Fuel Shortages Plague Shivering Texans

By TOM GRIESS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The mercury plunged to record lows for the date across much of Texas Monday night and early today, as many Lubbock residents were left without water when plumbing froze under the severe conditions.

But the Hub City's situation was bright compared to some areas downstate, where thousands of persons temporarily were without electrical power or natural gas for heating.

The bitterly cold temperatures produced natural gas curtailments in several cities and towns across the southern two-thirds of the state, primarily in areas least prepared for winter storms. The town with the most immediate problem was Weimar, 80 miles southwest of Houston, where natural gas supplies stopped altogether at 8 a.m. after an equipment malfunction.

At Dallas, a spokesman for Dallas Power and Light said its natural gas supplies had been cut and appealed to the public to use less electricity to avoid a brownout or blackout in the Metroplex.

Numerous power companies in Central and South Texas also appealed to their customers to conserve energy to avert a crisis.

In Lubbock, a record low of minus two degrees was recorded at 6 a.m. today, shattering by three degrees a record set in 1919.

Treacherous highway conditions which slowed traffic to a crawl over the holiday weekend may ease somewhat with warmer temperatures this afternoon, but observers held out the possibility of patches of ice remaining on the roadways through tomorrow morning.

Motorists were advised to continue to drive with caution today.

The bitter temperatures have caused extensive problems for home owners, said a spokesman for Lubbock Power & Light. He said numerous calls have been received and more are expected concerning frozen pipes and loss of water.

"We're swamped," said Wheeler Mount, superintendent of water and sewer operations for the City of Lubbock. "We've had over 100 calls this morning" from residents who have frozen plumbing.

"We anticipate quite a number of broken pipes when they begin thawing," Mount added, but there have been no major problems with broken water mains.

Roads remain ice-glazed throughout the Lubbock area, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety said this morning, and traffic flow is generally confined to one lane.

Traffic volume over the weekend was reported as lighter than usual because of the weather conditions, said the spokesman, and accidents to date "have been very minor."

No accidents were reported in Lubbock from midnight to 6:30 a.m. today, according to the Lubbock Police Department, and only four, none with injuries, were reported during the morning rush hour ending at 10 a.m.

City crews have been operating full tilt since 5 a.m. Saturday, running three 8-hour shifts daily, said R.L. Woods, the Lubbock street maintenance supervisor. See ARCTIC AIR Page 14

Civilian Cabinet Formed In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Prime Minister-designate Shapour Bakhtiar has completed his selections for a new civilian Cabinet to replace the military regime installed two months ago to deal with the riots against the shah, an aide to the former opposition leader said today.

The aide, who asked not to be named, did not say when the proposed Cabinet list would be announced, but it presumably will be made public Wednesday or Thursday.

The state radio said the Iranian Senate would meet Wednesday, and sources said the session likely would result in a resolution backing Bakhtiar's proposed government. The lower house would then have to take similar action before the list would go to the shah for his approval.

The shah and his family posed briefly Monday for foreign photographers on the grounds of the palace, apparently to reinforce claims by the shah's aides that he has no plans to leave the country. The shah did say, however, that he might take a "vacation" abroad when the domestic situation permitted.

(Iranian Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi was due to return to Reese AFB today after a holiday vacation. The time of his arrival was uncertain because of weather conditions, according to Steve Headley of the Reese AFB information office. The prince has a weekend home in Lubbock.)

The Iranian military took over operations at the Tehran airport control tower today and restored limited commercial service after a strike by airport workers brought air traffic to a near standstill. The move allowed hundreds of foreigners and Iranians to leave the country.

Diplomatic sources said commercial planes began landing at the airport after a U.S. Air Force transport came in safely on a "test run." The transport was to take out families of American military personnel. But the U.S. Embassy said there had been no decision yet to use government planes for American civilians.

Pan American and Lufthansa flights landed and took off for Frankfurt and Istanbul.

Several private firms were organizing charter flights for employees and their families because of the uncertainty of scheduled service.

Canadian Ambassador Kenneth Taylor said two Canadian military planes and one commercial plane should begin flying out of Canada Wednesday and were expected to take out some American, British and West German citizens also.

Pan American canceled flights to the Iranian capital Monday after airport employees announced they were boycotting American and Israeli airlines because of their governments' support of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. The landing of an El Al jetliner triggered the walkout.

The French Embassy said commercial transport had been sufficient so far for those of the 4,000 French desiring to leave. The British Embassy said its government was helping to arrange charter flights for Britons stranded in provincial cities and might do this for Britons in Tehran if the demand warranted it.

Iranian state radio said today a railroad workers' strike that began last Friday had all but paralyzed the nation's rail system.

The continuing violence prompted the U.S. Embassy to advise American wives and children on Sunday to leave the country, and about half the 30,000 remaining Americans are expected to go.

Davis Tapes Called Sham

HOUSTON (UPI) — T. Cullen Davis today described as a "sham" incriminating tapes made last August with an FBI informant with whom he discussed killing his divorcee.

Prosecutor Tolly Wilson surprisingly ended his cross examination of the murder conspiracy defendant by simply securing Davis' admission the content of the tapes was accurate.

Wilson asked Davis if he still maintained the tapes "were a sham and were made for a particular purpose."

"They were made, number one because I thought the FBI had told me to do so and, number two, because I thought (FBI informant David) McCrory's scheme was legitimate," Davis said.

On redirect examination, defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes again asked Davis if McCrory ever "actually said he would have people killed."

"No, he never actually said that," Davis said.

Haynes repeated an earlier question whether Davis ever agreed to pay any money for any divorce-related services by McCrory.

"I deliberately withheld talking about money or doing anything to anybody in conversations on the tapes. I wasn't sure that somewhere down the line it might backfire on me and I might end up buying back some tapes," Davis answered.

The millionaire said he went as far as he felt he could in the tapes because he thought an FBI agent had asked him to do so.

Davis essentially characterized the purported scheme as a plan in which he hoped to persuade persons hired to kill him to work for him instead and turn against his wife, Priscilla, whom he said had hired the hit-men.

Davis had testified last week in detail about his role in the dramatic encounters with McCrory which resulted in his Aug. 20 arrest. Wilson appeared content to obtain the defendant's admission the contents of the tapes were genuine and released him as a witness to defense lawyers.

Wilson, however, will be able to question Davis once defense attorneys have completed their redirect examination.

Today was Davis' fourth day of testimony and the 10th week of his murder conspiracy trial.

Jurors also may be hearing today from See DAVIS CONCEDES Page 14

Food Price Dip Noted

New Year's grocery prices are reflecting a pleasant — if slight — decrease, according to an Avalanche-Journal market-basket survey in a local supermarket.

Despite a sharp increase in the price of iceberg lettuce, January's total for 16 standard grocery items is down eight cents from December's total.

Groceries that cost $20.74 in December, 1978 cost $20.66 in January, 1979.

The total for the 16 items has increased about two dollars a year for the past two years, adding up to $18.66 in January 1978 and $16.50 in January 1977. But groceries were down between 1977 and 1976, totaling $16.64 in January 1976.

Lettuce prices have increased sharply during the past month because of a re-

Icy Roads In State Take Holiday Toll

By United Press International

Texas motorists, apparently ignoring warnings about a severe winter storm which left roads in treacherous condition from the Panhandle to the Rio Grande, ushered in the New Year by rushing to their deaths in record numbers, the Department of Public Safety said today.

Final DPS figures indicated 39 persons died on state highways from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Monday. Eleven of the deaths came on icy city streets.

Last year 30 persons died during the same period. The DPS, pessimistic after 57 persons were killed during a similar 78-hour period at Christmas, had predicted at least a record 35 deaths for the New Year.

But no one had foreseen the effect of the wintry weather.

"It was the icy roads," said a DPS spokesman who earlier had issued warnings for Texans to stay home during the weekend.

"The ice kept some people off the roads, but not enough. For those who were out, the ice just made it that much more dangerous."

Nationally, a UPI survey this morning showed 352 persons had been killed in holiday traffic mishaps and another 53 in fires.

California reported 46 deaths, the most in the nation. Following Texas' 39 were Ohio with 23, Florida with 20 and 12 each in New Jersey, Georgia and Tennessee.

A polar front trailing snow, sleet and freezing rain struck the Panhandle and South Plains early Saturday and spread into North Central Texas Saturday night. By Sunday, it covered much of the state and made roads extremely hazardous. Snow fell in Northwest Texas, while a deadly ice storm chilled the area from Dallas to the pine thickets of East Texas and as far south as Austin. Freezing temperatures glazed over highways even in the generally tropical Rio Grande Valley Monday night.

The worst of the holiday wrecks occurred Monday when a car carrying three persons in New Caney in Montgomery County was smashed by a train. All three persons in the car, Daniel Thomas Parker, 30, Sharon Rope Geary, 26, and Brian Raymond Jr., 6, were killed in the accident. Four others were injured.

In another accident in which a child was killed, Gilbert Gonzales, 2, died along with his mother, Maria Gonzales, 18, in a two-car accident inside the Seguin city limits. In that accident Monday two cars crashed broadside, sending an additional three persons to the hospital.

The first reported fatality of 1979 was Danaso Anthony Olivares, 21, of San Antonio, who skidded his motorcycle off a city street and was killed. The DPS said his death occurred one minute after midnight New Year's Day.

The DPS said the 39 deaths occurred in 35 accidents. Six were pedestrian, four died in auto-train crashes and there was one motorcycle crash.

Murder Trial Scheduled

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A two-year-old capital murder case was set for retrial in the first week of February as criminal District Attorney John Montford brought 216 felony cases to court on his first working day in office today.

Don Louis Warren, convicted of capital murder for a slaying during a March, 1975 burglary, will be retried on order of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which ruled last spring that there was insufficient evidence to support the death penalty Warren received.

He was convicted in 72nd District Court in the death of Vic Tucker during a burglary at Tucker's 19th Street residence.

Among other cases in the docket call were aggravated rape, and burglary with intent to commit rape charges against Larry D. Perryman.

Perryman is accused of several burglaries and rapes last September in the 5th Street area between University Avenue and Avenue Q.

Priorities were set on 60 other cases which will be dealt with in coming weeks.

Judge Robert C. Wright also took motions of continuance and noted upcoming guilty pleas and various other actions in the pending cases.

Beginning a new method of handling criminal cases in Lubbock County this year, Judge Wright and Judge Dentil Bevers will hear criminal cases full time for the next four weeks. Then judges William R. Shaver, Thomas Clinton and John McFall will join the two judges in a four-week rotational system.

In another court matter today County Court At Law Judges J.Q. Warnick, Jr. and E.H. Boedeker said they were having See MONTFORD Page 14

EXPERTS SAY UFO SIGHTING IS PLANET VENUS — The head of New Zealand's Mount John Observatory said today that the unidentified flying objects filmed by Australian TV men were almost certainly the planet Venus. The photo at left is from the TV film made over the weekend off the coast of New Zealand. The photo at right is of the planet Venus made in 1974 by the Mariner space probe. New Zealand astronomer David Mabin said Venus is currently at its brightest and can be seen for about 12 hours each day. Another solar expert said the radar echoes reported were probably "radar angels" which are fairly common in the Southern Hemisphere at this time of year. (AP Laserphoto)

Astronomer Says UFO Sighting Probably Shining Planet Venus

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Experts poo-pooed a TV crew's claim that it filmed UFOs but the New Zealand Air Force put a plane on the alert to chase any more suspicious sky travelers that show up.

David Mabin, head of New Zealand's Mount John Observatory, said the unidentified flying objects the Australian TV men said they filmed over the weekend and another sighting reported on the east coast of Australia early today almost certainly were the planet Venus.

Mabin said Venus is currently at its brightest and can be seen for about 12 hours a day. "From a moving aircraft or from a car, it could appear to be moving at the same speed because of the great distance," he said.

The leading British astronomer Sir Bernard Lovell told London newspapers the sightings probably were meteorites that failed to burn up on entering the atmosphere, that it was "depressing and deplorable" that bright objects in the heavens could be imagined as visitors from outer space, and that such suggestions were science fiction.

The Australian TV films were shown in the United States Monday on CBS Evening News, and afterward UFO expert Allen Hynek of Northwestern University told CBS: "This is certainly one of the best if not the best, purported UFO films I've seen... I'm cautioning us to be wary of it simply because it doesn't fit a general pattern. It is a nocturnal light, and light seen in the night sky can be caused by a great many things."

Another UFO expert, Phillip Klass, avionics editor of Aviation Week and Space Technology magazine, said on the same broadcast: "My preliminary conclusion at this point is that probably the object they photographed was a celestial body, perhaps Venus, that the numerous radar echoes which were reported to be behind them, which we see no images of, were probably the familiar radar angels that are so prevalent in the Southern Hemisphere at this time of year."

Quentin Fogarty, a reporter for a Melbourne, Australia, TV station, said his crew filmed the UFOs for seven minutes Saturday night from a plane over Kalkoura, in the eastern region of New Zealand's South Island.

He hired the plane to retrace a New Zealand Airline flight that reported seeing UFOs Dec. 21 over Cook Strait, the narrow channel that separates the two islands of New Zealand.

"There were bright globules of light pulsating and expanding and lighting up the foreshore and town of Kalkoura," Fogarty said. "We got frightened when Wellington radar control told us we had one on our tail. Then it was joined by five more..."

Fogarty said as the objects came closer he saw that one was saucer-shaped with a dome on top and another was egg-shaped with white lights moving around it.

"The whole feeling was that we were in their domain," he said. "They seemed in control and aware we were filming. I don't think they were going to harm us."

"We have now recorded sightings by six pilots on three aircraft over 10 days and a host of radar sightings," said an air traffic controller at the Wellington airport.

The New Zealand Defense Ministry said fighter-bombers would be sent up to investigate if any more unusual radar signals are received.

Spanish Terrorists Hit

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Suspected Basque separatists carrying submachine guns shot and killed an army major today at the door of his home in the northern city of San Sebastian, police said.

In another Basque city, Pamplona, a bomb exploded in a major street killing one person.

The bomb victim's body was so mutilated he was not immediately identified.

First reports on the Pamplona bomb said the dead man was a police bomb squad member who had been called to defuse the device.

The bomb had been planted near the offices of a right-wing industrialist who is a member of the extremist party Fuerza Nueva, or New Force, the reports said.

The army major killed in San Sebastian was identified as Jose Maria Herrera, an aide to the military governor of Guipuzcoa Province.

Dressed in uniform, Herrera was preparing to get into his car to go to work at 8:30 a.m. when the assassins struck. They escaped in a stolen car, police said.

No group immediately took responsibility for the slaying but the separatist organization ETA, standing for Basque Homeland and Liberty, has slain 39 people in the last three months and was suspected of carrying out the killing.

ETA members last killed a military man in October, when they gunned down a navy captain in Bilbao. In July ETA gunmen assassinated a general and a lieutenant colonel in Madrid.

Government officials say ETA is trying to provoke the Spanish army into intervening in the strife in northern Spain in order to polarize the population.

Taiwan's Economy Growing Steadily

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — Taiwanese surged into stores during the New Year holidays and set records for holiday purchases, adding to the island's booming economy despite the break in diplomatic relations with Washington.

President Chiang Chung-kuo said Taiwan faced a "critical moment of life and death" when Washington Monday broke its links with the Nationalist Chinese government and normalized ties with Peking.

In a speech marking the 68th anniversary of the fall of the Manchu Dynasty and the establishment of the Republic of China, Chiang rejected an offer of reconciliation with Peking, urged a new self-help policy and vowed his nation would never give up its anti-communist stand.

"Beginning today, we must use our own heads and our strength and redouble our efforts to hold our heads high and further our confidence," Chiang said.

But Taiwanese pushed aside fears of an uncertain future and jammed restaurants and stores in Taipei and other major cities.

Many attended wedding banquets Monday with couples rushing to get married before the Year of the Sheep, which starts with the Chinese New Year's Day on Jan. 28, because it is a "year of forlorn phoenix," according to superstition.

Couples getting married in that year are supposed to suffer from separations or childlessness.

Despite Chiang's talk of crisis situation, end of the year figures showed the island recorded its highest economic growth rate ever in 1978 — 12.8 percent.

Economic Minister Chang Kwang-shih said today foreign trade — the lifeblood of Taiwan — grew by 30 percent to $23.4 billion in 1978. Exports grew by 33.5 percent and imports rose 28 percent.

Although the United States formally severed its links with the Nationalist Chinese after 65 years, it will remain a strong trading partner of Taiwan.

Washington and Taiwan signed a trade agreement last week in which each side agreed to about $3 billion of concessions by reducing tariffs.

Official statistics show trade between Taiwan and America will amount to $7.5 billion in 1978 with a $2.7 billion surplus in favor of Taiwan. Washington will absorb 40.3 percent of the island's exports and provide 21.6 percent of its imports.

The ugly mood in which students attacked American installations when President Carter announced his decision Dec. 16 to sever official ties with Taiwan has been replaced with calm and resignation.

Shi Men Ting, the major shopping area of Taipei, teemed with shoppers until midnight Monday.

Stores were so crowded that customers were stopped from going in 90 minutes before closing.

A Lai Lai department store spokesman said the 10-story establishment had its biggest crowds ever Monday night. "All departments have reported record sales," he said.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Of Promises Broken

MORE IMPORTANT than whether President Carter is wise to terminate a mutual defense treaty with Taiwan—with or without a by-your-leave from Congress—is the question of whether America's word is good for anything anywhere.
It is in that context that his decision to abrogate the 1954 commitment to Taiwan becomes more than academic interest.

why does he need anybody's concurrence in order to make it?
In the instance of the Taiwan pact, the President points to a provision which states that "either party may terminate it one year after notice has been given to the other party."

Similar provisions are contained in numerous other treaties, a study by The Heritage Foundation points out, and as a result the Taiwan decision "already is causing second thoughts in other world capitals."

