squad. Nolan, whose Saints posted their most victories ever in this year's 7-9 campaign, will lead the South.

The Jets and Saints staffs will assist in North-South preparations.

With the announcement, Nolan said of the Senior Bowl, "I've played there (1954) and coached there (1975) and I'm looking forward to going back."

Michaels joined Nolan in commenting that the roster of 66 college seniors picked to play in the game includes a number who should be professional stars in the future.

The North squad includes quarterbacks Steve Dils of Stanford and Ed Smith of Michigan State and Oklahoma's Outland-award winning lineman Greg Roberts.

Lockney Edges Littlefield

Eddie Elms scored 20 points as Littlefield edged Lockney 65-63 in a boys basketball game. Arnold Alaniz paced the Lockney scoring attack with 16.

In other boys games, Snyder beat Big Spring and Andrews defeated Odessa High.

Greg Hinton and Brad Richardson paced the Snyder scoring effort with 23 and 22 points respectively to lift Snyder past Big Spring 81-75. Big Spring's Mark Poss led all scorers with 27 points, while Wilbert Groat had 21. Snyder stands 16-4 on the year.

Lance McCain pumped in 32 points as Andrews defeated Odessa High 66-57. Andrews is now 14-2.

Rebecca Evans had 12 points as Lockney tripped Littlefield 35-24 in a girls basketball game. Wanda William hit nine points for Littlefield.

Estacado's Harris Rebounds From Heart Problem To Play

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Craig Harris comes up as a topic of conversation among Lubbock high school basketball fans about as often as the king of Morocco does. So, to briefly fill you in, Harris plays forward for the Estacado Matadors. He's listed as second string on the Matadors depth chart. So what makes him worth writing about?

Well, Harris probably will go down in the basketball record books as making the greatest rebound in the city of Lubbock's history—rebounding from a heart condition in less than a year.
Last year, at the city track meet on April 1, Harris began to feel sick prior to running an event. So, he decided to take a nap and when he awoke, Harris felt worse. Thus, after a consultation with trainer Bob Ramos, Harris was taken to St. Mary's hospital. Harris remained in the hospital until a day after his birthday on Aug. 15.

"Craig had a congenital heart defect," said trainer Ramos. "His problem was that some of his heart muscles had slowed down. In fact, he almost died twice."
Harris distinctly remembers his hospital tenure and the memories aren't pleasant.
"I felt sorry for myself," recalled Harris. "That was about the hardest thing mentally to overcome."
But for a birthday gift, the 6-1 Matador forward restored his presence of mind and began strengthening his body.
"Besides taking medication, I ran from my house (a mile and a half from Estacado) and changed my diet," said Harris. "I ate two ounces of meat and drank skim milk."
Harris' conditioning paid dividends as he strengthened his heart enough to pass the physical by the time school started this year.
"We were really shocked that Craig could play this year," said Matador coach J J Wood. "In fact, we had already scratched him out of our plans."
When Harris returned for workouts his senior year, the Matador forward said the biggest problem he had to fight was getting his teammates not to feel sorry for him.
"My teammates have really been an inspiration to me," said Harris. "They're always telling me not to work too hard. But besides that everybody treats me now as if it never happened—except my mother."
At first during workouts, Harris couldn't run bleachers, a fast break and couldn't jump.
"The heart condition effected my jumping most of all," said Harris. "I just can't jump as high as I used to."
How high was that?
"I don't know," replied Wood. "But I tell you one thing, Craig is only 6-1 and can still dunk the ball."

Harris feels he can regain his old form in time and right now is the most enthused when practices are called.
"Besides my jumping ability, the layoff also rusted my shooting ability," commented Harris. "Actually, I just need work on the basics."
And how does a basketball mentor coach a player with a heart condition?
"Actually, I don't make any special concessions," said Wood. "We don't make any changes in our practice routines because of Craig. What I let Craig do, however, is coach his own physical stamina."
Though, Harris' heart has healed enough to pass the physical, Harris admits he's not 100 percent yet.
"When I exert myself for too long of time, I'll get a heart pain," said Harris. "I'll stop, take a deep breath and it'll go away."
As a safeguard, Ramos also keeps his eyes on Harris during a game.
"I can tell by monitoring his movements how he's doing," said Ramos. "I've watched him long enough now to tell coach Wood if he's getting tired and should be taken out."
It's a good thing for Wood that someone knows how Harris is feeling. That's because Harris will never admit that he's tired.
"Everytime I ask him, Craig says he's feeling fine," said Wood. "In fact, he has never told me that he's feeling bad."

