Storm Holds Grip On Midwest Region

BLIZZARD BURIES CHICAGO—Pedestrians totter, cars crawl and the snow falls as Chicago is hit by 20 inches of snow over the weekend. Several more inches were predicted by today in the major storm which closed O'Hare International Airport, most of the Interstate thoroughfares in the city and made any form of travel hazardous, if not impossible. By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ICY COLD gripped the Midwest on Sunday in the wake of a killer storm that took the lives of 16 people, stranded thousands of travelers and unleashed a vicious blizzard on Chicago.

The heavy snows brought activity to a standstill in many parts of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin as record low temperatures were set from Pueblo, Colo., east to Springfield, Mo., and south to Austin.

Scores of minor automobile accidents were caused by treacherous road conditions throughout the Midwest, police said.

Chicago Deluged

In Chicago, seven people died Saturday as 20.7 inches of snow was blown into head-high drifts by winds gusting to 40 m.p.h. O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest, was closed early Saturday when snow-moving equipment could not move. It was still closed Sunday.

One man was killed when he fell 30 feet while carrying trash down an icy stairwell. Four men suffered fatal heart attacks while shoveling snow and another man died when his car hit a snowbank. The seventh victim was a 22-year-old mental patient who wandered away from a state institution. A spokesman for the facility, Patrick Saunders, said Benny Moy was found dead after he wandered away clad only in underwear.

Disaster Area Proclaimed

Gov. James R. Thompson proclaimed the northern half of Illinois a disaster area Sunday and requested federal aid for snow removal in Rockford and Winnebago counties. Thompson also ordered National Guardsmen to assist some local governments in snow removal.

A Chicago fire department helicopter rescued four people trapped aboard a boat on Lake Michigan and the passages of a Joliet, Ill.-bound Rock Island railroad train hiked through drifting snow after their six-car commuter train derailed.

In Wisconsin 12 to 15 inches of snow brought the southern and eastern parts of the state to a standstill, as extreme sub-zero temperatures added to difficulties. Snow clearing crews were only just starting to get back on the roads late Sunday afternoon.

Shovelers Among Dead

Five deaths were attributed to the weather in Wisconsin: three fatal heart attacks suffered by snow-shovelers, a traffic death and a fifth person who died when he banged his head on a car he was trying to free from a snow drift.

In Ohio the storm continued to punish the weather-beaten state with gusty winds, plummeting temperatures and new accumulations of snow Sunday.

The weather was listed as a contributing factor in a triple fatality on the Ohio Turnpike.

In Indiana the storm dumped more than 16 inches of snow, paralyzing the northern part of the state as it blocked roads, stranded vehicles and caused at least one traffic fatality, state police reported.

Indiana State Police spent Saturday night and early Sunday picking up the more than 200 motorists forced to abandon their vehicles by severe weather conditions.

Efforts to clear streets and highways of snow in Kansas and Missouri were hampered by strong winds which covered up roads as quickly as they were plowed.

South Haven, Mich., was cut off from the rest of the state over the weekend as Michigan was blanketed by up to 15 inches of snow. Snow, freezing rain and 35 mph winds closed roads throughout Michigan.

In northern New England freezing rain fell over much of New Hampshire making road conditions very slippery. In Vermont snow and freezing rain made even major highways barely passable, with scores of cars sliding off the road into snowbanks.

BEAR OF A STORM—Wearing a Polar Bear suit, Morry Katz makes his way across a snow covered Milwaukee street. Over a foot of new snow fell on the city during the weekend and Katz said "what else would you wear out on a night like this?" He wore the suit to the Marquette-Notre Dame basketball game Saturday night which was played to a sparse crowd due to weather conditions. (AP Laserphoto)

Guerrilla Bases Manned By Cambodian Loyalists

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Vietnamese troops captured the last urban stronghold of the defeated Cambodian government's forces, but the retreating soldiers struck back in isolated attacks and set up mountain and island guerrilla bases to carry on the war, Thai sources said Sunday.

"We will fight until we die," one of the Cambodian loyalists in the Thai border area reportedly told a Thai official.

In New York, Cambodian Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who came to the United Nations to plead against the invasion on behalf of the ousted Cambodian government, was admitted to Lenox Hill Hospital for "extreme stress and exhaustion," Dr. Michael S. Bruno said. Details of Si-hanouk's condition were not immediately disclosed.

Armor-led Vietnamese troops were reported within 15 miles of the Thai border, having completed a 310-mile blitz through Cambodia in three weeks. The radio station of the provisional Phnom Penh government installed by the Vietnamese said the fall of Premier Pol Pot's regime touched off nationwide celebrations.

Defenders "Melt Away"

Thai sources said the northwestern city of Battambang, Cambodia's second-largest, had fallen to the Vietnamese but that some defenders "melted away" and were staging hit-and-run attacks against the victors. Sources also said there were signs of stiff counter-attacks in other areas, some of which had been bypassed in the lightning drive by Vietnam's tanks and mechanized infantry.

"In many areas right now, the Vietnamese only control the space that a tank comes through," said one analyst, who like the others asked that he not be identified.

Western sources here said soldiers of the defeated regime were retreating to the Cardamom and Elephant mountains in the southwest. Thai sources said some loyalists were setting up headquarters on the island of Kong off southwestern Cambodia and that fighting continued near the deepwater port of Kompong Som. The provisional government of the Hanouk-backed Kampuchea (Cambodia) National United Front for National Salvation had claimed to control the port.

Logical Supply Base

Western sources said Kong, in the Gulf of Thailand just off the Cambodian coast, would be a logical supply link to the mountain bases if China carried out its promise to back a guerrilla war.

Thai sources said Vietnamese troops were on the approaches to the Cambodian-Thai border town of Poipet, which is still in the hands of the former regime's troops.

But both Thai and Western analysts said the Vietnamese may leave the assault on Poipet to the forces of the new Cambodian rebel government. Officially Vietnam denies its troops are involved in the invasion, so its forces presumably would not want to stray within sight of the border.

Western sources said 10 battalions of "Khmer Krom"—Cambodians who long have resided in southern Vietnam—had recently been moved into Cambodia and might serve as occupation troops in an effort to present the war as strictly a Cambodian affair. The roughly 3,000 troops were trained and used by the Americans to fight in Cambodia during the Indochina War.

Thai analysts said there had been a great deal of movement, difficult to follow, in the border area of northwestern Cambodia—site of the last major stand of Pol Pot's army, which once numbered 80,000 to 100,000 men. Its present strength is not known.

Thailand agreed to accept about 400

Counselor For Blind Serves As Example

By RHONA SCHWARTZ

MARGARET FULKERSON is an attractive woman with coiffured red hair and striking blue eyes. She arrives at her cartoon-decorated office smartly attired in a jade green three-piece suit with contrasting jewelry.

As she talks about her job as a rehabilitation teacher for the State Commission for the Blind, she frequently faces her visitor and often smiles.

She is part teacher and part counselor. She helps her clients learn daily tasks sighted people take for granted, such as shaving and applying makeup.

What surprises some people about Margaret Fulkerson is that she, too, is blind. Miss Fulkerson is one of the commission's two rehabilitation teachers who, along with children's counselors and rehabilitation counselors, work with legally and totally blind individuals to help them live as independently as possible.

Vocational Aid Provided

The commission provides vocational rehabilitation counseling and training to persons whose visual problem "is a handicap to employment and who have the potential for rehabilitation," according to the commission's supervisor, Gerdean Tan.

"Prospective applicants either call us directly or are referred by a doctor who says for us to contact them," Mrs. Tan said. "We take the application, discuss services needed and obtain an exam with an ophthalmologist for the applicant to determine the extent of the visual problem."

"If the person is legally blind (20/200 vision in the best eye with the best correction or a field restriction of 20 degrees), we pay for vocational technical-type training" for them, she said.

Each applicant talks over the most feasible vocational objective, Mrs. Tan said. Rehabilitation teachers at the commission provide blind skills training, which include mobility skills training, braille typing, script typing and home and personal management skills for a short-term program.

Short Blackout Hits LP&L Customers

ELECTRICITY TO many of Lubbock Power & Light's customers in the north and northeast parts of the city went out for about 20 minutes Sunday night after an animal caused a breaker malfunction at a substation.

Carroll McDonald, LP&L's director of utilities, said the animal, probably a cat, evidently walked across a transformer at the Erskine Street Substation, creating a loud but momentary explosion when it struck the high voltage equipment.

The explosion caused a breaker malfunction, resulting in the power outage that lasted until 8:40 p.m., he said.

Streetlights, traffic signals and residences were without electricity primarily in the Arnett-Benson neighborhood. University Avenue, Fourth Street and Avenue A also were affected briefly.

There was no word on the condition of the animal.

South Plains Thaw Due Today, Tuesday

By ESTHER LONGORIA

PLENTY of sunshine, warm southwesterly winds and temperatures in the 50s will prevail over the South Plains today and Tuesday.

"As the Arctic air continues to slide eastward, warm southwesterly winds have moved in bringing on the warming trend," Lubbock meteorologist Jim Bellville said Sunday.

South Plains residents probably will be able to enjoy the pleasant weather change through Tuesday, but by Wednesday they should be prepared for 20 degree temperatures and the possibility of light snow or rain from a Pacific cold front.

After an overnight low in the mid-20s, temperatures for Lubbock and vicinity are expected to climb to the mid-50s today dropping to near 30 by tonight.

Wind speeds will be at 20 to 30 mph today and some locally blowing dust can be expected, a National Weather Service spokesman said. Wind warnings are in effect for area lakes today. Winds will be diminishing to 10 to 15 mph by tonight

Rep. Daniel J. Flood Goes On Trial Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Rep. Daniel J. Flood, who gave up acting for a career in Congress, will be spotlighted on a new stage today when he goes on trial in a federal courtroom charged with trading his enormous political power for thousands of dollars in bribes.

The 75-year-old Pennsylvania Democrat, flamboyant in silk suits and fur-lined capes and sporting a villainous-looking, waxed mustache, also is accused of perjury and conspiracy in indictments handed down last year by grand juries in Los Angeles and Washington.

All Charges Denied

"I deny all these allegations, totally and unequivocally," Flood said when he pleaded innocent. He claimed then the "absurd charges" were "brought by desperate men."

If convicted, Flood would face maximum prison sentences of 15 years on each of nine bribery counts, 5 years on each of three perjury counts, and 5 years on the single conspiracy count, or a total of 155 years, plus $220,000 in fines.

Flood, who attended Harvard Law School but got his "juris doctor" degree from the Dickinson School of Law, has served 15 terms in the House since 1944. He lost re-election bids in 1946 and 1952 but has not been defeated since.

Probed By FBI

The indictments climaxed an investigation by more than 100 FBI agents that began in mid-1977 after allegations surfaced that Flood used his powerful chairmanship of a House Appropriations subcommittee on labor, health, education and welfare to get contracts, grants and other favors for those who paid him.

The Flood committee oversees the spending of around $75 billion annually in hospital, school and defense funds and has considerable impact on the entire federal budget.

"Nobody has more clout than Dan Flood," said the skinny congressman from Pennsylvania's anthracite region a few years ago.

"Defense and HEW means two-thirds of the budget goes through my hands. Churn, that's a big role for an old actor. Luckily, I'm a nice fellow. I can help out a lot of nice people."

Flood's chief accuser is Stephen B. Elko, his former administrative assistant now serving a three-year term for taking $25,000 in bribes to influence the congressman's decisions.

Elko, cooperating with the government, was listed in the Flood indictment as a co-conspirator in seeking and receiving $65,000 in cash and 100 shares of stock in a Pennsylvania bank.

Attorney Axel Kleiboemer, representing Flood, indicated in pre-trial hearings that the defense hoped to turn the finger of guilt back at Elko. Kleiboemer had tried to delay start of the trial in order to obtain records of Elko transactions at various banks which the lawyer said would show that money allegedly given

New Legislative Session Holds Few Surprises

By BILL KIDD
A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — No one had expected any great surprises with the opening of the 66th Texas Legislature — and there weren't any.

Speaker Bill Clayton was re-elected for an unprecedented third consecutive term, and some members were talking, even before the vote, about Clayton's fourth term.

Only a handful of members even went through the motions of opposing Clayton, who seemed relaxed and unruffled by the minor storm.

As usual, the Senate moved briskly about its business — with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby presiding with what has become his customary efficiency and the appointment of Abilene Sen. Grant Jones as Finance Committee chairman coming as anything but surprises.

If anything, the new Legislature appears to be a little more serious, perhaps more hard-working than those in the past, although it will be a month or so, after committees have begun their work, before that judgment can be made.

There's a reason for lawmakers to take a hurry-up attitude.

For one thing, both the House and Senate are virtually the same as two years ago, with five-sixths of the House having served at least once before, and the Senate not having any members who haven't had prior legislative experience.

One former lawmaker, on hand for the ceremonies attending the start of the session, remarked that if the Legislature could finish its business and adjourn before the mandatory May 28 day, "probably every one of them (the members) would be re-elected."

That reflects the understanding legislators have that voters seem not to want much from government, except for it to cost them less, and to bother them less.

Speaker Clayton is aware of that — and of the disturbing amount of legislation which is due to be filed (around 4,000 or 4,500 bills), and says it may take "a miracle" to accomplish what he feels needs to be done. He does, he adds, believe in miracles.

One of the other factors is the uncertainty created by Gov.-elect Bill Clements, whose role remains much speculated upon, but as yet ill-defined.

"Do you think Clements is really going to challenge us?" one House member asks.

"I think it's up to Hobby," another says. "Maybe he'll wait until next session to make his move..."

One thing Clements has done which has impressed some members and political observers is his choice of former El Paso County Rep. James Kaster as his legislative liaison.

Kaster, who has been El Paso County tax assessor-collector, is a Democrat, with conservative credentials, experience on the House Appropriations Committee, and experience at parliamentary in-fighting.

The canny Kaster will be assisted by another former House member, Ray Hutchison of Dallas, who lost the GOP primary race to Clements. Hutchison served with many of the members who are in the House this year and is regarded generally as one of the most intelligent and articulate members of recent sessions.

Neither of those choices should hurt Clements' standing with the House, or Senate, except among the more liberal members, where his support was thin anyway.

In fact, Clements appears to be constructing a highly effective staff — more so than during his campaign (although again, a final judgment will have to be made later).

The last several weeks have seen several indications Clements may have matured a bit as a politician — after having set the stage initially for an explosive confrontation by saying he'd sue lawmakers if they failed to pass a presidential primary bill.

Presumably, one of his aides has hinted — tactfully — that that's not the way to deal with 181 touchy men and women.

And presumably, Clements' staff will head off such abrasive meetings between the executive and legislative branches — although there will inevitably be some.

But if they are minimized, Clements and lawmakers may discover they have much more in common than they first thought.

Initial indications are that lawmakers, generally, aren't anti-Clements. They are, understandably, pro-Legislature — and a bit worried.

In a few days, when Clements takes over the big white mansion across from the Capitol, they may start learning if those fears are justified.

So far, however, it looks like the only surprise for this legislative session may be that there are no surprises.

Senators Uncertain On SALT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. said Sunday there are not enough decided votes in the Senate at present either to pass or defeat a strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviets.

Many senators have not made up their minds, Baker said in an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press."

As for himself, Baker said he would find it difficult at best to support the treaty, but his vote will depend upon the debate in the Senate and how the Russians conduct themselves. The Senate should consider the treaty in the context of the total relationships between this country and the Soviets, he said.

"I do think the administration should change its policy and reverse its field and say, 'Of course there is a linkage between our willingness to agree to a treaty and your (Soviet) military adventures in other parts of the world,'" he said.

Baker returned recently from a trip last week with a delegation of five other Republican senators to the Soviet Union where they talked with Soviet leaders. "The Soviets want this treaty very bad," he said.

President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev have indicated they expect to sign SALT II early this year.

On other subjects, Baker said he may run for president, "but it's not going to be today."

He also said there are two major topics in which the country is interested: the cost of living and foreign policy.

Baker said he doubted that Republicans would support Carter's plan for "real wage insurance." He said the plan would aggravate the tendency toward inflation rather than retard it. Carter's plan says that if inflation rises by more than 7 percent in 1979, workers who held their wage demands within the president's 7 percent wage guidelines would receive tax credits to cover their lost earning power.

Carter told an Atlanta audience at a celebration Sunday of Martin Luther King Jr.'s 50th birthday that he would submit the SALT treaty with the Russians to the Senate for ratification as a treaty.

"It will be presented to the Senate for ratification as a treaty as soon as it's concluded," Carter said. He said rejection would deal a severe blow to prospects for peace around the world.

Earlier, there were hints that the administration was thinking of submitting the SALT pact to the Senate as an executive agreement, which would take fewer votes for approval.

Lobbying Law Strict But Enforcement Lax

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Lobbyists are an ever-present influence on the Legislature, but the law which regulates them is a now-you-see-it, now-you-don't affair that combines the strictest registration requirements in the country with some of the weakest enforcement powers.

At the end of December, there were 763 lobbyists registered with the Secretary of State's office, a number that will swell to over 3,000 by the middle of the legislative session because of easily-triggered registration requirements.

"Anyone reimbursed for speaking to their legislator has to register," says Terry Goodman of the Secretary of State's Enforcement Division.

"If a citizen rides a bus to Austin to speak with his or her representative and someone else pays the fare, the citizen must register or risk a $2,000 fine or a year in prison or both."

The result of the broad definition of lobbyist has been a flood of ordinary citizens registering during their one and only trip to Austin and then forgetting to comply with quarterly expense reporting requirements of the law.

Last fall, the Secretary of State's office forwarded the names of 122 lobbyists who had failed to file the required reports to the Attorney General and Travis County Attorney James McMurry.

Most of the violators represented small, defunct, grass-roots lobbying efforts and were not the full-time, professional lobbyists who were the intended subjects of the law when it was passed in 1972.

When McMurry received the names an even more serious defect in the law was revealed.

McMurry told Secretary of State Steve Oakes that he could not prosecute without a formal complaint. Oakes responded that while the lobby law required him to forward names, it did not authorize him to file complaints.

The only clear enforcement authority in the law rests with private citizens who are not likely to make a special trip to Austin to review quarterly lobby reports in detail.

Miss Goodman says that not even her office does that. According to Miss Goodman, the Secretary of State must receive the reports, but is not obligated to review them, and because of the large number filed, does not.

Implementing Tax Relief May Be Legislature's Hardest Job

By MITCH GREEN
A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Controversy over how to implement the Tax Relief Amendment passed by voters in November is likely to keep legislators busy until the last minutes of the just-started 140-day session.

As it now stands, the amendment is only an outline of a tax relief plan, requiring the Legislature to specify details for mandatory and self-enacting provisions, and allowing it to decide whether to implement several optional exemptions.

By filling in this outline, the Legislature will determine how much tax relief is granted, who gets it, and who pays for it.

The Tax Relief Amendment requires agricultural land to be taxed on the basis of its productive value rather than its market value, but leaves it to the Legislature to decide whether to limit this tax break to family farmers or to extend it to large corporate farming operations and timber interests.

If timber land is taxed on productive value, many East Texas school districts could lose millions of dollars in tax revenues and might have to increase taxes of the average homeowner.

No major decision will be necessary to implement the self-enacting $5,000 school tax exemption on the value of all homesteads, but an optional additional exemption of up to $10,000 for elderly and disabled homeowners may be one of the most difficult provisions of the amendment to implement.

Because enactment of the exemption will automatically trigger a tax freeze for all those who qualify, a dramatically inequitable situation could develop where a wealthy and elderly homeowner enjoys a taxbreak while a younger and poorer neighbor struggles to keep up with increasing taxes.

Although the Legislature has the option of requiring a showing of economic need to qualify for the exemption, this would require local tax assessors to administer a complicated verification system for which they have no training.

The fiscal impact of the optional exemption has been estimated at a modest $10 million, but the long term impact of the freeze is so difficult to predict that a special committee of local tax officials has taken the politically unpopular step of urging legislators to delay enacting the exemption in favor of more study.

Legislators also will have to decide whether the optional exemption should

Hartung Proposes Treasury Reform

By BILL KIDD
A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Rep. Frank Hartung appears ready to tangle with his second state treasurer over the handling of state funds by banks.

The Houston Republican and late Treasurer Jesse James had a standing disagreement over the depository practices of the State Treasury at that time.

Now, with Warren G. Harding having been elected treasurer, Hartung is continuing his criticisms — but at a muted level.

Hartung has defused part of Hartung's arsenal by moving promptly to increase interest rates paid by banks on state funds in time accounts — with the rate raised to nine percent the morning the 66th Legislature opened for business.

Harding says he feels the increase is justified by money market conditions.

Rates on U.S. Treasury bills have increased in recent months, he notes, adding such increases produce a "two-way street."

That increase also means another 8,000,000 or so for the state over the next year, Harding says.

His policy of more frequent increases than was the case under his predecessor appears to be part of the reason for the $142,130,205.15 in deposit interest which the State Treasury earned in the last calendar year, an overall gain of 36.6 percent from the prior year.

Another factor has been the increase in state funds kept in interest-earning accounts — which was at 94.21 percent of the total available, at last report, Harding says.

The changes, he reports, haven't produced any complaints from banks — at least yet. And he adds that he'll be watching the situation to see if the State Depository Board needs to make adjustments should money market conditions change.

However, Hartung has indicated he's not sure the new treasurer has gone as far as possible in getting interest income for the state, and in making the Treasury more efficient.

Hartung attempted in 1977 to require competitive bidding by banks for state funds, and to limit demand deposits to only those banks which are providing banking services to the state.

