Davis Mistrial Decreed; Defendant Out On Bond

HOUSTON (UPI) — A district judge Monday declared a mistrial in the murder-for-hire case of millionaire Fort Worth industrialist T. Cullen Davis and within minutes freed on bond the defendant, who had been jailed since August.

Judge Wallace Moore ordered the mistrial after jurors, who had heard 11 weeks of testimony and deliberated 43 hours, insisted further deliberations could not resolve the impasse.

Ten minutes after declaring the mistrial, Moore freed Davis, 45, on $30,000 bond. Davis was acquitted in 1977 in Amarillo of capital murder in the shooting death of his stepdaughter, but remained under charges of one count of murder and two counts of assault to murder from that case.

Prosecutors pledged they would retry Davis as soon as possible, but there was no indication how soon that would be. Davis's attorney, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, has another trial awaiting but said he doubted that an impartial jury could be found, owing to the wide publicity given the most recent Davis trial. Another member of the defense team speculated it might be 1980 before Davis could be brought to trial again.

Moore was asked if he would preside over another trial.

"Hell, no," he said.

Davis was charged with soliciting the murder of his divorcee, Joe H. Eidson of Fort Worth, by paying an FBI informant $25,000 to arrange the slaying.

The last message the jury sent to Moore said: "It would serve no purpose to continue deliberations."

Shortly after receiving that message, Moore called the jurors into the courtroom and asked them individually if there were any hope of reaching a verdict.

Each juror responded: "Never."

Haynes said the mistrial was a victory for the system.

"I would have to say I'm highly emotional, but in that context, it is a deep emotion that springs from my love for the system...to the extent that Mr. Davis is in the system."

Davis said that he hoped to go on a skiing vacation to Aspen, Colo., with his girlfriend, Karen Master, soon but had made no plans beyond that.

In Fort Worth, his estranged wife, Priscilla, expressed disappointment at the trial's outcome but said she would patiently await the outcome of a retrial. "I know that every time there's a knock-down I get up faster and stronger," she said.

Jury members remained split from the first at 8 to 4 and Monday a spokesman for the panel said the group had agreed not to reveal for the present how the majority leaned in their voting.

Mary Carter, 47, a medical secretary and jury foreman, said the jurors would tell the attorneys and that the split might be made public after that. "I'm glad it is over and I just hate that it is going to have to be done over again," Mrs. Carter said.

Moore permitted prosecutors to offer conspiracy and solicitation counts to jurors for consideration, but instructed the panel members that they could convict on only one charge.

Testimony opened Nov. 6 and jurors listened to almost 100 witnesses — including Davis — and eight hours of closing arguments Tuesday before receiving the case.

Chief prosecutor Tolly Wilson accused the Davis defense team of trying to frustrate justice by dragging out the procedures.

"I think it was a deliberate attempt to

Iranian Military Leader Asks Troop Loyalty, Disavows Coup

TEHRAN (AP) — Iran's military chief, in an unprecedented radio appeal, called on his troops Monday to "overcome their sentiments" for Moslem religious leaders and defend the government left behind by the shah.

New political violence flared in the provinces. Armored troops in one western city broke up street battles between pro- and anti-shah gangs in which five persons were reported killed.

In another serious blow to the embattled government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, the head of the Regency Council that supposedly is acting in the shah's absence, Jalal Tehrani, resigned under pressure from anti-shah religious leader Ayatollah Khomeini.

Gen. Abbas Gharabaghi, military chief of staff, made his broadcast speech after telling reporters the 430,000-man armed forces stood firmly behind the "legal and constitutional" Bakhtiar government in the face of the challenge by Khomeini, long-exiled head of Iran's dominant Shiite Moslem sect.

Khomeini, who orchestrated the movement that drove Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi from Iran, plans to return to Iran Friday and vows to replace Bakhtiar and the U.S.-backed constitutional monarchy with an Islamic republic.

The army, many of whose top commanders remain loyal to the shah, may hold the key to whether Khomeini succeeds in toppling the Pahlavi dynasty. Tehran has been filled with rumors of a possible military coup to keep Khomeini from power.

"In this sensitive period of history, I would like to remind you that the unity, security and well-being of the people is in danger," Gharabaghi told the armed forces.

He said he was sure "that all of you will not hesitate in performing your duties." But he said "elements with bad intentions" were seeking to infiltrate the ranks of the military "and create difficulties."

He appealed to young enlisted soldiers, many of whom are believed to have deep respect for Khomeini, "to make the best use of the experience of their commanders."

"The servants of the imperial armed forces, with decisive will and patriotism, will overcome their sentiments and will endeavor more than before to support the legal government."

In his earlier news conference, the general again denied a coup was planned.

The violence in the western city of Rezaieh, near the Turkish border, left it looking "like a war-torn city," government radio reported.

It said troops used tanks to break up street barricades and disperse the fighting gangs of pro- and anti-shah Iranians.

Five persons were killed and 25 were wounded, and witnesses reported continuing gunfire in the city at dusk Monday, the radio said.

Other clashes involving royalist elements were reported across the country. The official Pars news agency said pro-shah gangs armed with long sticks at-

Carter Budget Gets Bipartisan Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's budget was challenged from opposite sides of American politics as it arrived on Capitol Hill Monday, bearing out presidential Budget Director James McIntyre's prediction, "Some people will be disappointed."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the budget contains "wasteful increases" for defense while putting the burden of holding down spending on the poor, the sick, the young, the unemployed and the cities.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., said it fails to provide tax cuts Republicans believe are necessary and doesn't cut spending enough.

In between were many statements of support for Carter's goal to reduce the federal deficit below $30 billion in 1980, but much dispute over how this should be done and whether it can in fact be accomplished.

"The fact is," Kennedy said, "that the administration's budget asks the poor, the black, the sick, the young, the cities and the unemployed to bear a disproportionate share of the billions of dollars of reductions in federal spending that are necessary if the target, which I support, of a budget deficit below $30 billion is to be reached."

project enthusiasts on Capitol Hill by backing away from the tough water policy he announced six months ago. They said the president had in effect given up before he faced a fight.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill said he disagreed with some items in the budget, particularly Social Security changes and cuts in summer jobs, but overall he supported Carter and would work to keep the final budget deficit below $30 billion.

Carter delivers his State of the Union address tonight, telling Congress and the nation that a policy of restraint must be followed to restore America's economic health.

The budget, which Carter spent much of Monday discussing with Democratic leaders, will be a central theme of the address before a joint session of Congress and a national broadcast audience at 8 p.m. CST, White House advisers said.

Carter also will stress that inflation cannot be conquered by the federal government alone. He again will call on business, labor and people in general to aid the economy by easing inflationary pressures.

An aide said the president will try to avoid excessive gloom but will be realistic about the problems ahead.

The budget message Carter sent Congress Monday was kind of a preview.

"This policy of restraint is not a casual one. It is an imperative if we are to overcome the threat of accelerating inflation," he said.

"Meeting the essential needs of the nation, while restraining growth in overall

Light Snow Likely For Area Behind Fast-Moving Front

By RHONA SCHWARTZ
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

A CHILLING cold front that pushed from the Panhandle into the South Plains shortly after midnight today is expected to bring some early morning snow accompanied by strong, gusty winds to the area.

By 9:35 p.m. Monday, a large area of light snow was falling over the western two-thirds of the Texas Panhandle north of a line stretching from near Happy to the New Mexico state line.

In addition, widely scattered light rain had developed in the northern portion of the South Plains, moving east at 20 mph.

Northerly winds gusting up to 30 mph are expected to kick up dust this morning as the front roars through the area toward central Texas. Forecasters expect the blustery winds to diminish about noon today.

A forecaster with the National Weather Service said the fast-moving front should make its way to the coastal area and the valley by tonight. No snow is expected south of Lubbock today, he said, as the front moves toward the east this evening.

This afternoon's high is expected to reach only to the upper 30s, with winds decreasing to 15 to 25 mph. The low tonight is expected to drop to the lower 20s.

Winds warnings will be in effect this afternoon for area lakes.

Motorists traveling through the Panhandle today are warned to beware of drifting snow creating hazardous driving conditions.

Intense winds, which gusted up to 75 mph Monday night in the mountain passes of far west Texas, are expected to buffet the area throughout the day, and residents are advised to monitor the latest weather broadcasts for the latest warnings.

As the front swept into the Amarillo area shortly before 7:30 p.m. Monday, the temperature dropped 10 degrees in 20 minutes. Berger police reported a mixture of rain and blowing snow about 7 p.m. as northerly winds gusted to 40 mph.

In Dalhart, temperatures dropped to 37 from 51 degrees in two hours as the front blew in.

Winds are expected to be very strong throughout the state today as the front moves down from the north. Temperatures are expected to drop sharply as the front passes, the weather service said.

Skies will be cloudy over most of the state this afternoon, and scattered showers are expected to spread from the west to the east.

Forecasters expect a slow warming trend to begin over southwest portions of the state Wednesday.

Citizens Lobby Flays School Board Secrecy

By JEFF SOUTH
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

LEGAL RECOURSE having failed, Common Cause of Texas showed up Monday night for a closed-door meeting of the Lubbock school board to vocally protest the board's secrecy in running the public's schools.

The statewide citizens lobby, unsuccessful in getting the courts to stop school trustees' "executive sessions," accused the board of "closing its doors to the citizens of Lubbock, in violation of the Texas Open Meetings Law."

"There is a law in Texas that says all meetings will be open," Mary Nell Mathis, who heads Texas's Common Cause chapter, told school trustees as they locked the doors of their assembly room in the Lubbock Independent School District administration building.

"True, Mrs. Mathis said, the law exempts from open meetings certain kinds of discussion, such as certain personnel or legal matters.

"But you have taken the client-attorney privilege and stretched it beyond all recognizable hope," she said. "I must fight you in the courts."

Replied board president Charles Waters: "I note your objection, we are meeting under the advice of counsel. We feel we must follow the advice of counsel."

Waters said the board needed the executive session to consult its attorney, Charles Cobb. School trustees must "secure his advise of several legal matters," Waters said.

"This is not a public meeting, it is our purpose tonight to hold a private session."

