Blasts Vietnam's 'Sellout' To Russian

HONG KONG (UPI) — China charged Monday that Vietnam became the "Cuba of Asia" in 1978 by waging war with Cambodia, launching attacks on China and signing a friendship treaty with the Soviet Union. The charge followed warnings from Peking of swift retaliation against provocations by Hanoi such as the reported Vietnamese border raid in which three Hanoi soldiers were killed and China suffered nine casualties.

Reviewing policies carried out by Hanoi during 1978, the official New China News Agency accused Vietnamese authorities of "hastily selling themselves out to the Soviet Union."

The aim of the war with Cambodia, the border incidents with China and the Soviet-Vietnamese agreement was to achieve "their (Vietnam's) ambitions of small hegemonists with the help of the Soviet big hegemonists."

China has sided with Cambodia in that country's border disputes with Hanoi, which is supported by Moscow. Vietnam also has had a series of confrontations along its border with China.

The NCNA report, monitored in Hong Kong, drew a parallel between Viet-nam and Cuba's alliances with Moscow and opposition to Peking, and labeled Hanoi "The Cuba of Asia.

The broadcast also said "Hanoi's close alliance with Moscow has thrown doubt on its much vaunted 'independence line' in the world."

China repeated charges that Hanoi is permitting the Soviets to use the former American navy base at Cam Ranh Bay as a base for the Russian navy.

"Soviet vessels have been moving frequently in and out of the bay," the report said. "It will be completely at Soviet disposal when the need arises to cut the vital sea routes of the west and Japan."

There has been no report from Hanoi on the clash between Vietnamese raiders and Chinese troops that Peking said Sunday had left three dead Vietnamese and nine Chinese dead and wounded.

An editorial Monday in the Peking People's Daily warned:

"China means what it says. We wish to warn the Vietnamese authorities that if they, emboldened by Moscow's support, try to seek a foot after gaining an inch and continue to act in this unbridled fashion, they will decidedly meet with the punishment they deserve. We state this here and now."

> Speir said the holiday death toll exceeded his department's estimate and also the number of persons killed last year during the holiday period - 34.

This holiday seems to be following the trend that was established both July 4 and Labor Day of this year, when deaths ran 40-45 percent over the same holidays in 1977. Even if we didn't have another fatality this Christmas, we are 40-45 per-their van overturned on U.S. 83. Lawrence Rodriguez, 24, of El Campo died at 3 a.m. Monday when the car he was driving overturned south of that city.

The DPS Monday reported Arnoldo Salazar, 36, of Mission, was killed Friday night when a car struck his parked vehicle at McAllen and overturned. On Saturday, Lazaro Hernandez, 25, of Parr and Irma Diana Ortega, 17, of Mcallen, died when their car ran off U.S. 83 and struck a palm tree.

Ernest Krueger, 74, of New Braunfels, was killed Saturday while walking on a sidewalk. Two cars had a wreck in the street, the DPS said, and one ran up on the sidewalk and struck him.

Shah May Yield Most Of Powers

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi has accepted "in principle" a new government arrangement that could sharply reduce his strong powers and eventually make him little more than a figurehead, highly informed sources said Monday.

The sources said agreement by the shah to the new program was part of a political package currently being negotiated. Under the plan, the sources said, veteran politician Dr. Gholan-Hossein Sadiqi, 71, would become the nation's prime minister. If the plan is implemented it would still fall short of demands by opposition leaders that the shah step down.

Informants close to Sadiqi said Monday that his efforts to form the new government were proceeding slowly. They cited a shortage of young men who have political experience but are untarnished by association with previous administrations.

"If he cannot find the right people, he will give up and there will be no new government at all," an aide to Sadiqi said.

As political contacts continued over the new arrangement, hundreds of anti-shah demonstrators fought running skirmishes in the streets of Tehran with police and troops struggling to enforce martial law. Soldiers fired into the air to disperse groups of protesters.

The opposition National Front claimed three or four protesters were killed Mon-day in a clash near the U.S. Embassy. The report could not be independently Political sources said Sadiqi received the shah's basic agreement on reducing his power on Dec. 17 and that Sadiqi was in contact with the palace again Monday to work out more details. Sadiqi, a pro-fessor of philosophy and sociology at Tehran University, was Iranian minister of the interior in 1950-53.

His government would replace the cur-rent military government headed by Gen. Gholam-Reza Azhari, chief of staff of the armed forces.

The new government arrangement, the sources said, would strictly limit the shah to the powers laid down for him in the country's 72-year-old constitution. The shah would remain commander-in-chief

Cleveland Asks Financial Help

CLEVELAND (UPI) - Cleveland City council there is no need for us to act on Council, meeting in special session today at the request of Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich, will be asked by the administration to approve an ordinance aimed at getting six local banks to refinance $15.5 million worth of notes on which the city has defaulted.

Unless what the mayor calls "the final step" in the process of rolling over the debt is approved by the lawmakers, municipal layoffs totaling about 2,000 among them 875 police officers and more than 500 firefighters - are slated to take effect Jan. 2. Kucinich wants the council to pass an ordinance guaranteeing city income tax receipts as collateral for the total debt, of which $14 million is owad the banks and $1.5 million is owed the city's treasury.

However, Basil Russo, the council's majority leader, said Kucinich's plan is illegal because, according to the council's lawyers, the proposal would violate the state constitution and the city charter. "As a result, we are informing the the administration's legislation at the meeting the mayor has called," Russo and and Democratic Councilmen Robert Getz and William Sullivan said in a prepared statement.

If the ordinance passes, three-fourths of the proposed layoffs could be averted, says Kucinich. But if no additional funds are available then, the mayor says the massive layoffs would be necessary.

Cleveland, which defaulted Dec. 15, has been operating on existing general revenue funds — expected to last until after the first of the year.

Meanwhile, the Fraternal Order of Police warns it will go to court to seek a restraining order if the layoffs are put into effect. The FOP also has lashed out against a proposed contingency plan for police in the event of layoffs. Seventy-one supervisory officers would have the choice of accepting a one-step demotion in rank, and thus, less pay, or face layoff, Police Chief Jeffrey Fox said.

By United Press International Egyptian President Anwar Sadat Monday charged Israel was using the question of its security as a pretext to complicate peace negotiations and accuse President Carter of bias against the Jewish state.

But Sadat, in a television interview marking his 60th birthday, said he was so confident peace would be eventually reached that he relegated the negotiations to second place and gave priority to Egypt's domestic problems.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan Monday reported to Prime Minister Menachem Begin on his talks with Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance in Brussels and said a peace treaty with Cairo was still possible

Khalil, on his return to Cairo after the weekend talks, ruled out a speedy resumption of peace talks, but said an "exchange of viewpoints" might be possible. But Sadat said the three nations stuck to their positions in Brussels and strongly criticized Israel's stand in the deadlocked peace negotiations. "Under the heading of secure borders, they put anything they want," he said.

"This is what Mr. Begin is saying now. He says Israel's security is endangered. He is saying this to accuse President Carter of anti-Israel bias." Sadat said he was "wondering at Israel's ingratitude to President Carter. Why doesn't Carter reply and tell the Israelis how he put pressure on me, for their sake, at Camp David?"

But Sadat said his peace mission to Jerusalem in November 1977 and the September Camp David accords had ruled out the possibility of Egypt and Israel living in peace without signing a treaty.

"The foundations of the peace structure have been placed already and they are far from the swamps of no-war, nopeace," Sadat said. "Only the upper stories remain to be built.

The establishment of peace is no longer problem No. 1 because the foundation of a solution was placed at Camp David." Sadat said.

Without the Camp David peace framework, he said, the "situation would have remained explosive and could have blown up at any time. "But now there can be no explosion and no return to the no-war, no-peace situation. There will be diplomatic efforts and determination to realize peace." He said Arab radical states were playing into Begin's hands by refusing to negotiate with Israel

"They say we must liberate occupied lands by force and need 10 years to prepare ourselves," Sadat said. "This is precisely what Begin wants because in the meantime he will fulfil his dream of a greater Israel extending from the Nile to the Euphrates.

Dayan, on his return from Brussels, said the gap separating the two sides can be bridged with mutual compromise. He said the matter would be discussed at an Israeli cabinet meeting Tuesday.

Firefighters Come Under Attack

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Police and fire officials Monday doublechecked dispatchers' recordings to dispute claims that firemen were delayed 20 minutes in reaching a blaze sparked by a Christmas

Spokesmen for both departments said checks of their records showed police and firemen were on the scene minutes after the call.

Ida Perkins, the mother of six of those killed and grandmother of two of them. said she waited quite a while before help

"I couldn't tell you exactly how long it took, but it took a long time," Mrs. Perkins said. "The police, they got there quick. But the fire department, they took a long time to get there.

Fire Superintendent William McCrossen held a news conference at the site Sunday and confronted angry neighbors who complained about a delay.

"The first unit was on the scene within three minutes," McCrossen said. "I can understand these complaints, but they're

There were police officers who arrived on the scene (first) -they made a gallant effort to get into the building. Of course the heat and smoke threw them out of the building.

McCrossen said the eight victims, who ranged in age from 1 to 18, apparently were overcome by gases and killed very quickly. Officials have said a short circuit in an artificial Christmas tree apparently sparked the blaze.

I would believe, no question in my mind, that before we arrived on the scene those people were dead. They were dead before we received the alarm," he

Medicare Benefits To Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Millions of elderly Americans will have to pay more out of pocket for hospital care under Medicare beginning Jan. 1.

Medicare "Part B" supplementary insurance - a voluntary plan that helps cover doctor bills and outpatient services will go up by 50 cents a month to $870 monthly beginning next July 1.

The Department of Health. Education and Welfare said the increases will be automatic based on requirements in law that Medicaid participation be kept in tune with rising inflation and Social Secu-

Currently, persons over 65 and the disabled covered by Medicare "Part A" must pay the first $144 of a bill for the first 60 days of any hospital stay, and $36 a day for the 61st through the 90th day of an extended stay.

On Jan. 1, however, that base out-ofpocket payment will go to $160 and the daily cost will go to $40 for the third month of the stay.

Participants also will have to pay $80 a day for a limited number of "reserve days" after the 90th day of a stay. That ligure is currently $72 a day. Medicare "Part A" currently pays completely for the first 20 days in a skilled nursing home. The patient now pays $18 for the next 80 days of a stay, and that figure will go to $20 daily on Jan. 1. Medicare "Part B" supplemental insurance covers large chunks of doctor bills and outpatient services and certain medical equipment such as wheelchairs under a set formula. It is not mandatory. but is subscribed to by more than 27 million elderly and handicapped Americans. They currently pay $8.20 in monthly premiums for such insurance. But that figure will go to $8.70 next July 1 because of a law which requires such premiums to parallel the increase in Social Security cash benefits. The government will actually lose millions of dollars in the deal, since hospital inflation is currently well over 10 percent and the increase in premiums will be only 6.5 percent. The "Part B" participants are getting a break under the Social Security formula. since the projected rise in health care costs would make their actual share

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - A thief apparently lowered himself through a skylight at the M.H. DeYoung Memorial Museum and took four 17th Century paintings, including one by Rembrandt valued at an estimated $1 million, a spokesman said Monday.

