

Embattled Shah Leaves Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — After weeks of virtual seclusion in his palace, the embattled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi left Tehran with his family today for two days of rest at a resort 40 miles east of here, a key aide said.

The aide, Ardeshtir Zahedi, also reported that the shah had issued a royal decree appointing Shahpour Bakhtiar prime minister. The shah asked Bakhtiar last weekend to form a new civilian government to try to quell Iran's political violence.

Zahedi, Iran's ambassador to Washington, said the royal family is expected to return to Tehran on Saturday, when Bakhtiar will probably present his Cabinet to the monarch and the government will be formally installed, replacing a two-month-old military administration.

There have been persistent reports that the shah, facing the strongest challenge to his rule in 25 years, would leave Iran for a vacation or medical treatment while a Bakhtiar-led administration tries to restore order after more than a year of unrest sparked by anti-shah protests.

At a news conference Wednesday, Bakhtiar said the shah "wants to rest and take a vacation — that is the desire he has expressed himself."

The shah's two-day sojourn in the resort of Jajroud clearly was not the "vacation" Bakhtiar and others had in mind. But Zahedi said it was the first time in months that the 59-year-old shah has left Tehran.

At his news conference Bakhtiar said questions about the future of the monarchy are "extremely delicate," adding he hoped to restore "the legality of the king."

The shah reportedly has promised Bakhtiar to give up much of his royal power and take a vacation, leaving a regency council to exercise royal authority while the new prime minister's civilian government attempts to end the national unrest.

Bakhtiar on Wednesday also threatened to cut off oil to Israel and South Africa and promised to curb the secret police and the army.

"We must not refuse to sell petrol to countries that request it," Bakhtiar said. "But given the conflict that we have on a religious plane with Israel... I think my government wouldn't do that."

Asked to elaborate, Bakhtiar said he thought Israel, which gets 60 percent of its oil from Iran, "should settle its disputes with Arab countries and these countries share our religion."

Although not an Arab nation, Iran is predominantly Moslem like most of the Arab world, and Ayatollah Khomeini, the exiled religious leader of the fight against the shah, has called for an end to the oil shipments to Israel. But in Washington, U.S. Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said the United States would fulfill a 1975 commitment and see that Israel was supplied if Iranian shipments to the Jewish nation were cut off.

Schlesinger urged Americans to reduce oil consumption until the resumption of Iranian production, which has been almost completely cut off by a strike against the shah. He said there was no immediate supply problem, but shortages could develop by fall if Iran isn't exporting by then. The United States normally imports about 500,000 barrels a day from Iran, or 5 percent of its needs.

Bakhtiar said he also may refuse oil to South Africa, which gets most of its oil from Iran, because of a dispute "on another plane." He refused to elaborate, but obviously was referring to the white-minority South African government's racial policies.

Khomeini, who originally called for the oil workers' strike, appealed to the strikers Wednesday from his temporary residence in France to go back to their jobs so that Iran's domestic fuel needs can be met.

Khomeini's representative Mehdi Bazargan posted appeals in mosques in Iran's oil region today, oil industry sources reported. But it was uncertain how many workers would heed his call. The sources said the strikers were badly fragmented.

Cambodian Forces Believed Faltering

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Cambodia claimed today to have blocked a major Vietnamese offensive, but analysts here said there are growing indications the Cambodian defenses are folding under methodical Vietnamese ground attacks and widespread air strikes.

The threatened Communist regime asked for a U.N. Security Council meeting to discuss the escalating conflict and won support from the Carter administration.

Official Cambodian media said Soviet-built Vietnamese jets have in the past few days bombed and strafed the key Mekong River town of Neak Luong, as well as the provincial seat of Kampong Cham and four other areas of eastern Cambodia.

The political analysts said it appeared that the Cambodian rebels are trying to capture the capital of Phnom Penh, located 35 miles northeast of Neak Luong. They added that it was difficult to gauge the escalating conflict without first-hand information.

Speculation continues that the invading forces will simply carve off a portion of the country, declare a rival government and then try to oust the radical regime of Premier Pol Pot.

Vietnam's insurgent proteges claimed to have occupied towns giving them control of some 18,000 square miles of Cambodia, or a fourth of the country, and the Mekong River.

Analysts in Bangkok believe an estimated 100,000 Vietnamese troops were doing the major fighting and that as many as 20,000 Cambodians, led by Communists who broke with the Phnom Penh government, were mopping up after them. Hanoi, meanwhile, was silent, and the month-old rebel United Front for National Salvation was doing all the talking in an attempt to portray the Vietnamese invasion as a Cambodian uprising.

The Front announced that its forces had taken Stung Treng and Lomphat, two capitals in Cambodia's northeasternmost provinces. They occupied Kratie, another northeastern provincial seat 100 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, on Saturday, and reported Tuesday they were besieging Kompong Cham, 45 miles northeast of the capital on the Mekong.

The northeast is sparsely populated and, except for some hydroelectric potential, economically unimportant. But the central part of eastern Cambodia is rich rubber plantation country.

Another Vietnamese force was reported driving into southern Cambodia through the Parrot's Beak salient in an attempt to cut off Phnom Penh from the coast. Radio Phnom Penh charged that a Vietnamese air attack destroyed homes and killed patients in Neak Luong.

The Cambodian government claimed its army had killed 14,000 Vietnamese troops since the drive started Christmas Day, destroyed 84 tanks and downed one MiG jet.

Deputy Prime Minister Jeng Sary cabled the U.N. Security Council asking for an urgent meeting to condemn "Vietnamese aggression." He said Vietnam was violating Cambodia's territorial integrity "and threatening peace, security, independence and stability in Southeast Asia and the world."

The 15-nation council is not expected to meet on the Cambodian petition until next week, after a government delegation from Phnom Penh arrives in New York.

In Washington, the Carter administration expressed opposition to the Vietnamese invasion. State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said although the United States "takes exception to the human rights record of the Kampuchean (Cambodian) regime, we do not feel as a matter of principle that unilateral intervention by an outside power is justified."

He added that the administration was in favor of a Security Council session on Cambodia and wants to see the war ended without "great power involvement."

The "human rights" reference was to reports that the Phnom Penh government slaughtered hundreds of thousands of people and forced legions of other politically-suspect residents out of the cities to become farmers.

A Lubbock man was charged today with capital murder and three other persons were named in aggravated robbery charges in connection with the robbery and murder more than seven months ago of Carlos G. Herrera at his New Deal residence.

Two Nabbed In Hospital Shooting

MARION, S.C. (AP) — At least two masked gunmen seeking drugs broke into a hospital, shot an orderly and abducted a nurse, police said. They later freed the nurse and returned to the hospital, where they surrendered.

Authorities said they were looking for two other men who may have been involved in the incident. Police had said originally that a third gunman was barricaded in the facility.

Authorities said the incident began about midnight, when the gunmen entered through the front door of the small Palmetto General Hospital and went to the pharmacy demanding drugs.

They shot an orderly who tried to flee and then took a nurse hostage and left in a car provided by police. They abandoned the car about two blocks away, leaving the nurse unharmed in the trunk, according to Bobby T. Phillips, administrator of nearby Marion Memorial Hospital.

The gunmen slipped back into the small hospital about 3 a.m. today and barricaded themselves near the pharmacy, authorities said.

Law enforcement officers, including the Highway Patrol, Marion County sheriff's deputies and Marion city police, surrounded the hospital, said Hugh Munn, of the State Law Enforcement Division.

They called relatives of the men to persuade them to give up.

Phillips said the orderly, Robin Vondroff, 25, of Marion, was in stable condition at Marion Memorial Hospital.

Vondroff was admitted to the facility shortly after 5 a.m. suffering from "multiple gunshot wounds with birdshot," according to hospital officials.

The arrests were made simultaneously about 4 a.m. today in the city and Idalou. Ignacio Gonzales Jr., 19, of 308 35th St., No. 8, was charged with capital murder in connection with the multiple stabbing and shooting death of Herrera.

The 60-year-old Herrera was found May 13, 1978, in his New Deal home, suffering from more than 20 stab wounds and a single bullet wound in the chest.

Criminal District Attorney John Montford, in office for less than a week after being elected on a campaign to crack down on major crimes, announced the filing of the charges in a late-morning news conference.

Charged with aggravated robbery in connection with the incident were Guadalupe Gonzales, 32, of 909 40th St.; Israel Gonzales, 46, of 210 E. 36th St.; and Irene Rios Gonzales, 22, of 523 40th St.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith denied bond for Ignacio Gonzales. Bonds of $100,000 each were set for Guadalupe Gonzales and Israel Gonzales by Smith. No bond had been set on Irene Gonzales.

All four suspects were being held this morning in Lubbock County Jail.

Montford said the arrests were aided by close cooperation between Texas Rangers, sheriff's deputies, police and investigators from his own office. Montford, who has been in office only four days, indicated the arrests were only the

Unions Oppose Cut In Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Auto Workers President Douglas F. Fraser charged today the Carter administration will be "breaking faith with American workers" if it recommends trimming some Social Security benefits in the fiscal 1980 budget.

News reports have indicated President Carter, in the budget he will send to Congress on Jan. 22, will propose eliminating several benefits to save money.

The proposals reportedly include cutting out the $255 death benefit, eliminating survivors' benefits for students aged 18 to 21 and ending the minimum benefit of $121 a month.

Fraser told the Advisory Council on Social Security he has "no way of knowing how reliable the information is." But he castigated Carter for bypassing the council in considering benefit reductions.

"Many of our negotiated contracts take into account the Social Security benefits. Our members, and all workers, count on them," he said. "I believe the federal government should not break faith with American workers by proposing important benefit changes without ample time for discussion of the pros and cons."

Fraser also told the council that payroll taxes should be frozen at the 1980 level and general tax revenues tapped to make up for the lost Social Security taxes. The council is a panel of outside specialists chartered by Congress to conduct a major review of Social Security every four years.

The maximum Social Security tax this year will be $1,404 on income of $22,900 or more, a tax increase of $333 over last year. By 1980, the maximum tax will be $1,588 on wages of $25,900 or more.

Rep. Thomas A. Luken, D-Ohio, testified that payroll taxes should be rolled back to 1977 levels, when the maximum tax was $965 on wages up to $16,500.

Luken also said he opposes forcing all government workers to be brought into the Social Security system. An Ohio teachers group also told the council it preferred to stick with its own pension plan.

Several other public employee unions urged the council not to recommend to Congress that Civil Service retirement plans be merged with Social Security. But the one-million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees said it favors universal coverage, provided civil servants' existing pension rates are protected.

The council was holding its fifth and final round of public hearings here today and Friday.

The panel, which will issue a report in October, already has heard from nearly 300 persons in hearings in Detroit, Los Angeles, New Orleans and Miami. Lawrence H. Thompson, its executive director, said universal coverage and the treatment of women lead the list of public concerns.

Council reports are conducted every four years. The 1975 council called for universal coverage, as have many experts who studied government workers' pension systems.

Although nine million state and local government workers are covered by Social Security, about 3.7 million others are not. Also outside the system are members of Congress and the 2.8 million federal civilian workers.

Freeze To Hike Price Of Food

By BOB WILLIAMS

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock residents can expect to pay 25 to 50 percent more for fresh produce within the next 30 days as a result of a bitter freeze which hit the Lower Rio Grande Valley's crops this week, according to local produce suppliers.

One supplier predicts damage from the freeze will be reflected in Lubbock's orange and grapefruit supplies within the next three days.

Other crops, such as cucumbers, bell peppers and cabbage "will increase at least 20 to 25 percent for Lubbock residents later in the season" said Joe Kizer, manager of Deardorff Enterprises, Inc.

"If all of the Texas crop is ruined, we'll have to turn to California, and they will raise their prices to adjust to the demands," he added.

Temperatures dropped as low as 19 degrees early Wednesday in the valley, and freezing temperatures tonight were expected to endanger the Florida winter crop.

The Texas freeze is the valley's worst in 17 years, and coupled with the potential for damage in Florida and a December freeze in California's winter garden, experts predict higher prices everywhere for fresh produce.

One employee of a local produce company said that it's too early to determine the extent of the valley's freeze damage, but by next Wednesday experts should have a good indication of the overall crop rotting.

Jim Hall, assistant manager for Furr's produce, said that it's been a bad growing situation for everybody. "Overall it's rough all the way around. The whole nation has had a problem in its growing areas," he said. He added ruined shipments are already coming in from the valley. "We received a shipment of cabbage from the valley this morning with ice on it," he said.

"I expect to see an increase in grapefruit, oranges and cabbage prices within the next 30 days," Hall said. He predicted a price increase in fresh produce of at least 20 percent, and pointed out that the Imperial Valley in New Mexico, where a major supply of the nation's winter lettuce crop is located, is currently experiencing freezing weather, which will dampen hopes for a decrease in lettuce prices unless warmer temperatures save the crops this week.

Costs for shipping produce from California and Florida, and the higher demand for such shipments, automatically creates price increases for the buyer and the shopper, he added.

An area onion supplier said his valley grower told him at least 20 percent of his onion crop has been lost to the freeze.

temperatures drop below freezing, a spokesman at the National Weather Service said this morning.

Precipitation also is forecast Saturday, with more of a chance of snow, the spokesman said.

Highways already were beginning to ice up late this morning in the area east and northeast of Dallas, the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation reported.

Freezing drizzle was falling in the Dallas district this morning, according to department officials, with highway icing in the Paris area and in Van Zandt County.

In West Texas, ice patches still spotted major roadways as a result of the winter storm earlier this week.

The return of wintry weather conditions to the South Plains — the second storm system to belt the area in less than a week — will be caused by a wave of cold air pushing south into West Texas and meeting an eastward-bound Pacific upper atmosphere disturbance carrying moisture, the spokesman explained.

The frigid air to the north is part of the giant Arctic air mass that has blanketed the Midwestern states for a week, and which last weekend swept through Texas bringing ice and snow and zero temperature readings.

The high temperature Friday in Lubbock should hover near the freezing mark, the spokesman said, and skies will be cloudy with the threat of precipitation estimated at 40 percent.

The extended forecast for the South Plains region shows considerable cloudiness persisting through Saturday before clearing Sunday and Monday. Cold weather is forecast through the weekend, with highs in the 40s and lows dropping into the teens and 20s.

With inclement weather on the way, Lubbock residents may not want to waste today. The temperature is expected to rise into the 40s this afternoon, and, though skies will be mostly cloudy, precipitation is not forecast during the daylight hours.

Winds will be southeasterly at five to 10 mph today, shifting to an easterly direction at 10 to 15 mph tonight.

Relatively balmy conditions prevailed Wednesday as the mercury climbed from an early morning low of 18 degrees to a high of 39 degrees, a welcome respite from the sub-freezing temperatures earlier in the week. An early morning low of 25 degrees was recorded at 6 a.m. today.

Border-Nation Turmoils Have Soviets Concerned

By HARRY DUNPHY
MOSCOW (AP)—Serious trouble spots are developing along vast areas of the Soviet Union's non-European borders — more problems than the Soviets have had to deal with at one time since World War II, Western diplomatic analysts say. Clearly, it has the Kremlin worried.

Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Afghanistan have known periods of turmoil before, but never have all been so unstable simultaneously.

Complicating the picture is China, which has a troubled 4,350-mile border with the Soviet Union and has just opened diplomatic relations with the United States.

It adds up to this: With the exception of Mongolia, Kremlin strategists are now faced with uncertainty in every country that the U.S.S.R. borders from the Middle East to the Pacific.

In addition to developments in China, the Kremlin must consider that:

Iran, which separates the Soviet Union from the Persian Gulf and has ethnic links to Azerbaijanis and Turkmenis living in the U.S.S.R., has been wracked by fighting aimed at deposing Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. Iran has been pro-West, but also supplies the Soviets with natural gas. And the foreign policy of any successor would be hard to predict.

In Turkey, a NATO member whose government has taken steps toward normalizing relations with Moscow, martial law has been declared after rioting in the eastern part of the country.

In Afghanistan, the Soviets have become deeply involved in the survival of a fragile regime. And in Pakistan, whose border with Afghanistan comes within a few miles of the Soviet Union, deposed Premier Zulfikar Ali Bhutto is appealing a death sentence — which, if carried out, could split his nation.

The Peking regime capped a year of vigorous diplomatic activity by normalizing relations with the United States — a move that prompted uneasiness in the Kremlin about the objectives behind it.

Diplomatic sources are uncertain what to expect now. They say it is possible to argue that the Russians' concern over developments in Asia and China will make them more accommodating toward the West — or that they will do anything they can to prove that expectation wrong.

"I don't think there's been a time since the war when the Soviets have had to cope with so many problems at the same time," said one senior Western envoy. "They are masters at the international chess board but there are too many imperponderables at present to move with confidence in one game, let alone in several."

One factor the Kremlin must consider is whether its own Moslem population could be swept up in the Islamic revival in the Arab world, Iran and Pakistan. One in seven Soviet citizens is a Moslem.

The stakes are greatest in oil-rich Iran. The Soviet press has accused the Carter administration of spreading "new provocative fabrications about Soviet threats to its own use of 'gunboat diplomacy.' Branding the Communist Party a 'Trotskyist,' has charged repeatedly in the past that the United States is interfering in its affairs, citing reports that U.S. officials are heading for the Gulf."

The House said Wednesday that the carrier Constitution and accompanying ships are still in the South China Sea with no indication they will be moved nearer Iran.

The Soviet attacks on U.S. policy in Iran, blamed toward that country in stepped-up Persian-language broadcasts, have been coupled, diplomats say, with an effort to hedge bets on the Shah so the Russians can take advantage of the situation if he loses a throne.

When the recent troubles began, the Soviet press reflected the official view that the Shah was preferable to any alternative and printed Western news service dispatches from Tehran. Now Pravda has a correspondent in Tehran reporting on the "popular uprising."

By contrast, there has been little comment on the situation in Turkey, which is strategically placed between the Soviet Union and the Middle East. Diplomatic sources say the Soviets are used to periodic unrest in Turkey. The official news agency blamed the troubles there on "provocations of the right extremists."

The Soviets prefer Premier Bulent Ecevit's leftist coalition to a conservative or military government because he has taken steps to normalize relations with Moscow, diplomats say.

The U.S.S.R. is more deeply committed to seeing the fragile regime of Premier Nur Mohammed Taraki hold on in Afghanistan. To insure this, Western diplomats say, the Soviets have increased the number of advisers by four times to 5,000 since Taraki seized power last April.

Last month Taraki came to Moscow to sign a treaty of friendship and cooperation with the Soviet Union that is sure to increase concern in the West, as well as in Peking, that Afghanistan has become a new base for Soviet adventurism, particularly in Iran and Pakistan.

But the Kremlin has backed a regime that is deeply unpopular with Afghanistan's Moslem and tribal population, diplomats say. The program of Marxist industrialization the government has proclaimed is getting substantial attention in the Soviet press, but it could create the same conditions that touched off unrest in Iran.

An important part of the opposition to the Shah is based on conservative Moslem objections to his methods in modernizing Iran.

In Pakistan, the Soviet Union — along with the West and Peking — is keeping a wary eye while waiting for the decision on whether Bhutto will be executed. Such a move could touch off demonstrations by Bhutto supporters that would pose a threat to Pakistan's unity, already under strain by demands of the frontier province and Baluchistan for greater autonomy.

SCHOOL PARALYSIS

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 11 percent of Cincinnati's public school students failed last year, the highest rate for 20 years, according to a recent study. The percentage of students not promoted increased at every level, according to the study by Albert Rouse, associate director of testing services for about 60,000 students. "If you're talking about graduates of the Cincinnati public schools, you're talking kids who've been exposed to failure," Rouse said.

CASH GRAIN
CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean and grain futures declined Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade, partly on a drop last week in export sales.

Soybeans led in price losses that came mostly on local and commission house selling, with commercial buyers providing some price support in the corn pit.

Grain and soybean exports last week, as reported by the Agriculture Department after the close Tuesday, were unexpectedly small, analysts said.

During the holiday-shortened week, soybean exports at 10.8 million bushels were 36 percent lower than the previous week. Wheat shipments at 11.1 million bushels were 48 percent lower and corn exports at 26.5 million bushels were 22 percent lower.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Feeding A 'Conspiracy'

IN CONCLUDING that President John F. Kennedy "was probably assassinated as a result of a conspiracy," the House Assassinations Committee made certain that the debate will rage on for centuries. With no evidence to support its conclusion except for an acoustical analysis of a tape recording, the Committee contradicted the Warren Commission decision that Lee Harvey Oswald alone was responsible for the Nov. 22, 1963, shooting in Dallas. Similarly, the Committee ended its two-year $5.8 million investigation by saying that it believes "on the basis of the circumstantial evidence available to it, that there is a likelihood that James Earl Ray assassinated Dr. Martin Luther King as a result of a conspiracy."

THE COMMITTEE did not even state its reason for its conclusion in the King case. It presumably had in mind an allegation that a now-dead St. Louis lawyer offered a $50,000 reward for the murder of the Negro civil rights leader. As in the Kennedy case, the Committee stretched to the limits of credibility to keep alive the conspiracy theories that have swirled around the deaths. In the King case, accused slayer Ray was heard by the Committee and, in the opinion of most observers, his own testimony demolished theories that had been advanced by him and by his attorney, Mark Lane, who shortly was to turn up again as lawyer for Jim Jones just prior to the Jonestown massacre in Guyana.

THERE ALWAYS HAS been reason to doubt whether President Kennedy's assassination was the work of Oswald acting alone. However, the Committee's two-year study failed miserably to turn up any credible evidence to indicate a conspiracy. Then, in the waning days of its legal authority (and its multi-million-dollar appropriation), the panel came up with its "bombshell."

A recording which might have been made by an open mike on a police officer's motorcycle radio, which might have been parked in the vicinity of the assassination, was analyzed.

On the basis of scientific studies, the Committee decided, the acoustical evidence "establishes a high probability that two gunmen fired at President Kennedy."

As for corroborating evidence, the panel was reduced to saying other evidence "does not preclude the possibility" of two gunmen. It's enough to feed a conspiracy theorist for at least a century.