The board reportedly discussed recent citizens' requests to ban school sponsored prayer, change the Lubbock High attendance zone and authorized additional religious holidays.

None of the matters is in litigation. Legal action, however, has been threatened on the prayer issue, and school officials insist the attendance boundary matter could affect the district's desegregation case, now before the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Common Cause, which helped write the Texas Open Meetings Law, contends only discussion relating to trial strategy — that is, actual litigated matter — is

LP&L Finances Due Scrutiny By Panel

By PAULA TILKER
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

THE COMMITTEE charged with examining the future options of Lubbock Power and Light Monday placed the company's financial situation as the top priority to study.

The six committee members present also agreed to place other crucial issues in order of importance after the eight initial financial questions are resolved.

At its Feb. 6 meeting, the group said it plans to discuss the following specific questions:

- What is the cost per kilowatt hour for LP&L and for Southwestern Public Service Co., the municipally-owned company's competitor?
- What are the planned equipment replacement and/or expansion reserves for LP&L?
- Should the financial relationships between the city and LP&L be separated?
- Why doesn't LP&L furnish Lubbock taxpayers with an annual report?
- Should LP&L accumulate funded cash reserves for large equipment replacements or should it continue to rely on bond sales for capital improvements?

Spending For Defense 'Falling Like A Stone'

WASHINGTON—To hear the caterwauling against proposals to increase our spending for defense by three percent in fiscal 1980, you might suppose a military coup was under way.

The really enormous hikes in Federal spending have occurred in the civilian categories, especially in the supposedly neglected realm of social welfare.

Multipurpose Lubbock Women's Club Marks 'Mortgage Burning'

By FRANCES LOWE
Family News Editor

The familiar and beloved home of the Lubbock Women's Club at 2020 Broadway, where the women of Lubbock have met, relaxed, planned and celebrated for 30 years, is free of debt for the first time in its history.

Club members celebrated last week, with a formal mortgage burning, the occasion of the final payment on the club house. When the women of Lubbock saw the need for a central meeting place in 1949, a group of 13 women, representing the Parent-Teachers Association, the American Association of University Women and the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, set a meeting date for Jan. 17, 1945, to plan the task before them. Of the 13 women who attended that meeting, all but one are still living, although not all live in Lubbock, and were honored at the mortgage burning party at the club. The women were Mrs. William Dingus, Mrs. George Berry, Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. Fern Cone, Mrs. A.W. Young, Mrs. Margaret Turner Conner, Mrs. Arch Underwood, Miss Martye Poindexter, Mrs. Fay Westmoreland, Mrs. George Soash, Miss Ruth Ford, Mrs. W.L. Bradshaw and Mrs. Amos Howard.

During the years that followed, the women undertook various fund-raising activities for the new building, such as sponsoring a circus, selling homemade cakes and pies, selling toothbrushes, memorial plates, and a dessert and candy cookbook.

Other women joined the effort for a club house, among them Dorothy Lomax, Mrs. H.F. Godeke, Mrs. Clyde Elkins, Mrs. R.O. Bennett, Mrs. T.E. Buckner, Mrs. Alfred Crosby, Mrs. Retha Martin, Mrs. T.R. Prudeaux, Mrs. Robert Maxey, Mrs. Ethel Terrell Short, Mrs. Virgie

Lewis, Mrs. Vera Chapman, Judge Sarah Hughes, Mrs. Vivian Johnson Adams, Mrs. Percy Spencer, Mrs. L.L. Miller, Mrs. George Lemon, Mrs. Ben Brewer, Mrs. Hub Jones, Mrs. F.A. Kleinschmidt.

After raising $3,400, with $2,200 coming from participating clubs that needed a home, plus $500 from 5 individual life members and $700 from charter members, the women were able to purchase the building in 1949.

Over the years the original loan was added to and subtracted from, as the tea room was completed and furnished, the heating and air conditioning replaced, floors replaced and repaired and various other repairs and innovations tended to.

The club is now home for many local women's organizations as well as for the activities of the club itself. In the year 1977-78, food service was provided to 27,549 people, while 5,015 members attended the roundtables which are regularly scheduled at the club. Two hundred individual parties were also booked and given at the club, while participating clubs held 252 meetings in the building. Just in the time from September through the end of last year, 12,581 meals were served.

Community service is as vital a part of the goals of the club as is the social aspect and the opportunity for enrichment through participation in roundtables, workshops and programs.

The luncheon meeting at which the burning of the mortgage was celebrated had as hostesses Mrs. Doris Berry, Lou Carlson, Peggy Gage, Norma Hall, Jackie Piercy and Clara DeShan.

Clubs which meet regularly at the clubhouse are American Association of University Women, American Business Women's Association, Alpha Kappa Gamma, Altrusa, Achievement Rewards for College Scientists (ARCS), Business and Professional Women, Sorosis, CPA Auxiliary, Delta Kappa Gamma, Delta Theta Chi, Fifty-Niner Grandmothers, Heritage Study Club, Jolly Grandmothers, Junior Twentieth Century Club, Kappa Kappa Iota, Beta Sigma Phi, Lubbock Junior Garden Club, Lubbock Study Club, Lubbock Woman's Forum, Lubbock Toastmistress Club, Medical Auxiliary, Metropolitan Bridge Club, 1952 Study Club, Phi Sigma Alpha, Pierian Sorosis, Pilot Club of Lubbock, Shakespeare Club, Sunshine Study Club, Texas Nurses Association, Theatre Guild, Twentieth Century Club, Welcome Luncheon, Women in Communication, Women in Construction and Zonta International.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Thanks for all the good advice. I'm on a diet but, unfortunately, I love sweets.

I put my scales in the kitchen, very near the cabinets and refrigerator. Now every time I get the urge to bake a chocolate cake, blueberry pie, etc. (most of which I end up polishing off), I step on the scale, then I remember how hard I've worked to lose 30 pounds.

That really puts a quick stop to my baking. — Mary DePaul

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

I'm only 11 and have a great idea for all boys.

When your father asked you to help him bring in the wood for the fireplace or rake the leaves (of course you would much rather be playing football), just go right along with him.

After you start your chores, just keep asking him why he doesn't do this, that, or the other.

Pretty soon he gets tired of listening to you and suggests waiting to a later date to finish.

When that day comes around, make sure you are somewhere else. — Mike Closter

Mike, it sure sounds like you are pretty well experienced at this, or else have a very understanding dad. I'll bet there are dozens of places you just absolutely have to go about that time. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

As a mother with a baby who uses throw-away diapers, I found that a roll of masking tape (such as painters use), was a valuable addition to my nursery accessories.

Occasionally, I would pull those tabs too hard, and off they would come. Many a day was saved by a little bit of tape that secured a lot of diaper!

This trick ended my "broken diaper problem." I hope it helps someone else just as much. — Crit Charlton

Your little one is sure fortunate to have such a smart mother. You have to always think to keep ahead of the game! Right? — Heloise

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

South's five notrump showed that he held the fourth ace and invited North to bid seven. North declined that invitation because his spade suit had two holes in it.

South, who had placed the slam in notrump, won the diamond in his own hand, led his deuce of spades and studied for a long time before playing the ace from dummy. He continued with the king, smiled happily when West produced the queen and chalked up game, slam and rubber.

"You should have played dummy's nine at trick one," said North. "This way you lose if West holds four or five to the queen-ten."

"I don't think so," replied South. "The nine play costs me the contract if East holds the singleton or doubton ten."

They were both wrong. The jack play will produce five spade tricks 71 percent of the time. Except for cases where five tricks can't be produced, it loses only to queen or queen-small in the East hand. The nine play loses to singleton or doubton 10 and singleton queen and has a 70 percent chance of success.

The ace play is the worst. It only wins 69 percent of the time.

The jack play has another advantage. It gives declarer a 19 percent chance for an overtrick.

If you need six tricks in the suit the finesse of the queen is best. It gives you a 27 percent chance. If you need just five, play your ace and then lead toward the queen. This gives you an 83 percent chance to win against all combinations you can win against.

Jail Staff Suspensions Mulled

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock County Sheriff's officials this morning are slated to discuss possible suspensions of some jail personnel after a convicted armed robber apparently escaped unnoticed Friday from the county jail.

The escapee remained at large late Monday and jail administrator Gary McGrew and Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard say they will discuss possible suspensions because of the staff's "sloppy" handling of the matter.

"There's no sweet way to put it," McGrew said. "We just got sloppy in our count of (prisoners) procedures."

Authorities late Monday were looking for Danny Burtis Eoff, 24, of Midland, who was not discovered missing until 1:30 a.m. Monday. Eoff was convicted and sentenced to 15 years in prison for the April 2, 1978, armed robbery of a Lubbock restaurant.

Blanchard said Monday afternoon that he would "get together" with McGrew this morning to talk about possible suspensions in the matter.

McGrew said that as of Monday morning, no guards had been placed on suspension in connection with the break-out.

McGrew said Eoff apparently slipped past jailers between noon and 1 p.m. Friday when inmates were sent down from the fourth floor for a recreational period in an adjoining annex.

The administrator, who was visibly upset by the escape and the staff's long delay in discovering it, said Eoff apparently got into the basement and hid while prisoners were being led between the cell block and the annex, before or after the recreational workout.

The prisoner, who was scheduled to be moved this week to the state prison in Huntsville, apparently climbed up a plumbing access corridor to the ground floor.

"Then he lifted the plumbing cover up and went over a fence," McGrew said.

He said jailers were "counting forms, not people" during their routine check on prisoners. Deputies found that Eoff had wadded up several blankets beneath the cover to make it appear his bunk was occupied.

It was deputy Jimmy Richardson who discovered the escape Monday. "He counted a little more thoroughly," McGrew said, adding, "There's no kind way of putting it; it was complacency on our part."

The sheriff's department was getting conflicting statements from Eoff's fellow inmates. Some of the prisoners had told McGrew that Eoff made his escape Thursday night.

But McGrew said Eoff was pulled from his cell block Thursday night to take a phone call, and then placed back in the cell. The only possible time the prisoner could have dropped out of sight was during the recreational period, he said.

Some of the other 48 prisoners on the fourth floor appeared to be "covering up" for the escape, McGrew said.

