Talks Kept Open By Oil Union

DENVER (AP) - The 60,000-member oil workers union rejected all contract offers Wednesday, but said negotiations were still open and "a general strike can be averted.

At a news conference, A.F. Grospiron, president of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, put forth a list of demands that he said oil companies must include in proposed contracts.

The union does not want a strike, and responsible companies within the oil industry do not want a strike. If the companies respond to our proposals in a reasonable manner, a general strike can be averted." Grospiron said.

The negotiations are the first to be conducted by a major union under President Carter's wage-price guidelines and the outcome is expected to influence settlements in other major union negotiations this year

Grospiron, who declined to set a timetable for receiving new offers, said any new proposals from the oil industry must contain a cents-per-hour wage increase and a wage-reopener clause for the second year of a two-year contract.

He added that the union's bargaining policy committee unanimously rejected the concept of freezing salaries of new employees and certain other workers.

The union had appeared ready to accept a proposal from Amoco which provided a cents-per-hour wage hike and a reopener clause. But the offer also would have excluded certain workers from the wage hike, and the union said it finally was rejecting the offer for that

Along with the wage boost, the union asked for a fully-paid health care package and improvements in vacation schedules.

"This action was taken in order to encourage the oil companies to take positions which would conform with the union's concept of an acceptable offer. Grospiron said "Our position is a responsible one, and at present is a possible alternative to widespread strike ac-

Grospiron said the union would "wait as long as there is any movement" on the part of oil companies to submit new offers. He conceded that there was a possibility of more unauthorized walk-

Curtailment Of Gas Follows Cold Siege

By KIM PALMER

Avalanche-Journal Staff AN UPSURGE in the use of natural gas during the recent bitter weather has caused five of the state's largest natural gas suppliers, including Amarillo-based ioneer Natural Gas Company, to cut back by 25 to 75 percent the amount of gas to their customers.

But spokesmen for Pioneer's seven large industrial customers in Lubbock said Wednesday that although they had gas supplies reduced last week, they cursupply of natural gas.

Although a 25 percent curtailment order was in effect Wednesday for Lubbock, only one of the seven companies was aware of the reduction. According to Pioneer spokesman Bob Mills, the gas company was "under a 25 percent curtailment today," meaning its

Lubbock Man. 72, Found Shot To Death

A RETIRED Lubbock school teacher whose wife became concerned when he was late picking up her up Wednesday afternoon was found shot to death on a desolate snow-packed road just south of Noble G. Powell, 72, of 2709 39th St. was found by three men about 4:30 p.m. lying face down beside his idling car. The car was stopped in the middle of the road about a half-mile east of Milwaukee Avenue on 98th Street. Investigators said Powell, who was last heard from about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, had at least three to four bullet wounds "from the waist up" when he was found near his blood-spattered car. Sheriff's deputies estimate the body of the former Monterey High School teacher had been at the scene only a short time before it was found. Although the body was in sight of a row of houses.

sheriff's deputies said, there apparently were no witnesses to the incident. Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy customers were supposed to be receiving 75 percent natural gas and 25 percent fuel

Curtailment orders are determined on a daily basis depending on consumer demand and weather conditions. If a cutback is necessary, Pioneer will notify its customers and allow them "a reasonable amount of time" to convert to other fuels, usually diesel oil, Mills said.

Few Firms Aware

Of the seven company spokesman con-tacted by The Avalanche-Journal, only rently were operating with a 100 percent. LP&L knew of the curtailment. Walter Armstrong, assistant director, said LP&L had been asked to curtail its natural gas consumption since Monday.

Spokesmen for the other companies acknowledged curtailments in the past, but were not aware of any current cutback.

"We have had no curtailment so far and I'm surprised because we are usually asked to cut back," said Dale Stone, mill supervisor at Lubbock Cotton Oil Compa-

Although curtailments are in effect at their Dallas, Austin and Houston plants, Texas Instruments' Lubbock branch has not been asked to reduce their consumption of natural gas, according to company spokesman Dick Purdue.

The Texas Railroad Gommission's gas utilities divison said Monday the curtailments were caused by a cold front that swept the state within 24 hours last week, mechanical failures and "understated temperature forecasting.

Pipelines Lack Pressure

Pioneer officials, though, said the company's problem during the cold weather has not been one of supply but of lack of pressure in the pipelines used to transport the natural gas.

Our system will operate at subnormal conditions but not under extreme conditions," Mills said. "The cost of construction necessary to take care of a situation that arises once or twice a year would be prohibitive to both the company and to the customer, so we have arranged curtailment procedures with certain customers in order to keep prices down.'

Because LP&L customers have not had to curtail residential consumption, the only loss they probably will experience will be in their pocketbooks, beginning with the March billings. When natural gas consumption is curtailed, the electricity company converts to burning fuel oil which is sometimes more expensive than natural gas.

From March to July, about one-sixth of the cost of the oil burned in January will be added to consumer's bills through the gas cost adjustment factor," Arm-

Job Training Agency Study To Re-Open

BECAUSE of contradicting stories prompted by a recent letter from an Adult Learning Center supervisor to Lub-bock School Superintendent Ed Irons, the South Plains Association of Governments board will re-open its inquiry into contract violations and audit irregularities at a local job training agency.

SPAG President Medlin Carpenter, saving be will not let the latest controversy die uninvestigated, told The Avalanche-Journal he may call a special executive board meeting before the regular Feb. 13 meeting. The group will discuss-implications of a letter Lubbock County Judge Rod Shaw delivered to his colleagues Tuesday, Carpenter said.

In that letter, Gene Shuffield, adult vocational supervisor at the learning center, emphatically denies altering the center's attendance records on students from the Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Genter.

Statements Supported

Dianna Henderson, LOIC executive director, agrees Shuffield did not doctor the records to remedy attendance and payment discrepancies revealed in a state audit last October.

And, she contends, she did not lead the SPAG executive committee to believe the ALC and LOIC worked together to change attendance accounts.

Shaw vigorously disputes that, saying, "There's no doubt in my mind that Dianna told us ALC did (cooperate with changes). To me, what she's saying is a direct contradiction of what she told us at the board meeting (Oct. 27) because if she had not, the board wouldn't have bought her story," he added. Shaw claims that the board was disturbed by contract violations but that it agreed to make a fresh start with LOIC primarily because it appeared the learning center was cooperating with the job agency in rectifying the situation.

The contradicting claims and explanations are complicated further by Shaw's contention that LOIC did not recover all the money that should have been re-

The date of the shah's long awaited departure, expected to calm his violent

School Officials Applaud Tax Proposal

By JEFF SOUTH

Avalanche-Journal Staff DEPARTING GOV. Dolph Briscoe's recommendation that one cent of the state sales tax be devoted to schools was praised Wednesday by Lubbock Independent School District officials. They said the proposal would mean substantial reduction in property taxes here. The Lubbock school system would receive approximately $6 million a year under the sales-tax proposal backed by Briscoe, according to estimates by state and local authorities. That would be enough to cut the school district's tax rate by more than one third. T've felt all along that public schools should get a share of sales tax revenue. In

When the sales tax law was passed several years ago, the school boards of this state were not strongly organized. Had they been organized, the Texas Association of School Boards (TASB) would never have tolerated a law excluding schools from sales tax revenues," Waters

He noted, however, that the Texas Mu-, nicipal League was "on its toes" - as evidenced by the fact that cities are allowed by the law to levy a local one-cent sales tax on top of the state's four-cent sales

The schools need income from sales tax as much as or more than municipalities," said Waters, who as past president of the TASB has been fighting for schools' share of sales tax proceeds.

Municipalities have several sources of income" - such as fees, sales taxes, property taxes, utility rates and servicerelated charges.

But schools are completely dependent on ad valorem taxes for their income. That's bad because there is increasing resistence to the ad valorem tax. Ad valo-

The proposal would channel to schools tax monies collected from "many people who otherwise would not participate in funding local schools," Gooch said. For instance, tourists, renters and others who do not own property within a Texas school system would contribute to schools by paying a sales tax.

Another advantage is that a sales tax is "a source of revenue indexed to inflation," Gooch said. As the cost of goods rises, so do sales tax proceeds. And this would offset some of the inflation experienced by schools in salaries and educa-

Briscoe, who leaves office Jan. 16 when Republican William Clements is sworn in as governor, told lawmakers Wednesday they should return $1 billion to Texas taxpayers by sending sales tax revenues to local school districts. The districts in turn would be expected to use the money for property tax relief. Briscoe recommended that the 66th Legislature approve bills introduced by Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless, and Rep. Bennie Bock, D-New Braunfels, "which would dedicate one cent of the four-cent state sales tax to ad valorem relief for school property taxpayers, thus address-

CRMWA could be saving about 14 percent on its current utility bills if the fuel cost adjustment was amended to reflect existing technology, CRMWA general manager John Williams told the assembled water authority's board of directors

And, Williams claimed, add to that a portion of the approximately $7 million in undivided earnings that SPS's wholly owned fuel subsidiary, TUCO, Inc., had accumulated as of Dec. 31, 1977 - earnings that perhaps should be distributed to the utility's customers rather than re-

SPS, which supplies the power to pump Lake Meredith water to Amarillo, from which it is piped to Lubbock, bases its monthly fuel cost adjustments on a heat rate applicable to the early 1960s, Williams said

The heat rate measures the amount of fuel used to produce a kilowatt hour of electricity, he explained, and with utilities having devised more fuel-efficient means to produce power in the last 10 years, CRMWA is saddled with a bill greater than the current rate.

The situation in figures is this, according to Williams: The prevailing heat rate in the early 1960s was 13,000 British thermal units per kilowatt hour (btu/kh). By 1977 the prevailing heat rate had declined to 11,200 btu/kh, indicating an improved efficiency in producing electricity. Substituting the 1977 rate for the 1960s rate would enable CRMWA to cut its bill about 14 percent or $12,436 during the month of October, 1978.

With SPS's contract to provide pump ing power not expiring until 1993, Williams appeared to voice the consensus of the board in saying it "would have to be a mutual agreement to amend our con-

The board will have three alternatives in the future in deciding how to evaluate TUCO's accumulated earnings, the general manager said.

It could request that SPSC refund the entire $7 million amount: decide that the utility is entitled to some rate of return on its operations; or define SPSC as a 'laudable" operation and not request

A recent precedent does exist for challenging both SPS policies, Williams told the board. In the 1978 rural rate case before the Public Utility Commission in Austin, SPS was allowed a 13.8 percent rate of return on TUCO and required to adopt the current heat rate, he said.

This case considered the rates that public utilities can charge unincorporated communities.

Board member E.W. Robinson of Amarillo urged caution in making a decision about TUCO's earnings, saying the subsidiary "was set up to facilitate the efforts to lower the cost of producing elec-

"You speak of $7 million, which would be used for the acquisition of capital goods. It's like any corporation. This is one way of looking at the $7 million.

Others look at it as just a direct profit being funneled into the pockets of shareholders. That remains to be worked out." In other actions Wednesday, the board authorized funds for the repair of three pumping plant valves and underwater slide gates on the outlet tower in Lake

The cost to repair the three valves will be slightly less than $18,000, Williams said, and compares to a price of about $36,000 to purchase a new valve suited for the Lake Meredith plant.

"We believe the repair being done on them will make them serviceable for 12 to 16 years," the general manager commented.

The outlet tower contains a series of gates that "allow us to select the best quality of water to be shipped to the cities," Williams said.

Some of the underwater gates have broken, and the cost to have a Bureau of Reclamation diving team make the repairs will be in the neighborhood of $3,500 to

Iranian Backdrop Seen For F-15 'Fly-In'

WASHINGTON (AP) - At the invitation of Saudi Arabia, several F-15 jets, among the most advanced U.S. fighters, will soon be sent to the oil-rich kingdom to demonstrate American support for Saudi security.

Announcements at the Pentagon and State Department Wednesday did not relate the "fly-in" to instability in Iran, the other pillar of U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf. But there seemed little doubt the planes were being sent to Saudi Arabia against an Iranian backdrop.

While the size of the F-15 squadron was not specified, officials said it would involve 12 of the high-speed, highly maneu-verable fighters, which are designed to duel the best jets the Soviet Union has produced. The F-15 squadrons usually comprise about 24 planes.

Saudi pilots and technicians will be given "orientations" on the ground and in flight on the plane's capabilities. In 1982, Saudi Arabia is scheduled to receive the first of 60 F-15s that President Carter authorized for sale last Spring.

Clayton's Backers Overwhelm Opposition

AUSTIN (AP) - Speaker Bill Clayton's forces easily rolled over the dissident Sam Houston Caucus on Wednesday in a series of rules fights marking the legislative session's first real test of his power.

Clayton's proposed changes in House rules of procedure, including the committee structure, won final approval, 120-5, after surviving numerous attempts to

"Did you get the number of that truck? one member of the caucus asked Clayton after the House adjourned. Clayton just laughed.

The largest vote the dissidents could muster was 60 - out of about 140 voting - to require a lottery each session to decide each member's ranking within his seniority class. About half the assignments to House committees are made according to seniority.

Rep. Bob Maloney, R-Dallas, later watered down his proposal so it would not apply to Clayton's closely controlled Calendars, Rules and House Administration Committees.

But he failed again, 82-57.

Representatives, following the lead of Clayton team members, rejected 107-30 an even further weakened proposal to at least require him to publish in the House journal each member's ranking within his seniority class.

"I think I see the writing on the wall, Mr. Speaker," said Rep. John Whitmire, D-Houston, a caucus member.

Clayton later said that he alone decides what to do when two members of equal seniority both want the one remaining slot on a committee.

Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll, who would like to be speaker himself, failed, 96-45, to wipe out a rule allowing members of the House Appropriations Com-

The rule would give Clayton greater freedom to spread his loyalists and trusted "team" members among a greater variety of choice assignments.

Temple argued it would overwork the appropriations committee and give it roblems in mustering a quorum at times other panels are meeting.

"They work day and night through most of the months of the session," Temple added

Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, responded that the change had been requested by the committee chairman, Rep. Bill Presnal, D-Bryan, because members of the panel "were shut out of the committee process" once the budget bill was approved.

Rep. Pete Patterson, D-Brookston, was defeated on a non-record vote when he attempted to limit each member to 10 000 anti-government demonstrators staged a peaceful march to the municipal cemetery Wednesday to commemorate the first anniversary of the slaying of an opposition newspaper publisher.

A labor union foe of President Anastasio Somoza was killed late Tuesday, but no violence was reported and Nicaragua'snational guardsmen remained in the background during the march.

