Lawyer's Death Still Mystery

EL PASO (AP) — Tight security added to the web of mystery Tuesday that surrounded the slaying of an El Paso lawyer known for his defense of persons charged with drug-related offenses.

The family and friends of Lee Chagra, gunned down in his posh El Paso law office Saturday, raised the bounty to $25,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer.

Details of the shooting were sketchy, and authorities kept an air-tight lid on their probe. Witnesses have been advised not to talk about the case.

Police Lt. John Lanahan said the district attorney's office had ordered the security, but he declined to elaborate on the reasons.

Lanahan would say only that Chagra had been shot in the chest with a small caliber weapon. The attorney was found bleeding to death in his office around 4 p.m. Saturday by an assistant in his law firm.

Chagra's office, other offices and an apartment maintained in the building had been ransacked. But police said that could be an attempt to disguise the shooting as the work of a burglar.

The new offices included extensive surveillance and security equipment.

When the attorney's assistant left the office Saturday to let police and ambulance attendants inside, a door with an electronic lock swung shut.

Firemen were forced to pry open the door so ambulance attendants could get to the mortally wounded lawyer.

Defense Emphasizing Excerpt From Davis-McCrory Tape

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense strategy in the murder-for-hire trial of millionaire Cullen Davis could hinge in part on a tiny segment of a tape-recorded conversation between the defendant and FBI informant David McCrory.

Defense sources say a passage from an Aug. 18 conversation indicated Davis was discussing something other than an alibi when there was this exchange:

McCrory: "Well, when are you gonna be covered?"
Davis: "I'm covered all the time."
McCrory: "You're staying covered."
Davis: "I'm staying covered. I'm not taking any chances."

The sources said the passage suggests that Davis suspected he was being framed, but thought he was under the protective cover of the FBI when talking with McCrory.

The imprisoned industrialist, a source said, will testify that a person he believed to be an FBI agent told him 10 days before his arrest to "go along" with the scheme.

Such a theory might explain his involvement with McCrory in an alleged plot to kill Fort Worth divorce Judge Joe Eidson and others.

After eight weeks of speculation, the defense confirmed last week that Davis will take the stand, probably Thursday.

to rebut McCrory, 40, an FBI informant and his chief accuser.

Davis, 45, must explain his incriminating conversations last August which McCrory secretly tape-recorded during two clandestine parking lot meetings.

FBI agents hiding in a nearby van videotaped the second encounter in which Davis allegedly handed McCrory $25,000 earmarked for a phantom killer.

Based on testimony from the defendant's girlfriend, Karen Master, Davis is expected to tell the jury he was merely returning money McCrory gave him July 13 for safekeeping.

"The jury will believe him because it is the truth," a defense source said.

The defense theory explains also why lead defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes chose not to challenge the substance of the tape recordings.

Instead, he vigorously attacked the credibility of McCrory and sought to link him in a counter-conspiracy with the defendant's estranged wife, Priscilla, and karate instructor Pat Bureson.

Several witnesses told of threats and schemes directed at Davis and one, an ex-convict, said McCrory offered him $20,000 last summer to kill the Fort Worth industrialist.

The crux of the defense theory revolved around an Aug. 10 telephone call which Mrs. Master says she received at the residence she shared with Davis.

She said the caller "sounded like" one of two special agents who conducted a futile investigation of a 1977 extortion threat made on the defendant's life.

She testified that Davis talked with the caller, but she did not overhear the conversation. She added, however, that Davis discussed it with her.

Prosecutors prevented her from making a "hearsay" recitation about the discussion and at that point state attorneys became convinced Davis must testify.

Haynes was expected to devote today to lesser witnesses before guiding Davis through the critical events that led to his Aug. 20 arrest.

The trial, which began Oct. 30, has been in holiday recess since Thursday night.

BODY IN GARBAGE

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) — A maintenance man's discovery of two arms in a baseball field trash can led police on a search Tuesday for the rest of the body.

Within several hours, officers found two legs in a garbage dumpster two blocks from the athletic field and a man's head in another dumpster a half-mile away.

Police said the remains were of a 27-year-old Lake Worth man.

South Florida Best Bet For Solar Heating Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — Central Washington and western New York are areas where homeowners would get the least benefit from solar heating units, while the southern tip of Florida receives the most energy from the sun, a new government study shows. But merely moving south doesn't automatically guarantee that solar heating systems will have increased efficiency, according to Walter Hoecker of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Hoecker's new study of the solar heating potential across the country was released Tuesday by the agency, a division of the Commerce Department. In the study, conducted at the Air Resources Laboratory in Silver Spring, Md., Hoecker compared the amount of solar energy an area receives with the heating demand there for the month of January and for the winter heating season of November through April.

Christmas Sales Close With Flourish

By The Associated Press
The nation's retailers heard plenty of ringing in the past couple of weeks, not so much from Christmas bells as from cash registers totaling up a surge of late sales that made this year's holiday season a record for many stores.

"The month started slowly, but the last two weeks closed with a rush," said William Detwiler, the president of the Washington-based Garfinckel's seven-store department chain. He said the sales increase percentage over last year "could approach a double-digit figure."

F.A.O. Schwarz, the New York-based toy retailer, reported sales climbed 20 percent in its main New York store and probably went up almost as much in its 23 stores across the country.

"It was really a super year," said Ron Reekston, a Schwarz spokesman. "It was a little soft after Thanksgiving, but it went wild in the last week."

Electronic games were the hit of the season, for both adults and children, but there was no one fad that swept the country, retailers said Tuesday.

"This was not a year with a Pet Rock or anything like that," said Bud Pomeranz, a spokesman for Bamberger's, a New Jersey chain with 20 department stores. He said a calculator which translates languages was a hot item.

The surge of sales confounded many analysts, who had expected consumers would begin to reduce their purchases in the face of record levels of consumer debt and predictions of a weak economy next year.

"The recession will be delayed," said Monroe H. Greenstein, a retail analyst at the Wall Street firm of Bear, Stearns & Co. "The consumer is still determined to lead the good life and go deeper into debt."

Greenstein, who had expected a decline in retail sales in the final three months of this year, said he now thinks consumers may keep increasing their purchases through next June.

But Michael K. Evans, the president of Chase Econometrics, an economic forecasting firm, said, "The Christmas shopping splurge represents the last spurge of the American consumer. He is already seriously overextended and simply does not have enough purchasing power left to keep the economy growing."

Not all stores were enthusiastic. The week before Christmas was very good for Marshall Field stores in Chicago, but the whole season was only "satisfactory," said division President George P. Kelly.

Some of the strongest retail gains were in California, the land of Proposition 13. Californians apparently took what they expect to save on property taxes as a result of the measure and went shopping. May Co., a large Los Angeles-based department store chain, reported an increase of 15 percent in sales.

Regional differences showed up in other ways. In New England, the scene of severe blizzards last winter, the Jordan Marsh chain reported an increase in sales of winter clothes. But in Ivey's, a department store in North Carolina, where the weather has been unusually warm, such clothes sat on the shelves.

One fact that may have boosted late sales in some areas was that Hanukkah, a Jewish holiday, fell in late December this year after occurring in early December a year ago.

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 43081. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am almost age 62. I am unemployed because the factory I worked at moved out of town and I have been unable to find another job. I have thought that I might take my retirement at age 62. I know that I have to take a reduction for drawing Social Security benefits before age 65, but some money is better than none at all.

I am divorced and have not remarried. I was married for over 11 years to my ex-husband. He has not retired yet. I have been told that I could draw wife's benefits on his account after he retires. Would I also have to take a reduction on this benefit, since I will probably be age 65 when he retires? He is two years younger than me. — H.S.

You can draw your own reduced benefit at age 62 and switch to divorced wife's benefits on your ex-husband's account after he retires. However, you will have to stay at the age 62 reduced benefit level. This means that at age 62, you can draw 80 percent of your age 65 benefit. When you switch to wife's benefits after your ex-husband retires, you will receive 37.5 percent of his benefit. If your own benefit amount is higher than this percentage of his benefit, then you would remain on your own benefit. You will also be eligible for widow's benefits on your ex-husband's account if he should pass away.

