In a news conference shortly after both houses of the Iranian Parliament formally nominated him as the nation's new civilian prime minister, Bakhtiar said the shah's planned trip is "the desire he has expressed himself.

There is speculation Washington urged him to do it.

Bakhtiar, whose proposed government now must be approved by the shah, outlined his plans for restoring the nation to civilian rule after two months of a martial law regime installed to quell anti-shah

Among other things, he said Iran will continue to sell oil to nations that need it. Asked about continuing to export oil to Israel, which relies heavily on Iran for its fuel needs, he left open the possibility that continued exports to the Jewish state could be jeopardized because of its dispute with other Moslem nations.

He also said Iranian troops "will not stay on the streets for nothing" but that he will not permit major disorders.

Bakhtiar, 62, said Tuesday that the shah had agreed to name a regency council and leave the country for a rest. The embattled monarch asked Bakhtiar last week to try to form a government.

Bahktiar was expected to announced his cabinet lineup on Thursday, but he told reporters it might be two or three more days before the list is released.

The vote in the Senate was unanimous but a spokesman said several members of the Majlis, the lower house, spoke and voted against Bakhtiar. Informed sources said the dissident deputies were offended by his statement in a TV speech Monday that Iran had been suffering from corrupt government for 25 years.

The parliamentary formalities were set in motion after Bakhtiar, former deputy chief of the anti-shah National Front, in formed the 59-year-old monarch he had a cabinet to replace t month-old military government headed

Bakhtiar told a French TV inteviewer Tuesday that the shab has "agreed to take a trip abroad, to take a rest and to take a trip abroad, to take a rest and to name a regency council" to exercise the royal powers. But he did not say when the shah would leave.

The shah won Bakhtiar away from other opposition leaders demanding his abdication by agreeing to give up much of his power, although how much has not been announced. The other political and religious leaders of the nationwide opposition to the monarch continue to demand his ouster and denounce Bakhtiar as a traitor to their movement. as a traitor to their movement.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Times re-ported that the United States, in a major policy shift, is encouraging the shah to leave Iran, at least temporarily. The newspaper said U.S.officials in Washington have repeatedly raised the issue of a "vacation" for the shah.

cess was not known. Mina Azad, a spokeswoman for the protesters, said there would be more demonstrations. "We're going to demon-strate as long as they (the shah's family) are here. We're not going to let them steal from the Iranian people and then come here and live in peace," she said.

At least 35 demonstrators were injured, two seriously, in the bloody confrontation Tuesday, as chanting Iranians and their supporters repeatedly tried to storm the home and were driven back by police using clubs, high-pressure fire hoses and tear gas.

Sheriff's Department spokesman Chet Ballew said five or six demonstrators were arrested for investigation of various charges, including arson and assault on law officers.

The demonstrators carried placards calling for the death of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and an end to U.S. support

Several demonstrators came near to entering the expensive home before about 300 protesters were forced from the steep slopes around the residence, herded down the hilly streets and corraled in a

The demonstrators were then released in groups of four or five without incident. An unknown number of protesters were hit by police cars during the 45-minute melee in an exclusive residential area in the hills above downtown Beverly Ballew said the protesters were knocked down by sheriff's cars responding to a report of a female deputy being dragged from her patrol car. The deputy was unharmed and had not been dragged out of her car, Ballew said.

Several policemen were injured in the melee, none seriously.

At one point, dozens of screaming demonstrators surged past a large gate and battled with helmeted officers in the driveway of the home before retreating

The program is considered voluntary, but the administration hopes to get companies to comply by threatening adverse publicity and withholding contracts.

The wage standards generally limit pay increases to 7 percent per year, while the price standards require most companies to increase their prices by smaller amounts than in past years. One problem the council encountered was in defining what a company was. Bosworth told reporters that a business might try to divide itself into several segments if it appeared one subdivision

Haig To Leave NATO June 30

exander Haig, supreme commander of NATO forces in Europe and a former top aide of President Richard M. Nixon, announced at a news conference today he will resign on June 30.

Haig, 54, said he offered his resignation to President Carter and the secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Joseph Luns. He said he had no political plans for the time being.

President Nixon named Haig White House chief of staff in May 1973, following the resignations of top presidential aides, H.R. Haldeman and John Erlichman, in the Watergate scandal that eventally drove the president from office in 1974. Haig was not involved in the scan-

WASHINGTON (AP) - Mideast peace talks between Egypt and Israel probably will be resumed here in mid-month with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance as the host, an Israeli diplomat said today. Prospects for wrapping up a treaty were uncertain, however.

A number of provisions are still in dispute, including a U.S. proposal to set the end of 1979 as a target date for establishing Palestinian autonomy on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in Gaza.

"We shall not accept a definite target because that would put the fate of the treaty in the hands of a third party," said the Israeli official, who declined to be

So far, he explained, both Jordan and the Palestinian Arabs have refused to join a second round of negotiations over the future of the Israeli-held West Bank and Gaza.

The treaty with Egypt should not be conditional on other parties who may not be willing to join the peace process, the official said.

In Cairo, Egypt said today it is prepared to resume "efforts" toward a peace treaty with Israel. But it held to its position in the stalled negotiations and left it to the United States to decide the Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil said the peace efforts could include direct Egyptian-Israeli negotiations at "a later stage." But Khalil suggested as a more immediate possibility a meeting between him and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance or a three-way meeting with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

Khalil spoke to reporters at the end of a six-hour cabinet session that debated Egypt's position in the deadlocked peace talks. A cabinet statement affirmed the Egyptian call for a timetable linking the proposed treaty to the establishment of Arab autonomy on the West Bank.

Vance proposed the target date in mid-November as a compromise between Egypt's insistence on a timetable for Palestinian self-rule and Israel's objection to linking the treaty to autonomy. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat accepted the target date approach on Vance's trip to the Middle East last month.

On another sticking point, the Israeli diplomat said his government notified the United States last week that it could not accept re-interpretation of a provision that gives the treaty precedence over Egypt's military ties with other Arab countries.

Egypt, with support from the Carter administration, wants the provision "clarified" so that Egypt reserves the right to assist another Arab state that goes to war with Israel in self-defense.

The provision giving peace with Israel precedence over Egypt's alliances "is the heart of the treaty for us," the Israeli official said. The proposed change would make it "totally meaningless," he added.

An announcement on the resumption of negotiations is expected within the next few days. The two other principal obstacles are:

- An Egyptian demand that terms of the treaty, which include full Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai, be reviewed five years after signing.

Sadat's decision to hold back on an exchange of ambassadors with Israel until a month after the three-stage withdrawal is completed.

Hays Sworn In

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The road from Columbus to Capitol Hill and back again was marred by scandal, but freshman Rep. Wayne Hays says he's glad to be back in political harness and ready to tackle even the lowliest com-mittee post in the Ohio General Assembly.

Hays, sworn in to the state Legislature Tuesday, resigned from Congress in 1976 after serving 28 years. His resignation was sparked by his affair with Elizabeth Ray.

"I told the speaker to put me on any committee he couldn't get anybody else to serve on," said Hays, who once chaired the House Administration Committee and the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee. "...I hope to do a good job for the people who sent me here — what we all hope to do."

Hays said he doesn't expect his past experiences to cause

John Warner Gets Early Start

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - John Warner of Virginia enters the U.S. Senate today with a 24-hour jump in seniority over some of his freshman colleagues.

The former Navy secretary repeated the oath of office Tuesday morning, his hand on a Bible held by his beaming wife, actress Elizabeth Taylor.

The swearing-in came a day ahead of scheduled ceremonies in Washington because retiring Sen. William Scott Jr., R-Va., honored tradition by resigning a day early.

Warner was selected by state GOP leaders to be the Senate nominee after former State Republican Chairman Richard Obenshain died in an Aug. 2 airplane crash. Obenshain had beat Warner for the nomination at the party convention in June.

In the Nov. 7 election, Warner defeated Democrat Andrew Miller by 4,721 votes out of more than 1.2 million votes cast. Miller, a former state attorney general, asked for a recount but later withdrew the request.

The admissibility of the letters, attached to a defense motion filed with Judge Arthur Marshall, has not been decided. The motion asks that Miss Marvin's attorney be barred from using the emotional aspects of the relationship as proof that an "implied contract" existed.
The defense wants arguments restrict-

In one letter, the actor describes an imaginary scene in which he tells a judge he would accept a life sentence with Miss Marvin as penalty for "robbing a 33-year-old cradle." After sentencing, Marvin tells the judge: "Yes sir, I accept life with her. ... Will the jury please get out of

Biologist Optimistic About Experiment

 Despite a higher mortality rate than on ahead of time have fallen into place." expected, a three-year-old experiment to establish a new flock of endangered whooping cranes in the Rocky Mountains appears to be working.

"I'm optimistic," said Dr. Rod Drewien, a research biologist who has followed the whoopers between New Mexico and Idaho since 1975. "I believe it will work if we can overcome, or minimize, the problem of mortality."

The experiment was undertaken by U.S. and Canadian wildlife officials in an effort to increase the chances for survival of the rare whooping crane. Despite significant gains in the population of the only other wild flock recently, officials said the species would be less susceptible to a disaster with two or more flocks.

Eggs from the nesting grounds of the established flock in western Canada have been put in nests of sandhill cranes at the Grays Lake National Wildlife Refuge in Idaho each spring. The sandhills hatch the eggs and raise the young whoopers until the next year's nesting season. So far, Drewien said, 16 young whoopers have begun the fall migration from Grays Lake to the winter grounds in New Mexico's central Rio Grande Valley since the experiment began.

Of those 16, nine are living this winter along a 45-mile stretch of the valley. Of the other seven. Drewien said three died after crashing into fences in Colorado and Wyoming and four have disappeared for unknown reasons.

"The mortality rate is a little higher than we would have anticipated," Drewien said. "It illustrates how difficult it is to re-establish some of these endan-

Drewien said wild whoopers begin mating when they are about five to eight years old and pair off for life. He said it was too early to draw any conclusions about future breeding within the young flock, but said officials are encouraged by two signs.

"The biggest thing we are concerned about is if they try to mate with the san-dhills," he said. "If so, we will have to find ways to circumvent it, but so far they have not shown any inclination to pair or attempt to pair with the sandhills.

Treaty Termination Stirs Dis

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Defendant Carter may have more trouble in Congress than in court over the termination of the U.S. mutual defense treaty with

After all, it was Carter who promised to shape foreign policy with congressional participation from the outset. It didn't work that way on the new China policy. Carter became a defendant when Sen. Barry Goldwater and 14 congressional colleagues sued him for putting the Nationalist Chinese on notice that the 1954 defense treaty will end in a year. They seek to have the federal courts invalidate Carter's action, part of the price the administration paid for diplomatic

Carter said the China diplomacy had to be conducted in secret. He and Zbigniew Brzezinski said it wouldn't have worked

They may be right, but Carter didn't talk that way when he was campaigning for the White House. He accused the Republicans of running "a kind of secretive Lone Ranger foreign policy," and said he

Fashion Preference

Change Drastically

NEW YORK (AP) — Fashion preferences among teen-age girls have changed drastically in the past five years, a recent Seventeen magazine survey shows.

In 1974, 44 percent of the teen girls polled opted for miniskirts. Now more than two-thirds of those surveyed wear their skirts just below the knee; 14 percent like the midi, others like kneelength, and the mini has just about disappeared from the scene.

In top executive ranks, there generally is nore than enough extra in paychecks these days to cover the increasing cost of even igh-style living.

The information comes from a Conference Board survey of the highest-paid officers in gearly 1,500 companies. According to the returns, the base salary of your typical chief executive officer in a manufacturing enterprise has gone up some 20 percent in the last

As if that weren't enough to pique the curiosity of any Congress watcher, Hance defeated George Bush Jr., whose dad is known on Capitol Hill as a likely contender for the Republican Presidential nomination 19 months hence.

The Nixon Place In History

WASHINGTON-Shortly after he retired as President, Richard Nixon wrote me several letters in which he said, in effect, that a man in trouble knows who his friends are, and he thanked me for being one.

Nixon is no longer in trouble, but he probably has no more friends than before. His trips to China, France, Britain and the ultra-conservative South, were of several purposes.

He wanted to know if he would be received, and how, as a world figure who reputedly "understands" foreign affairs as "the conqueror" (a Faulkner title which epitomized all that the South admires) or merely as a lonely wanderer who deserved worse punishment, but who beat

I DON'T BELIEVE for a moment that he is any authority on international affairs. He is a bright man with a good memory, but not with the intelligence of a thinker.

Any advice he gave would be suspect of self-interest. He has not shaken the habit of a lifetime which is to bluster and bully when he can, and whine and blubber if he must.

Still, the advice of a friend would be that he live abroad, and at least gather such moss as clings to an exile. There is a difference between a flatterer and a friend, and I hope he will think the better of me for the choice I have made.

BUT IN HONESTY, I doubt if he will choose the role of refugee, and there one comes to the single item of his public character which is admi-rable. He never gives up.

In the 1952 campaign he was invited to leave the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, but instead he made a maudlin but effective address that brought Eisenhower to him with outstretched hand, saying "You're my boy." Four years later, Harold Stassen made a fierce and not ineffective attempt to take him off the Ike ticket and coattails. A man with pride might well have pulled out but in the end he had Stassen stand up in the GOP convention and endorse In 1960 he was challenged by Gov. Nelson

Rockefeller for the Republican nomination, but he went to New York for the famous Park Avenue pact which was a shameful sellout of the conservatives who had nowhere else to go.

Sen. Barry Goldwater rallied the right wing for him, but it was not enough to prevent John Kennedy from taking the election by fractions.

There are some who say Nixon didn't lose the election, but had it stolen from him by Mayor Richard Daley and Lyndon Johnson, but I saw Nixon in Washington afterwards, and he never

Is Better Health Care Just Around Corner?

ALTHOUGH THE concept of the health maintenance organization is not new and although some of the leading HMOs in the U.S. have been smash successes-from the viewpoint of the patients, the physician members and the commun ties in which they are located—general ignorance of how they operate, what they are designed to achieve and what they can do for you remains shockingly high.

Thus, my past three columns have been devoted to answering just about every question you might have about this concept of health maintenance and preventive medicine at lowest feasible

Today's quiz continues to probe the field as it enters a period of explosive growth, backed by powerful leaders in all segments of our society. To begin with the most obvious question not yet

Q. ASSUME THERE is no HMO in your area and you suffer from a shortage of doctors, too. How do you get an HMO started?

A. Usually HMOs are started with a nucleus of some kind—a group of physicians, a hospital, a community health center.

In the absence of any core group, contact the Office of HMOs in the Public Health Service (an agency of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare) in one of 10 regional cities: Boston New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, Kansas City, Denver, San Francisco and Seattie, Or call the HMO information toll-free number (800) 638-6686

Q. Where can I get more information about HMOs?

A. Write to: Office of Health Maintenance Organizations, HEW, 12420 Parklawn Drive, Rockville, Md. 20857. Or call the toll-free number above. Maryland residents may call (301) 443-

Q. WHAT ARE THE average hospital stays for patients of HMOs and non-HMOs? How many days are saved by HMOs? What about cash?

A. The average number of hospital days per 1,-000 members for qualified HMOs in 1977 was 425; for all prepaid plans, 519; for Blue Cross/Blue Shield (with about half of its 74 million members enrolled in health indemnity plans) 755 days.

Using the average daily benefit payment of $179 to hospitals by Blue Cross as a yardstick, the qualified HMOs saved 330 days (755 against 425) which at $179 a day comes out to $59,070 additional cost per 1,000 patient-days per year.

All HMOs saved 236 days (755 against 519) which at $179 a day comes out to $42,244 additional cost per 1,000 patient-days per year.

Q. HOW CAN AN HMO guarantee 24-hour serv-

A. All HMOs are required to provide or arrange for 24-hour emergency service seven days a week. The procedures vary from plan to plan. Each member is informed about emergency procedures upon enrollment.

nbers, in some cases, will call the HMO and be instructed on what to do; they may, for emergencies, go directly to the emergency room of a hospital.

A. Your membership would cover only services provided by physicians associated with the plan. You may change doctors within the HMO itself. Services by any other physician would not be reimbursable unless accepted by the HMO or physician. The same applies to the hospital.

Only the hospital affiliated with the HMO would be reimbursed. This does not mean you can't go to physicians or hospitals outside the plan, but you may have to pay for the services.

Controversy Surrounds Building

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate's uncompleted third office building - television anchor booths and all - is going to continue to be a bone of contention in the 96th Congress.

"When the fat comes along, I and several others will be ready to bite it away." Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., said last week in releasing a letter to Architect of the Capitol John White.

Chafee, a consistent critic of the structure, asked White for a current estimate of the building's cost, a timetable for its completion and a report on what he calls

The new building is supposed to house 50 of the 100 senators. Chafee specifically wanted to know how much it will cost to main behind in the existing buildings.

White's office said Chafee's letter had not been received, but Deputy Architect Elliott Carroll told a reporter he thought Chafee was the cause of "the biggest hidden cost." He argued that Chafee's efforts have delayed the building, causing its cost to rise because of inflation. Carroll said the building might have been finished by June 1981 under the original timetable, but he now has "no idea" when it will be completed. The architect's latest cost estimate is $122 million, compared with an estimate of $48 million when the building was first authorized in 1972. Carroll conceded the renovations of existing buildings will be in addition to this, but said he didn't know how much they would cost. Chafee contends $200 million is a more realistic total estimate, counting furnishings, renovation of the existing buildings and other items.

Chafee tried unsuccessfully in August to get the Senate to call a halt to the building and convert the site into an underground public parking garage and a street-level park. The Senate did agree to cut funds for the building, but the architect is expected to try to have the money restored this year.

Supporters of the building say it is needed because, with the growth of Senate staffs in recent years, the present office space is overcrowded.

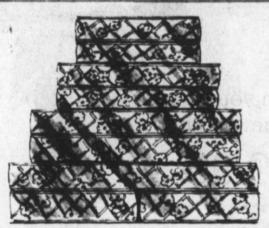

Opponents challenge the need for the building in the first place and charge that, in any event, it is far too grand. Present plans call for a rooftop restaurant for senators only, a marble atrium and a hearing room equipped with booths for

TV anchormen. A report prepared for Chafee by his staff says $1.3 million could be saved by using masonry and plaster for the atrium, $600,000 by eliminating the dining room and $1 million by dropping the fancy hearing room. The report also says a lot of room in the existing buildings is taken up by facilities which could be located elsewhere, making more office space available.

Relief From Ringing

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - Can you give me some information regarding ring-ing or buzzing in the right ear? It's not a continuous ringing. It is mostly present when I'm lying down. I had an annual physical and asked my doctor about it. I am 59 years old and he said that at my age it might be hardening of the arteries. He didn't seem concerned.

My cholesterol, blood pressure and other measurements were all okay. I believe that I read in your column once that there isn't much that can be done. Is that right? That was some months ago before I had this.

DEAR READER - You probably did read that in my column. It was quite some time ago. This was the situation until recently. Now there are some things that can be done which seem to at least relieve the symptoms of ringing and noises in

Of course, it's nice to find out what is causing this condition first. In some instances, the ear is just simply olugged with wax and the condition can be relieved promptly. In other instances, the cause of the buzzing is never known. It's in these instances that treatment is difficult and in the past it used to be impossible.