Payton Ignores Pain

CHICAGO (AP) — During the past four seasons, Walter Payton may have taken more knocks than any other football player. But all that pounding hasn't convinced him to set a deadline for retirement.
"There's a lot of times when things are at ease and I think about it. Time was when I said I'd play only three more years," he says. Now, "I'll just leave that in God's hands."
"I want to be able to quit football. I don't want football to make me quit."
The Chicago Bears' star gained 1,395 yards in 333 carries this season, second only to Houston rookie Earl Campbell as the National Football League's top rusher. He also led his team with 50 receptions for 480 yards and is the only Bear in the Pro Bowl.
At age 24, he has four full pro seasons and 57 regular-season games behind him. He has never been injured seriously but he will be going into his fifth season, above the average for NFL running backs.
For his career, Payton is averaging 20.7 rushes and 2.2 catches per game and has missed just one regular-season contest.
Payton's yardage this season was down from his league leading 1,852 last year, when he was named the league's most valuable player.
"I was disappointed with my performance" this season, he said. "Anytime you become complacent with yourself, you're satisfied, and anytime you're satisfied you're not looking for anything higher."
Payton said he changed his running style under new coach Neill Armstrong.

"I was a more intense runner" this season, he said. "Instead of free lancing and doing things on my own I stuck more to the patterns and followed the blocking."
That was better for his "endurance and production," he added. "The way that our offense is now I think that it's best."
"I think the offense that we ran was okay as far as my style is concerned. I consider myself a professional and if I'm a professional I should be able to adjust."
The Bears were criticized for not running out of the I-formation more or using more sweeps to give Payton momentum before he met defenders.
Chicago had a 7-9 record, finishing with four victories in its last five games after dropping eight in a row.

"I can't wait until next year after the latter part of this season when we come into our own," said Payton. "We need a little more depth in certain areas and a few more breaks" to reach the playoffs.

was last week. In New Jersey, Arizona State and Rutgers in the Garden State Bowl's inaugural.
They plan to try again — they say — despite a meager crowd. A meager crowd was the case with the old Gotham Bowl of a couple of decades ago, but the director of same still had fingers left on one hand when he finished counting all the games in its history.
For a couple or three years, there was this Bluegrass Bowl in Louisville, but it lost out to money and blizzard weather. Thus, the advantage of bowls in the South.
But, even now, the list of bowls could be dwindling. The Peach Bowl — remember that one? — could be heading into its final chapter, with Georgia Tech and Purdue waving the final goodbyes. Simply, Atlantans aren't buying tickets — neither are Purdue and Georgia Tech athletic offices — and the NCAA feels that the locals must support a bowl or there is no need for it.
SO, IF THE crowd isn't favorable on Saturday, don't make guaranteed reservations for the 1979 Peach Bowl.
For that matter, even with a sellout in the Atlanta stadium, don't pin down a definite date. That's one of the rubs; reaching for dates approximates 90 guys trying to elbow into a good position going into the first turn of the mile run.
Getting a date which doesn't conflict with another bowl can create a better climate for landing a TV contract. But, even here, problems arise. The Liberty Bowl had a Monday night in mid-December nailed for a time. But, this hit in the middle of exams for some schools and drastically narrowed the choice list. And, many didn't like playing at night, so...