James J. Kilpatrick:

Jerry Ford--Decent American

WASHINGTON—The most decent man in America's public life came ambulating into a dining room at the Sheraton Park one day a couple of weeks ago, filling the doorway with his bulk and filling our hearts with his sheer good nature. Who could ever stay mad at Jerry Ford?

The former President had come to have breakfast with a few old-timers in the press corps. It wasn't much of a crowd—Hamilton Jordan or Jody Powell would have rolled out 20 reporters more—but Ford is no longer much of a source for news.

He was preceded by a couple of Secret Service men, as ferociously silent as a pair of those ornamental China dogs that guard the doorways of Peking, but otherwise no trace of a presidential aura could be perceived.

The presidency changes all men who hold it, and doubtless the presidency changed Jerry Ford—but it didn't change him much.

THE FIRST questions had to do with how Carter and his aides handled the economy. "They've blown it," said Ford. "It's been a disaster." His normally ruddy face turned a little ruddier. "Their own uncertainties and mistakes have produced a crisis."

He had the figures to prove it—his record on inflation compared to their record on inflation. The measures of performance would make him look pretty good.

"How about measuring your records on unemployment?" a pesky reporter asked. Ford had some figures here, too.

Yes, there were more people unemployed than now, but his administration had taken a calculated risk of higher unemployment in order to fight the worse social evil of inflation. Carter was facing the same hard choice.

WHAT WOULD Ford do now? Well, said the former President affably, he'd do just about what Carter is doing now: He would impose a policy of stern fiscal restraint, and he would stick absolutely to the goal of holding the budget deficit for 1980 under $30 billion.

"That's the key," he said, tapping a forefinger on the table for emphasis. "If he loses that, it's down the drain."

Kenneth May

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Burned Toast

MY NEIGHBOR Twice Removed says it took him a while but he's finally figured out why President Carter is "normalizing" relations with Red China. Says it's part of a CIA plot to topple the Communist regime.

The clue, says My NTR, was in all the toasts hoisted last weekend between American and Chinese diplomats.

He recalls that, just one year ago, Carter and the Shah of Iran were similarly toasting one another—with Carter declaring Iran to be "an island of stability" in that part of the world.

Unionized oil refinery workers complain they are underpaid at an average of $9.32 an hour. That's about like Dolly Parton complaining that she's underdeveloped.

January is like the federal government. It's at that awkward stage between yesterday's generous give-aways and tomorrow's bankruptcy.

TWO VISITORS on separate occasions in recent days have made it a point to stop by and complain that City Hall is failing in its duty to enforce the weed-mowing ordinance.

You'd think that, by the dead of winter, Mayor Dirk West and the City Council would have seen to the job. I'm sure if they'd order him to that City Mgr. Larry Cunningham would get 1978's weeds mowed before 1979 is a month old.

Holmes Alexander:

'Traveler' Thinks It Through

WASHINGTON—"How come the United States is still alive?" asked the Returning Traveler who'd been away for a while.

"The way I see it, Democratic President Jimmy Carter was turned into a Republican by force of circumstances, and somehow we began to learn things from professional football coaches who always study the other team's tactics. Is that how it was?"

You might say that you're simplifying it a bit, the Traveler was told.

True enough, the President set out to undo much of the infrastructure and the superstructure of the Great Society and New Frontier, which is what the Republicans have been trying for years.

But Jimmy tried not to become a turncoat President. After all, he was playing it pretty anti-Republican when he managed to give away the Panama Canal which a Republican President had seized.

AND HE'S MAKING motions toward selling out Nationalist China to make friends with Red China—something the Democrats would cherish.

"But," resumed the Traveler, "I was wondering if America is still alive because, for one thing, President Carter has made a beginning at chopping away the Democratic trashpile of government regulations and do-good agencies with dozens of do-nothing employees."

A lot of Americans still have their juries out, the Traveler was warned. What Jimmy says and what Jimmy does aren't always the same thing.

"It struck me," said the Traveler "that Jimmy might be learning something out of the enemy's playbook. For example, there's been a total turnaround of attitudes toward nuclear war."

"YOU NOTICE that nobody in government circles ever talks about nuclear war being 'unthinkable' and 'unwinnable.' The Russians thought that one out, and now we are playing catch-up in Civil Defense."

"Now Jimmy has moved Civil Defense leadership from the Pentagon to the White House. He intends to follow the Russians and save as much of the citizenry and industry as possible."

Just so it isn't too late, was the reply to the Traveler's remark. He may have noticed something else that explains why America is still alive.

"Yes," said the Traveler, "I notice that it's no longer verboten to mention a preventive strike that would put many Russian missiles out of action before they could fire."

"Just the knowledge that we have this strategy in mind would help keep the Kremlin jittery, which is a plus. It's all wrong for America to be a cowering, pitiful, helpless giant."

The Traveler was asked about the stamped envelope he was carrying, addressed to President Carter.

"I clipped something from a Brezhnev speech,"

"Railroad rights of way are the worst," D.M. McElroy alleged. "They never cut their weeds."

Others before him have complained that weeds along railroad tracks are an insult to the city. They wonder, first, why the railroads would not voluntarily keep the weeds down and, second, why City Hall attorneys would permit the situation to continue year after year.

A day or so after McElroy's visit, Syd Moore stepped in to say he has pictures of disgraceful weed conditions within eyesight of City Hall, the Civic Center and other downtown City properties.

A City Hall that can afford to have so many big wheels riding around in City-owned staff cars surely can afford to have them look out the windows and report weed ordinance violations—and then prosecute violators.

Golly Ned, Jane Fonda, ain't it just amazing that so many thousands of Vietnamese are fleeing the country now that the mean old U.S. imperialistic forces aren't there to "persecute" them any longer?

I HAVE NO scientific evidence on which to base it, but it seems to me that a good hard freeze like we've just had portends good rainfall in the year ahead.

Mild winters are associated in my mind with a windy, dusty spring and dry croplands.

On the other hand, I have the impression that extremely cold weather in the winter has been followed by springtime moisture and a good crop year.

It'd be interesting to run back through the records and see if I'm right.

In Maryland, the outgoing attorney general arranged for two of his assistants to be sworn in as the state's attorney general for a few hours each as a "nice gesture."

If the idea catches on, we can look forward to a few hours of President Jody Powell, President Hamilton Jordan and maybe even President Amy Carter...

IT MATTERED not to 10 labor unions that the Washington Star was going in the hole by millions of dollars a year.

Only after management had convinced the unions that it would declare bankruptcy and close the doors did they agree to "renegotiate" their contracts.

Among the terms of the new contract proposals was a provision that the Star can "buy out" 80 unneeded printers, thus reducing its fat payrolls.

Before reaching an agreement, the printers' union had taken the position that a federal judge could force the newspaper to stay open even if it were losing money.

It's not surprising that the union bosses would take that position. After all, the federal government has been operating that way for years!

said the Traveler. "I have been sickened by the return of our Henry Wallace agriculture when pigs were slaughtered and farmers paid for not planting crops."

"A couple of years ago we saw ranchers shooting calves in a starving world to keep the price up. Krushchev in a Baku speech not only spoke thankfully for an abundant harvest, but called for getting it to market."

"He said, 'It is necessary for every harvest machine, truck, tractor, every purveying enterprise to work literally around the clock and with the greatest efficiency. I'd like to hear Carter say the same to our agribusiness."

But doesn't the Traveler know that capitalism says the producer must get his profit before the consumer gets his meal?

"If capitalism says that," declared the Traveler, "capitalism is a fool. It's time we learned better."

Sylvia Porter:

What '79 Will Mean To Your Pocketbook

WHAT WILL 1979 mean to you in terms of your own pocketbook, job security, cost of living, other vital money aspects?

It will be the toughest year you have had to face since the slump of the mid-1970s—and that was the most severe business downturn of the entire post-World War II era.

Yet, if you handle it right on your own, and if the White House remains determined to work with an equally determined Congress to tackle our fundamental challenge of inflation, it could, paradoxically, turn out to be a rewarding year for you, too.

The question is not whether 1979 will or will not be a tough year. It will be.

IT WILL BE blotted by a persistently high rate of inflation, averaging a destructive 8 percent or more. It will be threatened by an upsurge in joblessness and bankruptcies as the pace of business slows, stalls, then turns downward.

It will be made even more difficult for millions of you by unanticipated shortages of essential goods and services, both imported and domestically produced.

It will be an economy laboring under the triple burden of an aged expansion, record high interest rates, intolerably steep inflation.

The question is scarcely whether it will be tough! The only questions are: How grim will we permit these obviously adverse forces to become?

TO WHAT EXTENT will we make progress in cooperating with other great industrial nations in curbing inflation and stabilizing our monetary system so the system can support an ever-growing volume of world trade?

Will President Carter have the guts to refuse to be lobbied by big-time labor and business into caving in on an anti-inflation program and merely by his caving-in make all but inevitable an inflationary blowoff and a subsequent deep crash?

Some questions!

But in the immediate future, here are pocketbook certainties and probabilities for you:

(1) Your cost of living will continue oppressively high and it's more than possible that with price pressures building in food, energy, and other basic raw materials, we'll move back to double-digit inflation rates before any easing of inflation begins.

THIS MEANS the longest, worst cost-push inflation in our history is still not under any control—despite all the "pretty promises" from Washington.

Yet you can beat it by learning and scrupulously obeying the fundamental rules for buying food, clothing, shelter, other essentials.

Shop the food specials, substitute and switch to less expensive but equally nutritious foods when prices of your favorites soar, take advantage of seasonal sales, look for bargains in discount stores, stock up on basic styles in clothing during clearances, etc.

(2) Unless you're in a recession-proof field or are uniquely protected, your job will be less secure than in years. Honestly appraise your own job security, your value to your company.

IF YOU'RE vulnerable, start now to reduce your vulnerability. If you're an executive in a company being taken over or merged, be just as honest in your appraisal, for the more prominent you are, the more vulnerable you may be.

There can't be two sets of identical officers at any level. If one is to go, will it be you?

(3) If you're trying to sell a house in a suburb or exurb, you'll find this more difficult, because of the softening of the economy, the stiff cost and rising scarcity of mortgage credit, and the climbing costs of transportation. The same applies if you're trying to sell land or to build new houses.

But if you're on the buying side and have the funds to offset the adverse factors, you may find 1979 the best period in a long time to look.

(4) Borrowing money will be hard and costly, with interest rates at today's stifling levels and the Federal Reserve System so intent on clamping down on credit to brake inflation.

BUT SAVING MONEY will bring you the highest returns in years—record or near-record rates.

And your choice of savings mediums is the broadest ever. What hurts the borrower, in short, helps the saver—a perfect illustration of the two sides of the meaning of 1979's economy to you.

Tough and rough the year will be, without doubt. But loaded with subtle opportunities, if you will seize them.

Serious Heart Disease

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I wish you would comment on angina pectoris as to its symptoms, seriousness and effects on one. I have heard it talked about but never really understood what it is. I've more or less thought of it as a nuisance condition.
DEAR READER — I'm afraid that it is a lot more than a nuisance. If you really have angina pectoris, it means you have serious heart disease.
 Classically, angina pectoris is chest pain usually involving the area of the sternum (breast bone) right in the middle of the chest. It's a pressure sensation. It may be described as having a weight on the chest or a constricting feeling. This unpleasant sensation is primarily caused by insufficient blood flow to the heart muscle.
 The poor circulation to the heart muscle is usually caused by obstruction of the arteries to the heart by fatty-cholesterol deposits. Many years ago Dr. Paul Dudley White pointed out that when a person first started to have angina pectoris it usually meant that he had an underlying heart attack.
 The person who has persistent recurring angina pectoris usually has a pattern to it. Most often the pain will develop during exertion. That's why it's called exertional angina. The pain usually goes away when the person stops exertion.

 I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris, to give you more information on how these conditions are related to each other. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
 One of the hallmarks of true angina pectoris is its short duration, usually less than five to 10 minutes. It can also be caused by excitement and sometimes from eating. In general, the more severe the obstruction of the arteries to the heart, the easier it is to precipitate attacks of chest pain.
 The treatment and the long term management is much like the treatment of a person after a heart attack — weight reduction, diet and control of blood pressure. In addition, there are medicines that can be taken to provide immediate relief from anginal pain and still others that seem to improve the efficiency of the circulation to the heart muscles.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I have been taking a warm bath before retiring each night as I found that this helps to relieve daily tensions and is sleep inducing. In the morning I take a shower to start the day. I am not trying to be facetious but a friend has told me that this is too much — that it can be harmful. Is taking a bath at night and a shower in the morning harmful?
DEAR READER — It doesn't need to be. As people get older they sometimes develop dry skin. Excessive bathing particularly with effective soaps may tend to dry out the skin even more. This can lead to itching and irritation. If you don't have this problem, there is no reason that you can't bathe as frequently as you choose to.
 You can put a drop or two of oil on your bath towel after you've finished your bath or shower and use that for your body. The oil will be gradually spread in a thin amount all over the skin and act as a moisturizer.

Carter, Nation's Mayors Divided On Funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and the nation's mayors are at odds despite the Carter administration's promise to ask Congress to restore anti-recession relief for the cities.
 White House press secretary Jody Powell announced Wednesday that President Carter will ask for $400 million over the next two years in "counter-cyclical revenue sharing" for the more needy cities.
 Powell also said another authorization, for $500 million, would be sought but would be distributed only if unemployment drops below a triggering level still to be determined.
 "We are most pleased to learn that the president is going forward with the program, but unless they have a program that's geared to local unemployment it's not going to do what is needed," said Thomas Cochran, deputy director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.
 The White House commitment to try again for the program which failed in the last Congress marked a qualified victory for the mayors, who have been pressing Carter on the subject. But the figures are drastically below Carter's 1978 proposals.
 The so-called counter-cyclical program began in 1976 with $1.25 billion to help cities caught in the crunch of recession and shrinking tax bases. It was renewed in 1977 for one year at $1.6 billion.
 With unemployment down, Carter proposed a $500 million extension last year to help cities still in need phase out their dependence on the program. This measure passed the Senate but died in the House, and the program expired last Sept. 30.
 The counter-cyclical plan allows federal aid to go to areas with high unemployment when that problem is eroding the region's tax base.

 The last checks went out in July, and several big cities with chronic high unemployment who had counted on the federal money were severely hit. New York City, for example, had expected $40 million which never came. Chicago lost $10 million.
 Municipal employees were laid off and services curtailed in some cities.
 Administration sources, who asked not to be named, said the new proposal is still considered a phase-out to ease the withdrawal pains and not a permanent extension.

"The key is having a program geared to the local unemployment rate, so that those cities like Newark and Detroit will be covered," Cochran said.
 "If you have a program geared to a national unemployment rate of 6 percent or 6.5 percent, that's not going to do a thing for Newark right now because the national rate is below that whereas the rate in Newark is 14 and 9 in Detroit," Cochran said.
 Administration sources said the formula for picking the recipient cities has not been determined and there is no list of eligible cities.

McDonald's Blamed For U.S. Ills

MOSCOW (UPI) — First it was lies about worms in the hamburgers. Then Martha's Vineyard scorned them. Now, McDonald's hamburger empire is being singled out as standing for all that is wrong with America.
 The Soviet Union's weekly New Times newspaper said Wednesday that McDonald's exploits workers with low pay, grinds out poor quality food and bends the minds of America's youth with slick advertising.
 "McDonald's fully exploits the mentality of the average American who tends to look down upon the whole world from across the two oceans," New Times said.
 It charged that Big Mac buns are pumped full of air, and the tomatoes are chemically treated to look fresh. It did not mention the recent spate of rumors about worms in the hamburgers, all of which were roundly denied by McDonald's.
 "It (McDonald's food) looks appetizing if one does not know of the technological and chemical manipulations that are concealed from the public eye," the international-affairs weekly said.

 New Times said the Big Mac was a "clearly poor quality product" and asked why it continues to yield ever bigger profits.
 The key, it said, was a multimillion-dollar advertising budget and a patriotic campaign to make the hamburger empire synonymous with America — complete with American flags out front and a plastic eagle.

Grumman Fined For Payoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Grumman Aircraft Co. has admitted it concealed foreign payoffs that may have exceeded $7.6 million to promote sale of the firm's luxurious Gulf Stream II executive jets.
 U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch fined the company the maximum $120,000 — $10,000 for each of 12 counts — after the company pleaded guilty Wednesday to filing false reports with the government.
 The Justice Department made a plea settlement with Grumman and agreed not to prosecute any individuals in connection with the foreign bribery, which took place between 1974 and early 1977.
 Grumman was renamed Gulf Stream American Corp. by American Jet Industries Inc., which bought the firm last September.
 Government lawyers said they decided against pressing charges against any Grumman executives "due in part to the division of duties and responsibilities within the corporate structure, and in part to the necessity during the investigation of giving immunity to certain middle management employees."
 The department said three executives were aware of some or all of the payoffs. They are Charles Vogeley, senior vice-president for commercial jet marketing; Joseph Anckner, a senior marketing official, and Richard Hodge, head of Latin American sales.
 The Justice Department now has prosecuted four American companies on charges stemming from foreign bribery. In each case the payoffs took place before enactment of a tough new law in December, 1977, which makes corporate bribes to foreign officials punishable by up to five years in prison.

 Grumman was accused of concealing the payoffs in reports filed with the U.S. Export-Import Bank, which provided loans to five foreign governments and a private Venezuelan corporation that purchased the jets.
 The twin-engined planes, which seat 10 to 12 and cost about $6 million apiece, were sold to the countries of Sabah, Togo, the United Arab Emirates, Saudi Arabia and Morocco, and a private corporation in Venezuela called CEDICA.
 The Justice Department is uncertain as to the full amount of the bribes and what foreign officials, if any, ended up with the money. The payoffs initially went to middlemen who acted as "sales agents" for the aircraft company.
 In one case the Justice Department cited, the company intended to pay $450,000 to sell a jet to Morocco in 1977.

The money was placed in two bank accounts in the country of Liechtenstein, the government said. The Justice Department said one account was controlled by former Lebanese Prime Minister Saib Salam and the other was controlled by Abdul Karim Dendashy.

Coal Mining Cornerstone Of Poland's Economy

BOGDANKA, Poland (AP) — Poland is tapping new seams of high-quality coal deep beneath farmland near the Soviet frontier in an effort to earn hard currency from the energy-hungry West.

Four new shafts are being drilled under the flat countryside in southeast Poland to exploit the bituminous coal, using advanced "earth freezing" technology to stabilize shifting soil down to 3,264 feet.

Heavy borrowing for imports to meet consumer demands and development needs has left Poland $14 billion in debt to the West, second only to the Soviet Union, Western economists say.

Poland is now the world's second biggest exporter of bituminous and coking coal. It exported 40.5 million tons this year, about half of which went to the West. The United States leads with 128 million tons of exports.

Mining of bituminous and brown coal, or lignite, "are and will continue to be the cornerstone of the national economy," the official Polish news agency Interpress said recently. "Coal already accounts for about 15 percent of Poland's convertible-currency export revenues."

Poland also mines a small amount of top-quality hard coal, anthracite, but the government hasn't released production figures.

The four new mines being drilled under grain and sugar-beet fields 25 miles east of Lublin are the first stage of a seven-mine complex. The deepest is 3,462 feet. The government hopes to employ 40,000 workers at the mines.

"The mines will start producing in late 1979, and major production begins in three years," chief engineer Miroslaw Pierezewicz told The Associated Press. "We plan three more mines in the region, and the target is 25 million tons of coal annually."

The mines will be more than 90 percent mechanized. Refining and enriching plants nearby are designed to take up as little space as possible to preserve valuable farmland in the bread-basket region.

Pierezewicz said the soft soil in the Bogdanka region caused difficulties in drilling the mines. The problem was solved by setting up what he called Poland's deepest freezing system.

As the shaft is bored and lined with concrete, ammonia liquid cooled to four degrees below zero (Fahrenheit) is piped along the outside of the cut to freeze the rocky soil and keep it from collapsing the shaft.

"Miners will wear rain clothes and heavy clothing to protect them from moisture" and sub-freezing temperatures in the shaft, Pierezewicz said.

With the increasing emphasis on coal exports to the West, the government says it will raise bituminous and coking coal production to more than 250 million tons by 1990, up from this year's record high of 192.2 million tons.

Poland also mined 41 million tons of lignite this year for powering electrical generators.

In quality coal extraction, Poland ranks in fourth place behind the United States, Soviet Union and China.

Poland's main bituminous mines are in Upper and Lower Silesia along the mountainous southern border with Czechoslovakia and the reserves are calculated to last several hundred years.

Main deposits, gauged to a depth of 3,000 feet, are estimated at about 100 billion tons, the highest in Europe and at the forefront of world supplies. Poland has 69 bituminous mines, and two dozen lignite mines.

Poland's 340,000 mine workers are an industrial elite earning about 8,000 zlotys a month (about $270 at the official exchange rate) or double the national average wage.

Miners get lots of benefits not available to other workers. Their housing is better, and rents are less than a tenth of their wages. Food is subsidized, and also better than average.

They get extra vacations with free accommodations, 25 days paid leave a year, a pension at 55 and their working clothes are washed free.

Miners transferred to Bogdanka from Silesia to operate the new mines will live in new housing projects, shop in special food stores and enjoy the other social benefits not available to the local farming population.

Pierezewicz said three miners' schools have been set up in the Lublin area to train local youths for the colliers.

"About 1,650 young men are now attending the basic course and 450 have already graduated and been sent to Silesia for practical experience," the engineer said.

Kucinich's License Expires

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Dennis Kucinich's Ohio driver's license has expired and the police department, where 275 officers may be laid off Friday at the mayor's recommendation, knows about it.

"It's true," said Kucinich news secretary Andrew Juniewicz. "Things have been busy around here lately."

Juniewicz said the mayor, who has a police chauffeur, would renew his license at the earliest possible opportunity. He added that Kucinich has done no driving since his license expired Oct. 8, his 32nd birthday.

In a related development, the mayor's youngest brother, Perry, 22, was indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of unarmed bank robbery in connection with a Cleveland bank holdup last month.

U.S. Attorney James Williams said Perry Kucinich would be arraigned within the next 10 days. The mayor said his brother had a history of mental problems and needed attention.

