Pace Hiked In Voting Suit Here

THE PACE of the city's single-member district trial quickened considerably Monday as nine witnesses testified on behalf of the black and Mexican-American plaintiffs.

Testimony in the case will not resume again until 9 a.m. Wednesday in U.S. District Court when the final two witnesses for the plaintiffs - Dr. Charles Johnson of Texas A&M and attorney Warren Goss will take the stand

The class action suit seeks to have city council members elected from single member districts rather than from the city at large. The suit claims minorities do not have equal access to the political system because of past discrimination.

Sister Regina Foppe, director of the Catholic Church's Social Action Services. testified Monday city officials have done little to upgrade substandard housing in the Arnett-Benson and Guadalupe neighborhoods and did little to aid those left homeless by the May 11, 1970, tornado.

Rehabilitation Practices Hit When the city spent money in minority neighborhoods, she said, the money came from Washington, D.C., and was funneled through the city.

The only city funds spent rehabilitating tornado-stricken areas were bond monies used to build the Civic Center and the Canyon Lakes, she said.

Hospital District To Drop Subsidy For 'Charity Care'

By JEFFXOUTH Avalanche Journal Staff

IN A MOVE sure to ire its colleagues in the private sector, the Lubbock County Hospital District has decided to stop reimbursing local private hospitals for care they render to indigent patients.

Alarmed by the fiscal condition of its own Health Sciences Center Hospital (HSCH), the district's board of managers voted to eliminate the "charity care" subsidy Feb. 1.

The district now pays private hospitals for emergency services and related hospitalization for persons who qualify as indigent under the districts poverty guidelines. Beginning next month, that arrangement will be terminated.

Only indigents served at the year-old HSCH will have their bills paid by the district under the board's new policy. Private hospitals simply will have to absorb a financial loss when they give emergency-room care or other services to indi-gents, hospital district administrators

Turnaways Feared

Some board members were worried private hospitals may be prompted to turn indigent patients away from their emergency rooms and send them to the HSCH. A tragedy could result if a patient doesn't get emergency care in time, noted board member C. Wayne Smith.

But hospital district administrators said they doubt that will happen. According to federal rules and professional ethics, any hospital with an emergency room 'has an obligation to offer that (care) to anyone, regardless of ability to pay," said Gerald Bosworth, executive director of the district and the HSCH

Also Monday, the board voted to bill surrounding counties for services HSCH provides to their indigents, and to require patients who do not qualify for taxpaid care to put up a pre-admissions deposit for non-emergency services.

Furthermore, in what some board members initially thought inconsistent with the above cost-cutting measures, the governing panel liberalized the income criteria for determining indigency. The criteria had not been significantly changed for about 10 years, Bosworth

·He said that had the new "reasonable" income guidelines been in effect in 1978, 30 to 40 borderline cases would have qualified as indigent. (Last year, 1,900 patients applied for medical indigency assistance. Bosworth said. Of the 1,400 cases actually reviewed, only 162 were approved. Most were denied not because of income, but due to property ownership and other factors, district officials said.)

The hospital district ends up paying for virtually all borderfine poverty cases any-way, Bosworth said in recommending higher income criteria. If the cases aren't picked up as indigent, and the patients still can't pay, they go down as "bad

Cold Front Makes New Area Threat

ALTHOUGH slightly warmer temperatures are expected for the Lubbock vicinity this afternoon, a cold front should invade the South Plains by tonight bringing with it a 20 percent chance for snow and colder temperatures.

Forecasters expect temperatures to climb into the upper 50s today before the front pushes the mercury into the 20s tonight. Wednesday temperatures are expected to climb into the 40s.

Southwesterly winds blowing 10 to 15 mph Monday are expected to increase to 15 to 25 mph sometime today. Weather officials have posted wind warnings for area lakes because of the expected winds.

Temperatures Monday in the Hub City varied from a morning reading of 23, to an afternoon high of 46 as a surface-based low pressure trough lingered over northwestern Texas.

Jail, Traffic Signals Hit By Power Problem

A TRANSFORMER failure totally darkened the Lubbock County Jail for about two hours late Monday, disrupting telephone contact and prompting sheriff's deputies to call the police department for more flashlights.

Signal light synchronization for the downtown area also went haywire during the Lubbock Power and Light outage, the company's second in as many days.

While LP&L employees repaired the transformer, deputies sat in their cars in front of the jail to monitor and relay mes-

Along with flashlights from a municipal warehouse, the police department also dispatched several patrolmen to the jail to help out, Capt. Cliff Thomas of the sheriff's office said.

He said all the inmates were quiet and no major problems arose during the power outage, which affected only the jail.

For about an hour, incoming telephone calls were not answered by the dispatcher because the phone's lights did not flash to signal a call, he said.

However, that problem was corrected when the dispatcher checked the lines

frequently for calls

Thomas said jailers on all floors had flashlights available before the electricity failed at 8:50 p.m. and that all inmates had been fed by then and were settled for the night.

Stairways between floors also were open and ready for jailer use if they were needed, he added.

LP&L workers originally planned to hook up a portable generator to service the jail, which does not have its own backup unit.

However, Thomas said, that idea was abandoned when it became apparent it would take as long to install the generator - about two hours - as it would to repair the transformer.

Carroll McDonald, LP&L's director of utilities, said the jail was the only power customer on the line connected with the transformer.

Electricity to many of LP&L's customers in the north and northeast parts of the city was out for about 20 minutes Sunday night after an animal caused a breaker malfunction at a substation

Thousands of stranded travelers bedded down at area hotels for three night in rooms paid for by the airlines.

America Marks Birthday Of Martin Luther King

By The Associated Press Americans of all races observed the 50th anniversary of Martin Luther King Jr.'s birth with marches and memorials Monday. Numerous schools and workplaces around the nation were closed to mark the date, which President Carter wants declared a national holiday.

In Atlanta, where the civil rights leader was born on Jan. 15, 1929, thousands of marchers paraded to the state Capitol from Ebenezer Baptist Church, where King was co-pastor at the time of his assassination in 1968.

Some of the participants chanted "State holiday, state holiday," to protest failure by Georgia legislators to declare the day a state holiday. The lawmakers, as they have done for the last five years, routinely passed a resolution Monday praising King's memory, stood briefly in silent prayer and then moved on to other

Liquor Sales OKed For Taylor County

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - Taylor County officials certified Monday that the July 20 canvass of the controversial June 17 election for the sale of alcoholic beverages was the only valid and complete canvass.

The ruling by State District Judge J.H. Starley set the official vote tally at a 122vote margin in favor of the sale of alcoholic beverages, ending a long-fought battle between proponents and foes of the sale of liquor in Abilene. Judge Starley announced two weeks ago in a preliminary order that the issue to legalize the sale of liquor had passed and the ruling Monday was only to make the final vote count official.

A July 10 canvass showed the measure failing by 35 votes, with one box having been thrown out by Taylor County Commissioners over alleged voting irregularites. Pro-liquor forces challenged the ruling, however, and the final canvass included the disputed box majority with one voting box excluded by Taylor Counvented by bad weather from being in Glasgow on time to deliver the child. type of infertility their techniques could overcome, Steptoe replied:

"What we are aiming at at the present time is to treat women who have either had their tubes removed or who have had failures or previous operations to re-establish the functions of the tubes. That is the prime indication at the present time.

"But Dr. Edwards has succeeded in fertilizing eggs when the sperm count of the man has been low," Steptoe said. "It may be that this will become an indication, that for certain men who have failed to respond to other kinds of treatment, it may be possible to fertilize an egg with their low sperm count.'

The two would not reveal details of the next test-tube babies to be born through their techniques. The two are to disclose the clinical and medical details of their work for the first time at a specially called conference of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists in London on Jan. 26.

Desegregation Guidelines Set By School Boar

By JEFF SOUTH

Avalanche-Journal Staff The Lubbock Independent School District Monday sent out guidelines for students who are scheduled to change schools next week as the district's courtordered desegregation plan enters its second semester of implementation.

Under the plan, white elementary pupils being bused the first semester of the 1978-79 school year are slated to return to their neighborhood campuses. In turn, a different group of whites will be bused the second half of the year.

We've met twice with principals on this. Everything seems to be in good shape," said Dr. E.C. Leslie, the school system's assistant superintendent for ad-

School administrators are making minor adjustments in bus routes and faculty assignments and are using an elaborate record-keeping process to ensure that the right academic materials follow each child, Leslie said.

"We expect a very smooth start of the second semester," he added.

Friday is the last day of the first semester and also the end of the elementary schools third 6-week grading period, Leslie noted.

To facilitate the semester switchover, all of the city's elementary schools will dismiss students at 1 p.m. Friday, Leslie said. (This includes kindergarteners, he said. Half-day kindergarteners who attend 'afternoon sessions will start class Friday at 11:30 a.m. instead of the usual

Teachers will be using Friday afternoon to complete grade reports and academic checklists and pack up materials that will be sent with students changing schools. Leslie said.

second semester, he said. Unless they have requested otherwise, members of the group bused the first semester will report Monday morning for classes at their neighborhood schools; and the second-semester group will begin riding buses to non-neighborhood "sister schools."

Students scheduled to be bused the second half of the year already have been notified by their neighborhood princi-pals, Lestie said. Additional guidelines are being sent home with those children

The guidelines explain such-things as how the students were selected, what to do in case a child misses the bus, and when bus riders will be dismissed each afternoon from their sister schools.

At the elementary level, the court-ordered integration plan for the first semester involves mandatory daily busing of about 680 minority students and 1,050 whites. (Another 150 children, mostly whites, are bused voluntarily to the Iles magnet school.)