That measure, he recalls, passed the House, and died in a Senate committee.

But he's revived that proposal as HB 4 for the 1979 session.

Hartung also says he anticipated having legislation to change the composition of the State Depository Board, by expanding the number of public members (appointed by the governor).

Currently, the board is composed of the treasurer, the state banking commissioner, and one citizen member.

Hartung has proposed that measure in the past two sessions — and while the proposal has failed before, Hartung still feels it's a change that's needed.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe's recommended budget for the 1980-81 biennium indicates the retiring governor has kind feelings toward the Texas Industrial Commission, judging by his proposals for that agency.

Briscoe's recommendations total $2,621,426 more than those of the Legislative Budget Board where the TIC is concerned.

Under the governor's proposal, the TIC would receive a total $4,533,148 for the two years, whereas the LBB's recommendations comes to $1,931,722.

The governor's suggested spending calls for $2,500,000 for rural development loan funds during the next biennium "to continue rural development in an effective and economical manner in the state."

Insurance Commissioner E.J. Voorhis has notified companies operating in Texas that the State Board of Insurance wishes them to certify that they will cooperate with the Carter anti-inflation program.

The SBI is cooperating with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners in that effort, Voorhis reports.

So far, there's been no indication of the response from insurers.

Tentative Rail Accord Reached

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks said Sunday a contract tentatively agreed on with most of the nation's railroads provides wage increases and cost-of-living adjustments totaling about 36 percent over the life of the contract.

The contract, which runs until March 31, 1981, replaces an agreement that expired Dec. 31, 1977, said Fred Kroll, president of the union. It is being submitted to the union's full negotiating committee Tuesday and to the union's general chairman on Wednesday. If they approve, it will be mailed to the membership for ratification.

The tentative agreement was reached with the National Railway Labor Conference, bargaining arm for the major railroads involved in negotiations with the 135,000-member Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks.

National contract talks with BRAC had begun in July 1977. The major sticking point in negotiations was the brotherhood's attempt to depart from a pattern settlement already accepted by 11 other unions that represent 400,000 railroad workers.

BRAC was the last major railroad union without a new contract. The pattern settlement provided for wage increases and cost-of-living adjustments totaling up to 35 percent over 39 months, depending on the inflation rate.

Kroll said the provisions in the tentative agreement also include:

- A back pay increase that will average about $1,000 a person, including a $100 lump sum bonus for the first three months of 1978.
- "Union members will receive significant health and welfare improvements, plus an increase in number of days of leave for sickness."

Woman Denies Harming Children

DALLAS (AP) — Police said Saturday that the mother of two children found critically wounded in the family's apartment last week told them she slapped the children, but was not responsible for their serious injuries.

Mrs. Kathleen Gradi, 32, was held on $200,000 bond, but had not been formally charged Sunday.

Eleven-year-old Clifford Gradi was in critical condition at Dallas Parkland Hospital after two weekend operations to remove a screwdriver from his head.

Police said the tool was buried to the hilt through one of the boy's eyes.

His 8-year-old stepister, Ainee Gray, was in critical condition at Baylor Medical center with head wounds.

The children were found Friday in the northside apartment where they lived with their mother. A neighbor called police after she heard other children screaming at the blood-spattered scene in the apartment.

Police arrested Mrs. Gradi Saturday. She was notified of the incident Friday as she worked at an insurance company.

In a statement to police, she said she disciplined the children severely Friday morning because they had stolen money from her purse.

"She said she didn't know how those kind of injuries could have happened," said juvenile investigator B.F. Miller. "She's also concerned about her children's condition and has been asking a relative to check on them."

Police said the apartment was littered with blood and broken furniture. They theorized that the attacker used jagged ends of the furniture to further harm the children. They said trails of blood indicated the children had run through the apartment while being attacked.

40 On the other side of the lake the crowds received Him with open arms, for they had been waiting for Him.

41 And now a man named Jairus, a leader of a Jewish synagogue, came and fell down at Jesus' feet and began to beg Him to come to his home, 42 For his only child, a little girl twelve years old, was dying. Jesus went with him, pushing through the crowds.

43, 44 As they went, a woman came up behind and touched Him for healing, for she had been slowly bleeding for twelve years, and could find no cure (though she had spent everything she had on doctors'). But the instant she touched the edge of His robe, the bleeding stopped.

45 "Who touched Me?" Jesus asked. Everyone denied it, and Peter said, "Master, so many are crowding against You . . ."

46 But Jesus said, "No, it was someone who deliberately touched Me, for I felt healing power go out from Me."

47 When the woman realized that Jesus knew, she began to tremble and fell down before Him and told why she had touched Him and that she was now well.

48 He said to her, "Daughter, your faith has healed you! Go in peace."

49 While He was still talking with her, a messenger arrived from the Jairus home with the news that his little girl was dead. "She's gone," they told her father; "there is no use troubling the Teacher now."

Carter Says King Award Affirms Leader's Hopes

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — President Carter received the Martin Luther King Non-Violent Peace Award Sunday and drew prolonged applause when he said King's birthday should be declared a national holiday.

At a ceremony at Ebenezer Baptist Church, where King preached, Carter accepted the eighth annual award "not as an honor earned but as an affirmation that I share the hopes and dreams of Martin Luther King Jr."

Speaking above the chants of demonstrators, several hundreds of whom were gathered outside, the president also was loudly applauded when he pledged to aid black colleges "in their time of need" with government resources.

The ceremony, a highlight of a week-long celebration of the 50th anniversary of King's birthday on Monday, drew an audience of some 650 persons, including about 30 ambassadors.

Flanked by King's widow, Coretta Scott King, and his father, Martin Luther King Sr., the president praised the achievements of the Nobel Peace Prize winner and pledged:

"I will continue to strengthen and enforce the civil rights laws of this land, firmly and without equivocation. I will enforce the spirit and the letter of the law."

The award, presented by the Martin Luther King Center for Social Change, included a citation and a check for $1,000. Mrs. King, who presented the award bearing her late husband's name, said Carter took the helm of a spiritually bankrupt nation and "in two years you have begun to restore hope and confidence." She singled out the president's support of the Humphrey-Hawkins employment bill passed by Congress late last year after a last-minute lobbying campaign by the administration.

Throughout the ceremony in the small red brick church, two groups of protesters shouted chants heard inside. Several hundred opponents of the Shah of Iran chanted their slogans while members of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference yelled, "Jimmy-Jobs."

The SCLC was protesting against expected cuts in social welfare programs in Carter's budget for fiscal 1980.

SCLC President Joseph Lowry complained that the administration wanted domestic social programs to absorb reductions Carter has said are needed in the budget. King's widow, while not officially disassociating herself from the organization, has put some distance between herself and the group.

As if to answer the SCLC charge, Carter noted in his speech that his budget will include money for "new support to educate disadvantaged children, for Head Start, for the handicapped and all those to whom America's promise has not yet come."

The president's seven-hour round trip from Washington began with a family luncheon at an Italian restaurant which brought together the Carters' son, Chip, and his estranged wife, Caron.

The lunch at Gene and Gabe's Restaurant was hosted by Carter's eldest son, Jack, and included his wife, Judy, their son, Jason, and their 3-week-old baby, Sarah Rosemary.

At the church, Carter said King taught a lesson of power. "He showed us all that we are not powerless if we care enough, if we are willing to sacrifice enough, if we are willing to risk public failure and humiliation and always be ready to come back and try again," he said.

Carter never met King although both were native Georgians. But the president said King inaugurated Carter's human rights campaign.

"We can speak out together as one people on behalf of human rights around the world because Martin Luther King Jr. and the civil rights movement helped liberate all Americans from the chains of official racism here at home," Carter said.

"Now the challenge facing each of us today, but especially government, is to stay true to trust placed in America by the civil rights movement and Martin Luther King," he said.

The president said his administration would not only enforce laws against discrimination, but counter discrimination with "vigorous affirmative action programs."

Carter also called for passage of the District of Columbia voting rights bill that would allow residents of the capital to elect their own Congress members. And he attacked discrimination in hiring and promotion and in housing.

King was killed in 1968 by a gunman in Memphis, Tenn.

Bella Calls President 'Naive' For Firing Her

NEW YORK (AP) — Bella Abzug, former co-chairperson of the President's National Advisory Council on Women, said Sunday that President Carter showed a great deal of "naivete" in firing her last week for criticizing his economic policy.

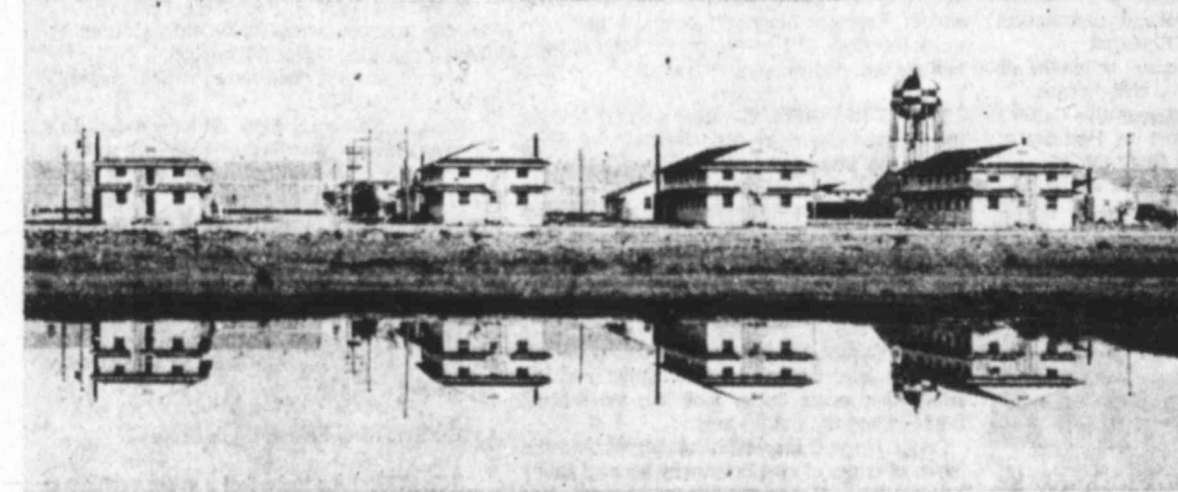

Mrs. Abzug, speaking on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program, said the president was naive to expect the remaining women on the committee to continue working if she was replaced by a "yes person."

She said the problem began when the committee rejected Carter's anti-inflation policy, contending it will cause a recession.

Mrs. Abzug said most people believe women are only interested in passing the Equal Rights Amendment but she said the economy of the country is a women's issue also.

Mrs. Abzug, saying the role of the advisory committee is to tell the president how women feel, claimed women believe they are going to "bleed in a social situation that cuts the heart out of their programs."

About her firing, Mrs. Abzug said, "What happened the other day at the White House was like — when a guy has a bad day at the office and he comes home and kicks his door. Well — our president probably had a bad day and instead of kicking Billy Carter, he kicked me."

HOW IT WAS — Two-story barracks used to house men training for World War II at Lubbock Army Air Field. This view of a barracks row shows how Reese Air Force Base has changed the military scene. The barracks at left is believed to be the only one now visible from the Reese gate. It will be gone by spring.

Old Reese Building Set For Removal

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

In 1942, the two-story open-bay barracks were only one of many standing in a row paralleling War Highway at the newly built Lubbock Army Air Field.

Today, Building 411 is the only vintage barracks-type structure visible from the Reese Air Force Base gate. And it won't be there long.

A Jan. 24 bid date insures that the building will leave the base by spring, 37 years after it was designated as "temporary" — meaning it would last up to five years.

When it is gone, there will be three of the 30x80-foot two-story buildings at Reese — the library, the guest house and the pilots' locker building. Renovation elsewhere already is writing finis to the locker rooms.

All other barracks have disappeared, along with many single-story structures, as the permanent look, recently described as 95 per cent modern, replaced the wooden facilities thrown up hurriedly for temporary quarters for WW II trainees.

Cake Too Long For Room

ROME, Ga. (AP) — Berry College is planning to bake a 177-foot-long cake for its 77th Founders Day Celebration on Tuesday. The only problem is that the ceremonies will be held in a room 103 feet long.

"We're just going to twist and turn," said Dan Biggers, a college administrator. "It is a little bit complicated. But we'll run it as long as we can and then turn the corner."

CHINESE HONOR LIU

TOKYO (AP) — The Chinese government has posthumously cleared the name of another communist official purged during the Cultural Revolution of the mid-1960s, the Japanese news agency Kyodo reports. The dispatch from Peking, based on an article in the Peking newspaper People's Daily, said Liu Jen, former deputy mayor of Peking, has been rehabilitated six years after his death. It said Liu and then-Mayor Peng Chen were harassed, imprisoned and tortured by the Red Guards, the spearhead of the revolution. It said Liu died in a hospital in 1973.

Changes came to LAAF when the field, closed after World War II and used as housing for veterans attending Texas Tech University, was re-activated and named for a Shallowater pilot killed in the war.

Single-story structures were jacked up and moved together to form whatever facility was needed. Two-story barracks, too heavy with boiler mechanisms for easy moving, were remodeled for use where they stood.

Building 411, once merely two floors of open space for community living, was remodeled as home for the security police division. Included in the new arrangement were cells, two of them maximum security with steel-plated walls, ceilings and floors.

Alongside the smokestack for the barracks' extensive heating system, an incinerator now towers. It was used daily by the Office of Special Investigations which shared the structure with the police.

When the look of brick and mortar began appearing at Reese, corresponding wooden structures began disappearing.

According to the rules of military construction, Reese Realty officer Ray Baldwin explained, an old building must be obligated for loss when a new one is requested.

When the new one is completed the one obligated must be sold by bid.

Through bids opened by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers which also built them in 1941-42, Reese's obsolete structures went all over the South Plains and into Eastern New Mexico.

Though no longer usable at Reese, the structures filled many needs in the civilian community — as homes, apartment houses, business, churches, schools and farm and ranch buildings of many uses, including homes for migrant workers. Lubbock Christian College opened its doors with many Reese buildings on the campus.

Building 411 was obligated for removal when a new facility was built for the security police. The new facility opened two years ago, but the base got a waiver so the building could be used longer.

Now the two-year stay is over and potential bidders are now stomping on the unyielding floor of the old 1942 barracks building and wondering at the term "temporary."

It probably won't ever be seen again as it appears across from the 4th Street deadend at Reese. It is too big and heavy, Baldwin noted, to be moved intact. Probably, the new owner will choose the option of razing the structure on the base in his three-month time span.

When it is gone, brick and mortar will have gained one more step toward the permanent status of Reese, with the next construction due to take the pilots' locker room.

Then, there will be only two barracks to tug at the memory when oldtimers return to the base.

Congressional Probe Of King Slaying Called 'Hoax' By Ray

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray says the two-year congressional investigation which concluded he fired the shot that killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was a "$5 million hoax orchestrated by professional hoaxes."

Responding to a reporter's request for his reaction to the finding of the House Select Committee on Assassinations, Ray charged in a letter dated Jan. 8 that "the committee's motive and overriding interest (was) to see that there is never a public trial" in King's murder.

"In other words the committee's findings were to be just for their propaganda value with little interest in the truth surrounding the Martin Luther King Jr. and John F. Kennedy homicides."

Established to investigate the assassinations of King and President John Kennedy, the committee concluded last month that Ray murdered King in Memphis, Tenn., with a single shot from a hunting rifle and that Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy in Dallas in 1963 with two rounds from a mail-order carbine.

There is a likelihood, the panel said in a preliminary report issued as it went out of business Dec. 30, that Ray, abetted by his brother Jerry, killed King in hopes of collecting a $50,000 bounty and that Oswald was in league with a second rifleman who missed his mark.

Ray pleaded guilty to King's murder in 1969 but quickly recanted and has claimed that he was a fall guy for the real assassin, a shadowy Latin smuggler he knew only as Raoul. The committee found the account unbelievable.

"Not only did the committee not call any witness before them that did not substantially follow the official government line but did not even have the fortitude to recall me for interrogation about the conspiracy allegations the committee was mandated to investigate," Ray wrote.

He also complained the committee did not examine Charles Quitman Stephens, who was the only person who said he saw Ray in the flop house from which the shot that killed King was fired, and yet examined a policeman who, 10 years after the fact, disclosed what he said was a Ray confession.

Ray had hoped the committee's work would cast enough suspicion on the official version of the King killing to help him gain a new trial.

Though the committee did decide further Ray testimony would serve no useful purpose, it did offer to include in the record any written replies or additional pertinent statements he cared to submit.

Actor Must Shave Head For Role

LONDON (AP) — British actor Simon Ward, star of the film "Young Winston," flew off to New York Sunday for what he expects to be a chilly Broadway debut.

The 37-year-old actor's first appointment is with a barber — he has to shave his head Kojak-style to portray a Buddhist monk in "Meeting by the River," a play by Christopher Isherwood.

"It's so cold in New York that 'with no hair my head is going to freeze,'" Ward said. "If the play is a success I might have to remain bald until the end of the year."

"I'm told by friends that my hair will never grow back properly again. I just know that I will look like nothing on Earth. I have such a flat head at the back and I am terrified that it will look ridiculous," he said.

What does his wife, Alexandra, think about the lack of a hair style? "I suppose I'll just have to get used to living with a Buddhist monk."

NOT SHEEPISH ABOUT WINNING — Jeana Aldridge, member of the Roosevelt FFA chapter, shows off her Grand Champion lamb, as she prepares for the 1979 Lubbock County FFA and 4-H Livestock Show today and Tuesday at the South Plains Fairgrounds. The show will be capped with a premium sale at 6 p.m. Tuesday in the Livestock Pavilion. (Staff photo)

AN EDITORIAL: The 96th--Better Or Worse?

TODAY IS AN important day in the life of the nation. For better or worse. Which is a way of saying that today, the 96th Congress of the United States convenes in Washington. Which also is to say that regardless of what the 96th does or doesn't do, things will never be the same henceforth.

At least, if the history of recent sessions of Congress is any indication, this will be the result. Unfortunately, most of what has taken place can be placed in the "for worse" category.

THIS SESSION of Congress not only will face the usual, in recent years, problems of inflation, farm issues, Social Security taxes, income and outgo, Welfare "reform," postal problems and such.

But, it will face such biggies as defense spending, how to help, or hinder, President Carter's avowed intent to hold the 1980 budget deficit to $30 billion or under, and in the case of the Senate, the SALT II pact with Russia.

In addition, there will be the hundred and one items of special interest to special groups and areas, from the water-starved states to various ethnic groups. These may take up more of the Congressmen's valuable time than some other matters.

THERE MOST likely will be more said, and little done, about "reform" in government and Congress itself.

Ironically, today also is the scheduled trial date for one Rep. Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., on

AN EDITORIAL: Family Cars 'Auto' Be Exempt

IT WOULD BE difficult, and probably impossible, to find any popular basis of support for continuing the local tax on family cars.

An argument that the "wheel tax" is a legitimate revenue-raising source for a city perhaps could be made on the basis that cars use city streets.

Not even that weak case can be made, however, for the levying of a tax on family cars by a school district. The schools provide no service or facility used by a car—unless you want to count the parking spaces filled by students who'd be healthier if they walked to class in the first place.

Yet, both the City of Lubbock and the Lubbock Independent School District have been doggedly levying the wheel tax right along.

THE LEGISLATURE can correct this situation during the current session.

In November, Texas voters overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment which, among other things, authorizes the Legislature to exempt from taxes one car per family if that car is not used in the production of income.

ART BUCHWALD: Spies In Striped Ties Trail Honorable Allies

WASHINGTON—FBI Director William Webster told newspapermen the other day that, with the recognition of the People's Republic of China, the United States could become overrun with Chinese spies pretending to be students and diplomats.

The FBI is charged with keeping an eye on foreign spies in this country and Mr. Webster has a right to be concerned.

If only 2,000 Chinese envoys plus 500 students were permitted to enter the country in the first year, the FBI would have to keep an eye on each one.

WASHINGTON—FBI Director William Webster told newspapermen the other day that, with the recognition of the People's Republic of China, the United States could become overrun with Chinese spies pretending to be students and diplomats.

The FBI is charged with keeping an eye on foreign spies in this country and Mr. Webster has a right to be concerned.

If only 2,000 Chinese envoys plus 500 students were permitted to enter the country in the first year, the FBI would have to keep an eye on each one.

This would require three agents working 24 hours a day to watch every Chinese person.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation could handle this number, but in a few years the People's Republic might insist on sending over tourists at the rate of a million a month. Then the FBI's resources would be strained.

TO COMPLICATE matters the United States has a large population of Chinese-Americans who are loyal citizens of this country but who could easily be mistaken for People's Republic Chinese.

Then we also have Taiwanese students who are violently anti-mainland China but who could be followed for months before the FBI found out where their political sympathies were.

There has to be an answer to the problem.

One solution would be for President Carter to work out a deal with Vice Premier Teng when he arrives in Washington this month. At the moment, in the first flush of recognition and goodwill, Teng might go for the arrangement.

All mainland Chinese diplomats and students would be required to wear dark blue Mao jackets and baggy pants when they went out in public in the United States.

ANYONE CAUGHT wearing an alligator sports shirt would be assumed to be a spy and deported back to Peking with the next shipment of Coca-Cola.

Chinese students would be required to carry their little Red Books to classes at all times, so

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Civil Defense Snafu

WASHINGTON—The anger of White House aides on reading a front-page story in the Dec. 28 New York Times that President Carter had flipped on civil defense stemmed from a conviction that the President is losing the bureaucratic and propaganda war within his own administration.