The theft occurred on Christmas Eve. said Charles Long, a spokesman for the museum in Golden Gate Park.

Taken in the heist were four Dutch paintings owned by the City of San Francisco. They included: Rembrandt's "Portrait of a Rabbi," valued at about $1 million: Van DerNeer's "River Scene at Night:" Van DeVelde's "Harbor Scene." and Delorme's "Interior of St. Lawrence Church in Rotterdam.

The other paintings are valued at about $50,000 each, Long said.

The paintings were apparently taken through the ceiling of the gallery, out a skylight and across the roof sometime after 6 p.m. Sunday. Long said. A guard noticed they were missing about 12 hours

Surgeon Sees Advances In Transplants

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A surgeon who transported a kidney to England aboard the supersonic jetliner Concorde for a transplant operation said Monday he foresees new advances in matching kidney recipients and donors.

Dr. Mendez Picon of the Medical College of Virginia removed the kidneys of a 16-year-old traffic accident victim late Friday. One kidney went to a patient in a local Veterans Administration hospital, but a recipient for the other was harder but a recipient for the other was harder

"We monitor those in need of kidneys by computer, and we could see that there was not an excellent match nearby," he

Picon telephoned his close colleague in Britain, Dr. Maurice Slapak. They made arrangements and within hours Picon was aboard the Concorde, keeping the kidney cool with ice supplied by the cabn crew

Roger Hibberd, 28, a patient in Ports-mouth, England, received the new kid-ney as soon as Picon arrived, completing a process that took only 29 hours from removal of the organ to transplant.

The match was excellent, which Picon said was essential in this case because Hibberd had had a previous unsucce transplant. The patient's chances of finding such a precise match had been rated as very poor.

Picon, returning home to be with his family for Christmas, hailed the "transatlantic transplant" as something that could point the way to more success in matching donors and recipients. "We have transported kidneys for transplant all over the United States, but what makes this unusual is the cooperation with doctors so far away," Picon

Picon said the opportunity to quickly match donors and recipients over a large geographical area means that the tragedy of "wasting" available organs will be repeated less frequently. Patients from around the world could one day be included on a master list for potential transplants, he said.

Japanese Acquire 21 Foreign Ships

TOKYO (AP) - Twelve Japanese shipping firms have purchased 21 foreign hips, among them large tankers and car carriers, with long-term low-interest foreign currency loans from a government bank, the transport ministry announced Monday.

The ministry said the purchases were made during the past six months with $340 million loans from the Export-Import Bank of Japan under the government's policy of reducing Japan's huge foreign currency reserves and its large foreign trade surplus.

Title 1 Should 'Follow' Child

A CLASSIC example of the way the federal bureaucracy works against itself-and against the people-is provided by its handling of funds to provide extra help for disadvantaged children.

If low-income pupils go to predominantly minority schools, they get special help. If they are bused to a predominantly white school in a more affluent neighborhood, they don't.

The Justice Department, with the concurrence of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, went to court and got a federal judge to order crosstown busing

Result: The bureaucracy says the children so bused aren't entitled to so-called Title 1 funds which heretofore have been used to hire extra teachers for them.

AS THE AVALANCHE-JOURNAL has said many times, court-ordered integration requiring crosstown busing is the result of pressure from people who are not really interested in the quality of education a child

They want, instead, merely to use today's young people as pawns in their crusade to punish the white majority for alleged racial discrimination in the past.

Even Lubbock's limited crosstown busing plan has not satisfied the federal bureaucracy and the integration zealots; they have appealed to a higher court to order massive systemwide integration that would further disrupt the educational process even though the existing plan is working well. Meanwhile, in the classroom, the needs of the children themselves are secondary to the bureaucrats-who like to paint themselves as the knights in shining armor bent on righting wrongs inflicted by local trustees, administrators and teachers.

APPROXIMATELY $1.7 million a year in federally allocated Title 1 money has been used here to hire extra teachers at elementary schools enrolling a higher-than-average percentage of low-income pupils.

This money should "follow the child" when he is bused to another school, the local folks plead.

Nay, the bureaucrats answer. We have our rules, you know. They have tentatively approved a plan for serving Title 1 students at five more schools but not at three westside

It can be debated whether the expense of hiring extra teachers for poor students is justified, perhaps, but if the program does indeed help the student-as would appear to be the case-then denying him that help because he gets to sit in a roomfull of students from across town doesn't make any sense at

Happy Days Not Here Again

WHENEVER AND wherever Democrats gather, one tradition remains inviolate. If there is a band in the hall, you can bet it will strike up that old rouser, "Happy Days Are Here Again."

They played it as always at the National Party Conference in Memphis, but the exhilarating tune seemed oddly out of sync with the subdued and uncertain mood of the delegates and others attending the mini-conven-

The bleak truth is that these are not particularly happy days for the majority party, for the Democrats, like the poor little lambs, have lost their way.

THE TRAILS blazed by their heroes of yesteryear-Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy, Hubert H.Humphrey—have largely petered out in the thickets of such unfamiliar problems as persistent inflation, a sinking dollar, intractible trade deficits, sky-high interest rates.

They have not found a safe path out of the

In their heads, most of the Democrats who came to Memphis appeared resigned to following the course charted by President Carter-a course marked by deep cuts in federal spending, a crackdown on waste and fraud, a postponement of new initiatives, a demand

"It is an illusion," Carter told them, "to believe we can preserve a commitment to compassionate, progressive government if we fail to bring inflation under control.'

THE PUBLIC believes that bloated budgets and fat federal deficits are to blame for inflation, and that inflation far outweighs all other problems facing the nation.

Carter is responding to that perception, and the delegates to Memphis knew it.

Yet in their hearts, they were not reconciled to proposals that smacked so horribly of Republican orthodoxy. In their hearts, the Democrats just can't warm up to the wonders of less government rather than more, of balanced budgets rather than better health programs, of efficient management rather than revitalized cities.

IN THE END, of course it took Sen Ed Kennedy to touch their hearts and revive the emotional fervor which Carter's hard-headed pragmatism had so thoroughly damp-

Kennedy was supposed to play it cool in Memphis, supposed to avoid open splits with Carter lest the speculation start again that he might challenge the President in 1980. But Kennedy, for whatever reason, rewrote the script.

The Democrats will follow Carter for the moment, for they've no other choice. But if he stumbles, or if his chosen path proves too rocky, they may yet decide to heed their hearts instead of their heads.

America Is Disarming For Butter Or Worse

WASHINGTON-I'm not sure how many more disarmament treaties with the Soviets this country can afford

The SALT II documents have not even been initialed yet, and already we are being warned that we will have to spend a lot more money to protect ourselves from the Russians than we have in

Gen. Doppler explained it to me the other day: "SALT II could guarantee excessive military spending for years to come."
"How's that?"

"If we have to give up something to sign a SALT agreement with the Soviets, Congress has to provide us with funds to see that we are not giving up guns for butter."

"I'M NOT CERTAIN I understand the guns and butter analogy too well," I said.

"Well, the original idea of SALT was to find a way of reducing the nuclear arms race between the super powers.
"It was agreed that both countries had enough warheads to kill every man, woman and child 11

"The cost of new weapons was getting so high it was believed that if both sides continued on the same path they wouldn't be able to afford butter any more.'

"I remember it well," I said. But the Pentagon and the military leaders in Moscow became very nervous that SALT would cut their budgets down to size.

"So both told their civilian leaders that all the armament talk was putting their defenses in pardy."

"HOW DID they know?" "They really didn't," Gen. Doppler said. "But when the Soviets heard the Americans wanted a SALT treaty they immediately became suspicious that we had a dirty reason for it. So they announced they wanted a SALT treaty as well.

we had to assume that if the Soviets were going along with SALT there was something wrong with it which we had overlooked." "I can see both sides thinking that," I agreed.

The truth of the matter is there was nothing disarming about SALT II.

The limitations on nuclear weapons are so great that it doesn't reduce the threat of annihilation in the slightest, but it makes everyone look

"YOU HAVE TO admit, General, it's easier to

"At first the Pentagon fought SALT like a tiger. "But suddenly the big boys realized that if the President was going to shove SALT II down the military's throat he'd have to give them the neutron bomb, the cruise missile, the smart bomb and the laser-directed PX.

"So instead of cutting the military budget the SALT talks raised it and made everyone happy. Now the Soviet military chiefs aren't dumb either, and we know for certain that they've told

"If you give up 100 MIRVS in SALT II, we want 2,000 MISHAS to fill the gap.""
"Can we get back to butter for a moment?" I asked Gen. Doppler.

"WE'VE JUST BEEN told by the new arms control director that because of SALT we can no longer have butter AND guns.

"I thought what made the United States superior to the Soviet Union was that we could always

"If we can only afford one, then our standard of living is no better than the lousy Commies." "The military is not to blame for that," Dop-

This Is Next Time

WASHINGTON-President Carter, waging the struggle to ratify SALT II, said in Memphis that he would seek substantial mutual reductions -"drastic cuts"-in strategic arms when SALT III is negotiated.

So although the SALT II agreement has not yet. been signed, its proponents are already employing the three principal arguments that the Nixon administration used to justify SALT I. First: Senate refusal to ratify it would cripple the President (or the presidency). Second: This

MEXICO CITY-This country is three times the size of Texas, one fifth the size of the United States and the third largest area in Latin Ameri-

Each year nearly four million visitors stream to the United Mexican States-most of them making a beeline for this city, the world's sixth largest. In fact, the National University of Mexico has the largest enrollment (92,000 students) in the world. Mexico's president is Jose Lopez Portillo, 58, a lawyer, the scion of a distinguished Guadalajara

At least 45 percent of Mexico's land is arid. As in Egypt, water is a major problem and you find PRESIDENT Lopez, who took office Dec. 1, 1976, favors a U.S. Canadian-Mexican agreement to build an Alaska-Canada pipeline bringing water to southern U.S. states and northern Mexico to irrigate the deserts.

This country is the world's largest producer of silver and cotton and the fifth largest of corn. You cannot make steel or glass without fluorspar and Mexico supplies 80 percent of the fluorspar and 95 percent of the graphite the United States uses. The Mexico-United States border is more than 2,000 miles long. The U.S. Border Patrol, headquartered in Loredo, Texas, finds it agonizingly hard to patrol. Last year about 600,000 Mexicans, trying to enter the United States illegally, were arrested and returned to Mexico. ACTUALLY, EACH year an estimated eight million people illegally enter the United States. This is more than the total U.S. unemployment. Most are looking for jobs. And for every one arrested, about 12 get through.

Industry and agriculture simply do not supply the needed jobs. About half of Mexico's labor force is unemployed.

In addition, this country has a population explosion. In 1920 its population was 14.3 million. Today it exceeds 65 million-an increase of about a million each year.