Some 6,000 persons gathered in and around the Sacred Heart Church, where a mass was said for Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, publisher of La Prensa, who was assassinated in a Managua street ambush last January. The crowd grew as the procession moved through the capital to the cemetery. Some 250 parade marshals maintained order and a single national guard airplane flew overhead.

Medrano, 30, was killed by five gunmen who stopped their car at the intersection, opened fire and then sped away.

No group has asserted responsibility for the killing that could lead to a new round of violence in this strife-torn Central American nation. Medrano recently returned from the

They also charged that foundation money was used to keep the Shah on his Peacock Throne.

The Shah's critics say that setting up the foundation institutionalized the collective wealth of the Pahlavis, which some say is exceeded in the Middle East only by the house of Saud in Saudi Arabia and the Al-Sabah ruling family in Kuwait. Robert Graham, in his new book, "Iran study in the United States. Graham writes that the Swiss bank account of the foundation shows payments to Pahlavis and "even minor and distant members of the royal family are now reckoned to need $1 million a year to cover their basic needs, to say nothing of capital expenses like new houses."

Marvin Zonis, in his book "The Political Elite of Iran," wrote that foundation resources devoted purely to charity rather than commercial undertakings appear rather slight."

U.S. Plays 'Catch-Up' In Iran

THERE SEEMS to be no end to the agony that is Iran, nor to the on-again, off-again policy positions of the U.S. State Department, and President Carter.

While Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his advisors, as well as the new civilian government, wrestle with ways and means to bring an end to months of bloody uprising, obviously a similar tug-of-war has been going on in the highest circles in Washing-

Only in two camps, it seems, are there definite ideas of what should happen.

In one, the exiled religious leader Ayatullah Khomaini, continues to export his brand of terror via long distance from France.

In the other, the Communists continue to stir the caldron while accusing the U.S.

THE LATEST move by the Carter administration, like others of late, may be a case of moving with too little and too late. Certainly, it is in keeping with recent in-power as possible. While the Iranian armed forces still hold the key to what ultimately happens, there is a lesson here for everyone in Washington.

It is that someone in a position of authority-the CIA's failure to accurately judge the magnitude of the problem notwithstanding -should have long ago worked on various alternatives and contingency plans for whatever might happen.

The high stakes-oil and U.S. interests -were there. They were worth closer watching and worth U.S. involvement.

Now, as all too often has been the case, we find ourselves playing "catch up" to the Communists and hoping for a miracle which may be hard to come by, considering the track record of those in Washington who are consistent stands.

Republican's Clout In Doubt

WITH VIRTUALLY all of the close contests resolved and the official results tabulated, a detailed examination suggests that there may be less than meets the eye in the gain of about 275 state legislative seats touted by Republican leaders as an indicator of a major resurgence.

There were more than 6,100 posts up for election in 45 state legislatures. Thus, the Republicans' net increase was 4.5 percent, hardly a victory of landslide proportions.

Moreover, most of those gains were registered in states that are among the nation's least populous, e.g., Idaho, Wyoming, North Dakota, Utah, Arizona, Kansas, Iowa, Vermont, and New Hampshire.

WITH THE exception of probable singleseat shifts in Arizona and Utah, the 1980 decennial census is not expected to require any change in the size of those states' congressional delegations.

Finally, most of the Republican gains represented only a recovery from the party's disasterous losses in the post-Watergate elections of 1974 and 1976. GOP strength still has not returned to the levels of the late 1960s and early 1970s.

The Republicans' continuing problems are best illustrated in Texas and Florida, the two states likely to be the principal beneficiaries of the 1980 census. Each is expected to gain two seats in the House.

Texans have elected a Republican governor for the first time since Reconstruction, but both houses of the legislature are overwhelmingly Democratic. Flordia's newly elected governor is a Democrat and his party controls both state houses by margins of more than 2 to 1.

Republicans only have one more opportunity, the 1980 elections, to gain control of the state legislatures whose redistricting will heavily influence politics in the next decade.

GOP SUCCESS in that endeavor would require a political miracle. Republican failure, the more likely outcome, would mean the Democrats could again shape congressional districts to benefit their party and its candidates.

That's what occurred, you'll recall, in the reapportionment following the 1970 census, and the results of the sophisticated gerrymandering have been obvious throughout the ensuing years. In the 1978 elections, for instance, Democratic candidates received 53 percent of all votes cast nationally in House races-but captured 64 percent of all House seats.

Despite the highly publicized gains, the GOP still lacks political clout in most of the states where 1980-81 congressional reapportionment will have its greatest impact.

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

ROMANIAN President Nicolae Ceausescu, an outstanding friend of the United States, is now in a bind with the USSR. He has refused to permit Soviet troops to enter Romania.

Ceausescu, 61, visited our country in 1970 and 1973. In 1975 the U.S. granted Romania most-favored nation tariff treatment and in 1976 signed a 10-year trade pact. Again, Ceausescu was President Carter's White House guest in 1978.

Romania, the size of Michigan, today has a population nearly as large as Canada. The fierce Dacians were the earliest known of HUNGARY BORDERS on Romania. So does the USSR. Romania's Soviet frontier runs for about 1,000 miles.

Before Ceausescu's anti-Soviet action, the Soviet KGB secret police controlled all of Romania. But he has chopped the KGB down to size.

Hungary borders on Transylvania. The Kremlin uses Hungarian President Janos Kadar, a wily Soviet stooge, to clamor for Transylvania deliberately to provoke the Romanians.

Kadar, pressing Ceausescu to unjustly abandon Transylvania, solicits the support of American senators and congressmen. Kadar's favorite anti-Romanian propaganda trinket is an aluminum ashtray stamped: "Made from a United States airplane shot down over Romania."

REDS LIKE Kadar know how to paint the picture, making black white and white black. For a thousand years, Transylvania being a de-

However, the Kremlin-through Kadar-defied the Vienna Award. Kadar fostered brutality and violence as soon as Hungarian troops entered Transylvania and terrorism reigned.

The Iron Curtain is where the Red Army came -and stayed. It owed its World War II success to the basic tactic of the human battering ram. And today the Kremlin springs the same old trap: What's ours is ours, what's yours is negotiable.

This is what is known in the U.S. as a bamboozle. You find in it an element of the carnival barker and rainmaker. And the Kremlin is not dreaming about the moonlight on the Wabash.

SOVIET POLICY is that all Communist countries like Romania are off-limits for the U.S., but the remainder of the world is open hunting nd for the Soviet Union. To serve the Sovi-

We asked Woods if the salt could cause damage to the bodies and motors of cars. Some coastal residents say this is a major problem. Woods says if cars are either hand-washed or run through automatic car washers in a relatively short time, then no damage of consequence should result. Gun-Wielding Man Takes $140 From Food Store

A young black man armed with a chrome-plated revolver got away with about $140 cash Wednesday night in the city's latest aggravated robbery.
Craig Warner, attendant at Southeast

Food and Produce at 4820 Southeast Drive, told officers the man walked into the store about 6:15 p.m., pulled the pistol from his coat pocket and said, "I want

The 18-year-old clerk said the man took the cash from the register before running north from the store. Warner described the bandit as about 20, wearing a blue coat and maroon knit cap.

In other activity Wednesday, police were searching for a young black man who allegedly forced his way into a Texas Tech coed's ear shortly after midnight and drove her to a dirt road north of the city and raped her.

The 21-year-old weman said the suspect, wearing a white ski cap, dark coat and shirt and white and blue pants, repeatedly threatened to kill her if she did not cooperate.

After the assault, the woman said, the man drove her vehicle to 19th Street and Quaker, got out of the car and walked

A woman allegedly being beaten by her common-law husband early Wednesday morning turned on her attacker with a knife, resulting in the man being set to a Lubbock hospital, where he was in serious condition Wednesday night with multiple stab wounds

The incident began about 12:15 a.m. when the man reportedly came home drunk and an argument erupted between the couple. The woman told police she was leaving the house when her husband came after her and started beating her about the face with a board.

Reports show the woman pulled a knife and repeatedly stabbed the man. The 38year-old man, who was listed as the suspect in the police report, was taken to West Texas Hospital where he was in se-

Lubbock thieves early this week appeared to have shifted their attention from city homes to residents' vehicles.

Billie Whitt said that a vent window in the cab of his truck was broken during the last week and a $100 radio-tape deck unit stolen. Whitt said the break-in occurred while the truck was parked in the 4600-block of Avenue A.

Five Lubbockites Tuesday reported that their vehicles had been damaged by vandals.

Dolly M. Thompson said a door window was shattered and the door dented on her 1978 Datsun Monday night. She said it would cost about $200 to repair the car, which was parked outside her 4209 41st St. home when it was damaged.

Bill R. Straw, manager of A-Ivie's Transmission at 1634 19th St., told officers that a car parked outside that business Monday night sustained $100 damage when it apparently was shot with a pellet gun.

Barbershop Raid Nets Drug, Trio

A Department of Public Safety spokesman confirmed Wednesday that a white substance confiscated in a drug raid by Lubbock police officers Tuesday afternoon is heroin.

The officers seized 1 1/2 ounces of the drug during a raid on a barbershop in the 400 block of North University Avenue, police said.

Acting on confidential information, police made the raid about 5:40 p.m. Tuesday, resulting in the arrest of a 30-yearold Carlisle man and two Lubbock men, ages 40 and 48.

The raid was headed by police Sgt. Doyle Nelson, who grabbed one of the suspects as he allegedly was attempting to flush some of the suspected drug down a commode.

Nelson said he grabbed 12 balloons containing a total of about one-half ounce of a white powdery substance before they could be destroyed.

Subsequent examination revealed that the material in the balloons was heroin. A DPS spokesman said department DPS technicians are analyzing substances believed to be cocaine and marijuana that also were confiscated in the raid.

The 1 1/2 ounces of heroin would be worth about $2,500 on the street, police said.

Carrying a search warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Charles Smith, Nelson, Det. Earl Rankin and officer Tom Robison entered the barbershop via its front door while Cpls. J.D. Ussery and Garland Lucus and Det. Lloyd Brown came through a rear entry.

Reports allege one of the suspects, who was giving a haircut to a 6-year-old boy when police entered, attempted to trip officers with the cord of his electric clippers. The barber failed, however, and officers were able to reach the bathroom before the filled balloons were de-

County Sheriff's Department investiga-tors have been demoted after a man's body was discovered Friday, nearly 17 Talks In Vatican VATICAN CITY (AP) - Archbishop months after his mother filed a missing Marcel Lefebvre, stripped of his priestly functions by the late Pope Paul VI for persons report. Sheriff Elton Faught said Tuesday foropposing church reforms, met Wednesday with Vatican officials.

mer Capt. Don Register, 41, had been stripped of his rank and reassigned to the patrol division, along with investigator James Brown, 53. Register, an 11-year veteran of the department, will take a $2,055 pay cut from $15,094 to $13,039, authorities announced. Brown, who has served nine years during two sheriff's office stints, will drop from $13,961 to $13,039, it was Faught attributed the demotions to the handling of the Raymond Carl White case and a potential loss of confidence in the men by rank-and-file officers.

The entire department was criticized Friday by District Attorney John Green after the 9:57 a.m. discovery of the 38year-old White's body.

In a televised interview, Green accused the department of "sitting on their behinds" in the case. Green also said the White case was one of several recent cases cleared by investigators assigned to the DA's office using information available to both departments.

The 10-year prosecutor said he requested city police identification officers to photograph the body Friday for fear the sheriff's office "would screw it up." Sheriff Faught responded to Green's remarks Monday:

"John Green accused my 51 men of sitting on our butts and not doing anything, and that's not true," Faught said.

Brownfield Man Found Guilty In

Traffic Fatality

A 24-year-old Brownfield man Tuesday was found guilty in Lubbock County Court-at-Law No. 2 of criminally negligent homicide in connection with the traffic death of a Tatum, N.M., woman tast January.

A jury found Peter Michael Maciula guilty Tuesday afternoon, and Judge J.Q. Warnick Jr. set sentencing for 4:30 p.m. Tuesday. A class A misdemeanor carries a penalty of up to a year in jail

Assistant Criminal District Attorney J. David Nelson alleged criminal or gross negligence in the Jan. 17, 1978, collision at Slide Road and the Brownfield Highway in which 20-year-old Madeline Arlene Harris was fatally injured. The prosecution alleged Maciula, traveling southwest on the Brownfield Highway, ran a redlight when his car was in collision with a vehicle traveling north

Bentsen Disagrees With Schlesinger On Mexican Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, took exception Wednesday with the comments made by Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger concerning the purchase of Mexican natural gas.

"I believe failure to sign a natural gas supply contract with Mexico would be a grave mistake and contrary to the best interest of both countries," wrote Bentsen in a letter to President Carter's chief energy adviser.

In a New York speech before a group of petroleum analysts, Schlesinger said the United States should place a higher priority on developing domestic gas supplies.

Schlesinger's remarks came weeks before President Carter's scheduled trip to Mexico City, where he and Mexican President Lopez Portillo will discuss energy matters.

Last year, Schlesinger said Pemex, Mexico's national oil company, was asking for too high a price and blocked a gas deal between Pemex and six American companies

"You canceled an agreement for the purchase of Mexican natural gas on the grounds that it was too expensive; now you appear to be arguing that because it is too cheap it will suppress the development of domestic gas supplies," said Bentsen

"I strongly disagree... I do not believe we are in an either/or situation - ei ther we develop our domestic reserves or we import more foreign supplies. It is an unfortunate fact of life that for the forseeable future the United States is locked into a positon of reliance on foreign energy sources for a significant portion of our energy needs.

Bentsen added that it is "fortunate that such promising petroleum reserves have been found in Mexico, a country that is not only a neighbor, but a friend and a major purchaser of U.S. products. The policy of the United States should be to assist Mexico in the development of its oil and gas reserves and to use Mexican energy imports to reduce our reliance on less-stable, more-dis-

Oil Hearings To Continue Monthly

AUSTIN (AP) - Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission announced Wednesday the oil and gas regulatory agency will stick with its old schedule of monthly allowable hearings in 1979 instead of switching to quarterly

Poerner cited "unsettled conditions" in the world's energy markets, including oil and gas, and new federal policies as

"As the regulatory agency for the nation's No. 1 domestic petroleum supplier, the commission must be ever-watchful and always responsive to our energy supplies and needs," Poerner said in a state

Last June the commission announced it would hold quarterly oil and gas proration hearings, breaking away from the practice of holding monthly hearings, as it has done for some 40 years.

Minnesota Official Halts Proposed Pipeline ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) - The director of the Minnesota Energy Agency denied a certificate of need Wednesday for the Minnesota portion of the 1,557-mile Northern Tier pipeline.