Now there are devices that can be used that create a noise that masks the buzzing. The condition you are describing is called tinnitus. A tinnitus clinic has been established at the University of Oregon Medical School and others are developing elsewhere.

The Oregon group has reported good results by using a hearing aid in patients who have hearing loss associated with ringing in the ear. The improved hearing of normal sounds appears to mask the ringing sensation. In a high percentage of patients, but not all, this will provide relief.

The clinic also has studied the use of artificial sound with a device called a tinnitus masker. It is worn just like a hearing aid and the sound this produces is adjusted in relationship to the range of sounds that are annoying to the patient.

The noise that is generated is not in the range of sounds for ordinary

Therefore, it doesn't affect hearing a spoken voice. These devices are used for patients who do not have any associated hearing loss.

Some patients have the ringing of the ear only at night when they try to sleep. Some of these patients get relief by using an FM radio and setting the dial so that it is not on any one station. The noise that is generated in between stations is then amplified by turning up the volume. This extra sound seems to mask the disconcerting sound in the ear and provides relief for some patients.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-10 on Tinnitus, Ringing Of The Ears. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed enve-lope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

There are over 30 million Americans who suffer from this unpleasant disturbance so it is really great that something can be done for a lot of

Economic Slowdown Forecast

NEW YORK (AP) - If 1979 turns out to be a tough year for the economy, you can't say the experts on Wall Street didn't warn you.

As always, there are dissenting views. But most analysts in the financial comnity have long since made an econor wdown, in one form or another, a central part of their forecasts for the new

Most of their projections also call for persistent inflation problems through mid-year, if not beyond, and at least a slight further rise in interest rates, which ed during 1977.

At New Year's, business activity showed little evidence of any slowing. The latest readings on such statistics as machine-tool orders indicated continuing g growth.

d by all accounts retail sales came on strong just before Christmas, after a start in the holiday-shopping season. But while many observers acknowledge their surprise at the economy's strong current pace, they are sticking with their previous forecasts of a slowdown before

"We estimate that real growth for the last quarter of this year will show a healthy 4.5 percent," said Michael Ev-ans, president of Chase Econometrics Asociates in Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

"But the Christmas shopping represents the last stand of the Ar ny expectations on other aspects of he outlook, are unwilling to concede this

As Leon G. Cooperman, chairman of the investment policy committee at Gold-man, Sachs & Co. put it in his December investment-strategy commentary: "Re-cession years and the beginning stages of a business recovery tend to be good stock market periods."

After examining seven economic and stock-market "troughs" since World War II, Goldman Sachs analysts found that Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index bottomed out, on average, six months before the economy did.

Earnings for the companies in the S&P 500 have declined in 11 years in the post-War period, they noted, but the market rose in eight of those years, was un-changed in one and declined in only two. "With the stock market down on balance for the last two years when corpo-rate profits were up 11 percent in 1977 and an estimated 16 percent in 1978," Cooperman concluded, "it seems reason-able to expect an 'up' market in 1979 in the face of a 'down' earnings year."

Analysts who take this kind of position acknowledge that they are making a couple of important assumptions — that whatever slowdown occurs will not be inordinately severe, and that it will have take some of the steam out of inflation and bring interest rates down from their current lofty levels.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite reports he is ready to move on, Joseph Anthony Califano Jr. seems happy and com-fortable with his 80-hour work weeks atop the government's big rock candy

That's what conservatives half-jokingly call the Department of Health, Educa-tion and Welfare, where Canfano has presided as secretary for two years over programs which now cost taxpayers $182

Insiders say he's on solid ground with President Carter and predict he will stay a that national health insurance could cost at HEW for another year or two before: running for New York Republican Sen. Jacob Javits' seat in 1980. Some say he may even shoot for vice president.

"I don't plan to go anywhere," says Califano when asked if the rumors are true that he eventually will replace Attorney General Griffin Bell and be replaced at HEW by retiring Florida Rep. Paul

"There's too much to be done here," says the liberal Catholic from Brooklyn who is determined that budget cutting will not chop back aid to the needy, sick and aged. His answer: better manage

Califano, 47, is a magna cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School who gave up a $500,000 law practice to take over the department.

Califano's weakness is that he learned steamroller politics as a top aide to Lyndon Johnson and found out too late the new breed of lawmaker needs a lot more cajoling. In the past year, Califano lost battles over welfare reform and hospital costs, but few believe these setbacks were permanent

Califano says he has saved taxpayers more than $700 million in two years by reorganizing HEW offices and installing programs to keep track of fraud, abuse and error in Medicaid, Medicare and oth-

Agency Revises Liquid Protein Label Order

WASHINGTON (AP) - A year after sounding alarms about low-calorie liquid protein diets, the Food and Drug Administration has revised its order for warning labels on the products.

The agency said that although use of liquid protein for diets "has greatly decreased since the FDA warned the public about them last year, there is still a potential for serious health problems if the products are misused."

The warning labels were first proposed on Dec. 1, 1977. The new order is still tentative until public comment can be re-

The regulation would require warnings on all protein products that provide more than half of a person's calories and are promoted for use in losing weight or as a food supplement.

The label on protein products used solely for weight reduction would say: Warning - Very low calorie protein diets may cause serious illness or death. Do not use for weight reduction without medical supervision. Use with particular care if you are taking medication. Not for use by infants, children or pregnant or nursing women.

Less dire warnings would be used for products in which the person consumes 800 or more calories per day, or simply takes protein as a food supplement in an athletic training program or other cir-

Liquid protein was widely promoted ! last year as a means of losing large amounts of weight. But the FDA said 16 persons, mostly women, died while on the diet for prolonged periods.

The agency is still trying to pinpoint what led to the deaths. Research has indicated that the victims suffered from erratic heartbeats possibly caused by the

The diet involves strict fasting except for small amounts of liquid protein, sometimes supplemented by vitamins and other nutrients.

Debtors Imaginative In Delaying Bill Payments

THERAPEUTIC HYPNOSIS

OF AMERICA

LOSE WEIGHT-STOP SMOKING, NAIL BITING

By LEROY POPE NEW YORK (UPI) — "The check is in the mail," is still the excuse of the uni-maginative debtor, but cash flow problems created by inflation have raised the practice of stalling creditors to a fine art, says John Gordana.

Gordana runs Equitable Adjustment Service, a collection agency for such blue chip clients as American Cyanamid, Johnson & Johnson and Schering Corp.
Gordana says he is intrigued by the high degree of sophistication displayed by debtor companies to keep creditors from bringing the law down on them.
"Of course, the ancient device of sending a partial payment on the delinquent nt still is widely practiced," he said. "So is the time honored and unimaginative lie, 'the check's in the mail." But there are much more adroit ways to stall for a few days or even a few with checks drawn on the bank farthest weeks, he said.

One of the most ingenious is to send a check in payment for the bill but to use a little gadget that demagnetizes the mag-netic link in the Federal Reserve transit number and the account number, those queer little figures in computer alphanumerics, at the bottom of the check. This will cause the bank's computer to throw out the check and by law the bank then is required to sort it by hand.

Since banks now have small staffs for this hand work the check may take up to three weeks to clear. Meanwhile, the debtor supplier who sent it has use of the

A perfectly legal, and on the whole notunethical, method of delaying payment is to have checking accounts in banks scattered around the country. One pays bills from the creditors' office. For a big company, even a few days delay in clearing a check can improve cash flow and save a significant amount of interest. But it's not so ethical to draw checks to pay bills on bank "A" and the next day transfer the funds to bank "B." When the creditors howl about the bouncing checks, the debtor company says innocently, "Oh, we had some trouble at the bank and decided to make a change, a few checks got caught in transit."

Equally reprehensible is the practice of photographing a cancelled check for a previous order of the same amount, after altering the date on the face of the check, as proof of payment, then barefacedly claiming it was just a mistake.

Another one of these stalling errors is to put different amounts in figures and the spelled out money amount. "We did that? Just send the check back and we'll send you another."

Many businesses, especially small ones, have felt the impact of the severe credit squeeze that has pushed interest rates near record highs, Gordana said. "These crackdowns which destroy lots of small businesses, used to occur about every eight years; now they come every three or four years."

Recently, he says, there has been a dropoff in the total number of bills his clients are sending him to collect. That, he says, is not good news. It could mean a

By ROSALIND ROSSI CHICAGO (UPI) — Some people get sick of their work.

Dr. Thomas DeMeester says one of his patients, a sea captain, got sick on the high seas. Another patient, an auto mechanic, regurgitated every time he bent over a fender or got under a car. A 24-hour test developed by DeMeester helped diagnose whether these patients should have surgery to prevent them from developing extreme heartburn, a burning pain that rises in the chest and may radiate into the neck, throat and even the face.

DeMeester, an associate professor of surgery at University of Chicago's Pritz-ker School of Medicine, said the procedure is particulary helpful with children, elderly and the handicapped if they cannot adequately describe their symptoms.

Heartburn, which has nothing to do with the heart, is caused by a weak valve between the esophagus and stomach make a borderline case worse," DeMeester said.

Antacids may temporarily relieve the burning sensation, he said, but heartburn victims can be monitored to determine whether they should be treated with drugs or surgery.

The test, which costs about $10, involves placing a probe above the lower esophageal valve. The probe is connected to a recorder which notes whenever gas-which allows gastric content to come back up into the esophagus. Heartburn usually occurs after meals.

"Certain things weaken the valve—chocolate, wine, fatty foods—and will this weaken the valve—those set to determine the reflux cycle and thus help doctors in prescibing nightly or daily drugs.

It also is used to determine how adequately a patient's valve prevents regurgitation. If regurgitation occurs during more than 20 percent of the most tree in the complex cycle. more than 20 percent of the monitoring time, a patient's lower esophagus may be scarred and narrowed and surgery may

DeMeester said the technique is unique in that it can detect problems before there is scarring of the lower esophagus.

If caught at this early stage, patients can undergo surgery to reconstruct the value so it works normally. He said the surgery is a simple, 45 minute procedure that costs about $400.

If the valve is badly scarred, more expensive surgery would be necessary in which sections of the colon are substituted for parts of the esophagus. The procedure costs about $1,500, he said.

Test Helps In Determining Need For Surger

More Clinics Join Interferon Tests

NEW YORK (UPI) - The American Cancer Society announced today five more research centers will take part in its unprecedented $2 million clinical test of "interferon" - a natural body substance some scientists believe may be useful against cancer.

The action doubles and brings to 10 the number of institutions taking part in the project beginning this month and lasting probably for most of two years. The project and the first five centers were announced last fall.

Interferon, at present a very rare substance reportedly costing an estimated $50 million per gram, will be used to treat selected patients in the medical centers. Not more than 150 patients, including some with breast cancer, will be in-

Dr. Frank J. Rauscher Jr., the society's research director, said scientists in charge at each of the institutions will select the patients.

"Patients cannot walk in off the street and offer themselves for study," he said. Due to the limited amount of the substance available, tests will be conducted on only four kinds of cancer instead of six as originally planned. The society reported that studies on squamous cell cancer of the lung, the most common type, and cancer of the bladder will be postponed.

The study will concentrate on cancer of the breast, non-Hodgkins lymphomas, multiple myeloma, and melanoma.

Interferon, according to some researchers, appears to make some tumors disappear and others shrink. But Rauscher, in charge of the tests and formerly head of the National Cancer Institute, said he will use "no superlatives" in talking about the substance until the final verdict at the end of the controlled study.

It will take 18 months to two years to get the answer - and scientists warn it could be a deadend.

But this is the first time the society has bankrolled a large test of an anti-cancer agent and, at least in that respect, interferon seems to be in a class by itself.

The bill for the test will run far more than the $2 million being spent by the society. Each of the participating institutions, for example, will contribute its fa-

The new test will begin seven years after Congress declared an all-out billion dollar war against cancer, a "war" that to date has been disappointing in its lack of dramatic progress.

The institutions named Tuesday as additional participants in clinical tests of in-

Yale University School of Medicine, New Haven, Conn.; University of Wisconsin Center for Health Sciences, Madison, Wis.; University of California at Los Angeles Center for the Health Sciences; Mount Sinai School of Medicine, New York, N.Y.; and Johns Hopkins Oncology Center in Baltimore.

Previously announced participants in the research project include

The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Turnor Institute, Houston: Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, New York, N.Y.; Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, N.Y.; Stanford University School of Medicine, Palo Alto, Calif.; Park Memorial Institute, Questions and answers about interfer-

Q. When were cancer patients given interferon and what happened?

A. Early testing with interferon has been done primarily in Sweden. At the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm, 34 patients - children and young adults have survived osteogenic sarcoma, bone cancer, after being subjected to high dosages of the substance.

The survival rate of these patients has been reported to be 70 percent over a period of three years, as compared to normal expectations of 10 to 30 percent in patients treated by surgery alone.

In the United States 15 breast cancer patients have been treated with interferon at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Clinic and six lymphoma patients have been treated at Stanford Univesity Medical Center. Early indications suggest that interferon may have some capacity to bring about objective tumor reduction.

Q. Where does interfeon come from, what is it, and is it toxic the way some other cancer drugs are?

A. Interferon occurs naturally in the body. Therefore, it is believed to be nontoxic. It was first identified in 1957 by Alick Isaacs of Great Britain and Jean Lindenmann of Switzerland.

They described it as a protein substance produced by a virus-infected animal cell. They noted that interferon seemed to make surrounding cells resistant to infection by the same virus.

Q. Does that means interferon is an anti-viral agent?

A. You could say that. But in addition to its anti-viral activity, interferon appears to inhibit the division of cancer cells and enhance normal immune re-

Q. Can interferon be extracted from the blood or tissues of animals, giving a limitless supply?

A. Not for human use. The substance is primarily "species specific", that is, mouse interferon will work only for mice and human interferon will work only for humans. Interferon produced by one species will not work well or at all in an-

Q. How is the interferon used in the trials made?

A. White blood cells are extracted from whole blood and exposed to a virus to trigger the process that produces human leukocyte interferon, the kind which will be used in the clinical tests.

The blood is obtained in procurement drives of the Finnish Red Cross, and processed by the Red Cross at laboratories in Helsinki.

Q. If interferon does prove eventually to be useful in cancer cases, can anything be done about its high price?

A. If that is the happy result of the tests, which is not at all certain at this time, then it could be expected that drug companies will evolve production methods to mass produce it at affordable price levels. "Five or six are interested and I suspect some are doing it," Dr, Rauscher said. He reminded that penicillin first cost $250,000 a gram but after it was proved out and produced on a large scale, the cost tumbled to about a dollar.

Q. Are there different types of interfer-

A. Yes. "Medical World News", a publication for doctors, reports for all practical purposes of research and therapy, there are three types of human interfer-

-Leukocyte interferon, the type to be used in the tests. This is now produced primarily in Helsinki.

-Fibroblast interferon, which is induced from the cultured fibroblasts of infant foreskins at Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, various United States research centers and one small commercial laboratory.

-Immune interferon, produced from a high-yield lymphoblastoid Burkitt's-lymphoma cell strain for test tube and animal interferon research only so far.

Q. How long has science been tracking

A. For about 21 years. As a matter of fact, it was mentioned in a Flash Gordon

NASA Planning New Mission To Venus

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Despite a few quick looks by Soviet landers and the partial radar probing of an American satellite, scientists still know little about the cloud-shrouded surface of the planet Ve-

So, even while the orbiting Pioneer-Venus 1 continues to examine Venus, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has started preparations for a new unmanned mission to explore Earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

This new spacecraft, which still needs the go-ahead from the White House and Congress, is planned for launch in 1984 aboard the new space shuttle rocket plane. It would swing into orbit the following May.

The new Venusian satellite would carry a powerful radar mapper to carry out the most detailed scientific examination ever made of Venus. In seven months, it would take radar pictures of virtually the

Dr. Noel Hinners, an associate NASA administrator for space science, said the radar would be accurate enough "to address fundamental questions regarding the origin and evolution of the planet and to lay the groundwork for subsequent, more detailed investigations of the sur-

Better knowledge of the makeup of the Venusian surface is important to scientists' efforts to understand the history of Venus and its relationship to Earth and our other planetary neighbor, Mars.

Although the radar data has yet to be analyzed in detail from Pioneer-Venus 1, radar from Earth indicates that the Venusian surface has been molded by the same kind of bombardment that Mars, the moon and presumably the Earth experienced a few billion years ago. There also have been suggestions that Venus was shaped by volcanic processes.

Large but shallow circular features, most likely craters, are found in Venus' equatorial regions. Some areas seem to be the result of extensive lava flows. A major chasm stretches more than 800 miles north and south across the equator. In one area, a high mountain has been observed on the radar images and it appears to have a cratered top like large volcanoes found on Mars. There also are mountainous areas on Venus. In an announcement to scientists of opportunities to participate in the project, Hinners said the radar pictures also may show what kind of erosional processes have been active on Venus.

Would you like to make money by selling the toys you have outgrown? Joe Daole (who runs the Toy Museum of Atlanta) says that you will get a better price if your toys are in good shape. And he claim that the box is almost as valuable as the toy!

Daole suggests that each day, after you play with the toy, store it back in the box. When you're finished with the plaything for good, box it and stow it on a shelf in your closet - away from sunlight and fluorescent bulbs (they both affect the colors). Never put the things you want to save in a basement or attic (dampness may destroy the toy and the box).

Wrap your collectibles in paper or paper bags, but not in plastic (chemicals in plastic often affect the material out of which your

And if you want to find out if the 5-or 8-year-old toy has some value right now, wander around the swap meets, flea markets and antique shows. The merchandise is right in front of you, complete with price tags, and the dealers are often very chatty and willing to give a young collector a helping

Peer Counselors Come To Women's Aid

MENOMONIE, Wis. (AP) - The rural farm wife was going through a mid-life crisis. Her busy husband didn't talk with her much, the children had left home, and her life seemed empty.

She was tired all the time and had frequent headaches even though all she ever seemd to do was clean an already clean

But some of her doubts and fears came out one day while talking with the church secretary, a woman who happened to be one of 30 "peer counselors" now working throughout rural Wisconsin. She began recognizing her unhappiness and looking for ways to remedy it.

"They're not psychologists or profes-sional counselors, but they are the first line of defense for mental health in some rural areas," says Lee Morical, director of the federally funded project at the University of Wisconsin-Stout set up to train the peer counselors.

Mrs. Morical says the aim of the threeyear project was to train already empathetic women in the rudiments of counseling in a nine-week crash course, then return them to their communities.

More than 460 women applied for the project, 39 were ultimately trained and 30 now are working throughout the state for churches, social service agencies and other counseling centers.

The professionals who oversee the former trainees are satisfied with their work because they do not try to do in-depth counseling and refer the more serious problems to professionals, Mrs. Morical

"They are mostly wives and mothers with natural nurturing and listening skills," she says. "That's what we were

"These are the people who aren't get-ting the help from the professionals and the agencies. In rural areas, you don't get professional help unless it's a crisis, something visible like being a battered wife or an alcoholic," she says.