Ethel Kennedy Target Of Lawsuit

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Ethel Kennedy is being sued by the owners of an Aspen catering service who allege she refused to pay $500 for a Christmas dinner for 20 people.

MRS. KENNEDY

The suit, filed in county court here, said Mrs. Kennedy's housekeeper called Christmas Day asking if a dinner could be prepared that evening.

Because of the holiday, caterer Dean Small said he charged $90 an hour for his work — $360 for four hours. Small said his normal rate is $45 an hour. He said other charges included $50 for cab fare because the firm's van was broken and $90 for the food itself.

"We've done work for the Kissingers and the Rockefeller. We don't believe in overcharging just because of their name," said Tom Gerlak, the firm's president.

Small said he presented the bill to Mrs. Kennedy the day after Christmas — $500 plus $35 tax. "She was really furious," he said. "She said it was worth $25..."

Mrs. Kennedy, who was on a skiing vacation with her children, could not be reached for comment.

Soviet Newspaper Raps Nixon

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet newspaper has attacked former President Nixon, describing him as a "politician entangled in intrigues and lies" and branding his new book a "whitewash."

Za Rubezhom, a million circulation weekly, carried a stinging commentary on the Watergate scandal and a 7,000-word excerpt from Nixon's book, "RN: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon."

Nixon's history of anti-communism and his "hard-line" positions are given new emphasis. He also is shown as having barely avoided prison after resigning as president.

The newspaper's treatment of the Watergate story and Nixon's administration differs greatly with the official line carried in the Great Soviet Encyclopedia, which excludes any reference to his anti-communist history. Rather, it points out Nixon's successes at easing U.S.-Soviet tensions through detente and devotes only one sentence to his resignation "as a result of the internal political situation."

Sweet Tooth Burglar

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A man who told police he got drunk at a New Year's Eve party and had no place to go afterward was charged with third-degree burglary after he fell through the ceiling of a pastry shop, narrowly missing several startled customers.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Authorities in suburban Cheektowaga identified the man as Timothy McPhaden, 22.

McPhaden's downfall came Wednesday morning when a store employee went to a storage area in the attic and spotted him.

Once police arrived, they didn't have to wait long to arrest him. With a loud crash, McPhaden broke through the ceiling and landed in the coffee shop section of the bakery.

"Things seemed to be out of place over the past several days," one of the shop's bakers said. "I guess that guy has been living here, and I don't blame him. It's warm, and there's all this good food."

1979 Expected To Be Year Of Recession

By JOHN CUNNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Were you happier to see 1978 end than you were to see 1979 begin?

Many economists were, but everyone knows that while members of that dismal art are seldom content with the present, they are often grim about the future.

For them, 1978 was a better year than anticipated. Inflation worsened but unemployment fell; consumer debt rose but it kept sales high; the federal deficit remained but with promise of shrinking.

But next year — that's another story. The year 1979, the economic forecasters say, will be the year of recession. Unemployment will rise; prices will too; and output will slow. Or so they predict.

Firm Deals In Silver

Bullion

SEATTLE (AP) — Just what you all need for a doorstop, paper weight, or conversation piece — gleaming silver bullion.

National Securities Corp. will sell it to you in easy-to-handle 200-ounce bars, as long as you agree to buy at least five.

The independent securities brokerage may be the first stock-exchange-seated brokerage in the country to deal in silver bullion, says its president, Robert J. Block.

Entry into the bullion market, says Block, 56, fits the firm's concept of being "a boutique brokerage which offers clients full service in an intimate environment."

Handling the program is James E. Ryan, 54, from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, a precious-metals-stock specialist who recently joined National as vice president.

Silver bullion, Ryan says, "is without doubt one of the great all-time bargains. We have no idea how big the market is out there, but I think it's huge. With the big flight from the dollar, demand may exceed our ability to supply the market."

National recently became the first Seattle securities house to acquire a seat on the Spokane Stock Exchange, which mostly handles mining-stock transactions.

Bullion bars are sold on the futures markets in 1,000-ounce minimum sizes — an unwieldy 70 pounds each if the purchaser decides to take delivery. In New York, the minimum contract is for 10 bars. In Chicago it's five.

National will sell its smaller bars in five-bar minimum lots at the latest daily spot price quoted in New York plus a handling charge and commission "in line with the trade."

Silver, like gold, just lies there drawing no interest and perhaps even costing something for protected storage and resale. But Ryan says he is convinced silver prices will continue to climb, more than offsetting the present rate of the dollar's decline in purchasing power.

World consumption of silver has exceeded production for years, he says.

Spot prices for 99.9 percent pure-silver "commercial" bars or bullion on the London and New York markets are running a little above $6 an ounce.

In a Dec. 13 analysis, Green's Commodity Market Comments, a publication covering world precious-metals and monetary matters, forecast that "1979 may see a dramatic rise in silver prices, and we would not be surprised to see silver reaching or exceeding $7.50 by the end of next year."

Ryan is predicting $8 to $12 in 1979. "I'm still bullish about gold," he says, "but I'm as bullish now about silver as I was when gold was $100 an ounce. I'm expecting real pyrotechnics in this market."

He doesn't want to attract small, non-diversified investors or "uninformed, wild-eyed speculators."

"We're suggesting that the investor who buys silver be able to stay in for the long-term move. I foresee that in 10 or 15 years silver could even exceed the price of gold because of its growing industrial uses."

Night Driving Safety Advice Eases Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The longer nights at this time of year are a special hazard to persons who have to drive in the darkness, but taking extra care can ease the danger.

The chances of a serious traffic accident are more than doubled in the darkness. Accidents during these hours account for more than half of all traffic deaths, despite the fact that fewer cars are on the roads than in the daytime.

At night always allow more time and distance for traffic maneuvers, the Tennessee Sheriff's Association urges. "Widen the gap when following other vehicles. Look a split second longer than usual before entering traffic, turning or backing."

It is important to drive more slowly at night, the sheriffs say, because 90 percent of driving decisions are based on seeing, and you simply can't see as much at night.

Your speed at night should be based on the range of your headlights.

If the lights are in good working order they can light about 350 feet of dark roadway. At 50 miles per hour, on dry pavement, it takes 243 feet to stop, the sheriffs say. But step up to 60 and the stopping distance jumps to 366 feet, meaning that by the time you see something, it's too late to stop.

And remember, if the pavement is wet or slippery, stopping distance increases markedly.

And that puts at risk the reputations of economists, or a good many of them. They have erected their platform, they have shouted their views, they have demanded recognition. Now they must accept the consequences.

As matters now stand, there are few strong signals of an upcoming recession. Consumers seem undeterred by high prices, borrowers by soaring interest rates, and producers by forecasts of a downturn.

The fourth-quarter downturn, widely forecast, simply did not occur, and you needn't wait for the official figures to say so. And prospects of a sharp downturn coming in the first quarter of 1979 are remote.

Citibank's economic letter put it most succinctly, asking "Recession: where's the smoking gun?" There is none. And neither is there an economic corpse lying about. The economic body is alive if not well.

"Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes" is an admonition enshrined in American tradition since the battle of Bunker Hill," the Citibank economists comment.

That tradition, it observes, was once honored by most economic forecasters, who waited until statistics signaled a downturn "before trumpeting recession." That tradition was broken this year.

And in breaking with tradition, the platform from which the economic forecasters shout recession could conceivably be their downfall.

Why are so many forecasters proclaiming the onset of recession? For many reasons, the most common of them being that rising prices and interest rates inevitably cut into buying. But so far, they haven't.

The question now becomes, "When will high interest and high prices first discourage and then make impossible a continuation of purchases?" And that, it seems, has become a mere guessing contest.

Some forecasters, those who guessed the downturn would come in the first quarter of 1979, now seem to be far out on thin ice, on their knees, praying for a sudden economic cold wave.

Should the economic weather remain mild for still another couple of months, the would-be prophets might survive, but certainly with their reputations blemished by the scars of frostbite.

But maybe they won't get off so lightly. That is, Americans might not forget, a factor that almost every forecaster depends upon. The forget factor could play a large role in 1979.

Should Americans not forget — and should there be merely a slowdown rather than a recession — then a few forecasters might be hung in effigy from the platforms from which they now shout "recession's coming."

Biologists Hope Fish Can Control Weeds In Canal

GAMBOA, Canal Zone (AP)—Thousands of Chinese grass carp have been dumped in the Panama Canal in the hope that they will eat up weeds that foul propellers, plug water intakes and clog the gates of the canal locks.

"We've controlled the weeds so far by dumping copper sulphate and herbicide on them," said fisheries biologist Rene Sanchez, "but we'd like to get away from using chemicals and believe the fish may eventually save money."

Sanchez said in the 1978 fiscal year the Panama Canal Company dumped 625,000 pounds of toxic copper sulfate on thousands of acres of hydrilla, a plant whose tendrils may extend 40 feet. Four other kinds of aquatic weeds also can cause trouble in the waterway.

The biologist said the carp, also known as the White Amur because it is native to the Amur River on the Chinese-Soviet border, weighs 50 to 60 pounds at maturity and eats well over its body weight in weeds each day.

The fish has teeth in its throat and eats the weeds by sucking them into its mouth.

It is not expected to spawn in the canal waters, which will enable biologists to control the population.

"To spawn, the fish eggs must float down a one-mile-an-hour current of still-water for about 50 hours," Sanchez said. "We don't have conditions like that here."

The Panama Canal is an inland fresh water system covering more than 170 square miles.

It includes Gatun Lake, which stretches about halfway across the 50-mile-wide isthmus. The lake is 82 feet above sea level and drains through the canal locks into both the Caribbean and Pacific Ocean.

Some of the carp are expected to be lost through the locks while others will be eaten by predators. Sanchez said that beginning in two or three years about 25,000 fish will be added annually to replenish the population.

Sanchez estimated the cost of the project so far at more than $1 million. But he pointed out that the cost of copper sulphate has jumped to 50 cents a pound, while the fingerlings cost 40 cents each. On that basis, 25,000 fish a year would cost $302,500 less than 625,000 pounds of the chemical.

The carp were hatched at a hatchery in Arkansas where large tankers simulate natural spawning conditions. They were put aboard a tank truck that was driven aboard a U.S. Air Force C-130 that was flown to the Canal Zone.

There have been three shipments totaling more than 500,000 fish since February. The first shipment of 135,000 died when they were unloaded from the truck into a pond.

"I believe a sudden temperature change killed them," said Sanchez.

The transport technique was improved, and few were lost from the second shipment of 200,000 fish.

The fish arrived as fingerlings, spent four months in the pond and grew to about 16 inches in four months in the pond. Then they entered Gatun Lake.

Sanchez said the pond was full of hydrilla when the fish arrived and was clean when they left.

A third shipment of 177,000 fish was put in another pond. But Sanchez said no one is certain how they are doing because no one has been able to catch one yet. The fish are easily spotted, and the weeds make netting difficult, he explained.

"Our objective is to control aquatic weeds, not eliminate them," said Georges Bouche, another employee of the canal company working on the project. "So far copper sulfate has been the only feasible way to control the weed problem."

Sanchez said the company has had up to 10 men spreading the chemical, which is thrown by hand from boats directly over the weeds.

Sharp Clan At Home In Africa

CONAKRY, Guinea (AP)—Ten years ago Clifford and Laverna Sharp, prosperous American blacks tired of being in the minority, bundled family, auto repair tools and piano off to Africa.

"We are home here," Mrs. Sharp told a visitor. "We fit right in. We have dignity and freedom here, and we are happy."

She explained:

"In the United States, a black is somewhat handicapped in aspirations. You have to ask, do they hire black people? Are they welcome? Here you don't have to ask that. You see a door open, and you walk right in."

The Sharps, from Detroit, live like most residents of this socialist nation where basic food staples are scarce and expensive.

Their simple, whitewashed brick home, lent to them by the government, is flanked by spreading tropical trees on a rutted road, among houses and shacks with optional indoor plumbing.

Although tides of black visitors have traveled to Africa, particularly since Alex Haley's "Roots," few American families have settled here permanently.

Even in Guinea, one of the most receptive nations, friends recall that the Sharps had trouble at first from some authorities in the government who were distrustful of outsiders, particularly Americans.

One of the few other American blacks here is Stokely Carmichael, the Black Power advocate, who came about the same time as the Sharps, attracted by the revolutionary politics.

"Any black is welcome here, just like any Guinean," said Carmichael. "It was the correct decision to come."

Sharp, now 66, says he is uninterested in the politics. He just enjoys living here.

"Sure I like it, or else I wouldn't be staying," said Sharp.

Sharp sold his share of a body shop which was bringing in about $10,000 a year. He brought $7,000 worth of equipment here and taught at a government trade school until retiring on U.S. Social Security. Now, for a few days a month, he takes care of President Ahmed Sekou Toure's aging white Cadillac and other cars.

His wife, with a masters degree from the University of Michigan and Wayne State University, has been teaching at the Gamal Abdel Nasser Polytechnical University and specialized schools, writing poetry, experimenting with African cooking and playing piano.

Their oldest son, Gerard, 28, teaches drafting and runs a tiny ice cream shop and bakery out of a picnic cooler in the front yard. Two of their daughters married Guinean government officials and work in Conakry. They have a 7-year-old son in school, an adopted 4-year-old Guinean boy and three grandchildren born here.

Laverna Sharp has been back twice to see her other daughter, Violet Blueford, of Southfield, Mich., who did not move here.

But the Sharps earn Guinean money, which is not easily exchanged for hard currency, and travel is costly.

The family knew nothing of Guinea when they came.

"We wrote to a number of African countries," Sharp explained. "Most didn't answer, but from Guinea we got an answer in three months from the president himself. He offered us jobs, so we came."

The Sharps keep their American passports up-to-date and drop by the U.S. embassy for Thanksgiving dinner and other occasions.

Though they say they avoid politics, Mrs. Sharp dedicated a poem to Sekou Toure, "the greatest man living in the present time," and signed it with the local equivalent of "Have a nice day" — "Ready for the Revolution."

Mrs. Sharp said she had been seeking her roots long before the book was published, but has found nothing concrete.

"I've found a lot of people who look just like me and who might be my relatives," she said. "I feel like them and I act like them. I grew up in a ghetto in Richmond, Virginia, and there is no change here. I feel right at home."

Her husband added:

"All black people have the same way of thinking, the same mental pattern, if you disregard culture and speech. You can see it. That's why we don't feel homesick."

Officials Investigate Alfalfa Disease

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department is investigating why a fungus disease is damaging varieties of alfalfa previously resistant to attack.

Department officials say the disease, anthracnose, caused damage during the 1978 growing season to alfalfa in the eastern United States. They say they are trying to determine whether the fungus is a new species of the disease.

China Proposes Travel Links With Taiwan

PEKING (UPI) — China is proposing establishing air links with Taiwan to reunite the Chinese people after a 30-year separation, and in an article obtained today says Americans' respect for historical traditions could be a lesson for China.

In another conciliatory move, Peking has moved troops from southern coastal provinces near Taiwan to its borders with Vietnam and the Soviet Union.

Peking's latest gestures followed a New Years Day appeal to the nationalist government for mail service, travel and cultural trade exchanges.

The government on Taiwan has spurned all rapprochement offers, vowing it would never talk with the communist regime that has ruled the mainland since 1949.

The offer to open air links was discussed in a seminar sponsored by China's Civil Aviation Administration Wednesday.

"If (Taiwan's) China Airlines planes could fly to Japan, Korea and other Southeast Asian cities, why can't they land in Peking or Shanghai?" said Tsao Ming-tse, an official of the China Civil Aviation Administration.

One veteran pilot volunteered to fly the first plane to Taiwan with herbs, tea, porcelain china and hams — luxury items much coveted by Chinese epicureans.

An article in the Chinese Communist Party newspaper, People's Daily, obtained today, hailed Americans for respecting the past while accepting new ideas.

The article described a visit to Boston's John's Hospital, said Jacques Cosse, spokesman for the Hilton Hotels Division of Hilton Hotels Corp.

"He was working right up until just before Christmas," Cosse said. "He was ill and went into the hospital just before the holidays and then went back into the hospital three days ago."

One of Hilton's ex-wives, actress Zsa Zsa Gabor, said today that she visited him in the hospital two days before Christmas. She said he had apparently suffered a stroke.

"He couldn't talk anymore...he just smiled," Miss Gabor said. "He was a wonderful man and had a great big life. He was half German and half Norwegian and he achieved everything a man can achieve. I'm very, very sad."

Hilton was board chairman of Hilton Hotels Corp. and Hilton International, owned by Trans World Airlines, Inc., after a 1967 merger. The domestic and international hotels were valued at more than half a billion dollars.

Until he acquired the Statler Hotels in 1954, Hilton was known in the trade as "the man who bought the Waldorf."

"The word Hilton means hotel. People say, 'Take me to the Hilton,' not the Hilton Hotel," Cosse said. "That's how he will be remembered — for a new word, Hilton."

Hilton is survived by his third wife, Mary Frances, whom he married in 1976 after two divorces; two sons, Barron Hilton, 50, president of Hilton Hotels Corp., and Michael Eric Hilton, a corporation vice president in Houston; and a daughter, Francesca, of Los Angeles.

A third son, Conrad Nicholson Hilton Jr. — known as "Nick" and the first husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor — died of a heart attack in 1969.

Besides a Palm Springs home, Hilton had a 61-room mansion at Bel-Air, near Santa Monica, which was his primary residence and where he had 19 servants.

"Despite the short history of their country, the American people are proud of their culture and traditions and always esteem their predecessors who built their country amid hardships," it said.

"They always remember the feats of their predecessors but do not cling to the past. They respect historical traditions but do not hold fast to established ideas. Is this not something which should give us food for thought?" the article asked.

The Chinese troop movements away from the Taiwan coastal zone was another indication China is de-emphasizing military force as a means to reunify Taiwan.

"From everything we know the movement of troops has been to the north and to the south, completely away from the coastal areas adjacent to Taiwan," said U.S. Liaison Office Chief Leonard Woodcock in an interview.

The northward movement of the Chinese Liberation Army troops would indicate beefing up of garrison forces in the northeastern Sino-Soviet border to counter 40 Russian divisions on the other side.

Chinese sources in Hong Kong have reported that China has transferred its crack missile battalion to the tense Sino-Vietnamese borders in the southwestern Yunnan province and Kwangsi Autonomous Region.

Hotel Chain Magnate Conrad Hilton Dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Conrad Hilton, 91, a small-town New Mexico boy who became a millionaire innkeeper and counted presidents and popes among his friends, is dead of pneumonia.

The hotel magnate died at 10 p.m. Wednesday, three days after entering St. John's Hospital, said Jacques Cosse, spokesman for the Hilton Hotels Division of Hilton Hotels Corp.

Boy Saved By Man's Fast Action

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dorothy Dorris marveled at the quick, kind action of the passing stranger who saved her son's life.

"By all practicality he should be a dead person," she said Wednesday of her 14-year-old son, Kevin Williams. "But instead he's a live person. It's a miracle."

Kevin was in good condition today at Le Bonheur Children's Hospital here recovering from a car accident in which he was submerged in icy water and unconscious for 15 minutes.

"In the words of the doctor, he drowned," said Mrs. Dorris. "But thanks to the emergency procedures of some man along the road he's alive."

The "good Samaritan" was 29-year-old George Silva, a Tufts University medical student from Boston.

Silva, described by Arkansas state trooper Ronnie Huey as soaking wet and "shivering so bad he could hardly talk," left after reviving the youth.

"All Silva asked is that they drop him a note," said Huey.

"I don't have any idea where he came from or where he was going. I don't even know what he was doing in this area. But it was a good thing he was."

Silva's wife, Sandra, when contacted by The Associated Press at her home early today, said she hadn't heard about her husband's good deed but wasn't surprised.

"He was a medic in Vietnam and was trained for this," she said. He has performed other emergency rescues before, "swimming-type rescues in both Vietnam and Florida."

Mrs. Silva said her husband, a fourth-year student at Tufts, was driving a trailer from Los Angeles to Boston and must have passed through Arkansas on his way. It was in eastern Arkansas, along U.S. Route 64, where his path crossed that of Kevin Williams.

Kevin and two older brothers, 19-year-old Randy and 16-year-old Ricky, were returning to Memphis Tuesday from a Christmas vacation in McCrory, Ark.

Ricky lost control of the car on an icy highway bridge and plunged into a water-filled ditch.

"A motorist was westbound and saw the steam," said Huey. "He got up to the edge and... all he could see was the rear-end wheels... He ran and told some people in a grocery store down the road."

By the time help arrived, Randy had crawled out a window and was directing rescuers to his brothers still in the car.

"They opened the door and one of them (Ricky) just floated out," Huey said.

Ralph Jumper, 49, of 3015 68th St. was in critical condition today at Odesa Medical Center Hospital with injuries sustained in a single-engine plane crash Dec. 27 near Marfa.

Teri Reding, 15, of Dallas was in satisfactory condition today at Methodist Hospital with injuries suffered in an auto accident early Saturday.

Melton Crisp, 32, of 4205 16th St. was in critical condition today at Methodist Hospital, suffering from smoke inhalation. Crisp was found unconscious in his home shortly after a fire broke out about 6 p.m. Tuesday. Fire officials said the blaze apparently was started by a smoldering cigarette.

The Greg Sepeda home at 2308 14th St. sustained more than $1,000 damage Wednesday when a fire broke out at that residence about 4 p.m. Officials said the blaze apparently was triggered by a candle left burning on a table.

Powell Suit Dismissed

AUSTIN (UPI) — A state district judge has dismissed a suit filed by David Lee Powell challenging the legality of the state's regulations concerning execution by injection.

Powell, 27, sentenced to death by injection for the May 18 machine gun slaying of policeman Ralph Ablanedo, has been confined in Rusk State Hospital because of a hunger strike he began in the Travis County Jail and continued after he was moved to death row in Huntsville.

Judge Pete Lowry ruled Wednesday he does not have jurisdiction over Powell's suit, which contends prison director W.J. Estelle failed to follow rules set out in the Administrative Procedures Act in deciding how the death by injection law would be carried out.

