'Tentative' Accord Gained On SALT

Vance, Gromyko Meet Again Today

GENEVA Switzerland (AP) - The United States and the Soviet Union tentatively have agreed on a new treaty limiting their nuclear arsenals. U.S. officials said here Friday. But President Carter's spokesman said "several difficult issues" remain unresolved.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, with the president on a Christmas vacation in Georgia, told reporters that to characterize progress in the strategic arms limitation talks as "a tentative agreement - that's wrong."

The officials said "tentative" meant the Soviets would consult overnight with Moscow about the compromises they had agreed to Friday and reserved the right to reopen those issues this morning.

Powell told reporters traveling aboard Air Force One en route to Carter's home in Plains. Ga., that the president spoke at "some length" to Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance in Geneva before leaving the White House...

"A tentative agreement - that's wrong." the press secretary declared. Later Friday, Carter himself told reporters "a couple of items" remain unresolved and said Soviet negotiators would need to consult about them with their Politburo.

Work On Wording
The U.S. officials said the U.S. and Soviet negotiators had reached tentative agreement on all of the remaining issues. They said technical experts for both countries will need a few weeks to agree on precise wording for the treaty text.

Despite the agreement, the officials said, it may be impossible to arrange a summit meeting between President Carter and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev to sign the strategic arms limitation treaty, known as SALT II, by the Jan. 15 date Carter has suggested. The officials said more time might be needed to handle logistical problems They refused to reveal details about hor the Sovjets and Americans had resolved the handful of issues on the table when the current round of talks began.

Following the lengthy session that produced the tentative agreement, Vance went to American SALT delegation headquarters to telephone President Carter. The president left Washington for Christmas with his family at home in Plains, Ga. without commenting.

Earlier, Hodding Carter had said Vance would meet today with Gromyko in an effort to wrap up a basic agreement on a new treaty and arrange for the summit. The spokesman, meeting with report-

Rate Of Inflation Eases To Four-Month Low

slowed to a four-month low in November, giving consumers a pre-holiday respite from sharp price increases for such essentials as food, housing, clothing and utilities, the Labor Department reported

The department said consumer prices rose 0.5 percent last month, compared with 0.8 percent rises during September and October. Increases for food, housing, clothing and interest rates declined significantly during the month to offset sizeable increases for cars, gasoline and medical care.

Some items actually declined in price from October, including fruit, vegetables, natural gas, electricity and women's and girls' clothing, the government said.

6 Percent Annual Rate November's overall increase, the same as that in July, translates into an annual inflation rate of about 6 percent, well below the 9.5 percent rate expected for

However, Carter administration economists, who had anticipated sharper price increases last month, expect inflation to pick up again soon. A big increase in wholesale prices in November is expected to show up at the consumer level in the next few months, they say. Prices for food and beverages rose 0.3 percent last month, compared with an increase of 0.8 percent in October. Housing prices, which have been leaping by about I percent a month, rose by just 0.4 percent, the lowest increase in a year.

Some Costs Jump However, transportation costs jumped

1.2 percent, a three-year high, while medical costs shot up 1.1 percent for a second consecutive month. Housing and food have been the major contributors to inflation in the past year, with prices in both areas up more than 10 percent. November was the first full month that President Carter's new anti-inflation program has been in effect, but the slower inflation rate for the month apparently was a lucky coincidence. Carter's inflation fighters have said that the program will not bring down inflation until mid-1979 at the earliest.

Carter's economic advisers this week raised their forecast for inflation in 1979 to something over 7 percent. Previously, they had predicted inflation would be under 6.5 percent.

In its report Friday, the Labor Depart-

Consumer Price Index to 202.0. That means it cost $202 last month to buy a basket of goods that cost $100 in 1967. At the same time, the department said the buying power of American workers increased 0.3 percent last month following three straight monthly declines.

However, for the 12 months ending in November, a typical worker's buying power fell 3.4 percent, as wage increases failed to keep pace with inflation, the department said.

Buying power refers to how much a vorker can purchase after accounting for inflation and deducting taxes.

The department said prices for fresh fruit fell 9.4 percent and vegetable prices dropped 4.4 percent during November, following several months of increases.

The declines partially offset higher prices for most other foods.

Meat prices showed some of the sharpest rises for a second straight month with beef and veal prices up 1.2 percent and pork up 3.4 percent.

Increases in housing costs slowed vir-tually across the board in November. The cost of home ownership rose 0.8 percent, about half the rise recorded during the previous two months, and mortgage in-terest rates rose 0.5 percent, also less than in past months.

Natural gas prices declined 2.3 percent following a sharp rise in October, while electricity prices, which have been declining slightly since June, dropped 2 per-

Clothing prices rose 0.1 percent, down from a 0.4 percent rise in October.

Two Letters Describing Unfortunate Families To Bring Response

CANCER and Christmas don't mix. "Dear Goodfellow," said the letter, 'Their mother passed away... She had cancer real bad, suffered almost a year. Their daddy is not working at this time, but will try and find work..." "This is a young family of a father and two young children that lost their mother (age 23)... to cancer after being ill for a couple of years... These are just two of the letters received by Chief Goodfellow and his Merry Masked Men. The Goodfellows are a group of anonymous Lubbock men and women who band together to see that Lubbock's less fortunate children share in the joy of this season. The letters will in all probability mean that some volunteer will visit the suggesed homes in the darkness of Christmas morning

Last year sacks of fruit, nuts, candy and toys were delivered to the doorsteps of more than 9,000 children on Christmas morning by hundreds of volunteers. The effort cost about $1.50 per child and inflation is expected to make that even more this year.

Persons wishing to deliver packages to those waiting, needy children may register at 4 a.m. Monday at the East Broadway entrance to the South Plains Fairgrounds, Broadway and Avenue A.

Goldwater Files Suit To Block Carter's Taiwan Pact Cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Barry other senators, one senator-elect and Goldwater filed suit Friday to preserve eight representatives. They asked the America's defense treaty with Taiwan, calling President Carter's termination of the pact "one of the worst power grabs in

Carter gave notice last week that resumption of diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China will spell an end to the 1955 Taiwan treaty.

Goldwater said allowing the president alone to terminate treaties would subject all such pacts to the "whim of the single person who happens to sit in the Oval Office at any given moment of history." filed in U.S. District Court here, Goldwater said "the Senate is a partner with the president in treaty making. As a logical and natural consequence, the Senate is a part of the authority who possesses the power of deciding upon the termination of the treaty."

Carter, Vance Named Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance were named as defendants in the

The White House had no comment, but previously has cited the terms of the treaty, which allow its termination by either party upon one year's notice.

In another development Friday, Chiang Ching-kuo, president of the Republic of China, sent a holiday message to Americans in which he referred to the changing U.S. policy toward the communist Chinese government.

'The change in relations between our governments will make no difference in the friendship of our two peoples," Chiang said in the statement, which was released by the Taiwanese embassy here. He also said: "In our hearts, we still have confidence in Americans. The American and the Chinese dream remains the same: that of a free and prosperous so-

Solons Invite Chiang

And in Washington, a group of congressmen invited Chiang to visit the United States next week, according to the Coalition of Peace Through Strength, a conservative group.

'In order for us to fully to understand the practical problems which a realistic defense of your republic is likely to involve, we urgently need your advice and counsel here," the lawmakers said in suggesting that Chiang visit the United States on or about Dec. 27.

The letter was originated by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and cosigned by Sens. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev.; Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah; Richard Lugar, R-Ind; Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M.; Jake Garn, R-Utah; Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and James McClure, R-Idaho. Also signing the letter were Reps. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., and Robin L. DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

bound for Christmas ditched in the Tyrrhenian Sea early today. Airline officials said fishing boats plucked 26 persons from the black water alive and 103 were missing Fifteen survivors were rescued by the fishing boat Nuovo Pacifico. They were bleeding, their clothes were drenched with sea water, some were unconscious. Ambulances

Giuseppe Verduccia, the fishing boat skipper, said: "We were sailing right in the area, bound for Christmas at home after several days of fishing. We saw the plane coming low quickly and touching water just a few hundreds meters (yards) away from us. We couldn't see how people could get out of it. We turned our lights on and steered toward the bodies we saw in the sea. Obviously they had no time to use life rafts."

Giovanni Martorana, a 20-year-old customs officer who survived, said, "As soon as the plane hit the water, pandemonium broke loose aboard. No one could understand what was going to happen. Almost immediately a strong blast wrecked the front section of the plane, the cabin. I think no one of the crew could have survived. Airline officials said said engine trouble apparently forced the DC-9 into the sea about three miles short of landfall at the Punta Raisi airport at 12:40 a.m. today -

5:40 p.m. CST Friday. It was a special extra holiday flight carrying 124 passengers including four babies - and a crew of five. Port police said some fishermen involved in the rescue told them the aircraft sank a few seconds after striking the water. Navy ships and helicopters criss-crossed the water with search beams. Dozens of ambulances rushed to the port in case they ere needed.

Alitalia would not release the passenger list immediately, but said most of those aboard were natives of this island off the toe of Italy, and were going home for the holidays from jobs on the Italian mainland or in other countries.

Assassination Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of a House panel, raising questions about new evidence suggesting involvement of a sec-ond gunman in John F. Kennedy's murder, decided Friday their investigation cannot be terminated until the findings are scrutinized further.

The House assassinations committee is to conclude its two-year, $5.8 million investigation of Kennedy's slaving and that of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on Dec. 31. The panel agreed, however, that one more public hearing will be held Dec. 29 to explore the results of the new evidence, which was based on refined accoustical tests.

While some committee members questioned the accuracy of the new evidence, the panelists agreed unanimously that another hearing should be held.

fangled sciences," said Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., head of a subcommittee that has focused on the Kennedy assassination. "The question of its credibility is certainly crucial."

However, Rep. Richard Edgar, D-Pa., suggested that impartial experts be called to give "an analysis of how accurate accoustical studies are" to determine what "validity and weight" should be put on the new results.

"On the whole, we ought to wait for that evidence," he told the committee, Committee members say the new evidence indicates there is a 95 percent likelihood that a shot was fired at Kennedy's limousine from a grassy knoll in Dealy Plaza in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. That contradicts the findings of the Warren Commission, which said only three shots were fired at Kennedy and that all three came from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository. The commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswaid was the lone gunman. Acoustics expert Mark Weiss, who used sophisticated computer techniques that were unavailable to the Warren Commission, said there was a fourth shot that may have missed the presidential party. The finding is based on an analysis of a tape recording made on a Dallas police radio frequency from a police motorcycle transmitter in Dealy Plaza. An earlier analysis of the tape by acoustics expert James Barger said there was only a 50-50 chance of a gunman on the knoll. Weiss had been commissioned to see if he agreed with that finding. Both Weiss and Barger are expected to testify

Rep. Floyd J. Fithian, D-Ind., said the scientists who first presented the evidence at a closed meeting Monday night should be asked publicly "exactly how they arrived at those findings."

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, the committee's chairman, refused to say whether he feels the evidence is conclusive.

"The evidence will be heard in its full context and the possible meaning of it will be explored," Stokes said.

Even with the new developments, he said, the committee will go out of business on schedule at midnight, Dec. 31, and a report on its findings and recommendations will be delivered to the clerk of the House and be made public by noon on Jan. 3.

Details of the new evidence were first disclosed in a radio interview Wednesday by Rep. Harold Sawyer, R-Mich.

In another development Friday, a onetime legal adviser to the Warren Commission conceded that a fourth gunshot may have been fired during Kennedy's assassination. But David Belin said in Des Moines, Iowa, that the commission found no physical evidence or witnesses to support the claim.

Ex-CIA Clerk Sentenced To 40 Years

But U.S. District Judge Phil M. McNagny Jr. said he would consider reducing the sentence if a governmental damage assessment showed that the impact of Kampiles' act on national security was not as severe as is thought now.

"This case is a complete tragedy for a young man who has never been in trouble before," said the judge, who presided over the eight-day trial in this northwestern Indiana city last month.

Just before the sentence was pronounced, Kampiles told McNagny, "First of all, your honor, I'm sorry for everything that has happened. Not at any time did I want to injure my country in any way. I only wanted to serve my country.

Kampiles was accused of selling a technical manual on the sophisticated KH-11 satellite to a Soviet agent in Athens, Greece, last February. Federal officials say he received $3,000 for the document, which describes the satellite's capabilities of monitoring troop movements from its place in the sky The Indiana University graduate had access to the manual when he served as a CIA watch officer from March to November 1977. He was convicted on the espionage and theft charges by a federal jury McNagny sentenced Kampiles to a total of 120 years on the four espionage and two theft counts, but ordered all the time to be served concurrently. That means 40 years - the maximum single sentence is the most time the Chicago native will be behind bars.

McNagny could have imposed a life prison term. But, he said, "The court does not believe he will ever commit any similar offense again, nor any offense, for that matter.

Kampiles, who celebrated his 24th birthday on Thursday, will serve his sentence in a federal minimum security prison. Defense attorney Michael Monico said his client could be released on parole in about 10 years.

After the sentencing, Monico told reporters, "I'm disappointed at the harshness of the sentence.'

Monico, who is appealing the conviction to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, had urged McNagny to be lenient because there was no prior record and because Kampiles' mother had threatened suicide

U.S. Attorney David Ready, who had asked that a "substantial sentence" be imposed, said Kampiles had already disregarded the needs of his family by dealing with the Russians.

"He chose to just as callously disregard the safety and well-being of 200 million Americans," the prosecutor said.

Throughout the trial, Monico tried to portray Kampiles as someone eager for advancement in the CIA who became involved with the Russians to prove he was capable of undercover work.

Monico argued Friday that there was no proof that the technical manual contained information that would be new to McNagny ordered federal prison officials to keep Kampiles in Chicago through the Christmas holidays so his family can visit him. Since his arrest in August, he has been held there.

Problems Take No Holiday

THE NEXT FEW days may be the most peaceful President Carter will enjoy for the remainder of his first term in the White

He, like many in his administration, and leaders abroad for that matter, will have only a brief respite from a pyramiding pile of problems which can not be shoved aside too long, even for the holidays.

As some are observing, Jimmy Carter not only stands at the crossroads of his presidency, what he does in the next few weeks and months also will determine which path the nation takes on several fronts.

EVEN AS THE Christmas Season rushed nearer, the man in the White House was wrestling with his state and budget messages to the new Congress.

And even as he sought to find a formula for easing both the domestic and foreign crises, which just won't go away, new pressures were abuilding.

In the past week, as Mr. Carter sought to frame a 1980 budget within his avowed antiinflation goals, the mayors of numerous big cities met with him with the public intention of seeking continued federal funding for many pet, obviously political projects.

Special interest groups and some governors complained that the President was on the verge of deserting those Democratic party policies that had helped put him, and them, where they are

FOR THOSE WHO took time out from late Yule shopping chores to study such things, the dilemma facing the President is one which may be with him for some time to come. In brief, Mr. Carter indeed is at the crossroads.

What he does, in holding the line on federal spending, in getting inflation under control, in bargaining with the Russians over SALT II, in seeking to put the pieces back together in the Mideast, in bolstering the Shah of Iran, in riding out the storm over his recognition of Communist China and his abandonment of longtime ally Taiwan-all will determine whether Mr. Carter will emerge as a viable second-term President

BUT, OF MORE importance, what Mr. Carter does about all those problems, and how Congress reacts and handles its role in meeting and seeking to resolve them, will affect each of us in the months ahead.

Not only is the future of the President of the United States at stake, but the future of the nation's well-being, and to a great extent, that of the Free World.

Great pressures are pulling and tugging on those who must make and implement the decisions. We hope Mr. Carter, in his efforts, not only heeds the siren call of politics and pressures from abroad but listens to the great middle-mass of Americans, whose hearts and minds often have proven more right than those of their leaders. "Politics" alone is not the answer.

AN EDITORIAL:

Stassen Keeps On Keeping On

NOV. 4, 1980, may still be a long way around the corner, but the presidential campaign already is officially underway. We know for sure because Harold Stassen has announced his candidacy for the Republican

Again. For those whose memories may need refreshing, he previously declared himself into the presidential races of 1948, 1952, 1956, 1960, 1964, 1968, 1972 and 1976.

Catapulted onto the national scene as governor of Minnesota at a precocious 31, Harold Stassen has been doggedly refusing to leave it ever since. He is living proof that while hope may indeed spring eternal, the odds remain heavily against it reaching fruition in politics at least.

There is, however, somewhat more to the Stassen story than these quadrennial offerings of services to the nation.