But I find the economy in chaos. Repeatedly, the Mexican peso is devalued. Inflation rages. President Lopez is trying to eliminate Mexico's economic chaos, whip the "wetback" problem (inevitably tied to Mexico's ghastly unemployment), stabilize the peso and do something about the water supply.

This capital has an ancient history. Mexico is the spiritual and aesthetic heir to the Aztec and Spanish legacies. In 1519 the Aztec empire was at its peak when Spanish Conquistador Hernan Cortes first saw Tlaleloco, the Aztec capital, a ci-

The Plaza of the Three Cultures lies within ancient Tlaleloco. There (Aug. 13, 1571) the final Aztec slaughter took place.

Spain ruled Mexico for more than three centuries. But under Fr. Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla, a priest, and Gen. Agustin Iturbide won effective dependence. The general also made himself peror Agustin I.

deal is better than no deal. Third: We'll do better next time. The first argument, which implies that the Senate cannot responsibly do what the Constitution authorizes it to do, is an argument that has suffered from overuse. It was heard when the Senate wrote its own ratifying language for SALT I; when Congress restricted military operations in Indochina; during the impeachment proceedings; and during the debate about the Panama Canal treaties. Yet the administration has negotiated to a point at which (in the President's word) only

'minor" matters remain to be solved, and it still is toying, nervously, with the idea of affronting the Senate by treating SALT II as an executive agreement rather than as a treaty. That anti-constitutional maneuver would avoid the necessity for a two-thirds vote in the Senate.

(A senior administration official recently had the good taste to giggle when he suggested that the ploy could be rationalized as a way of involving" the House of Representatives, which does not vote on treaties.)

IT IS TOO late for the argument that the SALT II deal "is better than no deal." In 1972 some said there was a prima facie case for any agreement, because agreements would generate detente. (Never mind that this stood on its head the argument that detente was supposed to produce

But detente has included Soviet shredding of the Paris accords on Vietnam, Soviet incitement of the Yom Kippur War, Soviet imperialism with Cuban proxies. Soviet military spending at Cold War levels, and other activities that make detente indistinguishable from the Cold War.

Moreover, it is wrong to say that SALT II is 'better than no deal" simply because it would mean substantial savings in arms budgets. SALT II would not mean substantial savings

IT IS NOT a significant measure of "arms control," This is implied by the Carter administration's third argument: We'll do better next time, by achieving substantial force reductions.

The administration portrays its critics as people opposed to SALT." But SALT is an acronym denoting a process that no serious person opposes.

And the administration's most formidable opponents, such as Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.), argue that the administration's principal failure is its failure to take seriously the challenge of really controlling arms. It is frequently and unfairly said that the administration's first important blunder in foreign policy was its first SALT proposal, which called for substantial mutual reductions.

GRANTED, THE proposal was presented clumsily. But when Brezhnev peremptorily and even rudely refused to negotiate about it, the administration fell (as previous administrations had fallen) to negotiating with itself.

The reflexive response of many within the policy-making apparatus was that it had been a blunder to ask Brezhnev to alter Soviet policy significantly.

But the proper response would have been to leave the proposal on the table until Brezhnev had either accepted at least the principle of substantial reductions, or had been revealed to the world as categorically opposed to that.

That would have ended the practice of allowing Soviet intransigence to define the basic ground of negotiations.

And, more important, it would have concentrated the American mind on the heart of the matter the question of Soviet intentions.

THE COMING SALT debate will force the nation to face that question, and may shatter the tranquilizing assumptions on which SALT I and much else was based.

At Memphis, Carter said it is his "hope" and "tentative belief" that "Brezhnev wants the same thing I do"-a "drastic cut" in strategic forces. But, Carter speculated, Brezhnev did not want such a cut in SALT II because he "had a great deal of personal investment in the Vladivostok agreement," which permitted excessively high force levels. This time, as last time, the most remarkable aspect of the SALT debate is American readiness to justify Soviet behavior. And when supporters of the SALT II deal say things will be better next time, opponents reply: This is the next time.

Naturally, these announcements did not com from the same source. News of this year's purified network shows trickled down from the industry moguls, who have finally discovered that half-draped cuties do not sell soap chips.

They don't come right out and say so, of course. Mercy, no. What they do say, propping their halos firmly in place, is that they are easing up on sexy programs because they are concern (never mind how belatedly) with "good taste."

THIS REQUIRES A bit of translation. "Good taste" on cutthroat prime time means whatever keeps the rating up. They'd run "Deep Throat" every night if the numbers on the bottom line were good enough. But apparently they haven't were never like this. All you need is a video cassette machine, a handful of X-rated tapes, and a burning itch to be the first one on your block to turn your living room into a porn palace.

THE INITIAL INVESTMENT is a little steep. Video cassette machines cost, at the moment, anywhere from $500 to $1,000. (There are industry rumors that those prices will come down eventually, although maybe not as fast as hand calculators did.) Once you've got your Betamax or SelectaVision hooked up, you have to stock up on your hard-core tape supply. That's no problem, if you can afford to pay $100 each for your dirty mevies. A shortage there's not.

They're on sale all over the country these days: in smut shops, retail stores, even theater lobbies. (Although why theaters would sell stuff that threatens to put them out of business is something known only to those who clean up on dirt.)

Profits will be beefed up even more when home video "discs" hit the market. At prices as low as $10 each, say the porn operators, everybody can afford to take up sex as a spectator

THE TECHNOLOGY IS there and it's catching on fast. More than 170,000 video cassette ma chines were sold last year, 500,000 this year and manufacturers expect to go over the million mark

That makes almost-three million owners, and porn salesmen expect most of them to own at least one X-rated tape. That's big business.

Inflation Brings Debt Warning

NEW YORK (AP) - Because inflation

will continue in 1979, perhaps accompanied by a recession, almost anyone can benefit from reviewing some of the fundamentals of survival in an unstable eco nomic society. Best known of these is the maxim that money borrowed during times of inflation is paid back in cheaper dollars. Almost everyone has heard it. Millions practice it; the debt statistics document There is little reason to quibble with the concept. It is true: so long as inflation persists, the buying power of money decreases. The 1967 dollar now gets you 50 cents worth of goods and services. But be concerned about the application. Millions of Americans are now heavily in debt for cars, appliances, homes and the like. Installment debt consumes about 16 percent of take-home pay, close to a record. What happens to the ability to repay during a recession? A recession that, should it come, would undoubtedly result in rising unemployment, and almost certainly in a slowing of personal income growth The message for 1979, therefore, is to be wary of overloading oneself with debt. Again, it is true that you might repay in cheaper dollars. But any sensible person must also ask in 1979: Will I be able to re-

Two other inflation maxims also should be reviewed in the interests of common sense and financial security.

The first: You cannot win by saving money at interest rates less than the inflation rate. Second: You can save by spending. There is truth in both assertions. For 1979, there could be danger al-

During this current year, many holders of bank or savings association passbook accounts actually lost money. They earned interest, but at a maximum of 5.25 percent. Inflation raged at about 7.25

The net effect, of course, was a 2 percent loss of buying power on such savings accounts, a perfect example of how inflation distorts incentives and rewards Better, it was said, to spend rather than

By spending, the individual in effect decides to ride with inflation rather than battle it. Because of inflation, the purchased item rises in price. It's happened with houses, used cars and certain other

Many people have actively practiced this tactic, and you don't have to search hard for the evidence. Cars sales have boomed. The homebuying market now includes singles and two-home owners.

But will it all continue? The year 1979 could be a watershed, marking the turn toward more stable economics and values. By 1980, prices could be stabilizing, some even falling, rather than rising re-

As for Carter's remarks at the conference, Granum said "they freely flowed from the discussions going on there."

And the human rights speech was a continuation of a policy Carter has been enunciating since his early days in office.

So, while Carter's budget cutters have been putting the ax to his spending pro-posals, and rumors circulate that social welfare programs are being skinned back, the president is busily letting those with possible complaints know that he is still on their side, even if the money isn't.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the mother of two daughters and a son. The girls are married. The boy is 21 and in his second

We have never had any trouble with our children - no drugs, no smoking or drinking. The girls married fine young men and have started their own families. Our son is an average student, participates in athletics and is wholesome and well-liked. Last year at college he met a young lady (also a student) and they are Yesterday we received a letter from our son saying he and his girl are going to the mountains for the weekend. He said the girl's parents have approved the trip - in fact her mother helped her get ready for it. We didn't raise OUR daughters to take weekend trips with boyfriends and can't understand the attitude of his girl's parents. We have told our son we do NOT approve of the trip but they are going

Now he feels the girl and her family care more for him than we do. Comment, please. - Baffled In The Rockies

Dear Rockies: Your son is 21. He must be allowed to decide for himself how to live his life. You have let him know your feelings about weekending in the mountains with his girl friend — now let it be.

If he should ask about "weekending" under your roof - you have every right to say no. And don't be victimized by emotional blackmail. He knows you care for him plenty.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm so mad I'm about to blow a blood vessel. I just read about a new doll called "Gay Bob." The man who is manufacturing this "toy" is a New York executive. He must have lost his marbles the last time he went through the Bermuda Triangle.

The rate of homosexuality is bound to skyrocket once it has been granted this kind of acceptance. Not only will "Gay Bob" be considered "part of the scene" but it will also open the door for more disgusting dolls. Why not "Priscilla the Prostitute," "Danny the Dope Pusher," or "The Fernwood Flasher

I hope you will print my letter and do what you can to prevent such pollution of the mind. — Angry In Alabama

Dear Al: "Gay Bob?" I'll believe it when I see it. And I can't believe I'll see it in the kind of res to do business with.

There was once a popular slogan, "Keep Florida Green - Bring Money."I have a better slogan for the Quebec drivers I see in Miami: "Keep Quebec Green. Stay Home." — A Lucky Survivor

Dear Lucky: Canada and the U.S. have always been peaceful neighbors. Let's keep it that way. We both have our share of lousy drivers. Will you settle for that?

DEAR GEORGE:

This year you can sit back and relax those overworked knees of yours 'cause I just happen to have an easy way - at least for me - and I'll be happy to share it with you.

Take a sheet (one right off the bed will do) and spread it out on the floor next to your tree. Unplug the lights and remove all ornaments from the tree and pack

Now, ever so gently lay the tree on its side down on the sheet with the strings of lights still on. You might want to remove the bulbs first, before laying the tree down, to reduce the chance of breaking

As you remove the various strings of lights, the needles will fall onto the sheet. Any overlooked ornaments will be easier

By JON MICHAEL REED

NEW YORK — If the tragedy of the le's Temple in Guyana hadn't ocrecent storyline on ABC's "The f Night" involving a group of people called the Children of Earth would undoubtedly have been considered by non-soap viewers as exaggerated twaddle. Without the reverberations from Guyana, "Edge's" Children would have been ignored by the non-serial public. In-stead, "Edge" finds itself in the middle of a sensitive controversy.