The Liberty Bowl will be Saturday afternoon.
The Fiesta is getting both gripes and smiles for its Christmas date. The gripes have been in the majority; not all coaches, fans or players want to be away from home — for sure, playing — on that one big day of the year. The smiles belong to bowl officials who landed a lucrative TV package.
But, also, there is the matter of the fans, the ones in the proximity of the bowls who from year to year foot the bill. At Birmingham last week, in ticket-selling days before Wednesday's Hall of Fame game, fans were grumbling about the lineup.
Not that they were so much against the Aggies and/or Iowa State, but they wanted one of the spots filled by Florida State, which is just a short ways down the pavement.
Having nearby Florida State as a participant in last year's Tangerine Bowl made that game a financial plumb. Arizona State's presence regularly insured good turnouts in the Fiesta. And Vanderbilt was the big thing the year Tech played in the Peach Bowl. Ditto Clemson in the Gator last year.
But, will the Fiesta continue to flourish if the Sun Devils don't play there regularly? The Bluebonnet Bowl without a Texas or A&M — at least a Southwest Conference team — at least every other year? What those new bowls at San Diego or Birmingham? Will those folks up north turn out annually to watch two southern teams in the Garden State?
Bowls quite often are made of crock — don't read anything into that — but, lately, they're coming out in china. China, you remember, is very fragile.
These days, so are football bowls.

Salem Hired As Gopher Coach

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — "Smoky Joe" Salem, who resurrected the football programs at both South Dakota and Northern Arizona, was named Wednesday as head coach at Minnesota, a school seeking to regain the national prominence it once had in the early 1960s when Salem was a player.

"I hope to make Minnesota once again a national power in football," said Salem, who was a backup quarterback to Sandy Stephens when the Gophers went to the Rose Bowl in 1961.

"I have a tremendous loyalty to the maroon and gold," he said. "I know the job presents a real challenge, but returning to my alma mater is something I have thought about for a long time."

"Everyone knows that the University of Minnesota is an outstanding institution with a great football tradition, and I'm very pleased to be a part of these things once again."

Salem replaces Cal Stoll, who was fired after seven years following a 5-6 season. Paul Giel, men's athletic director, said he made his decision Monday night after considering three other candidates.

"We had a number of outstanding candidates, but I chose Joe because he thrives on adversity," Giel said. "He overcame it at South Dakota and at Northern Arizona."

Salem said his first priority would be to select his coaching staff, which he indicated could include four of his assistants from NAU. He said, however, that he would talk with Stoll's staff and would like to keep some of the coaches "to assure continuity."

"He was advised not to take the coaching job at Northern Arizona. It was the Death Valley of football there. But he turned it around, and as far as problems here are concerned, he'll have the attitude, 'So what else is new?'"

Salem, 40, spent five years as an assistant under Murray Warmath following his playing days with the Gophers.

He became head coach at South Dakota in 1966 and compiled a 51-39-2 record in nine years. Four of his teams were ranked in the nation's top 15 among NCAA Division II schools and he won 29 of his last 37 games.

South Dakota had won just nine times in six years before Salem took over, but then achieved a tie for the North Central Conference championship in 1972, 1973 and 1974.

At Northern Arizona he posted a record of 26-17 and was selected Big Sky coach of the year in 1977 and 1978. His teams went from 1-9 in 1975 to 8-3 in '76, 9-3 in '77 and 8-2 this past fall, including the Big

Roger Staubach Wins NFL Passing Laurels

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Staubach of Dallas nosed out Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw as the National Football League's passing leader in 1978, while rookie Earl Campbell of Houston and Rickey Young of Minnesota were easy winners in rushing and receiving.

According to NFL statistics released Wednesday, Staubach edged Bradshaw 84.9 to 84.8 points in the complex system by which the league rates its passers. San Diego's Dan Fouts was third at 83.2.

Staubach completed 55 percent of his passes (231 of 413) for 3,190 yards and 25 touchdowns, while Bradshaw hit 56.3 percent (207 of 368) for 2,915 yards and a league-high 28 TDs.

Miami's Bob Griese was the most accurate, with a 63 percent completion rate; Ken Stabler of Oakland threw the most interceptions, 30, and Fran Tarkenton of Minnesota threw for the most yards, 3,468.

Campbell, the 1977 Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Texas, led the Oilers into the playoffs with his 1,450 yards rushing, 55 more than runner-up Walter Payton of Chicago, last year's NFL rushing champ when he gained 1,852.

In all, 11 players ran for more than 1,000 yards, two more than last season when there were 14 games instead of this year's 16. But the number was lower than the league-high dozen 1,000-yarders in 1976. Among this year's 1,000-yard rushers, Tony Reed of Kansas City had the best rushing average, with 5.1 yards per carry.