HE WAS A forerunner of that remarkable dynasty of progressive Minnesotans who have been fixtures in national politics for four decades. The fact that his most eminent successors were Democrats is only a footnote to the historical record of what they represented and what they accomplished. Stassen's public service did not end with his governorship (1938-45). In 1946, he was a U.S. delegate to the San Francisco conference that established the UN. He held Cabinet rank in the Eisenhower administration. Furthermore, he laid much of the groundwork for the still on-going dialogue with the Soviets on the mutual effort to restrain mankind's impulses toward Armageddon.

Stassen also has been active outside government, as President of the University of Pennsylvania, and with organizations such as the National Conference of Christians and

Americans Only Know Half Of SALT Story

WASHINGTON-Most discussions of the SALT agreements and the subject of strategic arms are so bogged down in technicalities it is doubtful many people understand them.

It is therefore useful from time to time to get a perspective on the subject that goes past the jumble of numbers and esoteric concepts to reach the essence of the matter: The question of who is winning or losing the Cold War, and the impact of these agreements on the process.

Just such a perspective was supplied a few days back at a seminar on Capitol Hill, featuring a key defector from the Soviet Union who has monithred the SALT discussions from the outset.

The defector is Dr. Igor Glagolev, a consultant to the Soviet Politburo before he sought asylum in the West in 1976.

HE WAS A senior research member at the Institute of World Economy and International Relations in the USSR from 1956-73, and also served as chief of the Sector on Disarmament from 1961 through 1964.

He appeared in the Capitol under the auspices of the American Conservative Union, along with Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, and former State Department official Charles Burton Marshall.

Having viewed the SALT procedure from both sides, Glagolev is well-equipped to compare the approaches of the competing powers.

The major difference, he observes, is that the Soviets view the arms negotiations as a part of their strategy of expansion and conquest—another method for strengthening their position against the West.

IN THE UNITED States, by way of contrast, the negotiations are part of a continuing strategy of conciliation and collapse.

"In the USSR," Glagolev said, "the SALT agreements became a symbol of the unilateral increase of armaments and the offensive in Indothina, Africa, and the Middle East.

"In the West, on the contrary, the SALT agreements became a symbol of the strategy of unilatproductive public careers of the times.

eral disarmament and retreat...(Under the new SALT treaty) the Soviet Union would be allowed to keep its more powerful weapons, while the United States would be encouraged to fulfill its present plans of further unilateral disarmament, including the elimination of the strategic avia-

THROUGHOUT THE period of the SALT discussions, Glagolev noted, the Soviets have pressed ahead to build their arsenal, increasing the aggregate yield of their strategic weapo from 5,000 to 20,000 megatons, deploying 12,000 anti-aircraft missiles, increasing their ballistic submarine fleet to 90 subs, and producing about 25 Backfire bombers a year.

Equally to the point, they have waged and promoted sustained aggression in Asia, Africa, in genius for haggling, is effective only before the and the Middle East. fact-and even then it loses some big battles, as the Panama Canal squabble showed. Moreover,

The United States, meantime, has backed off and defaulted in the world arena, and cut back sharply on its strategic arms.

It has reduced the aggregate yield of its strategic weapons to one-fifth their former level, abandoned the antimissile defenses that could have protected the American people from destruction, and otherwise taken steps that weaken its strategic position-including extension of ald and credits directly to the Communists.

SUMMING UP THE process, Glagolev asserted, was our performance in strategic aviation:

"Before the SALT talks, the U.S. had more than 1,000 (medium-range strategic bombers). Now it has about 60. Approximately half of the long-range U.S. bombers have been de-activated.

The remaining obsolescent B-52 bombers will not be replaced by the modern B-1 bomber. It means that the whole strategic aviation of the United States, which is one of the most powerful forces of conventional and nuclear defense, is headed for elimination."

Thus, Glagolev concludes, despite its greater inherent strength, the West is losing the Cold War to the Soviets-and the SALT accords are integral to the process.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE: Santa At

WE'RE PULLING a switch this year: On Christmas day it'll be "over the hills and through the woods to Grandmother's house we go. So what's the switch, you ask? Isn't that what families are supposed to do come Santa Claus, Maybe so. But with this family, for all but one of the last eight years, it's been a matter of going where the grandchildren are. And we weren't the only ones. More and more, as young parents become family-oriented, that means hanging the children's stockings on their own fireplaces at home. It is, the new generation of mothers argue, a matter of stability. Little kids should be able to open their gifts under the same tree they've been knocking ornaments off of all week. Roots, you know.

IT ALSO saves bundling up the wee ones and hauling them off to Gram'ahs for the big day, and eliminates the chore of trying to convince them Santa will be able to find the right house without a sky map. So be it. Patting our grandchildren's mother on the head in approval of her firm grasp of child psychology, we hooked up the sleigh every year, packed in the loot, and hurried off to catch the Christmas-morning magic on the kids' home turf. That meant we've waited for Rudolf to find his way through an Illinois sleet storm, made angels in the snowdrifts of New Hampshire, and even hung stars on a palm tree in Texas and tried not to notice anything unusual about a heat wave in Houston on Dec. 25. And every other year there was the miracle of another little girl to spoil with Teddy bears, rattles and Snoopys. One year we got so carried away we had to rent a station wagon to haul the spoils through four states.

'TIS THE truth. Grandma's little sports car couldn't hack it. We squeezed in the sleds and hobby horse and talking dolls, all right, but there wasn't any room left for Santa's helpers.

This Christmas is going to be special in many ways. The little ladies live with us now, and we're laboring mightily to keep ol' Santa alive for Gillian, who just turned three and still Believes.

Amanda, 8, Found Out last year, much to the dismay of all the adults around the place. But she had a long talk with her mother about "the real meaning of Christmas" and joined in the loving conspiracy that makes moppets happy-and grown-ups even happier.

But this year Heather, 6, also Knows. And what Heather knows, Heather tends to broadcast, in decibels guaranteed to drown out the pawing and prancing of each little hoof. We're working on her.

THAT BRINGS us down to only one tiny tot who still takes Santa seriously. How long we can maintain the illusion depends on how fast she catches on to the big-girl world.

It's getting sophisticated fast. I reported a couple of weeks ago what a jolt it was to hear our &year-old "Grease" fan singing out that she was "Sandra Dee...lousy with virginiteeee."

Well, you can double that for the 3-year-old's newest accomplishment. Other toddlers may lisp "Silent night, holy night"; ours skips through the house singing, "I won't go to bed 'till I'm legally wed." Santa's in all kinds of trouble this year. Gillian's also a little vague on just what it is Santa's supposed to do. Amanda and Heather tell her he brings "lots of presents," but that only confuses her. She figures, and with good reason, that that's what Old Dad's for.

STILL, SHE'S caught up in the sparkle and dazzle of Christmas wrapping, and never mind that she's more interested in slapping sticky tape on boxes (and walls, furniture, dog and herself) than she is in what's inside

But what makes this Christmas really special is that for the first time in eight years the whole family will be together around the tree. It's the two young engineers in California who'll be doing the "over the hills" bit, although the hills are the Rockies and the woods stretch 3,000 miles.

They've put in their order for a white Christmas, and the weatherman says could be. Opening presents around the swimming pool may be glamorous and all that, but traditional it ain t.

While they're here, maybe they can use their fancy electronics degrees to make the outside Christmas tree lights work. Last year Old Dad draped them artistically over the blue spruce, plugged in his special weather-proof extension cord-and nothing.

TWO DAYS before Christmas, the top string suddenly blazed into light, leaving the bottom half in pitch-black darkness. We had the only tree on the block that floated mystically in space.

Then, the night before New Year's Eve, the bottom half mysteriously flashed on. To this day, Old Dad (who flunked Christmas-tree decorating 101) hasn't managed to figure out why. But this year, with the glow of old-fashioned (and outdated) "togetherness," we won't even need lights to show the Payette pad is bustin' out all over with excitement We'll build a snowman in the front yard, hang up the mistletoe, deck the halls and all that jazz -and hope that your Christmas will be as ho-hoho as ours. (And, listen, never mind what Amanda and Heather say. Santa will bring you everything on your list. Hasn't he always?)

Report Concludes State Nursing Home Probe force member told the aide to clean the

AUSTIN (AP) - A 17-month investiga tion of Texas nursing homes uncovered at least three negligence-related deaths, Attorney General John Hill said Friday.

Hill fixed partial blame for the problem on the State Department of Health's "protective attitude" toward the industry and the agency's "shunning" of its regulatory role.

After Hill's news conference, a health department official defended the agency against criticism.

Overall, the department policies (on nursing home inspection and regulation) all are firm enough," said Dr. Robert Bernstein, chief of the longterm care di-

"There's a small number of homes that are borderline, but it's very easy to get in trouble with a home," Bernstein added. There's even a smaller number of homes that get into trouble, but we stay close enough to that.

An attorney general's task force inspected 113 of the state's 1,015 nursing homes for the study. Investigators also interviewed patients and held three public hearings on the problem.

The probe followed reports in the Lufkin News of serious patient abuse and

A special legislative session in 1977 also addressed the problem. A new state law transferred regulation of nursing homes from the Texas Department of Human Resources to the health department.

We have found some very, very disturbing situations, unbelievable in some instances," Hill said. "The majority of our homes do a very fine job. But there's no excuse for any bad nursing homes."

The deaths reported involved patients at three Austin nursing homes. A resident of Austin Convalescent Home died of severe burns in 1978; a 76-year-old pa-

Lengthy Stay In Hospital Aids Birth

DALLAS (AP) - Joyce Temple checked into St. Paul Hospital to have her baby. Ninety-six days later, she did. Mrs. Temple, 28, and her husband, Oney, also 28, had hoped for a child ever since their marriage five years ago.

Each year, Mrs. Temple became pregnant, but lost each baby four months into her pregnancy.

Nine months ago, Mrs. Temple became pregnant again and she and her husband contacted Dr. Richard Worley, director of obstetrics-gynecology at St. Paul's.

He diagnosed me as having what is known as an 'incompetent cervix,' meaning it was not strong enough to support a complete pregnancy," Mrs. Temple said. 'Dr. Worley took several stitches to close my cervix up until the last weeks of my pregnancy and ordered me to go to bed for the next five months until the baby came.

That's when she checked into St. Paul's.

There were days when I would get so depressed I didn't think I was going to make it," she said. "But the nurses, the doctors, everybody here, even the doormen, all refused to let me give up. They did everything but stand on their heads to get me through this."

Oney D'Arcey Temple Jr. had been expected Christmas Day, but he beat that schedule by five days. Mother and son are doing fine.

'It was all worth it," said Oney Sr.

Arson Suspected In Costly Astrodome Press Box Fire

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Fire Department investigators say arson was the cause of a $100,000 blaze that roared through the Astrodome press area in the early morning hours of Thursday.

Astrodome officials said the damage should be repaired in time for the Dec. 31 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl between Stanford and Georgia, and would not force cancellation of the Class AAAA high school championship football game between Houston Stratford and Plano Saturday afternoon.

The fire destroyed 50 cushioned seats and thick smoke quickly filled the Dome. Some water damage was reported on the level below the press lounge and smoke damage to the level above. Fifty firemen in nine vehicles rolled onto the Astroturf to fight the blaze. Arson investigators said the fire was set but the exact source of the blaze still is under investigation. Fireman Willy Glass said, "If this was the Fire Bowl we won by a substantial margin, but that fire was a real contender. It was roaring when we got there.'

Glass said firemen had to run up stairs, climb ledges and string hoses up 24-foot high ladders to reach the fire. HELPI HELPI HELPI

"Negligence was a contributing cause in two of the deaths and a direct cause in the third," Hill told reporters.

"In the majority of neglect cases reported to or detected by task force personnel," the 231-page report said, "the result is not bruises or broken bones but the far more subtle and insidious attack upon the human dignity of the resident." In one incident, the report said, a task

Law Seeks Jailbreak Quartet

LONOKE, Ark. (AP) - Authorities searched Friday for four men who broke out of the Lonoke County Jail. Three were in the jail on kidnap charges stemming from a daring Tennessee breakout.

Law enforcement officers at major highways linking Arkansas with other states were on the lookout for a 1977 black Thunderbird which the escapees apparently stole from the jailer.

Sgt. Jerry Reinold of the state police said the four were Larry Chism, 30, of Forrest City, Ark.; George Bonds, 24, of Granite City, Ill.; Floyd Brewer, 29, of Murfreesboro, Tenn.; and Robert McKee, 17, of Missouri. Authorities said they didn't know McKee's hometown.

"We do not know which way they left," Reinold said, adding that as far as police knew the escapees were in the Thunder-

Police had no clues, but would keep on the alert "until we know that they're either caught or are out of the state," he

Reinold said one of the inmates apparently removed a grate over an air conditioning vent in the ceiling, climbed through the hole to get into the area above the ceiling, then crept along the rafters to get to the sheriff's office, where he got a gun and a money bag that held about $200 in fines.

The pistol was not loaded when it was left in the sheriff's office, authorities said, but the jailer - who was confronted with it by the prisoner as the jailer came out of the kitchen - didn't know whether it was loaded or not. At gunpoint, he opened the cellblock door to let the other inmates loose. The jailer, who was not harmed, was locked in a cell. Four other prisoners did not leave.

Three of the escapees - Chism, Bonds and Brewer - were Tennessee prisoners when they obtained weapons while on a prison-sponsored outing at a bowling alley in Dickson, Tenn., Sept. 13. They shot their way out, and, later, forced a pilot to fly them in a small plane to near Marianna. Ark., authorities said. They were charged with theft of property and with kidnapping John King and his wife, Faye, both of Woodlawn, near Lonoke.

McKee, a trusty at the jail, had been charged with auto theft, authorities said. Reinold said that because of the airplane hijacking connected with the Tennessee escape, authorities feared that the escapees might try to comandeer an aircraft. Police alerted airports in the central Arkansas area about the possible danger. Police also asked airport officials to alert officials if any "suspicious persons" were seen.

The inmates apparently took the .22caliber pistol with them, Reinold said. He also said they were believed to have a .357-caliber Magnum, but he said he didn't know how police got that idea.

Police checked a number of reports that a car similar to the jailer's had been seen at a Little Rock service station, but an investigation showed that the car was not the jailer's, Reinold said.

Chism, Bonds and Brewer pleaded innocent Dec. 4 in Lonoke Circuit Court to charges of kidnapping the Kings, who both are in their late 60s. The Kings returned to their home unharmed several days after the alleged kidnapping.

After the Tennessee escape allegedly brought the four to Arkansas, they split

J.L. Thompson told police that he was expecting visitors at his motel room in southeast Lubbock, so when the bandits knocked on the door about 5:10 p.m. he told them to come in. Instead of the expected guests, however. Thompson said he was confronted by a Mexican-American man about 25 years old with a mustache and medium-length black hair. He said the suspect, who was brandishing a small-caliber, blue-steel revolver, told Thompson to lie face down on the floor.

After complying with the order, Thompson said, the armed man and two male companions, whom Thompson said he did not see, then bound his hands and feet with tape and also taped their victim's eyes and mouth before taking the man was wearing a brown coat and dark trousers and was about 5-feet-8 with a medium build.

In other activity Friday, Jesse Mojica of 2405 Third St. said burglars broke down his kitchen door and took an $800 television, $400 worth of stereo equipment, a $200 leather jacket and a 12gauge shotgun worth $150. He said the intruders also opened several Christmas packages but did not take the property.

Delia Garcia said burglars entered her 1322-A 53rd St. home by breaking a window and took a $300 stereo and $100 worth of Christmas gifts.

Jack Brogden of Rt. 3, Lubbock, said he came out of a restaurant at 1:30 p.m. Friday to find a young black man running from Brogden's pickup truck. Brogden said the passenger vent window had been broken and a $150 shotgun taken from Police juvenile officers Friday were mourning the demise of one of their typewriters which now sits atop a desk in several pieces. It was a favorite of one of the detectives.

The typing tool actually worked until about 1:45 a.m. Friday when a 16-yearold arrestee tried to throw it at officer Randy Allison during an attempted es-

Reports show the youth was taken to the police department's juvenile office after being arrested for, among other things, traffic violations and attempting to evade police. The boy allegedly broke loose from ar-up the typewriter. However, while he was attempting to throw the typewriter at Allison, officer Cliff Rice grabbed the suspect and the machine went to the floor - breaking into several pieces.

Steve Lane Vaughn of 2413 32nd St. said he was gone from home from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, and when he returned, he found his place burglarized and $2,700 in property missing, including a television set and stereo equipment.