TAKE THE TREATY which forms the basis for the NATO alliance, for example. Signed 29 1/2 years ago, it provides that "after the treaty has been in force for 20 years, any party may cease to be a party one year after its notice of denunciation..."

Do we want this bedrock document of our national security subject to the whims of a single man in the White House?
When he was running for office, Mr. Carter promised he would consult Congress on important international matters and not enter into secret negotiations.

IF, AS PRESIDENT Carter claims, a treaty remains in force only at the will of the President, then it is the man in the White House—not the nation itself—that has an agreement with a foreign power.
The Constitution gives the President power to conduct foreign policy but he can enter into a treaty—which is a national commitment, not a personal one—only with the advice and consent of the Senate. If he can break that treaty on his own authority, then

All You Gotta Do Is Keep Them Charmed For A Year!

John D. Lofton:

True Concession Bad For Seoul

WASHINGTON—OK, so President Carter didn't really consult with either the Congress, the American people or our ally Taiwan before his decision to "normalize" relations with Communist China.
And so what if candidate Carter did denounce the Republicans for conducting this kind of a secret, exclusionary foreign policy? After all, how many politicians keep their promises?

Did the Communist Chinese explicitly promise, either in writing or verbally, that they would not use force against Taiwan once our defense treaty was terminated? No they did not.

AS DR. ZBIGNIEW Brzezinski, President Carter's adviser on national security affairs, explains it: all the Chinese communists did was "not contradict" our expression that we have an interest in the peaceful resolution of the Taiwan issue. That's it? That's it.

But actually, this isn't it. The Chinese communists have not merely failed to contradict our expressed desire to see a peaceful solution to the Taiwan question.

They have told us, in no uncertain terms, to mind our own business. In a press conference in Peking, Chairman Hua Kuo-feng has declared: "As for the way of bringing Taiwan back to the embrace of the motherland and reunifying the country, it is entirely China's internal affair."

So this alleged "concession," in which the Chinese communists are said to have "not contradicted" our hope for a peaceful solution to the Taiwan issue, has been contradicted, making this "concession" not worth the paper it isn't printed on.

ALL RIGHT, what about the Chinese communists' "agreement to disagree" that the United States can continue selling defensive arms to Taiwan? Isn't this a "major concession," as the administration says it is? Not at all.

Again, in the same news conference, Chairman Hua made it clear that the continued sale of U.S. arms to Taiwan after normalization "does not conform to the principles of normalization, is detrimental to a peaceful settlement of the Taiwan question, and will exercise unfavorable influence

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Bedroom Referees

MY NEIGHBOR Twice Removed says here we are, nearly two days deep into 1979, and he's still worried sick over whether John Wilkes Booth acted alone in assassinating Abraham Lincoln.

The new year is certain to be better than was 1978. For one thing, several million teenagers will be turning 18 and becoming legally responsible for their share of the federal debt.

This is the year when Texas Tech finally wins a trip to the Cotton Bowl and the Lubbock public begins to revolt against the way lawyers waste their time in the courts.

It looks like after 130 years of statehood, the lawyers in the district courts and the lawyers on the appellate courts would know enough about the law that the former could convict lawbreakers without the latter turning 'em loose on legal technicalities that the former overlooked.

NOW THAT THE Oregon Legislature has had its little joke, maybe it'll repeal that silly rape-marriage law it passed while back.

Trouble is, the joke won't be so funny to wives who may suffer physical abuse at the hands of cruel husbands who misread the verdict of innocent handed out in the only case brought to trial under the Oregon law.

As all know, John Rideout was acquitted by a jury of four men and eight women who heard his wife's accusations that he raped her.

The jury knew instinctively that it would be an impossible task, and an insane one, for the courts to act as referees of the yes, no and when of the marriage bed.

Law should protect any woman, or man, from physical injury—but a charge of assault with intent to do bodily injury is an entirely different matter from rape.

Feminists who pretend to believe that marriage should be eliminated as a defense against a rape charge still have such laws on the books in Iowa, Delaware and New Jersey.

But not all of them need count Oregon as a complete loss: It'll make a good launching pad for fat fees on the lecture circuit in support of "women's rights."

FROM A WALL Street Journal news roundup: "The U.S. has told France it can proceed with plans to sell (Red) China two 925,000-kilowatt nuclear power plants based on Westinghouse Electric Corp. technology. The projects are expected to cost the equivalent of $2.2 billion..."

"Diplomatic sources said the U.S. and France agreed to provide China with the sophisticated nuclear equipment despite Soviet warnings that the West was following a dangerous policy in supplying China with advanced technology."

Remember when a furor was raised because some of the bombs dropped on Pearl Harbor were made from scrap iron bought from the U.S.?

International developments and a sluggish stock market, which sometimes mysteriously forecasts events nobody is consciously aware of, have revived 1976 campaign reminders that every Democratic President in this century has taken the U.S. to war.

We had World War I under Wilson, World War II under Roosevelt, Korea under Truman and Vietnam under Kennedy-Johnson...

EVEN ALLOWING for a bit of bureaucratic over-statement, a report on nursing home conditions in Texas commands attention.

Prepared after a 17-month investigation by an attorney general's task force, the report says most of the state's 1,015-licensed nursing homes are doing a good job.

But the conditions the task force says exists in some of the homes give the whole industry a black eye. It alleges what Atty. Gen. John Hill calls "some very, very disturbing situations—unbelievable in some instances."

Rats, ants, unattended bed sores, dirty conditions and unfeeling attendants were found, according to Hill.

SUCH REPORTS frighten persons who may themselves be candidates for a nursing home or who have a loved one who needs to be in one.

Hill's task force claims the Texas Department of Health plays footsie with marginal nursing home operators instead of cracking down on abuses.

With an estimated 77,000 Texans now living in nursing homes, the care they receive is of grave public concern. Any condition which causes misery for an elderly person who is helpless to protect his own rights cannot be tolerated.

Holmes Alexander:

Mr. Carter Has An Obsession

WASHINGTON—Despite popular misinformation, King Canute (985-1035), a Danish prince who won the crown of Britain by conquest and ruled by cruelty until a pilgrimage to Rome totally reversed his savage character, never tried to stop the waves to stop rising at his command.

He used the ruse as a rebuke to flatterers who said that his power was unlimited.

He proved that a natural tide has no regard for human kingship, and, according to his biographer, Huntington, set the crown aside and never wore it again.

One modern application of this legend could be President Carter and his attempt to halt the advance of nuclear power plants in poor countries.

THE ADVANCE OF atomic fuel is a natural tide if there ever was one, and Carter would be wiser if he behaved as Canute actually did, not as the misinformation has it.

The President, who called himself a nuclear engineer during the campaign on the grounds that he studied to be a nuclear sailor, is very wrong in his present attitude.

He is wrong in giving credence to the fright that plutonium, a product of processing the atomic fuel, is not only prohibitively dangerous to work with, but is a mere college lab experiment away from turning it into an H-bomb.

Spokesmen here at the Atomic Industrial Forum hoot at this amateurish superstition.

The separated plutonium is well within control of modern scientists, knowledge of its properties is worldwide and it is invaluable because it is the only man-made renewable fuel that is known.

CARTER IS WRONG also in the snobbish attitude that only the rich and powerful nations have rightful claims on plutonium.

He concedes that Britain, the United States, West Germany, France and Russia are fit possessors and users of plutonium, but he has filed strong demurrers in the cases of India, Argentina and Brazil, among others.

It strikes me that the time has come for Carter to emulate the real King Canute, demonstrate to one and all that he cannot command the tides of nature, and even to doff the crown he wears as ruler of the world's greatest industrial nation.

Ignorance in the use of death-dealing materials is more perilous than knowledge, and the world has made more progress under the disciplines of the International Atomic Energy Agency than under any of the disarmament treaties.

As Churchill foresaw the atomic weapon was more likely to dictate a peace of mutual terror than an earth-shattering war. Certainly, the equipment of South Korea with tactical nuclear weapons is a potent dissuader to its northern neighbor.

The world's other overwhelming problem, of course, is food for countries with galloping birthrates.

No greater opportunity exists for increased fertilization of crops, their transport and treatment, than the nuclear opportunity offers.

There is, of course, an alternative to the nuclear proliferation for which Carter has such a pronounced fear.

That alternative is paternalism. Some major nations, or a few of them would conceivably corner the market on atomic materials and act as the world's patrolman and quartermaster. But this is not a solution that the world is in any mood to accept.

Sylvia Porter:

Can You Take HMO For What Ails You?

(Third of four columns)
AS PART OF its stepped-up drive to support the development of federally qualified health maintenance organizations (HMOs), the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has just completed a national market survey to identify those areas in the nation that have a clear potential for a thriving organization.
The HEW is now seeking sponsors in those cities and is working with business, labor and physicians' groups to create new HMOs.

threat to the fee-for-service arrangement. Others who prefer a more regulated workday without having to worry about running an office are choosing to practice in an HMO.

Q. How long does it take to get an HMO started?

A. Generally, about three years: one year for a feasibility study, a second for planning; the third for initial development (hiring staff, buying equipment, erecting buildings).

Q. If I'm unhappy with an HMO: to whom can I complain?

A. Each HMO is required to have a realistic, workable grievance procedure as part of its federal qualification.

Q. Can an HMO member transfer from one HMO to another?

A. There is currently no provision for transferring membership from one HMO to another.

Q. Does the HMO fee have to be paid all at once?

A. No. There is an annual fee which is paid in monthly installments.

Q. WHY HAS the Senate refused to give the administration the funds it wants for HMO development? What is behind the Senate's admonition to HEW to crack down on fraud and abuse?

A. The Senate looked at HMOs and indicated there were problems with fraud and abuse. The cases cited occurred many years ago in California and have been corrected. HEW monitors qualified HMOs through regularly required financial reports and on-site visits.

Tomorrow: Final quiz on HMOs.

Egypt, Israel Prepared To Resume Peace Talks

By United Press International
Egypt said today it is prepared to resume the stalled peace negotiations with Israel but will not budge from its demand the Palestinians should rule themselves by the end of 1979.

Israel also said Sunday it was willing to have another go at peace talks with Cairo as soon as the United States could arrange a site for the negotiations based on the Camp David agreements.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said the talks could resume in two weeks in Washington, site of the earlier talks that broke down in November preventing a signing of the treaty by the Camp David Dec. 17 target date.

The Israeli Cabinet Sunday again rejected a link between an Egyptian-Israeli treaty and Palestinian self-rule on the occupied West Bank and the Gaza strip but offered to discuss the autonomy plan.

The Cabinet's weekend position represented a reversal of the Jewish state's earlier "take-it-or-leave-it" statements to Egypt over the treaty, and Cairo was quick to respond.

Egyptian state-controlled newspapers Al Akhbar and Al Gomhouria said Egypt would again discuss peace with the Jewish state but would not sign a treaty unless there was some provision of Palestinian linkage.

The breakthrough came on New Year's Eve when the Israeli government said it was ready to negotiate the contents of a letter on Palestinian autonomy to be attached to the treaty, Cairo reports said.

Foreign Minister Butros Ghali said the Palestinian autonomous authority should be set up before the end of 1979 "and the Israeli military administration in the West Bank and Gaza should be abolished."

Unless provision for Palestinian autonomy is made in the letter, Egypt would be signing a separate peace with Israel "and we are not ready to do this," Ghali said.

Egypt and Israel are also locked in dispute about Cairo's defense obligations to other Arab States.

Egypt wants its defense obligations confirmed in an "interpretive note" that would form part of the "treaty package." Israel argues Article 6 of the treaty negates the Egyptian commitments to Arab nations.

Israeli troops Monday prevented the third attempt in less than a week to set up an unauthorized settlement in the rocky hills of the West Bank.

Some 40 settlers drove in private cars to the foot of a hill about a quarter of a mile from their homes in Beit Horon, a border police encampment that they said is not large enough for them and the families that want to join them.

Soldiers arrived within hours and the families agreed to peacefully dismantle their improvised settlement.

Man Talks Way Into Trouble

A 23-year-old motel desk clerk received a call about 11:35 p.m. Monday and was told to put a bag of money in a room in the back of the motel or he would be shot.

William Hardy Browder told officers he was working the desk at the La Quinta

Motor Inn at 601 Ave. Q when the caller told him he had a gun and was watching from across the street.

Browder said he was instructed to put the motel's money and checks in a bag and place it in a room under construction at the motel or he would be killed. However, the desk clerk ignored the threat and called police.

When police arrived, they questioned two other persons in the lobby, and further investigation, arrested one of the men, who said he had hitchhiked from Houston and was employed with a London, England, firm.

Police said they were told by the 25-year-old Pasadena man that he knew no one in Lubbock, but then said he wanted to go across the street to another motel and visit a friend.

When the suspect left, a 70-year-old man told officers the man had been in the lobby about an hour and had been using the phone most that time. Police went to the Hilton Inn at 505 Ave. Q to talk to the Pasadena man again and were told by the desk clerk there that the suspect had spent the previous night in that motel lobby.

The suspect then told officers he had been on the phone talking to his girlfriend and calling the airport to get a flight back to London. However, Browder told police the man was in a 1975 Monte Carlo which had broken down in front of a restaurant next to the La Quinta.

When police called the phone number the suspect said was his girlfriend's, it was disconnected. Police ran a trace of the Monte Carlo and it was reported stolen from Houston.

Police said they found papers in the car which had one of several names the suspect had given to officers and the motel employees.

Morgan said clothing found in the vehicle may have been taken in the burglary of a Lubbock apartment Saturday. Among the suspected stolen items was the pants the man was wearing when he was taken into custody, Morgan said.

The man was being held this morning in the county jail on suspicion of theft and burglary.

Youngster Survives Long Fall

MIAMI (UPI) — A 2-year-old boy fell from a seventh-story apartment window to the grassy lawn below and survived Monday.

The boy was taken to a nearby hospital for emergency surgery. He apparently suffered a punctured lung and other internal injuries. He was listed in serious-critical condition.

Firemen said the youngster had climbed up to the window, pushed out the screen and fell with it when it gave way.

Dade County Fire Lt. Thomas Carter described Michael Granholm as "a very active child (who) always wanted to play."

The number of moonshine stills seized was 120 less than in 1977.

Virginia led the way in 1978 with the most seizures, 114, followed by North Carolina, 89, Alabama, 64, Georgia 39, and South Carolina, 20.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government's seizure of illegal moonshine stills sagged to a low of 361 in 1978, and there appeared to be a good reason.

"Potential customers complain moonshine tastes bad, contains lead poison and costs about as much as legal spirits," the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms reported Monday.

"People are just not very interested in moonshine anymore," said Acting ATF Director John G. Krogman.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandra S. Jaffee, 35, who joined Citibank in 1974, has been named a senior vice president, the first woman in the bank's history to reach this level of management.

When the owner of the pawn shop, Harold Stuart, arrived he said his business had been burglarized and about a $1,000 in guns stolen.

When police entered the building they found guns, as well as the suspects, in a back room, they said.

Reports show that police also recovered a camera, clothing thought to have been stolen from a Lubbock department store and six checks from a local steak house.

The men were being held this morning in the county jail.

Robertson's Plane Ready To 'Crash'

OPA-LOCKA, Fla. (AP) — Cliff Robertson's movie airplane is headed for an unhappy takeoff, but the crash will be an illusion.

ROBERTSON

Officials of Prunier Productions say they plan to "crash" the DC-8 at Opa-Locka airport next week, and then return the $500,000 jet unharmed to its owner, Concord International Airlines. In the scene, the plane will veer off course on the runway, smashing through a plastic foam model of a radar shack. One engine will "explode" and a fireball of flame will engulf the craft. The sequence is the finale to a film called "The Pilot," in which Robertson portrays an alcoholic airline captain. Robertson, a licensed commercial pilot, will do his own flying. Production manager Boyce Harman said he's confident the crash will be a success — in a cinematic sense — but there's no way to rehearse. "It's one of those things that you shoot the shot, then everybody goes to church until you see the rushes," he said.

Billy Carter Says He's More Popular

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Carter says his brother Jimmy is "probably the most brilliant man I've ever known" but that he himself is more popular — and makes more money.

"I get along with folks," the president's brother said in a Penthouse magazine interview. "My audience is not the real high-class crowd, not the middle-class, but more the working-class."

"I hate to say it," he said, "but I guess I'm one of the best judges of audiences in the world, and whatever they want to hear is what I talk about."

The president's younger brother also said he believes he'll still draw crowds after Jimmy leaves office. "One of the best things that is happening now," he said, "is that when we come into a town, they don't say, 'Jimmy Carter's brother's coming.' They say, 'Billy Carter's coming.' It's a big step."

Pope Offers Prayer For Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II welcomed the new year with a special "peace prayer" asking for an end to war and hatred.

Speaking on the Roman Catholic Church's "World Day of Peace," the 58-year-old pontiff Monday directed his Happy New Year wishes to the sick, imprisoned and those held by kidnapers in Italy.

"Deliver us from war, from hatred, from the destruction of human life! Don't let us kill!" the pope said. "... Deliver us from evil! Defend us from war! From any war."

The pontiff also issued a papal message for the day, entitled "To Reach Peace, Teach Peace." The message, released 10 days ago, asked "all of you who desire peace to make gestures of peace, even audacious ones, to break free from vicious cycles and from the deadweight of passions inherited from history."

Red Shoes Make Big Hit

GOSHEN, Ohio (AP) — Red shoes once owned by singer Judy Garland are a big hit with students at Goshen High School.

The students paid $375 to buy the shoes at an auction in Beverly Hills, Calif. Now they're writing the late singer's third husband, Sid Luft, who staged the sale, and her daughter, Liza Minnelli.