The Times story clearly came from within the administration and reflects sentiment in the State Department, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) and even the Pentagon.

It reported "growing skepticism" within the administration over the efficacy of civil defense.

What made it seem preposterous was Carter's personal approval last October of Presidential Directive 41, asserting for the first time that civil defense must be counted as a factor in the U.S.-Soviet strategic balance.

HENRY J. TAYLOR: Can You 'Dig' It?

AUSTRIAN CHANCELLOR Bruno Kreisky has opened the 8.7 mile Arlberg tunnel through the Alps, the longest tunnel in the world.

The tunnel's entrance is at St. Jakob, Austria, and it is designed to handle daily about 4,000 toll-paying vehicles, replacing a road blocked by avalanches more than 30 days each year. In Europe, tunneling continues apace.

One of the greatest stirrings is transportation's vast improvement. You find the continent's immense and very important networks have been modernized: shipping on the great Loire, Rhine and Rhone rivers has been facilitated; railway electrification has been extended, etc.

TWENTY YEARS after the Simplon road, Austria built Europe's first sizable railway; 60 miles of track between Bochna, in Austria's Galicia, and Vienna.

All this tunneling goes back to the time of Napoleon Bonaparte, a very time-conscious man. In 1802 court engineer Jean Mathieu provided Napoleon with the original plan for a tunnel under the English Channel to carry carriages and wagons.

In 1867 significant revivals of Napoleon's concept occurred on both the British and French shores, and again in 1872 and 1876. Ultimately, the tunnel was to run from Dover to Sangatta, near Calais.

IN AUSTRALIA, a remote 200-square-mile area is filled with phosphate, a very valuable export commodity. Some 25 million years ago the area was an ocean bottom. A few whale vertebrae that old are found there. And, to protect such fossil findings, Australia's environmental extremists seek to prohibit further phosphate mining.

Also in Australia, near Jubiluka Camp in the "Top End," you find a marshy, lily-covered lagoon called the Margets Flood Plain. It teems with crocodiles, water buffaloes, storks, pelicans, kangaroos and six-foot lizards.

But Margets Flood Plain is the world's largest known cache of uranium. It is extremely rich and tremendously valuable for export. The deposits would earn Australia an estimated $1 billion a year and provide at least 10,000 jobs.

IN ENGLAND the environmental extremists loudly insisted that the supersonic Concorde's sonic boom damaged famous old British cathedrals. Instruments placed in them showed absolutely no such evidence. Instead, the instruments showed plenty of damage from the cathedral's own bells.

The opening of Austria's Arlberg tunnel is not only an engineering feat but an achievement against the environmental extremists. Obviously, the world must make the greatest possible use of its natural resources.

The word ecology derives from the Greek word meaning home. And the ecologists' purposes are splendid. But they have their priorities as mixed up as gypsies who dance at funerals and cry at weddings.

Until the world, as in Austria, uses common sense it is cruelly behind the parade. Three cheers for the Arlberg tunnel.

JAY HARRIS: Law And Order...

THOUGHT FOR Today: An optimist is a happy chondriac.

OVERHEARD: A Budget is a conscience which doesn't keep you from spending, but makes you feel guilty later.

IF NEW DIST. Atty. John Montford needs ammunition for his anti-crime crusade, he can find it in any number of places, including not-so-far away London, England, that is.

The aggressive DA has been saying over and over what a lot of longtime observers have noted, that is too lax handling of cases and lax punishment by the courts is one major factor in the soaring crime rate all over the world.

After several trips abroad, we have remarked how it was safer to walk the streets of London, Rome, Jerusalem, Cairo and Johannesburg than it was Lubbock, Texas. At the time, in most instances, this was so.

But, times are changing. At least they are in foggy, old Londontown. Gone are the days, perhaps forever, it seems when the British capital could claim to be one of the world's safest cities.

London Metro Police Commissioner Sir David McVee created a stir recently when he told Parliament that reported crime in London hit a record 568,952 cases in 1977, topping even New York City's 517,554 for the same year. The famed unnamed London Bobby is fast becoming an endangered species. Many now carry guns.

NO ONE in London should have been surprised.

A top police official predicted as long ago as 1969 that violent crime in London would soon surpass that in New York.

"The leniency of the courts," he said then, "is a major factor working in favor of the violent criminal." The Criminal Justice Act of 1947 forbade corporal punishment for crimes of violence, while the death penalty was phased out in two stages in 1955 and 1960.

Now, Scotland Yard can look back on days when a violent robbery was headline news. "If the villain was convicted," a former official recalled, "he got a whacking good sentence and was then dispatched to prison. He broke stones and he sewed mail bags. After he was released he seldom came back for more. Prison then was a real deterrent. Today, they offer TV."

Veteran officers say corporal punishment, usually administered with a cat o' nine tails or a birch rod—instilled fear into the criminal. Now, Piccadilly Circus, like New York's 42nd Street and parts of Lubbock are places to avoid after dark.

SLIDE ROAD Sam Says: This is a government Of The People, For The People and Buy The People.

ON WEDNESDAY, Russia will start its 1979 nationwide census. It will be interesting to see how many 'Nyets' there really are.

Meanwhile, the U.S. is gearing up for next year's nose count. From all indications, some new trends will emerge, not the least of which will show a sharply lower birth rate in most states.

According to the Census Bureau, changing U.S. social values have played a major role in helping slow the nation's population growth. In its latest state estimates, the CB says the U.S. population has expanded by 7.3 percent the first eight years of this decade as compared to 13.3 for the 1960s.

According to the Census Bureau's Maurice Moore, "Some factors involved in the lower rate appear to be that young people are delaying marriage longer and at the same time, millions of women are entering the job market, instead of staying at home as in the past."

THE LOWER birth rate is expected to have a profound affect on everything from future Social Security payments and payouts to voting.

Already, major changes in living habits and areas are showing up, with the Sunbelt the biggest beneficiary.

On a regional basis, the CB says the west and southwestern states have continued to grow much faster than the national average.

The five fastest-growing states during the 1970s have been: Nevada, with 35 percent; Alaska, 33.1 percent; Arizona, 32.6 percent; Wyoming, 27.4 percent and Florida, 26.5 percent. Texas ranks right behind this group.

Just for the record, there were 104,609,000 females in the population in 1970, and 100,269,000 males, a 51.1 percent to 48.9 percent ratio. Today, it's 111,119,000 women to 105,699,000 men, women ahead one percent. For what it's worth, the divorce rate has gone from 3.1 per thousand to 5.1. In 1970, 654,000 singles of the opposite sex lived together, and admitted it. Today 1,508,000 do.

The total population in 1970 was 204,878,000. Today, it's over 218,000,000, and counting.

Oswald: "There is nothing much to play at three clubs. South may make an over-trick if the defense slips badly, but is most likely to make exactly nine tricks." Alan: "The hand appears here as a start of discussion of the modern use of the two-over-one response. In expert bidding the minimum for this response is nine high-card points with eleven playing points and these minimums have filtered down to ordinary standard American."

Oswald: "Some experts — particularly the younger ones — play that the response is an absolute game force. We don't go that far. We do play that responder promises a second bid and that unless that second bid is a rebid to three of his own suit the opener is required to bid again."

Alan: "When South responded with two clubs he sure hoped to get to game. When opener rebid two spades South could do no better than to continue to three clubs and opener with a minimum hand could do no better than to pass and let South struggle."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: About three months ago I was beaten about my shoulders and head. It was my husband. I feel uneasy about going to a doctor, but I have had an earache since. Could external blows have caused inner-ear damage? This may not be an entirely medical question, but I would like your opinion about my husband. We have been married more than 30 years and he always has had these temper tantrums. He does not seem aware of the seriousness of the beatings and seems surprised at the bruises. I feel he needs medical attention, but he refuses to believe it. Do you have any suggestions? I still love him, but I believe he is dangerous at times. — M.E.T.

The carache is your immediate problem. It is possible your ear drum was perforated. See an otologist (ear doctor) and also have your hearing tested.

Your husband is obviously the other immediate problem. He may need psychological help as much as you do medical attention. Reported wife-beatings are on the increase simply because many women, who used to be reluctant about such things, are bringing cases to the attention of authorities. Police departments and social agencies are taking a new view of this, from both a legal and psychiatric standpoint. Mate-abuse tends to occur at highly emotional times. Reports increase sharply during holiday seasons. Alcohol is often a catalyst. Sometimes economic factors are involved.

The encouraging point in your letter is that you and your husband have at least discussed the matter, apparently with some calmness. That is a major step, and if a word here will help him decide to get the help he obviously needs, so much the better. There are clinics that deal with such situations. See if one is near you. An attitude of forbearance will not help either of you. Check with a social service agency — on your way back from the doctor.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have a terrible problem. I am 30 pounds overweight and have stretchmarks on my legs, hips and breasts. I am only 14. My mother says they will disappear if I tighten up my skin. Well, every chance I get I do exercises, but they only make things look worse. Any advice for me? — Help!

I don't think you want to "tighten" your skin at this point. Your overweight is contributing to the marks, which are breaks in the tissue. At your age you do have a good chance of having the marks fade with time — if you shed the extra 30 pounds.

You'll do that by continuing your exercises while you cut back on total calories. Then hope for the best.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My seven-year-old daughter has diabetes insipidus. We learned of it recently. I am very concerned and confused about it. I have talked with several doctors and I take her in for X-ray scans every six months. One doctor says it is not serious. Another says it is. So is it or isn't it?

She is on pitressin tannate and I give her injections. When I give a shot in the leg or rear, some of it drains out. I'm wondering why. Can you help? — D.F.

Diabetes insipidus is rare. It can occur at any age and is due to a deficiency in the pituitary gland, which produces a hormone that controls water release. The drug you are using replaces this hormone. In about half the cases the cause cannot be found. In others it may be traced to disorders within the pituitary, such as a tumor. The periodic scans are part of a continuing search for a cause. It may be temporary or persist, and is not considered serious unless the patient becomes dehydrated, usually from inadequate treatment. Features of this are great thirst and urination.

The leaking can be avoided if you draw the skin firmly aside before making the injection. The skin will close over the penetration point and avoid leakage.

Diabetes insipidus has nothing to do with diabetes mellitus (sugar diabetes).

Dear Dr. Ruble: Why is the term "pulmonary emphysema" used? I thought all emphysema was pulmonary, having to do with lungs. Can you explain? — J.V.

Emphysema means air in the tissue. The term is almost always used in connection with the lung disorder. However, air in tissue can occur in other ways, such as in the chest wall from a stab wound.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Readers: This is too good not to share with you. It happened to me and I want to pass it on.

The editor of the Tampa Tribune phoned recently and asked if I would speak to a reporter and verify a story. I said I would. Well — here it is:

It seems a sixth child was born to Eugene Jerome Dupuis and his wife Katherine. They named the child Eugene Jerome Dupuis, Jr. This is the same name that went to their other five children. So now the born-again Christian Evangelist has three boys and three girls — all named Eugene Jerome Dupuis, Jr. When I asked the reporter why Mr. Dupuis did this, she replied, "Because he wanted to show Ann Landers she was wrong. He said wrote to you when his first-born came along (twin boys) and asked what to do. He wanted to name both boys 'Junior.' You told him 'Sorry, only one Jr. to a family.' The proud papa was determined to prove you wrong. So now he has six Juniors."

I asked how the children know when they are being called or spoken to. "Oh — they are numbered," was the reply. They are called, "One, Two, Three, Four, Five and Six."

I then asked what the children's mother had to say about all this. "She keeps quiet," was the answer.

The reporter asked me what I had to say for myself. I replied, "I guess he showed me. Tell him he can have six apologies. And if there's a No. 7, he should name the child Ann Landers. If it's a boy it will create a little extra excitement — which seems to be what Eugene Jerome Dupuis enjoys most." (And people ask me if I make up letters!)

over the significance of height. I find that when a taller woman first sizes me up, I am usually rejected. If a friendship does develop, she seldom allows it to go beyond the platonic stage. Do you confirm or deny that women tend to pass over shorter men? — Significantly Short In Flint

Dear Sig: I do not deny that women tend to pass over men who are shorter than they. This is unfortunate because they lose some beautiful opportunities to meet some splendid fellows. Often the man who is not so tall — or handsome — has had to develop other traits to compensate and he is far the better bargain.

Dear Ann Landers: After reading "Feathers Flying In Wisconsin" I just had to tell you how a Wisconsin friend of mine solved the problem of "Who's going to clean the fish?" She served her enthusiastic fisherman a delectable dinner of fried perch — unsealed and gutted, of course. She hasn't been asked to pluck a duck or fillet a fish in the last five years. A variation of this concept has been known to cure smokers who douse their butts in the dinner plate. Serve them a dinner in an ashtray. — Speedy Recovery

Dear Speed: While I don't recommend either of these two plays, anything that works is good. I never argue with success

The bidding has proceeded:

Pass Pass 1♦ Pass
2NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Despite the fact that your hand is aceless and partner is a passed hand, we would bid on. Your 14 points, combined with partner's 11-12, should give you enough for game. The obvious rebid is three hearts in the hope of finding a major suit contract. However, we would also accept a raise to three no trump because of the wide distribution of your honor cards.

What action do you take?
A.—Bid five diamonds. While partner's action is mainly for penalties (he could have bid four no trump for takeout), it is surely based on high cards rather than trumps. Your diamond length detracts from partner's defensive potential, but it's a useful trick-taking weapon on offense. With distributional hands such as this, the wisest policy is to try and play the hand, if at all possible.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK
I don't know how a car knows when you're ready to sell it...but it knows. We bought a four-wheel drive about seven years ago and there is nothing you can say to me that will convince me that car didn't understand every word we said.

A lot of marriages between new cars and owners are made in heaven. Maybe that's why we couldn't get parts. The honeymoon lasted exactly three hours. Then the light knob fell off in our hand, the rear window went down automatically and stayed there, and the floor burnt our feet up.

We didn't talk trade-in in front of the car for almost a year. Then one day my husband said, "Maybe we should trade in this clunker while it is still running."

We climbed in the car and the motor refused to turn over.

After we bought the new battery, we figured we might as well use up our investment. So we hung in there until seven months later when my husband said, "As long as we've got the original tires, we might as well turn it in." At that precise moment, the left rear tire expired.

With four new tires, the car had bought itself another year of residency. It was not ready to let us go. The least little thing could set it off. One day I just got out of my side of the car in a parking lot and remarked what a good-looking compact was parked next to us. Our car would not go into reverse and we had to have it towed to a garage where they duly recorded on our bill, "Stubbornness: $65."

We never knew why the transmission went out suddenly the way it did. We had been very discriminate in placing the ad for the car in the paper, being very careful never to mention it within hearing distance. But by the time the first caller inquired as to when they could see the car and we told them they could view it from a rack at Ed's garage, they backed off.

When we decided to trade the car in, we pretended we were going to the grocery. Then, at the last minute, we turned into the car lot. The salesman said he had never seen a car with the motor off and the emergency brake on, roll uphill to smash into a guard rail before.

I cannot believe he was that naive.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦KQJ92 ♥873 ♦852 ♦94
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♦ Dbles. 4♦ ?
What action do you take?
A.—Your opponent's barrage tactics have forced you to guess at a most uncomfortable level. If you elect to stay out of the bidding, partner might not have enough to act again at this level. But if you venture four spades, you could run into a 500-point penalty if partner has a minimum double. Despite the risks, we would bid because the hand appears to fit well and the possibility of collecting a vulnerable game is too appetizing to pass up.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦105 ♥K106 ♦AK1082 ♦954
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 2♦ 3♦
3♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—While you have as little as the law allows for a two-over-one response, you shouldn't pass. Partner must have a better than minimum hand, for he was not compelled to bid over three clubs—he could have passed that round to you. Since partner must have a long spade suit, your doubleton is adequate support, especially since it includes the ten. We would raise to four spades.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦A10962 ♥A53 ♦84 ♦952
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1♦ Dbles. Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. In response to a takeout double, a five-card major suit headed by two honors with an ace in a side suit is a pretty reasonable hand. We would invite game by jumping in our long suit.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AK93 ♥Q7 ♦AK93 ♦762
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♦ 1♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Even though partner could do no more than make an overcall, we would not permit the auction to die short of game. A jump to four hearts is a possibility, but that could land you in the wrong contract—the hand might play better in another suit or no trump. We suggest you start with a cue-bid of two clubs. In this sequence, the cue-bid simply creates a forcing situation and does not promise control of the enemy suit.

Q.8—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦A76 ♥AQ ♦A92 ♦AK954
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ Pass 1♥ 1♦
What do you bid now?
A.—Again we recommend a cue-bid—two spades in this case—to alert partner to the fact that we want to play in game somewhere. This, too, is unconditionally forcing to game, but unlike the previous example, it guarantees first- or second-round control of the opponent's suit. The difference here is because South has available a variety of forcing

Separate Shootings Injure Two Lubbock Men

Schanez Egesipo was listed in serious condition with shotgun wounds to the right arm, leg and abdomen. According to police reports, the 37-year-old victim was shot early Sunday in front of a house at 907 31st St.

He told police a Mexican-American male riding in the back seat of a car driven by another man shot through the vehicle's window at him.

Police have the name of a suspect. Lonnie Portee was admitted to HSCH early Sunday with a gunshot wound to the right leg. The victim reported to police that a Mexican-American male shot at him five times and attempted to run him down with a vehicle while he and another man were walking in the 2600 block of Parkway Drive.

Portee said that after the man failed to run him down, he got out of his car, pulled a blue steel gun and started firing. After he was hit, Portee said, he fell to the ground and the suspect attempted to run him over again.

The victim said he rolled out of the way. A man in another car also attempted to run down Portee's companion but also missed, police reports said.

Police were searching for a suspect described as 25 to 35 and wearing a white sweater and jeans. He reportedly was driving a maroon Ford LTD.

John D. Hagood told police a tall black male wielding a six-inch switchblade took $7 in cash from him about 12:35 a.m. Sunday while he was sitting in a car in the parking lot of a club at 4900 Ave. Q with a companion.

Hagood said the suspect reached through the open door and stuck the knife in his ribs and demanded money.

Robert Palomo was treated for a cut lip at West Texas Hospital and released Sunday after reportedly being assaulted at a club at Fourth Street and Quirt Avenue.

He told police he was approached inside the club by a man who said "that the main man wanted to talk to him." Palomo said he went outside with the suspect, who then hit him in the face, knocked him to the ground and kicked him several times. The assault stopped when another man warned the police were coming, the victim said. He was taken to the hospital by a witness who saw him lying on the ground.

Two Lubbock men and two Lubbock women were arrested about 8:30 p.m. Saturday for felony possession of marijuana.

Acting on confidential information, detectives obtained a search warrant and seized more than four ounces of what appeared to be marijuana from a house in West Lubbock.

Floyd County deputies had no new leads Sunday on the shooting of Casillas Maximo early Saturday.

Deputies said Maximo of Floydada was driving along the Idalou Highway in his 1976 Ford sedan about 1 a.m. when he was shot in the jaw from an open field.

He drove himself to the Caprock Hospital, where he underwent surgery. He was released that afternoon.

Police were searching Sunday for three suspects who a Lubbock woman claimed raped her in a parking lot near a westside nightclub about 10 p.m. Friday.

She said the trio assaulted her while two other men stood by. The woman, 25, said the suspects were three white men, one in his early 20s and another in his late 20s or early 30s. All were of medium build, she said.

Kenneth Edward Reeves told police someone stole his pickup truck, valued at $6,300, from a lot at 3201 34th St. sometime Saturday night.

FASHION-WISE, SUCCESSFUL AND CUSTOMER ORIENTED — Key factors in the nine-year success story of Maxine's Accent most certainly include the three-generation capabilities within the same family at this Briercroft Center Shop. Pictured at center (back row) is owner Maxine Willingham, with daughter Sharon, and mother, Mary McCollum at her side, all on the team since the store's founding. Also shown are staff-members (back row) Julie Hunt and Paula Marberry, and (seated) Kay Shook and Lue Ree McGee.

Maxine's Accent January Sale
 Featuring Exceptional Values

It is January Clearance time at Maxine's Accent, in Briercroft Shopping Center!

And for this once-a-year event, Maxine's not only is offering many racks at 50 per cent reduction, but also is arranging storewide reductions of 30 per cent and more on all fall and holiday sweaters, coats (including rabbit, leathers and fake furs), jeans, short and long dresses, sportswear, robes and gowns, and accessories. Also, reductions in the Designer Room includes some ultra suedes.

Beginning their tenth year, Dr. and Mrs. Willingham especially invite their many friends and customers to come in for this storewide clearance sale.

Two years ago this February, the store was expanded to twice its original size, and a beautiful new "Designer Room" was added. Here merchandise from top designers is displayed, and privacy is afforded the discriminating customer looking for uniqueness and many lines exclusive to Maxine's Accent.

Fur Showing Looms

Another situation merits special attention at this time:

An added venture for the store has been the association of Maxine's Accent with Pam Mahoney, noted furrier of New York and Dallas. Mrs. Mahoney is bringing a $500,000 collection of exciting furs for an early February fur sale.

"Maxine and Pam extend a joint invitation for you to watch for specific dates and details and to come by at that time and see this collection at most competitive prices before you purchase a fur."

Referring to the shop's current January Clearance, Maxine emphasizes:

"We've had a most enjoyable and rewarding nine years in ladies' junior apparel here in Lubbock and have met with tremendous response from not only Lubbock but from many of the surrounding cities.

"We are happy to offer the exciting savings during the January Clearance, and we hope our many friends will be able to take advantage of these values.