Leslie Katherine Holland of Box 28277, Lubbock, said her car was burglarized between 3 a.m. and 10:30 p.m. Thursday while it was parked in the 6300-block of Slide Road. She reported $550 in clothing

A 62-year-old Ropesville woman was arrested about 3:30 p.m. Thursday after she allegedly shoplifted a pair of pants, china vase and statue of a bird from a local department store.

The suspect was taken into custody in front of Dillard's Department Store at the South Plains Mall, 6002 Slide Road, after she reportedly was seen walking out of the store with the merchandise.

Six Suits Filed As Result Of Bus-Truck Collision

ROBY (AP) - Attorneys representing nine victims killed or injured in the crash of a school bus and a truck Dec. 8 have filed damage suits against the truck driver and his employer, seeking more than $3.5 million.

Four students from McCaulley High School died and 21 other persons were injured in the wreck 11 miles west of this West Texas town. The bus was carrying the tiny school's boys' and girls' basketball teams on an out-of-town game trip.

Six separate lawsuits have been filed by two different attorneys so far, and legal sources said more lawsuits were expect-dinal Survey Co. of Odessa, owners of the truck, for allowing William Dixon, 21, to drive it. It was later revealed Dixon had been convicted of 13 traffic violations since 1975 including seven convictions in Dixon, of Snyder, has been hospitalized since the accident. Witnesses said he ran the stop sign on a farm road, but no charges have been filed pending action from a grand jury.

Attorney R. Temple Dixon, a former state legislator from Sweetwater filed one suit on behalf of Bonnie and Kathy Pippin. Connie, a senior, was killed in the wreck and her sister, 16, was among the injured. Dixon said the lawsuit does not seek a specific dollar amount but asks for a jury trial and requests the jury set filed five other suits, is seeking $3,558,000 for his clients.

Smith filed on behalf of Anita K. Dunlap, 17, who has been released from the hospital; Edd Farmer, the school superintendent and coach of the boys' team, and his 9-year-old daughter Julie, who have both been released from the hospital: Carla Mae Young, 17, who remains in satisfactory condition in Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene; Bobby Benavides, who is in satisfactory condition in Fisher County Hospital; and Earl Willioms, 18, and his brother Wandell Williams, 15, who have both been released. Smith says $1.5 million is for exemplary, or punitive, damages and the rest is for actual damages.

The victims accuse Dixon of trying to pass a vehicle and running the stop sign in the process.

Smith suggested more suits could be forthcoming.

I have been retained by the McCaulley School District to represent them in any possible action they may take to collect damanes," he said.

Two Injured In Shooting Die

men is now working together like a team of fluid professionals, seguing from that horrid film to a fantastic film of horror entitled "Magic." Though never truly terrifying (you'll have no trouble getting to sleep at night after seeing it), "Magic" remains an endless array of high-pitched tension and captivating confrontations.

It is also, no doubt, the motion picture which will see Hopkins finally granted his long overdue status as one of our finest actors.

Though there are brief moments when the filmmakers unsuccessfully attempt to instill doubt (the attempt was even unsuccessful in the novel), it will be giving nothing away to say that the horror of "Magic" stems not from any of our recent screen visions of demons and anti-Christs, but instead from a return to the good old all-American, red-blooded psychopath. Anthony Hopkins' character, called Corky, we're told, is the best magician to emerge in the past 50 years. But even his mastery of the difficult "rising aces" card trick isn't wowing anyone because Corky is too shy, too mild-mannered. He lacks chutzpah, charm, stage presence, guts and the sort of vulgar banter necessary if one is to hold his own in a smoky bar.

Enter Fats, called "the first X-rated dummy on the block."

By adding ventriloquism to the act, Corky is finally able to express himself through the dummy. Fats is the id, Corky the superego. And the gimmick works so well that Corky is but a step away from fame, fortune and his own NBC series. Only thing is, that step is the network's standard policy of all performers submitting to medical exams - and Corky has this problem he doesn't want anybody to know about...

It's phrased later by his agent beautifully with, "Corky, you ain't in control." Indeed, that id and superego relationship has revealed itself to be one of slave and master. Corky's mind has snapped to the point of schizophrenia. Fats, not Corky, is calling the shots - oftentimes in crude, gruesome, frightening and brutal terms

Both writer Goldman and director Attenborough have obviously been influenced to a point by the Hitchcockian technique with suspense and surprise. There is movement when least expected, a constant sense of foreboding and even the inclusion of a screech of discordant strings during violence a la Bernard Herrman's score in "Psycho." There is a sequence, gorgeously lit, in the middle of a lake in which Corky is shocked to discover the "dead" don't always stay dead — and yet another later on when two men are fishing at that same spot, and we just KNOW what that fish hook has to snag on.

The surprises in both scenes are in the best Alfred Hitchcock style. But where Hitchcock's films and "Magic" differ is in the degree of mystery. The Master suckered us in slowly, giving us a character, say, like Norman Bates in "Psycho" whom we recognized immediately as odd but not as a schizophrenic murderer until late in the picture. In "Magic," however, everything is up front. We realize very early on that Hopkins is crackers, just as we know his attempts to find happiness with the woman he's loved from afar since high school will fail. And just as we know his attempts to separate himself from Fats will fail.

But despite our knowledge of the clues and answers, we sit captivated, our fists gripping the armrests of the theater seats. We are enthralled. We forget about time and place and watch the film as though peeking in on the characters from an adjacent room.

The cause of this effect is the bravura performance by Anthony Hopkins, sure to join the ranks of Jon Voight ("Coming Home") and Brad Davis ("Midnight Express") in the Oscar race next spring. Hopkins' Corky possesses a spacy, vacant, tormented look of suffering in his eyes throughout, to the int where we don't know whether Fats looks like Corky or Corky looks like Fats. Hopkins' cold, sweaty fear and uncertainty are chilling, particularly effective during his quiet conversations with the dummy. (It is Corky who panies, not knowing what to do, and it is Fats who gives the orders and supplies the "solutions.")

Hopkins has always been keen on researching his stage (most agree he was Broadway's best Martin Dysart in "Equus") and screen roles, but who would have ever expected him to go so far as to actually learn magic and ventriloquism? Studying with experts for weeks in advance, he proves himself a capable pupil as he is just as at home when performing card tricks on stage as he is playing the tormented soul. You might also take the time to notice Hopkins is given two screen credits, for playing both Corky and Fats. And for two very good reasons. First, it is Hopkins who supplies the twisted, leering voice of Fats - and second, Fats is indeed a separate character.

But let us not forget the work of director Richard Attenborough, whose talent has been cruelly belittled too often in the past by critics. With "Magic," he displays a veteran's skill with lighting, and his camera angles brilliantly increase the intensity of the suspense. Fats, after all, is a dummy — but Attenborough helps grant the wood personality. Fats can look cute or evil, harmless or demonic, and usually because of the strategic manner in which he (I can't bring myself to say "it") is photographed.

There are other little tricks, such as Attenborough gradually emphasizing Fats' takeover more and more until at last we see Fats and Corky even dressed alike. And there are fine musical effects by composer Jerry Goldsmith, such as that grating harmonica theme for Fats - a discordant sound which intrudes even into the scene in which Hopkins and Ann-Margret make love, just to let us know who else is aware of the fact.

Burgess Meredith offers capable support as Ben Green (called Gangrene by Fals), Corky's agent and the first to discover the ventriloquist's mental disorder, And Ann-Margret offers her best acting since "Carnal Knowledge" in the role of Peggy Ann Snow, the high school cheerleader whose life has turned sour, a woman who wants desperately to believe in Corky's magic, love and offer of future happiness. Ed Lauter, playing a semi-heavy as usual, is also terrific as the suspicious husband introduced to the Truth and Fats at the same shocking moment. But "Magic" is not perfect. It suffers pacing problems during the early moments, its flashbacks are extremely weak (almost to the point of being unnecessary) and some critics say it leans too much on the 1946 British picture called "Dead of Night" (which I haven't seen),

Still, William Goldman's screenplay is much better than the novel which gave it birth, thanks to Hopkins. Imagine, if you will, the timing and concentration necessary to make successful a scene in which a ventriloquist has a violent argument with his dummy. On paper, it's laughable. On film, however, the tension is long and thick. Or the best sequence in the picture: a pressurepacked confrontation between Corky and his agent, with Green challenging his

Navy Denies Medal To Disabled Veteran

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Navy is tary of the Navy reviewed the case and highest military combat award, for a 58- mento. year-old West Islip, N.Y., man.

FATS AND CORKY — The photo could be labeled Fats & Corky, id & superego, slave

& master, or even killer & victim. Corky, right, is a schizophrenic ventriloquist portrayed by Anthony Hopkins. Fats is the dummy in control, which makes for some very tense scenes in the new thriller titled "Magic." Rated R, it is currently playing at the client to "make Fats shut up for five minutes."

It can't be done. That five minutes might as well be five years in Corky's mind, and Hopkins reveals the simple challenge to be mental torture through his skillful acting. When he cracks, Fats supplies his own introduction and is now in control — of us all, not just Corky — and we watch mesmerized as the film becomes a tale of murder and survival.

Indeed, thanks to a fabulous combined filmmaking effort, "Magic" becomes a must-see thriller which holds us in its grip so tightly we may as well be nailed to our seats. And though we may never be truly terrified, there is no denying we are very, very nervous the full time this picture is on the screen. Which, as it turns out, is more than enough.

January End For Allocation Of Gas Seen

NEW YORK (AP) - Shell Oil Co. said Friday it would virtually end on Jan. 1 the gasoline allocation program it began earlier this month when supplies of the fuel ran short.

Shell, the nation's No. 1 producer of gasoline, said it would allow dealers to buy the same amount of gasoline next month as they did in January of previous years, but no more. The firm said it had more gasoline available to sell in January than it did last January but 7 percent less than it had this month.

January gasoline demand is traditionally much lower than December, as snow and ice keep drivers off the roads.

Weather was one of the key factors in Shell's original announcement that it would cut supplies of the fuel it sells to service stations.

The company said earlier this month that good weather through the fall had pushed demand to higher-than-usual levels, particularly for unleaded and highoctane unleaded gasoline.

Sales of unleaded gas have been rising steadily in recent years and now constitute about one-third of the market. To meet federal environmental standards, automakers have been making cars with catalytic converters that require the use of unleaded gas. Although the demand for unleaded gasoline has risen, Shell and other companies say they haven't significantly increased their ability to produce the fuel because they are discouraged from doing so by federal price controls. Other companies reported supply problems at the same time as Shell, but only Standard Oil of Indiana (Amoco) instituted a similar allocation program, affecting only unleaded gasoline

Amoco officials could not be reached for comment on whether their program would continue.

Shell, which said its supply problems were aggravated by repairs to sections of two refineries, cut the amount of all types of gasoline dealers could buy to 75 percent of earlier levels Dec. 1. The allocation was later raised to 95 percent of earlier levels.

Friday's action allowed dealers to receive in January the same amount of gasoline they got last year or in 1972, the last year before the Arab oil embargo changed the gasoline supply situation and nearly doubled prices.

During Shell's allocation program, the company cut its wholesale price by a penny a gallon because it had exceeded federal price control limits.

The spirit of Christmas seemed to b spreading over the city Friday as shoppers thronged stores for last-minute gifts and many residents hit the roads and airways for holiday trips. Texas Tech closed its doors after the last students finished their final exams and fled homeward.

Even motorists got into the Yule spirit, with a city driver quipping that only two cars cut in front of him on the way to work this morning.

Eucharist Expanded To Include Wine

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

U.S. Roman Catholics now are allowed to receive both the consecrated wine and bread of Holy Communion in their regular Sunday worship, a practice never before generally permitted in this country. The change, subject to the option of worshippers. each local bishop, most of whom have indicated they will introduce it, will increase similarities of Catholic and Protestant services.

Protestants always have taken communion in both kinds. Part of the conflict in the 16th century Protestant break from Roman Catholicism was its distribution only of the bread to worshippers.

That practice had been decreed by Roman Catholicism in the 12th century on the premise that Christ is fully present in either element.

However, the Second Vatican Council of 1962-65, abandoning a rule of 700 years, had authorized distribution in both kinds on special occasions such as weddings, baptisms, ordinations and retreats, but not at ordinary Sunday masses.

The list subsequently was expanded, and in 1970, the Vatican left it up to national conferences of bishops whether to extend the permission to Sunday serv-

That step was taken last week by the U.S. National Conference of Catholic Bishops with completion of a mail ballot, showing 187 in favor to 82 opposed, exceeding the required two-thirds. The voting had begun earlier at the fall meeting of the conference in November, but because of absences, it fell narrowly short of the necessary two-thirds. That was attained through the added mail bal-

"The sign of communion is more complete when given under both kinds, since in that form the sign of the Eucharistic meal appears more clearly," says a 1970 general instruction of the Vatican Congregation of Divine Worship

Noting that point, a U.S. liturgical committee said in recommending the change: "It should be at the Eucharistic celebration on Sunday, the Day of the Lord, that the faithful should share most completely in the sacred banquet." Although American Catholics in the past decade have become familiar with receiving communion in both kinds through such practice on special occasions, U.S. bishops previously declined to authorize it for Sunday Masses.

Difficulties had been cited in distributing the consecrated wine, in addition to the wafer of bread, to large numbers of

However, reappraisals of the issue brought the change, with bishops pointing out that the size of many parishes present no problem to distributing in both kinds, and also special assistant ministers now may be commissioned to help when the number of worshippers requires it.

Instituting the process, however, remains up to the option of local bishops and wherever the step is taken, worshippers remain free to receive the wine or not, along with the wafer.

The wine may be given either from a common cup, by "intinction" in which the wafer is dipped in the consecrated wine, or from a spoon.

Intinction is the system used throughout Easter Orthodoxy, while Protestants generally take the wine either from a common cup or small, individual glasses. Denominations that use the common cup also allow intinction, often used by worshippers with colds.

However, the American Medical Association has declared that "as far as we know, there have been no cases of transmission of germs to communicants using a common cup.

"The alcoholic content of the wine, plus the hygienic practice of wiping the cup and turning it to a new position for each communicant seems to remove any

In the spirit of Christmas giving, members of Grace Presbyterian Church are donating their Christmas offering to the Presbyterian Medical Center in Lubbock, 2305 Cedar Ave.

The church, which has about 50 member families, has gathered more than $600 to give to the center for urgent repairs of the building.

The Christmas offering from Grace Presbyterian Church is in additon to the normal benevolence giving of the congre-gation, a spokesman for the church said. The Christmas offering will be used to

The Presbyterian Medical Center, which provides medical attention to indigent adults, was founded in January, 1966. The idea for the center was conceived in 1965 when a number of Lubbock Presbyterians, including some physicians, became aware of the need for medical and counseling assistance in the lower income areas of Lubbock.

It provides medical services to low income youth and adults not eligible for welfare and not able to afford private coverage. It is staffed mostly by volunteers, who donate their time to work at

Shah's Backers Turn Out

Signs Of Diminishing Tension Seen

TEHRAN (AP) - Scores of motorists backing Shab Mohammad Reza Pahlavi drove past the imperial palace Friday with their car lights on and horns tooting in a demonstration of loyalty to the 59year-old monarch.

Occupants of some cars waved banners from windows bearing pictures of the shah and his son, Crown Prince Reza, as they passed by the Niavaran Palace on the outskirts of the capital.

Soldiers and police ignored the caravan, despite official warnings against demonstrations of any kind.

More than 1,400 persons have died in a year of anti-government disturbances spearheaded by religious and political opponents of the shah. They are seeking to end his 37-year reign.

Soldiers in full combat gear prevented a group of demonstrators from entering a Tehran University building in support of about 100 professors staging a sit-in to demand reopening of the campus.

No date has been announced for opening the university, a hotbed of anti-shah activity that was closed Nov. 6 after a week of bloody street rioting and appointment of a military government.

There were no serious incidents at the university. Troops stood guard by the campus gates and troopers blocked traffic along the street that runs past the building where the professors were protesting. No serious incidents have been reported in this capital city of 4.5 million since Wednesday, when a policeman and antishah demonstrator were killed in a shooting in the main bazaar. In a sign of lessening tension, the officials from the secondary schools scheduled classes for Saturday. The schools have been closed for six weeks. Martial law authorities warned that if the apolitical figures he's approached are reluctant to commit themselves to joining him.'

A close aide to Karim Sanjabi, head of the shah's major political opposition group, the National Front, said the front would refuse to take part in any future government as long as the shah remained

We consider that Mr. Sadiqi is cooperating with the same corrupt system that he had opposed for years," the aide said in an interview.