HEARTLINE: I am 57 years old. I drew Social Security disability benefits from July 1970 until just recently and I have been on Medicare since 1972. My disability improved to the point where I felt I might be able to work so I asked Social Security for a trial work period. My trial work period began in February and ended in October. I was able to continue working, so Social Security said they would continue to pay me disability

Cool Weather Forecast For '80s

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cool weather in the 1980s will be followed by a worldwide warming trend for the rest of the century, according to two California scientists who believe global weather patterns repeat themselves.

Following the warmth, however, we can expect a cold spell that will chill much of the Earth for the first half of the 21st century.

The scientists, Dr. Leona M. Libby of UCLA and Dr. Louis J. Pandolfi of the Global Geochemistry Corp. of Santa Monica, say the cold spell will pull average temperatures down by as much as four degrees.

It may not sound like much, said Dr. Libby, but it only takes a decline of 10 degrees in average temperatures to make an Ice Age.

benefits for three more months. My last check will come in January.

However, no one at Social Security said anything about my losing my Medicare coverage, and I have recently received a letter notifying me that I am no longer eligible for Medicare coverage. Is this correct? Do I lose my Medicare coverage? — L.W.

Yes. Your Medicare eligibility ends one calendar month after the month you receive notice that your disability payments are no longer payable.

HEARTLINE: Several months ago, I had an accident at the factory I work for and as a result, I am permanently disabled. I filed for Social Security disability benefits, which have been approved and will begin in January. My wife and two children will also receive Social Security benefits on my account. I will still be drawing workmen's compensation at that time and wondered if this would affect my disability benefits. Can you tell me? — B.D.

A person eligible for benefits from workmen's compensation and Social Security disability can receive benefits from both. However, the total monthly payments to you and your family cannot exceed 80 percent of your average monthly earnings before you became disabled. If combined benefits from both would be over this amount, your Social Security disability would be reduced for as long as you draw workmen's compensation.

TAKEOVER STOPPED — A Winnebago County (Wis.) deputy sheriff holds a shot-gun on a female prisoner as a takeover attempt by inmates at the county jail ended. Eleven were charged in connection with the four-hour takeover. (AP Laserphoto)

Prisoner Shoots, Kills Inmate, Wounds Three

FLORENCE, Ariz. (AP) — An Arizona State Prison inmate with a history of psychiatric trouble broke away from a guard Tuesday and fired a pistol into four cells, killing another prisoner and wounding three, authorities said.

The name of the dead inmate, struck in the chest with a .25-caliber bullet, was withheld until relatives in Texas could be notified.

Roman Stone, 26, was subdued after he ran through a cellblock, firing the fatal shot and wounding inmates Jimmy Ferrera, 28; Robert Wolf, 24; and Russell Harbin, 21, said Carolyn Robinson, state corrections department spokeswoman.

The incident began as Stone was being taken from a cell to the prison barber shop, the spokesman said. He and the victims were housed in a cellblock reserved for inmates with psychological and disciplinary troubles, she said.

"How he got the gun, we don't know," she said. "He broke from the escorting guard and ran up the tier to the screening walkway, shooting the gun."

Stone, serving 15 years to life for kidnapping and armed robbery, escaped briefly in February 1977 from a Maricopa County sheriff's deputy by using a phony gun fashioned from a soap bar. Court testimony indicated Stone ate glass and paper clips and that he worshipped the devil. "He has been under psychiatric care," Miss Robinson said.

Ferrera, in serious condition at Maricopa County Hospital in Phoenix, was serving terms for second-degree murder, including the 1975 stabbing death of fellow inmate Charles Schmid.

Harbin and Wolf, sentenced for robbery, were treated at the prison infirmary for minor wounds and returned to their cells, Miss Robinson said.

Gates Of Ancient Cambodian Temple To Reopen

BANGKOK (AP) — Cambodia will open the stone gates of the ancient temple of Angkor Wat today to foreign tourists barred from viewing the magnificent structure by five years of war and three more of isolation under the Khmer Rouge regime.

Twenty foreign correspondents and an equal number of organizers and travel agents will fly from Bangkok to Siem Reap, near Angkor, to initiate what Thai organizers hope will be a daily tour service to the centuries-old complex.

The temple, 140 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, covers 60 square miles and is studded with more than 600 monuments, many now in ruins.

Built in the 12th century, the temple was planned as a monument to the divinity of the monarch Suryavarman II. Surrounded by a vast moat, the temple is approached by an extensive causeway bordered by huge sculptures of serpents and leading to the ornate entrance gate.

Inside, the pyramid temple consists of five lofty acorn-shaped towers and four corner towers joined by galleries. The most remarkable feature of the temple is its sculptural ornaments, bas-reliefs of stone that cover thousands of feet of wall space.

The temple was on the verge of a tourist boom when civil war broke out in 1970. Angkor was seized by the Khmer Rouge and their Vietnamese allies in the early months of the war, saving the area from its major modern threat, looters.

But what has been done since the war to protect Angkor from the ravages of heat, water and creeping jungle vegetation is not known. The few foreign diplomatic visitors who have been allowed to glimpse the ruins have said the temples appear to be in good shape.

Leading the initial tour will be Chatichai Choonhavan, the former Thai foreign minister and businessman who proposed the tours earlier this year.

The Cambodian government agreed to his proposal, apparently to obtain some badly needed foreign currency and possibly to improve an image tarnished by reports of mass executions and slave labor conditions since the Khmer Rouge takeover.

A spokesman for Chatichai's company said the Phnom Penh government has guaranteed the safety of the tour participants in the light of the murder last week of a British scholar by terrorists in Phnom Penh.

Cambodia is entangled in a fierce border war with Vietnam and a pro-Vietnamese "liberation movement" has been set up inside Cambodia, according to communiqués published in Thailand and Vietnam in recent weeks.

The Cambodian government said it will determine the tour itinerary and allow no overnight stays or tourists from South Korea, Israel, Taiwan or South Africa. There have been no objections expressed to tourists from the United States, even though Washington and Phnom Penh have no diplomatic ties.

Thai sources said the Cambodians made a point about including U.S. reporters on the inaugural tour.

The organizers say an initial canvass of travel agents — chiefly in Western Europe and Japan — indicates that some 50,000 persons are eager to visit Angkor at a cost of $225 per person for the day-long trip.

Although the Communist regime has renounced most of the country's traditions in favor of a radical, rural-based socialism, it has pointed to Angkor as a great achievement of the Cambodian people.

One tour guide told some visitors earlier this year that ancient kings thought the monuments "would bring eternal glory to themselves and to the gods they believed in, but really Angkor brings glory to the traditions of the Kampuchean (Cambodian) people."

"If we could accomplish such great feats even in the dark days of slavery, then we know that we will be able to accomplish things ten times greater now that we have been liberated by socialism."

Professor's Death Termed 'Assassination'

TOKYO (AP) — China's Hsinhua news agency said Wednesday that a British professor slain last week in Cambodia was "assassinated" by Cambodian dissidents.

Two American journalists, Richard Dudman of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Elizabeth Becker of the Washington Post, escaped unharmed in the Dec. 23 attack at a government guest house in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital. They were the first U.S. reporters permitted into Cambodia since 1975 when the Communists took power. They were flown to Peking after the attack.

Hsinhua quoted a broadcast by Radio Democratic Kampuchea that said the killing of Dr. Malcolm Caldwell was "a political crime committed by the enemy of the Kampuchean revolution." Democratic Kampuchea is the name taken by Cambodia's new rulers for the Southeast Asian nation.

Caldwell, a lecturer at the University of London, was an expert on the economies and politics of Southeast Asia. He reportedly had argued the case of the Cambodian Communist government in articles and lectures and supported China in its dispute with the Soviet Union.

"The Vietnamese aggressors, annexationists and eliminators of nations have carried out all kinds of maneuvers in order to destroy the Kampuchean Revolution and Democratic Kampuchea," Hsinhua quoted the Phnom Penh broadcast as saying.