The Legislature in 1977 changed the method of execution from electrocution to death by injection, but left it to Estelle to determine what chemicals would be used in the injections and how they would be administered.

Right-Wingers Mob Funeral

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Some 2,000 right-wing extremists screaming "Spain, yes, democracy, no" and giving the fascist salute broke through police lines today to mob the flag-draped casket of the slain Madrid military governor, Gen. Constantino Ortin.

Some scuffles erupted as demonstrators shouted "Out with the Suarez government!" "The army to power!" and police sharpshooters gazed down from surrounding downtown buildings.

Thousands of police and security men caused traffic jams in parts of Madrid by erecting roadblocks for car and identification checks in their manhunt for the four terrorists who gunned down Ortin Wednesday.

The Basque separatist group ETA, which took responsibility for the general's death, announced a general offensive against the Spanish military.

Robbers Hit Food Store

Two "shaggy-haired" men entered the 7-Eleven Store at 8101 Indiana Ave. shortly after 2 a.m. today and robbed the 20-year-old attendant of an undetermined amount of money.

William Gregory Bacon told police the suspects asked him if he had anything to eat, then one of the bandits walked behind the counter, pulled a knife and said, "I'm not going to hurt you, just give me the bills and never mind the change."

The other man, who warned he had a gun in his right coat pocket, allegedly told Bacon, "If you don't, I'll kill you."

Bacon said he handed over the bills from the cash register, and the man who said he had a gun left the store. The man wielding the knife told the attendant to turn around and face the wall before fleeing the convenience store, reports show.

Police today were looking for two thin, white men, thought to be in their late teens or early 20s. One of the suspects told Bacon a scar on his arm was caused by a bullet wound, and his companion reportedly had crossed eyes.

Top Dollar Paid For Taxi Rides

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York taxi driver has been charged with grand larceny and extortion after two visiting Iranians told police he charged them $175 each for one-mile rides between two terminals at Kennedy International Airport, police said.

Cabbie David Tzschavshvile allegedly told his passengers when they arrived in town Dec. 26 they would have trouble with the police if they didn't pay his price. Officials said the complainants should have had to pay only $1.35 apiece. Both men said they notified authorities shortly after Tzschavshvile let them out.

Carter Heads South For Summit Parley

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter left Washington today and headed for the sun-drenched Caribbean for an informal summit with three Western European leaders on the island of Guadeloupe.

Carter departed with little of the usual ceremonies that mark such occasions at the White House. Vice President Walter Mondale spoke briefly with the president before Carter flew by helicopter to Andrews Air Force Base. Air Force One then took off for Guadeloupe at 11:50 a.m. EST.

Carter meets for three days with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, British Prime Minister James Callaghan and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt in the informal tropical setting.

Afterwards he will vacation on the French-owned island with his wife Rosalynn and daughter Amy, 11, returning to Washington Tuesday evening.

The allied leaders have met at two previous economic summit conferences and decided a free-wheeling gathering without the restraints of a formal agenda, a team of advisers, and a final communiqué would be beneficial.

Between meetings, luncheons and dinners there will be time for swimming and lolling at their luxurious villas at the Hotel Hamak, about 20 miles away from Guadeloupe's capital, Pointe-a-Pitre.

The other leaders are expected to seek "assurances and clarifications" of U.S. policy regarding European security, particularly against Soviet military expansion. American policy makers are studying the question of beefing up Europe's nuclear defenses against the threat of the Soviets SS-20 missile.

They also are expected to take a realistic look at the crisis in Iran and the shaky future of the shah.

West Germany, France and Britain, and to a lesser extent, the United States are all dependent on Iranian oil.

It was understood the European leaders also want updated reports from Carter on the strategic arms talks with the Soviets; the outlook for peace in the Middle East based on the Camp David accords; Western security issues, particularly in the areas of nuclear defense; the possibility of a summit meeting between Carter and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, and the U.S. diplomatic recognition of China.

"They know who Jimmy Carter is," an aide said, noting the other leaders now had more confidence in the American president. "Now they want to know where the United States is going."

"They want to hear it from the horse's mouth," said one official.

Carter has close and friendly relations with Callaghan, an intellectual rapport with Giscard, and gets along better now with Schmidt than he did in the past, observers said.

Accompanying Carter will be national security affairs adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, summit planner Henry Owens, top aide Hamilton Jordan and press secretary Jody Powell.

Carter also has an entourage of more than 100 members of the media flying in to the "Island of Bright Water", which is now at the height of its tourist season.

Whatever the outcome of the conference, Carter and his family are certain to enjoy the change of weather. It was 24 degrees when the U.S. delegation took off at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, D.C., but the mercury will be hovering in the mid-80s when the plane lands in the West Indies.

An Arctic air mass is expected to chill the Eastern seaboard through the weekend, with heavy snow in some places. The same storm system has battered the Midwest section of the nation since last weekend.

FACE PROTECTION — These Chicago pedestrians, veterans of arctic cold and icy winds, use a variety of items to protect themselves against subzero temperatures in the Windy City.

The mercury plunged below the zero mark for the second straight day in Chicago Wednesday, as the Midwest continued to battle a series of wintry storms. (AP Laserphoto)

Navy Secretary Airs Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Secretary W. Graham Clayton Jr. said today that protecting U.S. warships against "cheap kill" damage is a persistent problem that affects every ship to some degree.

The problem of "cheap kills" stems from inadequate protection and improper design of sophisticated electronic gear used to guide and operate destroyers, frigates and cruisers built since World War II, according to congressional auditors.

The most common examples of "cheap kills" are damage to the sensitive equipment caused by small metal fragments from near-misses of a rocket or shocks from an underwater explosion, which leave a ship unable to carry out its mission.

"We cannot protect all the sensitive equipment on any ship, including an aircraft carrier," Clayton told a hearing by a congressional Joint Economic subcommittee. "We do the best we can."

Clayton, focusing his testimony on a construction program for a new fleet of guided-missile frigates, said additional armor is being put on the ships, at an extra cost of $600,000 per vessel, to protect sophisticated gear.

He also rejected criticism of the program by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Proxmire, citing a report by the General Accounting Office, a congressional watchdog agency, said the frigate program "may turn out to be the worst shipbuilding program in recent years."

"Worst of all," he said, "the ship is vulnerable to 'cheap kills.'"

"I disagree almost completely with everything you said about the (frigate) program," Clayton told Proxmire. Referring to the GAO report, he said, "I don't consider, sir, that the GAO is an expert on military operations."

While saying he was proud of the way the Navy is managing the program, Clayton acknowledged that the cost of the ship, which has nearly tripled, was underestimated by the Navy by $17.4 million per vessel.

The GAO study criticized the Navy for not trying to incorporate modifications of the stern, required by new equipment, into ships currently under construction. The Navy plans to make the changes in the mid 1980s after the ships have been at sea.

Clayton said that making the changes now would cause serious disruptions in the shipbuilding schedule and result in costs that "far exceed" the expense of doing it later.

Jerome H. Stolarow, a GAO official, told the subcommittee Wednesday that Navy officials have been aware of the problem of "cheap kill" vulnerability since 1975.

"Without getting into classified details," he said, "very little has been done up to now." He said several ships were knocked out of action by "cheap kills" during the Vietnam war.

Stolarow said many high-level Navy officials privately are "very much" concerned about the problem being a serious problem. He indicated the problem hangs over as many as 140 ships.

While ships built since World War II depend heavily on their electronic equipment, older ships with less sophisticated gear frequently could operate even after being hit because equipment could be operated manually, Stolarow said.

Begin Says West Bank Plan Firm

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin was quoted as saying today Israel would renew Jewish settlement in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River at a time decided by his Cabinet.

Begin's remarks on the controversial settlements were reported by officials who attended the prime minister's closed meeting with leaders of his Likud Party. Some party members reportedly demanded that building new outposts in the West Bank resume immediately.

The government so far has not lifted the freeze on new settlements it imposed at President Carter's request at the Camp David summit last September. But Begin has said publicly the ban was over and the Cabinet could decide at any time to resume new settlement in the land it has occupied since the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

Begin reportedly told the meeting the government is continuing to bolster some of the existing 48 West Bank settlements.

Officials said some members of the more nationalist wing of Likud protested the army's quashing of unauthorized settlement attempts last week, but reportedly gave general approval to Begin's settlement policy.

Begin also pledged to stick to his election platform, which promised government aid to "any group and individual in the task of settling the land," while ensuring that "no one shall be deprived of his land."

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, meanwhile, sent opposition leader Shimon Peres a letter acknowledging his birthday greetings and said "We must achieve peace in the Middle East for our generation, and for the generations to come," a Labor party spokesman said today.

Peres had sent greetings to Sadat on his 60th birthday Dec. 25.

Shah, Family Leave For Brief Vacation

The oil strike has crippled the Iranian economy, forcing the closing of many industries and businesses. Long lines of automobiles and people formed in Tehran again today for the remaining supplies of rationed gasoline and kerosene.

At the news conference, Bakhtiar also said he would trim the powers of SAVAK, the shah's secret police force, and turn it into an intelligence agency. He said his government would not submit "to any military authority, whatever it is." He said he did not think the army, still devotedly loyal to the shah, would attempt to oust him.

Speaking fluently in Persian, French and English, he indicated the troops called by the shah to battle street demonstrators would be returned to their barracks. He said martial law, in effect since Sept. 7, would end "region by region." However, he said disorders would not be tolerated and persons arrested for murder, looting and other serious crimes during recent rioting will be prosecuted.

Until he agreed to try to form a government, Bakhtiar was deputy chief of the opposition National Front. But other leaders of the religious and political alliance battling the shah disowned him as a traitor and vowed to continue their fight until the shah abdicates.

Only small demonstrations against the shah were reported in Tehran Wednesday, and the state radio said most of them were peaceful, in contrast to the violence in which hundreds have died in recent months.

Sleuth Testifies At Davis' Trial

HOUSTON (AP) — A private sleuth testified today he conducted an investigation related to the murder conspiracy case of millionaire Cullen Davis but did not know who paid for it.

"We were curious about who was paying us," said Bill Keating, adding that he never found out.

Keating was questioned outside the presence of the jury by a defense lawyer attempting to link the "sidebar" investigation to Bill Davis, younger brother of the Fort Worth defendant.

He said there is a financial connection between Bill Davis and FBI informant David McCrory, 40, the state's key witness.

Lead defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes insisted he can show that Cullen Davis was trapped in a conspiratorial web bankrolled by the younger Davis, but Haynes failed, at least temporarily, to do so.

"We have wasted one hour of jury time, court time and witness time," the trial judge admonished Haynes.

Haynes objected to that statement and the judge snapped:

"It was a waste of time."

Keating, a Fort Worth investigator, said he reported to a former Fort Worth prosecutor and that his checks were signed by an attorney representing a Denver, Colorado, law firm.

He said he was instructed to uncover any illegal activities or improprieties by attorneys and investigators representing the defendant; but found none.

Judge Wallace Moore Wednesday labeled Haynes' tactics a "fishing expedition," and indicated a deep-seated reluctance to allow Haynes to pursue the line of questioning.

"I just don't see how this connects at all," Moore told Haynes at the end of a madcap day in the murder-for-hire trial of the millionaire industrialist.

Davis, 45, is accused of plotting the contract killing of his divorcee.

The defense maintains he was framed by a vindictive wife, McCrory and a Fort Worth karate instructor.

But Haynes alleged Wednesday that Bill Davis, ousted from the family industrial empire in 1973, may be bankrolling a private investigation against his brother.

And he said he could prove the alleged investigation is part of an "ongoing conspiracy" that he said he could trace back to the events leading up to the defendant's arrest Aug. 20.

Haynes indicated the "heavy financial expenditures" associated with the "sidebar" investigation could come only from Bill Davis, who surrendered his interests in Kendavis Industries for a reported $100 million.

Earlier, prosecutors managed to cast some doubt on Davis' claim that he was duped into "playing along" with the alleged mass murder scheme that led to his arrest. Davis had testified previously that he had discussed the situation with a friend, Fort Worth attorney Hershel Payne, before Aug. 20.

Payne confirmed some things Davis said, but did not give a wholesale corroboration of Davis' testimony.

Payne said Davis told him last June of his discussions with McCrory about "killing people." Davis testified Payne told him there was nothing illegal about discussing murder as long as the act was not "consummated."

But, said Payne Wednesday, "I certainly didn't consider myself giving any legal opinion."

Payne also said, contrary to Davis' previous testimony, that Davis never told him McCrory was tape-recording the meeting between Davis and McCrory.

Rain, Snow Threat To Southwest

"All of the major highways have spotted ice and secondary roads are ice-glazed to ice-packed in the Wichita Falls and Mineral Wells areas," the DPS spokesman said.

With occasional freezing drizzle reported early today in the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area, motorists in the north central portion of Texas are advised to drive with extreme caution.

Lubbock area roads this morning contained only ice patches, according to the DPS spokesman.

Cloudy skies and warming temperatures are forecast through much of the state today, with scattered areas of precipitation in South Texas.

Four Charged

Herrera, who lived about 5 miles northwest of the city on FM 1294, was found sitting on a couch in his living room by a friend, Ted Villarreal, who stopped to visit about 7 a.m. that Saturday.

Herrera was conscious when Villarreal arrived, but died before aid could be obtained.

Herrera was pronounced dead at the scene by Smith, who ruled homicide in the death. An autopsy revealed that the victim died from massive hemorrhaging from the stab wound, rather than the .22-caliber bullet which lodged in his chest.

A kitchen knife with a six-inch blade was recovered in Herrera's backyard, where deputies said a struggle probably took place.

Solons Favor Ouster Of Iranian Students

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Iranian students involved in anti-shah riots in the United States may soon find their status in this country coming under government scrutiny, a move that could result in some of them being sent home.

Responding to complaints from members of Congress, Attorney General Griffin Bell Wednesday ordered a review of possible steps for dealing with Iranians who violate U.S. laws.

Several Iranians were involved in violent demonstrations Tuesday near the Beverly Hills, Calif., home of the shah of Iran's sister. The incident prompted protests from Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and Rep. Robin Beard, R-Tenn.

"When they mock our hospitality with a blind and violent disregard for the law, then I want them sent home," Bentsen said in a letter to Bell.

"I was deeply angered by the violent protest in California on Tuesday and by other illegal demonstrations in Texas and elsewhere during the past months," Bentsen said.

"The idea that these individuals would attack with rocks and clubs and other implements police guarding the home of someone who has sought refuge in this country is abhorrent to me."

Bentsen urged Bell to "institute immediate deportation proceedings against any student from Iran or any other country who illegally resorts to violence."

Beard directed his protest to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, urging Vance to revoke the visa of any foreign national "convicted of participating in violence of any kind in this country."

The Iranian Embassy estimates there are some 36,000 Iranian students in the United States. About half of them are financially supported by the Iranian government.

Justice Department spokesman Terrence Adamson said Bell had received "several expressions of concern" about rioting by Iranian students.

He said Bell ordered a review of the immigration status of "persons that purport to be students and enjoy the hospitality of our country to study and resort to violence that was demonstrated in California."

Adamson said it may be that they've overstayed their visa; they may be working when they are not supposed to be working, or they may have violated some U.S. laws.

"He's asking that the options be pursued promptly," Adamson said, indicating visas could be revoked if violations were found in any of those cases.

By OSWALD JACOBY
And JIM JACOBY

Let's begin to play the game of backgammon. At the start of a backgammon game, each player rolls one die. Under the most common rules, if both players roll the same number they must roll again until their numbers differ.

The players with the higher number goes first, moving his man or men according to the numbers shown on both his die and the die his opponent rolled. Thereafter, the players take turns rolling both dice.

The numbers that come up on the dice become the amount of spaces the player must move.

Thus, if the dice show a six and a three, one man would be moved nine spaces or one man would be moved six spaces and another man three spaces.

If doubles are rolled, they are played twice. Thus, a roll of two threes would result in four moves of three spaces each.

The men are moved in opposing directions. The winner of the game is the player who first removes all of his men from the board.

The last six spaces, or points, on each end of the board are called a player's home or inner table. Before any man can be removed from the board, all 15 men must rest in the home table.

Any number of friendly men may occupy the same point, but you may not move to a point on which your opponent has two or more men.

You may occupy a point on which your opponent has a single man; that is called "hitting a blot." Your opponent's man is then removed from the point and placed on the bar in the center of the board. Your opponent cannot move any other man until he has rolled a number enabling the man on the bar to enter your home table.

Americans Like R-Rated Movies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans apparently like a little sex and violence in their movies, but not too much. There have been more R-rated movies made in the United States over the past nine years than any other kind. Those bluish-producing X-rated flicks have been the rarest.

A Commerce Department report released Tuesday said the movie industry's rating system had judged the contents of 4,275 feature films in the past nine years.

Of that total, 18 percent were G-rated for a general audience; 37 percent PG-rated, meaning parental guidance is suggested; 39 percent R-rated, open only to adults or to youngsters accompanied by an adult, and just 6 percent X-rated, restricted to those 18 or older.

The report said the U.S. movie industry experienced a banner year during 1978, with gross box office receipts 18 percent above 1977 receipts, and 1979 is expected to be even better.

Protectionism Called Harmful

By LeROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — The growth of the welfare state in the Western democracies is slowly strangling free trade and stifling national economies, says Prof. Melvyn Krauss of New York University.

In a book entitled "The New Protectionism," published under the auspices of the International Center for Economic Policy studies, Krauss concludes that, while nearly everyone in the free enterprise world professes to be for free trade, countries are embarking on a new protectionism that isn't expressed simply in high tariffs and quotas on imports.

He says this protectionism is inherent in welfare state structural designs "that purport to provide economic security for the country."

"To many people," Krauss writes, "the great attraction of the welfare state is that it appears to provide high rates of economic growth and social consumption — that is affluence and social justice ... but economic growth and social consumption are really competitive, not complementary."

Basic to this, he says, is that welfare state policies ignore ordinary economic rules and require capital and labor to be kept in low-productivity activities where people are comfortable instead of being forced into high-productivity activities to meet changing economic conditions. Specifically, Krauss criticized governments for intervening to save jobs and investments in "weak industries," among which he included shipbuilding, shoe manufacturing, textile manufacturing and steel mills. He said protecting these industries stunted productivity and that "disincentives to produce are embedded in the welfare economy."

Krauss blamed union labor as much as management for what he calls the new protectionism, because he said labor's emphasis on individual economic security "leads directly and inexorably to the redistribution of income and economic power from capital to labor and to the death of capital accumulation — the goose that lays the golden eggs."

Finally, he said the "stagflation" that afflicts so many Western countries is directly attributable to artificially costly labor and the high price of financing social commitments.

Krauss said the victory of the welfare state and consequent damage to productivity and free trade is almost complete in the Scandinavian countries, Holland, Britain and is well advanced in France.

State Board Calls For Lower Rates

AUSTIN (AP) — Workers compensation rate reductions that will save Texas businessmen an estimated $60 million over 12 months were ordered Wednesday by the State Insurance Board.

Rate cuts averaging 5.3 percent statewide will take effect Feb. 1. The cuts are the first since December 1969. Since then, the cost of insuring workers against on-the-job injuries has soared.

Some industries will receive reductions greater than the statewide average — 7.6 percent for contractors and 8.8 percent for oil companies.

Manufacturing firms will average a 4 percent decrease in premiums, and the "all other" category that includes commercial establishments will experience an average reduction of 4.3 percent.

A firm's actual workers compensation premium will vary according to a several factors, including number of employees, wages paid and accident experience.

One exception to the rate cuts will be shipbuilding firms and ship repair yards — the so-called "F Class," which will have a 25 percent increase. Board actuaries said the shipyards' accident experience indicated a 40 percent rise in rates, but the board has had an unofficial policy for years of limiting increases to 25 percent.

Another group that was unhappy with the board order was the Texas Trial Lawyers Association, whose directors will decide within the next two months whether to appeal to the courts.

Even larger reductions are warranted than the board granted, the trial lawyers contend.

The trial lawyers built a voluminous record during almost three days of hearings in an attempt to show that board formulas give insurance companies too much money.

Spokesmen for the lawyers said the record might be used in a court appeal.

"Certainly you make a record so you have options open to you," said Tony Koriath, a former Texas Industrial Accident Board member who heads the trial lawyers' workers compensation project.

Koriath said the trial lawyers' board of directors has 30 days after the effective date of the rates to decide whether to appeal. Their first step would be to ask the insurance board for a rehearing.

The trial lawyers contend the board formula allocates too much of the premium dollar for company expenses and taxes and, therefore, too little for payment of claims.

For instance, the formula treats all insurance companies as if they paid the full 3.85 percent gross premiums tax.

At a hearing in November, board actuary Charles Porter said premiums could be cut another $22 million this year if the formula allowed only the average gross premiums tax payment of 1.74 percent.

The Texas Association of Business also opposed the existing rate formula and sought a greater increase.

Gerald Dorsey, TAB general counsel, said, the organization "quite possibly" would go to court and would file a motion for a rehearing by the board as a prelude to legal action.

Lyndon Olson Jr., sworn in Tuesday as the new board chairman, did not take part in the rate decision, which was based on information received before his appointment.

Tax Provisions Get Green Light

AUSTIN (UPI) — Legislative leaders anticipate few problems in implementing provisions of the Tax Relief Amendment approved in November by Texas voters, but say Governor-elect Bill Clements may have a more difficult time pushing through his plan for an additional $1 billion in tax relief.

The Tax Relief Amendment, proposed by the Legislature in a special session last summer and overwhelmingly adopted by voters, would save taxpayers about $1 billion in property and sales taxes when fully implemented.

Clements, who made tax relief a major issue in his campaign, has called for additional tax reductions of up to $1 billion.

"I don't regard that (tax relief) as a controversial issue," said Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby. "The Legislature adopted it and the people approved it. That's pretty straightforward."

Speaker Bill Clayton agreed the overwhelming voter approval of the tax relief measure has made it unlikely implementation will encounter any serious opposition when the Legislature convenes Jan. 9.

But Clayton said there may be problems in fully implementing all the tax relief provisions of the amendment in the first 60 days of the session — as Clements has indicated he will seek.