The proposed line would carry Alaska crude oil through 40-inch pipes from Port Angeles, Wash., to Clearbrook, Minn., and would cost more than $1 billion. The Minnesota portion includes only 75 miles in the northwestern corner of the state.

The energy chief, John Millhone, said his denial was based on estimates that Northern Tier would not have a big enough crude oil market to make the project financially feasible.

The certificate of need is a permit re-energy facilities can be built.

Millhone said his decision could be reconsidered if President Carter recommends the Northern Tier project, if Northern Tier gets enough signed commitments for moving crude oil through the line, or if another pipeline is not built into Minnesota.

The second pipeline is known as Northern Pipeline, and would carry crude from Wood River, Ill., to the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. The Energy Agency granted a certificate of need to Northern in 1977.

Millhone said another factor is that cutbacks in Canadian crude oil, once scheduled for 1981, now will be delayed until at Gulf Reports Dry Hole

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Gulf Oil Corp. announced Wednesday that its first wildcat well has come up dry in the Baltimore Canyon Trough off the mid-Atlantic coast. It was the seventh dry hole reported in the area.

Gulf spokesman James Gatten said the leased semi-submersible rig New Era would plug and abandon the 18,554-foot exploratory well, which is about 90 miles east-southeast of this resort. The New Era began drilling in 349 feet of water on Gatten said the New Era would soon begin a second well about 20 miles northwest of the dry hole on another tract leased by Gulf.

On Nov. 30, Gulf announced that it had completed testing of a non-commercial gas zone below 17,640 feet. It said that additional testing would follow in the upper zones of the well.

Gulf did not expand the announcement at the time. However, an oil industry expert said the annoucment meant that some gas had been discovered, but that it was not found in sufficient quantity for commercial production.

Gulf, which owned half-interest in the well, was partner with Aminoil U.S.A. Inc., a subsidiary of R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc., which owned 25 percent; Tenneco Oil Co., which owned 15 percent; and Cities Service Inc., which owned 10

Gulf joins Exxon, Shell, Houston Oil Minerals, Mobil and Continental with dry holes in the Baltimore Canyon Trough area. Shell has had two dry holes.

Texaco, which is working about 101 miles east of Atlantic City, is the only one to report a strike so far. Texaco is drilling a second confirmation well about 11/2 mile west of the spot where it reported a significant gas find on Aug. 13.

The federal government plans next month to lease 109 tracts, covering 649,-987 acres, just south and east of the present 93 lease tracts in the Baltimore Canyon Trough. The 93 tracts were sold to the oil industry for $1.13 billion in August

BRIBE CONVICTION UPHELD RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - A federal appeals court Wednesday upheld the conviction of a man accused of offering $20,-000 to ensure that the 1977 corruption trial of suspended Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel "would come out the right way." The 4th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Charles E. Neiswender of Cinnaminson, N.J., was clearly guilty of trying to obstruct justice when he offered the ney to a defense attorney and implied he had a juror willing to hold out for Mandel's acquittal.

Three Minnesota refineries rely on Canadian crude. The Northern line from Illinois would bring crude from the Gulf Coast, including Alaskan oil. It would be brought up the Mississippi River by barge to Wood River.

In answer to questions, Millhone agreed that the question of piping Alaska crude oil to the rest of the nation is a national issue. Minnesota law still required him to make a decision, Millhone said.

This is a multistate issue that has national implications. I'm not very comfortable in the role the Minnesota statute gives me," he said.

Northern Tier Pipeline Company was formed in November 1975 by seven companies. A subsidiary of U.S. Steel Corporation became a substantial owner in October 1977. The firm's headquarters are in Billings, Mont. Robert O. Flotten, Minneapolis, an attorney for the company, said the Minnesota permit was the first one applied for. Flotten called the denial a major setback.

'Obviously, we're not going to abandon the thing," Flotten said. He said the denial was unexpected. It can be appealed in

Two federal studies on the Northern Tier project are under way. One will result in an environmental impact statement, the other will deal with the need for new crude oil supplies in the northern Millhone's denial reversed the recommendation of a state hearing examiner last month. Millhone said Northern Tier needs to ship 540,000 to 600,000 barrels of oil per day to recover its costs. But current estimates suggest a crude oil shortage of only 68,000 to 100,000 barrels per day in northern tier states by 1980, rising to 485,000 barrels per day by 2000, Mil-described as a man who lands on his feet, was flattened again Wednesday by the Senate, which voted to take him off the Texas Coastal and Marine Council.

The Senate rejected Yantis's appointment, 27-0, at the request of hometown Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin.

Doggett, a persistent critic of Yantis, said Gov. Dolph Briscoe had failed to clear the appointment with him.

In its first session on gubernatorial appointees since deciding Tuesday to make such sessions open to the public and press, senators voted 28-0 to confirm these major appointments:

Lyndon Olson Jr. of Waco as chairman of the State Insurance Brard. - Sam Waldrop of Abilene as a state highway commissioner.

The Senate refused Aug. 2 to confirm Yantis's appointment as chairman of the insurance board after Doggett invoked senatorial courtesy." This cherished tradition allows a single senator to block a hometown appointment.

Yantis had headed the Texas Water Quality Board since 1967, and Doggett complained that he had frequently refused to recommend court action against

Three weeks after Senate rejection, however, Briscoe appointed Yantis as executive director of the Natural Resources Council. The governor also raised the salary $8,000 so it would match the $38,000 Yantis had made as insurance chairman.

The refusal to let Yantis serve on the coastal and marine council will not affect that salary or job, which does not require Senate confirmation. Yantis apparently can obtain full state retirement benefits by remaining on the state payroll until Feb. 4, when he will be 65. "My objections to Hugh Yantis are well known," said Doggett, "and he was appointed without my consultation.

Lubbock Man Declares Banker Took Kickbacks In Two Deals

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) - A Lubbock insurance agent told a federal jury he gave kickbacks on two occasions to former Liberty National Bank executive H. Don Gill of Lovington.
H. Don Gill, former board chairman and chief executive officer of the Lovington bank, is on trial on charges of misapplication of funds in connection with two business deals involving the bank and Lubbock insurance agent Harold Harvey.

The U.S. attorney's office contends Gill received half of a $10,000 finder's fee paid to Harvey in the sale of a Lubbock apartment building and half of a $5,893 commission paid to Harvey by an insurance company that bonded the bank.

Defense attorney Leon Taylor of Albuquerque told the jury in his opening statement that the defense would show the $5,000 payment by Harvey to Gill was a loan backed by a note and that the $2,-946 was a payment by Harvey for a sale of

Witness For Davis Relates Phone Plot

HOUSTON (AP) - A professional golfer testified Wednesday that FBI informant David McCrory offered him "good money" last summer to telephone millionaire defendant Cullen Davis and impersonate a police officer.

Harold Sexton, 47, a defense rebuttal witness, said McCrory made the proposal in the weeks just prior to Davis' arrest Aug. 20 in Fort Worth.

"He (McCrory) said we needed someone to place a phone call to Cullen and represent himself as a police officer," Sexton told the jury in Davis' murder conspiracy trial.

"I declined," Sexton added. The surprise testimony plunged to the heart of the defense theory that Davis was framed by McCrory, 40, the state's incriminating tape-recorded conversations with McCrory which form the crux of the state's case.

Davis and McCrory met on a Fort Worth parking lot Aug. 18 and Aug. 20 and discussed the contract murder of Davis' divorce judge and others.

Sexton, a husky, silver-haired man, said he first met McCrory by "sheer chance" in late July or early August at a Fort

Briefly, here is how the situation devel-

A Texas Employment Commission audit last October uncovered numerous discrepancies in attendance records by LOIC students at the learning center's Cook School Program. LOIC counselors apparently had altered attendance records for students who the center had marked as unexcused from classes but who had been excused by LOIC. The students are paid, by federal money authorized from the Comprehensive Employment Training Act, for hours they attend

The learning center contends it was the responsibility of LOIC counselors to notify teachers when each student had been excused. Also, students are supposed to notify both their counselors and the training site when they are ill.

Coup Fear Reported In Iran

One knowledgeable Western observer discounted the chances of an immiment coup and predicted the military would give Bakhtiar a chance to salvage the country before making any moves.

The Iranian armed forces, with one of the world's best stockpiles of military equipment, traditionally have been loyal to the shah. At least half its 430,000 members pursue the military as a wellpaid career

Sources in Tehran predicted that even if hardline senior officers should seize power and try to impose tighter discipline on the country, they would strive to retain the shah as official leader.

The leader of Tehran's Shiite Moslems, the Ayatullah Taleghani, said Wednesday families of army officers had appealed to him for help after mob attacks on soldiers and their relatives. Allied With Khomaini Taleghani is closely allied with the spiritual leader of the Shiites, Ayatullah Khomaini, who lives in exile outside Paris. Taleghani issued an appeal for his followers to refrain from "lynch justice" in pursuing officers, government officials or secret police agents, and said punishment "is the responsibility of the

The 78-year-old Khomaini, meanwhile, said the Iranian government was behind anonymous pamphlets threatening "numerous persons with death on the pretext that they are agents of the shah or members of SAVAK (secret police organization)

He called on his followers to continue their urban demonstrations and their strikes "until this plot on the part of the shah is neutralized.'

Lifts Martial Law

Bakhtiar, in his newspaper interview, was quoted as saying that the government had lifted martial law in the city of Shiraz and would end military control in another Iranian city next week

The paper reported that Bakhtiar said his government had been in power only a couple of days and "one cannot expect more than this.

There were scattered anti-shah demonstrations Wednesday in Tehran but no reports of clashes with troops. Peaceful demonstrations were reported in the major cities of Isfahan and Zaedan on the Pakistani border and in smaller towns. No deaths were reported.

In an apparent attempt to quell the national unrest, the shah on Tuesday pardoned 266 prisoners convicted by military tribunal and bequeathed his personal Iranian property to the charitable Pahlavi Foundation, which he heads as

Bequest Estimated
The shah's bequest was estimated by foundation officials to total between $40 million and $60 million.

The New York Times said Wednesday that a recently published book on Iran by Robert Graham calculates that on the basis of its known holdings, the foundation's assets must total at least $2.8 bil-

Davis offered that explanation for his

In many cases, the students failed to comply, and the LOIC counselors did not pass on information about absences, sometimes withholding such information tract violations. Shaw contends. At an Oct. 25 meeting, Shuffield says in his letter, he met with LOIC representatives, including Miss Henderson, to decide which absences would have been excused had he had the proper information for months. All that amounted to con-

at the time. He did not actually change the records, he said. But acting on his opinion after the fact, Miss Henderson said, she counted as excused absences that the audit said were unexcused and did not seek repayments from students.

Amended Audit Submitted In an amended audit submitted to the SPAG board Oct. 27, she noted this with the words: "Excused by ALC; attendance record corrected.

Those words stirred the latest dispute. Miss Henderson told the A-J the words stand for the abbreviated explanation that the absences "would have been excused by ALC had they had the information and the attendance record would have been corrected."

And, she said, she never intended to mislead the board. "This was just a terminology," she said. "It wasn't our intention with them at the meeting to imply they (ALC) changed any records.

Besides flatly rejecting that explanation, Shaw also contends that LOIC did not collect enough money in overpayments and that any money paid to students marked unexcused by the ALC is misspent.

Based on the fact that Shuffield would have excused students had he known the reason, Miss Henderson countered, she did not penalize students who were not in class or who were marked excused by their counselors.

Claimed Not Overpayments

Those were not overpayments, she insisted, even though they were excused by ALC after the fact and in some cases, months after the missed class.

The contract was violated and procedure not followed, she acknowledged. But, she added, "You can't just look at the procedure. You've got to look at the person and the circumstances involved."

Shaw isn't buying that, "In my opinion the money would have been misspent whether ALC excused it or not because it was not done in accordance with the contract," he argued.

'We're paying people for not going to class.," he said, adding that excuses months after the fact "means there's no such thing as an unexcused absence.'

Following a two-hour discussion, the SPAG executive committee voted Oct. 27 to renew LOIC's contract another year in spite of the audit irregularities and poor management practices.

Had the board known then what is implied now, Shaw contends, LOIC's $555,-000 contract may not have been renewed.

For that reason, the SPAG board should "re-open the question of what happened to the misspent money," he said, adding that the board also should review what was said by Miss Henderson at the Oct. 27 meeting about record

He said he had worked with McCrory at an insurance company for several months in the early 1970s. He said McCrory recognized him in the restaurant and invited him to his table, where the alleged offer was made. Asked again precisely what McCrory said, Sexton replied:

"If you would like to make some money, good money, we need someone to call Cullen and impersonate a police officer." Lead defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes asked the witness, "When he said 'we,' did you make any inquiry as to who he was talking about?"

Sexton said he did not. The witness testified that he assumed McCrory "had drawn the conclusion that hings were not going too good for me."

Sexton said he left Fort Worth on Aug. 14, the week before Davis' arrest, and had worked in the following months at a golf center in Anaheim, Calif. Read In Newspaper

According to Sexton, he read a story in the Los Angeles Times or the Orange County Register about the Davis trial and the purported call from the FBI agent. It was then, he said, that he contacted Haynes and offered to testify for the defense. He said he arrived in Houston last Saturday night. "Out of the woodwork they do come," said prosecutor Tolly Wilson.

"This is the first time we have ever heard of Mr. Sexton. And that one phrase David McCrory said to him is awful hard to believe.

"As a matter of fact, I don't believe," Wilson said

The prosecutor added, "Of course we expected something like this in the 11th hour of the trial. Here we've got another

Sexton said he told no one of his contact with McCrory until he telephoned Haynes "after searching my conscience." He said he expected to receive no money for his testimony and that he had never met the defendant. "Today is the first time I've ever seen his face," Sexton tes-

The state ended its rebuttal testimony earlier after FBI agent James Acree said he did not make the purported telephone call to Davis in mid-August.

"Did you have any conversation Aug. 10 by phone, carrier pigeon or any other way with Cullen Davis?" a prosecutor

"No, sir," Acree replied. Testimony Changed

Davis had testified the caller identified himself as Special Agent Acree, but the defendant added that when Acree testified here, he realized the voice was that of someone else.

Earlier, Dave Childers, the brother of Mrs. Davis, contradicted a defense witness who testified she saw the defendant's estranged wife in Las Vegas last June 13.

He said he was with Mrs. Davis in Fort Worth June 10-15.

Childers said he and his wife visited Mrs. Davis and her mother last summer during a vacation trip from their home in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Prosecutors furnished the jury a family photograph and a handful of gasoline receipts to support Childers' account of his activities that week.