Mrs. Morical says, however, that the unrecognized, smaller woes can lead to severe depression, extreme weight gain or loss, lethargy or inability to sleep and other disruptive symptoms.

"These are the problems that women don't recognize and don't think are worth talking about to anyone," she says.
"They're noncritical but chronic problems that eat away and rot a person's

Book Donated To University

DURHAM, N.H. (UPI) -- In 1923, Robert Frost gave his wife an inscribed copy of "New Hampshire," a work that later won him the Pulitzer Prize. Now, the book and the prize diploma have been given to the University of New Hampshire by the late poet's family.

The gifts will help set up an archive at the university library dedicated to Frost and his wife, Elinor White Frost. Among the gifts are Frost's Pulitzer Prize diploma for "New Hampshire," the 1923 work that won him the first of his four Pulitzers. The first copy of a limited edition of the book that Frost inscribed and presented his wife also was given to the university. A patchwork quilt made from the academic hoods received by the poet, who died in 1963, also was given to the new ar-

The university also has the originals of six notebooks written by Lesley Frost Ballentine, the poet's daughter, detailing life on the family's Derry farm from 1905 to 1910, when she was 5-9 years old. The journals were published in 1969.

Mrs. Ballentine, one of the donors, said the journals "present a portrayal of a New England small farm of the period, but also show the parents as companions, teachers, botanists, astronomers, geographers and farmers.

women feel better about themselves and help them find the inner strength to begin making the hard decisions about their lives. Mrs. Morical says.

You and the Law

Presented by the State Bar of Texas

Q: I bought a home and several acres of land recently. After the transaction was completed, I discovered that the realtor did not have a license, is the transaction valid? Also, do I have to pay a commission to this non-licensed agent?

A: The real estate salesman or broker's lack of a license will not change the effect of the instrument that your seller signed transferring legal title to you and it will not make any note or other instrument that you signed ineffective.

An unlicensed person is prohibited by law from acting as a real estate broker or salesman. Should this unlicensed agent sue for his commission, his lack of a license will prevent his recovering a judgment against you, if this fact is properly brought to the Court's attention. Furthermore, if you are or have been injured or aggrieved by the agent, you may be able to sue him for damages under the Real Estate License Act.

Q: My bills are stacking up faster than I can pay them. If I have to take bank-ruptcy, what must I give up? Will I lose my car and my household goods?

A: Federal bankruptcy law exempts propert which is also exempt under applicable state law. Under the law of Texas, you would not lose your car and your household goods in the event you declare bankruptcy. Beyond that, your homestead, household and kitchen furniture, tools and books of your trade, family portraits and pictures, one pick-up truck in addition to the car, current wages for personal services, pregistions on hand for home consumption like food, att for personal services, provisions on hand for home consumption like food, all

Q: My ex-husband died recently. Will I still be allowed to get half of his retire ment, which was awarded to me by the court in our divorce. He has a wife of three years. I was the wife for 32 years.

A: A surviving ex-wife may receive survivor's benefits at the death of the ex-husband if the couple were married for 10 years. An award of the divorce court is not necessary for survivor's benefits.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Mart Posts Another Broad Gain

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market posted another broad gain today, supported by a rally in the dollar in foreign exchange.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 6.41 on Tuesday, rose another 3.72 to 815.14 by recentime today. noontime today.

Gainers outstripped losers by a wide margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The dollar registered some substantial gains against leading foreign currencies today.

Analysts also noted that investors' recent concern over the political crisis in Iran had abated with the Iranian Parliament's approval of a new civilian government. Brokers said that gave added impetus to the rally in stock prices that began just before the close on Tuesday. The pace of trading, which had been extremely slow through most of Tuesday's session, picked up today.

Among actively traded glamor issues, Digital Equipment was up % at 541/4; Eastman Kodak 1/2 to 62, and Polaroid % to 53%.

International Business Machines, a market leader since late last year when the company announced plans for a 4-for-1 stock split this spring, gained 41/2 to 308. The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .42 to 54.35. On the American Stock Exchange, 1.41 to 153.44. Volume on the Big Board reached 13.31 million shares by noontime, up from 6.70 million at the same point Tuesday.

was pulled from the house, firemen said, but EMS technicians were able to revive the man with the aid of heart massage The Lubbock fire marshal's office to day was investigating the blaze, which destroyed the living room of the resid-ence and caused more than $1,000 dam-age to the structure and contents of the Five units responded to the call — the first major fire in Lubbock since the city was hit with extreme cold weather late

Several neighbors said they saw Crisp enter his home moments before the fire erupted, but by the time fire fighters ar-rived, flames already engulfed the front portion of the home.

District Fire Chief Jack Carlile said the blaze apparently began in the living

Two neighbors told officials they tried to enter the back of the home, but heat caused windows to explode and stymied their rescue attempts.

Crisp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C.W.

Care Agencies File Suits

AUSTIN (AP) — Several home health care agencies in the Southeast Texas area have sued in district court here to block creation of the state's first hospice for terminally ill cancer patients.

creation of the state's first hospice for terminally ill cancer patients.

The suit seeks an order reversing the Texas Health Facilities Commission's approval of Southeast Texas Hospice, Inc., of Orange on Nov. 2.

William Kemp, an Austin lawyer, filed the suit for the home health care agencies, which were unsuccessful in their opposition to creation of the hospice.

The suit maintains that the hospice would merely duplicate services already provided by the home health care agencies. It alleges that the evidence "did not show the need for an additional home health agency in the area involved."

The hospice would serve the terminally

The hospice would serve the terminally ill in their homes. Its certificate from the commission limits it to Jefferson, Orange, Hardin, Newton and Jasper counties and says it can provide services only to these and says it can provide services only to these these services only to the services only the services only to the services only the services on the services only the services only the services only the services on the services of the services of the services on the services of the services of the services of the ser to those with written prognoses of three months or less to live.

A team including a cancer specialist, nurses, ministers and a medical social worker would provide medical, social, therapueutic, psychological and spiritual care, with bereavement follow-up for survivors after the patients die.

Viets, Rebels Press Attack In Cambodia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Vietnamese forces and their rebel Cambodian allies were reported advancing deep into Cambodia today on four fronts under intense air strikes. The insurgents claimed one attack force was only 45 miles from Phnom Penh, the capital.

Reliable analysts in Bangkok reported the Vietnamese had opened a new front in the Parrot's Beak salient southeast of Phnom Penh, through which the U.S.

Warming Trend To Aid State

(Continued From Page One) and low tonight near 20. With party cloudy skies and no chance for precipitation. the high Thursday should be in the middle 40s as the warming trend continues. The area should expect west to southwesterly winds from 10 to 15 mph. Slippery road conditions continued to give motorists problems this morning throughout the Permian Basin. But the rapidly warming temperatures were expected to melt most of the ice and snow.

Throughout the state very cold but dry air continued to hold a firm grip this morning. Temperatures were well below freezing in all sections of the state before sunrise. The coldest region was the Panhandle, where temperatures ranged from 5 to 10 degrees. However, the coastal sections Were also quite cold with readings in the low to middle 20s.

Skies were generally clear over most of Texas during the predawn hours. A band of high clouds was spreading eastward across the Panhandle and portions of southwest Texas.

Skies are expected to continue clear to partly cloudy statewide, and forecasters indicate that most sections of the state. including the Panhandle and South Plains, should see temperatures above freezing for the first time in several days.

The extended West Texas forecast includes seasonable temperatures and considerable cloudiness Friday and Saturday with a chance of rain, except possibly snow in the Panhandle. Skies should clear and temperatures edge downward

The break in the record col wave was eagerly awaited by Texas citrus growers, beleaguered utility officials and persons who have been without electricity and heat since the front hit North Texas Saturday night.

South Texas citrus belt fell below the critical 26 degrees for hours Tuesday night, causing widespread hard freezing and raising the possibility of major damage to the $25 million orange and grapefruit crop.

The freeze was predicted to be the worst since a 1962 cold spell, from which it took the fruit industry five years to re-

Utility workers remained busy restoring electrical service to an estimated 10,-000 customers left in the dark and often without heat since power lines snapped during the weekend under the weight of accumulated ice.

The predicted warming trend - which brought with it expectations of decreased energy use - caused officials of LoVaca Gathering Co. to consider resuming its deliveries to commercial and industrial customers. The curtailments, when announced at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, were expected to last 24 hours.

amid clouds of tear gas, leaving behind a burning police car. The protesters started at least a dozen other fires on the hillsides around the mansion, throwing placards and dry brush onto the fires while chanting "Death to the shah."

"It was like a combat zone," said Beverly Hills Police Capt. Lee Tracy. "Once they got to the front of the residence, they began throwing rocks and sticks at officers behind the gates. They stormed the gate and broke the lock and continued throwing missiles at the officers. They turned over a car in the driveway and set it afire and became more and more violent.

Some police officers drew their pistols during the disturbance, but no shots were fired. About 100 sheriff's deputies were called to aid Beverly Hills police.

The violence followed a peaceful march by about 2,000 persons through this community about 10 miles west of Los Angeles. When the first marchers reached the 80-foot hill surrounding the princess' mansion, they broke ranks and began throwing rocks and bottles.

Fleet Plans Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional auditors said today the Navy has failed to change construction plans for a new fleet of ships even though it knows the vessels may have to be recalled for major alterations after being sent to sea.

The auditors also said the ships, 26 guided missile frigates, are "quite vulnerable to low-level enemy threats," and that ways to improve their survivability are limited.

Jerome Stolarow, an official of the General Accounting Office which prepared a study on the ships, said the survivability issue of the frigates is part of a much broader problem Navy-wide. He said the GAO has determined that Navy combat ships are vulnerable to a 'cheap kill." This occurs when part of a ship's equipment is damaged and prevents it from completing its mission, even though there is little physical damage to the ship's structure.

Stolarow said such damage can occur when fragments from near-misses or shocks from an underwater explosion cause damage to equipment inadequately shielded or improperly designed.

He said the problem, facing surface ships built since World War II, is causing major concern among high-level Navy officials.

"The evidence points to serious Navy mismanagement," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said in reviewing the problem with the guided missile frigates.

Proxmire, opening hearings by a Joint Economic subcommittee on the ships, said the guided missile frigate program "is one of the saddest cases of government procurement to come to my atten-There was no immediate comment from the Pentagon.

The Navy has awarded contracts for 29 of the FFG-7 class frigates, including three for the Australian Navy. By the mid-1980s, the frigates are to be the backbone of the Navy's sea control fleet, protecting convoys and amphibious forces from attack by aircraft, submarines and other ships.

As of last October, fabrication still had not yet begun on 12 of the first 26 ships, and each will take 21/2 years to 31/2 years to build, GAO said. In early designs, space and weight allotments were reserved on the ships for helicopters and a towed sonar system, both still being developed.

By September 1976, the Navy knew the ship's stern would require modification to accomodate the sonar system and a, helicopter known as LAMPS-MK III.

By Clash HOUSTON (AP) - A defense witess said today he was threatened and his tires slashed after he consented to testify in the murder-conspiracy trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

James Stephens, 43, a used car dealer, said he could not identify the man who posed the threat and he touched off a courtroom furor with his recalcitrance.

Trial Judge Wallace Moore threatened to jail Stephens if he refused to divulge the name of a district attorney's investigator whom he said advised him not to testify here.

"I can't tell you right now, sir," Stephens told a prosecutor and the judge sent him into his chambers, presumably to telephone the investigator for permission to reveal the name.

Stephens testified Tuesday he saw three principals in the case emerge from a Fort Worth hotel two or three days before the defendant's arrest Aug. 20.

The trio included Davis' estranged wife, Priscilla, 37; his chief accuser, David McCrory, 40, and karate instructor Pat

Burleson, 42. That is the conspiratoral triangle the defense maintains implicated Davis in a scheme to kill his divorce judge and oth-

Stephens, slouching in the witness chair, said today he received a telephone call Sunday at the Common Law Inn in Fort Worth and moments later found two tires slashed on his pickup truck.

Then, with the jury out briefly, he said the caller told him, "they could do me the same way.

Prosecutors next demanded to know the name of the investigator Stephens said advised him not to get involved in this case. He refused.

"I'm going to order you to answer that question, either aloud or in writing, or im going to hold you in contempt, Moore said.

The judge took Stephens into chambers and talked to him in private. Moore returned and said Stephens told him the thrust of his conversation with the investigator did not pertain to this Prosecutor Tolly Wilson insisted again that the name be revealed, arguing that this witness left the impression with the jury that the district attorney's office is trying to supress evidence. "I think you're entitled to remove the impression that the conversation had to do with this case," Moore replied. Resuming his testimony before the jury. Stephens said he was told if either side subpoenaed him "they'll take me in shackles and chains if they can't get me here any other way."

ble William M. Detweiler opened his office and found nothing but a telephone sitting on the floor. The desks, the safe, the counters and the chairs were all gone, taken not by robbers, but by Detweiler's predecessor. Clyde Bel Sr.

Detweiler has to take out a $10,000 second mortgage on his home to buy equipment to open the office. He purchased furniture and other equipment on credit.

"It's a strange thing to have to borrow money to open a state office," Detweiler

The blame was placed on a quirky old state law that paid constables with revenue taken in by their offices. Bel used the fees to buy his office furniture and equipment. When he said he would take all the furnishings with him unless Detweiler paid him $42,000 for it, Detweiler sued and lost. The judge said he was forced to rule Bel personally owned the furnish-"It gives us a chance for a fresh start,"

Detweiler said philosophically. "A new broom sweeps clean, you might say."

CHICAGO (AP) - Soybean and wheat prices edged lower and corn prices were virtually motionless in uneventful dealings Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Analysts said selling by commission houses, some of it encouraged by lower silver prices, was a factor in the decline in soybean futures. A strike by Dutch bargemen was viewed as slightly bearish for soybeans because it could clog transportation routes for European processing or crushing plants.

Soybean and corn prices rose slightly early in the session, partly because of frigid winter weather over much of the nation that could increase usage of livestock feed.

Trading was generally quiet, with com-mercial buying buoying corn prices. Several times late in the session, corn prices briefly froze unchanged across the board, and wheat traders said there were virtually no market developments to encourage either buying or selling.

At the close, soybeans were 1% to 3% cents lower, with January contracts quoted $6.741/a; wheat was 11/2 to 21/2 cents lower, March $3.40%; corn was unchanged to ¼ cent lower, March $2.31¾; and oats were 1 to 1% cents lower, March

Rising Prices Hurt Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rising farm commodity prices are putting a dent into the quantity of U.S. aid that will be provided needy countries under the Food for Peace program this year.

Figures released Tuesday by the Agriculture Department show that about 8.6 percent less food will be provided in the year that began last Oct. 1 than experts had initially counted on.

Most of the cutback will be in U.S. wheat shipped under the Food for Peace program but there also will be less rice, corn and other commodities.

The figures were included in a revised list of allocations to 30 countries now scheduled for food aid in 1978-79.

In its preliminary allocation announced Sept. 26, a total of $785 million was specified for Title I operations of Food for Peace in the new fiscal year, down from

Prices of many farm commodities were down at the time, so it appeared to experts that a larger tonnage of food aid could be provided.

Beef Costs Soaring

Government

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prices paid by the government for ground beef for donation to school cafeterias are soaring just like supermarket hamburger prices.

The Agriculture Department, which buys ground beef and other food for donation to schools, currently is paying a wholesale price of almost $1.20 a pound for the meat, an increase of about 67 percent over what it cost a year ago.

Prices paid to processors - who bid regularly for the business - averaged about 72 cents a pound for ground beef that was donated in the 1977-78 school

More than 93.9 million pounds of froz-en ground beef were bought then for a total of about $67.8 million.

Officials said Tuesday that through Dec. 28 about 59.1 million pounds were bought since the 1978-79 purchase program was annouced last July 27. The cost was $65.3 million or an average of about $1.10 a pound.

Department purchase figures show that most of the higher prices for school lunch ground beef have occurred in recent months. As of Aug. 25 - less than a month after buying began - prices averaged less than $1 a pound.

Thus, in the final four months of 1978 prices of ground beef bought for schools rose about 20 percent.

Appropriations Bill Heads Priorities

the Texas Legislature, the 1979 version will have money and how to spend it as the top priorities

"The top issue is always the appropriations bill," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby as legislators prepared for the session, which begins its 140-day biennial session Tuesday.

"That's where the state's priorities are set, so that's number one and the other things are going to be behind that."

A projected $2.8 billion budget surplus also must be taken care and the election of Bill Clements as Texas' first Republican governor in more than a century, the nationwide movement to reduce taxes and the prospect of reduced taxes will be key factors in determing how the surplus

Tax relief proposals already approved by the Legislature and voters could return about $1 billion of that projected surplus to voters. Clements and outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe have indicated they will recommend additional tax reductions of up to another $1 billion.

Legislators Cite Vote Leverage

AUSTIN (AP) - As country legislators see if, the cities' school finance plight is their golden opportunity to guarantee rural landowners the kind of property tax cuts they have been pleading for.

The reason, they say, is that for the first time they have real "leverage" over their urban colleagues.

Failure of the 66th Legislature to change the 1977 school finance law would

Current law says the Texas Education Agency must count the intangible wealth - bank accounts, stocks, bonds - of each school district in determining its state aid payments for 1979-80.

And therein lies the country legislators' strength as they seek the most favorable terms possible for taxing rural land only on its productive value.

'My idea of what might be a fair productivity formula might vary somewhat from some of my brothers in the House and in the Senate. ... Suppose we can't come up with one we can live with. Then I am going to hang onto intangibles. It's the only leverage we have," says Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, chairman of

He contends the school finance issue will be important but studies by legislative committees - coupled with provisions of the tax relief amendment to the state constitution adopted by voters in November - resolve some of the major financial disputes and will make the school finance question easier to resolve

Hobby estimates the state will increase its spending on public school finance by about $1 billion in 1979, just as it did in

He predicted about one-third of that $1 billion would go toward reducing the share of school costs paid by local districts, one-third to increasing state aid for maintenance and operation and transportation in the districts, and one-third for an increase in teacher salaries.

Efforts To Ban Prayer Opposed By Citizens

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The public by and large is saying, 'We want to continue having prayer in the schools. We don't want to force anybody to pray, or promote any one religion. But we want some kind of praying allowed."

So notes attorney Brad Crawford Jr., who like other members of the Lubbock school board has received much reaction to the proposed ban of school-sponsored

Board members say their mail and telephone calls have been running overwhelmingly against the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) efforts to stop prayer in the Lubbock Independent School District.

But school trustees admit the law may be on the union's side - a point the district's legal advisors will try to determine

Trustees said that as much as they support the community's pro-prayer sentiment, it's school lawyer Charles Cobb's opinion that really counts.

"I think we're going to be governed by the legal implications," said Monte Has-

"The board generally feels as the majority of the community does. I think we will try to be flexible, but we must stay within the law," Hasie said. Charles Waters, board president, agreed that Cobb's advice may well be the deciding factor. "What he (Cobb) says is very, very important," said Wa-

If Cobb suggests tighter restrictions on the use of prayer in the city's public schools — which insiders say is likely — a lot of people will be disappointed.

"Everybody in town, save and except a few liberals out at Texas Tech, is in favor of retaining what we have now, which is voluntary prayer," Waters said.