The storewide reductions (30 to 70 per cent, remember) involve fall and holiday lines, long dresses and short restaurant dresses, beautiful mix-and-match sportswear for both juniors and misses, fall coats, sweaters, ultra suedes, party pajamas, lingerie and accessories.

Outstanding Labels

Some of the lines are Pant-Her, Corinth Street, Collegian, Lady Wrangler, Body English, Panther, Melissa Lane, Lilli Ann, College Town, Victor Costa, Dorce, Hearsay, Gloria Vanderbilt, Halston, Mollie Parnis, Eleanor Brenner, Strawberry Plant and many, many others.

The capable staff at Maxine's includes full-time staffers Maxine Willingham; her daughter, Sharon, who is assistant manager; her mother, Mary McCollum; also Lue Ree McGee and Kay Shook and part-time members including Paula Marberry and Julie Hunt, a Distributive Education student. Other part-time staffers include Poppy Burnette and Kaye McGee.

Kay Shook is a native of Petersburg and in the past has been quite active in modeling and retailing and is a former runner-up in the South Plains Maid of Cotton pageant.

Maxine is the fashion coordinator each year for Miss Lubbock, and she also assists other pageant entries locally in their wardrobe rightness. She also has served as a consultant in the Dallas fashion seminars during markets.

Maxine has attended many different markets seeking new resources for her store, and this past June she and Dr. Willingham were in Europe making contacts for more unusual and exceptional apparel items for the store. She feels that the new lines selected on these buying trips have helped earn Maxine's Accent the enviable reputation as a leader in a fashion-oriented community, with customers looking to it for new directions.

Everything, from the capable staff, the famous labels, the attractive decor, the management's devotion to rightness and leadership in fashion, and currently the storewide reductions on current merchandise, contribute to the true Maxine's Accent image.

Texas Insulation Systems, Lockney, Afford ThermoCon Products, Process

"Know Texas Insulation Systems, Box 591, Lockney, Texas, phone 652-3348, and profit."

Specializing in ThermoCon spray-on and loose-fill for residential, commercial and industrial applications, Jerry Ulmer and staff are masters in their field. For full details see Ulmer at the Lockney facility, write Box 591, Lockney, Tex. 79241, or call (806)652-3348.

Multiple Benefits

Spray-on ThermoCon affords temperature, sound and fire control in one application!

Because of its chemical content, it permanently bonds to steel, wood and masonry surfaces painted or not. It provides a strong color-stable environmental system that will not chip, shed, flake, dust or be subject to rot or fungi. ThermoCon is odorless and non-toxic.

Because it forms a monolithic seal, it can be used wherever temperature, sound or fire control is needed on ceilings or walls, exposed or unexposed. No lathing, undercoating or preparatory base is required!

Because of its workable fibrous texture, ThermoCon can expand and contract with your building without losing its hold. Its built-in flexibility makes it easy to cut, saw, mold, shape or paint.

Economy Explained

Because of its application by pneumatic spray, it is much faster and more economical than conventional insulation, Ulmer emphasizes.

(ThermoCon, incidentally, is a national company with dealers throughout the nation and in Canada.)

Appropriate buildings for this ThermoCon system include farm buildings, airplane hangars, industrial plants, warehouses, auditoriums, gyms, showrooms, supermarkets, mobile homes, apartments, condominiums, office buildings, etc.

"It is twice as effective as wire-backed fiberglass batts; heat intense enough to melt metal will not penetrate ThermoCon's protective barrier!"

pieces from Hong Kong and Mainland China, together with some domestic-made items.

See the gold leaf and hand carved Coromandel screen, for example.

Or the occasional tables, chest of drawers, lamp tables, stack tables, hand painted and lacquered tea charts, rosewood and teakwood stools, and more.

It all is in keeping with the fact that "Wong's is a fantastic shop!"

Hundreds of "different and appreciated" items are stocked. Wong's Imports can be a one-stop solution for gifting situations throughout the year and in choosing for one's own preferences.

Jewelry, decor pieces, souvenirs and unique gift numbers from throughout the world are brought right here to the Lubbock store.

Among the unique items at Wong's are:
Music boxes with unusual tunes;
Georgous Jackets
Handmade quilted and brocade and silk jackets from China;
Cloisonne vases and jewelry;

West Texas metal sculptures by a local artist; and Texas and Lubbock souvenirs with Wong's own unique emblem;

Porcelain vases and statues; alabaster statues and wood ones;

A very large selection of jewelry, jade, ivory, coral, and mother of pearl;

Then there are the hanging and table mobiles;

Roses made of wood shavings (scented);

Genuine butterflies in glass cases; statues made from ancient coins;

A large selection of handpainted silk screens;

Also an assortment of pictures and plaques;

Plus a wide selection in cooking items needed to make one's entertaining complete!

Gourmet and Oriental groceries comprise a big department at Wong's, too.

For all-year selection, the situation of a knowledgeable staff at Wong's can be of special benefit, with each welcoming the opportunity to assist in selection of quality items that are unique yet always in good taste.

"Don't you deserve Wong's quality? We think so!"

HIGH-QUALITY CONSTRUCTION NOT TO BE MINIMIZED

Pharr Keeps '78 Prices On New 1979 Coachmen Mini-Motor Home Selection

"No doubt you envy that friend who owns and enjoys the pleasures of a Coachmen mini-home!"
"That same enjoyment can be yours... thanks to Pharr Trailer Sales & Service, 1702 Clovis Road in Lubbock. Pharr has made ownership of RV units really easy, with a special opportunity presently made available on mini-homes."

A good stock of the sought-after Coachmen Leprechaun mini-motor homes has been received, with eight floor plans on the lot for inspection and comparison.

'78 Price Offer
Furthermore, these new '79 Coachmen mini-home models, are marked at '78 prices. That's right; Pharr has made no increase at this time in these prices as a special inducement for folks to secure one of these units and enjoy respite from the cold weather in a location of their choosing, and in comfort.

Also, Pharr stocks travel vans and van campers, also by Coachmen; with Apollo motor homes and Silver Streak, 5th wheel units and all.

Pharr likes to prove that travel and relaxation can take on a new enjoyment, new convenience and new thrill with the right RV unit, accessories, equipment and service from Pharr, phone 765-6088, at the Amarillo Highway-Clovis Highway "Y" on Avenue Q in Lubbock, and at 1820 E. 8th in Odessa.

All units are available at 10 per cent down with up to seven years to pay, on approved credit. Bank rate financing is provided.

Coachmen's Finest
More about the '79 Coachmen Leprechaun mini-motor homes:
This model is designed around the family's RV needs... a practical traveler with just the right touch of luxury. Featured are beautiful but family-tough interiors with pre-finished wood paneling with an easy care surface, stain-resistant color-coordinated draperies and comfy five-inch foam cushions with stain-resistant covers and no-fall hinges.

Standard is a 24,000 BTU furnace with ducted heat, wall thermostat and electronic ignition. The water system features a 12-V demand pump, water tank with drain, 6-gallon fast recovery hot water heater and freeze-resistant polybutylene plumbing lines.

The '79 Leprechauns are Coachmen's finest, available with Ford 460 or Chevy 400 engines right here in Lubbock at Pharr Trailer Sales & Service.

Depending on the model, one can enjoy three-way dinettes, Flexsteel sofa beds or rear hide-a-beds.

The fully-equipped and efficient kitchens are designed to make food preparation, service and clean-up quick and easy. All-wood cabinets, easy-slide drawers, four-burner range and double stainless steel sink are efficiently arranged.

Coachmen is the world's largest full-line manufacturer of recreational vehicles.

"Consumer designed, Coachmen built" has become a motto well recognized for its truth.

See Pharr now... for a new unit at last year's price, for accessories for trips to come, or for rearing the present RV unit for vacationing ahead.

"Ask the man who owns a Pharr unit."

Beck's Warp 'n Weave Tells New Class Schedule, New Arrivals, Sale Pricing

Three situations might well come in for special note at Beck's Warp 'n Weave, 3021 34th St.:

(1) Adding to the already-large stock of yarns and supplies for fiber arts, new arrivals add even more to the unique shop.
(2) A sale has been arranged throughout January on selected books and yarns.

(3) Classes start this week, with a comprehensive instruction schedule "second to none."
Add to all this the recognition that Warp 'n Weave is said to be the only complete spinning and weaving shop in a vast southwestern section of the nation, and appreciation of this Lubbock facility can take on new dimension.

Owned and operated by Tom and Nancy Beck, the shop has a most inviting selection including great yarns not found elsewhere (most in wools and wool blends).

New Arrivals
Lots of new yarns for knitters and crocheters desiring better yarns have been received.
Natural silk yarns are stocked (with one customer presently crocheting a wedding gown from this yarn).

A new supply of handspun yarns from Uruguay, for any fiber craft, is among recent arrivals, as is a tremendous stock of new textured yarns.
See the camel hair and Linsey-Woolsey yarns that are like those from which the Colonials made homespun clothes (a blend of war flax and virgin wool).

An expanded line of dyed wool fibers for spinning or macrame has been stocked.
And about those classes:
Immediate inquiry and registration is advised, for full details call 799-0151 or come by at 3021 34th Street.

Classes include Harness Loom, Beginning Frame Loom, Natural Basketry, Tatting, Cardweaving, and Workshops in Advanced Basketry, Twill Tricks and others.

From time to time special workshops are available, even including added subjects.
Beginning Frame Loom classes will be under instruction of Nancy Beck, Malinda Anderson and Lynn Haney, with one class by Nancy beginning Jan. 18.

Nancy is most adept in the field, as is Lynn and Malinda.

Then even earlier (Jan. 16), Nancy commences a class in Natural Basketry.
Tatting, under direction of Betty Bradford, begins Jan. 16.

Cardweaving, with Virginia Riggs instructing, will follow at a later date.
Tom Beck will begin Harness Loom classes Jan. 20.
Other class beginning dates and schedules have been arranged, and one is advised to come by Warp 'n Weave to learn of the many opportunities and how they can be fitted into one's schedule.

Rigid Heddle, Coiled Basketry, Spinning and Navajo Weaving are among the often scheduled classes.
New class schedules are available three times annually, beginning in January, May and September.

Minimum/maximum enrollment totals will be adhered to, assuring that each student has adequate personal instruction.
For classes, materials and supplies, all at modest cost, one should without delay learn more of Beck's Warp 'n Weave, 3021 34th St. in Lubbock.

Stork Shop January Clearance Enables Specific Cost Saving

January Clearance is underway at The Stork Shop!

"More than ever, for everything in maternity wear, it makes sense to patronize Lubbock's only exclusive maternity wear shop, The Stork Shop, 3416 34th St., in Indiana Gardens."

For this sale, note the following:
A select group of jeans is marked at half price!
Also there are groups of in-season dresses, blouses, slacks and slacks suits reduced one-half or even more!

While one is availing herself of these fall and winter item sale prices, further inducement is afforded on the spring and summer arrivals now making their appearance at The Stork Shop.

Free Hose Offers
With purchase of any full-price spring dress, The Stork Shop will give, absolutely free, a pair of support hose, while supply lasts.
And with purchase of a regular price blouse or slacks, a pair of regular hose is given.

(Limit, one pair of hose to a customer on these special offers.)

Double Advantage
"So... come and take advantage of the sale, at the same time inspecting and purchasing new arrivals for the season soon to be here. And don't overlook the free hose offers!"

Selection is always enabled from a wide stock at The Stork Shop where a complete line of maternity lingerie is included.

Brand names are important at The Stork Shop where quality is assured without exorbitant price. Lines such as Phil Jacobs, Daran, Marion Sue, Charles Lewis and Maternity Circuit are featured.

Use of Visa and Master Charge is welcomed.
Store hours are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days a week.
Under ownership and active management, since last February, of longtime Lubbock resident Mrs. Doyle (Ida) Langford, The Stork Shop actually dates its record of service back some 30 years.

Since its establishment, it has been in the same Indiana Gardens location, and under the ownership of Ida Langford it has been remodeled, rearranged and stocked most admirably.

Everything at The Stork Shop says "welcome."
It means that Indiana Gardens, Lubbock and the South Plains region all are most fortunate in having the kind of shop as is The Stork Shop where the right merchandise and the attention of service-minded personnel are evident.

Selection, fashion and attractive pricing is the rule, without exception.

"One's budget must and should be respected, and A & J, at 1917 19th St., phone 762-4013, in Lubbock, does all in its power to befriend your budget for home improvement."

Kirby, On Slide, Invites Trade-Ins, Posting Special Deals On New Units

"Very, very liberal trade-ins on your present vacuum cleaner when purchasing any new unit at Kirby Sales and Service, 5410 Slide Road... this should help get the year off right for you!"

Not only does this Kirby firm have a quite good selection of new cleaners (including the sensational new Kirby Classic III) but the firm is in need of trade-ins, so special deals are being made at this time. But don't delay!

(Reconditioned units are sold with a full one-year warranty!)

Maintenance Special

Another good reason for knowing and patronizing Kirby Sales and Service, phone 792-3718, is the Maintenance Special that enables tuneup on any Kirby vacuum cleaner for just $7.95.

There is no labor charge on fixing any Kirby unit... just a charge for parts only.

New Kirby units carry a two-year warranty!

Super Upkeep Line
 So come on out to Kirby Sales and Service, on the way to the Mall, at 5410 Slide Road, and see the many products including the Super Upkeep line now made available there.

Super Upkeep is a carpet cleaner, stain remover and deodorizer, fully guaranteed to spot clean and completely deodorize a long list of stains on carpets, fine furniture and auto upholstery, ceramic tile, shoes and clothing, etc.

There is more to merit one's patronage of the firm:

Reasonable prices always, as example. "The new Kirby Classic III is presently featured, a system that gives more versatility, quality, reliability and performance than in any other appliance!"

"Suppose you had to shampoo a rug, clean, sanitize, buff, wax, polish and paint — all in the same day; how many appliances would you need?"

"Just one... when that one is the Kirby Classic III System with its 80 different uses!"

See this and the entire Kirby line at Kirby Sales & Service, open 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days a week, at 5410 Slide Road, phone 792-3718, in Lubbock.

The firm is essentially a family operation, with Dale Bramlett and his son-in-law, Dan Wilbanks, as owners-operators, and with Sandy Everitt, daughter of Bramlett, also on the job. They assure a personal interest in every transaction.

Repairs and parts are stocked, and the skilled staffmembers work on any kind of vacuum cleaner.

A complete line of rebuilt Kirbys is stocked at "a price you can afford."

Rental is available on vacuum cleaners and shampoo machines.

Visa and Bank Americard are honored, and in-store financing is available.

Take a good product, represent it well, with the customer's welfare considered foremost, and you have a business worth knowing and patronizing. The business concept and everyday practices of Kirby Sales & Service, 5410 Slide Road, place it as just such a business.

Tuftwick Extends End-Of-Year Carpet Sale As Customer Aid

"We've surely had some bad weather... but that has not diminished your need for new carpeting. Right?"

"Likely you didn't venture out on the ice, and we don't blame you, even though we at Tuftwick have been staging a very meaningful End-of-Year Sale."

"So, what does Tuftwick do?"

"We are extending the End-of-Year Sale for a limited time to thwart the weather and still give you as a valued customer the opportunity to buy at reduced prices."

It is Tuftwick's way of saying "the very best to you in 1979; we want to prove our cooperation."

Such clearance sale prices make entry into the new year most interesting, for the pocketbook and for the home's decor. Prices are reported slashed throughout the stock of thousands of yards of first-quality carpet.

"Come early for best selections."

Remember... low prices always are the rule at Tuftwick, with exceptionally attractive bargains awaiting in situations such as the current sale.

Extraordinary savings, even for Tuftwick, are presently enabled. Don't delay, shop now at Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., at Slide Road and Brownfield Highway to your profit, selection and complete satisfaction.

All the carpet is first quality, as traditional at Tuftwick, and expert installation is assured.

Easy terms are available, with no money down, and with up to 36 months to pay!

"If you have not been through the showrooms of the big Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., within the last few weeks, you are in for a real treat at your next visit."

First, there is a thrilling selection of patterns and materials.

Secondly, the prices and values simply cannot be beat.

Third reason for a trip to Tuftwick Carpet at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road could well be the most attractive display yet. Everything in the showroom has been conveniently displayed for easy viewing, comparison and selection. It is an attractive, inviting place in which to shop.

The basic reason for shopping Tuftwick has not changed, however, and that is the integrity and experience of a capable staff devoting all efforts to serve the customers carpet needs as only possible with an experienced staff that "knows carpeting" and knows how to please in every transaction.

MAGNIFIED READING — This cumbersome-looking piece of machinery, called a Visualtek, helps partially sighted persons read written material by means of high-powered magnification. Teacher Jerri Price of the State Commission for the Blind, shows how, by placing a written sheet of paper under the microscope-like light, a person with extremely poor vision can read the paper's words on the screen. after birth — or who are gradually going blind.

Matter Of Relearning
For the latter, it is a matter of relearning daily tasks, such as identifying clothes or cooking.

"I try to teach them to do things as nearly as they did before so that they will be happier and more comfortable," Miss Fulkerson said. "One woman I work with is married with a family. She is in the process of losing her vision, and her greatest need is personal adjustment and making the social adjustment."

Another client is a blind young man learning to cook. "I'm teaching him to prepare vegetables and meat and how to store things in the kitchen in an orderly fashion," Miss Fulkerson said. One trick she teaches is to use braille labels to mark settings on oven and washing machine controls.

Some of the special aids available to the blind include a braille writer, which Miss Fulkerson uses to type notes on, and a dictaphone for listening and transcribing.

Miss Fulkerson also uses a braille watch with a pop-top crystal to help her keep track of the time, and a braille alarm clock, calendar and abacus. She doesn't shy away from recreational activities, either, saying she is an avid poker, solitaire and blackjack player with her braille cards.

These items and others such as domino sets, folding and straight canes and guides for writing straight lines across a page, are available from the commission.

Works With Children, Youths
Jerri Price is a vivacious brunette who works with visually impaired and blind children and young adults.

"I work with three totally blind and four legally blind Brown Elementary School kids," she said. "All the books at Brown are in Braille and paperbacks are available, as are developmental aids (toys)."

Mrs. Price works with each young client individually, making home visits to teach such skills as walking, crawling and

Musician Falls To Death From Hotel Window

NEW YORK (UPI) — Donny Hathaway, a onetime student preacher who became a Grammy award-winning Gospel singer and composer, fell to his death from a 15th-story window of a luxury Manhattan hotel late Saturday night.

HATHAWAY Police said the 33-year-old singer apparently jumped from his room at the Essex House on Central Park South shortly before midnight Saturday. His body was found early Sunday on the roof of a second-floor setback.

"We suspect suicide because the door to the room was locked and there was no evidence of foul play," a police spokesman said. Police said no suicide note was found in the room.

In 1973 Hathaway won a Grammy award for an album he recorded with Roberta Flack entitled, "Roberta Flack and Donny Hathaway." A single from the album, "You've Got a Friend," rose to the top of the charts.

Hathaway, who lived in Chicago, was in the city recording for Atlantic Records.

"It was quite a shock to all of us," an Atlantic spokesman said. "The mere fact that he was in New York recording belies the fact that he had any career problems."

The spokesman said he believed Hathaway was recording another album with Miss Flack at the time of his death.

Miss Flack was in seclusion and could not be reached for comment.

Hathaway, the grandson of Gospel singer Martha Crumwell, was born in Chicago in 1945 and grew up in the black ghetto of St. Louis.

eating. "If the children don't see, they don't learn," she explained. "It's kind of scary, because you don't know what they don't know."

Concepts such as up and down and in and out make no sense to blind children, Mrs. Price said. Some even have to be taught to crawl.

"I have a three-year-old in Plainview who rode a rocking horse and climbed stairs; but didn't know how to walk or eat. She had to be taught to chew and look at you while you talked," Mrs. Price said.

Parents, for the most part, will help with the rehabilitation therapy. "Very few object to our helping their children," she said.

QUICK BRAILLE — Rehabilitation teacher Margaret Fulkerson uses the braille version of a regular typewriter for fast note-writing. The braille writer has six keys for which any combination of the alphabet, including abbreviations and punctuation marks, may be made. (Staff Photo by Milton Adams)

Cambodian Loyalists Fight As Guerrillas

wounded soldiers of the fallen regime from the Cambodian border town of Nimit, despite a Thai policy against accepting refugees. But unspecified problems reportedly arose in these arrangements and the wounded were not brought across the border immediately.

Over the past four years, Cambodian soldiers staged periodic raids into Thai border areas, sometimes killing villagers. Military sources at the frontier crossing town of Aranyaprathet, Thailand, said the wounded would be accepted because of pressure from China, primary backer of the fallen government.

Thai defense officials, meanwhile, reinforced their troops along the border, and fresh bunkers were dug at Aranyaprathet, 125 miles east of Bangkok.

Unlike the influx of refugees after the 1975 Khmer Rouge communist takeover in Cambodia, only a few hundred refugees have entered Thailand. Thai border officers speculated the rapid Vietnamese advance may have cut escape routes for the troops and many of the 20,000 Chinese advisers believed in Cambodia.

The official media of the new Phnom Penh government claimed people throughout Cambodia rejoiced at the downfall of the Pol Pot government — an ouster engineered by the Vietnamese, neighbors for whom Cambodians have a deep-seated historical hatred.

"Two things Cambodians like to do best are eat and make love, and the last regime wouldn't let them do much of either," said one diplomat, referring to strict rationing and restrictive rules about sex under the harsh Khmer Rouge regime. "Maybe there's lot of that going on in Cambodia right now."