The testimony cast doubts on the story told the jury by defense witness Mary Ramsey, the wife of an executive in the Davis industrial empire.

Mrs. Ramsey said she and her husband were vacationing in Las Vegas last June and that she saw and spoke to Mrs. Davis in a hotel casino in the resort city.

Mrs. Davis, 37, who preceded Mrs.

Ramsey to the stand, testified last December she was not in Las Vegas during the summer months prior to her husband's Aug. 20 arrest. The defense implied there was some sinister mission that took Mrs. Davis to Las Vegas but has provided no such evidence in the 10 weeks of testimony. Childers, tall, curly-headed and sporting a moustache, said he personally drove Mrs. Davis to her attorney's office June 13, and was with her much of the day.

settlement.

Contracts covering the oil workers expired Sunday night, but Grospiron ordered workers to stay on the job while offers were being studied. However, about 3,500 OCAW members stayed away from their jobs at Gulf and Atlantic Richfield facilities at Port Arthur,

The union president re-emphasized that he felt Carter's wage-price guidelines remained an obstacle in achieving a settlement. Grospiron was unable to get assurances from federal officials that the Amoco proposal could be used as a "model" contract for negotiating other

"We don't want the settlement with one company that others may try to abrogate and change," he said.

The Amoco offer calls for a 73-centper-hour wage increase in the first year of the contract and a wage-reopener clause the second year. The 73-cent increase is equivalent to an 8.3 percent boost, based on the average oil worker's wage of $8.82 an hour.

However, Amoco, a subsidiary of transportation unions honor picket lines.

Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, insisted the increase actually is about 7 percent because its workers average $9.34 an hour and because certain employees are exempt from the increase.

Grospiron met for more than three hours Tuesday with Wayne Horvitz, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and his assistant, William Hobgood. Horvitz conceded that "the government has some problems with the (Amoco) proposal," but he declined to say whether be had advised the union that the offer is in violation of the guidelines. Horvitz, who came to Denver because he said he felt "a strike situation was ap-

Daughter Walking Tall

SELMER, Tenn. (AP) - The daughter of the late Sheriff Buford Pusser of "Walking Tall" movie fame has begun taking control of her father's estate.

Dwana Pusser Alexander celebrated her 18th birthday Tuesday by signing documents accepting responsibility for the estate which has been involved in legal disputes since Pusser's death in an automobile accident in 1974.

Chancellor Dewey Whittenton released to Mrs. Alexander about $75,000, but retained control of about $140,000 which may be used to pay taxes on the estate.

Pusser was made famous by the 1973 movie "Walking Tall" which portrayed his exploits as the McNairy County sheriff during the 1960s. Two sequels have since been filmed, and his estate was primarily made up of royalties

Mrs. Alexander's grandmother, Helen Pusser, 70, originally was named guardian of the estate when her son died. The court relieved her of the guardianship two years ago when it was revealed she spent almost $150,000 in a fruitless investigation into Pusser's death. After Pusser's death, his daughter lived with her grandmother until getting married:

The court later ordered the Aetna Insurance Co., which bonded Mrs. Pusser, to repay the money into the estate.

"The things I warned my father about in the 1960s are coming home to roost in the late 1970s."

'Today' Defends New Look

NEW YORK (AP) - The producer of NBC's "Today" says the new look on the show has nothing to do with the ratings race.

We were planning these changes six months ago when our ratings were as high as ever," Paul Friedman said Tuesday. "So it's easy for me to say we simply wanted to make the show better. "Today" opened Monday in a new set, with a panaoramic view of Manhattan, and with a new theme song incorporating the network's familiar three-tone chimes.

Jane Pauley, a "Today" regular since October, 1976, said the old set was too stark.

"I remember sitting there, doing the show by myself," with nothing but chair," she said.

As for the new set, she says, 'It's like coming to work in a new set of clothes. In a sense, I think it enchances what we

Movie Studio Fined

DENVER (UPI) - Universal Studios has been fined for its failure to provide a proper ventilation system for the dressing room in which actor Richard Kelton died from carbon monoxide poisoning, a federal spokes Wednesday.

William Corrigan, area director of the Occupational Safe-ty and Health Administation, said there was no proper ven-tilation system for exhaust fumes in the makeshift dressing room mounted on a semi-trailer truck.

Kelton, 35, died Nov. 27, in his dressing room while stud-ying lines for the filming of the "Centennial" television se-ries. The crew was filming on a ranch south of the metro-politan Denver area on the day of Kelton's death.

Corrigan said fumes from the generator unit used to heat the dressing room were being exhausted underneath the trailer unit.

The makeshift skirting installed around the trailer unit didn't allow the exhaust fumes to escape from under the trailer," he said. "The exhaust fumes from the generator unit trapped underneath allowed for carbon monoxide to unit trapped underneath allowed for carbon me infiltrate the dressing room and reach levels which would cause death or serious physical harm."

Kelton was found slumped over on a couch by a coworker. His death originally was attributed to a heart attack. Corrigon said OSHA found no indication of any willful ection in connection with Kelton's death.

The OSHA official refused to reveal the amount of the fine, which could have reached a maximum of $1,000. A Universal official at Studio City, Calif., said it was $720.

Sacker Returns Sack

HOUSTON (AP) - An unidentified sacker at a local super market has received a $5 tip for returning a very special sack he found in the store's parking lot - a bag containing about $1,500.

The 16-year-old youth, who did not want to be identified, said his act was not unusual and doubts that he deserved the reward, given to him by the store manager.

The youth turned the bag over to store manager Brad Blair, who located the owner through identification papers Khalil Alami, who thought he had left the bag at a rela-

Dog Food 'Registered'

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) - A McAlester man was charged Tuesday with stealing a registered quarter horse valued at $3,000 and then selling it for 40 cents a pound to a Texas rendering plant to be made into dog food.

"The owner is real upset," an Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation official said. It was sorrel, about 15 hands high and had a flaxon tail. But they're (law enforcement officers) reasonably sure that if had gone through the grinder by the time they got there.

'They've done made dog food or fertilizer out of that pony," the official said.

The horse, after being stolen Oct. 3 was sold two days later to a slaughterhouse at Palestine, Texas, for a total of $444, authorities said.

Charles Thompson, 60, of Haywood, was being sought late Tuesday after a warrant was issued charging him with larceny of a domestic animal, said Pittsburg County District Attorney Don Roberts. He is accused of stealing the horse from Floyd Glenn,

The case was investigated by the sheriff's office, the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Association and the OSBI.

Swiss Inflation Rate One Percent For '78

BERN (AP) - Switzerland's rate of inflation, the lowest among industrialized countries for years, dropped to 1 percent for all of 1978, the Swiss Office for Industry, Trade and Labor said

It was the lowest inflation during a calendar year since 1959, the office said. The Swiss have been by far the most successful Western country in curbing their inflation, which reached a historic high of 11.9 per cent in 1973, then gradually declined to 7.6, 6.7, 1.7 and 1.3 per cent in the following calendar years.

New Campaign Against Smoking To Be Ignited Today By HEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new surgeon general's report offers no "startling new revelations" about diseases caused by smoking, but it will reveal new informawho smoke, an HEW official says.

For example, the report indicates youngsters may actually suffer immediate lung damage when they take up smoking, and not merely run the risk of diseases in the distant future, said John Pinney, director of HEW's Office on Smoking and Health.

And the report has some bad news for smokers looking for easy ways to quit the

"We haven't found any easy way to help people quit smoking," Pinney said in an interview.

HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. and Surgeon General Julius Richmond scheduled release of the 1,200-page report today, the 15th anniversary of the first Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health. The original report linked cigarettes to lung cancer in men and led to warnings on cigarette packages and advertising.

Today also is the first anniversary of Califano's campaign to get America's 54 million smokers to quit, and to discourage youngsters from starting.

The Tobacco Institute, the industry's lobbying group, held a news conference Wednesday to attack Califano and issue its own 168-page review of smoking and health. It predicted Califano's report would be "more rehash than research."

The $250,000 government report was prepared by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Office on Smoking and Health with the help of HEW health institutes and outside scientists, who reviewed 30,000 biomedical studies. The 1964 surgeon general's report by an advisory committee reviewed 6,000 stud-

The new report will include 13 chapters on biomedical research about smoking; five chapters on the behavioral aspects of smoking and four chapters on smoking education and prevention, said Pinney.

"It is by far the most comprehensive report that's ever been written on smoking and health," Pinney said. He said it will not provide "startling new revelations" about the health consequences of smoking because most of the research cited already has been made public. But there are some "very clear public health messages in the report," he "You begin to see ... possibilities that kids may actually do some harm to themselves when they start smoking ... some immediate physical harm, like lung damage, like respiratory damage," he said. The evidence is "quite extensive" linking smoking to heart disease, which is particularly significant because it was one of the areas implicated in 1964, but "There are very significant health implications that can be drawn from the report" about dangers of smoking for children, women and people with other kinds of health problems, said Pinney.

The government has learned more about "the implications of carbon monoxide (in cigarettes) and sudden cardiac death," said Pinney, who added that

New Smoking Report Ridiculed By Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tobacco industry said Wednesday a new surgeon general's report on smoking "will be more rehash than research" and called the timing of the report a publicity stunt.

The report will be released today, the 15th anniversary of the 1964 surgeon general's report that linked smoking to lung cancer and a host of other diseases, and eventually led to health warnings on cigarette packages and in "dverticated".

HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. and Surgeon General Julius Richmond will release the report. Health, Education and Welfare Department officials say the report contains no startling new scientific evidence about smok-

Horace R. Kornegay, a former congressman from North Carolina and now president of the Tobacco Institute, an industry lobbying group, said he had not seen the 1,200-page report. But he said a review of scientific literature shows "no dramatic new breakthrough" for Califano to report.

Kornegay called at a news conference for increased research into the other suspected causes of lung cancer. Cigarettes are just one suspect, he said, urging HEW to advise the public "in a reasonable, accurate manner" without "Nature will not yield her secrets to media events, propaganda barrages, self-righteous zeal or cabinet-level fiat, but only to the steady advance of aci-entific knowledge." he said.

A year ago, Califano ordered a $23 million campaign against smoking as the top public health hazard

Bill Dwyer, vice president of the Tobacco Institute, said internal HEW memos call for the report's release to be "a media event" and that makes the "Science doesn't time its findings. ... Turning a significant health question into a publicity stunt is an insult to serious science," Dwyer said.

The institute offered a report of its own — 201 pages citing studies that dispute those linking smoking and disease and restating the industry position that laboratory evidence against smoking is inconclusive.

Dwyer conceded that the smoking-cancer issue has become a personal battle between Califano and the institute "because of his excessive zeal." Dwyer added: "His endeavor is subjective, stubborn and strident. We rather resent attempts to be guessed out of business."

Noting that Califano is a former smoker, Dwyer said: "America beware if Califano ever gives un drinking or other pleasure pursuits, even the most inti-

St. Mary's, Tech Unite In Alcoholism Treatmen

Alcoholics can now receive treatment through a uniquely comprehensive program that follows the patient through lifelong recovery in a new alcoholic treatment facility formally opened Wednesday at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital. The hospital facility is "aimed at everyone who has the ability to come to St. Mary's Hospital," said Dr. Charalampous. "It is not aimed to just satisfy the indigent needs of Lubbock County."

Cost of the in-patient phase includes cost of the room — anywhere from $65 to $120 a day - and doctor's fees, which may run from $15 to $35 a day, according to Dr. Charalampous. Cost of the out-patient phase, however, is adusted according to the patient's ability to pay. "We are able to respond to the individual, irrespective of his ability to pay," said Dr. Charalampous. The in-patient phase of the program, although administered through the medical school, was not established at the Health Sciences Center Hospital because it is a "limited resource." said Dr. Charalampous. The total bed capacity at HSCH is small, he said, and "in order to employ as many specialized activities as we can, we need to use all community resources." Aside from detoxification, patients receive group and individual counseling, including participation in Alcholics Anonymous meetings at the hospital. They also participate in vocational rehabilitation and other specialized training. The program stresses the importance of family and friends in treating the pa-

Buntin is accused of taking two girls. 8 and 9 years old, from their front yard and molesting the older one after driving them to a rural area last June 2.

The older girl, now 10, testified Tuesday afternoon that Buntin disrobed her

Professional Society Urges Study Of Solar Power Satellite Systems

scientific society Wednesday urged a fiveyear, $150 million federal study to determine the feasibility of developing satelites to convert the sun's rays to energy and beam it to Earth.

But it cautioned against rushing into a demonstration or development program as some congressmen and industry groups have recommended.

The American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, representing 27,000 perospace engineers and scientists, said in a position paper that a solar power satellite system appears to be technically possible and might be able to provide all this nation's energy needs.

But a considerable effort is needed to determine its economic, environmental, societal and political viability," the institute stated.

Dr. Jerry Grey, the institute's administrator for public policy, said a federal expenditure of $30 million annually for five years, followed by some in-orbit experiments using the manned space shuttle could determine whether the nation should build a prototype satellite.

The Department of Energy currently is spending about $5 million a year on solar power satellite research. The program recommended by the institute would be managed by DOE with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration play-

There are several names for these spider veins, spider burst, varicules, etc. They are essentially harmless cosmetic nuisances, mini-versions of varicose veins. They seem to be related to any increased pressure on the normal flow of blood (venous blood).

Otherwise, it is not entirely clear why they appear or why some get them and others not. It's thought that, since they tend to occur more in women, hormones are involved. This idea is strengthened by the fact that they tend to occur during pregnancy, when hormonal activity rises? Vein pressure from pregnancy contrib-More recently, hormones in birth control pills have been implicated. In any event, they tend to disappear following pregnancy or after going off the Pill. It may take months.

If they persist and become an intolerable cosmetic nuisance, they can be re-moved by a new method in which a sclerosing (drying) solution is injected into one of the central superficial (near the surface) veins.

As you can imagine, your letter speaks for thousands of women who write on this subject. I hope they are reading. The problem can occur in men also. Except for cosmetic removal no treatment is re-

> Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I have long fingernails and like to keep them painted.

Because I frequently change colors, I bought a box of false plastic fingernails and painted each nail a different color. I then mounted the fingernails on ice cream sticks, one fingernail on each stick. I used the adhesive glue that came in the package of fingernals.

I put the polish samples in a jar and now when I need to know what color to wear with a certain outfit, I just get out the samples and match 'em up! No more confusion and saves time, too.

