

Advisory Team Size Doubled On DNA Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. more than doubled the size of an advisory committee on recombinant DNA research Thursday by appointing 14 new members, including a Nobel Prize-winning biologist and a retiring congressman.

Only three of the new members are scientists who conduct DNA research, while three others work in closely related fields. There are two other scientists working in unrelated fields. The other new members include a lab technician, a law professor, a social scientist, an education teacher and a professor of occupational health.

The panel's 11 original members include four scientists working with DNA and four capable of the research.

Some DNA researchers expressed concern recently that Califano's plan to add more lay persons to the panel would make it ineffective.

But the head of the Health, Education and Welfare Department said in a statement: "While this committee must possess great scientific competence, it is important that it also be equipped to offer the best possible advice on the ethical, legal, public health and environmental issues which relate to recombinant DNA research."

German Catholic Missionary Killed In Rhodesian Guerrilla Activities

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A gang of armed men dragged a German Catholic missionary from his quarters, bound his hands behind him and killed him with a volley of machine-gun fire, the Rhodesian military command said Thursday. It blamed black nationalist guerrillas.

The latest casualty report in Rhodesia's war — a total of 30 deaths, half of them guerrillas — came as the government announced a record exodus of whites from this embattled country. Government figures showed 1,834 whites left in November. Rhodesia has a white population of about 250,000.

Some 20,000 whites have fled the country in the past year, provoked by an escalation in the war between the bi-racial Salisbury government and nationalist guerrillas.

The stepped-up in-fighting has dimmed prospects for a peaceful settlement, and many emigrants apparently are troubled by an uncertain future under the black-majority government promised by the current administration.

The priest, slain Tuesday, was identified as the Rev. Gerhard Peiper, 38, of Berlin, who was the only white at a remote mission in the Mount Darwin area, about 100 miles northeast of here. Peiper, who has been based in Rhodesia since 1970, was the 40th missionary slain by insurgents in the seven years of war, according to government count.

The military command said some 30 guerrillas loyal to Mozambique-based Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union, one of the two major guerrilla organizations, were responsible for the slaying.

The latest casualties in the mounting conflict included nine civilians, the military command said in a communique. It said five were black civilians killed for working with whites in central Rhodesia.

Several skirmishes between the Rhodesian military and guerrillas killed one Rhodesian security force man, 15 guerrillas and four "terrorist collaborators."

In a major political development, a white co-minister of internal affairs, Rollo Hayman, resigned late Wednesday, a move that stunned officials of the transition government. He was one of nine whites sharing portfolios with nine blacks in the Cabinet.

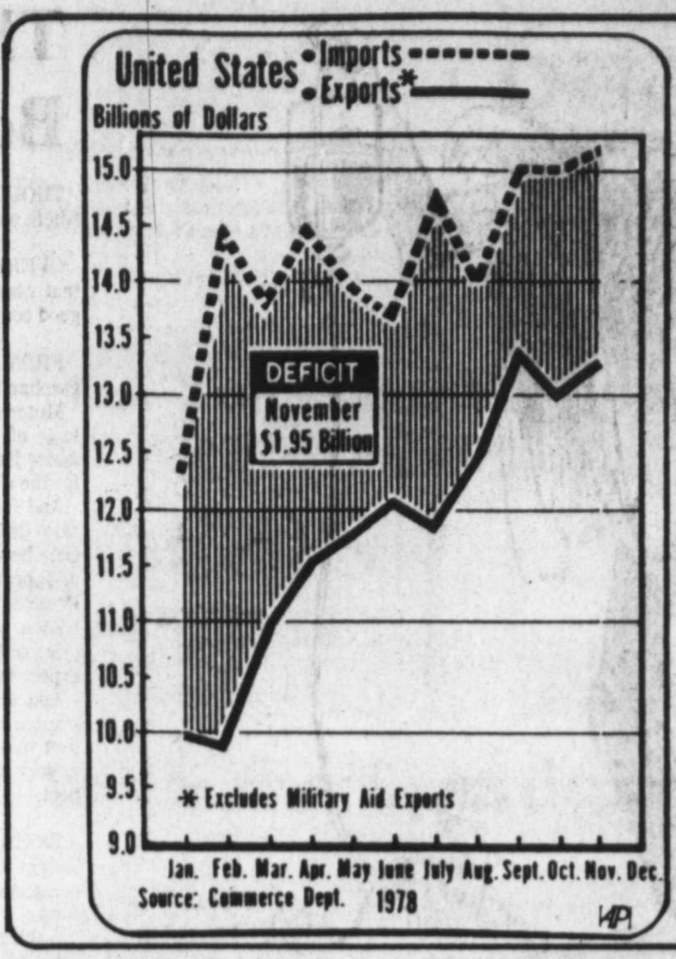

Hayman, a conservative, said peace efforts were a failure, predicted the first black government would collapse under guerrilla pressure and called on Britain to take control of the country.

"If he doesn't think everything will work out, then there's not much hope," said one official of Hayman's move.

The transitional government, formed by white Prime Minister Ian Smith and three black moderates, is supposed to steer the country to black majority rule by April 20. The two guerrilla groups that have repudiated the agreement, Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples Union and Mugabe's ZANU, are joined as the Patriotic Front. The war has taken some 15,000 lives.

The United States and Britain, as the internationally recognized authority over its breakaway colony, have tried in vain to organize a peace conference among the parties.

In an interview published Friday in the Paris newspaper Le Monde, Smith said many of the black nationalist guerrillas

U.S. Trade Balance Deficit For Year Surpasses Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans bought $1.95 billion more than they sold in trade with foreigners last month, pushing the year's trade deficit to a record high, the Commerce Department said Thursday.

In another report, the department said its index of future economic trends dropped 0.6 percent in November, the first decline since July.

The November trade deficit, although smaller than the October trade gap of $2.13 billion, pushed the deficit for the year to a record $26.74 billion. The old record was $26.5 billion last year.

The trade problem has been a big contributor to the decline of the dollar and growing inflation in this country. However, the Carter administration expects the trade deficit to fall sharply next year.

Administration officials said Thursday they were encouraged that the monthly trade deficits are smaller than they were at the start of the year. "The pattern of recent months clearly indicates that the trade picture is improving," said Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps. "Monthly deficits have averaged below $2 billion for the past six months, compared with monthly deficits of $2.9 billion in the fourth quarter of last year and $3.2 billion in the first quarter of this year."

A Treasury Department spokesman said the monthly deficit is "generally in line with our expectations and once again reflects an improvement."

The Commerce Department said the main reason for the November decline in the index of leading economic indicators was a drop in the money supply. That could help ease inflation, but it also could lead to slower economic growth and fewer jobs in the coming year.

The index is designed to forecast economic downturns and recessions in advance, but it would take several months to indicate a trend.

Administration economists are expecting slower economic growth next year, but private economists disagree over whether it will mean a recession.

The trade report had a few bright spots despite the record imports of $15.21 billion.

The country actually sold $350 million more in manufactured goods than it bought from other countries. Americans bought fewer foreign cars from Japan and Germany and spent less on imported television sets and stereos. Meanwhile, U.S. sales of airplanes continued to grow rapidly.

The trade deficit with Japan declined from $838 million to $674 million in November.

Imported oil continued to be the main cause of the trade deficit, but the department had expected even more oil imports in November.

"There is no evidence yet of any year-end surge of oil imports, which some people have feared might result from the prospect of an OPEC price increase," Mrs. Kreps said.

A Commerce Department study said the deficit might be as high as $2.5 billion or $3 billion in November and December because importers might buy huge amounts of oil to beat anticipated price increases by oil producers.

However, oil imports rose only slightly, from $3.50 billion to $3.58 billion.

fighting to topple his government are beginning to realize there is no more reason to fight.

"The Patriotic Front continues to commit the most bestial atrocities against the population, black and white, but certain signs show that a considerable number of insurgents recongize there is no more reason to continue the war — the principle of majority rule having been accepted," Smith said. The minister did not detail what he meant by "signs" indicating a reversal.

"We think that with the lifting of (economic) sanctions, international recognition and an easing of the military pressure, in short, a return to normalcy, the problems would resolve themselves."

Analyst's Death Stops Gas Rate Hearing

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The painfully slow hearings on what rates Pioneer Natural Gas Company should charge its Lubbock industrial customers may have to be scrapped and begun anew because of the death last week of city rate analyst Ervin Looney.

City Attorney John Ross Jr. said the case is definitely "up in the air" now because of Looney's death.

"I'm really concerned about the constitutional problem of due process," he said. The gas company has the constitutional right to cross-examine the city's witness, who was Looney, Ross explained.

"I don't know what repercussions" will result, Ross said. "I'm not sure whether we can salvage the hearings."

Assistant City Manager Jim Blagg concurred: "I think we're pretty much dead in the water in terms of the present hearing unless Pioneer gives up the right to cross-examine our witness."

However, Blagg conceded that was not likely.

The city appears to have two alternatives — either start the hearings anew or combine the industrial case with a system-wide case scheduled to begin next month.

The system-wide case involves a gas company request for higher domestic rates in 63 West Texas cities including Lubbock, while the industrial rate case was initiated by the Lubbock City Council to determine fair rates for Lubbock industrial customers.

Ross is attempting to contact both gas company officials and the consultants working on the system-wide rate case to work out a solution to the problem.

However, Blagg said a combination of the two rate cases could cause more headaches.

"I don't know whether we will agree with what the consultants come up with," he said, adding whatever residential rates are settled on may directly affect the industrial rates.

"The residential will pretty well determine the industrial rates unless we have influence on what they (consultants) are doing," he said.

Gas company officials had no immediate comment on how the industrial rate case should be completed, preferring to await any suggestion from the city.

But the city and the gas company must swiftly agree on some course of action since the hearings on the system-wide rate case are scheduled to begin the second week in January.

The five hearings on industrial gas rates, which began Aug. 24, were set to reconvene Dec. 14, but were indefinitely postponed because of a conflict with a federal trial on city election methods.

Looney was to have been cross-examined by gas company attorneys at the Dec. 14 session.

Agency Censures Securities Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission Thursday censured Merrill Lynch, the nation's largest stock broker, in connection with the purchase and sale of U.S. Treasury notes.

In ordering an administrative proceeding, the SEC said several officers of Merrill Lynch's Detroit office violated securities fraud laws by failing to disclose to customers the risks of various transactions.

The transactions involved arbitrages in the notes. A Treasury note was borrowed through Merrill Lynch Government Securities Inc. and then sold on the market.

At the same time, the proceeds of the sale were used to buy another Treasury note of the same denomination but having a different interest rate and maturity date.

The SEC said Merrill Lynch and James A. Smith, manager of the company's Detroit institutional office, failed to supervise account executive Michael J. Carroll adequately.

The SEC said Merrill Lynch and Carroll "omitted to state to the city of Ann Arbor, the city of Warren and Warren's Police and Fire Retirement System that substantial losses in the arbitrages could result from an adverse market movement."

It said they "falsely represented...that the arbitrages could always be liquidated quickly without incurring significant losses."

It said Carroll issued fictitious confirmations showing prices that were not prevailing.

The SEC accepted a settlement from Smith and from Merrill Lynch agreeing to the censure.

HEARTLINE: I filed for disability Social Security over four years ago and they ruled against me. I haven't been able to work in this time. My husband passed away in January, and I went to see about his burial fund. When I was at the Social Security office, they filed a claim for widow's disability since I am only 54 years of age, and I got a letter saying I would get disability from January 1, 1978. But, when welfare sent me to the Social Security office, they said I could not cash the checks. I have so far received three checks. Would it be the last disability determination be the one I should go by? I could use the checks as I have had no income. Can you help me? — M.L.

We have contacted the Social Security Administration in Baltimore about your problem. We have been notified that you have been contacted by them and that you can now cash the checks. We are happy that you were able to help you. Any one who has a problem with their Social Security which they cannot seem to resolve by contacting their local Social Security office can write to us for assistance. Address your letter to Heartline's Red Tape Cutting System, 134 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please enclose a long self-addressed stamped envelope.

HEARTLINE: My husband is drawing Social Security retirement. I will turn 62 in March 1979. I don't know if I want to take my wife's benefits at that time or not, as I am presently employed and we need the extra income I bring in. However, if I get enough money from wife's benefits, I may take them. Can you tell me what the reductions are for drawing wife's benefits between age 62 and 65? Also, will I be allowed to work some if I do retire at age 62? — J.E.

The basic age 65 wife's benefits is 50 percent of her husband's unreduced Social Security benefit. If a wife takes her benefit before 65, then she would receive the following percentages of one-half her husband's unreduced benefit:

Age 62 — 75 percent of one-half her husband's unreduced benefit
Age 63 — 83.4 percent of one-half her husband's unreduced benefit
Age 64 — 91.7 percent of one-half her husband's unreduced benefit

For example, if the husband is entitled to $200 at age 65, regardless of the fact that he may be drawing reduced benefits prior to age 65, the wife's bene it would be $100 when she was 65, or $91.70 at 64 and so forth.

Yes, you are allowed to earn the same amount as a person drawing regular Social Security retirement which is $3,480 in 1979 for persons under age 65, and $4,000 per year if you are over 65.

For further information on laws governing wife's benefits and allowed income, we have available our Guide to Social Security.

Railroad Panel Sets Meetings

AJ Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Railroad Commission has scheduled a series of regional meetings, including one in Floydada to receive public comments on proposed abandonment of Texas railroad lines.

Commission rail planners have written studies on the economic impact of those abandonments, gathering comments from rail users and community governments; but the public hearings are designed to gather comments from others that might be affected in the proposed abandonments.

A meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m. on Jan. 9 at the Lighthouse Electric Cooperative.

Hospital Administrator Faces Indictment

DIMMITT (UPI) — A Castro County grand jury Thursday indicted a Plains Memorial Hospital administrator for allegedly refusing to admit a dying infant to the hospital.

The grand jury returned the misdemeanor indictment against Jack Newsom. The indictment alleges Newsom denied Isidro Aguinaga Jr., 11 months, emergency services on Dec. 8. The grand jury issued a separate, sealed report to the hospital board which met Thursday. Details of the report were not disclosed.

If convicted, Newsom faces a maximum $200 fine, but a criminal conviction could adversely affect the outcome of a subsequent civil case, observers said.

The indictment grew out of a complaint made Dec. 8 to Castro County authorities by Isidro and Rachel Aguinaga, who said their child died after being denied admission to the Dimmitt hospital.

Aguinagas said they took their son to Dr. B.D. Murphy's clinic Dec. 8. Murphy, a staff physician at Plains Memorial, reportedly diagnosed the infant's condition as severe respiratory infection and dehydration and ordered immediate emergency treatment at the hospital.

But the Aguinagas say Newsom told them — through an interpreter — that a deposit of $400 was necessary before the child could be admitted.

Aguinaga, who earns a living by gathering corn, reportedly told Newsom inclement weather had prevented him from working and the money was not available.

Newsom has stated he believes the Aguinagas misunderstood his reference to money. He says the reference was merely a reminder that money would have to be paid eventually for the treatment.

Nonetheless, the Aguinagas left the hospital en route to Tulsa, 30 miles away, where the child was denied care because the parents did not live in the county.

On the return trip, Isidro Jr. died. "I think it's good that the people's interest will be furthered," Dr. Murphy said Thursday, in assessing the grand jury's action. "It's unfortunate that the baby had to die, that this occurred. I'm afraid the people of the county are going to have to pay for it, rather than the man involved."

The jurors met previously on Dec. 19 and deliberated 13½ hours before adjourning. They reconvened at 9 a.m. Wednesday and returned the indictment 15½ hours later.

The works were removed from their frames sometime after Nov. 28, Marandel said. He said Nov. 28 was the last time he saw them.

Police Probe $3 Million Art Theft

CHICAGO (AP) — Police began interrogating 700 employees of the Art Institute of Chicago Thursday to try to determine whether the $3 million theft of three Paul Cezanne paintings was an inside job.

The theft of valuable paintings was the second of the week in the country. On Christmas Eve in San Francisco, thieves took Rembrandt's "Portrait of a Rabbi," valued at $1 million, and other valuable paintings from the city museum there.

The masterpieces by the 19th century post-impressionist were found missing from their frames in a storage area Wednesday.

Alan Baer, president of the International Association of Art Security in New York, said the art works stolen in Chicago and San Francisco may be bound for a black market that deals in $50 million worth of art treasures a year.

Police said there was no forced entry and Curator J. Patrice Marandell said that as many as 12 to 35 museum employees could have had access to keys to the storage area.

"Art theft is big business — usually involving organized crime — and its transport often follows in the same international route as the drug traffic," Baer said. He said less than 2 percent of the 15,000 art works stolen last year in the United States were recovered.

Police Commander Frank Leuken had a force of 35 investigators on the case. He said that all employees with access to the storage room are being fingerprinted and some will be given polygraph tests.

DR. J. WILLIAM DAVIS
Scholarship To Honor J.W. Davis
A scholarship endowment to honor Dr. J. Williams Davis, professor of political science emeritus and long active in Texas Tech athletics and National Collegiate Athletic Association activities, is being established at Texas Tech.

Davis has served as chairman of the political science department and member of chairman of the Texas Tech Athletic Council.

The Texas Tech chapter of Pi Sigma Alpha, a political science honor, is coordinating the scholarship effort. Davis will shape guidelines for administering the scholarship.

Davis served on the faculty of the political science department from 1938 to 1944 and was chairman from 1944 until his retirement in 1974. He is widely known for his expertise in state government and constitutional law and served on two constitutional revision committees.

Davis was recognized by resolution in the Texas Legislature in 1971 and received two special awards from the Lubbock County Bar Association. The professor also served as a member, consultant and chairman of the City Charter Commission.

He has a special interest in athletics and served on the Texas Tech Athletic Council from 1948 until 1971. He was a member of the governing board and vice-president and president of the Southwest Athletic Conference.

Davis was influential in obtaining Texas Tech's membership in the conference. He also is known as the author of the letter-of-intent for athletic recruiting, now in use by the NCAA.

Persons wishing to contribute to the fund may contact the Development Office of Texas Tech or the political science department for further information. Contributions should be addressed to the J. Williams Davis Scholarship Fund, Development Office, Texas Tech University.