Tune In

The fictional Children of the Earth is a psuedo-religious cult devoted to the greening of the land. The sect is led by the messianic Rev. Elliott Dorn. In the "Edge" storyline, there have been inti-mations of fradulent activities within the cult. There have been scenes of initiation rites into the Children. There have been a half dozen drowned bodies which surfaced and which have been assumed to be suicidal former Children members. There have been clues that there is a process termed "a killing prayer ritual" when avowed Children leave the fold. And naturally, there have been outraged accusations to ABC that "Edge" is capitalizing on the headlines about the late Rev. Jim Jones and his cult. And that's where the real twaddle comes into the 'Edge's" headwriter Henry Slesar explains, "We conceived our serial story more than eight months ago. I'm naturally curious about contemporary phenomena. Admittedly, I have a vague uneasiness about cults that influence people. But my reasons for writing a story involving a group called the Children of the Earth weren't derived from any specific organization.

Like most people, I had never heard of Jim Jones. Since 'Edge' is a crimebsaed serial, I was interested in exploring what would happen if there was a crime involved with such a group.
"We were all shocked by the events in Guyana, but in fact we began airing our story six or seven weeks before the tragedy transpired there. We're not trying to expose anybody or anything, but unfortunately it may appear to some that we're treading on toes because of current real-life revelations. Because of the suddealy sensitive nature of the subject, it's no secret that we've had to expedite the story, and, yes, there are ramifications that I originally intended to tell which we won't be able to explore now.

There was a recent press conference on the "Edge" set to introduce David Prowse (who appeared as Darth Vader in the film "Star Wars") as a special guest who will portray a mentally-deficient giant who comes in contact with the Children. While revealing that he auditioned for the lead role in the upcoming film, "Superman," but ended up as star Chris Reeve's bodybuilder trainer, Prowse acknowledged that the serial is 'toning down" the Guyana similarities.

There are bound to be certain resemblances among groups like the Child-ren," says Slesar. "But we're not trading in on anything except telling a story that originated many months ago.

el that original story and that, like the Guyanese catastrophe, is unfortunate. It's also another example that soaps don't always imitate life. The reverse is true, as you'll see when you tune in tomorrow.

SHORT TAKES:

PATRICK HORGAN, who was last seen on "Edge" as Ansel Scott, arrived last week on "Ryan's Hope" as Thatcher Ross, Mary Ryan's new boss. Patrick is well-remembered as the dastardly Dr. John Morrison, three years ago on "The Doctors." Horgan is currently understudying for John Wood in the hit Broadway thriller, "Deathtrap.

ROBERT ELSTON, who's appeared in brief roles on several soaps, subbed as John Dixon on "As the World Turns" while actor Larry Bryggman filmed a costarring role in the movie, "And Justice For All" with Al Pacino.

MICHAEL NOURI (ex-Steve Kaslo on "Search for Tomorrow") will star as a modern-day vampire masquerading as a college professor in the "Dracula Is Dead and Living On the Coast" section of the new series, "Cliffhangers," debuting in January on NBC. # Quantity Meat Purchases Help Combat Inflation

By CONNIE CHAPMAN Family News Staff Is buying meat in quantity, for instance, a half or quarter of beef, really a money-saver for your family? There is no simple yes or no answer to this question, according to Texas Tech University professor of animal science, Dr. C. Boyd Ramsey. Some of his classes deal with this very question and he suggested some guidelines to consider when your family thinks about buying meat in

The first consideration is the fact that the price per pound quoted by the store or supplier is based on hanging weight, and not actual usable meat from a carcass, which would be much less. Approximately one-quarter of a carcass is trimmed off as it is cut, and even more if boneless cuts are desired.

While looking at the price, the family shopper must also look at the total cost of the purchase. In some cases, processing costs are in addition to the quoted price per pound. Also, because the purchase is a large one, families often do not pay cash and must finance at least some of the cost. This adds a rate of interest to the initial price.

In comparing costs quoted per pound, families should be alert to the grade of meat for sale. Beef is graded prime, choice, good, standard, and utility. Be sure you are comparing the same grade in checking on prices. Specifications for each grade are set by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Another factor to consider is storing the meat. "Even if you do own your own freezer, it had to be paid for sometime,' Ramsey commented, and added that a freezer generally lasts about 15 years. If you do not have your own freezer, there is the cost of storage charged by the locker plant to figure in, also.

Convenience is often cited as a plus for buying in large quantities. That depends on how close you are to the local supermarket and to the locker plant, if your meat must be stored there, the professor suggests. Also, because all the meat is frozen, there is that important element of remembering to defrost what is needed

Another factor to consider is what kinds of cuts your family likes best and eats most. Steaks are often a favorite, but actually steaks of all kinds make up only one-quarter of the edible meat in a half of beef. Roasts are another quarter and ground beef and stew meat comprise one-quarter and the rest is bone and

Also ask yourself the question, what other meats do I use in our regular menus? Particularly at this time when family menu planners have learned to rely more and more on fish and poultry and meat substitutes, it is well to consider what use you will make of the beef.

If you do decide your family should buy quantity freezer meat, watch for seasonal specials, advises Dr. Ramsey. There are usually good reasons for the price break these specials offer and they are worth

Several other tips on what to look for in Several other ups on what to look for in buying quantity beef are given in a book-let, published by the University of Tenne-see, of which Dr. Ramsey was a co-au-thor. The study involved carcasses of 75 steers and 68 heifers representing the five USDA grades. The study found:

 On the average, carcasses consisted of about one-quarter steaks, one-quarter roasts, one-quarter lean cuts for stewing and grinding, and one-quarter waste, bones and fat. As grade increased from Utility to Prime, percent of steaks decreased and percent of waste, bone and fat increased. However, percent of roasts and percent of lean cuts for stewing and grinding showed no consistent trend with — Steers had a higher percentage of to-tal steaks and lean cuts but a lower per-centage of waste, fat and bones than helf-

- Increases in carcass weight were accompanied by an increase in carcass length, fat thickness over the rib eye and rib-eye areas. Heifers were fatter and had less rib-eye area than steers. What these and other facts revealed in this study say to consumers is that it pays to know something about the animal from which your meat comes, said the Shoppers need to find out what the seller's policy is about replacing meat which is not to the customer's liking. If there is something you do not like in this large amount, for instance its taste, will the place you bought it take it back and give you another? Or are you stuck with what you buy? These questions deserve some consumer consideration.

FIF Tips: Several local stores contacted said sales of halves of beef have increased somewhat in recent months. # TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Doctor: What progress is being nade to find a cure for sugar diabetes? Is made to find a cure for sugar diabetes? Is a cure around the corner? I am not a diabetic, yet I would like to know if there is betic, yet I would like to know if there is any preventive medicine one can apply to lessen the chances of getting it. — D.D.

There are between 2½ and 3 million diabetics in the U.S. alone. Any disease of such widespread proportions is bound to attract much attention of medical research — and diabetes has. Over the years much progress has been made. Of course, the development of insulin therapy was a landmark accomplishment. Later, oral medicines came along for control er, oral medicines came along for control in some people. More recently, research has zeroed in on artificial controls. For example, experimental work is being done in the field of surgery — the implanting of devices to measure out insulin required to take over from the defective pancreas, which in diabetes cannot prov-ide enough of it to utilize blood sugar.

But a cure - no. It is an inherited disorder, and to date researchers have been unable to change the course of such things. But they are trying. Preventive medicine — certainly. Probably the most effective step a person with a family history of diabetes can take is to keep his or her weight down. There is a definite link between obesity and the onset and severity of diabetes. Also, it is much easier to control, when and if it appears, if a pa-tient is of normal weight for height.

Dear Doctor: I have a sort of rattling sound in my left ear. It is not a ringing. It inds like a small bead rattling in a plas-container. It lasts a minute or two, tic container. It lasts a minute or two, then stops. Recently my ears have felt as though they had wax and I used a cotton-tip and there was wax in each ear. A glob about the size of a pea came out of my left ear. There seemed to be some dried blood on it. My ears felt good after that, but the last few days the left ear started again. You did not mention this sound in your recent column on ear noises. Can you tell me what this might be? — Mrs. K.W.

Rattles, bells, beller factories — my compendium of ear sounds from readers' reports is enormous. The fact is, however, that experienced ear doctors can often pinpoint causes (nerve disorder vs. earwax, for examples) by such reports. In your case, I suspect the answer is as simple as the build-up of wax pressing against your ear drum. Wax can expand and contract with temperature. That might explain why your noises come and go.

I don't like the use of any object to remove the wax. You are playing danger-ously close to very delicate structures that bleed easily, witness the bits of blood on the end of the cotton. Often all one accomplishes is pushing of the wax in closer to the drum. It is not unusual for a person, especially an elderly one, to have an occasional build-up of wax. It is really worth the cost of having it removed by a physician rather than risking the do-it-yourself method. He has special instruments and solutions for the purpose. There is a discussion of this in the book" which you can order by mailing at and a stamped, self-addressed pe to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Sox 11210.

Dear Doctor: I heard that applying rubbing alcohol on the acne after washing away excess oil helps in clearing up the condition. Whhat do you think of this? —

I doubt it will really help, and it mi prove irritating (drying) and counterductive. Thorough washing with mild soap and hot water, followed by hot was at ter rinse and then a cold water rinse an should remove all the oil that is going to so be removed. This should be done three or four times a day. Cleanliness is the by-

Cancer Treatment Holds Forth Hope

BALTIMORE (AP) - Cancer specialists at Johns Hopkins Hospital are successfully finding and removing cancerous lung tumors very early, but it may take another three years to find out if the patients are cured.

Operating an early lung cancer detection program, doctors have achieved a three-year survival rate among certain lung tumor patients, but admit the tumors were removed so early, the patients might have lived for years even without

Dr. Melvyn Tockman, clinical director for the program, said it still is too early to tell whether the patients are cured.

Network Radio Revitalization Chases Television Supremacy selves, the CBS executive says.

By TOM JORY NEW YORK (AP) — There was a time, says the man who runs CBS' radio network, that the once mighty medium would tread softly in the presence of big brother television.

"We had developed a kind of inferiority complex toward television," says Ri-chard M. Brescia, vice president of CBS' radio division, "and we tended to be a little timid about experimenting with ra-

CBS broke the ice, so to speak, about five years ago with the "CBS Mystery Theater," "and that," says Brescia, "was really coming full circle to the good old

The same network announced recently the premiere Feb. 5 of "Sears Radio Theater," a series of hour-long plays to be broadcast nightly to CBS stations.

Indeed, something is happening in network radio. Both NBC and ABC announced this fall restructuring of their radio networks, and though the details are implications are noteworthy.

Fred Silverman, NBC's president, said formation of the NBC Radio Group "emphasizes NBC's long-term commitment to radio and our determination to become the leader in broadcasting.

dent of the ABC Radio Network, said of the reorganization at ABC, "These moves reflect the tremendous growth of network radio in recent years and our expectation that this trend will continue. "I'd call it a rebirth or revitalization."

And Edward F. McLaughlin, vice presi-

says CBS' Brescia, "that's been going on for four or five years. And the nice thing about it is that radio continues to show this great vitality."