"Some of it is going to be deeply involved in the overall tax structure picture, and I don't know if we can settle it in 60 days," Clayton said.

He said the lawmakers may have to wait until major decisions on the appropriation bill are made later in the session to know how much of the projected $2.8 billion budget surplus will be available for tax relief.

Both Clayton and Hobby have indicated they see little chance for a second billion dollar tax relief proposal during the session because of increased expenditures required by inflation.

Zoners Tackle Heavy Agenda

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Members of the Planning and Zoning Commission face a lengthy and somewhat controversial agenda when they convene at 7 p.m. today in city council chambers.

The agenda is so long, city staff members are predicting two sessions will be necessary to decide all the cases before the commission.

Residents of Ranch Acres in Southwest Lubbock already are mobilizing in opposition to two of the requests for zone changes.

One is the request of James M. Lipscomb to change the zoning from single family (R-1) to apartment-medical (AM) on property located west of Slide Road and south of 66th Street.

The residents also plan to fight the request of Robert Messersmith and C. Daniel Uzzle, representing Robert L. Dandenu and William T. Stadley, to change the zoning from R-1 to two family (R-2), high density apartment (A-2) and local retail (C-2) on land south of 68th Street and east of Albany Avenue.

Gordon Thompson, representing KFYO, Inc., plans to request a change in zoning around the radio station's transmitter site north of 82nd Street and east of Quaker Avenue.

Thompson wants one parcel changed from R-1 to R-1 specific use to permit the expansion of the station operations and wants the property north and west of the transmitter zoned C-2.

C. Clayton Yeager, representing Furr's, Inc., plans to request a change from C-2 to commercial (C-4) south of Loop 289 and east of Quaker Avenue to permit the construction of a muffler repair shop.

The request of Gilberto P. Ortiz, for Antonio A. Romero Jr., for a change from R-1 to light manufacturing (M-1) north of 14th Street and east of Holly Avenue faces opposition from the city's Urban Renewal Agency as well as the city staff.

Ortiz wants the zone change to legalize an existing cement business stack lot in the midst of a residential neighborhood.

Neighbors are expected to fight the request of John D. Abney, representing himself, Ralph Brock, Shelton Berry, See ZONING Page 7

Court Suit Accuses Armstrong

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The World-wide Church of God and two of its properties — Ambassador College at Big Sandy — have been temporarily put under court jurisdiction after the California attorney general's office accused the church's founder and his chief aide of siphoning off "several million dollars a year."

In a suit filed Tuesday, the attorney general's office accused 86-year-old Herbert W. Armstrong and Stanley Rader, 48, the church's general counsel and treasurer, of liquidating much of the church's property at prices well below market value.

"Dozens and possibly as many as 50 pieces of real estate held by the church have been sold in the last few months," said Deputy Attorney General Lawrence Tapper. Among those were the college's campus at Big Sandy, which was reportedly sold for $10 million, although it was valued at $30 million.

The Big Sandy campus was sold to a Virginia businessman who in turned has offered to lease it to Texas Evangelist Lester Roloff. Roloff has been trying to raise $10.6 million to lease the campus for his Roloff Enterprises, which operates homes for wayward children.

Roloff said today he had been given a 30-day extension to raise the money. The first deadline was today and Roloff was reportedly about $8 million short of the necessary funds.

Attorney general's agents Wednesday seized records and bank account information of the 75,000-member church and two of its properties, Ambassador College and Ambassador International Cultural Foundation Inc.

"We are going to find out what is happening to tens of millions of dollars in funds of the church," said Tapper. "We understand there has been a rapid liquidation of funds in recent months."

A complaint seeking a full accounting of funds of the church, college and cultural foundation was filed by the attorney general and six long-time members and contributors to the Pasadena-based church.

The complaint claimed that Armstrong and Rader siphoned off church property and assets "for their own use and benefit, on a massive scale, amounting to several million dollars per year." The suit terms this "pilfering."

Rader contended the legal action was based on "wild conclusions and things that are not true" and said the church would go to court to overturn the receivership order. A Jan. 10 hearing has been set in Superior Court on whether a permanent receiver should be appointed.

SEPARATES SUIT — Modular parts in a khaki-colored cotton blend twill make up a good-looking, thoughtful put-together. Pocket treatment and top-stitching details repeat on each piece of this well-cut, beautifully tailored suit.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR READERS: My recent item, "What to do about obscene telephone calls," prompted a rash of responses. Some berated me for suggesting that a police whistle be kept by the phone to blast the caller into the next county. "What if your mother-in-law calls and you mistakenly think the obscene caller is calling again? That blast could seriously impair her hearing," one reader stated.

Well, here's the official word from the Pacific Telephone Co.: If you should get an obscene phone call, HANG UP!

That's right, just hang up. That's the fastest, most effective way to discourage annoying calls. The people who make them actually need an audience. And taking that away from them — by hanging up — takes away their entire motivation for making the calls in the first place.

So at the first disturbing remark, simply hang up. Gently — because any reaction at all can serve to encourage them. Don't yell, don't speak, don't even mutter. Don't give the caller the satisfaction of any response whatsoever. Just hang up.

If the caller continues to harass you, call the business office of your phone company. They have people trained to deal with this type of situation. And they will do everything including working with your police department, to avert further problems.

Obscene phone calls are illegal. A convicted offender can be sentenced to up to six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

But the best thing to do is just remember that simple rule. It's your telephone — if you don't like what's being said, HANG UP!

DEAR ABBY: What advice have you for a 23-year-old girl who, everybody says, is pretty and smart, but who lives in a small town with snobbish people who won't let her forget that she lives on the wrong side of the tracks?

Dear Me: The next time the train comes through — get on it.

DEAR ABBY: I was married at a very young age to a man I never really loved. I have two fine teen-age children. My marriage didn't work out because my husband used to beat me a lot. After I divorced him, I feel deeply in love with a woman. It was easy for me, since I have always felt a strong sexual attraction for women, but I never allowed myself to have an affair with one.

I am now living with this wonderful woman and have never been happier. The relationship is so comfortable and natural for me. My children know what I

The longer you play bridge, the more you learn that it is dangerous to use the word "never" in connection with the game. One of the oldest laws is: "Never give declarer a ruff-and-stuff." That should be qualified by: "unless it is the only way to defeat the contract." Watch what happened when enterprising defenders ignored this stricture at the recent Fall National Championships.

At many tables East took advantage of the vulnerability to preempt with four diamonds. However, North refused to be shut out. He correctly chose to double rather than bid four hearts so that his partner would have the option of playing in spades, if he was long in that suit. His foresight proved timely, for spades is clearly the preferred contract.

West led the king of diamonds. Looking at all four hands, it would seem that, with the king of spades well placed, declarer can hold his losers to two diamonds and a club. But follow the play.

East overtook the king of diamonds with the ace and cashed the queen. Any shift now would allow declarer to coast home, for the ten of hearts serves as an entry for the trump finesse. However, at some tables East found the killing defense of a third diamond.

Declarer ruffed with an honor, and had West overruffed, there would have been no tale to tell. But West simply discarded, and now he had to score a trump trick as well as the ace of clubs for a one-trick set.

Among the players to find the defense were world champions Bob Hamman and Bobby Wolff, and two California ladies—Jill Meyers and Kay Schulle-Mohan.

Ordinary Household Items Dangerous To Small Child

By HERB ALEXANDER

The emotional, social and economic differences in a home after the arrival of children are pretty obvious. But while things may be different for you, the house is the same and there is where trouble can be.

A house perfectly safe and usable for adults is suddenly filled with hazards for children.

Even the decoration for a nursery or a room for older children will be different from that in an adult's room.

While all paints are washable, some are more washable than others — a matter of prime importance when you find that a wall that might have been washed once a year at most may now have to be scrubbed in spots almost daily. So when you repaint, pick paints that are reasonably impervious to fingerprints, crayons and paints.

If you prefer wallpaper you will prefer even more those kinds that are easily washable.

Where there are small children crawling around and chewing on any handy object, make certain the paints you use are nontoxic. Avoid paints that contain lead or lead chromate. Most manufacturers will indicate on the label if a paint is safe for nursery use.

Keep lamp cords out of the way as much as possible. Replace immediately any that might be frayed or broken. Check plug ends for cracks or for exposed wires.

Children often probe electric outlets with metal objects. Install the kind that have caps over the opening. The caps remain open as long as anything is plugged in, but springs closed as soon as the plug is removed.

Medicine chests should be cleaned. Poisons, obviously, do not belong anywhere around. But neither do aspirin or any other seemingly harmless item.

Keep cleaning materials (ammonia, detergents, cleaning fluids) out of reach. Flammable materials should not be stored in the house at all.

Power tools should be rigged so that they cannot be turned on easily. Do more than disconnect them. Put a padlock somewhere in the works and remove fuses (the power tools should be on a separate circuit anyway.)

As a matter of convenience you may want to replace electric switches, especially those in and around the nursery, with silent switches. These use mercury, which is a liquid, to make contact. Replacing a switch is simple. Just turn off the electricity for that circuit and use a screwdriver to remove the old switch and put in the new one.

Group Offers Women Goals

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — Women, in your heart of hearts, what would you be doing with your life right now, all things being equal?

You realize who's probably doing it, don't you: a man, maybe your husband, because things aren't equal and men even have an edge on dreams.

"Men have a record of ignoring fear and practicing failure because they're forced to do things whether they're scared or not," says Barbara Sher. "So a man grows up thinking maybe I can do that, and a woman thinks maybe I can marry that."

Which is why Mrs. Sher, 42, started Women's Success Teams, Inc. two and a half years ago. To give women a shot at their dreams — for a fee.

A one-time New York welfare worker and the founder in '69 of Group Laboratories, a "human potential growth center," she decided if women worked together the way men do — exchanging contacts, ideas, encouragement — they could do anything they really wanted to.

"The idea of teams occurred to me, five to nine women who all had different goals. And the team goal would be for all of them to meet their individual goals."

Becoming a player works like this. Mrs. Sher or one of her trainers goes into a city — Detroit, Dallas, Boston — and conducts a 12-hour seminar over three nights. You pay $250 to attend and on the third night you and all the other attendees are randomly split into teams.

You then pay $40 yearly for as long as you stay on a team. If you drop out because you're just not team oriented or you're no nearer becoming a clarinetist than before, Mrs. Sher says you get a refund. "But," she adds, "only five percent drop out of teams and that's because they've met their goals."

In any case, by night three you'll also have gone through ego-building sessions, filled out questionnaires, started a workbook, learned about "flow charts" — how to get from here to there — set target dates for your goals and found out who you are, what you want and why you don't have it.

From then on, it's up to you and your team to meet weekly and get it. To help, you'll also get a national newsletter and have access to the contacts and resources of the 2,000 women who've "come through" the program so far all over the country.

No dream is too fantastic, no fantasy too ethereal Mrs. Sher says, because the dreamer works with four substantial tools: specifics, accountability, realism and desire.

"First of all, we take the wildest fantasy in the world and reduce it step by step until you're at a step you can take now, today."

You want to fly a 747? Call some flying schools and find out what it takes to get a pilot's license. That's a step you can take now.

Chances are you'll do it, too, she says, because your team expects an account of what the schools said when it meets next week. "If you want to go to Africa and nobody cares if you do or not, that's why it doesn't get done," she says. "You're not accountable to anyone."

And if you don't call, then you don't really want to fly a 747. People do what they must, given enough desire.

Step by step, target date by target date, then, you get closer to your goals or discover, in reality, they're not worth reaching. Whatever. En route, your team will prod, sympathize, encourage and, when you don't know how or where to go from here, brainstorm with you.

That's what participants did on the third night of a recent Women's Success Teams seminar in a New York hotel. Eighteen women sat in a circle and each one got three minutes to ask for and get advice or information on her goal.

A large, European-accented blonde began. "I have 17 years experience as a physical fitness teacher but I'm unable to make new contacts. I want to set up lunchtime programs in corporations."

A woman across from her said, "I suggest you contact Fairleigh Dickinson University where they have a leisure program and are looking for people like you."

Next, a young woman said, "I just started as an insurance agent and I need help getting organized. My secretary is terrible."

"I used to be a secretary and I'll spend one morning helping you file," offered one woman.

"And my father is an insurance agent who trains agents. He could help you," said another. "That's great, just great" the young agent responded.

There was an actress who wanted a manager, a potter who wanted to show her pots and on and on. "They'll all have a list of specific things to do and report to their teams on next week," Mrs. Sher said. "Somebody to call to get started and if not, there's always the orthodox way of doing something."

With luck, there's even the unlikely. A shy brunette took a deep breath and said, "I must find out what it's like working in public relations."

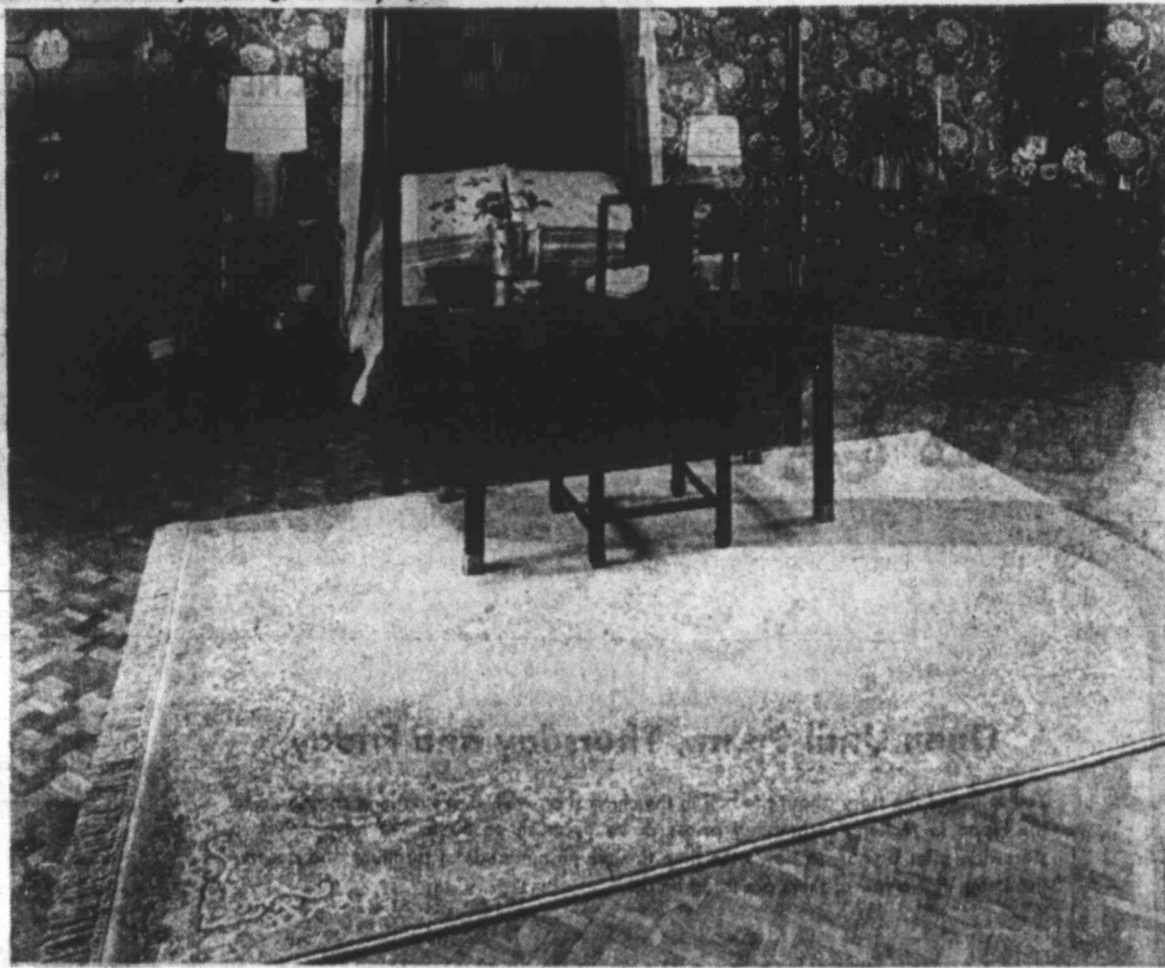

Immediately, a well-dressed professional said, "If you call me, I can put you in touch with someone in a PR firm who will put you to work immediately for a small salary."

Maybe the shy brunette will find she hates public relations, or open her own agency. In either case, she just learned the truth of one old saw: it's not what you know...

Good Diet Aids Many Athletes

SAN ANTONIO (Special) — "More superstitious behavior is associated with athletics and sports than any other area," said Nathan J. Smith, M.D., Professor of Pediatrics and Sports Medicine, University of Washington, Seattle.

"An athlete can explain his losses, but can't explain his wins. He has a blind dedication that if a little is good, then more is better." This philosophy not only concerns the athlete's performance, but also his dietary practices.

Dr. Smith works with schools to help prepare high school students for athletic competition. Smith suggests that a basic diet based on the four food groups is the best way to meet the basic dietary needs of high school students, whether or not they are involved in sports.

A good diet for teens is a 4-2-4-4 diet. That is, four servings from the milk group, two from the meat group, and four from both the vegetables-fruits and breads-cereals groups.

"Eat what you need, then what you want," the researcher said as he showed slides of pizza, spaghetti, hamburgers and steaks — all nutritious foods. "Vigorous exercise doesn't increase the body's need for anything except water and energy."

Many of the high school students he works with have problems meeting their basic nutritional needs. Smith reported that 32 percent of male and female athletes he worked with did not eat breakfast; 20 percent did not eat lunch; 50 percent eat candy; and 60 percent took vitamin supplements.

The best suggestion he could give to young athletes is to have a good diet, with plenty of water.

"A well fed and hydrated kid can have a more successful season than one with poor dietary habits and the same amount of conditioning," he said. "While both athletes may be evenly matched at the beginning of the competition, the better nourished individual will have the energy reserves needed to win."

Alaska Waits For Birthday Gift

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The state of Alaska is 20 years old, but Gov. Jay Hammond says a 100-million-acre birthday present from Uncle Sam has not arrived yet.

It was noon on Jan. 3, 1959, that President Dwight Eisenhower signed the proclamation making Alaska the nation's 49th state, ending nearly a century of territorial status and years of intense struggle for admission.

Today, state officials are involved in a different struggle, one that has even spawned a minor political party, which advocates secession.

Alaska was promised 104.5 million acres of land as part of statehood. So far it has received only 35 million acres from the federal government.

"We Alaskans find ourselves celebrating statehood when in fact we have yet to receive the state lands promised us on that day 20 years ago," said Hammond Wednesday.

Part of the problem is that some lands the state wants are among the 110 million acres that Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus closed last November for a three-year wilderness study.

Last month, after Congress failed to pass a bill settling the lands dispute, President Carter delighted conservationists by invoking the 1906 Antiquities Act to convert 56 million of the 110 million acres into national monuments. The highly restrictive designation prohibits all forms of economic development — even hunting.

U.S. Working On Conversion Technique

HOUSTON (UPI) — The United States is developing a method for converting previously unattainable coal to a clean gas that could be used commercially by 1987, an Energy Department official says.

Edward L. Burwell, chief of the Energy Department's underground coal conversion office, said Wednesday the conversion of low-grade Western coal that is too deep underground to mine appears economically competitive with imported gas. Burwell said almost 1.8 trillion tons of coal are believed available for underground coal gasification.

"This huge resource would more than quadruple the U.S. proven reserves," he told an energy symposium of the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Burwell said studies indicate at least one commercial plant could be working by 1987.

Only 7 percent of the nation's enormous coal deposits are economically recoverable by conventional methods of strip mining.

Charles Brandenburg of the Laramie, Wyo., Energy Technology Center, said the Soviet Union already has at least two large plants in operation and a third may be under construction.

The Energy Department is spending $15 million a year to develop the process, and Brandenburg estimated private companies are spending an equal amount. Texas Utilities Co. has purchased know-how from the Soviets and is conducting tests in Texas.

The process does not require coal to be mined. Instead, air or oxygen is injected into a coal seam, the coal is ignited to produce temperatures of about 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit and steam from water in the coal reacts with unburned coal to produce gas, which is extracted from a well.

State officials called Carter's action "the largest land freeze in American history" and filed suit against both Carter and Andrus. Last month, the president was burned in effigy in Fairbanks.

Hammond's says Alaska must work to revoke the Antiquities Act, but secessionists like the Alaskan Independence Party would just as soon leave the red tape and federal lobbying behind.

Party leaders Donald Wright, an Indian, and Joseph Vogler, a crusty gold miner, say the United States holds illegal title to most of Alaska's lands, and that U.S. laws made for a developed nation don't fit the needs of a developing area like Alaska.

Most Alaskans felt differently 20 years ago. Those battling to make what most Americans considered a vast frozen wilderness the 49th state faced substantial odds.

Southern Democrats feared the addition of Alaska's representatives would help pass civil rights legislation. Others argued that the sparsely populated territory would not be able to support itself.

The discovery of huge oil deposits changed that.

The Trans-Alaska Pipeline was completed in the summer of 1977, but the financial windfall has thus far not been up to expectations. The state is estimated to be spending $55 million more this fiscal year than it is receiving from taxes and oil royalties.

Prudhoe Bay's proven gas reserves represent about 10 percent of all known U.S. reserves, and "potential reserves on the rest of (Alaska's) North Slope may exceed those at Prudhoe Bay," said R.R. Meyer, president of the Northwest Alaskan Pipeline Co.

An Anchorage Times birthday editorial noted that for Alaska in general, the record for the past 20 years has been a good one.

The state survived the biggest earthquake to hit North America. The 1964 killer registered 8.5 on the Richter Scale and claimed 131 lives. Damage was fixed at $400 million to $500 million.

The $7.7 billion, 800-mile oil pipeline is the world's biggest private construction project. It helped make Alaska the focal point in the U.S. drive for energy independence, and plans are underway on the $12 billion, 4,790-mile Alaska Gas Pipeline to deliver natural gas from Prudhoe Bay in the 1980s.

Alaska salmon fishermen in 1978 had their best season in almost 30 years, landing almost 77 million fish. Fish prices were high.