Judge Appointed For Landmark Marvin Lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - A judge was assigned Thursday to hear Michelle Triola Marvin's breach of contract suit against actor Lee Marvin - a landmark suit focused on property rights involving unmarried couples.

The suit will be heard by Superior Court Judge Arthur K. Marshall but it was not immediately announced when he would start trial.

Mrs. Marvin, 45, a former singer who legally changed her surname without benefit of marriage, lived with Marvin for six years, 1964-70, but they split up and he married another woman.

The original suit, filed in 1972, asked $1 million from Marvin as Mrs. Marvin's share of property he accumulated during the years they lived together. She also asked a half interest in a Malibu home and in a record company owned by the actor.

Two lower courts refused to hear the case but the California Supreme Court, sent it to Superior Court to be tried on its merits.

The outcome of the trial could set a precedent for property settlements for thousands of women and men who live together without marrying and then break up.

Mrs. Marvin's attorney, Marvin Mitchelson, has estimated the trial will take up to six weeks. Mitchelson said he intended to call about eight witnesses to testify about the lifestyle of Marvin, 54.

Ex-HBO Executives Admit Fraud

NEW YORK (AP) - Two former top executives of a subscription television subsidiary of Home Box Office Inc., a Time Inc. property, pleaded guilty Thursday to frauds which deprived their firm and Avco Embassy Films Inc. of more than $250,000.

Robert Weisberg, 51, former president, and Henry Feinstein, 48, former vice president, of Telemation Program Services admitted guilt to single-count mail fraud informations in U.S. District Court in Manhattan, which covered various fraud schemes.

Home Box Office acquired the firm in July 1976. Weisberg and Feinstein face five-year prison terms when they appear for sentencing Feb. 9 before Judge Henry F. Werker.

Weisberg, who lives in Manhattan, was accused of frauds involving $208,000 and Feinstein, of Fairlawn, N.J., was charged with frauds totaling $50,000 through schemes which began in February 1975.

The government claimed Weisberg had the television firm issue $150,000 in checks for legitimate business and later converted them to his own use by having them fraudulently endorsed.

A RALPH BAKSHI FILM
J.R.R. Tolkien's "THE LORD OF THE RINGS" Music by LEONARD ROSENMAN
Screenplay by CHRIS CONKLING and PETER S. BEAGLE • Based on the books of J.R.R. TOLKIEN

One man cast a lingering spell of awe and wonder, of magical innocence, of simple courage conquering evil, of simple courage conquering fear — he gave us the legend that will live forever in our minds.
J.R.R. Tolkien triumphed with the perception that a single dream is more powerful than a thousand realities.

Bird Feeder Rewarding Yard Feature

By TED J. SIMON
A-J Outdoor Editor

It's during the winter months that many persons put out bread crumbs, seed and suet in the backyard for our feathered friends. Bird feeders can range from a simple wooden board held in place by some rocks to a fancy automatic feeder on a telescoping metal pole. Whether the feeder consists of scrap wood and a few minutes of time with hammer and nail or an investment of $30 to $40, some thought should be given to placement of the feeder and the type of food. Location and choice of diet will often determine the species of birds you attract to your yard.

Cardinals are attracted by food such as sunflower seeds and corn; jays will appreciate the same diet plus suet; mockingbirds will go for raisins and cut apples. Most birds will be appreciative of all types of seeds along with bread crumbs. Bird fanciers sometimes add a pinch of grit to a quart of seed.

If your feeder only seems to attract sparrows, consider placing a recipe of less expensive seed (plus bread crumbs) on a board type feeder near the ground for the sparrows. Then use a hanging feeder for the gourmet seeds some distance from and higher than the sparrow feeder to attract more colorful winged visitors.

Discovery

Remember that feeders should be away from anything such as a fence or shrub that would give cover for a cat to spring toward unsuspecting feeding birds.

Once you have started feeding birds, be sure to keep the routine uninterrupted until early spring. Migrating birds will come to rely on your thoughtfulness and remain near your home rather than flying on to their natural winter habitat. If you suddenly stop your feeding routine, the birds may not be able to find enough food to survive a winter flight journey.

Most birds feed throughout the day and this food furnishes body heat during the frigid nights. Keep your feeder full and check to be sure the food is dry if there has been a recent rain. If you provide a source of water, it should be free of ice. Also, keep in mind that metal roosts and containers can harm birds when the temperature drops below freezing.

Certainly birds can be pests; an overpopulation of any kind can be detrimental to the scheme of things. But a proper amount of birdlife in nature's food chain helps reduce insects (including mosquitoes) and weeds.

The other benefits are more obvious — the songs, the colors, the beauty of flight. It all adds up to enjoyment of a part of God's wonderful plan — right in your own backyard.

JUST CHECKING — A cat named Mickey demonstrates the problem with bird feed that can be easily reached by a feline member of the household. A higher pedestal would alleviate this cat and bird situation. (Staff Photo by Ted J. Simon)

Vegetation Provides Bird Lure

By J.D. PEER
(Parks & Wildlife Department)

You probably already know about man-made bird attractors such as feeders, birdbaths, bird houses, nesting shelves and resting areas, but if you would like to make your property more attractive to wildlife and enhance the beauty of your property, a few natural attractors would be in order.

Birds have simple needs as they look for places to feed, sing, court, nest, rest and hide. Birds also like a variety of plantings, such as an intermingling of species, sizes, and shapes of plants. Give birds a choice of places for their activities from tall trees to low shrubs and flowers.

Birds are good neighbors; their songs, color and lively activities add much to the joys of suburban or country life. They also help control insects that attack flowers, lawns, gardens and people.

A study of plants already on your property will tell you if additional plantings are in order. Many common shade trees and landscape shrubs yield little or no food for birds.

Autumn olive, cherry, crabapple or good fruit-bearing shrubs are helpful additions. Yards and border areas can be improved by adding junipers, cedars, and other evergreens that provide winter shelter so vital in northwest Texas.

A few species of plants for birds, beauty and protection include:

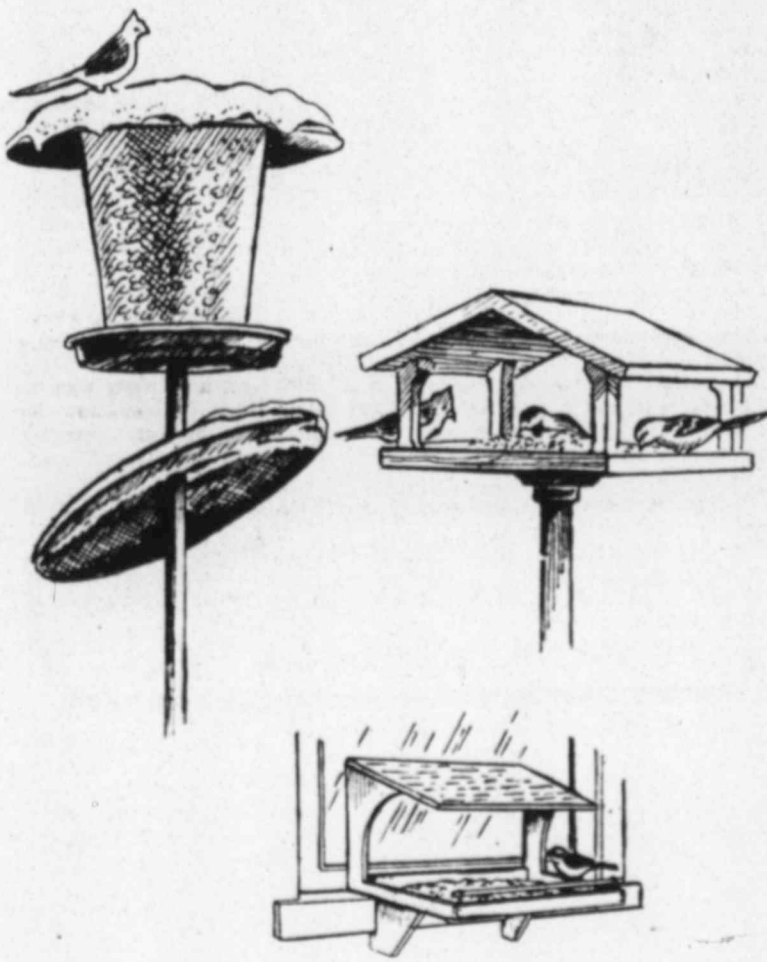

- dogwood, used by some 47 varieties of birds;
- firethorn (pyracantha), used by at least 17 species of birds;
- sunflower, used by over 52 species of birds;
- sumac, used by 36 species of birds.

Planning these plants into your landscape can also provide living screens eliminating highway noises or unpleasant views. In crowded areas, plants can offer privacy for backyard activities.

Many species of birds in West provide protection to houses from the elements while furnishing habitat for birds. A check with your local Audubon club, Soil Conservation Service or the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist in your county will supply more ideas for attracting birds to your property or for improving the existing plants already growing.

PLAIN AND FANCY — Homemade or store-bought, most bird feeders have roofs to protect the food from inclement weather. A disk below a standing feeder or above a hanging feeder will discourage cats. A window feeder allows close observation of birds. (Drawings by National Wildlife Federation)

Grant For Travel, Research Renewed

The Readers Digest Foundation has renewed its $1,000 travel-research grant to Texas Tech's mass communications department for 1978-79.

Department Chairman Billy I. Ross announced receipt of the grant, which goes to a select group of accredited schools of mass communications. "It is the type of award without strings attached in order to make it work for the department as a whole," he said.

Tech has used the funds for faculty and student travel, research, class laboratory projects and books and subscriptions for the department's reading room. Part of the 1978 grant was used for awards to students for excellence and outstanding achievement.

Carter Faces Inflation Vs. Voters Dilemma

By LOUIS HARRIS

With the 1980 presidential election less than two years away, it is becoming apparent that the political fate of President Carter is likely to be determined by his ability to cool the fires of inflation on the one hand, and not lose the support of lower-income voters, unions members, blacks and other racial minorities on the other.

The dilemma that imperils the Carter administration surfaced during the recent Democratic midterm mini-convention in Memphis, where the President's decision to give inflation a top priority was unsuccessfully challenged. But the issue now seems certain to stay alive. Democratic Party opponents of Carter's economic program feel that the poor, the elderly, those on pensions, racial minorities and young people all will suffer more than other groups from high interest rates, a rise in unemployment and promised cutbacks in federal spending on social and jobs programs.

The potential consequences of the high risks the president is taking with his party's political base are not hard to find:

— In his own election in 1976, Jimmy Carter swept the black vote by 87-12 percent. Before the white vote was even counted, the blacks gave him over a 6-point lead among the entire electorate. When the rest of the vote was added up, Gerald Ford was ahead by 52-48 percent, a 4-point edge. Among the entire voting public, Carter won the election by a narrow 2.1 percent. Without the black vote, he would have lost. A similar analysis could be made for the trade union vote or for low-income voters, regardless of race, or for the city vote.

— In the 1978 off-year election for seats in the House, the Democrats brought in majorities among their "gut" vote: winning the blacks by 89-10 percent, low-income voters by 68-32 percent, union members by 69-31 percent, liberals by 80-20 percent, city voters by 66-34 percent and young people by 65-35 percent.

However, an estimated 69 percent of eligible voters in these key Democratic groups stayed home on Election Day, compared with a lower 60 percent among the rest of the electorate. Most telling was the fact that, compared with 1974, the traditional Democratic vote fell off by 15 percent, compared with an overall drop in turnout of 5 percent. Just on turnout loss alone, the Democrats lost 4 points nationally in the House vote.

So the risks the President runs if he disenfranchises this gut Democratic vote are twofold: first, he chances losing some of the overwhelming margins he will need from these groups in 1980, and second, he might find it difficult to get these voters to the polls on Election Day.

There are three other pieces of evidence from current ABC News-Harris surveys which indicate that President Carter faces certain dangers in dealing with his own traditional Democratic base:

— 54-36 percent majority of all adults would favor a proposal that would increase the federal deficit by $7 billion or $8 billion to provide federal jobs and financial help for the poor, the elderly and other disadvantaged groups which might be hard hit by the Carter economic program. But a much higher 62-30 percent majority of blacks, and a 59-32 percent majority of both union members and Democrats would favor such legislation. It is very likely that a measure of this kind will be introduced in the new Congress when it reconvenes next month. It is also likely that the President will oppose its passage in the name of cutting federal spending. He may win his point, but he also may pay for political price for his victory.

— In his own job rating, Mr. Carter's standing declined in the latest ABC News-Harris survey of 1,197 adults nationwide from this year's high of 46 percent positive to 39 percent positive, a drop of 7 points. But just among Democrats, his job rating dropped a much larger 11 points from 60 percent to 49 percent positive.

— On the federal budget issue, the public as a whole would give federal health programs a higher priority than defense spending by 54-37 percent. But a much higher 62-30 percent majority of blacks, a 60-34 percent majority of union members, and a 56-31 percent majority of low-income people would give health spending a top priority.

It should be noted, of course, that these troubles which face the President are occurring well before the time that voters will make up their minds about the 1980 presidential election and before the Carter economic program has had a chance to take hold. But the magnitude of the risks he is taking with his own political future is beginning to become clear.

Playwright Seeks To Uplift American Spirits

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Romanian-born French playwright Eugene Ionesco has come home from a stay in the United States with the feeling that Americans engage in too much anti-Americanism. Correspondent Marcia Elison was granted one of the writer's frequent interviews to discuss the subject.)

PARIS (AP) — Celebrated playwright Eugene Ionesco is on a campaign to convince Americans that they are not as bad as they think they are. "They are masochists who want to be blamed for everything wrong in the world," he says. Ionesco, author of the absurdist classics "The Chairs" and "Rhinoceros," has returned from a stay of several months in the United States and says he is shocked at the mood he found among students and intellectuals. "The students," he says, are 95 percent non-political "and do not know or care what goes on in the world." The other 5 percent are leftists "for whom the worst thing you can do is say that Americans are not humanity's greatest criminals." The 66-year-old Ionesco seems impassioned by the issue. He wrote an article about it in the Christmas edition of the prestigious Paris daily Le Figaro, and though he rarely gives interviews he readily granted one to amplify his views.

Ionesco is a short, slow-spoken man with a bloodhound face and huge dark eyes that peer mournfully through thick spectacles. The man who has made millions laugh seldom smiles, except to his wife and his cocker spaniel.

"I spoke out," he said, "because I discovered a sort of spirit in America that used to exist in France 10 years ago — a spirit of self-destructiveness, of masochism, an American anti-Americanism."

Ionesco toured the West and East coasts showing his new film, "The Vase," and lecturing to students. He says he also had conversations with journalists, literary editors and lawyers, and found them "generally feeling guilty."

He also telephoned Alexander Solzhenitsyn to say hello. He says he "absolutely agrees" with what the exiled Russian novelist has said about the decline of the West. But the intellectuals he met "find Solzhenitsyn too arrogant," the playwright said.

"The rightists dislike him because he attacks the excesses of capitalism. That is a stupidity. And the leftists dislike him because he attacks the Soviet Union. That too is a stupidity. After all, Americans have always basically adored Russians."

At times, a liberal might find Ionesco too apt to find Reds under the bed. But he has paid his dues. The Romanian-born playwright has suffered under Nazism for being a leftist, he says, and under communism for being a democrat.

He finds capitalism "an infamous social system, but the least bad that is possible."

Officers Must Pay In Break-In Suit

Ionesco claims the American left is still enamored of utopian Marxist doctrines that Europe abandoned long ago. "A few years ago Americans were readed French leftist writers.... Now there is a (French) generation of what we call the New Philosophers, who have abandoned Marxism. But no one wants to publish them in America."

American youth, he says, "is busy demythologizing capitalism, which is a good thing, but it is a long way from demythologizing socialism."

He said he met with derision when he tried to tell students that under communist rule, Indochina was suffering far more severely than under the Americans.

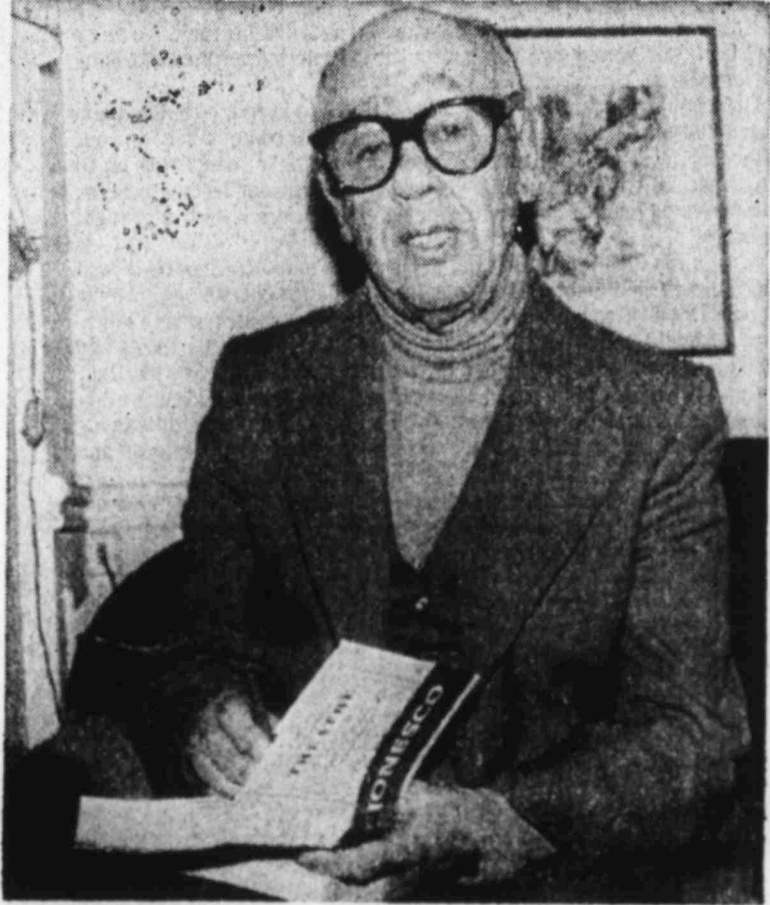

"They (the students) were completely uninterested. They have abandoned everything."

"They no longer feel a world calling, a need for a global policy... what they don't understand is that where communism is installed, it becomes hell. Look at how many people cross the Berlin Wall to East Germany, and how many cross at their peril in the other direction, and look at all the thousands of people who are not necessarily capitalists who flee Vietnam and Cambodia, and the West is quite astonished and reluctant to take them in...."