Under the plan, minorities remain in their crosstown sister schools for the full year. But whites are scheduled to switch at midterm.

Each predominantly white elementary school is sending one or two grades to a previously minority sister campus -Guadalupe, Mahon, Martin, Posey or Wheatley.

The first semester, students in the designated grades whose last names begin with the letters A through L were bused. The second semester, A-L students re-turn and the M-Z children are bused.

Also required to be bused the second semester are A-L students who moved to Lubbock after Oct. 31 and thus missed out on first-semester busing, Leslie said.

He added that 271 students currently being bused have opted to be bused the second semester as well, instead of re-turning to their neighborhood campuses. Leslie said the switchover of students will necessitate three faculty reassign-

A few bus routes also will be changed slightly. Students will continue to catch the bus at their neighborhood schools (except south of Loop 289, where there are three designated bus stops). And students will be dismissed from their sister schools 10 minutes early so that they arrive at their neighborhood schools shortly after the sequence dismissed time. Legic after the regular dismissal time. Leslie

If a student is required to be bused, parents may elect to send along that child's brothers or sisters, Leslie added.

Lestie said that if a first-semester but rider opts to be bused the second semester, that child may not arbitrarily change his or fier mind. Once the second semester begins, the student will have to secure an official transfer to return to his or he neighborhood school, Lestie said.

Lestie stressed that a semester of optional busing does not take the place of future mandatory busing that may be required by the desegregation plan.

Elementary students with receive their report cards for the third 6-week grading period at the schools they attend for the second semester. Report cards will be distributed Jan. 24, Leslie said.

The marathon case, now in its 12th week, will go to the jury Tuesday night, but it was uncertain precisely when deliberations would begin.

Davis, 45, who has been jailed since his arrest Aug. 20, is accused of plotting the contract murder of his Fort Worth divorce judge, Joe Eidson. Although Eidson was not harmed, the offense carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. Defense lawyer Mike Gibson argued thorities" and therefore legally not a coconspirator.

The judge did agree to provide the jury a definition of a "mistake of fact" which will say, in effect, that defendant's state of mind can negate criminal intent. That goes to the heart of the defense theory that Davis thought he was acting on orders from a purported FBI agent when he met with McCrory and discussed mass murder.

"The state disputes that Davis was operating under a mistaken fact, but we do not dispute that the defense is entitled to a charge on it," Gartner said.

He said if the jury is convinced Davis did indeed believe he was cooperating with the FBI, that he clearly would be innocent of the charges against him.

The state contends Davis ordered McCrory Aug. 18 to hire a "hit man" to kill Eidson and that two days later he handed him $25,000 in the belief the

We'll Get What We Ask For

DISTRICT ATTORNEY John Montford and his staff must set the tone for sentenchas said in effect that if Lubbock citizens want to discourage crime here, their part in the fight is to hand out suff sentences when they serve on criminal juries.

"What I feel is that a case must be presented in its entirety," the new prosecutor told the A-J's Bob Campbell, "and it's the prosecutor's responsibility to get the evidence before the jury which might warrant a stiff sentence

His policy on plea bargaining offers, Mont-ford added, will be based on "what sentences the juries are going to be handing out."

In other words, he can't very well drive a hard bargain with a defendant to get his plea of guilty-thus saving the time and expense of a trial-if juries are handing out light sentences to those who go to trial and are found guilty.

MONTFORD SAID he will not chide a juror or jury "or try to in any way influence their decision except in trial. He won't-but we will.

A lax public attitude toward criminals, as expressed through light sentences handed out by juries, undoubtedly fosters a community atmosphere in which robbery, rape, murder, burglary, aggravated assault and other crimes flourish.

AN EDITORIAL:

Teng Going Better With Folks

WHOEVER HOLDS that events not men whoever holds that events not men make history is not reckoning with the likes of Teng Hsiao-ping. Nominally only a deputy premier, the man who so vigorously is wielding the real power in Peking these days also is reshaping not only the history of his own country but that of the world.

The cascading detelopments that have marked China's emergence as an active participant in that world during the past year.

ticipant in that world during the past year have been largely his doing, so far as outside observers can determine.

Having taken China so far in such a short time, Teng looms over the world scene at the beginning of this new year like an aged Alexander ready for new conquests. Like the original, he has been a man in a hurry-and for his own very good reasons.

TENG IS 74. He has waited a long time to be in a position to put his pragmatism to work in taming a revolution for so long dominated by ideological wish fulfillment.

He may not have to wait too much longer to see huge, backward China firmly committed to remaking itself into the modern industrial state he foresees by the end of the century. Which raises a question for the rest of the world in trying to foresee its relationship with a China in such a dramatic state of transformation. Shall this, too, soon pass?

History is filled with examples of revolutions that have reversed themselves, often repeatedly. The Soviet Union, in its own lengthening experience with socialism in practice, repeatedly has turned to and withdrawn from the developed nations-from which flow so many technological benefits but also ideological contamination.

Teng, again so far as the outside world can determine, seems to be firmly in control of events for the present. And he clearly has touched a responsive chord in the Chinese

THE YOUNGER generation appears ready for realism and turned off by the radicalism it experienced in Mao's Cultural Revolution-all that sound and fury which ended up signifying nothing practical for China's generation of leadership, the ranks behind and below Teng. There must be opposition. There must be, otherwise, why continue the propaganda campaign against an already discredited Gang of Four

Obviously, somewhere there are still those in positions of some influence who resist Teng's changing of the revolutionary course. There may be, therefore, many surprises still to come out of changing China. But even in the end if Teng's influence should prove passing, it will nevertheless have been

Naderites, the Friends of Earth and others who want to slow development of nuclear power have resorted constantly to the courts and regulatory process to hinder licensure and construction of

In this pursuit, they have been greatly aided by a maze of contradictory laws and regulations, and an overlap of jurisdictions which permits the filing of parallel complaints, lodging the same complaint in different places, or a continuing sequence in which an issue laid to rest in one place is reincarnated in another.

IN A TYPICAL hassle over construction of a nuclear plant, an electric utility may have to deal with state public service, environmental or other agencies, the Federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Environmental Protection Agency, and various state and Federal courts.

Protests can be lodged with any of these entities-resulting in an order to suspend operations until the issue is resolved. This procedure can drag on for years, causing an enormous increase in construction costs.

It is estimated, for example, that construction of the proposed nuclear plant at Seabrook, N.H., has been delayed at least two years by regulatory intervention, at an added cost of $419 million in construction outlays, and many other millions in osses to the state economy.

THE AMERICAN Nuclear Energy Council estimates that regulatory constraints extend the period from contract award to completion of a nucleproject by almost three years on the average, an average increased cost of $200 million per

The positive items included specifications saying that, once a determination of need for additional energy has been made by the relevant state agency, it doesn't have to be made again; allowing the NRC to issue combined construction and operating permits, and limiting hearings to issues which have not been raised and settled in earlier

WHILE THESE and related aspects of the bill were pointed in the right direction, other features were not so pleasing.

For one thing, the legislation contained provision for tax-supported public intervention in the regulatory process, which would encourage the very delaying tactics the bill is supposed to over-

For another, it contained ambiguous language permitting the opening of the regulatory Pandora's Box on the pretext that some "significant new issue" had arisen-the device by which opponents have dragged things out interminably at Seabrook and elsewhere.

Supporters of nuclear power want a licensing and siting bill, but would like some of the negative features of last year's proposal eliminated.

THEY WANT THE tax-supported public intervention dropped, or at a minimum limited to issues which haven't previously been resolved.

They would like to see the NRC empowered to issue interim operating licenses when diversion-ary tactics are being pursued.

And they would like to override the power of state environmental agencies to impede development of the licensing process.

As the new Congress gets under way, the Carter regime, the nuclear industry and opponents of atic power are preparing to do battle on this subject yet again.

With a little luck, spring or early summer could see some action to break the regulatory logiam.

"I THINK SOME of these people that have committed crimes and those that are contemplating it might believe now that my campaign talks were not a bunch of political Coming events do cast their shadows before. therefore, no person of adult age at the end of World War II should have been surprised at President Carter's surrender to Red China and his double-cross of Taiwan, since our nation was a party to the double-cross of Chiang Kai-shek at the end of World War II, by giving Manchuria, a province of China, to Russia It will also be recalled that the arms taken from

That's because Mickey is a product of Disney World, a local government that actually works. The reason it works is that it's run by business experts who use computers to increase informa-revolution is going to be all about: computers. They may not exactly take over the world, but they're going to kill off ballot-box democracy (which is on its last legs, anyway) and replace it with a kind of supermarket system where local voters select how much government they want and what they're willing to pay for it.

THESE ARE the startling predictions of British journalist Norman Macrae, who is deputy editor of The Economist, London, maybe the most respected economic journal in the world. He has just written a three-part series on the future of American and western democracy that ought to be read by everybody and is going to make a lot of people angry. Especially politiciantype people. "The concentration of spending power in the hands of bureaucrats," he writes, "has been sanc-

Macrae doesn't think this kind of bungling bureaucracy is going to be curbed by electing politicians who promise to curb it. "They," he says, will never curb "them." Do monks dissolve their own monasteries?

HIS THEORY IS that most state services belong to the "information industry," which he defines as a situation where more than 50 percent of our wage dollars go to people engaged in passing information around and making guess-

"In the 21st century it is at last going to be seen that it is logical that the size of each local government unit be set flexibly by what local people, at each changing moment, want. And to let them choose as customers, not as voters, between as many variants of competitively tendered services

ALL KINDERGARTEN teachers should be men. Likewise first, second and third grade teachers. They should be the most highly paid teachers. The elite of the profession, as it were. So contends a California educator. Those first four years of school, he figures, mean the most to a youngster. Will you buy that?