"...Their interest in something of Garland's had, for them, more importance than just to hoard it in some private collection," said Eldon Thomas, head of the music department.

Students also plan an annual Judy Garland award, to go to a senior who plans a career in performing arts and who might "fill Judy Garland's shoes."

To Miss Minnelli, who has asked a court to order a halt to the sale of her mother's possessions, the students wrote: "We understand and sympathize with your feelings in not wanting your mother's personal belongings disposed of ... but the red shoes will be cared for and used with proper respect."

Mini Times Square

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — It wasn't Times Square, but the effect was equally exciting for 500 people who watched in a downpour.

The crowd gathered on Broadway in the nearby village of Alden late Sunday for the community's fifth annual New Year's Eve festivities.

People cheered and car horns reverberated through the village as John Hay climbed a telephone pole, caught a pass from Bill Morrish, waited for the crowd's countdown, and — at the stroke of midnight — tossed a basketball to the street below.

Adams Appears Ready To Keep Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six months ago there were whispers in Washington that Brock Adams was a sure bet for extinction. Now, after a good legislative record and "a little philosophical chat" with the president, Adams appears solidly entrenched as secretary of transportation.

In July, Adams called a news conference to vehemently deny a newspaper story that said he might leave his post by the end of the year.

A few weeks later, a news magazine rated the Cabinet officials according to a survey of administration and other government sources and Adams was at the bottom of the list.

Adams, a former six-term congressman from Washington state, was in hot water with the administration early because of his initial opposition to sweeping regulatory changes in the airline industry and for naming too many of his House staff members to key department posts.

Then much criticism was leveled at Adams last summer when several important pieces of transportation legislation were stuck on Capitol Hill.

"I honestly don't know where this is coming from," Adams said at the news conference in July. While never proven, most observers believed the pressure came from White House staffers.

"I'm sure I stepped on some people's toes over there," Adams said in an interview last week. "If you're a strong Cabinet officer you always have friction with White House staff people."

He said he decided in November to find out how he stood with Carter.

"I just felt that because of all those stories and rumors that a little philosophical chat was in order," continued Adams.

"I said to the president, 'Here is what we have done. I think we had a very good two years. If you want me to go, fine. It's up to you.'"

"His answer confirmed what I guess I already knew, which was that the president was very happy with me and the way the department is run," Adams said.

Why didn't he go to the president earlier? "I made a deliberate decision that the department ought to produce something first — pass the highway transit bill, pass a waterway user bill. Go up and pass a legislative program and then issue all the regulations that have been pending for years."

Adams skillfully used his knowledge of Capitol Hill and links with many former colleagues there to help break many legislative logjams.

By waiting, he had an impressive legislative package to set before the president: Airline deregulation, the biggest mass transit program in U.S. history, a bill that makes barge operators pay for the use of American waterways, air cargo deregulation, tanker safety and important railroad measures.

An administration source who asked not to be identified said he felt Adams' position with the president "is stronger than some people have suspected and stronger than it is with some people in the White House."

Department Official Warns Of Overuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Agriculture Department official says overuse of arid lands coupled with severe weather conditions poses a "serious threat to the economic well-being of the U.S. Southwest."

The warning from M. Rupert Cutler, assistant agriculture secretary, was coupled with announcement that the United States and Mexico will increase cooperative research and exchange of information to improve the productivity of arid lands. "We must reduce erosion on arid rangelands and increase plant cover," he said.

Adams has been more active and confident since his meeting with Carter.

He went to Detroit and told auto makers to "re-invent the car" to meet long-range energy needs of the country. He called an automobile summit for next spring to discuss the options.

He told the highway and transit communities he intends to merge them at the federal level, something that will be tough to accomplish.

And he's gearing for a major battle this year to deregulate both the trucking and railroad industries. There is stiff opposition, especially from major truckers, and he predicts that effort will make the airline deregulation battle seem like a picnic.

Chinese Analyze Ancient Liquor

TOKYO (AP)—Chinese scientists are analyzing liquid from 2,200-year-old bronze vessels to determine whether it is an ancient alcoholic beverage, China's Hsinhua news agency reported Monday.

A small amount of the green liquid was poured from one tightly sealed container soon after it was excavated, Hsinhua said in a dispatch received here. "When the lid was opened, it had a strong aroma of liquor," the report said. It said the liquid resembles bamboo leaf liquor.

Rising Prices Could Slow Construction

SEATTLE (AP)—Despite a healthy housing market nationwide, specialists in the Northwest regional forest products industry fear rising prices and interest rates will mean a slowdown in construction this year.

The prediction is similar to one the industry made at the beginning of 1978, which turned into a boom year as the annual rate of housing starts soared to 2.1 million units.

Signs are that the strong housing market will continue through the first half of 1979, but industry economists see a recession possible after that.

"We're expecting an almost recessionary economy and a housing crunch," said Weyerhaeuser economist Bruce Lipke. He said he expected the housing demand to drop to 1.6 million units, and added that the downturn should be less severe than the nosedive the industry experienced in 1974 and 1975.

The housing market thrived in 1978 despite interest rates that have climbed toward 12 percent in parts of the country. The question in the industry now is whether prospective home buyers can continue to pay both higher interest rates as well as keep up with the prices of houses.

Federal anti-inflation emphasis on high interest rates is worrying much of the forest products industry. "The Carter program means somebody will be crowded out, and housing is usually the first to go," said Lipke.

Lower prices in the futures market for lumber, studs and plywood contracts support pessimistic outlooks by industry specialists. In mid-December, futures figures showed traders expect prices for lumber to fall 11.6 percent by July and by 19 percent by November, in anticipation

Army Research Favors Cheap Cuts Of Meat

NATICK, Mass. (AP)—Army research into veal cutlets and other "restructured meats" may offer consumers relief from the predicted increases in meat prices, according to government officials.

"We can take the tougher cuts of beef, veal, pork and lamb and transform them into highly desirable steaks or chops with considerable savings in cost," reports Dr. Abner Salant, director of food engineering at the Army research laboratories in Natick.

Salant said Saturday the process developed by the lab could offer savings of 50 percent despite predictions of sharp increases in the price of hamburger and steak.

The American Meat Institute predicted last week that the price of hamburger would soar 40 to 50 cents per pound next year while steak prices are expected to climb 25 cents. The institute blamed the increases on a decline in the size of beef herds.

Under the process developed at the Natick labs, cheaper portions of beef are cut into flakes at chilled temperatures and then formed into steak-like slices or cutlets.

The flakes can be packed into casings and stored until they are reshaped into individual portions by hydraulic pressing. Salant said the flaking process helps retain the natural flavor and juices of the meat.

"Breaded veal cutlets were the first restructured items to meet our requirements," said Salant. "The response has been so favorable that restructured cutlets are now being purchased rather than the natural."

Salant said the new process will mean savings to U.S. taxpayers since the Army will use it to feed its troops.

"We have military specifications for engineered beef steak, pork and lamb chops and procurements have been made or will soon be made on all of them," he said.

Savings Firm Damaged In Burglary Attempt

A burglar at the Sentry Savings Association at 6502 Slide Road during the holiday weekend apparently didn't take anything of value. But that didn't discourage him from leaving behind a season's greeting anyway.

When police arrived at the firm about 4:30 a.m. today they found bars pried off one of the windows, a fire door heavily damaged and the word "HI" scrawled on a floor mat.

Association vice president Bill Flemmons said nothing was missing from the offices, but he estimated $400 damage was done to the building. He said the break-in occurred between 1 p.m. Saturday and early this morning.

Police today continued their search for four men who allegedly took $700 from a Lubbock man at gunpoint as he walked out of an outside club Monday.

Bobby Joe Larry, 41, told officers that four black men approached him and one of the men pressed a small black revolver against his stomach and demanded money.

Larry told police he gave the bandits his wallet containing $700 and the suspects fled.

Despite the cold weather, several Lubbockites discovered they had become victims of burglars and thieves.

James Edward Brown of 2210 24th St. left the motor running in his jeep to warm it up about 1:30 a.m. Monday, but when he returned outside, he found that someone had driven off with the $10,250 vehicle.

Thieves carted off $1,000 worth of goods from Darden Wayne Pierce's home at 2201 Ninth St. sometime between 7 p.m. Sunday and 1 p.m. Monday. The stolen property included a black-and-white portable TV set, two guitars and numerous eight-track tapes.

Burglars netted a portable color TV set and a stereo system from Wanda Jackson's apartment at 2802 Juniper Ave. The break-in occurred sometime between 9:30 p.m. Sunday and 7:45 a.m. Monday, she told police.

Juan Leyva Garcia of 2006 Ave. K reported that burglars removed a $1,200 color console TV set from his home sometime between 6:30 p.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday.

Glenn Allan Nossow of 2919 Ninth St. said someone took a portable black-and-white TV set and a camera, valued at a total of $450, from his residence sometime between 8 p.m. Sunday and 1 a.m. Monday.

Alberto Asua reported that someone took a spare tire and a tool box from his van, which was in a parking lot at Parkway Drive and Quirt Avenue, Sunday night. Asua said that he had only been gone for about 15 minutes.

Christina Onassis Finds Privacy In Moscow

By SETH MYDANS

MOSCOW (AP) — Christina Onassis has found in Moscow the privacy, simplicity, peace and quiet the Greek shipping millionaire said she could never have in the capitals of the West.

Five months after her third marriage to an out-of-work Soviet bureaucrat, Miss Onassis succeeds in keeping out of sight and out of the headlines. She refuses all requests for interviews and has changed her telephone number. Foreign reporters in Moscow have stopped pursuing her.

"If this were Paris or London, I wouldn't be able to walk down the street without being pestered," she once remarked.

Now, friends say, she is learning to be the housewife she always wanted to be and staying home most nights with her husband, Sergei Kazov, whom she met in Paris when he worked there for the Soviet freight company Sovfrakt.

The marriage of one of the world's richest women to an obscure Communist Party member last Aug. 1 caused a stir around the world and much speculative comment about her motives and the future of the $500-million shipping empire she inherited from her father, Aristotle Onassis.

"The world knows I haven't had much happiness up to now," said the 27-year-old bride, whose earlier life included two brief marriages, the death of her brother in a plane crash, the divorce of her parents because of her father's affair with opera star Maria Callas, the death of her mother after two more marriages, her father's marriage to Jacqueline Onassis, whom Christina reportedly loathed, her father's death and a wrangle with his widow over her share of the estate.

Miss Onassis told friends that all she wanted in her new life was to cook for her husband, have a baby and find the "peace and quiet" she had never known. "I've been accustomed to so much luxury in my life that it won't be such a problem to live simply," she said.

After the wedding, the bride and her 37-year-old husband moved into his mother's 2½-room apartment, but that experience in spartan living didn't last long. The couple got two apartments which they combined into a seven-room suite. A designer friend came from Paris to help with the decoration, and she shopped in Helsinki, Finland.

She also bought a Mercedes and does her grocery shopping in a special food store where foreigners buy produce that is not generally available in Soviet stores.

Miss Onassis is not often seen in public, but she has attended receptions at the Norwegian and Canadian embassies, where she has friends. She also is reported to have vacationed recently in Switzerland.

She shows no signs of being pregnant despite recurring rumors that she is. She is reported to have said she hopes that when she has a child, it will be born in the Soviet Union. If it is, even though she retains her Greek citizenship, it will automatically become a Soviet citizen under a new law that takes effect in June.

Under Soviet law, if she and Kazov separate or divorce, he has no claim on any of her fortune acquired before their marriage. But he would be entitled to half of all earnings since then.

Spokesmen for Miss Onassis have said the daily business of the shipping conglomerate is being carried on, as it was before her marriage, by associates of her father. Miss Onassis said at the time of the marriage she would no longer be directly involved, and Kazov emphatically denied he would have any connection with the operation of her holdings.

Vietnamese Accused of Aggression

By DENIS D. GRAY

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Cambodia's president accused Vietnam today of a "large-scale aggressive offensive" that has advanced deep into eastern Cambodia on several fronts, and Cambodian rebels backed by Hanoi claimed capture of the town of Kratie, cutting the main routes between Phnom Penh and north-east Cambodia.

Observers in Bangkok said the Vietnamese may be making an all-out drive to overthrow the Cambodian Communist government. They said if the Cambodian army has lost Kratie, 100 miles northeast of the capital and 50 miles from the Vietnamese border, it probably was taken by the Vietnamese 5th Division, which had been reported advancing on the key town.

There was speculation that the United Front for National Salvation, the rebel movement formed a month ago with Vietnam's support, would proclaim Kratie its capital. A senior official of the Thai Foreign Ministry said this would give the rebels greater credibility with both the Cambodian population and foreign opinion.

Cambodian President Khieu Samphan charged in a speech broadcast by Radio Phnom Penh that Vietnam was attacking Cambodia with a "huge number" of infantry, tanks, artillery and planes. He appealed to the United Nations and countries in Asia and elsewhere for help.

Khieu Samphan said massive Vietnamese forces in the past week advanced into Kratie and Ratanakiri provinces, and along the old Saigon-Phnom Penh highway, 100 miles south of Kratie.

The president said Vietnam launched the offensive although nearly 10,000 of its troops had been killed or wounded in Cambodia in the last three months of 1978.

There was no immediate response from Hanoi, which throughout the three-year border war between the two Communist regimes has repeatedly denied violating Cambodian territory. But Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh told reporters in Bangkok last month that the Vietnamese army could take Phnom Penh "in 24 hours" if Hanoi wanted it.

Khieu Samphan's speech made no mention of the rebel United Front, which in a Radio Hanoi broadcast claimed its forces captured Kratie Saturday "in concert with the local population."

The town is on the two chief routes from Phnom Penh to northeast Cambodia, the Mekong River and Highway 13. The Front also claimed its forces and the local population "liberated" two areas on Highway 19 in Ratanakiri Province, Bung Lung, 100 miles northeast of Kratie, and Bor Bor.

A Vietnam News Agency dispatch claimed that the people in several central provinces of Cambodia had denounced the "repressive" government in Phnom Penh. The dispatch said the government was trying to suppress such activity.

Vietnam, with Soviet backing, and Cambodia, with Chinese support, have been engaged in a border war since late 1975, after the Communist defeat of the U.S.-backed governments in Cambodia and South Vietnam. Although the Vietnamese and Cambodian Communists were allies during that war, the alliance was soon submerged in the enmity and territorial rivalry that for centuries have existed between the Cambodian and Vietnamese peoples.

Solons Announce Plan To Aid Refugees

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A U.S. congressional team flew over a stranded refugee ship in Manila Bay today and announced a rehabilitation plan that would turn Asia into a "haven" for Vietnamese refugees.

Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., told reporters the Asian Development Bank had agreed to finance the projects for the establishment of permanent "self-sustaining" refugee communities "in various nations throughout Asia."

The idea behind the plan, he said, was to remove the economic obstacles to the resettlement of refugees "so that some of the nations which have not accepted the refugees will be moved into accepting them."

Wolff and his party had a first-hand look at the refugee situation when they flew over Manila where 2,400 Vietnamese refugees lay packed in the Hong Kong freighter Tung An, unable to land after Philippine authorities denied them temporary asylum last week.

Werner Blatter, representative of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees who has been screening the refugees, indicated at the least a third or about 800 of them would be resettled in industrialized countries. These are refugees with family links overseas.

Philippine authorities indicated they would insist that those refugees who might not be repatriated should go to Hong Kong, their first port of call. "Let them go to Hong Kong," one senior official said. "We should have done what Brunei did." The Tung An was earlier denied entry in Brunei and towed back to open waters.

A government spokesman said today the Philippines might banish the refugee crowded Tung An to Hong Kong if no outside nations offer to resettle the Vietnamese boat people.

The spokesman said the Philippines has the right to order the 1,600-ton Tung An to sail to the British colony since it was its original port of call.

He said Hong Kong authorities also are insisting the Huey Fong, which has 2,700 refugees appealing for temporary shelter, sail to Taiwan — its original destination.

The right to demand that a vessel sail to its first port of call is provided under international law, the spokesman said.

The Tung An left Bangkok Dec. 2 with a cargo of cattle feed bound for Hong Kong. It rescued a sinking boatload of 700 Vietnamese, 230 of whom drowned off the coast of southern Vietnam.

First denied asylum in Brunei where it was towed out to sea, the Tung An sailed to Manila Bay last Wednesday.

A Philippine newspaper suggested the United States accommodate the refugees at its naval base 90 miles northwest of Manila while resettlement arrangements were made.

"It is perhaps timely to chide the United States, the country directly responsible for the Vietnam War and the consequent abandonment of Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon, to take up its moral responsibility of rehabilitating displaced citizens of Vietnam," the pro-government Daily Express said.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the United States has not officially received a formal request that it give temporary shelter to the refugees at the base.

The spokesman said the embassy also was awaiting word from Washington on a Philippine appeal to reunite some of the Tung An refugees with their relatives in the United States and had not yet received a list of Vietnamese eligible for reunification.

U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees Werner Blatter was expected to complete interviews with the refugees today.

Philippine authorities have agreed to wait for at least 10 days for answers from the 20 countries they have urged to accept the refugees. After the deadline, the government planned to tow the cargo ship out to sea and set it on course for Hong Kong.

400 Workers To Be Laid Off In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich today finalized plans to lay off 400 city workers this week and prepared for a confrontation between himself and the state attorney general's office over the city's non-payment of $5 million to a pension fund.

Details of the layoffs were to be revealed at a 3 p.m. news conference at City Hall, according to Andrew Juniewicz, the mayor's press secretary.

Finance Director Joseph Tegreene said the payment to the pension fund was not made because of a restricted cash flow situation. But a spokesman for the attorney general's office said the state would insist on being paid on time.

A $2.7 million payment by Cleveland to the Police and Firemen's Disability Pension Fund was missed Dec. 15, the same day the city defaulted on $15.5 million in short-term notes. A lien was placed on some city tax funds by the pension fund's trustees to cover the missed payment.