"Americans are not conscious of what is happening.... The Russians are on the way to conquering the last European positions, the Horn of Africa, now Iran, the Persian Gulf. Soon there will be 'spontaneous organized uprisings' in Latin America. And the United States, if it does not wake up, will be an encircled fortress."

Ionesco believes the "American attitude of self-blame may be psychologicaly explained. They have been accused constantly by the Europeans and now they feel guilty about everything."

Nobody, he says, complained when the Russians annexed parts of East Europe after World War II. But everyone shouted "Yankee Go Home" and Americans accepted it.

"I kept feeling the need to raise the morale of Americans, to say, 'No, you are not monsters, you saved Europe in 1918, and you saved it in 1945.'"

Ionesco is active in the human rights campaign behind the Iron Curtain, but he accuses American liberals of sabotaging it. "Human rights is a very difficult thing, and if Marion Brando and other leftists keep crying, 'Look at us, see how bad it is here before you criticize others,' it does not help."

Guyana Tragedies Head News List

TOP STORIES OF 1978

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

The mass killings and suicides by members of the Peoples Temple in Guyana which cost more than 900 lives is ranked as the top news story of 1978 by editors and broadcasters of Associated Press member newspapers and radio and television stations.

The ritual suicides in the cult's jungle commune, headed by the Rev. Jim Jones, followed by a few hours the slaying of a U.S. Congressman and three American newsmen in an airstrip ambush.

Other top stories, as they were rated in the annual poll, were:

2. Mideast: Camp David accords, Begin and Sadat win Nobel Peace Prize but negotiations drag on.
3. President Carter announces U.S. recognition of China.
4. California passes Proposition 13, tax rebellion spreads.
5. Death of two popes, John Paul II assumes papacy.
6. U.S. economy: dollar declines, inflation soars, Carter moves against inflation and currency decline.
7. Panama Canal treaties approved.
8. Collision over San Diego results in nation's worst air disaster.
9. World's first test tube baby is born in Britain.
10. Mayor George Moscone, Supervisor Harvey Milk shot to death in San Francisco.

Few events in the annals of history were more baffling than the violent deaths of more than 900 Peoples Temple cultists on Nov. 18 at Jonestown, Guyana. Most apparently committed suicide at the behest of their leader by drinking a cyanide potion. Parents poisoned their children, then drank themselves. Jones was found shot to death, a likely but not proven suicide.

How many of his followers died voluntarily and how many under compulsion by armed guards remained in dispute. But, it was clear that Jones, a spellbinding Indiana-born preacher, summoned them to a ritual suicide after several of his armed followers had killed U.S. Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., and the three American newsmen at an airstrip.

Ryan had visited the Jonestown commune to investigate reports that some members were being held against their will.

Jones began his ministry in Indiana and later moved his church to California. He centered his sect in San Francisco where he extracted donations from members, ordered frequent beatings for minor transgressions and demanded sexual relations from both male and female followers. Jones gained political influence locally before leaving San Francisco in 1977 to join the agricultural community his followers had hewn from the remote jungle.

In the other Top 10 stories:

2. Long-warring Israel and Egypt agreed to terms of a peace treaty in a meeting at Camp David in the Maryland Mountains. President Carter mediated the treaty negotiations between Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

The treaty was to have been signed by Dec. 17, but various snags developed, notably a dispute over tying the treaty to a timetable for the autonomy of the occupied West Bank. The deadline passed without a pact despite the continuing efforts of President Carter and U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Following the Camp David accords, Sadat and Begin were jointly awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. Begin traveled to Oslo to receive the award, but Sadat sent an emissary.

3. On Dec. 15, President Carter announced recognition of mainland China by the United States and resumption of diplomatic relations on Jan. 1, 1979. Simultaneously, he said the United States would abrogate its mutual defense treaty with Taiwan and end diplomatic relations with the island.

The United States pledged to maintain trade connections with Taiwan and to continue supplying defensive arms, but the reaction on Taiwan was bitter. Opposition developed in the United States as well. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., announced his intent to challenge in the courts the President's right to abrogate the Taiwan defense treaty without consent of the Senate.

4. When voters in California on June 6 approved Proposition 13 — a ballot proposal that slashed property taxes — the shock waves reached every state capital and the national legislature in Washington as well.

The man behind the measure, crusty crusader Howard Jarvis, suddenly became a national figure. Congressmen and governor lent him an attentive ear as he took his message east from California.

Politicians had no trouble picking up the vibrations, and the most prevalent campaign theme in November was: cut taxes, tighten the budget, and smile.

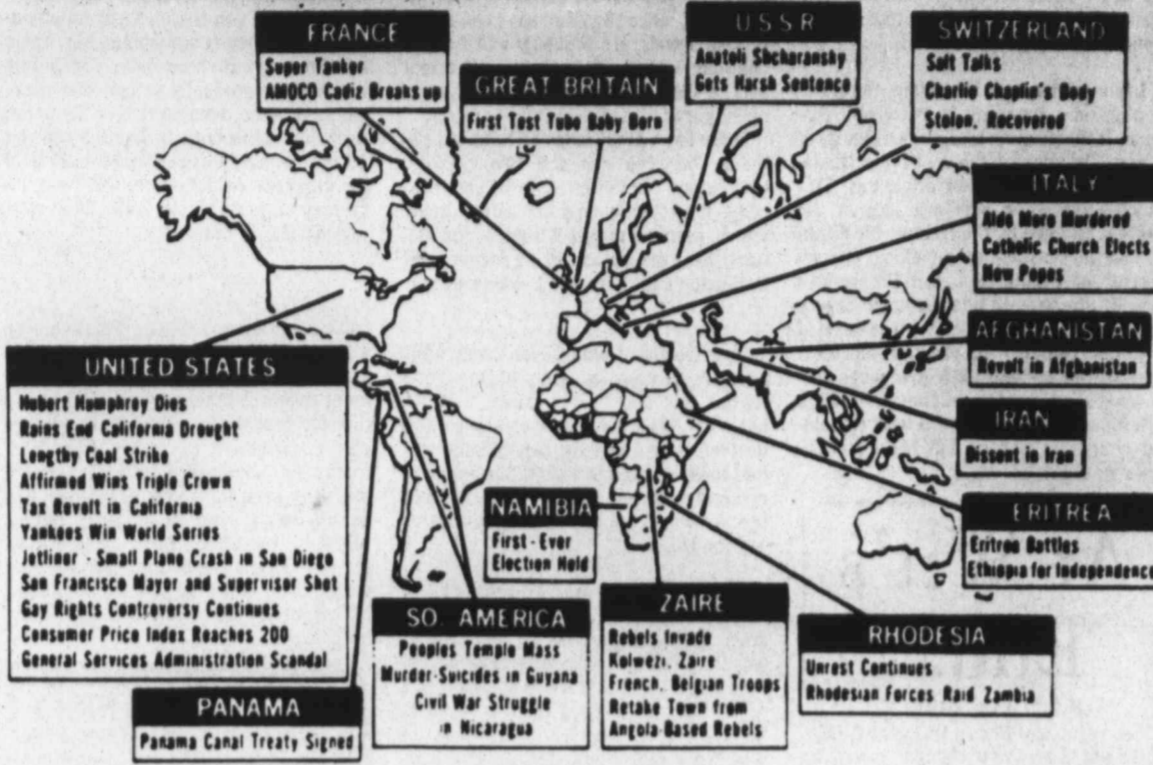

5. In a span of 73 days, Roman Catholicism lost two popes and elected a third, Pope John Paul II, a Pole, the first non-Italian pontiff in 455 years and the first eastern European in history.

A robust man of 58, the former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Krakow was the youngest pope since 1846, and could lead the global church of 700 million Catholics into the 21st century.

His choice on Oct. 17 in a secret conclave by the College of Cardinals startled the world, auguring large implications for western relations with the Communist orbit.

PUBLICATION HALTED

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The 9-month-old English language daily Business Times suspended publication today, its managers said. Editor-in-chief Dan Coggin said the paper and two sister publications would take a self-imposed "holiday" of perhaps 45 days to settle legal problems.

His predecessor, the former Cardinal Albino Luciani of Venice, was elected Aug. 24. He served only 34 days as Pope John Paul I, the first pope to take two names for his reign, before he died of a heart seizure Sept. 28. In that short time, his spontaneity, humor and warmth had endeared him to millions. John Paul I followed the 15-year reign of Pope Paul VI, who died Aug. 6.

7. On April 18, the U.S. Senate voted to yield the Panama Canal to Panamanian control at the end of the century, much to the satisfaction of President Carter, who had staked his prestige on the outcome. The Senate vote was 68-32 in favor, concluding the two-part canal accord. A month earlier, the Senate ratified by the same vote the initial treaty, which commits the United States and Panama to maintaining the neutrality of the waterway.

The April vote completed the arrangement, providing for transfer of the canal to Panama on Dec. 31, 1999.

Panama immediately ratified. Opposition in the United States was led by, among others, Ronald Reagan, who called the treaties a giveaway.

8. The worst accident in nation's aviation history occurred Sept. 25 when a Pacific Southwest Airlines 727 jet collided with a small plane on approach to San Diego's Lindbergh airport.

All 135 aboard the airliner, on the Sacramento-Los Angeles-San Diego businessman's run, were killed. Eight more died on the ground. Both occupants of the small plane, an instructor and a pilot practicing instrument landings, also died.

B METRO

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Friday December 29, 1978

Ground control said it had warned both the 727 and the Cessna. The airliner, on visual approach, had acknowledged the warning.

Precisely how it happened was the subject of painstaking investigation. The accident raised renewed questions about crowded airports and the need for a sophisticated collision avoidance system aboard planes.

Further, the accident prompted the Federal Aviation Administration to require extensive — and expensive — additions to 144 airports' radar systems, including those in Lubbock, Amarillo and Midland.

9. Baby Louise was born at 11:47 p.m. July 25 in the privacy of England's Oldham and District Hospital maternity unit, while the press thronged outside. She was conceived in a laboratory early the previous November in a glass thimble by her father's sperm and her mother's ovum.

Giving a new meaning to midwifery, Dr. Patrick Steptoe and physiologist Robert Edwards had presided not only over the birth of the child, named Louise Brown, but over her conception as well.

John and Lesley Brown, married in 1969, wanted a baby. But Lesley's fallopian tubes were withered and precluded normal conception. The researchers plucked an egg from Lesley's ovaries and mated it with her husband's sperm.

After nearly three days the developing embryo was implanted in Lesley's uterus. Something over eight months later the baby was delivered by Caesarean section because the mother had developed toxemia. At 5 pounds 12 ounces, Louise announced her arrival with a yell. Said the doctors: "We've got a nice, healthy, normal baby."

10. Still reeling from the tragedy of the Peoples Temple which had many followers in San Francisco, the city was stunned anew on Nov. 27 when Mayor George Moscone and City Supervisor (councilman) Harvey Milk were shot to death at City Hall.

About an hour after the killings, Dan White, a former fireman and policeman, surrendered and was charged with two counts of murder. White had recently resigned as a city supervisor, then changed his mind and asked Moscone to reappoint him. Moscone refused.

White was elected on a law-and-order platform, and during his tenure had heated disputes over homosexual rights with Milk, the first avowed homosexual to win city public office.

Tech Adjusts Night Registration Period

Texas Tech has found it necessary to slightly adjust the registration period for evening classes due to the conflict caused by Christmas and New Years falling on Mondays.

Ordinarily, 5 1/2 days are allowed for evening class registrations; this year only 4 1/2 days will be available.

Dates and times for evening class registration for the spring semester will be Jan. 3-5, noon through 8 p.m.; Jan. 6, 8 a.m. through noon; and Jan. 8, noon through 8 p.m.

Classes begin Jan. 11. A full page schedule of the evening classes will appear in the Jan. 1 edition of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Students seeking a degree should receive counseling through the appropriate academic dean's office.

add to the inflation rate, will also mean a larger U.S. trade deficit — and further damage to the dollar.

6. The dollar's counting drop on foreign exchange markets focused attention on serious problems in the U.S. economy. Inflation at home and a large trade deficit were at the root of the dollar's fall, which continued unabated despite the Carter administration's actions and appeals to the public to hold down prices and wage increases.

The Treasury and Federal Reserve Board increased intervention in foreign exchange markets and sharply increased domestic interest rates in an effort to shore up the beleaguered currency, but these steps failed to stabilize the dollar appreciably.

At year's end, the economy received another blow when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries increased crude oil prices in 1979 by 14.5 percent. The increase, which is bound to

Clip 'n' Cook

COPENHAGEN CASSEROLE
4 fresh zucchini
squash (about 2 lbs.)
5 cherry tomatoes, halved
1 cup diced cooked ham or beef
4 tsp. butter
3 tsp. flour
2 cups half-and-half (light cream)
Salt and pepper
1 cup shredded Danish Havarti or Samsos cheese, loosely packed
1 egg yolk
Dash cayenne pepper
Chopped parsley, for garnish
Trim zucchini. Parboil whole in salted water for 5 minutes. Drain. Cool. Slice 1/4-inch thick. Arrange zucchini, meat and cherry tomatoes in a greased, shallow 7x12-inch baking dish. Melt 2 tablespoons butter and drizzle over casserole. Bake in a 400-degree F. oven for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, melt remaining butter in a medium-size saucepan. Blend in flour to make a smooth paste. Gradually add half-and-half, stirring constantly with a wire whip. Cook over medium heat until mixture thickens. Add shredded cheese, salt and pepper to taste. Bring just to boil. Stir a small amount of sauce into egg yolk. Then return to pan. Heat just to boiling, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add cayenne. Spoon over zucchini casserole. Garnish with chopped parsley to serve. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Doctor: My husband has Parkinson's disease. He is 65 years old. He now takes L-dopa, and it controls the tremors to a certain extent. We have heard of surgery for Parkinson's. Can you tell us about it? There are many Parkinson's patients hoping for a cure for this terrible condition. — Mrs. C.M.T.

Brain surgery has been done to relieve Parkinson's symptoms, but it is not common. It involves cryosurgery (freezing) of a tiny segment of the mid-brain (thalamus), where the tremor originates. This is effective when only one side of the body is affected by the tremor, the rigidity and the slowness of movement characteristic of Parkinson's. But Parkinson's usually affects both sides, so such surgery is seldom appropriate. With one-sided symptoms surgery has provided long-term results, but it is most effective when performed at an earlier age (about 50). When attempted on older persons with two-sided symptoms, surgery has had generally poor results.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
For years, the theory that a bust measurement has some relative effect on your IQ has bothered me. Dolly Parton is bright, but no cup should runneth over with that much knowledge. It could give you headaches. Out of a computer programmer at De Pauw University comes a new theory. They have found a possible correlation between hip sizes and grade point averages, giving rise to a new theory that the bigger the hips...the better...the grades. As I emerged from the shower last week I surveyed my new-found asset. I hadn't always been that smart. In fact, there was a time back in high school when I was lucky to pass showers. I was wallowing a spoonful of cottage cheese around in my mouth when my friend, Mayva, came in for a visit. "Are you dieting again?" she asked. "Let us just say I'm trying to shave few points off my IQ." "That doesn't make any sense." I told her about the new theory from Greencastle, Ind. "I'm not saying this to be unkind," said Mayva, "but I don't think you're as smart as you look." "What do you mean by a crack like that?" "I mean anyone with hips like yours should never wear hip huggers." "These are not hip huggers. They're slacks that won't go up any farther. And you should talk. I saw you last summer when you came back from your vacation. If you had put on a lace dress, you'd have looked like a picture window." "Look, friend, I wasn't the only one who went to open house at the school and got wedged in a desk and they had to take the bolts out of the floor." "You said at the time that could have happened to anyone," I said defensively. "I lied!" "What are we doing, Mayva?" I asked. "This is just some dumb survey and there probably isn't a word of truth to it." "You're right," laughed Mayva, helping herself to a piece of German chocolate cake. "Who has to know whether I'm a candidate for Mensa International or a Weight Watchers scholarship?" "Luckily I have hips smart enough to know when to leave a room."

Unfortunately, there is no cure in sight for this gradually progressive disease, although medicines, as levodopa (L-dopa) are effective in control. It is doubtful that surgery is the answer in your husband's case, but you should discuss it with his physician, since the issue has been raised in your minds. He probably will have to continue with his present drug treatment and he should not place too great a hope on surgery. There are a great many Parkinson's patients (between one and two million). One reason for the increase is, paradoxically, the effectiveness of control drugs, which permits longer lifespans for victims. Also people are living longer, and Parkinson's is a disease of older persons.

Dear Doctor: I would like to ask what nuclear sclerosis is. One of my good friends was told by her doctor that she has this. That was two years ago. The doctors did nothing for her, but she was told to come back in a year. She has good eyesight with her bifocals. She is in her 80s. We would appreciate your comment. — Mrs. H.B.S.

The doctor probably referred to changes in the center of the lens — a cataract. Such changes occur very slowly, which accounts for the long intervals between checkups. So long as she has good vision with her glasses there is no need for treatment. The sclerosis refers to lessened blood circulation, in this instance, to the nuclear (center) section of the lens. By 80, most of us can expect some degree of that. It doesn't mean she will necessarily become blind.

Dear Doctor: My eight-year-old daughter has to go to the bathroom once during the night. She does not wake up. I am the one who has to bring her. She always has been like this. Otherwise, she wets. She has been checked and everything showed negative. She is the youngest of four. The others have no problem. I was told she would outgrow it, and it was suggested she take tranquilizers. I am opposed to that. — Mrs. L.B.

GO BANANAS
Banana slices keep their creamy white color longer if they are dipped in a little orange juice before they are arranged on a white cake.

So am I — opposed, that is, to the tranquilizers for this. This is not your usual BW problem. It would be interesting to know just when you awaken her for the nocturnal trip to the bathroom. If it is in the early a.m. I might suggest you try gradually lengthening the time before awakening her. Try a half hour or an hour later for a few weeks. Then gradually extend that time. She may have developed this urination quirk quite innocently by habit. Since you tell me she has been checked for physical abnormalities (which might otherwise be strongly suspected), she most likely will outgrow this in time.

