

Smyer Man Charged In Weekend Shooting Death Of Lubbockite

A 23-year-old Smyer man was charged with murder Monday in the weekend shooting death of Juan Luis Garcia, 19, of 1014 E. 28th St.

Raul Flores was jailed Monday afternoon. Justice of the Peace Charles Smith set bond at $50,000.

Garcia died during surgery about 2 a.m. Monday in Methodist Hospital after being stabbed repeatedly about 11 p.m. Sunday at a nightclub 3 1/2 miles south of Lubbock at North Frontage Road and U.S. 87, police said.

It was the second homicide this year in Lubbock County.

The dead man's girlfriend told sheriff's deputies it was her ex-boyfriend and his girlfriend's father who jumped Garcia about 11 p.m. Sunday.

Doctors said Garcia was stabbed six times, suffering wounds in the chest, abdomen and back.

The victim's 26-year-old girlfriend said she and Garcia had gone to the club, located about 3 1/2 miles south of the city, to dance.

She said she and Garcia were dancing when her ex-boyfriend began bumping into them on the dance floor. Deputies were told the couple sat down and the ex-boyfriend began calling Garcia a "chicken," and yelling "come on."

Garcia reportedly started for the suspect's table when he was grabbed from behind by a man, thought to be the father of the suspect's present girlfriend.

The woman said the man, with whom she had lived for five years before breaking up two years ago, came up to Garcia and pulled out an "object" from his belt holster. Garcia was stabbed while being held by the older man, witnesses said.

The woman and the victim's brother picked up Garcia and carried him outside the club. When deputies arrived, the victim was lying in front of the nightclub, a trail of blood leading from the building to Garcia.

After the assault, the two suspects fled the club in a car, witnesses said. Warrants for the arrests of the two men, who remained at large at noon today, were filed at 4 a.m. by Smith.

Two Cases Heard In District Courts

Trials on burglary and indecency with a child opened Monday in Lubbock County District courts.

New Trial For City Bond Hearing Denied

A motion by James G. Marshall for a new trial in his efforts to block the issuance of city general obligation bonds was denied Monday in 137th District Court.

Judge Robert C. Wright made the ruling after hearing Marshall in the 8:30 a.m. proceeding.

RESTAURANT SINKS
CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The Scarlett O'Hara, a barge that was converted into an elegant floating restaurant, has sunk in Charleston harbor.

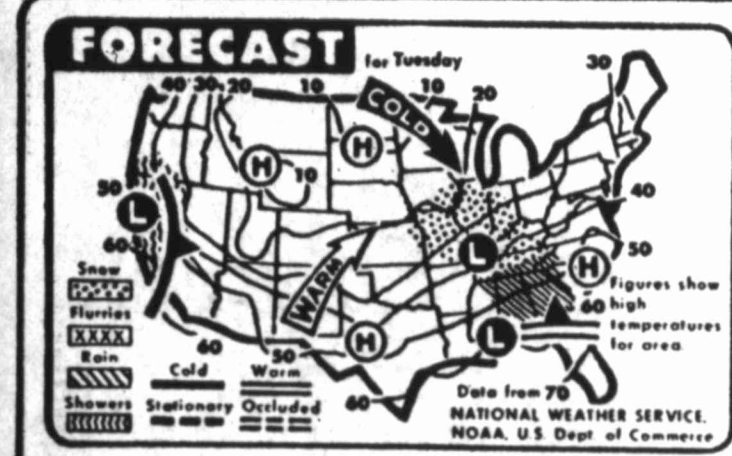

The killing was the second homicide handled by the sheriff's department this year. On Jan. 10, Noble G. Powell, 72, of 2709 39th St. was found dead next to his car south of the city. An 18-year-old man was arrested the next day at his home in connection with the murder of the retired school teacher.

Services for Garcia were pending this morning with Henderson Funeral Directors.

Garcia had lived in Lubbock most his life and was a member of the Mission Pentecostal Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elijo Garcia of 1014 E. 28th St.; six brothers, Elijo Jr., of Corpus Christi, David and Ray, both of Levelland, and Jesse, Tommy and Frenando, all of Lubbock; and five sisters, Victory Colton of Corpus Christi, Mary Jimenez of Phoenix, Ariz., Frances Garcia and Margie Garcia of Lubbock, and Annie Rios of Odessa.

43 Big Spring Firms Given Building Awards

BIG SPRING (Special) — Special awards were presented Saturday night to 43 local businesses at the annual Big Spring Chamber of Commerce banquet.

The awards were framed aluminum printing plates and were presented to businesses who expanded after Webb Air Force Base closed in September 1977.

Twenty-nine awards were given in the $100,000 and up category and 14 awards were presented in the $50,000 to $100,000 category.

Roger D. Brown, 1977 president of the Chamber of Commerce, was named Man of the Year and Marj Carpenter, veteran reporter, was chosen Woman of the Year.

"Brown was selected for his work in tying the community together after the base closed," said Bill Albright, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce. "The chamber also received national accreditation and doubled its membership during Brown's term."

"Mrs. Carpenter was chosen because of her outstanding community service while here. She's in Georgia now and we wanted to let her know she was appreciated," Albright said.

Plaques to retiring chamber of commerce directors, a speech by Dallas humorist George McKinney, and distribution of annual reports also were included in the program.

Bill Read, president of Coahoma State Bank; Ralph McLaughlin, president of Saunders Co.; John Arrick, vice president of State National Bank; Richard Atkins, owner of Big Spring Hardware; Andrew Schwartz of Schwartz Inc.; and plaques.

More than 600 persons attended the banquet in the Big Spring High School cafeteria.

Former Chief Of Houston Police Receives 12 Year Prison Term

HOUSTON (AP)— Former Houston Police Chief Carol Lynn, still smiling and insisting he was innocent, was sentenced to 12 years in prison and a $10,000 fine Monday for perjury, obstruction of justice and extortion.

Lynn, a veteran of 22 years on the police force, said, "I am still free; I'm innocent; I'm healthy."

Interviewed as he left the federal courtroom and walked with his wife to a nearby parking lot in downtown Houston, Lynn was asked if he feared for his life if placed in prison.

He answered: "I have never put anyone in prison who didn't belong there. So, I have no fear. Right now I am free."

Defense attorneys said they would file an appeal.