Waters said he has received "several" letters, all but one supporting prayer in Cobb said he plans to give school board members a written opinion on the matter by the end of the week. The board is scheduled to meet in a closed session Jan. 11 to discuss with Cobb prayer and other pending legal issues, Waters said. "Whatever we do, the law governs,"

Hasie said he feels certain that the board will establish a policy on prayer, "though it's impossible to say right now what that policy might be...We need to be consistent from school to school."

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: After 22 years of marriage, I find I might as well be living alone. I'm 46 and my wife is 45.

We raised two fine children who are grown and gone, and now we have very little to talk about. My biggest problem is the way my wife shuts me out. She loves to read, and for the past three or four years she has been taking a book to bed with her every night. This is all the company she seems to want or need.

I realized that no marriage can main-tain the level of passion that produces rockets and Roman candles indefinitely, Any advice? Sign me...

Lonesome In New Castle

Dear Lonesome: Since your wife loves to read, do her (and yourself) a favor and get "The Ann Landers Encyclopedia." It contains a wealth of valuable information on a wide variety of common problems. But the piece titled "What Marriage is All About," by Dr. Eugene Kennedy, is well worth the price of the book, and should be required reading for both you and your wife. Trust me.

DEAR ABBY: Hello, again. I'm the Manhattan attorney who wrote to you some time ago regarding an individual's right to keep unsolicited goods without Another letter in your column on a legal matter prompts a word of advice: it was Mrs. M.'s idea to photograph each of her valuable items and; on the back of each picture, write the name of the person to whom she wished to bequeath it. Her idea is totally without value; personal property may be given after one's death only by a legal document called a last will and testament. Please inform your readers that Mrs. M.'s plan will not work. Respectfully.

Dear George: Thanks for the valuable legal advice which I'll pass on to my readers. (P.S. If I'm sued for practicing law without a license will you represent me?)

DEAR ABBY: When my husband courted me I was secretely flattered because he was terribly jealous. I thought it was proof of his love. Now that we've been married for a year, I'd give anything if he weren't so jealous.

He is jealous of every man I mention, look at, or even pass on the street. He acthem encouragement. He's even accused me of meeting men on my lunch hour, and says he "knows" I've been with a loyer if I get home 15 minutes late.

No one is safe from his filthy accusations. (Even the boy who delivers the newspaper!) He keeps after me to "confess" things and there is nothing to confess! I will gladly go to the police sta-tion and take a lie detector test — anything to prove my innocence once and for all. Help me!

Dear Innocent: Your husband is the one who needs the help. Constant accusations without basis are symptomatic of a sick mind. Get the man to a doctor!

Confidential To "Needs Help In Hollywood": Maybe he's saving your raincoat for a rainy day. Ask him to please return it on account of that's why YOU bought it: If that fails, make a trip to his apartment and pick it up.

SUCCESS SECRET

STUTTGART (WNS) — Helga Gross elebrated her 100th birthday on holiday here by eating a steak and "knoedeln" dinner and then announcing that she has never brushed her teeth in all her life. 'My father was a dentist and taught me to clean and polish my teeth every day with a piece of flannel," she explained. "I have a lot of dentist friends, but I haven't bothered to see them professionally for the last 50 years."

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet; "How to be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1

BILL BLASS PLAIDS - These designer outfits utilize the "layered look" popular for winterwear. The outfit on the left has a square-cut short jacket with narrow notched lapels and subtle shoulder padding. The khaki corduroy skirt is softly gathered at the waistband. A coordinated hand knit sleeveless sweater covers a rust/green plaid silk crepe blouse. The other outfit also has a square-cut coat with shoulder pads. The double breasted closing is set low and sports a narrow shawl collar. A straight wrap skirt of the same rust/green wool plaid is topped with a beige silk crepe blouse tying under the collar and a hand knit tweed wool vest.

Handy Household Propane Torch Replaces Hazardous Method

homeowner can include on his workbench is a propane torch. Blow torches have been around for years, but they have never been convenient - or safe - until the introduction a few years ago of the propane-filled tank.

These handy cylinders are safe, easy to handle and require no filling, splashing or priming. You don't need a supply of gasoline or alcohol. There are no wicks, Propane gas will not leave the tank until a burner head is threaded onto the tank and is properly seated. Even then, a valve must be opened to release the gas.

The burner heads are available in a variety of sizes for different-sized flame and can be fitted with a number of accessories for burning or soldering.

Lighting the torch is not difficult. Open the valve until you hear a slight hiss of escaping gas. Ignite at once. After igniting, operate the control valve to adjust the flame size. With a small pencil-flame burner in place, the blue cone at the center of the flame should be 11/2 inches long. With the larger blow torch burner it should be about five-eighths inch long.

A handy accessory is the spark lighter a device that strikes a spark from a flint to ignite propane gas. It can be worked with one hand and is easier to use than a match.

Between the burner head and the burner tube - which are threaded together is a tiny bit of brass with an even smaller hole. This is called the orfice, and if your

One of the most versatile tools the 'torch is giving you trouble it may be that this is blocked.

Take head and tube apart and turn the orfice around. Reassemble and then open and close the tube a few times very quickly. This blows out the dirt. Reassemble again in proper order. A clogged orfice or a lack of fuel are about the only troubles you are likely to encounter and one cylinder will last up to 15 hours. One company even provides a lifetime guarantee.

The propane torch can be used for everything the old blow torch was good for, and then some. Even some soldering is easier. Aside from making sweat joints with an open flame, you can solder with an iron without using a separate iron.

Instead of heating an iron in the flame of the torch, you can add a soldering tip to the burner which will keep it constantly heated. This is a handy device when electric power is not available.

A special burner attachment spreads the flame so that it can be used more efficiently for burning off paint. Remember to keep the flame moving or you may have a fire.

Since South did not have two of the top three diamond honors, he signed off in six diamonds.

West led his fourth-best heart and declarer ruffed in dummy. Since he would have an easy road to twelve tricks once trumps were out, declarer now led the queen of diamonds from the board.

We venture to guess that 99 out of 100 defenders would win the ace of diamonds, and school would be out. Declarer would be able to win any return and get to his hand to draw the remaining trumps. He could then claim the rest of the tricks.

Unfortunately for declarer, he came up against the 100th defender. East followed with the jack of diamonds under the queen! The contract was now unmakable.

If declarer led another trump, East would take the ace and continue with the ace and another heart, allowing the defenders to score three heart tricks. So South abandoned trumps and came to his hand with the king of spades to ruff a heart. He discarded a heart on the king of clubs and then tried to get rid of his last heart on a third spade. Had the spades divided 3-3, declarer would still have gotten home. But West ruffed the third spade, and the ace of trumps was the setting trick.

THINK SKINNY IN 1979 REDUCE THE EASY PAT WALKER WAY

JEANIS NORMAN LOST ONLY WHERE SHE NEEDED TO

Janis Norman states:

NO - I AM NOT PREGNANT!

Since my picture appeared in the paper the first time, many people have remarked that I must have been pregnant when the before picture was taken, but the truth of the matter is, I was not! Just fat! I was so disgusted with my figure and with myself for getting out of shape, that I was exciting to find a way to get rid of my unwanted inches without strenuous exercises. Pat Walker's plan was so easy to do, it made losing my fat stomach fun. When my family began noticing the difference, it made me want to lose that much more. During my visits to the salon, I only lost 6% pounds but I lost 19% inches! As a matter of fact, I am so sold on the Pat Walker plan, that I am now an employee at the Temple salon.

The quality of life may deteriorate. But by golly, I think we've got the roblem of bad breath on the run You have to give the bad breath people their just due. They've

The final scene was one of joy. His bad breath in remission, he was kissing evervone in the room and had finally been allowed to attend his own party.

Bad breath was discovered just after World War II and has since worked its way up to a major cause of air pollution. You can't hold a job if you have bad breath. Can't lead a normal social life, have a successful marriage. You cannot ski with bad breath, nor can you teach Sunday School. Just about all that is left open to you is making an occasional obscene phone call. (Even then, if you don't floss, you can be traced.)

Fresh Breath advocates have only begun. In the future, there are plans to have separate sections on planes for BB's and CB's. After awhile, no BB will be allowed on elevators, in doctor's or dentist's offices. (ESPECIALLY dentist's offices.) The Slim Gourmet

Are you tired of "one-size-fits-all" diets tell you what to eat and when...whether you want them to or not? Why not design a diet to suit yourself, one that takes into consideration not only your likes and dislikes but your life-style

Our "Design-It-Yourself Diet" is both varied and flexible, so you won't find it boring or inconvenient. It provides everything you need for the fewest possible calories, so you lose as quickly as possible...without enduring hunger or endangering your health.

On this diet you MUST spend 1,200 calories, and they MUST be spent in the appropriate categories...no "borrowing" from one to "pay off" another. But you can choose whatever you want in each category, and you can arrange your meals to suit yourself: three "squares," six "snack-size" meals or whatever works best for the life you lead.

The menus you create can be as traditional or off-beat as you choose. Foods from several categories can be combined into recipes. For example: beef or chicken from Category Two can be cooked with tomatoes and peppers from Category Seven and served over rice or pasta from Category Three.

Our Design-It-Yourself Diet allows you to skip foods you really dislike, but for best nutrition (variety, too) you should avoid sticking with just a few favorites in each category day after day. Try to use several different foods in each category at least once a week.

Only healthy adults with a few pounds to lose should attempt do-it-yourself dieting. Extremely heavy people particularly need a medical check-up to rule out weight-related disorders (diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure) that require special diet modifications.

BUDGET Use a reliable calorie guide. We recommend "Nutritive Value of American Foods, Handbook No. 456" ($5.15, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402). Plan each day's menu to

1. 200 CALORIES IN LOW-FAT MILK FOODS includes skim and low-fat milk, plain low-fat yogurt, low-fat cottage cheese, farmer (pot) cheese, part-skim ri-

2. 300 CALORIES IN LEAN MEAT FOODS includes only the lean fattrimmed cuts of beef, veal, lamb, pork, ham, plus young chicken, turkey and all seafoods. Liver is also recommended once or twice a week for its iron content. Non-meat substitutes include eggs or additional milk foods (cottage cheese eaten in place of meat allowance, for example).

300 CALORIES IN CARBOHY-DRATE FOODS includes high-fiber whole-grain and enriched breads, wholegrain or iron-fortified unsweetened cereals, potatoes, peas, corn, beans, winter squash, plantain or bananas, rutabaga rice or pasta. Enriched flour or bread crumbs used in cooking also count.

4. 50 CALORIES IN HIGH-C FRUITS includes oranges, grapefruit, cantaloupe, strawberries, papaya.

5. 50 CALORIES IN OTHER FRUITS, those already mentioned plus any other unsweetened fresh, frozen, dried or canned fruits, except avocado

Request Angers Some Officials

WASHINGTON (Ar)
partment officials are privately expressing anger over a congressional req reopen 'nvestigations into the assassina-tions of President John F. Kennedy and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

While the department officially said Tuesday it would wait to review the House assassinations committee's report before deciding its next move, some offi-

They're asking us to finish what they started," said one official.

Another said, "They had $5 million and they came up with loose strings that they want as to tie together."

The assassinations committee issued a summary of its findings last weekend, concluding conspiracies were likely in both slayings and recommending that the

Lawmaker's Attorneys Seek Delay

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Defense lawyers for Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., contend that if they can obtain financial records for Flood's former top aide, they might be able to exonerate the 74-yearold congressman of conspiracy and brib-

But despite pleas from Flood's lawyer for more time to prepare his defense, U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch said Tuesday he is "very reluctant" to postpone the trial beyond its scheduled date

Flood, a 15-term House member, was overwhelmingly re-elected in November only weeks after he was indicted on 13 counts of bribery, conspiracy and perju-ry. He is accused of conspiring to peddle his influence in return for $65,000 in payoffs, 100 shares of bank stock and the promise of $100,000 more. Flood's lawyer, Axel Kleiboemer, told Gasch during 7's hours of hearings that financial records of Flood's former top aide, Stephen Elko, and Elko's wife, Patricia Brislin, are "at the core of this case."

Elko, who was convicted in a kickback scheme involving West Coast trade schools in 1977, later began cooperating with the government in exchange for more lenient treatment and will be a key witness against Plood.

Twenty of the 25 overt acts alleged in the bribery indictment involve Elko, many of them alleging he funneled pay-offs to Flood on behalf of various donors seeking the congressman's influence in

"Where did the money go?" Kleiboemer asked. "I'm going to show to you that Mr. Elko put every penny in his

"Give me a chance to get it," Kleiboemer pleaded with Gasch, asking the trial be delayed at least until early February erause he has had trouble obtaining Elko's tax returns, bank statements and

Gasch said he would do everything he could to help procure the financial re-cords, and took the request for a delay under advisement.

Kleiboemer and his associate, Walter Fleischer, sought to have the indictment dismissed on grounds it violates the "free speech and debate clause" protecting Flood's actions in Congress. Prosecutor Mark Tuohey contended he evidence submitted to a grand jury and to be presented at trial would involve only Flood's agreement to perform certain acts in Congress in exchange for payoffs and would not include the acts them-

Such evidence, according to a Supreme Court ruling in the case of former Sen. Daniel Brewster, D-Md., is admissible.

Gasch said he would "go with" the frewster case, saying it "doesn't insulate congressman or senator from bribery"

One official said the department wants to appear circumspect and not to pre-judge the committee's evidence before reviewing it carefully. But he expressed skepticism over any new efforts to track aknown assassins or accomplices

Some department officials are particularly irate at being urged to take a new look at King's assassination. They note that a Justice Department task force concluded in February 1977 that James Earl Ray acted alone in killing King. The task force reviewed the same circumstantial evidence that led the House assassina tions committee to call for further investigation, said one official.

They're having it both ways. But I guess if you're on the Hill, you can," he said. "The Hill" is shorthand for Con-

In its official statement, the department said it will not decide whether to reonen the investigations until it receives a final report from the committee.

Terry Adamson, department spokes-man, noted it will probably be some months before the final report is issued by the committee, which said there is evidence of conspiracy in both killings. "Upon receipt of the final report, the Department of Justice will study it with care and compare it with investigations heretofore made in the King and Kennedy cases. And we will take such action at that time as we may determine is warranted," Adamson said.

Deputy Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti previously told the committee that the department was reluctant to reopen the cases.

Adamson said Attorney General Griffin B. Bell was keeping an open mind on the Members of the committee have said the department should investigate the possibility that Kennedy was killed Nov. 22. 1963, in a Dallas crossfire that involved someone in addition to Lee Harvey Oswald.

The committee also said there is circumstantial evidence that a $50,000 bounty led Ray to murder King in Memphis, Tenn., April 4, 1968. Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., chairman of the Kennedy subcommittee of the assassinations panel, has said there was "not a scintilla of evidence" indicating that any government agency, such as the CIA or FBI, was involved in Kennedy's

CHICAGO (AP) - Investigators say the ground beneath a northwest suburban home, site of the nation's worst mass murder of the century, has probably yielded its last body. However, authorities said Tuesday they will double check the area with heat sensors to make sure they have unearthed all the skeletons buried at John Wayne Gacy's home, where the remains of 27 young males have been uncovered.

Sgt. Howard Anderson, supervisor of the Cook County sheriff's northern investigations unit, said snow removal and cleanup work occupied much of the day Tuesday. Crews working at Gacy's home contended with subzero temperatures and about nine inches of snow.

"I don't think they expect to find any-thing more," said Anderson. "They will go back over ground that hasn't been dug up yet, the less promising areas. They just want to double-check.

The assassination was the second in two days of an army officer and the third killing of the year by terrorists. King Juan Carlos and Premier Adolfo Suarez were informed immediately of the shooting, the news agency EFE said. Gen. Gil died in Francisco Franco Clinic as surgeons fought to save his life. Police said witnesses to the shooting reported a third terrorist stood watch in a nearby bar and a fourth waited behind the wheel of a car the gunmen used to es-

The shooting took place on the Avenue of Menendez Pelayo in front of Madrid's big Retiro Park.

The attack followed no-injury bombing attempts at two locations in Madrid and appeared to be part of a renewed Basque separatist campaign to provoke army in-

The terrorist campaign was aimed against Spain's new constitution that went into effect Dec. 29 and in opposition to general elections scheduled March 1, government officials said.

Fishing Lights Possibly UFOs

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) -New Zealand TV viewers got a glimpse of another reported UFO tonight, but scientists were skeptical and an air force surveillance team said night lights used by Japanese squid fishermen may have been responsible. The first reported UFO was filmed Saturday and another was reported filmed Sunday by a three-man TV crew flying over the Kaikoura coast. The objects ap-peared similar to many New Zealand television viewers who saw them.

Cameraman Frank I azukaitis said of the latest sighting: "It looked like an illu-minated ping pong ball with a tinge of red in the middle Soundman Lloyd McFadden said the object "came up just above the treeline and then darted sharply up into the left, stopped and then darted again to the

However, New Zealand scientists who saw the latest film said the object was too blurred and that the film would need fur ther study. After the first reported UFO film was shown on television, many scientists dismissed the report, saying the object was probably Venus or a meteorite that failed to burn up on entering the atmosphere. Nonetheless, the New Zealand air force sent up a specially-equipped plane to hunt for UFOs. It patrolled the coast of New Zealand's South Island for five hours Tuesday night. The pilot, Squadron Leader Ray Car-ran. said today the only unusual effects monitored on his mission were reflections from bright night fishing lights used by a large Japanese squid fishing fleet.

Replant Operations Increase

NEW YORK (AP) - Once no more than a surgeon's dream, the reattach-ment of severed limbs is an operation coming of age in modern medicine — a fact reflected in the restoration this week of an 11-year-old Long Island girl's leg.

But doctors are expressing only guarded optimism in the case of Elizabeth McFadden, who regained her leg in a six-

Airline Crash Probers Wait To Question Pilot

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An inter-iew with the pilot of the United Air ares jet that crashed here would plug last remaining gap in the federal in-tigation of the crash. the last remain But just when that interview will occur in question today.

Federal investigators said they would make another attempt today to question Malburn McBroom, the pilot of the DC-8 hat crashed here Thursday, killing 10 of 184 persons on board.

The investigating team from the Na-nal Transportation Safety Board has not five days examining the wreckage, ey say evidence indicates the plane a out of fnel when it crashed.

McBroom, 52, of Loveland, Colo., was ported in good condition at Gresham promunity Hospital, but his doctor told investigators Tuesday he was not in good enough health to be questioned.

Pete Chesney of the Federal Aviation Administration said the interview was the last remaining major gap in the evidence. But he said he wasn't sure McBroom would ever speak to investiga-tors because of possible lawsuits.
"We don't know whether he's going to talk or not," Chesney said. "He's hired a lawyer and that's very unusual."

Chesney said be had investigated at least a dozen airline crashes and this was the first time a pilot had hired an attorney.

But a United spokesman, Jack Gamble, said it was not unusual for a pilot to hire a private attorney.

"It's a natural option he has and the company doesn't view it as an unusual y doesn't view it as an una stall," Gamble said.

hour operation after she fell in front of a train Sunday.