Confidential to L.M.G.: There are so many possible causes for your 82-year-old grandmother's dizziness, I cannot comment specifically on any one. I have one thought, though, for elderly folks who are taking medication, as you say your grandmother is. Sometimes an adult dose of medicine used for a very old person can be too strong, just as an adult dosage might be too strong for a child. Allowances must be made for both age and weight. The next time you see her doctor ask about the possibility of reevaluating her dosages.

Dear Doctor: What is the difference in the terms tachycardia and fibrillation? — S.G.

Both refer to disturbed heart rhythms. The first means the heart is beating too fast (racing). The second (fibrillation) means it has an irregular rhythm.

The booklet "Dizzy Spells" discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

If we believe we can, we can.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: We hear so much these days about "The Right to Live." Well, what about "The Right to Die?" There must be millions of people who, like myself, feel useless, redundant, tired and just plain exhausted from fighting the battles of everyday existence. (I would hardly call it living.)

We would welcome a painless, socially acceptable way to end our lives. How much more desirable death would be than the lonely succession of depressing days and nights which seem to be our lot.

Another advantage in addition to freeing ourselves from the agonies of a joyless life would be the opportunity to donate our organs and make them available to people who have something to contribute and want to go on living.

Since your voice is heard throughout the land, I hope you will say something positive about this concept of suicide without stigma. — J.B. Of Rockville, Md.

Dear J.B.: Your letter called to mind one I received several years ago. I hunted it up and believe it is a far better response than anything I might say. Here it is:

"Dear Ann Landers: I have a message for all those people who tell you they are tired of living, thinking of killing themselves, or have already tried to and failed.

"I am sick of reading about you. I don't care how wretched your life is or how miserable and rejected you feel. If you have no interest in life for yourself, live for all the people who love life and died too soon. Live for the men who died in that senseless war in Vietnam 10,000 miles from home in some damned rice paddy. Live for those 57,000 people who were killed in highway accidents last year. I'll bet every one of them would like to be alive today.

"I once considered suicide when I suffered a crushing disappointment. I was sure life wasn't worth living. But after some serious soul-searching, I came to the conclusion I had no right to kill myself. I did not give myself life and I had no right to put an end to it. So I flushed the 50 sleeping pills down the toilet and went to work teaching retarded children. I will never think of suicide again. These kids need me. I now know what I'm here for. — Rye, New York."

I responded, "Dear Rye: You've told your story to millions of people and I'm sure you connected with many. Thanks for laying it on the line. For someone out there, today's column may be the most important thing he or she has read in his or her entire life. And isn't THAT a priceless word? Life."

Dear Ann: In a recent discussion, someone brought up the question do nuns of the Catholic Church who have withdrawn from the Order for one reason or another receive Social Security?

One of the men present said, "No, they do not." I refuted his remark, saying that the Catholic Church and the Sisterhood would never perpetrate such an injustice, that women who have dedicated 10, 20, or even more years to the Church would certainly be covered under Social Security.

My friend insists I am wrong. Am I? — Tampa Inquirer

Dear Tampa: Some Orders offer Social Security benefits. Others do not. It's a democratic decision made by the Province (or area served) for each Order. If the Order from which a nun leaves is covered by Social Security, she will receive benefits according to what has been paid into the fund — just as any secular employee.

DEADLINES

Any information for a daily edition must be in our office two days in advance of publication.

Sunday edition deadlines are 5 p.m.; the preceding Tuesday for articles with pictures and noon the preceding Wednesday for articles only. Only Friday and Saturday weddings will appear on Sunday; wedding announcements must run within five days of the event.

Engagement announcements must be submitted at least five weeks prior to the wedding date.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

One of the standard psychic bids is the inhibitory bid in which a player who is going to be declarer decides to inhibit a lead.

The bid has been known to work. It also has been known to fail miserably.

West might well have opened a spade if South had bid three notrump directly over North's two clubs. But after South's preliminary bid of two diamonds, West had no trouble putting his hand on the deuce of diamonds. West had simply asked himself the question: "Why did South bid two diamonds when he was going to three notrump?"

The answer was that South did not want a diamond lead. This particular psychic call was pointless to say the least. South had a really good hand. For all South knew there might well be a club slam. South should have made the simple cue bid of two spades and continued with a jump to five clubs.

A diamond lead would not hurt the five-club contract. South would win in dummy, lead dummy's queen of clubs, rise with his ace after East showed out, discard dummy's losing diamonds on his own good spades and make his contract.

Escape Doldrums With Crewel Kit

If you've had about enough of cold weather, snow, post-holiday sales, and winter doldrums, think about April. The trees will be budding, the birds will be chirping, and tulips will be blooming. You can start enjoying April by doing your spring cleaning in January, or a more pleasant task of stitching this beautiful Wintergreens Mini Bell Pull or Panel.

The crewel-embroidery design boasts a beautiful array of winter trees and brightly colored birds. Hang it on the wall in any room of your home, complimented with an assortment of plants, and spring will abound. The kit includes silk-screened natural linen cotton fabric, crewel yarn, two needles, "pinecone" wood finials and dowels to make bell pull ends, and instructions for 5" x 21 1/4" finished design. Order Kit No. 14318 for $12.99 plus $1.95 postage and handling. Creative Home Crafts is required to collect and pay state tax in Texas.

Gypsum Board Available
With Special Finishes

By ANDY LANG
Associated Press Writer

Q. — I have to finish my attic within the next couple of months. I would like to use gypsum board, but I didn't do too well with it a few years ago because of trouble with the painting. Are preprinted sheets of gypsum board available?

A. — You can get gypsum board with any kind of finish you want, although the painting of it should not pose any particular problem. If your lumber yard or building supply dealer does not stock gypsum board with special finishes, he can get it for you. Should you wish to see the various types of finishes, including those that simulate wall paneling, check your phone book to find a dealer with a larger inventory.

Q. — What type of baseboard molding would you recommend to harmonize with speckled vinyl tiles I intend to put down in my kitchen? Would light or dark wood molding be better?

A. — Why not try to get a vinyl molding? The dealer who sells the tiles usually has the proper harmonizing baseboard molding.

Q. — I want to put some electrical outlets in my house. I have had some experience with electricity and am sure I can handle the job. The problem is whether there are laws against doing this kind of work without an electrician's license. A. — Most restrictions of this kind are regulated by local ordinances. Therefore, check with local authorities. An educated guess is that you will not be allowed to handle the project. However, there are some communities which will permit you to make the installation but require a final inspection by one of their electrical inspectors.

Q. — One of the floors in our house is painted. I would like to remove the paint, but don't like the idea of using a paint remover for such a large area. I have a belt sander. Will that take off the paint?

A. — Yes, but it would be a tough, long task. You will be better off to rent a floor sander. Tell the dealer to give you the proper paper for the removal of paint. Be sure to remove all furniture from the room, and take down drapes, curtains, etc. Sanding the floor with a large machine is also quite a job, but not as difficult as using a belt sander.

(The technique of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, stain, bleach, remover, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," which can be obtained by sending 35 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column, but individual correspondence cannot be undertaken.)

West Germany Issues Stamps

By SYD KRONISH
Associated Press Writer

Sections of stained glass windows of the Frauenkirche (Church of Our Lady) in Munich, were the basic designs of the 1978 Christmas stamps of the Federal Republic of Germany and West Berlin. Also issued by West Germany were a set of three stamps in the Impressionist Painting series, five in the "Industry and Technology" series and five in the "Castles" series.

The Christmas adhesives were semi-postals with the surcharges going to the benefit of the Federal Working Association of Free Welfare Work in that country, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

Each Christmas stamp was designed in block form depicting the window and the section used for the actual stamp. The blocks bore the imprint in German "Happy Christmas to All." Above the motif was the inscription 1978 Christmas Stamp. The 30-pfennig plus 15 was for West Berlin and the 50-pf plus 25 was for West Germany.

The set of three stamps honoring German Impressionist painters depicted one work of art for each of the painters commemorated. Illustrations were: "Easter at the Walchensee" by Lovis Corinth (1858-1925) on the 50-pf, "Horseman on the Strand" by Max Lieberman (1847-1935) on the 70-pf, and "Lady With a Cat" by Max Slevogt (1868-1932) on the 120-pf. The artists' names and dates were on each stamp.

The first stamps in the German "Industries and Technologies" and the "Castles" sets were in coil form. The industrial stamp was a 60-pf and showed x-ray apparatus, while the 20-pf castle stamp depicted Pfaueninsel Castle.

The Winter Edition of the Minkus Stamp Journal contains many interesting items and stories of interest to collectors. One yarn tells about the intelligent mammal, "The Friendly Dolphin," with illustrations of stamps depicting dolphins issued by countries around the world. Another story dwells on the subject of trees and their use as stamp designs.

The wise old owls have been pictured on stamps for many years, including the block of four issued by the U.S. this year. A brief report on owl stamps is one of the special features.

Also noted are: New Issues Listings by Topics, New Issues Index, and several other articles for collectors both old and new.

The cost of the Journal is $1. It can be purchased directly from: Minkus Stamp Journal, 116 W. 32nd St., New York City, N.Y. 10001.

Commemorative Stamp Honors Kennedy

The U.S. Postal Service today provided additional information about the 1979 commemorative stamp to honor United States Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

The first day of issue ceremony for the 15-cent Kennedy stamp will take place January 12 at the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C.

Senator Kennedy (1925-1968) was elected from New York State in 1964 after serving as U.S. Attorney General. He was selected for commemoration because he exemplified the spirit of an important era in American life and was one of America's most prominent political figures in recent decades, the Postal Service said.

Bradbury Thompson of Riverside, Conn., designed the Kennedy stamp. He based the single-color engraved design upon a photograph by Stanley Tretick of the Senator in a pensive mood with his chin in his left hand. The photograph, suggested by Mrs. Ethel Kennedy for the stamp design, is a family favorite.

The stamp is blue in color and square in format. At the top left of the design, in two lines of white type, is "Robert F. Kennedy" and "USA 15c."

V. Jack Ruther of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing modeled the Kennedy stamp. It was engraved by Albert Saavedra (lettering and numerals) and Thomas R. Hipschen (vignette), also of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The stamp is being printed by the itaglio method. The image area size of a single stamp is 1.075 x 1.075 inches or 27.30 x 27.30 millimeters. The overall size, from perforated side to perforated side, is 1.225 x 1.225 inches or 31.11 x 31.11 millimeters. There will be 48 stamps per pane and one plate number.

Procedures for ordering first day of issue cancellations are as follows:

Customers affixing stamps. Customers are encouraged to purchase their own stamps at their local post offices and affix them to their own envelopes. Covers bearing customer affixed stamps will be given preferential service. All envelopes must be addressed and peelable return address labels are recommended for this purpose. Stamps must be affixed in the upper right corner of the envelope, approximately one quarter inch from the top and one quarter inch from the right side. Return addresses should be placed on the right side of the envelopes at least 1/2 of an inch up from the bottom. A filler of postal card thickness should be inserted in each cover. Not later than January 27 — orders must be postmarked by that date — the envelopes may be forwarded to "First Day Cancellations, Postmaster, Washington, DC 20013." No remittance is required.

Postal Service affixing stamps. Except for affixing stamps and addressing orders, follow the procedures listed above. Orders should be addressed to "Robert F. Kennedy Stamp, Postmaster, Washington, DC 20013." The cost is 15 cents per stamp to be affixed to covers. Do not send cash. Personal checks in the exact amount will be accepted as remittance for orders up to the limit of 50 covers. Postage stamps are unacceptable as payment. Orders must be postmarked no later than January 27.

Storehouse Of Ideas Found At Gardens

By EARL ARONSON
Associated Press Writer

A visit to the fabulous Longwood Gardens at Kennett Square, Pa., is difficult to relate in one column. Our advice is for you to go to the vast layout to see for yourself.

There are sculptured grounds, conservatories, fountains, greenhouses and an arboretum, all the brain child of the late Pierre S. duPont, who acquired the property in 1906.

Because of the many facets of Longwood, we will limit our view at this time to the balcony and window gardens, a storehouse of ideas for city dwellers as well as other gardeners.

Longwood's aim here is to prove the "widespread awareness that plants add immeasurably to our daily lives. As objects of art, as architectural elements, as textural additions, plants direct the view, soften the framing, finish the setting..." the developers say.

To prove their contention that opportunities to garden abound in an apartment setting, the planners say "plants on balconies or on window ledges enhance the relationship between indoor and outdoor space."

In the conservatory, beyond the ivy geranium, hanging fuchsia and creeping lig on high columns (among other magnificent plantings) is the Balcony Garden, reached on a gentle ramp leading to what appears to be a small house. Inside are a series of rooms with differing window treatments.

Gardener's Balcony has panels that can be dismantled in warm weather. The panels enclose the perimeter and permit year-round gardening.

"Dining al Fresco" is the theme of the second balcony, where a table and chairs, easily folded for storage, are surrounded by greenery. There are hanging pots of ivy and Boston fern and other potted plants.

To show the pleasant effect possible with inexpensive and homemade things, plants grow out of old fence rails.

And in the "Balcony for All Seasons," triangular planters are filled with hardy groundcovers, with bulbs or annuals at the appropriate season. A small dogwood lends accent, along with bird feeder and bench.

"City Form" features a sculpture of Euphorbia plants, designed as the focal point of the apartment.

The five example gardens are "life-size models emphasizing design in a restricted space, safety and unique cultural requirements."

Window-sill gardens are another feature. Two spacious windows, rescued from a 1920s building being demolished, have sills lined with copper pebble trays. Another set of windows has adjustable shelves to hold potted vegetables and herbs — a kitchen-setting idea. A three-sided bay window holds succulents.

There are colorful window boxes. One contained vegetables, leafy cabbage, purple potatoes and ornamental pepper. Another had vegetables and flowers — geranium, apple mint, tuberous begonia and vinca.

Advice from Longwood: "Balconies are often small yet they offer an opportunity to extend living space both physically and visually ... Arranging the area to accommodate people and plants is a design challenge ... If the balcony is to be functional, it must have adequate floor space for walking and sitting ... Visual space is just as important as physical space."

"Guard against disturbing neighbors; fertilizer and soil stains; dripping water. "Safety takes top priority. Wind velocity increases with height, and even the smallest pot can be a lethal weapon. Everything, containers, plants, furniture and tools, must be securely fastened..."

The balcony gardener, the advice continues, "needs to closely observe his special situation to better understand the requirements of the plants he chooses ... Container plants with limited soil from which to draw moisture and nutrients need regular watering and fertilizing." At least six hours of sunlight is required daily.

Readers Offer Handy Suggestions

By The Associated Press

Some suggestions from readers:

"For years I had the problem of my children tracking mud all over the house after they had played outside. My husband told me about the upside-down brushes they have at golf courses for the golfers to remove the mud from their spiked shoes. I had him buy one of them (he had to go to a wholesale sporting-goods store) and attach it to the front porch outside the door. Now everyone rubs the bottoms of his shoes on it before entering the house — and no more mud problem. If the regular golf brushes are not available, an ordinary scrubbing brush, attached upside down, would probably do just as well."

"It is sometimes difficult to get the dirt from the bottom of a flower vase. A simple solution is to mix equal parts of water and vinegar and let it remain in the vase overnight. A thorough rinsing the next day will clean the entire inside of the vase. Of course, be sure to remove the flowers from the vase before giving it the treatment, as I am not certain what the vinegar would do to the flowers."

"I once read in your column that re-silvering a mirror is not a job for the amateur because of the strong chemicals that must be used. I agree with you, but have some advice if there are only small scratches that must be repaired. If you put aluminum foil in the area behind the scratches, they will be less conspicuous and in some cases almost invisible."

"Once a can of oil paint has been opened and part of it used, the remainder gets a skin-like covering on it after a period of time no matter how tightly you have closed the can. I find that one way to prevent the formation of this skin is to pour a few drops of turpentine into the can just before you close it, seal the cover as best you can, then store the paint upside down."

"An electrician came to our house to put in a new outlet and gave us an excellent tip which I would like to pass along to your readers. He turned on one of the lamps, then took a cloth out of his bag. He turned off the light, then wiped the bulb quickly with the cloth. He showed me how much dust had come off on the rag, then pointed out that the dust was cutting the light by about 25 percent. After he left, I went around the house doing the same thing to every bulb. Believe it or not, the difference was amazing. So, if you want to have more light in your house, do what I did and be pleasantly surprised. If a single bulb gives off more light, you may turn on fewer bulbs and save money."

"Years ago, when I had to put in a new pane of glass, I painted the putty a few days later to match the window frame. A neighbor showed me how to mix a little paint with the putty before applying it. I tried it recently and it worked. It saved me the trouble of painting."

(Thirty-five subjects are covered in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Doctor Develops Home Treatment that
RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS HELPS DRY UP ACNE-PIMPLES . . .

QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE 15 MINUTE HOME TREATMENT MUST SHOW IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT OR—YOUR MONEY BACK!

A leading cosmetic laboratory has developed a simple home treatment that rinses away blackheads, helps dry up acne pimples, and shrinks enlarged pores. The name of this medicated product is QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla, dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" are kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads, and other foreign inclusions. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws out waste matter from the pores. In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your wash cloth. Women 35 and over will enjoy the skin tightening experience as the masque relaxes tired facial muscles and eases tension lines on face and throat. If you suffer the agony of blackheads, acne-pimples, and enlarged pores, give yourself this home treatment and see the breath-taking results. Ask for it by name, QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE.

Cattlemen Ponder Ponder Cold Spell's Effect

By JIM STEIERT
A-J Correspondent

HEREFORD — A cold front that recently retained an icy grip over the area for the better part of a week has local cattlemen with stocker calves on wheat pasture concerned over how the daily gain column will add up at the end of the grazing season this spring.

When the mercury plummets as it did in mid-December, cattle begin using energy for producing heat, rather than adding pounds of beef, and pasture performance and the pocketbooks of producers can suffer.

of the fall grazing season have also caused health problems among the huge herds of stockers grazing the sprawling and unusually lush wheat pastures available here this year.

Sub-zero temperature took a toll among cattle in poor condition on the area wheat spreads recently, and according to a local veterinarian and an operator of a feedlot specializing in cattle conditioning, prolonged cold weather could prove costly in what has thus far appeared an ideal cattle season.