The broadcast said the Cambodian people and government "are ... grieved over the death of Professor Malcolm Caldwell and would like to convey to his family and friends their deep condolence and sympathy."

It also said that "the government of Democratic Kampuchea will mete out the most severe punishment to the assassin which he deserves for his criminal act." Hsinhua reported. One of the terrorists reportedly killed himself after the attack, another was captured and a third escaped.

City Loan Firm Loses $300 To Weekend Burglars

Burglars took advantage of the Christmas holidays to enter a Lubbock loan company and rob the safe.

Police said the Avco Financial Service office at 3423 50th St. lost $300 in cash and checks sometime during the weekend. There was no sign of forced entry to the office and no damage was done to the safe, according to police reports.

Roy Davis of 3705 37th St. said someone shot out two windows of a van parked in front of his residence during the weekend. Police reports indicate Davis placed the loss at $587.

A man entered Melissa Morrissey's apartment at 2212 Fifth St. Tuesday morning and took a diamond ring, according to police reports. Miss Morrissey said the ring is worth $400.

Clothes and pictures valued at $300 were stolen from Evelyn Feather's 3717 53rd St. residence sometime Tuesday morning, reports indicate. Entrance to the residence was gained through a window.

Burglars walked into the open garage at Wendell Bailey's 8010 Belmont residence Monday night and walked out with $180 worth of tools and a barbell.

A three-foot-tall cast iron statue of a jockey holding a lantern was removed from the front lawn of James Boyer's 4103 68th St. residence sometime during the weekend. Boyer said the 90-pound statue was valued at about $150.

Police Tuesday were looking for a Mexican-American man and woman who shot at a car about 12:30 a.m. Tuesday, injuring two of the six persons in the vehicle.

The driver of the car, Lonnie Morin Jr., 20, of 2717 Emory St., and a woman sitting next to him, Erma Linda Martinez, 18, of 2305 Second St., were treated at Methodist Hospital for gunshot wounds and released.

Four other passengers in the car were not injured in the shooting.

Morin told police he was traveling east in the 2400-block of Cornell Street when a 1970 or 1971 blue Ford LTD heading west approached.

Reports show the shots were fired as the vehicles neared each other, a bullet striking Morin in the knee. Miss Martinez was hit in the shoulder. A .38-caliber slug was removed from the car door.

Police Tuesday had not learned a motive for the shooting. The other passengers in the car said they heard the shots but did not see where the bullets came from.

A stabbing early Christmas day has left a 24-year-old Ropesville man in serious condition this morning at Methodist Hospital. Juan Varela reportedly was stabbed about 5 a.m. Monday by a man with whom Varela was drinking in front of his home. He suffered wounds in his back and stomach.

Varela's brother told Lubbock County sheriff's deputies that before taking his brother to the hospital, he chased a 30-year-old Mexican-American suspect traveling in a black Pontiac bearing Minnesota license plates.

The investigation has been turned over to Hockley County authorities.

Julie Sanchez, 33, of 2802-rear Erskine St. said she suffered three broken teeth about 11:30 p.m. Monday when she was struck in the face by a man at a residence in the 400-block of North University Avenue.

She said she went to the house to pick up her daughter, but the man became angered because he wanted the girl to stay and babysit while he and his wife went out. She said when she tried to take her daughter, the suspect struck her face with his fist.

While Santa was delivering toys to all the good little boys and girls Christmas, one of Santa's local suppliers, Kiddie City at 4205 34th St., was being burglarized.

Judge Imposes Gag Order In Ex-FBI Officials' Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge on Tuesday granted a government request to place strict controls over confidential information pertaining to the prosecution of three former FBI officials.

The three are accused of conducting illegal surveillance against the leftist Weather Underground.

U.S. District Court Judge William B. Bryant signed an eight-page gag order that defense lawyers contended would hamper their efforts to prove their clients innocent of any wrongdoing.

The defendants in the trial, which is scheduled to begin Jan. 22, are former acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray III; Edward S. Miller, former assistant FBI director, and W. Mark Felt, former associate director. They are accused of authorizing break-ins, illegal wiretaps and mail openings against friends and relatives of the Weather Underground during the early 1970s.

The FBI was conducting an investigation at the time to find fugitive members of the left-wing group in connection with bombings for which they claimed responsibility.

The three defendants face up to 10 years in prison and a fine of $10,000 each if convicted.

The protective order signed by Bryant is designed to prevent public disclosure of classified information, including surveillance techniques and possible intelligence sources, according to government lawyers.

But the defense attorneys claimed that the court rules might make it impossible for them to show that the activities against the Weather Underground were justified because the fugitives had ties to foreign governments.

The defendants also maintain the restrictions could prevent them from demonstrating their assertion that the activities against the left-wing group were part of a pattern of intelligence activities that had the approval of numerous presidential administrations over more than a 25-year period.

Bryant's order permits the government to censor documents that contain references "that would tend to compromise pending investigations and that would tend to disclose intelligence sources and methods" unrelated to the Weather Underground investigation.

The defense lawyers also complained against a provision that would grant them access to uncensored versions of the documents only in a special vault in the Justice Department where the documents are stored. The lawyers said this would place an unnecessary burden on the defense.

Hospital Disaster Test Set Today

A-J Correspondent
CHILDRESS — Childress General Hospital will conduct a simulated disaster drill at 1 p.m. today in the hospital area to test the hospital's capabilities to handle multiple accident cases.

Volunteers will pose as victims of a simulated traffic crash involving a large number of persons, according to hospital administrator Pat Horn.

The city's emergency services will cooperate in the test, which is required by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

"We haven't had a drill of this type in recent years here, but the commission now requires such testing once a year," Horn said.

The drill will determine whether the hospital's disaster plan can be properly followed, and will include all departments, Horn said.

Another Bad Year Forecast For Israeli Economy

TEL AVIV (AP) — Despite reforms by a new government, Israel's economy staggered through another bad year in 1978 with rising inflation, waves of strikes and a balance of payments deficit of more than $3 billion.

The outlook for 1979 was more of the same with the potential burden of up to $4 billion for redeployment of Israeli armed forces that would move out of the Sinai Peninsula if peace comes to the Middle East under a formula reached at the Camp David talks.

That is the rough estimate of the cost of rebuilding Israeli air bases that would be abandoned under a peace treaty moving army camps from the Sinai to the Negev Desert and forming a new defense line.

Israel will be counting on U.S. grants or loans to pay much of the cost, but economists are worried that the influx of money to pay for the massive redeployment can only fuel an inflation rate that is expected to reach 50 percent by the end of 1978.

Zvi Sussman, head of the Bank of Israel research department, has predicted that inflation in the next fiscal year will reach 60 percent in Israel even if wages and prices are frozen at present levels.

While most Israelis complain about inflation and the difficulty of stretching their paychecks to the end of the month, some experts contend a basic problem is too much money in circulation rather than too little.

"The reason inflation is getting worse is that Israelis have too much money in their pockets," said Imri Tov, a Bank of Israel official.

Begin himself has been devoting a major share of his energy to problems of Mideast peace and there is a widespread feeling that Ehrlich and his economic team are not able to cope with the country's financial woes.

Begin's government came to power vowing to free the economy from a network of restraints that grew up over 29 years of socialist economic practice fostered by Labor governments.

against hard currencies and liberalized foreign currency regulations in an effort to encourage exporters and bring more foreign currency into the country.

Yehzekel Flomin, deputy finance minister, claims the new economic policy is working and that Israel's treasury now has more foreign currency than before and that investment has grown.

Israel's gross national product is estimated to reach about $13 billion for 1978, a 4 percent increase over 1977. That would be a marginal improvement over growth rates of only about 1 percent a year in 1975 through 1977.

But even as exports increased so did imports. The balance of payments gap grew and was expected to top the $3 billion level of 1977.

"The real problem in this country is not the inflation or the strikes; it is the balance of payments deficit," said Daniel Tatti of the finance ministry's economic planning department. "And that's one thing that's getting worse and worse."

In addition, Israel's debts mounted to more than $14 billion during the year.