DEAR HELOISE:

I hope this hint will save others a plumber's bill as it did me.

I had company coming for the weekend and my guest toilet was not flushing properly, maybe once out of every five

I was telling a close friend about my problem and asked her to recommend a good plumber in town.

She gave me the name of hers as she had had the same problem, so I asked her what the problem was.

She told me to check the bowl, under the rim, as there are tiny holes all around it. Lime deposits in these holes, cause the water flow to be diminished.

When I got home, I got a sharp object (such as a paring knife or metal fingernail file) and began poking it into the holes. I couldn't believe the stuff that broke loose. It looked like the sediment that attaches itself to a tea kettle.

After removing this lime, the stool flushed just like new. I also poured a cup of vinegar into the bowl and let it sit overnight to help dissolve any buildup I could not break loose.

I was so proud of myself and thankful to my friend for sharing this that I wanted to share it with others. - J.A.A.

Wow, I'm glad to have learned this, and so right you are!

I asked my plumber friend and he whole-heartedly agrees that this can cause a majority of commode problems. He said it's amazing how many people

Put a wide elastic band under the phone and up over the little buttons on the cradle.

This makes it handy for cleaning, but more important, if there are small children around (yours or visitors) that like to pick up the receiver and dial away to their heart's content (which can result in a long-distance call) you can rest more easily knowing the telephone is secure. —

Be sure to include your name so they will know who brought it, especially when someone else is receiving the food.

If the food has to be put in dishes, be sure to mark them clearly, and don't use your very best dishes. The nerves of the family and friends are jangled enough without trying to take special care of heirlooms. - Judy

ATLANTA (AP) - "Do-it-yourself" artificial insemination may someday be a common practice as the use of frozen semen becomes more widespread, a Dr. Armand Karow Jr. said frozen semen has several advantages over fresh semen. It can be kept readily available in a home freezer, and there are indications frozen sperm is safer than fresh because it scems to reduce birth defects and miscarriages, he said. DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you tell me if there are any ill effects from using the drug Ritalin? My daughter has been tested and found to be hyperactive. The doctor feels this medicine will help her, especially in school, but I would like to know a little bit more about it. - Mrs.

The generic (non-commercial) name for the medicine is methylphenidate hydrochloride. It is a stimulant that acts on the central nervous system, and has been used effectively in youngsters with MBD (minimal brain dysfunction). That may include hyperactivity involving short attention span, emotional swings, etc. It is considered safe for children over age six.

Any medicine that affects the central nervous system must be used cautiously and with careful monitoring. It can aggravate symptoms such as anxiety in some youngsters. The doctor will probably go over these matters with you if you" agree to the treatment

I have a report of a recent study involving effects of this drug used for hyperactive children, which I'm glad to pass on. The study was conducted among 53 hyperactive youngsters at the Learning Clinic of the Hospital for Sick Children in

The study indicated that 30 percent of those using it had adverse effects. One object of the study was to determine how soon long-term results from the drug could be predicted. Previously this took a long time. In the Canadian study it was found that results could be predicted the same day treatment began. The research was conducted by Dr. James Swanson of the Toronto facility.

Use of drugs in hyperactive children is effective over that long haul only when combined with psychological counseling and the cooperation of parents and teach

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can shingles occur on both sides of the body at once? I have heard this is dangerous, and that if it completely encircles the body, death can result. True? - B.P.

Shingles (herpes zoster) can occur on both sides, but it's rare. Shingles is almost always onesided. The herpes virus attacks a ganglion (nerve root and creeps along a particular nerve, eventually causing the blebs (blisters). No trush old tale about encirclement causing

L.E. asks how long a typical shingles attack lasts. There is no "typical" attack. The length of discomfort and the extent of it varies with individuals and with age. One study showed that an entire attack, from appearance of the blisters to the last lingering pain, may take about a month for people under 30, longer for those over 40. It may last as long as a year in half of those over 70. In some it has lasted several years with recurrences of nerve sensitivity (not new infections) during that time. There are cases on record where shingles has caused discomfort for as long as 35 years. For further reading the booklet, "Facts About Shingles" is available. Send 20 cents to cover printing and handling to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Ruble: How do you pronounce your name? I'm sure other people would like to know. - Mrs. M.R.

Pronounce it "Roo-bul."

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you explain for me why a diet for a person with low blood sugar should be the same as for a person with diabetes, which, as I understand, means too much blood sugar? -

The two problems are not the same al-though, granted, each emphasizes careful spacing of food. One reason sweets are not to be overdone by the person with low blood sugar is that the presence of sugar in the blood may prompt activity of the pancreas, which secretes a substance (insulin). Insulin is important for the metabolism (using up) of sugar. Thus a heavy sugar meal might prompt in-creased production of insulin and the burning of sugar excessively. For the person with a hypoglycemia problem this might cause a rebound low blood sugar level, producing symptoms. Hence a protein rich diet is recommended.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for the booklet, "Ear Noises - Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volame received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' ques-tions are incorporated in his column

North's second bid of three hearts paved the way. It left room for South to operate below the game level and South elected to bid four diamonds. This wasn't any attempt to show diamond as a suit. It merely showed the diamond ace and mild slam interest.

It also encouraged North to make a real slam effort. He did this by his five-diamond call to show second-round control and also to deny the ace of spades. It was also enough for South to go to six hearts.

The play is a cinch when you see the East-West cards. All lines work. Actually, South won the trump lead in his own hand, played three sounds of diamonds and decided to ruff the third one

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON-MICHAEL REED

NEW YORK - As the New Year begins, let's take a look at a few of the nota-ble soap opera achievements of the past

The "miracle" soap story of 1978 was the "rebirth" of ABC's 15-year-old serial, "General Hospital." A year ago this show was approaching cancellation. A new producer, Gloria Monty, and a new headwriter, Douglas Marland, infused a new visual glamor and vigorous storylines for the ailing warhorse. Today, "GH" often ranks number one in the daytime Nielsen

Despite the healthy symptoms, the prognosis isn't entirely positive. The cast includes a number of weak, awkward performers, especially Mary O'Brien as Heather Webber. And while cast newcomers receive a large share of storyline activity, the "old pros" who've been on the show for umpteen years are generally relegated to subsidiary inactivity. There has also been a marked and somewhat annoying storytelling tendency to focus on one storyline at a time and for an agonizing length to boot. That flaw, however, seems to be shifting in favor of more balanced, multi-storied activity in the last couple of months.

Another notable soap "recovery" oc-curred on "Edge of Night." In 1977 a glut of young newcomers replaced long-running characters. The emphasis was on romantic pap that didn't jell with the show's basic crime-mystery format. In the past six months, the younger cast members have improved noticeably, and headwriter Henry Slesar gratefully returned to his incomparable storytelling mixture of romance laced with intrigue and set amidst melodramatic action. Slesar also incorporated topical subjects to his plots, such as the Children of the Earth cult and April's psychic phenomena experiences.

For some reason, "Days of Our Lives" sank in the ratings at a time when the writing, at least to this viewer, seemed to sparkle with intelligence and well-rounded motivation. "The Doctors," too, hit the ratings pits, even though the writing of Linda Grover challenged the usual soap opera tendency of black and white stereotypes. But, again, there seemed to be too much and too prolonged a concentration on one story at a time. The casts of "Guiding Light" and "As the World Turns" proved in 1978 that they are among the most underrated in daytime television. When story material is weakly motivated as on "GL" or in a state of flux as on "The ATWTS" and the performers still manage to make the stories intersting and "hookable," the vitality of the actors can't be ignored. "Ryan's Hope," which sports the snapplest, wittlest dialogue on the tube, suffered from a severe case of massive cast turnovers and replacements. It was difficult to empathize with characters. difficult to empathize with characters

"Another World" experienced a similar problem with periodic east dismissals and newcomers who ended their run just as they were beginning to trot. The emphasis on the Perrini family, however, was, to this viewer, a refreshing addition to the show, as was the spotlight on the superb talents of Dorothy Lyman (Gwen Frame), Brian Murray (Dan Shearer), Jay Morran (Vince Frame), among others, and let's not overlook the sometimes neglected Beverly Penberthy (Pat Ran-

Green Thumb Boosts Patients' Feelings

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) - Developing a green thumb can boost self-esteem and provide a pleasant distraction for persons in pain, a Purdue University professor claims.

The school runs a two-year-old program designed to teach students to use plants to help handicapped, elderly and emotionally unstable persons. "The idea is to help these people get their minds off their own problems by having them think about plants," said Leslie Hafen, the instructor who developed the idea here. Working with plants can develop a tremendous sense of accomplishment,' said Donna McCullen, director of a retirement home here. "This gives them (elderly persons) a sense of responsibility. When something like a plant is dendent on you for whether it lives or dies, you get that feeling."

"American Express lacks the integrity, corporate morality and sensitivity to professional responsibility essential to McGraw-Hill publishing, broadcasting and credit-rating services relied upon by so many people," McGraw Hill Chairman and President Harold W. McGraw Jr. said in a letter to American Express'

'Any combination of American Express and McGraw-Hill would be illegal," McGraw told a press conference. McGraw said McGraw-Hill is not interested in being taken over by anyone and has not solicited or received any other takeover offers.

"I am so utterly opposed to takeovers of any company of any kind, when they are unwilling," he added. McGraw said American Express Chairman James D. Robinson III had approached him about a possible merger last spring. "Robinson gave me his absolute word and assurance that if we were not interested in pursuing the matter, no-thing further would be done," McGraw said, adding that he had turned away Robinson's approach.