CBS figures show of the 7,604 radio stations on the air in the spring of 1978, 2,984 were affiliated with networks. ABC, by almost any yardstick, is the leader in the field - nearly 1,600 affiliates at last count.

"Ten or 11 years ago," says Brescia.

we've got 10 feeding news and sports down the line. And that growth couldn't have taken place if the stations hadn't identified the networks as providing services beneficial to them.

This resurgence in radio is, essentially, a factor of advertiser confidence.

"After television became a major vehicle for family entertainment, there was a lot of concern among advertisers that maybe that was where they should be," Brescia says. "But all media costs began to climb several years ago, most dramati-cally in television, and advertisers started looking for alternatives.'

The networks began selling radio, Brescia says, "as a great frequency medium," where messages could be broadcast more often at less cost. And, he says, there was a single standard to follow: "If you don't move the product, it's 'Goodbye, Charlie,' he's just not going to stay with you.

'A dozen years ago, one of the big problems in network radio was the nar row base of advertising. If somebody big pulled out, everybody panicked. You can imagine the impact when cigarette advertising was halted. "We had to concentrate on the development of new advertisers," Brescia says, "and that doesn't pay off right away.

Aside from selling advertising time, the networks could offer stations services they could not possibly provide for them-

'Broadway Musical' Pulls Off Miracle

By MARY CAMPBELL NEW YORK (AP) - "A Broadway

Musical" has pulled a Broadway miracle. The show takes an old, corny story the flamboyantly fictionalized tribulations of putting on a Broadway show - and gives the audience a rousing good time with it. It doesn't do a spoof. It just moves the time to the present and adds a dash of relevance. A white producer of musical comedy early on tells a serious, young, black playwright, "Black is the biggest thing on Broadway today." The cliched basics are still there. The temperamental star - male in this version - is a Las Vegas singer of homogenized soul. And, yes, he pulls out of the show and a talented unknown goes on. But "A Broadway Musical" plays better than a cliche

For one thing, some of the characters come across as real people. Irving Allen Lee is most likeable as the novice playwright, putting on his glasses to peer at show biz. Warren Berlinger is likable, hit after four turkeys.

too, as the producer sweating to have a The second act is the best. The first act is comfortably entertaining, neither a rocket that lights up the sky nor a fizzle. One less-than-great song, about women who book matinee theater parties, will probably be appreciated by theater party

The second act starts with a dynamite nostaglia number, "The 1934 Hot Chocolate Jazz Babies Revue," by long-time singer-dancer Tiger Haynes. The chorus with him includes a dancer dressed like Josephine Baker and one who looks like a black Bette Midler doing Billie Holiday.

Act two also has production supervisor-choreographer Gower Champion's big number, "You Gotta Have Dancing," a Music is by Charles Strouse, who composed the songs for "Annie." Lyrics are by Lee Adams, who worked with Strouse on "Bye Bye Birdie" and "Applause." They've done well again, with a disco rocker, "Smoke and Fire," proclaimed in the show to be trashy enough to get on the recording charts; "Let Me Sing My Song," written for the Las Vegas lizard handily played by Larry Marshall; and a neat love song, which starts as a song about play reviews, for the producer and William F. Brown wrote the book, in which a serious play about a bribed basketball player becomes a musical comedy. The last song is another rouser, "Together." The new star sings how they'll all put on a terrific show that will run and run. And it looks like they have.

Kerkorian Eyes Columbia Stock

By PHILIP GREER And MYRON KANDEL

Things just never seem to settle down at Columbia Pictures. First there was the Begelman affair late last year, when the head of Columbia's movie division turned out to be forging checks. Then there was the Hirschfield affair, when the company's president was tossed out because he insisted that Begelman be dumped. Now there's the Kerkorian affair.

Last month, Kirk Kerkorian, who controls Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and has moved that company out of the movie business and into casino gambling, revealed that he owns 5.5 percent of Columbia's stock and is preparing a tender offer to stockholders to pick up about 20 percent more. That would make him by far the biggest stockholder in Columbia. although if you count stock owned and dependable votes, Herbert Allen Jr. runs a close second.

Kerkorian said he doesn't mean to take control of Columbia - that he think it's a cheap investment and, following the usual pattern, that he has all kinds of confidence in the current management.

If he sticks to that scenario, it will be the first time. Indications are mounting that Kerkorian plans to build up his stake in Columbia, with a corresponding increase in influence.

1:00-3:00

Columbia's officers and larger stockholders have met with Kerkorian and they aren't opposed to his offer (although none of them plans to sell any stock). One insider told us that he has his doubts, but you have to take the guy at face value. He says he doesn't want to take over the company and I believe him. Besides, his big position in MGM (right around 50 percent of the stock) would make antitrust problems and I don't think he could take us over, anyway.'

Among the agreements Kerkorian made with the directors is one that he will not try to merge Columbia and MGM for at least three years. By that time, one source told us, MGM could be so far away from the movie business that the antitrust problems would disappear. The insider may be right. Sources

we've talked to, who are familiar with Kerkorian's plans, say he probably doesn't have much interest in movies. But he does have a large interest in gambling and Columbia's subsidiaries include one that could be a prize. That's D. Gottlieb & Co., a manufacturer of pinball machines that Columbia took over in 1976. Sources close to Kerkorian have told us that he "wants" Gottlieb, although they aren't quite sure how he hopes to get it.

A Columbia offical pointed out that, at the time of the acquisition, Columbia's management promised Gottlieb it would not get into the gambling business. Other sources say, though, that Kerkorian won't feel bound by any earlier promises, especially when the market for gambling equipment looks so bring. (Gottlieb doesn't make slot machines, but the changeover would be easy.)

HELD MATINEES TODAY OVER

Gottlieb also would fit right in with other plans Kerkorian apparently is developing. We're told that he recently bought 250 acres of land in Marbella, Spain, for a hotel-casino. An MGM official said he doesn't know anything about the land except that "MGM hasn't bought any." At Kerkorian's private investment company, Tracinda, we were told that only the boss can discuss business and nobody knew where he was.

In order to get at Gottlieb, Kerkorian would have to find some allies at Columbia. The one he's counting on, we're told, is Matthew B. Rosenhaus, currently the largest single shareholder, who runs J.B. Williams Co. and is vice-chairman of Nabisco. Rosenhaus, according to our sources, is likely to support Kerkorian, an alliance that would hold about 33 percent of Columbia's stock if the ten offer is successful.

Alan Alda

That offer, some observers pointed of fits right in with Kerkorian's style. His promises not to interfere with management also fit the pattern. But, first at Western Airlines and later at MGM, he quickly moved to take control. At MGM it took about five months from the first purchase to the firing of president Louis Polk Jr.

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL-Tuesday Morning, December 28, 1978-A-17 Egypt's Opium Production Up

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - The fertile Nile Valley of Egypt produces what experts say is some of the most potent opium in the world, and newly released statistics to a dramatic increase in illicit cul-n of the deadly poppy. year, for the first time, internadrug traffickers from Europe and the United States scouted Egypt as a possible source of opium, from which heroin is made, reliable sources said.

Egyptian narcotics agents, however, seized most of the opium harvest last year and the rest has been absorbed by an estimated half-million Egyptian ad-

Concern persists that the cultivation will spread to new areas outside the traditional growing center and that a surplus domestic production would attract drug kingpins from abroad.

In a new crackdown on the eve of the traditional five-month harvest period that begins in January, the government has proposed new legislation to deal with the problem and it seems likely to win approval by Parliament.

We are changing the law so that the government will seize the land of anyone caught planting opium or any other narcotic plant," Gen. Sami Farrag. head of Egypt's anti-narcotics administration. told a news conference.

Growers currently face stiff fines and jail sentences ranging from six months to 25 years, but the loss of land would affect not only the grower but his entire family. The flowering poppy bush, from which the sup is used to make opium, is sown with cotton and other crops in fields along the Nile River.

The traditional growing center is a 250square-mile area around Assiut, a provincial farming center 189 miles south of Cairo that also has a reputation as Egypt's badlands.

Upper Egypt has been a center for opium growing since the days of the pharaohs, and the poppy plant is depicted on temple walls of ancient Thebes near Lux-

Peasants have been the traditional users, chewing raw opium or brinking it in their tea, but experts say there are signs users now include young urbanites. Police say there is no indication that the raw opium is being distilled to make morphine or heroin and there is no legal production for medicinal purposes in Statistics released by the anti-drug agency show that in 1973 only 4.523 oprum plants were seized in police raids. but in the first six months of this year six nullion plants were destroyed. Between 1976 and 1977 the seizures increased 286 percent and there is no sign of a slackening in the upward trend.

In a report on opium and hashish growing, the anti-narcotics agency said the increase in seizures clearly pointed to a rise in total production.

In the last few years statistics indicated an increase in the cultivation of narcotic plants," the report said.

The Westernaire Club TINY LYNN Friday & Saturday 124 The study also stated that "growers have started switching from the cultivation of marijuana to growing opium be-cause of the enormous profit involved."

Sources estimate that a farmer can earn $35,000 an acre growing opium in a country where the per capita income is only $250 a year!

"That is a hell of an incentive to grow opium," one Western expert said. "You can't find another crop that has that val-

The sources estimate the illict market value of the crop seized in 1977 at $7 million but say it would be worth at least three times that on the international market.

By comparison with world growing centers such as Turkey, Southeast Asia and Mexico, the Egyptian production is 'very small," Farrag said. For example, Egypt's 1977 seizure amounted to only about 200 acres. while in Mexico a raid last year involved some 20.000 acres of opium. But the potential is nonetheless evident, and Farrag noted Egypt's opium is the "best in the world" because of the rich soil.

It's a beginning and if we are not firm. if we don't eradicate the sparks now there will be a fire later." he said. "We must stop this trend before it becomes He said because the growers lost most

Under the constitution, only the Parliament is empowered to nominate government officials, but in recent years the shah has made nominations himself. The constitution also calls for a panel of five Moslem religious leaders to give advance approval for new laws. Such a panel has never been set up, but presumably it would come into existence if the new government package is approved.

Under the plan, the 59-year-old shah would retain the constitutional right to rule the country by decree — passing laws through his government ministers before parliamentary confirmation, the sources said. However, they said he probably would not exercise that power.

They said the thrust of the new arrangement would be to take the shah out of the political limelight.

The shah would retain major national standing as head of the armed forces and would continue to be an influential figure, but at least officially, the machinery of government would be more in the hands of Parliament and the government ministers than at any time since the Monday's demonstrations in Tehran were by scattered groups of youths who chanted anti-shah slogans and set fires to block traffic. Troops fired into the air to disperse the protesters.

The Iranian state radio broadcast warnings Sunday night that any demonstra-tions Monday would be harshly dealt with, and Monday's demonstrators broke and ran quickly when rushed by troops, fighting between two rival Moslem sects - the rightist Sunnis and leftist Alevis had ended by Monday night. He called his Council of Ministers into session to discuss "urgent measures" to maintain calm in the city. He declined to discuss what measures were considered.

The semi-official Anatolia News Agency said at least 1,052 persons were hurt in the clashes and local officials in Maras reported many persons missing.