Young, obtained by the Vikings from San Diego before the start of the season, caught 88 passes, 14 more than runner-up Tony Galbreath of New Orleans. Wesley Walker of the New York Jets did the most with his 48 receptions, leading the league in two categories. Walker gained 1,169 yards, one yard more than Seattle's Steve Largent collected with 71 catches, and averaged 24.4 yards per catch.

Rookie Frank Corral of the Los Angeles Rams was the NFL scoring leader with 118 points (31 conversions and 29 field goals), while running back David Sims of Seattle was the top scorer among non-kickers with 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

Pat McNally of Cincinnati won the punting title for the first time, with a 43.1-yard average; Denver's Rick Upchurch averaged 13.7 yards in winning his second punt-return title in three years; Steve Odom of Green Bay took the kick-off-return title with a 27.1-yard average, and Thom Darden of Cleveland led the league in interceptions with 10.

Cooling Eagles Host Lazbuddie

The Lubbock High Christian Eagles have brought validity to the saying, "You don't get something for nothing" so far this season. But Coach Gary Bowe has been trying to change things this week.

For some unknown reason, the Eagles have been only hitting 50 percent of their free shots. But the Eagle coach thinks he has a remedy.

"We've been shooting a 100 free throws a day," said Bowe. "I don't know what the problem is exactly. I guess we're just not concentrating as much as we should be."

Tonight, Lubbock Christian will see if the extra free throw practice has paid off when they host Lazbuddie in the Lubbock Christian gym. Tipoff is slated for 8:30 p.m.

The Eagles will bring an 13-2 record into the contest. However, both Lubbock Christian loses resulted in the recently concluded Reese Christmas Basketball Classic, and though the Eagles defeated Cotton Center 73-60 Tuesday night, Bowe admits his team's morale has suffered.

"We're a little down right now," said Bowe. "We've played 15 games and that's going to take something out of the team. It's just a case of concentration and I think the Christmas break will help."

Bowe expects Lazbuddie to set up in a high-low post on offense and use a 2-3 zone on defense.

"The last time we played them our 2-2-1 zone press hurt them," the Eagle coach recalled. "We'll try it again tonight."

Since meeting Lazbuddie the first time, the Eagles have improved their depth situation.

"We have one player back that played football," said Bowe. "He makes it possible for us to play five in and five out."

That player Bowe was referring to is Steve Sykes. Sykes returned to action Tuesday night and scored seven points against Cotton Center.

When asked who he'll start, Bowe said, "The same five we always do."

Those same five include Tim Maynard (5-11) and Billie McConnell (5-11) at the guard spots, Shawn Bowe (6-3) will play forward, with Tim Perrin (6-2) and Shawn Williams (6-3) at the post positions.

"Lazbuddie has about the same size that we do," said Bowe. "In fact, they're picked to win their district."

O. Henry's 'Gift Of The Magi' Mutilated By Video Writers

NEW YORK (AP) — Debby Boone's acting debut may not have been among the most eagerly awaited events of 1978, but there it is for all to see tonight in the National Broadcasting Company's musical version of "The Gift of the Magi."

Pat Boone's pretty daughter — as the publicity release tells us — "achieved overnight singing stardom" with her recording of "You Light Up My Life," although she neither appeared in the film of that name nor sang the soundtrack version.

That song was perfectly suited to her voice, which is smallish in volume and sounds appealing only over a narrow range. Judging by "Magi," her dramatic range is so far not much broader, though it must be said that the show is so relentlessly upbeat that even a subtle actress would be hard-pressed to create a believable character.

She plays Della, the poor Italian immigrant wife who sells her long hair to buy her husband a watch chain for Christmas. You remember O. Henry's classic Christmas short story — he has sold his watch to buy combs for her hair.

However sentimental, O. Henry's story has the virtue of being short. The TV adapters, on the other hand, have all but buried the fragile plot in a 90-minute extravaganza filled with a dozen songs and all sorts of extraneous complications about jilted sweethearts and estranged uncles.

The opening scene, set aboard a ship bringing immigrants from Europe, is particularly fatuous. The steerage occupants — who in reality often died from the filth and disease they had to tolerate — are here portrayed as so many musical-comedy choristers, ready to break into song and dance at the drop of an anchor.