In Moscow, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said events in Cambodia marked "a victory over the reactionary dictatorial regime of Peking puppets." The Soviets recently signed a friendship and cooperation treaty with Vietnam.

Despite GOP gains in November, Democrats still firmly control both chambers, with a 59-41 margin in the Senate and a 277-158 edge in the House.

The challenge to Whitten will come later in the week when the Democratic caucus meets to rule on committee chairmanships.

Whitten, for years the head of the Agriculture appropriations subcommittee, is in line to succeed Rep. George Mahon, D-Texas, to head the full committee. Ma-

Iranian Lawmakers Debate Support Of Bakhtiar's Regime

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Thousands of protesters chanting "Death to the shah" marched peacefully through the streets of Tehran Sunday demanding that the monarchy be abolished and an Islamic republic be set up to replace Iran's new civilian government.

As they marched, the Iranian Parliament opened debate on whether to endorse the government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, a step that would pave the way for Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to leave his strife-torn nation.

Twenty-two of the 268 legislators of the Majlis, the lower house of Parliament, spoke Sunday, half in favor of Bakhtiar's government and half against. The Majlis, which traditionally does not meet on Mondays, scheduled a vote of confidence for Tuesday. The Senate will debate the issue today.

Majlis delegate Hassan Harzandi, who spoke against the government, said Iran's "pains are not political" but economic and asked whether the new regime would "stop pouring Iranian money into the pockets of the Americans under the pretext of buying arms."

Constitution Seen As Key
Sheikh ul-Islami, who favored Bakhtiar, said the government's "best bet for victory will be precise and forceful implementation of the constitution, a constitution in which no one can find one word against Islam." He said opposition still will come from traitors and Iranians "who have suffered and who have grievances because they have been cheated and ... lied to and ... given false promises."

Political observers said the new government would not receive rubber-stamp approval but that both houses probably will give Bakhtiar the vote of confidence that would allow him to begin carrying out a program aimed at pulling Iran from the brink of economic and political collapse.

The newspaper Ayandegan reported Sunday that it had received a "communique" from a leftist group called "Sazman Mowhadeen," meaning "Organization of Unity," claiming responsibility for the machine-gun murder of American oil executive Paul Grimm last Dec. 23.

Grimm, an official of the Western-run Oil Service Co., was ambushed in the southwest Iranian city of Ahwaz. The newspaper said the group claimed it killed Grimm to show it sympathized with Iran's striking oil workers.

Soft Approach Taken
The army generally refrained from trying to break up the Tehran demonstrations, which were led by protesters loyal to the Ayatullah Khomeini, the exiled religious leader of Iran's dominant Shiite Moslem sect. Reporters said tear gas was used to disperse one crowd of several thousand who occupied the Justice Ministry for three hours.

In an interview with CBS News Friday in France, Khomeini said he expected to head an Islamic state in Iran that he predicted would be set up "within a few days." He said he would appoint and direct the Islamic government, that the men he would appoint were in Iran and had agreed to serve, and that they included Karim Sanjaby, leader of the National Front, the main political opposition group.

Khomeini predicted masses of Iranians would join what he said were anti-shah factions in Iran's 430,000-man army if civil war breaks out. The interview was broadcast Sunday.

Festive Mood Displayed
The Tehran demonstrators seemed in a festive mood in anticipation of the shah's expected departure from the country this week. Protest leaders urged marchers not to provoke the army or police.

On one broad avenue near Ferdowsi Square, six soldiers tried to break up a march by about 1,000 people. An Iranian army captain fired his pistol in the air to scatter the crowd, but the protesters held their ground and showered his jeep with red carnations. Then the soldiers began laughing and shaking hands with the protesters, who began chanting "The soldiers are our brothers!"

One demonstrator thrust a portrait of Khomeini into the hands of a soldier,

HOSPITAL TRIAL SET
DIMMITT (UPI) — A tentative Jan. 24 trial date has been set for Plains Memorial Hospital administrator Jack Newsom, charged with a misdemeanor for allegedly denying emergency treatment to an infant last Dec. 8. But District Attorney Jimmy Davis says defense attorneys have indicated they need additional time to interview witnesses and may file a motion for continuance.

Mahon Successor Fight Looms

Whitten did not seek re-election. Liberal critics claim Whitten is too conservative for the important spending job and seldom sides with party leaders on major issues.

Whitten foes are quietly urging colleagues to vote no when his chairmanship is considered by the caucus. If they prevail, the more liberal Boland, who is next in seniority on the panel after Whitten, would automatically get the job.

Boland has not actively sought the post although he would likely accept it if offered.

who laughed and stuck a flower in the muzzle of his rifle. The captain joined with march leaders in trying to keep one lane open to traffic.

Tehran's newspapers reported Sunday that some residents of the capital and other cities had gone to their rooftops to look "out in the heavens" because of a rumor that Khomeini's image would appear on the moon.

Sidewalk vendors, who used to sell portraits of the shah, were hawking pictures of Khomeini, Tehran's Ayatullah Taleghani and Ayatullah Shariatmadari of the city of Qom. Small groups of Iranians, out for a stroll under Tehran's blue skies, stopped to read handbills plastered on telephone booths, walls and lampposts in recent days. One handbill denounced the United States for its support of the shah, the Bakhtiar government and other "colonial schemes."

More than 1,500 persons have been killed in Iran's year-long political crisis. The shah's political foes oppose his authoritarian rule and the religious leaders claim his westernization programs have undermined traditional Islamic values.

Dr. Hull Honored Here For Med School Role

Lubbock cardiologist Brandon Hull was honored Sunday for initiating the drive establishing the Health Sciences Center Hospital-Texas Tech School of Medicine complex, during ceremonies in the hospital's main lobby.

Hull, who long has been active in civic affairs including the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club, was honored with a bronze bust sculpted by internationally-known artist Glenna Maxey Goodacre. Mrs. Goodacre, who was present at the ceremonies, was chosen because of her artistic reputation and because she is a Lubbock native.

A fund-raising drive for the bust was conducted by an eight-member team of

Wayne Showing Good Progress

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Wayne's rugged constitution was helping him recover from the nine-hour operation Friday in which surgeons removed his cancerous stomach. UCLA Medical Center said Sunday.

A hospital spokesman said the Academy Award-winning actor had another very good night. "His condition remains good and his vital signs are normal," a spokesman said.

The two most important factors contributing to his excellent early post-operative recovery are his general strong physical condition and his positive attitude," the spokesman said.

Surgeons doing a gall-bladder operation found a low-grade cancer tumor in Wayne's stomach. The scheduled two-hour operation stretched into nine hours while the surgical team removed the stomach and fashioned a substitute from intestine tissue and fastened it to the esophagus.

The danger in such operations, doctors said, is not the removal of the stomach but in getting all the malignant tissue and the possibility the cancer had spread to other organs or to the abundance of lymph nodes in the abdominal region.

His surgeons, however, were confident the cancer had been removed from Wayne's body.

Chas. A. Guy, Robert P. Fuller, J.T. Talkington, Dr. Barbara Way, Bill Parsley, Marion Sanford, John Logan and George Wilson.

During ceremonies Sunday, Hull was honored in speeches by Dr. Cecil Mackey, president of Texas Tech, Bill J. Parsley, Tech's director of public affairs and J.T. Talkington, Lubbock businessman.

The bust was unveiled in a presentation by Jack Strong, chairman of the county hospital board.

A medical school scholarship also was established in Hull's name.

Flood Faces Opening Of Trial Today to Flood actually remained in Elko's pockets.

The perjury charges stem from Flood testimony before a grand jury investigating Elko and as a witness at Elko's California trial, where he denied receiving bribes.

Flood, known as "Dapper Dan" to both friends and political enemies, still is a hero in his home turf, Pennsylvania's 11th District, which embraces five counties with nearly 500,000 residents. He won re-election in November with a 10,000-vote margin.

"He's the best man to come our way in many, many years," said Wilkes-Barre jeweler Bernard Bartikowsky who led a drive to raise money to defray Flood's legal expenses.

CHILDREN SCALDED

NEW YORK (AP) — Three young children were found scalded to death early Sunday, apparently by steam escaping from a radiator in their apartment, police said. Officers said the children had been left alone by their parents, Raymundo and Luz Cruz, who found them dead when they returned to the apartment about 2 a.m.

three veteran committee chairmen — seems to have run its course.

A move also may be made to ban Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., from retaining his chairmanship of a labor-health appropriations subcommittee while under indictment for bribery and other charges.

And House Republicans are expected to try to expel Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., from the House entirely. Diggs is appealing a three-year sentence on a federal payroll fraud conviction.

Expulsion would require a two-thirds vote of the House.

Outhouse In Front Lawn

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — At the new $120,000 Stamper residence, the outhouse is out front.
The family, without a sewage connection six months after a permit was issued, put a portable outhouse on the front lawn last week.
"They've been giving us the run-around," Cathy Stamper said Friday.
Officials of Ypsilanti Township said the soil made the connection difficult, but promised a hook-up "soon."
Although acknowledging she faced a possible fine and the wrath of neighbors, Mrs. Stamper said the portable potty was "better than nothing. I'll put a heater in there and I may even get to like it."
Meanwhile, the Stamper family — Cathy, a Ford Motor Co. assembly line worker, her husband Lloyd, a Washtenaw County deputy sheriff and their five children — spent nights at a summer cottage 30 miles away.
They can't officially move in without an occupancy permit, which they can't get without a sewer connection.

Presidency Quest Begins

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) Former CIA Director George Bush began his quest for the presidency in New Hampshire Friday, talking about China with members of the public. It was a humble beginning, but one that every successful president has pursued with fervor since New Hampshire has had the nation's earliest presidential primary.
The Bush for President Committee filed candidacy papers with the Federal Election Commission in Washington last Friday, although Bush has stopped short of making a formal announcement for the Republican nomination in 1980.
Bush, a frequent visitor to New Hampshire, talked foreign policy with club members from Bow, a town so small its Rotarians must meet in neighboring Concord.
Bush, former Republican National Chairman, headed the U.S. Mission in China that former President Richard Nixon negotiated as the first step in establishing diplomatic relations.

Possible Replacement Upset

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Former New York Lt. Gov. Mary Anne Krupsak, unemployed after an unsuccessful run for the governorship, may be looking to Washington for a job now that some Carter administration women advisers have resigned in a protest.
The former state executive said Saturday she was upset that former New York congresswoman Bella Abzug was fired by President Carter on Friday from the National Advisory Commission for Women.
Miss Krupsak, a Democrat, told an Albany radio station Saturday that she thinks Carter is "still committed" to women's rights and said she'll check with administration officials to offer her services.
Miss Abzug was co-chairwoman of the advisory committee. Co-chairwoman Carmen Delgado Votaw resigned, and other committee members said their resignations were forthcoming to show solidarity with the former New York City representative.

Submarine, Fiat Collide

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — Harold Jacobson didn't report the accident when he hit the little Fiat. He was 20 feet under water at the time and didn't know what to say.
Jacobson, 45, of Warwick, was cruising along Warwick Cove in his 12-foot minisubmarine last weekend when he bumped into a car resting at the bottom of the cove.
Police pulled the car, a 1975 Fiat, out of the water Thursday and determined that the vehicle had been stolen from a shopping center last November.
Detective William Aucoin said police learned about Jacobson's accident after he mentioned it to some friends. The submariner didn't tell police about his fender-bender because he wasn't too sure about how to report a car-sub collision, Aucoin said.

Cancer Clinic Needs Funds

HOUSTON (AP) — Two-time Nobel laureate Linus Pauling says he has "indisputable evidence" that large doses of vitamin C can help treat and perhaps prevent cancer, but he can get no backing for his research.
"I can't get a dime from the National Cancer Institute," the 77-year-old doctor said Thursday during a trip to the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.
"I've applied five times to NCI for funds to set up clinical trials of vitamin C with cancer patients and I've been turned down five times," he said. "I'm an optimist, though...and have another application at NCI now."
Pauling said most American doctors are "blindly biased" against the values of the vitamin, which he said may also prolong life and stave off common colds.

Sitter Caught In Chimney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Locked out of a house he was supposed to house-sit for the weekend, 16-year-old Scott Fletcher took off his clothes and tried a Santa Claus-style entry through the chimney.
Firemen hoisted the soot-stained youth to safety Friday after he became stuck at the flue.
Police said Fletcher's father dropped the youth off at the friend's house in suburban Woodland Hills, and after his father pulled away, Fletcher couldn't find the key.
Stripping to shorts and socks, Fletcher slid down the chimney for about nine feet before the flue blocked his descent, police said.
A neighbor called authorities after hearing the boy's cries for help. The teen-ager was treated at a local hospital and released.

Police Chief Handcuffed

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — James A. Powell may be police chief, but he's temporarily handcuffed when it comes to making arrests.
The state's Police Standards and Training Commission on Friday refused to renew Powell's authority to make arrests in this city of 33,000. He'll have to take some law enforcement courses first, according to Bill Westfall of the commission staff.
"There's nothing to preclude (him) from assuming the chief's position," Westfall said. "But his duties will have to be administrative at the present time. Under our laws... he has no more enforcement status than the average citizen."
Powell's arrest powers ran out in 1974, when he was working as an investigator with the Florida secretary of state's office, Westfall said.

Sen. Bellmon To Retire

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Henry Bellmon, the Republican who broke the Democratic Party's grip on Oklahoma politics 16 years ago, announced Friday he will not seek re-election next year.
Bellmon made his retirement announcement in a letter to state GOP Chairman Rick Shelby.
"After many months of careful consideration," Bellmon said in the letter, "I have decided I will not be a candidate for a third term."
"This decision is being made public at this time to allow interested persons the opportunity to make plans and to permit me to devote full attention to Senate duties during the remaining two years of my current term."

Gerald Ford Plans Tour

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford leaves today on a two-week, seven-nation tour of the Midwest, the Grand Rapids Press reports.
In a story from Palm Springs, Calif., on Friday, the newspaper said Ford will visit the heads of state in Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia, Israel, Oman, the United Arab Emirates and Jordan before returning to his California home Jan. 29.
Ford stressed that the trip is not an official visit for himself and his wife, Betty.
"We had numerous invitations to visit these countries and we never had a chance to do it," he said. "So, we finally decided that we should go... It's an informal visit by myself and Betty just because people invited us to come."
The Fords will be accompanied by Leonard Firestone, a former ambassador to Belgium; Robert Barrett, Ford's chief of staff, and Darins Keaton, described only as a personal friend of the former chief executive.
Barrett also said the Fords will visit Japan in March, with stops in Osaka and Tokyo.

Quality Of Scenes Varies In 'California Suite'

"California Suite," Stars Maggie Smith, Michael Caine, Jane Fonda, Alan Alda, Walter Matthau, Elaine May, Bill Cosby and Richard Pryor. Screenplay by Neil Simon; based on his play. Photographed by David M. Walsh. Music by Claude Bolling. Directed by Herbert Ross. Rated PG. At the Cinema West.

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

There is little doubt the contemporary masses, those forced by mere geography to rely on community and dinner theater for stage reflections, regard Neil Simon as one of the patron saints among American playwrights. After all, people rarely swarm to see his specific creations, but instead paraded to witness "the new Simon play."

And the playwright's popularity has never waned, despite such established critics as John Simon insisting that most Neil Simon characters and plays are interchangeable. Neil Simon means instant success; his name insures big box office. Yet it is undeniable that Simon's screenplays, both original and adapted, are usually overrated.

Just look at his offerings of the past 10 years. "The Out-Of-Towners" had its moments. "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" was a big disappointment. George Burns was the only saving grace in "The Sunshine Boys." "Plaza Suite" was a dreadful bore, and both "Murder By Death" and "The Cheap Detective" were little more than exercises in tedium. Not until the recent smash "The Goodbye Girl" did Simon, perhaps inspired through writing a starring role for his wife, finally make excellent use of the film medium and create a consistently charming movie. Indeed, "The Goodbye Girl" was Simon's best work since "The Odd Couple."

And now we're faced with a new Neil Simon film called "California Suite," an interesting effort which wins a mixed blessing. Parts are wonderfully poignant, graced with the witty lines only a master of dialogue can offer. Yet others are little more than lukewarm slapstick. And because Simon's screenplay switches back and forth from one set of characters to the next, one can't help but feel both hot and cold about the picture.

Those expecting another ribald comedy should take note right away that the best segments in this film are of a more serious nature. In one, Alan Alda and Jane Fonda meet nine years after their divorce to discuss custody of their 17-year-old daughter. In another, Maggie Smith is a Shakespearean actress nominated for an Academy Award for her performance in a throw-away, fluffy comedy, while her husband Michael Caine is revealed to be a homosexual. Both of these segments are heady material for Simon, no matter how much humor is tossed in, and it's nice to see the man take chances with his work.

The best writing comes with the Fonda and Alda segment, with the sophisticated lines oftentimes overshadowing the thespians. The two work well together but Fonda, as a Newsweek editor, has the spiciest cuts. Quips like, "With Nixon in the White House, good health seemed to be in bad taste," keep us chuckling throughout. There is superficial material, to be sure. A beach conversation seems to be thrown in just to show Jane Fonda in a bikini. But it remains a satisfying and very human segment — and we are sad when it's over.

The best acting, however, comes from Maggie Smith and Michael Caine. Here, there is genuine feeling and a poignant message of togetherness, love and loyalty. Miss Smith is caught in the quandary of despising what the Oscar stands for and desperately wanting to win it all the same. But she is also more concerned with the love of her husband. She knows his sexual preferences. She even accepts them. But she needs to feel wanted herself. And Caine does a magnificent job of showing he is capable of handling both sides of his relationship.

This segment is by far the film's finest, so much so that Miss Smith may be a dark-horse candidate for an Oscar bid. And the fact Simon succeeds at instilling humor throughout — you'll scream with laughter when viewing Maggie Smith raiding the hotel hallways for cast-off bagels and doughnuts — makes it all that much more delicious.

Not working so well, however, are the scenes with Walter Matthau and Elaine May, and especially Bill Cosby and Richard Pryor. Matthau, as a husband who finds a hooker passed out in his bed moments before his wife (Elaine May) is due to arrive, is playing the same old overbearing comedy he always offers in films like this. The same groans, the same rolling eyes. His delivery is grand, but there's nothing new or really original in his situation. And yet even he fares better than Cosby and Pryor.

The latter two play a pair of Chicago doctors who, with their wives, decide to go on vacation to Los Angeles together. Though I'm sure it was not intentional, it nevertheless becomes very obvious that the blacks cast in this film are offered almost Step-N-Fetchit material. Cosby and Pryor are there to look dumb: tripping over tennis nets, slamming tennis racquets into TV screens, locking themselves outside cars, piling up in car wrecks and yelling "whiplash," stepping on glass and mugging a lot more than acting. Their comedy loses its flavor quite quickly, which is a shame since both actors deserve better.

But it is precisely because of this mammoth difference in scenario quality that the movie leaves us confused. Simon wanted to show four separate episodes taking place over the course of a couple of days at the Beverly Hills Hotel in L.A. Thankfully, he did not give us the segments one after the other and with the same actors in each, a la "Plaza Suite." Still, by intermingling his sequences and his moods, and yet never having the different characters meet, the result is a disappointing lack of cohesion.

Director Herbert Ross, a Simon favorite, did his best with what the screenplay offers. But the fact remains Neil Simon has again forgotten to recognize that the stage and the screen are two separate mediums and should be treated as such. Because of this, his film is but half successful.

Mind you, when he's good, he's extremely good. "California Suite" is very much worth seeing if only for the sarcastic wit of Alda and Miss Fonda and the sterling performances of Caine and Miss Smith. But on the other hand, when Simon is bad, he's very bad. And be warned there are plenty of both elements in this film.

Car Shows Disdain About Tow

DENVER (UPI) — The first week in office ended badly for Lt. Gov. Nancy Dick.
She dropped her family off at Stapleton International Airport Friday and left her car in a no-parking zone on the upper ramp. Despite her license plates that read No. 2, police gave her a ticket and towed the vehicle.
Rather than relying on the privileges of her new office, Mrs. Dick paid the $10 towing fee. As she attempted to drive away, she found the towing procedure had locked her vehicle in first gear.
Emergency repairs at the airport were in vain, so she drove to the Capitol, slowly. Although airport official recalled the ticket, mechanics working on the vehicle for several hours failed to remedy the problem.

"It's been one of those weeks," she said. Mrs. Dick, inaugurated to the office on Tuesday.

Letter Arrives 17 Years Late

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A letter that took 17½ years to reach its destination apparently spent most of that time in a mail chute at Western State Hospital near Hopkinsville.

The letter arrived Friday at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here, addressed to a dean who retired 10 years ago.

Postal officials think a worker probably found the letter in the hospital mail chute during recent construction and then dropped it back in the mail without noticing how old it was, said Wesley M. Pattillo, a seminary vice president.

The letter and accompanying $15 check, both dated June 16, 1961, were mailed by Hermann Weirick, a summer student in a seminary program at the hospital. The check was written on an account at Weirick's hometown bank in Bethlehem, Pa., Pattillo said.

The letter bore a 4-cent stamp, said the check was for payment of course fees and asked that Weirick's credit be transferred to the Princeton Theological Seminary at the end of the summer.

"I just got out my checkbook — I happen to have my 1961 checkbook here — and noticed that the check was never canceled," Weirick said in a telephone interview from his home in Minneapolis. "I don't know why I didn't pick that up then."

"What's curious to me is that the seminary never came and asked me for the $15, and I'm used to paying my debts."