Leftist and rightist students reportedly staged protest marches and boycotted classes Monday in the major urban centers of Istanbul. Ankara and Izmir in reaction to the riots in the southeast. Officials closed universities in the three cities, as well as all secondary schools in Istanbul, for at least three days.

Interior Minister Irfan Ozaydinli said 25 persons had been arrested in connection with the Maras riots, which began Friday night when rightists allegedly tried to disrupt a funeral ceremony for two slain vocational teachers said to be leftists. Ecevit sent paratroops and a commando brigade to the city Sunday night.

Persons left homeless by fires started by rioters were sheltered in official buildings until they could be moved into tents dispatched by the Turkish Red Crescent. Ozydinli said.

He predicted many more bodies would be found by soldiers combing through the rubble in the provincial capital. Maras, known historically as Kahramanmaras, has 130,000 inhabitants and is 70 miles north of the Syrian border.

Halit Dagli, a member of Parliament's opposition Justice Party, told reporters here after an inspection tour that Maras looked like "a devastated battlefield, smoking of cordite (an explosive)."

He said a leftist group had pumped machinegun bullets into a rightist crowd from the top of a tower, killing at least 18 persons. The rightists in turn attacked a leftist-Alevi neighborhood with guns and fire bombs and killed scores of residents,

The arrival of the military troops saved the 5,000 residents from complete annhilation, Dagli said.

Like hundreds of towns in eastern Turkey, Maras has a large proportion of Alevis, a generally accepted designation for the Shiite Moslems in Turkey. They are regarded as heretics by the Sunni sect, which claims an 80 percent following among Turkey's 40 million people.

It took only about 40 minutes before the fire was declared under control, the Salt Lake City Fire Department said. But the building was destroyed.

Carter Remains Hopeful Toll Nears On Mideast Peace Pact

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - President Carter was optimistic Monday that a strategic arms limitation treaty and a Middle East peace pact will be achieved, cautioning that "it just takes time."

The president began his Christmas celebration with relatives before dawn and paused outside his mother-in-law's home to tell reporters that "we hope everyone in our country had as good a Christmas as

Carter said he has an "excellent chance of a fairly early meeting" with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, but that it probably will not be in January as some have predicted.

We would be ready in January if the Soviets are," the president said.

He added that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's SALT negotiations with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva last week brought the two sides closer to an agreement. Carter said he had sp Vance, who traveled from the SALT negotiations in Geneva to a Mideast meeting in Brussels, and that they "are not discouraged at all."

The differences preventing agreement on a SALT treaty with the Russians have been narrowed considerably in the last week," Carter said, although a couple of issues are still unresolved. "I don't see any need for another foreign ministers meeting," Carter said.

Carter said Vance reported that he was encouraged by the Soviets and "thought the Israelis and Egyptians had a good dis-

Vance returned to Washington on Sunday after meeting for three hours with Egypt's Mustafa Khalil and Israel's Moshe Dayan. He described the session as "friendly and useful," but there was no announcement of a time or place for before dawn for a traditional gathering of 19 Carters at the home of his 80-year-old mother, Miss Lillian. After exchanging gifts and eating breakfast, the first family went to the white frame home of Rosalynn Carter's mother, "Miss Allie" Smith, to open more presents. After returning home for a while, the Carters went back to Miss Allie's for ATLANTA (AP) - Mark Herrmann first half when Georgia Tech had figures the Purdue Boilermakers are ready to make their mark as a national power in college football.

"I can't wait to get started on next year." Herrmann said Monday after accounting for three touchdowns to lead the 17-ranked Boilermakers to a 41-21 victory over Georgia Tech in the 11th Peach Bowl game.

"Purdue is going to be a national power for at least the next two years," he said. "I think we've got a great shot at the Rose Bowl next year."

Falcons Plan Another Miracle For Cowboys

ATLANTA (AP) — Leeman Bennett is a realist.

But, even those types have been stunned this year by the miracle finishes produced by the Atlanta Falcons.

"We probably don't have the athletes to compete with Dallas," Bennett was saying as he still savored yet another incredible comeback that gave the Falcons a 14-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in the first National Football League playoff game in Atlanta's 13-year history.
"But, we'll show up," Bennett added. "You never can tell what will happen."

The Falcons face an uphill task — taking on the defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys in Irving, Tex., Saturday in a National Conference semifinal battle. That winner will advance to the NFC championship match against the winner of next Sunday's Los Angeles-Minnesota clash in Los Angeles.

Sunday's triumph over the Eagles, in the playoffs for the first time since 1960, was the fifth amazing conquest by the Falcons this year. The four regular sea-

This time Atlanta's stumbling offense almost struck too soon.

Trailing 13-0, the Falcons pounced on a Mike Hogan fumble at their own 13 as the Eagles were going in for a game-clinching touchdown.

With a partisan crowd chanting "Go, Go, Go!" Steve Bartkowski engineered an 87-yard scoring march on which he completed four of six passes for 92 yards, including a 19-yard touchdown strike to Jim Mitchell with 4:56 remaining. It was set up when Wallace Francis stole a pass from John Sanders as the two fell simultaneously to the turf at the Philadelphia 25.

A swarming defense stopped the Eagles on the next drive, and Bartkowski came back to hurl a 37-yard scoring pass to Francis, who tumbled backward into the end zone as he made the catch.

With 1:39 remaining, former Eagle and Philadelphia bartender Tim Mczzetti kicked the game winning point.

But, the Eagles weren't through yet.

Ron Jaworski triggered a drive into field goal ranges, passing for 50 yards as his team moved to the Atlanta 16, where on third down, Mike Michel missed by inches to the right a 33-yard field goal that would have given Philadelphia the

"I just missed it," said Michel, a replacement for the injured Nick Mike-Mayer. Michel also missed an extra point after Philadelphia's first score and failed on a 42-yard field goal try earlier, his first attempt this season.

"I usually hook it," the dejected Michel said."I kept waiting for this one to hook, but it stayed straight."

Rested Cowboys Await Atlanta's Challenge

By The Associated Press
The Dallas Cowboys, well rested after a weekend off, and the Atlanta Falcons, fresh from their latest miracle finish, join Denver and Pittsburgh next Saturday in opening the second round of National Football League playoffs.

The Falcons edged Philadelphia 14-13 Sunday when Steve Bartkowski threw two fourth-quarter touchdown passes for Atlanta and punter-turned-placekicker Mike Michel of the Eagles missed an extra point and a last-gasp field goal at-

The victory sends the Falcons, the National Conference's surviving wild-card team, to Dallas to face the Cowboys, the winners of the NFC East Division title and defending Super Bowl champions.

A few hours before the kickoff in Texas Stadium, Denver and Pittsburgh will collide for the second time in 14 days. On lide for the second time in 14 days. On Dec. 16 the Steelers, winners of the American Conference's Central Division, held on for a 21-17 victory when the Broncos, AFC West champs, were stopped cold at Pittsburgh's goal line on the game's final play.

On Sunday, Houston will play at New England and Minnesota will visit Los An-geles in the remaining divisional playoffs. The Oilers earned the right to advance champions of the AFC East, by beating the Miami Dolphins 17-9 in last Sunday's other wild-card game. Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini shrugged off the effects of rib and leg injuries and completed 20 of 29 passes for 306 yards and a touchdown in the game.

The Vikings, who backed into the NFC Central title, will go against the Western champion Rams in a fifth playoff showdown between the two teams. Minnesota has won all four previous encounters, most recently 14-7 last year in a Los An-

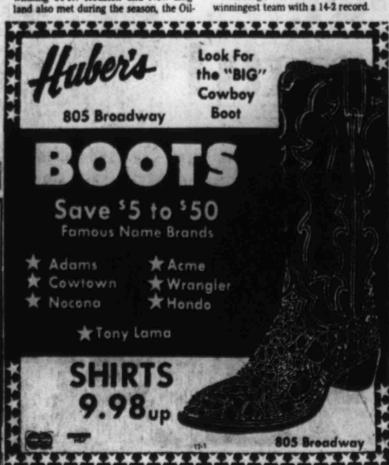

The Vikings and Rams also played during the 1978 regular season, Los Angeles winning 34-17. Houston and New Eng-land also met during the season, the Oilers coming away with a 26-23 victory. The only teams who haven't faced each other this year are the Falcons and Cowboys. They have only met six times in all, Dallas winning the first five games and Atlanta taking the most recent encounter, 17-10 two years ago.

The oddsmakers favor Dallas and Los Angeles in the NFC and Pittsburgh and New England in the AFC. If that's how the Dec. 30-31 games end, the Steelers and Rams will be the hosts for the Jan. 7 conference championship games.

Los Angeles and Dallas finished the regular season with 12-4 records but the Rams beat the then struggling Cowboys 27-14 during their only meeting this year. Pittsburgh was the AFC's (and NFL's)

There are two other games, too, One's the Rams and the Vikes. For some reason we can't guess, Minnesota likes To give LA's playoff hopes A punch in the nose. And Denver at Pittsburgh. Now, there, we suppose Is a nail-biting, gut-wrenching Game. Will the Steelers Force Miller and Morton to Send out peace feelers? If the oddsmakers' picks Are the teams that survive Then LA and Dallas Will still be alive As well as the Pats And the Steelers. Those four Will ring in the new year. (Hold on, folks, There's more.) There are still two more steps To the NFL title. And unless we're mistaken The Super Bowl fight'll Involve Dallas and Pittsburgh To guess is absurd. But the winner of that game Would take home a third Super Bowl ring, a feat Bringing fortune and fame. And what's this? Oh, yeah. There's still one more game. The Pro Bowl, that Anticlimactic event That is played when emotion And interest are spent. So here's to pro football With playoffs and parity. In this holiday season.

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - The innovative broadcasting technique of placing a mi-crophone at the sidelines during a football game backfired at the Fiesta Bowl game between UCLA and Arkansas Mon-

Broadcaster Mike Haffner was on the UCLA sideline and approached Coach Terry Donahue immediately after an apparent interception by the Bruins. Haffner first set the stage, saying he would try to listen in as the Bruins' coach, who was talking with a player, sent in a play.

As Haffner pointed his microphone toward Donahue, the officials nullified the interception because of a UCLA penalty. At that moment with Haffner's microphone pointed at him, Donahue uttered a two-word expletive. VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II read Christmas greetings "to each and every human being" in 24 languages Monday and asked the faithful to respect the dignity of man and join him in urgent prayers for peace.

"Man cannot be destroyed; it is not permitted to humiliate him; it is not permitted to hate him," said the pope, who read his first papal Christmas message to a crowd of 30,000 from the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica.

The lights from the pope's own fir Christmas tree could be seen flickering within the papal apartments from the piazza below as the crowd gathered in the chilly rain to hear the message. Poland's first pope also was reported to have imported a nativity scene from his homeland for the holidays.

"To everyone I address a pressing invi-tation to pray together with the pope for peace," the pontiff said.