Adaptor Fred Tobias, who also wrote the lyrics, had the notion of putting O. Henry himself into the story. As played by a bespectacled Peter Graves, who looks rightfully embarrassed, he approaches the young couple in a saloon and sagely surmises: "There's a story in you two. Maybe it just hasn't happened yet."

A couple of the songs — music by Stanley Lebowitz — are catchy, especially "You Owe It To The Irish," and "Love To Last A Lifetime."

Description Of Santa Indicates Health Problems

HOUSTON (AP) — Santa Claus may have some health problems, if you can believe the physical descriptions of the jolly old fellow.

Dr. E. Don Webb, president of Harris County Medical Society and a general practitioner, says Santa apparently is overweight and doesn't get enough exercise and eats too many sweets.

That nose like a cherry, the physician said, could point to broken capillaries and indicate an excessive or prolonged use of alcohol. But Santa has never been known to sneeze or bend the elbow too often, so the red nose may be an indication of high blood pressure.

And Webb said he is concerned about the "belly that shakes when he laughs like a barrel of jelly."

The doctor said, "He is overweight or obese. Obesity brings about all kinds of problems, from heart disease to stroke."

Being a sleigh rider, Santa probably doesn't exercise and certainly doesn't jog.

Webb said, "Since he only makes one ride a year, it is likely that he's not used to all that activity. The more active the individual, we find, the better able the person can tolerate prolonged episodes of stress and activity. But by all indications, Santa leads a pretty sedentary life. That one night of delivering gifts would seem to be very hard on him."

And, the doctor said, Christmas Eve presents a special set of hazards for Santa with all the snacks left for him by children.

"That's just the sort of thing that's responsible for his being overweight. Indulging in fudge and brownies and cookies increases his fat and raises triglycerides in his blood, one of the causes of coronary heart disease," Webb said.

A night riding around in a sleigh might account for his rosy color, Webb said.

"A dermatologist would say that being outside in the cold for that prolonged a period is harmful. Those rosy cheeks may be the result of windburn and perhaps extreme exposure."

Webb admitted it is difficult to make a prognosis without benefit of a complete physical and "We have not seen him without his clothes or subjected him to any number of standard tests."

"Also, you must take into account his medical history. He's survived a lot of years despite a negative medical profile. I would say that he and only he will continue to do so," the doctor said.

'Oliver's Story' Shows Love In Short Supply

"Oliver's Story." Screenplay by Erich Segal and John Korty. Based on the novel by Erich Segal. Directed by John Korty. Stars Ryan O'Neal, Candice Bergen and Ray Milland. "Oliver's Theme" by Francis Lai. Additional music by Lee Holdridge. Rated PG. At the Fox Fourplex.

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

And you think the price of Christmas trees, or a cord of firewood for that matter, has skyrocketed? Well, get this: Paramount Pictures just spent $3 million on a log. That's the salary awarded wooden actor Ryan O'Neal to recreate his role of Oliver Barrett IV in "Oliver's Story," a piece of dreck bound to draw big crowds solely because it is a sequel to the 1970 tearjerker "Love Story."

A-J FILM REVIEW

In hopes of drawing some fiery love scenes, Paramount also signed Candice Bergen to play his new romantic interest. After all, as any Boy Scout worth his nature badge can tell you, it's only natural to expect sparks to fly every time this wooden actor rubs against this wooden actress.

Alas, the film and its players are drab, lifeless, emotionless. Green wood, so to speak. "Oliver's Story" has all the heart and humanity of a department store mannequin. There is no feeling of intensity or involvement or caring, and as a result the picture doesn't even draw the response of anger. It merely sits there on screen, boringly endured like some overlong TV commercial between favorite programs.

Fact is, it is this commercial aspect which murders the picture from the beginning. Paramount obviously viewed the movie not as a story of feeling, but as a cold financial product. Ryan O'Neal, who displayed an unbelievable ego by withdrawing from "The Champ" because director Franco Zeffirelli would not cast his son in the major role, never agreed to do "Oliver's Story" for the part. He did it only because the studio met his price. And Candice Bergen, despite her fine performance in Mike Nichols' "Carnal Knowledge," is probably best known today for hawking a particular brand of perfume.