"We have a lot more cattle, and many of them are younger cattle this year, so we are having more sickness among the herds. The small cattle are especially susceptible to shipping fever, pneumonia and diptheria," commented Dr. Aaron Hutto, a prominent Hereford veterinarian.

"The really cold weather has definitely hurt. It has killed a lot of the cattle that were barely hanging on, and the gains on all the cattle are going to be hurt. If the real cold weather continues for very long, the gains just won't be good at all," he stated.

"I've seen conditions when cattle went through a prolonged cold spell on wheat pasture and had actually lost weight when they were herded across the scales at feedyards in the spring. We sure don't want to get into a situation like that," Hutto continued.

STOCKER CATTLE — Small stocker cattle such as these endured icy temperatures in mid-December in the Hereford area. As a result, their overall daily rate of gain may be down somewhat at the end of the wheat grazing season. Weakened cattle died as a result of cold temperatures, and during the cold snap most cattle spent energy staying warm rather than putting on pounds. (Correspondent Photo by Jim Steiert)

Wheat Cartel Plan For World Market Mullied By Farmers

RITZVILLE, Wash. (UPI) — Wheat farmers are considering the possibility of forming a cartel to market their crop, much like the oil-producing nations' OPEC.

Bill Zagelow, president of the Washington Association of Wheat Growers, said farmers are interested because they have been getting very low prices in comparison to escalating costs over the last couple of years.

tion to a cartel arrangement, several obstacles remain between the concept and reality.

For starters, he questioned whether the U.S. government would go along with such an arrangement.

"Recent experience would tell us that it is politically more popular to keep food prices down in this country than to do anything that would raise them even the slightest bit.

Texas Cowbelle Chart Beef Fete

The second annual Texas Cowbelle Beef Cook-off will be held Mar. 13 during the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Convention in Houston. The cook-off will be at the Albert Thomas Convention Center.

The purpose of the cook-off is to promote beef recipes and an understanding of the various cuts of beef and their proper preparation.

Ten finalists, selected from recipes submitted by the Feb. 15 deadline, will be given an expense-paid trip to Houston for the cook-off.

A Texas beef cook-off champion will be chosen and sent to represent the Lone Star State at the National Beef Cook-off in Omaha Sept. 26-28.

First place winner at the state cook-off will receive $300, second will receive $200 and third place will earn $100. Contestants must be 18 years or older, hold non-professional food status and be a resident of Texas.

Entry forms for the cook-off can be obtained by writing the Beef Cook-off chairman, Marian Balke, P.O. Box 504, Brenham 77833.

"It may be a fact of life that until the U.S. and other countries can rid themselves of their cheap food policies, any type of international agreement will not be in the best interest of farmers."

Zagelow said another question is whether the countries involved can cooperate enough to achieve a pricing arrangement.

"Historically, cooperation on pricing has been a dismal failure. Somebody has always cut the price and the agreement has always failed.

"This does not suggest that efforts should not be continued to find some type of grain agreement that will work. Trade deficits and weak currencies are a problem in Canada and Australia as well as in the United States. It just might be possible that economic necessity may become the mother of a workable solution."

A final question toward cooperative agreements is which countries would reduce production to maintain reserves when wheat is in oversupply.

"Our friendly competitors like to talk about increasing the U.S. loan rate to raise the world wheat price.

"But when the topics of reducing production or maintaining reserves are brought up, they like to change the subject.

"Similarly, when U.S. growers are asked which share of the world market they would be willing to give up for concessions on other matters, they lose interest.

"Cheap government food policies, market sharing, production adjustment, reserves and other considerations must be dealt with before a cartel or some other grain agreement will ever work in the best interest of wheat farmers."

The local veterinarian reported that death losses are "about normal" within individual herds, although cattle are far more numerous in the area this year and work with the stocker cattle is much more hectic for vets this season.

"Death losses are about the same as always within most herds. We just have so many more cattle that the losses seem higher. A lot of the losses depend on the job the operator is doing, but keeping death losses down to five percent is doing a pretty good job, especially among these lighter cattle," Hutto pointed out.

"We had a lot of variation in the weather back during the early part of the fall that hurt us on many of these stocker cattle," added Elmo Hall, manager of Western Feed Yard Inc. of Hereford.

"What has probably hurt the worst was when we had some real warm days in September, followed by a long, cold rain. That caused a lot of respiratory problems among the cattle and sent some of them out on wheat in a weakened condition," he related.

"The cold weather is going to hurt us some, not only out on the wheat, but in the feedyards too. Cattle using energy to stay warm instead of growing are going to run their cost of gain up, whether they're out on wheat pasture or in the feed pen," stated Hall.

Hall rated the quality of the wheat pasture available here this year as "better than normal," however, and with warming weather conditions, cattle should begin putting on pounds of beef once more.

John Fuston, Deaf Smith County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service executive director pointed out that the cold conditions might have one benefit to those running cattle on wheat pasture, in that the amazing rate of growth being registered by this year's wheat crop will be slowed.

"We were having some bloat problems earlier, and we needed to slow some of this wheat down a bit. — It was about to joint out. A lot of the wheat was getting so rank we weren't going to be able to graze it off fast enough," stated Fuston.

According to Fuston, prospects are still good for continued excellent pasture conditions throughout the winter, however.

"There is good grazing at this time over both our dryland and irrigated areas. We have enough subsoil moisture to get us through in good shape until the last of February, when the wheat starts growing again," Fuston commented.

According to Hall, a few stocker cattle continue to trickle into the area.

"Most of the cattle are already out on pasture by now, but a few late fields are opening up, and some cattle are coming in. With the right weather, and some stalks and minerals to go along with the wheat, stockers should still post some good gains. If we can get them through this weather crisis in good shape, a lot of the cattle out there on wheat pasture feed right now will go right into our local feedyards at 600-700 pounds this spring," Hall concluded.

U.S. Farm Exports Hit Record Value, Volume

By RODERICK TURNBULL
Kansas City Board of Trade

KANSAS CITY — In the fiscal year recently ended, the United States shipped overseas agricultural products with a record value of 27.3 billion dollars and in record volume at 122 million metric tons.

Included in these totals were many commodities, but the big bulk consisted of grains and soybeans. Obviously, they were not all sold on any one day nor shipped in one day. The export business is an around the clock affair and the logistics involved are tremendous. But it is interesting to take a look at just one day's business in one commodity to get an idea of the scope of this industry of moving food products grown on U.S. farms to somebody who eats them someplace around the world.

High Quality Seed Urged For Cotton

COLLEGE STATION — Although seed cost represents only a small portion of the total expenses of growing cotton, high quality planting seed and profitable cotton production go hand-in-hand.

That contention comes from Dr. Robert B. Metzger, cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

What does high quality seed mean to the cotton producer?

"First, it can give producers a head start in getting their crop up," notes Metzger. Quality seed is essential for planting early in the season when unfavorable weather is more likely. Of course, if planting is delayed long enough, even poor quality seed can usually result in some stand. High quality seed can cope with a wider range of planting conditions and still come to a uniform stand.

"Second, high quality seed is one of the best weapons against seedless disease that is responsible for much replanting over the state each year," says the Texas A&M University System specialist. Most replanting is usually done after the optimum planting date, and this can spell trouble for the rest of the season since its results in late crop.

"Knowing the quality of your seed before planting it is just as important as

On a Friday of a recent week, the following export business in wheat was reported:

"Egypt requested offers Nov. 28 on 150,000 tons of wheat under P. L. 480, shipment Dec. 12-Jan. 12, hard winter likely at current relationships. Norway booked 20,000 tons of No. 2 hard at $3.81 3/4 or 50 1/4 cents a bushel over Kansas City December 10-30. Gulf Dec. 10-30. Iran requested offers over the weekend on 380,000 tons No. 2 white or hard winter, some hint of 12 percent, shipment 95,000 tons monthly January to April, but with uncertainty as to credit. Korea received offers for two vessels, first with e.t.a. of Dec. 7 at 10,000 tons No. 2 western white, 9,000 tons No. 2 hard 11 percent, 3,000 tons No. 2 spring 14.5 percent; e.t.a. Dec. 13 at 15,400 tons No. 2 western white, 9-

100 tons No. 2 hard 11 percent, 3,500 tons No. 2 spring 14.5 percent."

This information, selected here for just one day, but not for any particular reason, was part of a daily market report distributed by the Milling & Baking News of Kansas City, a grain trade publication. Subscribers pay a fee for the report. The Milling & Baking News checks many sources, including all the major exporters, for its information.

It doesn't claim that it gets the news on every export transaction, but it is able to portray the trend in the business along with prevailing prices.

Shipment dates are the dates on which the buyer wants the wheat shipping allowing, as is indicated, some leeway such as in the Norway transaction "Dec. 10-30." The price on the Norway transaction was $3.81 3/4 a bushel which was 50 1/4 cents over the Kansas City December futures price for the day of the sale. The figures giving percentages are for the percentage of protein content in the wheat. And e.t.a. means estimated time of arrival.

It might help to think of the United States as a vast wholesale warehouse for wheat. In this warehouse, the U.S. has the five kinds of wheat grown by U.S. farmers, hard red winter, soft red winter, hard spring, western white and durum. The trouble is, it is not all in one warehouse. Each wheat has its own price based on the supply and demand factors that relate to that particular kind.

The buyer (importer) specifies the kind of wheat he wants and the protein percentage he expects.

To get the business, the exporter must be able to supply what the buyer wants and he is in competition with exporters all over the world. However, the United States apparently is the only country in the world that exports all five kinds of wheat in quantity. Also, about half of the U.S. wheat exports each year are of the hard red winter variety.

It will be noted that the importers of the wheat designated a variety of shipping dates and called for varying quantities. There can be all kinds of reasons for this. As an example, some countries have limited storage space. Others have port facilities not capable of handling big ships. The opposite can be true, too. Usually, cheaper freight rates apply on the bigger ships so some countries don't want to take delivery on small quantities.

Ordinarily, western white wheat, grown mostly in Idaho, Washington and Oregon, will be shipped from the Pacific Northwest or through the Great Lakes or down the Mississippi. Hard red goes mostly from the Gulf; soft red from the Gulf, Lake or Atlantic ports.

Some countries are known as "price buyers." This means that they are not as particular about the kind or quality as they are the cost. To put it bluntly, they are just like a lot of people who can't afford to be particular. Other countries need high protein wheats to blend with lower quality grain grown domestically.

The U.S. can supply just about any kind of wheat an importer wants, but obviously it takes some capabilities along with sufficient finances to deliver as ordered.

What applies to wheat relates similarly to other commodities. In one recent week, soybean exports at 24,897,000 bushels were inspected at the following ports for the destinations given:

Chicago to Canada 182,000 bushels; Duluth-Superior to Norway 647,000 bushels; Toledo to Canada 387,000 bushels; South Atlantic to Brazil 935,000 bushels; and to Spain 2,644,000 bushels; Mississippi River to West Germany 2,405,000 bushels, to Italy 756,000 bushels, to Jamaica 47,000 bushels, to Japan 204,000 bushels, to Mexico 892,000 bushels, to the Netherlands 3,284,000 bushels, to Spain 1,492,000 bushels and to Yugoslavia 294,000 bushels; South Korea 772,000 bushels, Mexico 1,117,000 bushels and China 1,014,000 bushels; East Gulf to Japan 3,578,000 bushels, to South Korea 772,000 bushels, Mexico 1,117,000 bushels and China 1,014,000 bushels; North Texas Gulf to Taiwan 966,000 bushels, to Dominican Republic 227,000 bushels, to Italy 1,420,000 bushels, and South Korea 896,000; Puget Sound 10,000 bushels to Japan; California 648,000 to Mexico.

Alfalfa Meet Set Jan. 10 At Roswell

ROSSELL (Special) — In response to continuing problems faced by alfalfa hay producers in the state, the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau is organizing an alfalfa-hay commodity committee which will hold a statewide meeting in here on Jan. 10.

L.E. "Pete" Davis, President of the Farm and Livestock Bureau has appointed Don Hatch, Chaves County hay producer to head this new statewide committee. According to Hatch, the location of the January meeting will be announced at a later date.

Hatch said two topics of concern at the meeting will be proposed federal hay grading standards and hay from the Navajo federal subsidized irrigation project being dumped on local markets.

"Right now the most important problem we face is the federal hay grading proposals, which we are opposed to because they would be time consuming, would add to hay producers costs and would just establish another government bureaucracy that we would have to deal with," Hatch said.

Regarding the hay from the Navajo Irrigation Project, Hatch said no one is upset at fair competition but, with federal money pouring into the reservation project, there is no way farmers in this state can compete when Navajo hay is dumped on the market at prices which undercut the going hay market rate.

Juvenile Offenders Problem Stirs Controversy

EDITOR'S NOTE - In the second of a three-part series, reporter Jack Douglas details what happens to juveniles who run afoul of the law and describes some of the difficulties encountered by police and juvenile authorities.

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock police are sometimes tagged the bad guys for apprehending juveniles suspected of committing major crimes within the community. After all, some say, the policeman's job is easier if certain youths are detained, because that means there is less crime in the streets.

On the other side, persons with agencies who wind up dealing with the youngsters the police take into custody could be considered the good guys, because their jobs — by state law — are to rehabilitate juveniles, not punish them.

But which comes first, the welfare of the community or the rehabilitation of many youths who unfortunately seem to be habitual criminals?

A youth between the ages of 10 and 16, who has been ruled a delinquent by a district judge, can be sent to a Texas Youth Council facility. Commitment to the council, the state's rehabilitation agency for juvenile delinquents, is the harshest punishment for a youth who is guilty of a crime.

However, the stay at a TYC training center — where persons found guilty of committing the most serious offenses are sent — is usually no more than 8½ to 14 months, according to local TYC parole officer Jimmy Ward. There are no prisons for juveniles, and TYC facilities do not offer maximum security.

Officials with TYC, as well as persons with the Lubbock County Juvenile Probation Office (JPO), stress they are doing their jobs the way they are told. "Under no circumstances shall a youth be placed in detention for punishment," a TYC rule reads.

"We've gone overboard with rehabilitation," says juvenile police Capt. Bill Cox. "You can't rehabilitate without first punishing for what's been done. They (juveniles) have to be convinced they've done something wrong," he added.

If the district attorney's office does send a youth's case to court, and the juvenile is ruled delinquent, the judge either places the youngster on formal probation or commits him to TYC. But the case's chances of even reaching the court seem unlikely, according to records.

Statistics show that from the beginning of the year through the end of October, the juvenile probation office filed 180 juvenile cases with the Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney's office, and out of that number, 165 of the petitions have been dismissed.

However, DA juvenile prosecutor Bonner Smith and former juvenile prosecutor Rick Howell said only about 2 percent of the cases they receive from JPO are refused. Smith and Howell say the rest of the dismissals are requested by JPO for various reasons.

"They (the DA's office) dismiss more than 2 percent on their own," said Lloyd Watts, administrator of the juvenile probation office here. "It's true — on occasion — if the kid's going OK, we do ask for a dismissal," he said.

Watts said many cases fall because of the lack of evidence gathered by the police department. He said many of the "line officers" are inexperienced and should be told by the county prosecutor what is needed.

Lack of evidence — "that's an easy way out," says Cox, for someone trying to find an excuse to dismiss a case. "There's not an officer out here who doesn't know what's needed."

The 20-year head of the police juvenile division adds, "That officer in the field knows more of what's going on than I do, because they're there and I'm not. We (Cox and other supervisors) read the books, but it doesn't work like that out on the field."

Several policemen suggested that for monetary reasons officials might be discouraged to go full force in committing a youth to TYC.

Watts explained that a program started three years ago by TYC sets a maximum number of juveniles the council feels will be committed to TYC from Sept. 1 through the end of October of each year. If the maximum is not reached, the county's juvenile probation office will receive $4,500 for each person under the quota at the end of the fiscal year. The figure will probably go up to $5,000 this year, Watts said.

Second In A Series

However, if the county goes over the maximum number of youths allotted to go to a training center, the allocation will be cut proportionately.

Watts said that at the end of October the number of juveniles from this county committed to TYC was five over the predicted 26. Therefore, the count must be under 21 this year for the Lubbock County Juvenile Probation Office to receive money from TYC.

Watts said the second year the program was in effect "we got behind," but that during first year JPO received $51,000 because the number of juveniles sent to TYC from Lubbock County was far below the maximum.

He said the money received in 1976 went toward special programs structured by JPO.

Asked if the JPO here is affected by the number of TYC commitments, Watts said, "Sure, money is lost...we lose our eligibility to collect more."

However, Watts and John Clinton, supervisor of the JPO intake unit, said the number of TYC commitments they seek is not dictated by the program.

Cox said the program might be "profitable" for the juvenile probation office, but eventually it causes a backlog of juvenile cases which might be delayed until after October.

Watts said he hopes whatever problems the juvenile justice system here is having can be eased once the district attorney's office changes hands at the first of the year, and that plans are in the making for all units within the system to get together on a regular basis and discuss what needs to be done.

However, Howell and Smith said their relationship with JPO is "usually pretty good." Howell said many of the problems they have to face in handling juvenile delinquents lie in the Texas Family Code passed into law in 1973. He said the law is too concerned with protecting a youth from being dubbed a criminal — even one who has been found guilty of rape, murder or robbery.

An interpretation of the code's Title 3, dealing with "delinquent children and children in need of supervision" reads, "consistent with the protection of the public interest, to remove from children committing unlawful acts the taint of criminality and the consequences of criminal behavior and to substitute a program of treatment, training and rehabilitation."

No matter what the court's disposition is in a juvenile case it "is not a conviction of crime, and does not impose any civil disability ordinarily resulting from a conviction or operate to disqualify the child in any civil service application or appointment," the law states.

The code stipulates when fingerprints and photographs of a juvenile are allowed, they must be destroyed once the person becomes 18 if there is no record of criminal conduct after the offender reaches 17 years old.

The law does not recognize — in juvenile cases — a trial, but instead refers to it as an adjudication hearing. If it has been ruled that the youth has committed a crime, he or she is not found "guilty," but "delinquent of conduct."

Howell said the juvenile, under law, cannot plead innocent or guilty, but must answer yes or no to all questions.

The law states that if the juvenile is found delinquent, authorities shall:

—Place the youth on probation for a period not to exceed one year, subject to extensions not to go over one year each. Probation may mean placing the youth in his own home or in the custody of a relative or other "fit person," placement in a suitable foster home or in a public or private institution or agency except the Texas Youth Council.