Sounds like a fantastic idea. And since the polish in the bottle doesn't always show the same color as when painted on the nails, it would be a good idea to write the different names of the polish on each

The most recent example is Kate Mulgrew, who was so incredibly vibrant, exciting and riveting as the original Mary Ryan on "Ryan's Hope," that the producers of that show have been sorely beset in discovering worthy successors since Kate left the soaper after a two-year hitch. Kate was one of the few memorable reasons for watching last fall's night-time TV miniseries, "The Word." And now comes word that she'll be playing the title role in NBC's January debuting series, "Mrs. Columbo," a comedy offshoot of Peter Falk's detective series.

"RH" recently lost another seeming irreplaceable performer when Ilene Kristen (Delia Ryan Coleridge) decided not to renew her contract. The producers offered Hene everything under the sun to keep her on their daytime show, but the blonde vixen is intent on expanding her career in nighttime TV and films. Meanwhile an exhausting search is on to recast the role of Dee. Good luck, "RH." May the force of Ilene's indelible portrayal be part is through "cheaper" beef — beef has not inflated at near the rate as have other parts of the economy. Much of the credit for that slow inflation rate can be passed out right here in Texas — where agriculture has made tremendous strides in increasing efficiency in recent years.

Until the mid-1960's, Texas hardly ranked as a cattle feeding state. Most Lone Star cattlemen were ranchers - the men who own the cow herds that pro-

And, usually, cheaper simply means more efficiently. The custom feeders' tock-in-trade is getting as many pounds of beef as possible from a given quantity

That's one reason the advent of commercial feedyards in Texas has increased our beef supply so drastically.

Grain represents an extremely efficient method of utilizing land for beef produc-tion. In the Texas Panhandle, for inst-ance, native range would produce less than 100 pounds of finished beef per acre if used in lieu of feedyards. But converted to irrigated corn, the same acre can produce in excess of 1,500 pounds of beef.

But most steers do not spend much of their time in the feedyard. In fact, most are 12 to 18 months old before they ever see a feed pen, and they usually are ready to leave that facility 120 to 150 days after arrival. Thus, the typical fed steer going to slowther in Texas has garnered more to slaughter in Texas has garnered more than three-quarters of his life's feed from forage — grass and hay. He gets only about 25 percent in the feedyard. That's why scientists estimate that it takes only 5.39 pounds of grain to produce a pound of edible fed beef, compared to 6.6 pounds for a pound of pork, and 5.02

Alvin Nitsche, convicted in Mitchell County on June 12, 1978, for driving while intoxicated, was released to Ector County after serving and earning his full one-year sentence.

The board also revoked the parole of Feliciano Rodriquez, paroled Sept. 14, 1976, after serving and earning two years and seven months of a seven-year robbery and assault conviction.

The board cited unsatisfactory adjustment as the reason for the revocation.

Pay For Interns Ruled Taxable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pay received by a hospital intern is taxable income, not a fellowship, the U.S. Tax Court says.

The court ruled in the case of John E. Adams of Arvada, Colo., who had been an intern in Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital in Denver.

Because his internship in 1972 and 1973 had been a learning activity he sought to deduct part of his pay as a fellowship grant.

Under the law such grants are deductible only if their primary purpose is education, not payment for services.

Because Adams worked as a physician at the hospital during his internship the court held that the hospital's payments enabled it to gain his services. Therefore, the payments are taxable, the court said.

Noting that similar cases have come to the court several times, Chief Judge C. Moxley Featherston suggested a clarification of the tax regulations replacing the "primary purpose" test for fellowship deductions. Then, he suggested, "perhaps young doctors would find a more constructive endeavor than attempting to exploit this ambiguity in the regulation."

Eggs laid in summer months were vulverable to breaking until farmers air conditioned henhouses; hot weather evidently discomforts the hens and causes them to lay thin-shelled eggs.

stalled. Since 1941 the House relied on an electro-mechanical system, and in recent years the 38-year-old device has proven susceptible to malfunctioning To eliminate delays caused by the need for manual vote verification, expense of special made parts and to preserve accuracy, the House in its last session approved a request to overhaul the problem-prone board Months of investigation in reviewing leading companies and the operation of machines in other states produced a $190,000 package well below the $920,000 bid for a computerized toting system for the Texas House in 1973. The new machinery automatically enters excused members into the record, enters floor votes and insures the integri-

COLD CURBS LEAK RIVERDALE, Ill. (AP) - Authorities credited cold weather with helping control 3,000 gallons of a highly toxic chemical that leaked from a railroad tank car and forced some 2,000 residents of this southern suburb of Chicago to evacuate their homes for several hours. Officials said the chemical acrylonitrile, used in the manufacture of plastics, began leaking about 12:45 p.m. Tuesday in the Blue Island yard of the Indiana Harbor Belt Line Railroad. But near-zero temperatures probably helped prevent the fumes from vaporizing and spreading.

ty of voting stations. A display board with freeform capabilities spells out informa-tion about legislation under considera-tion, produce the day, time, number of the measure being acted upon and vote

Instead of having to conform to a machine's capabilities, the House is able to operate under its present rules because of custom features incorporated within

Those familiar with the old voting system in the House will have to look clo to see any sign of change. Tally boards with members' names on each side of the rostrum remain as does the outer shell of the summary board above the rostrum. This was done to pare cost and retain the historical flavor of the chamber.

A significant change is the drastic reduction in space needed to contain the machinery. The components of the new board consist of a control panel and hardware cabinet and is 1/5th the size of the old machine, which filled a small room.

Individual voting stations on each member's desk was replaced with recessed hardware which blend with the desk tops and allow yes, no or present balloting with a keyed control.

More than six months was needed to complete removal of the old components and to effect the changes necessary to modify the system.

I am pleased with the efforts to find an economical and efficient system which will care for the needs of the House for years to come. There is no doubt that this system best suits our needs for the dol-lars that were expended.

Lubbock Officials Support Flock Of State Bills

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

Avalanche-Journal Staff
It's not unusual for local governments to lobby for certain bills being considered by the state legislature. But Lubbock city officials are going beyond the usual lobbying efforts by actually drafting the legislation they support. Assistant City Manager Jim Blagg, who has been assigned the task of composing the legislation, said there has been "a lot more interest on the part of the city council this time.' In past years the city primarily has "monitored legislation to see how it might affect the city," Blagg said: City council members will consider passing resolutions in support of about 10 bills, Thursday, including five already drafted by Blagg.

One piece of legislation supported by council members would permit the Alcoholic Beverage Commission to suspend or revoke a liquor license for a violation of a civil rights or anti-discrimination

The council passed such an ordinance for Lubbock in October, after complaining that the maximum $200 fine wouldn't be much of a deterrent.

Council members also noted at that time that the city's lack of a municipal court of record could scuttle prosecution of complaints under the ordinance.

One of the bills written by Blagg would create a court of record in Lubbock.

McInturff Gets Nod For County Hospital Board

County commissioners appointed Don McInturff to a two-year term as a member of the Lubbock County Hospital District Board of Managers during a special meeting Wednesday. His term begins McInturff will be sworn in Monday along with Jack Strong and John Flygare, both reappointed to the board by the commissioners Wednesday. McInturff replaces C.B. Carter, who was unavailable for reappointment.

A native of Lubbock, McInturff, 52, is a farmer and oilman. He is a graduate of Texas A&M and a member of the First Methodist Church. He and his wife, Pauline, have two sons.

County Judge Rodrick Shaw an-nounced Wednesday that the Criminal Justice Division has awarded three area grants, $500,000 for the Juvenile Facility Center construction, $62,113 for the criminal district attorney's reorganization staff and $14,488 for District Judge Howard Davison's administrative judi-

Judge Shaw said he plans to schedule special county commis to officially accept the grants.

In other business, bids for county depository will be opened at the commis sioners' regular meeting Feb. 12. The commissioners also approved two Justice of the Peace official bonds Wednesday, those of Melvin Powers at Pct. 5, Wolfforth, and Dardenella Williamson, Pet. 4 at Shallowater.

Retrained Children Are Graduated From Center

Children who have been retrained in reading, writing and spelling skills will be graduated from the Scottish Rite Language-Learning Difference center Jan. 19 after two years of intensive study.

The school-age children, retrained in learning skills because of problems with dyslexia (a reading problem), are instructed through a program supported to-tally by contributions from the Texas Plains area.

Families of the graduating students as well as their school counselors have been invited to the ceremonies.

Many of those appeals never come to trial and are eventually dismissed because of the crowded county court dock-Another bill would increase the dollar figure at which competitive bids must be sought on contracts, Blagg said. Under state law, any contracts more than $3,000 must have competitive bids requirements, he said. The city would like the limit raised from $3,000 to $5,000 because "what used to be a large contract, is just not large anymore," Blagg said. The present limit "conceivably could hold up a small job two weeks to a month," he said, and could prevent the city from making emergency repairs costing more than $3,000.

City officials also would like legislation passed that would require the state to "pick up any costs mandated to the cities," Blagg said.

Short of that, Blagg said the city supports efforts by the Texas Municipal League to get both the senate and the house to require fiscal notes on any bills that would affect cities.

Blagg said the city would like to see two amendments to the state's Civil Service Law approved. One would allow the police and fire chiefs to select their assistant chiefs without regard to civil service regulations. A second amendment would prevent fire and police applicants from appealing

Such appeals are frequent, Blagg said, building codes can be enforced. and prevent the start of rookie fire and police classes until the appeal is settled. Council members also have indicated support for legislation which would:

-Send an additional penny of the existing four-cent state sales tax back to Texas cities. Lubbock would receive an additional $7 million under such a bill and the property tax rate could be lowered by about 56 cents.

-Require the payment of property tax-

Alley Problem Caused By Yule Tree Discards

Christmas trees and brush that should be disposed of by Lubbock residents are creating problems in city alleys, according to Sanitation Superintendent Levi "Coach" Maples.

City residents now must dispose of brush and Christmas trees because brush collection trucks were discontinued on Oct 1, 1928. The action allowed a ued on Oct. 1, 1978. The action allowed a $600,000 cut in the city budget and a six cent cut in the city tax rate.

Livestock Futures Close Mixed In Heavy Trading

CHICAGO - Cattle futures closed 97 points lower to 27 higher in heavy trade of 33,059 cars Wednesday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. June was off the most after losing 122. Only nearby January was higher after rising 50 to a new season's high early.

Early buying was sparked by light slaughter cattle run and continued upsurge in cash cattle and beef. Profit-taking came on concern over the eight-cent boost in beef prices.

There have been 103 deliveries thus far. Wholesale beef was up 1 to 2 cents at 92 1/2 to 93 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river points, which is the highest since June. Cash cattle were up $1 to $2 with the best top $62.25 per hundredweight. Slaughter was 144,000 head. Receipts at the major markets today are expected to be 12,500 head.

Feeder cattle futures closed 42 to 135 lower led by April after March through October fell the limit level of 150. Volume was 3,214 contracts. Prices were Selling was primarily profit-taking after Tuesday's advance to new season's highs. The sharp escalation in cash feeder cattle and carcass beef tended to keep traders cautious as they feared consumer reaction when retail prices rose.

There have been 394 deliveries thus far. Cash feeder cattle were steady to up $5 with the best top $121 per hundred weight at San Antonio. About 7,600 head

Stereotyped Teacher Role Disappearing

PIERRE, S.D. (UPI) - An about-face is happening these days in prairie school - women are teaching agriculture to sons and daughters of ranchers and some of the boys are taking home economics classes.

Ella Stotz, state supervisor for Equality in Vocational Education, says sex stereotyping in South Dakota's public schools is on the decline.

"Girls and boys, men and women are enrolling in classes formerly considered for one sex only," Miss Stotz said in a interview. "For example, Hoven High School has 22 young women enrolled in pricultural classes this year."

Miss Stotz said discrimination in South Dakota classrooms was not deliberate, but was the result of generations of attibides dating back to when the rugged Dakota Territory was settled. But, she said, modern demands for a well trained ork force make equality necessary.

"Many times students were reluctant enter a program which was formerly for one sex only because they did not want to be the 'only one' of the other sex" enrolled, she said. Now "young men are enrolling in classes in independ ent living, and young women are entertrade and industry programs.

High school teachers also are changing their traditional roles, she said.

"There is a male instructor in Home Economics Education, Dean Allerdings, at the Northwest Multi District in Lemmo " she said. "There are also four fenale ag instructors at Lemmon, Huron, Sturgis and Wall."

Allerdings, a native of Seelby, S.D., and the state's lone male home economses instructor, said male-female enrollment in his class is usually about even. He said it has been well accepted by both parents and students.

"At least they haven't said anything to me," Allerdings said in a telephone interview from his mobile classroom, a necessity in the sparsely populated Plains.

"We've had our conferences with parents and no one's even questioned my teaching in this area." Allerdings teaches "Quantity Foods and Restaurant Management" in one of nine mobile classrooms in the district headquartered at Lemmon in the northwestern part of the state. Each semester, he said, the classroom is moved from one of nine high schools in the district to another. Debra Ham, who teaches Animal Sci-

"I haven't run into any problems at all with acceptance," Miss Ham said. "I'm from around this area, and I know what the lifestyles and people are like.

"I got into animal science because I was interested in it and I just couldn't see spending all that money going to col-lege to learn how to be a housewife."

Miss Ham said some parents who live in the West River ranching area of South Dakota still wonder if a woman knows anything about livestock. "But after you ow them you can do it, it's no problem at all." She said more girls today are interested in ranching, and each semester femenrollment in her class is on the rise.

"I teach everything about livestock, in-cluding range management," she said. Sex stereotyping should be eliminated from vocational programs, Miss Stotz said, because it prevents people from seeking jobs in areas where they have special talent.

Hog futures closed 70 higher to 27 lower on 8,056 cars. Nearby February gained the most after rising 77 to a three week high. Distant April was off the most after deferred February fell 82.

Although cash hogs were generally lower on increased arrivals, top prices continue to move up. The sharp advance in pork products in the face of heavy kill was also a source of positive sentiment in the nearby contracts.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up 1/4 cent at 81 to 85 1/4 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were off 50 to up 50 cents with the best top $53.25 per hundredweight at Peoria. Kill was 329,-000 head. The major markets are expecting 29,500 head today.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed 45 higher to 5 lower on 5,748 contracts. February was up the most after rising 85 to t three week high. Only July was lower after breaking 105 early.

FFA Livestock Show To Open Here Monday

About 335 hogs, 224 lambs and 31 steers will be entered in the 1979 Lubbock County Future Farmers of America and 4-H Livestock Show Monday and Tuesday at the South Plains Fairground. Barrow judging will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Monday and steers will be exhibited immediately after the barrow show. Sheep judging will start at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. The premium sale will be held in the livestock pavilion beginning at 6 p.m.