Sadiqi, a former National Front member, served as interior minister in the government of Mohammad Mossadegh, which nationized Iran's oil industry. Mossadegh was ousted after a military coup in 1953 and the shah, who had fled the country, was returned to the throne.

In another apparent liberalization move, the government announced that 200 political prisoners will be relased after a committee screening their cases completes its work.

The Ministry of Justice said records of all persons convicted of political offenses would be wiped clean, allowing them to obtain jobs which require government clearance, such as teaching positions.

The shah has been under fire from conservative Moslem leaders who claim his Western-style reforms are eroding traditional Islamic values in Iran. Political activists oppose his authoritarian rule and the lack of civil liberties.

Carter Visits Granddaughter On Way Home For Christmas

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - President Carter, heading home for a family holiday here, stopped briefly Friday at an Atlanta hospital to see his first granddaughter who was born there three days ago. The president, wife Rosalynn and all of their children made the visit at Crawford

Long Memorial Hospital. After landing at Dobbins Air Force Base in Marietta, the president was driven about 25 miles to the hospital for a half hour visit with his eldest son Jack, daughter-in-law Judy and the baby, Sarah Rosemary. Well, its a beautiful granddaughter and I can't possibly have a better Christmas gift," the president said as he left the hospital. The Carters and their other three children visited the child in the nursery and then stopped by Judy's hospital room while reporters waited in the hospital lobby.

Carter, up from his sickbed after a painful attack of hemorrhoids, arrived in his hometown of Plains about 8:30 p.m. CST. He told reporters he felt better but was heeding advice to take it easy.

'I'm going to be very careful. I have got the advice of everyone in the United States" he said of his painful condition. He said he had suffered so much that the possibility of surgery had arisen.

'Last night it was a pretty sure thing. But I think my prayers were answered." the Carter said. The president and his wife were accompanied on the trip from Washington by their other grandchildren, James Earl Carter IV, the 1-year-old son of Chip and Caron Cart-

Sarah Rosemary, named after her grandmothers, was born Tuesday. She and her mother are scheduled to leave the hospital today. The trip to Plains, though planned for several weeks, was in doubt Thursday when the president canceled his appointments and spent most of the day in bed because of painful hemorrhoids.

INVESTORS' GUIDE By BILL DOYLE

Q. My wife and I have a total income of approximately $25,500 a year - $6,000 from Social Security, $11,000 from interest on our $130,000 in savings certificates and $8,500 net from rental property. The total annual rents from the property are

The rental property is our problem. The costs of repairs, taxes and insurance keep going up. It is very hard to raise rents to proper levels. And ownership of that property keeps us from going away for any long periods of time. Do you advise any changes in our status?

A. I'm afraid many of the renters who read this will want to throw rocks - or worse - in this direction. But it's obvious that you have two choices - either raise the rents or sell that property.

The annual rents you are collecting amount to less than 11 percent of the value of that property. After meeting your expenses, you're netting just a shade more than 7 percent. That's ridiculously low return. I can't tell you what the rent should be on that particular piece of property. That depends on many different things, such as the location and condition of the building.

But if you had a mortgage on that property - at current interest rates - you would net almost nothing at all. You would, of course, have a tax advantage. I hope you have a good accountant who works out the tax details on rental property for you. If you sell and realize $120,000, you can put that money to work producing more income than it is now. You're doing better with your savings certificates. If you raise the rents, you should be able to pay someone to look after the property when you go away for extended periods of Either way, you would get out from under. As a retired couple with a reasonable amount of wealth, you're entitled to do what you like. If that includes taking extended vacations, get your affairs in or-der so you can do just that.

Q. I recently invested $1,000 in a mutual fund and committed myself to pay $50 a month into the fund. I made this purchase through a friend who recently became an anlyst for that fund and who impressed on me that my money could be withdrawn at any time - without the penalty one must take by withdrawing money from a savings certificate before the certificate matures. I'm 25 and a registered nurse. My parents advised me to put my money in savings certificates. What do you advise?

A. First off, I'd lay long odds that your 'friend" is a salesperson - not an analyst. I can just see real security analysts who spend their working hours evaluating stocks, bonds and other securities - bristling at the thought of being lumped together with mutual fund ped-plan goes to pay commissions. So if you cash in early, you stand to lose about half of your investment. That's a much bigger penalty than on savings certificates. I have to say that you should have listened to your parents - at least until you looked over the mutual fund field. Most funds have lower commission charges. Some - the "no-load mutual funds" - have no commission at all.

Q. According to you, real estate is one of the best investments. But I have heard many rumors that real estate values are going to drop drastically in about two months. How do you justify your statement?

A. Write me in two months, 10 months or 10 years and try to justify those 'scare' rumors. Good real etate has been a tremendous investment over the years. I believe it will continue to be.

Christmas Mail Volume Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) - After a slow start, the volume of Christmas mail has soared in recent days, says Lou Eberhardt, a spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service.

This year's inevitable mailing rush began with mailings on Dec. 16 and continued through Tuesday, Eberhardt said, adding that prior to last weekend the seasonal volume had been trailing that of previous years. But Eberhardt said the total number of letters delivered for the entire month of December has risen to 1.4 billion, almost the same as at this time a year ago.

Accused Hijacker Waits On Prosecution Decision

Robin Oswald, described as a "calm, collected young lady," waited in jail Friday while lawyers met to decide if she should be tried as a juvenile or an adult in connection with the hijacking of a Trans World Airlines jetliner.

U.S. Attorney James Burgess of the Eastern District of Illinois said it must also be determined whether she will be named on state or federal charges.

Miss Oswald, 17, is the daughter of Barbara A. Oswald, who was killed seven months ago by the pilot of a helicopter she had hijacked in what state police said was an effort to take three prisoners, including Garrett Brock Trapnell, out of the Marion Federal Penitentiary

Authorities said Miss Oswald also demanded Trapnell's release. Trapnell and another prisoner, Martin J. McNalley, were convicted Thursday night, about half an hour before Miss Oswald surrendered, for complicity in the May 24 escape attempt involving Miss Oswald's mother. Testimony at the trial linked

Trapnell and Mrs. Oswald romantically, Miss Oswald, a high school dropout from in suburban St. Louis, was transferred to the juvenile section of the St. Clair County Jail early Friday after she

Robert Schuff, a Mount Vernon attorney appointed to represent her, said he thinks the government "will move to try her as an adult within 10 days."

Miss Oswald surrendered aboard the DC-9 jet Thursday night about nine hours after authorities said she diverted it to Williamson County Airport in Marion and demanded Trappell's release.

She said she had strapped three sticks of dynamite to her chest and would blow up the plane unless she could speak to Trapnell, 40,

DO nibble through the evening if you really feel hungry - just a little at a time. Many discotheques provide energy food free - bowls of chocolates, fruits,

One of the hardest things for day people to get used to is staying up late so that they can go out to play. Disco doesn't really get going until midnight, anyway, in the cities - a little earlier in the suburbs - so you'll have time for at least four hours' sleep. RECEPTION HONORS PLAINVIEW COUPLE - Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Green of Plainview will celebrate their 50th anniversary today with a reception from 2-4 p.m. in First United Methodist Church of Plainview. Children of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jack N. George of Tucumcari, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Dodd of Lindsay, Okla, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Keibler of Kamiah, Idaho will host. Green and the former Mamie Lue Pinkerton were married Dec. 23, 1928 in Osceola. The couple has ten grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Doctor: I am determined to lose an excess load of about 100 pounds to get myself down to near normal weight. How long should that take me on a reasonable non-starvation diet? I want to take the advice you give others and do it sensibly. If I follow your plan, could I do it in sev eral months? - J.V.

You should be able to manage this in about a year. A reasonable goal for you might be two pounds a week over this period. You must realize, of course, that this will not be possible each and every week. Little plateaus will occur when there will be no progress for a couple of weeks. This is temporary and should not deter you or discourage you.

Here's something to keep in mind. Generally, every pound of unnecessary (fatty) weight represents about 3,500 calories of food, so reducing about 7,000 calories a week (the two pounds mentioned) isn't unreasonable. You can do most of the job with less sweets and fats. The arithmetic is easy. The rest of it is not. Much depends, too, on how much activity you engage in. You can juggle the calorie figures to suit yourself. If cutting back by 500 calories a day seems more reasonable, go ahead with that, but count on a longer period.

Weight loss seldom fits into any neat formula. What cannot be fed into them are such intangibles as motivation and temptation. Your motivation sounds fine. As for the plan, it's not so much a plan, but a collection of common sense facts about the body. Oh, yes, there are suggested menus and all the rest, but what it all boils down to are a few simple measures anyone with common sense and sufficient motivation might figure out for himself. If you feel you need some help in getting started you can get the materi-"Lost Secrets of Reducing," by writing to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Doctor: I have been to the doctor's for a complete examination. I have been told I have cholesterol. I eat for breakfast raisin bran, a half cup of lowfat milk, and two slices of wheat bread. My typical lunch is a couple of slices of bread, and four slices of cucumbers and tomatoes (with low cholesterol dressing). At night I have vegetable soup and a four-ounce piece of boiled meat. I am 140 and 5 feet, 1 inch in height. I don't drink li-quor. My problem is that I cannot afford to go to the hospital for blood tests every month. I am 56. Can you suggest something for me? — Mrs. E.S.

It would help to know the precise cho-lesterol level found in the tests. In any event your diet regimen seems tailored to lowering it as much as diet can. And from what you write, the weight loss that will be a spin-off from it can only help. As I've noted high cholesterol and overweight are usually companions. It's hard to tell whether all this expensive testing is necessary. High cholesterol of itself is not an immediate life-threatening condition. If you have doubts, simply ask the doctor if the testing is really needed, or see another doctor for his opinion of just where you do stand with regard to the

Dear Doctor: I am an arthritis sufferer. My doctor tells me I must go on a blood thinner medicine for a circulation problem. I have been told that aspirin, which I take for arthritis, won't mix with the blood thinners. Will I have to forgo the aspirin? - Mrs. P.A.

It is true the salycilates (aspirin) may increase the effects of anticoagulants, the so-called thinners. This is also true with acetominophen, ibuprofen, indometha-cin, and others used in arthritis. Your own doctor can prescribe. Most are available under various trade names. Your doctor might be interested in a discussion of this problem in a recent issue of "Drug Therapy" (October 1978).

Dear Doctor: The last time I had my eyes checked, the doctor said he thought I had glaucoma, but it wasn't enough to worry about. I thought once you had this some action was necessary. I am 52. Please advise. - Mrs. J.K.

It is my opinion that any amount of glaucoma (increased fluid pressure in the eyes) calls for some action. It should be investigated. Some process is going on to cause the increased pressure and that should be interrupted, if possible.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

NEW YORK (WNS) - Who do you suppose still will be interested in Farrah Fawcett-Majors, Kate Jackson, Jaclyn Smith or Margeaux Hemingway 40 years from now? But Greta Garbo, who hasn't made a movie in 37 years, is still big news wherever she goes and whatever she

As Garbo's 73rd birthday rolled around recently, here are some anecdotes and little known facts about the Silent Swede:

She was born Greta Gustaffson in a Stockholm slum district.

At 19. director Mauritz Stiller - often called her only great love - became her Svengali, advised her on clothes, makeup, how to act at interviews. After she lost 20 pounds, he cast her in his film, 'Gosta Berling's Saga," suggested she change her name to Garbo - and her career was under way.

The auto driver's license that was issued to Garbo in July 1924 carried the name Greta Louise Garbo. The document. No. 16455, was just auctioned by Charles Hamilton Galleries here, which hardly ever is able to offer a Garbo auto-

To New Yorkers, nostalgia-oriented or not, it's somewhat reassuring to know that every day, rain or shine, Garbo walks the streets of Manhattan - exiting like clockwork from her longtime 450 East 52nd St. residence.

Don Kingman, Hammer Galleries' famous watercolor artist, a kite freak, recently took two youngsters kite flying in Central Park. A changing wind caused the kite to sag and fly far away. When Kingman followed the string, he eventually found the kite, tangled around the leg of an unperturbed older woman who turned out to be - Garbo!

In his book, "Cocktails for Two" (Arlington House) ASCAP songwriter Sam Coslow recalls, "We leased Garbo's former home on Angelo Drive, Beverly Hills, and every day during the 12 months of our lease a busload of tourists stopped in front of the house precisely at 5 p.m., walked up to our front lawn, took dozens of snapshots. The house was still listed as Garbo's at the office of the sightseeing bus. When I told the driver she hadn't lived there for several years, he turned to the tourists and said. "See what I mean? She's still denying it!"

Garbo has no TV set, not even in her bedroom. Occasionally she may watch certain programs in friends' homes, such as Joe Franklin's Memory Lane, accord ing to Jessica Dragonette, singer and Garbo friend.

When she frequents the Great American Health Bar on Manhattan's West 57th St., she'll sit at the first or last table of the dining-car shaped place, have soup, salad, bran muffin, honey. She's rarely recognized by patrons.

Last year she was photographed looking rather bedraggled and unhappy. Has she recently taken more interest in her looks? Yes and no. She has lightened her hair considerably, looks blonde again instead of gray. But she went to the Bergdorf-Goodman 6th floor branch of Great American in slacks and old worn tennis

Surprisingly, she's also been to Stars Deli (where the absence of a signed Garbo photo is noticeable among those of the many famous regulars) to enjoy salt-free Nova Scotia salmon. She still buys most

William Stevenson reveals that during World War II Garbo provided valuable tips to the British Intelligence chief about Nazi activity in her native Stockholm, even doing courier work for him providing introductions to the right people back home.

Over a decade ago, when the Twist was king and each night the walls of the tiny Peppermint Lounge in the Times Square area reverberated to the sound of gyrating celebrities. 'Wizard Of Oz' Written As Political Allegory

By PETER DREIER (c) 1978 Pacific News Service

Whether they are fans of Judy Garland and "Over the Rainbow" or prefer the recent $20 million black film with Diana Ross and "No Bad News," almost all Americans know the characters from 'The Wizard of Oz." But few are aware that the story was originally written as a political allegory.

It may seem harder to believe than the Emerald City, but the Tin Woodsman is the industrial worker, the Scarecrow the struggling farmer, and the Wizard is the president, who is powerful only as long as he succeeds in deceiving the people.

"The Wonderful Wizard of Oz" was written by Lyman Frank Baum in 1900, during the collapse of the Populist movement. Through the Populist Party, Midwestern farmers, in alliance with some urban workers had challenged the banks,

The populists advocated government ownership of railroads, telephone and telegraph industries. They also wanted silver coinage. Their power grew during the 1893 depression, the worst in U.S. history until then, as farm prices sank to new lows and unemployment was wide-

In 1894, Jacob S. Coxey, a Populist lumber dealer from Massillon, Ohio, led a mass march of unemployed workers to Washington to demand a federal works program. That same year, President Grover Cleveland called in federal troops to put down the nationwide Pullman strike - at that time, the largest strike in American history. As the Populists saw things, the monopolies were growing richer, the workers and farmers, ever

In the 1894 Congressional elections, the Populist Party got almost 40 percent of the vote. It looked forward to winning the presidency, and the silver standard,

But in that election, which revolved around the issue of gold vs. silver, Populist-Democrat William Jennings Bryan lost to Republican William McKinley by 95 electoral votes. Bryan, a congressman from Nebraska and a gifted orator, ran again in 1900, but the Populist strength was gone.

Baum viewed these events in both rural South Dakota - where he edited a local weekly - and urban Chicago - where he wrote "Oz." He mourned the destruction of the fragile alliance between the Midwestern farmers (the Scarecrow) and the urban industrial workers (the Tin Man). Along with Bryan (the Cowardly Lion with a roar but little else), they had been taken down the yellow brick road (the gold standard) that led nowhere. Each journeyed to Emerald City seeking favors from the Wizard of Oz (the president). Dorothy, the symbol of Everyman, went along with them, innocent enough to see the truth before the others.

Along the way they meet with the Wicked Witch of the West who, Baum tells us, had kept the little Munchkin people "in bondage for many years, making them slave for her night and day." She had also put a spell on the Tin Woodsman, once an independent and hardworking man, so that each time he swung his axe, it chopped off a different part of his body. Lacking another trade, he worked harder than ever," becoming like a machine, incapable of love, yearning for a heart. The Wicked Witch of the West clearly symbolizes the large industrial corporations.