The reason is that while surgeons have gained much experience in restoring fingers, hands and arms, restoration of a full leg is still quite rare, with perhaps fewer than two dozen operations ever attempted in this country.

Doctors who worked on the Central Islip, N.Y., sixth grader say it may be years before they know if the operation was a SUCCESS.

The first operation to reattach a fully severed limb was performed in 1962 when Dr. Ronald Malt and surgeons at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston rejoined the right arm of a 12-yearold boy. The patient, Everett Knowles, now works as a meat delivery man hauling 200-pound sides of beef, a spokesman at the hospital said. Despite this success, the "replant" operation remained experimental in the United States until Malt and a dozen other prominent surgeons visited China in the early 1970s

The Chinese had achieved success with many such operations, including reattaching a leg. "We came back resolved to try harder," said Dr. Harold Kleinert, a Louisville, Ky., surgeon who was one of those who made the trip. Today, doctors estimate, perhaps 1,000

Americans a year undergo replant operations, with fingers, hands and arms, in that order, accounting for nearly all. His associates estimate Kleinert's group may be doing 100 a year.

Eleven months ago in Boston, surgeons at Tufts-New England Medical Center spent 17 hours piecing together the shattered legs of Lee Stimson, now 11, whose legs and pelvis were crushed and mangled when he fell under a train.

Dallas Youth Dies After Grabbing Wire

DALLAS (AP) - An 8-year-old Dallas boy died when he grabbed a dangling high-voltage power line that neighbors said snapped two days earlier under a heavy coat of ice.

Barton Clark was knocked to the ground Tuesday, unable to release his grip on the live 7,600-volt line until a friend kicked the wire away with his rub-

"It boomed and made a big blue flame when it happened," said Greg Monroe, 14, who had been walking with the younger boy. "Russ (Greg's older brother) was on the front porch and he saw the flame over the top of a house and he thought the house was on fire."

Russ Monroe, 15, gave artificial respiration until para-medics arrived, but Clark was pronounced dead at a Dallas hospi-

Neighborhood residents said the power line, glazed by Dallas's worst ice storm in 30 years, snapped Sunday morning. They said they reported the dangling line several times, but it went unrepaired.

"The fire department was there, the police department was there, and they reported it as a live line down," said Harley Hines. "The neighborhood tried towarn the kids to stay away from it, but apparently, one can't get the kids to listen and believe you all the time.

"I'm sure the neighbors reported it. But this is one of those really sickening things that you just hope and pray doesn't happen. We still have a lot of these calls to answer, too, tonight and tomorrow," said William Aston, Dallas Power and Light vice president.

He said the wire was left unattended because of the huge number of lines downed in the storm.

"We are working these reports as fast as we can," he said Tuesday. "You know, today we handled 40,000 calls. Many, many of those were to report downed wires. Not all of them are energized

"It is just physically impossible to get out and look at every one of them. That's the only way we can verify these things," said Aston.

"He was a nice little kid," said Hines. "A neighborhood favorite. He, was a very curious kid, and maybe that had something to do with what happened."

Agent Speaks To Fraternity

FBI agent Bernie Brown told members of the Delta Nu Alpha Transportation Fraternity that many Lubbock transportation businesses are better equipped to cope with criminal acts than ever before. Speaking at the Gridiron Restaurant

Sunday, Brown said inside surveillance and alertness are the key criteria to minimize piHerage and losses from within. Brown is the new area senior resident agent for the FBI. He suggested businesses obtain advice from security and insurance experts in crime prevention.

"It is important in an alertness program to also conduct physical inventories, to check the correctness of incoming shipments and to assign employee responsibilities diligently in these areas," Brown said.

Brown suggested that the best deterrent to crime is a strong and effective system of punishment.

A Lubbock woman early today was dragged from her bathroom into a bedroom where she was raped by a man who had wrapped the victim's robe around his

The 26-year-old secretary told police the man apparently entered her residence through an unlocked window about 12:30 a.m. and confronted her in the bathroom where he said "Don't scream and I won't hurt you."

The woman screamed and ran for the door but was stopped by the intruder. She said the man dragged her into the bedroom where he sexually assaulted her. The suspect grabbed the woman's purse before fleeing the apartment near Texas Tech University, reports indicate.

Police today were looking for a white man, about 26, who is tall and has blue

The secretary was taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital where she was treated and released.

In a reported assault Tuesday, Regina Baker of Lubbock said she was at a laundromat at Fourth Street and Quirt Avenue about 9:15 p.m. when she was struck on the face by one of two black youths.

She said the two boys asked her for a cigarette, and when she refused, they became angry. When she attempted to leave, one of the suspects allegedly hit her with his fist.

The woman was not seriously injured, reports show.

John Charles Pickett of 3408 46th St. told police his wife was at a clothing store in the 1100-block of Main Street Tuesday afternoon when someone stole her $1,196 mink coat.

He said she was trying on clothes, and when she returned to the dressing room, her coat was missing.

Unfortunately for several Lubbockites, some of those who have braved the cold weather recently have been burglars. Henry H. Farrar of 5301-A 73rd St. said he lost $930 in property, including a tele-

No one was hurt, officers said.

In the incident on Texas 114 near the north entrance to the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport and not far from where two persons were shot to death by a sniper last month, at least one gunshot penetrated the rear window of an automobile, police

Grapevine police first described the incident as "a sniper" and later changed that to "a shooting," according to Sgt. Larry Betik.

Betik said at least one shot was fired through the back window of a 1978 auto-mobile from a pickup truck that was driving beside it. He said officers do not believe the shooting had any connection with the shooting deaths last month at nearby Irving of two persons.

Officers are not certain what type of weapon was used in the latest shooting and asked for assistance of Texas Department of Public Safety ballistics officers. It appears that officers found the remains of a bullet in the automobile, Betik said.

On Dec. 9, a sniper firing from an apparently concealed position on an overpass on Texas 183 in nearby Irving shot and killed two persons. No arrests have been made in connection with the shootings although police in Dallas and Fort Worth questioned some persons.

The victims of the earlier shooting included Steven Thomas Gaulden, 12, of Plano and Raymond Douglas Andrew, 43, of Arlington

Officers said they could not find any sort of information linking the two victims and theorized they were victims of a sniper who was simply firing at random vehicles on the busy road leading from Dallas through Irving to the airport

Chinese Favor Love

TOKYO (AP) - China's sweeping modernization campaign is moving into the bridal market with plans in the works to eliminate traditional pre-arranged marriages and bridal doweries in favor of love matches, the official Chinese news agency Hsinhua said recently

Young people are being urged to sweep aside the old traditions and influences, the desire for money and the old conservative way of living off other people, and to fight for genuine independence and self-determination," Hsinhua said in a report monitored here.

China's marriage law gives young people "the right to choose their life partners with love and respect as the basis (of) a new kind of family with husbands and wives as equals," Hsinhua said. The agency said that under policies of

Window Shades Helpful In Cutting Fuel Bills

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — If you want to lower your fuel bills you can start by pulling down the shades.

"Scientific research findings dramatically quantify the reason window shades are low-cost energy savers that help control heating fuel bills," says John D. Gilbert, president of the Window Shade Manufacturers Association.

"Since the price of home heating is continually on the rise, window shades are dollar for dollar the homeowner's best investment in energy conservation both today and in the foreseeable future," he said.

The association, in a news release from its New York office, said an Illinois Institute of Technology study indicates the window shade can be very effective in keeping a home warm and reducing energy consumption.

Noting that Nebraska's average temperature in January and February 1978 was 25.2, the association suggested homeowners look to the window shade to help them conserve energy and keep their homes warm.

"In a test of interior window coverings, the Illinois Tech researchers learned that window shades, properly installed and used, block air flow and provide an effective barrier to heat loss," the association said

"The study reveals that window shades prevent the escape of as much as 31 percent of the heat that usually is lost through windows. Therefore, almost one-third of normal window loss can be kept inside the home."

The association, which funded the Illinois Tech study, also said scientists estimate window shades can help homeowners save as much as 8 cents for every heating dollar they spend.

Brown Lists Priorities At News Conference

AUSTIN (AP) - Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown says he's running a tighter ship than his predecessor, Democratic National Chairman John C. White, and won't tolerate sloppy dressers, 'playboys" or loafers in his agency.

Brown also said at a news conference Tuesday he has trimmed the State Department of Agriculture's staff from 517 to 505 employees in 21 months and underspent his 1978 budget by $800,255.

He said he places a high priority on in-this state for people to have respect for their public officials."

"Any person in my department who mishandles funds or violates the public trust will be dismissed. Equally important, any person engaged in trying to influence or coerce any employee in carrying out his official duties will be prosecuted with every means at my disposal,"

In reply to questions, he said he had in the House Public Education Committee. The School Tax Assessment Practices Board determined that Texans' intangible wealth totals $154 billion, and half of it is in the four most populous counties -Harris Dallas Bexar and Tarrant Since state aid is handed out proportionately to the wealth of a school district, intangibles would badly skew the system against the urban areas.

"Intangibles has to be addressed. If you don't, you'll find a lot of the urban districts become budget-balanced. And anyone with a scrap of intelligence knows that is not going to happen," says House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Budget-balanced districts are those deemed so rich they can pay their Foundation School Program costs without state aid. The only state dollars they get are per capita payments from the Available School Fund.

Clayton sees action on intangibles as bound tightly to action on agricultural value taxation of rural land.

The "Tax Relief Amendment" approved by the voters Nov. 7 says the Legislature must provide for "ag value" taxation of farm and ranch land and may also grant the tax break to timber acreage.

"It's a two-way street. You have to link taking out intangibles with a good formula for taxing agricultural land," Clayton said.

There are lots of ways to value agricultural land on its productivity, and rural lawmakers want one that will provide the best possible break for their constituents. "Ag values" probably will be part of any new formula that is adopted for parceling out state school aid. One of four alternatives recommended by the Legislative Commission on Public School Finance, also headed by Massey, included personal income within a county as part of a state aid formula. Rural lawmakers often remind their city colleagues that taxes are paid from current income, and a family can be land-"My theory is that we need an economeconomic index, whether one-factor or bate over teacher salaries.

multi-factor, will be very much an issue."

The Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA) has proposed about $1 billion worth of pay raises for the 1980-81 biennium, starting with a boost in the minimum pay of new teachers from $8,541 to $9,740. All others would get 7 percent raises in the 1979 school year and 8 percent the following year - not to mention normal longevity increases.

But the Legislative Budget Board, which includes leaders from both houses, recommended only 5.1 percent annual raises, the same as state employees.

The board's unprecedented action in putting teacher salaries in the general appropriation bill was widely viewed as a loud message that the TSTA could count on 5.1 percent and no more.

The LBB bill would provide $1 billion in new state money for public schools, including $314 million for teacher pay raises and $269 million in increased state aid. The rest - $450 million - is simply to reimburse school districts for part of the revenue they will lose to the "Tax Relief Amendment.

Cnly $110 million of anticipated state revenue is left by the LBB bill.

With Gov.-elect Bill Clements and legislative leaders committed to no new taxes, teachers and school men will have to compete with state agencies if they expect to get more dollars than the LBB

School officials would like to have more state funds for routine operating expenses and for equalization between rich and poor districts.

Raymon Bynum, an associate education commissioner, had this to say recently about achieving the goal of equity in the face of limited state revenue "I guess I'd have to say we are not going to get there this time

eting a nursery's $10 license fee and a West Texas weights inspector for putting a $158 pleasure trip - including hotel bills and liquor - on his state credit card

'He was a playboy. We get rid of playboys in this agency," Brown said. ". are going to put him in the penitentiary if we can catch him."

The commissioner said there had been recent attempts to bribe inspectors and an incident in which a service station manager - accused of giving short measure - threatened to run inspectors off

A call to the company that owned the station quickly resolved that problem with removal of the manager, Brown elminated three regional offices, plus greater productivity, for his return of $800,255 to the General Revenue Fund. He said he procured the retirement of six executives "who were just wandering around the halls doing nothing."

Brown credited a reorganization that

"It's a different ballgame over there. People have to work now," Brown said. Asked if he was saying White was not a good administrator, Brown replied:

'John White and I have been friends for a good number of years, but he and I have a different philosophy of administration. We don't play much golf. We dress with a tie and a white shirt and a suit," he said, adding he would fire employees who come to work in such attire as shower shoes.

White is an avid golfer and a casual dresser. Brown ended his news conference on a political note, saying he had $20,000 left in his campaign fund, and "We sure are going to be a political force in this state for the next four to eight years."

Later he explained that he would be able to work well with Gov.-elect Bill Clements but would speak out regularly on state and national issues program (silent prayer or meditation) is becoming more and more rare" at the elementary level. Opening exercises in elementary schools, if conducted at all, are usually patriotic or musical

Most school trustees said that if it is legal, they would like to continue allowing prayer on a voluntary basis.

"I have yet to hear anybody criticize the present policy of voluntary prayer," trustee and restaurateur Jose Ramirez said of his customers.

"I've received 10 to 12 letters, all of em pro-prayer," added trustee Giles M. "Buddy" Forbess. Some letter-writers insist that the U.S. Supreme Court did not say you could not pray in school, but that you could not force students to School board member Lynn Stafford has been getting the same kind of legal contradictions from laypersons.

"We always try to obey the law, but in this case, according to what I've read so far, the law is vague on what is permitted and what's not. That's why we need Mr. Cobb to clarify the situation for us," Mrs. Stafford said: If restrictions are put on school prayer,

Mrs. Stafford said she hopes it's not necessary to ban such things as Christmas carols. Carols may have religious overtones, but are a "big part of tradition," The ACLU says school-sponsored prayer violates the principle of separation of church and state, and that government must remain neutral on religion. Even though students may not be forced to pray, voluntary prayers put social pressures on youngsters who are nonbelievers or of a different faith than those leading the prayer, the group said.

Legislative Goals

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Medical Association says it wants to give paraprofessionals more authority, but doctors are watching proposed bills carefully to make sure unqualified persons are not allowed to treat the sick

Embalming Law Nears Repeal

AUSTIN (AP) - A state rule that bodies must be be refrigerated or embalmed within 24 hours of death is marked for the regulatory graveyard.

Undertakers, who have relied on the 1951 rule for a certain amount of their embalming business, are expected to oppose repeal of the State Health Depart-

Repeal will take effect with the March meeting of the State Board of Health unless the board decides to continue the embalming requirement.
Dr. Charles Webb Jr., chief of the de partment's Bureau of Communicable Disease Services, said the rule was re-examined after Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Aus-

Doggett is a member of the Sunset Advisory Commission, which endured a sometimes nauseating defense of em-balming by undertakers during the commission's review of the State Board of Morticians.

The commission recommended that the Legislature abolish the board and put the health department in charge of licensing embalmers.

"I allowed as how I didn't see any justification for embalming as a public health measure at all. ... Having had it called to our attention, we decided to repeal the rule," Webb said.

"We have really brainstormed this thing. ... There really is no circumstance, except for aesthetics, for people to be embalmed. ... Communicable diseases are transmitted from living peopple to living people, or by insects. Once somebody dies, the germs within that body die too, although not at once."

Webb said if there was a possibility of getting a disease from human remains, it would be greater if a body were empalmed because the process includes opening of body cavities.

brain inactivity, and will recommend the creation of a statewide cancer registry run by the state health department.

"Medical practice accepts brain death as a criteria for determining death," the TMA said. "But legal definitions put more stress on circulatory and other functions. Therefore, a doctor might be sued for using brain death criteria. TMA will support legislation that recognizes circulatory-respiratory criteria but also recognizes brain death, especially if life support equipment precludes using circulatory-respiratory criteria for determin-

The TMA's legislative goals were published in a newsletter distributed to association members. The newsletter noted that 330 bills had been filed by late December, and the TMA was interested in about 75 of them.

In the 1977 session, the TMA said, more than 4,000 bills were filed, of which the association tracked more than 600. The TMA said it also is supporting 1979 proposals that would: Decrease malpractice insurance problems for doctors rendering emergencv care. - Punish persons who file bad-faith malpractice suits. - Provide financial assistance to the families of newborn infants with breathing disorders, if the families are unable to pay for the expensive treatment. - Identify lay midwives.

- Provide more state aid for hemophi-

Provide financial assistance to teaching hospitals and medical schools for residency programs. - Expand the medical examiner sys-

The TMA said nurses, lay midwives, social psychotherapists, speech pathologists, audiologists and clinical laboratory technicians "are a few of the groups seeking licensing legislation."

"Generally," the TMA added, "the bills' supporters say licensing and deline-ation of responsibilities will improve the quality of service the group gives by eliminating ill-trained people and putting job ibilities in proper boundaries. While TMA agrees with those goals, doctors are watching the bills to make sure nothing is included that would permit inadequately trained persons to perform services they are unqualified to do."

The TMA said "differences of opinion already have surfaced" between TMA and the Texas Nurses Association on expanded authority for advanced nurse practitioners, with nurses wanting to de-liver primary health care, including the prescription of certain drugs.

YEAR END SALE

-PUBLIC NOTICE-

FACT #1 Everyting in our Inventory on Jan. 1 is taxable.
We had much rather cut 2 to 3 hundred dollars off the price than to pay the same amount in tax dollars.

FACT #2 After Jan. 1 the texes paid on unsold cars must be considered expense In actuality this creates a consumer price increase.

FACT #3 Wide car buyers knew this
They take advantage of it and they tell their friends about it tool

Transportation Refinery Union 96. Repair-Parts-Acces. Refinery Union Eyes Showdown within the 7 percent figure of the Carter

DENVER (AP) - The president of the nation's refinery workers, who seem eager to strike when their contracts with the oil companies expire Sunday, says he isn't happy about leading his union into the first big showdown over President Carter's 7 percent wage guidelines.

"I would prefer that we weren't first up," said Al Grospiron, a former Texas City machine operator who has been president of the Oil, Chemical and Atom-Workers International Union since

"This is getting us more publicity than I would like for us to have. But someone has to be first, and there's nothing we can do about it.'

Although the negotiations involve more than 400 contracts with 245 oil companies, the union locals have voted Grospiron authority to call a national walkout. Industry officials say a strike would not have any immediate impact on oil production, barring equipment breakdowns or sabotage.

Approximately 17 million barrels of crude oil are processed daily in the United States. Spokesmen for several of the major oil companies said that equipment is now so automated that supervisory personnel can keep the machines running.

Spokesmen for the major oil companies declined comment on a possible strike, but national and local officials of the 60. 000-member union appear convinced there will be a walkout.

And those contacted at locals in Texas where most major oil companies maintain corporate headquarters or big refineries - say their conviction is because of one issue: President Carter's wage-price guidelines.

'There'll be strikes around the country," predicted Joe Campbell, secretarytreasurer of Local 227 in Houston - one of the largest in the nation with 4,500 members.

"I'd hate to see it happen, because I feel strikes hurt the workers too," said Campbell. "But we feel Carter's really turned his back on us."

The negotiations are shaping up as the first confrontation between a union and an industry bolstered by the Carter administration's urgings to weather strikes rather than give in to wage demands.

The giant Teamsters union last month began its contract talks with the trucking industry, which will provide a tougher test of Carter's program, but the Teamsters' pact does not expire until March 31.