—Commit the youth to the Texas Youth Council.

"All dispositions terminate when the child reaches his 18th birthday," the law states.

Smith said it comes as quite a shock for some persons, "once they've reached that magic age of 17," who all of a sudden realize the crimes they've committed in past years can now send them to the penitentiary. Some don't realize it until it's too late.

Cox says he sees a "completely different attitude" in a youth after he is sent up to the police department's juvenile division for the second or third time. "They seem to be thinking, 'I know you can't do anything to me,'" he said. "The parents have the same attitude. They say, 'Well, you didn't do anything the first time.'"

The captain adds, "If we're trying to help these kids, we're stopping too short. Whether getting more strict or not will help, I don't know. It worked with my kids." Next: The Texas Youth Council

Navy Jet Crashes In Corpus Bay

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A U.S. Navy jet trainer crashed into Corpus Christi Bay Thursday afternoon, and a rescue helicopter dispatched to the scene had to set down in the bay after its rear rotor became entangled in a parachute.

Navy officers said at least one person aboard the jet ejected, and it was his parachute that became entangled in the rotor. A spokesman said two men were aboard the TA4-J jet, stationed at the 22nd Training Squadron at the Kingsville Naval Air Station. Their condition was not immediately known, said Journalist 1st Class C.C. Voss. No one aboard the helicopter was hurt, said Navy Lt. Cmdr. Mary Cooperman.

Sign Up For Independence

When young people sign up for newspaper route work, they are really signing up for independence. The kind of independence that goes with earning your own money, running your own business and dealing with people on a one-to-one basis.

Our carriers are young business men and women. They provide a vital service, handle their own finances and reap a handsome profit from their efforts. What better training to prepare them for the future?

If you are interested in stepping into the business world and declaring your own independence, contact our carrier manager right now. He'll give you all of the important facts about carrier work. Then, if you are still interested, he'll provide the pen and show you where to sign... even if your name is John Hancock.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
 When we take our Christmas tree down, we save a bucketful of pine needles to be used as a deodorizer in the bathroom.

We crumble them and then burn them in the incense burners and the fragrance is lovely, not to mention there is no expense.

We enjoy reading your hints very much. — Mrs. John J. Lasar

DEAR HELOISE:
 Freeze fresh cranberries, after sorting them, in amounts you normally use.

When you are ready to use them, if you need them chopped, put in blender and blend away. Do not fill blender too full at one time.

It is faster, easier and a lot less messy if they are still frozen when put in the blender. — Mrs. Robert Handy

DEAR HELOISE:
 While at a bridal shower the bride-to-be was given a piece of ceramic cookware. I remarked to another guest that I was glad everyone knew how to clean it. The other guest said she did not know how, so here goes.

Using a soft, damp cloth, apply baking soda and clean the cookware as you would china. The cooked food will come off, leaving no scratches.

If some of the food is baked on (hard to remove), just use a nylon net pompon scrubber and baking soda. It will come clean as a whistle. — Beckie Jaye

DEAR HELOISE:
 As we pack our holiday decorations away at the season's end, I write a "Memory Letter." It contains highlights of our holiday season along with the family problems at the time. Each family member tells what accomplishments he or she anticipates in the coming year. The letter is then sealed and packed away with the Christmas things.

On Christmas Eve the following year the family opens the letter and compares accomplishments to last year's promises, etc.

As simple as it sounds, our many "Memory Letters" have been the source of some of our closest moments as a family. — Mrs. R.L. Smith

What a beautiful thing to do. It's amazing how quickly we forget what we promise ourselves we are going to try to do. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
 When preparing for one of those holiday parties or just plain of get-togethers — try some pickled beets.

At least two weeks before your party, place peeled, hard-boiled eggs in some leftover pickled beet juice.

You can use these tasty tidbits sliced, quartered, or halved. If you have them, place a small boiled shrimp in the middle of each slice. It not only looks pretty but the taste is out of this world.

Just let your imagination run wild — you will be surprised what you can think up.

All the oohs and ahs make all the trouble worthwhile. — Mrs. J.J. Messina

We tried this and it is very good. You could even put a few eggs in vinegar and add some peppercorns and bay leaf. Just as an added touch, put green cake coloring in them.

There! You have your good 'ol Christmas colors for your party. Have fun — Heloise

Neuhoff To End Meat Packing Operations

DALLAS (UPI) — Neuhoff Bros. Packing Inc., which incorporated during the Great Depression and grew to be one of the largest independent meat processing firms in the southwest United States, has announced it will close its meat packing operation within the next 30 days.

Citing business losses and dwindling profit margins in the meat packing industry, the company said its shutdown would eliminate 630 jobs in Texas.

However, company treasurer Richard Diamond said the 46-year-old firm would continue its operation of hotel and restaurant divisions in Dallas, Falls City, Neb., Chicago and Dearborn, Mich.

James Marias, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said the decision to terminate operations was made because of "the company's earnings history over recent years, the role of the company in its marketplace, continuing adverse economic trends in the meat-packing industry and the welfare and interests of employees and shareholders of the company."

For fiscal 1977, Neuhoff reported a net loss of $240,000. For the first nine months of 1978, the company reported a net loss of $144,000.

Neuhoff is an 84-percent-owned subsidiary of Mickelberry Corp. of New York City.

Goodwill Returns $528

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — A little bit of good will has gone a long way toward improving a former Iowa woman's opinion of California.

Arlene Marshall of Orange sent an old overcoat to Goodwill Industries just before Christmas without checking the pocket, which contained an envelope full of receipts and $528 cash which her husband had forgotten.

Mrs. Marshall and her family had moved to this Orange County city from Fort Dodge, Iowa — "where half the people were related to each other" — three years ago. Since then they have had been victimized by burglars and vandals.

So when Wynona Hamilton of Goodwill's headquarters in Santa Ana showed up with the envelope, which she was able to trace through the receipts, Mrs. Marshall was stunned.

She promptly donated $50 to Goodwill and brought in a plate of cookies for the workers at the charity.

King Memorial Sought

ATLANTA (AP) — The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., father of the slain civil rights leader, says he will continue to seek legislative approval for a proposed state holiday in memory of his son.

He and Coretta Scott King, widow of Martin Luther King Jr., tried without success this week to gain support from Georgia legislative leaders.

House Speaker Tom Murphy said he opposes any additional state holidays and, in fact, hopes some can be eliminated.

Georgia's state employees now have 13 paid holidays, including three that commemorate the Old South. They are Robert E. Lee's birthday, Jefferson Davis' birthday and Confederate Memorial Day.

Proponents of a Martin Luther King birthday observance on Jan. 15 say it will not cost the state any more money, if one or more of the existing holidays are dropped.

Penny Paid Not Charity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Waldo R. Rowen Jr. paid his property taxes on time, but miscalculated them, rendering a sum a penny short of what he actually owed.

Franklin County Treasurer Dana G. Rinehart has a sharp eye for detail. He wrote to Rowen:

"In order to minimize any inconvenience to you, I personally advanced $0.01 out of my own funds to enable your payment to be processed immediately.

"If your corrected payment occurred after the close of the collection, a 10 percent penalty would have been required, pursuant to Ohio law."

But it wasn't entirely charity; Rinehart wants his penny back.

"Please remit the amount of the funds advanced by me at your earliest convenience," he wrote.

Rowen said he was trying to think of an appropriate way to repay the debt.

Wallace Barbecue Planned

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace is spending his usual after-Christmas vacation at Key Biscayne, Fla., but he is due back Jan. 6 for a big barbecue in his honor.

Press Secretary Elvin Stanton said the partially paralyzed governor left for Florida on Wednesday, accompanied by security guards and a valet. Stanton said he was not certain whether any of Wallace's family went along.

Wallace, who goes out of office Jan. 15 after an unprecedented three terms as governor, will return in time for a barbecue in his honor at the state-owned Garrett Coliseum in Montgomery.

The festivities, which are expected to attract several country music singers, have been arranged by friends who are raising money to buy the outgoing governor a new Lincoln Continental and to help pay for special equipment for the handicapped at Wallace's new home in Montgomery.

War Called Fact Of Life

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md. (AP) — Jerry R. Curry, a scholar, doctor of ministry and a major general, finds no conflict between warfare and Christianity.

War, in his view, is a fact of life.

Curry, at 46 one of the youngest two-star generals in the Army, recently became the head of the U.S. Army Test and Evaluation Command's headquarters here. He is also the first black officer to command a major research, development, test and evaluation organization.

But it is his personal life as a scholar and doctor of ministry that attracts attention.

Curry said he is often asked: "How can you be in the Army and still be a Christian?"

The way he answers that question depends on who asks it.

"It's the young people who want answers, and I tell them they must understand who God is and what God's all about," he said. "I don't preach peace... War is a fact of life."

Curry, who holds a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Nebraska and a master's degree in international relations from Boston University, earned his doctor of ministry degree in May. He is the only active duty general officer known to hold such a degree.

Gov. Ray Taking Secret Vacation

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Washington Gov. Dixy Lee Ray is vacationing at a secret location in Spain with her sister, a personal aide and two state troopers, the governor's press secretary says.

Janet Smith, the press aide, said the governor's party left last Friday for an undisclosed destination because she doesn't want to be bothered by reporters.

"Yes, I know, the 'normality she pays for being a public official,'" Mrs. Smith said. "But you know how the national and foreign news media is."

"She's good copy. She'd rather keep it quiet."

With the governor on the trip are her sister, Marion Reid; her personal secretary, Clare Jones; and Col. Travis Bell and Lt. Ronald Walker of the state patrol.

$1.7 Million Suit Filed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Helen Reddy has filed a $1.7 million suit against Capitol Records seeking unspecified expenses and royalties she claims the firm failed to pay her from record and tape sales.

In the suit filed Wednesday in Los Angeles Superior Court, Miss Reddy said that the record firm did not honor terms of two contracts signed in 1971 and in 1974.

Student Faces Deportation

DENVER (AP) — Ahmad Farahi is a quiet, 20-year-old Iranian engineering student whose idea of a night out is a trip to an ice cream parlor.

But immigration officials say he violated terms of his student visa by taking a job as a cook. They want him out of the United States by Jan. 30.

Farahi, who lives in Denver, says he doesn't understand all the fuss, but blames it on the fact that his family in Iran is poor. His mother had been supporting him until she lost her job as a receptionist in a Tehran hospital in October.

"There has been strike after strike in Iran for the past couple of months," Farahi said. "The hospital where my mother works had to close when the nursing staff walked out. Without a job, she could no longer send me money."

That was when the problems began for Farahi, who is enrolled at the Community College of Denver. He was forced to take a job, something his student visa forbids.

"I knew the immigration department wasn't going to be too happy," he said. "But I didn't think I was doing anything very serious either."

Last month immigration officials arrested Farahi at a diner where he worked as a $3-an-hour cook. He was taken handcuffed to the Denver city jail where he was held overnight. The next day he was released on $1,000 bond.

Oregon Man Arrested In Horse Fraud Case

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An Oregon man who gave a home to 109 wild horses under the federal government's adopt-a-horse program was arrested Wednesday for selling the animals for dog food.

Investigators from the U.S. Bureau of Land Management said it was the first case of its kind and charged Donald W. Hughes, 37, of Burns, Ore., with four violations of the 1973 Wild Horse and Burro Act.

Peter Robinson of the U.S. Attorney's office in Portland said Hughes was apprehended at New Pine Creek, a small town in California just south of the Oregon border.

before U.S. Magistrate George Juba Thursday morning.

Hughes faces a maximum penalty of 13 years in prison and a $16,000 fine if convicted of the charges, which include converting federal property to his personal use.

Under the government's adopt-a-horse program, wild horses are rounded up on the vast BLM rangeland and given to persons who promise to care for them and use them only for recreation.

Technically, however, the horses remain under federal ownership.

At the time Hughes is accused of selling the horses, there was no fee for the adoptions, except for a veterinarian's bill of about $20 a horse.

Robinson said the arrest is the first in the investigation of persons known to have adopted large numbers of wild horses.

The complaint filed in federal court says Hughes admitted to a BLM investigator that he sold the adopted horses to A.G. Terrill of Salem, Ore., a broker who purchases animals for slaughterhouses and rendering plants.

He said the sales occurred between June 28, 1977 and March 1, 1978.

The horse meat is ground into dog food and other animal feed and some is sent abroad for human consumption.

Robinson said that at one point in the investigation Hughes took a BLM investigator up in an airplane to show him a herd of horses he claimed were his 109 adopted horses, still alive and well and living on the range. The horses turned out to be domestic animals belonging to another rancher.

April was "Aprilis" to the Romans, possibly from aperire, to open, as do buds in the spring, but the derivation is as uncertain as is April weather.

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

BIORHYTHMS FOR DEC. 29, 1978

PHYSICAL
 Criticize: 12, 23, 35, 46, 58, 69 — May be forgotten
 High: 13-22, 36-45, 58-66 — You can do it
 Low: 1-11, 24-34, 47-57, 70-75 — Today you tire easily

EMOTIONAL
 Criticize: 13, 27, 41, 55, 69, 83 — Unstable emotions rule
 High: 14-26, 42-54, 70-82 — You're all you can be Low: 1-12, 28-40, 56-68, 84-95 — A depressing day

INTELLECTUAL
 Criticize: 7, 23, 40, 56, 73, 89 — Watch out, danger today
 High: 8-22, 41-55, 74-88 — Intellectual peak time
 Low: 1-6, 24-38, 57-72, 90-95 — Don't do crossword puzzles

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Iranian Oil Shutdown Studied

NEW YORK (AP)—A prolonged shutdown of the Iranian oilfields would tighten world oil supplies but have little, if any, effect on the prices paid in most of the world, oil industry officials said Thursday.

Iran, normally the world's second largest oil exporter, has stopped exporting oil as violence has virtually halted oil production in the Middle Eastern country.

"The key question is how long" Iranian exports will be halted, said Gary Ross, a senior economist with the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an industry-supported organization.

Iranian production has been below normal for two months as intensified anti-shah demonstrations included strikes by oil industry workers. Other oil exporters, notably Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, have stepped up production to largely offset Iran's drop.

"I don't think this is anything we need to be particularly concerned about," said Carl Meyerdirk of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, one company that normally buys oil from Iran.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has announced plans to raise its price of oil 14.5 percent in four stages during 1979. Many analysts think that even continuing violence in Iran would not cause a further increase.

"I think the Iranian situation was already reflected in prices (announced by OPEC)," said Meyerdirk. The 14.5 percent increase was higher than most analysts had expected before the Iranian problems erupted.

Iran normally exports about 6 million barrels a day, but that figure has been cut in half since early November. Saudi Arabia has boosted its average production by about 3 million barrels a day during the period and some other countries have also raised output.

The United Arab Emirates was reported Thursday by the Kuwait news agency to be willing to provide the oil normally sent from Iran to France.

Western Europe, Israel and Japan are all major buyers of Iranian oil. The United States imported an average of 848,000 barrels a day of oil from Iran during the first nine months of the year — 4.5 percent of the nation's oil consumption and 10.7 percent of its imports.

It takes about 30 days to ship Iranian oil to the United States, so oil from that country will keep arriving for several weeks even if the disruptions continue.

Mats Humbled At ABC Tourney

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

A quick check among Estacado fans following Thursday night's second round of the ABC Caprock Basketball Tournament at the Lubbock Coliseum, revealed that Monterey forward Craig Ehlo would lose in a popularity contest with the shah of Iran.

That's because Ehlo turned the game towards the Plainsmen's favor on a basket from the right corner late in the fourth quarter, then stole a pass and stuffed home a basket seconds later, and was the game's leading scorer with 18 points.

So, if you haven't guessed by now, Monterey held on to edge Estacado 47-43. "The game was won at the free throw line," said Estacado Coach JJ Wood. "They put 21 free shots into the hoop or five."

"I don't really know how well we did from the free throw line," said Monterey Coach Joe Michalka. "Of course, if you expect to win, you're going to have to take advantage of those free shots. I

Lewis 'Up To Snuff' For Pokes

DALLAS (AP) — D.D. Lewis recalls how it used to be with the Dallas Cowboys in the National Football League playoffs.

"A lot of people choked ... we'd play Green Bay or Cleveland and get tight as hell," says the 10-year veteran weakside linebacker. "We were always afraid something would go wrong — even when we had some good teams."

Lewis, a sixth-round draft choice in 1968 out of Mississippi State, says in the playoffs "I try to guard against getting too tight. I guess that's what I call choking. "You see it happens to a lot of teams. It happened to Chicago last year. I couldn't see it in their eyes or anything but they were holding back like they were trying to keep from making mistakes. You just can't make it in the playoffs like that."

Lewis has developed his own way of relaxing. "I put a big dip of snuff in my mouth before the warmups," says Lewis. "I like to dip it on the sidelines, too, during the game. But I can't dip too long because I have to snap the ball on punts. In fact, one time I covered a punt with the snuff in there. I've done that just once!"

Lewis was one of the unheralded but key players in Dallas' drive to the Super Bowl last year. He's playing the same way in 1978. He has never made All-Pro yet he has few peers at covering against the pass and is a sure tackler in Dallas' "Flex" defense which is designed to stop the run.

"Playoff games and Super Bowls are won with solid defense," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry, who will lead his team in an NFL record 23rd playoff game against Atlanta Saturday in Texas Stadium in the semifinals of the National Conference playoffs.

"I think D.D. has been overlooked because he has been at his position a long time and it's easy for voters to overlook the veteran who improves and has a great year in favor of an upcoming who also has a good year," says Landry. "Lewis has performed at a very high level for us."

Lewis seldom beefs about his anonymous role in the Cowboy Doomsday Defense. "Let's talk about Atlanta," says Lewis. "They have a good offense — a lot better than I thought. We respect them. (Quarterback) Steve Bartkowski has a great arm."

"Atlanta has some good receivers in Wallace Francis, and Jim Mitchell. And their special teams really get after people."

Lewis says "I expect to see Bartkowski rollout more offensively. I suspect they will use a lot of play action fakes on us. Everybody has. They will probably pass a lot on first down."

He adds, "We'll be ready. This sitting around an extra week has everybody a little edgy. We really had it going. We want to go out there Saturday and see if we still have it."