Like Coxey's Army, the small group heads toward Emerald City where the Wizard rules from behind a papier mache facade. Oz, by the way, is the abbreviation for ounce, the standard measure for sees him as an enormous head. The Scarecrow sees a gossamer fairy. The Woodsman sees an awful beast, the Cowardly Lion "a ball of fire, so fierce and glowing he could scarcely bear to gaze upon it.

Like all good politicians, the Wizard can be all things to all people. Dorothy

Later, however, when they confront the Wizard directly, they see he is no-thing more than "a little man, with a bald head and a wrinkled face."

"I have been making believe," the Wizard confesses. "I'm just a common man." But the Scarecrow adds, "You're more than that ... you're a humbug.' "It was a great mistake my ever letting you into the Throne Room," admits the Wizard, a former ventriloquist and circus ballonist from Omaha. This was Baum's ultimate Populist message. The powers-that-be survive by deception. Only people's ignorance allows the powerful to manipulate and con-

Dorothy returns to Kansas with the magical help of her Silver Shoes (the silver issue), but when she gets to Kansas she realizes her shoes "had fallen off in her flight through the air, and were lost forever in the desert." Still, she is safe at home with Aunt Em and Uncle Henry, simple farmers.

Baum realized perhaps that the silver issue had been lost, but that silver was not the crucial issue anyway. The Populists had been led astray - the real question was that of power. With the Wizard of Oz dethroned, the Scarecrow (farmers) rules Emerald City, the Tin Woodsman (industrial workers) rules in the West, and the Lion (Bryan) protects smaller beasts in "a small old forest." In Baum's vision, farm interests gain political power, industry moves West, and Bryan, perhaps, returns to Congress. Baum's characters resonated with American popular culture at the turn of the century. He even displayed an early sympathy for native Americans of the Plains, symbolized in the story by the Winged Monkeys in the West, whose leader tells Dorothy, "Once...we were a free people, living happily in the great forest... This was many years ago, long before Oz came out of the clouds to rule over this land."

The story remains intact in both film versions, but the message has disappeared. Ironically, the first film was made in 1939, during the next major depression, when business was once again challenged by farmers, industrial works ers and progressive politicians.

In 1977, Aljean Hermetz detailed the history of the 1939 film in a book, "The Making of 'The Wizard of Oz." He credited Baum but did not mention the story was a political parable. The first full explanation of the book as a parable appeared in an essay by Henry M. Littlefield in the 1964 American Quarterly.

Eight of the nine Common Market countries have agreed to enter the European Monetary System (EMS) when it goes into operation Jan 1

By tying their currencies closely together, they hope to be able to resist the turmoil on exchange markets caused mostly by the dramatic decline of the dollar in the past couple of years.

Britain will remain on the sidelines for the time being, but is expected to try to keep the pound sterling tightly in line with the currencies inside the system.

EMS eventually could lead to the creation of a European Monetary Fund along the lines of the International Monetary Fund, and optimists envisage that one day it will produce a common European currency, although this probably would be known by different names from country to country.

That is for the distant future. What is important now, EEC officials say, is that and cooperation on monetary stability

clearly that Europe cannot escape from the economic doldrums without coordinated and collective measures

Individual efforts so far have not been lequate to break the recession's pincer grip of unemployment and inflation.

Britain — along with Ireland and Italy, which joined EMS at the last moment with misgivings - fears that the system may be shortlived unless there is a mechanism that guarantees the transfer of wealth from richer areas to poorer.

West Germany, one of the richer areas, resists such proposals as being likely to involve it in costly rescue efforts that would drive up its rate of inflation.

The British argue that for a monetary system to succeed, rates of growth and inflation must be brought closely into line. Inflation now varies from less than 3 percent in West Germany to about 14

Attacking money problems before dealing with underlying economic imbalances, the British argument goes, is like putting the cart before the horse.

But a start has to be made somewhere, in which the Europeans already have some experience through their existing monetary "snake" — makes a good point of departure, according to senior EEC officials who have been pushing EMS. They hope the monetary system eventually will set the Common Market back toward its goals of economic and political unity.

In fact, over the past two years the major European economies have been com-ing together in terms of overall performance, and the trend appears likely to continue in 1979. Providing that there is a pe riod of currency stability, EMS should be able to get off the ground and set the conditions for greater stability and cooperation, EEC officials say.

Partly because of the monetary prospects, partly because of improvements in the trade situation in 1978, "the period ahead is seen as being one of gradual rather than dramatic economic recover-" the EEC Commission said in its annual economic report for 1978-79.

"The growth rate is now strengthening, and valuable improvements have been made in price performance and in the external payments situation.

Jewelry is back in fashion this year. But that doesn't mean you have to purchase the Hope diamond. Since today's fashions reflect many of the styles from rears gone by, you might wish to pull some of the following items out of mothballs:

- Just as the "little black dress" of the roaring '20s is back, so are the pearls and beads that were worn with it. But the new look demands that they be larger or more numerous than before.

 In the '20s, jewelry was not necessarily valuable. But it was dashing, colorful and fun. Today, with clothing again free of frills, such "junk" jewelry is high fashion.

 Does grandmother's link bracelet look familiar? That's because it's back in style again. Only the look of today's version is pre-Columbian — with bright colors and gold touches.

Presentation of a $110,000 check to Texas Tech University President Cecil Mackey has made it possible for construction to begin shortly after Jan. 1 for the Robert L. Snyder Memorial Drive, portieo and parking area at the Ranching Heritage Center.

The Center, a 12-acre outdoor exhibit of The Museum of Texas Tech University, was dedicated July 2, 1976, and, while most of the exhibit has been completed, there has never been an adequate parking area. The late Robert L. "Bob" Snyder was director of the Ranching Heritage cssociation during the preparation for the formal dedication. Memorial gifts given after his death Oct. 1, 1977, became the foundation for a campaign to raise additional funds for the paving project, one that had a priority set by Snyder.

Snyder was well known for his service to the West Texas Museum Association, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, United Way, Lubbock County American Red Cross, Guadalupe Neighborhood Center, Red Raider Club, Texas Tech Foundation and other civic organizations. He was a television executive for much of his business life and also was a rancher.

Tom B. Simmons Jr. served as chairman for the memeorial project. Mrs. Patti Pyle was campaign chairman.

Tolkien Fascinated By Celtic, Revulsed By War

By BARRY RENFREW

ciated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — "The Lord of the Rings," a vast animated epic based on a book by J.R.R. Tolkien, opened in theaters across the country this week, one of the major films of the Christmas season.

"The Lord of the Rings" is about a mythical world called Middle Earth, where men, elves, dwarves, trolls, wizards and other exotic creatures are locked in a titanic struggle between good

It is a theme that seems better-suited to children than adults, yet it has been eagerly awaited by millions of Tolkien admirers, young and old, and an even greater number intrigued by the spell Tolkien has cast over so many.

Who was this British professor who, largely unknown until his death, with just two books attracted a following that borders on a movement? Why have so many found in his works a vision more appealing than any reality?

The story of John Ronald Ruell Tolkien and the worlds he created begins with the languages he made up as a child to amuse

When he was 4 years old, Tolkien was fascinated by the names of the Welsh towns — Tredegar, Penrhiwceibir — stenciled on the sides of railroad cars that passed near his home. They were Celtic, an ancient language once spoken across half of Europe

Delighting in their rich, poetic sounds, Tolkien began to imitate them in his own languages. Through Celtic, Tolkien also discovered history. Above all he discovered the myths and legends of the past and their swirling tapestrys of adventures and fantastic creatures.

Enchanted, Tolkien began to compose stories and poems based on them.

As Tolkien grew older, far from forgetting what might have seemed childish games, his interests increased. At Oxford University, he built twin careers of them as an eminent linguist and writer.

But it was not until his bloody experiences as an army officer in the World War I that he conceived of a purpose in his writing.

As he watched men die by the thousands for the sheer sake of war and slaughter, Tolkien despaired of the modern world. His thoughts turned increasingly to the old legends. He found a refuge in them he yearned to share with others.

At the end of the war, Tolkien hurried home to Oxford where he led the stately life of a professor, only occasionally dressing up. Apart from his habit of driving his car straight at crowds of pedestrians blocking his way, all the while assuring his passengers, "Charge 'em and they scatter!" he looked to his writing for adventure and excitement.

imagination, Tolkien pursued his dream of sharing that excitement with others. Using the legends as a foundation he created from the hopes and dreams of humans in every age a mythology for the modern world.

It took him 60 years.

In later years, Tolkien described himself as an historian and his writings as a glimpse of the world's earliest beginnings. When questioned, he would con-cede that he didn't really suppose elves, monsters and wizards had once inhabited the world. But he said, "Always I had the sense of recording what was already 'there,' somewhere: not of 'inventing'.

His son Michael caught the spirit of his father's appeal. "He simply answered the call of people wearied by the ugliness, the speed, the shoddy values, the slick philosophies which have been given them as dreary substitutes for beauty, mystery, excitement, adventure, and heroism.'

Tolkien's effect and popularity has been tremendous. The boxed sets of "The Lord of the Rings" are a fixtures in bookstores. Every year, countless numbers discover his works while his fans read and study the books time and again. Tolkien is assured of a place both in the history of literature and the imagination of our times. Yet he will always be something of a mystery. Was he just an in-

Drama Outscores Comedy In 'California Suite'

FILMETER is compiled by Dick Kleiner in Hollywood and the N.E.A. staff in both Hollywood and New York.

NEW RELEASE

CALIFORNIA SUITE (PG) — Jane Fonda, Alan Alda, Maggie Smith, Michael Caine, Walter Matthau. Comedy and drama. Neil Simon's story, like his "Plaza Suite," is a group of stories united only by the fact that they all take place in one hotel — this time, The Beverly Hills Hotel. Director Herb Ross is much more successful with the dramatic stories than with the comedies, which become embarrassing. Fonda and Smith are superb. GRADE: A. (for the dramas), C (for the comedies) and, thus, B (overall).

GENERAL RELEASE
KING OF THE GYPSIES (R) — Sterling Hayden, Susan Sarandon, Shelly

Winters, Judd Hirch, Brooke Shields, Eric Roberts. Drama. Slick attempt to raid the gypsy underworld for "Godfather" material falls victim to a dull, predictable story and a messy stew of ethnic cliches. No feeling for the milieu or the people. Casting and acting are strikingly poor. GRADE: C-minus (Handler).

LORD OF THE RINGS (PG) — Animated fantasy. J.R.R. Tolkien's works come to the screen, animated by Ralph Bakshi of "Fritz the Cat" fame. If you are familiar with Tolkien's creations—hobbits, black horseman and the rest—this could be exciting. But if you're not, it's gibberish. The art work is beautiful, but the story is impossible for aliens to follow. And caution—animated or not, it is so violent that it's not for kids. GRADE: B for Tolkien fans; D for the rest of us.

MOVIE, MOVIE. (G) — George C. Scott, Trish VanDevere, Red Buttons. Comedy musical. Double-bill salute-cum-spoof of the '30s and '40s fight films and musicals that has it all down pat, right down to the last cliche. You can still get the real thing on the late show, but this is worth a few chuckles and a tap dance down memory lane. GRADE: B. (O'Brian)

PARADISE ALLEY (PG) — Sylvester Stallone. Drama. Stallone, who wrote, directed and starred in this, tries to do for wrestling what "Rocky" did for boxing. It's a crude and seamy look at a crude and seamy world, with a few flashes of humor and tenderness seeming awkward and out of place. GRADE:

SAME TIME NEXT YEAR (PG) — Alan Alda, Ellen Burstyn. Romantic comedy. Bernard Slade's play worked beautifully on the stage, but it falls flat on its proscenium on film. There is simply not enough there for a movie. And the story — about the couple who meet every year to renew their non-married love affair — is just too flimsy. It isn't a bad film, merely a dreary one. GRADE: C

SLOW DANCING IN THE BIG CITY

(PG) — Paul Serviso, Anne Ditchburn.
Love story, Despite a good performance by Sorvino as a Bresilinesque newspaper columnist who falls in love with a young, confused ballet dancer, this film just tries too hard. Ditchburn's moody frowns and John Avildsen's cloying direction contribute to the end result — an unlikely romance in unlikely words and pictures. GRADE: D. (Booth)

STEVIE (PG) — Glenda Jackson, Trevor Howard, Mona Washbourne, Drama. This is less a movie than a filmed reading from the life and works of English poet Stevie Smith. Jackson, in the title role, and her co-stars look directly into the camera and recite long monologues about Stevie's intense inner life. If you can get past this unfamiliar convention, the excellent performances are rewarding. GRADE: B-plus. (Miller)

(Film grading: A — superb; B — good; C — average; D — poor; F — awful)

Abbie Hoffman Asks For Forgiveness

"I was wrong. I'm sorry and I want to come

So writes Abbie Hoffman, America's most famous fugitive and Feature magazine's travel editor, in the magazine's debut issue. It seems he's given up his game of "Catch me if you can," for another called "Forgive the fugitive"

"I was wrong to tell children to kill their parents," he continues in his confession. "It was the children's fault. Spoiled, selfish brats made the '60s. We encouraged children to leave home. Forgive me, mother.

"It's mind-boggling, but being a fugitive I've seen the way other people live and it's made me realize just how wrong I was. You know how it is when you're young and not in control. I'd like to go back to school — I've always had an itch to become a certified public accounts."

had an itch to become a certified public accountant and work with the Indians."

Alluding to the drug charges that have kept him on the lam for so long, Hoffman said, "If Keith Richard is willing to sing for the blind (part of Richard's sentence for a drug conviction), I'm willing to sing for the deaf.

chard's sentence for a drug conviction), I'm willing to sing for the deaf.

"I realize I can't repair all the damages, but I'm willing to roll up my sleeves and give it a try. Now can I come back?"

So far, the FBI hasn't responded.

Monterey Jazz Ensemble To Play In Hawaiian Music Festival

Officials of the Hawaiian Jazz Festival will know Keith Bearden's students are from West Texas. It's not what the youngsters wear, or how they talk - but the whooping and other cowboy yelps that mark their foot-stomping version of 'Muleskinner Blues.

Bearden directs the Monterey High School jazz ensemble, which next week will perform at the prestigious festival in Honolulu. The fourth annual Christmas festival will feature mainland jazz groups and Hawaiian professionals.

Only two other Texas high-school bands one from San Antonio, the other from Falfurrias - were invited by the International Jazz Tour to participate.

The festival runs from Tuesday through Jan. 1. The Monterey ensemble will play at three concerts - Thursday at a Waikiki Beach hotel, Friday at a shopping center and Dec. 31 at a Honolulu park.

Bearden said 22 Monterey students will perform. In addition, he said, three Monterey graduates, all outstanding musiwill sit in with the group. They are Jerry Killion, a Texas Tech University junior and son of Tech band director Dean Killion, on trumpet; David Webb, Tech freshman, on trombone; and Chris Seiter, a North Texas State University sophomore, on trombone.

"It's quite an honor to be invited to this. We're all very excited," Bearden

The Monterey group, co-directed by Mack Bibb, will be staying at the University of Hawaii. The ensemble will be accompanied by numerous Monterey band members and parents - 194 persons in Individual students earned their own travel funds, Bearden said.

Among the tunes the Monterey ensemble will perform are "Marshal," "Who's Sorry Now," "Samba de Haps," "Lovebeams," "Hexagon Mat Dance," "Peg," "I'll Take Romance," "Live!" (from Dick Clark's television show), "Look at that Girl," and "Muleskinner Blues." The last one is "a real ground-stomper," a mixture of jazz and country,

Frankincense, Myrrh Made Arabia Wealthy

(Last of six parts)

When Jesus was born, reports the Gospel of Matthew, wise men came to pay him homage. Their gifts were gold, frankincense and myrrh. Now seldom used, frankincense and myrrh were fragrant gum-resins possessing great value in the ancient world.

All the forests producing these scents were owned by the people of southern Arabia. In the first century, Roman historian Pliny described the south Arabians as the wealthiest people in the world. If so, it was entirely due to their monopoly of the frankincense and myrrh trade.

Archaeological finds support Pliny's contention. The resins come from trees native to only two areas, which today are the Peoples' Demmocratic Republic of Yemen and neighboring Oman along the Gulf of Aden, and Somalia, just across the gulf in Africa.

Archaeologist R. LeBaron Bowen, excavating in Yemen, discovered circles positioned in straight lines. He concluded this had been the location of an an-

Frankincense - which has a sweet, balsam-like aroma - was generally used as an incense. Myrrh - which gives off a pungent, but pleasantly aromatic fragrance - was the basis of perfumes and cosmetics. Both were also widely employed as medicines.