Tuesday. General superintendent of this year's show will be J. E. Mimms of Acuff. Divisional superintendens will be: Robert Fletcher of Wolfforth, sheep; Milton Daniel of Idalou, hogs; and, G. H. Ragland of Acuff, steers.

Officers of the Livestock Association are Ken Aldridge of Lake Ransom Canyon, president, Beth Arnold of Woodrow, secretary, and Bill Biddy of Lubbock, finance chairman.

All Lubbock County businesses are invited to support the local FFA and 4-H chapters at the sale with premium bids. CHICAGO (AP) - Late buying by brokerage firms pushed nearby wheat prices higher today on the Chicago Board of Traders said local buying of wheat for the March delivery pushed prices above the $3.42-a-bushel level, triggering automatic buying by commission houses that yielded 6-cent closing gains. Reports of strong commercial demand for Chicago wheat stocks helped spur the buying, a trader said.

More distant delivery months were mixed, with May contracts gaining only 2 cents a bushel under spreading pressure selling of May contracts by buyers of March contracts.

Soybean futures drifted lower late in the session after fluctuating in a narrow range. Price chart patterns indicated a moderate downward trend for soybean futures, some analysts said.

Also, traders viewed today's delivery notices against January contracts as fairly heavy, an indication that some traders chose to deliver soybeans instead of awaiting possible higher prices later this

In 1976, the United States produced 18.3 percent of the world's cotton supply.

RESEARCH STUDIES INDICATE THAT demand for U.S. cotton exports is Long term effects of acreage cutbacks would mean a smaller world market share and lower revenues for U. S. cotton growers, Bateman said. Even if world

In a dissenting opinion, Judge W.T. Phillips said Bates's conviction should be case was moved from Corpus Christi to July 16, 1976, at the Northwest National Houston. He pleaded no contest to the murder charge.

Farenthold was the stepson of Frances 'Sissy" Farenthold, former Texas gubernatorial candidate. At the trial, Robert Walters testified that Bass asked him if he could find someone "to get rid of" Farenthold, Walters said Bass told him that he kidnapped

the victim and strangled him in the back seat of a car. Walters said Bass told him he weighted the body down with concrete, ropes and chains and threw the body into the Gulf. Farenthold's body was found a few days later after being washed ashore.

Bass challenged the sufficiency of the evidence against him. In other cases, the court: -Upheld the death penalty conviction of Harvey Earvin of Lufkin. He was convicted in the Dec. 7, 1976, robbery-slaying of service station attendant Ertis Brock. Earvin objected to the way jurors were selected for his trial. -Affirmed Witmer Jean Ballard's life sentence on murder charges in the death of Glasscock County rancher Stephen Currie on Dec. 2, 1970. Ballard's trial was moved on change of venue to San Angelo.

Good, Bad Aspects Of Hawaii's Growth Mulled

HONOLULU (AP) - Hawaii's Kauai Island recently got its first stoplight, and some residents are clamoring for a second because of heavy traffic.

On Maui, a drawing was held to select buyers for a new condominium, before the start of construction, because more than 1,200 applicants sought the 148 units.

On Oahu, the main island, public high schools are involved in elaborate athletic play-off schedules, rivaling those of the professionals, because of a proliferation of new schools

On Hawaii Island, desolate volcanic land which a few years ago sold for a couple of thousand dollars an acre is now going for $20,000 an acre because of the promise of geothermal energy.

These seemingly unrelated happenings on the state's four major islands are linked as products of Hawaii's growth in population and economy.

As the state approaches its 20th birthday, government officials and residents are wondering aloud whether all this growth has been good - and if it should not be curbed.

The resident population has jumped from about 600,000 at the time of statehood in 1959 to an estimated 910,000 to-

General fund revenues, the measure of the state's economic growth, have increased from $150.1 million in 1961 to almost $700 million in 1977. Through November of this year, they were up another 17.4 percent.

The gross state product has increased about 500 percent since 1959 to $7.5 bil-

The population increase is seen every-

Traffic congestion was unheard of on the neighbor islands (Maui, Hawaii, Kauai, Molokai) just a few years ago. Now traffic lights are being added, oneway traffic patterns are being devised and other steps are being taken to cope with the influx of people and their auto-

ANTHONY DOLLAR MINTED DENVER (AP) - The Denver Mint has begun turning out the new Susan B. Anthony dollar, the first coin ever to honor an American woman, at the rate of 1.6 million a day. About 50 visitors watched Tuesday as Stella B. Hackel, U. S. Director of the Mint, and Evelyn T. Davidson. director of the Denver Mint, started the Oahu has jumped from 16 a decade years ago to the present 21, and more are planned.

The most noticeable evidence of growth is in housing. Neighborhoods that one time were graced by single-family homes have given way to high-rise condominiums.

Former pineapple and sugarcane lands now are sprawling subdivisions. The amount of land in agricultural use has dropped by 300,000 acres in less than 20

With the increase in housing has come an unbelievable increase in prices. A three-bedroom home in a middle-class-Oahu subdivision sells for $90,000, more than double the purchase price eight years ago.

A Maui condominium owner recently rejected an offer of $200,000 for a unit be bought for $50,000 only three years ago.

The average price of single-family homes on Oahu was $140,000 last month, says the Honolulu Board of Realtors. Thirty-one townhouse units in the Kapalua development on Maui were sold, in a drawing before the start of construction, for an average $442,000.

Not many of us can afford that. Butthese are affluent people who apparently want a second home in Hawaii," says Albert V. Vincent, president of the Hawaii Association of Realtors.

There appears to be little speculation buying, he says.

Part of the buying craze may be based on "inflation psychology," says Bank of Hawaii economist Thomas Hitch.

Investors are deciding to get out of the stock market, out of the bond market, and into real property where they can beat inflation," Hitch says.

Along with new homes there are new hotels, office buildings and industrial complexes, which have boosted the construction industry to a billion-dollar-ayear business. The building crane is known as Hawaii's unofficial state bird.

While hotel construction continues at a moderate pace, slightly ahead of the demand that keeps most of the existing hotels at 93 to 97 per cent of capacity most of the time, the focus for locations has

Waikiki's 602 acres are nearly saturated, with 23,000 hotel rooms, and expansion now is concentrated on neighboring islands. Even Molokai, a quiet island bypassed by most tourists, now has a major resort hotel. Since the jet airliner cut travel time to the islands in half 15 years ago, the number of annual visitors has swelled tenfold to 3.5 million in 1978, up about 10 percent from the previous year.

Tourism has become a $1.8 billion a year business, tops in the Hawaiian econ-

SATURATION POINT? - Honolulu's famed Waikiki Beach has almost wall-to-wall people on its famous white sands due to the more than 23,000 hotel rooms bordering the beachfront on the island of Oahu. The crush has turned investor's eyes to the neighboring islands of Maui, Hawaii, and Kauai, where both hotel and condominium construction is booming. (AP Laserphoto)

Short Votes Against Open Rule

State Sen. E.L. Short said Wednesday he voted against opening up his chamber's sessions on gubernatorial appointments because he didn't think the rule change would make any difference.

"A vote for or against it was more or less meaningless. It didn't change a thing, really," said the Tahoka rancher, who represents Lubbock and the 12 other counties of the 28th state senatorial dis-

On Tuesday, the Senate voted 18-13 to open to the public and press debate on gubernatorial appointments to state jobs. Such debate now will be assumed to be open unless a senator asks that the doors be locked as a "courtesy" or a majority of 16 senators vote to go into executive

Under the old Senate rules, appointment sessions automatically were considered private unless the Senate voted to

"I voted to leave it (the rule on appointment sessions) like it was. It's been working good like it was, and I didn't see any need to try to change it," Short said Wednesday in a telephone interview from his Capitol office.

"Besides, I don't believe it (the new rule) will make a change. Sessions (on appointments) can still be closed if a member of the Senate asks," he said.

"Under the old rules, sessions were considered closed unless the Senate voted to open them. Under the new rules. sessions are considered open unless somebody asks that they be closed. We really didn't change a thing.

Short noted that Sen. A.R. Schwartz, who sponsored the rule change, admitted that the change was largely symbolic. Schwartz had said that even under the old rules, there was "virtually no secrein discussing nominations. Committee debate on appointees, for example, has been open since 1969, and the full Senate occasionally votes to debate an appointment in public. Roll call votes also are taken in open session.

However, Schwartz had argued that 'not even a semblance" of secrecy should remain

sive there is an oft-voiced concern that the industry is destroying what it is selling - Hawaii's natural beauty. There also is concern for the "aloha spirit," the attitude of warm and caring friendship that makes Hawaii's people the islands' greatest asset

Because of this, and because tourism is subject to the whims of the national economy, state officials hope to develop some economic eggs outside the tourism basket.

Gov. George Ariyoshi is promoting such industries as aquaculture and mining of manganese nodules from the ocean floor, not only as alternative economic sources, but as industries which are not

This is part of Ariyoshi's controlled growth policy, aimed, in part, at curbing immigration. Last year, a law his administration pushed through the legislature to prevent newcomers from jumping on-to the welfare rolls was quickly killed by the courts as unconstitutional. A law passed last year giving local residents priority in public jobs has yet to be tested.

Controlled growth means "a preferred future, a chance for our children to remain in Hawaii, to get jobs in Hawaii," Ariyoshi explains. "No growth means no

"We need to be a growth state, but growth at the right rate and in the right places," he says.

You have read in this newspaper and have heard on radio and T.V. that the housing market in Lubback is depressed and that mortgage money is virtually unobtainable. Mortage loan companies always take a

the negatives, build on this and present it out of proportion. The fact is that the housing market in Lubback is not depressed and mortgage money is available. You can and should purchase that new home new. Why now? The selection of homes in Lubbock has never been better, interest rates will more than likely continue to go up, and inflation is certain to continue driving house prices up. Waiting for interest rates to come down before buying is not in your best interest, because the escalated values of property will more than affset any savings on interest rates.

Ownership of a home is the only way most people have of protecting their savings from inflationary trends. It is also a fact that the purchase of a previously owned or new home in Lubbock is still a bargain. Compared to the rest of the Southwestern United States, Lubbock housing is inexpessive. Those of us who live here do not think of it as being inexpensive, but the truth is we have become spailed to our good fortune. We must face the fact that the cost of housing in Lubbock will not remain as realistic, as geographic trends predict.

The Real Story is you cannot go wrong with the purchase of a home in Lubbock. If these facts are of interest to you, call Lubback's most progressive Real Estate firm and allow us to visit with you about your future home buying plans, desires or needs. Landmark wants to help.

By BILL DOYLE

ended that I uti-Q. My broker recomm lize a money market mutual fund, instead of a regular savings account. He says the fund is as safe as a bank account and that it pays higher interest — 8 percent or higher. Is this true?

A. If the broker told you exactly what you wrote me, one of his statements is temporarily true and the other is permanently false.

At the present time, money market mutual funds are producing much higher yields than savings accounts. But, under no circumstances, can a money market fund or any other type of investment be considered as safe as an insured savings account. A money market fund uses the money put into it by investors to buy "money market instruments" — U.S. Treasury

bills, U.S. Treasury and U.S. agency

short-term issues, bank certificates of deposit, bankers' acceptances, letters of credit, repurchase agreements and such. The fund collects the interest from those investments and - after deducting a management fee and other expenses passes that income along to fund share-holderrs in the form of income dividends. So, technically, you get dividends - not interest - from a money market fund. When interest rates are high - as they have been lately - money market funds pay dividends much higher than the interest on savings accounts. As I put this through the typewriter, many money market funds have current yields of from 9 1/2 to 10 percent. But that has not always been the story. A year or so ago, most money market funds had yields of less than 5 percent. And, when interst rates fall - as they eventually will - so will the yields on money market funds. Meanwhile, however, they do provide a temporary highyield haven for spare cash.

You take very little real risk when you put money into a money market mutual fund. But those funds do not provide the absolute safety you get in an insured savings account.

Q. I plan to retire to the Southwest or Florida within the next three or four years. My home, which still has a $24,000 mortgage at 8 1/2 percent is worth about $62,000. Should I pay off the mortgage now? When I sell the house, should I give the buyer a mortgage, so that I would have more monthly income?

A. That 8 1/2 percent mortgage interest is counted as cheap money, these days. So, the natural thing for you is to let your mortgage ride until you retire. Meanwhile, the $24,000 you were thinking about using to pay off the mortgage can be put to work at higher interest, elsewhere. You can do that in six-growth. elsewhere. You can do that in six-month savings certificates, U.S. Treasury bills, notes and bonds and a number of other investments.

When you retire, sell the house and move south, my advice is to get your money and invest it for income. Forget about taking back a mortgage from the buyer. Some people have done what you are thinking about, successfully. Many others have learned that holding a mortgage, long-distance, involves too much paperwork, headaches and even hear-

Q. Much has been written about in vidual retirement accounts (IRAs) and people who are eligible to open them. I would like to open an IRA and put away $1,500 toward my retirement. My employer contributes to a pension fund for me that will pay me $50 a month, at age 65. Does that paltry sum prevent me from starting an IRA?

A. Sorry. The answer is yes. IRAs can only be set up by people who are not covered by any other qualifed retirement plan. You're in a retirement plan. So, you can't start an IRA.

Q. I would like to buy my grandson two shares of stock. Would $40 be enough money to go to a brokerage firm and request this?

Q. I'm afraid the answer has to be "no." Most brokerage firms would not handle an order that "small." Any one that would take the order would hit you with a fat commission. The minis brokerage fee at most firms is now $25.

Sitter Sought In Kidnapping

ODESSA (AP) - An all-points bulletin was issued Wednesday between Texas and Florida for a 20-year-old babysitter and the 8-year-old girl she is charged with kidnapping.

Harvey Huse told police he left Lucretia Renee "Lula" Huse and her 5-yearold sister with their live-in babysitter, Misty Johnson, Tuesday morning when he went to work.

Police said a taxi was called to the Huse home Tuesday and that a woman matching Miss Johnson's description was seen with a child at a truck stop west of Odessa. They were believed hitchhiking to Florida, Odessa detective Mitch Haller

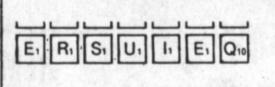

When Huse returned home from work Tuesday, he told officers, he found a note from the babysitter saying she had left to return to her parents' home in Tampa, Fla. Another note said Lula was at a friend's house. After calling the friend's house, Huse called police and reported his daughter missing. Police said Miss Johnson, also known as Michelle Setny, has shoulder-length blonde hair and is of average height.