Firms Reports Third-Quarter Earnings

A.G. Edwards & Sons, Inc., a St. Louis-based securities brokerage firm, has announced that net earnings for the third quarter ended Nov. 30 were $2,601,648, equal to $1 per share, on revenues of $28,548,986. For the same period the prior year, net earnings were $1,533,106, equal to 50 cents per share, on revenues of $19,541,814.

Net earnings per share for the prior periods have been restated to reflect a five-for-four split in the form of a 25 percent stock dividend distributed in July.

Each new bulletin on the rising consumer price index brings new criticism of the economic policies of the government of Menachem Begin and especially of Finance Minister Simcha Ehrlich.

Ehrlich freed the Israeli pound to float against hard currencies and liberalized foreign currency regulations in an effort to encourage exporters and bring more foreign currency into the country.

Mrs. Gandhi, Released From Prison, Vows Comeback Effort

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi left prison Tuesday, one week after her arrest and expulsion from parliament in a move that triggered nationwide rioting by her supporters. She immediately vowed to make an other political comeback. Mrs. Gandhi, 61, smiled and joked with supporters who mobbed the outside of the jail to celebrate her release. She shrugged off her week behind bars as a "rest cure" and said that supporters who hijacked an airplane to demand her release were just playing "a prank." She said she would seek another seat in parliament, which expelled her from its ranks last week because of charges that she abused the powers of her office as prime minister to block an investigation of her son's business activities in 1975. That was followed almost immediately by her arrest, touching off protests and clashes with police in which at least 20 persons were killed and thousands were arrested.

"It was purely a politically motivated thing," Mrs. Gandhi said of her arrest. She also received cheers from the crowd that later mobbed her home when she said she would run again for a seat in parliament from the southern India constituency where she won only last month. "Why should I be tired? On the contrary, I just had a rest cure," she said. The former prime minister said she had "expected" members of her Indira Congress Party to protest her arrest but added that "naturally I'm touched by all the affection shown by the people." She said "agents and provocateurs" — not her supporters — were responsible for the violence.

Under Indian law, her expulsion from that seat does not bar her from running for it again. Mrs. Gandhi, who ruled India for 11 years — the last 21 months of it under harsh emergency law — still faces criminal charges stemming from alleged irregularities in the 1977 election campaign she lost. She was jailed Dec. 19 and sentenced to stay there until parliament adjourned, which it did on Tuesday. Her followers accused the ruling Janata Party of holding her "hostage" in order to push bills it wanted passed through the upper house, where the opposition is in the majority.

Tragedy Strikes Family Second Time

ABILENE (UPI) — Struck by their second pre-Christmas tragedy in less than a month, a McCaulley family waited at an intensive care unit Tuesday, monitoring the condition of their seriously-injured son.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Pippin Jr. kept vigil at Hendrick Medical Center where their son, Calvin Glen, 21, was listed in serious condition.

The older brother of Bonnie Gail Pippin, 17, who died in a Dec. 8 schoolbus-truck crash near Roby was injured about 2:25 p.m. Saturday in a two-vehicle crash.

Pippin was a passenger in a pickup truck driven by Arthur J. Spalding, 19, of Hamlin that collided broadside with a second truck driven by Earl Norman Meador, 47, of Aspermont. Both Meador and Spalding were killed and Meador's wife, Wanda, was critically injured in the crash.

The crash occurred near Hamlin, north of Abilene. Kathy Pippin, a second daughter, was seriously injured in the Dec. 8 crash that killed her sister and three other members of the McCaulley High School basketball teams. Twenty-two persons, all but three of them students, were injured in the accident.

GERMAN IMMIGRATION

BONN, West Germany (AP) — About 43,000 persons immigrated to West Germany from East and Southeast Europe in 1978, an increase over the 39,000 reported for 1977, the government said Tuesday. In addition, about 9,000 persons, the same as 1977, came from East Germany, the report said.

Tech Med School Gets Family Practice Grant

The Texas Tech School of Medicine has received $379,437 from the Coordinating Board for the Texas College and University System to help develop the department of family practice residency program.

The residency program prepares the physician for providing health care from infancy to old age for families in both urban and rural areas.

Tech's School of Medicine operates family practice residency programs in Amarillo, El Paso and Lubbock, with 63 residents in training.

The state-funded award will be used for the support of a laboratory x-ray technician at the family practice-staffed Shallowater clinic; to provide faculty salaries and resident stipends; for miscellaneous supplies; and to supplement federal grants.

Portions of the award will be used to develop a computer program documenting resident training and a course in office management.

Awards funds also will support planning for a family practice residency program to serve the Odessa-Midland area.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
It was a mistake, but I had to try. I bought my husband one of those sexy mood lights for Christmas. It was like buying Lady Godiva a pocket comb. He didn't know what to do with it. He opened the package, stared at it, picked it up, shook it, and finally said, "I give up. What is it?" "It's a mood light. You've seen those commercials, haven't you, of the couple who whisper, 'When we feel peaceful and serene, we turn on our WAVE light.' And you see this container of water on a seasaw that flows gently back and forth...back and forth..." "I never saw it," he said. "When they feel devil-may-care and sparkling they turn on their GEM lite with an illumination of sparkling crystals that moves up and down. And this, of course, is the LAVA light."

"Which is supposed to do what?"
"Turn you on."
"To what?"
"To me."
"It looks like an underwater Rorschach test."
"It's too late for us, isn't it? We're beyond help."
"That depends. What do you want it to do for us?"
"Wouldn't you want to bring back the wonderful, exciting, unbridled passion of our younger years?" I said.
"How much energy does it take?"
"You have to get out of your chair first."
"Not me! The lamp!"
"Just forget it," I said, sulking.
"You're sore, aren't you?" he said.
"Look, I didn't know it meant so much to you. We'll turn it on and give it a chance to do the same thing."
We set the lamp on the TV set and both of us focused intently on it for nearly ten minutes. "Anything?" I asked.
He smiled wickedly. "Do you know what those little particles of block moving ever so slowly in that subtle light remind me of?"
"I shook my head."
"Anchovies."
"I would have said sausage with mayonnaise just a hint of sage."
"How about...pepperoni?" he whispered.
"How about EVERYTHING!"
He bounded out of his chair and dialed the number at the pizza parlor. I turned off the mood light. Until they made one that delivered, we'd rely on our own resources.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: What can be done about a husband who sucks his thumb? John (not his real name) never did this around me when we were dating. After we married I discovered he slept with his thumb in his mouth whenever he was very tired or worried about something. This upset me so much I decided to discuss the problem with his mother. She said, "John has sucked his thumb ever since he was a little boy. I talked to several professional counselors about it and they all said he would outgrow it — but apparently they were wrong."

The other evening we were having dinner with friends. John got into a heated political discussion. The opposition was so much better informed it was embarrassing. When I looked at John he was sucking his thumb.
Will you please tell me what can be done about this humiliating habit? Don't suggest counseling, he won't go. — A Wife In Waterbury, Conn.

Dear Wife In Water: John reverts to his baby days when he becomes anxious, frustrated, tired or unhappy. If he refuses to accept counseling perhaps you can help keep his thumb out of his mouth (at least when he's out in company) by providing a substitute. Give him some "worry beads" or a good luck piece — something to carry at all times and fondle when he feels the need. When he's at home encourage him to talk to you when he's upset. And DON'T make an issue of his thumb-sucking — ever. It will only add to his shame.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet thousands of people have been bugged by the same problem and would like to see it aired in your column.