He also charged Roger H. Morley, president of American Express and a director of McGraw-Hill until his resignation last with "misappropriating confidential information and conspiring with American Express, the members of the board of directors of American Express and others to acquire McGraw-Hill."

American Express had no immediate comment on any of the statements made by McGraw.

Last Tuesday, American Express, best known for its credit cards and travelers checks but also involved in a wide range of other financial services, said it would offer $34 a share for the 24.1 million shares of McGraw-Hill, whose more than 60 magazines include Business Week. American Express said it would make the offer in cash, but failing that would offer a package of cash and securities. The offer sent McGraw-Hill's stock up from $26 per share to $33.50 in four days. It did not trade Monday.

It did not trade Monday.

McGraw said the firm was considering a lawsuit against American Express, its directors, Morley and others involved "to recover the hundreds of millions of dollars of damages resulting from this wrongful conduct."

But Martin Lipton, a lawyer specializing in takeovers who was retained by McGraw-Hill to aid in the fight against American Express, would not specify when such a lawsuit would be filed. "We'll make that determination when we Asked about rumors that other members of the McGraw family might be willing to sell their holdings in the company at the right price, McGraw said, "There is no dissension in the McGraw family." The family owns about 20 percent of McGraw-Hill's stock.

McGraw would not speculate what would happen if American Express increased its offer.

McGraw listed two areas of objection to an American Express takeover:

He said such a takeover would jeopardize the independence of McGraw-Hill's 60-plus magazines — including Business Week — and other financial information week — and other financial information services, including Standard Poor's. "The posture of McGraw-Hill is and will be fighting for its independence," McGraw said. "I can't think of anything more important to the press."

Despite American Express' pledge for complete independence of McGraw-Hill-publications in the event of a takeover, McGraw said Business Week, for exam-ple, would be "hampered very much in terms of moving out to write certain types of stories." McGraw said a takeover of McGraw-Hill by American Express would be illegal because of possible antitrust law violations. He noted that several American Express directors also sit on boards of companies in competition with McGraw-Hill in some areas, including Time Inc., The New York Times Co., Dow Jones Co. and Xerox. Sections of the Clayton Antitrust Act prohibit such interlocking direc-

McGraw also blasted American Express' action in obtaining financing for its takeover bid from Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., "which, for more than 50 years, has been McGraw-Hill's principle bank. ... Any company that would use its financial power to cause a bank to violate its relationship with a client lacks the integrity and morality essential to the busi-ness of McGraw-Hill," McGraw said.

without his American Express card.

McGraw-Hill, publisher of Business Week and more than 60 other magazines, is the subject of an $300 million takeover bid by American Express Co. — a bid which McGraw and other directors of the company voted Monday to "categorically reject."

McGraw told a news conference he has one of the 8.6 million American Express credit cards, but he added that he recently acquired Visa and Master Charge cards, which are in competition with American Express.

Express — an apparent reference to Rob-inson, who is 42.

American Express has reportedly been looking for a company to take over for some time, seeking to strengthen its profit base at a time when competitors like Master Charge and Visa are making deep inroads into the credit card business and preparing to enter the travelers check business. Those fields have been American Express' profit centers for decades.

American Express considered takeover bids for Walt Disney Productions and Book-of-the-Month Club before centering on McGraw-Hill, which has been onsistently profitable in recent years, although many analysts believe that poor manage-ment has limited the company's profita-

Tech Accounting Procedures Questioned

By CANDY SAGON

Avalanche-Journal Staff A routine state audit of Texas Tech

University's accounting procedures turned up 17 unacceptable practices, but a university official says 90 percent of the problems were corrected even before the report was received.

A Nov. 3, 1978, letter from state auditor George McNiel to Texas Tech president Cecil Mackey listed 17 accounting practices the state felt should be changed. The letter was prepared in conjunction with the annual audit for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1977.

But Tech's chief financial officer Ken Thompson said Monday that new accounting procedures set up in the past year and a half put into effect "90 percent of the changes recommended by the auditor...even before we got the report."

Thompson said, are either ones the university disagrees with or does not have the money to implement. Among the irregularities detailed by the letter were: •Failure to record on the university's books a $76,750 parcel of land donated to the Texas Tech Foundation:

The rest of the recommendations,

•Sloppy time-keeping procedures which at least one Texas Tech employee took advantage of by claiming 136 hours of unreported sick leave;

•Inadequate efforts to collect travel advances or verify reimbursement requests-one employee submitted two separate vouchers for different trips covering the same time period; and •Poor inventory control which contributed to the disappearance of 79 pieces of equipment from the electrical engineering department in June 1977, half of which reappeared one year later.

Thompson said the parcel of land was a half-section in Brownfield given as a gift to the university but which did not show a fair market value on the Tech Foundation's books. He said the land was assessed a $76,750 valuation before the report was submitted.

Concerning the use of the university's computer facilities by private individuals, Thompson said the state auditor objected to members of the local business community and students with personal

•Questionable use of computer faciliresearch projects using the facilities on a procedure for keeping tabs on travel advcredit basis

Although Thompson said the amount of computer time billed to private individuals amounted to "less than $1,000," he said Tech will abide by the audit and discontinue the policy.

The administrator said Tech took exception to the state singling out the example of the employee who claimed the unreported sick leave, saying it was the only infraction among 5,000 Tech em-

He added however that "adjustments have been made" in the employee's case and that a new supervisory procedure instituted a year and a half ago, insures that all time-keeping procedures are doublechecked with supervisors.

The employee who submitted two separate vouchers for different trips covering the same time period also has re-paid the university, Thompson said, and a new nces was set up last September. The supposedly missing equipment in the electrical engineering department is really equipment which had been broken down for parts to fix other equipment, Thompson said. He said the state auditor recommended that Tech keep better track of such occurrences and not list the equipment as "missing" when it had been dismantled. Overall, Thompson called the audit pretty positive and helpful."

He said the state auditor also recommended that Tech establish an accounts receivable department in order to cen-tralize all collections, which Thompson said he would "do tomorrow morning" if the university had the money for it. "But that's the only organizational change they suggested the university consider," Thompson stressed. "I'm really pleased with the report - I think it's a pretty clean audit.'

Also, should I sell the certificate I received

A. Let's get the second question out of the way first. The certificate you received at the time you bought and the certificate you received as a result of the split both represent your share of ownership in that company, resulting from the one purchase you made.

at the time of the original purchase or the certificate I received as a result of the

Let's say you bought 100 shares of that stock. The two-for-one split made you the owner of 200 shares. Your total cost was $7,400 for the 100 shares you bought. Your cost remains $7,400 for the 200 shares you now own.

The two-for-one split cut each of your 100 shares into two shares - making you the owner of 200 shares. It also cut your cost of each share in half - to $37. So, if you sell 100 shares now, you can deliver either certificate. With a cost of $37 a share and a sale price of $22 a share. you would realize a loss of $15 a share -$1,500 on 100 shares.

Your unfortunate experience with that stock certainly proves that stock splits are not necessarily the road to riches many people seem to think they are.

Your question was also a relatively simple one. It is used here to explain that stock splits don't change total cost - only the cost per share.

Q. If I invest in a mutual fund, will my investment be insured, the same as bank deposits are? Is there any danger of loss through fraud? I once took a loss with an insurance stock due to fraud, even though the company was supposed to be under the surveillance of government agencies.

A. The quick answers to your two questions are: 1. No; 2. Yes. But I have to hedge the second answer, by adding that the possibility of loss through fraud is re-

The dollars you put into a mutual fund are not insured. They are invested. And every investment has some risk. It also has hopes of financial rewards.

That's the only reason you should invest - in hopes of greater financial rewards. If you don't want to take on the risks, you should keep your money in insured bank or savings and loan association accounts.

As for fraud, there's always that temptation - where large numbers of dollars are involved. But the mutual fund business - under the watchful eye of the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission has a remarkably clean record.

Q. I would like to start an individual retirement account (IRA) and put away $1.-500 a year toward my retirement by investing in individual stocks. The brokerage firm I deal with would charge me commissions. And I would also have to

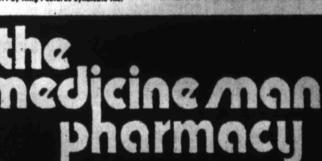

Is there any way I can set up an IRA to buy individual stocks, without having a A. Nope. The Employees Retirement Income Securities Act (ERISA) specifies there must be a trustee for every IRA. The trustee may be a bank, trust company, savings and loan association, a federally-insured credit union or "an individual approved by the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS has approved most mutual fund organizations as IRA trustees. Because you want to put your IRA money into the stock market and are interested in saving commissions, I suggest you investigate no-load mutual funds.

Tractors Carry Ag Complaints

By The Associated Press

Farmers from Texas and other parts of the Farm Belt set out Monday to take their complaints about the nation's agricultural policy - for the second year in a row - to the front steps of the Capitol and the White House.

Lines of tractors, motor homes and pickup trucks stretching almost five miles long left Abilene and Amarillo on an 1,800-mile trek to Washington, D.C., to protest for agricultural parity.

The "National Tractorcade 1979," including farmers from the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Florida and Georgia, will arrive in Washington Feb. 2, for the opening of the 96th

A spokesman for the American Agriculture Movement at its national headquarters in Hereford, Texas, said about 200 tractors and about 500 "support vehicles" were involved in the caravans that left Amarillo and Abilene about 9 a.m.

The Amarillo caravan is expected to reach Sayre, Okla., Monday night and hold a rally, the spokesman said. The entourage will continue to Oklahoma City Tuesday or Wednesday. The Abilene tractorcade is expected to reach Ranger, Texas, Monday evening, and continue on to Fort Worth Tuesday. The spokesman said the caravans will average about 100

The tractorcade of farmers and supporters carried AAM signs and slogans, Meeks said the farmers would be willing ranging from "Dump Carter" to "Not a Vacation, Just Desperation.