Haller said the child is about four feet tall with shoulder length blonde hair and blue eyes. She was wearing a brown hooded knit jacket Tuesday.

WHALES BURN — As beached sperm whales lie dead on the east coast of Baja California, black smoke rises in the background from carcasses being burned to prevent disease and odor. Whale Herd Expires On Mexican Beach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Scientists said Wednesday they may never find out why a herd of 56 female sperm whales and offspring died on a remote Mexican beach on the Gulf of California last week.

The whales beached unnoticed near Mulege, Baja California, about 350 miles south of the U.S. border.

An official of the American Cetacean Society said scientists who examined the carcasses during the weekend found them too decomposed to learn much, "We didn't learn nearly as much as we wanted to," said Millie Payne of the society. "The animals were so far gone (decomposed) there was very little we

It was somewhat of a surprise to find sperm whales in the area, according to biology professor Peter Bryant of the University of California-Irvine. "People haven't reported large herds of sperm whales in that area," Bryant said. The scientists measured the whales and determined that the group was a nursing herd composed of mothers and offspring, Bryant said.

Two explanations offered for such incidents are that the mammals' sonar systems for navigation may be fouled up by storms or parasites. Once a whale goes up on a beach, it puts out distress signals and others are reluctant to

"In the cases where there have been eye witnesses, it seems the whales were trying to get on the beach, they weren't trying to escape," Bryant said.

The beaching may be the largest of its kind recorded in the Western Hemisphere. The only larger beaching of sperm whales known was in New Zealand in 1974, when 72 whales died, Bryant said. Autopsies were done on many of those animals, but scientists were unable to say what caused that beaching, he

Dollar Drops Back Against Currencies

By the Associated Press

The dollar slid in New York Wednesday after the Carter administration said it planned no announcement soon on new dollar-support measures. Rumors that the government would soon take steps to further strengthen the dollar had spurred the dollar to a good performance against most currencies overseas.

The price of gold slipped as the dollar rose in Europe. Gold is a traditional hedge in times of financial uncertainty and normally falls in value as the dollar rises and vice versa. Gold closed at $221.25 an ounce in London against $223 at the close Tuesday. In Zurich it closed at $221.125, down from Tuesday's $224.125.

The denial of an impending statement on the dollar ended a surge brought on by rumors of such an announcement.

Cookbook Entrepreneur Shares Food Philosophy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Laurel Rob-ertson shyly admits she has baked at least 10.000 loaves of bread in her mere 35 years. But the flour dusting her pores certainly isn't white.

It was in her Berkeley kitchen 10 years ago - the namesake of her popular cookbook, "Laurel's Kitchen" - that Laurel first began experimenting with vegetarianism and whole foods, eating wheat germ and tofu and brewer's yeast by the cupful. Meat, she concluded, "was someone else's muscles," and she stopped eat-

Since then, she has learned to prepare foods that please the mind and tastebuds as well as the body's nutritional stockpile. She shapes loaves of whole wheat and buckwheat and rye and gluten and soy flours - all beige instead of white.

Her cookbook, heavy on bread recipes, is one of the best-selling vegetarian cookbooks of recent years.

Issued first in hardcover by Nilgiri Press, run by volunteers at the Petaluma commune where Laurel now lives, the book was just reissued in paperback by Bantam Books. An estimated 83,000 copies of the hardback sold and more than 100,000 paperbacks have been printed.

Bruce Mulled As Hayes' Successor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Iowa State University coach Earle Bruce appears to be the man Ohio State has settled on to replace Woody Hayes, the Buckeyes' fired football coach. "He's got the inside track right now," Iowa State Athletic Director Lou McCullough said of Bruce, "I'm afraid I've lost him." After a session with Hugh Hindman, the Buckeyes' athletic director in San Francisco, Bruce would only say, "I guess I'll hear from them when they get through with interviews one way or another."

The Chicago Tribune and Orlando, Fla., Sentinel-Star both carried stories that Bruce would replace his old boss, Hayes, at the Big Ten Conference power.

However, Hindman insists that no choice will be made until Ohio State's delegation returns to Columbus early Thursday from the NationalCollegiate Athletic Association convention in San Francisco

One legal barrier has been cleared for Hindman to make an early announced ment. Ohio law requires state universities to advertise a vacant position for five working days before interviews can begin.

Madison Scott, an Ohim State vice president, said Wednesday he wrote Hindman that this regulation would be waived even though the vacancy was not posted on campus until last Monday.

"The period of consideration for all candidates will be considerably abbreviated due to the urgency of the situation," Scott informed Hindman.

Now Ohio State athletic officials are speculating that the Buckeyes" 20th football coach may be announced Saturday or even earlier, mainly for recruting "We've got 22 recruits coming in this weekend and I'm sure they would like to have a new coach greet them," said the athletic department spokesman, who asked not to named.

A current Ohio State assistant coach confirmed that urgency, saying recruiting trips for prospects were canceled last weekend.

Lubbock Christian went 1-8 through the first part of the schedule, beating only Texas College. The main reason for the slump was injuries, the Chaps couldn't put a player in a starting position without some mysterious hurt befalling him, kinda like the Curse of the Mummy.

The only player not at full strength for the injury-prone team is point guard Marshall Smith, a freshman from Albuquerque. His shoulder injury is pretty much healed, but the time away from the floor is showing. Hayes is only comfortable with him running just one or two of the basic offenses.

As expected, the representatives of more than 800 colleges and universities went on record as opposing efforts by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "to dictate uniform federal program goals and standards for the diversified membership of this association," in the words of the resolution. Under the Title IX compliance requirements as written by HEW, the major revenue sports, football and basketball, would not be exempt from equal per-capita spending requirements for men's and women's sports programs. The resolution adopted Wednesday encourages institutions to voice their complaints to their

Basically, those proposals would have replaced the present 2.00 or "C" high school grade point average requirement with a "triple option approach."

One thing for sure, the members of the Amarillo Tascosa basketball team know the correct pronunciation loud and clear. That's because they heard it enough times over the loud speaker during a non-district contest this week.

Postman Steve Ahlenius pumped in 29 points and pulled down 18 rebounds at Amarillo Tuesday night and for his effort the 6-5 senior is the Avalanche-Journal's boy player of the week.

"The key to Steve's play is consistency, not only against Tascosa, but for the entire season," said Coronado coach Barry Arnwine. "Steve is averaging 14 points a game and nearly 10 rebounds a contest."

While Ahlenius was a dominating force in the Mustangs 62-60 double overtime victory, Carrie Mosser was an instrumental force in Christ the King's district win over Muenster Sacred Heart. For her performance, Miss Mosser is the girl player of the Miss Mosser scored 18 points and had 16 steals as Christ the King beat Muenster Sacred Heart 78-26.

Others cited for their performances included Pete Richarte and Jeff Manley of Lubbock High, Trav Clardy, Monterey; and Shawn Bowe, Lubbock Christian High, and Jimmy Durham, Christ the King.

Besides Miss Mosser, other girls recognized for outstanding play are Maxine Walker, Estacado; and Lyn Blackman, Lubbock Christian High.

Last week, Manley and Richarte put 36 and 25 points through the hoop. Manley had four steals and

Ahlenius, Mosser Littlefield Wins After 4 OTs

It wasn't exactly a doubleheader, but, since the two teams were playing so well. no one wanted to stop.

It wasn't quite that way, but for almost 44 minutes, Idalou and Littlefield couldn't find a stopping place for their barn-burner of a boys basketball game Tuesday night.

The two teams, in getting ready for upcoming district competion, went four overtimes Tuesday night before the host Littlefield boys won 65-64. It was the longest boys game in this part of the state this season.

Neither team could pull away to any kind of lead during regulation and the count finished 48-all. Through three overtimes, the totals were the same as each three-minute period ended.

Finally, with 40 seconds left in the fourth extra period, Littlefield had the ball and went into a stall with the score tied at 62. It worked the clock down to 20 seconds, and Tommy Williams took an 8foot jumper. Williams was fouled and hit the free shot for a 65-62 cushion. Idalou scored and with five seconds remaining stole the ball from Littlefield. But, Idalou was unable to score in the remaining time. Keith McCain scored 26 points for Littlefield, and Green had 26 for Idalou. The win left Littlefield 13-5 for the sea son and heading Friday night into Dis-

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) - One of the most powerful and controversial members of the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee, Jack Wilkins, was fired Wednesday from his job as chief fundraiser for the 1980 Winter Olympics.

The action was taken by the commit tee's new general manager, Petr Spur-ney, an outside professional hired to deal with the financial and management prob-lems afflicting preparations for the Olym-

Wilkins, 56, a prosperous local real estate and insurance man, has been involved in virtually all the major controversies surrounding preparations for the Games, and has come under criticism for possible conflicts of interest between his siness dealings and his Olympics role.

His firing is a dramatic assertion of control by Spurney. It clears the way for Spurney to bring in his own choice to head the committee's fundraising efforts, which are currently projected to fall at least $9 million short of the $50 million the committee needs for its administra-

And just last week, Wilkins went public with his war with Spurney. That move apparently prompted Spurney's action Wednesday, and it may, as well, have eroded some of Wilkins' strong support among local people who were embarrassed by the publicity given their internal disconsions.

After a news conference held by Spurney and the committee's executive direc-tor, Rev. J. Bernard Fell, Wilkins held his own informal news conference to accuse Spurney of "downgrading" his efforts and of trying "to make us look like

At the news conference, Spurney and Fell had given a general update on preparations on the Olympics, including their projected estimate of revenues from projected estimate of revenues from committee fundraising efforts and ticket sales — $41 million. Wilkins contended his projections showed the marketing committee would raise at least $46 million, not including ticket sales.

Some fundraising contracts signed by the marketing committee have not lived up to the rosiest estimates of how much money they would provide.

Steeler Secondary Worries Landry

DALLAS (UPI) - Since the Pittsburgh-Dallas Super Bowl game will be the first rematch in the 13-year history of the event, there will be a lot of reme bering going on during the next two weeks. And one of the things the Dallas Cowboys remember most about their loss to the Steelers in Super Bowl X is the play of the Pittsburgh secondary.

The Dallas players felt their receivers were brutalized by the Pittsburgh defensive backs. As evidence they pointed to the broken ribs suffered by flanker Golden Richards, courtesy of a forearm smash to the side as he came off the line of scrimmage.

And the thing that galled the Cowboys most was that not a single penalty was called on Pittsburgh all day.

This year, however, the NFL has instituted the "no chuck" rule, which forbids any sort of contact between receiver and defender more than five yards past the line of scrimmage.

"That will eliminate what took place in 1975," said Dallas coach Tom Landry, referring to Super Bowl X, which actually took place in January of 1976. "They won't be able to do that (harrass the receivers) to the extent that they did then."

Landry said he did not believe playoff games were any more closely officiated than any other contests. "I don't see any difference in our games," he said. "Of course we will be getting the best officials in the league. They are measured over the year so we will have the best crew in the NFL for the Super Bowl. Itshould be a good officiated

The Cowboys coach said he would not remind any of the game officials of what happened in Super Bowl X. "I won't mention it to them," he said. "I think it's best not to talk at all to officials. That's why you will seldom see me talk to officials.' But no matter how many penalties are called or not called, Landry expects a rugged afternoon Jan. 21. When you play Pittsburgh you can have a physical game either one way or two ways. You can be sure it is going to be at least one way - Pittsburgh's style They are a very strong, physical football team. You have got to meet them on those terms if you expect to win the football game.

"I think we have always been capable of being a very tough, physical football team. We did not anticipate in 1975 quite the physical aspect of it on our receivers. Epecially without any calls being made.

"And that hurt us in that ball game to some extent. But it won't this time because we will be prepared for it."

Tarkenton said two years ago that 1978 would probably be his final season, but now he's saying everyone will have to wait until training camp begins in July to find out his plans.

There's not much to say until he makes his decision," says Kramer, the second-year man from Rice University and the only quarterback ever drafted by the Vikings in the first round.

"It won't be surprising to me if Fran comes back; he's coming off a good year," Kramer added. "I think I would like that the least, but I'm not gonna worry about it and I won't prepare any different over the winter.

When I find out in July, that'll be soon enough for me."

There are those who believe that the Vikings would be better off with the 23year old Kramer at the helm.

Tarkenton holds every major NFL quarterback record, but despite his uncanny football knowledge and savvy, Minnesota was only 8-7-1 with him and were embarrassed by the Rams in the

But 1978 proved to be less rewarding. Kramer threw just 16 passes, none for touchdowns, and watched as Tarkenton dominated a Vikings team which was, at best, mediocre.

"I'm just happy the season's over," said Kramer. "It's been a difficult one for all of us. I want to play, and I think two years is plenty of learning time.

"Fortunately I came out of a school that threw a lot. I had a great teacher in Homer Rice, so I think I was further advanced than other rookie quarterbacks in the league.

The Chaps had been troubled through their early games by turnovers, and Hays feels the insertion of Lierman (a senior) at the point has helped that. So far this year, LCC has committed 258 turnovers to its opponent's 171, a difference of just over seven giveaways a ballgame.

But tonight's key might very well be rebounding. Although the Chaps have outrebounded their opponents by a total of 561-490 (or very nearly six a game), Hays is worried that his bunch won't do so well against a taller ENMU team.

"They're bigger than us," Hays said. 'And they've got a lot of experienced players up front. They may well be the gest team we've played all year."

Scarting at post for the Greyhounds is 6-8 Senior Paul Tiedeman. At the forwards are 6-4 Richard Hawkins and 6-5 Alvin ssenberg. Both are juniors. The guards are also fairly good sized with 6-3 Dong Gibson playing the strong side and 62 leaper Royce Blackshear at point.

GRANDFIELD, Okla. (AP) - A Grandfield High School basketball player scored 105 points in a game, shattering the Oklahoma high school scoring record.

Kenneth Johnson, a 6-foot-1, 160-pound senior, scored 71 points in the first half as Grandfield defeated Terral, Okla., 120-65, at Terral on Tuesday night. He left the game with 5:23 to play after a jump shot gave him his 105th point.

His performance beat the old mark of 82 points set last season by Jay Armstrong of Ryan, Okla.

Johnson connected on 45 of 82 attempts from the field and 15 of 16 free throw tries. Prior to Tuesday's game in Grandfield, Johnson was averaging 37.4 points per game. His record effort Tuesday raised his average to 43.5 points per con-

Rookie Baker Obtains Award

NEW YORK (AP) - Defensive end Al Baker of the Detroit Lions, a second-round somed instanto: pwhoo an All-Pro choice, was named Defensive Rookie of the Year by The Associated Press.