Tech Upsets Michigan

EL PASO (Special)—Kent Williams and Geoff Huston calmly tossed in a pair of clutch free throws in the last half minute and Texas Tech hung on to claim one of the nation's top upsets this season—an 87-85 victory over number 8 ranked Michigan in the first round of the Sun Classic Basketball Tournament in Thursday night.

The Red Raiders (8-1) meet Clemson (8-0) in the championship game today at 10 p.m. CST. Clemson downed host UT-El Paso 68-57 in the other first-round game.

Tech raced off to a comfortable first half advantage by shooting a sizzling 57 percent from the floor against the Wolverines, and weathered a furious comeback in the last five minutes.

Williams, who paced the Raider attack with 19 points, stepped to the line with 23 seconds remaining and Tech ahead 83-81. He converted both ends of the one-and-one, as did Huston with 12 ticks.

Michigan called timeout in an attempt to rattle Huston but the senior guard swished both attempts on the one-and-one and Tech was up by four.

Keith Smith scored for Michigan with 2 seconds showing and Williams happily clutched to the inbounds pass as time expired.

"I think the big thing was our mental attitude," said an elated Tech Coach Gerald Meyers. "Then there were a number of keys and I'd hate to single out one thing."

One big factor was Michigan's foul problems. The Raiders coaxed the Wolverines into committing into 35 personals and stars Phil Hubbard and Mike McGee left the action with five personals midway through the final stanza. In all, four Michigan players fouled out and two others had four fouls.

The Raiders cooled off some in the second half, but still wound up with an impressive 52 percent from the floor compared to Michigan's 50 percent.

Tech took control seven minutes deep into the game, penetrating Michigan's man-to-man defense. Ahead 15-14, the Raiders reeled off six straight points and were never seriously threatened until the final few minutes.

Huston, who had 17 points, was a big factor in the first half surge. He had two key buckets as Tech went ahead 21-14 and kept the pressure on with a stout man-to-man defense. Michigan had 17 turnovers during the first half and Tech took advantage to romp to a 46-32 half-time lead.

The Raiders came out from intermission ice cold, going the first five minutes without a bucket. And matters seemed to get worse when freshman Jeff Taylor was whistled with his fourth personal with 14:22 showing.

But then Michigan could do little about it and suddenly found itself in a death grip of fouls. Hubbard, an all-America nominee, Mike McGee, who came in averaging 29 points a game, and slick guard

Johnny Johnson all found themselves with four fouls with 12:03 left.

Tech's Joe Baxter, who came off the bench to contribute 12 points and a team high six rebounds, canned a field goal and Tech was up 15 at 62-47.

Hubbard left the action for good with 10:54 left and only 12 points. McGee exited three minutes later with a meager 11 points.

The Michigan reserves, though, were up to the task. Tech's lead melted to four at 74-70 with 5:23 left and the crowd of 11,832 came alive. It seemed to perk the Raiders up. And as a Williams' layup temporarily halted the onslaught with 3:08 and Tech ahead 78-70.

Matters got even stickier with 1:23 showing and Tech leading 81-78. But senior guard Tommy Parks converted a pair of free throws and came down with a clutch rebound 15 seconds later and again the Raiders had some breathing room.

Huston said his free throw aimed for a poor pass that resulted in a turnover with a minute left and Smith hit a three-point play to pull Michigan back to within two at the 44 second mark. Ben Hill, who had 11 points was the man of the hour at that point. He saved a turnover by retrieving a loose ball and Tech called time at :33 before its final barrage of clutch free throws.

Devine Says Bowl Important To ND

DALLAS (AP) — Notre Dame isn't battling for any national championship when the Irish take on Houston in the Cotton Bowl Monday but Coach Dan Devine expects the ultimate effort from his players.

"They recognize we are playing a good team and we are appealing to their pride," Devine said Thursday.

The Irish, who last season defeated top-ranked Texas 38-10 to capture the Cotton Bowl and the national championship, are prepared for a tough battle against the Houston Cougars, champions of the Southwest Conference.

"Being the champion of the Southwest Conference has as much stature and ring to it as being champion of the Big Ten, the Southeast Conference or the Pac 10," said Devine. "Winning the Southwest Conference championship is a great achievement and we are not going to have any excuses as not being up for the game."

Devine, seated alongside Houston Coach Bill Yeoman, said it is difficult to capture the mood of a team at a news conference but added his Irish are well prepared for the game. Devine bristled when Yeoman was asked if the game possibly meant more to Houston than it did to Notre Dame.

"The game mean nothing," repeated Devine. "We don't have those kind of players or coaches. I do not fear any let-down. That is not the nature of our team or our coaches."

Clemson Boss' Debut Scheduled In 34th Annual Gator Classic

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Clemson's Danny Ford makes his head coaching debut as favorite over Ohio State veteran Woody Hayes in the 34th annual Gator Bowl football game tonight.

Kickoff for the nationally televised (ABC) game is at 8:05 p.m.

Ford inherited Clemson's best team ever from Charley Pell, who coached the Tigers to a 10-1 season, the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and No. 7 national ranking before leaving early this month to become head coach at Florida.

"This is the biggest game of my life as a head coach," the tall, 30-year-old Ford quipped. "I have butterflies, but I hope they go away."

"We are playing a super team with a great tradition and my only advantage may be that I've been reading Coach Woody Hayes' book and know more about him than he knows about me."

Hayes, in his 28th year coaching Ohio State and known for a successful but unexciting "three yards and a cloud of dust" offense, had what for him was a low season at 7-3-1 and 20th in the polls. The Buckeyes finished fourth in the Big Ten.

Uncharacteristically, he has a freshman quarterback who loves to pass, Art Schlichter.

"He runs better than I expected," Hayes said. "Ohio State traditionally runs better consistently, and we still run the ball. We tried passing but it didn't get us there."

He predicted a great future for Schlichter, and Ford agreed.

"I see him as a Steve Fuller in two years or maybe one," Ford said in tribute to his own senior quarterback, a third team All-America.

"Fuller is as good a quarterback as there is in the United States," Ford said.

"If we give him the blocking he needs, you might see why Friday night," Despite Clemson's higher ranking, better record and balanced offense and defense, Ford said Ohio State should be favored.

"They have been around a good while, and we haven't," Ford said. "They have tradition and they have fine personnel. If they come straight at us and can whip us at the line, they'll win."

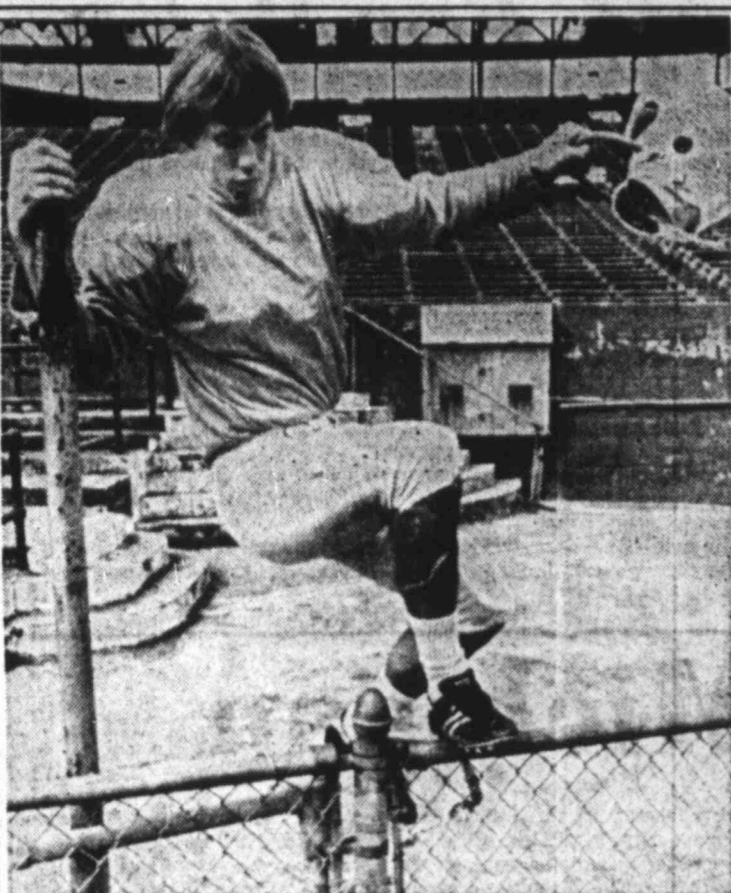

Hayes said he doesn't much care whether Ohio State is the favorite or underdog.

"We are healthy at all positions, which we weren't in a lot of games this year, and I don't go into a game fearing anyone," he said. "Clemson is much more diversified than any passing team we faced. I respect them."

Ohio State lost to Penn State, Purdue and Michigan. The tie was a 35-35 screamer with Southern Methodist. Clemson's only loss was 12-0 to Georgia in a game where the Tigers made more costly mistakes than in the entire rest of the season.

This is Ohio State's first appearance in the Gator Bowl. Clemson has been here three times previously and lost the last two times, including last year to Pittsburgh 34-3.

"We are eager to play in the Gator Bowl again because we messed it up last year," Ford said. "Our 26 seniors are dedicated to showing we can do better."

FINAL HURDLE — Penn State kicker Matt Bahr goes over the fence for a practice session in New Orleans where the undefeated Nittany Lions are getting ready to meet Alabama in the Sugar Bowl. Bahr, who set an NCAA season record with 22 field goals this year, could be the key for Penn State opening the door on a national championship. (AP Laserphoto)

Bahr Wanting To Add Names

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Matt Bahr holds the NCAA single-season field goal record of 22, but the youngster Penn State Coach Joe Paterno calls unique, Bahr, a professional soccer player, wants to share his accomplishment with center Andy Draznevich and holder Bob Bassett.

In effect, the 22-year-old Bahr claims he is nothing without the other two.

"Draz has the hardest job," says Bahr of the center who only plays on long snaps for punts and field goals.

"Nobody knows Draz is there unless he makes a bad snap," Bahr said. "Then, they don't blame Matt Bahr, but Draz. They (the fans) expect him to do a good job. There is an awful lot of pressure on him. He gets no credit."

"And remember, a lot of people (the defense) key on the center. He's the target man for abuse. I don't know what I'd do without him."

Bahr kicked 22 of 27 field goals this season for No. 1-ranked Penn State (11-0). He converted all 31 extra point attempts. His 97 points led the team in scoring.

Because of Bahr, the Lions play conservatively when they get inside the opposition's 30-yard line.

So, when Penn State meets No. 2-ranked Alabama in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day, No. 10 could very well decide who winds up No. 1.

Bahr describes Bassett, a backup split end as well as placekick holder, as his good luck charm.

"We're close friends as well as teammates," Bahr explains. "He has a difficult job, and he of all people doesn't get the credit he deserves. And I'm not only talking about the holding aspect. He's a great receiver, one of our meanest blockers. Then, he has to come in and hold the ball perfect."

Bassett, who caught 15 passes for 285 yards during the season, sums up his job for Bahr in three steps.

"First, I have to put the ball down fast so Matt can see what he's going to kick," Bassett says. "We have to get it off in 1.2 seconds or it could be blocked."

"Then, I have to keep the ball straight up and down. I hold it with the index finger of my left hand, try not to put too much pressure on it. A lot of times, just before he kicks, I take the finger off the ball. It stays there momentarily."

"And I have to be sure he doesn't kick with the laces facing him. If he hits the laces, especially on a new ball where they're not worn in yet, he could hurt his foot."

Draznevich says that he has "to keep both hands on top of the ball, and has to follow through, much like a quarterback passing. Bassett likes to get the ball high rather than low, because when the ball is low he has to turn his hands, which delays placing the ball on the tee."

"If I don't there is a tendency to pull the ball right or left. I keep my right hand on the laces and use the other to guide the ball. I just get things started," Draznevich says.

This season, Bahr, with the help of his two friends, won at least three games with his kicking, and helped get the team started toward several other victories.

Rutledge Remains 'Other' Quarterback

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — He has thrown more touchdown passes than Joe Namath or Ken Stabler or Steve Sloan or Richard Todd or anyone else who ever played for Alabama, but Jeff Rutledge will still be the "other" quarterback in Monday's Sugar Bowl showdown.

Top-rated Penn State boasts the glamor quarterback for this 1-2 showdown in Chuck Fusina, the Heisman Trophy runner-up and a first-team All-American who has led the Nittany Lions to a 28-3 record as a starter.

"I like to think I'm just as good as Fusina or Leach (second-team All-American Rick Leach of Michigan)," Rutledge said Thursday.

This season, Rutledge completed 73 of 140 passes for 1,078 and 13 touchdowns, tying the Alabama single-season record shared by Namath and Harry Gilmer. For his career, the numbers read 220 of 390 for 3,513 yards and 30 TDs, two more than Namath's old mark. Impressive statistics for a Wishbone quarterback who only plays about three-fourths of the time because Alabama has an outstanding backup in Steadman Shealy.

Fusina connected on 137 of 242 passes this season for 1,859 yards and 11 touchdowns. His career figures are 371 of 665 for 5,382 yards and 37 TDs.

"I didn't see Fusina play this year, not even on television," Rutledge said. "I saw him as either a sophomore or a junior and he's what makes their offense go, no question about it. I'm looking forward to meeting Chuck and playing against him. It's fun to play against a great quarterback."

Blue-Gray Tilt Gives Gridders Chance To Impress Pro Scouts

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — For some of the 58 college seniors playing in tonight's Blue-Gray football game, the contest is a chance to prove they have what it takes to be pros. For most, though, the game is a chance just to have fun.

A number of pro scouts will be in the stands at Cramton Bowl for the game. And players who didn't get scouted during the regular season will have an opportunity — perhaps their last — to demonstrate their skills.

One player is Alabama State University's Jeffrey Morgan. The wide receiver realizes his chances to become a pro could hinge on his performance. "If I get drafted or if I get a shot at pro ball could depend on what I do here," said Morgan. "I don't feel any added pressure at all. I'm not trying to go out there and give 110 percent because the scouts are here — I do that anyway."

Acknowledging that there was some pressure in the Blue-Gray game, Morgan insisted it "still is a lot of fun." And Otis Anderson, a University of Miami running back, agreed.

Anderson, a top pro prospect, said he wasn't interested originally in playing in the Blue-Gray game. After all, he said, "By this time of the year, the scouts know what you can and can't do."

What Anderson can do is run the ball. He finished 14th in the nation in rushing this year, gaining 1,268 yards. He also scored eight touchdowns.

Although reluctant to join the Gray squad, Anderson finally relented at the urging of Miami Coach Lou Saban. Anderson said that Saban, who coached in the game last year, told him, "It's a good place to have fun."

For Michigan State quarterback Ed Smith, the Blue-Gray game is his Rose Bowl substitute.

Smith led the Spartans to a share of the Big Ten championship this year. But the Spartans were ineligible for the Rose Bowl because they are on NCAA probation.

"It would be nice to be in Pasadena right now," Smith said, referring to the Rose Bowl. "But there is nothing we can do about it. The Blue-Gray has to be my bowl game."

With Smith sharing the signalcalling chores with Buddy Teevens of Dartmouth, the game is expected to be an aerial duel, with Gray quarterbacks Dave Marler of Mississippi State, Tom Rozantz of William Mary and Mike Dunn of Duke trying to match the North's passing.

"I think folks can look for a good game, because there are some really fine athletes here," says Brigham Young's Lavelle Edwards, who is coaching the Blue squad along with Joe Yukica of Dartmouth.

Edwards said he has been particularly impressed with Smith, Teevens and John Spagnola, a tight end from Yale.

Gray coaches Ron Meyer of Southern Methodist University and Vince Gibson of Louisville, admit that on paper the Blue squad seems to have an edge. But once the game is underway, they say, the Gray's "Southern hospitality" will end.

"I think folks can look for a good game, because there are some really fine athletes here," says Brigham Young's Lavelle Edwards, who is coaching the Blue squad along with Joe Yukica of Dartmouth.

Edwards says he's been particularly impressed with Smith, Teevens and John Spagnola, a 6-4, 225-pound tight end from Yale.

"There are a lot of good offensive players," Edwards says, "but since we're working together for such a short time, it's hard to tell what kind of points we'll be able to score."

Yukica says the secret to an all-star game like the Blue-Gray Classic is recruiting. And Blue recruiter Don Faurst, says Yukica, has done "an outstanding job" for the North.

Jeffries Tabbed WSU Boss

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Wichita State University, predominantly white, went to predominantly black South Carolina State for the first black head football coach in its athletic history Thursday.

Willie Jeffries, 40, was given a four-year contract at an undisclosed salary estimated at $41,500 a year. He succeeds Jim Wright who was fired Nov. 20 after posting a 4-7 record in his fifth year at WSU.

At South Carolina State, a member of the all-black Mid-east Athletic Conference, Jeffries had a six-year record of 50-13-4 and four MEAC championships. His Bulldogs were 8-2-1 in all games this past season and 5-0-1 in the MEAC.

Dr. Milton D. Hunter, South Carolina State athletic director, said Jeffries' resignation was conditionally effective Thursday, "pending clearance with the athletic office of any responsibility and/or accreditation with the college."