In addition to the sentence on the charges of perjury and obstruction of justice, U.S. District Judge Carl Bue said Lynn must serve five years of probation on the extortion charge. The probation will be denied if Lynn fails to pay the fine, at a rate of $2,000 a year.

The former officer could have received a maximum of 35 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Lynn will remain free under $50,000 bond.

Before Bue handed down the sentence, defense attorney James Pape argued that Lynn "would be subject to daily danger if imprisoned, or he would have to be kept in virtual isolation."

Bue said the court was "aware of the obligations to impose just sentences on all persons, and neither prejudice nor sympathy can play any part."

Lynn is the highest-ranking Houston police officer ever charged with a felony. He was calm during the sentencing, as he had been throughout the trial. The slight smile never left his face. As he arrived at the parking lot, he told newsmen the "press has been pretty tough on me. And, I think you had the parking lot attendant so you could ask some more questions."

Lynn, 45, was convicted in December 1978 by a seven-woman, five-man jury. He was accused of attempting to get a bribe from John Vincent Holden, a former Houston oilman accused of mail fraud and violation of security regulations.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. We are in our early 20s and married less than a year. My salary is $13,000. My wife's is $16,000. Our home, which we bought for $41,500, has a $33,000 mortgage. All our furniture is paid for. My wife now has $2,500 in her credit union, at 7 percent interest, and is adding $500 a month. She has signed up for the maximum amount, under her company's stock purchase and savings plan.

I have some stocks, purchased before we were married. I also have all the tools and a garage to start a kitchen remodeling business. Are my stocks too risky? Is $500 a month enough to put in the credit union?

A. Wow! You're doing better on your combined salaries than many, many families who write to this column do on much higher incomes. I can't let even this paragraph go by without saying congratulations.

At $500 a month, you're saving just a shade more than 20 percent of your total income. That's fabulous. And you're showing good sense by saving in a credit union, where you get higher interest than in bank or savings and loan association accounts.

If you can tuck away more, without strapping yourselves, my advice is to do so. But don't give up any part of the stock purchase and savings plan at your wife's place of employment. Those are good deals.

I'd call the stocks you named in your letter well suited for you. But, for the time being, there's no need to increase your stock holdings. Additional stock purchases can wait, until you get your kitchen remodeling business going. You'll undoubtedly need some cash on hand for that.

Although you don't say so, I assume your remodeling will be a side line, at first. If you do it sensibly and with the careful planning you clearly have demonstrated to date, you could become a very successful contractor.

Q. We own 200 shares of stock, which we left with a brokerage firm. Some months ago, we received a bill from the brokerage house, charging us $9 for holding our stock. We were not notified in advance that there would be such a charge. We did not pay the $9 bill.

Then, when we were entitled to receive a $20 dividend on this stock, the brokerage firm sent us a check for only $11 — having deducted the $9. Is this right? Aren't there rules against this?

A. Right? Not in my book. Unfortunately, there are no rules against it. But, late last year, the Securities & Exchange Commission did level a broadside against the brokerage fraternity for laying on "hidden charges" such as you mention.

The New York Stock Exchange admits that complaints began to come in after the SEC blast. The exchange says that member brokerage firms refunded the charges.

So go to your broker and demand the $9. If you haven't cashed the $11 dividend check, let the broker know you want a $20 check in exchange.

Then, of course, tell the broker to have your stock registered in your name and the certificate delivered to you.

Q. I live on Social Security and a company pension and have $15,000 which I want to invest at the highest rate of interest. I know I can get 10 percent or a little more in six-month savings certificates but I have read it is possible to get 13 percent interest on annuities. How do I locate high-paying annuities?

A. By contacting insurance companies and various charitable and religious organizations which sell them. But don't be misled into believing that the "return" on an annuity is all "interest" or "income."

Part of the return on an annuity is income and part is your own money being returned to you. Read all the fine print in an annuity contract. You might decide it's not right for you.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

U.S. Troop Pullout From S. Korea Still In Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown said Monday that President Carter still plans to pull all U.S. combat troops out of South Korea and "remain a Pacific power."

But Gen. David Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reiterated that the chiefs expect to decide "in a few weeks" whether to ask Carter to halt the pullout.

Brown and Jones made the statements before the House Armed Services Committee in answering Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., a leading critic of Carter's plan to withdraw the troops from South Korea.

Stratton asked them if "you really believe it makes sense" to withdraw U.S. troops when the new intelligence estimates North Korean strength 25 percent higher than thought.

Brown stuck to the White House position that Carter's plan still is to withdraw the troops. Brown did not add the White House caveat that the pullout would be revised if North Korea threatened to gain military dominance.

"We intend to remain a Pacific power," Brown replied to Stratton. "And we intend to remain a military power there."

He said U.S. forces in the Pacific are being kept the same size, except for the forces in Korea, and are being modernized.

Brown said the number of U.S. jet fighters in South Korea have been increased 20 percent and U.S. forces in the Pacific generally are getting new frigates, destroyers and F-14 and F-15 jet fighters.

"I believe we can maintain the military balance there by planned improvements in our forces," Brown said.

Brown and Jones also continued their open disagreement on renewing draft registration of young people to improve readiness if the draft itself is ever renewed.

Brown said it may be possible to keep the Selective Service System on standby by compiling information from existing federal records so young people could be registered and drafted fast in a war.

"In any case I would not go beyond registration and I may not go that far," Brown told the committee.

But Gen. Jones said, "I would go further. I believe we need registration and some degree of screening."

Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., told the Pentagon officials he is about to introduce a bill to renew "a limited draft" of 100,000 to 200,000 young men over the next five years into the ready reserves.

Montgomery said they would serve six months active duty and six years in the reserves to maintain a trained pool of men to fight in a sudden war.

"I think there is some attractiveness to it," Jones told Montgomery. "But I think we should start with registration."

DA Announces New Get Tough Policy

A stern new policy on prosecuting aggravated robberies and the filing of charges in two previously unsolved murder cases was announced Monday by Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford.

The chief law enforcement officer of Lubbock County announced that there will be no plea bargaining or negotiating lesser charges in return for guilty pleas in aggravated robbery cases.

Montford said his office will ask "upwards of 30 years" for first offenders and the maximum sentence, 99 years or life, against robbers with previous felony convictions.