These substances were obtained by making incisions in the tree trunks. Sap hardened into round resinous "tears" upon contact with the air. Trees were usually tapped once in a year, in May. But because of demand, they were sometimes tapped again in the fall. Tears were stored in large buildings constructed especially for the purpose.

In Oman, archaeologist Ray Cleveland recently found remains of one of these ancient warehouses. It had once comprised nine storage rooms plus a larger room that was a temporary living quarters for workmen and guards.

At these installations, the hardened drops of scent were closely guarded. Pliny reports that theft by employees was controlled by marking workmen's aprons with an identifying seal. A worker was also compelled to wear over his face a close-meshed net, whih prevented him from concealing drops in his mouth, and to remove all clothing upon leaving the building.

Both substances were so widely used that the south Arabians could barely keep up with world demand

Frankincense, holy to the Hebrew god Yahweh, was burned on the altars of Israel. It was included in the elaborate burial furnishings of Egyptian Pharaoh DIGGING THE BIBLE

Tutankhamen. At Roman funeral services, it masked the odor of burning bod-

Myrrh was the basis for expensive perfume blends, such as the "Egyptian" and the Greek "Megaleion," both considered excellent fragrances for women because "their strength and substantial character do not easily evaporate ... and a lasting perfume is what women require."

Some 3,500 years ago, Egypt's female pharaoh, Hatshepsut, rubbed myrrh on her legs to perfume them. A six-month beauty treatment with the substance was required of all candidates for queenship in Persia. Myrrh was also used during embalming and mummification.

Frequently used as medicines, the resins reportedly were effective for such diverse ailments as earaches, bladder stones, hemorrhages and paralysis.

To handle widespread distribution of frankincense and myrrh, Arabs developed a complex system of trade routes.

By land and sea, they supplied Mesopotamia, Rome, Greece, Syria, Palestine and Egypt. Portions of Africa and India were reached by ship. Small "feeder" routes led directly from forest storehouses to major ports or camel caravan centers, where the longer journeys were begun.

Each camel caravan carried 300 to 400 pounds of frankincese or myrrh. Because of their cargo's obvious value, traders traveled under heavy guard. There was always the threat of hijacking by bandits. Archaeologists are finding evidence of the wealth this trade brought to south

Arabia. Excavations in Yemen have turned up many art objects, valuable ceramics and bronzes imported from major cultural centers of the ancient And they have uncovered huge temples and lavishly-decorated masonry buildings, equal in size and grandeur to those of Egypt or Palestine. Greek historian Diodorus described the dwelling of legendary Sheba, a south Arabian state. He wrote that they has "some parts ... constructed of silver and gold, others of ivory and the most showy precious stones or of whatever else men esteem most highly.'

Pliny offered some idea of the enormous revenues that made such construction possible. He estimated that the mighty Roman Empire, just one of Arabia's customers, each year expended half its immense Eastern trade budget on frankincese and myrrh.

The luxurious scents figured poignantly in Jesus's life. At his birth, both were presented to him as gifts worthy of a king.

On the cross, he was offered myrrh mixed with wine to lesson his pain, but he refused it. Later, myrrh was used in preparing his body for burial.

Changing demands and tastes ultimately ended the frankincese and myrrh trade. But fortune has again favored the Arabs. Hidden beneath their land, near the now-vanished scent groves, lies an even more valuable natural re-

Homeless Folk Expect Little Christmas C

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA) - It is 6 a.m., across the way from the Treasury Department, and two worn men pull paper sacks from their heads to greet the dawn. Norman Moore stands up to urinate. Eddie Noname looks at the threats of a gray December sky; "Oh," he says, "I hate this season worst of all."

Holidays, humbug. There are a significant number of people in the nation's capital who are definitely not dreaming of a White Christmas this year. They are the homeless poor, wretched economic orphans who must live in the streets, and Yuletide or not they have little spirit for

Norman coughs, spits, and shakes his head with a yawn. He is still wrapped in his bedclothes: plastic scraps from a construction site, and O.D. ponchos from a forgotten war. Eddie has not yet moved at all. They look about, blinking. Soon the police will come to chase them into the "Cigarette?" Norman asks. "I'm out," Eddie replies.

For a time they just sit and rub their faces. Norman says he has lice. Eddie says it's too cold for lice. They argue. They sulk. Then, slowly, they climb from their sacks, and roll the rags about their shoulders. It is 6:15 now. The business day is starting and the two men must be on their way to nowhere. The population of nowhere in Washington is not known. City authorities believe there are hundreds of homeless people here; anti-poverty workers say there may be as many as 5,000. Whatever the number, they seem particularly visible, and pathetic, living as they do in the adminis trative center of democratic capitalism.

Jimmy Carter's nearest neighbors are them. Scores of temporary tramps and permanent derelicts have taken up residence on the sidewalk benches and hot air ventilators close by the White House. Some are drugged with booze, other are merely jobless, many are sick and a few may well be dying.

Dying? Medical authorities believe 11 of Washington's street people have frozen to death in the last three winters, including four who died of exposure during the chill that introduced 1978.

Actually, in some cases, the deaths may be almost merciful. Some of Washington's street people say that anything is better than life in the raw. Norman Moore says he has been mugged by kids, pushed around by cops, left alone with broken bones, and forced by hunger to eat from case garbage cans.

And of all the torments, winter is quite easily the worst. The season's days are not so bad, because street people may drift in and out of the warmth of the city's public buildings. But at night everything closes, and derelicts have been known to compete savagely for the available shelters.

Norman says if it snows this Christmas he is going to break a window and go to jail. Eddie says he is going to get drunk. Before that, however, they will of course

HOOPA VALLEY, Calif. - THe federal government's move last month to take charge of the Hoopa-Yurok Reservation here would put the Interior Department in control of two of northern California's major watersheds.

The two tribes were outraged when a late November letter from Assistant Interior Secretary Forrest J. Gerard announced that the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) would "assume complete management of the reservation assets."

"They're going to start another war here," warned Joyce Croy, a traditional leader among the Hoopas, at a tribal business council meeting.

"They've got the upper hand," one councilman said. "The BIA can do anything they damn please."

"That doesn't mean you're going to lay down," a woman shouted. A Soviet television crew, making a documentary about Native Americans and human rights, recorded the outrage

The 3,400 Yuroks and 1,200 Hoopas have been engaged in a dispute over resource use, with each other and with the federal government, for a generation.

Twenty years ago, Jessie Short sued the United States on behalf of herself and other Yuroks for a share of revenue from the sale of timber on the Hoop. Valley Indian Reservation. A 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision that the Hoopa Reservation extends through Yurok country to the mouth of the Klamath led the Indian Court of Claims to rule in the Yuroks favor.

But because the Yuroks had never been organized by the BIA, they had no tribal roll specifying who was eligible for

In the Thanksgiving week letter, Assistant Secretary Gerard ordered the Yuroks to organize the tribe, and outlined a procedure for doing so. Until the Yuroks join with the Hoopas to form a reservation-wide management body acceptable to the BIA, the settlement money of roughly $5,000 per Yurok will remain in escrow.

This money "is a carrot in the overall scheme," said a Justice Department at-

"They're blackmailing everybody so they can assume control over the entire reservation," explained Hoopa Business Council Chairman Peter Masten.

If money is "the carrot," Yuroks and Hoopas expect that a renewed federal attack against their subsistence fishing economy might well be "the stick."

But more is at stake than the future of the two tribes and of the reservation's 125,000 acres. The federal action presages a new battle in the continu for northern water, which has many times pitted northern Californ against southern interests backed by the Interior Department.

To the native inhabitants, that water is home for salmon, the main source of survival. To southern California interests, however, it is "surplus water" that should be used for irrigating deserts and allowing more urban development in dry

Fifty years ago, the Army Corps of Engineers lamented that "in its present location, the Klamath must ever continue to flow in large measure unused, and waste into the ocean." It proposed a

Blocking the way for such projects now is the state's Wild and Scenic Rivers Act of 1973, which forbids dams on both the Klamath and the Trinity downstream of existing dams.

Also in the way are the Hoopas and Yuroks.

The war ended temporarily with the end of the salmon run, but it with the end of the salmon run, but it fueled a long-standing controversy about whether salmon should be fished commercially or for subsistence. Wife Devoted To Caring For Comatose Husband

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Stanley and Sara Trimnal of Gastonia, N.C., have been beset by troubles since 1976. He was in a road accident then, and though he survived he never regained consciousness. When doctors gave him up as a hopeless vegetable, his wife was forced to take him home to care for

You may have read about the matter. The melancholy Trimnal plight received national newspaper attention earlier this year. The couple had no friends, and no money, but Mrs. Trimnal had faith. Although she'd been urged to let her husband die, she said she would continue to nurse him until he got well.

He didn't get well. In the past year Trimnal has remained in a comatose state, neither talking with nor recognizing his nursing wife. Besides this, he's suffered a myriad of physical complications; he's had pneumonia, a lung infection, wretched fevers, vomiting spells, and other enfeebling attacks.

Recently, in fact, Trimnal stopped breathing. And that's when the latest chapter of ths thoroughly tragic story began. Mrs. Trimnal says that when her husband was rushed to the hospital in their hometown, "he was treated badly and refused admittance." At least one physician verifies the charge.

The incident took place on Nov. 22. Mrs. Trimnal says she was sitting with her husband in their small home when he stopped breathing. Instantly, she attached a manual respirator (rubber bag) over his tracheotomy tube, and began pumping air into his lungs. At the same time she called the rescue squad.

It was late afternoon. Rush hour. Nor mally, Mrs. Trimnal would have taken her husband to a hospital in Charlotte, 18 miles away, but this time she thought better of it. "Too much traffic," she says, major general and one of the best known soldiers of the day. Union correspondents often wrote of his tactical innovations. Abe Lincoln repeatedly asked him to take command of the Army of the Potomac. The fame was fleeting, however; Burn-

The bad days began at the Battle of An-

of the war. Burnside was ordered to seize a bridge and engage the Confederates beyond. He did so, but at a great price. He had his men advance across the bridge, rather than around it, therefore they were openly slaughtered by rebel fire. Burnside was censured in many quart-to believe in him. In November of 1862, Burnside relieved George McClellan as commander of the Army of the Potomac.

Matherlee, who was not present during the emergency room squabble, further says that his hospital was ready and willing to give full assistance to Trimnal. "We had begun some treatment," he explains, "but then Dr. Stroup decided that he would remove the patient and take him to another hospital.

an exclusive OFFER FROM TILLAGE OR

UP TO $900 IN JOHN DEERE DOLLARS FOR YOUR CHOICE OF JOHN DEERE

much that you'll get an exclusive bonus and more by acting early.
You'll earn from $75 to $900 in valuable

John Deere money for your early order on certain models of a disk, chisel plow, or hay equipment. You can then exchange the John Deere dollars mailed directly to you for goods or services at our store. That's not all. By building equipment to your early order, John Deere can supply the exact model and size you need with just the options you want. We can figure your trade-in at top value knowing we'll have time to recondition and resell it. And you'll gain added savings on hay equipment from the waiver of finance charge program.

There are dozens of disks, chisel plows, and hay tools in this early order program. But your preseason order must be signed Deere dollars. Come in soon and ask us for our best deal on this new equipment.

PUBLIC NOTICE

FACT #1 Everyting in our Inventory on Jan. 1 is taxable.
We had much rather cut 2 to 3 hundred dollars off the price than to pay the same amount in tax dollars.

FACT #2 After Jan. 1 the taxes paid on unsold cars must be considered expense In actuality this creates a consumer price increase.

FACT #3 Wide car buyers know this They take advantage of it and they tell their friends about it too!

Payton To Play 'Pits'

CHICAGO (AP) - Walter Payton, the Chicago Bears' speedy running back whose football feats have shattered pro records, is taking to the pits this winter - the futures trading pits of the Chicago Board of Trade.

The most valuable player of the 1978 Pro Bowl plans to become a commodity broker.

The soft-voiced Mississippian, nicknamed "Sweetness" and known for his ability to bench-press 390 pounds, says he wants to learn the rough-and-tumble futures business.

Jeff Fox, broker and manager of Board of Trade offices of Heinold Commodities Inc., a brokerage and subsidiary of Dekalb Agricultural Research Inc., said Payton will begin learning the business with his firm.

"I hope I can deal from an office level." Payton said in a telephone interview Thursday. "But after a while, if it becomes necessary. I'll go down onto the floor.'

Last year, at age 23, he was the youngest player ever voted the National Football League's most valuable player. He led the league last season in touchdowns, carries and yards rushing, and posted the third highest rushing total in the league's history.

Fed Chief Sees No Recession

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller says he is confident the U.S. economy can weather a 14.5 percent oil price increase without

The price increase, announced by the Organization of Petrolcum Exporting Countries, will harm the nation's balance of trade, Miller said Thursday. But improved economic planning should avert recession, he said.

The economy is suddenly showing more strength." Miller said while in Philadelphia to attend a directors meeting at a Federal Reserve bank

He said economic growth would continue "at least through the first half of 1979" and that he sees no sign of recession in the second half.

Miller said improved cooperation between the Federal Reserve, which controls the nation's money supply, and the Carter administration, which influences the economy with its taxing and spending policies, has enabled the government to tread a fine line as it attempts to reduce inflation without provoking recession.

Rodent Raids Police Pot

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - For four months, C-Bo, one of the city's worst potheads, has eluded and baffled narcotics agents right in their office.

C-Bo, a brown and gray mouse, has developed what appears to be a driving taste for marijuana and his main source of supply is marijuana kept as evidence in the nar-cotics office at City Hall.

His uncanny ability to get to the evidence, no matter where it is stored, has earned him his name, a nickname given to Colombian marijuana by pot smokers.

"He doesn't really gnaw; he chomps on it," said Lt. J.E. Bibb, head of the narcotics detail. "You can hear him going 'chomp, chomp, chomp.'

'And he isn't scary like most mice and rats, which must indicate he's getting a pretty good kick out of the pot. He ain't scared of anything. Bibb said Officer Pat Curry once pulled out his middle desk drawer and found C-Bo chewing on a "nickel bag" of "We had to run C-Bo away from the marijuana," Bibb said. "It was comical, really. There Curry was, armed with a .41 magnum, running from a little ol' gray mouse. Four months ago Curry opened a locked safe to get a pound of confiscated marijuana for a court case. A mouse-size hole had been eaten through the envelope. "He ate some of the evidence, there's no doubt," Curry said, "but we're still going to win the case."

Mystery Donor Blesses Town

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) - Money may not grow on trees, but an estimated 50 to 75 Stamford area residents learned the pleasant way that it sometimes falls out of the

'Whoever dropped it, I say thank you," exclaimed one man who gathered up $360 in $20 bills Thursday evening at East Main Street and Myrtle Avenue.

By the time police arrived 40 minutes later, only a single dollar bill remained. But witnesses estimate that at least 50 lucky people at the intersection about 6:20 p.m. picked up more than $1,000 in bills ranging in size from $1 to $50.

Police say the money was real. They believe it came from the roof of an apartment building on Myrtle Avenue. Who dropped it - or why - is a mystery, and likely to remain

Most of the money harvesters didn't want their names mentioned.

But one enthused, "This is the most wonderful moment of my life since my son was born.'

The man said he planned to use the windfall to buy a new bicycle and a racing car set for his son. He said the remainder would go for a present for his wife.

Counterfeit Prank Backfires

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (UPI) - Some students at the Northern Chester County Technical School thought it would be fun using school facilities to print counterfeit $10 and $20

But after a visit this week by the U.S. Secret Service, they're no longer laughing.

Sanford Pariser, director of the school, said the bogus bills were found earlier this week by a teacher in the school's print shop, where the "money" was printed, and turned

Pariser said the phony money was poor in quality. The bills were kelly green, not the color of real money, and were printed on only one side of mimeograph paper, he said, adding the other side of some bills had "Merry Christmas" on

But Pariser, considering the matter a serious one since the students did photograph real money to make photocopy plates, decided to call the Secret Service.

"I thought of it as a learning experience," he said. "I said to the Secret Service, 'Please look at this situation, speak to lly, they won't try anything again.

Kevin Tucker, special agent in charge of Philadelphia's Secret Service office, and another agent questioned the students and confiscated the photocopy plates and the remainder of the bogus money. He turned over his information to the U.S. attorney's office, which said the students would not

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - A man was being held for questioning in the killings of two veteran highway patrolmen found shot to death behind their patrol car on Interstate 80 early Friday, the California Highway Patrol said. A patrol spokesman in Contra Costa County, about 90 miles west of Sacramento, said the man was being held in Martinez. The man was not identified, and it was not immediately known why he was detained.