IRS Attempting To Seize Park's Assets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tongsun Park, the one-time Washington socialite, may have to make do without his Mercedes, Cadillac convertible and Lincoln limousine when he returns to the United States this month to testify at a trial.

U.S. District Judge Charles Richey Wednesday rejected the Korean rice dealer's bid to block the Internal Revenue Service from seizing $4.5 million in assets from his company, including the three luxury cars.

Richey's ruling was a major financial setback to Park, who has been doing business in London since the turmoil over his alleged central role in a South Korean influence-buying scheme in Congress.

Park is due to return to the United States later this month to testify at the related trial of Louisiana rice miller Grover Connell, who allegedly paid Park commissions that eventually were passed on to congressmen.

The IRS charged on Jan. 18, 1977, that Park owed $4,500,619.20 in back taxes and interest for his earnings as a rice merchant and from other business ventures while in Washington.

Park also is challenging the IRS tax assessment in tax court.

Park left the country in mid-1977 after he was publicly linked to the influence-peddling scandal.

The government sought to seize money in two bank accounts, 50,000 shares of oil company stock, a Mercedes, a Cadillac convertible, a Lincoln limousine and a $1 million life insurance policy on Park, all owned by the company.

INVESTIGATION SKETCHES — The Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation released composite drawings Wednesday of three persons wanted for questioning in connection with the deaths of three members of a Texas family. On June 23, the bodies of Air Force Sgt. Melvin Lorenz and his wife and son were found along Interstate 35 near Purcell, Okla. An OSBI spokesman says the two men in the sketches are considered suspects and the woman was seen in their company. Investigators say the three were seen in the Lorenz pickup around the time of the murders. A link has been established between the Lorenz case and the July 16 slayings of six Oklahoma City steakhouse employees since the same guns were believed used in both crimes. (AP Laserphoto)

Composite Drawings Released

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Composite drawings of two men and a woman wanted for questioning in the murders three members of a Texas family have been released by the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation.

An OSBI agent says the two men "should be considered suspects" in the June 22 murders.

"These would not necessarily be prime suspects," agent Arthur Linville said, pointing out there have been many suspects in the killings.

The drawing of the woman was issued because she was seen in the company of the men, Linville said.

Linville said the two men were seen in what was believed to have been the pickup owned by Air Force Sgt. Melvin Lorenz, who was slain June 22 along with his wife and son along I-35 near Purcell.

"This sighting occurred prior to the discovery of the bodies, but after our best estimate of the time of the homicides," Linville said.

The composite sketches have "the potential of being a major break in the case," he said.

Linville said the dark blue Ford pickup with a white camper shell and North Dakota license plates was spotted more than 100 miles away from the murder scene, but he refused to give the location for fear of discouraging persons who have seen the pickup in other areas of the state from reporting it.

The witness, who Linville said spotted the pickup twice, went to authorities a few days after the Lorenz family was discovered killed alongside the roadway. But OSBI agents were skeptical that the killers would have traveled any great distance in the dead family's pickup, he said.

"Certain information came to light recently which made us look more favorably towards the possibility that it was the Lorenz pickup" seen in a central Oklahoma town, Linville said.

Linville said the information had been a factor in the investigation for some time.

The witness spotted the two men in a pickup the morning of June 22 at a convenience store parking lot and later saw the two men with a woman inside a restaurant, with the pickup parked nearby.

"The reliability of the witness is not in question," Linville said.

He said the two men are viewed as suspects in the deaths of members of the Lorenz family and the woman was apparently "just an acquaintance of the suspects," he is wanted for questioning.

Linville said there was a "possible family resemblance" in the composite drawings between the male suspect wearing glasses and the woman, indicating they may be brother and sister.

He said witnesses indicated the man wearing glasses appeared to have "a wandering eye."

The crime bureau released no physical descriptions of the persons sought for questioning.

"We're going to let the facial characteristics speak for themselves," Linville said.

He said the OSBI was gearing up for a deluge of telephone calls after the release of the drawings and encouraged anyone who might recognize the three persons to contact the OSBI at 405-427-5421.

He guaranteed anonymity to anyone furnishing information.

Ballistics experts have linked the death weapons in the Lorenz case to the July 16 slayings of six southwest Oklahoma City steakhouse employees on July 16.

ACORN Plans Generic Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas consumer activists say brand name drugs cost too much and they will sponsor a bill in the upcoming Legislature to give customers the option of buying a brand name or its generic equivalent.

Several previous attempts to pass generic drug legislation have failed under attack from doctors and pharmaceutical companies, who maintain there are subtle but important differences between some brand name drugs and their generic equivalents.

The Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now asserted Wednesday that Texans often pay two to three times more for brand name drugs than for their generic substitutes.

The association said its members surveyed drug prices in more than 60 pharmacies in Austin, Dallas, Houston, Denton, Abilene, Fort Worth and Haltom City, near Fort Worth.

The findings included:
— One Dallas pharmacy charges $7.00 for 100 capsules of Equanil and only $1.10 for its generic substitute, meprobamate.

— A Houston pharmacy charges $19.38 for Polycillin, while its generic equivalent, ampicillin, is priced at $8.70.

— A Fort Worth drug store charges $14.25 for 100 capsules of Librium but only $4.55 for 100 capsules for its generic substitute, chlordiazepoxide.

"Texans, particularly sick Texans, clearly are not getting a fair shake," said Tony Hernandez of Austin, a member of ACORN's executive board.

Doctors can prescribe generic substitutes, ACORN said, but it is illegal for pharmacists to substitute a generic drug if a brand name drug has been prescribed.

ACORN said the federal government defines generic equivalents as "those multiple source drug products which contain essentially identical amounts of identical active ingredients as in the official Compendia."

ACORN said when pharmacists were asked how many doctors were prescribing generic equivalents, the highest response was 33 percent. Some pharmacists said as few as 1 percent of the doctors prescribe generic equivalents.

"ACORN members believe that Texas needs a law which would make these medicines more readily available to people by allowing the pharmacists to inform their customers and to substitute the less costly generic drugs for the often more expensive brand name drugs," said Willo Hardin of Austin. "We plan a major effort to see such a bill passed during this legislative session."

ACORN is a statewide association of community organizations that claims more than 6,000 member families. Its state headquarters is located here.

Nursing Home Point System To Take Effect

AUSTIN (AP) — A new point system that will grade probably 20 percent of Texas nursing homes "superior" and let them flaunt that rating in their advertising takes effect Feb. 1.

The State Health Department announced its final rules for the rating system this week.

A bill passed by the Legislature in a 1977 special session that dealt with nursing home abuses revealed by the Luffkin News authorized the rating system.

"Under the system, a facility could achieve a superior grade without the necessity of large expenditures," the health department said.

Homes that get a superior rating must display their certificate and may mention the rating in their advertising.

A nursing home will keep its superior rating for a year unless it is disciplined later for a violation.

Inspections to determine if a home deserves a superior grade will be unannounced. A home's certificate and advertising must include the date it received its superior rating.

The health department said it expected only about 20 percent of all nursing homes in Texas to receive a superior rating in the first year.

"Future years should see that percentage rise as other homes improve," it said.

Both bonus points and demerit points will be used, and a home must achieve a net score of 95. For instance, a home receiving 115 bonus points and 20 demerits would get a superior rating.

A home would automatically fail to win a superior ranking if it exceeded the maximum allowable demerits in various categories, such as 10 minus points for dietary service. Also, a home could not have more than 43 negative points and still be rated superior.

Zoning Commission Faces Long Agenda

Mrs. Lawrence Bacon, A.J. Malouf and Charlie Moore, for a change in zoning from R-1 to restricted local retail (C-2A) and from R-1 to R-2 on property south of 56th Street and east of Slide Road.

Residents of the O'Neal Terrace neighborhood are expected to oppose the request of Jack McQueen, representing John D. Riley, for a change from R-1 to AM specific use to permit the construction of professional offices south of 33rd Street and west of Avenue Q.

Other cases to be considered by the commission include:

—Request of Steve M. Hurt, representing Lubbock Bible Church, for a change from R-1 to C-2A on property south of 66th Street and east of Iola Avenue.

—Request of Harland D. Weaver for a specific use permit to permit the mining of caliche north of East Fordham Street and east of North Birch Avenue.

—Request of Bob Jordan for a change from R-2 to C-4 north of 35th Street and east of Avenue A to allow the expansion of the parking lot for an existing bar.

—Request of Kenneth R. Ramage, for Juanita Ramage, for a change from R-1 to A-2 to permit the construction of apartments north of Marshall Street and west of North Akron Avenue.

—Request of Tom Scarborough for a change from multi-family zoning (R-3) to general retail (C-3) to permit the expansion of Tom's Tree Place east of Slide Road and north of 34th Street.

—Request of Harold Chapman, for Harold Chapman and Rufus Rush, for a change from AM to R-1 west of Quaker Avenue and south of Seventh Street.

—Request of Roger Loter, representing Legends, Inc., to change the zoning on the old La Fonda del Sol restaurant site from R-1 to C-3 to clear the way for another restaurant. The property is located south of Farm Road 2641 and west of the Amarillo Highway.

—Requests of Jack Geddes, representing Bobby Day, to amend a site plan on property located south of 63rd Street and east of Indiana Avenue, and to change the zoning from R-2 to A-1 on property south of 36th Street and east of Ironton Avenue.

—Request of Roy Love, for Bethel Assembly Church, to change the zoning from R-1 to A-2 on property north of 76th Street and east of Avenue U to permit the construction of a church.

—Request of John King, representing Sportsman Supply, to change the zoning on property north of 74th Street and west of Avenue X from A-1 to R-2 and C-2.

Also on the agenda is consideration of a change in the zoning districts in which upholstery shops are permitted.

Gas Fumes Kill Family Member

ABILENE (AP) — One man was killed and four members of his family were hospitalized Wednesday because of carbon monoxide poisoning. Police said the house had a faulty furnace.

Jim Boyd, 46, was pronounced dead at his home at 8 p.m. by Justice of the Peace Silas Clark, who ordered an autopsy.

Boyd's wife Sherry, 39, and their son Jimmy Boyd, 13, were hospitalized in serious condition, and two other sons, Jarrod Boyd, 9, and Jason Boyd, 5, were hospitalized in guarded condition.

Hospital officials said all survivors were suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Clark said Boyd had been dead "a good long time. It probably happened last night (Tuesday)."

Lone Star Gas officials told police the furnace in the Boyd home was improperly vented. Police Sgt. Jack Dieken said, "The front cover had been dislodged, causing carbon monoxide to circulate back into the house rather than outside."

'Mental Vibrations' Reveal Number

By SHARI LEWIS
Oh, the groans. Oh, the scorns — when I finally tell how my daughter and I do this trick. But till I tell, we get nothin' but oohs and aahs, because this easy trick is good and easy.
Here's what we do: I leave the room and my daughter asks someone to pick a "favorite" number. Then somebody else brings me back into the room. At this point, I claim that my daughter and I have communication, and her mental vibrations will tell me the number chosen in my absence. I put my fingertips lightly on her temple and, in a moment, I name the "correct" number.
Here's how I know: As I put my fingertips on the side of her head (supposedly to get her mental vibrations) she simply tightens her jaws. This makes the muscles in her forehead press out against my fingers. She bites her teeth together once for each number. For example, if the number is 26, she would bite her teeth together twice (indicating "2" "2"), and then she would pause and bite her teeth together six times. That's 26! She and I have worked out a code for zero — she presses her teeth together 10 times.

Yesterday's Brain Twister: What is NBC?
Answer: A pretty dumb way to start the alphabet.
TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: If you were in a room that had no windows or doors and only had a mirror and a table in it, how would you get out? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

Feed Supplement Cuts Cholesterol In Eggs

BELLEVILLE, N.J. (AP) — A New Jersey pharmacologist has developed a dietary supplement for chickens that he says will cut the cholesterol in eggs they lay by more than 30 percent.

Dr. Samuel Klein, the inventor, says the decreased cholesterol level reduces the risk of heart attacks and high blood pressure for people who eat the eggs.

Klein received a patent last month after three years of testing the vegetable-based, poultry-feed, supplement at Research Organic-Inorganic Chemical Corp. here.

The supplement contains ingredients such as capsicum pods, licorice, parsley, elder flowers, rose hips and devil's aprons.

"By adding a small amount of vegetable material costing a few cents to each 50-pound bag of feed, cholesterol levels can be significantly reduced without changing the taste or the nutritive value of the eggs," Klein said.

The cholesterol in egg yolks also can be reduced by giving chickens chemical injections, he said. But the eggs are then scarce specialty items costing between $2 and $3 a dozen, Klein said.

Klein's formula calls for 6 to 12 percent iodine, 10 to 20 percent niacin and 1 to 5 percent in natural hormones, according to the patent registered in Washington, D.C.

Klein said he tested his supplement at a poultry farm, and tests showed hens eating supplemented feed laid eggs with about one-third less cholesterol than chickens on a regular diet.

The results were even better when large hens were fed a ration containing 2 percent of another vegetable mix containing such things as nettle, unicorn root, blueberries and stonewort, Klein said.

Cleveland Council Boss Offers Another Plan

CLEVELAND (UPI) — George Forbes, Cleveland City Council president and arch political enemy of Mayor Dennis Kucinich, today offered a new plan to save the city from bankruptcy and avoid the layoffs of 400 city workers.

Forbes said his plan, which would raise up to $15 million in 75 days, was "the only sane approach available which can keep people working."

Kucinich was out of town and unavailable for comment. The plan, which requires action by the Ohio Legislature and will be introduced there later today, would allow businessmen to pre-pay a portion of their real estate and personal property taxes to Cleveland.

"The legislature says they'll pass it and the businessmen say they'll pay it," Forbes said.

"In light of the coming school situation (busing for desegregation begin next month), we don't want to lose any police officers," Forbes said.

Among the 400 slated for layoff are 275 police officers.

Forbes also promised action by the council on the sale of certain city-owned land — a move that could bring in an additional $3 million.

Kucinich previously had said the sale of $5 million in city-owned land would avert the layoffs, scheduled to become effective Friday.

"It would significantly improve the city's cash flow picture for the first quarter of the year," Cleveland Finance Director Joseph Tegreene said when told of Forbes' plan. "But until I can sit down and review all the details of the council president's plan with the mayor, I really cannot comment further."

As for the legislature's action, it is needed because state law currently does not allow businesses to make a partial payment of real estate and personal property taxes.

But if Forbes' proposal is approved, it would permit large Cleveland businesses to pay the city portion of their taxes while withholding payment — until normally due — of the portion of their tax bill that goes to schools, Cuyahoga County and other taxing districts.

William J. McNea, president of the Cleveland Police Patrolmen's Association, first disclosed that Forbes would agree to at least some of the land sales proposed by Kucinich.

"George and I talked on the phone throughout the day," McNea said today. "He said he's willing to sell some land and that there is no need for any layoffs."

Kucinich had said the layoffs would be necessary at least until city voters, in a special election Feb. 27, decide whether to increase the city income tax by 0.5 percent and whether to sell the debt-ridden Municipal Light System.

Kucinich said shortly after the city defaulted on $15.5 million in short term notes on Dec. 15 that he would have to layoff 2,000 city workers including about half the police force and half the members of the fire department.

He later rescinded that order after the banks holding the short-term notes said they would take no court action until the vote in the special election.

Kucinich said Tuesday that he would still have to layoff 400 workers on Friday for the city to meet its financial obligations.

The only way to avoid those layoffs Friday, said Kucinich, was for the council to approve the land sales or for the State Police and Firemen's Disability Pension Fund to delay collection of the $5.4 million the city owes the fund.

The state attorney general's office has said it would be illegal to delay collection of the money for the pension fund.

Medical Examiner Says Bodies Neatly Arranged

CHICAGO (AP) — The arrangement of the 26 bodies found under the home of John Wayne Gacy Jr. "was orderly, something well thought out," says the Cook County Medical Examiner.

Some of the skeletons were laid in rows along the outside walls of the house, while others were placed diagonally — pointing toward the center of the crawl space that was their burial ground, said Dr. Robert Stein.

Stein commented Wednesday in an interview with WMAQ radio.

The medical examiner, in charge of the search for bodies at Gacy's home northwest of Chicago, described the crawl space as an orderly, homemade graveyard.

Stein said some bodies were found on top of each other, indicating the victims could have been buried at the same time.

Some bodies, he said, were wrapped in a tarpaper-like material and several had cloth stuffed into their mouths. Four had rope around their necks, Stein said.

He said there was no evidence any of the victims were female.

Police have said Gacy, a convicted sex offender, had admitted to sexually molesting and then murdering 33 youths. He reportedly told police he buried 27 bodies at his home and dumped five in the Des Plaines River.

Besides the bodies in the crawl space, a body was found under Gacy's garage. Two bodies, both those of teen-age males, have been pulled from the Des Plaines River and linked to the investigation.

Gacy is charged in the death of Robert Piest, 15, whose body has not been found. Only six of the 29 bodies have been identified.

Authorities said they have obtained 30 dental charts from the families of missing teen-age boys.

Earlier Wednesday, Stein said some of the bodies may remain "forever unidentified" unless more dental records are received. At that time, Stein's office had received only 15 dental records.

The state's attorney's office said evidence will be presented to a grand jury sometime this week.

STERILE WOMEN — These four women, workers at an American Cyanamid plant, say they had themselves sterilized after a company official implied that the surgery might help save their jobs at the chemical plant. Sterilized Chemical Workers Claim Official Aided Decision

WILLOW ISLAND, W.Va. (AP) — Four women say they had themselves sterilized after an American Cyanamid official implied the surgery might help save their jobs at the chemical plant.

"I'd never, ever do it again," said Barbara Cantwell, one of five workers sterilized.

Miss Cantwell was among nine female Cyanamid workers who met with an Associated Press reporter here Wednesday.

The women described meetings with Glen Mercer, plant personnel director — insurance coverage in response to questions. He denied saying women might be phased out of the chemical industry.

"We tried to talk them out of getting sterilized," he said. "In fact, our company doctor even went so far as to tell them what could happen while they were under the anesthetic."

"I can't imagine why they would have done such a thing," she said.

Miss Cantwell recalled sitting in the plant locker room and crying after learning two of her co-workers had been sterilized.

"And then, a month later, I found myself doing the same thing," she said. "That just shows you how scared I was."

"It makes me feel different, like a part of me is missing," said 27-year-old Betty Moler, who is married and has one child.

Seven of the women who met with the AP at the office of their union said they considered sterilization after talking with Mercer last January. One of the five sterilized women was at work during the meeting. All five have had at least one child.

Denise Cline, 22, who is married with one child, said she considered sterilization.

"But we talked her out of it," said co-worker Linda Matheny. "Wouldn't that have been terrible, and her just 22?"

Federal officials toured the plant Wednesday in response to a complaint from the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union of America. The union, which represents 560 of about 900 plant workers, has filed a complaint with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration charging some workers are in "imminent danger" from lead and other chemicals.

The union has also threatened to file suit over the sterilizations.

Plant officials have said eight women in the plant's pigment department were told they would have to be transferred because of possible lead danger to an unborn child.

Plant manager Jack White said the women were told they would receive their current salaries for 90 days. During that time, he said, they would be able to take jobs in other areas of the plant. Cyanamid officials say the lead levels at the plant are below the federal standard for men and women.

"The operations took place in April and May, for most part," said Donna Martin, 28, one of the women sterilized. "It was not a joint decision on our part. We made the decisions individually and we did it because we were afraid."

Mrs. Martin, who is married and has five children, said she asked Mercer if she had options besides sterilization — such as waiving the company's responsibility, or a vasectomy for her husband.

She said Mercer told her those suggestions could not be considered, adding:

"I was shocked, and then I was scared."

Follow-Up

discussions they said made them fear for their jobs and led them to conclude sterilization was the answer.

Mercer told them, they said, that federal regulations might soon require women to be phased out of the chemical industry. And he said Cyanamid planned to limit women able to have children to jobs in two sections of the plant because of possible lead danger to a fetus, the women said.

"He even said he felt sure our health insurance would cover the operation," said Miss Cantwell, a divorcee with two children.

Contacted after the meeting, Mercer denied encouraging the sterilizations, but conceded he might have discussed health

Pilot's Lawyer Disputes Report

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A lawyer for the United Air Lines captain whose jet crashed in Portland last week has disputed investigators' reports that the DC-8 ran out of fuel, saying the pilot chose a spot to crash land after the engines flamed out.

The statement by attorney Albert Malanca was the first word of pilot Malbrom's thoughts and actions in the final minutes before his jet crashed, killing 10 of 184 persons aboard.

Malanca spoke at a news conference after listening to a National Transportation Safety Board interview with his client Wednesday. Investigators interviewed Malbrom for 75 minutes, indicating he did an "amazing job" in landing the jet, Malanca said.

Investigators say evidence shows the plane ran out of fuel, but Malanca said Malbrom thought there was enough fuel to reach Portland International Airport.

"The captain was — and I believe all of the crew in the cockpit were — of the opinion there was sufficient fuel to make the airport," Malanca said.

He said that after the engines flamed out, pilot Malbrom made a quick attempt to determine how best to set the plane down — rejecting a landing in the Columbia River or on a nearby freeway.

The plane crashed into a grove of large evergreen trees and wrecked two unoccupied houses in a residential area of Portland three miles from the airport. There were no injuries or deaths on the ground.

A tape recording of a radio conversation showed the 52-year-old pilot said just after 6:03 p.m. that he had 3,000 pounds of fuel. The plane crashed at 6:14 p.m. Pilots and federal investigators estimate 3,000 pounds of fuel would last from 10 to 15 minutes in a DC-8.

"He chose an unlighted area where he could see trees and felt there were no people," Malanca said. "Rather than try for one final burst of power to try to get the plane to the airport, Malbrom chose to feather the plane down as gently as possible toward his chosen crash site."

Doug Dreifus, NTSB chief investigator, said the interview with Malbrom plugs the last major gap in the investigation. He said details of the interview would not be released by the board.

Malbrom, who lives in Loveland, Colo., and has been a United pilot for 27 years, was hospitalized in good condition with a broken ankle, broken vertebrae, a broken rib and bruises near his heart.