Authorities said Eoff may have headed for the Midland area, judging from phone calls made by the prisoner.

Eoff was convicted Dec. 12 of the April 2, 1978, armed robbery of Smuggler's Inn restaurant at 1919 50th St.

In that holdup, a masked gunman entered the restaurant and made off with $999. The robber reportedly confronted an employee leaving the building and ordered him back inside the business.

The gunman led her into the dining area, where several employees were gathering after work, and ordered them into a cold-storage vault.

The bandit had the assistant manager lead him to the bar, where seven more employees were ordered to lie face down on the floor while he and the assistant manager went into the office and emptied the safe.

After taking the money, the robber ordered employees into the vault, which he then locked.

The bandit then fled the back of the restaurant, but was soon confronted by two sheriff's deputies and placed under arrest.

Autos Reported Stolen In Separate Thefts

Police late Monday were following up on numerous burglary reports, including the thefts of a pickup truck and a Lincoln Continental from two city parking lots.

John J. Beson III, 22, of Levelland told officers that someone stole his 1977 pickup truck, valued at $5,000, from a hotel parking lot at 505 Ave. Q sometime between 10:30 p.m. Sunday and 9:30 a.m. Monday.

In another reported theft of a motor vehicle, Catherine Elaine Pierson said that her 1974 Lincoln Continental, valued at $4,000, was stolen from a parking lot at 5101 Ave. Q sometime between 4 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Monday.

Velma Kennedy, 70, of Bledsoe lost $95 when a man grabbed her purse from her shoulder while she was walking in a shopping center in the 2500-block of Fourth Street Monday morning.

Mrs. Kennedy described the suspect as Mexican-American, 18 to 25, tall, of medium build and wearing a dark brown shirt and dark pants.

In other thefts and break-ins, Charles Hanley of 2117 14th St. said burglars made off with $1,900 worth of his property, including a portable color TV, stereo system and small electric appliances, sometime between 3:30 p.m. Friday and 3:30 a.m. Monday.

Thieves removed $1,397 of tools from a house under construction at 7903 Vinton Ave. sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 8:30 a.m. Monday, Jerry Vinson reported.

Richard H. Maszka of 4613 28th St. told officers that someone took a CB radio, tool box and calculator from his pickup truck sometime between 7 p.m. Saturday and 7:15 a.m. Monday.

After prying an overhead door, burglars took $270 from a desk in a service station at 1415 University Ave. sometime between 10 p.m. Sunday and 7:10 a.m. Monday, Jerry Holbert reported.

Buddy Gibson, owner of a business at 1334 E. 19th St., said someone removed a pistol and shotgun from the establishment sometime between 11 a.m. Saturday and 7:45 a.m. Monday.

Edgar Payne, principal at O.L. Slaton

Junior High, told officers that vandals shattered 30 windows at the school and took an alto saxophone and a flute from the school's band room sometime Sunday or early Monday.

In assault activity, a Lubbock man wound up with several nasty lumps on his head as the result of giving a ride to two youths early Monday.

Barme Gonzales Mosqueda, 23, of 807 Vanda Ave. was treated and released from West Texas Hospital about 3:30 a.m. Monday after he was assaulted by truck sometime between 7 p.m. Saturday and 7:15 a.m. Monday.

After prying an overhead door, burglars took $270 from a desk in a service station at 1415 University Ave. sometime between 10 p.m. Sunday and 7:10 a.m. Monday, Jerry Holbert reported.

Buddy Gibson, owner of a business at 1334 E. 19th St., said someone removed a pistol and shotgun from the establishment sometime between 11 a.m. Saturday and 7:45 a.m. Monday.

the back of the head with a flying bottle at a Sunday night rock concert at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Cheryl Woods of 5212-D 18th St. told police she was sitting with her boyfriend when the flying object hit her, causing a cut. The girl was treated and released from the hospital.

A 22-year-old Lubbock housewife told police a man tried to rape her about 6:20 p.m. Sunday, but was scared off when her child appeared on the scene.

The woman said the suspect, described as a tall, thin young white man with black hair, came to her door and said he had a message from her husband.

The victim said that when she cracked open the door, the man forced his way in, hit her in the face and knocked her to the floor. She said her attacker pulled out a knife, grabbed her blouse and ripped her pants.

However, the would-be rapist ran out of the residence when the woman's small child walked into the room, reports indicate.

Murder Claimed In Polygamist's Death

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — More than 300 mourners gathered at funeral services for polygamist John Singer Monday morning and heard his brother declare that Singer was assassinated.

"Twelve days after his birthday, he was felled by an assassin's bullet. My brother, in my opinion, was murdered," said Harald Singer of Logan.

In a long funeral oration, Singer told the crowd he at one time pleaded with Gov. Scott Matheson and Larry Lunnen, state public safety director, to leave his brother alone.

Singer, who defied state authorities by refusing to send his children to public schools, died of a shotgun wound Thursday after he pulled a loaded gun on 10 officers attempting to arrest him outside his farm at Marion, Utah.

Singer's two wives and several of his children attended the funeral services. Pallbearers were Singer's nephews.

One wife, Shirley, sobbed into a handkerchief. Singer's first wife, Vicki, appeared calm.

Harald Singer said he warned state officials his brother would become a martyr if not left alone.

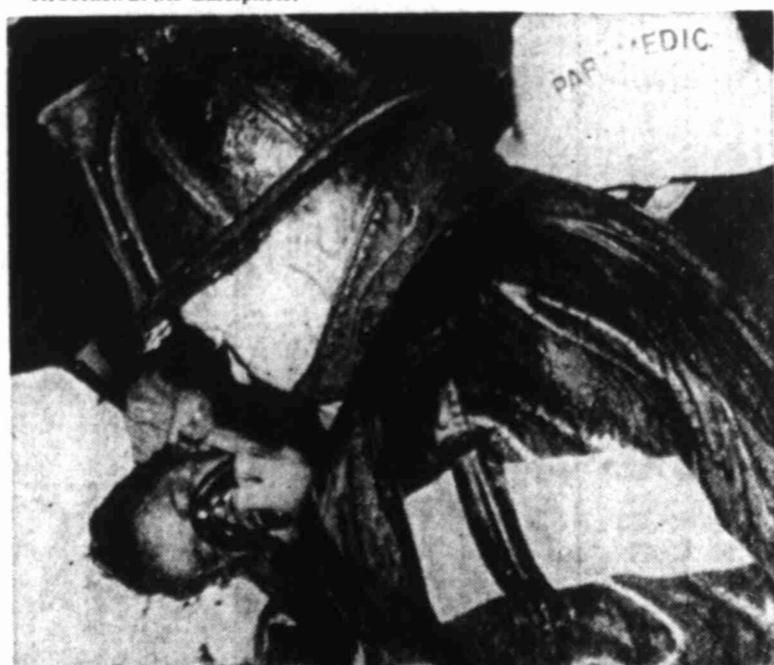

Singer said his brother told him repeatedly he would never fire the first shot in any confrontation with police.

"He didn't intend to kill anyone. He didn't intend to shoot anyone," Singer said.

Burial for Singer, 48, was to follow in Summit County where he had lived nearly 30 years.

SCENES FROM FIRE — A distraught woman in the top photo, screaming "My sister, my sister!" is restrained by her husband at the scene of the fire early Monday in Jersey City, N.J. Seven persons died in the tenement fire, including the small victim in the photo below, who is given oxygen by a fireman and paramedic in a vain effort to revive the child. The woman above was identified only as the sister of Maria Gonzales, who died in the fire with her five children. Authorities, who believe the fire was set, said it brought to 40 the number of persons killed in fires thought to have been deliberately set in northern New Jersey cities in the past six weeks. Accident Investigation Finished Final investigation into a late-night traffic accident Friday on W. Fourth Street has been completed by the Department of Public Safety.

The report says that one man injured in the mishap was traveling east in the east-bound lane when his vehicle was in head-on collision with another truck traveling west in the same lane.

Daniel Martinez, 30, of Lubbock was treated at Methodist Hospital and released. Robert Lee Carl, 68, of Wolforth, who was the driver of the truck traveling west, was dead at the scene of the 10:25 p.m. accident.

Services for Carl will be at 2 p.m. today in Jamison and Son Funeral Chapel with the Rev. C.L. Harris officiating.

Burial will be in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Jamison and Son Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife, Helen; a daughter, Elizabeth of Carlisle; and five grandchildren.

Women To Work On N. Y. Docks

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dockperson" and "longshorewoman" were added to the vocabulary of the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor Monday as women registered for the first time for work on this city's piers.

But whether onlookers were witnessing the wave of the future was uncertain. Only six-month temporary longshore credentials were to be issued, with future action tied to legislation and employer needs.

The 100 women registered were among 800 persons who already had filed applications with the commission, which supervises waterfront hiring halls at the New York and New Jersey docks.

The applicants, including about 100 women, are to be assigned to fill vacancies in specific longshore gangs and will start work Feb. 5 if their gangs are called.

"I want to support my family," Mary Balfi, 38, told a reporter who wondered why a 5-foot-6 woman weighing only 120 pounds would apply for such a physically demanding job.

A divorcee living in Elmhurst, Queens, she said she had three teen-age children to support and was physically strong from "carrying a lot of kids and a lot of groceries and climbing a lot of stairs."

She said she was not dismayed at the idea of heaving 40-pound cartons of bananas or helping to move 130-pound sacks of coffee beans 60 feet down in a cargo hold.

Heavy Snow, High Wind Whip Across Midwest

By United Press International
Snow whipped by bitter winds raked the Northern Plains in near blizzard proportions Monday, dropping visibilities to near zero in the Dakotas and turning travel into a nightmare.

Four inches of new snow blanketed Lander, Wyo., while 2 inches swirled in 30 to 40 mph winds over much of the Dakotas and Nebraska, drifting across roads and highways.

Numerous traffic accidents were reported — one involving seven semi-trailer trucks, four cars and a state patrol vehicle on Interstate 90 east of Rapid City, S.D. No fatalities were reported.

"The roads are just plain bad — you can't see anything," said Mike Nitz of the highway patrol at Rapid City.

Forecasters said another potential blockbuster storm system festered southward in the Rockies and prepared to move east.