"We're not going to pay on time," said Tegreene, adding that the city might be able to pay the debt by the end of the month. "Our cash flow won't allow it. It was a choice between making our payrolls or pension payments."

"We have to take a hard line to see that pension payments aren't deferred," said Donald Antrim, of the Attorney General's office. "The law is very clear. We believe it is our responsibility to members of the (pension) fund to see that full and complete payments are made."

Kucinich previously has said 400 city workers would be laid off unless the City Council agreed to sell $5 million in city property or the Police and Firemen's Disability Pension Fund board dropped its lien on city tax funds. The council has refused to approve the land sales and Antrim said the state was prepared to go to court to stop any effort to lift the lien.

Agencies Not Linked To JFK Slaying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House Assassinations Committee member says the panel did not find a "scintilla of evidence" linking the Secret Service, the CIA or the FBI to the death of John F. Kennedy.

But Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., chairman of the committee's John F. Kennedy subcommittee, said Monday the Justice Department should pay particular attention to anti-Castro Cubans and crime syndicate members in its follow-up investigation of Kennedy's murder.

Preyer reiterated in a statement the committee's finding of a probable conspiracy in the Kennedy murder.

The conclusion was based in part on the testimony of acoustics experts who said a second gunman fired at Kennedy from the grassy knoll in Dallas 15 years ago.

"The acoustic evidence, if it is accurate, makes it certain beyond reasonable doubt that there were two people shooting at President Kennedy in Dealey Plaza," Preyer said.

"We examined the testimony of the acoustics experts for flaws and were unable to find any."

Preyer said the committee did not find "a scintilla of evidence" linking the Secret Service, the CIA or the FBI to a conspiracy.

"We also believe that anti-Castro Cuban groups and the national syndicate of organized crime were not involved," Preyer said. "However, our committee does not preclude that individual members of organized crime or anti-Castro Cuban groups were involved."

"This is an area which we believe further investigation is most warranted by the Department of Justice."

"We are recommending that the evidence we have developed be pursued by the Justice Department in the same manner that our committee would if time and funds allowed," Preyer said.

One of the committee's recommendations was for more investigation of an 8mm film, made public this fall, that some experts say show a second person in the windows of the Texas School Book Depository Building near Lee Harvey Oswald, Preyer said.

The committee's preliminary report, released Saturday, said there was a "high

Indira Gandhi Ordered To Appear In Court

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today was accused of falsifying a voter registration form and ordered to appear in court next month.

Magistrate Arakere Mohanram rejected Mrs. Gandhi's plea to be exempted from a personal appearance and said she must come before the court Feb. 3.

Mrs. Gandhi is accused of falsely stating she was a voter in the Daddaballapur Parliamentary constituency, 350 miles west of Madras, in southern India.

Indian law states that a person must be a resident of the area to become a registered voter.

Mrs. Gandhi's opponents claimed she registered her name as a voter in Daddaballapur to be eligible for election to the upper house of Parliament. Mrs. Gandhi has denied the charges.

A member of the lower house need not live in his or her constituency and Mrs. Gandhi eventually ran for and won a seat in the lower house.

Mrs. Gandhi, elected to Parliament two months ago from Chickmagalur constituency in southern India, was expelled and jailed for seven days last month for abusing the powers of her office as prime minister to block a 1975 investigation of her son's business activities.

Her jailing and expulsion touched off a nationwide protest and clashes with police in which at least 20 persons were killed and thousands arrested.

Mrs. Gandhi said she will seek re-election to Parliament "if the government ever again holds elections."

SPOTLIGHT ON...

Family News

11-A, Lubbock, Texas

Tuesday, Jan. 2

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I've been living common-law with a man for 12 years. We have seven kids. He pays all the bills and my kids call him "Papa."

I just found out that he has another common-law wife and six kids living 95 miles from here.

For years, he has left every Sunday night and came back on Thursday morning, but with the job he's on I thought it was necessary.

If I can prove that he spends more time with me than he spends with the other woman, is he my common-law husband or hers?

Can a common-law husband be a bigamist? And if he can, where would that leave me if he were to suddenly fall over dead?

Puzzled In Ga.

Dear Puzzled: It would leave you with a lot of questions that only a lawyer could answer. I advise you to see one. It's a lot easier to get information out of a live common-law husband than a dead one.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you listed the number of calories a person would burn while engaging in specific physical activities. (You even included sexual relations.) Can you dig it up.

Roger M. In East Orleans, Mass.

Dear Roger: Consider it dug.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to lose 10 pounds and my husband would like to lose 20. I have heard that every time a person has sex he burns up 300 calories. Do you recommend this method of losing weight? How many calories would a person have to burn to lose a pound?

No Put On

DEAR NO: Here is the estimated number of calories burned per hour for several types of measured physical activities:

- Slow walking — 115 to 200
- Dancing — 275 to 350
- Skating or swimming — 300 to 600
- Tennis — 350 to 700
- Gardening — 250 to 300
- Golfing (18 holes) — 150 to 225

Since the amount of physical exertion varies with the individual, there can be no reliable figures on the number of calories burned during sex. In losing weight, you'd be wise to supplement matrimony with more (or less) strenuous physical exercise, using the above table as a guide.

DEAR ABBY: I was personally involved in the nightmarish fire that left so many people homeless in Pacific Palisades in California recently. We didn't lose our home, thank God, but some of our friends did.

One couple watched their home go up in flames while five fire trucks were tied up in traffic by thrill seekers who drove from miles around to see what was going on.

Abby, please remind your readers that fires are tragic events, not entertainment, and people who rush to the scene of a fire to satisfy their curiosity could be preventing firemen and paramedics from saving lives and property.

If these sightseers want to "see all," tell them to buy a newspaper or stay home and watch television. But stay away from fires!

Fireman's Daughter

Dear Daughter: Curiosity seekers often find what they're not looking for — trouble.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Puerto Rican Traveling Theater Brings Plays To Spanish-Speaking Populace

By REBECCA MOREHOUSE
Women's News Service

NEW YORK (WNS) — Miriam Colon is powerfully persuasive. She has managed to touch the heart of Big Business. The Puerto Rican Traveling Theater, which she started 11 years ago, draws support from major companies in the financial community.

McGraw-Hill gives us mimeographing facilities," she said. "Celanese Corp. gave us $2,000 worth of office equipment. Avon Foundation gives us rooms for meetings in their sumptuous place. Citibank, Chase Manhattan, Chemical Bank, they've all helped."

Her Spanish-speaking company takes plays to New York City parks and street corners. "We have a flat-bed truck with a portable stage, a bus for actors, a van for sound and lighting equipment." She gave up her acting career for this project.

"We have to bring something to these communities because, in some cases, they've been abandoned. Unless something is done a massive deterioration will spread over the city like a cancer. We are doing a little thing but we are doing something."

"We try to give a message. The audience is very demanding. They talk back to you, they turn their backs on you. We see this as being involved, as responding. These people can't afford to pay to see theater. But they are taxpayers and we think they should have access to theater."

She estimates the city's Puerto Rican population at slightly over one million. In the '60s the figure was about a million and a half, she said.

"They make a little money here and they go back and buy a little house and garden. You can live a whole year in Puerto Rico with three cotton dresses and a pair of sandals."

"The opportunity for work is less abundant there. If they had enough economic opportunities, if they had control of Puerto Rico's richness, they would not come here. There are some Puerto Rican capitalists, but most industries are owned by Americans."

She acknowledges that there is Puerto Rican crime in New York. "But I don't think too many Puerto Ricans are in the big swindles. There is crime and juvenile delinquency in San Juan but no more than in any city. San Juan's tempo is very fast."

She came here more than 20 years ago with a scholarship in dramatics from the University of Puerto Rico. She is attractive, small, and sunny-faced. "I have a summer home in Puerto Rico, where I warm my bones and cool the motors of my mind. But I live here."

Her present urgent aim is the establishment of a Puerto Rican theater in the Broadway area. Three years ago she came upon an empty firehouse on West 47th Street. Three years later the city agreed to lease it to her. It will cost a million dollars to turn it into a 199-seat theater.

To date she has raised $575,000 for the reconstruction from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the National Endowment of the Arts (NEA), the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, and the Kresage Foundation.

"We had a $100,000 challenge grant from NEA," she said. "We had to match it with $100,000 by July 31. I never worked so hard in my life but we did it. I've learned to be an administrator by hitting my head against the wall. Businessmen give us advice."

She has acted on Broadway, off-Broadway, in 250 TV shows, and in motion pictures — with Marlon Brando in two of them. "I've had to push aside my career, now I'm coming back. I'm going to act in 'Julius Caesar' for Joe Papp. After 1,500 speech lessons I get a role in Shakespeare in English."

Reigning world team champions Bob Hamman and Bobby Wolff, both of Dallas, teamed up with former world champions Ira Rubin of Paramus, N.J., and Fred Hamilton of Hollywood, Calif., and this quartet completely dominated the Board-a-Match team championship at the North American Fall Nationals. They led from the start, and at the end of the grueling six-session event they were so far ahead of the field that you needed a telescope to see who finished second. Their victory earned them a play-off spot to determine who will represent the United States in the 1980 Olympiad.

North-South's bidding needs some explanation. They were employing weak no trump opening bids and Jacoby transfers. Thus North's bid of two hearts was a request that his partner bid spades. This enables the stronger hand to be concealed, which makes the defense more difficult.

You would not have thought so if you watched Hamman-Wolff attack the hand. Wolff led the king, ace and another diamond, ruffed by Hamman. Even looking at all the hands, it is not easy to spot the best defense, but Hamman had no problem. He calmly returned a club into the teeth of dummy's ace-jack.

Declarer could have countered this clever shift, but he failed to do so. He won with dummy's jack and led a trump. East won and continued with a second club.

Declarer led another trump, but East won again and persisted with a third club. West's ruff spelled a one-trick defeat.

Did you spot where declarer went wrong? After winning the second round of clubs with the ace, declarer should have led dummy's high diamond and pitched a club from his hand! The defenders are now helpless. Regardless of whether or not East ruffs the fourth diamond with his high trump, declarer ruffs a club with his queen of spades, crosses to dummy with a heart ruff, and leads the jack of spades. This will limit the defense to two diamond tricks, two high trumps and one ruff.

Alarms Save Valuables

By JOHN T. CRUDELE
Women's News Service

Your life and property already may be protected from fire by the smoke detectors you have positioned around the house, but what about safeguards against the other household emergencies that might occur?

Fear not, the companies that are now bringing you those horn-sounding fire warning devices are about to come to your aid once again, this time with items designed to protect your person and property from the ravages of burglars, gas leaks and other domestic catastrophes.

Pittway Corp. of Aurora, Ill., which sells a line of First Alert smoke detectors, recently introduced a detection device that sounds an alarm whenever a dangerously high buildup of natural gas or propane gas is sensed.

The gas detector began appearing on store shelves in September.

Meanwhile, Norelco recently unveiled a wireless burglar-smoke-detection system for the home which comes with a receiver designed to pick up signals from three window sensors and one door sensor. The receiver sounds an alarm whenever someone tries to enter your house illegally.

The Norelco security system also comes with a specially designed smoke detector which — like the window and door sensors — activates the alarm-sounding receiver whenever something is amiss.

The complete price is less expensive than most burglar alarm systems that require electrical wiring. Additional equipment — more window sensors or more smoke detectors — can be purchased separately and hooked into the system.

If you haven't gotten around to shopping for even the simplest smoke detector yet, you might not have noticed that prices have nosedived. A smart shopper can even get some of that price rebated by the manufacturer, a lure many companies are using to sell their products in the highly competitive smoke detector market.

Smoke detectors with added features, like lights to guide you to safety in case of heavy smoke, are still selling for substantially more than an ordinary unit. In the future, more sophisticated home security systems likely will be developed.

Already the 3M company is developing a system that will allow homeowners and businessmen to have automatic smoke detectors and manual fire and medical alarms hooked into their phone lines. At the other end of the telephone hookup, fire, police and medical facilities could be alerted rapidly of any emergency.

Such a system, 3M says, could be operational in about five years.

Where will you be able to buy home security devices in the years ahead? Well, in the past few years more and more department stores and other retail outlets have been selling security equipment as they would any other consumer products.

But in the near future, consumers may begin to see stores sprouting up that sell only security products. Tandy Corp., parent of the Radio Shack electronics retail chain, for instance, is considering opening stores coast-to-coast which will sell only this type of security equipment.

The logic behind such specialty stores is that as home security products become more complex, salespersons schooled in the ins and outs of each product will be required. A department store's personnel, for the most part, has no such specialty training.

Do consumers want security products? A study of the market, conducted by Creative Strategies, a West Coast research firm, says yes — and estimates that consumers in 1977 spent more than $256 million for items that make them feel more secure in their domiciles. That amount will reach $565 million annually by 1982, the study predicts, with home burglar alarms becoming more popular with consumers.

Clip 'n' Cook

RIPE OLIVE PAN PIZZA

- 1 cake or package yeast
 - 2/3 cup warm water
 - 1 egg, beaten
 - 2 tbsp. cooking oil
 - 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - 1 cup unsifted whole wheat flour
 - 1 cup canned pitted ripe olives
 - 1/4 tsp. basil, crumbled
 - 1/16 tsp. rosemary, crumbled
 - 1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce with mushrooms
 - 1/2 lb. Mozzarella or Jack cheese, sliced
 - 1/4 cup sliced green pepper
 - 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- Soften yeast in warm water. Add egg, oil, all-purpose flour and salt and beat until smooth. Gradually blend in whole wheat flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto floured board, and knead lightly, just until dough is smooth and rounds up. Cover and let stand in warm place until doubled in volume, about 1 hour. Punch down. Pat out into well-greased 11-inch pizza pan. Brush top lightly with oil, and let rise 20 minutes. Meanwhile slice olives and stir basil and rosemary into tomato sauce. Bake pizza crust on lowest rack of hot oven (400 degree) about 15 minutes until about half-baked. Remove from oven and top with 3/4 of the tomato sauce. Cover with sliced cheese and sprinkle with olives and green pepper. Drizzle remaining sauce over cheese. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over all. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes longer, until cheese melts and edges of pizza are browned. Serve warm, cut into wedges. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Successful Surgeon Makes Dreams 'Come True'

By LEAH JAY
 NEW YORK (WNS) — Howard Bellin strode into his Park Avenue penthouse apartment looking exactly like the man he was: an extremely busy, slightly hurried, highly successful cosmetic plastic surgeon, 15 minutes late for an interview. He shed his navy blazer, grabbed a drink, slumped down into the corner of a leather couch, and talked about his life in cosmetic surgery.

"When I was at med school I found plastic surgery the most interesting and most diverse of all the specialties. It included not only cosmetic surgery, but reconstruction, birth defects, burns, trauma, hand surgery, head and neck cancer. As it turns out, when one goes into practice as a plastic surgeon in New York City, one winds up doing mostly cosmetic work. So here I am and I find it extremely rewarding."

How so?
 "If you take a 78-year-old man with cancer of the throat and you operate and give him a voice box you've done a great thing to enhance a life expectancy of perhaps seven or eight years."

"But suppose you take a 16-year-old girl with an ugly nose who is miserable because of it. You give her a new nose. She starts going out with boys. You've made her happy for at least 50 years."

"Take yesterday's last patient who apologized to me for being so vain as to want her face done. She's a big executive in financial circles here in New York so I won't mention her name. She's 53, very attractive, just got married. She looks in the mirror and there's an old lady sitting there. She says her face doesn't fit her life."

"But does she really look old?"
 "She has all the signs of age: jowl, wrinkled neck, fallen chin. And she said to me, 'Do I really need it?' And I said to her, 'From the standpoint of your life expectancy, no, you'll live just as long without it, but from the standpoint of the quality of your life, yes.'"

"And I'm going to make that woman happy, more productive. I'm going to make her feel younger because she's going to look younger."

"Tell you another: My mother. My father had been dead for 15 years. I promise you the woman was suicidal. She didn't go out. She said no one needed her anymore. I had a fellow surgeon do a face lift on her as a favor to me. Two years later she married a most attractive 74-year-old gentleman, a retired lawyer. They travel the world together, play golf every day and are having the time of their lives. She is a totally rehabilitated woman."

Heart-warming, and convincing, too, that a little natural vanity could lead to a new life, but what about risks? A simple lift is a 4 and one-half hour procedure, and whether general or local anesthetics are used, some risk factor must be involved.

Bellin says, "It is conceivable statistically that if enough people get up on an operating table for cosmetic surgery one of them is going to have a heart attack. But I consider the risks in the proper hands, properly done, are extremely minimal."

Howard Bellin is a member of a group of people called the "jet set," or the "beautiful people." But these alone are not his patients. As cosmetic surgery becomes increasingly pervasive in our country the sort of person who seeks it out ranges over many socio-economic groups. About 15 to 20 percent of them are men.

"One was a New York male taxi driver. He saved his money for two years and then came to me. After he was through he sent his wife. One woman told me she had had my card in her desk for eight years before she had saved up the money. Believe me it's not just the people who can write a check for the whole thing and walk away who come in."

And how much is it? Prices vary enormously from doctor to doctor. A face lift could range in price from $1,500 to $6,000. Such an investment, especially for one who must save up for it, amounts to a momentous decision. One wonders if any are disappointed in the result.

"Sure. Sometimes people are disappointed. And usually it's my fault," says Bellin. Not because the surgery was done wrong but because I picked the wrong patient.

"Some people have unreasonable expectations, some can't really see themselves, some are unhappy with themselves for reasons other than the way they look. Others don't listen when you explain procedures and expected results. An experienced doctor turns away those he thinks he cannot help."