Malanca said that when Malbrom circled the airport for more than 30 minutes before the crash, he was not trying to rid the plane of fuel to minimize the chance of fire.

The attorney said the pilot was reasonably certain the landing gear had lowered, but felt the right landing gear was damaged.

In Washington, NTSB spokesman Robert Buckhorn said the board would decide soon if a public hearing would be held concerning the crash. He said that if such a hearing were to be held, it would take place in Portland.

Police Officer Verifies Flying Saucer Report

BRICK TOWN, N.J. (UPI) — A police officer dispatched to the home of a man who reported sighting a flying saucer Wednesday night says he too saw a "large balloon with a lot of lights."

Sgt. Charles Kelly said he received a call around 7:30 p.m. from an "excited citizen who said he saw a flying saucer."

"We didn't pay too much attention to the call until the man called back 10 minutes later and said it was still there," he said.

Kelly said the officer dispatched to the house, "saw something in the southeast sky, very high up. He observed it for about 20 minutes."

Kelly said the officer didn't want his name made public.

"You know how those headlines read: 'Cop sees little green men,'" Kelly said. "Actually, we're trying to downplay the sighting."

The UFO "looked like a large balloon with a lot of lights. It was stationary until it disappeared," Kelly quoted the officer as saying.

Kelly said he checked with the Coast Guard, the Lakehurst Naval Station and McGuire Air Force Base but none had aircraft in the area.

Kelly said the officer, who is a 6-year veteran of the Brick Township police force, "just clammed up once the calls started coming in."

Strike-Oriented Attacks Listed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — More strike-oriented violence has erupted on Pennsylvania highways as one tractor-trailer rig was burned and several more were hit by shotgun pellets, bricks and ball bearings, police said.

Authorities say they believe Wednesday's attacks, which injured three drivers, were the work of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers, whose members have been on strike for two months.

FASH Chairman Bill Hill disavowed the incidents, but one injured driver leveled accusations at the striking group.

"As far as I'm concerned, Billy Hill and his bunch are nothing better than hoodlums," said Larry Miller, one of two drivers injured when missiles crashed through their windshields in nearby Shaler Township.

State police also said a dozen rigs, some of them hauling steel, were peppered by shotgun pellets early Wednesday on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Somerset County. There were no arrests.

Pittsburgh police said a Portland, N.Y., driver carrying aluminum was pulled from his rig by about 15 unidentified men, who set it on fire.

Meanwhile, a federal judge continues to ponder his decision in a $3 million lawsuit by seven steel companies that claim the strike violates a permanent injunction protecting shipments.

The injunction, which followed a 1970 strike, was based on grounds that owner-operators are small businessmen who violate anti-trust laws if they strike.

Israelis Report UFO Sightings

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Hebrew press today carried accounts of scores of Israelis who claimed they saw unidentified flying objects after watching Australian television films of reported mysterious flying saucers.

On Wednesday night, Israel television broadcast film clips of reported UFOs in Australia and New Zealand.

Most of the Israeli reports came from Jerusalem. The newspaper Yediot Aharonot said some Israelis claimed they saw luminous, round objects even before the clip ran on television.

The newspaper Haaretz said scores of Jerusalem residents and policemen saw "three objects in extraordinary shades of red, blue and purple—like diamonds sparkling in the sun, the size of large flashlights. They moved forward, going up and down..."

The objects alternated colors and finally disappeared after one and a half hours, according to Haaretz.

Haaretz said police thought the reports were a hoax until they witnessed the saucers while checking out the numerous calls. Police later reported to the air force, but nothing registered on their radar screens

Haig Denies Political Ambitions

CASTEAU, Belgium (UPI) — General Alexander M. Haig is saying farewell to arms as NATO commander, but he denies that like Dwight D. Eisenhower he intends to return home and enter the world of politics.

Haig, 54, who has headed NATO defenses in Europe for four years, discussed himself and his fears about continued Soviet expansion at a news conference in the Allied Powers Headquarters Europe Wednesday.

"I have no political plans at this moment and I don't foresee any within the next six months," said Haig. He has submitted his resignation as Supreme Allied Commander Europe and as commander in chief of U.S. forces in Europe to NATO Secretary General Joseph Luns and President Carter.

Haig said he will return to "retired status" June 30. Pressed on his plans after that, the general who has had political experience as chief of the White House staff and diplomatic experience as a special presidential envoy to southeast Asia, added, "I don't exclude anything."

Haig pointed out his predecessors held the top defense posts in Europe usually for about four years. An exception was the late Gen. Eisenhower, first NATO commander in 1950, but who returned to the United States in 1952 to run for president.

Haig warned against the "myth" that Soviet interventionism was inspired by "paranoia about encirclement."

"As I look back over history, I find it very difficult to justify that assessment... If you sit down and do the arithmetic as some have, you'll find that on an average basis over the last hundred years, the Soviet Union has acquired the equivalent of a Netherlands each year," he said.

Judge Orders Settlement

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Jack W. Swink has approved a $37 million settlement of a complicated assortment of cases brought against Summa Corp. and the estate of the late Howard Hughes over the acquisition of Air West Inc.

Swink Wednesday ordered Summa and Hughes Airwest to pay $37 million to former stockholders of the airline, approving a compromise settlement reached by opposing attorneys.

Swink issued the order in response to a petition filed by Richard Gano, a special administrator of the Howard Hughes estate, to settle.

Swink stipulated the payment should not come from the Hughes estate, which is still in litigation.

The stockholders' suit alleged the late billionaire Hughes attempted to depress the price of Air West stock before its sale to him.

Passing Buck

I HAVE NEVER been what you might call a stat freak. Although I do have friends who can spend three or four hours drooling over a Dodger boxscore ("That's where the real story is," they say.), that small print has never done too much for me personally—except make me squint.

But there is one statistic that has always interested me—rather puzzled me more than any Agatha Hitchcock mystery ever could. How the experts determine the top quarterback in the NFL is perhaps the baffler of all times.

To locate the best QB from the weekly swarm of printed numbers is no doubt a formidable task. Every week a glob of statistics is issued by the office of the NFL. There are numbers on pass receivers and rushers, punters and punt returners, scorers and interceptors, as well as passing. Pick a stat, any stat.

By looking at these numbers it is relatively easy to determine who the league's leading rusher is by the number of yards gained. Which receiver leads the league is figured by who has the most catches and yards. And so on down the line.

But no so with the QB. There is an abstruse and ephemeral system to work out. Abstruse because even once you penetrate its foggy mystery, you are still not sure where you stand. Ephemeral because new systems pop up as often as the instant clichés of football.

TODAY'S QUARTERBACK rankings are determined by four categories: passing percentage based on attempts against completions, the percentage of touchdown passes made against the number of passes completed, the percentage of interceptions against the number of passes thrown and average yards gained per attempt.

Now line up all these numbers and compare them, giving a one to the best, and a two and three and on down the line to each quarterback in each category. Add each. Lowest number wins.

These weekly statistics should be an absorbing if transitory experience, like a brief love affair. The beauty is in the rainbow brevity. At odd future moments one may recall and savor the statistics and perhaps seek some real or dream-like meaning in them. Real freaks call them poetry.

STILL, STRANGE things have been known to happen right before the reader's eyes.

One week Archie Manning is fifth in passing. However, the next week he comes in for one play, is sacked and fumbles. The following week, Manning is raised to second in the standings because the quarterbacks ranked ahead of him had even more doleful days.

That's not the only quirk in the system. The question of who should get credit for a gain by a forward pass also pops up from time to time. A short passing quarterback like, say, Fran Tarkenton may throw a swing-pass and then watch his pass receiver zig and zag 60 yards with the ball. That is credited as a 60-yard pass by Tarkenton, no matter how deep in the backfield the pass was caught and how many tackles were broken along the way.

So we know that passing is not a wholly individual thing; the quality of blocking, the receivers' fingers, zone defenses and game plans have been known to come into play along the way.

IN THE LAST couple of years, the NFL office has lateralized the massive stat job to the competent hands of Elias Sports Bureau. One of the first acts of Elias was to try to make the passing statistic a thing of meaning. Or beauty, if you prefer.

Now, there is some consistency to it, if you can figure out what 'it' is. Before this, the quarterback ranking had changed almost yearly; it went into a cocoon in the spring and came out a new butterfly in the fall. Like nature, it was simple.

In 1945, for example, the top passer was picked by the percentage of completions. (Sort of like a batting average.) Sammy Baugh was number one with about a .900 percentage rate. But was too easy. If that system was used today, Ken Stabler, seventh on the AFC list one week, would have been first.

The rankings in 1954 were based on average yardage gained per game. That's the way the college running backs are ranked now. The leader? Norm Van Brocklin. Manning, the NFC leader, would have been fourth if that system were still being used.

Nothing has really seemed to work. So who really is the best quarterback? Since numbers don't answer the question entirely, take your pick. There are some good ones to choose from. If Eddie LaBaron was still around, the choice would be obvious.

Smith Bubbling Over Playoffs

'This team has shifted gears. It comes from the experience of being here as many times as they have.' — Dallas tight end Jackie Smith

By MIKE RABUN
UPI Sports Writer

Jackie Smith, the wavy-haired good old boy whose southern drawl has managed to survive 15 years of football in St. Louis, is an out of the ordinary commodity on the roster of the Dallas Cowboys.

Smith, 38, is enough of a veteran in the NFL to have once retired. But he has never been to the Super Bowl.

Now that he is with the Cowboys, however, he is surrounded by relative youngsters who look upon being in the playoffs and having a decent shot at the Super Bowl as a way of life.

Smith fairly bubbles about having a chance to play in the Super Bowl — something he never did while establishing himself as a superstar tight end with the St. Louis Cardinals.

And he is comforted by the fact that his teammates know what it is about and know how to prepare.

"This team seems to have shifted gears," said Smith. "It comes from the experience of being here as many times as they have."

Smith got a call from the Cowboys in the final days of September when backup tight end Jay Saldi was placed on the injured reserve list. He immediately was activated and played in the last 12 games of the regular season.

But he did not catch a single pass.

Then, in Dallas' divisional playoff victory over Atlanta last Saturday, he made three receptions for 38 yards and scrambled free in the end zone to grab a 2-yard touchdown throw from Danny White in the third quarter that tied the score.

And with the NFC championship game against the Los Angeles Rams fast approaching, Smith says he sees what play-off experience has done to the Cowboys.

"There is more concentration, more work," he said. "They all know that if you don't prepare right this week you will wind up playing the last game of the season."

"They are gearing up and thinking about the next one even stronger than they did about the last one. It's that kind of thinking that shows you they are taking advantage of their playoff experience."

Smith said it was not like that when he was with the Cardinals, who lost in the first round of the playoffs in 1974 and 1975.

"When the Cardinals finally won the division after so long, we were celebrating between the workouts," said Smith. "We were late in getting geared up for the game."

"The Cowboys know the importance of these games. The coaches do their work accordingly and the team gets itself ready as far as psychological intensity is concerned. It's like getting into overdrive, into a new year. I can tell the difference."

"I'm surprised they put that much into it. I was excited, naturally. It wouldn't take much to get me excited in a situation like this. But they are, too."

But if there is anybody on the Cowboys club who has any hint of complacency in their bodies, Smith is ready to lecture on the subject.

"Actually these players hide their intensity pretty well," he said. "They are not as emotional and outgoing as a lot of players on the Cardinal team. But I know this is a pretty emotional experience for me."

"Anybody in his right mind has to realize the importance of what this game means."

"You have such a short time to prepare for this game. This week could mean a lot to them. They will remember this game for the rest of their lives. If they spend just one week of dedicating themselves, become determined to make the most of it and to give it your best shot, then they will have nothing to regret.

"If you prepare to the best of your ability and lose, well, that's one thing. But if you don't prepare and lose, you will always regret it."

Fairbanks Stopped

BOSTON (AP) — A U.S. District Court judge has sacked lame-duck New England Patriots Coach Chuck Fairbanks, who wants to run from the National Football League to the University of Colorado.

Responding to a suit filed by the NFL team, Judge A. David Mazzone issued a temporary injunction Wednesday prohibiting Colorado from signing Fairbanks to a coaching contract.

A hearing will be held Jan. 12 on the Patriots' request for a permanent injunction that would bar the university from inducing the coach to break his NFL pact, which has four years and an option season left at $150,000 a year.

Colorado Athletic Director Eddie Crowder already has said Fairbanks will coach at the university. Crowder, who was in Miami for a Big Eight Conference meeting, was unavailable for comment Wednesday and his secretary in Boulder, Colo., said she didn't know where Crowder was.

WHA Debts Insured

EDMONTON (AP) — The success of the World Hockey Association's third attempt at a merger with the National Hockey League could well depend on the involvement of an insurance company.

The Aetna Insurance Corp., a partner in the group that owns the New England Whalers' franchise, has agreed to guarantee any judgment against WHA clubs, league president Howard Baldwin said in an interview Wednesday night.

Baldwin said an earlier report that the insurance company had agreed to underwrite any financial involvement of the New England franchise was not accurate. Its actual involvement in guaranteeing any possible lawsuits could be far more important.

The role of Aetna means no WHA or

NHL club will "have to dig into their jeans to put up dollars for any lawsuit."

Merger discussions between the two major hockey leagues have stalled because of possible lawsuits arising from a joining but Baldwin said the WHA doesn't expect any such court action.

Speaking after the WHA's All-Star banquet, Baldwin said the NHL has been hesitant to get into final merger talks because it "doesn't want to get sued."

"We don't expect any lawsuits but if any come up and we lose, the NHL doesn't want to have to come up with the dollars," Baldwin said. "That's understandable."

"What Aetna's involvement is allowing us to say is that any NHL exposure to lawsuits, as slight as it may be, is our problem, not theirs."

McPherson Off Bench At Last

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Ralph McPherson had a funny habit last season—his first as a Texas Tech cager—because he found himself in a role shared by many other college freshmen. He was a benchwarmer.

So after every game—particularly a close, hard-fought contest—he would seek out a young reporter. Finding someone to talk to, McPherson would confidentially drape his long arm around the reporter's shoulder and give him an exclusive interview.

"I'm just mentally and physically exhausted," McPherson would say with an exaggerated sigh. "Games like this just take it all out of me. I am emotionally drained—and that's all I've got to say."

But McPherson's quotes never made the headlines. They never even made the stories because no one cared about a freshman who rarely got a chance to work up a sweat during the game.

McPherson was coping with his role as a backup player. It was not a role he was used to.

After he had delivered his breath-taking message, the lanky Arlington native would then head for the showers. But the only thing McPherson's ritualistic showers ever accomplished last year were to give him a chance to mess up his hair. He always looked impeccable on the bench—every hair perfectly in place.

This year McPherson has had ample opportunity to muss his hair. He has been a starter for coach Gerald Myers since the season's outset. And he has performed well. McPherson may not dominate the box score but he has made his coach happy.

"Mac does the kind of things that don't always show up in the statistics," Myers has said. "But he is the kind of player that makes things happen. He sets picks, hits the open man on the pass and doesn't make mistakes."

Occasionally McPherson has even managed to creep into the statistics. He's been averaging 5.3 points and 4.4 rebounds per outing. He had a career high 12 rebounds in a close game against Northeast Louisiana and on two occasions has scored a season high 11 points.

So how is he coping with his starting habit? Well it seems that McPherson has developed another funny habit.

When approached by writers after a game, he'll sometimes react in a unique fashion.

"Did we have a game tonight?" he asks, feigning surprise. "Did I play?"

Now that he has established himself McPherson rarely has to resort to world-shattering quotes to get attention. His play speaks for itself.

Ralph's deadpan sense of humor is readily apparent in an interview:

Well, Ralph, you're getting to play quite a bit this year.

"Am I?"

About 20-25 minutes a game.

"Gee, that is a lot. Are you sure it's not more than that?"

Ralph, we're not getting anywhere.

"Where are we going?"

Never mind. Would you prefer to be shooting more?

"Nah, I'm really not very good at pool."

But occasionally he will get serious.

Like when someone mentions the subject of Tech's chances in conference play.

"I think we've got a good team," he says. "We're young and we make mistakes, but we're learning all the time. We can compete with anybody in this league."

And what is Tech's strong suit? "Our bench," he says without hesitation.

"We've got so many guys that come in and play that it's scary. When someone is having a bad game or getting into foul trouble we can go to the bench and find somebody who has a hot hand. Somebody always comes through. I think Tim may even get into some action this year," he adds.

"Tim" is Tech manager Tim Chambers, which means McPherson is tired of being serious.

Serious or not, the Tech cagers now boast an 8-2 record. And McPherson has started in all 10 of those games although he has averaged just under 20 minutes of action per outing.

In the Sun Bowl tournament in El Paso last week he saw only 12 minutes of playing time in two games as Ben Hill came off the bench and performed well enough to be named to the all-tournament team.

But McPherson remains calm—the team is winning. And that makes up for a

Colorado Job Offered Elsewhere

MIAMI (AP) — Professional coaches Don Shula and Bud Wilkinson were among the candidates approached for the University of Colorado football coaching job before the school touched off a controversy by selecting New England Patriots Coach Chuck Fairbanks.

Shula, Miami Dolphins coach, said Wednesday he was contacted earlier by Athletic Director Eddie Crowder, but told Crowder he wasn't interested.

"He called me, asked me if I thought I'd be interested. I told him I wasn't. That's as far as I want to get into it," Shula said.

Crowder said, "I consider Don a good friend. I called him about six weeks ago and asked him if he would be interested in coaching college football."

"He told me right now he was committed to coaching professional football," he said. Crowder said he called Shula again two weeks later, but Shula repeated that he wasn't interested.

Crowder said Wilkinson, coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, told him he was too involved in the Cardinal program, which he took over last year. Crowder said the legendary Oklahoma coach also said he had an emotional attachment to the Cardinals.

Florida's 'Gator Alley' Bites Kentucky

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

They call it "Gator Alley," and more than one visiting college basketball team has been swallowed up there.

That's what happened to the Kentucky Wildcats Wednesday night. "I guess we didn't have the same mental attitude and enthusiasm as we had against Notre Dame," Kentucky Coach Joe Hall said after his ninth-ranked team dropped a 76-65 decision to Florida in Gainesville on a ferocious court for a visitor. The Wildcats, who had upset second-ranked Notre Dame 81-76 last Saturday night, certainly didn't match that fiery level Wednesday night. The Gators, meanwhile, didn't lack for intensity.

"We won this game because my players didn't let up for 40 minutes," said Florida Coach John Lotz. "We needed this one for our confidence. There are difficult games ahead and I'm thinking about Alabama next week. But I'm really not surprised we won, because we worked hard for it."

Hall was perplexed, though. "It was hard to understand the loss," he said. "But I guess it's a young team on the road. We played like a young team. We didn't play with enthusiasm and aggressiveness."

Kentucky wasn't the only ranked team that had problems in the Southeastern Conference Wednesday night. Mississippi State, the nation's No. 18 club, was beaten 67-65 by Alabama.

In another SEC opener, No. 7 Louisiana State played according to form and blasted Georgia 97-75.

In other action involving the Top Twenty, No. 3 North Carolina whipped Clemson 90-68; No. 11 Indiana State defeated Tulsa 101-89; 17th-ranked Marquette turned back Brown 57-49 and No. 20 Maryland trimmed George Washington University 84-72.

Reggie Hannah scored 21 points and Ric Clarkson had 20 to lead Florida's upset of Kentucky.

"Clarence Tillman played aggressively on offense, but defensively, the team was unable to stop anything from Florida's offense," said Hall. "Florida played really well tonight. They played an overall good game throughout."

Eddie Phillips scored 21 points and collected 10 rebounds to pace Alabama over Mississippi State. Phillips took over the Crimson Tide's main duties when star forward Reggie King was hit with early foul trouble.

"The young kids played super," noted Alabama Coach C.M. Newton. "We had no letdowns. We beat an outstanding basketball team."

Al Green scored 27 points and DeWayne Scales had 23 as undefeated LSU beat Georgia for its ninth victory. Georgia played without Lucius Foster, the Bulldogs' top rebounder.

COACH HIRED
STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Paul Jette, an assistant football coach at Texas, has been hired as a linebacker coach at Oklahoma State, the school announced. Jette, 23, a linebacker coach at Texas, was a starter for the Longhorns for three years from 1974-76.

Matadors Play Makeup Game

Estacado has a unique problem. In the last six games, the Matadors have put more field goals through the hoop than their opponents. Yet, Estacado has only been able to win two of the tilts.

"We've been getting beat at the free-throw line," said Matador coach J J Wood. "We're not getting many free throw opportunities and the opposition have sank an incredible percentage."

So, while Wood figures out a solution to the problem let's note that the Matadors will travel to Lamesa tonight in a non-district makeup game. The South Plains first winter storm forced the game to be rescheduled Tuesday night. Tipoff is slated for 8 p.m.

Other games on the agenda include the Lubbock Christian High Eagles boys and girls at Lockney, the Coronado girls at Palo Duro, the Dunbar girls at Morton, the Lubbock High girls against Tascosa in Amarillo, while the Christ the King boys and girls teams host Muenster Sacred Heart in a district game.

'Blood Brothers' Meet On Field

PITTSBURGH (AP) — They've been brothers in bruises, exchanging hard knocks with no hard feelings and even finding fraternity in fractures.

They are the Houston Oilers and the Pittsburgh Steelers, who take something of a love-hate relationship into Sunday's clash here for the American Football Conference title.

"You enjoy playing a team like Houston. It's football, purely good, hard football," said Steelers Coach Chuck Noll. "Everything is settled right there on the field, and it makes it a very pleasant thing."

Pleasantries aside, there was that 1977 game in Houston in which Terry Bradshaw sustained a cracked wrist, backup quarterback Mike Kruzcek had his shoulder separated, and defensive back Tony Dunny wound up quarterbacking the Steelers in defeat.

Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini, knocked from that 1977 game with a severely sprained ankle, took another pounding when the two teams met again this season in Houston.

Pastorini sustained three cracked ribs in that game. Oilers rookie running back Earl Campbell cracked one rib.

Houston also lost rookie wide receiver Mike Renfro for the season in that game with a knee injury.