None of the oil companies made contract offers until last week. Gulf Oil was first on Wednesday, and Texaco, Shell and Phillips followed by the end of the week. Wage increases in the offers fell

Animal Lover Put To Work

AVON, N.J. (AP) - A self-described animal lover who tried to drown her sick kitten has been sentenced to work off a $50 fine by cleaning cages and feeding and watering animals at a humane society shelter.

Carmen Negron, 37, was charged Tuesday with abandonment and misdemeanor abuse. Starting today, she and her husband, Alberto, 40, will work to pay off the fine at the shelter's rate of $3 an frour. Her husband was fined for aiding and abetting his wife's action by driving her to the ocean.

Mrs. Negron said she was acting out of compassion for her sick pet. She said she took the kitten to a veterinarian last week to have its ringworm treated.

"He advised me to put it to sleep," she said. "I didn't want to and brought her home." She said she couldn't afford the $25 euthanasia fee, so she decided to throw the kitten into the sea.

Later, she said she was told that humane societies perform euthanasia at no cost to pet owners who can't afford it. Four-month-old "Kitty" survived the dunking and was picked up by a man who gave the Negrons' car license number to police. The SPCA filed a complaint against Mrs. Negron. At Tuesday's hearing, Municipal Court

What Grospiron and other union leaders want to do is bend the Carter guidelines to fit OCAW's needs.

The union has put no specific price tag on the package it seeks, but in keeping with gains made by other major unions in 1978 before Carter issued his guidelines, the oil workers are presumably after an increase of 11 or 12 percent, including major gains in company-paid medical

Oil Refinery Opposition Expected

PORTSMOUTH, Vz. (AP) - An Interior Department official says Portsmouth is "one of the worst locations in the United States for a refinery," opposition an official of the proposed $660 million project says was expected.

Under Secretary of the Interior James A. Joseph told a news conference here Tuesday that environmental factors dictate rejection of a permit for the facility.

"Situated as it is near the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay, this area is in position to help or irreversibly damage an estuary upon which marine life all up and down the Atlantic Coast depends heavily," Joseph said.

The refinery proposed by Hampton Roads Energy Co. could process 175,000 to 250,000 barrels of oil daily.

Favored by the Department of Energy and the city of Portsmouth, the refinery is opposed by environmentalists, who say oil spills would devastate oyster beds. Robert Porterfield, vice president of Hampton Roads Energy Co., said the Interior would recommend "disapproval of any permit on any estuary where there is even a remote possibility of any damage.

"This doesn't change our plans one bit. We will just have to wait now until the matter goes to the secretaries." Porterfield said. The Interior Department's announcement came in response to a recommendation by Lt. Gen. John W. Morris, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers, that a dredging permit for the refinery be approved. The permit is one of the last major obstacles to construction of the facili-

The issue now goes to Army Secretary Clifford Alexander and Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus. Alexander has the final authority at that level.

President Appoints Four New Officers

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter has made four appointments to top offices in the new Office of Personnel Management that replaced the defunct Civil Service Commission on Monday.

As expected, commission chairman Alan K. Campbell was named Tuesday director of the new office, created under the 1978 civil service reorganization plan. Jule M. Sugarman, who was vice chairman of the commission, was named deputy director. Ruth T. Prokop, general counsel of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, was named chairman of a new Merit Systems Protection Board. And the president appointed H. Patrick Swygert, formerly commission general counsel, as special counsel to the board. The four will be nominated after Congress returns.

30TH ANNIVERSARY OF AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION - Charlie Brown, right, one of the heroes of the comic strip "Peanuts" is shown with another of the strip's characters. The strip, which has become an American institution, marks its 30th anniversary this week. (AP Laserphoto)

'Peanuts' Gang Turns 30

NEW YORK (AP) - When in 1969 the United States sent a manned spacecraft to within 10 miles of the moon, the Apollo 10 mother ship was named after a comic-strip character named Charlie Brown and its lunar module after Charlie's dog Snoopy.

Nobody raised objections. Charlie Brown and Snoopy, the winsome heroes of Peanuts, were an American institution.

And this week they celebrate the beginning of their comic strip's 30th year with a CBS special anniversary show.

There has never been quite so extraordinary a group as the cast of Peanuts -Charlie Brown, the eternal loser: Linus, who spouts theology while cuddling his security blanket; Lucy, Linus' crabby sister whom one reviewer enthusiastically described as a "bitch goddess;" and Snoopy, the most sophisticated of hounds, who recently replaced the Van Gogh in his palatial dog house with an Andrew

But perhaps the most interesting and least known of the Peanuts characters is its creator Charles Schulz, whose views on life are often bleak and who bases Peanuts on the premise that failure is funnier than success.

Schulz's earliest memories are of the great comic strips of his childhood, and of his ambition to become a cartoonist. His only formal training was a correspondence course through a local drawing school, supplemented by years of practice and experimentation.

The result is Peanuts, which in its every detail reflects some facet of Schulz's own personality and life. Like Charlie Brown's, his father was a barber and Schulz once owned a rather eccentric dog. And when you talk to Schulz it doesn't take long to realize that he is Charlie

Brown, older and grayer of course, but still the bemused, worried kid on the Like his little hero, Schulz is a rather shy, thoughtful man who has obviously spent much of his life thinking, thinking about life and its problems. "I know what it is to have to spend days, evenings and weekends by myself," he says, "and I also know how uncomfortable anxiety can be. I worry about almost all there is in life to worry about, and because I worry, Charlie Brown has to worry The Peanuts are far more than a collection of precocious kids and fantastic animals. They are ourselves, grappling with the daily complexities of life in a world that is never quite reliable and where triumph, as the Peanuts would say, is as elusive as catching snowflakes on your tongue. Over the past 30 years - in which the strip has grown from a circulation of eight American newspapers to one of 1,750 worldwide 90 million readers - the Peanuts have struggled with the changing realities and values of American life, changing as we have, but like most of us never quite sure of what it is all about. "Charlie Brown suffers, because he is a caricature of the ordinary person." Schulz explains. "Most of us are much more acquainted with losing than we are with winning. Winning is great but it isn't funny. While one person is a happy winner, there may be a hundred losers using funny stories to console them-so aptly that we can only laugh at ourselves. Peanuts is above all an American creation - and one reason it is now published in 24 foreign countries and has been the subject of an exhibition at the Louvre is that it is read as an expression of the American character.

At the heart of Schulz's art is his ability to gently catch our charms and follies

The cast's self-conscious preoccupation and doubt, their values and attitudes are those of the modern American. But much of their appeal rests on a deeply sentimental attachment to the idyllic childhood of the small American town and the values of a seemingly happier past.

For 30 years Schulz has lived daily with the strip, which he admits rarely leaves his mind. Some of his ideas are flashes of inspiration, others are years in the making. "It's rather a mystery to me where some of the little phrases come from." he admits, "and why it is possible to think of 10 ideas in one day and not be able to think of a single one the next."

Schulz has enjoyed the long years he has spent with Peanuts but wonders sometimes if he shouldn't try something new.

"I never feel like I've made it. I still have to draw something funny tomorrow. It's the same burden you had when you were in school, and it's Sunday night and you have an English theme due in the morning," he says.

Schulz has one particular joy, attending performances of the much-produced musical "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown." Sitting unrecognized in the audience he savors what the cartoonist's art is all about - laughter.

And occasionally life imitates art. Once while charging something in a store the clerk, glancing at his credit card, asked if he was THE Charles Schulz. The delighted woman asked Schulz to draw her a picture of Snoopy, which she excitedly displayed to everyone in the store. Beaming, she then turned back to Schulz and said, "Oh, yes, Mr. Schulz, do you have any proof of identity?"

Insurance Industry Disputes Report

WASHINGTON (AP) - The life insurance industry is disputing a congressional report which says consumers lack information needed to buy life insurance wise-

The report, prepared by a subcommittee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, said "significant consumer loss occurs" because buyers buy unwisely. And the panel urged states Tuesday to adopt regulations to require insurance agents to supply certain information to prospective customers.

The National Association of Life Underwriters and the American Council of Life Insurance criticized the report. The council, which represents 90 percent of U.S. life insurance companies, complained the report contained "sweeping generalizations which are unsupported by the realities" of the marketplace. The subcommittee report said states should require agents to give consumers guides containing "clear and concise" explanations of life insurance products and how to shop for them.

Also, the report said agents should be required to give each customer a "policy summary" which would contain essential data about the particular policy the purchaser is considering.

The subcommittee said the policy summary should say how many years a whole life policy would have to be held before it could be surrendered without a financial loss. In addition, the subcommittee said, the summary should compare costs and benefits of various types of life insurance

The life insurance council said the industry has long supported state regulation that would provide consumers with all the information needed to make intel-

That support has resulted in 21 states adopting such regulations, said council spokesman Walter Bussewitz.

But in its report, the subcommittee argued that states have been "unduly slow and reticent" in developing regulations intended to increase information about life insurance buying.

'Grand Old Man' Still In Power

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — At 86, Yugoslavia's President Tito is the Grand Old Man of world politics, and sometimes even he seems surprised that he is still around

"I couldn't have imagined that after 35 years I would be back at this place where we were in 1943," Tito told a huge rally in November, marking the anniversary of a World War II partisan battle.

Tito is the last of the World War II leaders still in power and, with the recent deaths of Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco, China's Mao Tse-tung, Pope Paul VI, and Kenya's Jomo Kenyatta, there is no world leader left who could be called his contemporary.

He is the man who led a ragged partisan army against the Nazis, the man who 30 years ago split from the Soviet bloc to lead Yugoslavia on its own Communist path, the man who with India's Jawaharlal Nehru, Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser and Indonesia's Sukarno - all now dead - launched the non-aligned movement which has become more and more a world force. Not least, he is the man who for 35 years has been the glue holding together the diverse nationalities and passions which make up Yugoslavia.

Tito was already known as "Stari" -"Old Man" - as a partisan leader nearly 40 years ago. He was in his 50s then and during the next decade journalists, politicians and other observers already were worrying about his age and health.

This preoccupation has increased as Ti-to has grown older. He is watched closely for signs of faltering. It is therefore important for him to appear always in better physical condition than most people his age would be expected to be.

"Almost," said one diplomat, "as if he is being embalmed alive.

Indeed, the Yugoslav leader looks 20 years younger than his age. He is barrelchested and stocky, always tanned and ruddy from sunlamp treatments, his hair dyed a youthful-looking red.

He walks stiffly, at times using a cane, speaks better off-the-cuff than from a prepared text, is troubled from time to time by sciatica or a liver ailment - and does a bewildering amount of traveling at home and abroad at a pace that would have much younger men exhausted.

He has lost none of his mental sharp-

But, though still very active, he has in recent years relinquished some of his official work load and Western diplomats who have seen him recently say he appears to have slowed down physically

At this year's annual diplomatic hunting party in mid-December, for example, Tito hardly participated at all at the luncheon," said a diplomat who was there. "He sat there eating and drinking

Soviets Believe Volcanoes Spawned Life

MOSCOW (UPI) - A group of Soviet scientists believe volcanoes may have spawned the first living organism that fueled the evolutionary process.

The Tass news agency said this week the theory was developed by scientists at the Institute of Volcanology, at the Far Eastern Center of the Soviet Academy of

They found that volcanic ashes contain over 200 complex prebiological com-pounds and almost all the main components essential for the existence of a living cell.
"The investigations have led them to conclude that in the process of volcanic eruptions, nature takes the first step from inanimate matter to living things, Tass said.

The author of the theory, Dr. Yevgeni Markhinia, has studied volcanoes on the Kamchatka peninsula and Kuril Islands for 25 years and observed 30 volcanic

"The scientists discovered specifically micro-organisms living in extreme condi-tions, in a high-temperature and acidic environments, in solutions of sulphuric and muriatic acids," Tass said.

Markhinin's theory, Tass said, that ashand-gas clouds are powerful natural chemical reactors was confirmed during the eruption of Tyatya volcano on the Kuril Islands and Tolbachik in Kamchatka.

It said scientists took hundreds of sterile test samples of ashes, slags and stone bombs and found aminocompounds, ami-nosugar hydrocarbons, components of nucleic acids and other organic sust-

Tass said these compounds were considered primary elements in the evolutionary cycle that leads to the development of living organisms.

The news agency said the investigations by the volcanologists may help solve the problem of the origin of oil and the search for new minerals

Architectural Firm Plans China Project

ATLANTA (AP) - Architect John Portman Jr., whose firm designed the Peachtree Plaza and Hyatt Regency Hotel in Atlanta, reportedly is planning a major architectural project in China.

The Atlanta Constitution Monday quoted unidentified sources as saying the Portman organization is putting together a deal to build hotels and commercial structures in China. His son, Jack Portman III, said he has been "laying the groundwork" for a Chinese project for six menths, but its final form has not been determined. In February 1978, Portman and Associates was commissioned to design a 500-room hotel in Singapore and a 400-room hotel in Karachi, Pakistan.

"It was quite a contrast from last year. Tito at that time was dressed in a hunting outfit and was much more lively, more

"Everything around him was chaotic, with about 50 photographers clicking away and shouting. But Tito sat in the middle of it all, not moving. He looked very quiet, very still - as if he was abdiplomat said.

Born into a humble peasant family in 1892, Tito as head of state always has effected a lavish lifestyle. He has a plush official residence in a Belgrade suburb, a villa at the south Adriatic spa of Igalo where he often retires after a grueling trip, a hideaway private island, Brioni, in the north Adriatic and other official residences - some the former homes of the Yugoslav monarchy - scattered over the

He likes well-tailored clothes, driving fast cars, eating good, rich Yugoslav cooking and smoking several fat cigars a

Until just about 18 months ago it appeared that Tito's official successes were matched by an especially blissful domestic life with his dark-haired third wife Jovanka, 32 years his junior, whom he married in 1952.

But Jovanka dropped from sight in June 1977, reportedly because she was lobbying for favors for army officers who were, like herself, Croatian-born Serbs.

Jovanka has become a taboo subject.

have formally been divorced. Government spokesmen either refuse to answer questions on the subject or refer questioners to what Tito said in an interview last April: "She is my wife, she remains to be my wife, she is living at my residence in Bel-

Nonetheless, "Tito's Private Life," a lavishly produced book of photographs of Tito and Jovanka which came out shortly before Jovanka dropped from sight, is still available in bookshops.

It shows Tito in some rare moments of privacy - in his bathrobe making his own 6 a.m. coffee at an elaborate espresso machine, playing with Tigar, his German shepherd, and his two white poodles, printing and developing his own photographs in his professionally equipped darkroom.

For relaxation Tito, a former metal worker, enjoys tinkering in a metal shop specially set up at his Brioni residence. He is also an avid hunter - his favorite sport, he says - and likes many other sports, too.

Alabama, Southern Cal and Oklahoma all trailed top-rated Penn State in the final regular-season poll. But the Nittany Lions slipped from first place to fourth with 1,168 points after Alabama ended their 19-game winning streak.

Title Question Remains

Michigan held onto fifth place with 989 points despite its loss in the Rose Bowl. Clemson moved up from seventh to sixth with 950 points for a 17-15 decision over Ohio State in the Gator Bowl. Notre Dame's defending national champio finished seventh this time with 914 points. The Fighting Irish jumped from 10th place by edging Houston 35-34 in the Cotton Bowl.

Nebraska, the only team to beat Oklahoma this season, dropped from sixth to eighth after bowing to the Sooners in the Orange Bowl rematch. The Cornhuskers received 865 points.

The Texas Longhorns, who lost out on place votes and 1,285 points. Oklahoma the national championship a year ago received the remaining 11 first-place when they lost to Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, climbed from 14th to ninth place with 706 points following a 42-0 rout of Maryland in the Sun Bowl.

Houston, ninth in the final regular-season poll, rounded out the Top Ten with 698 points. The Second Ten consisted of Arkansas, Michigan State, Purdue, UCLA, Missouri. Georgia, Stanford, North Carolina State, Texas AM and Maryland.

The final regular-season Second Ten was Georgia, Michigan State, Maryland, Texas, UCLA, Pittsburgh, Purdue, Missouri, Iowa State and Ohio State. Stanford, which was ranked three times early in the season, reappeared in the Top Twenty by defeating Georgia 25-22 in the Bluebonnet Bowl. North Carolina State, which was ranked 20th for one week early in the campaign, made it back in with a 30-17 triumph over Pitt in the

Q. I was wondering what happened to the three stars who played for Arkansas last season — Marvin Delph, Ron Brewer and Sidney Moncrief. If they didn't make the pros, why?

- Mike Eisenman, Boise, Idaho.

A. Brewer is with the Portland Trailblazers and recently led his team to a two-point win over the LA Lakers. Delph decided not to try out for the NBA and is now with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes' touring basketball team, Athletes in Action. That is a very talented group, because Delph has yet to crack the starting lineup. Moncrief is in his senior season with the Razorbacks and leading the team in scoring.

Q. Can you tell me how the Pittsburgh Steelers got their name? - Chester Mordawski, Clearfield, Pa.

A. The Pittsburgh team was known as the Pirates until 1940 when Art Rooney sold the franchise to Alexis Thompson. There was then a public contest to find a new name for the team and two fans suggested Steelers, to reflect that city's main industry. Rooney later re-acquired the franchise, and during the war years merged it first with Philadelphia and then with the Chicago Cardinals. These teams were known as the Steagles and the Card-Pitts.

Q. Can you tell me how the NFL quarterback rating system works, why it ever came about and what is the highest rating a quarterback has ever gotten?

— Wiley Haslitt, St. Louis.

A. The NFL wanted to create a statistic that would offer valid comparisons of passers' talents over the years. A committee headed by Seymour Siwoss of the Elias (Statistics) Bureau and Don Smith of the Pro Football Hall of Fame totaled up the various passing achievements over a 10-year period dating from 1960. There was no significant reason for choosing this decade. They merely needed a statistical base.

The ratings table that evolved produces points in four equal categories: percentage of TD passes, percentage of interceptions, percentage of completions, and average gain per pass attempt.

Milt Plum in Cleveland had the highest single season rating, 110.4 in 1960. Alltime career ratings list Ken Anderson of Cincinnati No. 1 with 84.1, followed by Sonny Jurgensen and Lennie Dawson. Remember, however, this is not a quarterback rating but a passer's rating.