In the Northeast, residents sloshed to work in muck spewed by a weekend snow and ice storm that flooded roads and bridges, crippled commuter rail lines and forced home evacuations.

The New England storm was blamed for at least a dozen deaths and one person was reported missing.

The storm, which frittered away to sea by the early morning, forced the closing of dozens of schools in upstate New York. Westchester County commuters into New York City had to grapple with flooded parkways and a myriad of delays on Conrail trains.

Numerous arteries into Manhattan and several city streets were submerged and impassable.

Officials at the Westchester County Airport measured more than 4 inches of rain, which a spokesman said would have meant as much as 40 inches of snow had the temperature been colder.

Police and rescue officials evacuated dozens of families in low-lying areas of Long Island and New Jersey but most were able to return to their homes.

Only one storm-related death was reported on a New York expressway but at least 11 died in storm-ravaged New England, where floodwaters 12 feet deep poured through downtown Stratford, Conn.

The developing storm system in the Rockies headed into the upper Missouri Valley and was expected to move into the Plains and Mississippi Valley. Winter storm watches were posted for parts of Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles.

Four inches of snow blanketed Salt Lake City and a rash of minor accidents were reported.

Airlift operations resumed to provide food, fuel and medical supplies to thousands of Navajo Indians stranded on their New Mexico reservation by high water and mud. But snow flurries began at daybreak as helicopters cranked up their rotors.

Schools opened for the first time in a week in Chicago and commuter rail service inched back to normal. But — as usual — the forecast called for another 4 inches by today to layer the 30 inches of snow already on the ground.

High Court To Rule On Use Of Laetrile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, stepping into a medical and legal storm of controversy, said Monday it will decide whether the federal government may ban Laetrile.

The justices voted to study lower court rulings that have permitted the substance's use by terminally ill cancer victims.

The controversy swirling around Laetrile, a derivative of apricot pits, is a highly emotional one because of modern medicine's failure thus far to conquer cancer.

The justices' eventual decision may hinge on the privacy rights of cancer victims — whether the government may limit the treatments available to persons suffering from a disease for which there is no known cure.

Government lawyers say the Laetrile ban is necessary to protect cancer victims because the substance has not been found to be safe or effective.

Opponents of the substance also have argued that allowing Laetrile treatments could keep cancer patients from seeking more traditional therapies that have been proven effective in at least slowing the spread of the disease.

In a busy day before beginning a month-long recess, the court also acted in a series of cases involving women's rights. The justices:

- Ruled, in a 7-2 vote, that divorced women are not entitled to a share of their ex-husband's railroad pension. A federal law covering railroad pensions takes precedence over state community property laws.
- Ordered, in effect, five Texas abortion clinics to surrender patients' identities and records in a medical malpractice case. The court turned away arguments that women who undergo abortions have a constitutional right to keep that information confidential.
- Agreed to judge the validity of a Social Security law that denies mother's benefits to women, otherwise eligible, who were not married to the deceased wage earner.
- The Laetrile controversy peaked in July 1977 when the federal Food and Drug Administration banned all interstate shipments and sales of the substance.
- The agency said the ban was required by laws prohibiting introduction of any new drug before it is found to be safe and effective.
- The agency concluded that there is "an absence of scientifically sound data upon which experts ... could base an opinion that Laetrile is safe for use in man."
- Although the FDA has banned Laetrile from interstate transportation, 15 states have legalized the substance for use within their boundaries. They are Alaska, Indiana, Florida, Kansas, Arizona, Nevada, Texas, Washington, Louisiana, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Delaware, New Jersey, Oregon and Illinois.
- There remains some dispute over whether Laetrile is, in fact, a drug. The FDA and two federal courts have identified it as such, but some call it a vitamin.
- A federal trial judge in Oklahoma ruled in December 1977 that the FDA ban of Laetrile violated the constitutional rights of privacy.
- "Special problems — medical, legal and philosophical — arise when applying the 'generally recognized as safe and effective' standards ... to drugs employed in the treatment of cancer," Judge Luther Bohannon ruled.
- The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, without reaching the privacy issue, upheld Bohannon's ruling. The appeals court said the FDA misinterpreted the standards as applied to "persons who are fatally stricken with a disease for which there is no known cure."
- In seeking Supreme Court review, government lawyers argued that the appeals court ruling "seriously limits the FDA's power to protect the public from unsafe and ineffective drugs."

In other matters Monday, the court:

- Said, in effect, that Florida may require all elected officials and candidates to publicly disclose details of their finances.
- Refused to disturb Sunday closing laws in New Jersey and Texas.
- Refused to free San Francisco from a legal obligation to conduct multilingual elections to accommodate voters whose only language is Chinese or Spanish.

Mistrial For Davis; Defendant Granted Freedom On Bond

stretch it out and see if something wouldn't happen, possibly a juror would get sick or something happen in his family, so we could not continue in this case," Wilson said.

The pining, passive defendant, jailed without bond since Aug. 20 and more than 600 days since August 1976 without a conviction, told the Houston jury the entire episode leading to his arrest had been a misunderstanding in which he was victimized — his attorneys argued framed — by employee and long-time acquaintance, David McCrory.

Jurors were asked to choose between McCrory's claim that his boss pressured him to arrange the slayings of 15 enemies in a scheme of paranoia and revenge, or the defendant's explanation he was just "playing along" with the FBI in the taped conversations.

"We weren't really talking about killing people," Davis testified.

Davis was arrested Aug. 20, 1978, after leaving a restaurant parking lot where he handed McCrory $25,000. McCrory testified the money was for relay to a professional killer whom McCrory had fabricated — initially to pacify but later to lure the industrialist toward arrest and end the scheme.

The testimony matched two very different people: McCrory, 40, a pool-shooting, four-times married high school dropout with a tendency to talk his way in and out of trouble, employment and Davis's confidence, and Davis, the playboy heir to a worldwide business empire with 1977 sales of more than $1 billion.

McCrory testified Davis wanted his enemies, including his estranged wife, Priscilla, and his younger brother, Bill, eliminated. Davis conceded the accuracy of tapes in which he replied "all right" to a question by McCrory of whether he wanted "a bunch of people killed."

Davis also replied "good" to McCrory's report that "I got Judge Eidson dead for you" and responded "all right" to McCrory's presumptive question about whether the next victim should be a young Fort Worth woman who had testified against Davis previously.

Prosecutors warned jurors to beware of Davis's "ludicrous" explanations of his statements on the tapes and laughed at the millionaire's claim he was "playing along."

"Does that sound reasonable? It boils down to this," prosecutor Wilson said. "The state of Texas has proved to you beeyond any reasonable, possible doubt that T. Cullen Davis is guilty.

"The only way he's not guilty is if you believe his story. Someone's lying."

Defense attorneys, however, played heavily on the conspiracy to frame Davis theory.

"McCrory was an opportunist, McCrory took advantage of a person, who, while he might be a giant of industry, was an emotionally disabled person. A person going through a divorce," Haynes told the jury.

Iran Military Leader Asks Army Loyalty

the capital, chanting "God is Great!" and urging unity behind the 78-year-old ayatollah. But groups of religious Moslems and leftists, allies in the anti-shah movement, shouted bitterly at each other in one incident, reflecting growing uneasiness between the conservative Moslems and young leftists.

Tehrani announced his resignation as head of the Regency Council in Paris. He first said he was stepping aside for family reasons, but in a letter to Khomeini he said he was stepping down out of "respect for public opinion" in Iran.

The French news agency AFP said Tehrani later was received by Khomeini at the ayatollah's headquarters-in-exile outside Paris, after the resigned council head presented a written statement to Khomeini renouncing the council as "illegal."

Khomeini, who has called on all top government officials in Iran to resign, contends the 57-year-old Pahlavi dynasty is illegal and Bakhtiar's government is illegal because it was appointed by the shah.

The opposition movement consists of orthodox Moslems who say the shah's Western-style modernization of Iran violates Moslem tenets and political activists seeking an end to the shah's authoritarian rule.

Thousands of Iranians have been streaming into Tehran from the provinces to welcome Khomeini back to Iran Friday after an exile of almost 15 years.

Government broadcasting officials say they hope to televise Khomeini's arrival as an "historic event."

One key politician warned of danger to Khomeini, however.

Dr. Assadullah Mobashari, a member of the executive council of the National Front political opposition, told a Tehran newspaper he feared for Khomeini's safety if he returns "at this stage."

"Anti-revolutionary elements and several of those who are thinking of a coup d'etat could harm him," Mobashari was quoted as saying.

The National Front has been trying to negotiate a joint plan with Khomeini's camp for Iran's future. Mobashari, one of the negotiators, spoke by telephone from Paris.

Church People Spell Teachers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Church leaders Monday began taking over the education of some of the city's 74,000 public school students as striking teachers were warned they may face imprisonment.

There was no estimate on how many children went to the five to seven centers set up by churches to fill the gap left last week when all public schools shut down because of the strike. The centers are staffed by volunteers, some of them striking teachers.

The Rev. Eldon McKie of the Second Presbyterian Church called the temporary centers "a highly decentralized operation" and said he expected that about 55 children would come to the classes set up at his church.

Meanwhile, the St. Louis Teachers Union warned its striking members that they can expect to go to jail if they continue to ignore a back-to-work order issued last week.

"This is war," Local 420 president Evelyn Battle told an overflow crowd at a rally Sunday night. "Punitive actions say nothing. If they think they can solve a problem that should be solved around a table by putting us in jail, then so be it."

Actor John Wayne Still Improving

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor John Wayne continued to improve at UCLA Medical Center Monday where he was recuperating from an operation to remove his cancerous stomach.

"Mr. Wayne's condition is stable. He is progressing satisfactorily and we expect him to be discharged in a week to 10 days," the hospital said.

Wayne, 71, underwent his second organ removal for cancer Jan. 12 when doctors performing a routine gall bladder operation found a malignant tumor in his stomach.

The surgical team removed his stomach and built a smaller substitute from intestine tissue.

spending, makes efficient management not just desirable, but essential.

Carter will touch on foreign policy in tonight's speech, but no dramatic announcements are expected.

An aide said he will discuss the strategic arms limitation talks with Moscow and the Middle East, where the United States has resumed a leading role in peace efforts.