So can you guess what is included in the film's press kit? Perfume samples! But then I guess we shouldn't be surprised by anything which originated from a book, Erich Segal's "Love Story," which reached best seller status only after the film company purchased thousands upon thousands of copies.

"Oliver's Story" begins with the burial of Jenny Barrett (Ali MacGraw to you hermits, who dies loving Bach, the Beatles, Mozart and Oliver at age 25. We're not 10 minutes into the movie when Jenny's dad (Ed Binns replaces John Marley in this part) walks up to the grieving widower, still staring at the coffin, and says, "She's not in there anymore, Oliver. She's somewhere else."

Jeez, that's sad, huh? Then we get a few closeups of Ryan's teary face and, maestro, bring up the strings! There follows a time trip of 18 months and we find Ryan is still celibate, grieving and boringly morose.

And in case his little dialogues with the shrink don't forcefeed the audience enough of his attitude, we're also granted visuals of the most blatant variety: Oliver still sleeping on only his half of the bed, and only one piece of bread popping conspicuously out of the toaster in the morning. I mean, folks, this is Big Screen Loneliness.

But O'Neal, who appears to equate acting with pronouncing his dialogue phletically, soon runs (literally) into Candice Bergen. Screenwriters Erich Segal and John Korty (the latter also directed) grant Miss Bergen's Marcie enough uppity smartass dialogue to remind Oliver of Jenny, and a relationship begins. After the expected boy-meets-girl and boy-loses-girl trip, the two discover a common bond in their parents' being filthy rich. Only thing is, Marcie has accepted her upper class WASP status, while lawyer Oliver is still acting out a guilt trip over his father's wealth by taking only civil liberties cases.

It will turn out later that dad is a grand old fella after all, and Oliver will ditch both the woman and his poor clients so he can take over the family mill. But first we have to have the inconsequential trip to Hong Kong with Marcie. Why? Well, because we can afford it, of course! And it is there we find Oliver reprimanding Marcie for bringing up the subject of his dead wife with, "Just leave her out of it! Leave her alone! Leave me alone! I don't need you! I don't need anybody!"

Which of course indicates that originality may also have been buried with Jenny in reel one.

Even the masses who blubbered through "Love Story" should be urged to take pillows rather than handkerchiefs, as "Oliver's Story" is neither emotional enough to inspire sniffles nor so blatantly off target as to inspire laughter. It is merely pathetic, unfeeling moviemaking, a sequel made solely to serve the cause of the almighty dollar. It is pretty people eating in fancy restaurants, driving expensive roadsters and visiting exotic locales. But that's all. Indeed, this film should go visit the Wizard and ask for a heart. So please, all you romantics out there, be warned. Think twice before drag-

Final Curtain May Fall On 'All In The Family'

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The final curtain will fall on "All In The Family" at the end of this season after a spectacular nine-year run.
 The show's ratings remain high, but Jean Stapleton, who plays the long-suffering dingbat, Edith, has decided to call it quits.
 Since the inception of the revolutionary situation comedy other members of the cast have threatened to quit over contract squabbles. This year Rob Reiner and Sally Struthers, in the roles of Mike and Gloria Stivic, departed the show.
 Now Jean, who has negotiated her contracts and salary arrangements in private and patiently sat on the sidelines during past upheavals on the show, has announced the series is over, at least for her.
 It's not a matter of salary. Jean is convinced it's time for her to move on to other projects.

Her contract with Tandem Productions has come to an end. A large salary boost cannot persuade her to change her mind.
 During a rehearsal break this week Jean took a breather and allowed as how she won't miss playing Edith, whom she made one of the most lovable characters in the history of television.
 "I can't say I'll really miss Edith," she said, sipping a cold drink. "I never look back at the characters I've played on Broadway and in movies. I always look forward to new things and take whatever comes along."
 "There's a possibility 'All In The Family' may be revived for a special or two. I wouldn't mind that. But I'm not going to do the show another year."
 Jean supposes her departure will mark the end of the series. But even she is not sure whether the Tandem folk will manipulate the structure of the show to carry on without Edith.
 There's the possibility that Archie Bunker could carry on alone, providing Carroll O'Connor would be willing to tackle a 10th year.