Organizers, who had hoped to double the 1,000 farmers and supporters who went to last year's protest to Washington, said the caravan was larger than last year's but they had no immediate head

The big difference between this year's protest and the last one, organizers said, will be the tractors on the streets of Washington

Gerald McCathern, a Hereford farmer whose outspoken criticism of the Carter farm policy gained national attention during the 1978 protest, led the tractorcade out of Amarillo. He said the movement would be successful only,"if we can get 1,000 tractors or more in Washing-

J.L. Cox of Littlefield, Texas, said the presence of the tractors would make the

"I don't think all the farmers walking around Washington (last year) will have the effect the tractors will," Cox said, calling last year's protest mainly a publicity effort. "At least we got to to inform the people in the big, urban areas like New York and Chicago and the consumer groups" about the problems.

Many of the organizers admitted that last year's experiences have lowered their expectations, though 100 percent parity for agricultural commodities is their stated goal. Spokesman Marvin

Cattle Futures Up In Erratic Trading

CHICAGO — Cattle futures ended up 20 to 45 points in erratic trade Monday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. New contract highs were posted in all months

Locals dominated activity, traders said, with support stemming from weather-shortened cattle arrivals and instances of sharply higher cash cattle. The fully steady tone to carcass beef overshadowed earlier trade concern over consumer resistance to higher retail levels. Volume was estimated at 18,900 cars.

There have been 123 deliveries thus far. Wholesale beef was unchanged at 941/2 to 951/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river points, which is the highest since June. Cash cattle were off 50 to up $4 with the best top $64 per hundredweight. Slaughter was 115,000 head. Receipts at the major markets today are expected to be 13,900

Feeder cattle futures closed up 20 to 75 with the nearby contract leading advances. The spot month posted a new season high for the second consecutive session.

Most prices gained all day with some strength stemming from the possibility of death loss because of continued bitter cold throughout the midwest. Both local and commission house buying was noted, offsetting scattered technical selling on the nearby contracts.

There have been 437 deliveries thus far. About 1,700 head are expected at the major markets today. Hog futures closed up 67 to off 55 with only distant

August at the loss.

Buying stemmed from sharply higher cash hogs on weather-shortened arrivals. The possibility of death loss from the cold also led to support, traders said.

Both local and commission house support was noted with a prominent firm a leading buyer.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up 1 cent at 78 to 86 1/4 B cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were up $1 to $1 with the best top $55.50 per hundredweight. Kill was 151,000 head. The major terminals are expect ing about 24,200 head today.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed off 162 to 97 near lows of the day. While earlier support was attracted on sharply higher cash hogs and firm tone to cash bellies, traders said, cautious local liquidation touched off commission house sell stops which led to the late declines. Selling surfaced on a nitrite story detailing the effects of a possible ban, traders said.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to up 1 at 59 to 65 cents a pound, f.o.b. river, which is the highest since

Reagan Meets Farm Bureau Members In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan carried his standard themes of less government and taxation to the nation's farmers Monday. The 6,000 farm folk attending the 60th annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation responded with enthusiasm.

'Today we are covered by tens of thousands of regulations," Reagan said during the three-million-member group's opening general session. "If we could eliminate unnecessary regulations, we could cut the rate of inflation by one-half.

Reagan told the generally conservative farmers that they were responsible for the United States having the highest standard of living in the world.

WHEAT 5,000 be Mar May Jul Sep Dec Mar

"We eat better for a lower percentage of our earnings than anyone on earth - and you are responsible for that," he said. But he said they were being threatened by their own federal government.

These are confusing and disturbing times for you members of an endangered species." Reagan said. "You can lose money just by hanging on to it.

"We're governed by permanent employees who have gathered power to a greater extent than elected officials," he saidd. "Tax policies ... are designed to transfer wealth from the most productive to the least productive. "Today government costs the average farmer more than food, clothing and power

Later, during a news conference, Reagan refused to say whether he will try again for the Republican presidential nomination after narrowly losing his 1976 bid.

"I have a decision to make a little later in 1979," he said. Earlier, Allan Grant, president of the federation, sharply lashed out at organized religion, unions, social security, welfare and federal regulations.

CHICAGO (AP) - Soybean futures rose sharply today on the Chicago Board of Trade as traders talked of possible drought damage to the Brazilian soybean

A NATIONAL COTTON COUNCIL ECONOMIST has predicted a reasonably good year for the U. S. cotton industry in 1979 despite negative developments Arlie Bowling, NCC director of economic and market research, presented his domestic and world outlook for cotton at the Beltwide Cotton Production-Mechanization Conference last week at Phoenix.

'Consumers are insisting on cotton," he said. The economist said indications are that cotton consumption will continue to increase throughout the world in the decade ahead as much as it has in the past 10 years, although possibly at a slightly slower rate.

TEXTILE IMPORTS ALSO ARE EXPECTED to continue to erode U.S. cotton sales, Bowling said. "Qur concern is that most, if not all, of the potential growth in U. S. cotton consumption will go to imported fabrics and products," he said. Bowling estimated the annual rate of cotton imports manufactured into textiles abroad and marketed in this country soared last year to a 3.4-million-bale equivalent, up 29 percent from 1977. Three fourths of the raw cotton in those imports was produced outside of the United States, he added.

Bowling stressed it is essential to the economic health of both growers and mills that textile imports should not be permitted to grow faster than the

NEW COTTON DUST REGULATIONS issued by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration are being fought in the courts, he pointed out. If these are permitted to stand, he said, they could require the installation of very expensive dust abatement equipment. The standards would add 17 to 24 cents a pound to the cost of producing cotton textiles, he calculated.

Bowling said if domestic mills reduce their cotton use to avoid the OSHA regulations, foreign manufacturers who have no comparable standards would have more opportunities to sell cotton products in the U.S. market.

COTTON PRODUCTION COSTS in 1979 will be higher than in 1978, Bowling said. Since 1967, increases in production costs have exceeded the rate of inflation by 20 percent, he said.

Fertilizer and chemical costs have been declining since 1975 but could increase slightly this year, he said. Energy costs, affected by the recent oil price increase by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, will rise this year, as will labor costs. Bowling said.

Although higher production costs for cotton farmers would seem a disincentive, cotton prices have remained relatively strong, he said, and cotton plantings are projected to increase significantly this year.

More important, he said, is the price of cotton in relation to competing crops before planting time. Barring an economic recession this year, he said, cotton markets should be relatively strong.

Bentsen Introduces Beef Quota Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, whose beef import bill was vetoed last year, reintroduced Monday a modified version of the same bill that increases presidential authority to raise import quotas. President Carter axed the legislation on Nov. 10 saying the bill curbed his power to increase imports when domestic supplies are inadequate.

"The president has said that he must have authority to increase imports to protect consumers...The counter-cyclical import formula in my bill is intended to do this, but he still wishes to retain his authority just in case," said Bentsen.

This year's version of the bill "will allow this," added Bentsen.

Shoddy Film Overwhelms Tomlin, Travolta

By WILLIAM D. KERNS

A-J Entertainment Editor By this time, it's already become old hat to say that "Moment By Moment," a disposable love story starring Lily Tomlin and John Travolta, is so boring it could have been more accurately titled "Hour By Hour." After all, Filmeter's Dick Kleiner and the San Antonio Light's Bob Polunsky - and I'm sure there have been countless others - already have turned that clever phrase. And the feeling is apparently pretty much universal. KMCC-TV critic Anna Chavez said the movie inspired her to stare at the theater's exit sign and, at the recent Saturday midnight screening which I attended, a group of six (about a third of the audience) walked out halfway

One good thing about seeing "Moment By Moment" late at night, though: It sure is easy to fall asleep afterwards.

Film Review

Nevertheless, where I disagree with the brunt of these critics is in my respect for the film's actors. Both Lily Tomlin and John Travolta are extremely talented thespians, and it's absolutely heartbreaking to watch them struggling with such inane material. But let's face it: The script was not what drew them to this picture. Not at all. Travolta gave his OK because it offered him an opportunity to conclude his three-picture agreement with producer Robert Stigwood. Now that his contractual obligations have been terminated, he can move on to bigger bucks and more intelligent possibilities like Paul Schrader's "American Gigolo" - and perhaps even the lead role in Francis Ford Coppola's "The Godfather, Part Three."

As for Miss Tomlin, she most likely decided to act in "Moment By Moment" because the picture was written and directed by her personal manager, Jane Wagner. In fact, her next assignment, a remake of the horror classic "The Incredible Shrinking Man" retitled (you guessed it) "The Incredible Shrinking Woman," is also currently being penned by Miss Wagner. After sitting through the present schlock, though, one can only hope Lily Tomlin does not allow her loyalties to interfere with her instincts, because it is Jane Wagner alone who dooms "Moment By Moment," through bad direction and even worse writing.

LOVE IN THE JACUZZI - Lily Tomlin and John Travolta caress in the jacuzzi at the former's beach house in this scene from "Moment By Moment." The contemporary love story was written and directed by Jane Wagner, and is currently playing at the South Plains Cinema.

Evidently, Miss Wagner thought it incredibly chic to switch the already cliched May-December romantic roles. Lily Tomlin is now the rich elder character, separated from her spouse and open to the idea of an uncompromising relationship. While sexy John Travolta, supposedly 20 years younger, is the homeless runaway who seeks loyalty, love and commitment and seriously states, "I've had it with cheap sex." It is the woman who plays seducer and it is the man's body which is exploited in this film, more reversals.