Clad in white robes and gold-trimmed miter, the pope read Christmas greetings in 24 languages, including Arabic, Chinese, Russian and Polish. He concluded in Latin, saying, "Christus natus est nobis, venite adoremus" - "Christ is born for us, come let us adore him." "The pope is with you," he added staliation in October, the Vatican said the international broadcast of the pope's Christmas Mass and message was not picked up by Poland or other Eastern European communist regimes. Poland's government also reportedly censored John Paul's Christmas message to his

John Paul's Christmas message to his former Krakow diocese.

During his Christmas Mass homily, the pope spoke out against political and economic oppression, the central theme of his two-month-old pontificate.

At the midnight Mass in St. Peter's Basilica, the pontiff urged the faithful to remember "the human beings that fall victim to man's inhumanity, ... Let us think of those who are lonely, old, or sick, of the homeless, those suffering from hunger and those whose misery is the result of exploitation and injustice of economic systems.

"Let us also think of those who this night are not allowed to take part in the liturgy of God's birth and who have no priest to celebrate Mass."

In his message, the pope asked "all the various communities, the peoples, the nations, the regimes, the political, economic, social and cultural systems" to respect the dignity of all humans because man was "elevated in God's earthly list."

While nearing the planet's surface, the Venus 11 probe analyzed the atmosphere. The data was picked up by the Venus 11 then relayed back to Earth, Tass said.

Tass said the Venus 11 mission was almost identical to the Venus 12 project. Both stations carried plaques with a basrelief of Vladimir Lenin. The descent crafts were emblazoned with the USSR state symbol showing the nation's coat of arms. Tass said.

The Soviet landers were designed to transmit data for at least 30 minutes and to photograph the Venusian surface, but Tass made no mention that any photographs were received from the Venus 11.

The Venus 12 was the ninth Soviet spacecraft to land on Venus' rocky, cloud-shrouded surface. It was the most successful to date.

The Venus 12 landing came 12 days after five U.S. scientific capsules plunged into the Venusian atmosphere.

One American probe was designed to burn up in the atmosphere, while four others were to buyn up after they struck the surface. In an unexpected development, one U.S. probe managed to survive and transmit measurements on the planet's atmosphere for 67 minutes, 47 sec-

Heavy Rains Strike Northeast England

LONDON (AP) - Unseasonably heavy rains deluged northeastern England early Monday and the fire brigade in Newcastle reported being overwhelmed with hundreds of pleas for aid from residents with flooded homes.

Firefighters pumped out many houses in the city that were flooded to a depth of six feet as water poured in from the sur-rounding fields, officials said. No injuries were reported.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - What President Carter does in 1979 will probably be more important to his chances of reelection than how he campaigns in 1980.

Carter faces a critical year ahead. Already down in the popularity polls, he must take the unpopular position of op-posing new government programs, limit-ing wage and price increases, and push-ing a more conservative Senate to approve an arms limitation treaty.

The key to Carter's success and to his chances for a second term are tied to the nation's economy and his ability to deal with inflation. If the nation marches

ral Democratic constituency - the unions, liberals and businessmen - by demanding that wage and price increases be kept at 7 percent and making cuts in social programs necessitated by his vow to reduce the federal budget deficit to $30

Add the public ire evidenced by the tax revolt, and it is not surprising that one of the first bills Carter will send to the new Congress is a tax rebate program. Congress will have its own ideas about what to do about taxes, but it is likely some kind of tax cut will be approved.

Carter's biggest successes so far have come in the area of foreign policy. But as Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford learned, dramatic foreign policy breakthroughs do not always translate into popular support at home.

The president wound up 1978 with the historic announcement that the United relations with Communist China and abrogate its mutual defense pact with Taiwan, thus recognizing China's claim to the eventual government of that island. It was a diplomatic coup that Carter will follow up by receiving Chinese leader Teng Hsiao-ping in Washington in January and then going to China himself later on in the year. China should keep Carter's foreign policy maneuvers in the news even if the spirit of Camp David dims during the new year. Middle East peace will help Carter with the Jewish vote, which was cool to him in 1976, unless Israeli leaders continue to charge that Carter is siding with Egypt on controversial demands.

This will be offset as his popularity among blacks - who gave him 90 percent of their votes in 1976 - continues to slide. He has promised the poor less in 1979 and there is every indication blacks will retaliate at the polls.

Carter's major foreign policy push of 1979 will be for Senate ratification of the new strategic arms limitation treaty with Russia. Regardless of the outcome, it is an issue that will do Carter little harm at the polls.

The average family does not sit around the dinner table discussing SALT. It is a complicated issue that does not translate into votes. Even a more easily understandable issue like the Pananma Canal treaties had little impact on the 1978 elec-

Carter and Congress should get along better in the new year, if for no other reason than they are getting used to each other. The pitiful pratfalls of Frank Moore, Carter's chief liaison with Congress, should fade into history.

The new Congress will be more conservative, which may well put it more in

A. It's true. Don't doubt that. It's the only correct way to give stocks or other securities to "minors." That's young people, under the age of 18 to 21 - depending upon the state in which they live. Life was much simpler when all kids became adults at age 21.

To make such a gift, you have the stock registered in the name of an adult as custodian for the name of the minor under the particular state's gifts to minors

The exact wording of the registration will depend on whether the state in which the minor lives has adopted the uniform gifts to minors act, the revised uniform gifts to minors act or the model gift to minors act.

Assuming you buy the gift stock through a broker or have your broker or bank arrange to transfer stock you already own into your grandchildren's name, you'll have no problem getting the proper wording.

Readers who want more details can obtain a handy book on this subject by writing to the Securities Industry Association, 20 Broad St., New York, N.Y. 10005. Enclose one dollar and ask for the book, "Gifts of Securities or Money to Minors, a Guide to Laws in 50 States.

The one dollar is strictly to cover the cost of handling and mailing. I have the association's assurance that the names

Low-Income Nations Face High Numbers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Overall world birth rates are declining, but the number of children in low-income countries will practically double between now and the turn of the century, says a new World Bank study.

"The condition of children in most parts of the world is depressing," the bank said Thursday in an accompanying statement. "What all of this means is that there are a lot of children in the world who aren't going to have any Christmas dinner," said Helen Hughes, a senior economic analyst with the bank.

make gifts of "up to $3,000 a year to as many people as he or she wants to and not pay federal gift tax" and that a husband and wife can make gifts of "up to $6,000 a year" with the same rules.

Does this mean that we can give our son $4,000 and neither we nor our son has to pay gift taxes and that we can deduct $4,000 on our income tax return?

A. Not for one minute. You can list as contributions and take deductions for gifts to - as the federal income tax instructions explain - "organizations operated for religious, charitable, educational, scientific or literary purposes or to prevent cruelty to animals and children."

There's no way your son meets those qualifications. If you give him $4,000 or any other sum of money - it has to be out of the goodness of your heart.

You wouldn't have to pay federal gift taxes on that generous gift you have in mind. Nor would your son have to pay any taxes on it. But you couldn't take it as a deduction on your tax return.

Q. I am a 23-year-old woman, whose annual income recently increased to $27,-000. I have no investments or savings. I'm anxious to make the most of my money in the years ahead. Right now, I can start with $160 a month. What investment route should I take? I'm not the high-risk

A. But, if you have been earning anything close to your present salary for any length of time, you must be the highspending type.

My suggestion is to reign in your spending and start putting away at least $250 a month - $3,000 a year. After you have about $5,000 in a savings account, invest for your future.

A no-load mutual fund - on which you don't pay a sales commission to a sales person or broker - which invests in stocks that are expected to grow in the future would then be the logical choice

U.S. Citizens Await Ruling In Ecuador

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) - Suzanne Arpin, one of a group of archaeologists arrested and imprisoned Oct. 25 in Ecuador, said by telephone the dig's organizers may be charged Tuesday for working in a prohibited area, but she may be released and sent home by Jan. 1.

Miss Arpin, 22, said in a Saturday telephone conversation with her parents, who live in Jacksonville, that she does not think she and the other women in the group, or those who paid to go on the expedition, will be charged.

In fact, she said she expects to be released and sent back to the United States before Jan. 1.

"No charges have been filed yet," she said in the conversation arranged by the Florida Times-Union in Jacksonville. 'And, as far we are concerned, they say they will not charge the women and those who paid to go on the trip. They say what happened was not our fault.

However, they (the Ecuadorean government) do consider the others, the ones who organized the expedition, to be responsible and they could be charged sometime on Tuesday at the earliest."

The trip was organized by Clyde Nickelson, 57 of Sanford, Fla., Terry Nickelson, 32, of Memphis, Tenn., Tom Nickelson, 24, of Sanford and Bill Scarbrough, 33, of mation, their shelter areas have no stored food or water, and apathy about civil defense is pervasive," said Aspin, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, in releasing a study by his office.

The Carter administration recently announced plans to improve U.S. civil defense programs. Aspin said that reacting to Soviet civil defense plans "with a major civil defense effort of our own is neither strategically sound nor necessary."

Defense Secretary Harold Brown is recommending that this year's $97 million appropriation for civil defense be nearly doubled next year in the face of reports of major Soviet civil defense prepara-

Brown also wants to spend approximately $1 billion over the next five years to refine evacuation plans.

Aspin, drawing on unclassified material from the Pentagon, CIA and other sources, said the Soviets have not taken steps to disperse or protect industry.

"Soviet industry is so specialized, concentrated and non-redundant that the United States could throw Soviet society into economic chaos with far fewer warheads than we have in our current arsenal," he said. In short, if American political leaders sought to kill several tens of millions of Russians ... while still devastating the Soviet economic base and many military targets, the United States would have little difficulty doing so, regardless of Soviet civil defense programs," Aspin said. He said estimates of Soviet fatalities, assuming effective evacuation and sheltering, have varied. A study done for the Boeing Aerospace Co. estimates between 5 million to 25 million Russian fatalities, he said, while the CIA puts the figure in the "low tens of millions" and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency estimates 23 million to 34 million. Aspin said all of the studies have conservative assumptions, and that the actual number of fatalities would be 30 million to 40 million.

Attacks On Teachers Increase

By JANE SEE WHITE NEW YORK (AP) — Students had threatened Clare Klinger before, but when the attack came, she did not expect it: A magazine rolled around some heavy object and secured with a rubber band slammed full force into her neck.

It knocked her down, but the middleaged remedial reading teacher got up and taught her two remaining classes that day in February 1977. Then she went home. She never returned to her Brooklyn vocational high school classroom,

She says she hasn't gone back because of her neck injury - the eternal headaches, the dizziness. But also, she says, she's

"I am petrified when I see more than two youngsters together. If I want to go out in the evening, I have to gird my loins all day.

Miss Klinger, a 10-year teaching veteran who needs only to complete her dissertation to earn a doctoral degree, slides slowly, involuntarily into tears as she describes her injuries and her feelings about the assault.

"I know I'm not handling this very well - I cry easily when I'm reminded about this. It's been two years and I'm getting worse. I'm really very bitter."

Miss Klinger's experience is echoed through the nation's schools: More than 60,900 teachers were attacked by students last year according to the National Education Association. Since 1972 classroom murders have increased 18 percent, rapes have increased 40 percent and assaults are up 77 percent.