Houston Coach "Bum" Phillips called the contest "the most physical I've seen in 31 years of coaching."

Jerry Meins, the Oilers trainer, called it "World War III."

Yet just as in past encounters, there were no punches, no angry words, and no cheap shots.

"They've been belting one another twice a year since they entered the AFC Central together in 1970. Yet they retain mutual respect.

"I think that's a tribute to the Pittsburgh organization and their coaching staff, as well as their players," Phillips said. "That's the way football ought to be played, hard and clean and the best team wins."

The two teams split this season, the Oilers winning here and Pittsburgh winning in Houston. Overall, Pittsburgh has a 13-5 edge in the series.

"There's no animosity, but it's always very, very physical when we play Houston," said Steelers defensive end L.C. Greenwood.

"They played hell out of us even when they didn't have a good record," said Joe Greene. "We play hard football and dare the other team to do the same thing. The Oilers always accept the dare."

Bradshaw remembers that last game in Houston for the chivalry of the contact.

"I never played in as tough a game against a team I respected more," he said. "I played tough games that were

TODAY'S STOCKS

Improvement In Dollar Boosts Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved broadly higher today, bolstered by a stronger dollar and by a lull in the civil strife in Iran.

At noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead by 6.93 points at 824.33, following a 6.41-point gain the day before.

Advances outnumbered declines by better than 3-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume came to 12.36 million shares in the first two hours of trading, off from 13.31 million at noon Tuesday.

National can lead the NYSE most-active, up 1/2 at 20. Telex gained 1/4 to 6 1/4. Oils were generally higher, with Exxon up 1/4 at 50 1/4.

Retailer J.C. Penney, which reported an 11.5 percent December sales gain, was up 1/4 to 3 1/4.

The dollar was generally higher on foreign exchange markets in Japan and Europe, and remained steady in New York trading, as rumors circulated that the United States would announce new moves to prop up its currency.

In Iran, as the pace of demonstrations continued to slow, it was announced that the shah had appointed Shapur Bakhtiar prime minister. Bakhtiar had been asked last weekend to form a new government.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index gained .38 to 54.77; at the American Stock Exchange, the market value index climbed 1.31 to 155.50.

AMARILLO (AP) — Panhandle area car lot meat trade (i.e. the plant) as of 11:15 a.m. (see Trade Trade Panhandle, western Oklahoma and New Mexico).

Demand for carcass beef fairly good. Limited early sales choice steer beef 1.80 higher, choice heifer 75 higher, cow beef steady, no other sales fresh beef reported.

Kent State Lawsuits Settled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Damage suits against Gov. James A. Rhodes and Ohio National Guardsmen stemming from the 1970 Kent State University shootings were settled today after the state Controlling Board approved $675,000 in state funds to pay for the settlement.

U.S. District Court Judge William K. Thomas announced the settlement in federal court in Cleveland where a retrial of the case was underway.

"The 13 Kent State civil damage cases are settled and will be terminated," Thomas said in his order after attorneys for the parents of the four students killed and the nine wounded accepted the settlement.

"The monetary settlement, agreed to by all parties, including Rhodes, Ohio National Guard officials, nine former Kent State students wounded in the shootings and executors for the estates of four dead students, included $600,000 plus $75,000 for court costs and legal fees.

State Attorney General William J. Brown said the settlement was "conciliatory" and that no apology from Rhodes or any other state official was a part of it.

In proposing the settlement, State Attorney General William J. Brown said that both sides were ready to accept the settlement.

"This is the culmination of a series of events that happened in the 1960s and '70s," said Brown. "This is something I think everybody in America would like to forget."

"The time has come to end the wretched and the reliving of those events of 1970," agreed state Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-Cincinnati, a board member.

Robert F. Howarth Jr., president of the Controlling Board and an officer in the state Office of Budget and Management, presented the request in behalf of the Rhodes administration.

He said the state has already spent $826,000 in legal fees on the Kent State case. "The future of this case is uncertain," said Howarth. "Every trial brings an appeal which brings new trials, and new appeals, and on and on and on."

Howarth said $800,000 was spent on security and damages from a series of incidents in 1977 when construction of a gymnasium at the site of the shootings was protested.

"The harm experienced by Kent State to its reputation cannot be quantified," Howarth said. "The university will be harmed and will be harmed until we have put this chapter in Ohio history to rest."

Registration Forms Ready: Spring registration materials and schedules of classes will be available for Texas Tech University students through Friday and on Monday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Tuesday and Wednesday from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Materials may be picked up at the second floor conference room of West Hall. Continuing Education students may receive registration materials and register for classes through Friday from noon to 8 p.m., Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon and Monday from noon to 8 p.m. in building X-15.

Miniseries Tabbed By Critic As Worst TV Show Of 1978

By JERRY BUCK
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Now that we're done with holiday cheer, parades and pigskin, well, almost, let's look back at television's turkeys of 1978.

Look no further than NBC's "Greatest Heroes of the Bible." This leaden concoction of hokum would try the patience of Job.

The Bible is rich with eloquence, poetry and passion. Its stories are succinct, often enigmatic, yet its people are filled with juice and fire.

The Israelites in this miniseries were too lifeless to whip the Philistines but they'd certainly bore them to death. How sad to see so many fine actors running around in tutus, spouting wretched dialogue, coping with lackluster interpretation, and doing their hardest not to look foolish.

And, are you ready for this, NBC is ordering more of these dreadful tales. The funniest unintentional special of the year was "The Pirate," a two-part movie CBS wrung from the Harold Robbins book. It proves once again if you want to put junk on the air you need to start out with junk.

The preposterous plot might have been saved by skillful handling, but all they did was point out its flaws. The characters were ludicrous stereotypes, the performances wooden, the direction heavy-handed.

"Evening in Byzantium," from Operation Prime Time, was an exercise in chutzpah. Universal Television bought the Irwin Shaw book and apparently decided, "What does he know," and set out to "improve" the story. I hope Shaw didn't see it; he's mad enough at Hollywood already.

If you thought "The Pirate" was preposterous — this one was so contorted even the Medics would be confused. The presence of a solid performer like Glenn Ford couldn't save this turkey.

NBC's "The Critical List" was the only two-part movie I've ever seen that switched horses in midstream. The first night was about malpractice, then overnight they brought in a new plot and virtually a new cast.

The "You Can't Go Home Again" award goes to "Top Secret," an attempt to remake one-half of "I Spy." It was Bill Cosby minus Robert Culp, and Cosby deserves better than this. It looked like a travesty with occasional spurts of action.

Tomorrow's Horoscope
 By Bernice Bede Osol

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Domestic issues and demands could be a bit heavier on you tomorrow than usual. It will take the whole family to pitch in and try to cooperate, not just you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will have no trust in your own ideas tomorrow and will feel you have to sound them out on another. Unfortunately, you'll only get negative advice.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You can weather things nicely tomorrow if you buy only what you need when you need it. Trying to keep up with the Joneses is foolish.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Temper your methods with tact and charm tomorrow. You have a tendency to be overly aggressive. You'll catch more with honey than with vinegar.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Organize your time well and try to delegate chores whenever possible tomorrow. You'll find, as the day goes on, you'll have a few more responsibilities than normal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to be especially prudent where finances are concerned tomorrow. Your budget is bursting. It won't stretch anymore.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Only a cool head will survive tomorrow's conditions. Be on guard! You could become easily irritated if things don't go your way, and fail to accomplish your aims.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Tomorrow would be a good day to walk away from problems that appear insurmountable. The solution can't be found when people are diametrically opposed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be extra-protective of your resources tomorrow, especially if dealing with one whose motives are questionable. Don't yield to pressure selling.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could find yourself aced out of something you might have shared if you are too stringent in your demands tomorrow. Give in whenever you can.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't even ask others to do something for you tomorrow. You'll only aggravate yourself more when they turn you down. Try to function by yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Social complications could arise tomorrow if you're not careful of your choice of companions. Don't be surprised if you're left holding the bag.

Explosion Crimes Set Record In 1978

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of bombings in the United States increased in 1978 to a record 1,524, prompting the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to declare explosives crime "a top priority" for attention in 1979.

Acting bureau Director John G. Krogman said 1978 bombings represented a 9 percent increase over the 1,397 bombings recorded in 1977.

The bureau said bombings and accidental explosions caused 78 deaths and 444 injuries in 1978 compared with 127 deaths and 347 injuries in 1977.

Comedian George Kirby Practices Art In Prison

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Comedian George Kirby may be behind bars, but he is still practicing his art. Kirby, 54, serving a 20-year term on charges of selling heroin, put on a New Year's weekend show for inmates at a medium-security prison.

He said in an interview, "I have no hate; I have no ill feelings, not in my heart."

"I want to do my time as comfortably as I can, pay my debt and return to my work."

Kirby will be eligible for parole in four or five years and he wants to continue his career in the meantime. He was convicted last year.

Kirby said he hopes to be transferred to the state prison near Las Vegas. He said a Las Vegas radio station is interested in broadcasting a radio show. And he wants to cut an album or two so they will be ready when he is released.

"The only thing that upsets me is the fact I was used," he said. "It was doing political time. I had a name. They used me for publicity."

The entertainer hopes to eventually be sent to a federal prison in California where he may be allowed to make public appearances.

BMI Chief Says Music Important To TV

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a recent television adaptation of "Les Miserables," violins throbbed remorselessly in the background and for that matter the foreground.

Usually it isn't that obvious, but there's music in the air to match practically every television show — theme music, background music, even little musical ditties on quiz shows to signal suspense or bridge silences.

Some of these shows — the more economy minded — use music tracks bought from libraries. Edward M. Cramer, president of one of the two music licensing giants, BMI (the other giant is ASCAP), believes that's a false economy.

"Producers of major shows have come to realize that with so much money involved, it's a false economy to use some of those old tracks," Cramer said in an interview. "There's so much at stake, that the music is originally composed for almost every major show."

BMI has an educational film that it lends to illustrate the importance of the unsung musician in putting together a program — called "The Score," it follows composers at work for television and motion pictures.

One example involves a "Mod Squad" episode in which one of the stars of the show was mugged and as a result suffers hallucinations which trigger flashback sequences. It was the responsibility of Earle Hagen, a composer who specializes in television scores, to write the music that would carry the hallucinations into flashbacks.

"The responsibility for actually breaking this film down into increments of seconds and hundredths of seconds belongs to the music editor," Hagen says in the film. "His function is to deliver to me cue sheets that will give me every piece of action and camera angle and dialogue from the start of the music to the finish of the music, which I have indicated for him."

"When I have the cue sheets, I can determine what shape the music is going to take."

Hagen believes that "music performs an emotional function" and he adds, "It is no accident that when you get into a jet aircraft that the cabin is flooded with soft music; that restaurants will subscribe to musical backgrounds to give a classier environment; companies program selected tapes if you want to step up production."

He adds that the skilled composer also is a skilled psychologist who "will know what ingredients will make the audience respond to special events that happen in this film."

Is there a difference in antennas? How do you know whether you've got a good antenna or not? What does a CBER look for when he or she is about to make a selection?

There appears to be total agreement that length is important. The disagreement about length seems to be how long an antenna must be to achieve maximum coverage with the shortest possible stick.

An antenna is comparable to the heating element of your kitchen toaster. When you plug in the toaster, electricity heats a coil that radiates warmth.

Your antenna does the same thing: it radiates. The antenna, in general, is a thin rod of metal or plastic. Wrapped around it in helical form is copper wire. This wire — comparable to heating element of your toaster — radiates on the channel to which your CB transmitter is tuned.

The ends do not radiate the signal as strongly as the center point where the power is applied. So, it becomes a matter of separating the spacing of the wire as it is wrapped on coil fashion around the rod: probably starting at one-half inch at the bottom and slowly narrowing until it is coiled tightly.

For a full wave, an 11-meter antenna would be required to obtain total resonance. However, that would mean an antenna of more than 34 feet.

It was to circumvent this problem that the helix approach evolved.

Originally, the coiling of the copper wire was done by hand. As the technology became standardized, machines on an assembly line took over.

Recently, Royce Electronics announced its latest antenna features a printed circuit coil that is pre-tuned at the factory and ready for installation when you buy it. It is 36 inches of stainless steel.

"We've been able to achieve greater compactness because of the printed circuitry," a Royce spokesman explained. "It delivers terrific performance despite its length, because it can be pre-tuned and pre-wired for hookup. Also, the printed circuit eliminates any errors in manufacturing."

Baggy Sacks, who manufactures "Firestick," on the other hand, claims his fiberglass core wound with heavy gauge copper wire is top-loaded and gets more efficiency than base or center-loaded whips. "That's why we make a claim to being number one in wire-wound antennas," he adds.

Says communications expert Walter Stiles, "The Shakespeare all-steel whip, which is 102 inches long, is in my opinion the best, mostly because of its length." The broadcast engineer adds, "For the short size, I'd take the Hustler, which is 40 inches and helical in design."

So, what do you look for when you buy an antenna? It might be cynical to say, but I could not come up with a definitive recommendation. It would appear that another CBER whom you respect could offer advice about what has worked best for him. You can compare that information with your own experience.

Antennas are necessary. Tuning is important. The copper must radiate. And, it's your choice.

Comedians Lauded By Critic

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — The young lady is in a singles bar. A guy posing as a gay goes on about how gays are persecuted. You needn't tell me that, she informs him: "I read Newsweek, you know."

The lady is Suzanne Rand, the guy John Monteith. They're a new comedy team and opened this week on Broadway in an uneven but often wildly inspired night of spoof, satire and sight gags.

Working on a bare stage, backed only by two director's chairs, they fired off 17 skits, 13 of them set pieces, the rest improvisations, the lines and situations supplied by the patrons.

They start as two pals meeting after eight years apart, cross-babbling furiously, then running down, then firing up again after a healthy snort of a white and illegal drug.

They end with a brilliant show of improvised power in a garage skit involving a pay phone and done as a soap opera, a Bergman movie, Shakespeare and more, all of it incredibly good.

Sometimes the planned capers, such as the singles bar bit, telegraph the finale at the start. Sometimes they're oh-hum, namely one about a mod, dope-smoking, ecologically concerned couple.

But even when things seem predictable, like Miss Rand's study of a frightened stewardess piloting a jetliner, quick funnies flit in. As when control tower operator Rand tries to calm her.

"Stop saying we're going to die," he says by radio. "We're not going to die — at least, I'm not going to die."

Sometimes a bit runs a bit too long, like Miss Rand's mime work as a marijuana-smoking lady who is bugged by a gnat, gasses him, revives him and gives him what I am told is called a toke.

But they do have talent to spare. Monteith, Ivy League in manner, is sly and droll in approach. Miss Rand, a lovely woman with a fine singing voice, has a funny, mobile face, a gift for alternately broad and subtle comedy, and may be touted as the next Carol Burnett.

Since it was opening night and their emporium, the Booth Theater, was full of critics, poo-bahs and even Henry Youngman, they seemed to play things on the conservative side.

Of course, when you ask patrons to supply premise lines for an improvised song and only get "You can't take it with you" and "Never say die, say damn," prayer seems the wisest course.

City Girl Taken Into Custody

A 14-year-old Lubbock girl was taken into custody about 2:45 p.m. Wednesday after police confiscated about six pounds of what is thought to be marijuana from a residence in the 5000-block of Avenue J.

Police Sgt. Rivie Garrett said seven policemen, carrying out a search warrant, found the substance in the residence and the girl was the only occupant at the time.

She was turned over to juvenile authorities.

In other arrests, two Lubbock men, 19 and 27, were taken into custody about 2 a.m. today after they allegedly attempted to steal a tip jar from the bar of Freeman's Club at 700 Broadway.

Reports show the two men were leaving the club when security guards stopped them and the jar, containing $18.15, fell from their grasp.

In a reported house burglary, Marco Antonio Ruiz of 1520-A 17th St. said he lost $1,065 in appliances and clothes between 1 p.m. and 9 p.m. Wednesday when he fell victim to burglars.

A 19-year-old Lubbock man was booked into the county jail Wednesday night on suspicion of kidnapping and attempting to rape a 12-year-old girl.

The girl told police that as she was walking to school about 7:55 a.m. she noticed a young black man standing outside of a large, green car parked at Auburn Street and N. Avenue N. She said the man was on the passenger side of the car and that when she neared he grabbed her coat and forced her into the vehicle.

When she struggled, the elementary school student told officers, her assailant told her to cooperate with him or he would shoot her, but the girl said she never saw a weapon.

After forcing her into the car, she said, the man drove toward Shallowater, but turned off on a dirt road before reaching the town. She said that after stopping the car the man ordered her to take off her clothes.

She told police that when she refused, her assailant slapped her several times and began to attack her but apparently changed his mind about raping her before he removed all of her clothes.

The girl said the man started to drive back to the main highway but that she jumped from the moving vehicle and the suspect continued to drive. She walked to a service station in the 3300 block of Clovis Road, where she asked the attendant to call police.

Harvey Davis said he returned to his 1617 Ave. B home Tuesday after a two-week vacation and discovered the back door glass broken and $1,285 worth of goods stolen. He listed as missing two televisions, a clock radio, clothing, linens, lamps and a 12-gauge shotgun.

Builder C.W. Turner told officers that 70 sheets of plywood valued at $750 were stolen from a construction site at 5909 14th St. between Saturday and noon Tuesday.

Annie Day reported that $530 worth of household items were taken from the 2726 E. Ninth St. residence from which she is moving. She said the burglary occurred between 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and 10:30 a.m. Wednesday. Homer Wilson said burglars broke the lock from his storage shed at 7402 Quaker Ave. and took $450 worth of soft drink bottles, cases and racks.

State Lawyers To Fight Order

HOUSTON (UPI) — Lawyers for the state of Texas have decided to fight U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's decision to move the trial of a landmark prison reform suit from Houston to his hometown of Tyler.

Assistant Texas Attorney General Harry Walsh said Wednesday a petition to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans "probably will go in the mail" Friday.

"The essential ground is that the judge simply lacked judicial authority, to do what he did," Walsh said.

Walsh said the state will contend Justice's reasons for his Dec. 1 relocation order — the length of the trial and a growing case load in his home court — are illegal.

"Federal law does not authorize a trial judge to relocate a case for the convenience of the court," Walsh said.

The 3-month-old case, recessed Dec. 21 until Jan. 15, originally was moved from Tyler to Houston on the state's motion for change of venue because Texas Department of Corrections headquarters in Huntsville is nearer to Houston.

Walsh said the appeals court will be asked to act before Jan. 15 or to delay the scheduled resumption of proceedings in Tyler.

Justice Department lawyers, who support inmate demands for reforms, have taken no official position on the appeal but have indicated informally they would be happy to stay.

Workers already have moved more than a truckload of evidence and massive exhibits including a full-size model of a prison cell.

Assistant Attorney General Richele Rivers said the state also regrets Tyler is not a major media center and state witnesses — none of which has testified yet — likely will receive less publicity than inmates' "horror stories."

"The reasons for initially transferring the case to Houston are still there," Walsh said. "There's been no real change other than the fact that most of inmates have testified who were going to be presented by plaintiffs and United States."

Moving a trial "is a discretionary thing with the court, although if a judge fails to exercise discretion or exercises it in arbitrary way, it's subject to review for abuse," Walsh said.

County Judge Dismisses Cases Filed By Griffin

Citing limitations under the Speedy Trial Act, County Court-at-Law Judge J. Q. Warnick Jr. Wednesday dismissed almost half of the 6,818 misdemeanor cases that outgoing Criminal District Attorney Alton Griffin asked the county courts-at-law to dismiss last Friday.

Judge Warnick did not dismiss 214 of the 1976 and 1977 cases on which the state announced readiness to proceed within the mandatory 90-day period beginning last July 1 under the trial act.

He was given 3,410 cases and Judge E.H. Boedeker 3,408 an hour before Griffin left office, and both men said they wanted more time to look at the cases in refusing to sign the dismissal motions immediately.

Griffin said in the motions that the state was not ready to proceed on any of the cases and asked dismissal under the new law. Warnick said his interpretation of the law is that his Wednesday action gives the state 90 days again to declare readiness on the 214 leftover cases.

Judge Boedeker said Wednesday that he had looked at only about 200 of his cases and would look at all of them before making a decision.

Of the cases he had inspected, Boedeker said, "Some of them are subject to be dismissed."

The older a case is, he added, the more likely he is to dismiss it.

He said he did not know what percentage might be dismissed but that it will be less than 90 percent.

Warnick said at least 80 percent of his cases were for bad checks, and he said no arrest had ever been made in those.

Pursuing them, he said, would necessitate issuing about 2,200 arrest warrants for the sheriff's office to serve, and all of the cases would be subject to motions for dismissal on the basis of Griffin's statement.

"We'd just fill up the courthouse with paper and have a bunch of hearings over nothing," Warnick said.

He said, however, that his interpretation of the Speedy Trial Act probably will be tested with motions for dismissal in the cases held over.

Woman Charged With Murder

A murder charge was filed Wednesday against a Lubbock woman as the result of the shooting death of James Clifton Lovings, 43.

Named in the charge was Barbara Faye Hodges Lovings, 36, of 2630 E. Cornell St. The Criminal District Attorney's office recommended a $25,000 bond.

Police responded to a call of a shooting at the E. Cornell Street residence early Dec. 25. Reports indicate officers arrived to find Lovings, also of that address, slumped over the end of a living room sofa. He reportedly had been shot in the side of the neck.

Also Wednesday, two aggravated robbery charges were filed against Ernesto Rodriguez, Jr., 20, of 1808 Ave. J. The District Attorney's office recommended bond at $20,000 on each charge.

Rodriguez is accused of a Dec. 24 holdup at the Satellite Motel, 2921 Clovis Road, and of a Dec. 26 heist at a service station at Fourth Street and Avenue U.

'Rehab '79' Board Accepting Bids

Board members of the "Rehab '79" benefit telecast to be aired Saturday are accepting preshow bids on more than $50,000 in merchandise at West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

Viewers may place bids for seven hours during the statewide telecast, which will feature such items as a Gastrol boat, Chevrolet Luv pickup, furniture, oil paintings and cattle trailers.