And it's not enough that the twosome's differences are shoved down our throats by filming Miss Tomlin shopping on Beverly Hills' posh Rodeo Drive, then later having her search the seedy Hollywood Boulevard to find Travolta. Nope, we even have to endure the added insulting symbolism of his and her puppies: the manicured poodle a reflection of the upper class, the brown mongrel a drifter like Travolta. Would you believe the two also build sandcastles, another love symbol and a hint that what they have might soon be washed away? Talk about old hat...

We're supposed to care about these two characters, but we rarely see Trisha (Lily Tomlin) and Strip (Travolta) do anything other than make love, fight, make up and make love some more. The dialogue is tawdry ("I don't even know what the word 'love' means anymore," says Trisha), and subplots are only hinted at (a mafioso named Santini drifts in and out of conversations). Trisha and Strip never strike us as being real or human; even their fights are low-key.

Thanks no doubt to Miss Wagner's direction, Lily Tomlin mutters her way through the film and Travolta swings his hips more than Suzanne Somers, Charley's Angels and the Hee Haw Honeys.

Mind you, Miss Tomlin, who was fantastic in Robert Benton's "The Late Show," still shows signs of breaking out: We are affected by her teary phone conversation with her husband, by her inability at one point to decide whether she is loving or using Strip. And Travolta, whose energy has been the saving grace in Stigwood's "Saturday Night Fever" and "Grease," can be charming as hell with his pout and swagger. But the words the two are forced to speak, the things they're forced to do. are so dumb that the audience can never bring itself to believe there is any sincerity involved. Conflicts, passion and tension are avoided.

What is not avoided is John Travolta's body. Jane Wagner's cameras strip Strip time and time again, to the point where it becomes hard to recall Travolta dressed in anything but his navy underwear. For those wondering why, Lily Tomlin said during an interview with critic Bob Polunsky that Travolta was asked to keep his shirt off because that's what his fans would like best. Well, la de da! What about the Travolta fans eager to see their hero express a character of depth? What about the movie-goers interested more in believable relationships and an interesting story than in seeing Travolta play Billy Beefcake and Miss Tomlin portray an iceberg turned

'Moment By Moment," in short, serves only as an indication that Jane Wagner has a lot to learn about both the movies and audiences in general. Maybe she was striving to make "An Unmarried Woman" West Coast style, or maybe she just thought it original to write a love story with the usual roles reversed. Either way, she loses. The film is as empty as its characters. It has no feeling, no movement, no

Like Trisha and Strip, it is a body without soul.

John Wayne Making Rapid Recovery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wayne is making such a fast recovery from stomach cancer surgery that he might leave the intensive care unit at UCLA Medical Center sooner than expected, doctors said Monday.

'Progress continues to be excellent' said hospital administrator Bernard Strohm in the daily statement on Wayne's condition. "It is our hope that Mr. Wayne will be moved out of the intensive care unit sooner than expected. His vital signs remain normal and he spent a restful night.

The 71-year-old film star originally was expected to remain in intensive care until late in the week, and to be hospitalized a

Suit Intended To Stop Stock Takeover Bid

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Justice Department filed an antitrust suit Monday against movie mogul Kirk Kerkorian seeking to stop him from becoming Columbia Pictures' largest shareholder.

Kerkorian, 61, already controls Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc. with a 47 percent ownership of the movie and casino company. His wholly owned Tracinda Investment Corp. purchased 5.5 percent of Columbia Pictures Industries Inc. last fall for about $9.7 million and recently announced a $43 million tender offer for another 20 percent.

The Justice Department suit filed in U.S. District Court here alleges that olate Section 7 of the Clayton Act by reducing competition in the production and distribution of motion pictures.

Barbara Reeves, the head of the department's anti-trust division in Los Angeles, said the Justice Department would seek a temporary restraining order seeking to halt Kerkorian's tender offer, which is due to expire Tuesday.

Kerkorian issued a statement criticizing the Justice Department action and contending the government had waited until the last minute to oppose the offer.

The Department of Justice told my attorneys on Friday that Tracinda's offer does not violate the government published antitrust guidelines," Kerkorian said. "The government has known about my proposed investment for two months. It is absolutely unbelievable that they would wait until literally the 11th hour and would then attempt to deprive Cotumbia's shareholders of the opportunity of receiving $24 for their stock just because the government doesn't like the idea of one man being a significant investor in two motion picture companies which are no longer substantial competi-

Stephen Silbert, an attorney representing Kerkorian, said the offer would not violate Justice Department antitrust guidelines because it does not constitute a merger of the two companies. He estimated MGM has about 2 percent of the feature film rental market and Columbia has about 7 percent.

The hearings are aimed at gathering testimony to guide the FTC in deciding whether to regulate the commercials. Among the recommendations under study is an outright ban on TV ads directed at children under 8. Delegations from the United States, Canada, countries in Western Europe, screen the disillusioned and frightened Vietnamese left behind when this country pulled out of the war-torn country nearly four years ago.

Some are accepted as immigrants, though, says Bradley, "they come ... much faster than the United States or any other nation is willing to accept them."

But the problem is more than one of simple logistics, Bradley says at the conclusion of his hour-long examination, 'CBS Reports: The Boat People," to be broadcast at 7 tonight on Channel 13 in Lubbock.

For us, the Vietnam war is over. And like it or not, we lost that war," the correspondent says. "But while there, we sold many of its people a way of life, an attitude. And now they are the losers. And we face a moral dilemma."

It is a problem that defies simple solution, but you get the clear picture of Bradley demanding a quick answer. And who's right?

It's a story told largely by the boat people, people convinced that America promises freedom and what's more, that America wants them.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Alex Haley, the author of "Roots," said Monday he agreed to settle a plagiarism suit against him rather then spend the next five or six years in court.

Last month, Haley reached an out-ofcourt settlement with Harold Courtlander, who alleged that passages from his novel "The African" appeared in

Published reports said the settlement was $500,000. Haley told an audience at a National Press Club luncheon that was "a figure someone plucked out of the air." He said there was an agreement by all the principals not to discuss the amount, and he will not do so. But he added. "That figure was made up by someone who was not there."

He said if the court proceedings had gone to a conclusion, it might have been necessary to bring witnesses from all over the country and abroad, and "I

Funds Used On Water Tank

As a result, CD funds were approved "for a "big water tank on Clovis Road" which was supposed to serve all sectors, but only serves "primarily south and southwest Lubbock," she testified.

Also, city council members approved using the federal grant funds for a park in southwest Lubbock, only to have the approval "turned back by Washington," she housing rehabilitation and code enforce-y. "There's definitely a void there," he said. "Many people in east Lubbock feel there's no need to be involved, there's no need to go into the elective process because it hasn't worked and won't work."

Those past examples of discrimination, Scott said, include inferior equipment for Dunbar High School, lower pay for the principal and coaches at the high school than at predominantly white high schools; restaurants which served only whites and Mackenzie State Park being closed to minorities.

Although he is able to communicate with city officials, Scott said others in east Lubbock "don't have that feeling."

Scott also testified he was asked by former Lubbock Mayor Roy Bass to compile a list of blacks who were potential city board members.

Plaintiffs' attorneys asked U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward to take "judicial notice" of a 1923 city ordinance, which may or may not have been signed

The ordinance set a $200 fine for any 'negroes or persons of African descent' from living outside the boundaries south of 16th Street and east of Avenue C and for anyone selling or renting property to such persons outside the boundaries. The ordinance says blacks were "residing in various portions of the city and their residence is dangerous to the health and pollutes the health and atmosphere.'

Other witnesses testified to the improbability Lubbock will ever elect a black or Mexican-American to the city council unless the city is drawn into single-member State Rep. Froy Salinas, unsuccessful city council candidate Maria Mercado and school board member Jose Ramirez testified that the low turnout in school board elections prior to 1976 made it easier for a minority candidate to be elected

However, since that time city and school elections have been held jointly, thus reducing the chances of minority candidates, they said.

Salinas, elected to the legislature in 1976 after the city was divided into two single-member districts, testified blacks and Mexican-Americans generally turn out in lower numbers when no minority candidate is running. Salinas said that in the 1976 election he benefited from a larger drop-off in voters in Anglo boxes between the primary and the runoff election and the increase in the turnout in some Mexican-American

He received about 95 percent of the Mexican-American vote in his district, Salinas said, and between 90 and 95 percent of the black vote in the runoff. District 75B, which encompasses East and North Lubbock, is comprised of 62 percent white voters, 25 percent Mexican-American and 13 percent black, Salinas said.

Salinas said he probably would have lost the election had a black candidate not been involved in a county commission race at the same time, thus crawing black voters to the poles.

Salinas said it is more difficult "to raise the kind of money to run at large" than is required to wage a city council or school board race.

Salinas said it is now harder for minority candidate to win a school board seat since city and school elections are combined, and said he thinks former school board member Joan Ervin "would have been re-elected if not exposed to the large number of votes."

I think she was not re-elected because she is black," Salinas said.

Maria Mercado, who was unsuccessful in her bid for a city council seat last year, said she would not run again because, "I'm just not going to win.

She said this "defeatist attitude" is pervasive among minority voters therefore they turn out in lower numbers at the

"They feel their vote doesn't count if the candidates they are voting for are not going to win," she said.

She also said a recent switch to punchcard voting in city council elections further discouraged minority voters. During the 1977 council election, Miss

Mercado said she appeared in north and east Lubbock with Councilman Alan Henry, who was running for mayor pro

However, when she sought Henry's support in Southwest Lubbock, she said the councilman told her "it would be political suicide to do so."