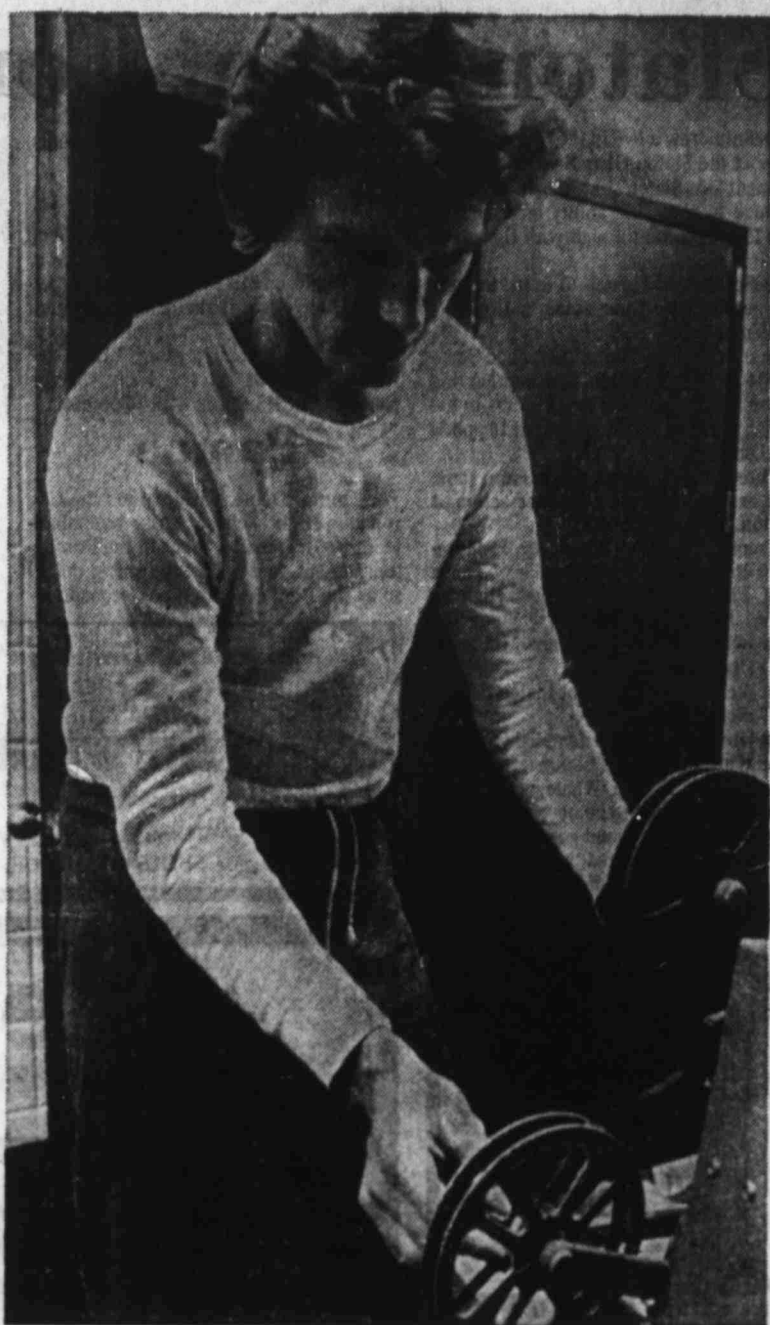

The hiring by the Missouri Valley Conference member ended a six-week search for a successor to Wright.

"Out of all the candidates we researched from all the major conferences and independents in the country, we are excited that we have found a coach who has met our announced criteria," Ted Bredehoff, WSU athletic director, said.

"Jeff is a proven head coach with a successful record. He has been an integral part of building a successful program, and he firmly believes he can turn this program and achieve his desired goal of football excellence at Wichita State University."

Jeffries responded, "It is my sole purpose to build and develop a winning football team, and you will never get me to say how many games we will win in a season."

He said he intends to bring with him at least one assistant coach from South Carolina State.

REEL WORLD — Atlanta Falcon quarterback Steve Bartkowski adjust the reels on a movie projector to study the defensive tactics of the Dallas Cowboys. Bartkowski Says Lord Helped Lead Atlanta To NFL Playoffs

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta may not have any miracles left when it meets defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Saturday but quarterback Steve Bartkowski says he believes the Lord played a key role in getting the Falcons into the playoffs for the first time.

Bartkowski, the No. 1 pick in the 1974 National Football League draft, was hailed then in Atlanta as the savior of the franchise and tagged as "Peachtree Bart."

The 6-foot-4 blond from California, however, was plagued by injuries during his first four seasons and the Falcons continued to lose.

And this season, the former swinging bachelor who went through a brief, unsuccessful marriage, found himself on the bench.

"I really got a chance to analyze where I was going and realized I was heading down the wrong road," Bartkowski said Thursday as the 14-point underdog Falcons prepared for the Cowboys.

It was during that two-week period on the bench that Bartkowski said he re-evaluated his lifestyle and found Christ.

"I really think that had a lot to do with whatever success we have had," he said of Atlanta's 9-7 regular season record that included four victories by identical scores of 20-17 in the last 10 seconds.

The Falcons then edged Philadelphia 14-13 in the closing minutes Sunday in their first playoff game in their 13 years of existence.

"We've been praying for the Lord to bring this team together for a long time," said the 26-year-old Bartkowski.

"Our Sunday chapel services have more than doubled since last season with almost half the team attending. I think that has had a lot to do with our success."

TOURNEY SET
MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Sally Little and Jane Blalock head a group of women golfers who will compete for prizes for the first time against men in a pro-am tournament Jan. 3-6.

We have an overall concern for one another that goes further than just on the field," he said.

"There is a genuine friendship on this team with no bitterness toward each other. We genuinely care for each other and it carries over onto the field," said Bartkowski.

As for the Cowboys, who have won seven consecutive games and won the Eastern Conference with a 12-4 record, Bartkowski is realistic about the Falcons' chances.

"Well, they're not real good. We will try to do the best we can. Our only chance is for us to play the best football game we possibly can," he said.

"I just think it's the kind of game I think most of the guys on our team are really happy just to get the opportunity to play in. We will approach it, wanting to make the most of it. But I know on paper the Cowboys are a much better football team than we are," said Bartkowski.

But paper won't matter much Saturday and maybe the Falcons can pull off Mirac cle VI. It certainly would shut up critics who claim Atlanta doesn't have a prayer against the Cowboys.

Sims Again Target For Husker Defense

MIAMI (AP) — If you thought the rest of Nebraska was upset about facing Oklahoma again, imagine Lance Van Zandt's reaction about having to prepare for Billy Sims and Co. twice in the same year.

Van Zandt, the Cornhuskers' defensive coordinator, again faces the prospect of getting Nebraska ready for the Oklahoma backfield of halfbacks Sims, David Overstreet and Jimmy Rogers, fullback Kenny King and quarterback Thomas Lott — this time for Monday night's Orange Bowl game. The Sooners' Wishbone led the nation in rushing with 427.5 yards per game, in scoring with 40 points and was second to Nebraska in total offense with 489.3 yards.

Oklahoma gained 339 yards, all on the ground, but was undone by losing six fumbles in a regular-season 17-14 loss to Nebraska.

"I think they've got the best rushing offense in the country. They're all very talented," Van Zandt said.

Van Zandt said he was "very surprised that the Orange Bowl people decided to take two teams from the Big Eight. We weren't real happy at first."

He admitted that the fumbles helped his defense last time.

"A lot of their offense came from breaking our tackles. Their backs are both fast and big. I wouldn't say we played the perfect defensive game."

"But we hit them good. If you're an offensive coach, you think they didn't take care of the ball. If you're the defensive coach, you say you hit them and caused the fumbles," he said.

Such a fast-moving option offense presents particular problems for defenses, he said.

"You can't just say you have to stop one particular back. You have to stop the fullback, he's the first one through, then the quarterback, then the halfbacks. You can't concentrate on one area. You've got to be sound all the way through," he said.

"If you go after Sims, Kenny King or David Overstreet or one of the others will kill you instead," he said.

Linebacker Bruce Dunning, with 19 tackles, and monster back Jim Pilen, with two fumble recoveries, led the defense in the last meeting. Pilen said the best way to stopping the Sooners' offense is to keep the ball away from it.

"They're not a real disciplined team in the sense that they're taught to always protect the ball. They're breakout runners, that's their style, and sometimes, they carry it like a loaf of bread. When you're flagging the football, and somebody hits you hard, you're going to drop it — I don't care how good you are," Pilen said.

Van Zandt noted that Oklahoma's defense will not have an easy time, either.

"I think they're going to have their hands full with Isiah Hipp and Rick Berns. We've got a pretty good offense, too," he said.

"The key to the Wishbone is preparation," Van Zandt said.

In other games, Wichita Falls High blitzed Morton 73-42, Dimmitt dumped Lubbock High 57-45 and Dunbar faced Coronado in a late Division I game.

In Division II, Tahoka defeated Christ the King 59-44, Crosbyton slipped by Floydada 64-58. Tulia beat Slaton 48-33, and Lubbock Christian clobbered Idalou 72-51.

Estacado, trailing 27-16 at the end of the first half, outscored Monterey 37-20 in the final two quarters. The Matadors tied the score with 4-54 left in the game.

Guard Mike Chatham, who led the Matador scoring attack with 13 points, stole a Monterey pass and was fouled while driving to the hoop. Chatham made one of the free shots to even the contest at 37-37.

The Matadors then took their only lead of the final half as postman John Jones rebounded a wide shot and put the ball back into the hoop to give Estacado a 39-38 advantage.

"I really don't think we lost our cool," said Michalka. "We're just tired. We've been going through two-a-days and the extra practice and the tournament has wearied us some."

However, Plainsman guard Danny Chong again knotted the score hitting the first free throw of a one-and-one situation 39-39 with 3:50 left.

Estacado hit a cool shooting streak for the next 2:30 as Ehlo demonstrated his magic.

The win lifts Monterey's record to 13-2 and advances the Plainsmen into tonight's Division I championship game against the Coronado Mustangs. The championship game will be played at 9 p.m. The Mustangs sport a 10-6 mark.

Coronado earned its way into the finals by outlasting the Dunbar Panthers 80-71. Steve Ahlenius paced the Mustang scoring attack with 29 points as Coronado made up a three-point first quarter deficit early in the second period to take control of the game. Dunbar outscored the Mustangs 20-17 in the opening period.

Dewayne Williams led the Panther scoring effort with 25 points. The loss dropped the Matadors slate to 6-9, and Estacado will now battle Dunbar in the consolation game.

Meanwhile, Dimmitt will take on Wichita Falls High in the finale of the loser's bracket in Division I. Wichita Falls and Dimmitt will tipoff at 2 p.m.

In Division II, Tulia and Lubbock Christian will battle in the championship action at 7:30 p.m. Idalou and Slaton will meet in the consolation game of the winner's bracket. Tahoka and Crosbyton will battle in the finals of the loser's bracket at 12:30 p.m.

Slaton Event Continues

DeSoto drew a bye in the first day of action at the Slaton Girls Basketball Tournament in Slaton but when it got a chance to show its' ability on Thursday the Eagles came through with flying colors.

DeSoto edged Tulia 63-61 in its' tourney opener, despite Lulu Joiner's 18 points for Tulia.

In other action, Dimmitt crushed Cooper 54-35. Karry Kitten had another big game for Cooper, scoring 18 points in the losing effort. S. Sandoval scored 18 points for Dimmitt.

Three other Lubbock schools also came out on the losing end in other action at Slaton.

Fremship defeated Monterey 53-48 behind the 20-point performance of Tanya Ivie, Floydada crushed Lubbock High 55-24 as Kim Curry led the way for the Whirlwinds with 17 points and McCamey beat Dunbar 38-28.

In the days opening bout Idalou defeated Tahoka 43-33.

In late games, Slaton demolished Christ the King 62-28. The Slaton attack was powered by Esolita Whaley and Linda Lewis, who scored 12 points each.

Worry Sends Mart Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed only mild reaction to news of a smaller than expected trade deficit in November and sank in late selling Thursday in what analysts said reflected continued worries over international and domestic developments.

Worries that turmoil in Iran and lower oil production might lead to further oil price increases continued to weigh on the market. But some analysts also cited a government report showing a slight decline last month in the index of leading economic indicators as an additional factor.

The .6 percent decline in November brought to 137.7 percent of its 1967 base followed three months of healthy gains in the index designed to forecast economic trends. That report may have reinforced concerns that the economy is headed for a slowdown soon, said Alan C. Poole, an analyst at Laidlaw, Adams Peck.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed down 2.60 points at 805.96 after fading late in the afternoon. The blue chip index posted a 7.48 loss the previous session and continue to slide near the opening Thursday to a loss of about 2 points. But soon recovered and was posting modest gains by midday partly in response to the news that the U.S. trade deficit figures for November showed a $1.95 billion gap. That was smaller than expected and down from $2.13 billion the previous month but apparently not enough to produce a permanent rally.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. From your column I learned that if I switch investments from one mutual fund to a different mutual fund within the same "management group," the transfer is really a sale and a new purchase. And if I have a profit on the sale of the first fund, that must be reported as a capital gain on which I would have to pay taxes.

A. No. That's a different story and different rules apply. IRA rules provide tax-sheltered retirement plans for people who are not covered by other qualified retirement plans.

With an IRA, you can switch from one investment to another and not get hit with a tax until you start withdrawing money. As long as you leave the money in the IRA plan, it's sheltered from taxes.

The same thing applies to Keogh retirement plans for self-employed people. Many people start IRA or Keogh plans during their working years by investing in "growth" mutual funds, which hold common stocks expected to grow in value. Then, when they retire, those people switch their IRA or Keogh investments into "income" mutual funds, which hold bonds, preferred stocks and other fixed-income investments and which pay higher dividends.

Others try to outguess the stock market by moving their IRA or Keogh investment back and forth between growth, income and "money market" mutual funds — depending upon where they think the stock market is headed at particular periods of time.

Gangsters Indicted For Securities Theft

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight members of a gang have been indicted in connection with the theft and sale of $500,000 worth of securities and the theft of $450,000 in heavy construction equipment, an organized crime task force announced Thursday.

Among those arrested Thursday morning was Anthony "Cooty" Cappucci, 41, who has been identified by federal officials as a member of an organized crime gang specializing in stolen securities, Assistant State Attorney General John Fine said.

Those moves from one fund to another in the same group can usually be accomplished by a letter or a telephone call to the fund manager or its custodian bank.

Q. I am 67 and my wife is 57. We are retired on a $1,700 monthly pension and have no heirs. We have adequate life and health insurance. Our assets consist of $40,000 in six-month savings certificates, $35,000 in a saving certificate due to mature in 1981, about $1,600 in good common stock and a home with a current market value of $80,000.

A. We plan to build a new home. To what price range should we limit ourselves for that home? Should we pay cash or get a mortgage?

A. In your financial condition — which has to be described as "excellent" — you can really build at almost any price you want. I'm assuming you're not going to go hog wild but plan to put up the dream house in which you and your wife can live as you want to.

I would think you can do that for no more than $80,000. Use the proceeds from the sale of your present home to pay for the new one.

And don't take out a mortgage. There's no reason to strap yourselves with today's high interest rates. While that can work out for younger people who are working and who can expect their incomes to increase, it doesn't wash for retirees such as you.

Q. What would be the advantage of making my daughter the owner of my life insurance? What would be the disadvantage? She is already the beneficiary.

A. The advantage would be that, after you leave this vale of tears, the proceeds of the life insurance policy would not be counted as part of your estate for federal estate tax and state inheritance tax purposes. Depending upon your particular estate situation, that might save big tax dollars. The only real disadvantage is that, once you make your daughter or anyone else the owner of your life insurance policy, you can't take it back. The assignment of ownership of a life insurance policy is irrevocable.

Industrial Purchases Display Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — Even though they are predicting there won't be a recession in 1979, the executives who keep industries stocked with raw materials apparently are acting as if economic troubles may lie ahead, a new survey indicates.

The National Association of Purchasing Management said Thursday a monthly poll shows purchasing agents are attempting to avoid building excess raw material inventories that could be costly to maintain if sales and production drop next year.

Inventory buildups gave corporations severe worries during the 1973-74 recession, and many of "the same guys who made the mistakes in 1973" still are buying supplies today, said E.F. Andrews, vice president of Allegheny Ludlum Industries Inc. and chairman of the association's survey committee.

The caution spawned by the "inventory mismanagement" of 1973 has led to "very conservative" policies in 1978, Andrews said in an interview.

The purchasing agents appear to be as optimistic as they are wary. According to the poll of 250 of the trade organization's 22,000 members, 69 percent are not considering a recession in making their plans for 1979, while 19 percent believe a recession is likely. Twelve percent of those polled indicated the outlook was unclear.

The poll was taken earlier this month. The purchasing agents' actions are seen as possible barometers of economic changes because their actions reflect policies set by senior corporate executives.

In its November poll, the association said "there is an increase in concern for the future," but "the excesses that breed recession are just not present." In December, four out of five of those polled said business is "good to excellent."

Yet the executives apparently are hedging in 1979. While many companies typically cut raw materials stocks at year-end, largely to minimize taxes on their inventories, the number of those adding to stocks this month was unusually low.

According to the association, "the 19 percent telling of adding to stocks is the smallest percentage to say so this year," except for March, when severe winter weather disrupted industrial production and resulted in 17 percent saying they had built up stocks. Last month, 22 percent of those polled said they were adding to inventories.

In addition, the report said, purchasing agents are favoring shorter delivery dates on orders placed for capital goods — new machinery and other equipment used to modernize or expand production facilities.

In November, 78 percent of those polled said they were ordering capital goods six months to a year in advance, while 7 percent were placing orders 90 days ahead of delivery.

The agents grew more cautious in December, as those placing orders on a six-months-or-longer basis dropped to 72 percent, while those ordering 90 days in advance grew to 13 percent.

Atlantic City Hotel-Casino Deal Prompts Lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP) — Del E. Webb Corp.'s purchase of land in Atlantic City, N.J., to build a hotel and gambling casino has resulted in a damage suit for more than $200 million.

The suit has been filed by an investment group headed by Cyrus S. Eaton Jr. of Cleveland on a claim that sale of the land to Webb for $10 million last September violated a partnership agreement.

Defendants in the suit filed in U.S. District Court here include M.G. Albany Corp. and its owners, Hyman J. Goldfeld of Stamford, Conn., and Leonard J. Mercer Jr. of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., sellers of the land, and the Webb Hotels Group of Phoenix, Ariz.

Plaintiffs included Park Tower Development Group of New York, its co-owners, Eaton and York-Hannover Inc. of Chicago, and Karsten von Wersebe of Toronto, York-Hannover's representative.

It was claimed that Eaton's group formed an equal partnership with the MG group, which had acquired the President Hotel property in Atlantic City, to build a hotel-casino. The agreement was made orally a year ago, during meetings at which it was decided that the Webb group would become managers of the new venture under a 25-year contract, court papers said.

The Eaton group's role was to get financing for the project and the over-all agreement was detailed in a Feb. 27 document, the suit said.

The Eaton group claimed it was agreed at an Aug. 3 meeting in New York that a formal contract would be signed the following week. It was also agreed that if MG and Eaton groups did not obtain a firm financial package 45 days after the signing, Webb had the right to buy out both for $9 million, it was claimed.