Carter called for "real sacrifices" in sending Congress the $531.6 billion budget that attempts to curb inflation with cuts in social services and a smaller deficit but still allows the Pentagon more money for defense.

Describing it as "stringent, severe and tough," Carter was successful in fulfilling a major pledge he made to the American people — to slice the federal deficit to less than $30 billion. That was the smallest red ink total since 1974.

During a White House ceremony, Carter promised he will "fight" for congressional passage of his plans because it would make "major strides toward solving the problems of our country forthrightly, fairly and with compassion."

Besides social and defense spending, the budget also proposed no new income tax reductions for individuals, urged a reduction of almost $1 billion in energy outlays and pegged overall spending $12.5 billion below what it would have been if federal programs were maintained at present levels.

Carter asked for some reductions in Social Security benefits — $2.3 billion over two years — while leaving open the possibility of payroll tax rollbacks in 1981. Carter asked for approval to boost defense outlays to $125.8 billion, which would mean increased military spending of 3 percent after the effects of inflation are eliminating.

Egypt Spurns New Israeli Summit Plan; Carter's Presence Determining Factor

By United Press International
Egypt Monday rejected an Israeli proposal for a peace summit without President Carter and U.S. envoy Alfred Atherton suspended his snaggy talks with Israeli officials to consult with Washington.

In Beirut, a powerful bomb detonated by remote control killed at least 11 persons, including one of PLO leader Yasser Arafat's top aides — a man high on Israel's most-wanted list.

Fatah security chief Abu Hassan Salameh, a man believed by the Israelis to be one of those responsible for the 1972 Munich Massacre, was killed along with four bodyguards and at least six bystanders when the bomb contained in a truck exploded as his car passed it on a Beirut street, officials said.

Palestinian sources said Abu Hassan, who was married to a former Miss Universe beauty queen, had been responsible for Arafat's personal security and was "just like a son" to the guerrilla leader.

Citizens Lobby Assails School Board's Stance

fair game for closed meetings.

"Deliberations in closed session deny a citizen the right to adequately prepare his own testimony, a right basic to democracy," Mrs. Mathis said in a prepared statement.

"The occasional hearings granted by the board — such as the one planned for Thursday morning — are a farce, for the citizens who appear will hear only what they say."

"They will never know how and to what extent their arguments have been presented and perhaps rejected by the school board in prior meetings closed to their ears."

Mrs. Mathis said she attempted to get an injunction to stop Monday's closed meeting. But a request for an injunction, which ordinarily requires a hearing, usually takes 10 days, she said.

"Since only three days' notice is required for school board meetings, and such notice generally is posted on Friday for a Monday meeting, the board is able to effectively circumvent the law," Mrs. Mathis said.

So she attempted a shortcut — by seeking a temporary restraining order prohibiting closed-door discussion of school boundaries and school holidays.

"On these matters, law suits are neither pending nor threatened; thus there is clearly no excuse for closing the discussion," Mrs. Mathis said.

She said she appeared at the Lubbock County Courthouse at 8:20 a.m. Monday with documents requesting the restrain-ing order. But, according to Mrs. Mathis, she was given the runaround from district judge to district judge, none of whom would grant the request.

"Irreparable damages are incurred whenever a board discusses public business behind closed doors. Words once spoken cannot be unsaid. That is the essence of the open meeting law," Mrs. Mathis's statement said.

She speculated that the judges refused to grant the restraining order because they do not want to buck the legal system. Three school board members, including Waters, are attorneys.

About 10 members of Common Cause, the American Civil Liberties Union and Parent-Teacher Associations showed up for the opening minutes of school trustees' meeting.

Before closing the session to the public, Waters and other board members informally discussed the agenda items, their "fan mail" and the controversy over secrecy.

Waters said the Monday night meeting reinforces his position that the board ought to continue meeting only at 7:15 a.m.

"People come here wanting to voice their views. We attract people whose views are inconsistent with what we want to do," Waters said jokingly.

Following adjournment of the closed meeting, Waters declined comment on what specifically had been discussed, but said that the three issues would be decided at the board's 7:15 a.m. public meeting on Thursday.

30 Burn To Death In Mexican Crash

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Thirty persons were burned to death and 14 were seriously injured when an interstate passenger bus smashed head-on into a truck 90 miles west of Mexico City.

Police said the accident occurred Sunday night near the small village of Ciudad Hidalgo in the state of Michoacan.

They said the bus, heading westward toward the city of Morelia in the same state, apparently crossed the center line and crashed into the truck while both were negotiating a sharp bend.

Witnesses and survivors said the truck, which was carrying tons of fertilizer, immediately burst into flames. The driver of the truck reportedly was among those killed.

Flexible Parity Plan Rejected In Texas Farm Bureau Vote

By KATHLEEN HARRIS, Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer. The "flexible parity" plan proposed at the 60th annual American Farm Bureau Federation convention in Miami by Texas Farm Bureau delegates was voted against by an overwhelming margin...

True held a press conference Monday at the Hilton Hotel here. The vote against the "flexible parity" plan was 189 to 46. "Failure of the plan, which called for the farmer to receive a certain percent of parity depending on the amount of total acres set aside, shows that the organization as a whole is very much against such policy," True said.

While the TFB maintained that the plan would help young farmers stay in business and prevent the spread of large corporation-owned farms, the national congregation said the plan was "unworkable, too expensive, hard to administer and would increase crop production instead of control it."

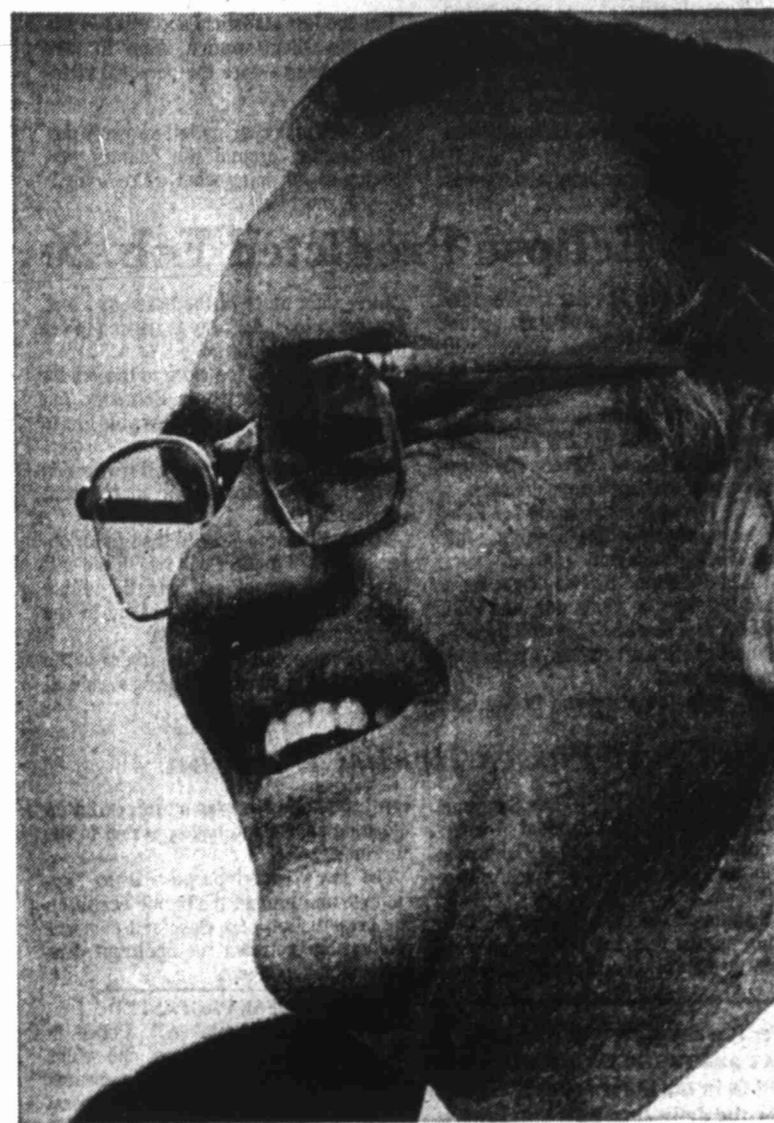

Delegates to the convention unanimously approved a $500,000 budget to promote domestic and foreign marketing of agricultural commodities. With cooperation from affiliated state farm bureaus, the AFBF marketing effort will work toward solving problems in transportation, finance and credit and restrictions on trade.

"Foreigners have told us that even though our customs and governments may vary greatly from theirs," True noted, "that is no reason we can't trade agricultural products."

When questioned about the ongoing tractorcade to Washington, True said that although the organization has not publicly come out against the movement, the bureau "prefers to work for a positive program" and is "proud to live in a country where individuals have the right to work for a cause in the way they think is right." "One idea that was obvious at the convention is that all farmers have to unite if they are to have a strong voice in Washington," True stressed. "Corn producers, for example, have to stand behind cotton producers and vice versa to strengthen that voice."

Livestock Futures Mixed

By Reuters. CHICAGO - Cattle futures closed up 60 points to off 37 points Monday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Estimated sales totaled 24,555.

The deferred led the advances after prices slipped as much as 95 points in nearby April minutes before the close on selling by a prominent commission house.

Stops were uncovered on the scale down. The market was higher most of the day on the bullish note to Friday's cattle on feed report, traders said.

Deliveries total 258 thus far. Wholesale beef was unchanged to off one cent at 96 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river, for all weights.

The six markets expect 14,800 head today. Cash cattle were up $1 to off 50 cents, with the best top at $64 per hundredweight at Indianapolis. The Omaha top was $63. Slaughter was 135,000 head.

Feeder cattle futures closed up 77 to 35 points, but in the lower end of the day's ranges. May was the strongest in a volume estimated at 3,526 contracts.

While much of the support stemmed from bullishness on Friday's cattle on feed report, traders said instances of sharply higher cash markets and light feeder arrivals also aided the advances.

Local traders were the best buyers before scattered liquidation set in near the close.

Deliveries total 551 thus far. The six markets expect 2,100 head today. Cash feeder cattle were steady to up $2, with the best top at $108 per hundredweight at San Antonio.