Miss Mercado, who now lives in Washington, D.C., testified she received the majority of her votes from blacks and Mexican-Americans. Travis Shelton, representing the city, noted Miss Mercado had received more contributions than her three opponents and that she had received more votes than one Anglo man in

Shelton also questioned her regarding her decision not to campaign extensively in predominantly white areas of Lub-

Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., said he is ready to introduce a resolution pledging U.S. military aid - except for troops - "on an emergency basis" if China invades Taiwan.

The first test of Carter's new China policy is likely to be the administration effort to win confirmation of an ambassador to Peking. As Congress was beginning its session, the president announced that he would nominate Leonard Woodcock, who has headed the U.S. liaison office in China, as ambassador.

Woodcock, in an interview from Peking last month, predicted that hearings to confirm an ambassador could become a "battleground" for conservative senators opposed to dropping full relations with

Course Instructs On Tax Breaks

The fact that you are over 65 may be an advantage when filing your federal income tax return this year. To qualify for a federal tax break, you need not be rich or poor; employer or employee; homeowner or renter. You just have to be 65 or over. There are several tax breaks for senior citizens, one of which concerns the requirement to file a return at all. Single persons over 65 whose income for 1978 was less than 3,700 are not even required to file. Married couples over 65 filing joint returns can earns up to $6,200 before they must file a

However, the only way to obtain a refund is by filing a return. If you have had any tax withheld from money you received in 1978, you should file for a refund.

There is an additional tax break for persons over 65. It involves an additional $750 exemption, in addition to the regular $750 personal exemption to which every taxpayer is entitled. Couples who are both 65 receive an automatic reduction to income of $3,000 through their personal exemption.

These and other question concerning your 1978 tax return will be answered in the Taxpayer Education program. This public service course, jointly-sponsored by the Lubbock Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants and the Internal Revenue Service will be offered Feb. 6 and

World Famous Diamond Sold To Unidentified Purchaser

"Premier Rose" diamond, described as the most expensive stone available anywhere, has been sold to a New York dealer who says it will probably end up in the hands of a private, anonymous buyer.

The sale of the 189-facet stone, thirdlargest pear-shaped diamond in the world, to Goldberg-Weiss Inc. of New York, was revealed Monday here and in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Saul Goldberg of Goldberg-Weiss said the stone would be put up for sale, and he speculated that it would be dealt to a private party, possibly a member of royalty. Such buyers usually demand anonymity.

The Goldberg-Weiss firm, which had been one of two main owners, bought out the second partner, the Mouw Diamond Cutting Works of South Africa. Terms were not announced but a South African newspaper said the price was $11.5 mil-

Since stones of this size and quality are rarely sold at public auction, that price tag, as well as the next one, might never be confirmed.

"I'm not unhappy about the selling price." said Sylvain Mouw of the cutting works, declining to give either the price or the new owner. He said those were conditions set when the .97-ounce stone was sold last month

But several hours later, the Goldberg-Weiss firm ended the speculation when Lily Goldberg, company secretary and The Associated Press to announce that the firm had bought all other shares in the stone.

Two other gems were included in the latest sale, both of which were part of the original "Premier Rose," which was 353.9 carats in the rough. From it also came the 31.48-carat "Little Rose" and the 2.11-carat "Baby Rose."

The Mouws and Goldbergs bought the uncut gem from De Beers Consolidated Mines Inc. for $5.17 million last May. Planning, cutting and faceting took six months and 60 practice runs on plastic re-

Mouw had told reporters last November that "Premier Rose" was the finest in the world because of the "the size, the quality of the stone, its color and the make, or cut." Harry Oppenheimer, head of the Anglo-American gold and diamond empire that includes De Beers, had called it "a Rembrandt.' The big stone was found in the Premier Mine, located near the South African capital of Pretoria. Rose is the name of Sylvain Mouw's mother.

Saul Goldberg, William's son, said there possibly were hundreds of stones of better quality, beauty and grace than the "Premier Rose," but he said the stone was the most expensive available today. "If you look in a diamond dictionary all of them say 'last whereabouts unknown. That's what's going to happen to this one

The Hill Junior College transfer made his presence felt early, scoring 27 and pulling down 15 in a 100-94 loss to Paul Quinn in his first game as a Chaparraf, and in 11 of the 12 games he's scored in double figures.

The Chaps will be trying to win their fifth game of the year (one more than they won all last season) tonight when they host Tarleton State at 7:30 here.

Gardner, who stands 6-4, is not considered tall by college basketball standards. He attributes a 37-inch sleeve and jumping rope for his development.

My high school team had drills where we worked a lot with jump-ropes and that really helped my timing," he said. "Timing is my main tactic. And I've got rather long arms. That and I'm a fairly

But, by the last half, all the misses on the home end of the floor were getting serious, and with each bucket on the other end, one could see the Owls picking up a bit of interest and confidence. Finally, at the end, they were shouting, telling jokes, slapping skin, and even enjoying the frantic exhortations from the Tech student sections.

A win on the road will do that for a team - especially a young one.

But now the Raiders, after swallowing that 62-56 defeat at home, find the path ahead not very inviting. And, after only ten days of the season, 1979 looks to be one of toughest Southwest Conference basketball races ever.

Why, we haven't even gotten down to the whites-of-their-eyes stage yet.

EVEN BEFORE A whistle had been tooted in response to a fowl, before a single technical had been called, before a dunk has been slammed. Abe Lemons threw out an observation which could be golden prophecy.

His Longhorns had been picked - solidly - as the favored team, but, Abe wasn't making wisecracks when he responded, "I still think the winner'll lose as many as four.'

And he stuck some ammunition in his debating rifle. "Two years ago, Arkansas won the championship, went through undefeated. Then last year, they were even better and lost two games.

Abe has one of those losses already, sustained at the hands of the Raiders who have bounced up and down the latter in a week. And now, their eventual spot on the post is hard to foresee.

In that win over Texas, the Raiders

Tech Begins Road Trip Raiders, SMU Collide Tonight

Executive Sports Editor
DALLAS — Texas Tech has beaten SMU eight straight times, heading into tonight's shooting fest in Moody Colise-

But, just as Gerald Myers — and SMU's Sonny Allen, — knows that, Myers also re-alizes that Rice hadn't beaten Tech in Lubbock in this decade.

Records can indicate trends, but the indicators which Myers studies more are such things as shooting percentages, size matchups, hot streaks, and talent. And, sizing up all these factors, Myers knows that the Raiders will find the SMU fieldhouse a mighty tough spot to pick a fight tonight at 7:30.

It's a crucial week as the Raiders face two straight road games at a time when they are tied for the lead in the South-west Conference. Fact that they're tied for the lead is due partially to the Mus-tangs, and their part in the latest Saturday Night Massacre.

"SMU really played well last Saturday (in nipping the nationally ranked Aggies 78-76 here)," Myers remarked Monday. And Allen, the Mustangs' mentor agreed: "It's the best one (game) we've had."

Thus, the two teams, outsiders for the championship when the nonconference shooting began seven a weeks ago, will match fast breaks and rebounds tonight, and a near-capacity crowd is expected to be on hand for it. When the Mustangs surprised the Aggies last Saturday, SMU recorded its largest crowd in history, 10,-

Tech comes in 3-1 in conference, having lost its first league game on Saturday to Rice 62-56, at the same time the Ponies were shooting down the Aggies. SMU is now 1-1 in the race, 6-6 for the year, nst Tech's 11-3.

"Rice is an improved team, no question," said Myers Monday. "We took quite a few bad shots, but it's a long conference race, and there will be lots of upsets — if last week is any indication. So, we just have to put that one out of our mind. You can't remember a win or a loss. You have to be positive. And that means getting ready for SMU.

"You can't tell how your team will respond (after the shocking loss to Rice). You just hope you can rebound from it,"

The Tech coach paid tribute to SMU; "The Aggies didn't play that poorly. SMU just played that well.

"They'll be hard to match up with," added Myers, "because of their size.

"They play Brad Branson, he's 6-10, and their center, Reggie Franklin, is 6-5.

"I cannot say that Chuck Fairbanks breached his contract or must coach the Patriots," explained the judge. "I'm not ruling that Chuck Fairbanks can't sign a contract. But at this time, Chuck Fairbanks and the defendants can't enter into a contract at Colorado."

Acting on a suit filed by Patriots owner William H. Sullivan, Mazzone effectively extended a temporary restraining order he issued Jan. 3, preventing the university from hiring Fairbanks to a contract worth about $150,000 per year in salary and fringe benefits.

The injunction extends that roadblock at least until a trial is held, although it drops Colorado football booster Robert Six from the list of defendants.

The university's lawyer, Earle Cooley of Boston, said Monday he anticipates a legal appeal of Mazzone's order.

The judge, taking nearly an hour to publicly read his findings and decision, declared: "I find there was intentional interference" in Fairbanks' Patriots contract by Colorado officials

LEVELLAND (Special)- The Corondo girls took a narrow 49-48 decision from Levelland Monday night to close out the nondistrict portion of play. Coronado led most of the way in post-up to 6 points in the final period. However, the Mustangs lost the ball on a turnover, and Levelland scored with four seconds remaining for the final margin.

D'Aune Hickman and Patty McFerren led the Mustangs in scoring with 8 points each, and Kathy Wyett and Tammi Scott added 7 each. Karen Kinnison poured in 21 points for Levelland, however, Tammy Paden had four free tosses and Miss McFerren two more in the waning seconds when the Mustangs were trying to hold off Levelland.

Rice, their performance was, several steps from that glowing description. But, what is of major signifance for Tech is that the loss came at home.