One of Bellin's greatest assets in his dynamic career is his beautiful wife, Christina. She came in, introduced herself and showed us a beautiful ivory and jade bracelet her husband had just brought her from India.

Christina Paolozzi Bellin was the beautiful model who posed nude from the waist up for Richard Avedon of Harper's Bazaar 15 years ago. That picture is among the many being shown in an Avedon retrospective at the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

These days Christina devotes herself to their two children, Marco and Andrea, and to writing articles on her life as disco world habitue. One such article, published in New York magazine last June, is alarmingly frank — and naive.

The author speaks of her mother, Alicia Spaulding (the United Fruit heiress), her father, Conte Lorenzo Paolozzi ("the most attractive swinger in Rome") and quotes herself as saying to Newswatch, "All I ever wanted I got. A successful husband, two wonderful children and a fantastic lover."

Whether P.R. hype, pressure from the editors or the truth, one can't be sure. One thing is sure: She is a charming, bubbly, enthusiastic woman.

"Join us for dinner," she said. "We're taking the children to Benihana." We begged a previous engagement so the beautiful couple left us at the elevator with a final story.

"When we were entertained in Iran by the Shah," said Christina, "he said to Howard, 'My congratulations. Obviously you have made a great success in the toughest city in the world: New York. Of course, it couldn't have hurt you to be married to Christina.' Tell them what you told him, Darling."

"I merely said 'Beloney. It isn't she who is in the operating room at 7 o'clock every morning, performing intricate, painstaking operations to make people's dreams come true. It's me.'"

DEALER IN DREAMS — Successful New York plastic surgeon Howard Bellin and his wife Christina, are a part of the famous "Jet Set." Bellin explains to reporters that he would rather do a 'nose job' on a young girl and make her happy for 50 years, than to deal strictly in prosthesis. He reports that he finds this work "extremely rewarding."

China's Teng Seeks Visit By Goldwater

PEKING (AP) — Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping today invited Sen. Barry Goldwater to Peking to discuss reunifying Taiwan with the mainland, said he intended to use the "hand of peace" toward the offshore island, and indignantly rejected a Republican congressman's suggestion that China wants to industrialize for conquest.

Teng made the remarks in a lively two-hour meeting with eight members of the U.S. House Banking Committee, led by Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio. It was his first meeting with American legislators since diplomatic relations were established Monday.

Details of the meeting were learned from the congressmen and a recording made by Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., who made the charges of possible Chinese expansionism.

Answering a question from Rep. John J. LaFalce, D-N.Y., about the future of Taiwan, Teng replied it was an internal matter but reunification would be sought through peaceful means.

He said China had adopted a "realistic attitude" toward Taiwan and agreed that Taiwan should have people-to-people and trade relations with all countries.

"We all have two hands and the Chinese have two hands," LaFalce quoted him as saying. "We have the hand of peace and the hand of war and we want to use the hand of peace in order to bring about the reunification of our people."

Then he added: "If political figures in the United States also want to bring about a peaceful resolution to the Taiwanese situation, we would hope they would not put up any obstacles in our way."

Then, in answer to another question from Ashley, Teng said, "We know well that Sen. Goldwater does not very much approve of the establishment of diplomatic relations between our two countries, but nevertheless I would like you to convey to him my greetings and express to him that we welcome him for a visit to China at his convenience. If he comes, we will be happy to meet him. I would in all modesty listen to his valuable views and we can engage in a very leisurely discussion, but we will not quarrel."

Teng said that people's views always change, that his do, and that this also was the case for the late Chairman Mao Tseung and the late Premier Chou En-lai.

"A man's thinking is bound to change also," he said in an apparent reference to Goldwater, chief congressional supporter of Taiwan who has filed suit in Washington to block President Carter's abrogation of the U.S.-Taiwan Mutual Defense Treaty.

Ashley replied he would be glad to relay the invitation to the Arizona Republican and said, "Don't be surprised if he accepts."

Kelly struck a jarring note when he bluntly told Teng that China has too little land and too many people, and that industrialization could well lead to instability in Asia rather than peace.

Teng replied, "I ask you to cite any example of where China is demanding any territory from others... Where would we want to do that, and from whom would we want to do that?"

"Is it the Soviet Union, which is demanding territory from China or vice versa? We have plenty of land for our people and even with our population increasing, we have plenty of land."

Then, pausing, he said, "We do not want a single inch of land from anyone else." He said China does not have a single soldier abroad and makes no territorial claims on the Soviet Union.

Teng then asked Kelly: "What grounds do we have to say we have claims on others?" Kelly replied: "The need of China," and Teng said, "China has quite sufficient room for all of its people."

"The Peking government offered Sunday to negotiate a reunification of the mainland and Taiwan that would preserve the status quo of the capitalist island. But Nationalist President Chiang Ching-kuo rejected the overture and in his annual New Year's address in Taipei repeated the standard Nationalist vow that "our anti-communist struggle will never cease until the Chinese communist regime has been destroyed."

Rep. Doug Barnard, D-Ga., another member of the Banking Committee, said Teng emphasized his government's desire to get most-favored-nation tariff status from the United States to aid China's modernization drive.

Barnard said he believed this could be arranged and added: "The human rights issue doesn't seem to be a problem here." He added that he believed the question would among those raised during Teng's visit to Washington beginning Jan. 29.

The establishment of diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking after nearly 30 years of enmity was accompanied by an exchange of messages between Chairman Hua Kuo-feng and Carter and by parties Monday night at the homes of the chief American representative in Peking and the chief Chinese representative in Washington.

Teng exchanged toasts in California champagne with Leonard Woodcock, chief of the U.S. Liaison Mission in Peking who Carter is expected to name ambassador.

"I feel certain that the far-reaching influence the establishment of diplomatic relations between our two countries exerts upon the development of our bilateral relations and upon the defense of world peace will become more and more evident with the passage of time," the vice premier said.

Woodcock said in his toast that the absence of diplomatic relations between the two governments "interrupted a long tradition of friendship and mutual beneficial cooperation between the Chinese and American peoples and adversely affected the cause of world peace."

COLD DIP — An unidentified member of the Milwaukee Polar Bear club, clad only in a swim suit and a wool cap, seems to enjoy the ice-covered waters of Lake Michigan during the club's annual New Year's Day dip. Davis Concedes Tapes Accurate

Fort Worth attorney Hershel Payne, who Davis has claimed became a confidant after he and McCrory allegedly discussed a series of murder-for-hire killings.

"I told Hershel that David was wanting to talk about killing people, and I wanted to know what he thought about it, could I be prosecuted for it," Davis told the jurors last week, while claiming he was aware he was being taped by McCrory.

"He said, 'if you don't intend to do it and if you don't consummate the deal, you aren't breaking the law.' I gave him all the names we had talked about to that point. He didn't seem disturbed."

If Payne supports Davis, prosecutors still will be in position to claim the lawyer's testimony strains credibility as much as the industrialist's. But there have been some indications Payne's testimony might vary from Davis' recollections.

"Some of that is accurate and some of that is inaccurate," Payne told a Houston newspaper after Davis' testimony.

The murder solicitation trial, which prosecutors predicted would be over before Christmas, is approaching the record length of Davis' 13-week capital murder trial last year. In the early trial Davis was acquitted of killing his stepdaughter during a shooting spree at his Fort Worth mansion in August 1976.

Montford, Staff Busy

difficulty in considering the nearly 7,000 misdemeanor cases presented for dismissal by outgoing criminal district attorney Alton Griffin last Friday.

Judge Boedecker said many of the 3,400 cases presented to him have no record of an arrest and that he is not inclined to dismiss those cases.

"Some of them should be dismissed," he said, "but there are a lot of them that shouldn't."

Boedecker said he will look at each case and that it may be some time before he is ready to act on all of them.

Judge Warnick said Griffin's motion to dismiss, invoking the Speedy Trial Act and saying the state was not ready to proceed, opens all of the cases to defense motions for dismissal.

"It's a hard situation," Warnick said.

Griffin said before he left office that the misdemeanor cases and about 200 felony cases would be dismissed in an attempt to cut down "dead wood" before Montford went into office.

Warnick said probably 75 percent of the cases presented to him were hot check cases and that no arrest had been made in 80 percent of those.

Both judges said in declining to sign the motions late Friday afternoon that they wanted more time to examine the cases.

COLOR ANALYZED

Color, an electromagnetic wave phenomenon, is a sensation produced through the excitation of the retina of the eye by rays of light. The colors of the spectrum may be produced by viewing a light beam refracted by passage through a prism, which breaks the light into wave lengths. Customarily the six primary colors of the spectrum are thought of as red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet.

Arctic Air Sets Texas Records

The crews will work throughout tonight and be on a stand-by basis Wednesday if moisture persists, Woods said.

One runway remained closed at Lubbock International Airport this morning, but a spokesman at the control tower said incoming and outgoing flights have been able to use the other runway.

Early morning Southwest Airlines flights to and from Dallas were running approximately 30 to 40 minutes late, said a spokesman for the airline, but they were expected to resume their normal schedules by late morning.

"They've got Love Field (in Dallas) cleaned off now," said the Southwest spokesman.

Elsewhere in the South Plains region, the Midland Airport remained closed to commercial traffic at mid-morning today. Heavy ice reduced braking action on the runways to negligible amounts Monday, according to a spokesman at the airport, and braking conditions were listed as fair early today. A decision whether to reopen the airport to commercial traffic was expected by early afternoon, the spokesman said.

While air transportation suffered delays and cancellations from the icy conditions, the Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches Inc. bus lines has continued to operate—though with up to 30-minute delays on arrival—and profited by motorists' reluctance to travel by auto, said Johnny Johnson of the bus company in Lubbock.

The persistent cold also has affected power consumption in the city to the point that Pioneer Natural Gas Company has placed its major industrial customers on a curtailed basis through Wednesday. Bob Mills of the gas company said today. Homes, schools and hospitals will not face a gas shortage problem, he added.

The wind chill factor in Lubbock at 3 a.m. today was a frigid 23 below zero, at a time when the actual temperature reading was 1 below zero.

Despite these problems, relief is in sight for Lubbock area residents, according to weather reports. Temperatures should warm into the middle 20s today, drop to between five and 10 degrees to-cent severe freeze in California, where most lettuce is produced, according to Jim Hall, Furr's Supermarkets assistant produce manager. The only areas currently producing the weather-vulnerable item are California's Imperial Valley and the area around Yuma, Ariz., he said.

Lettuce is selling for 89 cents a pound this month, as opposed to December's price of 49 cents a pound.

The quality of the winter lettuce is not good, Hall admitted, but supermarkets are only able to sell what's available. Hall estimated lettuce prices will stay up for about another month.

Citrus fruit prices will probably increase as well, Hall said, because of the California freeze.

A 10-pound bag of potatoes registered the only other major increase this month, selling at $1.19 as opposed to December's price of $1.09. Potatoes were selling for the same price in January 1978.

A gallon of homogenized milk is up two cents, selling for $2.25 this month instead of December's price of $2.23.

Shoppers will notice a sharp drop in the price of round steak in January. What sold for $2.19 a pound in December is selling for $1.89 a pound in January—a 30 cent decrease. Round steak was selling for $1.39 a pound in January 1978.

Sam Smith, a meat buyer for Furr's Supermarkets, said he could not explain the drop in round steak prices other than to attribute it to a change in the market. He added that he has read the same articles as the average shopper predicting major increases in meat prices but said he has seen no indication yet that the prices will rise.

Five pounds of flour is selling at a reduced price of 89 cents this month instead of December's price of 95 cents. And a pound of all-beef wieners is selling for $1.85 instead of December's $1.88.

The only other decrease is seen in the price of medium eggs, selling at 78 cents this month instead of December's 79 cents. But the same dozen eggs would have sold for 70 cents in January 1978.

All other prices remained stable:

A large loaf of bread sells for 69 cents and a can of whole green beans is marked at 46 cents.

A stick of whipped margarine is priced at 73 cents and a pound of hickory smoked bacon is still $1.85.

Five pounds of sugar is still $1.23 and fryer chicken is still 59 cents a pound. A jar of creamy peanut butter is currently marked at 86 cents and a 49-ounce box of laundry detergent is selling for $1.73.

Regular coffee is still priced at $2.98 but shoppers probably still remember the stiff price increases in 1977 and early 1978. A pound of coffee was selling for $3.49 a pound in January 1978.

Cold Front Rolls East

By The Associated Press

An intense cold front that soaked the Rocky Mountain states and Midwest over the weekend appeared to be moving slowly eastward today.

The East was almost balmy, but there was a hint that it could yet get a taste of the icy blast that knocked out power, stranded thousands and killed at least a dozen people on highways and while they shoveled snow.

Early-morning readings in the 50s and 60s along the East Coast felt more like April than January, while the Great Plains and Southwest still shivered in sub-zero cold.

The mercury hit 64 degrees at midnight in Baltimore, breaking the 24-year-old record for Jan. 2, according to the National Weather Service.

Meanwhile, a foot of snow still covered the ground in much of Kansas and Missouri. And thousands of residents in the Dallas and St. Louis areas were without electricity late Monday and early today as ice-laden power lines snapped under the weight.

At one point Sunday, more than 130,000 in the two cities were without electricity.

Power company officials in Dallas were calling it the worst ice storm in 30 years.

Weather-related traffic accidents in Wisconsin, Missouri and Kansas accounted for at least three deaths. Other deaths were reported by police in Chicago and Milwaukee, where a total of five men collapsed and died while shoveling snow.

Some of the coldest readings New Year's day were felt in Colorado, Idaho and Utah, where the mercury dipped as low as minus 45 — and felt even colder because of high winds. However, forecasters predicted more moderate temperatures as the storm moved on.

Travelers advisories were issued early today for the eastern half of Michigan, most of the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, northwest Arkansas, and the Gulf Coast states from Texas to Georgia.

Autopsies Ordered On Three Bodies

CHADDS FORD, Pa. (AP) — Autopsies should determine if the bodies of three men dug up in a wooded area are those of missing witnesses in a federal probe of an interstate burglary ring, authorities said.

Chester County District Attorney William Lamb said Sunday there is a strong likelihood the bodies, which were found Saturday, are those of some of the witnesses. The ring allegedly stole $800,000 worth of farm equipment and cigarettes over a 10-year period in Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania. Leslie Dale, 37, awaiting trial on theft and conspiracy charges, on Nov. 30 helped authorities locate the body of a reputed informant who had been shot in the head.

President's Schedule Packed

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is preparing for what could be the most ambitious month of his two years in office.

It is a schedule that could result in one public relations triumph after another. Or it could create serious liabilities for a re-election campaign at the start of the year in which potential rivals must decide whether to challenge Carter in 1980.

Either way, the president is likely to turn up on front pages almost constantly from the sunny days in the Caribbean Friday and Saturday when he confers at a four-nation summit on Guadeloupe, through the last days of the month, when Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping is due in Washington for a summit conference.

In between, the president will be unveiling his budget for the 1980 fiscal year and go before Congress to deliver his State of the Union address.

There's also a chance Carter could meet with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev to sign a new strategic arms limitation treaty, although the president said last week that appears unlikely.

People Pass Up Parking Bargain

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sometimes you can't even sell a bargain, not even a no-strings-attached parking space for a dime a day.

"It's just unbelievable," complained Barnes Romine Jr.

With business sagging at his huge parking lot, he dropped his daily price to 10 cents, an unusually low charge for downtown drivers who generally shell out $1 and up. But it didn't help a bit.

"I got some signs that are 8 feet long," Romine said. "Why I'm not getting any business I just don't know."

The parking lot lies at the fringe of a neighborhood which is considered undesirable. Surrounding parking lots charge 25 cents a day.

There's another big if: the Middle East.

Agreement on a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt by the end of January isn't out of the question. But one White agenda: holding down inflation.

"Our longest, toughest, most important fight will be the budget and inflation, and we'll have to keep the country and the Congress and the administration from losing sight of that goal," said White House press secretary Jody Powell.

There also is a chance, one top White House aide suggested, that "the interest in China will be so great people will focus on that" rather than, say, on the strategic arms limitation treaty.

But this aide, who asked to remain anonymous, said it is best to deal at once with the controversial issues "to show they fit into an overall theme of having control of foreign affairs."

The president's January schedule is so packed that first lady Rosalind Carter cancelled a long-planned cross-country trip to remain in Washington throughout the month.

Presidential aides insist January wasn't planned that way. It just happened. "A lot of things just came together," says Kraft.

Another White House assistant said Carter believes in long-term investments of time, energy and thought — and when such investments are made "you don't know when they will come to fruition." Powell called the events scheduled for January "a public reflection of a busy two previous months."

What's on the February schedule? Things might let up a little. So far the main event is a trip to Mexico, where Carter is likely to explore prospects for tapping that country's new-found oil reserves.

Analysis

House aide confided: "I'm not putting it on my calendar."

If there is an agreement, Carter likely would visit the Middle East to take part in a signing ceremony.

Tim Kraft, a presidential assistant for political affairs, said "we didn't assess the domestic political picture" in arranging the January events. However, many of the January issues are likely to trigger emotional reactions.

To avoid the pitfalls each offers, Carter must walk a fine line. He will be subject to pressures from liberals opposing budget cuts, conservatives favoring Taiwan, liberals pressuring for arms control, conservatives seeking defense commitments.

The White House is concerned that too much emphasis on diplomatic activities in January could distract the country from the No. 1 item on Carter's 1979

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

58-Year-Old 'Kid' Gets Copy Of Book

By SHARI LEWIS

Today I got a couple of letters from kids asking for my "free booklet." Since I don't have a free booklet I tried to figure out where they had gotten that idea. Then it occurred to me — I do offer a free copy of "The Kids-Only Club Book" to anyone whose "helping hand" idea I use in the column.