Hog futures closed up 90 to off 42 points, near lows of the day. Volume was estimated at 7,811 cars.

The market was higher most of the day on commission house buying before weakening toward the close on local liquidation. The nearby was pressured on concern that a large movement in the country today, because of improved weather, could lead to lower cash markets.

The possibility for a heavy kill Monday led to late scattered selling.

Wholesale hams were unchanged at 78 to 84 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. The six markets expect 30,000 head today. Cash hogs were up 50 cents to off $1, with the best top at $55.50 at Indianapolis. Slaughter was 293,000 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed up 52 to 110 points, with August the strongest. Volume was estimated at 7,183 lots.

The nearby was pressured earlier by outside selling encouraged by the slightly bearish tone to the cold storage report. Later months maintained gains on commission house back spreads, traders said, while gains in cash at noon led to buying of the nearby.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to up one cent at 55 to 59 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

It was a bumper year for cognac, according to the Cognac Producers' Association. Wine production for cognac was 30 percent more than in 1977. The yield of 202.2 million gallons was the sixth highest on record.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

THE LATEST CATTLE ON FEED REPORT, issued by the USDA after the market closed Friday, is considered positive for feeders by Bob Price, market analyst for the Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

The quarterly 23-state figures "were pretty much at the levels expected by the trade," Price said.

Numbers on feed as of Jan. 1 were placed at 12.7 million head, down 1 percent from a year earlier, while placements for the fourth quarter of 1978 dropped 9 percent and marketings increased 11 percent for the same period.

IN THE SEVEN-STATE BREAKDOWN, the number of cattle on feed Jan. 1 was 3 percent greater than a year earlier at 9.2 million head. But placements during December fell 15 percent as compared with a year earlier, while marketings rose 3 percent.

"The report confirmed our estimations that the number of cattle in the heavier weight group would be higher than a year ago," Price said, "although we have to keep in mind that most of the cattle over 1,100 pounds that showed up on this report probably already have gone to slaughter."

Price said the report probably indicates one change in industry expectations. "Due to the higher placements of cattle in September and October, the industry was looking for heavy marketings of cattle in February," he said.

"The bad weather during the two weeks since this survey was made, and the weight losses suffered by cattle in the states affected, likely will result in a spreading out of marketings instead of the bunching that had been expected."

ANOTHER SIGNIFICANT FIGURE, Price said, is the reduction in the number of heifers placed on feed.

"We had heavy placements of heifers on feed during the second and third quarters of 1979," Price said, "but the report shows the number of heifers on feed down 7 percent from last year, which is an indication that herd rebuilding may be underway again."

Price also pointed out the number of cows on feed - while not a significant factor in the total inventory - was up 36 percent from last year, reflecting higher cow beef prices.

Looking at the "other disappearance" category, Price said the number of cattle leaving feed yards for purposes other than slaughter rose 73 percent from a year earlier. He attributed most of the increase to the movement of lighter weight cattle to wheat pastures.

Overall, Price called the report "constructive."

THE USDA'S COTTON PLANTING INTENTIONS report, released after the market closed Monday, was viewed as neutral to slightly constructive by floor traders, commission house analysts and cotton merchants.

Upland intentions were pegged at 13,895,700 acres, up 5.7 percent from last year's plantings of 13,150,500 acres. Texas intentions were estimated at 7.2 million acres, up 4 percent from 1978 plantings of 6,950,000 acres.

The 13.9 million-acre figure fell in the middle of the range of expectations of 13.7 million to 14.3 million acres.

Some sources said they expect the market to open slightly higher today, partly because they believe much of the late sell-off Monday was due to nervous long liquidation in anticipation of plantings above 14 million acres.

Egg Producers Lose Advertising Case

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government prohibited an egg industry group from advertising that there is no scientific evidence that eating eggs can lead to heart attacks.

The Federal Trade Commission concluded a false advertising case it brought in 1974. The National Commission on Egg Nutrition lost an appeal of the original FTC order to the U.S. Court of Appeals and failed in an attempt to get the Supreme Court to review the case.

Under the final order, the egg industry group is forbidden to advertise that scientific evidence shows the risk of heart disease is not increased by eating eggs. Nutritionists have said for years that egg yolks are one of the leading dietary sources of cholesterol, a fatty substance that has been linked to atherosclerosis, arteriosclerosis and other circulatory problems that can lead to heart disease.

The Senate Nutrition Committee and other government and private groups have urged consumers to cut down on consumption of egg yolks.

Girl-To-Girl Songs Good For Women's Firm

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Six years ago, Meg Christian had a successful career as a nightclub chanteuse in Washington D.C., singing most of the standard boy-meets-girl tunes of the day.

Sometimes she sang lyrics that went against the very grain of her lesbian-feminist politics — but other times she avoided the issue by coughing or humming over the words.

"I was appalled at what was coming out of my mouth," she said of her nightclub days.

As an alternative to a life of humming and coughing, she joined four other women to form in 1973 what today is one of the foundations of West Coast women's music: Olivia Records.

From the writing of the words and music to the album-cover design, Olivia's record production is "woman's work" in its truest sense.

One of the original five collective members, Judy Dlugacz, explains the birth of Olivia: "We were a group of women who felt that it was very important to create a record company where we would be able to help promote and expand women's music and women's culture and get the music out to as many women as could be reached."

"We also felt, from a political standpoint, that it was really important to have a situation where we started generating some money and creating jobs for women. We saw the opportunity to do those things by starting a record company."

Since its humble beginnings in the nation's capitol — "We started with a lot of good ideas and a lot of energy and $4,000" — Olivia operated for a couple of years in Los Angeles, and is now in the San Francisco Bay area.

The group's progress is easily measured. The collective — now expanded to 13 members — has produced 11 albums; it distributes other labels' records from Berkeley to Boston; it has about 75 distributors of its own, including some in Alaska, Hawaii, England, Germany and Holland.

Financially, the company always has operated in the black, says another collective member, Jennifer Wood. Miss Christian's album, "I Know You Know," has sold more than 28,000 copies. Its best selling single, "The Changer and the Changed" by Cris Williamson, has sold about 55,000.

But the less statistical successes — the ones the Olivia women seem to take more pride in — are the personal victories.

"We get many, many letters every day from women around the country just backing us for doing what we're doing," said Miss Christian. "We get a tremendous amount of support."

Although such small pleasures might indicate an uncomplicated style of work, their music is far from simple. The main issues their music and their lives deal with are feminism and lesbianism — and they are hard put to say which holds more importance in their organization.

Although their politics is the core of their work, it brings problems other record companies normally don't even think about. "We have received responses (from radio stations) that they won't play what we put out because it's too lesbian," says Miss Christian.

But she says such incidents are rare. "We don't hear too much about the people who are turned off by our music. We hear an awful lot from the people for whom it means a great deal."

The Olivia women also place a high value on the feelings of individual artists. The only stipulations put on the type of music its performers record are that it not be "sexist, racist, classist or ageist."

Says Miss Christian: "It's important for us at Olivia to create an environment where a musician can work in a supportive atmosphere in which she can really have control over what her music says. how it's arranged, how it's packaged."

"So it comes out representing her in a full and honest way — and I don't think that's possible for 99 and 44-100ths percent of the people who work in the industry."

North American Solar Eclipse Predicted Feb. 26

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last total eclipse of the sun visible in North America in this century will take place Feb. 26.

The moon will move between the Earth and sun, blocking out the sunlight and providing a view many consider the most spectacular of all astronomical events.

Actually, the eclipse will be total for only a relatively small part of the United States, with a partial eclipse visible in other areas.

The path of the total eclipse will start in the Pacific Ocean west of the states of Washington and Oregon. The shadow will move over the Portland, Ore., area, to Walla Walla, Wash., Helena, Mont., Brandon, Manitoba and on to Hudson Bay and Greenland. The shadow will be about 195 miles wide.

Persons not lucky enough to be in the path of the total eclipse will be able to see a partial eclipse in all parts of the United States except western Alaska.

In Washington, D.C. for example, about 60 percent of the sun will be hidden from view.

The time of the eclipse will vary across the country.

There will not be another total eclipse visible from the Continental United States until 2024, although, Hawaii will be able to see a total eclipse on July 11, 1991.

The U.S. Naval Observatory warns viewers to never look directly at the sun, even during an eclipse. Severe eye damage can result, even including blindness.

Turning to regular stargazing for February, the constellation Gemini, the Twins, will be prominent.

It can be identified by two bright stars overhead, Castor, a white star, and Pollux, which is yellowish. They will be visible almost overhead between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. local time.

The stars in the arms and bodies are fainter than those of the heads and feet, so a very clear, dark sky is needed to see the whole constellation.

Mercury will be too close to the sun for easy observation early in February, but later in the month it will be visible low in the west after sunset.

Venus will rise 2½ hours before the sun and can be seen low in the southeast at sunrise.

Mars will be too close to the sun for observation, but Jupiter will rise in the east just before sunset and will be visible throughout the night. It will be in the constellation Cancer.

And Saturn will be in Leo, rising in the west just after sunset and being visible all night.

High Court Passes Dentist Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused without comment Monday to consider a challenge to a California law limiting any dentist's practice to two offices.

A Sacramento dentist, James W. Gilman, argued that the law, which also applies to California optometrists, is unconstitutional. He was unsuccessful in the state courts and had appealed to the Supreme Court.

The law's stated purpose is to "encourage and protect the public health, in the preservation of a close and personal relationship between the applicant dentist and his patients."

PROPOSAL PROTESTED

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Police in Pondicherry used tear gas and clubs Monday to break up a protest against Prime Minister Morarji Desai's proposal to merge the former French colony with adjoining states. Authorities in the largely French-speaking southern port told reporters eight policemen were injured. Seven persons were reported arrested, and government offices and businesses were shutdown by a strike.

Magazine Article Outrages Small Border Town

RIO GRANDE CITY (AP) — The friendly people in this border town can't figure out why reporters dwell on the negative things here — like drugs and poverty — and never mention the good things — like big funerals, early melons and unlocked cars.

For years, writers who have trekked to this Starr County community of about 6,000 have chronicled the legendary drug traffic and the ghost town-like downtown.