I'm talking about garage attendants, parking lot jockeys and automobile mechanics who can't bear to work in silence — so they turn on YOUR car radio and play it by the hour.
I wouldn't mind if they would turn the radio OFF when they are through listen-

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I am the shortest in the family and always get the chore of taking the Christmas tree down. It's very simple to put string after string of twinkling lights on the tree with husband standing on a ladder placing the strings over the top — string after string — but when it comes to removing them, I'm all alone, and about two feet shy.
Well, to help matters along, I went to the kitchen and got my barbecue turner — the long ones I use outdoors at the grill.
I could reach to the top of the tree to remove the lights and ornaments with ease. (Be sure the lights are unplugged, of course.) It was so simple, I'm ashamed I didn't think of it sooner.
The mess and clutter is now gone and I can enjoy New Year's football games, too! — Dena Gray

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE:
My husband and I love to eat and we were both overweight and even though I went on a diet, I couldn't get him to, no matter how much I encouraged him.
He is now on a diet and you know what did it?
Our minister asked him to be Santa at our church's Christmas party! — Helen Moore

DEAR HELOISE:
When the soap or detergent box is empty, I set it beside the dryer and use it to hold the lint removed from the trap which needs emptying almost every time I use the dryer.
It is so convenient and saves running to the garbage can each time with a handful of lint.
When the box is full I just put the whole thing in the garbage. Much less messy. — Mrs. Smith

Waste not want not. I bet that box sure lasts a long time. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Mother passed away three years ago. Last Easter my father married my aunt — my mother's younger sister. (She was widowed a year before Mom died.)
I never cared for this aunt and she knew it. Now that she and Dad are married I almost never hear from him. They live in another state but it's only 140 miles away.
My husband and I have phoned Dad several times and invited them to spend the holidays but they always go to HER children's home. I believe children have the right to expect parental attention throughout their entire lives — the same as children owe their parents attention — forever. Am I wrong? — Emily

Dear Em: When a person must beg for attention it isn't worth having. Your father has a wife and you have a husband. Concentrate on your marriage and leave your father alone.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Truck Covers To Prevent Highway Litter Urged

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Automobile Association says highway litter caused by uncovered trucks is costing Texas taxpayers millions of dollars each year.

A tougher state statute requiring a tarpaulin or similar cover over vehicle loads that can litter is the No. 1 item among 1979 legislative objectives adopted by the state's three AAA motor clubs in Houston, Dallas and Amarillo.

Other top priority items call for mandatory liability insurance for all Texas motorists, mandatory 90-day driver's license suspension for any person convicted of driving while intoxicated and re-enactment of a law requiring motorcycle operators and passengers to wear helmets.

The legislative program was developed after a survey of AAA members indicated 96 percent favor covers on truck loads, 89 percent favor the 90-day driver's license suspensions, 94 percent favor mandatory liability insurance and 71 percent favor re-enactment of the motorcycle helmet law.

Because of a loophole in the present law, the AAA said, uncovered trucks with loads piled high operate routinely all over the state, "littering the highways and causing damage to other vehicles and occasional injuries to their occupants."

"Aside from the enormous highway safety problems caused by uncovered trucks, the cost of cleaning up litter which they spill is a real and growing problem," the AAA said.

"The Department of Highways and Public Transportation spent $2.85 million in picking up trash in the first half of the 1978 fiscal year, compared to $3.95 million in all of the 1977 fiscal year. The cities and counties of Texas spend millions more, yet our highways are blighted with litter."

The statute requiring motorcyclists 18 years of age and over to wear safety helmets was repealed by the state legislature in 1977.

The AAA said a DPS analysis of motorcycle accidents indicates that deaths of riders without helmets rose from 12 in 1976 to 89 in 1977.

The AAA also called for a thorough review of the state's highway financing program, saying gasoline tax receipts are expected to level off and then decline as a result of smaller and more fuel-efficient cars mandated by federal law.

The AAA survey indicated its members prefer an increased gasoline tax over more toll roads or higher motor vehicle registration fees as the best means for financing highway construction.

Physician Testifies In Oregon Wife Rape Case

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The physician who examined Greta Rideout after she allegedly was raped and beaten by her husband testified Tuesday that he found physical signs of forced intercourse. Dr. Lewis Sayres of Portland, who was working in the emergency room at a Salem hospital the night of Oct. 10, testified Tuesday at the rape trial of John Rideout. Rideout, 21, has pleaded innocent in what is believed to be the first criminal prosecution of a husband charged with raping his wife. He is free on $5,000 bail. In other testimony Tuesday, a police officer testified that Rideout admitted hitting his wife and said he had tampered with her car so it wouldn't run on the day he is charged with raping her. Detective Debra Cleveland said Rideout told her during a police interrogation that if he had "done it right," his wife would not have gone to police. Detective Cleveland said she interviewed Rideout at the police station three days after the alleged incident. She said she had not mentioned the word rape until Rideout asked if it were true in Oregon a man can be charged with raping his wife. The officer told the jury of four men and eight women that Rideout said he hit his wife because "she deserved it" and that Mrs. Rideout, 23, had struck him during past arguments. Detective Cleveland said Rideout told her he didn't see how it could be rape if a couple were married. She said Rideout told her, "I didn't beat her up during it; she finally gave up." The detective was the 23rd witness called by District Attorney Gary Gortmaker in the Marion County Circuit Court trial. Mrs. Rideout filed for divorce after the alleged rape and is seeking custody of their 2 1/2-year-old daughter.

Russians Said Developing 'Look Down' Radar

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's research chief said Tuesday the Russians have successfully tested a new "look-down, shoot-down" radar and missile system that could seriously threaten low-flying U.S. bombers and fighter planes.

Dr. William Perry, undersecretary of defense for research and engineering, estimated that the Russians will be able to put such a system into operational use in the early 1980s. This, he said, will have "significant implications" for the U.S. bombers and fighter planes which might attempt to penetrate Soviet territory.

Big Peanut Crop 'Surprising'

ATLANTA (AP) — Despite an early drought, Georgia peanut farmers produced a near-record crop in 1978, surprising nearly everyone in the industry.

However, Perry said, the Russians still are nearly a decade away from developing a system that could defend against an attack by U.S. cruise missiles, which present a radar image only about one-thousandth the size of a bomber's image.

Although there was concern about dry conditions earlier in the year, the state's peanut crop was at least 857,554 tons, up nearly 15 percent from 1977, according to the Georgia Crop Reporting Service.

Perry told a briefing that the United States has learned that, on at least one occasion, a Soviet Mig-25-type fighter made a successful "look-down, shoot-down" attack which destroyed a target drone the size of a small fighter plane.

This year's near-record yield of about 3,280 tons per acre "surprised everyone," said H.E. Anderson, manager of the peanut division of Gold Kist Inc.

"We have every reason to believe they have been successful," Perry said of the Russian tests. He stressed, however, that none of the tests had been against targets as small as the U.S. cruise missile.

"A couple of late rains at just the right time and perfect harvesting weather saved the day," he said.

Frasier Galloway, a spokesman for the Crop Reporting Service, said the increasing use of irrigation by peanut farmers also helped reduce the impact of drought conditions. He estimated that 35 to 40 percent of the more than 500,000 acres of peanut land in Georgia is now irrigated.

Georgia accounts for more than 40 percent of the total U.S. peanut crop. Good harvests here and in other Southeastern states mean this year's national crop could surpass the record 1,528,561 tons harvested in 1975, the officials said.

Under the U.S. concept, cruise missiles would streak at high subsonic speeds and altitudes of as little as 100 feet toward targets in the Soviet Union in the event of a war.

In the present round of U.S.-Soviet arms talks, the Russians have attempted to include significant limitations on the range of cruise missiles and on the number that can be carried by B52s or other launching aircraft. But U.S. diplomats reportedly have retained wide freedom for the United States to deploy such weapons.

Perry said the new "look-down, shoot-down" radar and missile system the Russians are developing "does not have the ability to engage targets the size of U.S. cruise missiles."

In the past, Perry has said that if the Russians did achieve such a cruise missile defense, the United States would counter by developing a second-generation cruise missile equipped to defeat Soviet defenses with electronic jamming devices.

As for the anti-bomber, anti-fighter system, Perry said the United States could attempt to counter that threat with advanced jamming devices and by developing new "deception techniques" for its bombers and fighters.

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS
By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

1900-09				1910-19				1920-29				1930-39

9	A11	26	0	A6	10	22	A2	23	12	A20	7	1

Step 2: Now find the corresponding number for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be B for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Jan.	Feb.	March	April	May	June
P	E	I	P	E	I	P	E	I	P	E	I
A	0	0	0	8	3	31	13	3	26	21	6	24	5	8	21	13	11	19
B	0	0	0	8	3	31	14	4	27	22	7	25	6	9	22	14	12	20

Step 3: In the figure chart, enter your day of birth three times, one each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). (If you were born on April 3, for instance, place a 3 in each column.)