For example, Winifreda Beecroft wrote, "I am a 58-year-old kid who would like to give a helping hand to all the birds who might eat the peanut butter in the cup feeders you described in your column. Peanuts, unsalted — yes. Peanut butter — no, no, no. It forms a sticky mass and kills them dead."

I quickly wrote to the Audubon Society for advice. Carol Niles of Audubon wrote back: "Winifreda Beecroft's letter is partially right. Peanut butter is fine for birds. The trick used to avoid stickiness is the addition of enough corn meal to eliminate the stickiness. This also gives the birds grain, which is the normal diet of many birds."

So I sent Winifreda Beecroft a copy of my book. If I use an idea of yours in my column, I'll send you a copy of my book, too.

But until we put together a free booklet, I can only send the rest of you my love.

Yesterday's Brain Twister: 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18. Can you place each one of these numbers into an empty square so that every vertical (up and down) row adds up to 40?

Answer: (See Illustration.) Today's Brain Twister: Can you arrange six toothpicks so that they form eight triangles? (Look for the answer in Sunday's Kids-Only Club column.)

INDIAN ART

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 80 Indian "miniature" paintings from the collection of Paul F. Walter are on exhibition at the Pierpont Morgan Library through Feb. 8, 1979. The library says this type of painting is noted for its brilliant color, exquisite line, and passionate representation of scenes from the history and myths of India.

Doctors Reattach Girl's Leg

CENTRAL ISLIP, N.Y. (AP) — The way 11-year-old Elizabeth McFadden remembers it, there was "this big, black thing coming at me." Then the train severed her right leg.

When she awoke, Betty saw her father at her bedside.

"You have your leg on," said John McFadden, but his daughter didn't understand — she was sure she had an artificial leg.

"No, babe," said MacFadden. "It's your own leg."

The leg, cut from the sixth-grader's body at mid-thigh Sunday after she fell in front of a Long Island Rail Road train, was restored in eight hours of surgery at Smithtown General Hospital.

"It was a very emotional experience," said Betty's mother, Maureen. "When she found out she had her leg, she looked up at us and said, 'I love both of you very, very much.' When the doctors came in, she looked at them and said, 'Thank you very, very much.'"

Betty was reported "doing beautifully" Monday by the head nurse at the hospital, and one of her doctors said the prospect that she would recover use of her leg was good.

"We're very optimistic," said Dr. Gerald Wertlieb, an orthopedic surgeon who was one of the team of doctors who performed the surgery. "The leg is pink and warm and certainly seems to show that it's going to live."

Betty and her sister Alice, 12, were playing near their home here Sunday when other children began chasing them. They ran across the tracks, and Betty fell.

"My daughter told me she saw this big black thing coming at her, and she turned to run the other way," said McFadden of the accident.

Vincent Cascio, a volunteer with the Central Islip-Hauppauge Ambulance service was nearby, and he raced to help. An ambulance arrived almost immediately, transporting the girl and her leg to the hospital.

"Essentially, it (the leg) was intact, but the train destroyed a portion of the bone that can never be replaced," Wertlieb said, adding Betty's right leg will always be shorter than her left.

Describing the operation, Wertlieb said, "We had to re-establish the bone continuity and hook up the main artery and veins."

"We also found the two main nerves on either side and have that attached. We're going to do more meticulous (nerve) grafting, we just didn't want to put her through that at this time."

Departing Senators Have Job Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The last of 20 departing senators will be relinquishing their $57,500 salaries Wednesday, but none of them has to worry about joining the unemployment lines.

As always, the job market is wide open for a former senator and almost all of them can pick and choose from an avalanche of offers.

Few, if any, want to go into full-time retirement.

Even Sen. John Sparkman — the oldest of the group at 79 — disdains the idea and plans to practice law with his son back home in Alabama.

Although Congress does not convene until Jan. 15, the terms of the 20 new senators start Jan. 3, as required by the Constitution.

A number of the outgoing senators already have resigned, clearing the way for their successors to get a slight edge in seniority by taking office a few weeks ahead of other newcomers.

Former Sen. Paul Hatfield, D-Mont., who was defeated in the primary election, is already hard at work at a new job.

Hatfield was appointed to the newly created post of staff attorney of the Montana Supreme Court. Ironically, Hatfield was chief justice of that court when he was named early this year to fill out the term of the late Sen. Lee Metcalf.

Hatfield's job is expected to be temporary. He has put in for a vacancy on the federal bench and there also has been speculation he will become dean of the University of Montana's law school.

Many others have settled into their new jobs.

After being a part-time overseer of his Mississippi plantation for 35 years, Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., is going to watch the cotton grow and cattle graze full-time.

Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., is heading home to work his cattle ranch. He may be lured away again, but so far the only fixed item on the agenda is a week of lecturing at the University of Wyoming.

Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., Wendell Anderson, D-S.D., Carl Curtis, R-Neb., Keneaster Hodges, D-Ark., William Scott, R-Va., and probably Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., plan to practice law — most of them in their home states and in Washington.

Haskell is going to get married Feb. 3 to reporter Nina Tottenberg.

Rutgers University is setting up a chair for Sen. Clifford Case. He also has been approached by a Midwest university, plans to write articles and essays, would like to serve on commissions and would be interested if called to do some "trouble shooter" work overseas for the administration.

Sen. James Pearson, R-Kan., will lecture at the University of Kansas and tend his farm; Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., will become a senior fellow at the American Enterprise Institute; Sen. Maryon Allen, D-Ala., will lecture and continue free-lance writing for magazines, and Sen. Muriel Humphrey will return to private life.

Others have not decided what they will do.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, is mulling a dozen offers; Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., wants to stay in public life; Sen. William Hathaway, D-Maine, has made no announcement; Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., has not announced future plans but will chair the National Low Income Housing Coalition without pay; Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., is battling cancer.

Hathaway, Clark, and McIntyre may well join the administration.

Workmen Begin Cleanup

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — All that remains are tons of trash, several dozen pick-over floats and the sounds of workmen's hammers dismantling bleachers.

Officials are calling it one of the most successful — and peaceful — Tournament of Roses parades ever.

"It was a good year with fewer problems than usual," said Police Sgt. Stanley Hrstich. "There were 134 parade-related arrests, mostly for drugs and drinking."

Workmen began tearing down bleachers even before the start of the Rose Bowl game. All the grandstands and scaffolding used for television coverage were expected to be cleared away tonight.

"All we have left is about 30 tons of garbage," Hrstich said.

More than half a million shivering spectators huddled around barbecues and miniature bonfires smoldering curbside New Year's Eve staking out prime viewing sites on Colorado Boulevard.

The crowd squatters swelled at a rate of 10,000 an hour until 1.3 million spectators lined the 5 1/2-mile route at parade time Monday. While hearty spectators braved 38-degree temperatures on Colorado Boulevard, television cameras broadcast the procession of flower-laden floats to an estimated 125 million worldwide.

Many of the onlookers staked off curbside territory 24 hours before the parade's start. Thousands were side-by-side in the makeshift "Motorhome City." The less-stylish sat on curbs, lounge chairs or huddled in sleeping bags.

Vendors hawked pennants, programs, sandwiches, and even ice cream. Burgers and hot dogs sizzled on habachis.

What Will Hayes Turn To Now?

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

The last time Woody Hayes found himself in such a position was 44 years ago, which also was the last time he was without a team to coach, and what makes it such a personal crusher for him now is he knows this time it's the end and there will be no next time.

That doesn't only hurt a man like Hayes, to whom football is his whole life, it kills him.

No matter how a brave front he puts up to everyone on the outside, it takes everything out of him inside. In a few more weeks, Hayes will be 66, an age where no college in the country is going to come banging on his door and as for the professionals, forget about them, because no pro performer would ever stand for the way Hayes ran his players at Ohio State.

Woody Hayes without football is about as imaginable as Casey Stengel without baseball. Stengel died in the fall of 1975 just shy of 85 but the core and fiber really went out of him 10 years before, when he retired as Mets' manager. He left, he said, "of my own free will" — even though they were holding the door open for him.

For awhile, Hayes also tried to make it look as if he were leaving voluntarily as head coach of the Buckeyes. He felt that sounded more dignified than being fired. But in the end everybody became aware he had been sacked, let go in the aftermath of his angry slugging of a Clemson player near the end of last Friday night's 17-15 loss in the Gator Bowl.

Prophetically, Hayes revealed what the instrument of his firing would be a few years back while explaining how different he felt about those who come to watch a football game and those who come to play.

"Frankly, I don't give a damn what other people think of me — the alumni or the writers," he said. "They aren't the ones who fire coaches. The people who fire coaches are players."

Long known as a pressure-cooker for coaches, Ohio State has been called by some a football madhouse. When Hayes was hired as coach Ohio State's trustees started him off at a modest $12,500.

For that, he brought the school's football team the kind of prestige it had never enjoyed before, along with a pair of national championships. As the most successful coach in Ohio State's history, he also was its most high-handed one, yet of all the players he coached, I never met one who didn't speak of him with respect and warm regard.

Nobody is all good and nobody all bad, and that includes Woody Hayes. From all evidence, in his case the good he did far outweighed the bad and maybe more people might've become aware of some of the kind and generous things he did had he not so often considered the media his personal adversary.

I doubt Hayes meant to do any real physical harm to Charlie Bauman, the Clemson middle guard he struck in Friday night's contest. Bauman had intercepted a pass by Ohio State quarterback Art Schlichter, killing off what looked to be the Buckeyes' final threat, and then was said to have taunted Hayes by waving the football in his face.

Obviously frustrated and incensed, Hayes lashed out. But when you're a coach, you're supposed to be a model for all young men and you're not supposed to do that. How can you teach discipline to your players when you don't show any yourself?

Woody Hayes was wrong in doing what he did, the same way he was wrong when he struck out at a fan after a tough loss to Michigan State a few years ago and cussed out a Seattle photographer during another contest with the University of Washington.

Jim Owens, coaching Washington at the time, said he thought Hayes had "lost touch with some of the realities of playing football games." Jim Owens, I think, hit it right on the nose. Hayes did lose touch. With all the pressure around him, though, I can understand that.

Anytime someone talked to Hayes about retiring, he said he might consider it if he found something else he'd rather do. He could never imagine what that would be.

"Besides," he'd always add, "I have the best coaching job in the country." That's all in the past tense now, and you can judge for yourself what that has to be doing to Woody Hayes.

By The Associated Press

The national championship in college football is up for grabs after a costly fumble by Penn State in the Sugar Bowl.

The Nittany Lions' chances for their long sought-after national title quickly turned sour in the wake of a 14-7 defeat by No. 2 Alabama Monday.

Third-ranked Southern Cal put in a bid for the title with a 17-10 decision over No. 5 Michigan in the Rose Bowl, and fourth-ranked Oklahoma hoped to move into the picture after a 31-24 decision over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl Monday night.

Only the winner of the Cotton Bowl, No. 10 Notre Dame was out of the title picture. The Fighting Irish beat the ninth-ranked Houston Cougars Monday in a 25-34 thriller, but their 9-3 record pales in comparison to the glittering 11-1 marks of Alabama, Southern Cal, Oklahoma and Penn State.

"Alabama should be No. 1," said a distressed Joe Paterno, the Penn State coach who lost an opportunity for the Nittany Lions' first national championship. "Alabama beat an awfully good football team and has as much right to claim it as anybody."

Alabama Coach Bear Bryant seconded the motion.

"Yes, I feel we're the best in the country," he said. "There are a couple of reasons I would vote our team No. 1 — they overcame all the injuries and peaked today, and our schedule was extremely difficult. There were no soft touches."

One of the tougher opponents for Alabama this year was Southern Cal. The Trojans beat the Crimson Tide at the start of the season, and it's the primary reason that voters will give them heavy consideration as the nation's top college football team.

"I pick us No. 1," said Southern Cal Coach John Robinson, who like Bryant insisted that his team played one of the toughest schedules in the country. "It's one of the greatest teams in USC history."

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, meanwhile, wasn't exactly claiming a title for his team, but he was promoting the possibility.

Asked who deserved to be No. 1 when the final Associated Press poll is released Wednesday morning, Switzer replied: "I don't know. I think we are a great team. We've led the nation in rushing and scoring and came up just a few yards short in leading in total offense. I believe we have the greatest offensive team in the country."

"Defense? Alabama has a great defensive team. Penn State also has a great defensive team. But I felt all season there are quite a few teams with a better offense than Penn State. Whatever the final polls say, I just hope we're recognized in a position representative of the greatness of this team." Alabama's performance Monday certainly measured up to a No. 1 ranking. Bryant's boys stopped Penn State when they had to — in fact, two times within the 1-yard line in the final quarter. Major Ogilvie ran 5 yards for the tie-breaking touchdown with 21 seconds left in the third period.

"We beat the best team we've played all year," said Alabama running back Tony Nathan. "They were strong and well-coached. We just took it to them."

That's exactly what Southern Cal did to Michigan at the start of the Rose Bowl, running up a 17-3 lead in the first half behind the quarterbacking of Paul McDonald and the running of Charles White. McDonald passed 9 yards for one score and White ran 3 yards for another to give the Pacific-10 champions all the points they needed in the Pasadena classic.

The victory continued the West's mastery in the Rose Bowl, where Pacific-10 teams have won for five straight years. The game was punctuated by a mild earthquake.

Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims and quarterback Thomas Lott scored two touchdowns apiece in Oklahoma's victory over Nebraska — the first time that the Big Eight rivals have met in a bowl game, the victory gave the Sooners a bit of revenge for a 17-14 loss to the Cornhuskers Nov. 11.

Notre Dame quarterback Joe Montana completed an 8-yard TD pass to wide receiver Kris Haines as time ran out and Joe Unis kicked the vital extra point to give the Fighting Irish a spectacular comeback victory over Houston's Southwest Conference champions.

The Cougars had built a seemingly safe 34-12 lead through the first three quarters before the Irish staged their rally on the coldest day in Cotton Bowl history, with the chill factor a minus-6 degrees.

In action Sunday night, Stanford scored a 25-22 victory over No. 11 Georgia in the Bluebonnet Bowl behind quarterback Steve Dils, who completed three touchdown passes in a 4 1/2-minute span in the third period.

Big 10 Loses Out In Rose Bowl

By LARRY PALADINO

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — It probably won't help change Michigan's sullen disposition. And it probably won't help change the criticism against the Wolverines that is bound to come after their latest Rose Bowl loss.

But after his Southern Cal team defeated Michigan 17-10 Monday in the 65th Rose Bowl game, Coach John Robinson of the Trojans said:

"It was the best coaching job by an opposing team on our offense that I've ever seen since I've been here at USC."

That may not soften the blow for Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, whose Wolverines have never won the final game in his 10 seasons. They have lost five Rose Bowls, including the last three, and an Orange Bowl.

"I can't take defeat," Schembechler said. "I felt we were going to beat them."

Asked what advice he might give Schembechler on how to win bowl games, Robinson, who has guided the Trojans to two Rose Bowl triumphs and a Bluebonnet Bowl victory in his three seasons, said:

"He has the best winning percentage in America. I feel he's one of the best two or three coaches in America. I wouldn't attempt to offer a man like that advice."

Robinson also had plenty of good things to say about Michigan's Rick Leach, the losing quarterback in an unprecedented four bowl games.

"I believe we played against one of the great football players I've ever coached against," Robinson said. "I thought he would hurt us running more. That frightened me. But he did a phenomenal job on his touchdown pass."

Leach threw a 44-yard TD pass to tailback Roosevelt Smith in third quarter. It was the 82nd touchdown Leach has accounted for in his career, passing or running.

"We've had a lot of good times and a lot of good things have happened to us," Leach said. "I wanted to win it because all the people, the players and the coaches at Michigan were so good to me."

Tailback Harlan Huckleby said Michigan's 27-20 upset loss last year to Washington was more frustrating than the setback to favored Southern Cal.

"I was upset, but I wasn't hanging my head," he said.

And fellow senior Bill Dufek, an offensive tackle, said: "Michigan is not going to give up. They'll be back out here and they'll win bowls. Things will go our way."

The Trojans, meanwhile, were caught up in the thought of winning the national championship.

"We've worked hard. I think we're No. 1," said fullback Lynn Cain, who rushed for 90 yards in 14 carries.

All-America tailback Charles White, who had 99 yards in 32 carries, said, "I feel we have a good shot at it. I feel like it's close between us and Alabama."

Unbelievable Rally Crowns Irish

By GREG THOMPSON

DALLAS (AP) — Even comeback artist Joe Montana thought Notre Dame's incredible Cotton Bowl rally was all over when he lost a fumble late in the game to stop what looked like a game-winning touchdown drive.

"I thought it was all over," said Montana, who lost the ball at the Houston 20-yard line with 2:05 remaining. "But then I saw we had timeouts left and our defense really played a super game."

It proved to be far from over. With 35 seconds remaining, the revived Irish defense held the upstart Cougars on a key fourth down gamble at the Houston 29.

Montana then connected with Chris Haines for the tying touchdown as time ran out and Joe Unis booted the vital extra point Monday for a 35-34 Notre Dame victory.

The Cougars, facing away from a biting north wind that gusted to 30 mph and pushed the chill factor well below zero, took a commanding 34-12 advantage in the second and third quarters.

Montana, meanwhile, was in the dressing room most of the third period with a bad case of chills brought on by the bitter weather.

"They told us Joe was not coming back in the second half and we thought it was over. But we've learned over the last four years that it's never over," said center Dave Huffman.

The wind, which accompanied a record ice storm that had crippled Dallas on Sunday, had dictated the tempo of the game all day. It also forced Houston Coach Bill Yeoman to gamble on the key fourth down and one play late in the game.

"We were kicking the ball 10 or 12 yards into the wind," Yeoman said in explaining the decision. "Plus we had a kid (center Chuck Brown) with a very bad wrist snapping the ball. I was completely responsible for that call."