ONE OF THE sports axioms — especially in basketball — is that you gotta win 'em all at home, and split on the road. That would come out just as Lemons had said: 12-4 for the champion. And, off the Longhorns' start (although now tied with Tech at 3-1), they're on top in the league. Two of the Texas wins have come over toughies on the road, at Hous-ton and at Arkansas. The UT loss was in Tech, if it challenges for the title, must find some spot on the road to make up for the lost ground.

Houston, despite losing three in a row at home (to Texas, A&M and Arkansas), will be rough in its home den for the others, and one of those visitors will be

Arkansas, like the Raiders, must make up for a home loss, and the game at UH was partial relief. But that loss to UT makes Wednesday night's battle at A&M even more interesting. The Aggies will be smarting from that loss to SMU (in Dallas), at a time when they were being looked to as the top championship pros-

TEXAS, WITH THAT win at Fayetteville, has to be considered a full game up on the rest of the field now. The Aggies could be listed next, followed by SMU (1-1 but unbeaten at home), then the Raiders and Arkansas.

However, Baylor (2-2) has not lost at home, nor has Rice which stands 2-2. Just about out of it is Houston, but the Cougars could have more to do with the eventual outcome than anyone.

Gerald Myers Monday was taking an optimistic - but realistic - view of it all, following the shocking loss to Rice.

"We're capable of beating anybody," said, "but we're also capable of getting beat by anybody."

He stopped, then added, "I wish I hadn't said that." He could have said it for just about every team in the league.

The bruises could be numerous by the time the season is history.

South Plains College Teacher Imparts Bluegrass Knowledge

000 miles from Nashville, on the fat expanse of the West Texas plain, is the world's largest college-level country and bluegrass music program. It wasn't here four years ago, but neither was John Hartin Hartin, 36, was teaching guitar in Norfolk, Neb., in 1975, when he picked up a country music magazine and noticed an interesting item in the job listings.

The Wichita, Kan., native, who was edbraska, responded and landed the job in West Texas overseeing a Kentucky bluegrass and Nashville-sound music program. "I've enjoyed myself immensely," Harucated in Iowa and taught guitar in Ne-tin said recently, his voice betraying the pride he feels for the expanding program on the South Plains College campus. The 2,400-student school, located on the southern edge of this table-flat town, is just a hayride from country star Waylon Jennings' hometown at Littlefield, 24 miles away. And it's about the same distance from Lubbock, hometown of the late country-rock legend, Buddy Holly. About 40 students are enrolled in the two-year country and bluegrass sequences at the school, Hartin says. And that's about 20 more pickers than he expected at his point. But magazine ads have provoked inquiries about the program from throughout the United States. Canada and Europe. Hartin says, and he expects enrollment to reach 100 in a few years. The director, whose wife, Patty, runs the couple's downtown music store, says he derives personal satisfaction when an ex-student makes his mark in the professional bluegrass or country field. 'We have hopes for all of them, actually, that they'll get to pursue a career in entertainment or music that they really Toby Hise, a former South Plains Colege student and a promising country singer from Haskell, wrote Hartin recent-

"He sent me a copy (of a newspaper article about Hise) and said he thought his two-year training here put him five or six years ahead of where he would have been had he not had it," Hartin says.

Those two years at the college aren't necessarily easy ones, though. One Alabama bluegrass guitarist said she figured on coming to South Plains College just to "pick.

"But I had to learn to read music through the program, and that's hard,' she said.

Hartin agrees. "If you're going to have any success as an artist, you do have to be extremely talented and well-trained," Hartin says.

But "luck is a big factor for a lot of people." he admits. "Just so many are never recognized because they're not at the right place at the right time

The spring 1979 bulletin lists courses in country arranging, country-bluegrass composition and country-bluegrass music today. And Hartin says there's also music theory instruction, as well as individual instruction on banjo, bass guitar, dobro. double bass, fiddle, guitar, mandolin and pedal steel

For students hoping to obtain a bachelor's degree in music from a four-year school. Hartin says most of the countrybluegrass credits are transferable

The school has three full-time and two part-time instructors and its students perform to audiences once a month during a country-bluegrass jamboree.

We feel that getting a young performer on stage is important," Hartin says. They've got to get over fear of a crowd.

"But I've read that guys like Frank Sinatra still feel a little uptight when they go out. You need some nervousness. There's just a little more drive when you're nerv-

Landreth, a past president of the Slaton Rotary Club, and Mrs. Childers, who had taught in Slaton schools 29 years, both were given standing ovations by the sellout crowd gathered in the junior high school cafeteria.

Landreth and Mrs. Childers were cited for "their outstanding leadership and service to the community.

The Women's Division of the chamber selected V.F. "Bing" Bingham, principal of Stephen F. Austin Elementary School, as Boss of the Year. In nominating him for the honor, Bingham's employees described him as a boss "with the ability to communicate and reach out to them.'

In other presentations, Evelyn Dunlap was named Citizen of the Year, and the Slaton Museum Association was honored

Eager Cowboy Leaves Plays On Team Plane

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) -The defending champion Dallas Cowboys returned to Florida Monday night - a place where they have known nothing but heartbreak - for next Sunday's Super Bowl XIII clash with the Pittsburgh

The flight arrived 15 minutes behind schedule and one unidentified Cowboy was in such a hurry to get off the plane that he left his playbook behind. An alert pilot fetched the playbook and hustled it to the team bus just before the Cowboys motored to their Fort Lauderdale hotel.

After a red-carpet sendoff in Dallas in which a hardy band of about 300 fans braved a biting cold wind, the Cowboys arrived in 66-degree weather and were greeted by the Cooper City, Fla., cowboy

Each player received a sack of citrus

Linebacker Thomas Henderson, the Cowboys' controversial ambassador of the popoff, was asked if he thought the American Football Conference Steelers had any class.

They have class, but they dont have the depth," said Henderson, resplendent in Cowboy hat and boots.

Henderson stopped at the top of the steps to announce, "Hollywood is here!" Henderson fueled controversy two weeks ago when he said the Los Angeles Rams didn't have the class to go to the Super Bowl The Cowboys whipped the Rams 28-0 in the National Football Conference title game punctuated by Hen-interception. The Cowboy charter flight was more somber than the one a year ago to New Orleans for a game the Dallas players felt they were certain to win (against Denver). There was a lot of talk about Pittsburgh's ability to intimidate its oppo-

Dallas linebacker D.D. Lewis said. 'Pittsburgh doesn't have a weakness. They are tough - the best I've seen this year. But we beat them in the preseason and we know they are beatable.

'We know they'll try to come out and try to intimidate us, but they won't be playing the young Cowboy team they faced in the 1975 Super Bowl. Those players (Dallas team) have much more experience now."

The winner of the game become the first three-time Super Bowl winner. Cowboy strong safety Charlie Waters said. "This is a big motivating factor. We wanted to beat Los Angeles bad so we can be a part of history Cowboy president and general manager Tex Schramm said, "This is the biggest pressure game for the Cowboys since Super Bowl VI in 1971. There has been so much time of AFC supremacy. This talk of AFC supremacy puts an added burden on us as far as we are concerned. The Cowboys have lost two Super Bowl games in Miami. The superstitious Cowboy front office moved to another beachfront hotel after two losses at a nearby

Draft Brings Stars To Super Clubs

MIAMI (AP) - As the Dallas Cowboys, champions of the National Football Conference, and American Conference champion Pittsburgh Steelers arrived here Monday to begin preparations for Super Bowl XIII, both teams stood as loud testimony to the effectiveness of the National Football League draft. Of the 45 players on each team's roster, only three played for other NFL clubs. The remaining 42 either were drafted or signed as free agents without prior NFL experience.

Ironically, both place-kickers — Roy Gerela of the Steelers and Raphael Septien of the Cowboys — came from other clubs. Pittsburgh acquired Gerela from Houston in 1972 while Septien came to the Cowboys from Los Angeles before the start of the 1978 season.

Both teams also have backup tight ends who came from other clubs - Pittsburgh's Jim Mandich, who played with Miami's Super Bowl teams, and Jackie Smith of Dallas, lured out of retirement after a long career with St. Louis

The other imports are Dallas running back Preston Pearson, who played with a number of NFL clubs including the Steelers before catching on with the Cowboys in 1975, and Steelers defensive back Ray Oldham, who came over from

Obviously, both teams have enjoyed vastly successful drafts

Since Chuck Noll came to Pittsburgh as coach in 1969, the drafts have yielded a couple of starters every year.

In 1969, it was defensive tackle Joe Greene, defensive end L.C. Greenwood and offensive tackle Jon Kolb. In 1970, it was quarterback Terry Bradshaw and defensive back Mel Blount. The 1971 draft produced linebacker Jack Ham, guard Gerry Mullins, defensive end Dwight White, and defensive back Mike

In 1972 the draft supplied running back Franco Harris. Linebacker Loren Toews came out of the 1973 draft and 1974 produced Pittsburgh's two wide receivers, Lynn Swann and John Stallworth as well as linebacker Jack Lambert and center Mike Webster.

The Dallas draft, orchestrated by Gil Brandt, the Cowboys' vice president for personnel development, has been every bit as productive.

The 1975 draft is a good example. That year, Dallas came up with tackle Randy White, linebackers Thomas Henderson, Mike Hegman and Bob Breunig, guards Burton Lawless and Herbert Scott, tackle Pat Donovan, defensive back Randy Hughes and running back Scott Laidlaw.

In the next two drafts, the Cowboys added defensive back Aaron Kyle, wide receiver Butch Johnson, guard Tom Rafferty (all in 1976) and running back Tony Dorsett, wide receiver Tony Hill, backup quarterback Glenn Carano, center Jim Cooper, linebacker Guy Brown, and tackles Dave Stalls and Andy Fred-