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's rhythms.

AP Cage Poll Shuffles; Aggies Up, 'Horns Out

By The Associated Press
The top three teams in The Associated Press college basketball poll remained the same as a week ago in the latest weekly balloting announced Tuesday, but then the shuffling began.
Duke, Notre Dame and UCLA stayed atop the poll in the voting of a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Duke, 6-0, and Notre Dame, 4-0, both enjoyed the holiday week off, while UCLA cruised to two homecourt victories over Fordham and Boston College, improving its record to 6-1.
Duke garnered 46 first-place votes and 996 points overall. The Fighting Irish received the other four first-place votes and 952 points, while UCLA held third with 878 points.

None of the other teams from last week's poll held the same place in this week's voting, which included games through Sunday.
Michigan State, 4-1, moved from fifth to fourth place with 753 points and North Carolina, 6-1, also advanced one place, from sixth to fifth, with 744. Both Michigan State and North Carolina won their only games last week, each beating Cincinnati by three points.
Illinois, 9-0, a double upset winner in the Kentucky Invitational, moved from 15th to sixth place. The Fighting Illini registered victories over Syracuse and Texas A&M in the tournament that featured four ranked teams. Illinois finished with 675 points.

Louisiana State, 7-0, after beating Montana State and Army last week, advanced from 10th to seventh place with 659 points, while Michigan, 4-1, with 506, North Carolina State, 7-2, with 508, and Louisville, also 7-2, with 510 points, closed out the Top Ten.

Undefeated Indiana State led the Second Ten with 365 points, followed by Texas A&M, Kentucky, Nevada-Las Vegas, Georgetown, D.C., Marquette, Long Beach State, Kansas, Syracuse and Arkansas.

Long Beach State and Arkansas both were making their first appearances in the Top Twenty this season. They replaced Texas and Southern California.

Cougars Hit Dallas

By GREG THOMPSON
AP Sports Writer

Houston Coach Bill Yeoman brought his upstart Cougars to town Tuesday for next week's Cotton Bowl, cautioning that the national exposure accompanying a game against tradition-rich Notre Dame can cut both ways.

"It's a good thing for us. It's helpful to have this kind of exposure," said Yeoman, who then added, "Of course, the exposure is good only if you play well."

It'll be the ninth-ranked Cougars' second Cotton Bowl appearance in their mere three years in the Southwest Conference. Houston romped over Maryland 30-21 two years ago, the first in which they were eligible for the SWC title.

But it's the first time Houston has faced Notre Dame since the Cougars began playing college football in 1946 — when they were derisively known in some SWC circles as "Cougar High" and were playing such teams as Camp Hood and East Texas State.

"Anytime you play Notre Dame, it's got to be pretty big," said Houston quarterback Danny Davis. "They've got all the tradition and as the announcer says, all the color and pageantry. When you play them, you know the eyes of the world will be on you."

"We have a good opportunity to achieve something. If we beat them, we'll get recognition," added Davis.

Yeoman said three years in the SWC has helped to prepare his team for a game against the 8-3, 10th-ranked Fighting Irish, who won the national championship

Tourney Starts

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Asking city basketball coaches to reveal only the advantages of the ABC Caprock Basketball Tournament has proven to be the next best thing to shampoo as far as removing dandruff from the mentor's scalps.

However, after a moment's pause to let the thought processes absorb the question, the responses were short and to the point.

Estacado Coach J.J. Wood: "We get to play some games over Christmas."

Dunbar Coach Joe McWilliams: "We get to stay home for Christmas."

Lubbock High Coach Craig Wells: "Like the others said, we get to play some games over Christmas and not have to travel to do it."

And besides the preceding examples, the proceeds of the competition will go to various charities.

When Christ the King meets Slaton at 9 a.m. today, it will be the 20th consecutive year that teams have gathered for the Caprock Tournament.

Sixteen teams will participate in the three-day competition. The tournament will be divided into two divisions.

Today's lineup will have Dunbar taking on Lubbock High at 12:30 p.m.; Wichita Falls High will battle Estacado at 6 p.m.; Dimmitt and Coronado are next at 7:30 p.m.; while Monterey and Morton close the Division I bracket at 9 p.m.

After Christ the King and Slaton start the tournament, the rest of the Division II schedule has Lubbock Christian against Floydada at 10:30 a.m.; Tahoka and Tulia will take the court at 2 p.m.; and Crosbyton and Idalou round out the action at 3:30 p.m.

Though the local coaches remained mum on who the favorites in each division should be, from a record standpoint, Monterey (11-3) and Lubbock Christian (14-2) look like the teams to beat.

Not only does Lubbock Christian seem to be ready for the tournament by the number victories it has compiled, but also, the Eagles have played more games than any other team in the tournament.

"We've already played half our season," said Lubbock Christian Coach Gary Bowe. "In fact, after our game with Lubbock Christian (last Thursday night), we told our kids not even to touch a basketball until we went back to work Monday."

In regard to Monterey, well the Plainsmen have won the Caprock Tournament seven times since Joe Michalka was named the head coach in 1967.

In an earlier interview, Michalka said, "We don't prepare mentally for one game more than another. We maintain the same emotional spirit for every game we play."

Back this year from last season's Division I All-Tournament team are Dewayne Williams, 5-8 senior, Dunbar, and Mark Summers, 6-5, senior, Dimmitt.

Returning from the Division II All-Tournament squad are Russell Webb, 6-7, senior, Tulia; Ricky Hobbs, 6-3, snior, Idalou; Tim Perrin, 6-2, junior, Lubbock Christian; and Jerome Whaley, 6-4, senior, Slaton.

Of course, the main argument against the tournament is that it results in the city schools playing too many basketball games against one another during the year.

"I think the reason that we (the city coaches) complain when the tournament is mentioned is because that we've been complaining about it so long that it's the thing to do," said Estacado coach Wood.

Does the Caprock Tournament prepare teams for the upcoming district season?

"Playing district opponents in tournaments like the Caprock isn't really a true test," said Coronado coach Barry Arwine. "Of course, there is motivation playing for a championship, but it's not the same frame of mind the players are going to have when the district competition rolls around."

Whatever the benefit, as long as Lubbock high schools participate in the Caprock Tournament, at least coaches will have something other to complain about than officials' calls.

CTK Short Players

SLATON (Special)— With all due respect, Christ the King coach Miles Johnson really doesn't really care about the teams competing in the West Texas Invitational Basketball Tournament. His main problem is having enough players to compete in the action.

Today 14 of the 15 schools entered in the three-day tournament will play. Desota drew a bye.

Today's schedule will have Dimmitt against Dunbar at noon; Cooper will take on McCamey at 1:20 p.m.; the Slaton junior varsity will battle Tulia at 2:40 p.m.; Monterey will open facing Tahoka at 4 p.m.; Frenship and Idalou will meet at 5:30 p.m.; Christ the King will face Lubbock High at 6:50 p.m.; while Floydada and Slaton close out the competition at 8:10 p.m.

By the time the championship game of the tournament gets underway Saturday night at 7:30, 26 games will have been played. But again, right now, all Christ the King coach Johnson is concerned about is having enough players.

"Some of our starters just won't be back from the holidays to play," said the Christ the King coach.

Christ the King will bring a 5-6 record into the competition. And some of the losses have been against teams in the tournament. And again, in the Slaton tournament, Johnson really doesn't care who the opponent will be.

"I would have to say that Slaton is the team to beat," said Johnson. "Of course, Monterey is good. They beat us earlier 59-35."

What is Johnson's opinion about first-round foe Lubbock High?

"I really don't know anything about them," Johnson said. "I understand they have this one real good player, Mary Jones. But to be honest, we're more concerned about the things we're going to try to do."

Those things that Christ the King is working on include more movement on offense and putting more pressure on the ball on defense.