Weirick, a production coordinator for a Christian materials publishing firm, said his course credit was transferred to Princeton despite the lack of payment, and added: "It occurs to me now that the First National Bank of Bethlehem owes me $15."

'Church-Going' Woman Kills Husband, Kids, Self

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A 25-year-old woman shot and killed her husband and their two young children early Sunday, then turned the gun on herself, authorities said.

"They were a real good farm family," said Capt. Jim Johnson of the Davidson County Sheriff's Department. "We don't know what triggered it."

Authorities were alerted to the shootings by the family's minister. Johnson said the minister, whose identity was not released, was called about 5 a.m. by Barbara Yokeley, who said she had shot her husband and young son and was going to kill her daughter and herself. She hung up before the minister could respond. "There was nothing he could do," Johnson said.

The bodies were taken from the Yokeley's dairy farm to Raleigh for autopsies, but Johnson said there was little else to do in the investigation. "There's no one to be charged," he said.

The dead were identified as Gerald Vance Yokeley, 27; Mrs. Yokeley; their daughter, Michael, 6; and son, Will, 3.

"Anytime you find children like that it's a terrible sight. It's one of the worst things I've seen," said Johnson, an eight-year veteran of law enforcement. "They were a good church-going family."

HEARTLINE: I have just sold my home and I am planning to move into an apartment. I have a lease from one complex but I do not understand very much of it. Can you give me the meanings to phrases in some leases? — T.I.L.

To help you find out what is in many leases we have pulled out some of the terms and simplified them.

LESSEE — That's you.

LESSOR — That's the owner or one of his employees, such as a manager or rental agent.

DEMISED PREMISES — It sounds forbidding, but it's the legal jargon for the property you're renting.

TERM OF THE LEASE — Just the length of time the lease is in effect.

EJECTMENT — The nice word for eviction.

NOTICE TO QUIT — This is a written order for you to get off the landlord's property.

NOTICE TO VACATE — That's your written statement that you're getting off the landlord's property.

ASSIGN OR SUBLET — Subletting is when you lease out your place for only part of the time you've signed for (for instance just for the summer). Assigning is when you lease out your apartment for the remainder of the time your lease runs.

INDEMNIFY AND RENDER THE LESSOR HARMLESS — This means to make the landlord free of any responsibility even to the point of your not suing him.

ARREARS — Money not paid when it's due, such as overdue rent.

DISTRAINT PROCEEDING (or PROCEED BY DISTRESS) — If you owe the landlord money and don't pay up, he can proceed by distress against you — i.e., take your personal property to force you to pay or sell it to get his money.

GOODS AND CHATTELS — That's your personal property. It's usually what the landlord will threaten to take if you don't pay.

REPLEVIN — That's the legal action you can take to get property back that was unlawfully seized. Watch out though — many leases say you agree not to take this action.

INURE (or ENURE) — It simply means to take effect. Most leases inure when you sign them.

HEARTLINE: I will be 65 years old in December of this year. At that time, I am going to start drawing my Social Security benefits. My next door neighbor retired in 1976 and he received a large check when he started to draw. I was wondering how I can receive this also. Can you help me? — T.R.

When your neighbor retired, he must have taken retroactive Social Security benefits for the 12 months prior to his retirement. Since the passage of the new Social Security amendments in December 1977, this is no longer possible. Under the old law, a person was permitted to elect to receive benefits for up to 12 months prior to the month in which he/she filed an application. If such months were prior to age 65, then the benefits were actually reduced. The new bill will eliminate retroactive benefits where permanently reduced benefits would occur. It does not apply to cases where benefits are disability related or where unreduced dependents benefits are involved. This became effective Jan. 1, 1978.

For people who are on Social Security or will be going on it shortly, Heartline has written a book to give an easier explanation of this program. You may order this book by sending $2.00 to Heartline's Guide to Social Security, P.O. Box 11934, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

Carolina Delay Drops Porkers

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Phil Ford is gone and North Carolina's touted four-corners offense has suffered accordingly, but Arkansas found the stall tactic up 10 par after the third-ranked Tar Heels posted a 63-57 win Sunday afternoon over the No. 10 Razorbacks in a nationally televised game.

Coach Dean Smith unveiled his four corners invention late in the game and the Tar Heels combined it with some deadly foul shots down the stretch to beat their second nationally ranked team in as many days. Seventh-ranked and state rival Duke was North Carolina's victim Saturday.

"Beating two top 20 teams in two days is certainly a great accomplishment," Smith said. "I thought Arkansas did a good job of controlling the tempo in the second half. Our pressure didn't bother them as much, and we didn't run the four corners as well as usual, but we were using a lot of new people."

After a shocking loss to upstart Wake Forest earlier in the week, the Tar Heels regained their poise just in time for the bright lights of television.

Arkansas, meanwhile, was nursing its wounds suffered at the hands of unranked Texas on Friday night.

"(Mike) O'Koren played very well, I thought," Smith said. "He wasn't looking to shoot as much, but was content with making the good pass to set somebody else up."

O'Koren, who scored 18 points and collected 20 rebounds against Duke, finished with six points.

Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton said the Tar Heels "did an excellent job of running its four-corner offense down the stretch. We didn't play as well as we have at times in the past."

"The Texas game and the long trip took something out of us, but I'm sure the

Mahaffey Trips Trevino

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — John Mahaffey, who had seen so many titles elude him in earlier, unhappier days, had little doubt about the uphill 15-foot putt he needed for a tournament-winning birdie.

He had to make that putt to beat Lee Trevino by a stroke Sunday in the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

"It's experience," said the young man who made a dramatic comeback last season in the PGA national championship, confirmed it with a triumph in the World Cup and kicked off the 1979 PGA Tour season with still another triumph.

"I'm just grateful I was able to play all of last season. This is just a carry-over from last year."

"When I was standing over the putt, I said to myself, 'You've been here before. Just make up your mind, get the line and hit a good, solid putt.'"

"I wasn't playing for a playoff. I was playing to win."

"And it was as good a putt as I've ever made. I knew it was in."

It was, and he was a winner again for the fourth time his last 10 American starts.

Trevino, who had been chasing Mahaffey all over this desert resort, finally caught him with an 8-foot birdie putt on the same hole, the 18th at Indian Wells.

Mahaffey, the leader from the second round on in this unique, five-day, 90-hole tournament, was standing in the fairway surveying a difficult situation while Trevino putted out.

He had to stand in a bunker to hit his second shot and chose to lay up short of the pond on the relatively short 18th. Mahaffey, who had blown so many titles before breaking through in the PGA and World Cup last year, had a tough little chip over the water to a steeply sloping green.

The baby-faced battler, rapidly gaining stature as one of the tour's premier performers, got it well below the hole and shook his head in disgust. He had to wait for several minutes while his partners, Grier Jones and Alan Tapie, putted out.

He stepped to the ball quickly and stroked it firmly into the back of the hole for the winning birdie. It finished off a round of 3-under-par 69. That gave him a 343 total, 17 under, and the $50,000 first prize.

Trevino munched an apple, chatted with television announcer Bob Goalby and managed to trade quips with Arnold Palmer while waiting for Mahaffey to putt. He finished with a 69-344 and kept alive his California jinx — he has never won in this state.

It also marked the sixth time in less than 12 months that he's been a runner-up.

Quiet, steady Mark Hayes fired a solid, no-bogey, 6-under-par 66 that lifted him into third place at 345, only 2 shots back.

Grier Jones, with a 68 in the cool, overcast weather, was next at 346. He was followed by Lanny Wadkins and Keith Ferguson at 348. Wadkins had a closing 68 and Ferguson a 69.

pearances in this marathon event that has the field spread over four courses for the first four days. He scored a hole-in-one on the sixth hole but never really got in the title chase, finishing with a 69 and a tie for 11th at 350.

Nicklaus' ace, his third in competition, came on an 8-iron shot from 146 yards.

Mahaffey, who now has won four times in his last 10 American starts, started the final round with a one-shot lead over Trevino.

He stretched it to two with a little chip to 2 feet for a birdie on the eighth hole, while Trevino could do no better than match par 36 with his new putting style.

He said he copied the style from Nicklaus.

"Ask him what happened to his Lee Trevino stroke that won him so many tournaments," suggested Palmer from a television tower.

When the question was relayed to Trevino, he replied: "The same thing that happened to Arnold's stroke."

On the back nine, however, Trevino kept the pressure on and, playing in the group immediately in front of Mahaffey, finally caught him with the birdie on the 18th.

"I really get a kick out of this pressure," Mahaffey said. "I love it."

Benitez Wins Welter Crown

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Wilfredo Benitez of Puerto Rico used lightning-quick combinations and effective counter-punching to hammer out a 15-round split decision over Carlos Palomino Sunday, and win the World Boxing Council welterweight title.

The 29-year-old Palomino, making his eighth title defense, found his own punching power neutralized by Benitez's quickness, and the champion was unable to land any really damaging punches.

In the later part of the fight, when Palomino usually is most effective, Benitez fought frequently off the ropes, scoring

McEnroe Clips Ashe For First Major Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Nineteen-year-old John McEnroe overcame an unsympathetic crowd and an experienced hero to win his first major title Sunday, beating Arthur Ashe 6-7, 6-3, 7-5 in the finals of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters tennis tournament.

His nationally televised duel against the 35-year-old Ashe, the clear favorite of the vocal, near-capacity crowd of 17,000 at Madison Square Garden, was much longer — 2 hours, 45 minutes — and tougher than expected.

"I knew Arthur was a great player. I was just hoping he wouldn't prove it today," said McEnroe, who saved two match points in the third set and won six of the last seven games to take the first prize of $100,000. "I can't believe I won that match."

The youngster, coming off a long string of tournaments including his star role in the U.S. Davis Cup triumph over Great Britain, now is ranked fourth in the world after just seven months as a pro.

"It would have been nicer to beat Connors or one of the really top players," said McEnroe. Connors, the tournament's top seed, was forced to default in his round-robin match against McEnroe last week because of a foot injury.

But Ashe, who climbed from No. 257 to No. 13 in the world rankings last year after being sidelined nearly all of 1977 because of heel injuries and an eye disease, showed he is still a top competitor.

"I was thinking of my runner-up speech (when Ashe had double match point in the 10th game of the third set)," said McEnroe. "I didn't know what I was going to say, but I was sure thinking about it."

Ashe hit a backhand into the net on the first match point. On the second he hit a service return for an apparent winner — but McEnroe's serve was declared a fault on a late call.

"I will bet all the money I have got it was a good serve," said Ashe. "Having looked at the tape, I am still convinced it was a good serve. But the guy called a fault and it's all history now."

Ashe hit the next service return long and McEnroe was off the hook.

Many thought Ashe would retire after his troubles in 1977, but he has no such intentions now.

"I may be 35, but I feel 28," he said. "I'm in good shape. I take care of myself. I intend to be around until it's no longer fun to play and I can't reach the heights like I have this year."

McEnroe had said the match probably would be decided on who served better, but that wasn't the way it turned out. In the opening set, as Ashe hammered his serves deep and hard, McEnroe's service seemed to go to pieces.

Ashe began the match in style, winning the first game at love as McEnroe failed to return a single serve.

Ashe held at love in the next game and reached match point twice on McEnroe's serve. But Ashe hit a backhand into the net on the first opportunity, then blew the second by hitting a service return long.

McEnroe claimed advantage on an overhead hit crosscourt and won the game to even at 5-5 when Ashe again hit a service return far too hard.

McEnroe reached break point in the 11th game on another unforced error by the 35-year-old Ashe, then whipped a backhand that just touched the baseline for a 6-5 lead.

The teenager opened the final game with his sixth ace of the match and reached triple-match point at 40-0. Ashe saved the first with a net-cord shot that just dropped into McEnroe's court and saved the second with a winning service return that passed McEnroe, who had charged to the net.

With one more chance to avoid another tie, McEnroe served well and Ashe's crosscourt shot sailed wide.

When the long, frustrating affair was finally over, McEnroe raced to the net, took an extra ball out of his pocket and slammed it toward the ceiling of the big arena.

The nationally televised final took 2 hours, 45 minutes.

Schoolgirls Face Final Warmup Tilts

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

With 20 or more games behind them it seems difficult to believe that the high school girls teams have been doing little more than practicing for the real season.

But that's the case, and tonight Lubbock schoolgirls will once again play just for fun. But after tonight's nondistrict affairs, the girls can prepare for the real thing.

District play for 4-AAAA and 1-AAA teams begins on Friday. Tonight's schedule has Monterey traveling across town to Estacado, Coronado goes to Leveland and Lubbock High visits Dunbar.

The Plainswomen currently boast the city's best slate, 18-5, and their game against Estacado would seem like a mismatch. The Matadors are 7-11. But Estacado coach Nan Barber doesn't see it that way.

"Actually I think it (the Monterey game) is one of the best things that we could have happen to us prior to our district opener," said Miss Barber. "We'll get a chance to see what we are able to do against a good team."

Barber's concern about "good teams" is understandable. Her Matadoras open 1-AAA play against Dumas — in Dumas. The Demon girls are currently ranked as the No. 1 Class AAA team in the state.

"I'd say that Dumas just might be considered the district favorite," said Miss Barber with a laugh.

Meanwhile, Monterey coach Phil Hood knows all about being considered as the district favorite.

"I guess we were the preseason pick," said Hood of his 4-AAAA Plainswomen. "Everyone was pointing the accusing finger at us since we did have six returning lettermen."

And one of those lettermen happens to be Margaret Grennell who not only started last year, but made the all-district team.

"But, now I don't know," said Hood. "I think Plainview will be the team to beat. They (Plainview) have just an awesome amount of talent."

Hood knows all about the Plainview talent. His Plainswomen dropped a 63-41 decision to the Bulldogs in the finals of the San Angelo Tourney back in December.

Plainview is currently ranked No. 3 in the state AAAA polls, but Monterey isn't far behind at No. 9.

"All I know about Estacado is what I've read in the paper," said Hood. "I haven't got a chance to see them play yet."

"I watched Monterey play Caprock Friday night," says Miss Barber. "and they sure didn't have any trouble. Maybe we can find some answers tonight."

Everyone may be experimenting a little tonight. Because the fun-and-games portion of the season is about to end.

Short Mustangs Compile Top Record In AAA

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

If the farmers received parity from the federal government the way height is distributed on the Andrews basketball team, then there would be no need for a tractorcade to Washington.

"Yes, our team is equally small," laughed Mustang coach Frank Bice. "In fact, the tallest player on our team is only 6-3. And we only have one of them."

That one player is postman Lance McCain. McCain, a senior, is a two-year starter.

"He's an exceptional athlete," said Bice. "Lance has been averaging 25 points a game. But we don't have a one-man club. Our strength is experience and depth."

Experience and depth have led the Mustangs to a 21-2 overall record and a 1-0 mark in Dist. 2-AAA.

Andrews starts four seniors and a junior. Besides McCain, 6-0 seniors Tim Trower and Steve Bailey also play post positions. The guards are 5-11 senior David Hill and 5-9 junior Robbie Jones.

"It's such a great feeling to have a strong bench like we do," said Bice. "For instance, in one of the tournaments we played, we had one kid come off the bench and he hit 15 of 18 shots from the field. Also, playing our whole bench allows them to acquire game experience which will help later on."

The Mustangs like to run a fast break on offense and full-court press on defense.

"Because we're so short, the fast break is really the only way we can get the ball inside," said the Andrews coach.

Does the full court press bother the Mustangs?

"Because we work with it and against the full-court press everyday in practice, I'm not sure it's that much of a disadvantage to our team," said Bice.

However, Friday night in Fort Stockton against the Panthers in the district opener for both teams, the Mustangs faced a press of a different kind.

"They (Fort Stockton) like to halfcourt trap," said Bice. "Fort Stockton also has the size to make the halfcourt trap effective."

Andrews was able to break the press and went on to defeat Fort Stockton 83-66.

"The key is constant movement," said Bice. "That's the way to break the press."

Bice admits that this year's team has been the easiest to coach in his four years at Andrews.

"We don't have exceptional quickness," said Bice. "But we do have exceptional

"Without question," added Bice, "I have never seen a team spirit like the way our players get up for a game."

Though Bice has made the point exceptionally clear that the Mustangs' disadvantage is a lack of height, Andrews continues to get its share of rebounds.

McCain leads the team in karoms, averaging 12 a game, with Little grabbing 11 per contest.

When the Mustang starting lineup has been introduced to the crowd, Andrews size has attracted such comments as "take out the junior varsity," or "how many junior varsity teams does Andrews have?"

But 21 times so far, the Mustangs have been able to provide the biggest amount of points on the scoreboard.

Benitez Wins

Palomino, a Mexican-American living in California, admitted after the fight "Benitez was much faster" and blamed his defeat on nine months of inactivity after breaking his right hand.

Palomino, who weighed 146½, took the offensive in the middle rounds, advancing almost continuously against Benitez, 146 pounds and nine years Palomino's junior.

But Benitez covered well and quickly, blocking or dodging Palomino's powerful left hand and keeping the champion back with long left jabs and flurries of lefts and rights in close.

At one point in the sixth round, Palomino got through and snapped Benitez's head back with a stiff left jab of his own. But the challenger smiled and shook his head to show he wasn't hurt.

It was the 34th win for the Puerto Rican, who has had no losses and only one tie against Harold Weston. Palomino's record dropped to 28-2-3, but his $465,000 purse should take some of the sting out of the loss.

Benitez won $90,000 and his second WBC title. He shocked the boxing world in March 1976 when he upset Antonio Cervantes of Colombia to win the junior welterweight crown, which he lost when his father and then-manager refused to give Cervantes a rematch.

Although it appeared Benitez had much the better of the fight, judge Zack Clayton scored it 145-142 for Palomino. Referee Jay Edson saw it 148-143 for Benitez and judge Harry Gibbs said 146-143 for Benitez.

The victory was extra-sweet because it fulfilled one of the young Puerto Rican's goals.

North Carolina Drops Porkers

Duke game took something out of North Carolina too," Sutton said.

The Tar Heels, now 12-2, were led by Rich Yonakor with 13 points and Dudley Bradley with 12. Arkansas, now 10-2, boasted the game's leading scorer in Sidney Moncrief with 19 points. U.S. Reed scored 14 points for the Razorbacks.

Bradley steadily employed pressure on the Arkansas offense, managing a pair of back-to-back steals and pushing North Carolina's margin to 56-52 with 5:21 left to play. With 4:39 remaining, Smith ordered the Tar Heels into the four-corners offense.

Senior guard Jed Doughton, who started the game in place of the injured Dave Colascott, and freshman Jimmy Black ran the spread offense well down the stretch, turning the ball over only twice in the last four minutes.

North Carolina shot 57 percent from the free throw line in the first half while Arkansas kept the game close in the initial period by hitting 17 of 18 shots from the charity stripe. The Tar Heels led 40-35 at intermission.

But the Tar Heels improved from the free throw line in the second half, hitting 10 of 13 in the last eight minutes of the game.

Shockers Hit Cage Powers

By The Associated Press
Well, so much for Illinois' unbeaten record.
"We just weren't ready to play," said coach Lou Henson after a 69-66 overtime loss to Ohio State's giant-killers Saturday. "We let one get away that we shouldn't have."
It was the first loss in 16 games this season for Henson's fourth-ranked basketball team. The Illini, who had just scored a big triumph over No. 1 Michigan State Thursday night, didn't look like the same team against the Buckeyes.
"You're not going to win when you shoot four free throws on your home court and they hit 25," said Henson.

"There were a lot of calls that were judged today."
Not that Henson was blaming the officials.
"We had them at home and we should have beaten them," he said. "We just didn't play well."
For the Buckeyes, it continued their penchant for knocking off Top Twenty teams this year. Earlier in the year, they beat Louisville and Duke.
"We're 9-4, but we've played more games than that," said Ohio State coach Eldon Miller, referring to two other overtime games, with Duke and Rutgers.
The Spartans, meanwhile, lost their second straight game, a 52-50 stunner to Purdue, and five other Top Twenty teams were upset Saturday. Virginia beat No. 8 North Carolina State 67-62; No. 11 Texas A&M lost a 78-76 decision to SMU; No. 16 Michigan was beaten by Wisconsin 77-66; Alabama whipped No. 17 Kentucky 55-52 and No. 19 Long Beach State lost to Cal State-Fullerton 81-77 in overtime.

Elsewhere, No. 2 Notre Dame stopped No. 13 Marquette 65-60; No. 3 North Carolina beat No. 7 Duke 74-68; No. 5 LSU whipped Florida 80-72; No. 6 UCLA beat Southern Cal 89-86; No. 9 Indiana State downed Bradley 93-74; No. 12 Louisville beat Maryland 99-84; No. 14 Georgetown routed Manhattan 78-64; No. 15 Kansas stopped Oklahoma State 82-70; No. 18 Temple defeated Lafayette 72-51 and No. 20 Syracuse trimmed Connecticut 74-60.
Herb Williams scored 29 points and Kelvin Ransey had four big points in overtime to pace Ohio State. The Buckeyes were aided by a huge disparity at the foul line, making 25 of 38 shots while Illinois only had four free throws in eight attempts.
"Williams killed us inside," said Henson. "He did a good job on everybody we had on him. He's only averaging 21 and we're supposed to have a good defense."
Arnette Hallman's 23-footer at the buzzer sparked Purdue. Center Joe Barry Carroll collected game-high totals of 27 points and 11 rebounds for the winners.
"Arnette was the one guy we didn't want to have the ball," said Purdue Coach Lee Rose. "We did everything wrong, but got the basket. We planned to go to Jerry Sichting on a pick, or lob the ball to Carroll. But Michigan State really did a great job."
Jeff Lamp scored 25 points, including four free throws in the last 32 seconds, to lead Virginia's upset of North Carolina State. The Cavaliers never were ahead until Lee Raker hit a jump shot with 5:50 left to make it 50-48.
"It was a gutsy performance," said Virginia coach Terry Holland. "I thought our kids played good, good basketball. Everybody came up with the play when they needed to."
Clutch free throws by Billy Allen and Gordon Welch in the last minute led SMU over Texas A&M. The loss was only the third in 15 games for the Aggies.
Claude Gregory scored a career-high 28 points as Wisconsin rallied from a 12-point deficit to beat Michigan. The Badgers trailed by 46-34 at the half before coming back behind their high scorer, who had 29 of his points in the second half.
Robert Scott and Eddie Phillips teamed for three clutch free throws in the final 24 seconds to lead Alabama over Kentucky. The Crimson Tide's Reggie King led all scorers with 22 points.
Mike Niles scored 25 points and pulled down 16 rebounds to trigger Cal State Fullerton past Long Beach State.
Tracy Jackson scored 13 of his 21 points in the second half, rallying Notre Dame over Marquette. The Warriors were ahead 41-34 on their home court before the Irish rallied.