She is not much surprised, nor much comforted, that Dr. Alfred Bloch would find her reaction to the classroom assault who recently concluded a five-year study of battered teachers.

What Bloch found was that battered teachers react the same way as soldiers who've fought too long on the front lines with combat fatigue. They come down with ailments like migraine headaches, ulcers and hypertension; they are de-pressed and unable to sleep.

Further, Bloch found that even teachers who weren't actually attacked suffer physical or emotional breakdowns. That's the price they pay for working in constant terror - or under threat - of being beaten, raped or murdered.

Bloch, a University of California psy chiatrist, was interviewed during a meeting here of the American Psychoanalytic Association. His study was published in October by the American Journal of Psy-

Generally, he says, "when teachers run into violence, they break down. They often suffer tremendous feelings of failure because they feel they should be able to cope, to prevent the violence."
Their problems are especially knotty, according to Bloch, because the sort of people who choose to teach are illequipped to cope with violence: They are often passive, idealistic people who want students to view them as loving, parental Teachers who grew up in volatile city neighborhoods deal more easily with a combat zone atmosphere in schools because they've been exposed to more violent behavior, Bloch found. Yet often the physical and emotional toll paid - even by teachers who are never attacked - can be even more crippling

When the teacher in classroom A is raped or assaulted, think what it does to the teacher in classroom B or C or D," Bloch says. "She is living in constant anxiety, always wondering, When is it going to be my turn?"" He reported that 72 percent of the 253 teachers he studied had not been physi-cally attacked. These men and women sought help, he said, for breakdowns caused by living, always, in fear.

Bloch believes teachers should be trained to defuse explosive confrontations and to deal with violent outbursts. He thinks it would help if they shared their fears with each other in discussion

Bloch and other experts believe school administrators should also undergo special training because too often they react as if the attack were the teacher's fault and too often the attacker is not discip-

Edward Muir of New York's United Federation of Teachers puts it this way: We need to give the principal the idea that his first concern should be giving emotional support to the victim rather than with the paper work the incident

Miss Klinger says she was told by of eachers that the student who injured bragged about it, reportedly saying, 'hit and I hit her hard and when sh comes back, my mother and I are goin to nut her in a wheelchair."

She never learned what provoked the attack. The youth was never disciplined, Miss Klinger says. She doesn't know why, but she has a theory: The disciplinary dean coached the school's basketball

"Maybe," Miss Klinger says, "the boy played basketball."

English Conductors Observe Christmas

LONDON (AP) — Travel was free Monday on London's subway and bus system, but the chances of going anywhere and getting back were limited as the London Transport Authority kept only a few subway stations open and shut down many bus routes for the Christmas holi-

A spokesman for the transport authority said $26,000 was saved by closing ticket offices at the stations, giving conductors on the buses a holiday and keeping the system open only between 10 a.m. and 6

Heavy Snow, High Winds Hit New England, Atlantic Coast

Heavy snow warnings were up Monday across much of New Hampshire and Maine, with gale warnings over Lake On-fario and the Atlantic Coast from New England through Virginia.

Six to 10 more inches of snow were exected from the storm through sections New England, and warnings for freezg-rain or sleet mixed with snow extendover the Maine and New Hampshire easts during the afternoon.

Travel advisories remained over Ver-mont, much of New York state and western Pennsylvania, where snowshowers with gusty winds were expected to cause blowing and drifting snow, with additional snowfall of 2 to 3 inches.

The storm already had dumped 8 to 12 inches of snow in sections of interior New England. For Lubbock, the weather will be con-

Lobby Seeks Funding For Campaigns

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Common Cause says it will lobby hard in the next Congress for laws providing for public financing of congressional election campaigns and other measures to cut the innce of special interest groups on Cap-

David Cohen, president of the public interest lobbying group, said special in-terests this year more than doubled the $12.5 million they spent in 1974. He said the number of political action committees increased from 600 to more than 1,-

"The number of corporate political action committees alone jumped from 89 to close to 800 " Cohen said.

The citizens lobby considers special interests the main political ill affecting law-

Cohen said record breaking campaign expenses from the last election show the need for "public financing of House and Senate races" similar to the tax checkoff used to finance presidential contests.

Public financing of congressional races would strengthen a challenger's campaign budget, reduce financing by special interests and be the only "legal way toput a ceiling on campaign spending and on the use of private wealth," he said.

Allowing individuals to spend as much of their own money on campaigns as they want is threatening to turn the Senate into "a millionaire's club," Cohen said.

He also called for laws "requiring disclosure of lobbying expenditures" and restricting the manner in which congressional districts are reapportioned.

Since reapportionment of congressional districts is expected after the 1980 census, Cohen said Common Cause is gearing for a campaign to "establish strict standards for drawing district boundaries and give redistricting authority to non-partisan commissions" in each state. But Cohen said he expects strong opposition to legislation that would make gerrymandering more difficult "because it strikes at the heart of incumbent power."

Chinese Plan Study In U.S.

TOKYO (AP) - Fifty Chinese scholars are to leave Peking today for advanced studies in the United States, Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reported Monday.

They will be the first group from mainland China to study in the United States since the Communists won control of China in 1949, Hsinhua said in a dispatch monitored in Tokyo.

Their arrival also will mark one of the first cooperative ventures between the two countries since they announced they will establish full diplomatic relations effective Jan. 1.

Hsinhua, quoting a statement from the Education Ministry, said China will send 500 to 700 undergraduate and post-graduate students to study in various American universities before next September when the new school year begins. It said the first group consists of professors, lecturers, engineers, scientists, researchers and doctors who are to study for two years. Six of the first 50 are women, the agency said.

TV Special Tells Of Torture

By JIM ANDERSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The most chilling scene is the British doctor describing how she was seized by Chilean police and driven blindfolded through the

"It was like being in a movie and I knew it would end when we reached our destination and they found out that I was British and a doctor," Sheila Cassidy

The real shock came, she says, when she learned her Chilean captors knew who she was - and were going to torture her anyway. She is one of the victims in the ABC News "Close-up" documentary, "The Politics of Torture. The producer, Tom Bywaters, and correspondent William Sherman deserve at least two cheers for tackling a difficult and emotional subject, and dealing with it for the most part in a dignified and dispassionate way.

They have tried, in an hour-long documentary to be aired Wednesday at 9 p.m. CST to find out if the Carter administration's commitment to human rights is genuine and effective.

The two first describe how the United States helps regimes said to engage in torture, and then pose the right question: 'Is this sheer hypocrisy, or is it dealing with the harsh reality?

Unfortunately, they use the standard television cop-out and neglect to answer their own question.

At a preview, Bywaters said, "The U.S. policy is probably a bit of both." But his frank answer isn't in the broad-

The documentary shows how President Carter came to office with high intentions, and then ignored his scruples when oil, or national security or financial interests arose. Sherman says he once posed as a priest to interview people being tortured in a Philippine prison while Vice President Walter Mondale signed a $41 million aid pact with President Ferdinand Marcos.

However, no hour-long documentary can deal with the more subtle elements of a worldwide human rights policy that is full of paradoxes.

For example, there is no mention of several thousand Indonesian political prisoners apparently released because Washington maintained businesslike relations with the Jakarta government.

There are other sins of omission. Dealing with Iran, Chile and the Philippines is a bit reminiscent of the old Sidney Greenstreet line in "Algiers" when the police inspector says, "Round up the usual suspects."

The viewer is left to wonder why the Soviet Union, China, Czechoslovokia or South Africa are not mention

Bywaters says the ABC crew couldn't get into those countries with cameras. That ought to make Iran, Chile and the Philippines wonder if they aren't being punished unfairly for the amount of jour-nalistic freedom they do allow

That's not all. By building equipment to your early order, John Deere can supply the exact model and size you need with just the options you want. We can figure your trade-in at top value knowing we'll have time to recondition and resell it. And you'll gain added savings on hay equipment from the waiver of finance charge program.

There are dozens of disks, chisel plows, and hay tools in this early order program. But your preseason order must be signed before specific dates to earn the most John

YEAR END SALE

PUBLIC NOTICE

FACT #1 Everyting in our Inventory on Jan. 1 is taxable.
We had much rather cut 2 to 3 hundred dollars off the price than to pay the same amount in tax dollars.

FACT #2 After Jan. 1 the taxes paid on unsold cars must be considered expense In actuality this creates a consumer price increase.

FACT #3 Wide car buyers knew this
They take advantage of it and they tell their friends about it too!

1979 CUTLASS SUPREME Beautiful car-excellent gas economy

Sign Up For Independence

When young people sign up for newspaper route work, they are really signing up for independence. The kind of independence that goes with earning your own money, running your own busine and dealing with people on a one-to-one basis. Our carriers are young busi-ness men and women. They provide a vital service, handle their own finances and reap a handsome profit from their efforts. What better training to prepare them for the future? If you are interested in step-ping into the business world and declaring your own independence, contact our carrier manager right now. He'll give you all of the important facts about carrier work. Then, if you are still interested, he'll provide the pen and show you where to sign . . . even if your name is John Hancock.

CARE FOR HEALTH

This year is the 20th anniversary of MEDICO—the medical arm of CARE, the international aid and development agency. Its work—training local personnel and helping to improve health facilities—goes on in a number of the developing countries, 27 to date, where CARE is active. Its teams are made up of long-term members and volunteer specialists, some of them shown in the photographs on this page.

of long-term members and volunteer specialists, some of them shown in the photographs on this page.

In these 20 years, hundreds of U.S. physicians, many of them noted in their fields, paying their own travel and living expenses, together with Canadians and Australians have contributed more than 2,200 months of dedicated service as volunteers. And some 500 long-term members have served, with modest remuneration.

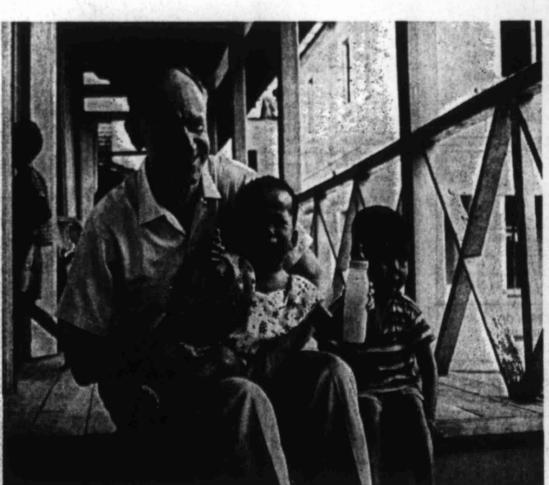

with modest remuneration.

MEDICO was co-founded in 1958 by Dr. Thomas A. Cooley and Dr. Peter Comanduras, with advice from Dr. Albert Schweitzer. It was the first voluntary agency of its kind and it became part of CARE in 1962. Funds and donations of supplies for its programs come from individuals, corporations, philanthropic institutions and grants from the governments of the U.S., Canada and other countries—no fees are accepted from those served.