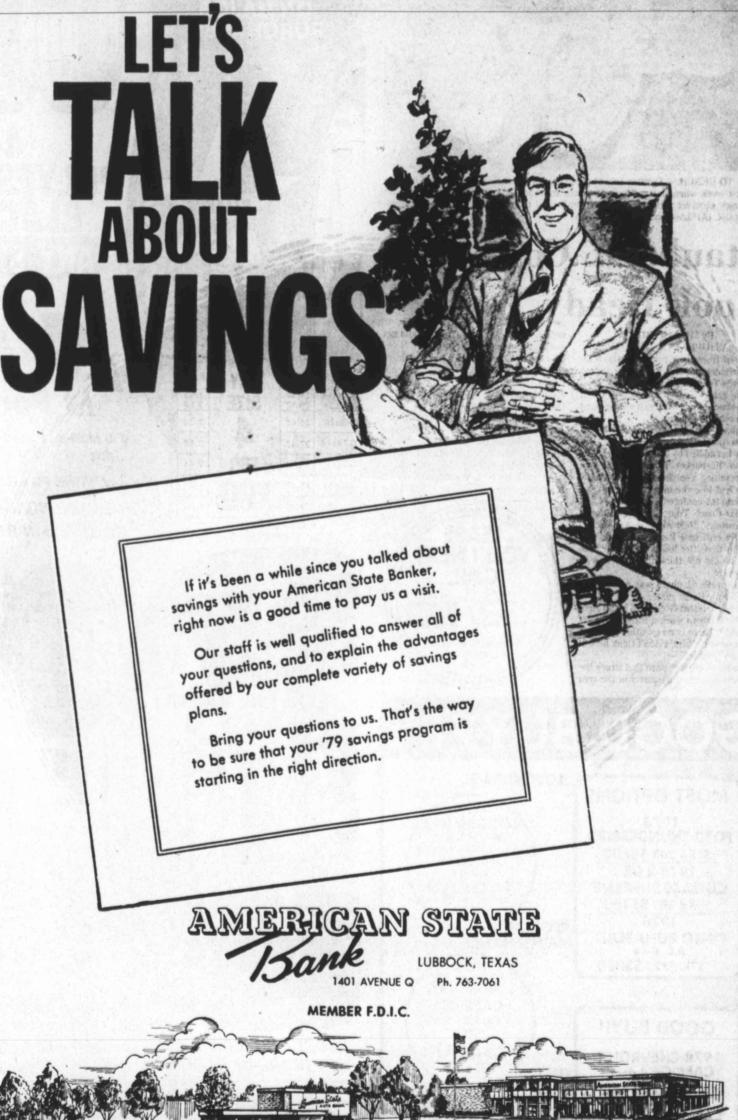

Q. Who do you think should be rated No. 1 if Penn State and Alabama play to a tie in the Sugar Bowl?

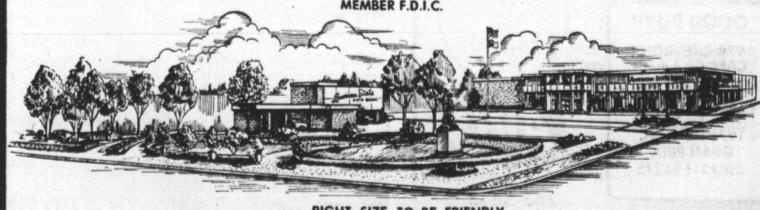

- Eddie Fleming, Tampa, Fla.

A. If national championship means identifying the best college football team in the country, that tag should go to the Oklahoma Sooners. (Ed. note: This column was written prior to last Monday's Alabama victory and reflects the columnists' feelings at that time).

Bowls Filled With Heroes, Villains

AP Special Correspondent

It was college football's last gasp of the season — millions of holiday-idled buffs glued to their TV sets, the screen clogged with marching bands, skimpily attired majorettes, cleated legions banging helmets against fragile flesh.

High hysteria and bitter disappointments. Heroes and goats — enough to go around. Here's a bleary-eyed look-back at the weekend's college bowl madness: HERO: Joe Paterno, the professorial coach of Penn State who saw his national title hopes dashed by a stubborn Alabama 14-7 in the Sugar Bowl. No alibis, he said, "We were outplayed and outcoached."

GOAT: Woody Haves of Ohio State, who never learned the art of losing grace.

GOAT: Woody Hayes of Ohio State, who never learned the art of losing gracefully. To him, football always has been a war. Players are pawns on the field, to be pushed and manipulated toward a single goal — "winning isn't everything, it's the only thing." Like his idol, General Patton, who slapped an invalid soldier in a hospital bed, old Woody ended his career in disrepute by slugging a Clemson player guilty of intercepting a pass that sealed a 17-15 victory in the

DOUBLE-HORNED GOAT: Broadcasters Keith Jackson and Ara Parseghian of ABC, who "didn't see a thing" although the Hayes incident was visible to the world on their screen and monitors. Confused fans had to wait until the next day to find out what really happened.

HEROES: Alabama's defensive back Don McNeal, who thwarted a sure Penn State score by smashing Scott Fitzkee out of bounds on the 1 yard line in a one-in-a-million defensive play, and linebacker Barry Krauss, who stopped the Lions' two subsequent smashes at the goal from the 1. This was a game won in the trenches — and Bear Bryant's head.

GOAT: Paterno's board of strategy that failed to notice an extra man on the field when a shanked Alabama punt went out of bounds on the Tide 20 late in the game - the mental error nullifying a Penn State chance to tie or win the HERO: Billy Sims, Oklahoma, a driving, squirming dervish, who measured up to his Heisman Trophy credentials by hammering out 134 yards and two touchdowns in the Sooners' 31-24 triumph over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. "The best runner I've seen in college all year," said O.J. Simpson

GOAT: Coach Bill Yeoman of Houston, who ordered his team to go for a first down on fourth-and-one instead of punting with the ball on Houston's 29 and 35 seconds to play. The strategy backfired, allowing Notre Dame to rally for a lastsecond touchdown and an unbelievable 35-34 comeback victory in the Cotton conversion early in the game, kicked the extra point — not once, but twice — that gave the Irish their last tick triumph. "I didn't have time to think about being nervous," acknowledged Unis. GOAT: Head linesman Gilbert Marchman, who failed to call a fumble when

HERO: Joe Unis, Notre Dame placekicker, who, after a bad snap ruined a Southern California's Charles White coughed up the ball before crossing the goal line for the touchdown that finally decided the Trojans' 17-10 victory over Michigan in the Rose Bowl. TV reruns showed White clearly lost the ball short of the goal and umpire Don Mason signalled fumble, but the TD call stuck. This tainted touchdown won for the Trojans but may have cost them the No. 1 ranking in the postbowl polls.

HERO: Steve Dils, Stanford, the season's No. 1 passer with 2,943 yards, turned three Georgia fumbles and a short punt into 25 points in a six minute, 13-second span for a comeback 25-22 triumph in the Bluebonnet Bowl. GOAT: The NCAA, which lacks the wisdom to see that college football cries for a postseason playoff system to determine a national champion.

HEROES: Those armchair quarterbacks who refused to budge or blink during the holiday bowl marathon and now are "getting the red out" for the National Football League playoffs and Super Bowl coming up. A rare breed who

DALLAS (UPI) - The Dallas Cowboys, uprooted from their normal practice facility because of still icy weather, opened workouts Tuesday for their NFC champiist Los Angeles and quarterback Roger Staubach was on hand in both body and mind.

Staubach's mind took much of the afternoon off last Saturday after it was ewhat addled by a ferocious tackle by Atlanta linebacker Robert Pennywell. The resulting concussion meant Danny White had to come in and rally the cowboys into the conference title game Dallas Coach Tom Landry, who after the Cowboys' 27-20 win over Atlanta had strongly criticized Pennywell's hit, said Tuesday that after looking at films of the game he did not think the blow was all that severe.

At any rate. Staubach was pronounced

'go" for the Rams game.
"I feel confident Roger will be all right once he starts to work a little bit," Landry said. "There is no question from the doctors and trainers. I don't think he will have any trouble.

Because of the ice storm that struck the city, leaving almost a quarter of the area without eletrical power, Dallas could not work out as planned on Monday.

So the team piled onto a bus and drove the 10 miles over to Texas Stadium, where the ground crew finally had succeeded removing the tarpualin and all the ice that had been on top of it.

Following the Cowboys-Falcons game, Landry said he had been told by someone on the sidelines that Staubach had been struck on the side of the helmet and he went on to say that such blows should be dealt with by NFL commissioner Pete

Of course, Wayland defeated TCU 70-68 earlier in the year and is currently 7-8 and will tangle with the St. Edwards Hilltoppers in Fridays second match.

The Pioneers return four starters from last year's team that went 15-17 and made the post-season playoffs.

MSU Tops Poll

Michigan State, winner of the Far West Classic, took advantage of losses by the top three teams in last week's poll to move into first place in The Associated Press weekly college basketball poll. The Spartans, ranked fourth last week. defeated Washington State, Oregon State and Big Ten rival Indiana on the way to the Far West title. Those triumphs, coupled with two losses by Duke and one each by Notre Dame and UCLA, enabled Michigan State to collect 31 first-place votes and 969 points. The top eight teams in this week's poll each recived at least one first-place vote from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Notre Dame held on to second place, receiving seven first-place votes and 878 points despite its 81-76 loss to Kentucky.

North Carolina moved from fifth place to third after winning the Rochester Classic with convincing victories over Dartmouth and Niagara.

Illinois, still undefeated at 12-0 and in fourth place, got four first-place votes. LSU, ranked seventh, received three and Duke, UCLA and North Carolina State got one each for the top spot.

Duke, a double loser in the ECAC Holiday Festival, dropped from the top for the first time since the preseason poll. The Blue Devils received 757 points, good for lifth place. UCLA, 75-72 which lost to Stanford in its conference opener, fell to sixth with 741.

BULLS REGAIN MAY CHICAGO (AP) - Forward Scott May has returned to the Chicago Bulls roster for the first time since last October after recovering from his second serious knee injury in two years. A spokesman for the National Basketball Association team said Tuesday the Bulls made room on their roster for their No.1 draft pick in 1976 by placing forward Steve Sheppard with 728 points, North Carolina State with 609, Kentucky with 584 and Texas AM with 404 points.

Indiana State again leads the Second Ten. The Sycamores, who blasted Morris Harvey 99-63, received 387 points.

Georgetown, Michigan, Arkansas, Long Beach State, Louisville, Marquette, Mississippi State, Kansas and Maryland completed the weekly rankings.

Mississippi State, 8-0, is a newcomer to the poll, while Maryland returns to the Top Twenty with a record of 11-2.

Cleveland Coach Blasts

AP Sports Writer

It's hard to say which infuriated Bill Fitch more — the calls referee Earl Strom made or those he and his crew didn't make.

Fitch, coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers, was angered because Strom called three technical fouls against his club in Tuesday night's 116-113 National Basketball Association loss to the Milwaukee Bucks. He was also upset because Strom, one of the league's senior officials, didn't blow the whistle when Fitch felt he should have, par-

"This is a million dollar business," said Fitch, "but if you keep sticking your head in the sand, you're not going to bring the game around. Maybe that's why there weren't 10,000 more people here tonight (the attendance at Richfield, Ohio, was 4,459) — maybe they're tired of seeing that.

"He (Strom) has fined me, my trainer, everybody on my ballclub and he hasn't worked a good game yet. All I can remember is handchecking and how they went to the (foul) line and we didn't."

Reminded that he can be fined for publicly criticizing officials, Fitch declared, "I don't give a damn. Why protect the guy just because he's got years in the league? Maybe we should put his name up in lights and say he blew one.

"I'm not emotionally involved," he added. "If I was, I'd be over there kicking his

Fitch was particularly angry over a non-call in the final minute. With Clev trailing by just one point, Winters appeared to step out of bounds, but no cal made. A videotape replay shown in the Cleveland dressing room showed clearly Winters did step out.

The loss negated a 35-point performance by Cleveland forward Campy Ru who had 16 in the fourth quarter. Johnson led the Bucks with 24 points and Winters 22.

Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson declined to comment on the officiating, but did note that contrary to Fitch's complaint, Cleveland was called for just 18 fouls while 25 were called against the Bucks, although the Cavs were in the penalty situation for the final 9:13.

Patriots Go To Court Today

BOSTON (AP) — The New England Patriots headed to court today to halt alleged University of Colorado efforts to lure Coach Chuck Fairbanks away from a lucrative contract with the National Football League team.

U.S. District Court Judge A. David Mazzone scheduled a hearing in a suit seeking temporary and permanent injunctions against Colorado and several co-defendants who allegedly conspired to lure Fairbanks to the university job.

In the suit filed Tuesday, Patriots owner William H. Sullivan Jr., charged the university's regents and president, Roland C. Rautenstraus, Athletic Director Edward Crowder, and two private businessmen with encouraging Fairbanks to beach his Crowder, and two private businessmen with encouraging Fairbanks to break his New England contract, which has four years plus an option season left.

The Patriots say Fairbanks' services are "irreplaceable," and the defendants "wrongfully, intentionally and maliciously entered into a conspiracy" to interfere with his contract.

The suit seeks unspecified punitive damages against the university and those involved in the alleged conspiracy.

Fairbanks accepted the Colorado job last month, then put the switch in limbo so he could coach the Patriots in the NFL playoffs. New England was beaten by Houston last Sunday, 31-14, ending the Patriots '1978 season.

Also named in the suit are two Colorado businessmen — Jack Vickers of Vickers of Continental Airlines. They allegedly have

Sporting News Picks Campbell

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers, the first player selected in last spring's National Football League draft, has been chosen both rookle of the year and most valuable player in the American Conference by the Sporting News, a weekly publication.

The powerful Campbell, who amassed 1,450 rushing yards for an NFL record rookie performance, was selected unanimously for the rookie award by Sporting News correspondents. In the MVP voting, he outpolled the Pittsburgh Steelers' Terry Bradshaw, his closest rival.

It marked the first time a firs-year player had been accorded dual such Sporting News honors since Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns was similarly feted in 1957.

Bobick Sued By Another Boxer

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - Lawsuits seeking $307,500 rom heavyweight contender Duane Bobick and his manager for allegedly pulling out of a fight with a local box-er were filed Tuesday by the Wichita Boxing Association.

The suits were filed because Bobick's manager, David Wolf of New York, refused to honor a contract for his fighter to meet Bob Hazelton of Wichita in a match this month, said Larry Klenda, president of the Wichita association.

A suit seeking $7,500 was filed against Bobick in Sedgwick County District Court and a separate suit seeking $300,000 from Wolf was filed in U.S. District Court.

Klenda, an attorney, said Bobick entered into a contract Oct. 23, 1978, to fight

elton sometime in January

The fight was scheduled for Jan. 6 but was postponed until January 30 when Ha-elton developed an illness during training. Klenda said Wolf told him Bobick would not fight Hazelton because Bobick had

Small College Coach Wins 500

WAVERLY, Iowa (AP) - For Buzz Levick, it is No. 500 and counting The head basketball coach at Wartburg College, enrollment 1,130, reached that ilestone in career victories on Dec. 16, but he says his family, health and state of aind are just as important.

Reaching 500 came sooner than the 51-year-old coach expected. We're starting over with almost a new team, so I didn't know how good we were going to be," Levick told the Associated Press.

"We lost six seniors and four of them were starters. Right now we're playing a lot of inexperienced people. We're 5-2, so that's a pretty good start, anyway."

Levick's 500th victory was a 79-66 decision over Iowa Wesleyan. He has a 263-84 record in 14 seasons at Wartburg and was 237-101 in 14 years as a high school coach for an overall 500-185.

Levick's winning percentage of .758 at Wartburg is the second highest among active coaches in NCAA Division III.

What's behind his success?

"I was always fortunate to have good players, but equally important, we always had a lot of community interest in the school and our program," Levick said. "A great fan following makes winning easier.

"Furthermore, the people in the community related to the type of player we had. In the '50s and '60s, it was easy for people to get turned off if the players didn't adhere to certain rules and traditions."

As Levick's teams continued winning, he was mentioned when vacancies oc-curred at larger schools. Levick says there was a time when he wanted to coach at a big school, but those ambitions have faded.

Memphis State Loses Two Centers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Memphis State basketball team has lost the services of starting senior center Tony Rufus, the Tigers' leading scorer and rebounder, because of academic ineligibility.

Rufus, who had led the Tigers with 14.9 points and 9.2 rebounds through the first 12 games of the season, will not be allowed to register next week for the spring semester, MSU athletic officials said Tuesday.

"I was totally shocked," Tiger basketball coach Wayne Yates said. "This is a tremendous blow to the team, and it puts a lot of extra pressure on our young peo-

Yates was still reeling from the news of Rufus' loss when reserve center Tommy Lowery, a 6-foot-11, 188-pound junior from Winona, Miss., said he was quitting the squad and leaving school. Lowery missed practice Tuesday afternoon.

"You'll just have to talk to Tommy to get his reasons for quitting," Yates said.

"He just came in and said he quit the team. That's all I know."

Jack Bugbee, Memphis State sports information officer, said later Tuesday evening that Lowery had changed his mind about quitting the team and leaving school after talking privately with teammates.

Bugbee said Lowery did not reveal his reasons for wanting to leave.

Lowery, who has averaged 6.2 points and 3.8 rebounds per game, could not be reached for comment.

Rufus played three years for Baylor University before transferring to Memphis

Rufus played three years for Baylor University before transferring to Memphis State in the fall of 1977. His first year at Baylor, he earned Southwest Conference freshman-of-the-year honors. MSU athletic officials said the 6-9, 220-pound senior, who sat out one year after transferring to Memphis State, is now in his fifth year of college eligibility and will not be able to play again for the Tigers.

Comeback Edges CHS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
During the halftime intermission, the iggest problem on the minds of Coronado fans was finding out when will the ice and snow from the first winter storm

After all, the Coronado Mustangs had controlled the tempo of the first half and though the score was close (42-38), there was no doubt that Coronado had out played its opponent However, the Mustangs shot as cold as the weather in the opening moments of the final quarter and the Amarillo High Sandies took advantage to edge the Mustangs 60-59 in a non district basketball game at the Coronado gym Tuesday

They beat us (Coronado) up out our place earlier in the year and we were glad to return the favor down here, ' Amarillo Coach Sterling Gibson. "But in a game like this one you never know until the ball drops."

Indeed, Gibson was right.

The Mustangs, who fell behind 50-45 midway through the final quarter, narrowed the deficit to 60-56 with 41 second s to play.

Coronado's strategy was to work the ball inside to postman Steve Ahlenius.

Ahlenius, the game's leading scorer with 18 points, took a feed pass just to the right of the lane with 27 ticks left and banked the ball off the glass. The 6-5 Mustang postman drew a foul from Amarillo High postman Kevin Wagner as Ahlenius' shot fell through the hoop. Ahlenius then sank the free throw and the Mustangs were witin a point.

So, all Amarillo had to do was run out the final 27 seconds to perserve the win. But four seconds later on the inbounds pass, guard Scott Williams was whistled for a traveling violation and the Mustang-shad the basketball again. Coronado quickly called a timeout to talk things

The Mustangs tried to work the ball back inside to Ahlenius but Amarillo's Kevin Peninger stepped in front and knocked the ball out of bounds with 13 seconds on the c lock, and Coronado called its final timeout.

"We have better plays," said Coronado coach Barry Arnwine. "We didn't execute well and we didn't get the players in the right places on the throw in.

Thus, Ahlenius was forced to take a shot from near the free throw line and the ball looped the basket and fell out. Amarillo's Peninger got his mits on the rebound to preserve the victory. The win raises the Sandies' record to 12-7. The loss drops Coronado to 10-8 on "I think we played very well," said

Mustang mentor Arnwine. "You've got to give credit to Amarillo.

Los Angeles Coach Ray Malavael said

Dallas Cowboys again Sunday in the National Football Conference championship

In September before a regular season National Football League game, Malava-si predicted the Rams "will kick the Cowboys' butts."

They then did so 27-14 in Los Angeles

Coliseum.

Malavasi said in a telephone hookup with writers Tuesday, "I'm confident our team can do the same thing Sunday."