"We don't have any height, so we've been working on getting smaller players inside," Johnson explained. "Defensively, we need to improve on getting back downcourt quickly, when we're able to beat the opponent back, we usually do a good job of running our 1-3-1 zone."

And again, in this tournament, Johnson really doesn't care who the opponent will be.

Pastorini Padded

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini will be almost as well equipped as the Six Million Dollar Man, with the exception of bionic vision, Sunday when the Oilers play New England in an American Football Conference semifinal playoff game. There will be an impact-softening flak jacket designed to protect broken ribs, a brace to guard a strained knee and a pad to soothe a chronically sore elbow.

The added armament will all fit into place with a throwing arm that long ago was judged a bionic weapon.

Pastorini shredded Miami Sunday with an passing display that looked like trick photography, completing 20 of 29 passes for 306 yards as the Oilers beat the Dolphins 17-9 in a first-round game of the National Football League playoffs.

Now Pastorini must ignore his aches and pains again and get ready for Sunday's AFC semifinal game against the Patriots, AFC Eastern Division champions.

Oiler Coach Bum Phillips said Tuesday Pastorini did not receive any further injuries against the Dolphins and would again wear his protective devices against the Patriots. Phillips also remained Pastorini's No. 1 fan.

"I think Dan has proven over the years he can throw the ball as good as anybody and he damn sure can hand off as good as anybody," Phillips said. "But you have to have somebody to hand off to and a hole for him to run in."

"You don't judge people on one play or one game or even one year. He's great in pressure games. He's made drives in the final quarter week after week for us. He's proven himself."

One of Pastorini's rescue jobs came against the Patriots, who took a 23-0 lead over the Oilers in a regular season game but eventually lost 26-23.

The Patriots, reeling under the announcement that Coach Chuck Fairbanks would not return next season, will have a chance to get revenge for that comeback.

"Sometimes it's better to be playing someone you haven't played before, especially if you beat them the first time," Phillips said. "If a guy gets whipped in a fight, he tends to fight harder the second time."

The Oilers resumed workouts Tuesday, getting an extra day off following Sunday's game in Miami. Phillips said there were no new injuries from the Dolphin game.

Ram Coach Seems Extremely Confident

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer
Coach Ray Malavasi of the Los Angeles Rams said Tuesday his club deserves to be favored over the Minnesota Vikings in their National Football League playoff on Sunday but won't be overconfident.

He admitted the Rams might have been too confident last year before losing to the Vikings 14-7 in a similar playoff, also at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

"We let down, no doubt about it," the coach told newsmen at his regular weekly media session. "That's not going to happen this year."

In 1977, the Minnesota club was operating without injured veteran quarterback

Fran Tarkenton and reserve Bob Lee had taken over. This time Tarkenton is back but Malavasi said Tarkenton isn't scrambling as much as he did in previous years.

"I don't think he's as effective as he was two or three years ago," Malavasi said. "He's throwing out of the pocket more. But any time you go against an experienced quarterback, you have problems. Tarkenton has had more passes intercepted (32) this year in any other season, but probably only because he's throwing more."

Tarkenton led the NFL in pass attempts with 572, completing 345, also tops in the league.

Asked what he thought of being a one touchdown favorite over the NFC Central representative, Malavasi answered frankly, "I think we are a better football team; how much I don't know."

The Rams, who won their sixth straight Western title, beat the Vikings this season 34-17 at Minnesota during the regular season, but are 0-4 against the Vikings in past playoff games.

"I don't think whatever has happened in the past will make any difference on Sunday," Malavasi commented. "This is another game."

"Our team felt it should have won last year," Malavasi said of the unexpected loss to the Vikings on a rainy afternoon at the Coliseum. "That will make our veterans have more concentration this time. We don't blame the weather of last year. We just did some things poorly."

Asked how the Rams might lose again to the Vikings, Malavasi answered, "Go out and make a whole bunch of mistakes and not be ready to play. It won't happen."

He said the only Rams player physically questionable for Sunday was defensive tackle Larry Brooks, still recovering from a knee injury.

"He could play four quarters or just 10 minutes," Malavasi said. The coach said he expects fullback John Cappelletti, who missed some late season action, to be near 100 per cent.

The Rams practiced last week although they had two weeks before their opening playoff, and some players complained because they weren't getting paid for it. Malavasi said he was surprised by the complaints.

"I told them to take it up with their bargaining unit in the future because we follow the contract," he related. "I couldn't believe some guys let something like this bother them, but the majority of the squad didn't."

All-Star Team Lacking Players

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The teams for the 34th Shrine East-West Game are strong on paper, and they'll remain primarily paper teams through the weekend.

"It looks like we'll start practice with 16 players," said Maryland's Jerry Claiborne, head coach of the East, as he reviewed his roster Tuesday.

"We won't have a quarterback, and we'll have only seven players on offense," he added.

The annual college football all-star game is scheduled later than usual this winter, Jan. 6 at Stanford, which means that many players are coming directly from bowl games. Penn State, Alabama, Southern Cal, Michigan, Oklahoma and other teams playing over New Year's weekend will have representatives in the East-West game.

Claiborne and West Coach Claude Gilbert of San Diego State, along with some assistant coaches, arrived in San Francisco Tuesday. But they won't have any practice to work with until Friday.

Claiborne's late arrivals will include quarterback Steve Fuller and his All-American receiver, Jerry Butler, from Clemson's Gator Bowl team, Alabama quarterback Jeff Rutledge and several other "Bama and Penn State stars from the Sugar Bowl."

The players from the Jan. 1 bowl games — Rose, Orange, Sugar and Cotton — will have a maximum of four days practice for the East-West game.

"But I've been involved in many of these all-star games, and with the quality of the athletes in them, four days is enough," said Washington's Don James, a West assistant coach.

The East offensive line will include three players from top-ranked Penn State including All-American Keith Dorney, a 6-foot-5, 265-pound tackle.

SUPER CATCH—Butch Johnson makes a diving catch for a touch-down in last year's Super Bowl in New Orleans. The Cowboys begin their bid for a second consecutive Super Bowl victory this Saturday when they face the Atlanta Falcons. (AP Laserphoto)

Falcons Done?

SUWANEE, Ga. (AP)—Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett admits his miracle Falcons may be in over their heads Saturday when they collide with the defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys in a National Football League playoff game.

"I wouldn't concede that we don't have a chance, but player for player they are a better football team than us," he said Tuesday at his weekly news conference at the Falcons training site.

"They've got an awful lot of talent but we have beaten teams with better talent than us before. We'll just wait and see."

The Falcons, pulling off their fifth miracle finish of the season, edged the Philadelphia Eagles 14-13 Sunday in their first-ever playoff game in the club's 13-year history.

The latest triumph was achieved when Philadelphia's Mike Michel failed on a 33-yard field goal attempt with 13 seconds remaining after the Falcons had taken the lead on a 31-yard touchdown pass with 1:39 left.

Atlanta, 9-7 in the regular season, also won four games by identical scores of 20-17—all within the final 10 seconds.

Bennett said he won't change anything for Dallas, adding that the miracle finishes actually were not part of Atlanta's game plans and the Cowboys would not be looking for one.

"I'm sure they're going into this game very, very confident with the feeling that they're going to win. They've got to have that feeling. Whether you're the underdog or the favorite, I believe everyone feels they will win," said Bennett.

"I feel like we're supposed to win. I know nobody's picking us to win but I don't care," he added.

The Cowboys, who started out slowly, have won seven straight and won the Eastern Division title with a 12-4 record.

"I really feel like (Dallas Coach) Tom Landry approached the season a little different than most teams with a feeling of so what if we lose one or two games early. We're going to be good enough at the end," said Bennett.

"I don't think they've changed anything. They're just playing better," he added.

"For us to beat them, we can't go into the ballgame in awe of them and we can't make a bunch of mistakes. If we play sound football and force them into mistakes, we can win," said Bennett.

"On the other hand, if they don't make any mistakes it obviously will make it tough on us to beat them," he said.

Landry: Spread 'Excess'

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry scoffed Tuesday at oddsmakers rating his defending world champions 14-point favorites over the Atlanta Falcons Saturday in the semifinal round of the National Football Conference playoffs.