Noting that there have been about two dozen aggravated robberies since the first of the year, he announced the creation of a special robberies prosecuting unit headed by Assistant Criminal District Attorney Mark McBride.

"I want to make sure there won't be any questions about how we stand," Montford said.

Aggravated robbery is a first-degree felony defined by the use of a deadly weapon or the infliction of bodily injury in the course of robbery.

Montford said policies are also being developed for prosecuting burglaries of homes and buildings and for aggravated rape cases.

Autopsies List Burns As Cause

Autopsy results received Monday showed that burns caused the deaths of two Lubbock men whose bodies were found in the wreckage of a convenience store early Friday.

The victims were Andrew Zournas, 52, of 3011 42nd St., and Mark Corley, 27, of 2126 52nd St.

Their bodies were pulled from the wreckage of the Serv-U-Food Market, 704 E. Broadway, which was levelled by an explosion and fire about 1 a.m. Friday.

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy pronounced the men dead at the scene.

Fire Marshal Robert Stokes said Monday afternoon the fire was still under investigation.

Terrorist Commando Unit Assassinates Italian Prosecutor

ROME (AP) — A terrorist commando unit assassinated one of Italy's top prosecutors in a street ambush in Milan Monday, increasing tension and sparking unrest in the judiciary in the final days of Premier Giulio Andreotti's government.

Emilio Alessandrini, a 37-year-old assistant district attorney noted for his prosecution of both right and left wing terrorists, was cut down in a hail of pistol shots in his car on his way to work. The five-member assassination squad, in a military-like operation, fired a smoke bomb to make its escape without being noticed.

A leftist revolutionary group, Prima Linea—Front Line—claimed responsibility for the killing of the sixth law official in the last two years.

The latest terrorist assault came hours before Andreotti addressed Parliament, defending his 10-month-old government that took office on the day former Premier Aldo Moro was abducted by the leftist Red Brigades. Moro was slain by the terrorists after a 54-day captivity.

Andreotti left the government's fate to a parliamentary debate opening Tuesday afternoon. But the withdrawal of crucial support by the powerful Communist Party and defections by other parties last Friday left him without parliamentary majority, making his resignation inevitable.

Andreotti expressed "preoccupation on the ferocity and extent" of terrorism and asked "all citizens to participate without fear . . . in saving and reviving constitutional order."

Judges, lawyers and other legal personnel walked off their jobs in Milan and Rome in sympathy with Alessandrini and to renew their demands for better protection in the face of spreading terrorism.

"We are tired of words and medals," said Piero Pajardi, president of the Milan Tribunal. "We want something concrete."

Alessandrini's colleagues staged a protest march from Milan's Justice Palace to the assassination scene.

Chief State Attorney Giovanni De Matteo and others were received in Rome by President Sandro Pertini who expressed his "profound solidarity with the entire Italian magistracy for defending the republic with the high price of their blood."

De Matteo said the magistrates were "indignant" and recalled the attention of "those in power to the necessity of adequate measures to re-establish order."

The presidential palace announced Pertini will attend the funeral of Alessandrini. Last week Pertini wept before the coffin of Communist labor leader Guido Rossa, slain by the Red Brigades in Genoa for testifying against a suspected terrorist on trial.

The latest slaying highlighted increasing actions against state officials, particularly prosecutors, prison guards and police officers. Last year, a total of 30 persons were slain in terrorist assaults, double the year before.

Terrorism coupled with spreading unemployment — up from 1.5 to 1.7 million in a year — prompted former Premier Moro and his dominant Christian Democrats last year to accept the powerful Communist Party into a governing alliance "of national democratic solidarity." But the Communists were denied Cabinet seats.

Andreotti's government took office last March 16, the day Moro was abducted by the leftist Red Brigades.

With rank and file Communists reported restless over their failure to gain Cabinet seats, the Communists pulled out of the alliance last week, dooming Italy's 36th government in the last 34 years.

Christian Democrat Secretary Benigno Zaccagnini told U.S. officials in Washington two weeks ago that the ruling party won't share Cabinet seats with the Communists, who portray themselves as free of the Kremlin and champions of "Eurocommunism."

Observers expect dissolution of Parliament two years ahead of time and new parliamentary elections.

In the last national election, the Communists rode a wave of discontent and scored record gains.

Texas Not 'Recession-Proof'

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas is less recession-proof than many believe, and this will show up in state tax collections over the next two years, the comptroller's chief revenue estimator said Monday.

Bill Allaway testified at a briefing on spending and taxing for the House Ways and Means Committee.

Committee chairman Bob Davis, R-Irving, said he hoped to have bills implementing the "Tax Relief Amendment" ready for House floor debate around March 1.

Included will be decisions on the optional $10,000 homestead exemptions from school taxes to the elderly and on the mechanism for taxing agricultural land on its productivity. Allaway told the committee the comptroller's official revenue forecast for 1980-81 is based on "a somewhat slower rate of growth in state revenue than has occurred over the past three years."

Among the factors considered, he said, were:

• A declining rate of inflation, which slows the growth of sales tax revenue.

• The likelihood of a recession in 1979 or 1980.

• The probability that Congress will cancel or cut the federal revenue sharing program, which expires in September 1980 unless extended. Allaway said he had to base his forecast on existing law and, therefore, left out the approximately $111.2 million per year now received in revenue sharing.

"I personally feel this program will not be renewed or will be renewed at a smaller level than in the past if the Carter administration is to meet its (budget cutting) goals," Allaway said. "This is a logical place to look if they are to cut the budget."

He predicted the state's economic growth rate would drop from 4 percent in 1979 to 3 percent in 1980, paralleling a national economic dip.

"We are not recession-proof, as is popularly believed, and probably less so as Texas becomes a more mature economy and a more diversified economy," Allaway said.

Allaway also said that a decline in the inflation rate was "a reasonable forecast and the only one we can make at this time."

Walter Lihle, assistant comptroller for planning and research, said the comptroller's revenue estimates now have a potential error of 3.3 percent compared with a long-term trend of underestimating state income by about 26 percent.

NEW LOOK — The key jacket shape for the season is square shouldered and falling straight from there to below the hips... shawl-collared, brown and dark green tweed and narrow silk passmenterie-piped, this jacket combines perfectly with a chambray-colored knitted cashmere shawl-collared, wrapped "blouse," narrow legged peccan-colored silky covert elastic-waisted trousers and brown glove leather sash.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm sick and tired of you telling people that there are too darned many guns in this country. Don't you read the papers? How come you don't know what is going on? I have two handguns in my home and one in my car. I wouldn't give them up for anything.