The writers could put Edith in a sanatorium with a lingering disease while Archie runs his saloon by himself, getting involved in a series of romances.
 Or they might kill off Edith and have Archie remarry. The alternatives are pure conjecture and haven't been revealed.
 "We haven't even dramatized the empty nest syndrome of Gloria and Mike's departure from the family this season," Jean said. "It would make good material for an episode or two."
 "But the empty nest idea has been diverted by the appearance of Danielle Brisebois, the little 10-year-old who was added to the cast this season. Between Danielle and Archie's bar, the gap has been more or less filled.
 "It's peculiar thinking about the series coming to an end. It never entered my mind during the run of the show. But it's time for me to pull myself together and move on."
 "Playing Edith has been an absolute joy, but enough already. I think I've managed to keep my identity pretty well separate from Edith's. But if I keep on in the role the public will never think of me as anyone else."

 Jean has tried to avoid her Edith image every summer by starring in plays at the Totem Pole Playhouse in Fayetteville, Pa., which is owned and operated by her husband, producer-director Bill Putch.
 She appeared with Sonny and Cher and in "Laugh-In" and dramatically in the TV movie "Tail Gunner Joe." Jean also starred in "Time of the Cuckoo" at the Los Angeles Music Center.
 Jean's efforts to preserve her own identity do not reflect resentment of the scatterbrained Edith. Indeed, the role has changed Jean's life around, making her one of the most identifiable women in America.

 She was an established Broadway and film actress before taking the Edith role. Jean wasn't a superstar, to be sure, but she had scored in movie versions of her theatrical hits, "Damn Yankees," "Bells Are Ringing" and "Up The Down Staircase."
 She was respected before "All In The Family" and beloved after it went on the air.
 "I sensed 'All In The Family' was a revolutionary series the first time I read the script," she said. "It was radical because it was honest and funny and dealt with believable people."
 "Edith's qualities of honesty, innocence and a sense of right and wrong are enduring. She is a good and decent person. That's a very nice image to live with."

 "The show has enriched the lives of everyone in my own family. It changed our lives for the good. We moved from the East Coast to the West Coast. It meant a full time job instead of going from one play to another."
 "Playing Edith opened new opportunities for me. But I don't think all the fame has inhibited my lifestyle. I still enjoy a great deal of privacy although I make a conscious effort to seek it now when I go out in public."
 "Now I'm going back to the theater and, hopefully, find some movie roles."

FCC Orders Study Of UHF Television

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission on Wednesday voted for a series of studies, which the chairman called significant in the development of UHF television.
 "If the studies had been made 15 years ago, we probably would have removed many of the perceived impediments of UHF, with the result probably there would be close to a thousand more TV stations, with a resulting more variety of programs," Chairman Charles D. Ferris told a reporter after the commission meeting.
 In the nation, as of this month, there were 997 TV stations operating. Of these 622 were Very High Frequency (VHF) on channels 2-13, and 375 were Ultra High Frequency (UHF) on channels 14 and above.
 The FCC held a special meeting Wednesday, seeking to bring action in its policy, adopted 15 years ago, to bring UHF television to comparative standing with VHF. Recently Congress approved funds of $750,000 for the FCC to use in bringing about the comparability. Generally, commercial stations operate on VHF channels. Some UHF channels are commercial and others are educational.
 The FCC staff said there were many views as to what is wrong with UHF.
 Ferris said there were "myths" about UHF not being as good as VHF, and the FCC has to define the problems before it can suggest a solution.
 He said, "You can ask anyone what's the matter with UHF and they say, 'I have difficulty getting a good picture, and when I get a good picture I don't get a good program.'"
 "People don't know — they just think UHF is something less than VHF. It's kind of psychological," Commissioner Robert E. Lee commented.
 Lee said the mere fact that the FCC is looking for a solution to the problems of UHF would help the psychological problem.

Sophia Loren Tells Of Grant's Love, Proposal

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cary Grant pursued Sophia Loren through a passionate love affair in 1957 in which he begged her to marry him, the Italian actress revealed Wednesday with publication of her life story.