The bodies were found by Deputy Larry Justice, who said he heard the shots at 3:50 a.m. Minutes later, when he reached the patrol car, about one mile west of Sacramento, the killer had fled.

The two officers, identified as Roy Blecher, 50, of Broderick, and William Mike Freeman, 35, of Woodland, were found face down, one with his hands cuffed behind him. Their service pistols and the shotgun in their car were missing. Both had been shot in the head. Blecher had been with the patrol for 21 years, Freeman for 12.

Officers found a temporary driver's license, issued Thursday in Vallejo, about 55 miles away, at the scene of the shootings. Sheriff's Capt. Robert Martinez told a news conference that a no-bail murder warrant had been issued for the man named on the license

But Yolo County District Attorney C. Robert Jameson said it appeared the name and the Vallejo address on the license were phony. Officers were trying to find the photo of the applicant taken for the permanent license, which normally is mailed several weeks later. Martinez said the patrol was seeking an older model, sub-compact car, either cream or gray-colored. He would not say how the description of the car was obtained. Justice said he was patrolling a business district near the freeway across the Sacramento River from here when he heard four to six shots in rapid succession. He said he stopped his car, rolled down the window and listened for a few minutes hoping to learn where the shots came from. After about five minutes he drove toward the foggy freeway. From an overpass, he spotted the highway patrol car, stopped a half-mile away with its red light flash-

Justice said it took him another five to seven minutes to reach the scene, where he found the bodies.

Plano Prepared For Stratford

Plano in the Astrodome this afternoon and try to win their first Texas Class AAAA

Stratford, of suburban Spring Branch, is making its first appearance in the state's most prestigious high school football game. Plano's Wildcats are old hands, having won one class AAA and two class AA titles before winning the AAAA championship

Plano beat Port Neches-Groves 13-10 in last year's finale played in Irving's Texas Stadium. Stratford won a coin flip and the right to play in the Astrodome, where it has played its last five games in a 14-0 seasor

The Houston area has not had a state AAAA football champion since 1975 when Brazoswood defeated Mesquite. For the title to return to the Bayou City, the Spartans must move the ball against a scrappy defensive team which has kept the Wildcats winning despite unimpressive offensive gmes tight end Robert King said.

"No matter how quick they are, all we have to do is execute," said center Anthony Despite Plano's status as defending champion. Stratford is the favorite because of 6-2. 210 Craig James, who has rushed for 2,243 yards, a Texas high school single season

James runs like a fullback in a wishbone offense. He is strong, but does not have excellent speed. Nevertheless, the coach of the opposing Wildcats sought to elevate

James to star status this week. "James belongs in there with Earl Campbell and Curtis Dickey as the best three backs I've seen or played against," coach Tom Kimbrough said.

James yardage certainly places him with the best high school runners Texas has produced. Only four have run for more than 2.000 yards in a season. The other three were Campbell. Carl Roaches and Pat Sheehan

Stratford's offensive line, a monstrous group made up of seniors who have started for three years, is the key to the team's success.

Plano, 12-1-1, has had to struggle in the playoffs. The Wildcats advanced past Tyler in bi-district by gathering 19 first downs to Tyler's 18 in a 13-13 tie. The Wildcats beat Temple 15-14. Dallas carter 30-0 and Odessa Permian 6-3. Stratford has beaten its four playoff opponents by an average score of 34-9.

Miami Passing Game Thrives

MIAMI (AP) - Coach Don Shula and quarterback Bob Griese say the Miami Dolphins' passing game gained potency

this year by becoming better-balanced. While star receiver Nat Moore's statistics have dipped this year, wide receiver Duriel Harris and tight end Andre Tillman are enjoying their finest seasons.

We have more of an all-around passing game this year. You always like to see that," Shula said.

Nobody can afford to double-team Nat because of Duriel Harris," he said. Harris, a third-year pro, has 45 recepions for 654 yards and three touchdowns. Harris has been compared by some to former Dolphin and Cleveland Brown great Paul Warfield.

'You can see the similarities," said Shula. "But it's a little too early for that comparison.

And Moore, who has 48 receptions for 645 yards and 10 touchdowns, said that defenses that try to cover he and Harris along the sidelines have "opened up the

with previous playoff experience.

Tillman's 31 receptions are one more than he's had in the previous two seasons combined. "He's helped a lot. He's given Griese the confidence to throw to him in the key situations," Shula said. "I think we've been helped by Andre's receiving ability," Griese said. "We've known all along he can catch the ball. I think Mary Fleming (tight end during the Dolphins' championship seasons) was probably a better blocking tight end, but Andre's a better receiver. He's got good speed.

"As for the other two guys, you've just got to get the ball to them, and some-thing good is going to happen," he said.

A sore-ribbed Griese will probably start Sunday against a Houston Oiler defense that yielded 327 yards, best of his career. in an earlier meeting. Griese, who eame back from a knee injury after missing the Dolphins' first six games, led the National Football League by hitting 148 of 235 attempts for a 63 percent rate.

He tossed 11 touchdowns, while replacement Don Strock had 12 and rookie Guy Benjamin threw one as the Dolphins broke their club record of 22 touchdowns passing, set in 1977.

Houston Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini does not carry the same statistics as his counterpart, preferring to hand the ball to Rookie of the Year Earl Camp-Jaworski hit on 206 of 398 attempts for bell. But, its only the results that count, Atlanta, a pair of National Football League playoff-starved teams, collide in the National Conference wild card playoff game Sunday as pro football launches its postseason drive to the Super Bowl.

Matching identical 9-7 records, the two teams, unexpected participants in the playoff derby, will square off at 11:30 p.m. CST in Atlanta Stadium before a sellout crowd of 60,673 and a national television (CBS) audience.

It's the first time in Atlanta's 13-year history that the Falcons have reached the playoffs, arriving by virtue of four 20-17 regular season miracle victories in the final 10 seconds of play.

The Eagles, featuring the NFL's No. 5 rusher in Wilbert Montgomery, have not been in postseason competition since former Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin quarterbacked the club past Green Bay 17-13 in the 1960 title game.

Philadelphia also won league titles in 1948 and 1949 and lost to the Chicago Cardinals in their only other playoff appearance in the 1947 championship game

"It's a do-or-die position, and the players realize that if we lose, the season is over," said Leeman Bennett, in his second year at the Atlanta helm. "As for a game plan, it's the same as it has been throughout the season, we cannot make turnovers and expect to win.

The Eagles, a one-point favorite, beat the Falcons 24-7 in a preseason game here, but Atlanta logged a 7-1 home field record during the regular season. The Falcons have won six straight home games since a 24-16 loss to Cleveland.

Atlanta Wary Of Carmichael ATLANTA (AP) - "Big Harold" is coming to Atlanta target, you know.

Sunday and the Falcons are planning a reception he won't forget.

"Big Harold" is Harold Carmichael the 6-foot-8 wide receiver for the Philadelphia Eagles, the Falcons' opponent in the first round of the National Football League

'Big Harold is in for a beating," said Atlanta's Rolland Lawrence, the 5-foot-10 inch cornerback who will be matched against Carmichael, the Eagles' leading pass receiver with 55 catches for 1,072 yards and eight touch-

How can Lawrence, with a height disadvantage of nearly a foot, contain the all-pro choice?

We can," said Lawrence. "I'm gonna be like a bee on him. We let him go unmolested and we're in trouble. We've going to have to hit him.' The Falcons said they don't plan any special defenses to stop Carmichael for the nationally televised 11:30 p.m. CST kickoff at Atlanta Stadium. Oh, we'll concede certain things," said Lawrence. 'He might catch the ball in the first quarter and in the second and in the third. But by the end of the third, I think he'll have had enough.

"I'm sure he's ready for contact, but he hasn't been hit like we're gonna hit him. He might catch the ball at first, but once he does, he isn't gonna like it. That's a pretty big

It is likely, however, that Eagles quarterback Ron Jaworski will go to Carmichael, since none of the Atlanta secondary is over six feet tall.

"They'll throw high," conceded Lawrence. "I would, too, if I were throwing against a bunch of Munchkins like us. But he still isn't gonna like it. He's going to have to contend with everybody. I won't be going against him every time. But wherever he goes, he's gonna get hit."

Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil said if his club can handle Atlanta's blitzes, "I'd say we have an advantage with Harold.

But, he added, there is another advantage which sometimes is overlooked. There is a tendency to think of his height when you think of Harold, but he has other abilities - like speed, said Vermeil.

When you have a guy in the 6-8 range, that big and that good, trying to cover him is a lot to ask of defensive backs as small as our." said Atlanta Coach Leeman Ben-

Lawrence, however, is confident. We'd rather give than receive," he said. "I mean you couldn't do it on the street, but it's legal. You couldn't do it on Peachtree, but it's legal on the field. "Yeah," said Lawrence, "old Harold's gonna know

Scribe Picks Dolphins, Eagles In First Round

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - There are just so many miracles - and the Atlanta Falcons are about to run out of them against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Speaking of running, that's what Houston won't be doing very well against Miami. So the Oilers will go to the air and the Dolphins will go for the jugular.

In other words, when the "real" playoffs roll around, with division winners (not just a bunch of runner-up teams) as participants, the Eagles and Dolphins will be part of the crowd.

Last weekend's 11-3 record closed out the season at 140-82, .631. Eagles 28, Falcons 17

Atlanta's supposedly superior defense isn't really all that much better than Philadelphia's - but the Falcons' offense is one of the league's weakest while the Eagles are at least respectable.

Bowl Roundup

ESU, Alexander Face Missouri

By The Associated Press re'll be a rare "Duel in the Sun" of left-handed quarterbacks - Tim O'Hare of Maryland against Mark McBath of Texas — Saturday, when the Terrapins meet the Longhorns in the Sun Bowl football game at El Paso, Texas.

O'Hare, who was Maryland's seventh-string quarterback in his first year on the team, finally moved up the long ladder and became No.1 this year, passing for 1,388 yards - the most in the Atlantic Coast Conference - while guiding the Terrapins to a 9-2 record and the nation's No.13 ranking.

"I knew they had a lot of quarterbacks, but I liked the school," explained O'Hare. " No.7 ... that's the low man on the totem pole. Even when I moved up to the backup spot, I didn't get to do much more than just go in and run out the clock."

But he said, "I was still pretty cocky." O'Hare is a veteran starter compared to McBath, who started the final game of 14thranked Texas' 8-3 season, leading the Longhorns to a 22-7 victory over Texas A&M.

If McBath cannot get the Longhorns' ground game working, Randy McEachern, a right-hander, who is a better passer, will replace him. Texas' offense also features the Jones boys - flanker Lam, and running backs Jam

Despite their lower ranking, the Longhorns are one-touchdown favorites for the nationally televised game (CBS), starting at 12:30 p.m. CST. There will be two other bowl games Saturday - No.18 Missouri, 7-4, vs. Louisiana State, 8-3, in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis, Tenn., and No. 16 Pittsburgh, 8-3, vs.

North Carolina State, 8-3, in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla. The weekend bowl activity concludes Monday, with No.17 Purdue, 8-2-1, vs. Georgia Tech, 7-4, in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta, and No.15 UCLA, 8-3, vs. No.8 Arkansas, 9-2, in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz.

The busy weekend program began Friday night, with Navy playing Brigham Young in the Holiday Bowl at San Diego.

Pitt, N.C. State Smell Tangerines

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - The two opposing quarterbacks in today's Tangerine Bowl football game are as different as Pittsburgh is to North Carolina State.

Pitt's sophomore signal caller, Rick Trocano, is a red-haired, flaboyant takecharge guy who throws as well as he runs. North Carolina State's unassuming quarterback, Scott Smith, is "an unpretty quarterback" who gets things done without any fanfare, according to his coach. Smith, is has been said, is a useful conduit between the Wolfpack's flashy runner Ted Brown and center Jim Ritcher, both All-Americans. But Coach Bo Rein assures that he's much more than that.

"Scott is a leader," Rein says. "He did the best job I've ever seen of getting things done on the third-and-three and third-and four plays" during the Wolfpack's 8-3 season.

Trocano, who played half the season as a freshman last year when Matt Cavanaugh was hurt, has developed into "a fine quarterback," says Pitt Coach Jackie

In 1978, the 6-1, 195-pounder passed for 1,466 yards - fourth most productive passing season in the Panthers' history. And he ran the option for another 275. Smith doesn't pass as much, but he hit for 741 yards on 50 completions and ran the ball 130 times for 304 yards. His primary job, though, is handing off the ball to 200-pound halfback Brown, who racked up 1,350 yards this year to run his four-year rushing total to 4,602 — fourth best on the NCAA'S all-time rush-

Smith pretty well expressed his team's philosophy and game style by saying, "Coach Rein has always told us the team that outrushes the other will win. That's the way it was all year for us. When we were outrushed, we lost,' Brown says he expects Pitt to use "a lot of blitzes and stunts" and try to keep him from running outside. But he says a bad leg that bothered him most of the year is better now and "I will use more jukes and moves than I did during the year." Sherrill expects a high-scoring game in the nighttime battle, to be televised by the Mizlou network. But Rein believes it will be a defensive struggle. Pitt has been rated a one-touchdown

O'Hare Ready For Longhorns

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - When you're No. 7, sometimes it doesn't even do any good to try harder.

But Maryland's starting quarterback in the Sun Bowl today against the Texas

Longhorns was too cocky to figure the odds.

"I knew they had a lot of quarterbacks but I liked the school," said Tim O'Hare, who is a left-hander just like Texas' starting quarterback Mark McBath.

"There were seven quarterbacks when I came in (back in 1973) and I was No. 7 and that's the low man on the totem pole," O'Hare said. "Even when I moved up to the backup spot I didn't get to do much more than just go in and run out the clock."

Far from discouraged, O'Hare admitted,"I was still pretty cocky."
He said life at Maryland wasn't all that hardscrabble while he made a place on O'Hare, who passed for 1,388 yards to lead the Atlantic Coast Conference, said: 'I had a good time. Football wasn't my whole life. Sure, it was frustrating but it wasn't four years of obscurity like everybody says."

With O'Hare at the controls, Maryland lost only to unbeaten Penn State and ACC rival Clemson in a 9-2 regular season.

Texas lost to Oklahoma, Houston and Baylor in an 8-3 regular season.

"If we don't sell 6,700 more tickets, I would say the Peach Bowl is a thing of the past," executive director George Crumbley said Wednesday.

"I was very depressed earlier in the week," said Crumbley. "But the response the business community has shown as a result of Mrs. Rodgers' telephone campaign has really cheered me

'Sweetness' Takes To Futures' Pits

CHICAGO (AP) - Walter Payton, the Chicago Bears' speedy running back whose football feats have shattered National Football League records, is taking to the pits this winter — the futures trading pits of the Chicago Board of Trade. Payton plans to become a commodity broker.

The soft-voiced Mississippian, nicknamed "Sweetness" and known for his ability to bench-press 390 pounds, says he wants to learn the rough-and-tumble

Jeff Fox, broker and manager of Board of Trade offices of Heinold Commodities, Inc. a brokerage and subsidiary of Dekalb Agricultural Research, Inc., said

Payton will begin learning the business with his firm. 'I hope I can deal from an office level," Payton said in a telephone interview on Thursday. "But after a while, if it becomes necessary, I'll go down onto the so was the MVP in the 1978 Pro Bowl. Payton said it was his previous experience as a public speculator, through a broker, that persuaded him to swap his jersey for a bright trader's jacket.

"Short corn (corn futures sold in anticipation of buying contracts back later at a lower price) looks pretty good. We made a little profit on that," said the foot-

It is a victim of the expansion of the Pacific-10 Conference and the desire by the country's most successful coaches to pad early season schedules with easy opponents because the NCAA relies heavily on win-loss records in choosing post-season tournament berths.

"There's just no way these people can afford to take a three-game tournament," said Oregon State coach Ralph Miller, "not with 18 conference games. With the 27-game limit, you take 18 conference games, add three from the Far West Classic and what does that leave you, six games?"

Miller said a team has almost no chance to get an NCAA at-large tournament berth without 20 victories.

School officials at the host schools, Oregon and Oregon State, announced the phasing out of the Far West Classic earher this year.

The classic began as a four-team tournament at Oregon State in 1956 and expanded to eight teams and moved to the new Memorial Coliseum in Portland in 1959. The Beavers won the first 11 tour-one, the Chaparrals will be flirting with the .500 level.