Quit being so unrealistic on this subject. You owe it to your readers to encourage them to protect themselves. Whose side are you on, anyway? — Dallas Ex-Fan

Dear Ex: It drives me up the wall the way you and millions of other Americans cling to the foolish notion that a gun is protection when statistics show that nine times out of ten the intruder is a much better shot than the law-abiding citizen — and quicker on the draw, too.

I feel strongly that this country needs a federal gun law. Every poll in recent years shows that the majority of our citizens want one.

When our congressmen and senators muster enough courage to stand up to the gun lobby in Washington, we are going to have a safer country for everybody.

Dear Ann Landers: Our English teacher claims that all the letters in your column are made up by you or members of your staff. I think she is mistaken. It doesn't seem possible that you could have gotten away with a phony operation for so many years.

Will you please convince her that you are for real? — Clinton, Iowa

Dear Clint: This response is for you, not your English teacher.

It would be ridiculous to make up letters. What goes on in people's lives is far more interesting than anything I could invent. Moreover, nothing is so bizarre, so ridiculous or weird, that somebody, somewhere, won't do it.

My problem is that so many fascinating, usable, thought-provoking letters cross my desk every day. I have a difficult time deciding which letters to publish.

As for your English teacher — and others who think I make up letters — don't try to change their minds. "A man convinced against his will — is of the same opinion still."

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this for the person who wanted to know how to clean his dentures when he dined out in public. You asked if anyone out there had any experiences. Obviously, you have not. Well, I have, and here's the answer.

I keep a plastic box in my desk drawer. When I want to clean my dentures at noon, or at coffee break time when I have an occasional cookie or sweet roll, I go to the washroom, fill the little box with water, drop in a Polident tablet, retire to the private cubicle, put the dentures in the plastic box, cover with the lid, and shake gently. I empty the water in the commode, and put the dentures back in my mouth. The cleansing tablet isn't necessary, but it does help sweeten the breath.

This method has added to my comfort and protected me against embarrassment. I hope it helps. — Mrs. A.G. of Marshalltown

Dear Mrs. A.G.: Your "method" sounds like a very practical suggestion, and I am very happy to pass it on to all those with china clippers.

CONFIDENTIAL to Wish You'd Shut Up Until You've Had the Experience: Sorry, there's no way I'm going to shut up about alcoholism. Do you believe that before a person can evaluate an omelette he must be able to lay an egg?

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: I do need a medical explanation of skin bleeding. My mother has had trouble for years with varicose veins and had some embolism formation. She was put on a blood thinner. Two weeks ago she noticed large, odd-shaped blue spots on her trunk. Could this be what you called purpura? She also has puffiness of her ankles. — Mrs. A.T.

The drug used is a brand of warfarin, an anticoagulant (blood thinner, if you will). The blue spots are purpura (PER-poo-rah) and are not uncommon. The medicine can cause it. This doesn't actually mean a whole lot because the blood vessels of the skin are quite fragile anyway. Some people bruise easily when on blood thinners, even if their blood is normal to begin with.

Blood thinners are part of the treatment for blood clot in the vein (thrombophlebitis), especially if an embolism — a traveling clot — develops. The anticoagulant won't diminish the clot but it will prevent its enlargement. I don't mean that your mother can ignore the bruising. A person on such medicine should have tests to measure blood-clotting time. It helps the doctor regulate the dosage. A more important problem with the thinner is bleeding in the urine, which would appear as a pinkish hue. There can also be intestinal bleeding, which would cause reddish or very dark stool. Sometimes if blood is too thin, vitamin K may be needed.

Your mother's puffy ankles sounds like edema (fluid accumulation), a part of the picture with sluggish vein circulation. All these signs are important to report when being treated for a circulation problem. If she is a regular aspirin user, this should be reported. These and other arthritis control drugs can add to an existing thin blood problem, especially while taking stronger anticoagulants like warfarin.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been having a lot of pain in my back. I had an X-ray and my doctor said I have a spur on my spine. He says it isn't very big and if I lost weight it should help a lot. Can you tell me anything about this? What could have caused it? What is the best treatment? I can't find the word "spur" in my medical book. — Mrs. N.C.

A spur is a growth of bone that projects out from the surface. Spurs on the spine may be part of the picture with osteoarthritis, the kind sometimes called "degenerative" arthritis to distinguish it from rheumatoid. It's not clear why they form, but an injury may cause it as well as the bone problem. Many people walk around with spurs and have no problems. Perhaps your doctor has already passed on the best advice. Lose weight and take better care of your back. You may find a reference in your book under "deposits." The subject is discussed in greater length for the layman in the booklet, "How to Control Arthritis." You can get a copy of it by sending the 50 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What is the difference, please, between a radical mastectomy and a modified radical mastectomy? — P.A.D.

In radical mastectomy the entire breast, the muscles, and the lymph glands under the arm (axillary area) are removed. In a modified radical mastectomy the breast and lymph glands are removed. In simple mastectomy breast tissue only is taken out.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been an avid reader of the column since the late Dr. Thosteson began writing it. Glad it's being continued. I would appreciate a comment on my eye situation.

A year ago I had my eyes checked for glasses and was told I had cataracts forming. A doctor told me I may never need surgery. My eyes were watering so I returned to him for treatment. He told me then that I not only had cataracts, but glaucoma as well. There was no mention of that a year ago. Now he says surgery has to be done. Can we have both of these problems? I'm troubled by this new diagnosis. — E.W.

Cataracts, which as you know is a clouding of the eyes' lenses, often precedes glaucoma, which is a build-up of fluid pressure within the eyeball. With cataracts the lens may enlarge and contribute to the pressure problem. Other factors as faulty eye drainage canals may be at fault. Eyedrops used to control glaucoma and cataracts can create visual problems. The presence of glaucoma is a reason to remove the cataracts if they are contributing.

Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can lead to blindness. If you are afflicted with either of these ailments, still plays good bridge found herself the declarer at six notrump after some real overbidding by her partner. Not that most pairs didn't get to the good notrump slam, but Elinor managed to make an overtrick.