Baker was a landslide choice in balloting by a nationwide panel of football writers and broadcasters, receiving 61 of 84 votes cast. Ross Browner of the Cincinnati Bengals had 16. No other rookie received more than two in the poll of three voters from each of the 28 National Football League cities.

The Lions drafted Baker out of Colorado State and installed him at right end in the first preseason game. He was a permanent fixture all season long and led the NFL with 23 quarterback sacks.

"He is the best rookie pass rusher I have ever seen come into this league," said Floyd Peters, the Lions' defensive line coach.

Baker was born in Jacksonville, Fla. and grew up in Newark, N.J., where he learned his football in the sandlots, using improvised equipment. "We'd write stuff on our pads," he said, "stuff like 'Boom!' or 'Watch It!' or 'Look Out!"

When he got to the Lions, Baker became an early favorite with the fans and responded to the enthusiasm they showed for him. Often after a victory, he'd throw his elbow pads - these without slogans - into the stands and watch the souvenir-hunting youngsters scramble for them. "The kids kept me going," he said. "I was throwing the

Baker is only a kid himself. He didn't turn 22 until Dec. 9. But he's been sacking quarterbacks for quite some time. He had 20 of them in his senior year at Colorado State, where he also played some basketball and his height - he's 6-foot-6 - attracted the attention of pro scouts in that sport.

"But I wanted to play football," he said. "In college, they had me at guard for a while, but I wasn't happy there. When I switched to defense, it was much better." Scouting reports on Baker were only so-so and there were suggestions that he might be better off on offense. But the Lions had their own opinion. Coach Monte Clark, charged with rebuilding the club, called him "a young giant with good defensive temperament." And that assessment turned out to be correct.

"I've got to thank Coach Clark and Coach Peters and the other people in Detroit for winning this award," Baker said. "They had confidence in my ability. They let me

The Razorbacks hit 50 percent from the field in the first half in building a 40-23 intermission advantage. The Owls hit only 25 percent in the first half, and both teams traded baskets throughout the second period, with the Owls unable to threaten the Razorbacks. Arkansas was unable to put the game away. WACO (AP) — A highly touted fresh-man basketball player has been kicked off the Baylor University team after he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge concerning credit card abuse, Baylor Coach Jim Haller said Wednesday.

Jimmy Carter, a 6-foot-8, 220-pound player, has dropped out of school but plans to return next fall and resume his basketball eligibility, Haller said.

When Haller recruited him out of Holy Cross High School in New Orleans, he called Carter one of the top high school basketball players in Louisiana.

"He was brought before the university disciplinary board, and after a bunch of circumstances were explained, it was decided he would be dismissed from the team for the remainder of this season but would be allowed to return next year," said Mike Scott, Baylor's assistant sports information director.

"I don't want to get into the technicalities, but it involved some credit card abuse. It happened sometime before Christmas, around Dec. 20," Scott said. Carter had averaged 5.7 points and 4.3 rebounds in seven games this season for Baylor. His high scoring performance was 16 points in Baylor's 121-55 victory

'Wiz' Tiresome, Tacky Remake Of Film Classic

By WILLIAM D. KERNS

With a $30 million price tag, "The Wiz" is indeed one of the most expensive musicals ever filmed. Unfortunately, it doesn't stand a remote chance of be-

A hip, updated, black urban fantasy vision of the L. Frank Baum classic "The Wonderful Wizard Of Oz," this new picture should have been FILM scrapped before the first reel of film was loaded into the camera. REVIEW After all, the major mistakes were made early. The first was in allowing former costume designer Joel Schumacher to pen the screenplay. Schumacher's only other writing credits are "Sparkle" and "Car Wash"; both black oriented pictures, yes, but neither particularly memorable. Then 29-year-old producer Rob Cohen hired Sidney Lumet to direct. Now Lumet's a fine director, one of the hottest around until this picture, but his major success has come not with song and dance but instead through gritty films like "Serpico" and "Network" and "Equus.

And then there's Diana Ross cast in the lead role of Dorothy ...

The first director walked off the picture when told he had to use Miss Ross, and executives at Universal Pictures should have paid heed. What, after all, do we remember most from the vintage 1939 film "The Wizard Of Oz" as it pops up like clockwork on the tube each year? Why, Judy Garland, of course. And what "The Wiz" so desperately needs is a talented, unknown black girl to supply both a youthful exuberance and the necessary amount of innocence to the part of Dorothy. Instead, 34-year-old Diana Ross is asked to play a 24-yearold kindergarten teacher in Harlem, a recluse who has "never been south of 125th Street" and whose romantic notions evidently run no deeper than

Well, 34 is too old to pass for 24 in this film and, especially because of her earlier Oscar nominated performance in "Lady Sings The Blues," Diana Ross fared little chance of succeeding as an innocent. Indeed, as Dorothy, Diana

"The Wiz" attempts to capture through sound and special effects what "The Wizard Of Oz" achieved through charm and solid writing. Dorothy first arrived in Munchkin Land by way of a Kansas tornado - but Harlem's Dorothy is trapped in a snowstorm and travels by way of something looking remarka-bly like the Ajax white tornado. The 1978 Munchkins are wall grafitti which step down onto the pavement and break into song when Dorothy inadvertently greases the Wicked Witch Of The East. We've already suffered several boring tunes of the weepy variety by this point, but the Munchkins' production num ber is a good indication of what's to come

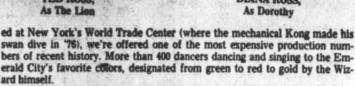

The splotchy costumes make the Munchkins look like chorus members from "Godspell" who forgot to change clothes before going home to paint the apartment. And the choreography is cluttered and totally unlikeable. (Now, what do you bet both get Oscar mention?) Later when we follow the Yellow Brick Road (Congoleum laid out on a sound stage) to the Emerald City, situat-

As The Lion

As Dorothy

The scene, like the movie, drags on for what seems an eternity. Miss Ross never really stood much of a chance in this part, and it's hard to lay the blame on her for the film's overall mediocrity. Lumet, after all, seems to concentrate most of all on "in" New York jokes. The cabs all flashing "off duty" signs when blacks approach. The sun being a big apple. The streets full of garbage and the subways spic and span (this IS a fantasy). But it's sad to see the boring songs, dumb lyrics and tacky dialogue bring down the likes of Nipsey Russell and Ted Ross, the latter re-enacting his Cowardly Lion part

Russell does have one fine moment as The Tin Man, I must admit, that being his breezy tune "Slide Some Oil To Me." But it's too heartbreaking to even relate how Lena Horne is made to look silly stuck up in the sky as Glinda The Good, surrounded by cherubs described accurately by one viewer as

Richard Pryor is wasted here as The Wiz, just as he was wasted in "Car Wash." Fact is, the only production number which brings out the laughs is the one in which Mabel King, as the Wicked Witch Of The West named Evillene, haunts her sweatshop workers with "Don't Nobody Bring Me No Bad News." Miss King is also a veteran of the stage show, and is surpassed in the film version only by Michael Jackson as The Scarecrow. At 19, this 14-year show busines veteran is a smash as the straw man in search of a brain. He reveals more feeling when stuck up on a pole, singing the crow's anthem "You Can't Win," than the rest of the cast does dancing and skipping down the Congo-

If there is a talent somewhere over the rainbow in this picture, it is Jackson. But a song by Russell, a production number by Miss King and a solitary consistent performance isn't going to save any movie, much less a musical of this size and scope. In fact, "The Wiz" is so boring that it became easy to see why Toto the dog wandered in and out of every scene. Why stay in this mess if you don't have to? No doubt there are a lot of viewers sitting in the theater seats identifying with that dog. It's easy to spot them. They're the ones clicking their heels together and chanting, "There's no place like home. There's no

Reynolds's report on China is a timely examination, coming as it does on the heels of President Carter's decision to normalize U.S. relations with the People's Republic. But Carter's dramatic announcement was in December, and Reynolds and his crew filmed the documentary for "NBC Reports" in September and October.

The report was conceived as an examination of a country straining to become, in the correspondent's words, "an educated, technologically sophisticated nation ... a super, super-power, in a class by Normalization necessarily altered NBC's course - indeed, the documentary originally was scheduled for broadcast Dec. 29. The result is a less forceful examination of education and social structure in China, and more a unique and intriguing short course on this mysterious land of a billion people, worth a look for that reason alone.

"There is, today, a new mood, an openness, optimism," the correspondent says at the outset. "Wage increases, more consumer goods, production goals, even personal ambitions for a people tiring of political campaigns.

"Less suspicion of each other and outsiders," Reynolds continues his description. "In fact, a China open to foreigners, especially to those the Chinese had been taught to hate: Americans, Japanese, the directing, as long as I have complete confidence in him," said Wilder, "And that is true of Bob Aldrich."

"It is something of a relief, really, not to be directing. I can concentrate on my own performance, which naturally must suffer when I perform both functions. Other actors who have directed have told me that, and I found out myself, to my dismay. While I greatly enjoy the experience of drawing performances from other actors, my own is neglected.

"For that reason, I keep dear Dom De-Luise nearby. During my own closeups he is right off-camera, and he can cross his eyes, stand on his head, anything to stimulate my performance.

"The only actor-director whose performance did not suffer was apparently. Chaplin. Bob Aldrich worked for him as assistant director, and he told me a story, Once when Chaplin was rehearsing a scene, the cameraman asked, 'Should I Gregory Peck, "Boys from Brazil"; Jon stay on you or pan to the other actor?" ine Bisset, "Who Is Killing the Great Chefs of Europe?": Ellen Burstyn, "Same Time Next Year"; Goldie Hawn, "Foul Play"; Olivia Newton-John, "Grease"; Maggie Smith, "California

Wilder believed his own performance improved from "Sherlock Holmes" to "Greatest Lover," yet the former was a hit and the latter wasn't.

"Ah, but that is because the script of 'Sherlock Holmes' was better, said Wilder, flashing those almost transparently blue eyes. He has taken the advice of his mentor, Mel Brooks, and will collaborate with another units and will collaborate with another writer on his next project instead of going it alone. "No Knife" is not the first western for co-star Harrison Ford. He appeared in "The Long Ride Home" (1967) starring George Hamilton and "Journey to Shiloh" (1988) with James Cam "and anyone else who was under contract to Universal at the time." As Ford remembers, he had one line in the first film and the second one featured the back of his head.

"Stat Wars" changed the whole course of his career. Ford has made four mostes since then and leaves after "No Knife" for filming in Edgland of "Star Wars II," which may be called "The Empire Strikes Back."

"We'll be in England three months.

"We'll be in England three months, which is how long the first picture took," said Ford. He will be back with co-stars Mark Hamill and Carrie Fisher, but with Irvin Kershner as director, not George Lucas, who serves as executive producer.

Small Community Firm In Saying 'No' To Taxes

FEDERAL WAY, Wash. (AP) — Long before California's Howard Jarvis issued his call for a property tax revolt, the vot-ers of Federal Way knew how to say no" to taxes.

In 10 elections in the past five years, voters in this bedroom community 20 miles south of Seattle turned down proposals to raise school maintenance and operation funds through property taxes. That amounted to 21 separate measures, a state record for consecutive school levy

We had our Proposition 13 revolt early in the '70s," explains Larry Van Sickle, school board president. "Some very vocal opponents ... were successful in changing the temper of the schools and the attitudes of the community toward the Voters' persistence had its results for taxpayers and schools.

First, under a new Basic Education Law, the state will pick up the costs of educational necessities in 1981-82 - maybe earlier - meaning it's possible Federal Way will never have to vote on another

Second, property owners in this com-munity of 65,000, named for the federal highway running through the city, had a 1978 property tax rate of $11.9 per $1.000 of assessed valuation. In Shoreline, a similar city north of Seattle, that figure was $20.3 per $1,000.

The effects on the school system were less pleasant, or as Van Sickle put it: "We seemingly never recovered."

Two elementary schools were closed. And budget cutbacks trimmed the number of teachers and other certified staff from 760 to about 650, says Superintendent Victor Heinlen.

Heinlen, who took the job in 1975, recently announced his resignation. Earlier he had said: "My largest professional disappointment is that the community has not consistently seen fit to approve local financial support. Nevertheless ... I can emphatically state that no staff has done more with less...'

Also - until parents volunteered to help - school grounds often went un-

The main street in Hershey, Pa., home of the Hershey Chocolate Co , is Chocoies in the early '70s — a trend reversed by the Basic Education Law and a legislated lid on school levies.

The levy proposals fell primarily on home owners in Federal Way, a community of moderate homes and little industry in the mid '70s.

And the school district itself was in turmoil, with a recall campaign against three school board members, a teachers' strike in 1974 and the resignation under pressure of a superintendent.

"It just tore the community to pieces." says Van Sickle, "and the rejection of the school system ... was almost total."

John Pancratz, leader of the anti-levy Save Your Homes Committee, says "Some people just oppose tax increases, some were opposed to the methods being used in education, others were opposed to the way the teachers' union was effectively running the school districts."

In 1977, the district hired consultant C. complained about the board and teacherboard inlighting. Johnson also said 90 percent of the residents work in other cities and lack com-

For a district with 21 strikes against it, however, the mood is now surprisingly

The state Board of Education has granted the district two waivers from the basic education law. Without the waivers, penalties could have amounted to District enrollment is down to 15,244 from a 1973 peak of 16,316, but the decline has slowed to 11/2 percent this year, versus 3 percent last year, says Heinlen. Ron Carlson of the teachers' associations says: "The morale of the teachers is very good because we realize that soon

In recent years, too, Federal Way has begun to boom. Its population grew from 54,786 in 1976 to 65,089 now, and new homes, office space and a shopping mall have been built. The Weyerhaeuser Co. has located its headquarters here and a Weyerhaeuser subsidiary is developing homes and condominiums that eventual-

And textbook purchases were deferred Notes Van Sickle: "My sixth grade son told me jokingly the other day that in the next five years we'd have a man on the moon. He'd read it in his school books."

In the state's last school accreditation ratings in 1976-77, all five Federal Way junior high schools were denied accreditation, two high schools were given probationary accreditation and the third only temporary accreditation. Elementary schools were not evaluated.

The black marks against the schools included a shortage of course offerings in social studies, science and foreign languages at one junior high, and too many students per counselor and a belowstandard library budget at one high

How does the dilemma affect students leaving the schools? Responds state education official Bill Everhart: "A student who comes out of an unaccredited school can still get into any (college) if his own personal course work is properly presented and he is qualified. It might make it just a touch more difficult ...

Almost everyone associated with the levy failures has a theory on why they occurred. Van Sickle points to school districts' increasing reliance on special lev-

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your par of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical rould be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.