What's the big deal about that? Well, one has to go back to the 1972-73 season to find a year when the Chaps were a 6-6 or above the break-even mark as the season neared its mid-point. That year, LCC eventually finished 12-20.

Coach Larry Hays received an unexpected Christmas present Thursday when he learned his Chaparrals were the number eight ranked team in District VIII of the NAIA. Last week, the Chaps were ranked llth in the Dunkel ratings.

The top 16 teams looks like this: Dallas Baptist, first, 40.7; McMurry, second, 39.9; Midwestern, third, 39.8; Wiley, fourth, 39.1; Prairie View A&M, 34.2; Texas Wesleyan, 34.1; Trinity, 33.6; LUBBOCK CHRISTIAN, 30.9; Paul Quinn, 30.7; Texas College, 29.9; Wayland Baptist, 29.2; Sul Ross, 29.1; Austin College, 23.7; LeTourneau, 21.7; Tarleton State, 21.2; Jarvis Christian, 17.2.

Despite a 4-8 record this year, LCC has hit 11 more field goals than the opposition and hold a 46.6-40.8 edge in rebounds.

The Chaps problems have been in fouls and turnovers. Foes have put 190 charity tosses through the hoop in 290 attempts to only 139 in 217 tries for Lub-. bock Christian.

In regard to turnovers, the Chaps have lost the handle on the basketball 258 times, while the opposition has lost the ball 171 times.

Keith Gardner is leading the Chaps in scoring and rebounding. Gardner has an a 19.3 scoring average and has pulled down 11.7 caroms per game. Kevin Wharton is pulling down 10.1 rebounds per outing. No Chap has ever averaged in double figures in rebounding for the season.

A victory at home against Eastern New Mexico University Jan.11 would equal the school's all-time winning streak of four and a victory over Panhandle State Jan. 13 in Goodwell, Ok., would tie the longest road victory skein ever.

West Point Probes Violation Charges

NEW YORK (AP) - The U.S. Military Academy announced Friday that it has appointed a special investigating officer to examine charges of widespread NCAA violations leveled by former head football Coach Homer Smith.

A statement issued by the school's Public Affairs Office said that Army's superintendent had selected Col. Robert W. Berry, head of the academy's Department of Law, as the special investigator.

The academy said that Berry would conduct a "comprehensive investigation into any possible new issues" stemming from Smith's charges.

Smith, fired two weeks ago after compiling a 21-33-1 record in five years as Army's coach, charged in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press that West Point officials broke NCAA rules "willy-nilly" and said his attempts to have the matter investigated "met a coverup" from academy officials. Smith's charges, made Wednesday night at the AP's New York headquarters, included allegations of illegal tryouts of prospective recruits, numerous campus visits in excess of the number permitted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, inequitable distribution of prep school scholarships to favor athletes and using more than the allowed number of active off-campus recruiters. A West Point official called some of Smith's charges "baseless," while admitting that "some had substantiation, but we took action to correct them.

The academy said that in addition to investigating Smith's charges, Berry would "review the investigation conducted a year ago and the actions taken as a result. Academy officials believe that most of the charges were contained in the report of Decem-

The cumulative results of Berry's investigation will be provided to the NCAA," the academy said.

Lt. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, superintendent of the academy, said that "a thorough and extensive internal review of the entire matter" after Smith brought it to his attention last December resulted in "appropriate action to assure that requirements were being properly observed."

The details of that investigation have not been disclosed publicly. Smith also said that he had resigned three days before he was fired, and when the academy announced it was dismissing him, he was attending the funeral of his brother

Smith's charges were contained in an eight-page memorandum headed: "This is a statement about the organization hell that I lived through as the head football coach at the United States Military Academy.

He said he was now speaking out because "I believe that I will help the academy and perhaps, the profession of coaching."

Foyt Of Different Color?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Like father. like son? Not where A.J. Foyt III, son of the famous Indy driver, is concerned.

The younger Foyt, called "Tony," is a horse trainer working at the Fair

"I never was interested in auto racing at all," said young Foyt, 22.
"He never wanted me to be a driver, never encouraged me at all. And I was never interested." Instead, the younger Foyt got hooked on show horses at age 7. He showed them through high school, ranging out from his home base in Houston through the South. In Kentucky one year, he captured honors at the Kentucky State Fair.

From there, it was quarter horses and thoroughbreds with trainer Bob Schultz at Louisiana tracks - Evangeline Downs in Lafayette, Delta Downs in Vinton and Louisiana Downs in Shreveport.

Then, on to Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark., with veteran trainer James

It was Keefer who pushed his protege out of the nest, telling him, "Go on and go on your own. I've taught you everything I can. The rest is experience. The rest, you gotta learn by yourself."

At Churchill Downs this spring, Foyt was one of the top conditioners, saddling 13 winners. At the Fair Grounds, he has charge of 18 horses who race in his father's name or those of a friend of his dad's, H.C. Tindall of Houston.

The Foyt horses race in the familiar Coyote orange colors, initials A.J. on the silks, and the black and white blocks of a checkered flaf on the sleeves.

Tony said his millionaire father, 43, loves the horses and goes straight to the track "whenever he can get away."

He said he never discusses the hazards of his dad's profession with him and would never encourage him to get out as long as his competitive juices are flow-

"I don't worry about him," he said. "I figure he's smart enough to know when he can't do it anymore.'

As is the goal of most trainers, Foyt would like to win the Kentucky Derby. Back on the farm is a yet-unnamed yearling colt sired by the great Damascus. His dad paid $80,000 for the colt at the Keeneland Sales.

But even a Derby victory by that colt would leave him a long way short of his dad's record of four victories in the Indianapolis 500.

Dallas Cheerleader Posters Blocked

DALLAS (AP) - Sales of a poster featuring former members of the Dallas Cowboys' cheerleader squad have been temporarily blocked by a federal judge.

They can go out and walk naked in the street, I suppose, as long as they don't wear the Cowboy uniform," U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham said Friday. junction against distribution of a poster by Scoreboard Posters Corp. pending a trial Jan 2

The ruling includes a provision that the Dallas Cowboys' Cheerleaders Inc., a subsidiary of the National Football League team that manages the current cheerleaders, must post $20,000 bond.

Cowboy Cheerleaders filed a lawsuit, claiming that the poster violated its copy-right and trademark rights. The suit also says the poster, titled "Ex-Dallas Cheerleaders," tarnishes the cheerleaders' im-

Winter Wheat Crop Planting Boost Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Encouraged The forecast, the first by the departby substantially higher prices, farmers have boosted their winter wheat plantings 8 percent for the 1979 harvest.

The Agriculture Department said that the crop could produce about 1.44 billion bushels when harvested next summer, up 15 percent from this year's reduced

Farmers planted 51.5 million acres of winter wheat this fall, compared to 47.7 million planted a year ago for the 1978 crop, the department's Crop Reporting Board said. Yields were estimated to average 28 bushels per acre planted, compared to 26.2 bushels for the 1978 crop.

ment on 1979 winter wheat prospects, was based on surveys made Decm 1.

Winter wheat accounts for about three-fourths of the total U.S. wheat production. The remainder will be planted in the spring and harvested later in

It will be at least six months before the crop is ready for harvest and its out-come will depend greatly on the weather in major producing areas this winter and

However, the board said that as of Dec.1 the crop generally was in "fair to good" condition throughout the nation and that it benefited from rain and snow gram. Those dates have not been an-

The report said farmers in Kansas, the leading wheat producer, may harvest 314.6 million bushels next year, com-pared to 306 million bushels in 1978.

As they were required to do in 1978, wheat farmers will have to set aside part of their cropland to qualify for federal price supports for the grain harvested However, farmers will not begin signing up for the 1979 program until later winter and then will have until some time in the spring to adjust their acreage to conform to the set-aside pro-

Acreage set-aside requirements also will be in effect for 1979 corn and other feed grains planted next spring.

The purpose of the set-aside programs is to help curb production of wheat and other strain.

other grain.

A year ago, in its initial 1978 winter wheat report, the department forecast the crop at 1.32 billion bushels. The harvest turned out to be about 1.25 billion

Production of 1978 spring-planted wheat was about 530.4 million bushels, making a total wheat crop this year of about 1.8 billion bushels, the first har-

yest in three years under 2 billion bush-

If the 1979 spring wheat crop turns out to be around 500 million bushels — roughly in line with this year's harvest — the total wheat output in 1979 could be around 1.94 billion bushels, based on the Dec. 1 winter wheat indication.

Meanwhile, wheat prices are up significantly from a year ago, averaging $3.05 a bushel at the farm nationally in November, compared to $2.46 a year earlier, according to USDA surveys. One reason for the price in

Department officials say release of the initial test data now being collected could unjustifiably jeopardize some three years, keeping it off the market so that prices go up.

As of Dec. 8, about 407.5 million bushels of wheat were stored under the program, enough to meet U.S. domestic needs for more than eight months.

Exports also are large and have helped boost wheat prices. For the marketing year that will end May 31, the USDA estimates exports will require about 1.15 billion bushels for domestic needs.

The wheat left over June 1, when the new 1979 marketing year begins, is expected to total around 1.04 billion bushels, down from almost 1.18 billion last June 1.

Urban League Aids

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Urban League is preparing more than 3,-900 disadvantaged minority youth and semi-skilled construction workers for building and construction trade jobs, according to the Labor Department.

Assistant Labor Secretary Ernest G. Green says league chapters in 32 cities, working with a $6.4 million government contract, are expected to place some 3,-600 persons in apprenticeship programs after 10 weeks of intensive tutoring.

The league also seeks direct entry into the construction trades for ap-proximately 300 men and women who are too old to qualify for the apprentice program, Green said.

The job training and placement will be funded under a Comprehensive Employment and Training Act grant that has been renewed through Oct. 31, 1979.

Cattle Futures Finish Lower

November fell the limit level. Sales totalled 1,857 contracts. Pressure continued from Thursday and followed the bearishly construed pig crop report which noted heavier than expected numbers on December. Easiness in beef made for additional pressure. The major terminals are expecting 1,- and April. Earlier, all contracts except 600 head on Tuesday. Hog futures tumbled the daily limit of 150 at the close with all contracts sellers over. Volume held to 545 cars with thousands of unsold offerings.

Prices slipped to the lowest in 5 1/2 weeks on aggressive liquidation following the U. S. Department of Agriculture pig crop report which noted much more than expected hog numbers on Dec. 1

Continued weakness in pork products made for further pressure, easily offsetting firmness in cash hogs.

Deliveries numbered 83. Wholesale hams were off 2 to up 1 cent at 79 1/2 to 88 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. which is the lowest since September. Cash hogs were unchanged to up $1.50 with the best top $54 per hundredweight at Peoria, which is a two-month high. Receipts at the major markets Tuesday are expected to be 32,000 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed the daily limit of 200 lower with sellers over across the board. Volume held to a meager 293 cars with thousands of unsold of-

The market was locked limit down from the start on the bearish pig crop report which noted total hogs up six percent, breeding hogs up 11 percent and market hogs up 5 percent on Dec. 1 Wholesale bacon was unchanged at 52 3/4 to 57 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river, which is the lowest since August.

USDA Withholds First Results Of Cancer Testing On Bacon

two-month period.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is withholding preliminary results of nationwide tests to determine whether frying bacon treated with sodium nitrite results in dangerous levels of cancer-causing substances, Meanwhile, a study made available by the department says that if the government banned use of nitrite from bacon processing, it could drive up retail meat prices by as much as 2.9 percent a year.

"A ban on the use of nitrites and nitrates to cure bacon would eliminate this product from the market," the report said. "Alternative uses for pork bel-lies (the source of bacon) would have to be found."

Meat prices would go up because farmers would reduce hog production, forcing consumers to turn to other items such as beef and poultry which would then cost more. A total ban also would reduce farmers' net incomes by as much as 5.5 percent a year, the report said. The department and the Food and Drug Administration are considering whether to ban or further limit the addition of nitrite to food as a result of tests, announced in August, "strongly suggesting" the substance causes cancer in laboratory animals.

When added to uncooked or partially cooked meats, poultry and fish products, nitrite can prevent organisms that cause deadly botulism. The chemical also is a preservative and is widely used in the bacon curing process. The earlier tests indicated nitrite may increase the incidence of human cancer." However, there is no proof that

In its study, the department said that nitrosamines, the substances produced by frying nitrite-treated bacon at high temperatures, "are considered to be carcinogenic since laboratory animals administered these compounds develop

"It is presumed that these same compounds could cause cancer at some body sites in humans." Last spring, the department set reduced limits on nitrite used in bacon, and now is testing samples of bacon to see what levels of nitrosamines are produced when the bacon is fried. Nitrosamines also occur naturally in some

The American Meat Institute, an industry group, says it did not have the opportunity required by law to comment on one proposed regulation that allows suspected bacon to be held off the market. The institute also said proper procedures were not followed in putting the new rules into effect.

The regulations, which are now being challenged in a federal appeals court, authorizes the department to stop pro-

Crossbreeding Youths' Job Training Slowdown Seen By Expert

COLLEGE STATION - A Texas Agricultural Experiment Station animal geneticist said that promotional schemes and the crossbreeding binge the cattle industry has known for some 25 years have about run their course. There's no such thing as a 'super breed,' and there never will be," explained Dr. Tom C. Cartwright, "but crossings of breeds have made valuable contributions to the cattle industry. And, this practice will continue." Cartwright said that "cattle cycles" and rapid shifts from one type of animal demanded by the market, to another type, will not permit development of such a breed. Also, the myriad of conditions under which cattle are produced, changing almost from fence line to fence line, and from rancher to rancher, prevent development of a single breed to fulfill all reasons for all seasons. "A big advantage of crossbreeding is that a cattleman may produce within a year the type calves which bring top market prices," Cartwright added, "compared with 25 years, or maybe more, to produce similar genetic changes when using only one breed. Cartwright assured that promotional schemes to cash in on higher prices of exotics - new blood - was not all bad, because bulls of much higher quality than most individual producers could afford were brought into the Southwest. Semen from these higher quality bulls for use in artificial insemination provides cattlemen with a more economical way to upgrade their herds. Cartwright said there are "52 or 53" breeds from which to choose for crossbreeding. Crossbreeding in the Southwest began a century ago when meatier European breeds were imported to mate to the rangier, more rugged Texas Longhorns.

being withheld "because you place an economic hardship on a plant that may not deserve to have it." said requests for information on the bacon test results by The Associated Press and other organizations under the Free-Santa Rosa Waters

Feasible For Cotton Southern High Plains may continue even after the Ogallala aquifer dries up, if a cheaper source of energy can be developed to pump the highly saline water from the Santa Rosa formation. The Santa Rosa lies beneath the Ogallala and although its water is considered highly saline for irrigation, it can still be used for growing cotton, according to a Texas Tech University doctoral student in plant and soil science.

Travis Miller, who recently completed requirements for the doctor of philosophy degree, investigated the possibility of using saline water for cotton, sorghum, potatoes, and pinto beans. "Results of my work indicate that if a cheaper source of energy can be found, it may be feasible to use the irrigation water from the Santa Rosa for continued cotton production in a well drained soil," Miller said.

Estimates are that the non-rechargable Ogallala in the South Plains may have no water left by the year 2010.

Miller used water with 7,200 salt parts per million (ppm) for his study. Salt con-tents of the Santa Rosa range from 1,000 ppm to 10,000 ppm, depending upon loca-tion, while sea water has about 34,000

Sorghum, potatoes, and pinto beans did not perform well under the saline condi-

will germinate but the plant will die after growing to a height of three to four inch-es, while the potato plant will grow to its normal size without any tuber production," Miller explained.

The plants are expected to perform bet-ter, however, if natural precipitation occurs prior to the growing season and leaches the salt from the soil.

Miller's work was supervised by Dr. Richard E. Zartman of the department of plant and soil science. Other Texas Tech faculty who aided Miller were Drs. Frank M. Hons, Norman W. Hopper, J. R. Goodin and Russel D. Pettit.

Zartman said that three levels of irrigation quality and two levels of water quality were used for the study. The three levels of irrigation quantity were excess, op-timal and dryland (no irrigation); while the two levels of quality were city water and sewage effluent after it was run through evaporative coolers at South-western Public Service, a utility company

The water from the utility company contained five times the amount of salt as

Miller has accepted a position with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Weslaco to work with farmers in the Rio Grande Valley.

He received the bachelor's degree from Texas A&I University and the master's "Salinity prevents the germination of from Texas Tech. His mother, Mrs. sorghum seed. Pinto beans, however, Christine L. Miller, lives at Robstown.