She started by cashing dummy's high hearts and spades and noted that East had to chuck a club on the second hand. Then she led a club toward her hand. East ducked and Elinor took her queen.

The ace and king of hearts were played next while two clubs were jettisoned from dummy.

East's first discard was the jack of clubs. His second was the deuce of diamonds. That discard produced the overtrick since it made the whole diamond suit good, but East had seen that his only chance to beat six would be if West held the diamond queen.

We recommend a cue bid of four clubs. There may well be a diamond slam in the offing.

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON—MICHAEL REED
NEW YORK — It's 11 a.m. during a typical weekday workday on the set of the ABC soap opera, "Ryan's Hope."

The actors and production staff have been in the studio since before 8 a.m. The actors have already had a pre-rehearsal in a bare room where they ran through the day's episode dialogue with the director, who has "blocked" them in movement directions. The technicians, meanwhile, were busy setting up the day's settings in the studio.

Now, the show is having a technical run-through to make sure the lights and camera angles are set. The performers are reciting their dialogue, fumbling occasionally and asking for cues. Some of the performers are paraphrasing the scripted dialogue and cracking jokes between camera setups.

Between scenes Ron Hale (Roger Col- eridge) comments that he's nervous because the producers haven't yet found an actress to replace Ilene Kristen, Ron's screen wife who played Delia and who decided a few weeks ago not to renew her contract.

"I feel as though I'm going through a divorce," says Ron. "After years of working daily with an actress, one develops an acting pattern that will necessarily be altered with a new actress. Because of the daily pressures, Ilene and I worked through on the show, we developed a bond and it's going to be tough as 'h' to acclimate to a new partner."

One of today's scenes involves the transfer of Nancy Addison (as Jill Beaulac) from an ambulance to a hospital after a shattering accident that cost her the life of her son. Nancy doesn't have dialogue. An unconscious Jill isn't required to do anything on her stomach when director Jerry Evans cajoles, "it's your scene, Nancy. Turn over and let's see your better side."

and murky, not Florida sunshine." "Pull back on camera 2. Don't cut off Ron's chin."

Within two hours a complete taped episode will be "in the can." Tomorrow's cast will assemble for a reading of the next episode of "Ryan's Hope." And audience will tune in tomorrow.

SHORT TAKES:
EVER WONDER how much moola is spent for an episode of a daytime serial drama? To give you an idea, consider the fact that when "All My Children" recently reproduced a raging snow blizzard during Ray Gardner's abduction of Donna Tyler and Edna Thornton, the producer blew 6,500 bucks for fake snow. They also scoured Manhattan to acquire 18 snow-making and wind machines. And just for a little "blowing in the wind."

"Neutral makeup was fine when fashions were smoky and smudgy. But to keep the face in focus now, you need a look that's bright, lively with color," says Mrs. Flor, who advocates brilliant lipsticks in cheerful, vibrant hues.

Actress Eartha Kitt Forgives, But Doesn't Forget

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Eartha Kitt says she is not bitter about the way the White House reacted to her much-publicized, impromptu denunciation of the Vietnam War during a luncheon 11 years ago hosted by Lady Bird Johnson — but the memory of it still plagues her.

"Why should I waste my energy on bitterness when I can spend it on something much more constructive?" Miss Kitt said recently in an interview at her four-acre Beverly Hills estate. "At the same time, I forgive, but I never forget."

Miss Kitt was one of about 50 women invited to the White House by Mrs. Johnson one day in January 1968 to discuss juvenile delinquency and crime. During that now-famous gathering, Miss Kitt remarked about the Vietnam War and "the toll it is taking on the best of American black youth."

Her comments touched off a Washington furor that saw the entertainer banned from American television, nightclub engagements and concert stages for several years. But time, like faded memories, has passed, and Miss Kitt has survived.

"If you're a survivor, no matter what is happening, you adapt, adjust and grow on it," says the 50-year-old star of "Timbuktu!," the flamboyant, Tony Award-winning, all-black version of "Kismet."

The earthy Miss Kitt, whose cat-like demeanor and purring speech once earned her the reputation of a "sex kitten" (the name helped, too), found work plentiful and rewarding in Europe and other parts of the world during her career exile from the United States.

"I've always been a star, even from the day I was born," says the exotically beautiful (and immodest) Miss Kitt. "Anyone can be an entertainer, anyone can be a name. Not anyone can be a star. It is something that God has made."

Yet international celebrity and star that she is, it wasn't until after President Johnson's death that Miss Kitt decided to test the waters of the American public and see how warm they were.

She found the angry tide had ebbed. So much so, in fact, that in early 1978, Miss Kitt was once again invited to the White House.

This time the invitation came from President Carter, and the occasion was to congratulate Miss Kitt for her stellar performance in "Timbuktu!," her first major American vehicle since 1968.

The Carters gave her the red carpet welcome. "It was a weird feeling, strange feeling," Miss Kitt recalled of her second White House visit. "I'm continuously with a feeling of how open the arms were."

Yet, Miss Kitt, still feeling a need to speak her mind, added reflectively that "at the same time, philosophically speaking, how open are the (Carter's) arms for the people of America?"

In the '50s and early '60s, long before her White House outburst, the sensuous Eartha Kitt was No. 1 in the entertainment arena. Singing, dancing, acting — there was no aspect of her craft that she had not mastered with a suggestive style that would send today's feminists into a fiery rage.

Miss Kitt, who claims to "pick a lot of cotton" in her spare time, resolutely worked her way up from the most forsaken of beginnings. Born in South Carolina the unwanted, illegitimate child of a free-spirited black woman and a white planter, she escaped the cruel guardianship of an aunt by fleeing to foreign shores in her teens.

There, her talent was uncovered and she was catapulted into a cosmopolitan world of jetsetters and social climbers. Miss Kitt enveloped the comfort of minks and millionaires, while her reputation as a sultry temptress drew fans by the thousands.

But the times changed, and Miss Kitt did not. The sex she playfully suggested in her acts was being replaced with blatant promiscuity of latter-day performers.

Even her personal life began to show signs of the stress, when in 1964 her four-year marriage to Beverly Hills accountant William O. McDonald was dissolved.

Her saving grace, she recalled, came from her daughter Kitt, today 17 years old and flawlessly fine.