Asked specifically what advantages he felt the Rams enjoyed, Malavasi answered, "It is to our advantage to play on grass and on our home field. We don't play many games on Astroturf."

Also, Malavasi saids "it is a possibility" the Rams have the emotional edge over the defending Super Bowl champions. The Rams have never been to the Super Bowl, trying and failing each time in the NFC title playoffs.

KINLAW SHARES HONOR

MIAMI (AP) — Oklahoma guard Reggie Kinlaw, who made 11 unassisted tackles in Monday's 31-24 Orange Bowl victory over Nebraska, shared most valuable player honors with Heisman trophy winner Billy Sims. Sims, an Oklahoma junior halfback, gained 134 yards on 25 carries Monday, scoring two touchdowns. He led the nation with a season record of 1,762 yards on 231 carries.

to Malavasi's prediction with a wry smile: "Well, they did it once. But I think we will be there (the Coliseum)."

Pressed whether the Cowboys have trouble playing on natural grass, Landry said, "I don't play on it myself. You'll have to ask the players. I guess the only reason this has come up is because we lost at Los Angeles, Washington and Miami on grass. Those were good teams. We didn't lose to many lower echelon teams on grass."

Oilers Preparing For 'Blood Bowl'

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Coach Burn Phillips, remembering the last time the Oilers played the Pittsburgh Steelers, says he will add some sideline personnel for Sunday's American Football Conference championship game. 'We're going to take along some hospital attendants and maybe a few blood donors," said Phillips, whose homey oneliners have eased the tension and helped carry the Oilers to the brink of the Super Bowl.

The last time these two teams met, Pittsburgh won 13-3 in a game where quarterback Dan Pastorini and rookie running back Earl Campbell suffered broken ribs, cornerback Willie Alexander received a broken jaw and wide receiver Mike Renfro was lost for the season with a knee injury

Renfro was the only player to have his season ended in the game, spending the rest of the year on injured reserve. Asked how many players Pittsburgh lost in that game, Phillips quipped,

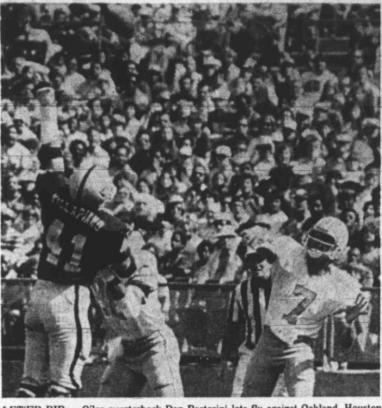

Pittsburgh puts other people's players on injured reserve. Pittsburgh, with the best regular-season record in pro football at 14-2, won the AFC Central Division title, while the Oilers placed second with a 10-6 record and got into the playoffs as a wild card team. But the Oilers, playing their best football of the season, have beaten Miami 17-9 and Eastern Conference champion New England 31-14 in successive weeks to gain the title game and their first chance at a Super Bowl berth. Phillips says the Oilers forged their own way into the championship game. "We believe we have earned the right to be playing for the AFC championship," Phillips said. "I don't think anybody can look back and say that we lucked out at any point during the season. I think everything we've done we've earned and when you do it that way you have a right to be proud.

The Oilers are a much better team in the playoffs than they were early in the regular season, Phillips said.

The Oilers resumed workouts today after getting an extra day off from drills

Vilas Takes Aussie

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) -Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, who has practiced in this country for seven weeks, saw it pay off today as he captured the $300,-000 Australian Open by defeating John Marks 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

In the women's final, Chris O'Neill, ranked only 111th in the world, defeated Anerican Betsy Nagelsen 6-3, 7-6 for the women's championship. It was the seventh straight year that an Australian woman had won the Australian national Vilas turned his back on his home country championship in November to prepare for the Australian Open, figuring a victory here would have long-term benefits for Wimbledon six months away.

"I decided in July that I wanted to play in Australia. I wanted to win one big tournament on grass. It was a very difficult decision to skip that (Argentina) tournament and come here to practice.

"I was so nervous out there because I wanted to win this tournament. How can I aim for Wimbledon if I don't win here, I thought? It is so pleasing because I was upset at Wimbledon last time when they

Alabama Boosters Irate

By MICHAEL SHALIN UPI Sports Writer

The news that Southern California had been selected as the top college football team in the country naturally did not sit too well with Alabama fans, who were quick to voice their displeasure.

Dozens of Crimson Tide supporters made long-distance telephone calls to UPI's New York bureau to register their complaints after the Tide finished just five points behind USC in the voting of UPI's Board of coaches.

'The State of Alabama is tired of getting trampled on," shouted one irate woman from Tuscaloosa. "What's wrong with you people anyway?"

Thomas Callahan, a 38-year-old retired post office employee who attended Alabama and also lives in Tuscaloosa, thinks the selection of USC was one way for the nation's coaches to "get back" at veteran Alabama coach Bear

"I think Coach Bryant does not yield or bow to the pressures of the other coaches," Callahan said. "This is just their way of getting back at him. But the ones they are hurtin' are the hard-playing football teams.

"Alabama beat the No. 1 football team and they beat 'em soundly (14-7).

"It's all politics," said one Tide follower. "We'll never have a true national champion until they find a fair way of deciding the winner. This isn't fair at all.

"Y'all got us again," said another.

Not all the calls came from Alabama fans, however. Michigan fan Jerry Guin, of Kokomo, Ind. said, "They (USC) cheated," in reference to the Trojans' controversial Rose Bowl touchdown which gave them the national crown. "Of all the teams in the running, USC did not deserve to be No. 1. It stinks.

The balloting for the UPI football ratings is done by six coaches from the seven regions of the country. For the final ballot, 35 of the 42 eligible coaches voted.

"Them coaches sure are strange," said another man. 'This is an outrage.'

One interesting sidelight to the whole thing was that there were no calls from Oklahoma supporters, who graciously accepted their No. 3 spot after going through the season with one loss and winning the Orange Bowl over Nebraska, the team that had upset them earlier in the

Permanent Wave Back In Peking

PEKING (UPI) - Peking's leading beauty shop is about half the size of a basketball court with marble floors and green and white tile walls, and it turns out an average of 180 permanent waves a Frowned on for 12 years during China's Cultural Revolution, the permanent came back to Peking in April 1978, says Liu His-tien, a 50-year-old man who bosses a mixed crew of men and women beauticians at the Tsu Lien beauty shop.

It is located in Wangfuchien Street, Peking's equivalent of New York's Broadway or Tokyo's Ginza.

Lots of Chinese women got permanents before 1965," Liu explains. "After that for about 13 years we gave them only to foreign women in Peking and actresses who needed special hair styling for their

However, in the liberalization that followed the death of the late Chairman Mao Tse-tung the official attitude toward women fixing up their hair was relaxed. Business has been booming at the Tsu Lien shop ever since.

The big room is ringed with barber's. chairs. In the middle of the floor is a long line of battered old hair dryers, some of which came from West Germany more than 20 years ago. Each dryer is occupied by a woman in the trousers that became standard female attire in the Mao era.

Liu says there are only a handful of shops like this in Peking, and the permanent wave boom obviously affects only a small minority of women in this city of 8 million people.

The full two-hour treatment costs about $1.60. It includes a haircut, shampoo and permanent wave, and it obviously can be a major economic decision in a country where the average monthly wage is around $40.

The same services by New York stylists cost from $30 to $100.

Liu has a gentle smile and the patience essential for anyone running a business that deals with beauty. He probably would have gone far in his line of work in any country. There are no advance appointments at the Tsu Lien. The customers simply appear and sit in the shop's spacious waiting room until their turn comes. Posted on the walls are portraits of 20 women with different hair stylings, from which the customer can choose. "These photos and hair styles are all from Shanghai," Liu explains. "Most of China's fashions come from Shanghai.'

In fact, the Tsu Lien beauty shop itself came from Shanghai. Its staff was uprooted in 1954 and transplanted to Peking in an effort to upgrade the fashion standards of the prosaic Chinese capital.

Liu says the shop is always crowded on holidays. The day before New Year's, the staff turned out 300 permanents by working overtime. Liu says that is the most his staff can handle in a single day.

Hair styling still has a long way to go in north China. Twin pigtails and the severe bobs favored by Mao Tse-tung's wife, Madame Chiang Ching, are worn by the overwhelming majority of women in Peking streets.

But a few who can't afford the beauty treatment are going to pony tails and bangs at the forehead.

The shop is not a private business. Almost every store and service in China is a state run enterprise, and Tsu Lien is operated by Peking's municipal govern-

SEMI-ANNUAL FOUNDATION

Waldheim Praises Mideast Efforts

tary General Kurt Waldheim has praised the Carter administration's Middle East peace efforts and the re-establishment of diplomatic ties between the United States and China.

Those two developments "will have a major role in balancing world power and will certainly change the international scene," Waldheim told a news conference Tuesday.

U.S.-China Relations Praised

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser says he believes the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and China can only be "useful and constructive to the Asian theater.

President Carter welcomed Fraser to the White House Tuesday as "one of our closest and most important allies" and thanked him for supporting U.S. recognition of China.

Fraser said he was delighted to be in Washington at a time "when the United States and the president have taken some very important initiatives" toward China.

Establishment of diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking, Fraser said. "clearly affects policy and development in our part of the world, and for these and other reasons we're delighted to be here.

"I would like to congratulate you on those initiatives," Fraser said. "I think they're important and I know not without some difficulty at home. I think they're courageous.

Carter replied: "I appreciate your strong support about normalization. I think it's going to be a very good stabilizing factor in the Western Pacific."

The White House later said Carter and Fraser met for one hour and discussed a broad range of global and regional topics" of importance to both countries, "including developments in Iran and the Middle East.

A spokesman said Carter told Fraser he intends to persevere with his Middle East initiatives."

After the meeting, Fraser told a news conference that U.S. recognition of China would remove "roadblocks to the development of U.S. policy. I would see a broadening relationship with the United States and a greater participation by China in the world community. It can only be useful and constructive to the Asian theater.

He said he and Carter discussed their 'concerns with Iran, and the extent that could affect the Indian Ocean."

Fraser said he also complimented Carter on his political courage in trying to combat inflation.

Fraser flew to Washington from Jamaica, where he attended a Third World conference with other leaders, including Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt.

Carter was planning to leave Thursday on a five-day journey to Guadeloupe to meet with British Prime Minister James Callaghan, French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and Schmidt.

Waldheim also called for a broad attack on the world energy problem and vowed to revamp "outdated" U.N. working

"The whole international economic order, for instance, depends very much on the solution of the energy problem, not only oil but also all other sources of ener-Waldheim said.

'A wise approach by the governments on both sides is necessary, from those who produce oil and those who consume it, because the future of all of us will depend on the solution of this problem."

Waldheim, who is on a three-day visit to Mexico at the invitation of President Jose Lopez Portillo, said he would submit a series of proposals to the next General Assembly session aimed at streamlining the 151-nation world body. On U.N. working methods, he said,

We have too many items on the agenda, too many long speeches in the General Assembly. Therefore I intend to propose a concrete reorganization program. Waldheim, accompanied by his wife and several advisers, planned to fly to Jamaica Thursday after a one-night stay in

"I think the United Nations is still the best instrument for achieving peaceful negotiated settlements," Waldheim said. He cited as an example the U.N. role in Namibia (South West Africa) where he said there was a "good chance to overcome the problem.

He said the Unitted Nations also was concerned with the Argentina-Chile dispute over the Beagle Channel. He said he had urged both governments to reach a peaceful solution.

On Nicaragua, Waldheim said the world organization was keeping a close eye on the developments of that strifetorn Central American nation.

Earlier in the day, Waldheim met with Lopez Portillo and briefed the Mexican president on the world situation.

Castro Blasts 'New Alliance'

MIAMI (AP) — His speech punctuated by the roar of Soviet-built warplanes, Cuban Defense Minister Raul Castro charged America's diplomatic linkup with China is an attempt to divide world revolutionaries by bribery.

Castro's fiery speech during the annual military forces review in Havana Tuesday marked Cuba's second harsh attack this week on the warming of U.S.-China ties and underscored the complaints of his brother, President Fidel Castro.

The speech was broadcast by the government radio and monitored in Miami.

"Imperialism is trying to divide the revolutionary movement throughout the world by establishing new alliances," Raul Castro said. "It is using its means of pressure, intimidation and bribe.

"It is degrading that the government of the U.S. has established official ties with China, only after China has become a collaborator of the CIA and the South African regime in backing the rebel forces ... in Angola," he said.

Castro said Cuba was sincerely trying to "put an end to 20 years of hostility" in relations with the United States, but he doubted the United States was doing the

HY GARDENER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

You never hear him talk about it, but after he graduated from high school, Jason Robards joined the Navy as an apprentice seaman and was stationed at Pearl Harbor during the bombing. He remained in the Navy for a seven-year hitch and won the Navy Cross for valor and 13 battle stars during World War II.

He's been described as a latter-day John Barrymore - because he's one of the great actors of our time. Also because if John and Jason ever got into a drinking bout, the table at which they sat would have to be extra-large so both could fit under it. Both could light up a stage by their mere presence. And both made news that delighted the gossip collectors of their times. Both were non-comformists with one big difference: Barrymore was recognized as one of the theatrical greats of his era: while Robards, who overpaid his dues to his profession, is drawn as a low profile by the writers of the day.

Born July 26, 1922, in Chicago, he grew up in Hollywood the son of an actor father who also bore the name Jason Robards. Jason . : 's big break as an actor came in 1956 when he starred in the off-Broadway, "The Iceman Cometh." He continued playing tragic parts in "Long Day's Journey Into Night" "Toys in the Attic" and several other plays - eyen switching to comedy in "A Thousand Clowns."

"I always played disintegrated characters," Robards once commented "probably because I don't know much about acting, but I can play those kind of characters."

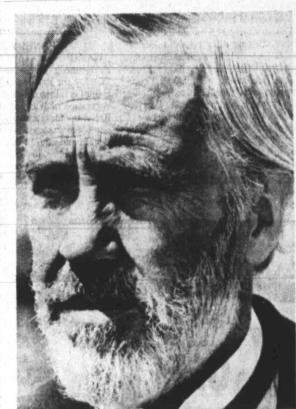

Robards has collected enough awards to open his own museum. In 1976 he made a clean sweep of the year's supporting role acting honors, including the Academy Award, the New York Film Critics, the National Society of Film Critics and the National Board of Review Awards. All this for his portrayal of the Washington Post's executive editor Ben Bradlee in "All the President's Men." He later won another Oscar for "Julia." He also received Drama Critics Awards for "Toys in the Attic" and "The Disenchanted." He added a Tony Award for his Portrayal of F. Scott Fitzgerald in the latter play.

When he met and proposed marriage to the Widow Bogart, Lauren Bacall told friends he reminded her so much of Bogey. They partnered in producing a son, Sam.

All three of Jason's earlier marriages ended in divorce. But Robards today is, finally, a happily married man with two children. His career is at its peak: he has more work than he can handle. His current film: in which he looks like a tough Santa Claus, is a blockbuster called "Comes a Horseman.

And he's so in love with his wife, producer Lois O'Connor, that when their daughter was born in 1971 by natural childbirth, the proud papa participated in the scene.

"At first," he admitted, "I didn't want to go through with it.

ACTOR - Jason Robards, the star of dozens of movies says. "I always played disintegrated characters: probably becuse I don't know much about acting but I can play that kind of character." This is how he looks in his latest. "Comes a Horseman.

Now I'm glad I did. Now I know what life is all about!"

DermaCulture

The Common Sense Approach

To Skin Care

There's no secret to a perfectly clean skin and blemish-free complexion. It's simply a matter of combining regular professional care with a little extra effort on your own. That's the DermaCulture way. And it works.

DermaCulture treatments are so moderately priced you can afford them regularly. And our home care programs are so easy they become second nature. Result: Derma-Culture has helped thousands of people look better, feel better and enjoy life more adults and teenagers alike. Shouldn't you be among them?

Soap and Water Is Just a Start

Of course it's important to clean the surface of your skin with soap and water. But the key word is surface. This time-honored cleansing method cannot penetrate pores and unclog them. Dead tissue and blemishes remain. In addition, cosmetics accumulate in face pores, along with impurities in the air. Soap and water can't always get to them. Obviously, more thorough skin cleansing is necessary. And DermaCulture Treatments fill that need.

We've Been Solving Skin Problems for 40 years

DermaCulture studios are found throughout the United States. And their number is continually growing. Each establishment follows an exclusive treatment designed to attain our goal of a clean, healthy skin for you. Derma Culture's many years of popularity and success assure you satisfaction wherever you see the DermaCulture name.

Exactly what is the DermaCulture treatment? It's a proven, scientific method of alleviating lines, dry, oily and troubled facial skin. And it's effective on men and women of all ages. Treatment starts with an hour of pure pleasure at a Derma

Here, your pores are opened by means of a Heat Mask to create a gentle moisturizing vapor, which loosens blackheads, whiteheads, dead tissue, stimulates circulation and forces waste material to the surface. Next, feather-touch but thorough vacuuming removes blemish-causing material and further stimulates circulation.

The final phase of the treatment is the toning and firming of the skin with specially designed equipment. A freshener is applied for final cleansing. During the entire treatment your skin "breathes" freely. At the conclusion of the treatment you'll notice how exceptionally clean your skin looks and feels. That's one step on the way to clearer skin — but only one. Much more remains to be done.

For example, first-time visitors are treated with an exclusive granular cleansing, which removes dead tissue. We suggest that this procedure be used regularly at

We're Not Miracle Workers

A single DermaCulture treatment in the studio cannot correct what the years may have done to your skin. Regular treatments can — provided you also follow a skin care program between visits to DermaCulture. Trained, experienced Derma-Culture specialits will help you determine which procedures are best suited to your

They will choose from an array of specially-formulated DermaCulture products that include a skin freshener, granular cleanser, facial shampoo, skin cleanser

Valuable Stamp Cover Enjoys Long History NEW YORK (AP) - One of the The aging local jeweler, De Cadenet recover was purchased by an American world's most valuable stamp covers resulted from the "touch of class" added on the invitation to a fancy dress ball, according to Alain de Cadenet, here on a goodwill tour for the British Post Office.

The wife of Sir W. Maynard Gomm, governor of the tiny British island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean, induced him to request an unusual decorative stamp for her invitations to the annual Governor's Ball scheduled for Sept. 30, lates, designed two copies of English penny and two-penny stamps on copper plates, and printed 500 of each with Mauritius on the right side and Post Office (instead of Post Paid) on the left.

Only one of the invitations apparently survived, says the BPO expert. Albert Howard of London found the rare cover in a Bombay bazaar some 50 years later and paid 50 pounds (about $250) for it. A year later he sold it to a London dealer for about $8,000. In 1906 the Mauritius named George Worthington for $11,000. Most of his collection, including the cover, was purchased by the well known collector, Alfred F. Lichtenstein, in 1917. Upon his death, Lichtenstein left vast stamp holdings to his daughter, Louise Boyd Dale, who was considered the most distinguished woman philatelist of the 20th century. Their joint collection was sold at a series of 10 auctions in 1968 for a total of