"I thought we did a good job in the second half of playing with intensity and our press and changing defenses kept us in the game," said Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps.
Mike O'Koren and Al Wood scored 17 points each to pace North Carolina over Duke. Duke led by one point at the half, but the Tar Heels outscored the Blue Devils 12-4 in the first five minutes of the second half and never lost the lead.
"We played inconsistently and that's about all I have to say," said Duke coach Bill Foster. "We're on a roller coaster offensively."
DeWayne Scales poured in 28 points and Jordy Hullberg scored 18 as LSU beat Florida. The Tigers had lost consecutively to Vanderbilt and Alabama in Southeastern Conference play before Saturday night's victory.
David Greenwood scored 19 points to lead a balanced UCLA attack against Southern Cal. The triumph was the 18th in a row for the Bruins over Southern Cal, which hasn't scored a basketball victory over UCLA since 1970. It also was their 22nd consecutive triumph over Southern Cal at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, the losers' home court.
Larry Bird's 27 points led Indiana State over Bradley; Louisville whipped Maryland as Darrell Griffith scored 30; Georgetown defeated Manhattan behind a 21-point performance by Eric Floyd; Darnell Valentine had 21 points as Kansas beat Oklahoma State; Ricky Reed scored a career-high 24 points to power Temple past Lafayette and Syracuse defeated Connecticut as Roosevelt Bouie scored 21.

Decade Sees Winning Times In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Super Bowl XIII may take the twirl out of Pittsburgh's "Terrible Towels."
But national titles have already made this decade of sports success in a city that once survived the '52 Pirates, threw snowballs at the Same Old Steelers, and loved and lamented other losers.
"Once, we were at the bottom. Now, Pittsburgh is something special," said Bob Bubanic, 41, who has gone to every Pittsburgh Steelers' home game since 1971 — wearing a gorilla suit.
"We're at the zenith. It's the greatest," said John Halas, 45, bound for the Super Bowl with fellow members of the tavern-based Chiodo's Football Club.
"We'll get those 'Terrible Towels' going in Miami," added Halas, referring to the thousands of yellow, terrycloth towels that signaled Steelers' support in the playoffs.
If Dallas wins in Miami, it will be the first time in this decade that a Pittsburgh team has made it to the big one — and lost.
In 1971, the Pirates won the World Series. In 1974 and 1975, the Steelers took Super Bowls. In 1976, the University of Pittsburgh was No. 1 in college football.
"We don't have pro basketball, but our hockey team is coming," said Halas.
"Maybe we'll get a Stanley Cup," said Bubanic, who wears his gorilla suit as a member of "Gereia's Gorillas," a fan club for Steelers kicker Roy Gerela.
Why the Pittsburgh success? Maybe it was just the timing of talented people coming together in a town where winning was overdue.
Mrs. Myrtle Dorsett of Aliquippa, Pa., said something like that about her son, Tony, who'll be in uniform with Dallas Sunday.
"God gave him the ability. . . And Tony has also been lucky. He's been in the right place at the right time for a lot of things to happen," said Mrs. Dorsett.
Dorsett and coach Johnny Majors arrived at Pitt in 1973. Within four years, Pitt had gone from a 1-10 season to the national title. With new rules on numbers of recruits, college football may never see another turnaround so sudden.
In baseball, the Pirates of the '70s have been the most consistent winners in the history of a team that lost a record 112 games in 1952 and finished 54 1/2 games out of first. "We lost 10 or our first 14 games — then we had a slump," said Joe Garagiola.
Last season, the Pirates were second in their division for the third straight year. Before that, they won five of six division titles.
In 1971, one Pirate fan delayed a cataract operation to see the Series. His name was Art Rooney, and the Steeler team he owned had gone nearly four decades without a title.
"I guess I could be so dumb that I don't know I'm dumb," Rooney once said. "But I think we have a good organization. We work harder than most other team offices. We have to. We're losers."
The Steeler stopped being losers in 1972 because of coach Chuck Noll.
When he took over, Noll was asked what he remembered about the Steelers when he played for Cleveland. "We used to make fun of Pittsburgh. They'd wear different color helmets sometimes," he said.
The helmets will match Sunday. So will the mental attitudes. Noll sees that — "To me, the time after a game is a letdown," Noll says. "When the seasons ends, even if you have won the Super Bowl, there's no next game to prepare for. To me, the challenge of preparing is the enjoyment."
The Steelers once had a coach, Johnny Blood, who missed a game because he thought Pittsburgh wasn't playing that day.
"You couldn't depend on Johnny a whole lot," Rooney has said.
The Steelers can depend on Noll. Indeed, Rooney no longer has "fun" just watching his team.
"Now it's fun winning," he said. "You can't beat that feeling."

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip, who likes to dream up feminine nicknames for his race cars, coaxed a balky Chevrolet Monte Carlo named "Wanda" to a record-breaking victory Sunday in the $160,000 Winston Western 500.
The race was the season opener for Grand National stock car racing.
"Wicked Wanda isn't a witch anymore," he said of the car which he termed "a dumb race car" earlier in the week.
He explained Wanda won the 1977 Atlanta 500, but has been "a real basket case" since being involved in a three-car crash in last year's Daytona 500.
"She's been a bundle of nerves. I think she's settled down now," he added, saying until the race Wanda "was a pulchritudineous race car. I wanted to hang her in a tree out there on one of the turns so she could show the other cars do it."
Waltrip, who has two other cars named Bertha and Mayriline at his disposal, said the cars take on a personality the longer he drives them.
"Take Bertha for example. She's been around like I know for four seasons," he said. "I feel like I own the car and got to call it something."
Wanda "ran great and handled great" and gave Waltrip tremendous fuel mileage, letting him make one less fuel stop than his competitors.
"We're gonna be this tough all year long," Waltrip predicted. "Until now we've always started off the year behind everyone else. Watch out for us."
Waltrip averaged 107.841 mph in his Chevrolet. There were no caution flags in the race, despite a steady rain the last five laps.
Waltrip took the lead for the final time on the 105th of 119 circuits around Riverside International Raceway just before David Pearson was forced to make a quick stop for fuel.

Senior Elbert Darden scored 22 points to lead the Owls, who suddenly have a 2-2 record and are back in the fray.
In Dallas, SMU bounced back from its loss to Rice with a 78-76 victory over 11th-ranked Texas A&M.
This came just one night after Texas had stunned Arkansas 66-63 in Fayetteville where the Razorbacks had captured 35 consecutive games.
Texas Tech and Texas are now tied at the top of the SWC ladder with 3-1 records. Arkansas and Texas A&M are just a half game behind with 2-1 ledgers.
TCU is winless in three games.
Nobody gets to rest this week because Tuesday night Texas has to go on the road to meet the pesky Owls, Texas Tech is at SMU and Houston is at Baylor. Then on Wednesday night comes another biggy — 10th-ranked Arkansas is at Texas A&M.
SMU coach Sonny Allen said, "The race will probably be this way all year. I'm happy and proud of our win because we needed it after losing to Rice. But now with Tech losing, we are back in the conference race."

A record Moody Coliseum crowd of 10,276 saw the Mustangs put the clamps on the Aggies, who haven't beaten SMU in the building since 1975.
The Aggie-Mustang game featured a duel of two freshmen. SMU guard Billy Allen, who scored 24 points, and A&M center Rudy Woods, who scored 23 points.

Early Upsets Leave Raiders, UT In Lead

Before the season started, Southwest Conference basketball coaches predicted a wild championship race. But nobody could foresee the scramble becoming this wild.
After two weeks of family feuding, every league team has lost at least one game and only one thing seems certain — Texas Christian won't win it.
The Rice Owls capped a weird week with a stunning 62-56 upset over Texas Tech in Lubbock of all places.
The Owls, who had shot down Southern Methodist earlier in the week, had lost 17 consecutive games to the Red Raiders and were 18-point underdogs Saturday night.
Senior Elbert Darden scored 22 points to lead the Owls, who suddenly have a 2-2 record and are back in the fray.
In Dallas, SMU bounced back from its loss to Rice with a 78-76 victory over 11th-ranked Texas A&M.
This came just one night after Texas had stunned Arkansas 66-63 in Fayetteville where the Razorbacks had captured 35 consecutive games.
Texas Tech and Texas are now tied at the top of the SWC ladder with 3-1 records. Arkansas and Texas A&M are just a half game behind with 2-1 ledgers.
TCU is winless in three games.
Nobody gets to rest this week because Tuesday night Texas has to go on the road to meet the pesky Owls, Texas Tech is at SMU and Houston is at Baylor. Then on Wednesday night comes another biggy — 10th-ranked Arkansas is at Texas A&M.
SMU coach Sonny Allen said, "The race will probably be this way all year. I'm happy and proud of our win because we needed it after losing to Rice. But

Mystery 'Poor People's Virus' Striking Children Of Naples

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — This city teeming with life and with misery is battling a new affliction, a mystery disease that has taken the lives of 38 babies, puzzled medical authorities and spread panic among many parents.

Authorities report more and more children are being kept out of nursery and elementary schools and even prevented from going outside in hopes that staying indoors will keep away "il male oscuro" — the obscure evil, as Neapolitans call it.

A total of 38 children under the age of three have died in the past year from a disease that attacks babies' lungs in a day or two despite massive doses of antibiotics.

Experts from the Health Ministry in Rome have been groping in the dark for several months. They first found hospital doctors at Naples had quickly diagnosed a number of the deaths as caused by brain troubles, but autopsies showed the brains had not been affected.

Then, they checked thousands of needles used to inoculate a combined tetanus-diphtheria vaccine, but concluded there was nothing wrong with them even if many babies came down with the illness a day or so after being vaccinated. Finally this month, after a session of the government's Higher Health Council, the experts concluded the disease must be caused by some kind of virus — the smallest of infective living beings, which can be detected only with electronic microscopes.

But they still have been unable to identify the virus, a crucial step to fighting it with adequate treatment.

Whatever scientific name the virus will get, however, doctors have quickly labeled it as "the poor people's virus."

"It is a virus thriving in slums and on malnutrition," said Dr. Antonio Cali, head of the city's health department. "Poverty is its trademark. All victims belong to residents of the city's notorious downtown slum area or to impoverished families from nearby towns."

The Health Ministry planned to ask medical authorities in Hungary, Britain and the United States for detailed information about the outbreak of some mysterious diseases there in recent years.

According to Prof. Carlo Sirtori, head of the Carlo Erba Medical Foundation in Milan, the disease in Naples shows symptoms recalling the "Legionnaires disease," first discovered after an outbreak at an American Legion convention in Philadelphia three years ago.

Dr. William Baine, an epidemiologist at the U.S. Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., and a specialist in the disease, said he has discussed the Naples outbreak informally with Italian doctors studying the disease but has received no formal request for help.

But Baine said Legionnaires disease was an unlikely candidate. In the United States, 99 per cent of the victims have been over the age of 16 and the disease is extremely rare in young children.

Naples has often had trouble with diseases linked to sanitation and hunger. This city of 2.8 million inhabitants drew a label as "Europe's Calcutta" in 1973 when an outbreak of cholera, an intestinal disease, struck close to 1,000 persons, killing 25 of them.

A judge pinned part of the responsibility on the neglect of medical authorities and on mussels grown in polluted sea waters.

The following year, half a dozen newborn babies were killed by salmonellosis, an intestinal disease, in hospitals and maternity wards. They were closed down temporarily after the discovery that faulty disinfection was the cause.

An average of 1,500 children are hospitalized annually in the emergency ward of Naples' Santobono Hospital and 300 of them die for reasons ranging from hepatitis to burns, according to officials.

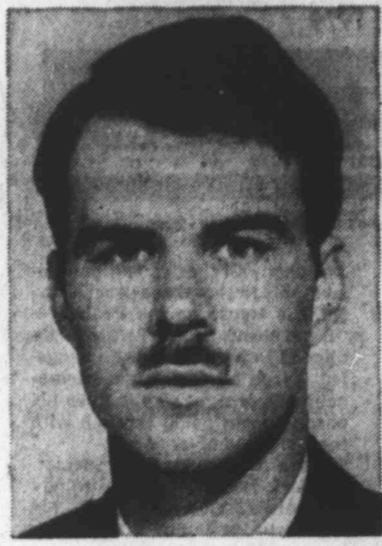

Many of Naples' woes are rooted in the chronic economic crisis of a city with Europe's densest population and a massive shortage of jobs. The unemployed number some 180,000, and the number of jobs has been shrinking, in part because the city is a victim of a vicious circle.

Modern industry has never really set roots in Naples because of the almost total lack of skilled workers and good vocational schools. Without industry, there is no market for schools or skilled workers.

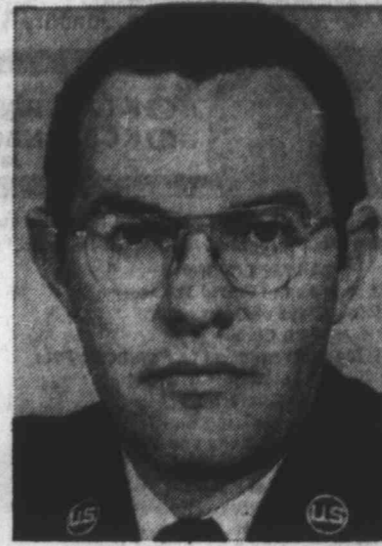

The city's biggest industry is tobacco and cigarette smuggling. An estimated 40,000 persons make a living from loads of cigarettes reaching the edge of territorial waters aboard Greek or Yugoslav ships and then transferred aboard fast motorboats.

The Communists took over the city government in 1975 promising their best to improve Naples' fate. But whatever change they may have brought it has not diminished depression and disillusion.

"We found out that government is more difficult than opposition," commented Mayor Maurizio Valenzi, once labeled as the "holy face of Italian Communism" for his honesty and openness.

Two members of Reese Air Force Base's 64th Civil Engineering (CE) Squadron and a member of the 3500th Resource Management (RM) Squadron Friday were named Reese's top enlisted personnel of 1978.

Senior Master Sgt. Guy A. Chauvin, traffic management office supervisor of resource management, received the Senior Noncommissioned Officer award during a special awards banquet.

Tech. Sgt. Bradley L. Charters, quality control technician for civil engineering, was chosen Noncommissioned Officer of the year and Airman 1st Class David J. Anderson, construction equipment operator for civil engineering, was airman of the year.

Nineteen persons were nominated for the awards and winners were selected for on-the-job knowledge and performance and off-duty involvement in community affairs.

Each candidate also was interviewed by a selection board.

Col. Charles E. Bishop, base commander, presented each winner with a certificate of recognition and Bill McMillan, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Armed Services Committee, presented each man with a special plaque.

U.S. Savings Bonds of $50 from the NCO Academy Graduates Association and desk sets from Reese Federal Credit Union and Lubbock National Bank also were presented to each winner.

Chauvin, Charters, and Anderson will represent Reese in the Air Training Command Senior Noncommissioned Officer, Noncommissioned Officer, and Airman of the Year competition during the last weeks of January.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My husband's business, which he had owned for 40 years, failed. We sold our home and, after paying cash for a smaller home, we have about $25,000. Except for about $500 a month from Social Security, that's all we have.

I know this is a tall order, but what can we do with the $25,000 to provide us with better and more secure income for the future?

A. Because, in your situation, you can't afford to take any risks with that $25,000, it may be too tall an order to fill — unless you can discipline yourselves to live on your Social Security, plus about $200 a month.

You can get the extra $200 a month by putting most of the $25,000 into insured six-month savings certificates. As I write this, many thrift institutions are offering six-month certificates with annual yields of better than 10 percent.

You should shop around, until you find a savings and loan association or savings bank offering those certificates at one-quarter of 1 percent more than the most recent 26-week U.S. Treasury bill rate and which compounds interest either daily or continuously. That will give you the top yield allowed.

Six months from now, when the certificates you buy now mature, new six-month certificates might very well produce lower yields. But, considering your financial circumstances, it could be a very bad mistake to put your money into anything straying from the absolute safety of fixed dollars and insured income.

Q. I am 20, earn $9,500 a year and have few expenses, because I live with my parents and my final two years of college at night are financed by my employer. I have $2,000 in a 6 1/2 percent savings certificate, due to mature in 11 months, and $1,200 in a regular savings account.

I am willing to sacrifice now, to secure a firm, long-term financial future. All things considered, how would you recommend I invest or reinvest my money?

A. If anyone can afford to take a risk in hopes of reaping long-term financial rewards, you're that person. I hope that is what you mean, when you use the word "sacrifice." You should be aware that risk always carries with it the possibility of loss, as well as the potential for profit.

I feel that you should try your hand at buying growth stocks, which hopefully will rise in value in the years ahead. Your self-addressed, stamped envelope is bringing you a list of such stocks. The list carries with it no guarantee. Good luck!

And I hope that, in addition to your job, night college and investment planning, you're finding time to enjoy your youth and live a little.

Q. I'm presently employed with a company that sells mutual funds, investment certificates, annuities, life and other types of insurance. I would like to sell individual stocks on the side. Do you know of any brokerage firms that might take me on, on a part-time basis?

A. Nope. If — as I assume you are — you are talking about brokerage firms which are members of the New York Stock Exchange, you can't sell for them on a part-time basis. The NYSE has a long-standing regulation that all sales representatives of its member firms must be full-timers.

We know, of course, that "full-timer" is open to a wide variety of definitions. But, even under the most extreme circumstances, I can't imagine any NYSE member firm taking you on, while you're holding your present job.

The outfit your letterhead identifies you as being with, claims to use nothing but full-time sales representatives. But it's no secret that claim is just so much window-dressing.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Bishop Requests Joint Effort Against Guerrillas

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Bishop Abel Muzorewa, one of three moderate blacks in the ruling transition government's executive council, urged black and white Rhodesians Sunday to join together to face the stepped-up onslaught by black nationalist guerrillas.

He said the war, initially aimed at toppling the white regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith, had turned into a "cruel game of confused, unbelievable torture and murder."

Smith unilaterally declared Rhodesia's independence from Britain in 1965 to head off black rule. But last March he joined with Muzorewa and two other moderate black nationalists to form the transition government.

Universal suffrage elections among the estimated 3 million adult blacks and 80,000 registered whites are scheduled April 20 under Salisbury's plan for black majority rule.

Guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe of the Patriotic Front alliance have denounced the plan for the elections as a sellout to white interests.

The transition government's draft constitution, to be effective for an initial five-year period, guarantees 28 seats for whites in a 100-member legislature. Twenty-five percent of the Cabinet posts also will be reserved for whites.

war:

"The white manager of a British-owned gold mine was killed in a clash between reserve policemen and black nationalist guerrillas at a bar 30 miles north of here, the military command reported Sunday.

The military statement said Peter Howell, 36, led the reserve policemen to a beer hall after hearing reports that guerrillas had raided the establishment.

The military said Howell was one of 14 persons killed in the 24-hour period ending Sunday in Rhodesia's 6-year-old guerrilla war. The dead included four guerrillas, two "collaborators," and seven black civilians.

"David Steele, leader of Britain's tiny Liberal Party, said Sunday he sees no prospect of Western recognition of Rhodesia's transition government.

Organized Fraud Used To Profit From Coupons

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer

Clipping coupons from newspapers isn't just a way thrifty shoppers save nickels and dimes. Some authorities estimate manufacturers are bilked out of at least $200 million a year by organized fraud.

Makers of laundry soap, coffee, dog food, toothpaste, paper towels and other products increasingly are promoting their goods by issuing coupons offering discounts. And as the use of coupons has grown — an estimated 70 billion were issued last year — so has fraud.

"Attempts at fraudulent redemption of coupons are as old as couponing itself," said Sidney Friel, a representative of Procter & Gamble Co., one of the industry's largest users of coupons. "Over the years, the use of coupons has increased, the sophistication of those who would redeem them fraudulently has increased."

It works this way. A soap company puts coupons in newspapers, magazines or the mail offering 25 cents off on the purchase of its product. When you buy the soap, the grocer cuts 25 cents off the price. He later sends the coupon to the company, which sends him the 25 cents plus a handling charge. Fraud enters the picture when the coupon is redeemed without any soap being purchased.

For example, crooks with wads of clipped coupons often find storeowners willing to include the fraudulent claims in their legitimate coupon redemptions. In other cases, coupon clearinghouses, which act as middlemen between merchants and manufacturers, send in fraudulent claims.