"She has opened a light within myself," says Miss Kitt, her eyes betraying a loving glow not previously detectable. "And I hope that the kind of light I have will help her guide her way."

Oh sure, there were television guest appearances on popular shows like "Police Woman," "Mission Impossible" and "Batman" (in which she played the infamous Cat Woman). There was even an Emmy Award nomination for an "I Spy" role.

She even dabbled in the movie industry now and then, earning an Oscar nomination for "Anna Lucasta." But it was the stage where she displayed her talents best.

In 1975, "Timbuktu!" was on the drawing board. Its director-choreographer-cosmoter and childhood friend of Eartha Mae Kitt, Geoffrey Holder, signed Miss Kitt as leading lady, and the onetime queen of international stardom was back in the entertainment forefront.

"Timbuktu!" now on stage in Hollywood through Feb. 11, has played to standing ovations from New York to Los Angeles. For her part as the head wife of the pompous ruler of Timbuktu, Miss Kitt won a Tony Award nomination.

Her role, although not a dominant one, is commanding. Miss Kitt moves sensually under Holder's voluminous chiffons and taffetas, lending suggestively with quick toe as well as eye movements and a vibrantly inimitable voice.

Yes, for all intents and purposes, Miss Kitt is back home to stay. Or as she says in her opening line, "I am here!"

Model Trains Hold Fascination For Retired Railroad Fan

LARGO, Fla. (AP) — Some little boys fall in love with trains and grow up to run them. Max Davis grew up to own them — a thousand model trains that jam an entire room of his home and are worth a quarter-million dollars.

Davis, a retired manufacturing executive, began his railroad romance nearly 60 years ago when his parents wrote his name on a note, pinned it to his chest and put him on a train to visit an old maid aunt in Southern Illinois.

The aunt worked for the Illinois Central Railroad and crewmen would take young Max on train rides. At night he would watch the railroad's main line from his aunt's front porch.

"I knew just when the passenger trains would come, especially the one going from Chicago to New Orleans — the Panama Limited. They had nurses, a barber shop, a beauty parlor — they had everything on that train," says Davis, now 65.

"It was such a luxury train that rumor was if the train was late, the railroad paid customers one dollar for each minute it was overdue," he says.

Davis had his first model set at age 8, began collecting in earnest in 1948, and things picked up steam from there. The train collection grew to the thousand or more, which now line the walls of a room at his home here.

Along the way, Davis and 54 other charter members founded the Train Collectors Association, which now lists 11,000 members.

Although he concentrates on American trains, his collection includes models from India, Spain, France, Italy, Switzerland and Germany. He lost out on one train shipped from Italy when it went down with the ill-fated ocean liner Andrea Doria.

Davis is disenchanted with modern American passenger trains.

"It's almost revolting to have to ride on a train in this country," he says. "It's pitiful. Such beautiful trains in other parts of the world and ours stink. They're dirty and the food is awful."

His heart belongs to another era, when steam drove great locomotives and their whistles haunted the night.

"Young people will never know the romance of the old steam engine," he says.

"When you stood on the passenger platform and that big old steam engine pulled up, there was a smell of steam and oil — there was an aroma that is now lost. To me, it was just like Chanel No. 5."

WOLF ROAMS STREETS

BEGRAD, Yugoslavia (AP) — A wolf that escaped from the zoo in Skopje has been roaming the streets of the southern Yugoslavian city, frightening residents. Officials said the beast would return to the zoo when it gets hungry. "I cannot say for sure where the wolf is now, but I can claim with certainty that as soon as it gets hungry it will return to its cage," a zoo specialist was quoted as saying Monday by the Belgrade newspaper Politika Ekspres.

Mart Down, Dollar Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly Monday as the post-New Year's rally of the past few weeks bogged down.

Trading slowed considerably from the active pace of late last week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial, up nearly 55 points in the last four weeks, pulled back 3.98 to 855.77.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange came to 24.7 million shares, down from 34.23 million Friday.

Notable losers among the big-name flomator and blue chip stocks included Du Pont, off 1/8 at 136 3/4; Texas Instruments, down 1/8 at 86 1/8; and International Business Machines, 1/4 lower at 311 1/4.

Hopes that interest rates had reached or passed their high point had been cited as a major factor in the market's strength of late. But a number of analysts have questioned whether that speculation might not be premature.

Pope Calls For Improved Lot Of 'Downtrodden'

CUILAPAN, Mexico (AP) — Pope John Paul II made his strongest plea for improving the lot of Latin America's downtrodden Monday, criticizing rich landowners who "hide the bread needed by so many families."

"It is not fair, not humane, not Christian to continue certain truly unjust practices," the pope said in an address to an estimated crowd of 700,000, many of them Indians from regional tribes, barefoot and dressed in brightly-embroidered garb.

The remarks were not contained in a text of the speech released earlier. The pope traveled to this dusty southern town by helicopter, in a special trip to the people after two days of discussions with some of Latin America's leading clergy. The pope arrived in Mexico on Friday to inaugurate the Third Latin American

Support Gathered For Sea Mammal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has joined the State of Florida in proposing to establish areas in Florida's inland and coastal waters to protect the endangered manatee.

The Interior Department has published proposed rules that would allow it to declare protected waters where human activities could be restricted or prohibited to protect the manatee.

The manatee is a warm-blooded, air-breathing vegetarian also known as the sea cow.

Bishops' Conference, a meeting billed as setting the course of the Roman Catholic Church in Latin America for the coming decade.

In his address, the pope called for "truly effective measures on the local, national and international levels." He did not specify what measures he spoke of, but said it was clear that those who must give the most are those who have the most.

He cautioned the Indians against resorting to violence or holding feelings of hate and told them to look to the Lord, "who rewards all with what their acts merit."

As the pope landed in Oaxaca on a jet flight from Mexico City, two earthquakes eight minutes apart rolled through the Mexican capital 350 miles away. The tremors rattled windows in the capital, but there were no reports of serious damage or injuries and the tremors were not felt in Cuilapan.

The tremors measured 5.5 and 6 on the Richter scale. The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs and a reading of 5.5 or reflects a quake that is capable of doing considerable damage.

As the pope stepped from the craft, he waved his arms like a triumphant hero, carrying a Mexican straw hat worn by farmers in the area. The pope perched the wide-brimmed hat on his head and was greeted by a roar of approval.