Houston's ace running back Emmett King was stopped cold and the Irish got back the ball for their winning thrust.

On the previous play, Houston's Jay Wyatt had fluttered a pitiful 21-yard punt into the stiff wind. But Notre Dame was called offside, giving Houston the opportunity to go for the first down.

"That was not a bad move at all. We felt we could make it," said Houston quarterback Danny Davis. "I realize that some fans might have wanted us to punt,

Alabama Awarded MacArthur Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Alabama, emerging from a 14-7 Sugar Bowl victory over top-ranked Penn State, was chosen Monday to receive the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's 1978 MacArthur Bowl, the foundation announced.

In a statement, foundation chairman Vincent dePaul Dreddy of New York said the trophy would be presented at the University of Alabama this spring.

He said Alabama's victory at the Superdome "proved championship ability, particularly in the dramatic goal line stand against the Nittany Lions."

In the fourth quarter, Penn State had the ball inside the 1-yard line but was prevented from scoring by a tough Alabama defense.

Alabama Cautious

By AUSTIN WILSON
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—It was almost like part of the childhood ritual of wishing on a star — the part that says your wish won't come true if you say what you wished for.

The Alabama players were eager to talk about the exploits of their teammates in the 14-7 conquest of Penn State in the Sugar Bowl Monday; but there were no exuberant shouts of, "We're No. 1," as might be expected when the second-ranked team beats the top-ranked team.

"Well, we're pretty tired," said Barry Krause, the linebacker named most valuable player in the contest. "I think that what you're seeing is satisfaction," said Jim Bunch, the offensive guard who drew the assignment of going head-up with tough Penn State tackle Bruce Clark.

"We're sort of calm because of what happened last year. We have to wait and see what happens," said quarterback Jeff Rutledge, who mentioned the team's unanimous wish only in response to direct questions.

Last year, Alabama beat Ohio State in the Sugar Bowl and felt it should have moved up to first after Notre Dame upset Texas in the Cotton Bowl and Oklahoma fell to Arkansas in the Orange Bowl. But Notre Dame vaulted ahead of the Crimson Tide in the final poll.

The Penn State dressing room was also quiet, but there was the silence of disappointment. The school has never won a national college football championship.

But there were no alibis, no attempts to put the blame somewhere else. Others might claim that tight end Brad Scovill was interfered with in his efforts to catch a desperation pass in the waning seconds of the game, but the Penn State players didn't mention it.

"Nor were they arguing that either Matt Suhey or Mike Guman had scored on dives from the 6-inch line. Both were stopped short by the Alabama defense.

"I didn't get a good jump," Suhey said. "I didn't really get the height."

"The linebackers just plugged the gap. They stopped me. That's all there is to it," said Guman. "I thought the play would go, but they just played excellent defense."

Penn State quarterback Chuck Fusina, the All-America passer who led his team to an 11-0 regular season mark, said the two running backs gave it everything they had, but it just wasn't enough that time.

"I thought Matt and Mike ran as hard as they could. Their linebackers made the good plays," he said.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno summed it up: "We should have been able to hang in from there."

"My biggest disappointment is for my seniors. They worked hard. It is unfortunate they lost it (the national championship) without playing their best game."

Oklahoma Pleased With Orange Win

By ED SHEARER
MIAMI (AP)—Billy Sims, the Heisman Trophy winner from fourth-ranked Oklahoma, was determined to prove he could hold onto the football — and he did.

But, the All-America halfback may long remember the time he didn't, which may have cost his team college football's national championship.

"I think I showed that I'm capable of holding onto the ball," Sims said Monday night after running for two touchdowns and 134 yards as the Sooners avenged their only defeat with a 31-24 triumph over No. 6 Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

"They knew that if they caused a lot of turnovers, they've got another shot at beating us. They were looking at me the whole game. They were always calling my name when we came up to the line."

The victory was the 11th in 12 games for the Sooners, who dropped a 17-14 decision to the Cornhuskers in a Big Eight Conference showdown at Lincoln on Nov. 11.

Despite rushing for 153 yards in that game, Sims became a goat when he fumbled twice in the fourth quarter to stop drives at the Nebraska 22 and 3-yard lines, the last with only 3:27 remaining in the game.

"We parted some, but we cut it down as we got closer to the game," said Sims. "We came down here to have fun, but the most fun would be beating Nebraska."

Quarterback Thomas Lett also scored two touchdowns for the Sooners, who survived a two-touchdown rally by the Cornhuskers in the final quarter after building a 31-10 lead.

Duke Reversal Puzzling

By The Associated Press
For a while, the Duke basketball team was perfect. Then they were perfectly awful.

The nation's No. 1 team could do no wrong for the first six games of the college basketball season, then did nothing right while losing two games in the ECAC Holiday Festival Tournament in New York.

The Blue Devils first lost an opening-round game to Ohio State, 90-84 in overtime, on Friday night. Then they dropped a 69-66 decision to St. John's in the consolation game Saturday night before Rutgers won the title with a thrilling triple-overtime 97-96 victory over the Buckeyes. "I wasn't planning on losing two games here," understated a glum Bill Foster, the Duke coach. "There's absolutely no excuse for what happened to us. But strange things are happening. It's a complete turnaround from what we've been doing."

Notre Dame's second-ranked team also went through an unpleasant weekend, losing 81-76 to No. 13 Kentucky. Another Top Twenty team, 14th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, also went down, losing an 89-79 decision to Temple in the finals of the Las Vegas Classic.

Elsewhere, fourth-ranked Michigan State won the Far West Classic with a 74-57 victory over Big Ten colleague Indiana; fifth-ranked North Carolina won the Rochester (N.Y.) Classic with a 121-69 rout of Niagara and No. 6 Illinois took the Glacier Classic in Anchorage, Alaska, with a 98-90 victory over Alaska-Anchorage.

Also, the University of Portland won the KOA Classic in Billings, Mont., by defeating the University of Montana 77-69; Old Dominion won the Times-Dispatch Invitational in Richmond, Va., with a 70-68 decision over Virginia Commonwealth; Iona beat St. Mary's of California 84-74 in the championship game of the Manufacturer's Hanover Tournament in New Rochelle, N.Y., and Bowling Green won the Glass City Classic in Toledo, Ohio, with a 67-64 decision over Villanova.

In both the Ohio State and St. John's games, the usually-poised Blue Devils lost big leads in the second half. On Friday night, it was a 17-point lead that Duke let slip away. On Saturday night, the Atlantic Coast Conference power couldn't hold onto a 19-point advantage.

"Usually, in the first half we've been having our problems," said Foster. "But now we seem to be having them in the second."

Foster had a "nice meeting" with his team after the St. John's game to "straighten things out."

"There was no finger-pointing," Foster noted. "Nobody is panicking yet. We still have confidence in ourselves."

Rutgers won the championship of the Festival's 27th renewal on James Bailey's ferocious slam-dunk shot with 34 seconds left in overtime for two of his 31 points.

UPI Poll Reflects Surprises

By United Press International
With the sudden and surprising abdication of Duke as the nation's premier college basketball team, Michigan State has assumed the top spot in the UPI Board of Coaches weekly ratings.

The Spartans, who won the Far West Classic with a 74-57 victory over Indiana, received 23 first-place votes and an overall total of 487 points in taking the No. 1 rating by a comfortable margin over Notre Dame, which remained in the second slot.

Duke's Blue Devils, who dropped back-to-back games to Ohio State and St. John's in New York's Holiday Festival, fell to seventh place in the ratings.

Following Michigan State and Notre Dame in the Top 10 are Illinois, North Carolina, UCLA, Louisiana State, Duke, Kentucky, Indiana State and North Carolina State.

Notre Dame was upset by Kentucky Saturday night, vaulting the Wildcats into the No. 8 spot and the preventing the Irish from becoming No. 1.

Illinois, 12-0, and fast becoming the "dream team" of this year's college basketball season, moved from fifth to third by winning the first ever Glacier Classic in Anchorage, Alaska.

North Carolina, 8-1, jumped from sixth to fourth with the title in the Rochester Classic; UCLA, 7-2, fell from third to fifth after losing to Stanford earlier in the week; LSU, 8-0, remained undefeated by romping over Colgate and jumped from eighth to sixth; Indiana State, 9-0, walloped Morris Harvey and took the ninth place; North Carolina State, 82, fell one place despite whipping Penn St.

Dallas, Houston Aiming For Conference Games

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

The Houston Oilers and the Dallas Cowboys have gotten their wishes. The Oilers have been made underdogs for Sunday's American Football Conference championship game against the Pittsburgh Steelers at Pittsburgh.

And the Cowboys have been assured that first-string quarterback Roger Staubach will lead the team against the Los Angeles Rams at Los Angeles.

The winners will advance to Super Bowl XIII Jan. 21 at the Orange Bowl in Miami.

Both the Cowboys and the Steelers have won two Super Bowls — no team ever has won more — whereas the Oilers and Rams never have participated in the National Football League's major postseason extravaganza.

Dallas, the defending champion, and Pittsburgh are favored to meet there again, just as they did in Super Bowl X, with the Steelers defeating the Cowboys 21-17, the last time the NFL championship was decided in Miami. Pittsburgh's other Super Bowl triumph was 16-6 over the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl IX. Dallas' victories were 24-3 over the Miami Dolphins in Super VI and 27-10 over the Denver Broncos last season. The Cowboys lost to the Baltimore Colts 16-13 in Super Bowl V.

The early line this time has Pittsburgh a seven-point choice over the Cinderella Oilers, trying to become the first wild card team to win the Super Bowl (Dallas was the only wild card team to play in the Super Bowl, losing to Miami three years ago). The Cowboys are 2 1/2-point favorites over the Rams.

"We always play better when we're the underdogs," said Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini, who directed the Oilers to a 31-14 romp over the favored New England Patriots last Sunday in the second round of the AFC playoffs. The Oilers also upset Miami 17-9 in the opening round of the playoffs Dec. 24.

In the other second-round games, Pittsburgh trounced Denver 33-10 last Saturday; Dallas, with the injured Staubach on the sidelines in the second half, overcame the Atlanta Falcons 27-20 Saturday, and Los Angeles whipped Minnesota 33-10 Sunday.

"We're going down to Pittsburgh to win," Houston Coach Bum Phillips said. "And I believe we will win. Pastorini was great (against New England) and played the way he has to play if we are to win the Super Bowl."

Pastorini, wearing a flak jacket and a leg brace to protect broken ribs and a twisted knee, completed 12 of 15 passes for 200 yards and three second-period touchdowns, two to Mike Barber and a 71-yard bomb to Ken Burrough, in Houston's surprisingly easy victory over the Patriots.

Pittsburgh and Houston met twice during the regular season. The Oilers won the first game 24-17 at Pittsburgh Oct. 23 as Earl Campbell, the sensational rookie running back, led the way with three touchdowns, but the Steelers posted a 13-3 victory six weeks later at Houston.

Campbell rambled for 118 yards and one TD on 27 carries against New England.

The Steelers also got a solid blend of running and passing in their playoff game against Denver, as quarterback Terry Bradshaw clicked on 16 of 29 passes for 272 yards and fourth-period scoring strikes to John Stallworth and Lynn Swann, and big Franco Harris rushed 24 times for 105 yards and two first-half TDs.

"If we play the type of game we did against Denver, we can't be beat," said Stallworth, who set a playoff record with 10 receptions against the Broncos.

"They (the Steelers) probably will win the whole thing," observed Denver defensive end Lyle Alzado after the Broncos were thwarted in their attempt to repeat as AFC champions.

Staubach was knocked cold by Atlanta linebacker Robert Pennywell in the first half as the Cowboys trailed the Falcons 20-13. Staubach suffered a mild concussion and did not play in the second half, when reserve quarterback Danny White directed Dallas to two touchdowns. Staubach resumed workouts Monday.

That will mean White will be back on the bench, despite his glittering performance against Atlanta. However, he will be ready — just in case.

"I feel confident about playing this week if I have to," said White. "But there is no player more valuable to this team than Roger Staubach. He has taught me so much. If I could be a Roger Staubach 10 years from now, it would be great."

Meanwhile, the Rams, who have won the NFC West title each of the past six years but never have advanced past the conference finals, oozed confidence.

"We want the Cowboys," said wide receiver Ron Jesse.

"We were emotional (against Minnesota) and it will carry over to the Dallas game," said defensive end Fred Dryer.

"Dallas is a great team, but we are a better one," said rookie placekicker Frank Corral. "We've got the momentum now and we've got much more versatility on offense now than when we last played Dallas. We are not just a ground team, not at all."

The passing of quarterback Pat Haden and the running of Cullen Bryant carried the Rams past Minnesota. Haden hit 15 of 29 passes for 209 yards and two scores against the Vikings, while Bryant carried 27 times for 100 yards and one TD.

Ironically, the Rams beat all three of the other remaining playoff teams during the regular season. They defeated Dallas 27-14, Pittsburgh 10-7 and Houston 10-6.

Who'll Replace Woody?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lou Holtz, by the process of elimination, appears to be the man to replace Woody Hayes as Ohio State's football coach.

Bo Schembechler says he will stay at Michigan. Bo Rein has just signed a multi-year contract at North Carolina State. Ara Parseghian has no desire to return to college coaching.

The opening at the Big Ten Conference power was created Saturday when Ohio State Athletic Director Hugh Hindman fired Hayes, the center of a brawl in the waning moments of the Buckeyes' 17-15 Gator Bowl loss to Clemson.

Hayes slugged a Clemson player in the full view of a national television audience, abruptly ending one of the game's greatest careers. He ranked fourth on the all-time list of winningest college coaches with 238 victories.

The 42-year-old Holtz and Hindman are close friends and served on Hayes' national championship coaching staff 10 years ago.

"I can have the job," Arkansas Gazette sports editor Orville Henry quoted Holtz as telling a friend a year ago. "I'm not sure I want it. A lot of things would have to be changed."

"Following Woody, I'm not sure I can get those things changed."

Once Hayes was fired, Holtz left the door ajar on his candidacy when he said, "I plan to stay at the University of Arkansas for as long as the people want me to."

Frank Broyles, the Razorbacks' athletic director, charged the Holtz speculation was premature, but conceded: "We've got a coach everybody wants. Now if we can just keep him."

The bottom line for Holtz, a native Ohioan, switching to Ohio State is his salary.

He's served two years of a four-year contract at Arkansas and, with fringe benefits, exceeds six figures annually. Hayes was making $45,000 a year at Ohio State.

Ed Seaman, sports information director at North Carolina State, supports the theory Holtz will take command of the Buckeyes.

"When he coached here for four years," Seaman told The Associated Press, "Lou's obvious goal in life was to return to Ohio and become Ohio State's head coach."

One Arkansas source, who asked not be identified, said: "It's cut and dried that Holtz will be Hayes' successor."

The 49-year-old Schembechler, an Ohio native and assistant under Hayes, already has removed his name from consideration, saying: "My college coaching career will finish at Michigan. I'm a Michigan man now."

Rein, who was along the Buckeyes' bench in the Gator Bowl, is another leading candidate. The 33-year-old former Ohio State halfback has been coaching North Carolina State for three seasons, leading them to a 30-17 Tangerine Bowl victory over Pittsburgh this year.

If Ohio State officials do want to talk with Holtz and Rein, they likely will observe an NCAA regulation. It says a school contacting a coach under contract at another institution has a "moral obligation to gain permission to make that contact."

Parseghian, the ABC-TV analyst at the Gator Bowl, told a luncheon he has no wish to get back into college coaching. The 55-year-old Parseghian, who followed Hayes as Miami of Ohio's coach, said: "After Notre Dame, what else is there? I'm not interested in a college job."

So what does the future hold for Hayes?

"I don't know what I'll do," he said as he packed his personal belongings at his tiny office at the team's practice facility.

Network Devotes Documentary To Study Of American Family

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — The American family once was epitomized by Norman Rockwell portraits — but today the picture also includes a spectrum from heterosexual childless "living together" to lesbians rearing the children of their marital mistakes.

NBC, which annually devotes a three-hour documentary to subjects ranging from violence to foreign affairs to the medical establishment, this year turns sociological with "The American Family: An Endangered Species?" to be broadcast tonight at 7 p.m., with correspondent Edwin Newman and Betty Rollin.

Having asked the question, executive producer Stuart Schulberg produces 14 real life "families." If you will accept the broadest possible definition of family, then the American family is not endangered. But it sure has changed.

Here in three hours are microcosms of what is happening to American lives and marriages — subjects usually reserved for daytime soap opera, and in a way this documentary is a three-hour soap opera interrupted by a panel of experts, statistics, and other evidence of serious-minded research.

The program has its beautifully touching moments. The Mexican-American Soriano family of San Antonio with 17 children and 38 grandchildren, is poor in possessions but rich in almost everything that counts.

Then there's the scene between Bruce Bosworth, a single man, and the handicapped child he adopted. The child touches Bosworth's face, discusses peanut butter sandwiches and cookies, and says, "I love you," which provides the most convincing argument you'll ever see for allowing singles to adopt.

If the Hartman children of Washington, D.C., gain maturity doing the chores they've had to take on because their mother has joined their father in the work force to help pay for college educations, there's another side.

The custody battle for the Marino's children in New Orleans reveals a bitterness and destructiveness toward the children that's hard to watch. Or listen to Peggy Collins, married at 16, now divorced at 35 and afraid to say no to her teen-age daughter for fear the girl will want to live with her father.

Orphan Offered Place To Live

RIPLEY, W.Va. (UPI) — Denise Sokel, whose cancer-stricken mother sold marijuana to pay an $800 monthly medical bill, will have no trouble finding a place to live.

A flood of callers in several states, including Pennsylvania, Ohio and Virginia, have offered the 14-year-old orphan a home since the death last week of Joan Sokel, her mother.

"I've had a number of calls," said Richard Rector, area administrator for the West Virginia Department of Welfare.