But a recent article in a national men's magazine has sent the locals beyond the boiling point. They are planning a counter-offensive.

The "Oui" magazine article branded Rio Grande City as one of "Ten Tough Towns. You Don't Want To Live Here."

"I wouldn't read that article," said Estrella Contreras. "I wouldn't sleep if I did."

But several other residents did read it and it upset them enough to call a town meeting.

About 75 persons gathered at the dimly-lit metal meeting hall next to the American Legion Post Friday night. Basilio Villarreal, a tire and butane dealer, was among the organizers. "If someone steps on your toe, you push him off very quickly. If someone smears our town, all the people must act. When publicity slings mud at Rio Grande City, everybody gets a little bit of it," he said.

Villarreal, 59, opened the meeting by listing some of the good — and unpublishable — things about the community he loves.

"Most of all, we have peace of mind. You can leave your car opened with guns on the gun racks and no one takes them. In Houston or Dallas, shoot, you can't do that," he said. "We are friendly. You know, recently I started walking for exercise. I can't do it though. I walk half a block and someone drives up and says, 'Why are you walking? Do you want a ride?'"

Villarreal, a blissful smile on his face, continued his list. "When there is a wake or funeral, everybody is there to share the sorrow. We all know each other," he said.

"There may be some bad things about Rio Grande City, but the good way, way surpasses the bad."

The members of the audience agreed that the world must know more about the good things here. To that end, they formed the Concerned Citizens for Starr County.

"Maybe we can raise a little money and buy some space in Time or Newsweek and publicize these good things," Villarreal said.

Arnulfo Guerra, a local lawyer, offered to look into the possibility of legal action against Oui magazine.

New Act Eyes Two Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first meeting of the new Endangered Species Committee is scheduled Tuesday to decide whether the Tellico Dam in Tennessee or the Grayrocks Project in Wyoming should be exempted from the Endangered Species Act.

Construction of the Tellico Dam was halted because its completion would have destroyed the habitat of the snail darter, a tiny fish on the Endangered Species List. The Grayrocks Project

"We are talking about a magazine known for its filthy, pornographic pictures. I think it's necessary we fight back. We owe it to ourselves," he said.

Villarreal later admitted there is drug traffic through here. Law enforcement officials have tagged the region as one of the leading marijuana import areas in the nation.

"There is drug traffic here. There is some all the way from Brownsville to California," Villarreal said. "It's because someone in the big city wants it."

Mrs. Contreras, the white-haired woman who would not read the Oui article, said the local residents are partially to blame for the years of bad press.

"They are always writing something bad about us. Let's forget about everything. Let's forget about politics. Let's get together and do something for ourselves," she said.

She agreed that Starr County has much to offer — and that much of it has been taken advantage of by out-of-towners.

"The ones from outside — we welcome them and they get rich. The way they write — they've been doing it for years and no one here seems to care."

Crenshaw Wins Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw salvaged a desperately scrambling par — including 2 shots from the trees — on the final hole to preserve a 1-stroke victory Monday in the weather-shortened, 54-hole Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Crenshaw, who had staked himself a 4-shot lead with a brilliant, 10-under-par 61 in Sunday's second round, watched that margin dwindle steadily in the face of a challenge by Jay Haas. He had but a single shot in hand going to the final hole on the Phoenix Country Club course, a water-guarded par 5.

Crenshaw pulled his tee shot into the trees. His second remained in the woods, but he threaded his third through the trees to the putting surface. He ran his first, long putt to within a foot of the cup and tapped in for his first victory since 1977.

This one was secured on a final round of par 71 and a 199 total.

Play was rained out both Thursday and Friday and tournament officials trimmed the format from the regulation 72 holes to 54. It is an official victory, however.

The purse was also cut from $250,000 to $187,000. Crenshaw's share was $33,750.

Crenshaw, now a six-time winner, birdied the first two holes. He reached the par-5 first in 2 and 2-putted, then holed an 8-10 foot putt on the second.

But that was it. He'd made his last birdie of the day. He bogeyed the ninth from a bunker and his lead was cut to 3.

Haas trimmed it 1 more by chipping in from 60 feet for a birdie on the 11th and then closed to one on the last hole, chipping to 12 feet and dropping the putt.

Crenshaw, long regarded as one of the game's potential greats, appeared on the verge of blowing it all when he put his drive in the woods. His second stayed behind the tree line. It hit a cart path and was stopped from going further off line by the bodies of the packed gallery.

On his third "he hit about where only shot he could hit," Haas said. "He kept it low. When he got it on the green, well, I didn't think much of my chances."

Crenshaw got it down in two for the winner.

"It was a tough day," he said. "It's been a tough year-and-a-half. I've just had to watch everybody else win. I got close a lot last year and it hurt, really hurt, to miss on those tournaments. It's a good feeling, a really good feeling to win again."

Don Henry
 Just Passing Through

WHEN NORTH TEXAS State tapped Jerry Moore as its new head football coach, he didn't start looking immediately for coaches, he trained his binoculars on players — close to home.

Moore will be returning to Texas from a state about three north of us, but he already knows about Dime Box, North Zulch and Refugio. And you know what coaches say about Texas high school football.

"I signed all the Texas kids on the Nebraska team — no, all except one — and we had five Texans starting this year. So, it's nothing new for me to be back," said Moore, as he passed through Lubbock Monday.

"Right now, we have our offensive staff — three coaches — and maybe we'll have the staff complete by this weekend. Maybe by tonight (Monday). But, Bum (Phillips, the Houston Oilers' head coach) told me that you need to be patient about hiring coaches, get the ones you want, not to hurry into it."

Meanwhile, Moore and his aides — including part-time coach Charles Napper, ex-Tech quarterback — are looking under rocks and on the cinder paths for athletes to join the Green and White at Denton.

Moore is coming in to replace Hayden Fry, who last month accepted the head coaching challenge at Iowa. It was Fry's announced objective to get NTSU into the Southwest Conference when he was both head coach and athletic director.

And that is still the objective of Moore and NT's new AD, Andy Everest. And while the two were in this part of the state, meeting alumni as well as visiting with recruits, Everest likely will try to plant a few seeds of interest with Tech officials on the advantages of another SWC member.

Said Everest, "We've played some games — and will continue to — in Texas Stadium (home of the Cowboys) and SMU is moving there next fall. We plan to make our game with them quite an extravaganza."

"But, Hayden made the announcement of North Texas' plans to see SWC membership with quite a bit of publicity. Now, we want to solidify our position with the conference and define our goals."

"But, Hayden made the announcement of North Texas' plans to see SWC membership with quite a bit of publicity. Now, we want to solidify our position with the conference and define our goals."

AFTER RECRUITING SUCH athletes as Big Spring's Jim Sorley and Midland's Junior Miller to Nebraska, Moore knows where he wants to look.

"Basically, my contacts are in Texas, and with West Texas kids — we have Michael Sims at North Texas now and his brother Sammy (both from Estacado) at Nebraska."

"So, I'm going to look in the state. We're trying to recruit good players from the Dallas-Fort Worth area, because there are so many people there."

"We're going to look all over the state, but we're not going to sign 30. We're going to save five to seven for walk-ons. At Nebraska, our starting center, two of our defensive backs, I.M. Hipp (the starting tailback), and a linebacker — all starters — were walk-ons."

"Kids develop, and it turns me off to hear a coach say, 'This guy can't play.' If a coach is a good teacher, then these kids can play."

"But, right now, my job is to get into the homes." He laughed. "Getting in (late) when I did, I don't have to worry about the three-visit rule."

Texas Takes Sole Lead In SWC

AUSTIN (AP) — Seventeenth-ranked Texas grabbed the lead in Southwest Conference basketball Monday, defeating No. 14 Texas A&M 89-66 as Tyrone Branan and Jim Krivacs combined for 57 points off dazzling passes from John Moore.

The game was one of four in the Southwest Conference Monday night.

In the other games, host Baylor sprung a major upset on Arkansas 70-67 in a game at Fayetteville, Houston edged out SMU 82-78 to continue its climb after a horrendous start to the conference race, and Rice held off winless TCU 59-56.

Branan and Krivacs, two of the senior veterans from Texas' 1978 National Invitation Tournament champion, outshined A&M freshman star Rudy Woods, who used his 6-foot-11 height to slam in 13 first-half points but was held to four points in the second half.

A key to the game was the rebounding of another Texas senior, Phillip Stroud, who went up against Woods, 6-7 Vernon Smith and 6-6 Rynn Wright. Smith led Aggie scorers with 18.

The victory pushed Texas' SWC record to 5-1. Texas A&M is 4-2. The score represented Texas' 23rd victory without loss in its new Special Events Center.

The shooting of Branan and Krivacs so dominated the game that at one point in the first half, they had 23 of 25 points closing out the period. Texas led at half-time 43-31. Branan finished with 29 points and Krivacs with 28.

A&M never led, and the best it could do was a 12-12 tie.

Texas coach Abe Lemons jerked his starters to the standing, deafening cheers of 14,503 in the final three minutes.

The crowd included National Basketball Association scoring leader George Gervin of the San Antonio Spurs.

Texas upped its season record to 12-4, while A&M is now 15-4.

Lemons said of A&M, "A team will be good for a while, then even out and then perk up a little. I'm still real high on A&M. We just played better tonight. I don't know when our bubble is going to burst."

A&M tried a full court pressing defense, and Lemons said, "You've got to give them credit for trying things. . . But I doubt anything they could have tried tonight would have helped."

"They tried to break our rhythm, but things just weren't going for them."

With Texas now leading the SWC, Lemons said, "I don't know what is going to happen. You can see they have a whole lot of talent. That Woods is something. And just think, he's got three more years to play."

Asked about Branan, Texas' scoring leader, Lemons said, "Isn't he sweet? Isn't he something? He'll be just as fast when he's 49. A lot of guys loose their speed, but Tyrone will always be able to say 'See, I'm as fast as I ever was.'"

Fire In Tenement Kills Seven; Arson Believed

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Northern New Jersey's second tenement fire in three days killed five children and two adults Monday, and police launched a manhunt for an arsonist who may have burned the building in a personal vendetta.