Indians from the Zapotec, Mixtec and other Mexican tribes chanted his name as he made his way to a raised platform in front of a 17th century monastery, the dominant structure in this town of 2,500.

The pope gave his blessing to "those who come from so many other places, heirs of the blood and culture of your noble ancestors — especially the Mixtecs and the Zapotecs."

He told them the Roman Catholic Church cared about them and that the Church is concerned for the welfare of all mankind.

Police estimated that 700,000 persons had gathered to hear the pope.

The dirt field where they gathered was ablaze with the colors of their tribal costumes. Barefoot women stood in long, hand-embroidered skirts next to men attired in their best white shirts and pants.

Many had waited all night for a chance to see the pope. Several thousand slept shoulder-to-shoulder, forming a human carpet around a wooden speaking platform.

"We arrived at four o'clock this morning but I'm not tired yet. I want to see the pope," said Manuela Diaz Balderas, 70. "I feel something very big inside me. I cannot read or write so I cannot explain it so well. But I like it."

"It is something that stays in the heart forever," said Wenceslao Paniagua Gutierrez, a 35 year-old government worker.

In his first conference speech the pontiff on Sunday, the pope rebuffed militant progressives advocating a "theology of liberation" and criticized those who see Jesus "as a political figure, a revolutionary, as the subversive of Nazareth."

The pope said the bishops' mission is to tend to the spiritual aspirations of man. He said they must continue to fight for more equal distribution of wealth and for human rights. But he said the church must shun violence and could not be wedded to any political system.

"Whatever the miseries or suffering that afflict man," he said, "it is not through violence, the interplay of power and political systems, but through the truth concerning man that he journeys toward a better future."

The bishops responded with polite applause.

The pope's schedule called for him to spend Monday night in Mexico City, visit Guadalajara, the country's second-largest city on Tuesday, and leave for Italy on Wednesday.

CONCENTRATION—Texas Tech's Ben Hill is all determination as he muscled his way up for two points against TCU Monday night in the Municipal Coliseum. Hill ended up with eight points and the Raiders whipped the Frogs 91-71. (Staff Photo by Milton Adams)

Raiders Smother Frogs

By JIM FERGUSON
 Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 What can you say about poor old Texas Christian that hasn't already been written on most public bathrooms walls in America?

Not much. For the first 20 minutes of Monday night's Southwest Conference basketball game with Texas Tech—which TCU lost 91-71—the Frogs showed why they have yet to win a league game.

It wasn't until five minutes had passed before the Frogs could get their first field goal. And they had to wait an additional two minutes after that before pulling down their initial rebound.

By that time, folks, the Red Raiders had bucketed five of their first six shots and started their domination of the boards. (Tech ended the first half by out-rebounding TCU, 23-11.)

"That's been the story all year," said TCU coach Tim Somerville. "We come out and have a hard time getting started. You can't do that with a team like Tech and expect to win."

Center Ralph Brewster got the ball rolling for Tech when he hit a layup with 19:24 left in the first half. Kent Williams canned a 23-foot jumper to put Tech up by four.

However, TCU did manage to get within two points of Tech after that as Jim Hund hit a couple of free throws goal after being fouled by Jeff Taylor. That was as close as the visitors would come to catching their hosts the rest of the night.

After that, the Raiders reeled off eight unanswered points as Taylor canned two long-distance jumpers, then Geoff Huston hit a bucket, and Taylor connected once more to give Tech a comfortable 12-2 lead.

And believe it or not, after that flurry, some of the 4,720 fans started heading to the exits.

"We came out fast and played with a lot of intensity," said Raider coach Gerald Myers. "We played hard all the way down to the last man on the bench."

All 13 Raiders on the squad entered the game by the 2:33 mark. By the end of the night, the entire team scored at least two points.

David Little, connecting on seven-of-eight shots from the floor, was the Tech scoring leader with 14 points. Taylor and Huston both added 12 points each and Williams, Brewster and Joe Baxter canned 10 points apiece.

The Raiders were 22-of-38 in the first half and wound up hitting 42-of-60 attempts or 60 per cent of their shots. TCU, which went 9-of-24 from the floor in the first half, came on strong in the second half by canning 19-of-32 shots.

"We've yet to put two good halves together this year," said Somerville. "You just can't play 20 minutes and win a game."

Somerville also pointed to "inexperience and Tech's rebounding" as two of the major reasons TCU failed to stay up with Tech. At one time, the Frogs had five freshmen on the floor.

But there was another reason, too, for Tech's lopsided win, said Somerville—namely the play of the Red Raiders.

"I think that's the best Tech's played since back at the beginning of the year," said Somerville. "If they keep playing like that, they'll be back of there with the big boys."

The win upped Tech's SWC mark to 5-3, while TCU slipped to 0-8.

Williams, who hit five-for-seven attempts from the floor, agreed with Somerville's assessment of Tech's performance, wholeheartedly.

"I thought we played real well," said Williams. "We came out fast and set the stage for the game by scoring the way we did early."

"The win," continued Williams, "was a total team effort. Everyone contributed something and that's important."

In the second half, the Frogs showed signs of mediocrity when they cut Tech's 19-point halftime lead (45-26) down to 17 points (57-40).

largest lead of the night, 24 points, after Joe Baxter hit a 17-foot jumper shot at the 3:42 mark.

The Raiders will now hit the road for a couple of games, first heading to Houston for a Thursday night contest with Rice, then Saturday to Waco to meet Baylor.

"This was a good win for us," said Myers. "It was important we had one before we go on the road. We'd lost four of our last five games, so we needed a win."

The game was played with only two officials, Jerry Sarchett and James Mankins of Lubbock. A heavy fog kept the crew scheduled to officiate the game from getting to the contest.

Coleman Heads For Raiderland

By CHUCK McDONALD
 Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The Texas Tech football program got some sorely needed help at the running back position Monday when Royce Coleman, an All-State fullback from Plainview, informed the Avalanche-Journal that he will definitely attend Tech in the fall.

"I made up my mind Sunday afternoon," said Coleman, who had visited the Tech campus over the weekend. "I told Coach Dockery that I liked it here and this was where I wanted to go."

The A-J has also learned that Gregory-Portland quarterback, Mark James has made a commitment to attend Tech.