In Los Angeles, for instance, federal prosecutors estimate one operation was handling as much as $300,000 a month in a scheme that allegedly involved convincing charitable organizations to collect an estimated 1.5 million coupons under the guise of fund-raising for worthy causes.

Prosecutors charged that the coupons instead were redeemed by phony supermarkets that claimed to have sold the covered products.

In Sioux City, Iowa, in 1977, the U.S. attorney's office seized 2,200 pounds of coupons in what may have represented only a few months worth of collecting. The coupons were provided by housewives across the country, who were recruited through an ad in a small coupon-exchange newsletter.

The New York district attorney's office estimates about 20 percent of the $930 million paid out in redemptions in 1977 involved fraud, or $186 million. Investigators guess the total is now over $200 million.

"It is just like money," said one investigator, who has counted as much as $12 worth of coupons in some newspapers. "You can pick up a newspaper for 15 cents and make a hell of a profit."

But the industry has some defenses. Blair Graphic Group, a New York company that prints millions of coupons, now puts serial numbers on them. They can be used to spot a problem — such as large quantities of coupons being sent from Louisiana for redemption when the advertisements ran in Michigan.

New York prosecutors and the Postal Service came up with another gimmick two years ago that led to their current investigation. They arranged for a coupon for a 25-cent discount on a fictitious detergent — called Breen — to be included with legitimate coupons in newspapers.

Although the advertisement ran only one day in three New York-area newspapers, 2,300 stores around the nation sent in some 70,000 Breen coupons for refunds.

"The curious thing is, three days before it was published, there was an attempted redemption of a Breen coupon in California," said Ronda Nager of the district attorney's office. "We're looking into that."

Ali Says Ex-Slave Role Proves Acting Abilities Out Of Ring

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Muhammed Ali, actor. It's a new role for the champion, although some would claim that he has been delivering splendid acting performances for a couple of decades.

This time he is not playing Cassius Clay or Muhammad Ali. In "Freedom Road," a four-hour dramatization of the Howard Fast novel, he portrays a rebellious ex-slave in the Reconstruction South. Can he submerge what he considers the world's best-known personality into a movie role?

"I've already succeeded," Ali declared. "I convinced Jan Kadar, who is the best film director in the world. I convinced Zev Braun, the producer. If I could convince those two, I will have no trouble with the audience."

Well, maybe. The results won't be known until NBC broadcasts "Freedom Road" late this season or early next. The movie has been termed the most expensive in television history, considering its four-hour length; final cost: $7 million.

Holdup Last Straw For WWI Veteran

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Mike Friedman has been toughened by adversity, but enough is enough, he says. Friedman, 86, was a prisoner of war in Germany during World War I, and he has a steel plate in his head from one of 10 run-ins with robbers during 46 years of business. But even at home, trouble follows the widower of 12 years.

Carey Wants State Holiday For King

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Hugh Carey wants the birthday of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King designated a public holiday in New York State. The proposal, which needs legislative approval, would make Jan. 15 a state holiday each year. Schools, government offices and banks, among other institutions, would be closed.

Currently, under a law enacted in 1975, the third Sunday in January is designated as the official state holiday to honor King. But that law excluded the holiday from the general rule that a holiday falling on a Sunday could be celebrated on the following Monday.

Co-starring Kris Kristofferson, it was filmed on location in Natchez, Miss., with a week or so of interiors still to be shot here. The movie will be released abroad in theaters.

"Nobody could have done my role better," claimed the champion. "Sidney Poitier couldn't have done it better. Robert Redford couldn't have done it better."

"I understand this character. He was a brave man who died for what he believed in. But I'll tell you this: what I done was braver. All he had to do was face a few cannons that they had in those days. He didn't have to contend with the CIA, the FBI and everything else that I had to face."

Ali was holding forth one morning at his in-laws house near downtown Los Angeles. He was supposedly hiding out, but the telephone rang repeatedly with messages from people asking him to do this and do that. Among them was a Hong Kong promoter wanting Ali to referee a June 10 fight in Uganda between Idi Amin and the sumo wrestler Ali defeated in Japan.

who claimed car trouble, Friedman was held at gunpoint while his house was ransacked and then he was locked in a narrow closet with only room enough to stand, police said. He was trapped 17 hours before being rescued by police, who were summoned by a neighbor whose telephone calls were not answered.

Through the ordeal, Friedman scratched at the wooden door with a nail he found inside the two-by-five-foot closet. When freed, he had gouged a hole about one-foot square in the closet door.

"They promise me a bullet-proof vest," said Ali. "With two hundred of Amin's soldiers at ringside, I don't think I'll need it."

While consuming a breakfast of steak, scrambled eggs and toast, Ali discussed his film acting. It began with "The Great Escape," a well-made autobiography that failed to attract an audience.

"Acting is no big thing," he remarked. "It comes easy to me. I've got a lot of dialogue to learn for these final scenes, but that doesn't worry me. I carry 15 lectures in my head that I can recite at any time."

"Now I'm doing lectures at colleges and universities all over the country. They pay me good money — $12,500 for each lecture. Before the (Leon) Spinks fight (in which he regained his title), I was getting $5,000."

"But it's exhausting work. I've got to meet with the faculty, with the black students, write autographs and stand in line at receptions. I'm worn out by the time I finish a lecture."

Ali roamed through a variety of subjects, including his boxing future: "They offered me $12 million to fight (Duane) Bobick, $12 million to fight (Mike) Rossman. I don't want to do that. I'd look bad beatin' them. Why pick on those guys?"

"I'm 37 years old, and I've fought all my life. It's time for me to stop. Black people need an idol, they need someone to look up to. They'd be so hurt if I went out and got beat or looked bad in the ring. It would be a sin to do something to destroy the faith they have in me."

Spending $30 Million Poses Problems

CHICAGO (AP) — They have more than $30 million a year to spend on good works, and decades of business experience to help guide them.

But directors trying to decide how to spend a billionaire's legacy have discovered they still don't know all they should before distributing the wealth of John D. MacArthur.

"It's embarrassing not to have all sorts of pat answers, but it is not easy to learn to do a good job with this money. The pressure of trying to do a good job is very real," said William T. Kirby, MacArthur's lawyer and among those trying to determine a course for the MacArthur Foundation.

One aim has been decided — to finance budding geniuses — mavericks who will be supported for six years to do whatever they want.

The foundation's first grant, one of $50,000, went to the California League of Cities to support a series of conferences on "Cities of Tomorrow," an effort to bring more people into the workings of local government.

MacArthur, an eccentric business genius who ran his empire from a back table in a Florida motel coffee shop, left the bulk of his estate to the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation.

The foundation, which overnight became the fourth largest in the nation, was directed in the will to acquire MacArthur's largest single asset, Bankers Life and Casualty Co. of Chicago.

After 11 months of preparation, the foundation took control of the company Dec. 1. Though a final audit isn't complete, it is presumed the value of the company will be about $750 million.

Because federal law requires foundations to donate 5 percent of their assets each year, MacArthur directors will have an estimated $30 million to $40 million to distribute annually.

MacArthur left no specific directions about how the money should be spent. The directors — including the widow, Kirby, Bankers Life President Robert Ewing, a son, John Roderick MacArthur, Bankers vice chairman Paul Doolen and Paul Harvey, a nationally syndicated broadcast commentator — have met frequently in an effort to decide what to do.

The son, an independently wealthy businessman, came up with the plan to bring along the next generation of great thinkers. Under the plan, a panel will select brilliant young people to receive grants for up to six years to continue their studies, with no requirement to produce anything.

MacArthur said this "designed to bet on mavericks. The type who know the rules and want to question them."

"That's where this country will get its next great discoveries. The idea behind this is that Albert Einstein could not have written a grant application saying he was going to discover the theory of relativity. He needed to be free to go along what he thought was the best route."

The board has also decided, in general, to provide money for medical and mental health rehabilitation programs, justice and judicial reform projects, the science of communication and news media responsibility, and other matters.

"It's a wonderful opportunity, and Mr. MacArthur intended it that way," said Kirby. "He intended that this wealth that had come to him from the basic, common, ordinary people of this country should be used for public purposes, for public good."

"He was a very old shoe kind of guy, and he never lost his feeling for the common person."

The largest foundation anywhere is the Ford Foundation with more than $2 billion in assets. Next in line are the Johnson, Kellogg and Rockefeller foundations.

Woman Alive After 'Killing'

BURLINGTON, Iowa (UPI) — Christina Smith returned to life this week, several months after a Medicare computer "killed" her and refused to change its mind.

"It feels pretty good to be alive again," said the 79-year-old woman, who finally received a check Thursday to pay doctor bills due since May, 1978.

"At first I thought it was a joke," Mrs. Smith said. "But it went on and on and on — and then it was no joke. I owe the doctors nearly $500 and when Medicare stops paying, so does Blue Cross."

One of the letters "to the estate of Christina F. Smith" said Mrs. Smith's son, Richard, could collect $255 in death benefits if he sent his mother's medical and funeral bills to Des Moines. The letter also asked Smith to sign a statement that his mother, who lives next door, was dead.

While Medicare and Blue Cross acted as though Mrs. Smith was dead, she still received her Social Security checks.

And her dilemma persisted for months, despite her efforts, and work by Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, to correct the problem.

"I'm surprised this thing has gone on so long without being resolved," said Bob Watterson, director of community relations for Blue Cross of Iowa. "We are going to send her a check."

Watterson, who said his firm has been trying since July to straighten out Mrs. Smith's accounts, said the firm now will try to get the computer corrected so Blue Cross can be reimbursed.

A medical assistant for Mrs. Smith's doctor said she was "disgusted" by the computer problem.

"You wonder how many old people there are out there who this might have happened to and they just sat back and were afraid to say anything," she said.

Pay For Jail Stay

SUTHERLIN, Ore. (AP) — Lawbreakers sentenced to jail here are having to pay twice for their misdeeds. City Judge Darryl Johnson, in handing down jail terms to three offenders recently, ruled that in addition to serving time, each prisoner must pay $10 daily to cover the cost of staying in jail.

The Douglas County Jail at nearby Roseburg assesses Sutherlin $10 a day for each Sutherlin prisoner it houses. Prisoners cannot be kept in the Sutherlin jail for a long period because the facility does not meet requirements for such jails.

DEA Agents Seize Suspected Plane

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Federal drug agents seized an abandoned four-engine cargo plane they believe was used to transport drugs.

Harold Brown, an agent for the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, said Saturday that the DC-4 was registered to a corporation whose only address is an out-of-state post office box. He did not say which state.

The plane made an authorized landing at Bowman Field on Thursday, but flight controllers said the three-man crew had disappeared. Federal agents were searching the plane for evidence of illegal cargo, but Brown said the search had not yet turned up anything.

Texas's longest boundary is formed by the Rio Grande and is 889 miles long.

Teenager Awarded Life Annuity For Electric Shock Injuries

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Less than a year ago Rita Kaye McDonald stood with some other junior high school friends at a southside softball diamond, waiting to take her position — shortstop — on the field.

"Then I heard a buzzing sound," Rita said. "And I saw a flash."

As she turned, she was horrified to see a power line hurtling toward her head. More than 7,200 volts surged through the young girl, causing massive burns on her back and legs.

"I realized instantly what had happened. Then I lost consciousness," Rita was 14 when she was carried in critical condition to John Peter Smith Hospital April 18, 1978. Doctors amputated her right leg and performed numerous skin grafts in an attempt to save her.

Following a recovery that doctors and attorneys called "remarkable," 15-year-old Rita walked to the witness stand last week and told Judge Clyde Ashworth she wanted to accept an annuity settlement that could bring her more than $4 million.

It was one of the largest settlements ever approved in Texas, and both parties — the McDonald family and Texas Electric Service Co. — seemed pleased.

TESCO agreed to pay $455,356 to set up the annuity. Through the annuity, Rita will receive $20,000 a year at the outset.

"The payments will increase as she grows older," a spokesman said. "She could be receiving $28,868 a year at the end of 10 years and $36,122 annually in 20 years. After 50 years, the payments would reach $87,678 a year."

Assuming she lives at least 67 more years, she will have collected $4.1 million.

The annuity guarantees Rita a minimum of $537,000, which would go to her estate should she die before collecting that amount.

Rita showed only a trace of a limp when she went to testify Friday.

"I'm doing fine," she told the judge. "I'm attending school regularly and I've gotten to the point where I can run some with my artificial leg."

"I still have what they call phantom pain. There's also some discomfort where my wounds healed. But there is no severe pain anymore."

Judge Ashworth praised the settlement.

"Without it (the annuity), she would have received a lump sum of almost a half million dollars upon her 18th birthday," he said.

"I know that when I was 18, I wasn't ready to handle that kind of money," the judge said. "But this arrangement will assure her of an income the rest of her life."

Tandy Grant Creates Ranch Center Fund

A $100,000 gift establishing the Anne Burnett Tandy endowment for the support of the Ranching Heritage Center was announced by Dr. Clyde E. Kelsey Jr., vice president for development and university relations at Texas Tech University.

The center, a 12-acre exhibit of the Museum of Texas Tech University, is a collection of a score of authentic ranch structures, landscaped and furnished with historic accuracy, to depict the history of ranching in the American West.

Mrs. Tandy is the granddaughter of S. Burk Burnett who, when he was 10 years old, came with his father to the Denton area from Missouri. He started the 6666 Ranch in King County.

His son, Tom Loyd Burnett, established the Triangle Ranch near Paducah. The Burnett Estate ranches now are under one management.

S. Burk Burnett's buggy is on display at the Ranching Heritage Center. Also given to the Museum recently was Tom Burnett's saddle.

In addition to gifts for the Museum, Mrs. Tandy presented to Texas Tech a 6666's black quarterhorse, Happy VI, mascot for the Red Raider athletic teams.

Upon donating to the Ranching Heritage Center endowment, Mrs. Tandy specified that the funds should support operations.

"I think you are doing a great thing for the West Texas and it is a wonderful tribute to all the old ranching families," she said.

Judges Allow Party To Keep List Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-judge federal panel has agreed to let the Socialist Workers Party keep its contributor list secret in an order that acknowledges past government harassment of members and supporters.

The party filed suit in 1974, with the support of the American Civil Liberties Union, contending that releasing names of contributors might subject them to abuse.

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

BIORHYTHMS FOR JAN. 15, 1979

PHYSICAL
Critical: 6, 17, 28, 40, 52, 63, 75 — Be cautious today.
High: 7-16, 30-39, 53-62 — Good for tackling chores.
Low: 1-5, 18-28, 41-51, 64-74 — Pace your body today.

EMOTIONAL
Critical: 2, 16, 30, 44, 58, 72 — Reactions slow, dangerous.
High: 3-15, 31-43, 59-71 — You are optimistic today.
Low: 1, 17-29, 45-57, 73-85 — Stay under control.

INTELLECTUAL

High: 1-6, 25-39, 58-72, 91-95 — Mental ability reliable.
Low: 8-23, 41-56, 74-89 — Don't trust your memory.

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 2: Now find the corresponding number for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Step 3: In the figure chart, enter your day of birth three times, one each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). (If you were born on April 3, for instance, place a 3 in each column.)

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's rhythms.

These numbers are yours permanently. Check them each day for your biorhythm reading.

FATHER AND SON — A Peking father and his son, both attired in padded cotton jackets and cold weather hats, are pictured out for a stroll Saturday at Tien An Men Square. Dad did the walking as he carried the youngster on his back. (AP Laserphoto)

Few Christians Remain In China

PEKING (AP) — Once a mecca for Bible-toting Christian missionaries, China today is an officially atheistic country whose Christian population has dwindled to almost nothing since the communist victory in China's civil war 30 years ago.

In this city of 7 million people, for example, churchmen estimate only about 50 Chinese are still practicing Christians.

"The history of China before 1949 shows that missionaries came here to exploit the people," says Yin Chi-cheng, 69, one of the three Protestant ministers of the United Bible Mission. "There were never more than 700,000 Christians in China over a 100-year period, and many of these were 'rice Christians' who came for economic reasons, to get free hospital care, scholarships or handouts to the poor.

"Since 1949, China is better off and supplies these things," Yin said. "Finally, the Communist Party educated the people in Marxist-Leninist-Maoist thought which was contrary to Buddhism and Christianity. So fewer and fewer young people believe in religion."

Yin, a white-haired man educated in an American-run Presbyterian seminary in the 1930s, said the radicals who held sway during the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution packed him and his two associates off to work in a rural cemetery for two years. But he said they otherwise were not maltreated and the three-story mission house on Wangfuching Street was not damaged.

Services there and at the Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Mary were the only two Christian observances Sunday in Peking.

About 100 persons, mostly foreigners, showed up at the Catholic church. A separate Mass in Chinese drew 25 persons.

Chinese Angry Over Loss Of Jobs

TOKYO (AP) — An estimated 70,000 Chinese citizens have flocked to Peking recently to complain to Communist Party leaders that they lost their jobs because of false charges, Japan's Kyodo news service reported Sunday.

The seemingly spontaneous calls for redress apparently were another indication of the Peking leadership's new emphasis on freedom of speech. This trend toward freer expression of viewpoints has been seen mostly in the proliferation of political wall posters in Peking.

In the report from Hopeh Province as saying about 70 percent of the complaining workers are unemployed and many are sleeping under bridges and are demanding that the government give them food during their stay in the capital.

The news service said other complainants came from the northern province of Mongolia and the southern province of Yunnan. It said pro-democracy youth organizations were planning a campaign on behalf of the petitioners, but the report gave no details.

Western correspondents in Peking reported that about 100 Chinese from Shantung Province demanded democracy and human rights in a demonstration Sunday — their second this week — in Chungnanhai, the area of the capital where China's political leaders live.

A boy holding a crutch was carried on his father's back, and other demonstrators raised their fists, shouted slogans and held banners appealing to Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-Ping, the reporters said.

On Jan. 8, the third anniversary of the death of Premier Chou En-lai, the Shantung Province group protested at Chungnanhai and at the Martyr's Monument in Peking's main Tien An Men Square. Shantung Province is just southeast of Peking on China's northeast coast.

Gin and the Rev. Michael Fu Ti-shan at Blessed Mary stress that their churches are independent, run on their own, not state funds, and have no official contacts with the Vatican or other missions in America and Europe.

They said that in recent years they have met informally with visiting priests and ministers and hope, now that relations between Peking and Washington have been normalized, there will be more contacts with churches in the United States.

Blessed Mary sits on a site occupied by Catholic churches since 1650 and was opened in 1904. French priests ran it before and it is popular with the diplomatic community because its three priests speak English and French and hear confession in those languages. It also is the only Catholic church in town.

The United Bible Mission is the only

Protestant church in Peking. Until 1958 there were dozens here, but the number dwindled to four in the mid-1960s, then to one after the Cultural Revolution.

Another of the ministers, Kan Hsueh-ching, 51, says he believes "we now have greater freedom to speak out and excise religious freedom as well, but we do not expect our congregation to increase by very much.

"I think that in our socialist society there is a place for religion and Christianity," Kan said. "We play a part in the political life of China."

Mysterious Gas Cloud Sickens Scottish Town

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — A mysterious cloud of gas smelling like rotten eggs drifted over frigid central Scotland early Sunday, waking many residents and sickening some.

Winds blew the gas cloud across Glasgow and out to sea, but before it floated away police in various communities in the area reported scores of callers complained the gas was causing nausea and vomiting.

A government scientist investigating the incident said the smell appeared to be sulphurous and might be hydrogen sulphide from a chemical works. But the source was not located, Glasgow police said.

Another theory considered by the scientists was that the gas was a chemical reaction in the atmosphere caused by the extreme cold conditions followed by sunshine.

The temperature plunged to 13 degrees below zero Fahrenheit Saturday at Carlisle, Lanarkshire, freezing diesel oil in trucks and tractors and beer in taverns.

Trains halted in some areas, including Glasgow, after gasoline in their tanks froze solid. Train service also was disrupted by frozen engine parts, state-run British Rail said.

Steel Haulers Await Results Of Work Order

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers were still unsure Sunday of what effect a federal judge's back-to-work order would have on the group's 6-week-old strike.

Association leader William J. Hill avoided going to jail after swearing in court Friday that he had notified the group's area coordinators that the strike would end as ordered by U.S. District Judge Louis Rosenberg.

However, it was uncertain whether the strikers would return to work. About 300 Pittsburgh area members of the association voted Friday to stay off the highways, but there were reports of waning support in other states.

The strike has been accompanied by widespread highway violence. Hill says he has spent 10 years with the association trying to help independent owner-operators get a fair shake.

"As far as I'm concerned, the whole system is against the average guy," he told an interviewer recently.

Hill called the strike on Nov. 11 in an effort to win improved rates, simpler highway regulations and the right to bargain on behalf of about 30,000 independent steel haulers, whose contracts have been negotiated by the Teamsters union.

Rosenberg ruled Hill and association vice president Robert Trent were in contempt of a 1971 order in which the judge found the drivers group to be a business association, not a labor union, and that its strike was a violation of federal anti-trust laws.

The association has appealed Rosenberg's latest order, but the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals likely will not make a decision until April.

Aid For Turks Irks Greeks

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece has advised the United States that it views a proposed increase in U.S. economic and military aid to Turkey as a threat to the area's balance of power to Greece's disadvantage.

Government officials confirmed Saturday that Greek objections were officially conveyed to the U.S. government.

"The economic aid considered to be given to Turkey to face its economic crisis is an issue which concerns Turkey and the countries which will help her," a government spokesman said. "But as far as the defense aid is concerned, Greece does not accept that it be altered in a way which would disturb the existing balance