Rector said his agency relocated the girl, an "A" student at Ripley High School, in "an approved foster home." But how long she will remain with the unidentified family is uncertain.

He said the Jackson County Circuit Court must decide in mid-January if the girl is to remain in state custody.

Rector refused to identify the Ripley-area family providing a home for Denise and said, "That is confidential."

Back in November, state troopers raided the Sokel residence after an undercover agent reported he made a $40 marijuana buy. Police had evidence for an arrest, but not the heart for one, after realizing Mrs. Sokel's condition.

At 37, the woman was so riddled by cancer she couldn't get out of a chair. "I don't sell to little kids," she told lawmakers. "I just sell to people I know."

DR. LAMB

Common Problem

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me something about gas gangrene. Do you have pains internally and especially if you are a diabetic? I believe quite a lot and pass gas.

DEAR READER — You can stop worrying about gas gangrene. It's caused by a bacteria that lives only in an environment without oxygen. It has nothing at all to do with the gas problem that's so common in our population.

At least 10 percent of the population has gas problems. They are usually the result of swallowing air or from fermentation that releases gas from indigestible foods. A good example here would be an adult who can't tolerate milk and the indigestible milk sugar is fermented releasing gas.

If you're swallowing air, you need to be able to find out that's what you are doing and how to stop the habit. If it's from foods, they need to be eliminated.

If it is from poor colon function, you need to improve the function of your colon, literally getting rid of spastic and irritable colon problems that many people have. To help you understand the causes of gas and how to manage it, I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-8, Controlling Gasousness.

Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Since symptoms from gas are common because of irritable or spastic colon problems, many people do better to increase the amount of bulk in their diet. However, during the first three weeks after a person starts adding bran and bulk to the diet, he may have an increase in gas. If you get through that stage and can tolerate an increase in bulk, it usually improves the overall picture.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard many stories about this and I am counting on you to set me straight. Can a girl ovulate during the days when she has her menstrual period? If she does, what are her chances of becoming pregnant if she should have sex during those days?

I've also heard that if sex occurs up to eight days after your period is over you can't get pregnant. Is there any truth to these theories? Your answer is extremely important. I am sure that many other girls are wondering.

DEAR READER — And the fact that many other girls don't know the answers to these questions is one reason why there are so many teenage pregnancies. The only sure way of not getting pregnant when you don't want to is to not engage in sexual activities.

The basic rule that you're searching for is that a girl almost always ovulates 14 days before she has her menstrual period. Very few women are absolutely regular all the time.

Once the menstrual period occurs, you can count back 14 days and say that's when ovulation occurred. You'd better not count forward from the menstrual period though because the cycle may be different that month and you could be wrong.

It follows that it is possible for a woman to start to ovulate during a menstrual period but it is unlikely. If she did, her next menstrual period should occur in two weeks instead of four weeks. It follows that it is possible for a woman to ovulate very shortly after her menstrual period as well. They usually don't if they are regular.

In a woman who is regular the period in which she is most likely to get pregnant is midway in the 28-day cycle. Keep in mind that these are general rules and although a girl may be regular month after month, the very time that you count on it can be the very month that ovulation occurs early.

Coca-Cola Bottling Companies Sold

FORT WORTH (AP) — A group of Coca-Cola bottling companies based in Fort Worth has been sold to a group of outside investors that includes the former board chairman of Exxon and Aluminum Co. of America, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported recently in a copyrighted story.

Sale price was estimated at more than $100 million.

The sale involves a group of Coca-Cola bottling companies, primarily in Texas, that has been owned and managed by the same group of Fort Worth families since 1912.

The companies are Coca Cola Bottling Co. of Fort Worth, which includes plants in Fort Worth, Austin, El Paso, Coleman, Cleburne, Weatherford and Graham; Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of San Bernardino, Calif.; and the Coca-Cola bottling companies of Waco, Sherman, Galveston and Corsicana, and Durant, Okla.

The new investors are part off a company called Coke Enterprises, Inc., a private corporation organized by a New York investment firm, AEA Investors.

Inc., specifically for the purpose of acquiring the Fort Worth group of plants.

Directors of Coke Enterprises are John D. Harper of Pittsburgh, former chairman and chief executive officer of ALCOA; J. Kenneth Jamieson of Houston, former chairman and chief executive officer of Exxon; Carl B. Hess, president of AEA Investors; and Robert D. Stillman, vice president of AEA Investors.

All of the companies are managed by Sam P. Woodson Jr., who succeeded his brother in 1959 as manager of the Fort Worth plant. Woodson has signed a five-year contract to remain as chief executive officer of the group, and Coke Enterprises directors said the current board of directors will remain unchanged.

The "Woodson Group" of plants, as it is known to Coke bottlers, is believed to be among the top seven bottlers in the country in terms of total size.

While Woodson, his family and some outsiders own stock in some of the facilities, they own none in the Fort Worth and San Bernardino companies. They are owned by the beneficiaries of Charles A. Lupton and Tom J. Brown, who bought the Coke bottling companies here in early 1912.

Wallach Family Stars In 'Anne Frank' Play

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — It seemed fitting that a family — that of actor Eli Wallach — would some day play a family in that remarkable study of the human spirit, "The Diary of Anne Frank." It's happened.

Last week, 23 years after the Pulitzer-winning play opened on Broadway, four Wallachs reopened the brave, powerful "Diary" about eight Jews in hiding from the Nazis in wartime Holland.

In this show, to run until Feb. 11 off-Broadway, Wallach plays Anne's father. His wife, Anne Jackson, plays the mother. A Wallach daughter, Katherine, plays a Frank daughter, Margot.

And another Wallach daughter, Roberta, stars in the title role.

A family playing a family. A nice, promising idea.

But the sad news: Roberta, all of 23 now, just seems too grown-up to depict a high-spirited girl who began her diary at age 13 and died nearly three years later in a Nazi concentration camp.

The role originally was played by Susan Strasberg, then 17.

Miss Wallach, possessed of warm brown eyes, an expressive voice and a wonderful smile that would light even a critic's soul, certainly gives this alternately poignant and humorous part her best shot.

But she hasn't the awkwardness, the uncertain moves of a kid in her middle teens and this seems the major flaw in this well-intended revival of the play by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett. Another woe: Martin Fried's direction doesn't often seem to evoke the claustrophobia, the underlying fear the Franks and four other Jewish fugitives must have felt in 26 months of hiding in an office attic. It's there, but not consistently enough.

The four others in hiding are played by Tom Brennan, Rose Gregorio, Robert Joy (all as members of another family) and Anthony Holland.

Holland, cast as a prissy dentist who belatedly joins the fugitives, is particularly tops, first-rate and mighty good, too.

Miss Jackson is excellent as usual. Daughter Katherine, as Margot, hasn't many lines, but in her moves still conveys a good sense of Anne's steady, patient, uncompromising older sister.

Wallach keeps his powerful talent pretty much under wraps, no doubt not wanting to upstage daughter Roberta in this play he correctly calls "an illumination of the spirit."

But his show-closing moment — well, you'll see the master at work here as he sits, after the war, in the old hiding place, holding his dead daughter's diary, fighting the tears.

He hears her say: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."

He looks up, and gently, proudly, he says: "She puts me to shame."

To call this guy brilliant understates the case.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, Jan. 2, the second day of 1979 with 363 to follow.

The moon is moving from a new moon toward its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter.

The evening star is Mars.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

British Gen. James Wolfe, the Revolutionary War hero of Quebec, was born Jan. 2, 1727.

On this day in history:

In 1788, Georgia ratified the U.S. Constitution and was admitted to the Union.

In 1959, Moscow radio announced a cosmic rocket had been launched toward the moon.

In 1968, Dr. Christiaan Barnard performed his second successful heart transplant.

In 1974, President Nixon signed a bill requiring states to limit highway speeds to 55 miles an hour or lose federal highway funds.

A thought for the day:

Greek poet Hesiod said, "For himself does a man work even in the working of evils for another."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A highly active day with many different types of people could be in the offing for you tomorrow. Much of what you will hear, however, should be taken with a grain of salt.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conditions having an influence on your status and well-being will be favorable tomorrow, but not where asking for favors is concerned. Enjoy what comes along unsolicited.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your intentions may be otherwise, but you're likely to goad others into competitive situations with you tomorrow. You'll do best in creative areas where there will be no outside interference.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your head will be in the clouds tomorrow. You'll have difficulty thinking practically. Everything will work out well, however, because someone loyal to you will correct your mistakes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's no need to tell tales out of school tomorrow in an attempt to make a good impression. In fact, you will have more appeal when you refrain from gossiping.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something you'll do tomorrow will give you a real sense of achievement. However, you'll be disappointed if you expect praise from others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be extremely popular tomorrow, but you must take care that some little thing you say won't hurt someone's feelings. Think before you speak.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Chances are you'll be very restless tomorrow. You had better make plans to do something active. Don't forget to look at home when searching for companions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your quick wit and skill as a mediator will avert a family altercation. You'll have them chucking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It'll be difficult for you to concentrate on work tomorrow, because you will be apt to be lost in your own dreams. Might as well take a day off and go shopping.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A day on the town or being with exciting friends is what you will need tomorrow. However, take care that this does not include extravagant or frivolous spending.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) As soon as you get your mind off yourself you'll spot all the opportunities you could be included in tomorrow.

January 3, 1979

This will be a fortunate year where you will be able to express and put to profitable use your innovative ideas. Other people could have a hand in helping you bring things about.

Countries Love Peanut Butter

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Peanut butter is getting popular in the Middle East. In the second year of a Georgia Farm Bureau exporting program, $120,000-worth of peanut butter has been shipped to the area.

That may not seem much but, as program director Bob Marlowe says, "You have to remember that the man I sold the first 15 cases to didn't even know what the stuff was."

Today it is distributed and sold in five Arab countries through food stores, and it is part of school lunch programs in Syria and Jordan.

Marlowe said Arab governments liked peanut butter because of its high protein and low sugar content. And to help educate Arab consumers about its merits, the Farm Bureau has a Lebanese public relations firm coordinating promotion of the product.

Mark White Sworn In As Attorney General

AUSTIN (AP) — Democrat Mark White became Texas' new attorney general Monday and his supporters ate a snack of black-eye peas to get his administration off on the right step.

White, former Houston attorney and secretary of state, said his 15 months of campaigning convinced him that Texans are not as interested in the legal specifics of the job as they are in "the tried and true principles of honesty and decency and integrity."

Hundreds of friends and supporters crowded the Senate chamber, although the outside temperature was in the low 20s and ice still covered much of the ground. Afterwards, at a reception in the Capitol rotunda, they enthusiastically devoured cornbread and black-eye peas, a

Escapees Remain At Large

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (UPI) — Twelve prison inmates overpowered guards Monday night in a mass break attempt at the state's Cummins Unit prison. Five of the inmates never made it over the fence and three who did were recaptured early today.

The other four eluded tracking dogs and more than 100 searchers.

"We think they're possibly holed up in some abandoned building or shelter because of the extreme cold weather," Correction Department spokesman Tim Baltz said. "They are wearing their prison uniforms and apparently were able to get their jackets before they escaped."

Temperatures dropped to their lowest levels in two years across Arkansas during the night. Readings in the Pine Bluff area, where the state's Cummins Unit is located, dropped to near 10 early today and a brisk wind made it seem even colder.

Baltz said 12 inmates participated in the breakout about 10 p.m. Monday during a "restroom call." He said several inmates were in a recreation area of the maximum security building, watching television, when the escape began.

The recreation room does not have restroom facilities so security guards make periodic "restroom calls." When a prison guard announced a restroom call, Baltz said, all of the inmates in the room "surged toward him" and took him and at least one other guard as hostages.

Baltz said five of the inmates who participated never made it over the fence, and three who did were recaptured about 4 a.m. today as they crawled along a drainage ditch two miles southeast of the prison compound.

Baltz said one of those who participated in the escape but was captured before making it over the fence was Oklahoma prison escapee Paul Ruiz.

Clements Poses No Problems

AUSTIN (UPI) — The fact that Bill Clements is the state's first Republican governor in 105 years will not cause him any problems in dealing with the 1979 Texas Legislature, the Democratic leaders of the two houses contend.

It will be Clements' programs and style more than his party affiliation that determine how well he gets along with the heavily Democratic House and Senate, the leaders say.

"I don't think the fact that he's a Republican is very significant," said Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby, who will share the inauguration platform with Clements when he takes office Jan. 16.

"In our system, the conflict is between the legislative and the executive branches, and that has nothing to do with his being a Republican. That was written into the constitution and it should be."

Speaker Bill Clayton, whose conservative philosophy is similar to that of Clements, said he sees no particular problems facing Clements in dealing with the Legislature.

But Clayton conceded, "This is a situation none of us has been in before."

Both the speaker and lieutenant governor are skeptical of some of Clements' proposals — such as elimination of 25,000 state employees during the next four years, giving Texas voters the power of initiative and referendum, and requiring a two-thirds majority vote in each house for the passage of tax bills.

Hobby has been openly critical of some of Clements' proposals, but declines to be identified as the leader of the Democratic opposition to the state's first GOP administration of this century.

"I've only met him twice in my life, once since the election and once during the summer," Hobby said.

"But I think he has an obligation to be a good deal more specific about the things he talked about during his campaign."

For example, Hobby says, when Clements proposes eliminating 25,000 state employees, he should specify what agencies they would be eliminated from, including how many would be cut from higher education, welfare agencies or the highway department.

And when Clements proposes an additional $1 billion reduction in taxes, he should specify which state programs would have to be curtailed because of the lost state revenue, Hobby said.

"I think for his proposals to have credibility, they need to be more specific," Hobby said.

As to Clements' proposal to require a two-thirds majority vote to pass future tax bills, Clayton says flatly, "I don't think it will fly. It has appeal when you hear it, but when you reason it out, there are some problems. The two-thirds vote requirement to pass a tax bill in effect gives you minority control."

Hobby noted it was a similar requirement in California that prompted passage of Proposition 13 because the California Legislature never could obtain the majority sufficient to pass tax reform measures.

Houston Police Consider Filing Charges

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Authorities are considering charges against a man who led police to the burned bodies of four derelicts beneath a bridge.

An autopsy Monday on one of the victims, identified as Herman Allen Adcock, 37, indicated he had been beaten before being burned. Autopsies on the other three are pending.

A man police said had a record of stealing from winos led officers to the culvert where the bodies were found beaten and burned beyond recognition.

Police said the man claimed he came upon the four while they were sleeping and noticed a fire they had built to keep warm in the icy freezing weather had gone out.

The man claimed he took some plastic packing material from a nearby railway boxcar and wrapped the men in it to keep them warm. He said he then rekindled the fire but it spread to the plastic packing material and burned them.

He said he tried to awaken the men but then noticed they had been beaten.

The man then went to police to report the incident and police took him into custody. He was given a polygraph test but police said the results of the test would not be announced until later.

Three Persons Killed As Train Hits Van

NEW CANEY (UPI) — A train struck a van trying to cross against a warning signal Monday, killing three persons and injuring four others.

Police said the van was eastbound on Farm Road 1485 when it tried to cross against flashing lights and was struck by a Southern Pacific freight train.

The dead were identified as Daniel T. Parker, 30, of New Caney, driver of the van; Sharon Rose Geary, 26, of Porter, and her son, Brian Raymond Geary Jr., 6.

Critically injured were Gloria Parker, 28, the driver's wife, and their son, Terry Parker, 8. Another Parker child, Andrea, 5, was hospitalized in guarded condition. Brian R. Geary Sr., 25, was hospitalized in good condition.

traditional good luck food for New Year's Day.

The oath was administered by Baylor University President Abner McCall. White's wife, Linda Gayle, held the Bible and gave him a resounding kiss afterwards.

"I promise you an honest administration... an open administration... a fair administration... a tough administration... a compassionate administration," Whitesaid.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who brought White into political life by appointing him secretary of state, said he had created a record as "one of the most capable men in the history of state government."

Briscoe predicted he would make "the most effective state attorney general Texas has ever had."

Also present for the brief ceremony were Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton, Texas Supreme Justice Joe Greenhill and other members of the court, plus a large number of present and past state officials.

White's ceremony was one of a few held New Year's Day. Others will be held after the holiday festivities, and football bowl games, are over.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong was sworn in Monday for another 4-year term in the small town of Liberty Hill, northwest of Austin. His long-time friend, Jim Burnett, a notary public and operator of a local store, administered the oath.

In another ceremony Monday, Austin attorney Sam Houston Clinton was sworn in as a new member of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals by Presiding Judge John F. Onion.

On Thursday, in Kerrville, former Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, will be sworn in as a member of the Texas Railroad Commission. He was appointed to the position by Briscoe after Commissioner Jon Newton resigned.

The swearing-in and inauguration festivities for Gov.-elect Bill Clements, first Republican chief executive in 105 years, and for Hobby will be held Jan. 16.

Leads Develop In Killing

TEXARKANA (UPI) — Bowie County Sheriff's officers have developed leads but no suspects in the New Year's Eve killing of former Texarkana City Manager Howard Willingham.

Homicide investigator Willie Huff Monday said Willingham's body was found late Sunday at his office-home in Friendship Village, a trailer park development he owned just outside the city limits.

Willingham was the city manager of Texarkana from 1968 to 1972.

Huff said Willingham had massive injuries about the head and shoulders but the cause of death had not been determined. He said the body had been sent to Dallas for autopsy.

Huff said the preliminary investigation had turned up some leads in the case that investigators were pursuing. He said there were no suspects in the death at the time.

Huff said Willingham's home showed signs of forcible entry, but neither the home nor office section had been ransacked. A motive for the death has not been determined.

Willingham was married and but his current wife was in Hot Springs, Ark., at the time of the death, preparing to move her children to Texarkana.