NCAA regulations prohibit any coaching staff from either confirming or denying any reports until the recruits have officially signed with the school. The first day for signing a Southwest conference letter-of-intent is Feb. 14, national letters cannot be signed until Feb. 21.

Coleman had visited SMU earlier this year and had a visit scheduled with the University of Oklahoma this weekend. But after his Tech visit, Coleman cancelled the Oklahoma trip.

"I called them (OU) and cancelled my visit after I talked to Coach Dockery," said Coleman. "And I liked SMU but it wasn't near as nice as Tech."

"My parents and friends will get a chance to see me play at Tech," he said, "and if I had gone to Oklahoma or somewhere they might never even have heard my name."

In addition to receiving All-State running back honors in class AAAA, Coleman was named to the All-South Plains team and was the district 4-AAAA MVP as he rushed for over 1300 yards in his senior year.

Coleman led the Plainview Bulldogs to an 11-2 record, the best in the school's history before they lost to Odessa Permian 28-0 in the state quarterfinals.

Tech Options Go On Sale

Texas Tech athletic officials have announced that beginning Feb. 1, all available option seats in Jones Stadium will go on sale to the general public on a first come-first served basis.

The option seats now being made available are being sold for 80 per cent of the original selling price since eight years remain on the original 10-year option program.

According to Texas Assistant Athletic Director John Owens, good seats still remain in all three option areas - $300, $200 and $100.

"The main thing we are trying to do now," said Owens, "is inform people what the option program really is."

"We have done a breakdown on what it would cost to buy season tickets without an option, and there is only $47 total difference in the $300 area. In the other two areas, the difference is even less than that. In essence, then, it is only costing a person $5.87 more a year to be guaranteed the best seat available for the next eight years."

Ticket office officials also said reservations for season and single-game tickets are now being accepted at the Tech ticket office.

The Red Raiders will open the 1979 football season Sept. 8 in Lubbock against the University of Southern California.

Cambodian Forces Challenge Invaders

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The forces of fallen Premier Pol Pot claimed on Monday to be closing in on the Vietnamese and rebel-held Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and listed other gains — some of which were confirmed by Indochina analysts here.
“The country is settling in for a long, hard fight,” said one diplomat in Bangkok.
Sources within the Thai and Western diplomatic and military community, monitoring the six-week war from this Thai capital, said highway four leading from Phnom Penh to the sea had been cut.
Phnom Penh was seized Jan 7 when Vietnamese troops and pro-Vietnam Cambodians found the city abandoned by Pol Pot and others who had fled to set up resistance in the countryside.
The sources also said the ports of Kompong Som and Kampot were still immobilized by heavy fighting and that the ancient temples of Angkor, symbols of Cambodian nationalism, may have been recaptured.
In early January, the military map was a series of neat arrows representing Vietnamese thrusts from east to west. But over the past two weeks the map has become a checkerboard of Vietnamese and Cambodian forces engaged in almost all areas of the country.
The fighting is said to vary from minor skirmishes to sharp engagements, especially in key communication and resupply points held by the Vietnamese.
Pol Pot’s Voice of Democratic Kampuchea (Cambodia), believed broadcasting from China, said the Cambodians had “liberated” virtually all of southeastern Cambodia and penetrated within about 6 miles of Phnom Penh from the south.
The broadcast described the situation of the Vietnamese invasion force as “desperate.” It also claimed the temples of Angkor had been re-taken from the Vietnamese.
“The Vietnamese invaders in Phnom Penh are losing morale and their fighting spirit,” said Pol Pot’s radio. “They are in a panic because they cannot communicate with the outside.”

Downturn Of Economy Predicted This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy will suffer a downturn in the second half of 1979, making it nearly impossible for President Carter to hold the budget deficit below $30 billion, the Congressional Budget Office predicted Monday.
Carter has said that holding the budget deficit to $30 billion or less is a key part of his fight to control inflation. But the budget office said that without more spending cuts, the deficit is likely to balloon to about $41 billion.
The budget office reached that assessment in its analysis of the president’s budget for fiscal 1980, which begins next Oct. 1. Carter’s budget calls for $53.1 billion in spending, $50.2 billion in receipts and a deficit of $29 billion.
Based on a less optimistic economic forecast, the congressional analysis projects higher government spending, less revenue and a bigger deficit than does the administration.
An economic turnaround affects the deficit because it means slower economic growth, meaning the economy does not create as many new jobs as anticipated. That leads to higher unemployment, which means both lower tax revenues and higher expenditures for such things as unemployment compensation and food stamps.
Asked about discrepancies between his administration’s projections and those of other economists last Friday, Carter defended his figures, saying they took into account the economy’s strong showing at the end of 1978 and other factors.
The president described economic growth figures for late 1978 as “vigorous and broad-based.” He said he also foresees a drop in inflation, a stronger dollar and a smaller trade deficit in 1979.
The Congressional Budget Office, however, said that “although the economy does not yet show significant signs of weakening, continued high rates of inflation appear to be sowing the seeds of a downturn.
The budget office predicts a mild economic downturn in the second half of 1979 with the gross national product, adjusted for inflation, growing not at all or up to 2 percent for the year. That compares with the administration’s forecast of 2.2 percent growth this year and a growth rate for 1978 of 4.3 percent.
The budget office foresees an inflation rate of from 7 to 9 percent in 1979, compared to the administration’s projection of 7.5 percent. The budget office also expects unemployment to range between 6.2 and 7.2 percent this year, compared to the administration’s estimate of 6.2 percent.
For 1980, both the administration and budget office believe the economy will stage a modest recovery. However, the budget office continues to be less optimistic than the administration about inflation and unemployment.
The budget office predicts a 6.5 to 8.5 percent inflation rate next year, compared to the president’s estimate of 6.4 percent. It expects unemployment to remain about the same, between 6.2 and 7.2 percent. The administration sees a 6.2 percent jobless rate in 1980.
The budget office said it does not expect a deep recession this year because businesses have maintained “relatively lean” inventories and because the U.S. export picture is improving.
Meanwhile, the chairman of the president’s Council of Economic Advisers said Monday that it may be necessary to further tighten the Carter administration’s wage and price guidelines in 1980 to reduce inflation to the 6.5 percent level.
Charles L. Schultz told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that while “no decision has been made... my judgment is that it probably will be necessary in 1980.”