Miss Loren, in the first installment of her autobiography in the current issue of McCall's magazine, said she was torn between "those perfect days" with Grant and her love for Italian producer Carlo Ponti, with whom she was living at the time and who is now her husband.

The actress and Grant met when they co-starred in Miss Loren's first American film, "The Pride and the Passion."

"With every passing day, he said he was more sure that we belonged together,

LOVE AFFAIR — Sophia Loren says a love affair with Cary Grant in 1957 was the catalyst that forced Italian film producer Carlo Ponti to divorce his wife and marry Miss Loren. (AP Laserphotos)

"I trust you and love you and want to marry you," he said.

But the actress, then 22, said she was waiting for Ponti, who was still married, to finally propose "and give up his wife and children for me."

"I did not want to be an undeclared mistress or any kind of mistress ... and here was Cary Grant, ready to renounce everything for me. Wanting me with no strings attached," Miss Loren wrote.

The Loren-Grant love affair finally drove Ponti to propose, she said. "Carlo knew Cary was still in my thoughts. Instinctively I knew that Cary's fervid interest brought pressure to bear on Carlo...."

In her autobiography, the woman who was to become one of the world's superstars describes her squalid, illegitimate early life in war-ravaged Italy, and how she used her first paycheck as an actress to buy her sister, Maria, a name from her natural father.

"My father had refused to give my mother anything for my support ... he had a proposition ... he would sell his name to Maria for the one million lire he had found out I had been paid. I didn't hesitate. As far as I was concerned, Maria must have her name, whatever the price."

Miss Loren said when she first started in films, cameramen complained that her nose was too long, "and I was too hippy." She refused to have her nose fixed or lose weight, telling them: "I wanted to be myself just as I am. I won't change anything."

Patty's Pardon Decision Due Within 30 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — There may be a decision within 30 days on whether newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst should be freed from prison, a Justice Department official said Wednesday.

John Stanish, the Justice Department's pardon attorney, said the department has nearly completed its review of Miss Hearst's petition for executive clemency. The department will make a recommendation to President Carter, who has the final decision on whether Miss Hearst can leave prison before next July when she would be eligible for parole.

Stanish said it was unlikely there would be a decision before Christmas. But he said no significance should be attached to the timing of the decision.

"There is a common notion about Christmas pardons. But both grants and denials are issued before and after Christmas," he said.

Stanish said he did not think it was likely that Carter would wait very long to make a ruling after receiving the department's recommendation.

Miss Hearst is serving a seven-year term for bank robbery at the Federal Women's Prison at Pleasanton, Calif. The bank robbery was carried out in San Francisco by the Symbionese Liberation Army in 1973, 10 weeks after the group kidnaped Miss Hearst.

Attorney General Griffin Bell said last week that he did not expect a ruling in Miss Hearst's case by Christmas.

Meanwhile, the mother of the late Rep. Leo J. Ryan, the California Democrat slain by Peoples Temple cultists in Jonestown, Guyana, called on Carter to commute Miss Hearst's sentence.

"Patty Hearst seems to me to have been a victim of the same kind of brutality, isolation and brainwashing as characterized Jonestown," Autumn Mead Ryan wrote Carter in a letter released Tuesday.

er, that finally he had found in me someone to whom he could totally relate ... to whom he could commit himself and to hell with being vulnerable," Miss Loren said.

Tipsy Employees
May Bill Boss
For Cab Fares

MINNETONKA, Minn. (UPI) — If an employee at a Minnetonka company gets tipsy at a party during the Christmas and New Year's holiday season he can take a cab home and bill the boss for it. Matter of fact, if an employee sees anyone who has had too many drinks to get behind the wheel — friend or stranger — he can call a cab for him and get his money back from the company, no questions asked. President Ted Deikel, 43, urges his 2,600 employees at Fingerhut Corp., a general merchandise firm, to remember the offer. "One of our employees struck and killed an 11 or 12-year-old child while driving home from a pre-Christmas party in December two years ago," he said. "That heartbreaking event motivated us to take action. "I remember what it felt like when that accident occurred. You read about things like that all the time but it doesn't really hit home until it comes close. "We started the 'Take a Taxi On Us' program that same month during the holidays of 1976."

Deikel said the costs are "negligible, and if other companies did the same, a major national problem could be solved."