The fire brought the death toll to 40 persons killed in fires thought to have been deliberately set in northern New Jersey cities in the past six weeks, authorities said.

A mother and her five children were among those who died when a pre-dawn blaze swept through a four-story brick building in the third fire in the Jersey City tenement since December.

Victims were seen pounding on a window shortly before firefighters arrived, but apparently were overcome by smoke when they tried to reach a fire escape, said Deputy Fire Chief Dominick Cardillo.

"If they had stayed at the front window, we could have gotten them out. But when people are in a fire, they panic," Cardillo said.

As Jersey City police hunted a man seen fleeing the building, less than two miles away a demolition crew sifting through the rubble of a Hoboken tenement found the last two bodies missing from a Saturday fire that claimed 21 lives.

Twelve persons burned to death in a Newark tenement on Dec. 7. Witnesses told police they saw a man running away from the burning building. No arrests have been made.

Jersey City Police Detective Howard

Shea said authorities knew of no motive in Monday's fire but suspected it was the work of an arsonist.

"We think it had to be an act of spite, a personal vendetta of some kind," Shea said.

A woman resident, who asked not to be identified, told reporters that shortly before the 2 a.m. fire she saw a man in a hallway carrying a blue container.

"Lady, shut up and get out of here," she quoted the man as saying.

She said the man threw the container against the stairs and ran from the building.

"I got my kids out of the building and started screaming," she said. "When I turned around, the stairs were on fire."

Authorities later found the blue container.

The suspect was described as a black male, in his 20s, of medium build. He was wearing tennis shoes, she told police.

"When they find him, I hope they hang him," said one resident who asked not to be identified. "Don't use my name. I don't want him to come back to find me."

Fire Director Raymond Maloney identified the dead as Maria Gonzales, 35, her five children, Papo, 12, Edward, 11, Albert, 10, Susan, 3, and Anita, 1. Wilson Milan, 22, who lived with the family, also was found dead.

"Why would anyone want to burn this building down?" said a grief-stricken resident who asked not to be identified. "This is the first building I've seen where people got along so well."

The tenement, where two other suspicious fires occurred in December, would have been vacated within two weeks. The 37 residents were to be relocated for an urban renewal project, Shea said.

"The families were so friendly they all asked to be relocated into the same building."

Solomon To Leave GSA In The Spring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jay Solomon will be leaving "in the spring" as head of the General Services Administration, his spokesman announced late Monday after a day of confusing statements on the matter.

The spokesman, Peter Hickman, said Solomon wanted to amend a statement he authorized earlier in the day in which he said he would depart "at a time and in a manner of my own choosing."

Earlier Monday, White House press secretary Jody Powell indicated he expected Solomon to resign within a few months, but Solomon said he had told President Carter he intended to "see through the investigations" of the scandal-plagued agency.

Nobody expects the investigations to be completed anytime soon.

Hickman, asked to resolve the apparent contrast between the statements by the White House and by Solomon, said after talking with the GSA chief: "That is indeed what he intends to do, leave in the spring. Always has."

Hickman said Solomon hadn't intended to be "thumbing his nose at the White House."

After a series of consultations among Solomon, Hickman and Powell, Solomon's statement was amended to say that the GSA chief wanted to "get the investigations ... on a firm footing." These were the exact words used by Powell earlier in the day.

Solomon's earlier statement said, "I told the president I intended to see through the investigations and the reorganization of GSA, and to see to it that GSA becomes a model agency."

He added, "I think the only chance to see this investigation through is for me to stay on and when I do leave it will be at a time and in a manner of my own choosing."

Powell emphasized that Solomon's departure would reflect no administration displeasure over the GSA chief's moves to clean up the agency.

On the contrary, Powell said, the investigations involving the GSA are proceeding "in an aggressive and satisfactory manner." The events under investigation date back to past administrations.

Powell acknowledged the White House began its search for a successor without telling Solomon.

"Obviously, it would have been better had we talked (to Solomon) before the press got involved," he said.

Last Friday, when a reporter told Solomon about the search, the GSA head expressed surprise and said he had no plans to leave his post at this time. Solomon was named to the position in 1977.

GSA, with 36,000 employees, owns and operates government buildings and buys $5 billion worth of supplies for the government each year.

More than 40 present or former employees and outside contractors have been indicted in the scandal, which involves payments for work never done or supplies not delivered and the misuse of credit cards.

Solomon and the White House have been at odds over the naming of a GSA inspector general. Solomon had recommended that Irwin Borowski, GSA special counsel, be appointed acting inspector general while Congress was in recess but Carter did not do so.

Had the appointment come before Congress returned, Borowski could have begun using subpoena powers under a new law that created the office of inspector general at GSA and 11 other agencies. GSA investigators say subpoena power is crucial to completing their internal corruption probe.

In his statement, Solomon said he told Carter of his continued confidence in Borowski, and continued:

"Regarding the appointment of an inspector general, I said I hoped it would be expedited. The president said he would tell his staff this, and that we could expect some progress early next week."

Powell said Carter ordered an expedited search for inspector general candidates. He said he expects someone to be chosen before Solomon resigns because there would be "too long a delay" if a new GSA administrator were selected first.

Powell conceded the White House had thought earlier about waiting until a new administrator had been chosen.

One source close to the investigation described the dispute over Borowski's appointment as "the catalyst" leading to Solomon's planned departure.

Birth Control Use Increase Observed

BALTIMORE (AP) — About 54 million women throughout the world used oral contraceptives in 1977, an estimated increase of four million since 1974, according to studies prepared at the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health.

The studies show that use of birth control pills increased significantly in developing countries while declining in developed nations — including a 20 percent drop in sales of the pill in the United States.

The studies were prepared for the Population Information Program and will appear in the first issue of "Population Reports" produced at Hopkins and released this week.

They show that in 1977, 25 million women purchased oral contraceptives, including four million women in developing nations.

In addition, nine million women in developing nations and five million in developed areas received the pill free or on a subsidized basis through the family planning programs, the studies said.

Estimates include an additional 15 million probable users in the People's Republic of China, the reports added.

Despite last year's worldwide increase in the use of oral contraceptives commercial sales in developed countries declined by almost 7 percent, according to data analyzed by Ward Rinehart, editor of the report, and Dr. Phyllis Piotrow, director of the Population Information Program.

Dr. Paul J. Feldstein of Michigan's School of Public Health told a national conference on health care in the American economy that hospital costs alone could rise 15.2 percent.

President Carter's voluntary anti-inflation program could cut that increase from 15.2 percent to 13.6 percent, Feldstein added.

"Today we are spending 130 billion a year more in personal health care than 10 years ago," the economist said in noting that 1968's health care costs were less than $100 billion. "It is relevant to question whether the additional $130 billion a year is worth whatever the difference is in medical services compared to what we received 10 years ago."

About 70 percent of that $207 billion, however, will be borne by governments or insurance companies, he said. Governments will account for an estimated $87 billion of that total.

Feldstein said inflation is not the sole cause of the rapid rise in health care costs. The methods of payment, in which insurance companies or other third parties bear much of cost, also contribute, as does a lack of competition, he said.

"Price or cost competition rarely exists among medical providers," the economist said.

Another University of Michigan public health economist, Dr. Irene Butler, said physician fees will increase about 8 percent in 1979, less than the 8.3 percent increase in 1978 and the 9.3 percent hike in 1977.

A growing number of doctors has accounted for the slowdown in the increase rate, she said.

The third annual conference, sponsored by Blue Cross-Blue Shield, brings together invited medical, business and political leaders to discuss key health care issues. It lasts through Wednesday.

Farmers Fighting Tough Beaver War

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Farmers armed with dynamite and steel traps are losing a battle against beavers in the rice paddies and soybean fields of Arkansas, game and fish officials say.

The beavers, who have few natural enemies except alligators in Arkansas, have been multiplying rapidly in recent years and ruining millions of dollars worth of rice, soybeans and other crops.

In 1977, the state Game and Fish Commission declared war on beavers and farmers have been dynamiting the rodents' troublesome dams and fortifying their fields with traps.

But the beaver population is still growing, according to a recent report released by the commission.

Brad Kennedy, information officer for the commission, said Sunday that about five years ago farmers throughout Arkansas "began to feel the impact" from the exploding beaver population.

"Today, all counties in Arkansas have beaver-related problems," he said.

Beavers build dams in flood control channels and irrigation drainage ditches, backing up water in fields and timber stands.

Crops such as rice and soybeans are damaged or ruined if beaver dams prevent farmers from draining the field on schedule, Kennedy said.

A farmer can blast a beaver dam to clear a drainage ditch, but the beavers can reconstruct it in one night, Kennedy said.

Kennedy said beavers thrive in wooded areas of the state as well as in the Mississippi Delta region, which he described as "basically a network of ditches to get water off the land."

"Beavers have a tendency to want to dam up any flowing water," he said.

Two years ago farmers started fighting back. The Game and Fish Commission Farmers began training farmers in how to trap beavers and traps were offered for sale at cost through the county extension offices.

But the report says the program was not very successful in its first year, partly because springs in the beaver traps were too strong to be set by farmers.

Last November, a survey was taken of 678 farmers who had participated in the beaver control program. About 39 percent of them reported farm damage caused by beavers, with combined losses totaling $1,246,525.

Kennedy said timber clearing practices may be one factor in the increase in beaver problems in recent years. When land is cleared, newly-dug drainage ditches make an "ideal beaver habitat," he said.

"Since the problem has gotten as bad as it is, there are several companies that specialize in beaver removal," Kennedy said. The beaver removers run traps for the farmer.

"Running traps takes a lot of time," he said.

Fur trappers have little interest in beaver pelts because of a low commercial demand, he said.

The alligator is one natural enemy of the beaver, Kennedy said, but there are few alligators left in Arkansas.

Open Hearing Slated At Lubbock Schools

An open hearing on federal funds available for library materials and other purposes in Lubbock public and non-public schools will be held Tuesday at 1:15 p.m. in the Lubbock Independent School District administration building, 1628 19th St.

The hearing, to be held in the administration building's materials center, will explain procedures for applying for funds under parts B and C of Title IV of the U.S. Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Funds under part B are intended for library books and other media materials. Funds under part C are for innovative school projects.