"That's a little excess," said Landry when asked about the point spread.

"Something is wrong (with the odds) because any time you play in the playoffs you will have a tight football game in most cases," said Landry. "It takes something unusual for the game to get out of hand."

Landry said possible overconfidence by the NFC Eastern Division champions "worries you."

He said Atlanta shows a "lot of enthusiasm. Their morale has to be high for them to win those close games like they have. They have shown they are capable of pulling out those tight games."

Landry was asked if he was glad he did not have to face Minnesota which travels to Los Angeles in the other NFC matchup. The Vikings would have traveled to Dallas if Atlanta had lost to Philadelphia.

"Not really," Landry said. "In the playoffs if you look for an easy touch you aren't going anywhere. You've got to play on a high level three times in a row to get to the Super Bowl."

Landry said the Falcons "play as a team extremely well. We had better be prepared to be hit. Atlanta plays top defense."

Because of Atlanta's strong defense, Landry said, "I would think it will be a low scoring game...a pretty tight game."

He said the Cowboys, who have been in playoffs 22 times, have an important edge in experience.

"Experience is important," said Landry. "Experience pays off in pressure circumstances. It helps you from getting carried away. It's to your advantage."

In fact, Landry admitted, "I'm a little more relaxed myself in playoff games."

Landry said: "We have played very well the last six weeks but it's sudden death in the playoffs. Sometimes it's not a measurement of the strengths of teams. It's just the measurement of strengths that particular day. Sometimes you have to be fortunate."

He said No. 1 quarterback Roger Staubach, who sat out the regular season finale with a sore foot and sore finger, was "throwing just fine."

Injured fullback Robert Newhouse was also expected to be ready if needed.

"Newhouse is not at full speed so I don't know yet who will start," said Landry.

"Scott Laidlaw has been doing an excellent job."

Is Teamball Game Of The Future?

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

A glut of pro sports? Perhaps. But there are some who apparently believe the world needs another sport—teamball.

They have established the National Teamball League, with a season of weekend games from December to April. The teams are: the Detroit Hawks, the Chicago Chiefs, the Boston Comets, the New York Stags, the Philadelphia Warriors and the Pittsburgh Points.

"There are a lot of sports that don't score enough," said Jim Teckenbrock, manager of the Chicago team. "People want to see a lot of action and they see it in teamball."

Paul Roberts, manager of the Detroit team, said: "It's basically an American game based on team handball. We're just starting. It's a new baby and we have to work things out."

Roberts said the sport was developed about five years ago. He refused to say who was bankrolling the league, but he admitted it was someone in the Detroit area—"a guy with a dream."

A UHF television station, WXON in Southfield, Mich., televised the league opener this month, a 48-26 triumph for the Hawks over Chicago. The station plans to televise other Detroit games, which are played at Macomb County Community College in this northern Detroit suburb.

Asked whether the TV station was providing the money for the team and the league, Roberts said, "I'm not at liberty to say."

About 800 persons turned up for the Detroit opener. At the same time, New York played at Boston.

Teamball is a hybrid that is similar to other sports using a goal at two ends of a court or field, in that the object is to get the ball into the goal. It's like a combination of hockey, lacrosse and basketball. There are five players on a side, including a goalie, and about 10 on a team. The game is played on a basketball court, with hockey-type nets (but larger) at either end.

The ball is about half as big as a basketball. It is passed by hand, and the object is to throw it into the net past the goalie, who wears a face mask and chest protector.

Players may take up to three steps without dribbling the ball. Any more and they suffer a traveling turnover.

There is contact like in ice hockey, with rough body checks and considerable grabbing—as in a pro basketball game where the officials ignore all but flagrant contact.

A serious infraction will send a player to the penalty box for two minutes, as in hockey, forcing one team to play short-handed.

"I'd like to see it catch on in high schools," Roberts said, "but not played so rough."

Teckenbrock said he hopes the NTL will catch on "like soccer. It'll take a while to get going."

He said players travel by plane. However, he wouldn't say how much they are paid.

"It's not something a guy could leave an 88-an-hour job to come and play," he said.

Darrell Price, formerly the Head Basketball coach at Lubbock Christian College, is the new store manager for the main office of Cleveland Athletics, 5278 34th St. Mr. Price plans to direct the store toward more retail selling, but at the same time work closely with all sports organizations in Lubbock area on the wholesale level. He reminds basketball and softball teams that now is the time to order uniforms for the coming spring and invites the team buyers to come by and visit. Cab Hijackers Put Driver In Trunk

FORT WORTH (AP) — Yuletide bandits hijacked a Fort Worth cab Christmas Eve and left its diabetic driver locked securely in the trunk.

Christmas search by police, was found shortly after midnight Tuesday. He was unharmed, but was treated at a hospital for dehydration and fatigue.

Two men, brandishing a shotgun, commandeered the cab about 9 p.m. Sunday, ordered Stine to hand over the money and then forced him into the trunk. Stine said the men drove him around about 20 minutes, then parked the cab.

HEW Says No To Protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is rejecting complaints that several states discriminate against female high school pupils by offering basketball programs only in a half-court, six-player format, HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said Tuesday.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has concluded "that the federal government to tell a school that it cannot offer six-player, half-court basketball," Califano said.

Feminist groups and some players contend that limiting girls to six-player basketball puts them at an unfair disadvantage by failing to give them an equal opportunity to train for the better-known five-player rules used at the college level throughout the country.

Women's groups contend that limiting players to the half-court game in federally aided high schools constitutes sex discrimination and therefore violates Title IX of the 1972 Education Act.

Title IX prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in schools and colleges receiving federal financial assistance.

"Whether a school has six-player, half-court basketball is entirely up to it, if its overall athletic program is non-discriminatory," Califano said.

He added, "The regulation does not require that any particular sport be offered or that the same sports be offered to boys and girls. It does not require schools to offer identical versions of the same sport."

Lynda Weston of the Project on Equal Education Opportunity said the decision to leave women's basketball rules in local hands "will be detrimental to the athletes who live in those states where this dying sport is still played."

"It's disturbing that while women's sports are going through tremendous growing pains and while women ought to have the same opportunities as men to work their way up to pro sports, HEW is still permitting schools to limit opportunities for women," Ms. Weston added.

Six-player basketball has been a popular women's sport in several states almost since the turn of the century. Some have recently moved to the traditionally male full-court version with five players, but Califano said Tennessee, Iowa, Arkansas and Oklahoma still have the half-court programs.

Defenders of the six-player sport, which is played with three forwards, three guards and no center, say it is a better spectator sport because the best forwards can score 60 or more points a game. Moving the ball by dribbling also is prohibited, encouraging a fast passing game.

Guards, however, aren't permitted to cross the center line of the court or shoot, which limits their experience and, some complainants say, puts them at a disadvantage when trying to compete for college basketball scholarships.

Woody Promises Surprise

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State said Tuesday his Buckeyes are working on some surprise plays to use against Clemson in the Gator Bowl football game Friday night, but don't expect a wild passing offense.

Ohio State will continue to rely on the run, Hayes said, and the pass will become more likely after the running attack is established.

The often-crusty 65-year-old coach was in a friendly mood as he and his squad arrived.

In an uncharacteristic move, he permitted his players to go home for three days over the Christmas weekend and has only four days to prepare them.

"It probably put us behind Clemson, I guess," Hayes said, "but we've been to so many bowls, almost every year, that I thought I'd let them go home this year."

He took his squad directly from the airport to the Ohio State practice field at Sandalwood High School. The practice was closed to everyone.

Rookie Coach Danny Ford, 30, of Clemson, who has had his Tigers in Florida since Dec. 19 working hard for the game, also has closed his practice sessions.

This game obviously is important to Clemson's players as well as coaches. Many of them were embarrassed at last year's 34-3 loss to Pittsburgh in the Gator Bowl and vowed to atone.

"I know a lot of people across the country don't realize how good a football team Clemson is," said senior quarterback Steve Fuller. "This is a good opportunity for us. Our school needs some respect and that's what we're out to get."
